U.S. And Russia Exchange Veiled Threats, Warnings

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia confronted each other menacingly over the Middle East today, with each power warning the other against plunging the area into war.

engulf much of the world, the U.S. statement asserted: "Mr. Khrushchev is himself reported to have observed that it is dangerous in these times to assume that hostilities, once begun, will remain confined to a particular locality. That truth should be prayerfully and constantly contemplated by every responsible official of every country."

get out of hand, the situation could rapidly become worse. Much also obviously depends on Russia's real intentions with respect to the Turkish-Syrian tension. One major consideration, perhaps the dominant one, in the top-level decision to issue last night's Washington declaration was that United States intentions should be made clear to the Soviet government in order to minimize the danger of a miscalculation there.

The United States struck back last night with a State Department declaration that this country intends to stand by its obligations to Turkey under the North Atlantic Treaty and is also "determined to carry out" its expressed policy of defending the Middle East against international communism.

The American statement is understood to have been cleared with President Eisenhower and to have been checked with some, at least, of the other members of the 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance. Exactly how serious the situation is was not entirely clear here. Much appeared to depend on the outcome of events in the Middle East itself, particularly developments along the tense border between Turkey and Syria.

When the guns begin to fire, the rockets can begin flying and then it will be too late to think about it. . . . Turkey would not last one day in case of war." In the interview, Khrushchev accused Secretary of State Dulles of trying to push Turkey to attack Syria.

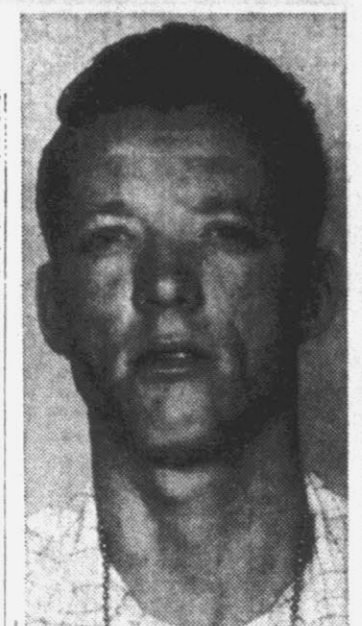

Local Man Is Charged In Attack On Young Mother

DET. R. T. ROGERSON, CHIEF S. G. GIBBS . . . examine blood-stained trousers.

By EVERETTE PARKER Reflector Staff Writer A young Greenville man was charged early this afternoon with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill in connection with an attack on Mrs. Myrtle Faye Walls here Wednesday night.

The baby-faced man had a cut on his left leg below the knee that required three stitches. He reportedly told officers he didn't know how he had been cut.

JAMES EARL FORREST . . . charged in attack

James Earl Forrest, a slender 27-year-old married man, quietly entered Police Chief S. G. Gibbs' office today and told the chief that it was possible he was Mrs. Walls' assailant.

Forrest told the Police he had read an account of Wednesday night's attack in the newspaper and figured it might be him since he was in that vicinity at the time the attack occurred.

An unidentified man stopped her. She told officers she was forced at knifepoint into the yard where the slenderly built man threw her to the ground and tried to commit an unnatural act. During the struggle the young mother received three knife wounds on the chest and another cut on her left leg.

Officers quoted him as saying he had been drinking rather heavily on Wednesday afternoon and remembered very little that transpired Wednesday night. He did admit passing someone on Evans St. and speaking about the time Miss Clarice Galloway told officers an unidentified man approached her.

He was quoted as saying, "If I did attack, I don't remember it but I want to straighten the thing out." A number of places he said he remembered being corresponded to evidence uncovered by previous investigation, Chief Gibbs stated.

A few minutes later she was found at the backdoor of the Savage residence screaming for help.

This incident occurred less than three blocks from the scene of the attack on Mrs. Walls a short time later.

Forrest related that he had started drinking around 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. He said he remembered going to the campus of East Carolina College for no particular reason but could not account for his actions part of the night.

A pair of light grey pants said to belong to Forrest were brought from his residence on 902 W. Fifth St. to the Police Station. The left leg of the pants had a large spot of blood below the knee.

Mrs. Walls was attacked and stabbed four times in the backyard of Frank Savage's residence on Eighth St. shortly after 10 p.m. The fence-enclosed yard opened onto Cotanche St. where the woman said she was walking when

Scattered Pattern For Flu

Some Asian, Some Ordinary, But Many Areas Dealt Stiff Blows

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Flu, like a broken-field runner, zigzagged across the United States today, trampling hard over some communities, dodging others, but generally dealing stiff blows. Whether it was mostly Asian flu, or combined with other varieties, was uncertain. But either way, a rampage of coughs, aches, fevers and sniffles was on. Vaccine defenses were termed by some too late or too little.

The U.S. Public Health Service said estimates of Asian flu cases alone had passed the million mark, with heaviest occurrence in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arizona and New York City.

An Associated Press survey showed most other states also have been seriously hit at some points. Persons stricken usually recover in a few days, but at least 15 deaths this month have been attributed to flu complications.

Many schools were closed. Dances and social affairs were called off. Athletic schedules crumbled. Football games were postponed or canceled by scores of high schools, and some colleges. Of a 26-man McAlester, Okla., high school team, 23 were out with flu.

At many educational institutions, infirmaries were crowded or overflowing. A former men's dormitory at Stanford University in California was converted into a temporary convalescent ward. The infection also struck in factories and industries — even prisons. In the State Reformatory for Males at Hagerstown, Md., 126 prisoners — more than a tenth of the inmates — were down with flu. Visitors were barred.

Some hospitals also restricted visiting. Others refused to admit Asian flu cases, due to its highly contagious nature. Doctors and nurses worked overtime.

In a state home for retarded children at Medical Lake, Wash., staff physicians — along with a third of their patients — were ill with flu, and giving medical orders from bed. Nurses were put on double shifts.

The influenza sweep seemed to follow no definite geographical pattern, striking hard at some cities with others nearby scarcely hit, then jumping full force to distant areas.

The Public Health Service reported localized epidemics in areas of Utah, Wyoming, California, Texas, South Carolina and Florida with sporadic occurrences in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Missouri, Indiana, Oregon, South Dakota, North Carolina and Georgia.

Since identifying Asian flu requires elaborate laboratory procedures, the majority of the cases were not confirmed as being this type. But the scattered analyses showed the Asian disease was widespread.

Its presence was revealed in most areas of heavy incidence. Although few city or state health departments felt that spread of the ailment had reached epidemic proportions, many reported a "serious outbreak" — far surpassing the normal rate of influenza.

While the peak of infection was reported abating in some areas, it was rising in others. The health service said only Louisiana seemed to be past the worst, but localized outbreaks were still occurring there.

Lack of government supervision over distribution of Asian flu vaccine drew complaints from some health officers, who charged drug manufacturers were not giving sufficient priorities to essential needs.

In New York City, where an officially described "mild epidemic" is expected to attack a million city dwellers before it runs its course, doctors charged black-marketing, bootlegging and favoritism in vaccine handling.

"Black marketers are asking three times as much for the vaccine as it brings in the legitimate market," said Dr. William L. Wheeler Jr.

Leaf Crop Of 960 Million Pounds Forecast In 1958

WASHINGTON (AP)—A flu-cured 1958 crop of 960 million pounds is forecast for next year, 33 per cent below last year's production and 26 per cent below the 1946-56 average and the lowest average since 1943.

The Agriculture Department said yesterday the current estimate is up about 3 per cent from last month's estimate. Marketings through September indicate a substantially heavier crop than was expected earlier in the season, particularly in North Carolina.

The estimate for all types of tobacco was 1,646,000,000 pounds, up slightly from the Sept. 1 estimate but 25 per cent below last year's crop and the smallest estimate since 1943.

Burley production was forecast at 481 million pounds, off about seven million from last month's estimate and well below last year's crop of 506 million pounds. Most of the seven million pound drop in estimates since Sept. 1, resulted from high humidity in Kentucky and Tennessee, the two leading burley states.

Here is the breakdown of burley production estimates by states with last year's production shown in parentheses: Kentucky 317,750,000 pounds (335,340,000); Tennessee 91,500,000 (98,820,000); North Carolina 19,200,000 (17,300,000); West Virginia, 3,480,000 (3,900,000); Virginia 19,950,000 (19,950,000); Missouri 3,640,000 (3,650,000); Indiana, 11,385,000 (11,828,000); Ohio 13,800,000 (15,065,000).

The flu-cured production estimate by states, with last year's production shown in parentheses: Type 11, Virginia 93,800,000 (137,280,000); North Carolina 221,000,000 (346,175,000); Type 12, Eastern North Carolina Belt, 330,925,000 (496,320,000); Type 13, North Carolina 86,625,000 (119,000,000); South Carolina 128,700,000 (173,400,000); Type 14, Georgia, 81,900,000 (128,040,000); Florida 16,240,000 (21,682,000); Alabama 420,000 (641,000).

By DION HENDERSON MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Braves brought the world championship of baseball home last night. "I thought," said one hero whom even five years in the home of the Braves had left unprepared to face 75,000 roaring voices, "that you had to die in battle to get this kind of a welcome."

Stunning Salute By Brave Fans

But Valhalla was never like this. Said homecoming chairman Ben Barkin, "I hate to think what would have happened if we'd had a chance to really plan this celebration."

Okay Preliminary Plans For Dedicating School

By JIMMY ELLIS Reflector Staff Writer Preliminary plans for formal dedication of Greenville's new Junius H. Rose Senior High School were approved last night by the Board of Education of Greenville City Schools.

