City Council To Talk Releasing Of Parking Lot For Bank's Use

Lease Still Has About 2 Years To Run; Other Parking Facilities In Mill

City fathers will consider releasing a municipal parking lot at Fifth and Washington Sts. when they meet tomorrow night.

Plans were announced yesterday by Guaranty Bank and Trust Co. for construction of a three-story building on the property.

However, the city holds a five-year lease on the lot. The lease was made in 1955 and now has about two years to run.

Under terms of the lease the lot was delivered to the city by owners, Blount and Taft and others after the two dwellings which stood on the property were torn down.

The city bore the expense of installing curb and gutter, paving, lighting and installing parking meters on the lot.

Rental on the property was set at $250 per month and the property owners have the right to take back 25 per cent of the lot any time after the first two years of the lease with a corresponding reduction in rent.

Terms of the release from the lease on the property which the council will discuss tomorrow night have not been announced.

Bank officials announced yesterday the plans for construction of a home office on the Fifty and Washington St. property.

Officials said approximately 30 parking spaces would be provided on the property for customers. The lot will now accommodate around 60 cars.

Other Parking Facilities City Manager Leonard Bloxam said this morning that plans are being made to provide other off-street parking facilities to replace those which would be lost when the Fifty and Washington St. lot is released.

"We are working on plans," he said. "There's nothing we can talk about yet."

In addition to the Fifty and Washington St. lot, the city owns a metered parking lot on the old swimming pool property across from the Junior High School.

There is a small unmetered parking lot which the city leases at Evans and Second Sts. Another unmetered parking lot leased by the city is located at the intersection of Pitt St. and Dickinson Ave.

Defense Dept. Gets Space Project Reins

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today Secretary of Defense McElroy will direct all outer space programs in the Defense Department at this time.

Eisenhower told his news conference the scientists who are advising him expect to work out a program of outer space developments which they believe are possible and probable.

He said this program will be distinct from defense projects in the space field.

The defense program will be pushed under the direction of McElroy and his assistants, the President said.

Eisenhower said that Werner von Braun and other scientists would be among the last to predict any timing for projects such as sending a rocket to the moon.

But he said the scientists who are now working for him intend to rough in a program of outer space achievement. He said they are not so much interested in a time schedule as they are in organizing for space projects.

The President made his news conference comments as Republican senatorial leaders lined up solidly against any hasty move to take control of satellites and space weapons programs out of the Defense Department.

Senators Knowland (R-Calif.) Bridges (R-NH) and Saltonstall (R-Mass) said in separate interviews they believe any precipitate action to create a separate space agency under civilian control might interrupt vital efforts to match the Soviet Union in the race to the stars.

President Eisenhower has directed Dr. James M. Killian Jr., his science adviser, to look into the matter and report to him whether the space program should be left in the Pentagon or transferred to a new agency.

A Senate House conference committee dominated by Democrats skirted any final decision on the issue of civilian-vs-military control. It wrote into an Air Force construction bill compromise language allowing the secretary of defense to go ahead for a year with development of missiles, rocket weapons systems and satellites.

The terms of the compromise avoided either authorizing or prohibiting the establishment of Advanced Research Projects Agency within the Defense Department to manage missiles and satellite programs.

Secretary of Defense McElroy has contended he already has authority to establish the agency under his direct control. Under the compromise language he could direct the development of systems and military requirements through "his designee."

Previously the individual services have had a large measure of control over this work.

Rocket Roared Skyward, To End In A Fiery Blast

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Navy's second Vanguard satellite rocket roared skyward today but ended just like the first in a fiery explosion.

Sixty seconds after a beautiful takeoff at 2:33 a.m., the bullet-shaped Vanguard wobbled crazily, broke into two pieces and was destroyed by the test range safety officer.

If the flight had succeeded, the Navy would have put a tiny new moon into orbit with the Army's Explorer, which was fired aloft Friday by the Jupiter-C missile.

But the Vanguard climbed only about 20,000 feet into a cold, starry sky before the safety officer, R. D. Stephens, pressed the button that blew it apart and sent it plunging toward the ocean in fiercely blazing fragments.

So the Soviet Union, having launched two Sputniks, still holds a numerical lead. Sputnik I disintegrated Jan. 4 but Sputnik II, carrying a dead dog, still whirled around the earth.

The first Vanguard rocket, fired here Dec. 6, struggled upward only four feet before it toppled over and was partly consumed in its own flames.

A fuel line leak, causing a loss of pressure in the combustion chamber, was blamed for that spectacular mishap, which damaged U.S. prestige abroad at a time when the Soviet Union had the only satellites in the skies.

Experts had hoped that the lessons learned from that first failure would help pave the way to success on the next attempt. But officials emphasized before today's attempt that the odds against getting the Vanguard's 314-pound moon into orbit still were 1,000 to 1.

The slender, 72-foot rocket left the ground surely and gracefully, riding a witch's broom of lemon-colored fire straight up into the blue-black sky.

Its blazing exhaust lighted the countryside and the roar of its engines shook sleeping persons awake for miles around.

Observers watching the blastoff from vantage points inside the test center shouted as the Vanguard began its arrow-tine climb. But their cheers died in their throats when they saw the missile incline too sharply, break up and plunge back toward the moonlit Atlantic.

One huge ball of brilliant fire seemed for a moment to be spinning back in the general direction of the test center and an alarmed observer yelled: "Look out, it's coming our way!"

But the fireball disappeared as it neared the ground. At the same time, other sparkling fragments were seen plummeting into the ocean two to three miles offshore.

In an official announcement minutes later, the Air Force, which operates the test center, said the Vanguard was "successfully launched . . . but was destroyed in flight when it failed to maintain its programmed flight path."

Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of the test center, said it may be several days before there can be a full explanation of what happened to the Vanguard.

Short though it was, the flight gave the Navy much valuable data, through telemetry, photography, radar and radio monitoring. Soon after the explosion, technicians were busy assembling this information, probing for the cause of the failure.

The Air Force probably will be asked to try to salvage some of the rocket wreckage from the sea. The small Vanguard satellite may be floating on the water and sending out its beeping radio signals.

Weather apparently could not be blamed for the breakup of the rocket. Winds at 25,000 feet were blowing only 69 m.p.h.

The second Vanguard failure started immediate speculation on the future of the program. Officials associated with the project said it presumably would not be affected, since today's rocket was only a test vehicle.

In Washington, Dr. John P. Hagen, director of project Vanguard, said another attempt to launch another of the rockets would be made as soon as possible.

He would not estimate when that might be, nor would he comment on the effect of today's failure on a schedule calling for firing of a fully-instrumented, 20-inch Vanguard satellite next month.

The Navy originally was given an exclusive assignment to launch America's first earth satellite with the Vanguard. After the Sputniks were put into orbit, there was a furious public demand for a speedup in the Vanguard target date.

It was this insistence on speed, Navy sources said, that resulted in the Dec. 6 blowup. The rocket, still an experimental bird, just wasn't ready for the test, they said.

Bad Check Charges Again Confront Justice Of Peace

By EVERETTE PARKER Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville Township Justice of the Peace Henry Worth Anderson, charged on five separate warrants for issuing and uttering worthless checks, had his cases continued in Pitt County Records Court yesterday.

He is scheduled to be tried on Mar. 11.

Warrants charging Anderson were signed Monday by Pitt County Clerk of Court D.T. House, Jr. and Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson.

The warrants citing the local Justice of the Peace were issued after five checks submitted by him for payment of assigned dues were returned due to insufficient funds by the State Bank and Trust Company.

Anderson, according to House, submitted one check, dated Aug. 26, 1957, in the amount of $30, and another check for $32, dated Sept. 26, 1957. Both were returned Monday morning.

Sheriff Tyson signed three warrants charging Anderson on information and belief. He said three checks received from the magistrate were returned to him by the State Bank and Trust Company on Monday due to insufficient funds. Two of the checks in question were made out to Miss Sara Jones, Treasurer of the Pitt County Peace Officer's Protective Association. The other one was made to the Pitt County Auditor which was endorsed by Auditor H. R. Cray and turned over to Tyson.

According to Tyson, one of the checks was dated Aug. 26, 1957 for $15 and the other for $16 was dated Sept. 26, 1957. Both were assigned dues by law. The third check was made out in the amount of $23.50 and dated Jan. 15, 1958, for payment of Sheriff's fees.

All five checks were received on Jan. 28, both House and Tyson said. They were reportedly deposited on Jan. 29.

House said Chapter 143, Section 166 of the General Statutes of North Carolina provides that proper officials shall submit $2 to the Clerk of Court for each case in which the defendant pays the costs. The amount, usually submitted monthly, is then to be sent to the State Treasurer who in turn credits it to the Law Enforcement Officer's Benefit and Retirement Fund. A local law pertaining to this county also provides that court officials shall submit $1 to the Pitt County Peace Officer's Protective Association for each case in which the defendant pays the costs.

Anderson, House said, has not submitted his payments to his office for the months of Sept., 1957, Oct., 1957, Nov., 1957, Dec., 1957 and Jan., 1958. According to Sheriff Tyson, his records also show no payments to the Peace Officer's Fund from the local JP for the corresponding period.

The Sheriff said he had no way of telling at this time if Anderson is up-to-date in his payment of Sheriff's fees. These fees, he explained, are set up to make restitution for warrants served by the Sheriff's Department for Anderson's court.

Records To Be Inspected Pitt County Auditor H. R. Gray says he plans to inspect Anderson's records in the near future. Gray said he sent Anderson a letter on Jan. 15 requesting that he submit his dockets, receipts and warrant register for inspection. As of this morning, he said he had not received a reply from him, nor had he received his records. He stated he planned to notify the local JP again today concerning the matter.

Anderson has a prior conviction here on a worthless check charge. He was convicted in City Court on Dec. 20, 1957. In this case prayer for judgment was continued on the payment of costs and the amount of the check, $60.

