

NY Central And Pennsy Consider Merging Giant Rail Systems

Combined, Would Be World's Largest Railroad In Revenue, Assets

NEW YORK (AP)—Two rail giants, their profits off, are considering a merger that would create the world's largest railroad in revenue and assets.

Citing common problems and changed economic conditions, the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads yesterday announced they have begun studies looking toward a possible merger into one consolidated system.

The two roads are the largest in the country, based on annual revenue. Their combined assets are in excess of $3 billion dollars.

The announcement by James M. Symes, president of the Pennsylvania, and Alfred E. Perlman, president of the Central, was made after the New York and other stock exchanges had closed for the day.

Stocks of the railroads on the New York exchange were both off 12.5 cents. Previous announcements of planned mergers have been reflected on the exchange by furries of activity.

Wall Street observers took a rather skeptical view of the proposed merger, pointing out the many roadblocks that would have to be cleared—approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the possibility that the Justice Department could intervene on antitrust grounds.

Railroad and investment men indicated it could be years before the Central and Pennsylvania operated as a single company on the same tracks.

The ICC has long held that competing lines should not be permitted to merge. The commission has refused to approve the effort by Robert R. Young, chairman of the Central, to merge the Central and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway because, the ICC said, the result would be loss of "extensive competition" between the two railroads.

The Pennsylvania and Central compete in some areas, chiefly between New York and Chicago.

In Washington, both the ICC and the Justice Department declined comment last night on the merger possibility. In proposed railroad mergers, the ICC investigates to determine if, among other things, the proposal would be in the public interest. The Justice Department usually intervenes to follow the testimony presented.

Other possible roadblocks include possible objection by states and cities served by the railroads and the fact that stockholders of both companies would have to approve the consolidation. Consolidation would create a transport giant covering most of the northeastern United States. The railroads cross heavily populated and industrialized sections of the East and Midwest.

Auto Ran Into Locomotive Here

A 17-year-old driver escaped without injury when his automobile crashed into the front of a Norfolk Southern diesel locomotive late yesterday afternoon.

Joseph Thomas Winstead of 302 Greene Street was identified as the driver of the vehicle. No charges were preferred against Winstead by officers conducting an investigation of the mishap that occurred on Line Avenue.

Damage to the 1947 automobile was estimated at $90. The diesel received $5 damage.

Eisenhower Attends Football Game Today; Roots For Army

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP)—President Eisenhower, visiting happily with his 1915 classmates at the U. S. Military Academy, tries today to root Army's football team to a victory over Colgate.

The cadets are favored to win, and old grad Eisenhower is going to the game at Michie Stadium with a perfect record of helping pull Army teams to victory this year. He has watched three West Point squads win in the last week.

In advance of today's game, the President and about 30 other members of the 1915 graduation class arranged to present a $14,000 gift to the Academy. It's a granite memorial monument with a drinking fountain, located on the parade grounds.

After that ceremony, the President reviews the corps of cadets on the parade grounds and then goes to nearby Cullum Hall for lunch with Mrs. Eisenhower, his

Knight Is All But Out As Candidate

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Gov. Goodwin Knight was all but written off the Republican ticket for governor today by his continued silence over his reported withdrawal from the race against Sen. William F. Knowland.

But Knight, vacationing out of the state, had no assurance that he could have the GOP nomination for the U. S. Senate without a fight—assuming that's the job he decided to seek instead of reelection.

Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco, reached on a tour of Greece, said firmly he would not give up his quest for the Senate and predicted he would win the nomination. Knowland has announced he's giving up his Senate post when his term ends next year and has begun his campaign for governor.

Two other Republican Senate candidates indicated they would await Knight's decision. They are State Controller Robert C. Kirkwood and Warren K. Atherton, Stockton attorney and former national commander of the American Legion.

Education Board Will Get Report On Pupil Health

Members of the Pitt County Board of Education are expected to get a full report on health conditions in county schools at their regular monthly meeting Monday morning.

County Superintendent D. H. Conley, who ordered a half-day holiday for the schools yesterday, is expected to present the board with a report showing the total number of absences in the schools during the past week. Yesterday's suspension of classes was ordered after the schools reported half of their students were absent because of colds, flu and the rainy weather.

Pending receipt of Conley's report and the board's action, the schools are scheduled to resume their regular schedules Monday morning. Conley said yesterday the school's were being closed for Friday afternoon only, unless present weather conditions fail to break.

Gilliam Joining Probation Body

RALEIGH (AP)—Judge Don Gilliam of Tarboro, presiding jurist of the U. S. Eastern District Court, was scheduled to be sworn in this morning as a member of the State Probation Commission.

His appointment to succeed Judge Wilson Warlick of Newton was announced yesterday by Gov. Hodges. Judge Warlick, chairman of the commission since its creation, recently resigned. Judge Gilliam will fill out his unexpired term, which ends May 28, 1958.

A meeting of the Probation Commission followed the swearing in ceremonies.

Diplomats See Soviet Setback In Syrian Fiasco

By TOM HOGE UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Diplomats speculated today that Russia may have lost more than she gained by trying to make a major crisis out of Syria's border dispute with Turkey.

While the Soviets managed to get considerable propaganda mileage out of the Middle East debate, U. N. delegates said, Russia also stirred resentment among some of the nations they most wanted to win over.

General Assembly debate ended abruptly yesterday when Syria said she was willing to leave without any action for the present her Soviet-backed charge that Turkey planned to attack her.

A number of Arab delegates privately expressed resentment over being virtually forced through their pledge of Arab unity to back a cause for which they had little stomach.

Most Arab leaders wanted Syria to accept Saudi Arabian King Saud's mediation offer and felt Russia was to blame for Syria's refusal to do so. Turkey accepted the offer.

One neutralist delegate, who has taken the Soviet side on a number of issues before the U. N., called the debate a "farce that should be ended as soon as possible."

Even India's V. K. Krishna Menon, who rarely criticizes Soviet actions, showed little appar-

Report Plans To Discredit Zhukov

LONDON (AP)—Soviet leaders today enlisted the support of a Red Chinese marshal in what looked like a Kremlin move preparing the Russian people for the humiliation of war hero Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist newspaper, gave a significant display to an article by Chinese Marshal Liu Po Cheng stressing the importance of party leadership over Communist armed forces, reports from Moscow said.

The article followed the general lines of a campaign in the Soviet press. Zhukov was summarily relieved one week ago of his post as defense minister.

Moscow was still silent on the reasons for Zhukov's ouster but speculation was rife in Moscow that he resisted the work of party agents in the army.

Advise A Second Shot For Some

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many persons who have been vaccinated against Asian flu should get a second shot, the Public Health Service says.

The recommendation came in a statement yesterday which said all manufacturers will have a new more powerful vaccine in production by Dec. 1.

Surgeon General Leroy S. Burney said earlier that some of the new vaccine should be ready for release by the end of this month.

The PHS recommended a second dose not less than two weeks after the first for two groups: (1) Those who received only one-tenth of a cubic centimeter between the layers of the skin, and (2) special risk groups such as pregnant women, the aged, and those suffering certain chronic ailments who receive one C.C. under the skin.

The PHS said the second dose should be one C.C. of the old vaccine or one-half C.C. of the new vaccine, injected under the skin. For those using the new vaccine, the Health Service recommended a single dose of one C.C. under the skin, except in the case of young children.

Youngsters should get two doses of one-tenth C.C. between the layers of the skin, with an interval of a week between the first and second dose, the PHS said.

Meanwhile the surgeon general reported that an estimated 8 1/2 million Americans went to bed for a day or more with colds, influenza or similar diseases during the week ended Oct. 5. Burney said the total compared with about 250,000 new cases per week in mid-July.

Two Tar Heels Are Cited For Acts Of Heroism

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Two North Carolinians received Carnegie Hero Fund Commission bronze medals here last night for acts of heroism. One of the awards was posthumous.

One award went to the late J. Walter Reeder, 40, of Central Falls in Randolph County whose widow also was awarded a $960 yearly pension.

The other Tar Heel receiving an award was James R. Thompson, 26, of Rt. 1, Mebane.

Reeder, a textile loom fixer, drowned attempting to save Betty Sue Tucker, 19, in a pond at Worthville in Randolph County on July 6, 1956.

A young man was attempting to save Miss Tucker when she became panic-stricken and wrapped her arms and legs around him. He broke away and swam to shore to rest. Reeder then waded and swam more than 200 yards to the girl. As he neared her, both suddenly went under.

Thompson received his citation for rescuing Shirley J. Holder, 15, on May 19, 1957. He ran 1,000 feet to the shoreline at Atlantic Beach, N.C., and swam a total of 800 yards before he reached Miss Holder in water 15 feet deep.

On the return to shore, Thompson once lost the girl whom he was towing when a 10-foot wave submerged him. He swam back to the then unconscious girl and towed her by the hair until he reached a group of 20 men 40 feet from shore.

In all, Thompson swam 800 feet to the girl and towed her back 725 feet.

After 30 Years, Bill Is Paid Up

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Clarence E. Sarver this week received $30 conscience money for a grocery order 30 years old.

The unsigned letter with a $20 and a $10 bill included a note saying "Due you for groceries a long time ago."

The letter was postmarked Abingdon, Va., which Sarver left in 1927 after selling out his holdings of four stores there.

He operated a chain of 16 stores in east Tennessee and southwest Virginia.

Sarver said the stores didn't allow credit, and was wondering if the conscience-stricken person had stolen the groceries.

Safe Landing In Antarctic Storm

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—A big Air Force Globemaster with 12 men aboard won a tense battle with an Antarctic storm yesterday, making a safe landing on the third pass as snow cut visibility to 200 feet.

(The Navy said in Washington one of the plane's four engines was out and a second failing.)

Capt. James W. Thomas of Masury, Ohio, the pilot, fought the storm more than three hours before getting a chance to land the 70-ton transport as a 25-mile-an-hour wind whipped snow across the ice runway.

The Globemaster made an 1,800-mile flight to Byrd Base earlier in the day to drop supplies. By the time it got back to McMurdo, main supply base for this year's scientific expedition in Antarctica, this post was closed in by the storm.

When the storm abated somewhat, worried Air Force and Navy personnel watching from a station two miles away saw Thomas approach just above the snow cloud level and then pull up on the first pass. His second pass and the third successful attempt could not be seen from the station.

Information available this morning indicated that Esso and Texaco were the first to announce the allowances and that other companies followed their lead. Gaskins noted, however, that the allowances were subject to be removed at any time, or when the "price disturbance" had passed.

Engine On Fire, Airliner Is Safe

NEW YORK (AP)—A London-bound plane's 21 passengers and eight crew members escaped injury last night when one engine of a Trans World Airliner caught fire on an Idlewild Airport runway.

The plane had taxied several thousand feet on the 8,000-foot runway when the blaze broke out. The pilot immediately brought the craft to a halt, and all aboard scrambled to safety through the Constellation's emergency chutes.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Going It Alone

Local Gasoline Prices Adjusting To Lower Level

There was good news today for Greenville-area motorists.

Retail prices for regular gasoline tumbled to an average of 30.2 cents per gallon. The reduction came on the heels of a temporary competitive price allowance offered by major oil refining companies.

Not all of Greenville's service station operators cut their prices today, but most of them who haven't done so are expected to line up with the price-cutters by Monday, according to one station operator. A few station operators have gone further than the refineries' allowance and cut their prices to 30 cents per gallon.

