Space Guinea Pig Finds Ordeal Easy

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Airman Donald G. Farrell brushed his teeth and shaved this morning just like many other husky 23-year-olds — except that he is pretending to be on a trip to the moon. The blond six-footer from the Bronx was squeezed Sunday into a 3-by-5-foot experimental sealed cabin, quickly dubbed a space barrel, at nearby Randolph Air Force Base.

Aurora Borealis Lit Up Night Sky

Spectacular lights in the northern skies last night were the North Carolina version of the Aurora Borealis. A rare display of the northern lights was visible for several hours in Pitt County. The great display of nature threw a red glow against the northern skies. The glow changed to pink at times. There were also streamers of light resembling search light beams running through the display.

Can Turn Tables With Proper Valentine Gift

By VIVIAN BROWN
AF Newsfeatures Writer

Turn the tables on that man. Put him in a mellow mood with a Valentine's gift. It's a thought that should soften the heart of the fiercest member of the species. It may even loosen his purse strings, and put a gift in your own mail box or vanity table.

A simple little gesture like a rose for his lapel before he takes off for work on Valentine's Day could put the married man in the "I-love-you" mood, three little words you may not have heard since the "I DOs." It may change his grudging goodbye to a big kiss.

A pot of tulips is an ideal little remembrance to the boss. Choose bright red tulips if he is the sad sack type, and needs a little livening. Yellow, the friendly color, and favorite of gregarious types, is an ideal one to choose for a warm greeting to the jolly boss. Pink will cheer him up, too, but make it a third choice. Many a grumpy employer has had a good day because a thoughtful member of his staff has placed a flower on his desk in the morning.

A man-bound gift should not be over-emphasized. An overwhelming gift will put him in an embarrassing position to reciprocate in kind, or send him dashing off in the other direction. You wouldn't want him to suspect that you are wooing him.

Take your favorite beau for instance. If you have no precedent for knowing whether he is the gift-giving type or not, then stick to the small remembrance—the buttonhole flower, a handkerchief with his initials, a bottle of shaving lotion—and present it casually when you see him on The Day. If he's a long time dater, and has made a point of fancy presents, then shoot the works in a more substantial gift, if you are in the mood.

Father has his hands in his pockets shelling out for posties and what have you, all the time, so the youngsters could come through with a few love tokens of their own. A Mom with a loaded allowance might use Valentine's Day as an excuse to give the man of the house a real present as a complete surprise: golf clubs, fishing rods, sports shirts, tie clip, cuff links, wrist watch or pocket radio.

A set of handsome drinking glasses that he can stash away for special occasions is another surefire gift. Perhaps those decorated with his favorite motif—horse, dog, bird, fish files—may perk up his outlook on life.

A small investment in a gift for a man goes a long way to improving relations between the sexes. It's the thought that counts with him.

E.C. Playhouse Begins Working On Annual Play For Children

The East Carolina Playhouse, college dramatic club, has begun work on a production of "The Sleeping Beauty," a three-act play for children.

The fairy tale, dramatized by the noted playwright Charlotte Choppenning, will be given four performances March 10-13 for the entertainment of pupils in Greenville and other Pitt county schools.

The play will be one of a series of dramas for young people presented annually by the East Carolina dramatic club under the auspices of the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women, begun in 1941, the series has the purpose of bringing enjoyable and wholesome drama to children in the county. More than 3,200 boys and girls made up audiences at last year's production of "Alladin and the Wonderful Lamp."

Dr. Joseph A. Withey of the college English department will supervise the production of the play and act as consultant to a production staff composed of student members of the East Carolina Playhouse.

Patsy A. Baker of Greenville will direct "The Sleeping Beauty." Sylvia J. Ruston of Laurel, Del., will serve as stage manager; and James E. Trice of Blades, Del., as technical director in charge of lighting, sound effects, and other aspects of production.

Doris F. Robbins, freshman from Roanoke Rapids, will have the title role. George W. Ray Jr. of Rt. 6, Durham, also a freshman at the college, will appear as the Prince. Ten other students are included in the supporting cast.

"The Sleeping Beauty" will be elaborately staged. Both music and dancing will contribute to the attractiveness of the production.

Woman's Club Goes Around-The-World

Mrs. Robert B. Starling was the guest speaker when the Greenville Woman's Club members met Friday at the club house for their general meeting.

She showed many slides of places and people which she encountered while she toured the world last summer. Mrs. Starling commented on each slide that she showed and gave highlights of her trip around-the-world.

The speaker stressed the importance of a closer international relationship. She said, "We need to develop a deeper understanding for our foreign neighbors so there will be peace and friendship among all of us. If we should strive to create a deeper devotion and love for them and try to understand their problems, needs and customs, we would have peace in the world in the years to come."

Mrs. Starling, a native costume, shared with the members and guests her collection of souvenirs which she acquired from the various countries.

Mrs. W. E. Roseveare, chairman of public affairs, introduced the speaker.

Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., president, presided over the business meeting. She welcomed the guests and members. Several projects were discussed and planned.

Mrs. D. D. Davis, chairman of the Oscar Award for Teachers, briefly summarized the steps that had been taken toward recognizing an outstanding teacher for the year. She stated that Miss Elizabeth Hyman had been selected by the committee as the most outstanding teacher for the year.

Mrs. Michael Luskin, chairman of international relations, reminded the group about the conference on "World Affairs" that was scheduled to be held in Chapel Hill on February 13.

She encouraged as many members as possible to attend the meeting. More than a dozen women said they would attend the conference. The club members voted to send five high school delegates to the meeting and pay their expenses.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, chairman of the Art Festival, outlined the Fine Arts projects for this year. She stated that various activities will spread over a period of three months, namely, March, April and May. However, she emphasized, "The highlight of these programs will be a Costume Ball to be ob-

"It is to be deeply regretted that the County Commissioners have decided to discontinue the work of protecting Pitt County's timberlands from fire," a local citizen interested in forest fire protection said today. "The board has failed to provide any amount of money sufficient to continue this important work during the present year. As a result, about $300 worth of fire fighting equipment will be withdrawn from the county for use in other localities where the seriousness is really appreciated."

Industrial Development Hit A Snag

Residents of Pitt County have a considerable stake in the economic development of surrounding counties as well as our own. Conversely, the residents of counties around Pitt have a considerable stake in the economic development of this county.

The Council of State has, perhaps unwittingly, made itself a stumbling block in the way of one industrial venture which could have far-reaching economic advantages for all of Eastern North Carolina.

In this area of Eastern North Carolina the creation of new industrial jobs in one locality is likely to have a healthy effect on other localities in several surrounding counties. We cite DuPont's major installation in Lenoir County. It has meant more to Kinston and Lenoir County than any other cities or counties in this area. At the same time, this one plant has provided a considerable number of jobs for people living in Pitt, Craven, Wayne and other counties of this area. Its location in this area has no doubt influenced the establishment of other operations that would not have been started in Eastern Carolina had DuPont located its big Dacron plant elsewhere.

We mention this for the purpose of pointing out the fact that Beaufort County should not be the only county interested in the proposals of Kennecott Copper company to establish large phosphate mining operations in Beaufort County.

If Kennecott, through its subsidiary Bear Creek Mining Company, is able to obtain leases on sufficient land in Beaufort County, its plans call for mining and processing the mineral in Beaufort County. The operation will provide several hundred jobs initially. To be sure many of them will be filled by people now living in Beaufort County. But some of the jobs will likely be filled by people living in Pitt, Pamlico, Hyde, Washington and perhaps other counties as well.

And if major phosphate mining and processing operations are begun in Beaufort we may expect allied operations providing an equal number or perhaps more jobs in this immediate area.

In short, prospects for a major industrial change and an equally significant economic change for this immediate area hinge on whether Kennecott can obtain the leases required for its operation.

Recognizing the economic impact such operations would have on this section, and also recognizing the wisdom of its action, the State Board of Conservation and Development approved granting Bear Creek Mining Company leases to mine phosphate beneath the Pamlico and Pungo Rivers in Beaufort County. The Council of State, however, failed to ratify the action by the Conservation and Development Board. The matter now hinges to a great degree on subsequent action by the Council of State.

We question the wisdom of the Council of State's position that leases for phosphate mining along the river bottoms in question should be offered to several companies rather than granted one company. We seriously doubt that more than one company would undertake large-scale phosphate mining and processing operations in an area the size of Beaufort County. We also regard as shallow the Council's questioning of the financial responsibility of the Bear Creek company which is a subsidiary of the world's twelfth largest corporation.

We look to the Council of State to act in the best interest of all the people of North Carolina in approving mineral and other leases on state lands. At the same time we expect the Council of State to view realistically the matters that come before it lest that body thwart economic progress where it is sorely needed in North Carolina.

Issue Of Fresh Money Raised

(Tom Turner, Guest Writer)

Thomas Turner, seven times member of the Legislature from Guilford county and a student of State government, was talking the other day about some of the fiscal problems facing the State. Your regular reporter asked him to do a guest column on the subject. Here it is:

Will the North Carolina General Assembly of 1959, in order to maintain the existing standards of State service be compelled to levy new taxes, or increase the taxes already existing? Will the revenue bill for this biennium produce a surplus, or will a deficit be reflected? If additional money is needed, will Governor Hodges recommend new taxes, additional taxes, or a curtailment of the services now furnished by the State? Will he recommend some novel and drastic reorganization of the State government, or fiscal system in lieu of new taxes?

These questions are beginning to press insistently upon members of the General Assembly who are contemplating seeking re-election, and those individuals who are weighing the decision to become a candidate for the General Assembly for the first time. History, and fairly recent history, has fully demonstrated that a session where changes in the revenue structure, or drastic changes in the State government are considered both is arduous and of long duration.

A brief analysis of the general fund budget of the State suffices to show that these questions are pertinent. There are a number of members of the General Assembly who feel, assuming that the people wish to maintain the present standard of the schools and other services, that the 1959 General Assembly will be faced with the problem of raising at least $33,000,000.00 by additional taxation.

The 1957 General Assembly for the biennium beginning July 1, 1957 and ending June 30, 1959 made appropriations for the general fund agencies, institutions and services of the State, including the statewide nine months school term, of $548,000,000. The revenue bill to raise the money to meet these expenditures was estimated to produce during this period $486,000,000. The revenue bill to raise the money to meet these expenditures was estimated to produce during this period $486,000,000. The difference between expenditures and revenue was balanced by the use of a credit balance of $62,000,000 in the general fund at the end of the biennium ending June 30, 1957. All of the figures used are round figures. In short, the general fund budget for this biennium was balanced by the use of surplus revenue accruing during the last biennium.

At first blush, assuming that the State will need the same amount for appropriations the next biennium and further that the present revenue bill will produce only $486,000,000 in this biennium or the next, it appears that it would be necessary to raise $62,000,000 in additional money. However, this is not correct as it fails to take into account appropriations for capital improvements during this biennium. The 1957 General Assembly appropriated $39,000,000 for capital improvements. Of this amount $13,000,000 is financed by bonds, and $26,000,000 from the surplus at the end of last biennium.

Hence, it may be said that $29,000,000 of the surplus was spent for non-recurring capital improvements for new and additional buildings and other installations. That these expenditures will not be required again in the next biennium. This may be true. Certainly, it is partially true, although it is doubtful that there ever has been or will be any biennium during which no capital expenditures are necessary. Nevertheless, $33,000,000 of the surplus was appropriated for the current running expenses of the State—for recurring expenses, salaries of school teachers and other State employees, among other things.

Where is the $33,000,000 coming from the next biennium? Perhaps, there will be a credit balance of this amount in the general fund at the end of this biennium. This seems very improbable. In the first place, the first $10,000,000 of any surplus is already appropriated to pay the general fund bonds authorized by the 1957 General Assembly. Thereafter, it is pledged for an additional salary raise to the school teachers. It is hardly likely that the revenue bill shall produce $486,000,000 plus $10,000,000 plus the amount necessary to raise the school teachers, and still have a credit balance at the end of the biennium.

Indeed, many members of the legislature now feel that it will not produce $486,000,000. It is pointed out that the advisory budget commission first estimated the revenue raise to be $483,000,000, and the additional estimate was made when the legislature, or the administration, needed additional funds to balance the budget. This was before the business recession which is presently prevailing. The revenue has barely held to estimates so far. Whether the income tax and the sales tax will meet expectations cannot be told until late this spring.

