

Safety Council Hears Law Discussed

Rep. Jones Is Speaker At Meeting

By EVERETTE PARKER Reflector Staff Writer Representative Walter Jones of Farmville, "Father of the Compulsory Liability Insurance Law" believes his law will help the innocent and cure the violator.

Jones spoke to the Pitt County Safety Council yesterday afternoon. He explained some of the finer points of the law and why he became interested in Highway Safety and the protection of the innocent.

"After serving in a Court at Recorders level for five years," he related, "I saw a dire need of legislation for the protection of the innocent driver."

"I have seen hundreds of cases where the driver at fault was not covered by insurance, causing extreme hardship to the other parties involved."

The speaker said he, along with other interested law makers, spend many hours on the prospective liability law in an effort to make it acceptable to the North Carolina motorist. Finally after 121 days in the General Assembly, he noted, the bill became law on the final day of the session.

According to Jones the main segments of the law are: 1. Beginning Jan. 1, 1958, no one can buy a license for a car or truck in North Carolina without automobile liability insurance, unless $11,000 cash or $15,000 bond has been deposited with the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Atlas Launching Termed Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force launched its fourth Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile at 10:48 a.m. today.

The giant missile took off in a puff of white smoke and a tremendous flash of flame. It rose slowly through hazy clouds. Its bright trail of fire was visible for almost three minutes.

The thunder of its mighty engines—a primary motor and two boosters—could be heard even after the missile itself vanished in high clouds.

Shortly before disappearing into the overcast, the missile arched over gradually to the southeast, over the test range which extends 5,000 miles out across the Atlantic.

The Atlas is the American answer to the Soviet claim of intercontinental ballistic capability. This was the second apparently successful firing of "the Beast," as the Atlas is known to its builders.

On the first two tries, the big missile started to get out of control shortly after launching and had to be destroyed.

The third launching last Dec. 17 was successful over a 600-mile range. The Air Force said the missile landed in a preselected target area.

Today's test was believed scheduled for about the same distance. No attempt to fire the Atlas over its full 5,000-mile range is expected until late this year. It is designed to carry a hydrogen warhead that distance in 25 minutes.

The 70-foot, silvery Atlas was rolled away from its working tower shortly after 8 a.m. For a while, a weak sun poking through the clouds sent rays glancing off the nose cone of the 100-ton weapon. Then a haze enveloped the base and the Atlas was just barely visible to watchers from the beaches.

About 10 a.m. the red ball, which signifies an imminent shoot, was lowered and it appeared that a "hold" had been called in the countdown toward the zero hour, originally set for 10 o'clock.

Forty eight minutes later beach watchers were caught by surprise when the Atlas blasted off with the red ball down.

In Washington, the Pentagon reported the test came off "successfully."

The text of the announcement by the Defense Department: "The intercontinental ballistic missile, the Atlas, was test-fired today at the missile test center, Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Department of Defense announced. The launching was successfully carried out at 10:45 a.m."

"The test of the Atlas, under development by the Air Force and Convair, is one of a series of intermediate-range and intercontinental ballistic missile flight tests conducted at the Canaveral range."

School Board's Action Is Upheld

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Supreme Court today upheld the action of the Greensboro City Board of Education last fall in assigning six Negro children to previously all-white schools at Greensboro.

The Greensboro board's action had been challenged by several white parents.

The Supreme Court affirmed the action of Superior Court Judge L. Richardson Preyer, who dismissed the appeal of the white parents.

In an opinion written by Associate Justice William B. Rodman Jr., the Supreme Court said Judge Preyer was correct in dismissing the action.

The six Negro children have been attending the schools to which the board assigned them since school opened last September.

Justice Rodman wrote "If a parent is dissatisfied with the operation of the school because of the assignment of another pupil to that school, his remedy is to request reassignment of his child, not to appeal the assignment of the other pupil."

Rodman added that to give the assignment law the interpretation claimed by the white parents "would be contrary to the declared intent of the (Pearsall) committee which recommended its passage and would raise grave question as to its constitutionality."

Democrats Urge Blueprints For Action On Eisenhower Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats today called for a blueprint for action on the Eisenhower program before Congress yesterday.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas set the show-me tone of reaction to the proposals Eisenhower outlined in his State of the Union message. Eisenhower said they are needed to meet the growing space era threat of what he repeatedly called "Communist imperialism."

"The President has in general terms set forth some worthy objectives," Johnson said in an interview. "He has called for strengthening of our allies, greater understanding and commerce between nations and attempts to bring peace to the world. These have long been Democratic objectives."

"Now we are waiting for his blueprints for meeting those objectives. As soon as he lays them down, our committees will promptly consider his recommendations."

Although Johnson and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) both praised Eisenhower's speech, there was mounting evidence of Democratic disappointment that Eisenhower did not make any spectacular proposals for an immediate buildup in American military might.

An analysis of the President's proposals circulated among Democratic senators said that basically the message was "long on proposals and short on performance."

"Even the program to step up national security boils down to putting a little more money into existing projects and promising vaguely to reorganize the defense structure," the analysis said.

Republicans were practically unanimous in their praise of Eisenhower's personally delivered message. Some Democrats lauded it but many of them were critical.

Eisenhower was interrupted 41 times by applause during the 44 minutes he addressed a joint session of Congress in the House chamber. Republicans provided most of the applause, but Democrats often joined in and occasionally led the outbursts.

The show of enthusiasm, like the world situation, differed sharply from that at the start of 1957. Only five rounds of applause interrupted the entire 1957 address to Congress.

The White House described Eisenhower as "very pleased" with the reception he received.

Rayburn said he was "glad to know the President is alive to what the American people are disturbed about and this is the bickering and dissension among the services in the Pentagon."

"I hope he gives Secretary McElroy the authority to get the job done regardless of who stays or who has to go," Rayburn said.

A high administration official said Eisenhower had in mind a move to bolster the secretary of defense with additional authority over military spending.

This official said the President was personally directing the Defense Department reorganization plans and might recommend creation of a staff of military advisers, separate from the Joint Chiefs, to help McElroy resolve disputes among the services.

Sen. Bush (R-Conn), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, called in a statement for creation of a unified command as "the only way to end rivalry and wasteful competition among the armed services."

He said he does not believe unified war plans can be drawn up under the present system, in which the Joint Chiefs represent their individual services and the chairman is powerless to resolve their differences.

Leading off his eight points with his reference to defense reorganization, Eisenhower called for a speedup in production of missiles, nuclear submarines and other modern weapons. Congress seemed disposed to give him all the funds he might ask in this field, and possibly more.

There was evident opposition, however, to the President's call for continuation of foreign aid at a high level and continuation of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act for five years.

Many Democrats indicated they want to go further than Eisenhower's proposal for a billion-dollar, four-year program to promote education and research.

There was general applause for Eisenhower's statement that he expects the budget to be balanced despite increased expenditures. But there was evidence of stiff opposition among Democrats to any move to cut conservation and welfare funds to counter the defense increase.

Eisenhower made no reference to specific programs in saying some less essential activities must be curtailed or eliminated.

Eisenhower's call for efforts to bring about disarmament and peace was generally applauded, although except for a cooperative "science for peace" effort he proposed little that was new.

In London, editorial comment on the speech was lukewarm and headlines went instead to Russia's new proposal for a summit conference of East-West leaders.

The Conservative London Daily Telegraph noted approvingly "the spirit of vigor and determination which pervaded the whole document," but the Independent Times and the Liberal News Chronicle said the speech contained nothing new.

Tass reported in Moscow that Eisenhower spoke of preserving strength and working for true peace, but said most of the speech was "taken up by military problems."

In this country, Republicans said the President had demonstrated he has the "sense of urgency" about the present crisis that Democrats have been demanding.

Some Democrats like Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) agreed on that score. But, like Kennedy, many of them said the real test will come in the specific recommendations Eisenhower lays before Congress in subsequent messages.

City Backs Phone Rate Fight, Puts $905 Into Fund

City fathers backed up their opposition to telephone rate increases with cash last night.

They appropriated $905.40 from the contingency administrative fund as the city's proportionate share in the Telephone Rate Increase fight. The sum represents 20 cents per phone for the 4,527 phones in Greenville.

The appropriation was approved upon recommendation of City Manager Leonard Bloxam who is a member of the executive committee of the organization set up to fight Carolina Telephone and Telegraph's plan to raise rates.

Actually the company has already begun billing customers at the requested increase rate. The rate increase must be approved by the State Utilities Commission, however. If it is turned down, the company will be required to refund the portion disapproved by the commission.

All towns and counties in the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph area are being asked to appropriate 20 cents per telephone in their respective areas to fight the increase.

"The money will be used to employ legal counsel and expert witnesses to present a proper case to the Utilities Commission of the State of North Carolina in defending our position in this matter," Bloxam told councilmen last night.

Bloxam said that the county and all the towns in Pitt County have appropriated their proportionate share of the rate increase fight money with the exception of Grifton and Grimesland.

Grifton has informed Robert I. Powell of Clinton, chairman of the Rate Fight Increase Committee, that the mayor and commission had agreed the town could not go along with the East Carolina Phone Fight "at this time."

No answer has been received from Grimesland as yet, Bloxam said.

The Grimesland Board of Aldermen is scheduled to meet next Tuesday night.

Claims German Students Study

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—High school student John H. Gunnell, just back from three months in Germany, says "German students work much harder than ours do."

"They have to," says the 17-year-old. "If they lag behind, they get kicked out of school."

Drastic Overhaul Said Necessary

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nelson A. Rockefeller told investigating senators today a drastic overhaul of defense machinery and goals must be taken now to assure survival.

He said this was the unanimous opinion of some 50 national leaders who participated in a study of the present defense mechanisms and long-range policies.

Rockefeller testified before the Senate Preparedness subcommittee which has been probing U.S. missile, satellite and weapons programs. The inquiry was touched off by the success of Soviet Sputniks and indications the Russians are ahead of this country in rocketry.

Rockefeller said this nation, as a leader of the free world, faces critical decisions in the next 10 to 15 years in the field of international security.

He said the study panel set up by a family foundation he heads will have later reports on political, economic and human aspects of these problems.

Soviet Renews Call For East-West Summit Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's latest and most insistent demand for an East-West summit conference on crucial cold war issues got intensive study—and a cold reaction—today in official Washington.

In a message to President Eisenhower, Premier Bulganin said he proposes to call an East-West summit meeting, perhaps in Geneva, in the next two or three months. Moscow radio said similar letters went to 18 other countries, members of the NATO and Warsaw pacts.

In a message to President Eisenhower, Bulganin said he proposes to call an East-West summit meeting, perhaps in Geneva, in the next two or three months. Pravda said Bulganin messages went to the 15 NATO nations and the other countries of the 82-member United Nations. Moscow radio said Switzerland and other nations not in the U. N. also received messages.

It is a message that any such conference must be preceded by careful diplomatic exploration and evidence that the Soviet government is prepared to make concessions in its position on such issues as disarmament and German reunification.

Officials here were aware, however, that Bulganin's new diplomatic broadside may generate new hope in Europe for reducing the dangers of a devastating nuclear war.

Secretary of State Dulles was reported to have expressed some optimism on the prospect of resuming disarmament negotiations below the summit level. Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) said Dulles, in talking with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "expressed some hope about the future."

"He said he had reasons to believe Russia might be more amenable to discussion of disarmament later—that something may develop that would improve the climate for negotiation," Fulbright added, but said Dulles did not discuss his reasons.

Fulbright and several other members agreed, in commenting on the Russian note, that a summit conference is not indicated now, but they said there is a need for preliminary "feeler" negotiations.

Russia already has rejected a NATO suggestion for a foreign ministers' meeting as a means of breaking the disarmament deadlock.

According to Moscow radio, which broadcast a summary, Bulganin's newest note also opposed foreign ministers' meeting, saying that "certain possible participants in a meeting at this level" would bring prejudices which might wreck the negotiations.

An announcement by Moscow radio showed there was a new and far more insistent note in Bulganin's bid for a summit meeting. This time, the Moscow wording was: "The Soviet government proposes to call in the course of the next two or three months of 1958 a conference of leading statesmen on a high level in which the heads of government will participate."

