Priorities List For Paving Pitt Rural Roads Is Given To Board

Projects Include 133 Unpaved Roads With Estimated Cost Of $2.9 Millions

Priorities for paving rural roads in Pitt County were delivered to the Board of County Commissioners this morning by Second Division officials of the State Highway Commission.

The priority list includes 133 unpaved roads with a total mileage of 252.15 miles. Estimated cost of all the projects is $2,964,943, or an average of $11,837.96 per mile.

A map showing location of the roads, their identification numbers and priority ratings will be posted in the Pitt County Court House.

Establishment of the priorities, Markham said, does not mean the roads will be paved immediately. "We can't figure how fast the work will be done," he explained, "because that will depend on funds which are made available to us. Also, the priorities will be revised at least once a year, and there will be resurvey of individual roads when such action is justified."

For the present, top priority in the ratings went to a road from N. C. 11 to Robinson Union School in Winterville. Second-ranked road in the group is 3.8 miles of rural dirt road running from Cox's Crossroads through Haddock's Crossroads to a point on a paved secondary road running east of Winterville.

District Engineer C. W. Snell Jr., who assisted Markham in the priority presentations, said the ratings were established as a result of a three-part study. The first part, he said, identified dirt roads with a daily traffic count of 50 or more vehicles. The second part showed estimated costs of widening and stabilizing dirt roads, with a daily traffic count of less than 50 and the third part of the survey showed costs of eliminating curves of more than six degrees on paved roads.

Winterville Firm Robbed Of $420

WINTERVILLE—Approximately $420 in cash, a number of checks and some valuable documents were taken from a safe in the office of the A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company sometime during the weekend.

The break-in and robbery was discovered early this morning, according to Winterville Police Chief D. C. Martin who is conducting an investigation. He is being assisted by SBI Agent Clyde Fenitress and members of the Pitt County Sheriff's Department.

Martin said the building, located on N.C. Highway 11 in the Winterville business district, was entered through a rear door found open this morning. The door was forced. The Winterville Police Chief related that the outside door of the building was ripped open. A number of documents and papers were found on the floor around the safe.

Nothing else was reported missing.

Blackburn Praises Management Of City Utilities

(Fourth of a series on the Blackburn Report concerning Greenville Utilities operations.)

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor

When present outstanding Greenville Utilities bonds are retired the city should own an operation free of debt and future extensions and improvements should be financed from depreciation charges and earnings, L. A. Blackburn, consulting engineer reported to the Utilities Commission.

In addition the Utilities should continue to pay into the city treasury increasing amounts, either in cash or improvements in the water and sewer system.

Blackburn also told the commissioners that the balance sheet for June 30, 1957 is "one that reflects sound management."

"Your method of financing, your accounting system, which takes in

Hopeful Note In Presidential Economic Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the country can lick the recession this year, pay in full the cost of meeting Russia's new challenge, and go forward to "real economic growth without inflation."

His economic report, third and last of the annual White House messages to Congress, carried a 42-point program of home-front legislation. Most requests were familiar, but Eisenhower said they are now "urgent."

He pledged that his policies will be shaped to foster the earliest possible business recovery. But he gave no hint that the administration is considering any such strong medicine as tax cuts, public works or deliberate deficits, and avoided even the words "recession" or "depression."

Eisenhower disclosed that the slump began sooner and hit harder than officials had expected. In the past three months national production dropped six billion dollars, or 1 1/2 per cent, he said, from the record rate of 439 billion a year achieved in the previous quarter.

And he underscored this warning: if "unwarranted" wage and price increases emerge from this spring's bargaining, the prospective recovery could be delayed.

"The latest challenge of international communism will require a further increase in the economic claims of national security, which are already heavy," Eisenhower said.

"If we follow suitable private and public policies, this challenge can be met without distorting our economy, or destroying the freedoms that we cherish."

Robeson Sheriff Will Seek Indict Klan Leader Whose Rally Routed

LUMBERTON, N. C. (AP)—Sheriff Malcolm McLeod says he will ask a grand jury today to indict a Ku Klux Klan leader who had his rally shot out from under him by whooping Indians.

The Robeson County law officer said he wanted charges of inciting a riot brought against the Rev. James Cole of Marion, S. C., self-styled KKK leader of groups in both Carolinas.

Cole, claiming he was denied his rights under the law because he is a member of the white race, said he planned legal action against the sheriff, also a white man.

Cole, 33-year-old native of Lenoir County, N.C., asserted that the Klan would seek federal indictments of Sheriff McLeod, charging that civil rights of peaceable assembly had been denied the robbed men.

Klan To Rally In Burlington Area

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The Rev. James Cole of Marion, S.C., a self-styled Ku Klux Klan leader, said today the KKK will hold a rally next Saturday near Burlington.

Shortly afterward came an announcement from Alamance County Sheriff Joe W. Cole saying "I plan to examine the laws concerning such meetings and be prepared for their arrival."

Speaking by telephone from his Marion home, the Rev. Cole asserted: "I don't know the exact time, but it will be about 8 o'clock. The time and place will be set by the Burlington Klavern."

Concerning the Maxton rally break-up Saturday night, the Klan spokesman added: "I've had telephone calls from all over the south since Saturday night, and Klansmen throughout the South are pretty alarmed about the situation. So I expect a big Klan attendance."

Rain, Warmer Weather On Way To N. Carolina

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Weather Man says that rain and warmer weather are on the way to North Carolina.

The rain, he says, likely will reach Western North Carolina by tonight and will overspread the state tomorrow. The slow-moving weather system, he added, may continue to bring rain on Wednesday.

Moderating temperatures spread over the state over the weekend. New Bern, Winston-Salem and Raleigh-Durham had highs of 45, but at Hatteras it was 37 and at Elizabeth City 40.

SHAKEN BY QUAKE

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—An earth tremor of moderate intensity shook Santiago last night. No damage or casualties were reported.

after this is outgrown—rather than to increase copper size—it is much more economical to increase voltage and give better regulation and less cost in the long run.

Seasonal factors which may continue the trend into this year, Kendall explained, are laying off temporary workers by retail and service firms, slackening in outdoor activities such as construction, and the end of the tobacco processing season.

Predicts Above 60,000 Jobless

RALEIGH (AP)—Unemployment in North Carolina during the first quarter of this year may pass the peak set back in March through June of 1954, when claims for jobless pay ran 55,000 to 60,000 week-ly.

This prediction was made by Chairman Henry E. Kendall of the Employment Security Commission, who said he based his estimates on seasonal factors which are expected to depress employment.

However, Kendall said he looks for employment to rally later in the year. Expansion of plant facilities and newly located industries in the state are strong points in the 1958 picture, he said.

Submarine And Missiles Programs Go Under Study

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate preparedness subcommittee looks into the adequacy of the Navy's submarine and missile programs today as it opens the final week of its current phase of hearings.

Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, and Rear Adm. W. F. Raborn, who is supervising development of the Navy's Polaris missile, were among witnesses called for closed-door testimony.

While Congress members argued variously that more money, more clearly defined authority and more creative thinking are needed to spur United States defenses against Russian scientific gains, the weekend brought these developments:

1. Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said Senate Democrats are considering a two billion dollar package proposal to increase appropriations for long-range jet bombers, both intermediate and medium range ballistic missiles, and missile-firing submarines.

Suggests Allies Help Space Race

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) has suggested that the United States divide up with friendly governments the task of gaining control of outer space.

He termed the task "a must" in a speech Saturday to the Asheville Chamber of Commerce, but added that the crash programs he has seen have been extravagantly wasteful.

Just what kind of program is needed, he said, must be determined by counsel from the best engineering talent and scientific brains. To marshal and use these talents, he declared, the United States can work "with our allied governments in the assignment of different phases of the overall project."

McClellan said he is confident the United States can rise to the Russian science challenge and soon take over the lead in all areas of scientific and technological advancement.

Polio Decrease

RALEIGH (AP)—The number of paralytic polio cases in North Carolina last year showed a "striking" decrease, and fell to less than a third of the total for 1956.

A report from the State Board of Health yesterday said there were 51 cases of polio with paralyzing effects in 1957. This compared with the previous year's total of 162, and with the average of 233 over the past five years.

Construction Of Nuclear Plant Awaits Go-Ahead

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Start of construction on the South's first nuclear power plant is awaiting a "go ahead" signal from the Atomic Energy Commission.

This was announced over the weekend by Carolina Virginia Nuclear Power Associates Inc. after a meeting of its board of directors in Charlotte last week.

Engineering consultants presented to the directors a sketch of the proposed plant to be built at Farr, S.C.

The CVNPA said actual construction awaits AEC approval of the plant the associates plan to build.

Add pepper strips; refrigerate overnight.

Miss Jenkins, Mr. Cherry Say Vows Saturday

KINSTON—In an impressive candlelight ceremony at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, January 18, at the Westminster Methodist Church, Miss Darlene Jenkins and Richard Ervin Cherry were united in marriage.

The Rev. Ralph Jones Jr. officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl N. Jenkins of Nebo. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Cherry of Stokes.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Anna Montgomery of Greenville, organist, and Jimmy Fiver Jr., soloist, of Greenville sang "The Song of Ruth" and "The Lord's Prayer" as benediction.

The vows were spoken before an altar of palms and standards of seven-branched cathedral candelabras and baskets of white gladioli and pompons.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, George Blacklock, wore a formal length bridal gown of white Shiffli tulle over taffeta, fashioned with long fitted bodice, wide square neckline, abbreviated sleeves and matching gauntlets. Her voluminous skirt featured a wide diamond shape ruffle that was bordered with two rows of Alencon type lace insertion cascading into a cathedral length train. The lace detail was repeated on sleeves, neckline and gauntlets.