Superintendent J. H. Rose, for whom the school is named, was given authority to proceed with the plans which have set a tentative date of November 14 for the dedication. Rose was directed to set up a committee composed of representatives of the school board, the high school Parent-Teacher Association, the high school faculty and the school's student government association, and to make final plans for the dedication.

proved, will be identical to existing facilities at the school. Enrollment In his monthly report to the board, the superintendent told board members that enrollment in all white and Negro schools in the city totals 4,557 students. The breakdown shows 3,731 white students and 1,826 Negro students.

Last night's action included a provision that the formal ceremonies would be held in the gymnasium of the school. The board also gave its approval to preliminary plans for a new wing at Elmhurst School and directed Rose to have further talks with architects regarding the proposed construction.

Under consideration by the board is a proposal to add four regular classrooms and space for a new library at the school. The new wing, when and if it is approved, will be identical to existing facilities at the school.

Special Education Changes in the system's special education program were also spelled out by the superintendent. He explained that 1957-1958 plans provide for one room of special education students in Wahl-Coates School and two rooms at the junior high school.

Among the eighth grade block instruction provisions, according to the superintendent, is one double period during which 37

Special Education Classes, which were formerly held in a temporary building on the high school site, provide for instruction of students whose IQ's range from 50 to 75.

Special education for trainable mentally retarded children, those with IQ's ranging from 20 to 50, has proved to be "a great success," Rose told the board. The special program is being conducted at Third Street School with 14 students enrolled in the class.

Other points discussed by Rose in his report included expansion of the music program, professional improvement programs for teachers, a proposal for construction of a new wing at C. M. Eppes School, and possibilities of submitting a supplementary tax to voters.

The expanded music program, Rose said, includes orchestra instruction in Wahl-Coates School and the junior high school. Classes are being conducted in the old band room at the junior high school.

Professional improvement programs for teachers includes a continuation of a study to improve teaching of reading, which Rose said is beginning to show results. Elementary teachers are engaged in a workshop study of elementary science under leadership of members of East Carolina College.

Rose suggested to the board that it should begin to consider preliminary plans for a new wing at Eppes School. The wing, he added, should include rooms for Home Economics, Art, Music, Science, and Business or Commercial subjects.

The supplementary tax question, the superintendent said, is the one approved by the board last year and which had to be called off because of a technicality. No action was taken by the board which left the question open for further study.

Board members present at the meeting last night were J. B. James, J. M. Taft, W. L. Allen, J. Knott Proctor and Dr. E. B. Aycock.

Gen. Taylor Is Blamed For Riot Training Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, the Army chief of staff, issued last month's order — rescinded by Brucker the next day — for special troop training to deal with situations of the Little Rock, Ark., type.

Brucker said Taylor's order instructed that four regular divisions form special task groups of 1,000 to 1,200 men.

Brucker made the disclosures in a letter to Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, who had asked for a full explanation.

Brucker said Taylor's order instructed that four regular divisions form special task groups of 1,000 to 1,200 men.

The Pentagon let out word next day of the general nature of the order and there was an uproar from Congress members. Brucker ordered the recall of the directive. In his letter to Russell, Brucker said he rescinded the order because it "might be subject to misinterpretation."

Brucker said the written action, addressed to the commanding general of the Continental Army Command at Ft. Monroe, Va., followed a telephone conversation between the chief of staff and the Continental commander.

Taylor instructed Gen. Willard G. Wyman, Continental Army commander, to organize task forces 1,000 to 1,200 strong in the 1st Infantry Division at Ft. Riley, Kan., the 1st Armored Division at Ft. Polk, La., the 82nd Airborne Division at Ft. Bragg, N. C., and the 3rd Infantry Division, Ft. Benning, Ga.

In addition, the chief of staff told the Continental Army commander to determine the availability of military police units for "this type duty."

The Continental commander was also instructed to "initiate promptly suitable training programs" for military activity in "civil disturbances" and "to prepare plans for both air and motor movement . . . as a precautionary measure in event troops are required in situations similar to that now current in Little Rock."

First news reports of such an order came from informal discussions by reporters with Army officers at the Pentagon.

In his letter to Russell, Brucker referred to what he termed "an inaccurate press report" that Army units "had been alerted to enforce antisegregation measures throughout the South."

Brucker said there was "no alert directive, as that term is understood in military terminology."

Warehouseman's Case Under Way In District Court

RALEIGH (AP)—More testimony was heard today in U.S. Eastern District Court on a suit brought by a tobacco warehouse operator against the Commodity Credit Corp.

NAACP Urges Doubling Negro Voter Registration In State

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Calls to double Negro voter registration and for churches to cooperate in fostering school integration were before the state convention of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) here today.

The suit seeks a declaration of rights to prevent the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture from withholding support to leaf warehouses owned or operated by D. Woodrow Worthington of Winterville.

The group's 14th annual convention, which opened last night with a panel discussion by several Negro ministers and a report of its president, tonight will hear an address by Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the national association.

Worthington's attorneys contended as the case got underway yesterday that Worthington should not be blacklisted for life in the only profession that he knows—that of operating tobacco warehouses. Worthington already has paid fines of $30,000 and $10,000 for his violations, they said.

Thurgood Marshall, NAACP general counsel who steered the organization's school integration case through the U.S. Supreme Court, will speak at a mass, closed rally Sunday morning.

Other events for the day include a coffee hour at 9 a.m. in the Mamie E. Jenkins Faculty-Alumni House, a buffet luncheon in the East Dining Hall at 12:15 open house in the College Union, Wright Building, immediately after the game; and a series of dinners by college and alumni groups.

Background for the festivities will be college buildings, colorfully decorated for the weekend.

Today's program. There also were a number of committee reports and speeches, all leading up to Wilkins' talk tonight.

Earlier, at a conference of ministers in connection with the convention, the delegates were told that integration is a necessary part of the "great program of religion."

The Rev. J. E. McMillan, pastor of a group of Negro churches near Sanford, told the ministers' conference that if the Christian gospel is to be preached in its entirety, then the question of human relations cannot be disregarded or left out. And if human relations are to be considered in the light of Christian teachings, then integration is a necessary part of the "great program of religion."

Other panelists urged ministers to work for better race relations in their communities and to support equal rights for all as a basic tenet of Christianity.

One speaker, Dr. Edward J. Odom of New York City, NAACP national church secretary, urged churches to identify themselves with the Negro's struggle for "status" which is guaranteed by the constitution and included in the "great promise of religion."

Another speaker, Dr. J. B. Aycock, said he had never seen politicians "get religion so quickly and get to believing so much in brotherhood as when they know you've got that vote that elects them or beats them."

Functions Of UNICEF Told To Book Club

The Semi-Cent Book Club met in the home of Mrs. W. E. Hudson on Eastern Street last Tuesday evening.

A short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. H. W. Douglas, president, and Mrs. J. D. Higgins was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Hudson introduced Mrs. Ann Dunn Ross who presented the program. During the summer Mrs. Ross worked in the office of the U. S. Committee for UNICEF selling greeting cards and Hi Neighbor Kits for the benefit of UNICEF in the United Nations Building. She told of some of her experiences and explained the function of UNICEF.

The UNICEF fund depends entirely on contributions and the sale of greeting cards. She showed the members some of these cards which bear the work of some of the world's most famous artists who donate their time and talents to this project. In addition to this, 81 countries contribute more than 17.5 million dollars.

Mrs. Ross stated, "UNICEF Trick or Treat is making Halloween a day of sharing instead of scaring. The only TRICK is to TREAT the hungry and sick children of the world. Last year more than one and a half million American youngsters in some 7,500 communities joined in making a gift of three-quarters of a million dollars to UNICEF—a gift to be used for better health for all the world's children."

Mrs. Hudson served coffee and passed a hostess tray. Books were then exchanged, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Parent Understands Love At 16

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M. D.

ALICE was in her room dressing to go out.

"What, out again tonight?" asked Mother. "Is it Bob?"

"Of course, who else do you suppose I'd be going with."

"Well, I wouldn't know. Thought maybe you'd like a change of scene."

"Mother, there are times I think you have never lived. Bob is absolutely the most marvelous boy. He is very intelligent, he just knows everything and he's so much fun. Someday I'm going to marry him."

"Oh are you in love with him?"

"Yes, I am, and there is nothing you can do to stop me."

"Alice, dearie, don't be so belligerent. I think being in love is the most wonderful feeling in this world. I'm glad you're in love."

"Oh, Mommie you're wonderful! And Alice threw her arms around her mother's neck. A minute before she'd looked as though she could have punched her.

Sense of Humor

Alice and her mother had always been on good terms but lately Mrs. Woodward did feel Alice was certainly difficult. Her moods swung from elation to despair over what seemed the most trivial of events. However, Mrs. Woodward made a lot of allowances, and maintained her sense of humor.

Now the girl was in love, thought Mrs. Woodward. That was all right. Being loved is a proof to a girl that she's attractive and loving in return is evidence of being grown-up. Both are vitally needed feelings for a young fledgling.

Collectively, They Spell Progress

Progress of individual communities within a county reflects more often than not the progress which is being made by the county as a whole.

Almost without exception the municipalities of Pitt County have underway programs which will improve their communities.

Wednesday's Reflector carried front-page articles concerning four projects in four of Pitt's municipalities which, upon completion, will make those communities better places in which to live.

Grimesland is formulating plans to provide the town and surrounding rural area with fire protection which the community has never had.

In Ayden the contract has been tentatively let for construction of a new sewer system to replace the outmoded and inadequate facility the town now has.

May Be Host To Big Conventions

By LYNN NISBET

BIG MEETINGS — North Carolina is "in line" to play host to two or three national conventions within the next few years.

The Board of Conservation and Development at its Mid Plains session this week, voted to conditionally support the Asheville invitation for the NATO convention.

Information is the NATO would like to come here, because for the past three years the State advertising division has won first or second awards for the best travel promotion job done by any agency.

