Joins Fight

Rep. Herbert C. Bonner has joined the fight to obtain air service for this area through the Pitt-Greenville Airport.

The congressman, whose home is in Washington, N. C., joined the local group which left for Washington, D. C. today for a pre-hearing on Piedmont Airlines.

Also leaving this morning for the capital were Airport Commission Chairman C. W. Harvey, Jr.; Willard T. Kyzer, secretary-treasurer; and Attorney W. H. Watson.

Tomorrow's conference will be with the Civil Aeronautics Board and is set to begin at 10 a.m.

It is preliminary to formal CAB hearings on the local service area matter.

Like Readies 2nd Coast-To-Coast Chins-Up Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower outlines to the nation tonight his program for training more American youths as scientists in the space era struggle against Russia.

Some key scientific advisers to the President reportedly have suggested to him that the federal government grant scholarships to promising students as an incentive.

For tonight's coast-to-coast television-radio address, the second in a "chins up" series, the President will fly to Oklahoma City.

The speech will be carried live at 10:30 p. m. EST, by NBC-TV and all four major radio networks.

Eisenhower will speak at Municipal Auditorium in connection with Oklahoma's "Arrows to Stars" 50th anniversary of statehood.

The President's drive to overtake and surpass Russia in development of missiles and other weapons of the future started formally last Thursday night.

He also set forth several other steps in a program of immediate action designed to put the United States ahead of the Soviet Union.

In his talk last week he said: "According to my scientific friends, one of our greatest, and the most glaring, deficiencies is the failure of us in this country to give high enough priority to scientific education and to the place of science in our national life."

Ports Authority Will Make Tour

RALEIGH (AP) — Members of the new State Ports Authority will pay their first official visit to port facilities at Wilmington, Morehead City and Southport early next week.

Plans for the tour next Monday and Tuesday were made yesterday after the seven authority members took their oaths of office from Associate Justice William B. Rodman Jr. of the State Supreme Court.

John M. Reeves of Pinehurst was named SPA chairman at a brief meeting which followed the swearing-in ceremonies.

Gov. Hodges urged the new authority to formulate a ports program "modern and up to date in every detail, which can compete with comparable ports anywhere."

The governor last week appointed a completely new authority. He said he decided not to reappoint any members of the old group because "serious problems in public relations and morale" had developed.

At a later meeting, the SPA is expected to follow up on the governor's suggestion that authority headquarters be moved from Wilmington to Raleigh.

Brig. Gen. H. F. Gregory, commander of the Air Force Office of Scientific Research, said in a speech yesterday: "Although it may be somewhat early to be building manned space ships, it is not too early to be thinking about exploratory research in this area."

Gregory described the Air Force project Farside, a recent series of rocket tests, as "one of many high-altitude scientific research efforts that will be required."

The Air Force has said previously that six rockets were fired in the Farside tests in the Pacific and there have been unofficial reports that the sixth shot went more than 4,000 miles into the sky.

Gregory said there was no foundation for reports that Farside personnel had been pressured to speed up the project as a result of Russia's first satellite launching Oct. 4.

It was that event which touched off a general clamor for accelerating the U.S. missile and satellite programs. The second Soviet satellite, one carrying a dog was hung in space Nov. 10.

Former President Harry Truman, in Washington to attend a luncheon in his honor, told newsmen: "We had a missile program before I left the White House."

Trail Grows 'Hot' In Hunt For Killer Of 2 Patrolmen

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — An urgent nationwide alarm has been issued for a man who stole a car here, believed to be the killer of two North Carolina police officers.

The Louisville FBI and Kentucky State Police sounded the alarm last night — a week after officers Walter Lee Reece and J. T. Brown were slain on a North Carolina highway.

Ray L. Faist, special agent in charge of the Louisville FBI office, announced the alarm with the warning that extreme caution be used by anyone sighting the fugitive.

A trail of stolen and abandoned or wrecked cars led police here last weekend. The trail ended with a stolen 1957 Ford at suburban Shively.

Virginia State Police at Wytheville said they received a report yesterday from London, Ky., saying a stolen 1957 Ford left Cumberland, Ky., in the direction of Virginia.

Virginia authorities set up several roadblocks last night and covered highways in the southwest section of the state. However, there were no reports of such a stolen car in the area and the roadblocks were ended.

Faist said the car is a Ford Fairlane 500, four-door, with light tan top and bottom and a white center, bearing Kentucky license K78-009.

He described the fugitive as about 39 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighing about 150 pounds, with brown hair, dark complexion and clean shaven.

Faist said the man had two black eyes last Saturday and probably still has bruises about the eyes. He said he has cuts over the left eye and on the bridge of the nose.

Faist said a composite description of the suspect was made by several persons interviewed by agents at scenes where the cars had been abandoned.

For example, Faist said, after a 1957-model car was wrecked at Stanford, Ky., last Thursday, FBI agents interviewed a man who saw another man holding a handgun over face injuries.

The injuries, Faist said, undoubtedly were suffered in the wreck. The agent indicated other such descriptions had been given, including one by a man in the Shively area.

Faist said it is important that anyone seeing the man use caution and not try to apprehend him. "This man killed two policemen with two shots," Faist added. The agent said anyone knowing of the fugitive's whereabouts should call collect the nearest FBI office or police department.

In North Carolina yesterday, highway patrolmen answered an alarm for a 1953 Mercury bearing Kentucky license plates and a driver fitting the general description of the killer. However, officers found the car at Rockingham and cleared its occupant, a soldier from Ft. Knox, Ky.

The patrolman's slayer was the topic for a discussion at an FBI conference in Wilmington, N.C., last night. Special agent M. P. Chiles, in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, used the case to illustrate a discussion of "Law Enforcement and the Fleeing Felon." State, county and city officers shared the discussion platform with FBI agents.

ECC Trustees Give Go-Ahead For $1.3 Million Dormitory Loan Plan

East Carolina College trustees yesterday authorized President John D. Messick to begin proceedings for the college to borrow $1,300,000 to build a 500-man dormitory.

Dr. Messick was directed to take the plans before the state Board of Higher Education and the Budget Bureau. The loan will be sought from the federal Housing and Home Finance Agency and will be similar to previous borrowing by the college.

Other major action by the board included granting permission for five campus social fraternities to become affiliated with national fraternal groups. The action came after a recommendation by the trustees.

Entrance examinations, given for the first time this year, will be continued, according to board action. The trustees went on record as favoring administration of the examinations by staff members at the college and at no cost to students seeking entrance to ECC.

Dr. Messick, reporting on college progress, reported 4,968 students enrolled this year, 3,415 in campus courses and 654 in extension services. The president also said that 88 North Carolina counties are represented by 3,877 in-state students and that 192 out-of-state students form the remainder of the enrollment total.

F. D. Duncan, vice-president for business, reported that contracts have been awarded for a 520-man dormitory on a site between Tenth and Fourteenth streets and that construction has begun.

Duncan also said that architects are completing plans for a new classroom building and extensions to the Music Hall, the Administration Building, the South Cafeteria and the power plant. He also noted that installation of closed-circuit television equipment will begin in the near future. The TV hook-up will be used for instructional purposes.

Board Chairman Arthur L. Tyler of Rocky Mount, who presided at the meeting, announced appointments to trustee committee groups. They include: Executive: Tyler (chairman), Dr. Messick, E. E. Rawl of Greenville and J. Herbert Waldrop of Greenville; Budget-Building: Rawl (chairman), Ralph Hodges of Washington, Charles H. Larkins of Winston, W. W. Taylor of Fayetteville; Investments: Dr. Messick, Waldrop, Fred Willette of Wilmington and Harvey Anderson of Raleigh; and Public Relations: Carl Goerch of Raleigh (chairman), Henry Belk of Goldsboro, Mrs. William B. Umstead of Durham, and Judge Luther Hamilton of Morehead City.

Students representing various college organizations outlined activities of their groups for the trustees at a luncheon held on the campus. President James E. Phelps, Jr., of the Student Government Association introduced the student campus leaders during the luncheon.

The meeting was the regular quarterly meeting for the board. Nine members of the ten-member group attended.

