Candidate

J. HENRY HARRELL

Harrell To Seek State Senate Seat

J. Henry Harrell, prominent Greenville attorney and former chairman of the Pitt County Board of Elections, announced today he will seek the Democratic nomination from Pitt County to the State Senate.

Harrell is the second publicly announced candidate for the Senate post held for the past five terms by Dr. Paul E. Jones of Farmville. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville announced Thursday he is a candidate for the post. Dr. Jones has not announced publicly whether or not he will seek re-election.

With the announcement of his candidacy today, Harrell issued the following statement:

"My objective is to do everything I can for the welfare of Pitt County. Pitt County is primarily agricultural. Every phase of its economy is largely dependent upon agriculture, and in order to strengthen its economy we must protect the farmer. We should do whatever we can to supplement the income of the farmer by way of securing industries which will give us a market for our products, or otherwise be helpful to the people of Pitt County.

"I have always been vitally interested in education, and in providing the best educational facilities that we can afford — from the elementary schools to the colleges. We are all proud of East Carolina College and must do all we can for its continued growth and progress."

A native of Bertie County, Harrell graduated from the University of North Carolina with an AB degree in 1926 and received his law degree from the University Law School in 1928. He practiced law in Windsor for two years and in 1930 moved to Greenville and established his law office here.

He served as chairman of the Pitt County Board of Elections for 16 years from 1938 to 1954. During World War II he was chairman of the War Manpower Board in Pitt County. He is a past president of the Pitt Bar Association, has held offices in the District Bar, is a member of the North Carolina State Bar, a member of the North Carolina Bar Association, and a Methodist.

In 1936 Harrell married the former Rosa Lee Lang of Farmville. They have three daughters and make their home on West Rock Springs Road in Greenville.

North Korea To Free Americans

TOKYO (AP)—Communist North Korea said tonight it is "prepared to return at an appropriate time" the two American pilots of a South Korean airplane that landed at Pyongyang Feb. 16.

The two Americans, plus two German citizens and any of the 30 South Koreans aboard the plane who want to go home, will be allowed to leave, the Communists said.

The announcement by Pyongyang Radio did not specify when they would be released.

The broadcast quoted a North Korean Foreign Office statement dated yesterday. It said the decision was made "in compliance with requests of the U. S. and German governments" sent through Moscow. The two governments do not recognize the North Korean regime and refuse to deal directly with it.

The Communists had said earlier they would release the 34 persons on the DC3 airliner if the South Korean government would negotiate with Pyongyang for them. South Korea continued its refusal to deal with the Communist regime.

The pilots are Willis P. Hobbs of Vallejo, Calif., and Air Force Lt. Col. Howard W. McClellan of Eufaula, Mich.

The Korean language broadcast heard in Tokyo said the Americans and Germans will be turned over to official representatives of the U. S. and German governments at Panmunjon "or at any other place mutually agreed upon within North Korea."

AGREE TO FOREIGN MINISTER'S MEET

Russia Reverses Standing Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia, in a surprising policy reversal, has now agreed to an East-West foreign ministers meeting to decide on the agenda and the participants for a summit conference. The United States and its allies probably will counter with a demand that the foreign ministers discuss at least some of the subjects which would be taken up in the later heads-of-government conference. The purpose of such preliminary discussion would be to determine whether such a conference would have prospects of success.

It was learned that the Russian government, in notes handed to Western ambassadors in Moscow yesterday, proposed that the foreign ministers meet in about two months.

The Soviets said the purpose of the foreign ministers session should be to prescribe the subjects for a summit conference and determine what nations should participate in it.

Word on the contents of the new Soviet approach to the West came first from a French Foreign Ministry spokesman in Paris.

Authorities here confirmed that the Soviets were calling for a foreign ministers session of limited purpose in about two months. There seemed to be no doubt that Moscow took the same line in its notes to all the Western powers.

Up to now the Kremlin had resisted any plan for a foreign ministers meeting in advance of a summit conference. The Russians maintained some foreign ministers had "biased" attitudes and said that getting them together would more likely hinder than help the prospects for a summit conference.

The Soviet cave-in on this issue was not wholly unexpected, however. Several of State Dulles had been advised by some of his Soviet experts that if the West insisted, the Kremlin would agree.

However, Dulles said only a few weeks ago he did not regard a foreign ministers meeting as essential in the preparatory work for a summit conference. This was widely interpreted as a concession on his part. Actually it was not, since he had taken earlier the position that preparations should be made either through lower diplomatic channels or a meeting of ministers.

