Virginia Pupil Placement Law Killed By High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today dealt a death blow to Virginia's Pupil Placement Act.

The appeal said Judge Hoffman acted "with undue impetuosity" and said the cases gave the Supreme Court an opportunity "to lead a large section of our country out of the chaos into which the 1945 decision (against compulsory school segregation) has plunged it."

The Circuit Court said the law provided no adequate remedy to Negroes because of the fixed policy of Virginia school officials on segregation, and because another act of the Legislature calls for closing of schools and withdrawal of state funds upon any departure from segregation.

Virginia's school segregation controversy has figured prominently in the gubernatorial election campaign now in progress. The election will be held Nov. 5.

Wilson Order Slashing Funds For Research Aired After Long Secrecy

By RICHARD WESLEY WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-month old directive which the Defense Department made public only yesterday slashes military research and development spending by at least 170 million dollars.

Man said yesterday that Wilson's intent was for a careful review by each service of its research and evaluation programs in the light of the current government economy drive.

The Eisenhower administration has been criticized in the past for an alleged lack of interest in basic research—the long-range scientific investigations which frequently do not produce immediately useful results.

Absenteeism Up In City Schools; Flu-Like Disease At ECC Fading

Over 1,000 Pupils Miss School In City Today; Cause Undetermined By JIMMY ELLIS Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville's city schools today became the focal point of interest in Pitt County's troubles with flu-like diseases. The city's nine white and Negro schools, which have a total enrollment of 4,520 students, reported 1,037 absences this morning to Superintendent J. H. Rose. The report took the play away from a statement issued by East Carolina College which showed that the college is apparently past the worst part of its troubles.

Rose's report about absences in the city schools included the comment that exact causes of most of the absences could not be determined this morning. The situation is being watched closely, he said, by school and health officials.

Dr. Irons also said that the special isolation facilities set up in dormitories last week have been abandoned and that the college medical staff is able to handle all of its disease cases in the infirmary.

Both the county schools and the Health Department based their reports on spot checks made in the county. The Health Department's report is one which was ordered a month ago by the State Board of Health which is requiring each of the state's local health units to make weekly reports of numbers of flu and flu-like cases within their areas of service.

Parker-Turner Pledge Vows Saturday

JAMESVILLE—In a double ring ceremony on Saturday evening in the First Christian Church, Miss Sylvia Ann Turner, daughter of Mrs. Ferrell A. Rawles and Mr. Amazon Earl Turner, became the bride of Simon Everette Parker of Greenville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Everette Parker of Robersonville.

The Rev. W. S. Davenport officiated. Music was presented by Mrs. A. J. Holliday Sr., organist, and Miss Blanche Manning, soloist, of Williamston.

Given in marriage by her cousin, Arthur Wallace Lilley of Jamesville, the bride wore a wedding gown of blue sequin-de-sor, fashioned with Florentine neckline formed by French alencon lace, long sleeves ending in points over the hands, and princess bodice. The bouffant skirt cascaded in lace and gathered in fullness in the back swept into a chapel length train.

Her finger tip veil of blush silk illusion was arranged from a blush lace crown trimmed in pearls. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet made of two Royal orchids and stephanotis tied with matching satin ribbon and nylon illusion.

Miss Patsy Mae Fleming of Elm City, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a full length gown of capucine and rose crowspun satin fashioned on princess lines with strapless bodice, topped with a fichu. She wore a matching feather hat centered with pearls and carried a semi-cascade bouquet made of Carol Amine sweetheart roses tied with matching ribbon and nylon illusion.

Bridesmaids were Miss Lena Kirkman of Raleigh, Miss Jane Hackett of Rocky Mount, Miss Mildred Winkler and Miss Barbara Blades of Richmond, Va., Miss Erlene Perry of Washington, D. C., and Miss Sue Edmondson of Goldsboro. Their dresses and flowers were identical to that of the honor attendant.

Junior bridesmaids were Misses Kathleen and Charline Lilley, cousins of the bride, and their dresses were fashioned as those of the other attendants.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were J. R. Matthews Jr., Julius Bodden, and Lang Martin of Robersonville, Raymond Fleming of Lumberton, and Lany Griffin and Lindelle Ward of Williamston.

Mrs. Oscar Davenport was mistress of ceremony.

The mother of the bride chose for her daughter's wedding a street length dress of mauve nylon lace over taffeta with a bolero that featured scalloped bottom. The bridegroom's mother wore a street length dress of blue lace with matching accessories. Their corsages were white orchids.

Mrs. Parker is a graduate of St. Mary's Junior College, Raleigh, and the Conover School of Modeling, New York.

Mr. Parker attended the University of North Carolina, of which he was a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, and is presently employed with the Daily Reflector, Greenville.

For her wedding trip to Sea

Island, Georgia, the bride wore an imported Royal tweed suit with Higgins jacket trimmed with mink and matching accessories. Upon their return they will make their home in the College View Apartments, Greenville.

Reception Immediately following the ceremony the bride's mother entertained with a reception at the home.

The colonial house was decorated in pink and white carrying out the color motif selected by the bride for her wedding. Arrangements of chrysanthemums and fall mums were used in the wide hall and Southern smilax was woven in the winding staircase. In the front parlor, where the receiving line was formed, arrangements of carnations and stock were placed. On the table with the register a miniature bride and bridegroom under a brandy snifter were in the center of a scene decorated with pink roses and illusion.

Mrs. Oscar Davenport greeted the guests at the front door and invited them into the parlor where

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wallace Lilley introduced them to the receiving line which was composed of the wedding party.

Mrs. Clara Alexander showed them into the dining room where ice cream in pink rose molds, petite fours, nuts and mints were served by Mrs. John Henry Roberson, Mrs. Robert Russ, Mrs. Edgar Brown, Mrs. C. T. Gaines and Mrs. Irene Blount. The table was centered with a silver bowl in which sweetheart roses, pink stock, carnations, mums and stephanotis were used. Tall silver candelabras intertwined with roses and illusion flanked the centerpiece.

In this room, Mrs. Carl Abee served bridal punch from an antique silver punch bowl.

In the back hall Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kirkman presided over the bride's book. After registering, guests were invited into the gift room by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Edmondson and from the gift room into the library where Dr. and Mrs. Wallace Fleming said the goodbyes.

Jr. Woman's Club Thanks Drive Donors

Appreciation for the generous response to the Clothing Closet Drive was voiced by Mrs. Herbert Wilkerson, chairman of the clothing closet committee for the Junior Woman's Club today.

"Many useful garments were donated during the drive on Thursday. We found the residents of Greenville most generous, and Mrs. M. C. Stocks and I want to thank every one for his cooperation," she said.

The clothing is being classified and made ready for use so that needy Pitt families can begin immediately to have the benefit of it. Families whose need is known to the County Welfare Department will be aided according to this plan.

The Junior Woman's Club will continue to accept clothing even though the active drive is over. Persons interested in making donations may call 4475 or 5645 and a club member will collect them. "The drive gave the Welfare Department a good supply but the needs are still great and will continue," said Mrs. Stocks.

Julian Smiths Win High Score Honors

BETHEL—Mr and Mrs. Clifton Everett entertained the couples club on Monday night at their home. In the living room there was an arrangement of fall flowers and the dining room table was centered with a bowl of red scarlet sage and blue asters.

Mrs. Everett met the guests at the door and directed them to the living room where tables were arranged for the game. Following the third progression, the hostess served a sweet course with hot coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Smith won high scores.

Wahl-Coates PTA Sees Film On Fire Safety

A film entitled "Too Young to Burn" highlighted the Wahl-Coates P.T.A. meeting Thursday night in McGinnis Auditorium with Mrs. D. Lacy Harrell, president, presiding.

The meeting was opened with a devotional presented by Miss Sadie Harris, student teacher in Miss Mary Thomas Smith's sixth grade.

The program was then turned over to D. L. Harrell, chairman of the Safety and Civil Defense Committee who showed a film — "Too Young to Burn." The film stressed the importance of educating children the safe way to handle fire to help prevent accidents.

Mrs. Phillip Smith reported that Mrs. D. Lacy Harrell had been elected vice director of District

No. 10 of the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers when it met for its annual conference in Kinston October 16, Mrs. Harrell and Mrs. Smith represented the Wahl-Coates Laboratory School at the conference which had as its theme "For the Future—We Build."

The award for having the most P. T. A. magazine subscriptions was won by Miss Eagan's fifth grade.

The president announced that the Ways and Means Committee was completing plans for the Halloween Carnival to be held at the school on Friday night, November 1.

Miss Johnson's second grade won the attendance award.

Guild Studies Mission Fields

The Wesleyan Service Guild of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church met Monday night in the Couples Classroom with Frances Daniels, chairman, presiding.

Margaret Farley gave the devotional on "Three Rules for Happiness"—namely: 1. Learn something new each day; 2. See something new each day; 3. Do something helpful each day.

The program was given by Miss Frances Williams and Miss Lois Grigsby, in the form of a skit. They took the group on an imaginary trip to visit with the Women's Division of the six Home Mission Field Centers:

1. Mexico — Methodist Mission with the Navajo Indians.
2. Memphis, Tenn.—Bethlehem Center, centered in the Negro District.
3. Homer Tobermon Settlement House.
4. Mercy Center on Chicago's

Mission Fields

West Side.

