President Opines Some Red Ink Spending Justified

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower said today he would prefer a reasonable amount of deficit spending this year to a tax increase.

Anticipated tax revenues A 400-million-dollar deficit now is in prospect for the current fiscal year, because tax collections have fallen with the decline in business prosperity while spending for defense has gone up.

There was no more of that—and quite possibly there was less—than before the slight stroke which manifested itself by a temporary speech difficulty.

He did in his message to Soviet Premier Bulganin last weekend—that there must be adequate advance preparation before he would agree to any new summit conference with the Russians.

ment officials, that Dulles stay right squarely on the job. Dulles, the President said, has greater knowledge in his field than any man he knows.

FIFTH ANNIVERSARY — A reporter noted that Eisenhower will observe his fifth anniversary in office next Monday. The past five years, the newsmen said, have produced for Eisenhower such crises as the Little Rock school integration situation, Russia's satellite and the rise of Nikita Khrushchev as Communist party boss in the Soviet Union.

GAVIN — The resignation of Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin as the Army's chief of research and development was a personality matter, Eisenhower said. He added that Gavin had a right to quit at the end of March because of policy differences regarding the defense program.

DEFENSE REORGANIZATION — The President, who has promised a reorganization of the defense setup, declined to answer questions about his plans. He said he would not disclose details in advance of his special message to Congress.

Consulting Engineer Says City Utilities Keep Pace

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor. Greenville Utilities has "kept abreast of the times" in policies and management, the commission was told by a consulting engineer last night.

Deliverly of kilowatt hours to customers has increased by 90 per cent since 1951, Blackburn showed in the study. In 1951 the commission delivered 37,307,706 KWH to customers and for the year ending June 30, 1957, 71,264,738 KWH were delivered.

That industries have expanded during the period was shown by the fact that consumption by industrial customers went from 31,691 KWH in 1951 to 114,877 in 1957. Blackburn painted a rosy picture for the gas department when natural gas comes to the city in the near future.

New Military Pay Bill Submitted To Congress By Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower has sent to Congress a military pay bill which would give most service personnel a raise of at least six per cent, and also provide for merit increases.

group headed by Ralph J. Cordier, president of General Electric Co. That group said pay adjustments were necessary to reduce turnover in key military jobs.

House Speeds Action On Emergency Sum

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House made today for quick consideration of a $548,226,000 emergency Air Force construction bill.

act. The measure is a preliminary $1,260,000,000 supplemental money bill which also must be passed by both houses to be effective.

can efforts "to make partisan politics out of the defense program." Referring specifically to remarks made by House Republican Leader Martin (Mass.), Mahon said he would "have a part of any attempt to make our defense program a political football."

Bomber Carrying A-Bomb Crashed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government would give no details today on its brief admission that at least one plane carrying a nuclear weapon crashed without exploding the weapon.

bomber pilot, said the explosion and fire which followed the plane crash stemmed from the fuel tanks. "You can assure everybody that while the shape and weight of atomic bombs may be carried, there is no danger of a nuclear explosion because that hush-hush part is always missing on training flights," he said.

Cuban Rebels Go Back Into Jungle After Port Raid

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Rebel forces of Fidel Castro withdrew safely to their mountain hideouts late yesterday after a bold daylight raid on the sugar port of Manzanillo.

Predicts Benefits For South In Defense Work

JACKSONVILLE, N.C.—Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee said here last night that every state in the South will benefit from any expansion of the industrial defense and missile effort.

He referred to charges in some parts of the nation which he said had accused the South of "industrial piracy."

Launch Redstone Rocket As Prelude To Satellite Try

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.—The Army checked over tape and photographic records of a night launch of its big Redstone missile today for clues that might help it put an American-style Sputnik into an orbit.

idly accelerating pace, for thousands of feet. Then it arched at a slight angle toward the southeast, still very much on the upgrade.

The Defense Department, announcing the launching minutes after the takeoff, gave no indication of the distance flown or the target assigned. It said only that the flight was normal.

Wilfong To Give Main Talk At Schools Meet

Forum Advises Mature Attitude For Marriage

Air Force ROTC cadets at East Carolina College were advised Tuesday at a forum on "Marriage and the Military Service" to develop a mature attitude toward marriage so as to be able to meet successfully the "pressures, stresses, and strains" characteristic of the services.

The forum, an event of Religious Emphasis Week at the college, had as principal speakers Chaplains Russell C. Archer and John Bosteyns of Seymour Johnson Air Force Base.

Also participating were Mrs. Ethel Nash of the department of preventive medicine, Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Winston-Salem; Mrs. Edward J. Maloney, wife of the Professor of Air Science, East Carolina AF-ROTC; and Dr. George Douglas of the college faculty. Lt. Robert Vining, staff member of the college AF-ROTC, acted as moderator.

The "pressures" attendant upon military service present a severe test of the strength of the marriage relationship, panel members agreed. Problems include separation of families at times; instability as a result of frequent moves from place to place; and anxiety, especially in such types of training as that of pilots.

Cadets were advised to choose their mates thoughtfully with emphasis upon worth of character, community of ideals and ideas, and clear understanding of the type of life led by those in military service.

Council Installs Chiefs, Indian Style

Approximately 45 members attended the Withia Council Degree of Pocahontas meeting and installation services held last night at the Woman's Club.

Each of the incoming officers was attired in Indian costumes. Mrs. Maycie Culbreth was named Pocahontas and Mrs. Rachel Moore, prophetess.

Other officers installed were Mrs. Thelma Whitaker, Wenonah; Mrs. Agnes Landing, Powhatan; Mrs. Betty Nobles, keeper of records; Mrs. Dora Bozeman, keeper of wampum; and Mrs. Carrie Jones, collector of wampum.

Mrs. Margaret Jenkins and Mrs. Doris Cayton were named scouts and Mrs. Nolla Spivey, Mrs. Daisy Tripp, Mrs. Louise Hyman and Mrs. Nancy Gardner, warriors. Runners are Mrs. Ruby Hodges and Mrs. Lillie Haddock. Mrs. Nina Joyner and Mrs. Thelma Vincent were elected councilors and Mrs. Jean Bright is guard of temple. Mrs. Jeanette Bright is guard of the forest.

Trustees are Mrs. Geneva Webb, Mrs. Jean Bright and Mrs. Jennie Stokes. Mrs. Bessie Nobles will serve as pianist, and Mrs. Geneva Webb as Great Pocahontas deputy. The Farnville Council was consolidated with the local council and several members were present and welcomed into the Greenville council.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Doris Cayton. Following the ceremony, refreshments were served in the dining room.

30 Years Ago Today

January 15, 1928

"That was a good commonsense argument Jasper Winslow put up in behalf of the boys of the city at the Rotary Club Monday night," W. H. Rogers Jr., president of the club, said today. "Let the parent set a good example before his boys and rest assured the child will stay out of mischief. The American boys is no worse now than he used to be. He is beset by greater temptations. Life is more complex. He is confronted with solacious literature and motion pictures giving an exotic view of life, and not being matured enough to consider these things in their right light is more apt to be led astray by his boyish conclusions. If you desire your boy to be the kind of a boy you would have him be, provide something at home to occupy his mind and live yourself like a father ought to live."

held by Mrs. W. P. Thigpen. Mrs. Blount, spiritual life leader, gave the devotional. The study book "Cross and Crisis in Japan" was completed. The members were reminded to continue their increase in the world bank, this being a project to raise money for special missions.

Nine Steps Told To Find Real Living 365 Days

On Friday afternoon before members of the Home Department of the Greenville Woman's Club, Mrs. W. C. Harris reviewed the book "How To Live 365 Days A Year" by Dr. John A. Schindler. "There are nine points that can help you or anybody to capture one full year of real living every 12 months. By adopting them you will make a big stride toward emotional stability and maturity. Living will begin to take on a glow of enjoyability," stated Mrs. Harris. "These nine points are:

- "1. Avoid watching for a knock in your motor.
- "2. Learn to like work.
- "3. Like people.
- "4. Say the cheerful, pleasant thing.
- "5. Meet adversity by turning defeat into victory.
- "6. Meet your problems with decision.
- "7. Make the present moment an emotional success. "8. Always be planning. "9. Keep life simple." "These nine points states Dr. Schindler are my prescription for achieving a sensible, well-balanced attitude toward life. If you adopt them and practice them in daily living, you will gain a healthy, exuberant outlook that will influence your relationship with everyone around you. You'll get more satisfaction from friendship, from your job, from life—365 days a year," Mrs. Harris pointed out. Preceding the meeting Mrs. Jasper Tripp presided over the business meeting.

Mrs. J. D. Aman reported gifts were given each inmate of the County Home at Christmas. Frank Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Four new members were presented to the club: Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. B. C. McGee, Mrs. Percy Wells, and Mrs. Vernon Priddy. One visitor was introduced, Mrs. John Barber. Before the meeting in the Sally Southall Cotten parlor from an appointed table covered with a cutwork cloth centered with an arrangement of red and white gladioli, homemade coconut cake, coffee and nuts were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Hicks Corey, Mrs. J. D. Aman, Mrs. Robert May and Mrs. Banks Cozart.

Social Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Izler and Mrs. Francis Walters of Charleston, S. C. arrived today to visit Mrs. Frank Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Waldrop and to attend the Golden Wedding Anniversary reception of Mr. and Mrs. John Staton in Bethel.

Credit Women Presented Credit Ed. Certificates

Certificates showing that they had successfully completed the Ninth Credit Education Course, published by the International Credit Women's Breakfast Clubs of North America in cooperation with the Retail Credit Association, were presented to the following members of the Greenville Credit Women's Breakfast Club on Saturday morning: Mrs. Margaret Arthur, Mrs. Cecil Bilbo, Mrs. James Brady, Mrs. Virginia Brady, Mrs. Joe Clark, Mrs. Thomas Coghill, Mrs. Frank Copeland, Mrs. Ernest Cassick, Mrs. Polly Dail, Miss Barbara Dail, Miss Elizabeth Deal, Mrs. Clayton Grey, Mrs. Bryant Hardy, Mrs. Lillian Hawkins, Mrs. E. Johnson, Mrs. Lucy Pittman, Mrs. Cora Powell, Miss Margaret Purvis, Mrs. Ola Porter, Miss Marguerite Rouse, Miss Jean Rush, Mrs. Paul Stokes, Mrs. August Schmidt, Mrs. Leon Singleton, Mrs. Rob Jones, Mrs. Chester Walsh, Mrs. Louise Wilson, Mrs. Guy Williams, Mrs. Mary Dell Seymour, Mrs. Maynard Porter, Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, Mrs. Ruby Lum and Miss Clara Seago.

that the most successful leadership is the kind we call democratic, and that the autocratic and laissez-faire type of leadership leaves much to be desired in a leader.

Mrs. Ruby Lum was elected second vice-president to fill the vacancy that existed due to the resignation of one of the members.

Mrs. Polly Dail, Pitt County Safety Council representative, reported on the recent council meeting and gave some of the highlights on an address made by Rep. Walter Jones on the Highway Safety Law.

Mrs. E. R. Johnson passed out cards from the Social Security office and members were advised to fill in and return to their district office in order to secure the amount of credit they have in their Social Security account.

Door prizes were distributed and the meeting was adjourned with the club creed.

Mrs. Whitehurst, Mrs. Edmondson Circle Co-Hostesses

BETHEL—The Sarah Whitehurst Circle met in the home of Mrs. W. C. Whitehurst with Mrs. J. A. Edmondson as co-hostess.

Mrs. Sam Whitehurst opened the meeting with prayer and gave a talk on the subject "Get Your Houses Ready." Mrs. J. C. Wynne conducted a short business session. Eighteen members were present and at the conclusion of the study book "Cross and Crisis in Japan," fruit, jello and cake were served.

