Tax Office Differences Disclosed

Commissioners Call Open Meeting For This Afternoon To Seek Solution

An answer to troubles in the Pitt County Tax Department is expected to be provided this afternoon at a special meeting of the Board of County Commissioners.

The troubles apparently involve differences between Tax Supervisor Harold Allred and his assistant, D. E. Perry. Perry, a county employee since December 3, 1956, has not worked in the tax office since last Wednesday.

Neither Perry nor Allred has made any public statement about the situation, although Commissioner Chairman Woodrow Wooten said last Friday Perry apparently left because he and Allred were not able to continue working together.

Germ-Killing Gas Discovered

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—An Army Chemical Corps scientist today announced discovery of a germ-killing gas which may have wide use in sterilizing hospitals and defending against biological warfare.

Dr. C. R. Phillips, chief of the Physical Defense Division of the Chemical Corps at Ft. Detrick in Frederick, Md., said the gas is as effective as formaldehyde vapor but acts more rapidly with fewer adverse side effects.

Dr. Phillips announced the new use of beta-propiolactone in a paper prepared as part of the Beeton Dickinson lectures, a series on sterilization techniques, at the Seton Hall College of Medicine and Dentistry.

He said the gas has been used effectively to disinfect entire laboratory buildings at Ft. Detrick. He predicted that a few years' study will prove the gas has "important applications," possibly "in sterilizing operating rooms, nurseries, within hospitals, and the like."

Two Young Couples Are Bound Over On Grand Larceny Counts

CLINTON, N.C. (AP)—Two young couples who, police said, have implicated themselves in store robberies in three states were bound over last night to Superior Court on grand larceny charges.

Allred, Perry Quit Pitt Tax Office Jobs

Pitt County Commissioners this afternoon accepted resignations of Tax Supervisor Harold M. Allred and Assistant Tax Collector and Supervisor D. E. Perry.

The resignations were taken at a special meeting of the board, called by Chairman Woodrow Wooten as the climax to an investigation of reported "personal differences" between the two men. The resignations were accepted by unanimous vote of Chairman Wooten and Commissioners B. Alton Gardner, R. L. Martin and J. Vance Perkins.

Allred had been the county's Tax Supervisor since July 11, 1955, when the tax office was separated from the auditor's office. Perry had been his assistant since December 3, 1956.

The reported "personal differences" between Allred and Perry were climaxed last Wednesday when Perry, reportedly at Allred's direction, did not complete the work day. He has not been at work since then.

A resolution, passed by the board, said, in part, "In (accepting the resignations), the Board wishes to state that both Mr. Allred and Mr. Perry leave their offices with the complete respect and confidence of the Board. They have been honest, loyal, capable and competent employees of Pitt County.

"Their reasons for resigning are purely personal and are in no way connected with the conduct of the affairs of their offices."

Perry's letter, read by Chairman Wooten, said he was offering his resignation "due to chance for other employment." Allred's said, "Please accept this as my letter of resignation as of this date."

One member of the board, Robert G. Little of Grimesland, did not attend the special meeting. He was in Chapel Hill where his mother has been a patient at North Carolina Memorial Hospital for the past month.

Both motions for acceptance of the resignations were "with deep regret." Mrs. Blair C. Wheless, clerk to the Board, was instructed to send each of the men copies of the resolution.

H. Reginald Gray, county auditor, was named acting Tax Collector and Tax Supervisor, "until the office is filled by appointment."

D. R. Hollowell, certified public accountant who audits the county's books and financial records, was instructed to "check the employees out." In response to a question from the Board, Hollowell said the procedure was "normal."

Wooten and other board members said, so far as they knew, there were "absolutely no shortages in the tax department's accounts."

Talk Tax Procedures On Local Levels

ALFORD, STANSBURY, CURRIE, LEWIS AND EAGLES . . . At Tax Structure Study Meeting This Morning.

Twenty-five tax supervisors and members of county boards of commissioners met this morning with members of the North Carolina Commission for the Study of the Revenue Structure of the State.

Argentine Racer Is Freed By Cuban Rebel Kidnapers

HAVANA (AP)—Rebel kidnapers freed world champion automobile racer Juan Manuel Fangio unharmed today after Cuba's $10,000 Gran Premio race ended in tragedy and suspicions of foul play.

While Fangio, unshaken by his 20-hour experience, talked with reporters, authorities disputed claims by other drivers that someone poured oil on the course of the race in which the 46-year-old, five-time world title holder was to have been the star attraction.

Cost-Of-Living Index Hit New High During January

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today record high food prices pushed the nation's living cost to a new peak in January.

The jump in grocery prices was blamed on repeated freezes in Florida and excessive rains in Texas, which boosted fruit and vegetable costs, and also on short and consequently extensive meat supplies.

The Labor Department index of consumer prices rose six-tenths of one per cent between December and January to a new high of 122.3 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

This was the largest monthly rise since July 1956. The living cost level has risen steadily in 15 out of the past 17 months.

The latest living cost jump means a pay raise for some 1,350,000 workers whose wages are partly geared to the index.

About one million workers in the auto industry get a three-cent hourly raise. Some 350,000 other workers in the farm, implement, electrical and aircraft industries get a boost of two cents an hour or, in some cases, one per cent of present pay.

On the basis of a two-cent pay raise growing out of the new index figure, payroll boosts had been calculated at about 55 million dollars. With the living cost figure high enough to give about two-thirds of the affected workers three cents, the payroll hike goes to about 80 million.

Ewan Clague, labor statistics commissioner, told newsmen he could hold out no hope for any drop in living cost in the next few months. He pointed out there have been new crop freezes in Florida since the January data were collected.

Clague, however, said declining prices for materials such as wool, hides, leather, gasoline and fuel oil, rubber and metals eventually will mean lower prices to consumers in the summer or fall. He said the food price situation ought to straighten out somewhat, too, by then.

Clague said the living cost index had gone up in January more than he had expected, adding "we certainly didn't count on what the Weather Bureau was going to do to us."

He said that with the shortage of Florida winter fruits and vegetables, consumers are switching to other foods and creating demand which in turn boosts the prices of those items.

He explained that living costs rise above the previous high for food alone in August 1957, said there are various reasons why depressed business conditions have not yet been translated into lower consumer costs.

One, he said, is that the demand for food has not been affected because even jobless people devote their remaining income primarily to food and shelter.

Since food is the big item in most families' costs, it is given the greatest weight in the index. It would take a big drop in other items to offset a food cost rise.

Besides the sharp price increases for food, costs of all major groups of goods and services except clothing and transportation rose too.

The January living cost level was 3 1/2 per cent higher than a year ago. The food index was nearly 5 per cent above a year ago and three-tenths of one per cent above the previous high for food alone in August 1957.

Mayor West Declares Local State Of Emergency Ended; Crisis Is Over

Mayor S. Eugene West today declared the local state of emergency ended.

"We are over the crisis and we won't push the relief program anymore unless another emergency arises," the mayor said.

City Councilmen declared the state of emergency last Tuesday at the request of Mayor West. The action was taken due to the "extreme weather conditions" and local economic conditions.

Immediately following the council's action, the mayor called a meeting of several local citizens to make plans for establishment of an emergency relief fund to assist those suffering as a result of the weather.

Through this morning, City Clerk H. H. Duncan reported, $1,847.07 had been donated in cash to the fund. In addition, it was estimated more than $1,000 in food, clothing and other supplies had been contributed for distribution to the destitute.

The job of checking on those requesting aid and distributing the supplies was turned over to the Salvation Army which worked with the cooperation of the Welfare Department.

Mayor West said he believes most of the funds collected will have been used. However, if any money is left it will be held in case of a future emergency.

"I want to thank everyone for their generous support of this program which our council saw fit to offer us and to support," the mayor said this morning.

There were 127 individual cash donations to the fund. Also contributed were quantities of fuel oil, clothing, food, wood and milk.

The emergency was declared last week as the mercury skidded to a low of 10 degrees. Temperatures remained below or near freezing for several days. It was the worst cold wave to strike this area in many years.

City equipment and labor, which was idle due to the extreme cold, was put to work at the height of the cold wave.

City crews delivered wood, cut from the Greens Mill Run right-of-way last year, to families which were in need of wood for fuel.

The Salvation Army gave food packages, purchased with the special funds, to families found to be in extreme need.

Miami Attorney Resumes Testimony In FCC Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thurman A. Whiteside testified today that the president of National Airlines sought to employ him as an attorney in the contest for TV Channel 10 in Miami.

Whiteside said he refused employment but told G. T. Baker, the airlines president, he was "being helpful" on behalf of National's subsidiary, Public Service Television Inc., which eventually won the channel.

Whiteside said Baker sought to employ him on a fee basis but did not discuss amounts of fee.

Whiteside, a Miami attorney, was under questioning for the second day by a special House investigating committee inquiring into reported pressures and influences on the Federal Communications Commission and particularly Commissioner Richard A. Mack of Miami in the Channel 10 fight.

The investigators developed testimony from Whiteside yesterday that Mack got a free-ride insurance partnership from him. He said it paid Mack $9,822 in the years 1953-56 and that so far there has been no cost to Mack.

Chairman Harris (D-Ark) of the special subcommittee on legislative oversight said he also wanted more information on some misleading promissory notes Whiteside said Mack gave him on some loans. Whiteside said the notes, marked "paid," had been turned over to committee investigators.

Harris said they have not been found.

Whiteside testified that Mack, a close friend since college days, had been borrowing money from him for 20 years but had repaid all but $250.

Whiteside was asked to testify in connection with charges of influence being exerted on the FCC in the fight over Miami's TV Channel 10.

The Miami attorney said that in 1953 he declared a one-sixth interest for Mack in a Miami insurance firm which does business for National Airlines, a subsidiary of which was the winner of the Channel 10 license.

Whiteside testified he himself had a one-third interest in the insurance company and that he "declared" the interest for Mack when he took over controlling stock in the firm.

It was understood, Whiteside said, that Mack would be charged the value of his share if there should ever be any costs to the individual owners.

"Someday there may be," he said.

Whiteside testified that he interceded with Mack in three FCC cases. But he denied using any pressure and said Mack voted against his recommendations in two of three cases.

In the third case, Mack voted with the commission's 4-2 majority to award the Miami Channel 10 license to Public Service Television, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of National Airlines. Three other parties had sought the license.

Whiteside, a stocky, balding man with oversize horn-rimmed glasses, took heated issue with Bernard Schwartz, fired earlier as the subcommittee counsel. Schwartz had testified that Whiteside made payments of $2,650 to Mack after Mack was named to the FCC.

Cooley Files For Re-Election

RALEIGH (AP)—U. S. Rep. Harold D. Cooley of Nashville is officially a candidate for re-election in the Fourth District.

Cooley sent the State Board of Elections a $225 filing fee yesterday.

A contest developed in the 18th Solicitorial District when Leonard Lowe of Forest City paid a filing fee of $79.36 to seek the solicitorship. Solicitor Clarence O. Ridings of Forest City had previously filed for re-election.

Senate Opens Delayed Postal Rates Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today opened a long-delayed floor debate on proposed higher postal rates, with the key issue whether the letter rate will be 4 or 5 cents.

President Eisenhower has been urging higher postal rates almost every since he took office in 1953, as a means of reducing deficits in the Post Office Department.

But the issue has not reached the Senate floor until today, although the House twice has passed rate increase measures.

Before the Senate is a bill to raise postal rates by 700 to 750 million dollars. The current year's postal deficit is estimated at 700 million.

Included is a provision making the letter rate on non local mail 5 cents for three years from July 1, 1958, to June 30, 1961. Letters within a city would go for 4 cents. The permanent rate would be 4 as compared with the present 3 cents.

Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) said an effort would be made to the pay increases for the 500,000 postal workers to the rate bill.

The administration is offering about 180 million dollars of annual increases to the employees. Democrats are pushing a bill which would total about 320 million.

Postal unions favor tying the two together with the idea that Eisenhower would not veto a bigger pay increase than he wants if it meant killing higher rates.

The Senate bill also would boost the cost of air mail letters from 6 to 8 cents, require a 3-cent stamp on printed post-cards, and raise rates on second and third class mail 60 to 65 2-3 per cent.

Several Democrats are seeking to knock the 5-cent stamp out of the bill, leaving the flat 4-cent rate. The 5-cent provision was adopted by a 7-6 vote in committee.

The Republican leadership plans to try to retain the temporary 5-cent rate. Both sides expect a close vote.

Proceeds from the 5-cent stamp would be earmarked for modernization of postoffices over the nation. This rate would add about 175 millions annually to the yield expected from a straight 4-cent stamp.

Durham's Drunks Now Have Haven

DURHAM (AP)—The defendant had been arrested on Marvin Street (formerly Marvin's Alley), which police have long described as "a trouble spot. The man was charged with public drunkenness.

The lawyer addressed Superior Court Judge Hamilton Hodgson.

"The city admits they do not maintain the street, so it isn't a public place, and I'm asking for a directed verdict of not guilty on those grounds."

Judge Hodgson agreed, and added: "All the drunks in town now have a haven and they can have a heyday in Marvin Street until the city does something about it."

Virginia House Moves To Give Right To Spank

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The Virginia House of Delegates moved today to arm the school teacher by statute with a disciplinary weapon she already possesses in common law—the right to whip an unruly child.

The spanking bill came up on the House calendar for passage after receiving tentative approval without debate last night at the second evening session of the House during the 1958 General Assembly.

It was put in line for passage as the House sought to obtain the membership lists of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People through the State Corporation Commission.

Big Fire Loss

HENDERSON (AP)—Fire destroyed two sawmill units and several stacks of lumber and ruined expensive machinery at the Perry Lumber Co., one mile south of Henderson late last night. Leon Perry, the owner, estimated loss at $175,000.