GOVERNORS — Governor Hodges told the board he doubted that the National Governors Conference would consider North Carolina for some time.

COST — The host at any party is expected to pick up the tab for most of the cost.

The major improvement has been made possible by the fact that voters of Ayden some months ago approved a $275,000 bond issue for the needed project.

At the meeting of the Winterville town commissioners Tuesday evening plans were formulated to extend light facilities in the western section of the town to fill a need of the people of that area.

In Farmville the town board has under consideration improvement of three blocks of the town's street and re-routing truck traffic through Farmville.

Such situations are not unusual. Projects of various kinds are constantly going on in Pitt County's various municipalities. Some are major projects; others appear routine.

Improvement of the communities in turn improves the county as a whole and provides for a better life for all its people.

Baseball Fans Have No Grounds To Complain

It's back to work, back to routine now that the fabulous Milwaukee Braves have toppled the long-reigning Yankees to claim the title of World Champions of baseball.

The early afternoon huddle around the television set will no longer be a familiar sight across the country.

Street corner conversation will turn from speculation on what will happen to a play-by-play review of the series which went the distance with the Braves showing they had the extra edge to beat the Yankees in their own back yard.

There was no Don Larsen no-hitter this year to capture the American sports fans, but Lou Burdette will long be remembered as the man who stopped the Yankees three games of the series and shut them out twice in the battle for the big money.

The fans have no grounds for complaints that they didn't get their money's worth out of this exciting World Series.

Small Business Myth Deflated

By ELMER ROESSNER

Let's throw a few barbed doubts at the small business myth today.

It runs something like this: The 4,000,000 small businesses in the United States are operated by hard-working, honest businessmen and their wives, working 60 or more hours a week, trying to give full value and service despite heartless competition by giants, pound-of-flesh tactics by bankers, oppressive taxation and ripped tactics by unions and racketeers.

Both the Democratic and Republican parties have high-powered propaganda sections for their particular partisan tenets. Numerous groups, such as the big business and labor organizations — AMA, AFL-CIO, et al — have well financed publicity programs for their purposes.

That description may fit in perhaps a million cases. It may be partially applicable in another million. But it's false or almost so in the other two million.

Small business includes a wide assortment of enterprises. At one end of the scale are one-man service businesses.

Now we come to a touchy aspect; and your reporter may not get home alive tonight. Small businessmen are just as honest as big businessmen. Perhaps even more so.

On the other end of the scale are some pretty large enterprises. An appliance or furniture factory employing a few thousand men is still small in comparison to General Electric or Kroehler.

Therefore, much of what we term small business is neither small nor business.

Of those enterprises in between, many fit the popular concept of small business and most of them are run by honest, striving men who live in fear of the Lord.

Many of these enterprises are not economical. By their very nature, they are inefficient. Some enterprisers try to write their own letters, keep their own accounts and do other things that big business accomplishes at less cost by using experts. An untrained owner trying to keep their own accounts and do other things that big business accomplishes at less cost by using experts.

Small businesses are inefficient in other ways. They cannot buy power, machinery or technical guidance at economical rates. A government study recently disclosed this example: Large poultry slaughtering plants can increase profits by utilizing feather, offal and other by-products.

Small businessmen give them the most trouble. Most of the Federal Trade Commission citations are aimed at small businessmen. Most of the bankruptcies and management frauds happen to small business. In fact, if someone launches a business swindle, he usually keeps it small to attract less attention.

Revenue men will tell you small businessmen give them the most trouble. Most of the Federal Trade Commission citations are aimed at small businessmen.

But don't get sentimental about it. Don't think of small business men as little white knights charging against the fortress of monopoly.

But the captain knew how much the "owners had always trusted him. He felt that he could not let them down without a struggle.

Gloom, Gloom, Gloom

My poor heart, little and black as it may be, has been ripped out, trampled and left gapping by the wayside.

The culprits are the Milwaukee Braves. They clobbered My Yankees yesterday to win the World Series.

Milwaukee's victory was fair, square and honest. The purity of it, however, does little to offset the pain and suffering that comes when you know an old

Other Editors Saying --- More Industry For N. C.

(Rocky Mount Telegram) North Carolina's campaign to attract new industry to the state apparently is paying off handsomely.

Tar Heels heard the encouraging news in a report presented to the Conservation and Development Board in its annual fall meeting. Investments in new plants and plant expansions in North Carolina during the three-month period ending Oct. 1 totaled more than 95 and a half million dollars.

The new investments and expansion will provide employment for 4,896 persons and an annual payroll of $16,576,000. This is a record the state can well be proud of.

It is to be hoped more will locate in our own area and it is interesting to note that city and county leaders are girding for action.

What is the basic reason for the industrial expansion in North Carolina? John J. Appleyard, acting chief development engineer for the Commerce and Industry Division of the C and D, believes the change made by the 1957 Legislature in the State's income tax allocation formula had a great impact on North Carolina's industrial development program.

Party-Giving Expenses Sky-High

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON Queen Elizabeth's forthcoming visit to Washington has wrung from official and unofficial hostesses the unhappy admission that the cost of entertaining both royal and democratic (small "d") guests have hit almost impossible peaks under Eisenhower inflation.

It is estimated that her Britannic Majesty's few days at the Capital and Williamsburg, Va., will set back the expense accounts of the White House, the British Embassy and private hosts and hostesses by more than $100,000.

Embassy Row along Massachusetts Avenue and the Avenue of the Presidents (Sixteenth Street) will stage brilliant celebrations in her honor, even though she will not be on hand personally.

and 'dear friend has had his teeth kicked in.

There are additional reasons for pain and suffering, beyond the normal ones. First of all, I have been cast into a position of standing almost alone by rooting for the Yankees.

No one, it seems, wanted to see them win over the former busy league town that has suddenly become the toast of all baseball.

While this is one basic reason, there are several others that must also be included. One is the abundance of natural resources for state offers.

One of the prime reasons some textile firms pulled up and left the North is the labor situation. Industrialists claim organized labor priced themselves out of existence.

She completely ignored my careful explanations about why I root for the Yankees, and why she should do the same.

I should have realized, however, that things would not be so simple in her case. I guess I'll have to start working on the Wee Urchin to make certain the Yankees and the Democratic Party have a majority in our house.

It is not, as certain feminine society columnists mischievously charge, because they are too busy, too businesslike, too snobbish, less friendly, less amiable and less sociable.

The cheaper vodka, mixed with orange and tomato juices, has taken an honored place alongside bourbon. Scotch is still the most popular drink in diplomatic circles.

When Pearl Harbor introduced rationing, shortages and dedication to winning the war, social life at Washington was an immediate casualty.

Today's high costs have wrought many changes in the kinds of dishes and beverages served by Washington socialites, diplomats and political households.

My friends in the office, notably one Everette Parker, deserted the Bronx Bombers to become sentimental hopefuls in the Milwaukee Camp.

As a second point, I had to endure the unusual experience of losing a friendly wager by supporting baseball's biggest winner. (That was eased, somewhat, by settling accounts with a handful of pennies cast carelessly in the direction of the individual on the other end of the wager.)

The third point, and perhaps the most painful, was learning that my own family has turned against me.

She is showing signs of breaking away from the calm guidance and counsel I have tried to offer her for these past five years.

I don't suppose I should have been surprised by her change of heart because she had done it before. (She once pulled for the Dodgers in a series because Pee-Wee Reese was "cute.")

I should have realized, however, that things would not be so simple in her case.

He, bless his heart, still thinks the Yankees are wonderful.

Cause For Panic?

By ED CREAGH

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's attitude toward the Soviet satellite could be summed up in two words: So what?

Many people — scientists, military men and the rest of us — have reacted somewhat differently. Some are alarmed, others are embarrassed that the Russians got there first, most are fascinated at the very least.

But not the President. He has asked himself: What did the Russians really accomplish?

And he gave his answer at a news conference: "Apparently, from what they say, they have put one small ball in the air."

Eisenhower showed less concern about this than he has seen to show over the progress of one small ball from the fairway to the green.

No sarcasm is intended. The President was plainly aware of the worldwide uproar over the miniature moon. He came prepared with a long statement on the subject—something he rarely does.

But the essence of his words was: What's everybody so excited about? We could have done it ourselves if we had wanted to. And what does it really amount to, after all?

Others may say—and are saying — that the Russians have scored a historic triumph. There is all manner of speculation about what happens next: Do the Russians zoom ahead in missile development? Do they beat us to the moon? One British rocket expert, Arthur C. Clarke, goes so far as to say the United States became a second-class power when the Russians shot their small ball into space.

Eisenhower has a word for this sort of talk: hysteria.

He said he realized all along that the Russians would get "a great psychological advantage in world politics" if they were first with the satellite. But he said this country was concerned with orderly scientific research, not with propaganda, and "there didn't seem to be a reason for just trying to grow hysterical" about beating the Russians.

Nobody spoke up in favor of hysteria. Hardly anybody ever does. Nobody asked, either, why this country wasn't concerned with "psychological advantage" when it spends millions each year trying to convince the rest of the world that Americans are smarter and nicer than Russians.

Is the President satisfied with U.S. progress in missile development? He said he naturally wishes we were farther along, but is "not dissatisfied" with what's been done to date.

Is the country now going to put more money and effort into missile development? Eisenhower said the scientists have given all the support they asked for and "that is all I can do." His new secretary of defense, Neil H. McElroy, said a little later that serious consideration is being given to a missile speed-up. McElroy said no action has been taken yet.

Whether the President is being wisely calm or foolishly complacent is a question that only history can answer, not that plenty of people won't try to guess the answer in the meantime.

Some will argue that to discuss the satellite as "one small ball in the air" is like calling the first controlled fusion reaction a little brush fire.

