Patrolmen's Killer Trailed Into Kentucky As Big Net Is Extended Still Further

LANCASTER, Ky. (AP)—State police in middle Kentucky, following a trail of wrecked and blood-stained automobiles, set up road blocks today and launched a farm-to-farm search for the killer of two North Carolina highway patrolmen.

The slayer, pursued since he shot the two officers Tuesday night in central North Carolina, was believed to have stolen, wrecked and abandoned three automobiles between here and Chattanooga, Tenn.

Police at Chattanooga early today found a 1957 black Oldsmobile they said probably was the one driven by the young, dark-complexioned killer at the time of the slayings. It was found only 10 minutes after a resident of the area reported seeing a man abandon it. It was filled with firearms and ammunition, bore stolen Pennsylvania plates, and a stolen North Carolina plate was inside.

State and Garrard County police thought the man was injured and might be afoot in this vicinity. The officers said a 1957 Chrysler 300C—a limited model capable of making up to 150 miles per hour—was stolen in Chattanooga and found abandoned and wrecked 220 miles away at Stanford, Ky.

At Stanford, 10 miles from here, police said the killer probably stole a Chevrolet which was found wrecked and abandoned behind an automobile agency here.

A 1957 Dodge, stolen from the agency, was wrecked when it hit a telephone pole about 4 1/2 miles outside the town on Highway 52. Officers said bloodstains were found in both the Chrysler and Dodge and that firearms were left in the Dodge. The trail covered some 250 miles in less than 4 1/2 hours.

The Tennessee Highway Patrol said all units were alerted and that similar alarms were spreading to Georgia and other surrounding states. Roadblocks were thrown up on all main highways.

All officers were urged to use "utmost caution" if the stolen vehicle, a 1957, two-door Chrysler coupe of the 300 series, was spotted. The Chrysler was found abandoned and wrecked today near Lancaster, Ky., the North Carolina Highway Patrol reported.

ing into the area to search for the fugitive. Maj. Speed said a 1957 Plymouth automobile, stolen in the Lancaster, Ky., area also had been found wrecked and abandoned. The reports said the fugitive was believed to have been injured and was either hiding in the area or had stolen another car.

The manhunt, guided by the FBI, spread out from the Clifton Hills and East Lake residential areas of Chattanooga after a Ross-ville Boulevard dealer reported the powerful car missing. The search swung to Chattanooga after the car believed used by the killer in North Carolina was found abandoned earlier in the morning.

The FBI said the car contained six pistols and a rifle and nearly 2,000 rounds of ammunition. All the weapons are to be laboratory tested, the FBI said, in an effort to determine whether the arsenal included the gun that killed officers Wister Lee Reese, 39, near Ellerbe, N.C., and J. T. Brown an hour later near Sanford, N.C.

Police said they found the car in which the man escaped the shooting scenes near Ellerbe and Sanford, N.C., before dawn here today, within 10 minutes after a resident of the area saw a man abandon it.

Police Lt. G. T. Jennings described the car as solid black 1957 Oldsmobile with Pennsylvania license 28-NV. Pennsylvania authorities said the license plates had been reported stolen Monday near Carrolltown, Pa.

North Carolina plates issued for a 1954 Chevrolet were found inside the car. The State Patrol at Raleigh said these plates were reported stolen yesterday at Madison, N.C.

The North Carolina Highway Patrol said the license, HW1813, issued to Henry Fulton Griffin of Rt. 1, Madison, was reported stolen. Jennings said several 22 caliber pistols were found in the car together with ammunition for a .30-30 rifle and a .44 Magnum pistol. He said serial numbers on at least four of the pistols matched weapons which had been reported stolen from a Pennsylvania hardware store.

Meanwhile, in Raleigh, Col. James Smith, patrol commander into the whole missiles and satellite programs. Tonight's address also was timed, at least to some degree on purpose, to coincide with Russia's observance today of the 40th anniversary of the Red revolution.

Eisenhower's speech will be carried live by all national radio networks and the CBS television network. It will be carried on film by ABC-TV at 10:30 p. m. (EST) and by NBC-TV at 11:15.

Eisenhower announced more than a fortnight ago that he intended to strike out around the country and make a series of speeches to bolster national confidence in America's scientific progress, national defense, economic strength and the foreign policy.

stated he was sending Robert Perry Jr., of Norman, the hitchhiker who fled the killer's car at the shooting, to Chattanooga to identify the auto and any of its contents. He is being accompanied by several members of the patrol. Col. Smith asserted that he was calling off the roadblocks in North Carolina and was hopeful the suspect would be found before the patrolmen reached Chattanooga.

At Ebensburg, Pa., State Trooper Willis Wertz said the hardware store was near Barnesboro, Pa., and had been burglarized either early Sunday morning or Monday night. Wertz said he believed the burglar used an auto with the stolen plates in making his getaway. He said six pistols were taken in the robbery.

Authorities spread a wide net for the man who abandoned the Oldsmobile here. The car was filled with luggage including several men's suits. Officers armed with submachine guns surrounded the residential area where the car was abandoned and patrolled the city in cars after broadcasting the man's description received from North Carolina authorities.

President Said Considering Use Of Big Rockets

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Tribune said today that President Eisenhower is actively considering a plan to launch a space ship bigger than Russia's Sputnik II by using big military rockets.

The New York Daily News, in a special dispatch from Washington, carried a similar story. The Tribune's Washington story, quoting unnamed officials, said the earth satellite could be fired off within four months. It could circle the earth at a height averaging 600 miles. The newspaper stated, and carry mice, guinea pigs or monkeys or other animals to provide information for scientists.

The plan, the Tribune said, was reported to be the most attractive and most immediately attainable of more than a dozen proposals being studied by the Pentagon for submission to the President.

The newspaper said a top Pentagon official unidentified, estimated that if all the "feasible" proposals were undertaken the total cost would not exceed 275 million dollars. The White House staff and budget experts are examining the cost, international implications and possible harmful effect the project would have on the nation's rocket program, the story said.

Pentagon officials would not comment on the story, the Tribune said, but other sources, unnamed, were quoted as saying they would not be surprised if Eisenhower decides that "if the Russians want to make a race of it we're in it."

Big Hatcheries Chain To Locate Plant Here; Plan March Opening

Chemell Hatcheries, Inc., one of the nation's largest producers of baby chicks, will locate a hatchery in Greenville.

The announcement of the new industry for Greenville was made today by Mayor S. Eugene West and Leonard Bloxam, chairman of the industrial committee of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

A building containing approximately 10,500 square feet will be constructed by local interests and leased to the Chemell company. The new building will be constructed on property adjacent to the Airport Road in north Greenville.

Mayor West said construction of the building will begin within 10 days to two weeks and the hatchery is expected to be in operation by March, 1958.

Final arrangements for the location of the new plant were completed Saturday, officials said, in a conference here between Louis A. Chemell, president of Chemell Hatcheries, Inc., West, Bloxam and J. T. Marston Jr., vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce. Information available here today said the new plant will employ between 20 and 30 people and will purchase approximately $10,000 worth of eggs a week for hatching.

"Location of this new plant here means there will be more farmers of Pitt County in the chicken business, and also that more grain will be required in Pitt County to feed the chickens that lay eggs for the hatchery," West said. He estimated the plant will mean approximately one-half million dollars annually in supplemental farm income in Pitt County.

Negotiations which led to locating the hatchery in Greenville have been underway for approximately three months. "Greenville is in need of new industries and new businesses that will help Greenville and Pitt County," Mayor West said today. "We are extremely pleased that this plant will be located in Greenville and hope that in the future the city will be able to secure additional plants. I appreciate the efforts put forth by local citizens in securing this new industry. It is an example of what can be accomplished for our city and county through a cooperative effort of local citizens."

Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee Chairman Bloxam commented, "The securing of the Chemell Hatchery we hope will be the beginning of a further balanced economy in Pitt County. The Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the city, is going to make every effort possible to expand its diversified program."

In addition to the new plant in Greenville, the Chemell organization operates hatcheries in Gainesville, Ga. where it also has a breeder farm, in Joquin, Tex., Jasper, Ala., Shelbyville, Del., Broadway, Va., Morganton, N. C., Jacksonville, Miss. and Americus, Ga.

Doyle Williams, a member of the Chemell organization, will be manager of the Greenville plant.

Think Sputnik II Is Breaking Up

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Russia's new satellite may have come apart in space, scientists said today on the basis of admittedly sketchy reports.

While Dr. Fred L. Whipple, Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory director, said he had no confirmation of reports arriving from various sources that Sputnik II may be coming apart, he said that such a development was quite possible.

Andrew B. Ledwith, the observatory's radio technician, reported today that the radio tone of the satellite on the 20-megacycle band seemed to be spread out in time, as though coming possibly from two separate radio-equipped objects.

Earlier reports received from Chicago and Tokyo indicated some object might be preceding the dog-carrying satellite. If the rocket satellite had separated into two sections, with one portion falling lower, the part nearer the earth would appear to be well ahead of the main rocket because of moving into a smaller orbit and thus completing the orbit sooner.

There has been speculation that the Russians might attempt to eject the chamber carrying the dog, Laika, from the main rocket possibly on Nov. 7.

The dog-carrying satellite was sighted by thousands of early risers as it orbited across the United States.

Percy Flowers Turned Self In

RALEIGH (AP)—The U.S. marshal's office reported today that Percy Flowers, Johnston County merchant and farmer, wanted on state and federal charges, had surrendered to federal authorities in New Orleans and had been released under bond.

The marshal's office said Flowers had posted the bond for his appearance in Federal Court in Raleigh next January and was released from custody.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Julian Gaskill also confirmed that Flowers had posted bond in New Orleans. Meanwhile, Johnston County Sheriff B. A. Henry, who has been seeking Flowers for several weeks, said federal authorities had not notified him about the matter. He said all he knew about it was gleaned from newspapermen who called him about it.

Gaskill said that since Flowers had posted bond, federal authorities no longer will be concerned about his whereabouts until his trial here comes up Jan. 27. Flowers, 53, was indicted by a federal grand jury Oct. 7 on charges of operating illegal distilling apparatus, and removing and concealing son tax-paid whisky.

Six-Room Dwelling Burns In Night; Nothing Saved

HOUSE BURNS ... nothing saved from burning dwelling.

A six-room dwelling on S. Pitt St. was gutted by flames last night. The house was owned and occupied by Lizzie Whitehurst. It was located at 1805 S. Pitt St.

The alarm came in at the Fire Department at 8:20 p.m. Firemen said the dwelling was in flames when they arrived at the scene.

The firefighters used fog lines from high pressure trucks to bring the fire under control in approximately 15 minutes. However, they remained at the scene until 9:30. Fire Chief George Gardner said the blaze was believed to have started from a coal heater. He said he understood no one was at home when the fire broke out. Firemen used two high pressure trucks and a pumper in fighting the night blaze. Nothing was saved from the burning dwelling.

Red Army Shows Baffling New Guns In Big Parade

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union showed off a bristling array of tactical weapons of atomic capability today in the parade marking the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. There was no display of missiles.

The biggest weapons displayed were a pair of what appeared to be single-stage rockets looking to be 70-75 feet long, with a range guessed at 400-500 miles. The big puzzler of the show was a pair of giant mystery guns of unusual design and seemingly capable of firing shells with atomic warheads.

Today's parade seemed to emphasize greater mobility and harder hitting power for the Soviet armed forces. Parades in 1955 and 1956 showed no new weapons.

Moscow radio, in its broadcast about today's parade, said the Soviet Union showed off a "new type of artillery based on the principle of jet propulsion." It added: "According to the animation displayed among the diplomatic corps and foreign representatives, one could not guess at the performance of these rockets."

Most Western military men said they were stumped by the big guns. "They just don't add up," one of the best informed said. "The guns appeared too heavy for their carriages and recoil." They estimated the outside diameter at 16 inches with a bore probably ranging from 12 to 14 inches. The muzzles were covered by cloth caps. The Western consensus was that this year's show was not as impressive as had been expected—puzzler to representatives of NATO powers most closely threatened by Soviet tactical weapons. Foreign observers in the reviewing stands estimated that most of the 38 major rockets shown in various sizes and types were tactical rather than strategic weapons, designed for direct support of ground troops.

In his first public appearance since he replaced Marshal Georgi Zhukov as defense minister, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky made the speech of the day attacking the United States and assuring the Russians could meet any attack.

Standing atop the Lenin-Stalin tomb, where Zhukov had reviewed the last five military parades, Malinovsky asserted: "Aggressive foreign circles, notably in the U. S. A., pursue a policy aimed at increasing international tension, preventing disarmament and threatening mankind with the dangers of atomic war."

The Soviet people, he declared, "ardently desire peace," but "the Soviet armed forces are capable of crushing any aggressor should he attack our country."

Heavy clouds prevented the usual flypast of new Soviet planes. But in front of the Kremlin, rockets dominated the packed crowd's attention. The parade of missiles started slowly with a show of conventional multiple-rocket launchers for battlefield use. Then came larger mobile rocket launchers mounted on tank chassis—some of them amphibious. Finally came a group of launchers capable of handling up to 12-inch missiles in nests of half a dozen each.

For the first time, the various launchers were shown this year with rockets in place. There were two sizes of massive rockets possibly intended for strategic long-range use. The length of one was estimated at about 70 feet, the other smaller. They were wheeled through the square on long tractor-drawn trailers. These weapons had been heavily covered during rehearsals for the parade.

(A Moscow radio commentator describing the parade said it included a "new type of artillery based on the principle of jet propulsion.")

Light Agenda Is Before City Council Tonight

Only a light agenda will face city councilmen when they meet tonight at 8 o'clock. According to the agenda, City Manager Leonard Bloxam will discuss with the councilmen recommendations to the State Highway Commission in regards to improvements in the state road system. The commission requested that the city offer such recommendations.

Also to be discussed tonight will minimum building and heating codes. Finally Bloxam will report on the Bond issue progress, according to the agenda.

Second Meet By Security Council

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower held a second expanded National Security Council session today. He called in the greatest attendance of outside experts ever brought into one of these top policy-making meetings.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, acting White House press secretary, said there was no direct relationship between the meeting and Eisenhower's address tonight on science and security.

The speech from 8 to 8:30 p. m. EST is to be the first of a series of presidential addresses designed to reassure the nation about its scientific progress and security.

The series is on an accelerated schedule with this first one moved up six days ahead of the original plan. While the specific purpose of the Security Council session was not disclosed, Mrs. Wheaton told reporters that "Yes, I would say it is connected with all developments of the last week or ten days." That would take in the period of the launching of Sputnik II by Soviet Russia.

All told, some 45 persons gathered at the White House for the NSC meeting. Mrs. Wheaton said she thought it was the largest Security Council session ever held. It was too big for the usual session in the Cabinet room and was shifted to the broadcasting room in the basement of the White House proper. The NSC has five members by law—the President, the vice president, the secretaries of state and defense and the director of the Office of Defense Mobilization. Customarily, other top officials from the White House and executive agencies also are brought in, so that some 25 persons are present. Added to the list today were the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force and the chiefs of staff of the military services, plus members and advisers to the Science Advisory Committee of the Office of Defense Mobilization. The Advisory Committee is headed by Dr. I. I. Rabi of Columbia University. An enlarged NSC meeting was also held last week. Although White House officials talked down the idea of any cause and effect connection, the speed-up in the Eisenhower speaking program followed a special Cabinet meeting yesterday and an announcement by Senate Democratic Leader Johnson of Texas of plans for a "searching inquiry"

Bergman-Rossellini Separation Now Official

ROME (AP)—Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini separated today, bringing to an end seven tempestuous years of married life.

