$74 BILLION BUDGET IS OUTLINED

This Is Your Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's spending budget for fiscal 1959 comes to $427.56 for each American man, woman and child. Missiles alone—research, development, production, missile ships and construction for the program—will cost $30.67 per American. The national debt figure, estimated as of July 1 at $271,200,000,000, amounts to $1,469.44 for every person. The figures are based on the official Jan. 1 population estimate of 172,800,000.

Two Conditions Sent To Bulganin

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower held open the door to an East-West summit conference today with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin that "I am ready to meet" on two conditions. Eisenhower's reply to Bulganin also urged Soviet agreement to a far-ranging peace program that would end nuclear weapons manufacture and testing, curtail use of the United Nations veto and production of space age missiles, and dedicate outer space "to the peaceful uses of mankind."

Any top-level meeting, the President told the Premier, must be preceded by an airing of issues in negotiations among diplomats and foreign ministers. Furthermore, he said, these negotiations must show "good hope of advancing the cause of peace and justice in the world" by agreements at the summit. He thus rejected Bulganin's call last week for a meeting in three months.

Eisenhower's 4,000-word personal letter replied to one Bulganin sent him Dec. 10, but also clearly covered the essence of a second Bulganin note last week. Eisenhower rejected or discounted about eight proposals Bulganin had put forward, including those for an East-West nonaggression pact and a German-Polish-Czech zone free of nuclear weapons.

He accused Russia of a great error in failing to reunify Germany as agreed at the Geneva summit conference in 1955. He blamed the cold war on the "expansionist policy of Soviet communism." He pledged the United States would never engage in aggression and pointedly expressed hope that "the Soviet Union will feel a similar aversion to any kind of aggression."

Regard An 'If' As Better Than 'No'

LONDON (AP)—West European newspapers today expressed relief that President Eisenhower had kept alive the prospect of a summit conference on East-West problems. There also was some criticism of the contents of the President's letter to Soviet Premier Bulganin—a feeling that Eisenhower may have defined too carefully the conditions under which he would attend a meeting of government leaders.

Despite this, however, there was a general feeling in papers of various political hues that an "if" from Eisenhower was better than a "no" to Russia's propaganda hammering for East-West talks. Llewellyn Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Russia, delivered Eisenhower's 4,000-word reply to the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow. There was no immediate reaction in the Soviet press or radio. The Communist party organ Pravda published Bulganin's letters to the prime ministers of Belgium and Denmark but made no mention of the delivery of Eisenhower's reply.

It is usual Soviet practice to withhold publication of such communications or even comment on them until the Kremlin has replied. Eisenhower's letter drew more barbs from the British press than elsewhere. The Laborite Daily Herald asserted that U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, "with his eternal 'No, no, no' is becoming as great a menace to peace as was Mr. Molotov in the first years after the war."

The Liberal Manchester Guardian took this editorial view: "Mr. Dulles seems to have won. The reply by President Eisenhower . . . leaves little hope that there can soon be fruitful negotiations at the summit."

The Conservative Daily Mail said the letter contained "no answering challenge." The Paris papers were kinder. The Conservatif Figaro predicted the French public would greet the President's reply with "satisfaction and relief."

Italian papers gave Eisenhower's letter wide play. Italy's non-Communist press reacted similarly to journals in other European countries. Rome's Il Tempo carried this banner line: "Eisenhower accepts a meeting with Bulganin and suggests six proposals for discussion."

Nearly Two-Thirds Is Assigned Defense

By ED CREAUGH WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower sent Congress today a record peacetime budget just short of 74 billion dollars. He said by far the largest part of it, almost two thirds, is for defense against growing danger from Russia in the dawning age of space conquest. The President disclosed that the government now expects to wind up in the red for the fiscal year ending June 30. He announced his intention to ask for a short-term increase—he didn't say how much—in the present 275-billion-dollar limit on the national debt.

But he voiced confidence business will pick up and tax receipts will increase so that the new $73,900,000,000 budget, for the 1958-59 fiscal year, will be in balance. He said he expects a surplus of half a billion dollars or so, compared with the 400-million-dollar deficit now in sight for this year. One surprise in the President's proposals for government spending and revenue-collecting: He called for a 5-cent postage rate on all out-of-town first-class letters. Congress so far has rejected even his previous call for raising stamp prices from 3 to 4 cents for local and out-of-town letters alike.

The White House announced in advance that Eisenhower's budget message, which ran to some 22,000 words with a mass of figures attached, would outline a domestic program largely passed over in last Thursday's State of the Union message. It did, like the earlier message, put heaviest emphasis on security matters with a $39,800,000,000 request for the armed forces alone. With this expected boost, almost two billion dollars higher than last January's estimate, Eisenhower asked:

1. A $3,800,000,000 stepup in spending for missile and nuclear weapon research and production. This would give the Pentagon an extra $1,300,000,000 to spend as soon as the money was appropriated, plus 2 1/2 billions more than it now has on hand for 1958-59. 2. A 500-million-dollar reserve fund to rush development of any breakthroughs in the weapons field, together with authority to switch two billion dollars around within the armed services "in order to take prompt advantage of new developments."

3. For foreign military and related aid, $3,888,000,000 to be spent in the coming fiscal year. This is a 119-million-dollar increase over the current figure. The proposal looks like one of the hottest issues to come before the new Congress. All told, the President's new budget calls for 1958-59 spending at more than a billion dollars over the current rate, even allowing for recent speedups in missile and other weapons programs. The current spending program, running at $72,800,000,000 a year, is the highest in American peacetime history. Eisenhower called for cutbacks as well as increases in the new budget. For the armed forces, he recommended a 15-billion-dollar slash in manpower, installations and older-type weapons, including B52 bombers and some other aircraft. He proposed "curtailments, revisions or eliminations" of many nonmilitary programs, ranging from federal payments to farmers to expenditures for war veteran services and benefits. Eisenhower said: "Americans have a tradition of unity in action when their freedoms and welfare are threatened. We do not shirk our clear responsibilities when new challenges arise. I feel confident that this budget expresses the way in which the American people will want to respond to the promises and dangers of the dawning age of space conquest."

He told Congress too his program reflected the administration's "gradually but substantially" changing emphasis in the light of "growing danger" from Russian military advances. Sixty-four per cent of the new budget is devoted to "protection"—armed forces, military aid to allies and the like—compared with 63 per cent of the current budget. As the White House forecast earlier, no general tax increases are proposed. Eisenhower suggested, in fact, some tax cuts to aid small business, while recommending higher taxes on aviation fuels to reduce the cost to the government of its activities in the air traffic field.

Likewise, the President included in his message a previously announced plan for a four-year, $1-billion-dollar program aimed at helping states improve education standards. But he said he was not repeating at this time his proposal—which failed to win approval in Congress last year—of federal aid for school construction. He came up with at least one recommendation which, like his foreign aid plan, is sure to meet opposition: a five-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, with more power for the President to make tariff-cutting agreements with other countries. Congress has shown reluctance to grant this in past years. On the cutback side of the budget, Eisenhower's proposals included: 1. A 300-million-dollar cut in farm program spending, bringing the estimated total to $4,600,000,000. He said "important revisions" are needed in price support, conservation and rural credit programs, and added he would give details in a special message later. His budget message did, however, propose ending the acreage reserve program at the end of the 1958 crop year. 2. A 22-million-dollar drop in veterans' expenditures. This would bring the cost next year to about five billion dollars. Eisenhower said the cut would be possible because of "a decline in the readjustment needs of veterans of the Korean War and from economies in operations."

3. Higher interest rates on government-insured or guaranteed mortgages and similar loans. The President urged that private financing be substituted for government loans and mortgage purchases wherever possible. In general, he made a strong appeal for state and private bodies to take over whatever federal programs they can. Eisenhower struck a tight-budget note from the start of his budget message, saying that while science has opened new vistas to mankind in recent months this "is also a time of growing danger."

"The progress of the Soviets in long-range missiles and other offensive weapons," he said, "together with their continuing rejection of a workable disarmament, compels us to increase certain of our defense activities which we have only recently expanded many fold. . . . The total expenditures for missile research, development and procurement, for guided missile ships, and for missile-related construction will be $4,300,000,000 (fiscal) 1958 and $5,300,000,000 in 1959, compared with three billion spent in 1957, $1,700,000,000 in 1956, and $1,200,000,000 in 1955."

Washington (AP)—Military spending of a peacetime record $39,779,000,000 next year was asked by President Eisenhower today to add what he called "new dimensions . . . to our defenses." Submitting to Congress his budget for the year starting July 1, he said it reflects the great impact of science on modern military power. "The tempo of change is increasing and the change during the coming year will be greater than in any preceding year," he said. Missiles are soaring toward dominance in the American arsenal. The outlay for their production and development will be $3,314,000,000, already almost half the total for airplanes. Almost half the total missile outlay will be for ballistic weapons where the race with Russia is keenest. The proposed spending increase over this year is modest—918 million dollars. The difference is in the way the money would be spent. For the first time, the words "military satellite" and "outer space vehicles" appear in the budget message as part of future planning. Military manpower is headed for still another cutback. The 83,000-man reduction would include 30,000 in the Army, 28,000 in the Navy and Marine Corps, and 25,000 in the Air Force. As missiles increase, aircraft diminish—fewer combat wings, fewer planes. But "all fighters and bombers proposed for procurement with 1959 appropriations will be capable of supersonic speeds," Eisenhower said. That means the end of new orders for the subsonic all-jet B52 bomber when the presently planned total of 600 is reached. The Air Force unit strength would be trimmed from a present 130 wings to 105 by the end of the next fiscal year, its inventory of planes cut by more than 1,200 from today's nearly 22,000. Biggest cut would be in the Tactical Air Command—a reduction from 45 to 35 wings. Two reasons are behind this: the increasing use of missiles to supplant aircraft in support of Army ground forces, and a shrinkage in the ground forces themselves. The Air Defense Command, which operates the interceptor force, would lose one wing, 28-

'New Dimension' Reflects Change In Military Costs

ducing it to 27 wings. The reason: more anti-aircraft missiles, like the new long-range Bomarc and the close-in Nike. The Strategic Air Command, operators of the long and medium range nuclear striking force, will drop one wing for a total of 43, with the cut apparently in the present five-wing reconnaissance force. The B52 force will stay at the planned strength of 11 wings. The new B58 supersonic medium bomber will be procured in "production quantities," in the words of a defense official. The budget also asks funds to go forward with the new "chemical fuel" long-range bomber, an aircraft designed for 2,000 m.p.h. speed and able to reach Russia and return to U.S. bases, nonstop.