Others will contend that the President isn't being taken in by any Soviet publicity stunt even if some of his critics are. And, as the President suggests, that it's better to proceed with an orderly military-scientific research program than to go beeping off into space.

Anybody who happens to get hit by a guided missile in the course of this great debate may be excused for going a little hysterical.

Two extremely popular dishes soared in price. Whereas cooked and prepared shrimp cost only 50 cents a pound in Roosevelt years, it is now from $2 to $3 a pound. Open-faced roast beef sandwiches, cut into three finger-size slices, have advanced from 60 to 75 cents.

DINNERS DOUBLED IN COST A so-so dinner that once cost $5 a head now amounts to at least $9.50 for each guest. Only one item of entertainment has not increased in price. A $40 electric fountain that spouts champagne still rents for $16 for an afternoon or evening. The diplomats dote on them.

In view of the bill for entertaining the royal and nonroyal guests, with their gentlemen and ladies in waiting, Washington hosts and hostesses may be eating goulash for the rest of the winter social season. And they won't be paying $28 a gallon for it!

Since October 1, a waiter is paid $11 for an evening (three hours generally), with $3 an hour

Moral Standards in a Church

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buscher

Scripture—I Corinthians 5-6; 13.

Paul writes to the Corinthians, telling them not to associate with evil companions... Paul pleads with the Corinthians not to go to the law courts against an offender... Even if a man gave all his goods to feed the poor, or suffered martyrdom, but had not love, it would profit him nothing. Love, said Paul, suffers long and is kind, is not envious nor easily provoked, thinketh no evil, rejoices in truth.

MEMORY VERSE—Ephesians 4:15.

Moral Standards in a Church

PAUL PLEADS FOR PURITY OF LIFE, AND LOVE

Scripture—I Corinthians 5-6; 13.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. IN THIS lesson Paul is still concerned with the Church at Corinth, many of the members of which were not living as Christ would have them. He is concerned about immorality and association with all types of evil persons, writing that when a person is known to them as being evil in any way, they should not associate with him, eat with him, but should banish him from their company.

us to remember and practice in our daily lives. If we followed this teaching, how much better the world would be, which often seems to us full of misunderstanding, rudeness and cruelty.

"Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity (love), I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal."

Even if one is generous and charitable, giving freely of his goods to help the poor and needy; or if he suffer martyrdom, "it profiteth me nothing" without love accompanies it.

MEMORY VERSE

"Speaking the truth in love, may we grow up into Him in all things."—Ephesians 4:15.

body, but in mind and spirit. He suggests that children should be taught that anything they say or do that they would not care to tell their fathers or mothers is wrong.

Love "beareth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. Love never faileth; but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away."

"And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love."

Get the pupils to memorize these beautiful words, and suggest that they keep them always in their hearts. Then, if they are tempted to be angry and thinking of retaliation, remember Paul's words and also that "a soft answer, turneth away wrath, but grievous words stir up anger."—Proverbs 15:1.

North Koreans Seeking Trade

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — A North Korean campaign to resume trade relations with South Korea went to the Military Armistice Commission today. The Communists proposed the unsealing of a trade line to permit North-South trade. The senior U.N. delegate, U.S. Maj. Gen. Homer L. Litsenberg, rejected the proposal as no basis of the commission. He said the trade group was concerned only with military matters. Several times in recent days Pyongyang radio, official voice of the Reds, has suggested that it was time for the divided halves of Korea to resume normal trade. Formerly the economies of the industrial North and the agricultural South complemented each other.

Little Rock Story Leaves New Questions For Future

By RELMAN MORIN
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—What now for integration elsewhere in the South?

It may well be that the whole complexion of that great social struggle has been changed by President Eisenhower and Gov. Orval Faubus.

The thunderous September events in the city showed the breadth and depth of the feeling against integration. Most people applauded Faubus for using the Arkansas National Guard to keep Negroes out of Central High School.

Then came the riots and federal troops. Prior to that violence, most people thought of the problem primarily in terms of integration versus segregation. They knew, of course, that the Supreme Court had declared segregation unconstitutional.

But they did not think of it as a question of obeying or defying the court's order, of complying with the law or flouting it.

The road from Capitol Hill in Washington to the school down the block seemed a very long one. Few people in Little Rock expected to be confronted so soon with the hard alternative of accepting integration or challenging the U.S. government.

Moreover, a precedent has been set. Violence may be answered, again and again, by the arrival of federal troops. Short of civil war, what resistance is left? What could it accomplish?

Thus Little Rock has clarified the issue, laid it squarely in the lap of every parent with a child in a segregated school.

For this reason, integrationists in Little Rock and elsewhere contend that Faubus and the rioters inadvertently dealt segregation a mortal blow. They think he has lopped years off the revolutionary process.

They expect to see a stronger civil rights bill enacted in Congress next year. They believe the federal courts will be less likely to permit delays in integration, and that the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People will become more militant, demanding more action sooner.

As for Faubus, the question seems to be: How does he get out of this impasse without surrender and loss of face?

On the morning he left for Newport, R.I., to meet with President Eisenhower, he seemed supremely confident of his position. He told this reporter, "I'm on the ground. I'm in control. It's up to them to make the next move."

Neither the federal court injunction against him Sept. 20, the riots Sept. 23, nor the arrival of federal troops Sept. 24 seemed to shake him—so far as you could see.

Then came the efforts of the four Southern governors to work out a compromise. The President and Faubus both issued statements giving the gist of it.

Only a few hours later, having read Faubus' version of the understanding, the White House said the deal was off. Some of the phraseology in the governor's statement was unacceptable.

At a news conference the next day, Faubus did not look so confident. Several times, fire showed through his usual calm as he answered questions. "What do they want to do, write my statement for me?" he asked, raising his voice. He did not hesitate to accuse the White House of "double talk."

Meanwhile, Central High School is open. The nine Negro students are going to classes under guard. Attendance rose daily during the first week.

Students and teachers describe conditions inside the school as being about as normal as they could be in such circumstances. There have been a few disturbances, and Virgil T. Blossom, superintendent of schools, acted quickly and forcefully.

A girl student said, "You're not really conscious of the soldiers there. They don't escort the Negroes to classes any more. They just stand in the halls."

"Some of the kids simply ignore the Negroes. Some are polite to them. There are two Negro girls in my gym class and they seem very nice."

She said a white boy sat at a table in the school cafeteria with some Negroes during the first week. Later, some other white boys told him they would "get" him after school. "But I don't think they did," she said.

Judging from the attendance figures, it appears that between 15 and 20 per cent of the parents who have children enrolled at Central High are determined to keep them out.

For the others, integration has come and they seem to be accepting it.

As for the city, this incident may be a straw in the wind.

A letter signed "Iris Bell" appeared in the Arkansas Gazette, Little Rock's morning newspaper. It said, "You will see a quick right-about-face in the situation," if persons who employ Negroes should discharge them, and if Faubus would cut Negroes off the welfare rolls. The letter closed, "F.S., I discharged my maid this morning."

Executives of the paper said they immediately received a call from a woman they described as "prominent" in the city.

"She said she wanted to place an ad saying that she would personally employ any Negroes fired for that reason. There were about a dozen other letters like hers."

NEW YORK (AP)—The City Health Department says polio has not claimed a single life in New York thus far this year. The department said yesterday it is the first time no polio fatalities has been reported over the same period since it started keeping records 46 years ago. The department credits the Salk vaccine for the record development. Last year in the city, seven deaths—were—blamed on polio. Over the previous seven years the average was 30 deaths.

Philippines Limit Travel To Japan

MANILA (AP)—The Philippine government today restricted travel of Filipinos to Japan. Informed sources said many reports had been received of discrimination against Philippine nationals in Tokyo.

A government announcement said Filipinos would be allowed to visit Japan "only for official business and for exceptionally meritorious cases." It explained the action was taken "to minimize the occurrence of unpleasant incidents affecting Filipino travelers."

In Tokyo, Japanese Foreign Office sources said the office could recall no cases of discrimination against Filipinos.

"The Japanese government does not have any intention of discriminating against citizens of the Philippines," one official said.

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Consumers are borrowing larger sums and for different reasons than a few years back. They borrow for a longer time and delinquencies are rising slightly. On the other hand, there is a trend in some areas toward paying off the loans ahead of schedule.

These are findings of small loan companies across the nation. They deal with some 10 million families a year for a total of about five billion dollars.

Their reports jibe with the findings of the Federal Reserve Board on the total volume of personal loans, the kind made by these companies and by other financial firms. The Board's figures put personal loans at 74 billion dollars, almost one billion above the total a year ago.

The National Consumer Finance Assn. queried top men in 26 of its member companies in 17 states and the District of Columbia on changes in the last few hours. All report a shift of emphasis from emergency or remedial borrowing to convenience or better living borrowing.

A small loan executive in Phoenix, Ariz., reports an "increased use of consumer loans for buying goods and services to improve living standards or to make life more satisfying and enjoyable."

In Portsmouth, Va., an executive reports 40 per cent of the loans are for payments on house lots and home appliances. In Columbus, Ohio, half of the new loans are on merchant recommendation for the purchase of goods and services.

Inflation is credited with raising the amount of the average loan and also for lengthening the period for payment.

In some states the contract length has risen from 12 to 18 months and in others from 18 to 24 months. But a trend toward repaying ahead of times is sighted in Chicago, the Pacific northwest, the northeast and Florida.

All agree that a slight rise in the delinquency rate has come with inflation, plus loss of overtime pay. But all insist it is not out of line or dangerous.

If the sun were twice as far away from the earth, it would seem only one-fourth as bright, says the National Geographic Society.

Braves' Miracle Now Complete; Stand At Summit

NEW YORK (AP)—Milwaukee's miracle is now complete. The miracle man is Fred Haney with Lew Burdette his magic wand.

