Georgian Tapped For State Ports Post; Must Explain Allegations By Lawmaker

RALEIGH (AP)—The man selected as director of the North Carolina State Ports Authority will not be hired until he makes a "full and complete explanation" of allegations made against him by a Georgia state senator. This was announced today by John M. Reeves, SPA chairman, who said allegations against D. Leon Williams of Savannah by Georgia State Sen. Bobby Lee Cook "came as a great shock to me and to the other members of the State Ports Authority."

Schwartz Charges Bring FBI Into Probe Of Agency

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Harris (D Ark) today promised full cooperation with an FBI probe of allegations that Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack received "thousands of dollars" from an attorney in a Miami television case. Harris said that the investigating subcommittee he heads will call Mack to testify "very soon" on the charges made by the group's ousted counsel Bernard Schwartz.

'Spaceman' Is In Home Stretch Of Lonely Trip

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Space man Donald Farrell was in the home stretch of his make-believe moon voyage today as Air Force scientists claimed the real thing could be done "very soon." Farrell, six-foot, 23-year-old airman from the Bronx, N.Y., spent more time sleeping, but the head of the Space Medicine School at Randolph Air Force Base said the young man was only "stammering down" from nervousness of his first few days in the space cabin. Farrell passes the 120-hour mark in the compact cabin today. He'll emerge from the "trip," a simulated space voyage in near-ly even, way, Sunday at 9:35 a.m., exactly seven days after he entered the chamber. Lt. Col. George Steinkamp, head of the department on space medicine, School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph Air Force Base, said he believed Farrell would gain weight during the make-believe journey.

Lay Preliminary Plans For Camporee

PLANNING FOR BOY SCOUT CAMPOREE... Whitfield, Parks, Webb, Malory, Duff, Eagles, Whichard.

An estimated 3,000 Boy Scouts from Eastern North Carolina will gather in Greenville this spring when the annual East Carolina Council Camporee is held in the city. Preliminary plans for the Camporee at which the Pitt County Boy Scout District will be hosts, is now in the hands of a steering committee under the chairmanship of Jim Malory. Other members of the steering committee are Sherman Parks, assistant chairman, Cpl. C. E. Whitfield, Erroll Webb, Erskine Duff, Connor Eagles, Leonard Bloxam, David Whichard, Robert Wilfong and Dr. Herbert Hadley. At a meeting last night members of the steering committee discussed preliminary plans and committee assignments for the camporee.

Polaris Subs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy today awarded contracts for three atomic-powered submarines to fire Polaris guided missiles. Two will be built by Electric Boat Division at Groton, Conn., and a third at the Mare Island, Calif., Naval Shipyard. The first of the three Polaris submarines probably will be completed by Electric Boat, a division of General Dynamics Corp. The first deliveries of the new missile firing submarines are expected in 1959, to coincide with the time when the ballistic missiles are expected to be ready for quantity production. It has been estimated the first boat will cost between 195 and 110 million dollars, with the cost of the next two dropping to between 85 and 90 million dollars. A supplemental appropriation bill passed by Congress this year carries 296 million dollars for starting the submarines. The Navy has asked that the initial program be expanded to a total of nine craft.

New School Tax Levy Tabled By Education Board

A proposal to request an additional supplemental tax levy for Greenville City Schools was tabled last night for further study by the Greenville City Board of Education. Members of the board will meet again next Thursday night for further consideration of the proposal to request an election in the Greenville School District to either accept or reject the idea. As it was presented last night, the proposal would call for an additional supplemental levy in the district to provide funds for expanded activities and services in the city schools. Any request for an additional levy would have to be approved by the Board of County Commissioners before it can be presented to voters in the school district. Also tabled for further study was a proposal to establish a citizens' committee for education. Superintendent J. H. Rose was directed by the board, as a part of the study proposal, to contact County Superintendent D. H. Conley to investigate possibilities of forming a joint city-county committee. The joint committee, as it was outlined, would work toward developing long-range educational plans for the county, including Greenville. Rose was also directed to report back to the board after his talks with Superintendent Conley.

Three members of the board, W. L. Allen, J. Knot Proctor and Mr. Herbert Harty, were appointed by Vice-Chairman Dr. E. J. Aycock to survey reported damages to the Eppes High School property. The board was told that a strip of land approximately 54 feet wide along a two-block-long distance was taken by the State Highway Commission when the U.S. 13-N.C. 11 by-pass was constructed. The committee, which Allen will head, will survey the property Monday afternoon and then go before division officials of the Highway Commission to discuss the matter. Superintendent Rose told the board that the area had been set aside as an athletic field for Eppes High School but that at the present time, there were dead trees and a drainage problem hindering pursuit of the project. Rose was named to assist the committee in its investigation and talks with the Highway Commission. The board gave its approval to a plan to offer a driver education program in the summer months instead of during the regular school term. Rose told the board, in recommending the action, that the driver education program will be a non-credit course and by offering it in the summer months the Senior High School would be free to continue its regular program during the term. The plan which was approved provides for two one-month courses during the summer. The program is expected to draw its greatest number of students from the ninth grade, Rose said, and will be a volunteer program. Approval of the plan as it was presented does not mean, the board said, that the program will not be offered during the regular term. It would be added then, according to the board, if the summer program does not reach as many students who want to participate. The plan is similar to one which has been adopted by several other school units in North Carolina since the 1957 General Assembly passed a law requiring that the course be offered. Can Add Rocket And Reach Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Put one more rocket motor on the Jupiter missile that launched the American satellite and you could reach the moon. Scientists who designed Explorer I disclosed this yesterday at a news conference called to report on the satellite's progress through the heavens. California Institute of Technology's jet propulsion laboratory has formally asked Defense Department permission to try to circle the moon with some future satellite. There is no thought at the moment, scientists said, of trying this with Explorer II, the second U.S. satellite now being rushed to completion at the jet lab. To reach the moon, a fifth rocket stage would be added to the four stages of the Jupiter-C. This stage, however, would be added to the nose of the missile, not the base. Dr. Henry Richter and other scientists at the news conference said Explorer I is performing as they expected it would. Radioed information indicates that a human could live in a satellite. "Room temperature" is being maintained inside the satellite and measuring devices indicate no great peril from cosmic rays or small meteorites in space.

Two Candidates Pay Filing Fee

County Board of Elections Chairman D. J. Spain said this morning that Frank M. Wooten Jr. and Louis I. Tyson have paid filing fees to qualify for places on Pitt County's ballots in the May primary. Wooten paid $18 to officially become a candidate for a seat of the North Carolina General Assembly's House of Representatives. He announced his candidacy yesterday. Tyson paid $5 to become a candidate for constable of Belvoir township. The post has been vacant for some time.

Governor Invited To Conferences

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges will be invited to address regional industrial development conferences in the Western, Piedmont and mountain sections of the state. Plans for the three conferences were approved yesterday by the Commerce and Industry Committee of the State Board of Conservation and Development. Greenville and Greensboro have been designated as the sites for conferences in those areas, while Asheville is the likely site for the mountain section.

Fire Truck Ordered For Grifton

Community Fire Association Places Order For Rural Fire Fighting Unit

GRIFTON (AP)—The Grifton Community Fire Association last night placed an order for a 1,000-gallon capacity rural fire fighting truck. Delivery of the new fire truck is expected within 60 days. Bids for the truck and equipment were opened at a meeting of the Fire Association here last night. Order for the truck chassis was awarded to S. and E. Motor Co. of Ayden whose bid was $2,335.69. Equipment order for the truck went to the American Fire Equipment Co. of Battle Creek, Mich. Their bid was $5,602.50. The truck and equipment will be assembled in Battle Creek and the total delivered price to Grifton will be $7,938.19. Association President Bruck Garrett said this morning the rural fire fighting truck will be used in Pitt and Lenoir Counties in an area surrounding Grifton. It will be housed and maintained by the Town of Grifton and will be manned by the Grifton Volunteer Fire Department. Memberships in the association are now being sold. Farmers are assessed $5 per building on their farm for every structure larger than 16 by 16 feet. The assessment will be for the life of the truck. So far $5,340 has been raised through assessments and a balance of $2,648.19 is needed. Garrett said it is hoped the remainder of the money can be raised before the association's next meeting on Jan. 10. "If you have not joined the association and wish to do so, please see one of our officers or directors at once," Garrett urged those living in the Grifton area. Frank Hines is vice president and secretary of the association and Larry Jackson is treasurer. Directors are Wiley Gaskins, Fred Stokes, Sr., Dan Sutton, Sam McLawhorn, Jr., Brown Hodges, Fred Taylor, Wilson Smith and J. G. Franklin. The association was organized last Jan. 10.

This 'Chicken-nik' Barely Missed 2 In Pickup Truck

By EVERETTE PARKER, Reflector Staff Writer. STOKES—In this space age of Sputniks and nutniks, flying saucers and missiles, they've come up with something new here. A chicken-nik. It began its flight this morning but ran into an unforeseen obstacle. A truck came along just as the new flying object got approximately four feet off the ground. The flight came to an untimely end. The launching occurred about one-half mile south of here on N.C. Highway 903. Scientifically speaking, the launcher was an unidentified automobile. The chicken-nik was not a newly-invented missile. It was simply an old hen, weighing between five and six pounds. There were only two witnesses to the unusual launching, Garland Jernigan of Elm Grove near Windsor in Bertie County and Mack Harden of Windsor Rt. 3. They were occupants of the truck that caused the chicken-nik's failure. They had a story to tell and evidence to back it up. They were on their way to Farmville early this morning when "it" happened. They were meeting an automobile when a big fat hen ran into the path of the oncoming vehicle. The car, Jernigan said, struck the hen and sent it flying through the air. The hen struck the windshield of the pickup truck at an angle and tore a hole approximately a foot and a half wide in it. Going between the two men, the bird continued its flight through the back glass, and came to rest on the shoulder of the highway. The hole in the rear glass measured about a foot wide. Jernigan said, "That old hen came through the cab just like a bullet." Harden, who was sitting just to the right of the point where the fouled-up fowl made her entry, said, "I felt a breeze whiz right by my head." "It all happened so fast I really didn't get a good look at the hen until we stopped the truck and went back to see what had hit us." "Other than the hen, Harden got the worst end of the bargain. He had egg smeared all over his left shoulder and received a number of small cuts on his face and neck. "I figure that bird could have hurt me real bad if she had hit me," he commented. As soon as the freak accident occurred the two men turned their truck around and headed back where they stopped at Roebuck and Parker's service station. Before too long they had a fairly sizable audience to tell their story. There was egg, feathers, little pieces of chicken and glass all over the inside of the cab and back of the truck. Jernigan said he and Harden had to pull off their shoes and clothes to clean up. "There was glass, feathers, and blood all over us," he stated. Jernigan explained that he and Harden were off work today and decided to ride to Farmville. "Looks like to me we would have been better off working," he added. The driver of the automobile that launched the chicken-nik did not stop, the two Bertie County residents said. "And I've only got liability insurance on my truck," Jernigan said. "Oh well, I guess we were lucky anyway. Who knows what would have happened if that hen had hit one of us." After covering the two gaping holes with pieces of cardboard, the two men resumed their trip to Farmville. Apparently they were none the worse for their experience except maybe for a chilly ride to Farmville and back home where they haven't started launching guided and unguided missiles yet. Incidentally the hen died.