School Dedication Program Readied

Greenville school patrons will take time out tomorrow night to honor the man who has run their schools for more than 27 years.

Greenville's new Junius H. Rose High School will be dedicated in ceremonies at the school, and the man for whom the building is named will be seated, as usual, in the superintendent's usual seat on the front row. The ceremonies will begin at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium of the school.

J. B. James, chairman for the Greenville City Board of Education, will preside at the ceremonies which are expected to attract representatives of the State Department of Public Instruction, educational institutions in the Eastern section of North Carolina, and government and public officials from Greenville and Pitt County.

Prior to naming and dedicating the building, greetings will be extended by Mayor S. Eugene West, Chairman B. Alton Gardner of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, and Controller C. D. Douglas of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Responses to the dedication will be given by Principal O. E. Dowd, Student Council President Robert H. Bilbro, and Senior Class President Edward H. Buchanan. Music will be furnished by the high school band and glee club.

Special guests at the ceremonies will include members of the Class of 1906, first class to graduate from Greenville's public high school, and members of the Class of 1913, first class which went through all ten grades of the first public school system. Members of the two classes will be guests at a dinner immediately prior to the dedication and will then join other special guests in the school cafeteria for a procession into the gymnasium where the dedication will be held.

Other special guests will include members of the city Board of Education, City Council, Board of County Commissioners, County Board of Education, former school members who are now living, representatives of deceased school board members, former Mayors of Greenville, former Superintendents of Greenville City Schools, former principals of Greenville High School, representatives of East Carolina College and Shepherd Memorial Library, representatives of the State Department of Public Instruction, education pioneers in the Greenville-Pitt County area, officials of city FTA groups, representatives of the architect and contractors for the project, representatives of civic organizations and Greenville businesses, and representatives of neighboring schools.

Among the State Department of Public Instruction representatives will be Dr. V. M. Mulholland, director of research for the State Department of Public Instruction, who was principal of Greenville High School from 1933 until 1942. In addition to Dr. Mulholland and Controller Douglas, the State will be represented by J. Everett Hunter, director of the division of teacher allotment and general control; John L. Cameron, director of the division of school buildings; and A. C. Davis, chief auditor.

Superintendent Rose, for whom the building is named, entered the superintendency on July 1, 1920, after serving as high school principal during the 1919-1920 school year. He had been principal of schools in Kinston and Bethel prior to Army duty as a first lieutenant during World War I.

Rose is a graduate of Trinity College (Duke University) and Columbia University. He and his wife, who he met while a graduate student at Columbia in 1926, have four children.

Entrance examinations, given for the first time this year, will be continued, according to board action. The trustees went on record as favoring administration of the examinations by staff members at the college and at no cost to students seeking entrance to ECC.

Young Police Car Thief Pondering His Troubles

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — A tall, 16-year-old youth who stole a police car at Black Mountain Sunday night and roared eastward at speeds up to 100 miles an hour, sat subdued in a jail cell here today pondering his trail of trouble.

The youth, with siren screaming to clear traffic along Highway 70, was run down by a highway patrol car on Morganton's west side. This climaxed a weekend of interstate motoring in "borrowed" cars.

The Black Mountain police car, a 1956 job of fire-wagon red with ivory top, was stolen as it sat, fully gassed, in front of the police headquarters. Black Mountain police, their faces as red as their car, admitted when they got here that they didn't know it had been stolen until advised by officers here after the arrest of Wallace Morton Martin III, who listed his home town as Graham.

In Recorder's Court here yesterday Judge John M. Mull fined the blond chap with hornrimmed glasses $25 and court costs on a speeding charge and assessed court costs upon convictions of reckless driving, no operator's license and failure to stop for a siren.

Young Martin's next worry was when to get the fine and costs paid. An aunt and uncle who came to the trial said they hoped to settle his accounts here.

An automobile theft warrant has been served from Buncombe County and he next must go to Asheville to face trial for the police car affair.

Patrolmen M. A. Joines and J. R. Chandler said Martin told this story: He borrowed a 1950 Lincoln in Burlington and drove it Saturday to Knoxville, Tenn., where he abandoned it when it exhausted its gas. He stole a 1953 Ford station wagon in Knoxville and drove it to Asheville, where he abandoned it. He hitched a ride to Black Mountain where he spied the bright red car with red light on top and big letters on the side "Black Mountain Police Dept."

Bank Resources Continue To Rise

RALEIGH (AP) — Resources of North Carolina banks increased by more than $3 million dollars for the year which ended last Oct. 31.

A report from Banks Commissioner Ben R. Roberts yesterday revealed total resources of all banks, state and national, totaled $2,655,055,521.78. Compared with a report on Sept. 26, 1956, this was a gain of $23,385,429.20.

Combined resources of state banks were $1,959,822,521.78. This was an increase of $14,008,429.20.

Nuclear Power Associates Now Await AEC Approval

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Carolinas Virginia Nuclear Power Associates, with the site chosen for its nuclear-generated electricity plant, now awaits approval of the project by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The CVNPA board, meeting here yesterday, said the 17 million dollar plant would be constructed at Parr Shoals, S.C., located on the Broad River about 25 miles north of Columbia, S.C.

However, the board said the project must be approved by the AEC and a special congressional committee before construction may be started.

The CVNPA hopes to have the plant constructed by 1962. It would be the only privately owned nuclear power plant in the Southeast.

Four private power companies make up the CVNPA: Duke Power Co., Carolinas Power & Light Co., the South Carolina Electric & Gas Co., and the Virginia Electric & Power Co.

The CVNPA's proposal for the plant has been submitted to the AEC and a special congressional committee before construction may be started.

among the AEC's consideration before granting an operating license is safety specifications. AEC. The reactor would utilize slightly enriched uranium. High among the AEC's consideration before granting an operating license is safety specifications.

The nuclear plant would be located adjacent to SCE&G's Parr Shoals hydro steam generating plants on the Broad River. Its capacity has been listed at 15,000 to 20,000 kilowatts, but the CVNPA said it is a test plant to show whether further plants would be constructed.

PARR, S.C. (AP) — This remote town of 20 families in Fairfield County awoke this morning to the startling realization that it will have an atomic reactor in its own backyard.

That word "reactor" is relatively new to the rural folk of Parr and Fairfield. But the reactor's function will be something Parr residents are very familiar with.

It will generate electric power. Each of the town's families, with one exception, makes its living generating electric power. Parr is owned by South Carolina Electric and Gas Co., of Columbia.

Parr residents are key personnel at the two existing power plants. One of the plants is hydroelectric and the other is steam operated.

Employees are delighted with the prospects of having an atomic power generator. Plant superintendent C. E. Power — that's right, Power of the power company — said all employees have been eager to get the reactor since rumors started months ago.

The announcement that the plant site has been approved by the four companies comprising the Carolinas Virginia Nuclear Power Associates makes the proposed plant almost a reality.

Most employees of the power plants live in nearby communities. The steam plant employs 75 persons and 14 work at the hydroelectric plant.

Just what effect the prototype atomic generating plant will have on the community no one knows. Parr, last week a remote village, unknown to many, even in the Palmetto state, was on front pages of newspapers today.

Those 'Cheap Gasoline' Prices Expected To End By Tomorrow

Greenville-area motorists, folks who have been riding on "cheap" gas for nearly two weeks, might find their driving a little more expensive tomorrow.

Most of the major oil companies distributing in this area will reduce a "temporary competitive price allowance" by three-quarters of a cent per gallon at midnight tonight. The allowance, which was put into effect November 1 by most of the distributors, sent regular gas prices in the Greenville area to an average of 30.2 cents per gallon.

If service station operators pick up the difference in the allowance reduction, they'll have to move their prices up to about 31 cents for regular gas. A spokesman for the operators said this morning the price would probably rise when the distributors cut the allowance.

The service station operators aren't obligated to raise their prices when the allowance is cut, but President Louis Felming of the Greenville Service Station Operators Association said this morning that most of the members usually operate in a group. They took concerted action earlier this month in reducing their prices after the allowance was announced, and most of them stopped at the 30.2 cents per gallon level although there were scattered instances of lower prices.