Another Frigid Blow For Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Freezing temperatures overnight dealt Florida's reeling citrus and vegetable industry its third blow of the season. Farmers feared this time the "would strike out."

Townfolk in southern Florida, where many homes lack modern heating, shivered and shook. Motorists were warned to drain radiators.

Crop experts saw the greatest danger to low-ground citrus and to plants set out after mid-December and early January freezes. Earlier cold snaps ruined about 37 million boxes of citrus and damaged other fruit.

The flower industry neared total destruction. Frost and low temperatures, followed by heavy rains, ruined thousands of acres of pastures and left hundreds of cattle to starve.

Tourists, one of the state's principle industries, have failed to arrive in the expected numbers. Some who came left quickly; many headed for the Caribbean to escape the cold.

Temperatures began falling in north Florida Monday night but a rise in the mercury after midnight dulled the killing force on citrus of low readings.

But while citrus escaped new damage, vegetables and some fruits were hurt severely.

For the third time within two months, strawberry blooms in fields near Plant City were shriveled. C. D. Herring, manager of the farmers market at Plant City, said early peppers were about wiped out in the area.

Cattle are dying on frozen and flood-killed pastures.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has sent feed into the distressed areas, but some ranchers have refused to accept the help. Hundreds of migrant workers are stranded. Many are without money or hope of quick jobs.

The latest cold snap brought Tampa, on the west coast, its lowest temperatures in 53 years — a 24. Miami had a 36, coldest since 1917.

His plane struck in a frosty cornfield 10 miles east of Sylvania, Ga., about 10 miles south of Stewart's Landing Point, and burned.

The three members of the bomber crew, based at Homestead, Fla., AFB, were reported "shaken up" but uninjured. The Hunter public information officer said the bomber made a normal landing despite a ripped-open tail.

The crew, commanded by Maj. Howard Richardson of Homestead, was given routine hospital examinations, then went to sleep.

The fighter was on a night exercise from Charleston Air Force base, where an air collision on Monday killed one jet pilot and a second landed by parachute.

Bragg's commandant, asking whether the missile could be fired there.

Gen. Sink, who incidentally is a native of Lexington, N.C., replied that "Unfortunately I am advised that a violation of the North Carolina penal laws on the military reservation would be an offense against the U.S." He added that he had carefully studied the matter but could find no lawful way to grant the request.

"The only solution to this problem," he wrote "would be for the state" under appropriate legislation, to set aside a range area for the purpose of encouraging senior high school students — under strict supervision — to experiment with rockets and other missiles.

The Legislature doesn't meet until next year.

Kidnaper Gives Self Up To Law

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — The grim four-day manhunt for kidnap Carl E. Burton ended last night. He ran into police headquarters and surrendered because "the pressure was too much."

Two policemen chased him as he ran, hands in the air and a fully loaded revolver sticking in his belt.

It was a dramatic climax to one of this area's most intensive searches which began when Burton and Harold Davis, 33, kidnaped Missouri State Trooper William Little at Van Buren, Mo., Saturday night.

Burton said at the police station: "I'm glad it's over. The pressure was getting too much. I knew I couldn't get away. I had to quit running."

Police from four states converged on this western Kentucky area when the pair, holding Little hostage, smashed through roadblocks in Little's police cruiser.

Burton and Davis, both of Redwood, Calif., fled to a remote section of McCracken County late Saturday night, holed up at a farm home and held Little and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Shelton hostage for 24 hours.

Davis cracked under the pressure and shot and wounded himself. Burton fled to the river bottoms Sunday, leaving Little and the Sheltons unharmed.

Police set up massive roadblocks within a 50-mile radius. A misunderstanding caused the death of a young woman at one roadblock when her car drove through.

Patrolmen Marion Shelbourne and James Arts recognized Burton walking down a street here last night. They turned a spotlight on him, ordered him to halt and started after him.

Burton, only a few doors from the police station, kept going. He ran into the station and was immediately disarmed. The pistol belonged to Little.

World Not Declining Notes Dr. Bradner

"We should not think of the world as being on the decline, but believe that greater and more wonderful things are still to come," said Dr. Cleveland Bradner when he addressed the Pitt County Historical Society January 30.
Dr. Bradner, who is temporary minister for the Hooker Memorial Christian Church and is Director of Religious Education at E.C.C., was born and raised in historic Charleston, S. C. He used for his topic "The Importance of the Historical."
He cautioned against people becoming so enmeshed in the past that they are unable to realize their complete potentials as human beings.
"History is a golden bond of brotherhood, rather than a track that separates one person from another because of birth, wealth, or other circumstances of fortune," pointed out Bradner.
Miss Jesse Rountree Moyer, president, presided and presented a plan for the placement of two portraits in Greenville. The portrait of Sir William Pitt, Earl of Chatham, and the one of General Nathaniel Greene in the Town Hall.
Miss Moyer, who has done extensive research in regard to the location of the originals of these portraits and has written biographical articles on these two colonial figures, will serve as chairman of this project.
Chairmen Named
Miss Moyer read a list of committees for the year and their chairmen. They are: Chester Walsh, publicity; D. H. Conley, archives; Dr. Paul Murray and Dr. Martha Pingel Wolf, historical publications and television; Mrs. Barbara Dail who represented the Howard D. Moyer, research and acquisitions; Mrs. Emily Moyer Hadley, membership; and Frank M. Wooten and Judge Dink James, program and arrangements for meetings.

K. W. Cobb suggested that mimeographed copies of the minutes be sent to the members of the various committees.
At an early date officers for the Commission will be elected. This Commission was created by the last General Assembly of North Carolina to consist of a number of citizens of Pitt County to appoint and designate a Commission to plan and supervise the 200th anniversary program or celebration for Pitt County in 1960.
J. L. Jackson, who has not missed a meeting during the seven years of the society's origin, stated he has 40 or 50 thousand items relative to the history of the county and the inhabitants. Prior to the dinner, tomato juice cocktails and cheese wafers were served by Mrs. Kinchen W. Cobb from an appointed table in the Salle Southall Cotten Room of the Woman's Club.
Decorations in the reception rooms and hall consisted of greenery and berries. The dining room table carried out the Valentine motif using lighted red tapers entwined with ivy.
Frank E. Brooks gave the invocation. A musical program was presented by Miss Barbara Harris and Richard Tomlinson, music students at East Carolina College. Miss Harris' selections included "My Friend" and "The Kiss." Tomlinson rendered an instrumental number, "The Cuckoo."
Special guests for the evening were Dr. and Mrs. Bradner and her mother, Mrs. Lamm of Warrenton, the musicians, and Miss Barbara Dail who represented the Credit Women's Breakfast Club.

Dr. Utterback Reviews Play For Shicora Book Club Members

Dr. Elizabeth Utterback of the East Carolina College Department of English reviewed Eugene O'Neill's "A Long Day's Journey Into Night" yesterday for members of the Shicora Book Club at the home of Mrs. John Parley where luncheon was served.
Dr. Utterback told the club that the current Broadway play is O'Neill's autobiography. The playwright, she said, was characterized by an obsession with his childhood and family life. She continued to point out how the abnormality of O'Neill's parents and the unhappiness of his family life are brought out in the play. "A Long Day's Journey," she said, describes the events of one day and the coming of a night from which none of the characters expects to awake into the spiritual dawn of hope.

Ayden Variety Show Planned

AYDEN—The Ayden Jaycees voted Monday night to join the Ayden PTA and Ayden Jay-C-Ettes in producing a Variety Show, announced Jaycee President Marvin Baldeer Jr.

The show is being planned for March 21 at 8:00 p.m. in the Ayden High School auditorium. Talent is to be furnished by the Jaycees, Jay-C-Ettes, PTA, and other talented citizens of Ayden, the Ayden-Winterville Band, and students from Marie's School of Dance in Greenville, including several Ayden children.

Committee selection and details of the program will be announced later by the organizations involved. Boyd Elliott, Ayden-Winterville band director and Ayden Jaycees will direct the production. Frank Peterson, PTA member and Ayden agriculture teacher, will be the master of ceremonies.

The program was held in Mrs. V. L. Roberson's home which was decorated with winter greenery and house plants.

In the dining room the choir members and guests were invited to receive refreshments. Mrs. I. M. Little poured Russian tea while Mrs. Sherwood Roberson served cake. Party sandwiches, potato chips, pickles, and salted nuts were also served.

30 Years Ago Today
February 5, 1928

On Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. S. T. White as hostess, the Sans Souci Book Club held one of the most delightful meetings of the year. After routine business the club enjoyed a most unusual and charming program given by Mrs. L. C. Skinner, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Waldrop. This being the Valentine meeting, Mrs. Skinner had as her subject "Music and Love—These I Have Lived For." Dipping here and there into the lives and poems of our greatest writers and with interpretation of these great factors in the lives of men, Mrs. Skinner impressed upon each hearer anew the place this combination of music and love has in the world. After the reading of Robert Browning's "Andrea Del Sarto," Mrs. Waldrop sang "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "Indian Love Call." Even the refreshments served by the hostess bore the message of light and love, for on each plate was the red heart of love and the miniature candy candlestick with lighted taper signifying the light which is always its companion.

SAUTEED CHICKEN BREAST

Ingredients: 1 large chicken breast (about 1 pound), 2 tablespoons butter, water, salt, pepper.

Method: Cut chicken breast in half with kitchen shears; cut off any ragged skin. If part of wings are attached, cut off. Heat a 9-inch iron skillet until very hot; add butter. Place chicken breasts, skin side down, and any wing parts in hot melted butter. Brown moderately slowly on both sides. Add 2 tablespoons of water to skillet; cover and cook slowly until tender—20 to 30 minutes. Turn as necessary, adding 2 tablespoons of water about middle of cooking time. Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper; remove to serving plates. Add 2 or 3 tablespoons of water to skillet; stir with wooden spoon, over low heat, to get up drippings. Bring to a boil if necessary; pour this small amount of sauce over chicken. Makes 2 servings.

