Satellite's Rocket Still Flying, But End Is Near

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. scientists prepared today to feed new sighting data into an electronic brain in an effort to predict more accurately when Sputnik I's rocket carrier will fall.

Predictions during the weekend that the rocket's fall was imminent were not borne out. One British astronomer who had made such a prediction revised it to say the rocket is expected to last for several days.

Last night, the rocket was sighted by skywatchers over northeastern United States.

Dr. John White, staff scientist at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass., said those and other sighting reports would be used in a new computation of the rocket's present orbit.

White said the new data, fed into an electronic brain at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, may permit a more accurate forecast of when the rocket will take its fatal plunge.

Some scientists have expressed a belief that Sputnik I, a 184-pound sphere, will stay on course for several weeks longer than its carrier rocket because the drag on it is much less than on the rocket.

Estimates are the rocket, now traveling closer to the earth than Sputnik I, has covered more than 20 million miles. The rocket carried the world's first earth satellite into orbit on Oct. 4. A second Soviet satellite... fired aloft Nov. 3 with a dog, as a passenger. There has been no definite prediction when Sputnik II will drop.

Considerable excitement was generated Friday night when British P. J. A. C. Lovell announced the rocket's end might be only a short time away. Lovell is director of the Jodrell Bank station, which boasts the world's largest radio telescope, which has been tracking the space travelers.

That excitement mounted Saturday when scientists lost contact with the rocket for much of the day.

However, the Jodrell Bank radio telescope located the carrier again Saturday night. It was then that Lovell changed his earlier prediction.

Soviet scientists have said parts of the rocket may survive to land on the earth's surface.

But many Western scientists have expressed the opinion the rocket will burn like a meteor due to atmospheric friction when it falls toward earth.

The weekend brought these other developments:

1. Dr. Hans K. Ziegler, a German-trained scientist, said at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., the United States could have launched a satellite last month if President Eisenhower had ordered it.

"We have satellites, the rockets, the fuel and the know-how," said Ziegler, assistant research director at the U. S. Army Signal Corps Engineering Laboratory. He spoke out in an interview with the Asbury Park (N. J.) Sunday Press.

2. Elbert Eaton, an Air Force research specialist, said in Bedford, Mass., studies now under way are aimed at sending three 1,000-pound satellites into orbit between 300 and 600 miles above earth, and at shooting a rocket some 4,000 miles into space. Each of the satellites, Eaton said, would be equipped with television instruments.

3. Data, a trade magazine, said the Air Force hopes to have an experimental manned vehicle in space by 1960. The publication also said the Air Force plans to launch an unmanned, V-2-equipped reconnaissance satellite next year.

Rains And Snow For Carolinas

Cape Fear River Slightly Flooding; Snow Sticking In Mountains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy rains in up-state drainage basins today caused river folk of the eastern and lower Carolinas to cast wary eyes toward rising streams.

Snow fell today in the Blue Ridge Mountains, including Mt. Mitchell and Grandfather Mountain. They are at the 6,000 feet level, and the snow was sticking. It was better than a quarter inch this forenoon. The temperature at Mt. Mitchell was 32 degrees, just freezing, shortly before noon.

Heaviest rains of the 24-hour period which ended at 7:30 a. m., today were in the upper Piedmont and mountain sections.

Here are some of the rainfall recordings of that 24-hour period, in inches:

Greensboro 1.26, Asheville 1.25, Charlotte .76, and Raleigh .51. Columbia .97; Anderson .80. Greenville .81, Spartanburg .63, Florence .10 and Charleston .11.

The Weather Bureau uses Greensboro-High Point Airport for its check point. In downtown Greensboro, some 10 miles away, 1.5 inches of rain was recorded in the 14 hours ended at 9 a. m. today.

The Cape Fear River was reported flooding slightly at Fayetteville and Elizabethtown. It was reported bankful and rising slowly this morning but posing no real threat as yet. The Neuse River was reported steadily rising but yet short of flood stage.

Reports in eastern South Carolina said rivers there were in moderate flood condition in lowlands.

The Weather Bureau said a low pressure area moving northeastward from Georgia would enter the Carolinas late today and that rains would gradually end. A five-day forecast indicated, however, that new rains may be expected Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Miami Weather Bureau ordered small craft warnings displayed at 10 a. m. today from Myrtle Beach, S. C., north to Cape Hatteras.

The warnings will be displayed until sunset. The Weather Bureau predicted fresh to strong northeasterly winds from 20 to 35 miles per hour diminishing and becoming north to northwest late today or tonight.

Scientist Believes Soviet ICBM Could Hit Houston

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Edward Teller said today he believes Russia has the ability to hit such a distant target as Houston, Tex., with an intercontinental ballistic missile, or will have in a short time.

Dr. Teller, the opening witness in a Senate inquiry into the U. S. missile program, declared "we will disregard at our greatest peril" the possibility that the Russians have an ICBM of such accuracy.

Teller is a University of California scientist who played a major part in the development of the H-bomb.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, chairman of the Preparedness subcommittee conducting the hearings, said in his opening statement that the United States has "lost an important battle of technology" to Soviet Russia.

But, he declared, the "lost battle" represented by Russia's launching of two satellites is "not a defeat—it is a challenge."

After Teller had described to the subcommittee the conclusions he drew from the launching of the second Russian satellite, he was asked by counsel Edwin L. Weisl: "Then you believe Russia now has an intercontinental ballistic missile?"

"I certainly cannot say with complete certainty," Teller replied. "But they have said they do. There is every reason to believe they have it, at least at the stage that they have constructed it and tested it."

"To what extent they have operational capability, I do not know. I certainly hope they do not."

Weisl then quoted Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, head of the radiation laboratory at the University of California where Teller works as a physicist, as saying last week he believed the Russians could hit Houston with ICBM.

"Do you believe that, too?" the counsel asked.

"Yes, sir," said Teller. "But he added he wanted to make clear he did not think of Houston as "a pinpoint."

Teller told a television audience yesterday that the United States has lagged behind Russia in science and has lost "a battle more important and greater than Pearl Harbor."

He did not speak directly of missiles but said this country is in a "very sad and dangerous" situation now and rebuilding of prestige in science will be a long and hard struggle.

The subcommittee is to hear testimony from Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency; Secretary of Defense McElroy; Undersecretary Donald Quarles; and William Holaday, who heads the missile program.

Sen. Bridges (R-N.H.) and Stennis (D-Miss.), members of the subcommittee, said in interviews that they hope the hearings will clear up what they call a division of authority between Holaday and Dr. James R. Killian who was named by President Eisenhower as a special assistant to coordinate scientific developments.

Both Bridges and Stennis called for a single authority. "We have got to have a top missile man with authority to make this program work at top speed," Bridges said.

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass.), another subcommittee member, said the investigation may show that the nation is trying to develop too many missiles at once rather than concentrating on a few.

Although he conceded in a radio-TV interview that Russia appears farther along with intercontinental ballistic missiles, he said he thinks this country is still ahead in over-all military power.

Secretary of the Army Brucker said on another TV program that development of U. S. intermediate range ballistic missiles is right on schedule. The weapons "should be in production" in 1959, he added.

Brucker expressed the opinion this country is ahead of Russia in missiles with a range of 1,500 miles, but he conceded Russian superiority on those with a range of up to 800 miles. Missiles with that range, fired accurately from Russia, could travel for enough to knock out most American bases in Europe.

Brucker said also the ICBM the Russians claimed to have fired successfully last September was a "test vehicle" and not a production-line weapon.

But Dr. Theodore von Karman said in an NBC-TV interview that Russia, could travel far enough to be capable of great damage even if it were not completely perfected.

Von Karman heads the Air Research Advisory Group of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

In Moscow, the newspaper Soviet Aviation said Russia had used

"sweating walls" and a new form of ceramics including cobalt to solve the problem of heat generated by the ICBM in flight.

The article said the cobalt eliminated some of the brittleness from the ceramic covering which caused it to crack under vibration.

In this country, several experts commented that neither the use of evaporation nor the combination of ceramics and metals (known as cermets) was new in principle.

Searchers Find 2 Chilled Hunters

Two duck hunters, experiencing a near relationship with death, were rescued from the Tar River early Saturday night before their cold waters could lay claim to their lives.

Nearly three hours after their 13-foot boat struck a submerged log, members of the Greenville Rescue Squad found Timon Keel, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Keel of 1001 E. Third St., and James Ray Robinson, 20, of Greenville St. They were standing on a high bank near the water, wet and shivering.

Both were reported to have been suffering from exposure to other rescuers who were contacted in the three-hour ordeal.

Two unidentified competitors engaged the searchers when they failed to arrive at the Port Terminal landing late Saturday afternoon. When the search failed to reveal their whereabouts, the Rescue Squad and members of the Sheriff's Department were contacted.

Keel and Robinson reportedly left Mills Landing earlier to take their boat out of the water at the Port Terminal several miles away. They were not seen again until their rescue approximately one and one-half miles east of their destination.

According to one of rescuers, their boat struck a submerged log and overturned, throwing them into the cold Tar. Around 5:30 p. m. he said they managed to hang onto the boat's bow for nearly an hour before grabbing an over-hanging limb.

The limb broke, he said. However the two managed to swim to the shore. Here they were found between 8:15 and 8:30 by the Rescue Squad.

While hanging onto the partially submerged boat, both removed some of their heavy hunting clothing. "We did this to enable us to remain afloat," he said.

Their boat and outboard motor were approximately two miles down the river from the scene of the accident. Other equipment including two new automatic strobe lights was lost.

Earth Shocks In Western N. C.

BRYSAN CITY, N. C. (AP)—The Earth shook for several seconds in four far western North Carolina counties yesterday afternoon.

The earth tremor in Swain, Haywood, Cherokee and Jackson counties was described by some residents as the strongest in their memory.

There apparently was no damage beyond the shaking of buildings, rattling of windows, and dancing of crockery.

A Haywood County resident said "the whole earth vibrated" and dressers in his home jumped off the floor.

A druggist here said the tremor caused glasses to jump up and down. An operator said the whole telephone building at Sylva shook.

Dr. Gerald McCarthy, who is in charge of the seismograph at the University of North Carolina, said a severe tremor was recorded at 3:07 p. m.

Two rangers at separate locations in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park said they felt the quake. And several residents of Gatlinburg, Tenn., site of park headquarters, said the rattling windows and dishes in homes throughout that small town.

Jordan Threatens To Disrupt Border Talks

JERUSALEM (AP)—A Jordanian demand for the removal of a U. S. officer serving as U. N. truce observer today threatened a breakdown in the mediation of disputes along the Jordan-Israeli border.

As new frontier clashes were reported, Jordan announced that it no longer would accept the truce recommendations of U. S. Marine Col. Byron Leary.

But a U. N. spokesman said Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld immediately told the Arab government that Leary "continues to enjoy his full personal confidence."

Jordan's demand for Leary's removal apparently was prompted by the officer's mediation efforts in an Israeli convoy incident last week which touched off a series of border clashes.

Jordan charged the Israelis violated the armistice agreement by sending a convoy with highly flammable benzene to a hospital in the Mt. Scopus demilitarized area within the Arab part of Jerusalem.

Israel then asked to negotiate with Jordan, citing a section of the armistice agreement applying to the movement of traffic on roads in the Bethlehem-Jordan area.

Leary relayed the request. Jordan rejected it.

The Arab government's repudiation of Leary as a truce observer was accompanied by an announcement that Jordan will take the convoy matter to the U. N. Security Council.

Foreign Minister Samir Rifai, commenting on the dispute, said he had been "informed of openly partial recommendations and views" expressed by Leary. He added that the U. S. officer had been biased on previous occasions.

Israel charged that Jordanians yesterday fired on three Israeli laborers near Yarith and tried unsuccessfully to kidnap them.

In another complaint, Israel said Syrian soldiers fired machine guns at Israeli field workers near Tel Azaziat in northeastern Israel, fatally wounding one.

But Syria said the Israelis launched the attack "in an attempt to plow Arab lands by force." The farmers marched in behind an armored car which opened fire on Arab farmers working the area, Damascus said.

Israel filed complaints with the U. N. Mixed Armistice Commissions in both the latest border incidents, and Syria filed a countercharge.

Little Change In Flue-Cured Leaf Allotments Of '58

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department today set planting allotments for the 1958 crop of flue-cured tobacco at 713,468 acres under a rigid marketing quota program.

