Winner of the Outstanding Young Farmer award must also be of Jaycee age. However, he does not have to be a Jaycee.

Brownies, Scouts To Have Annual Tea

Most of the towns which come under the jurisdiction of the Pitt County Girl Scout Council hold an annual celebration to which all of the Brownies, Scouts, their parents and friends are invited.

Mrs. Charles A. White, president of the Council, has announced that this event will take place in Greenville on Sunday, January 26, at the Rotary Club from 3:30 until 5:00 o'clock.

Tea and cookies will be served, and there will be a display of handicrafts made by Brownies and Scouts at their troop meetings.

The purpose of the tea is to acquaint the general public with the Girl Scout program and with the people responsible for carrying out that program. There will be a receiving line composed of Council members and troop leaders, and Scouts who have been awarded the Curved Bar will assist in serving.

A copy of the annual report of the Council will be presented to each person attending.

Dr. Douglas Addresses Round Table Yesterday

Mrs. W. W. Howell was hostess to the Round Table at her home in Rock Springs yesterday afternoon.

For this occasion seasonal plants and berries were used in the rooms where the guests were received. Special guests for the afternoon were Miss Eunice Mc-Gee and Dr. and Mrs. George A. Douglas.

The meeting was opened by reading the club collect in unison, after which routine business was transacted.

Mrs. J. E. Phelps assisted Mrs. Howell in serving a salad plate with party accompaniments.

Mrs. Charles Horne had charge of the program. She introduced Dr. Douglas, a member of the faculty of East Carolina College. Dr. Douglas brought the club a talk on "Being Grandparents."

40 Million Women Can't Be Wrong

Forty million American women can't be wrong.

As the government releases monthly bulletins concerning the rising cost of practically everything, women are turning to their sewing machines in droves, combating inflation in their own quiet but effective way.

According to a recent survey conducted by local sewing centers throughout the country, 40 million women spend an average of a full working day each week at their sewing machines. This comes out to a cool couple of billion total sewing days a year, and it doesn't take an Einstein to figure that a lot of sewing gets done during that period.

He brought out the fact that children marry younger today than in the past, and the problem of the empty nest presents itself earlier in the life of parents. He stated, "We should start preparing for our in-laws before too late in life" and named some of the eternal and internal hazards to overcomes.

The contributions of grandparents to their grandchildren discussed were:

1. Their ability to provide the fullness of life;
2. The emotional development;
3. Flexibility of getting things done;
4. Widening horizons.

Dr. Douglas concluded his talk with a few short stories and poems that presented the optimistic side of the relationship of grandparent and grandchild.

Miss Chandler Returns From Methodist Meet

Miss Mamie Chandler returned Monday from Buck Hill Falls, Pa., where she was a guest at the annual meeting of the Woman's Division and the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church.

Miss Chandler was one of four directors of Methodist student work who were invited to these annual meetings, held at The Inn, in the Pocono Mountains, three hours from New York City.

At this annual meeting of the Board of Missions, the entire program of the Methodist Church in missionary projects in the United States and other countries all over the world is presented by the bishops, executive secretaries of the board, missionaries and deaconesses serving in these various missions. The needs of the various missions are discussed and appropriations made for the coming year.

STOKES—On Saturday evening, January 18, Mr. and Mrs. Corey Stokes of Ayden honored Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cherry of Kinston at a buffet supper immediately following their wedding in the Westminster Methodist Church in Kinston.

The home was ensuite with floral arrangements suitable for the occasion.

The refreshments consisted of party sandwiches, ham biscuits, minis, nuts, dainty wedding squares and punch.

The wedding party, out-of-town guests and relatives attended.

Women Quilting For Future Community Building

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor

Yesterday afternoon eight members of the Stokes Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. J. B. Congleton in Stokes to begin work on the club's project for the year—an old-fashioned quilt.

A definite future is planned for this quilt which the members hope to have finished by today.

For many years residents of Stokes have longed for and dreamed of a Community Building. This handsome quilt will be one of the stepping stones to this dream.

The club women plan to raise money with the quilt toward the future building as all the materials for the project have been donated by interested persons in the community.

Benjamin White gave the multi-colored patches and the lining and batting were donated by Mrs. Tyree Stokes, Mrs. N. L. Wynne and Mrs. J. A. Tyson. Thread for the quilt was given by Mrs. Congleton.

The lot for the expectant Community Building, located on the west side of the Bethel-Washington Highway, has been presented to the community by Mrs. Congleton and W. F. Stokes.

Club members said, "We are but one group trying to help in a small way toward the erection of our Community Building."

After refreshments, Mrs. W. A. Wright, president, called the meeting to order. Committee reports were made and plans were formulated for a Spring Flower Show with Mrs. R. P. Heller as chairman assisted by Mrs. George Trammel.

Mrs. Heller listed the chairmen for special committees and club members selected "Spring Debut" for the theme of the show.

Mrs. Mitchell spoke on the methods and procedure to follow in staging a Standard Flower Show. She gave many helpful suggestions to the members on how

Four Ministers To Be At Altar

Four ministers will be at the altar when Roselyn Waters and Ralph Lee Norwood marry on June 7.

One minister, Dr. Jimmie Johnson of Fuquay Springs, will officiate at their wedding exactly one year from the day he introduced the pair.

The bridegroom, a minister at Grace Memorial Baptist Church in Bedford, Va., has chosen another minister as his best man. Assisting in the ceremony will be the bride-to-be's pastor from Winterville.

McDowell Club Hears Folk Songs

ROBERSONVILLE—Miss Linda Mills, Miss Linda Leggett, David Wilson and Hoke Knox of the Everett School rendered four folk songs accompanied on the auto-harp by David Wilson, when the McDowell Music Club met Friday afternoon with Mrs. Irving Smith Sr., hostess.

Mrs. Irving Smith Jr., accompanied by Mrs. I. L. Smith Sr., pianist, sang "Wayfaring Stranger" and "He's Going Away."

This entertainment was followed by a recording from a concert by Burl Ives. Mrs. J. R. Daniels presided over the meeting when the state chairman appealed to the members to support the music camp at Brevard. Mrs. Smith was program leader.

A sweet course was served to the large group following the musical program.

Lakewood Pines Garden Club To Sponsor Flower Show In Spring

Mrs. Sam Mitchell, director for the Garden Clubs in District 10, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Lakewood Pines Garden Club which was held January 14 at the home of Mrs. R. G. Cubertson.

After refreshments, Mrs. W. A. Wright, president, called the meeting to order. Committee reports were made and plans were formulated for a Spring Flower Show with Mrs. R. P. Heller as chairman assisted by Mrs. George Trammel.

Mrs. Heller listed the chairmen for special committees and club members selected "Spring Debut" for the theme of the show.

Mrs. Mitchell spoke on the methods and procedure to follow in staging a Standard Flower Show. She gave many helpful suggestions to the members on how to use displays in both arrangements and horticulture divisions.

Mrs. Mitchell also stated that a well ordered and organized schedule is very necessary for a successful show and that the theme of the show should give interest and unity.

The Hogarth arrangement was demonstrated to the club by Mrs. R. P. Heller. Using a yellow pillow vase, Mrs. Heller formed a lady S of burditi holly filling in the line with pittisporum.

In keeping with the design and color harmony lemons were wired together and used for a focal point.

Vertical and horizontal arrangements were brought by members for criticism and Mrs. H. R. Billica showed one of her unusual orchid plants which is in bloom.

Mrs. Lewis Tebeau was elected into the Garden Club as a new member.

High Fashion

Fashion is pretty important to women who sew, and many women have taken to creating the newest styles on their sewing machines. In addition to the obvious economy, they have found that they can achieve better fit and more individual styling by making their own.

There is one more factor to this sewing boom. By saving money with her sewing machine, the American housewife has more to spend on other things. She can buy better shoes, handbags and hats.

There is another interesting side to all this. Psychologists today worry about the effect of increased leisure time, what with automatic washers and such. They contend that Grandma got a lot of creative satisfaction from making her own soap, churning her own butter, and so forth, and that modern women are suffering from lack of creative fulfillment.

The increase in sales of sewing machines indicates that women who sew are getting plenty of creative satisfaction, and that the brain trust would do well to worry about something else. One leading sewing machine company reports that sales of the higher-priced automatics account for a quarter of their complete unit sales, and officials of the company attribute this interest to the growth of creative sewing with the accent on

Winchester Points Out Azaleas, Camellias Need Proper Conditions

"Azaleas and camellias are among North Carolina's most popular ornamental plants. These plants aren't as easy to grow as some of our common flowering shrubs, but if given the proper conditions they can be grown successfully," pointed out Sam Winchester, farm agent.

Winchester, speaking on azaleas and camellias, addressed the Elmhurst Garden Club Monday night when the group met at the home of Mrs. Sherman Parks with Mrs. Marvin Hill, co-hostess.

Prior to his discussion, Winchester showed slides taken of John H. Harris' azalea and camellia garden. Harris is Extension Horticulturist at North Carolina State College.

"Camellias are well suited for the backgrounds, hedges and foundation planting," pointed out Winchester. "To be most effective, azaleas should be used in large groups and not scattered as individual plants about the yard. Most people use too many varieties and thus not enough plants of any variety to create a pleasing effect."

He said, "Select varieties that are winter hardy in this part of the state. Plant in semi-shade locations, especially under pines, and prepare large holes (3 to 4 feet across and 1 to 2 feet deep). Fill the holes with top soil mixed with one-fourth to one-half organic matter. Fertilize lightly, especially azaleas. Allow the bur-lap or ball of soil around the plants to stand slightly above the sides of the hole."

Winchester gave three reasons why he prunes shrubbery—to give shape, to do away with dead wood, and to balance the top of the plant with the root system.

The president, Mrs. James M. Gruka, presided over the business meeting.

Mrs. Durward Harris, beautification chairman, reported on the progress made in beautifying the entrance to Elmhurst.

Mrs. Don Hayes, ways and means chairman, has arranged for the club to sell dogwoods January 31 and February on the corner of Elm and 14th Streets.

The club members voted to elect new officers at the February meeting. A nominating committee was appointed by the president to furnish the club with a new slate of officers for the coming year.

Serving on the committees are Mrs. W. D. Massey, Mrs. Charles De Shaw, Mrs. L. R. Finch and Mrs. Bill Ellington.

Winners of the Christmas door decoration contest were Mrs. Bill Ellington, first; Mrs. W. D. Massey, second, and Mrs. Charles De Shaw, third.

The mid-year State Board meeting will be February 4-5 at the Carolina Hotel, Pinehurst. Walter S. Smith, chief of the Division of Forest Utilization Research, will speak on "The Forest Can Come Indoors."

Mrs. Carlton Taylor was a guest at the meeting.

During the social hour the hostesses served coffee and donuts.

The next meeting of the club is scheduled for February 17 when Mrs. Howard N. Wilson will be hostess.

30 Years Ago Today

January 22, 1928

The Literary Department of the Woman's Club held a delightful meeting with Mrs. H. C. Sugg Tuesday afternoon. The meeting opened with the club song and collect. The general topic for the meeting was "Sherwood Anderson." The biographical sketch of Anderson was given by Mrs. W. E. Tingle. A review of his book, "Winesburg, Ohio," was ably handled by Mrs. H. H. Settle. Mrs. Mangum called attention to the birthdays of three great men occurring this month, Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and Franz Schubert. The Misses Fullilove delighted the club with the singing of "Schubert's Serenade." At the conclusion of the meeting a delectable salad course was served.