This stands as a declaration of intention to act with or without the agreement of any particular country such as the United States.

Coroner Investigates; No Inquest Into Man's Death

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse ruled today that J. L. White died of a fractured skull.

The ruling followed an autopsy, performed at Pitt Memorial Hospital by Dr. T. S. Wedde. According to Rouse, White suffered an injury just behind his right ear, causing a blood clot on the brain.

White, picked up by City Police Wednesday night on a public drunkenness charge, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital early yesterday morning.

There was no evidence of foul play, the Coroner stated. He said that death was caused by an injury suffered when White struck his head on a cement walkway.

White, a former resident of Portsmouth and a native of Martin County, was reported found lying on the walkway of his Evans Street residence around 9 o'clock Wednesday night. Arresting officers said he was lying on his right side with his head resting on his right arm.

He was taken by patrol car to the police station where he was placed in jail on the drunk charge. Officers said he never regained full consciousness but did tell them his name.

While White was in jail, Police Chief S. G. Gibbs stated, the policeman on duty made five checks on his condition. Finally at 2:20 when he did not show signs of regaining consciousness, he was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the rescue ambulance for treatment. He died there at 4:40 a.m.

According to Gibbs a friend told investigating officers he took White home about 8 o'clock and that he had been drinking rather heavily. "I asked him if he could make it all right and he said he could so I left," he said.

"I have known him for several years and have seen him in that condition a number of times before," the friend told police.

A neighbor related she saw a man get out of a car and go up on the porch of the house and turn around as if to leave. She said he disappeared and she did not see him again until officers came up the walkway a short time later.

Several people told police they saw the 42-year-old man drinking earlier in the night. Officers found a bottle of whiskey in his pockets, about two-thirds full.

Coroner Rouse said White apparently struck his head on the cement walkway when he fell from the porch. "After a thorough investigation I am convinced the injury that resulted in his death was accidental," the Coroner added.

He said no inquest would be held.

State Asks Death Verdict For Wetzel In Patrolman's Killing

By BRYAN HANSLIP ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (AP)—Solicitor M. B. Boyette today asked a Richmond Superior Court jury to return a verdict of first degree murder without recommendation of mercy in the case of Frank Edward Wetzel, 36, charged with the gunshot slaying of a Highway Patrolman.

The solicitor in his hour and 45-minute argument to the jury called the Nov. 5 revolver slaying of Patrolman Wister Lee Reece "the most heartless, most cruel and merciless killing I think I have ever heard of. He didn't have a chance."

gas chamber for the resident of Seneca Falls, N.Y. Only the closing argument of court-appointed defense attorney John Thomas Page Jr., a former FBI agent, and the charge of white-haired Judge J. A. Rousseau remained before the four-day case went to the jury.

Boyette reviewed state evidence tracing Wetzel's movements on a series of alleged thefts on his way from Pennsylvania to North Carolina, and Wetzel's trail cross-country until his arrest in Bakersfield, Calif., more than two weeks after the slaying.

Boyette commented Terry as "eager to tell the truth," and said "other evidence bore out Terry's story."

in Chattanooga, Tenn., the night after the slaying of Reece and another North Carolina Highway Patrolman. Boyette said that there were two empty cartridges in the gun. A bullet from one of those cartridges "went completely through the body of Reece," the solicitor asserted. The bullet which killed Reece has not been found.

The solicitor said he expected the defense arguments to center on discrepancies in the testimony of Robert Terry Jr., 30, of Norman, N.C., a Negro who had hitched a ride with the alleged slayer.

Boyette commented Terry as "eager to tell the truth," and said "other evidence bore out Terry's story."

Garris, treasurer Mrs. Cora Powell, secretary and Mrs. Lois E. Fleming, assistant secretary.

This morning's meeting was the first for five new members elected to the Board during the recent election. Elected for a three year term were: B. D. Johnston of Belk-Tyler's E. E. Featherstone of Blount-Harvey's J. G. Proctor of Perkins-Proctor George Coffman of Coffman's Men's Wear and William Deavors of J. C. Penney Company.

The new directors were elected

(succeeding F. B. Johnson Jr., C. E. Blair, H. L. Hodges Jr., A. H. Campbell and C. White whose three-year terms expired this year. In accordance with the Association's by-laws no directors can be elected for more than one consecutive term of office.

J. H. Blount, State Director of the Merchants Association and representative of the local Board, lauded the work of retiring President J. L. Harris during the past year and commended work being carried on by the local association.

Experts Soften Gunnysack Blow By Directing Eye To Neck, Hem

By DOROTHY ROE

Such designers as Oleg Cassini, Jo Copeland, Jane Derby, Tina Leser, Suzy Perette and Andrew Arkin proved to the visiting press that even the sack dress can't keep a good designer down. They tackled the problem in various ways.

Cassini, who has declared open war on the gunnysack, clings to his oft-stated credo that "the only purpose of a dress is to heighten the sex appeal of the wearer," and vows solemnly: "Never will I tamper with that most perfect of natural wonders, the female figure."

Vocal Artist Excels With Lustrous Voice

By GEORGE E. FERRY
The New York Herald Tribune recently termed Frances Bible "Velvet-voiced." Far be it from me to dispute the critic on that paper, but I feel that "velvet-voiced" is an insufficient description of her lustrous voice.

There is much more there than just velvet—rather velvet enlaid with insets of burnished gold. The texture is velvet, right enough, but the coloring goes far beyond that. There is no glitter, but rather a lustrousness.

side Merriman, Miller, Farrell and Sister in that she presented here a concert notable for its artistry. Vocally, too, she is their equal, if not in some respects their peer; for she, in some magical fashion, has combined the characteristics of the contralto, the mezzo, the dramatic soprano, and the coloratura.

some serene and sustained, as Schubert's "Liliani," some buoyant and jubilant as his "Ungehd." But whatever the mood, whatever the message, it was captured and impeccably conveyed.

Margaret Rose Powell Attends National Methodist Conference

BETHEL—Miss Margaret Rose Powell, a student at East Carolina College, returned Friday from the sixth Quadrennial Conference of the National Methodist Student Movement in Lawrence, Kansas. The conference opened December 27 and closed January 1.

Dr. Harold Bosley, pastor of First Methodist Church at Evanston, Ill., and former Dean of Duke Divinity School, Duke University; Fred Pierce Carson, Bishop of the Philadelphia area of the Methodist Church; and Dr. George A. Butterfield, general editor of the Interpreter's Bible.

Her range of two-and-a-half octaves encompasses that of all four put together she has the depth of tone of the contralto, the warmth of the mezzo, the body (but not the heaviness) of the dramatic, and the flexibility (but not the customary and sometimes irritating thinness) of the coloratura.

There were no un-needed nor un-wanted flamboyances, nothing cheap nor tawdry, as some Carmen are prone to be, but rather a Carmen of a nicer kind but all the same bent on winning the heart of Don Jose.

Evening programs included the World Premiere Performance of "The Invisible Fire," and an oratorio, "Libretto" by Tom F. Driver, depicting the conversion of John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist segment of the Christian Church. It portrayed his escape from a burning house, the subsequent decision of his mother that he was ordained by God for a special task, and Wesley's own experience in which his heart was strangely warmed by the powerful presence of God.

North Carolina Methodism had a large delegation at the conference. Margaret Rose Powell, Gayle Clapp and Jane Carroll were representatives of the Wesley Foundation at East Carolina College. Miss Mamie Chandler, director of the Methodist Student Union, accompanied them.

She has a wonderful legato style, so legato in fact that one gets the impression that her tones are floating on the current of her superb breath-control. But this legato does not result in monotony; there is rhythm without accentuation, pulsation without beat. Her diction is flawless whether singing in English, German, French, Italian, or Spanish (and she sang in all four last evening), every syllable is completely understandable without being overly mouthed. She has a commanding stage-presence, regal yet warm and friendly. She holds the mood of a song to the very end, even to the delay of applause.

Small Audience
The small audience gave the singer generous and sincere applause, and I hope that Miss Bible felt that even if the crowd was small, there were those who wanted to hear a vocal artist. And I dare say that no one went away disappointed.

MARGARET ROSE POWELL

were participants; this included several overseas students studying in American schools.

I am sure that Richard Strauss smiled as she sang her Mozart arias in English. Her Strauss was of the firm conviction that certain of his operas, and all of Mozart's should be sung in the language of the people in order to be fully enjoyed and appreciated.

She may be criticised for programming so few well-known numbers. But it seemed refreshing to hear things other than the war-horses and if she had sung all the stand-bys, people would have wondered if she didn't know anything new. Her program was, I think, well chosen, well balanced, and of the highest caliber.

Pickwick Club Told Collection Southern Historical Manuscripts

Mrs. John L. Watters was hostess to the Pickwick Book Club Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. E. Trevathan Jr. in Sheraton Place.

to organize, list and describe the materials so that they are readily available for research. The holdings number more than 2,800,000 items.

"Our Lord, Our Church and Our Life" was the theme used. The theme was stressed by means of Bible study, worship, discussions, lectures, and informal group activities.

Mrs. A. C. Ruffin, president, welcomed members and opened the meeting by reading the Official Collect of the Garden Clubs of North Carolina. A brief business session followed.

Mrs. Watters said that the collection is valuable because it contains originals, pen and ink items in the form of diaries, letters, storebooks, maps, etc., which cover mainly the Civil War and Reconstruction era.

The conference was vitally concerned with the reference of the Christian faith to many of the world's problems, including the use of nuclear armaments and racial tensions.

Mrs. John A. Clark introduced Mrs. G. E. Staples who gave a talk on her hobby, "Dried Flowers."

In a charming manner, the speaker captivated her audience with true stories taken from life in by-gone days, touching on travel, politics, schools, food, clothing, houses, medicines and other related phases.

Among the highlights of the conference were platform lectures by Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature;

She related the three methods to be used: (1) Hang in dry, dark room; (2) sand and borax; (3) glycerine and water.

During the social period which followed, the hostess served a dessert course of iced angel loaf with glazed lemon strips, nuts and coffee.

During a short business session a report was made on the needy family which the club assisted at Christmas time and books were distributed.

"Harvesting materials at the proper time is very important. Generally, plants should be gathered at their prime, just as they reach their full color," she said.

The meeting was adjourned after the exchange of books.

The program was given by Mrs. V. C. Fleming Jr. who reviewed the book "Please Don't Eat the Daisies" by Jean Kerr.

Under the careful chaperonage and amidst hospitality of Mrs. R. A. Tyson "Sub Rosa," a charming debutante, made its initial bow among the elite, the first of a series of graceful ones which will do much to add to the social whirl of Greenville this year.

Others greeting guests in the living room were Mrs. George Staples, Mrs. M. L. Wright and Mrs. Norman Garrison.

On the buffet was an arrangement of pink gladioli and candles: Assisting the members and guests to chicken salad sandwiches, ham biscuits, assorted cookies and nuts were Mrs. P. E.

Council Plans Mission Study Institute, World Day Of Prayer

Plans were announced for an Interdenominational Mission Study Institute and a World Day of Prayer at the annual business meeting of the Greenville Council of Church Women held Thursday morning in the First Presbyterian Church with Mrs. Helen Sermon, president, presiding.

After welcoming those present, Mrs. Sermon presented Mrs. Raleigh Lee who gave an inspirational devotional, centering her remarks around the ever beautiful Twenty-third Psalm.

Mrs. Jake Hadley, who is the chairman of the committee for the Mission Study Institute, announced that the program would be under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Wilson.

The classes which will be held at St. James Methodist Church include the study of the book "In Every Place A Voice" by Dr. Walter G. Mueider which will be reviewed by members of five different churches; a film called "Assignment in Unity," and a panel discussion. The panel will discuss the topic "What Is the Duty of the Christian in Business, in Agriculture, in Politics, in the Professions, and in the Home?"

The Institute will be held on February 8. The hours for the morning session are from 10 a.m. to 12 noon followed by luncheon from noon until 1:00.

The afternoon session will be from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. Women who attend are requested to bring sandwiches. The women of St. James Church will serve coffee.

