Disease Fills
ECC Infirmary;
Schools Unhurt

Approximately 100
New Cases On Campus; Few Cases In County

A "flu-like disease" has struck on the East Carolina College campus forcing authorities to set up improvised facilities in dormitories to take care of the heavy number of cases.

"We've had approximately 100 cases of flu-like infections since Saturday," college physician Dr. C. F. Irons reported this morning. "The infirmary is full and students are having to be taken care of with improvised facilities in dormitories."

Dr. Irons said authorities are setting up isolation facilities in dormitories.

He said so far the cases are mild, lasting from three to five days and there have been no serious complications as yet.

However, he noted, the number of cases coming in daily is still on the upsurge.

For the county as a whole there has apparently been no undue increase in the number of respiratory diseases.

Dr. Joseph D. Franzoni, acting Pitt Health Director, said this morning, "There has been an increase, but no unduly so, of respiratory diseases."

He said the Health Department is still complying with the State Board of Health's request for weekly reports on the number of respiratory disease case numbers.

While last week's report was the highest total yet, Dr. Franzoni said he felt the increase is due to prolonged cold weather and also to the fact that every doctor was contacted last week, rather than the usual method of spot-checking physicians in the county.

D. H. Conley, superintendent of county schools, said school attendance appears to be holding up well in the county.

There has been some respiratory disease increase reported in the Grimsland area and that has been referred to the Health Department for recommendations, he declared.

Grimsland is the only school which has reported disease increase thus far, he noted.

City School Superintendent J. H. Rose said, "There have been a number of teachers sick but the children have been pretty lucky. The percentage among teachers has been greater than among children. We have gotten along very well as far as the children are concerned."

That is true for both white and Negro schools, he said.

Also to come up is the annexation of Oakmont subdivision, annexation of College Court subdivision, and an amendment to the subdivision ordinance.

Royal British Couple Are Welcomed By President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II of England flew to Washington today to receive from President Eisenhower, in colorful ceremonies, the official welcome of one great nation to the visiting monarch of another.

Eisenhower's personal plane, Columbine III, bearing the Queen from a triumphant visit to historic Williamsburg, Va., touched down at National Airport at 11:12 a. m.

The splash and color and pomp of full military and official honors contrasted with the dull, gray autumnal day. But a light rain which had been falling earlier in the morning had stopped.

Washington, the nation, and the President receive other chiefs of state from time to time, but there was something special about this one which brought face-to-face the heads of the two great English-speaking nations at a critical time in the world's history.

Eisenhower, dressed in gray, arrived at the airport in a limousine two or three minutes before the Queen's plane came into view. The color guard snapped to present arms, the band struck up ruffles and flourishes and "Hail to the Chief" echoed out across the airport.

The Columbine came to a stop exactly on the dot of the scheduled arrival hour—11:15 a. m.

A portable stairway was wheeled up to the rear exit. Wiley Buchanan, U. S. chief of protocol, preceded the Queen down the steps. Following her Majesty at the customary two paces was her husband, Prince Philip.

The queen wore an afternoon dress of electric blue in heavy silk crepe.

The straight skirt was caught at one side, making a cluster of loose pleats dropping from the waist. The bodice was draped to form a square neckline.

Over the dress Elizabeth wore a loose coat of heavy Yorkshire woolen woven to match the dress. It hung straight from the circular collar with no fastenings. There were cuffs of phantom beaver on the three-quarter length sleeves.

Elizabeth wore closed-toe pumps in suede of beaver brown, with grosgrain stripping. The costume was topped with a close fitting hat in draped electric blue velvet.

"The brilliant blue of Elizabeth's coat contrasted with the gray of her husband's suit."

A murmur arose from the crowd as the Queen slowly descended the ramp and shook hands with Eisenhower. Mrs. John Foster Dulles, wife of the U. S. secretary of state, handed her a bouquet of two dozen red roses, tied with a red, white and blue ribbon.

Buchanan formally presented her Majesty to the President and then introduced Prince Philip.

"Welcome to Washington and the United States, your majesty," Eisenhower said with a little bow from the waist.

Then he took the Queen by the elbow and gently pivoted her around for photographers.

Eisenhower gestured in the direction of the cameramen and said to the Queen: "That's the nearest thing we have to a dictator in this country."

They all enjoyed the quip.

The party smiled and chatted momentarily, posed for pictures, and then headed down the receiving line of American and foreign dignitaries.

The men for the most part bowed and the ladies curtsied.

Tobacco Co. Is Fined $30,000

NEW BERN—A. C. Monk Tobacco Company of Farmville was fined a total of $30,000 this morning in Eastern District Federal Court on charges of dealing with an enemy of the United States.

The fines were levied by Judge Don Gilliam who ordered the company to pay $10,000 on a charge of conspiracy between the Farmville firm and its Hong Kong agent to do business with the Chinese Communist firm, and $2,000 on each of ten charges of specific dealings with a Chinese Communist firm.

Maximum sentence for each of the defendants could have been a five-year prison sentence and $10,000 fine on the conspiracy charge, and an additional 10 years and $10,000 fine for each of the other 10 counts. Judge Gilliam's order was levied according to Treasury Department recommendations, the district attorney said.

Judge Gilliam's ruling was issued after the government had accepted a plea of nolo contendere (no contest) by attorneys representing the company. Charges against three officials of the Farmville firm—A. C. Monk, Jr., Robert T. Monk and Richard D. Harris—were dismissed by the judge after he had heard a motion for nonsuit from their attorneys.

Government lawyers did not resist the motion for dismissal of the charges against the individuals.

Bills of indictment, which were returned as true bills by a Federal Grand Jury sitting in Raleigh on April 10, included one charge that the company and its Hong Kong agent, Tze E. Pun, entered a conspiracy to do business with Nanyang Brothers, Limited, of Shanghai. The other ten indictments were on charges that the company entered a contract or actually shipped tobacco to Hong Kong with Nanyang Brothers as the ultimate receiver.

At the Grand Jury hearing in April, E. E. Minskoff, chief law enforcement officer of the Assets and Control Division of the U. S. Treasury Department, described the Nanyang Brothers company as a "known Chinese Communist business." The government's case against Monk and its officials stated that the Chinese company had headquarters in Shanghai and a branch office in Hong Kong.

Communist China is forbidden by U. S. Treasury Department regulations. An economic blockade of Communist China was clamped down the day after Chinese Communists entered the Korean War and American business firms were prohibited from entering into business relationships with Communist China.

The government's case specified that the Farmville company shipping two or three minutes before the Queen's plane came into view. The color guard snapped to present arms, the band struck up ruffles and flourishes and "Hail to the Chief" echoed out across the airport.

Half Of Missile Tests 'Successful'

WASHINGTON (AP)—About half of the intermediate range ballistic missile tests made by United States weapons so far have been rated successful.

The others ranged from complete failures, such as burning up on launching pads to erratic flights in which the test devices had to be destroyed before they had flown very far. And the only two reported tests of an intermediate ballistic missile were virtual failures.

On the scientific side of the American rocket program, duds and delays also have occurred.

During the last year, men at the Cape Canaveral, Fla., ballistic missile test center have pushed firing buttons on missiles or missile-like test vehicles a total of 13 times.

Six of the "birds" flew high and far, with results meeting or surpassing advance estimates.

Seven of them didn't. But technicians and scientists insist that even some of the faltering missiles provided valuable development data before their brief seconds in the air ended in explosions or fires.

A much larger number of missiles and test vehicles remain to be fired.

Here, on the basis of unofficial reports, is how the test record stands at present:

Air Force—Total of seven tests, of which two were of the Atlas ICBM and five of the Thor IRBM. The two Atlas tests were virtual failures, yielding only a modicum of performance data before their destruction. Two of the five Thor tests were described as entirely successful, the other three suffered fates like the Atlas missiles.

Army—Total of six firings, two of them the Jupiter C design which were purely experimental devices, four of them Jupiter IRBM designs. Four of the firings satisfied or exceeded the expectations of the Army's designers, including the two Jupiter C devices. Two were disappointments.

Russia, with iron-handed control of information, has let the world know of her successes in the missile-satellite field. She claimed a successful test of an ICBM and fired her Sputnik for all the world to see.

If Russia, like the United States, also encountered failures and frustrations in attaining those successes, Moscow has taken care that there should be no mention of the fact.

The United States says there is no direct connection between this country's earth satellite and missile programs, even though both may be launched by rockets which seem much alike. But in this scientific field the score is somewhat the same as in missile tests.

The Navy, in charge of the Vanguard earth satellite program, has conducted two highly preliminary test firings of component rocket engines. Both are described officially as successful. But mounting charges of delay in the Vanguard program are being made in the wake of Russia's spectacular success.

The best that the United States can offer is that a full-scale firing of all three of the rocket engines will be held in December.

Nobel Prize For French Author

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Albert Camus a French moralist and one of the sharpest contemporary critics of totalitarianism of all kinds, today won the 1957 Nobel Prize for Literature.

The 43-year-old author of "The Plague" and "The Stranger" was cited for "his important literary production which with clear-sighted earnestness illuminates the problems of the human conscience in our times."

Camus was the second youngest author selected by the Royal Swedish Academy of Literature for the international prize. British author Rudyard Kipling was 41 when he was tapped in 1907.

On Monday a committee of the Norwegian Parliament chose Lesley B. Pearson, former Canadian foreign secretary, for the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize. The prize in medicine will be announced next Thursday and the physics and chemistry awards a week later.

Camus will receive more than $42,000, the largest amount ever given a Nobel literature winner. Size of the awards depends on the income from the fund established by Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite, who died in 1896.

In a radio talk today on Camus and his works, Dr. Anders Oesterling of the Swedish Academy said the French writer illustrates an idealistic aim in describing life around him and above all accents the positive by showing an energetic demand for revolt against futility.

Emergency Aid For 4 Counties

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department today designated four counties in North Carolina as an area where its Farmers Home Administration may make emergency loans to distressed farmers.

The counties are Carteret, Craven, Gates and Onslow.

The department said heavy rainfall last June, followed by drought in July and August, had brought damage and losses to crops in the area.

Aiming High?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Examiner says it has been told that Russia will try to hit the moon with rockets Nov. 7.

The newspaper's science editor, Christian Clausen, wrote today that the information came from a European scientist "who has talked to rocket experts who have escaped from the huge Russian rocket and missile base at Peenemunde in Germany." The scientist's name was not given.

One In Ten?

DURHAM (AP)—Durham County Health Supt. J. H. Epperson declared yesterday that "there must be about 10,000 cases of some kind of influenza in various stages of activity in Durham County."

Epperson said his figure was based on constant contacts with doctors, schools and industrial plant officials and that his estimate was "crude but not too far off base."

"We're really got it," Epperson added, whether it be Asian flu or just another one of the many respiratory ailments. At the wildfire rate it is moving, the disease may well burn itself out before long.

"The Negro schools have just about gone through the epidemic while the white schools are now hitting the peak of the disease," he added.

Epperson said he told a drug company representative that "if we couldn't get our order for Asian flu vaccine by Nov. 1, I wanted the order canceled."

Epperson's estimate of 10,000 cases would indicate that about one person out of 10 in Durham County is ill or is recovering from the disease.

Syrian Army Is Alerted; Cabinet Talks Mobilizing

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The Syrian army was placed on alert today and the Cabinet was reported weighing general mobilization in the crisis arising from charges Turkey is planning to attack.

A government spokesman disclosed the army alert, but said it amounted only to a cancellation of officers' leaves. The spokesman denied an Egyptian Middle East News Agency report that a state of emergency had been declared.

That would cancel all leaves and order all absent soldiers to report to their units. The Egyptian report was splashed in all Damascus newspapers.

The spokesman said the officers' leaves first were canceled a few weeks ago, then the order was relaxed for a while and now has been reinstated. The spokesman declared no mobilization or even partial mobilization of the army has been ordered.

Two Cabinet members who declined to be identified told reporters, however, the Cabinet was considering nationwide mobilization.

Turkish Minister Adnan Kural met with the acting foreign minister, Kallil Kallas, and delivered a note from his government.

It was understood the note denied Syrian charges that Turkey plans a "premeditated action" against Syria.

The joint Syrian-Egyptian army command has been holding day and night meetings.

Syrian forces, estimated to total 50,000 men, were recently bolstered by the arrival of Egyptian troops at Latakia.

One Man Dies In Apparent Race

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (AP)—Police said two speeding automobiles, apparently racing, went out of control on a curve here last night and fatally injured one of the drivers.

Officers identified the victim as Herbert Capels, about 40, of Southern Pines.