Mrs. Roberson Named President Of Homemakers

ROBERSONVILLE—The home of Mrs. C. M. Hurst Sr. on Main Street was decorated with potted plants and arrangements of camellias Thursday night when she entertained the Homemakers' Club.

Mrs. Harvey Roberson, president, called the meeting to order and presided over the business session.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. Harvey Roberson, president; Mrs. Hattie Hardy, vice-president; Mrs. W. M. Wynne, secretary, and Mrs. C. M. Hurst, treasurer.

Several games and contests were planned during the social hour. The hostess served fruit cake and jello topped with whipped cream to a large group.

The meeting scheduled for January 23 will be with Mrs. W. T. Hurst.

Baked Pears - - Special Touch

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
FRESH FRAGRANT PEARS can give that special interesting touch to a meal for guests. Put them in a casserole with figs to serve with curried shrimp or chicken for a buffet supper. Or bake them with maple-flavored syrup and offer them with Canadian Bacon for Sunday brunch.

BAKED CURRIED PEARS
Ingredients: 3 Bosc or Anjou pears, 1-4 cup butter or margarine, 1/2 cup light brown sugar, 2 teaspoons curried powder, 1 can (No. 2) whole Kadota figs, 1/2 cup seedless raisins.
Method: Wash, halve and core pears; pare if you wish. Melt butter; add brown sugar and curried powder. Drain figs, place in 1 1/2 quart casserole with pear halves; add butter-sugar mixture and raisins. Bake in slow (325 degrees) oven—30 to 40 minutes, or until pears are tender. Cool and refrigerate several hours or overnight. Reheat before serving. Makes 6 servings.

MAPLE BAKED PEARS WITH CANADIAN BACON
Ingredients: 3 Bosc pears, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 3 tablespoons water, 6 tablespoons maple-flavored syrup, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 6 to 12 slices Canadian Bacon (1-4 inch thick), parsley.
Method: Wash, halve and core pears; pare if you wish. Place pear halves, cut side down in baking pan containing lemon juice and water. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven for 10 minutes; turn pears and spoon 1 tablespoon syrup in center of each. Dot with butter and bake for 3 to 5 minutes on each side. Arrange pear halves in center of heated platter. Circle with bacon slices and garnish with parsley. Makes 6 servings.

BAKE FRESH PEARS in the oven while Canadian bacon is browned in the broiler for an all-in-one Sunday brunch. Adds an interesting touch to a meal for guests.

Mrs. Harris Gives Program For WCTU

BETHEL—Mrs. R. L. Whitley and Mrs. Dan Nicholson were hostesses to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union January 13 in the home of Mrs. Whitley. The president, Mrs. Whitley, called the meeting to order and presided.

The treasurer gave a financial report and informed the group that 12 had become Rock-of-Ages Members by pledging a penny a day, their daily prayers for shut-ins, and the progress of the temperance work in general.

Mrs. J. P. Harris had charge of the program. She read a scripture lesson "Let your light so shine among men that they may see your good works and glorify your father which is in heaven." In connection with this thought she read an article, "Trotty In The Corner Drugstore."

Mrs. Whitley reviewed items from the Union Signal, including Mrs. Smart's letter motion made to adjourn. The group dismissed by praying the Aaronic Benediction.

The hostess served refreshments of apple pie, cheese straws, spiced tea and peanut brittle to the 13 who attended.

FAMILY TRADE

MASON CITY, Iowa (AP)—For 30 Christmases, Mrs. Barney Sweetney of Mason City and her sister, Mrs. Ray Nichols of Clear Lake, have taken turns tying each other's gift with the same gold-edged red ribbon. Mrs. Nichols first used the ribbon in 1928, and last Christmas she got it back for the 15th time.

The perfect accompaniment for salad served as the first course: crisp seeded crackers, cheese balls or cheese straws (made from leftover pastry).

Curb Markets Develop Leaders

By VIRGINIA M. NANCE

Although the primary purpose of North Carolina's 36 Home Demonstration Curb Markets is to provide a means of supplementing family incomes for rural people through the sale of quality produce, perhaps the greatest overall value is that they develop leadership by teaching sellers how to work with people.

According to Iola Pritchard, Agricultural Extension Service food conservation and home marketing specialist, curb markets give the women who sell on the markets an increasing awareness of wise money management.

The progress of the curb market program is indicated in the increase of 1957 sales over previous years. It seems almost unbelievable that the total sales in the 36 curb markets came to $355,787.82 in 1957, and more than 600 sellers had increased their incomes. The total 1957 sales represents an increase of $7,189.75 over 1956.

To what does the state-wide program owe this increase? Miss Pritchard has said that "market sales without exception have greatly increased in 10 instances since curb market day was changed on these 10 markets from Saturday morning until Friday afternoon. All ten markets are much happier now that they are open on Friday rather than Saturday."

Even though the curb markets are sponsored by home demonstration organizations in each county where they are located, anyone who is willing to abide by the rules and regulations as set up by the sellers can sell on the market. In every case, the home demonstration agent acts as advisor for all market activities. All curb market are producer's markets and no buying and reselling is permitted.

When asked what about the outlook for 1958 on North Carolina curb markets, Miss Pritchard indicated that it's "very promising."

She pointed out that there are opportunities for more sellers on existing markets and potentials for opening at least two more markets.

Twelve of the 36 markets bring in annually more than $10,000. The largest market, located in Mecklenburg County, brought in $52,498.01 in 1957, an increase of almost $2,000 over 1956. The greatest advancement was on the Onslow County market, whose sales jumped from $1,001.22 to $7,461.83 in one year's time.

Anyone desiring additional information should get in touch with local home demonstration agents or write to Iola Pritchard, Agricultural Extension food conservation and home marketing specialist, N. C. State College, Raleigh.

DELICIOUS BROCCOLI

Ingredients: 1 bunch broccoli, water, salt, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons sliced blanched toasted almonds.

Method: Cook broccoli rapidly in saucepan or 10-inch skillet in a small amount of lightly salted boiling water until just tender. Put butter in a 6-inch skillet and melt over low heat; stir constantly until a light brown. Remove from heat. Add almonds. Arrange broccoli in serving dish and pour butter-almond sauce over. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Note: Broccoli bunches vary in weight. A 1-pound bunch makes 4 to 5 servings; a 1 1/2-pound bunch makes 5 to 6 servings. To prepare for cooking, peel stalks with swivel-blade vegetable parer and quarter or halve so broccoli buds are at end of each piece.

A can of minced clams (about 7 ounces) plus garlic and olive oil makes a wonderful sauce for a half pound of spaghetti.

Diversified Market Needed, Too

The grow-something-besides-tobacco gospel which is being preached to farmers throughout North Carolina by agricultural and business leaders is not a new theme.

Many leaders have recognized for years that North Carolina's agriculture has long been strapped to the one-crop system. To be sure, the one-crop system has paid off handsomely for farmers of the state in past years, and in all probability one crop will continue to provide a major share of the farm income in North Carolina. But the day has come when the one crop is not enough to keep the state's agricultural economy at its former level. The day has come when North Carolina farmers must turn to other crops quickly to stem their sagging family incomes.

More than at any other time in recent years farmers are heeding the pleas to turn to new crops. Though the switch to new crops is not coming about as rapidly as it might, it is not all the fault of the farmer.

It is the fault of North Carolina's people as a whole.

In eastern Carolina particularly, almost everyone has looked to tobacco to provide the impetus which makes the wheels of business turn. When tobacco's impact on the economy began to lessen, the cry went up for farmers to turn to other supplemental crops. But if these other crops are to be produced by this agricultural region, they likewise must be sold in this area by the farmer.

Has the area given sufficient attention to the development of markets for new crops it insists its farmers produce? While some leaders have been trying to convince farmers to produce new crops, have other leaders devoted a similar amount of effort toward convincing businessmen that they must establish markets in which these new farm crops can be sold?

The questions must be answered in the negative. There is a great deal of room for diversifying the farm economy of North Carolina; but the diversification of crops must be accompanied by a diversification of markets through which these crops can be channeled to consumers.

Unless and until North Carolina, and particularly Eastern Carolina, recognizes this fact, our agriculture cannot reach its economic potential.

Henceforth, We Hope, Law Will Avert Clash

Mob violence is not the answer to any situation. Yet we have no sympathy for the Ku Klux Klan which got a taste of its own medicine Saturday night when Robeson County Indians turned a much-publicized Klan rally into a Klan route.

It was just punishment for Klansmen who normally devote their efforts to terrorizing greatly outnumbered victims.

The Robeson County incident will not be the last of Klan public gatherings in North Carolina although the Klan came out of the meeting a very poor second. It is to be hoped, however, that the Robeson County incident is the last in which two armed groups of citizens met face to face in what could be a bloody riot. It is to be hoped that henceforth law enforcement officers, either by prior action or on-the-spot action, see that the situation does not get out of control.

The matter of peaceful assembly is one thing. The matter of mob action for the purpose of intimidating individuals or large segments of a community's population is quite another.

North Carolina has no need for the Ku Klux Klan or other organizations dedicated to terrorism and intimidation. Citizens of North Carolina, their state and local officials and law enforcement officers should see the Klan does not again establish a foothold in this state.

A Bit Of This And That

It's a small world.

A couple of weeks ago the paper carried a short story dated Cedar City, Utah; and the thought it might even be remotely connected with Greenville people was furthest from my mind.

Just the same, those four paragraphs must have had considerable readership. I've been told at least twice that one of the principals in the story was Dr. Earl Trevathan's father-in-law.

The most recent reminder came close to column-writing deadline time, and in case you missed it, this is the way the story ran:

er who was to perform the ceremony didn't show up.

The father of the bride, an assistant superintendent at southern Utah's Zion National Park recalled a little-known Park Service regulation that would allow Zion Park Superintendent Paul R. Franke (Mrs. Trevathan's father) to perform the ceremony.

So he did.

Then everybody left to help look for the missing minister. The minister showed up the next day, trudging out of the rugged mountain country where he had been on a sightseeing trip. His truck had stalled, and he had to walk some 20 miles through the snow.

All of which goes to show our National Park superintendents are endowed with power to cope with almost any situation.

The president of the State Convention of Original Free Will Baptists of North Carolina wants it known that the Rev. James W. Cole who figured prominently in a difference of opinion between some Ku Kluxers and Indians near Maxton, is not a minister of the Original Free Will Baptist denomination.

Cole's affiliation is said to be with an organization operating principally in South Carolina, known as the Southern Free Will Baptists.

Add to the perils of girl reporter, woman's editor and photographer.

Anne Singleton was in Stokes yesterday to take a picture of a quilling party. For the sake of a better camera angle she climbed a stepladder.

Pictures taken, she began descending, when... Ooops! Oh well, no broken bones; not even a bruise. Kind of shook up, though... those cameras cost $300-plus.

Opinions

In Brief

"Although the Communists have preached brotherhood, in practice they have murdered many millions of innocent people. Although the Communists have praised absolute equality they have established absolute despotism. Although the Communists have aped Christian charity in words, they have resorted to theft and confiscation in actuality. Although the Communists have promised Utopia, they have delivered whole nations to mortal torment. Although they have talked unendingly of peace, they have driven by war."—Russell Kirk.