The allotments, designed to help prevent over production, compare with 712,800 acres allotted for this year's crop.

The department said that since the next total allotments are only slightly larger than those for this year, the individual farm allotments in nearly all instances will be the same as last year.

The slight increase in the total allotments resulted from allowances for allotments to farms which have not grown flue-cured tobacco during the past five years, from corrections, and from adjustment of inequities among individual farm allotments.

Flue-cured tobacco, used mainly in cigarettes, is grown in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama.

The department also announced that as was the case this year prices for Coker 139, Coker 140 and Dixie Bright 214 varieties will be supported at one half the rate for comparable grades of other varieties.

These varieties were put under price support discount, because the department said, they are low to lacking in flavor, aroma and body color now in demand by the cigarette industry.

The base price support rate will be 80 per cent of parity, as prescribed by law. Parity is a standard for setting up farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged

The opening day average last year at Asheville set a market record of $59.51 per hundred pounds. Last year, the record first day average was $58.72 in 1951-52.

Last year's Asheville sales totaled $6,360,000 for an average of $65.16 per hundred pounds on a total crop of 10,500,000 pounds.

Two other burley markets in North Carolina were scheduled to open today at Boone and West Jefferson — and predictions of good prices.

Wreck Fatal To Six In Family

RUBY, S. C. (AP)—A milk tank truck sheared the top from a sedan yesterday and killed six members of one family.

The dead, Robert Hazel Miles, 31, of Health Springs; his wife, Christine Pierce Miles, 25; Miles' sister, Betty Jean Miles, 16; Miles' mother; Mrs. Mary Miles, 50, of Jefferson; and the two Miles children, Judy and Jewel.

Joe Lee Mills, 17, driver of the truck, was seriously injured.

State police said Miles, a textile mill worker, was driving the auto. They said the sister, Betty Jean, was still alive when extricated from the wreckage, but died before reaching a hospital.

The wreck occurred at the crest of a hill on a paved rural road about 12 miles south of here. Ruby is about 50 miles southeast of Charlotte, N. C.

Wreck Victim's Condition Is Still Critical

Robert W. O'Neil, General Delivery, Yorktown, Va., was said to still be in critical condition at Pitt Memorial Hospital this morning.

O'Neil was injured in a head-on collision on U. S. 258 near Farmville Friday night. Four other persons were killed in the traffic accident.

A physician this morning said O'Neil was "a little better but still in critical condition." He suffered a broken collar bone, several broken ribs, internal injuries and a concussion.

O'Neil and Robert S. Harrell Jr., 103 S. Contentnea St., Farmville were the only survivors of the traffic accident.

Harrell was not seriously injured in the crash.

Hodges Favors No Dependence CAB To Probe Airport Needs

SEALEVEL, N. C. (AP)—Gov. Hodges urged citizens against constant dependence on others and then dedicated a $400,000 medical Clinic and annex to the Seal Level Community Hospital Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Malby Taylor of Seal Level and their four sons donated the clinic addition. The eldest of the four brothers, D. E. Taylor of Palm Beach, Fla., spoke briefly and at one point referred to Hodges as "the next vice president of the United States." The governor made no mention of this comment during his address.

CAB To Probe Airport Needs

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—An investigation stemming from a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing at Greensboro last May has been recommended to determine whether the Winston-Salem, Greensboro-High Point area could best be served by one airport.

CAB examiner Richard A. Walsh recommended the investigation. He also recommended that additional service by National Airlines to Winston-Salem and to Greensboro-High Point Airport be denied.

"Mr. Little is a brilliant scientist and I have every confidence in his capabilities," Richards said. "At present he is sitting on the fence of nature, but as far as I am concerned he will continue to work at the establishment—dressed as a man, of course."

Little, chief of a research team at a big naval base here, was dressed for the news conference in a green coat, red high heel shoes and nylon stockings. He wore makeup and costume jewelry and carried a red handbag.

Young Vagrant Claims To Be German Refugee

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Winston-Salem police today were holding a 16-year-old boy on a vagrant charge while they checked his story that he is a German refugee who has lost his memory.

Officers who picked up the youth at 10:45 p. m., Saturday at the Union Bus Terminal here said the lad identified himself with a 1952 German passport which listed the name of Gerhart Peter Termin. Employees said the boy had been loitering there since about 3 p. m.

The police said that the youth could remember nothing of life in Germany or who was responsible for getting him to the United States. They added that he also recalled living with six different families but could not recall the name of any family. The officers said he spoke excellent English and claimed to have forgotten how to speak German.

Sewerage Plant Project 'On Schedule'

FARMVILLE (AP)—"On-schedule progress" was reported today by contractors handling construction of Farmville's new sewerage disposal plant.

The plant, located northeast of the town limits near Little Contentnea Creek, is slated to go into operation in early spring. A spokesman for Crane and Denbo, Raleigh construction firm handling the project, said the schedule would be met "if the weather is good throughout most of the winter months."

Two-thirds of the concrete work at the plant site has been completed, with most structural foundations already poured. Approximately 40 per cent of the pipe work has been installed.

In addition, equipment for the plant's operation has been delivered to the plant site but will not be installed until all structures are completed.

Units which have been completed, or which are nearing completion, include drying beds, digestors and the secondary clarifier.

The project is being financed with bond money authorized by Farmville voters and a federal grant.

A physician this morning said O'Neil was "a little better but still in critical condition." He suffered a broken collar bone, several broken ribs, internal injuries and a concussion.

O'Neil and Robert S. Harrell Jr., 103 S. Contentnea St., Farmville were the only survivors of the traffic accident.

Harrell was not seriously injured in the crash.

Sewerage Plant Project 'On Schedule'

FARMVILLE (AP)—"On-schedule progress" was reported today by contractors handling construction of Farmville's new sewerage disposal plant.

The plant, located northeast of the town limits near Little Contentnea Creek, is slated to go into operation in early spring. A spokesman for Crane and Denbo, Raleigh construction firm handling the project, said the schedule would be met "if the weather is good throughout most of the winter months."

Two-thirds of the concrete work at the plant site has been completed, with most structural foundations already poured. Approximately 40 per cent of the pipe work has been installed.

In addition, equipment for the plant's operation has been delivered to the plant site but will not be installed until all structures are completed.

Units which have been completed, or which are nearing completion, include drying beds, digestors and the secondary clarifier.

The project is being financed with bond money authorized by Farmville voters and a federal grant.

Freeze Only Fresh, Clean Pork Advises Miss Orr, Specialist

By VIRGINIA M. NANCE Television commercials may tell you that the "height of a piggy's ambition" is to be a certain kind of ham—but piggy would not pay to hope that when he's prepared for the freezer or locker he'll be clean and fresh as life!

Miss Nita Orr, Agricultural Extension Service frozen food specialist, offers several facts that you should know and do to get fresh-tasting frozen pork. She says this applies whether you grow your own pigs or buy your pork by the piece.

"If, at some time or another, you've thawed and cooked a package of pork and haven't been pleased with the results, then it's time to sit up and take notice as to how you can save your frozen pork from bad odors and old, stale flavors. You don't want your family or guests to be able to tell a difference between fresh and frozen pork—at all they won't be able to tell if you follow these few simple rules of freezing pork.

Next in importance is your method of packaging—or the care you take in wrapping the pork for freezing. Remember to package it with material that lets no air seep through it. There should be no air pockets between meat and wrapper, according to Miss Orr's best advice. Then freeze it below zero degrees and keep it stored at zero degrees or colder.

And whether you buy or raise your pork, you want meat from about a 225-pound hog that is bred and fed for leanness. Even the hogs these days are striving for that "lean look!" Suppose you don't have a home freezer and still want to freeze your pork. What should you do then? Miss Orr urges that if you take your hog to a freezer-locker plant, be sure to make a date ahead of time. This way, the plant can give you better service and will have adequate space provided to take care of chilling the meat properly.

How a pig is killed helps decide whether or not your frozen pork is good. Miss Orr points out to those who raise hogs. She emphasizes the importance of killing a calm pig—not a frightened or startled one. If you live near an abattoir—slaughter house—it may pay to you to have your hogs killed there.

If it is at all possible, Miss Orr points out that it is better to have your pork frozen and then put it in your freezer or locker for storage. If you freeze pork in your own freezer, do not put too much unfrozen food in the freezer at one time. Remember to follow the manufacturer's instructions about where the place the packages for freezing. Most freezers have a quick-freeze compartment.

In conclusion, it can be said that the "Number One Sin" of North Carolina freezer owners to do their own freezing, do not put too much unfrozen food. Make sure that you won't be one of these "sinners."

Thanksgiving, Christmas Themes To Be Used At Bazaar

At 10 o'clock tomorrow morning the holiday bazaar to be held at the education building of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church will begin.

Continuing until 8 p.m. tomorrow night, the bazaar will also be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday and will offer a wide variety of handmade items.

Mrs. M. P. Hoot, president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, requests that visitors use the Greene Street entrance.

Lunch will also be served Tuesday and Wednesday and dinner Tuesday night in the church dining room, adjoining the bazaar room. Proceeds from the meals and bazaar will go toward the church building fund.

Gifts which will answer the Christmas shoppers' problems and homemade food for the Thanksgiving holidays will be main features of the two-day event.

A few of the items for sale include smocks, crocheted mats, children's animal shaped place mats, pin cushions, sachet bags, doll clothes, stuffed animals, decorated hat boxes, and wooden novelties.

In keeping with the holiday theme, a host of Christmas arrangements and decorations, stockings, wreaths and "glow" candles will highlight the bazaar. Because of their popularity last year, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, Jr. has made a number of the Santa Claus puppets again this year.

Whole Family Now Takes To Railroad

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Don't be surprised if you see Mom and Sis working on the railroad this Christmas, along with Pop and Junior. The model train fan club now takes in all the family, with the introduction of new pastel-colored electric trains designed especially for girls.

The toy train empire this year includes blueprint-perfect replicas of 26 of the nation's leading railroads, as manufacturers of toy railroad equipment supply the toy train makers with specifications for new models long before they are actually in service. So whenever you see a brand new locomotive or a new type train streaking across country, you can be sure it has a toyland replica in miniature.

In addition to the trains themselves, there are many new accessories to supply thrills for the young railroader. There's a remote-controlled illuminated dispatching board with an attendant who hurries across a catwalk in front of the board and changes train arrivals and departures. There's a news stand with a dealer who moves back and forth at the flick of a button while a newsboy sells his papers and a miniature pup chases his tail around a fire hydrant. There's an operating fork-lift platform with a truck that loads and unloads boards from a lumber car.

One company puts out a "how to do" booklet to encourage Mom to landscape the toy train right-of-way. It explains how to use coffee grounds mixed with varnish to simulate a plowed field, how to make bushes and trees from tinted sponges, how to make lakes and rivers from clear plastic.

This year the electric train layout has become a family project.

RAILROADERS ALL . . . Sis joins Junior this year in the model train fan club, with her own pastel electric train.

Salvage Those Worn Linens

In every housewife's life there comes the time when she is faced with a depressing pile of worn-out sheets, pillow cases, towels and blankets. Sheets and pillow cases split down the middle, towels get torn, blankets are frayed around the edges. But usually there is plenty of usable fabric in all these things, and the woman who is handy with the sewing machine can turn out many attractive and practical items from the worn linen pile.

Here are a few tips from experts that may be trimmed away to on how to stretch the budget by reclaiming worn linens.

Towel Tricks
Towels, for example offer many possibilities. A worn towel is softer than a new one, and the worn parts may be trimmed away to make towels or washcloths for a new baby. To finish raw edges use a zigzag stitch. Towels also may be cut into baby bibs, edged with bias tape. The good parts of several bath towels may be stitched together to make an absorbent terry cloth apron, invaluable at baby's bath time. Make a big pocket in the apron to hold such essentials as soap, oil and talcum. A makeup cape is a useful item which may be cut from an old bath towel and lined with vinyl plastic, which may be salvaged.

Sheet Salvage
Most women know the trick of tearing a ripped sheet down the middle and stitching the selvages together to extend the life of the sheet. However there are many other things you can do with them. A worn sheet can be cut down to make a crib sheet or pillow cases. Or the good sections of the fabric can be used to make aprons, which may be brightened up with colored rickrack braid or bias binding trim.