Plans were also made for World Day of Prayer which will be observed Friday, February 21, at 11 a.m. This year the service will be held under the direction of Mrs. J. P. Bowen, chairman of the Committee on Christian World Relations. Serving with Mrs. Bowen are Mrs. R. B. Lee and Mrs. W. P. Moore.

"The Bread of Life" has been chosen as the theme for the day, and the speaker for the occasion will be Dr. C. J. Bradner, Director of Religious Education at East Carolina College. The place of meeting will be announced at a later date.

Consequently, all local church women are requested to attend and actively participate in their annual business meeting and all services and special day observances sponsored by the United Church Women of the Council of Churches.

Woman's Club Hears Program By Perry

George Perry related facts about the specific composers—Liszt, Chopin and Schumann—before he presented several musical selections at the piano Friday afternoon when the Woman's Club met for their regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. R. P. Rogers introduced Perry who is a faculty member of the Department of Music at East Carolina College.

He informed the group that he had chosen compositions written by three great composers who belonged to the Romantic Period—the "Golden Age of Music"—because they were truly interested in music as a means of expressing their emotions and feelings.

Following his remarks and information, Perry played two compositions which Liszt composed: "O'quand Jals Dort" and "Consonation in D Flat." The two selections of Chopin he selected were "Nocturne in B Major" and "Nocturne in F Minor."

His concluding number was "Traumer" by Schumann.

Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., president, welcomed members and guests, and conducted the business session. Mrs. Tige Gardner, program chairman, presented the leader of the Fine Arts Department, Mrs. R. P. Rogers, who was in charge of the program.

Prior to the business meeting, the members were invited into the dining room by the hostesses, Mrs. George E. Staples, chairman, Mrs. Hinton Best, Mrs. J. Howard Moyer, Mrs. J. R. Worsley, Mrs. F. A. Atkinson, Mrs. K. F. White, Mrs. S. H. Mitchell and Mrs. Percy Upchurch. Hot spiced tea, dainty chicken salad and pimiento-cheese sandwiches and date bars were served.

New Year's Motif Carried Out At Atheneum Club Lunch

Mrs. J. B. Cummings read an appropriate New Year's poem when she entertained the Atheneum Club at her home Tuesday afternoon at a luncheon.

The motif of the occasion, the new year, was carried out in the pink and blue arrangement which centered the dining room table which was covered with a pink cloth. This novel centerpiece consisted of blue grapes and candles interspersed with pink foliage.

Auxiliary tables placed in the living room were appointed with pink cloths.

Mrs. Lee Hannah, president, presided over the short business session when a report was heard concerning the family the club assisted at Christmas.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Fred Warren of Tyler, Texas, and Mrs. J. W. Travis of Trenton, Tenn., mother of the hostess.

Etiquette To Dancers Important

By VIVIAN BROWN

AF Newfeatures

It's the dance season, and the handwriting is in the mail. That first big dance poses many problems, especially when it is a holiday one, and an Oakland, Calif., mother has all the questions well in hand. She writes for answers so her 15-year-old daughter will be up on dance etiquette:

Q. Where does your head belong—on your partner's shoulder or near him or should it be erect on your shoulders?

A. Only a couple who are engaged may be excused for using each other as cushions when dancing. The ideal stance is relaxed with the head held erect, but not stiffly.

Q. How should your partner hold you? Where should his hands be placed?

A. A very tall boy dancing with a small girl may be forced to hold her at the shoulder line. The usual spot is slightly above the waistline. (Some boys do take a death grip, and you can only get him to desist by asking him to take it easy. Don't hesitate.)

Q. Is it permissible for a girl to ask a boy to dance? Where there are more girls than boys?

A. Things can't be that tough for any girl. Think what would happen if he refused. Some boys would, too.

Mrs. Turnage Explains How To Plan For Better Gardens

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Garden Club met with Mrs. John Erwin Wilkerson at her country home "Rose-Dell" on Tuesday with Mrs. A. C. Turnage, president, presiding and discussing "Planning and Planting From Seeds."

After the reading of the garden collect, Mrs. Turnage read New Year's greetings from the state president, Miss Louise Ballard, of Lake Junaluska. She said, "Our garden clubs can open many gates to rich possibilities, but it is for each to go down the pathways. We have many gates to open and pathways to explore, to linger, learn and enjoy." Miss Ballard urged all to attend the mid-year board meeting to be held in Pinehurst on February 5.

Mrs. Turnage announced that the Eastern Carolina Camellia Society would have a luncheon meeting at the Ricks Hotel, Rocky Mount, January 15. She expressed her appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. John B. Lewis for the use of their home for the Garden Club

Holiday House and to the members for decorating and preparing the refreshments. Pictures of the exterior and interior were exhibited by Mrs. Ben M. Lewis, chairman of Holiday House.

Mrs. A. C. Turnage, program leader, said, "It is wise to study seed and nursery catalogs, garden books and magazines. What one learns about new techniques and varieties will add greatly to planning for a better and more exciting garden new year."

"Sweetpeas, larkspur, corn flowers, poppies, and phlox are hardy annuals that should be planted now than later. Semi-hardy annuals should wait until February or March and tender ones should not be planted until all danger of frost is over. Provide plenty of hardy plants such as pansies, English daisies, evergreen candytuft, basket of gold alyssum, carnations, columbine, canterbury bells, forget-me-nots, foxglove, gallardia, hollyhocks and sweet william. Get these in as soon as Old Man Winter gives you a come-on smile," she pointed out.

Mrs. Wilkerson, assisted by Mrs. Gordon E. Lee and Mrs. Ben M. Lewis, served coconut snowballs, nuts and coffee.

The home was decorated with poinsettias, dish gardens, and an arrangement of berries.

Mrs. LaFon C. Vareen and Mrs. Gordon E. Lee were special guests.

Need Place For Home Business Explains Agent

Freeman, assistant Home Demonstration Agent, when she gave the demonstration, "The Home Business Center," using color slides, at a recent meeting of the Littlefield H. D. Club. She pointed out the good as well as the bad points in each slide.

A report was given by Mrs. Harry Jarvis on "Midew."

Mrs. G. E. Garris led recreation with a quiz.

Mrs. Harry Jarvis was hostess for the day.

Gibbs Displays Beauty Of Woods With Hobby

J. G. Gibbs displayed his wood mosaics for the Delphian Book Club at its meeting held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Charles Moyer.

This unusual hobby of building pictures from numerous woods in their natural form has gained considerable notoriety for Gibbs. Several years ago he presented to President Harry S. Truman a desk which he had made. The top of the desk was a map of the United States with each state represented by a different colored wood.

Another of his important works was a desk inlaid with a map of the state of North Carolina. Each county was cut from a different kind of wood. This was presented to the late Governor Umstead.

The mosaics which Gibbs displayed for the Delphians included portraits, church scenes, landscapes, and animal pictures. Among the woods used were locust, aspen, hairwood, rosewood, satinwood, zebra, and many others from all over the world.

Gibbs explained that in his works he is attempting to glorify God by displaying the natural beauty of wood from trees which He has created.

In the business meeting which preceded the program, Mrs. Richard Worsley was elected vice-president to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Dottie Sellars Smiley.

The club voted to use $5.00 for charitable work at the Pitt County Home.

The hostess, Mrs. Moyer, assisted by Mrs. Cameron Dudgey, served cake, nuts and coffee.

Back Again On The Political Front

Those who know of Lindsay Warren's outstanding record of accomplishment in high government positions probably are surprised by his announcement that he will seek a seat in North Carolina's Senate for the 1959 legislature.

Yet those who know Lindsay Warren more intimately probably are not so surprised that the old warhorse has decided to come out of retirement and move once more into the front lines of politics.

The former legislator, the former Congressman, the former Comptroller General of the United States has devoted the greater part of the past 40 years of his life to government service at some level. Even since he retired as Comptroller General in 1954 and returned to Washington, his interest in political affairs—particularly those in North Carolina—has remained his primary concern.

What prompted Lindsay Warren to come out of retirement to seek a seat in North Carolina's legislature, we do not know. It is our guess, however, that the same convictions and desire to be of public service which have been the focal point of most of his adult life lie at the root of his decision.

Whether the people of the Second Senatorial district (Beaufort, Martin, Dare, Washington, Hyde and Tyrrell Counties) will elect Lindsay Warren to the Senate remains to be seen. Suffice it to say, however, that North Carolina could well use in its law-making body a man of Lindsay Warren's calibre who has such a broad background of government experience from which to draw in making decisions which vitally affect the people of this state.

Many Hands Helped In Proud Achievement

When the character and citizenship building organizations of a community increase in strength and influence, the entire community benefits.

That is what is now happening in Pitt County so far as the Boy Scout organization here is concerned. The Boy Scout organization in Pitt County has shown remarkable progress during the past year . . . so significant that the Pitt district was chosen the most outstanding in the East Carolina Council for the year 1957.

During the year the number of boys in Scouting in Pitt increased by more than 300, more than 70 adults were added in places of leadership, a dozen new scouting units were formed and more than 550 Scouts advanced in rank.

As in other areas of accomplishment, these things did not happen of their own accord. They are the result of many hours and many months of work by citizens of Pitt County who are interested in Boy Scout work. They are the result of community support which the Boy Scout movement has found throughout Pitt County.

The Reflector offers its congratulations to every boy and every adult whose efforts in support of Scouting during the past year has made this the top district in the East Carolina Boy Scout Council. It is an achievement of which the county should be proud. It is an achievement which should make the citizens of this county realize that great deal can yet be done in affording proper training and proper leadership for its youth.

Govm't Trend To Advertising

By LYNN NISBET
PUBLIC RELATIONS — A new concept has come into common acceptance by business and by government. It is called public relations, and it has become very obvious in the operations of the State of North Carolina during the past two or three years. The old time press agent, the advertising director, the publicity man for business firms and government agencies have become public relations counselors.

Public relations, which after all is another way of saying relations with people, had a major place on the agenda of the State Board of Conservation & Development at its winter meeting here this week. One by one the division heads in the department making report to the board mentioned improvement in public relations, better cooperation with other governmental local development groups and the general public.

Governor Hodges, who has paramount public relations to greater degree than any of his predecessors, in his comments as chairman of the board put major emphasis on the importance of each board member and departmental employee maintaining contact with people. He related specific instances of new plants coming into the state as result of contacts made months ago and urged the members to follow up on the October visitation to New York. He insisted, however, that cooperation among North Carolinians is more important than relations with outsiders. Outside capital is welcomed and is necessary for full development; but the real burden for development of the state rests upon the home-folks. He cited examples of new-folk "homefolks" doing more to promote progress than some of the oldtimers.

ADVERTISING — The new trend was evident in action taken by the advertising committee. Upon recommendation of Charles Parker, who retains the title as Director of State Advertising, a much larger portion of the dollars appropriated for State advertising will go into channels other than the purchase of magazine and newspaper space and radio or television time. It will go for personal contact and for printed material designed to create goodwill and other public relations aspects of the total program.

The State's advertising dollar is divided between industrial and travel appeal at the approximate ratio of 40 per cent industrial, 60 per cent travel. When total cost of the commerce-industry division is included, the promotional dollar is divided about 50-50. When all activities of the department, including fisheries, forestry, minerals, parks, water resources and community planning are counted in the balance swings slightly in favor of industrial development.

Tentative copy for advertisements approved for use this spring and early summer have an indirect public relations appeal. One industrial ad features the State Capitol as a symbol of stability in a commonwealth where, as Edwin Gill aptly expressed it, "good government is a habit." Another portrays a factory workman checking his fishing tackle before loading it in his station wagon with text suggesting that "this man likes to work in North Carolina" and loves to live among good neighbors who work together to build better communities. The prospective travel attraction ads show beach, piedmont and mountain scenes with text suggesting that we want to share this with you, rather than we want your dollars in our cash registers. It is a new approach and to considerable degree it is a gamble. The folks who are sponsoring it think it will work.

CHALLENGE — There is precedent for their faith. National Park Service found they got about 90 per cent better cooperation when they changed signs reading "Fine imposed for removing shrubbery" to "Please leave flowers for others to enjoy." State highway maintenance found their job much easier when signs advertising where trash cans were located a short distance ahead were added — or substituted for — signs warning that a $50 fine might be incurred for throwing trash on the highways.

