Army Directed Enter Satellite Program; Big Rocket Near Ready

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense McElroy has ordered the Army into the American earth satellite program, with instructions to use the huge Jupiter-C test device the service has developed.

The order last night signalled a major switch in government policy. Up to now the U. S. program—designated Project Vanguard—has been an exclusive Navy project.

Some Army scientists have been claiming they could have launched a satellite long before Russia did if they had been given a chance. The defense department 3rd draft is 20.

McElroy's action came against a background of criticism of the Eisenhower administration because Russia beat the United States into space with two earth satellites.

There were reports the Army might be ready to go in less than six weeks, after some modifications of rocket equipment. McElroy said the Army would use its Jupiter-C test vehicle—a huge rocket it used more than a year ago in firing a test device more than 600 miles high and 3,500 miles distant.

R. Flake Shaw Is Stricken In Night

GREENSBORO (AP)—R. Flake Shaw, who as executive vice president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation saw that group grow from 1,700 member families to the present 54,000, died here last night. He was 68.

R. FLAKE SHAW

Shaw's business interests included farming, banking and insurance. He was president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Co., had been a member of the board of directors of the Bank of Greensboro since 1940 and served from 1946 to 1952 as a member of the district Federal Reserve Board.

A member of the national executive committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Shaw also was on its board of directors. He was elected to the national board in 1946 and in 1953 was elected to the national executive committee. As a committee member, he represented 13 Southern states.

Shaw started out with a small farm of sub-marginal land in Guilford County. Using a soil conservation program, he developed the farm into a Grade A dairy farm. In 1947 he was named a Master Farmer and Agricultural Man of the Year in North Carolina.

He recently had been named by Gov. Hodges to the State Tax Study Commission. Survivors include his wife, one son, five daughters and one step-daughter.

Kentucky Search Hopes Dwindling

GEORGETOWN, Ky. (AP)—A search in central Kentucky for the killer of two North Carolina highway patrolmen continued today but with little hope the gunman would be found.

After a futile farm-by-farm search, state police said they were prepared to withdraw their forces and already had taken down road blocks to the area.

One lead in the search of this vicinity was that an injured man tried to break into the home of Stewart White of Paint Lick on Thursday night. White said the man fled, holding his stomach, and left bloodstains on the porch.

Paint Lick is not far from the spot where officers found a stolen 1957 automobile wrecked against a telephone pole.

Seriously Hurt In Car Collision

Two elderly men were seriously injured when their cars collided at the intersection of N.C. 43 and U.S. 264 last night.

Pil W. E. Williams identified the injured as Butler Robinson, 65-year-old Negro of Greenville Rt. 5 and William David Daniel, 72, of Wilson Rt. 2.

Both men suffered concussions and Daniel also received broken ribs in the traffic accident.

Williams said that he had not been able to talk to either of the two men involved but Robinson apparently was traveling west on U.S. 264. It was not certain in what direction Daniel was traveling.

For Curriculum Study: $50,000

RALEIGH (AP)—How to bring Tar Heel public school instruction up to date in the satellite age will be studied by the State Board of Public Instruction.

A $50,000 grant from the Richardson Foundation, presented yesterday at a meeting of the board, will help finance the curriculum study.

Gov. Hodges predicted the study will mean "a great deal to the state," and said it will be the most comprehensive of its kind ever undertaken. One of the areas the study might cover, Hodges indicated, is the apparent shortage in the field of mathematics and science training.

The governor accepted the $50,000 check from Randolph Richardson, son of Smith Richardson of Greensboro and New York, who heads the Vick Chemical Co.

Student Legislature Is 'Shocking' To Cooley

RALEIGH (AP)—Rep. Harold Cooley (D-NC) today dressed down the State Student Legislature which brought up resolutions legalizing inter-racial marriages and prostitution.

"I am shocked by the action taken," Cooley told some 212 students gathered in the North Carolina capitol here for their annual mock legislature. "You are people."

The students, gathered from 21 white and Negro colleges in the state, yesterday gave their approval to make-believe legislation approving inter-racial marriages. The bill was sponsored by the Duke Woman's College.

"It seems to me a more constructive agenda could have been prepared," Cooley said. "I regret very much the actions taken by this assembly."

Promises 'All Money Needed'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Chavez (D-NM) said today Congress will provide all the money needed for missile development if President Eisenhower gives Dr. James R. Killian "the hock-nocking authority" to speed an all-out program.

Chavez said his Senate Appropriations subcommittee, which handles defense funds, will be eager to consider any spending proposals Killian may draft. Killian, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is Eisenhower's newly-named special assistant in charge of pushing American efforts to achieve weapons superiority in this dawn space era.

"In a time of national crisis such as this, Congress is not going to think about the budget. You can't figure national defense on a budgetary basis," Chavez said in an interview.

"But unless Dr. Killian has some head-knocking authority to put first things first, we're not going to be any better off than we have been in the past."

Cold Gales Chill Some Northern Sections

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Bone-chilling winds, churned by an intense storm over the Great Lakes, shriveled temperatures from the upper Mississippi Valley into the northern Appalachians today and brought heavy snows to some areas.

The fierce gusts—which reached hurricane force Friday night in Western New York—left at least two dead and 17 injured.

The Coast Guard estimated blasts up to 80 m.p.h. along the Lake Erie shores in New York state. Authorities said at least five persons were injured in the big blow.

In contrast to the blustery weather pattern the eastern seaboard had readings in the 60s and in the upper Great Lakes the mercury settled at the mid and lower 20s early today.

Exceptions to the fair weather pattern over the west were the eastern slopes of the Colorado mountains—where snow furries fell and the Pacific northwest.

CHAPTER 30 I sat by the fire a long time that evening after the others had gone to sleep, trying to think of some way out of this without forcing a battle. I thought everybody was asleep, but after a while Johnny Strong got up from where he'd been lying with his head on his saddle and squatted beside me at the fire.

"Better go to bed, Dave," he said. "You ain't finding no answer here."

"Thought maybe I would if I stayed here long enough," I said. "No, you won't," Johnny said. "But there's one thing you've got to do. We're like a rooster with his head chopped off; just flopping around. Come morning, you've got to start giving orders."

I looked at him in the firelight that flickered on his dark, bony face. I remembered he'd ridden for Rafter 3 years ago. He had the same tough, competent way about him that characterized the cowboys who rode for Vic Toll now. But there was a difference. He'd been gentled by a wife and baby, and I was sure that nobody would ever gentle Toll.

"I can't, Johnny," I said. "I'm only twenty years old. I can't tell me like you and Frank what to do."

"Yes, you can," Johnny said. "Remember the day your pa was killed and I told you that you had a lot of Joe Munro in you? That was seven months ago. You've got a lot more now than you had then. I've seen it grow, Dave."

I shook my head. "Give me ten years, Johnny."

"You haven't got ten years, you haven't got ten days. I ain't sure you've even got ten hours! This is now, Dave. Cut off the head of a snake and he ain't gonna do you no hurt. That's the way it is with Rafter 3."

"You want me to jump Toll?" I asked.

"No, he'll kill you. He'll kill any of us. I've seen him draw a gun. Frank Dance is as strong as a stud horse, but Toll would murder him. That's what he wants, Dave. He'll try to bait us into doing the wrong thing."

"I guess I'm just not bright enough to see what you're driving at," I said.

Enthusiasm Greet's Yule Workshop

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor
Many women in Greenville are now quite busy making gay, festive Christmas decorations for their home which will give each room a special holiday appearance.

At yesterday's Christmas workshop held at the Woman's Club Mrs. Cammie Moore Tillet discussed ceramics for Christmas. Mrs. L. A. Stroud gave tips on making holiday candles, and Mrs. Tige Gardner displayed unusual Christmas decorations she has made.

Approximately 35 members of the Woman's Club and guests attended this workshop sponsored by the Home Department of the Greenville Woman's Club and were greeted by Mrs. Jasper Tripp, chairman of the department.

"Anyone old enough to keep clay out of their mouths and young enough to see can do ceramics," said Mrs. Tillet of Washington, N. C., a native of Greenville.

"Many doctors recommend ceramics as therapeutic hobbies," explained Mrs. Tillet. During her discussion she pointed out the basic steps necessary to create ceramics, illustrating her talk by displaying some of her own work—a quaint Nativity scene, a complete choir with chorus and pipe organ, madonnas, vases, ash trays, lamps and figurines.

Candlemaking
"Put newspapers all around your stove and cover stove with papers as close to the burner as possible before you begin making candles," warned Mrs. Stroud.

Addressing the group, she told each step that is necessary in order to make smooth, clear candles. "One thing about candles, if you get them wrong the first time, you can melt them and start again," she noted.

Important factors Mrs. Stroud mentioned were, "Never melt wax over direct flame . . . have wax the barest tint of color desired . . . always get all the old wax out of the containers or pouring jar . . . be sure the inside of the mold is completely free from defects as rough edges will tear your candles . . . and be sure to grease the inside of your molds in order that the candles will come out easily."

She concluded her demonstration by showing her collection of decorative candles and explaining the various items that can be used to "dress up candles for the holiday season."

Individual Air
Mrs. Tige Gardner exhibited a few of her Christmas arrangements to the group, telling how each was made. A highlight of her talk was a demonstration for making a Santa Claus from an apple, snow flakes, and stars.

Mrs. M. W. Maxwell, program chairman, presented the program and introduced the speakers.
Doot prizes of two Madonnas and a gold star were won by Mrs. J. C. Galloway Sr., Mrs. Tige Gardner, and Mrs. S. E. West.

Proceeding the program the hostesses served hot spiced tea, assorted cookies and nuts in the Sally Southall parlor from a table covered with a lace cloth and centered with a cornucopia filled with fruits, vegetables, and berries.

Throughout the club were arrangements of berries and fall flowers.
Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. H. H. Bryant, Mrs. E. W. Bannhill, Mrs. J. R. Johnson, Mrs. S. E. West, Mrs. J. A. Clark, Mrs. C. C. Hilton, and Mrs. W. R. Smith.