Her two-tiered fingertip veil was attached to a coronet of Chantilly lace and seeded pearls and was of silk French imported illusion. She carried a white prayer book topped with a white orchid and showered with white lilies of the valley and satin ribbons.

Mrs. George Blacklock of Kinston was her sister's matron of honor. Miss Jean Jenkins of Marion, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Donald Cherry of Augusta, Ga. were bridesmaids.

They wore ballerina length gowns of contrasting shades of pink crystal satin fashioned with rousing necklines. The full skirts featured darker cummerbunds of chiffon which formed a soft drape to the hemline. They wore matching headpieces and carried crescent bouquets of roses.

Little Miss Linda Blacklock, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a blue embroidered dress featuring a large back bow, and carried a basket of pink rose petals. She wore a matching band of pink rose buds in her hair.

The bridegroom had his brother, Donald Cherry of Augusta, Ga., as best man. Ushers were Lee Hilderbrand of Baltimore, Md. and Kenneth Harris Jr. of Greenville.

Due to illness the mother of the bride was unable to attend the wedding.

Mrs. John Livermore, sister of the bride, wore a princess-style dress of beige brocade satin and matching accessories. She wore a purple orchid.

The bridegroom's mother wore a fitted bodice dress of light blue wool and matching accessories.

She also wore a purple orchid. The couple received guests in the vestibule of the church.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, Mrs. Cherry changed to a coral wool dress and wore a mouton coat and small hat of fur with matching accessories. Her corsage was the white orchid lifted from her prayer book. Upon return the couple will reside at 2209 Ivy Road.

Rehearsal Party Immediately following the rehearsal on Friday night, friends and out-of-town guests were entertained at a cake cutting in the recreation rooms of the church.

The bridal table, overlaid with a white satin cloth, was centered with a silver four-branch candelabra featuring epernettes filled with white pompons.

The three-tiered wedding cake, decorated in white and green and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was placed at one end of the table and the crystal punch bowl at the opposite end.

Mrs. John Livermore poured punch and Mrs. Cherry, the bridegroom's mother, completed the cutting and serving of the cake, after the bride couple had cut the first piece.

The bride's book was presided over by Miss Jean Jenkins.

Secretary of War Davis, who sets an example by flying a great deal on his own account, has ordered five fighting planes built to fight eight miles up in the air, with special oxygen equipment to counteract the thin atmosphere at that height and an insulated fighting cockpit especially heated. An airplane eight miles up would be invisible, looking up, but New York or San Francisco would be very visible looking down and nice targets.

Statons Feted On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Arthur Staton

BETHEL—Miss Camille Staton and Mr. and Mrs. R. Harold Staton were at home from 7:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. on January 15 in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Arthur Staton in celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

As ornaments, Mrs. Staton wore a diamond and pearl brooch and a matching lavaliere, gifts of the bridegroom on the wedding days.

The home was made festive for the occasion by the use of the traditional anniversary color of gold. Arrangements of varied flowers, interspersed with tulle-bedeked candles, were placed throughout the house. The focal point of interest was an appointed dining room where the table was covered with a silk net cloth over yellow satin. A raised floral arrangement of yellow carnations, snapdragons, gladioli, roses, and burning tapers in a five-branched epergne graced the center of the table.

In the gift room, the wedding presents and the wedding pictures of 50 years ago were displayed.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Latham welcomed the guests at the front door and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Waldrop of Greenville introduced them to the first receiving line which was composed of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Staton, Miss Camille Staton, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Staton and William Gurley Staton and Robert Harold Staton Jr., grandsons.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gurley of Windsor directed the guests to the second receiving line where Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bunting introduced them to the brothers and sisters of Mrs. Staton. They are:

Mr. and Mrs. Harlowe Waldrop of New Bern; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Waldrop of Goldsboro; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Izlar of Charleston, S. C.; Paul Waldrop of Norfolk, Va.; and Mrs. Hudson Baines of Washington, D. C.

Presiding over the register were Mrs. J. P. Vanderpool and Mrs. Frank Wilson of Greenville, sisters of Mrs. Staton. Dr. and Mrs. Howard Wilson of Raleigh invited the guests into the dining room where Miss Elizabeth Wilson of Greenville, Mrs. Frances Walters of Washington, D. C. and Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Womack served punch alternately. From the banquet table, the guests were served an assortment of party dainties, mints, nuts, and wedding cakes.

Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Garrenton directed the callers to the gift room where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Pollard. Mr. and Mrs. Julian C. Smith said goodbyes.

Speaker Tells Purposes, Aims Of The King's Daughters, Sons

The Patient Circle of The King's Daughters and Sons held its first meeting of the year Tuesday night, January 14, at the home of Mrs. V. C. Fleming.

Mrs. C. A. Bowen gave the program for the evening. Since January 13 is the birthday of the Order, her topic was "Founder's Day." She first paused to pay tribute to the ten founders on the 72nd year of the Order's conception. Then she urged each King's Daughter to keep before her as inspiration a vivid reminder of the purposes and aims of the Order. "It seems the appropriate time," declared the speaker, "for pausing to recall once again the reason for this organization, its Watchword, its Text and its Motto."

In this order she developed the subject. The object of The King's Daughters and Sons is twofold: "to develop spiritual life and to stimulate Christian activity. Its watchword is 'In His Name.'" The text is "Not to be ministered unto but to minister;" a fitting guide line for an Order of Service.

Egg salad (made from sliced hard-cooked eggs and romaine) benefits from the addition of sliced pickled beets.

The motto is a sheer command to "look up and not down; look forward and not back; look out and not in, and lend a hand."

In closing, the speaker asked, "Are we doing our share so that The King's Daughters and Sons may enjoy many more triumphant birthdays? May each one of us here keep Founder's Day very deeply within our hearts this year—finding a new faith and trust for ourselves and a new resolve to minister more lovingly each day of 1958."

The president, Mrs. C. A. Bowen, extended New Year's greetings to the large group assembled and urged each member to gird for the work ahead. "We stand upon the threshold of the year that is new and very wonderful for us. We cannot fail to win our wanted goal, if we but walk with God in perfect trust," she stated.

After the members prayed together the Prayer of the Order, Miss Eunice McGee led the devotional. She urged everyone to be courageous and to look beyond herself to do kind deeds for others. "Remember always," she emphasized, "that you are important."

During the routine business, standing committee chairmen made reports. Of special interest was the one given by the social service chairman, Mrs. R. C. Henry, in which she told of help rendered the sick, and food and necessities given to the needy. Individuals told of the Christmas work they had done. Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackle said that 72 children had received toys which the Wesleyan Guild and the Kiwanis Club had donated. One member told of canned goods and fruit that the Circle sent to one of its sick members.

A donation was made to the International Order to help with the renovation of the Order's houses at Chautauqua. This is to be sent to headquarters and marked Chautauqua Christmas Gift.

The treasurer of the Building Fund, Miss Martha Lee Cowell, stated that a substantial sum of money had been given The King's Daughters, together with several other sizable gifts of money.

The Circle decided to cooperate with the Women of the Moose in their benefit tournament for the March of Dimes Tuesday night, January 21. Individuals have agreed to make sandwiches and cookies. Others will attend the games tournament.

The president read the new committees for the coming year and stated that the 1958 yearbooks would be ready for distribution at the February meeting.

Upon adjournment, Mrs. Fleming and assisting hostesses, Mrs. J. E. Nobles, Mrs. J. H. Randolph, Mrs. V. P. Scoville, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. J. K. Spivey and Mrs. J. G. Lautares, served spiced tea, cake and nuts.

Husbands To Be Guests Of Club

Plans were made to serve a covered dish supper, with husbands as guests, in February when the Sweet Gum Grove Home Demonstration Club held its regular meeting Friday at the Community Building.

Mrs. Eric Whitchard, president, called the meeting to order and the song "Faith of our Fathers" was sung after which Mrs. Johnnie Meeke, vice president, gave the devotional, closing with the 15 members repeating the 23rd Psalm.

During the business session the club voted to go along with other clubs in supporting the Heart Fund. They also made a donation to the March of Dimes drive. Mrs.

Following the reports of three project leaders, Mrs. Lillie Little, home agent, used the topic "The Home Business Center" for her demonstration of the month. She showed colored slides and passed out reading material. She said, "The farmers' records are as important as others and must be kept for many uses."

"5 Ways To A Perfect Fit" At 5 Points

Working Today Toward Tomorrow

It is an ambitious program outlined for East Carolina College by President John D. Messick before the Board of Higher Education.

Indeed, it may have shocked some of the members of the Board of Higher Education and some of the other institutions of higher learning in North Carolina. The program as outlined by Dr. Messick may leave some state officials shaking their heads, concluding at the outset that the legislature which must appropriate funds for the requested facilities will grant the college only a fraction of what has been requested.

Ambitious as the program may appear at the outset, it is a realistic approach to the immediate needs of East Carolina if the instruction is to render to the young people of North Carolina the calibre of education they demand and need. If the college is to properly educate the young people who look to it for an education, it must have the facilities requested. Facilities which are denied or postponed can only result in the college's being unable to accommodate some of the students who will apply for admission in the next few years.

The requested $5,707,000 to provide for ECC's immediate needs, permanent improvements and expanded facilities is a considerable sum of money even so far as total state appropriations are concerned. At the same time it must be realized that the job which East Carolina College must perform in the years ahead is likewise a tremendous one.