5. Maynard MacDouglass Memorial Hospital in Nome, Alaska.

6. Southside Community Center, San Marcos, Texas.

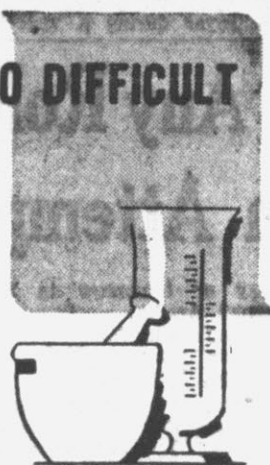

During the business meeting a report from the Methodist Children's Home in Raleigh stated they had selected a little eight-year-old girl which the local Guild will buy clothing and needy articles.

The meeting adjourned and was turned over to the hostesses—Laura Bell, Helen Perkins, May Thomas Smith, Margaret Farley and Mrs. Hooker—who served refreshments.

Free World Could Stand United

The United States and Britain are and have been well aware that the future of the free world in a large measure depends upon their solid stand against the tide of communism which would enslave the people of all nations.

For more than a century now the United States and Great Britain have stood shoulder-to-shoulder as powerful allies during the world's most chaotic era. Each realizes its fate is closely tied to that of the other. There is every reason to believe the alliance will continue so long as common ideals bind freedom-loving people in a common purpose.

Why, then, should we balk at the suggestion that these two nations pool their scientific brainpower and research development to assure their superiority in a scientific age?

The World War II partnership between the United States and Canada produced the first atomic bomb which quickly ended the great conflict. Since that time, although some information has been exchanged, many top secrets concerning development of nuclear weapons and use have been carefully guarded even from our closest allies. There has been duplication of effort within the various groups in our own nation charged with responsibility for such scientific development. It follows then there has been even more duplication of effort between the United States and Britain in this same field of endeavor.

As a result the free world is wasting countless man-hours through such duplication. It is spending millions upon millions of dollars which might be put to better use if such duplication of activities could be eliminated.

Pooling of American and British scientific information and effort may increase to some extent the possibilities of our top secrets being leaked to potential enemies; but the additional hazard involved would be insignificant in the long run.

The merits of the proposal, in our opinion, far outweigh the disadvantages which would be present in such a plan. It is an ambitious undertaking, but one which will tie staunch allies even closer together. At the same time it offers more rapid scientific advancement than the allies can achieve by each following a program independent of the other.

A Crisis That Sounds Like A Field Test

This latest Middle East crisis has all the ingredients of our now accustomed "brinks of war", and admittedly a false step by either side conceivably could spell unharmed violence.

But there's something about the whole affair that smells.

It could be, we suggest, a deliberate field test for the Communist propaganda machine to see if by applying their techniques a war scare could be instigated.

The war of nerves between East and West is fertile ground for spreading rumors and alarms; add to this calculated speeches and writings and angry gestures, and you have a jittery atmosphere all over the place.

Off the record, Syrian officials have voiced doubts as to Turkish intent or reason to attack; and for a country the size and power of Turkey to be concerned over an attack by tiny Syria... well, that's out of the question, too.

If the current fuss and fuming isn't a smoke-screen for other conditions and developments of which we are not aware, then the "crisis" looks more and more like another stratagem for breaking the will to resist by rattling an empty sabre-sheath.

Things To Look For Tomorrow

By ELMER ROESSNER

You can expect a sharp rise in demands for Federal Reserve action to make money easier.

Demands will be especially strident from small business, home builders and labor.

When the Federal Reserve Board increased the rediscount rate, thereby increasing all borrowing rates and making money tight, the announced purpose was to slow up the boom, to prevent it from running away.

Higher rates did not slow up the economy immediately. The momentum of the boom carried it along for a while. Now it is beginning to take effect. Spending for plants and equipment is being stretched out; housing construction has failed to rally. Layoffs have become more common, partly because of plant cutbacks and partly because of shifts in military spending.

OLD ANCHORS DRAG

Optimism was not dampened because consumer spending and the stock market were both holding up. But consumer spending dropped 2 per cent in September, for the first time in many months, and the stock market has been taken over by the bumps.

Many businessmen, especially small operators and those in housing and related industries, are getting scary. So are labor leaders, who have a large number of contracts to renegotiate in the next nine months. Therefore, you can count on vigorous demands for lower interest rates and the consequence, easier money. Some will frankly plead for "just one more whiff" of inflation.

Here are other predictions for business:

Power lawnmowers will be hot next summer. Manufacturers think homeowners' interest is approaching a peak; power lawnmowers next season will do as well in 1958 as outdoor grills did this year. There will be vigorous promotions for the type that can be ridden; there will be new, smaller models to interest those with tiny lawns. Dealers will be urged to stress the fact that many men who would not think of letting wives do their own washing still push old grass choppers by hand.

CREDIT CONTROL TO THE FORE

There will be more demands for Federal credit controls. Some dealers are already asking for restoration of Regulation W, and more will join in the chant. Most of these demands come from merchants who are having trouble with collectors; they'd like a little bill-collecting help from Uncle Sam.

However, stronger merchants are still opposed to controls and they are not likely to be reinstated.

You'll soon be able to buy more paint on time. The National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association, with two other trade groups, is testing a paint-on-credit plan in six communities and, if successful, it will be extended nationally. The plan uses both FHA and bank credit.

More paneled walls are coming. A large plant has just begun to produce prefabricated hard-wood plywood panels, which will get extensive promotion for use on interior walls of homes, offices and stores. Prefinished panels eliminate on-the-job staining, sealing, sanding, coating, waxing and rubbing. A wide variety of domestic and imported woods in an equally wide variety of finishes is available.

You'll hear a lot about Bubonnet wines. The importer has arranged advertising tie-ins with 26 other products and is spending $335,000 to push it along.

OLD PROMOTER NOT ANNOYED BY ANNOYANCE

The Old Promoter was chuckling when he came calling today. We gave him a cigar and asked him to let us in on the laugh.

"I was listening to radio this morning," he said, "when the announcer delivered a commercial promoting a gadget with which you can shut off a television set by remote control. 'His big point was, 'You no longer have to listen to long, annoying commercials.' It left me laughing because his commercial was so long and annoying itself."

"But," we said, "you seem to have sat there listening, even if it was long and annoying."

"Well, yes," he said. Then he demanded, "Say, what are you laughing about?"

Last year the median wage for full-time women workers between 35 and 55 was about $55 a week. That is much the same as for their younger sisters, those between 20 and 35. It's about $35

Opinions In Brief

"All literary and musical material which happens to offend anyone should be banned—whether those offended are white men, yellow men, or black men; Protestants, Catholics or Jews; businessmen or labor leaders, and so on and so forth. Then we can all live in a cultural vacuum comparable to the Dark Ages." — Industrial News Review.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

BLOT OF BLESSING?

An officer in charge of a large number of men on a naval vessel once told me, "I never cease to be amazed at the complicated network of human relationships. If Jones breaks the rules, then Smith will, if Robinson decides to do his work extra well, then Brown and White will, too. Occasionally I'm lucky enough to find someone like Black, whom almost every man looks up to, and who always does the right thing. But every one, down to the newest seaman aboard, has at least someone whom he particularly influences."

that many of us overlook—the example we set for others. We all know how others influence us; how we admire, imitate, even envy them. But it is harder to remember that there are always people who are looking the same way at us.

The Reverend John Cumming once wrote, "Every man is a missionary, now and forever, for good or for evil, whether he intends and designs it or not. He may be a blot, radiating his dark influence outward to the very circumference of society, or he may be a blessing, spreading benedictions over the length and breadth of the world; but a blank he can not be."

Our Defensive Strong Boy

By HAL BOYLE

No Longer Just Guessing

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk scrawls by a Pavement Plato: Looking into the future is one of mankind's oldest games.

This pleasant age-old pastime has an awesome quality today, however. For peering into the future is no longer mere guesswork as it was in the past, when most of the seers were obvious quacks or parlor entertainers.

The forecasters today are generally scientists, and presumably their pictures of the future are painted with facts rather than conjectures.

Not long ago Dr. W.R.G. Baker, a vice president of General Electric, prophesied that 50 years from now we would be confronted by such marvels as electronic automobiles, automatically controlled airplane traffic and "telephone television." Which would allow people conducting a telephone conversation to see as well as hear each other.

This last-named mechanical marvel, a dubious blessing if ever we have heard of one, has already reached a practicable stage. But, except for people calling long distance on Mother's Day, who really yearns to see the other over the telephone? Only teen-agers.

In his predictions Dr. Baker speculated that in the closing years of this century man's long hunger for material well-being may well be tempered by an increasing concern for spiritual satisfaction.

Unfortunately, of this there is no guarantee. Barring an atomic world war in which the entire human race might be offered up as a sacrifice to the gods of battle, it is certain that science will develop new gadgets to make our life more efficient, hurried and insecure. But there is no certainty that it will make our way of life happier or satisfying.