"There's a long haul ahead but we won't make it by rearmament, frightened haste and an acceptance of any other creed except that the setback is temporary and that American know-how and the vast resources of the free world will level off the unbalanced ratio of power now existing between the Soviets and the West."—Spring Valley (N.Y.) Threefold.

"Why not?" "Cause I'm growing up, but you're growing down. And when I'm big enough to get married, you'll just be a little tiny baby boy—and I can't marry a baby." Well, as they say—Out of the mouths of babes. There is nothing like an independent child to make a grownup feel helpless.

A Good Chance To Get Shipyard

By LYNN NISBET

SHIPYARDS — North Carolina State Ports Authority has a pretty good chance to acquire the shipyard property at Wilmington and at least cost than once thought probable. Oddy enough a deal in which the Bethlehem Steel company is interested on the Pacific coast may have bearing on terms of the sale at Wilmington.

It's a rather involved story going back to early part of World War II. Cargo ships were needed so badly then the Maritime Administration financed shipyards at several points. After the war the yards were donated but effort was made to keep them in reserve condition so that in event of emergency they could be quickly reactivated. The Maritime Agency leased some of the yards; but retained control of four including Alameda, California, and Wilmington. Maritime now is seeking authority to sell these yards and get out from under a net maintenance cost of nearly half a million dollars a year. The gimmick is that the proposed sale would be conditioned on restricted use of the property only for shipbuilding and repair.

A hearing was held before Rep. Herbert Bonner's committee on marine affairs last week, at which some interesting facts were brought out. It developed that the maritime folks did not require the yards to be used, but provided only that it used as all it must be for shipbuilding, Bonner and Rep. Alton Lennon, members of the committee, elicited confession that this policy defeats its avowed purpose by keeping the facilities idle. It also developed that the Wilmington yards are not suited to building the type ships now in demand, and that size and accessibility of railroad tracks made expansion impractical. However, the property is ideally situated for expanding the State port facilities.

The State Ports Authority has been trying for several years to acquire the property, either by gift, sale or swap for other lands. The U.S. Budget Bureau is pressuring Maritime to sell the yards. Informed circles think that this pressure is inspired by Bethlehem Steel, which wants to buy the Alameda yards. It seems that Bethlehem has a shipbuilding plant which lies between prongs of the government yards. California also wants the government yards sold and put on the tax books.

Combined pressure from these sources leads to belief that the Alameda yard will be sold, and because Bethlehem is the only logical purchaser, perhaps the price will be low. That will set a precedent for disposing of the other yards. The trouble is the proposed restriction for ship building only.

A sort of compromise agreement has been tentatively suggested whereby the State would maintain a dry dock for light repair jobs and thus partly comply with maritime requirements. Collier Cobb Jr., a member of the State Ports Authority, and Harry Clark, representing the Wilmington chamber of commerce, attended the hearing. They requested a chance to appear at a later date and present their case more fully.

PHONES — Nearly every telephone on Capitol Hill and in most Federal government departments has been changed within the past few weeks. Some of the folks who had prided themselves on being able to ring any of three or four hundred phones without looking it up, now find themselves lost without a directory. One congressional secretary complained she had to put on specs to use the telephone.

DEMOCRATS — Consensus among the press corps and lobbyists with whom your reporter talked in Washington the other day is that 1958 and 1960 are certain Democratic years. A few staunch Republicans profess to believe their party can hold what it has. Most of them concede substantial gains in the Congress for the Democrats. One man who had just completed a tour of half a dozen western states reported that nearly every Republican western Senator faces real trouble. Although a Republican himself, he predicts the Democrats will elect a governor and a senator in California.

The three main factors are the defense and foreign aid programs, the farm program and administration policies with respect to power and reclamation. Senator Knowland is expected to retire as minority leader within a few weeks, and will be succeeded by Senator Dirksen of Illinois.

A rumor going around congressional sidelines is that Mike Brundage will resign as director by a man from Illinois, whose name could not be learned. Tarheel representatives are not too happy about that switch. They have been able to get along very well with the present director.

Housing Boom Prospects Fair

By ELMER ROESSNER

If the United States gets the housing boom rolling again, it will have done a lot toward restoring the entire economic level.

Housing construction constitutes a big segment of the economy. Last year residential non-farm construction totaled approximately $17 billion. That meant a lot of wages and a lot of sales of materials.

For that sum, a total of 1,039,200 dwelling units were built. Of these, 989,700 were privately constructed. That's the lowest year since 1948. The high was 1,309,500 in 1955.

However, in terms of expenditures, the total was exceeded only twice before, in 1956, when it was $17.6 billion, and in 1955, when it was $18.7 billion.

WHAT ARE PROSPECTS?

Prospects for getting the boom rolling again are fair.

The need for more housing is here and will grow. There were about 1,500,000 marriages last year and, unless the business dip deepens, there will be about the same number this year. Almost all of these families will want new homes but, of course, many will be content with old houses and apartments, or living with relatives.

In addition, according to President Eisenhower's estimate to Congress, 81,000 families will be displaced from homes by slum clearances, highway construction and other governmental action.

However, need for new housing cannot be translated into demand unless all these families are able and willing to buy. And that ability, or lack of it, is what is muddling the boom.

The part of the President's budget message dealing with housing was certainly no "Let there be housing!" proclamation. Mr. Eisenhower urged only moderate legislation to revive the housing boom. He asked moderate increases in the amount of mortgage guarantees, both per house and in total, and some other governmental assistance.

INTEREST RATES A KEY

It is possible that the Democratic majority in Congress might vote a much more generous housing program. It is also possible that Mr. Eisenhower would veto it.

The housing boom was partially deflated by the rise in interest rates. Loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration are limited by law to 4 1/2 per cent, and mortgage money at that rate, even with government guarantees, is hard to find. When the Federal Housing Administration raised its rates to 5 1/2 per cent and allowed another half of 1 per cent for loan insurance and other extras, housing was stimulated. In fact, more housing units were started in the last half of last year, when general business was weakening, than in the first half, when business was going strong.

However, the increase in interest rates provides only a mild stimulation. When interest rates go up, mortgage money is easier to find. But at the same time, higher interest rates mean higher monthly payments. This rise in interest rates, while bringing some families into the market, pushes other families out of it.

Except for more free-handed government aid, the best hope of a renewal of the housing boom is a general reduction in interest rates. The Administration forced it down slightly last year and further action may come very soon.

Two reasons for expecting it: Business stocks are stimulating effects such as action would bring; it looks as if we are heading into a new Federal deficit and the carrying charges on this deficit will be less if interest rates are forced down.

TO BE HANDLED WITH SPECIAL CARE

The United States Government, in its wisdom, has granted a design patent to Harriet Y. Cough, of Meadville, Pa., for a diaper with a holster on each hip.

LEISURE-TIME BOOM

Stocks of 20 companies manufacturing recreational products have risen from 11 to 1,192 per cent on the New York Stock Exchange in the last ten years, a study shows. A total of 98.8 miles of the Interstate Highway System was completed in November. Twenty-five nations have already signed for space at the World Trade Fair to be held at the New York Coliseum in May. A Green Bay, Wis., clothing store is boosting business with a room room, where husbands-to-be can be outfitted and get social advice on getting married. American squeezer, rolled and folded up more than 1 billion collapsible tubes last year, the Collapsible Tube Manufacturers Council would have you know. T's is Odorous Decoration Week, Universal Week of Prayer, and Save the Pun Week, the last being dedicated to preserving the pun as a form of wit.

Reports from the New York crude drug market say chamomile flowers, ipecac root, sassafras seed and lycopodium are scarce.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

INFINITE VALUE You have to pull more than your weight in a boat. If you pulled your weight and nothing more, the boat would stand still. You have to pull more than your weight.

So it is with life. We all have to live on the plus side if we really live at all. We have to give more than we get. We have to pull more than our mere weight. The Bible expresses it by saying that to whom much is given, of them will much be expected.

The one talent man is expected to produce on the basis of what he has received. Likewise the persons to whom more talents have been given are expected to make proportionate gains. The same results are not expected from us all, but all lives operate under the same principles. Just as we reap much only if we sow much, so God expects his really big harvests from those whom he has most generously endowed.

But you recall that it was the one talent man in the Bible parable who failed. Most people who fail to achieve do so because they do not put much value on their gifts — some even despise them.

Just remember that the world is kept going not by its geniuses but by its one-talent people. Despise not the gift that is in you. Nobody in this world can take your place or do your work. Your life and accomplishments have infinite value in God's sight.

Public Forum

To The Editor:

Last week Lonnie Barnhill died, and when he died Greenville lost a good citizen. The Greenville City Schools lost one of its most loved and most faithful employees.

He was custodian of Fleming Street School and had held that position for thirty-one years.

As custodian of the Fleming Street School he kept it clean and in order and protected the building and its equipment. In cold weather his building was always warm. He was always at his post of duty and in addition to being in the building when he was supposed to be there he spent hundreds of hours more in this building doing what he thought should be done.

He was far more than a custodian of a building. He was a friend and counselor of teachers, parents, and all the children who attended that school in the past thirty-one years. Teachers, parents, and children sought his help and advice, and he gave this help and advice from a warm and generous heart. And he always upheld the right.

He believed in God and believing in God he was a faithful member of his church, Sycamore Hill Baptist. He held various offices in his church and he taught and believed that God should be at the center of all human activities. He had the type of religion that gave him courage to overcome all obstacles. His religion also gave him cheerfulness, and he never complained about anything or spoke evil of anybody.

But the greatest contribution

he made was to be a faithful member of his church, Sycamore Hill Baptist. He held various offices in his church and he taught and believed that God should be at the center of all human activities. He had the type of religion that gave him courage to overcome all obstacles. His religion also gave him cheerfulness, and he never complained about anything or spoke evil of anybody.

But the greatest contribution that Lonnie Barnhill made was in his home. There were eleven children in the home. Two of them died. The others, all nine of them, graduated from C. M. Eppes High School. Eight of these went to college and seven of them graduated from college.

How one man could do so much with so little has always been a source of amazement to me. Of course he always had the help of his wife in educating his children. In working together they formed a great home. Then too, every son or daughter, as they grew older, in turn helped the younger ones.

How Lonnie must have sacrificed through the years in order to maintain a good home and educate his children!

One word I also say that one of the remarkable things about him and his wife was that they were able to inspire their children and get them to want an education in spite of all financial handicaps. They were also able to get their children to be willing to work at various jobs during vacation and on holidays while in High School and College in order to secure an education.

It is a pity that he could not live longer in order to see these children of his making good in the world because these children are Christian young men and women who are measuring up to their obligations, and are honorable in their dealings with their fellow men.

He worked hard, dealt justly with his fellow man, and walked humbly with God.

Find Peace Is More Profitable

By RAY TUCKER

BONN — West German statesmen and industrialists admit frankly — in fact, brutally for an American — that they do not want to rearm with conventional or nuclear forces, despite the Paris NATO Peace Conference agreement "in principle" to that effect. They have found peace to be more profitable than war, and it is difficult to blame these losers in history's worst military disasters.

The West German attitude, which Chancellor Konrad Adenauer expressed so violently at Paris, and so surprisingly to President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles, is based on economic, emotional and political factors. But the basic fact, which Washington refuses to recognize, is that Western Germany cannot be regarded as too solid an ally and bastion. The inhabitants are eager for an arrangement with Russia.