Just five years after the franchise shift from Boston, the Braves rose from a frustrated, badly disorganized seventh-place team to a world championship outfit with a bright future.

Make no mistake about it. This was a standout team that came from behind repeatedly and overcame crippling handicaps to de-throne a good New York Yankee team in seven sizzling World Series games. This was a young team too. The starting Braves' nine that shut out the Yankees 5-0 yesterday behind the remarkable seven-hit pitching of Burdette averaged 26.4 years to 31.4 for the American League champions.

The confidence gained in defeating the Yankees, especially in their own back yard, is immeasurable. The Braves always had the horses. What they lacked was experience and confidence. They have got both now.

In addition, the Braves are a highly efficient organization. They have one of the strongest minor league farm systems and own some of the outstanding young players in the country. No wonder Frank Lane, general manager of the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals, remarked ruefully yesterday:

"This was the year to beat the Braves. Next year I'm afraid they'll be unstoppable."

It is not difficult to view the Braves as a championship team for years to come.

How Burdette fared in the final game, and in the entire series, for that matter, is now one of the more glorious pages in World Series history.

The 30-year-old right-hander from Nitro, W.Va., who now makes his home in Sarasota, Fla., not only became the first starter since Cleveland's Stan Coveleskie to win three games in one series, but he also became the first hurler in 52 years to turn in two shutouts. The last one? Christy Mathewson. Who blanked the Philadelphia Athletics three times in 1905.

Cold figures don't tell half the story of Burdette's truly remarkable pitching performance. The tall, sinewy right-hander walked only one batter — and that was intentional. He was rarely behind the hitters as only four Yankees reached the three-ball count. Not until two out in the ninth inning did a Yankee runner reach third.

With the exception of Hank Bauer's leadoff double, no extra-base hit was made off him.

Burdette wound up with 24 consecutive scoreless innings against the American League champs. All this with only two days rest. No wonder his agent, Frank Scott, disclosed today that the rubber-arm redhead, whose 1957 salary was only $15,000, stands to earn around $20,000 in personal appearances and endorsements during the coming winter.

Burdette received magnificent fielding support from his teammates, especially Eddie Mathews at third base. He received timely hitting support from Hank Aaron, Bob Hazle, Del Crandall and Mathews.

Mathews, a batting bust in the first three games, delivered the key hit—a third-inning double to right off starter and loser Don Larsen which drove in the first two Milwaukee runs.

Aaron, hit safely in every game, drove in a run yesterday and is leading all hitters on both teams with .393.

Hazle started the crushing four-run rally in the third with a hit, his first of the series. Crandall unlimbered the coup de grace with a home run into the left field seats.

It was the staunch Braves' defense, however, that surprised the Yankees the most. The scouting reports had led them to believe that the Braves were a slow, clumsy, lack-luster outfit in the field, devoid of fire and imagination. The Braves proved they were anything but that.

Mathews played a spectacular third base from start to finish. Logan's short-fielding was not as sensational but equally effective.

Covington proved the defensive surprise of the series. Saddled with a good-hit, no-field reputation, the young left fielder left the Yankees gasping with two glittering catches and a tremendous throw that cut off at least four runs.

Crandall was the rock of Gibraltar behind the plate and his strong throwing arm mowed down all three would-be Yankee base stealers.

Frank Torre, a fancy dancer around first base, saved his infield mates embarrassment with his dirt-scooping pickups of their sometimes errant throws.

Practically everybody expected the Braves' defense to crack. Instead it was the Yankee fielding that collapsed. The team as a whole made six errors, twice as many as Milwaukee did. Three of the miscues came yesterday and one of them opened the gates to the four Milwaukee runs in the third.

The culprit was Tony Kubek, the 20-year-old Milwaukee boy.

After Hazle had cracked a one-out single off Larsen in the third, Logan rapped a hard grounder to the versatile youngster at third base, Kubek, with an easy inning-ending double play in sight, threw too high to second, forcing Jerry Coleman off the bag. Coleman's throw from an awkward position was too late to get Logan at first. Mathews followed with his two-run double. Then Aaron and Covington singled and Torre drove in another run with a grounder and Milwaukee had a 4-0 lead. Milwaukee's other score came in the eighth when Crandall boomed a drive off left-hander Tommy Byrne over Enos Slaughter's head into the left field stands. Byrne was New York's fifth pitcher. Stengel pulled out all the stops. Besides restoring the injured Bill Skowron to first, he played Mickey Mantle the whole game in center field. Nothing helped, however. Mantle's best was a harmless single in the sixth. Bobby Shantz, Art Ditmar and Tom Sturdivant also saw action on the mound.

Buc Backfield Fine; Regular Center Hurt

LEE ATKINSON—this 5-9, 165 pound scat back from New Bern, is slated for some duty against Elon tomorrow afternoon when East Carolina battles the Christians in the Homecoming tilt. Elon is the North State Conference's top team at present with a 1-0 record. ECC is 0-1.

Tomorrow is the big day for East Carolina College.

And Elon is expected to spoil it for the tremendous Homecoming crowd that is scheduled to invade the campus tomorrow afternoon.

The Christians, currently leading the North State league with a 1-0 record, are rated 14-point favorites to whip the winless Pirates before a packed stadium at 2 p.m.

Coach Jack Boone's club, which has lost to Richmond, Davidson and Catawba, is hungry for a victory and will be working extra hard to capture a homecoming triumph. But oddsmakers seem to feel that the Christians are too good.

Boone will field a team that is weakened in the center. Expected to be out of action completely is regular center Lynn Barnett. Guard Dick Mondas, a starter, is also on the injured list and will only be limited action in any Gary Pierce, and Charles Cook, two more linemen, are also expected to see very little play.

Reports from the Buc camp today indicate that first string tackle James Faircloth will be shifted to the center slot. Faircloth was an All-Conference center several years ago and has worked at guard and tackle since.

Ed Emory will probably fill in at Mondas' position.

Boone's backfield is expected to be in top shape. Ralph Zehring will quarterback the club. Halfbacks will probably be James Speight and Tommy Nash, with Lee Atkinson, Glenn Bass, Brownie Salmon and George Slaughter also seeing duty. Bob Maynard will run from the fullback position, along with Joe Holmes and Bobby Lilley.

The only serious injury in the backfield is Charles Bishop, a halfback. He hurt a knee in last week's Catawba tilt.

Phantoms Bid For Upset Victory At Elizabeth City

AT ELIZABETH CITY—GHS halfback Robert Howell will be at a starting position tonight when the Phantoms aim for an upset against Elizabeth City. The Yellow Jackets are rated 26-point favorites.

ELIZABETH CITY—Rated 26-point underdogs to the league-leading Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets tonight, Greenville high's Phantoms invaded Jacket territory hoping to even their Northeastern Conference record to 2-2.

Odds makers give them little chance to do so. In fact, according to some, this will be the game that will throw the Phantoms into their annual slump.

Explanation: For years now Greenville high school's gridders have earned a reputation for being a one-two-three-BOOM team. After three or four good ball games, there has been a tendency to crack apart at the seams, to lose spirit, players, and games.

Some feel that the G-Men have even gone a little past their time already. At least in comparison with other Phant teams of the past—and that Elizabeth City will finish them off tonight for the rest of the season.

However, there is, or seems to be, a new ingredient in the pot this year. With the appearance of Coach Bud Phillips, his assistants Milton Reece and Odel Welborn, and a brand new school system this season, there seems to have come a new Greenville spirit.

Time and again thus far this year, the Phantoms have shown a determination and spirit that has been unfamiliar to Greenville clubs of the past. Perhaps 1957 will be the turning point for them. Officials at the new school think so.

At present, the Phantoms are ranked fifth in Northeastern Conference standings, along with Jacksonville. Both clubs have 1-2 records and only one other team is beneath them in the standings. Roanoke Rapids, with a 0-3 mark, is out of contention for the loop crown.

There is a possibility that Greenville can still be a threat in the race for the title, considering that the top club has a record of 2-0.

The Northeastern loop has already seen several upsets this year and it would take only one or two more to scramble the standings enough that all of the first six clubs could be in the thick of the race.

That is what Coach Bud Phillips has his club primed for tonight. The G-Men will be gunning for an upset. Asked about his offensive

Tar Heel Comeback Story Hinging On Mami Contest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Can North Carolina knock off Miami tonight and return on the road to football respectability?

Only four quarters of bruising play in Miami's Orange Bowl will provide the answer to a question which wasn't supposed to be asked for still another season or two.

North Carolina's last winning season was in 1949, the final year of the Charlie Justice dynasty. After that, things got rougher every year. Last season, Coach Jim Tatum's first on his return to his alma mater, the Tar Heels finished with an official 0-10 record after their two victories were forfeited because of an ineligible player.

mobile line and several efficient backs. Were they playing over their heads last week? Did they catch Navy on an off day? The outcome of tonight's game could help provide the answers.

Tonight's game likely will be played on the ground. Against Navy, North Carolina did not pass, choosing instead to play possession football. It paid off.

Miami, in splitting two games, has completed only two of 10 passes, but failed to pick up any yardage with them. The Hurricane has a strong running game with halfback John Varone the wheelhorse. Like North Carolina, Miami has a tough line, competent backs and an excellent coach. Their victory over Baylor last week was a major win.

North Carolina's game tonight opens a full weekend for Atlantic Coast Conference teams.

Duke, the nation's fifth-ranked team, held its final rough workout yesterday before leaving today for Rice where the Blue Devils meet the 15th ranked Owls tomorrow night. Both teams are undefeated. Rice in two starts and Duke in three games, all against ACC competition.