Traffic cops have discovered that a blunt warning "You'll be arrested if you exceed the speed limit" is accepted as a challenge for speeding. If the warning is changed to something like "You will enjoy your trip and have no trouble if you keep within the speed limits," it comes under the head of good public relations.

Some of his colleagues laughed at Max Watson when he quipped that one good waitress could do more to promote North Carolina than any book that could be printed. But they agreed that Watson was right — and endorsed the idea of "host schools" by the Travel Council, to train people catering to travelers how to be nice to them.

Main point is that pure advertising is a one-way job: public relations implies cooperation, grounded in mutual interest — and benefit. The State of North Carolina, along with most private business, is moving rapidly into the cooperative public relations concept, the basic idea of which is that a friend is worth more than a customer.

Smaller Foreign Cars Are Liked

By ELMER ROESSNER
About 200,000 new foreign autos were bought by Americans last year. That's twice the number purchased in 1956.

Why? There are many disadvantages to small, imported cars: Few of them are roomy enough for comfort on cross-country drives.

Untrained mechanics may not be able to make repairs. Any red-blooded American garage man can take a Mercy-Banana apart, but few can get them together again.

Replacement parts are not readily available in many areas. A busted klops-levier can strand a driver in Ogallala, Neb., for a week.

Truckers in high-riding cabs sometimes back over them without seeing them, or hit them in the rear or side because they cannot see them.

Some are difficult to get out of in accidents.

STILL THEY SELL
Despite those disadvantages, Americans keep buying them. They bought more foreign cars than Hudsons, Nashes, Packards, Studebakers and De Sotos combined.

Why? Is Detroit failing to give the public what it wants? To the extent of about 200,000 sales a year?

To some extent, that appears to be the situation.

Some people buy foreign cars to be different, to impress their friends, or to enjoy a different experience. There was a major who dare drive anything larger than a Crosley during World War II because his colonel drove one. Perhaps there are some majors today who don't dare buy anything larger than an Isotta because his colonel drives a Renault or because the general is wedged into a Minx.

But most of the people who bought foreign bibles have more practical reasons.

WHY THEY BUY
Your reporter has been talking to people interested in foreign cars and while he has conducted no Trendex survey he has collected a number of significant reasons why people like them. They include these:

Imports are excellent second cars for shuttling husbands to stations, piloting children to school or doing the shopping. Even the smallest American cars cost more to buy and run than many of the imports.

They fit in garages. A family with a big first car often is limited to a teeny auto as a second car. And some families, with older garages, can't get big 1958 cars into them and are forced to choose between shorter American cars or better imports.

They are cheaper to operate; they use less gas per mile. They are easier to push ahead in crowded city traffic.

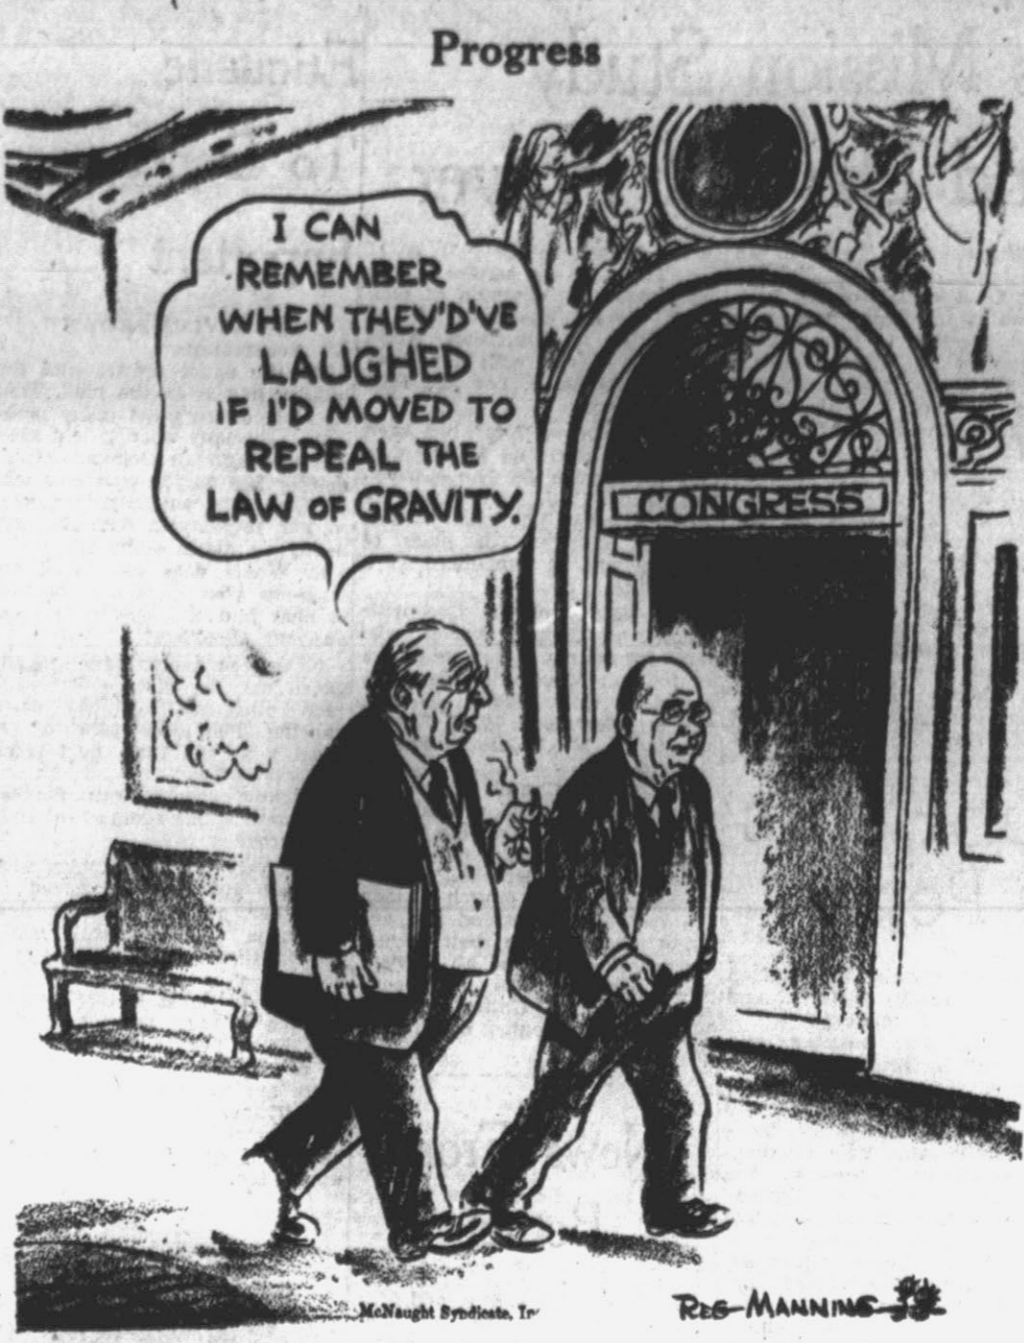

They are easier to park. Easier to maneuver easily; they can be squeezed in where larger cars can't fit. They are easier to park.

DETROIT'S ANSWER
They have fewer gimmicks to push up the price. They don't waste power by using it to shift gears, open windows or fan your brow.

They come with fewer extras. The buyer doesn't feel cheap by telling a salesman he doesn't want a built-in shoe shiner. (There's no room for it, anyhow.)

To all these reasons, Detroit answers that Americans want big, massive cars that build up their egos, extras that will impress their neighbors, and ease of operation even if the buttons aren't easy to push. Detroit will tell you that Americans want impressive fenders even if the slightest dent means buying half a new body. That they want fins, Christmas-tree lights and Freudian symbolism spread all over. Americans are Yankee Doodle Dandies; they want the biggest and the best.

As a matter of fact, Detroit was right 6,200,000 times last year and wrong only 200,000 times. Those are the approximate figures for sales of new U.S.-made cars and new imports. But even half of those 200,000 sales lost to foreign manufacturers would have strengthened the American industry considerably.

Shaggy Dogs, Etc., Etc.

There are shaggy dogs and shaggy dog stories.

As to the latter, I'm not quite clear what makes a shaggy dog story; one authority says the following fills the bill:

A Grifton man had a very shaggy dog. He never saw a shagger, and eventually worked around to calling his dog the "shaggiest dog in the world."

Somehow, the idea became a mild fixation with him and he began traveling around with his shaggy dog defying all comers to be shaggier.

He worked his way up the coast to New York and visited England, France, Spain, Italy, Germany, Belgium; tried to visit Russia but when the border guards understood what he wanted . . . and looked at his shaggy dog . . . they said "Nvet."

So the traveler re-crossed the ocean and tried Chicago, Kansas City, San Francisco; and everywhere he went people stood back and said "Boy, that dog is the shaggiest."

He kept heading West. In Hong Kong a cable caught up with him, saying "Come home, quick. A man claims he has a dog shaggier than yours."

So the shaggy dog owner boarded a plane and raced back to the West Coast; there he boarded another plane, and after a few changeovers reached the airport at Kingston. He was in a hurry, so he bought the first car he saw and drove to Paeolus where dwelt the man who had a dog he said was the shaggiest.

After a casual meeting, the dog owners sat down together in the living room and smoked, watched TV, had supper . . . and then,

"Well, let's see that shaggy dog," said the Grifton man. Together they went into the backyard to a dog house where a little chihuahua was whistled out.

The Grifton dog owner peered down at the pooch. "Aw, your dog ain't so shaggy," he said.

Other Editors Saying -- Hodges' Realistic View

(The Raleigh Times)

Governor Hodges has taken an entirely realistic view of the State's troubles regarding alcohol, and the net result of his actions of yesterday should produce an almost immediate improvement in a situation which has not reflected any credit on the State.

The Governor said flatly that the liquor interests have major league leadership. It is good that he not only recognizes that fact, but that he has taken steps to give to the liquor control interests in North Carolina the kind of major league leadership needed to meet the liquor major leaguers on at least even terms.

The first step needed in winning a battle is to correctly assess the kind of opposition you're facing. The Governor has taken that first step, and has correctly assessed the liquor leadership as being top-flight.

The next step in winning a battle is to provide forces which can be strong enough to meet the opposition strength. Only time will tell exactly how strong the State ABC forces will be under the board's new chairman, William S. Hunt, Jr. But, Hunt's record with the Highway Patrol indicates that he will be able to do the job to which he has now been appointed.

Governor Hodges laid down a good plan of action for his new ABC chairman:

"He believes in carrying out the spirit and the letter of the ABC laws which were enacted for the purpose of controlling the liquor traffic in North Carolina. I expect him to handle the affairs of the ABC Board without fear or favor."

By following that kind of directive, Chairman Hunt can't go wrong.

The Governor's action should answer fully any criticism that the State was trying to find a "goat" in the recent liquor for legislators scandal, and in punishing such a "goat" thereby get itself off the hook on which its own ABC board had hung it. The Governor's action yesterday was an admission of errors on the part of the ABC Board, and a well-supported promise that things are going to be different.

Governor Hodges also is to be recommended for his flat stand that there will be no cocktail party for the Democratic Party's Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner this year. It came out in the wash after the liquor for legislators scandal that the salesman's pool had been used to provide liquor for such parties. That put the Democratic Party in a bad position.

Now as to shaggy dogs, I've at least some experience. One pup in the neighborhood has a coat of fur that almost brushes the ground when he's walking.

Being a strictly backyard dog, not too many people know about him, but he is truly shaggy enough to fit some kind of story.

When he joined the family who feed, house, wash, de-flea and otherwise care for him, there was some concern he might be lonely.

That was solved when another pup appeared in an adjoining yard.

An intervening fence didn't interfere with their romping and joyful racing up and down the length of the wire barrier. They were happy.

Occasionally, by dint of some digging one or the other managed to crawl under the fence; it called for some hasty repairs by human objectors.

The pups played for weeks and for months, always (or nearly so) separated by those thin strands of wire. They'd run back and forth, the length of the fence . . . laughing and whooping it up.