A new ballistic missile detection system would be started, along with expansion and improvement of the early warning radar network built to detect bomber attacks. For tomorrow's warfare in space, "Eisenhower referred to the soon-to-be-formed "Advanced Research Projects Agency." Funds are provided for an expanded research and development effort on military satellites and other outer space vehicles, and on anti-missile missile defense systems, to be carried out directly under the secretary of defense," he said.

As part of a $1,370,000,000 supplement to the present fiscal 1958 budget, the President proposes to provide 10 million dollars to start up ARPA, plus an authorization to tap unexpended balances of the armed forces. In the new budget, 340 million dollars would be added to these funds. The Navy will be provided a shipbuilding program of 23 vessels, plus the conversion of eight ships. The new ship program will include a nuclear-propelled submarine equipped for firing the Regulus guided missile, four other atomic-powered subs, and the Navy's first nuclear-powered frigate for use in anti-submarine work.

The spending budgets for the three services look like this: Army—Present budget estimated at $9,043,000,000; new budget $8,890,000,000. Air Force—Present $18,441,000,000; new $18,736,000,000.

Profit - Sharing Is Offered By UAW

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—The United Auto Workers called today for a profit-sharing plan in 1959 wage contracts, and postponed demands for a shorter work week. The union's proposed profit-sharing would begin when a manufacturer's profits topped 10 per cent, before taxes, on net capital. Corporate executives, stockholders, workers and consumers would be included in any sharing.

Plan Improving Of Court System

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The chairman of a committee studying North Carolina's judicial system says North Carolina local courts are a hodge podge. A preliminary study by the committee, says J. Spencer Bell of Charlotte, "has brought out that courts inferior to the Superior Court (local courts) are of such widely-varying types that it is almost literally true that the 100 counties of the state present 100 different court patterns."

Bell announced last night that the group of lawyers and laymen named by the North Carolina Bar Assn. has endorsed unanimously the idea of a unified court system for the state, properly administered. The endorsement came after the committee considered preliminary reports of subcommittees on court structure and jurisdiction, and on court administration. These subcommittees expect to have ready for the committee's next meeting the second week in February their recommendations for achieving their recommendations for achieving this "modern and efficient court system for North Carolina."

The complete report will be made to the bar association in June. The full group is called the Committee on Improving and Expediting the Administration of Justice.

Truman Declares Eisenhower Leadership Has Weak Points

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says President Eisenhower "was a great military commander in Europe and in NATO, when he had someone to tell him what to do." "He is a fine, honorable gentleman," Truman said of the President yesterday before launching into an attack on the President's leadership ability. "Who told him what to do?" Truman was asked by a newsman. "The commander in chief."

"You were commander in chief?" "Yes," Truman replied, saying, however, that that was not the point he wished to stress. "I do not think President Eisenhower is a good policy maker, and he doesn't carry out the policies he does make," the former President told reporters gathered in the lobby of a Manhattan hotel. The newsmen were there to accompany Truman on his usual morning walk, which he passed up to work on scheduled speeches.

House Heavily Damaged By Fire Here Saturday

Considerable fire damage was done to a dwelling at 432 W. Third St. Saturday afternoon. The flames, believed to have started from an oil cook stove, burned out the kitchen, back porch, a bed room and part of a hall in the house. In addition the entire house received smoke and water damage. Owner and occupant of the dwelling is Beulah Staton, firemen reported.

Fire fighters received a telephone call to the blaze and an alarm was sounded. Three trucks were dispatched to the scene. Using booster lines and a one-and-a-half inch hose line, the fire fighters brought the flames under control within minutes after they arrived at the scene. However, the fire sent columns of smoke high into the air visible to Saturday afternoon shoppers in the business district before it was brought under control. The call came in shortly after 3:30 and the flames had been extinguished by 4:05. There was some insurance on the loss, firemen reported.

Earlier in the afternoon fire trucks were sent to Dickinson and Line Aves. where a smudge pot set point on a truck fire. The truck was owned by Junis White and operated by Lester Best.

Rep. Jonas Will Seek 4th Term

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Rep. Charles R. Jonas, North Carolina's only Republican congressman, says he will run next year for a fourth term in the 10th District, despite the conditions under which he would attend a meeting of government leaders. Despite this, however, there was a general feeling in papers of various political hues that an "if" from Eisenhower was better than a "no" to Russia's propaganda hammering for East-West talks.

Greenville Man Died In Blaze

ASHEVILLE—Charles A. Atkinson, 50-year-old Negro tobacco worker of 129-B McClellan St., Greenville, was found dead in his apartment here yesterday. According to investigating officers Atkinson died from asphyxiation and burning. His body burned in a chair in his rooming house quarters. A small portable oil stove in the room somehow tipped over, authorities said, and flashed into spreading flames and deadly fumes throughout the interior of the room. Atkinson's companion, Roger Raymond, 32, of Kinston, also died in the blaze. His body was found stretched out on one of the beds near the overturned stove. Both were reported to be employees of Day's Tobacco Warehouses, located here.

Nineten Tons Of Matches On Ship Are Afire

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A ship with 19 tons of burning matches aboard anchored in the Cape Fear River off Wilmington yesterday and asked for help to fight the fire. Crewmen aboard the U.S. Lines vessel S. S. Southland said the blaze broke out in the cargo of matches Jan. 6. It was put out yesterday by ship personnel, Wilmington firemen and a crew from the Coast Guard cutter Mendota. There were no injuries reported. Coast Guard officials said the fire probably started during heavy weather at sea. The vessel was bound from Antwerp, Belgium, to Wilmington. The cargo of matches made up only a portion of what was classified as general cargo aboard the 8,000 gross ton ship. A damage estimate could not be obtained.

Obvious Pianist Enjoys Piano, Music

By GEORGE E. FERRY

Wolfgang Fetsch is obviously a pianist who enjoys the piano and the music written for that instrument. This quality was much in evidence yesterday afternoon, when he made his initial appearance in Greenville.

His approach to the piano was quite similar to that of Rudolf Serkin's, and I am happy to say that this was not just my observation, but that of others whose opinions I value. Like Serkin, he made his entrance in a similar fashion, approaching the piano with humility and love, yet with assurance. Once at the keyboard, he was consciously intent on making his music speak, on immersing himself into the score with the intention that the contents therein be wholly extracted, and through his musical intelligence be conveyed to his audience.

He did some beautiful playing, and this was evidenced not only in his hands, but in his face, and at times in his entire body. His European background was equally in evidence, for those inoculated with the old-world traditions cannot help but impart this influence into their performances.

Throughout his program he showed consistent composure and musical introspection. There was certainly no lack of technique; he has a pair of well-governed hands, and they seemed to do just about what he wanted them to.

He has an abundance of musicianship; no matter where the melody lies, no matter how covered or surrounded with other material it may be, he always succeeds in finding it, and in putting it across with attention to phrasing, rise and fall, and discreet dynamic contrast. I say discreet, for he never seemed to use dynamics purely for an effect, nor did he ever over-do a crescendo, diminuendo, or nuance.

He was very careful of phrase releases, and on many instances did a beautiful job of tapering them. Along these lines, he used the damper pedal, and the other pedals most adroitly. Only in a couple instances did a pedal-blur occur where it seemed ill-placed. His tone was consistently appropriate to the selection; so was his touch, except in a very few measures where a melodic line in octaves would have hung together better had greater attention been paid to a stricter legato.

The Mozart Variations in G, K. 455, which opened the program were almost immaculately played. Clarity, articulation, balance, delicacy, accuracy—all these characterized his performance of this work. The style was relaxed yet sufficiently intent; in only one spot of passage work did any unevenness occur, but it hardly detracted from the overall picture. The interpretation was warm, yet never digressing beyond the boundaries of the classic style.

Ravel's "Miroirs" in its five-part entirety made up the second work on the program. Here he captured the essence of impressionism in all of its aspects. Tonally, interpretively, musically, it seemed right in line with recognized performances of this opus.

The traditional pedal-blur was used wisely and with good effect; the passage-work was shimmering, and the melodic line always stood out in appropriate contrast yet not so far out as to be unrelated. The dynamic work, the shadings, the subtleties were all tastefully cared for. In number five, however, as the right hand begins the motion and sound of the small distant bells, a strict legato—a

Traveling Mother Builds Home Here For Husband, Seven Children

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor

Mrs. E. J. Maloney is one woman who is completely satisfied with her job—all seven facets of it. The seven facets are her seven stair-stepped children, ranging in age from four months to 13 years of age.

A love of children and an ability to greet each day as it comes are the keys to her success. She feels, "It is a blessing to have seven healthy children."

Helping Hands
One advantage of her large family is the many helping hands. Each of the children has assigned duties down to 23-month-old Bobby who is an expert "diaper fetcher."

"I like to let them all have a smattering of household duties and responsibilities," explained this attractive mother. Using a rotating system, the older children are all capable of baking, cleaning, and caring for their younger brothers and sisters.

Every morning the three oldest children—Eileen, 13, Carol, 9, and Jimmy, 11—make their own beds and keep their appointed clothes and possessions in order.

Being the oldest, Eileen is practically a professional baby sitter now. Whenever she cares for the younger children during the evening she is paid a designated rate. In this way she earns her spending money.

"Although their father is the disciplinarian of the home, the older children often attend to unpleasant situations by reminding the younger ones what they are not allowed to do, thus curbing some of the discipline before it reaches me," pointed out Mrs. Maloney.

Her husband, Lt. Col. Maloney, is an Air Force career officer and Professor of Air Science at East Carolina College.

Many Birthplaces
Constant moves to various AF bases throughout the United States, Europe, and the Far East have resulted in the children each claiming a different locale as their birthplace with the exception of Diane and Bobby who were both born in Greenville.

Eileen was born in Missouri; Jimmy in Colorado; Carol, Germany; Richard, Massachusetts; and David in Japan.