PROSPERITY OR WEST GERMANY West Germany, ironically, is the most prosperous nation in all Europe, including the British Isles. In respect to every economic index — employment, wages, national gross product, the banking and financial situation — it has progressed far faster and greater than its two European victor nations.

The millions of postwar youngsters, earning an average of $50 a week in many industries, do not want to put on a uniform at $30 or less a month. In that respect, they do not differ from American boys.

Corporate spokesmen agree with this attitude, as interviewed by 30, 13-country newspapermen on this around-the-world good-will flight, which is sponsored by Qantas, famous Australian Air Line.

One reason why West Germany is wallowing in prosperity is that, unlike the United States, that country has no $40-billion-a-year defense budget, or no military expenditure approaching that of smaller NATO members. It has no heavy plant investment devoted to production of non-economic goods, such as normal or nuclear weapons.

NO DEFENSE PLANTS In fact, we were amazed to be told quite frankly by leading industrialists and Adenauer aides that West Germany has no defense plants at all. It will be several years, if then, before West Germany can turn out even a cartridge.

Meanwhile, for all these reasons, Bonn has fallen far behind in its original pledge to contribute 12 divisions to NATO. Only three, not too well equipped or trained, are partially ready for battle with the Russian Reds and satellite units should they attack.

Despite his victory in the recent elections, Adenauer is reported to be slipping in popularity. For an American reporter, it is interesting to learn that he is held to be the "Franklin D. Roosevelt of Germany." He is regarded as a "democratic dictator."

WHITE HOUSE MUST RE-EVALUATE BONN'S PRESENT ATTITUDES President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles, in sharp contrast to their optimistic television report on the NATO Conference's accomplishments, must re-evaluate their estimate

Child In The Home

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—A little pilgrim on the royal road to learning lives in our house.

Nothing makes you more aware of the passage of time than having a child in your home. On one day you have to do everything for it, and it seems almost the very next day it won't let you do anything for it at all.

Our daughter, Tracy Ann, now 4 1/2 years old, has reached this do — it — all — by — herself stage. Ten times a day she utters her clamorous declaration of independence: "I don't need any help. I can do it myself."

Her statement applies to everything from going to the bathroom to buttoning her snowsuit, from blowing her nose to standing on tiptoe to push the elevator button.

Looking around her littered room the other day, I remarked: "If you can do so much, why can't you manage to pick up your clothes and keep your room neat?"

"Well, after all, I'm just a little girl," she said calmly. "I can't learn everything at once."

Her sturdy self — confidence reached a peak when, after weeks of terrible struggle, she finally learned to fumble a ribbon into a bowknot, all alone. Now Tracy spends about an hour daily practicing this womanly art.

Each success she brings to me for approval. The other night she suddenly pressed her cheek against mine and exclaimed in a kind of ecstasy: "Oh, daddy, isn't it fun to tie the bows?"

My wife, Frances, thinks Tracy is remarkably advanced because she has also learned to tie a bowknot behind her back.

"What's the point in that?" I asked. "Why not teach her to tie a bow standing on her head?"

"Listen, Rover," said Frances, "don't you realize that from the time a girl puts on her first kitchen apron she has to tie a bow behind her back every day of her life?"

Well, isn't that just like a woman — ask her a silly question and she gives you a serious answer?

Tracy's other passion at the moment is learning to write her ABC's, for she can't read. She thought she is unable to read. As a matter of fact — the little hypocrite — she won't even admit she can't. And she is gaining — when she pretends to be reading, she now holds the book right side up.

Tracy isn't satisfied with the hundreds of thousands of words already available in English. She bends the alphabet to her own small needs to make new words.

"What is this word, daddy?" she asked, pointing at a notebook page in which she had scrawled in big rambling letters: "p-b-f-l-l-r."

"That isn't a word. It doesn't mean anything."

"Yes, it does, too," she said positively.

"What?" "Well, it," she hesitated, studied the letters, then announced triumphantly, "It means an alligator as tall as the Empire State Building."

Her new — grown independence has also shown itself in a change of marital plans. Until recently she had always planned on marrying her father, but the other day she boldly asked Mark Stumpf, a 6-year-old playmate down the hall, "Would you like to marry me?"

Mark showed little enthusiasm for the project, and when I asked Tracy what about her earlier program to wed me, she replied gravely: "Why, daddy, you know I can't."

"Why not?" "Cause I'm growing up, but you're growing down. And when I'm big enough to get married, you'll just be a little tiny baby boy — and I can't marry a baby."

Well, as they say — Out of the mouths of babes. There is nothing like an independent child to make a grownup feel helpless.

Wistful Presidential Plea Shaken By His Key Aide

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's own Republicans made a shambles of his plea...

In view of what he knew his right-hand man Sherman Adams was saying at almost the same moment...

Only if they were living in a dream world could the politicians of the Democratic and Republican parties be expected to refrain from making political capital out of the defense issue...

The reason is simple: the nation's whole interest is centered on defense, not only in talking and wondering about how it can be made better but why it isn't better.

Neither the Truman nor Eisenhower administrations made the all-out drive on missile development that the nation now realizes should have been made.

Eisenhower said in a speech at a Republican rally in Chicago Monday night: "Our first objective — security and a just peace — is not a partisan or political matter. Americans must never let the issue of security and peace become a pawn in anyone's political chess game."

But Eisenhower's press secretary James C. Hagerty disclosed that before his boss left for Chicago Monday he knew what Presidential Asst. Adams was going to say in Minneapolis Monday night about the time Eisenhower was talking. Hagerty said Adams also knew what Eisenhower was going to say.

What Adams said was plenty. He accused the Democrats not only of not spending enough money on missile development during the Truman administration but of lacking defense strength at the

Hope Is Waning For Survivors

HONOLULU (AP) — Hope of finding any survivors in the crash of a C95 Military Air Transport Stratocruiser waned today and the Navy withdrew most of the ships searching the area southwest of Hawaii.

Seven men were aboard the four-engine plane. Col. Darlene Bailey of the 1501st Air Transport Wing, Travis Air Force Base, Calif., said here last night chances of finding any of them were "pretty hopeless."

The navy confirmed that debris found 277 miles to the southwest was wreckage of the plane. It apparently crashed Sunday on a flight from Hawaii to Kawajalein.

time of the Korean War. And more of the same.

That was not all. Adams in Minneapolis, like Eisenhower in Chicago, was addressing a Republican dinner. But other big-wheel Republicans were addressing other Republican dinners elsewhere around the country.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks in Tulsa, Okla., called the Democrats hypocrites for attacking — as they have done — the Eisenhower administration's defense record.

At Des Moines, Iowa, Secretary of the Interior Benson blamed the Democrats for chopping over 2½ billion dollars from Eisenhower's defense budget in 1957.

And Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) told Republicans at St. Joseph, Mich. Soviet ascendancy in the missile race was the fault of the Truman administration.

Democrats — who will face the Republicans in the 1958 congressional elections — have heaped blame on the Eisenhower administration for the failure of this country to be ahead of the Russians in missiles.

It's a pretty certain bet politicians of both parties will be heaping blame on one another at least until next November.

Last Nov. 16 the Democratic Advisory Council shoved a harpoon into the Eisenhower administration with this charge: "This is no time for complacent reassurances on the state of our defenses. We have had too many reassurances on our military strength in the past five years — reassurances which are now shown not to have been justified by the facts."

Critic Feels Adaptation Of Wilder Novel Failed

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," presented last night on CBS-TV, was a "Show of the Month" which might have been a show of the season.

It turned out to be a magnificent failure of the season. Producer David Suskind's idea of dramatizing Thornton Wilder's complex novel in 90 minutes on the home screen was an extraordinarily ambitious undertaking.

Wilder wrote his novel in the form of five stories about five persons who plunged to their deaths in 1714 when the finest bridge in Peru collapsed. Adapter Ludi Clair and the creators of the drama obviously believed — perhaps with good reason — that this episodic form would not hold a large audience on television.

Whether the drama woven from Wilder's novel retained a large audience is problematical. The profound philosophical question posed by the novel was whether we live and die by accident or by some grand design.

For some reason best known to the adapters, this question was never forthrightly stated in the television version. The audience was plunged into a series of episodes involving those who died in the fall of the bridge, with little intelligible backgrounding of character.

Driver Charged In 2-Car Crash

Robert Wooten, 40-year-old Negro of 1306 Factory St., was charged with failure to yield the right of way as a result of a two-vehicle collision on the U. S. 13 by-pass Monday.

Wooten's pickup truck was involved in a traffic mishap with an automobile being operated by David Keith Jones of East Gum Rd., Pfc. Bill Whitehurst of the State Highway Patrol reported this morning. Damage to both vehicles was estimated at $300.

Neither driver was injured.

Gen. MacArthur To Quietly Mark 78th Birthday

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur — who once said, "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away" — will quietly celebrate his 78th birthday Sunday.

An aide said MacArthur will spend the day with his family at their Waldorf Towers apartment and then attend a dinner party given for him by members of his World War II staff.

The center of stormy controversy seven years ago when President Truman recalled him from the Far East, MacArthur has become increasingly shy of the public limelight in recent years. The aide said there are no prospects of a news conference or even a statement on his birthday.

MacArthur's health is "excellent," the aide said. Carried on the Army's active list without assigned military duties, he is board chairman of Sperry-Rand Corp.

It was after Truman fired him as supreme Allied commander in the Far East in 1951 that MacArthur made his famous "Old Soldier" speech. He and Truman disagreed on whether the Korean War should be carried to the Red China mainland. Truman saw that as posing a threat of general war.

The birthday party with members of his Pacific Theater staff has become a tradition. The party this year will be the 12th arranged by retired Maj. Gen. L. J. Sverdrup of St. Louis.

Last year's guest list included Gen. George Kenney, Gen. Walter Krueger and Adm. Thomas Kincaid, who headed MacArthur's air, land, and naval forces respectively in the World War II Pacific campaign.

MacArthur spoke last July at the annual meeting of Sperry-Rand stockholders. He blasted high taxes as leading the nation toward socialism.

"The effects may not yet be fully evident to the superficial eye," he declared, "but the erosion of incentive, ingenuity and integrity that results will be as deadly as the hidden cancer is to life."

MacArthur makes few public appearances, preferring to remain at home with his wife and 20-year-old son Arthur, a sophomore at Columbia University. An aide said he goes to his office regularly but "often receives visitors at his apartment."

Young Polio Victim Overcoming Obstacles

FACTOLUS — Nov. 26, 1956 is a date Annette Chauncey will probably never forget.

That was the day she was stricken with polio. At the time she was nearly 12 years old. Now she is almost 14.

From the first day she became deathly sick until today, this Pitt County youngster has had to overcome many obstacles. She has many more to overcome but they are now becoming fewer and farther between.

Much of her improvement can be attributed to her determination. A great deal of assistance has been received from the Pitt County Chapter of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation.

Annette has spent month after month in a bed. First in the hospital and then at home. There was a time when she had to lay flat on her back, unable to move. She knows what it means to be completely helpless.

Today she can move around with the aid of braces and crutches. Her movements are painful and slow. It shows when she tries to get up or sit down. The heavy steel braces and crutches are a burden for one so young and frail of limb.