Despite the drops, most of the station operators were quick to insist they aren't having anything to do with a gas price war.

"The leading stations did it (cut prices) together," one operator said, "and we are absolutely not having a gas war."

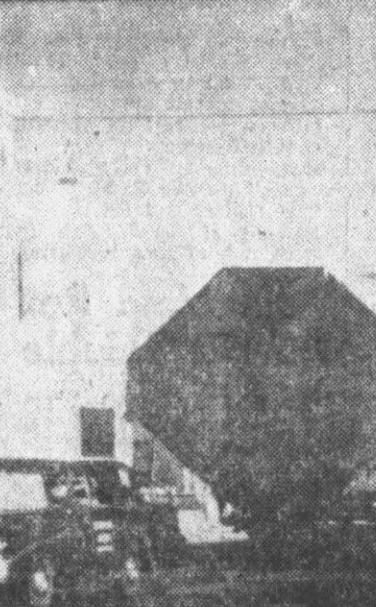

Comments from oil distributors tended to back up the denial of a gas price war. Charles Gaskins, chairman of the areas oil distributors, said this morning, "All companies distributing in this area have set up a temporary voluntary allowance, which the distributors are passing on to the dealers. It is up to the dealers, however, to set prices because they're independent business men and they can sell their gas at any price they want to set."

The allowance cited by Gaskins was set at 2.85 cents per gallon by the major companies. The total includes a 1.35 cents allowance passed on some time ago, and a 1.50 cents allowance forwarded Thursday morning. The allowances were permitted, Gaskins said, "to give local dealers a chance to remain competitive."

Gaskins added that there had been a "price disturbance" throughout the state for "the past several years," but he noted that the present allowance is the first ever offered in the Greenville area. The area has not had a "price war," as such, but there have been occasions when service station operators in surrounding and adjacent areas have cut their retail prices below the regular base charges for gasoline.

Information available this morning indicated that Esso and Texaco were the first to announce the allowances and that other companies followed their lead. Gaskins noted, however, that the allowances were subject to be removed at any time, or when the "price disturbance" had passed.

But haven't you, at times, felt as if you were literally hand tied? You struggle and strain with your problems and anxieties, and you are completely unable to get free. Such moments come to everyone, and they are not easy to face. It's simple to be serene when things are going well. But when your hands are tied—when you feel helpless, even hopeless—then you begin to realize life cannot be lived alone. It's then that you know how important Faith is—how it is something you absolutely must have. With Faith to sustain you, you inevitably begin to see your way out. Without it, you founder. Turn to the Church—not just because you are troubled, but because it can give you spiritual freedom.'

Following Mrs. Perkins' program, Mrs. Tom Henderson presided over the business session.

At the conclusion of the program guests were invited to the dining room where dessert, salted almonds and coffee were served.

New Ports Authority No Surprise

So North Carolina will have an entirely new State Ports Authority, and the Authority will have a new executive director as well!

Such an announcement from the governor's office always comes as a surprise regardless of how much dispute has ensued over the matter. It always sets tongues wagging on the street corners and in high political circles, seeking out behind-the-scenes developments which might have prompted the move.

For Governor Hodges, the clean sweep of a major board or agency of the state is not a new thing. We saw it in the appointment of the revamped Highway Commission. Really it should not come as a surprise as far as the State Ports Authority is concerned.

The decision announced by the governor yesterday has been in the making for months, maybe years. The state's two deepwater ports have developed more than a sense of competition for traffic. There is a keen rivalry between Morehead City and Wilmington. This rivalry broke into an open fight earlier this year when the Ports Authority gave approval to the recommendation of a New York consulting firm which said Wilmington should be developed as the state's major port and that Morehead City's facility should be largely ignored.

While the legislature was in session the Authority did an about-face, saying Morehead City should be developed as well as Wilmington because the recommendations had become antiquated since they were drawn.

We can say that members of the Authority are to blame for the confusion and disagreement which have developed over the state's deepwater ports. We do not know that appointing an entirely new State Ports Authority will alleviate the unfortunate situation which exists. We do feel that an entirely new membership of the State Ports Authority might bring into positions of greater influence new ideas and perhaps greater progress for both North Carolina's deep-water ports.

And while the big change is being made, there is

Background Of Big Bond Issues

By LYNN NISBET

ROADS-SCHOOLS — The State launched its first big road building program in 1921, when the General Assembly issued $50 million bonds for primary highways to be paid by a use tax on gasoline. Subsequent bond issues in 1923, 1925, and 1927, with appropriate increases in the gasoline gallonage tax, brought the total bonds issued for primary highways to $115 million — all of which has been paid. In 1931 the State assumed responsibility for all public roads — except city streets — relieving counties of the burden of building and maintaining them. In 1949 the people voted $200 million bonds for secondary roads. These bonds, as well as the cost of maintaining all primary and secondary roads, are being paid by gasoline taxes without recourse to ad valorem levies.

Municipal streets continue to be a burden mainly on property taxes locally levied. For many years the State highway fund has contributed to maintenance of streets forming links in the State system. By act of the 1951 Legislature the proceeds of one-half a cent a gallon of the State-collected gasoline tax was allotted to cities and towns for general street work. This amounts to about $5 million a year "relief" for local property taxes. Prior to 1933 the State levied a property tax for a school equalization fund to aid poorer counties in maintaining public schools. That year the General Assembly took over full responsibility for State maintenance of schools at minimum standard. Local governments still were required to furnish buildings and were permitted to vote additional taxes for improved services and extended curricula.

To finance the public school program the Legislature of 1933 enacted a general sales tax, replacing the former ad valorem levy and relieving counties of the burden of school support. This was the first instance of a State assuming full responsibility for public schools, and the second State sales tax levy. Not only has the State largely supported the operations of the schools, since 1949 it has put $100 million into school buildings through grants in aid to counties. Of this amount $25 million was a legislative appropriation, $75 million bonds voted by the people.

During the depression years the State of North Carolina, in an effort further to relieve property of an impossible tax load, devised a formula to obtain more revenue from corporate income taxes.

The General Assembly of 1939 declared the revenue act adopted that year to be "permanent," to continue except as amended in minor points from year to year. Although some changes had been made in 1935 and 1937, as well as in 1939, in all essential features the tax laws were the same as those enacted in 1933. With relatively unimportant changes since 1939, the 1933 schedules were still in effect when the 1957 General Assembly convened and faced recommendations for material revision in application of the laws, as recommended by the study commission.

Meantime, a Department of Tax Research had been set up in 1941 and had kept successive Legislatures advised of needed revisions in the tax laws. North Carolina fared pretty well under the 1933 tax program as amended from time to time. It had provided sufficient revenue to keep the State services at acceptable level and to enable the Legislature of 1947 to irrevocably dedicate enough money to retire the then existing general fund bonded debt. The General Assemblies of 1947 and 1949 found some "surplus" to appropriate some $150 million for capital improvements at State institutions to catch up the lag occasioned by inability to build during World War II, and to allot $25 million to aid counties in school building.

The State had retained top place in the South in schools and roads. It was in position to challenge all comers on the record of progress in hospital facilities, general and special, particularly in the fields of mental diseases and tuberculosis. And it still led the whole Southeast in the area of industrial development.

North Carolina now has these roads and schools and hospitals which are the envy of other States, and which have been — or will be — paid for without any State tax imposed on property, another important change which should be made so far as the Ports Authority is concerned:

The headquarters of the Authority and the office of its executive director should not be located in either of the port cities as has been the case in the past. Other states which have more than one port have found it advantageous to have their ports authority headquarters on neutral ground where overall problems and potentialities can be viewed more objectively by those whose responsibility it is to make policies and carry them out.

The headquarters of the State Ports Authority should be moved from Wilmington at the same time an entire new membership of that body is being named.

A Practical Way For Revised Ratings Due

North Carolina's Insurance Commissioner should be able to find a practical way to set up and administer a merit system rating plan to determine rates for automobile liability insurance in this state.

In passing the compulsory liability insurance law this year, the legislature instructed Insurance Commissioner Gold to fix rates which would distinguish between drivers who have accidents and those who do not. Such instructions obviously present problems; but in our opinion they do not present problems which cannot be overcome.

Time is growing short before the law becomes effective. The benefits the law will provide for the people of North Carolina must not be nullified by a system of setting liability insurance rates which is too complicated or full of inequities.

Showing Profit, Or A Delusion?

By ELMER ROESSNER

The Small Business Administration has come up with a darned good question for less-than-titanic businessmen. It is:

"Are you kidding yourself about your profits?"

The SBA has published a leaflet with that title. In doing it, it has recognized a situation accountants and business advisors have long been conscious of: Most small enterprisers don't know how they are doing.

Many don't know whether they are making a profit; many do not know how much their gains or losses are.

Some do not know whether they are growing or wasting away. They are unable to analyze the effects of inflation on their store or shop.

EXAMPLES OF BEWILDERMENT

Let's take specific cases, not out of the SBA leaflet but from real life:

Enterpriser A is convinced he is making money hand over fist and he is spending what he thinks are profits with a free hand. True, about $1,000 more goes out. That looks like $2,000 in profits before taxes each year. But Brother A does not realize his machinery is being used up. It cost him $50,000 when he started in business, but in a few years it will cost him $200,000 to replace. If he were building a reserve of around $40,000 a year he would be making less than he now imagines. One of these years he will go broke because he won't be able to buy modern, replacement machines.

Eager Beaver B insists he is losing money although his accountants say he is wrong. He keeps on firing accountants, but all of them tell him the same thing. They say he is making $30,000 a year and must pay taxes on that. They tell him that the $10,000 a year is paying off on machinery he has built and the $10,000 he is paying on the principal of his bank loan are all coming out of profits. He says, "All I know is that I take home less than $100 a week and my wife can't go to Florida like other men's wives. So don't tell me I have to pay taxes on $30,000 profits or I'll fire you, too!"

ALL IN THE FAMILY

Then there is Retailer C, who operates a market with the help of his two sons. Whenever they need extra money, they take it out of the cash registers. "It's not as if we were stealing it," they say. "Some say this will all belong to us." Mr. C, and his sons take home their own groceries and meat from the market without making out chits. "We paid the wholesalers for it, didn't we?" they say. The store pays their auto and television repair bills; the sons' wives often make trade deals with other merchants; they offer $30 in credit at the market for a $30 dress.

Patriarch C bemoans the poor state of business and blames Washington for having loused up the economy. Neither he nor his sons can draw any regular salaries, he says. They can take $50 or $100 now and then and sometimes they have to stall their creditors.

Actually, all involved are making handsome profits, taken largely in food and other goods. Mr. C. makes out his own income tax returns, reporting almost no taxable profit. When the Internal Revenue Service eventually catches up with him, he'll be surprised at how much he made.

Then there is "Big-Doer D," who boasts that his business taxes in 50 per cent more every month, and nets 50 per cent more profits, than when his father ran it. He doesn't realize the business is actually falling behind and, because of inflation, he ought to make twice as much as his father did just to break even!

The SBA leaflet doesn't go into cases like these, but it has facts that may open some enterprisers' eyes. And as long as it's free, write to the SBA, Washington 25, D.C., for a copy of "Small Marketers Aids No. 25."

"PERFECT SECRETARIES" IN THEIR THIRTIES

The "perfect secretary" is no chick just out of business college.

