Knowland Hat In Ring

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) Sen. William F. Knowland officially entered the race for the California governorship today.

The Senate minority leader told a crowded news conference of his decision—long expected—to oppose Gov. Goodwin J. Knight for the Republican nomination in the state's primary next June 3.

Knowland, his usually booming voice subdued, read a statement which replied to Knight's previous assertions that the California senator sought the governorship as a buildup for the 1960 Republican presidential race.

Referring to his entry in the state contest, he said:

"I have made my decision to run for this high office with no purpose other than, if nominated and elected, to devote myself faithfully to the administration of the duties of the office for the term or terms to which I might be elected."

"Should the people of California entrust me with the responsibility of being their chief executive they have my pledge I shall enter into that great office with no commitments other than the ones I make publicly to them."

President Says Faubus 'Mistaken Man'

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower described Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas today as a mistaken man doing a disservice to his city and state. The President also said he sees two avenues of hope for pulling troops out of Little Rock.

In response to news conference questions, Eisenhower said two different situations could justify withdrawal of the troops now being used to enforce racial integration at Little Rock's Central High.

1. The giving of unequivocal assurances that the U. S. District Court integration order will not be obstructed and that peace and order will be maintained.

2. An actual, factual development of peaceful conditions to the extent that local police could control the situation.

Eisenhower noted further that a committee of four Southern governors still is seeking a solution.

The integration-troops issue was the dominating subject at the President's news conference. Only now and then did questions and answers diverge to other subjects.

One reporter asked whether Eisenhower feels that Faubus "really wants to put an end to the problem in Little Rock."

The President said he wouldn't want to answer that as he never tries to interpret motives of persons with whom he disagrees. He said he simply believes that Faubus is mistaken in what he is doing and is doing a disservice to his city and his state.

Eisenhower declined to go beyond the Little Rock crisis to say whether his public pledges to support all measures necessary to uphold the courts meant that he would use troops to enforce integration elsewhere.

He said he didn't want to get into hypothetical questions, and that each case is different.

But Eisenhower said court decisions must be sustained or this is not America.

He also said that no one deplores use of troops more than he does. This, Eisenhower said, is not really American except as it becomes necessary in the support of institutions vital to this country.

The courts, Eisenhower said, are not here just to enforce integration. He said they are the bulwark, the shield against autocratic government.

If they can be defied in one respect, he went on, they can in all others and the result would be chaos or anarchy.

It was 15 minutes before the 30-minute news conference got around to any other topic. Then it covered such subjects as:

TEAMSTERS - Eisenhower said federal agencies were alerted long ago to corruption which has been revealed in the union. He said this was with a view to seeing whether any action could be taken beyond legislative steps already proposed.

He spoke in response to a question as to whether the administration is planning any action as a result of widespread corruption in American life, particularly involving Teamsters and the trucking industry.

Eisenhower said he didn't know whether officials in the Justice and Labor Departments have anything to propose yet or not.

SYRIA—The situation in that troubled nation, where Communists have been making inroads, seems to be solidifying to some extent, the President said.

He said that Jordan, Libya, Iraq and to some extent Saudi Arabia apparently are somewhat less alarmed.

A reporter asked whether this country now finds the Syrian situation "less dangerous to the free world."

Eisenhower replied he thought it better not to speak out on that now, but to wait a couple of weeks and see what happens.

BUDGET—Eisenhower said he doesn't see how the defense budget can be cut below 38 billion dollars.

Nor, right now, does he see how the entire budget can be brought down by 2 billion dolars to a spending level of 70 billions for the 1959 fiscal year starting next July 1. Budget Director Percival Brundage has said the administration will attempt to restrict spending to that figure.

Asked where cuts could be made, Eisenhower replied that if he could answer that, one of his hardest problems would be solved. Every department of government, he said, wants more money.

Few Students In School Walkout

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—About 75 white students walked out of Central High School classes today in what was scheduled as a mass protest against racial integration within the school.

The white boys and girls began straggling from the main entrance of the building within moments after the 9 a.m. change-of-classes bell rang.

They walked quietly across the campus and massed on the curbing across from the building.

There they called to other students peering from the windows and doorways to join them.

"Come on, you chickens," the demonstrating students shouted.

"Dirty chickens," they yelled.

The students reportedly had been threatened with suspension if they took part in the demonstration. One brunette girl ran from the building and joined the demonstrating group. Almost in tears, she said:

"I couldn't get anyone else. They won't come. I am so ashamed I could [illegible]."

The teen-agers said their parents had told them that if enough joined the walkout it would be impossible to discipline them. They conceded the demonstration was a failure and that they probably would be punished.

After the students left school a boy climbed a tree and hung a Negro in effigy and ran as guardsmen hurried over to disperse the crowd gathered around the crude dummy.

Most of the white students who walked out gathered across the street and about 60 Guardsmen started moving them from the area.

The Guardsmen, with rifles across their chests, advanced slowly down the street moving the students to the end of the block.

As the soldiers advanced one boy set fire to the straw-filled dummy and threw it in the path of the Guardsmen. The troops kept after the demonstrators and later moved them a block away from the school area.

Earlier 30 Guardsmen, forming a solid military box, escorted eight Negro students into school through ranks of hooting, jeering white students.

Regular Army paratroopers took over from federalized National Guardsmen on patrol inside the big high school.

Yesterday there were open threats among the white students of a mass walkout today. They were circulated so widely that school auhtorities took notice of them by warning that any student who left classes would be disciplined. Earlier attempts at boycotts have been only partially successful.

Attendance Up For County Fair

The Pitt County Agricultural Fair reported good attendance yesterday despite continuing cloudy weather.

Fair Manager Norman Y. Chambliss reported there were 2,400 paid adults admissions yesterday. He estimated there were 3,500 children in attendance. Yesterday was Negro school children's day at the fair.

"Under the clouds the fair had a very good attendance yesterday," Chambliss declared.

"The Pinky Lee shows were very well attended and also, Joan Brandon, the world's greatest hypotist, is pleasing her audience. Miss Brandon will perform every night in the pavilion at 8:15."

"With a fair break in the weather, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, I feel that we will catch up on attendance. We are preparing for a record crowd today and Friday as well as Saturday.

"We have provided an additional entrance for patrons at the lower end of the fairgrounds leading off from the bypass.

"The cooperation of all the people has been wonderful."

Italy Blockades San Marino As Factions Feud

SAN MARINO (AP)—Italian police moved up tanks and armored cars to the blockaded border of this ranch-size republic today and a few Italian jets made quick passes over the country where two governments, Communist and anti-Communist, are disputing control.

A second Italian national police battalion also moved into the area from Florence. There was no official explanation of these moves, which included the appearance of 20 or more armored vehicles at the border.

"It's just routine fall maneuvers," said a police officer, with a broad grin.

But Domenico Morganti, the interior minister of the Red government, said he wished Soviet Russia was "in a position to retaliate for this intimidation."

"But unfortunately we have no airfield and sadly Russia is too far away," he said.

For the first time since Italy set up her blockade five days ago, no food trucks were allowed to enter the little country. Outgoing mail also was turned back by the Italians.

Zaccaria Savoretti, one of the anti-Communist leaders, said he had unofficial word that the United States, Britain and France, had recognized the new anti-Communist government.

Italy has recognized the anti-Communist regime set up Monday night and is blockading all roads leading into San Marino to keep out any Italian Communists who might try to enter.

Inside the 38-square-mile mountain republic, the anti-Communist regime issued World War II German machine pistols to guards around its headquarters in an abandoned steel factory near the Italian border.

TRAINING CENTER

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) —The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission last night signed a contract to establish a nuclear training center for Latin-American students at the University of Puerto Rico.

Hodges Says Ike And Faubus Must Find A Solution

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges said today a settlement of the impasse over removal of federal troops from Little Rock, Ark., is up to President Eisenhower and Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus and "a solution to the problem must be found and can be found."

Hodges, who has led efforts of Southern governors to reach an agreement, told his news conference he "devoutly" hopes that Faubus and the President "will yet be able to resolve this issue which affects all Americans."

Hodges said he hoped that neither the President nor Faubus "goes too far" in public comment on the issue because "I think it is up to them." He added, however, that a committee of Southern governors which he heads will continue to stand by and assist in a settlement if it can.

"The stakes at Little Rock are too high for men of good will and patriorism to lose hope," Hodges told a news conference today.

Hodges was chairman of a committee of four Southern governors which called on President Eisenhower Tuesday to try to work out a plan under which federal troops might be removed from Little Rock. Their efforts failed when President Eisenhower decided Gov Faubus had not given full assurance that federal court orders in Little Rock would not be obstructed.

Hodges declared "a solution to the problem must be found and can be found.

"We must find a solution as Americans, not as Democrats or Republicans — segregationists or integrationists.

"I devoutly hope that two distinguished Americans and public servants — namely the governor of Arkansas and the President of the United States — will yet be able to resolve his issue which affects all Americans."

Hodges said the Southern governors' committee did not plan any further steps in the situation immediately but that it would be "standing by" in case its services are needed.

He said he felt "we've got to have a few days to let this thing cool off."

Hodges said he realized that both Gov. Faubus and the President are under "pressures" but that "I also feel that the national interest is greater than either of them or these pressures."

Hodges said he felt a settlement "is up to them" and expressed the hope that neither the President nor Gov. Faubus go "too far" in their public statements so as to make a settlement impossible.

Hodges have his news conference a step-by-step recapitulation of the steps leading up to the conference with the President, the meeting and its aftermath.

He made public the test of a statement the committee members suggested to Gov. Faubus and "with which we understood he agreed."

He pointed out there were some fifferences in the statement actually issued by Faubus. One of them was the addition of the phrase "by me" at the end of a sentence saying that Faubus would "assume full responsibility for the maintenance of law and order and that the orders of the federal court will not be obstructed."

Hodges said Faubus may have interpreted his statement as giving the assurances the President asked. He added "a lot of the public" had given it this interpretation.

Egypt Pledges Protect Syria From Aggressors

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Egypt pledged today that it would not "tolerate that even a finger tip of Syria be hurt, or a hair of Syria be ruffled by any aggressor."

At the same time, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi told the 82-nation U. N. General Assembly that Syria offered no threat to anybody. He called for a cooling-off period on the Middle East situation.

Charges that Syria's arms buildup was a threat, he said, were simply a balloon which already had "exploded and faded into nothingness."

Referring indirectly to assertions that Syria has come under Soviet domination, he said if anyone says Syria is throwing away its independence "that one fools nobody but himself."

Fawzi did not mention specifically that Soviet arms shipments had been sent to Syria. He spoke of arms pouring into Israel and other countries in the past and said: "All the arm twisting, all the commotion and all the hullabaloo have obviously been reserved for such occasion as Syria's taking a modest step or two to provide for its own defense."

He said it is high time everybody began "using some restraint and a minimum of alarms."

Without mentioning Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and other Western leaders by name, he said he hoped he could make his own voice heard above "the shouting of some busybodies from outside."

The Egyptian foreign minister also spoke at length on the Suez problem.

"The Suez Canal," he said, "is "rapidly emerging from the results of last year's tripartite devastation, and showing a serviceability and dynamism under its present administration, consonant with modern times."

U. N. sources said Egypt was openly concerned over Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's remarks on the Middle East early in the Assembly general debate.

These sources said Egypt fears the United States and Russia are turning the crisis in the area into a political football. They are apprehensive that a full-dress debate in the Assembly at this stage might result in taking the situation out of Arab hands and making the outcome dependent on the East-West power struggle.

The anti-Western broadside from Saudi Arabia — previously considered pro-Western in its views — virtually ruled out any chance of the West engineering a general debate on the Middle East before this Assembly.

Hoffa Opponents Tighten Ranks

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Thomas L. Hickey of New York today withdrew as a candidate for the Teamster Union presidency in favor of William A. Lee of Chicago.

There were indications, too, that Thomas X. Haggerty, also of Chicago, might pull out to leave Lee as the sole opponent of James R. Hoffa, leading contender for the union's presidency.

Hoffa appeared a sure winner, but his opponents were determined to carry the convention decision for control of the giant scandal-scatted union to a record, rollcall vote.

That would serve the purpose of lining up Hoffa and anti-Hoffa forces against one another for what could shape up as a big secession of the anti-Hoffa forces from the Teamsters.

Election of Hoffa almost certainly means a Teamsters Union ouster from the AFL-CIO, with secession of some Teamsters units back to the AFL-CIO. Hickey, for one, has said he will do just that.

Hickey's withdrawal statement said he has been a candidate against Hoffa because he firmly believes the union owed an obligation to its members to "restore the good name of the Teamsters Union" and keep it within the AFL-CIO.

With voting for new officers scheduled to start this afternoon, and Hoffa an apparent certain winner, the union faced a possible new court challenge of its convention actions because of alleged rigging of delegates.

Teamster delegates showed little disposition to attach significance to the AFL-CIO expulsion threat. In a tumultuous session yesterday, they gave Hoffa a clean bill of health by angrily voting to expunge the corruption charges from the convention record.

On the other hand, Hoffa forces in firm control of the convention, eyed the coming court action more cautiously. They denied convention seats to 251 delegates whose credentials have been questioned.

Delegates also indicated in a lengthy demonstration that Hoffa is an overwhelming favorite when the convention reaches its major item of business — election of new officers—probably today.

During a lull in the convention, delegates began parading, chanting a frenzied "We want Hoffa."

Nearly 90 per cent of the Teamsters in the convention hall appeared to take part.

When Hoffa appeared on the speaker's platform, several husky Teamsters climbed up and hoisted him to their shoulders.

Beck, Hoffa and two other Teamsters officials are accused of improper conduct in an AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee report based on hearings before a Senate labor rackets investigating committee.

The AFL-CIO has ordered the union to rid itself of officers responsible for the corruption, or face expulsion.

The entire 64-page record of the charges was read to the convention delegates yesterday. They sat quietly for more than two hours during the reading. Then bedlam broke loose. Beck constantly had to bang his gavel and rule with an iron hand to maintain control.

A proposal for a union investigation of the charges was overwhelmingly defeated. By virtually the same vote the delegates then wiped out all reference to the charges on the convention record.

The attempt to have the union investigate the charges was seconded by Thomas J. Haggerty of Chicago, one of Hoffa's three opponents for the presidency. It appeared that less than one third of the delegates supported him on the standing vote.

Despite the mounting indication that the Hoffa bandwagon is rolling, Haggerty and the other two candidates for the presidency, Thomas L. Hickey of New York and William A. Lee of Chicago, showed a determination to remain in the race "right down to the wire."

Some Teamster sources interpreted that as a move to force the Hoffa and anti-Hoffa delegates to stand up and be counted.

Following convention action on the corruption charges, Hoffa took the floor on personal privilege and denied there is any basis for charges against him. He read a statement which he said he had filed with the AFL-CIO.

In it, he went into some detail to refute accusations of misuse of union funds and to defend his acquaintance with Johnny Dio, convicted New York labor racketeer, as a union business relationship.

Beck said that Sidney L. Brennan of Minneapolis, the fourth official named, reserved the right to make a statement later. Beck himself said, on advice of his lawyers, he would answer "only in the court." He is under indictment on income tax evasion charges.