An announcement by their attorney said they separated because of incompatibility. The Rossellinis' married life had recently been complicated by reports from India that connected the Italian director with a pretty Indian script writer, Sonali Das Gupta. These reports had been emphatically denied. Rossellini left Rome immediately. Miss Bergman was ill with flu at her Rome apartment. She is 40 and he is 51. Ingrid Bergman came to Italy eight years ago to play in the movie, "Stromboli," and fell in love with Rossellini. She eventually gave up Hollywood and her husband and married the director. She was pregnant when her affair with the director made headlines, and Roberto, her son by Rossellini, was born seven days before she got a Mexican divorce from her first husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, on Feb. 9, 1950.

She and Rossellini did not take their honeymoon until June 1950 when they went to the Isle of Capri. The first rumors of a serious rift between her and Rossellini cropped up last May while Rossellini was making a series of documentary pictures for the Indian government. Miss Bergman was in Paris playing a stage role in "Tea and Sympathy." Newspaper stories said Rossellini and Sonali Das Gupta, a beautiful 27-year-old, were living in adjoining apartments in Bombay's plush Taj Mahal Hotel. Sonali, without previous movie experience, had been hired by Rossellini as a script writer at $525 a month, a salary equal to that of Prime Minister Nehru. She was already married and had two young sons. Rossellini called the story "fantastic." He said Ingrid still believed the story "fantastic." He said Ingrid still had faith in him. She said there was "no truth at all" to the reports. Because the principals refused to talk, most of the facts in the case remained obscure.

Sonali's husband, Hari Das Gupta, himself a film director, kept in the background and never took any action against his wife or Rossellini. Her father, a retired doctor, said he thought his daughter was under Rossellini's "spell." The Indian government took a hand — when Rossellini sought an extension of his visa in order to finish his pictures. Friends of the husband opposed the extension, hoping the affair would end and that Sonali would return to her family when Rossellini was out of the country. The Indian Home Ministry gave Rossellini his extension despite the furor. But the Italian Embassy in New Delhi was reported to have Rossellini's promise to stay away from Sonali. Thereafter they no longer lived at the same hotel. The beautiful, dark-eyed and classical — featured Sonali would never discuss her reasons for leaving her 36-year-old husband and home. She arrived in Paris last Oct. 6 when Miss Bergman was still appearing on the stage there. It was reported she had gone there in an effort to get the actress to give up Rossellini. Miss Bergman angrily denied she had seen the Indian woman. On Oct. 21 she and Rossellini were united with hugs and kisses at Orly Airport near Paris. He had been away since December. "Oh, I'm so happy," she cried as she kissed her husband. "Now maybe you will believe me when I tell you there is no truth to those stories that have bothered me for so long." Rossellini said divorce rumors were "absolute nonsense." But at their homecoming in Rome Oct. 31, Ingrid bit her lip and looked away when reporters asked Rossellini about Sonali's whereabouts. "Don't ask me about those things now," Rossellini said to reporters. He appeared haggard and thin, and Miss Bergman was ill.

Leather Gloves Go To The Tub

SOAP SUDS STYLES . . . These are new fall gloves in launder-leather, guaranteed washable. Left, the lariat glove, which loops to the wrist, doesn't get lost. Right, two-tone casual glove in nougat color with button-down tabs in taupe.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

It's a great age, I keep saying, in which to be a woman. Science keeps thinking up new ways to make us look younger, live longer and enjoy it more.

Even the small annoyances are being solved for us.

Take gloves, for instance. Remember how difficult it used to be to keep your fine leather gloves fresh and immaculate. If you tried to clean them yourself, chances are you'd ruin them. And it was worth your life to try to find a cleaner who could be bothered with cleaning gloves.

Well, that's just one more dividend of modern living. Glove counters this fall are loaded with the new launder-leather gloves, each of which carries a guarantee of washability. Now being produced by all leading glove manufacturers, the new sure-to-wash gloves come in a wide range of styles and high-fashion colors.

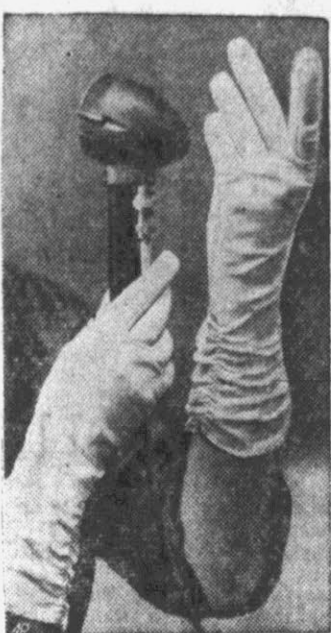

Attached to each pair of gloves is a guarantee tag with simple directions for washing and instructions for returning the gloves for replacement or refund if they should prove defective in washing.

Among the new glove colors for fall—all colorfast—are a series coordinated to new costume colors. Deeper tones that are popular include cherry red, loden green, brown, pewter gray, russet and merino, a new taupe with a brownish cast. Also important are lighter colors such as cottonwood (a warm, creamy beige), wicker tan, nougat (mocha sugar color), gold, grey, pink and blue. And of course there are the perennials—black, white and navy.

A favorite glove length this season is about three inches above the wristbone—right for bracelet-length and push-up sleeves. Several have ingenious self-leather trim, or discreet touches of embroidery.

And a boon to forgetful girls is the lariat glove, a short pull-on with a leather cord loop and button by which you can lasso the glove to your wrist when you remove it from your hand.

WASHABLE SWANK . . . dressy pull-on glove in white leather with elasticized shirring.

Beware Of Strange Salesmen

RALEIGH—The fall is the time of year when many North Carolina farm families are bringing in their annual incomes, largely from tobacco crops. It's also the time when the number of door-to-door salesmen increases.

"Some of these door-to-door salesmen," states Miss Mamie Whitsnant, Agricultural Extension Service home management specialist, "are using undetectable high pressure sales tactics—something which we constantly need to guard against. Now is the time to take stock of ourselves as consumer buyers to prevent unfortunate occurrences."

Stories pop up at regular intervals in which some has been "taken in" by salesmen who misrepresent their products. For example, a recent incident involved a woman who was offered a reconditioned portable electric sewing machine, a pair of pinkish shears and a housecoat, all for $19.95. The dealer's representative who called on her told her she could have this or a brand new machine for $150.

After weighing the advantages and disadvantages of each offer, she decided to buy the used machine, which she paid the salesman for. Later when the machine was not delivered, she called the company demanding her machine. She was told that such an offer did not exist and that the salesman who had told her this and had taken her money was no longer with the company. It was found that the inexpensive offer had been used as a lure to attract prospective buyers of the more expensive machine.

Miss Whitsnant points out, however, that "because a few salesmen do leave false impressions doesn't mean they all do, but this few can cause financial strain and heartbreak to a family who can least afford to lose their hard-earned money."

By way of caution, Miss Whitsnant offers the following as suggestions of guarding against such incidents:

1. Know that the company is licensed to sell in the state or community. Your local chamber of commerce might be able to tell you where you can get this in-

Now We Turn To Our Own Airport

A step in the right direction has been taken by the Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission in preparing to petition for commercial air service at the Pitt-Greenville airport.

It is unfortunate that the cities and counties of Eastern North Carolina have not been able to join hands in a group effort to obtain for this area the adequate air service it needs. Since efforts to obtain air service for this section has returned to an everyman-for-himself proposition, Greenville and Pitt County cannot afford to sit on the sidelines.

If Piedmont Air Lines is going to put additional service into Eastern North Carolina, it might as well be at the Pitt-Greenville airport as at Kinston, Wilson, Rocky Mount or Goldsboro, all of which are now vying with each other.

The Pitt-Greenville airport is certainly centrally located in Eastern North Carolina. The Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission will be able to present before the CAB impressive statistics to back up its claim for commercial air service. Then too, the airport which the city and county jointly own will speak for itself as a physical facility.

Not since 1951-52 has the Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission intervened in hearings for commercial air service for the local airport. It is not that local people have not been interested in obtaining commercial air service. The major part of those past five years has been spent by local citizens seeking to promote a joint air facility for all of Eastern Carolina, and obtaining adequate air service for the entire area. Though the effort has twice failed during the period, the time and energy expended toward that worthwhile goal was well spent.

Now that the Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission has followed suit of other Eastern Carolina communities in seeking air service on its own, no local effort should be spared to convince the CAB of the need and of the feasibility of awarding commercial air service to the local airport.

137 Opportunities For A Local Industry

Looking for an idea for a home grown industry in your community?

On page 10 of today's Daily Reflector you will find a list of 137 such opportunities supplied by the Department of Conservation and Development. In addition you will also find a list of items for which the C and D says there is an appreciable market in North Carolina.

Several days ago The Reflector commented editorially on this list of industrial opportunities announced by the Department of Conservation and Development. Since that time a number of people have asked us what the list contains. Today the complete list appears in The Reflector.

We urge the people of every community in Pitt County to study carefully this list. The first items are those which existing manufacturing concerns in North Carolina say they would like to buy within the state, but cannot because the items are not produced in North Carolina. The second portion of the list is made up of items for which there is a market in the state because the demand for them is greater than the supply.

In this list we believe there is an industrial possibility which could be adapted to every community in Pitt County. We are confident that every community in this county can find within its boundaries the know-how, the energy and the capital to begin, at least in a small way, the production of one of these items for which there is a ready market.

Pitt County desperately needs more home grown industry. It needs the jobs such small industries will provide and the additional earning power they will supply. It has the resources with which to create these small industries if it will but use them.

New SPA Can Only Be Hurt By Squabbles

With Wilmington fighting mad about the new State Ports Authority, and Morehead City smiling like the cat that swallowed the canary, it will take time for the new SPA to settle down to its job.

For the good of both ports and the state, however, we hope that the rival deepwater ports of North Carolina will offer their full cooperation with the new seven-man authority. The work of the Authority and the progress of both ports can only be hindered by a running fight between Morehead City and Wilmington in the state's political circles.

In spite of the criticism which might be brought by Wilmington, The Reflector is confident the best interest of the state has been served by removing the Ports Authority headquarters to neutral ground. It should give the new authority and its new director who will be named later a better statewide view of the potential of the ports and their needs so far as the state's industry is concerned.

Resisting Tide Of Conformity

By ELMER ROESSNER
Perhaps the tide of conformity will be turned back. Here and there are rocks of resistance which the rising waters do not submerge. It may be that, further on, there is a cliff that will stop the tide.

Without this resistance, some day we will all drive the same make of car, fill the tank with the same brand of gas, tune the radio to the single station and toot horns tuned to the same pitch. We may all wear the same clothes, except for variations dictated by sex and profession and we will eat the same breakfast food and we will live in identical houses or apartments. Many of us already do.

All of us are under tremendous pressures to conform. Among them are:

Advertising. It cajoles us to buy the same brands that it says everybody else is buying and threatens us with social ostracism if we don't. Often the only reason advanced for buying one product is that everybody else buys it.

CONFORM OR ELSE—Government. Administrations ages ago found it easier to govern groups of people who conform. The test of most laws is not whether they are good but whether a majority can be made to obey them. Many offenses are not morally wrong, unless failure to conform is immoral. Even local governments force conformity. In most cities the offense of "vagrancy" has nothing to do with vagabondage; it is simply a refusal to conform to local mores.

Politics. Free Americans have less choice of parties than they have of autos. Join any except a conformist party and you may find the FBI watching you.

School. Public schools insist on conforming, even to liking milk and paring fingernails. Victims are allowed little choice of studies until high school or later, by which time they are hapless conformists.

DOLLAR ALSO EFFECTIVE

Economics. Price considerations also force conformity. If one doesn't want a house just like everybody else's on the street, he must pay thousands more. If he wants a car without balloon fenders, he can jolly well build it himself. Anyone wanting the economies of mass production must surrender part of his taste, part of his individuality and, at times, part of his judgment.

Ourselves. This constitutes the greatest pressure of all. We want other people to be like us, so we try to be like everybody else. We resent people with green teeth and cloven hooves, so we use dentifrices and wear shoes.

Now and then people balk. Many thousands have refused to buy the Detroit juggernauts and have bought high-mileage easy-parking foreign cars. Aias, some of those who have bought them were merely trying to conform to popular notions of swag.

Now and then a family has a house built according to its own tastes, instead of the tastes of a syndicated plans-drafter. A few men in advertising have refused to wear gray flannel suits and one or two others won't drink martinis. In other ways, many have refused to go along with the herd.

Seriously, some farsighted businessmen are concerned about this trend to conformity. They realize that if it continues, there may be only one make of TV, one kind of bread, one brew of beer (we have already been reduced to one color beer in most taverns) and one kind of canned beans. Eventually, there would be fewer retailers, fewer factories, fewer service establishments and, perhaps, a lot fewer jobs and income.

I Know Just How You Feel, Coach

By EVERETTE PARKER

Time For A Double-Take

And away we all go again! The Geophysical year has done messed up things again as far as the whole world is concerned. Russia has sent up Sputnik I and II and the "seemingly" poor informed public in America is beginning to see things during the still of the night, things that "just don't look right."

While the Russians, who claim they have invented everything from the Atom Bomb to the printing press first, are sending up guided missiles right and left, American politicians are just sitting back "gathering data."

They say the United States has nothing to worry about. We are going to send a satellite up sometime in March of 1958. Meanwhile back on the white plains of Siberia, the Reds are apparently launching an "artificial moon" just as soon as they finish one. Every time Russia does something Khrushchev can be heard screaming all the way from Moscow to the eighteenth hole of Eisenhower's personal golf course near Washington.

Proctor and Gamble's contribution to the country's politics, Neil McElroy and other officials, indicate they expect little or no change in this country's present schedule of satellite development.

Not that the American people don't have enough to talk about with the goings-on elsewhere, some folks down in Texas, New Mexico and other points along the Gulf of Mexico are seeing things in the sky. Things that would make the reader think they have been going to too many of these double-feature science fiction movies that are currently sweeping the country.

There must be something to the reports in the newspapers because a sheriff and his posse down in Texas done seen the thing too. In addition, a Coast Guard cutter traced an unidentified object for a short period of time.

Obviously the thing, by whatever name it is called, is friendly or some people would have already gotten a free ride to Moscow or possibly to a neighboring planet in our solar system. One man has already said he took a trip but it has not been confirmed.

While the world continues to go merrily on its way, a little puppy dog named Curly is passing overhead somewhere every day in whether or not the canine will get back to earth safely or meet his fate over a 1,000 miles from home, straight up.

All in all, it seems to this humble, ignorant individual that the American public, supposedly well informed, is not so well informed. When you go out at night and see a bright object about 200 feet long hovering over your house don't panic. Just think of the Wright Brothers in the early 1900's. People thought they were crazy too!

Opinions In Brief

"The regulatory responsibilities of the government in the field of the development and utilization of nuclear energy must not be exploited to expand and enlarge the government activities in the field of power. Electric power is a needed public service which the citizens of this nation can provide for themselves under effective regulation. The notion that the federal government should build and operate generating stations just to have public power is the rankest kind of federalism. It is wholly repugnant to our concept of free

Kingpin Of The Trade

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Horace A. Carter never wanted to be president of the United States. All he ever wanted to do was sell underwear to the presidents — and the people who voted for and against them.

At 88 Charter, durable as a hickory fence post, is the dean and kingpin of the nation's prospering underwear industry. He is president and treasurer of the William Carter Co., which this year expects to do a record 35-million-dollar business.