With Farm Women

By VIRGINIA M. NANCE (Items this week on: Columbus, Madison, Sampson, Jones, and Hoke Counties.)

Like A Female
Ophelia Hayes, Whiteville, Rt. 4, is one of Columbus County's young 4-H club members. Recently she got a new sewing machine, but she needed to learn how to sew.

According to Ann P. Holland, assistant home demonstration agent, Ophelia decided to solve her problem by taking sewing as a 4-H project. She plans to enter her first dress in the county 4-H dress revue.

Mrs. Holland indicates that Ophelia is making fine progress in her project. She has learned how to follow a pattern guide and use it in fitting the pieces together. She says making a dress is "almost like putting the pieces of a puzzle together."

Applying Elbow Grease
Mrs. Tillery Buckner, Madison County home demonstration club member, has proved that a little "elbow grease" can go a long way in saving her money!

According to reports from Assistant Home Agent Marie H. Buckner, Mrs. Buckner attended a special interest meeting two years ago where she learned how to refinish furniture. Since that time she has spent hours and hours refashioning some valuable pieces.

Pieces she has done, that she now considers priceless, include a clock, bed, dresser, several picture frames. She's also working on refashioning their family piano.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Buckner feel that their time and effort have been well spent. Not only has refashioning furniture become a family project, but they saved money by doing over the old pieces rather than buying new ones or having someone else refinish them.

Mrs. Buckner's present project consists of finishing a new walnut desk to match the bed and dresser which are at least 40 years old. Four-H School Project

As a result of a 4-H Club meeting several months ago in Sampson County, on "Home Grounds Beautification," the Autreyville 4-H Club got busy and decided to take the beautification of their school grounds as a project.

Assistant Home Agents Hannah W. Neal and Lucy Blue report that work was begun immediately and plans were drawn for the improvements. The 4-Hers decided to get some pine trees to use as a border around the yard. These were ordered through the club and in mid-December the seedlings arrived.

Each 4-H club girl took one pine seedling to mother—one she could protect. They called them their own and spent much time keeping the younger boys and girls from destroying them. Then the boys set the pines out in two rows around the yard. Since that time they've taken great pride in their yard and still show much enthusiasm about the beautification of their school.

Back In The Dining Room
Mrs. Rom Mallard, Trenton, Route 1, is certainly happy to have her dining room available for dining purposes again, according to Mary W. Hester, Jones County assistant home agent.

It seems that Mrs. Mallard, a home demonstration club member, had to give up the use of her dining room during the time her husband was building an egg grading room in their new laying house. He needed the room in the house to grade and pack the hatching eggs from their flock until they could be transferred to the new room he was building.

Now that Mrs. Mallard is back in her dining room, she has decided she'll give it a face lifting—and the first thing she's planning to do is refinish an antique dining table for her family to enjoy.

Remodeled Kitchen
On a visit to Mrs. Grover McMillan's home in Arabia, Joseph Hall, Hoke County home agent, was shown her newly remodeled kitchen.

Miss Hall reports that Mrs. McMillan had attended the home demonstration club meeting on planning the kitchen for easier work back in October. As a result,

No Atmosphere Of Mutual Trust

Any agreement, personal or international, must have its foundation in mutual respect and confidence between the parties involved if it is to be worth the paper it is written on.

This prerequisite is obviously lacking between the United States and Russia as talk is renewed concerning an international pact dedicating control of outer space to peaceful uses.

What would such a pact contribute to the future of humanity if either or both parties failed to live up to the conditions of the agreement? And so long as sufficient doubt on the part of either party concerning the integrity of the other, what hope is there of concluding an agreement which would mean anything at all?

The United States and Russia, for their own sakes and for the sake of the world need to come to an understanding on control of outer space at the very beginning of the space age. Had such a step been taken a decade ago at the outset of the nuclear age, the problems of nuclear tests, rocket weapons and allied matters would not now be clouding the issues at stake as outer space becomes a major factor in international affairs.

This nation, for its part, can ill afford tactics of appeasement or compromise of principles in seeking an understanding with the Soviet Union on control of outer space. We cannot afford to commit ourselves to agreements without reasonable assurance that Russia will live up to its share of the agreements.

The time is right for the United States and Russia

Unusual Control In Hodges' Hands

By LYNN NISBET
BUDGETING — North Carolina's Governor, as director of the budget, has more direct control over fiscal affairs of the State than most chief executives. In some respects, however, he does not have as much authority to adjust legislative appropriations as does the Governor of Florida. Perhaps the need for greater executive authority in Florida stems from the fact the Legislature is not required to balance the budget.

salary of around $12,000 said the other day that if he were smart enough to anticipate needs to that extent for that far ahead he would be worth a million dollars to some big corporation.

BALANCE — It developed also in the news conference with Governor Collins that Florida is seeking a better balance among tourism, agriculture and industry. So is North Carolina. There is some difference in degree of emphasis. Presently the tourist dollar is Florida's main asset. Agriculture—citrus fruits and vegetable crops—ranks second with manufacturing and processing industries third. In North Carolina agriculture and industry share top consideration with tourism ranking third. Information is that North Carolina perhaps has a better balance now than Florida, but the advantage is becoming less as Florida ties in industrial development with processing of agricultural produce, without letting up on travel promotion.

SATISFIED — North Carolina Democrats, as presented by attendees at the Jefferson-Jackson Dinner, are pretty well satisfied with their party leaders and government officials in the state. They aren't happy over the national picture, but are very optimistic that situation will improve.

At the meeting of county Democratic chairmen a year ago there was open criticism of Governor Hodges for his alleged attitude of by-passing the party organization in selecting appointees for administrative and advisory positions. There was also some criticism of State Chairman John Laskins for failure to keep close contact with local and county organization units. This time the county chairmen applauded both the Governor and the chairman, with apparent impartiality.

There was nothing like a hundred percent enthusiastic approval of either the Governor or the state chairman. The county chairmen made it clear they want more recognition than they have been accorded in the past. The group adopted a resolution asking that county chairmen be made ex-officio members of the State Democratic committee.

The suggestion that the State committee be composed of the county chairmen only almost got approval. Suggestion that county vice-chairmen also be included, and that these county party officials constitute the state committee, had substantial support.

There is very slim chance this suggestion will be accepted by the Democratic convention or the executive committee. The fact that it was seriously proposed indicates the interest on local level in Democratic party organization and procedure.

to set forth the guideposts by which their actions will be governed in regards to the space age. We question, however, whether there now exists an atmosphere of mutual respect and confidence in which such agreements can be reached.

In The Long View, No Grounds For Worry

A number of voices have been raised these last few months about over-stressing of physical sciences . . . a preoccupation with needs for more engineers, chemists, physicists; the challenge of space and rocketry.

Concern over the lapse in emphasis on the humanities and religion because of the new attraction for man's imagination is another facet of the over-all picture.

There is really a brighter side to it all. People in our society are something on the order of a pendulum . . . going from one extreme to another and producing an end product that is a happy medium. As in war . . .

Starting in December of 1941 we went all the way (well, nearly all the way) in seeking to destroy our enemies. When it was over, the people went all the way (again, nearly "all") to rehabilitate their conquered enemies.

In music . . . there has been recurrent waves of melodious compositions that caught the public's fancy; then corresponding periods of near-primitive rhythm.

In the fields of literature, architecture, painting, religion and morality one sees that same tendency to swing from one extreme to the other. In the course of time the extremes blend into comforting harmony.

Just because today we are witnessing a fresh consciousness of the scientific wonders of the universe, it doesn't follow that other fields of humanity will suffer in the long run. Indeed, the humanitarians, the political scientists and the social reformers have occupied the center of the world's stage for decades now. Before them there were the painters, the writers, the composers whose shadows fell across more decades than any of their contemporaries in other fields.

The race still has an unlimited future before running its course. When it is over, we think the books will balance out rather well.

A New Racket In 'Par Selling'

By ELMER ROESSNER
Here's a new racket. It's called "par selling."

The easiest way to explain how it works is to invent an imaginary case. So:

Joe and Pete are hungry operators in, say, the metal awning business. They move into a city with some substantial residential districts. Joe opens the Brand X Metal Awning Company in one area. Pete opens the Wunderbar Metal Awning Corporation in another.

Then they divide the city up into districts. The first week, Joe's canvassers take district 1 and go from house to house offering complete sets of metal awnings at $1,200 a house, or more if it requires more than an average amount of awnings. This is about twice the fair price.

Meanwhile, Pete's canvassers are making the same offer in district 2.

THE COSTLY SWITCH
Naturally, the canvassers get few orders. When they do, they are about as pure gravy as gray comes these days.

But the next week Joe's boys work district 1, and Pete's slickers work district 2. But this time they are offering awnings at what they call cut prices. Where a householder has been quoted $1,200, they quote $900, usually saying their company is overstocked, or that they want a job to show other neighbors.

The householders are now impressed that the second offer is a rare bargain indeed — how else can you save $300 these days. Many of them sign contracts. Meanwhile, the canvassers are moving into districts 3 and 4, using the same "par selling" methods. It's probably called that because operators get par — or full list — prices and often more.

CONTRACTS SOLD
In many cases, the selling companies do not supply and install the awnings. They simply sell the contract to an established store, taking a fat profit without further effort.

Sometimes, the racket is operated by a single promoter, who simply sets up two companies. And the technique is used in selling store windows, aluminum doors, house painting, landscaping and many other home repair and improvement lines.

The National Metal Awning Association has denounced the practice and is calling on other associations to drive par sellers from their industries. Better Business Bureaus have been alerted, and many are warning householders in their communities.

When ethical businessmen feel the unfair competition of par sellers, and when householders are quoted suspiciously wide variations in prices for improvements, a good first step is to check with the local Better Business Bureau. It can advise, and probably suggest an even better second step.

