Doctors Declare 'No Emergency' For President In Mild Stroke

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 1 p.m. medical bulletin said today President Eisenhower's recovery progress so far is excellent. The text of the bulletin by Dr. Howard M. Snyder: "The President rested quietly throughout the night and slept well. "He has spent the morning painting and talking with Mrs. Eisenhower and other members of his family, and holding brief meetings with the vice president, the assistant to the president and the staff secretary. "His progress to date is excellent."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's doctor said today "everything is all right" with the chief executive. But the circumstances made clear his aim was to scotch any idea of a new emergency rather than to give Eisenhower a clean bill of health. The physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, spoke briefly with newsmen as he entered the White House around 8 a.m. That was only about eight hours after he had left the bedside of his patient, suffering from blockage of a brain artery. Shortly afterward, Snyder followed up with a brief statement through James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, which said: "The President slept almost continuously throughout the night. "He awoke refreshed this morning. He took his usual shower and shave and has just had a normal breakfast." Earlier, the President's doctor, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, had reported he slept well and awoke refreshed. A brief medical bulletin said Eisenhower "took his usual shower and shave and just had a normal breakfast." Hagerty described the chief executive as being in fine spirits, and amused by a continuous, slight difficulty in pronouncing hard words, a result of his illness. Hagerty said Vice President Nixon was spending much of the day in the White House but had not seen the President. He said Secretary of State Dulles and Atty. Gen. Rogers also met together at the White House on White House business. Eisenhower signed his name 12 times and initialed a 13th document, Hagerty said. He said Eisenhower, at the time, was sitting in an easy chair in his bedroom on the second floor of the White House. Hagerty laughed off, at his news conference, a reporter's request for comment on two London newspapers' suggestions that Eisenhower would resign. "Just say I laughed and said I haven't any reaction," Hagerty replied. Hagerty also was asked about a suggestion by Sen. Bridges (R-NH) that Nixon take over some presidential duties. "I've heard no discussion of that by anyone and that includes the vice president," Hagerty said. Hagerty emphasized that the President and only the President will decide who will represent the United States at the Dec. 16 summit conference of Atlantic Pact nations in Paris, if it is held as scheduled. Replying to questions, Hagerty said "we certainly have not" suggested postponement of the meeting. He stressed that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council of Ministers meets annually, and the Dec. 16 session is an annual meeting. A U. S. spokesman in Paris had said this country is willing, if the Atlantic Pact partners so desire, to go ahead with the meeting on a chiefs of state basis with Nixon sitting in for Eisenhower. Hagerty told newsmen the United States has queried the 14 other NATO governments as to whether the Paris meeting should be a session at that level or simply a ministerial meeting as in former years. "When we receive their decision," Hagerty said, "then it will be the decision of the President who will attend." Hagerty said Eisenhower has held no conference with any Cabinet members since his illness began Monday afternoon. However, Hagerty indicated Nixon might be seeing the President shortly. Hagerty said he "might have something later" to say on that score. Hagerty said Eisenhower approved yesterday's decision to query the 14 other NATO nations on whether to hold a summit or simply a ministerial meeting at Paris. Snyder followed up his entry into the White House with a statement issued through Hagerty which said:

Sec. Mitchell Hints Future 'Austerity And Privations'

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, speaking for ailing President Eisenhower, urged the nation last night to accept the "austerity and privations" required to give military and economic aid to other countries of the free world. Mitchell digressed from a prepared speech of his own to deliver the gist of the "chins up" talk that Eisenhower had planned to broadcast last night from Cleveland. The main topic of the Cleveland talk, canceled because of the President's illness, was the importance of international cooperation in halting Soviet imperialism. Mitchell, whose speech before a dinner of the Manufacturing Chemists Assn. was not aired, said the administration believes "no investment we can make pays greater dividends than reasonable economic aid to friendly nations." Mitchell listed three specific points that the President had intended to make in the Cleveland speech. They were: 1. The Eisenhower administration believes the people of the United States owe full support to the mutual security program in both its military and economic phases. 2. Eisenhower will recommend to Congress in January that the expiring Trade Agreements Act be broadened and be extended for a period longer than the present three-year term. The proposal would provide for broader authority for the negotiation of reciprocal trade pacts. 3. A call for United States participation in the Organization for Trade Corporation. Mitchell described the agency as "a business-like unit" to guarantee maximum benefits from the negotiation of trade agreements. Mitchell was given a copy of the Eisenhower draft text, and he made notes on it before boarding a plane for New York.

City Probably To Join Fight Over Rate Boost

New telephone rates which went into effect Monday will cost Greenville residents an additional $9,000-plus a month for the use of their telephones. The rate hike put "it to effect this week by Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company is subject to review and approval by the State Utilities Commission before it becomes a permanent increase. The telephone company posted bond with the state and made the rate increase effective prior to the Utilities Commission hearing on their request for increased rates. The hearing, originally scheduled by the Commission for Dec. 17, yesterday was postponed "until a later date." At an informal meeting here last night of Greenville City officials, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association, it became apparent that the city will join other communities served by Carolina Tel. & Tel. in fighting the rate increase. City Manager Leonard Bloxam said following the meeting that the matter of intervening in the Utilities Commission hearing has been placed on the agenda for the City Council meeting on Dec. 5. Official action from the Council is expected at that time. In the meantime the City Manager has been instructed by the Council to attend a meeting in Clinton on Monday at which committees served by the telephone company will make plans for fighting the rate increase. The matter of protesting the increased rates of the telephone company also is expected to be placed before the Pitt County Board of Commissioners at their regular session Monday. The following shows the monthly rate schedule on the Greenville exchange for various types of telephone service, giving first the old rate, the new rate and the amount of increase: Business telephones: one party, $10.75, $12.50, $1.75; two-party, $2.25, $3.00, $0.75; four-party, $8.50, $9.75, $1.25 multi-party, $7.00, $7.75, 75c. Residential telephones: one party, $5.25, $6.75, $1.50; two-party, $4.50, $6.00, $1.50; four-party, $4.15, $5.00, 85c; multi-party $4.40, $5.00, 60c. The telephone company lists 7,497 telephones on the Greenville exchange.

Pitt ASC Will Lose Meredith

JAMES MEREDITH

James T. Meredith, chief clerk for the Pitt ASC office, has resigned to accept a position as County office manager for the Craven County ASC. Meredith said this morning he completed his duties with the local ASC office yesterday. He will be working in New Bern Dec. 2. Meredith served for several years as office manager for the Pitt County ASC. He resigned that position last August, 27 and stepped down to the chief clerk job. Meredith came to Greenville as ASC office manager March 15, 1950. Prior to that he was with the Federal Crop Insurance office in Washington, N. C. He was born in Edgecombe County but grew up in Washington. He completed high school in Washington and attended N. C. State College for one year.

Another Explosion, But No Explanation Available

Pitt County had another explosion yesterday, and if you're wondering what caused it, welcome to the crowd. Everybody else is wondering, too. The explosion was heard in mid-afternoon yesterday and attempts to trace it to its origin have resulted in absolutely nothing. Law enforcement officers, who take a particular interest in such things, haven't been able to learn anything about the blast except that it caused a loud noise and some concussion. Reports of hearing the explosion were rather general in the Greenville area and Ayden residents reported both blast and concussion. There was no damage, apparently, from either the blast or concussion except to tender ear drums and delicate nerves. Immediate speculation centered on a sonic boom from an aircraft breaking the sound barrier. The general spread of the noise, however, tended to rule out that theory, since most sonic booms are usually confined to much smaller areas. Military aircraft operating in this area are also under orders not to break the sound barrier in routine training situations. The explosion was the latest in a series of mystery noises reported in the county in the past several months. None of them have been explained.

More Than Forty Units To Be In Santa Parade Here Friday

Santa Claus will be making his first appearance of the year in Greenville Friday. A parade with more than forty units participating will usher the jolly old man who specializes in making youngsters happy into town. His auspicious appearance, marking the official opening of the yuletide season, is expected to be witnessed by many thousand pairs of curious eyes. According to reports from officials, this year's Santa Claus Parade will be one of the "biggest and best" ever staged here. Larry Averette, chairman of the Merchants Association Trade Promotion Committee, says plans for the long-awaited event have been completed. "We expect one of the best turnouts ever," he added. The parade will begin at 4 p.m. at the intersection of Ninth St. and Dickinson Ave. Line of march will be eastward on Dickinson Ave. to Evans St. and northward on Evans St. to First St. Greenville High School's band will lead the parade, with one of the city's fire trucks bringing up the rear. Santa Claus will ride on the Junior Chamber of Commerce float just ahead of the fire truck. Mrs. Cora Powell, secretary of the Merchants Association, announced this morning that prizes will be presented to winners in the five competitive areas for children who have entered the parade. The cash awards amounting to $91 will be made on the County Courthouse porch by Parade Chairman J. T. Snowden Jr. and Vice-chairman Sherman Parks. Floats have been entered by: Red Men, Junior Woman's Club, Chamber of Commerce, Red Cross, TB Association, Lions Club, Moose Lodge, St. Raphael's School, Sycamore Hill Baptist Church, Girl Scout Troop 28, Merchants Association, Junior Chamber of Commerce and three floats sponsored by the Ministerial Association. In addition to the local High School band, the H. B. Suggs High School of Farmville, the Craven County School and C. M. Eppes High School bands will participate along with the Batonnettes of Washington. Other units include new automobiles from Bright Leaf Motors, Wagner-Wallop, Brown-Wood, Greenville Equipment Co., Folger Buick Co., White Chevrolet Co. and Planagan Buggy Co. The judges for the parade are to be stationed at the intersection of Clarke St. and Dickinson Ave. They are: Mrs. John Shannonhouse, vice-president of the Newcomers Club; John R. Hardy, president of the Civilian Club; Dr. Ralph F. W. Brimley, director of ECC Public Relations. J. L. Harris Jr., president of the Greenville Merchants Association and

W. T. Kyzer, manager of the Chamber of Commerce will sit with the judges. Assisting Chairmen Snowden and Parks will be: C. W. Harvey Jr., Mrs. S. T. White II, Gordon Goodman, Robert Elks, John Lautares, J. A. Collins Jr. and the local National Guard unit. Awards will be presented to first and second place winners in the pony division; first and second place winners in the costume division; first, second and third place winners in the pets division; first, second and third place winners for boys and girls decorated bicycles. Duplicate prizes will be awarded for white and Negro winners in each division. In case of rain, the parade will be staged Saturday morning and will commence at 9 o'clock. Police Chief S. G. Gibbs stated this morning that no parking will be allowed on either side of Evans St. from Five Points to Second St. There will also be no parking on the north side of Third St. between Evans and Washington Sts. He advises motorists not to abandon their vehicles at intersections located along the route to be taken by the parade. "We are making this request in case of emergencies," he stated. In addition, the Greenville Police Chief requested that no packages or articles of clothing be left in an unlocked car.