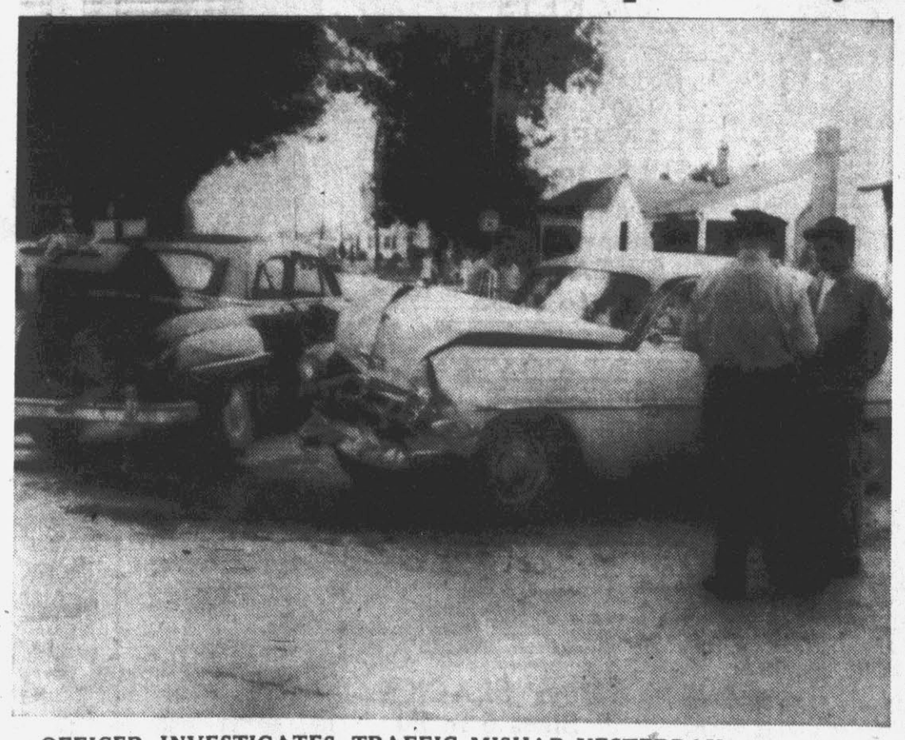

Big Shipment For Rifle Club

RUTHERFORDTON, N.C. (AP)—An amateur rifle club here ordred a $20.80 roll of surplus telephone wire from the federal government three months ago to fix up its firing range.

Monday, the club got a shipment—an 18,873-pound load of surplus wire worth $20,800.

Club treasurer Gen Norville refused the shipment. He said the club got tired of waiting, went to a hardware store last week and bought all the wire it needed. Cost: $1.

Two of the three reportable accidents occurred on Chestnut St. within a 15 minute time interval shortly after noon.

Both drivers were charged in a mishap at the intersection of Chestnut St. and Manhattan Ave. a few minutes after another collision two blocks away.

Investigating officers charged Jesse M. Johnson of 504-B Watauga Ave. with failure to yield the right of way when his vehicle collided into an automobile being operated by Melton Bruce Keeter of 1103 Chestnut St. Keeter was cited for no operator's license.

Damage to both vehicles was estimated at $700 in the collision that took place at 12:48 p.m.

Police charged Nicholas P. Gorish III of 2933 Bowley St., Charlotte, with failure to yield the right of way in a two-car collision at Third and Cotanche Sts. yesterday afternoon.

Gorish was involved in the mishap with a 1951 automobile being operated by James D. Ward, 19-year-old Negro of Greenville Rt. 5.

The Charlotte resident told officers he did not see the stop sign on Cotanche St. His 1955 automobile was struck and spun around, coming to rest on a nearby curb.

Damages to the left side of Gorish's automobile was estimated at $150. The front end of Ward's vehicle received $75, officers said.

The accident occurred at 3:30 p.m.

Church Council Commends Step

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Council of Churches has commended President Eisenhower's handling of the Little Rock school integration crisis, and praised Christian forces in the Arkansas city for "standing up for justice, law and self-discipline."

The commendation of the President came near the end of a meeting yesterday of the council's general board, its interim governing body.

Early in the session, the commendation was delayed by a proposal that "some Southern governors" also be commended. This suggestion was tabled by the meeting and may be offered for consideration today.

Eisenhower was lauded for "upholding the decisions of the federal courts" on integration and for taking steps to restore law and order.

During the discussion on commending some Southern governors, the Rev. Dr. James E. Wagner of Philadelphia said several Southern state chief executives "have distinguished themselves clearly from the governor (Orval Faubus) of Arkansas."

Dr. Wagner mentioned no others individually.

In another action, the council pledged a national inquiry to "find out the facts" about the oft-reputed economic plight of clergymen. The project, to be financed by a $35,000 grant from the Rockefeller Brothers' Fund, was approved by the council board.

Testify Girard Fired At Several

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP) — Two Japanese farmers today accused William S. Girard of firing at three or four other Japanese shell scavengers on a firing range the day he killed Mrs. Naka Sakai.

The testimony came at a marathon court session during which the prosecution in the manslaughter trial read a statement by the Illinois soldier's Japanese wife admitting they lived together for 17 months before their marriage last July 1.

The appearance of the two Japanese farmers came after the prosecution tried vainly to keep them from the stand. It asked that instead the court accept statements they made during the investigation last February.

Associate prosecutor Kakuichi Sugimoto contended the statements would be more accurate because "their memories have become hazy."

Presiding Judge Yuzo Kawachi ruled in favor of a defense demand that the farmers testify.

"The more witnesses and testimony the prosecution introduces the better," said defense attorney Itsuro Hayashi. "Discrepancies are constantly coming up which tend to discredit the reliability of the prosecution's case."

Hayashi tangled up the two farmer witnesses, Toshizo Koyama and Tatsuo Kani, on several points but stuck to their identification of the soldier.

Although a siege of unpleasant weather has curtailed much of the gaiety of the Pitt County Fair midway, it has not dampened the spirits of some.

Countless women's church, civic and service organizations have been busy this week preparing and serving food to the fair crowd.

A novel wagon booth is being manned by the Jay-C-Ettes that gaily advertises "Caramel Apples, Caramel Popcorn Balls and Candy Can Be Brought Here."

Proceeds from this venture will go toward the Pitt County Society for Crippled Children and Adults and other service projects promoted by this organization.

Along the back of the Exhibit Hall are many other booths, similar to a beehive, and in each, industrious women are busy serving many varieties of refreshments to the citizens of Pitt County.

Typical of these booths is the one sponsored by the Women's Society of St. James Methodist Church where lunches, suppers, hot dogs, hamburgers and homemade cake is served.

"Proceeds from this booth which we have open from 8 a.m.-10 p.m. will be used for retiring the church bond and buying equipment and supplies for our church," explains Mrs. Frank Steinbeck, a worker.

The fall meetings will be devoted to a study of the Ten Commandments. Mrs. A. C. Ruffin gave an introduction to the Commandments and reviewed the first two. She stated that the first Commandment was the basis of all the rest. "Thou shalt have no other gods before me."

"The second Commandment forbids improper worship of the one true God, which is a matter of vital importance. After Thorwaldsen had completed his famous statue of Christ, he brought a friend to see it. Christ's arms were outstretched and head bowed between them. The friend said he could not se his face. The sculptor replied, 'If you would see the face of Christ you must get on your knees.' He is the perfect image of God; let us have no other," she said.

Books were distributed before the club adjourned.

On October 16 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. the Greenville Service League will have a shrubbery sale at the Cold Storage Plant on West Ninth Street. All types of shrubs, evergreens and bulbs will be for sale by McQueen's Nursery.

BUILT-IN PETTICOAT

There is no need of daughter wearing a stiff petticoat when the same effect can be achieved easily without it. When making her dresses, just sew a three-inch-wide strip of crinoline around the bottom of a full dress or skirt before turning up hem, then stitch hem in by hand.

Vera Maxwell Sick Of Bare Shoulders, Mink

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Too many little mink stoles, too many bare-topped bouffant dresses . . .

That's the plaint of designer Vera Maxwell after a summer in Europe, during which she dropped in at most of the haunts of international society in London, Paris, Montre Carolo and Switzerland.

"All the women look alike," says the forthright Vera, whose frequent appearances with Princess Grace and Prince Rainier at their summer villa in Switzerland provided fodder for the society columnists.

"I've never been so sick of mink and bare shoulders, which every woman in the world seems to think required equipment for going any place after 6 p.m.

"I couldn't help thinking, as I looked around some of the most fashionable spots on the Continent, that bad taste is not confined to Americans.

"Women turned up after dark in strapless dresses with full skirts and the inevitable mink stole, no matter what their age, shape or condition. Maybe I'm just fanatic on the subject, but to me there is nothing more revolting than an aging bosom bulging over the top of a strapless bodice.

"I don't know why women who have money enough to buy whatever they want don't dress to suit their age and their figures. They would, if they could only see themselves as others see them."

Mrs. Maxwell is herself a devotee of the art of underdressing. She holds to the theory that most women look best in the simplest kind of clothes, relying for effect on beauty of fabric. She believes that a woman who wears a perfectly plain dress, well cut, perfectly fitted and designed to suit her figure, will be among the best-dressed women in any gathering.

When a recipe directs you to scald fresh peaches, the fruit should be dipped into boiling water (off heat) for a few minutes; the skin may then be peeled off easily.

An Old Guarantee To The People

National Newspaper week once a year affords newspapers throughout the nation an opportunity to toot their own horns; to remind their readers that without the freedom of information all of us take for granted, the other freedoms would quickly vanish as our democracy crumbled.

But more than that, National Newspaper Week affords the individual newspaper an opportunity to make a careful self-evaluation in the light of the high ideals we set for ourselves in the newspaper profession.

Without the latter, the former would be meaningless.

The American newspaper occupies an unique position in the world. Its freedom to print accurate, factual information is guaranteed in the Constitution. This constitutional guarantee was not granted by the founding fathers of this nation to the newspapers. It was a guarantee to the people of the nation to assure an informed, enlightened public, capable of making wise decisions when confronted with the facts in any situation.

The community newspaper is charged with the responsibility of informing the public of happenings of each day, completely, and impartially. In its editorials it has the responsibility to interpret the events of the day, to defend the weak, to speak out against injustices of which a majority can sometimes be guilty, to prod the public conscience.

The community newspaper must do all this and more. It must reflect the daily life of its people. The joy, the tragedy, the beauty, the horrible. It must be a mirror of its area, reflecting life as it is lived, births and deaths, marriages and divorces, clubs, churches, the comings and goings of the people, their hopes, their fears, their constant quest for a better life.

While keenly aware of its responsibilities to the people of Pitt County, The Reflector is also aware of its human imperfections. If we make a misstep now and then as we seek faithfully to discharge these exacting responsibilities, we ask the forgiveness of the people to whom this newspaper is responsible, the people for whom it is created: the people of Pitt County.

We find our greatest reward in messages such as the following received a few days ago:

"To The Reflector Staff:

"I have many fond memories of your newspaper and the people who have been connected with it. Not long ago it occurred to me that in the files of your newspaper is the story of my life. The Reflector has recorded my marriage, the birth of my children, their childhood parties, their graduation from high school and later from college and now, in more recent years your columns have been recording their marriage and one by one the arrival of my grandchildren. Is it any wonder that your newspaper means so much in my home and that I look forward eagerly to receiving it each day. This is a story in brief of any newspaper . . . an intensely personal thing, close to the lives and thoughts and work and aspirations of most everyone in every community. Thanks a million."

Fender Bumping Common Here

Cheap Movie Maker

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Hollywood may be dismayed to learn that an ex-soda jerk here has made a full length movie for only $25,000.

"As a matter of fact, it cost me only $6,000 to turn out the film itself," said Everett Chambers. "The rest went for music, sound, and other expenses.'

The film, "A Run Across The River," is the culmination of a four-year drama and a long uphill fight for its 31-year-old producer, who has a crew cut and looks like an Ivy League college instructor. A spy chase melodrama, filmed in semi-documentary style and featuring Greenwich Village back grounds, it is now being shown to exhibitors.

"I don't expect it to rival 'Gone With The Wind," said Chambers cheerfully. "But I think it's a pretty fair 'B' grade picture — at least as good as 'I Was A Teenage Werewolf.'"

Behind his unusual effort is an unusual story.

Chambers, a native of Los Angeles, came here in 1949 and got a $52 a week job dishing up sundaes in a midtown ice cream parlor. He also met and married there a hostess named Joan.

After a few acting jobs, Chambers worked his way up to a post as one of TV's top casting directors. But he saw the handwriting on the wall when live TV shows began to be replaced by film productions.

"It doesn't make much sense," he said, "but you can win more of a reputation by turning out one feature length picture, good or bad, than you can be producing any number of good hour-long TV shows."

Chambers persuaded a friend, Lee Gillen, 29, to write a movie script (his first one) for the promise of a share of the profits, if any. He got a dozen actors to take roles on the same basis. The same with the cameraman.

But he still had to have some cash. Yet who would put up any real money for such a shoestring venture. The answer was easy. Nobody. Chambers, in a blue funk, was about to abandon the project when his wife suggested:

"Why don't we call up everybody we know, and ask them to put in $200 each? That will appeal to everybody, and nobody can get hurt bad."

"We got on the phone at once," said Chambers, "and in two weeks raised $6,000. Then a friend in the garment industry chipped in $7,500 — and we were off."

Among Chambers' backers are his mother, his doctor, an usher, a Chinese bartender, a policeman's widow, a teacher, a secretary, and a delicatessen counterman — Surely the most oddly assorted group ever to invest in a movie.

No salaries have been paid yet to actors, author, cameraman or technicians. Scenery and backgrounds were borrowed. Greenwich Village friends loaned their apartments for interior shots.

The city of New York also came to the rescue of a young man trying to make good the hard way. It loaned him a subway train and a fire boat. It also sent two detectives who questioned him for five hours because he hadn't obtained a permit to stage a spectacular rooftop gunfight.

"We were so short-staffed that I had to do the makeup and hair-dressing myself," said Chambers. "I even had to sew a bra into a negligee of one actress, which is a pretty unusual chore for a producer."

He figures that if he can sell the picture for $100,000 all his investors will get their money back and all salaries will be paid. That will leave him nothing for himself.

"But the experience will have been worth it," he said. "I think I've proved that even Hollywood can turn out acceptable movies for no more than $100,000 in five weeks — if they are planned well."

There has been one other result. Several of the actors already have found their work with Chambers served as a stepping stone to other jobs.

Relationships Of Governments

By LYNN NISBET

RELATIONSHIPS — The whole program of the League of Municipalities convention in Raleigh this week dealt with relationships among the several levels of government—municipal, county, state and federal—and with relationship of these governments, particularly municipal, with the citizens. The subject matter was roughly divided as inter-governmental relations and public relations.

Sen. Kerr Scott and Rep. L.H. Fountain, speaking from the viewpoint of Federal relationships; Revenue Commissioner Jim Currie, Highway Director Bill Babcock and other State officials dealt with matters related to that level of co-operation, while numerous mayors and city managers in question and answer periods brought out the necessity for closer relationships with counties, among different municipalities and with the State and Federal governments.

The interesting phase of all these talks was that in every instance the other fellows were expected to do most of the co-operating. The Congressmen suggested ways and means for cities to benefit by complying with Federal regulations;; the State speakers emphasized that municipalities are creatures of the State, hence have no powers except those delegated by the State; the city and town officials stressed needs for liberalization in State and Federal laws to give municipalities more leeway in administering their affairs. Everybody recognized that municipal government is closest to the people, that local officials are more familiar with the needs and capacities of their communities. Federal and State folks sought more information upon which to base regulations, but manifested little inclination to let the municipalities do their own regulating.

PUBLIC RELATIONS — One after another the speakers pointed out the importance of letting the people know what the governing bodies have done. Ed Reed, president of the Alabama League, suggested the need for trained and paid public relations men, comparable to those serving private corporations.

The field of public relations is a relatively new development in government. Private enterprise has enlarged the scope and changed the title of the old press agent to a public relations counsellor or a public information officer. (The difference is comparable to that between an undertaker and a mortician, reflected more in the cost than in the service.)

While urging local officials to report to the people on their performances, emphasis was on the value such reporting would have when the officers sought re-election. None of the speakers mentioned the question of closed or open sessions of governing boards, or telling the public in advance of action what course might be followed.

Ed Reed also pointed to one weakness in the common practice of having city or league officers talk to municipal groups. He said what the officials ought to do was talk more to groups of farmers and non-official gatherings to explain the municipal problems. By the same token, it might be wise to have farmers talk to city groups about rural-urban relationships, and to have private citizens tell the governing bodies about the type of service they want. This sharing of opinions would make for clearer understanding on part of officials and citizens of their responsibilities to each other, and result in better government.

DOLLARS — Come the falls of 1958 and 1960 the Democrats will be worried about votes. Right now they are worried about dollars. Reference is to the national, rather than the state, situation.

The North Carolina Democratic party has a right nice bank balance on the credit side. Chairman Paul Butler of the National Committee said in Raleigh the other day the figures for his committee are on the red side to the tune of some $600,000-plus.