When Hamilton Employment Service set out to find the perfect secretary for the current National Business Show in New York, it tested scores of candidates and finally came up with a tying pair.

One was 30, the other 37. The younger, Miss Ruth Frazer, is also a pianist and church organist; the other, Mrs. Astrid Borck, is the mother of a son, 12, and the wife of a dentist. She's been Girl Friday for head men in $7 billion corporations.

Opinions In Brief

"Through research, conservation, education, electrification and mechanization, farmers have increased their efficiency in production and marketing. About 70 per cent of all crop acreage in 1954 was planted to varieties not even in existence on a commercial scale 20 years earlier." — Altamont, Kansas, Journal.

"Industries wanting to avoid racial complications could do worse than keep on moving southward. As farming employs fewer people the racial problem will continue to migrate away from the south." — The Daily Oklahoman.

Strength For Today

KEEP IT IN LEASH

It has long been known that anger produces grave physical consequences and often leaves one depleted and half sick. The Bible and other types of ancient literature dwell upon the evil effects of unmanageable anger. It has remained, however, for this scientific age to analyze the effects anger has on body and mind. It has been found to produce very decided glandular changes. Anger so interferes with the normal functioning of the body as to produce at times almost as disastrous effects as prolonged illness. The mind is inflated by anger. The heart beat is increased. Everyone knows the effect which tension at all times, and especially tension caused by anger, tends to produce — a disturbance which may even result in gastric ulcers.

We can be very sure that all this physical and mental disturbance has a corresponding physical effect. Unrestrained anger has its origin in an unsettled spiritual state and in turn causes more spiritual disturbance and becomes, therefore, an endless and devastating cycle.

Anger, we should never forget, is not a human weakness. Anger is an endowment by which nature equips us with emotional reactions designed to protect us against evil. Anger becomes a weakness and a liability only when we lose control of it. We are expected to learn to ride this horse and to keep it from throwing us over its head.

To The Last Man

Fishing Pier Interlude

I walked down to the fishing pier thinking I might go fishing.

Not more than five minutes after I parked my automobile in the parking lot near Fontana Lake it began to rain probably saving me $10 in cold hard cash and a bad cold too. Since I had driven all the way from the Village I decided to go on down and see who I could find for a little conversation.

In a few minutes I caught the eye of an old mountaineer fisherman who had just come in off the lake which was getting a little rough.

I asked him if he had, any coffee.

He said he had one more cup and proceeded to pour the black, syrupy-looking stuff out of an old pot. There was no spoon handy so I drank it black as we stood there in the brisk mountain air talking about everything from the weather to the Tennessee Valley Authority.

"You know," he said, "I think those folks done robbed most of the people around in this section blind."

Knowing very little about the situation I asked him what he meant. After all, just the day before I talked to one of the men at the dam and he thought the TVA was the finest organization in the world.

The old fisher went on to explain that the TVA had bought most of the land dirt cheap, not paying what it was worth to the mountaineers. "They made a lot of promises but didn't keep 'em," he said.

He went on, "I'll tell you sony, they didn't get any of my land and won't unless they get it on the tailend of a lawsuit."

I nodded my head and changed the subject.

First I asked him how the Fontana Village resort actually began and whether or not it was paying for itself.

He said the village was strictly built for the men and their families working on the dam. Then when the dam was finished, he explained, the Government Services, Inc. leased it from TVA.

The old man said the resort is one of the finest in the country. "Bet they make a lot of money up there," he stated.

My coffee was getting a little cold as was the wind blowing off the lake on my sparsely-clad arms.

He explained that fishing at Fontana Lake had not been up to par this year in comparison to the stuff the fishers were trying to feed them.

"Tell you though," he said, "the fishing is just as good for those who know where to get at 'em."

"I went out this morning and caught four big 'uns. They were right purty too."

He went on, "Why I stood out on the back end of this pier the other day and caught 25 or more."

"Threw 'em back in cause I didn't need anything to eat."

About that time two more Yankee-looking tourists came up to the stand. I hurriedly finished my cold cup of coffee, put a nickel on the counter and went back to the car, where my bride of four days was waiting for me.

(Raleigh Times)

The kind of football State College has played this year is bringing up again talk about how badly the college needs a new stadium.

In past years, that has been mostly just talk. But, it appears now that the time has arrived to take such talk seriously, for Coach Earle Edwards undoubtedly has brought State College a long way along the rough road to football success. And, Coach Edwards is the kind of man who can be expected to keep football on such a high plane that there is every reason to believe it will be a success as long as he is here.

Therefore, it is entirely appropriate that those in charge of such things should be thinking seriously about providing additional facilities for spectators at State College's home football games. Riddick Stadium bulged at the seams at last Saturday's 21,000 people who attended the State-Duke game. Yet, 21,000 is not a large crowd as college football crowds go.

State College officials already have been studying the stadium problem, along with the other expansion needs of the college. A long-range master plan is being worked out for utilizing the college's entire campus, with virtually all available space being needed for future dormitories, classrooms, laboratories, etc., to meet the expected increase in enrollment.

The need for such additional facilities on the campus brings up several questions regarding the need for a bigger stadium.

Should Riddick Stadium be enlarged to care for more people?

That question should be considered, of course. In that consideration, the question would come up as to how many more could be accommodated by filling in the two ends of the stadium. That probably would care for 10,000 additional persons. The next question would be: Could sufficient parking be provided within a reasonable distance to care for a crowd of 30,000 people in Riddick Stadium? There would seem to be grave doubt as to whether there would be such parking space.

If the need for a bigger stadium is established, it would seem likely that the best solution would be to move away from the college campus entirely, since there would not be sufficient parking space there.

In that event, what would be wrong with the State fairgrounds? That area is not far from town, there is a world of parking space, the fairgrounds are used only one Saturday a year, and the football schedule could be made with that in mind.

Most sports experts feel that State College must provide room for more spectators at football games. It is good to know that college officials have recognized that need and are seeking ways and means to provide the needed space.

Eisenhower 'Family' Breaks Up

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — In view of the recent resignations from the Cabinet," asks Mrs. M.R., of Lawrence, Mass., "do you expect that there will be more changes in President Eisenhower's official family? Are they quitting of their own accord, or is the President getting rid of embarrassing associates? Of course, I mean politically embarrassing."

Answer: Washington would not be surprised if only Secretary John Foster Dulles and the head of the Department of Labor, James P. Mitchell, were the only Cabinet members to serve through President Eisenhower's second term in the White House.

IN DULLES Despite Congressional and overseas criticism of Secretary Dulles, the President has complete confidence in him. Moreover, he is not nearly so disliked in Britain, our principal ally, as generally believed. Finally, he will not quit of his own volition. He loved his job, and he is in excellent health. Secretary Mitchell, who has won organized labor's approval, perhaps more so than many Roosevelt-Truman predecessors, offers of a private nature. But he is still young enough to stay through for three years more. Eisenhower insists that he remain, and the need for new labor legislation as a result of the Beck-Hoffa disclosures will probably impel Secretary Mitchell to acquiesce to the White House.

EXIT, PREDICTED FOR CABINET MEMBERS Three Cabinet members are almost sure to leave, possibly before next year's Congressional elections. They are Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, Ezra Taft Benson, Secretary of Agriculture, and Postmaster General Arthur S. Sumnerfield. They are "politically embarrassing" personalities.

Although the two men who recently resigned — Secretaries Charles E. Wilson and George M. Humphrey — are probably wealthier than Secretary Weeks, he is regarded as symbol of the extremely conservative wing of the Republican Party. A less outspoken believer in "big business" in this post would be helpful to GOP candidates next fall.

Though he is a conscientious public servant, Secretary Benson has won no friends for the President or the Party in the volatile and debatable farm states, where the Republicans must make gains, if they are to recapture the House next year. With indications of a huge hog production and falling prices next year, many important Republicans will be after his scalp.

Postmaster General Summerfield's opposition to wage raises for postal employees has antagonized these influential individuals, as well as government personnel generally. Their votes could cause upsets, in many states and districts in the Congressional contests.

"In view of the importance of the elections for Governor in New Jersey, and Virginia," inquires T.F., of Jersey City, N.J., "why didn't President Eisenhower campaign personally in those states for the Republican nominees?"

Answer: The President has given his endorsement, directly and indirectly, to the Republican candidate, Malcolm S. Forbes in New Jersey and to Theodore R.

Unused Funny Bones

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — S. J. Perelman, regarded by many as the witliest man alive, believes America's greatest medical problem isn't hardening of the arteries — it's decay of the funny bone.

"Humor writing today?" he said. "I just don't see much of it around."

"The immensity of life is a deterrent. Everything today has assumed such a terrific shape and size it dwarfs the individual and his point of view."

"The movies and television also have siphoned off a lot of possible humorists who become anonymous gag writers. They might have had a viewpoint or an identity, but instead they became part of a six-man team. They are paid well, but their work has no permanence."

A raffish Socrates who looks and talks a bit like Groucho Marx — as a matter of fact, he wrote two early Marx brothers movies — Perelman broke into the comic industry during the turbulent 1920s, the era of such men as John Held Jr., and Robert Benchley.

"We all starved together," he said. "But there was a tremendous amount of gusto in living in those days."

"But, like everybody else, I went on the auction block."

Since leaving Brown University, Perelman has turned out some 15 books and plays, more than 200 humorous skits for the New Yorker magazine, and innumerable movies.

A man who looks with skepticism on everything in life except the messages he finds in Chinese cookies — there I accept literally," Perelman said every young writer begins his career as a thief.

"He has to be," he said, "that is, in the sense he has to read digest the work of good men who have gone before. Then he has to demonstrate his skill by turning out varnished pieces done so well they show no trace of the sources they sprang from."

"I must say I myself have stolen only from good men."

Perelman now lives in a 117-year-old stone house on an 83-acre farm in Bucks County, Pa., complete with a mortgage, high weeds "and a slough of despond."

What does he believe is the funniest thing in the world?

"The spectacle of a middle-aged man trying to earn his living."

And the saddest?

"The same thing," he said. "But I wouldn't want to be thought cynical. I suppose you might say I was an idealist, but just say it — and you'll get a blow on the mouth."

Like all writers, Perelman suffers from insomnia, and he cures sleeplessness by murmuring over and over his favorite sentence in contemporary literature:

"There were rainbow roses on Mosely Mason's dresser this morning."

The source?

"It's the opening line from an unpublished novel — although why it's unpublished beats me," said Perelman. "It's better than Milton."

Things a columnist might never know if he didn't read his mail:

That gentlemen may prefer blonds, but the ladies themselves don't. In a world survey Willard Gidwitz, president of Helene Curtis Co., found that chestnut brown hair shade . . . and nine out of ten women who dye their tresses, dye them brown.

The shock from an electric eel is strong enough to fell a horse.

That a doctor recently suggested people with head colds wear a red ribbon on their sleeves to warn others away . . . but we've always been warned by their red noses!

That comedian George De Wit, defending his profession, said, "Whit is the salt that gives savor to the cold mutton of life."

Dalton, gubernatorial candidate in the Old Dominion Commonwealth. But Eisenhower does not believe that the Chief Executive should become too embroiled in politics. It is the gist of Republican politicians' criticism of him.