In the face of declining business indices throughout the country it does not seem probable that the revenue bill will meet estimates made in boom times. It may be when the General Assembly of 1959 convenes, business conditions have so improved as to justify an increased estimate in the amount of $33,000,000. This seems highly improbable.

The sum of this analysis is that the next General Assembly shall be compelled to raise at least $33,000,000 additional money. This is on the assumption that the revenue bill produces the amount estimated, and that the services of the State remain static. Both assumptions are scarcely valid. If the revenue bill fails to meet estimates in revenue yield, or if the school population of the State increases, a much different picture shall be presented.

If the situation here envisioned develops, will the 1959 General Assembly have to violate the $15,000,000 tax reduction granted to the larger corporations of the State by the 1957 General Assembly? What will Governor Hodges recommend?

There remains in the background the matter of the report of the commission appointed by Governor Hodges, to study public school finance. This commission was appointed pursuant to a resolution sponsored by the Hodges administration and is at present engaged in this study. It has been suggested, and there are many who expect the commission to make a report, which shall recommend that some part of the support of the state's nine months school term be cast upon the counties of the state. At present expenditures for the nine months school term constitute a major part of the state general fund budget. The general fund budget would, of course, be relieved of this support to the extent of the responsibility accepted by the counties. This would be a drastic change in the structure of the state budget. It would contemplate a return to the system of supporting schools which existed before the 1931 session of the General Assembly. Such a proposal would undoubtedly cause much debate and its adoption is, to say the least, doubtful. Nevertheless, it is said that powerful industrial interests in North Carolina favor such a proposal.

The Gems Under Wraps

Another writer who has a column which appears in this newspaper frequently fills his space with "notes from the mailbag."

Such columns are usually little bits and pieces of information, with comment, that make column writing easy. I have long admired this other person's ability to consistently use such things, and get away with it.

As a matter of fact, I have rather seriously considered the possibilities of trying it myself. There are several stumbling blocks in my path, however.

First of all, Alvin Taylor modified the idea a couple of weeks ago with a dissertation on facts and figures about North Carolina. The material came, I believe, from the Chamber of Commerce.

Last week, Everette Parker got into the act with a column out of the new World Almanac. He posed a series of questions about things of interest, and generously provided answers for those of us who weren't interested enough to look for ourselves.

Such columns as those contributed by Alvin and Everette make interesting reading, but they create a problem for the rest of us who might want to try similar ideas by wearing out the ideas.

I am thinking particularly of the

Other Editors Saying --- Reaching For Every Straw

(Henderson Dispatch)

Appeal has been made to the New York State government by New York City authorities for more money for public schools in the metropolis as a result of the crime wave which is sweeping schools of the big city. The account appearing in print did not elaborate as to how the money requested would halt crime.

The situation in Brooklyn, Manhattan and elsewhere in the area would at this distance appear to be a matter of law enforcement rather than larger funds for education as such. Education in this instance is missing its mark in that it fails to instill into minds of students the principles of sane living and cordial relationships. More than money and something different from money is the urgent need. Youths need to have instilled in their minds a greater respect for morality as well as book learning. The gap probably is in the home rather than in the schools.

People at various levels who are clamoring for huge increases in educational appropriations were quick to seize upon the crisis posed by Russia's Sputniks to support their demand for more money, higher pay and the like. In some instances there appear to be in one breath praise for the work of the schools and in the next a criticism of the quality of their service in the demand for cash.

It has been our understanding hole they have put me in

Of course, Alvin and Everette have sewed up most of the "local" sources of information for a "bits and pieces" column, and I don't get much mail these days. I was thinking, however, that judicious hoarding of what little mail I have received might make a good column someday.

For instance, I have been saving (for several weeks) a mimeographed sheet listing several unusual things; like, "Corregidor fell 44 years, to the day, after Dewey visited Manila Bay".

Now, I claim things like that are interesting, because of the various fields of thought they can lead to. After reading that statement, for instance, I could see the Island of Corregidor, all of Manila, Admiral Dewey sailing in during the Spanish-American War, the Bataan Death March and several other things.

When one little statement will conjure up such images, I contend they make good columns. Other people will find the same things I found, and most of them will have mental pictures of things I would never know.

Another item on the sheet I have particularly enjoyed is "Summer, fall and winter may be seasons, but spring is a miracle".

The pictures that come to the mind's eye with that one are practically endless. My favorite is a memory of the moon coming up over the Cliffs of the Neuse, near Goldsboro, when the dogwood was blooming and the first flowers were beginning to brighten the dark areas of Wayne County.

But, to get back to the original idea, I've been saving my sheet of unusual things for a special column. The basic ideas for the column have been kicked around and worried over and fussed at for several weeks. . . all to no avail, of course.

That other fellow who writes a daily column for The Daily Reflector has worked the "mailbag" idea to pieces. And, on top of that, Alvin and Everette have already ruined the "assortment of ideas" plan for a column.

But, if that's the way they want to work I'll just keep my sheet of interesting little things all to myself.

I won't tell either of them, "Quebec is the only walled city in North America". Let 'em suffer.

Modern Republicanism' Shift

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON In trumpling sails for the important Congressional elections next fall, the Eisenhower Administration's new group of political advisers have shifted course to the harbor and liberal tack on several major problems—labor, education, racial, water power and conservation generally. They are putting the President's "modern Republicanism" into practice as well as platforms, although they have not satisfied extremists on either side.

The shift is not due entirely to the ballot-box slaughter of Republican conservatives in 1956 and 1957 elections, especially in the Far West and in the cities of New York, New Jersey and Wisconsin. It is also attributable to the increasing influence of several of the relatively younger Cabinet members. They include Fred Seaton, who supplanted the reactionary Douglas McKay as Secretary of the Interior; Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell; Attorney General William P. Rogers; and Marlon B. Folsom, Secretary for Health, Education and Welfare. They are far more responsive and understanding than the man whose conservative and negative views they have challenged and overcome—Sherman Adams, White House Chief of Staff.

McKAY PARTIAL TO PRIVATE. POWER Under McKay, for instance, the Administration showed partiality to the private power companies in awarding licenses for dams for development of water power. And as generally happens, he persuaded the Federal Power Commission to accept his viewpoint.

It granted the license for Hell's Canyon, one of the few remaining undeveloped hydroelectric potentials in the country, to the Idaho Power Company. It favored the application of five New York State firms to undertake the $625,000,000 development on the Niagara River.

It thought that the Trinity River in California should go to the Pacific Gas & Electric Company. It preferred that a pool of four firms in the Northwest should build two dams at Mt. Sheep and Pleasant Valley instead of a single structure at Nez Perce. REVERSES TREND There has been a complete reversal in recent weeks. After an eight-year struggle on and off Capitol Hill, the FPC has awarded the Niagara River project to the New York State Power Authority, a public agency. Seaton advocates a "partnership" setup—the Federal Government and private interests—on the Trinity River.

He would have the Government, possibly in co-operation with private firms, do the job at Nez Perce, which would flood the sites where the four power companies had hoped to build.

Secretary Seaton maintains that he is simply carrying out Eisenhower's "partnership" concept, under which Uncle Sam finances and builds only when private capital and enterprise cannot do so. But it is noticeable that Roosevelt-Truman-ikes public power apostles, who organized the Hells Canyon Association to fight the McKay policies, feel that they have won a major victory.

In fact, Senate Minority Leader William F. Knowland opposes the "partnership" plan for the Trinity River, arguing that the Government cannot afford to finance it. But his colleague, Senator Kitchel, supports the Seaton scheme. MITCHELL POPULAR Mitchell is unquestionably the most popular Labor Secretary with the union hierarchy and membership since Frances Perkins. Although labor's leaders grumbled over the Administration's legislative measures to curb abuses revealed by the McClellan-Kennedy inquiry, they were not as harsh as they had anticipated.

Senator McClellan and committee colleagues have introduced far sterner proposals to checkrein the Becks and Hoffas and Maloney's.

A Federal Court's crackdown on the National Labor Relations Board pleased cantankerous John L. Lewis. Under the decision, a union may utilize Federal labor machinery, even if it has not complied with the Taft-Hartley Act. The United Mine Workers' chieftain has never signed the anti-Communist statement required by that law.

ENLARGE INTEREST IN EDUCATION Secretary Folsom and Attorney General Rogers prepared the legislation for enlargement of the Government's interest in education and civil rights enforcement, respectively. Although Democratic liberals insist that both programs are too skimpy, they represent a great leftward move for an Administration once dedicated to getting the Government out of business and other activities which smack of New Deal-Fair Deal "paternalism."

Two Suits Over Firemen's Act

RALEIGH (AP) — Constitutional challenge of the Firemen's Pension Fund Act passed by the last Legislature rests on the outcome of two suits in Wake County Superior Court. Lawyers argued today on an appeal by the North Carolina Fire Insurance Rating Bureau from Insurance Commissioner Charles F. Gold's decision that companies must collect the one per cent fire premium tax levied to support the pension fund.

The act creating the fund was attacked yesterday when Judge Sime Sharp heard arguments in a test suit in which W. S. Bissell, manager of the rating bureau, is seeking to recover 50 cents paid can Insurance Co. William T. Joyner, attorney for the company, contended it would be "just as constitutional to put every penny of the cost of running fire departments on the insurance companies" as it would be to put the one per cent tax on fire premiums.

In an appearance as a friend of the court, attorney J. C. B. Ehringhaus argued that the suit had not been brought properly to obtain a supreme court review of the constitutional question. Ehringhaus appeared as a representative for the North Carolina Firemen's Assn.

Dusty Plaque Serves As A Reminder To Dogtown

MEGALIA, Calif. (AP) — A bronze plaque along a sunbaked canyon road is all that stands today as a reminder of Dogtown's finest hour — the day in 1859 when a 54-pound gold nugget was found. Back in those days there was shouting in the streets and free drinks at the saloon.

First, it is necessary to explain that this sleepy little community in the rolling hills of northern California once carried the name of Dogtown.

An early writer tells why: "Dogs in the stores, dogs in the saloons, dogs in the hotels, dogs in the roads, dogs in the woods, dogs in the miners camps — in fact, dogs everywhere."

But getting back to the nugget. It was washed down during hydraulic mining operations on the Willard Claim, along a gulch.

The three owners of the claim were absent on the big day, but here's an account given by one of them, Ira A. Wetherbee:

"I was playing a game of poker in the afternoon of that day in the saloon at Dogtown when several of the miners demanded that I set up the drinks. . . . Quite a pot was on the poker table where we were playing, amounting to about $1,300, and I insisted the game be finished before I responded to their request.

"No attention was paid to my desire. . . . They picked me up from the chair. . . . and set me on the bar and demanded the drinks.

"Thinking some calamity had befallen the mine, and wanting to know all about it, I ordered the drinks. After which I was told of finding the nugget."

The massive chunk, the size of a cantaloupe, was put on exhibit under guard at the Wells, Fargo & Company office for a few days, then was taken to San Francisco and smelted, returning its owners about $10,690.

Calmly Accepts Robbery Loss

NORH KANNAPOLIS, N.C. (AP) — Police were on the lookout today for two men who ordered $1 worth of gas, handed over a $5 bill and then stole $200 from a filling station.

Station operator Wade Cook said two Negroes assaulted him, scooped up the money and drove off in a two-tone blue car. They missed a $100 bill in Cook's pocket.

The station owner, Luther McCombs, who recalled that one of his other places had been robbed last year, took the loss calmly. "I carry theft insurance," he said. "You have to around here."

SLIGHT OVERSIGHT

HARRISON, Ark. (AP) — After all of the guests had assembled to celebrate Garvin Fitton's 39th birthday, it was discovered that no one had remembered to invite the honoree to his own surprise party. Fitton couldn't attend anyway—he was at another party.

ADDING TO THE CHARLES — View, reminiscent of a Japanese print, is actually in Dedham, Mass., where record rains and melting snow have flooded the Charles river area.

Denies Financial Trouble In Union

SEATTLE (AP)—Dave Beck, former president of the Teamsters Union, last night denied that the union is faced with a financial loss because of the way he managed its funds. In an interview with the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Beck said: "The Teamsters are in marvelous financial position, both as to net assets and liquidity. Certainly they can't possibly be in bad shape when they have several million dollars drawing higher interest rates than they would pay for borrowing."