The veteran driver showed no bitterness toward his captors, who seized him at gunpoint in his Havana hotel on the eve of the big race.

"If what the rebels did was in a good cause, then I as an Argentinian accept it," said Fangio, whose own country threw out dictator Juan D. Peron in September 1955.

He refused to identify the kidnapers or to give any description of them.

He said his captors had confined him in three different houses and used three different cars to transport him. At one house he saw two women.

Fangio said his captors treated him decently, fed him well and spent much time explaining why Castro's revolutionary movement would force cancellation of the race and embarrass President Fulgencio Batista's regime.

Brig. Gen. Fernandez Miranda, head of the sports commission, said that despite yesterday's tragedy, the Gran Premio would be held again next year.

Whiteside testified today that the president of National Airlines sought to employ him as an attorney in the contest for TV Channel 10 in Miami.

Hacksaw Blades Given Prisoner

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—The wife and brother-in-law of a felon are being held here on charges of trying to help him escape.

Bobby Bass, pregnant wife of Mack Hoover Walden, and George Walker Roberts, both of Georgetown, are under bond after being arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Gaines W. Smith yesterday.

Bond was put at $2,500 for Roberts and $1,000 for Mrs. Bass, whom the Federal Bureau of Investigation said married Walden under an assumed name.

Walden, fugitive from a North Carolina prison camp, was captured recently by FBI agents at Georgetown.

Jailers became suspicious last Friday of the attitude of a cell of hard-core prisoners and shook them down.

Hacksaw blades, piano wire and an improvised weapon were found.

During the shakedown, a taxi driver delivered a package of shoes and food to an inmate. Hacksaw blades were found in the shoes.

Mrs. Bass and Roberts are charged with sending the shoes to Walden through another inmate.

Bulletin

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Sen. Harry Flood Byrd (D-Va) agreed today with full consent of his wife to seek a fifth year term in the U. S. Senate.

Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, had announced Feb. 12 he would not seek re-election.

His statement today, addressed to the General Assembly of Virginia, contained a statement from Mrs. Byrd, an invalid, releasing him from his promise made six years ago to retire at the end of his term in January, 1959.

Board Prepares Answer Critics

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Board of Higher Education is expected to issue a statement within the next few days in answer to criticisms voiced yesterday at a meeting of the trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

Dr. J. Harris Purks, state director of higher education, said today he had been in touch with members of the Higher Education Board.

Purks, a former acting president of the Consolidated University, declined comment on the criticisms voiced at the UNC trustees meeting.

"Any statement with respect to these matters will come from the board," he said. He added that "it is very likely" that the board will issue a statement.

Disagreement between the board and the UNC trustees developed over the question of providing housing for married students at North Carolina State College. University officials wanted to build 500 units for married students, but the Board of Higher Education would approve only 300.

At yesterday's meeting of the UNC trustees, State Rep. W. C. Harris Jr. of Raleigh asserted that "the issue is whether we run the university or somebody else runs it."

30 Years Ago CWBC Plans Fashion Show Today

February 25, 1928
 The actual signing of five players as members of the Greenville baseball club has caused the national sport fever to become slightly more pronounced today than anytime since organization of the Eastern Carolina League.
 The first cooperative poultry shipment will be made from Ayden tomorrow. Thursday the cars will be moved to Greenville and next day to Bethel. Plans at the present time are for two carloads from Pitt and Edgecombe Counties, but it is believed the greater part of the shipment will come from Pitt.

CWBC Plans Fashion Show

Mrs. Ernest Caslick, project chairman, gave a report on a proposed fashion show to be presented in April at the Credit Women's Breakfast Club meeting Saturday morning.
 Proceeds from this show will be applied to the Scholarship Fund for a business major at East Carolina College.
 Lesson No. 6 of the "Guide to Good Leadership" course entitled "Working With Adults and Other Groups" was taught by Mrs. Caslick.
 Mrs. August Schmidt, president, presided and recognized Wesley Harvey, past sponsor of the club, as a special guest.
 Mrs. Polly Dall, chairman of the Bulletin Committee, issued the quarterly bulletin for the month.
 A letter from the international office regarding the membership contest which ends March 31 was read by the corresponding secretary. The letter stated that the Greenville club needed ten new members in order to qualify. The tenth member was voted on and accepted at this meeting.
 Miss Barbara Dall reported on the Historical Society meeting she attended as club representative.
 Mrs. Schmidt, Mrs. Dall, and Mrs. Frank Copeland gave reports on the Spring Board meeting they attended, along with Mrs. Cecil at Winston-Salem the weekend of February 16-17.
 Door prizes were won by Mrs. Wilma Barwick, Mrs. Oia Porter, Mrs. Rob Jones, Mrs. R. S. Broughton, Mrs. E. R. Johnson and Miss Barbara Dall.

ECC Choir's Concert Tomorrow

The East Carolina College Choir, an ensemble of 50 student vocalists, will give its annual concert on the campus tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Austin auditorium. The public is invited to attend.
 An outstanding organization sponsored by the department of music at East Carolina College, the choir will complete Tuesday night of this week its 50th annual tour. Performances during the trip were presented in Windsor, Tarboro, Robersonville, Portsmouth, Va., Norfolk, Va., Hopewell, Va., Richmond, Va., and at the Prince George High School near Petersburg, Va.
 Dr. Carl T. Hjortsvang of the college department of music is director of the choir. After extensive study and wide experience in the field of music, he joined the faculty at East Carolina last September. As singer, teacher, and choir director, he participates in activities of the department of music. As director of the annual campus performance of Handel's "The Messiah," he is known to local music lovers.
 Members of the choir include both men and women who are carefully chosen through auditions. At concerts they wear maroon robes with embroidered stoles of gold.
 Selections for Wednesday's program have been chosen from a repertoire made up of choral music of outstanding worth and ranging from inspiring and reverent sacred music to lilting and tuneful popular songs.
 Among numbers to be sung by the choir are the "O Magnum Mysterium" of Tomas Luis Victoria; Brahms' "Create in Me a Pure Heart"; the Silesian melody "Beautiful Saviour" in an arrangement by F. Melius Christiansen; and Gretchanioff's "Holy Radiant Light."
 Also on the program will be the familiar and beautiful Negro spirituals "Deep River" and "Were You There?" The rollicking "Dry Bones," a rhythmic spiritual, is also in this group of numbers. Modern compositions include the closing chorus of Kurt Weill's "Down in the Valley," an opera based on folk music, and "Beyond the Blue Horizon" by Richard Whiting and W. Franke Harling.

Jr. High PTA To See Film

The Greenville Junior High School PTA will have its regular meeting in the school library at 8 o'clock Thursday night.
 A program of interest to parents of teenagers will be under the guidance of Dr. C. R. Prewett of East Carolina College. A film, "Preface To A Life," will be shown followed by a discussion and question and answer period.
 The film for this program was ordered by Miss Elizabeth Copeland of Sheppard Memorial Library and portrays the influence parents have on a child's developing personality.
 All Junior High School parents are urged to attend and any interested persons are invited.

History, Facts Of Connecticut Told Booklovers

ROBERSONVILLE—The Book Lovers' Club continued their study of the state's Tuesday afternoon when they met at the home of Mrs. C. Abram Roberson.
 The hostess gave the history of Connecticut saying the name, which is of Indian origin, means long. Mrs. Roberson gave a vivid description of the state's scenery and told of the prominent people who lived in the state.
 The list included Mark Twain and the rubber king, Charles Goodyear.
 "Although Connecticut is small in size, it is rich in industries which include clocks, watches, firearms, hardware, electric appliances, famous typewriters, silverware, etc.," said the speaker.
 She pointed out that New Haven is the home of Yale University, one of the largest and oldest universities in the world.
 Following the program, books were exchanged and the hostess served fruit cake, ice cream, and nuts.

Bridal Couples Feted At Dinner

BETHEL—On Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Everett and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Eason Lilly honored Mr. and Mrs. Julius Fleming Pollard and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Fernando Pollard of Tarboro, recent bridal couples, at a dinner party at the Roanoke Country Club.
 The honorees were presented corsages of white carnations upon arrival.
 After the tomato juice cocktails were served in the lobby, the guests were invited into the dining room where they were served a roast beef dinner.
 An arrangement of pink carnations interspersed with greenery and flanked by tall pink burning tapers placed in silver candelabras centered the dining room table.
 The hostesses and hosts remembered the honor guests with gifts of silver.
 Twenty-four guests were present. Out-of-town guests included the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Pollard and Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Traynor of Norlina.

FAITHFUL MEMBER KITCHENER, Ont. (AP)—W. H. E. Schmalz was honored by the Kitchener-Waterloo Kiwanis Club on completion of 30 years' membership without missing a single weekly meeting. His wife was presented with a silver platter at the same time.

Teacher Conducts Reading Class For Wahl-Coates PTA

Mrs. Elsie Eagan, fifth grade teacher at Wahl-Coates Laboratory School, conducted a reading class at the regular monthly Parent-Teachers Association meeting Thursday night.
 A selected group of parents and teachers acted as students for this reading class demonstration showing how a teacher first presents her basic aims and lays a word and phonetic foundation for the lesson before a child actually begins reading the text. A group discussion followed Mrs. Eagan's presentation.
 The student teachers from Mrs. Eagan's grade gave the devotional which preceded the business meeting presided over by the president, Mrs. Lacy Harrell. Mrs. George Lautares, secretary, read the minutes and a treasurer's report by Charles Steinmeyer was heard.
 Mrs. Harrell appointed Mrs. W. Z. Morton Jr., Mrs. Howard Gradis and Mrs. Jonathan Overton to serve on the nominating committee for new officers. A certificate of merit was read for the school's participation in the recent March of Dimes.
 Attendance award was won by Mrs. Eagan's fifth grade.

Dr. Utterback Discusses Play

Dr. Elizabeth Utterback of East Carolina College discussed Eugene O'Neill's prize-winning play, "A Long Day's Journey," at the end of the Century Book Club meeting Tuesday.
 This play, which has been chosen to go to Edinburgh to represent the United States at the Music Festival, has won all the major drama awards, including the Pulitzer Prize for Drama.
 "O'Neill's life was as fantastic as any of his many plays," said Dr. Utterback. "He had been many things in his life which has been at times full of joy, sorrow, happiness, bitterness, darkness, and light."
 His play, "A Long Day's Journey," was dedicated to his wife who had promised not to release it until 25 years after his death. Due to the fact that all the people in the play are now dead and no one can be harmed, it was released.
 Dr. Utterback explained, "It is altogether autobiographical and deals with 24 hours in the life of O'Neill's family. At the end of the play his real loneliness in all of the world is revealed."
 Miss Mary Harding served a salad plate with coffee and sweets. Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. John Winstead, Mrs. John Drake, Dr. Utterback and Miss Eliza Harding.

June Barnhill Shower Honoree

Mrs. Dan Calhoun, Mrs. Joe Keel, and Mrs. H. W. Davis were hostesses at a miscellaneous floating shower February 20 honoring Miss June Barnhill, bride-elect, at the home of Mrs. Calhoun.
 On arrival, the guests were presented to Miss Barnhill and Mrs. John Barnhill, mother of the bride.
 Mrs. Calhoun's house was decorated in a pink and white color theme. The focal was the dining room table which was covered with a white linen cutwork cloth and centered with a pink and white chrysanthemum arrangement placed in a wishing well.
 Mrs. Heber Fleming poured punch and guests helped themselves to mints, peanuts, bridal cakes, and party sandwiches.
 After each guest had been served, they were invited into the living room where the gifts were displayed. The hostesses remembered the honoree with a butter dish in her chosen pattern.
 Goodbyes were said to the hostesses and honor guest.

Lector Club Elects Officers

Mrs. Hugh Winslow was elected president of the Lector Book Club when the club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Holly Van Dyke. Other new officers are Mrs. Victor Wells, vice president; Mrs. Louis Gaylord Jr., secretary; Mrs. Howard Waldrop, treasurer; and Mrs. Burney Warren, librarian.

Mrs. Van Dyke introduced the guest speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. Richard Heller, who spoke to the group on "Flower Arranging."

Mrs. Heller explained the basic designs and containers for satisfactory arrangements. She gave the group many "professional tips" on arranging and pointed out ways of conditioning flowers in order to give them longer life.

Mrs. Heller concluded by creating a Hogarth arrangement using huckleberry foliage and chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Harold Forbes, outgoing president, welcomed the following guests: Mrs. W. A. Wright, Mrs. A. J. White Jr., Mrs. Richard Heller, Mrs. D. C. Wade, Mrs. Jack Moye Jr. and Mrs. Carl Pierce.

During the business session the members voted to send a donation to the Winter Relief Fund.

Upon arrival members and guests were served a dessert course with coffee.

Children Taking Over?

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor

Modern day supermarkets and grocery stores are beginning to resemble full-time nursery schools.

Grocery shopping has become a family venture and the children love it!

Self-service, that has swept the grocery business in the past ten years, has met with popularity from the small fry.

Some supermarkets across the nation are even planning to incorporate nurseries in their stores in the near future as a special bonus for the shopping mothers.

But, chances are the youngsters will turn thumbs down on the nursery idea. The avenues of candy, fruit, cookies, and other eye-catching merchandise are like an adventure for each of them.

When she visits a supermarket, Linda Sharlene Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Allen, is quite grown-up in her role as shopper.

For William Dean, son of S-Sgt. and Mrs. N. G. Dean, the candy counter is the first stop.

Quite small shoppers like Michele Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark, Jr., are content with a cookie and a ride in the cart.

Kathy Wester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wester, Jr., has an important position as she helps mother fill the basket with the week's supply of groceries.