In the past decade East Carolina has more than tripled in enrollment. In each year of that period the college has found it necessary to turn away applicants because it lacked facilities for them. During the coming decade, educators say, the number of youngsters seeking college educations will increase more rapidly than in the past.

How will these youngsters be able to obtain a college education unless an ambitious program is undertaken immediately to provide facilities to handle them? Are we to handicap the future of our state and nation by failing to provide for higher education for youngsters who are now in high schools?

It is imperative that North Carolina take a realistic approach to the needs of its institutions of higher learning. The proposals offered the Board of Higher Education comprise a realistic approach to the needs of the college if it is to render the service which is expected of it.

For the future of North Carolina, and particularly this section of the state, it is to be hoped that the program outlined for East Carolina College receives the subsequent approvals it needs to become a reality.

Promising Work On Better Court System

Many North Carolinians have long recognized the need for revamping the confused system of courts that exist in this state. Though some approach has been made toward reforms in recent years, the first revision now appears in the making through the efforts of the Committee on Improving and expanding the Administration of Justice.

This committee has unanimously adopted the principle of a unified, properly administered court system for North Carolina. At present its subcommittees are at work on details which will be spelled out in recommendations to be made by the committee.

North Carolina needs a modern, efficient system of courts to replace its present haphazard system. So far the study of this special committee has brought out that courts inferior to Superior Courts "are of such widely varying types that it is almost literally true that the 100 counties of the state present 100 different court patterns. . . . The condition has prompted some members of the committee to picture the situation as "a veritable judicial crazy-quilt with overlapping, clashing and in some instances, missing pieces."

The need for unification of the state's court system is apparent. The major contribution this committee can make to North Carolina's judicial system by recommending a workable solution is likewise apparent. We anxiously await the committee's recommendations for putting the state's judicial on a sound, unified footing.

Almost Phony Drives Coming

By ELMER ROESSNER
Two politico-economic campaigns that aren't exactly what they seem to be will soon be made larger.

These campaigns aren't exactly phony, but there is a lot to them that doesn't meet the eye. They aren't tightly organized, but are chiefly spontaneous efforts by those who stand to gain by their success.

One is for Federal tax cuts. The cry will get louder: Taxes are a cause of the present decline; the quickest way to cure it is to cut taxes.

That may be true. But it is also true that many who will be clamoring for a tax cut won't expect it. They are demanding reductions to discourage increases.

PROPHETS OF DOOM
The second campaign is vicious in its methods if not in its end. The object is lower interest rates. The means are to describe business conditions as worse than they are and to predict grave crises ahead.

If the public and Washington are convinced the situation is desperate, interest rates will be pushed down fast and hard. Strangely, some can prosper more if business falls off further, and interest rates are shoved down. They are those who would like to refinance their debts at lower rates, or float new loans.

Here are more predictions in the business field; they are based on analyses of developing trends, spiced with some advice information:

Federal contracts will be accelerated. Sentiment in Congress is strong for increasing military expenditures and with tacit approval of Congressional leaders, the Defense Department will step up the rate of contract granting, risking no more than slapped wrists for anticipating appropriations. Still more petroleum cuts are coming. Despite cutbacks of imports, inventories are rising and cuts in crude prices are coming, probably followed by dips in gas and heating oil prices. CANNED CAKE, TRAVEL SLUMP

Canned cake is coming. A New York baker is planning to introduce "slice and serve" cake in vacuum packs; if it catches on the idea may sweep the country.

It will be an off summer for travel. Even a midyear pickup in the boom won't push travel business up to recent peaks because heavy-duty travel requires time to plan and to make reservations. Travel to Europe will be especially hard hit.

New push for higher air fares is here. Prospective slump in travel will bring airlines' problems to a head. Most of them are going into hook for jets and turboprops, and need increased revenue to amortize costs, just when a travel decline threatens. Airlines' position is this: higher fares, back to fat subsidies or bankruptcy.

There'll be more supermarkets. Decline in income is causing chains to re-examine plans for new markets, and some marginal projects will be shelved. However, the growing population means that food sellers will be better than many other merchants, and new markets will be close to the number last year.

But more market mergers. Supers, however, are in the same squeeze that has been affecting others: Sales keep rising but profits don't. So many chains are thinking of mergers in which greater buying power can swell margins without increasing prices.

Strength For Today
By EARL L. DOUGLASS
KEEP WIDE MARGINS OF SAFETY
In reviewing some incidents in connection with early American history, I encountered these words: "Cornwallis (at Yorktown) abandoned his outer line of fortifications, thereby permitting the allies to bring up siege guns capable of hammering all parts of his inner line."

Of course we all remember what happened at Yorktown. Cornwallis was defeated and the independence of America won. From the beginning, Cornwallis was in a precarious position, but when he abandoned his outer line of fortifications, he was lost. Jesus on one occasion cleansed the Temple of Jerusalem. So

Items In The Letterbox

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:
That, if you think rabbits know how to multiply, consider the fruit fly, which produces as many as 25 generations in a single year. If all the descendants of a pair of fruit flies lived and bred, in just 12 months they'd make a ball 98 million miles in diameter. So sweat that fruit fly and save your world!

That Milton C. Herman, the mink furrier, says: "The only thing today's formal dresses leave to the imagination is what's holding them up."
That some people are afraid of a smart doctor. After William Harvey published a paper early in the 17th century on his discovery of the circulation of the blood, almost all his patients deserted him, although he was still the trusted physician of two little Princess Anne of Britain is to own a kitten. But she can't have one because Queen Elizabeth's spirited Corgi terriers won't allow a cat near Buckingham Palace.

That Monique van Vooren, the Belgian bombshell, has learned this about America: "Some people think the end justifies the means — if it means making ends meet."

That the phrase "cool as a cucumber" doesn't make much sense. Thermometer tests have proved that on a hot day the inside of a cucumber is warmer than the air outside. Just what can a man believe?
That one third of the driving in the United States is now done by women. And that doesn't even include the back seat driving.

That a Navy doctor found "relatively older men" stationed in Antarctica bore up better under the long winter strain than younger men. And oddly, ice cream and cold drinks were more popular than soup and hot drinks.
That more men than women are afraid to enter caves, according to Lester B. Dill, who operates the famed Meramec Caverns in Station, Mo.

That you can win a lot of money betting someone he can't guess the number of bones in a giraffe's neck. The answer: only seven. That babies have several times the power of adults to eliminate deadly radio-active strontium from their bodies.
That psychiatrists believe most Don Juans — career lady chasers — are actually less, not more, verile than ordinary men. The poor show-offs are trying to prove something to themselves that simply isn't so.

That it has been found business executives get more headaches than professional men, such as lawyers or doctors. Could be it's because they have to deal with more headaches.
That F. W. Woolworth, father of the dime store, failed in business four times before he really clicked.
That the average cow produces about 6,000 pounds of milk a year. Not bad for a factory bound in leather.

That it was Charles Lamb who said: "The greatest pleasure I know is to do a good action by stealth, and to have it found out by accident."

Other Editors Saying -- Higher Postal Rates
The point now is that if we are to increase postal rates and still not improve the existing system, then Americans will not respond rapidly to the president's request.
If a higher rate is needed, then the American public has a right to expect an overhaul of the system which would tend to make it more efficient and which would tend to give greater service.
The trouble, we are told, is at the higher echelon. It is the top brass which keeps the Postal department operating as it is. Recent stories have indicated that no radical changes have been made in the system since the Civil war. Even with many changes it will be a difficult job to make a five cent letter palatable to the average American.
Given the truth and given whatever improvements are practical, the average American tends to go along with increases. Congress may go along with the increase because we are living in an age of fear — fear from communism in the field of outer space weapons. But a five cent letter will still be rough on all of us. We won't like it, but we may have to accept it.

By RAY TUCKER
LONDON—Women everywhere may enjoy increased political and economic status because the occupant of the British throne at the moment, with normal expectations of a 30- or 40-year reign, happens to be a member of their majestic sex. Although lacking any power, not as much as a White Houseless Eleanor Roosevelt, Queen Elizabeth II has made a definite imprint upon British society and outlook.
She has grown in public esteem, quietly enough, because of the newspaper and magazine criticism poured upon the royal family and court, which was based on the belief that they had become snobbish and stuffy in this democratic age, which includes the liquidation of the British Empire. Although these somewhat justified indictments hurt her because they were a reflection on her Royal ancestors, and although they irritated her sensitive husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, she has profited by them.
She has set out deliberately to humanize and popularize the royal establishment. In this time of world crisis, it is as necessary to have a popular figure on the throne here as it is to have a trusted man in the white House.

Such an undemocratic display, the system of choosing the few favored caused hard feelings, political as well as social, in Britain and abroad, especially in the United States.
More than one American Ambassador at the Court of St. James' has been embarrassed and provoked important Party politicians, industrialists and campaign contributors because they did not obtain invitations for their daughters or wives to curtsy at Buckingham Palace. Her Majesty may not be a politician but she acts like a member of a Tammany Club.
SUCCESS OF MONARCH ATTRIBUTED PARTLY TO HUSBAND
Many Britishers attribute this and other democratic gestures to the influence of her husband. They liken the Duke of Edinburgh to Albert, Queen Victoria's Consort in the middle of the last century. It was Albert who prevented Victoria from acceding to the demand of British textile manufacturers, suffering from the loss of cotton because of the Union naval blockade of Southern ports, that England recognize the South as a going government during the Civil War.
The Duke of Edinburgh is regarded as extremely pro-American.