The prospect is that the brave new toys of the future will make us more dependent upon each other — not more self-reliant as individuals. We may not be our brother's keeper, but each of us will surely be one another's crutch. And the question of whether the machine serves man or man has become the slave of the machine will grow more pressing.

The mechanisms that spring from man's agile mind multiply with the speeding years to bring him more and more creature comforts. But the mechanism of man's heart remains largely untouched and unimproved.

The man of the future may well dwell in a plastic home heated by solar energy and surrounded by plastic grass that never needs to be cut by a lawnmower. But unless he himself can be powered out of plastic, how well will he fit in this plastic world a-comin'?

We live already in an homogenized world in which our clothing is half-synthetic and our pleasures even more so.

The undone task of science is to find, not waster formulas to improve the world outside the heart, but techniques to improve the world inside the heart. When will science come up with a foolproof human being?

Until it does the great danger of the future, as it has always been in the past and is in the present, will be that man, pursuing his old dreams, will be destroyed by his equally ancient nightmares.

WHAT ABOUT EMPLOYMENT? Those who are laid off will be less eager to spend and will hesitate to go further into debt; while those who remain on the payroll may become more cautious about spending. On the other hand, due to the long period of boom, the average consumer has become accustomed to an increasingly higher standard of living. And it is far harder to adjust one's tastes downward than to raise them upward.

Higher wages are partly responsible for the continued rise in personal incomes. However, these increases in pay rates are a cause for concern to producers, since they add to the cost of doing business. Coupled with lower sales in certain lines, they further squeeze profits.

Other Editors Saying... More Working Wives

(The Macon Telegraph)

Few of them have school-age children now, everything costs so much more, jobs are to be had almost for the asking, friend husband has become used to the idea, the social taboo on working wives has vanished. So it's not surprising that by far the greatest recent increase of any single group in the working force has been that of married women 35 years of age and older.

The proportion of single women who work fell 10 per cent in the last nine years, says the U. S. Census Bureau. A probable reason would be earlier marriages. The proportion of women under 35 living with their husbands and going to work regularly rose 20 per cent. But the increase was no less than 50 per cent for women 35 or older and living with their husbands. The older working women reportedly show more regularity on the job than younger women. Many of the latter leave their jobs to have children or to go to school.

Last year the median wage for full-time women workers between 35 and 55 was about $55 a week. That is much the same as for their younger sisters, those between 20 and 35. It's about $35 a week less than the typical full-time male worker pulls down, but $35 a week added to the average family's income can spell the difference between having to scrimp all the time all along the line and living more comfortably.

SOME JOHNNIES NEVER COULD READ

(The Charlotte News)

Searching for a salty size-up of the sad state of book-learning today, we stumbled across the following editorial lament:

"When we were boys, boys had to do a little work in school. They were not coaxed; they were hammered. Spelling, writing and arithmetic were not electives; and you had to learn."

"In these more fortunate times, elementary education has become in many places a sort of vaudeville show. The child must be kept amused and learn what he pleases. Many sage teachers scorn the old-fashioned rudiments, and it seems to be regarded as between mistletoe and a crime for a child to learn to read."

A current complain? Not at all. It is taken from a New York Sun editorial dated 1902. Like Will Rogers said, "Things ain't what they used to be and probably never wuz."

War On West's Economic Unity

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON The economic interdependence and solidarity of the Western Alliance has become a target of Russian attack in the same way that Moscow struggles to break up the political and military alliance organized by the United States to check her expansion and aggression.

Russia's earth satellite, intercontinental missile and penetration of the Middle East, as they were designed to do, have shaken the stock markets of every Western capital. In general, these Communist achievements have had a depressing effect here and in Europe.

Khrushchev's assertion that military planes had been made obsolete by his attainment of the ICBM knocked down the prices of airplane companies' stocks, at least temporarily. On the other hand, it improved the value of securities of firms engaged in electronic, missile and scientific operations.

"RED MOON AFFECTED STOCKS" The fact remains, however, that $25 billion in paper profits have been lost in Wall Street since January, with a large proportion coming after announcement of launching of the "red moon." This decline has affected values in London, Paris, Rome, etc.

Khrushchev has also affected the stock values of petroleum and shipping interests with his brazen attempt to destroy Anglo-American influence in the Middle East.

Oil stocks sagged after the Suez Canal crisis, and again when Syria appeared to be on the verge of becoming another satellite. They went up again with the warnings of resistance from Washington and Ankara. And, of course, allied securities of firms making drilling and transportation equipment for this industry showed a decline.

PREMIUM ON TANKERS Meanwhile, the threat to the Suez Canal and Syrian pipelines, to the Anglo-American oil fields have placed a premium on tankers and shipping securities. An order for five 104,000-ton tankers has recently been placed with Japanese shipyards. They will be needed if Egypt or Russia again close the Suez waterway.

Regional and political interests have been disturbed by Russia's recent gains. In deciding which missile to develop as the so-called ultimate weapon, the three-man Defense Department panel must favor Michigan (Detroit), California (Santa Monica) or Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala.

Michigan has already lost certain industries and employment because of shift from conventional types of weapons. Atlantic Seaboard states will suffer in any transfer of missile-making to distant regions, for they furnish many key parts and accessories.

In short, there will be—must be—a general disruption of the economic map because of the impact of Russia's accomplishments, not only here but abroad. Many foreign nations have been making now old-fashioned weapons for the Western Alliance, with the U.S. paying the bill.

RUSSIA SELLS EGYPTIAN COTTON American cotton and textiles are involved in Russia's economic offensive. Colonel Nasser, for instance, has complained to Moscow about her use of the cotton with which Egypt pays for Soviet weapons. Instead of consuming it at home, the Russians

Slight Rise Ahead

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — During most of this year business has shown basic stability, despite the readjustments which many industries have encountered and with which some are still having to contend. The total Physical Volume of Business is currently only a trifle below the high range of recent months, and is just a few percentage points lower than the first-quarter peak for the year to date. During the summer, many businesses have been drawn downward because of seasonal influences such as hot weather and vacation absences. Therefore, I expect business during coming months to be moderately upward, helped by the Russian Satellite.

However, the improvement depends also upon basic consumer attitudes, which can change from day to day. Recent surveys on consumer behavior and attitudes indicate that buyers are becoming more price-conscious and more selective. Nevertheless, manufacturers are hopeful that their plans and output schedules for coming months will tally closely with the purchasing plans of consumers, which are still continuing upward.

THE AUTO OUTLOOK

The automobile industry is a bellwether of forthcoming trends. Dealers' stocks are currently near 600,000, — most of them 1957 cars, with only a sprinkling of 1958 models. Thus far, there has been little apprehension regarding the size of automobile inventories, and dealers are hopeful that October sales will at least approach those of a year ago.

The slight degree of optimism among automobile makers is hoping to buoy the steel industry, which continues to hope for a strengthening of orders. Though such orders have been coming in gradually, nearby weeks may see a greater rush as the remainder of the plants change over to the production of 1958 cars. Appliance makers are also proceeding cautiously with orders since sales have been disappointing so far this year. However, as inventories in these lines register declines, factory output should gradually trend up.

CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY

Another major steel user, the construction industry, appears to have been taking a breather, although the latest month's figures show a more-than-seasonal rise after the disappointing earlier weeks. Work stoppages in the cement industry caused shortages of concrete products in some sections. There are, however, more basic reasons for the slower pace in building, such as scarcity of money and the partial fulfillment of demand for housing. Sustaining strength, however, should be evident in public works, utilities, and road building.

Beyond the conundrum of what the consumer is going to do with his income, some consumer-expenditure plans are already being affected by lower expenditures on government contracts, such as aircraft workers and others employed in these towns dependent upon military payrolls. The Russian Satellite may, however, change all this.

WHAT ABOUT EMPLOYMENT? Those who are laid off will be less eager to spend and will hesitate to go further into debt; while those who remain on the payroll may become more cautious about spending. On the other hand, due to the long period of boom, the average consumer has become accustomed to an increasingly higher standard of living. And it is far harder to adjust one's tastes downward than to raise them upward.

Higher wages are partly responsible for the continued rise in personal incomes. However, these increases in pay rates are a cause for concern to producers, since they add to the cost of doing business. Coupled with lower sales in certain lines, they further squeeze profits.

Raised Statue Of Self To Spite 20 Nephews

LA CAVA, Italy (AP)—The bent old man gazed up at the shining marble statue and chuckled.

It was a statue of himself. And 86-year-old Michele DiPrisco figured it gave him the last laugh on his 20 nephews. He paid many, many lire to have it made.

From his seat under the oak tree in front of his house DiPrisco could see the statue plainly. He puffed on his cigar and pondered the ingratitude of his nephews to whom he gave his land and money—only, he says, to be quickly forgotten by them.

DiPrisco says that's why he built the statue. Many years ago he was a wealthy farmer. But he and his wife had no children, so he gave away most of his property to the sons of his brothers and sisters. The old man says he gave each an equal share, and that each became angry because they all wanted more.

DiPrisco kept for himself a few acres on which was located a marble quarry. He and his wife lived comfortably on the rent from the quarry, but DiPrisco wanted to do something to be remembered for in this tiny village 50 miles east of Naples.