Responsibility For Lag In Rocket Program Beclouded

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said today the Senate Preparedness subcommittee is having extreme difficulty determining who is responsible for what in the lagging missile and satellite programs. Johnson, majority leader of the committee and chairman of the committee, told reporters: "I do not believe in shaking everything up and turning things upside down. But we will have to find out how to streamline the organization." The committee recalled Allen Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, and Dr. Herbert Scoville, director of the CIA's Office of Scientific Intelligence, for further closed-door questioning. The first phase of the hearings will wind up sometime tonight when the committee will recess until Dec. 13. "There is one clear pattern that has emerged from all of the testimony thus far," Johnson said. "It is the extreme difficulty of pinning down lines of authority in the missile and satellite program. "It is obvious that the committee will have to inquire very carefully into who is running what." Rep. Ford (R-Mich.), a member of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, told newsmen most members of that group favor production for both the Army and the Air Force intermediate range ballistic missiles. He did not indicate how soon a decision may be expected on production orders. If the Army's Jupiter is accepted for production, he said, it will be made at a Detroit plant of the Chrysler Corp. The Senate subcommittee summarized the secret testimony of the CIA representatives in a formal statement issued by Johnson. Soviet production of military goods and services, the summary said, has been roughly equal to that of the United States even though the Soviet's gross national product has been only about 42 per cent of this country's. Dulles attributed this to the high priority the Soviets place on the military program and to the smaller amount of production the Russians devote to consumer goods.

Royster Points To Approval Of Tobacco Support Program

"Any problem, no matter how great, if given adequate thought, attention, and patience can be solved," Fred S. Royster, executive president of the Bright Leaf Warehouseman's Association told Pitt Farm Bureau members last night. Royster told those attending the county-wide meeting "It's amazing that we have had a program that raised the price of tobacco and has had the support of both our domestic and export buyers. "The program has had fine cooperation from all segments—growers, warehouseman and leaf handlers. "We are completely dependent upon our tobacco control program," he declared. "Without it

Royster said domestic usage should be favorable since more was used this year than last. Exports should be up next year over last, he said. He said that through the program "we have reassured the foreign market that the American tobacco farmer can and will grow the type and quantity of tobacco that the foreign buyers want." Royster was introduced by B. B. Sugg. Farm Bureau President Noel Lee, Jr., who presided over the meeting praised Ralph Tucker who has headed the 1957 membership drive. The meeting was opened by F. D. Turnage of Fountain who gave the invocation.

This Season For Giving Thanks

Thanksgiving Season rekindles the feeling of gratitude to Almighty God for the blessings of a day, a year, a lifetime. At Thanksgiving most people pause at least a moment to count and recount their blessings, acknowledging that the things with which they have been blessed—be they many or few—have not come by their efforts alone.

Our nation today, we are told, is the greatest Christian nation of the world . . . more spiritual in mind and heart than at any time in its history. Yet we live in an age of ingratitude. We live in an age in which we take for granted that which we have, thinking only that we deserve much more. We spent more time finding fault with our fellow men, the world—and yes, even God—for that which we do not have than we do in counting the priceless blessings we have received.

Then once a year, we suddenly come to our senses. We are cognizant of a Supreme Power far beyond that of atoms, science, dollars and influence. We pay homage to God, giving thanks for that which we are, that which we have.

Far too often Thanksgiving Day loses the significance of a special day for giving thanks. It tends to become the only day for giving thanks to Him who is the giver of life itself. Through ingratitude we find only one day out of 365 to contemplate our blessings.

Can we in a few moments, in one day, adequately express our thanks to God. Have we so little for which to be thankful that we set aside just one day of the year to take care of the chore?

Thanksgiving Day is indeed a day for expressing the feelings of a grateful heart. It is also a time to ponder the ingratitude which has become a characteristic of our daily lives.

Clash Of Giants Is Less Likely

By LYNN NISBET

CAMPAIGN—Prospects for a "battle of giants" between Senator Kerr Scott and Governor Luther Hodges in 1960 grow dimmer every day. There is far more likelihood that these men will be found enthusiastically supporting each other for different offices rather than fighting for the same place.

Some of this information is guarded as jealously as top secrets in the defense department. "We don't mind them knowing we are compiling a record," said a Scott follower, "but we don't want them to know what we might find ourselves supporting Hodges for vice President and maybe needing his help for our chief in the Senate race. In that case of course we wouldn't want anybody else to get into these files."

A survey made by your reporter soon after adjournment of the General Assembly and reported in this column more than three months ago indicated that a good many people think Governor Hodges "has his eye on the senate chamber, but in the presiding officer's chair rather than a seat out in the hall."

That is believed to have been the first published suggestion that Hodges might be considered as a presidential or vice presidential candidate. Since then there has been almost a snow-balling of the idea, and in recent weeks it has been recognized by metropolitan newspapers and national magazines.

A significant phase of this nation-wide build-up is that the promotion is coming from sources outside North Carolina and beyond the controlling influence of Governor Hodges or anybody in this state.

The Governor said at Mobile the other day that he had heard about the movement, but had not "encouraged" it. There is no evidence that he has sought to discourage it. His willingness to accept speaking engagements anywhere in the United States, the kind of speeches he makes and the reception given him throughout the country, enhances probably he will not decline a "call to service" in that field—or in some other top level Federal position.

There is chance that Scott may be renominated without serious opposition, and that Hodges may be able to call the plays at the national convention. But the folks down the line presently show no disposition to let two men parcel out other offices. There are signs that the 1960 Democratic race for Governor may be more like that of 1940 than any other in recent times. That was the time seven candidates entered the primary, four of them representing slightly differing segments of what was regarded as the "dominant faction." Results of the first primary gave Broughton 147,396; Horton 105,815; Maxwell 102,095 and Gravelly 63,030. The other three—Grady, Cooper and Simmons—received a combined vote of just under 52,000. Factional lines were pretty clear in 1944 and 1948, but since then there has been increasing difficulty in defining them. Subsequent contests have been more on personal basis.

IN-STATE—Before and during the 1954 general election campaign there were signs that Scott and Hodges were building rival organizations to seek control of the Democratic party in the state in 1956. Death of Governor William Umstead and accession of Hodges to the governorship changed the picture. For a time it looked like the major battle had just been postponed for four years, and that Hodges might try to take the seat in the U.S. Senate away from Scott. That prospect dimmed when Scott declined to back a candidate against Hodges for a full term in the Governor's office.

The Governor and the Senator are not completely "en rapport", as the French would say, but they have worked together well on major projects for developing North Carolina—reforestation, water conservation, hurricane re-

LIVELY—The possibility of an armistice or a cooperative working agreement between Hodges and Scott respecting their individual actions in one race, does not affect prospects for a very lively statewide campaign. The following of both men is strong and loyal, and it is personal rather than organizational. Neither has ever lost an election for himself. The Senate race in 1952 and the Governor's race in 1956 proved that Scott cannot transfer his personal support to another candidate. Hodges has not faced that kind of test, but rumbling among Democratic organization workers on local levels raises doubt that he would direct many votes for any candidate except himself.

compelled always to do the right thing; but when I reflect on such ideas, I see its folly and am willing to settle for what I am.

I might mention a number of other things: I live in a country where one of the greatest problems is the parking problem. We have so many automobiles that we can't find standing room for them; we have so much food that most of us are overweight; we live in a land so fruitful that it costs a half billion dollars each year to store our surpluses. But these are trifles compared with one great gratitude. I am thankful that I exist under a loving God, that I have been rescued by a gracious Savior, that the presence of the Perfect Spirit is my guide. I am deeply grateful today.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THANKSGIVING

I am thankful that I am living. Many times each day the garments of death brush by us with their ominous rustle.

I am thankful that I enjoy reasonably good health. A million enemies of the body are at work on us every day. Only by the mercy of God do we come through unscathed.

I am thankful that I live in a free country. Often I ask myself how I could have been so fortunate as to have been born in this free land, while millions of my fellow men live in bondage.

I am thankful that I am a free being having the power of choice. I can choose evil or good as I see fit. Often I wish that I were a mere automation

By ELMER ROESSNER

The question of whether there are too many stores has been raised by Victor Lebow, New York marketing consultant.

He said that just as consumer goods production seems to be outdistancing consumer purchases, so "it may be that the square feet of retail selling space are exceeding the needs of the population in terms of current buying power."

As a consequence, he said, there has been a high rate of retail mortality.

It is not, of course, the number of square feet of selling space that is bothering Dr. Lebow and many others concerned with retailing, but the number of units.

BUYING AGENTS

Retailers are actually purchasing agents for consumers. A large industrial plant may have several purchasing agents, each a specialist. One may be particularly good at driving bargains; another may have ways of getting fast delivery and plenty of service; still another may be a genius in finding hard-to-get items. But when a company has more purchasing agents than it needs, it usually fires the surplus.

In the same way, when a community has too many retailers servicing as its buying agents, it usually stops buying at one or two—and there's another Dun & Bradstreet statistic!

While an industrial firm may be little concerned with competition among its purchasing agents, a community is not. Competition is its strongest protection against overcharges or even gouging.

Long observation discloses this pattern in small communities or neighborhood shopping districts: FROM MONOPOLY TO MONOPOLY

When there is only one store selling a line of products—a say, wallpaper—there is a miniature monopoly. The store is inclined to charge as much as it can without turning prospects to other shopping districts,

Alonzo Edwards Has The Qualifications

Election of Alonzo C. Edwards of Hookerton as executive vice president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation affords the Farm Bureau an excellent leader to fill the big shoes left vacant by the recent death of R. Flake Shaw.

"Lon" Edwards has been one of the moving forces in the Farm Bureau Federation and in agricultural advancement in North Carolina for many years. As a farmer, as a president of the Farm Bureau Federation, and as a legislator, Edwards has been in a position to view and work with the agricultural problems of North Carolina. He has likewise been in a position to evaluate the attitude of state and national lawmakers as well as a cross-section of the state's citizenry toward the farmer and his problems.

In short, he brings to his new position with the Farm Bureau Federation a broad background of experience which should stand the organization and the farmers of the state in good stead.

This Evasiveness Can Work In Reverse, Too

Illness of our President is something important to the rest of his "family" of Americans. It isn't anything to gloss over, to hide or belittle.

Yet, there is reason to believe the original "chill" which put him in bed was diagnosed for what it really was late Monday. Instead of straight-forward dealings with the public, a lot of pap and evasive words were issued which served only to create some measure of uneasiness . . . largely because, through experience, we've come to know how the palace guard operates.

When the truth was told, it came almost unwillingly.

If Americans are not to be told the facts about their own President, how can the American people conclude their President has been told all the facts on national and international situations with which he must deal and on which he must be fully informed? Is he too shielded from knowing the truth? The public's experience would so indicate.

There Can Be Just So Many

When there are two similar stores, there is some competition, but the usual tendency is for one store to go after the luxury trade and the other to cultivate low-bracket families.

When a third store opens, real competition sets in. In most communities there are not three income strata of importance and each store must bid for the trade of everyone.