Group action by the operators has prevented a gas price war in this area, most of the operators claim. Although some of the association's member stations have gone below the recommended level for prices, the operators claim they aren't having anything to do with a price war.

Charles P. Gaskins, chairman of the area's major oil distributors, said this morning that the only information he could offer on the gas price situation was the news about the reduction in the competitive price allowance. The reduction is apparently part of a general movement by major oil companies who announced yesterday that they were removing most of the competitive allowances previously permitted in the Carolinas.

The 2.85 cents per gallon allowance was reached November 1 when the major distributors said they would permit a 1.50 allowance to go with a previously permitted 1.35 allowance. The action which will take effect at midnight tonight is the first by the major distributors in wiping out the temporary allowance.

The price allowance now in effect is the first ever permitted in the Greenville area by major distributors. The area has not had a "gas war," as such, but there have been occasions when service station operators in surrounding and adjacent areas have cut their retail prices below the regular base charges for gasoline.

'Teachers Should Be Democrats Today' Bradner Tells NCEA

"We are in a democracy, we are democrats, we have to educate whether we like it or not. So as teachers in a democracy, try to be democrats," said Dr. G. J. Bradner.

Dr. Bradner who is director of Religious Education at East Carolina College using the subject "Education for Democracy" addressed the N. C. E. A. meeting Monday held at the Junius H. Rose High School.

He further stated that he is not a progressive educator—not critical of progressive education—but thinks it has run its course. "We are not the most educated people in this world. Look around you, you will see degeneracy. Our kids are stupid in many ways. We must teach them all, not the top 10 per cent. Teach the whole group you have, from them will come the leaders."

Know Subject, Be Firm
"To educate we must know our subject, be firm with the discipline of the students, and have an idea of what we are to mold them for in life."

"We can not turn children loose (letting the little darlings do as they wish) and expect them to be educated. Nothing disturbs a child more than to be turned completely free and on his own. He doesn't know which way to go and thus is very confused."

"We as teachers have a special job in Education for Democracy. We must mold the child for better or worse. We can not be too easy with him."

In conclusion Dr. Bradner said, "Education comes by giving the child a chance to strengthen himself in many ways. This is done by toll and sweat not by letting him do as he wishes each time."

In the absence of program chairman, Mrs. John Zeh, Mrs. Irma Worthington, president, introduced the speaker.

Announcements Heard
During the business meeting Mrs. Howard Mims called attention to the television shows to be viewed this week in connection with American Education Week.

It was announced by O. E. Dowd that the Junius H. Rose High School will be dedicated at 8 p.m. Thursday. Miss Pate reported that C. T. A. meetings will be held in Raleigh December 9 and a dinner meeting will be held in Williamston December 11.

Members voted to change the time of forthcoming N. C. E. A. meetings from night meetings. They will now meet the second Wednesday afternoon of each month.

PERMANENT WHISTLE

Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, Pitt County Girl Scout Executive Director, will be the director of Camp Hardee during the summer session of 1958. This announcement was made by Mrs. F. D. Duncan, acting camp chairman, at the meeting of the Girl Scout Council last night.

Mrs. Proctor is a certified camp director and has held this position several years in the past.

Mrs. M. R. Farmer, new president of the Brownie Leaders' Club, was welcomed to the Council by the president, Mrs. C. A. White.

Mrs. W. M. Reading Jr., cookie chairman for 1956, discussed plans for the sale of cookies in Pitt County this spring. There will be no advance orders taken by the Brownies and Girl Scouts. Cookies will be sold from door-to-door. Last year 6,200 boxes of cookies were sold in the Pitt District. This year 6,500 boxes are being ordered.

Mrs. Proctor reported on a conference on the Senior Scouting Program which she and Mrs. J. H. Behr attended in Southern Pines.

Milestone Of A Willing Citizenry

Formal dedication of Greenville's new J. H. Rose High School tomorrow evening will mark another milestone in public school education in this community.

The structure and its equipment cost local taxpayers almost a million dollars and represents the largest single outlay for school construction in the history of the city.

Although the new high school is the last of a series of major construction projects undertaken by Greenville City Schools immediately following World War II, it cannot be accurately designated as the end of its contemporary.

Rankin saw much of the incoming mail, handled most of the telephone calls, arranged appointments and talked with callers and smoothed ruffled feathers before they got to the Governor.

Because of the peculiar circumstances of one Governor handicapped by illness for most of his tenure, and another coming into office feeling some obligation to carry on his predecessor's program, the private secretary had a uniquely difficult position to fill.

Several other retired officers to settle in this state. Reports of Tarheel officials who helped the Governor entertain the guests are that it was a delightful occasion and undoubtedly accomplished its purpose to some degree.

It was almost impossible to explain so they could understand the set up that the State of North Carolina does not profit from this tax. The State does collect the money, but all of it except actual cost of collection and distribution is returned to the counties and municipalities.

It is no secret that throughout 1953 and 1954 relations between Governor Umstead and Lieutenant Governor Hodges were not very cordial.

of one era of school progress or the beginning of another. It is merely another high point of achievement in the continuing efforts of a community to provide its youngsters with better educational facilities and a more constructive course of study.

Greenville should count itself fortunate indeed that during the past half century it has been blessed with generation after generation of dedicated leaders who have pressed for better education for all the youngsters of the community.

Formal dedication of J. H. Rose High School marks another milestone in the endless efforts of Greenville to provide itself with the greatest asset any community can have: better education for its boys and girls of today . . . its leaders of tomorrow.

Commissioners' Age Appears To Be Asset

The nation's newly appointed Civil Rights Commission, if it is to accomplish anything toward bettering race relations and preventing racial discrimination, must of necessity follow a moderate course.

Already some newspapers have viewed the commission appointed by President Eisenhower as a board of old men who may be expected to do nothing spectacular in the field of race relations.

Race relations basically involve individual human feelings and emotions. Judicial decree, legislation and even a show of force on the part of government authority cannot change these basic human feelings.

For the job they are to do, we believe the members' average age of 60 will be an asset rather than a liability to the Commission. Their age should afford them a broad knowledge of human experiences and relationships from which to draw in carrying out their work.

We do not expect the board to provide a panacea for the difficult problem of race relations and racial discrimination. They themselves do not expect to. Their major contribution may well be by means of bringing about a better understanding of the multiplicity of complex problems in race relations in various parts of the nation.

Business Sees A Lighter Side

Two of every three companies will put on an office party this Christmas season, according to a survey by the National Office Management Association.

Here are some more odds, ends and curiosities from the wonderful world of business: American fishermen spend more than $30,000,000 a year for live bait, according to Fisherman magazine, which has probably made the first worm survey in history.

WHO ARE WE PLAYING? When a football player looks groggy, the coach usually asks, "Who are we playing and what's the score?"

Remembered Too Late

In case you haven't been outside at 4:10 a.m. this week, I'm in a position to tell you all about it.

Monday's Reflector carried a timetable for Sputnik II, and the wire story said it would be over Columbia, S.C. at 4:14 a.m. and Lynchburg, Va. at 4:15 a.m.

It figured that in the intervening seconds our dead dog-carrying satellite would pass over Tarbelia; and if I looked westward, and if the skies were clear and my eyes open, I should get a brief glimpse of the Big Show.

Several other people reasoned much the same. That night I set an alarm clock, draped an overcoat over a chair near the door, found a flashlight and went to bed relatively early with some measure of anticipation.

Other Editors Saying-- New SPA Headquarters (Goldsboro News-Argus) We are in full agreement with decision for a new deal in an effort to bring unity and cooperation in the development of a State Ports Authority.

We agree that jealousies and suspicions have existed between Wilmington and Morehead City so long that peace cannot be found with the SPA remaining in Wilmington.

So much of the energy and time of directly interested parties has been consumed by bickerings and suspicions that much vital effort for the ports program has been lost.

We wonder, however, if Raleigh is the logical place to which to move the SPA office.

We want to take the SPA out of politics. We want to arouse Tar Heel business men to the realization that the ports can play a more important part in building business and industry.

But Raleigh's main industry, despite its remarkable growth otherwise, remains politics. Can you take politics out of anything that is domiciled in Raleigh?