In a nationwide effort to switch this balance from the red to the black column on the party's books, the committee has proclaimed October 11-12 as "Dollars for Democrats" days. The hope is to get at least a million of the 21 million Democrats who voted for Stevenson last fall to put up one buck apiece for the war chest to help elect Democrats to the Congress next year—and maybe have a little over to help elect a Democratic President in 1960.

The national chairman has passed the buck on this deal to the state chairmen. State Chairman John Larkins passed it on to Steve Nimocks, president of the State Young Democrat Clubs. No quotas have been allotted by states, but if North Carolina comes up to the expectation of at least one dollar for every 21 votes, the tab would be about $30,000. In off-record conversations Larkins and Nimocks say they will be very happy if they get $5,000 for exclusive use of the national committee.

Most campaigns for contributions to Democratic party funds are for the whole business—national, state and county. Receipts for dollars contributed in this drive are clearly marked for the Democratic National Committee.

Consumers Are Still Spending

By ELMER [illegible]

[illegible] market has shown signs of weakness, investment in plants and equipment are being shaded and industrial production shows signs of leveling off.

But consumer spending — that magnificent bulwark of the economy — continues to flourish.

Total retail sales in July, according to revised Department of Commerce figures, were 10 per cent above a year ago. Ten per cent in that time is a pretty big teapot full of money. In fact, it's more than $1.5 billion, since sales in July, 1956, were $15,382,000,000.

Commerce's preliminary report for August shows retail sales 7 per cent above a year ago, which would be a gain of more than a billion.

DEPARTMENT STORE FIGURES LOWER

The Federal Reserve figures on department store sales are not so chipper. The rise from January 1 to September 24 was 2 per cent, and the gains in July and August close to that level. However, the Fed figures command less and less respect. The closing and merging of many big-city stores, and the increase in suburban branches, coupled with the shift of trading to the suburbs in many areas, tend to distort the figures.

In fact, Commerce figures for the "general merchandise group," which includes department stores, indicate gains of 9 per cent from July, 1956, to July, 1957.

This rise in consumer spending indicates a confident attitude on the part of the general public. It does not seem impressed by the weakness in other indexes. It is an encouraging omen for sales of the up-coming 1958 model autos and Christmas sales.

FOOD GROUP GAINS MOST

The biggest gains in August were registered by the food group, up $558,000,000 over a year ago. Much of this was due to higher prices. The automotive group made the next largest gain, up $281,000,000. It was closely followed by the general merchandise group, up $240,000,000. Gas stations showed a rise of $123,000,000 in sales.

Other groups showed lesser gain except the furniture and appliance group, which showed a drop of $6,000,000.

Commerce's figures for July are more detailed. The food group had a gain of 11 per cent, with meat markets being 16 per cent ahead of last year. Tire, battery and accessory dealers had a rise of 31 per cent, a figure that seems almost incredible unless somebody has been scattering spikes and glass on the highways.

Of the groups tabulated — which do not include many of the smaller lines — the only July loss was shown by lumber yards, down 1 per cent.

Of other lines listed, those showing better than average gains were grocery stores, up 11 per cent; women's ready-to-wear stores, up 14 per cent; family clothing stores, up 13 per cent; gas stations, up 12 per cent, and drugstores, up 11 per cent.

The uptrend is likely to continue through the holiday season as long as personal income continues to rise. A. W. Zelomek, economist, writing in the Bulletin of the National Association of Purchasing Agents, predicted: "Personal income should tend slightly higher for the rest of the year and early into 1958. At no time will it decline below the corresponding period last year.

MATTRESSES, UNLIKE PILLS, CALLED HABIT FORMING

A Cleveland merchant is profiting by putting a reverse twist on the heavy advertising of sleep pills on television.

In an ad showing both a bed and a pill, he asks, "Do you rush, rush, rush all day and then sleep, sleep, sleep all night? We prescribe the White Dove matress — the best for rest . . . it's habit forming."

The idea will probably be appropriated elsewhere.

WHAT'S NEEDED

Big business has, as well as its own research and advisory services, a good knowledge of what it can get from the government. Trade associations, trade publications, specialized newsletters and Washington bureaus keep it well informed.

What's needed is a single agency that will not merely refer inquirers to other sources, but will gather and provide all data small business needs. If you were to start a small preserves business, you can get recipes from the Department of Agriculture, marketing information from the Department of Commerce, management guidance from the Small Business Information, trade restrictions from the FTC and tax help from the Internal Revenue Service. There's no on-stop shopping in government.

What's needed even more is an information and advertising program to tell all business what government assistance is available. A budget of $1,000,000 a year would attract a pretty effective advertising agency and return several times that mount to the government in added tax collections from more prosperous businesses.

Opinions In Brief

"With our ever increasing population, street lighting is no longer an added cost to a budget, but a necessity. It belongs at its rightful place as one of the top budget considerations of every community. Good street lighting is good insurance, it pays big dividends."—J. J. McEvoy, Selectman of Prospect, Connecticut.

"There is about Chapel Hill and the University of North Carolina a sense of destiny and purpose which fills the air. As a newcomer to this area it is perhaps something which is more noticeable to me than to those of you who have been here longer." — Maurice W. Lee, Dean, School of Business Administration, UNC.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

SO USE IT

There is a church in England which, previous to World War II, was a dark, unattractive place. It faced on a narrow little street. In the chancel was a beautiful altar, but the chancel itself was a dark and forbidding place.

Then the Germans came across one night in their bombers, and the church was left in ruins. The altar was not seriously damaged, however. The congregation which had listlessly dragged themselves to the church for some decades now seemed to be inspired with new life. They decided to build a new church, and they further arranged to do a quite unusual and beautiful thing.

The chancel of the old church looked out over beautiful country which ended in a lovely harbor full of ships. The people decided that in the new church, the chancel would have a window but one through which the people in the pews could look across the altar and out into the country and down across the harbor.

It was a beautiful and symbolic gesture that hereafter the religious life of this congregation would be definitely tied up to life. The inspiration of the chancel would go out to brighten the trade of the harbor and the hard work which men endured as they tilled the fields —God's altar sanctifying all.

Religion is only useful and genuine if we use it.

They Ask Him For Help

Got a couple of tons of old pine needles around the house?

If you do you owe it to yourself to contact Chamber of Commerce Manager Willard T. Kyzer. He can lead you to a man who needs pine needles and who would be glad to pay for the things.

It all started a few letters ago when a Mt. Vernon, N.Y. realtor wrote the local Chamber telling of his need for the pine needles.

It was something new in requests for Kyzer, who has answered all types in the past.

He wrote back to determine just how many pine needles the man needed and whether he wanted green or dried needles.

" . . . a few tons would be sufficient, of the green short leaf pine needles," the New York realtor replied.

"If you are not successful in locating the green needles, the dead ones would just as well serve my purpose."

So now Kyzer has a problem. Here in the very heart of pine country, he must locate several tons of pine needles.

So far he has no ideas on the matter. He will gladly entertain suggestions or requests to handle the job. The writer of the letters made no mention of price.

If you can't help Kyzer with that problem you might assist him in locating Seven Pines. Some gentleman left this area many years ago. He now lives in Narbert, Pa. but he wishes news of his homeplace.

A letter to Kyzer stated that the writer was "anxious to find out about a place, old home, called Seven Oaks said to be near a village called Seven Pines supposed to be about 80 miles from Greenville, N. C."

The writer asked for the location, owner and the name and address if possible.

A short time ago the Chamber of Commerce manager's efforts to locate the father of a 17-year-old girl proved fruitless.

The girl, now living in Flagpong, Tenn., said she had not seen her father since she was four or five years old. However, she said, he was last heard from in North Carolina.

"Please help me find him," she pleaded. "If you do find him please tell him to write me."

Kyzer checked the city directory and county tax records but he was unable to find the name the girl gave. Next he contacted a local family of the same name but they had never heard of the man.

Regretfully he wrote the teenager that he was unable to locate her father in this city.

The most unusual request to come to Kyzer was received while he was Chamber of Commerce manager in Salisbury. A woman sent him a photo of her husband, who she said she had "bought out" of the navy, as could be done in those days. However, she said, he had not returned home upon discharge. She wanted help in locating him.

The story was carried by the local newspaper without pictures or names. That afternoon Kyzer received a call from a woman. She said she believed the man she was dating was the missing husband.

Kyzer had her come by the office and examine the picture. "That's the buzzard," she yelled.

When wife and girl friend descended upon the scene, however, the shifty husband had disappeared a second time. He was never located so far as Kyzer knows.

Other Editors Saying--- Lake Sets Pattern

(Washington Daily News)

Beverly Lake, erstwhile Utilities commissioner, and preferably an assistant attorney general, has set the pattern for North Carolina politics in the next state Democratic primary.

Mr. Lake in a recent speech hit hard upon two subjects which likely will figure in the statewide campaigns next time. First in this matter of integration, Mr. Lake sees the Pearsall plan as falling far short of what most people seem to have expected. He took the position that the plan offers "a little integration this year, a little more next year until finally we have it all the way."

By taking the position he did in his speech he not only hurled a political brickbat at Governor Hodges who may be a candidate for the United States Senate next time, but he also threw a roadblock in the path of Tom Pearsall, whom, it is believed, aspires to succeed Governor Hodges in Raleigh.

If people are disillusioned by the results to date of the Pearsall plan, two men must bear the brunt of the attack. As everyone certainly knows, they are Mr. Hodges and Mr. Pearsall. And rank and file voters are wondering right now about the accomplishments for this Pearsall plan.

The next bombshell thrown by Mr. Lake is the tax structure which Governor Hodges fought so hard for in his quest for greater industrial development in North Carolina. Mr. Lake feels that the governor has paid far too much attention to helping the big boys while the little fellows have been left to shift for themselves.

Both points offer fertile material for any political campaign in North Carolina. Both are designed to capture the interest if not always the fancy of the voters of our state. And on both issues, clearly placing Mr. Lake on one side and Governor Hodges and Mr. Pearsall on the other, the handwriting could be on the wall. It could have been the opening speech in Mr. Lake's campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor. While Mr. Lake has no political organization behind him, he has made of himself something of a hero to the extreme segregationists. His championship of the little fellow might also serve to endear him to many people in our state who do not wish to be listed either way in the segregationist fight.

Whatever his reasons for making the speech, Mr. Lake has set a pattern for the next Democratic political campaign. The two main issues might well be the segration squabble and the favors offered to large corporations. Regardless of merits, sometimes even talk of favor for the big boys arouses people.

We don't know that Mr. Lake will be a candidate. But some candidate is sure to use these two points in any campaign in the state. And it will be more pronounced if Mr. Hodges runs for the senate and Mr. Pearsall for governor.

And through his speech, Mr. Lake has placed himself in the forefront in the political picture today in North Carolina.

Govm't Checks For 50 Million

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON More than 50,000,000 people—almost one-third of the population—are now receiving checks for services, subsidies or support from the Federal, State and local governmental agencies of the United States.

For every 16 privately employed or nonworking American citizen, there is one American on a public payroll of one kind or another. To use a military figure, if the approximately 160,000,000 Americans are thought of as an army, there is one sergeant to keep a platoon of 16 people in step. And, of course, the 16 must dig up taxes to pay the salaries of each platoon's noncommissioned officer.

Despite President Eisenhower's 1952 pledges of economy and a reduction of the ranks of the bureaucrats, this expansion of bureaucrats and beneficiaries has continued during his Administration.

WARNING CONCERNING "NATION'S GRADUAL SOCIALIZATION" In 1952, according to official figures, the number receiving checks from agencies of the Federal, State and local governments was 36,983, 248.

Today, the total is 40,810,699. To this array, however, must be added 10,274,036, who benefit from loans and insurance policies underwritten by the Veterans Administration. And the Federal government has been responsible for the largest percentage of the 1952-1957 increase.

In submitting this report to Congress, Representative Ralph W. Gwinn, Republican conservative from New York, said that he was "deeply disturbed by this trend toward socialism in our society and government."

Other members cited these figures and costs, together with other statistics recently given in this column, as evidence that "The United States today is a nation that is two-thirds socialized." They also warn that pending measures before Congress, which are almost certain to be enacted in a re-election year like 1958, will accelerate this paternalistic parade.

BREAKDOWN OF BUREAUCRATS, BENEFICIARIES Here is a partial breakdown on this vast army of bureaucrats and beneficiaries of Federal, State and local governmental agencies, including every category from teachers and recipients of farm subsidies to members of the Armed Forces:

Employees in this country and abroad, including 276,823 foreign nationals in Allied and satellite lands—10,173,615. This is approximately, as noted above, one-sixteenth of the population.

Public assistance programs, such as old age, dependents, the blind and the needy—5,588,858.

Old age survivors and unemployment insurance—12,376,957.

Civil Service pensioners—327,111. Railroad retirement personnel—518,240.

VETERANS' GRANTS, ETC. Veterans' grants for pensions and disability, educational and vocational assistance—4,020,644.

State and local retirement, survivors and disability beneficiaries—408,000.

State and local unemployment beneficiaries—893,600.

Federal defense force, reserves and National Guard—3,807,751.

Veterans Administration's guaranteed loans for business and homes—5,847,036.

MUCH OUTLAY JUSTIFIED It is not contended here that these payments, or at least many of them, are not jusitified. A nation of this magnitude cannot be run without millions of employees. Support for various groups, such as farmers, may be necessary to preserve and expand the economy. The nation should show gratitude to the men and women who fought its wars.

But these amazing totals do explain why Federal, State and local taxes now approximate $110 billion a year, or one-third of today's personal income total of $347.3 billion. And why so many members of Congress agree that "The United States is today a two-thirds socialized nation." A collateral question in their minds is how long this trend can be stretched without national bankruptcy.

Homecoming Preparations Are Being Made

Homecoming Day for Alumni at East Carolina College, Saturday, October 12, is now being planned by alumni, faculty members, and students. James W. Butler, alumni secretary at the college and chairman of the committee in charge of the program, said today that preparations for the gala occasion are nearing completion.

The annual Homecoming Parade through the campus and downtown Greenville; a luncheon; open house in the College Union, the Mamie E. Jenkins Faculty-Alumni House, and several student dormitories; a football game between East Carolina and Elon; and a Homecoming dance will provide welcome and entertainment for guests on the campus.

Students living in campus dormitories are already at work on plans to decorate the facades of residence halls. Chief theme of the colorful display will be the fiftieth anniversary of East Carolina College, founded in 1907. Dormitories will compete for an annual trophy presented by the Industrial Arts Club of the college to the building most attractively and appropriately decorated for the day.

The Parade will resent a spectacular line of march, including floats entered by campus organizations; automobiles carrying officials of the college and the Alumni Association and more than twenty-five queens representing student groups, and the East Carolina College Marching Band. Beginning at 11 a.m., it will move from the East Campus, through main streets of the city, and back to the West Campus.

The luncheon will take place in the North Dining Hall at 12:15 p.m. Guests will include alumni, faculty members, administrative officers of the college, and special guests on the campus.

East Carolina will meet Elon at 2 p.m. in the East Carolina stadium in a North State Conference game, which for many will highlight the day's program.

The annual Homecoming Dance will be staged in the Wright building at 8 p.m. A nationally known orchestra, still to be announced, will provide music.

Reunions among former students and visits with faculty and students by returning alumni will be unscheduled events of the day. A number of student and alumni organizations are planning after-game dinner meetings.

Hurry-Up Job In Home Building

BROWNSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The early britches get the bird.

That evening he found a fast-working catbird had built a nest inside a pocket. And in the next was an egg.

Evangelistic Team Visiting Chicod, Hollywood Presbyterian Youth

A four-man evangelistic team for high school young people is visiting the Hollywood and Chicod Presbyterian youth this Saturday and Sunday. These four men will come from Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Virginia, with an evangelistic message and witness for area youth.

Union Seminary in Richmond has sent out youth evangelistic teams since 1948. Each year the evangelistic teams visit from forty to seventy-five churches, traveling more than fifteen thousand miles.