However, when a fourth store opens, the situation often changes. Then there are often too many square feet of sales space. There may also be too much overhead for the prospective customers to support. Trade then takes one of two turns: Either retailers get together and form a cartel—probably illegal—and have an understanding that they will maintain full prices; or competition will be severe until the weakest gives up and sells out or puts up the shutters.

MANY EXAMPLES APPARENT

In many shopping districts today there are the signals of impending troubles. You may know of a small or medium size town with four or more stores or shops in a single line.

It is probably apparent that customers in the shopping area are paying salaries of four or more hardware store managers, four salesmen, four bookkeepers, and paying the rent on four or more shops, carrying the bank loans on that many establishments, meeting insurance payments, and so on. All those costs must be included in the retail prices.

Eventually, supporting so many stores, like hiring too many cooks or gardeners, will become burdensome and the shopping area will concentrate its purchases in one or two stores—or buy hardware needs elsewhere—and the situation will be righted, at painful cost to the weakest.

In some European communities, a single baker may have the right to sell bread, or a single brewer the right to supply beer. Americans prefer free enterprise. We want choices of breads, beers and hardware.

Reflections On The News

As late as 10:45 last Friday night Pitt County was way ahead of last year's record number of 24 traffic fatalities.

In a few seconds four more dead were added to the list. It happened just that quick.

One of the worst wrecks in this county's history snuffed out the lives of four young men. Men just reaching the prime of their life.

It only took one little mistake. A car traveling on the wrong side of the road at an extremely high rate of speed.

One of the witnesses to the tragedy said the car in question ran the truck in which he was riding off the highway seconds before it carried two men to their doom and taking two more lives in the process. He said the car must have been going 90 miles per hour.

Truthfully speaking it is hard to believe that a person would be thoughtless enough to travel at that rate of speed on a rainy night. The highway was slippery and visibility was poor.

Yet it happened.

One Highway Patrolman stated the cars looked like a stick of dynamite had exploded in the interior of each.

The impact of the two automobiles meeting head on sent one body over a four-foot fence 40 feet out into a pasture. Another body was thrown into a barbed wire fence some distance from the bloody scene.

When the smoke cleared on man was dead. Before the blood stopped running, three more died.

It is high time we as individuals realize that accidents don't always happen to the other fellow. I am sure that those who died Friday night had no earthly idea they were riding to their doom.

Other Editors Saying--- Injury In Retirement?

(St. Petersburg Times)

The answer is that retirement, contrary to a widely held belief, not only does not injure health but, under right conditions, improves health. Injury to the health of retirees comes about for most of the same reasons that apply to non-retired persons. (An exception, of course, would be health from over-work.)

Undernourishment, worry and discouragement because of insufficient income, poor housing, inadequate medical attention—all of these are known to have a deleterious effect upon the health of some individuals.

On the other hand, freedom from long hours of work, the strain of fighting traffic in going to and from work, removal from a disagreeable to a pleasant climate (such, of course, as that of Florida) all may have a curative effect.

At the 10th annual meeting of the Gerontological Society in Cleveland recently, two Cornell University scientists are reported to have challenged the "widespread belief that retirement has a damaging effect on the health of older people and hastens their death."

Dr. Wayne E. Thompson and Gordon F. Streib, ascribed the belief to the fact that "many persons who retire voluntarily do so because their health has already begun to fail."

These men reported results of a survey of 1,200 persons over a six-year period, before and after their retirement from employment. It was found that persons who retired involuntarily, because of age, suffered less deterioration after retirement and some showed improvement in health.

Other experts, however, reported that "an arbitrary retirement age of 65 or even 70 is for many people well under their potentialities." Our own experience here in St. Petersburg certainly indicates that this is the case. It is just as foolish to have a flat retirement age as it would be to say, for instance, that no one under the age of 35 could head a department.

Retirement, for a great many people, is a fine and healthful thing—if the retiree has adequate income for good housing, good food, and reasonably good facilities for recreation and intellectual stimulus.

Gennis Harris, Negro Police Officer in Ayden, is probably wondering how far a man can go these days to become a good samaritan.

In his haste to get a cutting victim to the hospital Saturday night he became involved in a traffic accident. Following an investigation he was charged with a traffic violation.

When his case came up in Ayden Municipal Court Monday Judge L. L. Kittrell showed compassion for his fellow man. He ruled the violation came in the line of duty.

Opinions In Brief

"It cannot be too often emphasized that a free press is guaranteed for the protection of the people, not the press."—Raleigh News & Observer.

"Wherever the State has taken it upon itself to build monumental works—canals, dams, pyramids, palaces, great walls—it has tended to total-tyranny."—John Chamberlain in The Freeman.

Can't Produce A Bipartisanship

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON Sporadic Dulles-Stevenson conversations have not produced and cannot produce "bipartisanship" even in the Sputnik crisis. Even Democrats far more friendly to the Eisenhower foreign policy than the Chicago lawyer have been affronted by Administration tactlessness and ineptitude.

An attempt has been made to depict Sherman Adams as the "goat" in the sputtering feud. It is true that the Democrats regard the White House Chief of Staff as "rude and uncouth," and that many Republican politicians and members of Congress dislike him personally and politically.

Despite Adams' belated denials, there is a "palace guard" at the White House. It is this small group that has been responsible for excessive secrecy on national and international problems. It has also shielded Eisenhower from the hard facts and realities of politics, government and international affairs. As current events suggest, in most instances their judgment has been wrong.

MILITARY EXPERTS BARRED FROM PRESIDENT This Situation explains why prominent members and committees on Capitol Hill have been far more cognizant of Russia's scientific and military lead than the President of the United States.

Military and intelligence experts have tried again and again to warn Eisenhower of the disparity in achievement, not with vague suspicions but with factual data. Scientists of world renown have sought to gain Presidential attention and to alert him, as Albert Einstein did F.D.R., when a mere note to Roosevelt enabled us to develop history's first atom bomb. Everything the experts foretold has been borne out, and belatedly Ike is responding.

But these Cassandras were given short shrift by the White House major-domo, Trevor Gardner, a missile expert and Pentagon official at the time (he long ago resigned in disgust), was allowed only 51 minutes—43 on one occasion and eight on another—to brief the whole Cabinet on the crisis which has been described by Senator Stuart Symington as a "technological Pearl Harbor."

As a result, Democrats and Republicans there have been disappointed and disgusted with the Administration's original depreciation of the Sputnik's importance.

The contrast in the Congressional reaction to the missile men was expressing disinterest in "the score of a basketball in outer space," an influential Republican Senator from his own state of New Hampshire—Stiles Bridges—was echoing Churchill's solemn post-Dunkirk warning of the need for "blood, sweat and tears."

Fortunately, the President has finally swept away the White House roadblocks built by Adams. He has opened his private door to the missile men.

KE AND DULLES IRKED DEMOCRATS Perhaps unintentionally, however, it is Eisenhower and Dulles themselves who have recently rubbed the Democrats' political fur the wrong way.

As recently outlined here, the President intimated that Congress must undertake the "hard and distasteful task" of expanding the Sputnik budget by eliminating politically popular items from the legislative program. The blunder may have

Science Can Have It

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP) — There seems to be a new national anthem titled: "Be kind to your scientist week."

Sub-title: "Be kind to your scientist week."

Sub-title: "Be kind to your scientist week."

Now, I realize this new evangelism was born out of pure reverence for knowledge and absolute truth and, of course, has no connection with national panic. Still, I must confess, there are times when a heathen superstition keeps me from being swept off my feet, stop me from kneeling in prayer over the New Testament of the Test Tube.

Almost every time the new faith begins to seize me, something happens: A bunch of scientists get together and paint a futuristic picture of the paradise to come on earth.

They did it again just the other day. Now, just how much connection there was between the prophecies and the products being celebrated, I can not say and I don't think it would be fair of you to draw any inferences.

Eight top-rank scientists at a distiller's party came up with this picture of man (or woman) 100 years from now:

He'll be able to control the size, shape and function of his own body; talk through his mind instead of his mouth; remove all mental illness and impulses with drops or pills; select the sex of his unborn baby and determine whether he'll have single, twins or triplets; if he doesn't want his own baby, he'll be able to shop for and then hatch the sperm and eggs of long-dead people of proven virtue and talent; dine on vegetable dishes and synthetics, since the rest of the animal kingdom will have been consumed by then; vacation at lavish hotels hung in outer space and receive his mail through satellite radio signals.

WOW!

Except for the fact that they're convinced man in the year 2057 will work only four to eight hours a week, I find the scientists' dream of the future—a screaming nightmare.

I visualize the human form being shaped to fit the furniture, not vice versa. Tuesday, I'll be contoured. Wednesday I'll sprout wings for the butterfly spirit. Thursday I'll take in a little microscopical sports car.

In this suspenseful world of vegetating vegetarians, a hostess warming up for her dinner party will take slob conversation pills and her guests, antibiotic drops. The timid slob going in to ask for a raise will first take courage pills and the boss, seeing him enter, will take anti-sympathy pills.

There will be pills for everything but the divorce rate. I'm convinced, I'll soon live in the stratosphere. Trying to figure out what a woman is saying is torture enough; trying to figure out what she's thinking will defy even the wave of the future.

Verbally or mentally, there will be endless arguments between man and wife 100 years hence.

"Let's go to Mars again. I can get a discount."

"You and your cliché thinking. Mars is overloaded with humans. Let's go to Saturn. It's more chic. Nobody goes there."

"I'm telling you for the last time, it'll be a boy!"

"That's what you think. Remember, you picked the last one. Anyway, it's already been arranged. We'll have a quiet girl this time. I promised the babysitter."

"I want a boy, a brown-haired boy."

"I want a girl, with chartruse hair. Mother says it'll go with our new living room. It's the big thing this year."

I want not to be there, in the year 2057.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Municipal Recorder's Court Monday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of 31 cases, four of them on the charge of driving drunk. Fifteen cases involved violations of motor vehicle and traffic laws.
William Fornes, 1108 W. Fourth Street, driving drunk, 90 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $100 and costs, and he is not to drive for 12 months. The defendant gave notice of appeal.
Henry H. Pollard, 108 Ridgeway Street, driving drunk, 90 days, suspended on payment of $100 and costs and he is not to drive for 12 months. The court recommended that his operator's license be revoked for 12 months. This cause was retained for further order.
Bernice L. McLawhorn, Bethel, driving drunk, case transferred to Superior Court for jury trial.
Thomas A. Worthington, Fayetteville, careless and reckless driving and driving drunk, defendant failed to answer and an instant capias was issued.

Drunk: Sylvester Vick, Rt. 1, city, two cases, $20 costs deducted in each case. William Knight, Negro, 915 Douglas Avenue, 30 days or pay $10. Charles Davis, Jr., 14th and Charles Streets, 30 days or pay $16. Sam Hemby, Negro, 815 Douglas Avenue, 30 days or pay $16. Albert L. Smith, Negro, $16.
Possession non-tax-paid whiskey: Martha P. Harris, Negro, 610 Albarmar Avenue, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. She was placed on probation for two years and she is not to possess any intoxicating beverage. Olivia Streeter, Negro, 1400 W. Fifth Street, 30 days, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted and probation one year. David Bright, Negro, 1205 Mills Street, called and failed to answer, instant capias issued. Mary E. Barrett, Negro, 30 days, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that she shall pay $14.11 to W. C. Clark for house door. John Ivey Green, Negro, $25, costs deducted.