The driver of the second car was Don Jones, also about 40 and of Southern Pines, and a good friend of Capels. Jones, confined to a hospital here, suffered shock and possible shoulder injuries.

The accident occurred on a curve of the Carthage Road, near St. Joseph's Hospital.

The cars veered into trees, police said. Capels died at the hospital about an hour and a half after the accident.

U.S. Works To Insure UN Look Into Soviet Role

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States worked urgently today on proposals designed to insure that any U. N. inquiry into the Middle East crisis will take a look at the role played by the Soviet Union.

This became known as Sir Leslie Munro, president of the U. N. General Assembly, called a meeting of the Assembly's 17-nation steering committee for tomorrow to begin the first round of debate.

A spokesman for the U. S. delegation said Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was in a huddle with his aides this morning on ideas which the United States would advance.

The probe was proposed yesterday by Syria, apparently acting in coordination with the Soviet Union. Both said a Turkish attack on Syria appeared imminent. The U. S. spokesman said the United States welcomed the proposal and expressed hope it would clarify "who it is that threatens peace in the Middle East."

The meeting of the Steering Committee was delayed until tomorrow after some key delegations, including Turkey, insisted they would not have time to receive instructions from their governments.

The committee was expected to urge the full 82-nation Assembly to take up the Syrian-Russian charges on an emergency basis, bypassing debate in the Political Committee.

Diplomats predicted the Assembly would begin debate on the explosive issue early next week.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, in a letter to Assembly President Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, charged that the Turkish general staff, working with American advisers, had made plans for an attack on Syria immediately after the Turkish elections Oct. 27.

Gromyko proposed that U. N. members raise a force to meet any such attack and said Soviet forces would take part. The Russian also endorsed the Syrian demand for a U. N. commission to investigate the situation on the Syrian-Turkish frontier and recommended that it be instructed to report within two weeks of its creation.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference that any Russian-Syrian attack on Turkey would bring U. S. forces to the aid of the Turks. Dulles warned that in such event Russian soil would not be "privileged as a neutral safe haven for American retaliation as Chinese Communist territory had been in the Korean War."

From Ankara, the Turkish government sent Syria a note reportedly rejecting earlier charges of aggressive plans and counter-charging that the pro-Soviet Syrian regime was raising a diversionary furor to cover up the spread of Russian influence into the Middle East.

Leaders of the U. N. delegations from the 11 Arab states went into conference after Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar leveled his charges in a letter to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld. Informed sources said all 11 delegation leaders pledged to support Syria's demand for the Assembly debate.

Virtually all the Arab states have promised to rally to Syria's aid if she is attacked. Jordan's King Hussein called in the Turkish, American and British ambassadors in Amman last night to reiterate his stand that "any such attack would be considered an attack on all Arab states."

In Cairo, the semi-official Egyptian Middle East News Agency reported that a state of emergency had been declared in the Syrian army and all leaves had been canceled. The report said weapons had been distributed to members of a "popular resistance" organization in Aleppo and Homs, in north Syria near the Turkish border. There was no confirmation of the report from Damascus, however.

Lays Groundwork For Future Cases

ATLANTA (AP)—Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook of Georgia said today that President Eisenhower made a deliberate and palpable executive encroachment of the Constitution and of the Congress itself in using the National Guard and federal troops in the Little Rock school situation.

In a legal memorandum to Gov. Marvin Griffin, Cook also declared "such an encroachment will of necessity lead to the end of constitutional government." He added:

"It is a cardinal principal of government that when law ends, tyranny begins. The present strength of these usurpers will not deter us in our opposition to such tyranny."

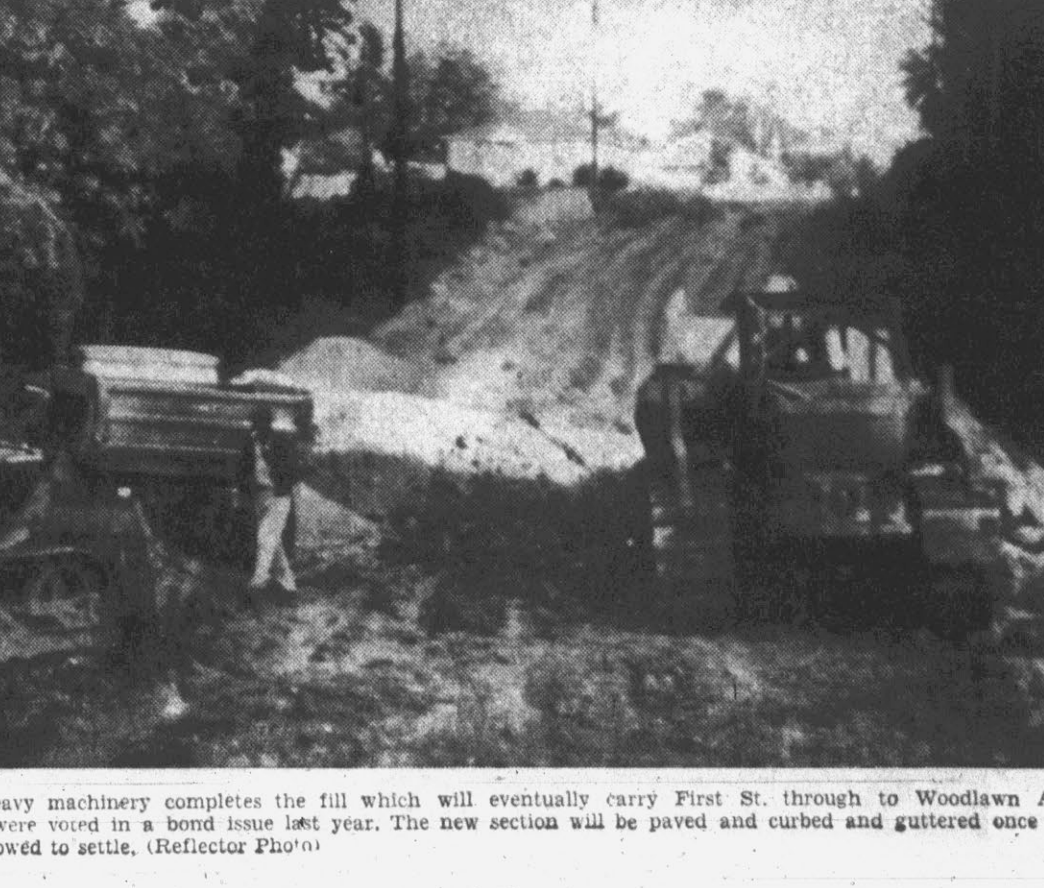

Copies of the memorandum to the "Authority of the President to use federal troops in a state of the union," were released without comment. But Cook's study obviously was preparation of the groundwork for legal resistance should similar developments occur in Georgia.

Revealing extensive staff research, Cook cited numerous Constitutional sections and U. S. Supreme Court decisions to make these points:

The Constitution authorizes the President to take protective action against domestic violence in any state only upon application of the

Moose To Collect Used Clothes For 'Bank'

The Greenville Moose Lodge No. 885 announces that it will again sponsor a "Clothing Bank" for needy families this year and urges the co-operation of the citizens of Greenville in this project.

Last year this movement provided warm clothing for more than 60 families and it is hoped that even greater provision can be made this winter.

In order to better supply their "Bank," a city-wide "pick-up" will be made on Sunday, October 20, at 2 p.m. They urge everyone to put their "outgrown" or "shelved" clothing on their porch before the pick-up hour in order that some needy person may be better protected from the cold winter.

Articles of clothing will be repaired and cleaned by the College View Cleaners, as their contribution to the program, before distribution to those in need.

"The Moose Lodge greatly appreciates the fine spirit of co-operation that was exhibited last year and again calls on you to assist them. Someone will welcome the clothing that you cannot use," said Mrs. Lyman Briley.

Mrs. Horne Named Organization Chairman For Girl Scout Council

The Pitt County Girl Scout Council held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening at the Rotary Building.

After the minutes were read and approved Mrs. Charles A. White, president informed the Council of the resignation of Mrs. Ed Batchelor as Chairman of the Organization Committee. The Nominating Committee presented the name of Mrs. Charles Horne, Jr. to replace Mrs. Batchelor, and she was unanimously elected.

Mrs. White announced the Wahl-Coates School, Third Street School and St. James Methodist Church had each agreed to sponsor Scouting. By the end of the year it is hoped that every troop in the area will have a sponsoring organization.

After some discussion the Council voted to send Mrs. J. K. Proctor, Executive Director, and Mrs. Edgar Barrett, leader of a senior troop in Farmville, to a training course for senior leaders which is being given in Pinehurst on October 31 and November 1.

Mrs. Janet Hoseley, Council representative from Grifton, described a program which is being enthusiastically received in that community. Every two months all the Brownie and Scout troops hold a joint meeting. Programs which are of interest to every age group are planned in advance. A Mother's night and a box supper for fathers are included in the plan, and the final meeting in May will be a huge picnic.

It was announced that a telephone has been installed at Camp Hardee.

The Registrar, Mrs. C. C. Skinner, said that she would be in the Girl Scout office in the Municipal Building every Wednesday afternoon from 1-5 p.m., for the purpose of receiving troop registrations. Troop leaders are urged to register their troops as soon as possible.

'Women Are Bloodthirsty' Says Art Baker

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Women are the bloodthirsty members of the species, says Art Baker, who has spent a considerable part of his adult life studying them.

His current opinion is based on an analysis of requests which come in from men, women and children to his seven-year-old television program, "You Asked For It."

"All the more gruesome requests are from women," says the handsome silver-haired Baker. "They write in asking to see sword swallowers, snakes and slaughter house scenes. One time we had a program during which a woman kissed a cobra, and afterward there were boxes of requests—all from women—asking to see it again."

Men's requests run true to form, says Baker. They are interested in sports events, animal acts and bathing beauties.

He adds: "It's a funny thing—while men are frankly interested in feminine beauty, women hardly ever show any interest in seeing muscle men, such as the various Mr. America champions."

"You'd think there would be lots of requests to see things like the Paris fashion shows, too, but strangely enough, there aren't. Women, it seems, would rather see something good and gory."

During the years he has been emcee of the program, Baker has traveled over most of the world digging up material to supply fans' requests.

Dr. Hirshberg To Be At CEA Regional Meet

FREDERICKSBURG, Va.—The North Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia regional meeting of the College English Association will be held October 26 at Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia.

The purpose of the CEA is to provide opportunities for discussion of the place of language and literature in the American schools and the concerns of English scholars in their capacities as teachers. To this end it sponsors annual regional meetings. Some fifty institutions in this area will be represented, according to present records, and over 150 teachers will attend. R. C. Simonini Jr. of Longwood College is president of the regional.

Scheduled for the morning session are a report on "Literature in the Freshman Course" by Dora Jean Ashe of Lynchburg College and a talk with demonstration and discussion of closed-circuit television as it applies to the teaching of English. The speaker will be Dean Thomas Clark Pollock of New York University who is to discuss his experience with educational television during a project sponsored by the Ford Foundation at NYU. This speaker will be introduced by Edgar W. Hirshberg of East Carolina College.

At the luncheon meeting, Dr. Harry R. Warfel, professor of English at the University of Florida, will demonstrate the close relationship between literary form and linguistic form through an analysis of selections of poetry and prose. His topic is "Grammar Not Vocabulary Makes Literature."

The afternoon will be devoted to a panel discussion of the topic "Utilizing More Efficiently Teaching Resources in English," led by P. E. Bowman of Duke University, Mildred D. Davis of Longwood College, and John C. Coleman of the University of Virginia. Institutions in this area will be surveyed for current practices, plans, and points of view as to how teaching resources in English might be more efficiently utilized to take care of mounting enrollments.

FOUNTAIN—The October meeting of the Fountain Parent-Teacher Association was held in the Fountain school auditorium on Thursday night with the president, Mrs. Eloise Bushman, presiding.

The Fountain 4-H Club members gave the devotional and program. Mrs. Susie Galloway was in charge of the program.

Following the program the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer's report were given. Mrs. Ann Mercer's second grade room won the attendance prize.

The president presented the PTA project for the year, which will be the sponsoring of a square dance each Saturday night until further notice to help pay the salary of the additional teacher employed by the school. The PTA also plans to have a barbecue supper November 1 from 5-7:30 p.m. to raise funds to help pay the additional teachers salary.

Grounds For Complaints Of Waste

While officials make an intensive evaluation of the nation's guided missile and satellite development program, attention should be given to duplication of effort in this field by the several branches of the armed forces.