The activities of the weekend will begin on Saturday evening at six o'clock when members of the Senior High Fellowship and their friends will meet with the evangelistic team at Hollywood Presbyterian Church located on the New Bern highway. The evening's entertainment will begin with an outdoor wiener roast, followed by recreation and fellowship.

Sunday morning will find the team dividing into two-member teams which will teach the high school young people for Sunday School and which will also preach in the morning worship at the respective churches. In the afternoon at 3:30 an informal discussion time will be held at Chicod Presbyterian Church, also located on the New Bern highway. This discussion time has as its central aim helping young people think through the real meaning of their Christian faith. Following a light supper at the church, the evangelistic team will lead in a special dedication service for youth, climaxing this evangelistic challenge to high school young people.

Fired Japs Hold Two Americans

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese workers fired by the U.S. Army in a cutback held two American civilian employes of the Army prisoner today for more than three hours.

The Americans, William Oglesby of Denver, Colo., and Walter Nebeta of Hilo, Hawaii, were released unharmed from the Japanese labor management office in Tokorozawa, 20 miles northwest of Tokyo, after local police interceded.

The pair had gone to the office to explain the dismissal of 250 employes of the Army logistic depot at Tokorozawa. The Army is reducing its labor force in Japan in connection with the withdrawal of troops now in the works.

The workers, seeking another day's employment to qualify for dismissal benefits as "permanent workers," claimed that they were told Oct. 2 they would be re-employed but that the order was rescinded the same day. Col. B. Abrams of Funston, Tex., the base commander, said they could not be taken back unless other Japanese workers were dismissed.

The Army said after Oglesby and Nebeta explained the situation to the crowd, the Americans tried to leave but were stopped. The crowd demanded that Abrams come to the office, and then that it be allowed to see him at his office. Both requests were refused.

"Oglesby was permitted to telephone, but neither he nor Nebeta were permitted to eat lunch," the Army said.

Contrast In Damascus: Jets And Laden Donkeys

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

DAMASCUS (AP) — The eternal, heavily burdened donkey plods patiently through ancient Damascus, threading its way stolidly beside huge American cars.

Under the hot sun, peddlers call upon Allah to witness that their grapes or apples are truly a gift of God himself.

The Syrian capital has an air of bustle and prosperity. Whatever the economic effects of last year's Suez crisis, Damascus is fairly well recovered. Yet there is also an air of anxiety, underscored by the sight of drilling soldiers and military vehicles.

Every so often a Soviet MIG fighter roars overhead. Few look upward; people are accustomed to them and almost everyone is intent on his own affairs.

There is something strange in the atmosphere. Few Damascenes say anything openly about it. It is as if they feel something they do not want is happening and they are being fatalistic about it.

In new sections of the city, buzzing with business activity, worry shows through. A businessman from some other part of the Arab world who has established himself in Damascus may whisper that he is thinking of leaving. Ask him why and he will shrug.

Only a few think communism is on the way. Some see a future of heavy taxation and other annoyances from a regime they believe is intent on rushing headlong into an overambitious development program.

Foreigners from the West here for an international fair reported they were besieged with offers to stay on at high pay to help Syria develop her industries. The West is much in evidence here. Swank Arabs finger their beads but otherwise look as Western as Chicago. In the better hotels, restaurants, and cabarets they mingle with darkskinned, bearded sheikhs in robes and headdress from the provinces.

American movies outnumber other foreign films 4 to 1. Wealthy Syrians — and there are many — have a passion for American cars. American goods predominate in the shops. American cigarettes are on sale at every tobacconist.

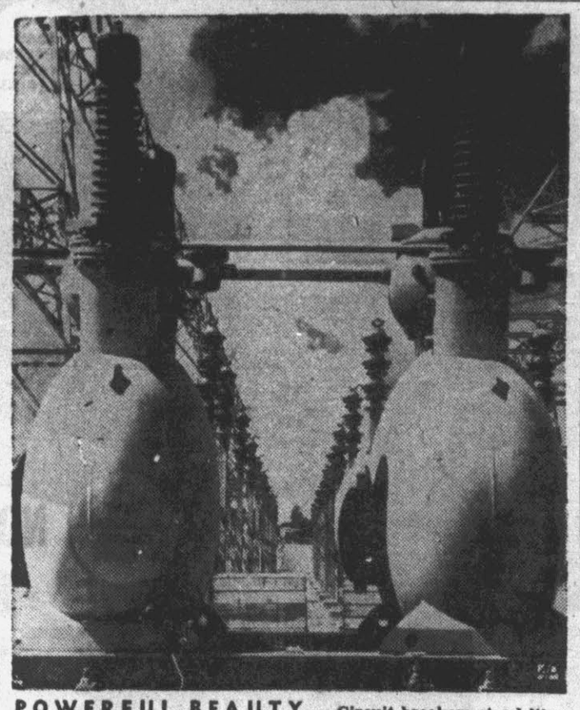

Through Damascus' 23 newspapers and on the radio the regime airs complaints about the United States, sounding almost like a child denied sweets and badgering threatening parents. But in almost every cafe an American jukebox blares American tunes.

This land has a logic peculiarly Arab. Frequently it expresses what has come to be known as Arab negativism — that quirk of character which seems to impel the Arab to injure himself if only to hurt those against whom he has grievances.

The Arab seems to yearn to be understood by the rest of the world yet puts obstacles in the way of understanding.

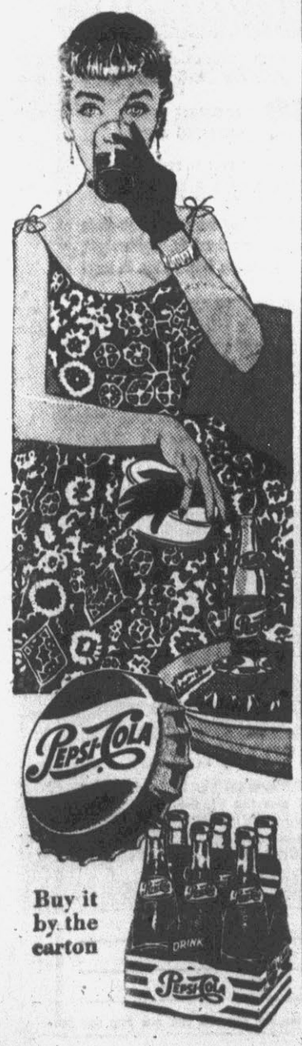

Politically the Arabs' wounds are deep and ancient. Once Syria was a proud nation dominating a vast area. There is a universal memory of past glory. Hatred rages in the Arab breast for Israel. Arabs are convinced they are deeply wronged and are deeply suspicious of every Western approach.

No approach to the Syrian situation can have the slightest hope of success unless it weighs some of these factors.

Flu Epidemic Has Run Course

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Dr. H. Rembert Malloy has reported that Winston-Salem Teachers College's influenza epidemic, suspected to be Asian flu, apparently has run its course.

During the course of the flu, the school infirmary admitted 159 students. Malloy said six were still in the infirmary yesterday.

The epidemic began Sept. 15 with the admission of track star Elias Gilbert to the infirmary. More than 30 students were admitted four days later. Three days after that the infirmary held 75 students, with beds crowded into hallways, corners and all rooms of the building.

Urge Pollution Control In French Broad Basin

RALEIGH (AP)—Pollution control measures are required in the French Broad River basin to protect the area's water resources for future use, according to a study by the State Stream Sanitation Committee.

Recommended standards for use of waters from streams in the basin, based on findings of the survey by the committee's staff, will be discussed at a public hearing in Asheville Oct. 24.

After the hearing, the committee will adopt water classifications for the basin and will have power to require control of pollution.

Streams covered by the hearing include the French Broad, Davidson, Pigeon, Swannanoa, Ivy, South Toe, North Toe, Cane and Nilichucky rivers and their tributaries within North Carolina. They border or flow through the counties of Transylvania, Henderson, Buncombe, Haywood, Madison, Avery, Yancey and Mitchell.

The pollution survey said population and industrial development are "increasing rapidly" in the 2,325-square mile French Broad basin.

"To adequate protect the water resources of the basin for future use, steps must be taken to reduce existing pollution and to insure future polluters provide effective waste treatment," it said. With proper pollution control, it added, water supplies will be adequate for future development.

Prospects of expanded tourist activity in the area were pointed out by the survey. This will require protection of water uses such as fishing, hunting and camping, the report said.

At present, it related, there are 30 points of "significant pollution" and treatment of wastes dumped into streams "is the exception rather than the rule." It placed total wastes from the 30 pollution points at the equivalent of domestic sewage from a population of 1,069,280 persons.

Streams which have been damaged from "excessive amounts of wastes" were listed as Tucker Creek, Davidson River, French Broad River, Hominy Creek, Pigeon River, Nolichucky River and the North and South Toe rivers.

"Municipalities and industries should obtain competent personnel to study their individual waste disposal problems, and to seek proper waste treatment facilities," the report declared.

The basin includes 18 public water supplies, serving an estimated population of 149,645 and using approximately 20 million gallons of water daily. Based on the 1950 census, the estimated population of the basin is 247,290, with about 21 per cent of the total in Asheville.

College Music Fraternity Installs Officers

George W. Knight Jr. of Rocky Mount, senior at East Carolina, will act during 1957-1958, as president of the campus chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national music fraternity.

A major in the department of music, Knight is a member of the East Carolina Orchestra, the college choir, and other music organizations, and for the past two years has played leading roles in the operetta presented at the college each spring.

Student officers serving with Knight this term are Robert Ellwanger, Rockingham, vice president; Milton Mann, Sanford, secretary; John Lowry, Kinston, treasurer; Linwood Pittman, Rocky Mount, alumni secretary; Ralph Shumaker, Greer, S.C., parliamentarian; Fred Shehdan, Raleigh, warden; Joseph Stell, Greenville, historian; and Stephen Farish, Ayden, choral director.

Fire Prevention Week Coming Up

Next week has been proclaimed Fire Prevention Week for Greenville by Mayor S. Eugene West.

The mayor also set aside Wednesday as "inspection day in our homes and businesses" and Thursday as clean-up day for all waste and rubbish.

West proclaimed Fire Prevention week in view of the fact that "the loss from fires in the nation totalled over 989 million dollars in 1956, and through June of 1957 losses have exceeded that of last year for the same period by nearly 33 million dollars."

"Great social and economic losses to our city result from the destruction of homes, business enterprises, industries and natural resources."

For those reasons the Mayor said: "I call upon all departments and agencies of the ciyt government, and urge every citizen of the community, to participate actively in a campaign for improved fire safety to relieve hazardous conditions that we may have a safer community in which to live and work. The Fire Department, our schools, the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, and other organizations are providing effective leadership in the activitie of Fire Prevention Week, and all of us working together can have a successful program."

66,500 ORPHANS — NOT 750,000

Thirty years ago, there were no less than 750,000 orphans in this country—750,000 children under 18 who had lost both parents. Today, with a population 50% bigger than it was in 1920, there are only 66,500 orphans. Here is dramatic proof of the effectiveness of modern drugs in keeping people alive . . . in keeping families together. Here is dramatic proof of the fact that today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history!

Soviet Could Be First, But They Like Secrecy

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia could win an unofficial race into space with the first man-made moon.

But the world's first knowledge of it might be a Soviet announcement that the moon had already been circling for days or perhaps weeks, a Russian scientist says.

By contrast, the United States says it will never fire any rocket that could hang a moon in the sky without prior public announcement of the attempt.

Both nations plan to send small metal spheres into orbits around the world during the International Geophysical Year. IGY is a 64-nation cooperative effort to learn and share peaceful new knowledge of the universe.

Russia was invited and asked to disclose full details of her moon plans at a 12-country IGY conference here on the artificial satellites and rockets to explore the upper air.

Instead, three Soviet delegates spoke mainly in generalities at yesterday's opening session, while U.S. scientists gave full details, most of them disclosed long ago. Russia has been fully informative about all her other IGY activities.

Dr. Sergie M. Poloskov said that although he wasn't sure, Russia might not announce a launching until her moon was successful.

He said it would use a radio voice of much lower frequencies than the U.S. moons. These radio signals are needed to track and learn from the moon what it is discovering about space.

Just a year ago, Russia's IGY representative had agreed that moons of both nations would use the same frequency so any nation could tune in on them easily.

American experts said it would take several months to make changes to pick up the Soviet radio voice, and that it was too low a frequency to avoid distortions.

Asked whether there would be time to do this, Poloskov said yes. But then he said the launching might not be announced until the Soviet moon had succeeded—that there might well be no word from Russia until the moon was circling the earth.

An American scientist commented privately: "It seems to me now there's no doubt that they consider this a race for prestige reasons. It's anyone's guess why they are being coy about disclosing progress and plans and hard facts as we have done."

Broke the lights in the theater driveway.

Smashed a big sign at the entrance.

Dulles And Gromyko To Hold Talks; Middle East Likely Chief Topic

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles will meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko here Saturday for a far-ranging discussion of world affairs.

Disarmament may provide one subject, but the talks are expected to focus primarily on the tense situation in the Middle East.

Dulles may take the opportunity to tell the top Soviet diplomat directly and forcefully that the United States intends to do everything possible to prevent the spread of Soviet power and influence in the Middle East.

He also is expected to urge the Soviet leadership that big power negotiations on disarmament be continued.

Disarmament talks broke down in London in September, but discussion was switched to the U.N. General Assembly. The Western nations hope it can be resumed next year.

Announcement of the Dulles-Gromyko meeting, made by the State Department late yesterday, comes at a time when Dulles' plans for dealing with the Soviet expansion in the Middle East, through the United Nations and through friendly Arab states, appear to be in trouble.

The trouble arises from the fact Saudi Arabia, itself anti-Communist and very friendly to this country, has split with the United States on several vital points of policy.

The Saudi Arabian policy declaration was made to the General Assembly in New York yesterday by King Saud's minister of state, Ahmad Shukairy.

Opposing Dulles' urging that the U.N. "Consider and discuss" the situation resulting from Soviet arms shipments to Syria, Shukairy said, "This is no matter that could be seized by the Assembly," and added: "We shall resist any attempt to interfere in the affairs of Syria."

He contended Syria's Arab neighbors are not threatened by Russian arms shipments, and said, "It is the policy of the West that is destroying ties with the Arabs."

Some authorities here said privately that Shukairy may have gone much further than the Saudi Arabian government instructed him to go. It was considered significant that he had formerly served as a Syrian delegate at the U.N.

King Saud has been publicly stressing a need for Arab unity in minimizing the danger of Soviet influence in Syria. But privately Saudi Arabian officials and those of several other Arab states are understood to be concerned over the dangers of the situation.

The result of Shukairy's speech, as it now stands, may be a defeat for Dulles' hope that the United Nations will deal forcefully with Communist arms deliveries to Syria. United States influence in the Middle East, furthermore, may be impaired by Dulles' evident failure to win the open support of a country which the United States considers one of its best friends in that part of the world.

With respect to the Dulles meeting with Gromyko, State Department officials declared that Dulles has no new proposals to put forward and does not contemplate any change in United States policy on any of the questions hiwch may arise.

What he hopes to do, it was said, is make clear to Gromyko the firmness of the United States stand on various issues and to learn from Gromyko whatever he is able to say about Soviet policies and intentions.

ECC Freshmen Elect Officers

Preston Whitford of Washington, N. C. will head East Carolina College's freshman class during the 1957-1958 term. He was chosen for the office in a run-off election held on the campus Monday. Marcia Forbes of Farmville, chairman of the elections committee of the Student Government Association, has just announced results.

Freshmen voted last week on a slate of officers for their class. Thirty-one candidates for five offices were listed on the ballots. Run-offs Monday for each class position resulted in the choice of Whitford and four other freshman leaders for the school year.

The new freshman president is majoring at the college in the department of business education. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Whitford of Washington, N. C.

Officers serving with him are Dennis Williams of Kinston, vice president; Barbara Jones of Garner, secretary; Jymme Parker of Sunbury, treasurer; and Gloria Hefler of Hobbsville, representative on the Legislature of the Student Government Association.

Seek Translate By Electronics

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter

SEATTLE (AP) — Linguists and engineers expect to test in the near future an electronic brain system which they believe will translate Russian scientific documents into English at high speed with a minimum of human effort.