NO FRESH REGULATIONS IN 31 OF 48 STATES

Business on the whole will get some respite from legislators in 1958. In only 17 of the 48 states will legislatures hold their regular sessions, according to Commerce Clearing House.

Legislatures of Kentucky, Mississippi and Virginia, which meet in even numbered years, will convene in January. In fourteen other states legislatures meet every year. The lawmakers of Arizona, Colorado, Georgia, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, South Carolina and West Virginia meet in January. The California and Maryland legislatures meet in February and the Louisiana solons convene in May.

Legislatures have been a frequent source of concern by businessmen because of the strong trends toward more taxes, more licenses, more inspections and more regulation, so the fact that no new laws will be passed in 31 states is cheering. However, there's always Congress.

BRITISHER'S ACHIEVEMENT: PERMANENT SECURITY

TAX "CLIMATE" VITAL IN CHOOSING A SITE
The most important factor in locating a new plant may be the availability of labor and materials, but high on the list of considerations is the tax climate, according to one authority.

Assessment rates and tax rates are important, of course. But not to be overlooked is the school population and the condition of the schools, fire and police equipment, hospitals and other civic establishments. Low tax rates and promises of local officials mean nothing if the community is soon to be forced to step up its outlays.

SPIRIT OF THE LIVING GOD

What is a church? A building? An organization? A collection of people who subscribe to the same creed? All these things characterize a church, but they are not in reality the church itself. We need all ways to remind ourselves that during the first 300 years of the history of the Christian church there were no church buildings. Little groups of Christian believers met in homes. So quite evidently the church is not a building—nor during one of the most vigorous and inspiring periods of church history there was not a single church edifice in the entire world.

man has built up but something which God made. It was made—or brought to its full fruition—on the day of Pentecost. The Christian church existed before the New Testament was written. To be sure the New Testament grew out of the life of the church and was a summing up of the church's faith. But the church was founded by the swooping down of God's spirit into a group of people assembled in the city of Jerusalem, fifty days after the crucifixion had taken place.

So as members of the church, we are members of a spiritual creation. It is more than an organization; it is something created, and this moment directed by the spirit of the Living God.

Rock-Kicking's Decline

Rock-kicking, like wall-walking and innertube-rolling, is a fine game.

But, for all its unhurried beauty and uncluttered appeal, it's going out-of-style. It just doesn't keep pace with the modern trend toward lighter diet, European styles, and whirlwind social activity.

It is a game of leisure, designed specifically for the man or boy who wants nothing more for the moment than to be left alone. It is not to be hurried or measured. Nor is it to be set up for comparison with other things that have before.

Rock-kicking wanders across sidewalks, into yards and gutters, and around storm sewers. It knows no time limits or physical boundaries, save those placed by nature or by men trying to rearrange nature.

In days gone by rock-kicking had an appeal to everyone, and the game itself never recognized a player on the basis of race, creed or strength of shoe sole. All that was necessary was a willingness to follow a bouncing rock and the energy to propel that rock, a few feet at a time, ahead of you.

Of course, those who were serious students of the game put in their own refinements to make it more exciting. From the big, rough rocks used in an apprenticeship, the serious students moved to small, smooth rocks that sailed across clumps of grass or skidded easily across sidewalks.

Some rock-kickers I have known even experimented with pine cones, for the days when their vitality was low but their spirits of adventure-in-technique soared with the clouds. The cones were kicked with an under-cutting approach to cause a backspin or near-vertical rise that results in better control and less walking.

The pine cones really aren't satisfactory substitutes, however, because real rock-kicking requires a rock, solid in substance and heavy enough to keep the game going at a more or less steady pace.

Even at that, rock-kicking fanatics belong to one of two schools of thought: The edge-of-the-sole policy, which avoids marring a good shine while moving the rock slowly ahead of the kicker; or the devil-may-care policy, which is a sort of "let the shoe kick where it will and let the shine go to devil" idea.

Either system is good, and can be developed to a high degree of proficiency, although that isn't the idea of the game at all. Rock-kicking is more of a crutch, to take the burden out of having to walk to the store for a loaf of bread or going home to report to daddy that you finally hit a baseball though the front window of that house by the playground.

Oh, well, perhaps it's good that rock-kicking is going the way of the whooping crane and the steam engine. It's a thing of the past, and these are times when we must look ahead, and plan and scheme and worry for the future of our children's children.

Besides, rock-kicking when I last played it was being invaded by the neighborhood hoodlums who would deny anyone else a pleasure in life.

They were the ones who demanded that all rock-kicking in their sphere of influence be played according to their rules. I couldn't do it.

No man can enjoy it when he has to f'r' back and kick-theflyngheoutofalitterock.

Other Editors Saying -- Democratic Password

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

While Southern Democrats are confident they will recapture the White House in 1960, they are still cautious when it comes to sizing up a possible GOP opponent, Richard Nixon, Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, in speaking to Tar Heel Democrats at a Jefferson-Jackson Dinner last Saturday night, said it was a little early to be making a campaign speech against Nixon, when asked to give an estimate of Nixon as a potential Republican candidate.

But he did voice confidence in the Democratic ability to win a national election. Unity is the key for the Democratic effort, unity of all factions of the party. Collins branded as absurd talk about the South pulling out of the Democratic party. To leave the party, he said, would be a "shameful betrayal of our heritage and our future as well. Those who think we can be pushed out of it mistake our fiber."

But it is probable that in the past certain factions in the Northern wing felt too badly had the Southerners pulled out. There has never been much love lost between the two sections of the Democratic party. But the old adage of "hang together or hang separately" may serve to keep Democrats together in order to achieve victory over the Republicans.

As Collins pointed out, the Democrats have their work cut out for them. They must work together during the next two and a half years to develop a new national party leader. A Southerner on the ticket in 1960 is seen as one possible way of merging the splinter groups again. As for who the candidates would be, not even Collins would commit himself on that question. The trick is to fill a ticket that would win support of all factions in the party.

Lyndon Johnson, Senate leader from Texas, has often been mentioned as a likely candidate, but Johnson, like Eisenhower, has suffered a heart attack and for this reason he might decline the nomination. John Kennedy of Massachusetts has also been mentioned. Kennedy, like Nixon though, is young and strangely enough this might be enough to defeat him. On top of that he is a Catholic and this could possibly be made a campaign issue. For those who do not believe this, they have only to remember Al Smith.

The fact is that good men in the party, not all of whom have been in the national spotlight long. The trick will be to find two of them who will be attractive enough to all factions of the party.

Rayburn's Inquiry Missing Mark

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Speaker Sam Rayburn's $250,000 investigation of the Federal government's so-called independent agencies threatens to become a first-class flop. But it has already revealed that the vast bureaucracy built by Franklin D. Roosevelt is subject to human frailties and political pressures difficult to overcome. It needs radical and basic reform from top to bottom.

The Speaker sponsored the Moulder inquiry in order to determine whether these agencies were executing the laws and the regulations there under in accord with the intent of Congress, or whether they were perverting them for political or economic reasons, including influence exerted by the White House itself.

In other words, Rayburn wanted to know whether this powerful fourth arm of the government acted according to law or to human emotions and impulses.

Sam has his answer already, although it may not suit him. SERIOUS QUESTION IGNORED — So far, amidst a fierce clash of personalities and politics within the Moulder Committee, the principal disclosures have been that members of the Federal Communications Commission and possibly other bodies have accepted gifts and fees from the radio and television interests which they regulate.

But there has been hardly any serious attempt to look into the more serious and pertinent question—namely, whether these regulatory agencies, like the Federal Courts which they are supposed to parallel, are actually independent and free of domination by the White House, by Congress or by the segments of business and industry under their jurisdiction.

The fact is that these agencies, which exercise such vast control and power over every human activity from airplanes to living-room TV sets, are not and never have been wholly independent. They cannot be unless radical changes are made in their basic charters by Congress.

In fact, that may be Speaker Rayburn's ultimate purpose. He is especially concerned because he fathered most of these agencies in early New Deal days. COMMISSIONERS U.S. ALLY BOW TO A WHITE HOUSE BID- DING A President, for instance,

Quiz Show Tests

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Most American husbands know more than their wives. Even bachelors know more than wives.

These truths, long secretly suspected by men themselves, have been more or less scientifically proved by two young producers, Dan Enright and Jack Barry. The pair produce two NBC-TV network quiz shows, "Twenty-One" and "The Tic Tac Dough," on which some 1,600 contestants have won $1,200,000 in the last 18 months.

During that time 17,000 aspirants took a preliminary general information quiz of 100 questions. So, if you want to know what your chances of getting on such a program are, here is your answer: The odds are better than 10-1 against you.

The wedding-out written examination has led to some disclosures that might interest psychologists as well as educators. "For one thing," said Enright, "although housewives make up the largest single group to apply as contestants, they do the poorest."

"They simply don't have the range of knowledge that men do. Housewives usually can answer more than 60 per cent of the 100 questions.

"Men, on the other hand, get about 70 per cent correct answers—and so do career women. The reason that career women do so well is probably because they have to compete with men in the business world so they strive to keep better informed."

But Enright, wary of stirring up the wrath of housewives, readily admitted they had a realm of knowledge all their own—the art of homemaking—which is rarely investigated on quiz shows. "They simply don't have the time to run their homes and still pick up all the general information their husbands know," he said. "In their free time, they like to escape from their cares. They want relaxation and entertainment, not heavy reading about world affairs."

Generally, whether housewives or career gals, don't do quite as well as men even if tests show they are of real contestant caliber. Enright still isn't sure why.

"One psychologist explained it was because women are naturally more averse than men to being challenged and placed in a position where they might publicly fail. But I'm not so sure that's so. After all, as many women risk marriage as do men."

What occupational group does best on quiz shows? Oddly, it isn't teachers, doctors, engineers, scientists or lawyers.

"They are all tops in their specialties," said Enright. "But authors and newspapermen seem to have a wider range of information on general topics. They have to. It's the nature of their jobs."