Worn blankets also may be cut down to fit a smaller bed, or to make a bunting for a baby. A bedspread of suitable fabric can be turned into a set of closet accessories, with garment bag and matching shoe bag.

Tablecloth Thrift
Worn tablecloths can easily be made into place mats or napkins, attractively trimmed with decorative stitching. Worn draperies can be cut down to make case curtains, salvaging the unfaded parts of the fabric. Or good sections of draperies can be used to cover pillows or small chairs.

Almost any worn linen may be saved for padding in quilted seat covers, bridge table covers and such.

It's a good idea to keep your linen supply replenished by buying one or two sheets and pillow cases at the twice-yearly white sales, so that you never have to buy a full set all at once.

When mending torn sheets and other linens, the new automatic zigzag stitching does wonders, strengthening the torn section and allowing a flat seam. In some instances a mended place can even still be used for stuffing rag dolls or for padding under the ironing board cover.

Decorate Around Your Type

By VIVIAN BROWN
A big mistake made in home decorating is trying to decorate around a can of paint, says Beatrice West, one of the country's foremost color and design consultants.

"Once you've picked the paint it may be a difficult job to choose the other important furnishings to harmonize with it. One should choose first the items that are going to be permanent, such as the rug.

After that fabrics may be chosen, then the paint. Then, if a mistake is made in the paint selection you can change the walls, whereas if the rug is chosen to harmonize with some odd tint you have put on the walls, you may be stuck with a rug color you do not like."

Put your room plan on paper first, though, she advises. Draw the room to scale, attach swatches of fabric and paint colors to the sketch. Live with the idea for a while before going ahead with the plan.

"If cool colors are soothing to you and if your room is exposed to much sunshine, consider shades of blue and green. Soft silvery greens are popular now, and these are compatible to blondes and brunettes," says Miss West.

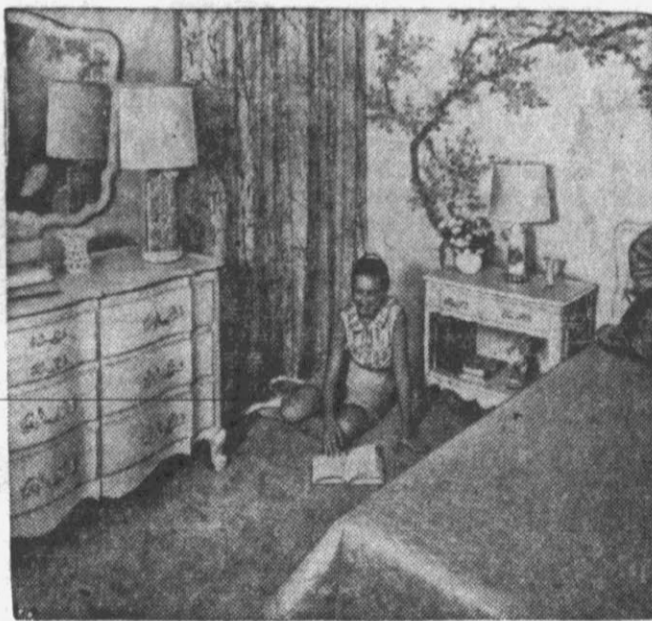

She believes in planning a room around your type. Why not, she says, favor tones from beige to cinnamon if you are the warm type. Canteloupe is a popular and fashionable hue right now. Beige is a best seller in floor coverings, so you can be right in style with that, also. Combine these with a shade like turquoise from a cool family for chic contrast.

A typical example of how to plan a room around a personality involves a room Miss West planned recently for Diana Layne 14, of Hallendale, Fla.

"Diana is a warm, sparkling blue-eyed type with ash-blond hair, so I chose aqua and gold with white for femininity," says Miss West. "Diana wanted French Provincial furniture, normally too sophisticated for her age, but in aqua and with a deeper blue trim it proved very youthful. The carpet is a deep turquoise shade, and there is a turquoise and white shikhi silk mural in an apple tree design by Robert Crowder, behind her bed. The theme is carried out in draperies with an apple blossom print. Citron gold is used for accent in pillows."

When Miss West planned the Layne home, she studied the family before she made her room plans. Then she met with them, showed her plans, color samples and fabric swatches. "Not a single thing was changed in Diana's plan," she says.

She used chintz for Diana's

Dieters' Lunch

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
FRUIT AND CHEESE are particularly good to choose for snack food these days because there is usually a weight-watcher or two among a group of guests.

A combination we like to serve consists of fresh Bartlett pears, seedless grapes and a sherried blue cheese spread. You can have some potato chips on hand, if you like, for munchers.

We use salad-size plates and fruit knives for this snack so eaters can spread the cheese on slices of pear and put a dab of it on a grape or a chip. The recipe for the spread calls for only three ingredients—more would distract from its heavenly flavor. Make up this spread a couple of days to a week before you serve it, then refrigerate it in a tightly covered container. This storage allows the three ingredients to blend with each other so there's a mellow, delectable result.

Sherried Blue Cheese
Ingredients: 1/2 pound cream cheese, 1/2 pound blue cheese, 1/2 cup cooking sherry.

Method: Have the cream cheese and blue cheese at room temperature; scrape off any brown outside covering from blue cheese. Blend together in a large bowl with an electric mixer at medium speed, or use a mixing spoon. Gradually beat in the sherry. Continue to beat until very smooth. If you want the mixture super-smooth, force it through a very fine sieve. Store in tightly-covered container in refrigerator for a couple of days to allow flavors to blend. Makes about 3 cups. To use as a dip, allow to soften at room temperature, stirring in any liquid that seeps up to top, before serving. To serve as a spread, turn into a small container surrounded with crushed ice: the ice will help keep the cheese mixture firm.

Other Twosomes
Another fine way to serve fresh pears is with cream cheese to which grated orange rind and slices of preserved ginger (in syrup) are added.

Or accompany the pears with a bowl of creamstyle cottage cheese to which grated lemon rind and chopped raisins are added. Wash the raisins in very hot water and drain well before chopping. Currants may be substituted for the raisins if you like; wash and drain them but do not chop.

Nylon Can Be Kept White

RALEIGH—Garments made of synthetics or blends of cotton and synthetics are becoming more a part of a woman's—or a man's—wardrobe today than ever before.

One of the problems that often confronts homemakers who have these garments to contend with on washdays is concerned particularly with keeping nylon white. Since nylon was first introduced on the market, this has been a problem; but much is being done through research to help overcome it.

What causes "nylon gray" in the first place? Miss Julia McIver, Agricultural Extension Service clothing specialist, tells us that it is caused by ineffective washing. It was and still is a mistaken idea that nylon will come clean simply by dipping in rich suds and rinsing.

Miss McIver emphasizes that hard rubbing is not required, but active sudings for five minutes or more is recommended, with hot water rather than lukewarm. She indicates that a temperature of 120 to 130 degrees is quite safe and more effective in getting cleansing and bleaching action.

Ineffective washing also can result from not using enough soap or detergent, or from using the wrong type.

If you have garments of nylon that have already developed "nylon gray," then Miss McIver suggests that you use a solution of two tablespoons chlorine to one gallon warm water, and add one teaspoon household vinegar. After combining these three ingredients, mix well. Then immerse clean "age yellowed" nylon 15 to 30 minutes in the mixture. Rinse well and repeat if necessary.

To avoid "nylon gray" or "age yellowed" nylon, begin when the garment is new by taking more care in washing.

bedspread "because it is young and frivolous" in a girl's room. She put a double skirt around the bed to lend an airy, ballet-skirt touch to the bed. The chintz was used, too, in the closet for garment bags, shelves and to cover coat hangers.

Miss West used miltum in the lining of the draperies in Diana's room for a dual purpose—to screen out the early morning rays of the sun and keep her room cool.

"Can't Afford Redecorating?"
Use Your Credit!

NOW that the children are back in school, just looking at the summer's wear and tear on the house makes us itch to do the whole place over, doesn't it? New furniture arrangements, new paint, new colors, new wallpaper patterns—the change could be almost as stimulating as having a new house!

Bright fall weather and the feeling of change in the air really do give us a "yen" for fresh surroundings. The coming holidays, too, would seem much more festive if celebrated in smartly decorated rooms. But . . . "Can we afford it?"

This is a question that crops up in hundreds of homes every day . . . needlessly.

The truth is that almost any home owner today can afford professional painting and decorating. This is because our services can be paid for with easy monthly payments exactly as we buy homes, cars, appliances and many other things nowadays.

This year, Painting and Decorating Contractors and dealers' associations of the paint industry placed in effect a nationwide joint time payment sales plan called Painting and Decorating Credit. With this cooperative arrangement, the home owner can buy decorating materials, or professional services, or both, for any amount of redecorating, and pay for them on terms to fit his income.

Under PHA's Title 1, the Federal Housing Administration will insure home improvement loans made by banks, savings and loan companies or other approved financial institutions. The loans for redecorating or other improvements may be as high as $3,500 and the money is paid either directly to the home owner from the lending agency, or to the contractor or dealer.

It's a good idea to get advice on your financing first from the painting contractor who will do the work. Any PDCA member can help with credit arrangements.

Welcome Change On PTA Front

It is an encouraging sign when men of a community assume positions of leadership in the Parent-Teacher organization of the schools.

Don't misunderstand us. We have nothing against the ladies who for years have been the backbone of school PTAs. Had it not been for their interest and their leadership over a long period of years, there would be no Parent-Teacher organizations to support our schools today. And make no mistake about it, the ladies are still the ones who carry the load and wear the pants when it comes to PTA work.

A few years ago a man was a rarity at a PTA meeting. Gradually they have begun to appear in increasing numbers at meetings in the various schools. After years of pleading, imploring and perhaps a little threatening, the ladies have begun to impress upon their husbands that fathers as well as mothers have a responsibility to the schools through work of the Parent-Teachers Association.

Today the men are at long last assuming their place of responsibility in that important organization. Just last week three of the four officers elected by the Greenville Junior High School PTA were men. The presidency still went to the opposite sex. But three male officers for one school PTA is, we believe, a new record for Greenville.

Strength of the Parent-Teacher Association, the contribution it can make to the schools, the community and the youngsters is directly proportionate to the support the organization receives from both fathers and mothers of school children.

For a long time now the ladies have shown their willingness to assume responsibilities in areas of community endeavor which a few decades ago rested entirely on the shoulders of the menfolk.

It is most gratifying that the males are now assuming PTA responsibilities which too long have been left to the women alone.

At Showdown Time, We Stand Together

It is not new in American politics for the chief executive to call upon the man he has defeated for the highest office in the land to give a hand during critical times.

It is one of the accepted paradoxes of the American political system. And usually when such a situation occurs it adds the strength of unity which is so necessary in dealing with critical matters during perilous periods.

As President Roosevelt called on Wendell Wilkie some years ago, President Eisenhower has called on the man he has twice defeated for the Presidency, Adlai Stevenson.

Stevenson, an avid student of international affairs can be of invaluable service as an advisor to Secretary of State Dulles if members of the lower echelons of both political parties will allow things to run smoothly. Stevenson's service will come to naught if Republicans persist in issuing such statements directed at him as did Sherman Adams, the President's chief assistant.

Stevenson has been one of the severest critics of the Eisenhower administration, particularly in the field of foreign policy. He has not minced words in the past in pointing to the errors in judgment and administration of State Department affairs by Secretary Dulles. He even went so far not long ago as to picture Dulles as a "misguided missile."

But those things must now be put aside. Creation of an effective, aggressive foreign policy for the nation must not be hampered by domestic partisan political overtones. We are confident the Eisenhower-Dulles-Stevenson team can mould a more effective foreign policy for the United States; but only if the lesser politicians allow them to do so.

Employment Dip Will Be Worse

By ELMER ROESSNER
The dip in employment in January will be worse than usual.

There's almost always a downturn, caused by the lay-off of postal employees and store sales personnel hired for the Christmas rush, and by the arrival of bad weather, shutting down highway and other outdoor construction work.

Added to these unemployed next January will be many persons kept on payrolls now because employers don't want to fire anybody this close to Christmas, or because they are still hopeful of a sharp upturn.

Here are more look-aheads in business, based as usual on analyses of current trends and a few bits of advance information. You can count on:

Bargains in cordials. The Supreme Court's blow at tie-in sales means that dealers don't have to take unwanted goods. A favorite tie-in of distributors have been cordials, which normally have a high markup, but slow turnover. The new ruling is causing re-examination of cordial marketing, which will lead to lower prices and smaller margins, but perhaps faster turnover.