Elmhurst PTA Sees Play

A play directed by Dr. and Mrs. Robert Forney highlighted the regular February meeting of the Elmhurst School PTA held recently in the school auditorium.

"Fresh Variable Winds," by Nora Stirling, an American Theatre Wing production, was acted by a cast consisting of Mrs. Robert Forney, Mrs. James Piet, Richard Heller, Dickie Pierce and Gina Vetter. The presentation on the subject of disciplinary problems at home and at school, was followed by a discussion led by George Trammell.

The business meeting concluded with the appointment of this year's Nominating Committee, which will consist of Mrs. Sidney Dunn, Mrs. W. W. Brown, and Mrs. J. H. Parnell. Mrs. Badger Johnson presided.

Mrs. Irby Jackson led the devotional, in which she commemorated the anniversary of PTA Founder's Day, February 17.

Industry And Agriculture Linked

Recent industrial developments in this immediate section of Eastern North Carolina point conclusively to the manner in which industrial expansion in an area such as this can prove a distinct asset to agricultural expansion also.

Last week in Wilson ceremonies were held in conjunction with construction of the new three million dollar meat packing plant of Swift and Company. The plant will employ some 300 people and have an annual payroll of $1,500,000. More than that, a spokesman for the company said Swift would channel from $15 to $17 million dollars annually into Wilson and neighboring counties through the purchase of hogs, cattle and perhaps poultry to supply the plant.

A few months ago it was announced that Chemell Hatcheries would open a new hatchery in Greenville that would require something like half million dollars worth of eggs annually for its operations. These would be purchased as nearly as possible from producers in Pitt and surrounding counties. Agricultural officials were quick to point out, however, that farmers of the vicinity could parley the operation into a gross farm income of something like $4 1/2 million dollars annually by taking the hatchery's output of chicks and raising them to broiler poultry for sale to processing plants.

In Farmville construction on the new Formica Corporation flakeboard plant is being rushed to completion and operations are expected to begin this Spring. When in full operation, the plant will require some $750,000 worth of wood annually which the company plans to purchase from farmers of this immediate area.

It is immediately apparent that these three industrial plants will channel much more cash into agriculture in Eastern North Carolina than they will in direct payrolls for their industrial operations.

Combine these three plants will employ some 500 people and have total payrolls between $2 million and $3 million annually. For farm commodities used in conjunction with these plants, however, the companies will spend almost $20 million annually. Through supplying these plants with the raw materials they must have, Eastern Carolina's agriculture will be further diversified and the agriculture economy appreciably strengthened.

For Eastern North Carolina industrial expansion and agricultural expansion go hand-in-hand. Progress in each field will promote progress in the other and through the combination of the two this area can create for itself the balanced economy and unprecedented prosperity of which it has dreamed for generations.

Five Valued Men Are Leaving Key Posts

It should be a matter of concern to the American people that five of the able members of the Senate plan to step down from their important posts after this session of Congress.

Next year this time the Senate roll will not be answered by Senators Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, William Knowland of California, William Jenner of Indiana, Edward Martin of Pennsylvania and Joseph O'Mahoney of Wisconsin. Each of these men has announced he will retire from the Senate after his present term expires.

Their retirement will leave gaps in Senate committees which must be filled by able men. Sen. Byrd, long a power in financial matters of the nation, now serves as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. Edward Martin is the ranking Republican member of that committee. Sen. Knowland is the Republican leader in the Senate and has been closely associated with the legislative program of President Eisenhower. Sen. Jenner is a member of the committees on finance, judiciary and postal and civil service. Sen. O'Mahoney is a member of the judiciary and interior and insular affairs committees.

All of these men have assumed roles of leadership during their service in the Senate. Each of them has gained many admirers, many enemies, for the stands taken on various matters of national business over a period of years. Without exception, however, they have shown themselves men of deep conviction; men of high calibre whose forceful voices will be sorely missed in Congress.

Their places on Senate committees will be filled by new men with new faces and new names. But will they be filled by men who will leave behind them in years to come as formidable impression upon our course of government as these who are stepping aside?

Will the nation replace these Senate losses with men of equal vigor and leadership?

Unemployment And Dishonesty

By ELMER ROESSNER

Danger of employee dishonesty increases with unemployment. The burden of supporting unemployed relatives is thrust on some employees; others panic to the point that they pilfer things they don't really need.

Employee thefts will total $1 billion this year, the Illinois Retail Merchants Association has warned members, quoting Investigations, Inc. That means, if today is an average day, nearly $4,000,000 worth of cash, merchandise and materials will be lifted before midnight.

A disturbing fact is that supervisory and executive employees are responsible for most of the pilfering, perhaps 60 per cent. BLAME OF MANAGEMENT "Dishonesty is a by-product of mismanagement," the Association warned. Mismanagement produces bickering among key personnel, griping and impaired morale generally. These are reflected in damaged goods, markdowns, carelessness and dishonesty for "get even" reasons among others.

The Small Business Administration has issued an eight-page brochure on "Protecting Your Business Against Dishonesty." It was written by Winston Mergott, vice president of Liberty Mutual, of Boston. It discusses all hazards, including burglary, holdup and forgery, but places first emphasis on employee dishonesty.

Losses caused by employee dishonesty are always the most difficult to prevent or detect, and they frequently weaken the financial structure of a business, Mr. Mergott cautions. The first prevention should be an independent audit of books and records by reputable public accountants at least once a year. Some of his other suggestions are: Maintain an independent check of payrolls to prevent padding; forbid the addition of new names to the payrolls without authorization.

Prerequisite purchasing orders serially, and have duplicate or triplicate copies on different colored paper for checking. HANDLING CASH Serially primumer sales slips in book form, and audit books at least once a week. Carefully supervise cash collections, using serially numbered receipt books. Collect accounts receivable promptly, mailing statements directly to customers. Confirm all customer accounts periodically by mail or personal contact. Make disbursements by pre-numbered check instead of cash whenever possible.

Watch petty cash funds, maintaining close control with vouchers. "Defaulters often start in a small way by borrowing from these sources," Mr. Mergott warns. Require countersignatures on checks of more than a specific amount, say $250 or $500. Have bank statements reconciled by an employee other than the one who prepares deposits and signs checks. WATCH INVENTORY Take a physical inventory once a year or oftener if possible. Maintain a perpetual book inventory, which can help locate shortages. Control scrap and waste material; sale of this has proved a lucrative source of funds for dishonest employees and buyers.

All of these steps constitute sound business practices and the overwhelming majority of honest employees should be willing to co-operate to make them effective. TO CURE DANDRUFF: QUIT JOB, GO SOUTH Your chances of being bothered with dandruff are greater if you live in a large Northern city and have a responsible job in a tenave-producing business, according to the world's first dandruff survey. Farmers in temperate climates have the least.

has much goods laid up for many years; take time ease, eat drink, and be merry." The rich man's expectations, however, were suddenly cut short. "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee." It is a solemn thought that not a single person in the whole world can be sure that his own soul will not, like that of the rich man in the parable, be required of him in a day or even an hour. All we can be absolutely sure of is that some day, tomorrow or years hence, it will certainly be required of us.

First things first: the trivialities of life will vanish into dust. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS THE ONE CERTAINTY A recent news item reminds us of one of the sober facts of life. A young bride and groom en route by private plane to their wedding, were killed when the plane crashed. Such a situation is one of great pathos. We can readily imagine these young people on the verge of one of life's richest experiences. Joyful and confident of their happiness to come — and then, in a matter of seconds, their lives ended.

But this aspect of life is always with us, and always has been. In one of Jesus' parables, we are told of the rich man who said to himself, "Soul, thou

Pocketknife And The Boy

There used to be many an unspoken observation, like "What is a boy without a pocketknife?" or "A boy who whittles will never rob a bank," or "A boy and a pocketknife go together like bread and butter."

Such commentaries were largely unspoken because it was an accepted fact of life; and people didn't philosophize about a "boy and his knife" any more than they'd say wise things about a "boy and his ten toes."

In brief, to be young likewise inferred possession of a knife. This doesn't hold so true today.

Certain social groups in the pre-adult stage have a fondness for switchblades (though these be in the minority), and an occasional father tries to help his son find some of the joys of childhood by buying him a pocketknife, but on the whole I think most of today's pocketknife carriers are well-removed from the contradictions of childhood and futilities of adolescence.

The most famous of all pocketknives was the "Barlow."

It made its first appearance before I did, and some of its full-bodied handle, were adopted by other makers.

Prospective buyers just didn't walk up to a merchant and say "I want a Barlow knife" . . . rather, it was "I want a Barlow." It was the ideal instrument for whittling and cutting. Both blades were strong, and the handle was a comfortable fit. You weren't apt to get blisters trimming down a chunk of wood with a Barlow.

They were a far cry from the narrow, angular handles of tinseel-like appearance that later were palmed off on Boys of America — and in retrospect it is still hard to forgive those slender, sharp blades of low-grade steel wearing a mirror-like gloss to hide their falseness.

Nor should we overlook the Boy Scout knife; that horror of "mother's-little-helpers" included a can-opener, an awl, a screw-driver, a bottle-opener, cork-screw, and somehow they even found room for a big blade, too. The whole was encased by a bulky handle that never comfortably fitted the small hands it was intended to serve.

(Parents could always tell in which pocket their Tenderfoot's Scout knife resided, when he returned from his weekly meeting, by which side of his pants had the sags.)

Small boys' eyes had an extra gleam on seeing a sensibly-styled knife with soft-gleaming blades of keen steel and Spartan handle; so beautifully utilitarian, and far removed from "sissy" frills they despised.

What were they used for? A good question. A boy wasn't complete without one.

There must have been a heavier demand for shavings than exists today.

Other Editors Saying--- Big Real Estate Deal

(Goldshoro News-Argus)

A Philadelphia lawyer would have to spend a couple of weeks in close study to master every detail, every angle, every implication. Reference is made to the bid deal under which the Wayne Redevelopment Company proposed to sell Seymour Johnson Homes to the Eastern Carolina Regional Housing Authority.

So you will pardon us if we fail to make some point that appeals to you. For we are no Philadelphia lawyer. Apparently, however, Seymour Johnson Homes might have been lost to service if Emmett Powell had not bought from Dr. Jack Harrell the land on which they stood. It had been leased originally by Uncle Sam for use for the Homes built during World War II as a defense housing project. Agreement contemplated the razing of the Homes three years after the end of the war emergency.

The Homes definitely filled a great need for housing both during and after the war.

When the Wayne Redevelopment Company bought the Homes for $39,010, it apparently was simply a business deal with no great probability of tremendous profit.

Johnson Field was then out of business. Everybody except Mayor S. B. Berkeley felt that there was little chance of the Field being reactivated.

But it was reactivated. And the need for the Homes as dwelling units was multiplied. Of course that multiplied their value, and the value of the property.

Appraisers put a valuation in excess of $1,100,000 on the Homes for sale to the Eastern Carolina Regional Housing Authority.

Thus the Homes were saved for service at a time when the need for them was never greater, not even in World War II.

So in that field, the proposed big deal served. But we think there will be general agreement on this line also. It is not in the public interest to have public officers or officials, be they city, county, state or housing authority, trading with themselves where they stand to make a profit. Will anyone deny that principle?

Emmett Powell, president of Redevelopment and chief of the Housing Authority, owns 89 per cent of the stock of Redevelopment. Others associated with him in Eastern Housing or once connected with it had smaller interests. N. E. Mohn, Jr., is reported to have had 5 per cent of the Redevelopment stock. Frank Taylor and Bill Allen had smaller bits. We are told that Powell assigned two shares of Redevelopment to Raymond Bryan and that the latter was not aware of this until a couple of months had elapsed.

The big deal isn't closed yet. No money has passed. The investigation started by Governor Hodges on a nudge from Washington gives opportunity to go fully into the facts and to reach a careful and considered evaluation of them.

An 11-man study commission will be set up. It will be composed of one man from each of the 10 counties in which Eastern Housing operates and one appointed by Governor Hodges.

Let's not make up our minds fully until the study is completed and the recommendations are in.

Kennedy's Backers Fear 'Rush'

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Senator John F. Kennedy's Presidential promoters share the same fears that beset backers of Vice President Richard M. Nixon—namely, that he has rushed too far to the front too far in advance of the 1960 National Convention. The two men's admitted leads make them especially vulnerable to rivals and hostile elements in both parties.

Private and public polls generally show the youthful Massachusetts Senator to possess more popular appeal than the men usually listed as Democratic possibilities. In recent tabulations, he has run ahead of Nixon and of numerous Democrats stacked against him.

In an apparent attempt to remove the pressure on his candidacy, Senator Kennedy has recently curtailed his extracurricular activities. He is making fewer speeches around the country, fewer television appearances and cutting down his trips outside of Washington, although he is in great demand as a speaker.

DATES

Like Nixon, Kennedy's greatest strength lies in the liabilities of possible contestants. For one reason or another, they do not strike the mood of the populace or of the politicians.

Adlai E. Stevenson and Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee are regarded as showpots. The 1952-1956 nominee himself doubts that the Party will choose him a third time, although he would probably accept. Kefauver was tapped for second place in 1956, when the Democrats were certain to lose, largely to eliminate him from future consideration.

Governor Averell Harriman of New York is considered to be too old. However, if he is elected by a massive majority—500,000 or more—he may commend himself to the convention bosses. It was F.D.R.'s 756,000 margin in the 1930 gubernatorial contest that insured his 1932 nomination in the face of powerful conservative opposition at Chicago.

MICHIGAN GOVERNOR'S ULTRALIBERALISM Governor G. Mennen Williams of Michigan will suffer because of his ultraliberal philosophy, but more particularly because of his close association with Walter P. Reuther, head of the automobile workers' union. The latter's current demands for a tri-fold sharing of corporation profits frightens Democratic conservatives, and is thought to be too adventurous a move by many liberals.