At Miami Beach, Fla., James R. Hoffa, Beck's successor as president of the union, said the opening session of the Teamster's Executive Board was largely occupied with examining union funds investments. "It was reported that Beck had tied up most of the union's 35-million-dollar assets in long-term mortgages and other investments, but that the union was left with relatively few liquid assets. Beck estimated the union has six or seven million dollars" invested at a higher interest rate than it would be required to pay for borrowing. "The union has a reserve of over a million dollars in cash right now," he said. "There is no immediate need of borrowing and no foreseeable need of borrowing." "The union had 14 million dollars more in assets when I left office as president last month than when I went in, on Dec. 1, 1952, and 400,000 more members." Membership of the union is 1,400,000.

New Obstacle In School Merger

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—Another legal obstacle has been thrust into the merging of three schools into a consolidated Presbyterian College proposed for Laurinburg. Four Flora Macdonald College trustees entered a new suit last night in Robeson County Superior Court here and also secured a restraining order against any merger action. Superior Court Judge Raymond B. Mallard in Raleigh signed the order, which calls for a further hearing later this month. Dr. C. T. Johnson of Red Springs said the Flora Macdonald trustees had dropped an old anti-merger suit in an effort to head off a meeting of the consolidated trustees today in Laurinburg. Dr. Johnson said they apparently intended to act immediately on merging Flora Macdonald at Red Springs, Peace College at Raleigh and Presbyterian Junior College at Maxton. The new suit alleges that each college set conditions that violate the merger agreement in asking for continued operation of Peace at Raleigh rather than relocation to Laurinburg. Peace trustees last December agreed to the merger with this proviso. Complaining Flora Macdonald H. D. Jones of Graham and Miss Mary McEachern of Red Springs.

Blind Sale

Handicraft articles made by blind persons from Pitt and neighboring counties will be sold Thursday and Friday in Greenville. The sale, sponsored by the Greenville Lions Club and Greenville Service League, will be held at Lautares Brothers Jewelry store on Evans Street. Merchandise which will be offered for sale includes baskets, rugs, spreads, aprons, dolls, stuffed animals, brooms, footstools, chairs, and leather belts and purses. All profits from the sale will be given to the blind persons who have made the articles. Miss Sudie Cox, Home Industry Counselor of the North Carolina Commission for the Blind, will supervise the sale.

Talk Designs Of School Plants

ASHEVILLE (AP)—A second of three conferences on secondary school construction will be held here tonight. Dr. Walter D. Cocking, editor of The School Executive, will speak. The first meeting was held yesterday and this afternoon at High Point. A third will be Thursday and Friday at Goldsboro. Cocking, speaking last night at a dinner session in High Point, said the school child is the basic factor which must be taken into account in secondary school plant design. "Therefore, if we believe school plants are for people, and if we understand the nature and characteristics of adolescents, the new can proceed to plan secondary school plants with assurance," he said.

SLIPPERY EEL PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—A prowler, who now is a slippery character if he wasn't before, seized Mrs. R. M. Knox as she walked across her back yard to dispose of some used cooking grease. She answered his demand for valuables by giving him what she had with her—right in the face. He fled.

Film Shown Pupils On Social Courtesy

By ANNE HARRIS

Belvoir-Falkland Reporter

A film outlining the importance of social courtesy was shown to the Belvoir-Falkland High School student body last week, as a part of a current Student Council effort to improve operation of the school. Following the film, Principal E. N. Warren asked for student support of the Student Council's efforts. He mentioned, particularly, a suggestion box which has been installed for written comments from the students. "The Council will read and consider any suggestion made for the betterment of the school as a whole," the principal said in his comments. The suggestion box has been placed in the cafeteria.

Principal Warren also asked for student cooperation in obeying traffic rules which have been set up to facilitate movement of students between classes.

Members of the National Forensic League participated in a Student Congress in Greenville's municipal building Friday and Saturday.

Seniors have received their individual orders of invitations, appreciation folders and thank-you cards—all ordered for the end-of-the-year graduation exercises. They have also received bills for their caps and gowns.

Future Teachers of America members assisted last week in conducting classes in the Falkland and Belvoir elementary schools. The students took over for regular teachers who participated in an art workshop at Bell Arthur on three afternoons. Three teachers from each school attended the workshop.

To supplement their study of batteries and electricity, students in the physics class made a tour of the National Carbon plant in Greenville.

During the tour, the students were given a sample of the batteries produced there, beginning with the rolled sheet to the finished product. Students feel that the tour will enable them to make a more complete study of their unit subject.

Students in the Bookkeeping classes have found a new cause for excitement. They have become bookkeepers for H. B. Hunter.

Hunter is the name of the individual in their practice sets, which all students must complete. The set covers all principles of bookkeeping and is expected to require about two weeks for completion.

Iris Smith has been named Belvoir-Falkland School's "Homemaker of Tomorrow."

Iris received the highest score on a written examination of home-making knowledge and attitudes administered to Senior Home Economics students on December 3. Her examination paper will be entered in competition to name the state's candidate for "All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow" and will also be considered for the state's runner-up award.

'ROUND AND 'ROUND — Pedestrians will be going around in circles when they use the ramp approach to the new northern Rhine bridge built at Duesseldorf, West Germany. In this case, the 'roundabout approach is the shortest way across.

Two In Psychiatry Field Stamp Tranquilizers 'OK'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two experts in the field of psychiatric medicine cast a vote of confidence today for tranquilizing drugs and the pharmaceutical houses which make and market them.

The psychiatrists told House investigators that although occasional abuses and honest mistakes occur, these do not warrant charges of misleading and distorted advertising against the great majority of drug firms.

Tranquilizers are not the "happy pills" some people think them to be, the doctors said, but "very important new medical tools" about which a great number of misconceptions have sprung up.

This testimony was prepared for a House Government Operations subcommittee by Dr. Frank J. Ayd, a psychiatrist of Baltimore, Md., and Dr. Nathan S. Kline, director of research for the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene.

The testimony opened an investigation of what Subcommittee Chairman Blatnik (D-Minn.) said was concern by some physicians that drug houses have resorted to unscientific and deceptive sales promotion to ballyhoo their product.

Blatnik said the new tranquilizing drugs are included in almost a third of all medical prescriptions written today. He put their total sales at 300 million dollars a year.

Both Dr. Ayd and Dr. Kline said that tranquilizers do not cause addiction, and that side reactions may be annoying but not dangerous.

"Properly administered, these drugs are safe," Dr. Ayd testified. "The risk of addiction or habituation from prolonged use of tranquilizers is practically nonexistent."

At the same time he said even "the most sanguine physician would not prescribe a tranquilizer for what might be termed normal anxiety."

On the score of advertising, Dr. Ayd said most drug firms "cherish and seek the medical profession's confidence and respect."

He conceded that some firms may violate good taste and ethical standards, but added: "Fortunately, physicians are perceptive individuals who, by their training and experience, view all drug advertising with a critical eye. . . . While a few of the so-called tranquilizers have been advertised unwisely, the majority of manufacturers have exercised admirable caution and restraint in their promotion."

Dr. Kline praised pharmaceutical firms for their research which he said has produced major drug discoveries.

The "occasional excesses" of promotional activity, he said, have already resulted in development of a self-regulating code of ethics among pharmaceutical organizations. He said this code is now well along in preparation and meets most of the objections which have been raised.

As for tranquilizers themselves, Dr. Kline said their development was akin to the beginning of the atomic era, and may in fact "be of markedly greater import in the history of mankind."

Use of these drugs in the last five years, he said, has reduced the number of patients in mental hospitals, permitted individuals to go back to useful lives, and prevented institutionalizing many acute patients.

New Market, Tenn., was the childhood home of Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

Chandler Mixes His Metaphors

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. A. B. Chandler mixed his pants, bridges and taxes at a press conference yesterday.

Asked if he would veto a Louisville occupational tax bill pending in the State Legislature, Chandler said: "I put my pants on when I get up in the morning. I'll cross that bridge when I come to it."

A reporter suggested he was mixing his metaphors.

"I can't conceive of a situation," the governor said, "where a man would cross a bridge with his pants off."

To Be Tried For Robbery, Rape

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP) — Johnston County Superior Court has appointed a defense attorney for a man accused of a lovers' lane rape-robbery last December. The trial is scheduled for a term of court which opened yesterday.

Benson lawyer Harry E. Canaday will defend Joseph H. Strickland, indicted by a grand jury on charges of raping Betsy Puley of Clayton, and robbing her escort, Roy Cooke, also of Clayton.

Strickland, married and father of three, has been held without privilege of bond on the capital charge since Jan. 3.

Lincoln Shrine Impact Is Felt By Visitors

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Chattering and laughing, they come by ones and twos and busloads to the imposing marble memorial to Abraham Lincoln. They leave, most of them, solemn and subdued.

Tomorrow, on the 149th anniversary of the birth of a martyred man, special ceremonies will take place at the glistening white memorial beside the Potomac. A presidential wreath will be placed there in honor of the Civil War President.

But day after day, ordinary people by the thousands come to pay their own tributes to Abraham Lincoln. As at no other shrine in the nation's capital, they seem to capture and carry away something of the spirit and character, something of the strength and serenity of the man here honored.

Many of them come for the first time, from over the country and all over the world. Many come again and again.

A middle-aged Washingtonian said: "I don't know how many times I've been here. It gives me a feeling of comfort and peacefulness and confidence. Particularly at night, when those soft lights make him seem so real and close to you."

They turn to the south wall and scan the immortal Gettysburg Address. They read on the north wall Lincoln's second inaugural address, with closing words so applicable to the present: ". . . Let us strive on . . . to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

The gray-haired Minnesota farm wife remarked softly: "He based his philosophy so much on studies of the Bible." Her husband was jotting down his impressions in a notebook: "The most impressive thing I've seen in Washington."

"I believe he was the greatest man this country ever produced," he said, "because he was humble."

Trooping in a moment later, in orderly pairs, black and white, came a class of first-graders from one of Washington's racially mixed schools.

The young lady from Atlanta, with the thick Georgia drawl, was on her first visit to Washington. Putting her camera aside for a bit, she said: "A lot of us down South think he was a good man. I'm not for slavery, and I think there's a lot of good in what he did. It's for the best."

"I hear they are bringing up civil rights in Congress again." A smiling little Japanese-American first-grader from California knew that Lincoln was the 16th president. He had been begging his mother to bring him to the memorial, ever since they came here two weeks ago.

Softly she read him the inscription above the statue: "In this temple as in the hearts of the people for whom he saved the Union, the memory of Abraham Lincoln is enshrined forever."

Says Singer Is $4,845 Behind

LOS ANGELES (AP) — David Street, five-times-married singer, has been accused by his first wife of lagging in child support payments.

Mrs. Mary Payne, 32, said in Superior Court yesterday that the 37-year-old singer was $4,845 in arrears in payments for support of their son David Jr., 14.

Judge Elmer Doyle granted Street a three-month continuance so he could try to reach a settlement with Mrs. Payne, now the wife of a Long Beach, Calif., salesman.

Street's other ex-wives are actresses Mary Beth Hughes, Lois Andrews and Sharon Lee. He now is married to actress Debra Paget.

Actor Aldo Ray Refuses To Act Like Movie Star

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — A maverick among movie stars is Aldo Ray. The guy simply refuses to behave like a star. He doesn't go to the fashionable parties, nor to the "night spots." His favorite hangouts are a couple of off-the-beaten-path taverns.

He owns no fancy automobile. Matter of fact, he hasn't any. As for the luxurious home—he's currently living in a friend's apartment. Obviously, Hollywood hasn't changed the free-living, outspoken constable from Crockett (Calif.) in the seven years he has been here. That is a matter of irritation to some people here, notably his boss.

Kind," with Judy Holliday. Aldo had gone all over the country to exploit the film and had overtaxed his expense account by sending home presents to his family and Jeff Donnell, whom he was courting.

"I'll admit I overdid it," said Aldo. "When I got back and went to get my salary check one week, there wasn't any. I was told they were taking the money out of my check for the presents. If they were going to be that way, that was all right with me."

He was earning $200 a week at the time. He is still working for a three-figure salary, though Columbia racks up $100,000 for loaning him out. His latest service is with RKO for "The Naked and the Dead."

It has been over two years since he worked for his own studio. Nowadays he visits only the mail room to pick up personal letters. "But it will all be over in August," the actor said. "That's the end of my seven-year contract. And what a happy day that will be!"

Arizona Bar Obliges Far-Sighted Friends

SEALED FRIENDSHIP—Bartender Walter Smith hangs up "banked" drinks at start of day's business. Envelopes contain money to be claimed by person named on each.