NEW FOOD PRODUCT
Hydrofrozen peas. Hydrofrozen peas is a new way to preserve foods. Two-thirds of the water content is removed, then the food is frozen. This cuts weight 50 per cent without injuring the flavor, as many dehydrating processes do. Peas so treated have been tested in the Milwaukee restaurant market and restaurateurs and diners liked them so well hydrofrozen peas and other produce will be offered in other markets.

Flatter TV receivers. Manufacturers have solved almost all problems in connection with a tube with a 90-degree angle and a short neck, making them up to 2 1/2 inches shorter than the shortest now made.

Costlier lamb. The number of sheep and lambs to be fattened for market early next year will decline, according to government surveys. A corresponding increase in price will follow.

Higher plane fares. Most airlines face the cost of financing new jets, plus rising costs in ground-side operations. That means either higher fares or more subsidies, and the government will incline toward the former.

BARGAINS IN APPAREL
Declines in textiles. Fall sales were down; winter sales in many markets are worse; inventories are high. Both manufacturers and garment makers will soon be cutting until it hurts them!

A surprising strength in Christmas sales. Despite recessionary rumbles, early holiday shopping has held up well. It had dipped where there have been heavy layoffs, but gone ahead in other areas. This indicates that unless consumers grow cautious, total sales will be close to earlier predictions.

Less chrome finishes on autos. Two other metals are bidding for the role held by chrome on auto trim — a role not played very well, since cracking of chrome plating results in rust as a glance at any old car will show. The competitors are aluminum, which is being used increasingly for trim and decoration, and stainless steel. Anodized aluminum in color is interesting many designers. Stainless steel can now be laminated to other metals, thereby adding a stainless surface to cheaper models.

INDUSTRY PRAISES SELF WITH FAINT DAMN
"The ways of some industries are strange indeed," the Old Promoter remarked during his weekly visit today.

"Go on!" we said.

"Here's the gas industry boasting that gas was the cause of less than 3 per cent of the fires in American buildings last year," he said, displaying a clipping.

"There were 824,400 fires and it says gas was the cause of only 21,000. 'That's one of the biggest ones I've ever seen.'"

"What would you have said if you were the gas industry?" we asked.

"I'd have kept my big mouth shut," he replied.

BURDEN OR PRIVILEGE?

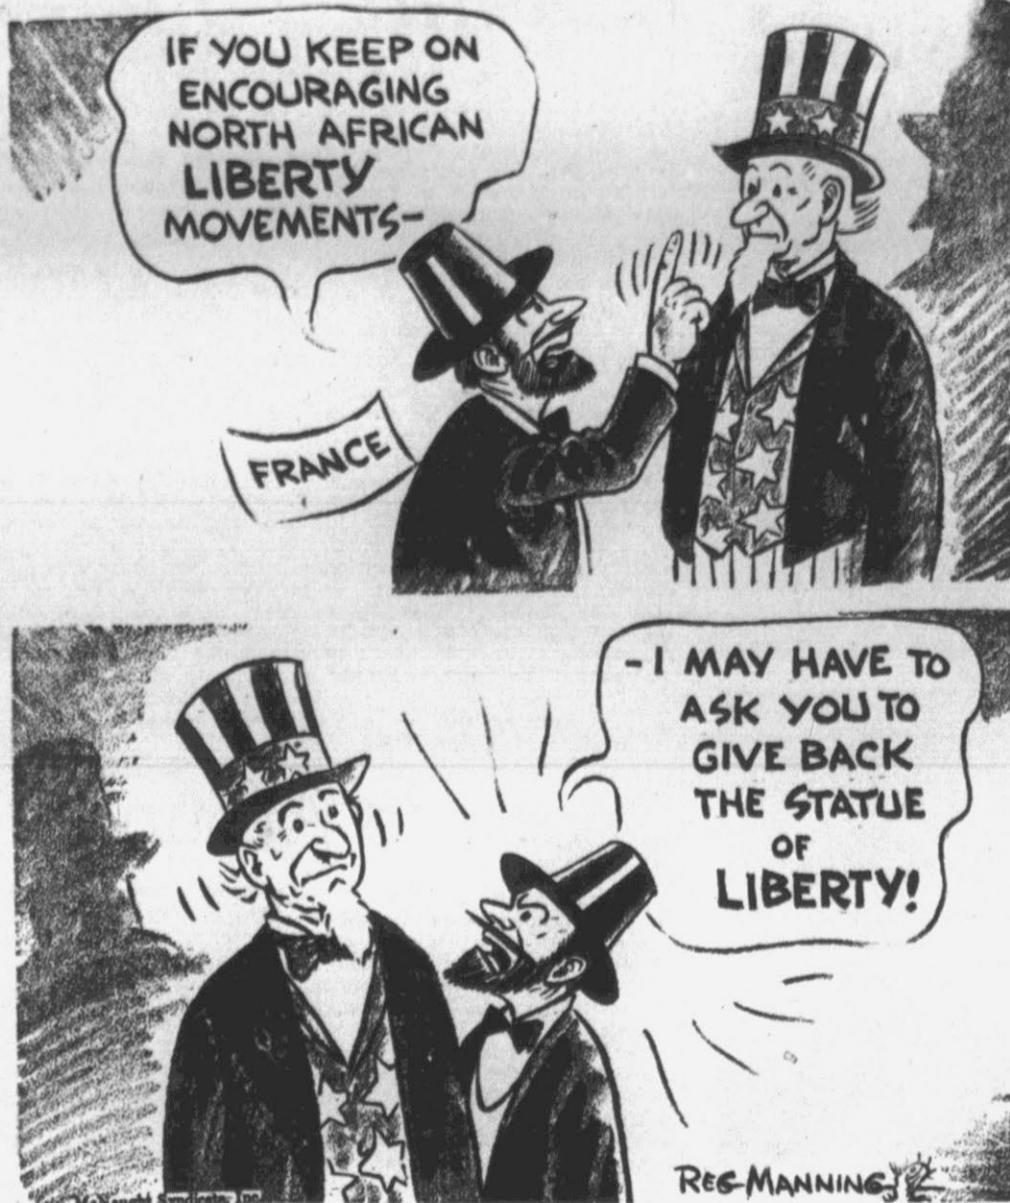

"Is life worthwhile?" We often hear that question asked, and probably every time we do hear it there arises in our minds the faint suspicion that perhaps life is not worthwhile after all.

What has been the experience of the race in this regard? Undoubtedly most — in fact almost all — normal, wholesome-minded people believe that life is worthwhile. And they have very definite ideas as to what makes it worthwhile. They hold that life becomes increasingly worthwhile the more deeply we live it; that there is not lasting satisfaction to be found in idleness, indulgence, or the frantic pursuit of pleasure. Life's deepest satisfactions come from handling life's problems effectively and courageously as they arise, from finishing every job one starts today, from acting on the conviction that duty consists in doing the job lying nearest at hand. The person whose life turns in is the type who cries out in despair and complains that life is indeed not worth living. The person who not only bears his own burdens gallantly, but forgets the heaviness of them long enough to help others bear their burdens, really knows what life is all about.

Put more into life than you get out of it. Give to everyone more than you get. Believe that health of body and mind comes from wholesome and healthy activities. Then will you discover the great truth that life is not something to be endured but a privilege to be enjoyed.

An Education In The Mail

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That if there is anything you have left undone you'd better hurry up and do it. Scientists used to think the earth would last another 50 billion years. Now some believe that wild explosions from the dying sun may crisp this planet within 3 to 10 billion years.

That a government survey found high school graduates earn an average of $50,000 more than non-grads during a working lifetime. That diploma is worth getting.

That Monique Van Vooren, Belgium's bombshell entertainer, gives this definition of a honeymoon: "co-existence."

That if you doubt the U.S. Weather Bureau's forecasts, here are a few old-fashioned beliefs to rely on: low-flying swallows are a sure sign of rain, the flight of seagulls inland indicates a coming storm.

That one of the troubles even with the 1958-model cars is that their back seat drivers never run out of gas.

That President Eisenhower may be interested in a new golf ball designed by Harry Roinick, a Garland, Tex., manufacturer. It has a built-in pocket that can hold three spare golf balls.

That by the time a fellow has enough money to get married he's usually celebrating his 10th wedding anniversary.

That new crinkle-proof popcorn bags have been developed to foil movie cut-ups. When blown up and smashed, they don't make a sound. And teenagers can't fill them with water and drop them from the balcony—they won't hold water. Somebody's always taking the fun out of being a teenager.

That an East Side drug store has this sign over its weight machine: "scale wage still one cent."

A sign outside a Madison Avenue salon warns: "Hair today may be gone tomorrow."

That the fastest recorded flight of a bird is that of an Indian species of the swift. It was clocked at nearly 200 miles an hour.

That the temperature of the earth increases about one degree for every 60 feet of depth. Dig down two miles and it is hot enough to boil an egg. Don't buy your bride a new stove; give her a pick and shovel.

That every day the rains and rivers sweep eight million tons of earth into the sea.

That comic George de Witt tells the silly about the poppa cloud who got peeved because the mama cloud insisted on going through his air pockets.

That it is an old custom for British royalty to use the title "Earl of Chester" when traveling incognito. Even Queen Victoria was known as the "Countess of Chester" when she vacationed privately.

That the WCTU might be interested in this assertion by George Bernard Shaw: "The people drink to ease the painful process of living."

That manicurists always have nice nails, barbers always have well-kept hair, and clothing salesmen are always nicely dressed. But did you ever see a shoe shine boy with neatly polished shoes?

That a namesake for every U.S. president is listed in the New York City phone books.

That one-third of the accidents that befall a modern husband happen while he is working on do-it-yourself projects outside his home. And one half the minor accidents that befall the lady of the house occur while she is in the kitchen.

That it was the poet Dante who observed: "In his will is our peace."

Quote ...

"Nebraska is the all-public-power state—and this is a model for those who seek ultimate socialization of all the electric resources and facilities of this country."

"However, public power in Nebraska is having its troubles. Nebraska municipalities, searching for additional tax revenues, are imposing occupational taxes on the publicly-owned utility districts."

"The public-power forces regard this with something akin to horror. At a recent meeting, the Nebraska Rural Electric Association adopted a resolution labeling the idea 'unsound and an attack against the whole idea of public power' and added that the principle of taxing a public power district is contrary to the accepted concept of government."

"Well, it could be said that the existence of a public power district is contrary to our American concept of government. It was never intended that our government go into commercial business—which the generation and distribution of electricity plainly is. If that is proper, so is the production and sale of tax-free food, clothing, reading matter or anything else." — Industrial News Review.

Incidents That Hurt Us Abroad

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON "I have read," writes Mrs. G.L. of Bridgeport, Conn., "that the Little Rock and Sputnik incidents have damaged American prestige abroad with our Allies and with neutrals. Both American and foreign politicians have made this statement. Is there any factual evidence of such a reaction, or is it just imagination, and partly political?"

Answer: There is factual evidence, of course. Upon returning from trips abroad earlier this year, in which they visited extensive areas of Africa and Europe, both Vice President Nixon and Adlai E. Stevenson reported that racial discrimination in this country had hurt us with the peoples of the so-called "dark continent." It seems to me.

Stevenson visited several countries in Europe—Italy, Germany, France and England—and conferred with many statesmen before arriving at Oxford University to receive an honorary degree. He, too, said that reports of racial prejudice were disturbing. I should add that the 1952 and 1956 nominee returned before both the Little Rock and Sputnik disturbances, however.

Perhaps even more pertinent to this question is a letter from an American businessman in the Far East, which I have been privileged to see and to note. It was written to a Member of Congress who had asked about overseas reactions to both Little Rock and Sputnik. Here is the answer: "The Little Rock episode caused many repercussions in the Far East. Faubus has done the U.S.A. more harm than all the foreign aid for the last ten years could compensate for. This is true everywhere. It is quite difficult for members of the American community here to explain."

"Last night, a friend of mine, and I were talking to the Indonesian Consul and the new Chinese Consul. The Chinese Consul asked why so many of the Americans overseas were from the North and so few from the South. My friend replied: 'Well, all the Southerners have to stay home to keep those little colored children from going to school!'"

"I should note here that my friend is a Britisher. Although Eisenhower's decision to send in Federal troops may or may not have been politically wise, it certainly saved our face out here. It is the only thing we have to show that America means what she says when she talks about democracy."