Raleigh should be no better position from which to reach members of the Legislature than Goldsboro or any other city. The SPA will be continually confronted with the absolute necessity of keeping its program sold to the Legislature, but that be done better if it is done from a location that is most efficient and economical.

There followed a dreamless period interrupted by the alarm bell, a fumbling for the clock, the flashlight, the shoes . . . and then a muffled "I'm staying in bed" from the aforementioned partner.

I girded myself for an excursion into the backyard in a sort of sleep-drugged state. There was no backing out.

Brethren, it was cold outside! I later learned we had a low of 27 degrees during that night, and it must have been about the time I stepped outside. My circulation hadn't shaken off the sluggishness of sleep, and the cold penetrated fast.

Overhead the sky was marvelously clear. The moon hung high and one had the feeling of seeing beyond those stars suspended in the night . . . bright, sharp specks of light. There were lights in two nearby houses, and the sound of a door closing. Somewhere there were the accustomed barking dogs. Maybe sputnik and I had company.

Then I remembered. To be visible, the passing stranger had to be in a just-so relationship to the sun's rays. It cleared up the reasons for my wasted half-hour.

Oh well, there'll be other times.

Far to the west there was a haze in the sky, maybe clouds. No stars were to be seen near the horizon.

Facing the prescribed direction, fixing my eyes on about a 45-degree angle, I waited, shivered, and saw nothing.

It felt some kind of good to get back in the house. "Did you see anything?" asked a sleepy voice. And I said something that meant "no," and found it easy to resume my interrupted sleep.

Tuesday morning we would-be sputnik-seers talked it over. He blamed it on the brightness of the moon, but that didn't seem right to me. Reams of copy on that satellite had gone over my desk, and the presence or absence of our old-fashioned moon hadn't been a factor in past sightings.

Shortly after noon another timetable for the satellite came over the teletype, including a paragraph omitted in Monday's report: a reminder that sightings wouldn't be possible in the U. S. for a couple of weeks.

To be visible, the passing stranger had to be in a just-so relationship to the sun's rays. It cleared up the reasons for my wasted half-hour.

Oh well, there'll be other times.

Brando Finds It Good

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP) — Marlon Brando at 32 a figure of world recognition, is an actor in search of his life role.

He has been phenomenally successful. He says this about the impact of success on him: "I have not been so impressed so much by how I have changed as I have been by other people's attitudes toward me."

Brando is a full-tipped, short-haired, wide-hipped man who in a few short years has become perhaps the most acclaimed actor since John Barrymore, gifted with a talent as recognized among fellow actors as by the public.

In his latest film, he plays a young American jet flier who discovers, for him at least, that it is better to marry the Japanese girl he loves than to leave her behind. He is a Southerner. The theme of the film is how love can rise above race prejudice.

The picture is based on the novel by James Michener. There are rumors around that Brando himself may make a million dollars from the film.

He says, aside from money, that Hollywood has done itself and America a disservice because too often it is potentially the best possible instrument of communication with foreign people — but has failed to communicate.

"It behooves us to do what we can to improve our relations with other people who, in a short time, we may find our lives interdependent with," he said.

After an overseas stint during which he made two pictures in Japan and toured Southeast Asia, Brando feels that people in those areas judge America by its movies and that the movies, by more realistic dramas about world problems and prejudices, can improve mutual understanding and fare well also at the box office.

Brando today is a pleasant, wary, self-guarded, unsure, impulsive, multi-million-dollar property still exploring his moat.

Asked how success had affected his life, he said: "It's a dangerous position to be in, from the standpoint of maintaining a sensible perspective on yourself in relation to other people."

"It grows like coral does. You don't see it until the tide of circumstances goes out and reveals a whole network."

"I think I have learned, as a result of being successful, how frighteningly important it is to most people to be regarded as successful. Not many people care about your growth, or lack of it, as a person."

"People hate you for no other reason than that you are successful, and they like you for no other reason."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS NEVER GIVE UP

Last summer I met one of my elderly friends on the street and remarked with enthusiasm how well he looked after a vacation. His answer was quite pertinent.

"Looking well? Why shouldn't I? I didn't have one foot in the grave before I left, either." Spoken with the spirit that some of the eighty-year oldsters we all know are accustomed to manifest! No, they don't have one foot in the grave, and they don't bristle at any suggestion that they do. They are not going to live many decades longer, that's for sure, but as long as they do live they intend to be up and coming. They are determined every day to live one day longer, and every year to live one year longer.

There is an amazing impulse built into the human soul in the beginning to hold on to life just as long as possible. It is expressed in the declaration that self-preservation is the first law of nature. We can substitute "perseverance in living" for "self-preservation" and come up with the same result. The healthy-minded want life and more life until they think of its termination without remembrance. It is the emotionally and mentally sick who lose interest in life.

One of the best ways to insure length of days is to cherish an unyielding determination that it just has to be this way. God willing. Hang onto life and it will hang onto you.

Bad Spending News Lies Ahead

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Administration efforts to minimize the cost of a Sputnik-model military machine are only an attempt to break the exceedingly bad news gently and as gracefully as possible.

It is estimated conservatively that the additional expenditure may amount to at least $10 billion for the first few years, meaning a Pentagon budget approaching $50 billion annually.

But this bulwark requires our assured access to the airfields which now ring the Soviet's perimeter, from Norway to Korea. These outposts must be protected with great batteries of anti-missile guns, and we have not yet begun to produce these expensive weapons. They are still in the experimental stage.

NEW EXPANDED NAVY The Navy will have to be rebuilt and expanded along new lines. The mothballing of the $100,000,000 Wisconsin, our last dreadnought to be decommissioned, furnishes dramatic evidence of the coming changeover.

"balanced and expanded" fighting machine more than ever before, despite the emphasis on missiles, rockets and satellites. Pending volume production of those intercontinental weapons, the United States and its Allies will need more and faster jet bombers. As in World War II, they would be our only means of destroying the enemy's missile factories and launching sites.

But this bulwark requires our assured access to the airfields which now ring the Soviet's perimeter, from Norway to Korea. These outposts must be protected with great batteries of anti-missile guns, and we have not yet begun to produce these expensive weapons. They are still in the experimental stage.

NEW EXPANDED NAVY The Navy will have to be rebuilt and expanded along new lines. The mothballing of the $100,000,000 Wisconsin, our last dreadnought to be decommissioned, furnishes dramatic evidence of the coming changeover.

The accent must be on atomic submarines, destroyers and es-verted cruisers capable of hurling nuclear projectiles against hostile land targets. There will be a need for more and speedier aircraft carriers.

The future fleet must safeguard sea lanes for supplies for ourselves and our Allies, especially petroleum, while they strangle the Communists' communications. Fighting a fairly well concentrated land foe — Russia, China and the satellites — control of the seas will be vital, perhaps the difference between defeat and victory.

As the Royal Navy blocked a Hitler invasion of Britain, so ours must be able to prevent a Communist landing on our shores.

REDS THREATEN FRESH FORAYS Nor can the ground forces, particularly specialized units, be reduced or weakened. With possession of his new weapons and his psychological triumph over the United States and the West, Khrushchev has threatened fresh local forays, such as those in Korea and Indo-China, and now in the Middle East.

We must equip ourselves with small but powerful units to repel such actions against our far-away Allies, but without precipitating a global conflict, if possible. As of today, the U.S. has only sufficient aerial transport facilities to haul one division to the scene of far-off fighting.

MEN AND MACHINES As the Anglo-French fiasco demonstrated in Suez, where the airborne units arrived too late to support the invasion, our principal Allies are in even worse shape in this respect. The stalemates in Korea and Indo-China against the less powerful Chinese forces revealed our vulnerability on local but distant battlegrounds.

Thus, despite the Sputniks and a vast armory of interplanetary and intercontinental weapons, the experts believe that there will never be such a thing as a wholly "pushbutton war." In the last analysis, the machines are only as effective as the men who man them. And man power will be, in a financial sense, the cheapest commodity in any world war.