Living in a host of towns and abroad has a definite effect on the children. Not only can the older children speak foreign words, but they have acquired a marked amount of poise and independence as a result of frequent meetings of new friends and communities.

Mementoes
Many souvenirs of overseas travel are highlights of their home at 203 Glenwood Drive. Their living room furniture and handsome brass candelabras were purchased in Japan.

Colonel Maloney has a unique set of steins he collected in Germany. Many of their linens and silver are also products of their tour of duty in Germany.

From each country they have visited Mrs. Maloney has added a few more pieces to her collection of quaint coffee spoons. But the parents are not the only ones to collect. The daughters also have their own collection of native dolls from the various corners of the world where they have lived.

Various Outlets
Many women with seven children would resign themselves to infrequent outings—but not this versatile homemaker.

Living in Greenville approximately two years, she has already joined seven organizations and St. Peter's Catholic Church.

Last year she served as secretary-treasurer of St. Raphael's Parent-Teacher Association and while in Japan she was a Brownie Troop leader.

Presently she is a member of two bridge clubs, the Druidian Garden Club, two PTA groups, Women of the Moose, and the Faculty Wives Club.

During her busy, happy days she also finds time for her hobby—sewing. She makes all of her three daughters' clothes, many of her own, and has recently finished slip-covering all of the living room furniture, and making dust ruffles and drapes for the bedrooms.

Originally from Colorado, Mrs. Maloney and her eight seasoned travelers have had little difficulty adjusting to new homes in new places.

And, although they think with regret of the time when they will be transferred from here, each new assignment is greeted like an exciting adventure by the entire family.

ASSISTANCE—Each of the older children have specific household duties. Eileen and Carol are shown above preparing the table for the evening meal.

Parental Role Is Something Else

American adults would have less real cause for terms of other countries over ours, it lies in the fact concern over the shortage of school classrooms, the that youngsters who are given educational opportuni-

More than a year ago one of North Carolina's that it is the accepted attitude that a child's education leading educators asserted the greatest need of the begins and ends in the classroom? Have we not placed state's school system was a couple of million extra too much emphasis on what the child is expected to hours devoted to school home work by the youngsters gain from the classroom and too little emphasis on what he is expected to gain from homework outside the classroom?

Today's youngsters have a great many more educational opportunities than their parents. Even in public schools they have a wider variety of courses than their parents had, they have better equipped facilities in which to learn, and they have better prepared teachers to instruct them. They lack, however, the self-discipline which constrains them to spend sufficient hours outside the classrooms on their school work.

This is not the fault of the teachers. It is the fault of parents.

The educational system of no other nation can begin to compare with that of the United States. In no other country does the percentage of youngsters who attend school approach that in the United States. Yet there have been alarming reports recently that in Russia and other countries youngsters are better educated than they are here. In time, these reports say, the balance will be in favor of other nations, not the United States.

If there is an advantage in the educational sys-

Have we reached the point in the United States that it is the accepted attitude that a child's education leading educators asserted the greatest need of the begins and ends in the classroom? Have we not placed state's school system was a couple of million extra too much emphasis on what the child is expected to hours devoted to school home work by the youngsters gain from the classroom and too little emphasis on what he is expected to gain from homework outside the classroom?

If American parents are to make a real contribution to public school education, they must concern themselves as much with the number of hours Johnny spends on homework as they do with the number of pupils in Johnny's room at school. They must concern themselves as much with Johnny's study habits at home as they do with methods of instruction used by the teacher in the classroom.

We need more classrooms and more teachers, to be sure. But these will contribute little to raising our educational standards unless we also have more parents who see that their youngsters become better students.

Aggressive Air In Three Areas

By ELMER ROESSNER
Aggressions are building up in three domestic areas. These aggressions preclude this from becoming another Era of Good Feeling. Instead, this may go down in history as the Year of Animosity.

The areas of disagreement are these:

LABOR — What is the status of organized labor in North Carolina at the beginning of 1958? How does Labor, spelled with a big L, fit into the program for state industrial development? What influence do labor organizations have upon the overall problem of racial relations?

These three basic questions, along with numerous related inquiries, were propounded the other day by a group of employers, both in and out of state, interested in expanding operations here.

Frankly, the questions caught your reporter "cold". He had not thought much about that particular angle. So he sought information by asking people who ought to know. He has interviewed union members and non-union workers, operators of closed and open shops, and some of the folks who are trying to sell North Carolina as a good place to establish business.

Some definite conclusions have been reached, based on these interviews. First, and perhaps most significant, is that organized labor is more concerned right now with holding the line than in efforts to extend control over workers. That conclusion is based on the facts that several contemplated elections in non-union shops have been canceled, and that very few work-stoppage strikes have been called in North Carolina within the past year, except by orders or request of out-of-state union leaders. Several elections held under NLRB have resulted in majorities against the unions. There was no effort and less talk about repealing the "Right to Work" law in the last Legislature than any time since it was enacted in 1947.

SATISFIED — This acceptance of conditions does not mean that either organized labor or management is entirely satisfied with existing conditions. Labor would like to have more complete organization of workers and management would like to have less union influence, although in many instances management prefers to deal with representatives of workers groups rather than with every individual employee.

The labor-management picture in North Carolina as 1958 gets under way is not much different than it was last year. Perhaps there is slightly less prospect of work stoppages by reason of strikes, because jobs are harder to get. It is also true that for most part operators of non-union plants have accorded workers about as many advantages and benefits as unions have obtained for their members.

prices, families cut buying. They don't strike; they just run out of money. But it seems like a strike and it amounts to the same thing.

Such situations spread business ailments and discontent, tending to worsen relations between merchants and their customers. OLD PROMOTER DESIGNS A PERMANENT PRESENT

After facing facts about those building-up aggressions, it was pleasant to see the Old Promoter walk in with a smile and a new invention. It was a silver gadget mounted on a board.

"This is my P.P. — a permanent present," he said. "The board can be used for cheese or canapes. The bowl can be used for dips, ice, cocktail franks, gravy, sauces, flowers or salad. It can be used as a centerpiece by floating a rose in it and putting candles in these holders at the edge."

When we recovered a bit, we said, "It's ingenious, but isn't it a bit on the awful side? Would anyone dare use it?"

"Of course not," he said. "That's the point. You buy one for your aunt's birthday. She gasps, puts it back in the box and sends it to a cousin for her wedding. The cousin contributes it to a church sale. The buyer uses it as a gift to a weekend hostess. And so it goes, a permanent present."

The old boy may have something there.

INSECTS NO HELP TO INCOME TAX PAYERS

When a storm destroys a tree, its value is deductible as a loss by casualty in calculating income taxes. But if the tree is killed by insects, its value is not deductible, according to a new ruling by the Internal Revenue Service. In the same way, the value of a house destroyed by fire is deductible, but the value of one gnawed away by termites is not.

If this were true, then instead of increasing wages by a few percentage points, it would be better to double them, far better to triple them. For boundless prosperity, employers might square the digits and raise $80-a-week factory hands to $7,921.

Management, however, doesn't see it that way. Most employers think that raising the pay of everybody would simply be a sort of numbers game, because prices would rise just as much. And raising the pay of only the 15,000,000 or so unionized men would both tend to increase prices and reduce everybody else's share of production.

So you'll see strikes and possible violence this year. CONSUMERS PRESSED

Consumers. While personal income and employment have been declining, prices of consumer goods have been advancing. At the moment, apparel prices are down, largely because of post-Christmas clearances. On the other hand, food prices have been rising and government predictions are for still further rises. Rents are continuing their gradual upward trend. Utilities have given higher rates in many areas. Net prices on autos are down but will probably recover with good weather.

There has been a lot of talk from time to time about consumers' strikes but, as a matter of fact, there has never been a widespread, organized consumer strike or boycott.

But when declines in family income coincide with rises in tyrannical by indulging them. Such people have to recognize the fact that they have an emotional weakness, just as some other members of their family may have a weakness of sight or of hearing or of a sluggish digestion. Something has to be done about situations that keep us from happiness and efficiency.

The moody person has to do a whole host of things to overcome his weakness. He has to recognize that he is moody and that his moods constitute a problem. Then he is in a position to handle his moods.

I shall try tomorrow to outline the course I think the moody person must take if he would rise above his moods.

Things Columnists Learn

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That Americans pay 100 million dollars a year for the relief of insomnia. But the late W.C. Fields found the best cure for this ailment years ago. His prescription: "Get more sleep."

That British horticulturists say freckles among Britain's flowers have increased five times normal in the last year. They believe this may be due to radioactive fallout.

That Kate Smith, after 27 years is dropping "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain" as her theme song. She is just plain tired of it after singing it 10,000 times.

That there are more than 600 casket makers and 25,000 funeral parlors in the United States—a consoling thought when you feel nobody really wants you.

That for some reason the kosher pickle business is doing great in India.

That the Duke of Edinburgh, who ought to know, once said: "Discipline is the force which causes a man to play the part required of him in the organization to which he belongs."

That if you ever have to shoot a werewolf be sure to use a silver bullet. According to legend, wolfbane will keep a werewolf away, but it can be destroyed only by a silver-tipped object.

That in Britain each year more people commit suicide than are killed in highway accidents.

That you will blink your eyes about two million times in 1958.

That a Sixth Ave. shop here specializing in back numbers of magazines and newspapers has this sign: "Read yesterday's news tomorrow!"

That tea-drinking Tokyo now has 4,000 coffee shops.

That a researcher has found the divorce rate among penguins is about 10 per cent. They get along together better than people.

That baking soda is an excellent fire extinguisher—particularly if the fire is in your stomach.

That comedian George de Wit sums up the march of science thusly: "Modern man has the genius to make rain but lacks the common sense to come out of it."

That in England a run in a woman's stocking is called a ladder.

That during 1957 U.S. scholarships totaling more than 1 1/2 million dollars were awarded to 765 of those young Hungarian refugees who were fighters for freedom.

That a big spender really has a whale of a time in the Fiji Islands. Whale teeth are used for money there.

That the biggest baby sitting bargain in 1958 will be the World's Fair in Brussels, Belgium. Parents can park their kids all day at a nursery for only 20 cents each.