"We have outfitted most of the presidents since Theodore Roosevelt," recalled Carter, who still gets up at dawn as did his father, William, who landed here from England 100 years ago with about $2.50 in his pocket.

"President Taft was so large that we had to make special garments for him. Calvin Collidge took considerable pride in his underwear. He wore ankle-length one-piece union suits made of silk and wool — the same style the year around. "One time I visited him in the White House, he told me, "I always have Grace wash them herself."

Sometimes Collidge, a personal friend of Carter and a man who placed a high value on a dollar, would accept gifts of underwear. But once he wrote on White House stationery: "Now, wool and labor are cheap, I will pay this time, so send me the bill."

At another time he told Carter: "I tell you, Horace, underwear is not a necessity. Underwear is a luxury. My father never wore undershirts and underdrawers and I never wore them until I was 21."

The underwear firm was founded by William Carter, who as a boy had knitted hosiery for the Prince of Wales, in the family kitchen in West Needham, Mass. in 1865.

At 16 Horace entered the firm and worked a 90-hour week.

"In addition I had to milk two cows, and feed the hogs, swine and chickens," he recalled. "In my spare time I took correspondence courses."

"It didn't hurt me. Responsibility and work wouldn't hurt any of today's children either."

In his youth the big item in underwear was the famous "long Johns," a full-length drop-seat model made of red flannel or oatmeal-colored fabric. The greatest business now in in children's and infant underwear, which Carter helped pioneer.

"With a population of 204,820,000 expected by 1967," Carter said cheerfully, "business ought to continue to boom."

One item once popular with elderly ladies — the "belly warmer," a wool wraparound worn about the midriff — was discontinued only three years ago. But the "belly trimmer," a knit girdle-type garment to slim down the silhouette, is still in high favor with middle-aged pot-shaved men.

Carter first won personal renown in the industry with an ad around 1902 showing a husband and wife, clad in long underwear and shaking hands under the caption: "In union there is strength."

"It was a bit daring for that day," he chuckled. "A rugged individualist who still keeps a firm hand in the business and travels thousands of miles each year, Carter has a simple New England philosophy. "The Almighty's been with me," he said, "I try to enjoy what's good, to live frugally and moderately, to keep interested in everything and everybody."

Throughout his life Carter has had no hobby, except the occasional writing of poetry. "I gave that up around the second World War," he said, his old eyes twinkling, "for fear people might think I was eccentric."

enterprise, won't assure the nation an adequate power supply, and generally weakens our economy by the unsound tax manipulation which results from federal power investment." — Rep. Carl Durham, (D-N.C.)

Other Editors Saying-- Draft Problems Go On

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
Military manpower officials have released a new policy statement that offers little reason for cheering among the draft-age men of this country. Despite personnel cutbacks due to never-ending emphasis on the missile age, the present crop of eligible American youths has almost no chance of escaping military service.

This may not be as bad as it sounds. There are some exceptions to present draft rules. Physical, educational, marital, and otherwise offer numerous reasons to the potential draftee for hoping he might avoid military service. In the physical category, for example, 40 per cent of the 1,400,000 men now available in the 18 and a half to 25-year-old bracket, are physically unfit. Others have occupational military reserve or other legitimate exemptions from the prime 1-A status.

The Army hopes to get congressional approval next year of legislation allowing rejection of country cow pastures without reason. The bill would allow a rejection of 30 per cent of its potential draftees, not considered bright enough for an atomic-age army. Selective Service Director Louis B. Hersey has stated that he was frankly embarrassed by the surplus of men available for the draft.

We're not sure the Army and the Selective Service are doing a wise thing in placing more emphasis on mental qualities, merely because of the current spotlight on space warfare and push-button tactics. Not all military personnel will be required to man complicated gadgets, as we have pointed out before. Some one will still have to do the dirty work and the other unpopular chores that will always exist in the armed forces.

Perhaps we are not placing enough emphasis on the modern trend in warfare, but it seems that there are still places for soldiers in the Army, as well as for specialists, scientists and geniuses. The Army might do well to remember this, for if ever the time comes when additional manpower will be needed, it may be too late then to get it.

It may not happen, but it is possible that if we ever get involved in another war, the U.S. will be scraping the manpower barrel even more desperately than it did in the last stages of World War II. During such times, there will be no such selective habits as are now in vogue. The armed forces may be glad to take all the men they can get. For despite the fact that the military is emphasizing brains, this does not mean that those who are rejected for mental reasons are not perfectly normal and capable personnel. It merely means the armed forces are trying to build up an army of geniuses. This, indeed, would be something new under the sun.

Snag In Civil Defense Dispersal

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — The practical problems attending the dispersal of two key Federal agencies from Washington — the Central Intelligence Agency and the Atomic Energy Commission — demonstrate that the Civil Defense system for protection against an atomic or missile attack has been founded on an entirely false foundation. Neither government offices nor great industries can be transferred to country cow pastures without social disruption and economic demoralization.

The two experiments at the Capital, although supposed to have had the benefit of expert advice and careful preparation, were conducted quite differently. Allan Dulles' CIA, which will be moved to Langley, Va., about 15 miles from the White House, will make the shift under the best circumstances possible, because of good planning.

Lewis L. Strauss, AEC, which is moving to Germantown, Md., about 30 miles from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, has made an awful bureaucratic mess of the affair. There has been no advance preparation to provide any kind of facilities for the 6,000 AEC employees, with the result that perhaps a majority of his trained and experienced staff will resign rather than be transplanted.

INDIGNANT LOCAL AUTHORITIES The local authorities are indignant over the difficulties and disadvantages which will be inflicted upon them and their taxpayers, especially with regard to the Strauss emigration. They are demanding that the Federal government compensate the community for the cost of new schools, new sanitation and fire protection facilities, new sidewalks and roads, and for the loss of taxes which they will suffer. Although to a lesser degree, the same complaints have been filed with the CIA.

Thus, in view of the present and prospective troubles accompanying only these two dispersals, involving a total of only 15,000 persons, it becomes obvious that the plan to shift industry and even smaller activities to the great open spaces is wholly impracticable. Yet that has been the basic preachment of the Federal Civil Defense authorities.

NOT THE ANSWER TO AN ATTACK Naturally, there has been no wide-spread response to these spread-out suggestions. But the two Washington tests demonstrate that, if a rain of destruction from the skies should ever become a probability, the principal civilian reliance will have to be vast local underground shelters, individual backyard improvisations, subways and similar burrows.

Unlike Dulles, the Strauss planners have given no thought to such questions as transportation, although the majority of his employees will face an automobile drive of at least an hour. He did not co-operate or communicate with local authorities about construction of new sewers, homes, schools, stores or any of the facilities required because of the expansion. He did not even ask for addition of new bus schedules.

The CIA director had forethought on all these matters. Small inexpensive homes have been thrown up in the surrounding countryside. New highways have been built, reducing the driving time from Washington. He has provided a free parking area on the site of what is known as "The Little Pentagon," because of its size. He has induced numerous businesses to establish branches.

EMPLOYEE RESIGNATIONS ANTICIPATED Even so, many veteran employees will resign and seek other jobs rather than make the move. As several workers who moved out to the country in advance testify:

"There is not the same kind of social life we had among our nearby friends in Washington — no theaters, no movies, no pro baseball or football, no excitement of any kind. And we are near enough to remaining farms for the roosters to wake us up when it's still dark."

Another objection from local people and interests in that the emigration will upset real estate values, promote inflation because of increased demand on inadequate supplies, and subject their children to association with "youthfulers" with "thuglating" city ideas. "In short, they fear a minor but very real social and economic revolution that will upset their standards of life and living."

Planes And Men In Antarctic Stranded

By RENNIE TAYLOR
 McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica. (AP)—Two Navy planes and 20 men were stranded at outlying U. S. antarctic stations today by engine failures. The Air Force command ordered an investigation of troubles plaguing his aircraft.
 A Navy version of the two-engine DC3 lost the use of one engine yesterday while carrying spare parts to a Navy Neptune patrol bomber stranded at the South Pole.
 Cmdr. Edward T. Frankiewicz of Rutland, Vt., ordered the spare parts jettisoned and the DC3 landed 43 miles to an emergency landing at a three-man station on the Beardmore Glacier about halfway between McMurdo and the South Pole. Ten men aboard the DC3 are now crowded into the station.
 The Navy indicated both the DC3 and the two-engine Neptune will need replacements of their engines.
 The Neptune was carrying 10 persons on a flight to deliver five other men to the South Pole. One engine went bad during a landing there Oct. 26.
 The Air Force continued to have trouble with its four-engine Globemasters, the backbone of U. S. aerial supply in Antarctica. Lt. Col. Daxon J. Arnold of San Angelo, Tex., called for a check on Globemaster engine generators.
 Arnold said generator trouble had caused seven of 10 engine failures on Globemasters during 35 days of operations. One of a Globemaster's engines quit yesterday as the plane headed from McMurdo to Byrd Station with a drop load. The plane had to turn back without completing the mission.

Atmosphere Of A Big Classroom

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—This city took on the atmosphere of a huge classroom today as four college groups held meetings here.
 Today's busy schedule included:
 A 10 a.m. meeting of the North Carolina Council of Church Related Colleges on the campus of Salem College and subsequent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the North Carolina Foundation of Church Related Colleges.
 A 1 p.m. meeting of the State chapter of the National Assn. of Foreign Student Advisors, addressed by Dr. Leo Rockwell of Queens College, Charlotte.
 The opening session of the North Carolina College Conference at 3 p.m. with Dallas Herring of Rose Hill, chairman of the State Board of Education, as moderator for a panel discussion.
 Speaking yesterday to the North Carolina Assn. of College Registrants, Dr. Gordon W. Blackwell said soaring student enrollments will cause a wide range of problems for colleges by 1970.
 Blackwell, chancellor of Woman's College, University of North Carolina, said expansion must be made to cope with the increasing number of students.
 Colleges must meet the challenge of educational opportunity for able young men and women and must make more intensive use of their physical plants and staffs, he said.

Ayden Chapter One Of FHA Hostesses

By Sandra McLawhon
Ayden acted as one of the hostesses at the Future Homemakers of America of District I rally held October 26 at East Carolina College.

Army Prepares Little Rock Cut

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Army prepared today to make another drastic reduction in the number of paratroopers and federalized National Guardsmen assigned to enforce integration at Central High School.

Gov. Orval Faubus said yesterday the federal government should remove all of the troops.

"I think they would have long before now if they had had a graceful way to do it," he said.

Announcement of the planned cut was made by Secretary of the Army Wilber Brucker at Washington. An Army spokesman said he expected the reduction would be made before the weekend.

The Army will send back to Ft. Campbell, Ky., about 275 of the 500 troopers of the 101st Airborne Division now on duty here. About 900 of the 1,800 Arkansas Guardsmen still federalized will be released.

This is the second time the Army has trimmed the military forces guarding Central High, where nine Negroes attend classes with some 2,000 white pupils.

Middle Name Is Hard To Spell

FT. CARSON, Colo. (AP)—A basic combat trainee at this Army post can hardly remember how to spell his middle name.

That's because the middle name of Pvt. Albert Kahalekulu of Wailuku, Maui, Hawaii, is Kahelikailewaokamehameha, which means "Thunder, Oh Great Chief of the Island."

Kahalekulu fits right in. It's Hawaiian for "House is Wet."

The main topic of discussion at the meetings was a joint project, "Sadie Hawkins Day". Clinton Hart presided over the FFA meet.

Beta Club
On Wednesday the Beta Club gave a chapel program at AHS. "Beta Club Rainbow" was presented. The purposes and objectives of the Beta Club are related to colors of the rainbow.

New members of the club were tapped at this program. Frances Booth, Gloria Crawley, Carol Lou Braxton, Buddy Ross, Wilbur Ormond, Sandra Beppard, Elizabeth Bennett, Patricia Benson, and Richard Stroud repeated the creed and were pinned by an old member before becoming Beta Club members.

Senior Superlatives
This year's senior superlatives were reduced two categories in order to give the superlatives more dignity.

Categories and persons elected were: Most Popular, Pattie McGay and Dan Bateman; Most Athletic, Barbara Worthington and Leslie Stocks; Best Looking, Shirley Moseley and Tommy Edwards; Best All Around, Carolyn Sumrell and Carl Nobles; Cutest, Peggy Wingate and Cloyce Braswell; Wildest, Kay Dunn and Mary Ellen Everette; Most Likely to Succeed, Brenda Davis and Wayland McGlohon; Friendliest, John Hart and Suzanne Taylor; Most Dependable, Peggy Wadkins and Tommy Manning; and Best Dressed, Julaine Cannon and Harold Worthington.

Coronation Ball
This Friday night at 8 p.m. The 1957 Coronation Ball will be held.

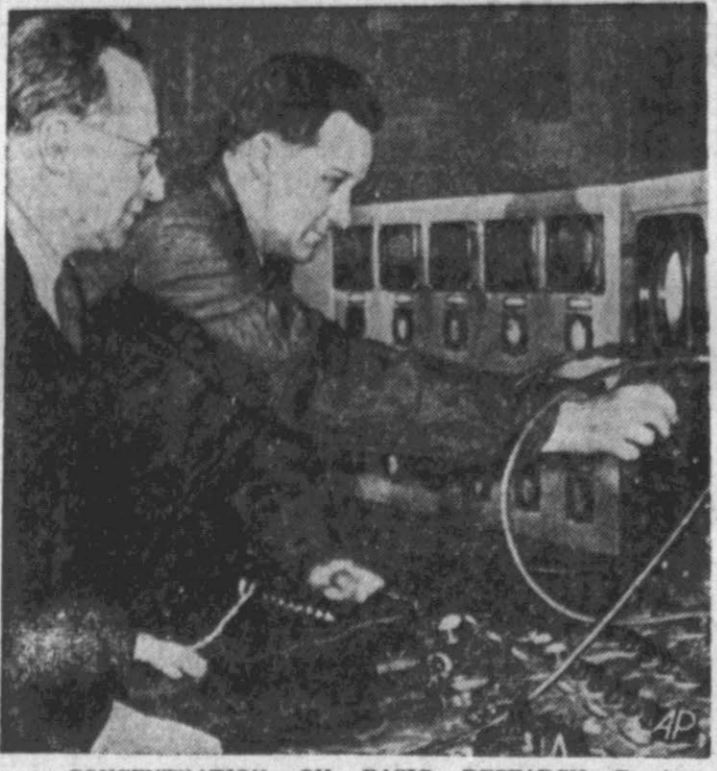

It will take place in the Ayden Community Building, Ayden-Winterville dance band has been asked to play for the affair.

High School students are invited to attend the semiformal dance.

Jayne, Mickey Now Engaged

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Now it's official: Jayne Mansfield and Mickey Hargitay are engaged.

Hargitay, professional strong man, gave the blonde actress a 10-carat diamond ring shortly after she returned here yesterday from a personal appearance tour of Europe.

Dean Reviews Careers In Mathematics, Science

"The time has come when the areas under discussion. For every research dollar spent in 1920, he said, $10 were spent in 1940, $33 in 1955; and the estimate is that by 1960 the ratio will be $53 to the one dollar of just 40 years ago.

In contrast, he said, the ratio of students of science and mathematics in 1 in 1920, 1.3 in 1940, 5.7 in 1956, and a probable 6.4 in 1960. The portion of the work done by engineers was roughly six to seven times as great in 1950 as in 1900, he explained, and pointed out that this trend is expected to continue.