No operator's license: Charles M. Chapple, Negro, 520 Sheppard Street, costs. John D. Allen, Negro, Ayden, prayer for judgment continued on payment of costs and he is not to drive without a license. Allen paid court costs for leaving the scene of an accident. William L. Fornes, 1108 W. Fourth Street, costs, paid costs.
Billy Ray Moore, Negro, 1204 W. Fifth Street, 60 days, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted, and he is to behave for two years.
William Frank Streeter, Negro, 1400 W. Fifth Street, was found not guilty of possessing non-tax-paid whiskey for sale.
Assault on a female: D. C. Yarbrough, 207 W. 12th Street, was found not guilty. Claude Williams, Negro, 608 Sheppard Street, paid costs.
Theodore R. Dupree, Negro, Rt. 4, city, paid costs for not stopping at a red light.
Marie L. Tripp, Rt. 5, city, paid costs for failing to yield right of way.
Speeding: Charles S. Boyd, Jr., Negro, Grimesland, paid costs. Huel Hemby, Jr., 605 Harris Street, (and operating to left of highway), 30 days, suspended on payment of $50 and costs, and the judgment provides that he is not to drive for 60 days.
James Bradley, Negro, 101 Ford Street, six months, suspended on payment of $12 before release and pay $12 a week beginning November 30, 1957 for support. This cause was retained for further order.
Marion E. Forbes, Negro, 504 Sheppard Street, following too close, prayer for judgment continued on payment of costs. He is not to drive a motor vehicle for 60 days unless restitution is made for property damage.
Jeanette G. Clapp was found not guilty of careless and reckless driving.

He listed four areas where he said "we should take our stand." These were: (1) "abuse of the Supreme Court of the United States for its decisions against segregation in order to make the court a scapegoat," (2) "the failure of local and state authorities to uphold law," (3) "punitive laws and spite legislation intended to cripple the NAACP and put it out of business," and (4) "appeals to racial prejudice by men seeking public recognition or personal profit."
In commenting on the Little Rock school situation, Carlyle said most Americans "were shocked" by the use of federal troops there. He added, "too few were disturbed by the breakdown of law enforcement" which resulted in President Eisenhower's action in calling out the troops.

Political Appeals On Race Prejudice Rapped

RALEIGH (AP) — Political appeals to racial prejudice have been scored by a Winston-Salem attorney and Baptist layman as "worst of all" the South's problems arising from segregation.
Irving Carlyle, a former state senator, told a Raleigh church group last night that "constructive" action should be taken to resolve the racial dilemma "regardless of how unpleasant and disagreeable the task may be."

He spoke at a conference on Christian faith and human relations at the Good Shepherd Episcopal Church.

"It is a sad commentary upon the moral climate of our times that throughout the South, and even in our own state, racial prejudice is now the most powerful political weapon of all," asserted Carlyle. "In many areas the man in office or seeking office who fails to use that weapon today is sure to be defeated," he added.

The people of the South "must confront and accept the truth on the side of the law against segregation," he declared. North Carolina has attempted to do so, and "has started substantial compliance with the law," in contrast to other Southern states, he said. Carlyle told the group he was speaking only for himself and not for any individual or group, with no ax to grind and no cause to promote.

Escapee Feels Safer Inside
BALTIMORE (AP) — Elmer Trusty is not trusty but he should be.
The 26-year-old prisoner fled a Maryland Penitentiary work detail but two days later he was back asking to be let in. Trusty said he felt safe inside, that he was afraid a policeman might shoot him.

Charles Guy Case Testimony Ended

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — With testimony concluded, lawyers today began their arguments to the jury trying 19-year-old Charles Lee Guy III for murder.
The youth is charged with the death of Guy F. Roberts, 45, who was a Hollywood advertising executive and friend of Guy's six times married mother. Roberts was found dead Aug. 15 in a motel room here in which he and the boy's mother had registered as man and wife.

Guy, defended by his father, Charles Lee Guy Jr. of Dunn, N.C., denied from the witness stand yesterday that he killed Roberts. The mother, Mrs. Nina Miles, whose first husband was the defense attorney, testified earlier that the boy admitted to her the slaying.

Textile Workers Approve Strike 'If Necessary'

GREENSBORO (AP) — Textile Workers Union of America members at the Cone Mills Corp.'s print works plant here have authorized their negotiating committee to call a strike "if necessary" when their contract expires Friday.
The contract concerns about 800 workers.
The print works plant is the fifth Cone mill in this area where TWUA members have authorized strikes affecting about 4,200 workers. None have been called yet, however. Contracts have expired at the other mills: White Oaks and Proximity in Greensboro, Edna Mills in Reidsville and Minneola in Gibsonville.

The dispute involves a $10 a week increase in sick benefits, weekly instead of bi-weekly pay and a dues check-off system whereby dues are withheld from workers' pay.
The youth also testified of dope parties at the home of Billy Miles, a musician his mother married after the slaying. He said benzadrine and dexedrine pills were taken there and some musicians who frequented the apartment smoked marijuana.
"I was offered some," he testified. "I took a few drags now and then but I didn't like the stuff."
The youth testified that he knew he left the scene of the slaying in Roberts' car and that he remembers throwing a shotgun in the ocean, but he said he was drunk and "not in my right mind."

Some flooding along the Cape Fear and Neuse rivers was occurring again today according to the bureau, but it was not exceeding the bureau's forecast of yesterday.
The Cape Fear at Fayetteville is expected to crest at about 45 feet today, 10 feet in flood stage. At Elizabethtown the river has risen to 30 feet and is still rising. The bureau has predicted a crest of 33 feet there where flood stage is 20 feet.
The Neuse is still rising and is expected to reach flood stage at Neuse and Smithfield. The Weather Bureau stated it would have reports for points downstream on the Neuse after the final reports are made at the upstream points. Unless there is more rain, the bureau says the swollen rivers

Rivers Of N. C. Continue To Rise Following Rains

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina rivers continued to rise today in the aftermath of the recent rains, but the U.S. Weather Bureau reported there still is no serious flooding anticipated.
Residents of two Lumberton streets were evacuated yesterday by the Red Cross and the Lumberton Fire Department as the banks of the Lumber River overflowed there.
Several areas of the city are threatened, but officials believe the peak has been reached. Waters were reported to be 10.5 feet higher than normal. Waters however, the flooding was no record, and no indications of pollution existed.

The Cape Fear at Fayetteville is expected to crest at about 45 feet today, 10 feet in flood stage. At Elizabethtown the river has risen to 30 feet and is still rising. The bureau has predicted a crest of 33 feet there where flood stage is 20 feet.

The Neuse is still rising and is expected to reach flood stage at Neuse and Smithfield. The Weather Bureau stated it would have reports for points downstream on the Neuse after the final reports are made at the upstream points. Unless there is more rain, the bureau says the swollen rivers

TESTIFIES ON MISSILES.—Dr. Edward Teller tells the Senate Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee that he believes Russia has the ability to hit such a distant target as Houston, Tex., with an intercontinental ballistic missile, "or will have in a short time." Teller, who played a major part in development of the H-bomb, testified as the opening witness in a broad Senate inquiry into the U. S. missile program. (AP Wirephoto).

Whiskers grow in tiny valleys. Ordinary shaving methods skim along the tops of these valleys — shave only the tops of your whiskers. Soon the unshaved base of each whisker will grow out and your Hidden Beard can be seen and felt.
Amazing Roller Combs gently press the edges of the skin valleys down — pop up those hard-to-get-at whisker bases right into the path of the man-sized shaving head. Each whisker is then sheared off closely, quickly and comfortably.

N. C. Publisher Dies Of Illness
ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (AP) — J. Neal Cadieu, 53-year-old publisher of Rockingham's two newspapers, died in Memorial Hospital yesterday. He suffered a stroke Nov. 14 and never rallied.
The Rev. Carl Lewis was to conduct funeral services at the First Baptist Church today and the burial was to take place in Memorial Park Cemetery.
Cadieu bought the weekly Journal in 1937 and built it into first a semi-weekly and then a tri-weekly newspaper. He acquired the Rockingham Post-Dispatch from Ike London in 1953. London remained as editor.
Survivors include his wife: a son, J. Neal Cadieu, editor of the Richmond County Journal, and a daughter, Mrs. Ann Boyd of Portsmouth, Va.

Junius Scales To Be Tried Again

GREENSBORO (AP)—Junius Irving Scales, descendant of a North Carolina governor, will get a new trial on Smith Act charges "at the earliest possible date," a Justice Department official has announced. Scales, former Communist leader in the Carolinas and Tennessee, was one of the first persons convicted under the Smith Act "membership clause" which outlawed membership in organizations advocating violent overthrow of the government. However, the U.S. Supreme Court ruling in a similar case prompted the Justice Department to withdraw Scales' conviction, then before the high court, on the grounds that Scales deserved a new trial. Dist. Atty. Robert L. Gavin said here yesterday that the Justice Department would push for the new trial. Scales, 37, is a nephew of the late Gov. A. M. Scales. A graduate of the University of North Carolina, Scales last was reported living in New York City with his second wife and 6-year-old daughter.

Authorities Will Talk Further On Opening Graves

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Stewart Honeck planned to confer today with District Attorneys Earl Kileen of Waushara County and John Haka of adjacent Portage County on the question of opening more graves which Ed Gein said he had plundered. Any decision, Honeck said, would be made by mutual agreement of his office and local authorities. Honeck also announced that another lie detector test would be given Gein, 51-year-old bachelor of rural Plainfield who has admitted killing two middle-aged women and robbing the graves of nine others. Honeck said the purpose of the additional tests was to determine whether Gein was involved in other killings. Gein is undergoing 30 days of mental observation. Gein's attorney William Belter of Wautoma, said he had no objection to more lie tests for Gein but that he would doubt their reliability if Gein is judged insane. "Gein is apparently trying to tell people honestly what happened," Belter said. "But perhaps he doesn't remember some things, and other facts may be perverted in his mind. If that is so, what value is a lie detector test?" Two graves in Plainfield Cemetery were opened Monday and the caskets were found empty. Kileen said the opening of the graves verified Gein's story and added, "I won't open any more if I can help it." Honeck has been directed by Gov. Vernon Thomson to investigate all phases of Gein's case. Gein had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to a charge of first-degree murder in the death of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58-year-old Plainfield hardware store operator Nov. 16. He also admitted killing Mrs. Mary Hagan, 54, who disappeared from her rural tavern in Portage County in December 1954.