Then came a day when the neighboring dog was no longer a neighbor and the shaggy pooch has been rather quiet ever since. No more running, no more laughing, seldom barks.

Along the fence where he used to race, no grass grows. As a matter of fact, it's worn away to the bare, hard-packed soil. He did run a lot.

I guess he's just got to accept the turn of fortune's wheel and resign himself to growing older gracefully, and alone.

Kiddie Record King

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The Army is supposed to build men.

It did even better by Cy Leslie, a big ex-sergeant in the Signal Corps. It gave him the initial idea that led to a multi-million-dollar-a-year business.

Cy, who is 35 and has the height and the left of a professional football tackle, today is known as "the king of the kiddie records." Last month his firm pressed its 100 millionth record for children.

"Looking back, I guess I owe a lot to the Army," he said. At the time — during World War II — Leslie didn't figure, however, the Army was doing him much of a favor by sending him to such places as New Guinea and the Philippines. He was lonely, as all soldiers are lonely.

One day he got a greeting card from his mother, back in Brooklyn.

Gazing at the greeting card, Leslie mused: "Boy, if this thing could only talk!"

If only a greeting card could talk, Cy brooded over the thought. Well, why couldn't a greeting card carry a vocal message? He decided it could.

Released from the Army in 1946, Leslie gambled his savings on creating a line of recorded two-bit greeting cards.

"I had only $1,100 — and I put every penny into it," Cy recalled. "We wrote our own lyrics and music. I slept on the desks at night because I was too tired to go home. My mother even helped by trimming the paper-based records with her scissors."

"The cards caught on fast. The first year we took in $25,000, the second year $300,000. Then we couldn't give them away. The cards were a fad, and the fad was over."

Cy then decided to take an even bigger gamble — to enter the kiddie record field in competition with the major companies. He decided the only way he could win was to put out a 25-cent product and aim for a new mass field through supermarkets, toy stores, and mail order houses.

"I picked up a number of then unknown singers and used them to make children's records," he recalled. "Later on some of them went on to fame in the adult music field."

And Cy, who now has three children of his own, made one other major decision — that none of his musical versions of classic fairy tales and fables would have frightening endings.

"We'd rather take a few liberties with the story than scare a child," he said. "In our record of Little Red Riding Hood, the bad wolf is caught and tied up — but he isn't axed. We don't want to give kids nightmares."

Leslie's cricket label line for tots succeeded so phenomenally that now he has begun a new line of low-priced albums for the adult market.

"Guts and ignorance," said Leslie. "There were many times when, if we really had known what we were up against, we probably should have quit — but we didn't."

"We work on the theory that dollars are what count — not percentages. If you have the volume — and you'll get the volume if your product is good and your price is low — you'll get the dollars."

Opinions

In Brief

By CONSTANTINE BROWN
WASHINGTON — The second session of the 85th Congress opened in an atmosphere of realization that no other Congress has been confronted with greater problems and responsibilities.

Democratic Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson who has shed partnership in this grave hour expressed succinctly the prevailing feeling in Congress: "Our security may very well depend, above all else, on how well and how quickly we grasp the perspective of our preparedness needs. The ground beneath us has been largely swept away. How much is gone, and how much remains, are questions no man can answer with authority. But the peril of the hour is obvious. The exploitation of the new capabilities by men of selfish purpose holds the awful threat of world subjugation."

There will be stormy debates in Congress on the question of what we must do to preserve the security of the United States — and by implication that of those nations which want to remain free. But with few exceptions they will be marked by a lack of desire to make political hay out of mistakes of the present and past administrations in the matter of space technology. However, there will be a thorough airing of our present prediction couched in glorious terms in Isaiah's picture of the Suffering Servant.

Today we are proud to acknowledge as our Lord and Master a man who was a servant and who stands first on the list of all who have ever lived, not in spite of the fact that he was a servant but primarily because he was a servant. For there is nothing so noble as to serve, and the only service worthwhile is that which is conducted in a spirit of real humility.

Trains then be not only to a Savior but to a Savior who was a sufferer, and to a suffering Savior who was a servant. Only through service do we emulate God by whom all things are made.

shall have chaos and communism.

While we were running a kind of popularity contest abroad (which present developments prove has not been particularly successful) the Russians spent their substance with utmost care. When they gave military and economic assistance to their allies such as Communist China, Egypt, Syria and other countries in Asia they demand very specific commitments to help the major premises of their national policy. They never give something for nothing. We do, under the guise that it strengthens the fabric of the free world.

We never "knock heads together" unless they happen to be those of our smaller allies in Asia such as Turkey, South Korea and Nationalist China. But when it comes to important policy matters we, in keeping with the tenets of democracy, accept the decisions of the majority even if it means facing an increased danger. This was obvious at the recent Paris conference where we went to discuss the arming of our allies with guided missiles at our expense and returned with a mandate to negotiate with the Russians.

The Kremlin tells not only its satellites but also its dependent allies what to do. We are taking orders from our allies. Such was the case in the Korean war which we lost not because we could not win it but because our major associate (not in contribution or manpower) insisted that we not fight it to its ultimate end — victory.

These are some of the reasons why the Soviet Union has been able to strengthen its international position at our expense although it started as a weak country whose only diplomatic asset was terrorism. Had we adopted some of its diplomatic methods we would not have lived up to our democratic tenets and the principle of alliances between free peoples. This is true in theory. In fact all our Western allies who have been so dependent on our help until a couple of years ago would have gone along with us had we had a determined policy of checkmating the Russians and the Chinese Communists and had we shown strong leadership.

The present situation is caused partially at least by the fact that while the Communists march together toward fulfillment of their main goal our individual allies are thinking and acting in accordance with their own puny self interests such as making a few quick dollars out of trade with Russia and China.

Strength For Today

DIVINE NATURE OF SERVICE
Jesus as Servant!
We have become accustomed to reverence the term "servant" and to apply this term to Jesus that we often fail to realize that servant became a respectable word through the influence of Judaism that Christianity. Even most of the Greek philosophers looked upon labor as degrading and upon workers of any kind as people of marked inferiority.

The Jews always had a high regard for labor and for the laborer. Christianity furthered this concept. Jesus himself was a carpenter. Paul was a tent-maker. When the New Testament writers sought in the Old Testament for predictions of the coming of Jesus, they found this

Source of the Church's Power

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 16:1-15; Acts 1:1-14; 2:1-41.

Before His death, Jesus told His disciples that He must soon leave them; that after He was gone they would be persecuted. He said it was necessary for Him to go to His Father, and the disciples became sorrowful when He told them this.

Jesus, assembled with His disciples, told them that after He was gone, they should stay in Jerusalem until the Holy Spirit came and gave them power. Then they would preach the Gospel "unto the uttermost part of the earth."

After the disciples had witnessed Christ's ascension, they gathered in an upper room of a house in which they lived. There they prayed and made supplication "with the women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and with His brethren."

The Holy Ghost came upon the apostles, and they began to speak in foreign tongues. A multitude from many lands gathered, and were amazed to hear their own languages spoken.

Source of the Church's Power

THE HOLY GHOST BROUGHT THE APOSTLES POWER, AS CHRIST PROMISED

Scripture—John 16:1-15; Acts 1:1-14; 2:1-41.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL IN LAST WEEK'S lesson we learned of the promise of Christ that He would establish and build His church. In today's study we are told of the church's establishment by the power of the Holy Spirit.

They saw Him taken up, "and a cloud received Him out of their sight." As they gazed upward, two men in white appeared and told them not to gaze up into heaven, for as Christ went up, "so come in like manner as ye have seen Him go into heaven."

Much of the Gospel of John tells of the events of the last 24 hours of Holy Week. Jesus warns His disciples that they will be persecuted, thrown out of synagogues and killed by those who "will think that they doeth God a service." He asks them to remember His words when He is no longer with them, but that He must go from them because otherwise the Comforter (the Holy Spirit) will not come.

This is the last time we read of Mary, Christ's mother, taking part in any of the church activities.

"And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place." Pentecost is the Greek word meaning fiftieth, referring to the 50th day after the Passover. "And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting."

MEMORY VERSE

"Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto Me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in all Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."—Acts 1:8.

"The Spirit of truth is come, He will guide you into all truth."

After the resurrection and before His ascension, Jesus "assembled together with them" (the apostles) and commanded them that they should not leave Jerusalem but "wait for the promise of the Father, which . . . ye have heard of Me."

"For John truly baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence." They asked Him if He would restore again the kingdom of Israel. He told them it was not for them to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in His own power.

"But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto Me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."

Now there were men of foreign birth in Jerusalem; imagine their amazement when these apostles began to speak to each in his own language! The word spread and many marvelled, but some declared that the apostles were drunk from wine.

Paul stood up with the 11 and defended them, saying they were not drunk but had received power from heaven.

We have not space to print Peter's noble sermon, but he frightened the people so that they asked him what they should do. Peter told them to be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ, and about 3,000 souls were baptized that day. The teachers should study Peter's words and interpret them to their classes.

Belvoir-Falkland Edges Winterville To Take Lead

Double Win Changes Pitt Loop Standings

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

BELVOIR — Belvoir-Falkland swept through two games here last night, chalking up two victories over Winterville and making a drastic change in the Pitt County Conference standings.

Before a packed house, the host boys overcame Winterville 49-46 in an overtime victory and the Belvoir-Falkland girls nabbed an impressive 59-49 win over the league-leading Winterville girls.

Coch Ed Warren's boys took over an unquestioned lead in the Pitt County boys division with that 49-46 win. It shows their record into 6-1 and gives them a substantial lead over the rest of the loop. Nearest to them is second-place Chocowoc with a 5-1 mark. The two teams clash for the first time this season at Belvoir Tuesday night in what might be the game of the year.

Winterville drops down into a tie with Ayden for third place, with a 4-2 mark now.

Winterville Off

The surprising 59-49 Belvoir-Falkland victory over the Winterville girls knocked Winterville off the top of the girls bracket. In fact, it dropped them into third place.

Grimesland, with a 4-1 mark, moves into first and Stokes-Pactolus, with a 5-2 slate, takes second. Winterville's 4-2 now can only qualify them for third place. Belvoir-Falkland takes fourth with a 4-3 record.

Sophomore guard Jerry Little (5-6) was the shining star of the boys game last night. The B-F sharp-shooter, who is averaging 26 points per game, pumped in 27 to pace his club to the overtime win. With thirty seconds left in the regulation contest, it was a long shot from outside by Little that tied it up 43-43. David Moore, B-F center (6-4) also grabbed his share of the honors as a rebounder, besides chopping in 10 points.

For Winterville, Gorman, Cox and Little netted 12, 12, and 10, respectively.

In the girls contest, Winterville's profligate Dorothy Reynolds dumped in 37 points, but was unable to whip Belvoir-Falkland by herself. Her teammates contributed only 12 points. Blake had 22, Brown 19, and Waters 18, for the winners.

Tonight

Games around the circuit tonight find Belvoir-Falkland at Ayden; Farmville at Grifton; Grimesland at Winterville; Stokes-Pactolus at Chocowoc.

The games tonight will have a definite bearing on the league statistics and could even rearrange the top place standings.

But next Tuesday's Belvoir-Falkland vs Chocowoc contest at Belvoir is rated the big game of the present season. It will highlight the meeting of the top two boys clubs—and will bring together two of the loop's most prolific scorers: Jimmy Fornes and Jerry Little.

Fornes is currently the hottest point-man in the history of the conference. The Chocowoc guard (5-9) is averaging 28 points per game against all opponents and has notched a 30-points-per-game average against league foes, so far. Little, a sophomore who is playing his first season of ball with Belvoir-Falkland, is averaging 20 per game and resembles Fornes in style and size. The game could determine the conference champion.

EC Host To Elon Club Tomorrow Night

Carolina Wins Over Virginia; History Repeats

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Forty-one years ago the University of North Carolina basketball team, which had a strong rivalry with Virginia, scored its first win in history over a Cavalier cage squad.