Since the scientist and the mathematician must play a more and more important role, the speaker said, there is little likelihood of the supply of trained personnel exceeding the demand. The growing need for college teachers of mathematics and science, he stated, demands that the number be doubled in the next fifteen years.

He spoke at a careers day meeting made possible by the Danforth Foundation Project at the college and designed to acquaint students with career opportunities in their special fields.

The next ten-year period, Dr. Hobbs said, will offer many new problems, especially problems which must be solved by the mathematician, the engineer, and the scientist.

Through striking figures he showed growth and development in the

Installing Complicated New Traffic Signal Lights

CONTROL BOX—This switch box controls the complicated actions of the new traffic light system which was placed in operation at West End Circle yesterday. Pressure plates set in the pavement determine the cycle of the lights as traffic rolls over them. (Reflector Photos).

To Hang, Unless Hodges Steps In New Passenger Car Sales For Year To Top 6 Million

RALEIGH (AP)—Unless Gov. Hodges intervenes, a 39-year-old Mississippi Negro will enter the North Carolina gas chamber on Nov. 22.

The death date for Ross McAfee, an itinerant farm worker, was automatically set yesterday when the State Supreme Court upheld his conviction for first degree burglary.

McAfee was accused of breaking into the bedroom of Mrs. Glenn Waugh of Stony Point and slashing her throat in a rape attempt. The attack occurred the night of last Jan. 31.

Since the jury which convicted McAfee in Alexander Superior Court last March did not recommend mercy, Judge Frank Armstrong pronounced the mandatory death sentence. The State Supreme Court said the case "was carefully and correctly tried."

Mrs. Waugh, a pretty 17-year-old high school student, testified the attack occurred while her husband was at work. She said she escaped from the attacker by locking herself in the family car after he had dragged her from the house.

McAfee was arrested the following day and kept in an undisclosed jail before his trial. Since that time, he has remained on death row in Central Prison in Raleigh.

CAUGHT 'EM

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Highway Patrol Lt. Weldon Wood — Gov. Raymond Gary's official chauffeur — spotted a car weaving through traffic near the state capitol here, and gave chase. Wood turned on his siren as the two cars sped across town, finally nudged the official auto against the car, pushing it from the street. He turned two teen-age boys over to other patrol troopers.

Population of the Union of South Africa is now 14,167,000.

DETROIT (AP)—New passenger car sales for 1957 which finally tabulated will total close to 6 1/2 million units.

Unofficial compilations indicate retail deliveries passed the five million mark a week ago, maintaining an average of better than half a million cars monthly for the year to date.

The industry's merchandising experts say demand for 1958 models will boost combined November and December sales to around 1,200,000 units. They are counting upon the styling appeal of 1958 to boost the total above the 918,000 deliveries recorded in the comparable two months last year.

Clear Escapee Of Implication

DURHAM (AP)—William Furr, 26-year-old escapee from the Catawba County Prison Camp near Newton, identified by a Highway Patrol captain last night as a suspect in the killing of two highway patrolmen, walked into the police station here today and gave himself up.

Police, after questioning him, said he had no connection with the killings. Police said Furr told them he didn't know he was being sought in connection with the slayings, and that he had been working.

WANTS A SAMPLE

DALLAS (AP)—Rep. Bruce Alger's (R-Tex.) staff is looking for cotton bolls complete with weevils. A letter from Mary Agnes Cox said her fourth grade class at Paxton, Ind., is studying cotton and asked: "Will you please send me some cotton bolls and a weevil if you can?"

LUCKY FIND

GAS CITY, Ind. (AP)—Finding a hole in the ground was worth $25,000 to Gas City.

Just before starting to dig a $25,000 storm drain for the north-east section, city employees found a long-abandoned sewer. It will be used instead, at a cost of only $300 for repair.

NEW TRAFFIC LIGHTS—State Highway Department technicians make final adjustments in traffic lights which have been installed at West End Circle to control traffic on the new bypass and U. S. 264 Traffic actuated lights are also being installed at the bypass intersection with N. C. 43 near Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Beef, Pork And Chicken Likely Bargains At The Meat Counter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Looking for a bargain in the meat department for this week-end?
If you are — and who isn't — the chances are you'll find beef, pork and chicken on sale at special prices in your favorite supermarket or neighborhood food store.
Steaks and rib roasts, the premium cuts of beef, are more frequently offered than hamburger and chuck, however, which may dis-appoint the economy-minded housewife. Meat men say that's because the number of grain-fed animals, which produce higher grade beef, is expected to hold at last year's level.

Supplies of range cattle are running below the 1956 level. With record supplies of feed, there's active bidding for this type animal between farmers who feed cattle and ranchers trying to rebuild their herds.

Pork supplies are increasing, as they do every year at this time, although they are still a bit below 1956. This winter and next spring, though, slaughter will likely be above year-earlier levels, the Agriculture Department says.
As for chickens, they've been more plentiful than last year for some time and the estimate now is that production will top 1956's 1,345,000,000 birds by six per cent.
Egg prices are generally lower this week, but as much as 4 cents a dozen for medium grades. This development, coupled with scattered specials on bacon and sausage, may mean fancier breakfasts in many homes this weekend.

Property damage is 29 traffic accidents on Greenville streets during the month of October has been estimated to be $11,170.
Police Chief S.G. Gibbs reports only one accident involving a pedestrian. Five personal injuries were sustained in the mishaps.
According to computed figures, Tuesday and Wednesday, between 12 noon and 8 p.m., were the most prevalent time for accidents. Four accidents took place on both days during this time interval.
Of the 29 traffic mishaps, 13 occurred on Tuesday and Wednesday. Five were recorded on both Sunday and Monday.
Only two collisions were investigated by the local Police department on Thursday and Friday. Sixteen accidents occurred between 8 p.m. until 12 noon and 12 noon and 8 p.m. until 12 midnight. Twenty-two of the mishaps took place during the daylight hours.
Investigating officers made 24 arrests.

Actor Looks Back On Opening Night's Ordeal

By BOB THOMAS
NEW YORK (AP)—What happens to an actor on opening night of a Broadway show?
"Take the case of Ricardo Montalban, who just opened in the calypso caper, "Jamaica." Some of his ordeal is described in his feelings the moment before he went on stage:
"You talk about a man's life flashing before his eyes as he is drowning—that is exactly how I felt. I thought of everything: my mother, my father, my boyfriend, dreams I have had.
"I thought what would happen if the play was a flop, how I would have to take my wife and four children back to California. I wondered if my voice would hold up. Then I heard the overture and suddenly I was faced with that terrible moment of having to go on."
Ricardo's ordeal was made worse by a cold he had picked up during the tryout run in Boston. When he arrived at the Imperis theater at noon before opening night, his voice was hoarse. He did a run-through whispering his lines and talking his songs.
Then he went home for a half-hour rest. He was back at the theater at 6:15.
"I always get there early," he explained. "I'm the kind of a guy who sleeps with three alarm clocks. I've always got to be sure I'll be there on time."

He started getting ready for the show at 6:30, aided by a dresser and makeup man.
"Between the acts, I felt terrible," Ricardo said. "I was depressed. I thought I wasn't getting across. I guess it was a natural letdown after five weeks' rehearsal and six weeks on the road. I determined I would try ever harder in the second act."
When it was all over the applause at the curtain calls was heartening. Well-wishers jammed into his dressing room to offer congratulations.
Instead of Sardi's, Ricardo went to a small party given by a dentist friend on Park Avenue and dropped in at the Waldorf celebration for the cast given by his co-star, Lena Horne. From the others, Ricardo learned that the reviews were generally good.
Jamaica's slim plot was roundly knocked, but the Harold Arlen music and the jobs by Miss Horne and Ricardo were praised.
Ricardo got to bed by 4 and wakened to find more congratulations and the assurance of a lengthy run.
"Coming back to the stage has been good for me," he reflected. "MGM spoils you; you get used to the red carpet and limousines waiting for you. On the stage, you learn to carry your own bags and live in hotel rooms, not suites. I think I'm much better equipped to face the future now."

Although vegetables from nearby fields are dwindling in many areas, some still are raised as outstanding buys by produce men. These include cabbage, potatoes, onions and cauliflower. In the good buy category are celery from western growing areas, carrots, snap beans, brussel sprouts, and Florida cucumbers, endive and escarole.
The vegetables from warmer growing areas, stretching from Florida west to California, augment local supplies, of course, giving the housewife more varieties to choose from. Western lettuce is a current example.
At fruit counters, western delicious apples are making a strong challenge to eastern area apples this week as prices head downward and supplies become more abundant. In the same vein, Florida grapefruit and oranges are steadily getting more plentiful. Tangerines, still high priced, are expected to appear in good numbers in about a month.

Pears are pegged as fairly good buys, although they're generally more ripe than they've been, which means the family has to eat them more quickly before they spoil. The seedless grape season, too, is waning and supplies are getting light. Melons are in the same general category, although the persistent shopper can usually find a good one if she's willing to pay expected to appear in good num-

Cites Vast Asian Drive For Nationalism At Session

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—With a sense of urgency, America's largest conference on Asia planned in its first full day's session today.

"A tidal wave" of nationalism is sweeping the peoples of the East, Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter told the 1,500 delegates last night at the opening session of the sixth National Conference of UNESCO.

Speaking in the same gilt War Memorial Opera House where the United Nations was created 12 years ago, Herter told in urgent terms of his recent trip to Asia where he saw the Federation of Malaya born as a sovereign nation. He noted there had been 10 such sovereign births in the Orient since World War II.

"It would be a dull person indeed who would not conclude that a drive for freedom and self-determination has swept the perimeter of Asia with the force of a tidal wave," he said.

"But I was more deeply impressed with a feeling of matching intensity that I encountered in many places. This was the realization that illiteracy, sickness, misery and the other tragic components of a sub-marginal existence were not for them, or for anyone, a necessary condition of life."

Noting that America's amalgam of cultures comes mostly from the West, Herter declared:

"I think it is time we turned east toward Asia to listen and to learn. The delegates attending this conference have a rare opportunity to set a pattern which can be adopted from here, at the Pacific gateway, all the way to my home city of Boston."

Learning from Asia, Herter said, was one of the "new dimensions in diplomacy" which he discussed. He called for mutual realization among all peoples that they are dependent on one another.

He said today's diplomat is responsible for the "dynamic development" of cultural interchange and may be called upon to do anything "from negotiating the export of a nuclear reactor to distributing a new strain of wheat."

Cultural diplomacy however, isn't always directed toward understanding alone, and Herter warned that it sometimes serves as "a mask to disguise the pursuit of narrow political advantages."

The test, he said, is whether a nation is willing to import culture as well as export it.

EAGLE EYE
QUERETARO, Mex. (AP)—Twelve years after a radio was stolen from the home of Mrs. Maria Juana Saldivar she noticed it in a radio repair shop.

The discovery led to an investigation and the arrest of a man who finally admitted the old theft, police said.

Last Laugh For Fraud Victim

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP)—Five years ago Sydney Mendelsohn ordered some fruit trees from an Illinois firm later convicted of mail fraud.

He got five trees right away—all about eight inches tall—marked plum, apricot, pear, cherry and apple. The plum seedling didn't grow and the apple tree was barren.

But Mendelsohn figures he got the last laugh.

His 9-year-old son took some peaches from what supposed to be the apricot tree the other day—and won first prize at the Montgomery County fair.

After 4 Miles, No Equipment

ALTUS, Okla. (AP)—Ralph Falls and Gordon Stringer drove to Lugert Lake, rented a boat and cruised four miles to their favorite fishing spot.

When they stopped the boat, Falls suddenly made a horrible discovery—he had left his fishing tackle at home.

Watermelons in Africa come in two varieties—sweet and sour. They look alike, but have to be tasted to determine the flavor.

HAPPY OVER VICTORY—Virginia's new governor, J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., poses with his wife at Roanoke as returns from state precincts pour in with news of his election. He defeated Republican Theodore Roosevelt (Ted) Dalton. Almond was backed vigorously by the state organization of Democratic Sen. Harry F. Byrd, who has called for "massive resistance" to school integration. (AP Wirephoto).

Apt Ttle For Fire Near Movie

NEWCASTLE, Wyo. (AP)—Several hundred people were evacuated from a Newcastle theater when dense smoke from a fire in an adjoining building filtered through the air conditioning system.

Playing at the movie was "Man on Fire."

Four American and British oil companies are building a new oil refinery in Turkey at a cost of $48 million dollars.

Meany Approves Union Clean-Up

NEW YORK (AP)—AFL-CIO President George Meany says clean-up action by the 44,000-member United Textile Workers Union means the UTW qualifies for continued membership in the merged labor organization.

The UTW was one of three unions the AFL-CIO Executive Council charged with corruption last month. The others were the Teamsters and Bakers unions.

Two top officials of the UTW since have resigned. They are Anthony Valente, president, and Lloyd Klenert, secretary-treasurer. Among AFL-CIO charges against Valente and Klenert was that they used $7,000 of union money to make down payments on homes.

The UTW, an AFL union before the labor merger, is not to be confused with the larger Textile Workers Union of America, a former CIO affiliate.

After conferring yesterday with seven international officers of the UTW, Meany told newsmen: "If this board (the seven officers) says it will meet all instructions, we'll trust them. I believe they are still trade unionists."

He said the UTW has agreed to hire a new accountant and put in a new accounting system.

The union said Joseph Jacobs, in accordance with AFL-CIO demands, has been removed as Southern organizer and would be dropped as union counsel.

Wall Street's Concern Is Based On Soviet Actions

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—It isn't the Soviet flying dog that's worrying the stock market.

It's what the effect will be on business and consumer thinking.

1. Of the Russian boast of new sources of power for space rockets; 2. Its simultaneous withdrawal from the United Nations' disarmament talks; and 3. The dumping of Marshal Zhukov with its implication of one-man rule of Russia by a person whose emotional stability, judgment and sense of responsibility is questioned.

vilian segment if business and consumer nerves are overly jangled by all the missile rattling by the Kremlin.

The stock market's reaction to the first Sputnik illustrates this. The missile makers' stocks went up in price, but the great majority of stocks went down. Increased world tension doesn't help business, stock traders hold. When unrest in the Mideast grows, for example, oil stock prices tend to dive.

Direct United States investments abroad top 22 billion dollars. The less tension in the world the better they thrive.

Corporate executives will debate how their firm stands to come out in regard to supplies, to production schedules, to consumer demand.

Merchants will watch to see whether the public is worried or indifferent or perhaps resigned.

That's how many business observers decode the beep-beeps from outer space.

While it fervently hopes that peaceful counsel will prevail, American industry is always sensitive to talk of war, threats of war, or—worse—the chance of war. The widespread belief that business as a whole fattens on war doesn't hold water.

True, industries closely tied to defense production get government orders. To fill them the companies often must drop civilian production on which they say they have a chance of better profits.

For business as a whole, international disturbances even short of war threaten the cutting off of sources of materials, the loss of skilled workmen to defense plants or the armed forces, and usually sharply curtailed consumer spending, when the government moves to halt any war scare buying of the first days.

The goods the defense plants turn out don't raise the nation's total wealth. They are made to be destroyed, not to raise standards of living.

The great prosperity of the last two years has been a prosperity of peace. The Defense Department is spending about 38 billion dollars this year. To be sure, this has helped boost total production. But the nation's total output of goods and services is expected this year to hit 430 to 435 billion dollars.

Even if defense spending were doubled next year—most unlikely—short of all our war—it would still be but one sixth of the civilian segment of the gross national product.