Finally Queen Elizabeth's Christmas television address to the Commonwealth peoples evoked tremendous praise. It was not so much what she said—she is not an inspiring orator—as the way she said it. The people and the newspaper editors and writers are still referring to the "hit" she made, which is an unusual way to treat a queenly appearance. In eulogizing her "sparkling and smiling personality," the London Sunday Times said: "As 1957 moves toward the end, I feel certain that the historian and the sentimentalist alike will acclaim it The 'Queen's Year.' Those who have suddenly decided that the success of Her Majesty's Christmas television broadcast was due to the writers critics have obviously forgotten her conquest of Paris last spring. France, the most feminine of nations, acclaimed Britain's Queen for her charm, her sense of history, her taste and her royalty."
The Queen's visit to Canada and the United States was at once an historical occasion and a personal triumph. As the Queen, she won the respect of all Canadians, but as a woman, she won their hearts."
How else should a woman, Queen or Judy O'Grady, win?

Grads Find It Harder

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — The big-paying, easy-to-get first job out of college is something "we shall see less of this year. C. I. pany recruitment officers are saying that "this year for the first time in a long while "we shall find plenty of June graduates around at prices we want to pay."
Babson studies of business activity have for some months now revealed a mild softening in both employment and payrolls. The cause of this slowdown in the cycle can be attributed to a number of factors, among these are rising productivity through technological advances, automation, and declines in government spending.
The reason I am writing this article now instead of in the spring is to try to make both young people and their parents aware of this changed condition. If a college education teaches nothing else, it should make individuals aware that survival of the fittest is a law of nature not likely to be repealed in a hurry by any congress, soviet, or college placement officer!

UNEMPLOYED COLLEGE GRADUATES

You may be surprised to know that there are a number of last June's graduates who have not yet been able to find full-time employment of the kind they want. I learned from one large eastern university recently that better than 20 per cent of its last June graduates had failed to find employment to their liking by Labor Day. Some are still working at part-time jobs; some have gone back to college for graduate work. While this figure may be somewhat atypical, it does, nevertheless, point up a trend.
You may know, too, that a fair sprinkling of last June's graduates who did get jobs have already been "excessed" by their employers? This word "excess" is a lovely new personnel word which means "you are a nice enough individual; you have done well on the job; we would like to have you around, but we just don't need you any more." In short he has been fired.

START JOB HUNTING NOW

One well-known college placement officer has stated that he expects the number of campus visits by companies this year to be cut by 50 per cent. I cannot agree with this; but, I do say there will be some shrinkage.
If, therefore, you expect to graduate in June or college this year, and want a job, start hunting now. Include these things in your preparation: (1) Make an appraisal of yourself. Know your vocational interests, strengths, and weaknesses. (2) Find out what kinds of jobs can best use your abilities, education, and experience; working with people, with numbers, or with materials and things? (3) Investigate your college library to find out what companies offer what kinds of jobs. (4) Go to a good financial source book and check specific companies for growth potential and product diversification.
STUDY COMPANIES TO BE VISITED

(5) Have a general knowledge, before you go into the interview, of each company as well as of the industry it represents. (6) Be able to tell a particular industry and his company. (7) Set up a contact schedule for yourself, and send a resume a day to companies you think you would like to work for, asking for the privilege of an interview. (8) When in interview time comes, be able to talk intelligently about yourself, indicating again, in a general way, the kinds of things you think you might be able to do on the job. (9) Send a follow-up letter after the interview.
Sure, this is a lot of work, and it takes a good deal of time! But the person who fails to take minimal steps of this sort is mentally lazy. Time spent now in getting ready for interviews is far better employed than time (Continued on page five)

Bombing Causes School Damage

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—An explosion of a home-made bomb near a Chattanooga Negro school of 3,000 pupils caused damage estimated at about $1,000, police said today.

Police Chief E. H. Brown said the blast at Howard School possibly was caused by dynamite placed inside a piece of metal pipe.

The explosion ripped apart two doors to the school's elementary division, shattered 23 windows, cracked plaster walls and damaged other doors and door frames. No injuries were reported.

Brown said police had no clues. Principal C. C. Bond said school would resume Tuesday. Today was a scheduled off-day.

The building was constructed in 1954 at a cost of nearly $2,500,000. It is one of the largest Negro schools in the state.

The explosion was the latest in a recent series of incidents of violence in Negro-populated sections of Chattanooga and Hamilton County. A Negro home has been damaged by dynamite, a vacant house in a racially mixed area has burned, and a dynamite blast tore a hole in a field near a Negro section.

Police say they know of no reason for the incidents.

Guatemala Candidates Of Right And Left Leading

GUATEMALA (AP)—Candidates of the right and left were leading today in first returns from the presidential election in this one-time Communist beachhead of the Western Hemisphere. But the outcome of yesterday's voting was not expected to be known until late this week.

Provisional President Guillermo Flores Avendano said no matter who won, the danger of Communist influence in Guatemala probably is less than in the United States.

Unofficial returns from 94 of Guatemala City's 183 polling places gave 15,393 votes to Gen. Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, 62-year-old veteran, right-wing aspirant, and 13,811 to Mario Mendez Montenegro, 47, of the leftist Revolutionary Party.

Col. Jose Luis Cruz Salazar, 38-year-old middle-of-the-roader backed by the late President Carlos Castillo Armas' Democratic Nationalist Movement (MDN) had 6,281 votes. Col. Enrique Ardon trailed far behind with 457.

Ydigoras had been expected to score heavily in the capital, but returns from rural districts could change the trend. Ydigoras carried the city in the Oct. 20 presidential election which was voided after the general's supporters staged bloody riots protesting proclamation of a government candidate as the winner.

Voting yesterday was generally quiet. Flores Avendano warned that the Army stood ready to uphold the decision of Congress, which will make the official canvass of the election returns and choose between the two high men if no candidate gets a majority of the total vote.

The congressional membership now is overwhelmingly MDN. Ydigoras told a news conference if he came out the high man without a majority and Congress chose the second man "against all logic and reason, it will be up to the Army and the people to remedy the situation."

As he had in the last election, Ydigoras charged fraud in some rural districts.

Candidates of Ydigoras' Reconciliation Party also were leading for congressional seats in the capital, with Revolutionary Party men second and MDN candidates running third. At stake in all were 37 seats in Congress—half the membership plus four vacancies in the 66-member chamber.

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Three members of a New York orchestra on the way to Florida for a series of engagements were among five persons killed in an automobile collision shortly before dawn yesterday.

Killed were Philip Colosimo, 31, and his wife, 25, of Woodside, N. Y., and Salvatore Carbone, 27, of East Meadow, N. Y., members of Ray Eberle's orchestra; and Herbert Jackson, 45, and R. W. Jackson, 28, Negroes, of Barlow, Ga.

Chicken Brought Wreck Damage

STAR, N.C. (AP)—No matter why this chicken crossed the road, everybody wishes he hadn't.

The chicken dashed out in front of James Mabe of High Point yesterday on U.S. 220.

Mabe braked sharply to avoid the fowl. Behind him, James Robert Ricks, Negro minister of High Point, swerved to avoid hitting Mabe.

Oncoming Marvin Seagroves of Wilmington ran his tank truck off the highway to keep from smashing Ricks.

The State Highway Patrol said the truck clipped both cars, climbed an embankment and jackknifed. Ricks banged into Mabe and Mabe squashed the chicken. The Patrol estimated the total damage at $10,000.

Strike Cripples Tourist Industry

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Crown officials say the Nassau general strike—which showed no signs today of a letup—is costing the British Colony's tourist industry at least $112,000 daily.

"Nassau's tourist industry—the key to its prosperity—has come to a stop," a government statement said.

"Even if the strike is ended promptly, the tourist business in Nassau will be a long time getting started again."

A week ago hotel and utility workers walked off jobs in sympathy with taxi drivers who struck in a dispute with tour companies over who should carry passengers between hotels and the airport. All of the luxury hotels are closed.

Young Rocketeers Claim Test Launching Success

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two teen-age pioneers of the space age announced last night they had accomplished in private what those four young Connecticut boys failed to do Saturday with the eyes of the nation upon them. They shot a rocket into the air.

Louis Breese and Bill Fox, 17-year-old students at nearby Towson High School, claimed the first successful Maryland firing of a do-it-yourself missile.

It was a long, slim aluminum cylinder—48 inches by a 2-inch diameter—with three tall fins and a wooden nose.

Owen Lee, a farmer from Monkton, Md., confirmed the announcement. He said the rocket was fired at his place, in the rolling hill country just north of Baltimore.

The boys used the same propellant—powdered zinc and sulphur—used by the quartet of Connecticut youngsters at just about the same time on Wallop Island, just off the Virginia coast.

"There was a long whoosh and a big puff of smoke," said Lee. "The rocket went straight up, about 600 or 700 feet, and landed about 300 or 400 feet away in the woods."

The Monkton rocket was 15 inches shorter and an inch thinner than the one taken to Chincoteague last week by David Gay, 16, Neill Buckley, 17, Charles Svenberg, 17, and William Bayne, 16, all of Wallingford, Conn. Thwarted by local officials in their plans to launch their missile, they drew sympathy and help from Navy officials and were flown to the Chincoteague Naval Aviation Ordnance Testing Range, where the project fizzled. They plan to have another go at it.

HICKORY — Still reeling from the loss of three games by forfeit, as ruled by the Commissioner of the North State Conference, East Carolina took a 71-64 punch in the jaw by league-leading Lenoir Rhyne here Saturday night.

The loss, ECC's second to the Bears this season, goes into the record books as their fifth loop defeat of the year and drops them down to fifth position in the conference standings.