Numerous members of the Cabinet and White House secretariat, however, have appeared and made speeches for Forbes, including Vice-President Nixon. It would not help Ike or his wing of the Party for him to plunge into the that battle personally, especially as Governor Robert G. Meyner's re-election is a definite possibility. But should he lose, Eisenhower can call a Republican victory an endorsement of his policies in this important state.

ARKANSAS EPISODE'S EFFECT. IN VIRGINIA Although Candidate Dalton amassed the unprecedented total of 45 per cent of the vote in his previous campaign for Governor of Virginia the Little Rock episode has probably ruined his chances to repeat that feat. It is doubtful if Virginia would vote for President Eisenhower again, if he were running now, although it twice gave him its electoral vote.

Underdog East Carolina Hosts Appalachian Tonight

George Mikan's September Clinic At ECC Offered Pointers

MAY PAY OFF LATER—When Big George Mikan came to Greenville in September to give his basketball clinic, he worked out with the East Carolina Pirates. The former All-Pro cager gave plenty of pointers to Buc centers which may pay off when the season opens this year. Above, he battles with ECC's Joe Plaster (left) for a shot. Duke Chosen Six Points Better Than Georgia Tech

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duke's undefeated Blue Devils, flying the nation's No. 7 team, hoped to dispell today the myth that playing Georgia Tech in Atlanta is like starting the game six points behind.

Duke went into the game the favorite, but in this traditional rivalry characterized by close scores and staunch comebacks, the dope book goes out the window.

The game, one of six today involving Atlantic Coast Conference teams, found the Blue Devils a six-point choice. It was the only colorful and traditional battle on the schedule.

Resurgent North Carolina played host to powerful Tennessee, Virginia entertained VMI in a bitter cross-state rivalry, while Clemson faces Rice at Houston tonight in a game billed as the battle between the teacher and the pupil.

The two conference games pitted winless Wake Forest against undefeated but twice tied North Carolina State at Raleigh and South Carolina played host to Maryland.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Devi's, held to a 14-14 tie last week by North Carolina State, entered the game in top condition.

At Chapel Hill, North Carolina hoped to stop Tennessee for the first time since 1948. Expecting trouble from the tough Tennessee single wing, Coach Jim Tatum stressed defense against it all week.

Going into the game, Tennessee has allowed less than a touchdown per game while the Tar Heels had given up a fraction over nine points per game, evidence the game might turn into a defensive checkmate.

The South Carolina - Maryland game appeared to be evenly matched. Duke holds wins over both, each by two touchdowns.

In losing, the Terps went down before Texas A&M N.C. State, Duke and Tennessee, all ranked nationally.

Both teams have strong lines with able backfields. The difference might prove in a growing list of injuries to Gamecock players.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wake Forest went into its game against N.C. State still looking for its first victory of the season. It was doubtful if the Deacons would find it. Though undermanned and plagued with sickness and injuries through the early part of the season, the Deacons have shown a fine spirit, something that kept the undefeated Wolfpack from taking the game too lightly.

The game was the 51st meeting of the schools. State leads the series 25-19 with six ties.

Virginia, which stiffened its back against Army last week, appeared set to give VMI a run for its money in the 53rd meeting of those schools today.

It will be an improving Clemson facing Rice at Houston tonight, but how much damage the flu bug did to the Tigers earlier in the week remains to be seen.

The Tigers emphasized pass defense, with an eye cocked toward Rice's blazing aerial game.

Apps Rated 2-3 Scores Over Winless Pirates

By JOHNNY HUDSON

East Carolina College returns to conference action tonight seeking their first victory of the season. The Bucs play host to Appalachian with hopes of escaping the North State cellar.

Rain has forced ECC indoors twice this week but Coach Jack Boone figures this should not hinder his club too much. "We worked hard on Tuesday and Wednesday and our spirit is real good."

"Experience has been our big weakness this year. We have made many mistakes which meant the difference between winning and losing. We hope to have eliminated these mistakes when we meet Appalachian," Boone said.

"We feel that Appalachian has a young club like ours and it should be an even match as far as personnel is concerned," Boone added.

The visiting Mountaineers, relying on freshmen heavily, have been one of the big surprises in the North State Conference this fall, winning three of their seven starts.

Jack Justice, former Charlotte Harding star, and DeWayne Miller, leader of Canton's State championship club, have been the big boys boosting the Apps. Both are freshmen and handle the vital quarterback situation.

According to Assistant Coach Frank Madigan, who scouted the Apps last week, Ansel Glendening, sophomore from Illinois is the top runner for the visitors. He is backed by freshmen Glenwood Wilson and senior Claude Midkiff.

In the forward wall, Coach Bob Broom has some typical Mountaineer linemen in sophomore Jim Ganger and seniors Phil Tripplett and Jack White. Conger handles one of the tackle slots while the latter two work from the guard posts.

There will be a few changes in the ECC line. Bill Cain is slated to start at the right end and post and James Faircloth will start at a tackle position. Faircloth, a veteran performer, has alternated this season between center and tackle. Elsewhere in the line will be some not so new faces in Ed Emory, Charles Cook, Ken Burgess, Lynn Barnett, and Howard Beale.

James Speight, ECC's All-Conference nomination, will be at his left half post in the Bucs' backfield.

Speight has picked up 382 yards of ECC's total 749 yards rushing. His average per carry is 6.8. Speight, a sophomore, was the club's leading runner last season also.

Ralph Zehring, sophomore quarterback, will handle the passing chores. The Virginia native has continued to improve his passing game and made the Bucs a potent threat through the air.

The Apps visit their Eastern rivals rated as solid two-touchdown favorites to win their fourth tilt of the season. Both teams have lost to undefeated Elon while Appalachian took a 26-0 win over Western Carolina and ECC bowed to the same Cats, 20-7.

Last year, Appalachian scored 22 points in the opening half and then held the Bucs second half rally short for a 22-19 upset win over ECC. The previous year ECC had won a 13-0 decision.

Although rain has been present in Greenville for the past two days, a large crowd is expected to see the Pirates in their next-to-last home encounter. Their next might be Lenoir Rhyne here next week and then end their schedule the following Saturday against Presbyterian at Clinton, S. C.

Game time for tonight's North State clash in College Stadium is 8:00.

Citadel Jayvees Top Bucs, 39-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

power-packed Jayvees roared over East Carolina's Junior club yesterday, 39-0, in the worst defeat of the season for the Greenville outfit.

Quarterback Jerry Nettles passed two touchdowns for the hosts to pace the Citadel club to its whop-sided win. He tossed 28 yards to end Lindsey Carter for one TD and 12 yards to end George Poole for the other. Lee Rhame gained 74 yards in nine carries, including a 39-yard touchdown run for the winners.

Pushing the Buc club all over the field, the Citadel Babypups racked up 19 first downs, while holding Coach Earl Smith's team to only one. They gained 272 yards rushing and 180 passing for a total yardage of 452. East Carolina netted a total of only 62 yards.

The South Carolina eleven scored once in the first quarter, then racked up 19 points in the second; they were held scoreless in the third period, but roared back to pick up 13 more in the final quarter.

With the cancellation of the Farmville-Benvenue ballgame last night, the Red Devils have automatically clinched the Coastal Conference championship and will enter into the State playoff elimination rounds next week.

For Coach Elbert Moye, this is a real tribute. At the first of the season his club was given little chance to win half its games. The Coach rated his club a "young one" and said that his boys would make a lot of mistakes this year, but "I think that in spirit and determination, we'll equal anybody."

But spirit and determination don't make championship teams, according to the oddsmakers. They picked the Devils below Robersonville's heavily-laden, power-packed Rams, and Ayden's defending Coastal champs. It was just Moye's word against everybody else's.

Moye must have known that his club had the potential to grab the Coastal title, for he seemed quite enthusiastic about his boys even at the first of the year. His enthusiasm over a bunch of raw, ill-experienced lightweighters probably drew a lot of snickers from observers when looking at the rest of the powerful conference teams.

I guess Moye got the last laugh.

ABOUT THE FLU BUG

The Flu Bug claimed a lot of victories in last night's football games in this area. Contests postponed due to it (and the weather) were Greenville-Wilson, Ayden-Robersonville, Kinston-Washington, and Farmville-Benvenue, and the Eppes ballgame.

Robersonville will battle Williamston tonight. . . . and somebody made the statement this week that East Carolina ought to arrange to have a flu epidemic so they could cancel the rest of their ballgames in self defense . . .

WINGATE CLIMBING

George Tucker's Wingate Junior College football team, which has been burning up the gridiron in the Southeast this year, has moved up several notches in the National Junior College ratings to the No. 2 spot in the South.

Tucker, who played his football at ECC several years ago, started a grid team at Wingate in 1956 and has produced a powerhouse in just two years.

This season, his outfit has won seven straight ballgames. The Bulldogs have three remaining games on the card. Tonight, they tackle Hargrave Military Academy of Chatham, Va., at Wingate.

Wingate actually has a better record than the No. 1 ranked team, Arlington, Tex. Junior College, which has won six straight.

Memorial Services Mark Death Of Caldwell Today

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—A memorial service on the Princeton campus today marks the death of Charles Caldwell, the university's lead football coach.

The popular sports figure died of cancer in Princeton Hospital yesterday. He was 56.

Caldwell's team, which he last saw five weeks ago, will be finishing a game against Brown at Providence, R.I., about the time the service gets under way in the University Chapel here.

His widow asked that, in lieu of flowers, contributions be sent to the Caldwell Memorial Fund, care of the university.

Dr. Robert F. Cohen, university president, announced establishment of the fund shortly after Brown's Marval Gymnasium.

Win Would Put Lions In First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Detroit Lions get into action for the first time since "dissension" charges came into the open when they face the San Francisco 49ers tomorrow in San Francisco.

The Lions, a disappointment in the National Football League race so far, are said to be annoyed at Leon Hart for his performances to date. Officials of the team have denied that there is any unrest.

The 49ers lost their opener then came on to win their next four. Last Sunday, they barely nipped the Chicago Bears 21-17.

The Lions currently are tied for second place in the western section with the Baltimore Orioles, each with a 3-2 mark.

A victory for the Lions over the 49ers, therefore, would pull them into a first-place tie, and in the process go a long way toward eliminating the Hart controversy.

The Colts will have something to say about the western division lead, too. If they polish off the Pittsburgh Steelers while Detroit is defeating San Francisco, then a three-way tie for the top would ensue. San Francisco, Detroit and Baltimore all would have 4-2 marks.

In the eastern section, the Cleveland Browns, who took over undisputed possession of first place last Sunday, go against the Washington Redskins. On the face of it, the Browns should have no particular trouble, for the Redskins have won only two games while losing three.

The Giants' single with the Green Bay Packers in Green Bay and the Los Angeles Rams entertain the Chicago Bears and the Cardinals are at home to the Philadelphia Eagles in other NFL action tomorrow.

Burdette Gets Big Welcome In His Hometown

NITRO, W. Va. (AP)—World Series hero Lew Burdette went back to his little 'ol' home town last night and got a rousing welcome from 10,000 admirers.

It was a far cry from the three-quarter million frantic fans who turned out to welcome the Milwaukee Braves when they returned there after beating the New York Yankees in the Series last month.

But this town of some 3,000 west of Charleston, rolled out the carpet for all it was worth. And Burdette thought it was great.

He rode with his wife near the head of a parade two miles long. The fans along the 36-block parade route cheered, waved and whistled their greetings to the Braves great right hander, who defeated the Yankees three times, including two shutouts.