In recent years the Atlantic Coast Conference rivalry between the two has dimmed, and North Carolina victories over Virginia have become rather more frequent. UNC's basketball fortunes have been on the upgrade at the same time Virginia's have been going straight down.

Last night at Chapel Hill, N.C., between halves of the UNC-Virginia game, most of the surviving members of the 1917 team that scored the school's first win over the Cavaliers were honored at a halftime ceremony. But something seemed a little awry that the scoreboard should show the Cavaliers, 6-4 for the season, leading North Carolina's nation's third-ranked team, 33-30.

Yes, North Carolina won. But Virginia led 48-45 with 11:47 left to play, and until the last five minutes were very much a threat. Then sophomores Lee Shaffer and Harvey Salz teamed up with seniors Tommy Kearns and Pete Brennan for a sizzling drive that gave the Tar Heels the game, 82-66.

For the Tar Heels, who now have an 11-1 overall record, Brennan had 29 points, Salz 19 and Shaffer 15. For Virginia, looking better and better with every game, juniors Herb Busch and John Sellers had 22 and 12 points, respectively, while sophomore Paul Adkins had 13.

Ten of the 11 surviving members of the 1917 Tar Heel team saw the game. All attained distinction in their professional fields, but the one member who did not attend Maryland, North Carolina State at Duke, Virginia at Wake Forest and Clemson at South Carolina.

Williams Picked Male Athlete Of The Year

By MURRAY ROSE
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ted Williams, king of the batters at the age of 39, today was named the outstanding Male Athlete of the Year for 1957 in the annual Associated Press year-end poll.

It was the first time in his long, stormy and dramatic career that the tall Boston Red Sox slugger was chosen for the honor, one of the great prizes in sports.

In the AP poll, Williams won by a whopping margin over Milwaukee pitcher Lew Burdette, the star of the world series, with middleweight boxing champion Carmen Basilio a trailing third.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, winner of the AP's Athlete of the Year poll for 1956 and the American League's MVP for 1956 and 1957, finished in a tie for 13th this year with only one first place designation and 14 points.

Williams received 85 first place votes from the 214 sports writers and sportscasters who participated in the poll, and 434 points. Points were counted on a basis of three for first, two for second and one for third.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles-Frederick C. Miller Memorial Trophy, awarded to the winner of the AP poll, will be presented to Williams later this month.

Williams, who broke into organized ball with San Diego in 1936 and served two stints as a Marine pilot, hit .308 last season to capture his fifth American League batting title.

Behind Williams, Burdette (226) and Basilio (137) this year, came All-America back John Crow, Texas A&M (67); Stan Musial, St. Louis' National League batting king (46); Wilt Chamberlain, the tower of Kansas basketball (42); Dick Mayer, the Open golf champion (44); Jimmy Brown, rookie power back of the football Cleveland Browns (4); heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson (34); Bill Russell and Bob Cousy of the pro champion basketball Boston Celtics, (27 each); Hank Aaron, Milwaukee slugger and series star, (24); and then Mantle and Lennie Rosenbly, All-America of North Carolina's all-winning college basketball champions, (14 each).

There were scattered votes for others.

Bucs Favored Slightly Over 1-1 Christians

East Carolina College, with a fine 7-1 record to their advantage, will play host to Elon tomorrow night in Memorial Gymnasium.

The game will be a North State Conference clash, and an important one for both the Pirates and the Fighting Christians.

ECC goes into the tilt with a 4-1 loop record, good enough to stimulate them in second place, behind Lenoir Rhyne's 4-0. Elon, with a 1-1 mark, will be trying to climb back up to their usual top slot.

On the basis of records and the fact that they will be playing on their home court, East Carolina ranks as a slight favorite over the invaders from Elon. Coach Howard Porter's club is given an edge of seven points.

Porter expects to go into the game with his club at near full strength. Guy Mendenhall, a regular center, who has missed a lot of action recently due to ankle troubles, will be back in the lineup. The 6-5 Cary senior has been playing for the Bucs for four seasons. Porter isn't expected to use Mendenhall extensively tomorrow, however, in an effort to give the ankle plenty of time to recover.

Jessell Curry and Ike Riddick, both sophomore guards, who are currently the team's top shooters, will be at peak condition and are expected to start. Joe Plaster, the 6-8 much-improved junior from Virginia, is expected to be the big man at center. Plaster has been the Bucs' chief rebounder thus far this winter. Forwards will probably be senior captain Harold (Mule) Ingram and either Don Smith or Charlie Adams.

Joe Louis To Pay $20,000 Per Year

CHICAGO (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis says he has signed an agreement with the federal government to make payments on his back income taxes at the rate of $20,000 a year.

Arthur J. Wilson, Louis' accountant, indicated that an understanding has been reached with the Internal Revenue Service and an agreement set up.

"However, I want to make it clear that the government has not entered into any agreement to accept less than the amount owed," Wilson said. "We have some hope that if he follows the plan we have agreed upon, the government in a few years may call matters even."

"This is contingent on two things—ability to pay and good faith. If Joe shows an effort to keep up current taxes and shows good faith in trying to reduce the amount owed in back taxes, then there may be a compromise which would tend to settle his tax problems once and for all."

The Internal Revenue Review Board went over Louis' tax problems Monday.

Under the agreement, Louis said he will turn over to the Internal Revenue Service the $20,000 he receives in salary each year from the International Boxing Club, of which he is director.

He also receives $4,800 a year from the Joe Louis Milk Co. for public relations work and $8,200 from a recording firm for services he did not specify.

Louis said he will live on the money from the milk and recording firms.

However, current taxes on $33,000 a year would amount to an estimated $12,000, leaving Louis only $21,000 after the $20,000 payment—unless allowable deductions reduce his taxable income and place him in a lower bracket.

Wilson indicated this would be the case.

Louis earned $4,606,721.69 in his 17 years as a professional and he once commented that "I just don't know where all the money went."

Junior High Triumphs, 36-19

Coach Milton Reece's high-flying Junior High School basketballers, undefeated in five contests, knocked off Rocky Mount, 36-19, here Wednesday afternoon.

The victory was the fifth straight of the season; four of them have been against class AAA teams, one against AA New Bern.

Greenville jumped to an early 9-4 first-quarter lead and carried it to 17-12 by halftime. In the third quarter, Rocky Mount outscored the Phantoms, seven to five, but were still behind, 22-19.

Going into the final period, Greenville took a tap and got two quick points. Paced by forward Allen McArthur, they zoomed ahead to the final spread of 17 points.

Reece's club journeys to Washington today to battle the AA Pam-Pack in their sixth game.

W. Virginia Is Highest In Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

West Virginia's pre-eminent role in Southern Conference basketball is graphically illustrated by statistics which show the Mountaineers far and away the highest-scoring team in the league.

But chances are you'll be surprised which club has shown the tightest defense over the first half of the season. It's Davidson.

In the face of zone defenses and ball control tactics which have sent offensive averages plummeting nearly everywhere, West Virginia is managing to pour in even more points this season than last. The Mountaineers have averaged 84.5 points per game while winning their first 11 starts and claiming No. 1 national ranking.

That's more than 15 points higher than the next best offensive mark in the 10-college conference, the 69.1 average owned by Furman.

Davidson, with a modest 6-9 record, has limited its 11 opponents to a meager 59.7 points per game. But it's been a necessity for the Wildcats, for they have shown the conference's least productive offense, averaging a mere 60 points.

Generally speaking, the conference clubs who are doing best at scoring are doing worst in keeping the opposition from scoring. Only Richmond and The Citadel are among the top five in both the defensive and offensive categories.

After West Virginia and Furman in the top five on offense come Washington and Lee with a 67.3-point average; Richmond, 67.2; and The Citadel, 66.1. On defense, Davidson is followed by Richmond, with an average yield of 63.6 points per game; The Citadel, 64.6; Virginia Tech, 67.5; and George Washington, 69.9. Furman is last in the defensive category, allowing the opposition 88.9 points per game.

None of the averages changed last night and none will change tonight, since nobody in the conference plays again until tomorrow.

Knicks Doing A Lot To Hold Down The Celtics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Knickerbockers are not the best in the National Basketball Assn. but they are doing more than any of the others in keeping the Boston Celtics from making a complete run-away in the Eastern Division.

The Knicks, who snapped Boston's 14 game winning streak at the start of the season, and the Celtics have met six times. Each has won three.

The New Yorkers caught the Celtics without Bill Russell last night and squared the series with a 136-123 victory in the first half of a doubleheader at Syracuse.

The Nats then took advantage of the opening, edge Minneapolis 127-122, and moved within 5 1/2 points above 500, pulled within eight games of the top.

Russell was on the sidelines nursing a sprained ankle.

Can Ivy Revive Cardinal Team?

CHICAGO (AP) — Now that the Chicago Cardinals have plucked 41-year-old Frank Ivy from the Canadian Football League as their 19th head coach, the question is: Can Ivy, well versed in winning under Bud Wilkinson at Oklahoma and a successful coach in Canadian football, revive the cellar-dwelling Cards into a real contender in the National Football League?

Ivy, who was appointed coach last night succeeding the resigned Ray Richards, faces a stiff challenge—a challenge that has seen eight Card coaches shuffle out of Chicago in the last 10 years.

But, Ivy says he's used to winning and that's enough for Cardinal Managing Director Walt Wolfner.

Ivy, who played six years as a top flight defensive end with the Cards intermittently from 1940-47, said he had a "lot of work" ahead of him in his new job.

In four years of coaching in the pay-for-play ranks, Ivy, a native of Skiatook, Okla., won four Canadian Western Divisional titles and grabbed the All-Canadian championship three years running—1954-55-56.

As a coaching aide under Oklahoma's Wilkinson from 1948-1954, the personable Ivy saw the Sooners win 31 consecutive games. From Oklahoma, Ivy jumped into Canadian football as head man of the Edmonton Eskimos.

Ivy also played college football at Oklahoma.

Oscar Robertson Gets 56 Points

By ED WILKS

The Associated Press

Oscar Robertson, a hep Hoosier who scores points and shuns stardom, was the big man of college basketball today, the toast of even the usually hard-to-please New York critics.

The 6-foot-5 sophomore from Indianapolis scored 56 points as Cincinnati's barreling Bearcats whipped Seton Hall 118-54 last night.

Oscar bettered the all-time record by a collegian in Madison Square Garden for total points and field goals—and was every bit as good a team man as he was a scorer.

The victory boosted the twice-beaten Bearcats, seventh in this week's Associated Press poll, into their ninth victory.

Third-ranked and once beaten North Carolina pulled away late in the game and defeated Virginia 82-66 in an Atlantic Coast Conference scrap. The Tar Heels, now 11-1, was the only other top 10 team on action.

Robertson's production bettered Harry Boykoff's 54 points for St. John's against St. Francis in 1947 and topped by one the field goal record set by DePaul's all-time great, George Mikan, with 21 against Rhode Island in 1945.

Robertson said he didn't know what or whose record he had broken until after being pulled from the game after a pair of free throws for his 55th and 56th points with 2:46 left.

His 56 points were nowhere near the national, major college record. Furman's All America Frank Selvy scored 100 against Newberry in 1954. Nor did it push him past Kansas' Wilt Chamberlain in the season scoring race. Oscar now has scored 353 points for a 32.1 average. Wilt has a 32.2 average on 322 points in 10 games.

With Connie Dierking out for four games with an injury, back in the lineup (he scored 19), and the rest of the Bearcats near their best, Oscar had to hustle and work for 35 minutes. Then with five minutes left and 46 points in the bag, his teammates started to feed him and Robertson took off, urged along by the crowd of 4,615.

Cincinnati's total also set a Garden record, bettering the one-team mark set at 116 by Bradley last season.

New Bern Licks Eppes, 58-44

After taking a quick lead in the first quarter, Eppes high school Bulldogs fell behind and were ultimately beaten, 58-44, by New Bern, here, Wednesday night.

The loss was the first conference defeat for the Bulldogs.

High scorers for the night were New Bern's Wiggins and Eppes' Gatlin, who had 21 each.

It leaves Eppes' record at 2-4.

The Baby Bulldogs, playing against New Bern's javvies at halftime, claimed a 25-5 victory.

Next game on the bulldog schedule will be at Washington, January 14.