Russia's successful launching of a space satellite has raised in the minds of many people the relative degree of advancement in the missile field by the United States and the Soviet Union. It has brought from members of Congress charges that the government of this nation is spending needless millions of dollars annually on duplicated efforts by various branches of the armed forces.

Most Americans are anxious for the United States to hold its superiority in the missile field. They are willing for the government to spend any reasonable amount necessary to push the development program as rapidly as possible. At the same time, American taxpayers want officials to make sure that dollars are not wasted by the millions through duplicated effort in the missile development field.

From Congressional views which have been presented, there is ground for the charges of duplication and waste in the missile development program. There is ground for speculation that expenditures may be cut by eliminating duplication without retarding the program. Indeed, a curtailment of duplication of effort might well accelerate the missile development program of the United States.

The situation demands the careful attention of top scientists, government officials and military leaders.

Not Much Chance For A Queen To Have Fun

As a class or group, royalty and its appendages doesn't rate very highly with Americans. As individuals, it's another story.

We are prone to judge people on their own merits, and royalty is no exception. On this score it is safe to say that Elizabeth II can count on a hospitality strongly tinged with something from the heart.

Though rules and regulations concerning a Queen's power and responsibilities have changed with time, the burden of the crown has added weight; and it takes a woman of outstanding qualities to wear that crown in a manner that enhances it and the traditions it has inherited.

Adulation of beauty, charm and grace are commonplace; and America's royal visitor has all of these and more... a regality of bearing, demonstrable courage, determination, and an intelligent cognizance of what she must be and do.

Her admirers are not limited to Great Britain alone.

Millions upon millions of democratic people have watched Elizabeth's strenuous course in Canada, and they'll be watching her jam-packed schedule in the United States. Many will be asking the same question that arose in our mind:

When does a Queen have fun?

We'd like to think that for a few days this young lady could afford to relax in our country, forget the Queening business, and just have a good time.

But for the record, she doesn't have much chance.

State Fair Is Making Good

By LYNN NISBET

FAIR — The Great State Fair of 1957 is living up to the ballyhoo about it being the greatest in history. It also is making good on claims that while the midway and grandstand shows afford delightful entertainment, about low per capita income and the sorry job Tarheels are doing in packaging their produce, one cannot stroll through the exhibit halls without feeling pride in the excellence of farm produce and livestock and the skill manifested in culinary and needlework.

Two or three observations seem pertinent after an opening day visit to the fairgrounds:

Emphasis was on economic values and the mechanics of growing and processing agricultural products. But to greater degree than usual, or so it seemed to your reporter, there was stress on cultural values. Above numerous individual and group farm displays were signs like these: "More Dignity and Contentment in Country Life," "Stronger Community Life," "Improved Educational Opportunities — On the Farm, in the Community," and "Finer Spiritual Values."

There were a lot more young people than older in the fair crowd, and the youngsters were more keenly interested in the exhibits—especially of mechanical gadgets—than were the older folks. Always one of the most interesting areas is the outdoor display of farm machinery—tractors, cultivating and harvesting machines, saw mills, etc., in sizes from half-horse power motors attached to light yard and garden equipment to giant machines with power literally to move mountains. Demonstrations were continuous, going on in sawing logs, grinding feed, milking cows and washing clothes—all by machinery.

LAZY — This is getting to be a lazy man's world. All the indoor and outdoor gadgets were billed as labor-saving devices. Numerous signs appealed to the visitors to "Let a motor do your work." Television screens were all over the place suggesting how the time might be spent while the machines carried on in the field or the kitchen. The fair visitors don't even have to walk around the place. Half a dozen or more "open air" trucks pulled by tractors offered a 25 cent complete tour of the fairgrounds. And they were getting a lot of paying customers. Smart operators probably took their cue from the golf courses, most of which now provide little automobiles for players to get around the links. This transportation system enables papa to take junior to ride without being embarrassed by boarding the midget trains or roller coasters.

Further contribution to the lazy comfort of visitors are the conveniently placed rest rooms in the arena building and near the other centers.

Youth — Youth was paramount, not only among the visitors but in the livestock exhibits and the way 4-H clubs and Student Fair booth dominated the fair. There were some old cows and sows and hens, proudly wearing ribbons earned in previous showings. Main interest was in the calves and pullets and pigs.

The military exhibits designed to boost enlistments in the air force, army, marines and navy featured most modern implements of war—with inescapable suggestion that these weapons might soon be obsolete. The military, as well as the agricultural and educational stuff, pointed to the future.

VALUES — The State Board of Agriculture was in session nearly all day Monday. It took only a few minutes to dispose of such matters as tightening quarantine provisions to prevent the spread of soybean cyst nematode and for the control of striga, or witchweed, a parasite that is working havoc in corn and some grasses in Eastern Carolina. After a brief discussion the board postponed action on proposed regulations for nurseries and inspection of nursery stocks.

Then the board got down to the main business of the day, and spent several hours talking about chocolate milk and milk shakes. Result of the prolonged discussion, participated in by representatives of the Dairy Products Association, was to permit "chocolate milk" to be sold if the milk content had two percent butterfat, instead of the previously required 3.25 percent. But a new definition was written for "milk shakes," requiring that the milk used contain 3.25 percent butterfat. It further prescribed regulations for use of milk shake machines "under certain conditions," one of those conditions being that only pasteurized milk of 3.25 percent butterfat content can be used in them.

Presumably any merchant can shake up some chocolate milk of two percent butter fat content and sell it if he doesn't call it a milkshake—if the shaking and pouring is done by hand. If it is shook-up by machine and dispensed by a machine the butterfat content must be at least 4.25 percent.

"It is good that we have for the time resolved the federal-aid-to-education problem back into our hands but there is a need for a warning even in face of the virtue of governing ourselves and this comes in the form of meeting the call to responsibility of caring for our own problems ourselves." — Taylorville, Ill., Daily Breeze-Courier.

Rush To Clarify Laws Of Land

By ELMER ROESSNER

When Congress reconvenes in January there will be a great rush to untangle two important laws of the land.

The tangle is such that a large section of the government's power to prevent unfair business practices may be in jeopardy.

It developed in a case the Federal Trade Commission brought against Food Fair Stores, Inc., a large food chain. The FTC accused it of getting illegal advertising allowances from its suppliers. It was accused also of not using advertising allowances for advertising.

The chain denied any shenanigans and also raised the point that the FTC had no jurisdiction. It pointed out that the Packers and Stockyard Act gives the Secretary of Agriculture exclusive jurisdiction over meat packers and, the chain pointed out, it is a meat packer as well as a great retailer of food.

BIG PACKING BUSINESS

Its meat packing, the chain pointed out, is not merely an incidental part of operating 238 stores. It has been operating a full-size meat-packing plant at Elizabeth, N.J., handling about $25,000,000 worth of meat products a year. Furthermore, this is not a "captive" plant in the sense that some coal mines are captives of the steel companies that own them and consume all their output. Most of the Food Fair packing products are sold outside the chain; only one-tenth of 1 per cent of its products are handled by its food markets.

FTC attorneys argued Congress intended the Secretary of Agriculture to have jurisdiction over only meat-packing operations of multiple-product corporations, leaving other activities under the jurisdiction of the FTC.

In an opinion announced by John W. Gwynne, chairman, the commission overruled its attorneys. It said the law made no such distinction. If a corporation packed meat, the FTC had no jurisdiction.

The case against the chain was dropped, but the FTC proceeded with cases against several concerns accused of granting excessive allowances to the chain.

UP TO BENSON

In dropping the central case, the FTC appears to have dropped it in the lap of Ezra Taft Benson, Secretary of Agriculture, who — goodness knows! — has enough other problems now.

While his department is vigilant in enforcing the laws regulating stockyards and meat packers, it has neither the staff, time nor inclination to duplicate the work of the FTC.

This opens up a fairly large loophole. It would seem that if anyone planned a large-scale violation of Federal Trade regulations, a first step might be to buy a packing plant. Then the concern could grant unequal discounts or engage in any number of unfair and even shady practices, without hindrance from the FTC. And it would probably take a long time for Agriculture agents to get around to blowing the whistle.

Of course, shady operators would be liable to prosecution by the U. S. Attorney General, or by state and even local authorities. But activities probably would have to be flagrant before these stepped in.

In amending present laws, it is probable that Congress will let Agriculture keep jurisdiction over all packing operations, but give the FTC jurisdiction over non-packing activities of companies that pack meat.

STORES LIKE PREPACKAGING—WITH SOME RESERVATIONS

Most department stores like prepackaged merchandise, but many fear that prepackaging is getting out of hand, according to a National Retail Dry Goods Association study.

Stores report fewer mark-downs on prepackaged merchandise, and that it is cheaper to handle and sells faster. However, many are annoyed at the odd shapes and sizes of the packages and the one-purpose display fixtures such packages demand, and at the obtrusive promotional material sometimes built into display fixtures supplied by the companies that supply the packaged goods.

Opinions In Brief

"Our population is increasing at an extraordinary rate. We should begin thinking more seriously about conserving our resources. One facet of the matter is highlighted by the 1957 Municipal Year Book, which reports that the great majority of American cities of over 5,000 population dispose of garbage and only 34 use salvage methods. The time will come, and probably not a decade hence, when failure to make good use of this valuable organic matter will be regarded as unforgiveable waste." —Cuero, Texas, Record.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE HAVE faith. We have all upon occasion heard a friend complaining bitterly about a particular event, and then later discovering how glad he was, after all, that it had happened. With all our knowledge, we humans are still very unsuccessful in foreseeing our future and deciding what is best for ourselves. Our tomorrows have a disconcerting way of producing new experiences and new situations which leave us changed people with changed desires.

Life is sometimes like an intersection on a super-highway. We know that we must go north to reach our destination, but the road signs tell us to turn south. If we have not driven much on such highways, we may be very reluctant to do it. But gradually we learn to have faith in the highway engineers, that somehow the turn to the south will put us on the highway to the north.

That kind of faith, on a larger scale, is what we need throughout life. So often our intentions seem thwarted. We are forced by circumstances to leave our job or to move to a new town. The money we saved for one thing has to be spent for something else. The man or woman we hope to marry marries someone else.

Have faith! Have courage! Even though you cannot see around the bend, the road leads on, by ways you do not know, to your destination.

Harvest Moon

It's Wise To Check Eyes

Dr. James S. Bailey of Charlotte is an optometrist and president of the North Carolina State Optometric Society.

Whether he is a hunter or a man who prefers the Great Indoors is something that probably only he can answer, but he has a question on his mind that should be of paramount interest to all persons who are hunters. The good doctor, in a recent news release from the state society he heads, asks, "Which color provides the most visual protection for hunters, red or yellow?"

I'm no hunter, nor am I an optometrist, but my first impression was that red offered more protection. Several people to whom I addressed the question gave the same answer.

Dr. Bailey, and I suppose he should know, disagrees. As a matter of fact, he says that if we chose red, our chances of having a hunting accident are four times greater than if we had chosen yellow.

His answer is one based on what he calls "countless tests" made by optometric research teams and the National Rifle Association. Those tests, he says, "leave little doubt that yellow is most visible to both normal and color-blind hunters." Red, which is apparently so popular among hunters, isn't even a poor second to yellow in the visual protection range, Dr. Bailey says. It's a pretty dismal fifth among six colors (not identified) used in a test conducted by the California Optometric Association.

The advantage of yellow in hunting ensembles is that it contrasts with surroundings in wooded areas, Dr. Bailey claims. Red, he adds, blends with the colors of nature, and looks gray to both color-blind and normal-vision hunters.

Concern for contrasting colors and color-blindness among hunters was recently accentuated in a Minnesota study of causes of 132 hunting accidents. That study, Dr. Bailey says, showed that color-blindness is almost twice as common among hunters causing accidents as among a cross-section of male Americans.

The apparent tragedy in the whole affair, the doctor continues, is that most color-blind hunters are unaware of their shortcomings. To help with the situation, optometric societies and hunting clubs throughout the country are currently conducting tests to determine the effectiveness of colors under different conditions of light and foliage.

Those tests should come up with some concrete findings that will help the hunter who doesn't know he's color-blind, but Dr. Bailey says the problem on an individual basis.

That's for every person who does any hunting to have his eyes checked.

Dr. Bailey and his colleagues are not trying to drum up business or whistle in the wind with their comments. Their concern is for an increased safety factor in hunting situations.

According to Dr. Bailey, "Three out of four major hunting accidents involve persons

Other Editors Saying-- Matter For Wariness

(Wall Street Journal)

Nikita Khrushchev has complained that the State Department rebuffed Russia's inquiry about a meeting between Marshal Zhukov and former Secretary of Defense Wilson.