Coach Howard Porter's Pirates, visibly shaken by the recent bombshell tossed by C. R. Hinshaw, League Commissioner, got off to a slow start but still managed to stay ahead of the Bears through most of the ball game.

Faced by Jessell Curry, who finished with 17, and Joe Plaster who got 11, the Bucs took a shade of a margin and stayed ahead of the Bears throughout the first two quarters. They went down at half-time with a slight 29-26 lead.

Bears Pull Ahead
Plaster, Don Smith, and Harold Ingram worked hard on the backboards to give ECC an edge in the rebounds and protect the Buc lead in the third quarter. Going into the final period, ECC had a five-point lead and seemed sure to take the Bears.

In the final period, with less than six minutes remaining, Plaster fouled out and Lenoir Rhyne's Norman, James and Whititt began finding the range. They overcame the Pirate lead and pushed on to grab the 71-64 victory.

Coach Porter—leery of substitutes now—used only eight ball players in the game. Besides the starting unit of Curry and Riddick at guards, Smith and Ingram at forwards and Plaster at center, he used Charlie Adams, Guy Mendenhall and Jimmy Hall.

High scorer for the game was Lenoir Rhyne's Norman with 19.

WCC Tonight
Without stopping for breath, the Pirates journey further into the hills tonight to battle a tough Western Carolina team, ranked third in the loop.

It will be the first meeting of the season between the two clubs. WCC has a 4-2 mark to pit against ECC's revised 3-5. The Catamounts are rated definite favorites on their own home court.

Next home game for the Pirates will be on January 31 when the Catamounts invade Memorial Gymnasium for a return match.

NAIA Rules ECC Games Are Good

SALISBURY, N.C. — Maybe East Carolina College has lost three victories in the North State Conference basketball race, but not in the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics books.

The NAIA District 26 Committee says East Carolina broke no NAIA rules by using a transfer from a junior college on its team.

North State Commissioner Dr. C. R. Hinshaw declared three East Carolina wins must be recorded as losses because the transfer, Craig Reid of Rocky Mount, was ineligible by North State standards.

The NAIA committee said yesterday in its meeting here that those of the North State Conference.

This means East Carolina can keep its 6-2 record in NAIA standings although it is reduced to a 3-5 listing in the North State books because victories against Catawba, Gulford and High Point are forfeit.

The committee named March 3, 4 or 5 as the dates for the district tournament to pick a representative for the big NAIA tournament in Kansas City.

The committee said the four tournament teams would be the North State champion, the South Carolina Little 4 champion and two other teams with top NAIA won-lost ratings.

The first games will be played on the home courts of the top teams and the second and final game will be played on a neutral court, perhaps in Salisbury or Gastonia. Chairman Clarence Stansich of Lenoir-Rhyne College was asked to explore both possibilities.

The NAIA District 26, which includes small colleges of both Carolinas, finished its work by accepting Belmont Abbey as a member.

Orioles, Sox Reach Amiable Compromise

CHICAGO — An amicable compromise was reached yesterday by the Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles in the case of pitcher Jack Harshman's slipped disc.

Commissioner Ford Frick issued an ultimatum that the south-paw pitcher goes to Baltimore or the six-player deal consummated last month would be called off.

That sent Vice President Chuck Comiskey of the White Sox and Baltimore Manager Paul Richards scurrying into a huddle. Both clubs admitted liking the deal so well that they wanted it to stand.

The Sox traded Harshman, outfielder Larry Doby and an unnamed player to the Orioles for pitcher Ray Moore, infielder Billy Goodman and outfielder Tito Francona.

Examinations last week confirmed Harshman has a slipped disc and the Orioles yelled "foul." The Sox said they made the deal in good faith and did not know of the 30-year-old pitcher's condition. He pitched a 2-1 win just before the season ended.

Following Frick's stand, Comiskey immediately offered, first baseman Jim Marshall as the unnamed player in the deal if Richards would agree. Paul agreed but then brought up the possibility of Harshman never pitching again.

There was another huddle and the Sox agreed to add another player to the trade or deliver an undisclosed sum of cash — believed to be $15,000 — by Jan. 30. Richards agreed and that ended the matter.

Harshman, present at the meeting, had trouble with his back during the season when he posted an 8-8 record. He said doctors did not come up with the slipped disc diagnosis until after the trade.

W. Virginia And Flora Did Well

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
West Virginia's Mountaineers were the nearest thing to perfection and Washington and Lee's Dom Flora was the nearest thing to a one-man gang in the first half of the Southern Conference basketball season.

These were about the only claims not subject to violent dispute today as the mid-term examination lull descended on the 10-team league.

West Virginia used the first seven weeks of the season not only to progress as expected to the No. 1 spot in the conference standings, but to No. 1 ranking in the nation as well. It was a surprising bonus for the team that coach Fred Schaus described in early December as "a great big question mark."

Now 13-0 and seven for league, the Mountaineers have posted seven victories in the conference and have won their last 28 conference engagements.

As for Flora, the 6-foot-2 W&L sharpshooter from Jersey City has stacked up 369 points for the Generals and possesses a 24.6 point average—both far and away the top marks in the conference.

In 3½ seasons on the W&L varsity, Flora now has scored a grand total of 2,045 points in 98 games for an average of 20.7. This is his finest season.

West Virginia's closest pursuer in the battle for first place in the conference standings is The Citadel, with a 5-2 record. The fellow closest to Flora in the scoring race is William and Mary's Roy Lange, who has 293 points in 14 games for a 20.9 average.

Trailing Lange are freshman Bob Aversman of Virginia Tech, 19.5; Gene Guarilla of George Washington, 18.3; Tom Conard of Furman, 17.0; Jerry West of West Virginia, 16.8; Art Musselman of The Citadel, 15.9; and Dick Wright of Furman, 15.

Only three games are on tap for this week as the basketballers forsake the court for a battle of books. VMI, 4-6 for the season, goes to Randolph-Macon for a non-conference skirmish tonight. West Virginia has a conference date at Furman (0-3 in conference action) and The Citadel travels to Clemson Saturday night.

In last Saturday's games, The Citadel moved into second place in the standings by thumping Davidson 61-42; George Washington upped its conference record to 3-2 and tied Davidson for third place

Maryland Is Tough, Tall And Talented—Case

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"Tough, tall and talented" is how Coach Everett Case of North Carolina State describes the Maryland basketball team which his Wolfpack plays tonight in a game which will have an important bearing on the Atlantic Coast Conference race.

The game at College Park, Md., is only one of three for league teams in this college examination week. The other two games are on Saturday, The Citadel at Clemson and the Camp Lejeune Marines at North Carolina State.

Maryland leads the conference with a 4-1 league record and is 10-2 overall. North Carolina, which broke a two-game losing streak by whipping Clemson 90-81 in the only game last Saturday, is second at 5-2 and 12-3 all games.

N. C. State and Maryland are the only league teams which have whipped North Carolina this year. The other club to have done so is top-ranked West Virginia. State and Maryland also have other distinctions in common. They have defeated Wake Forest and South Carolina while losing to Clemson.

Coach Frank McGuire of North Carolina said after his Tar Heels had to go all out to defeat Clemson that "It's going to be tough in this league. I'm telling you."

The teams should be relaxed, because all eight get into the post-season tournament that determines the league champion.

Virginia 3-3 is tied with Duke 2-2 for fourth place. In all games, Virginia is 6-6 and Duke is 6-5.

Duke doesn't play again until next Monday but it will be a tough one then, against West Virginia. Then Duke is host the following Thursday, Jan. 30, to Virginia. Clemson is sixth in the league, 3-5 and 6-8. Bringing up the rear are South Carolina 2-5 and 4-9, and Wake Forest, 2-5 and 5-9.

Webb, Calhoun Clash Tonight For Title Shot

By MURRAY ROSE
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ranking contenders Rory Calhoun and Spider Webb clash in a return middleweight fight at San Francisco tonight that may earn the victor a shot at the 160-pound crown.

The winner will be in a strong position to angle for a crack at the champ after titleholder Carmen Basilio and Sugar Ray Robinson get through with their second scrap at Chicago, March 25.

Webb, from Chicago, has posted a fine 25-2 pro record, including a narrow but unanimous decision over Calhoun at Chicago, Aug. 29, 1952. Calhoun, 25-year-old battler from White Plains, N.Y., has compiled an impressive 31-2-1 record. His other defeat was another controversial verdict, this time to Joey Giardello.

Calhoun is ranked fourth contender by the National Boxing Assn. and Ring Magazine. Webb, 25, is ranked sixth by the NBA and seventh by Ring.

The 10-rounder at the Cow Palace won't be telecast.

The Monday night television fight (DuMont, 10 p.m., EST) matches featherweights Harold Gomes, 24, of Providence, R.I., and Harold Smith, 21, of Washington, D.C., at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. Smith's record is 16-6.

Virgil Akins, recognized as "world" welterweight champion by the Massachusetts Commission, defends his "crown" Tuesday night against Tony DeMarco, onetime world ruler, in a non-television 15-rounder at the Boston Garden.

Middleweights Bobby Boyd of Chicago and Holly Mims of Washington, D.C., meet in still another return bout this week. The 160-pounders clash at the Miami Beach Auditorium Wednesday night (ABC TV, 10 p.m., EST) in a 10-rounder. Boyd's record is 47-8-2. Mims' record is 42-16-5.

Lightweight champion Joey Brown, undefeated in his last 14 fights, shouldn't have much difficulty stretching the streak to 15 Friday night at Washington, D.C. The 32-year-old champ opposes 22-year-old Ernie (Sonny Boy) Williams of Washington in a non-title 10-rounder (NBC TV, radio, 10 p.m., EST). Brown's record is 67-14-3. Williams' record is 20-3-1.