Duke worked hard yesterday setting a defense for Rice's strong offense. First string halfback Eddie Rushton, out two weeks with a bruised hip, may see limited action against the Owls.

Virginia and Clemson, which meet tomorrow in one of the two conference games, tapered off their drills. Coach Frank Howard made three changes in his starting backfield, upping sophomore Bob Chatlin and Charlie Horne to the halfbacks and Rudy Hayes to fullback.

Contact was held to a minimum at Wake Forest which invades Maryland tomorrow. The game will be the first regionally televised game for the ACC. Both squads are seeking their first victory.

The Deacons stressed defense and polished up their offense while Maryland held a spirited drill and Coach Tommy Mont said the team was in top physical condition.

South Carolina, which plays host to Furman, held a light drill and received a 30-minute lecture from Coach Warren Giese.

North Carolina State drilled under light's last night before showing off to Tallahassee to meet Florida State tomorrow night. The team reviewed offensive and defensive assignments and held a kicking drill. Counted out was starting end John Collar who has an injured ankle.

Miceli Gets A Chance To Move Up In Ring Ranks

DETROIT (AP)—Joe Miceli, a veteran of 89 fights who quit the game not long ago only to decide upon a comeback, gets a chance to knock Cuban Isaac Logart out of the top welterweight rankings tonight when the two fighters meet in a 10-rounder at Olympic Stadium.

Following a long string of defeats a couple of years ago, the 28-year-old New Yorker announced his retirement. It lasted only a short time and now Miceli is trying to get back among the top fighters in the division.

Recently Miceli knocked out former welterweight champion Johnny Saxton and the loser promptly announced his retirement.

Jayvees Rack Up Big 25-12 Win

East Carolina's perky Junior Varsity gridders roared over the University of Richmond Baby Spiders, 25-12, in a rough-and-tumble contest last night at College Stadium.

A crowd of about 200 watched the Bucs take their second victory in three games.

Paced by quarterback Billy Skeeter and halfback Brownie Salmon, the locals broke through Richmond defenses to score in each quarter.

In the first period, Skeeter blasted for 13 yards and a TD and he accounted for the second score in the second period on another short run. Both extra points were missed.

Richmond tallied twice also in the first half on passes from Jim Boger to Joe Klicik.

The score was 12-12 at the half. In the third period, Skeeter continued to bedevil the Richmond defenses for valuable yardage. He passed to end Charles Vaughn for the third and winning EOC score. In the fourth frame, he pitched out to halfback Brownie Salmon who scampered to the final tally. Walkie Haniford booted one extra point.

Skeeter, a Virginia import, set up all four of the scores on sharp play from the quarterback slot. He played practically the full game, except for brief spots on defense. EOC's defensive standout of the night was Jack Beale, a halfback, who intercepted four Richmond passes, three of which came at crucial times. It brought Beale's total interception to seven in three games.

Coach Earl Smith pointed out Walkie Haniford and George Slaughter as other outstanding backs during the game, and Tommy Bland, Burt Harrell and Baxter Savage at top linemen.

"I thought the boys played very well," Smith said today. "They were outweighed about 15 pounds to each man and they really had to work like trojans to win that one. They were tickled to death to get a little revenge for that other game." He was referring to Richmond's 40-7 victory over the Pirates varsity in the 1957 opener at Portsmouth.

Richmond had one injury. Sullivan, to be carried off the field last night with a chipped tooth and out upper lip. He was released from Pitt Memorial hospital this morning and his injury was not considered serious.

On October 25, the Baby Bucs travel to Fork Union Military Academy for their fourth contest of the year. The game will be an afternoon affair, starting at 2 p.m.

Burdette Once Failed To Impress Manage Stengel

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Back in 1950, Lew Burdette thought he had made the New York Yankees.

"I gave up only one run in 19 innings of exhibition ball," the three-game World Series winner reminisced before taking off for Milwaukee last night.

"But do you know what Casey Stengel called me?"

"Hey, you," he'd yell if he wanted me. I don't even know if he remembered my name. That spring he had eyes only for Tom Morgan. Tom was his boy and he didn't even see me."

Burdette had worked his way up through the Yank chain starting in 1947 at Norfolk in the Piedmont League. But he didn't make the club. In fact, he pitched just one inning, gave up three hits and one run for a 9-0 era.

"Bitter? Ha. What's there to be bitter about. I'm on top of the world now. Anyway, it's all part of the game."

The Yanks recalled Burdette in 1951 and promptly dealt him to the Boston Braves, along with $50,000 for Johnny Sain. He's been a Brave since.

A rangy—but not hefty—six feet two inches, Burdette is a natural born comedian. He never is at a loss for words and usually can think of a witty answer to a question.

When newsmen found out he was going to pitch the final game with two days' rest, they asked him how it felt.

"Makes no difference," he grinned. "I'm bigger, older and dumber than I used to be."

a thing and he shrugs it off. "Let them think I'm throwing spitters," he said. "Then I know I've got them worrying, and when they're worrying, I've got them beaten. The only thing that bothers me about the accusations is that they hurt my family."

The family consists of pretty wife Mary Ann and youngsters Kenny and Mae, 6 and 2, respectively.

During the winter, Burdette resides in Sarasota, Fla., although he was born in Nitro, W.Va., where his parents still live.

Even the haughty Yankees were suspicious of Burdette's delivery and the umpires examined the ball several times but, as usual, found nothing.

"The ball was awful dirty," he said with an impish grin. "But you can be sure I wasn't throwing spitters. Come to think of it, I had a lot of fun with all that commotion on the spitter this year."

The Yanks were so baffled that Joe Collins decided that maybe catcher Del Crandall was moistening the ball when he threw it back to Burdette.

"This was the guy Stengel called 'Hey, you,' in 1950.

MADE IT BRIEF HARLAN, Ky. (AP)—Fire Chief Estil Giles apparently felt it was one of those days for a short speech. His speech at the Kiwanis Club: "Don't smoke in bed. Club's dismissed." He then left to watch the final game of the World Series on television.

The Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. has a $20 U.S. gold coin of 1915. An offer of $35,000 for this rare gold piece was once refused.

Casey Has Only Song Of Praise

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel the loser, heaped praise on his victorious rival manager, Fred Haney, after the Milwaukee Braves beat the New York Yankees 5-0 and won the World Series.

Even longer and louder was his praise of the three-game-winning pitcher Lew Burdette.

Visiting the winners' dressing room after the final game yesterday, Stengel offered more than the congratulations and good wishes demanded by custom.

"You did a great job all the way. If I had to lose to anyone, I'm glad it was you," Stengel told the man who became Milwaukee manager in June 1956, and whose team won the world championship in his first full season as pilot.

"Your team was great and Haney managed better than Stengel."

As for Burdette: "He's the best pitcher we've faced," Casey said. "Nobody I've seen since I took over this club has stopped us this way. He's a game fellow and not afraid to throw one over the plate and make you hit it."

Haney, naturally, singled out Burdette for his highest praise although he admitted he considered removing the pitcher in the ninth inning.

"If he could cook, I'd marry him," the seamy-faced Milwaukee manager chuckled.

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

This is Dylan Thomas week—or at least it should be. The fabulous Welsh poet who died three years ago in the throes of a stormy, alcoholic triumph in the bars and parlors of New York has come into his own—and all within a week's time. On Monday Emyln Williams, the British actor who scored on Broadway recently with his imitations of Charles Dickens, began a new series called "A Boy Growing Up," based on Dylan Thomas's boyhood letters and prose pieces—a one-man recitation of the poet's early years. . . . Next Tuesday Thomas's bawdy verse-play, "Under Milk Wood," will have a full-fledged theatrical opening in a Broadway showplace—it was first published, if you remember, in a delightfully bowdlerized version, in Mademoiselle, a couple of years ago. . . . And October 10 was the date of the publication of "Leftover Life to Kill," by Dylan's wife Caitlin, the intimate and poignant story of the poet's effect—both before and after his death—on a woman who rivals him in passion and in her ability to speak her mind. We foresee best-sellerdom for "Leftover Life to Kill"—and a general resurgence of interest in Dylan Thomas and his wonderful poems. . . .

Prison Pen

Milovan Djilas has just been sentenced to seven more years in a Yugoslav prison, for writing "The New Class: An Analysis of the Communist System," which was published here in August and has become very popular. This is a heck of a way to treat the author of a best seller, but we suppose the Yugoslav government can't afford to let him loose, since "The New Class" exposed Communism as a nightmarish menace to mankind instead of the sweet dream of peace that died-in-the-wool Communists want you to believe it is. . . . Ironically enough, a new book on the life of Marshall Tito, Yugoslavia's premier, is called "The Heretic," and describes Tito's rebellion against Stalin—so who's rebellion now? Djilas just picked the wrong people to rebel against—but being in prison isn't going to prevent him from writing books, and we prophesy you'll be hearing from him again. . . .

Coming Soon

Next week sees publication of Volume III of Winston Churchill's "History of the English-Speaking Peoples." It's called "The Age of Revolution," covering the years 1688 to 1815, and includes Churchill's accounts of such men as Washington, Napoleon, Jefferson and Lord Nelson. . . . The Literary Guild announces as its November selection a novel by Otis Carney, "When the Bough Breaks," about the life of a young married couple living in a country-club—a time of peace and enough money to join the club—which certainly sounds like an interesting situation. . . . Also coming out next week is Kathleen Winsor's new novel, "America, With Love." She wrote, if you remember, "Forever Amber"—also with love. . . .

Today's Review

It's an honor for us to present the following review by a distinguished member of the teenage set, Margaret Harrell, who, in addition to being on the staff of the Junius Rose School paper, has just won a trip to Dearborn, Michigan, as regional winner of a reporting contest. She wrote a piece on the industrial and agricultural potentialities of eastern N. C. that was good enough to beat out the other entries—and it will appear in this Sunday's News and Observer, co-sponsored with the Ford Motor Company of the contest. . . . Here's to Miss Harrell, and here's her review. . . .