Last summer, Mr. Eisenhower was asked whether he thought such a meeting might be useful and he replied that it might. The Russians pursued the suggestion, but were told by the State Department that no invitation had been intended in Mr. Eisenhower's answer to a hypothetical question.

He did, the President replied at the press conference, after Mr. Dulles had warned him that "we have got to beware of bilateral talks when you have allies and comrades in very great ventures like N.A.T.O. and so on." Mr. Eisenhower went on to explain that the visit might have been misinterpreted as an attempt by the two great powers to dictate to the world while the London disarmament talks were going on.

Well, for one thing, disarmament talks have been going on for many years and it is difficult to see how a visit here by Zhukov would endanger them any more than if he stayed in Russia.

For another thing, bilateral talks aren't necessarily dangerous of themselves unless they produce bilateral agreements that affect other nations. Further, as we have said time and again in these columns, as a general proposition it is always better to talk than not to talk. It is when talk ceases among great powers that their misunderstandings increase their troubles.

Now it goes without saying that since the United States has defense agreements with nations spread all over the globe — though we have never been convinced of the necessity of them all — a respect for those commitments requires consultations with them concerning decisions that affect the agreements.

But the primary purpose of any country's foreign policy is, or ought to be, the interests of that country. And it is difficult to see how our best interests can be served if we insist that each one of these countries has a right to look over our shoulder about everything we do.

The reason we are in all these great ventures that Mr. Dulles spoke of is, as we understand it, that our leadership of the free world demands it. But it is hardly leadership when the leader hesitates to issue an invitation even an enemy seeks because some of our allies might misconstrue it. It's hardly a mark of trust in that leadership that an ally would misconstrue it.

To be sure, there may have been great reasons why Marshal Zhukov should not have been issued the invitation then, and there may be good reasons why he should never be invited here. But they are not the ones Mr. Dulles gave the President. The reasons Mr. Dulles gave are, indeed, a matter for wariness. For their effect could be to abdicate the conduct of American policy to two score foreign chancelleries.

Liberals' Move Against South

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON The liberal wing of the Democratic Party seems determined to drive the Southern and conservative faction into open revolt at the very moment when that section is already embittered over use of Federal troops to mix classes in its elementary schools. The oft-predicted break between the Truman-Stevenson-Roosevelt ideologists and Dixie may have arrived, despite the efforts of the compromisers.

The policymakers named to the so-called Democratic Advisory Council by National Chairman Paul M. Butler, as well as the principles they propose for the 1958-60 platform and Presidential nominee, are extremely radical in every field — social, economical, political, foreign affairs, labor, etc.

WHY RAYBURN, JOHNSON REJECT COMMITTEE MEMBERSHIP In fact, they virtually repudiate the relatively moderate legislative program of Capitol Hill Democrats under the Rayburn-Johnson leadership. Which is why the Speaker and Senator Majority Leader refused to accept the proffered membership on the Butler Committee.

In the opinion of Rayburn and Johnson, it is the elected Democrats in Congress, not a self-appointed and self-serving group of outsiders, who make the record on which Congressional and Presidential candidates must seek a vote of confidence. INVITING "WALKOUT" Thus, with the Southern and Border states in a rebellious mood, and possessing about 150 electoral ballots if they vote solidly, Northern liberals appear to be inviting another "walkout" and the treat of a Third Party. And this time, although it has not happened in modern political history, the 1960 Presidential decision could be thrown into the House.

Under these circumstances, the South could more easily enjoy a balance of power and make deals than it possesses at the polls themselves. In view of the Butler faction's aggressive and radical activities, this prospect may be tempting even to historic Democrats, if the school integration issue is not settled satisfactorily and rationally.

FAVOR IKE'S ACTION. IN LITTLE ROCK Southern politicians have not failed to note that almost every important member of the Butler group—Truman, Stevenson, Mrs. Roosevelt, Harriman, Williams, Acheson—have supported the Eisenhower action in the Little Rock dispute.

In fact, their libes at the Presidential original patience, tolerance and delay may have helped to force his hand in the contest for the colored vote in the North. In addition, most of them favored the original Brownell Civil Rights Bill, which specifically permitted the employment of military force in every integration impasse, and barred jury trials for defendants. BUTLER'S POLICY MAKERS OFFENSIVE TO SOUTH But it is not only in the racial controversy that Butler has named policy makers offensive to the South.

John Kenneth Galbraith, a Harvard professor, heads the Advisory Subcommittee on Economic Policy. Galbraith advocates progressive inflation, or about 3 per cent a year, whereas even the present level frightens Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, the Democrats' expert in this field on Capitol Hill. Galbraith also believes in low tariffs and generous foreign aid. Both schemes constitute a threat to the expanding and industrial South, where sentiment on both foreign trade and aid is changing rapidly.

Call Of Allahu Akbar

By WILTON WYNN

CAIRO (AP) — School has started again in a thousand-year-old university in the shadow of the homes and minarets of Old Cairo. Enrolled this year are students from 54 countries where the muezzin calls "Allahu akbar" (God is great) from the minaret.

The university, called El Azhar, is the oldest Moslem center of learning. It clings to traditions and systems begun in days when men thought the world was flat.

Even so, it is the intellectual center of the Moslem world. When its council of elders issues a decree, the impact is felt wherever the faithful gather. Its graduates fan out to carry the message of Islam to the ends of the earth.

There is no green campus, no football stadium, no ivied wall. El Azhar is a large mosque topped by three minarets. Around the columns inside, the students literally sit at the feet of learned sheikhs to study the Koran and Moslem theology.

In narrow streets and bazaars about El Azhar, the population buys and sells as it has for a Millennium. Merchants sitting crosslegged on carpets puff heavily on hubble-bubble pipes.

The air is heavy with a mixture of odors — amber perfume, tobacco smoke, boiling mutton, and spices of every kind. A woman shopper screams imprecations at a merchant who won't bring down his price. A donkey driver shouts at pedestrians to get out of the way. A weary taxicab chugs through the crowd, patiently honking as it inches along.

You step out of this noisy world into the calm and repose of the mosque.

On the left as you enter is a wooden stand where students picnic their shoes. No one wears shoes inside the mosque.

Through another arch is the sunny, stone-paved courtyard, arched on three sides. The row of arches on the east opens into a forest of columns inside the sanctuary itself. Here the gloom is cut by beams of sunlight filtered through multicolored windows near the ceiling. A mihrab or prayer niche points the way to Mecca, toward which the faithful face when they pray.

Around almost every column a circle of students squats crosslegged on soft carpets covering the floor. Seated on a wooden bench with his back to the column is a lecturer, usually bearded and wearing the white and red turban of the azhar sheikh, or learned man.

The students represent a cross-section of the Moslem world. They may be black men from Nigeria, yellow men from China, white men from Albania. But all of them study and argue in Arabic, and almost every sheikh has his hands full coping with alert young students quick to catch the teacher's in error.

In a class in grammar, the sheikh may spend endless hours teaching students the nine ways of reciting "in the name of Allah the merciful, the compassionate," opening words of the Koran.

The students study until they have acquired sufficient knowledge to pass examinations. When they have passed a probationary period, they may qualify to receive rations, supplied by income from sacred endowments. These endowments — "waqfs" — also support the sheikhs and generally cover the expenses of the university.

Some of the students are old men who have devoted a lifetime to study in El Azhar.

with below-normal vision. Almost all of the situations can be brought up to par by professional care.

"It's wise," he says, "to check your vision as well as your hunting gear before taking to the woods and fields this month. It might save your life, or keep you from injuring someone else."

The man has a good idea.

At Least 50 Dead From Asian Flu

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There have been at least 50 deaths from Asian flu—possibly many more—since the respiratory disease started sweeping across the nation several months ago.

Many of these deaths, however, were complicated by other factors such as pneumonia, or chronic illness. And many of the cases were not confirmed by laboratory tests to be Asian flu.

The flu seems to deal harshly with retarded children, who often have weak resistance to such diseases. There have been several serious outbreaks in institutions for such children in widely scattered places.

When it is considered that there have been possibly several hundred thousand cases throughout the nation, the mortality rate is very low. New York City alone has had 65,000 cases, of suspected Asian flu since Sept. 27.

Figures are hard to come by, however. Reporting techniques differ with different state health departments. Because the number of cases is so large, it is impossible to confirm by means of a lengthy laboratory test whether each one actually is Asian flu.

In many areas schools and colleges have been closed as the flu cases mount. A number of football games have been called off. A nationwide survey yesterday showed this breakdown on flu deaths:

California—14 deaths since mid-June "associated with influenza" and some still under investigation.
Wisconsin—5 deaths.

Illinois—5 deaths at the Dixon State School for Mentally Retarded Children and Adults since the disease struck two weeks ago. Precise type of flu not pinned down, however.

Pennsylvania—6 deaths, all in Pennsylvania State Training School for Mentally Retarded Children. Tests being made to determine if Asian type flu.

District of Columbia—Again the retarded child connection—one death reported at a district institution from complications following flu.

Ohio—No deaths confirmed by state health authorities, but two reported in Cleveland and one in Dayton by local doctors.

Colorado—Several suspected Asian flu deaths, but none confirmed. Denver officials report 10 in the city from tracheal bronchitis, with Asian flu suspected in several.

Michigan—14 more deaths in Detroit Tuesday from flu and complications, making a total of 10 since outbreak started.

Utah—5 deaths from confirmed flu or complications.

Missouri—2 Asian flu deaths, both in cases of chronic illness.

Oregon—One Portland death from flu, but no test for type of flu.

Indiana—One possible flu death.

New York—One Colgate University student death possibly due to flu.

Oklahoma—38 influenza deaths from Jan. 1 through June, but this includes all kinds of flu and not classified as to type.

He succeeds Mrs. Leo Shearly of Wilson in the top office. Mickie McCellen was elected vice president.

British Expert Predicts End Of Sputnik Rocket

WASHINGTON (AP)—British and American scientists disagreed today over whether the Russian satellite's carrier rocket is hurtling toward an early doom.

British astronomer A. C. B. Lovell said in Manchester, England, "I am convinced something catastrophic will happen to the rocket very shortly."

Lovell, director of the Manchester University radio astronomy station, said the carrier rocket may fall into the heavier stratosphere layers and start breaking up by tomorrow or Saturday.

But in Cambridge, Mass., the head of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said last night it is impossible for the carrier rocket accompanying Sputnik to come down in less than a week.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple said, "It will stay up for at least two months," and that the satellite will remain in the sky longer than the rocket which propelled it there Oct. 4. Whipple said Sputnik's life expectancy could not be forecast at this time.

A prediction that the Soviet sphere might drop within a week was made Tuesday by Dr. Robert Jastrow, a physicist with the Naval Research Laboratory here. Last night, Jastrow appeared to back away from that prediction. He joined Dr. Cabell A. Peelle, another physicist at the naval lab, in saying they are not attempting any accurate estimate of "an expected lifetime for the satellite."

However, Jastrow and Peelle suggested in their joint statement that electrical charges picked up by Sputnik in its flights around the earth may be shortening its life.

Meanwhile, Moscow radio reported that Sputnik has traveled about 4,750,000 miles in completing its 17th trip around the earth yesterday. The sphere has made several more trips since then.

Dr. Armand Spitz, the Smithsonian observatory's coordinator of visual observations, said sightings show the rocket is moving about 14 minutes ahead of the main satellite.

Whipple said the rocket is traveling in a smaller orbit than the satellite. He also said the rocket's maximum distance from the earth is about 550 miles, compared with computations a week ago which indicated the rocket's farthest-out point was 563 miles.

In California, the Sacramento Astronomical Society reported what it said it believed to be the first officially recorded West Coast sighting of Sputnik. The sighting was credited to Mrs. Arthur S. Leonard, wife of the society's president.

A Connecticut congressman who recently visited Moscow said the Russians told him they are planning to fire a second satellite into outer space soon.

Rep. Patterson (R-Conn.) also said the Soviets are preparing to launch another 95 high-altitude rockets during the rest of the International Geophysical Year, a worldwide scientific research effort running through the end of 1958.

Patterson, a member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, is enroute from Moscow. His remarks were in a news letter released by his office here.

He said the Russians told him their second satellite will be equipped with special storage batteries to radio back any information it gathers. He said he understood other planned satellites are expected to use power from the sun, and to make telecasts.

Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) called for establishment of what he called a "scientific progress agency." He said in a letter to President Eisenhower that such an agency "could immediately attack the problems of outer space we face today."