By JOE LEWIS
DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP) — Want to do a favor for a friend? A hotel in this southeastern Arizona town has a unique "banking" plan for just such an occasion.

Here's how it works: Tell bartender Walter E. (Smitty) Smith of the Gadsden Hotel that you want to buy a friend a drink. The bartender takes your money, writes the friend's name on a manila envelope and hangs it on a hook.

The envelope is kept at the bar until your friend shows up. At closing time each night, the envelopes are locked up, but they're back on the hooks the next morning.

Smitty says the plan doesn't increase sales, but: "It makes good conversation. Every envelope has a story."

One of Smitty's favorite stories is about a well-to-do Douglas rancher who, whenever he has some extra cash, puts $20 in an envelope and addresses it to himself. The rancher says it's insurance against a rainy day — or a dry one, for that matter — or when his wife is keeping close watch on his spending.

Most of the envelopes are claimed in a few days. But some have been in the bar for years.

Smitty says he violated his trust only once — when he and a family got thirsty for a free drink.

They spotted an envelope which had been in the bar for more than a year.

Figuring that the owner would never appear, they bought themselves a drink.

Three days later, the rightful owner showed up and requested his envelope.

Smitty says he hasn't opened another envelope since.

A HUNTING SNACK

HEXTON, England (U.P.)—Farmer Gus Oliver reported that a hound on a foxhunt left the pack, jumped through a window of his cottage, seized a freshly made bread pudding and resumed the chase, chomping happily.

The Horned Toad Derby is held annually in Coalinga, Calif.

Drop Charges Of Highway Racing

DUNN, N.C. (U.P.)—The state has dropped charges in a pre-arranged highway racing case on a technicality. Judge H. Paul Strickland says should be the subject of state law.

The state conceded yesterday that the new U.S. 301 bypass near here had not been formally turned over to the state. Officers testified two teen-age boys had been racing over the three-mile stretch.

The accused were Charles Butler, 19, of Erwin, and Lawrence McLamb, 19, of Rt. 1, Dunn. Their attorneys argued that until formal transfer from the Brown Paving Co., the highway was not state property and the state could not prosecute on charges of pre-arranged racing.

Judge Strickland recommended Solicitor Charles Lee Guy drop the charges, and the case be not prosecuted (not prosecuted).

A Highway Patrol official at Fayetteville, responding to later queries, said some drag racers had learned of immunity from state law on the strip. But Sgt. Rommie Williamson added they could be prosecuted for trespassing if the paving company responsible for the strip preferred charges.

The bypass, under construction for at least two years, carries little but local traffic and has no signs or barricades against use.

'Modern Western' To Be Introduced On TV

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (U.P.)—Oliver Treyz, vice president in charge of the ABC television network, says ABC will launch a new type of show this year which he expects will develop into a TV trend: "the modern Western."

ABC was the first to introduce and develop the "adult" Westerns which now are so popular on all three networks.

"The Western trend certainly is not riding out," Treyz said in an interview. "But I don't see any big expansion in Westerns this year and I don't think that they represent the bulwark of our programming."

Treyz said that the newest thing in entertainment programming on ABC will be "a type of action show set in current times. It will involve strong stories and strong heroes and contemporary situations."

"They will have the quality of feature motion pictures and deal in shades of gray—as Maverick does—rather than in black and white. And by 'Western' I mean a good man and a bad man and a chase."

Warner Brothers will produce the filmed programs, which will be introduced on the network next fall.

A primary programming philosophy of ABC this year, said Treyz, will be to "schedule programs of news and such programs as Bold Journey and Voice of Firestone in prime viewing times. Our criterion is balanced programming for the entire public in prime viewing hours rather than in fringe time."

As an example, Treyz said it is planned to schedule John Daly's news program at 10:30 p.m., EST, on week-days—an hour when the television audience is largest—rather than at 7:15 p.m. when he currently appears. Some time this spring Daly also will do a special one-hour documentary in prime evening viewing hours.

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR

ALHAMBRA, Calif. (U.P.)—Homeowners on a 470-foot street in a subdivision here have asked for correction of a typographical error. They told the City Commission that the roadway past their homes was supposed to be called Viscount Street. When maps were recorded and street signs went up it came out "Discount Street."

The U. S. Post Office said that in 1956 about 21 million letters were sent to dead letter offices because of illegible handwriting.

How 2 Giants Compare

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

There's a popular saying that you can prove anything with statistics.

The truth in the saying nowhere applies better than in a comparison of the United States and Russia. Both are giant countries and both hoard statistics. By judicious choice of coverage, either can be made to look like a poor relation.

But despite the hazards of limited comparison, a statistical form sheet on the principal contenders in the East-West battle turns up some interesting facts, significant and otherwise.

In America, for example, the divorce rate is over three times that in the Soviet Union. But oddly — and a divorce court judge might wonder about this — the per capita consumption of hard liquor in the Soviet Union apparently is more than 25 per cent higher than in the U. S.

It also turns out that in the United States the death rate is 25 per cent higher than in the Soviet Union. But this is an example of how careful one must be in judging situations by statistics alone.

For it's clear that one of the important reasons for the low Soviet death rate is the fact that so many older Soviet citizens were killed off during World War II.

There are fewer left to die now. Another possible factor, however, and this will surprise many Westerners, is that the U.S.S.R. has more than 40 per cent more physicians than the United States. But the U. S. leads in hospital beds.

Just as significantly the Soviet Union has more than twice as many graduate engineers at work than the United States, a foreboding statistic for Sputnik-conscious Americans.

Currently, too, the U.S.S.R. is graduating almost three times as many engineers from its universities and institutes. But it is in the rate of industrial growth that the Soviet Union shows up best in comparison with America. During the seven years from 1950 through 1957, the Russians have increased their industrial production over-all by 125 per cent, while the United States boosted its industrial output only 28 per cent.

Comparing individual industries, such as steel, coal, petroleum, cement and the like, you find the same thing holding true — that the Soviet Union has been increasing production much more rapidly than the U. S.

This is the dynamics of the situation. But the figures on absolute production tell another story. They show the United States has a much larger production of all important basic industrial materials except coal. Soviet mines equaled and perhaps even slightly surpassed American coal mines last year.

Some of the more important figures necessary for a complete statistical comparison of the United States and Russia are lacking. The Soviet Union publishes no figures, for example, on the strength of its armed forces, on the number of fighters or bombers it is able to put on the line for air war, on the number of missiles it possesses.

However, one thing is abundantly clear from a table of relative Soviet-American statistics: The United States produces far more automobiles, radio sets, TV sets, home refrigerators and other durable goods for consumers than the Soviet Union.

ECC To Participate In Physical Therapy Program

East Carolina College will participate in a state-wide program February 16-22 planned to familiarize the public with physical therapy and to encourage high school boys and girls to take college work training them for careers as physical therapists. Gov. Luther Hodges has designated this period as Physical Therapy Week in North Carolina.

Mrs. Grace J. Eaton, physical therapist and member of the East Carolina department of health and physical education; Mrs. Julia Britton of the Rocky Mount Physical Therapy Clinic; and Mrs. Annabelle Cole Hall of the Wilson Physical Therapy Clinic are chairmen of the recruitment program in fourteen counties of the eastern section of the state. East Carolina College has announced a series of radio and television broadcasts in support of the program. Televised forums, with Mrs. Britton, Mrs. Hall, and a number of East Carolina students speakers, are scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 16, at 2:30 p.m. over WNCN, Channel 9, and Thursday, Feb. 20, over WITN, Channel 7.

The ECC Radio Station WWWS-FM will originate a program on "Physical Therapy—A Good Profession" Thursday, Feb. 13, at 8 p.m. Taped recordings of the broadcast will be presented later over stations in Greenville, Washington, Beaufort, and Elizabeth City. The program will also be available to other stations on request. Radio programs on physical therapy will originate also over Rocky Mount and Wilson stations.

Open house will be observed at the physical therapy unit in the office of Dr. John Wooten, Greenville, Feb. 17, 1:30-4:30 p.m.; and at the physical therapy clinics in Wilson, Feb. 20, 9 a.m. to noon; and in Rocky Mount, Feb. 21, 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — A policeman here without a city map may find himself without two days pay. Police Chief W. E. Traylor says officers can give directions more easily if they have maps. They were given maps recently by the Chamber of Commerce.

Ayden Church Scene Of Ordination Ceremony

AYDEN—On Wednesday evening St. James Episcopal Church was the scene of the ordination of the Rev. Herbert Carlyle Gravelly Jr., formerly of Washington, to the Sacred Order of Priest by the Right Reverend Thomas Henry Wright, D. D., Bishop of East Carolina.

The service was begun by the Rev. John Drake, followed by the Rev. Alfred Vail delivering the sermon. The presentation of the Ordinand was made by the Rev. Daniel Allen, and the Litany was read by the Rev. Edwin Moseley. Also assisting in the service were the Rev. Hume Cox and the Rev. Stanleigh Jenkins.

Mark's, St. John's, and St. James Churches, under the direction of Arthur Honeychurch, choir director of St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Kinston, furnished the music for the service. The crucifer was Billy Johnson and Charles Dunn served as acolyte.

The Rev. Mr. Gravelly, who serves the two Episcopal Churches in Grifton and the Ayden Church, lives with his family in Grifton. Following the Ordination service, the Women of the St. James Auxiliary entertained at a reception in the Ayden Community Building.

The guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Quinry and introduced to the Rev. and Mrs. Gravelly and the visiting guests, Mrs. L. W. Purser and Mrs. Aleah Wright directed the guests to the refreshment table which was covered with a lace trimmed taffeta cloth and centered with a white floral arrangement flanked with silver candelabras holding white tapers. Mrs. Grady Dixon poured coffee and Mrs. Preston Dunn served punch.

Assisting in serving ham biscuits, chicken salad puff, assorted cookies, salted nuts and mints were Mrs. J. L. Jenkins, Mrs. M. A. Bayland, Mrs. James W. Everett and Miss Elizabeth Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Johnson Jr. presided at the auxiliary serving table.

Miss Eliza Jenkins directed the guests to the guest register where Mrs. Helen Turnage and Mrs. W. B. Tyson presided. Mrs. Alex Cuthrell Jr. directed the guests to Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Elliott who heard the goodbyes.

Has Praise For U.S. Motorists

LONDON (AP)—A British government official says Americans are better drivers than Britons. Richard Nugent, parliamentary secretary to the Transport Ministry, told a meeting of the Royal Automobile Club last night Americans drive at higher speeds but have more skill at the wheel than the British.

"They pay heed to their highway safety rules," Nugent declared. "They accepted discipline, and that is what the drivers of this country need."

Greenville Meets Cards In Crucial Game Tonight

G-Men Ranked Nine Points Over Foes

STANDINGS

New Bern	8
Greenville	6
Kinston	6
Jacksonville	5
Washington	5
Roanoke Rapids	3
Elizabeth City	0

est hits of the year. They play host to Roanoke Rapids Friday night and then journey to Greenville the following Tuesday. There is a possibility that the Bears may get licked by the time that stretch of games is over.

Kinston, in third place with a 6-3 total, might be counted as a remote runner in the race for the regular-season crown, but the Red Devils will have to face New Bern tonight and Greenville Friday night—and something's gotta give.

It is felt by most that Kinston will be the team to drop out of it. With this arrangement of games coming together at such a crucial time, and with the standings as they are, it will eliminate surely one and probably two of the three clubs from contention, here within the final two weeks of season play.

Actually, tonight's games should spell it out: With New Bern and Kinston battling each other, one of the two has to go. If it is Kinston, it will make it a clean-cut battle between New Bern and Greenville. Should New Bern get whipped, it would complicate the race and give all three clubs almost equal chances. That is, if Greenville can whip Jacksonville in the meantime.

Odds favor the Phantoms by nine points. They had little trouble with the Cards on the Rose High court, downing them 65-51. It is expected that the Cardinal fate will rest on the performance of Card guard Rico Cohen and the mood of the Phantoms.

Coach Bo Farley will start Walker Allen, John Wesley Hudson, Steve Noble, Dick Evans, and Peaton tonight for one of their toughest JACKSONVILLE—Greenville's Rose High School Phantoms, making a desperate last-stretch attempt to unseat New Bern from the Northeastern Conference lead, tackle Jacksonville here tonight.

The game is of utmost importance to the G-Men, who are the only team still in the running with New Bern for the league title. It is equally important to the Cardinals, who will be trying to break a fourth-place tie with Washington tonight.