What worries businessmen now is what could happen to this ci-

Commodity traders take a different slant. When world supplies and distribution of commodities seems threatened, the commodities readily available look more valuable. Any flareup in the Far East tends to send up the price of rubber and tin. Stoppage of the Low of oil through the Suez Canal sent up the price of oil here as well as in Europe.

What the United States does about its defense program as a result of the Soviet advances in rockets and missiles and its new tough talk will be decided in Washington between the administration and the Congress. That will unquestionably affect the industrial picture.

But while the uncertainty continues, Wall Street will swing back and forth trying to guess what's in the cards for specific industries.

Bank Is Giving Away Money

POMONA, Calif. (AP) — There is a bank here that is giving away money. Honest.

The Security-First National Bank recently announced that each customer is handed an envelope containing three pennies each time a banking transaction is completed.

Manager Alton E. Allen said the pennies can be used to obtain 36 minutes worth of parking at parking meters near the bank.

This is the bank's way of giving its customers free parking.

Twice Victim Of Lightning Bolts

GILLETTE, Wyo. (AP) — You'll have a hard time convincing Henry Edwards, 62, that lightning doesn't strike the same place twice.

Edwards lost his hearing after being struck by lightning while herding sheep near Gillette in 1914.

This summer he was struck by lightning again — within two miles of the first incident.

He was knocked unconscious by the lightning bolt, but regained his senses in time to extinguish a fire in his sheep wagon.

Battling Boxer Is Counted Out

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Champ, the battling boxer, has been counted out by a Juvenile Court referee.

James R. Kelly, boys' referee, said seven boys, from 10 to 13, were promoting dog fights with Champ as their batter.

Four got suspended fines, one is on probation and two others were released pending further investigation.

Champ? He retired undefeated.

Suspicious Are Laid To Rest

SANTA FE, N.M., (AP) — A visitor to this New Mexico city seemed uneasy recently when asking what the bits of white fluff floating over the town were. He was told it was the yearly fall of "cotton" from the city's many cottonwood trees.

He was relieved when told. He said he was afraid it might be some kind of a fall-out from the Nevada nuclear tests.

The Sports Reflector

By BILLY ARNOLD

Football fans in this area will have a chance to see one of the nation's top-ranked small college clubs Saturday night when Lenoir Rhyne invades College Stadium against East Carolina.

Coach Clarence Stastavitch's Bears are undefeated in North State play (3-0) and have a 6-1-1 record overall. Before this season, the powerful Bruins had a victory string going that extended for two full seasons.

One of the primary reasons for Lenoir Rhyne's strength is due to a young man named Harold Bullard, who is being primed for Little All-America honors this year. From his fullback position, Bullard has scored nine times this season for a total of 54 points—tops in the North State loop. This was accomplished despite a week's lay-off due to the flu.

Bears Rated 4-5 TD's Better

Odds-makers are looking forward to the coming Bear-ECC game as a field day for Lenoir Rhyne. Coach Stastavitch does not believe in holding down a score and will undoubtedly have his chargers aiming for as many points as they can make, Saturday night. Bullard will probably be trying hard to make up for that week he failed to score due to the flu, too.

It looks bad for the winless East Carolina club, any way you look at it. Ratings thus far seem to favor the Bears by four or five touchdowns. Sounds rough, but it's true.

Lenoir Rhyne will have even a bigger reason for wanting to whip East Carolina than any of those stated above. A victory Saturday night will push them out in front of Elon in the conference race. At the moment, both clubs are tied with 3-0 records. Elon will be hosting Newberry, a non-loop team, this weekend.

Several Bucs Hurt

As if things weren't going to be bad enough, one ECC griddier was hurt in the 7-6 licking this past weekend against Appalachian, and another is out with the flu.

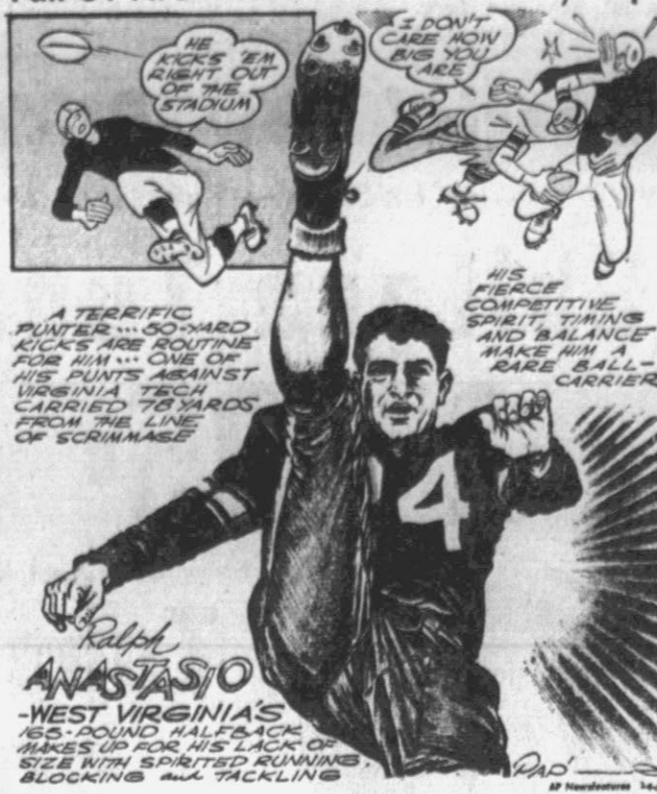

Bob Maynard and Dick Monds, a pair of seniors are not expected to see action against the Bears. Maynard sustained a knee injury against the Apps last week. Monds, a regular guard, has contacted the flu.

Coach Jack Boone has had his club to work on defense—the most part thus far this week. Yesterday the Bucs handled offense and defense, working against Appals.

Expected to start, Saturday, are Ralph Zehring, James Wright, Tommy Nash and Joe Holmes in the backfield. The line is expected to have Howard Beale, Bill Cairns, Charles Cook, James Faircloth, Ed Emory, Ken Burnett, and Lynn Barnett.

This game, which starts at 8:00, will wind up the season for ECC at home and in the conference. Next week the Pirates journey to South Carolina to finish up with Presbyterian.

Full Of Fire by Pap

Art Lewis is a big, affable West Virginian and one of the most colorful coaches in football. His lonesome way with the big rawboned kids from the country and mine camps is told in countless stories. Proof that Coach Lewis likes the home-grown lads, and vice versa, is the fact that all but three players on his West Virginia University varsity roster are either from West Virginia, bordering towns or Pennsylvania within 100 miles of Morgantown. He loves West Virginia scenery, especially the kind that weighs 200 pounds and runs like a deer. He likes football players packed with competitive fire. It's a rugged brand of football he teaches and competitive fire is the hallmark of his Mountaineers.

Take Ralph Anastasio, the Mountaineers' regular right halfback. Ralph is a spindly 165-pounder but he is all competitive spirit. He is the slowest and lightest halfback on the squad, but he more than makes up for his lack of physical assets with a fighting heart—and real football talent. Anastasio is the best blocker, best kicker, best receiver and best defensive player in the West Virginia backfield. Anastasio opened the season with a punt of 78 yards from the line of scrimmage against Virginia Tech and since then has contributed any number of boots over 50 yards. He catches forward passes like a big league outfielder. He's easy to catch but hard to bring down because he has amazing timing and superior balance. He charges through the line like among his backfield mates in rushing. He just likes to play football—West Virginia style.

Halimi Outslugs, Outboxes Macias For Bantam Title

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A rugged little French-Algerian named Alphonse Halimi last night outslugged and outboxed Raul Macias of Mexico for the undisputed world bantamweight championship.

A crowd of 20,060—at least 8,000 of them countrymen of the Mexican fighter—were on hand when the two little scrappers squared off under the dazzling ring candelabra at Wrigley Field. The night was coolish, but the fighters set a torrid pace over the 15-round route.

As expected, Halimi, rock-hard Algerian street fighter, tried to turn the nationally televised match into a slugfest. Macias, renowned for his boxing deftness, played the Frenchman's game. In the early rounds, the little gamecocks battled head-to-head in bruising in-fighting. "Box him, box him," urged Macias' manager, Pancho Rosales. "I can't jab him," said Macias, bleeding from the nose. "He's on top of me. I can't keep him away." Nevertheless, Macias fought Halimi on fairly even terms. Both landed some dandy hooks to the body and head. But neither was shaken badly.

Picked Rookies Kubek, Sanford

NEW YORK (AP)—Versatile Tony Kubek, who wasn't even on the New York Yankees' roster in spring training, and Jack Sanford, a pleasant pitching surprise to the Philadelphia Phils, today were named major league Rookies-of-the-Year for 1957.

Kubek was selected as the American League's outstanding freshman and Sanford captured the National League rookie award. A 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America, composed of three from each big league city, participated in the annual poll.

Kubek was a unanimous choice, receiving 23 votes. Frank Malzone of the Boston Red Sox was named on one ballot. Malzone, however, had been previously declared ineligible by the board of directors since he had 103 official at bats in 1956.

Sanford was named on 16 ballots. Teammate Ed Bouchee, a solid-hitting first baseman, was next with four votes. Pitcher Dick Drott of the Chicago Cubs received three votes and outfielder Bob Hazle of the Milwaukee Braves one.

Kubek, 22 last month, is the rangy left-handed swinger who batted .297 in 127 games. The Milwaukee native finished ninth

Weekend Host

Eppes high school will play host to Mary Potter school of Oxford this weekend at Guy Smith stadium, and will be seeking to improve its 1-5 record.

Last week, the Bulldogs dropped their third straight to P. S. Jones, in the Eppes Homecoming game.

Two more games remain on the Eppes schedule.

Clemson Takes 3-Game Winning Streak Against Big Maryland

Locals End Conference Play Friday

Tomorrow night, Greenville high school's griders finish up the Northeastern Conference season with the Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets at Roanoke Rapids.

The G-Men, who have been suffering from a flu epidemic and who have had two games chopped off their schedule due to it, will be trying to improve in overall mark of 2-5. Against Conference foes, they have a 1-4 record.

Coach Bud Phillips announced this morning that several Phantoms may not see duty tomorrow night. Ralph Sullivan, regular tackle, has missed the past two days of practice due to the flu and may not even make the trip.

North Carolina State is also out and has been out for the past week. Steve Noble, starting end, has contacted an infected knee and is expected to play only limited.

Phillips plans to shift Godfrey Oakley from a guard slot out to Sullivan's tackle position and put Wilbur Owens in at guard. Reggie Johnson will handle Noble's end position. Albert Crawford will start at center.

Roanoke Rapids, with a 1-6-1 record, needs a victory as badly as do the Phantoms and will be rated a one-touchdown favorite over the visitors, due to home-field advantage. Other than that slight advantage, the game is picked a toss-up.

Running for the G-Men tomorrow night will be Mack Roebuck at quarterback, Robert Howell and Charles Roberts at halfbacks, and Robin Wilfong at fullback.

Speeds Boat To 239 MPH Mark

CONSTON, England (AP)—Britain's Donald Campbell set a new world water record in his bat Bluebird today with an estimated average speed of 239 miles per hour.

Campbell, who recently returned from the United States, had two runs at an estimated 260 m.p.h. and 218 m.p.h. The record is an average of both.

The Briton broke his own world mark on 225.63 m.p.h. Campbell's time for the two runs was 9 minutes 27 seconds.

After his run in his jet-propelled hydroplane, Campbell flushed and triumphant climbed from his cockpit, but told newsmen they should wait for the timekeeper before announcing a record. Minutes later came the timekeeper's official announcement.

Campbell is the son of the late Sir Malcolm Campbell, who also once held the world water speed record.

Conditions on Coniston water were perfect. The heavy mist that had delayed an earlier start had lifted almost entirely. The sun shone bleakly from the November sky.

Named Chairman Advisory Group

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Frank (Muddy) Waters, athletic director and head football coach at Hillsdale, Mich. College, is the new chairman of the Football Advisory Committee of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA).

The committee studies and makes suggestions on football policies in the NAIA.

Other committee members include Clarence Stastavitch, Lenoir Rhyne College, Hickory, N.C.; William Bell, Greensboro N.C.

Clemson Coach Frank Howard, whose 6-6 tie last year was the closest he has come to victory in five games with Maryland, tries it again Saturday.

Howard takes his Clemson Tigers into the contest on a three-game winning streak, the latest a 20-7 conquest of Rice. But Maryland, too, comes into the game with some prestige victories, the latest a 10-6 victory over South Carolina.

Both Maryland and Clemson have defeated South Carolina and both have lost to North Carolina State. Maryland defeated North Carolina and Clemson lost to the Tar Heels.

Maryland stands 3-2 in the Atlantic Coast Conference and 3-4

Winning Teams Putting Stress On Defense Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Defense, once junked as being too subtle for the average fan, suddenly has made a comeback in major college football on the unbeaten records of such national powers as Auburn and Iowa.

Auburn tops the list in total defense for the fourth consecutive week. Iowa, once tied, is No. 1 in rushing defense. Duke is ninth in total defense. North Carolina is ninth in passing defense.

And every major unbeaten club in the nation is among the leaders in one defensive category or another—while less than half of them are up there in offense.

Only Texas A&M, the leader in this week's Associated Press poll, is missing from the undefeated powers that show up high in the defense statistics released today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Auburn, getting stingier each game, has permitted an average of but 136.7 yards a game in the six played to date. The only team to do better for the first six games of any season in the last nine years was the 1955 Auburn bunch, who permitted only 132 a game—and then were rapped from the unbeaten list with a 27-13 defeat by Tulane in game No. 7. In seven games, Duke has allowed 194.4 yards a game on average.

The Auburn Plainsmen also lead in holding down the opposing score, allowing only 14 points for a 2.3 average—lowest since 1947 when Georgia Tech permitted only seven points in its first six games.

Iowa tops rushing defense with a 66.2-yard average yield in six games. Auburn is second at 76.2. Miami (Fla) and Arizona State also have allowed less than 100 yards a game.

Georgia Tech, which upset powerful Duke last week, is second in total defense, but leads in pass defense, allowing only 35.5 yards a game. North Carolina has allowed 53.7 yards on passes a game.

Harold Bullard Still Top Scorer

GREENSBORO (AP)—Lenoir Rhyne's fullback Harold Bullard continues to lead individual scorers in the North State Conference. Bullard scored his 10th touchdown of the season Saturday against Emory and Henry and raised his season's total to 60 points, 24 ahead of the conference No. 2 scorer, teammate Bill Ackard.

A third Lenoir Rhyne back, Ronnie Hoffman, and Elon fullback Bob Stauffenberg were tied for third with 30 points apiece.

Other top scorers include Midkiff of Appalachian, 26; Faust of Elon, 25; and Blacchi of Catawba and Spright of East Carolina, 24 each.

overall, Clemson's record is 2-2 in the ACC and 4-2 overall.

The game, Clemson's homecoming and the third appearance this season by Maryland as a homecoming opponent, is a sellout. Clemson expects an attendance of about 30,000.

Howard gave his squad a rough workout yesterday, concentrating on defenses he hopes will stop Coach Tommy Mont's Terps.

Mont dispensed with hard work and worked the Maryland squad in sweatsuits.

Coach Jim Tatum, preparing his North Carolina Tar Heels for Saturday's game with South Carolina, continued his hush-hush practice policy for the week. He let the squad off 15 minutes early after a series of simultaneous drills by offense and defense units.

Asked who was the biggest man in the South Carolina line, Tatum retorted, "I don't know, but that 165-pound halfback (King Dixon) is the biggest man on the team."