Governors Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and George Leader of Pennsylvania are frequently mentioned, but they do not seem to have stirred the public imagination or emotions. They are not spectacular, and no crisis of national concern has confronted them such as the Boston police strike which Calvin Coolidge is supposed to have settled with a ringing declaration against disorder and insubordination.

Moreover, Kennedy stands in a peculiarly strategic spot. Although not an extreme or vociferous liberal, his record is satisfactory to that faction. But his relative moderation has not antagonized the South, which cast many votes for him at the 1956 convention. They find it hard to believe that the son of

UNIQUE FELLOW

(The Charlotte Observer) A salute to Robert W. Freson, finance director of the City of Sterling, Colo. He's one in a thousand. Recently Freson became weary of placing in his local newspaper legal notices couched in jargon so dearily cherished by attorneys, and so fervently damned by John Q.

So he bought an inch ad to go next to one he had placed for the city. His lines: "In plain English, the adjacent legal notice means that to avoid all interest charges, payment must be made in full prior to 5 p.m. on Feb. 14, 1958." Simple. Understandable.

To legal-notice writers everywhere: Emulate this fellow's style: it's deadly to jobbed-gook.

Peronistas Are Problem To Argentina's New President

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The big problem facing Argentine President-elect Arturo Frondizi is what to do with the Peronists taking credit for his landslide victory.

Frondizi told a news conference he was elected Sunday "by the Argentine people" and recognized no special political help. But clandestine weekly newspapers appearing after the results were known claimed his election was a triumph for backers of ousted dictator Juan D. Peron.

The paper Palabra Obrera proclaimed, "The day is not too distant when the Argentine workers will go to battle against the 'liberators' who overthrew Peron in September 1955 and have run a provisional government since. Frondizi's only real opponent, Ricardo Balbin, had the government's tacit support. Peron gave Frondizi an implied endorsement. Actually the Peronists did not give the victory to Frondizi, though they did make it overwhelming. About 1,100,000 Peronists apparently voted for the winner—nearly 700,000 cast blank ballots—and his margin over Balbin, candidate of the Radical party's right wing, was about 1,700,000. The Peronists' only real alternative to Frondizi was the blank ballot. Balbin publicly rejected Peronism.

Outside his own intransigent Radical party, Frondizi got support from a collection ranging from Communists to Fascists. With returns virtually complete, his total vote was 4,300,096 to 2,617,746 for Balbin.

Argentine Communists are small in numbers. But they can make trouble in certain unions they control.

If Frondizi legalizes the now outlawed Peronist political party as promised, it is likely to turn against him and seek to regain power. If he refuses to recognize the party, it undoubtedly would try to turn his six-year presidency into political chaos.

Frondizi pledged before the election to ask Congress for full amnesty for political offenders and parties. The 49-year-old Buenos Aires attorney told newsmen the amnesty would include Peron "if Congress decides so." Peron is now in exile in the Dominican Republic.

Frondizi's party, a conservative group that stayed neutral in both world wars, captured control of Congress. It won all 46 Senate seats and an overwhelming majority of the 187 places in the House of Deputies. The party also won all 22 provincial governorships.

Rotarians Alton Johnston and Robert Lee Humber related to members of the Greenville Rotary Club last night their impressions of other Rotary Clubs they have visited in the United States and abroad.

Johnston said that in each of the Rotary Clubs across the United States that he has visited he has found abundant hospitality. There is a Rotary Club almost everywhere one might go, he told his audience, and Rotarians who fail to visit other clubs when they are away from their home communities are missing an opportunity to see Rotary in action on a broad scale. Johnston cited a number of clubs he has visited, discussing briefly the characteristics of the club which most impressed him.

Dr. Humber told local Rotarians his visits with clubs in the United States and abroad he has found that each club feels an obligation to its community and to public service. "Wherever one goes to visit a Rotary Club he is in contact with the finest leadership of the community."

After That Bite, Thinks Of Dogs

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Ora Klar, 54, was awarded $1,000 damages in Fayette Circuit Court as a result of being bitten on the mouth by a dog a year ago.

The bite left its mark emotionally, Mrs. Klar said. She testified when her husband kisses her she sometimes "thinks of dogs."

Said her husband, Jacob Klar: "Now she barks at me and pushes me away when I try to kiss her."

University Trustees Fear Control Going To Higher Education Board

GREENSBORO (AP)—Trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina are taking a dim view of the State Board of Higher Education these days.

Hostility flared at a trustees' meeting here yesterday when State Rep. W. C. Harris Jr. of Wake County speaking for a group of annoyed trustees, said "The university is slipping away from us."

Dulles Observes 70th Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles celebrated his 70th birthday on the job today.

Dulles confirmed that he feels fine although it is only a little more than a year since he underwent surgery for removal of an intestinal cancer.

Mrs. Dulles, giving some personal glimpses of the secretary in an interview, said he has no thought of retirement.

She predicted the secretary will run into even more criticism than usual this year, because it is an election year, but she said neither of them reads what the critics have to say.

Besides, she added, Dulles "knows more than they do."

The secretary of state "never gets bored—he always has something to do." He takes work home every weekend.

Despite his work load, Mrs. Dulles says, her husband is "certainly warmhearted" and if he gives the impression of being impersonal in his diplomatic role "he's concentrating on something."

He goes for tweeds when off the diplomatic circuit, is a baseball and bridge fan and when he wants to relax he looks for a detective story.

administration leaders as Tom Fearsall of Rocky Mount and William P. Saunders, director of the State Department of Conservation and Development.

But balancing the trustees against the Education Board is a ticklish job.

The Board was created to have broad authority over the 12 state-supported institutions of higher learning. What power is taken from the board and given to the UNC trustees must be done for the other 11 institutions also.

The dispute that triggered the fuss yesterday was over dormitory units for married students at North Carolina State College.

The trustees had backed university officials who wanted to build 500 units now. But the Board of Higher Education agreed to only 300 units now, claiming construction of 500 involved a major policy decision which should be reviewed in the state Legislature.

The Education Board, headed by Hiden Ramsey of Asheville, based its arguments on an act of the 1957 Legislature authorizing revenue bonds university officials planned to use to build the self-liquidating units.

Board members decided the bond statute made the board jointly responsible with the trustees and the advisory budget commission for a decision on the dormitories.

The university visiting committee, headed by Saunders, declared, "We are strongly of the opinion that this matter should be left to the discretion of the Board of Trustees of the university."

'Just Checking' Police Got 'em

Police caught Robert Lee Arnold, 23, when he ran out of gas after a seven-mile chase. Ernest Hayden, 27, was caught hiding in a farm yard. Both were fined on drunkenness and other charges.

Two Tobacco Barns Burned

Two tobacco barns have burned in the past two days as a result of grass fires, Pitt County Forest Ranger N. S. Tyson reports.

Yesterday afternoon on the Myles Ernest Wilson farm near Grimesland, one barn burned and another was threatened before flames were subdued. The barn was a total loss, Tyson said.

A barn on the Elliott Harris farm, between the Statesburg Highway and N. C. Highway 43 burned during mid-afternoon Sunday. The Forest Ranger said the barn burned as a result of a grass fire of an undetermined nature.

After 191 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—One hundred and ninety-one years ago John Jay got a master's diploma from Columbia University. Only now has the university finally got around to putting the correct date on it.

Godfrey Is Embarked On 'Save Jazz' Campaign

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Arthur Godfrey has a new mission. He has set out to rescue jazz music from the intellectuals and restore it to the common people who never heard of Hugues Panassie and don't know that Muggsy Spanier's real name is Francis.

His chosen weapon in his crusade is his CBS radio afternoon program.

Being a man who dislikes labels, Godfrey avoids the word jazz. "It's all right with me if anybody wants to call it that," he says, "but as far as I'm concerned it's just the same good old music that a lot of us grew up with. Jazz, Dixieland, New Orleans—what do names matter?"

"It's getting so there are more experts and critics than there are musicians. There's a raft of guys now who write essays on the backs of LP record jackets and in the slick magazine. There are darn near as many books on jazz today as on child psychology."

What's wrong with that?

"It's all right with me if anyone applies, 'except that this kind of music is meant to be enjoyed without a lot of literary preliminaries. You build a big intellectual fence around it and you're going to keep more people out than you fence in."

So, around Godfrey's CBS radio studio these days, you see Cozy Cole's brushes caressing the drumhead, Jack Lesberg impassively teasing a big bull fiddle, Johnny Smith embracing his guitar with solemn tenderness. You sense the restrained chestiness in Bobby Hackett as he fingers the valves of his cornet, while Peanut Hucko looks brighteyed and sassy over the mouthpiece of his clarinet. In addition are trombonist Urbie Green, organist Dick Hyman and bandleader-pianist Burt Farber.

The personnel of the group changes somewhat from time to time, but it's always good music—and a creative feather in the cap of Arthur Godfrey and CBS radio.

Dual Campaign For Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and former President Truman bury the political hatchet long enough today to sing a bipartisan duet which they might call "Hurrah for Foreign Aid."

They headline a parade of stars stage-managed by Eric Johnston, movie czar and part-time presidential aide.

Johnston's aim is to develop more public understanding and support for the $3,900,000,000 foreign aid program. It is now a hot target for Republican and Democratic budget cutters in Congress.

Formal hearings on the program start tomorrow before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Eisenhower and Truman have not met face to face since they rode together in a White House limousine to Eisenhower's 1953 inauguration. They won't meet to say even though both have agreed to sing the praises of foreign aid from the same platform.

Johnston carefully arranged to space them about eight hours apart in a daylong rally at a downtown hotel. Eisenhower will speak at a dinner tonight.

Some 1,200 outstanding citizens from all over the country were on hand for the affair. Foreign aid advocates hoped this would prove to be an impressive demonstration of grass roots sentiment.

Closing Down

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus, the Biggest Show on Earth, has announced the closing of its winter quarters here by April 1.

The circus' board voted to sell everything not needed for the traveling circus which opens its road tour March 7 in Charlotte, N. C.

Meanwhile, attorneys for Mrs. Hester Ringling Sanford and her son, Stuart Lancaster, have filed suit for an injunction to halt sale of any circus assets.

Mrs. Sanford is the daughter of Mrs. Edith Ringling, whose estate owns 40 per cent of the circus stock.

Nick Schiavone, circus comptroller, said the future of the winter quarters—a big attraction for tourists—has not been decided. He said the question of whether it will open again probably will not be answered until next fall.

The closing of winter quarters has nothing to do with the circus itself which donned a new look last year, throwing aside its big top, concentrating on more beautiful girls and playing only in big indoor auditoriums.

Change In Philosophies Of Government Seen In Talks

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nothing shows better the changing philosophy of government than the speeches by the President and his ex-presidents, all within the space of three days and one the same subject: the present recession.

Former Presidents Hoover and Truman spoke Saturday. President Eisenhower talked yesterday. Hoover, a personally kind man, looked as out of date as he did from the time the depression started during his administration in 1929.

The steps he took then to relieve unemployment and get the economy moving were limited and inadequate. He was reluctant then and still appears so, to recognize the responsibility of the government for the general welfare of the people.

Truman, whose "Fair Deal" was the successor of President Roosevelt's New Deal, pitched his whole speech on the basic ideas behind both deals: that the government must not only help people in distress but is responsible for the general welfare.

President Eisenhower, a true reflection of changing times and the changes in the Republican leadership, in his talk plainly recognized government responsibility. His administration has not only accepted much of the New Deal programs but expanded them.

In the depths of the depression Hoover was optimistic it would just go away. He appears now to think the recession of today will do the same. Then and now his solution seemed to be individualism and self-reliance, not government help.

On Saturday—in a speech which he revealed was almost identical with one he made in 1931 — he said: "The way to the nation's greatness is the path of self-reliance, independence, and steadfastness in time of trial and stress."

He didn't acknowledge Saturday, despite all that has been done by the Roosevelt-Truman-Eisenhower regimes, that the government has a colossal responsibility not only for the general welfare but for getting out of the recession.

It is doubtful he still understands what caused either the depression or the recession. He blamed the former on the aftermath of World War I and the latter on the mistakes and destruction of World War II.

Truman's Saturday speech was studded with political cliches. It was one of his "give-'em-hell" performances. Nevertheless, there was no doubt he acknowledged government responsibility where people are concerned.

At one point he said: "The people want . . . action at the top . . . for the good of the nation and for the welfare and benefit of the ordinary citizen." And he listed a bunch of welfare programs on which he said Eisenhower had fallen down.

Eisenhower, who has repeatedly pointed with pride to the welfare programs sponsored by his administration, talked of the readiness of the government to pitch in with public works programs to relieve unemployment.

Eisenhower, who cannot be and no doubt would not want to be considered a New Deal Dealer, nevertheless during the 1956 campaign showed he had gone far beyond Hoover's philosophy of self-reliance. He said then: "We believe the government . . . has to perform in Lincoln's phrase . . . all those things which individuals cannot do for themselves. . . ."

Court Recesses This Morning

Pitt County Superior Court recessed at 10 a.m. today out of respect to the late Judge Henry A. Grady of New Bern, a Superior Court judge since 1922.

Judge Joseph W. Parker, presiding at the two-weeks civil term of court, called the recess. Court action is expected to resume tomorrow morning.

Judge Grady, 86, died in New Bern Sunday. He officially retired in 1939 as judge of the Sixth Judicial District, but was made an emergency judge for life. In 1952 and 1953, he held more courts in the state than any other Superior Court judge.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Clinton Presbyterian Church.

In action yesterday, Judge Parker signed two divorce decrees. One went to Thurman W. Worthington from Sarah B. Worthington, and the other went to J. D. Bunting from Mary L. Bunting.