"One Sunday morning, we took a poll of the foreign colony club (all are Americans, British, Swiss and Spanish), and the vote was 21 to one in favor of Mr. Eisenhower's action. The one dissenter felt that he should have done

Taxes Can Be Fatal

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. Many ask how high prices can be reduced, or at least be kept from going higher. My answer is that the best way to reduce prices is by producing more goods at lower cost. Then I am asked: "But how can costs be lowered in the face of current high wage rates?" To this I reply: "By increasing the investment in labor-saving machinery. This will raise real wages for all who work, not just for those who belong to strongly organized unions."

Labor-saving machinery is expensive to buy. Today's tight money situation — and the high cost of borrowing that money if you can get it — make it difficult for many firms to help themselves. Before World War II we outproduced the world, with steadily falling prices, by continually increasing the amount of money per worker invested in labor-saving machinery. We have made further progress along this line since the end of World War II, though not so much as we should have made.

In order to assure the economic future of America, we must have incentive to save and incentive to invest those savings profitably. Unfortunately, our present sharply progressive tax system is destroying capital that has already been accumulated. It is also making it difficult to amass new capital. This destruction of our capital bodes ill for the nation as a whole. It can eventually result in a declining standard of living for all.

The wiping out of capital by high income taxes and by death taxes is harmful enough in itself. But it has a side effect which is even more dangerous. Since profits are cut sharply by ill-advised and poorly conceived tax rates and methods, the flow of new capital into industry is slowed. Investors hesitate to take some risks because they know that, even if they win, taxes will siphon off most of the reward.

Today we are still prosperous. Our economy appears well cushioned against drastic declines. Even though sources of capital are drying up, our people as a whole have not yet felt any pinch. Reassured by high wages and moderately good profits, we are not so disturbed as we should be by high taxes. But I predict that high and runaway taxes can lead to our downfall if we don't watch out. We see in England a classic example of the fate that can befall a tax-ridden nation. Once the proud mistress of the seas and center of world commerce, England has been brought to her knees, not by the breakup of the empire but by burdensome taxation.

As I write this, I have before me some startling figures on the state tax burden and the tremendous rate at which it is increasing. For the year ended last June 30, the average state tax burden on every man, woman, and child in the U.S. reached the record high of $66.75. This is an increase of $5.15, or 8.1 per cent, over the record set in the previous year.

This heavy state tax bite reflects the good business we have enjoyed. It also reflects the high and increasing costs of materials and labor. It reflects, too, the foolishness of the people generally who expect the states to extend their services. Often selfish motives impel people to advocate entirely unwarranted increases in state services (and costs). This year, Congress has made good progress toward cutting Federal expenditures. Barring Sputniks, we might even have expected some Federal tax relief next year. At the state level, the outlook is gloomy. We need to trim state wastelands before we can reduce State taxes.

We must exhibit more interest in our state governments or we will find ourselves in very serious trouble. Many factors contribute to high state taxes today. One such factor which should be investigated thoroughly and promptly is the pension system for state employees. In many states, the pension system is a hodgepodge and often favors unworthy employees at unnecessary expense. State costs have increased tremendously because of ill-advised and poorly framed pension plans. Such plans have permitted many state politicians to play fast and loose with your money and mine, while at the same time entrenching themselves in power.

King Of Morocco On Way To U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Morocco's King Mohammed V flies here today to start a 19-day state tour that includes two long talks with President Eisenhower and a first-hand look at the U. S. heartland. During the next three days, the Moroccan King and an entourage of 17 persons including his rank-

Gaillard. Gaillard contended it would be unwise to accept the mediation offer without much more information. Despite this, the Radical Socialist conference at Strasbourg urged the Gaillard administration to "take the initiative for negotiation with Tunisia and Morocco" in order to try to work out ways for settling the bloody and costly Algerian uprising.

Authorities here feel that any overt American move to tend to harden the Gaillard administration's attitude especially in view of the split over Tunisian arms.

His Auto Hit By Two Trains

CYNTHIANA, Ky. (AP) — Charles Palmer's timing was too good: his auto was hit by two trains. The car stalled on double tracks and Palmer, hearing a train approach, bailed out. The train hit the vehicle and knocked it into the path of another from the south. The trains were delayed only slightly, but Palmer was delayed considerably. He was arrested for drunken driving.

Officials Ponder Excavation Task

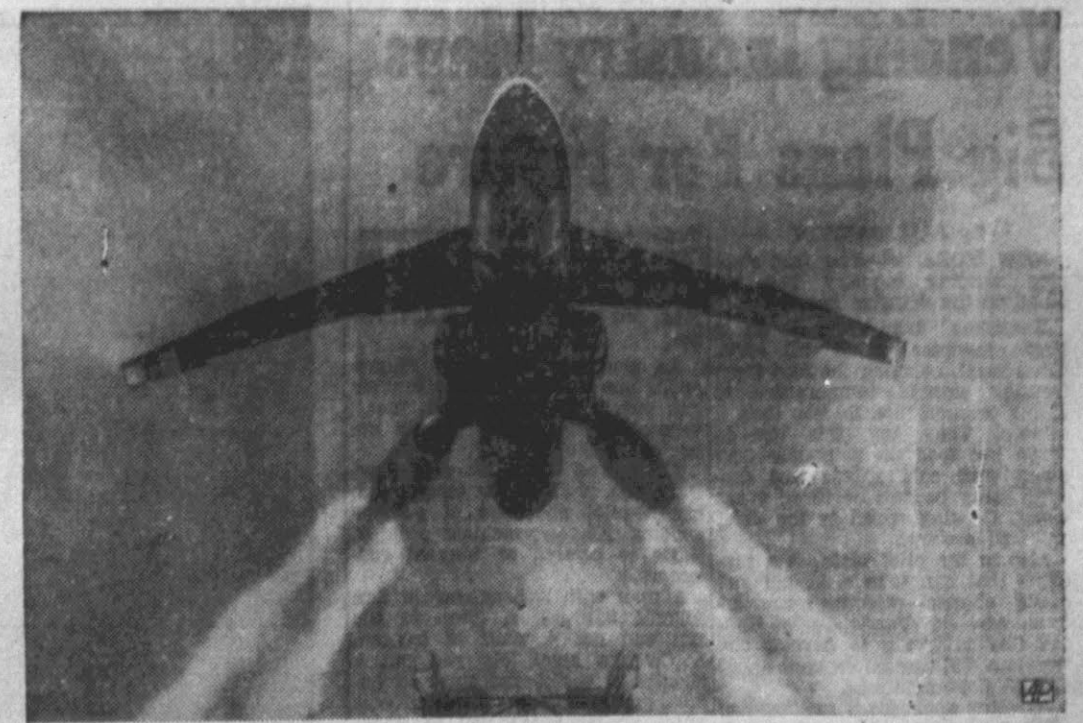

PLAINFIELD, Wis. (AP) — Township officials today pondered the problems of which graves to excavate the story of Edward Gein, who admits killing two women and plundering the graves of nine others.

No date has been set for the exhumations. Dist. Atty. Earl Kileen of Waushara County said Plainfield Township officials were working on the selection of two graves from the list of eight provided by Gein.

The 51-year-old bachelor is in the Central State Hospital for the Criminally Insane at Waupun. He will undergo 30 days of mental observation to determine whether he is competent to stand trial for first-degree murder. He is charged in the death of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58-year-old widow whose mutilated body was found hanging in a shed at Gein's secluded farm Nov. 16.

The frail-looking, 140-pound handyman admits he killed and mutilated Mrs. Worden and Mrs. Mary Hogan, a Portage County tavernkeeper who disappeared Dec. 9, 1954.

Mrs. Worden's body and the heads of 10 other women were found in Gein's two-story frame house. One head has been identified tentatively by Portage County Sheriff Herbert Wanserski as that of Mrs. Hogan.

Convicted, Beck Junior Appeals

SEATTLE (AP) — Conviction of Dave Beck Jr., 37-year-old son of Teamsters Union President Dave Beck Sr., on two counts of grand larceny will be appealed and motions for a new trial will be filed, defense counsel Charles S. Burdell said today.

The young Beck was found guilty by a Superior Court jury of keeping for his own use $4,650 obtained from the sale of two Teamsters Union automobiles.

Beck is at liberty on $3,000 bond. His sentence could run up to as high as 15 years. Neither Beck nor his father would comment on the verdict in Saturday night.

The senior Beck is scheduled to go on trial in King County Superior Court Dec. 2 on a grand larceny count of keeping $1,900 from the sale of a union-owned automobile.

Burdell said he will move to postpone that trial in view of the result of the trial of Beck Jr. on grounds that the senior Beck could not receive a fair trial at this time.

Trustee Critical Of Campus Dance Ban

RALEIGH (AP) — Wake Forest College trustee has criticized the action of the Baptist State Convention in banning dancing on the campuses of Baptist institutions in the state.

Dr. George W. Paschal Jr., a Raleigh surgeon, issued a prepared statement last night in which he said he plans to introduce a resolution at the next meeting of the college's Board of Trustees to authorize campus dances.

Paschal defended the action of the trustees in initially approving dancing on the college campus. He said "It could have escaped no one in North Carolina last week that the objective of those in control of the convention was not merely the prohibition of dancing but to prescribe what speakers are to be invited to the campus, what is to be taught in the classrooms, what thoughts faculty and students alike might be exposed to or entertained without fear of punishment."

He said that should such question of educational policy be decided by that group, "I have no doubt that it will mark the end of Wake Forest as a serious educational institution."

Dr. Paschal said the convention does not "own" the college. "Gifts to Wake Forest," he added, "have been made to that institution as a legal corporation, not to the Baptist State Convention to dispose of as each passing majority may wish."

Says Crusading Spirit Is Lost

DURHAM (AP) — Methodist Bishop Paul N. Garver says Methodists have lost the crusading, evangelizing, pioneer spirit of the founders of Methodism.

He adds, "Our only hope lies in a return to the old-fashioned Wesleyan Methodism."

The bishop commented that within a generation, eastern Methodism may become a minority religious group unless the denomination maintains its historic enthusiasm and fervor.

Heavy Snowfall Strikes Texas

DALLAS (AP) — A snow called the heaviest in 30 years struck deep into western and southern Texas over the weekend, stalling traffic, spreading beneficial moisture and giving the kids a thrill.

A record 14 inches of snow paralyzed Concho County in lower west central Texas yesterday. An estimated 300 motorists were stranded, jamming cafes and the two hotels in Eden, Tex.

Laredo on the Mexican border had its first snow in a dozen years. The tomato crop around Laredo was ruined and the chill weather nipped at winter vegetables in the lush lower Rio Grande Valley area at the southern tip of Texas, but it was too early to assess damage.

Constable A. C. Paris of Eden said 200 vehicles were marooned between Eden and San Angelo. No loss of life was reported nor were any motorists hospitalized.

Paris said all highways were reopened and all the stranded motorists on their way by noon yesterday.

Eden Weather Bureau observer G. H. Steier said it was the most snow he had seen in 30 years on the job there.

Paris said he thought sheep may have suffered but said there would be no loss to grain crops in the area. The snow melted rapidly as temperatures rose to the low 50s.

Million-Dollar Blaze In Alaska

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Fire started by an unexplained explosion in a business-apartment building caused the death of a prominent University of Alaska woman biologist, Dr. Druska Schauble, about 46.

Damage was estimated at more than a million dollars. The Lathrop Building, housing the Fairbanks Daily News-Miner, the studios of radio station KFAR and KPART-TV and two floors of apartments in which 40 persons lived, was burned out above the first floor.

The fire was brought under control early yesterday, about seven hours after it broke out.

George Sundborg, editor of the News-Miner, was in his third-floor apartment when "an explosion of smoke" filled the upper part of the four-story building. He raced from his apartment to his office and sent a running account to the Associated Press over his Teletype equipment until smoke and water forced him to leave.

He telephoned the rest of the story from a building across the street.

The News-Miner was planning to publish today, using other facilities.

Car Demolished, Driver Scratched

NEWBURYPORT, Mass. (AP) — An automobile with a lone occupant hit a soft shoulder on a country road yesterday and here's what happened:

It bounded off the shoulder and struck a small tree, throwing the rear seat from the vehicle. It lost its rear wheels 15 feet beyond that. The back part of the body was sheared off 30 feet farther ahead.