This youngster has learned to smile even when it hurts. She remembers Nov. 26, 1956 as if it were yesterday. It is hard to forget polio.

For Annette it is even as hard to forget what others have done for her. Simple deeds that would have been impossible to perform had it not been for the March of Dimes, then and now.

Last year the Pitt County Chapter of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation spent $3,514.67 on Annette and her rehabilitation. Even in her present condition she requires constant medical supervision and continued treatment.

Whatever her needs are they will be met. J. H. Rose, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter says, "If she needs to be sent to Warm Springs (Ga.) we are going to send her. We are going to do everything in our power to make her well and strong again."

Annette was one of 17 polio victims given assistance in one form or another last year. All told the Pitt County Chapter spent $11,502.76 in 1957 for its polio-stricken.

One victim in Farmville cost the Chapter $2,283.30. Another cost $2,008.78 and still another $1,037.68. The majority of the victims required less attention and medical supervision.

Most of these victims will require treatment and special appliances for years to come. Unless this assistance continues, many could never again attain their former place in society.

This assistance will continue to come whenever it is needed, irrespective of the circumstances or the individual.

Under the present set-up, according to Chairman Rose, one-half of the money collected during each March of Dimes drive, stays in Pitt County. The other one-half goes to the National Foundation for research and assistance to other areas that need additional funds for the care of their victims.

Rose explained that if Pitt's funds for the treatment of its polio victims were to run out, additional funds would be provided by the National Foundation. "This organization, to my knowledge, is the only one of its kind in the United States with such a provision," he emphasized.

"We are doing everything possible to aid the stricken and combat polio but we must have cooperation from the public," Rose related.

He explained that every man and woman should take the Salk Vaccine, providing they are under 40 years of age. Up to this age, everyone is susceptible to the disease.

"Prevention is certainly cheaper than treatment," Rose said. "Maybe someday this thing will be completely licked."

Then youngsters like Annette need not suffer.

Discouraged By Farm Prospects

RALEIGH (AP) — Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-NC), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, de-livered here last night agriculture "road close ranks and put aside petty differences if anything constructive is to be achieved."

National farm organizations are divided, Cooley said, and farm leadership in Congress is split along partisan political lines.

"Agriculture," he asserted, "is in a tragic situation," speaking at the Wake County Farm Bureau's annual meeting. Cooley said he is discouraged about the prospects for farm legislation at this session of Congress.

He noted Secretary of Agriculture Benson and President Eisenhower have come out against the tobacco program. There is danger introduced will be used as a vehicle to destroy "the most successful commodity program ever devised."

This, he said, is "a constant threat hanging over our heads."

Cooley told the group Secretary Benson appears determined to destroy the farm programs developed during the past 20 some years.

Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine said that if U. S. flue-cured tobacco were sold at 60 percent of parity instead of 90 percent, there would not be any appreciable gain in exports. His statement came in reply to questions during a floor discussion.

Ballentine said, "We're selling tobacco abroad because of superior quality. If we lose quality, then we'll lose our foreign markets."

'Traitor' To The Women Drivers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cathy Cline may be the most audacious betrayer of her sex since the lady who started the swing toward double chins.

Cathy claims men are better drivers than women.

She may not be able to prove it, but she's not entirely without credentials. For four years, she has been teaching people to drive around Los Angeles — possibly the toughest place to navigate an automobile this side of the Okaloosa Swamp.

Cathy, one of the state's few female driving school professors, has renounced her allegiance to womankind altogether. She says she'll concede that a man's confidence makes him a better driver, but adds that "his stubbornness about learning makes him a poorer pupil."

"I guess a woman learns more easily," she said in an interview, "but a man drives better afterward."

Why? Well, in the first place, Cathy said, women take too much for granted. They'll breeze down a freeway loaded with cars, and they think all they have to do is signal for a lane change and every vehicle in sight will stand on its hood to accommodate them.

"Half the time," Cathy said, "a woman will stick her arm out for a signal and turn the wheel at the same time."

"In an emergency, men react better than women. They handle a car better, too."

Frequently, Cathy said, women tend to be overcautious, and poke along so slowly they could be over-taken by octogenarian strollers.

But Cathy wouldn't drop the discussion without a parting shot at the smug male.

"Tell a man something," she said, "and he'll tell you over and over again: 'I know, I know, I know that.'"

"Then he does it wrong."

Almost Caught In Water Spout

COCOA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A water spout came ashore near here as a miniature tornado yesterday and brought small havoc to a trailer camp. No one was injured.

The sudden storm narrowly missed Police Chief Bob Blair as he chased a speeding motorist.

Watchers saw the storm strike the highway just after Blair passed. The officer said later he caught the motorist, who had reached a speed of 90 miles an hour.

Seek Expanded Forestry School

RALEIGH (AP) — The 1959 General Assembly will be asked to appropriate a total of $1,745,000 to expand facilities of the North Carolina State College School of Forestry.

Dean R. J. Preston of the School of Forestry told directors of the North Carolina Forestry Assn. yesterday the school is making preparations to handle in 1958 a student body three times the size of the present 300 student enrollment.

Preston said the expansion program will be justified by future job opportunities in forestry. The Legislature will be asked to appropriate for the following: $100,000 to equip a new wood products laboratory which will be erected on the campus soon, $925,000 for a new general forestry building, and $720,000 for a new wing to double the student capacity in the pulp and paper laboratory.

G. E. Jackson of Washington, N.C., was elected president of the forestry association. Other officers chosen include: C. J. Blades of Charlotte, 1st vice president; J. T. Broyles of Lenoir, 2nd vice president; H. C. Wilson of Shelby, 3rd vice president; Mrs. Linda Parker of Raleigh, secretary; and R. W. Graeber of Raleigh, treasurer.

The Sports Reflector

By BILLY ARNOLD

Coach Howard Porter stated this morning that he plans to have a conference with Athletic Director N. M. Jorgensen and Dr. Jim B. Cummings of East Carolina today, concerning the North State Conference's decision to take three games away from his Pirates.

There is a possibility that Porter and the school will protest the decision rendered by League Commissioner C. R. Hinshaw of High Point. The ruling caused ECC to lose three games by forfeit due to the ineligibility of junior transfer Craig Reid, a third-string guard.

When talked to this morning, Porter commented that he had arrived in Greenville late yesterday morning and had not yet spoken to the school officials about the matter. He had been away on a road trip, which saw the Pirates drop games to Lenoir Rhyne and Western Carolina.

Boys Weren't Bothered

The two losses, coming on the heels of the three forfeited games, dropped the Bucs into a tie for fifth place in the conference with Guilford. Both have 3-5 records.

Porter was asked if the Conference's ruling had effected his boys as much as the scores would indicate. "No," he said, "They played one of their better games at Western Carolina. They realize that the NAIA standings are the important thing."

The Letter Is Important

Apparently, the matter of whether or not ECC will protest Hinshaw's decision depends upon clearing up a few facts about a letter from Louisburg Junior College.

Before Reid was allowed to participate in East Carolina varsity basketball, it was understood that he must complete graduation requirements from Louisburg to comply with North State rules. He was asked to present a letter from Louisburg showing that he had graduated. He did so. Porter has it now, and ECC felt that the matter was finished. It is expected that a matter of dates will have to be checked on with Louisburg before any official statement will be released from East Carolina.

It is expected by most local observers, however, that the school will protest.

Rough In The Hills

Speaking of the two road losses, it would be hard to associate Porter's statement about "one of their better games" with the 91-85 score by which ECC lost to Western Carolina—unless you look at the box.

Five East Carolina players fouled out of the game with close to seven minutes left in the game. Four of those five were starters and the remaining one, Jess Curry, had four on him at that time.

In all fairness, it must be stated that Western Carolina also had five men to foul out. But the total fouls called against both teams weren't even close. ECC was tabbed with 39, while Western Carolina was called for 27.

It was those fouls that made the difference in the game. Both clubs hit for 26 field goals. The Cata-mounts, however, sank 40 of 57 free throw attempts. ECC got 33 of 45.

The Pirates will have another shot at the WCC club in Memorial gymnasium next week, January 31.

This Could Be Case's Best Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Everett Case, the man who touched off the basketball fireworks in the Carolinas when he came to North Carolina State 11 years ago, may be doing his finest job of coaching this season.

His Wolfpack boasts no stars of the magnitude he usually featured during his sweep of six consecutive Southern Conference championships and three in a row in the ACC.

But Case has them up there in a first place tie with North Carolina's defending national champions.

And they did it the hard way, beating both North Carolina and Maryland, each in the top 10 nationally, away from home.

Controlled offense, with no shots taken unless they were good shots and a dogged defense characterized the victories.

In winning at Maryland, Case used only five men: senior guard Whitey Bell, soph forward Don Gallagher and three juniors, Lou Pucillo, Bob MacGillivray and John Richter.

State ranks sixth in the ACC on offense, scoring an average of 67.3 points through games of last Saturday and third in defense, with an average yield of 61.1. The team's offensive mark is 8.4 below last year, but the defensive figure is improved 13.2.

Pucillo, with a 14.4 average and Bell, with 14.3, were the team leaders starting the week, followed by MacGillivray at 12.7 and Richter at 11.7.

State placed 12th in this week's Associated Press poll, taken before the 57.48 trimming of Maryland that elevated the Pack into a tie with North Carolina for the ACC lead at 5-2 against Maryland's 4-2. Overall, State's record is 11-3.

Close games have kept Case's chewing gum working at a faster clip than ever. The team's three losses included a double overtime affair to Duke, a four-pointer to Clemson and a nine-pointer to North Carolina in the Dixie Classic tournament finals. The pack has won two by one point, one by two and two more by three.

With exams keeping most teams idle, Case has scheduled a game at Raleigh Saturday night against the rugged Camp Lejeune Marines to keep his boys from staying idle too long.

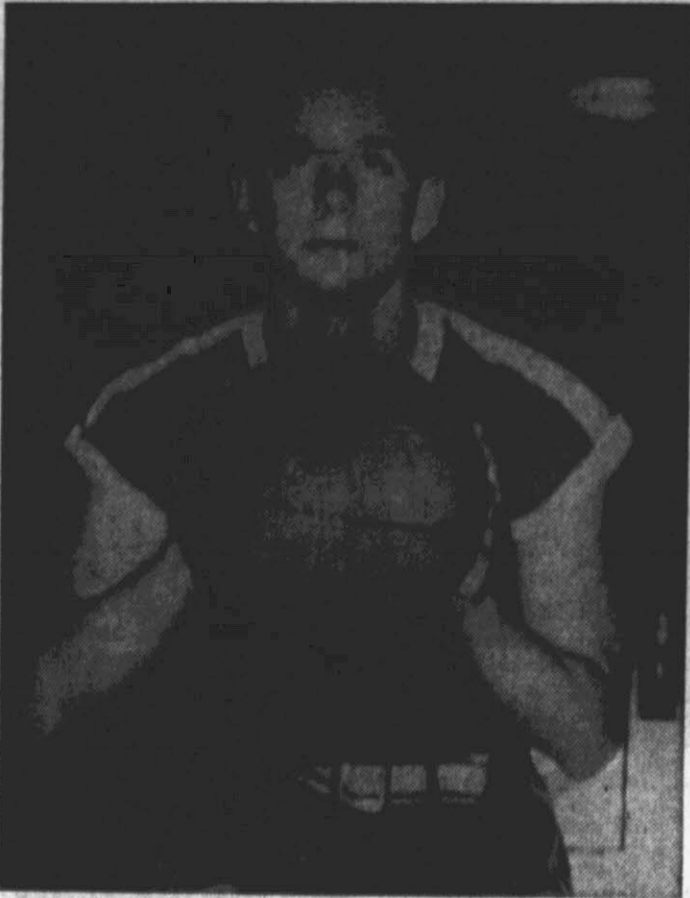

Starting Feb. 1 they play six of their last seven conference games at home, an important consideration for the final stretch run in which both North Carolina and Maryland play most of their conference games on the road.