A big illuminated baseball with Burdette's name on it was propped on one of the 20 or more floats, sandwiched among several marching bands.

The 30-year-old Burdette also made pals with Gov. Cecil Underwood, who is only four years his senior.

Underwood said he might vacation next February in Florida. Since Burdette now makes his home at Sarasota, Fla., he told the governor "we have enough boats to take care of you" in case Underwood wants to go fishing.

Asked if he'd signed a contract for 1958 yet Burdette said, "No, but I don't anticipate any trouble. I don't expect to be a holdout."

Defensive Play Paid Off For Miami, Boston

By ED WILKS

The Associated Press

Defensive play, generally a weak sister behind offensive emphasis, told the story again last night, this time for Miami (Fla.) and Boston U., as college football opened another weekend.

Miami three times stiffened and held Villanova within the 20 while coming from behind for a 13-7 victory. And Boston U. slowed down by rain, mud and George Washington defenses, finally turned a blocked punt into a 7-0 decision over the Colonials.

Heads up defense, sometimes called "breaks," was what kept powers such as Oklahoma (which defeated Colorado 14-13 on a blocked conversion try) and Iowa (which scored after a fumble recovery in a 6-0 decision over Northwestern) among the unbeaten last weekend.

Today, defense again could prove the payoff as the No. 1 Texas Aggies meet Arkansas, Iowa faced Michigan, Auburn played Florida, Notre Dame ran into Navy, Michigan State played Wisconsin and Duke took the test against Georgia Tech.

Miami, a two-touchdown favorite despite the loss of hard-running John Varone through injury, looked the part. In the end, it was the Hurricane defense and a penalty against the over-eager Wildcats that brought Miami a 3-2-1 record.

Joe Plevel was the leading gainer, picking up 100 yards on eight carries—one an 80-yard score.

The big-gainer in the Boston U.-George Washington game was the blocked punt, which netted the Terriers 37 yards. Guard Steve McGowan broke through to smash the kick and the ball bounced back to the GW 6 before Terrier tackle Ed Paulauskas sprawled on it.

Tom Pat Sullivan, making his first start as a replacement for injured fullback Jimmy Dean, chugged over on the next play and also booted the conversion. That was that. Just enough to ruin George Washington's homecoming which found only 1,000 at the game.

Citadel Can Sew Up S. C. Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One of two teams was due to take over sole possession of the top spot in the Southern Conference football race before today was out although only one of two scheduled league games involved a front-runner.

The Citadel's surprising Bulldogs played host to William and Mary with a chance to move into first place all by themselves or surrender the spot — by tying or losing — to Virginia Military Institute's Keydets.

Both The Citadel and VMI have 4-0 records in conference play, followed by four-time champion West Virginia at 3-0. VMI was engaged with non-league Virginia today, and the Keydets stood to gain first place if William and Mary (1-3) could knock off The Citadel.

A Bulldog victory would set up the Nov. 16 collision of VMI and The Citadel as the possible conference championship game, although the Keydets — should they win — still have a Thanksgiving date with Virginia Tech.

Today's other conference tussle had Richmond (0-2) at Virginia Tech (0-2) as two of the league's disappointments sought to escape a possible finish in the basement.

Non-conference action, in addition to VMI-Virginia, had West Virginia at Penn State and Washington and Lee entertaining Wash. in homecoming ceremonies. Davidson and Furman were idle.

There will be no significant league action next week, the only family tuss sending George Washington (1-3) to Richmond, Furman will be idle for the second week in a row.

Five conference teams will be on the road against non-league foes next week — VMI at Lehigh, Virginia Tech at Wake Forest, W&L at Sewanee, William and Mary at North Carolina State and West Virginia at Pitt.

The Citadel will play host to Presbyterian and Davidson will entertain tough little Wofford, which already has whipped The Citadel and Furman, the former decisively.

Boston University used a blocked kick to set up the only score for a 7-0 victory over George Washington last night. The second quarter blocked kick rolled from the GW 43 to the six, and Tom Pat Sullivan scored for the visitors on the next play.

GW reached the BU 21 in the first period, the 31 in the third period and the 30 in the final quarter but never got closer to a score. It was the Colonials' fifth defeat in seven starts.

Soil-Saving Said Up To Everybody

RALEIGH (AP) — Dr. Paul D. Sanders, editor of the Southern Planter, asserted here last night that "Soil saving is everybody's business."

"The strength of the nation is in the productivity of the soil," Dr. Sanders said in an address to the North Carolina chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America at its annual meeting.

The editor stated "The United States is one of the few countries of the world where the goal of enough to eat has been achieved. The struggle of mankind down through the ages has been to get enough to eat."

Dr. Sanders was introduced by Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-NC), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee. State Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Balentine is presiding at the sessions which were concluded today with a business meeting and the election of officers.

Another highlight of last night's session was the presentation of various achievement awards in conservation by R. P. Moore, area conservationist of Goldsboro, and Wayne Pritchard, executive secretary of the Soil Conservation Society of America. Pritchard also is scheduled to address the group today.

Truman Charges Laxness In Filling Defense Needs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Harry Truman says Russia has made alarming scientific strides while the Eisenhower administration neglected defense needs and concentrated on balancing the budget.

"Truman said the administration 'has been planning our national defense not on the basis of what was needed to protect us from our enemies, but on the basis of business as usual . . . this is terribly dangerous.'"

The former president's charges were delivered at a Democratic Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Los Angeles last night.

House Republican Leader Joseph Martin of Massachusetts told a Chicago audience yesterday that "we lead in the missile field today" because of a U.S. decision not to enter a space-race with the Russians.

"We hear criticism, mostly partisan," Martin said, "because Russia was a bit ahead of us in the satellite experiments. Personally, I believe if a choice had to be made our scientists were wise in putting the missile defense program first."

Martin said the Russian earth satellite which has been orbiting in space since Oct. 4 "has yet to demonstrate any value in a military sense."

Members of both parties have said Russia's Sputnik is proof of an advanced missile technology and a clear warning to the United States to step up its own missile program. Russia also has announced successful tests on a 5,000-mile intercontinental ballistic missile.

Preparedness Is Stressed In Film Shown To Club

The need for preparedness was emphasized in a film shown to the Exchange Club last night.

Lt. Col. Beverly Brockdorff, in charge of the local reserve program, showed the film, "A Tale of 2,000 Cities." He was assisted by Master Sgt. Charles Johnson.

The film pointed to the fact that we have never been prepared for war in our nation's history. Since we were not prepared in 1941, we had additional thousands of casualties.

To keep an armed force large enough to repel attack would cost an enormous sum of money. In addition, it would rob us of manpower needed to continue our present growth.

The answer, then, to being properly prepared is to have a strong ready reserve.

John Lautares was in charge of the program.

J. Howard Moyer, who presided at the meeting, announced that the quarterly Exchange Club Educational Conference would be held November 9 and 10 at Burlington.

Next French Premier Faces Jungle Of Political Grief

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP) — The next Premier of France must fight his way through a jungle of political jealousies and contradictory policies to find enough votes for approval in the National Assembly.

Already five candidates for the job have been swallowed up in this jungle, unable to enlist enough help to clear the obstacles.

There are 17 different political groupings for the 595 members in the National Assembly. Not all are full-fledged parties with central organizations. But each represents some political nuance that prevents absorption into a larger group.

The centrist Radical Socialist party has a three-way split largely provoked by personal feuding. Former premier Edgar Faure and a few of his friends were kicked out of the party by Pierre Mendes-France for forcing early elections in 1956. Later 14 other Radical Socialists walked out in protest against what they called dictatorial procedures by Mendes-France.

The result is that 70 men who largely think alike are listed under three separate political headings.

When Socialist Guy Mollet came to office early in 1956, he was tolerated but not supported by Independents and Peasants. After 15 months, the Independents and Peasants revolted, voted against Mollet's financial policies and out he went.

Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, a Radical Socialist, then formed much the same sort of government. The Socialists were given some ministries but the Independents were not. The Independents went along for four months, then balked on giving more freedom stepped down from direction of the party, but the wounds have not yet healed enough to re-form under a single banner.

The present Assembly is largely ungovernable, and France is left long un-governed, because of a stubborn bloc of automatic opposition. This includes the Communists and fellow travelers with 149 seats and the followers of tax-hating Pierre Poujade with 42 seats.

The Communists and Poujadists hate each other. But they consistently vote together, for exactly opposite reasons. On any proposal for giving Algeria more autonomy the Communists vote against because they say it does not go far enough. The Poujadists vote against, saying it goes too far.

The result is that a workable majority of at least 325 members of the National Assembly must be extracted from the 400 deputies between these two extremes. This means that the Independent and Peasant deputies, representing the employers and farmers, must find some way to get along with the Socialists, who draw their strength from the working classes.

Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, a Radical Socialist, then formed much the same sort of government. The Socialists were given some ministries but the Independents were not. The Independents went along for four months, then balked on giving more freedom to Algeria. That started the present crisis.

Any prospective premier must try to get the Socialists and Independents together under one roof.

Two main problems face France today—the three-year-old rebellion in Algeria and the shortage of cash in the National Treasury.

The Independents are opposed to any concession to the Algerian rebels. They maintain that order first must be restored.

The Socialists program calls for a cease-fire, to be followed by local elections. The Socialists say they would then negotiate with the elected representatives.

The Independents say they believe a solution to the financial crisis can be found without freezing prices or wages, and without new taxation. Their normal reaction, however, might be to adopt a wage freeze more quickly than the Socialists and choose taxes falling more heavily on individuals than on businesses.

Mollet ruled out a wage freeze but spoke of the possibility of a national campaign against merchants trying to dodge taxes. This aroused the Independents. Mollet also talked of the necessity for new taxes, and Socialists usually single out corporations for taxes first.

If the Socialists and Independents could reach a compromise agreement, the other parties of the center could easily be brought into line.

The Radical Socialists and the Catholic Popular Republican Movement, and smaller groups, have shown they can swallow their pride and move to the right if necessary. Traditionally, however, they prefer to work closely with the Socialists.

Rival Factions Duel For Control Of Textile Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rival factions duelled today for control of the 44,000-member United Textile Workers Union as its executive board convened to meet an AFL-CIO corruption clean-up ultimatum.

Anthony Valente, UTW president, was reported ready to resign and Lloyd Klerner, already resigned secretary-treasurer, was said to be seeking to get back into the union as Valente's successor.

Both were accused of misuse of union funds in testimony before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee. The AFL-CIO has given the UTW until Nov. 15 to agree to oust both and to call a union convention to elect new officers.

Frank Scgambato, a UTW board member from Providence, R. I., and a member of the Rhode Island state senate, was reported to be opposing Klerner and seeking the union presidency himself as a reform candidate.

"I'm receptive, naturally, if the board sees fit to elect me," Scgambato said. "I'm for complete compliance with the AFL-CIO directives."

Scgambato and Joseph Krause, a UTW board member from Paterson, N. J., sent telegrams to all members of the 22-man UTW executive board calling for compliance with the AFL-CIO orders.

Frank Gorman, UTW research director and the union's president from 1939 to 1944, told a reporter "you can say if Klerner goes back in, Gorman goes out." A number of major UTW locals in New England and the South were reported as having adopted resolutions urging conformity with the AFL-CIO directives.