The car continued another 150 feet where it crumpled up, a mass of wreckage.

City Marshal James E. Sullivan said it was the worst automobile wreck he had ever seen.

Kenneth D. Allard, 22, who said he had fallen asleep at the wheel, walked away from the wreck with only minor cuts and bruises.

Vending Industry Maps Big Plans For Future

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The fast stepping vending industry has big plans on the drawing boards.

Engineers are working on a single machine which will serve a full meal, bringing the food from freezing storage temperature to eating temperature in less than a minute. They say this one-to-serve hot food on a plastic tray along with cold salads and desserts—may be two or three years away. Cooking speed is the chief unworked problem.

Also in the pilot state, is a machine that can take a $1 bill and make change—rejecting counterfeits. And the Vendo Co. of Kansas City is trying to develop one that can distinguish between $1, $2 and $5 denominations.

Industry spokesmen say vending sales have risen about two billion dollars this year from 30 million dollars in 1925. Today there are an estimated three million machines in use, tended by 5,500 operators.

Vending machines in factories, the enthusiasts say, will make the lunch box and plant cafeteria obsolete. The National Automatic Merchandising Assn. says one out of every five manufacturing plants are using them today.

An automated cafeteria of the North Electric Co. in Gallon, Ohio, uses 10 vending machines to serve 33 selections of food and beverages, available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Menus are planned a week in advance. They offer choices of three hot and cold sandwiches, three hot main courses, three hot soups, three chilled salads, three ice creams, five pastries, five pies, six cold drinks and three hot.

An apartment house in Minneapolis has machines where tenants can buy milk, bread, eggs, meat, vegetables and butter without going to the store.

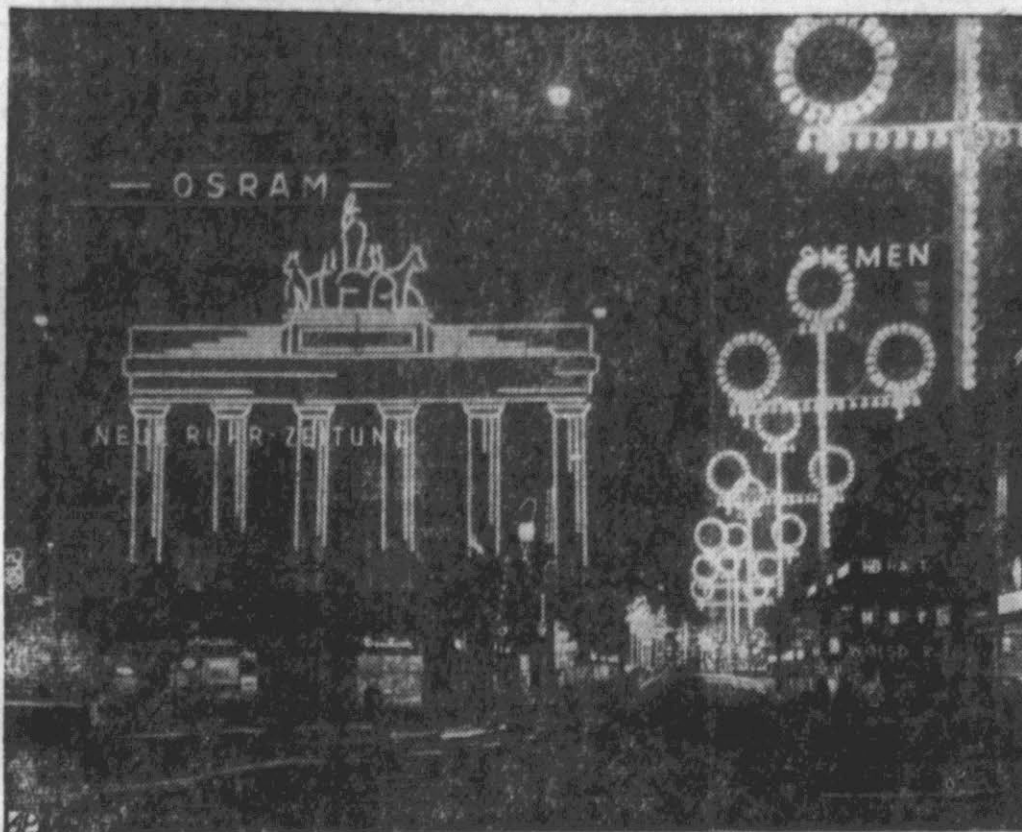

The Grand Union store in East Patterson, N.J., on the other hand, has a pilot operation of outdoor vending. Eleven machines offer 58 items to belated or hurried customers.

Nixon Says 'Peace Manifesto' Reaffirms Goal Of Conquest

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Vice President Nixon says the latest Communist party peace manifesto means that the Russians "have reaffirmed their ultimate goal of world domination by nonmilitary means if possible, by war if necessary."

Nixon spoke last night at the closing session of the fourth convention of the National Council of Catholic Youth. He called the Communist statement, published three days ago by the Communist parties of 64 nations, the "Khrushchev Manifesto."

The manifesto called on the nations of the world to stop the arms race, ban nuclear weapons and abandon military blocs. It promised that "we will free the world from the danger of war, death and destruction."

Nixon said it would be foolhardy to brush aside the statement.

"Because this document warns us in advance, at a time when we are thinking primarily of defending ourselves against the increased military potential the Soviet Union will have in the future, that the men in the Kremlin are launching right now a massive nonmilitary offensive aimed at the overthrow of all free governments," he declared.

He continued: "Here are some of the actions we can expect as a result of the adoption of the Khrushchev Manifesto."

"The dictators of Moscow will sharply step up their economic, psychological and subversive activities all over the world."

"They will emphasize again the popular front tactics which fooled so many well-intentioned people in times past."

"Ruthless control and domination of Communist governments and Communist parties everywhere by the men in the Kremlin will again be the order of the day."

The council presented its "Pro Deo et Juventute" (For God and Youth) award to Irene Dunne, screen actress and an alternative U.S. delegate to the United Nations.

Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York was honored on the 25th anniversary of his elevation to the rank of bishop.

Nixon told his audience the nation must be prepared for "economic sacrifice" over an indefinite period. He said that "in responding to this new challenge, so dramatically underlined by the two Sputniks, we must avoid extremes of panic and complacency."

"We must not, for example, use all of our resources for military defense and neglect the equally important need for diplomatic, psychological and economic defense of the free world."

The council's new officers, elected for two-year terms are John A. McLaughlin, Kearny, N.J. President; Jean Mirlani, Salt Lake City, vice president; John Geismann, St. Louis, treasurer; and Ann Kicin, Hartford, Conn., secretary.

Air Guardsmen Killed In Crash

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—The bodies of four Alaska Air National Guardsmen, killed in the crash of their plane during a snow storm Saturday night on Icy Strait, will be flown to Anchorage today.

Their plane crashed near Gustavus, 20 miles west of here on the southeastern tip of the Glacier Bay National Monument.

Five of the seven survivors of the crash are in St. Ann's Hospital here. Two others were released from the hospital.

The plane, a C47 transport, was returning seven Alaska National Guardsmen to Anchorage from a conference at San Francisco. The plane took off with seven passengers and crew of four from McChord Air Force Base at Tacoma, Wash., Saturday afternoon.

Its last report said it was preparing for an instrument landing at Gustavus during a light snowfall. Hours later a ground search

One Of Richest Men Is Married

DALLAS (AP)—Oilman H. L. Hunt, reportedly one of the world's richest men, married Mrs. Ruth Ray Wright, a former Oklahoma woman, yesterday.

The marriage was a quiet ceremony at the home of Mrs. Wright's pastor, the Rev. McClain Smith of the Lakewood Methodist Church in Dallas.

It was the second marriage for Hunt, 68. His first wife died in May 1955 after a stroke. They had six children.

Mrs. Grace Ray of Idabel, Okla., told newsmen her daughter was about 36. She said she had known Hunt since meeting him about 15 years ago at Shreveport, La., where her daughter worked in a Hunt Oil Co. office.

Mrs. Ray said her daughter was previously married to an R. E. Wright in New York City. She said she did not know whether her daughter was divorced or widowed.

The bride is the mother of four children, the oldest a son about 15.

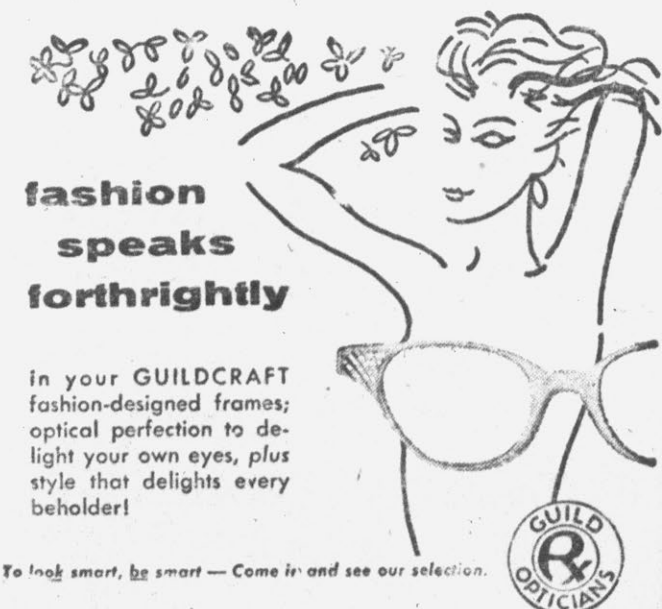

She graduated from Idabel High School, where she was a football queen, and attended Oklahoma State University for a year and a half, the mother said.

She said the couple called four times to say they were "thrilled to death." She said they did not mention any immediate plans.

In 1945, Life magazine described Hunt as the richest man in the United States. His holdings recently were estimated at up to 400 million dollars.

NATO Solidarity At Stake In Paris Meeting

By DAVID MASON

PARIS (AP)—France's resentment over British-U. S. arms supplies for Tunisia and fear that rebellious Algeria might get them spurred British-French talks today under a sense of real urgency. NATO solidarity was at stake.

Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd arrive for talks with Premier Felix Gaillard.

Gaillard has hinted strongly that unless some new and solid basis for understanding is found between France and her two main NATO partners, the Dec. 16 NATO summit conference will get a cold shoulder here in the host nation.

Fresh yellow posters were plastered on Paris walls proclaiming "The British and Americans have given arms to the Algerian rebels, via Tunisia."

Two rightist parties have called for demonstrations and police officials were on the alert, guarding against outbreaks in the Place de la Concorde, near the U. S. Embassy.

One is the extreme rightist Young Nation movement, which called on its followers to gather at the embassy.

The other is Jean-Baptiste Biaggi's new Revolutionary Patriotic party (PPR), also rightist.

Biaggi in his call said, "Not content to send arms to the rebels by way of (Tunisian President Habib) Bourguiba, Macmillan comes to Paris directly to dictate orders to our government."

Defense Minister Jacques Chaban-Delmas told an audience at Bordeaux "We won't put up with the idea there are first- and second-class allies in NATO, with those in a second place always obliged to say 'Yes, I prefer the risk of fighting to that of servitude.'"

Jacques Soustelle, former governor general of Algeria, charged in a speech at Vouvray that the arms deal with Tunisia violates an article of the NATO treaty covering security of Algeria, and called for "clear, even-brutal retaliation." He also raised questions over conditions that will be exacted for establishing NATO missile bases in France.

Many neutral observers here feel that the possibility of patching up the Western Big Three and NATO partnerships will remain dim until the Algerian issue is settled. Macmillan's trip here was expected at best only to keep the alliance split from spreading.

There was little evidence from Washington last week that French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau got satisfaction from his talks with Secretary of State Dulles on arms issues.

French newspapers and Pineau himself in a statement on the French radio said in effect that the Dulles talks added up to nothing as far as the fundamental issue behind the arms deal is concerned.

The Communists expelled him in 1929 and he was not formally readmitted until 1954, although for years he had been championing Communist causes.

Guadalupe Marin, to whom Rivera was married for seven years, bore him the two daughters who survive. His next wife was Frieda Kahlo, 20 years his senior. They were divorced once, remarried and remained together until she died in 1954.

At about the time he left for Russia in 1956 Rivera announced that he had married Ama Hurtado.

He wanted the money to buy whiskey from bootleggers for evidence.