Blame Arson In Series Of Fires

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A series of fires broke out last night in the southwest part of Oklahoma City and Fire Chief G. R. McAlpine said an arsonist apparently was responsible. One of the fires destroyed a large mule barn at the Oklahoma City Stockyards and caused damage estimated by the manager, Oscar Holderby, at $150,000. Another blaze burned a large feed barn in the same area, along with 800 bales of alfalfa. Damage was estimated at $20,000. The longest ride, without changing trains, on New York subways is 26 miles.

Greenville, N. C.

By JACK BELL. WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon stepped gingerly into the role of a part-time substitute for ailing President Eisenhower today, giving clear notice Eisenhower will continue to call the signals on government policies. A proposal by Sen. Bridges (R-NH) that Nixon take over for the stricken President at two scheduled briefings of congressional leaders next week seemed likely to get Eisenhower's approval. Nixon said the meetings will be held but added he did not know whether he would preside. Bridges, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said he thinks Nixon "should take over the leadership in routine matters for the President, carrying on the known general wishes and policy of the President." Sen. Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the Conference of All Republican Senators, indicated general agreement with this view. "Things have to go on," he said. "The government can't stop." But Sen. Carroll (D-Colo.) commented that "it's one thing to carry out policy and another to make it." Nixon scheduled further conferences with presidential staff members today at the White House where he spent most of yesterday without seeing the ill President. He told newsmen when he emerged he might preside over Cabinet and National Security Council meetings. But in response to what he called "a hypothetical question" about who in the government would make a decision on a retreat if Russia suddenly attacked Western Europe, the vice president replied: "Any decision re-takes over and when the disability ends. No vice president has ever taken over the duties except after the death of a president. Nixon publicly disclaimed any thought of taking over as acting president during Eisenhower's illness. He sought to explain that during the time he spent at the White House he was acting only as a member of the Cabinet team that rallied around the chief executive. He said he was not presiding but "participating in" conferences of top administration leaders who met during the day while the President lay in bed under doctors' care. Nixon, who is regarded as a leading candidate for the 1960 GOP presidential nomination, has avoided any appearance of trying to take over the top office in two previous Eisenhower illnesses. But he indicated the disability question was discussed while doctors were determining the extent of the presidential stricture. The vice president said he and Cabinet members had been informed no delegation of presidential authority was required at present. Nixon said Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers made this decision "after noting what the President's condition was and what was required for signing papers." The vice president said they had been assured Eisenhower's "progress is most satisfactory" despite the blockage of a small artery in his brain, which caused a slight speech impairment. "I am completely confident the President will return to his desk and resume his responsibilities," Nixon said.

'Fortification' Of Foods Plays A Bigger Role

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Scientists are thinking up new ways today to help out those who eat what they like or can afford rather than what would be a nutritionally ideal diet. The food and chemical industries are joining hands in the drive. A newcomer is the fortification of cereal products with vitamins B6 and B12 and the amino acid L-lysine. This is aimed at giving bread and other cereal products a protein content to offset the diet deficiencies of those who don't or can't eat enough meat, milk and butter. Pioneer in the fortification of food was the addition of iodine to table salt to improve the diet of persons living in areas where goiter is prevalent. Adding vitamin A to food came later. Robert R. Williams, of the Williams-Waterman Fund for the Combat of Dietary Diseases, Research Corp., New York, says today seven million dollars of synthetic vitamin A are used annually in foodstuffs and two million dollars of vitamin B1 are added to cereals. Vitamin D in milk is widely used, especially in colder climates and for children who are bundled up and get little exposure to sunlight, a natural source. Vitamin A is being added to oleomargarine to help low-income families and especially children, great eaters of bread. Ways are being sought to add it effectively to cooking fats for use in those lands where much of the diet is cooked in fats. Dr. N. W. Flodin and Dr. J. W. Brown, nutrition scientists with Du Pont, a L-lysine producer, hold that adding a quarter of a pound of wheat flour give bread and other flour products high-efficiency protein similar to that in meat or milk.

Three On Horseback Plan Ride From U.S. To Aneds

By GENE HANDSAKER SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Three men will set out Sunday on a 7,000-mile horseback ride from the lowest point on the North American continent to the highest point in South America. If they survive head hunters, man-eating pigs, boa constrictors, saddle sores and dysentery, it will take them from 282 feet below sea level to 23,035 above. The low starting point is Bad Water, Death Valley, Calif., 160 miles northeast of here. They expect it will take 18 months to reach their destination: Mt. Aconcagua, Argentina. Why should a carpenter, a boat dealer and an ex-cop set out on such a wearying and dangerous journey? "It's been a lifelong dream of mine to take some long, adventurous ride," says Loren Lee Upton, 22-year-old carpenter. The expedition's organizer and leader, 6-foot-4 Loren says he knows of only one other horseback ride even remotely like it. A Swiss schoolteacher rode from Buenos Aires to Washington for President Hoover's inauguration, Loren says "but he took a boat part way." Loren and his companions say they'll plod every foot—even over a foothold across the Panama Canal. Goal in mind, Loren interviewed about 80 potential co-adventurers. Each of the two he picked would have to put up $3,200 as his share of expenses.

Ed Baillie, 34, owner of a camera store in nearby Colton, heard of Loren's plans. "Have you ever lived outdoors?" Loren asked. "Nine years in the Army, four years overseas," Ed replied. "I've hunted in Alaska, Greenland and Canada. I'm an expert with a gun—was a Colton police officer for five years." Ed says now: "In three weeks my wife realized I wasn't joking about this trip. I even talked about it in my sleep. She said, 'O.K.'" Ed sold his camera store to provide for her and their five children during his absence. Charlotte Baillie, who'll resume her job as a grocery store checker, says: "I'm only sorry I can't go along." As the expedition's photographer Ed will send back 16mm. movies which the horsemen hope will make either a TV series or a feature-length picture. Kyle Pratt, 40, was lukewarm when Loren first approached him, then decided he'd like to revisit South America. Out of the Air Force 10 years ago, he took a panel-truck trip there with two buddies. With two other buddies he flew home in a war surplus plane. For snapping pictures, forbidden then in Peron-ruled Argentina, they were detained six weeks as spy suspects. On that trip he sent his mother 60-page letters. Now he'll be interpreter, guide and journalist. The travelers hope his daily logs, aired home, will sell to magazines. Kyle, a widower, has taken in a partner to run his boat business in nearby Loma Linda. The six horses are trail-steered pack steeds from California High Sierra country. The travelers say they'll probably sell them in Argentina. An airline has offered to fly the men home. Hazards ahead include head-hunting tribes in lower Panama and Colombia. The horsemen will have trinkets for them—also pistols that fire 20-second flares and might scare off jungle night aggressors. "It may sound silly, but such things have saved people's lives," Loren says. There will be herds of peccaries, piglike mammals that attack men . . . 30-foot Anaconda constrictors that hang from trees and can crush a man's head or back with a hammer blow of their heads. "We wouldn't think much of this trip if we didn't have a little hazard," Ed says. Each man carries a pistol and a rifle. Equipment includes two pressure cookers to kill dysentery-causing amoebae . . . a canvas and stakes to shelter three beds side by side . . . snake, penicillin and water-purifying pills . . . a direction-finding radio receiver. Sights ahead include Mayan ruins and, Kyle says "a canyon they claim you could put the Grand Canyon inside." in South Sonora, Mexico.

Two Guardsmen Are Promoted To Full Colonel

RALEIGH (AP)—Tar Heel National Guardsmen John H. Lee of Monroe and Joe T. Carruthers of Greensboro have been promoted from lieutenant colonels to full colonel. The promotions were announced yesterday by Gov. Hodges, who is commander in chief of the North Carolina Guard. Eight other promotions and 13 new appointments also were released by the governor. Col. Lee, serving as executive officer of IV Corps Artillery, has a record of military service dating from 1928 when he enlisted in the National Guard as a private in the 113th Field Artillery Battalion. He served in World War II and in Korea, and was awarded the Bronze Star with oak leaf clusters. Carruthers is executive officer of the 30th Infantry Division Artillery. He served in Africa and Italy during World War II, and joined the National Guard in 1947. Nevada has the smallest population of any state — 160,600 people in 109,821 square miles.

ACC Will Be Asked To End Post-Season Game Limits

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) A proposal to allow unlimited participation by Atlantic Coast Conference football teams in post-season games will come before the ACC at its meeting here on Thursday and Friday of next week.

The conference has sent its "most representative" team to previous bowl games, not necessarily the champion.

Grants-in-aid agreements, long a bone of contention, are again proposed. Since last winter, North Carolina's "Big Four" — Duke, North Carolina State, North Carolina and Wake Forest — and Clemson have in effect their own informal agreement respecting their commitments.

Navy Rated Over Army By 3 Points

Brainwashing Topic Has Illuminating Treatment

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—It will be a long time before a television viewer can forget the extraordinary incident of "Brainwashing" on Twentieth Century Sunday evening. Here was a lucid explanation of the methods devised by the Communist states to force confession of guilt from the innocent. But the program exceeded the merely descriptive. It engaged the emotions by recapturing, in a combination of excellent direct inter-views and dramatic scenes, some crucial moments of mankind un-der stress. A receptive mind could not help but respond to the candid accounts of several who had been brain-washed: Dr. Edith Bone, a Brit-ish subject and former Commu-nist who spent seven years in a Hungarian dungeon; William Oat-ley of the Associated Press, im-prisoned in Czechoslovakia for two years; Robert Ford, a Brit-ish civilian incarcerated in China for five years; the crew of a U.S. Air Force plane captured in Ko-rea and accused of waging germ warfare. Dr. Bone, who was 61 when cap-tured and 68 when released, was especially articulate in re-enact-ing the means whereby she resist-ed confession and endured solitary confinement. She made memorable points on the sources of her strength: As a former Communist she was con-vinced of the malicious design of her captors; as one of her 60s she felt that most of her life was be-hind her and she was atoning for past sins; as one with wide intel-lectual resources she had attained great self-sufficiency. Walter Cronkite, that excellent newsman and narrator of twen-tieth Century, intelligently under-scored a basic source of the abil-ity to survive under stress: a free and cultivated mind is the mark of the strong individual. . . .

President's Illness Could Go Unrecognized In Many Cases

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter
WASHINGTON (AP)—The type of illness President Eisenhower has might go unrecognized by many persons not under constant medi-cal supervision, doctors of the National Heart Institute said to-day.