Coach Warren Giese, meanwhile, ran the South Carolina Gamecocks through a two-hour drill, with several players absent because of flu. Giese said he was hopeful that his first line players would be ready for the game.

North Carolina State reviewed its multiple offense as Coach Earle Edwards wound up heavy work for the William and Mary game Saturday. Edwards directed the Wolfpack through a rough two-hour practice and reported the squad in good condition for the game.

Duke, meeting a powerful Navy team Saturday, staged a spirited drill which lasted until after nightfall. The workout featured good running and hard blocking, Coach Bill Murray reported.

Coach Paul Amen devoted extra time to the Wake Forest offense as he prepared the squad for a game with Virginia Tech Saturday. He emphasized passing with quarterbacks Jim Dairymple and Charlie Parker throwing against VPI defenses set up by reserves.

WCC Postpones Another Game

CULLOWHEE, N.C. (AP)—For the second straight week, flu has caused postponement of a Western Carolina College football game.

Athletic Director Tom Young said yesterday that this weekend's game with Emory and Henry had to be postponed because of the flu. WCC's scheduled game with Elon likewise was postponed.

No reschedule date for either game was announced. Coach Dan Robinson said he had only 12 players present for yesterday's workout so he suspended drills for the remainder of the week.

Communism Has Tightened Its Grip On Russians Over Past Forty Years

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Forty years ago today Communists seized power in Russia. What's happened in that time? What lies ahead?

In 40 years the Russians have made astonishing progress in industry and science. The progress has been concentrated most notably on weapons, the atomic and H-bombs, jet planes, missiles and earth satellites.

That progress would have provided the Russian people with far higher living standards—if it had been devoted to peacetime goods.

In short, a couple of generations of Russians have been used—while forced to do without the modern conveniences and luxuries of the West—to bring Russia abreast of the West industrially in a rush. It worked.

There is no visible discontent in Russia. Living standards can be expected to go up continually as industrial-scientific development is expanded to meet more of the people's needs.

In one spot—the political system—Russia is still immensely backward. A comparatively small group of self-appointed leaders—perhaps 10 million out of more than 200 million people—still rule it by force.

Red party control is a little more relaxed than in Stalin's day. In time perhaps it too will undergo a change and become more democratic, permitting wider participation in government for one of two reasons: either through evolutionary change or the demands and pressures of the people as they become increasingly more educated and questioning.

No government remains fixed and frozen forever. History believes that.

On one thing the Red bosses of 1917 were wrong: they thought then world revolution was just around the corner. Disappointed in that, but aggressively crusading, they set out to bring about what didn't happen by itself.

In 40 years—by force and never by persuasion or open and free elections—communism has grabbed all of Eastern Europe, all of China, half of Viet Nam and North Korea. Its influence is spreading in Asia and the Middle East.

The peoples of the European satellites have shown vast discontent with their Russian masters. That does not mean communism will not spread without the use of Russian armies.

There are such weapons as infiltration, seizure from within, persuasion and example. The industrial and scientific progress of Russia under communism in 40 years is bound to be impressive.

At least it will impress peoples who, still living in feudal societies, want to leap in a hurry into the 20th century. For many of them, who never knew democracy, communism may seem a faster way of getting places than a democratic society operating under capitalism.

As the years pass, and Russians live better, they will probably move more toward capitalism. And the Western powers, to offset the gains of communism, may be forced to move more toward socialism.

A Rose By Any Other Name—

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — What's in a name? Don't ask Tucson artist Hurlstone Fairchild. He's likely to tell you.

Fairchild receives mail addressed with every conceivable variation of his first name, such as: Hailstone, Hardstone, Curbstone, Firestone, Headstone and Hard-fock.

Recently, he received an advertising brochure addressed to Bullstone Hurlismake. Annoyed, Fairchild replied with a letter declining the brochure's offer, signing it:

"Yours, Fairweather Bullring."

Behind No One In Space Medicine

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The chief of the Department of Space Medicine at Randolph Air Force Base here said yesterday "in the field of space medicine, we're not behind anyone. The same things the Russians are finding out with their dogs, we're finding out with men."

Dr. Hubertus Strughold, head of the department at the School of Aviation Medicine, said the stationary cabin used in testing man's reaction and ability to endure space flight has provided a tremendous fund of information.

"We're ready now for space flight, insofar as space medicine is concerned," he said in an interview.

He said there are some questions which can't be answered until a satellite is actually placed in flight. "but we could be ready today, or tomorrow, for such a step. All we need is for the technology to get ready."

Strughold has been working for the U.S. Air Force on space medicine projects since 1947. He said the work of the Russians possibly could eliminate some minor experiments by Americans necessary to launching of their own satellite.

As for the medical end of the problem, the doctor said Russian efforts thus far had confirmed many of the Randolph experiments.

Strughold said the space cabin simulator at Randolph is the "only one of its type in the world—that we know about."

In the sealed cabin, men are subjected to conditions that presumably would prevail in space with the necessary aids and protective devices that have been perfected during the school's experiments.

The experiments here, Strughold said, have been testing men in conditions which would be found in satellite flight for more than a year.

"We're not so far behind as people think," Strughold said.

Milk Is Brown, White And Red

MILLINGTON, Tenn. (AP) — Second grade students in Miss Bridget Brody's class were copying sentences she had written on the blackboard. Then the children circled the correct word in the sentences such as: "Milk is red, white, black or brown."

One little boy circled both white and brown to describe milk. The brown, he explained, was for chocolate milk.

Display Modern Arms To Hodges

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Luther Hodges and 40 retired generals and flag officers got a first hand look here today at the latest methods in waging warfare.

The Governor and the officers, who all picked North Carolina as their retirement state, toured the 18th Airborne Division Museum and were scheduled to watch a parachute jump and a drop of heavy equipment, a firing demonstration of artillery and demonstrations of air combat mobility and a C123 assault takeoff.

The demonstrations closed a two-day meeting of the retired officers with the governor who called the meeting as a means of expressing North Carolina's pride in its colony of retired high ranking officers.

Hodges entertained the group and high-ranking brass of Ft. Bragg last night at a dinner. In an informal talk, the Governor thanked the 40 retired officers and their wives for selecting North Carolina for their retirement homes. He said the gathering of the retired officers was one of the largest of its kind ever assembled in the state.

A short speech of thanks to the Governor was made by Maj. Gen. Robert F. Slink, a native of Lexington, N.C., and commander of the 18th Airborne Corps here.

Cuff links made in Western North Carolina were presented to each male guest and an orchid grown in Southern Pines was presented to each of the ladies.

Scientist Sees A 'Basic' Goal

DURHAM, N.C. — A Nobel Prize-winning scientist said at Duke University that he felt the most important goal of American science is to develop "further basic knowledge," rather than rushing to get up an earth satellite.

Dr. Felix Bloch of Stanford University, program chairman for a three-day international scientific conference held at Duke this week, voiced the belief that the Russian satellites do not necessarily mean Soviet science is superior to ours.

When questioned about a comparison of American and Russian scientific ability, Dr. Bloch commented: "While I have a great respect for the Russian's having been able to achieve this technical goal (launching two satellites), I do not believe that it reflects upon the quality of their scientific man power as compared to ours."

Elaborating, he said, "The basic discoveries... such as, for example, the non-conservation of parity, for which this year's Nobel Prize has been given, have been made in this country, and I have no doubt that from the standpoint of fundamental knowledge, we are still the leading nation."

Dr. Bloch warned, however, that "it would be very dangerous to be self-complacent and to think that it does not need further increased efforts to maintain our standing."

Asserting that only through developing further basic knowledge can America maintain its high scientific standards, Dr. Bloch added: "It takes some time from the discovery of new basic knowledge to the time at which it becomes manifest to the public eye."

Troops Guarding Record Harvest

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, (AP) — A record coffee harvest in Cuba's easternmost Oriente province is progressing rapidly. All of the crop is expected to be garnered by the end of November.

The harvesting is proceeding under the watchful eyes of Cuban troops. But there has been no interference with the work by supporters of rebel leader Fidel Castro, who is hiding out in the Sierra Maestra mountains bordering the coffee-growing lands.

Snowstorms Trap Nevada Hunters

PIOCHE, Nev. (AP) — Weekend snow storms trapped at least 40 hunters in the rugged terrain of Eastern Nevada. These 40 were counted safe by Highway Patrolman Duke Hill of Pioche says there's no telling how many may still be marooned.

Some of the 40 walked out of snowed-in canyons and mountains. Others were found by hunting parties on foot, or in Air Force helicopters or bulldozers.

A three-foot snowfall Saturday is what did it. Snow continued to fall yesterday.

High Water For Central Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A five-day storm of rain and snow caused streams and rivers to overflow and isolate many residents of the desolate east-central Utah area some 180 miles from here.

There are no telephone lines to the area. It was not possible to get reliable reports, but an estimated 200 persons were cut off by overflowing rivers washing out roads. Hardest hit was Hanksville, population 80.

The flooding, which started Monday, was expected to ease today.

Walter Winchell Now Grandfather

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Columnist Walter Winchell's daughter, Waldie, gave birth yesterday to a daughter, four weeks prematurely, by caesarean section.

Miss Winchell, 29, was granted a final decree of divorce last week from Hyatt R. Von Dehn, 42-year-old hotel man.

Winchell was waiting at Hollywood Hospital when his 6 pound, 3 ounce granddaughter was born. She was named Mary Elizabeth.

Military Scientists Press Search For Improved Fuels

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—American military scientists are pressing broad research in a quest for new or improved fuels to power big missiles and satellites.

But any bid in the near future to recapture the lead which Russia has taken in rocketry probably will be made with existing, tested types of power.

A Russian broadcast claimed the use of "improved new instruments and sources of power" in the launching of Sputnik II last weekend, but the broadcast gave no details.

At present, fuel for the large missile and for the primary engines of planned satellite launchers are liquid—a combination of forms of hydrocarbons (usually kerosene) and an oxidizer (usually liquid oxygen) called "lox" which enable them to burn at altitudes where there is little or no natural oxygen to support combustion.

These liquid fuels have disadvantages. Their use requires a maze of plumbing in rocket engines; liquid fuel is heavy; it is difficult and dangerous to handle.

UAW Is Cleared Of 'Violation'

DETROIT (AP)—A federal court jury yesterday found the United Auto Workers Union innocent of charges it violated the Corrupt Practices Act by sponsoring a series of television programs before the 1954 election.

The jury of 10 women and 2 men returned the verdict after two hours of deliberation. The UAW was charged with illegally attempting to influence the election by sponsoring nine television programs in 1954.

Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the UAW, hailed the verdict as "complete repudiation of false charges made by Republican politicians . . . that the UAW was operating illegally in its educational programming."

The government's case hinged on the contention that the UAW sought to influence the election by plugging UAW-favored candidates on the nine union-sponsored telecasts. All candidates appearing on the program were Democrats.

UAW witnesses, including President Walter Reuther, testified the programs were designed to inform UAW members of the issues and were not beamed to the general public although televised from a commercial station.

The UAW said some Republican candidates had been invited to appear but none accepted.

There is a tendency toward solid fuels. William M. Holaday, special defense assistant for guided missiles, said recently that the performance of solid propellants have been improved "to the point where they are nearing that of liquid propellants now used in current large liquid rockets."

He made those remarks at an address dedicating a rocket engine plant built by the Thiokol Chemical Corp. at Birmingham City, Utah. That plant, he commented, includes a chamber for testing rockets producing two million pounds of thrust. Holaday did not say that such rockets, using either liquid or solid fuel, are in existence now, but cited it as an example of goals in rocket development.

The trade publication Aviation Daily reports that the largest United States design, intended for the Titan ICBM, is of 300,000 pounds thrust. In contrast, Russia is described as having tested a rocket delivering 220,000 pounds, probably intended for use in the Soviet T-3 ICBM.

In the search for better fuels, one path has led toward the use of elements to boost the heat engine content of conventional carbons—as additives are used in automobile gasoline.

The magazine Missile and Rockets, does not appear to share Holaday's view that the use of solid fuel for big rocket engines is close. It suggests that such fuel for operational use of intermediate range ballistic missiles may be about five years away.

Future Values Of N. C. Research Plan Stressed

North Carolina's Research Triangle Project and its potentialities for industrial development of the state received attention Tuesday night at East Carolina College when Dr. George Lee Simpson, director of the project, spoke before approximately 400 students and faculty members gathered in the Austin auditorium.

North Carolina, he said, has two resources particularly encouraging in plans for industrial growth. The first is that, as people leave the farms, they make up a supply of labor to fill industrial jobs. The second is the concentration of research facilities in the Research Triangle, that is, the area encompassing the University of North Carolina, Duke University, and North Carolina State College.

The immediate goal of the Research Triangle is attracting industrial laboratories to this state, he explained. The reason why North Carolina needs such a development, he said, is that the state "has not kept pace economically" with other sections of the country. North Carolina, he declared, needs "quality industry," the type which demands trained industrial scientists.

Some reasons why the Research Triangle project promises success, he said, include the fact that industry likes to be near colleges and universities, where research laboratories are located and from which trained scientists may be recruited. Also industrialists like to live in the cultural atmosphere created by institutions of learning, he said. He predicted that as the industrial development of the state progresses, the impact will be felt more in East North Carolina than in the piedmont. Water supply, favorable climate, and people to work provide conditions which favor the eastern section of the state.

Stimulation of a new state of mind in the South, he concluded, is a far-reaching objective of the Research Triangle Project. In the South, he explained, we have "failed to evaluate and put to use the resources that are present." We are now planning, he said, to achieve greater progress in the future.

Move To Avert Future Brawls

SPARTANBURG (AP)—The Spartanburg City Council has taken action to prevent recurrence of a brawl that involved about 100 whites and Negroes here last Thursday night.

The council yesterday unanimously passed an ordinance requiring city permission for outdoor meetings open to the public.

The new law requires that a permit be obtained from the chief of police for all outdoor meetings on public or private property. It also requires that the request be submitted at least 15 days in advance of the scheduled meeting and that the names and addresses of the requesters be included.

The police chief must also be told the approximate number of persons expected at the meeting and any other information the chief might need for traffic or other safety reasons.

The restriction imposed by the new ordinance are not meant to apply to governmental, education or religious meetings, council members pointed out.

The penalty for falsifying statements to obtain permits can bring a fine of $100 or 30 days in jail. Last Thursday's incident occurred during a rock 'n' roll party sponsored by a local radio station.

Poston 'Discovered' Over And Over Again

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—So many people have been "discovering" Tom Poston for a number of years that we might as well discover him too.

Since a "discovery" of Poston often results in his unemployment, he's somewhat reluctant to talk. But here goes anyway—

Poston is "the man in the street" who is regularly interviewed on the Steve Allen Show (NBC-TV, Sundays, 8 p. m. EST) and cannot remember his name.

It began when Poston went to audition as a comedian on the Allen Show. Among other roles he plays well is that of a drunk. Of course nobody would hear to a drunk entering millions of living rooms via TV.

So somebody said in effect, "Look, Poston, we'll start as a straight interview. Now, I ask you, 'What's your name?'"

Then Poston, the inveterate actor, blinked and started and went through the frantic endeavor to remember his name. His questioner laughed—and called in another man. The second man laughed too. So it went, all the way up to Steve Allen—whose laugh assured Poston of the job.

The Poston who appears on the Allen Show is only one of the numerous aspects of Poston. After World War II service as a pilot, he studied acting and earned a precarious living for several years in road companies and TV soap operas. Finally he obtained a minor role in a Broadway play, "The Grand Prize."