Mrs. Harvey Gives Sketch Of Lanier

Mrs. E. W. Harvey pointed out, "Music and poetry dominated the life of Sidney Lanier." She gave a short sketch of Lanier at the George B. Singletary Chapter of the U. D. C. meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. R. Smith.

"The South has given great poets to the world, but none greater than Sidney Lanier. He did not spend his life wholly in fighting. Reading, playing the flute, and writing poetry filled many of his hours," said Mrs. Harvey.

Lanier, whose birthday is celebrated in February, was born in Macon, Ga. in 1842 and died in Lyn, N. C. in 1881. He graduated from a small Southern college in 1860 at the age of 18, and entered the Confederate Army.

Mrs. Harvey read a paper, "Music of the Confederate Soldiers," by Mrs. Homer L. Wilson.

"The songs they sang and the music in which they found comfort should never be lost in the passage of time. It is our responsibility and privilege to assist in the preservation of this matchless contribution to the music of our nation, now reunited under one flag and composed of Americans all," explained the speaker.

Mrs. Harvey, president, welcomed members and guests, Mrs. Sallie Irons and Mrs. J. L. Hassell.

Hostesses, Mrs. Annie Pittman, Mrs. George Franklin, and Mrs. Smith, assisted by Mrs. J. G. Lautes and Miss Susan Franklin, granddaughter of Mrs. Smith, served homemade cake, coffee and nuts.

VALENTINE SUPPER

- Glazed Ham Sweet Potato Puff Broccoli Salad Bowl
- Hot Biscuits
- Ice Cream with Heart Cookies Beverage

GLAZED HAM

Ingredients: One 6-pound half fully-cooked ham (butt end), 1 cup dark brown sugar (free of lumps and tightly packed), 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 can (4 1-4 ounces) strained apple juice and apricots, whole cloves.

Method: Place room-temperature ham in small shallow roasting pan; do not score. Mix brown sugar, mustard and 1-4 cup of the fruit juice until smooth. Insert whole cloves, about 1 inch apart, over fat surface of ham. Spoon glaze mixture over ham. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven, 1 hour; baste every 15 minutes. After basting the second time, add remaining fruit juice to pan. At end of baking time, remove from oven and baste; allow to rest about 15 minutes and baste again with thick glaze. Serve at once. Ham will be warmed through.

BPWC Observes 20th Birthday Last Night

Dr. Ralph Brimley, director of Public Relations and Foundations at East Carolina College, was guest speaker at the 20th birthday celebration of the Business and Professional Women's Club last night at the Greenville Woman's Club.

In discussing the topic, "Breaking the Barrier of Non Participation," Dr. Brimley said, "If America is going to continue to be great, we must overcome the inertia which seems typical of us today. We are too complacent. We have a responsibility and an opportunity. We must first recognize our problem, and then work out a solution."

He told how parents of mentally retarded children had brought pressure on the legislators and had secured appropriations for special classes for them. Driver training is another example of how people can solve a problem if action is taken, stated the speaker.

Mrs. Ruth Garner, co-chairman of the Public Affairs Committee, had charge of the program and introduced Dr. Brimley.

Guests included Mrs. Beulah Worley of Goldsboro, director of the Seventh District; Mrs. Louise White, also of Goldsboro, district secretary; Mrs. Grace Folger, president of the Goldsboro club, and seven other members; president of the Kinston club and a member, Miss Pearl Atkins; four members from New Bern; and ten local guests.

Mrs. C. J. Bradner Jr. sang two numbers. She was accompanied by Miss Mildred Southwick.

The invocation was given by Miss Elizabeth Deal and the closing Collect was led by Mrs. Kemp H. Baldwin.

Mrs. Margaret Farley, local president, extended greetings and presided at the birthday dinner meeting.

30 Years Ago VFW Auxiliary Fetes Husbands Today

February 14, 1923

Miss Mary Lou White left this morning for Chapel Hill to attend the German Club dance.

Miss Mary Moye Savage is here from Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Bowling, Misses Bettie White and Grace McGuire were in Raleigh this afternoon to see "The King's Henchman."

First work in connection with the addition to the Free Will Baptist Church, corner Twelfth and Cotanche Streets, began yesterday. Rev. T. E. Beaman, pastor of the church, announced this morning. The annex will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000.

"Husbands Night" was observed last evening by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars at a Valentine Party.

The occasion featured a covered dish supper held at the National Guard Armory.

A heart-shaped centerpiece topped with red carnations and velvet hearts entwined with a white tulle bow adorned the principal table. Red candles flanked each end. Valentine place cards and candles were used on the auxiliary tables.

The husbands of members were honored guests. Special guests included members of the post and their wives.

During the dining hour, recorded music was played. Games and contests appropriate to the Valentine season were planned for those present to complete the affair.

Survey Of Modern America Shows:

Modern Housewives Happy, Self-Satisfied

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Newsfeatures Writer ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—The modern American housewife is—other reports to the contrary—happy, self-satisfied, well adjusted to her life, content to let her husband rule the roost and puts the welfare of her family ahead of any career ideas she may harbor. A study of nearly 600 married women in upstate New York cities, conducted by Cornell University's Department of Sociology and Anthropology, knocked out some widely held ideas of woman's discontent with her modern lot.

Even Enjoy Cooking Overwhelmingly, the women reported that they enjoyed cooking "interesting" meals and denied they hated housework. They also confessed they thought of themselves as interesting people and that they did not feel their education was going to waste.

Among the more interesting results of the survey were answers to series of questions about goals in life, likes and dislikes. While 472 out of 521 women said one of their main goals was being a good wife and 455 checked "raising children properly," only 121 noted down outside-the-home good works, only 180 chose "being a religious person," only 136 noted "being creative, using your own talents and abilities," 117 "being a person who is interesting to other people." And—lowest number of all—63 chose "being successful in a job, or business or profession."

Well over half the women said they believed a person had a right to use birth-control and that a woman could be happy without children of her own. While 218 women said that a sex life is naturally less important to a woman than to a man, 243 said the opposite and 105 were not sure. And 169 women were of the opinion that "a woman doesn't enjoy sex life as much as a man does," while 243 women denied it—and 87 were not sure one way or the other.

To the critical question on how satisfied they were with their life, 278 reported they were very satisfied; 225, fairly satisfied, and 17, not very satisfied. The study included married women between 25 and 49 years of age in financial brackets ranging from poor to $25,000 a year. Some of the questions were designed to chart women's attitudes on feminine emancipation. Most women, regardless of educational background, felt it was "all right" to become a lawyer, an electrical engineer, to travel long distances alone, take part in politics, have interests outside the house—even to remain unmarried, if she wished. It was noted that more women who were college graduates advocated feminine independence than their less well educated sisters, who tended generally to be more conservative and traditional in their attitudes.

A majority of the women studied felt that the husband's roles in the home were primarily that of breadwinner, as a "regiment in reserve" in disciplining the children and handyman—taking out the garbage, mowing the lawn and coping with the storm windows. All of them held up the ideal of family "togetherness." Education Helps The study showed that the most contented of housewives are the young, highly educated, emancipated women. The most discontented were the young, poorly educated but emancipated women. "I'm guessing that this discontented young woman is out of tune with her environment," commented Prof. Robin M. Williams Jr., one of the investigators. "She thinks she has a right to do anything but can't do anything and thus is caught in a real conflict." The survey confirmed the long suspected existence of one group of married women with special problems: young mothers with small children. "Frequently," said Williams, "they feel isolated, overwhelmed by the house, their duties and a sense of 'copelessness.'"

BSU Students To Appear In Church Program

Members of the Baptist Student Union at East Carolina College will conduct a program on "Your Church at College" at the Port Barnwell Baptist Church, Dover, Sunday at 11 a.m.

The visit of the East Carolina students to Dover is part of the "Operation Outreach" program sponsored by the North Carolina BSU. The purpose is to acquaint local churches with the aims and activities of BSU organizations on college campuses. Lloyd Allen, junior from Four Oaks, is in charge of "Operation Outreach" at East Carolina.

Participating in Sunday's program at Dover, in addition to Allen, will be H. Burtleigh Hill of Ahoskie; Jean Slaughter of Blanch; George Peacock of Chadbourne; Martha Underhill of Selma; Patricia C. Dunn, Rt. 5, Raleigh; and Carolyn Tripp of Shalotte.

Newly Married Actor Sued

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Newly remarried actor Allan Jones was sued for back alimony yesterday by actress Irene Hervey.

She alleged he is $1,350 in arrears on $3,000 due since they signed a financial settlement Dec. 26. It allotted her $1,500 a month for life unless she remarries.

The actress divorced Jones Dec. 27. The same day he married Mrs. Mary Florsheim Packing, shoe fortune heiress.

crimson hearts were scattered over the white linen cloths of each table and Valentine napkins were used.