T.E.L. Class Meeting The T.E.L. Class of Memorial Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. L. A. Stroud Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

America Runs Second To None

From what we've seen lately, Americans are awfully willing to credit Russian scientists with being able to pull one rabbit after another out of the same hat.

The attitude is apparent in elements of the press, among lawmakers and appointive officials as well as the proverbial man-in-the-street.

We don't like the idea of accepting second place in any field . . . especially when downgrading of our national abilities is required.

If Americans are going to think of themselves as second-raters, they'll be second-raters.

If we consciously or unconsciously give away the baton of leadership to another, you can be sure they'll grab for it . . . and wave it for all the world to see.

The United States, we're convinced, leads the world family of nations in so many respects that there's no reason to forfeit anything.

This outward evidence of Soviet dominance in a limited field doesn't spell gloom and doom. We still have some tricks up our own sleeves, and when the final score is counted there's no reason to believe the United States will run second to anybody.

All the American people have to do is become aware there is a race going on . . . and the stakes are not cheap. They'll buckle down, then, and nothing will stop them.

The buckling-down process is not for the few in positions of leadership alone. It is, rather, something for all, from the grassroots up.

Nobody; nobody can match America's might and ability when the people work up a full head of steam.

Let's Face It; This Is A War Budget

Izvestia terms the Administration's budget a "war budget" as though it was a dirty word.

Well, why not face it? It is a war budget.

Only the spur of war (take your choice, cold or hot) could make Congress swallow a budget frankly carrying a red ink label. Nor does the prospect of raising the national debt ceiling inspire a loud chorus of "noes."

Lawmakers and political chieftains are moving up to an election campaign, and they make no excuses for continued high taxes or deficit spending. They need none.

In the eyes of many, only the Strategic Air Command and the Hand of the Almighty have spared the Free World from the spectre of unlimited conflict.

With the march of time, our SAC will eventually become obsolete; leaving the Almighty and whatever else we can scrape together damming the tide of war. It will cost plenty.

Barring an outbreak of violence, this conflict of interests between the United States and Russia may go on fifty or a hundred years.

We're going to have our fill of war budgets.

Labor's Remedy For Economy

By LMER ROESSNER

Labor's remedy for current economic ailments is higher wages, taken out of corporation profits.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said that to prevent a worse business slump, there should be "increased mass purchasing power, based on high wages."

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, declared: "We are in trouble because big business is taking a disproportionately large share of the fruits of our developing economy. What is needed is higher take-home pay for workers and lower take-home profits for corporations."

The truth is that labor has been getting a generally larger share of the national goodies and corporations have been getting a smaller share.

THE OFFICIAL FIGURES
According to Department of Commerce statistics, in 1948 corporation profits before taxes were 14.8 per cent of the national income and the total compensation of employees was 63.5 per cent.

In 1956, the corporations got 12.5 per cent of the national pie, and employees got 70.5 per cent. In the first half of 1957 corporations got 12.0 per cent and employees got 70.8 per cent. Figures for the last half of the year have not been compiled.

In short, corporations have been getting less of the total national income and employees have been getting more.

On the other hand, profits before taxes did not include changes in inventory valuations which, in nine out of the 10 years cited, declined, thereby reducing the profit figure. Furthermore, it should be noted that corporation profits were taxed around 50 per cent, while taxes on earnings averaged less than half of that. Still further, the corporation profits paid out in dividends were taxed once more as income, sometimes at high rates.

NO PAT FORMULA

There is no way to determine how much of the national income either labor or corporations are entitled to. Perhaps labor should get 80 per cent and corporations 8 per cent, leaving 12 per cent for farmers, unincorporated businesses, professional men, landlords and money lenders. Or perhaps labor should get 69 per cent and corporations 11 per cent. There's not much to base a formula on.

But the fact remains that labor has been increasing its share and corporations have been getting less. And there is also this fact: If all corporate profits last year were paid out in wage and salary increases, the average rise would have been only 12 1/2 per cent, and the government would have had to take more than half of that to make up for a loss of $19 billion in corporation taxes and several billion more in income taxes on stockholders.

MUSIC BOX TAXABLE?
YOU'VE GUESSED IT!

The Internal Revenue Service has labored and brought forth this mouse: A detachable miniature music box, designed to be worn as a charm on a necklace or bracelet is not a musical instrument but an article of jewelry, and therefore subject to the 10 per cent retail tax.

Opinions In Brief

Actually, the hope of a world depends upon the resolutions of the individual. The world is not made up of masses, but of Johns and Janes—individuals just like those of us who live here in West Point.—West Point (Miss.) Times Leader.

A Santa Claus In Durham

The following article came to me via the editor. It came to him via some one whom he mentioned but whose name I've forgotten.

It was written by George Lougee of the Durham Herald and it was entitled "Greenville War Vet Finds Durham is Still a Friendly City."

Since it involved a Greenville man I'm passing it along to you, the reflector reader.

The article follows: Charles H. McGowan, 38-year-old war veteran of Greenville, N.C., will arrive here for Santa Claus in Durham Saturday.

McGowan accompanied by his four children, said he drove here "in my old trap of a car" to see a doctor recommended to him by physicians at the Veterans Administration Hospital on Erwin Road.

"We arrived here at noon but were unable to see the doctor at that time," he related. "Around 3:30 we started getting kind of hungry, me and the three girls and the boy. So we went to a little cafe—I couldn't even tell you where it is or what it's called.

"After we had eaten I reached in my pocket for my billfold. I really turned cold. It wasn't there. Mister I felt sick. Stranded in a town a long ways from home with four children (ages 8, 7, 6 and 5) and without a cent to my name, you can well imagine how it could hit you. It's a helpless feeling.

"I had to tell the cafe proprietor I just didn't have any money, that I had lost $24 in bills and about $8 in change.

There was an elderly gentleman sitting at the counter. He was listening to me, I could tell that. He opened his billfold and handed me $20. He smiled and said, "Take it." I shook my head. I told him I couldn't do it.

"But he insisted and I did take the money. I asked who should I thank for this kindness and he shook his head. Then I asked the proprietor who I should thank. He shook his head and smiled, too. I felt funny—I could have kissed that Good Samaritan. I paid the bill for the food and left. Then I filled the tank of the old bus with gas and paid for sleeping accommodations for the night at a motel. Oh, yes, I saw the doctor early Saturday night."

McGowan paused a minute. "I tell you it's good to know there are still people like that in this world. I thought the chips were really down for me. It just shows that there is a little kindness left."

"When I was a patient at a VA Hospital here a while back, I learned that Durham was a pretty good place. I like Durham then and now I'm really sold on your city. The least I could do, I figured, was to let folks here know that they've got a friend in Greenville and a real Santa Claus in Durham."

Other Editors Saying --- Barnhardt Gets Around

(Henderson Dispatch)

Lieutenant Governor Luther Barnhardt of Concord is acting for the world like a man who has political ambitions beyond the level where he now stands. His frequent visits to different sections of the State to make speeches and shake hands take him well beyond the bounds of the eighth congressional district, of which his county of Cabarrus is a part. That leads to the conclusion that he may have his eye upon the governorship as successor to Businessman Luther Hodges in the 1960 primaries. At any rate, that's the tenor of the gossip elicited by his increasingly frequent movements.

The Cabarrus legislator is well aware of the jinx upon No. 2 State officials in seeking the top rung in the ladder. Few indeed in half a century have ever made the high hurdle.

But politics today "ain't what they used to be" in many respects. For one thing, the old system of rotation of governors and lieutenant governors from East to West has been pretty well torn to shreds in recent years. Scott, Umstead and Hodges were successful in ignoring it. While the ascent from Barnhardt's present status to the one just above him is not in every sense of the word a matter of rotation, that is a factor, together with the traditional bugaboo that has stood in the way of lieutenant governors in the past.

Barnhardt proved himself a good vote getter two years ago at statewide level. His popularity and the esteem in which he was held in the Legislature at both ends of the Capitol didn't hurt him if he has further political ambitions.

The gubernatorial sweepstakes is two years away. But it isn't too early for aspiring citizens to be stepping up their activity, and that's what the Cabarrus man is doing. Others, of course, are also in a receptive mood. And most of those who have been mentioned as likely candidates appear qualified to assure the State of continued good government such as it has been able to boast the last fifty years.

If Barnhardt should become governor he would continue that good fortune.

It may be safely assumed that he is not getting about over the State and turning up at party functions at frequent intervals merely for his health nor as a sight-seeing tourist, nor for a good free meal. Almost certainly, more will be heard of and from him in the months to come, and especially when he goes back to Raleigh a year hence to preside over the 1959 State Senate.

Mutts Falling Behind

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — The mongrel dog—the flea-bitten mutt beloved of children—may be on the way out in this country.

He is becoming a victim of prosperity, according to Milton M. Weiss, president of the Animal Insurance Co. of America.

"In 1953 there were 28 million dogs in the United States and 15 million were pedigreed," said Weiss. "Today our dog population is 30 million, and 18 million are pedigreed."

"In a few short years there has been a decline of about one million in the number of non-pedigreed dogs."

"The reason is simple. People have been buying more expensive homes and cars—and they also have been upgrading their pets."

There were chorles of laughter last fall when Weiss founded the nation's first firm devoted exclusively to life insurance for pedigreed dogs. There also were howls of protest from mongrel owners, who felt their pets were being discriminated against.

Weiss, who had spent 26 years in the insurance business and entered the new field after a 10-year actuarial study of dogs, let neither the laughter nor the howls influence him.

"We can't insure mongrels, because they have only a sentimental value," he said. "But a pedigreed dog has a property value, just like real estate or furniture."

"We feel the average pedigreed dog is worth at least $300. Actually it costs about that much each year to raise one."

This estimate would give the nation's 18 million pedigreed dogs a total value of around 5 1/2 billion dollars.

Weiss's firm will insure pedigreed dogs ranging from six months up to seven years old for $100 per year per $100 of coverage—or up to nine years, if they are insured before the age of seven. The firm pays off for death by any cause except poisoning. Group insurance is available at lower rates to kennel owners for five or more dogs.

Dogs can be insured from $125 to $13,000. Of the 400 policies written so far, the largest is $5,000 to cover Asta, the dog that stars in "The Thin Man" series on TV.

So far only one claim has been filed. A German shepherd was killed by a hit-and-run driver only two days after his owner had taken out a $200 policy.

To guard against the possibility of fraud, his firm requires a certificate from a veterinarian giving the cause of death, in the event a claim is made, and proof that the dead dog is actually the one that was insured. This is done by taking its nose print, which is on file with the company.

"The nose prints of dogs are just as individual as the fingerprints of human beings," said Weiss.

MASTERING OUR MOODS

What must the moody person do to rise above his moods?

In the first place, if he is born moody (genetic, as it is called), he must recognize his difficulty and constantly guard against it. In the second place, if he is inclined toward depression, he must follow the advice of the Apostle Paul and if there is any virtue or any praise, think on these things. In other words, he must make a definite attempt to look on the sunny side of life and to see the best in all people.

This brings us to an extremely important matter, which is the attitude we maintain towards ourselves, for a moody person is often one who is inclined to despise himself and to enlarge upon his deficiencies and weaknesses. Just remember that the person you have to live with twenty-four hours a day is yourself. Try above everything else, therefore, to get on good terms with yourself.

Seek cheerful friends and surroundings. Avoid alcohol and habit-forming drugs, which give temporary relief but leave one in a worse state than before.

Above all, have faith in a just, living, and all-powerful God. He has put us in the world. He is bound to take care of us, and He will begin and ends in love. Moodiness often has a physical cause. Learn about this and try to circumvent it. Approach your moods from a physical, mental, and spiritual angles. They are all important.