Horseman Just Has No Chance

DUMONT, N.J. (AP)—A used car salesman, Robert Gill, 29, pleaded innocent last night to a singular group of traffic violations two weeks ago.

Hitching a horse to a public utility pole, having the horse on the sidewalk, and careless driving—that is, riding the horse against traffic.

Magistrate Felix M. Angelillis found Gill guilty and fined him $35.

Angelillis noted that Gill also could have been fined for not having a tail light.

Promises To Two Girls Backfired

LONGMONT, Colo. (AP)—A Longmont man's promise to his two Girl Scout daughters backfired more than slightly. The man, who didn't want to be identified, told his daughters he would buy a box of cookies for every box they sold during the Girl Scouts' annual cookie sale.

In all, the two girls sold 66 boxes of cookies. The father kept his promise. He purchased 66 boxes—for $29.70.

Got Unexpected Check In Mails

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Colorado State Treasurer Homer Bedford received an unexpected check for $100 recently. The check came from John Curtis Wood of Chester, Ind., one of 1,017 World War I doughboys who borrowed up to $200 each as educational loans from the state in 1919. Bedford said it was the first time in almost 20 years Colorado had received any payments on the loans, 839 of which are still outstanding.

NAACP Brings Many Charges Against Klan

MONROE, N.C. (AP)—The NAACP has thrown a blanket of charges against the Ku Klux Klan around the case of a Negro doctor charged here with performing a criminal abortion on a white woman.

Robert F. Williams, president of the Union County chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, yesterday outlined a series of racial incidents which he said led to the arrest of Dr. A. E. Perry.

Perry, vice president of the NAACP chapter, was charged with performing the abortion on Mrs. Lillie Mae Rape, a white woman, on Oct. 4.

Police Chief Al Mauney said, "Police files are open." He declined to comment further on the NAACP statement. However, he said earlier that he had a statement signed by Mrs. Rape.

Mayor Fred M. Wilson also declined to comment on the NAACP statement, but said, "I have every confidence that Chief Mauney is doing a good job in upholding the law and maintaining the peace in Monroe."

Williams said, "We know that the date of inception for this case was July 25, 1957, when nine Negroes were denied the right to swim in the city's only tax-supported pool."

The Negro leader then said that because Perry's name was "synonymous with civil rights" he became the target of the Klan.

The abortion charge, Williams asserted, came at the insistence of a white physician, "whose car Negroes have repeatedly insisted was seen in a Klan motorcade."

However, Williams named neither the doctor nor the witnesses, Chief Mauney, at the time of the arrest of Dr. Perry, said white physicians here suggested that the case be investigated.

Police Stepped In On Dog's Plan

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP)—A Bismarck dog found a way to beat the heat—until police made him cut it out.

Officers received a complaint that an Irish setter was jumping into the lily pool at the Baptist old people's home and making a nuisance of himself.

Mike And Liz Todd Are Ready To Rock New York With Party

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP)—Mike and Liz Todd are set to rock the town tonight with their "intimate little party for a few friends."

Already the spurge in pink-and-blue-spangled Madison Square Garden is sure to be remembered—for causing the wildest Broadway ticket scramble of the season.

"You'd think with 18,000 invitations to pass out, everybody would be happy for once," reports the Tods. "Instead, about 60,000 people are peevish at me."

Besides those packed into the vast arena for the show-dance-picnic-giveaway, television spectators will view 90 minutes of the festivities over the CBS coast-to-coast network.

The party is a salute to the first anniversary of the premiere of Todd's prize-winning film, "Around the World in 80 Days."

Mrs. Todd, sometimes known as film star Elizabeth Taylor, will be on hand for one moment of high formality. She'll mount a specially built stairway in the center of the Garden to cut the birthday cake—a baked confection 30 feet in diameter, 14 feet high, coated with pale blue icing.

The 18,000 guests include a cluster of movie celebrities (Fernan-del, the French star, is coming over from Paris just for the night... Texas Rangers and Australian beauty queens.

Also on hand are to be working teams from television stations in England, Italy and Canada.

Everybody has been asked to dress in evening attire.

"Liz insists on black tie for all the guys," Mike notes.

The programed entertainment embraces about every facet of the entertainment business. Spectators will see the 74-piece Symphony of the Air, conducted by Arthur Fiedler; a couple of circus elephants; a spectacle called "Dancing Waters"; Duke Ellington's band; a troupe of performing palomino horses flown in from San Diego, Calif.

There's been no curfew set for when the show will end.

The tentative food menu (people keep calling up to offer all kinds of things) include 15,000 hot dogs, 10,000 Chinese egg rolls, 500 gallons of elder, endless pizza pies, 15,000 doughnuts.

A motley of gifts have been contributed to the party, and Mike plans to make sure every guest gets at least one memento. He has rented two parking lots to store the presents temporarily.

First Direct Distance Dial Phone Call Made

TARBORO — From the "Original Washington," North Carolina's first Direct Distance Dialing telephone call was made yesterday at 6:15 p.m., when Lieutenant Governor Luther Barnhardt dialed Utilities Commission Chairman, Stanley Winborne, in Raleigh. The call was televised by station WTNB at Washington.

The first call marked the beginning of a new era in communications for citizens of Washington as well as those in Bath, Belhaven and Aurora. Today, local citizens began dialing many long distance points from their telephones without operator assistance.

Officials of the telephone company state that some 45 points, located in North Carolina and the nation, can be dialed by subscribers in Washington and adjacent towns. Later, as telephone exchanges in other places are able to receive Direct Distance Dialing calls, they will be added to the list of places that subscribers can dial.

Complete information and instructions for making Direct Distance Dialing calls have been issued to affected telephone subscribers in the form of a DDD directory and a special instruction folder. In addition, the telephone company has had its representatives appear before civic clubs and other groups to present special demonstrations on the new procedure of making long distance calls.

First, subscribers in Washington and the other three communities will dial the numbers 120 to gain access to the DDD equipment. Then either a special code or area code should be dialed as indicated in the new DDD directory plus the number of the distant telephone.

When these numbers have been dialed, an operator will quickly ask for the local subscriber's telephone number, punch a key to release the DDD equipment, and the distant telephone will ring. Intricate electronic equipment will record, on a punched tape, the duration of the call and all other pertinent data necessary to prepare the subscriber's bill mechanically.

Inauguration of North Carolina's Direct Distance Dialing exchange at Washington comes after some two years in which the company has constructed a modern and new telephone building, installed necessary additional local and long distance equipment, converted the exchange from manual to dial, changed telephone numbers to the two-letter and five-numeral system and added substantially to the outside plant facilities in Washington. The expansion and improvement program at Washington has involved an expenditure in excess of $2 million.

Tranquilized

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—The crowds waxed ecstatic yesterday as Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip rode through this restored colonial Virginia Capitol in a phaeton drawn by two brown horses — but the horses were pretty tranquil.

There was reason for the equanimity of the horses. They had been dosed with tranquilizing drugs against any sudden show of spirit that might jeopardize the safety of the royal British couple.

In the past five years more than one million persons have deserted farms in Japan for city jobs.

Wife Is Leaving Counterspy

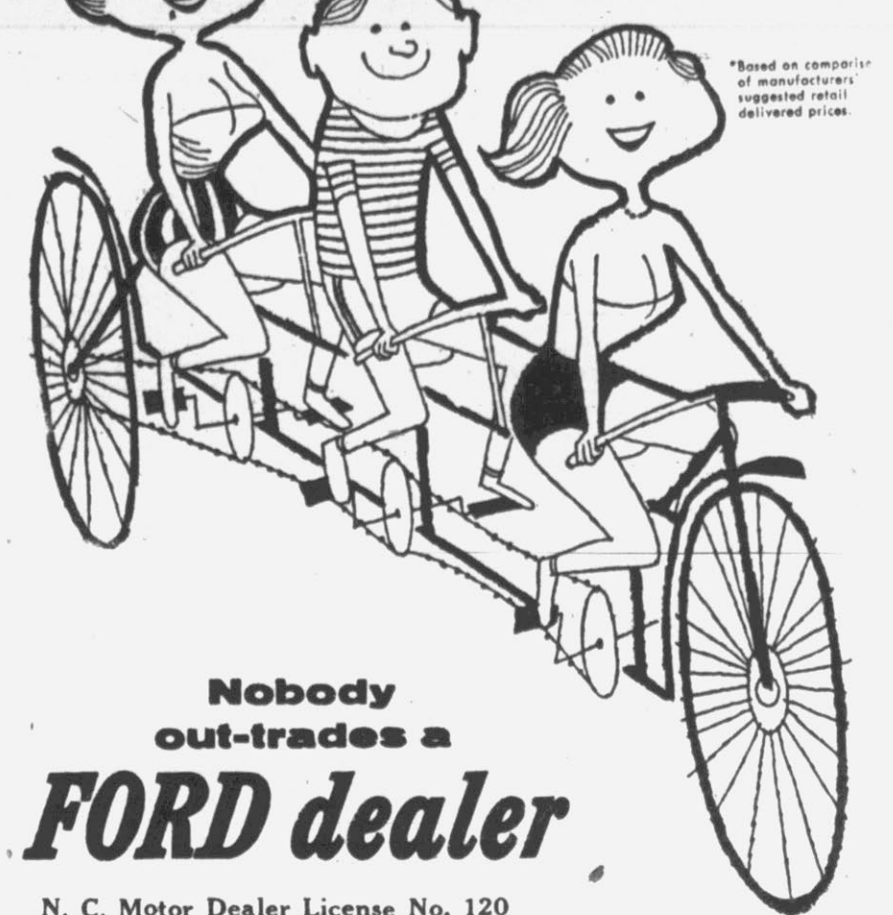

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The wife of Boris Morros, Hollywood's FBI counterspy, has filed suit for separate maintenance.

Mrs. Catherine Morros charged cruelty in the suit filed yesterday in Superior Court. She said Morros, movie producer and composer, failed in recent years to provide support for his own father.

Bitten By More Than Curiosity

GARDNER, Mass. (AP)—Norman Casavant was bitten by more than curiosity when he wondered what was lying on the floor of a beach wagon parked near his home.

When he peered in a window for a closer look, a large St. Bernard dog leaped up and sunk his teeth in Casavant's nose.

Baby Is Killed By Black Pepper

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Ten-month-old Dave Fulford died yesterday after eating black pepper. Police said the child was being dried on a kitchen table after a bath and, when left for a moment by a woman taking care of him, reached for the pepper shaker and swallowed a large quantity.

The mother, Mrs. Dorothy Fulford, was at work at the time.

No Fire Alarm Box In School

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP)—So many false alarms were sounded from the first floor of the Tolman High School when it was built 30 years ago that the fire alarm boxes were disconnected.

Principal James P. McGeough told the school committee this week the boxes haven't been connected since then. He added, however, that an alarm box is in working order just outside.

PERMANENT TYPE

KEEPS YOU GUARANTEED* SAFE AGAINST FREEZE-UPS, RUST-UPS... AND IT WON'T ROT HOSE

SEE YOUR DEALER NOW!

Now is the time to install your anti-freeze. If you wait, a freeze may catch you unprepared, or your serviceman may be too rushed to give you the complete cooling system servicing it needs.

Anti-Freeze Week has been set aside by your dealer as the best time to service your cooling system and make your car guaranteed safe for the entire winter with Du Pont "Zerex." See your serviceman now, during Anti-Freeze Week, and get "Zerex" with MR-8!

How MR-8 protects your car

- 1. Works in all waters. Du Pont "Zerex" anti-freeze with MR-8 is compatible with all types of water. Even in hard water the inhibitor stays in perfect solution. Hard water makes the inhibitors used in many anti-freezes precipitate out in use, materially reducing their protective qualities.
- 2. Will not rot rubber hose. Du Pont "Zerex" anti-freeze with MR-8 will not rot or soften rubber hose because it contains no oil. Oil is extremely harmful to some radiator hose, softening or rotting it sometimes in one season. Then the hose may collapse or burst, causing overheating and engine damage.
- 3. Neutralizes all acids. The seven different metals used in modern cooling systems can become corroded when a permanent anti-freeze solution turns acid. However, "Zerex" with MR-8 has extra "reserve alkalinity" that gives winter-long protection from the corrosive action of cooling system acids.
- 4. Keeps rust in suspension. Du Pont "Zerex" anti-freeze with MR-8 keeps cooling systems clean and free-flowing. Because "Zerex" contains no oil, it does not cause rust to stick to cooling system surfaces and clog radiator passages, which can cause overheating and engine damage.