Klerner's plans were reported to be to take over the UTW and defy the AFL-CIO, even if it means expulsion from the federation.

Valente and Klerner were said in Senate Rackets Committee testimony to have used UTW funds to help buy private homes. They said they had repaid the money.

On Oct. 25, Klerner resigned as UTW secretary-treasurer, saying he was doing so for the good of the union. It was disclosed later that before quitting he obtained a signed pledge from the UTW board to pay him $100,000 a week severance pay for the next 20 years, or more than $100,000. The AFL-CIO has directed the UTW to cancel this deal.

Salaries of some executive board members were reported raised recently by the Valente-Klerner regime by $25 to $40 a week.

With all the highinks in the UTW's national office, sentiment was reported growing among UTW locals to seek merger with the Textile Workers Union of America. It has not been involved in any labor corruption charges.

The two unions have been bitter rivals for years.

Their Curiosity Led Them To Try Orchids

Billica with unusual orchid plant . . . commonly called "The Dancing Lady," technically called Oncidium Varicosum.

By ANNE SINGLETON
(Reflector Woman's Editor)

Because of a probing curiosity, the Harry Billicas now have one of the most unusual hobbies in this section of the country—raising orchids.

Three years ago a houseguest gave the Billicas an orchid plant which was a profusion of blooms the first year. But would not bloom the next winter.

Why wouldn't the plant bloom again? The question was a challenge to the couple and they began reading books written by orchid authorities to find the answer.

Finally they took their problems to Mrs. Karl Bridges in Southern Pines, an eminent orchid authority, who suggested they give the plant more light and humidity which are vital to orchid growth.

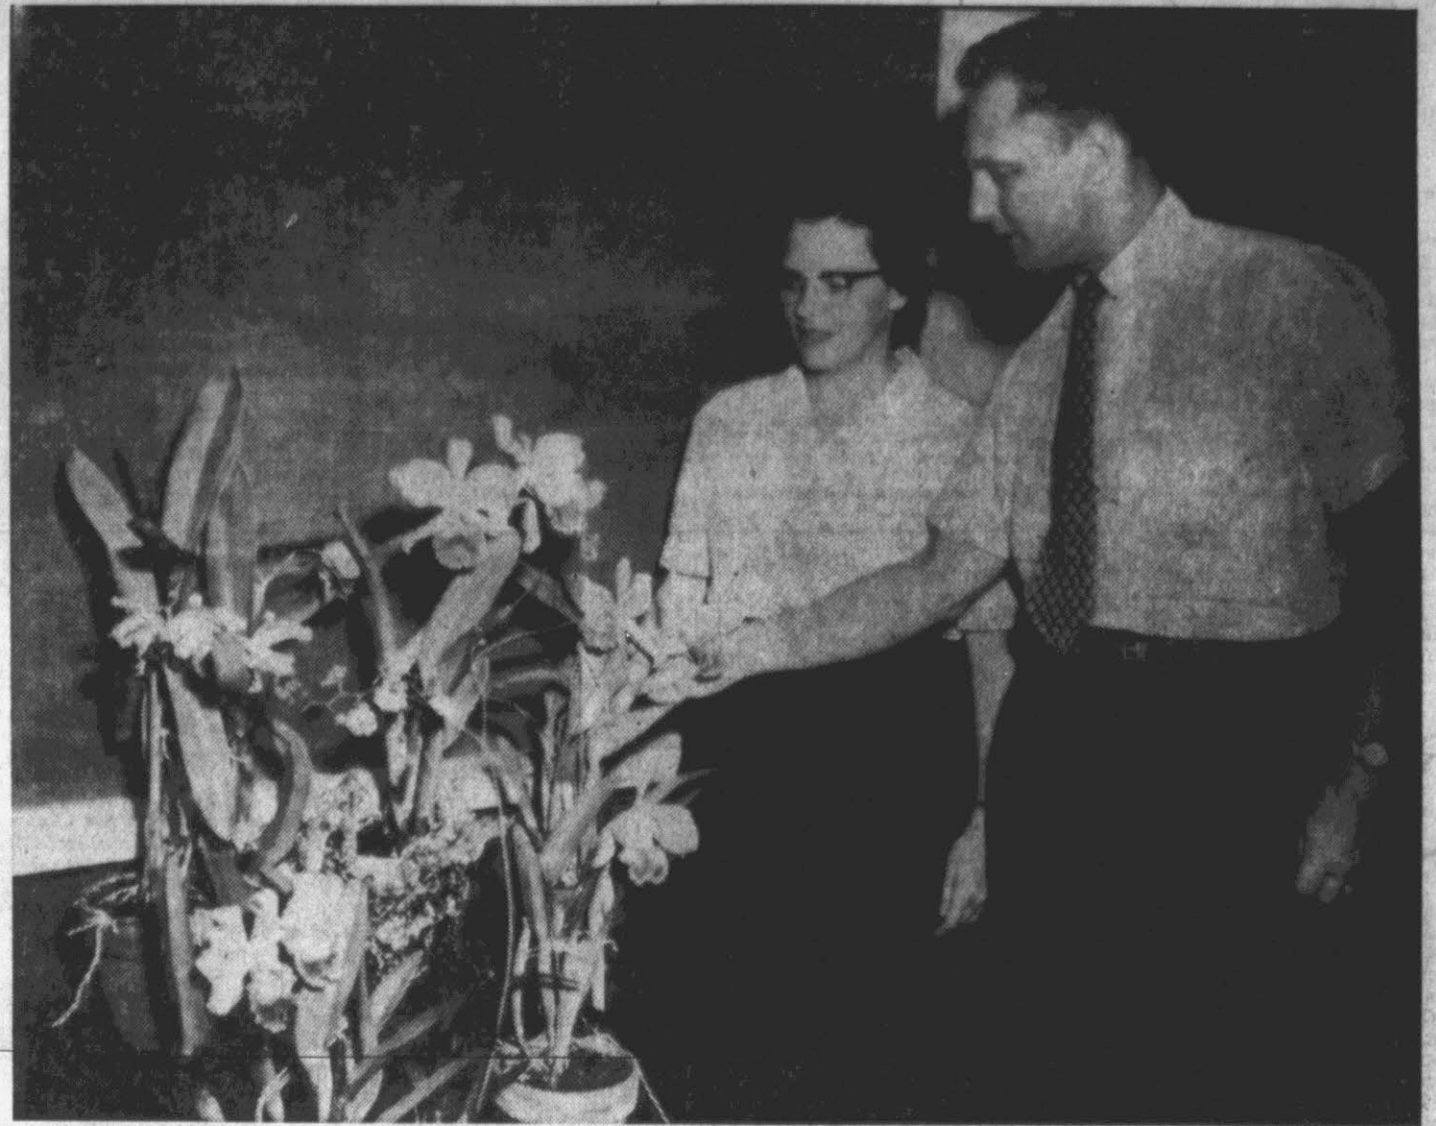

Still the plant did not produce the desired blooms. The problems were finally resolved by the building of a greenhouse behind their home on Pineview Drive which now houses their 70 plants and gives them direct sunlight.

Orchids Grow Anywhere

"Orchids grow anywhere . . . they grow at all altitudes. Some grow as high as 10,000 feet and little ones can be found growing wild here. The corsage orchids which originated in the tropics grow high in the trees," explains Mrs. Billica.

Orchids which are in the highly developed plant scale are generally considered a fragile plant, but in reality they are quite hardy. "They are about as resistant to disease and insects as any plant," mentions Billica.

Orchids do not demand a great deal of care. Every week the couple waters them and each plant is repotted yearly by Billica. During the hot summer months Mrs. Billica often sprays the entire greenhouse with a fine mist as the plants must have an even 70-75 degree temperature during the day and 55-65 degree temperature at night.

At the present time the Billicas have ten different varieties of plants which need the same environment. Year-round at least one fragrant plant is in bloom in their home. But once cut the orchid loses its odor.

In the early spring and fall the couple points out that orchids are at their height and stay in bloom anywhere from three to six weeks.

"As the plants increase themselves, our knowledge of orchids is increasing," observed Billica.

Orchids are prolific plants . . . but must be repotted each year.

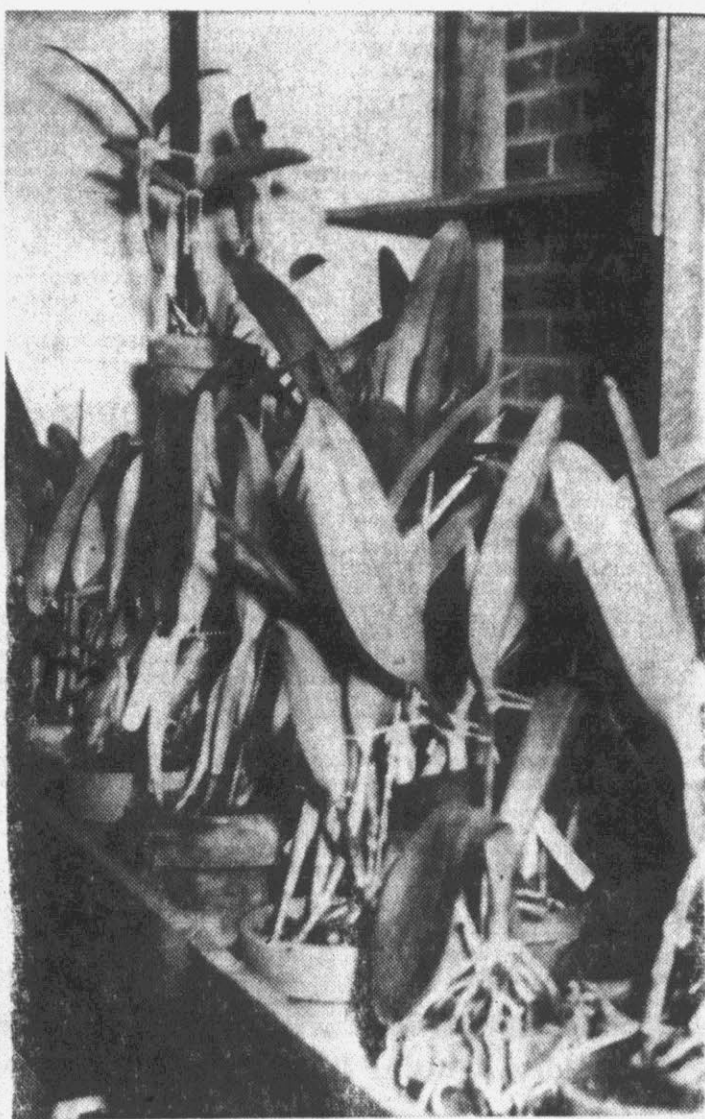

This fragile-looking orchid . . . is really quite hardy.