Bulgarian's Propaganda Victory

By CONSTANTINE BROWN

WASHINGTON — Soviet Premier Bulganin's second communication to the Western nations scored another propaganda victory for the Kremlin and placed the Soviet leaders in a very advantageous political position. Hitting hard and fast is always a good tactic, and the men of Moscow have done just that twice recently — first on the eve of the NATO Council's meeting in Paris, which President Eisenhower attended, and then hard on the heels of the President's State-of-the-Union message to the Congress.

The President's address was one of his better ones, and charted a constructive, if very general, path for American policy in military strength and in the search for areas of agreement which might lessen the tensions of the cold war. But Mr. Bulganin's blitzkrieg letter certainly competed heavily with Mr. Eisenhower's speech in the headlines of the world.

To those citizens of the free world who, in their earnest hopes for peace and tranquility after so many years of bitterness and tensions, see considerable merit in the Bulganin proposals, it is necessary to voice a few words of warning. First of all, it is plain that there is absolutely no evidence of any real Soviet concessions, or even of new proposals, in either of the two Bulganin notes. All they offer is essentially the same package which the West, under the leadership of Secretary of State Dulles, has firmly rejected in the past.

Thus it is clear enough that the Kremlin's current peace of offensive is purely for propaganda purposes. If it were sincere, it would include some genuine modification of previous Communist positions. Mr. Bulganin would at least have indicated a Soviet disposition to talk over a few of the major points on which negotiations between East and West have been deadlocked. There is no such indication in the letters, only a wordy repetition of the same Moscow proposals made over and over again, and as often rejected.

Nevertheless, as propaganda for the anesthetizing of the free world and the disarming of the Western alliance, the Bulganin letters are completely effective. They emphasize by implication the negative aspects of the Dulles position in opposition to high level talks, and place the United States in particular and the NATO allies in general in the position of rebuffing all efforts toward a settlement of outstanding differences. They are certain to weaken the unity of the free world by encouraging the already powerful trends toward a disastrous neutralism in Western Europe. And they further weaken the prestige of the West in the uncommitted areas of the world.

No matter what Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Dulles do now, the advantage of the initiative is in the Kremlin's hands. This strategic victory has been achieved without a single hard and fast promise, or a single real concession, or a single act or pledge that would weaken the Soviet military position or that of the satellite nations in Central and Eastern Europe. Russia has won a major battle without a single casualty.

The timing of the second Bulganin letter was tricky in the extreme, because it was certain to be contrasted in the minds of people everywhere with the pronouncements of President Eisenhower's annual message to Congress. Since the Eisenhower message was of necessity couched in generalities, and the Bulganin letter was seemingly precise in what it proposed, the impression was natural that the Soviet position was precise and detailed, while that of the President was but sketchy, a piously worded plea for more armaments, more missiles, more comparison is completely in error does not detract from the propaganda advantage gained by the shrewd leaders of the Soviet dictatorship.

If the Soviet Union really wanted to relax tensions and build a solid foundation for later sincere negotiations with the West, there are a number of small beginnings that Moscow could make alone, without talks of any kind. For example: Take the restriction off Western diplomats in the Soviet Union, letting them travel freely and at will. Ease or remove entirely the oppressive Soviet censorship of Western newsmen's dispatches. End the feudal, medieval isolation of Soviet diplomats in Western capitals. Relax suspicion and hostility everywhere, not just for formal delegations. This would be a start.

HDC Demonstration Points Out Women's Interest In Records

FOUNTAIN—Members of the Fountain Home Demonstration Club met for their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Fred Moore Thursday.

"Women, as well as men, are becoming more and more aware of the need to keep complete and accurate records for the farm and home," said Mrs. Lillie Little, Pitt County Home Agent, who chose as the subject for her demonstration "The Home Business Center."

As well as good advice and suggestions, Mrs. Little used color slides to emphasize the importance of a central place to keep records. A lively discussion among the members followed Mrs. Little's demonstration.

Baptist Center Plans Forums

The Baptist Student Center is planning a wide variety of forums. The January 20 forum, "Purpose in Life," will be led by the Rev. Calvin Knight, pastor of the Weldon Baptist Church.

The Rev. Mr. Knight, who visited the East Carolina campus last year, was the principal speaker of the Religious Emphasis Week at Chowan College. He will discuss the basic questions of: 1. How can we make sure that our small niche has a purpose, and that this purpose is the real one in our life? 2. Will looking through our problems and responsibilities to the divine purpose disclose the real meaning to life?

The following week, January 27, one of the members of the East Carolina faculty will tell us "Why I Know There is a God." Dr. Grover Everett of the Science Department teaches a Sunday school class at the Immanuel Baptist Church. He will show that in nature, through experience, and in Christian fellowship, persons can feel sure that there is a God.

"Pinky" Boseman, the 5:15 forum chairman, and Ruth Lineburger, chairman of the 7:00 forum, announce the topics for February. The Rev. Robert Newton of the Campbell faculty will show "How to Study the Bible." The following week, February 10, Ruth Lassiter, the B. S. U. director, will lead in "Learning To Pray." February 17, Dr. J. K. Long, Dean of Graduate Students at E. C. C., will present the characteristics of "The Christian Teacher."

Director Tries To Guide ECC Students

Behind the Wisconsin accent and great big smile which greets each student at the Presbyterian Youth Center is Mrs. Lydia Lanier who has recently assumed the duties of Director of Presbyterian Campus Christian Life.

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin, Mrs. Lanier was quite active as a member of the Religious Council in her home church.

Mrs. Lanier and her husband, Edwin, who is a senior at East Carolina College, are now living in an apartment on the second floor of the center.

Enjoying the fellowship with the students in Christian contacts, she feels, "This is a rare opportunity to serve Christ and present him to others."

The Presbyterian Center is located at 401 East 9th Street.

Mrs. White Named President Of Pitt County Girl Scout Council

Mrs. Charles A. White, new president, opened the January meeting of the Pitt County Girl Scout Council by asking the members to stand and repeat the Girl Scout Promise. The meeting was held on Monday evening, January 13, at the home of Mrs. J. K. Proctor, executive director.

After the minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. J. H. Thomas, Mrs. Henry Harrell, treasurer, reported that the Community Chest goal had been reached and that the budget for 1958 would be met.

In this connection the secretary was asked to write a letter to J. B. Kittrell thanking him for his efforts on behalf of the Community Chest and congratulating him on the success of the recent drive for funds. All Council members were urged to support the United Fund, which will replace the Community Chest next year.

Mrs. White read the annual report of the Council, which will be printed and distributed to the citizens of Greenville, Grifton and Winterville at the annual tea on January 26. Ayden and Farmville will have teas during Girl Scout Week and will distribute the reports at that time.

Mrs. W. M. Reading Jr., chairman of the Membership and Nominating Committee, read the following list of Council officers and committee chairmen for the year 1958:

President, Mrs. Charles A. White; first vice-president, Mrs. W. M. Reading Jr.; second vice-president, Mrs. M. P. Hoot; secretary, Mrs. J. H. Thomas; treasurer, Mrs. Henry Harrell; publicity committee, Mrs. David Whitchard III; camp committee, Mrs. F. D. Duncan; registrar, Mrs. C. C. Skinner; staff and office committee, Mrs. A. C. Ruffin; troop organization, Mrs. Charles Horne Jr.; training, Mrs. A. A. Hines; program, Mrs. E. L. Henderson; international friendship, Mrs. Wyatt Brown; membership and nominating, Mrs. W. M. Reading Jr.; finance committee, Mr. L. M. Buchanan; policymaking committee, Mr. James Lanier; Service League representative, Mrs. William Wright; member-at-large, Mrs. J. S. Ficklen; leader representative, Mrs. Edgar J. Barrett; Scout representative, Mrs. J. H. Behr; Brownie representative, Mrs. R. P. Farmer; and neighborhood representatives, Farmville, Mrs. Frank Allen; Winterville, Mrs. Graham Olive; Grifton, Mrs. E. A. Haseley; and Ayden, Mrs. Reece Twilly.

Mrs. Ruffin, chairman of the Staff and Office Committee, reported that the mimeograph machine in the executive director's office is outmoded and practically useless, and she was authorized to purchase a new one.

Mrs. Reading, who is in charge of the cookie sale, stated that it would be held from March 6-12 and that plans for it were complete.

Mrs. Farmer, president of the Brownie Leaders' Club, reported that a display of handicrafts was being prepared for the tea. Mrs. Behr, president of the Scout Leader's Club, made a similar report and added that Scouts would make cookies for the tea.

Mrs. Behr also made a report on a recent trip she made to Norfolk, Va. on behalf of the Council to investigate some articles at the Navy surplus warehouse.

Mrs. White announced that the name of Dr. Sam White should be added to the list of consultants for troop activities. Dr. White has agreed to help the Scouts with their First Aid Badges.

Mrs. Haseley stated that a delegation from Grifton would attend the annual tea in Greenville on January 26; but, in addition, Grifton Scouts would hold a Mother and Daughter Tea on February 14.

Neighborhood representatives present for the meeting were Mrs. Haseley from Grifton, Mrs. Frank Allen of Farmville, Mrs. Graham Olive of Winterville and Mrs. Reece Twilly of Ayden. Visitors were Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Turnage and Mrs. Burns, all of Ayden.

Mrs. Andrews Points Out, True Source Of Joy Is God

BETHEL—The Wednesday morning CFO prayer group met with Mrs. J. B. Bunting at 10 o'clock with 11 women present. After scripture reading, Mrs. T. A. Andrews Jr. had charge of the devotions. Her topic was "The Virtue of Joy" in which she discussed the character of joy, the source of joy, where we find joy and how we find joy.

She pointed out that "joy is a fruit of the spirit and having spiritual qualities, it is attainable to all who seek for a closer walk with God. The true source of joy is God and this virtue comes only from within ourselves, through our relationship with Him."

"If we choose God's way, we choose the way of happiness." In discussing her last point—"How do we find happiness?"—she said, "It is first of all an act of faith—a childlike trust. We can help ourselves obtain this virtue by filling our lives with hope and prayer, by devoting ourselves to the very highest type of living, and by exercising those ingredients of habit, mentally, physically, and spiritually obedience and discipline in our daily living."

She concluded by saying, "If we could in this new year let go of those things in life that have kept us from happiness and with God's help obtain this virtue of joy, we would find the year 1958 the happiest of our lives." Mrs. Andrews concluded with prayer.

YWA Meets With Betty Cooper

BETHEL—The Y. W. A. met with Miss Betty Cooper, who gave the program, in her home this week with seven of the eight members present.

Mrs. Irvin Taylor, leader, was chief adviser. Miss Sue Taylor, president, presided. Community Missions for the sick, the bereaved and newcomers were discussed after which Miss Cooper discussed "The Golden Door."

She remarked, "We should be prepared to welcome immigrants to our country as well as newcomers to our community and give them an opportunity to learn of Christ and gain salvation." The meeting adjourned with prayer.

Refreshments were served at the social hour.

The Y. W. A. meets again with Miss Malena and Miss Ann Moringo on January 27.

Circle Meet

BETHEL—The Marion Burton Circle met with Mrs. Delton Perry Monday afternoon with nine members present.

Mrs. Perry gave the program and Mrs. Sam Keel, spiritual life leader, gave a short devotion on "How to Pray." After the last two chapters of the study book were finished, fruit cake, nuts and coffee were served.

Disneyland Became Big Success Despite Critics

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Now that the 10 millionth visitor has passed through the gates of Disneyland, Walt Disney can afford to be satisfied with the figures in the first 2 1/2 years of operation.