Arrest Follows Finding Supply Of Illicit Booze

Herbert Lee Harris, 41-year-old Negro of 1211 Davenport Street, was arrested last night by Pitt County ABC officers.

Harris was charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale and transporting non-tax-paid whiskey. Shortly after his arrest he was released under a $200 bond to appear in City Court on March 3.

According to Chief ABC officer J. M. Ward, Harris was arrested on South Pitt Street when a half-gallon of bootleg was found in his 1951 automobile. The automobile was confiscated pending court action.

Ward said he and three other officers then went to the local man's house with a search warrant and found one and one-half gallons of non-tax-paid whiskey on the premises.

Officers H. B. Lilley, Walter M. Taylor and James L. Ross, along with Ward, participated in the arrest and subsequent search.

The Sports Reflector

By BILLY ARNOLD

East Carolina was virtually assured of a berth in the NAIA district 26 playoffs this morning.

A news release from District Commissioner Clarence Stasavich stated that Lenoir Rhyne and Belmont Abbey have won the right to have their teams included and have also won the right to have the opening round of the two-day tourney on their home courts, because they posted the best records against NAIA competition in the Carolinas.

The two teams opposing Belmont Abbey and Lenoir Rhyne will be decided in the two tournaments to be played this week. The North State Conference tourney winner and the winner of the Little Four Tournament at Anderson, S. C., will get bids to the playoffs.

If Lenoir Rhyne, the favorite, should win the North State event at Lexington, East Carolina would receive an invitation to play in the NAIA district playoffs since the Pirates have the third best record (14-5) against Member opposition.

The final playoff game, bringing together the winners of the games at Belmont Abbey and Lenoir Rhyne, will be played at Boyden High School in Salisbury, on Wednesday night, March 5, Stasavich pointed out.

Porter Quite Pleased

Coach Howard Porter, whose Pirates leave tonight for Lexington, said this morning that he was quite pleased with the drawings at Greensboro Sunday for the North State tournament. "We got the best drawing we could have had," he said.

In Porter's bracket are High Point, Atlantic Christian, and Appalachian, teams which the Bucs have defeated twice. "Of course, they say it's hard to beat any team three times in a row," Porter cautioned.

Porter disclosed that Harold Ingram, senior captain of the ECC team will not make the trip. "He completed his work for graduation this past quarter and that renders him ineligible," Porter said. "That's going to make it tougher for us."

Adams, Mendenhall

"We'll have to go along with Charlie Adams and Guy Mendenhall," Porter said. "It will depend on how big our opponents are as to which one of the two will play, I suppose. If they're pretty tall, we'll have to stick with Mendenhall for his height and rebounding."

Ingram, who has been the team's backbone throughout the season, averaged around 13 points per game and was one of the most rugged performers in the league. His loss will be felt strongly by the Bucs.

Lenoir Rhyne — But . . .

Asked which team he thought would be strongest in the tournament, Porter commented, "You've got to go along with Lenoir Rhyne. They've got the record (the Bears have lost one conference game in two years), but, looking at some of the recent scores makes you wonder."

"I see where Western Carolina was hot last night. They scored 100 points, and Catwaba beat Pfeiffer. It could turn out that these teams will be like they were last year: they didn't reach their peak until tourney time and they knocked some of the favored teams right out of the action."

In his own bracket, Porter said, "I think Atlantic Christian is the toughest team right now. They have worked those freshmen into the lineup well and they look pretty good, have plenty of height."

ECC (8-8) plays Appalachian (6-9) tomorrow night in the opening round of play at the Lexington YMCA, to get the North State Tourney underway.

The season's biggest upset in the Big Eight Conference accounted for the only major change in the Associated Press college basketball rankings today as Kansas State stayed on top with West Virginia second.

Kansas, knocked off by unranked Nebraska 43-41 Saturday, dropped from fourth to seventh in balloting by sports writers and broadcasters.

Oklahoma State and North Carolina State tumbled into the second 10, while North Carolina and Dayton moved into the top 10, but neither change was in the same surprise class with Kansas' drop.

Kansas State (18-1) drew 29 first place votes among 93 ballots cast. On the usual basis of 10 points for each first-place vote, 9 for second, etc., the Wildcats received 727 points.

West Virginia received 23 votes for first and 707 points. Cincinnati, dropping from second to third, drew 15 first and 688 points.

San Francisco, Temple, Duke, Kansas, Notre Dame, North Carolina and Dayton followed in that order.

The standings with first-place votes in parentheses:

Yardley Nearing Scoring Record

NEW YORK (AP)—George Yardley of Detroit, with a 125-point lead in the National Basketball Assn. scoring race, is within reach of George Mikan's NBA season's scoring record.

Yardley, who has 1764 points in 65 games for a 27.1 average, needs only average a few tenths above 24 points for the remaining seven games of his schedule to break Mikan's record of 1932. Mikan set the record in 1951 when he averaged 28.4 points a game over a shorter schedule.

The one NBA game last night had no effect on the various scoring statistics released today.

It is the Philadelphia Warriors defeated the Minneapolis Lakers, 110-95, in the first NBA game ever played in Bethlehem, Pa.

Yardley also is in a position to join teammate Dick McGuire in giving Detroit two offensive leaders. McGuire leads in assists with 411.

The other leaders include Bill Russell of Boston with 1377 rebounds for an average of 22.6; Ray Felix, New York, floor shooting with a 457 percentage and Dolph Schayes of Syracuse free throw shooting with a 904 percentage.

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Versatility will be the word to describe the Los Angeles Dodgers infield this year.

Maybe a little of the New York Yankee technique has rubbed off on the club. Whatever the reason, Manager Walter Alton is going to have players who can perform at practically any infield spot.

Even strong man Gil Hodges in a pinch could leave first base and go behind the plate.

"Don Zimmer can play second, third or shortstop," Alton said. "So can Charlie Neal."

"I can't tell you now who will be the second baseman. It might be Neal, or Zimmer, or Junior Gilliam. And the same situation exists at shortstop."

"We're very fortunate in having men on hand who can play different positions. If somebody gets hurt it won't hurt the ball club defensively."

"Right now it looks as if, other things being equal, it will be the man who is hitting who is in the lineup. Then, too, we can shift the lineup to meet the pitching we happen to be facing."

He left no doubt that every infield position except first base was open for bidding.

Porky Oliver Among Winter Winners Today

By MAX B. SKELTON HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Ed (Porky) Oliver found himself among the winter tour's top money winners today after scoring a sizzling final-round 67 on a muddy course in the $30,000 Houston Classic Golf Tournament.

Five strokes off the pace after 54 holes, the 43-year-old Oliver zoomed past the leaders with excellent approach shots and fine putting and collected top money of $4,300 with a 68-73-73-67-281.

It was one of the richest titles ever won by the Canton, Mass., veteran of over 20 years on the tournament trails. Many times a runner-up, the 224-pound Oliver was so nervous and fidgety after sinking a six-foot birdie putt on the final green he would not watch the final threesome.

Jay Hebert missed a seven-foot putt that would have forced play-off. Two earlier bogies had wrecked Jimmy Demaret's hopes for a hometown victory.

Hebert and Roberto de Vicenzo each drew $2,500 as runners-up at 282-28, six under par for the 7,200-yard, par-72 Memorial Park course.

Demaret, the 54-hole leader by two strokes, jumped to a 74 by going over par on three of the last five holes. This dropped him to a fourth-place tie at 283 with Dave Ragan, Orlando, Fla., and Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill. Each drew $1,533.33.

Oliver's $4,300 moved him into eighth place among the 1958 money winners.

As the winter tour moved on to Louisiana for the Baton Rouge Open, Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, continued as the top money winner at $8,849.28. Stranahan picked up $12,000 here in a tie with Johnny Pott, Shreveport, La., and Milon Marusic, Webster Groves, Mo., at 285.

Where There's Smoke, There's A Bear

ROCKY FORD, Colo. (AP) — Four-year-old Cecilia Zavala thought a teddy bear should be able to smoke a cigarette. She found one of her father's cigarettes, lit the cigarette and stuffed it in the bear's mouth, then put the toy bear in the closet.

The Rocky Ford Fire Department reported the only damage at the Zavala home was that the teddy bear was destroyed in the blaze.

Teams Making A Comeback, Seek NCAA Positions

By ED WILKS The Associated Press

Purdue, a long-ago power in the Big Ten, and Rice and Arkansas tied for third half a game back.

Kansas (16-5), upset 43-41 by Nebraska Saturday, was the only top 10 team active last night and suffered the worst of its seven setbacks since Chamberlain showed up last season. The Cyclones tossed up a zone defense and used three men on the seven-foot All America, who scored 26 points.

Auburn got a chance for a share of the Southeastern title with Kentucky by holding off the 12th-ranked Wildcats 64-63. But Kentucky has the NCAA berth bagged since Auburn is on probation, State, No. 1 again in today's AP poll.

Purdue's Boilemakers, tied with Wisconsin for the high in Big Ten titles (13) but dormant since 1940, barged into a tie for first place with Michigan State by clipping the Spartans 72-70. Willie Merrilweather sank the clinching basket with eight seconds left.

Rice dumped Arkansas out of a three-way tie for the Southwest lead with a 61-59 victory. That left idle Texas Tech and Southern Methodist at the top and Rice and Arkansas tied for third half a game back.

Farley Loses 2 Centers; Noble Has Measles

Pairings for the Northeastern Conference tourney, being staged at the ECC Gym Thursday-through-Saturday of this week were released today.

Thursday night, Kinston will battle Elizabeth City at 8:30 in the opening contest. Greenville will tangle with Roanoke Rapids at 8:00. Washington will play Jacksonville at 9:30.

New Bern, the regular-season winner, received a bye. Kinston and Washington, tied for third place in the loop during regular season with 7-5 records, flipped for position in the tourney and Washington won the right to third ranking while Kinston dropped to fourth.

Friday night, the winner of the Greenville-Roanoke Rapids tilt will battle the winner of the Kinston-Elizabeth City contest at 7:30. Winner of the Washington-Jacksonville bout will meet New Bern at 9:00.

On Saturday, the consolation tilt will be played at 7:30 and the championship will be decided at 9:00.

Farley's Problems
Greenville's Coach Boley Farley today announced that his Phantoms are having problems. Steve Noble, starting center and a rebounding backbone of the club, has come down with a mean case of measles. Albert Crawford, reserve center, dropped off the team for reasons of his own.

Thus, Farley is completely without a center. "Maybe Steve will be back in time to play some for us," Farley said this morning. "But we don't know whether he'll be able to play enough to help us."

Asked what he plans to do to fill the gap, Farley said, "We'll have to shift. That's all we can do. I don't know who we'll play at center—maybe Dick Evans or Mack Roebuck."

Greenville finished second in the loop with an 8-4 record, behind the Bears who were 11-1.

Other Phantoms who are expected to start for Greenville Thursday are Walker Allen and John Wesley Hudson at guards, Evans and Peanut Nunn at forwards — unless Evans is shifted to center. If that is done, Mack Roebuck will probably handle a forward position.

35 Teams In Bowling Tourney

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Thirty-five teams are expected to take part in the first North Carolina women's tenpin bowling tournament here April 26-27.

Plans for the tournament were made Sunday in Raleigh at a meeting of the North Carolina Women's Tenpin Bowling Assn. Mrs. C. K. Smith of Winston-Salem, tournament director, said she expects teams from Winston-Salem, Charlotte, Raleigh, Ft. Bragg, Morehead City, Havelock, Jacksonville and the Asheville Assn., made up of several cities in western North Carolina.

Archer Wins In Seventh Round

NEW YORK (AP)—Most of the spectators got a bargain bill at St. Nicholas arena last night.

First ex-Lonshoreman Jimmy Archer of the Bronx stopped Danny Russo of Brooklyn on eye cuts in 2:51 of the seventh round of a bloody slugfest.

Then several groups of the Archer and Russo faithful mixed it up in a series of fist fights that kept the special cops busy for about 15 minutes.

"It all started when one guy yelled 'Russo is a bum,'" said a special cop. "Then you, you went at it all over the joint."

There were no arrests, according to the specials and promoter Teddy Brenner.

In the sixth Russo was nicked over the right eye and gashed deeply over the left eye. Dr. Alexander Schiff told referee Petye Scalzo to stop it if Danny bled badly in the seventh. Russo did after he engaged Archer in a spirited exchange and Scalzo intervened. Danny was cut badly over both eyes when Scalzo acted.

A crowd of 1,533 highly vocal fans paid $3.82 for the telecast bout which had been scheduled for 10 rounds. Archer weighed 149½, Russo 151.

Publisher Sounds Call To 'Believe In America'

PATERSON, N. J. (AP)—Harry B. Haines, publisher of the Paterson Evening News, today urged the governors of the 48 states and congressional leaders to back a "Believe in America" campaign against economic recession. In telegrams to the governors, Haines urged them to proclaim a "Believe in America Week." He said this would translate "into tangible action the inherent, abiding faith of our founding fathers and our people since the United States came into being—that this is the greatest country on earth." The week of March 23-29 was suggested. Letters were also sent to Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), Senate majority leader, and Sen. Clifford Case and H. Alexander Smith, both Republicans, of New Jersey. The newspaper's plan was detailed in a front page article bannered with an eight-column headline.