GETTING ALONG IN A TEEN-AGE WORLD, By Virginia Westervelt, New York: G. P. Putnam & Sons, 1957.

"Oh? It does? Well, I'd never thought of that before," the reader finds himself exclaiming when Virginia V. Westervelt states that an oversensitive person thinks of himself all the time and that a beautiful voice depends on breath held back.

Remembering her wallflower days in high school and her smash-hit success in college, Mrs. Westervelt offers teen-agers advice on how to be popular and enjoy life. Every hint involves a change in the reader, not in those around him.

To color the reading, Mrs. Westervelt uses teen lingo, examples from everyday experiences, and quotations from comic books and popular records. Her message, essentially that of a mother, is written in such an entertaining and reassuring style that the reader is eager to follow it.

GETTING ALONG IN THE TEEN-AGE WORLD includes a discussion of all teen problems from family trouble to dating mishaps. Each situation is treated in a manner that will help even the most confused young person.

"Call out your common sense now and let's analyze the fears that make you self-conscious and hamper your popularity," entreats Mrs. Westervelt in the chapter, "How to be Popular."

Another section, "Dating Data," emphasizes not only being one's self, but also being one's best self. Kissing, parking, smoking, and drinking are discussed.

GETTING ALONG in the TEEN-AGE WORLD is not one of the so-called popularity guidebooks which, in reality, are meaningless to the high school reader. With a real understanding of teenagers, teachers, and parents Mrs. Westervelt has written a carefully-phased, thought-provoking analysis of teenage life.

Motorist Files Traffic Charges Against Officer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Ronald K. Curson, 26, an insurance salesman, filed traffic charges against a motorcycle patrolman yesterday.

"I thought it was my right and my duty," he said after lodging his complaint against city patrolman D. I. Jordy in Corporation Court.

The complaint alleges Jordy ran a red light, made an illegal turn and passed another vehicle illegally.

Curson said that after he stopped the officer, Jordy searched his car. The patrolman said he found a night stick and charged Curson with carrying a prohibited weapon.

Before his release under $800 bond, Curson asserted he was jailed four hours and then permitted to call a lawyer.

Federal Court To Hear Raleigh School Suit

RALEIGH (AP)—A suit seeking to crack color bars in Raleigh city schools will be tried in Federal District Court here.

This was decided yesterday when Judge Don Gilliam denied a motion by the Raleigh City School Board to dismiss action filed by parents of Joseph Hiram Holt Jr. The Negro couple asked that their son be admitted to Needham Broughton High School, now for whites only, and that the school board be barred from operating segregated schools. The appeal to the court was taken after the school board turned down young Holt's application to the high school.

The judge's refusal to dismiss the suit means the case will be tried later on its merits. The school board has 10 days to answer the suit or request more time to prepare an answer.

J. C. B. Ehringhaus Jr., attorney for the board, contended that Judge Gilliam would have to declare unconstitutional the state's pupil assignment law in order to grant relief asked by the Holts. The Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, he added, has held the law "not unconstitutional on its face."

Ehringhaus, arguing in support of the motion, to dismiss, also expressed the opinion that the Holts should have appealed to a state court before taking their case to the federal court.

However, Judge Gilliam asked if the federal courts had not stricken from the assignment law the provision for cases to be taken through state courts before an appeal to federal courts.

The judge threw out the motion to dismiss the suit after listening to Ehringhaus' lengthy argument and a brief rebuttal by Herman L. Taylor Jr., Negro lawyer representing the Holts.

Barrage Of Eggs Greets Benson In S. D. Speech

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson received his share of a barrage of eggs aimed at him.

The eggs came as he was being introduced by South Dakota Gov. Joe Foss at the State Mechanical Corn-Picking Contest on a nearby farm, a prelude to today's national finals at the same scene.

Benson, whose hat was splattered by a thrown egg as it lay on the speaker's platform, did not mention the incident in his speech. In later conversation he said nothing like it had happened to him before and called it un-American.

Maynard Gudahl, a state patrolman, said Maynard Rankly, 21, a farmer from Volga, S.D., admitted he and four others had thrown the eggs.

"We weren't getting any attention. . . . We've written him letters and we figured this was one way of getting his attention," the officer quoted Rankly as saying.

The egg throwers were not held but Foss said he had ordered agents of the state attorney general to press for their prosecution.

"Anyone who would throw eggs would as soon throw a rock or knife," the governor said. "I ducked when one flew past my ear. I could have lost an eye. In every group there is a small minority of odd balls."

Sole casualty of the barrage was President Ray Quinn of the Sioux Falls Chamber of Commerce. He was struck on the arm and about the knees.

A titter ran through the crowd, estimated by state police at about 7,000, when the eggs were thrown. But the levity subsided as Benson started to speak. There was only a smattering of applause when he finished.

Mrs. Alfred Solem, Canton, said, "It wasn't a very nice thing to do even if we don't like him." But her husband said he wasn't surprised because "I expected it."

General comment of the crowd was that it was sort of a childish stunt. The egg-throwers all are under 30, police said.

"I don't think it was the right thing to do but I think he has it coming," said Roy Muchow, another farmer, from Canton. "He has done no justice for the farmer since he has been in office."

In his talk, Benson said that broader markets and reduced surpluses rather than price procs are the answer to increased farm income. He urged greater exports, saying that "you can't sit back and let others take your markets from you, you've got to fight hard for them."

CHAPTER 5

If I had been alone I would have turned to look at Blue, and I would probably have died right there in the street if my father hadn't said quickly, "Keep walking. Take two steps and turn. Pull your gun and shoot the man on your right."

This was a maneuver my father had made Gil and me practice many times. At the moment I wasn't scared. I took the two steps in the same slow pace I had been walking, not sure what had happened.

Then I was turning right hand sweeping my gun from holster as I swung around. Both Blue and Mort were standing in front of the hotel. Blue was on my right so I took him. My bullet smashed his gun-arm and whirled him around, knocking him back against the hotel wall.

Blue had expected us to face him and then be goaded into making a play, so we completely surprised him. He was too slow going for his gun. Mort was even slower. His gun wasn't clear of leather when my father's first bullet took him in the stomach, the second in the neck. He was dead in a matter of seconds.

I stood there, my gun dangling at my side, suddenly weak and sweating. Men ran out of the hotel and the store behind us, and the Belle Union beside the store, Doc Holt came out of his office and ran to where Sammy Blue lay on the walk a few feet from Mort.

"Get hold of yourself, Dave," my father said. "I don't like the looks of this. Whatever happens, we can't let Veach take us to jail."

Veach, a huge hulk of a man, was standing over Mort's body. He was arguing with someone, and I heard him say, "It looks like murder to me."

"We'd better get over there," my father said. "Feel better?"

"Yeah, I'm all right," I said. We holstered our guns, and walked across the street. Sammy Blue was gone. Runyan was not in sight.

"Why do you call it murder, Ed?" my father asked.

Veach's big body heaved around. He looked at my father, his cheeks quivering. He needed a shave; he was dirty.

"Killing a murder, ain't it, Munro?" Veach said.

"You're smarter'n that," my father said. "You know what Sammy Blue aimed to do. Did you expect us to stand there and get plugged like fish in a barrel?"

"How did you know what they were going to do?" Veach asked, looking at the ground. "You were walking the other way."

"I know Sammy Blue," my father said. "I knew him a long time before I came to this country."

Brown, the hotel clerk, was puffing up like an infuriated bull-frog. "Hang it, Ed..." he began.

"Knowing Blue don't change nothing," Veach said stubbornly. "You pulled your gun before you turned."

"Did you see it?" my father asked.

"No, but I talked..."

"You got it wrong. We pulled our guns as we turned, not before. There's a difference, Sheriff."

Brown grabbed Veach's arm and shook it. "You listen to me, Ed. I saw what happened in the hotel lobby. Blue was pushing them; he wasn't going to let Munro here see Runyan. Tried to start a fight. He would have if I hadn't stopped him with a scatter-gun."

"That's got nothing to do..." Veach began.

"Oh, for the Lord's sake!" Brown said in disgust. "Are you beholden to the Rafter 3? Or are you scared of Vic Toll?"

"I don't cotton to that kind of talk," Veach said sullenly.

"You're gonna hear more of it if you don't get some sense into that fat skull of yours," Brown said. "You arrest 'em for murder, and I'll tell 'em in court what I just told you. When Mort came down the stairs, Blue says, 'Let's get 'em.' Them's his exact words. That's what I'll tell in court, Ed, and I'll swear you right out from under your star."

I don't know what would have happened if Brown hadn't spoken his piece. None of us who lived in the park were particularly popular in town. We were largely self-sufficient, we were so far away that we never came to Buhl unless it was absolutely necessary.

On the other hand, a lot of people in the country were bitter because of the brutal and high-handed tactics Vic Toll used. It may have been that bitterness, or perhaps because Brown took the lead; but whatever the cause was, we suddenly were sided by half the men in the crowd.

Buffalo Bones Jesler said, "I seen it from the Belle Union, Sheriff. It ain't murder when a man defends himself."

And the teacher, Rutherford Cartwright, "That's right, Ed. I just turned the corner when it started; self-defense."

Scissors McGuire, the barber, nodded. "Just put me on the jury, Ed. I'd get the Munros acquitted so fast it'd make your head swim."

Veach, red in the face and angry, sputtered: "What's the matter with you boys? You was singing a different tune awhile ago."