Since the new conference ruling that the regular-season champion will represent the league in the State Class AA playoffs has been put in effect, all but three teams have been eliminated from contention.

New Bern is the most likely prospect to battle for the state crown, for the Bears have racked up an 8-1 mark thus far and have shown strength that could conceivably carry them through the rest of the year without another defeat.

Greenville, second-ranked with a 6-2 record, still clings to the possibility that New Bern will be defeated again sooner or later. A New Bern loss now would very definitely put the Phantoms in the heat race. The Bears are at Kinston tonight for one of their toughest

Four ACC Teams In High Places On Latest Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. The Associated Press

The Kansas State Wildcats accomplished three things when they knocked off Kansas University 79-75 in their important Big Eight basketball game last week.

They showed that Kansas could be beaten with Will Chamberlain in the lineup, they tightened their grasp on the conference lead and they gave college basketball a new national leader for the first time since early in the season. Kansas State edged out West Virginia today in the weekly Associated Press ranking poll of sports writers and broadcasters. The Mountaineers led all but the first two polls this season.

West Virginia appeared first on 45 of 108 ballots, Kansas State on only 32. But the votes for second, third and fourth, previously scattered over a wide range, swung to the Wildcats. The point totals came out Kansas State 878, West Virginia 865.

Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for each first-place vote, 9 for second, etc., down to 1 for 10th.

A week ago, with a few more votes in, Kansas received 27 votes to take second place behind West Virginia, and Kansas State was fourth with six firsts. After State's impressive victory, Kansas drew only one vote for first and slid to fourth place.

Cincinnati's Missouri Valley Conference leaders retained third place with 730 points and San Francisco and Oklahoma State continued in fifth and sixth.

Temple, now possessor of a 15-game winning streak and a 16-2 season record, jumped from tenth to seventh. Duke, winner over 1957 national champion North Carolina, moved up from 13th to eighth. Maryland dropped to ninth and North Carolina State to 10th.

The standings with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Kansas State (32)	878
2. West Virginia (45)	865
3. Cincinnati (10)	730
4. Kansas (1)	561
5. San Francisco (4)	540
6. Oklahoma State (3)	489
7. Temple (6)	348
8. Duke (3)	291
9. Maryland	262
10. N.C. State (1)	241

Correction

A Reflector story yesterday concerning changes in the Northeastern Conference's selection of a team to play in the state Class AA playoffs, was not clear due to error.

An incomplete sentence concerning the role of the Northeastern Conference Tournament confused the story.

Here is the arrangement: In concurrence with a request from the North Carolina High School Athletic Association, the conference has voted to accept the winner of the regular season play as the loop's representative in the playoffs.

Heretofore, a Northeastern team was required to win both the regular-season crown and the tournament. If two separate teams won the season and tournament titles, a playoff game was called to decide the representative.

Under the new method, the winner of the season crown, based on won-lost percentages, will automatically go to the State playoffs. The conference tourney will in no way affect this.

The Sports Reflector
By BILLY ARNOLD

GUEST COLUMN—courtesy of Bob Williams of the Rocky Mount Sunday Telegram, February 9:

THE MAN WITH THE BRIGHT RED VEST

Press Maravich of Clemson chews towels and full, Utah's Jack Gardner downs a couple quarts of dots and speckles—with red, of course, always the pre-milk per game, State's Ev Case turns red in the face and Carolina's Frank McGuire manages to maintain an icy calm.

You will find lot of peculiar gametime characteristics among basketball coaches, but East Carolina's Howard Porter takes a back seat to none of them. Porter is the fellow who never takes his team on the court unless he's wearing one of those nightmarish red vests that must jam his wardrobe.

THOSE PORTER vests come in practically every design and combination of designs that have been created for men's wear, and even some that nobody but Porter would ever dream of. He wears plaids, checks, dots and speckle—with red, of course, always the predominant color.

Thursday night when East Carolina played Atlantic Christian here, Porter wore a solid red vest, festooned with bright gold metal buttons that merely served to accent the fire-engine hue of the vest. He was not a difficult figure to single out among the sideline crowd.

A Good Match

It is quite possible that Porter wore this particular item from his vast vest collection for a particular reason. It probably comes closest to matching the heated sentiments he has concerning East Carolina and the Craig Reid Case.

Reid, you will remember, is the Red Oak boy who transferred to East Carolina from junior college this past fall. He served the Pirates as a valuable reserve, until the North State Conference commissioner claimed him as an ineligible. The commissioner's ruling was that Reid should lose basketball eligibility for ever and ever, and that East Carolina must forfeit the three conference games in which he had played.

The commissioner's action left Porter seething, and the fires of retribution are still burning bright under that red vest.

PORTER CLAIMS that the commissioner has done East Carolina a great injustice, and he declares that the wrong shall be righted.

"There is nothing legal about the commissioner's ruling or the penalty handed us," Porter fumed here Thursday night. And to prove his point he pulled out a copy of the conference bylaws and read from a page that by now has become quite worn.

The bylaws state that when a player's eligibility is questioned by another school, the school making the charge must file a written protest with the commissioner. The commissioner is then delegated to conduct a thorough investigation if the player is or isn't eligible. Upon completion of the investigation the bylaws state that the commissioner shall send the school charged with the violation a copy of both the protest and the commissioner's findings.

Only A Penalty

"The only thing we have received from the commissioner," Porter said, "is the penalty. No copy of the protest. No copy of his findings. I pointed out to him personally the wording of the bylaws, and asked him to send us a copy of the protest and the results of his investigation. He said he wouldn't do it. Now, I ask you, is there anything legal about that at all? I don't understand what's going on, but I intend to find out."

The commissioner's ruling, however, sticks. The three games East Carolina won are now listed as games lost in the conference standings. It makes you wonder what Porter can hope to do about the situation.

"WELL, THERE'S nothing we can do about it right now," Porter said. "What we intend to do is take it to the conference. We can't do that until the conference meeting after the tournament. A vote of the conference is the only way you can go over the commissioner, and I believe the conference will back us on it. Of course, the damage will have been done by then, but at least we'll have the thing straightened out fairly."

And you can bet that Porter will wear his brightest red vest at that conference meeting.

Georgia Defeats ECC Swimmers

Coach Charles DeShaw and his defending NAIA Championship swimming team completed the 1957-58 season Saturday afternoon when they lost to the University of Georgia swimmers 44-42.

The ECC tankmen fared badly against their competitors this season, but during the meets they produced two undefeated performers.

Bob Sawyer, the remarkable backstroke from Greensboro, went unbeaten for the season, and so doing set a new pool record in the backstroke event.

Ken Midyette, a junior, also went undefeated in the diving events. Midyette, Oriental, N.C. product, was in his third year of intercollegiate competitive diving.

Duke, NC State Clashing Tonight For ACC Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The top contenders match tonight in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball race, with second-place Duke seeking its eighth straight win while on the North Carolina State home court in Raleigh.

The Wolfpack, itself holding a five-game victory chain against c...lege competition, tops the ACC totem pole with an 8-2 record. The Blue Devils are right behind at 7-2.

The last time they saw each other, just one month ago, the Blue Devils managed a 76-75 triumph in two overtimes on their home court. And this was victory No. 1 of the winning string, which dished out defeat to all other ACC members but Maryland. The Terps, who blasted Duke 74-49 on Jan. 8, play the hot Blue Devils next week.

Tonight's only other ACC game pits fourth-place North Carolina against fifth-place Virginia at Charlottesville, Va.

The Tar Heels go into the game with a 6-3 loop record; the Cavaliers are just the reverse, 3-6.

But North Carolina, the defending national and conference cham-

...ion, will be seeking to erase part of its humiliation in last Saturday's 91-75 loss to Duke.

After tonight's game, the Tar Heels have four league contests left in which to bolster their ACC standing—against Duke, Maryland, N.C. State and seventh-place Wake Forest—before the ACC tournament March 6-8.

Duke will have three games left, including fifth-place Virginia and Maryland. The Wolfpack's three remaining games list North Carolina, Maryland and Wake Forest.

The homestretch competition will decide the initial tournament pairings in the rough ACC.

Other North Carolina teams play these games tonight: Atlantic Christian at Lenoir Rhyne, Erskine at Stetson, and Davidson at Furman, the latter a Southern Conference contest.

In a North State Conference game last night, Appalachian took a firm lead late in the first half and held it to defeat Atlantic Christian, 64-58.

Belmont Abbey notched its 18th win against one loss in college play by beating Georgia Teachers, 56-62, at Belmont.

Major Leaguers Opening Drill

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—This is school time for baseball's bright young hopefuls. If they can impress a big league manager they can take a shortcut to the major leagues. At least nine of the 16 big league clubs have scheduled pre-spring training drills.

The New York Yankees have been in this type of business since 1950. Everybody knows how Casey Stengel hustled along prime prospects like Mickey Mantle, Gil McDougald, Bob Grim, Johnny Kucks and others. And many others owe their rapid development to a term in Casey's school.

Other organizations have stepped up the recruiting process, too. Men like Don Cardwell and Harry Anderson of the Phillies, Rysa Nixon of Cleveland, Dick Drott of the Chicago Cubs have skipped a grade or two with spring school help.

The Phillies already are at work in Clearwater, Fla. The pre-training camp opened Friday with 18 men on the major league roster included among 47 students.

Freddie Hutchinson's St. Louis Cardinals were to have physical check. Connie Johnson, Billy Loes, Al Pizarick and Dave Nicholson, the big bonus pitcher from St. Louis are due.

Seven Chicago Cubs are supposed to report at Mesa, Ariz. Thursday in a squad of 24. Detroit has over 40 due at Lakeland, Fla. Friday. Harvey Kuenn and Al Kaline are to be on hand by next Monday. Frank Lary, Billy Hoef and Paul Foytack of the pitching staff also are due.

Kansas City will have eight men on the A's varsity roster in addition to the youngsters at Haines City, Fla., Saturday which also is the starting date for Cincinnati's prospects at Plant City, Fla. The Boston Red Sox will start working on over 20 minor league farmhands Monday at Ocala, Fla.

Jack Boone Still Working With Pirate Gridders

Coach Jack Boone, head football coach at East Carolina College, has continued to work with near 50 gridironers in winter practice, despite rain and freezing temperatures. The weather slowed activity some last week, but the current schedule calls for daily workouts this week. Scrimmage sessions have been held and contact work is frequently the order of the day.

Boone's big trouble for the coming season is the development of line strength. The Pirate head gridiron mentor is stressing football fundamentals this winter.

The highlight of winter practice is expected on March 1 when the ECC varsity plays a team composed of ECC alumni in an afternoon engagement. Many former stars are expected to return to the East Carolina College stadium for the first game of this type.

The East Carolina Varsity Club is sponsoring this game.

Tar Heels Wait Until Monday

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina's Tar Heels will wait until next Monday to begin off-season practice.

UNC coaches yesterday postponed practice because of uncertain weather conditions and a frozen field. Coach Jim Tatum said the annual Blue-White intrasquad game would go on as planned March 15, despite the late start.

Wow! Wilt Is Held To Lowly Six Points

By DON WEISS

The Associated Press Fabulous Wilt the Stilt Chamberlain, seven feet tall, took only five shots last night, scoring a career low of six points. He just concentrated on feeding his teammates, and the Kansas Jayhawks won a 60-51 victory over Colorado.

Chamberlain did it all in answer to a three-man, wrap-around defense set up by the Buffaloes at Colorado. And he did it to the detriment of his scoring average, which dipped to 31.1 from 32.86 during the fantastic show.

Only once before in his college career had Wilt been anywhere so low in scoring—last Feb. 18 when he fired shot after shot but could manage only 11 points against Oklahoma.

The Jayhawks were comfortably in front all the way. Alan Donaghue had 15 points and Ron Loneski and Bob Billings 14 each. Despite the victory, Kansas remains two games behind the nation's No. 1 ranking in the new Associated Press poll, in the race for the Big Eight title and a place in the NCAA tournament.

Kansas State, idle last night, succeeds West Virginia's Mountaineers, who ran their record to 17-1 with their 31st straight victory in Southern Conference play, 82-68 over William & Mary. Jerry West led the balanced West Virginia scoring with 15.

Kentucky, moving steadily toward another SEC crown, polished off Mississippi State 72-62, but the Big 10 took its daily flip-flop with a reshuffling that ended with Michigan State and Indiana tied for first place.