Delaney Wins With 4:05 Time

BOSTON — Ronnie Delaney, who now has won 16 mile races in a row indoors (he's never been beaten on boards), said he didn't think he was in top shape yet before the Boston Knights of Columbus games Saturday night. But he ripped off a 4:05 effort, one of his best.

Phil Coleman's final clocking of 4:05.7 left him about a half dozen yards behind Delaney at the finish. Coleman hung onto Jim Beatty an Army private from Fort Jackson, S.C., (the rabbit in the race) until they were almost at the three-quarter mark.

HOOP PALM PLAY — Texas guard Dave Rozzell is on the receiving end of some facial guarding by Baylor's Gene McCarley (5) in Southwest Conference basketball game in Houston.

REID, PORTER . . . Young man in question.

The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics announced today that it does not go along with the North State Conference in forcing East Carolina College to forfeit three ballgames due to the supposed ineligibility of one of the school's ballplayers.

The NAIA committee met this weekend and found that the ballplayer in question, Craig Reid, is not ineligible by NAIA rules. Therefore, ECC's record of 6-2 is intact.

This is extremely important—"possibly more important than the Conference ruling," according to an unnamed ECC official.

Should the Conference ruling remain in effect—and there is a possibility that ECC will protest—even then, the loss of those three games will not be enough to keep East Carolina out of the North State Tournament. And it is the North State tournament that decides the Conference championship.

The only bearing the regular season rankings have on the title, is that it serves to fix the pairings for the tournament. In other words, ECC could conceivably finish next to the bottom in regular season and still win the tournament and the championship.

Officials at the school were worried that the forfeited games might knock the Pirates out of the NAIA tournament running. But the Committee's decision that ECC broke no eligibility rules leaves the school in a good position to get in on that battle, too.

So, even if the forfeited games remain a blot on the Pirates' card, they have a chance to make good in both the race for the North State loop crown and the NAIA region title.

It is entirely possible the decision made by the Conference. Indications in a Greensboro Newspaper are that Porter definitely intends to enter a formal protest. ECC officials said today, however, that no statements will be made until Porter returns to Greenville and the matter is discussed.

Hinsaw In Error
According to reports gathered here, there is some possibility that C. R. Hinshaw of High Point College—the man who started the investigation and also the League Commissioner who ordered the three games slashed off ECC's record—is in error.

The North State handbook states clearly that whenever any party finds authentic evidence which indicates that a school is using or has used an ineligible player, the party must submit a written statement with evidence to the Conference and that the Conference must, in turn, submit a copy of that evidence to the school in question. An investigation is then to be conducted.

Hinshaw did neither according to local information. He merely picked up the phone and released the statement of his findings. East Carolina first learned of the ruling through a letter from Hinshaw—acting as Commissioner—which stated that the three games HAD ALREADY been forfeited and that the action was already in effect.

Certainly Didn't Know
ECC officials have pointed out that they certainly weren't aware of the boy's ineligibility and all indications point that way. Reid was used only sparingly as a third team reserve in three games that ECC had already salted away by lopsided margins. He never scored a point.

The statement made by Athletic Director Jorgensen about there being "an awareness to some degree" about the boy's eligibility at the first of the season, was clarified this morning.

When Reid showed up at basketball practice this winter, he was asked if he had completed his graduation requirements at Louisburg Junior College. ECC officials knew that this was a requirement that must be met before the boy could compete for the Bucs. Reid was requested to bring a letter from Louisburg stating that he had met these requirements before he was allowed to play. He got the letter and that cleared up the matter as far as East Carolina was concerned. It was all apparently valid.

Eisenhower Begins Sixth Year As President Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower starts his sixth year in office today—and kicks off a new Republican drive for control of Congress. The 67-year-old President arranged formal observance of the anniversary this evening at a $100-a-plate GOP dinner in Chicago where he will be guest of honor and make a nationwide television-radio political address (NBC) as the party's chief. The President and Mrs. Eisenhower scheduled an afternoon flight aboard his private plane, Columbine III. In Chicago, the President and the First Lady will stay overnight at the Stockyard Inn near the huge International Amphitheater where tonight's dinner is being held—and where Eisenhower was nominated for a first term in July 1952. They plan to fly back to Washington tomorrow. Forty-four Republican dinners for an estimated 40,000 of the House. And they held on to their majorities in both houses in 1956 despite Eisenhower's own re-election. Since the President took office in 1953, he has suffered three major illnesses—the most recent, a minor stroke, last Nov. 25. His doctors still have not given him a medical discharge on that illness. And since the start of Eisenhower's second term a year ago today there has been the tremendous impact on national security of the Russian Sputniks and Soviet progress in the missile field. There has been no word from the President yet on how active a role he may play in this year's campaign.

GOP faithful are being held tonight in 27 states and the District of Columbia. In addition to Eisenhower, speakers at the $10 to $100-a-plate affairs from coast to coast include Vice President Nixon, many other top administration officials and Republican congressional leaders. Nixon, speaking from the New York dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, will introduce Eisenhower. The President will talk for about 10 minutes on the half-hour TV-radio program being beamed to the party dinners around the country as well as to the public generally. Those scheduled for brief TV-radio talks from the Washington dinner, in advance of the President's address, include Sen. Schoeppel of Kansas, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Committee; and Miss Bertha Adkins, assistant chairman of the GOP National Committee. The party effort from the President on down is geared to raising funds for the GOP campaign to wrest control of Congress from the Democrats in the November elections. The Republicans have not won control of Congress since 1952 when they rode to power along with Eisenhower, who five years ago today became the first GOP president in two decades. In 1954, the President took an active part in his party's drive to maintain control of the legislative branch, but the Democrats took over both the Senate and the

Barnhill Favors Accountability

RALEIGH (AP) — More supervision over the state's superior court judges has been advocated by retired Chief Justice M. V. Barnhill. "We've got a conglomeration of courts and no supervision," Barnhill said in an interview. He suggested that superior court judges be made accountable to the chief justice of the State Supreme Court. At present, he explained, "Every judge is a power unto himself. If he wants to hold court one day a week, that's up to him." Barnhill, 70, served as chief justice for two and a half years before his retirement in 1956. He was a member of the Supreme Court for 19 years, and sat on the superior court bench for 13 years. A native of Halifax County, his early law practice was in Rocky Mount. A committee of the North Carolina Bar Assn. is studying the state's court system to prepare Barnhill agreed improvements are needed. Uniformity in local courts, as well as supervision of superior courts, is a major need, the retired chief justice declared.

Says Meteorite Can Start Atomic War

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Meteorite tracker Dr. H. H. Nininger of Sedona, Ariz., says a falling meteorite might cause the extermination of the human race by setting off an atomic war. Dr. Nininger, head of the American Meteorite Museum since its founding in 1946, offered this explanation in an interview today in support of his terrifying idea. "Those charged with the defense of our nation never have made meteorites the subject of study. A falling meteorite very easily may be mistaken for an intercontinental ballistic missile. Each spectacular fireball continues to create misunderstanding, even terror, among those witnessing it. Airplane pilots mistake fireballs for burning planes or report them as unidentified flying objects. Military personnel on sentry and lookout duty report flying saucers and unidentified radar blips. Personnel of the Civil Air Patrol continually are sent in search of falling planes and grounded unidentified flying objects where none exist. "Until the advent of the ballistic missile and the Sputniks, such errors were dangerous only to a few. Today the situation has changed. A meteorite could explode over Los Angeles today and we might find ourselves engaged in warfare before the true identity of the object was ascertained. "Likewise, an unarmed missile could be launched by an aggressor to determine range and accuracy before launching a more lethal weapon, and with the present lack of adequate recognition and investigatory knowledge and procedure by our defense forces, such fact would not be known until potential attack had become a reality." Dr. Nininger, who has been engaged in the study of meteorites for 37 years, said all military defense personnel should be thoroughly familiarized with the known auditory and visual characteristics of falling meteorites, differentiated from the characteristics of ballistic missiles. He said radar technicians should be instructed in recognizing both the blip of the meteorite and the ionization trail left by the meteorite's passage.

CHAPTER SIX

There hadn't been any warning sound. They must have been lurking there ahead of her, to be able to spring the trap so unexpectedly. Her pinnated hand, were swung around behind her, brought together again. The hand had left her mouth. "You interested in what's down in there?" the man behind her asked threateningly.

"I don't know what you mean. Take your hands off me!" "You know what I mean. And we know what you mean. Don't you suppose we're onto you? You're hanging around our place? Now you'll get what you were looking for." He addressed his father. "Take off her shoes and stockings and lie 'em on the bank. Careful, don't tear 'em now."

"What's that for?" "She came out here alone, see, early tomorrow morning, and it looked so pretty she went wading without knowing what it was, and she kicked and got her."

She kicked frantically, trying to stop them. She was helpless in their hands. Her ankles were caught, one at a time, and stripped. "They'll dredge for her, won't they?" Dirk Mason mentioned with sinister meaning.

"She'll be on top, won't she?" was the grisly reassurance. "Once they get her out, they'll be no call for them to go ahead dredging any further down."

She ripped out a scream of harrowing intensity. If it had been twice as shrill, it couldn't have reached past the confines of these woods. And who was there in the woods to hear her? "Think we ought to stuff something in her mouth?" the older man asked.

"No, because we gotta figure on her being found later. Don't worry, no one'll hear her."

She was fighting now the way an animal fights for its life. But she was no match for the two of them. Not even a man would have been. They were ready for the incredible thing they were about to do. "Grab her legs and swing her, so she goes out far enough."