"We got to thinking," Alec Brady said. He was the storekeeper and mayor, and one of the most respected men in Buhl. "Runyan's been in town spring and fall every year since I came here, but this is the first time he ever brought a gun like Sammy Blue. We've eaten his dirt, Ed, all of us. Why? Because we were scared. If we're men, it's time we acted like it. We'd be a darned sight less men if we let you arrest the Munros for a murder that wasn't murder at all."

Reluctantly Veach said, "Looks like I can't hold you, Munro. I'm gonna go see how Sammy Blue is." He walked away, moving slowly and ponderously. My father said, "Thanks, boys."

"No thanks necessary," Brady said. "I've just got one regret. I wish you'd killed Blue instead of breaking his arm. I hope to see you hang onto the park, too."

"We aim to," my father said.

He turned and started toward the store. I fell into step beside him saying, "I don't feel like eating anything."

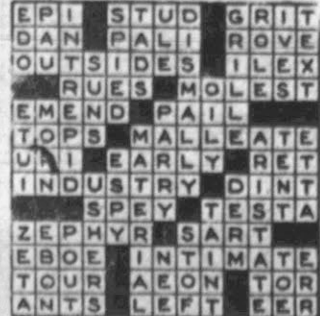

"We'll get a drink first," he said.

We went into the Belle Union. When I was alone, or with Gil or a neighbor, I asked for beer, or once in a while whiskey, but on the few occasions I had been here with my father, he had always ordered for me. Soda pop every time, but today he said, "Whiskey."

SATELLITE PROPOSED FOR FLIGHT TO MOON:—At the left is a sketch of a proposed satellite designed to carry two to four men around and around the earth 500 miles out in space at a speed of 16,660 miles per hour. Three scientists of the Goodyear Aircraft Corp. say it will be economically feasible to build and launch the manned satellite within six to eight years. They would call it "Meteor Junior." The three-stage vehicle would have 27 rocket engines. At the right is an artist's conception of "Meteor Junior" approaching the moon for a landing. The three-stage vehicle, when fitted with fourth stage, would be capable of flights to the moon and possibly landing there, the Goodyear scientists say. (AP Wirephoto).

Lost 2 Pair Of Pants In Holdups

NEW YORK (AP)—Bernard Bertan is glad he works for a trouser manufacturing company. He has lost two pairs of pants in a week to the same holdup man.

A week ago Bertan, 60, was entering the building on 5th Avenue where he is employed by the Well Made Trouser Co.

A voice behind him suddenly told him to "keep goin' or I bow your brains out." The bandit marched Bertan to a stair landing, made him remove his trousers after handing over $31, threw the pants out an adjacent window, and escaped.

Yesterday it was the same old story, Bertan said: the same voice, the landing, trousers off and out the window. This time, however, Bertan had only $4 on him.

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)— Kathy Evans, 4½, lost a shoe at the Fresno County fairgrounds.

Her mother, Mrs. Barbara Evans, later answered a telephone ring to hear: "I found a baby shoe at the fairgrounds last night. I thought it looked like one of Kathy's and I picked it up."

It was Kathy's shoe. The caller? Mrs. Marie Martin, who baby-sits with Kathy.

Mystery Radio Signals Heard

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)— Radio amateurs in the Phoenix area have heard a series of mysterious radio signals while tuning for the Russian satellite.

The signals are believed to come from four separate transmitting stations. But the hams said there is no recognizable identification of the stations, as required.

FAST MOVERS

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Rattlesnakes are faster than most people think, a pair of snake specialists report. Rattlesnakes move at some 20 feet a second, say herpetologists Sam C. Duntun and Henry M. Lester of the New York Zoological Society. It has previously been believed the snakes moved at about eight feet a second when striking.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices churned in very active trading today, leaving the market lower on balance early this afternoon.

Leading issues were down from fractions to around 2 points. A sprinkling of small gainers melted away gradually.

It was a violent follow-up from yesterday's slump, the sharpest in two years. The high-speed ticker tape was late three times during the morning in its reports of floor transactions.

The market was down at the opening under heavy selling pressure as a succession of large blocks was traded. Buying support developed, leaving prices mixed. Shortly before noon there was another sinking spell with the ticker tape late for the third time.

Some brokers thought a temporary climax to the market's long decline was in the making but others believed that a more prolonged late tape on the downside was needed to make it a real shake-out. Cloudy business prospects, concern about Russia, tax loss selling and margin calls were among factors mentioned as contributing to the market weakness.

The ticker tape was as much as a minute late for a period of 21 minutes in the first half hour. Trading eased then quickened on the temporary recovery, putting the market behind a minute for a seven-minute spell in early afternoon, as prices declined, the tape was running 4 minutes late again.

If the pace continued, it would be one of the heaviest trading days in years. Blue chip stocks see-sawed, showing small gains and losses before the general trend became downward.

Losses of around 2 points or so were taken by United Aircraft, International Nickel, Anaconda, Eastman Kodak, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Sinclair, United Air Lines and Texas Co. Eastern Air Lines was off around 3.

Leading rails were generally ahead in the recovery phase but slipped to the downside again.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 90 cents to $158.90 with the industrial down $1.70, the rails down 50 cents and the utilities down 10 cents.

First Member Of 'Fifty-Year' Club

DR. M. T. FRIZELLE RECEIVES 50 YEAR CLUB CERTIFICATE
... Ayden physician, Dr. Grady Dixon, Dr. James J. Smith.

Dr. Mark Twain Frizzelle is now officially a member of the North Carolina Medical Society's Fifth Year Club.

The Ayden physician, who has delivered many babies who have gone into the medical profession, was honored at the monthly meeting of the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society staged last night. He was presented a certificate and a gold lapel button identifying him as a member of the society's honor club.

Dr. Frizzelle is the first Pitt physician to become a member of the club formed by authority of the Executive Council and adopted by the House of Delegates of the Medical Society of North Carolina. According to figures released by medical officials, there are approximately 113 living members in this state at the present time.

The newest member of the Fifth Year Club came to Ayden in 1907 after graduating from medical school in Virginia. Since that time he has practiced his profession in Pitt County.

He was born in Greene County an attended Ormandville High School before graduating with an A. B. degree from Trinity College in Durham in 1902.

Since coming to this county Dr. Frizzelle has also been active in civic work. He was instrumental in the organization of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, having served in a number of official capacities.

Oil Driller's Rig Is Ordered Out

KOUNTZE, Tex. (AP) — It took a court order to get a drilling contractor's $75,000 rig off the property of a militant southeast Texas rancher.

Rancher Oscar Goins said he was convinced that driller J. P. Owens had struck oil. He strung a wire fence across the entrance to the lease and stood guard with a deer rifle for most of three days.

On Owens' petition, Dist. Judge H. A. Coe ordered Goins to remove the fence yesterday. Sheriff William Whitaker delivered the order and said he cut the wire after Goins refused.

Owens then hauled the rig away.

Electronic Brain Computes Orbit Of Red Satellite

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — An electronic "brain" at Massachusetts Institute of Technology finally came up with the answer today on the true path of the rocket stage which became a satellite when it flung the Russian Sputnik into space last Friday.

It showed the rocket takes a shade over 96 minutes to circle the earth and sometimes is only 143 miles from the surface.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, who is in charge of the optical tracking program for the Astrophysical Observatory of the Smithsonian Institution, announced determination of the orbit today.

Here are the facts turned out by the machine: The period of the rocket stage is 96.63 minutes—the time it takes for a complete circuit of the globe.

The eccentricity of the orbit is .05—the measure of the amount by which the orbit differs from a circle. Dr. Hynek said these measurements indicate the rocket now has a minimum altitude of 143 miles and a maximum height of 583 miles.

Its pericentration is 3 plus degrees per day—the daily change in its attitude toward the sun as the earth circles the sun in its giant ellipse.

Dr. Hynek said it will now be possible to give exceedingly good predictions of expected times over different points on the earth.

He said the mechanical brain required only 21 seconds to work out the orbit. The machine, however, operates at a rate of 40,000 calculations per second and in its 21-second job gave an answer that would require a dozen extra mathematicians more than eight hours.

Governors Are Standing By

RALEIGH (AP) — Southern governors serving on a committee seeking removal of federal troops from Little Rock, Ark., are still "standing by."

Gov. Hodges of North Carolina, chairman of the group set up by the Southern Governors' Conference, gave this report to his news conference yesterday. There have been no new developments Hodges said, but committee members still have "our fingers crossed."

The committee called on President Eisenhower and conferred with Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas in an effort to find an agreement. However, an agreement which seemed destined for success broke down at the final hour.

One Of Famous Dionne Sisters Will Wed Today

MONTREAL (AP) — One of the famous Dionne quintuplets, Annette, will be married today in a small, private ceremony. Her sister Cecile plans to take the leap next month.

Annette, 23, will marry German Allard, lanky 24-year-old agent for a Montreal finance company, in one of Montreal's Roman Catholic churches.

Only members of the families and a few guests—about 20 in all—were told the time and place of the rites.

Cecile plans to marry a Canadian Broadcasting Co. technician, 26-year-old Philippe Langlois, Nov. 23.

Allard is a brother of two girls who went to a private school with the quintuplets. He met Annette two years ago.

The girls' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, drove down from North Bay, Ont., yesterday for the wedding.

The program will be initiated in Greene, Lenoir and Wayne counties as a result of a meeting in Goldsboro this week sponsored by the East Central Carolina Area Development Association.

At the request of association chairman H. C. Wooten Jr. of county association at a later date, Chairman Wooten said following the meeting in Goldsboro.

Life Expectancy Of 67 Years

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A doctor says that the average length of life today is 67 years, and that 9 per cent of the population of the U.S. is over 65 years of age.

Dr. Wingate M. Johnson of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, addressing the North Carolina Assn. of Telephone Pioneers of America, said here last night that old age has its bright side. Successful old age, he said, is just a "matter of cooperating with the inevitable."