La Cava already had a nice bronze statue in its main square. DiPrisco decided it needed another. He had a sculptor make a life-size statue of himself of marble mined in his quarry. Then he had the statue placed atop a 20-foot marble pyramid on a small piece of ground next to his house. In all it cost about $11,000.

"To give the country civilization," DiPrisco educated himself, and acquired a reputation as "the philosopher" from his cronies, mostly poor farmers. He spends most of each day smoking and sitting under the oak tree in his yard.

It is beside the public street so it can be seen by everyone in the village.

"That is my present to posterity," DiPrisco tells passersby. Around the base of the pyramid and on a wall nearby are chiseled a score of verses written by the old farmer. They give advice to the world, to the Italian government, to fathers and to young couples planning marriage.

A Bit Of Perspective For Big Night Of TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Let's try to put a little perspective on an interesting night of television. The night was last Thursday when entertainment was pitted against ballyhoo.

Entertainment was represented by 90 minutes of the finest show of the TV season thus far, a superb production of "The Green Pastures" on NBC-TV. Ballyhoo was represented at the same time on CBS-TV when a phenomenal gentleman named Mike Todd offered a 90-minute commercial for a movie and himself.

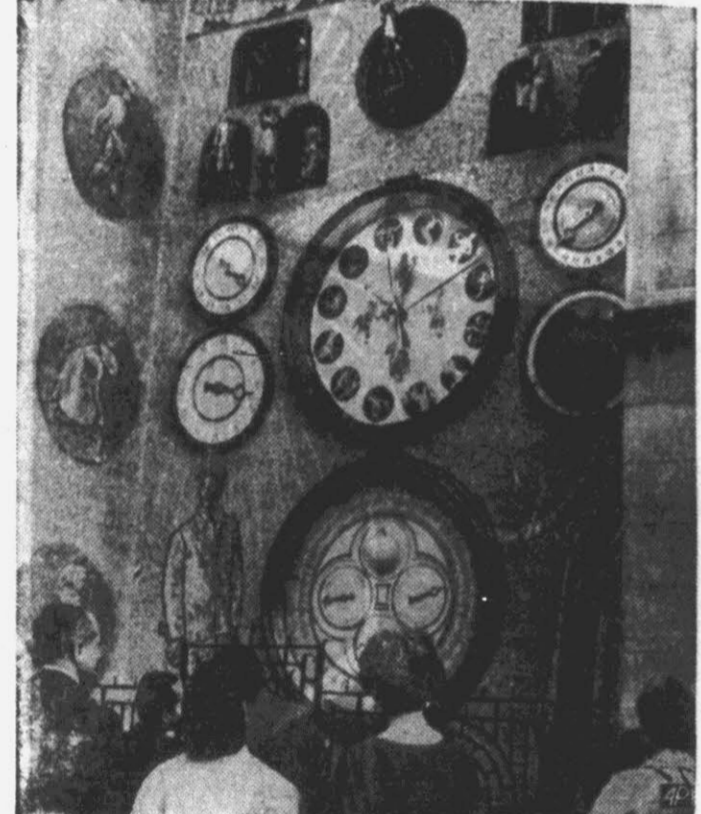

Todd's Madison Square Garden shindig for 18,000 to celebrate the first anniversary of his film "Around the World in 80 Days."

It's a fine movie and it was nice of Todd to throw that party for a few intimate friends. But why was it televised? The answer is simple. Everybody knew that a large audience would watch it—and a large audience did.

In the light of the Monday after the people I've heard still talking about Thursday night on television fall into these categories:

1. Those who watched and enjoyed "The Green Pastures."

2. Those who started watching the Todd party and switched to "The Green Pastures."

SET FOR TIME—Town attraction in Olomouc, Czech., is giant timepiece set in a mosaic design. Separate dials and figures indicate the minute, hour, date and sign of the zodiac.

3. Those who stayed with the Todd party with a mixture of grim determination and a strange baffled fascination at the power of ballyhoo.

I didn't watch the Todd party; I went to the Madison Square Garden dress rehearsal, a complete run-through of "The Green Pastures," and then on to the Garden.

I dislike large crowds, but too late, trapped in the mob, I realized I'd fallen a victim to ballyhoo.

Trusted agents who viewed the party on TV and gave me a complete run-down of it are the only means I have of knowing what happened. There was a big crowd, a lot of noise and razzle-dazzle at the Garden. That's all.

The Madison Square Garden television proceedings on Thursday evening were a harmless bit of publicity fluff of no entertainment stature. "The Green Pastures" was an entertaining and artful attainment, the best of the season, that one should not have missed.

By BILLY ARNOLD

Farmville high school has just about sewed up the Coastal Conference crown for this season, with its 4-0 record. With only a few games remaining, the Red Devils are assured of at least a tie for the title.

Rated only mediocre at the first of the season—by everyone except coach Elbert Moye—the Devils failed to impress anyone with their 7-6 loss to Lagrange in the opener.

A hint of what was to come showed forth in the following week, however, when Farmville blasted non-Conference Nashville 40-12. Then, Morehead City came back to rout them 31-0, to give the oddsmakers courage of their convictions.

It was then that Farmville started its conference schedule, and the Devils have been red hot ever since. In four consecutive Coastal contests, they have downed Ayden, Robersonville, Contentnea, and Vanceboro. The rest of the league, floundering in one of the most upset-prone seasons in many years, has fallen far behind.

ONLY BENVENUE NOW

Only Benvenue, with a 2-1 mark, can mar the Farmville sweep of Coastal conference honors. Benvenue could conceivably win the rest of its games and could knock off Farmville when the two clubs meet later on this year. That would even up the records, giving Farmville one loss, too.

By Coastal rules, when two clubs tie for the top post, the champion is chosen by selecting the winner of the game played between the two clubs, during regular season. Therefore, the title would go to Benvenue, as we understand it.

PIRATES STILL HUNGRY

Last week, it was said in the Reflector that the East Carolina Pirates were hungry for a victory, having lost their first four games of the season. After their 20-7 loss to Western Carolina Saturday, they must be starving to death . . .

PHANTS LOOKED GOOD

Greenville's Phantoms looked good against a stronger, heavier New Bern club, here, Friday night, despite a 20-6 loss.

Rated three-touchdown underdogs, the Phantoms went in at halftime with a 6-6 tie and were never actually out of the ballgame until the last few minutes of the game.

Those who were worried about the club falling to pieces, losing its drive and spirit in the last few games of the season, seem quite happy with the club. Coach Bud Phillips' boys were hitting hard, running well and playing fiery ball Friday night. They just didn't have the horses to whip New Bern's bigger and more experienced team.

Out Of Frying Pan Into Gridiron Fire

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

Illinois jumps right from the frying pan into the fire this week and Coach Ray Eliot and his band of Illini know right where they're heading.

They skipped out of the frying pan Saturday when they upset Minnesota 34-13.

This Saturday, they hit the fire against Michigan State, the badly mangled giant of the Big Ten.

The Spartans, No. 1 team in the country in last week's Associated Press poll, were trampled by flurried Purdue 20-13 in the biggest upset of the season so far.

"Michigan State will be really out to get us now," Eliot said today. "And to make matters worse, it's their homecoming."

The Purdue defeat could cause Michigan State to lose a Rose Bowl bid. Ohio State and Iowa, the defending champion, still are undefeated in conference play.

On the other side of the Rose Bowl, the Pacific Coast Conference, things are just as misty. Washington State could have neatly wrapped it up Saturday by beating Oregon.

But Oregon won the game 14-13 when State quarterback Bobby Newman missed the extra point after the Cougars' second touchdown.

State already had licked California and Stanford, the other Rose Bowl eligibles. But State can still make it. Everything hinges on how Oregon does against California this week and Stanford Nov. 2.

Oklahoma, which won its 44th straight game Saturday, a 47-0 rout of Kansas, goes against Colorado this week.

In the Southwest Conference, there doesn't seem to be a team capable of blocking Texas A&M's surge to another title, although at the moment, the Aggies are tied with Texas and Rice for the lead.

The Aggies received an unexpected lift from Texas Saturday when the Longhorns, a weak sister in the loop last year, upended Arkansas 17-0. The Aggies had no easy pickings, either, escaping with a 7-0 decision over Texas Christian.

The tough Atlantic Coast Conference race could be decided this week when Duke and North Carolina State tangle. The Blue Devils, with a spotless 5-0 over-all record, will be favored. They humbled Wake Forest 34-7 Saturday. Unless catastrophe strikes, Duke's path to the Orange Bowl appears clear. North Carolina State is on probation.

Maryland, until last year a power always to be reckoned with, is showing signs of coming back under Tommy Mont. The Terp jacked their record to 2-2 Saturday by upsetting North Carolina 21-7.

In the Southeastern Conference, Auburn's 3-0 triumph over Georgia Tech left only Florida as a problem of any sorts for Auburn.

Catamounts Claw ECC By 20-7 Score

Figures All Spoiled For Tar Heels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way co-captain Buddy Payne of the University of North Carolina looks at it, the Tar Heels lost more than a football game to Maryland Saturday.

He says the loss knocked the Tar Heels out of a chance to represent the Atlantic Coast Conference in the Orange Bowl game.