Aside from the Camp Lejeune-State game, the only other contest this week involving an ACC team sends Clemson against The Citadel of the Southern Conference in a regionally televised affair at Clemson Saturday afternoon.

Helen Doherty Tourney Begins

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—The Helen Lee Doherty Challenge Cup golf tournament, one of the oldest in the state, begins today with qualifying play over the 6,250-yard Coral Ridge course. Joanne Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass., 1956 winner, is among the 89 women amateurs entered but the defending champion, Anne Quast of Marysville, Wash., was missing. Miss Quast was unable to leave her college classes.

W. Virginia Is One Of Two Left

By ED WILKS

The Associated Press Top-ranked West Virginia and untested St. John's of Brooklyn are the only clubs still unbeaten in major college basketball, but the situation might be different were it not for injury and illness. The Mountaineers and Redmen might have the company of Cincinnati, Kansas or Kansas State if two or three players had been able to stay healthy.

Second-ranked Kansas (12-2) has been beaten only by Oklahoma State and Oklahoma. But Wilt (The Skilt) was on the sidelines for both games.

Fourth-ranked Cincinnati (12-2) has been knocked off by Bradley and Oklahoma State. But although Oscar Robertson, the leading ma-

John's is rated 13th. For college scorers, was fit and played in both defeats, the Bearcats' big man, 6-10 Connie Dierking, was out with a broken bone in his foot.

Third-ranked Kansas State (12-1) has lost only to Kansas. But Bob Boozer, the Wildcats top scorer, played less than half the game because of an upset stomach.

West Virginia, running through 13 games to lead The Associated Press poll (none of the ranked teams was in action last night), and St. John's (8-0) meet Feb. 6 in New York's Madison Square Garden. West Virginia could be all alone in the undefeated list by then, however, since St. John's plays Pittsburgh (Jan. 30) and Temple (Feb. 1) on the road.

Akins Clobbers DeMarco In 12th Round Knockout

By DAVE O'HARA

BOSTON (AP)—Virgil Akins, the battling church deacon from St. Louis, was headed for the welterweight elimination tournament today after blasting former champion Tony DeMarco into probable retirement.

"We're going to go along with our original agreement with the National Boxing Assn. and the World Committee to enter the championship tournament," said Bernie Glickman, comanager of Akins, 29.

DeMarco 26, was attempting to shake off effects of a vicious beating absorbed before being stopped in the 12th round last night at the Garden.

Despite the advice of four doctors that he be hospitalized, DeMarco checked in at a hotel and spent the night under the eyes of handlers.

"As far as I'm concerned, Tony is all through fighting," said manager Rip Valenti. "Even if he wants to fight again, I'm the guy who holds the contract and I'm going to decide this time."

Showing no ill effects from sweating off more than a quarter pound to make the 147-pound limit, Akins floored DeMarco three times before Referee Eddie Bradley called a halt at 1:53 of the 12th round. Three months ago Akins knocked out DeMarco in the 14th round.

The fight last night was for the Massachusetts version of the world's welterweight title, which Akins won in the same ring with Glickman said Akins would not agree to any other "title" bout which conflicts with the NBA-World Committee tournament agreement.

"We made the agreement and plan to meet George Barnes of Australia or Vince Martinez," he said. "Virgil will be ready to go again in four weeks."

The World Committee and the New York State Athletic Commission refused to go along with a recent NBA vote sanctioning a championship bout between Isaac Logart and the winner of the Martinez-Gil Turner fight, won by Martinez. The NBA also ruled the winner of the Logart bout should meet Akins with the championship at stake.

Akins, a master of a waiting game to set up an opponent, floored DeMarco the first time with a right uppercut and two lefts in the eighth round. DeMarco pulled himself up at the count of seven and finished the session trading punches.

DeMarco appeared to have the better of a punching duel in the ninth round, but took unmerciful punishment in the 10th while refusing to go down.

A pair of left hooks, one to the body followed by one to the head, felled DeMarco in the 11th. When Tony bounced back swinging, Akins dropped him again with a left to the body. But the game DeMarco wouldn't quit, weathered the round and then came out for the 12th to take more punishment before the referee ended matters.

Ayden, Grimesland Are Still Leaders; Wins Advance Winterville

Table with columns for BOYS and GIRLS, listing teams like Ayden, Grimesland, Winterville, and their respective records.

Four Pitt County ball games and a non-loop tilt were played last night and several changes were made in the standings as a result.

Chicod's boys, currently in the thick of the race for top honors, were knocked down by an underdog Bethel outfit and dropped into a fourth place tie with the Bethel club, while Ayden, Belvoir-Falkland, and Winterville, challenged up wins to stay near the top. Winterville moved from the bottom section of the loop to third place.

In the girls race, the Winterville Wolverines edged Farmville by two points to improve their status, too. They moved from fourth place to third, behind Grimesland and Stokes-Pactolus. Both Stokes-Pactolus and Grimesland added victories to their cards last night, too.

Among the individual performances that were outstanding last night, were Dorothy Evans (Winterville) 41 points against Farmville, Jimmy Fornes (Chicod) 23 against Bethel, Lilly Turner's (Stokes-Pactolus) 28 against Ayden, Tommy Edwards (Ayden) 28 against Stokes.

The non-loop game played last night was Grifton vs. Snow Hill. Grifton's girls won, Snow Hill's boys were victorious.

Shaping Up With less than seven weeks remaining in the conference races now, the leagues are beginning to shape up in a cemented fashion.

Ayden, not impressive in the first few weeks of play, has taken over the top slot in the boys league, nosing out a still-determined Belvoir-Falkland, Chicod, and Winterville. There is still a very definite race involved here, and it is entirely possible that either of the four teams mentioned could wind up in the king's post.

Grimesland, which has led the girls loop throughout most of the first weeks of play, continues to hold on to that first position with an 8-1 record. Stokes-Pactolus is just a shadow away with an 8-2, but both of those clubs are way in front of the rest of the league.

Winterville, with a 6-4, and Farmville, with a 5-4, seem almost too far behind to catch up at this point. It is true, however, that seven more weeks of play could conceivably change even that.

Boyd, ninth-ranked middleweight in the nation, hung up a decision over Mims in their only previous meeting, April 18, 1956, and the Chicagoan is expected to enter the ring a 2 to 1 favorite.

Mims has won 42 of 63 fights. Boyd, known as a hard puncher with a soft chin, won 47 of 57 fights. In 1956 Joey Giardello broke his jaw. Last year Rory Calhoun flattened him in short order.

Business, Stock Market Help Seen In Approval Of Lower Discount Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Financial circles forecast a boost for business and the stock market as a result of the Federal Reserve Board's approval of a lower discount rate today at the Philadelphia Reserve Bank.

News of the money-easing move, a reduction in the discount rate from 3 to 2 1/2 per cent for that district, raised prices on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange in San Francisco yesterday.

The exchange still had 45 minutes of trading time remaining when the announcement was issued.

The Philadelphia district reduction is effective today. The other Federal Reserve banks are expected to request similar reductions shortly.

The discount rate is the interest Federal Reserve Banks charge their member banks for borrowed money.

The reduction will permit commercial banks to lower their own interest charges to corporations and individuals, thus encouraging the financing of new product lines, plant expansions and other business ventures.

New York's biggest bank, the Chase Manhattan, immediately said it was cutting its prime interest rate — that charged big borrowers with top credit ratings — from 4 1/2 to 4 per cent today. Some observers predicted other big institutions would follow quickly.

Wall Street reaction generally was optimistic. Some sources there, however, expressed dispointment because the rate was not dropped to 2 1/2 per cent.

Here are some Wall Street comments: "The move is along the lines of the program insisted to aid business, through easing of the money situation, which should invariably affect the stock market."

A. W. Zelonek, an economist: "If it is reflected in a cut in interest rates by banks, then it is a really encouraging development for business."

Gerald Loeb of the E. F. Hutton & Co.: "I believe that the rapidity and persistence of the administration and Federal Reserve policy in an effort to check the recession will succeed in restoring confidence and stimulating business."

Secretary of the Treasury Anderson described the decision as a

"proper" one, and "continued evidence of the flexible use of the Federal Reserve mechanisms in the national interest."

The trend toward lower-cost borrowings was described by President Eisenhower, in his economic message to Congress Monday, as one of the favorable factors making it likely that business will recover this year from its recession.

The Philadelphia bank's action dramatized the abrupt reversal in the national economy in the past few months from business boom to recession and from "tight money" to comparatively easy credit.

Until mid-November the discount rate was 3 1/2 per cent, having been carried to that height in the two-year upsurge of demand for credit that accompanied an unparalleled industrial investment in new plants and equipment.

Starting Nov. 15, after it was generally recognized that business was faltering, the Federal Reserve banks reduced the rate to 3 per cent. The level still in effect in 11 banks of the system.

That was still twice as high as the 1 1/2 per cent charged in early 1954 at the depth of the 1953-54 recession.

Five Bound Over To County Court For Corn Theft

Five Stokes Negroes have been bound over to Pitt County Records Court by Magistrate Luther Moore on charges of stealing corn.

Bound over were: William Arthur Taylor, 22; Lazarus Harvard, 36; Will Spruill, 57; John Ed Frank, 49; and William Henry Perkins, 29. Taylor was charged on two warrants for corn theft.

Magistrate Moore found probable cause in each case and ordered the five defendants committed to the Pitt County Jail in default of a $200 each. A $400 bond was set for Taylor.

Warrants for their arrest was signed by H. O. Whitehurst of Stokes Rt. 1 who stated that 23 bushels of corn were stolen from him on two separate occasions, Jan. 9 and Jan. 13. The five men were arrested by Carolina Township Constable W. H. Crandell of Stokes.

Trial has been scheduled for Feb. 4.

Motorists Hurt In Gas Explosion

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP) — Gas, lying like a low cloud in a large natural depression, exploded late yesterday as a string of about 70 cars started through it. Twelve persons were injured, seven seriously.

The blast knocked June Gorman, Farmington, from her car as a sheet of flame flashed over a three-acre area.

She was among 150 construction company employees leaving a plant being built on the desert about 30 miles southeast of here.

Paul Miller, 50, Denver, a safety engineer for the company building the plant, said the car in which he was riding ran down into the gas in the depression and stalled. He said he and the others in it showed that car and two others out and then signaled the other cars to stop on the plant side of the depression.

A spokesman for the company having the plant built said someone left a valve open on a liquefied gas line leading from the plant, and the gas leaked out to the hollow. He blamed a spark from a car for the explosion.

Helicopters In Firepower Show

FT. RUCKER, Ala. (AP) — Army helicopters armed with machine guns and rockets displayed new-found combat ability in a demonstration yesterday of experiments in firepower.

Military and Pentagon officials watched the display.