The critics gave him rave notices—and the play folded. Next ABC-TV "discovered" him, signing him as star of "Entertainment," a daily two and a half-hour show. Critics liked Poston but blasted the show. It went off the air after 13 weeks.

Poston returned to summer stock. "It was sort of like the market," he says. "I kept getting stock and I kept getting broker." Then—another "discovery." A Hollywood screen test! "To put it politely," recalls Poston, "I was a bomb." Next, he was "discovered" after playing a straight TV dramatic role. Again the critics applauded. "The reaction was great," he says. "I didn't work on TV again for a year."

His next Broadway-bound show, in which he personally was praised, floundered on its Boston try-out. Last season a similar pattern: raves for Poston but the show folded.

A few weeks ago Poston was hired as top banana for an off-Broadway show, "The Best of Burlesque." He warned the producer that he was a jinx. But the show didn't fold. It's a success.

Anybody want to be an actor? Poston does. He's happily married, has a year-old daughter and a gray poodle—"It was a black poodle until it started worrying."

Error By Clerk Causes Mistrial
ST. LOUIS (AP)—A murder case ended in a mistrial in suburban Clayton when a court clerk handed the notes of Circuit Judge Franklin Ferriss to the jury by mistake.

The jury had deliberated two hours in the case of Herschel O. Courtney, 51, a carpenter charged with second-degree murder in the shooting of his wife two years ago.

After the jury went to dinner, the court clerk handed it a document he thought contained the judge's formal instructions. It proved to be the judge's notes. He declared a mistrial.

STATION LINEUP
AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Portage Terrace in nearby Cuyahoga Falls is gaining the nickname "Gasoline Alley." In a 1.4-mile distance, there are 11 service stations. One has a sign: "Better fill up here—last station for 50 feet."

Northern Lights Over Carolinas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Carolians made sky-conscious by Russian earth-moons saw glowing lights in the sky last night, but the weather bureau identified the phenomenon as the Aurora Borealis, or Northern Lights.

Sightings were reported in Charlotte, Chapel Hill and Winston-Salem, N.C., as well as Orangeburg, Anderson and Spartanburg, S.C. Several areas in Georgia also reported sightings.

Charlotte meteorologist Jim McNeal of the U.S. Weather Bureau said he saw the lights twice. "It appeared red and looked like the reflection of a burning building," McNeal said.

McNeal said the lights appear during a maximum sunspot period when electrons passing through the atmosphere are attracted to the North Pole by the earth's magnetism. At Chapel Hill, University of North Carolina student Hugh Fulcher described the lights as "like the glow of neon lights." UNC student Paul Rule said, "As I watched it, it split into two parts, one part moving to the east. At times it was bright crimson and then would fade to light pink." McNeal said the color of the lights was determined by the proportion of the gases in the atmosphere.

List 34 Tobacco Seed Varieties

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina seed growers have recorded with the State Department of Agriculture 34 blue-cured tobacco varieties for sale next season.

In addition, at least four other varieties are being considered by the Tobacco Seed Committee, the department reported yesterday. Director W. H. Darst of the department's Seed Testing Division said it appears "most of the varieties commonly sold in North Carolina have been recorded" in addition to several new varieties. Darst also reminded farmers that all problems connected with blue-cured tobacco seed have not been solved by amendments the last Legislature made in the state's seed law. The charges, he said, "are intended primarily to place greater responsibility on seed producers for correct labeling." Farmers must still use their judgment as to the best varieties to plant, and should buy from producers and dealers in which they have confidence, Darst added.

Under the changes in the seed law, seedmen for the first time must record blue-cured tobacco operating them for sale in North Carolina. Fears that blue-cured seed supplies might be limited because of the new control measures have proved unfounded, Darst reported.

Obtaining 1958 License Plates Isn't So Simple

CHARLOTTE—Obtaining a new North Carolina license plate after January 1, 1958, is not going to be the simple transaction of previous years—what with the new Vehicle Financial Responsibility Law and the legislative action which requires an additional dollar per license tag to finance driver training in high schools of the state.

So, next year when you apply for a 1958 license, not only will you have to present an FS-1 Form which certifies that you have proper liability insurance on your vehicle, but also you'll have to hand over an extra dollar. It applies to licenses for all passenger or property carrying vehicles registered with the Department of Motor Vehicles on which a fee of $10.00 or more is being paid.

"That extra dollar will be an investment which will bring three-to-one returns to the people of this state," declares T. E. Pickard Jr., executive vice president of the Carolina Motor Club. American Automobile Association estimates based on two decades of driver education indicates that 3,000,000 students have been trained in the U. S., saving some 3,000 lives and preventing 100,000 injuries and an economic loss of $320,000,000. This gives economic savings of more than $100 for each student trained at a cost of approximately $35, or a return of $3 for each $1 invested.

Although it is not known exactly what the driver training program in North Carolina high schools will cost, it is estimated that about $1,500,000 will be collected for the program by the end of 1958.

Approximately 60,000 pupils become of age to obtain drivers licenses each year in North Carolina. At a cost of $35 a student, $2,100,000 would be needed to train each student. However, not all high school students or all state high schools will elect to take advantage of the driver training program.

Twelve other states in the nation have some form of financial aid for driver training in high schools.

Sen. Humphrey Urges Speed-Up For Rocketry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) called on President Eisenhower today to back a speed-up of rocket development and the sharing of nuclear weapons with U. S. allies.

Although Humphrey said Congress should be summoned into special session, it was evident Eisenhower intends to wait for a Dec. 3 conference with leaders of both parties to seek any legislative cooperation he may feel is needed.

Funeral Friday For Mrs. W. H. Belks

GREENVILLE—Mrs. Etta Belle Faulkner Belks, 57, of Ballard's Crossroads, died in a Raleigh hospital Wednesday. She was born in Greene county, a daughter of the late Curtis and Billie Jackson Faulkner. She was the wife of W. H. Belks. For the last 40 years they had resided in Pitt county. She was a member of the Ballard's Crossroads Presbyterian Church.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are four daughters, Mrs. James Haynes of Arlington, Va., Mrs. Lillie Fusani of Brunswick, Ga., Mrs. Alice Reynolds of Germany and Mrs. Sue House of Greenville; six grandchildren; one brother, Billy Faulkner of Winterville; one half-sister, Mrs. Willis May of Ormandville.

Funeral services will be held at Ballard's Crossroads Presbyterian Church Friday at 3 p.m. Rev. E. S. Coats and Rev. Robert Crawford will officiate. Burial will be in the Elks family cemetery.

FBI Joining In N. C. Manhunt

CHARLOTTE (AP)—M. P. Chiles, special agent in charge of the FBI in North Carolina, said today the FBI had entered the manhunt for the killer of two North Carolina highway patrolmen.

The search centered in the Chattanooga, Tenn., area today, after one stolen car was abandoned there and another stolen. Chiles said a John Doe warrant charging the unidentified killer with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution had been issued. He said, "based on information we received, we filed a complaint against the individual for fleeing the state of North Carolina to avoid prosecution for the crime of murder."

Brandon Hodges To Serve With Tax Study Group

RALEIGH (AP)—Former State Treasurer Brandon P. Hodges of Clinton will serve again on a task force looking for ways to improve the state's tax laws.

His appointment as one of nine members of a new tax study commission was announced yesterday by Gov. Luther Hodges. The first meeting of the commission will be held in the governor's office tomorrow afternoon.

Brandon Hodges, no relation to the governor, was chairman of the 1955 tax study commission which recommended a new method of figuring corporate income tax. The change, enacted by the last Legislature, was designed to boost industrial development in North Carolina.

Brandon Hodges, a vice president of Champion Paper & Fibre Co., and W. H. Holderness, Greensboro tax attorney, were two members from the 1955 tax study group named to the new commission.

Other members of the new group are Dal Alford Jr., Rocky Mount, past president of the North Carolina Assn. of County Commissioners; A. K. Barrus, Kinston, former member of the State Bankers' Commission; Harold Myrick, Lincolnton, banking official; Frank S. Pittman, Scotland Neck, Halifax County state representative; D. W. Royster, Shelby, transportation company executive; R. Flake Shaw, Greensboro, executive vice president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation and J. A. Speight, Windsor, Bertie County state representative.

New Army Flag For MacArthur

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been presented with the new United States Army flag.

The flag, officially adopted by the Army last year, was presented to MacArthur yesterday by Secretary of the Army Brucker. Former President Herbert Hoover was a guest.

In accepting the flag on Governors Island, MacArthur said: "In these, my twilight days, I shall wrap myself in its folds with a reverence and devotion which surpasses all understanding."

The flag has 145 battle streamers commemorating campaigns from Ticonderoga to Korea.

Robert Gaskins, 1017 West Third street, 30 days, suspended on payment of $16, costs deducted.

Robert Gaskins, 1017 West Third street, 30 days, suspended on payment of $15, accredited to costs and he is to remain of good behavior for two years.

Billy Francis Smith, Grimesland, 30 days, suspended on payment of $15, accredited to costs and behave for two years.

The court found Robert Gaskins guilty of being a public nuisance and gave him 90 days on the roads, to be served concurrently with the above sentence, suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted.

Billy Francis Smith, Grimesland, affray, 30 days in jail, to begin at expiration of above sentence, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that Smith shall not visit the Armory in Greenville for 12 months.

Edward M. L. Cox, Rt. 3, city, affray, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $15, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that he shall not visit the Greenville Armory for 12 months.

Betty Gene Ruffin, white, address unknown to police, was found guilty of violation of a court order. The court's judgment was that she remove her trailer vehicle from Pitt county on or before noon November 8, 1957, and that she not be in possession of or reside in any trailer in Pitt county for a period of two years.

John Henry Staton, Negro, Spruce street, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for sale, 60 days (concurrent) and the 90-day suspended sentence ordered invoked.

Jesse Wiggins, Negro, 1102 S. Green street, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for sale, six months (concurrent) with three months' suspended sentence in an older case, and his probation was ordered revoked.

Fred Braxton, Negro, 1915 McClellan street, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey, 30 days, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted, and he is not to possess any intoxicating whiskey for 12 months.

Lofton Earl Moore, Negro, Snodie Edwards farm, near Ayden, non-support, six months, suspended on payment of $12.50 before release for his wife and minor child; $12.50 November 9, 1957, and a like amount each Saturday thereafter. The judgment also provides that Moore shall pay $25 on or before noon December 20, 1957, for benefit of a minor child at Christmas. Also Moore is to pay all doctor's, dentist's, hospital and other necessary medical bills for infant child. This case was retained for further order.

Speeding: Andrew C. Woodall, Negro, Philadelphia, and Arthur Woodall Jr., Negro, Philadelphia, prayer for judgment continued on payment of costs in the first case, and judgment continued on payment of $30, costs deducted, in the second case.

Racy Mainor, Negro, 128 North Green street, 30 days, suspended on condition that he is not to operate a motor vehicle without first obtaining a valid operator's license and pay court costs.

Kirby P. Branch, 2601 South Dickinson avenue, passing at an intersection, prayer for judgment continued on payment of costs.

Joseph Jefferson, Negro, 1316 South Clark street, assault on a police officer, 60 days on the roads, to begin at expiration of preceding sentence, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that he is to be of good behavior for two years and not violate any law for two years. The court placed Jefferson on probation for 12 months and he is not to drink any intoxicating beverage for 12 months. Jefferson was taxed with court costs for disorderly conduct.

Jack Stokes, 1020 Dickinson avenue, drunk, $16, costs deducted.

Edward F. Parker, Charleston, S. C., failure to keep proper lookout, prayer for judgment continued on payment of costs.

Lee Myers, Negro, Rockingham, vagrant and loitering on the street, 90 days on the roads. Capias was to issue for commitment to jail at 5 o'clock Monday.

Arnon R. Rhodes, Rt. 2, city, was found not guilty of not having an operator's license.

CHAPTER 25

Ma didn't know any details about the difficulty Bess was in, just that Veach had shown up with a warrant and taken Bess to town. Gil stopped by long enough to tell Ma what had happened, then he lit out for town so he'd be with Bess. For one of the few times in my life I honestly admired Gil. He was sticking by Bess when she was in trouble.

After breakfast I saddled up and rode to the Diamond 8. Frank was fixing a break in the ditch. "Well, by heavens, Dave," he said in a voice that was filled with same bitter hatred he'd felt for Barney Lux, "it takes just one rotten egg to flavor a custard, and it seems like we've always got one."

"Who was it this time?"

"Si Beam. He stayed with Bess, you know, I ran him off the Diamond 8. I guess you done the same. Bess should have, too, but no, she's too bighearted. She fed the — and gave him a bed. So what does he do when he gets to town? Swears to Ed Veach that Bess butchered a Rafter 3 steer just before he got here."

"How'd he know?" I asked.

"Oh, there was a hide hanging on the fence. He found the guts in the corral where we done the butchering, and he found the critter hanging in the meat house."

Frank stabbed the air in my direction with a stubby finger. "You know what he done then? He spent three days on Anchor eating fresh beefsteak every meal. I reckon it tasted like Rafter 3 meat."

"It's no crime to put fresh meat on the table. Besides, that hide —"

"He stole the hide," Frank interrupted. "They'll cut the brand out and swear we done it. But what's worrying me is that it's a felony to steal a beef. Bess can get anything from one to ten years in the pen. You know you can't find twelve men in the county outside Dillon's Park who ain't afraid to spit in front of Vic Toll."

"What'll we do, Frank?" I asked.

"I'm not a smart man, so I don't know." He wiped the sweat from his face with a handanna. "There's something else. That steer was a Diamond 8 critter. The kids made a pet out of him when he was a calf. He got away from us when we were driving up to the mountain this spring, and I've been too busy to chase him back with the others. Well, Bess came over to see Lorna the other day and she said she wanted some fresh meat, so Lorna said maybe I'd sell this steer. Bess said she'd buy him just to keep from having to fetch one down off the mountain. I helped her and Gil butcher for the liver and heart. I fetched the head home, too, 'cause we like the brains."

He shifted his weight in the mud, his boots making a sucking noise as he lifted them. "You remember that fool speech Gil made at a meeting last winter about fighting fire with fire by rustling Rafter 3 stock? Well, the easiest brand to work over from Rafter 3 is the Diamond 8."

"Well," I said, "our worry right now is what we can do for Bess."

"What can we do?" Frank asked.

"We can stick together," I said. "When she's tried, Toll will have his crew in town, to scare the jury if nothing else. We can be there, too."

"A fight. But the way I figure it, Runyan won't stop pestering us until Toll's dead."

Frank nodded. "You know I'll back you, Dave; but I ain't sure you'll get every man in the park to go to town that day."

"They'll go," I said. "I figured I'd see them today."

I rode the length of the park that day and talked to every rancher from the Diamond 8 to Johnny Strone's place. I talked tough because it was time for tough talk. Either we settled this for once and all or we pulled up stakes and got out of the park. If Rafter 3 didn't pick a fight in town the day Bess was tried, we would. It was that or let a scared jury send Bess to the pen at Cannon City.

I wasn't a popular man that day. But at last, grudgingly, all but one agreed to go.

Matt Colohan was the one I couldn't touch.

"I'm getting out, Dave," he said. "My wife wouldn't let me stay if I wanted to."

"I'll tell you one thing, Matt," I said. "If you're still in the park the day Bess is tried, you're going with us or I'm coming after you."

"I won't be here," he yelled at me. "You can count on it."