If successful, it will give the flow of information about Russian science instead of the mere trickle that has been available up to now.

The project has nothing to do with secrecy. The material has been available all along, in Russian books, periodicals and scientific reports.

Translation is difficult because the Russian and English alphabets are substantially different. Idioms, complex word structure and to some extent syntax further complicate the proglem. And the number of Americans proficient in Russian language is very small.

But many Russian meaningful units such as words, prefixes, endings, compound words and even phrases can be matched pretty well with English equivalents, says Prof. Erwin Reifler, professor of Chinese at the University of Washington, who heads the project.

It was Dr. Reifler's pioneering, particularly in word matching, which gave the project its momentum here. Now researchers under Dr. Lew R. Mickelson, assistant professor of Russian, are pairing off 160,000 or more Russian semantic units with their English equivalents.

And in Los Angeles engineers of the International Telemetering Corp., with U. S. Air Force support, are building the mechanical brain for the system.

This project, however, is not the only one in the field. Electronic translator development is under way at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, at George Washington University and at the California Institute o fTechnology.

The University of Washington system still is in crude form. Translators here have given as many as eight different meanings to a single Russian term. If the machine were to process in Russian document now it would in many cases supply more than one English equivalent for each Russian semantic unit.

When the machine is completed an electronic device will scan the Russian documents and record each semantic unit in the text. The machine then automatically will locate English equivalents previously stored in its "memory" and release them in their Russian order.

Sometime this fall the machine is expected to be ready to produce accurate, intelligible sentences, though in poor grammar. Eventually the scientists hope to "teach" the machine how to translate in good English.

Raising A Tent For The Queen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Queen is coming, so the British are raising that big tent again on their embassy lawn.

The massive green canvas, with bulges for champagne bars, will be hoisted on the east slope of Britain's fashionable diplomatic post on Embassy Row for a royal reception the evening of Oct. 18.

Ambassadors of commonwealth countries will give the party in honor of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip during their long weekend in Washington.

Some 2,700 guests have been invited.

G. D'Arcy Edmondson, director general of the British Information Service in the United States, briefed newsmen on the festivities.

The circus-type tent, rented from a Philadelphia tent merchant, was last erected here for the visit here in 1954 of Queen Mother Elizabeth. Edmondson doesn't believe anyone else has found use for it.

"It's a little bigger now," Edmondson said. "More bulges."

The bulges are stalls opening off the big top to accommodate bars, sinks and overflow guests. From the embassy's ball room doors, one section 48 by 60 feet leads to the main arena, 102 by 50, set in a circle of birches and maples on the lawn. One bulge measures 40 by 40, three others 20 by 20.

A moss-like carpet will be spread over the grass.

The bars will serve champagne.

Queen Elizabeth may not venture into the tent. Accompanied by Prince Philip, she will have thousands of hands to shake and curtsies to acknowledge in the ballroom.

Gold-Carrying Airliner Crashes; 29 Are Killed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—A gold-carrying Lebanese airliner crashed in flames into the Mediterranean off Beirut today, killing all 29 persons aboard. The pilot was an American.

The twin-engine plane was flying for the Lebanese International Airways, which had been operating only about a week.

An airline agent said the American pilot was a Capt. Collmar, whose home town could not be learned immediately.

Four Britons reportedly were among the passengers. The airline said the others aboard were Lebanese, Syrians and Arabs from Persian Gulf areas.

Bound for Kuwait and Bahrain, the aircraft was carrying 15 boxes of gold for the Kuwait government.

Eyewitnesses said the plane burst into flames a few minutes after it took off from Beirut's International Airport. They estimated it had reached an altitude of 4,000 feet and was about 11 miles out to sea.

Hold Bond Hearing Today For Percy Flowers' Case

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP)—A hearing to fix bond for J. Percy Flowers, indicted on liquor charges by the Johnston County grand jury, was scheduled today before Judge Leo Carr.

Flowers and several others were indicted yesterday. The charges resulted from a raid by law enforcement officers several weeks ago on a store near Clayton owned by Flowers.

In reply to questions from news reporters, District Solicitor W. Jack Hooks said he and deputy Jack Smith have been threatened since the raid which brought about the padlocking of the store. Hooks did not elaborate.

In another case, a key witness against Flowers on a warrant charging him with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill was in custody of the county "for safekeeping." The witness stated that Flowers fired a pistol shot at him.

Asst. Solicitor Bill Britt said the trial of charges against Flowers, a well-known merchant and farmer, may be held at a special court term Oct. 14-21.

Bills returned by the grand jury included:

One charging Percy Flowers and others with "conspiring to unlawfully manufacture liquor by having in their possession 299 100-pound bags of sugar, pipes, pumps, and other equipment."

Three additional counts against Flowers for the "unlawful purchase of a pistol."

Another against Flowers for "unlawful possession of whiskey and possession of whiskey for sale."

Jimmy Flowers, a brother of Percy Flowers, was indicted on a charge of "obstructing officers in the performance of their duty."

Boy Stole Three Cars In 3 Days

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Police arrested a 14-year-old eight-grader yesterday for stealing three cars in three days.

Police said the boy, David Mayhew, admitted taking the cars. He had not attended school since Monday when he pleaded sickness.

Police turned over the case to juvnile authorities.

With Opener Behind Them, Yanks Are A 12-5 Choice

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees ruled a solid 12-5 choice to capture the World Series as left-hander Bobby Shantz and Milwaukee right-hander Lew Burdette prepared to take the mound today in what is regarded as the key game.

Should Shantz subdue the Braves, following Whitey Ford's five-hit 3-1 triumph for New York, the Yankees could conceivably sweep the set in four straight. Should the Braves even the series, the outlook is for a knockdown and drag-out seven games.

The Braves were nervous and restrained in the opener. They didn't hit, their fielding wasn't sharp and they didn't play alert, heads-up ball. The Yankees outhit them, outfielded them, outpitched them and outthought them. Yet the Braves weren't exactly outclassed. Cerainly the Yankees didn't overpower them. They just did everything a little bit better than the Braves.

Warren Spahn, who was batted out in the sixth inning to suffer the loss, may have sounded the keynote for his team when he remarked in the clubhouse after the game: "The Yankees showed us they were human too. They didn't exactly roll over us. We were in the game all the way."

If Manager Fred Haney was discouraged, he failed to show it. "We have no excuses," he said. "We got beat, that's all. We had several opportunities, but we just didn't hit enough. The Yankees can be beaten. I'm still confident we'll win."

Haney was banking on Burdette, second only to Spahn during the Braves' stretch run in September. The slender 30-year-old Virginian is an experienced pitcher even though he never before has appeared in a World Series. A 17-game winner, Lew's best pitches are a curve and a slider. He pitches something like Spahn, who gave up seven of the nine Yankee hits before leaving underfire in the Yankees' two-run rally in the sixth.

For Shantz, as well as Burdette, this was series assignment No. 1. The little southpaw, acquired in a trade with Kansas City last February, earned his shot at Milwaukee with an 11-5 record and an earned run average of 2.44, lowest in the majors. The 5-7, 145-pounder also relies on breaking stuff, slow curves, screwballs and knucklers.

Manager Casey Stengel's selection of Shantz was based on the winning effort of Ford, who held the Braves to five hits, only one of which was longer than a single. Casey said had the left-handed Ford been ineffective, he would have come back today with Bob Turley, his strong-armed right-hander.

Ford turned in a neat performance but he has pitched better games in World Series. He issued four passes and was in several trouble spots but remained firm in the clutch. Milwaukee batters swinging at bad pitches and watching good ones go by didn't hurt him either.

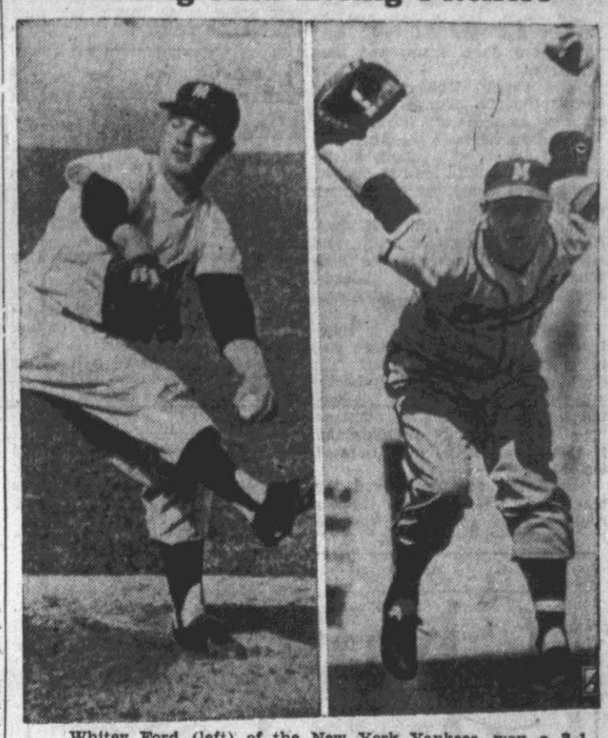

In the sixth, Stengel left the dugout to give a few words of advice and encouragement to the compact little left-hander. There were two out and two Braves on base, via walks, with a count of 2-1 on the batter Andy Pafko. The veteran outfielder ran up a full count, fouled off three pitches, then ended the inning by missing a high curve.

Ford struck out five. His shutout bid was ruined in the seventh when Wes Covington's second hit, a double, pinch hitter Nippy Jones' infield out and Red Schoendienst's single, produced the lone Milwaukee run. It was the only inning the Braves managed two hits.

Elston Howard took over at first base after Bill Skowron reinjured his back while running the bases in the first inning and was forced to retire. He may be lost to the Yankees for the rest of the series. Mickey Mantle, the other injured Yankee, played the entire game but his efforts were limited to two infield singles, one a beautiful drag bunt in which he gave a demonstration of his old speed.

Jerry Coleman, regarded as a light hitter, shared honors with Ford, along with Hank Bauer. The graceful second baseman contributed two hits, scored the first run and drove in the third. His perfectly executed squeeze bunt in the sixth against relief pitcher Ernie Johnson scored Yogi Berra.

Winning And Losing Pitchers

Whitey Ford (left) of the New York Yankees, won a 3-1 pitcher's duel yesterday in the opening game of the World Series against Warren Spahn (right) of the Milwaukee Braves. Ford gave up five hits in the game. He has been out with an ailing arm part of the season, having won 11 games and lost 5 this year. (AP Wirephoto).

Phants Going To Selma Tomorrow

TOMORROW NIGHT, when Greenville high school tangles with Selma in a non-conference contest, there, Robin Wilfong will be running at a starting fullback position. At 170 pounds, he is one of the biggest men on the Phantom team. The G-Men enter the game with a 1-3 record.

Coach Bud Phillips and his Greenville Phantoms journey to Selma this weekend for a non-conference football game with the AA-C Class club.

The tilt will be the second non-conference fray of the season for the G-Men, who have compiled a 1-3 record thus far.

Phillips' club has lost to Goldsboro 25-0, Jacksonville 13-6, and Washington 33-12. The Phants' only victory has been a 6-0 upset of Kinston in Northeastern Conference play.

Selma, a kind of outlaw club due to the size of the school, does a lot of playing against both Class A and Class AA schools. Little is known about the host club and Coach Phillips has stated that "we haven't scouted them and we haven't had any report of them."

For the first time this year, Greenville will go into a ball game favored to win. The favored role is bestowed upon the G-Men mainly because they are of a higher Class AA league. Predictors give them six points.

'Hardrock' Had To Cut Short His 53-Mile Run

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Burlington's running mailman, 53-year-old Paul (Hardrock) Simpson, had to drop out yesterday after 38 miles of his annual birthday run.

Simpson normally runs one mile for each year of his age. He postponed this year's birthday jaunt for a month because of an arthritic condition. But he added .4 of a mile to the distance because of the delay.

Hardrock dropped out on advice of his trainer, explaining he wasn't in shape.

After 30 miles of the run along a rambling course through Burlington and Graham, Simpson stopped for a rubdown by his trainer, O. D. (Oddie) Wilson. A second rubdown came six miles later. At the 38-mile point his leg muscles tightened and he stopped again for rubdown, made a tentative restart, then paused, conferred with Wilson and quit.

Flanagan Loses To Yama In Ten

CHICAGO (AP) — Del Flanagan, Veteran St. Paul battler, may have a hard time holding his No. 10 rating in the middleweight division.

He lost a 10-round unanimous decision to unranked Yama Bahama of the West Indies in a nationally televised match at Chicago Stadium last night.

Flanagan, who has had 102 bouts and lost only 15, weaved, bobbed, danced and backtracked much of the time. There were no knockdowns.

Most of the action was packed into the sixth round when Bahama caught the circling Flanagan with a fine left hook and followed with a right smash. Flanagan staggered into the ropes but managed to stay on his feet.

Bahama, outweighing his foe 154 to 153 pounds, constantly caught him with jolting lefts as he lunged in to throw a right. Flanagan failed to land a real solid blow all evening.

Tatum's Crew Will Meet Erdelatz 'Model Team'

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Coach Eddie Erdelatz has hopes of building a model football team at Navy this year.

Erdelatz has declined to compare the 1957 Middie squad with great Navy teams of the past. He says he would rather use this outfit as a comparison for teams to come.

Coach Jim Tatum of North Carolina, Navy's opponent next Saturday, is not as reticent. On the basis of movies and scouting reports he calls this year's Navy team "by far the best the Academy has ever had."

What makes Navy go?

Tatum says it is a one-two punch made up of "the best college passing attack in the country" and "a fine running attack to go with it."

Erdelatz, himself, had some high praise at Navy's weekly press conference for passer Tom Forrestal and runners Harry Hurst and Ned Oldham.

He said Forrestal is as good as any college quarterback in the country and "has possibilities of being one of the greatest quarterbacks we've ever had."

Forrestal, a senior from Cleveland, completed 19 of 37 passes in Navy's first two victories and, according to his coach, "is improving every week" in every department of quarterbacking.

Erdelatz said Hurst, a senior halfback from Paulsboro, N.J., has always shown good qualities but is "hitting his stride" now, averaging better than 10 yards per carry.

Tatum, who spoke to the press conference via telephone from Chapel Hill, N.C., was feeling doubly miserable with an attack of flu and the prospect of meeting Navy Saturday.

He said he thought the Tar Heels' surprising 26-0 victory over Clemson last Saturday was a "team victory."

Navy scout Steve Belichick said the veteran North Carolina team appeared much improved after a 7-0 loss to North Carolina State in its opener.

Belichick singled out halfback Jim Schuler as one of several speedy Carolina backs who are dangerous both as break-away runners and passers.

Navy, ranked sixth nationally in this week's Associated Press poll, is expected to find tougher competition at Chapel Hill than it had in posting 46-6 and 33-6 victories over Boston College and William & Mary.

Tatum is considered a crafty defensive coach and his Tar Heels should provide a stern test for Navy's versatile offense.

Offense And Defense Look Good As Bucs Prep For Tilt

Yesterday's East Carolina football drills were sparked by a high spirit and good offensive showing by the Pirates.

Coach Jack Boone concentrated on offense for the most part and spent the last section of the drill on defense. Word from the camp is that the Bucs looked good in both departments.

ECC will journey to a North State Conference tilt with Catawba this Saturday night, still seeking its first win of the year. The Bucs have lost to two Southern Conference teams in their only games thus far. They succumbed to Richmond 40-7 and Davidson 19-6.

In yesterday's drills, Quarterback Ralph Zehring used both a ground game and air game to roll the first team to three consecutive touchdowns against Catawba defenses. Tommy Nash, sophomore halfback from Monroe, skipped 40 yards for the first score. James Speight, sophomore halfback from Greenville, scampered 65 for the second tally. Both boys are Coach Jack Boone's biggest broken-field runners.

A Zehring-to-Beale pass carried for the final touchdown of the afternoon. Zering also used end Tommy Jones for a target during the practice session. Bobby Maynard and Bob Lilley alternated at fullback.

Defensively, the Pirates worked out against Catawba plays. Outstanding were Lynn Barnett, Dick Monds and Kenneth Burgess, linemen.