Michigan State outbattled Iowa 90-84 at East Lansing and Indiana, with Archie Dees scoring 30, whipped Wisconsin 93-87 despite a 34-point show by Bob Litzow. Both moved up when Michigan was tumbled by Minnesota at Minneapolis 80-69. Last place Illinois dumped Purdue out of a chance for first, 99-84, and Northwestern dropped Ohio State to a tie for fifth, 78-76.

St. Louis edged Tulsa 66-58 and Drake downed Wichita 71-65 in Missouri Valley tests, and Oklahoma, up to 20th in the new AP poll, made it 12 out of 16 with a 66-39 Big Eight romp over Nebraska.

In other Southeastern play, Georgia Tech won its seven in 10 league starts, 88-61 over LSU. Tennessee defeated Mississippi 68-63. Auburn stopped Florida 76-69, Alabama defeated Georgia 68-64, and Vanderbilt whipped Tulane 80-65.

Marshall defeated Xavier of Ohio 99-87 and Tom Hawkins and Notre Dame routed Marquette 106-74.

Pirates Meet Indians, Christians This Week

Bucs Rated 13 Over Catawba; At Elon Next

Coach Howard Porter's basketball quintet from East Carolina faces a busy week as it heads down the final stretch of the 1957-58 hardwood campaign. The Bucs hit the road for North State Conference games with Catawba and Elon.

ECC has won the last three games after being knocked out of the North State race with three forfeits and two losses on its western swing ten days ago.

Included in the recent wins were a revenge victory over Western Carolina and a convincing decision over Atlantic Christian at Rocky Mount. The other win was over Appalachian.

Freshman Don Smith has been the big man in the Bucs' recent attack. The steadily-improving Virginia native had his high night against ACC with 15 points, but his work on the backboards has been a tremendous asset to the Pirate Club during the entire season.

Coach Porter is still getting plenty of activity from his three guards—Charlie Adams, Jessel Curry, and Ike Riddick—who continuously break into the double figures. Curry, a sophomore, leads the Bucs in scoring with a 18-point average.

Harold Ingram, senior and team captain, also continues to be one of the mainstays on Porter's crew. The versatile Ingram is a good bet for All-Conference laurels. He is the shortest man in the starting line-up, but ranks second in rebounds and in scoring.

ECC will be favored to win both engagements this week, but being on the road puts the Pirates at a handicap. The Bucs suffered two of their three defeats away from home.

The Indians of Catawba College are expected to provide the roughest test. Coach Earl Ruth's club has pulled several upsets thus far during the current season and has remained in the first division of the North State Conference most of the way.

East Carolina blasted past Catawba at Greenville, but later lost the decision by a forfeit ruling. The Bucs are expected to be fired up for this Wednesday night encounter in Salisbury.

Turbulent Days Are Behind Her In Celebrating 100th Birthday

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Three granddaughters will light the cake for Mrs. Elizabeth Smalls Bampfield tomorrow, her 100th birthday.

The turbulent, upward march of her race over those years schooled in the life of the wispy, white-haired woman born in slavery. She rode on a Confederate steamer her father piloted out of Charleston to the Yankee fleet. She went to Washington when her father was elected a South Carolina congressman during Reconstruction.

Robert Smalls' daring in delivering the paddle-wheel steamer, the Planter, into Union hands made him a celebrity in the North early in the Civil War. (A book has just been published about his exploit.) Intelligence and resourcefulness gave the former slave a commanding position as a Negro leader throughout the war and the years which followed.

Mrs. Bampfield sat in the living room of the home of her youngest daughter, Mrs. C. E. Boulware, wife of a mathematics professor at nearby North Carolina College. Now sightless, she reminisced in a voice brittle with age.

"We were making for freedom. The Rebs were trying to keep him from taking the boat. I was too young to remember — a mere baby, just about walking."

After the war, Smalls moved his family into his former master's home in the South Carolina town of Beaufort. The ex-slave had bought the house for unpaid taxes.

"My grandmother went to the mountains with mistress when the war came," Mrs. Bampfield said. She laughed lightly. "When they came back, they lived with us. The white folks moved in with us."

Her father took them in until they were settled in a place of their own, she said. "He was very kind to them. He did everything for them."

The house remained in the family's possession until it was sold about five years ago. Elizabeth left Beaufort for boarding school at West Newton, Mass., when she was 15. About three years later, her father was elected to Congress.

"I went to Washington as his private secretary," she said.

Before she was 20, she married Samuel Jones Bampfield, a graduate of Lincoln University who had studied law at Howard University. He served as clerk of court in Beaufort for 20 years, and was postmaster there about two years before his death at the turn of the century.

Daughter Julia arrived on the young couple's first wedding anniversary. Ten other children were born. Five daughters and two sons are living.

Election law changes made

South Carolina's vote "illy white" and retired in halls from Congress. But he was appointed collector of customs for the port of Beaufort, and remained an important figure.

"He was a great man for education. He wanted everybody to know how to read and write," said Mrs. Bampfield.

A tribute to that interest is the Robert Smalls High School at Beaufort. It is for Negro students only, under South Carolina's segregation laws.

Those laws are threatened now by the U.S. Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in public schools.

Mrs. Bampfield believes her father "would be pleased with what's going on."

Glaucoma, a disease which also afflicted two of her daughters, left Mrs. Bampfield blind some 35 years ago.

She has remained devout to her church and her God, and she gives that credit for her long life.

Republicans Are Surprised By A Change Of Pace

WASHINGTON (AP)—GOP members of Congress said today they are pleasantly surprised by the political cooperation they have gotten recently from presidential assistant Sherman Adams.

Adams has earned a reputation among some Republicans of being a hard man to get around when they want to take up some matter personally with President Eisenhower.

Adams also has received much of the blame — whether he deserved it or not—for what some GOP members said was lack of White House consultation with them about appointments from their states or districts.

One Republican senator, who asked not to be identified publicly, recalled that he had known nothing about 11 appointments made from his state until he read of them in the newspapers. He put the primary blame for this situation on Adams.

"I would have been for most of these people if I had been consulted about them, even though some of them were Democrats," the senator said. "But it has been personally embarrassing to me to be ignored, and it certainly has not helped the morale of the Republican organization in my state."

This senator said he had been assured by Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn that some changes had been made. This was confirmed by other Republicans, who also didn't want to be named publicly.

One of the Republican senators who is running this year said he had consulted with and had been consulted by Adams frequently, not only about patronage but about other matters which affect his state. He said Adams got him appointments to see the President each of two times he asked for them.

Officials of the GOP campaign committees of both houses—who have been far from enthusiastic about Adams' attitude on patronage and some other matters in the past — said they now are highly pleased with the way the President's chief assistant is working with them.

Paid Ten Cents For Real Gems

BARABOO, Wis. (AP)—A local woman received a pleasant surprise after paying 10 cents for a pendant at a sale of costume jewelry donated to Trinity Episcopal Church. She took the pendant to a jeweler who told her it was made up of garnets and diamonds valued at more than $200.

MRS. GIBSON, EMMITT, SCOUTMASTER J. D. DENNIS... Ayden youngster receives Eagle Scout award. (Reflector Photo).

AYDEN — A local youth who has been active in Church, community and school work attained the most coveted rank in Scouting Sunday morning.

Emmitt Edison Gibson, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gibson of 902 West Second Street, received the Eagle Scout Award during ceremonies staged at the Ayden Christian Church. The award was presented by John Behr, District Scout Commissioner. Gibson started out in 1952 as a Cub Scout. He has been in the Boy Scouts for three years and received the God and Country Award, the highest religious award in Scouting.

For the past nine years he has had a perfect attendance in his Sunday School. Working in the Junior Youth group of his church, he has served as treasurer, program chairman, worship chairman and membership chairman. At the present time he is a member of the Senior Youth group and is a member of the Commission on World Outreach.

The local youth is currently President of the Eighth grade at school. Previously he has headed his class three times.

Hear Series On Pre-School Age

By LILLIAN GATLIN
Pitt County Training School
GRIMESLAND— Faculty members, assisted by Mrs. E. D. Griffith of the Pitt County Health Department, presented discussions on the theme "The Pre-School Child on Parade" at the recent meeting of the Pitt County Training School PTA.

Topics which were covered in the discussions included "What the Health Department Expects of Parents in Regards to Pre-School Children," discussed by Mrs. Griffith; "What the Teacher Expects of the Parents of the First Grader," by Mrs. M. W. Dangerfield; and "Types of Clothing for School," discussed by Mrs. E. B. Thompson and Mrs. V. D. Selby. Miss Hazel J. Jordan, supervisor of education for the Pitt County Board of Education, assisted in the program with films and a summary.

The March of Dimes contributions at the school added up to $103.11, according to a report from Principal M. Q. Wyche. The money will be turned over to the Pitt County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

In basketball games with Bethel Union School last week, PCTC came through with an even split. The Bethel girls defeated the Training School girls, 33-23, but the host boys' team defeated Bethel, 58-42 in the second game.

The annual county tournament will be held in the Pitt County Training School gym February 18, 20 and 22.

Proffer Advice For Cold Feet

NEW YORK — Cold feet? "The current cold wave is taking its greatest toll below the ankles," says the American Foot Care Institute, Inc. Here's what the institute suggests:
1. Bathe your feet alternately with hot and cold water after your bath or shower. This stimulates blood circulation.
2. Wear closed shoes.
3. Men should wear two pairs of thin socks instead of one heavy pair. The space between will help retain body warmth.
4. Women, prone to cling to nylon, can rub lanolin or baby oil into the skin to prevent chapping.
5. Exercise your feet briefly, by wriggling the toes and rotating the feet from the ankles.
6. Stay indoors if you can.

Beer Permit Jeopardized By Frat's Pajama Party

RALEIGH — John S. (Jack) Hopkins, operator of a Durham County drive-in, may have to defend his right to hold a beer permit as a result of an alleged "pajama" party at his place.

A written report of a raid on the establishment while the party was in progress was under study yesterday by state ABC Chairman William S. Hunt.

After the study, Hunt said, the next move will be to order Hopkins "to show cause why the board should not suspend or revoke his beer permit."

ABC Inspector John Buck wrote in the report that he and other officers making the raid "found mixed drinks on a coffee table." They also observed "one man fun out the door with whisky bottles in his arms," the report said.

Chairman Hunt pointed out that ABC regulations forbid serving of whisky "at any time on the premises of the holder of a beer permit."

The party was tossed by members of Lambda Chi Fraternity at the University of North Carolina at Jack's Drive-In and Annex on the old Durham-Chapel Hill highway.

When officers arrived on the scene early Sunday morning, Buck reported, he saw "several couples lounging around in pajamas." He said that "young ladies were noted in what is called 'shorty pajamas' revealing their legs "from the upper thigh down."

Fraternity members have insisted that anyone wearing pajamas at the party was "properly attired beneath them."

Buck met with UNC Chancellor William Aycock last Sunday night and gave out a statement in which Buck said he "saw no student involved in misconduct" or anything "that indicated any immorality."

Hunt said that Buck reported that published reports of the raid had "misquoted me as saying that several of the persons present there were intoxicated and that two or three couples were dancing with practically nothing on."

His only concern, Hunt added, was with any possible violation of ABC regulations.

Young Witness Ignores Threat

NEW YORK (AP)—A mailed death threat failed to deter 16-year-old Roger McShane from clinging to testimony that might send seven youths to the electric chair.

The slender, dark-haired boy, subjected to hammering cross-examination yesterday, once more detailed the events of the night of last July 30 when his friend Michael Farmer, 15, was murdered.

Twenty-seven defense attorneys are fighting to save seven youthful defendants, charged with the murder, from the chair. They can have another go at McShane today when he returns to the stand.

The witness has identified six of the seven accused as having been at the murder scene, a park in upper Manhattan. McShane was stabbed twice in the chest, but testimony on this is not admissible because the specific case, first-degree murder, covers only the assault on Farmer.

While police are inclined to the theory that the death threat received Saturday by McShane was the work of a young crackpot, they are taking no chances. Wherever McShane goes—even while he is sleeping—a detective will be near him.

Scouts Undertaking 'Safety Good Turn'

The 1,936 boys and leaders of the Pitt County District have joined Scouts throughout the nation in launching a year-long National Safety Good Turn.

The project was suggested by President Eisenhower in a recent White House message.