Mrs. Bullock introduced the speaker, Mrs. Lillie B. Little, home demonstration agent, who gave an illustrative lecture on "Beautification of Homestead." This included improving new homes and remodeling homes, exterior of home and farm buildings and landscaping. At the conclusion of this talk Mrs. Little introduced Clarke Stokes, chairman of Pitt County Progress Program, who talked on family food supply, grown and conserved, developing additional sources of income, and improving old farming enterprises. After this, Sam Weeks, who is connected with the Extension Service, gave a talk on beautification of churches, community buildings, and road sides.

Stokes and Henry Rogerson won in a "Get Ready for Travel" and Marshal Whitehurst won in a "Valentine Contest."

Home Demonstration curb markets brought in more than $355,000 to 600 families during 1957.

Bethel HD Club Fete Husbands At Valentine Party

BETHEL—On Friday night the members of Bethel Home Demonstration Club had their annual husband's night meeting in the Rotary Club House.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Williamson Sr. received the guests and directed them to a table where Mrs. F. C. James assisted by Mrs. W. J. Taylor Sr. served an appetizer.

Mrs. R. R. Whitehurst welcomed the guests and Robert Martin made the response. Mrs. W. R. Bullock, president, called on the Rev. Carlos Womack for the invocation.

The 53 persons present served themselves from an appointed table covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a Valentine arrangement encircled by flowers shaped in a low arrangement and flanked by burning red candles that featured Cupid slipping Valentines into a pink paper mailbox. The pink Cupid, outlined with red, stood on the stem of a camellia. To continue the theme,

PTA Has Panel Discussion

GRIFTON—A panel composed of teenagers, parents, and pre-teenagers discussed better understanding among students and parents at the PTA meeting Tuesday night.

John Smith, Jimmy Rogers, Bill Butcher, Judy Hart, and Emily Nelson served on the teenager's panel with the Rev. H. C. Gravely as moderator. Parents were John Coward, Joe Bass, Mrs. Charles Stone, Mrs. John Groet and Mrs. Paul Bateman.

The pre-teen group was composed of Cynthia Gravely, Warner Burch, Mary Jo Quinerty, Kenneth Tyndall and Robert Triplette. Joe Goodsy was moderator. Parents participating were Mrs. Joe Shaw, Mrs. Tom Gower, Mrs. James Hudson, and Judge Burkette.

W. M. January, president, called the meeting to order and the invocation was given by the Rev. Gravely. Mrs. Alma Buck led the group in the school song. Committee reports and announcements were given.

Barbara Taylor was presented the PTA award for the year by the home economics department teacher, Mrs. Don Casey.

Attendance awards went to Mrs. Dillingham's third and Mrs. Chapell's tenth grades.

Life Of Eugene O'Neill Told By Dr. Utterback

Eugene O'Neill's successful Broadway play, "Long Days Journey Into Night," has been chosen to be presented at the Edinburg Festival next summer, said Dr. Elizabeth Utterback, speaker at the Pine Arts Department of the Woman's Club Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Utterback presented a review of this prize-winning drama

Mrs. J. D. Haney, hostess, invited members into the dining room for refreshments that carried out a Valentine theme. Mrs. W. C. Harris and Mrs. N. O. Van-Nortwick were co-hostesses.

Fifteen members and one guest, Miss Lottie Ellis, were welcomed by Mrs. R. P. Rogers, chairman.

Mrs. Tate Named Class Treasurer

GRIFTON—Mrs. Wilson Tate was elected treasurer of the Mary Martha Class of the Baptist Church Monday night when the group met at the home of Mrs. G. L. Little.

Mrs. Rex Thorne was appointed group captain to replace Mrs. Caye Modlin. An invitation has been extended the class to attend the Sweetheart banquet sponsored by the Training Union in Greenville Saturday night.

Mrs. Little gave the devotional and call to order. Business was conducted by Mrs. D. H. McCoolough. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Robert Midgrett, served refreshments of the Valentine motif to the 20 members present.

Hurricanes Are Her Business

By DOROTHY ROE Some women raise double-ruffled petunias. Joanne Malkus gets her kicks by flying into hurricanes.

This rather wispy, timid-looking blonde is in fact one of the five top meteorologists in the world, and besides her hurricane research runs a big home in Woods Hole, Mass., does all the cooking for her husband and two sons, and is an expert at most sports, particularly skiing and sailing.

She and her husband, Dr. William Malkus, a well-known physicist, occasionally work together in their flying laboratory, watching little storms grow into big ones, measuring their intensity and photographing their cloud formations.

Joanne is head of the meteorology department at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, and in addition teaches the subject at MIT. Her specialty is tropical storms, and she's never happier than when flying over a Pacific typhoon or an Atlantic hurricane.

"The clouds are beautiful," says she, with the expression of a mother admiring her first-born. "There's nothing more majestic than a tropical storm, seen from the air."

Stretching Dollars

By PEGGY SMITH Reflector Staff Writer If local grocery buyers are looking for economical products to stretch their food dollars, macaroni foods are the answer.

These foods are not only economical but good choices for tasty, nutritious eating. They are year-round and quick to prepare. Combined with a number of other foods, macaroni will help stretch the budget and make tempting dishes.

A macaroni or spaghetti dish enriched with a meat or cheese sauce needs only the accompaniment of a green salad to provide a well-rounded meal.

The most plentiful and economically priced fruit on the local market is by far apples. Fancy fruits such as plums and nectarines from South America are on the fruit counter at high prices.

Cold weather in Florida and elsewhere in the South has held back growth and shipments which has caused higher prices. Carrots, onions, and cabbage are available at higher prices on the vegetable counter. Reasonably priced lettuce from California can be found this week.

As are most greens reaching the market, celery prices have gone up due to scarcity in overall vegetable produce. With fresh vegetable supplies very short, processed vegetables seem to be the only answer.

Buyers should check the dairy counter for good supplies to extend the protein dollar. Milk and cheese products are nutritious foods that should be included in meal planning every day.

Meats See Little Change There has been very little change in the meat department. Pork prices are continuing to be unsettled. Bacon shows some decline in price over last week.

Picnics and hams are remaining steady. The choice grades of beef are down slightly in price with other grades of beef remaining about the same. Veal prices are higher while lamb prices still show no change.

Most processed meats are slightly higher priced. Poultry products have seen no change. Broilers remain at last week's levels in supply and demand. Heavy hens are scarce, yet attractive in price. Continuing to be the best buy in eggs are large Grade A eggs.

Presidents Get Romantic On Valentine's, Too

WASHINGTON (AP)—Valentine's Day seems like the perfect time to squelch any notions that only the poets can properly sing the joys of love.

American presidents have had a bit to say on the subject too. In fact, you'd think from some of their romantic remarks that a few of the presidents knew as much about the gentle ways of the heart as about the rough and ready of politics.

George Washington spoke of reveling in "an ocean of love," and Thomas Jefferson described the "tranquil happiness" that flows when two persons fall for each other.

Teddy Roosevelt rhapsodized more emphatically. "There is no other such happiness on earth as there is for a true lover, and a sweet, fair girl beloved," he said.

Some of the presidents found Cupid evasive for awhile. When plump Mary Owens rejected Abraham Lincoln's proposal in 1838, the shy young Illinois lawyer voiced his feelings to a friend.

"I have now come to the conclusion never again to think of marrying, and for this reason I can never be satisfied with any one who would be blockhead enough to have me," wrote Lincoln.

Four years later Lincoln married Mary Todd and proceeded to voice his "profound wonder" that she would have him.

Rutherford Hayes, a dapper and dashing ladies man in his Harvard days, fell madly in love with pretty Lucy Webb, who was nearly 10 years his junior. His diaries tell vividly of the see-saw joys and heartaches of courtship.

When at last they were married in 1852, Hayes exulted: "Can anything enjoyed on earth be a source of truer, purer happiness more unalloyed than this? Blessings on his head who first invented marriage!"

Woodrow Wilson, a more reserved man, nevertheless couldn't restrain expressing his ardor for Ellen Axson, the preacher's daughter who became his first wife in 1885.

"A man who lives only for himself has not begun to live," said Wilson. "It is not necessary he should marry to find himself out, but it is necessary he should love."

Washington, while firmly in favor of young love, warned of a price girls must pay if they capture their man. Writing to his niece Eleanor Parke Custis in 1795 he declared: "A woman all beautiful and accomplished will, while her hand and heart are indisposed of, turn the heads and set the circle in which she moves on fire. Let her marry and what is the consequence? The madness ceases and all is quiet again."

But Washington had not the slightest doubt that love would still make the world go round.

Low-Cost Government's Advocate

One of the few real specialists in Congress will step down from his position at the end of this year. The leadership and guidance he has afforded in shaping the nation's financial policies will be sorely missed.

Sen. Harry Flood Byrd, during his long tenure in the Senate has become one of the nation's leading authorities on government finance. He has afforded from his strategic position vital leadership. Though often criticized for his conservative viewpoint, he has gained a measure of respect and admiration aspired to by many but achieved by few.

During his quarter century in the Senate, Sen. Byrd has fought a valiant, often lonely battle against growing federal bureaucracy and greater government spending. His name has become synonymous with the fight for economy in government operations. Though government expenditures have continued to increase over the years, and though the number of federal employees has grown by leaps and bounds, Byrd has not retreated from his position. Indeed, without his efforts the extravagance and outright waste in federal government operations would have cost American taxpayers many times what they actually have in the past 25 years.

More often than not Sen. Byrd appeared as a lone voice calling for economy in a wilderness of lavish federal spending. Surprising as it is, that lone voice was often heard, and brought restraint and reconsideration of fabulous government spending proposals. Though Sen. Byrd retires from the Senate after the current session of Congress, it is our hope that his strong, effective voice for economy in government will continue to be heard and heeded in this nation.

An Exciting Change Bestowed By Nature

It was pretty while it lasted. The snow, we mean. Only objection we see to the short-lived blanket of white that covered Pitt County early yesterday morning was that most of it was gone before the school kids got a chance to romp in it.

As snows in Pitt County go, the one yesterday was just about perfect. It was enough to cover the ground and afford the kids a few snowmen and an abundant supply of snowballs. It was enough to give the grownups an excuse to talk about the big snows of bygone years.