That in Morocco young boys catch butterflies and rub their wings against their cheeks, in the belief this will speed the growth of a beard, a symbol of strength there.

That if all businessmen filed copies of their expense accounts with their income tax returns it would make a paper mountain 15 miles high.

That it was Francis Bacon who observed long ago: "Prosperity is not without many fears and distastes; and adversity is not without comforts and hopes."

Other Editors Saying --- Sleep

Lynchburg (Va.) News

Undoubtedly there are many published studies about sleeping requirements, sleeping habits, the variation of these in human beings, though we have never seen them. Without such erudite guides one can only speculate on such matters, other than for what is derived from personal experience. And to speculate is to think of many oddities.

It is a human tendency to catch a few more minutes of sleep, although it is time to get up in order to begin the day's activities in a rush. Once out of bed there is a routine to follow until time to sit for breakfast. Then a glance at the clock and the rush begins. Breakfast is eaten hurriedly, followed by a rush to the place to work, and a too hurried effort to begin what has to be done.

An hour or so of this and the coffee break brings respite and at least an illusion of renewed energy. Then comes lunch, for another rush or relaxation according to how the work has gone. After lunch, either there is a nap or a long period of fighting off the desire for one. A mid-afternoon break for coffee or whatnot, is a pause to prepare for ending the day's work and going home — this, too, calling for another rush.

Then everything smooths out. Dinner, reading, TV, games a movie, anything for diversion and suddenly it is quite late, meaning that you will not get enough sleep once more, and in the morning the temptation to oversleep will be repeated.

An odd thing, the human being rarely discovers what a fine thing the morning can be after enough sleep, an early rising, and a reasonable preparation for the day. Most four-footed animals know better, or at least act as if they do.

Quote ...

"Why are we behind the times? The answer is obvious. The American people, in their headlong rush into materialism, have forgotten that progress for the satisfaction of human vanities is shaky progress, and that until we place values on exploration, research, intellectual discipline and progress for humanity, we can expect to continue to be behind the times. And these things do not start at the top, seeping down to us at the grass roots, but rather, they start at the grass roots and surge upward in direct ratio to our degree of interest and activity." — Collinsville, Conn., Farmington Valley Herald.

More Than Slogans

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — I shall begin the New Year by discussing something far more important than stocks, bonds, real estate, or mortgages. My text will be the slogan which President Eisenhower brought back from Paris, namely,

STRENGTH WITH PEACE

What is strength? We all know that it consists of something far more than and very different from guns, navies, airplanes, or missiles. Yet, these are the things that we read about chiefly in the newspapers and magazines. This is the "strength" which physicists, engineers, and metallurgists are called to Washington to discuss.

This situation must be changed. Yet, my able friend President Killian of my Alma Mater — the Massachusetts Institute of Technology — has been brought to Washington amid much applause to aid in producing such material strength, not the real strength. This whole trend seems cockeyed to me. Neither America nor Russia will win with this kind of strength. I am very serious about this.

REAL STRENGTH COMES FROM WHAT?

Real strength comes from Courage, Faith, Hardiness, and Rejoicing in Sacrifice. Have we got this strength? Are any civil men being called to Washington to instill this strength in our people? Our unbalanced setup is foolish and dangerous. More scientists will not save us. Our missiles, costing millions of dollars each, may be no more effective than the Great Wall of China or the Maginot Line of France.

Instead of training our youth for Courage, the training of our homes, schools, and even churches is for softness. Our manufacturers and merchants advertise "easy living"; our schools provide "plush" accommodations; our automobiles must have power steering, automatic brakes, and push-button windows. We are the world's worst example of "training for softness" rather than for strength.

(Exceptions are our marines and certain others of our armed services. — only about one per cent of our population. Furthermore, these men know nothing of hardship until they enter the service after their habits have been formed.)

SOME EXAMPLES OF OUR FOOLISHNESS

In recent issues of a great magazine I find these significant advertisements: A "baby nipple which will keep the baby from dirtying its bib or dress." My comment is that when I spilled my food, my hands got a good soap! Another advertisement reads: "A baby blanket of ground and mixed that the child does not need to chew! Over 350,000 copies of juvenile books were published in 1957, breaking $80,000,000. About one in every three books now published are to amuse children and take them away from TV.

We send our children to school in busses and keep them awake with gymnasies. Children are practically born in automobiles; walking is becoming a lost art. As a result, the retail trade of our cities may be ruined by the parking problem. Finally, youth is no longer getting its social life in such outdoor games as were formerly common, but rather in cocktail parties that leave them a "hangover" which is undermining health, character, and industry. Accompanying this course, labor leaders state that their motto for 1958 is "Less work, higher wages, and more comforts."

Trend Toward Eastern N. C.

By LYNN NISBET

EAST — Appointment of J.C. Eagles Jr. of Wilson as chairman of the tax study commission gives that group a definite Eastern North Carolina complexion.

Eagles was appointed in place of Brandon P. Hodges of Asheville, deceased. A few days earlier Governor Hodges had appointed Alonzo C. Edwards of Hookerton in place of B. Flake Shaw of Greensboro, deceased.

As presently constituted the commission has two members from the west, one from the central area and six from east of Raleigh.

The members are: D.W. Royter of Shelby, a petroleum transportation operator; Harold Myrick of Lincoln, banker; W.H. Holderness of Greensboro, tax attorney; Dal Alford of Rocky Mount, insurance and real estate and chairman of the N.C. Association of County Commissioners; A.K. Barrus of Kinston, contractor; J.C. Eagles Jr. of Wilson, farmer and tobacco warehouseman; A.C. Edwards of Hookerton, farmer-business man and executive vice president N.C. Farm Bureau; Frank Pittman of Scotland Neck, farmer-merchant and legislator; J.A. Speight of Windsor, farmer and legislator.

The heavy eastern ratio does not mean the commission will have a sectional viewpoint. Chairman Eagles has served four terms in the General Assembly, two of them as chairman of the Senate appropriations committee. He will resign as chairman but retain membership on the advisory budget commission.

Edwards has had eight terms in the Legislature, two four year terms on the advisory budget commission and six years on the State Board of Education. These activities, as well as presidency and chief executive officer of the Farm Bureau give him a statewide viewpoint. Pittman and Speight are both veteran legislators with active service on the House finance committee.

DIVERSE — The five non-agricultural members of the study commission have widely diverse business experience. Noticeable lacking is representation of big corporate industrial interests. That is explained by the fact that the former commission devoted major attention to corporation taxes, and its recommendations were largely written into the 1957 revenue act.

A separate commission has been authorized and appointed to study the problems of municipal government, including relations with the State and state policies.

It logically follows that primary concern of the present tax study commission will be the status of the rank and file individual citizen, small business man and farmer. It would seem that for such purpose Governor Hodges has chosen men well qualified to do the job.

LABOR — What is the status of organized labor in North Carolina at the beginning of 1958? How does Labor, spelled with a big L, fit into the program for state industrial development? What influence do labor organizations have upon the overall problem of racial relations?

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE PROBLEM OF MOODINESS

Can we master our moods? Yes, it is true that some people have more moods and stronger moods to master than others. Some people have the good fortune not to be moody at all. From the time they are born until they die, their lives are lived on a certain level—from which they seldom descend and above which they seldom ascend. Such people may have many problems, but they do not have the problems which come with moodiness.

But some people are born moody, and some acquire moodiness, and some make their moods a thousand times more tyrannical by indulging them. Such people have to recognize the fact that they have an emotional weakness, just as some other members of their family may have a weakness of sight or of hearing or of a sluggish digestion. Something has to be done about situations that keep us from happiness and efficiency.

The moody person has to do a whole host of things to overcome his weakness. He has to recognize that he is moody and that his moods constitute a problem. Then he is in a position to handle his moods.

I shall try tomorrow to outline the course I think the moody person must take if he would rise above his moods.

Rising Pressure For Summit Talk

By CONSTANTINE BROWN

WASHINGTON Secretary of State Dulles told members of the Foreign Affairs and Foreign Relations Committees that there can be no advantage in the Western heads of states meeting their Soviet counterparts unless all outstanding questions have been settled first through ordinary diplomatic channels and then at a foreign ministers meeting.

Only after all important subjects have been discussed and agreed on, with strong safeguards against a double-cross such as occurred after the Yalta, Potsdam and Geneva Conferences, might it be advisable for the heads of state to meet to toast the agreements.

Despite these sound ideas, the administration is under strong pressure from our allies in Western Europe to give it another try. These pressures are expected to increase during the next few months, not because London, Paris and Berlin do not appreciate the soundness of our position but because of internal politics.

The Communists dominate East Germany. But there is no doubt that within a short space after the two portions of the Reich are united the Communist Party in the East will disappear as it did in the West. These considerations, which have been heard often will be a long time before we can see eye to eye with Moscow on substantive matters such as German unity and genuine limitation of arms.

Despite the Soviet propaganda that under certain circumstances the Kremlin would agree to unification of the Reich, there are positive indications that this is not the case — even we are willing to pay the price by withdrawing our forces across the Rhine.

The Russians are concerned over the vitality of Germany. They saw with alarm the stupendous progress of West Germany in the economic field. They saw West Germany become the greatest power (not yet militarily) in Europe in less than 10 years after its industries had been ravaged, its peoples crushed and its cities and towns destroyed. This was done without the support of the other 16 million Germans in East Germany.

Hence Moscow's concern about what a united Germany might be able to do in the future even if it agrees to become neutral in the American-Communist conflict.

The Communists dominate East Germany. But there is no doubt that within a short space after the two portions of the Reich are united the Communist Party in the East will disappear as it did in the West. These considerations, which have been heard often by Western diplomats in Moscow lead to the inevitable conclusion that the Kremlin will not agree to German unity even if the NATO forces are withdrawn and a united Germany indicates that it lacks interest in the East-West conflict.

The Russians have a well established long range policy. At Teheran and Yalta Stalin proposed dismemberment and partition of Germany which we and the British did not accept. That policy still stands, with the USSR intending to keep East Germany in its present satellite status.

The Kremlin's position regarding limitation of arms is equally obvious. Its representatives will never accede to a genuine inspection program, come what may. Secretiveness is inherent in the Russian character. After 40 years of Bolshevik police state rule this characteristic has been increased a hundred fold.