In the message, President Eisenhower told the Scouts: "In our land each individual is of inestimable worth, yet in no other land do accidents cause a more terrible loss of human life and limb. This fact cannot be passively accepted. We must seek new ways to save the basic resources of our Nation: its people."

Encouraged by the splendid results of your Conservation Good Turn four years ago, I now urge you to adopt Safety as your service project for 1958. Through the concerted action of your members, and in cooperation with other organizations, you can alert the public to the urgent need for reducing the tragic toll of accidents. "This is an opportunity for service to your country in the highest tradition of the Boy Scouts of America."

According to District Chairman Erskine Duff who made the initial announcement of the project to be undertaken this year, the Scouts' National Safety Good Turn is being coordinated nationally and locally with other safety programs and campaigns. National safety organizations have advised and assisted Scout leaders in developing plans and projects.

Duff said that during March, April, and May the projects will involve traffic safety. Outdoor safety projects will be undertaken in June, July, and August. Home safety will be featured in September, October, and November.

Bloxam Reminds Utilities Paying Cost Of Growth

Between 1951 and 1957 Greenville's municipally owned utilities experienced a growth of more than 90 per cent. Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam told the Rotary Club last night.

During the period from 1953 to 1957, Bloxam said, profits from local utilities operations provided for the city $1,782,000 in expansion and improvements to facilities and in cash turnover to the municipal government. "Had it been necessary for these expenditures to come from city tax revenues," the speaker stated, "it would have required a 78 per cent increase in Greenville taxes."

Bloxam reviewed briefly a study recently completed by consulting engineers comparing operations of Greenville Utilities for fiscal year 1957 with its operations for fiscal year 1951. The report of the engineers pointed to a healthy state of the municipally owned operations.

The utilities operations, Bloxam said, are in good shape financially. He asserted the utilities have approximately one-half million dollars set aside for construction of a sewerage disposal plant, and efforts are being made to obtain $250,000 in federal funds to aid with the project estimated to cost $1,500,000. He expressed the opinion that Greenville will be in a position to construct its sewerage disposal plant without the issuance of general obligation bonds by the city.

Not since 1922, Bloxam said, have the people of Greenville paid tax money into the utilities operations. All utility obligations since that time have been paid from utility revenues, he explained.

Log Cabin Is Serving As Dormitory At University

FAYETTE, Iowa (AP)—A log cabin, its exact age lost with the passing years, is serving as a dormitory for three Upper Iowa University students.

John Gutz of Hampton, Jim Thompson of Belmont and Tom Swale of Clear Lake—Iowans all rented the cabin from Miss Stella Latimer, on whose property it stands.

"It was pretty much of a mess when we first looked it over," said Gutz. "We understand that no one had lived in it for some time, and we had a big cleanup job on our hands."

Some paint and liberal use of "elbow grease" and cleaning powder rectified that. Then the three students bought a few pieces of furniture spending $10 for a rug.

$11 for a refrigerator and $5 for a studio couch that makes up into a bed.

The telephone, hi-fi record player and radio in the single 14 by 16 foot downstairs room are in decided contrast to the rough-hewn log walls. A similar size upstairs room is used for sleeping.

Thompson is the cook, hastening to explain that he has no truck with dishwashing. Gutz and Swale take care of that chore along with the housework. To help out with the food bill, and add variety to their diet, all three go hunting and fishing.

The U.S.S.R. has an estimated population of 195,152,000.

Sister Playing Role Of Mother

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP)—A new life for six little orphan girls who will be mothered from now on by their 18-year-old married sister was rapidly settling into a routine today.

Mrs. Leona Moore, who was granted custody of the children, arranged for Linda, 12, Julie, 10, and Toni, 9, to enter the Webster Elementary School this morning. The other little girls—Kristie, 6, Nola, 3, and Viola, 2—were just stay-at-homes in the modest two-bedroom house in which the family will live until larger quarters are available.

The little girls were orphaned last month when their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Larsen of Pine Creek, Idaho, were killed in a highway crash.

When Leona—who married a 28-year-old Lewiston paper mill worker 14 months ago—heard of the tragedy, she hurried to Pine Creek and took charge. She said she wanted to become the children's legal guardian.

Probate Judge Peter Dufresne approved. The Moores have no children of their own.

This community has been rallying to the family's support for several days. The Moores will live rent-free in the two-bedroom house for a month, or until a larger home is found. If one isn't available, lumber has been donated and the Carpenters Union has offered to add a bedroom to the present home.

Lewiston residents also have donated cash and a number of kitchen appliances. A mother's club says it will provide new clothing as the girls grow up. Moore's employer, Potlatch Forests, Inc., is donating the heat for the house.

Now all that's left is for the seventh orphaned Larsen child—15-year-old James—to come home. He's attending school at Nampa, Idaho, but he's expected to join the family soon.

Finds New Fuel For Rocketeers

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—A Belgian chemist says he has found a new fuel which may help boost rockets toward outer space.

Louis Lacroix, who specializes in preparing varnishes, thinks the process he discovered to manufacture this new fuel may increase the yield from heavily asphaltic crude oil, such as is produced in Venezuela.

At present this type of oil yields a comparatively small proportion of volatile fuels, Lacroix said. He said his experiments with Venezuelan crude had produced "astounding results" in high-octane fuel yield.

"So far, to obtain the high thrust power necessary to put rockets on their way," Lacroix said, "compounds of fluorine and boron were added to the fuel in use."

One property Lacroix claims for his fuel is the ready acceptance of fluorine-boron compounds without usual dangers.

Won Honors In Local And State 4-H Events In 1957

By MRS. AMELIA S. CAPEHART, Pitt County Negro Home Agent

Pitt County Negro 4-H Club boys and girls won signal honors in local and state contests last year. North Carolina Extension Department at A. and T. College, Greensboro, has announced.

They won state championships in leadership, field crops, gardening and frozen foods, and state health queen and second place in a district canning contest.

Pitt County Negro Farm Agent James M. Goode today extended congratulations to the winners and said "Pitt county Negro 4-H boys and girls are now winning more championships than the average county, and I attribute much of this prestige to the cooperation of parents and students.

Franklin Knight, a member of Bethel Senior 4-H Club, was selected state champion in leadership. He was a member of the Bethel 4-H Club four years.

In 1956, he won first place in a county, group, district and State Federation with a demonstration on increased peanut yields and won $37. Also in 1956, Knight participated in a state dairy judging contest with 39 counties participating and won fifth place. In October 1956, he participated in a State Tobacco Judging Contest.

From a school standpoint, Knight was president of his class in 1954, vice-president in 1955 and 1956. In 1955 he won first place on a debating team in competition with two counties. Knight was a member of the Crown and Septrre Club the past two years. Upon graduating in May 1957, Knight was named Valedictorian of his class. He is now attending Howard University, Washington, D.C.

William Smith, Jr., of the Senior 4-H Bethel Club, was declared to shows, health activities, safety programs and team demonstrations. In 1953-54 he carried dairying as a project and entered his calf in the district show and won a blue ribbon.

In 1955, William's project accomplishments were: Bred two purebred Jersey cows artificially; participated in the Four County Dairy Show and County Fair and won blue ribbons and $33 in premiums; exhibited a purebred Duroc Jersey gilt at the Pitt County Fair and Show and won blue ribbons and $20 in premiums; participated in the poultry chain and won $6.50 in premiums; entered a one-acre plot of tobacco in the Greenville 4-H Tobacco Show and sale and he won second place and $60 in premiums; participated on the county and district levels on judging poultry and hogs, and on the county and state level in judging tobacco.

In 1956, he carried and also had following accomplishments in 4-H Club projects: Dairying, exhibited dairy animal at the Pitt County Junior Show and Pitt County Fair and won $22 in premiums. He also won $5 at the Pitt County Fair for having the best fitted and showmanship of his dairy animal swine project. He won a blue ribbon with his Hampshire boar at the Pitt County Fair and $10 in premiums. In 1956, he participated in a state 4-H tobacco judging contest and was selected state champion in meat animal project, receiving a 17-jewel wrist watch as an award.

In 1957, he took gardening as a project and grossed a total of $78.88.

Along with his gardening project watermelons were one of his main crops, having one acre that netted a profit of $150.57. The garden products and watermelons were sold off of a pick-up truck to individual families and stores.

For being one of the most outstanding 4-H Club member in Pitt county and North Carolina he was selected to attend the 1957 Regional 4-H Camp, Washington, D.C. He spent seven days at the camp.

Arthur Council Jr., a former member of Bethel Senior 4-H Club, was declared state winner in Field Crops for 1957. During the first three years he selected meat animals as his main projects, including dairying and swine and in 1954 won the State Championship with meat animal projects.

In 1955, livestock and crops were his main projects, principally tobacco. The one-acre plot of tobacco was entered in the 4-H Tobacco Show and sale in Greenville in 1955. The one-acre plot of tobacco sold for $905.84 and yielded 1,760 pounds per acre. The acre netted $672.69. A premium of $10 was received for making one of the six best exhibits.

True, Father Is In A Garbage Can

COWFOLD, England (AP)—A daughter of the late Arthur H. Robins says it's true—the family had father cremated and threw his ashes in the garbage can.

No disrespect was intended. Robins, a 63-year-old stockbroker, specified this disposal of his remains in his will.

"Father was always a practical joker," the daughter, Mrs. Eve Sutton, said, "and I guess this was his last joke. None of the family was upset or startled about it."

"The ashes were just put in the bin in a matter-of-fact way and carted away with the ordinary household debris."

Robins did not forget the garbage collector, Harry Constable. He left him 10 pounds ($28) for hauling away his ashes.

"Mr. Robins was a bit of a card," Constable commented.

Miami Manhunt

A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

CHAPTER 1

I left my home and my true love, the more than slightly seaway Jessie, in good hands at the Indian Creek Marine Ways. She'd been in warm Caribbean waters for five months. The day before I'd gone over the side with a diving mask. I'd found her bottom foul with barnacles and grass. She'd been taking on more water than usual and I'd found suspicious gaps in the seams between her keel and both garboard strakes. Tomorrow they'd haul her. In the next two weeks they'd scrape her broad and matronly bottom. They would caulk her seams, apply several coats of paint to all exposed areas and in general prepare her to at least hold her own among ladies of her advanced age and extremely modest income bracket.

"Me? I'm Brad Dolan. I hailed the first cab I saw and loaded my battered suitcase and my slightly less battered self into it.

"Where to, Mac?" the cabbie said.

"The Beach," I said.

"He wormed his way into the line of traffic. 'Any place particular?'"

"I've got two weeks to spend and no reservation. Got an idea?" He twisted his watted neck and spoke from the side of his mouth. "Been to Miami Beach before?"

"Not recently."

"I guess maybe you know that's one place, everything depends on what you got to spend. You want a gold-plated telephone in your room, you want a lobby big enough to play football in, you got plenty places like that. You want a king-sized swimming pool that don't hardly anybody ever go into, they just lay around the edges getting tan and playing gin rummy, that's easy, too. These places I'm talking about, they'll cost you like a C-note a day. And that don't include no chow."

"For my money a lobby's just a place to walk through when you're going somewhere. I don't play gin rummy and I've never been able to discover any special demand for a man with a good tan."

He stopped for a red light. He rubbed at the wattles on his turkey neck and said, "You're a man speaks my language. I never seen the absolute necessity of a man going back to New York with his nose peeling and his back itching. And I never seen no gold-plated telephone could get a calf through any faster. This bill-a-day stuff, that's all uptown. Uptown, mink. Downtown, let-out muskrat. I can find you a place downtown, it'll cost you maybe eight bucks a day. You share kitchen privileges in the basement with the other tenants. You got to rough it, though. You got to swim in the Atlantic ocean."

"How about a happy medium?" The light changed. He jerked forward. "Sure. We got plenty of them, too."

"I'm easy to please, pal," I said. "Find me one of those."

The cabbie swerved around an olive-green Jaguar. A gorgeous number with a shock of bleached-blond hair was at the wheel. I looked at her and sighed noisily. And with feeling.

We were crossing the MacArthur Causeway. In a couple of minutes we turned south on Collins. The late afternoon sun was warm and the sidewalks teemed with women of all sizes and shapes. A mile or so down the avenue the cabbie swerved into a semicircular driveway and ground to a stop opposite the Stratford Arms, an imposing fifteen or twenty story ocean-side pile of steel and glass. In any other town in the country this edifice would have been a show-place. Here, in comparison with some of the other piles we'd passed in the last dozen or so blocks, it looked almost unpretentious.