At the same time, it wasn't enough snow to hang around for days and make everybody miserable. It wasn't enough to make the roads slippery or to create the awful slush that is often the aftermath of a pretty snow.

Yes sir, nature smiled on Pitt County yesterday by giving us a beautiful change of scenery that lasted just long enough to be exciting and was gone before it got boring.

Some Gee-Whiz Business Items

By ELMER ROESSNER
Here is a roundup of strange, curious and almost incredible items in the world of business:

Candy for cows is now manufactured by Cargill. It consists of corn and molasses. Cows have about three-fourths the nutritional value of corn and the molasses makes them even more nourishing and yummy. . . .

In a new plan being organized in Georgia, trading stamps can be exchanged for the finest premium in the world: money. Space Blue and Comet Brown will be featured in male slacks this spring by Asher Co.

Mystery boxes containing $45 in gifts, offered at $25, sold out in a day at Nieman-Marcus, Dallas.

Your chances of becoming a criminal have greatly improved. States enacted a total of 29,536 new laws in 1957. Commerce Clearing House reports . . .

Buyers of $1,000 worth of new securities promised by Barton Distilling will get rights to buy five barrels of bourbon in 1961, if the SEC agrees. . . . Soap and perfume people are falling down on the job: the marriage rate declined more than 5 per cent last year.

CAUTION SAVES MILLIONS. West Germany Industrial Association members were saved $4,000,000 last year by its Committee to Refuse to Make Donations, set up to spotphony milde Gaben. . . . Long Island Red Cross workers rushed 1,000 sweaters to Florida fruit pickers during the recent cold snap.

Dun & Bradstreet calculates the typical paint and wallpaper dealer made 3 per cent on sales before taxes in 1956. The packaging industry, which used to talk about the importance of packages that said, "Buy me!" is now talking about packages that "take people by the hand."

Zanzibar produced a record high of 65,000,000 pounds of cloves last year. . . . You might never expect it, but Mexico is suffering from a shortage of beans. . . . Supplies of grains of paradise on the New York market are tight.

GENEROSITY PAYS. A Salt Lake City carpet store bought eight $500 carpet cleaning machines which it lends free to customers. They have increased sales and kept customers happier. . . .

A Melbourne, Australia, maker of men's wear has asked the U. S. Department of Commerce to find a source of American designs and know-how. . . . While a California store was being redecorated, it dressed all employees in painters' clothes. . . . A new company is planning to issue charge plates for taxi rides on credit.

Which reminds us: One of the nuisances at most trade shows is the time spent in filling out cards for further information on materials displayed. But visitors at the Design Engineering Show in Chicago next month will be given plates with their names and addresses printed thereon. When more information is desired, the visitor will simply hand the plate to a booth attendant and a print will be made automatically. MORE FLACKS PREDICTED. Public Relations News predicts 200 new public relations departments will be established this year. If that's true, we predict that each of them will send this department 200 releases it couldn't possibly use.

Harry O. Bressler, Chicago ice-cream man, complains that while every other process has become mechanized, ice cream is still scooped out of containers the way it was 50 years ago. "It is important that agencies coming to us with toy ideas involving their products or clients should keep in mind that a successful toy must, first of all, have play value," Melvin Helitzer, advertising director, Ideal Toy Corp., told the Sales Promotion Executives Club of New York.

"Ideal makes dolls which talk, walk, cry, wet and blow their noses, but recently we were approached with the idea of making a Marilyn Monroe doll. After a good deal of thought, we decided against it. Nobody could figure out what the doll should do."

"A change in political administration has not made much headway against the assault on privately owned power and light companies nor socialized medicine, to name two areas. Either one, if we are to accept the socialistic trend, would jeopardize other facets of the American Way and require more controls rather than fewer controls."

Burlingame (Kans.) Enterprise-Chronicle.

"The continued emphasis of crime in television programs accomplishes one end which few may realize. It has a tendency to cheapen life. Television characters 'die' by the dozens every day in racket shows, westerns, highway stories, waterfront dramas, police case histories, etc. A young mind is impressed the wrong way."—Garner, Iowa, Leader.

"If we are sincere in wanting a farmer owned and controlled electric cooperative system, we will work aggressively for changes in the legislation which will provide for gradual assumption of farmer ownership."—Chas. B. Shuman, President of American Farm Bureau Federation.

"Last year we were told that unless the Federal Government came across with billions of dollars to build schoolrooms across the country education was doomed. But hardly anybody mentions that these days. Is it fair to ask the Federal aiders what happened to the schoolroom crisis?"—Wall Street Journal.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SOURCE OF ALL SECURITY
What constitutes a firm religious faith?
A firm religious faith is based on the conviction that there is a God in heaven who has made all things, who controls all things, who loves his children, and who will reward obedience and punish disobedience.
Religious faith may take many forms. Men approach religious problems from a number of different angles. But a firm belief in a self-revealing God who is righteous, just, and loving, lies at the basis of all religious faith, no matter to what particular church or branch of the church a man may give his allegiance.
Of all the steady influences in life, nothing produces and maintains balance so effectively as does religious faith. People long for riches and believe that if they had them, they would be happy. Others believe that the fulfillment of life lies in romance, or in achievement, or in position which gives them power over the lives of others. But none of these things in themselves bring happiness. They are, to be sure, sources of satisfaction, but real satisfaction is something of the inner heart. We have it, not when we possess, certain things, but when certain things possess us.

Confidence in a righteous, powerful, and loving God and obedience to His will is the only unending and complete source of contentment and peace.

Deals With Brides

NEW YORK (AP)—The tall slender bride was being married in her mother's gown, and she insisted that it be altered so that it would trail on the floor.

She was so fussy on this point, that John Van Drill finally asked her why.

"My fiancé is shorter than I am—and sensitive about it," she explained. "So I am going to be married with my shoes off. Then I won't have to look down on him when I say 'I do.'"

"That's why the dress has to sweep the floor. I don't want my feet to show."

This is one of many odd incidents that have befallen Van Drill, who is known as "the wedding gown king." As president of the Le Boeuf firm in East Orange, N.J., he is the nation's top specialist in cleaning and preserving wedding outfits.

His concern handled 30,000 gowns last year, grossed more than a million dollars.

Van Drill, a short, dark-haired kindly man of 44, is a self-made specialist. He got a job in a dry cleaning plant at 14, after his father's death. At night he read everything he could find in the library on cleaning, dyeing and fabrics. In time he became foreman.

"The plant wouldn't allow us to clean wedding gowns—they were too risky," he recalled. So Van Drill cashed his war bond savings, borrowed money from friends, and went into business for himself.

Now he has customers across the land, many of whom send him for repair and restoration wedding finery that has been treasured in families for generations.

"In former times most wedding gowns were made by brides themselves, by their relatives or by dressmakers," he said. "And they made them out of everything from wool blankets to flour sacks, table cloths and lace curtains."

"One woman, asking us to be especially careful of her heirloom, told us it had been woven in a Union prison during the war by one of her ancestors, a Confederate soldier."

Today the nation's stores sell between 700,000 and 800,000 wedding gowns yearly. It's a 100-million-dollar industry. The gowns cost an average of $125, but range from $39 to $1,800. Van Drill himself says a bride can do right nicely for $69.

Many brides, of course, want to be married in the same gown worn by their mother and grandmother. But often the gown, left to hang in the attic, has fallen victim to mice, moths and moisture. The task of restoring it sometimes requires a fabric miracle.

"But brides are the best people in the world to deal with," said Van Drill. "They are approaching one of the most emotional moments of their lives, and they are deeply grateful for any help you give them."

On the other hand, a few wives have come to him later and wanted to pawn or sell their wedding gowns. One bride, who had been married twice in the same gown and lost both husbands, asked him to dye the gown blue for her third wedding.

"Maybe that'll change my luck," she said cheerfully. "After all, blue has always been my lucky color."

But the bride he remembers most is one he never met. She sent a brand new wedding dress, lovely and shimmering, to be preserved and sealed in foil.

With it came this note: "I want to keep it all my life. It has never been worn and never will be. My fiancé was killed in a plane crash on the way to our wedding."

A 'Let Us Alone Week'?

The ever-present matter of drives, campaigns and solicitations of funds was the topic at the coffee clutch the other morning.

It all started with a comment about the seemingly inexhaustible supply of proclamations that declare a special week for this and a special week for that.

Now the members of the Saucer-and-Blow Club are delighted to contribute all they can to the worthwhile organizations that look to public donations to carry on their important work. The only bone of contention is the regularity with which the public is called upon for contributions.

Opined one member, "I'll bet I get hit every week to contribute to one thing or another."

"In that case you're missed by a good many drives," said another. "I get asked for a donation almost every day it seems like."

Another member took a long swig of the hot, black liquid, smacked his lips and took the floor: "All we need is just one week out of the year when we don't get called on," he declared. "We ought to get the mayor to declare one week out of every 52 'Let Us Alone Week.' It would have a profound psychological effect on the public's response to worthy fund-raising campaigns."

He might have a point.

Did you hear the one about the minister who lost his record player?

Well, the story is going around town, and since I heard it from a member of the Ministerial Association, I suppose it is all right to repeat.

Besides that, the minister who provided the information attests to the validity of the story.

It seems that on return from a trip this summer one of Greenville's ministers discovered his portable record player was missing from its usual spot on the table in his home. A careful search of the house failed to produce the record player. A mental check of the people he might have loaned the record player to failed to produce a clue as to its whereabouts.

After fruitless search, the minister decided to take his problem to the local police department. The police were very cooperative, took a detailed description of the record player, checked for fingerprints, and went through the usual routine.

Days went by with no word on the record player.

Then the minister saw one of the investigating officers.

"We think we've found the person who took your record player. We have a boy who has admitted entering several houses in your neighborhood and he might have been the one."

For a few hours things looked hopeful. But the description of the record player didn't tally with the boy's admissions. The minister told officers he didn't think the boy took his player, and the mystery remained unsolved.

More days passed. No record player.

Then the big break came in the mysters of the missing record player.

It came at a church meeting. Two ministers were talking. One said to the other, "By the way, when you see So-and-So, tell him I'm going to bring his record player back to him in a couple of days. He told me just before he went on his trip I could borrow it, so I went by his house and picked it up. I'm embarrassed for having kept it so long."