Castro Urging General Strike

HAVANA (AP)—Rebel leader Fidel Castro is appealing for a "general revolutionary strike" against President Fulgencio Batista. A bulletin from Castro's headquarters in the mountains of Oriente Province calls for a "nation-wide walkout by workers and peasants about Dec. 15. That is the approximate date for starting the harvesting of sugar cane. The bulletin, clandestinely circulated among Castro's supporters and sympathizers in Havana, declares "there will be no sugar harvest" while Batista rules. Sugar is the keystone of Cuba's prosperity. Castro's bulletin urged the estimated 400,000 cane field workers to touch off a move he hopes will snowball into general strikes throughout the nation and thus "overthrow the tyranny and dictatorship" of President Batista. Rebels in Havana construed the appeal as an indication Castro and his 600 fighting men would embark upon a series of lightning raids upon Cuban army posts in Oriente province coincident with the start of the sugar harvest. The government seems confident that it can swiftly smash any attempt to start general strikes and that the harvest will proceed unhindered.

Mink Coat Set Has Joined Science Field

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Down here in one of America's oldest cities, the mink-and-millions society set possesses a fresh outlook—that basic scientific research should be financially supported for cultural reasons, just like the opera and symphony orchestras. And from this outlook stems one of the nation's exclusive clubs—the Argyle. To be a member requires an impeccable social background. Possession of a few million dollars doesn't hurt. The club members—about 400 mostly in San Antonio but scattered throughout the nation—are responsible for contributions ranging up to $150,000 a year for basic research. The members themselves donate around $50,000 and campaign for the remainder. Dr. Harold Vagtborg, president of the Southwest Research Center, told a gathering of the elite during the weekend: "In some cities, the basic scientist is looked on as a curious person. Here in San Antonio he is recognized for the important cultural contribution he is making. This must be developed throughout the United States if we are to regain our leadership in the field of science. "Community appreciation is essential if we are to develop and keep basic research scientists for the future." The particular part of the center being supported by the Argyle is the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education, dedicated to basic medical studies. About 125 oil millionaires, ranchers, businessmen, financiers and their families braved a downpour during the weekend to see where their money is going. They saw exhibits telling of studies in heart and circulatory diseases, glands, cancer and other medical matters. So far their money hasn't gone into buildings. The research labs now are housed in converted barns. But they eventually will be moved into a modern structure. The money for it has been donated by Mrs. C. F. Urschel, a wealthy woman in her own right and the wife of the oilman who outwitted a gang several years ago in the famous Urschel kidnaping case. The federal government will provide matching funds.

Bloxam Speaks At Raleigh Meet

Leonard P. Bloxam, superintendent of Greenville Utilities, discussed the impact of federal aid highways on utilities systems before the North Carolina section of the American Water Works Association in Raleigh yesterday. The North Carolina section opened its 37th annual conference and Industrial Wastes Association. More than 300 public water supply engineers, operators and executives are attending the three-day meet. Bloxam, who has been associated with Greenville Utilities since 1954, presented his address as part of a panel discussion. His co-speakers were the assistant director of public works at Greensboro, chief right-of-way engineer for the State Highway Commission and the assistant director of the North Carolina League of Municipalities. The American Water Works Association, of which Bloxam has been a member since 1952, is the professional and scientific society of the public water supply field. The North Carolina section is one of its 30 regional sections throughout the United States, Canada and Cuba.

Money Market Provides Tip On Future Business

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—If you're looking for a sign of what businessmen see ahead, you might glance today at the money market. The slight dip in industrial activity obviously fails to dim hope in future growth. The search for new money goes on at both government and private levels. Bank loans to business aren't as much in demand as formerly, but some giant corporations have turned to their own stockholders for more funds by offering new issues of common stock. Bonds and other debt securities are being offered by corporations and government agencies in near-record volume. New issues more than offset any withdrawals or postponement of financing plans because of high interest rates. Last week $121,235,700 in corporate securities were offered. This week $113,780,780, and still bigger offerings are in sight. Local and state government financing goes on apace and the U.S. Treasury would like up to two billion dollars in new money. If businessmen have any great fear of today's breather, it doesn't show in the money market. The total need for financing remains high and keeps the money supply tight. Offering of more common stock to a firm's own shareholders has increased notably in the last three years. Before that, corporations were more prone to seek expansion funds by offering debt securities. Interest rates were lower then and there was the tax benefit of charging interest off as corporate expense before gross earnings, whereas payment of dividends came after taxes. But interest rates have gone up to the point that for a time bonds and other debt issues were returning as much or more to investors than were yields from common stock. And companies offering more stock have in most cases increased the number of their shareholders, a desirable thing in the view of most managements. Shareholders often have seen the value of each share rise above the purchase price. Jersey Standard Oil is the latest giant to tap this source of new money. It seeks to raise 286 million dollars through offering its shareholders rights to buy 6 1/2 million more shares at $44 each.

Missing Jewelry With Equipment

ANGELES CAMP, Calif. (AP)—Actress Rhonda Fleming got her jewelry back last night after it turned out the small aluminum suitcase wasn't lost but only misplaced. She said the case held about $7,000 worth of cameos she was to wear in a picture being made in this gold country area. Someone had sent the aluminum case with camera equipment instead of with the baggage.

Moye's Club Is Out For The Title

Winterville Quint Shapes Up As A Strong Contender

By BILLY ARNOLD, Reflector Sports Editor. WINTERVILLE—With the final breath of high school football dying away for the most part this weekend, the state is preparing for the 1957-58 basketball season. Before long, the Pitt County

RALPH WINGATE... team's leading scorer. He averaged 13 points per game last year.

Saad's Shoe Shop Prompt Expert Service Work Guaranteed 113 Grande Ave. Dial 2056

Conference—a loop that comes alive only for the cage season—will begin play and the nine local schools will begin making their bids for the season title.

Winterville's Blaney Moye, whose 1956-57 club skidded along for a 12-12 record, is not saying much about it, but all indications point to his having one of the strongest teams in the loop.

Moye's crew has been working out since October 8, and the young coach has fielded a squad of two full teams which he says are "practically even."

His first five are all returnees from last year's squad and are an experienced, smooth-working unit. The 1956-57 Winterville outfit averaged 50.25 points per game and most of the starters this year helped maintain that mark last season.

Moye's second group is composed of three juniors and a sophomore and one senior. The first units averages about 5-11 and is strong in experience; the second unit averages about 6-1 but is less experienced.

The Players The first unit consists of forwards Ralph Wingate and Richard Gorman, guards Boyce Cox and William Stox, and center J. C. Little. Wingate was last season's top scorer with an average of 13 points per game.

Moye Waters and Tom Braxton are forwards on the second unit. Conrad McLawhorn and James Vincent are guards, and Mack Worthington is working at center. Smallest man on the team is Cox at 5-6 and Worthington is the tallest at 6-3.

Only three men on the entire squad are seniors this season. Wingate and Stox on the first unit and Vincent on the Number Two team will be playing their final season of high school ball. They are expected to be the team leaders.

In last year's Pitt County Tourney, Moye's club was edged by 12 points in the semi-finals by the eventual champion Ayden. This year, Moye says, his club will be out for the title. "The boys have good spirit; they want to win this year."

Last night Winterville opened its season with a roaring 79-43 victory over Snow Hill. The girls won, also, 48-27. Stokes-Pactolus will offer Winterville its first taste of Pitt County Conference ball on December 3.

Marines Find Baseballer Unfit

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP)—Cincinnati Reds' outfielder Frank Robinson has been declared "not medically fit for active duty in the Marine Corps" and is expected to be released from the service soon.

A Parris Island spokesman said last night that "indications are that Pvt. Frank Robinson may be due for discharge from active duty in the very near future. He has been found not medically fit for active duty in the Marine Corps."

It was understood that Robinson's right arm and shoulder, which have troubled him at each spring training, failed to stand up under military training.

Tireless Jackson At A Crossroads In Tonight's Fight

By JACK STEVENSON SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Boxing followers discover tonight if Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson has dropped from heavyweight title challenger to trial horse within the short space of two fights.

The tireless warrior with the not-too-potent punch battles the No. 1 challenger, undefeated Eddie Machen, in a 12-rounder at the Cow Palace.