"Pitt County will produce the greatest sweet potato crop in history this year," stated E. F. Arnold, director of Pitt County Department of Agriculture, discussing the large crop which some of the prominent farmers have raised. William McArthur, of the Bell Arthur community, no doubt has harvested the biggest of potatoes of any farmer in the county. He planted six acres and got around 300 bushels to the acre. He has a 1000 bushel storage house. This has already been filled to capacity. The remainder of the crop will be shipped immediately. Haywood Dail, who shipped a carload of potatoes to New York a few days ago, says the best way to handle potatoes is to sell them as soon as you dig them. If there is any loss it will be realized by the man at the other end of the line.

From Junius H. Rose High French Influence Being Felt At Rose High

By MARTHA PIERCE
Reflector Teen Writer
"Sans Famille," a French novel of an orphan boy who is sold to a traveling show, is being translated into English and illustrated by Mrs. Howard Mims' French 2 class.

Character dolls have been dressed by some of the students to represent the characters of the story. A miniature cottage and the bizarre appearance of Vitalis, dressed in a sheepskin vest and high felt hat, are two contributions made by the students which are on display in room 107.

As the story progresses bulletin board chairmen will keep the display up - to - date. Lillian Moye and Martha Moye are chairmen of the bulletin board this marking period. Some of the other contributors to the French scene are Carol Tadlock, Ginger Lang, Ruth Young, Betsy Whedbee and Katherine Oaks.

Collections made by various clubs for UNICEF from November 4-6 totaled $219.30. This money will be sent to the United Nations Building in New York City for "all the world's children."

Each room in the colored and white schools of the city had a part in collecting this money. Other organizations which contributed were the Pilots Club, Sycamore Hill Baptist Church, Selvia Chapel, and the Methodist young people in Jarvis Memorial Church.

People desiring to contribute to UNICEF should send a check to Mrs. James E. Phelps, 1505 East 6th Street.

"I want to thank everybody who helped make UNICEF a success—particularly Mr. Junius Rose who let us collect through the schools when the big night had to be called off due to rain and the flu epidemic.

Tardy, But On The Right Track

The "too little, too late" connotation cannot be accurately applied to the missile and satellite development program of the United States although even the President has frankly told the American people some phases of our scientific program is tardy compared with that of Russia.

President Eisenhower's appointment of a chief of the nation's scientific development program should pave the way for more rapid accomplishments in this field. Such a step would have been beneficial to the nation had it been taken a few years earlier; but the administration apparently didn't see the need. We think now the President recognizes the shortcomings of our development program. We trust that this recognition on the part of the President will assure that his scientific expediter will have sufficient power to streamline the program, eliminate duplication of effort by various branches of the armed forces, and accelerate the overall strategic scientific advancements.

If he is not afforded this necessary power, or if in exercising it he is entangled in inter-agency politics, the desired goal cannot be reached.

The American people as well as high officials must recognize the fact that Russia may lead us in some fields of scientific development. This recognition, however, should be the impetus for regaining superiority in all scientific fields. It must not become a stumbling block to our efforts or undermine our confidence in our own ability. Tardy as it is in the effort to accelerate our scientific development program, the administration has now made a beginning. The goal can be realized if there is within the administration sufficient determination to follow through with the program which so far has only been vaguely outlined.

The Expensive Side Of That Missile Race

Army experts who complained they could have raised a satellite in short order—after the task was assigned another service—have their chance to make good. Yesterday's directive by the Secretary of Defense makes it possible.

They will adapt a military rocket for the job, presumably Jupiter C. If all goes well, we could be shouting about a made-in-America satellite within two months.

Other than demonstrating the U. S. could have matched Soviet science in this particular field had there been an announced "race", we see little real value in this hurry-up effort.

A missile especially designed for the Geophysical Year was in the making... a lighter, smaller affair than the costly military rocket. Military rockets are expensive.

Fire them once, and they're gone. Imagine burning up one million dollars in a matter of minutes.

According to Bennett H. Horcheler, publishing director of the trade magazine Aeronautical Purchasing News, the cost of individual rockets is purely fabulous.

For instance, he priced the Snark and Redstone at $1,000,000 each; the Corporal above $100,000; the Atlas (in the same general class as Jupiter) at more than $4,000,000.

Even the smaller rockets run into big money. Sidewinder, for instance, carries an estimated $4,000 price tag; Falcon, $9,000; Nike I, $20,000; Sparrow III, $40,000.

No wonder the outlook is for no income tax reduction next year, and probably for years ahead.

Collectors And Stamp 'Racket'

By ELMER ROESSNER
Some day when it has nothing better to do, the Better Business Bureau ought to look into a neat racket operated by the United States Government.

It is the insurance of "commemorative" postage stamps. It is, of course, a racket that stamp collectors have brought upon themselves, abetted by dealers who, no less than the government, profit therefrom.

Collectors have applied special value to bits of paper that may be used as postage. Again edged on by dealers, they have pyramided those imaginary values when the postal chits are on "the first day covers," or when they exist in "blocks of four," or in "plate numbers" attached or in "mint sheets." Lately there has been some interest in "blocks of nine," with plate numbers of course.

A MASS MADNESS

If you want to know what any of those terms mean, ask any stamp collector. Do it by phone so you can hang up when your ear burns out. If you do it face to face you may never get away and end up by hoarding African triangles yourself.

This is a free country and, as long as he does not infringe on the rights of others, a man may be as nutty as he chooses, collecting stamps, cigar bands, early American furniture and other garbage.

But the Government, it seems, is taking advantage of the aberrations of collectors of stamps and baiting them with constantly new issues.

The Government is taking advantage of an addiction. The Government has the right to manufacture stamps for the payment of postage. That's implicit in the Constitution. But Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield and his Democratic predecessors have had no right to run a racket by taking stamp collectors, many under the age of consent, for all their spare change.

SOME ARE PRETTY

About 20 times a year the Post Office brings out "commemorative" issues that are good for postage and, in truth, are sometimes so used. But the payoff is from people who buy them for collections. The Government thereby collects payment for services it does not give.

If you or I did that, we'd be in jail. Brother Summerfield, at this moment, is a free man with no troubles with the Better Business Bureau, the Federal Trade Commission or the local rackets squad.

Some of these stamps are pretty. Some give off a patriotic glow. But — artistically — most of them stink.

Last year's Prothonor Antelope stamp showed three, almost indistinguishable, ruminants looking as if they were trying to find a salt lick. The Armed Forces Reserve stamp, no memorial to Little Rock, showed four men lined up looking rather dumb. Newspaper photographers have been fired for bringing in pictures like that. When it came to honoring Book-er T. Washington, the Post Office did not have the courage to put a picture of a Negro on a stamp and used a picture of the log cabin in which he was born. It even did things up with a picture of Wheatland, the home of President Buchanan, a white.

But, bad as these and other designs may have been, they have succeeded in separating collectors for thousands of dollars that might have been spent for beer or given to the church.

PROPAGANDA, PERHAPS?

Some commemorative stamps may be defended on grounds that they are good pro-American propaganda abroad. Perhaps. But a U. S. propagandist offered some commemoratives to a Southeast Asian collector.

"Sorry," said the collector. "Not interested. I can't keep up with the U. S. Post Office."

Like other rackets, this has spoiled other gimmicks. Many Congressmen push proposals for new commemorative stamps solely because of votes they will attract back home. And industries and companies use the power of their lobbies to get favorable themes on stamps. If you can believe the boys on Madison Avenue, as much as $50,000 has been spent to get an industry or product "recognized" on stamps.

can be sure the more outstanding the promise of your son or daughter, the more is the responsibility laid on you to handle such a child with understanding and care. This does not mean coddling. Of all the devices Satan has thought up to ruin a life, coddling of an individual in childhood is probably the worst. But what is meant by care and understanding, particularly in the handling of a gifted child, is that the minds and souls of human beings are very sensitive for the first twenty years or so and that life is usually made or unmade for better or worse during that time. Get to know that gifted child. Sympathize with the thing that constitutes his or her particular gift. Great gifts make life cumbersome. The bigger the liner, the more tugs it takes to get it into dock.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
TUGS AND THE LINER
A great ocean liner was out in the middle of the Hudson River preparatory to going into dock. I watched with fascination the way the tugs gathered about her. For the first time I realized how helpless and inadequate these beautiful big liners are under certain circumstances. More particularly, I was brought to the conclusion that the bigger the liner, the more tugs it takes to get her into dock. Will you permit me to liken this liner to a certain special type of human life, namely, the highly gifted person in general but particularly to the highly gifted boy or girl who may be your particular responsibility. I shall try to express briefly what I want to say by remarking that just as it takes many tugs to bring a big liner to dock, so you

Sickbed Compensations

I had forgotten, through the years, what it was like to be sick. As a matter of fact, I have to honestly wonder if I had ever really known before this week. I don't believe I did.

The last time I had found my way into a sickbed for any length of time was 15 years ago, when I left a fourth-grade classroom to join ten other members of my family who had mumps. I've forgotten how long we were out of action, but I do recall that my mother was the only healthy one in the family and that daddy was in bed with the rest of us.

Such an occasion as multiple cases (really an epidemic) of mumps doesn't leave much time for self-indulgence or indulgence by anyone else. It was simply a case of get well as quickly as you could so you could move into one of the uncrowded rooms in the house.

I had some visions of a similar epidemic, on a smaller scale, taking hold of our little family. Wee Wee collapsed a week ago, with the most extreme result being a request to be put to bed. He recovered, however, after a day of lounging.

My Fair Gwen took the bug the next day, diminishing her joy in life to such an extent that we invited a doctor to join our close-knit domestic group. He accepted the invitation, in the middle of the night, and I thought the only thing I could do to express my personal appreciation for his inconvenience was to get ill while he was in the house tending to My Fair Gwen.

So, I did. And he hasn't turned me loose yet.