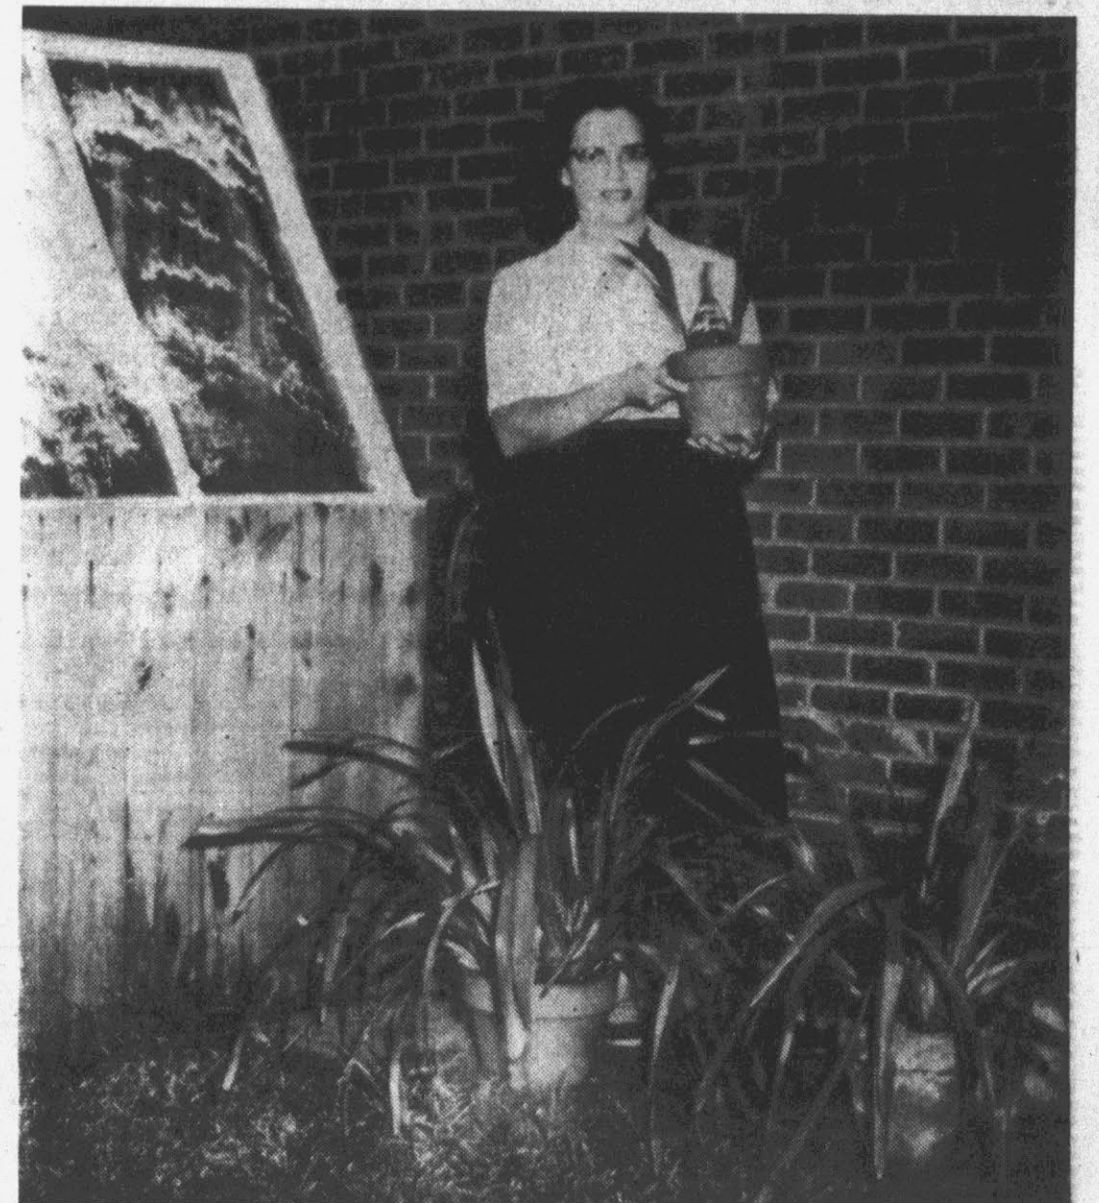

During summer months some of plants stay high in a tree . . . to get the filtered light and air-circulation which the roots must have.

While in bloom, the orchid plants are of focal interest in the house . . . and are enjoyed by the Billica's three sons, Glenn, Roger, and Barry. (Reflector Photos by Anne Singleton).

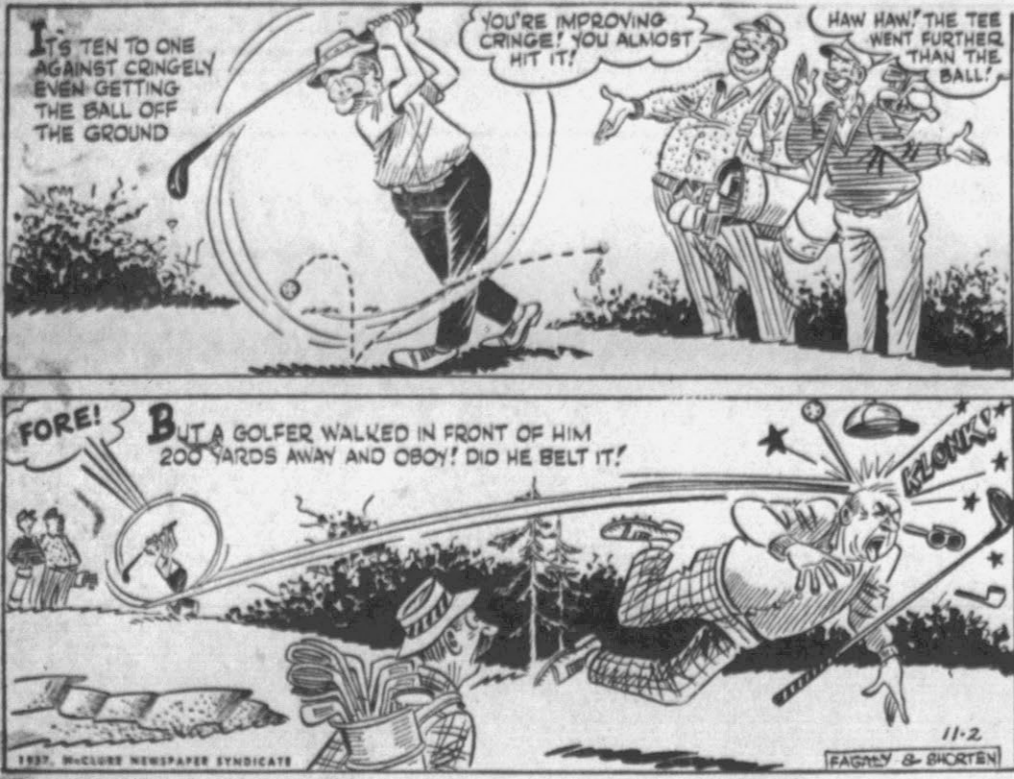

Their greenhouse houses 70 of their plants . . . where they obtain an even temperature and the necessary sun.

Mrs. Billica holds a cymbidium bulb . . . transplanted from the larger plants which remain outside during the summer months.

Students Led By Hard-Core Reds

RANGOON (AP)—Like many other schools Rangoon University today finds itself in the middle of an ideological contest to win minds. Mainly because of lethargy or disinterest in politics among some segments of the student body, the Communists have emerged as spokesmen for the majority. This does not mean that most of the 9,000 Rangoon students are Communists. It is doubtful if more than 200 hard-core Reds are on the campus. But aided by financial support from the Red Chinese embassy, the Communist-led Students' Organization Front is the strongest organization on the campus. It seized on legitimate student complaints, used them as election issues and was able to tout itself as the popular champion of academic privileges. There had been student complaints about overcrowded dormitories, high entrance fees, lack of study space and short vacations. Knowing the financially drained university could not cope with these complaints, the Communists used them heavily during the campus election.

Wig Knotters Getting Scarce

LONDON (AP)—Wig knotters are getting scarce. "We just can't get enough of them," says Robert Harris, manager of Charles Fox Ltd., wig-makers. "Ours is a dying trade." Knotters tie strands of Japanese German and Italian hair gauze mounts stretched over dummy domes. A couple of hundred years ago a man's station in life could almost be judged by his wigs and how well he kept them powdered. "Today, most of our production goes to actors and actresses," Harris said. "We make a few wigs privately." That covers gentlemen or ladies shy of hair. The wigmaking trade is not easy. A seven-year apprenticeship is required. Judges and lawyers in court wear wigs but these need not be of the same quality as stage or private headpieces.

Skater Is Asking $6,000 Alimony

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Donna Atwood, former ice skater, wants her estranged millionaire husband to pay her $6,000 monthly alimony instead of the $2,000 she agreed to accept pending trial of her divorce action. Superior Court decided yesterday she will have to make her legal effort all over again, and set the hearing for Nov. 13. Attorneys for her husband, John H. Harris, 57, icecapades producer, said that at that time they will ask the court to enforce the original property settlement which Miss Atwood, 32, signed last August. This gave her $2,000 monthly for 10 years plus a note for $100,000.

Space Ferries, Taxis, Platforms In Prospect For Future Explorations

BY ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
NEW YORK (AP)—Space ferries and taxis will likely be the first steps in human travel to Mars, Venus and elsewhere in space. They will make short hops—riding up only about as high as Sputnik did.

Their job will be to build and supply space platforms or hotels circling steadily around the earth. Up there the space ships will be built and launched to carry humans on historic explorations of space. This is the view of most experts on rocketry and space travel. They feel it will be far simpler and cheaper to launch the actual space cruisers from a kind of stepladder in the sky than from the earth itself. The reason involves some hard facts about rockets and gravity. A well-supplied space cruiser in which humans could live safely and comfortably for weeks or months could weigh many dozens of tons. Getting that weight off the ground all in one piece takes enormous rocket power. It has to start from scratch, against the full gravity pull of the earth. Just to send up a 20-pound baby moon on Project Vanguard calls for a 22,000-pound rocket, half a ton of rocket for each pound of payload to be hung in the sky. Numerous experts have proposed designs and plans for the space hotels and cruisers. First one, then another, then another, rocket is shot into an orbit 500 miles or higher above the earth. They are timed or controlled to be bunched. Then the first human astronauts go up. Protected by special space suits, they work in space to join the rockets together. They use, perhaps, little rocket guns or reaction pistols to control their movements. Firing the gun gives them a backward push in the direction they want to go as they hang in space. Freighter rockets carry up prefabricated materials. Construction crews soar up in space taxis, creating safe, comfortable living quarters with all the necessities of life. Some designs call for phallos-shaped space platforms. More cargo ships carry up the materials to build the space cruiser to Mars, and its fuel. Trained crews rocket up to man the space cruiser.

The space hotel is traveling around the world in an orbit at five miles per second. Now the space cruiser is launched, its rockets thrusting it forward to reach a speed of seven miles per second. With that speed, it can break away from the earth's gravity and begin its space journey.

The space cruiser isn't streamlined. It doesn't have to be, for there's no air or friction to slow it down. And it's easier to get the cruiser going fast high in space than from the ground. This astounds people who think a rocket has to have air to push against. It doesn't. In fact, any air is a handicap, a resistance like trying to get an automobile going if its nose is against a wooden fence. Rockets go because they burn fuels and create compressed gas inside the rocket. The nose end is closed. Gas molecules are pressing against this closed end. Against this action, there is reaction as gas molecules rush out the narrow, opened back end. The high speed ejection of this mass produces a thrust in the opposite direction.