There was a moment of sickening indecision, while she swung suspended between them, clear of the ground. Then her spinning body shot away from them.

Water sprayed over her as she struck. The fall was nothing. It was like landing on a satin quilt, the sand was so soft. She rolled over, tore her arms free, and thrashed to a kneeling position. There was that awful preliminary moment in which nothing happened, as with that stone she had seen Johnny throw in yesterday. Then a sudden pull, a drawing started in — weak at first, barely noticeable, giving the impression of being easy to counteract. And each move she made wound the sand tighter around her bared feet, ankles, calves.

Meanwhile, something was happening on the bank, or at least farther back in the woods; but she was only dimly aware of it, too taken up in her own floundering struggles. It reached her vaguely, like something through a heavy mist. An intermittent winking as of fireflies here and there, each one followed by a loud crack like the breaking of a heavy boot. Then heavy forms were crashing through the thickets in several directions at once, two of them fleeing along the edge of the pool, others fanning out farther back, as if to intercept them. There was one final crack, a fall, and then a breathless voice nearby said: "Don't shoot — I give up!"

A light, stronger than the one she had brought, suddenly flashed out, caught her, steadied, lighting up the whole pool. Her screams had dwindled to weak wails now, simply because she hadn't enough breath left. She was writhing there, still upright, but her legs already gone past the knees.

"Hurry up, help me with this girl!" a voice shouted somewhere behind the blinding light. "Don't you see what they've done to her?" The pole of the same pitchfork she had used was thrust out toward her. "Hang onto this!" She clutched it with both hands. A moment later a noosed rope had splashed into the water around her.

"Pass your arms through that and tighten it around you. Grab hold now and kick out behind you!"

For minutes nothing happened; she didn't seem to move at all, though there must have been at least three of them pulling on the rope. "Are we hurting you?" Then suddenly there was a crumbling feeling of the sand around her trapped legs and she came free.

Kendall was one of them, of course, and even the brief glimpse she had of his face by torchlight made her wonder how she could have ever felt averse to running into him at any time. She certainly didn't feel that way now.

They carried her out of the woods in a "chair" made of their hands and put her into a police car waiting at the edge of the fields.

"You'd better get back there and go to work," she said. "Even before you got the rope around me, the downward pull had stopped. I noticed. I seemed to be standing on something. How did you get out here on time?"

"One of those inquiries I sent out finally paid off. A commercial traveler named Kenneth Johnson was reported missing, from way over in Jordanstown. He was supposed to show up at Indian River, out beyond here in the other direction, and he never got there — dropped from sight somewhere along the way, car and all. He was carrying quite a job of money with him. He left three weeks ago, but it wasn't reported until now, because he was only expected back around this time. I only got word a half hour ago. I thought of the Masons right away, thanks to you. I started right out here with a couple of my partners to look around, never dreaming that you were still here yourself. Then a little past the next house down, the O'Brien place, we met the kid, Johnny, running along the road licky-split, on his way to phone in to us and get help. His mother had finally got pangs of conscience and thrown off her fear of her husband, and stepson long enough to try to save you from what she guessed was going to happen."

She went out there again first thing the next morning. Kendall came forward to meet her as she neared the pool. He told her they'd finally got the car out a little after daybreak, with the help of a farm-tractor run in under the trees, plenty of stout ropes, and some grappling hooks. She could see the twisted, looking sand - encrusted shape standing there on the bank, scarcely recognizable for what it was.

"Kenneth Johnson, all right," Kendall said quietly, "and still inside it when we got it out. But murdered before he was ever swallowed up in the sand. I have a confession from the two Masons. He gave Ed a hitch back along the road that night. Mason got him to step in for a minute on some excuse or other, when they'd reached his place, so he'd have a chance to rifle his wallet. Johnson caught him in the act, and Mason and his father murdered him with a flat-iron. Then they put him back in the car, drove him over here, and pushed it in. No need to go any closer. It's not a very pretty sight."

On the way back he asked: "But what made you change your mind so suddenly? Only yesterday morning when I met you were ready to —"

"I sat down on a stump not far from the pool, and afterwards I discovered axle-grass on my dress. It was so damp and moist in there that the clot that had fallen from the car hadn't dried out yet. Why should a car be driven in there where there was no road? That composition of Johnny's. Remember where Johnny said the hat had fallen? Through the stove onto the ashes. But in the reenactment they staged for me, Ed Mason's hat also fell through the open scuttlehole in the stove onto the ashes below. Is it probable that a hat, flung off somebody's head in the course of a struggle, would land in the identical place twice? Hardly. Things like that just don't happen. The second hat had been deliberately placed there for me to see, to point up the similarity to what had happened before."

That night, safely back in her old quarters in town, she was going over back-schoolwork when her landlady knocked on the door. "There's a gentleman downstairs to see you. He says it's not business, but social."

Miss Prince smiled a little. "I think I know who it is. Tell him I'll be right down as soon as I've finished grading this composition."

She picked up the one Johnny Gaines had written. She marked it A-plus, the higher possible mark she could give without bothering for once about grammar, punctuation, or spelling. Then she put on her hat, turned down the light, and went out to meet Kendall.

Stumbled On Big Cache Of Arms

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Benjamin Halicki, 39, broke through a secret compartment yesterday while repairing a staircase in his mother's North Philadelphia home.

Inside the compartment was an arsenal of 60 pistols and hundreds of rounds of ammunition which police said may have been placed there by gangsters during the Prohibition Era. Along with the guns and ammunition were six deep sea fishing rods wrapped in a Philadelphia newspaper dated May 24, 1932.

Det. Inspector George Kronbar said the bullets were of various caliber and included wooden dum dum types. He said some of the weapons were loaded.

The skeptical officers checked, learned the two had been making nightly raids on a charity wishing well in the hotel basement. Explained one officer, "their hands were too dirty" for scrubbing floors.

Nixon Continues Heavy Pace Of Meetings, Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon is setting a pace these days that few potential rivals for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination would care to equal.

party members made sensitive by President Eisenhower's illness—to the physical requirements of the presidency.

In the course of what is regarded by his staff as an average week, Nixon listed eight formal appearances. At most he is expected to "say a few words" and for some he needed a formal speech.

Formal speeches don't always come easily to Nixon. When he particularly wants to put across some new ideas, he often works over those speeches until midnight.

These appearances were in addition to Nixon's constitutional job of presiding over the Senate, his assignment by Eisenhower to participate in weekly meetings of the Cabinet and the National Security Council, and his chairmanship of the Antidiscrimination Committee on Government Contracts.

The stream of visitors to his office makes it necessary to advance appointments days in advance and to insist that a minimum amount of time be spent with any one person.

Nixon's mail runs to hundreds of letters a day. He is on the telephone often, talking to other administration officials.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market spurted to the upside in fairly active trading early this afternoon after an irregular start. Steels were nicely ahead. Gains of key stocks went generally from fractions to about a point but there were some advances of 2 or 3. Rails backed away from their recent gains as the whole market improved. There was a cutting of their losses and even a few small gains. American Telephone was up more than 3 points and Royal Dutch about 2 as trading interest rate high in the new financing of both companies. While the run of business and corporate news was spotty there was some anticipation in Wall Street of a bullish reaction to President Eisenhower's economic report to Congress and his speech in Chicago tonight. Railroads were down on average now that the Washington hearings on their difficulties have ended and expectations of federal assistance are limited. Coppers, aircrafts, radio-televisions, chemicals and nonferrous metals were higher. Loew's was up slightly on news of its $455,000 loss in the past fiscal year combined with a prediction by its president that the downturn in the film company's business had halted. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 70 cents to $161.00 with the industrials up $1.20, the rails 50 cents and the utilities up 50 cents.

Today's Report Will Be Studied For Ike's Plans

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Businessmen will scan the President's economic report to the nation today, looking for what the administration plans to do in the present situation and what it would do if the current recession widens and deepens.

Both programs are becoming clearer now on such matters as taxes, pump priming, money policy, public works and deficit financing.

The administration would like to balance the next budget even if that now looks like an outside chance. To that end, its present plan is to urge Congress to reenact the present high tax rates.

That means a move to get Congress again to extend by one year the 52 per cent corporate income levy first enacted as an emergency measure in the Korean War. The rate is scheduled to drop to 47 per cent July 1.

The administration also wants the excise taxes similarly marked as emergency to be voted for another year. These selective, sales taxes make your autos, cigarettes, liquor and train rides cost more.

As the economy stands now this is what the administration wants. But it seems prepared, if the recession really starts rolling, to cut taxes both as a relief to business and as a means of giving the consumer more to spend. Congress seems even more prepared to do so. This is an election year.

Tight money gradually is turning to easy money. The Federal Reserve is lowering its interest charges to banks and allowing stock traders to buy more on the cuff. It is thought ready to lend if they need it.

The administration is priming the home building pump by easing up on credit terms and by releasing funds for public housing.

It is indicating that it won't shy from deficit financing if needed to maintain its increased defense spending plans.

Pump priming is a byproduct of other policies—increased defense spending, the big highway program, proposed financial aids to education. Also, between them the administration and the congress seem unlikely to lower spending on present non defense items.

Lasky Believed That Enthusiasm Helped

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I think that if you put enough enthusiasm into anything, it eventually bears fruit, possibly in some other form, but it's never lost."

That was what Jesse Lasky wrote in his autobiography, "I Blow My Own Horn," which he was publicizing just before he fell dead last week. And his words just about summed up the remarkable career of a kindly gentleman with a rare talent for enthusiasm.