In Colorado you must give a want to present some spare fish from your catch to a friend.

Heart Attack Proves Fatal To Mexican Artist Diego Rivera

By CHARLES H. GUPTILL

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Diego Rivera, whose violent paints and defiant politics made him a charging bull in the world of art, died of a heart attack early today in his studio at suburban San Angel. He was 70.

Until phlebitis paralyzed his right hand and arm several weeks ago, he was working on three paintings with the zest which characterized his work for half a century.

A heart specialist had said the artist's condition was worsening, but friends had thought he might live until the end of the year.

Only members of his family and his physician were present when he died. He is survived by his fourth wife, Ama Hurtado, and two daughters, Ruth and Guadalupe. Rivera had been in and out of the Communist party since 1922. He returned only last year from Russia and proclaimed that Soviet medicine had cured him of cancer.

From his earliest days Rivera expressed defiance in his controversial paintings. At times he wore a pistol while he worked in public.

One of the last major controversies which he stirred was in 1950, when he completed a painting which the Mexican government had commissioned for an exhibition in Europe. Government officials were appalled when they learned that the painting showed U. S. soldiers committing atrocities in Korea. The work was withdrawn from the art show.

Rivera had become popular with Americans in the 1930s. He did murals for the California School of Fine Arts and the San Francisco Stock Exchange and the Rockefeller Center in New York.

But the Rockefeller objected in 1933 when Rivera insisted on painting in a picture of Lenin. The artist refused to remove it but offered to add Lincoln. The mural was rejected and later destroyed, but Rivera was paid in full.

Later Rivera repeated the Rockefeller Center painting at the Fine Arts Palace in Mexico City, adding the Rockefeller themselves to the design.

Born at Guanajuato, Mexico, in 1886, Rivera was the son of a rural school inspector of Spanish blood. His mother was a mixture of Indian and Spanish.

At 16 he was expelled from a government school in San Carlos when he joined a riot against the director.

Rivera sold his first painting early in the century, studied in Madrid from 1907 to 1911 and then spent 10 years in Paris. He flirted with the cubist movement in 1913 but was not diverted from his strong, naturalistic style.

During his years in Paris he formed alliances at different times with two Russian refugee women, by whom he had three children.

He returned to Mexico in 1921 and painted his first major Mexican mural, called "Creation," at the National Preparatory School. Later he painted the walls of other public buildings.

In the wake of 10 years of internal fighting in Mexico, Rivera began the erratic association with the Communist party which was to continue until his death. His irrepressible individualism sometimes got him into difficulties with the party.

The Communists expelled him in 1929 and he was not formally readmitted until 1954, although for years he had been championing Communist causes.

Guadalupe Marin, to whom Rivera was married for seven years, bore him the two daughters who survive. His next wife was Frieda Kahlo, 20 years his senior. They were divorced once, remarried and remained together until she died in 1954.

At about the time he left for Russia in 1956 Rivera announced that he had married Ama Hurtado.

He wanted the money to buy whiskey from bootleggers for evidence.

Those Pilgrim Fathers: Some Were Saints, Some Servants, One Hanged

By HUGH MULLIGAN
AP Newfeatures Writer

Did your ancestors come over on the Mayflower?

So many people make the claim, especially around Thanksgiving when imaginations—like waistlines—are apt to grow expansive, that one would think the sturdy 160-ton vessel was the size of the Queen Elizabeth and the USS Forrestal welded together and loaded like a troop transport.

Actually, the Mayflower was pretty well packed, but only 102 passengers set out from Southampton, two were born and two died at sea, and of those landing at Plymouth in 1620, less than half survived the first winter.

In the interests of settling Thanksgiving arguments before they arise, the original passenger list of the Mayflower is hereby printed. If you can claim descent from any of these families, then you can rightfully call yourself a true red blooded—but not a blue blooded—American.

maker, soldier and sailor.

First Hanging

One of the colonists, John Billington, was hanged in 1630 for killing John Newcomen with a blunderbuss, and his wife, Ellen Billington, was fined five pounds and made "to sit in the stocks and be publicly whipped" for slandering Deacon John Doane. Gov. William Bradford called the Billingtons "one of ye profanest families amongst them."

Another colonist, Isaac Allerton, was forced to leave Plymouth in disgrace for shady dealings as business agent. Edward Doty and Edward Leister, both indentured servants, had the distinction of fighting Plymouth's first duel almost as soon as the Mayflower landed, for which they were "tied together heels and heads."

These incidents notwithstanding, the Mayflower voyagers managed to write a glorious record of industry, self government and ability to get along with the Indians in the New World and their names are worthy of being remembered.

Train Ran Over Ben, But He's Not Scratched

MIDDLESBORO, Ky. (AP) — It looked like a scene from a movie.

Ben Capps was halfway across a narrow trestle when a train bore down on him. He didn't have a chance of getting off in time, not unless he jumped to almost certain death 75 feet below.

The engineer applied the brakes but the train didn't stop until the locomotive and several cars had run over Capps.

Several trainmen jumped off and began looking for the body. It couldn't be found.

Finally some one spotted Capps in a crowd of spectators.

He had escaped by squeezing down between cross-ties, then crawling from beneath the train before it backed off the trestle.

Capps' only injuries were a scratched back and a torn shirt.

FAMILY REUNION

DES MOINES (AP) — When the automobiles of Ardith Kay Thomas, 21, of Iowa City, and William Toerber, 79, of Lowden, collided near Clarence, neighbors called it a family get-together.

Ardith is Toerber's niece.

Santa Parades Are On March

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina cities hold parades this week and next ushering in the Christmas shopping season.

High Point rescheduled its 100-unit parade for 4 p.m. today after it was rained out last Saturday. Miss America, Marilyn Elaine Van Duerber of Denver, Colo., will participate in the Miss Piedmont Festival parade in Thomasville

Saturday. She also will crown the winner of a Friday night beauty pageant.
Santa Claus will be in downtown Greensboro's parade Friday morning. There also will be 16 bands, 20 floats, and two dozen beauty queens representing Piedmont cities and towns.

Charlotte stages its Carolinas Carrousel parade Thursday, Thanksgiving Day.

Winston-Salem's Christmas parade will begin at 7 p.m. Friday, when Yale lights will go on in the downtown area.

Asheville's Christmas parade, commanded by Santa himself, will begin at 5 p.m. Wednesday. Concord waits until Dec. 4 for its parade.

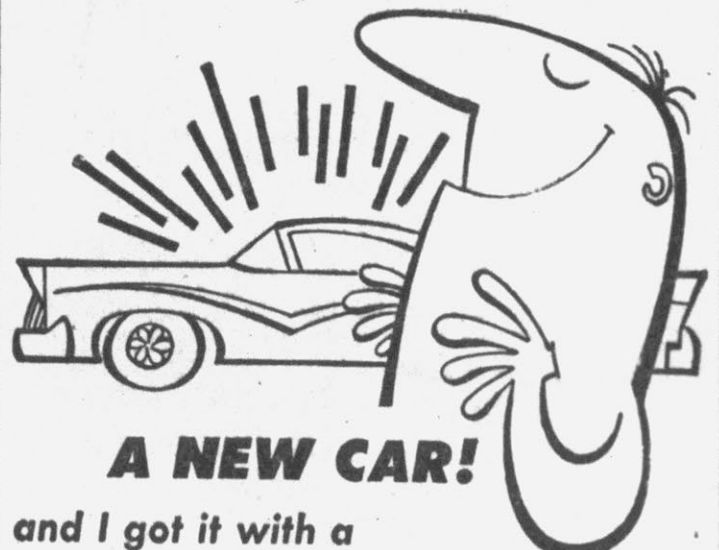

BAKE A CAKE

RICHMOND, VA. (AP) — C. W. Glotzbach, Internal Revenue Service director here, told his section chiefs he would bake a cake for all who signed their sections 100 per cent for U. S. Savings Bonds. At last report he had baked 24—with the help of Mrs. Glotzbach.

False Picture Of California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Many people in Vienna still believe that Californians depend on buffalo meat for food, says a University of Southern California professor who recently returned from Austria.

"They get lots of rock 'n' roll and American movies," says Dr. Stanley R. Townsend, "but as for an authentic picture of America, they haven't got much farther than James Fenimore Cooper and the old westerns."

Winterville Seniors Plan For Exercises

By SANDRA HUNSUCKER
Winterville School Reporter

Senior Class members have been busy recently selecting class colors, cap and gown colors, tassels and the class flower—all in preliminary preparation for graduation exercises next spring.

They have picked light blue and white as their class colors, and voted to name the carnation as their flower. They have also elected to wear white caps and gowns at graduation, and to use blue and white tassels on their caps.

Beta Club members, however, will be permitted to wear black and gold cap tassels in order to distinguish them from other members of the class. Black and gold are the Beta Club colors.

Thursday.

After the demonstration, which was conducted by members of the Future Farmers of America chapter, Thanksgiving games were played, with a prize being awarded to Ralph Davenport, an FFA member. Refreshments were also served during the social hour.

The band, under direction of Band Director Boyd Elliott, and the Glee Club, under direction of Mrs. Carolyn Davis, are busy practicing for their annual Christmas Concert. The program will be presented December 16 at 7:30 p. m. in the grade school auditorium.

Cheerleaders have begun an advertising program for some basketball games. Posters are being made, and as a special project for the doubleheader with the Snow Hill members of the cheering squad made label tags with "Winterville Beat Snow Hill" written on them.

The tags were worn by high school students in an effort to increase student interest and support of the basketball teams.

A demonstration of parliamentary procedure was given for members of the Winterville chapter of Future Homemakers of America at the club's regular meeting.

Governor Fouled Historical Ball

BOSTON (AP)—Historical sharpies read Gov. Furecolo's Thanksgiving proclamation which says:

"Whereas, it was in Massachusetts in November of 1620 that the pilgrims of Plymouth Plantation—after a siege of frightening adversity that decimated their numbers and threatened all survival—found again their health restored, their food replenished, and their peace regained with the Indians."

The pilgrims landed at Provincetown Nov. 13, 1620, and at Plymouth the following month but their Thanksgiving observance, in gratitude for surviving the winter of 1620-21, was not until Autumn in 1621, after the harvest.

A spaghetti supper, sponsored by the Victor's Class of Reedy Branch Church attracted a large crowd of high school students a week ago. Among the students who attended were Ralph Wingate, Joe Ann Hathaway, Barbara Evans, Daphne Little, Betty Hardy, Ralph Davenport, Sandra Hunsucker, Moya Waters, George Jackson, Lonnie Faulkner, Dorothy Evans, Janet Allen, Faye Stocks, Margaret Jones and Barbara Manning.

Tenth graders took an intelligence test, administered by members of the faculty, Thursday morning. The test is one of a series being administered to Winterville students, and is similar to the one which was recently given to members of the fourth and seventh grades.

Members of the staff of the school newspaper, "The Searchlight", are preparing copy for the next edition of the paper. Publication date is scheduled for this week.

A clothing drive is being sponsored by the Winterville PTA. Clothes which are collected will be distributed to needy students.

pleaded guilty to four charges of burglary and two larceny counts. His lawyer asked the court to be lenient because Slocum had never before been arrested.

"It's hard for me to understand why a man 39 years old would start off on a career of crime," the judge said.

The defendant replied: "I tried to keep out of jail," then related that his estranged wife threatened to have him arrested if he fell behind in his $80 monthly support payments.

So, he took to stealing. Judge Eagan postponed sentencing for a week.

LIGHTS EXPLAINED
OLATHE, Kan. (AP)—A flickering, ball-shaped cluster of lights hovering in the sky caused a flurry of excitement in this area, and a jet fighter plane zoomed up from the Olathe Naval Air Station to have a look. The pilot reported no cause for alarm—just five helicopters flying in close formation.