Now the record player is back in its place.

Other Editors Saying --- Talk Of Farm Life

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

My old friend, M.A. Fritz, had a sore throat. He was husky. He offered to share one of his cough drops with me.

"No thanks," I said. "I had some old ham for breakfast and I want to keep that good and true taste as long as possible. A cough drop would take it from me, pronto."

"We have friends and relatives in the country who share old hams with us sometimes," Fritz replied, appreciation in his voice. "For it is tragic that all too often the farm family does not have such delights as old ham from its own energy."

And then Fritz and I started exchanging ideas.

All too often the farm family, even the one with small children, does not have a cow. Sad indeed it is, too see a farmer at the filling station-store buying bottled or canned milk for his family.

And it is so common as to attract little notice to see a farmer at his neighborhood store, filling station ordering a dozen eggs.

And only a very small percentage of farms have gardens of such size and attention that they produce much of their own food. Yet a garden, properly planned, tended, irrigated, fertilized will put money in the family pockets. A family of four which grows its own food can add $1,500 to its gross income. And the food from the garden will have a higher quality, freshness, tenderness and nutritive value than the makeshiftes the family must depend on when getting the stuff at the store.

The farm family by proper planning can have something fresh and green from its garden the year round. And it can freeze, can, or dry sufficient quantities to keep the pantry and the deep freeze full.

The family displaced from farm operation by crop control and mechanization, and still allowed to use the farm dwelling, could help itself materially by proper tending of a garden.

We need an approach that will make garden-tending the thing to do. We need a technique which causes the family that has no garden to lose face among the neighbors, at church and in the community.

"I wish we could bring in a few Amish farm families," said Fritz and "spot them around to show our folks what a good living can be made on the farm if one has the right attitude and plan."

Transportation System's Plight

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON Although a Senate Subcommittee's current study of the serious plight of the nation's transportation system has attracted hardly any attention outside railroad and aviation circles, the deteriorating condition of this vital facility in peace or war presents a grave threat to national prosperity and security.

Unfortunately, the race for control of outer space between the United States and Russia is so much more spectacular that it has obscured this situation. The public takes for granted such everyday methods of travel as railroads and airplanes. However, without them a complete victory over Moscow in the skies would be meaningless.

It is the railroads, the planes and the trucks which must haul the heavy component parts of satellites and missiles from the factories and laboratories to coastal launching pads. The railroads must also transport huge tanks, atomic artillery and military vehicles from inland assembly lines to the ports for shipment to Allied countries.

DETERIORATING PLIGHT OF TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM Yet Congress, the White House, the Interstate Commerce Commis-ion and the Courts, Federal and State, appear to have given hardly any recognition to the steadily deteriorating plight of our national transportation system. For the first time in years, the Supreme Court has no member who is regarded as an authority in this field.

Only belatedly have the senate Surface Transportation subcommittee, the I.C.C. and the Civil Aeronautics Board begun to realize and to consider the economic and military dangers inherent in this situation.

All three agencies are now holding hearings in order, perhaps, to formulate what the U.S. has long needed but never had—a coordinated national transportation policy that would eliminate state lines and barriers in the rate-making and regulatory fields.

LOW NET EARNINGS OF RR. PLANES The public, of course, will have to foot the bill for reforms and renovations, whether in the form of much higher fares or tax-financed subsidies. Indeed, there are certain interests on and off Capitol Hill that would like to capitalize on the railroads' crisis by nationalizing them, as Britain has done.

broke, many railroads and airlines are heading in that direction. Their net earnings are so low that their securities are selling for a song. They cannot attract enough investment capital to finance necessary improvements and expansion. A recent suicide is admitted in railroad circles to have resulted from this worsening situation.

Moreover, they face this stringency at a time when they require new equipment for the demands of constantly increasing commerce and in the event of war. The airlines, for instance, do not know where they can find billions to pay for 500-mile-an-hour jet planes on order or on the drawing boards.

ABSURD REGULATIONS. In addition to other grievances—subsidized competition, shift of passenger traffic to buses and autos, inequitable taxation, bureaucratic delays in permitting mergers or abandonment of obsolete lines—the railroads argue that they are subject to excessive and sometimes absurd regulations by state public service commissions and courts.

John P. Kiley, spokesman for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad Company (the "Milwaukee") cited a comic instance of "dilatatoriness" before the Senate Subcommittee. Twenty-six years ago, the Milwaukee asked the Indiana Public Service Commission for permission to discontinue operation of a train that transported 23 miners from Terre Haute to a mine six miles distant.

The road offered to provide bus service that would have cut its costs by $18,000 annually. In fact, the Milwaukee could have saved money by buying four or five low-cost automobiles. Total savings over five years, the presumed life of the sedans, would have amounted to more than $100,000, counting other train charges and taxation.

RIDICULOUS DECISION UPHOLD BY COURT On four separate occasions, the commission refused to permit discontinuance, and its decision was upheld by the State Supreme Court. A fifth application is now before the commissioners who, in Mr. Kiley's words, "refuse to recognize that the convenience of a few is not a public need that merits confiscation of a railroad's property."

This is not an isolated instance. In fact, annual losses resulting from this kind of "regulation" amounts to many millions of dollars—millions sorely and immediately needed to strengthen this secondary military defense line.

Preaching Ministry of the Church ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Luke 4:43-45; 5:1-3; Romans 10:14-17; I Corinthians 1:18-31; Ephesians 3:17-19.

In a desert place to which people had followed Jesus, He said to them: 'I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities also: for therefore am I sent.'

At the lake of Gennesaret Jesus entered Simon's empty boat, asking that he be pushed a short distance from shore. From it He preached to the multitude.

Paul wrote to the Romans urging them to preach the gospel of Jesus diligently so all might hear of Him. How could they learn about Him without a preacher?

'How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!' Paul wrote the Romans. MEMORY VERSE—Matthew 4:23.

Preaching Ministry of the Church

JESUS WENT ABOUT IN ALL GALILEE, PREACHING THE GOSPEL

Scripture—Luke 4:43-45; 5:1-3; Romans 10:14-17; I Corinthians 1:18-31; Ephesians 3:17-19.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. PREACHING is the topic of today's lesson. It is very long, so we must confine ourselves to what we consider the most important parts of the gospel references assigned us.

Jesus had spent an exhausting night healing those brought to Him who were ill or possessed of evil spirits.

'And when it was day, he departed and went into a desert place' to meditate, something we all should take time to do, no matter how busy we are with worldly affairs. Let us take time to be alone with our God, to refresh ourselves with His presence.

The people, however, followed Jesus and stayed with Him 'that He should not depart from them.' But He told them, 'I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities also: for therefore am I sent.' He was the Great Preacher of all time, and multitudes followed to hear Him.

istry and later study for it. Ministers of the gospel of Christ are needed in our churches today. The preaching of the gospel from the Bible might be one of the subject-areas emphasized to these young people by the teachers.

In his epistle to the Romans Paul urges them to be diligent in spreading the gospel, for, he writes, how shall they call on the name of the Lord 'in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach, except they be sent? as it is written, How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!'

How much we need the gospel of Christ and 'glad tidings of good things' in this time of crisis, in this talk of 'cold wars' that might develop into real wars which could end with the annihilation of millions of human be-

MEMORY VERSE

'Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom.'—Matthew 4:23.

As He stood by a lake, the people 'pressed upon Him to hear the word of God.' Jesus saw two ships standing in the lake, but they were empty, as the fishermen were washing their nets. One of the ships was Simon's and the Lord asked Simon to push the ship a short distance from the shore. When that was done, He 'taught the people out of the ship.' Although He had preached in many synagogues, Jesus needed no church to bring His message to the people.

It is suggested by Dr. Wilbur M. Smith that the children be asked what part of the service they enjoy most. It is a wise thing to have the young people of the middle and upper grades of the Sunday school attend the service in the chapel now and then, so they may hear their preacher give his sermon. They might discuss it later.

Some of the older class pupils might 'hear the call' to the ministry.

ings. How 'beautiful' indeed are those who can bring us the gospel of peace through understanding and goodwill, which we can practice in our daily lives. Thus we can help to bring, through faith in Christ Jesus and His Father, God, a better world out of this one of fear and despair. We need to see these messages from our modern ministers of the gospel.

As Paul writes to the church at Ephesus: 'I was made a minister, according to the gift of the grace of God unto me by the effectual working of His power. Unto me, who am less than the least of the saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ; and to make all men see what is the fellowship of the mystery, which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God, who created all things by Jesus Christ.'

Robinson Union Pupils Hear Talk

WINTERVILLE — Discussing 'Negro History As A Factor in Nationalism and Internationalism' at Robinson Union School Wednesday, L. H. Moseley, principal of Gumberry High School, Gumberry, N. C., said, 'We have come from a long way, but we still have a long way to go.'

In observing Negro History Week, the students of Robinson Union School are presenting a series of programs.

The points stressed by the speaker were: (1) Future program depend on you; (2) What will be the history of your future? The importance of education.

Bessie Moore and Shirley Carman, members of the Junior C. C., gave the meaning and history of Negro History Week. Selections were rendered by the boys chorus, girls chorus and a Capella Choir of the school.

The meeting closed with remarks by Principal J.W. Maye. Miss Elvora Vines, chairman of the Social Studies Department of Robinson Union School, sponsored the program.

The Sports Reflector

By BILLY ARNOLD

Bob Manyard, who played fullback for Jack Boone's East Carolina Pirates this past season, has informed us that the school's athletic fraternity is cooking up a full-fledged football game between graduated grid-ders from the past four years and Boone's probable 1959 club.

Manyard told us yesterday that it will be sort of an Old versus The New kind of thing. The date has been set tentatively for March 1st.

It will be primarily a money-making project for the school's monogramers, but should offer football fans of this area quite a show. Coach Boone has been working out with a squad of about 50 during the past month in regular spring drill and should have at least a vague idea of what his 1959 club will look like.

Known, to be back will be Ralph Zehring Tommy Nash, James Speight, Billy Skeeter, Walkie Hanford, Leonard Lilley, Brownie Salmon, George Slaughter, and George Turner and Bob Lilley in the backfield — and this doesn't include possible newcomers.