Sen. Byrd May Yield To 'Draft' For A Fifth Term

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Byrd, (D-Va) apparently is teetering on the verge of yielding to a draft movement to seek a fifth six-year term in the Senate. Byrd, who announced Feb. 12 he planned to retire from public life next January, said only that he is having difficulty framing an answer to a resolution of the Virginia General Assembly asking him to run again. From friends it was learned, however, that the 70-year-old Senator is leaning toward a decision to run again. They described him as greatly impressed with the action of the State Legislature and will more than 2,000 letters urging him not to quit the Senate. Many of these letters have been read by Mrs. Byrd, an invalid

GIRL VANISHES WITH WEDDING NEAR—Five hours before the time set for her big church wedding in Brooklyn, N. Y., Irene Arzodi (left), 29, disappeared mysteriously. At right, the bridegroom-to-be, Joseph Pinto, 31, is comforted by his little niece, Vittina Pinto, who is dressed in her finery for the wedding that didn't take place. The bride-to-be was last seen in a neighborhood drug store. (AP Wirephoto)

Humphrey Proposes Space Regulations

RALEIGH (AP)—Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) proposed here last night that the United States sponsor in the United Nations a study of the question of regulating space travel and communications under an international legal order. This was one of four proposals Humphrey outlined for dealing with the space age. He spoke at the Raleigh Institute of Religion. "We now have an opportunity," he said, "to forestall the threat of long-range missiles by cutting off their development before they become fully grown and proliferate to such an extent that chances of control will be practically nullified." He proposed that all missiles and outer space vehicles should be placed under international surveillance to insure that no tests of rockets or other outer space devices are conducted for military purposes. The United Nations, he said, would be the proper place to lodge responsibility for this task. He called for the United States to take the lead in marshaling the talents and resources of the world to unlock the mysteries of outer space in joint research and exploration under auspices of the United Nations. In his fourth proposal, the Minnesota senator said a United Nations' Outer Space Agency could contribute to disarmament in a direct and positive way through sponsoring a priority program for a reconnaissance satellite. Humphrey, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said, "under the supervision, guidance and control, such a satellite could cross national borders and iron curtains and expose to the wholesome gaze of the world military preparation of all nations." He told the audience "It is essential that we search perseveringly for ways and means of securing a just and enduring peace. We must not let our fixation on security through more and bigger armaments lead to a stage where arms alone would control our policy, for this would invite our ultimate destruction," he added. Humphrey said the United States "must keep trying to negotiate" with Russia "as long as there is a faint hope for success."

Delinquency At An All Time Peak

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California officials said today juvenile delinquency has hit an all-time peak in the state and is continuing upward. They blame the unemployment situation. Herman G. Stark, director of the California Youth Authority, termed the increase in juvenile crimes unprecedented. "We handle an average of 350 cases per month," he said. "In January we had 418 and there's no doubt February will go over 400." "Our juvenile halls are overcrowded and the jails are filled to capacity." The courts may make juvenile offenders wards of the C.Y.A., which is then responsible for detention and rehabilitation. At the end of January the population in C.Y.A. facilities was 3,878. Noting that the majority of offenses are committed by youths 16 and older, Stark said in an interview: "These are the ones just out of high school and entering the labor market. When unemployment strikes, they are the first to suffer." With nothing to keep them busy, they find themselves with time and don't know what to do with it, he added. "It progresses from mischief to crime to violence. And crimes of violence are accounting for the majority of the present increase in juvenile offenses." The C.Y.A. chief blamed television for some of the violence. "That's where they learn how it is done," he said.

Burglary Terms For 2 Refugees

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP)—Two young men who fled Hungary in 1956 during an anti-Soviet revolt were sentenced yesterday to five years in Elmira Reformatory as burglars. "Ignoring the kindness of this government and the people of the United States," Dutchess County Judge John R. Schwarz said, "you passed up the opportunities given to you to come, quite frankly, thieves and burglars." Sandor Feiger, 18, a former student at Bard College, Annandale, N.Y., and Tibor Kepes, 23, an electrician, both had entered pleas of guilty in connection with two burglaries of a Hyde Park, N.Y., residence last year.

No Addiction To Tranquilizer Pill

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Tests on 60 unstable inmates at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary, McAlester, showed they did not become addicted to tranquilizer pills over a 12-week period. Dr. Austin R. Stough, prison physician, writing in the Journal of the American Medical Assn., said he found a small percentage of the men experienced an "undesirable reaction" when the drug—meprobamate—was withdrawn abruptly. All the inmates tested had a history of injury, illness or other abnormality. Some were formerly addicted to narcotics or alcohol, Stough wrote. He said all patients returned to their former mental and physical status within 48 hours.

FROM HUNGER NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Officials at the University of Oklahoma figure they'll have to serve 99,000 eggs and 400,000 strips of bacon to students during the school year.

It's A Boy For Eddie, Debbie

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Eddie Fisher is passing out cigars with wrappers proclaiming "It's a boy." The singer's wife, actress Debbie Reynolds, gave birth yesterday to an 8 pound, 7 1/2 ounce baby at St. Joseph Hospital. They haven't decided on a name. The Fishers have a daughter, Carrie Frances, born Oct. 24, 1956.

Miami Manhunt

A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

I decided to bluff it out with Lieutenant Wade as long as I could. "All right," I told him. "Maybe I did poke my head in Maria's cabana. I didn't like the idea of being stood up, so maybe I had a look to make sure the girl wasn't there. Waiting for me, or with somebody else. It was a dark night. Some of those cabanas had drapes over the glass doors. I couldn't tell. I guess maybe I had a look and forgot about it."

"Maybe you forgot a lot of things, Dolan," said the lieutenant. "Like the fact that you and the doll were working together on some sort of crooked deal — and I think I know what that was, too — and last night you had some sort of a disagreement. Or maybe the deal was about to pay off and you figured you didn't need her as a partner any more. Without her there'd be no necessity of splitting the take down the middle. And so you took her over. Either knocked her unconscious or killed her." The detective paused, his eyes boring into me. Then went on: "A half block south of the Stratford Arms you can drive your car right down to the beach. It was a dark night. You carried her to your car because you'd probably stolen. If anybody had seen you you'd have explained to them that the girl was drunk. You drove her somewhere — out in the country, to water. If she was still alive then you took care of that. You dumped her body, got rid of the car and went back to your hotel. Didn't you forget to tell us these things too, Dolan?"

"I was too sick to laugh. I did all this in a little more than thirty minutes? It was a little short of two-thirty when I left the bar in the supper club. The barkeep told you that. I went to my room about three."

"But nobody saw you, Dolan! And if they had, there'd be no proof that you stayed there."

"You mind if I say something?" I asked.

He was silent.

"You know what I think, Lieutenant? I think you've been seeing too many crime melodramas on TV."

"Give me three minutes with the punk, Ed," the other policeman said.

"Relax, Bill," Wade said. He spoke to me again. "We've been doing a little checking on you, Dolan. We discovered some interesting things. You have a real solid background. Yes, real solid. A few years ago you were mixed up in some sort of numbers racket up in Carter County, north of here. A little later you were mixed up in a couple of murders on a place called Goat Island. Recently you were in a jam with the law in Dolphin County, on the west coast. Seems a prominent circuit judge disappeared there and you knew more about that than you'd admit. You practically admitted that you were involved in a revolution, or a revolutionary uprising recently in the Republic of Guajira. We haven't been able to check that one but I think we can safely assume that you were hired down there as some sort of a gun. Am I right, Dolan, as far as I've gone about your sterling character?"

"I was mixed up in these things, yes. But I came clean on all of them." I said without much conviction. "If you did any checking you know that."

"Yeah," he said. "On paper you're what might be called clean. But solid, honest citizens don't bat around getting themselves in jams with the law to that extent. Dolan. Only punks will do practically anything to turn an easy buck. Anything except go to work for wages. Maybe they start out small, just slightly illegal, say that works for them, so they start thinking about something bigger, something easier. Before they know it they're in so deep they'll never get out. And the chances are they'll end up murdering somebody."

"I'm a little old for this juvenile delinquent pitch, Lieutenant," I said.

He sighed. Then he stood. "All right, Dolan," he said. "We've got nothing on you right now. Nothing we can make stick in court. But I've got a pretty strong feeling we will have. And soon. Think about it Dolan. Go to bed, think about it and wake up thinking about it. We're working on this thing. Around the clock. And we're not stupid."

"That, Lieutenant, is a matter of conjecture," I said.

I had to give him one thing: the guy was tolerant. He didn't blow his top. He walked across the room to the door. His glowering buddy followed him. The lieutenant turned.

"And don't be dumb enough to leave town, Dolan. If you do we'll find you and drag you back here by the scruff of your neck!"

And on that happy note, the two of them left me alone in my hotel room.

It takes a lot out of a man to stand still for a rough talking to like that. It took a lot out of me. I'd stood still for a number of rough talks in recent years, and I was getting a little tired of it all. Maybe the guy had been right when he'd said only punks bat around trying to turn an easy buck. Maybe I'd become a punk without knowing it. Maybe it was one of those things that sneaked up on you gradually, like falling eyesight.

I stripped down for a shower, stood under steaming water the pursued the thought. God knows my revolt against a 9-to-5 routine — with two weeks off in the summer time — had been an innocent enough thing. I'd simply weighed the pros and cons and had decided that life was too short to spend it slaving for some other guy. I'd made the decision. Like so many other normal citizens, that getting ahead was for the birds. And other things were more important.

I wouldn't try and deny the fact, though, that my decision was brought on by a certain amount of bitterness. I wouldn't try and justify this bitterness. But justified or not, it was real, and it hurt. The bitterness started with he

PICTURE TALK

By CHARLES BISSETTE

Few Hardship Cases in Bethel

BETHEL—This community took stock last week and found itself "in fairly good shape" as far as economic hardships among its citizens are concerned.

Mayor Clifton Everette said a police officer made a check during the cold weather to determine how many persons were suffering for cold weather and poor economic conditions.

"We're in fairly good shape," the mayor said.

Chief of Police Walter Gray collected a fund among local businesses and individuals to assist families that were found to be in need.

In addition churches assisted various local families.

Everette said potato grading locally probably helped economic conditions.

Of Man and Movies

Somewhat, there seem to be more misconceptions about movies than about anything else in the field of photography. Almost every day, someone tells us how surprised he is to learn how easy home movies are to make—and how inexpensive they are.

These are the kinds of questions asked most frequently:

Q. Aren't movies awfully expensive?

A. No indeed! Full-color movies cost as little as 10 cents a scene including processing.

Q. Aren't movie cameras expensive?

A. Believe it or not, you can get a Brownie Movie Camera for as little as $29.95. (Questioner is amazed!)

Q. Aren't movie cameras complicated?

A. Making movies is actually easier—some say—than making ordinary snapshots.

Why not drop in and let us show you how easy movie cameras are to operate and to own? We'll be glad to answer your questions at the same time.

Urges Help For Slow Learners

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Slow learners are the forgotten fifth of America's students and deserve a better break, a Minnesota educator said today.

All too often, said R. A. Tieg of Robbinsdale, Minn., the slow learners are merely tolerated and permitted to fail. They drop out of school after becoming convinced through repeated failure that they are of little consequence.

And yet, Tieg told the convention of the American Assn. of School Administrators, these are young people who will "do their share of the work of the world. They will cast their votes, they will participate in the activities of labor unions and farm organizations. They will make homes."

Tieg said about 15 of every 100 school-age children are slow learners, with IQs of about 75 to 80. This does not include the two children in every 100 so mentally retarded that special education is required for them.

Many of the slow learners reveal unexpected aptitudes when given the proper opportunities, Tieg said.

"Americans cannot afford waste in education," he said.

The slow learners must be identified as early as possible, he said, and special classes must be set up to give them the education they need.

DOUBLE LIFE

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—A study reported by the Rev. Dr. Richard E. Lentz, a Disciples of Christ family-life specialist, shows that a third of all men and women who marry have been married previously, and 98 per cent of them have former spouses living.

Variety Show To Be On March 21

AYDEN—The Jaycee-PTA sponsored Variety Show will be held Friday night, March 21, instead of February 21, as announced in the Daily Reflector last week.

According to Dr. Clifton Davenport and Director Boyd Elliott, plans for the show are nearly completed.

Students from Marie's School of Music in Greenville are scheduled to present a number of dance routines. Elliott states that the Jaycees will perform in a chorus line and the Jaycees are to participate in a beauty contest.

Music will be furnished by the Ayden High School band.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

CHICOD—A Founder's Day program will highlight the Thursday night meeting of the Chicod Parent-Teachers Association.

ARMY'S MISSILE SCHOOL

Redstone missile is launched into position by new, highly mobile launcher. The launcher can be mounted on wheels and towed wherever a truck can go.