The escaping gas doesn't need air or anything else to push against. And the rocket moves faster if it doesn't have to fight wind resistance ahead of it. Launched from a space platform, it has less force of earth's gravity to overcome also. Once a rocket is aimed for Mars it will coast without further power, falling through space in a great circle to intercept its target planet. If he wants, the captain can boost his speed by short bursts of rocket fire. Approaching Mars, he turns his ship by firing small steering jets. Then he uses his main rocket power to offset Mars' pull of gravity enough to back down slowly and gently onto the planet. Come home, he first rejoins his space hotel, then comes back to earth aboard ferry or taxi rockets. Re-entering the earth's atmosphere at high speed could burn up a ferry or taxi or big rocket. Rocket engines can be fired as brakes, and approaches can be made in swooping glides to slow the speed in the earth's high thin atmosphere to make safe landings on earth. Rockets now ride up on chemical fuels, either liquid or solid propellants or both. They are being made even more powerful. Atomic energy is a future fuel. The sun's heat might also be used to generate electricity, and with it produce streams of ions or electrons producing little kicks to power a space cruiser once it was up in space. Enthusiasts are sure human space travel is coming. But there are Doubting Thomases, and many persons who wonder why humans should go traipsing around the universe anyhow.

Cancel Address By Gen. Taylor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, says he has been asked to withdraw as speaker at a Veterans Day program in Birmingham, Ala. The Little Rock school situation apparently was the reason. Taylor said yesterday he replied to a Birmingham committee by saying he had "no choice but to defer to your request that I withdraw from this engagement."

The general released his reply as well as a telegram sent to him by Richmond Weeks, director of the Birmingham committee which invited Taylor to be main speaker at the Nov. 11 observance. Weeks' message said the committee decided to "release you from your obligation" to speak. Since the invitation, Weeks went on, there have been "unfortunate procedures" which have "stirred up emotions and prejudices not only in the south but all over the country."

The director's telegram did not elaborate, but apparently the refusal to enforce integration at Little Rock's Central High School. After the troops were sent in it was disclosed that Taylor had issued an order for special troop training in preparation for possible civil disturbances. The order was immediately rescinded.

Pranksters Put Goat On Tower

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A goat which normally grazes on the University of Kentucky experimental farm was found making like a mountain goat—on top of a 100-foot water tower. Firemen used a rope and pulley to get the goat down. It wasn't known how the Halloween pranksters got the goat up there.

Special Advisor Plans Leave Post

LANCASTER, S.C. (AP)—James P. Richards, special advisor to President Eisenhower on Middle Eastern affairs, said here last night he has "no plans" to continue in the post after the first of the year. Richards, a South Carolina congressman 24 years before he retired and accepted the special assignment from the President, said at his home he will return to his law practice and farm here. "It was understood when I accepted the post last January that I would only stay on for six months. At the request of the Secretary of State and the President I later agreed to stay on for an additional six-month period," Richards said. Richards, who retired from the House last January, was for many years chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Would Be First Space Traveler

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Remember Maj. David G. Simons, the Air Force doctor who soared to a record height of 103,000 feet in a balloon gondola last summer? Well, the daring young doctor now wants to become America's first space voyager in a manned satellite, says fellow researcher, Col. John Paul Stapp, chief of the Aero Medical Field Laboratory at Holloman Air Force Base, N.M. Stapp said another qualified American is Capt. J. W. Kittinger Jr., who has reached 96,000 feet in a balloon-towed capsule. "However," Stapp said with a smile, "I haven't asked Kittinger whether he wants to go."

Order Merger Of 2 Hospitals

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Consolidation of municipal hospitals for whites and Negroes by next May 1 was ordered last night by the city council. The merger is expected to save the city about $368,000 a year. A study has shown about $1,700,000 in improvements must be made at General Hospital No. 1, for whites, before it can absorb activities of General No. 2, for Negroes, which will be closed.

Official 'Hero Of Baltimore'

BALTIMORE (AP)—Donald E. Maler is officially a "hero of Baltimore" today for saving the life of a Negro boy atop a moving freight train. The 16-year-old white boy received the hero's certificate yesterday from Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro at City Hall. Maler was awarded for his Sept. 29 rescue of Johnny Powell, 10, in the Pennsylvania Railroad Yards. Witnesses said Donald climbed a freight car to rescue Johnny who had brushed against a high-tension wire while playing atop the car. Just then the car began moving and Donald held young Powell flat so he would not contact the wire again as the train passed through a tunnel. The train later was stopped at the city's outskirts. Johnny underwent a skin-grafting operation and was reported in satisfactory condition.

Navy Is Confident It Can Meet Any Red Aggression In Far East, But-

By C. YATES McDANIEL
PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii—The Navy's confidence in its ability to crush any new aggression in Asia is tempered by the strong hunch that the manner and place of the next Communist move may rule out American military action.

Both the confidence and the caution are found and voiced in this Pacific command headquarters, which is the nerve center of the American watch on the Asian seaboard.

Voicing the demands for prompt decisive action against aggression were Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, and Adm. Felix Stump, commander in chief of Pacific Ocean area land, sea and air forces. They talked with visiting newsmen in Stump's offices on a hillside overlooking Pearl Harbor.

Stump brushed aside suggestions of timidity, saying: "We are not going to stop aggressions by being afraid to risk war." Burke, fresh from a prolonged tour of the Western Pacific, put it even more bluntly: "If a nation aggresses, she must be punished fast, and on the spot."

But Stump, who commands a vast array of warships, planes and atomic weapons, also sounded the sobering note that "subversion might get out of hand" and "a Communist coup might occur" in Southeast Asia "before we could get anything about it."

Burke narrowed the more immediate danger areas to the smaller nations which lack strong alliances with the United States. In such places, right now, said Burke, "the Russians are probably figuring how much hell they can raise without getting into too much danger."

A sifting of the great volume of reports coming to Pearl Harbor from many sources in many Asian lands leads to the conclusion that Indonesia is one of the prime targets for Communist control and may be ripe for plucking without a shot.

Dogged by internal dissensions and armed revolts, the government of Indonesia has accepted so many favors from native Communists that the payoff hour may not be far off, these reports indicate.

Stubbornly neutralist after breaking all ties with the Netherlands, Indonesia rejected American offers of military aid. Because there is no alliance or even a mutual aid agreement with the United States, any direct American military intervention would be damned as imperialism and will be avoided scrupulously.

Americans involved in holding the line against Communist expansions in southeast Asia are also concerned about Laos and Cambodia, two of the three originally non-Communist states that emerged from the breakup of the French colonial empire in Asia.

Laos is a natural pressure point for the Communists, for it touches Communist Vietnam as well as the still free countries of Thailand and Viet Nam. A strong Laos could prove a buffer or a bulwark, but in Red hands it would provide an opening wedge between Thailand and Viet Nam, both friendly to the United States.

The royal Laotian government, recognized by the United States, is even now dickering with a Communist Laotian faction whose leaders were trained for their task in Red China.

In Cambodia, the government seems stable and the people friendly, but here again the slow processes of Communist infiltration are encouraging neutralism that is beginning to look like it was thought out in Communist China.

The American hope of saving Laos and Cambodia is seen to be tied directly to American success in increasing the strength, stability and resolution of Viet Nam. That southern end of the Indochinese peninsula leans heavily on direct American aid of all kinds.

Under terms of the Geneva truce agreement that ended the eight year war between the French and the Communist supported area in the north, Viet Nam is not permitted to join regional alliances specifically formed to deter the Communists. But Viet Nam has a close working agreement with the United States.

With American help, Viet Nam has built an army that is now considered strong enough to hold its own against the Communists north of the 17th parallel. Neither side has enough air or naval power to be a threat, without outside assistance.

Thus, in the hope of American strategy in southeast Asia today is vitally concerned with keeping Viet Nam independent, for her own sake and to serve as an example to her less resolute neighbors of what a small state, only recently emerged from colonial status, can do for herself.

Ginger Rogers Looking To A Busier Schedule

By BOB THOMAS
 NEW YORK (AP)—"I'm not married any longer, so why shouldn't I work as hard as I can? Idleness breeds mischief or depression, so I'm going to keep busy."

This was Ginger Rogers' explanation of why she is making two important moves in her career.

1. Playing her first night club since she was a kid in Galveston.

2. Returning to a stage musical for the first time since 1930.

Looking slim, trim and ageless in her hotel suite, Ginger talked about her future. Obviously her marriage to Jacques Bergerac, former, finished, dead. But she isn't moping.

"Las Vegas has been after me to play there for five years," she said. But I chose to go back to night clubs in a brand-new hotel in Havana because it was new. I'd be the first star to appear there. I'm looking for new challenges."

"Starting January 28, I begin touring for a year in the national company of 'Bells are Ringing,'" she continued. "Now you might ask why I do the show when it isn't new.

"The reason is that I haven't found a script that is so ideally suited to my talents. 'Bells,' which Judy Holliday did originally—and very well—is something that fits me."

Also, she has done some TV appearances here and has several more lined up.

She expects to take the show to nine towns.

"I'm going to see how hard the show is on me," she added. "If it's not too bad, I may make a picture while the show is running in Los Angeles."

What?

"Sure," she said airily. "What's so hard about that?"

"When I was appearing in 'Girl Crazy' here in 1930, I made five movies and thought nothing of it. Just so she won't get bored, she is also planning to keep a diary of her adventures on the road which she'll make into a book."

I asked her where she got all that drive.

"I don't know," she said thoughtfully. "It's always been there."

Christian Church Announcements

The choir of the Eighth Street Christian Church under the direction of Mrs. H. L. Carter will sing Sunday morning Purcell's anthem "Let My Prayer Come Up Into Thy Presence" and the pastor will preach on the theme, "The Dedicated Portion."

On Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 the membership of the church is requested to drive by the church and make their pledge for the coming year of 1958. This has proved to be one of the most dignified ways of underwriting the program of the church and has been used for several years. Officers of the church will be present to explain any part of the program for the coming year. The members will remember that a large group of the church has established a new Christian Church in Greenville which will be meeting for the first time this Sunday. This is inspiring and also challenging to the mother church to rise up to meet this emergency.

The circles of the Christian Womens Fellowship will meet as follows this coming Monday:

No. 1, with Mrs. H. R. Phillips at 3:30;
 No. 2, with Mrs. J. D. Wilson at 3:30;

Non-Credit Adult Education ECC Courses To Be Talked

Discussion of non-credit courses which East Carolina College anticipates adding to its adult education program will take place at a meeting to be held Tuesday, November 19, in the Austin auditorium on the campus at 7:30 p.m.

President John D. Messick has issued to key individuals and organizations in towns within commuting distance of Greenville an invitation to be present.

Dr. Messick points out that more than 40 million people in this country "are currently taking courses for enjoyment and to better themselves as citizens in their communities." Most of those enrolled in these courses, which have shown a phenomenal growth since World War II, he states, are not interested in receiving college credit but wish to learn more about such subjects as literature, art, music, economics, politics, and science.

The meeting called for November 19 will provide opportunity for discussion of types of work which the college can offer to those wishing to become "a part of this great adult educational program" in the nation.

To meet the needs and interests of people in the area near East Carolina, the college is prepared to offer any type of instruction which the faculty is qualified to teach, Dr. Messick says.

The courses which would be included in the program would be offered on a non-credit basis and would be open to adults, including those who are not high school graduates. The program of non-credit classes will be announced after the November 19 meeting, when demands for courses have been made known.

East Carolina also offers, Dr. Messick points out, adult education courses on completion of which the student receives college credit. These courses are scheduled at night so that they may be available to those who because of jobs