During the war when we were the Soviet Union's allies our military men and civilians were never allowed to see anything of the Russian military effort. Our Air Force squadrons which were sent to Russia at the Kremlin request were isolated and surrounded in compounds by barbed wire entanglements and Russian guards. The military observers were taken only on very guided tours where they had no opportunity to observe anything. Conditions have worsened since. Throughout the nearly five months of disarmament negotiations in London last year, the Soviet representatives never gave us any encouragement to think that they would accept our offer of genuine reciprocal inspection. This was in fact the main hurdle which eventually caused the collapse of the discussions and brought about the Dulles-Stassen conflict which was resolved a few days ago in the former's favor. In his anxiety to bring about co-existence, the President's disarmament adviser was willing to accept a make-believe inspection agreement covering the essential locations in the United States and only especially designated areas in the Soviet Union.

There is no likelihood whatsoever that the Russians will change their position. Hence, even some of the most sanguine partisans of limitations of arms agree with Mr. Dulles' thesis that disarmament cannot be a one-way street with America living up to its commitments and Russia being in a position to waltz on its pledges — as she has done continuously in the last 40 years.

The political philosophy which guides Mr. Dulles found approval with most of the members of the House and Senate Committees except for a handful of partisans who found his stand "too rigid."

Increased Sum Sought For AEC In Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—A total of $2,550,000,000 for the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) in the year starting July 1 was recommended by President Eisenhower today. The amount is 250 million dollars more than is presently expected to be spent by the AEC in this fiscal year, ending June 30. Most of the AEC money, included in the President's budget sent to Congress, is recommended for military purposes.

A requested 120 million dollars in new atomic construction appropriations would contain only a small share for new power reactors, an Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) spokesman said. He indicated the amount would not approach the more than 100 million dollars appropriated by Congress last year, mainly for reactors to be built as a part of the government-industry partnership program.

In contrast, Rep. Durham (D-NC), chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, and other committee members have called for a greatly stepped-up reactor building program over a 10-year span. The President asked for $97,700,000 in operating expenses for government power reactors and $26,600,000 for operating reactors built under the present partnership program. The comparable figures for the current fiscal year are $90,800,000 and $26,922,000. A nuclear power plant at Shipingport, Pa., built by government funds, is the only full-scale power reactor now operating in the United States.

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP)—John W. Kingred of Champaign, Ill., got the money to pay a speeding fine by cracking a bank. A piggy bank, that is. Missing Fishing Boat Turns Up

PORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—A 31-foot fishing boat overdue and almost given up for lost in the Gulf of Mexico reached port safely late Saturday with two of its three crew members.

Charles Shoemaker, 51, and Jack Martin, 47, were in good condition and spirits although they said they had been cold, hungry, thirsty and tired after battling stormy weather in a disabled boat for more than a week.

They said the skipper, Joan P. Lynn, disappeared the night of Jan. 6 while they were asleep below decks. They believed he was washed overboard. All were from Madeira Beach, near St. Petersburg.

The vessel Time sailed Dec. 30 for a fishing trip of about six days. The storm hit Jan. 1 while they were about 30 miles southwest of St. Petersburg. Waves pouring over the small boat soon drowned out the engine. The Time drifted almost helplessly for eight days.

Some of the meat and bread was spoiled by the salt waves. The drinking water soon ran out. The catch of 1,000 pounds of snapper and grouper was thrown overboard to lighten ship. The ice which kept the fish fresh was melted for drinking water. They lived almost entirely on canned beans the last few days. Last Wednesday the storm died down. They got the engine running again and reached Captiva Island, off Port Myers.

Thief Has Bag Of Poison Snake

NEW YORK (AP)—A canvas bag stolen from the Port Authority bus terminal yesterday contained a timber rattlesnake considered "very poisonous." Its owner, Ann Cielo, Paterson, N.J., told police she was taking the three-foot reptile to the Staten Island Zoo. Someone whisked it away while she was getting information from the terminal information desk.

(Continued from Page 4) control. Growing strong permitted no furlough from struggle and sacrifice. It was not money or ease which made America. Our great growth came from strength of muscle, mind, and spirit. Softness and luxury are our greatest enemies today. Why is this not being recognized in Washington? It is true that our President is setting a good example by attending church on Sundays. It is true that the clergy are publishing optimistic statistics and creeds. But what is being DONE by government, schools, or churches to make people tougher, harder, more industrious and anxious to sacrifice? The best in each of us thrives on difficulties. These can be overcome only by courage and sacrifice. It may be too bad that this is so, but it is true. Let us not learn it too late!

'Spacemen' Are Going To School

LOS ANGELES (AP)—School bells ring tonight for future spacemen. In the first undertaking of its kind, University of California is launching a 17-week course in space technology.

Classes will be held simultaneously in Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego and Lancaster, Calif., beginning tonight. Purpose of the course, says J. C. Dillon, head of the university's Engineering Extension Division, is to provide "a sound yet imaginative exposition of fundamental principles of very long-range ballistic vehicles."

"We will avoid the sensational and space cadet type of material," Dillon says.

The Los Angeles series has attracted 1,300 students and the San Francisco and San Diego courses more than 400 each. The Lancaster course was a last-minute addition to accommodate more than 500 military and civilian personnel of Edwards Air Force Base, where the nation's new jet and rocket planes are tested. Each student pays a $35 fee.

The university is joined in sponsorship of the lectures by Ramo-Woodbridge Corp., which handles the technical end of the ballistic missiles program for the Air Force Research and Development Command.

Dillon says about half the students hold college degrees and are taking the course for credits leading to higher degrees. Others are from private industry and academic fields. The university and Ramo-Woodbridge have assembled an impressive array of experts to deliver the lectures.

History Mirrored By Ups, Downs Of Budget

By SAM DAWSON NEW YORK (AP)—The ups and downs of the federal budget—mostly ups, it seems—mirror the military and economic history of the United States.

President Eisenhower is expected to spend nearly 74 billion dollars to meet the international problems and domestic needs of the coming fiscal year. George Washington in the eight years of his administration got along on an average expenditure of 4 1/2 million dollars a year. Besides the growth of population and changing standards of living other factors enter in.

Inflation takes a toll of the federal budget.

The nation has changed from an isolate entity to a world leader with a finger in almost every international problem.

People make more demands on government now, expect more services.

When Abraham Lincoln was president his four years of war averaged out at a cost of 838 million dollars a year, a record then.

The first billion dollar budget came under Woodrow Wilson. But the average annual expenditure of his eight years in office, including World War I, was 5 1/2 billion dollars.

During the 12-year regime of Franklin D. Roosevelt, average expenditure soared to 31 billion dollars a year.

In postwar 1948 federal spending was 36 billion dollars. The Korean War and building up the nation's defenses in the cold war brought fiscal 1953's expenditures to 74 billion.

Then the nation had one of its periods of diminishing spending. Fiscal 1955 it dropped to 64 1/2 billion. Federal budgeting has risen steadily since—in an estimate 74 billion dollars in the present fiscal year ending June 30.

The federal debt has swelled, too. This year the treasury will pay out about eight billion in interest on the 275 billion dollar debt. This seems due to go higher next year.

The other side of the budget, tax collections, mirrors the ups and downs of the U.S. economy even more clearly.

The treasury now gets about 70 per cent of its revenues from individual and corporate sources. When the economy recedes down go tax receipts.

One of the problems in balancing both this and next year's budgets is that the recession is cutting profits and incomes—and treasury collections.

Author Art Linkletter Has Best-Seller Today

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Not content with being a TV star and millionaire, Art Linkletter has now become a best-selling author.

When I met the hearty extrovert, he didn't mention the latest rating of "People are Funny" or the success of his investments. But he was full of news about his book, "Kids Say The Darndest Things."

"I just talked to my publishers today," he reported happily. "They said my book had sold 215,000 copies in the first four weeks, the biggest sales of any book they've had, and they publish Norman Vincent Peale, too!"

The Linkletter volume is a compilation of the things kids have told him on his afternoon "Houseparty" TV show. Art has a way with the youngsters that manages to evoke hilarious statements. His favorite:

Linkletter: Was there anything your mother told you not to say when you got on my program? Boy: Yes, she said not to say that she was pregnant.

Linkletter: Why not? Boy: Because she isn't. He has been collecting these remarks for over a decade. After each show, he dictates the choice ones to his secretary. He always figured he would do something with the material some day. But the opportunity never came until a Prentice-Hall editor happened to catch a "Houseparty" broadcast. He phoned Art and suggested the book.

Art said he eschewed ghost writers and did the book himself. "People don't realize it, but I started as a writer," he remarked. "When I was a student at San Diego State, I wrote the school play. I wrote radio shows in San Diego and I created the pageants for the Texas and San Francisco expositions."

The Saturday Evening Post took the book for a serialization. The sales jumped Art into the best-seller lists almost 7th publication. In most calculations, he runs No. 2 blow Bernard Baruch's autobiography.

Proceeds of "Kids Say The Darndest Things" go to Art's five children under a special deal he has set up.

Already there is talk of a sequel, and he has plenty of material. Just last week, he picked up this one: Linkletter: What is your father's hobby? Boy: I don't know. He does it after I go to sleep.

The Sports Reflector

By BILLY ARNOLD

East Carolina's easy 79-43 victory over Elon Saturday night brought more chuckles from Coach Howard Porter than any other game this season. At least it looked that way to us.

The usually dead-pan ECC mentor began to grin as his club started out with a frenzied eight or ten point lead and then stretched it into a lopsided 32-19 early in the game.

By the third quarter, the Bucs were licking the socks off the visiting Christians—leading them by close to 40 points—and Porter was grinning from ear to ear.

But it was in the final quarter that the heavy-browed Coach finally gave way to a laugh. At the beginning of the fourth quarter, Porter put in his bench, composed of Jimmy Hall, Craig Reid, Ray Gurtner, Connie Hoffman, and Dennis O'Brien. The reserves followed the red hot pace set by the ECC first unit and continued to rack up points against the Elon outfit.