The use of weapons on helicopters is still in the experimental stage and a variety of armament systems are to be mounted for tests, military officials said.

Dr. Levine To Speak At Heart Symposium

Dr. Samuel A. Levine, one of four speakers for next week's symposium on heart disease, is a noted author, teacher and consultant in the field of heart disease.

Dr. Levine will speak twice at the symposium next Tuesday, once at a closed session for doctors and dentists and a second time at a session open to the general public. The symposium will be held on the campus of East Carolina College and will be under the joint sponsorship of the Coastal Society.

A resident of Boston, Dr. Levine is Clinical Professor of Medicine, Emeritus, at Harvard University's School of Medicine and a consultant at Brigham Hospital in Boston.

He is the author of two books and collaborated with other physicians on two others. Dr. Levine's books are "Coronary Thrombosis: Its Various Clinical Features" and "Clinical Heart Disease." He worked with Dr. W. Proctor Harvey on "Clinical Auscultation of the Heart" and with Dr. Bernard Lown on "Current Concepts in Digitalis Therapy."

In November, 1954, a chair of medicine at Harvard was endowed and named for Dr. Levine by Charles E. Merrill, a New York broker. The endowment was made by Merrill in appreciation of Dr. Levine's work as a heart specialist.

Dr. Levine was born in Poland and came to the United States in 1894 when he was three years old. He was a child prodigy and reached the sixth grade at the age of eight. He attended Harvard on a Newboys' Union scholarship and graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1914.

At the symposium next Tuesday, Dr. Levine will discuss "Some Puzzling Points Concerning Coronary Artery Disease" for the doctors and dentists. In the session which will be open to the general public, to be held at 8 p.m. in Wright auditorium, he will discuss "Fact and Fancy About Heart Disease."

Other speakers on the program will be Dr. Ernest Craige of the University of North Carolina

DR. S. A. LEVINE
Plains Heart Association and the Pitt County Medical and Dental

School of Medicine, Dr. W. G. Sealy of the Duke University School of Medicine, and Dr. John B. Hickham, also of Duke.

Slot Machines Will Go On Trial

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Eight slot machines go on trial Monday on charges of being used for gambling.

First Asst. County Atty. Sal Pinalo sued the machines under a statute which says if a jury finds the machines "were used or intended to be used for the purpose of gambling, they shall be condemned and forfeited."

Asked if the machines had employed counsel, Pinalo replied: "Rather than take advantage of the machines, I have brought in the owners to represent the machines."

Two Veterans of Foreign Wars posts were named codefendants.

Ten-Year-Old Is Mother Of Son

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A 10 1/2-year-old third-grade pupil gave birth to a seven-pound son yesterday, County Juvenile Officer Muriel Wright reports.

Miss Wright said the boy was born in a Catholic hospital in San Francisco, where his mother was taken after she was declared a ward of Juvenile Court.

A 28-year-old laborer and relative of the girl by marriage, Harold Lee, faces a Superior Court trial March 4 on charges of lewd conduct with the child. He denies her accusation that he is the father.

The youngest mother recorded in medical history was a 5 1/2-year-old Peruvian.

Hawaii is composed of 30 islands. It has two active volcanoes.

$175 Millions In Road Money Due

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina will receive approximately 175 million dollars from the federal government after the 1956-59 fiscal year as its portion of funds for the long-range interstate road-building program.

Directors of Highways W. F. Babcock said yesterday this is figured on the basis of a needs study conducted by the state. North Carolina ranks 43rd among the states in the percentage of money each state will get from the $2,142,855,000 needed to complete the interstate highway program.

The needs study was completed and sent to Washington last July. It did not include the recent Charlotte to Canton, Ohio, addition to the interstate network. Money will have to be allotted to North Carolina to pay for this addition to the state's interstate mileage.

Under the roadbuilding program the federal government pays 90 per cent and the states 10 per cent of the costs.

The total cost of completing the state's share of the interstate mileage was originally estimated at 310 million. Thirty-five million already has been spent, and 105 million is earmarked for the fiscal year 1957-58 and 1958-59.

Aged 101, Dies Of Fuel Burns

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Mrs. Tioflia Trujillo, who never had been outside Colorado, died in a hospital last night just two weeks after her 101st birthday.

She suffered extensive burns over her body when kerosene she was using to fuel a fire exploded. The blaze in the kitchen of her home was quickly extinguished.

New Car Sales Lag And Dealer Inventories Up

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP) — New car sales continue to lag behind earlier forecasts, while dealer inventories continue to mount.

Buyers appear to be holding off because of uncertainty about their own immediate future purchasing power or in the hope prices may be made more attractive.

As of right now there is no indication of any downward revision in new car factory list prices. However, new car retailers have been discounting their delivered prices and probably will continue to do so. And there may be some more sales contests that permit retailers even further to cut their prices.

Ford's Edsel Division is trying the contest route to increased sales. Edsel sales have been below the manufacturer's expectations. Whether bonuses to dealers will achieve greater volume, of course, is a matter of conjecture.

The sales contests usually are used to stimulate liquidation of unsold outgoing models. They were used extensively at the end of the 1957 model period, but the retailers had a sizable number of 1957 units left when the 1958's were introduced. They still have an estimated 65,000 of the 57's in stock.

In many sales contests the manufacturer offers the dealer $100 or more for each unit sale above a specified number. The dealer is thus enabled to cut more deeply into his normal delivered price and still maintain a profit.

The contests usually are set up for specific periods. The dealer is able to tell the prospective buyer that after closing time on a certain date the price will "go back up $100." This often influences a decision to buy.

Generally the industry likes to avoid sales contests tied to substantial bonuses early in a new model year. They are a form of price cutting. They do stimulate buying. Often they do this by borrowing from the future market.

Many industry analysts say that is what happened in the cleanup drive near the end of the 1957 model year. Price cutting at the retail level stimulated sales. But when the price cutting was halted retail deliveries fell off.

You can get plenty of argument about the stability of the new car market. Some industry experts say the manufacturers have been over-producing for the last four or five years. They add that to keep up with factory output new car retailers were forced to oversell the market.

That, of course, is one view of a broadly disputed situation. Certainly it oversimplifies the auto industry's problems. It has been said about 80 per cent of the industry's retail sales are on a deferred payment basis.

But without extensive credit buying there could be no automobile industry as it now is known. Credit buying has been described as the life-blood of the industry. There has been no suggestion that credit has been overextended in new car merchandising.

Author To Speak For Club Friday

Rebecca Reyher, America's foremost authority on Africa, will be the guest speaker at Friday night's meeting of the Pitt County Executives Club, President Jack Edwards announced this morning.

The intrepid adventurer who has just returned from her fifth trip to Africa, and who has lived there for three and one-half years, has traveled from Cairo to Capetown in search of adventure and knowledge. She is the author of the "Fon and His Hundred Wives," and also of "Zulu Woman," a book about the primitive practice of polygamy which was published in 1948 and digested by Life. In addition she has contributed articles to Reader's Digest, Life, Mademoiselle, and This Week.

This noted author also has written a film on Africa in collaboration with director John Huston, and has composed several books for children, the most notable being "My Mother is the Most Beautiful Woman in the World."

Her topic of discussion will be "Adventures in Africa" in which she will recount some of the incidents of her life since she began traveling the Dark Continent.

The Executives Club will meet in the East Carolina Dining Hall at 7 p.m.

Charge Attempt To Wreck Car

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — A Butte man, accused of trying to wreck his 1953 car because it used two quarts of oil every 100 miles, pleaded guilty yesterday to violating the federal train wreck statute.

Frank Stuart, 48, was accused of parking the car on Northern Pacific Railway tracks. A passenger train demolished the car. The train was delayed but no one was injured.

Stuart faces a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine or 20-year prison sentence or both.

Russian Skipper Praises Hosts

HONOLULU (AP) — The skipper of a disabled Russian freighter Gen. Panfilov praised the reception given him at the tightly restricted U.S. Navy station at Midway Island yesterday.

The Navy, which did not name the skipper, said he sent a message to the Soviet port of Vladivostok saying: "Arrived today US naval station Midway and received excellent attention, service and cooperation from pilot and command."

The Panfilov and another Russian ship, the Odessa, were granted permission to enter the area after being damaged in a Pacific storm last week. The navy said the Panfilov entered the harbor immediately for repairs of two cracks in the deck and a collapsed stern platform.

The Odessa was expected to enter the harbor tomorrow.

The Golden Scalp

By PAUL W. FAIRMAN

Cory Dane's heart was with the red men, but his people were white and he and his friend, the Duke, knew what lay ahead for those trespassing on lands of hostile Sioux. The pair make a futile attempt to warn away a wagon train led by Luke Stafford, instead, Luke's daughter, a girl with golden hair, induces Cory to accompany the train westward. The Duke tags along, reluctantly...

CHAPTER TWO
The night's stop proved uneventful. Dane foraged to the north and brought back a small cinnamon bear. He'd ridden the beast down and killed it with his knife to save the sound of a shot. This precaution would have been pointless, however, because from several directions came the crack of rifles; the guns of other wagon train hunters happily courting disaster.

As he moved toward camp, all Dane's instincts were screaming at him—reviling him. They urged him to back quietly out of this trap, and then to cut and run. He rode doggedly on, refusing to admit even to himself that golden hair braided and wound around a girl's head was the magnet toward which he traveled.

Knowledge came to the aid of instinct to raze and scorch and put pimples on Dane's skin. Knowledge that told him what was happening; that, in this deserted and lonely valley, every movement of the white pilgrims was being observed and recorded in the cold minds of Sioux scouts.

Inconspicuously, there came into his thoughts a passage he'd once read in a Bible. The passage had stated roughly that not a sparrow fell without the silent knowledge of God.

There was a simile here in this nameless valley. Not a white man or woman took five steps without the silent knowledge of the Sioux.

As darkness came, the wagons were thrown into a circle with the men grazing horses. This brought a feeling of relief to Dane. He'd begun to wonder if these people were going to taken even this precaution.

Stars came out and campfires winked cheerfully at any dangers lurking beyond range of their light.

Dane and the Duke ate bear steaks at the board of Stafford's lead wagon. They were prepared skillfully by Stafford's small, bustling wife and she of the golden braids, whom Dane had learned was Patience Stafford. During the meal, Dane's impression was unclear and disjointed.

The only clear mental picture he had was that of Patience's yellow braids hanging from the bonnet of a proud Sioux warrior. He kept his eyes away from the girl, but he could feel her examining him most frankly; taking in his soft leather clothing and the lean, wide-shouldered body; the body which, to Dane, felt ungainly and clumsy beyond description.

The meal finished, Dane drifted away into the darkness beyond the wagon circle. He was not alone. He was accompanied by two Colts, an efficient Winchester and a Bowie knife. With these companions to furnish comfort and so-lace, he found a likely spot in a cluster of large rocks.

In a few moments a shadow floated close enough to identify itself as the Duke. The Duke had stopped being restless and had turned fatalistic.

"Those damned idiots out there," he muttered. "Tomorrow they'll be crowding the pearly states."

He took Dane's silence for agreement. "But what I can't figure," he added, "is why we have to go with them. I don't hanker to know what Heaven's like."

"The train was on the move, the following morning, with the rise of sun. Oxen lowed, women sang snatches of Irish-Mississippi songs, and cooling babies played with their toes.