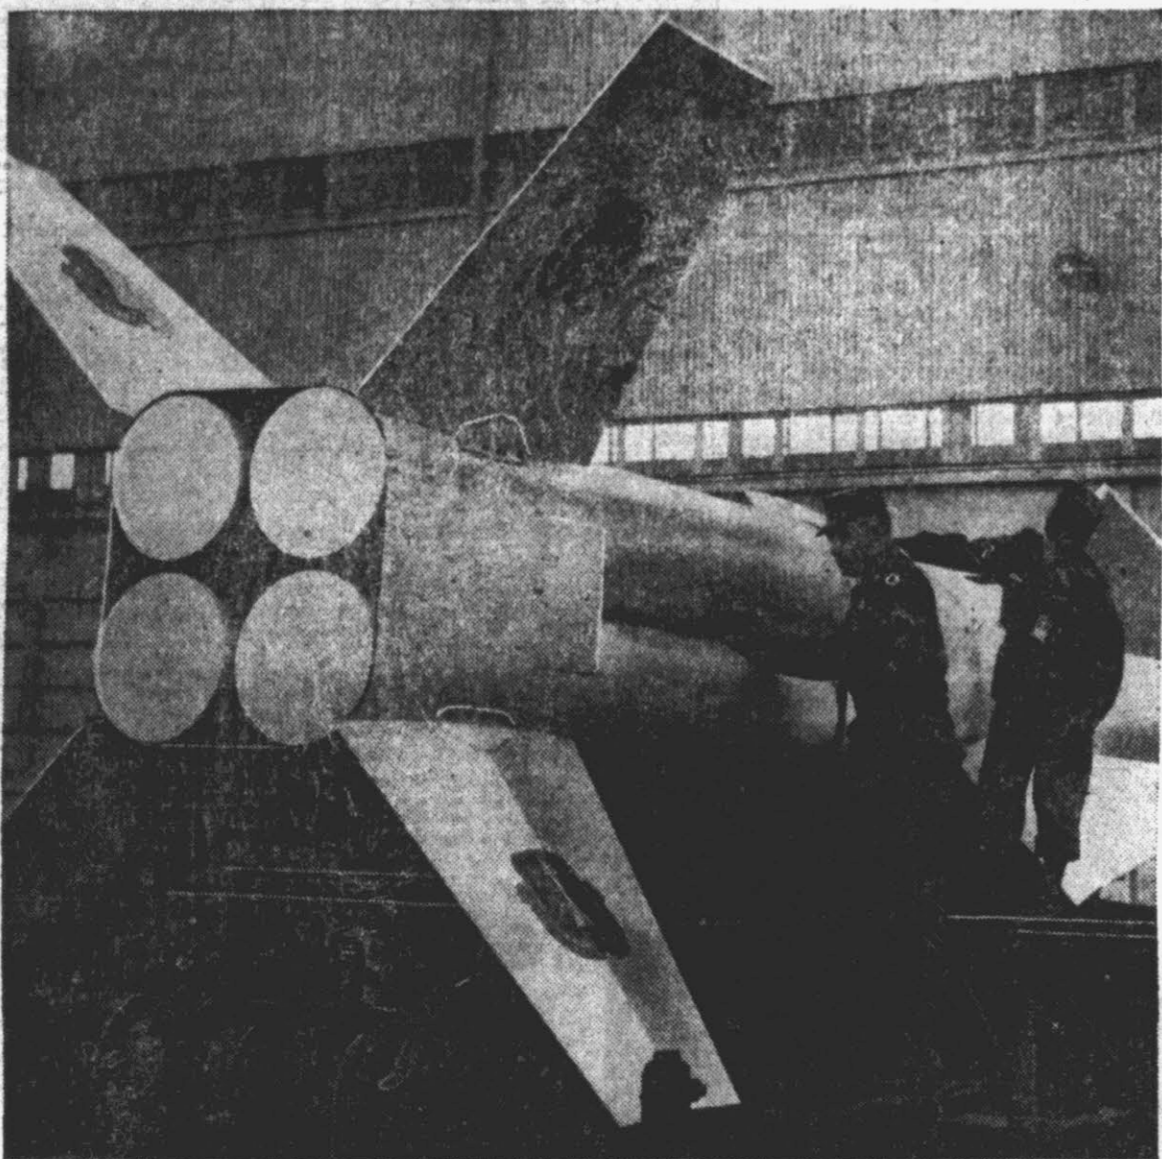

About 700 young, serious American GIs, as well as some soldiers from NATO countries, are learning what makes missiles tick at a most unimpressive school near Huntsville, Ala. They're students at the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School at Redstone Arsenal.

The 87-building Redstone campus is fenced and guarded. The textbooks are classified. Occasionally, if they think about it, the enlisted students say "Sir" to an officer. Tuition is free. Surrounded by 70 million dollars worth of equipment, the men are learning how to maintain and repair incredibly complicated missiles and their attendant electronics gear.

The 21 courses offered here range from 1 to 42 weeks. The short course primarily is for people like comptrollers and accountants so they will know what the missile men are talking about. In the electronics field — you need such devices as radar and radio to track and guide — things are really tough. Before a man is sent here he is given 11 weeks of basic electronics at Ft. Monmouth, N.J. Here he gets another 20 weeks.

For the men who are going to be supervisors of weapons systems, there is a 42-week course — 1,596 hours of instruction in electronics and on such things as gyroscopes, warheads, fuels and engines.

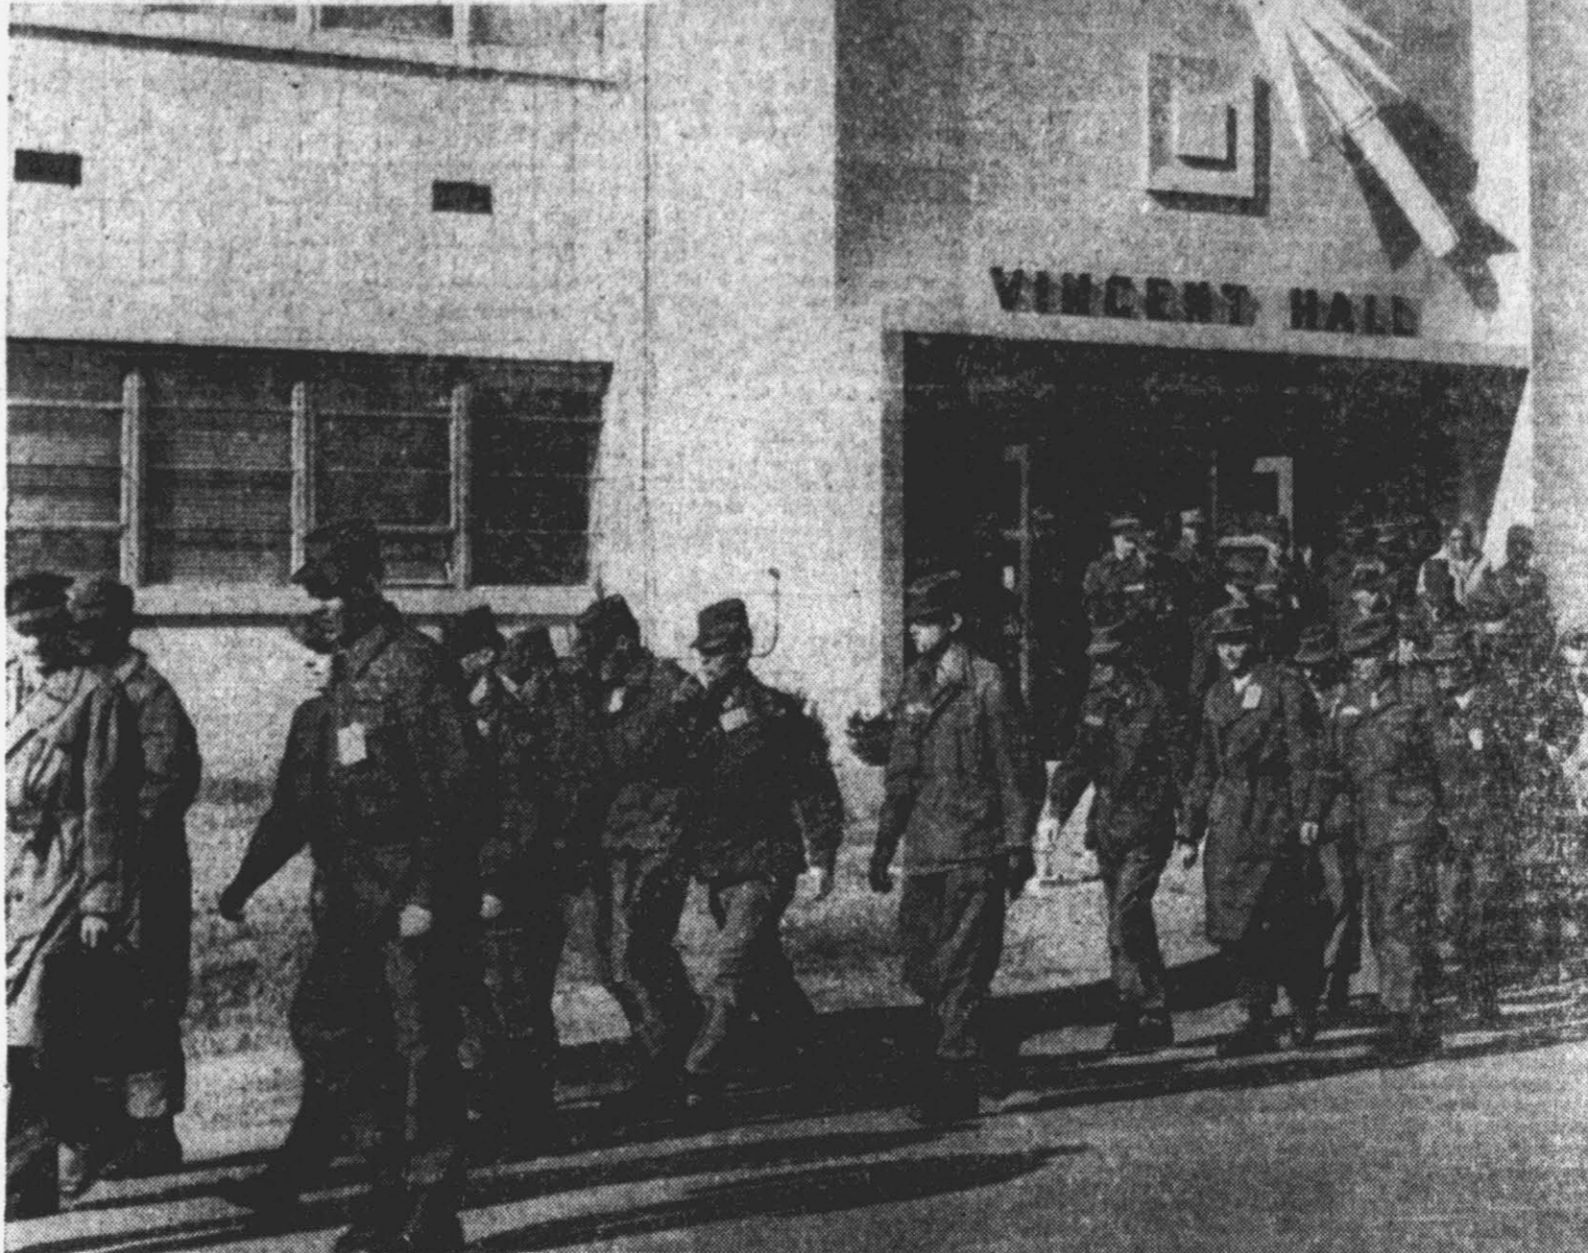

The missiles business is growing rapidly. So is the school. In 1956 the school turned out 1,819 students, expects to turn out 4,559 this year.

Studying a Nike-Hercules missile at the Redstone school are Cpls. Floyd R. Smith of North English, Ia., and, on rail, Glenn Weist of Terrace Park, Ohio.

Radar equipment for use by students crowds campus at the missile school. The bulky round mechanisms are used for tracking missiles in flight.

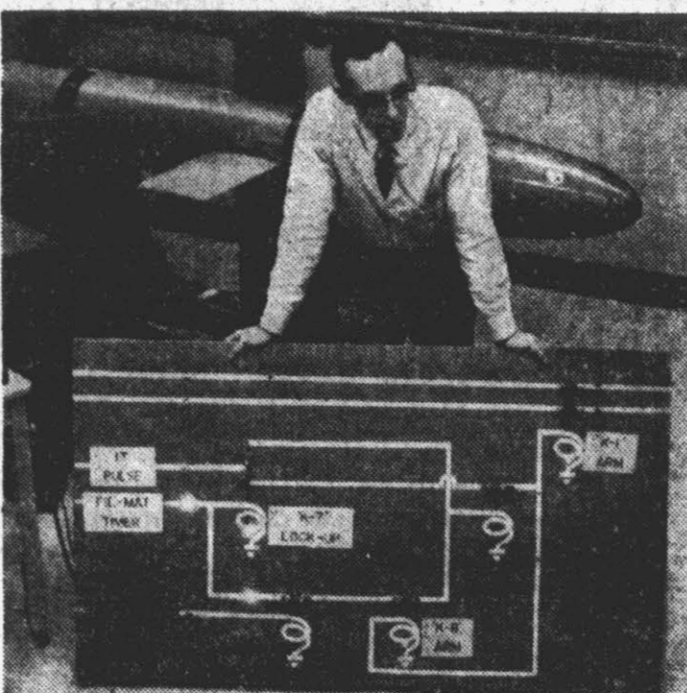

SCHOOL'S OUT. Students at the army ordnance guided missile school at Redstone Arsenal, Ala., emerge from Vincent Hall on the OGMS campus. Sign "SAM Division" means Surface to Air Missile Division.

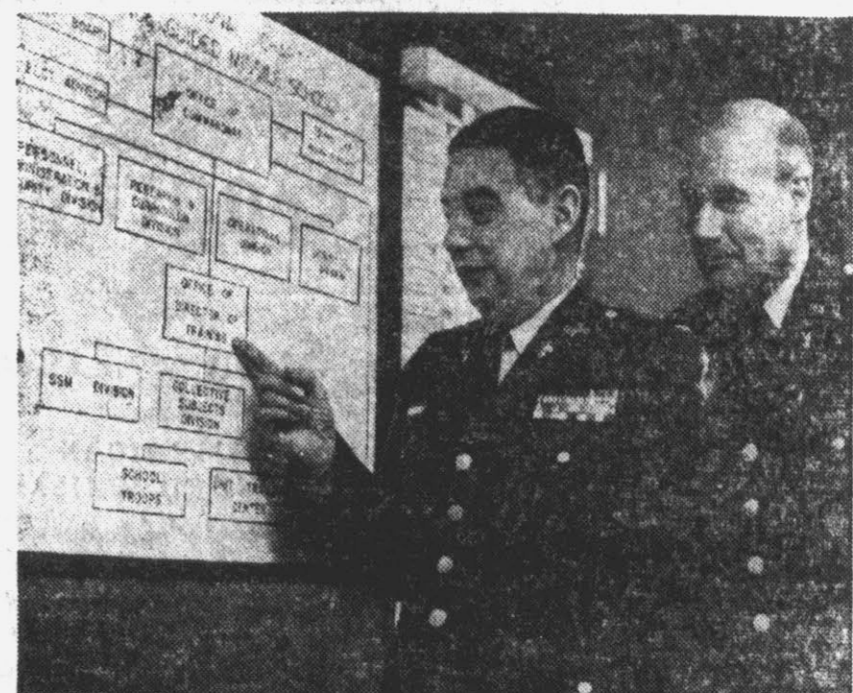

Sgt. Richard McKee, an instructor, works controls of an Army missile command system at the Redstone school.