In the line, where Boone will be hardest hit, will be Howard Beale, Randell Holmes, Bexter Savage, Charlie Vaughn.

Old Pros Will Be Tough

The Old Pros will be a tough lot. Almost the entire first team from last year will be playing on the other side of the line in that March 1st game. There will be such former ECC stars as Dick Cherry, Garry Mattocks, Bobby Gay, Manyard, Bobby Patterson, Charlie Bishop, and Jim Henderson in the backfield.

In the line, the Old Pros will have former All-American, All-Conference and All-Navy star Lou Hallow at center. Hallow, who has been playing standout ball at Camp Lejeune was instrumental in starting the game idea.

With him will be Algy Faircloth, Tommy Jones, Ray Pennington, Jerry Brokes, Dick Monds, Kenney Burgess, Lynn Barnett, Bubba Matthews, Al Habbit, possibly David Lee, and others.

George Tucker, who was an all-conference tackle at ECC in 1954 and who went on to Wingate Junior College this season and built a nationally second-ranked powerhouse there as Coach, plans to play with the Old Pros — and bring some of his Wingate graduates to help, so Manyard says.

A Wide-Open Show

Such a game as this should draw a real gate. It will bring together some of East Carolina's biggest and best grid-ders in the past few seasons. It will assemble two teams that will be capable of top-notch football — and a wide-open brand of ball full of good passing, good running, bruising line play.

All the details have not been completed yet, Manyard told us, but 18 of the Old Pros have already agreed to come down for the contest, and others are being contacted.

Tourney Drawing Sunday

Drawings for the North State Basketball Tourney pairings has been set for Sunday, February 23, at Lexington, it was announced today.

The top four teams in the final standings of regular season play, will automatically be set against four clubs in the bottom half of the loop. They will draw for opponents.

Only eight of the nine conference teams will appear in the tournament, the No.9 club dropping out. All ties will be decided by lots, except in case of a tie for eighth position. A play-off game may decide that.

He's Good But Not That Good

By ED WILKS

The Associated Press Elgin Baylor appears to have the major college basketball scoring title in the bag, but even with his 34.4-points-a-game average he's a long way from setting records.

The 6-6 junior scored 47 points for Seattle last night in a 99-69 victory over Regis of Denver. That makes 654 points in 19 games.

Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati has scored 633 points in 19 games for a 33.3 average. It looks close, but Oscar would need 54 points in his next game against stingy Oklahoma State tomorrow) just to tie.

Baylor is well back of the all-time one-season average record of 41.7 set by All America Frank Selvy at Furman in 29 games in the 1953-54 season.

Only one of the top 10 clubs played last night, and Maryland, ranked No. 9, breezed past Clemson for a 73-54 decision in the Atlantic Coast Conference. North Carolina, rated 11th, needed a pair of field goals from Bob Cunningham and Tommy Kearns to come from behind in the last 34 seconds and defeat Wake Forest 60-57 in another ACC game.

Denver hung Don Campbell on Wyoming's high-scoring Tony Windis midway in the first half and barreled from behind for a 77-60 victory that dumped the Cowboys out of a first-place Skyline Conference tie with idle Brigham Young.

Bob Ellis scored 29, grabbed 12 rebounds and collected four assists for Niagara in a 76-65 victory over Seton Hall. St. John's of New York built a 15-point lead in the first half and rapped Manhattan 77-66 in the other half of the New York Madison Square Garden double-header.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Favored Alvin Dark, shortstop for the St. Louis Cardinals, teed off against Ray Boone of the Detroit Tigers today as match play began in the 18th annual National Baseball Players' golf tournament.

BLAMED ON REBELS — ANA, Cuba (AP)—A gasoline tank owned by the Sinclair Oil Co. exploded and caught fire last night in Santiago de Cuba, capital of Oriente province. The blast was blamed on rebel supporters of Fidel Castro, whose headquarters is in Oriente.

Phants Ranked Nine Points Over Crippled Kinston Aggregation

Greenville's Phantoms meet their arch foe Kinston here tonight in the Rose High School Gymnasium before an expected sell-out crowd of 1,400 in an important North-eastern Conference ball game.

The Phantoms will need a victory tonight over the third-ranked Red Devils to stay in the running with New Bern for the Northeastern Championship. After the recent New Bern 87-56 win over Kinston, Greenville is the only club in the loop that can challenge the Bears' 9-1 loop mark.

Coach Bo Farley's team has a 7-2 record in conference play and could conceivably tie the Bears for the league lead—provided the G-Men win tonight and twice more in their remaining two games.

A loss tonight, however, would knock them out of it and automatically make New Bern the title holder.

Kinston Unpredictable
Coach Paul Jones' Kinston club is an unpredictable one this season. The Red Devils have a 6-4 conference record (quite untypical of a Kinston team) but it was the Devils who handed New Bern its only loss thus far.

Overall, the Red Devils are 8-8, as compared to Greenville's 10-5.

Tonight's tilt is being tabbed a nine-point win for the G-Men, due to home court advantage and several other surprising factors. Gene Anderson, a starting guard and senior co-captain is not expected to dress for the Devils, due to a swollen sprained ankle.

Coach Jones also lost three other ball players, not regulars, but who saw considerable action during the early games. The three, John Stanley, Bill Dawson, and James Brake, were suspended from the team for the rest of the season due to their part in a fracas following Tuesday's Kinston-New Bern tilt.

Lewis Still Around

But the Big Man Greenville is worried about is still hanging around the Kinston lineup, Charles Lewis, rated by Coach Bo Farley as the league's best ball player, will hold down a forward spot for the Devils. The lanky Lewis is averaging 24 points per game, has been known to hit for 50 in one tilt (against Roanoke Rapids this year), is a superb rebounder and teamman, and is virtually un-stoppable if hot.

The 6-1 Lewis, along with John Laws, is the leading point man for Kinston and will be expected to lead the assault on Greenville's chances in the home stretch to-

LEWIS . . . He's number 8. G-Man Crawford met him last year.

But "we may have to crowd him some if he's hitting."

The starting Kinston five will include Lewis and Pete Watkins (6-2) at forwards, Laws (6-1) and Doug Stewart at guards, and Jimmy Hurn (6-2) at center. Stewart is the probable substitute for Anderson, although Jones may start Eddie Taylor instead or alternate the two.

Pitt Play Ends Tonight; Tourney Begins Saturday

By BILLY ARNOLD

Reflector Sports Editor
With the final games of the 1957-58 Pitt County basketball season being played tonight, the conference begins to look ahead to the spectacular league tournament which begins at East Carolina College Gymnasium tomorrow night.

The tournament, a success last year in spectator enjoyment, basketball action, and financial support, is expected to be an even bigger affair this year. A greater interest and enthusiasm has been shown the loop this winter than at any time during the past.

The game itself has been better, the teams have been more closely-matched, and the league has been sprinkled with a smattering of outstanding individual stars.

When the gates open at Memorial Gymnasium tomorrow night, a capacity crowd from Greenville and from the outlying communities is expected to prevail. During last year's week-long tournament, the arena was continuously filled with fans.

Official Standings

Official standings, complete through tonight, have been released by the County League officials. Tonight's games will count heavily in the standings and in the pairings for the tournament, as the official statistics show below:

BOYS

Ayden	11	W
Chicod	10	L
Belvoir-Falkland	10	T
Winterville	9	L
Bethel	9	T
Stokes-Pactolus	7	L
Farmville	4	L
Grimesland	2	L
Grifton	0	L

GIRLS

Stokes-Pactolus	12	W
Grimesland	11	L
Winterville	9	L
Farmville	7	L
Belvoir-Falkland	7	T
Grifton	6	L
Ayden	5	L
Chicod	4	L
Bethel	1	L

Tonight's games could change the standings quite a bit. The schedule finds Chicod at Winterville in a crucial contest, Farmville at Grimesland, Ayden at Grifton, and Belvoir at Bethel.

Stokes-Pactolus, having already finished its league games, is on top in the girls bracket with a 12-2 record. Grimesland, with an 11-2 mark, can tie for that spot with a win tonight over Farmville.

Also, at stake, will be the third and fourth positions among the girls. The Chicod-Winterville and Farmville-Grimesland games will help decide these spots.

Pairings
Three games are scheduled for Saturday night, two of them already set up in the pairings. Chicod and Bethel will battle in a girls tilt at 6:30 in the first tilt. Following that will be a boys contest between Grimesland and Grifton at 8:00. Participants in the third game will be decided tonight in this final evening of regular season of activity.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Favored Alvin Dark, shortstop for the St. Louis Cardinals, teed off against Ray Boone of the Detroit Tigers today as match play began in the 18th annual National Baseball Players' golf tournament.

Negro Tourney Begins Tuesday At Grimesland

GRIMESLAND—Tuesday night is the first night of action in the ninth annual Pitt County Inter-scholastic Athletic Association basketball tournament here.

The tournament, bringing together the Negro schools of the county in a boys and girls affair, will be played Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday nights at the Pitt County Training School's new gymnasium here.

Games begin at 6:15 on the first two evenings, and at 7:30 on Saturday night.

The pairings, as released by the PCAA today, are as follows:
Among the girls, H. B. Sugg and South Ayden will play the opening game at 6:15, Tuesday night. Robinson Union and Bethel Union will battle at 7:00 on the same night.

Winner of the first game will meet Pitt County Training School on Thursday night at 6:15. The training school has a bye. The winner of that game and the winner of game No. 2 will clash for the championship on Saturday night at 7:30.

South Ayden will play Robinson Union, among the boys, on Tuesday night at 8:00. Pitt County Training School has a bye.

On Thursday night, H. B. Sugg will battle Bethel Union at 7:15. The winner of the Sugg-Bethel Union tilt will play the winner of the Training school vs South Ayden or Robinson Union, for the championship on Saturday night at 7:30.

M. Q. Wyche, principal of the Training School, will present the awards and championship trophies, immediately following the championship games Saturday night.

Phantomites And Kinston Divide

Greenville's Junior High Phantomites split two games here yesterday with Kinston — the No. 1 team dropped the opener 31-29, but the second team claimed a 42-33 win.