"Disney's Folly" has turned into a rousing success. Critics had said too much money was being sunk into an amusement park far away from metropolitan centers. Time has proved that people will come from everywhere to the park—from 65 countries, in fact. Nor has the place proved to be merely for the kiddies, as was predicted. Adults outnumber children 3 1/2 to 1. The average amount spent by visitors is $2.61, including parking, admission, rides and souvenirs.

The publicity value of Disneyland cannot be denied. Of course, virtually all the film stars with children have been there. But it is also a mecca for visiting VIPs. The King of Morocco was so intrigued on his official visit there that he returned incognito for another whirl.

Among other notable visitors: former President Truman, President Sukarno of Indonesia, the Prime Minister of Pakistan, Vice President Nixon, Chief Justice Warren, the Begum Aga Khan, the Prince and Princess of Liechtenstein.

The girls may be missing from the Motion Picture Herald's poll of the 10 top box office stars, but Kim Novak, Deborah Kerr and Debbie Reynolds are Nos. 11-13. Marilyn Monroe had better get back to work. In the top 10 last year, she didn't make the first 25 this time. . . . Jean Seberg, the Iowa Cinderella, makes a much better impression in "Bonjour Tristesse" than she did in her first flop, "St. Joan." The picture's frank treatment of French morals may shock some Americans—Frenchmen, too perhaps. Otto Preminger made smart use of color in the movie—filming in black-and-white for present-day scenes and full color for flashbacks.

NUTS TO THE BIRDS

SUFFOLK, Va. (AP)—Black-birds went to work and paid back a small portion of the high cost they levy on peanut farmers by eating the crops set out on drying racks. This season the birds showed up after a hard freeze and obligingly pecked away the frozen pods, saving the farmers the expense of painstaking raking away the useless outside frozen layer from each stack.

Plan Recreation Institute Here During March

A Social Recreation Institute will be staged here for four days during the month of March, Recreation Director Gordon Goodman reported to the Recreation Commission this week.

The Institute, according to Goodman, is scheduled for March 3-6 and will be headed by Ruth Eblers, staff representative for the National Recreation Association in New York. A staff representative of the North Carolina Recreation Commission will also be present. Sessions are to be open to any person interested in recreational leadership training courses. It was explained. Registration for the full session are $3 each. Goodman noted that registration fees for any one session would be $1.

During the four-day period, sessions have been scheduled in the afternoon and night. Four sessions will be conducted for the Negro and four for the white. The first two days of the Institute will be held at the new South Greenville Recreation Center for the Negro. On March 5 and 6, the sessions are scheduled at the Elm Street Recreation Center for the white.

Goodman also reported on the City Industrial Basketball League and Junior High intramural program and cited progress being made in both. The Commission also heard a report on the basketball program for 10, 11 and 12-year-olds that was started at Wahl-Coates School. He explained that the program is conducted from 3:30 until 5 p.m. on Mondays and Fridays and is handled by the Recreation class at the college.

A report was also given by Luke Hemby, Negro Recreation Supervisor. Hemby's report centered around two new programs being installed into the Negro Recreation schedule. These are: The Adult Night to be staged each Tuesday night and the Arts and Crafts program scheduled for Thursday night of each week. Mrs. Madge Allen will conduct the Arts and Crafts, open to all adult Negroes, Hemby related.

It was announced that the February meeting of the Recreation Commission will be held Monday night, February 17, instead of the regularly scheduled date, February 10.

Sunday Mrs. J. M. Sparks and Miss Johnnie Sparks were in Kinston to attend the Memorial service for their granddaughter and niece Miss Vickie Sue Griffin, 16 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Roberson had as their guests for the weekend, her brother James W. Phillips, Mrs. Phillips and son from Lumberton.

Terrel Smith returned to Baltimore, Md. Sunday to resume his studies in dentistry at the University of Maryland.

Al-c and Mrs. Bobby Moore have returned to Savannah, Ga. after a visit with relatives in Robersonville and Williamston.

Mrs. C. E. Case of Fountain was the guest of Mrs. R. E. Grimes from Sunday until Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Wade Vick returned to her home Jan. 9. A stomach hemorrhage kept her in the Ward Clinic for five days.

Mayor Henry S. Everett is recuperating at his home following major surgery and a long stay at Park View Hospital, Rocky Mount.

LAST SURVIVOR

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Harmon Wynkoop, 85, is the last survivor of eight children of Edward W. Wynkoop, who was in the group helping to found Denver in 1858.

A Denver street is named after Wynkoop's father.

TO NEW POST — Charles W. Yost, counselor and deputy chief of mission at American embassy in Paris, was named ambassador to Syria by President Eisenhower.

Debra Becomes 4th Or 5th Wife Of Vocalist

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Actress Debra Paget and singer David Street were married last night in a quiet home ceremony despite reports that the fourth wife—the one he married and divorced last month—might cause a ruckus.

Mrs. Maggie Griffin, mother of the shapely Debra, told a reporter that dancer Sharon Lee had called her several times yesterday threatening to disrupt the marriage.

"I wasn't the least bit nervous about losing a daughter," said Mrs. Griffin, "because I gained such a wonderful son-in-law. But I kept looking toward the door all during the ceremony for fear that Sharon would show up."

Miss Lee appeared on the Tom Duggan Show, a local TV program, on the eve of the wedding and declared that Street's love for Debra had broken up their 30-day Nevada marriage.

To this Mrs. Griffin replied: "Why, Debra and Dave weren't even alone until this—their wedding night."

Both the shapely Debra, 24, and the 37-year-old singer said their friendship blossomed into love on last Saturday night while watching a late movie on TV. However, they have known each other since 1945.

"We started watching it just like any other movie," said Debra,

"but we never did find out how it ended. He kissed me during the commercial and, wow! I knew then I was in love."

Debra long had been publicized as Hollywood's only unknissed starlet. This was because filmland never had seen her in public without her mother.

She is Street's fifth wife, although he says he has been married only four times—"one of my wives got an annulment instead of a divorce. That doesn't count."

Mrs. Mary Street, wife No. 1, served Street with a show-cause order demanding back support payments for their 14-year-old son.

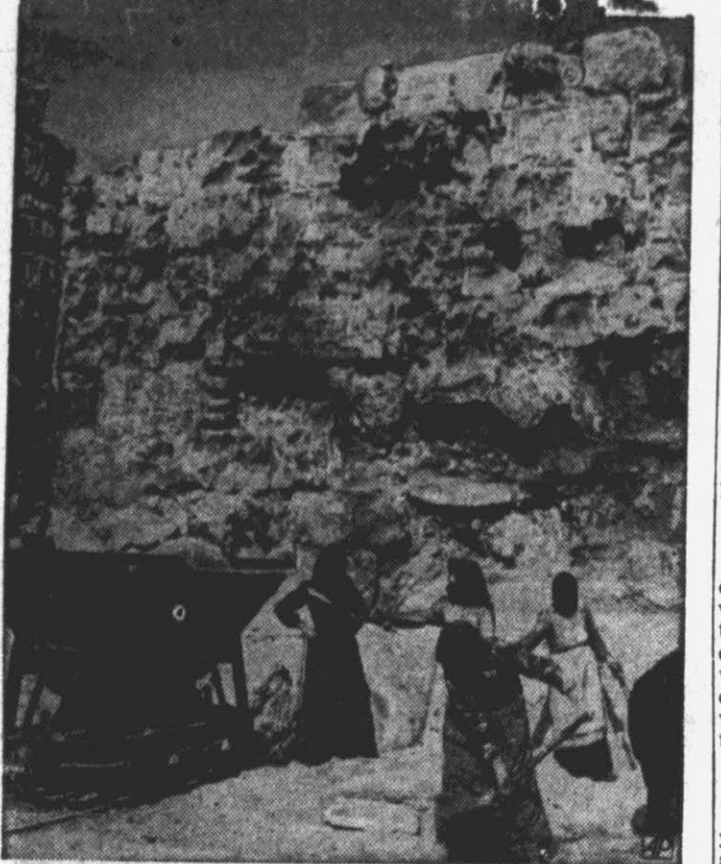

About 100 guests, most of them reporters and photographers, crowded the living room of the 26-room Griffin mansion.

Filmland Pays A Final Tribute

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The film industry pays its final tribute tomorrow to a pioneer producer, Jesse L. Lasky Sr., at funeral services in a cemetery chapel.

Lasky, one of the celebrated few chiefly responsible for developing the infant film industry to giant status during a 44-year career, died last Monday at 77. He collapsed with a heart attack.

Murder Does Its Homework

By CORNELL WOOLRICH

What Has Happened

Miss Prince, his teacher, knew Johnny Gaines' character and capabilities too well to attribute his vivid description of a violent dream to imaginative thinking. Something was wrong at Johnny's house, she sensed, and it seemed a matter for police. But Detective Kendall, at headquarters, was unimpressed by her fears and Miss Prince decided to look into things on her own. Her first step, she hoped, would be to rent a room with Johnny's folks — if it could be arranged.

CHAPTER TWO

It was even farther than she had expected it to be, a rather depressing-looking farm-type of building, in open country. It was set back from the road, and the whole area around it had an air of desolation and neglect.

A tall, thin, timid-looking woman came forward to meet them as they neared the door, wiping her hands on an apron. "Mom, this is my teacher, Miss Prince," Johnny introduced.

At once the woman's expression became even more harassed and intimidated. "You been doing something you shouldn't again? Johnny, why can't you be a good boy?"

"No, this has nothing to do with Johnny's conduct," Emily Prince hastened to explain. She repeated the request for lodging she had already made to the boy.

It was apparent at a glance that the suggestion frightened the woman. "I dunno, she kept saying, 'I dunno what Mr. Mason will say about it. He ain't in right now.'"

Johnny was registered at school under the names of Gaines. Mr. Mason must be the boy's step-father then. It was easy to see that the poor woman before her was completely dominated by him, wherever he was. She made up her mind to get inside this house if she had to coax, bribe, or browbeat her way in.

She opened her purse, took out a large-size bill, and allowed it to be seen in her hand, in readiness to seal the bargain.

The boy's mother was obviously awayed by the sight of it. "We could use the money, of course," she wavered. "But—wouldn't it be too far out for you, here?"

Miss Prince faked a slight cough. "Not at all. The country air would be good for me. Couldn't I at least see one of the rooms?" she coaxed.

Mrs. Mason led the way up a badly creaking inner staircase. "There's really only one room fit for anybody," she apologized. "I'd only want it temporarily," Miss Prince assured her. "Maybe a week or two at the most."

She looked around. It really wasn't as bad as she had been led to expect by the appearance of the house from the outside. In other words, it was the masculine share of the work, the painting and external repairing, that was remiss. The feminine share, the interior cleaning, was being kept up to the best of Mrs. Mason's ability.

Miss Prince struck while the iron was hot. "I'll take it," she said firmly, and thrust the money she had been holding into the other's hand before she had time to put forward any objections.

"I — I guess it's all right," Mrs. Mason breathed, wringing her hands in the apron. "I'll tell Mr. Mason it's just for the time being." She tried to smile to make amends for her own trepidation. "He's not partial to having strangers in with us—. When will you be wanting to move in?"

Miss Prince had no intention of relinquishing her tactical advantage. "I may as well stay now that I'm out here," she said, "I can have my things sent out."

She closed the door of her new quarters and sat down to think. The sun was already starting to go down when she heard an approaching tread coming up the neglected dirt track that led to the door. She edged over to the window and peered cautiously down. Mason, if that was he, was villainous-looking at first glance, much more so than she had expected him to be. He was thick-set, strong as a steer in body, with bushy black brows and small, alert eyes. She left the window and hastened across the room to gain the doorway and overheard his first reaction to the news of her being there. She strained her ears.