Neurologists attending the Pres-ident said last night Eisenhower suffered "an occlusion (blockage) of a small branch of a cerebral vessel which has produced a slight difficulty in speaking." The NHI doctors said that a "stroke" — little or big — could directly result from the following mechanisms:

1. Thrombosis — that is, clot formation in an artery of the brain.
 2. Embolism — Bloccing of a brain blood vessel by a clot floating in the blood stream and originating from another part of the body.
 3. Spasm — A tightening or closing down of the walls of an artery in the brain.
 4. Hemorrhage due to rupture of a brain blood vessel.
 5. Compression on a brain blood vessel due to a tumor, swollen brain tissue, or a large clot inside a blood vessel that presses against a nearby vessel.
- Declaring that people affected by "little" strokes almost invari-ably recover from that particular stroke, they added that even in the case of "big" strokes, the out-look "is not necessarily as dis-astrous as it may first appear." They said a "big" stroke is the type in which there may be par-tial or complete paralysis of one

Small Mystery In Calling 'Daddy'

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (AP)—Who was the two-year-old boy and why did he shout "Daddy" every time he was taken to a studio window? The double mystery confronted radio station WCRA yesterday. The station broadcast a descrip-tion of the tot, who was crying and without a coat or hat when found wandering near the studio. Claudine Rush, the station's bookkeeper, noticed in trying to calm the boy that he cried except when she took him to the window. Mrs. Ransom Wiedner, recog-nizing the broadcast description of her son, soon arrived at the station. Then she cleared up the rest of the mystery by going to the win-dow. Her husband was installing a transformer on a utility pole across the street.

Wetzel Return Is Now Up To State Officials

RALEIGH (AP) — The task of bringing Frank Edward Wetzel, 36, back to North Carolina to face charges of killing two North Caro-lina highway patrolmen apparent-ly was up to state officials today. Wetzel, held in California until yesterday by federal authorities, has been turned over to California officers to await extradition papers from North Carolina. The change in plans for return-ing Wetzel to North Carolina brought about an indefinite post-ponement of a removal hearing scheduled in Los Angeles yester-day.

Wetzel, who escaped from a mental institution in New York, is in the Los Angeles County jail. If California grants the extradition Wetzel will be turned over to North Carolina officers, but only after this state supplies the neces-sary papers and goes through the normal routine. Wetzel was held on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecu-tion for murder, transporting a stolen car over a state boundary, and violation of the federal fire-arms act. His bail was set at $150,000.

Federal authorities at Los An-geles today found 13-year-old John Willis of New Bern safe and reportedly in generally good con-dition after disappearing over-night on an outboard motorboat trip on the Neuse River. Raymond Watson, the warden, was taking part in the search, be-gun last night. The boy, who had last been seen in a 14-foot boat headed from here in the direction of Cherry Point, reportedly had pulled the boat ashore after get-ting lost in the fog. A Navy helicopter from Nor-folk, Va., ground parties and a small fleet of boats had joined the hunt. Coast Guard personnel super-vised about 12 boats which search the river last night, hampered by a fog which cut vis-ibility to almost nothing and near-freezing temperatures. Land bordering the tide-influ-ence river in this area generally is marshy.

Consider Lower Liability Rates

RALEIGH (AP) — Proposals for lower liability insurance rates on motorcycles and motor scooters are being considered by State In-surance Commissioner Charles F. Gold. Arguments that rates identical with those for automobiles are un-fair to owners of cycles and scoot-ers were voiced yesterday at a public hearing before the com-missioner. A financial responsibility law passed by the last Legislature, usu-ally referred to as a compulsory liability insurance law, affects all motor-driven vehicles. The law becomes effective Jan. 1. Ray W. Nabors of Fayetteville, president of the Dixie Motorcycle Dealers Assn., said at the public hearing that lower rates should be justified on the safety record of motorcycles and scooters. Motor-cycle riders, he added, are "de-fensive drivers" who know "they can't bluff an automobile." Two rate classifications for cy-cles and scooters were proposed by J. J. Mallon, secretary-treas-urer of Mid-West Mutual Insur-ance Co. of Iowa. He said vehi-cles of up to six horse-power and weighing 200 or 250 pounds should be placed in one classi-fication, with those of heavier weight and higher horse-power in another classification. The Province of Veraguas in Panama belongs in perpetuity to Christopher Columbus and his heirs.

Prof. Price Plays Jekyll-Hyde Role

Many of the students at Eastern Carolina College would possibly fail to recognize professor C. L. Price (above) the third weekend of any month should they meet him during the day.

Seven Pups, And All Are Male

RIVERTON, Utah (AP)—A purebred collie named Sandy has given birth to a litter which dog lovers claim is as rare as quintuplets in human births: Seven puppies—all males.

Normally, say the experts, dog litters run predominantly to females. Sandy, age 2, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Stokes, Riverton.

Nov. 6 was the birth date. All are still alive and healthy.

The reason is this. On that weekend each month professor Price becomes somewhat of a Dr. Jekyll and Hyde character. His wearing apparel is completely foreign to that of the college campus. His activities far removed from the calm of the classroom . . . for on that weekend each month professor Price becomes Marine jet pilot Price, Major, United States Marine Corps Air Reserve.

As a member of Marine Reserve Fighter Squadron 233, Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va., Major Price takes part in two days per month training that requires hours of simulated combat missions in jet aircraft.

Missions of this type are not new to Major Price. He received his wings as a Marine pilot in October, 1943 and during World War II served in the South Pacific.

As a member of the Marine Air Reserve, he was also called to active duty during the Korean emergency. His log book at the present time shows over 2200 hours of flight time.

Price teaches Economics and History at Eastern Carolina College and resides with his wife and two children at 119 N. Woodlawn Ave., in Greenville.

Constitutional Question Is Re-Raised, Still No Answer

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—What happens if President Eisenhower should become too disabled to carry out his duties? Would Vice President Nixon become acting president or president? If so, how? There's no agreed-on answer.

The Constitution itself is foggy on this point. But it's the third time the question has arisen in a little over two years: After Eisenhower's heart attack; after his ileitis operation; and now again after his mild stroke. He himself asked Congress to clear up the fog. But it didn't.

If a president dies, the vice president becomes president. Seven vice presidents have become president that way. If a president is removed from office by Congress, the Constitution says the vice president succeeds him. That hasn't happened yet. But this is where the Constitution is vague: It says in case of the "inability of a president to discharge the powers and duties of his office, they shall devolve on the vice president."

But that raises these questions: 1. What is the position of a vice president who acts as president? Does he thus become president, ousting the man who was elected to the job? What if the elected president recovers?

2. Just what is inability to discharge the duties of the presidency? Is there a time limit on how long a disabled president can remain in office before being succeeded by the vice president?

3. Who decides when the President is too disabled to do his job? And who decides when the disability ends and he can resume his office? The President? He couldn't if he were unconscious. The vice president? That might put him in the position of a usurper. From what Eisenhower has said in public—in 1956 after his heart attack and again the same year after his operation—it might be concluded he would resign if he felt physically unfit for the job. But that's not positive.

He said: "There is going to be no neglect of the duties of the President of the United States; and when I feel I can't carry them on, I won't be there. . . . If at any time I have any reason to believe that I am not fit, as I believe myself to be now, I will come before the American public and tell them. . . ."

It might be Eisenhower's intention to quit if he felt unfit. But suppose he was only temporarily unfit, although the unfitness lasted for months in which the whole direction of the government suffered. Suppose he felt sure he would recover and therefore did not step aside for the vice president?

What happens to the presidency and its duties then? There were two presidents — Garfield and Wilson — who remained in office during periods they were physically unfit for it. In neither case did the people around those presidents let the vice presidents take over.

Garfield, shot by an assassin in 1881, lingered 80 days; Wilson, who collapsed in 1919, remained in office until the end of his term in 1921, although he had been paralyzed on one side.

Those around Garfield and Wilson feared that if their vice presidents took over the presidential duties they would by doing so out the presidents.

Through his former attorney general, Herbert Brownell, Eisenhower earlier this year asked Congress to propose an amendment to the Constitution making clear once and for all how a vice president should take over presidential duties in cases of disability. As it did before, Congress talked about it and did nothing.

Rock Hudson Tapped As New Movieland 'King'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Is Rock Hudson the new king of Hollywood?

He has been nominated to inherit the mantle of the great Clark Gable, and the suggestion makes some sense. He is the first newcomer in many, many years to approach Gable in stature and virility. He is probably the most sought-after leading man in films today.

The measure of his strength is illustrated in the fact that he has been chosen by the powerful Theater Owners of America as the "Star of the Year." He was given the award at the TOA's convention in Miami last Saturday.

Rock is obviously solid at the box office. His last few pictures have been winners in the money department, though some have been less than sterling entries.

What does Rock think of this "king" business? "I think it's nonsense," he replied. "I don't know how it got started, but I'd like to put a stop to it. Me king? Not on your life. Court jester, maybe."

If the kingly title sticks, Rock will be a monarch without rule. For he is the subject of Universal-International for the next five years.

This was a surprise to me, because I thought he would be coming to the end of his deal with the studio, where he started as an unknown a decade ago.

"It would have been over," he explained, "except for one thing: 'I wanted to do 'Giant.' It was too good an opportunity to pass up. But the only way the studio would let me do it was to sign up for another contract. So I did."

"Giant" paid off for him in king-size proportions. It brought Rock his first Academy nomination and impressed producers and public alike.

He is now paying off in servitude. At a hefty salary ($2,000 a week?), it's not bad duty. But he has been working steadily for 18 months, either with loanouts or pictures at U-I, where he's now making "Twilight of the Gods."

What's more, the loanouts provide only his usual salary. The studio collects the difference, and Rock figures he makes only a tenth of what is charged for his services.

Doesn't that gripe him? "You bet it does," he replied. "But I'm not going to get ulcers worrying about it."

He has already set up his own production company, but he can't legally work for it for another five years. He is hoping the studio will revise his contract to allow him more freedom, and talks have been going on toward that end.

Uphold Drunken Driving Verdict

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—The State Supreme Court yesterday upheld the drunken driving conviction of salesman Oren Ellis Thomas of Boise who contended he was not drunk but influenced by pills taken to relieve a lumbago.

He said he had consumed three bottles of beer and then taken the pain-killing pills.

The Supreme Court said "it is not necessary that any particular degree or state of intoxication be shown," and that "whether the driver is influenced or affected by intoxicating liquor solely or by a combination of liquor and other substances is immaterial."

Sheriff Will Act On Publications

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Cumberland County Sheriff L. L. Guy says he will ask newstand dealers to remove about 40 publications from their shelves, wait a week for compliance, then take legal steps.

The publications were labeled "unacceptable" by a 36-member committee of citizens, the sheriff said. He said 15 other publications were labeled for adults only and he has asked dealers to separate them from other periodicals.

Talks Slated On Highway Link

RALEIGH (AP)—Selection of the spot where a proposed new interstate highway link would leave Virginia and enter North Carolina will be discussed next week by highway engineers of the two states.

W. F. Babcock, North Carolina highways director, announced yesterday that the group will meet at the Virginia-North Carolina line near Mt. Airy for a tour of the area. Chief Engineer W. H. Rogers Jr. will be the Tar Heel representative at the meeting tentatively set for next Wednesday.

Babcock said he hoped a result of the conference will be an early recommendation on the border crossing for the new super highway. However, he pointed out that will not tie down the rest of the route.

Public hearings on the routing will be held before the State Highway Commission in Winston-Salem next January.

The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads has proposed the new link to run from Canton, Ohio, to Charlotte. The bureau has asked North Carolina to take steps to prepare a recommendation for a routing of the link from the Virginia line to Charlotte.