CHAPTER 7
 Any girl going off duty after thirty-six hours could claim to be tired. Even the men doctors were so privileged, and Michael had often gone the course. So when he phoned to Tracy on Wednesday evening it was with an apology on his lips. "I know you're beat. . . . It's not anything a good night's sleep won't cure."
 "Could you manage dinner with me?"
 "Oh, Michael. . . ."
 She stifled a yawn, which he detected. "I know you're tired," he said again.
 "Well, it was thirty-six hours. We had two emergency admissions during the night."
 "I should tell you to go straight to bed. But with the folks coming in tomorrow. . . ."
 "Yes, of course. But give me a full hour, will you?"
 She took a leisurely bath and dressed with care, deciding to wear one of the frocks from her trousseau. She hadn't bought a lot of clothes, for all sorts of reasons, most of them having to do with money. She had gone to school on an insurance policy taken out by her father in her infancy; she had just scraped by last year on an intern's pay, and this year's resident-pay would not offer much. But she had a few pretty things, and this blue-flowered Swiss was one of them.

across from her. "I'm sorry I acted thrifty over the check," she said softly. "The steak was delicious."
 He nodded and lit a fresh cigarette. "I have some things to say," he announced.
 About money and putting up a front, Tracy thought. She well knew that their ideas differed on that point, but it was a difference which could be resolved. So she smiled at him, and waited.
 He held his cigarette in his left hand and smoothed the fingertips of the other around the edge of his coffee saucer. "Our friendship first began, Tracy," he said thoughtfully, "and has carried on to much more than friendship, on a basis of honesty. Do you agree?" His eyes lifted swiftly to her face. His lips dropped again to watch her fingers.
 Tracy's eyes widened, and her smile faded. Something like a shiver trembled the thin stuff of her full sleeves, and she clasped her hands tightly together. What was Michael going to say?
 She wished he would not say his "things." She knew that she was not going to like it.
 He did not.
 "Since," speaking slowly when he resumed, "we have gone this far on that basis of honesty, I would like to think that we could so continue?"
 He paused for a second, but she made no sound. She could feel the stiff lines of her facial muscles, the rigidity of her limbs. But this reaction was terrible! He'd really said nothing—
 "I am assuming, too," he continued, without looking at her, "that you want me to be honest with you. So I think it is only fair to tell you that perhaps I am not ready to marry, and make a go of it." His face set into stubborn lines, as if prepared to meet her protest.
 "As things stand now," he went on swiftly, "I am sure I'll make a poor husband, and—well—I think you have a right to face that fact."
 What was he saying? They couldn't—he couldn't. Her icy hands clutched at the leather seat cushion, and her shoulders pressed against the back of the seat; her eyes darted about the room; the knotholes in the boards across from her made almost a face pattern, a mocking face that said, "Ooooh!" Tracy thought that she surely would faint. . . .

 Anguished, bewildered, she struggled for something firm on which to hold. Why, she asked, why did Michael do this to her? Where had she failed? She leaned toward him and put that question into words.
 He seemed relieved to have her speak. "You've failed nowhere, Tracy. You're a wonderful girl. It's only, as I say, this is a time to stop and be honest with one another. Since there is the slightest doubt in our minds—"
 "Your mind."
 "All right, in my mind I felt maybe we should wait until that doubt is cleared up, until we know. . . ."
 Yes, Michael's side was there to be considered, but he had already acted upon the results of his thinking; he said he wanted the wedding postponed.
 Now he was waiting for Tracy to make the next move, which was hers to make, and thereby create, or prevent, disaster. So let her think—carefully.
 (To be continued)

Kittens Arrive During Flight

OKMULGEE, Okla. (AP)—When Col. Maurice Bottlinger took up his airplane for a spin, he had two passengers. When he landed, there were eight.
 With him were Roy Young and Blackie, the airport mascot cat. While in the air, Blackie gave birth to six kittens.

Michael was a few minutes late, which began to worry Tracy. She was as hungry as a bear, and apt to go to sleep if she sat down. She paced the lounge for ten minutes and knew that she was annoyed. After another five minutes, she wondered if something could have happened to Michael. He was living in the apartment and need not have driven, but, of course, a pedestrian. . . .
 Finally, it was his familiar tall figure that pushed through the doors and came into the lighted lounge, his dark eyes searching the big room for Tracy. Every other date had left—only a half-dozen assorted people were scattered about the place. Tracy wished she had not dressed up.
 But his praise and admiration were instant. He interspersed his words about the way she looked with contrition for being late. He didn't say exactly what had delayed him.
 "But let's get going now!" he said urgently. "I'm holic to the core. And it is late!"
 He had left his car at the door, and he started it off with a whoosh, then turned into the park. Tracy glanced at him.
 "I'm really going to feed you!" he announced. "Steak!"
 "Michael!"
 "Don't you like steak?"
 Of course she liked steak, but she would have settled for cheeseburgers. There were three restaurants of graduated opulence, but steak—in any of them—
 He didn't choose the most expensive. But even so—"We could have put half of this check into our rug fund," Tracy finally rebuked him. "Michael, you know you don't have to splurge on dates with me!"
 "Suppose you eat, and let me worry about the check. Hmmm?"
 He was nervous, and not too much like the Michael she knew. He even talked a little shop, a little hospital gossip. He mentioned his parents' arrival the next day and his arrangements for them.
 Tracy was hungry, and the meal he had ordered was delicious. "Do you want to go somewhere and dance?" he asked.
 "Couldn't we just linge, here?"
 "Yes—Are you comfortable?"
 "Very." She smiled at the man

"MONEY-AHEAD" CONTEST

Fantastic? It's mighty near unbelievable! But true—just read this: You can win $500 a month for the rest of your life. You can win a gleaming new "Money-Ahead" '58 Plymouth. You can win other valuable prizes.

It's the Plymouth "Money-Ahead" Contest, where a lifetime of financial security is ripe for the taking. Few things are more substantial than money, and a lot of money is the grand prize. But this is a contest where you can win big without hauling down first prize. . . . for 18 sparkling new Plymouths and 450 other valuable prizes will be awarded. Now here's what you do:

Go into your Plymouth Dealer's and ask him for a contest blank. You don't have to be a mental giant to shoot for the big money. This contest is fun, and it's easy.

You simply unscramble seven easy words and terms, like the one you see in the example to the right. Then add your own short version of why you'd be money ahead in a '58 Plymouth. Believe us, there are plenty of good reasons you can use: Torsion-Aire, Total-Contact Brakes, Silver Dart Style, Push-Button Driving, new Golden Commando engines, etc.

Unscramble or scramble—but you better not amble—to your Plymouth Dealer soon. The fun starts Monday, Nov. 25.

Building 'Dream House' For Tots

NEW YORK (AP)—A "Dream House" is being built for the 4-year-old triplet children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Petraglia of the Bronx.

Clutching bright red toy shovels, the children, Gail, Donna and Stephen, dug the first spadefuls of earth yesterday for their new home.

A priest, the chairman of the Bronx Junior Chamber of Commerce and about 200 persons were on hand, but the Petraglia children could not see them. They have been blind since birth.

The one-story brick ranch house is being paid for by the "Dream House" Committee of the Bronx Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Bronx ESCA Club donated the land.

The House, designed without stairways by architect Paul Trapani, is scheduled for completion by Easter. The triplets attend nursery classes at the New York Institute for the Education of the Blind. They are suffering from retrolental fibroplasia, an incurable eye disease.

Tragedy Follows Gala Reception

QUINCY, Mass. (AP)—A man and wife perished early today in a fire at their home shortly after a happy wedding reception for their daughter.

The last of 150 guests had left the two-story house when it burst into flames and took the lives of John Thorbahn, 52, and his wife Ann, 50.

A son, John Jr., 22, was burned on the body and was taken to Quincy city hospital in serious condition.

Another son, Peter, 13, escaped injury.

The flames destroyed all the wedding presents of the couple, who had been married at First Church of Squantum, Congregational, and had their reception at the Thorbahn residence in the Squantum section of Quincy.

The bride, Carol, 23, and the bridegroom, Thomas Graham, also 23, of Saugus, had left on their honeymoon and were sought by relatives to inform them of the tragedy.

At one time Thorbahn was employed as a reporter for the now-defunct Boston Transcript and for Boston radio station WBZ.

Think Juveniles Tried Extortion

WARWICK, R.I. (AP)—Police said today they suspect juveniles are involved in an unusual extortion attempt.

A steel-tipped arrow with a crudely printed note attached was fired into the shingles of the home of the Henry M. Viau family yesterday.

The note read:
"Don't call the police if you don't want to get hurt. Leave 10 dollars at your front door by 2 o'clock tomorrow morning.

"P.S.—Leave the money in an envelope (sic). No change please. We are desprate (sic) so no funny tricks."

Cake-Eating Marks Civitan Project

HARDY, MAYOR WEST, RODGERS
... mayor samples Civitan fruit cake

Mayor S. Eugene West tasted a sample of the Civitan's fruit cakes the other day.

With Civitan President John Ray Hardy serving, the mayor and Rose High School Band Director James Rodgers both bit into slices of the cake as a photographer snapped photos.

The cake eating affair was staged to publicize the Civitan's annual fruit cake sale, proceeds of which go to the high school band.

"Last year we sold a little over 4,000 pounds," Hardy said. "This year we feel that since we've put the cakes out and people have seen how good they are we should do better than that."

He noted that more than $1,000 was turned over to the band last year as a result of the sale.

"We are hoping to top that this year," said the club president. "We're hoping to get $1,500 or better."

Hardy noted that a street sale of the cakes, planned for last Saturday, was postponed because of bad weather. The sale has been

American Legion Fair Is Cancelled

DUNN, N.C. (AP)—Strippers, gambling and a knifing ganged up on the American Legion's fair here and caused its cancellation after a 10-year run.

Commander Robert Lee Smith announced over the weekend that most members wanted to give up their connection with the event as a result of the bad publicity and ensuing poor receipts.

Smith said the Legion would sell its 30 acres of fairground land and use some of the money for a new brick clubhouse on the site of the present lodge.

TAIL FIN TELEPHONES?

Tail fins on your telephone... like today's automobiles? Well not quite. But despite lack of fancy chromium, (they do come in color) today's modern telephone service shows vast improvement over that of only a few years ago.

LONG-DISTANCE CALLS are now dialed direct by operators without help from other operators along the route. Result... faster service. And just around the corner, Direct Distance Dialing, that is, dialing of long distance calls by subscribers, is on the way for more Eastern Carolina telephone users.

MORE TELEPHONES... yes, today you can call over 150,000 telephones in Eastern Carolina while only five years ago only 100,000 telephones were serving the people of this part of the state. Even places as remote as Ocracoke Island are accessible by telephone today and you can call many, many more telephones in less famous, but none-the-less important places.

Congregation Wants Apology

SPENCER, N.C. (AP)—The congregation of East Spencer Baptist Church yesterday unanimously demanded an apology from the Baptist State Convention for what Spencer church of representation it termed depriving the East at the recent state convention at Raleigh.

The church's pastor, the Rev. James M. Bullman, was ejected from the state convention last week after he had repeatedly attempted to bring upon the floor the issue of local church autonomy.

His pastor told his congregation of about 200 here yesterday that the convention's action constituted taxation without representation.

He added: "The convention has in effect torn up its agreement with the church by taking our money without allowing us the representation granted to us by the constitution. This action by the convention underscores the importance of the issue of local church autonomy for which I have been fighting."

Princess Margaret Is Said 'Causing A Stir'

LONDON (AP)—A London newspaper says displays of independence by Princess Margaret are causing a stir in Buckingham Palace.

The Sunday Express reported that Margaret is determined to establish that not only is she a princess but a woman of personality in her own right.

The newspaper said the princess shocked Queen Elizabeth II by going out on the town last Wednesday instead of staying at the palace to celebrate the 10th wedding anniversary of the Queen and Prince Philip. Other close relatives attended the palace party.

Margaret was invited but changed her mind at the last minute, the Express said. Instead, the Queen's vivacious 27-year-old sister went to the theater with friends and then dined at the fashionable Savoy Hotel.

She showed up at the palace just before the party ended.

The Express gave this account: "Her midnight arrival at the anniversary party came as a particular shock to the royal family when they found that, in addition to going to the theater, she had gone on to supper, and that she had gone to a public restaurant for this."

Margaret failed to attend the royal showing of "Les Girls" two weeks ago with the Queen and Prince Philip, despite the fact that she reportedly had no other engagements. She saw the movie last Thursday with her own friends.

High-spirited and gay, the princess often has been the center of attention at dances and parties. Interest in her has grown since she bowed to family and church and publicly rejected the love of Group Capt. Peter Townsend, a divorced World War II hero, two years ago.

In recent months her name has been linked in British newspapers with several young British nobles who have escorted her to gay social events.

The tabloid Daily Sketch said three months ago that she would marry socialite Billy Wallace within six months. But a source close to both Margaret and Wallace discounted the story.