Tombstone Gets His Chance Now

NEW YORK — Charlie (Tombstone) Smith gets his first chance to show his stuff before a national audience tonight when he faces Joe Miceli in a 10-round welterweight match at Madison Square Garden.

As Smith whipped Miceli in Los Angeles last March 7, he is expected to do it again. The odds are close to 2-1.

Most of Smith's 29 fights have been held in California although he hopped to Italy for his last start and lost a disputed decision to Ciancarlo Garbelli in Milan Dec. 14.

A rangy six-footer with a 24-5 record, Smith is rated No. 7 among the welters by Ring magazine but is not ranked by the National Boxing Assn.

Paddy Quaid, Smith's manager, has been trying to crack the Garden for some time. All he got was a chance to fight middleweights like Joe Giardello, Tiger Jones or Spike Webb.

Miceli hasn't been in the Garden since 1952 when he was stopped by Johnny Bratton. They have been using Miceli around the country and he has fought at St. Nick's or Eastern Parkway in recent years. In his last appearance Nov. 4, he outpointed Ramon Puentes in Honolulu.

Experience is all on the side of the 29-year-old Miceli, who has fought 92 pro bouts for a 55-30-7 record.

NBC will broadcast and telecast at 10 p.m., EST.

Feed Grinding Demonstration Set Thursday

A feed grinding and mixing demonstration will be held next Thursday at 2 p.m. on Robert Little's farm. County Agent S. C. Winchester said Ed Coates and Ray Ritchie, agricultural engineering specialists of N.C. State College will be on hand with grinding and mixing equipment to conduct the demonstration.

"This demonstration can help the farmer turn home grown grains into net profit," Winchester said. "Livestock growers throughout Pitt County are reporting that grain marketed through livestock is worth from 50 cents to $1 more than if sold as grain. This can mean real dollars to the farmer."

The Robert Little farm can be reached by taking the black top road south at J.P. Wilson's Store just east of the overhead pass on Highway U.S. 264 at Grimesland.

PTA Workshop Set For Raleigh

RALEIGH (AP)—Some 100 workers will gather here Monday for the opening of a new type of Parent-Teachers Assn. Workshop.

The state workshop will answer such questions as: How can we be good parents? How can we grow up in the family? How can we live together in modern America?

The purpose of the workshop is to train leaders from 10 PTA districts so they can conduct similar workshops in their own communities.

The Rev. Marvin Ick of Kinston, State PTA Parent and Family Life chairman, said "In this way, we will be able to reach more parents and help them with their problems."

The minister, who is directing the workshop, noted that "North Carolina is pioneering in conducting district level parent education workshops. I believe we are the first state to handle this important problem in this way."

The workshop is sponsored by the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers. Mrs. J. Z. Watkins of Charlotte, state president, heads the organization's leaders who are expected to attend.

The 10 district directors working with the workshop are Mrs. Edwin Hyatt, Canton; Mrs. Thomas Roberts, Forest City; Mrs. J.E. Barringer, Hickory; Mrs. E. C. Walters, Greensboro; Mrs. K. S. Speechless Over $20 Donation

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Shop owner Louis Prow said he "lost his speech" when an unidentified man walked into his store and stuffed $20 into a March of Dimes container.

Prow said the anonymous contributor told him he had read about such a container being stolen Tuesday, and stuffed the money inside the new container.

Somebody Stole Switch Engine

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—Somebody stole a diesel switch engine last night from the Union Pacific Railroad yards. It was found abandoned half an hour later—near the mouth of Weber Canyon, east of here.

When yard crews saw the engine rolling onto the eastbound mainline tracks, they called police and ordered a westbound freight train halted at Morgan.

Georgia was named in honor of King George II of England. It became a state in 1788.

Cabinet Clash May Be Bolstering Macmillan

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan seems to have turned a serious clash inside his Cabinet to the political advantage of himself and his Conservative party.

Instead of finding his position with the general public weakened, Macmillan actually may come out stronger from the dispute over the new government budget which produced the surprise resignation of Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft.

For now Macmillan, as he tours the Commonwealth, stands at home as the defender of the welfare services—as the moderate politician who refused to cut back government expenditures on such things as free milk for children and aid to expectant mothers.

The announced reason for Thorneycroft's resignation Monday was that he insisted the relatively small sum of 50 million pounds (140 million dollars) should be cut from the estimate of government expenditures for the fiscal year that begins April 1. This would have kept 1958-59 spending at this year's level.

Macmillan's letter accepting the resignation made it plain the Prime Minister thought welfare services would have to be cut if the chancellor won his fight.

After naming Derick Heathcoat-Amory the new chancellor, Macmillan took off on schedule the next day for a 39-day Commonwealth tour to India, Pakistan, Ceylon, New Zealand and Australia.

Ignoring the calls of opposition Laborites for his government to quit, Macmillan at the airport calmly said the resignation of the key Cabinet member had resulted from "little local differences."

Labor party leaders appear to be at something of a loss to know how to capitalize on the opening Thorneycroft's quitting normally would give them.

The Laborites are expected to open their attack soon after Parliament returns Jan. 21.

Indians Threaten To Take Back That City Hall

BRANTFORD, Ont. (AP)—The Six Nations Indians are threatening to take back City Hall.

Aroused by reports that the Brantford City Council intends to put the hall and surrounding Market Square on the block, the hereditary chiefs of the nearby Six Nations reservation yesterday told their lawyer to begin a study of land titles and the treaty under which they granted the square to Brantford in 1851.

The chiefs say their ancestors gave the land on the understanding that it would be used only as a market square. If it stops being used for that, they contend, it must revert to them.

One source said, however, that though the Indians have always believed a written treaty granting the land exists, it has never been found.

City officials claim no bar to the sale exists as long as the city's taxpayers vote for it. A new city hall is planned.

Hungary Seeks UN Agency Aid

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Hungary's Communist government has asked a U. N. agency to help it get back young people who fled the country after the failure of the 1956 revolt.

Josef Karpai, head of the Hungarian Red Cross, said the Red regime handed over "full data" on 629 young Hungarians in Austria to Auguste Lindt, U. N. high commissioner for refugees. Lindt visited Budapest last week.

The parents of all the young people are expected for their return. Lindt has been unwilling to return them without some guarantee that the parents' requests were not the result of pressure. Some Austrians say that the children have heard through unofficial channels that their parents were urging them to stay abroad.

Voted Chairman Of Co-Op School

Mrs. Michael Luskin has been elected chairman of the Board of Directors of the Greenville Co-operative School for the 1958-1959 term.

Mrs. Luskin was elected Wednesday night at a meeting of the directors. She will succeed Dr. Frank Longino, 1957-1958 chairman, who reviewed progress of the school thus far this year.

Dr. Longino told the directors that 14 children are presently enrolled in the school's first grade which is taught by Mrs. Rachel Rogers. All of the students were six years old after October 15 and ineligible for enrollment in the Greenville public schools.

The board voted to hold a general meeting for interested parents and friends in April to formulate plans for next year's operation of the school. Information about testing and enrollment for the 1958-1959 term can be obtained from Mrs. Luskin, phone 6208, or Mrs. Robert Forney, phone 7008.

Dr. White Talks At Raleigh Meet

Dr. James L. White, associate professor of business at East Carolina, discussed the college's "Office Apprentices Program" at a meeting of the Raleigh-Wake Personnel Association held in Raleigh Thursday afternoon.

In this program, which East Carolina was the first college in the state to introduce, students work in offices for short periods of time during which they gain experience on the job and receive both college credit and remuneration, Dr. White explained.

The latest census shows the United Kingdom has a population of 51,221,000. Nearly 42 million live in England.

POSSIBLE SPACE FLIGHT MODEL—The caption for this drawing taken from "Journey Into The Cosmos," published in Moscow in 1955, is headed "perhaps this is how the first manned artificial earth satellite would look." It is timely because of Moscow reports that Russia has sent a man-carrying rocket 186 miles into the air. The craft consists of a jet motor (1), parachute (2) for breaking its descent, movable wings (3) for gliding, hermetically sealed pilot's cabin (4) made of synthetic glass and equipped with metallic blinds to protect pilot from sun ray burns, tanks for fuel (5), and oxydizer (6) for operation of jet engine in case of need to increase speed of flight when retarded by air resistance. Wildlife Board Has New Chief RALEIGH (AP)—James A. Connelly of Morganton is the new chairman of the State Wildlife Resources Commission, succeeding Orville L. Woodhouse of Grandy. He was elected for the current year at a commission meeting yesterday. Thurman Briggs of Lexington was elected vice chairman and Robert Carr of Wallace was re-elected secretary.

In other action, the commission decided to wait until after the striped bass season before changing the line which separates inland and commercial waters on the Roanoke River.

The present dividing line is the U.S. 301 highway bridge at Weldon. Most of the striped bass fishing in the river occurs below the bridge in what is now commercial waters.

The line was scheduled to be moved from Weldon to Scotland Neck effective Jan. 1. However, fishermen protested strongly at a recent public hearing against moving the line. The striped bass usually start in March.

The commission rejected a request that it allocate $7,000 in federal aid funds to supplement $27,000 the University of North Carolina has for a three-year study of the life of the flounder. The request was made by the university's Institute of Fisheries Research at Morehead City.

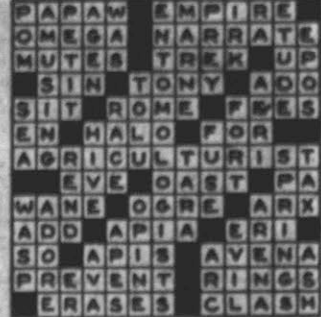

The commission explained that it could see no real basis for making the allocation since the flounder is a salt water fish and no license fee is paid by salt water fishermen.

Killer Trigger Burke Dies In Sing Sing Death House

OSSINING, N. Y. (AP)—Elmer (Trigger) Burke, cold-blooded killer convicted of murdering his best friend in a barroom brawl, died last night with a prayer on his lips in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair.

The cocky, 39-year-old Burke who might have saved his life by talking about some unsolved gangland slayings and robberies, entered the death chamber accompanied by the prison Catholic chaplain and praying with him.

Burke turned to the witnesses and smiled. He waved a hand at a witness, who waved back but later said he never knew the condemned man. Burke said nothing aside from words softly spoken in prayer as he was strapped into the chair.

The small and wiry Burke, who was often accused of murdering for hire, ran afoul of the law for keeps after he shot down his pal Edward (Poochie) Walsh in a West Side Manhattan bar in a fit of rage.

Witnesses said Walsh was slain after he tried to stop Burke from kicking a man in the face.

A probation report on Burke, a

World War II Ranger, said he proudly boasted of the only profession he ever knew—that of a strong-arm guy and triggerman feared by even the top-dog toughs along the New York waterfront.

Burke couldn't be found for questioning in the 1952 Walsh slaying. In 1954, he was arrested in Boston after he machine-gunned, but only wounded, Joseph (Spec) O'Keefe, a key figure in the million-dollar cash holdup of Brink's armored car service. Police said Burke had been hired to rub out O'Keefe to settle an underworld wangle over disposition of the Brink's loot.

Burke was jailed in Boston for possession of a machine gun, the only charge authorities could pin on him. On Aug. 25, 1954, he made a sensational prison break. A year later he was nabbed by the FBI at Folly Beach, S. C., then he was taken to New York City to stand trial for the Walsh slaying.

Then final word came from Albany, the state capital. Gov. Averell Harriman, who heard a clemency plea last August, said through a spokesman that he saw "no reason for clemency and no prospect for it."

Burke pleaded innocent to slaying Walsh on grounds he was temporarily insane, that the killing occurred during an alcoholic black-out.

Convicted Dec. 16, 1956, he was held in Sing Sing's death house. Several appeals, which included a ruling from the U. S. Supreme Court, proved fruitless.

Burke maintained his bravado throughout his death house stay until yesterday, when his tight-lipped composure cracked. Once he asked a prison attendant for any late news on a last-minute reprieve. But to another attendant who asked how he was doing, Burke said, "I'm hearing up."