It's the first outing for Jackson since July 25 when, as the top-ranked challenger, he was stopped by champion Floyd Patterson in the 10th round. Jackson went to a hospital.

Machen, a 25-year-old from Redding, Calif., is undefeated in 23 bouts. He says he wants to "win big" to gain the right to battle Patterson.

"If I can knock him out, I will," says Eddie. "If not, I'll go for the decision. I'm not going to let desire for a knockout go to my head and throw all caution to the winds."

In-fighting of the boxing game that doesn't go on in the ring influences some of Machen's desire for a big win.

Cus D'Amato, who manages Patterson, has said Machen has forfeited any right to fight the champion. D'Amato feuds with the International Boxing Club and declares Machen's pilot, Sid Flaherty, has IBC associations.

Although the fight is copromoted by the San Francisco Boxing Club and the IBC, Flaherty says he would agree to a title fight staged by any promoter of D'Amato's choosing. Yet he says he feels it will take public opinion to force a Machen-Patterson bout.

Jackson, of St. Albans, N.Y., has ideas other than that he is being used simply to build up Machen. Hurricane's manager, Lippe Briedbart, asserts the Californian is still a year away.

"He's never fought a fellow in the class on Jackson. After this fight we'll be No. 1 again," says Lippe with Jackson nodding approval.

ABC will telecast at 10 p.m. EST.

Honor Mayer As 'Golfer Of Year'

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The Professional Golfers Assn. last night honored Dick Mayer of La Jolla, Calif., as its "Golfer of the Year."

Mayer, National Open and world champion this year, received 532 of the 713 ballots cast.

Other honors, presented at the awards banquet of the organization's 41st annual convention, included selection of Dugan Aycock of Lexington, N.C., as "home club" pro of the year and the naming of Denny Shute of Akron, Ohio, National PGA champion in 1936 and 1957, to the PGA Hall of Fame.

Earlier, the PGA National Advisory Committee recommended a

Virginia Isn't Expecting Gamecocks To Play Dead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"We've got the greatest respect for South Carolina. Our scouts tell us they're a lot better than the record shows—that a few mistakes have cost them heavily."

That's Virginia Coach Ben Martin's attitude as he prepares his Cavaliers for an Atlantic Coast Conference football game with South Carolina Saturday at Charlottesville, Va.

Virginia carries a dismal 2-4-1 record into the game. South Carolina is not much better, 3-4. Last weekend, Virginia was idle and South Carolina lost to North Carolina, 28-6.

"We're not expecting them to make any mistakes against us," Martin adds. "However, we figure having last week off helped us physically and we have some extra incentive to win, since this will be the last home game for (star fullback) Jim Bakhtiar and 11 other seniors."

South Carolina and Virginia have met only two teams in common this season. Both lost to Duke and Clemson.

"If we want to beat South Carolina," Martin sums up, "we'll have to put two good halves together."

Gamecock Coach Warren Giese reported yesterday that almost all his squad has recovered from a flu attack and was back in action. The team viewed movies of Virginia games and staged a snappy scrimmage. Martin, meanwhile, worked on the Cavaliers' passing and staged a defensive drill.

Elsewhere around the ACC yesterday: Duke held a two-hour workout and stepped up preparations for meeting Clemson, the ACC's only other conference game this weekend. Blocking and goal line drills got the emphasis.

Clemson's workout featured defense as Coach Frank Howard alternated his first three units in a scrimmage against reserves. Four players were in sweatsuits but were expected to see action Saturday. They were fullback Rudy Hayes, halfback Bill Mathis, end Bill Few and tackle Lou Cordileone.

North Carolina State, going against Virginia Tech this week-end, went through a defensive scrimmage. Coach Earle Edwards sent the Wolfpack linemen through a blocking and tackling exercise while backs worked on passing and pass defense.

Wake Forest held an offensive scrimmage as the winless Demon

Celtics Extend Winning Streak To Ten Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Boston Celtics, playing relaxed under pressure, pushed their winning streak to 10 games last night with a 107-104 victory over the Minneapolis Lakers in a National Basketball Assn. doubleheader in Detroit.

The Celtics moved two-thirds of the way towards their goal of matching the record of 15 straight games at the start of a season. The overall is 17 in a row.

The winless Lakers kept the league's other streak going. They have lost seven straight games. The record is 15 at the start of the season and also overall.

In the nightcap at Olympia Stadium, the Detroit Pistons won their first victory in their new home town before 6,256 fans. Gene Shue drove for a field goal with three seconds left to edge the New York Knickerbockers, 109-107.

Deacons prepared for a tough West Virginia. "I'm still trying to develop a scoring punch," commented Coach Paul Amen.

North Carolina took the day off because of an open date over a weekend. It was the second straight day the Tar Heels have remained off the practice field.

Maryland continued preparations for a Friday night game with Miami in Orange Bowl Stadium.

Tranquilizers Provide Big Assist To N. C. Hospitals For Mentally Ill

By REESE HART
RALEIGH — Tranquilizing drugs have proved to be one of the best weapons in North Carolina's program to put mentally ill persons back on the road to recovery.

Dr. W. H. Murdoch, general superintendent of the State Hospitals Board of Control, said today tranquilizing drugs "tend to lower emotional tension and quieten the patient to the point where we can have contact with him or her and apply psychotherapy."

In 1953, when tranquilizing drugs made their appearance, North Carolina was spending about $15,000-$20,000 a year for drugs at each of its four mental hospitals. Today the drug bill runs about $70,000-$80,000 a year at each hospital.

"We still use shock treatment in depressed cases," Dr. Murdoch said, "but tranquilizing drugs have proved to be one of our most effective weapons. There are no after effects."

In the 10 1/2 years Dr. Murdoch has been with the hospitals board of control he has seen "tremendous progress in the mental hospitals, both in quality of accommodation and quality of work. We've seen waiting lists for psychiatric patients disappear."

The only waiting lists today are for mentally deficient patients, Dr. Murdoch said, "and these lists stand to be reduced in the months ahead" after the new 4 1/2 million dollar training schools at Goldsboro and Butner are officially opened.

The training school at Goldsboro has been completed and is being activated, while the new school at Butner is nearing completion.

These two new training schools and the Caswell Training School at Kinston are for mental defectives. The State has four mental hospitals: the State Hospital in Raleigh, more familiarly known as Dix Hill; State Hospital in Morganton; State Hospital at Butner, and the State Hospital for Negroes at Goldsboro.

Three types of patients are classified in the mentally defective category. These include idiots, imbeciles and morons.

"There's not much you can do to train an idiot," Dr. Murdoch said. "An idiot never gets much better and there's not much you can do except 'house train' them. They are hopeless cases with an I. Q. of about 20."

The imbecile, he added, "is trainable to a certain extent and has an I. Q. of about 50. The moron has a 70 I. Q. and can be educated and trained to do jobs. We try to teach them so that we can place them out in communities where they can take care of themselves, a disease of the mind."

Dr. Murdoch, a native of Scotland, estimates that about 80-90 per cent of the psychotic patients are "relieved of the disease" and return to their homes after varying periods of treatment.

Persons who suffer nervous breakdowns fall within the psychotic category.

"We don't know what causes nervous breakdowns," Dr. Murdoch said. "Emotional upsets have

Calmly Listens To His Circumstantial Trial

By JOHN W. BECKLER
LOS ANGELES — For the past six weeks a suave, silver-haired man has been sitting calmly in a Los Angeles courtroom, listening to a flood of testimony aimed at proving he murdered his wealthy, socialite wife.

As he took his place at the counsel table today, L. Ewing Scott, 61, was just as much of an enigma as he has been since that day more than a year and a half ago when the disappearance of his wife first became known.

Dapper in a $185 suit, relaxed and urbane, he looks more like a businessman attending a board meeting than a defendant on trial for his life.

As Scott lolls back idly, twisting his glasses, he offers a sharp contrast to prosecutor J. Miller Leavy. Bristling with energy, Leavy is always on the move, snapping questions without letup as he paces back and forth.