There are, however, certain compensations for spending nearly a week in bed.

For instance, from my second-floor bedroom window I have been able to look across neighboring roof tops at the seasonal changes in the trees along the river's edge. They are especially pretty in the late-afternoon when the long rays of the sun are coming from behind me and striking the trees at an angle.

I have also had a chance to devote a week's study to the art of road-building and to wonder at the power of the machines used in such work. There has also been a chance to re-acquaint myself with house-building techniques, something I had not thought of since I lost my job with a construction company in 1950, and I watched some men unload bricks from a truck (and was glad I didn't have to help them).

Not all of the moments in bed were inspiring, of course, but the pleasant moments are the ones I prefer to remember.

After all, who would louse up memories of laying out of work for a week with nasty old thoughts of illness?

I don't get sick that often.

Other Editors Saying--- Union For Automation

(St. Petersburg Times)
A legitimate complaint made by some industrial managers has been that certain labor unions have fought modern automation, to the detriment of both management and workers. In a complex world where almost no industry is without some form of competition, the consequence sometimes has been that some industries — soft coal is a conspicuous example — have lost huge amounts of business.

It is refreshing, therefore, to find a labor leader propose not only that his union accept automation, but appropriate a large fund to further it within his craft. That's what's happened in Chicago, where the Amalgamated Lithographers of America is holding its convention. The president of Local 1 — New York — is urging that there be set up a joint union-management fund of $2 million to promote automation in lithography.

Lithography, incidentally, is a printing process whereby the printing plate does not touch the paper directly, but transfers the image to a rubber roller which then comes into contact with the paper. It is an enormous industry, sales being estimated at over $1 billion annually.

Generally speaking, unions in the printing industry have been slow to accept — when they have not actively resisted — modernized printing methods. For example, when the linotype was introduced, old-time printers were certain that it would throw them all out of work. Of course what happened was that printing expanded so greatly that several times as many jobs as before were made available.

That's just what the Lithographers' Union leaders are counting on now. They believe that the present level of business can be doubled, by adoption of advanced processes. Even though production per man will be greatly increased, such a jump in total volume will provide many more jobs. Other unions should keep a close eye on the lithographers. They might learn something greatly to their advantage.

NO 'AVERAGE WOMAN' AND THAT'S THE PROBLEM (San Antonio Express)

Ralph Waldo Emerson, a deep thinker, once thought: "Civilization will eventually choke on its own efficiency." The day may have arrived. The National Manpower Council has tackled the varied problems of working women... particularly the mothers amongst them. Council counselors were on the verge of ending it all before it was all over. Too many problems!

Already, women comprise a third of the total labor force in America. And labor is campaigning for a four-day work week, which means more workers will have to be found somewhere, even with automation. Manpower Council looked cold statistics in the face and shuddered: Five million more women in the labor force by 1965!

What makes the problem so difficult is this: There ain't no such animal as the "average woman." It might be easier to give it back to the Indians and start over from scratch!

Virtual 'City' Afloat

By ELTON C. FAY
The Captain and executive officer of the 60,000-ton USS Forrestal are administrators of the biggest, busiest and noisiest "city" afloat.

Almost 4,000 men live and work in this sea-going city. Everything for living, entirely cut off from land, is at hand on the supercarrier... stores which sell everything from cashmere sweaters and jewelry to soap and cigarettes... laundries... a tailor shop... a library... church services of all faiths... a dozen different movies every night.

Meet the Mayor
On this ship, the men responsible—the "mayor" and his principal aide—are Capt. Richard L. Kibbe, native of Sullivan, Ill., and his executive, Cmdr. George C. Duncan of Arlington, Va.

The captain almost never leaves the area of the bridge while the Forrestal is at sea. The "exec" divides his time between the bridge and the multitude of big and little problems of "Forestal City."

All hands—the officers and the men—live at sea in a constant world of clamor, of noise and hurrying that would mean sleeplessness for any but those hardened to the life.

Except for the Forrestal's experienced crew and airmen, a night operation is a nightmare. Elevators rumble up to the flight deck, carrying aircraft. The night is pitch black until the eye adjusts and can detect black shapes moving about against a blacker background.

Here and there the glowing red eye of an electric torch flashes briefly. Air crews come topside, swathed in immersion suits, helmeted, life jackets buckled on, carrying notebook knee pads. The climb up into cockpits.

From high aloft, the "bullhorn" bellows commands into the dark.

Jet engines start. They whine first, then scream as the planes taxi to position over the steam-powered launching catapults.

No Mistakes
Flight deck men, with the eyes and nimbleness of cats, scurry in the black night, dodging jet blasts, crawling under fuselages, hooking up the plane to the catapult.

Up near the top of the "island" structure, the men in the control room watch, give the signal.

The minute for launching is at hand. Down on the right hand side of the waiting jet an officer waves an electrically illuminated wand in a tight circle, telling the pilot to run up his engine to full power. The jet's scream grows deafening. The aircraft, still held in leash, shakes even the stout steel flight deck. Hot, blue flame streaks from the tailpipe. Suddenly, the officer crouches, points his hand to the end of the flight deck. The catapult snaps the multi-ton plane into flying speed in three hundred feet or less, hurling it out beyond the end of the deck. Almost instantly, the aircraft flashes from sight into the night. And another follows hard on its heels. The missions is off.

Opinions In Brief

"Under the free enterprise system there are always interests which are opposed to innovations in their own sphere. The canal operators opposed the opening of early railroad routes, but invention can't be held back to anybody's investment. The people will determine whether pay-as-you-see TV is worth the price."—Chicago Daily News.

"Speech authorities today commonly agree that conversation as an art is fast losing the popularity it once knew. Some of the blame is laid at television's door. Others accuse our busy modern-way of life. But the real tragedy is not that we talk less but the quality of our conversation has suffered."—The Clay County (Ga.) News Record.

"We've noticed a trend in the thinking of the American people since the war. 'Let George Do It' is becoming a more and more popular attitude. Perhaps we should return to the old-time policy of hell-raising every time we see a crooked politician or a bad deal. Maybe hell-raising isn't polite, but it is effective. And as American, at least that's what the men at Bunker Hill thought and they seem to have accomplished quite a lot."—London, Ohio, Madison Press.

"History makes it tragically clear that punishing the press for publishing facts is fatal to a nation's freedom. Aware of this, the framers of the first ten amendments to the U. S. Constitution provided that 'Congress shall make no law... abridging the freedom of speech or of the press.' And this principle has precedence as the first article of our Bill of Rights—not to favor the press but to perpetuate our people's freedom to be informed."—Coatesville, Pa., Record.

Foul-Up On Accepting Of Gifts

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — "What is the Washington opinion of all the fuss over Diplomat Purse's acceptance for his wife of a $3,000 car from King Saud?" inquires Mrs. L.A. of Charleston, S.C.

Answer: There is no settled opinion. Personally, I think that it is a foolish fuss and a waste of official and unofficial energy. Moreover, it is an example of typical hypocrisy among both the defenders and critics of the former Assistant Chief of Protocol.

Although I do not think that the Purse should have accepted such an expensive souvenir, I see no reason why he should be attacked in view of the many perquisites which his official betters—and some of his critics—have enjoyed.

IKE'S VALUABLE, PRACTICAL PRESENTS It is estimated, for instance, that President Eisenhower has received valuable and practical gifts—cattle, farm machinery, home decorations, trees, shrubbery, etc., for his Gettysburg farm.

I have visited the homes of numerous military commanders who benefitted in a similar but smaller way. They showed me silver sets, Delft and Meissen ware, antique pieces, costly decorations, swords, sashes and many other useful or ornamental things which had been bestowed upon them by grateful Europeans. They never asked permission from Congress to receive them, as the law requires.

THAT LAW AGAINST ACCEPTANCE OF GIFTS Congress passed the law against acceptance of such gifts and honors when it was fearful that diplomats, lawmakers and politicians would be influenced to the nation's detriment by foreign generosity. That seems like a silly suspicion today because no single individual, with the possible exception of the President, can alter a major policy in the field of foreign affairs. Publicity would expose such a venal person.

However, a fair and logical solution seems to be to permit acceptance of gifts, regardless of their value, or to prohibit them entirely, the present indefinite and twilight code, viewed from either a moral or political standpoint, is entirely unsatisfactory.

Finally, and few seem to have given any thought to this aspect of the question, the foreign giver should show both good sense and good taste, as King Saud did not. He or she should limit the size and nature of his or her gift so that it would provide no embarrassment to the recipient.

I think that Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, as well as President and Mrs. Eisenhower, showed great restraint and delicacy in their recent exchange of souvenirs.

CONCERNING DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES "Are there any Democrat candidates for the 1960 Presidential nomination," asks F.T. of Houston, Tex., "who have not committed themselves to all-out support of the Civil Rights program in its extreme form? Do all of them approve Ike's use of troops at Little Rock?"

Answer: In my opinion, all the principal and most likely possibilities are pro-Civil Rights extremists, and do think that the President was justified in calling out the Army and National Guard.

The only possible moderates, and this is my belief, are Senators Stuart Symington of Missouri, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Senator Frank J. Lausche of Ohio. But none is as likely a selection as the more liberal entries. And if they felt differently, in view of Northern politicians' sentiment, they would have almost no chance for the nomination. The liberal faction aims to—and probably will—run and rule the 1960 convention.

Farmville Whips Beaufort In District Playoff, 0-0

FARMVILLE — Farmville high school's Red Devils won the Class A district two championship last night, whipping Beaufort in a downpour. The score was 0-0.

Neither team managed to score and Farmville was declared the winner by beating the visitors in the yardage gained department.

Red Springs defeated Kenan, 7-0, at Warsaw last night and will battle Farmville next Friday night in the second round of the elimination. The site of the contest has not yet been determined.

In the first half of the Farmville-Beaufort tilt, the Red Devils made 80 yards to 33 for Beaufort. The advantage continued in the second period, with the home team making a total of 129 yards to 97.