That night I wrote to Kity. I had decided not to tell Bess about Kity and me, at least not for the time being, and I told Kity that in the letter. I remembered what she'd said about Bess being humbled.

I told Ma about getting married, and it pleased her. "She's a good girl, Dave. She'll be welcome here."

I wrote about that to Kity, and it made her happy. She had been afraid of the situation just as much as I had been. But Bess' arrest was another matter. Her trouble did not give Kity any pleasure. She'd be in Buhl the day the trial started.

Bess and Gil were gone for several days. As soon as they got back, I rode to Anchor. I said "What can we do for you, Bess?"

She looked at me for a long moment. Finally she said: "Nothing. Nobody needs to do anything for me."

"You're wrong," I said. "If we don't do anything, you'll go to prison. Vic Toll will see to that."

"What do you think you can do for me?" Bess asked.

"Do you need any money to hire lawyers? Good lawyers, I mean. Expensive lawyers."

"I've got money," she said stiffly, "and I've hired a lawyer — Dan Judson from Glenwood Springs. We went there to see him. That's why we've been gone so long."

I'd heard of Judson, and he was probably as good a man as she could get. I said: "There's one other thing we'll do. When does the trial start?"

"July 30th," Gil said.

"We'll be in town that day," I said. "Every man in the park."

Her shoulders slumped, some of her pride going out of her. "No, Dave," she said in a low tone, shaking her head at me. "This is my fight. Mine and Gil's. Not yours."

"You're wrong again," I said. "We'll be there."

A few days later I heard Matt Colohan had sold out to Luke Jordan, taking Jordan's note, and had left the park with his family.

On the morning of July 29th we gathered at the schoolhouse, every park man but Gil, who had already left with Bess. As we started to town, I think all of us knew that, whatever happened, the next few days would decide our future.

When Dave and his fellow-ranchers reach Buhl, they are confronted with a new problem. Be sure to read about it in tomorrow's hard-hitting episode of "Desperate Man."

Water Survey To End Dec. 1

RALEIGH — The State Board of Water Commissioners will end its grass roots inventory of the state's water problems on December 1.

The decision to conclude the county-by-county study was reached at a meeting in Greensboro this week after Board members heard reports on the progress of the program.

Members were told that detailed reports have been received from 23 counties and that another 20 to 25 reports are expected from other counties by the end of November. Nine of the counties that have reported are located in the Coastal Plain, 12 are in the Piedmont and two are in the Mountain area.

In explaining his Board's action, Chairman J. R. Townsend of Greensboro, said the members felt that the need for an early appraisal of the problems that have been reported greatly outweighs the benefits that would be derived from prolonging the study. He said the Commissioners also felt that by the end of the month all sections of the state would be well represented.

"If we can get reports from several counties in the northeastern section of the state and from the Mountain region," Townsend said, "we should have a very accurate picture of the major water problems facing the people of North Carolina."

The chairman said he felt the main purpose of the program would be served by detailed reports from a sufficient number of representative counties, though his Board would have liked reports from all 100 counties.

B-58 BUICK

Born of more Aircraft Principles than any other car yet built

HERE—coming to you from the freshest blueprints in years—is a car built to make your driving as modern as your thinking.

This one's built with more aviation principles throughout than any car before.

There's a greater use of airweight aluminum in its form and structure—in its engine—in its styling—even in its quick-cooling brakes.

There's an air-borne feeling of flight in its performance with Buick's B-12000 engine and with Flight Pitch Dynaflo* that can switch the pitch a million ways.

And everywhere you go—you travel in new comfort with Buick's Miracle Ride plus Air-Poise Suspension.*

So this is a car of truly exciting ideas for 1958—the Air Born B-58 Buick.

And you should see it and drive it at your Buick dealer's soon. Come on in today.

ALL IN ONE YEAR— ALL IN THIS BIG, BUOYANT BUICK

Flight Pitch Dynaflo*— Lets you switch the pitch a million ways for exact power delivery at every phase of travel—gives smooth, instant response.

B-12000 Engine—Up to 10 to 1 in. compression, and with 12,000 pounds of thrust behind every piston's power stroke. Most modern engine possible to build for today's fuels.

Miracle Ride plus Buick Air-Poise Suspension*— You ride on four self-levelizing columns of compressed air—stay on a constant level, regardless of passenger load or road conditions.

Sparkling Fresh Styling— From wide-awakening Dynastar grille to steeped tail towers, this is the bold face of fashion for '58.

Air-Cooled Aluminum Brakes— Heavier-lined, extra-powerful brakes with 45 radial fins that fan in cooling air. Smoother, more positive braking and longer lining-life. (Standard on most models.)

Magnificent Changes Through and Through— "Velvet wall" sound insulating, hidden exhausts, center-of-percussion vibration control, ball-joint handling—plus many others!

*Flight Pitch Dynaflo standard on LIMITED and ROADMASTER 75, optional at extra cost on other Series. Air-Poise Suspension optional at extra cost on all Series.

When better automobiles are built Buick will build them

Think Sputnik . . .

States three times before sunrise today.

Western technicians have speculated the Soviets might try to land a rocket on the moon or announce some other spectacle as a follow-up to their launching of two earth satellites.

The Russians, crowing over their scientific achievements, have given no indication of immediate plans to reach the moon, some 225,000 miles away. However, some Soviet scientists have said such a feat is within reach.

Telescopes at the Naval Observatory were trained at the moon last night, as they have been for some time in connection with astronomical studies related to the International Geophysical Year.

Cmdr. W. M. Robinson, acting superintendent of the observatory, said "We're not just looking to see if a red star suddenly blossoms on the moon. But if anything hits the moon we expect to see it."

Meantime, skywatchers sought more sightings today of Russia's Sputnik II. A number of sightings were reported yesterday from widely scattered areas.

Sputnik II's orbit carries the half-ton vehicle and its dog passenger about 1,000 miles into space at its farthest point. Scientists at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass., said the second Russian satellite will be at an altitude of about 140 miles when it passes over the United States.

The Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow last night that Laika, the little dog strapped inside Sputnik II, was in satisfactory condition after four days in the sky. The Russians have said they are getting radio information from the satellite on Laika's heart action, blood pressure and breathing.

Tass said Sputnik II completed its 54th trip around the earth last night. This satellite was launched last Sunday. The Soviet news agency said the first Russian space vehicle, a small sphere, had completed 500 circuits and its carrier rocket had finished 520 round trips. Sputnik I, accompanied by the rocket that pushed it aloft, has been in orbit since Oct. 4.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Observatory, said there still had not been enough accurate U. S. observations to permit American astronomers to make exact predictions of Sputnik II's orbit. He said data received so far allows predictions that are accurate to within one degree.

Tass said that on the basis of three days of radio reports from Sputnik II it was possible to ascertain its orbit more exactly and to estimate that the second satellite would stay up much longer than Sputnik I. Some American scientists have predicted the first satellite will drop Dec. 11 to a flaming death.

Tass said the time for a single trip around the earth by Sputnik II had been reduced from 103.7 minutes to 103.6. The agency said this rate of reduction is slower than that of Sputnik I.

"Consequently," Tass said, "we can expect the second Sputnik to last a great deal longer."

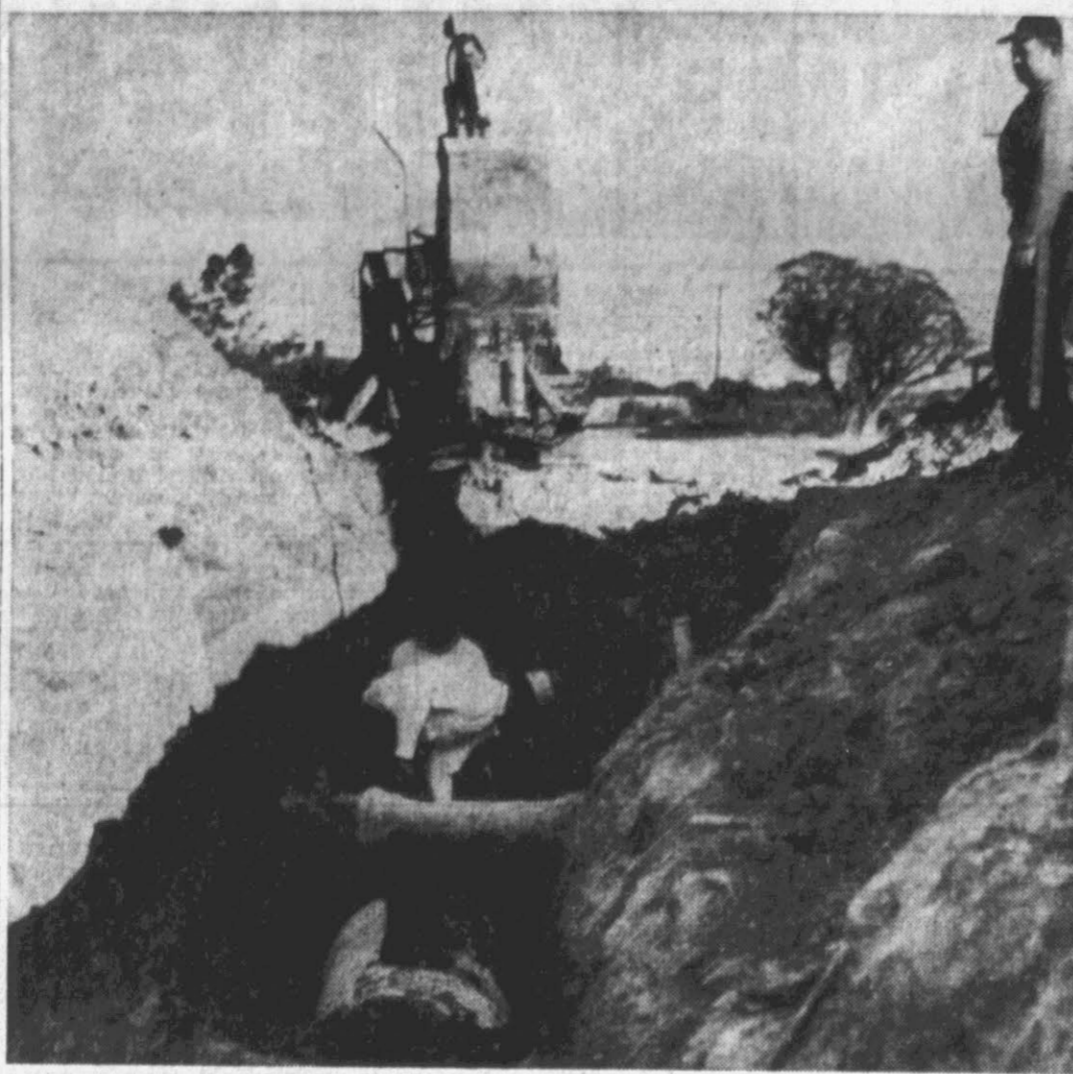

So far, American scientists have received little information from the Russians on the two satellites.

Hugh Odishaw, executive secretary of the U. S. National Committee for the IGY, said yesterday American officials do not expect to receive any such information from the Russians on Sputnik II for "several months at a minimum." Odishaw said this estimate is based on "our own experience with data from our own rocket program for the IGY."

"We haven't yet sent data anywhere," Odishaw said, adding that it takes some time to collect and study information before finished reports can be prepared.

The Pentagon yesterday discounted reports that the United States would make a satellite launching attempt next week. The Defense Department underscored

Trash Cans Provided For Highway Use

LANDSCAPE SUPERVISOR BOWEN . . . uses highway trashcan along new bypass.

The State Highway Department is installing trash cans along the highways to reduce the amount of litter on the state's roads.

One such can has been placed along the new N.C. 11-U.S. 13 bypass near its intersection with the old road.

Trash cans eventually will be placed at five to ten mile intervals, Frank H. Bowen, landscape supervisor for the First Division said.

Its all a part of the governor's litterbug campaign. Gov. Hodges has proclaimed this week—Nov. 2-9—as a state-wide clean-up campaign week.

Highway officials hope the use of the trash cans will reduce the staggering cost of highway clean-up which the state bears.

Results of the installation of the trash cans thus far have been gratifying, Bowen said. Their use has been "beyond my expectations," he declared.

The blame for the highway litter problem lies with local people and tourists alike, according to the landscape supervisor.

Cut Off Hand With His Knife

TRENTON, Mo. (AP)—Gilbert McCulley, 49, used a pocket knife to cut off his left hand when it was caught in a mechanical corn picker.

McCulley, working alone on his farm near Galt, Mo., said he shouted for help for 30 minutes before resorting to the knife.

Find Man Dead In Seat Of Taxi

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (AP)—A man identified through papers in his possession as Marvin C. Kirksey, 45, was found dead in the back seat of a taxicab near here yesterday.

The cab driver said he had picked Kirksey up in Fayetteville, N.C., and was driving him to Tampa, Fla.

The death was discovered when South Carolina Highway Patrolman H. L. Smith stopped the cab as a routine check in connection with the gayings of two North Carolina highway patrolmen Tuesday night.

Kirksey had addresses in both Kannapolis, N.C., and Tampa, and was believed to be connected with a travelling show.

Two Collisions In City Reported For Wednesday

No charges were filed as a result of a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of Second and Evans Sts. early this morning.

Drivers involved were identified by police as Charles H. Forbes, 50, of 911 Gontache St. and Benjamin F. Vandiford, 22, of 106 B. St.

The accident occurred at 7:30. Yesterday afternoon two cars were involved in a crash on Dickinson Ave.

Police identified drivers as Edward Flake Elks, 19, of 2307 E. Third St. and Downing Henry Smith, 65, of 411 West Ave., Ayden.

Damage to each of the vehicles was estimated at $300.

Police charged Smith with failing to yield the right-of-way.

Officers C. E. Warren and J. H. Briley investigated.

Second Meet . . .

gram last night to tell the nation exactly where it stands, "regardless of how serious or unpleasant these facts may be."

They said "we cannot overstate the intense feeling expressed to us" by constituents they said are concerned over Russia's achievements in space.

Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) criticizing "the complacency and the confusion" he said about in the U.S. programs, also called on Eisenhower to "tell us exactly where we stand today and where we go from here." He spoke in Topeka, Kan.

Eisenhower meantime summoned congressional leaders of both parties to a meeting at the White House Dec. 3. He calls them in each year before a new session of Congress for discussions which heretofore have been limited to plans for foreign policy and national defense.

But this year's session has been expanded, apparently to go also into questions of government finance and tax policies, since key members of Senate and House appropriations and tax-writing committees have been invited.

As usual, Eisenhower has called in the key men on the armed services, joint atomic energy and foreign affairs committees, as well as the men holding positions of party power in both Senate and House.

The bipartisan get-together will be followed on Dec. 4 by a presidential huddle with Republican leaders alone. The strictly domestic program is expected to come in for a review then, with the customary presidential briefing on what he plans to put into the state of the union, economic and budget messages he will have for Congress in January.

Mercury Fell To 33 Degrees Here

The highest temperature in the Greenville area yesterday was 58 degrees.

Lowest last night was 33 (one degree above freezing).

A heavy frost covered the countryside last night and at 8 a.m. today the thermometer at the Greenville Utilities plant registered 35 degrees.

The sky was clear and a brisk north wind was blowing during today's forenoon.

DO SOMETHING!

BIDDEFORD, Maine (AP)—Desk Sgt. Robert Labelle received two calls at police headquarters from the same woman. Both told him about a bright object in the sky which turned out to be the planet Venus. On her second call, Labelle said, the woman demanded "what are you going to do about it?"