Enright, only 40, has a pretty wide range himself. He began as a radio engineer, switched to programming because he felt his talents were too confined. He is quite philosophical about the attacks of critics against the quiz shows which have buttered his own bread golden.

"If there is a plethora of any type of program," he said, "it isn't because there is an obsolete group of network officials and sponsors trying to force their own ideas on the public. It's because the public, as best they can tell, want this type of entertainment."

"We are dealing with the most ephemeral thing in the world—a public taste. Anybody who can call his shots right on public taste can write his own check. These things do run in cycles. There will probably always be room for a good quiz show as long as it remains entertaining, but the period in which quiz programs were pre-eminent is past. We're in the Western show cycle now."

Well, how about the next cycle? Will it combine the quiz show and the cowboy opera?

"No," said Enright, smiling. "I don't think most contestants would do very well on horseback."

TRUMAN VETOES CAB RULINGS
Time and again, Harry S. Truman rejected decisions by the Civil Aeronautics Board on the granting of airplane routes. On one occasion, he vetoed CAB's ruling several times until he got what he wanted, although all the evidence was adverse to Truman's favorite line.

Incidentally, the aviation firm aided by Truman has also had legislative assistance from Representative Oren Harris, Arkansas Democrat, who heads the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. Although Representative Morgan M. Moulder of Missouri heads the investigating subcommittee, Harris is actually bossing and directing the inquiry.

It may be, as charged by Bernard Schwartz, the subcommittee's young, collegiate counsel, that many commissioners have accepted gifts improperly from industries in their charge. In view of the gifts bestowed upon Presidents, Members of Congress, Cabinet members and four-star generals and admirals, nobody on Capitol Hill wants to cast the first stone in that direction. It might hit too many eminent in the Nation's Capital.

Transportation In U. S. Undergoing Revolution

By WILLIAM FERRIS
Associated Press Writer
The United States is undergoing a revolution in transportation. It is as significant as the shift from the canal barge and the lake steamer to the train, as profound as the change from the horse and buggy to the trolley and interurban express. It affects us all. It is a revolution which will accelerate enormously in the next few years. It will leave us a different country than we were at the end of World War II. There are these immediate developments: Railroads all over the country are cutting down on passenger service. Famous-name trains are being curtailed or consolidated just as surely as branch line locals. Says Ben Heineman, board chairman of the Chicago & North Western: "Our competitor is not the bus or the airplane. It is the private automobile." Airplane travel has become the top method of public long-distance transportation. Yet the airlines themselves are hard pressed to make money, wondering how they can finance the movement into the jet age. The intercity bus line is falling behind in the race to keep up with airplanes and private automobiles. As for the smaller urban and suburban lines—in many a town the last bus has rolled into the garage, the doors have been locked and the company has gone out of business. Still more lines have cut back on service. The bus lines have folded because of lack of patronage. The attitude of Dr. Gerald Timmis, a resident physician at Harper Hospital in Detroit, is typical: "I drive 10 miles because I can make it much faster than commuting on the Detroit street railway." Everywhere there is the automobile. Three out of every four families in the United States own a car. There are 56 million cars on the road today compared with 26 million at the end of World War II. Twelve out of every hundred families own more than one car, compared with only three such families a decade ago. Suburban living has increased the demand. Improved vehicles have stimulated demand—automatic transmissions, power steering, power brakes, greater use of the V8 engine. Cars have grown more dependable. As Americans have rushed to buy cars, the cars themselves have undergone a transition. They are longer, wider, sleeker. This is Detroit style and underneath its wide acceptance a curious revolt appears to be growing. The smaller car—a little less expensive to buy and considerably cheaper to operate—is gaining favor. Yet the large auto companies are convinced they are giving the public what it wants. Numerous consumer surveys have proved the appeal of the longer, lower cars. Most Americans like to roll in a style to impress other Americans.

A Midweek Roundup Of The Hollywood Story

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Midweek medley— Ernie Kovacs and Edie Adams are becoming Californians. Since Edie was sprung from "Li'l Abner," the talented pair has been renting a house here, and now they're negotiating for Henry Hathaway's three-acre estate. Ernie has been negotiating with CBS, and the network has told him he could do his TV work from either coast. He favors doing it here. With his picture work—he's starting "Bell, Book and Candle" with James Stewart and Kim Novak—and Edie's TV appearances, they'll concentrate on Hollywood. They've put the lid on Elvis. Hal Wallis has banned all interviews and set visitors while Presley is making "King Creole." The producer wants nothing to interfere with the film schedule, since CBS, and the network has told him he could do his TV work from either coast. Eddie Fisher was awakened at 3:30 the other morning by a phone call. "This is Mike," said the voice on the other end, just as clear as a bell. It was Mike Todd, calling from Moscow. The producer just phoned to chitchat. He reported that Liz Taylor was knocking the Russians dead. Sad to hear that Barry Fitzgerald is still very ill after his stroke and won't be able to make the Disney leprechaun picture. It was scheduled to start soon. Walter Slezak, coming West for a TV show, figured he would save some money on laundry by bringing some new drip dry shirts. They're the kind you can wash by hand, hang up and wear without ironing. The only trouble: he forgot the washing instructions. So he called his wife in New York and talked for 44 minutes, thereby wiping out whatever he would have saved on the laundry bill.

Recession Beginning Hit Some Stockholders Hard

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — The recession has begun to jolt some stockholders. Dividend payments in December dropped 100 million dollars below the year-before level. In January sliding sales volume or rising operating costs or both led at least 49 boards of directors to trim dividend payments or put them off altogether. The total paid stockholders is still high. The majority of corporations have maintained regular payments and some have increased them. But it's the string of deferrals or omissions in January that hurts — both the stockholders involved and in many cases the prices of the stocks. For all of 1957 the Department of Commerce reports 11 1/2 billion dollars paid out in cash to stockholders. This is 200 million dollars, or 2 per cent, better than payments in 1956, but that year had seen an 8 per cent rise over 1955. In 1957 October as well as December showed a dip in year-to-year comparisons. In January the trend toward caution in directors' board rooms continued. While most stood pat on old rates and 23 firms raised dividends, 24 cut them and an additional 21 companies either omitted or deferred any payments. It was these 21 that raised investors' eyebrows. One of the last official acts of the late Robert R. Young was to preside over a board meeting that omitted dividend payments on New York Central stock. The mighty Pennsylvania Rail Road deferred action. Investors interpreted these decisions as dramatizing the plight of the carriers, who have seen freight loadings and other revenues slip while costs mounted. Others taking no action on dividends include: Pittsburgh Steel, Foster Wheeler, Freuhauf Trailer, Elgin National Watch, Superior Tool & Die, Jacob Ruppert, American Window Glass, Wyandotte Worsted, Telautograph, California Eastern Aviation, American Pulley and International Railways of Central America. Deferring action at this time are: Minneapolis-Moline and Detroit Steel. Rheem Manufacturing and Yates-American Machine passed dividends. The market as a whole, however, advanced for the month of January. The Associated Press index of 60 stocks started the new year at 154.73 and ended January at 162.60. Even the rails staged a 10-point gain. Despite the bad showing of December, companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange paid out in 1957 a record high of 8 1/2 billion dollars, the Exchange magazine reports, for a gain of 5 per cent over 1956. It says 459 paid larger cash dividends in 1957 and 156 paid less. There were 225 common stock listed on the big board that yielded 8 per cent or better. For all dividend-paying stocks the yield averaged 6.1 per cent. The record average yield was set at the end of 1941, at 9 per cent. In 1945 the average yield dipped below 4 per cent.

Across The Nation, Motorists Are Cashing In On Price Wars

By WALTER BREEDE
NEW YORK (AP) — Budget-minded motorists are cashing in on the biggest nationwide epidemic of gasoline price wars since World War II. There's a suburb of Boston where you can drive up to a service station and fill your tank with 20 gallons of gasoline for less than $4. The retail price — 9 1/2 cents a gallon — includes 8 1/2 cents in state and federal taxes. Normally you'd pay about 30 cents. Cut-rate bargains in gasoline are available, too, in such widely separated areas as Springfield, Mass.; Hartford, Conn.; Providence, R.I.; Norfolk, Va.; Charlotte, N.C.; Dallas; Detroit; Philadelphia; St. Louis; and along the Puget Sound. Oil company officials are worried. In localities where price wars conditions are keen, major companies sell gasoline to their dealers at prices substantially below cost. Declares one harassed executive: "It's free competition at work, and I don't know where it's going to end." Behind the rash of price wars are two factors: a huge buildup of supply and lower-than-expected demand. "The general business recession is partly responsible," a New York marketing expert explains. "People are worried about layoffs and loss of overtime; they're watching their pennies. They're NOT driving around as much as they would if times were good." New car sales are down sharply from a year ago and this, too, has kept gasoline consumption from rising as fast as in prior years. The trucking industry — another big user of gasoline — has shifted into second gear. With business off in many lines, there's less freight to be moved on the highways. The big buildup in gasoline supplies — inventories at latest count totaled more than 8 1/2 billion gallons — stems in part from the refining industry's massive expansion program. Since Korea, oil companies have spent billions on spanking new, super-efficient refining plants. Now they have more capacity than they can use. When a refiner finds a big surplus of gasoline on his hands he can do one of two things: curtail output or "dump" the surplus at cut-rate prices. This dumping usually involves sale of the surplus gasoline to a small independent distributor who markets the fuel under his own brand name. Since he bought the gasoline more cheaply than his competitors who handle nationally advertised brands, he can afford to sell it at a lower price. When this private brand gasoline appears on the market, competing retailers slash their prices, too. Major companies that supply them are then compelled to grant wholesale discounts from the posted wholesale price so the retailer can meet the lower price of the competing private brand without going bankrupt. And before you know it, full-scale war is on.