Penalties also played an important part in the totals. Farmville was penalized 10 yards, while Beaufort was chastized for 75.

The closest either team came to a touchdown was in the final seconds of the first half when Farmville drove to the Beaufort three-yard line but was stopped by the clock on second down. Irving Allen, Devil halfback, reeled off a 25-yard run to take his club to that point and fumbled with nobody between him and the goal. He pounced on the ball to save it, but forfeited the score. Time ran out before the Devils could pound over.

Neither team was able to do anything in the air. Six passes were thrown without a completion. Two were intercepted.

The Farmville line turned in an excellent defensive performance. It was made up by Richard Joyner, Charles Walston, James Bundy, Troy Dall, Johnny Thorne, Ralph Cash, Burnie Rivenbark, and Jerry Weisner.

Allen was the outstanding Farmville runner for the night, gaining most of the winning team's yardage. The rest of the backfield was composed of Sonny Mail, Horace Cobbett and Johnny Dixon.

Farmville will go into the Red Springs contest with a 6-2 record for the season. Beaufort finished with a 6-3-1 mark.

The game was played in a constant downpour and "only one period was played "dry." At one time, the rain increased to such intensity that the crowd moved back away from the field into the baseball stands and only three or four spectators and the official scorers were watching the game.

Salisbury Tops Gastonia 37-14

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two years ago Salisbury and Gastonia were tied for the Western Class AAA high school football title and the Yellow Jackets defeated the Green Wave in a playoff game for the championship.

It wasn't like that last night in Gastonia. Salisbury drubbed the Green Wave 37-14 but the Jackets already had the title safely tucked away.

The other results saw Greensboro stop Burlington 12-0 and Winston-Salem Reynolds overpower High Point 26-12. Two other games scheduled last night were postponed until tonight. They were Asheville and Canton and the traditional Charlotte Central-Charlotte Harding battle, which was held off because of rain.

After tonight's games, only two more remain. These have Charlotte at Burlington and Asheville at Gastonia.

Salisbury thus finished its season with an 8-1 record, the only loss coming 26-20 from Wilmington of the Eastern Conference. State playoffs tentatively are scheduled in Salisbury Nov. 29.

Salisbury was to have played the winner of last night's Fayetteville-Wilmington game in the Eastern Conference. That one ended in a 7-7 tie and the two likely will meet in a playoff game.

Busy Week For Tech Center Don Stephenson

This was a very busy week for Don Stephenson, Georgia Tech's football captain and star center. He and his wife Karen point happily to their son Keith who was born in an Atlanta hospital Nov. 5. Nurse Virginia Ansley holds the baby. Next day Don was named Associated Press Lineman of the Week for his playing in Tech's 13-0 victory over Duke Nov. 2. In the meantime, he was getting ready to leave with his team for Knoxville to play Tennessee Nov. 9. In 1956 Don also was named AP Lineman of the Week after Tech beat Duke 7-0. (AP Wirephoto).

Greenville Game Postponed; To Be Played Monday

ROANOKE RAPIDS — The Greenville-Roanoke Rapids North-eastern Conference football game scheduled for last night was drowned out by rain and postponed until Monday night.

The Phantoms will return to finish off their Conference season here Monday night and will then battle an un-named opponent Friday night. Coach Bud Phillips stated today that "we are still looking for a game—a home game—and hope to have one lined up by then."

Last night's tilt was the third straight that has been called off for GHS. Three weeks ago, the Fuquay-Springs contest was cancelled due to flu and last week's Wilson was called off for the same reason.

Coach Phillips stated that the reason for the postponement last night was that "both teams have several boys who are sick or on the verge of being sick and we didn't feel that we could put them on a wet field to play in the rain." Water was standing on top of the field at 7:00.

Game time, Monday night, is set for 8:00 and will be counted as a regular loop game.

The Phantoms worked out this morning, stressing offense and dabbled a bit in defense. The workout was a light one.

Expected to pace the Phantoms against the Yellow Jackets Monday are Mack Roebuck, Charles Roberts, Robert Howell and Robin Wilfong in the backfield. In the line, starters will be Steve Noble and Billy Cox at ends Kelly Barnhill and Godfrey Oakley at tackles; Billy Brown and Wilbur Owens at guards; Albert Crawford at center.

Greenville has had only one week's drill in the past three weeks, due to the flu epidemic.

Going into the game, Roanoke Rapids will have a 1-6-1 record and Greenville will bring a 2-8 mark.

Eliminations Start In High School Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Playoffs in three of the four North Carolina high school football classifications started last night.

In Class A, Erwin stopped Millbrook 14-0; Beaufort and Farmville played to a 0-0 tie but Farmville won the District 2 title by gaining the most yardage; Red Springs defeated Kenan 7-0 at Warsaw. Guilford at Mebane was postponed to tonight as was the Jonesville at Madison game. Marshall defeated Robbinsville 7-0 at Marshall.

Class A games unreported were Edenton-Weldon at Ahoskie and the Stanley-Rockwell game.

The Class AA-C game at Swansboro was between Wallace and Morehead City and was unreported.

In the six-man playoffs, Elm City defeated Boone Trail 33-21 and Aberdeen overpowered Courtnay 49-7.

Salisbury previously won the Class AAA Western Conference title. Fayetteville and Wilmington, tied for the lead in the Eastern AAA race, played to a 7-7 tie last night and likely will have a playoff.

Eppes, Oxford Deadlock, 6-6

Eppes and Oxford battled to a 6-6 tie here last night, playing in a hard rain.

Fullback James Harris broke away for a 70-yard touchdown run in the first half, to get Eppes' tally. Calvin Gatlin caught a pass for the extra point but it was nullified due to an offside penalty.

They tied at halftime, 6-0.

With a minute and a half left in play, an Oxford pass play that covered 60 yards tied the game. The point attempt was missed.

Eppes goes to Dillard (Greensboro) next Friday night to finish its 1957 season.

SC Race Slows Down To Wait For VMI Club

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Southern Conference football race today continues its marking-time phase until Virginia Military Institute's Keydets return to family feuding and either go boom or bust in their bid to beat West Virginia out of the circuit championship.

And it could be another 19 days before the Mountaineers, still finished with a 3-0 league record, find out whether they win their fifth consecutive conference title.

VMI has a date next Saturday night with The Citadel and a Thanksgiving Day engagement with Virginia Tech.

Today's only conference action sent George Washington (1-4 in circuit play) to Richmond (0-3) for the Spiders' homecoming game. Both teams carried 2-5 over-all records into the contest.

VMI, with only a tie to mar its seven starts, was at unbeaten and untied Leigh in a bid either to hold or improve its No. 29 ranking in the latest national poll. The Keydets are 4-0 in league play.

Two conference teams went against foes from the neighboring Atlantic Coast Conference, Virginia Tech at Wake Forest and William and Mary at North Carolina State. The Southern hoped for a split.

West Virginia, which boasts only a 1-2-1 record against nonconference opposition, appeared in for another tough Saturday at Pitt, especially with star guard Chuck Howley out of action with a fractured cheekbone.

Two teams took on tough small college opponents. The Citadel being favored over Presbyterian but Davidson a definite underdog against Wofford, which already holds victories over The Citadel and Furman, among others.

Prestige Will Be Important In ACC Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Prestige was a major factor in Atlantic Coast Conference football games today and Duke and North Carolina State had the most at stake.

N.C. State, the Nation's 10th ranked team, drew the highest of the two assignments in William and Mary. Duke, which saw its national ranking drop from seventh to 16th after last week's loss to Georgia Tech, faced Navy, the seventh ranked team, in Baltimore.

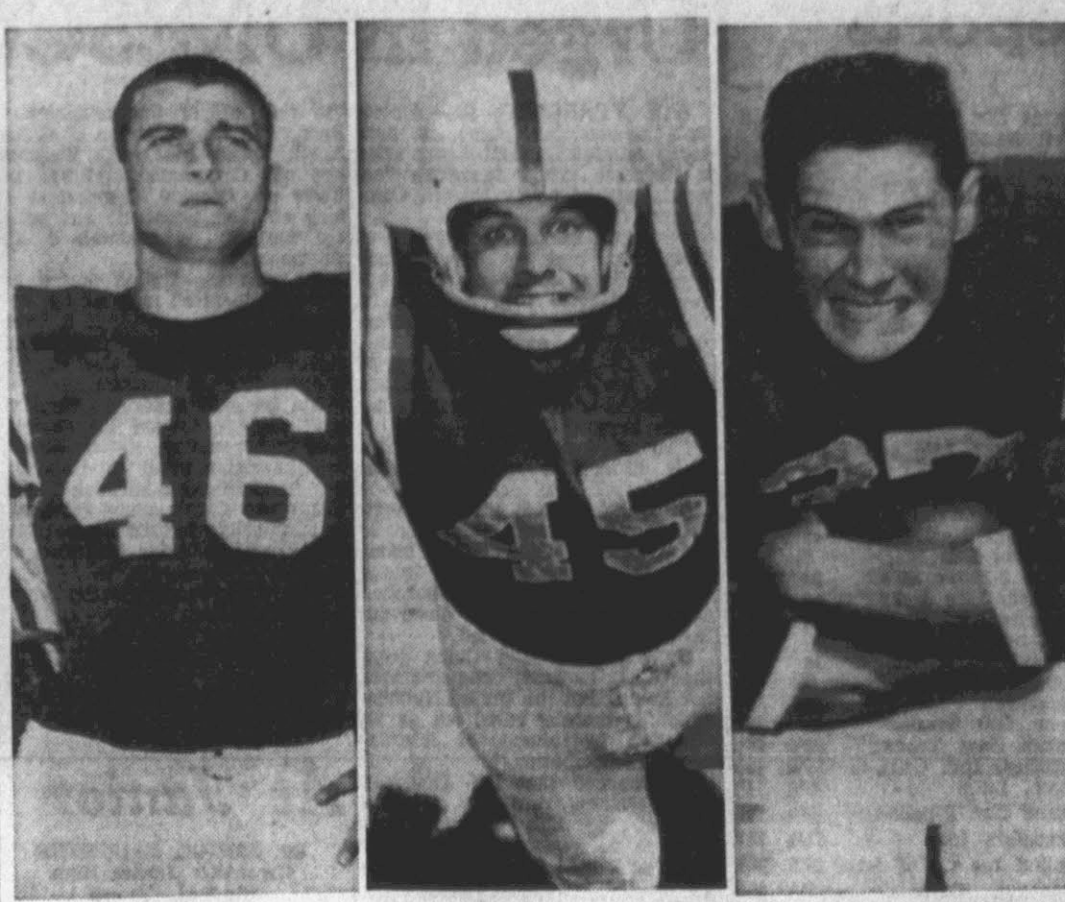

Maryland, the ACC's third place team at 3-2, invaded Clemson, tied for fourth with North Carolina at 2-2, while the Tar Heels played host to South Carolina, 0-3 and tied for last with Wake Forest. This one was televised regionally on 20 stations from Baltimore to Miami.