It was O'Brien that got the laugh. The pint-sized (5-9) guard put on a dribble-and-shoot exhibition that had the entire gym giggling. On one occasion, O'Brien grabbed a rebound, scooted down the court with Elon players in hot pursuit. As he neared the basket, two tall Christians loomed before him, arms outstretched. O'Brien bounced the ball, whipped it behind his back, bounced it again, and shot a one-hander that snapped through the cords without ever breaking his stride.

A Talk With Hallow

Lou Hallow, the colorful Goldsboro lad who notched All-America honors at East Carolina as a 225-pound center in 1956 and who gained All-Navy laurels this season with Camp Lejeune, attended Saturday night's game.

Still as robust and colorful as ever, the grizzly-like Hallow cornered several of his old teammates and some of the coaches in the athletic office during halftime and told a bunch of tales that were typical.

In his sandpaper voice, wide-eyed, and gesturing with his big hands, he told of his experiences against one service team this past season: "They had one guy, he was about 40 years old and he never knew how to play a lick of football. He had only one job: At the first of every game, they sent him in, set him in front of the center, and as soon as the center hiked the ball, this guy plastered him one right in the kisser. Then they took him out—and they usually carried the center out."

Then, without pausing for breath, he told of one fellow who played four years of college ball, some service ball, nine years of pro ball, went down to a well-known (in this area) Florida college and played a whole ballgame for them while wearing a face-mask. "Last time I heard from him," Hallow beamed, "he was enrolled in some school in Louisiana as a freshman."

He recalled one ballgame he played while at East Carolina in which "I was hit by some guy and he knocked me so far outta the ballpark I had to buy a ticket to get back into the game."

Hallow, who has been drafted by the Los Angeles Rams to play pro ball next year after he finishes at Lejeune, brought a host of his Marine-team buddies in to see Coach Jack Boone. "They looking over the school," Lou said. "They might want to come here next year."

Hallow said he would be expected to play some for the Rams at a defensive linebacker post next season. He gets out of service in May and reports shortly thereafter to the west coast.

He may not be the best linebacker in the Pro leagues next winter, but he'll undoubtedly be one of the most colorful. Perhaps he'll be both.

Can't Get Faster Than That

When East Carolina's cagers ripped off 61 points in a half at Pfeiffer last week, a lot of people thought that it might have been some sort of a record around the North State Conference. That's nothing.

One of the reserve members of the club told recently of a practice drill in Memorial gymnasium in which Porter's first unit racked up a phenomenal 70-point points against the second unit in one quarter.

Phants Home Tomorrow Night Against R. Rapids

Greenville high school, in the thick of the Northeastern conference race with a 1-1 record, will play host to a rugged Roanoke Rapids team here Tuesday night at Junius H. Rose Gym.

The conference, which was expected to be a two-team runaway with Washington and Greenville battling for the championship honors, has turned into a hectic race. At present, any one of the seven teams in the loop could move ahead. Every club in the conference has taken a licking.

Coach Bo Farley, whose team has won out over Elizabeth City and dropped a close one to Washington, will be after the loop lead tomorrow night. Farley, with two full teams at his disposal, will go full steam ahead—and he will probably have to whip the Yellow Jackets.

Roanoke Rapids has started off with a pair of surprising victories. They whipped Kinston easily in their opener and then downed the league-leading Washington, Farm-Pack Friday night. They also whopped Wilson, a AAA club that Greenville had trouble with. Strangely enough, however, Jacksonville clipped the Yellow Jackets to put them in the ranks of the defeated.

Coach Wimpy Johnson's Jackets are rated on an even par with the Greensies tomorrow night. It is a toss-up.

Coach Farley will probably start with Walker Allen and John Wesley Hudson at guards, Dick Evans and Peanut Nunn at forwards and Steve Noble at center. Or, he might go with Mack Roebuck and Don Wilkerson at guards, Billy Cox and Bobby Edwards at forwards and Albert Crawford at center. Or, he may decide to shuffle around and come up with an entirely different combination. He has done all three thus far this season.

A preliminary game between the GHS Jayvees and the Roanoke Rapids Baby Jackets is expected to get underway at 6:30 tomorrow night and the varsity contest will begin at 8:00.

Althea's Reign Could Go On Indefinitely

NEW YORK (AP)—Althea Gibson's reign as top female athlete has a better than fair chance of continuing indefinitely.

Voted overwhelmingly the outstanding woman performer for 1957 by the 214 sports writers and broadcasters participating in the Associated Press poll, the little tennis champion says she has not yet reached her peak.

"I feel I am improving my game every day," Miss Gibson, the first Negro player to perform on the hallowed sod of Wimbledon and Forest Hills, declares with conviction. That's a significant statement when it is considered that last year she was good enough to win the top events at both sites—the all-England on the British court and the National at Forest Hills.

She's cool, poised and affable now, is this 30-year-old star whose love for tennis was born on the teeming streets of Harlem, where she became adept at hitting a ball with a wooden paddle. Gone is the nervousness, the uncertainty which plagued her during her long, often discouraging march to the top.

"I don't plan to play in the indoor championships," she says. "I hope to make a tour of South America. At least, I've let it out that I'd like to play down there."

Possibly looking forward to the day when the years have taken their toll and younger players forge to the front, Miss Gibson is taking singing lessons which further crowd her busy schedule.

"I am affiliated with a sports club," she explains to clarify any question as to the source of her income.

"Naturally my expenses are paid to tournaments to which I am invited and the government sponsored the tour to India."

Miss Gibson's victory in the Associated Press poll practically has won only 3 of 10 games, so with or without Chamberlain, the Jayhawks will be favored.

Mississippi State gets its chance for revenge against Vanderbilt in a Southeastern Conference game on the Commodores' floor. Not only did Georgia Tech snap Mississippi State's victory skein, but the Ramblin' Wrecks knocked the Rebels right out of the league lead. Now Tennessee and Kentucky, a couple of strong outfits, are tied for first place, both showing clean league records. They met Saturday, so something will give.

North Carolina, last season's national champion, doesn't play until Wednesday when the Tar Heels meet North Carolina State. It appears now that N.C. Coach Frank McGuire wasn't kidding when he said before the season that Maryland was the team to watch in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Terps polished off North Carolina Saturday 74-61, and now certainly are the favorites to win the AAC title. The defeat was North Carolina's second of the season.

New Scoring Rules Written Into Football

By MERCER BAILEY

PORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Football coaches have a new strategy problem to cope with today: Is it better to try for a one-point conversion after a touchdown, or gamble for a two-point-er.

That option — one point if kicked, two points if by a run or a pass — was written into football law yesterday, along with a more liberal substitution rule and several other changes.

The new scoring rule, first change in football's point system in more than 40 years, and other revisions were adopted at the closing session of the Football Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

The scoring change — designed to reduce the number of ties and boost fan appeal — came as a surprise. Proposed by Committee Chairman H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, athletic director at Michigan, the rule originally was scheduled for a year's study by a subcommittee.

"Sure I'll kick up a controversy," said Crisler.

Opinion of coaches was divided. Several agreed with Crisler the change would make football more exciting and "open up the game."

Other reaction includes such remarks as "very interesting" . . . "I like" . . . "Progressive" . . . "a good idea" . . . "fewer teams will kick" . . . "teams will still go for the kicked extra point" . . . "On the other side: 'Ridiculous' . . . 'They're de-emphasizing kicking' . . . "can't see any great merit to the thing."

Red Sanders of UCLA and Blanton Collier of Kentucky were among those voicing approval. Terry Brennan of Notre Dame called it ridiculous.

The change in the substitution rule was designed to help small colleges with limited squads. Crisler said. Effective immediately, both starters and substitutes will be able to make two appearances in each quarter. For the past three seasons, only the players who started a quarter could leave and be eligible to return during the same quarter.

Charlotte Team Beats Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Charlotte Clippers defeated Washington yesterday and regained a tie for the Eastern Hockey League lead with a 3-1 victory over the Presidents.

The Clippers shared the lead with New Haven, which defeated Johnston 3-2 last night.

Doug Adam scored all three Charlotte goals in the waning minutes of the final period.

The Clippers move over to Philadelphia for a game tomorrow night. Washington defeated the Clippers Saturday night, 6-2, and took over the league lead but held it for only a day.

East Carolina's Coach Howard Porter began running in reserves early in the game and the final minutes of the second half saw all second-stringers in the game for the Pirates.

The Pirates play at home again Thursday night, against Guilford's surprising Quakers. East Carolina opened the season with a 91-69 victory over Guilford.

The victory was the fifth in six conference games for the Pirates and enabled them to hold onto a share of first place in the conference standings. It also set the stage for the Pirates' end-of-the-week return match with Lenoir Rhyne which is battling the Pirates for sole possession of the top spot.

Guard Ike Riddick led Saturday night's romping session by popping in 20 points, including seven of the Bucs' first 12 points and seven consecutive points late in the game when East Carolina broke everything wide open.

Riddick's closest contender for scoring honors was ECC Captain Harold Ingram with 15 points. Five other scorers had 10 or more points. Every member of the 12-man East Carolina squad scored at least once, with the exception of substitute center Jimmy Hall.

ECC's red-hot shooting in the early minutes of the game left little doubt about the outcome other than a question of how many points the Pirates would get. Frank DeRita kept Elon in the game for two and a half minutes, and also gave the Christians the lead on two occasions, but that was before Riddick went to work.

With the score 4-3 in favor of Elon, Riddick cashed in on a three-point play, two more fast breaks and gave the ball to Ingram on another fast break as the Pirates ran up a 12-4 lead. Ingram, Don Smith and Joe Plaster took over then and with ten minutes remaining in the first half the Pirates were ahead, 23-7.

Elon never got back in the ball game. The Christians did get within 20 points, 50-30, after five minutes of the second half but Riddick went to work again to take care of any threat.

Although he scored the most points, and most of them came at a time when they were needed, Riddick was a long way from being the whole show. Plaster, Smith and Ingram played the boards as if they owned them in the rebounding game and guard Jess Curry teamed with Riddick to run the fast break.

In other games yesterday the Cincinnati Royals overwhelmed the Boston Celtics 115-97, the Philadelphia Warriors, paced by Neil Johnston's 33 points, downed the New York Knicks 115-110 in overtime and the St. Louis Hawks turned back the Minneapolis Lakers 111-105.