The Catawba contest will open the lid on the North State conference play for ECC. After that, they will return to Greenville for Homecoming.

Nice Guys, Like Jerry Can Win In Baseball

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Nice guys can win too in baseball.

Take Jerry Coleman, who costarred with Whitey Ford in the Yankees' 3-1 opening victory over Milwaukee yesterday.

They don't come any nicer than the self-effacing ex-Marine bomber pilot from Ridgewood, N.J., via San Jose, Calif.

The handsome 33-year-old second baseman scored one run, drove in another on a perfect squeeze play, and played flawlessly in the field.

It was a surprise that Jerry even got into the opening game. If he wasn't picked by Manager Casey Stengel it would have been his own fault. For who was it who groomed young Bobby Richardson to take over second for the Yankees? None other than Jerry Coleman.

Jerry calls Richardson the "best fielding second baseman in the American League."

Coleman was given the call by Casey for his hitting in the last series with Boston. Jerry, a .268 hitter this year, belted a homer against the Sox.

Although he played second fiddle mostly for Richardson, Coleman feels he's had a good year.

"For the first time in four years I accepted my utility role," said Coleman. "I stopped fighting with myself . . . worrying about winning a regular job. It's the general mental attitude I should have had four years ago."

Coleman's single and Hank Bauer's double brought in the first Yankee run in the fifth inning. In the sixth, with one out, one Yankee run in, and men on first and third, Coleman was the first man to face Ernie Johnson, who relieved starter Warren Spahn. Coleman fouled off the first pitch and then laid down a perfect bunt to the pitcher that scored Yogi Berra from third.

Coleman said his first thought was to hit away but when he saw the Milwaukee infield playing back he called coach Frank Crosetti to alert Berra that he might bunt.

"I noticed, however, that the infield had drawn closer so I forgot about the bunt," said Coleman. "After I fouled off a pitch, Crosetti flashed the bunt sign. With Johnson's pitch, Yogi broke toward the plate. For my purposes it was a perfect pitch. I had no trouble laying down the bunt and Yogi had no trouble scoring."

Big Ten Teams Dominating All

NEW YORK (AP)—For the first time in the 21 years of the NCAA Service Bureau, teams from one conference—the Big Ten—dominated all departments of offense and defense, as well as kicking.

Although Big Ten clubs divided their openers, the NCAA bureau reported today they led the major colleges in seven departments, with Iowa tops in total offense, forward passing, and rushing defense. Michigan State led in rushing offense and total defense, while Ohio State was the forward pass defense leader, and Minnesota excelled in punting.

In total offense, Iowa ran up 648 yards in its 70-14 rout of Utah State, as Michigan State followed with 555 yards and Minnesota was third with 552 yards. Iowa's Big Ten champions connected for 328 yards in the air, while the University of Utah in two games is second, averaging 241.5 yards. Iowa's defense allowed a minus six yards, and Dartmouth was second, permitting New Hampshire but 33 yards.

Michigan State, in defeating Indiana 54-0, averaged 426 yards rushing, and Minnesota was second with 390 yards in the Gophers' 46-7 victory over Washington.

Wisconsin was third at 358 yards, followed by Boston U., 346 and Duke, 343.

Michigan State yielded only 70 yards to Indiana in 48 plays, topping Dartmouth, which permitted the same number of yards in 45 plays.

Second Fair Day For Baseballers

NEW YORK (AP)—Another fair afternoon was forecast today for the second game of the World Series.

The 5 a.m. forecast said temperatures would be in the upper 60's with 15 to 20 miles an hour northwesterly winds.

'Oyster Bowl' Is Center Of Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Transfer or cancellation of the Navy-Georgia Oyster Bowl football game scheduled or Norfolk, Va., Oct. 19 was being discussed today because plans call for segregated seating of the crowd.

Top officials of the Navy meet here with the chairman of the Oyster Bowl program to decide the fate of the game, an annual fixture since 1946.

Prompting the powwow was a request by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored people that the game be canceled unless seats are sold on a non-segregated basis to the Navy and the public alike.

The game is expected to be a sellout. Tickets are being sold in Norfolk on a segregated basis, in accordance with Virginia law.

But Melvin Blassingham, Oyster Bowl program chairman, said last night, "We've never told the Naval Academy officials how they can dispose of their tickets. That's up to them."

Blassingham said if the game were to be canceled, its sponsor, Norfolk Shriners, "stand to lose approximately $35,000." Proceeds of the game go the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Greenville, S.C.

Earlier this year the Army-Tulane football game scheduled for New Orleans was transferred to West Point because of arrangements for segregated seating in New Orleans.

Whitey Ford Says Maglie Big Help

NEW YORK (AP)—The hero of the opening World Series game was Yankee curve-baller Whitey Ford, but he was a hero with a trailer. He said so himself.

The trailer was Sal (The Barber) Maglie, the corner-cutting veteran whose tour of duty has included the outlaw Mexican leagues, New York Giants, Cleveland Indians, Brooklyn Dodgers and now the New York Yankees.

Bought by the Yankees Sept. 1, after the deadline for World Series eligibility, The Barber couldn't be put on the firing line against the Milwaukee Braves.

But some of his wizardry was in every pitch as Ford mowed down the National League champions 3-1 on five hits for his fifth World Series victory.

"I had a pretty good book on the Braves but I think Maglie helped me more than anybody," Ford said.

"Our scouts did a very thorough job. But Maglie knew all there was to know about the Braves because he had faced them so many times. The dope he gave me was invaluable.

"During the past two weeks as we trained for the series we would take outfield sprints together. All this time Maglie would be going over the Braves hitters with me.

"I guess for half an hour to an hour daily we'd bone up on the Milwaukee hitters. When we got through I felt as if I'd been pitching against them for years."

Want O'Malley To Clear Issues

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two city councilmen who have opposed the Brooklyn Dodger transfer proposal say there's a chance they would change their minds if a few questions could be cleared up.

As a result, Mayor Norris Poulson has announced he will invite Dodger President Walter O'Malley or one of his representatives to come to Los Angeles and talk over the deal before next Monday's showdown vote in the council.

Councilmen Patrick D. McGee and Earle D. Baker said their objections to the transaction might be withdrawn if O'Malley or one of his aides came here to clear up several points in a talk with the council.

American Youth Topic Of Study For German

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How can a director fresh from Germany make a picture about today's American youth?

This was asked of Helmut Kautner Germany's most distinguished director and the first to be imported from his country since pre-Hitler days. He is now making "Teach Me How To Cry" with youngsters John Saxon and Sandra Dee.

"The studio (Universal-International) thought it might be better to get someone to direct who wasn't familiar with the American scene," explained Kautner, an intense, blond-haired man in his 40s. "Perhaps I could get some fresh slants on the life here."

He indoctrinated himself fast. He went to Santa Ana, Calif., and spent two full days in the high school, lunching with the students, attending classes and listening.

What did he find out?

"That the students in this country are much freer than they are in Germany," he observed. "In Germany, the spirit of authority still rules. Students must respect the teach—or else. They must sit up straight and pay attention. All this harks back the militarism of Germany.

"Here the attitude toward the teacher is different. The teacher must win the respect of the students. I think that is better. Respect is more valuable when it is earned."

The American youths' attitude toward sex is different, too, he added.

"Here, there is much talk about it," he said, "but little is done. The young people in Europe don't talk about it so much, but they know more about it."

Advice To Avoid Heart Disease

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Paul Dudley White, President Eisenhower's cardiologist, gives this advice on avoiding heart disease:

Don't put on even a pound of overweight after you're 23 or 24.

Get some exercise very day of your life.

Corporation Profits In Quarter Show Decline

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The first corporations to report on third quarter earnings show almost half of them making less this year than last.

Stock market traders note in particular that in many cases where earnings are below former levels total sales have increased, sometimes to record highs. But operating costs have risen faster and higher toward the break even point.

The flood of third quarter earnings reports will come after the books close Monday, but a number of corporations have fiscal years that don't fit the calendar year and their third quarter figures are available. Later and fuller reports may well overturn what is indicated by them.

The first 34 of these early bird reports show 18 companies doing better than a year ago and 16 doing worse. Each year one company operated at a net loss, but it was a different firm in 1956 than in 1957.

Combined, the 34 have net income after taxes of $42,462,683 for their summer operations. In their 1956 third quarter the same 34 had profits of $44,162,323.

In the first three months of this year corporate earnings topped the year ago figure by about 8 per cent—but they were just even with the before tax earnings racked up in the final three months of 1956.

By the April, May and June quarter business profits were riding only 3 per cent above the second quarter of 1956.

A Federal Reserve Board study of 200 large corporations showed that their sales in the 1957 second quarter rose 913 million dollars above the year before figure. Their profits before taxes were up 64 million dollars.

The Department of Commerce, reporting on all corporate earnings before taxes in the first three months of this year, figured it at an annual rate of just under 44 billion dollars. This was down about 1½ billion from the annual rate pace set in the last three months of 1956.

Many businesses look for their most profitable operations to come in the last three months of the year.

Mike Todd Is Spending And Earning Millions

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A lesson in economics by Prof. Mike Todd, delivered on the run, you might say, since that's the way you find him.

It started at his studio office, where he spoke out the window to passing celebrities in between phone calls to France, England, Hawaii and New York.

The matter of economics arose from a printed report that his take from "Around the World in 80 Days" is $460,000 a week.

Absolutely false, he said, bristling. The figure is much too low.

"During a recent week," he declared, "the total gross for the picture was around $1,200,000. Our return from the picture never can go under 60 per cent."

"We are now open in 46 cities," Todd said, "and by Oct. 17 — a convenient date (it's the film's first anniversary)—we'll be open in 25 more. At Christmas time, it will be playing in 100 locations. The picture has closed only in two cities, and then from extraneous circumstances.

"So far the domestic take has been 16 million. On this basis, I think the estimates of a 50 million gross are in error. A hundred million is more like it."

The producer remarked that he was forced into such prosperity. When he needed $900,000 badly to finish the picture, he offered a distributor 16 per cent of the profits for a loan. The firm declined, preferring to be repaid in cash.

When Victor Young died, Todd picked up the rights to the composers music company. The result: the "Around the World" album blossomed forth as a top seller, yielding Todd another $200,000 a year.

Todd has blown many other millions, and I asked him if he could do it again.

"I don't think so," he said as he lathered his face for a shave. "There's so much coming in now that it taxes even my ability to spend."

At this point, Liz awoke from a nap and stumbled into the room in a short nightgown. For the record: Yes, she even looks gorgeous just awakened and with her hair in curlers.

Survey Seeking Industrial Sites

RALEIGH (AP)—A comprehensive survey of the state's 100 counties to turn up possible industrial sites will be undertaken by the Commerce and Industry Division of the Department of Conservation and Development.

Plans for the survey were revealed yesterday by John J. Appleyard, acting head of the division. He told a conference of representatives of utility companies that the study will turn up information usually sought by prospective new industries.

Tax law changes adopted by the last Legislature were cited by Appleyard as an inducement for new industrial plants. He said there is "every indication that the state's new tax allocation laws will pay dividends."

Director William P. Saunders of the C&D department reported that the tax changes have "caused more interest and activity" among industrial prospects than he has seen in the 20 months he has headed the agency.

The utility representatives also heard Gov. Hodges urge them to work together "for the common good of the state as a whole."

Lime Can Boost Value Of Crops

A ton of dolomitic lime applied to an acid soil may increase the acre value of a cotton crop as much at $66, Ladino clover forage yields by as much as $40, and soybean yields by as much as $19, according to S. C. Winchester, Pitt County farm agent.

"Lime may even mean the difference between a good yield of corn or no corn at all," he said. "When you stop to think about the cost of a ton of lime, these figures indicate some very good returns for a small investment. Every farmer in Pitt County knows that he doesn't mind taking $1 out of his pocket and getting $2 to $6 back in a few months. Liming those soils that need lime can do just that and even more.

"Whenever the application of lime improves plant growth to such an extent that responses are obtained, it means that something was limiting plant growth before lime was applied. There are many soil conditions that lime can improve.

"Dolomitic lime furnishes both calcium and magnesium. Both of these elements are essential to plant growth. Lime slows down potash leaching, allowing plants to make better use of potash fertilizers. Lime raises the pH (acidity index) of the soil to a point where phosphorus is more available to plants. Lime reduces the amount of toxic aluminum in the soil solution. Lime speeds up the change of ammonium nitrogen to nitrogen and increases the microbial population in the soil. The microbial population is made up of microscopic organisums which improve soil structure, thus increasing soil aeration and reducing dryness. All these factors make soil conditions more favorable for plant growth."

Winchester urged Pitt County farmers to find out if their soil needs lime by having it tested. This is the only reliable way to determine lime needs, he added, and the application of lime without knowledge of soil needs may do more harm than good.

Soil sample boxes, together with instructions for taking samples, can be obtained from the farm agent's office. These samples will be tested without charge by the State Department of Agriculture, Raleigh, which maintains a special laboratory for this purpose. This laboratory can determine accurately and quickly not only the lime needs of a soil, but also the amount of phosphate, potash and other nutrients required for efficient crop production.

Newspaper Articles Bring About Twelve Indictments

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A series of newspaper articles exposing alleged irregularities in the Jefferson County police force brought indictments against 12 persons—including the writer of the articles—yesterday.

The Jefferson County grand jury indicted the writer's city editor, a former police chief and four suspended officers.

Barry Bingham, president of the Louisville Courier - Journal and Louisville Times, called charges of knowingly receiving stolen property against his two employes fantastic.

The jury indicted writer Hank Massick and city editor John Herchendroeder, accusing them of having in their possession a receipt allegedly stolen from former Police Chief Walter R. Layman.

Photographs of the receipt appeared in the Courier-Journal with the first of a series of articles by Messick, charging Layman "paid off" a robbery-assault victim to avoid possible criminal prosecution against his son Walter R. Layman Jr. The chief resigned the next day.

The jury returned indictments against Layman; his 21-year-old son; former County Detective H. T. Gilmore; Howard A. Burkland, owner of a county subdivision; and Capt. Carlos Johns; Sgt. F. H. Zimmerman; and Patrolman Myron Marrs, all under suspension from the force.

Indicted with the younger Layman on robbery charges arising from the March 13, 1956, assault on Dolph Skaggs, 20, Vine Grove, Ky., were Kenny Sherrard, Bennie Lewis and Billy Glenn.

Marrs' indictment charged him with theft of the receipt which was shown in the newspaper.

Layman was accused of neglect of duty.

The other officers were indicted on charges of neglect of duty, taking bribes and being employed by private concerns.

Burkland was charged with drunken driving and bribing an officer.

Johns' suspension came after state troopers said Burkland was driving while under the influence of alcohol and turned him over to Johns for arrest.

However, the captain said he did not believe Burkland to be drunk and took him to his Louisville hotel rather than to jail.

Gilmore was accused of carrying $109.75 from Layman to Skaggs and Gilmore.

Messick said in a published statement he had been given the receipt by an officer, but returned it to the officer after it was photographed.

Marrs last night admitted taking the receipt, adding: "I figured it would be evidence for removing Chief Layman and starting the exposure of the whole corrupt situation in the 3rd District."

Bingham said the two newsmen had "engaged in no activity except that of being good newspapermen, faithful to community interest."

Bingham said public knowledge of the transaction between Layman and Skaggs was of prime importance because it was "designed to frustrate the normal functioning of the law by those charged with enforging it."

Bingham said if these charges were designed to stop the paper from printing "unsavory facts," it would not work. He said his paper would continue to print matters.

Haitians Fear War's Outbreak

PORT AU PRINCE, HAITI (AP)—Hundreds of Haitians are clamoring for visas to the United States, fearing this Negro republic is at the brink of civil war.

Many even urge publicly that the U.S. Marines return to maintain order. The Marines occupied Haiti from 1915 to 1934.

The ceaseless political warfare that has unseated six governments on this Caribbean island since December has nearly paralyzed the economy.

Tourist hotels are all but deserted. Many businessmen are trying to sell out and leave.

The military junta in power since last June hopes for quick economic aid from the United States. Business leaders see little hope from this quarter, however, in view of the political turbulence.