For Coach Milton Reece's No. 1 club, it was their second loss of the season against eight victories. Yesterday's games, played before a small group of spectators in the Junior High School gymnasium, were the final tilts of the season for the Phantomites.

In the opener, Greenville blew an eight-point halftime lead and went down 31-29. It was the second time this year that they have dropped a game to Kinston. With about three minutes remaining in the game, the score was set at 31-29 and neither team could manage to hit. It ended that way.

Leading scorers for the locals were Alan McArthur with 15 and Billy Neal James with five. Hardison had eight for the winners.

No. 2 Win
The second team, paced by Fields, who copped 12 points, rolled to a 42-33 win over the second team Red Devils. Kinston had a two-point lead at 16-14 at half-time, but a 17-point third quarter by the locals overcame it.

Helping Fields with the scoring were Collins with 10, Morris with nine and Andresen with six.

Coach Reece, putting the wraps on his first season as Junior High coach here, said that "I think we've had a good season. The boys have played fine basketball, and I think some of them may help Greenville High School's future cage teams, if they stick to it."

All but two men on the entire 13-man Phantomite squad will graduate this year. Back will be Kenny Joyner and Taft. Reece will build his 1958-59 club around

Miami Manhunt

A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

WHAT HAS HAPPENED?
Venturesome young Brad Dolan, who is telling the story, came to Miami Beach with two weeks of from his charter-boat business, money in hand, and no strings attached. He was having difficulty obtaining a room at a hotel without a reservation when a girl came to his aid. He had never seen her before, but she professed to be waiting for him.

She is Marta Blanding, dancer in the floor show of the hotel's night club. Clearly frightened by something, she went to Brad's room to appeal for his protection against a man who has been following her menacingly. She did not want to appeal to police. When Brad indicated that he thought her fears baseless, Marta told him that she is the only person who knows where a $250,000 cache is stashed away, and half of it can be his if he protects her till she recovers it.

CHAPTER 4
After Marta left I stripped and took a shower. I let hot water beat against my chest and the back of my neck for ten minutes. Then I wrapped an oversized towel around my middle and sat in the chair by the window facing the ocean. Light was falling fast. The last of the swimmers and sunbathers were leaving the beach. The pool — between the hotel and the beach — was deserted. There were two lines of gaily painted cabanas in my line of vision. One line faced the pool; the other line, directly behind this one, faced the beach. Marta's cabana, where I was to meet her after her last show in the night club — she finished at 2; I was to meet her at 2:30 — was at the south end of the line of cabanas facing the sea. She'd clammed up after she'd told me about the money. She'd asked me to meet her later in her cabana. She'd said she'd explain the whole deal to me there.

And then she'd left me. And now that she'd gone, I found myself sitting in a suddenly lonely hotel room with nothing but my own thoughts. My mood darkened. While she'd been here I'd been riding the crest of a curling comber. Now I was wallowing sadly in its trough.

A quarter of a million dollars! Two hundred and fifty grand. And half of that, my half, would be a hundred and twenty-five thousand. Living money. Property. Invested. Freedom money. For life.

And for a minute or two I'd almost believed this kid with the sulky mouth, this much-woman girl with the golden tan. I shook my head slowly. Dolan, Dolan, I told myself. Go back to the farm. Go back before some other beautifully-stacked babe latches onto you and sells you Biscayne Bay!

And what a fertile imagination this one had! A man was following her. She needed help. She just happened to pick on you to help her. Her jolting presence makes you talk too much and she discovers that you have a touch of larceny in your soul. So what's the next step? The wad of dough, naturally. The two hundred and fifty grand. And half of it's to be yours, Dolan! Think of that! But wait a minute. There's more. They are after the money, too! They have a pretty good idea she knows where it is. They are after her! And who comes to the rescue, charging across the plains like a one-man Seventh Cavalry after the Apaches who've surrounded the wagon train? Who but old Dolan, the poor man's Errol Flynn, the kid with the round haircut, boy-hero from Dixie. Wave them flags! Beat them drums!

So I'd meet her in her cabana. She'd need a grand, probably, to finance the recovery of this fortune. She'd probably settle for five hundred since you'd given her a pretty strong pitch about being pretty much of a shoestring artist. And she must have been fairly well disappointed when she'd heard that, by the way, anyhow, you'd let her see the color of your money. Then they — fellow con artist, boyfriend, husband or what-have-you — would enter stage left. They would take over the cash. Our heroine would dissolve in tears. You'd be shown the door, a sadder but wiser man.

I got up and started dressing. I was no longer wallowing sadly in the trough of a wave. The ridiculous aspect of the situation I'd gotten myself into had become amusing. The longer I thought about it the funnier it got. I'd keep my date with the girl in her cabana at 2:30. I'd step onstage on cue.

But in the meantime I would have rewritten the script. I could hardly wait! The hotel barbershop was luckily still open when I got downstairs. I had all traces of the do-it-yourself haircut removed. When I stepped out on the avenue the sun had completely gone and the shops and hotels were ablaze with neon.

For lack of a better plan I joined the stream of pedestrians on the sidewalk and walked slowly south. I stopped in front of the plate glass window of a furrier's shop and looked at mink stoles for two thousand bucks and chinchilla pieces for five thousand bucks and felt sorry for the minks and the chinchillas. A few shops down the street there was a jewelry store. I stopped and looked at the window display. One little item that caught my eye was a diamond choker. The price tag listed it at seventy-five thousand bucks. Where, I thought, did people get that kind of money? A small, nagging voice said, Well for one thing they work for it. Dolan. They don't bat around the countryside chasing adolescent dreams. They go to work. That's one way it's done. Of course, you could have an oil well. Or sing rock-n-roll. Or cheat on your taxes. Or inherit wealth or property. Or go into the rackets.

Relax, Dolan, I thought. It's all relative. Remember the going price of a fifth of stateside whiskey on Guam just after the invasion in the Pacific war? A hundred and twenty-five bucks. And you bought a few of these, too, remember? A hundred and a quarter to army pay was like seventy-five grand to a man in the high brackets, wasn't it?

I turned away from the window and started to move on. As I did I just happened to notice a man standing in front of the plate glass window on the other side of the jewelry shop entrance. He was a dark, fat man in a bulging tan gabardine suit. A coconut straw hat with a flamboyantly red and blue band was tilted over his eyes. His pudgy hands were crossed over his protruding rump. He was teetering back and forth on his heels and toes. There was something vaguely familiar about him. I looked at him for a moment, puzzled. Then I remembered. The hat with the loud band was the tip-off. While I'd been having my haircut thirty minutes earlier the fat man had come into the shop for a shoeshine. The colorful band on the hat had caught my eyes.

As I walked on I wondered what to do with myself until two o'clock. Here I was, right smack in the middle of what was probably the world's most elaborate and expensive playground, a city dedicated to entertainment, and I was bored. The town was full of big-name entertainers. I'd have to wait until the next afternoon for the horses at Hialeah, of course, but tonight there were dog races and jai-alai and I wouldn't have to look very far to find a little back-room action with the dice or the cards. There was something in this billion dollar city for everyone, no matter what his tastes might be.

I was plainly bored. I missed the Jessie and the peace and quiet and contentment of some quiet entertainers. I'd have to wait until the next afternoon for the horses at Hialeah, of course, but tonight there were dog races and jai-alai and I wouldn't have to look very far to find a little back-room action with the dice or the cards. There was something in this billion dollar city for everyone, no matter what his tastes might be.

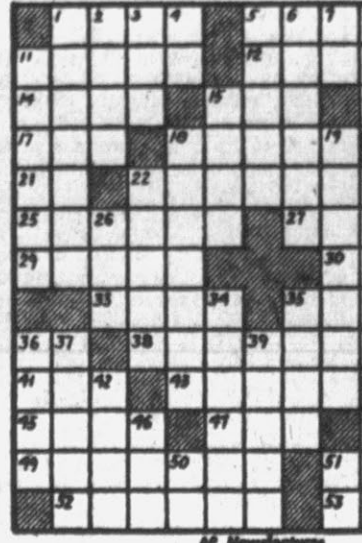

I ran over the possibilities in my mind. Jai-alai, the fastest and one of the most exciting games in the world, seemed like the best bet. But first I would wrap myself around a good steak. A block away I saw a steak house. I started for it. A fat blob of a man in a rumpled tan gabardine suit and a coconut straw hat with a red and blue band detached himself from window gazing at the jewelry store and waddled along in my wake. I grinned. I was no longer bored. This fat man was stretching a coincidence a little too thin.

I knew he had to be Marta's guy.

Selling Gasoline At 9.9 Cents

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—Service station operator George Dee Smithson is advertising regular gasoline at 9.9 cents a gallon.

Smithson said the customer also must pay 9 cents tax on each gallon, but it's still unusually low at 18.9.

A gasoline war in the east San Francisco Bay area has cut prices.

Marble from Lee, Mass., was used both in the Capitol at Washington, D.C., and in St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York.

Looked Too Long Before Leaping

RAHWAY, N.J. (AP)—Two prisoners who looked too long before they leaped for freedom were discovered shivering in an unheated warehouse right on the Rahway Prison Farm grounds.

James Corti, 42, of Jersey City, a convicted burglar, and Peter Poth, 38, of Paterson, serving a term for armed robbery, had "escaped" from the farm 48 hours before. A statewide alarm had been issued for them.

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrials paced a quiet stock market rally early this afternoon.

Key stocks rose generally fractions to a point, in some cases stretching their gains to around 2. Prices improved late in the morning after an irregular start. The recovery came after a six-day slump was stemmed by yesterday's inconclusive action.

The improvement was fairly general but the burden of the advance was carried by the industrials. Rails and utilities were barely ahead on average.
 Chrysler and General Dynamics were briskly traded on good news for each firm. T. motor producer was ahead a point following news of its highest yearly dollar sales in history. General Dynamics spurred around 2 points after the Navy awarded it contracts for three atomic-powered submarines to fire the Polaris missile.

Lockheed, which makes the Polaris, was steady.
 Steels, motors, rubbers, farm implements, base metals and chemicals shared in the advance. Du Pont recouped about 2.
 Shipbuilding issues, despite news of contract awards, showed scant movement. Tobaccos, resting from the recent run-up were mixed. Drugs continued their rise with small gains.