Leavy's task is a doubly difficult one. Before the jury can convict Scott of murder, it must first be convinced his wife is dead. All that can be proved by direct evidence is that at 4:30 p. m. on May 16, 1955, she was alive and apparently well. She apparently has never been seen since, and any evidence pointing to her murder is circumstantial.

Trying to cover every possible angle, Leavy has put more than 75 witnesses on the stand. The number may reach 100 before he lets up and gives Scott a chance to tell his story.

Among the prosecution witnesses have been:

A dozen or more friends of Mrs. Scott. In pearls, mink stoles and cultured accents, they have described the missing 63-year-old woman as a gay and charming companion, full of life and health and not one to abandon her friends without notice.

Lawyers, financial advisers and bank employees. They have testified that Scott, after marrying the twice-divorced, twice-widowed heiress, gradually took over management of her $600,000 estate and used her funds from the time she disappeared until police entered the case 10 months later.

Police experts. They've told of finding Mrs. Scott's false teeth, which she was known to have been wearing the day before she vanished, in a trash heap on a lot adjoining the Scotts'. And they've testified that her signature appears to have been forged on cards used by Scott after she disappeared to gain access to her safe deposit box and open a joint bank account.

Wills $1,000 To Spend Foolishly

LEXINGTON, Ky. — A woman described as "having a fine sense of humor" has willed $1,000 to her son-in-law "to spend foolishly."

Ben B. Herr, the son-in-law, also was named executor of the estate. He said he didn't know why Mrs. Sara Cecil Taylor should make such a bequest.

The rest of the $100,000 estate was left mostly to Mrs. Taylor's daughter, Herr's wife.

School Closed By Leaking Gas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — The Harlandale High School was closed today while repairmen tried to find a severe gas leak.

Supt. Dillar McCollum ordered the move late yesterday to protect the school's 1,250 students.

McCollum said the leak allowed seven cubic feet of gas to escape each hour. He said the gas meter was sealed for the night and all heating cut off yesterday.

Ethiopia Getting Quiet Build-Up

ADDIS ABABA — The United States is quietly building up Ethiopia's military and economic strength.

This East African country might become a base for military operations if the Middle East came under Communist control.

Ethiopia could become a rear staging base both for air and naval purposes. Massawa is an excellent and highly mechanized port, Italian-built. If an Allied fleet could not move through Suez, there is always the open Indian Ocean.

Aside from the potential military importance of Ethiopia, Point Four is spending about 15 million dollars in the country, mainly for agricultural development.

Americans also are working on the highways, originally splendid roads built by Italy but greatly deteriorated.

A fairly large American military mission is training the Ethiopian army. Much American surplus hardware is arriving in the country regularly.

Briefly Lighted By Nuclear Plant

MOORPARK, Calif. — The atomic age came to Moorpark last night, when, for five minutes, the community of 1,500 was lighted entirely by means of nuclear power.

The power, transmitted over Southern California Edison Co. lines, came from a nuclear plant for generating electricity in the Santa Susana Mountains, 30 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

Engineers said it marked the first time an entire town was lighted in this manner.

White couples receiving the licenses included Sidney E. Baker, Bell Arthur, and Joyce Ann Bennett, Stantonsburg; William Harvey Stallings, Grifton, and Bessie Cannon, Ayden; Harold R. Burbage, Route 2, Grifton, and Letty M. Barber, Route 1, Greenville; Charles Humphrey, Plant City, Florida, and Barbara Baker, Fountain; and Arnold H. Hines and Bertie Mary Pruden, both of Suffolk, Virginia.

The Negro couple to whom a license was issued was Levy Dixon, Route 3, Bethel, and Queenie Weaver, Bethel.

Divorce, Re-Wed In 30 Minutes

LOS ANGELES — Band arranger Buddy Cole and his wife have started a brand new marriage—after being divorced just 30 minutes.

"That marriage was something of a jinx, so we wanted to start all over again with a clean slate," explained Mrs. Cole.

The couple, both 40, married two years ago in Las Vegas, Nev.

There's A Limit To Rear Lights

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Bureau of Highway Safety Director O. D. Shipley says those new cars with four backup lights on the rear are illegal. The state motor vehicle code states that cars may not have more than two such lights, one on each side.

Shipley said the bureau will consider the law satisfied if the wiring and light bulbs are removed from the extra lights, leaving the covers for ornamental purposes.

Young Marine To Be Tried On Mutiny Charge

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. — The Marine Corps, which prides itself on "esprit de corps" will try a private here next week for mutiny, an infrequent charge in the Corps' history.

A Marine spokesman last night identified the defendant as Pvt. Frederick D. Golden, 19, of Huntington, W.Va. He faces a general court-martial.

He is charged with conspiring last Aug. 7 with two other privates, since convicted of mutiny, in repeated refusal to leave their brig cells for scheduled work while serving special court-martial sentences for unauthorized absences.

A general court-martial last Oct. 14-15 convicted Pvt. Douglas C. Kellog of Michigan City, Ind., and scheduled jointly with Kellog and Zinsavage, was delayed when he asked for enlisted representation on the court-martial board.

The court sentenced Kellog to seven years hard labor and dishonorable discharge and Zinsavage to five years hard labor and dishonorable discharge.

Brig. Gen. Wallace M. Greene, commanding officer here, has the convictions under review and can reduce the sentences.

The spokesman said the exact date of the trial would depend on Golden's civilian counsel, Edward F. Green, a Huntington lawyer.

Golden is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Golden of Huntington. Zinsavage, 19, is a son of John Zinsavage of Philadelphia and Kellog, 19, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kellog of Michigan City.

Adlai May Go To Paris Meeting With President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai Stevenson held out the possibility today he may accompany President Eisenhower to a Paris meeting next month designed to increase Allied cooperation.

From a haze of confusion, the role of the Democrat whom Eisenhower twice defeated for the presidency emerged as that of adviser—and possibly a participant in proposals Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles will present to a North Atlantic Treaty meeting of heads of state in Paris Dec. 16.

An error by James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, brought on the uncertainty which both Hagerty and Stevenson later sought to clarify.

Stevenson said he had informed Dulles a week ago that "while I could not undertake to formulate the President's policies, I would gladly review and discuss our government's proposals before they were put into final shape."

Hagerty said Stevenson "will be kept informed of the developing program and will, we hope, discuss the items in the program with the administration before they are finalized."

In a bid for bipartisan support, Stevenson reportedly had been offered at first a key position in both formulating and presenting United States proposals to strengthen NATO against Russia's growing missile strength.

Even in the more limited advisory role, officials let it be known that Stevenson could go with Eisenhower and Dulles to Paris if he chose to.

In New York last night, he said he would be willing to attend the Paris meeting. But whether he would go, he said, would depend on the shape of the U. S. proposals. He indicated one condition might be an increase in foreign aid which would require a relaxation of the 275-billion-dollar limit on the federal debt.

By implication he left himself free to criticize any of the administration's proposals with which he disagreed.

Stevenson issued his statement after Hagerty announced at first that Stevenson would limit his cooperation to commenting on the program after it had been developed.

Hagerty, conceding later he had made an error, said he had misunderstood the meaning of the word "comment." He agreed Stevenson's role would be to consult and comment while the policies were in preparation.

Stevenson, in agreeing to help out, said that "in view of the gravity of our situation in the world I have both a desire and a duty to assist our government, regardless of partisanship or personal convenience."

Practical Joker To Pay $25,000

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When Mrs. Bertha Ekman opened the can labeled "peanut brittle" she found it wasn't, and the judgment she got from a jury wasn't peanuts, either.

The jury awarded her $25,000 yesterday. Mrs. Ekman had testified that when she opened the phony can of peanut brittle, paper snakes sprung out at her.

She sued Wilmington, Calif., cafe owner James Munson for $117,250, claiming that the shock caused her to fall backward and that she required hospitalization four times as a result.

Munson contended his customers should expect such practical jokes.

Save Money If Lights Left On

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia, which still has 7,500 gas street lamps scattered on many of its narrower lanes and alleys, has decided it can save money by letting the lamps burn day and night.