The Deacons, 0-5 in the conference and 0-6 for the season, aimed for their first victory of the season against VPI. The eighth ACC member, Virginia, had an open date.

On the face of it, the Duke-Navy affair looked like a toss-up. Both boasted equal average weights in the line (207) but the Middle backfield was expected to start with two of its regulars still sidelined with injuries. These were Ned Oldham and Dick Davenport. However, Coach Eddie Erdelatz had capable replacements in Ray Wellborn and Ronnie Brence. Wellborn scored Navy's three touchdowns in the Middies 20-6 thumping of Notre Dame last week.

Duke's backfield hasn't moved well in two weeks and was completely bottled up by the Yellow Jackets last week. Coach Bill Murray has more good backs than he knows what to do with, featuring Wray Carlton, boomed as the best runner at Duke since the famous Clarence (Ace) Parker.

William and Mary entered the game without its starting quarterback, Tom Secules, but the rest of the team was in good shape.

Mustang-Aggies Ballgame Ranks Tops This Weekend

By JACK HAND

The Associated Press

Underdog Southern Methodist hopes to upset the Texas Aggies, the nation's No. 1 team—in the top college football game tonight as the end of the 1957 season nears.

This game at College Station, Tex., follows an afternoon marked by the renewal of many traditional games such as the 50th Harvard-Princeton clash.

The Miami Hurricanes opened the weekend of gridiron activities with a 40-13 trouncing of Florida State last night at Tallahassee.

The passing of Fran Curci, a 142-pound mite at quarterback, and the power running of Byron Blasko and Joe Plevel sparked Miami's win.

Fresh from their surprise win over Texas a week ago, the Southern Methodist Mustangs are eager to knock the unbeaten Aggies from their lofty perch and also jumble the Southwestern Conference race.

Nevertheless, the Aggies are favored to win by at least 10 points.

Oklahoma and Auburn, the nation's No. 2 and No. 3 ranked teams, also were expected to win by 10 points. Others of the Associated Press top-10 ranked teams likewise were favored, although some, like Iowa, Ohio State, Navy and Tennessee were expected to have tight battles.

Oklahoma tried for its 47th straight victory in a Big Eight title game with an up-and-coming Missouri team that bettered the Sooners' victory margin over Colorado. Auburn hoped to march toward the Southeastern Conference crown with its 7th straight at the expense of once-beaten Mississippi State.

In most sections the accent was heavy on regional conference championships and the glory of beating a time-honored rival. Inter-sectional team tests were the exception, rather than the rule.

Michigan State, still a factor in the Western Conference, ventured outside its league for a game with Notre Dame, which was knocked from the ranks of the unbeaten last week by Navy.

Ohio State's path toward the Rose Bowl was blocked by Purdue. Iowa's chances of repeating as Western Conference kings hinged on its game with Minnesota.

Oregon had a chance to wrap up the Pacific Coast Conference Rose Bowl bid by beating the Washington Huskies.

Princeton, now Ivy League leader, must beat Harvard to stay up there with two more rugged games coming up—Yale and Dartmouth.

Lenoir Rhyne and Elon are tied for first with 3-0 records, although Elon, which plays host to strong Newberry tonight, has been idle the past two Saturday because of flu.

One afternoon game was set today. Appalachian's invasion of Guilford. Catawba had an open date and the Western Carolina-Emory and Henry tilt was called off because of flu on the Catawba side. It was the second week running Western Carolina has had to call off a game.

Whether Elon's two-week layoff would hurt the Christians' chances of remaining unbeaten remained to be seen. Newberry has won its last four games and held The Citadel of the Southern Conference to a 0-0 tie in the season's opener.

The strong Lenoir Rhyne attack features fullback Harold Bullard plus the development of Bill Ackard and Ronnie Hoffman as runners. ECC has lost seven straight.

Game Ends ECC Home Schedule For 1957 Season

A near-capacity crowd is expected to be on hand at ECC Stadium tonight to witness the last home game of the Pirates against nationally seventh-ranked Lenoir Rhyne.

The Bears come in Greenville rated solid five-touchdown favorites over the winless Bucs in a regular North State Conference tilt.

Undefeated in the conference since 1954, the Bears will bring a strong single-wing attack against the Pirates, led by fullback Harold Bullard. A Rockingham native, Bullard has reaped All-Conference, All-State, and Little All-America honors at Lenoir Rhyne, and has been the loop's leading scorer and ground-gainer for the past two seasons.

Ronnie Huffman and Bill Ackard, both high scorers in their own right, will run with Bullard in Coach Clarence Stastovich's backfield. Danny Williams will man the blocking back position.

The Bears have a large line, averaging a shade above the 290 mark and it has been the forward wall that has accounted for most of the Lenoir Rhyne success this season, according to reports from the Bear camp. Defensively, the Bears are stronger than they are offensively. Statistics show that the LR forward wall has allowed only one touchdown this year since the season's opener.

Lenoir Rhyne has a 6-1-1 record. The Bears' only loss came in the opener against Wofford, the nationally-ranked number one club in the nation by NAIA statistics.

ECC will be making a final bid in North State play to capture a victory this year, and will be looking for an upset, although odds-makers give them little chance. The Pirates have lost their past 11 games—a streak that extends four games back into the 1956 season.

Facing the Bucs tonight will be Ralph Zehring at quarterback; James Speight and Tommy Nash at halfbacks; Joe Holmes at fullback. Howard Beale and Bill Cain (or Tommy Jones) will be the ends; James Faircloth and Charlie Cook will man the tackle slots; guards will be Ed Emory and Kenny Burgess; Lynn Barnett will be the center.

Tonight's contest will be the final home game for six ECC seniors. They are Ken Burgess, Dick Mondas, Carlton Matthews, Jerry Brooks, James Faircloth, and Bob Maynard.

Brooks will not dress for the game, due to an ankle injury and Maynard and Mondas are also expected to see only limited duty. Mondas has contacted the flu and Maynard has a knee injury.

Davey Moore Wants Shot At Champion

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Davey Moore, after whipping another ranking contender for his fifth victory in a row, said today he's ready to sail the Atlantic if necessary for a shot at featherweight champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey.

Moore aimed for the top of the 126-pound division after blasting out a unanimous and on-sided decision over Jose Cotero in a nationally televised bout from Capitol Arena last night.

Davey, 24-year-old Springfield, Ohio, puncher, devastated Cotero's TV debut, for 10 rounds Moore unloaded left hooks and right crosses on the grim Mexican from Los Angeles. Jose preserved his record of never hitting the deck, but that was the only thing he could say for his first bout east of the Rockies.

Willie Ketchum, Davey's manager, repeated an offer he said he had made previously to Bassey's strategists, guaranteeing the champion $25,000 for a bout in London or elsewhere.

"Who else would you have fought Bassey?" Ketchum wanted to know.

Before drubbing Cotero, Moore was rated the No. 4 challenger by the National Boxing Assn. and No. 6 by Ring Magazine. To bring Bassey to terms, Ketchum would have to talk faster than Hymie Wallman, whose sharp-punching like Chestnut ranks second to Cherif Hamia of France on both lists.

Cotero, also ranked among the first 10, had little to anticipate in the immediate future but the long trip home to Los Angeles. He opened the only visible wound of the fight, a cut near Moore's right eye, but could make no other claims.

Several times it appeared Cotero must go down. But he somehow held up under the bombardment.

Moore stated the obvious: "He really can take it."

Cotero was unmarked at the finish, but Manager Manuel Dros said it was "the worst fight he ever fought in his life." Jose fighting outside Los Angeles for only the fourth time, said he was "a little" bothered by the 3,000-mile journey.

Referee Eddie La Fond scored it 99-81 for Moore under the system giving the winner of each round 10 points. Judge Ben Alperstein's card showed 100-88 and Judge Julian Whitestone's 100-87. The AP had it 99-83.

'Reappraisal' Of Red China Urged In UNESCO Session

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—America's largest conference on Asia today entered its final stages after a Burmese urged American "reappraisal" of policy toward Communist China.

The sixth national conference of UNESCO, meeting here since Wednesday to consider how to improve relations with Asia, heard Burma's ambassador in Washington, U. Thant, assert: "No one in Asia except two or three leaders comes anywhere near to sharing the American attitude towards Peking."

"To us uncommitted countries, it is difficult to understand your attitude," he said. "One damage to distinguish between nationalism and Communism are mainly responsible for the present lack of warmth in Asian-American relations."

The conference, considering the broad question "Asia and the United States: what the American citizen can do to promote mutual understanding and cooperation," spent yesterday and this morning in work sessions and group discussions on how Asian and Western relations may be improved through the arts, sciences, and communications.

Negro Division Gives $918 To Chest

The impact of science on Asia raises new social problems which have to be carefully considered in the extension of scientific aid, one group concluded.

And a panel considering communications agreed that it's not enough to step up the flow of news back and forth to Asia—it should be more meaningful news, written by better trained correspondents on both sides.