Sea Water Said Only Real Hope

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — A University of North Carolina physicist says sea water is the only long-time hope we have for an adequate resource material to keep up with the heavy demand for electric power. Prof. Everett Palmatier said in an interview yesterday "There is an almost inexhaustible supply of deuterium in the ocean. In fact, we could increase our power consumption by many fold and still have enough fuel from the ocean to run for a billion years." The problem, he said, is to find ways of harnessing the power of the oceans by extracting deuterium from sea water. Earlier, Prof. Palmatier, chairman of the UNC Physics Department, told the Faculty Club sources of power and fuel for energy purposes of war and peace are rapidly running out. Discussing the present programs for shooting missiles from the earth, Prof. Palmatier said the next big event is logically the "trip of a rocket to the moon and return with man as a passenger." He said the trick is not so much to shoot the man to the moon in a rocket, but it is to get him there and back. "The cost of doing that, the expense of the fuel involved," he added, "would put a crimp in the national debt."

The Sports Reflector

By BILLY ARNOLD

Yesterday was one of those days for us. We made a mess of things all the way around.

We announced the staging of the Rose High School vs. Chicod ball game for last night. The game is scheduled to take place tonight at Junius Rose Gym instead, 8:00.

We also made a boner in listing the Northeastern Conference standings. Here they are, complete through today, including last night's games:

Table with 2 columns: Team Name and Score. Includes New Bern, Greenville, Kinston, Washington, Jacksonville, Roanoke Rapids, Elizabeth City.

As if that weren't enough, we went and picked East Carolina to edge Appalachian by about 12 points. What happened? The Pirates made a rout of it, whipping the Apps by 36 points, 94-58.

Junior High Wins

Greenville's Junior High schoolers won last night, tripping a stubborn Class AAA Rocky Mount club, 36-35, there. It was the eighth victory of the season for Coach Milton Reece's outfit, against only one defeat.

If Greenville can keep Reece's combination of McArthur, James, Jenkins, Joyner, Andresen, Carraway, and Smoot together for four years, Rose High should burn up the Northeastern Conference in 1962.

Pitt Leaders Win

Both Ayden and Stokes-Pactolus, leaders in the Pitt County Conference basketball standings, won last night, to secure their positions.

Ayden, pacing the boys bracket, posted a 60-30 win over Grifton to up their record to 11-2. Stokes-Pactolus' girls whipped out a 52-24 victory over Bethel to make their mark 12-2. Chicod, trying to keep in step with the Ayden boys, dumped Winterville 49-44 to fix their second-place ranking with a 9-3 total.

An interesting note: all three Pitt County conference matches last night ended in sweeps. Chicod won both the boys and girls games over Winterville; Ayden took both from Grifton; Stokes-Pactolus snared two from Bethel.

Bad Night For Scorers

It was a bad night last night for Pitt County's individual scoring stars. Chicod's Jim Fornes' 35-point average was knocked in the head when Winterville held him to only 17 points. It was his lowest output of the year. Dorothy Evans, Winterville's prolific scoring ace, who has tallied over 40 points several times this year, was held to a meager 14.

Word from Washington tells us that Wardie Marslander, the Pam-Pack's big shooting star was held down to six points last night against Roanoke Rapids.

There were no individual scoring stars in East Carolina's 94-58 rout of Appalachian, either. The highest individual total of the night for the Bucs was Jess Curry's 15—but five other ECC boys hit in the double figures.

East Carolina Activity

Athletics are in full swing at East Carolina college at the present. The basketball team is, of course, in full bloom right now. But in the background, the Buc football team is going through the motions of spring practice, the swimming team is also competing, and Coach Jim Mallory is looking forward to baseball practice soon.

Jack Boone, football mentor, is working out with almost 80 grid candidates, the largest number ever to apply for spring drill. And he seems pleased.

Mallory said last night that he has cooked up a "beautiful" schedule for the Pirate baseballers this spring, although it has not yet been approved.

Benefit Tonight

A final word on the benefit tonight at Junius Rose gym: It will feature Chicod's high-scoring Jimmy Fornes and the No. 2 ranked Pitt County Chicod club against Greenville's second-ranked Northeastern conference club. And it will be staged for a worthy cause: the March of Dimes.

Six Pirates Score In Double Figure Brackets

East Carolina College's Pirates primed themselves for their stretch run in the North State Conference by running rough-shod over Appalachian's Mountaineers here last night.

The Pirates stomped the West-erners, 94-58, in a game that was never anything but one-sided. The victory pushed the Bucs' conference record to 5-6 and set the stage for their trip to Rocky Mount Thursday night to meet arch-rival Atlantic Christian.

Jessel Curry, Don Smith, Joe Plaster, Ike Riddick and Harold Ingram, the Pirates' starting five, and Charlie Adams, the team's top substitute, all hit the double figures to wreck any ideas the Mountaineers had for an upset. Appalachian did manage to salvage individual scoring honors for the game, however, on the strength of Rick Howe's 19-point performance.

East Carolina never trailed after Curry opened the scoring when the game was only 14 seconds old. By the time the game was ten minutes old, the Pirates had opened up a ten-point lead which was extended to 18 points, 44-26, at the half.

Shortly after the second half opened, East Carolina's big guns banged away steadily to build up a 34-point lead that was handed to substitutes who played most of the last quarter. The crowd of about 1,500 fans called for 100 points, but the pace by both teams dropped steadily in the last eight minutes and the Pirates never came close to the three-figure total.

Curry, the Pirates' scoring leader all season, led again last night with 15 points but he had almost more help than he needed to handle Appalachian. Smith and Plaster got 13 apiece, Riddick collected 12, and Adams and Ingram got ten apiece.

In addition to their offensive shows, Plaster and Smith led one of the most effective rebounding jobs turned in by East Carolina this year. Plaster led the way in rebounding on his team mates' shots and then teamed with Smith to control the defensive backboard.

Last night's victory left the Pirates with five conference games to play. First of those will come tomorrow in Rocky Mount when the Bucs meet ACC's fast-improving Bulldogs. After the game tomorrow, ECC will have road games with Elon and Catawba, and home games with Atlantic Christian and High Point.

Four ACC Teams In Top 20 - Big Blowout Expected

Scores

Table with 2 columns: Team Name and Score. Lists scores for various ACC teams like Pitt, Connecticut, St. Johns, etc.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Atlantic Coast Conference, leading the nation's basketball loops with four members in the top 20 teams this week, is no place for faint hearts.

Something's got to give, and the question is whose fancy record will pick up the tarnish in the face of rugged homestretch competition.

North Carolina, the ACC defending champion, woke up today in a second place tie with surging Duke, which downed Clemson, 73-57, for its sixth straight victory last night in Charlotte.

Meanwhile, North Carolina State took over sole possession of first place from the Tar Heels by beating Virginia, 61-58, at Portsmouth, Va.

The big shift in standings makes this Saturday's Duke at North Carolina game a crucial one. Duke ranks No. 13 in the Associated Press listing this week, while North Carolina is No. 7.

Ninth-ranked State goes against the ACC cellar club, South Carolina, also on Saturday, while Maryland (No. 8) plays Virginia on Friday and Wake Forest on Saturday.

The ACC tournament is scheduled to begin March 6, and virtually all games this month are within the conference, making it rough for any one team to pile up an impressive record in the tough ACC.

In last night's contests, Duke scored an easy win over Clemson as Bob Vernon dropped in 24 points. Three other Blue Devils shot in the double figures, Paul Schmidt (15), Jim Newcome (13) and Bobby Joe Harris (13).

Clemson's George Krajack hit 14, and Bill Warren and Vince Yockel got 11 each.

Meanwhile, N.C. State, led by John Richter's 19 and Whitey Bell's 16, fought off a stubborn Virginia drive in the second half to take the 61-58 win. Cavalier high scorers were Herb Busch with 21 and John Siewers with 15 points.

High Scorer For Phantomites

BILLY JAMES . . . paced 36-35 victory.

Phantomites Win Eighth, Topple R. Mount, 36-35

ROCKY MOUNT—Coach Milton Reece's Junior high school cagers came here last night and eked out a 36-35 victory over the Rocky Mount junior high Blackbirds.

It was the second time this season the Phantomites claimed victory over the Rocky Mount team. In the first game, they turned the trick by 17 points.

Not so last night, however. The hosts ran up a quick lead in the first quarter and commanded an 18-14 spread at halftime.

It was a hot third-quarter surge by the Phantomites, netting them 17 points, that put them ahead. The Birds then went into a semi-stall in the final period, and managed to pick up 10 points to Greenville's five. But the Phantomites won, 36-35.

Billy Neal James was high scorer for the Greenies, who were claim-

Ralph Dupas To Put Record On The Line Tonight

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Light-weight Ralph Dupas of New Orleans, who went through 1957 without losing a fight, will try to continue his streak of successes tonight against welterweight Gaspar Ortega of Mexico.

The two meet in the 11th annual March of Dimes Boxing Carnival at the Norfolk City Arena.

Dupas, the second-ranked lightweight, who won six and drew one bout last year, may realize a lifelong ambition.

Sources in New Orleans have indicated a good showing against Ortega could give Dupas a bout with lightweight champion Joe Brown. There were reports such a fight would be staged on barges in the Gulf of Mexico.

"I'd fight Brown in the street with a ring around us. I want that lightweight crown," Dupas said.

Ortega, the fifth-ranked welterweight, expects to weigh about 145 pounds. Dupas expects to come in at about 141.

"In very good shape," Ortega said last night in one of his rare English statements. The Mexican is a 7-5 underdog.

This is a prestige match for Ortega too. He lost a possible welterweight title bout when he dropped a decision to Isaac Lortart, and he could lose more valuable ground if he's defeated tonight.

Dupas has won 68 fights, lost 8 and tied 6, while Ortega has won 45 and dropped 11.

ABC will telecast nationally.

Yardley, Hagen Set NBA Marks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS George Yardley and Cliff Hagen have written two more scoring records into the point-happy National Basketball Assn.'s book of facts.