DU PONT GUARANTEE
"Zerex" anti-freeze will protect the cooling system of your car from freezing, rust or corrosion for one full winter—and will not leak out—if used in a properly operating, watertight cooling system and if used according to Du Pont directions printed on the "Zerex" container.

Du Pont guarantees, too, that "Zerex" will not boil away and can be used with either high- or low-opening thermostats, at high or low altitudes in extreme driving or weather conditions. "Zerex" will not harm rubber hoses, gaskets, pump packing, metal parts of the cooling system or car finish. "Zerex" mixes perfectly with water, flows freely and transfers heat efficiently.

Russia Apparently Trying To Spread Hate And Fear Of Turks In Mid East

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (U)—Russia apparently is promoting hatred and fear of Turkey throughout the Middle East in a calculated effort to extend its influence over the whole Arab bloc.

This is the tentative conclusion of high officials here on the question why Russia and Syria are pushing so intensively the idea of an Arab league, a U.S. ally, is planning to attack Syria.

According to this explanation, Turkey in Arab minds as the tool of the United States and the enemy of Syria. They hope thus to rally the rest of the Arab nations behind Syria against the alleged Turkish threat.

In such a situation Russia then presents itself to the Arabs as their friend and protector and the United States as the ally and friend of their "enemy," Turkey. This maneuver would coincide exactly with Russia's evident purpose of breaking down United States and other Western influence in the Middle East and substituting Soviet influence in order to get at the oil fields which are vital to the Western economy and the transportation centers vital to its strategy.

So far the Arab states generally have taken the position that if Syria were attacked by Turkey they would stand with Syria. This is standard Arab unity politics. But countries like Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Lebanon are regarded here as fundamentally opposed to the spread of Soviet authority in the area and even Egypt is represented by some informed officials as much worried about the situation. Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference yesterday that he thought it was unlikely that the present state of Middle East tensions would lead to an outbreak of war. He attributed his confidence in this respect to the fact that the United Nations is watching the situation. "The eyes of the world" are focused on events there and everyone would know very quickly anything that happens.

Nevertheless, Dulles thought it necessary to warn Russia that the United States regards Soviet charges of aggressive intent on Turkey's part as a "smokescreen" behind which the Russians may be planning something much more sinister than mere propaganda attacks.

When he was asked what the United States would do should Turkey be attacked, he replied in blunt language: "Certainly if there is an attack on Turkey by the Soviet Union, it would not mean a purely defensive operation by the United States with the Soviet Union a privileged sanctuary from which to attack Turkey."

In these words he was clearly reaffirming the announced United States intention of going to Turkey's assistance should it be attacked, and of readiness to carry the fight to Soviet territory.

Highly placed U.S. officials said that they knew of no plan and no consideration on Turkey's part of any attack on Syria.

The danger most feared here is that with tensions and excitement in the area whipped up to a high peak by Soviet and Syrian propaganda, some border incident might get out of hand.

The hope is that development of debate in the U.N. will tend to center the conflict there in a battle of words and that the Arab states whose ties are with the West will stand firm in their resistance to Soviet lures and pressures.

'South Pacific' Movie Script Slightly Changed

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (U)—The tall, mature man in the crew cut was watching the filming of a "South Pacific" scene more intently than the usual visitor. And no wonder—it was Oscar Hammerstein II.

The scene was a dramatic one in which Emile DeBeque (Rossano Brazzi) turns down a proposal to spy on the Japanese with Lt. Joe Cable (John Kerr). Between takes of the long scene, director Josh Logan came over to confer with Hammerstein.

Hammerstein wrote the play with Logan and penned the lyrics to accompany Richard Rodgers' songs. He naturally has a proprietary interest in the movie.

The scene I watched was remarkably faithful to the original, which I had recently seen on the stage with Mary Martin in her original role.

"Yes, we haven't changed the story much, except to fit it into the cinematic medium. There are some obvious things which you can do with movies but not on the stage," Hammerstein said.

"It's pretty much the same thing we have done with the other three films that have been made from our musicals. When the studios put out a lot of money for a property, they generally use it."

Of the three R&H musicals filmed so far, Hammerstein said he thought "Oklahoma!" and

"The King and I" were well done. He had some reservations about "Carousel."

What about the other three R&H musicals?

"There have been no offers that I know of for the..." he said. "I have an idea that some day I may re-work 'Allegro.' I don't expect to do anything more with 'Me and Juliet' and 'Pipe Dream' Why? I hate them."

There is happy news in the fact that the famed team is getting busy on a new musical. It will be based on a book about San Francisco's Chinatown by C. Y. Lee. "The Flower Drum Song," Hammerstein said he will write the script with Joseph Fields. He added that Rodgers is recovered enough from his recent illness to start work on the music.

Composer Gene Austin, who wrote "When My Sugar Walked Down the Street," joined the U.S. Army at the age of 15.

Czechs In Trouble Over Resettlement

By HANNS NEUERBOURG
PRAGUE (AP)—Thousands of houses stand empty in rural and small-town areas of Communist Czechoslovakia while the capital, Prague, is packed to capacity.

Referring to the "housing shortage," Premier Vilam Siroky last summer promised a 50 per cent increase in construction of state-owned promised a 50 per cent increase in construction of state-owned apartment buildings.

At about the same time, Rude Pravo, Communist party mouthpiece, told its readers that hundreds of "fine little houses are waiting" for occupants outside of Prague.

Czech newspapers report that 120,000 Prague apartments are overcrowded and 11,000 people live in "emergency" quarters. And yet, between January and June, only 134 Prague citizens moved out of the capital into some of these "fine little houses."

Contradictory? "Frontier resettlement" is the keyword denoting the problem. It means the resettlement of the areas from which nearly two million Sudeten-Germans fled or were expelled after World War II.

Up to now, frantic Czech re-population efforts have had little success. Most of the Sudeten towns now have half or even less of their prewar population.

The latest edition of the municipal directory of the Czechoslovak Republic lists 348 communities as no longer in existence. These include towns of 2,000 and more inhabitants.

Villages immediately adjacent to the border were razed to eliminate hideaways for refugees fleeing the country. Other abandoned communities are slowly crumbling or form part of large military training areas. The government has denied published reports that Soviet rocket bases have been set up in these areas.

Why are people hesitating to move into the frontier areas? Most Czechs agreed with the answer of a former Nazi persecutee: "People don't feel safe there."

This feeling is fanned by recurrent warnings of German "revisionism" and is apparently the chief motive keeping people away from the "fine little houses."

Revisionism, in Czech official terminology, may mean either a revision of the present border—although the Western Big Three have given assurance it is final—or a return of the Sudeten Germans to their former homes.

Controversy Over Elizabeth Is Kept Alive By British Papers

LONDON (AP) — The controversy over how Queen Elizabeth II should do her job continued today with an editorial calling for removal of the "velvet curtain" between the Queen and her people, and another asserting most Britons want her to stay the way she is.

The pro-Labor Daily Mirror, which claims a circulation of 4½ million, said the 31-year-old monarch is the victim of her own court circle—"professional courtiers, flunkies, advisers, hangerson, the relics who still see Queen Victoria's ghost walking in the palace corridors."

"The truth is that reform of the court is overdue," it said. "There is still far too great a gulf between the royal family and the people."

"Why," the paper continued, "should the Queen have to wait until her Canadian trip before she can emerge as a polished, assured TV star? (Elizabeth made her first live television appearance—an informal speech to the Canadian people—during her visit to Ottawa.)

"Why can the Queen be televised opening Parliament in Canada but not yet opening Parliament in London?"

Why, in Paris, could the Queen, smiling and unflustered, spend 15 utterly informal minutes literally mobbed by thousands of guests at a reception?

"Don't blame the Queen. She is young and human—human enough to kick off her shoes when her feet hurt."

"Don't blame the Duke of Edinburgh. He is human enough—and why not?—to tell press photographers to go to hell when he feels like it."

"Why can't this humanity get through to the people more than it does now?"

The Conservative tabloid Daily Sketch, on the other hand, insisted that most Britons want the royal family to conduct itself in accordance with tradition.

"The wish of the everyday ordinary people is that the Queen should stay exactly the way she is," insisted the Sketch.

"They like the queen they have got. They don't want a custom-made Queen, made to the measure of her critics."

The fuss over royalty started with a critical outburst by Lord Altrincham, 33-year-old peer, John Osborne, 29-year-old playwright and leader of Britain's "angry young men" intellectual clique, and Malcolm Muggeridge, former editor of the magazine Punch, followed up with jibes at British royalty or the way it was operating.

The British Broadcasting Corp., which had canceled a television interview with Muggeridge, on not be allowed to give his views on royalty.

Not Even Sure If Divorcee Alive

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When actor Charles Winninger, 73, appeared in court to ask that his alimony payments to actress Blanche Ring 61, be cut, he said:

"Why, I'm not sure if Blanche is still alive."

At this point yesterday, Superior Judge Wallace Ware ordered the case continued and said: "In heaven's name, let's get busy and find out if she's still alive."

Newsman ascertained last night that she is indeed alive and residing at a New York City hotel.

The actor asked that the alimony be cut from $175 a week to $50, saying he had paid his former wife "more than $300,000 since we separated in 1923."

Winninger now is married to actress Gertrude Walker.

BIG CANTALOUPE
PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—O. W. Meyer has grown a lot of big cantaloupes but he had the prize this year. It weighed nine pounds and measured 25½ inches around one way and 28 inches the other way.

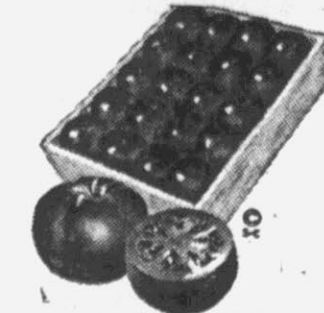

He would continue to appear on BBC programs. But a BBC spokesman indicated the 54-year-old journalist, one of the nation's most controversial TV personalities, would not be allowed to give his views on royalty.

Greenberg Fired, DeWitt In Line

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bill DeWitt of St. Louis, a man with 28 years of baseball background, seems to have the inside track to become the next general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

The Indians' directors fired Hank Greenberg yesterday without any mention of who might succeed him. Those in the know say DeWitt is being considered.

DeWitt, 55, who was with the St. Louis Cardinals, the St. Louis Browns and the New York Yankees at various times, says he's interested in the Cleveland job, although he hasn't been approached.

"I'm very happy in my present position," he said, "but a fellow's always willing to improve himself. His present position is coordinator of the major league's fund for aid to minor league clubs.

Although 10 of the 13 directors voted to fire Greenberg, none had a bad word for him. They dropped him because they believe the fans didn't like him, he had a bad press, and a new face might stop the steady decline in attendance.

At yesterday's session no mention was made of moving the franchise, and Greenberg called such rumors "ridiculous."

Talk that the team would move to Minneapolis started last season, when attendance fell to 722,256 as the club finished sixth for its worst performance in a decade.

After the last game, Greenberg fired the field manager, Kerby Farrell, with the comment that injuries to key players might have had some effect on his poor showing.

Greenberg hired Bobby Bragan to succeed Farrell, and the directors said Bragan has their "full support."

There was some question whether the club lost money in 1957. Greenberg said it didn't. President William R. Daley smiled and said: "I suppose we could appreciate certain items and make it appear that we operated at a profit."

Greenberg said he plans to stay in Cleveland and keep his stock in the team—a reported 20 percent.

He may be called on to help select his successor.

Shakeups Coming For 'San Francisco Giants'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bill Rigney, retained as manager of the San Francisco Giants for two years, says Californians may see an almost entirely different club than the one that played at the Polo Grounds in New York.

The only two players sure to be in the lineup — "untouchables," Rigney calls them — are outfielder Willie Mays and southpaw Johnny Antonelli.

President Horace Stoneham signed Rigney, practically a local product, to a new contract yesterday. He said both he and the manager were satisfied with the terms, but he didn't say what they are.

Rigney, 39, lives across San Francisco Bay in Walnut Creek and played ball for the now-defunct Oakland Oaks of the Pacific Coast League before joining the Giants. He played for Stoneham nine years as an infielder and managed the team to sixth-place finishes the past two seasons.

Next year will be different, he says. "The new surroundings will affect the club. This city has enthusiasm and it wears off on the players. New York wasn't supplying the enthusiasm."

The bespectacled manager talked with reporters at Seals Stadium, where the Giants will play next year. A new municipal stadium is to be completed for 1959. Rigney said Mays should hit better because of the shorter center field — 410 feet as compared with 483 at the Polo Grounds. He said the cooler weather here "should make the players stronger."