The conference was to end today after final reports from the various panels and an address by Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, India's high commissioner to the United Kingdom.

Damage to the two vehicles was estimated to be $375.

Minor property damage resulted from a two-car collision early last night at the intersection of Dickinson Ave. and Broad St.

Involved in the accident were: Osbourne H. Meteye 27-year-old Negro whose address was listed as Eppes High School and Joe John Long, Negro, of 1306 Mill St.

Pitt Progress Program Talked

The "Pitt County Progress Program for Farmers" was the subject of the Exchange Club's program last night.

Clark Stokes, president of the committee in charge of the program said there were 10 categories in which communities, families and individuals may make entries for cash prizes.

Mrs. Lillis Little, Pitt county home demonstration supervisor, described the 10 categories as: Accident and fire prevention, community fund drives, rat elimination, clean-up campaign, church and community improvement, roadside development, family health, home improvement, recreational facilities, and improved farmsteads.

Her talk was accompanied by slides showing improvements in the latest contest.

County Agent Sam Winchester described two new phases in the program for next year. The first of these is "New Enterprises." There are many items that can be used to increase farm income, such as beef cattle, poultry, sheep, dairy cows, and broom corn, he declared. For example, there are 160,000 acres of woodland in Pitt county that returns $4.30 per acre year that could be increased to $20 per acre year.

The second category is "Improving Existing Enterprises." The farm income can be improved by such things as better drainage and sprinkling, he stated.

President J. H. Moye presided at the meeting. Charles Cooke was a guest.

A Long, Long Trail Since 1903 When City Built First School

In 1903 the first school building under the graded school system was erected in Greenville. It was known as the Evans Street School. It was located on the site where the Sheppard Memorial Library now stands. There was a bond issue of $10,000.00 to build this school and to build a Negro school. The lowest bid on the Evans Street School for a wooden two-story building was $12,000.00. Mr. R. J. Cobb, member of the board, said he would see to it that a brick building was built for less than $10,000.00 and this was done.

The people who promised to buy the $10,000.00 in bonds for the Greenville School District went back on their word and there was an effort made to buy these bonds below par. Arain, Mr. Cobb stepped in and said he would take the bonds at par. He thus saved the day twice. The schools opened in September 1903 but the building was not ready until Nov. 9th 1903. The school was operated in various churches and homes until the building was ready.

About the same time in 1903, a small Negro school was built on the present site of the Fleming Street School, costing around $3,000.00.

In 1913 the first Model School or training school was built on Cotanche Street. The Greenville School Board built this building for $2,000.00. It was a one-story building. The college later paid the Greenville City School Board for this one-story building.

In 1916 contact was let for the first high school building. This building was located on the front part of the site of the present

Junior High School Building. A $30,000.00 bond issue was voted in 1915. J. J. Stroud of Southern Pines was contractor. Mr. Bondz of Wilmington was architect. It was a 2½ story brick building containing 8 classrooms, small auditorium, office, library, a science laboratory and home economics room. It also contained a small swimming pool the size of a classroom in the basement.

By 1922 the one-story wooden building for negroes on Fleming Street has been added to until it contained 12 classrooms. This building burned the night of February 21, 1922. Although there was no money on hand, except for a very small insurance payment, the School Board went to work and with the aid of the Board of Aldermen started plans to build. The Board of Aldermen agreed to make $40,000 available to the School Board to start on the new school for the Negroes on this same site on Fleming Street.

The contract for the new Fleming Street School was let August 22, 1923 to E. A. Underwood, Inc., Wilmington. The total cost of this building, plus equipment was $56,500.00. This building was completed in 1924 and used for the first time in September 1924. Mr. George Berryman of Raleigh was the architect.

On August 14, 1924 the contract was let for the original building at West Greenville School site on Chestnut Street. C. B. West Construction Company of Greenville was the low bidder at $38,000.00. George Berryman was the architect. The site was purchased for $5,000.00.

The total cost of building, equipment and site, was $50,000.00. This building was completed and used for the first time in September 1925. In 1935, 4 classrooms and section rooms were added to the east and west wings. This was during the days of W.P.A.

On February 3, 1925 contract was let to John W. Hudson, Jr. for $70,000.00 to build the first portion, that is the north wing, of the present Junior High School building. Total cost of this building was $90,000.00 including equipment, grading and all contracts. This building was built on the north end of the site up against fourth Street and it was planned to connect this building with the building built in 1916 by a gym and auditorium. This north wing of the building was occupied for the first time in September 1, 1925.

Mr. George Berryman was architect for this building also. In 1927 the 1916 high school building was burned. Plans were then re-drawn to tie in with the north wing. The new plans called for 7 classrooms and cafeteria space and auditorium and gym combined. The contract for this addition was let August 8, 1927 to T. A. Mitchell. The total cost of this wing included equipment, architect fees and walks, etc., was $101,000.00. This building was used for the first time in September 1928.

On January 14, 1929 the Evans Street school burned and the School Board started looking for another site on which to build a new school. Most of the present Third Street School Property was acquired for a price of $12,500.00. Later, the large Pecan

Plans For The Future

Here are plans for the immediate future

1. Six additional classrooms at Elmhurst.
2. Another wing at C. M. Eppes High School to house Commerce Department, Home Economics, music, art, library and cafeteria plus development of the high school athletic field with lights, fence and seats.
3. Acquisition of additional property for Fleming St. School and erection of a lunchroom.
4. Another classroom wing at South Greenville School.
5. Construction of auditorium at Junius H. Rose High School.

Long range plans for construction in the school system are as follows:

1. An elementary school, grades one to six in North Greenville as soon as school enrollment in grades one to six in that area justifies the building.
2. Erection of a modern Junior High School building.
3. The possible erection of an elementary school, grades one to six, in the area between the Ayden and Farmville highways since West Greenville School will not be able to take care of the elementary children in that part of town if that section continues to grow as it is now growing.
4. Possible elementary school beyond the bypass in the South-eastern section of the city if their is continued population growth in that area.

Grove and some property on the west side of the building was acquired. Contract for the original Third Street School was let on April 11, 1929, to S. S. Toler and Sons, Rocky Mount. The total price for the building and equipment in addition to the walks brought the total to $79,500.00. Mr. George Berryman was architect on this building, also.

In December 15, 1949 a contract was let for the first addition to Third Street School. General contract went to W. G. Dunn, Greenville, with Mr. J. W. Griffith, architect. Total cost of this addition included class rooms, art rooms, library, cafeteria, kitchen, etc., and totaled $93,000.00.

On May 13, 1953 the contract was let for still another addition to Third Street School. Mr.

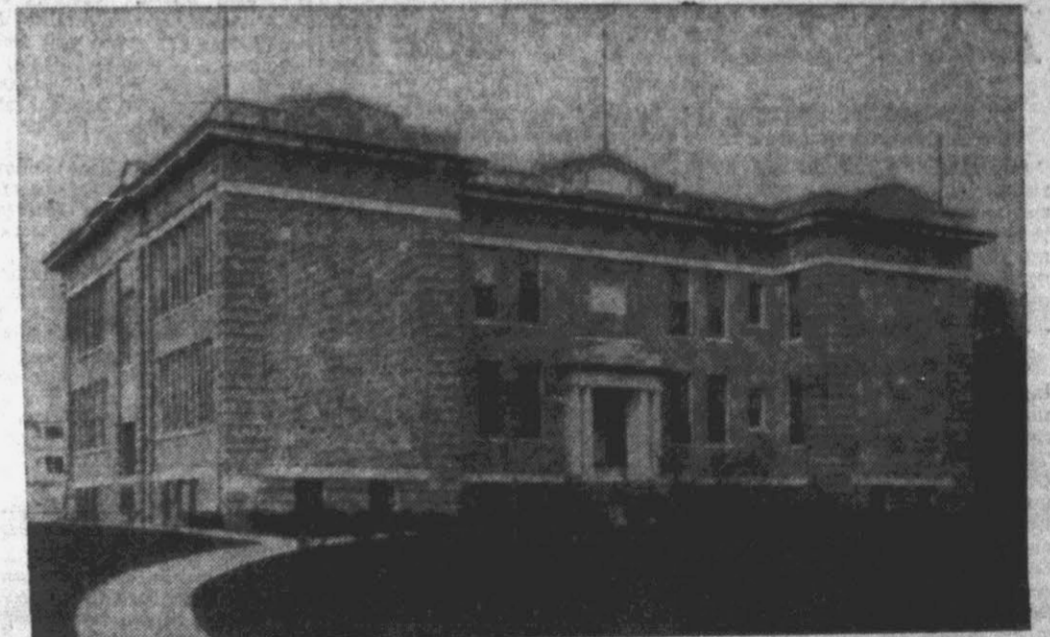

W. G. Dunn, again being the general contractor and Mr. Griffith, architect. Total cost of this addition was $53,800.00.

On April 8, 1949 contract was let for the first unit of the South Greenville Elementary School on a 15 acre site. J. W. Griffith, architect, O. W. Godwin of Dunn, was contractor. This building was occupied for the first time in September 1950 and represents a total investment of $89,000.00 for the first unit. In March 23, 1954, contract was let for the second unit of the South Greenville Elementary School. Mr. Griffith was architect and general contract let to R. N. Rouse, Goldsboro. Total cost of this second unit, including 9 classrooms, cafeteria, kitchen, library, auditorium was $183,000.00. This portion of the building was put into operation September 1955.

On May 11, 1950 the activity building at the West Greenville School was contracted. W. G. Dunn of Greenville, general contractor, and J. W. Griffith, architect. Total cost of this building on contracts, equipment, walks, etc., $106,000.00.

In the meantime, the old building at West Greenville was modernized, new wiring, new light fixtures, additional toilets adjacent to classrooms and acoustical ceilings, new furniture and equipment, $30,000.00 was spent in modernization of this old building.