"Where's Ed?" she heard him grunt unobscuredly. This was, the first inkling she had had that there was still another member of the household.

"Still over in town, I guess, she heard Mrs. Mason was obviously distressed as she nervously herself to make the unwelcome announcement — the listener above could tell by the very ring of her voice. "Johnny's teacher's come to stay with us — a little while."

There was savagery in his rejoinder. "What'd you do that for?" And then a sound followed that Emily Prince could identify for a second. A sort of quick, staggering footfall. A moment later she realized what it must have been. He had given the woman a violent push to express his disapproval.

She heard her whimper: "She's up there right now, Dirk." "Get rid of her!" was the snarling answer.

"I can't, Dirk, she already give me the money, and — and she ain't going to be here but a short spell anyway."

She heard him come out stealthily below her, trying to listen up just as she was trying to listen down. An unnatural silence fell, then prolonged itself unnaturally.

He turned and went back again at last, with a heavy, ready-to-keel over from the long strain of holding herself motionless. She crept back inside her room and drew a long breath.

The porch floor throbbed again, and someone else had come in. This must be the Ed she had heard them talk about. She didn't try to listen this time. Whatever was said to him would be in a careful undertone. Mrs. Mason came out shortly after, called up: "Miss Prince, like to come down to supper?"

The teacher steeled herself, opened the door, and stepped out. This was going to be a battle of wits. On their side they had an animal-like craftiness. On hers she had intellect, a trained mind, and self-control.

They were at the table already eating — such a thing as waiting for her had never entered their heads. They ate crouched over, and that gave them the opportunity of watching her surreptitiously. Mrs. Mason said: "You can sit here next to Johnny. This is my husband. And this is my stepson, Ed."

The brutality on Ed's face was less deeply ingrained than on Mason's. It was only a matter of degree, however. "Evenin'," Mason grunted. The son only nodded, peering upward at her in a half-baleful, half-suspicious way, taking her measure.

They ate in silence for a while, though she could tell that all their minds were busy on the same thing: her presence here.

Finally Mason spoke. "Reckon you'll be staying some time?" "No," she said quietly, "just a short while."

The son Ed spoke next, after a considerable lapse of time. She could tell he'd premeditated the question for a full ten minutes. "How'd you happen to pick our place?"

"I knew Johnny, from my class. And it's a quieter out here."

She caught the flicker of a look passing among them.

They shoved back their chairs, one after the other, got up and turned away, without a word. Mason sauntered over into the dark beyond the porch. Ed Mason stopped to strike a match to a cigarette he had just rolled. Even in the act of doing that, however, she caught his head turned slightly toward her, watching her.

The older man's voice sounded from outside: "Ed, come out here a minute, I want to talk to you."

She knew what about — they were going to compare impressions, possibly plot a course of action.

The first battle was a draw. She got up and went after Mrs. Mason. "I'll help you with the dishes." She wanted to get into that kitchen.

She couldn't see it at first. She kept trying her eyes, scanning the floor furtively while she wiped Mrs. Mason's thick-chipped crockery. Finally she thought she detected something. A shadowy bald patch, so to speak. It was both cleaner than the surrounding area, as though it had been scrubbed vigorously, and at the same time it was overcast. There were the outlines of a stain faintly discernible.

She moved aimlessly around, pretending to dry off something, until she was standing right over it. Then she pretended to fumble her cloth, let it drop. She bent down, and planted the flat of her hand squarely on the shadowy place, as if trying to retain her balance. She let it stay that way for a moment.

She didn't have to look at the other woman. A heavy mug shattered resoundingly at her feet. Emily Prince straightened up, and only then glanced at her. Mrs. Mason's face had whitened a little. She averted her eyes.

"She's told me," Miss Prince said to herself with inward satisfaction. There hadn't been a word exchanged between the two of them. She went upstairs to her room a short while after. If somebody had been murdered in the kitchen, what disposal had been made of the body? Something must have been done with it — a thing like that just doesn't disappear.

She sat on the edge of the cot, wondering: "Am I going to have nerve enough to sleep here to-night, under the same roof with a couple of murderers?" The image of Detective Kendall flashed before her mind, laughing uproariously at her. "I certainly am! I'll show him whether I'm right or not!" And she proceeded to blow out the lamp and lie down.

Sinister implications involve Johnny's ill-bred folks, a woods, a well and a cornfield in tomorrow's dramatic chapter of MURDER DOES ITS HOMEWORK, exclusively in the Daily Reflector.

UAW To Bolster Big Strike Fund

DETROIT (AP)—Delegates to the United Auto Workers special convention next week will be asked to set up a strike fund for use if forthcoming contract talks fail, a UAW spokesman said.

The union said benefits from the fund will be based on "right" instead of "need," as in the past, with strikers receiving a uniform weekly payment. Payments formerly have varied with individual requirements.

The UAW said establishment of the fund probably will mean an increase in monthly dues among its 1,200,000 members.

The present strike fund totals nearly 24 million dollars, the union said.

Earth Tremors For Third Day

RAZ, Austria —For the third straight day earth shocks early today rocked the area around the town of Muerzzuschlag, about midway between Graz and Vienna.

So far no casualties or serious property damage have been reported.

A BITTER MAN

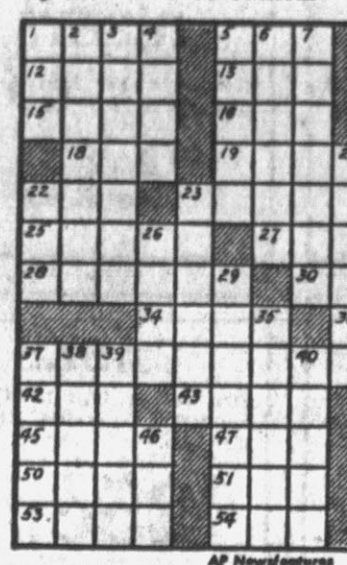

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Don't blame Oklahoma City Det. Bill Rackley if he's a little bitter. Rackley, whose job with the youth detail is counseling errant teenagers, is looking for youthful vandals he says stole a new $20 set of hubcaps from his car while it was in his driveway.

Australia has 2,974,580 square miles.

Truman Urges A Bold Initiative

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says "every door and window and chimney" should be left open "to even the faintest ghost of a chance to work out some workable arrangement for peace."

"But," he said in a speech last night, "let us not make the mistake and fail to do what so urgently needs to be done, and that is to restore and maintain our strength at a level which will not tempt the Communist imperialists into aggression."

Addressing the New York Employing Printers Assn., he called for "bold action, bold initiative and bold imagination linked to patience" in this country's dealings with the Soviet Union.

He said that these, "established on the solid foundation of strength, are needed to stay the hand of the latest breed of tyrants."

The former President would not direct reference to the Eisenhower administration, which he criticized severely earlier in the week.

"We need real national unity—through firm and clear leadership," he said. "We ought to realize—every one of us in this country—that business as usual is no answer to the challenge we face today."

Truman received the Franklin Medal for distinguished service from the Printing Week Committee.

Buyer's Market Exists In New York Buildings

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A buyer's market seems to be at hand today for one of the last postwar shortages—space in the ultramodern office buildings that have been changing the face of New York City.

Smaller firms wanting modest-sized quarters say they are now able to find them in the fanciest buildings. Until recently builders were loathe to lease to any but those wanting one or more floors.

At least two large projects have been held up until the promoters can sign up enough tenants to induce investors to put up the necessary mortgage money.

Contractors, however, deny that there are any but temporary difficulties. They insist that the great postwar Manhattan building boom hasn't saturated the market, that would-be tenants are still shopping around for space, and that mortgage money will be forthcoming for the delayed projects before long.

Some builders concede that renting isn't as brisk as a couple of years back but say the basic demand for up-to-date offices is still strong.

Growing business firms are finding mounting paper work cramping them in old quarters and are moving into new. Out-of-town manufacturers are moving office headquarters to New York or establishing a New York branch. New businesses continue to be formed, despite all the mergers and even the increase in business fatalities.

Builders say that 1958 will see more square feet of available office space completed than even booming 1957, which set a postwar record. Other buildings now under way will be completed in 1959 and 1960. Enough projected building is considered to be firmly committed to assure construction activity into the next decade.

But the specter of an earlier boom and bust haunts the memory of many in the industry. The 1925 to 1933 office building boom ended with some of the 30 million square feet of new office space going begging.

Proposed building by corporations for their own use seems fairly sure of going through on schedule. The others announced or filed by commercial builders will await signing of tenants and sewing up of mortgage money.

Students Stage Demonstrations

CARACAS, Venezuela — Student demonstrations are continuing against President Marcos Perez Jimenez.

High school students staged the largest of several demonstrations yesterday. Police used tear gas and the flat sides of macehete blades to break them up. An undetermined number were arrested.

Many residents reported that the opposition had taken to the telephone with an apparently tape recorded message saying, "The liberation movement continues and we are counting on you."

Perez Jimenez put down a one-day revolt of air force and some army units Jan. 1 but unrest has continued.

Sarah Surmounts Tide Of Trouble

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They were betting actress Sarah Churchill wouldn't make it. When the daughter of Great Britain's Sir Winston Churchill entered NBC's huge television studio at 5:30 a. m. yesterday, a stagehand watching her arrival murmured: "That took guts." At noon, Miss Churchill's wan face was submitted to the glaring lights and searching eye of the television camera in an hourlong play, "The Makropoulos Secret." She gave one of the best performances of her life, critics said. Many TV viewers also believed it "took guts" for the actress to appear. Less than 24 hours before arrival at the station, she had been a temporary inmate of county jail. She had been arrested on a drunk charge after sheriff's deputies accused her of using profane language over the telephone. The arrest was accompanied by kicking, scuffling and tearing of clothes, the officers said. Miss Churchill goes into court tomorrow to answer the misdemeanor charge. Soon after she was bailed out, she headed for the TV studio and rehearsed five hours. "It was one of the best performances I've ever seen Miss Churchill give," said Cecil Smith, television critic of the Los Angeles Times. "As she walked proudly past (toward the camera and the waiting millions) I thought I saw her extend two fingers—as if to form a V."

Laymen Elected By N. C. Baptist Meet

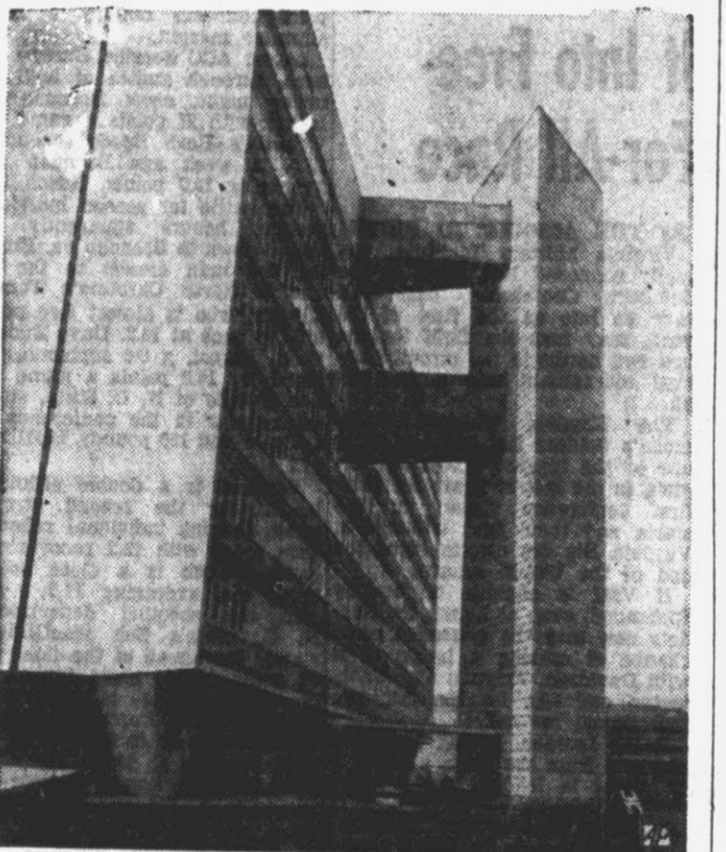

RALEIGH (AP) — The General Board of the Baptist State Convention has elected two laymen in preference to two ministers as members-at-large of its Executive Committee. The action came yesterday as the board wound up its two-day meeting here. In other action, the board adopted a record budget for 1958, and a committee reported it will look into a Wilmington minister's request that steps be taken to prevent "hasty actions" by the convention. The motion calling for the committee of 17 was made, he declared, when "the hour was late, and a majority of the messengers had left the hall."