The presidential election Sept. 22 only made matters worse. Dr. Francois Duvalier won the presidency on the basis of unofficial returns. Former Sen. Louis Dejoie, the defeated candidate, charged the election was a fraud. His backers vow blood will flow once more in the streets if Duvalier takes over the presidency Oct. 14, as expected.

Begin Selecting Spy Case Jurors

NEW YORK (AP)—A panel of 125 prospective jurors was called into federal court in Brooklyn for today's start of the trial of Col. Rudolph Ivanovich Abel, alleged Soviet master spy.

Judge Mortimer W. Byers said he planned to impanel a jury and then await the pleasure of government and defense counsel for the presentation of their opening statements.

The defense sought unsuccessfully yesterday to get a stay of the trial from Judge J. Edward Lumbard of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Manhattan.

James B. Donovan, court-appointed lawyer for Abel, 55-year-old member of the Soviet secret police, argued that he was not ready to present an adequate defense.

Abel, nabbed by the FBI after an extensive investigation, was indicted Aug. 7 on charges of conspiring to transmit U.S. defense secrets to Russia.

Teacher Burned In Gas Explosion

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—A gas explosion wrecked a classroom of a Negro high school here yesterday and burned a teacher.

The students, dismissed shortly before the blast, escaped injury.

Workmen were checking out a natural gas line in the school at the time. School officials had reported the odor of gas earlier.

Reynolds Memorial Hospital said the teacher, Mrs. Clara Gaines, was in satisfactory condition last night with first degree burns on the face, hands and arm and severe shock.

The gas line was located between the classroom ceiling and a chemistry laboratory above. A concrete floor in the laboratory deflected the force of the blast downward.

The explosion collapsed the ceiling, tore loose room fixtures and cracked a wall.

State Tax Take Shows Increase

RALEIGH (AP)—Income and sales tax collections showed gains last month to pace the state's general fund to an increase of $782,737 over September of last year.

Revenue Commissioner James S. Currie reported to Gov. Hodges yesterday that general fund collections totaled $14,933,996 for the month.

For the fiscal year to date, Currie said the general fund collections are running close to estimates used by the Legislature in making appropriations for the current biennium.

Collections have amounted to $45,944,214 for the three months of the present fiscal year. This is a gain of $1,548,280 over the same period last year.

It was Currie's first report on tax collections since he took office on Sept. 16, succeeding Eugene Shaw.

The income tax during September took in $5,752,057, a gain of $864,217 over the same month in 1956. The sales tax total was $6,411,780, up $275,740 from September of last year.

A decline of $38,054 was registered in the highway fund, with total collections of $8,046,922 for the month. However, for the fiscal year to date the highway fund has collected $25,249,619, which is an increase of $548,054 over the same period last year.

Alexander said the convention expects to draw about 300 delegates from throughout the state.

Final Salute To Retiring Secretary Of Defense Charles Wilson Readied

By C. YATES MCDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The armed forces mustered their crack marching units today for a farewell salute to Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, their boss for more than 4½ years, at nearby Ft. Myer, Va.

The 67-year-old defense chief will step out next Wednesday after serving at the Pentagon post longer than any of his predecessors. He will be succeeded by Neil McElroy, Cincinnati soap manufacturer.

At his final news conference yesterday, Wilson—who has been embroiled in a number of controversies stemming mostly from his peppery remarks—told reporters: "I don't hate anybody. If I have any enemies, it is of their choosing, not mine."

Although his 80th — and last — Pentagon news conference was generally in a light-hearted vein, Wilson touched on several matters that bulk large in national importance.

He pronounced the U. S. "safer today than it was when I came to the Pentagon," attributing this to "our better equipment and better military organization."

Wilson indicated that his successor, McElroy, will inherit the job of deciding whether the Army's Jupiter or the Air Force's Thor will be used as this country's 1,500-mile-range ballistic missile. He said the special committee appointed to make a recommendation on this question has asked for more time.

On the question of defense outlays, Wilson said he is ready to "agree with my military advisers that we have about reached the minimum" for such spending.

While saying he thought the upward trend of military spending had been halted, he said such outlays for the first quarter of the current fiscal year are estimated at about 300 million dollars above the amount contemplated to keep within a 38-billion-dollar ceiling.

The defense chief announced a new Air Force order limiting payments to aircraft manufacturers to a strict monthly schedule. The idea is to help hold down defense spending.

Wilson had ordered last August that advance payments on partially completed work for all the services be cut back as one means of reducing the spending rate. He commented yesterday that he did not think the Air Force order would hurt aircraft manufacturers as badly as some feared.

But in Seattle, the Boeing Airplane Co. termed the order "serious," and said it may slow down production. The company makes B52 bombers and KC135 tankers.

Wilson conceded some companies would have to lay off workers.

Wilson sidestepped a question about whether he thought a football game between the U.S. Naval Academy and the University of Georgia should go ahead as scheduled at Norfolk, Va. The question releated to the integration controversy.

A little later, he recalled that he went to school more than 60 years ago with a little Negro boy.

"It didn't hurt me," he said with a grin, and "I don't think it hurt him, but I do remember that he wasn't the dumbest boy in the class."

Mrs. Wilson was on hand at the news conference, and on occasion interjected a remark when the questioning dealt with their personal or social lives.

Wilson said it was hard for him to say what he considered to be his major accomplishment as defense secretary, but he voiced the "hope that I have injected a certain amount of realism in the defense business."

Familiar Status Of 'In The Red'

DAYTON Ohio (AP) — The U.S. attorney's office here, trying to collect as much money as possible from government debtors before the end of fiscal 1956, would up in a familiar government position — in the red.

The chief clerk reported no cash collected while one bus token was doled out to a needy debtor with no means to get home.

Death Takes 3 Of Quintuplets

TOULON, France (AP) — Death during the night took three of the quintuplets born prematurely here yesterday.

A doctor said the chances for survival of the other two babies, Roland and Michele Christofle, were "not too bad."

The 29-year-old mother, Mrs. Camille Christofle, was reported doing well. The husband, 33, is a social security worker. They have been married eight years and the quints were their first born.

The two boys and three girls, born three months prematurely, ranged in weight from 2 to 2.3 pounds.

Tiny Philippe died shortly before midnight. An hour and a half later Helene died. Genevieve died at 6 a.m.

Only two sets of quints are known to have survived more than a few days — the Dionnes of Canada, born in 1934, and the Diligents of Argentina, born in 1943.

The two boys and three girls of the Diligentis family are all flourishing. Four of the five Dionne girls are living. Emilie died three years ago.

Catch Alarmist 'Red-Handed'

DETROIT (AP) — Lawrence W. Mish Jr., 31, was caught red handed turning in a flase firm alarm.

Mish, who was sentenced to 90 days in jail, was seen standing near the fire alarm box when seven pieces of fire equipment roared to the scene.

Battalion Chief James Wright said he spotted no fire but saw Mish trying to wipe red paint off his hands.

The alarm box had just been painted.

'Sorehead' Finds It Was A Bullet

OKLAHOMA CITY — After two months of being a "sorehead" Gale Dean Singleton now knows why—he was shot.

The 10-year-old Oklahoma City boy felt something "like a wasp sting" while playing in his front yard about Aug. 1. He fell to the ground and struck his head on the family pickup truck.

When the wound failed to heal properly the boy's parents took him to a physician, and were told to watch it closely. Weeks passed and the bump over his right eye still didn't go away, so the boy was taken to a physician again yesterday.

The doctor probed the wound, and out popped a .22-caliber slug. Mrs. W. L. Singleton, the boy's mother, said she had no idea who fired the shot, adding that it apparently caused no serious damage.

Algerian Nationalists' Battle Behind French Govm't Troubles

ALGIERS, (AP)—For almost three years — since November 1954 — France has been struggling to stamp out a nationalist rebellion in Algeria apparently led and directed by Arabs who owe most of their military training and education to France.

An accurate death toll after 35 months of sudden terrorist raids, pitched battles and countless lesser engagements is hard to come by. Casualty reports are frequently inaccurate or do not get to the newspapers.

The emotional toll of the long-bloody fight in this torn North African country between Tunisia on the east and Morocco on the west was pointed up this week when the French National Assembly in Paris withheld its support from a premier committed to do something to end it.

Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury proposed a home rule bill for Algeria which looked forward to an eventual grant of partial self-rule.

The proposal aroused Frenchmen more than any other in years. Protests rained in on the National Assembly. A well-organized lobby representing the million and a half Frenchmen who live in Algeria also made itself felt.

The rebels also rejected the plan, because it did not give full independence immediately.

Underlining the French protests was the passionate belief that Algeria is French—and must remain French. The Europeans in Algeria and their partisans in France feared they would be submerged by the territory's nine million Arabs.

The Assembly voted against Bourges-Manoury's proposal, which he made an issue of confidence, and thus turned out France's 23rd postwar government.

In Algeria itself, where some Arabs reportedly are despairing of eventual success against the French, the rebellion has enveloped the entire country. Opinions vary as to how many of the Arabs really support it or how successful it has been.

It has been successful enough, however, to tie down almost a half-million French soldiers, weakening France's position in the NATO defense line and bringing the French treasury to the brink of bankruptcy.

Essentially, France's problem in Algeria is to raise the living standards and political status of the Arab majority and retain or regain their loyalty—and at the same time satisfy the European minority which has lived in Algeria for generations and dominates the country's political life and economy which it chiefly built.

Behind this is a determination to safeguard such vital French interests as the huge, recently discovered Sahara oil reserve in southern Algeria.

One factor which had much to do with the outbreak of the rebellion was the so-called "Law of 1947." It provided for eventual complete integration of Algeria into France, with full and equal rights for Algerians who helped liberate the homeland in World War II.

As a stopgap it set up an Algerian Assembly, a semilegislature of two houses, one for the European or Europeanized population and the other for the Arabs. But the European house held the major powers that the French government itself did not retain and the Arabs finally walked out.

The crawling months of terror and sudden death have hardened emotions on both sides. Neighboring Tunisia and Morocco are independent of France now, and siding with the nationalist rebels. The French are determined not to lose Algeria. Months more of fighting appear in prospect.

Worst Of Diets For Immigrants

HONOLULU (AP) — Japanese immigrants working on sugar plantations here are eating the worst of two possible diets.

Dr. Nils P. Larsen, medical advisor to the Hawaiian Sugar Planters Assn., says the workers continue with the high salt diet know in Japan, and add the high fat diet Americans eat.

The result, Dr. Larsen says, is a high incidence of both high blood pressure from the salt diet and heart trouble from the high fat foods.

Dr. Larsen said there is a lot of high blood pressure in Japan, but little heart trouble. The United States has a lot of heart trouble.

Charge Officer As 'Litterbug'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A "Litterbug" patrolman was ordered to return to "the scene of the crime" here recently.

While cruising on his route, Patrolman Clarence Lester reportedly threw a piece of carbon paper out the cruiser window.

A resident called and complained. The officer was ordered to return to the scene.

Satellite To Be Airless Balloon

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — A balloon without air will be one of the American moons whirling through space.

Lack of air will prevent it from acting like a jet rocket and going off course if it gets punctured by a meteorite.

Blow up an ordinary balloon, let go of it suddenly by its neck, and you get the idea. Air escaping through the open neck exerts equal pressure on the inside and the balloon goes skittering across the room. That's the jet principle.

This can't happen to our space balloon because there won't be any gas pressure inside it which can rush out after a shooting star puncutres it. It won't go pop either.

Details of this hollow balloon moon were described today to a special conference of the International Geophysical Year by William J. O'Sullivan Jr. of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

The balloon will be made of ultrathin plastic film and aluminum foil. Compactly folded, it will be fitted into the top of a moon-launching rocket.

Some 300 miles above the earth, the rocket releases a metal moon for studies of magnetism. It also pushes out the folded balloon and trips a little tank to inflate it with compressed nitrogen gas.

For a while, the balloon may follow closely the heavier but smaller metal moon. Then drag or resistance from even the very thin air in space will slow it down.

Careful observations of how much and how quickly it slows down and spirals to earth will give invaluable clues to the density of air 300 to 1,500 miles out in space.

The Little Lady Meant Business

CLOUDCROFT, N. M. (AP) — A marauding bear has discovered that a little 84-year-old woman means business. When the animal came to the home of Mrs. Cyril Colton to renew raids on the canned goods, Mrs. Colton was ready. The bear limped off to the woods with a load of shotgun pellets in its hide.

"If that danged gun hadn't been so hard to handle," the liecle old lady said, "Id-a had me a bear-skin rug."

Drove Scooter There And Back

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — When Robert A. Shurter Sr. started from Chattanooga Sept. 10 on a motor scooter for Atlantic City, he vowed nothing would prevent him from completing the trip in time for the American Legion convention parade.

Five days later, he arrived in the New Jersey city, one day ahead of schedule. Behind him were 800 miles, three wrecks, a fractured foot, wrenched neck muscles and assorted bruises.

Mothers 'Pool' Sitting Chore

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — A group of mothers in suburban Milwood have solved the babysitting problem by setting up an informal "corporation" to pool their own time.

The corporation issues paper money in two denominations. One calls for a half hour's service and the other for a full hour. Each mother starts out with the same amount of "money."

When a mother needs a babysitter, she calls on any available member of Mothers, Inc., and pays her in the money of the corporation. If she runs short, she stays home long enough to "balance" her accounts. If she accumulates a surplus, she speeds up her demands on fellow members.

MR-8 KEEPS YOU GUARANTEED* SAFE

WON'T ROT HOSE

MADE BY DU PONT FOR TODAY'S COMPLEX ENGINES

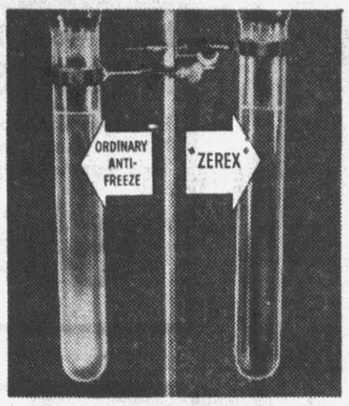

There's no question about the all-around cooling system protection you get with "Zerex," the only permanent type anti-freeze containing MR-8, a product of Du Pont research.

MR-8, Du Pont's special chemical rust inhibitor, gives unequaled protection against acid, rust and corrosion which can cause dangerous overheating and serious engine damage. And, because "Zerex" contains no oil, it won't even rot ordinary rubber radiator hose or contribute to cooling system clogging.

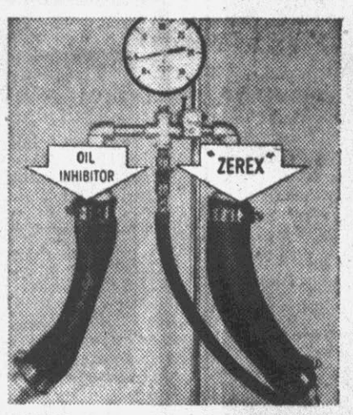

So don't take chances this winter. Get the complete, winter-long protection only "Zerex" with MR-8 gives. It's the premium, permanent type anti-freeze made and guaranteed by Du Pont . . . your best assurance of quality and satisfaction.

DU PONT REG U.S. PAT. OFF.

BETTER THINGS FOR BETTER LIVING . . . THROUGH CHEMISTRY

1. Works in all waters. "Zerex" with MR-8 is compatible with all types of water. Even in hard water the inhibitor stays in perfect solution (tube on right above). Hard water makes the inhibitors used in many anti-freezes precipitate out (tube on left), materially reducing their protective qualities.

2. Will not rot rubber hose. "Zerex" with MR-8 will not rot or soften rubber hose (hose on right) because it contains no oil. Oil is extremely harmful to some radiator hose, softening or rotting it sometimes in one season (hose on left); often the hose may collapse or burst, causing overheating and engine damage.

3. Neutralizes all acids. Sample on left demonstrates how the seven different metals used in modern cooling systems can become corroded when permanent anti-freeze solutions turn acid. But "Zerex" with MR-8 has extra "reserve alkalinity" that gives winter-long protection from cooling system acids.

4. Keeps rust in suspension. "Zerex" with MR-8 keeps cooling systems clean and free-flowing (see above radiator core). Because "Zerex" contains no oil, it does not cause rust to stick to cooling system surfaces and clog radiator passages, which can cause overheating and engine damage.