Dolph Shayes of the Syracuse Nationals ranks today as the foremost scorer in professional basketball annals.

Bishop Running

CHAPEL HILL — Wayne Bishop, crack North Carolina trackster and former Greenville high school miler, has received an invitation to run in the Boston Knights of Columbus meet this weekend at Boston.

The slender UNC Junior, who has been having more than his share of troubles with injuries during the past three seasons, said today that he plans to attend the meet.

Bishop's bad knee, which has forced him to the sidelines throughout most of the current season, "seems to be doing pretty good now," he said today. "I've been working out hard during the past week and I think it might be alright."

The former Greenville high school runner, who has earned both top athletic and scholastic honors at Carolina, will be running against some of the world's best in the two-mile event.

John Macy, Forrest Ashenfelter, and a Hungarian import will be his principal opponents. Ashenfelter was Olympic champion in 1952 and 1956.

West Virginia, UNC Are Idle As Others Play

By ED CORRIGAN

Kansas, Mississippi State and Texas Tech — each hoping to regain lost prestige — play important conference games tonight, while West Virginia, which has developed into the goliath of college basketball, sits idle until Wednesday.

Until Saturday, Mississippi State and West Virginia were the only top-ranked undefeated teams in the country. Then Georgia Tech clubbed the Rebels 78-61.

That leaves only West Virginia, the Southern Conference kingpin, in the undefeated class, with 12 victories. The Mountaineers, No. 1 in this week's Associated Press poll, meet Pitt Wednesday.

Kansas, a floundering giant without Wil Chamberlain, goes against Colorado on its home court tonight in the almost unbelievable position of being tied for next-to-last in the Big Eight with an 0-1 league record.

Self-Financing Plan Again Put Forth On TVA

WASHINGTON (AP)—The power generating future of the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) was tied again today directly to self-financing plan for the big power agency. President Eisenhower asked Congress to appropriate $16,850,000 to add to a carry-over balance of $2,207,000 to make up $19,057,000 needed from the federal treasury for over-all operations. Of that amount, he said, $9,818,000 would be for carrying on construction of eight steam generating units at existing plants of the vast TVA system. To that, the President's budget message for the fiscal year beginning July 1 said today, would be added $91,375,000 from TVA revenue funds to make up the total of $101,193,000 needed to continue work on the eight generating projects.

Shirley Temple In Flawless Act

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Shirley Temple has made her return to show business after a nine-year absence demonstrating anew on a television fairy tales series what an old (29) pro she is.

The blonde curlytop star of the 30s, now a brunette mother of three, made her TV debut last night on the Shirley Temple Storybook, first of 16 programs on children's classics. She performed flawlessly, rising above some backstage noises heard behind her lines.

"I didn't even hear them," she said afterward. "I was concentrating too hard on what I was doing."

Strikingly beautiful, she had little to do but introduce and narrate the version of "Beauty and the Beast," starring Charlton Heston and Claire Bloom. She also sang the theme song, "Dreams Are Made for Children," her first professional singing in almost 20 years.

"I had a wonderful time," she said after the show at a party with her husband, electronics official Charles Black, and her parents. "I am anxious to do more." She'll get a chance in future shows, Shirley will act in at least three of the fairy tales.

French Premier Calls Assembly To OK Plans

CONFOLENS, France (AP)—Premier Felix Gaillard has called for speedy National Assembly approval of his Cabinet's six-point plan designed to prolong the precarious lives of France's governments.

Citing the current system that has speeded the downfall of 24 governments since World War II, Gaillard declared last night the recurrent crises had "deprived France of authority in her relationships with foreign countries."

The reform measures, which are expected to run into strong opposition, would: 1. Require a majority of the entire Assembly to vote a government out of office. At present a majority of those voting is sufficient. 2. Demand a yes or no vote

Five other Progressive leaders, including the party's only member of the 202-seat National Assembly, Dim Dal Ho, were arrested for questioning.

Nearly $4 Billion 'Extra' Is Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress was urged today to provide $3,940,000,000 in "critically needed" new foreign aid funds to offset Communist Russia's threats to attack, subvert and terrorize free nations.

President Eisenhower, making the request in his budget message, estimated foreign aid spending during the year starting July 1 at $3,868,000,000, up 119 million dollars from the current year's figure. Much of the spending will be from money already appropriated.

The fund, carrying America's aid program into a 12th straight year, would pay for military, economic and technical assistance to 50 or more countries.

The request for new money is 86 million dollars more than last year's Eisenhower proposal, which Congress cut by a billion dollars. It includes $1,800,000,000 for military assistance, 865 millions in defense support for economic help to countries getting the arms aid, and $1,275,000,000 in other economic and technical assistance including easy-payment development loans.

Eisenhower also gave notice he might ask for an additional 200 million dollars to begin furnishing intermediate range missiles to European allies who agree to base them on their territory.

Eisenhower proposed that Congress authorize these four additional steps to back up the aid program: 1. Extend the Reciprocal Trade Act, which expires June 30, for another five years and permit more tariff-cutting agreements with friendly countries.

2. Approve U.S. membership in the proposed international trade organization which will seek to set up a code of fair commercial conduct.

3. Repeal a law which he said "virtually prohibits normal competitive bidding" by foreign countries on defense contracts.

4. Add two billion dollars more to the capital of the government's Export-Import Bank.

Eisenhower put in a strong plea for the need of economic as well as military aid funds.

Agriculture Outlays Cut By President In Budget

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—A 6 1/2 percent cut in spending for farm programs was proposed by President Eisenhower today for the coming fiscal year. He held up the prospect of still greater reductions in later years.

The reductions would come from changes in present farm policies, which Eisenhower said place a heavy burden on taxpayers and complicate foreign trade relations. In a budget report to Congress, Eisenhower outlined expenditures of $4,981,000,000 for the agriculture department— including $4,600,000,000 for the various domestic farm programs—during the fiscal year beginning July 1. This would be 346 million dollars less than the total indicated spending for the current year.

Most of the savings would be on programs for support of farm prices and stabilization of agricultural income. Looking beyond the new fiscal year, Eisenhower foresaw considerable savings if Congress accepts recommendations he said he soon will make for lower price support levels and for removal of some government controls now affecting farmers.

Eisenhower proposed to cut 100 million dollars off an annual 225 million agricultural conservation program paying subsidies to farmers for carrying out conservation measures. This reduction, however, would not be reflected in the department's budget until the 1960 fiscal year.

Eisenhower recommended meanwhile the continuation of farm surplus disposal operations. He said he would recommend another year's extension— with an additional spending fund of 1 1/2 billion dollars—of the Agricultural Trade Development Act. This measure authorizes sale of surpluses abroad for foreign currencies.

He proposed that the Soil Bank Program—enacted in 1956 with an annual subsidy authorization of up to $1,300,000,000 a year—be cut next year to 450 million. This would be 775 million less than was authorized for the current crop year.

The President estimated that $3,253,000,000 of the department spending in the coming fiscal year would be for stabilization of prices and income compared with $3,628,000,000 estimated for the current year.

Other proposed farm outlays compared with figures for this year included: Soil Conservation Service $111,245,000 and $104,733,000; Agricultural Marketing Service $187,094,000 and $283,340,000 (which included 1 million for the school lunch program both years); Forest Service $138,351,000 and

Jet Fuel And Aviation Gasoline Taxes Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—When the jet age arrives in commercial flying it will find the federal tax collector ready and waiting, if President Eisenhower has his way.

The President urged Congress to impose a tax of 3 1/2 cents a gallon on jet fuels, and to increase the existing tax on aviation gasoline from 2 cents to 3 1/2 a gallon. Eisenhower's budget message noted that the government provides many services for users of the nation's airspace. "It is increasingly appropriate that the users pay their fair share of the costs," he said.

He proposed that the legislation provides for an increase in the jet fuel and aviation gas taxes, after the first year, of 1/4 cent each year for four years.

"The receipts from taxes on aviation gasoline, which now go into the highway trust fund, should be kept in the general revenues to help finance the operations of the airways," Eisenhower added. The President argued that those who benefit from special government services should pay the bills, as is done in the highway

"Recommendation to adjust postal rates and authorize more adequate interest rates on government loans also will serve to reduce unnecessary subsidies to special groups," he said. Didn't Realize Parents Dead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 2-year-old boy played in the kitchen of his home here yesterday, apparently oblivious of the bodies of his mother and father sprawled about him. (His mommy was sleeping, he told a caller.

Police reported the father shot and killed his estranged wife, then took his own life. A coroner ruled the deaths murder and suicide. Miss Oebra Lee, 32, found the bodies of her brother William L. Lee, 31, and his wife Avonell, 27. She told police she became suspicious after finding a .32-caliber revolver missing from her home where Lee lived. She said she phoned Mrs. Lee's apartment and spoke to the couple's 2-year-old son William, who said his mother was asleep.

Miss Lee said the child had seen his parents sprawled on the kitchen floor and apparently had been playing around the bodies all morning. The boy and his 4-month-old brother Kenneth evidently were sleeping at the time of the shooting, police said.

Officers said the shooting climaxed an argument between the Lees, a Negro couple separated since October.

Foe Of U. S. Is Elected Mayor

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—An ardent foe of the United States was elected mayor of Naha, capital of the American Far Eastern base island of Okinawa.

Leftist Independent Saichi Kaneshi defeated Tatsuo Taira, a moderate Socialist who had promised to cooperate with the United States. The result was a stinging repudiation of U. S. policy on the former Japanese island the Americans have occupied since World War II.

Nearly complete official returns gave Kaneshi, a book dealer, 34,968 votes to 33,986 for Taira. The capital's former mayor, pro-Communist Kamejiro Senaga, was ousted Nov. 25 which made his removal possible.

Taira blamed his defeat on this American action, saying it "kept alive the Okinawans' anti-American feeling." Both Taira and his opponent favor return of Okinawa to Japan, but the Socialist said American troops must stay to combat the Communist threat. The United States fears that the pro-Communist Peoples Party, strong supporters of Kaneshi, may gain control of the unions at Naha port and many Okinawan employees of the armed forces. They thus could hamper U. S. military operations on the island at a time of crisis with the Communist world.