Seven Ships And Crews In Case

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Three federal judges examine an involved damage case today concerning seven U. S. liberty ships awarded to Nationalist China but whose crews defected with the vessels to the Red China mainland.

The case comes to the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals, sitting here, from a federal district court at Baltimore, Md. The district court ordered the National Union Fire Insurance Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., to pay damages. The Pittsburgh firm had insured the vessels. Other parties to the suit include the U. S. government, which held mortgages on the ships, the Republic of China and the China Merchants Steam Navigation Co. The appeals court will hear a Maryland school segregation case tomorrow. It stems from Hertford County and tests that county's "stair step" program for gradual integration. Eleven Negro children seeking to enter white schools, appealed a district court ruling that the program complied with the U. S. Supreme Court's integration rulings. In a decision by Chief Judge John J. Parker, handed down yesterday, the court held that the federal government can seize life insurance policies for unpaid income taxes. The case concerned a West Virginia physician, Dr. Milton Alfred Gilmore, convicted in 1953 for income tax evasion between 1942 and 1948. Gilmore allegedly fled to Canada and the government sought to obtain face value of his life insurance policies with Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and Guardian Life Insurance Co.

R. N. Simms Jr. of Raleigh and Clarence Green of Henderson were elected to the Executive Committee. They won over the Rev. R. V. Greer of Marshville and the Rev. Earl Robinett of Waynesville. The executive committee now has four lay members and six ministers, largest lay representation of the committee's history. The board made appropriations totaling $2,075,000 for state missions, colleges, homes for the aged, hospitals, children's homes, and the Baptist Recorder. The Southern Baptist Convention will receive $1,140,000 for the Baptists' $3,750,000 cooperative program goal for 1958. A committee named to study the constitution and bylaws of the Baptist State Convention reported to the board that it will consider a request by the Rev. Randolph L. Gregory, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Wilmington. In a letter to the board, the Rev. Mr. Gregory said "The hasty action leading up to the appoint-

'Fledermaus' Intended To Please Both Eye And Ear

When the National Grass Roots Opera Company brings "opera in English as good entertainment for everybody" to Greenville on Monday, January 20 at the McGinnis Auditorium, there will be more to it than meets the ear. In fact, quite a lot of it will meet the eye. The visual appeal of opera has always been one of its greatest attractions. The visual appeal of the current season's offering, Johann Strauss' FLEDERMAUS, will rate very high. To begin with, the singers themselves will be quite attractive. Remember, — this is not grand opera of the buxom foreign prima donna in her forties (age and dress size) with her two stiff gestures as she sings a love song to the rotund tenor in his platform soles and three inch heels; this is intimate, fresh, and alive "grass roots" opera sung in English by handsome young professional American singers who can make the characters real not only with their music, but also with their appearance on stage. Twenty-six is the average age of the ten young troupers on the roster of the Grass Roots Opera Company for the 1957-1958 season. Only one of the six men is under six feet tall, and he just misses the mark by an inch. The four women of the Company are on the smallish side, both in height and weight. The costumes they will wear in FLEDERMAUS have been designed and executed by Margaret Carney of Texas who has done all the costumes for the operas taken on national tour by the Company the past two seasons. She holds the Master of Arts degree from Baylor University where she has taught Opera Literature, and has studied costume and set design with Virgil Beavers of the famous Baylor Experimental Theater and with Elwell of New York, designer for CBS. Mrs. Carney, who has sung in opera, studies the music carefully before designing her costumes. Her FLEDERMAUS costume designs were created from the music of this sparkling operetta and from the colors found in the names of some of the most famous Strauss Waltzes. The sets for this Grass Roots Opera production of FLEDERMAUS, designed and built by two North Carolinians, Margot Gladding and James Hall of Kinston, also reflect the gay music of Johann Strauss and will add much to the visual enjoyment of the opera. These colorful and ingenious sets solve the problems of quick mounting and easy transportation for this touring company without sacrificing any of the illusion of this make-believe world of good live stage entertainment. When all of this and the "Chamagne Music" of Johann Strauss' FLEDERMAUS is put together by the brilliant young Vienna-born director-pianist, Frederic Popper of New York, the result certainly should fulfill the aim of the National Grass Roots Opera Company. That aim, as stated by its founder, A. J. Fletcher, Raleigh, N. C. attorney and businessman and National Chairman of Grass Roots Opera for the National Federation of Music Clubs, is to bring "opera in English as GOOD ENTERTAINMENT FOR EVERYBODY."

Aliens Have 16 Days To Register

Unnaturalized aliens have 16 days in which to comply with the Alien law, Postmaster J. Knott Service, Postmaster J. Knott Proctor stated this morning. The law requires any alien who is within the United States on the first day of January of each year to report his address and other pertinent information to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization on or before January 31. Any alien who is temporarily absent from this country during the registering period is also required to report his address to proper authorities within a 30-day period, the law specifically states. Aliens who willfully or inexcusably fail to comply as required is liable to be taken into custody. In addition, imprisonment or fines may be levied before deportation. The necessary form, I-53, is available at the local Post Office, Proctor said. This form is to be filled out and returned to the Postmaster who will return mail it to the Immigration Office in Washington, D.C.

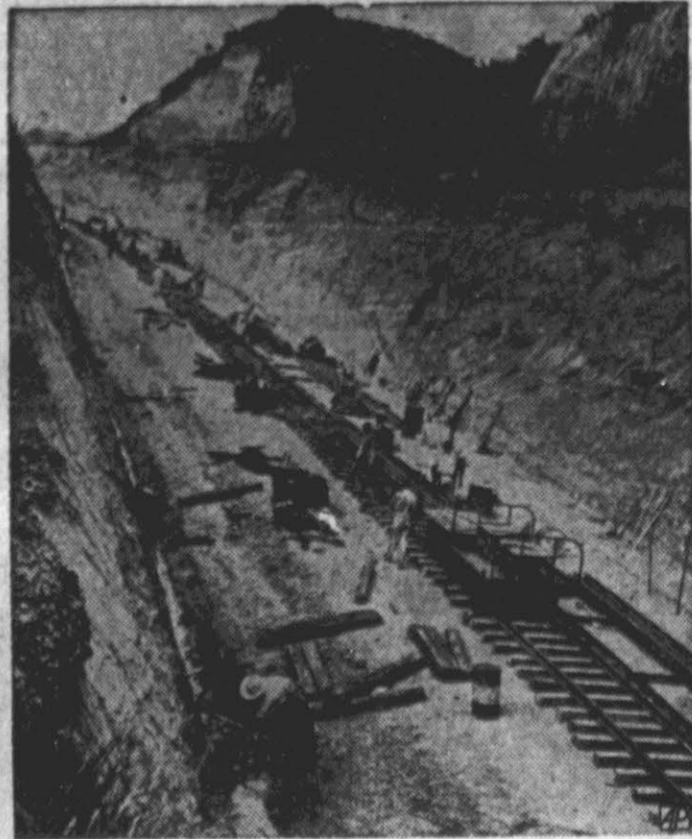

Thus far this month, Proctor reports, 15 aliens have fulfilled their obligations. Countries represented in this area are Iran, Canada, England, Netherlands, Germany and Greece. Last year between 25 and 30 unnaturalized registered at the local Post Office.

Birthday Card In 20th Year

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) — In 1938 Henri N. Morin sent his son Paul a card on his birthday with the notation that it be returned on the sender's birthday. Paul sent it back to his father—and it continued going back and forth on their birthdays. Nearly 20 years later, the card went this week from Paul to his father in St. Petersburg, Fla., to mark his 76th birthday. The card is so worn it is now held together with tape.

dollars goes for economic help. Actually, the program is said to be understated. In technical assistance, $5,600,000 for fiscal 1958 went to a program concentrating on refugee resettlement, sanitation, health, irrigation and housing. It employs 30 Americans who Korean officials say, are vital to effective operation of the program. Public sentiment is a mixture of appreciation and disappointment at the lack of immediately visible results.

JAPAN: This is not an underdeveloped country. But a U. S. technical aid program, budgeted in 1957 at $1,890,000, operates a "third country program." A force of 16 Americans helps Japan train other nationals for aid programs. It's a small, efficient, unpublicized project. There are no problems over the presence of American technical personnel. Foreign Car Sales Are Slated To Rise In U. S.

By DAVID J. WILKIE AP Automotive Editor
DETROIT (AP) — Foreign car sales in the U. S. market will continue to mount in 1958 but the rate of increase probably will be somewhat lower than it was in 1957.

This view is expressed by industry authorities who have watched the import market with more than casual interest. The upsurge in demand for small and low priced imported cars began in 1956 when retail deliveries of the European-built vehicles numbered 91,042 units against 51,658 in 1955. Figures for last year have not yet been tabulated, but indications are the total will be approximately double the volume of 1956. Enthusiasm over the reception of their cars last year foreign manufacturers predicted 1958 would bring another doubling of retail deliveries in this country.

But industry analysts in this country say a more realistic figure would be about 300,000. The increased demand for the imported smaller cars undoubtedly influenced American Motors Corp. to revive its 100-inch wheelbase Rambler model. But it did not influence other car makers to talk about building a competitive smaller unit in their American factories.

To make sure they were not overlooking a substantial sales potential General Motors arranged to import sizable numbers of its British-built Vauxhall and German-made Opel models; Ford stepped up its imports of its British models. Smaller cars making the strongest sales surge carry port-of-entry prices below $2,000. However, when state taxes, U.S. transportation charges and optional equipment costs are added, some of them go over that figure.

New car registrations for 1957 still are incomplete. But it appears Volkswagen again has led the growing list of foreign makes delivered in this country.

Figures for January through October last year showed the German car had accounted for $2,573 deliveries compared with 41,228 in the like 1956 period. Biggest jump was made by the French Renault with 18,127 deliveries, giving it second place in the standing; in 1956 the Renault total was not big enough to give it place among the first five.

The English Ford was in third place with 13,717 deliveries against 3,129 the preceding year. The MG accounted for 11,613 and fourth place. Its 1956 total for 10 months was 4,431.

Thinks Sitting Bad For Hearts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dr. Paul Dudley White suggests American's love of sitting, especially in autos, may be bad for their hearts. Dr. White, chief heart consultant for President Eisenhower, told a news conference last night: talk about building a competitive smaller unit in their American factories.

"In Boston they have autos. In Naples they do not," he said. Dr. White, 71, and his family are bicycle fans. Americans spend a billion dollars a year for flowers, says the Society of American Florists.

U.S. Technicians Wanted, Liked By Most Countries

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP Foreign News Analyst

A tall, blond man, very drunk, tore a Bangkok night club apart one evening. The press in Thailand's capital quickly identified him as a crazy American. He wasn't. He was a Dane.