Streets Commissioner David N. Smallwood told city councilmen yesterday the city could save $100,000 a year by dispensing with a $29 yearly cost per lamp for an automatic system to turn the gas out of gas. Tidwell had to walk back to the courthouse.

ANTLERS, Okla. (AP)—The worst possible thing happened when Jerry Rosenthal went out with ex-miner Lester Tidwell to take his driving license test. The car ran out of gas. Tidwell had to walk back to the courthouse.

DESPERATE MAN

CHAPTER 33

Gil half rose from his chair and sat down again. Then he turned his gaze to the judge. "Do I have to answer that question?"

Judson, Bess' lawyer, was on his feet again waving at Brundage. "Your Honor, I object. This line of questioning has nothing whatever to do with the case that is being tried."

Prosecutor Mack turned to the judge with a pained expression on his face. "Your Honor, this has everything to do with the case. I propose to show that a conspiracy existed in Dillon's Park to destroy the Rafter 3 by rustling its stock."

"Your Honor," Judson shouted, "you can't destroy an outfit by stealing a single steer and that is what Miss Nordine—"

"Your Honor," Mack yelled, "I propose to show intent."

Brundage pounded the desk with his six-shooter. "I'll have you both dismissed from this case if you yell at me again. I may be old but I'm not deaf. All right, go ahead."

Barney Lux must have reported to Toll what Gil had said at that meeting. At least, Loyd Mack knew what Gil had said or he would never have put the question. Gil couldn't lie—not a public statement he'd made before every rancher in Dillon's Park.

Mack said smugly, "All right, Mr. Munro, answer my question."

"All right yourself," Gil snapped. "I'll answer it, but I've got something to say first. Last summer was a dry one, and we knew we didn't have enough grass in the park—"

"The question, Mr. Munro!" Mack said. "What was it you said at that meeting?"

"I'm telling you," Gil gripped both arms of his chair, glaring at Mack. "We refused to let Rafter 3 cattle winter in the park because we didn't have the grass to spare."

"Your Honor," Mack wheeled to face the judge. "The question can be answered directly without the explanation the witness insists on giving."

"Answer the question," Brundage said.

"I said we had to fight fire with fire," Gil said. "I said that if it wasn't profitable for Rafter 3 to winter their cattle in the park they wouldn't do it. If we rustled their stock, it wouldn't be profitable, but we never had to go that far because they didn't shove any of their cattle into the park."

"Your witness," Mack said to Judson, sat down.

Judson rose and walked to where Gil sat in the witness chair. "Do you know why Rafter 3 cattle were not driven into the park as they had been in the past?"

"We never tried to keep them out before," Gil said. "This time we did, so they worked another angle. Two men were murdered—"

"Objection," Mack said. "That's irrelevant to this case."

"Objection sustained," the judge said.

Judson hesitated a moment, and then said, "That's all."

Mack didn't have any other witness to call, and the judge said that would be all until tomorrow morning at nine. The crowd headed for the door, but I jammed my way against the current until I reached Kitsy. I said, "Has Bess seen you?"

"I don't think so," Kitsy answered.

"We worked our way to the front, Bess was surprised when she saw Kitsy, but she held out her arms and they hugged each other."

Bess said, "I told you to stay in school."

"I couldn't stay away when I knew you were in trouble," Kitsy said.

"I'm not in any trouble Gil can't get me out of," Bess said, but her tone lacked conviction. "Let's get out of this oven."

She walked out with Mrs. Veach. Gil a step behind her.

"I wanted to tell her about us being married," Kitsy whispered, "but I couldn't. Not now."

"No," I agreed. "Not now."

Johnny Strong and Frank Dance were waiting for us in front of the courthouse. They shook hands with Kitsy, then Johnny said: "Time's run out on us. Toll was talking big when he left the courthouse. He ain't the kind to talk big unless he's getting worried, and if he's worried he'll move."

"What'd he say?" I asked.

"He's gonna run Gil out of town," he said.

"Did Gil hear?"

"Sure he heard," Johnny said.

Shorty Quinn was standing about fifty feet from us, talking to Luke Jordan. I called, "Shorty."

Shorty Quinn started toward us. I said, "Johnny, you get two double-barreled shotguns and some shells out of Brady's store, some shells out of Brady's store. Frank, you run herd on our boys. Keep them together in case we need them."

They moved away, not understanding but not questioning me, either. When Shorty reached us, I asked, "Was there ever anything between Bess and Toll?"

He started to tell Kitsy he was glad she was back, but he never got started. He looked at me as if he thought I was crazy. I said impatiently, "Were they in love?"

He drew back a fist. "Dave, I ought to—"

"Hold on, Shorty," I said. "Tell him, Kitsy."

"I saw them kissing each other," she said. "It was the night of the meeting when Gil made that talk about rustling Rafter 3 cattle."

Shorty swallowed. I wasn't sure he believed her, but he wouldn't call her a liar.

I said, "He was with Bess Thanksgiving day, too. After the turkey shoot."

Shorty began rubbing a hoot toe through the dirt. He said, "There's something you don't know, Dave, but it answers your question. Toll rode in on Christmas day right after we heard about your pa getting killed. Bess met him in front of the house. She called him some names I never heard her use before. I thought she was gonna kill him before he finally got it through his head he's better set out of there if he was gonna stay alive."

I understood it then, or thought I did. They had been trying to use each other; but, being the kind of people they were, they were bound to fail. That was something Toll would not forget or forgive. He'd get square with Bess by sending her to prison, and he'd kill Kil because he was the man Bess had picked.

"Stay out of trouble," I said to Kitsy. "Shorty, you see that she

Advisory Asembly Begins NATO Sea Defense Study

PARIS (AP)—NATO's Advisory Assembly turned today to a study of the Atlantic Alliance's defenses at sea. There was some expectation it might learn whether the United States is willing to share some of the secrets of its atom-powered submarine.

The Assembly, made up of congressmen or Parliament members from the 15 NATO nations, scheduled a closed session to hear from U. S. Adm. Jerauld Wright, who commands both the U. S. Atlantic Fleet and NATO forces in the Atlantic.

The Russian submarine fleet is known to number about 500 ships, for coastal or long-range operation, and is increasing by 75 to 100 subs per year.

This growing threat jeopardizes Western control of the Atlantic shipping lanes and the Mediterranean.

Wright would welcome additional naval contributions from the European powers. A sharing of American atomic shipping secrets might spur the Allies to great activity.

The Assembly's spotlight shifted to naval power after a day of reports from leaders of the air and ground forces. American Air Force Gen. Thomas Power, commander of the Strategic Air Command, stiffened NATO spirits with the report that many of his planes were on 15-minute alert, armed with nuclear weapons.

He said SAC's aim was to keep a third of its planes on this status, although the aim had not yet been fully achieved.

American officers, after the first day of the Assembly meeting, disagreed strongly with an initial report to the group that the NATO military force was in danger of disintegration.

The report was filed by the Belgian and Dutch members of the Assembly's Military Committee. Strongly critical of the American policy of putting major dependence on nuclear retaliation, they called for a strengthening of conventional forces.

American sources said that while strong differences had come up in the initial discussions, there

Prepare Nuclear Engine For Ship

MOSCOW (AP)—Tass says a 40,000-horsepower nuclear power plant has been completed and successfully tested for the icebreaker Lenin, which the Russians are rushing to completion as the world's first atom-powered surface ship.

The announcement by the Soviet news agency did not say whether the steam turbine units have been installed yet. The 16,000-ton ship is under construction in Leningrad and the Soviet press has indicated it may be launched shortly.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market dipped slightly in moderate trading early this afternoon after an attempted rally by aircrafts came to little. Leading issues were down from fractions to a scattering of gainers in the same range. The market was lower at the opening and trading was so active that the ticker tape fell behind the pace of transactions for two minutes.

The flurry by aircrafts in mid-morning followed Commerce Secretary Weeks' speech calling for stepped-up military and foreign aid spending and curtailment of civilian programs. A few other issues also improved but the advance by aircrafts faltered and the market lapsed into an irregularly lower pattern.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. corn production this year will be 3,332,535,000 bushels, slightly down from last year, the Agriculture Department estimated in a semi-final report yesterday.