Jerry Lewis' Movie Has 3 Generations

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Three generations of Lewises are working on Jerry's latest movie, but one is due for retirement. It was quite a family scene on the set of "Rock-a-Bye-Baby" over at Paramount. Frank Tashlin was directing a shot in which young Gary Lewis sings a song and dances over a hillside of spring flowers.

Also aiding in the direction was the producer of the picture, Jerry Lewis, who finds time to act in it too. Then there was his lovely wife, Patty, who brought along another son, Ronnie. Completing the family picture was Gary's grandfather, youthful-looking vaudeville veteran Danny Lewis, who also has a part in the movie.

The family group gathered in the Paramount commissary for lunch and discussed 12-year-old Gary's budding career, which is about to be nipped.

"This kid has only about 200 tons of talent," said proud papa Jerry. "It's just too bad it's going to be hidden until he grows up."

How's that?

"This will be Gary's farewell appearance until he graduates from college," Jerry said.

I asked Gary how he felt about that.

"I'll change his mind," the boy said, out of his father's hearing. He'll have some powerful campaigning to do, because Jerry seems pretty firm in his decision.

"I hate child actors," he said. "I mean the professional kind of child actor. The youngsters who are great as actors and who are really liked are the ones who do things naturally, who act without being actors. Gary is like that."

"But the trouble with most child actors is that they are pushed into acting by an ambitious parent. The kids become phony; they're subjected to all kinds of attention which they shouldn't have at their age. And they usually end up unhappy in their later lives."

"Gary doesn't have to act. He's going to have the advantage of the education I didn't have. I had to quit in the second grade of high school, not because I needed the money but because I couldn't be happy unless I was in show business."

"I've lived to regret it. I've had to adjust to situations I could have hoped with more easily if I had gone on in school."

Ayden Jaycees Prepare Some Long-Range Plans

AYDEN — Plans for the future and the results of previous planning were heard by the Ayden Jaycees at their meeting this week.

Preliminary plans were discussed for observation of Jaycee Week, Jan. 19 through 26, to include a Bosses' Night Banquet at the next meeting on Jan. 20 and the presentation of the Distinguished Service Award to an outstanding man in the community. According to President Marvin Baldree, more complete plans for the three proposed projects will be announced next week.

The Jaycees further voted to produce a Variety Show, with the help of the Jay-C-ettes, in the near future. The committee for this project includes Dr. Stephen Sudor, Floyd Rowe, Gordon Brunson and Chairman Boyd Elliott.

Jack Schrock, chairman of the Christmas Shopping Tour, gave a report and showed color slides taken of the tour. He noted that 24 children, both white and Negro, were given $5 to spend as they wished.

A total of $33 was donated by the public for the Tour through Dr. Floyd Cherry. The remaining $87, Schrock explained, was furnished by the Jaycees from proceeds from the light bulb sale.

The program for the meeting was presented by Van Dyke Hatch, Chairman of the Ayden March of Dimes drive. During the program, a film entitled "Survival Is Not Enough". The film depicted the disability of polio victims and their trials and tribulations.

"Although the Salk Polio Vaccine can prevent further crippling, providing people get this vaccination, a lot of money is still needed to support the medical care and rehabilitation of those already afflicted," Hatch related.

Following the program the Jaycees accepted the responsibility of helping the March of Dimes Chairman distribute advertising for the drive.

At Least We'll Equal Reds On Fashion Front

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN NEW YORK (AP)—Men, if the unpublished Gaiher Report has you worried about the shape of things to come, take heart in the findings of this top-secret Gunny Sack Report.

Murmansk Momma on her way to market in her greatcoat. No curves, no kinks, no wiggles, no jigzies. Just a bolt of cloth billowing in the breeze, or drooping in the doldrums, depending on wind conditions.

In closing the fashion gap, the bosom, derriere and other capitalistic tourist attractions have been relegated to the couturier's Siberia. Everything, but everything, has been left to the imagination.

Only when the curtain opened, instead of Rose La Rose or Lili St. Cyr in their native habitats, out stepped a trio of bored-looking strens in formless, knee-length pillow cases.

glove, and buried themselves in their form sheets. This is the offbeat look, the sophisticated, understated silhouette, cooed a strypp voice over the microphone. "Half witch and half wonderful. The crepe chemise: casual, comfortable, oh so chic. Retail for $110. We call this the 'midweek weekend look' because it's so versatile."

The models minced their way one by one down the runway with the peculiar lunny-out and hips-directed as the new look seemed to require, as if they had a strong wind at their backs and were about to run up an upstroker.

Several writers actually broke for the telephones in the best traditions of the press. Others took notes furiously or babbled in a jargon rife with words like "blouson," "scalloped" and "appliance."

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels, air crafts and rails lost ground in the stock market declined in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

Key issues were off from fractions to a point or so.

It was a continuation of a downward move which followed President Eisenhower's State of the Union message yesterday. Market analysts felt the economic aspects of the speech had been well discounted early in the week.

Meanwhile reports of layoffs and cutbacks in the automobile industry and a reduction in loanable funds of commercial banks backgrounded the market.

The successful firing of the Atlas missile gave the maker, General Dynamics a brief spurt of about a point. It lost this quickly and then fluctuated narrowly, showing fractional gains or losses.

Losers included Illinois Central, Gulf Oil, Union Carbide, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, General Motors, Kennecott and American Smelting.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 70 cents to $157.70 with the industrials down 90 cents, the rails down $1.10 and the utilities unchanged.

Sale Of License Tags Lagging Behind Last Year

RALEIGH (AP)—Possibly as a result of a new financial responsibility law which requires motorists, in effect, to have liability insurance on their automobiles, sale of North Carolina's 1958 license plates is running slower than last year.

Miss Foy Ingram, head of the Motor Vehicles Department's division of Registration, said today that although it will be 2 or 3 days before she has comparable figures, the tag sales are definitely lagging behind last year.

She warned motorists that unless they get busy and get their tags "they are going to be contending with terrific lines in the last days of the license renewal period."

She pointed out that long lines which appeared when the license tag sales were started last week have now virtually disappeared and those buying their tags now should have little trouble if they have their renewal card and their F-1 form which they must present as proof that their car is covered by liability insurance. Car owners, she added, should check to see that number on the renewal card agrees with one on the F-1 form.

Miss Ingram reminded motorists buying tags and particularly those getting theirs by mail order to be sure to include an additional dollar over the price they paid for their tags last year. The extra dollar was added by the 1957 Legislature to finance the cost of a driver training program in public schools.

Of some 8,400 mail order applications received by the Motor Vehicles Department here, Miss Ingram said that about 500 failed to include the extra dollar while the F-1 form was missing in only 162 of the applications.

Couple Observe 50th Anniversary

A golden theme was carried out when Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius (Coo) Moore of Simpson celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary December 26 at their home with their children as hosts.

More than 100 guests were greeted by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore of New York, and then directed to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Moore, their daughters, Mrs. Pauline Anderson, Mrs. Viola Boyd, Mrs. Hattie Smith and Mrs. Annie Moyer. Receiving the gifts were granddaughters, Misses Barbara Wilson and Falice Zepha and the bride's sister, Mrs. Zilphia Galtia.

Hosts for the occasion were their children: Mrs. Lillie Wilson of Grimesland, Mrs. Pauline Anderson of Greenville, Mrs. Ethel Keeps of New Bern, Mrs. Annie Moyer of Kinston, Mrs. Hattie Smith of Asheville, Mrs. Viola Boyd of Simpson, Mr. Clarence Moore of New York, Mr. Elbert Moore of the home and Mr. Carl Moore of Greenville. The eldest son, Mr. James Moore, who did not attend, resides in Baltimore, Md.

In keeping with occasion, a golden scheme was carried out in the decorations. Yellow carnations beaded the antique table which was covered with a white linen table cloth fringed with gold lace.

In the center were two golden chandeliers in which chandeliers burned brilliantly. A five-decked wedding cake was on the west end of the table.

The wedding gift, a colorful rocker, given by the groom on December 26, 1907, was admired by the guests.

Fruit punch was served by Mrs. Lillie Wilson. Other refreshments consisted of minis, salted nuts, party squares and ice cream.

Out-of-town guests were: Rev. J. A. Mimmo and wife of New Jersey, Mr. O. A. Dupree and family of Clinton, and Mrs. Lena Joyner and daughter of Farmville. Sons-and-daughters-in-law accompanied their wives and husbands.

City Takes No Action On Approving Of Route

No action was taken by the Council last night on a Highway Department request that the governing body go on record as favoring a change in the routing of N. C. 43.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam said the Division engineer of the Highway Department had requested the council to approve routing N. C. 43 along the U. S. 264 bypass to N. C. 11, along N. C. 11 to West End Circle, then down Memorial Drive to W. Fifth St. where it would intersect with the old route.

The highway, which goes to New Bern to the south and Rocky Mount to the north, previously entered the city on Charles St., followed Tenth St. to Dickinson Ave., Albemarle Ave. to Fifth St. and Fifth St. out of the city.

Actually the change in routing of the highway has already been made by the Highway Department. Signs along the old route have been removed and the N. C. 43 signs now direct traffic along the new route.

Bloxam said the change has been requested by the Highway Department "as a temporary means of relieving city congestion."

Bloxam said he and highway officials had driven the new and old routes and they had found the new route to be 2.1 miles further than the old one.

Councilmen have recommended that a new section of roadway be constructed for the highway. It would leave N. C. 11 south of Hillsdale and connect with the present N. C. 43 north of the intersection of that highway and U. S. 264.

Preliminary surveying of the new route has been done by the Highway Department but there has been no definite commitment as yet on construction of the new bypass.

The council employed George G. Scott and Co., Certified Public Accountants, to audit the city's books and records for the six months ending Dec. 31, 1957 and six months ending June 30, 1958. The company will be paid $250 at the completion of the Dec. 31 audit and $250 at the completion of the June 30 audit.

The company has been auditing city books for a number of years. Councilmen received for study an audit of the Pitt County Airport Commission books. They voted their approval.

Youth Quizzed In Rash Of Fires

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Authorities planned today further questioning of a 14-year-old youth—a psychiatric out-patient at the University of North Carolina Memorial Hospital—in connection with a rash of six fires which broke out on the university campus last night.

Police Capt. William D. Blake said the youth was released late last night in the custody of his mother but that he would be questioned further later in the day.

The most serious of the blazes caused extensive damage to Swain Hall, which houses the university's Communications Center, including the studios of the university's educational television station, WUNC-TV.

The other fires caused only minor damage, but the damage to Swain Hall was unofficially estimated in the neighborhood of $60,000. Officials were busy today assessing the damage which, a university official said, was covered by insurance.

Blake said in his opinion there was "no doubt" but that the fires were deliberately set.

Officers said that the 14-year-old was taken in custody after having been spotted at the scene of some of the fires.

The fire at Swain Hall broke out at 7:30 last night and firemen battled the blaze for about an hour. Three fires also broke out at the Carolina Inn, but were confined mostly to carpeting.

About $600 in damages was caused by a fire in a small wooden structure used as an annex to Hill Music Hall. The blaze broke out while firemen were fighting the blaze at Swain Hall. The first fire was discovered at Miller Hall in the afternoon with damage there slight.

The Miller building was built by the Navy during World War II as headquarters for Navy activities. It now houses a variety of offices. Swain Hall houses the university's radio and television stations, photographic laboratory and recording studio.

According to Pete Jevy, head of the university News Bureau, "quite a lot of television stuff was lost." However, no estimates of the damage to the building or equipment has been completed.

John Young, station director, said that until broadcasts can be resumed the church, athletic and school programs will be continued through the station's facilities at Greensboro and Raleigh and through remote control facilities.

The fire originated in the attic or second floor of the building and swept through the upper section.

Earl Wynn, head of the Communications Center who was teaching a class in the building just before the fire was discovered said he heard a "swosh" sound as he was about to dismiss his class. He saw flames coming down through the ceiling about two minutes later and heard a burst of wind.

Smoke and water damage, from the water poured on the fire by four Chapel Hill trucks, was extensive.

Students helped evacuate some of the equipment by passing it out the front door through a bucket brigade operation. Some valuable film was stored in the building, university officials said.