But Americans get blame for practically everything in South-east Asia. Anti-Americanism is almost a fact.

However, there's another side. Take Indonesia, for example. In that Asian nation, threatened by mounting Communist strength, American technicians are often the best ambassadors of the United States.

So says James Baird, chief of the International Cooperation Administration program for Indonesia. More American technicians are wanted in that sprawling, strategically important island nation, he says.

The ICA in Washington is planning an increase in "third country" specialists who would be hired by the United States to work with American experts. For example, West German doctors might be assigned to jobs in Iran, their salaries paid out of counterpart funds in local currencies. The ICA is also operating a third country program in Japan, helping Japanese train other nationals in various techniques.

But underdeveloped Asia seems to want mostly good Americans to help build its economies. It does not want nationals of a third country.

Asian leaders say Romanians, Russians and other Iron Curtain experts wait offshore, eager to show their technical assistance wares. They say any reduction in the number of American technicians would likely increase the number of Iron Curtain experts in Asia.

How is the U. S. technical assistance program going in Asia? Here is a look at some of the results:

India: Some time ago Washington ordered a big cut in technical personnel for fiscal 1959. Sharp protests from the U. S. mission in India changed Washington's mind and the mission was maintained at its present strength of 230, a rise from 64 in 1952.

Indians say they want more Americans in such fields as education, agriculture, engineering and home economics. Most of it has been in farming, trying to put over modern methods.

INDONESIA: ICA Director Baird says the main problem is selection of the "right type" Americans, who work for the love of it and do not gripe about hardships. He admits they are a minority. But to his knowledge, he says, Indonesians do not resent the 160 U. S. technicians stationed among them. Government officials actually urged him to bring in more, to prevent vacancies being filled by Communist bloc personnel.

THAILAND: Thomas Naughton, ICA program director, says he has the "absolute minimum" of Americans (280) to do the assigned job, a long-range program. Officials say any personnel cut would cause irreparable harm. Thailand benefits from an annual $4 1/2 million in U. S. economic aid.

INDOCHINA STATES: U. S. technical personnel in South Viet Nam number 150. Program directors would like 50 more to train Vietnamese. Currently 648 Vietnamese are training abroad at U.S. expense, but even when this is accomplished, the government feels American technicians will be indispensable. They don't want nationals of any other country. Officials say Americans have their "full sympathy and understanding."

In Laos government sources say they are pleased with American technicians. A reduction would make it imperative to turn elsewhere. The government does not want to.

In Cambodia, U. S. aid, totaling more than 104 million dollars since mid-1955, is called indispensable to the nation's financial stability. Half the aid has been military.

SOUTH KOREA: This country has an annual billion-dollar U. S. aid program, of which 215 million

Fireman Rescued Tiny Chihuahua

DALLAS (AP) — Fireman Ed T. Williams saved the life of a tiny Chihuahua dog by using one finger to apply artificial respiration. The dog was found unconscious in the flaming home of its masters, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lindley. "I held him in the palm of one hand," Williams said. "I turned him on his back and kept pressing on his chest with a finger and then releasing the pressure. At the same time, I held his mouth open and blew my breath into it." After a minute or two, the tiny dog revived and scampered off.

A Day In Dr. Salk's Laboratory

The man who helped conquer one of the world's greatest scourges — polio — continues to wage war on disease.

In a neat, well-equipped laboratory at the University of Pittsburgh where he developed the anti-polio vaccine, Dr. Jonas E. Salk is finding life somewhat more calm than in the early days of his great discovery. But the calm is deceptive, for in the former Municipal Hospital Building now owned by the university and to be named Jonas E. Salk Hall research moves steadily ahead.

There the 42-year-old scientist and his team continue virus studies under a March of Dimes grant and move into basic research problems involving investigations of cell growth and metabolism.

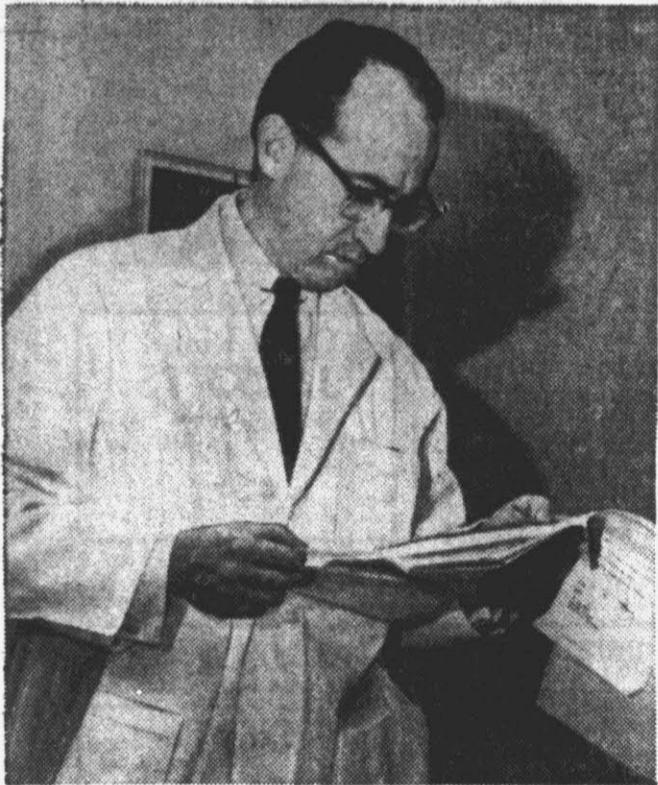

As virus laboratories go, Dr. Salk's is not particularly large. Actual laboratory equipment occupies a dozen rooms on several floors. The rooms are neat and orderly. Work goes on quietly. Dr. Salk arrives at his office early, works through a long day, often leaves long after his associates are gone. When he returns the following morning, his briefcase contains completed homework. "It would be a rare thing if I went home without a briefcase full of papers," he says.

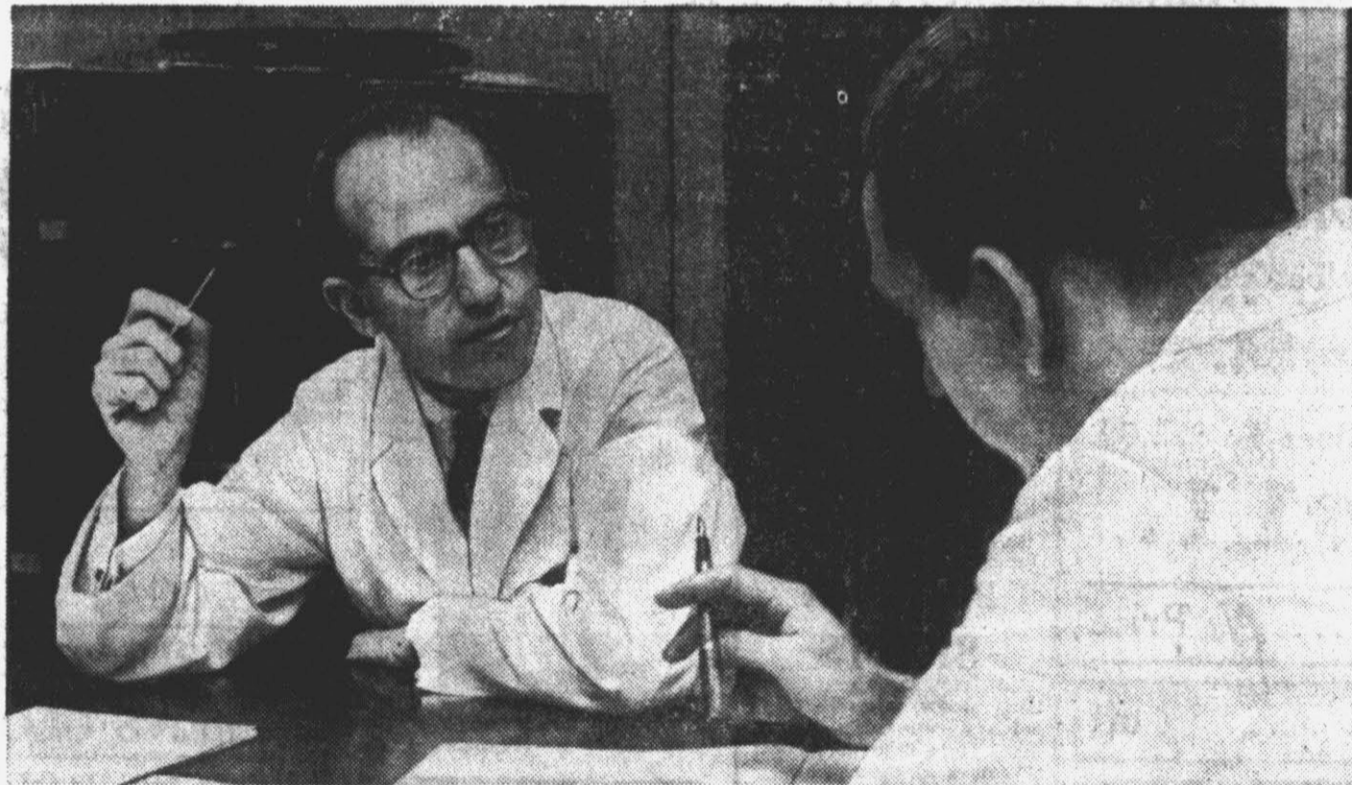

In laboratory room, Salk reads result of tests. Outcome is determined by varying colors of material in tubes, which can be seen in slanted mirror on rack. Research associate Abel Prinzie watches.