In 1953, land was secured for the new Elmhurst School. A total of 21 acres was secured costing $30,000.00. On March 23, 1954 the contract was let to the East Carolina Construction Company of Dunn. The total of all contracts was $273,000.00. In addition to this drain tile, walks, roads and equipment was purchased costing approximately $31,000.00. This building is modern in design and has 12 classrooms, large library, offices, health room, teachers lounge, cafeteria, kitchen and auditorium.

In 1953, 14½ acres was purchased in North Greenville. Purchase price was $7,500.00. This land was purchased with the idea in mind of building an elementary school of grades 1 to 6 in that area when the growth of the school population in North Greenville justifies the building of this school.

In 1937 members of the School Board and members of the City Council, Mr. M. K. Blount, Mayor, and Mr. Joseph Taft, who was then on the City Council, went to work to try to secure the property on which the new high school now stands and this 36 acres was purchased for $7,500.00. The $7,500.00 was taken from money which was going to be used to enlarge the grandstand at Guy Smith Stadium.

In 1955 the contract was let for the new high school building. The general contract going to W. G. Dunn for $678,800.00; plumbing, C. E. Williams, $38,949.00; heating, Henry Baker $58,927.00; Electric, Thompson Electric Co., $46,179.00.

This building contains 76,500 square feet. In this building are the following: cafeteria and kitchen, size 100X50; gym, size 114X114, dressing rooms and shower rooms, several music rooms, three commerce rooms, three science rooms, three home-making rooms, library, and three work rooms for the library, six large toilets, fifteen classrooms, two offices, two teachers' lounges, one health clinic, and book room.

Mr. J. W. Griffith was the architect for this building.

On March 21, 1929, the Board of Trustees purchased site for the present C. M. Eppes High School on West Fifth Street. At that time approximately two blocks of land was purchased in this section and 1 block which the owners refused to sell.

The first unit of this building was erected in 1929 and used for the first time in September of that year. This was the middle wing facing West Fifth Street containing 4 classrooms, offices, toilets and heating plant.

In 1931 the west wing of this building was erected. In 1934 the east wing was built. In 1939 the gymnasium-auditorium and 4 classrooms were completed and used for the first time in September 1940.

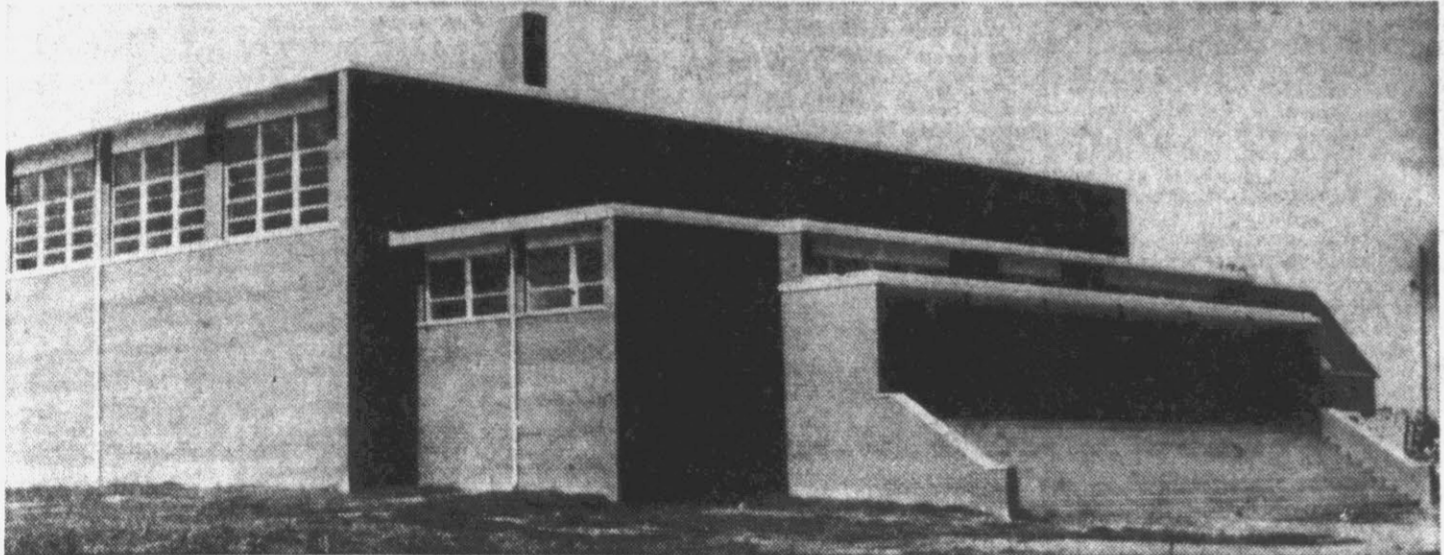

In 1947-48 two additional classrooms and science laboratories and vocational building were erected. This vocational building now contains 4 classrooms, 1 band room, 2 science laboratories and 1 large school shop. In July 1956 the contract was let for the gymnasium. This gymnasium was completed in June 1957. This is a large gymnasium with class rooms, shower baths, etc. The building is completely equipped with 3 basketball courts, and roll-away bleachers. The total cost of this building was $160,000.00.

The land immediately west of this building is being developed into a modern athletic field and soon will have bleachers and lights and be surrounded by a fence. It is also planned to add still another wing to the east side of the building containing Home Economics, business and art departments.

East Carolina College was founded in 1907. In 1913 it was recognized that there was a need for a school in which to allow seniors to practice teach. Therefore, in 1913, the Board of Trustees of East Carolina Teachers Training School, as the college was then named, made an agreement with the Board of Trustees of Greenville City Schools to erect a school on the college campus for teacher training purposes.

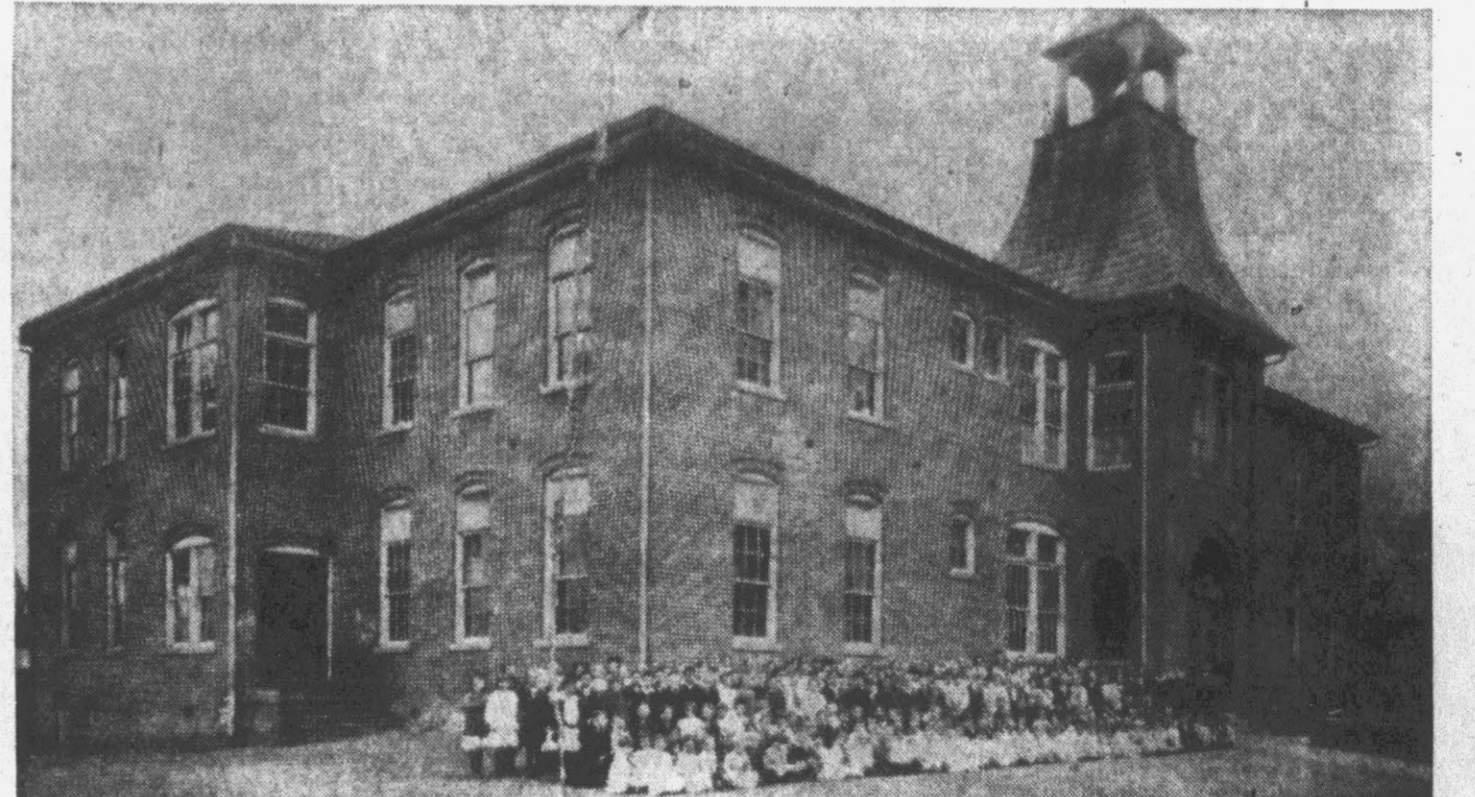

This first school was known as the Model School and was built on Cotanche Street and was a one-story structure costing $8,000.00. The Board of Trustees of the College agreed to repay the Greenville Board of Education for the cost of the building. This, they did at a later date. In 1916 it was found necessary to add a second story to this Model School so that with the addition the building now contained 8 classrooms. This building was used until 1928 when it was condemned because of shifting sands under the foundation. This building was torn down in 1931 and materials used for other construction in Greenville Schools. In 1928 the first wing of the present Wahl-Coates School was built by the State of North Carolina, that is the middle wing. In 1931 the East classroom wing was constructed. In 1950 the gymnasium-auditorium and cafeteria were built. This school is operated as part of the Greenville City Schools System. The State of North Carolina furnishes the building and equipment and the Greenville City Schools furnish the money for the operating cost. The total value of this building with equipment at the present time is $750,000.00.