Instructor Lt. William Lehman, Jr., devised this training aid, an electrical system in missile. Lights turn on as he lectures.

Free Enterprise In U.S. Remains Under Wraps

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—Free enterprise has been an American myth since the first Congress in 1789 passed the first tariff act to protect businessmen and farmers from the competition of foreign goods.

Deal effort to overcome the depression by getting world trade moving. The act lets the President reduce the tariff on certain imports from other countries if they agree to do the same on certain imports from us. Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower all made it part of foreign policy.

This year Eisenhower asked Congress to extend the act—which otherwise expires June 30—another five years. He'll be lucky if he gets it extended for two. He has run into tough opposition. For one thing, the present business recession is an added talking point for those who say they're being hurt by the incoming competition. And there's strong resistance in Congress.

A vital question is: How strongly will Eisenhower fight for it? Already there are signs of weakening. Secretary of Commerce Weeks, while making a vigorous pitch for the act, nevertheless said the administration is "certainly" willing to talk about changes or amendments. One committee member, Rep. McCarthy (D-Minn.), said this was like an act of surrender before the fighting started. The key point in the fight will revolve around the powers of the U.S. Tariff Commission. Under present law if an American business feels it is being hurt by a certain foreign import, it can appeal to the commission to raise the tariff on that item. The commission can't do the raising by itself. It can only recommend that the President do so. He's free to suit himself, after deciding the effect of this one action on American foreign policy and foreign trade in general. Reciprocal trade laws want this kind of change made: Take the President's discretionary power away and let a Tariff Commission approve of a tariff boost before final unless Congress intervenes. But Congress almost certainly would do nothing. So, while the President wanted tariffs lowered, the commission would raise them. In effect, this would shift control from the White House to Congress.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market remained in the doldrums early this afternoon. Prices were slightly lower and trading was slack. The market was in its fifth straight day of a slow decline. Most losses of key stocks were fractional. Some went 1 or 2 points. Quite a few leading issues were unchanged.

Business news remained drab overall but there were two items which ordinarily would provide some bullish stimulation but which were ignored. One was another record high in the cost of living which meant an automatic pay boost to some 1,350,000 workers whose wages are geared to the living cost index. The other was a drop in the U.S. Treasury's short-term borrowing costs to the lowest in three years, another sign of the easier money trend.

Some fairly sharp losses appeared among rubbers, chemicals and aircrafts. Nonferrous metals, oil and radio-televisions also were on the downside. The drift among steels, motors and rails was only slightly lower. Building materials and oils were mixed. Goodrich dropped more than 2 points. Losses of around a point were taken by Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, Aluminum Ltd., Union Carbide and Westinghouse Electric.

As the gold mining stocks found favor, Homestake resumed its rise yesterday, adding more than a point. Fractional gains were made by Dome Mines and South American Gold & Platinum. Lorillard continued as a favorite and resumed its rise with a gain of around a point. International Paper, Texas Co., Youngtown Sheet, Paramount and Hiram Walker were up fractionally. Chrysler, after nudging to the upside, traded about unchanged. General Motors was unchanged at 24 1/4 on blocks of 2,000 and 3,500 shares. Slight losses were sustained by Bethlehem, Caterpillar, U.S. Rubber, Boeing, Radio Corp., Kennecott and Du Pont. Commercial Solvents was a fraction off as it cut its dividend. A reduced dividend by Peoria & Eastern Railway brought a 2-point loss to the stock. The market was indifferent to a dividend omission by Erie Railroad.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 40 cents to $158.20 with the industrials down 70 cents, the rails down 40 cents and the utilities unchanged.

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Charlotte radio station WWOX has given the heave-ho to rock 'n' roll music. General Manager Jack Wheeler announced publicly that "we feel the great majority of people are sick and tired" of that sort of music.

"And if all stations are to sound alike, with no individuality, I for one wouldn't want to stay in radio," Wheeler added. "Stations could simply get an automatic player and fire all the disc jockeys."

"We feel it's better for us to go after the older audience... People are older & longer than they are younger."

Wheeler asserted that "We've already had a lot of compliments on what we've done (since scratching rock 'n' roll from its programs yesterday morning. We simply felt there must be enough people who appreciate good popular music to justify our making this move."

Blackwell Cites College Role In Educating Girls

GREENSBORO (AP)—The new chancellor of Woman's College here says "Women have a unique role in the furtherance of our civilization and the transmission of our cultural heritage."

Speaking during his installation here yesterday, Dr. Gordon W. Blackwell said education today appears as vital as it did 60 years ago to Charles Duncan McIVER, called the father of Woman's College.

Speaking to an audience that included Gov. Luther Hodges, State Chief Justice J. Wallace Winborne and Consolidated University of North Carolina President William Clyde Friday, Blackwell said:

"Why do they (girls) who want to marry) need to go to college? The college graduate who has experienced a truly liberal education will more likely have the maturity, the serenity, the breadth of interests, the fundamental sense of values which are required in the effective handling of the trying responsibilities of motherhood and homemaking.

"Our graduates must be ready and willing to assume leadership since women are taking major responsibilities in America's complex network of voluntary organizations.

"The educational needs of women relate to her potential roles as homemaker, mother, citizen, worker and an attractively intelligent person.

"The liberal arts and sciences have always been the center core of Woman's College. We must continue to place stress on the humanistic and artistic values of the creative mind and spirit in an age of technology and mass society.

"It is these values, fully as much as our economic system, which distinguish us from Soviet Russia."

"We agree with Dr. McIVER in his words: 'The proper training of women is the strategic point in all culture.'"

Club's Food Project At School Gains Support

The Matrons' Social Club at a meeting last week with the Bachelor-Benedict Club's Aid Committee at the home of Mrs. Julia Calhoun made plans for continuing a food project for undernourished children at Fleming Street School.

Mrs. Gertrude Latham, president, who presided, said the Matrons' Club started the project with milk and soup. She thanked the club members for their cooperation with her in their ninth year as president.

Miss S. I. Sautler, principal, a guest at the meeting, thanked the group and said attendance and classroom interest had increased.

Mrs. Latham also extended thanks to Cosmologist clubs Nos. 24 and 25, Monday Night Bridge Club, Socialistic Club and Mrs. Jimmie Perkins, Miss Ester G. Barnhill and the Bachelor-Benedict Club for donations of food and money.

Mrs. Latham explained that as a result of these additional contributions her club increased the number of under-nourished school children served to 55.

There is no luncheon at Fleming Street School. The food is prepared in the homes of Mrs. Mary Payton, Mrs. Rosa Darden and Mrs. Latham. It is carried to the school and served in sanitary containers by members of the Matrons' Social Club. The club buys milk from the school.

The Matrons' Social Club will meet Wednesday night at 8 o'clock with Mrs. Violenia Bradley, 1302 South Green Street. New members are Mrs. N. W. Cherry, Mrs. Julia Calhoun, Mrs. Violenia Bradley and Mrs. Lillian Jones. The various committees are expected to report at this meeting.

Five Boys Admit Slashing, Rape

CHICAGO (AP)—Five teen-age Negro boys have admitted, police said, slashing and raping an 11-year-old white girl on an impulse to "go out and get a girl" in a racially mixed South Side neighborhood.

The five were seized yesterday after an intensive search by police since Feb. 4, when Carol Foss, a Girl Scout, was attacked near her home.

Police said the five admitted orally that they seized the girl, clad in a scout uniform, and dragged her down a stairwell, where they beat and assaulted her. Previously police said it had not been determined whether the girl had been raped.

The Foss girl identified the five in a police lineup as her assailants, and in so doing cleared three other Negro youths she previously implicated.

The five, held for further questioning, were identified as Ronald Valentine, 18, James Clay, 18, Bennie Walker, 13, Ronald Clark, 13, and Cleo Parker, 13. Police said Clay was named by his companions as the one who had suggested they "go out and get a girl."

A gang of boys dragged Carol down a basement stairwell, ripped off her scout uniform, beat her with their fists and gouged her, apparently with a broken bottle. She was hospitalized for several days.

Will Give Chicks Friday To Start Poultry Chain

Twelve 4-H boys and girls will each receive 100 chicks from the Sear's Poultry Chain Friday afternoon.

Assistant County Agent Cecil Register said the baby chicks will be presented to the 4-H'ers at the county agent's office about 4 p.m.

The club members will raise their chicks during the spring and summer. Next fall a Poultry Show and Sale will be held and each club member will return 12 of the birds to be sold at the auction.

Proceeds will be used next year to furnish chicks to other 4-H'ers.

Three Cubs Win Highest Rank

Three members of Cub Scout Pack 330 have received Cub Scouting's highest rank, the Webelos award.

Station Martin, Mike Morton and Kenneth Williams received the awards from Cubmaster Charles D. Cobb. The presentations were made before a group of Cub Scouts, their parents and Den Mothers.

Den Mother Mrs. Clara Williams assisted the three Scouts in the phases of their advancement through Wolf, Bear and Lion ranks. Den Mother Mrs. Jane Cobb assisted in operation of the Pack, which is sponsored by Jarvin Memorial Methodist Church.

Special Merchant Clinic At Chapel Hill Said 'Best'

CHAPEL HILL—The Eighth annual Retailers Activities Clinic, held here Sunday and yesterday, has been described as "the best staged since the clinic was organized."

State Director of the Merchants Association J. H. Blount of Greenville described the clinic as "the finest I have ever attended." Several dignitaries from other areas of the state expressed the same opinion.

The Clinic was sponsored jointly by the University of North Carolina and the North Carolina Merchants Association.

One of the featured speakers at the annual two-day event was Dwight B. Havans of Washington, D.C. who is Manager of the Chamber of Commerce Service Department. Havans spoke on the subject, "Duties of Directors in Getting New Members and Holding Them."

"Things that improve a community, improve retailing," the speaker told the large group. "Every retailer has a stake in a community."

Havans suggested that Merchants Association organizations should have group-participation meetings. At these meetings, he explained, recommendations for a work program should be set forth. According to Havans, it then would be the duties of the directors to develop these programs.

Charles Gaylord, President of the Williamston Chamber of Commerce - Merchants Association, spoke on the subject, "How We Raised Our Organization From Failure to Success."

Other speakers and their topics were: Stanley C. Culbreth, Executive Vice-President of the Danville, Va., Merchants Association, "How to Finance the Organization"; Rowland Jones of Washington, D.C., President of the American Retail Federation, "What They Are Preparing for You and Your Organization in Washington"; Robert G. Maulsby of Whiteville, Special Representative for the Raven Mills, "The Kind of Person I'd Like to Have as President of the Organization"; and Glenn B. Sanberg of Washington, D.C., Executive Vice-President of the American Society of Associated Executives, "The Giant Sleeps."

Attending the clinic from Greenville, in addition to Blount was Mrs. Blount and Mrs. Cora Powell, Secretary of the Greenville Merchants Association. Oscar Roberson, Robersonville merchant, also attended the clinic.

East Indonesian Rebels Being Cut Off By Sukarno

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno's government today named a replacement for the rebellious military commander of East Indonesia.

The Antara news agency meanwhile reported from the East Indonesian capital of Makassar that all telegraph service with the rebel-commanded province of North Celebes had been cut off and the government-owned Peline Line had been ordered to stop sailings to ports there. Lt. Col. Sombaa, military commander of North Celebes, last week came out in support of the rebel government in Central Sumatra.

In Padang, the chief rebel center in Central Sumatra, an informed source said the rebel would declare itself free of all loyalty to Sukarno as soon as it can broadcast the declaration. Indonesian air force raids put the rebels' radio stations at Padang, Bukittinggi and Menado, capital of North Celebes, out of action last weekend.

Previously the rebels had said they were not seeking Sukarno's ouster, only the removal of all Communist influence from his government and more autonomy for the Outer Islands.

East Indonesia's new military commander is Brig. Gen. Gatot Subroto. The army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution named him to replace Lt. Col. Ventje Sumal, who has been in Tokyo and Manila trying to drum up support for the rebels.

Des Alwie, press officer of the rebel government, arrived in Singapore today en route from Manila to Padang to discuss setting up air transport for the rebel fleet. The Indonesian navy is blocking the normal sea supply routes.

Vaccinated 325 Dogs Yesterday

Pitt County Health Department personnel and cooperating licensed veterinarians yesterday inoculated 325 dogs with anti-rabies vaccine as the county's series of rabies control clinics neared an end.

Final clinic in the series will be held Saturday morning from 9 until noon at Farmers Warehouse in Greenville. The clinics have been held daily since the first of February.

A Health Department spokesman said yesterday's total of vaccinations was the largest in any single day since the clinics were begun. He added, however, that vaccinations are running considerably below last year's total.

A charge of $1 per dog is made for the vaccinations. Dogs not vaccinated are subject to be picked up by county dog wardens.

Theft Charged To Kinston Man

A Kinston man, now in Lenoir County Jail, has been charged with breaking, entering and larceny of a Pitt County home during the weekend.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said Henry McLawhorn of Kinston faces the charges.

He is accused of entering the home of Asa McLawhorn near Ayden.

An outboard motor was reportedly missing.

The sheriff said McLawhorn will be tried in Superior Court.