Yardley, well on his way to the NBA scoring championship scored a season's high of 52 points last night as he led the Detroit Pistons to a 118-113 victory over the Syracuse Nationals at Detroit's Olympia Stadium.

Hagen's name goes in the space reserved for the fellow scoring the most points in one quarter of play. He had 26 in the fourth period at New York's Madison Square Garden, where the New York Knickerbockers whipped Hagen and the St. Louis Hawks, 120-116, after Boston had spurred to beat Cincinnati, 108-87.

Yardley's performance, during which he also grabbed 20 rebounds, came after Philadelphia's Warriors had opened a double-header at Detroit with a 107-103 victory over the Minneapolis Lakers. Long George hit 18 of 31 field goal attempts and 16 straight free throws. Both Yardley and Bob Pettit of St. Louis had scored 51 points in a single game earlier in the season.

The all-time NBA record is 63 points by Philadelphia's Joe Fulks against now-defunct Indianapolis in 1949.

Next on the card for Reece's club will be a return engagement with Kinston, the only team which has beaten them this season. It will be played in Greenville on February 13.

Fight Just Might Gross 2 Million

By MURRAY ROSE NEW YORK (AP)—Possibilities of a record two million dollars from closed circuit television of the return Carmen Basilio-Ray Robinson middleweight title fight may make pay-to-come-and-see television a potential rival to the coming pay-as-you-see video in the sports picture.

The two million figure was optimistically advanced today by officials of the TelePrompTer Corp., which is handling the television end of the March 25 title fight in Chicago.

The officials, President Irving Kahn and Vice President Bill Rosensohn, said they already have signed up 160 outlets with a seating capacity of 481,000.

"It's the largest network ever assembled for a closed circuit show," said Rosensohn. "We expect to have a record 200 theaters with a seating capacity of 550,000 hooked up for the fight. Of this, we expect between 450,000 and 475,000 to be sold at an average of $4 a seat."

"We could do two million dollars the way this is going," added Kahn. "We have just signed up the Cross County shopping center in Yonkers, N.Y. The operators plan to build a temporary stadium and have guaranteed us well in excess of 5,000 seats."

"In addition to theaters," said Rosensohn, "we have signed up arenas in Rochester, Syracuse, Houston, San Francisco and Louisville. We may get more buildings with huge seating capacities."

"Boxing men like Norm Rothschild in Houston and Rochester, Lou Viscusi in San Francisco and Lee Gorman in Bangor, Me., are promoting the shows in their towns. Rothschild and Viscusi are going to have preliminary fights as an added attraction. Flaherty and Dick Lane, 162, Boise, 3.

Other boxing men may do the same thing.

TelePrompTer long has been the giant of the closed circuit television industry but the coming title fight is their first major venture into boxing. At Ray Robinson's insistence, TelePrompTer was permitted to bring four outlets into the last Robinson-Basilio closed circuit hookup. The major portion was handled by Theater Network Television, Inc., which had handled all of the previous theater-telecasts of International Boxing Club fights.

TelePrompTer outbid TNT for the rights to the return fight.

Deadliest Gunman In Texas

By MALLORY STORM

Cal Langtry, a triggerman with a reputation, is hired by a group of desperadoes to help save their homes and land. He's been given $2,500 in advance and promised a similar amount when he finishes his job — namely, to kill cattle king Ed Stow, who's bent on driving the ranchers out. Langtry arrives; announces he wishes to be known as Luce Devlin; pulls down the blankets that cover the windows of the ranchers' hideout; and indicates he's ready for action.

CHAPTER II
They watched as he moved to the front of the room and turned to face them. There was an easier atmosphere now. A sense of relief filling the air as though they were now under his protection and were safe. He had about him an aura of confidence and certainty of which they were in sore need. Cavanaugh opened his mouth to speak, but Devlin held up one hand. "Who's in authority here? Who's ramrodding the outfit?"

Faces turned toward Cavanaugh in silent indication. "Then you're the party who contacted a man in San Antonio?" "That's right," Cavanaugh said. "I'll ask the questions and you answer. Now — who is it you want killed?"

"A man named Stow. A big cattle owner. He's burning our grain and stampeding cattle over our land. Two settlers have been killed by his men."

"Why don't you go to the law?" Cavanaugh gave a bitter laugh. "The law? That's Paul Kogan, the town marshal. He stays drunk all day in the saloon Stow owns. Kogan can't even sit a horse."

"What proof have you got that Stow is behind your trouble?" To the men, this seemed like strange talk from an outlaw. They bewildered them; even as they were bewildered by that mockery that stayed in his voice. They felt like children being questioned.

"All the proof in the world," Cavanaugh said. "First, he's ordered us off what he calls his range. He says if we don't go he'll see that we don't raise a stalk of grain. Then too, there isn't anybody else who would care a tinker's dam whether we stayed or went. We're not in anybody else's way."

"What damage has been done? Who has been hurt — unlawfully?" The answer to this came from a dozen throats — a babble of sound. Devlin held up his hand. "One at a time. Let's take some testimony." He pointed to Vince Lee. "You first."

Lee got to his feet. "I got a hundred and eighty acres up north," he said. "About two weeks ago a thousand or so head of cattle were stampeded straight across my place. They beat sixty acres of good wheat plumb into the ground."

"Maybe it was an accident. A bolt of lightning might of started it." Lee scowled. "Maybe, but a bolt of lightning couldn't have sent me a note next day telling me the cattle would be back if I didn't get out."

Devlin glanced out the window. Dawn had broken and the world was filled with feeble gray light. "Anybody else had their crops trampled? Raise your hands." A dozen hands went up in silence. Cavanaugh stared silently at the imported gunman. What was behind this questioning? Was he intending a double-cross? Maybe this was his way of finding out how big a gorge he could make. Cavanaugh was suddenly frightened at what he had done. The nesters had climbed on the tiger and maybe they wouldn't be able to get off.

"I heard something about fires, too," Devlin said. "That's right," Tom Teller called out. "Six of us has had night fires started. Never in the daytime. That varmint's gang drags burning gunny sacks through the fields. Then they take pot shots at us when we come to put them out."

"Anyone been killed?" There was a moment of dead silence. Then Cavanaugh said, "Will Brady was found shot in the back, hanging over his plow last week. Two bullets."

"Was Stow responsible?" "What do you think?" Devlin pushed the Statson back off his forehead. This revealed ringlets of black curly hair and made him look young, attractive, inexperienced. Then he dropped suddenly onto a chair and slid one of the big .44s into his palm. He stared at the gun, seemingly not to see it. He broke it abruptly, quipped into the cylinder, snapped it shut. They watched him in fascination, and with a certain fear.

"What do you want me to do?" Cavanaugh answered nervously. "Why — why we figured the only way to save ourselves is to have Stow dead. We want him killed."

"You want me to walk up and draw on him — is that it?" "That's — it. That's what we've paid you for."

Devlin grinned from some secret amusement. "What are my chances of catching him alone?" "Not too good. His gang sticks pretty close to him. But — well, you've killed men before in your life, quipped into the cylinder, snapped it shut. They watched him in fascination, and with a certain fear.

"Besides you took our money," Law Bailey cut in. "You took half the pay in advance and made a deal."

Devlin turned his eyes on the men. The eyes darkened and chilled. "What makes you think an outlaw sticks to a deal?" "Then why did you come? You going to stick us up and clean us out?"

Devlin sneered. "What are you? A bunch of men or a pack of prairie gophers? Twenty or thirty of you sitting here scared one man will stick you up? Haven't you ever heard of fighting for your rights?"

There was shuffling of feet and swollen faces. "We're farmers," someone finally said. "We ain't fighters. That's why we hired you."

"Farmers — miners — beer hall bums! What difference does that make? Even a cur mongrel will fight if you back it into a corner and kick it."

"You're asking, I guess, Cavanaugh said, "Why we haven't gunned Stow down ourselves?" "Maybe."

"Let's put it this way. If we had there wouldn't be any work for you." Devlin grinned again. "Tell me about this man Stow. Where does he spend his time? Where can I usually find him?"

"He owns the Poker Chip, a saloon over in Blue Sky. That'd be your best bet. You can catch him there when he isn't out at his flat."

Circle spread." "Is he a fast draw?" Devlin's voice had turned lazy now under what was almost a smile. He seemed to be bailing them again. "I wouldn't think you'd be worrying about that. He certainly ain't as fast as some of the men you've killed."

"The men I've killed," Devlin repeated softly. "I — what — the hell?" He sprang from his chair, as did everyone else who was seated, and jumped toward a window. Dawn had become a reality and the silence of early morning had been broken by a thunder of quick hoof-beats.

The sound deepened, and the nesters saw a large group of riders come galloping up the road. They were obviously heading for the Cavanaugh place.

"Stow and his cutthroats," Teller gasped. "What's he up to?" No one had a reply as they watched the horsemen pull up about five hundred yards from the house and start milling.

"That's Stow on the big black," Cavanaugh told Devlin. Devlin spotted a big, authoritative looking man in the middle of the group. He wore black, matching the horse's coat, and a snowy white Stetson. "Tough looking hombre," Devlin observed. "Must have all of forty riders with him. And he knows something too. This isn't just a casual visit."

As the nesters watched, a single rider trotted forward away from the main body. He came toward the house, carrying a white handkerchief tied to the end of a six-gun. They waited.

Marshal Paul Kogan sides with Ed Stow and his men and demands the ranchowner's surrender in tomorrow's installment of DEADLIEST GUNMAN IN TEXAS, IN THE Daily Reflector.

Expert Can Also Make Mistakes
MILWAUKEE (AP) — An excited woman called the Wisconsin Humane Society.

"Send somebody quick," she said. "There's a baby moose on our front lawn."
The man asked her how she knew it was a moose.
"My husband said so," she replied. "He ought to know. He's been hunting for 20 years."
The humane society man went out on the call. He found a woodchuck.