Sen. Kennedy Says Tax Cut Is Very Unlikely

RENO (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy says "the red star on Soviet moons" in particular should rule out any federal tax cut in 1958 and "very likely for years to come." The Massachusetts Democrat told the Young Democrats national convention last night his stand may not gain the party a single vote in the next elections but he added: "Speaking for myself, as one Democrat that must seek reelection next year, I want to state here and now that I think it would be both misleading and irresponsible for us to predict a tax cut in 1958." The 40-year-old senator received a warm ovation from the under-40 delegates, some of whom may be casting ballots for the presidential ticket in the 1960 Democratic national convention. The three day meeting ends today with showings on: 1. Civil rights. Delegates yesterday revised the organization's by-laws to prohibit discrimination or segregation of membership by state and local units because of race, religion or national origin. The amendment was unopposed except for "no" votes by Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina. Southern members held their fire for an expected resolution urging compliance with the school integration decision of the Supreme Court. 2. Foreign policy. There was a strong movement to overturn a proposed resolution favoring admission of Red China to the United Nations. 3. National officers. With the self-styled liberals split between State Assemblyman Phillip Burton of San Francisco and Nelson Lencione of Columbus, Ohio, the election of Jack Niles of Tonkawa, Okla., as the new national president was predicted by his supporters. Kennedy based his opposition to tax cuts on the combination of declining federal revenues, increased expenditures and the threat raised by the Russians Sputnik. The Massachusetts senator, a year miss for the Democratic vice presidential nomination in 1956, praised President Eisenhower's appointment of Dr. James Killian, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, to oversee a step-up in this country's missiles and satellite program.

Infiltration Of Russian Words

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst
Six weeks ago few Americans had heard the word Sputnik. Today it's on the way into the dictionaries, as one of the Russian language's rare contributions to English. In Russian, Sputnik means satellite in an astronomical sense (thus, the moon is a Sputnik of the earth) as well as in the sense of an artificial satellite. But in English all Sputniks are artificial. The Russian word Sputnik also means a traveling companion. The Russian prefix "S" means with. The word "put" (pronounced "poot") means road, way or path. The word "put" pronounced used to make a noun from a general root—and give it a diminutive sense. The Russian word "Laika" doesn't seem to have caught on as well. This is the given name and the name of the breed of the dog put up in Sputnik II. In a specific sense Laika refers to a breed of dog common in Russia and Siberia. In a more general sense Laika-derived from "lai," meaning bark—is approximately equivalent to the English "bark" and can be applied to any dog. One Russian word in English to stay is vodka. It literally translates as "little water." Vodka is the Russian word for water.

Penalized Crop May See Profit

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Jack A. Harris of Fresno, who paid the government a record penalty of $965,595.84 for the right to market his 1957 cotton crop, which exceeds government allotments, said tonight he expects to make money. "A lot of people have tried to make it look like I was doing something against the law," said Harris, "but before I ever planted this cotton at Gila Bend, Ariz., I checked with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. "I was told that I could plant all the cotton I wanted to—as long as I paid a penalty of 18 1/2 cents a pound on my excess." In Washington, Agriculture Department officials said Harris paid the penalty on about 10,436 bales of cotton. Earlier this year, he collected $209,000 from the department for retiring 1,660 acres from production under the soil bank subsidy program. Months ago Harris called crop controls ridiculous. Asked how he feels now, he replied: "I sure do think it's ridiculous. If you can pay this kind of penalty and still make money I feel we don't need planning controls and price supports. "The current price of cotton is 36 to 37 cents a pound. It costs me about 15 cents a pound to produce. Even after paying the 18 1/2 cent penalty there's something left. "I believe we need some kind of cotton support for domestic consumption but I don't feel we should hold an umbrella over the business in foreign countries. I think we should be able to compete on world markets without controls or guarantees. "Some stories have made it look like I was trying to pull something illegal," Harris said. "I was trying to prove this country doesn't need a support program for cotton."

Education Week Proclaimed Here

Mayor S. Eugene West today proclaimed November 10 through November 17 as American Education Week in Greenville. "Observance of a special education week each year," the Mayor said, "affords compelling opportunity for parents and other citizens to visit their schools, to discuss critical educational problems with their educational and community leaders, and to appraise public education with a genuine view towards its betterment." Mayor West also cited the role of education as "an ever-growing part of our national heritage," the "incompatibility of freedom and ignorance," and the place of public education as "an essential in the preservation and enrichment of our American way of life." American Education Week will be marked by special programs sponsored by schools in the Greenville and Pitt County school systems.

Convict Cleared Of Murder, But Closely Guarded

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Roland E. Simcox, an Alcatraz convict, has been acquitted of a murder charge and returned to a segregated cell. "We'll keep him there until we're sure his life will not be in any danger," Associate Warden J. B. Latimer said. Simcox, serving 42 1/2 years for assault and mutiny while in the Army in Korea, was found guilty of stabbing to death another prisoner at Alcatraz June 6. He pleaded self defense. Federal Judge O. D. Hamlin protested to the jury: "I believe the verdict is not based on creditable evidence in this case. I believe it will undoubtedly increase the custodial problems at Alcatraz." The government had asked the death penalty and first degree murder conviction for Simcox, of Columbus, Ohio, who was accused of knifing Edward H. Gauvin, 23, in a prison shower room. Gauvin, of Floral Park, N.Y., was also serving an assault and mutiny sentence. The largest reptile today is believed to be the leatherback, a marine turtle. It sometimes weighs around 1,500 pounds and is eight feet in length.

Industry is putting some 4 to 6 per cent of its 7 billion dollars a year spending into basic science studies. For example, the University of Chicago gets about 1 1/2 million dollars a year from corporations for basic research problems and is conducting some 1,000 of them in 500 laboratories. The bulk of industrial spending goes for applied research and product development.
Government and private researchers often benefit jointly. For example, early studies in commercial aircraft helped develop military craft. The upcoming commercial jet airliners owe much to government research that produced the jet military bombers and transports.
Some government officials estimate that only 5 to 10 per cent of total government research spending of more than 3 billion dollars a year is for basic science.
But the National Science Foundation says that the Defense Department finds basic science hard to define. The foundation divides total government research spending into 60 per cent on development—from missiles to livestock feed—and 40 per cent on basic science and application of it to specific objectives.
The Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission spend 85 per cent of the federal research dollar.
The war gave research its big boost. Before World War II federal and private spending was at a one billion dollar a year pace, compared with today's 10 billion. In recent years some of the increase is due to higher costs.
Today's highly complicated military and civilian products doubtless call for much more expensive research. Remember there's often a time lag of seven years before the start of research and the large scale production of the resultant product.
Sputnik's successors can circle the world many times in seven years.

'Huck Finn' In Musical Version For TV Show

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—"Well," said Elliott Silverstein, "you ask me why you do 'Huck Finn' as a musical and I ask you why not do it as a musical?"
Silverstein will direct a musical version of Mark Twain's wonderful story to be seen Nov. 20 on "Steel Show" (CBS-TV, 10:15 p.m. EST) and starring Jimmy Boyd, Basil Rathbone, Jack Carson and Earle Hyman. Frank Luther has written the music.
"You might ask Rodgers and Hammerstein why they did 'South Pacific' as a musical instead of as straight drama," continued Silverstein.
"There's something about a musical presentation that gives pleasure to an audience," said Silverstein. "There's ingenuity, boldness and a frank effort to entertain that makes an audience respond to it."
Mark Twain's picaresque novel of Huck's adventures while drifting down the Mississippi naturally must be greatly compressed by television. The TV version will focus primarily on Huck's experiences with those two grand mountebanks the Duke and the Dauphin.

Red Oak Christian Announcements
At Red Oak Christian Church, an Armistice Day Service will be held at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The Rev. Howard James, pastor, will preach on the theme "Put On The Whole Armor of God," and the choir will sing "God of Our Fathers" by Warren. "God Bless America" by Irving Berlin will be sung by Mrs. Ned Kinsaus, soloist. Mrs. B. Leon Tyson will be organist for the service and flowers will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Joyner.
A fine staff of officers and teachers will be waiting to greet you Sunday morning at 9:45. Classes are provided for all age groups. At the opening assembly, music is always a special feature. Circles will be held next week as follows:
No. 1, Sunday, 6:00 p.m.—Supper meeting with Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Jr.
No. 2, Monday, 7:00 p.m.—Annual supper meeting with Mrs. J. T. Manning Jr. Joint hostesses will be Mrs. Carl Crawford, Mrs. H. L. Roberts, Mrs. Earl Simmons, Mrs. Chester Don Worthington Jr. and Mrs. Jesse Jordan.
No. 3, Friday, 8:00 p.m.—Meeting with Mrs. Andrew Garris.
On Tuesday night at 7 o'clock the choir will begin rehearsals on the Christmas Cantata, "Good Tidings of Joy." All choir members are urged to be present.
A fine representation of Red Oak Church members will be attending sessions of the State Convention of Christian Churches to be held November 12-14 at the First Christian Church in Williamson. Special delegations of Red Oak members will attend the CWP luncheon on Thursday at 12:30 p.m. and the CWP banquet on Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

Christian Science Announcements
Man's perfect, sinless nature as the spiritual child of God will be emphasized in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Adam and Fallen Man" at Christian Science services Sunday.
Keynoting the Scriptural readings is the following passage to be read from Genesis (1:27): "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."
A correlative passage which refers to this record of creation will be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (516:27-29): "To emphasize this momentous thought, it is repeated that God made man in His own image, to reflect the divine Spirit."
The Golden Text is from Psalms (112:4): "Unto the upright there ariseth light in the darkness."