Payne figures the Tar Heels could have received the Orange Bowl bid with victories over Maryland and Duke, and he predicts his team will beat the Blue Devils.

But the 21-7 loss to the Terps Saturday ruined everything, Payne says. Queen Elizabeth II of England saw the upset.

The ACC's two unbeaten teams, Duke and North Carolina State, clash this Saturday in a game that probably will decide the conference champion. The game will be televised regionally on the ACC network which includes a score of stations from Washington, D.C., to Miami.

N.C. State is not eligible for an Orange Bowl bid because they have been placed on probation by the NCAA.

Duke trampled Wake Forest, 34-7, Saturday and N.C. State played to a 0-0 deadlock with Miami Friday night.

In the other game involving an ACC team, Virginia routed Virginia Tech of the Southern Conference, 38-7.

Clemson and South Carolina were idle Saturday, contemplating their annual Big Thursday encounter at Columbia.

Besides the Duke-N.C. State game and the Big Thursday contest this week, Tennessee visits Maryland, North Carolina is at Wake Forest for a league game and Army is at Virginia.

The top individual performance in the conference Saturday's games was turned in by Virginia's senior fullback Jim Bakhtiar.

The 21-year-old, 200-pound native of Iran scored four touchdowns, and kicked two extra points to tie the ACC record of 25 points set by Wray Carlton of Duke against Virginia earlier this season.

Bakhtiar carried 28 times, three short of the conference record he set earlier this season against Wake Forest, and gained 53 yards in the victory over Virginia Tech. Tech was favored to win by a touchdown.

Las. Saturday's conference shocker, of course, was the Maryland-North Carolina game.

The Tar Heels didn't have any alibis for their showing.

Coach Jim Tatum commented, "We just got beat. They just whipped us. We should have wrapped it up in the first half. We just blew it."

Jubilant Tommy Mont who took over at Maryland when Tatum left for North Carolina, said, "Patience is a great and just reward."

Mont, whose Terps have been less than sensational this year, added, "I hope everyone is satisfied."

"Listen, I'm going to revel in this for the rest of my life," he remarked.

Gastonian Wins Carolina PGA Championship

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—Furman Hayes of Gastonia was $200 richer today thanks to a 20-foot putt which defeated Al Smith of Danville, Va., in a sudden death playoff for the Carolinas PGA championship.

Hayes and Smith, two of the smaller pros around the Carolinas circuit, wound up in a 54-hole deadlock at 208 Saturday.

Smith, the only man to break par during the final round, was two under par-70 at the New Bern Country Club course.

Big surprise of the three-day match was Mike Souchak. The big Durham par-buster was favored to snare the tourney but could muster only a 73 Saturday for a match total of 213 and an eighth place finish.

After occupying the number three and four spots in the ECC intramural league standings, the EPO Fraternity won two games last week to move ahead of all the other teams. Action was held to a minimum during the week's play due to the flu virus and the Country Gentlemen did not play at all. All cancelled games will be made up before October 28 when league play stops and tournament play begins.

EPO took on Umstead Hall last Monday and barely emerged the victor as they won by a score of 12 to 8. Billy Vestals is the manager not one that the Phi Kappa Alpha can be duly proud of but Dick Buckley and his team are to be commended on their sportsmanship and desire. There has to be a bottom team in every sport and although Buckley's team is definitely the cellar dwelling team in this league, the scores do not show the determination and attitude that his team has displayed thus far.

Due to the flu virus as mentioned before, there were two forfeits during the week's activity. One came at the expense of the Delta Sigma Rho with Umstead finally getting up over the 500 mark at the DSR's expense. The other forfeit was between Phi Gamma Pi and the River Rats of Doug Watts. The River Rats were ready to play when the starting whistle was sounded and Phi Gamma Pi was not, so of course the River Rat squad got themselves an easy victory to run their mark to 4 and 2.

This rounded out the limited action during the week. All team managers and members are reminded to refer to the intramural bulletin board in the ECC Soda Shop for the schedules to be posted on cancelled games. The official league standings as of October 19 are as follows:

ECC Intramural League
	W	L	Pct.
EPO	5	1	.833
Country Gentlemen	4	1	.800
Kappa Sigma Nu	4	2	.666
River Rats	4	2	.666
Delta Sigma Rho	3	2	.600
Umstead Hall	4	3	.571
ROTC	1	2	.333
Phi Gamma Pi	1	5	.166
Phi Kappa Alpha	0	6	.000

After forfeiting their first two scheduled games the ROTC team not only showed up for their game but they took a 19 to 6 impressive win at the hands of Phi Kappa Alpha. Black, Biggs and Smith did all of the scoring for the Officer's Training group. The ROTC has a lot of games to make up in order to catch up with the rest of the league and are expected to be real strong for the rest of the league season.

A battle of non-winners took place Wednesday and after it was all over, the hapless Phi Kappa Alpha still has not won a game and Phi Gamma Pi brought their league record up to a 1 win and 5 loss mark. An 0 and 6 record is

Ranking Fighters On Boxing Card

Danny Russo and Eddie (Pigeon) Lynch, a couple of New York welterweight prospects, who kicked up a storm in their first clash two months ago, collide in a return 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas arena tonight. The bout will be telecast (DuMont, 930 p.m. EST).

Russo, of Brooklyn, won a split decision in their first meeting at St. Nick's in a close fight. This one figure to be another tight battle.

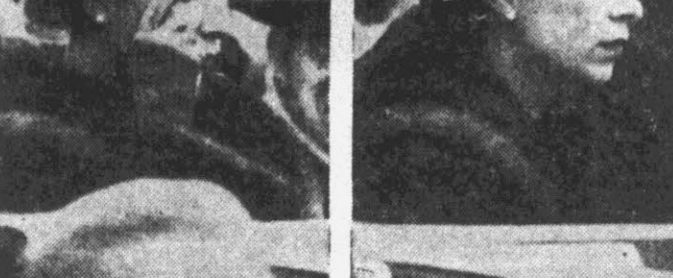

Lynch, 22, a longshoreman when not fighting, has a 11-2 record. Russo's record is 11-3.

Veteran Kid Gavilan, the ex-champion hoping to get into the welterweight picture meets 22-year old Gaspar Ortega in a 12-round return bout at Los Angeles Wrigley Field Tuesday night.

Another Tuesday night fight, this one in London's Harringay Arena, presents the unusual picture of an American boxer in the English style, Willie Pastrano of New Orleans, and a belting Briton, Dick Richardson.

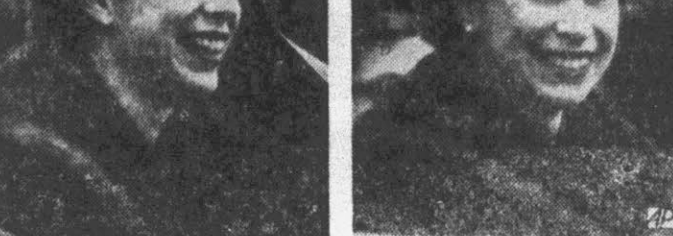

Middleweight Bobby Boyd of Chicago, winner of five straight this year, is favored over Franz Suzina of Germany at Syracuse, N.Y. (ABC TV, 9 p.m. EST) Wednesday night. Boyd, the German at Miami Beach last March 26, Suzina has won four straight.

Bears And Elon To Risk Records

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Elon's Christians and Lenoir-Rhyne's Bears, both licking their chops after weekend victories, buckled down to work for this weekend when both teams risk perfect conference records.

Unbeaten Elon goes to Catawba and the Bears, defeated only by non-conference Wofford, move to Western Carolina. Appalachian East Carolina heads for Newberry and Guilford has an open date.

Elon's Christians are still leading the North State, but Lenoir-Rhyne is close behind.

Elon smashed Presbyterian 37-14 for its third conference victory, maintaining an unbeaten record.

The Bears steamed over Guilford 55-6 for their second conference victory.

Catawba and Western Carolina are still tied with 2-1 records. The Indians smacked Appalachian 19-0 and the Catamounts beat East Carolina 20-7.

Fullback Bob Stauffenberg and halfback Harry Faust took the honors in Elon's first victory over a Little Three team. Stauffenberg tallied three times and Faust scored twice.

Asian flu knocked out Lenoir Rhyne's fullback Harold Bullard. Tailback Bill Ackard and Bullard's reserve, Wilson Martin, each notched two touchdowns. Quarterback Dean Cline tallied once and passed for another six points.

Austin, Tex. (AP)—For a team that last year lost 9 games out of 10 and had positively the worst defensive record extant, the University of Texas is enjoying a sensational football season.

Nine days ago Texas played Oklahoma down to the last gun before losing 21-7. One week later, the Longhorns whipped a fine Arkansas team that was undefeated and ranked 10th in the nation 17-0.

Now the folks are talking about a Southwest Conference championship and a great duel with ancient enemy, undefeated Texas A&M on Thanksgiving Day.

There are some mighty tough teams to be played before then. Rice next Saturday, for instance.

But Texas already has had a great season, winning three out of five and commanding respect from everybody. How did it do it? A defense is the secret. Good old "jaw to jaw" football, as Coach Darrell Royal puts it.