Blackhead Butte had moved far rearward, but other hills and buttes and crazy ridges had taken its place. And through this rough country stretched a path, seemingly provided by thoughtful Nature.

When the sun had climbed halfway toward noon, the Duke rode up beside Dane.

"There's at least two Indians in those rocks forward to the left," he said, casually.

Dane examined the indicated terrain, as the scholarly-looking Duke, who had overheard the Duke's words, led his horse to a standstill.

"Old wives' tales!" He spat out. The Duke regarded him with sudden wonder.

"All we've heard since we crossed the Mississippi has been Indians - Indians - Indians. Yet the only ones we've seen have been a few blanketed loafers at the fort and the trading posts. I'll bet my saddle there isn't an Indian within fifty miles of us."

With that he spurred his horse and thundered off toward the rocks which the Duke had spoken.

"Come back here you fool!" Dane called, and leaned forward on his horse, but the Duke held out a restraining hand.

"He won't find anything. Ever see a Sioux scout get himself boxed in? Well there'll be a tracks and he won't even see them. He's got his head too far in the clouds."

They watched the figure of Squire Davis disappear beyond the rocks. Behind them the wagon train lumbered on and Stafford reined up beside the two scouts.

"Where's Davis off to?" "He's checking on some Sioux the Duke spotted beyond those boulders."

Stafford's eyes twinkled in the framework of his brown beard. "Trying to prove to you men that there's no bogeys lurkin' hereabouts, eh?"

"Something like that," Dane returned, absently. He stared hard at the rocks. Davis should be coming back by now. His horse should be coming into sight around the patch.

But no horse came. The wagons eased to a halt behind them and a group began forming. Various and sundry pilgrims wanted to know what the matter was.

ECC Concert Band Will Tour 3 Towns

East Carolina College's Concert Band will present a series of four concerts in Rockingham, Whiteville, and Wilmington February 6 and 7. The visits to these North Carolina towns will make up the fifth annual tour of the band, which has played in both this state and Virginia on previous trips.

Seventy selected student musicians are included in the concert band. Herbert L. Carter of the college music department is director of the group. He is a past president of the North Carolina Bandmasters Association and is serving at present as secretary-treasurer of the Southern Division of the College Band Directors National Association.

Concerts for this year's tour are scheduled as follows: Thursday, Feb. 6, Rockingham High School, at 2 p.m. for school children and at 8 p.m. for the public; Friday, Feb. 7, Whiteville High School, at 1 p.m.; and Friday, Feb. 7, New Hanover High School, Wilmington, at 8 p.m. for the public.

Selections chosen for the program range from the classics to modern popular music and novelty numbers. Opening with the "Apollo March" by Anton Bruckner, the concerts will include Bach's "Prelude and Fugue in G Minor," the overtures to Rossini's "The Silken Ladder" and Bizet's "The Pearl Fishers," and R. Vaughan Williams' "Toccata Marziale."

Closing selection will be "Victory at Sea" by Richard Rodgers, who with Oscar Hammerstein turned out "Oklahoma" and other musicals. The selection, arranged by Robert Russell Bennett, who is noted for his Gershwin arrangements, was originally written for an NBC telecast and has become popular with concert bands capable of handling its difficulties.

Soloists on the tour will be xylophonist Steven L. Clements, freshman, and trombonist Jack M. Pindell, sophomore, both of Raleigh.

Washington (AP)—Congress was told Tuesday information about bows and arrows is still locked up as secret government data.

Dr. Wallace R. Brode, science adviser to the secretary of state, said in testimony prepared for the House government information subcommittee, which is studying the effect of government secrecy policies on scientific development: "An outstanding physicist who had a hobby of archery was working during the war on high-level government projects. On the side he directed some experiments on possible development and use of bows and arrows. The results of his research on archery, as well as on physics, was classified for secrecy and after the war he was unable to have the bow and arrow information declassified."

Brode said that so far as he knows "it is still classified, although his motive... was merely to include in a popular lecture and a published article the general information that modern science might provide interesting improvement in this field."

Brode said security restrictions should for the most part be confined to strategic information and weapons development, leaving basic research generally free. He argued also that the government should adopt a single clearance system so that a person already approved for secret work in one agency would not be barred from information in another.

Prize winners of the Washington Square art show of New York City are currently on display in the Joyner Library at East Carolina College. The exhibition of sixteen paintings, on loan from the Studio Guild of West Redding, Conn., shows variety in style, color, and technique.

Those who wish to visit the art may see it through Friday of this week from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Several of the paintings are for sale, and arrangements for purchase can be made at the exhibition.

Probe Break-In Of Local Home
City Detectives are investigating a break-in at the home of William Jasper Harris, Negro, of 605 McKinley Ave.

Nothing was reported missing by Harris who filed the complaint Monday night. The house was entered through a side window, officers said.

WAKE UP RARIN' TO GO
Without Nagging Backache

Now! You can get the fast relief you need from nagging backache, headache and muscular aches and pains that often cause restless nights and miserable tired-out feelings. When these discomforts come on with over-exertion or stress and strain you want relief—want it fast! Another disturbance may be mild bladder irritation following wrong food and drink—often setting up a restless uncomfortable feeling.

Don't's Pills work fast in 3 separate ways: 1. by speedy pain-relieving action to ease torment of nagging backache, headache, muscular aches and pains. 2. by soothing effect on bladder irritation. 3. by mild diuretic action tending to increase output the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

Enjoy a good night's sleep and the same happy relief millions have for over 60 years. New, large size gives more. Get Don't's Pills today!

A 'Nuisance' Has Legal Safeguard

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. — Even after hearing polar bears called "a class one nuisance," the Northwest Territories Council passed legislation last week to save them from extinction in the arctic.

It approved laws replacing the present year-round season on polar bear with a five-month season in some district.

Knut Lang, council member for Aklavik, said the great bear smashed canoes, sleds and anything else it found in an arctic camp.

NEW YORK (W) — Wall Street greeted the latest credit-easing moves with a short burst of enthusiasm today and then the stock market lapsed into irregularity. Trading was quiet early this afternoon.

Key stocks showed a mixture of gains and losses running from fractions to around a point. The ticker tape was late for five minutes at the opening. The market was slightly higher following overnight news that the discount rate had been cut to 2 1/2 per cent from 3 per cent for the Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank and that leading banks had reduced their prime lending rate to 4 per cent from 4 1/2 per cent.

Aside from an initial jump of 2 3/8 for American Telephone, gains by other stocks were modest at the start. In later dealings "telephone" sliced its gain to about a point and many of the original gainers cancelled advances and edged off.

The drop in the discount rate, accompanied by its logical consequence of a lower prime rate, has been among the credit-easing moves that financial quarters have predicted and urged for some time.

When it came, the moves were very well anticipated. Meanwhile, the business and industrial news remained unencouraging.

Utilities, tobacco, distillers, chemicals, rubbers and radio-televions were generally higher. Oils, nonferrous metals, farm implements, aircraft and motors showed a lower tendency. Steels and rails were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 40 cents to $161.00 with the industrials up 60 cents, the rails up 30 cents and the utilities up 20 cents.

Pitt Honor Students At ECC Announced

Three lists of students at East Carolina College who have received official recognition from the college because of their excellent records in academic work during the fall quarter of the present school year have been announced. Included on the lists are the names of 669 students.

Fifty-one students who made the grade of 1 on each subject taken, the highest mark given at the college, received top honors for scholastic achievement in an "All 1's" List. The Dean's List of 163 students and the Honor Roll of 455 students include the names of those whose work was considered worthy of special mention and commendation.

The Dean's List, issued by Vice President and Dean of Instruction Leo W. Jenkins of the college, is composed of undergraduates who made at least two and one half quality points per credit hour on all work taken, with no grade below three. Those students did superior academic work.

The Honor Roll, prepared by Registrar Orval L. Phillips and his staff, is composed of undergraduates who made at least two quality points per credit hour on all work taken, with no grade below three. The work completed by these students was well above average.

Pitt County is represented on the honor lists as follows:

Second Bootleg Still Destroyed In 2-Day Period

Pitt County ABC Officers destroyed their second whiskey still in two days yesterday.

The still was uncovered near Burney's Cross Roads, according to Chief ABC Officer J. M. Ward. It was located near a creek bank.

Ward said the plant was dismantled and all the pipes were disconnected, ready to be moved out to another location. No one was at the site at the time the distillery was raided and destroyed by dynamite.

In addition to the 200-gallon capacity still, officers found 1,500 gallons of spent mash, one 100-gallon boiler, one 200-gallon cooler box, one 100-gallon pre-heating unit, two 50-gallon doublers, 16 mash boxes, three cases of empty jars, and other miscellaneous pieces of distilling equipment.

Ideas and assets for a new, but illegal, business venture were blown up Monday by Pitt County ABC officers and federal Alcohol Tax Unit agents.

The officers used dynamite to destroy a still near Chicod School. Chief ABC law enforcement officer J. M. Ward said the still was "brand new" and had never been placed in operation. He counted the destroyed property as a 60-gallon drum boiler, eight four-hundred gallon mash boxes and a 50-gallon drum.

Officers who participated in the raid were Ward, H. B. Lilly and Walter Taylor of the Pitt County ABC law enforcement group and ATU agents Charles Smith and Bill Goodson of New Bern.

Report Large Turnout For Scouters' Session

Last night's attendance at the Pitt District Scout Leaders Roundtable, held at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, was the largest in years, according to reports this morning.

A total of 56 leaders and Scout officials attended the event, first of the year in Pitt. Dr. Harry Billica, District Scout Commissioner, presided over the general session.

During the general session, Dr. Herbert Hadley, Help and Safety Chairman, introduced the Safety Good Turn Project to the group. The project will be a nationwide effort by the Boy Scouts of America, Hadley disclosed.

J. Knott Proctor, Jr., member of the Activities Committee, announced plans for the annual Boy Scout Week's Father and Son Banquet. It is to be held on the campus of East Carolina College on Feb. 7.

Following the general session training groups were conducted by: Dr. H. T. Patterson, Cub Scout Commissioner, in Cub Scouting; John Behr, Boy Scout Commissioner, in Boy Scouting; and Dave Spear of Bethel, Explorer Scout Commissioner, in Explorer Scouting.

During the training sessions, Billica also held a Scout Commissioner's meeting.

"This meeting was one of the most successful we have staged in some time, from the standpoint of group participation and scouting skills presentation," one Scouting official stated today.

Honor Grifton Principal For Distinguished Service

Grifton—Ed Bright received the Grifton Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award last night.

Bright, principal of the Grifton Schools System, was described as a "man dedicated to the service of his community." He received the DSA from Town Commissioner Jim Rooley in behalf of the Jaycees.

In making the presentation, Rooley cited the outstanding work done by the award winner during the past year. Bright was instrumental in the youth movement, having served as manager of the Grifton Little League team. He is a Sunday school teacher and an active member of the Lions Club.

A. Hartwell Campbell, General Manager of television station WNCT and prominent Greenville businessman and civic leader, was the banquet's principal speaker. He spoke on the future needs of the Jaycees.

According to Campbell, this area needs improved modes of transportation, better schools and diversification in agriculture. He also cited a need for financial institutions to attract new industry.

He lauded the Jaycees, stating that the Distinguished Service Award to outstanding individuals in local communities is doing much to bring about "imaginative and constructive" leadership.