Compactness Was Physicist's Job

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The work of a Philadelphia physicist for the past 18 months gives you an idea of the complex gadgets inside the Explorer satellite.
Dr. J. Lloyd Bohn of the Temple University physics department was responsible for the device which records the impact of small meteorite particles striking Explorer's surface.
Called a micrometeorite impact counter, it originally weighed 28 pounds and measured 8 by 12 inches. Dr. Bohn spent a year and a half reducing the counter to about the size of a package of gum weighing only a few ounces, he said.

Good Results In Home Hunting

CHEEROKEE, Okla. (AP) — Rabbits visiting the backyard of Barbara Robbins' farm quickly became rabbit stew, thanks to a dog and stove pipe.
The pipe leads to the Robbins cellar. An ell-shaped arm is attached to the top at ground level.
The Robbins dog herds the visiting Brer Rabbit into the ell. Mrs. Robbins then goes to the cellar and picks up her rabbit.
So far, four have been caught. But one of the bunnies got fouled up in the electric wires, short-circuiting all the house lights.

$100 Millions Is Lost Each Year

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Did you know that Americans lose over 100 million dollars every year because of careless handling?
That's the estimate of the American Express Co. in a nationwide survey.
Horace Foulks, representing American Express, said the survey showed most of this money could be saved by more care.
He said that besides pocket-picking and bag-snatching, people lose money by leaving it in hotel rooms, hiding it in furnaces and other odd places, mailing it in letters that carry no return addresses, and letting it slip through holes in clothes.

Unlucky Speeder Made A Mistake

ROCKY MOUNTAIN NATIONAL PARK, Colo. (AP) — Robert C. Hughes of West minister, Colo., will be mighty careful when he passes another car doing 55 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone hereafter.
Hughes was arrested for doing just that. The car he passed was that of Wayne H. Hackett, national park commissioner who judges traffic violation cases in the park. Riding with Hackett were Chief Judge John Biggs Jr. of the U.S. Third Circuit Court of Appeals from Wilmington, De., and U. S. District Judge J. Skelly Wright of New Orleans.
Hughes was fined $25.

NEW YORK (N.C.D.A.)— The stock market was irregularly lower in fairly active trading early this afternoon. Most industrials were lower but aircrafts were a bit to the good and leading rails were ahead on average. Gains and losses of key stocks went from fractions to about a point.

The market was lower at the start as profit-taking trimmed gains of the past two vigorous sessions. The ticker tape was behind floor transactions for three minutes at the opening.

Failure of Martin Co.'s satellite-carrying Vanguard missile had an unfavorable psychological effect. President Eisenhower's statement that the administration might recommend a tax cut if the business upturn to develop about midyear was followed by improvement in the aircrafts and selected issues in other groups.

Mostly steady declines were fractional. Martin Co. dropped 1 1/2 to 33 on its opening block of 2,500 shares. For a while it deepened its loss, then cut it to about a point.

Steels, motors, rubbers, chemicals and oils were lower. While most leading rails showed scant change, a gain of a point by Illinois Central and of a good fraction by New York Central helped tilt this average to the plus side.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 30 cents to 164.70 at noon with the industrials off $1.00, the rails up 30 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Young Girl Beaten And Slashed By Gang

CHICAGO (AP)— An 11-year-old white girl was beaten and brutally slashed by a gang of teenage Negro boys as she walked to a South Side grocery last night.

Police, making a house-to-house search for the attackers, picked up 11 Negro boys during the early morning hours for questioning. Four were released later. Police said one of the boys questioned was wearing blood-stained shoes.

Police Commissioner Timothy O'Connor directed some 230 detectives and patrolmen in a search for the attackers.

Lt. Donald S. Keever said the girl was dragged through an alley to the rear of a building, stripped of her Brownie scout uniform, beaten and stabbed. He said "an unknown instrument, possibly a pop bottle," was used in the attack. Keever said there apparently was no rape.

The girl was reported in "fair" condition at Englewood Hospital. Keever said a 15-year-old boy told police he saw a group of youths emerge from the alley and said they "walked away laughing." The boy provided the first name of one youth and the school he attended.

The attack on the girl began when one youth yelled, "Let's hear her yell," police said. Police officials estimated the girl lay half an hour in the alley before she was wrapped her torn garments about her and crawled to her home a few doors away, leaving a trail of blood.

Her mother said the girl gasped out the story of the attack and rushed her to the hospital.

A hunting knife sheath, suitable for a six-inch blade, and a man's glove, apparently Army issue, were found at the scene, police said.

The FBI said four or five youths attacked her. Police described them as 14 to 15 years old and dressed in black jackets and blue jeans.

Both whites and Negroes live in the neighborhood where the attack occurred.

Search Started By TV 'Voice'

GREENSBORO (AP)— A strange voice cut into a telecast and cried: "I need help... doesn't anybody hear me?"

Mrs. Betsy Martindale of Burlington, apparently the only one who got the message, heeded the call yesterday and telephoned officers in this area. She said the man's voice attempted to call Greensboro and give a patrol car number. It told of someone being in a creek.

Officers began a widespread search and checked on all patrolmen, both on and off duty, in the area. They were accounted for.

Highway patrol officials theorized the incident could have been a prank set off by someone using a radio transmitter. Or it was a "ship" in radio waves originating hundreds of miles away.

A patrol car transmitted in Mrs. Martindale's neighborhood, but officers found the only time her car picked up their transmission was when the car lined up directly before her house.

Some technicians guessed that M. Martindale's TV set needed adjustment to cut out radio reception.

Mountains Still Locked In Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Mountainous sections of North Carolina remained locked in the grip of the winter's worst snowfall today, but the rest of the state looked for warmer temperatures and scattered thundershowers.

While most Tar Heels began to thaw out rain began falling in Western North Carolina this morning and was reported freezing in Swain and Cherokee counties.

At Mt. Mitchell, the highest peak east of the Mississippi, snow was reported 25 inches deep. A low of 11 degrees was reported last night with near freezing temperatures still prevailing over most of the area.

An inch of snow fell in Swain County last night and schools in most mountain counties remained closed. Included were schools in Swain, Watauga, Madison and parts of Avery County.

For the rest of the state, the predicted highs today were around 50 degrees with general scattered rains.

Some representative high temperatures around the state yesterday and last night included: Asheville, 35 and 27; Charlotte 47 and 28; Greensboro, 42 and 23; Raleigh 44 and 26; and Wilmington 47 and 32.

Peron Shifts His Strategy

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)— Juan D. Peron has abandoned demands that his followers in Argentina cast blank ballots in the Feb. 23 elections and urged them to vote for any candidate opposing the present regime.

The ex-dictator made the announcement in an interview yesterday at his quarters in the Hotel Jaragua. He fled from Venezuela to the Dominican Republic, which is ruled by dictator Rafael Trujillo after the Venezuelans kicked out dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez.

Peron said he had ordered his Peronista movement "not to elect any candidates in the election and not to vote en blanco."

"We are freeing our people to vote in any form they consider best to fight against Argentine tyranny and to express their contempt for politics followed in Argentina's political, social and economic affairs," he said. He voiced confidence the Argentine vote would destroy the "continuing plans for tyranny."

Peron's supporters cast more than two million blanks—just over a fourth of the votes—in the election of a constituent assembly last July.

The election Feb. 23 will choose 466 presidential electors who will name Argentina's new president and vice president March 31. Members of Peron's former regime and of Argentina's present provisional government are barred from running.

Peron endorsed no candidate specifically and denied reports of an agreement to swing Peronista support to Nationalist candidate Arturo Frondizi in return for permission for him to return to Argentina.

Damage to both vehicles was estimated at approximately $500. Police said.

One Of Most Wanted Bad Check Artists Is Captured

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)— The FBI announced today the arrest here of one of the nation's most wanted bad check artists whose slipup was the eagle eye of a 16-year-old high school student 3,500 miles away.

M. P. Chiles, special agent in charge of the FBI office in Charlotte, said William Omand Bower, 63, was arrested on a street here last night. Chiles said Bower is known by more than 100 other names and has operated "Coast-to-coast and border-to-border" since his release from the U.S. Penitentiary at Atlanta in December of 1956.

Bower was charged with violation of the interstate stolen property statute regarding the passing of fraudulent documents in interstate commerce.

The FBI gave this account of events leading to Bower's capture:

Peter William Beck, 16-year-old high school sophomore at Kalamazoo, Mich., acted as a chauffeur for Bower last summer. Under the impression Bower was a successful businessman, Beck drove Bower about the nation. Recently young Beck spotted Bower's picture on a wanted poster and notified the FBI. He recalled that Bower had mentioned the name of a friend living in Wilmington.

Chiles said the FBI began watching the friend's house here and arrested Bower last night shortly after he left the friend's house.

Bower's method of operation, Chiles said, was to represent himself as a prominent businessman, deposit a certified draft ranging from $2,500 to $40,000 in a bank or savings and loan association, and then issue checks against the accounts.

Bowers, though armed with two loaded pistols, offered no resistance. The FBI said they found on him 10 fraudulent bank books showing deposits in various banks in eight states totaling $228,270, and deposit slips showing deposits in banks totaling $34,600.

Also seized were four counterfeit certified checks worth $4,690 and made out on a bank in Miles City, Mont.; two $5,400 checks on a bank in Texarkana, Tex., and a $5,400 check on a bank in Montgomery, Ala.

Chiles said Bower was using the Carolinas as a base of operations and was beginning wide-scale operations on the eastern seaboard.

Chiles said Bower had struck four times in the Carolinas within the past year. The special agent said Bower passed a worthless check on a Charlotte bank in March of 1957; at Wilmington August of 1957; at New Bern Jan. 2, 1958; and again at Conway, S.C., Jan. 4. He also passed a bad check at a Petersburg, Va. bank in July of 1957 where he obtained $500.

Chiles said Bower had been using the name of George Ellington and was wanted in at least 16 states.