When the former Oklahoma quarterback took over the despairing Longhorns this year, he found that the basic weaknesses were lack of defense and an adequate kicking game.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

Floods Result As Moist Air Met Cool Breeze

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A mass of wet air from the Gulf of Mexico collided with cool south-western breezes over New Mexico mountains yesterday, bringing death and destruction to the northern half of the state.

More rains were forecast through today. Three persons died in head-on collisions on highways in the rain belt. A small boy tumbled to his death in the swollen Pecos River.

U.S. 64 between Santa Fe and Taos was blocked through much of last night by tons of rain-loosened boulders piled on the highway in the Rio Grande gorge. Several motorists plowed into rockslides before highway crews cleared the route.

Floodwaters flowed as much as two feet deep through downtown Estancia, a central New Mexico farming community. Two hundred men battled the inundation with sandbags. An earth-dam thrown across State Road 41 through the town finally averted the threat to the business section.

The flood came from a six-foot crest racing down an arroyo in northwest Estancia from the east slopes of the Sandia Mountains. Levees burst under the strain.

Dead in a head-on collision near northern Tierra Amarilla were a young mother and her infant daughter. State Police Sgt. I. E. Salazar said Mrs. Antonio J. Martinez, 24, died instantly. She apparently crushed the child to death in her arms in an attempt to shield the baby, he said.

Mrs. Carlotta Winters, about 50, Las Vegas, N.M., died a mile south of that city in a blinding rainstorm. State police said she attempted to pass a car and collided head on with a heavy truck.

A cable holding a bridge across the swollen Pecos River snapped, plunging four members of the Ruyundo Sandoval family into the stream near the mountain village of Pecos. The father, a son and daughter made it to shore, but 8-year-old Romulo Sandoval drowned.

High water also was reported in the Rio Grande at Albuquerque. Several times the river reached 6 1/2 feet — half a foot above flood state — and then dropped back as runoff from short, heavy showers dwindled.

There was no major flood danger to the city of 100,000 since the river runs between stout levees. Damage to crops was reported heavy in many areas of eastern and central New Mexico.

Alamance Church Named Rural Church Of Year

FONTANA DAM, N.C. (AP) — The State Grange has named St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church in Alamance County as Rural Church of the Year.

A citation and plaque will be presented tonight to its pastor, the Rev. Huit R. Carpenter, during the 29th annual convention of the Grange here.

The church was first known as Shumaker's Church in the early 18th century. Its services there were conducted in German, the language of most members.

One Million Fewer Men In Uniform Than At End Of War In Korea

Editor's Note — This is the first of a two-part series discussing the scope and impact of the U.S. military cutback program.

By ELTON C. FAY AP Military Affairs Reporter WASHINGTON (AP) — By next summer there will be a million fewer men in the armed forces than at the end of the Korean War. There also will be fewer military bases and less military buying of hardware and other goods.

Over-all, it is the biggest defense cutback since the wholesale curtailment after World War II. And the tempo is stepping up sharply.

When the Eisenhower administration set out on its "new look" military program in 1953, that objective was based primarily on the idea of nuclear and jet age weapons to provide more firepower for fewer men.

Today there are strong overtones of economy, reflecting the administration's determination to keep the budget balanced and hold national spending within the 275-billion-dollar debt limit.

A series of Pentagon orders, previously issued or now coming out, calls for: 1. Trimming total military manpower from a 1953 level of 3,600,000 to a mid-1958 level of 2,600,000. Still further trimming may be in prospect.

2. Reducing civilian employees of the defense establishment by at least 350,000 from a force of 1 1/2 million.

3. Closing down or curtailing operations at more than 100 bases, government-operated plants or plants run for the government by private firms.

4. Reducing the Air Force unit structure by not less than nine wings—and possibly more. The Air Force had 137 wings last spring. Orders now call for a cut to 123 wings.

5. Cutting the Army to 15 divisions. The Army had 20 in 1953, the same number in 1955. It now has 17. There also are reductions in smaller units.

6. Shrinking the Navy's active fleet to 901 ships by next June 30. Last June, the fleet had 967 ships. There now are about 940.

7. Delaying delivery (terminated the stretchout method) or terminating outright contracts for a wide variety of equipment and supplies, ranging from jet bombers to petroleum.

Virtually all the recent, sharper cutback orders are aimed at keeping the Pentagon's spending during this fiscal year under a 35-billion-dollar ceiling.

But the spending hold-down may be applied to future developments and requirements as well.

Pressures created by Russia's claimed success in the long-range ballistic missile field and by the Soviets' satellite launching are bringing increased demands for a stepup in the U.S. missile development effort. If these pressures result in a decision that more money is needed, there is a good chance President Eisenhower will insist the military find the money for more missile work in its existing funds, through further cutbacks and economies.

The most direct impact of these cutbacks is, of course, on the plans and operations of the military. But there is also an effect upon industry and labor which works on government contracts, and upon communities depending in part on money spent by bases and personnel in their area.

Within about two months, the Defense Department issued two cutback orders to drop a total of about 200,000 men from the Army, Navy and Air Force. The first order, posted by Wilson July 16, directed a cut of 100,000 men by next Dec. 31. The second, issued Aug. 19, ordered a further cut of about 100,000 by next June 30, the end of the 1958 fiscal year.

By next June 30, the Army will be down to 900,000 men. In 1953 it had an average of about 1,500,000 men. It was down to a little over a million men last year and had reached a level of 997,000 by last June 30.

The Army is closing down nine ordnance production plants and curtailing operations at five others. It is closing out eight storage and depot facilities, a terminal and a general hospital. Several thousand civilian employees of the Army are thus affected.

The Navy, in mothballing ships, also is reducing the number of its sailors. By next June 30, its manpower will be down to 645,000. This compares with a strength of 677,108 last June 30 and 794,440 in mid-1953.

About 70 smaller Navy installations are affected by plans to shut them down or drastically cut work there.

The Air Force has been ordered to drop down to 875,000 men by next June 30. Its strength last June 30 was 919,835. In June 1953, it had 977,593.

The Air Force is reducing by 10 the number of reserve squadrons and dropping three Air National Guard squadrons.

The Air Force also is closing down about a score of its smaller installations, employing several thousand civilians.

The biggest impact of Air Force cutbacks on civilians, however, is showing in the stretchout or termination of contracts.

The aircraft industry has expressed deep concern about the effect of the reduction of military procurement on plans and on their skilled employees.

Rossilini Flying Back To Europe For Brief Stay

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Italian film director Roberto Rossilini headed by plane today for a 10-day stay in Europe. It was not known whether he would see either Ingrid Bergman or the Indian woman whose name has been lined with his.

Rossilini was on his way to Rome to edit documentary films he has made in India.

Miss Bergman, Rossilini's wife, is playing on the Paris stage. Reports from the French capital indicated he would have to join her there if he was to see her.

Mrs. Sonal Das Gupta, who reportedly left her husband for Rossilini, arrived in Paris Oct. 6 and hasn't been heard of since.

Rumors were current that she hoped to persuade Miss Bergman to let her have Rossilini, but the actress angrily said she hadn't seen Sonal and didn't plan to.

Fire That Killed Eight Said Due Faulty Wiring

BELPRE, Ohio (AP) — A fire blamed on defective wiring yesterday killed a mother and seven of her children and left three other members of the family homeless.

The fire swept the tiny second-story apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Snider. The father and two sons were not in the building.

Killed were Snider's wife Vivian, 36; four daughters, Linda, 14, Sheila, 11, Mona, 7, and Reta Jo, 5 months; and three sons, Mickey, 9, David, 3, and Danny, 2. Firemen said they were suffocated.

The father and his oldest child Ronnie, 16, were visiting Mrs. Snider's mother in Vienna, W. Va., not far from this small Washington County community. Another son, Darrell, 13, was in Camden Clark Hospital in Parkersburg, W. Va., across the Ohio River.

The grief-stricken father turned his concern almost immediately to his two remaining sons.

From his mother-in-law's home, he told a reporter by telephone last night "I don't know where I'll be going or where I'll be staying. I've got to find a place where I can keep my boys."

Firemen, summoned by the Sniders' neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kerns, found the victims' bodies in two rooms of the apartment, above a vacant store.

Firemen said Mrs. Snider and four children were in a bedroom-sitting room and the other three children in another bedroom.

Kerns told firemen he rushed up the stairs leading to the only exit from the apartment and managed to kick in a wood panel of the door, but smoke and intense heat drove him back.

Snider and Ronnie returned from their visit about 3 a.m. to find the fire extinguished. In Snider's words "The sheriff kept me away. . . He wouldn't let me get in to see my wife. . . He put me in the car and drove me to the hospital. . . That's where I saw

Frogman Saved Supply Of Wine

RIVA DEL GARDA, Italy (AP) — The residents of this Alpine resort today toasted a frogman who went diving in a vat of wine.

Thanks to his prowess the juice of the local grape won't run in the streets.

Riva del Garda boasts a cooperative wine cellar housing 20 huge vats of 52,800-gallon capacity each. The farmers now are bringing in their new wine, which is piped down into the underground.

Yesterday a worker went below to the corridor adjoining the vats to inspect fittings. He found the passageway five feet deep in new wine. He started looking around to see where it came from. Then he collapsed, overcome by the fumes from the still fermenting liquid.