Publication Critical Of Wake Forest Students

THOMASVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A Baptist publication has criticized the reaction of Wake Forest students to a dancing ban.

The publication continued: "If we (Baptists) are against dancing at Wake Forest and Meredith, to be consistent we must be against it in the public schools and community recreation centers."

"You can imagine the impressions of life at a Baptist College campus young foreign students at Wake Forest will carry back to their homelands after last week's demonstration."

The students bunny-hopped in long lines, chanted anti-Baptist slogans and walked out en masse from chapel to protest the Baptist Convention's decision to bar any on-campus dancing.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has announced the death of a North Carolina airman yesterday of stab wounds received Monday night at Andrews Air Force Base near here.

Eisenhower Illness Is Casting A Shadow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Americans prepared today to give thanks for still another year's harvest of freedom and abundance, but the shadow of President Eisenhower's illness darkened somewhat the usual joyful spirit of the time.

Prayers for the President's swift and complete recovery will be said tomorrow in many morning religious services which have been an integral part of Thanksgiving ever since the Pilgrims first celebrated it.

MOROCCAN KING AT WHITE HOUSE:—King Mohammed V of Morocco talks with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in front of the fireplace in President Eisenhower's office at the White House before the start of their state talks. President Eisenhower's illness prevented him from joining the conference in the White House cabinet room. (AP Wire photo).

TENNESSEE DOG LIKES CIGARS:—This cigar-loving Pekingese dog named Sandy, aged 2, is owned by Dickie Lunsford, 11, of Springfield, Tenn. Sandy does not smoke the cigars. With complete originality, he eats them. His young mistress said he doesn't get sick "unless he eats too many." (AP Wirephoto).

Window of replica of early Pilgrim house frames three ladies of Plymouth.

Two Plymouth ladies, Dorothy Phinney and Isabelle Saunders check vegetables in front of replicas of early homes in Plymouth Colony. First house, like one in front, had thatched roof. Later homes, like one in back, used shingles and clapboards.

When Thanksgiving Day comes around, the thoughts of many Americans turn to Plymouth, Mass., where the Pilgrims landed in 1620. A visitor to the town can see scenes straight out of Pilgrim times. Near the beach of Plymouth bay, sheltered under a granite canopy, is the famous Rock, on which the Pilgrims may actually have landed. A short distance away are reproductions of the settlement's first houses, the old fort and meeting house. To add a realistic touch, townspeople, wearing Pilgrim dress, stroll in and out of the buildings on special occasions. Plymouth now has an ambitious project under way. Just outside the town, ground has been broken on a 100-acre tract where a pilgrim village of 1627 will be erected, the year of the first Pilgrim census. The project, a non-profit one called "Plimoth Plantation," is expected to take nearly a year to complete and will have the Mayflower II on exhibition in addition to 19 Pilgrim houses, a fort-meeting house, a grist mill, trading post, Indian village and museum. Here, the Plymouth of old is re-lived in the Plymouth of today.

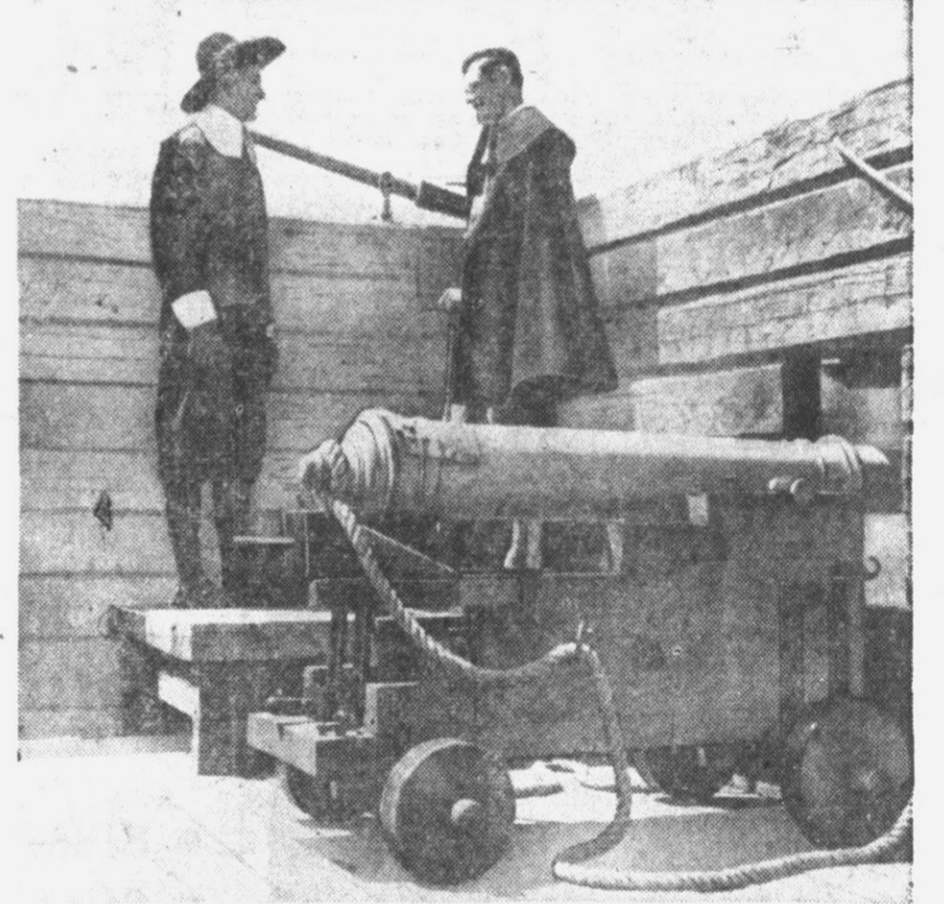

Plymouth Relives Its First Days

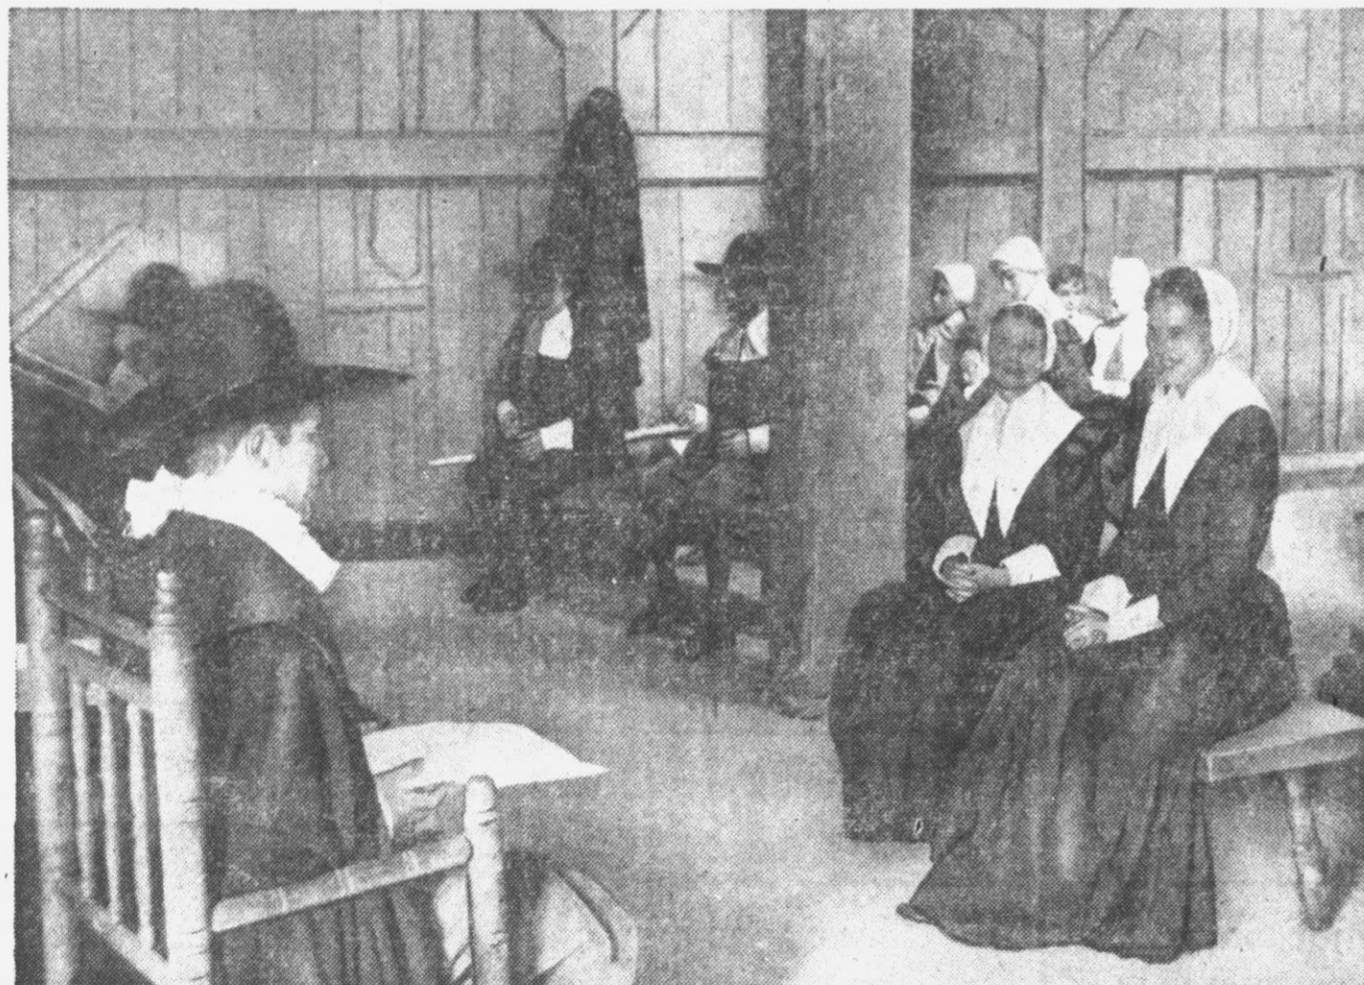

Plymouth Rock, onto which the Pilgrims are said to have stepped from the shallop of the Mayflower, is visited by Nancy Deshazo.