YOU'RE SAFEST WHEN YOUR SERVICEMAN INSTALLS YOUR ANTI-FREEZE!

To fully protect, anti-freeze must be properly installed. This includes flushing the system, checking for leaks, checking the circulation—jobs for an expert. So, to be doubly safe, have your serviceman install your "Zerex" this fall.

CHAPTER 34

On his way back from the hiding place in the tree, Scobie passed within a yard of where Deborah crouched behind another tree. She turned her head cautiously to peer after him but before he had taken six paces the murky gloom swallowed up his shapeless form. She decided to count to a hundred before venturing a move. Even though she stood in darkness, shrouded in shadow, she felt as if a thousand eyes were intent upon her.

"Ninety-four, ninety-five, ninety-six . . ." To be on the safe side, Deborah counted another hundred before stealing out and thrusting warily through the undergrowth to the tree with the hollow cache high in its trunk.

To reach the hollow she had to pull herself up by the lowermost branch. It cost her a broken fingernail and a bruised shin, but she found and withdrew the wrapped object, maniuplating it gingerly lest she smudge the fingerprints that might be on it. Cradling it in her arms, she hesitated in the shadow of a tree, unwilling to retrace her footsteps past Scobie's shack, but unsure which rough track would lead nearest to her car.

Deborah decided to go to the edge of the woods, then keep to the left, skirting Scobie's piece of land. She dared not show a glimmer of light but must depend on instinct to guide her between bushes and sapling growth and over rocky, uneven ground. Without the slightest warning, Scobie suddenly stepped out of hiding and grabbed her. Uttering a wild scream, she ran in the opposite direction but tripped on a root and sprawled on the earth.

Scobie stood over her, clubbing a stout branch which he brought down savagely at her head. Deborah rolled over frantically and the blow missed her, striking the ground with a thud. One of her clawing hands touched the sacking-wrapped bundle which had dropped when she fell. She grasped it tightly, scrambled to her feet, and ran on again, with Scobie at her heels. She heard him, barely a pace behind, shouting furiously to his dog.

Her courage almost failed. At any instant she must feel his hands on her throat and, this time, there would be no escape.

Off to the right, a bulky form was crashing through the undergrowth at an angle to her flight. It was Scobie's dog. The tangle of brush and trees ahead seemed impenetrable; she was running into a trap.

Scobie let out a triumphant yell. "Get her!" he called to the dog. "Sic her, bring her down!"

And then his triumph turned to bewilderment and chagrin. There was a confusion of sounds behind Deborah; a snarling, a rending of cloth, a thrashing about of heavy bodies, the hoarse cursing a Scobie.

Daring a backward glance, Deborah glimpsed a tangled, heaving mass, half-animal, half-human, on the ground. Instead of springing on the girl, the dog had gripped his master's trousers and brought him down heavily.

There was no time to waste. She found a narrow way through the undergrowth and scurried down it. Somewhere in headling flight she had dropped the flashlight but in her arms she tightly held the object for which she had come.

She gave up all expectation of finding her car. That was too much to hope for. Her one obsession was to come upon an open space where there was nothing to trip her.

When, at last, she reached the cart track that cut through the woods, she was at first to harried to recognize it. She kept on going, across the deeply-rutted grassy path, and was starting into the woods on the other side when a spark of intelligence checked her. Turning back dizzily, she looked right and left. There was no moon. It was too dark to see anything clearly; but the track was like a gray ribbon on a black dress. She turned right and, after a hundred yards or so, came upon the car.

Before giving any thought to herself, she laid carefully on the driving seat the crude bundle for which she had risked so much. She did not unwrap it but, by a gentle touch here and there, identified the object swaddled in sacking. It was the statuette, the bronze youth with which Erica Garvin had fallen in love when she saw it on a counter in a Glasgow shop. Deborah had not the slightest doubt that it would lead police to Erica's murderer.

Oddly, she felt no elation, no triumph. She was too spent and worn for emotion. A cigarette might have been soothing but she was not sure she could light one. Her fingers were trembling too much. Far better to lie back and do nothing until the taxed muscles were more at ease. There was still so much to do when she found the strength to stir again.

It was the thought of Scobie's dog that roused her. In her defense it had turned upon its master. What would Scobie do to it? The thought was dreadful to contemplate. It made her sit up straight, start the car, and back it out onto the road.

A mile or so away she found a telephone box at a crossroads. Dropping coins in the slot, she dialed the number of the local police station. A stolid voice, a little bored, answered her

"There's a man killing a dog," she said jerkily. "You've got to send a car — a patrol car — at once."

"Who is this speaking, ma'am?"

"Never mind that. It's not important. The important thing is, you've got to hurry. It's Scobie. You know who Scobie is, don't you? You know where he lives? I'm afraid he'll kill his dog. Do you understand? He'll kill it."

"If you're making a complaint, ma'am, you'll have to give me your name."

"It's Miss Vail. Deborah Vail. Now will you please hurry?"

The desperate urgency in her tone impressed him. "I'll have a car out there in a matter of minutes, miss. In fact, if you'll hold the wire, I'll start it off now." A few moments later the voice, no longer stolid but brisk and inquisitive, spoke in her ear again. "The car's on its way, miss. And now, there are one or two particulars I must ask you to give me."

"Can't that wait? I'll come to the police station in the morning. Won't that do?" Now that she had done her best for the dog she felt it was urgent to turn over the statuette without delay to someone qualified to deal with it. "Is Inspector Gray there? May I speak to him?"

"Inspector Gray went to Edinburgh this afternoon, miss. We're expecting him back at any moment."

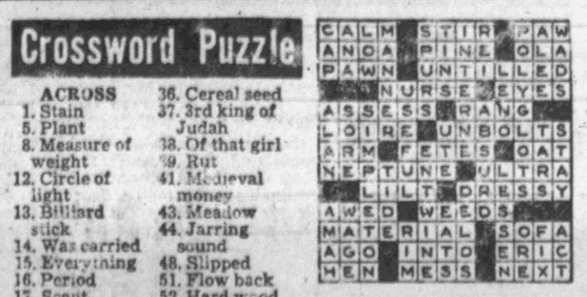

"Oh. Then I'll call him later."

Hanging up, she found more coins and looked up Andrew Garvin's number in the directory. After she had dialed it fruitlessly several times, the operator cut in and told her that service to that line had been discontinued.

Deborah hung up. Coming out of the booth, she climbed into the car and started the engine. Why hadn't she gone straight to Andrew, instead of losing time on the telephone? Between them, they would decide how the piece of evidence could be used most effectively . . .

"Don't be a little fool! You know very well I can't let you walk out of here alive!" Deborah is told as the story reaches a suspenseful climax tomorrow.

Technical Side Of Marilyn M.

STILLWATER, Okla., (AP) — Oklahoma State University speech professor Dr. Paul Heinberg, who does research in phonetics, agrees Marilyn Monroe's voice is "sexy."

"But," adds the prof, "it's not because she is low-pitched. It's because she is breathy."

His research shows Miss Monroe's vocal cords part and come together in a rather regular cycle, producing a simple tone of low intensity.

Miss Monroe, Heinberg said, uses more lung power to speak in her "breathy" voice than do ordinary persons, because a great amount of air is needed to hold the vocal folds open.

He further defined her voice: "It's a pure tone plus a sort of hiss."

Drive-in movie theaters are mushrooming throughout Turkey.

HELICOPTOR LADY

Mrs. Kelley checks all parts of the "eggbeater" at the Norwood, Mass., field before taking ship into the air.

While other women may talk of their skill with needle or baking pan, Mrs. Charlotte Kelley, a good looking 33-year-old matron of Hingham, Mass., can speak of flying helicopters. She's one of the nation's few women 'copter pilots.

Aviation is an old story to Mrs. Kelley, the wife of a Boston attorney and the mother of a four-year-old son, Brian. She started flying regular aircraft in 1945, got her helicopter wings last February. She's the newest member of the "Whirly Girls," a group of women fliers. She rents the helicopter at a nearby airport and makes trips in the area. She can fix the machine if she has to; she is handy with tools.

Mrs. Kelley keeps busy with other matters too. She works in the Massachusetts department of commerce, in charge of women's activities. She does her own housework, leaving her son in charge of her mother while she works.

Mrs. Kelley, the helicopter lady, is pictured here.

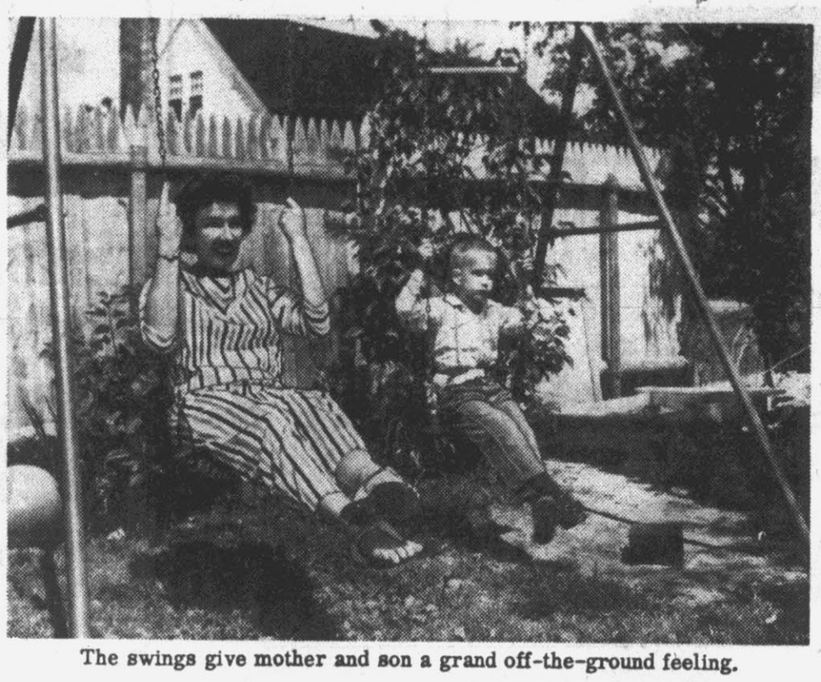

This flight was important to Mrs. Kelley. With pilot Jack Connolly alongside, she flew helicopter last February, winning necessary permit to fly the craft.

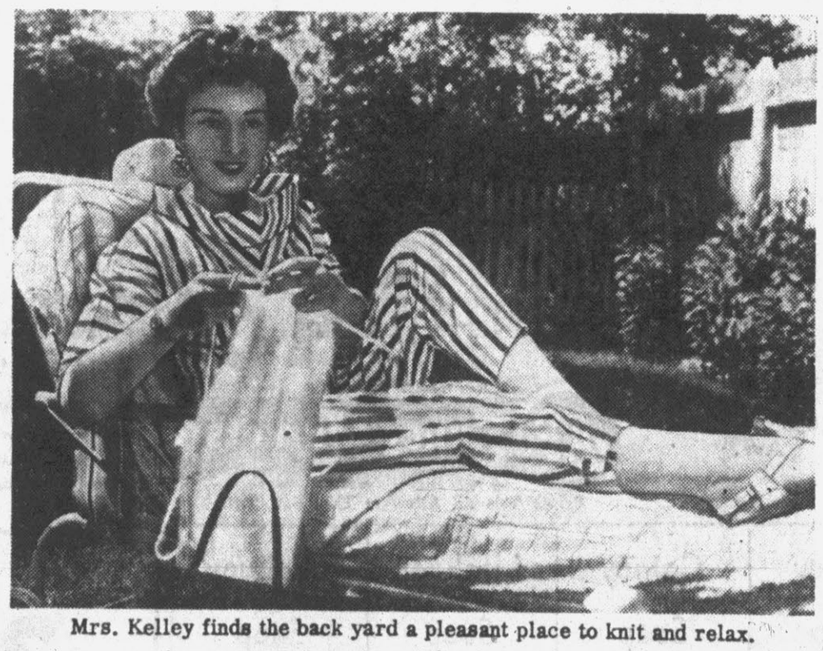

Mrs. Charlotte Kelley, the pretty aviatrix, sits at controls of helicopter at Wiggins Airport, Norwood, Mass.

Never too young to learn. Mrs. Kelley shows her four-year-old son, Brian, how a helicopter is operated.

The swings give mother and son a grand off-the-ground feeling.

Mrs. Kelley finds the back yard a pleasant place to knit and relax.

Charlotte and her husband, Leonard, carry the ingredients for an outdoor barbecue at their home in Hingham, Mass.

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—They are still talking about the big one that got away at Van's Tavern and wondering how it happened. A 50-pound, four-foot dolphin disappeared from its display spot on the tavern wall. In its place someone put a small, sad - looking salt mackerel. The mackerel wasn't treated for display purposes and the management soon got wind of the switch.

NEW YORK (AP) — Aircrafts headed a stock market decline early this afternoon in moderate trading.

Key issues fell from fractions to around 2 points after two days of substantial recovery from close to the 1957 lows.

The aircrafts were depressed by another in the series of economy moves by the administration as put forth in outgoing defense Secretary Wilson's statement.

Oils also ran into selling and there were some sizable losses among steels and motors.

Wilson's disclosure that plans have been practically abandoned to merge two ballistic missiles, Chrysler's Jupiter and Douglas Aircraft's Thor, added a note of uncertainty. Douglas dropped more than 2 points, Chrysler around a point.

United Aircraft also was off around 2 while Boeing and General Dynamics fell more than a point each.

As oils fell back, Gulf Oil took a loss of more than a point and Standard Oil around a point. Royal Dutch was set back by overnight news that the Royal Dutch Shell group is considering a huge new stock offering.

Declines of around a point or more were posted for Westinghouse Electric. Kennecott, Baltimore & Ohio and Zenith.

Phelps Dodge, Air Reduction and American Cyanamid remained on the upside.

Stalin's Picture Is Still Hanging

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — The word may not have gotten around or something, but Joseph Stalin's picture is conspicuously evident on the freighter Alexander Nevsky of the Russian grain fleet which docked here this week.

The picture of the former Soviet dictator, who seems to have fallen from favor of current Russian rulers, broods over the officers' dining saloon.

Tobacco Market Has $56.83 Day

A $56.83 average was posted on the Greenville Tobacco Market Monday, Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee announced.

The market sold 900,960 pounds of tobacco for $511,986.21.

Not including blue card tobacco the market averaged nearly $2 per hundred pounds higher.

Minus the discounted tobacco which goes to Stabilization at 50 per cent of support price the market sold 864,556 pounds for $504,016.41 to average $58.30 according to Whedbee

Whedbee said 36,404 pounds of "blue card" tobacco was placed under loan with Stabilization Monday, since there are no buyers for this discount variety tobacco.

"A large volume of tobacco has been sold in Greenville this season from an area generally east of Greenville which had an extremely dry season," Whedbee said.

"Now, as low quality tobacco produced in drought areas has begun to taper off and some of the better qualities appear, market averages has increased. Light and thin natured tobaccos, especially domestic types, are in strongest demand and prices are at the highest level for the season."

Caterers Failed, Now Face Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A bride is suing a catering firm for $25,000 damages because the cake and other food didn't arrive at her wedding reception.

Mrs. Joanne Gilden's breach-of contract suit, taken under consideration by a judge, says this made her wedding day one of "tears and unhappiness . . . shame and humiliation."

It says 55 guests assembled at Beth Zion Temple last June 1, when she and Raymond Gilden were married, had only champagne and after-dinner mints. Caterers Alfred and Leonard Marks finally were located at a boxing match, the complaint adds.

Claim Witness Was Drinking

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Attorneys cited a novel reason for dry Oklahoma in asking a Federal District Court here to dismiss 10 counts of a perjury indictment filed Sept. 13 by a federal grand jury against their client.

They contended that Delbert Mayberry, 40, Depew, Okla., imbibed half a pint of liquor on a doctor's orders to relieve pain caused by a disease in his left leg. The motion for dismissal said this action resulted in Mayberry's "mental faculties being somewhat affected" when he appeared before the jury.

Mayberry is scheduled to go on trial next Thursday. No date was set for hearing on the motion.