Minutes later a second workman entered the corridor to find the first man. The fumes got him too.

Other workmen sized up the situation quickly and rescued their befuddled comrades. But the wine continued to rise in the corridor. Somebody thought of the frogman. The town is located on Lake Garda, in the Italian Alps, and has several experienced divers.

Tullio Cestari, 33, put on his breathing apparatus and waded through the heavy flood. He located the overflowing vat but couldn't see what was wrong. So he climbed to the rim and dived into the 12-foot-deep tank.

Searching around, he found dirt had clogged the valve which channeled excess wine into another vat. He cleaned the valve and stopped the flood.

The overflow was drained away and fans were brought in to blow the gases out.

Riva del Garda's 1957 vintage will only be 40,000 gallons less than anticipated.

WAYNE D. OVERHOLSER'S new Western thriller DESPERATE MAN

CHAPTER 13

December was a cold month with an occasional light fall of snow. My father and I worked hard at the wood job, finishing a few days before Christmas. The cattle had been grazing on the lower slopes of Campbell Mountain, but now they began drifting toward the river, and Pa gave Gil the job of looking after them.

Gil had changed. I wasn't sure why. Maybe he knew about Bess and Toll. Maybe she'd talked turkey to him. In any case, he spent far less time with her, and he worked at the job my father had given him, probably because he preferred riding to pulling a crosscut saw through a pine log. And he had quit calling me "kid."

My father changed too, an insidious thing that I was slow to notice. Finally I realized he was afraid. He never talked about it. He didn't show it by being nervous or jumpy. But he took to wearing his gun when he worked something he had never done. He didn't step out on the front porch at night, as had been his habit.

We didn't talk much while we worked, but several nights, after supper, he seemed compelled to talk. My father was always figuring, usually at the other end of the table from Gil. Several times he'd say, "I'm going into Buhl right after the first of the year and see how much money I can borrow. We've got to get these scrubs off our range."

A couple of nights before the Christmas program in the schoolhouse he got down to brass tacks. This time he talked directly to me.

"We've got limited range," my father said, "as long as the Rafter 3 holds the present line, and it's a cinch they won't give up any of their grass; that means all of us in the park will be held to the size herds we've got now, so good bulls is our only way of expanding. We'll get more weight on each steer."

He figured some more, frowned, and chewed on the end of his pencil. He leaned back and looked at me. "But gosh darn it, how can you talk sense to a hard head like Matt Colohan? No use any of us putting good bulls on the range if all of us don't. Maybe I can borrow enough to loan Matt."

"There you go, Joe," my mother cut in. "I was just waiting to hear that. Borrowing money to loan it to a whiskey-making old soak like Matt Colohan is the stupidest thing I ever heard you say."

She looked at him as if daring him to argue with her, but he didn't. He got up and grinned at me as if to say he knew I understood, then he went to bed. A moment later I did, too, but I lay awake a long time, stirred up inside in a way I hadn't been since I'd talked to Elder Smith. My father had realized his big dream to own a ranch, but he wasn't a man who would ever quit dreaming. Now I had a queer feeling he was afraid something was going to happen to him and he wanted to pass his dream on to me.

The day before Christmas a saddle tramp drifted in. A little, middle-aged man with a wistful smile and a droopy mustache, he was pretty typical. Failure was written all over him. At this time of year he should have been five hundred miles south of here.

My father didn't like to put strangers up, but he couldn't very well say No. Anyhow, this was Christmas. The fellow said his name was Jones, he'd been working in Montana and he was trying to get to Arizona where he had a job waiting for him on a ranch just out of Tucson. It was an old yard that none of us believed, but Pa told him to put his horse in the corral and come in for supper. He did, and the amount of food he put down was unbelievable.

After supper we started getting ready to go to the program at the schoolhouse and Pa decided Jones had to go with us. Jones didn't want to go.

"Let him stay here," I said. "He's right. He won't enjoy the program."

My father's face tightened. For a minute I thought he was going to blow up. Then he said in a low tone, a tone nobody but Ma ever argued with, "By heck, Jones, you're going or you're dragging out of here."

I was a little irritated with my father. But there wasn't anything I could do, with Pa's mind made up, so Jones went with us.

We never had enough seats in the schoolhouse on Christmas Eve. Ma got one, but the rest of us stood up with the other men along the sides and rear of the room. I always got a tingle out of Christmas. Maybe it was the age-old Christmas carols that did something to me. But this year I couldn't get into the spirit. I thought about this fellow Jones. The more I thought, the less I liked it. His story was purely phony. A saddle tramp headed for Tucson would never wander into Dillon's Park.

By the time the program was over and we got home, I was in a dither, but I didn't want my father to know. I put the team away, and when I got in the house, my mother asked where the guinea hen was she'd told me to catch earlier in the day. I'd forgotten all about it. She was put out at me and said I'd better go get the hen now.

"I don't know where they're roosting," I said. "I'll get her in the morning if I have to shoot her. Or get Gil to."

"One of you boys had better or we won't have a Christmas dinner," she grumbled.

"Ma, make Jones a bed here on the couch," I said. "It's cold in the haymow and this is Christmas."

Jones didn't seem as appreciative as he should have been, but he didn't object very strenuously, so my mother got some quilts out of her bedroom and made his bed. Gil had stayed at the schoolhouse to ride home with Bess, so he didn't come in for another hour or so. I was asleep, but I stirred enough to hear him shut the back door. Later, with the night still pitch-black, I heard the guinea hen.

The next thing I knew someone fired a gun in front of the house. It was still dark, so I didn't have any idea what time it was. I pulled on my boots, not even putting on my socks, and ran through the house in my underclothes. Ma stood in the bedroom doorway, a lighted lamp in her hand. "Pa just went out to milk."

I didn't wait to hear what she had to say. I yanked the door open and ran out into the bitter cold. Pa was flat on his belly. From the grotesque way he lay there, I didn't have to turn him over to know he was dead. I heard Ma scream. I plunged back into the house and whirled to look at the couch.

Jones was gone.

Did Jones kill Munro? Dave finds some clues as he sets out to ride down the killer in "Desperate Man."

Clash Reported On Repatriation

TOKYO (AP)—North and South Koreans on the bleak Russian island of Sakhalin are reported to have clashed over conflicting desires on repatriation.

Some of the 317 repatriates who arrived at Maizuru, Japan, yesterday from the former Japanese territory said the Soviets had sealed the Koreans off in the southern city of Yuzhno.

All communication between the city and other areas has been cut off, they reported.

The returnees also told of corruption, shortages, thievery, killings and fights on the island immediately north of Japan.

They said 1,000 South Koreans massed at the Russian Repatriation office in Yuzhno last May, asking to be returned to Japan with the Japanese scheduled to be sent home.

North Koreans demonstrated in opposition and the South Koreans staged a three-day sitdown to back up their demands.

The repatriates were returned to Japan aboard the Hakusan Maru—its second trip. They included 60 Koreans, 40 Japanese and 177 children of Korean men and Japanese women.

Tap Twelve Pupils Into Future Teachers

By ANNETTE HUDSON

Stokes-Pactolus School Reporter

Twelve new members have been initiated into the Nell-Bruse-Gray Future Teachers of America Chapter at Stokes-Pactolus High School.

They were tapped into the organization in a candlelight ceremony in the high school auditorium. The new members assisted in an organization meeting for an FTA chapter at Belvoir-Falkland High School the week after they were initiated.

The club has also launched a program to assist teachers in the Stokes-Pactolus School and are making plans to attend the Fall Convention of Beta Clubs at Duke University on November 2.

Boys and girls basketball teams have begun practicing for their first game, November 5 against Jamesville. Co-captains of the girls' team are Frances Toler and Susie Mae James.

Student Council elections have been completed with Kirk Briley winning election as president of the student group. He will serve with vice-president Nancy Stokes, secretary Johnny Laughlin and treasurer Betty Jean Roberson.

Members of the Monogram Club and Future Homemakers of America have been busy lining up new members. The Monogram Club, sponsored by Mr. A. U. Hardison, initiated new members a week ago, and first-year Home Economics students were initiated last week as a preliminary to becoming full-fledged members of the F.H.A. The F.H.A. initiations were directed by Mrs. Sarah Perkins, advisor.

Guilford Lewis of the Stokes-Pactolus faculty joined other high school science teachers in the county at a meeting October 9 at East Carolina College. High point of the meeting was a film, "Introduction to Physics", and subsequent discussion which was designed to aid faculty members in teaching physics.

Odds and Ends: Pictures for the 1958 "Sto-Pac" were made October 17. . . Scholarship Qualifying Tests will be given to five members of the Senior Class on October 22. . . PTA officials have announced that the association's next meeting will be October 24 at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. . . The Junior Class has selected "A Ready-Made Family", a comedy, as the class play which will be presented in mid-November. . . Agriculture students, accompanied by Marion Nobles, attended the State Fair in Raleigh last week. . . New books, ordered by the library, have been received and will be shelved as quickly as possible.

Pet Goat Butts Billy 3 Times

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP)—A pet ram butted Billy Graham three times yesterday, knocking the evangelist 50 feet down a rocky mountainside and sending him to bed with cuts, bruises and a possible fractured knee.