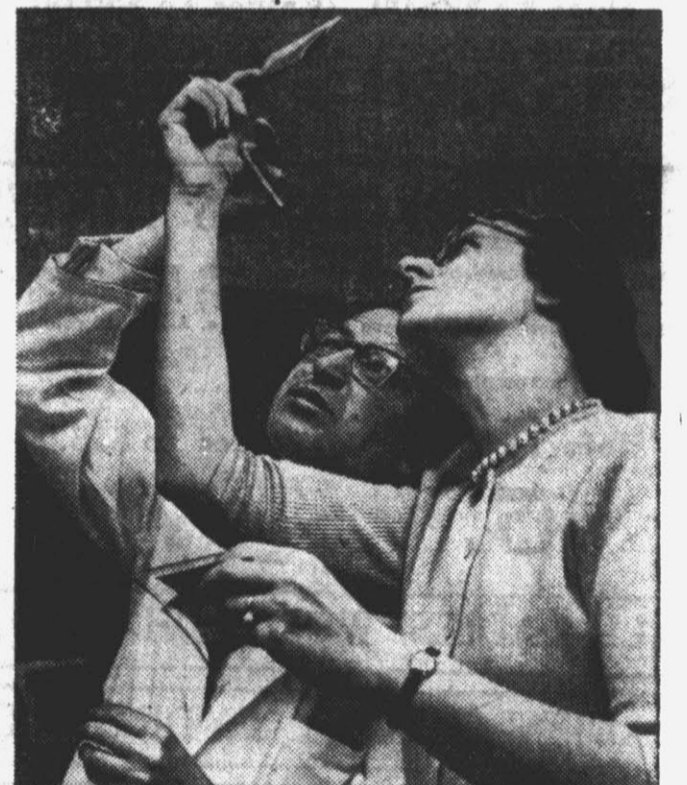

1. Wind whips tails of Dr. Salk's coat as he enters laboratory building in Pittsburgh.

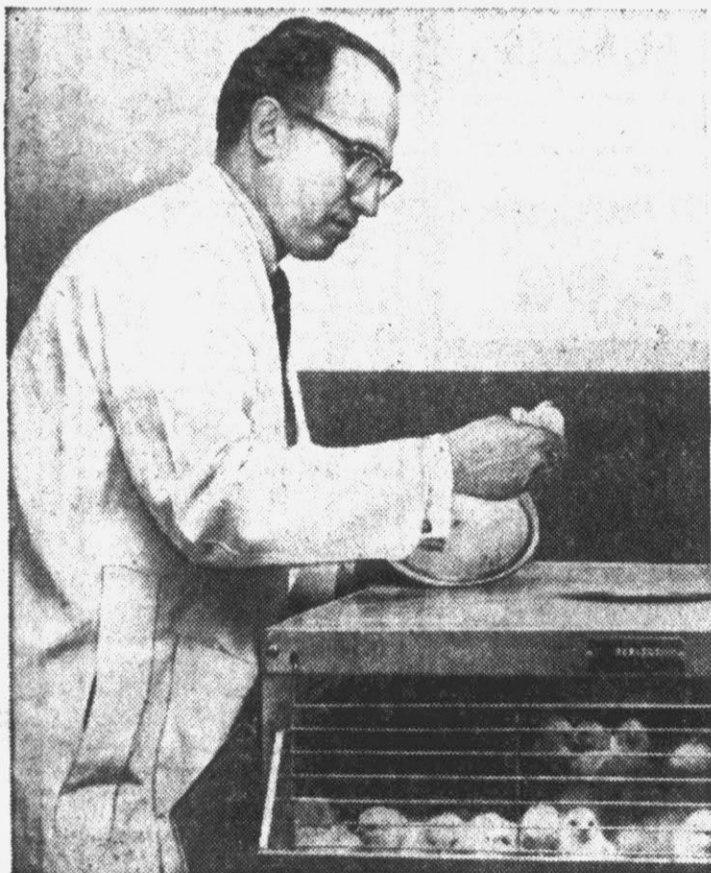

2. Morning mail gets first attention. He reads letter from another virologist.

3. Day's work gets under way with discussion of new experiment between Salk and assistant Francis Yurochko. Here Salk makes point about proposed undertaking.

4. With assistant Lorraine Friedman, Salk goes over color slides to be shown at conference on living cells grown in laboratories.

5. In upstairs room, Salk examines chicks in brooder. They're used to test vaccine potency.

6. Salk tells research team result of experiment is "just beautiful." From left, Abel Prinzie, Donald Wegemer, Salk, and Elsie Ward.

7. Day at laboratory over, Salk leaves office. Briefcase contains papers he'll work on at home.

EGGS—Prices paid by distributors for clean, sized, minimum 80 per cent A quality: Raleigh and Charlotte, steady, large 4 1/4; Durham steady, large 40-42; price paid producers on graded out basis: Asheville, slightly weaker, A large 41.

NEW YORK (P) — The stock market snapped out of dull irregularity and moved to the upside early this afternoon.

The improvement was narrow. Leading steels, rails, mail orders, farm implements and radio-televi- sions were up on average while more gains appeared in other sections of the list.

Gains went from fractions to about a point. A good assortment of small losers appeared.

The recovery followed immediately President Eisenhower's statement that he would prefer a reasonable amount of deficit spending this year to a tax increase.

This emphasized Wall Street's expectations of a more inflationary policy by the government.

Turnover became more active although on the moderate side.

Aircrafts, nonferrous metals and oils were mixed.

The steels reversed their lower trend as Youngstown Sheet gained about a point and small fractions were added by U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 cents to $158.50 with the industrials up 40 cents, the rails up 20 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

AFL-CIO Moves Against Organizers Seeking Union

Melrose Nimmo To Head League

The Greenville Civic League last night elected Dr. Melrose A. Nimmo, chiropractor, president for 1958. He succeeds retiring President D.D. Garrett, who presided over the meeting.

Other officers chosen last night are Mrs. Elizabeth Kearney, president emerita; Dr. C.R. Graves, vice-president; J.S. Alexander, financial secretary; Miss Viola Vines, recording secretary, and Mrs. Madeline Bradley, treasurer. Rev. J.A. Nimmo, pastor of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church, installed the officers.

After installation, President Nimmo spoke briefly, and said the "Greenville Civic League is a cross-section of the people and organizations of the community and I am looking forward to the support of all for the many grave local and world-wide problems."

Retiring President Garrett appraised some of the accomplishments of his administration. It included: Placing of Negroes on the Greenville police force; encouragement of a race lawyer practicing in the city; installation of better sanitary and living conditions for our people, and we did run for public office and encouraged others to do so.

The meeting was held at South Greenville Recreation Center.

Short Circuit Brings Firemen

An electric washing machine motor shorted out at 1717 Circle Drive yesterday morning and a fire truck was sent to the scene.

There was little damage. The dwelling is occupied by Ben. Harrison.

Also yesterday morning firemen were called to 148 S. Longmeadow Dr. where a fire place was smoking.

The house is occupied by Charles Howard. Only smoke damage resulted.

County Tax Personnel Prepare For Big Rush

Pitt county's Tax Department personnel began preparing themselves today for what Tax Supervisor Harold Allred terms "our last-half rush."

The department moved today into the last half of their 1958 tax listing period with an estimated one-third of the county's taxpayers on the books. That means, Allred said, that the other two-thirds will have to jam their listing into the last two weeks of the listing period.

Listing points are being maintained in each of the county's 15 townships and will be open until January 31. Persons who don't list by the close of business on that date will be subject to a ten per cent penalty, Allred said.

The present time lines at each of the listing points are small, and we expect them to remain rather short for the rest of the week. Next week will begin our rush period in all of the listing stations.

Allred's advice for persons who haven't listed yet centered mainly on vehicle registrations and listings. "It will save time and trouble for everybody if taxpayers will state the proper name of their home county on their 1958 automobile registration forms. The forms will be cross-checked with county tax listings to see that all automobiles are listed for tax purposes," he said.

check of vehicle registrations with tax listings resulted in the county picking up a gross valuation of $388,000 during December alone, Allred stated. All of the auto taxes added to the books in December were subject to penalties for late listings.

Allred also warned that Friday night hours in the Greenville Township listing station in the Court House were subject to be discontinued if more persons don't advantage of them. The station is open until 7:30 p.m. each Friday, but Allred said only 19 persons had listed during the extra hours thus far.

Regular hours at all listing stations are 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m., but schedules vary in the various townships.

An estimated 22,000 people are expected to list taxes in the county this year.

March Of Dimes Coffee Day Thursday

LITTLE ROY HONEYCUTT POURS COFFEE FOR J. D. SMITH AND DR. K. L. QUIGGINS . . . tomorrow Coffee Day will be significant for him. (Photo by Lee Rowland).

When Little Roy Honeycutt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Honeycutt, pours coffee for polio, it is especially significant from a personal standpoint.

Seven years ago he was stricken with the dreaded disease. Through the efforts of many he is now living a normal life, doing things a child of his age is expected to do.

He still suffers some deficiencies and wears a brace on one leg but he is able to walk. Soon he is due for a third corrective operation.

Although he still has a long way to go before he will be completely cured, the future now looks much brighter for him than it did back in 1950.

Little Roy is one of many here in Pitt County that have been given financial and medical assistance through the March of Dimes. Last year over $11,000 was spent by the Pitt County Chapter of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation for polio victims.

Tomorrow many will be pouring coffee for polio "free" at local restaurants, cafes and drug stores are cooperating with the March of Dimes Coffee Day. Coffee will be served "on the house," with contributions being accepted for the drive by each listed firm.

Participating are: Beddingfields Pharmacy, Coffee Shop, Dixie Lunch, Jim's Quick Lunch, Kares Restaurant, Olde Towne Inn, Proctor Hotel Coffee Shop, Bus Station, Mary Ann Soda Shop, Morton's Snack Bar, Warren's Drug Store, Busy Bee Restaurant, Carolina Grill, West End Circle Grill, Brady's Snack Bar, Respass Bros. Barbecue, Heath's Restaurant, Sile Grill, Cinderella Restaurant, Clark's Sandwich Shop, Ronnie's Do-nut Shop, and Hollowell's Drug Store.

Reuther Defends Plan For Sharing Of Profits

DETROIT (P)—Walter P. Reuther says spokesmen for the auto industry's Big Three either don't understand his profit-sharing and customer rebate proposals or they tried willfully to distort them.

The United Auto Workers chief referred to his union's 1958 contract demands, criticized sharply in statements from General Motors, Ford and Chrysler Corp.

In a letter to General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice, Reuther said his plan was "based upon the right of workers and consumers to share in the fruits of advanced technology."

The letter was made public by Reuther's office several hours after another auto executive, George Romney, president of American Motors, called the proposal a "subterfuge."

Reuther said copies of his letter to Curtice were sent to L. L. Colbert, Chrysler president, and Ernest R. Breech, Ford board chairman, both of whom previously had in effect, rejected the UAW proposal.

He accused General Motors of opposing profit sharing for hourly rated workers while maintaining a bonus plan based on dividing excess profits for top GM executives.

their rightful share." Romney charged, "Reuther's profit-sharing and price rebate 'bludgeon' apparently was devised to silence growing criticism of chain-reacting pattern bargaining. This is subterfuge."

"By concentrating his publicity on the profits resulting from General Motors' far-flung and unmatched operations," Romney said, "Reuther again seeks to use GM in establishing the state of the industry economic package."

In statements Monday, top executives of the Big Three labeled the UAW proposal as "unrealistic," "foreign to the concept of the American free enterprise system" and "inflationary."

Reuther's proposal, to be presented to a special UAW convention Jan. 22 and—if approved—to the auto industry in bargaining sessions beginning about April 1, calls for a sharing of above 10 per cent of net capital before taxes—25 per cent to employees, 25 per cent to carry buyers in the form of rebates and 50 per cent to the company.

Thief Received Small 'Reward'

The thief who broke into Evans Seafood Market early last night received small compensation for his efforts, Police said today.

According to investigating officers only 100 pennies, a knife and the keys to the firm's cash register are missing.

Entrance, they said, was gained through a restroom window in the rear of the building, located on W. Ninth St. The thief left by the back door.

Judge Parker Is First Candidate

RALEIGH (P) — Superior Court Judge Joseph W. Parker of Windsor has become the first Democratic candidate to file with the State Board of Elections as a candidate in the May 31 primary.

A filing fee of $120 was received from Judge Parker yesterday by the board's executive secretary, Raymond C. Maxwell. Parker's term expires Dec. 31.

Public Invited To Hear Speaker

Members of the Junior Woman's Club today invited members of the general public to attend a program on "Civil Defense in the Home" tonight at 8 o'clock in the Woman's Club building.

Mrs. Sara Boyd Weaver, public information officer and coordinator of women's activities for the North Carolina Council of Civil Defense, will be speaker at the meeting.

She will be introduced by Pitt County Civil Defense Chairman J.H. Rose who arranged her visit here.

MAJOR O'CONNOR, LAWHON AND SERGEANT KIDD . . . At Presentation Of Army Certificate Of Achievement.

A certificate of achievement, recognizing contributions of radio station WGTC to the U. S. Army Recruiting Service, was presented to the station in ceremonies yesterday.

Major Joseph L. O'Connor, commanding officer of the Army's Recruiting Main Station in Raleigh, presented the certificate to Joel Lawhon, manager of the station. Master Sergeant A. E. Kidd, non-commissioned officer-in-charge of the Greenville recruiting station, assisted Major O'Connor.

The certificate, signed by Lieutenant General Thomas F. Hickey, commanding general of Third Army, included the citation, "In recognition of outstanding services through which the U. S. Army Recruiting Service has been materially aided in the effort to secure enlistments for the regular Army."

The radio station assists in the recruiting program by carrying public service announcements and other Army programs.