"Last year's hotel, Mac," the cabbie said. "They'll more than likely tell you right off the bat they got no room for you. But try and leave without registering, they'll throw you down before you can get to the nearest exit." He grinned.

I said him, thanked him, surrendered my bag to a bellhop and went across the lobby to the desk. The clerk on duty had eyes like a wounded doe. He looked at my rumpled slacks, sports shirt and jacket, at my scuffed suitcase and then at me.

"You have a reservation, sir?" he asked.

A logical enough question, and the cabbie had warned me. But the words were inflected and delivered in a manner pre-planned to make the poor sucker without a reservation feel like a hired man who's busted into the parlor during a meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society.

I was in too much of a vacation mood, however, to let the guy shake me up. I'd mothered my loose change for a long while for a short-time fling in Miami, and I wasn't going to let some squirt with a master's degree in snobbery get me off on the wrong foot.

I tried to look and sound apologetic. It wasn't easy. "I... I'm sorry. I don't have a reservation."

He licked his lips in anticipation. Several people were waiting behind me and beside me. He had an audience.

The little man cast his eyes ceilingward. "Really, sir! You can't just walk in here at the height of the season and expect to get a room without—"

Quick steps sounded beside me. My right arm was caught in a firm clasp. I turned. The girl, standing beside me, holding my arm, was tall—not many inches shorter than I, and I'm six-three. A shock of dark, glistening, almost black hair fell to bare, golden-tanned shoulders. A proud youthful figure was outlined in the right places of the off-the-shoulder print dress that she wore. Her slanted eyes, set far apart, were a smoky gray. Her too-full lips had a sulky, downward pull at the corners. She was a big girl, vital, hipped, broad-shouldered. She was, I guessed, about twenty-four, maybe twenty-six. And she was a dish.

And I'd never seen her before. Her voice had a husky, intimate quality that started small vibrations chasing one another up and down my backbone: "You're real late, doll. Where've you been?"

A more stable citizen would have given this kid a rapid brush-off. I was to wish, many times in the days to come, that I had done exactly that. As it happened, I made the mistake of looking too closely at those slanty, smoky-gray eyes, the full red lips. That Jessie and I had been a sea for almost three weeks. Three weeks at sea can do strange things to a man's perspective. My knees went weak. I grinned, a little foolishly.

"Late," I said. "That's the capsule story of my life, baby."

She looked past me, into the main part of the lobby. When she looked back a me her eyes were troubled. Tiny worry lines showed through her make-up at the corners of her mouth. "Well, don't bother to explain now, honey." She smiled. The worry lines disappeared. Her voice now was a trifle too loud—almost as if she were speaking for someone else's benefit, rather than mine. "You

PICTURE TALK

By CHARLES BISSETTE

What is the color of Valentine's Day?

Somehow I think most of us think of Valentine's Day as full of color. And this gets me quickly to the subject of this column. If you're going to a Valentine's Day party, take your camera and be sure it's loaded with color film. Fill your pockets with flash bulbs and get set for some colorful party pictures.

A camera always makes any party more fun. People like to see pictures of themselves. And when they're in color and in a party setting, they really go for them. They used to say that if you could play the piano, you would be the life of the party. I think a fellow or girl with a camera is just as popular. And this popularity lasts for a long time after the party ends, which is the nice part of it. Besides, you don't have to "take lessons" to learn to operate a camera!

So why not drop in to see us load up on Kodachrome film and flash bulbs. Get set for some real fun at that Valentine's Day party this year. We can give you some tips on taking party pictures, too, if you like.

are here! That's all that matters. Have you got your room number?"

Instinctively, I said, "Wait a minute. I—"

Now there was tension in her voice. "Have you, doll?" Her hand tightened on my arm. I looked at her. I could have been wrong, but her eyes seemed to plead with me.

I didn't know exactly what the gimmick was, but my curiosity was aroused. Maybe this would turn out to be an honest case of mistaken identity, but that seemed hardly possible. The warmth of her voice, the endearments she'd used, were meant to spell old friends. I'd just fumble along, take my cues, and see what happened.

I finally got around to answering her question about the room. "Not yet. Buster here has been distinctly discouraging."

She raised her voice again as she spoke of the little man behind the desk. "Certainly you can find a room for my fiancé, Mr. Cockrell." She smiled at him, then added sweetly, "If you can't, I'm sure Mr. Novack can."

All the joyful anticipation went from the little man's face. "Well, Miss Blanding, I suppose we can make some sort of an arrangement for your fiancé. It won't be necessary to bother Mr. Novack, though."

"You're a sweetheart, Mr. Cockrell!" She loosened her grip on my arm long enough for me to sign the register, but she didn't leave my side.

Diamond Hunter Meets Success

PESHIGO, Wis. (AP)— Finding a diamond in deep snow may seem next to impossible, but Steward Jarvis, a Peshigo policeman, was equal to the task.

Miss Evelyn Brown reported that a 3/4 carat stone had fallen out of her ring into the snow as she stepped out of a car.

Jarvis shoveled the snow into a tub and melted it. He found the diamond in the second tubful.

Groceries Gone, Ripped Bag, Too

SUFFOLK, Va. (AP)— When Willie White's grocery bag ripped, he wasn't left holding anything.

White told police he left a grocery store with two bags of groceries when one of them started to rip. He set the bags down and went back into the store for a new bag.

When he returned the groceries were gone — ripped bag and all.

Wife And Three Children Still Await Word On West

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (P)—A tall, brown-eyed mother of three small children waits in comparative solitude for word from her amateur sailor husband who set out 13 days ago to make a 500-mile ocean voyage in an open outboard motor boat.

Mrs. Esther West, 28, is waiting out for a second time her husband Melvin's attempt to travel from here to Bermuda and prove that "outboard motor boats have come of age."

"I don't read the papers or listen to the radio this time," she said. "I got too upset last time he tried it."

"Now I'm just waiting until tomorrow, Melvin said if we didn't hear from him after two weeks was up to ask the Coast Guard to hunt for him."

West, 28, once a disc jockey for station WJNC in Jacksonville, N. C., left here Jan. 29 in an 18-foot boat called "Empress of North Carolina." He carried about 200 gallons of gasoline, navigation equipment, some fishing gear and rations for about eight days—mostly fruit juice, water and canned meats.

"He's hungry now, I can vouch for that," said G. R. (Sonny) Boulton, a close supporter and friend of West. "I wouldn't say now he's still in the boat," declared Boulton, who did not explain why he thought so. "He's got a mighty good rubber raft, besides four life preservers."

Among his navigation instruments, West had a radio receiver, but no transmitter, thus no way to communicate with the mainland. He reportedly had flares by which he could summon passing ships or airplanes.

The Coast Guard said last week it was running training flights out of Bermuda over West's planned route.

West's first attempt to make the journey in an open outboard motor boat was last October. After 12 days at sea, the Coast Guard picked him up 160 miles from his destination. He protested then that with repairs to his broken fuel line and extra fuel, he could have completed the trip alone.

The Wests have three children—Mory, 9, Melva, 3, and Barry, 19 months. Mory says his schoolmates twitted him about his father's first trip, which was widely criticized as a foolish venture. Before his father left the second time, Mory said, he told the son: "If there's something you want to do, and it's honest, and you leave in it, and it won't harm others, then do it."

WASHINGTON, N.C. (P)—A Naval Reserve officer just returned from a training cruise reported today that two destroyer escorts came upon an outboard motorboat drifting upside down in the Atlantic on Feb. 5. There was no sign of life aboard the tiny craft, the officer said.

The find, as reported by Lt. Commander Richard Tripp, immediately aroused speculation that it might shed light on the fate of Melvin West, who set out 13 days ago from Morehead City in an outboard motorboat.

Tripp, however, said he was under the definite impression that the boat located by the two destroyer escorts had two outboard motors mounted on its stern. At the time West set out from Morehead City, dispatches said his boat, "The Empress of North Carolina," had only one motor.

Tripp said the two naval vessels came on the drifting boat at a spot about 150 to 200 miles south southeast of Morehead City. It was east of the Gulf stream and drifting in a southerly direction.

"The seas were awfully rough," Tripp related. "The other ship put a boat over to go out and investigate the boat, but I don't think they could get any information about it because it was floating with the keel straight up in the air."

"I understand they did get the two motors," he added. "I personally didn't see two. I just heard a man say they got two."

"We didn't understand what an outboard motorboat was doing out there," he added. "But there are thousands along the coast, and we just figured one broke loose from its moorings and drifted out to sea."

Flag Presented To Explorer Post

Explorer Post 433, sponsored by the Hooker Memorial Christian Church, received an American Flag in ceremonies last night, donated by the Greenville Elks Lodge.

Presentation of the flag was made by Elk Leon Moore, Chairman of the Youth Activities Committee for the local Lodge. The flag was received by Post Advisor Joe Miller in behalf of the newly organized Scout unit.

In making the presentation, Moore lauded the Scouting movement and extended the Elks' best wishes for a successful and varied program in the future.

According to Moore, it has been the policy of the Elks Lodge to present American flags to all newly activated Scout units in Pitt County. Several flags have already been presented this year with a number of others being scheduled for the near future.

Completes Second Year At Helm

He became the first man to serve as administrative head of both the city government and the Utilities Commission.

Iraq And Jordan To Talk Merger

AMMAN, Jordan (P)—Iraq's King Faisal was due in Jordan today to discuss with his cousin King Hussein a royal merger to counter the overshadowing union of Egypt and Syria.

Indications grew that the kingdom of Saudi Arabia might join the two Hashemite realms of Jordan and Iraq in a federation—provided Iraq pulls out of the pro-Western Baghdad Pact that has alienated her from powerful nationalist elements in the Arab world.

Hussein and Faisal were expected to form some sort of union to stand off increasing pressure from Egypt and Syria to bring the rest of the Arab world under the banner of their newly formed United Arab Republic. A Hashemite federation would be basically opposed to the U.A.R., whose two members Jordan divides geographically. Syria long has viewed Jordan as a potential province.

Union with Iraq probably would spell the end of the little state of Jordan, which British created after World War I and gave independence to in 1946, Iraq—bigger, more populous and richer—undoubtedly would dominate such a union.

Official sources in Amman predicted that King Saud of Saudi Arabia might join the federation, although his family was long an arch foe of the Hashemites. To permit Saudi Arabia's entry, these informants said, Iraq might take certain steps.

Individual Hearings For 'Troublemakers'

NEW YORK (P)—Students suspended last week from the city's schools as troublemakers will get individual hearings to decide what is to be done with them.

Thirty-two assistant school superintendents will help decide whether each pupil is to be returned to school, sent to a special school for problem children or confined in an institution.

The hearings program was worked out by Mayor Robert F. Wagner and leading school and city officials.

The mayor and Gov. Averell Harriman scheduled a meeting tomorrow to discuss what assistance the state can offer.

Each student's parents, school principal, teacher or teachers involved in the complaint, representatives of the Attendance Bureau and the Bureau of Child Guidance and a probation officer if one is severely averse to attend the suspension hearings.

Severity of the offense, the student's attitude and the measure of cooperation which the honorable and willing to provide will be important factors in determining whether the pupil goes back to school, a City Hall statement said.

Schools Supt. William Jansen said the usual five-day limit in which a suspended student is entitled to a hearing will be extended indefinitely in the present crisis.

He said no more children will be suspended "for the moment except in serious cases." Academic high schools are excepted, however, he added.

In elementary, junior and vocational high schools 544 students were suspended last Friday. A third of the academic high schools reported about 100 suspensions. Figures for the others were not made available.

Jansen said there will be more suspensions in the academic high schools this week.

The suspensions followed a wave of rape, assault, knife and vandalism in or near schools. Both white and Negro students were involved.

Recommend 7 To Pitt Health Post

The School of Public Health at the University of North Carolina has recommended seven of its graduates for the vacant directorship of the Pitt County Health Department.

Names of the doctors who were recommended were not released. Directorship of the Health Department has been vacant since August, 1957, when Dr. Walter C. Humbert succumbed to a heart attack. Since Dr. Humbert's death, Dr. Joseph D. Franzoni has served as Acting Director.

The appeal came at a news conference at which Dulles also said that a foreign ministers conference is not an essential preliminary to holding an East-West summit conference. Dulles said evidence that agreement could be achieved by a summit conference is essential.

On the Tunisian issue which arose Saturday over French aerial attack on a Tunisian border village, Dulles refused to commit the United States to precise line of action.