An x-ray examination of the knee was planned in Asheville today, but Graham said he would make his scheduled appearance at the Polo Grounds in New York City next Sunday "even if I have to be carried there on a stretcher." He is to leave his home here Wednesday for a series of meetings which will follow his New York crusade of this summer.

Graham was in a pasture to feed apples to the three Suffolk sheep he recently purchased as pets for his children when the ram went into action. The first blow started Graham down the hillside. The animal followed and struck him twice more as Graham tumbled down the rocks.

Graham, who had an ax in his hand as he was examining the sheep, used the handle to hold the ram at bay while he crawled through the pasture fence to safety.

He was reported running a slight temperature last night, and the leg was badly swollen. He was treated at his home by his father-in-law, Dr. L. Nelson Bell.

California lumber production has jumped from about two billion to six billion board feet annually since 1940, says the state division of forestry.

Report $180,144 Given Foundation

GREENSBORO (AP)—The North Carolina Foundation of Church-Related Colleges has reported contributions of $180,144.03 during the fiscal year ending April 15 from 135 individuals and businesses.

The foundation, set up in 1953, functions on behalf of 26 church-related colleges in the state. Since it was organized, it has received contributions totaling $363,402.

CAUGHT DOUBLING BACK

TOLEDO Ohio (AP)—Foot patrolman Joe Haines saw a motorist speed through a red light a block away; arrested Carroll T. Armstrong of Conneaut on a drunk driving charge a few minutes later when Armstrong came back toward him going the wrong way on a one-way street.

Trouble Always Seems Find Actor Errol Flynn

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Errol Flynn says, "If there's trouble any place it always finds me." His latest encounter with trouble came Saturday night when he was hauled out of a bouncing movieland party and booked as a drunk. A policeman accused him of taking his badge. It was all in fun and he wasn't drunk, Flynn contends. And he says he's going to sue for false arrest. The scene was the annual Bally-hoo Ball of the Publicists' Assn.

bar. My friend Kehoe brought me a drink or two and that's all. Here I am at a party at which there were three or four bars serving drinks when an officer, who was drinking himself, introduced himself to me and asks me to meet his wife. And I wind up in jail, fingerprinted for the first time in my life." Kehoe—"I left Errol talking to Maura while I went over to the bar to fetch some drinks. As I returned a man was introducing his wife to Errol and asking for an autograph. After Errol gave the autograph he asked the man what he did, and the man answered, 'I'm a police officer.'" Errol then replied, "If you're a police officer, let me see your badge." As the officer showed the badge, Errol playfully grabbed it and gave it to Miss FitzGibbon. Errol was just kidding—and the officer took it seriously and wrestled us all into a police car."

thought Mr. Flynn was charming. Flynn and Miss FitzGibbon were booked at a police station for drunkenness. They got out in about an hour after posting $20 bail each. TINY COST, TERRIFIC RESULTS! NEW YORK (N.Y.)—The stock market underwent another sinking spell early this afternoon, dropping toward still another new low for 1957. Steels, rails and chemicals were hardest hit as key stocks took losses running from fractions to 2 points. Trading was active. Some aircrafts and missile stocks were on the upside early in the day but these also gave way almost unanimously to the lower trend. Early gains by some oils and nonferrous metals also were wiped out. Motors stood their ground with little change in initial dealings but slipped to the downside as the entire market went lower. While the Syrian-Turkish crisis appeared to lose some of the urgency which sent the market lower last week the business picture included news of layoffs and production cutbacks. Corporate reports were spotty. But retail sales of autos were reported on the up-grade over 1956 for the first time this year. The high-speed ticker tape was late on the downside twice today as selling increased. Lockheed was one of the widest losers at the start, dropping around 2 points on news that the Navy had cancelled 21 million dollars worth of contracts with the firm. Reports of hand-to-mouth order-

Tommy Gladson and Ptl. Jack Russell investigated.

South Roanoke Baptist Ass'n Gathers Tuesday

The annual fall session of the South Roanoke Baptist Association will be held at the First Baptist Church in Tarboro Tuesday. The morning session will open at 9:30 under direction of the moderator, Rev. Earl J. Rogers, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Washington. Over 300 messengers are expected from the Baptist churches of the six counties that make up the South Roanoke Association. The host church, and its pastor, Rev. J. S. Larrimore, are making preparations for the comfort of the messengers. Following the custom of other years, messengers will take basket lunches to assist the host church with the noon meal. The morning program will include an opening devotion by Rev. J. C. Books, pastor at Hamilton, routine matters of business and reports of Committees, report of the Executive committee, and a special report on the proposed branch of the Baptist Homes for the Aging at Hamilton, with a message by Rev. J. M. Hayes, superintendent of the Baptist home in Winston Salem. The associational missionary, Rev. John A. Moore of Greenville, will make his report and the associational sermon will be delivered by Rev. E. G. Cole. The afternoon devotion will be led by Rev. John Davis, pastor at Fountain and Eagles Baptist Church.

Vandals Break In Fertilizer Plant

Vandals entered the V-C Fertilizer plant in South Greenville sometime during the weekend but nothing was found to be missing. Ass't Police Chief H. E. Wooten said this morning. The intruders broke a window to gain entrance. They left by a door. Police also reported that a window was broken at a Dickerson Ave. liquor store during the weekend. A window was also broken at the Etna station located at 14th and Charles Sts.

Class Play Date Set At Belvoir-Falkland

By ANNE HARRIS
 Belvoir-Falkland Reporter
 Announcement was made this week that the Senior Class play will be held November 6. Members of the cast have already been selected, and recent additions to the technical staff include Grace Edwards, student director; David Garris, production manager; and Iris Smith and Janice Manning, publicity co-chairmen. Other business transacted during a recent class meeting included determination that group pictures for the school annual would be taken November 5. Between now and that date, pictures of advertising business firms will be taken. The Rev. J. Malloy of Greenville will be the speaker at the class's Baccalaureate Exercises next Spring. He was selected at the same time Joy Bundy and Donald Gray were elected class mascots. The Rev. Homer Stines was guest speaker at a school assembly Tuesday. The Rev. Mr. Stines is the new pastor of Mount Pleasant Christian Church in the Belvoir community, and has also recently completed a revival series at the church. Charles D. Cobb of Greenville, former president of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, spoke on the mental health problem to members of the Junior and Senior classes at a special assembly Monday. He was invited to the school by members of the Sociology class. Mrs. Thelma Switzer, Junior Class advisor, returned to school Thursday after being out recuperating from a recent operation. Although she normally directs activities of the class, Juniors continued their projects in her absence. They are presently engaged in shaking peanuts and grading tobacco, having completed their annual magazine sale which resulted in total sales of 740.50. Members of the class have also been busy in their United States History class, with recent emphasis on soil conservation. Connor Eagles, soil conservation specialist for Pitt County, spoke at a recent class meeting, as did John Ray Hardy of Greenville who discussed the Federal Reserve System.

Clothing Drive Termed Success

Yesterday's Moose clothing drive was termed a big success by Civic Affairs Chairman Jim Lee. Lee said citizens having clothing which was not picked up may call 3668 and it will be picked up. Or the clothing can be taken to College View Cleaners for deposit in the Moose clothing bank.

Rites Wednesday For Mrs. F. R. Joyner

Mrs. Ruth Ross Joyner, 45, wife of Frank Russell Joyner, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital at 8:25 Sunday night. She had been in failing health for the past year and critically ill for a few hours. Funeral services will be held at the Wilkerson Chapel Wednesday at 2 p.m. Frank Julian, Jehovah Witness minister, will officiate. Burial will be in the Joyner family cemetery near Farmville. Mrs. Joyner, daughter of Elder J. L. Ross and Mrs. Ross, was born in 1912 near Stokes. She was married to Mr. Joyner in 1929 and spent her married life in Pitt County. They lived in the Reedy Branch community for the past two years. She was a member of the Greenville Congregation of the Jehovah's Witnesses. Surviving are her husband; her parents; five brothers, Julius L. James R., and Dallas R. Ross, of Greenville, Oscar Ross of near Farmville, and Kenneth M. Ross of near Greenville; three sisters; Miss Jessie Ross of Greenville, Mrs. Rufus Barrington of Grimesland, and Mrs. Carl Shanks of Assumption, Illinois.

Funeral Set Tuesday For W. Perry King

W. Perry King, 42, died at his home in Greenville at 4:30 Saturday afternoon after having been ill for only a few hours. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock at the Wilkerson Chapel and burial will be in Cherry Hill Cemetery. His pastor, Rev. Percy Upchurch, will conduct the services. Mr. King, son of Mrs. James F. King of Greenville and the late Mr. King, was born and reared in Greenville. He attended the Greenville City Schools and East Carolina College. He lived in New York City for a number of years but had been living here since 1944. During World War II he served in the Navy with the Seabees. He was a member of Memorial Baptist Church. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Helen Tyson King; son and a daughter, by former marriages, James F. King of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Bettie Martin King of Pollockville; his mother and two sisters, Mrs. Tom L. Hannaford and Mrs. William H. Burrows of Greenville.