Lasky's bland face, pince-nez glasses and friendly manner were a familiar sight in Hollywood since the town arose from the lemon groves. In the last two or three decades, he also became familiar for his pet projects, which he would promote until they reached the screen.

The guy just wouldn't give up. He recalled looking out of his New York office window in 1919 to see the ticker-tape reception for Sgt. Alvin C. York, the great World War I hero who had killed 28 Germans and captured 132 more. Then the head of famous Playlows-Lasky (later Paramount), the producer offered to buy the hero's life story for film.

York's reply: "My life is not for sale."

Twenty years later, the movie parade had passed Lasky by.

Searching for a subject to make a comeback with, he remembered Sgt. York. He flew to Nashville and motored to the Cumberland Mountains to see York. After lengthy negotiations, they made a deal. Lasky signed a $25,000 check for half-payment on the film rights, then hurried home to borrow on his life insurance to cover the check.

"Sergeant York" was a smash hit and won star Gary Cooper his first Oscar.

Another longtime Lasky project was a biography of Enrico Caruso. In his early days as a producer, he had made two movies with the great tenor. They were terrible flops, since the audiences couldn't hear the Caruso voice.

In 1945, Lasky met Caruso's widow at a New York film premiere. She reminded him they had met at her wedding. She had just written a book about her husband, and Lasky arranged to buy it.

He tried to make a film using the old Caruso records, but that didn't work. For five years, he peddled the yarn to the major studios with no takers. Finally, MGM bought it as a vehicle for young Mario Lanza. "The Great Caruso" broke all records at the Radio City Music Hall and made Lanza a world-wide star.

(Tomorrow: The famous trio—Lasky, Goldwyn, DeMille.)

MISS BETSY RICE
MRS. J. VINES COBB

About 125 Presbyterian adult leaders of youth are expected in Greenville on Tuesday night at 6:30 for a supper meeting at First Presbyterian Church. Churches from all of Northeast North Carolina will send representatives. Featured as leaders of workshops on Junior High and Senior High youth groups are Miss Betsy Rice of Richmond, Va., head of the department on Junior High youth work for the whole denomination, and Mrs. J. Vines Cobb, Director of Christian Education of First Presbyterian Church of Wilson.

The Rev. Thomas M. Davis, General Secretary of Albemarle Presbytery says of them, "Both these leaders have had wide experience in their work with young people, and in training adult leaders. They can be very helpful to anyone working with either of these groups."

The workshops are being planned by the following ministers who are members of Albemarle Presbytery's committee on Youth Work: J. H. Miller, Snow Hill; Matthew McGowan, Rocky Mount; John Thompson, Williamston; William D. Morton of Farmville; and Russell Fleming, Rocky Mount. Miss Dot Lynch of Goldsboro has also helped in the planning.

The meeting is open to adults interested in working with these two age groups—teachers, fellowship leaders, Christian education committee members, and parents. Those attending will bring a picnic supper, and drinks and dessert will be arranged for by ladies of First Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Roy Coburn, chairmen. They can be very helpful to

Liquor Raiders Picked Up Four On Gambling Charge

Four local Negro men were arrested for gambling by Pitt County ABC officers "quite by accident" Saturday night.

Chief ABC Officer J. M. Ward said the four were arrested while they played cards by lamplight at the house of a friend on Pamlico Ave. The law enforcement officers were on a routine liquor raid when they came on the men playing around "back room."

Ward said he and H. B. Lilly and James Ross came up to the door, told them they were ABC officers and wanted to check the house for whiskey. "They just opened the door and let us in," he said.

"Right there before us were the four men playing cards," Ward related. "When I asked them why they let us in without covering up, they just said they thought 'somebody was in'."

Arrested were: Robert Lee Taylor, 32, of 603 Clark St.; Roy Hemby, 47, of 603 Pamlico Ave.; Charlie Wilks, 48, of 414 Tyson St.; and Robert J. Watson, 38, of 613 Coopers Lane. A $50 bond was set for Watson. The other three men were released and recognized to appear before Judge Charles H. Whedbee in City Court.

Roy Lee Jordan, 28-year-old Negro of the Bell Fork section was also arrested by ABC officers Saturday night.

According to Ward, 12 gallons and three pints of non-tax paid whiskey was found near Jordan's house. Three pints were found under an outhouse and the other was uncovered in a nearby cornfield.

Jordan was charged with possession of non-tax paid whiskey for the purpose of sale. He was released on $500 bond to appear in Recorder's Court on Feb. 4.

Radio Program Provides Answers The Public Asks

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Possibly never before have so many Americans wanted to know so much about such a great variety of subjects.

One result of the growing desire for information is the emergence of Walter Cronkite on CBS Radio in a program called "Answer, Please!" Definitely not a quiz program, it bravely undertakes to toss rubbings of knowledge into the cavernous maw of the public mind five nights a week.

The idea evolved naturally, Cronkite says, as a means of answering questions which listeners ask the year around. By the second week of the program's life letters were coming in at the rate of 6,000 weekly.

Radio is a much better means of answering questions than a TV program, says the television-seeker Cronkite, because you can answer more questions more completely without making a production of each. Television would require a more complicated and costly operation—and the answers would be the same.

Thus far the predominating questions have concerned science in general and science in relation to world affairs. Next come questions about the machinery of the U.S. Government and provisions of the Constitution on various specific points. Queries about the White House and the Eisenhower family have turned "Answer, Please!" researchers into experts on the Presidential life.

Since the program began Cronkite has answered about 14 questions per broadcast, some of them at length.

The specific questions are a cinch. But when someone asks, "Will we ever get ahead of Russia? Who will reach the moon first? Will we ever have war again? When will we get our satellite up?" Cronkite eases out of it by replying:

"If I knew, I'd be working for the Pentagon instead of CBS Radio."

Texas Explosion Kills Three Men

BAYTOWN, Tex. (AP)—A thunderous explosion rocked the United Rubber & Chemical Co. plant near here yesterday, killing three men. Six others were injured, three seriously.

Flames shot 100 feet into the air following the blast. A plant official blamed it on butadiene gas, which is used in making synthetic rubber. Two of the dead were buried under tons of debris somewhere in the two buildings destroyed by the blast.

The plant, located on a 47-acre site about three miles from here, is some 25 miles from Texas City where a series of ship explosions killed more than 500 in 1947.

The victims were identified as J. E. Owens, 32, Highlands, Tex.; Chester Trahan, 41, and Ed Stokes, 59, both of Baytown.

Plant workers were digging into the rubble to recover the bodies of Trahan and Stokes.

Howard Dunaway, 51, Channelview, Tex.; Miller Day, 44, Mont Belvieu, Tex.; and Louie F. Fisher, Baytown, were hospitalized. The other injured men were not seriously hurt.

Gordon F. Harriman, one of 40 persons working at the plant when the blast occurred, said "I saw it blow right out the roof of both those buildings. It blew the windows out of my building, knocked off our front door and threw me on the floor."

Firemen controlled the fire about an hour and a half later. The explosion was felt 12 miles away.

Allen Resigns Veterans Office

RALEIGH (AP)—Thomas W. Allen, who is stepping down Feb. 1, as state ABC Board chairman today resigned from the new job as veterans service officer which Gov. Hodges had arranged for him.

Announcement of Allen's resignation was made at a meeting of the State Veterans Commission and it came after heads of several North Carolina veterans organizations had protested the appointment. They contended that Allen did not have the qualifications the veterans service officer post calls for.

At the same time, the Veterans Commission adopted a resolution designed to prevent similar situations from occurring in the future.

Colin McKinnis, Veterans Commission director, told the commission that Allen had called him today to tell him he had decided "after consideration and inquiring around... he feels he is not physically qualified for the job."

Three Injured In Three-Car Crash

Two women and a man sustained injuries in a three-car chain collision yesterday afternoon at the intersection of Boyd and Myrtle Aves.

Injured were: Louise Whitley of Greenville Rt. 6 who received abrasions of the right leg; Charlie Beaman of Farmville Rt. 2, a broken nose and facial cuts; and Louise House 38-year-old Negro woman of Greenville Rt. 3, abrasions of the legs and a head injury. All three were admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital shortly after the mishap. Their condition was described as good this morning.

Following their investigation, officers charged Beaman with failure to stop for a stop sign. The drivers of the other two vehicles were identified as Charlie James House of Greenville Rt. 3 and John Everett Nobles of PO Box 144, Greenville.

Damage to the three cars involved was estimated at $3,300. According to reports the largest amount of damage was received by the 1957 stationwagon operated by Nobles, $1,500. The left side and right front of Beaman's 1953 automobile received approximately $1,000 damages. Two signs, one belonging to the City and the other to the Grace Free Will Baptist Church, were also damaged.

Police said Beaman's car reportedly ran a stop sign, struck Nobles' stationwagon and then collided with the front of the car operated by House.

Heavy Snow Is Boon To Great Plains States

The snowfall over croplands of western Kansas, eastern and southern Nebraska, northwestern Iowa and southern Minnesota was nearly as heavy.

Daytime temperatures in the snowy area were generally in the 20s.

Putting Lid On Boy Scientists

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Charlotte druggists have joined other groups in putting the lid on rocket ventures for youngsters.

The Charlotte Pharmaceutical Society is writing druggists here asking them not to sell potentially dangerous chemicals to teenagers.

These chemicals—mostly sulphur, charcoal, potassium nitrate, potassium chlorate and zinc dust—generally cause an explosion when mixed.

It takes delicate work to be sure the explosion sends a rocket up. Too often, it merely turns the homemade rocket into a highly dangerous homemade bomb.