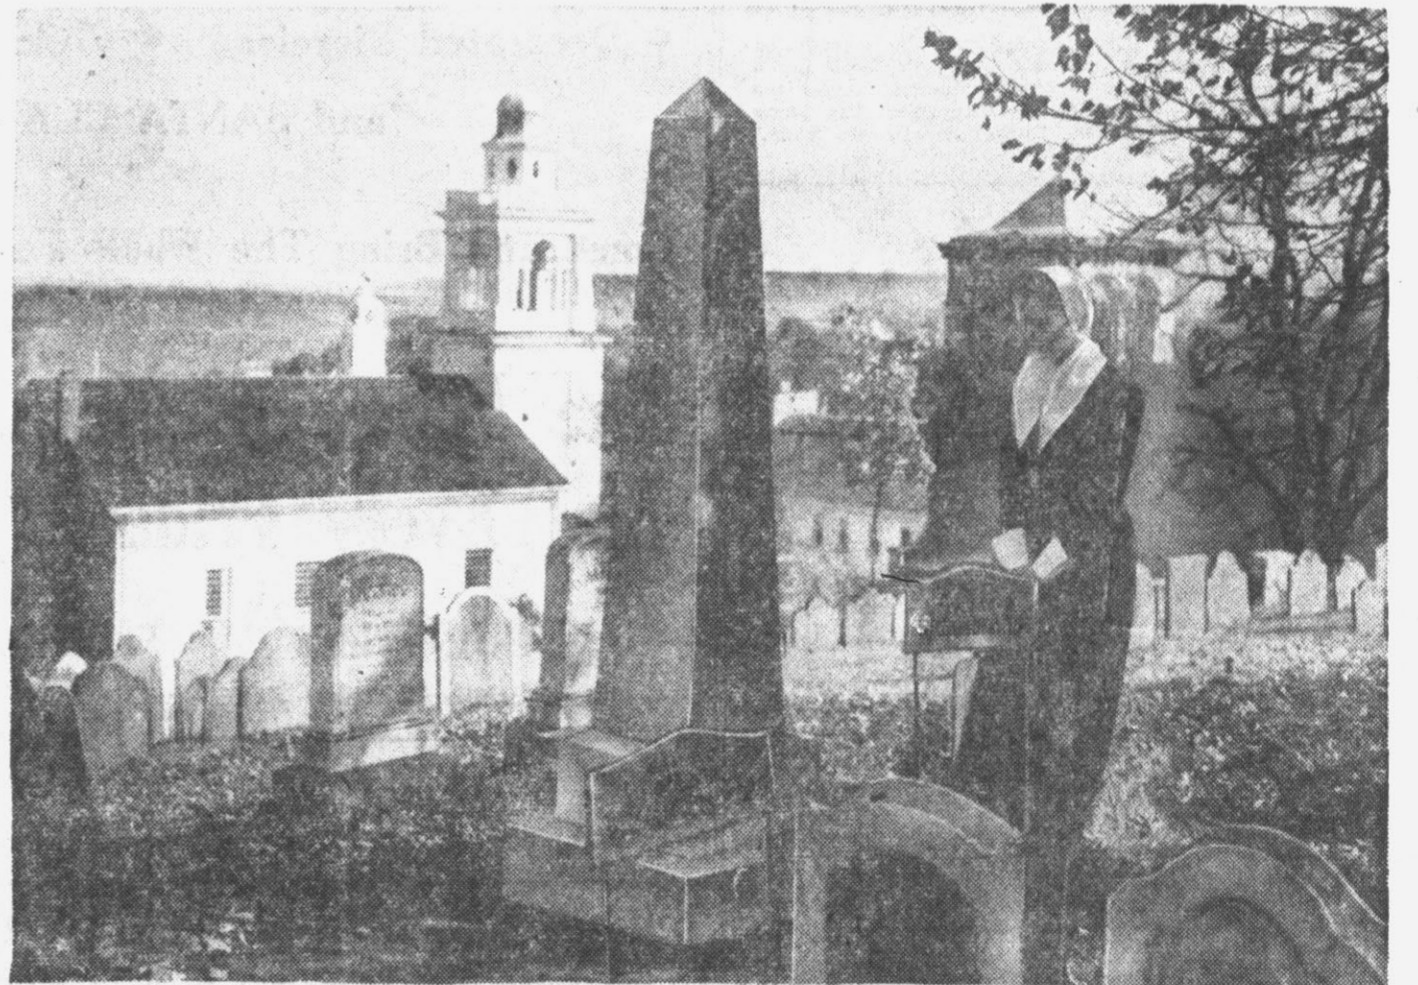

Gladys Graffam looks at Bible brought over on Mayflower. It is one of first complete English translations from Greek and Hebrew.

Like the Pilgrims of old, two Plymouth boys, Larry Estes and Richard Bean, keep lookout at fort atop old meeting house.

Gladys Graffam and Nancy Deshazo, at right, help mannequins portray prayer.

High on hill overlooking Plymouth Bay, Nancy Deshazo stands in old burial ground.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market recovered strongly today on reassuring news about President Eisenhower's condition. Leading issues were ahead from 1 to 7 points with oils and aircrafts especially strong. Most major divisions of the market swept ahead in gains estimated to have recovered about 3 billion dollars of the 4 1/2 billion loss in quoted values yesterday, based on the Associated Press average.

Buyers were eager to go from the start and the ticker tape fell behind transactions for eight minutes in early trading as a succession of huge blocks changed hands. The big gains in the oils and aircrafts were due to the fact that they have been sold down sharply, missile-spending is much in the news and Mid-East conditions are reported better, analysts said.

Westinghouse Electric was up 4 1/2 at 63 on 25,000 shares; North American Aviation, up 1 1/2 at 28 on 20,000; Douglas Aircraft up 6 1/4 at 73 1/2 on 15,000; Gulf Oil up 4 1/2 at 115 on 15,000; Cities Service up 4 1/2 at 54 on 12,000; and Sperry Rand off 1/4 at 18 on 10,000. Gulf Oil was up around 8 points at one time, then cut the gain to 7.

Amerada added about 6 points. Texas Co. 3 and Royal Dutch 2. Douglas Aircraft rose more than 5, Boeing and General Dynamics around 3 and Martin Co. well over 2.

Leading steels and motors made more moderate gains ranging from fractions to a point or so but Lukens Steel, the specialty producer, soared around 5. Among the rails there were good gains of a point or more for several issues including Northern Pacific, Illinois Central, Chesapeake & Ohio and Baltimore & Ohio. National Lead, International Paper, Kennecott and DuPont were ahead about 3 points each. Utilities were generally firm to slightly higher.

Most Places Will Observe Holiday

Most of Pitt County's business houses and offices will be closed tomorrow, but apparently the only people who'll have an idle Friday are school students. Greenville city schools and Pitt County schools plan to close at regular times this afternoon for a two-day holiday period. They will resume operations Monday morning.

East Carolina College students finished their Fall Quarter examinations today and will be off until Monday morning when they will return to the campus for Winter Quarter registrations. Classes at the college will not be resumed until Tuesday, but most members of the college staff will be back on their jobs Friday morning. All county, state and federal offices will close at the end of the business day today for tomorrow's holiday. Most of them will reopen at regular hours Friday morning.

The State Highway Patrol office will be closed tomorrow, but patrolmen assigned to the county won't get much of a holiday. Present plans are to have all of the patrolmen on duty or on call tomorrow. They will return to their regular schedules Friday morning.

A helping hand, extended by fifth grade students of Elmhurst School, has guaranteed a more complete celebration of Thanksgiving for at least one Greenville family.

The students, members of Mrs. Margaret Rawls Stancil's class, delivered several boxes of clothing and food to the family yesterday. The delivery was the climax of a class project designed to assist at least one needy family in the school area.

David Hardee, Charles Gaskins and Myra Hodges served as members of the class committee to locate the family. After their findings were announced, Wayne Evans, Anne Barbe and Dees Williams were named to a committee to plan food contributions that would insure a balanced Thanksgiving dinner for the family of five. The committee also handled collection of clothing for members of the family.

All members of the class participated in collection of items which were presented to the family.

No traffic violation was cited in a traffic accident involving a parked truck on E. 10th St. yesterday morning.

Investigating officers identified the driver of the automobile involved as Thomas Louis Terry 38-year-old Negro of 203 Nash St. The truck belong to Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Damage to the two vehicles was estimated to be $27.96. There were no personal injuries. The accident took place at 1:05.

The Santo Tomas hospital in Panama is supported by a national lottery.

They were arrested by Deputy Duke Andrews.

They are charged with larceny of beans from the farm of Judson Whitehurst of Stokes Rt. 1.

Four bags of beans were reported missing from the farm. The two will be tried in county court next Tuesday.

They were arrested by Deputy Duke Andrews.

They are charged with larceny of a cigarette machine on the campus of East Carolina College.

Fred Blanchard Chestnut, 21, of 702 W. Fifth St. was arrested Monday night, ECC Police Chief John Harrell signed a warrant charging him in connection with the theft.

Harrell stated the robbery took place on Aug. 24 between Summer School and the fall term. The cigarette machine was broken into in the Post Office lobby.

Approximately $60 in cigarettes were taken, he said. No cash was missing.

Heber Anderson 51-year-old Negro of 521 Davis St. was arrested last night by City Police on a lottery charge.

Low Bids For School Work Total $401,721

Low bids totalling $401,721 for brick and block, with steel roof construction work at three county school units were opened yesterday by the Pitt County Board of Education.

No contracts were awarded by the board which will review the bids Monday at its regular December meeting. Contracts are expected to be approved then.

Projects included in the bidding are a gymnasium for the Grifton School; a gymnasium, eight classrooms and two toilets at South Ayden School; and a gymnasium, ten classroom, two toilets and an office at Robinson Union School in Winterville.

A combination bid for the three projects resulted in a low bid of $324,162 from Grifton Builders for the general construction contract. King Electric Company of Greenville had the low bid, $13,600, for the electrical contract; Cauley-Pitt Company of Kinston entered a low bid of $19,212 for the plumbing contract; and Kinston Plumbing and Heating Company had a low bid of $44,747 for the heating contract.

All of the low bids are combination bids, involving each of the three projects. Single bids on the projects were not considered by the board in its initial meeting because of the difference in them and the combination bids.

All of the construction will be completed by Thanksgiving Day.

An official announced this morning that the shoot, sponsored for the purpose of raising money for Christmas charities, will be staged from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. in the field across from Jenkins Motor Co. on N. C. 11 South.

A three and one-half-year-old boy narrowly escaped injury late yesterday afternoon, when brushed by an automobile at Five Points.

Police identified the youngster as Jimmy Kostopolous, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelos Kostopolous of 1107 W. Fourth St. Following the near-accident he was examined at Pitt Memorial Hospital and released.

No traffic violation was cited against the driver of the vehicle involved, James Leon Wilson of Winterville Rt. 1. The youngster was crossing the street with his grandfather at the time of the mishap.

A special Thanksgiving Day Service will be held by the Greenville Christian Science Society tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The service, scheduled to be held in the Society's Church building at E. Fourth and Meade Sts., will be open to the public.

Thanksgiving Services Slated By Association

Union Thanksgiving services sponsored by the Greenville Ministerial Association will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 at the Immanuel Baptist Church.

Dr. H. Glenn Haney, pastor of Eighth St. Christian Church, will officiate.

Offering which will be taken at the services will go to the UNICEF fund for children throughout the world.

Also tomorrow the Ministerial Association will sponsor a film entitled "God's Word in Man's Language" on Television Station WNCT at 5:30 p.m.

The film is being shown in conjunction with the American Bible Society daily bible reading program from Thanksgiving to Christmas.