The Giants announced the purchase from world champion Milwaukee of reliever Dave Jolly, who posted a 1-1 record last year.

Tar Heel-Terp Game For Queen Is Kept Off TV

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Football fans won't be able to see the Maryland-North Carolina game on their television sets Saturday.

The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. has ruled that the game, to be played before Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, cannot be shown on TV.

William W. Cobey, Maryland's athletic director, said last night the NCAA decision was announced to him by James H. Weaver, commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference who said he received word from Asa Bushnell, NCAA television program director.

Cobey said he understood the ruling was based on a policy of not locally televising football games involving NCAA teams when other contests played by NCAA teams are scheduled for the same time within a 90-mile radius.

Williams Wins 9th Bat Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Thumpin' Ted Williams, an old hand at winning American League slugging championships, grabbed his ninth crown in 1957 with a lustrous .731 average—highest in the majors in 16 seasons.

Statistics compiled by The Associated Press showed that the Boston Red Sox outfielder accumulated 307 total bases in 420 at bats. Not since Williams won his first slugging title in 1941 with a .735 average has any player in either league exceeded that mark.

The 1957 National League slugging championship went to Willie Mays of the New York Giants for the third time. The flashy outfielder accounted for 356 total bases in 585 trips for a .626 percentage.

Slugging averages are arrived by adding the total bases on all hits (one for a single, two for a double etc.) and dividing the total by the number of official times at bat.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, the American League slugging champ in 1955 and 1956, ranked second to Williams with a .665 average. Washington's Roy Sievers, the league home run pace-setter with 42, finished third with .579.

The St. Louis Cardinals' Stan Musial, a six-time slugging leader, was runnerup in the National League with a .612 mark. Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, who had the most total bases in either league, 369, wound up third with .600.

Wilmington Pro Is Leading Field

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — A slender Wilmington Pro, Terry Malan, held a two-stroke lead over the field today as play entered the second round in the annual Carolinas PGA golf tournament.

Malan and the 70-odd other pros and a scattering of amateurs, battled swarms of mosquitoes coming in from the nearby Trent River yesterday. But seven of the pros managed to better par 70 on the 5,790-yard New Bern Country Club course by from one to four strokes.

Malan, previously little known in Carolinas pro circles, fired a four-under par 66, two strokes better than Clarence Owen of Hickory and Mack Briggs of Rock Hill, S.C., with 68.

Owens' 63 won for him an all-expense paid trip to the National Seniors PGA tournament at Dunedin, Fla., next month. Four players turned in 69s. They included Gene Hamm of Durham, Wayne Halesy of Martinsville, Va., Avery Beck of Kingston, and Mack Main of Danville, Va. Jim McNair and Joe Worrell, a pair of Charlotte pros, were even par with 70s.

Mike Souchak, the pre-tourney favorite in the absence of Julius Boros, the 1956 champion, finished with a 72 with about a dozen others.

Basketball Pioneer Recalls First Game Played

By REESE HART
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Basketball has become too exciting and professionalized, in the opinion of the only survivor of the first game of basketball played 66 years ago.

Now 87, Raymond Kaighn recalls vividly the cold December day in 1891 when he and several other football players trotted into the gymnasium at the YMCA Training School in Springfield, Mass., and played the first basketball game.

"We used a soccer ball," Kaighn said. "It turned out that all of the players wanted to shoot—just like today."

Kaighn, whose appearance belies his years, has a keen memory. He said, "basketball is tremendously faster today. It's too exciting. The fast pace keeps you keyed up constantly, the tension is terrific. I have to take things a little quieter."

Basketball has become too professionalized, Kaighn declared, because of "overemphasis on the desire to win. Basketball has become a big business." In contrast to the early years of basketball

Kaighn recalled, "today's coaches do all the thinking for the team as a whole. It's gotten to be a serious business because they want to win, win, win."

Kaighn entered Springfield YMCA Training School in 1891, taking the course for executive secretaries. After completing the course, Kaighn went to St. Paul, Minn., where he introduced YMCA work to Rice County and basketball to the Hamline University.

Kaighn was a member of the staff of the International Committee of the YMCA in New York before retiring at the age of 70.

For the last six years he and his wife have made their home in this peaceful, tree-studded college community.

Kaighn enjoys talking about his early basketball days. He played on the Springfield football team in 1891 along with Dr. James Naismith, who invented basketball, and Amos Alonzo Stagg, the famous coach. Naismith died in 1939. Kaighn and Stagg still correspond occasionally.

Looking back to 1891, Kaighn said, "We were all tired of Swedish calisthenics. We wanted a winter sport that would fill in between football and baseball. We wanted one with the excitement of football but without the danger."

So Naismith began working on the idea of the new game.

"He was going to use boxes for us to throw the ball in," Kaighn said. "But the janitor couldn't find boxes. Instead, a peach basket was installed at each end of the gymnasium. The baskets were fastened at the base of the balcony running track. There were 18 players in the first game, nine on each side, and 13 rules to the game."

When the ball would go into the peach basket, the janitor would have to get a ladder and retrieve the ball. He said, "one of the players, I don't know who, thought about taking the bottom out of the baskets."

Kaighn has seen many basketball teams but none as great, in his opinion, as the 1936-37 University of North Carolina team which was undefeated and won the national championship.

Big New Bern Tackle

TANK MCLEWHORN, a 6'-250-pound junior tackle for New Bern will be in the lineup tomorrow night against Greenville at College Stadium. McLawhorn was an All-Conference lineman last year as a sophomore.

Hefty Bears May Force Phants Into Aerial Game

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

New Bern's Bears, with a front wall that averages close to 200 pounds per man, invades Greenville tomorrow night for a North-eastern Conference ball game — and they're picked to win by three touchdowns.

Coach Sam Arbes' visiting club will bring a 3-1 conference record to College Stadium and will match it with Greenville's 1-3 mark and a front wall that averages around 140 pounds.

For the past two weeks, the Bears have tangled with AAA clubs and will be pointing for Greenville after taking two lunkings from the higher bracket teams. Goldsboro edged them 7-0 two weeks ago and a highly-rated Wilson club dumped them 13-0 last week.

Goldsboro, of course, plowed under Greenville 25-0 in the season's opener.

Phants May Pass

Greenville Coach Bud Phillips stated today that "we know they have a big club and a good one. We may have to throw the ball a little, but we haven't made any definite plan of offense to speak of."

Phillips is having injury troubles, it was learned today. Quarterback Mack Roebuck, who will have to do any passing the G-men will do, is plagued with a cold. Albert Crawford, starting center, has been out of drill with a shoulder injury. Robert Howell, right halfback, has been bothered with a swelled knee since the Elizabeth City game last week.

The coach, in the midst of his first season here, stated that Robin Wilfong, fullback, has looked good as a runner this week. "He's beginning to run now and will help us a lot against those big boys, if he comes through."

With Wilfong, Howell and Roebuck in the GHS backfield will be halfback Charles Roberts, the leading break-away man for the Phantoms.

Should Howell be unable to play tomorrow night, Phillips will use John Boyd at that position. Norfleet Felton will fill in at center for the injured Crawford. "All four of them will see action, I imagine," Phillips said.

New Bern
Facing the New Bern club will be halfback Jean Earl Worthington, a 157-pound senior. Worthington is the team's highest scorer, fastest runner and he also does the passing and punting for the Bears. He is generally regarded by North-eastern coaches as the best halfback in Eastern Carolina.

In the line, the Bears will depend heavily upon Roger (Tank) McLawhorn, a 250-pound six-foot tackle and guard, who was All-Conference last year as a sophomore. Wallace Holton, a 180-pounder, is another standout at tackle.

Game time tomorrow night is set for 8:00 at College Stadium.

If you come out of the woods with a bag of squirrels and find a game protector waiting to inspect each squirrel don't think he is being overzealous. He is interested in what you killed, but for more reasons than just to see if you've obeyed the law.

The Wildlife Resources Commission is conducting a survey on the status of the squirrel population in the state. Their findings may influence the opening date of squirrel season.

Since some squirrels are infected with "warbles" or "wolves" which drop from the squirrel when cold weather comes, its to the advantage of all squirrel hunters if the season is delayed until the "warbles" have disappeared. The "warble" is a larvae found next to the skin of some animals. The "warble" leaves the squirrel as cold weather arrives and buries in the ground for the winter. In the spring the "warble" emerges as a fly and seeks another victim on which to deposit the eggs that will start the cycle all over again.

All county game protectors have been requested to inspect 100 squirrels bagged in their areas. They are to note the sex and other characteristics of the animals and whether they are infected with "warbles." The information gathered by the game protectors in the state will be used in establishing a biologically sound squirrel season providing a maximum kill with minimum of waste.

The survey is statewide but state biologists are paying particular attention to the piedmont section where "warbles" are more prevalent than among squirrels in other sections of the state.

Of course, your county game protector is primarily interested in seeing that the state hunting and fishing laws are upheld. But, he is frequently associated with other projects designed to bring better hunting and fishing to you.

Polly Bergen Prefers To Make An Extra Effort

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Polly Bergen could make pots of money and lead a much easier life if she floated around as a guest on television programs this season.
But—to the satisfaction of a large following of fans—she has her own program on alternate Saturday evenings over NBC-TV. Why does she make the effort?
Her answer, delivered the other evening while lounging with shoes off in her Fifth Avenue apartment, surrounded by husband, daughter, dog and cat:
"I like it. I enjoy creating something that I try to make the very best I can."
And, critics agree, she has cause—for some unfathomable reason—the first show in nearly every regular program never seems to be as good as later ones.

Besides having the chance for a tempting season of being a highly paid guest on numerous TV shows, Miss Bergen has turned down a couple of flattering offers to make films in Hollywood.
"I won't work outside of New York," she said, looking around fondly at husband, daughter, apartment, dog and cat.

Rescue Bird Far Out Over Ocean

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A large bird resembling an American eagle—picked up by a Coast Guard ship about 1,000 miles from shore—is back in port and waxing fat.
Boatswain Lambert Greenlee said the bird turned up its beak at a diet of fish but quickly gobbled up a plate of scrambled eggs.
"That 'did it,'" said Greenlee. "The bird has been feasting ever since."
Crew members are pondering whether to keep the bird as a pet or turn it over to a zoo.

Bulgarians See Conditions Ease

By HARVEY HUDSON
SOFIA (AP)—After 10 years of bitter struggle against collective poverty, living conditions seem to be slowly improving for Bulgarians.
Food is plentiful and cheap, although specific items may be scarce from time to time. This year's harvest was good. People on the streets are not stylishly dressed by Western standards but the clothing is neat.
Diplomats say that the betterment in living conditions has been noticeable since 1953, with a pronounced stepup in the pace after the 20th Party Congress in Moscow. New concessions also were made to the people after the uprising in Hungary last year.
Merchandise in the shops seems to be meager and of shoddy quality, but more and more goods are appearing. Prices are high for manufactured goods. A bicycle sells for about a month's salary for an ordinary worker.
The broad tree-lined streets of Sofia are virtually empty of automobiles. An estimated 8,000 motor vehicles are registered in all Bulgaria, and most of these are trucks.
Housing is extremely short and government regulations say each room must be inhabited by two persons. Big blocks of new apartments are being built but construction goes slowly.
Ten years ago Bulgaria was described as the tightest little police state in the Russian orbit. It may no longer be the champion in this league but it is certainly well up in the standings.
About 5,000 persons are reported held in a concentration camp, although the government claims that all political prisoners have been closed. Officially there is no unemployment. Actually, perhaps 100,000 must eke out a precarious existence on the gifts of friends or relatives.
An estimated 80 per cent of the peasants have been signed up for the Russian-style collective farms. First-hand reports continuously come to Sofia of violence used to force holdouts into the collectives.

U.S. Giving New Emphasis To Psychological Warfare

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States intends to pay more attention to psychological warfare as a weapon in the cold war against Russia.

President Eisenhower served notice of this yesterday when he picked Arthur Larson, chief of the U.S. Information Agency, to be his special White House assistant on steps to counter Soviet propaganda campaigns—including that which soared with the Russian satellite.

To succeed Larson as USIA chief, Eisenhower selected George V. Allen, a career diplomat who has served as ambassador to Iran, India, Yugoslavia and NATO and now is ambassador to Greece. No date was fixed for the change, but James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said it will occur soon.

The surprise appointment removed Larson from the agency where he has been a favorite target of congressional Democrats, who objected to his Republican political speeches.

Informed officials said, however, that in naming Larson, Eisenhower was doing more than giving him a new post behind the scenes where he would be safe from Democratic attack.