Continental Motors was ahead a fraction following its raised dividend. Zenith resumed yesterday's rise, adding around 2. A similar gain was made by Goodyear.

Douglas Aircraft, Texas Co. and Goodrich were about a point to the good.
 Major fractional gains were made by U.S. Steel, Anaconda, Merck, International Nickel, U.S. Gypsum and Youngstown Sheet.

Also ahead were Bethlehem, International Harvester, Kennecott, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil (New Jersey).

Highway Patrol Plans Press N.C. Anti-Litterbug Campaign

Pitt's patrolmen will crack down on those who litter the highways, Highway Patrol Cpl. C. E. Whitfield said this morning.
The anti-litterbug campaign is being carried out on a state-wide basis, he said.
"We are having considerable trouble with people throwing bottles, cans and other trash out of autos," Whitfield said.
"In some instances people will take bags of garbage and dump them alongside the highway. In one case someone dumped over 100 beer cans along a primary road. We are making an investigation and we hope to make an apprehension."
Whitfield said the beer cans were dumped on N. C. 11-U. S. 13 about five miles north of Greenville.
"We are conducting an extensive campaign trying to eliminate this sort of thing. It ruins the appearance of the highways and looks bad to tourists who pass through the state."
"All patrolmen have been instructed to arrest every person they see who throws anything out of an automobile on the highway shoulders. Any person who does is subject to a $50 fine or 30 days in jail.

"We urge motorists to cooperate with us because we certainly hope we won't have to make arrests for this sort of thing."
Whitfield pointed out that garbage disposal cans have been placed along highway rights-of-way. Signs have been erected informing motorists of the location of the cans.
State law prohibits the throwing of trash or debris on the traveled portions of State highways or on highway rights-of-way.

Farmers Reminded Income Tax Deadline Tomorrow

Local officials of the Internal Revenue Service today reminded farmers that deadline for filing income tax returns for 1957 will be tomorrow.
Farmers' returns mailed on or before tomorrow to the District Director of Internal Revenue in Greensboro will be timely filed by the district office. Taxpayers who file their returns before the deadline will avoid an imposition of an estimated tax penalty and checks or money orders made payable to the Internal Revenue Service should be identified as to what tax they are intended to pay.
The tax authorities said a farmer is defined by law as an individual who receives two-thirds or more of his gross income from agricultural pursuits, other than as an employee. Farmers, as are other taxpayers, are required to file returns if their gross income, such as tobacco, cotton, peanut and livestock sales, totals $600 or more. They must also pay self-employment (social security) tax if their net profit is $400 or more.
In line with the self-help policy of the Internal Revenue Service, all taxpayers are asked to complete by themselves as much of their returns as possible. Information, assistance and forms can be obtained from the local IRS office, in the Rivers Building on Evans Street, each Friday and Monday.

Dr. Best Talks At PTA Meeting

At Fleming Street School Parent-Teacher Association meeting Tuesday night, Dr. Andrew A. Best spoke on community service and enumerated some of the projects in which parents and the general public are interested.
President Mrs. Emma Maye, who presided, led the devotional and gave a brief history of the National Parent-Teacher Congress, established 30 years ago.
Mrs. F. P. Jackson, in introducing Dr. Best, told of the many services he is rendering in the schools and this community.

Iraq And Jordan Merge; Faisal Chief Of State

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Iraq and Jordan joined today in a new Arab federation rivaling and challenging the recently proclaimed United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria. The merger cast doubt on Iraq's future participation in the American-supported Baghdad Pact.
King Faisal II of Iraq and King Hussein of Jordan, 22-year-old second cousins of the Hashemite dynasty, proclaimed the federation just after sunrise on this Moslem Sabbath.
The two kings agreed to merge their armies, economies, finances and foreign affairs. The monarchs will retain their separate thrones and their local governments, but Faisal was named chief of state of the new federation.
As the Egyptian-Syrian proclamation of the U.A.R. had done two weeks before, the new federation invited other Arab states to join.

Garbage Man Is Retired In Style

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A city garbage man, who wore out 17 horses and more trucks than he's bothered to count, retired in style.
He wound up 32 years on the job by pulling to a halt outside City Hall with two other members of his crew in a big packer truck, the kind that chews up trash and packs it down.
"I'm an old wagon man," said Dabbs with a touch of nostalgia. "I lost 17 horses all told, crippled from nails and wire and sticks," he just forgot to count the trucks, he said.
"You can tell what kind of people folks are," he observed, "by looking at their garbage. I can go along my route and tell the shiftless from the prosperous, and everything else."
Sometimes they throw away some pretty unusual items, too.
One time it was a human skull in a tow sack, discarded at the home of a city laboratory employee. He's found counterfeit molds for making 50-cent coins and, during prohibition, several whisky stills.
Over the years, working conditions for a garbage man have improved, just like those in other jobs.
"Now the cans have handles instead of them old empty oil drums and we don't have to go into the kitchen for the garbage any more," he said.
He's retiring on pension to tend his home garden.

Minor Traffic Mishaps In City

Charlie James Daniels, 38-year-old Negro of 611 Contentnea Street, was charged with passing at an intersection by city police investigating a traffic accident yesterday afternoon.
The second car involved was being operated by Joseph E. Brown of 1709 Trementon Drive. Neither driver or occupants of the two cars were injured.
Officers reported $125 damage to both automobiles.
Earlier in the afternoon the driver of automobile narrowly escaped injury when his vehicle struck and crushed a heavy trailer-truck at West End Circle.

Seniors at Junius H. Rose High School have voted to hold their baccalaureate and graduation programs in the high school gymnasium this year, the Greenville City Board of Education was told last night.
Graduation exercises will be held Tuesday, June 3, and the baccalaureate sermon will be given June 1.
Graduation exercises for the school have been held in East Carolina College's Wright Auditorium for the past several years.

Rites Saturday For Mrs. David C. Beach

Mrs. Callie Martin Beach, 70, widow of David C. Beach, died Thursday at 7 p.m. at her home on Rotary Avenue after four months' illness.
Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by her pastor, Dr. J. G. Joyce, and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.
Mrs. Beach was born and reared at Staton's Mill near Greenville and was the daughter of the late John W. and Lucretia Whichard Martin. She was married to David C. Beach in 1903 and he died in 1955. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Greenville.
Surviving are three sons, David C. and Martin D. Beach of Greenville, and Van G. Beach of Fairmont; two grandchildren; two brothers, John W. Martin of Kinston and Charles W. Martin of Bethel; and four sisters, Mrs. Lela Fleming and Mrs. Wadie D. Carson of Bethel, and Mrs. Kate W. Beach and Mrs. Hathaway Cross of Raleigh, and her stepmother, Mrs. Laura Martin of Bethel.

Contribute $727 To Polio Drive

FARMVILLE — Farmville school students contributed $727.95 to the 1958 March of Dimes, Principal Sam D. Bundy reported today.
Grammar-grade students donated $393.55 of the total which has been turned over to the Pitt County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Primary students contributed $220.25 and high school students added $11.15, the principal said.
Biggest single contribution among rooms came from Mrs. Virginia Joyner's sixth grade class which turned in $75. Mrs. Margaret Speight's fourth grade class was next with $64.35.

To Discuss New Welfare Formula

RALEIGH (AP) — County welfare officials meet next week to review a new formula for distributing state equalizing funds for county welfare programs. The formula was approved yesterday by the State Board of Welfare.
It bases fund allocations on per capita income tax payments averaged for five years, per cent of county tax levies required for public assistance and welfare administration, per capita expenditure of the county for certain welfare purposes and other factors.
Equalizing funds are distributed to assist counties with old age welfare, aid to dependent children and county welfare administration when the counties cannot raise enough funds for these programs through their own tax levies.

Card of Thanks

Ruby M. Cobb and family of Farmville hereby acknowledge with grateful appreciation the services, patience and kindnesses of all the doctors, nurses and nurses aides at Pitt Memorial Hospital during her recent illness. Also, to the many friends for flowers, cards and visits which helped to make her recovery possible. Thank you so very much.
Ruby M. Cobb and Family.

HOSPITAL STAY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At least two more days and maybe a week in the hospital are ahead for comedian Eddie (Rochester) Anderson of the Jack Benny television show. Anderson, 52, fainted during a rehearsal Wednesday. A physician at Presbyterian Hospital said he evidently was suffering from physical exhaustion.

Report No Trace Of Melvin West

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Coast Guard search for Melvin West was hampered today by severe weather conditions in the Bermuda area.
The search, in its third day, has revealed no trace of the Morehead City, N.C., disc jockey. He has not been seen since he left home in an 18-foot outboard motorboat Jan. 29, bound for Bermuda.
The SS Madison Friendship, which has been towing another freighter toward Bermuda since Sunday, reported her tow line parted in rough seas early today.
At midnight the ship reported seas of 20 to 40 feet and winds of 34 to 40 knots.
The towing operation began 500 miles east of Bermuda. The latest report placed the Madison Friendship's position 35 miles from Bermuda.
Such weather conditions make it difficult to spot a small boat of the type West was using.

New School . . .

Rose announced that Mrs. Gwen Gray has resigned as music teacher for the elementary grades and has been replaced by Mrs. Juanita Williams. Mrs. Williams, who has been working with high school students, has been replaced there by Gus Laube, an East Carolina College student.
A resolution of respect of the late Lonnie Barnhill was passed and ordered placed in the minutes. Barnhill was custodian of the Fleming Street School at the time of his death and had been an employee of the city schools for 31 years.
An evaluation of the Junius H. Rose High School will take place next year, Rose reported, and preparations for it have already begun. The evaluation will be conducted by the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges and will continue throughout the 1958-1959 term.
Included in the evaluation will be a school census which had originally been planned for this year.

Open Bids Today On Ellis Island

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the day they open the Valentines addressed to forlorn Ellis Island, sitting out in the harbor and wondering if it has a lover left in the world.
The Valentines are in the form of bids to buy the 27 acres of land and three dozen red brick buildings through which 20 million immigrants passed to the land of freedom and opportunity.