UAW Prepares Contract Terms

DETROIT (AP)—The giant United Auto Workers union was set today to declare 1958 contract demands of its million and a half members on the car industry.

The announcement will set the stage for negotiations significant to the nation's economy. Present three-year contracts expire at the end of May. Formal bargaining opens 60 days beforehand.

The big, vital contracts are with Ford, General Motors and Chrysler. The UAW top leadership, including its International Executive Board, worked on the demands over the weekend at private sessions. The union is to hold a special convention in Detroit Jan. 22-24 for further consultations.

Over recent months Walter Reuther, UAW president, has mentioned a shorter work week as a top objective. The UAW also has spoken of improved worker pensions and an increase in supplemental unemployment compensation as well as higher hourly pay.

New York's Empire State Building, tallest in the world, is 1,473 feet tall.

Mickey Hargitay's Past Is Pure Horatio Alger Story

PORTUGUESE BEND, Calif. (AP)—The whole world knows almost everything about Jayne Mansfield, who will become the bride tonight of Mickey Hargitay at Wayfarers' Chapel.

But what about the 29-year-old groom of whom little is known except that he is a big hunk of man loved by one of Hollywood's most publicized glamor queens?

The husky Hungarian never has talked much about himself but the story of his 10 years in America is something Horatio Alger would have loved.

When he and Jayne return from their Texas and Florida honeymoon, they'll move into a $150,000 Hollywood Hills estate that has 11 bathrooms and eight bedrooms. It once belonged to Rudy Vallee. The house is Mickey's wedding present to his bride. He had already given her a $25,000 diamond engagement ring.

You don't give gifts like that on money earned from weight lifting. To the general public Mickey has been publicized as a muscle man, but he hasn't lifted a bar bell in years.

He was born Miklos Hargitay, son of a wealthy Budapest theater owner and his wife. He had just finished his freshman year at the University of Budapest when the Communists took over.

"I never liked communism anyhow," Mickey told a reporter at a pre-wedding dinner last night. "So when they wanted me to go in the army and serve in Russia I took the passport I had as a child and enough money to get me to America."

Only 19, Mickey landed in New York with no knowledge of English. He got a $2-a-day job in a Brooklyn fruit market. As his English improved he got better jobs and was able to save enough money to get to Indianapolis.

There he invested his savings in a vacant lot. With the friends' help, a bank loaned him enough to construct a house. The house, which he built mostly by himself, was sold for an $8,000 profit. That was parlayed into a construction company that has built as many as 13 houses at a time in Indianapolis.

By his third year in this country he had $50,000 in the bank. Next came a deal with a major oil company to build filling stations, some of which he still owns. Other money went to physical culture gyms in the Indianapolis area. There his physique got him an offer from the AAU to represent the United States in the Mr. Universe competition in London. He won.

He left his businesses in the hands of a partner for a fling in show business as part of an adagio dance act. Mae West saw him and put him in her act of muscle men. On May 13, 1956, Jayne and song writer Julie Styne

STILL LOVES HER
CORSIANA, Tex. (AP)—Doris West knows her husband still loves her. He took a full page ad in the Corsicana Daily Sun: in his own handwriting, three columns wide and four inches deep, the ad read: "To Doris on our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. I love you, Doyle."

Young And Old On City Councils

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Maine may have the nation's oldest and youngest city councilors. At 90, William H. O'Brien recently was returned to a fourth three-year term on the council in Portland. O'Brien claims to be the oldest city councilor in the country. Auburn's councilman Doland A. Roberts makes no claims. But he was 21 when he was elected in 1921. A radio announcer, Roberts is the son and grandson of Auburn councilors.

NEW YORK (N.Y.)—The stock market continued to drift off quietly early this afternoon. Losses of key stocks ran from fractions to around a point. Aircrafts, rubbers and chemicals showed somewhat more pronounced declines in a central retreat. Steels, motors, rails, oils and airlines were behind more narrowly. President Eisenhower's budget message calling for record peace-time spending and predicting an economic upturn had scant immediate effect on the market. Copper shares were off a bit following news that the major producers had reduced prices. Trading was fairly active at the opening then fell off to a leisurely pace which continued into the afternoon.

Most leading rails were either off slightly or unchanged. New York Central was firm. Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Royal Dutch were losers among the oils while Sinclair held its ground. The Associated Press average of 50 stocks at noon was off 50 cents to $156.50 with the industrials down $1.30, the rails down 40 cents and the utilities up 20 cents.

Circumstantial Evidence Cited
ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP)—John T. Page Jr., the attorney who defended Frank Edward Wetzel in his murder trial here last week, says he will decide after studying a transcript of the case whether to appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Wetzel, 36, was convicted of first degree murder in the slaying of Highway Patrolman W.L. Reece. However, the jury recommended mercy, making a life sentence mandatory.

Page says he feels the state did not prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Wetzel was the murderer. His opinion was shared by jury foreman J.R. Morse of Rockingham, who told newsmen the jury recommended mercy because the 10 men and two women felt the state did not prove its case conclusively.

Page gave notice of appeal immediately after the verdict was announced. He has 90 days to file it. Morse said evidence against Wetzel was circumstantial and that there were no witnesses who actually saw Wetzel shoot Reece. The jury foreman said that Robert Terry Jr., the Negro hitchhiker who jumped from the killer's car at the scene of the slaying, did not actually see the shooting.

Winterville Team Wins County Contest

GRIFTON — Winterville was named county winner in the Future Farmers of America Ritual and Parliamentary Procedure Contest held here.

J.H. Mobley, advisor to the Winterville group, said that as winners of the county contest, the seven youths will represent Pitt County in the district contest to be held in April. The seven district winners from across the state will compete for State championship at the State FFA convention.

In the county contest, the boys entered from each school were organized as officers and required to conduct opening and closing Future Farmers of America ceremonies.

They were also given subjects unknown to them before they began to discuss for 15 minutes.

The Winterville youths who participated and the officers they represented are: Van Jackson, president; Dewey Ray Stocks, vice-president; Ward Sutton, Sentinel; Don Jackson, reporter; Ralph Wingate, secretary; Franklin Whichard, treasurer; Jack Davenport, alternate; J.H. Mobley, advisor.

T.B. Elliott of Woodland, district supervisor of Vocational Agricultural Teachers, was in charge of the program. Judges were VoAg teachers from surrounding counties.

"This is one of the best contests I have ever seen," said J.H. Mobley. "It teaches the student to get up on his feet and to express himself. It also teaches him to think while standing."

Estimated 50 Delegates At Session
An estimated 50 delegates from posts and auxiliaries in the Veterans of Foreign Wars' Second District met in Greenville yesterday in quarterly business sessions.

The sessions were presided over by Dewey Merritt, Second District Commander, and Mrs. Bob Bland, President of the district's ladies auxiliary. Both Merritt and Mrs. Bland are from Kingston.

Primary items of business included presentation of reports of community service and membership by the eight posts represented at the meeting. Merritt received the reports from delegates from posts in Pink Hill, Kingston, Goldsboro, Lagrange, Washington, Farmville, Grifton and Greenville.

Auxiliary delegates voted to sponsor the March 26 "birthday party" at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Fayetteville. The delegates agreed to furnish refreshments for the party and to also provide gifts for all patients who have birthdays during the month.

Past State Commander Rufus Joyner of Rocky Mount was a special guest at the meeting and made brief comments on the anticipated legislative action by Congress which convened last week. Joyner warned the group that "unless veterans groups are careful, veterans' services may be cut."

He said recent shifts in thinking toward scientific development might result in curtailed activities for veterans unless their organized groups demand a continuation of present VA programs.

E. John Cassick, Senior Vice-Commander of the Greenville Post, was host at the meeting of post delegates and Mrs. J. A. Joyner, Jr., president of the Greenville Ladies Auxiliary, was hostess to the auxiliary delegates.

The meeting was one of four held each year in the district.

ABC Raiders Run Into Women... And Trouble

Pitt County ABC Officers ran into more trouble than they anticipated Saturday night while making a routine raid of a local house.

When the smoke finally cleared one officer, James Ross, had a cut on his forehead and a bruised arm. Two Negro women and a Negro man were arrested as a result of the commotion.

Oscar Cherry, 51, of 521 Sheppard St. was arrested for possession of non-tax paid whiskey for the purpose of sale. According to Chief ABC Officer J. M. Ward, a small quantity of illicit whiskey was found in his home.

The two women arrested were identified as Marie Whitehurst, 25, of 515 McKinley Ave. and Georgia D. Joyner, 23, of 521 Sheppard St. Both were charged with: resisting arrest, assault with a deadly weapon, interfering with officers in performance of duty; and assault on an officer.

Both were released under an $800 bond each pending trial in City Court. Cherry was released under a $500 bond. Their case was continued this morning until Feb. 3.

Ward said the trouble started when he, H. B. Lilly and Ross, went to Cherry's home on Sheppard St. with a search warrant. "When they found out who we were, they held the door and would not let us in," he related. "Finally we got into the house and that's when the trouble started."

He said a group of Negro women started throwing bottles at them as they stood on the opposite side of the room. "One threw a chair and another a broken table lamp," Ward said.

One of the women reportedly struck Ross on the head with a beer bottle, cutting his forehead. Ross also suffered a bruised arm when he caught the full blow of a swinging chair.

He was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital shortly after the incident took place, and released. Ward said the cut over his right eye required three stitches.

Ward explained that the women in the house were "the ones causing so much trouble. All the men did," he said, "was just talk a little."

Annual FHA Affair Scheduled March 4

By SANDRA HUNSUCKER
Winterville School Reporter
Members of Winterville High School's Future Homemakers of America Chapter have set March 7 as the date for their annual Mother-Daughter Banquet.

The date was selected last week at the club's January meeting. Other business conducted during the meeting included a program, "Three Modern Imps — Hurry, Worry and Indecision," directed by Vice-President Shirley Churchill. Mary Ann Worthington, Daphne Little and Joe Ann Hathaway also participated in the program.

The club also sponsored a bake sale Saturday morning in the Winterville business district.

Approximately 60 WHS students welcomed the New Year in with a New Year's Eve party at the Winterville Community Building.

Mrs. Leon Tyson assisted the sponsoring FHA members in directing get-acquainted games and dances.