The job to be filled by Larson, they said, is an important one because it gives the Eisenhower administration a qualified official, unburdened by daily administrative problems, to concentrate full time on the propaganda aspects of the cold war.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said that "what this country needs is not propaganda but action."

O'Mahoney said that while the administration had been cutting back on defense funds and manpower, the Soviet had been succeeding with missiles and an earth satellite.

"I don't think that's the answer to Sputnik and I don't think Larson or anyone else can make it an answer," he said.

Sen. Manfield (D-Mont.), a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said "I do not believe they could have picked a better man than George Allen" for head of USIA.

"He is a career man with a wealth of experience," he said. "One thing about the appointment is that it should mean much closer liaison between USIA and the State Department."

Partly as a result of opposition to Larson, the Democratic-controlled Congress this year cut sharply into USIA appropriations. There have been rumors since then that Larson would resign, but Hagerty said the fund cut was not a factor in his change of jobs.

On His Way

MOREHEAD CITY (AP)— Melvin L. West took off at 3:16 a.m. today on a 380-mile non-stop trip to Bermuda in an open 14-foot outboard motorboat. He expected to set a record for the longest trip on the Atlantic ocean in an outboard.

The employee of a Jacksonville, N.C., radio station left the Morehead City yacht basin with a gas supply for about 71 hours, and expected the trip to take 42 hours.

He had been waiting more than a week for weather clearance. He took off when he got 48 hours clearance.

He had a radio receiver aboard, but not a transmitter.

Brando's Bride Sticks To Story

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Marlon Brando's dark and beautiful new wife sticks to her story that she is a full-blooded native of India.

Brown-eyed Anna Kashfi returned from a four-day honeymoon with Brando yesterday and promptly denied reports that she is the non-Indian daughter of a Welsh factory worker.

In Cardiff, Wales, William Patrick O'Callaghan has claimed the 23-year-old actress is his daughter Joan, born in India while he was working there as a railroad man.

In a statement issued through a movie studio spokesman, Mrs. Brando said she was born to Indian parents, but that her mother later married O'Callaghan.

She said she used Joanna O'Callaghan as her legal name, which appears on U.S. immigration records.

The statement read: "I was born in Calcutta to my Indian parents, Devi Kashfi, a civil engineer and architect, and Selma Ghose, on Sept. 30, 1934. We moved to Darjeeling shortly thereafter. I attended St. Helena's convent in Kurseong, India, until I was 17.

"When I was 16 my mother remarried William Patrick O'Callaghan. I acquired their name and used it as my legal name on my first trip to England in 1952.

"Two years ago I came to this country as a nonimmigrant visitor on a petition by Loew's, Inc. On this petition as on my marriage license my parents are listed as Devi Kashfi and Selma Ghose, both Indian.

"I was advised of my father's death during the last Labor Day weekend. I reiterate, my mother, now married to O'Callaghan, and a British citizen, is an Indian."

CHAPTER 10

Snow seldom stayed very long in the park, especially the early snows. That was true this time. By noon the next day it was gone. I had been helping my father cut our winter's supply of wood high up on a shoulder of Campbell Mountain, but there was no use to go back now. We'd be mired down in two feet of snow.

So we went to work sorting apples and putting away the root crops. Gil must have guessed what we were going to do because he went hunting.

This was the kind of work I enjoyed, sitting beside my father in the gloom of the root cellar. My father enjoyed it, too, I think. For the moment at least we shared a feeling of comradeship that was rich and complete.

We made small talk, avoiding the ugly topics that worried us: Gil's laziness and Bess's attitude toward me and Kitz, and Rafter's greed. My father, I was sure, found the satisfaction here that he had looked forward to for so long. He even got around to telling me that, come spring, he was going to borrow some money from the bank in Buhl to buy some good Shorthorn bulls. There would be no point of that unless he could persuade the other grade ranchers to get rid of their grade bulls and invest in good stock.

"We could put two, three hundred more pounds on a steer if we had purebred bulls," he said, "but it's gonna be a while of a job to make Luke Jordan and Matt Colohan see it. I've talked to a few of the boys. Johnny Strong's with me 100 per cent. Frank Dance and most of the others will go along, but Luke and Matt can't see it. I was figuring on bringing it up last night, but I saw that wasn't the time."

Neither Kitz nor Bess was in church Sunday morning. I wondered about it because they came regularly, and I couldn't remember a Sunday since I'd been in the park that both of them had missed.

I was the first one out of the building. Usually I lingered to visit the way everybody else did, and then I'd ride to the Nordine place with Kitz, Bess and Gil just ahead of us or behind us. This time I didn't wait for Gil. I had a hunch something was wrong. Maybe Kitz was sick.

But after worrying about it all the way from the church house to Anchor, I still didn't come up with anything that was as bad as the truth. While I was still in the lane, Barney Lux stepped out of the bunkhouse with his 30-30. He waited for me in front of the house, the Winchester lined on my hip.

"Don't get off that horse, sonny," Lux said as if he enjoyed saying it. "Just turn around and keep going. You ain't seeing Kitz no more."

I had never liked Lux. At that moment I liked him less than ever. I had a bad habit of putting everybody who did me dirt into a room and locking them up to gether. Gil, Bess, and Vic Toll especially. Now I shoved Lux into that room and turned the lock. I sat my saddle, waiting to get off my horse and knock his teeth down his throat, but he looked mean with that rifle in his hand. Finally I asked, "Why?"

"Dunno, Bess said you ain't coming around here no more."

"Kitsy sick?"

"Heck, no."

I didn't know what to do. I had a right to find out what this was about, but I didn't know how to get past that rifle. Lux wasn't gifted with patience. He said:

"Drag it, kid. I mean it."

I was ready to die in my spurs and ride the coyote down when Shorty Quinn came around, the house. He yelled, "Hold it, Barney! I'll take care of this."

Lux backed up, his eyes wicked. "I don't need no help."

"You shoot him and I'll blow your head off your shoulders," Shorty said.

Shorty had his gun in his hand. I said, "He means it, too, Barney."

Lux kept backing off until he could see Shorty. He said sullenly, "All right, you handle it." He wheeled and stalked back to the bunkhouse.

Shorty dropped his gun into its holster and walked toward me, shaking his head. "Sorry, Dave. He gets meep all the time. Seems like Bess ain't much better lately. I sure can't figure her."

"What's this about me not seeing Kitz?"

"It's true. I don't know the whys and wherefores of it, but them's Bess's orders."

"I've always been able to see Kitz at church," I said. "What's happened now?"

He dug a toe through the dirt, still damp from the last snow. He knew something, I thought, but he wasn't sure he ought to tell me. I said, "Shorty, you and me have always been good friends, and Kitz thinks a lot of you. Now I aim to find out about this if I have to bust into the house."

"Be the devil to pay if you do," he said. "Well, I'll tell you what I know if you'll promise to go home and behave yourself. Ain't nothing you can do but wait till Kitz's eighteen, but if you get hurt trying to see her now, or hurt somebody else, you'll make things a lot worse."

I knew then it was bad. I said, "All right, I promise."

"They had a fight," Shorty said. "A terrific fight it must have been, too. A hair pulling, scratching, biting kind of a fight. Me'n Barney was out on the range, so we didn't

DELAYED MEDAL
NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Joseph DeCost got his medal, the Army's Bronze Star, but nobody seems to know why it reached him 13 years after the award was made. He also isn't quite sure just what combat incident brought him the medal. He was fighting in Italy when the award was made on May 13, 1944.

Pivotal issues took losses of 1 to 3 points. The high-speed ticker tape was late for about a quarter hour at the start, falling behind the pace of transactions 2 minutes at worst.

In the afternoon sell-off the ticker tape again ran late and losses deepened progressively.

Lukens Steel, the specialty steel producer, was down around 5 at one time.

Chrysler and Allied Chemical were down around 3 points or so as the blue chips took a pounding in the renewed sinking spell.

Youngstown Sheet, Baltimore & Ohio, Gulf Oil, and Royal Dutch took losses in the range of around 2 points. Declines by Anaconda and Kennecott were close to that.

Du Pont's loss was well over that and Zenith was off around 3.

The steels retreated with 1-point losses shown for Bethlehem, Republic and U.S. Steel. General Motors kept its loss to a major fraction but American Telephone, usually sedate in its movements, dropped around a point.

Standard Oil (New Jersey), another big pivot issue, was off well over a point.

The parade of 1-point losers was joined by New York Central, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, Radio Corp., Chesapeake & Ohio and Loew's.

The ticker tape was a minute behind for about 7 minutes the second time and there was some slight improvement in prices as trading slackened.

Area Bible Institute Conducted Here Yesterday

THORNBURG, KURTZ, McELROY, CRAWFORD, KEY, HOWARD
... Ministers at yesterday area institute staged here.

An area institute on the "Use and understanding of the Bible" was held here yesterday at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Rev. Robert B. Crawford, President of the Greenville Ministerial Association, reported an excellent representation from throughout eastern North Carolina.

Representatives from Goldsboro, Rocky Mount, Wilson, New Bern, Kinston, Williamston, Washington, Tarboro, Ayden, Morehead City, Newport and Greenville were present for the institute.

Following registration at 10 a. m. by the Rev. Edward S. Thornburg, Rev. Crawford led the worship service at 10:30 a. m. Meditation entitled "The Bible Speaks to All" was delivered by Rev. Carl R. Key, Director of the Committee on the Use and Understanding of the Bible.

At 10:45 projects on the interpretation of worldwide Bible reading and family worship were conducted by Rev. I. S. McElroy, Secretary of the American Bible Society, Richmond, Va. and Rev. Key.

An open forum and group meeting from towns and cities reported. A presentation of a film entitled, "God's Word in Man's Language" was shown to the group.

One representative, speaking of the film, stated, "It certainly very well carried out its purposes, giving us some idea of the magnitude of the task of translating the Bible in many languages."

Rev. Morton R. Kurtz, Director of the North Carolina Council of Churches, closed the meeting with a prayer. A luncheon followed.

Local Probation Offices Moved

Work was completed this week on movement of local offices of the North Carolina State Probation Commission.

The commission switched quarters in the Court House with Navy and Marine Corps recruiters, and is now located in two third-floor offices in the east wing of the Court House. The Navy and Marine Corps personnel have moved into the single large room in the west wing which the commission vacated.

Arrangements for the switch were made by County Commissioner J. Vance Perkins who was given the job by the full board on October 7. The board acted after a request for new or renovated quarters was made by District Probation Supervisor James A. Stutts.

Stutts made the request after explaining that local representatives of the commission are working with sensitive sound-recording devices which require private offices.

Local representatives of the commission are Harry W. Douglas, probation officer for men in Pitt County, and Miss Ada Jones, Eastern Division probation officer for women.

Driver Charged In Car Collision

Vehicles collided at the intersection of Memorial Dr. and W. Fifth St. early this morning causing about $250 damage.

Investigating officers identified the drivers of the cars involved as Ola Linwood Smith, 29, of Ayden Rt. 2 and Woodrow Wilson Garris, 43, of Greenville Rt. 1 Box 104.

Smith was charged with failure to stop for a stop sign.

Capt. H. E. Wooten and Sgt. J. B. Cannon investigated.

The Newfoundland Museum, recently reopened in St. John's, contains the world's only collection of Beothuk relics, reminders of a now-extinct Indian tribe.

Little Rock Businessmen Hope They Can Break Up Deadlock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A Little Rock businessman who took part in a closed meeting with Gov. Orval Faubus will deliver a report today that might cause a jar in the integration deadlock here.

Walter C. Guy, member of a committee of 24 business leaders, pledged to uphold law and order in the crisis, said the report to the committee this afternoon "May have national impact."

"I think there is hope of resolving the problem without either political segment retreating," Guy said yesterday.

By political segments, he explained, he meant Faubus and President Eisenhower.

Guy would not say what was in the report. However, he said he probably either would make a statement or release the entire report after the committee meets behind closed doors.

Guy, a printing company executive, is chairman of a six-man businessman's subcommittee that met with Faubus Tuesday. The governor has refused any comment about the meeting other than to say that the discussion stayed in the exploratory stage. Neither Guy nor other subcommittee members revealed what took place.

The only report about what happened came from the Arkansas Democrat, which said yesterday it learned that Faubus told the businessmen the White House would have to change its attitude before there could be any basis for mediation.

Seven of the nine Negro children at the storm center of the integration dispute attended Central High yesterday without incident. The two others have been ill with influenza.

Half of the 1,100 paratroopers who were sent to Little Rock Sept. 24 to enforce a federal court order for Central High's integration went back to their base at Ft. Campbell, Ky., yesterday.