The United States had expressed resentment against Russia's attacks on Dulles in connection with discussion of a foreign ministers meeting. This may have had some effect on the Soviet policy change. It is possible that Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev decided their tactics had boomeranged.

The latest Russian move appeared not to affect basic differences between Washington and Moscow over how to go about arranging a top level conference.

U. S. authorities were still insistent today that the preparations must give sound reason to believe that if men at the level of Eisenhower and Bulganin get together, they can accomplish something. The Russians still want to leave all real negotiations up to the summit session and confine preparatory work to such house-keeping problems as the time, place, participants and program.

The Soviet proposal was handed to Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow yesterday by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. The State Department described it as being set forth in an "aide memoir" which is an informal communication as compared with a letter from Premier Bulganin to President Eisenhower or a formal note.

The memorandum, the Department said, concerned "procedures for preparations for a possible summit meeting."

Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov said earlier this week preliminary negotiations through diplomatic channels should be concerned with deciding the time, place and participants for a summit conference.

Divers To Hunt For School Bus Coffin

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP)—Army divers early today were ready to slip into the swift waters of Levisa Fork of Big Sandy River and locate the school bus coffin for 23 mountain school children. With them in the submerged bus was their driver.

U. S. Army engineers at daylight began floating a raft upstream from the disastrous wreck. Divers were to begin operations as soon as it is in position. Searchers said they believed they had the wrecked bus located but had not made a definite contact.

There was confusion over the names of the 23 dead children and the 16 who escaped as the bus slipped into the rain-swollen river early yesterday.

School Supt. Virgil O. Turner listed 24 dead and 16 survivors. State police had 24 dead and 14 survivors. Names of dead and survivors conflicted.

U. S. Coast Guard Lt. James Mundy of Point Pleasant, W. Va., said electronic sounding gear indicated the bus is situated at the spot where grappling hooks yesterday contacted what they thought was the vehicle.

Mountain men with axes were cutting away brush and trees along the bank to make a path to drag the bus out of the stream.

The rain-swollen river is running about 20 to 30 feet wider than normal.

Once the bus is recovered the bodies will be taken to the armory in Prestonsburg for identification.

The bus floated long enough for 16 other students to escape through doors and windows.

All the children in at least three families died in the tragedy, which the National Safety Council called the worst highway accident involving children in the nation's history.

The bus hit a wrecker and an auto, careened off the road, and slipped down a 30-foot embankment into 20 feet of water.

Lt. John Mundy of the Coast Guard said his men may have located the bus with a grappling hook. It came up with yellow paint, the color of the bus.

Donald Horn, driver of the wrecker, said "All the children could have been saved, but they jammed up in the door, screaming and struggling to get out. Then the bus slid into deep water."

Horn said he was 200 feet ahead of the bus as he came down an incline to pull a truck out of a ditch. He said he signalled he was stopping but the bus continued moving, striking the rear of the wrecker.

Bennie Blackburn, 44, who lives just a few feet from the scene, said the bus "didn't slow up as it went by. I didn't see any brake lights and I still didn't see any brake lights when the bus started over the embankment."

Family Mourns 3 Children On Bus

By BILL HUDSON
PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP)—"All we have is gone," said a mother whose three children were among the victims in the nation's greatest school bus tragedy.

"They certainly were little jewels to us," said Mrs. James B. Goble.

The Gobles were one of three Floyd County families who lost all their children when a school bus plunged into the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River carrying 23 children and the bus driver to their deaths.

Mrs. Goble is a teacher at a rural school on lower Cow Creek. "All of these children that were lost were good students." She had taught several of them.

The Gobles lost their two sons, James Edward, 12, a seventh-grade pupil; John Spencer, 11, sixth grade, and their daughter, Anna Laura, 9, fourth grade.

John Spencer fell off a rock cliff two years ago and his left arm was amputated just below the elbow.

"We came so near losing him then, but the Lord spared him," the mother said.

Goble operates a store on U. S. Highway 23. He said one of the survivors, David Wright, notified him of the accident. Wright helped rescue several children.

The father said Wright came into his store and "I knew something was wrong. 'Bet' (Goble's nickname), he said, 'the bus has run over the bank into the river and all your children are still in it.'"

Goble drove quickly to the scene.

Mrs. Goble said the children formerly attended school at Allen, Ky., but transferred to Prestonsburg this year because the Allen school was overcrowded.

"We have always been a hard working family and tried to do what was best for our children. We never thought what we'd do if we lost them."

The two boys recently joined the Boy Scouts, the parents said, and young John Spencer would have received his 2nd class rank Thursday night.

The little girl was a piano student, Mrs. Goble said, and was outstanding in music.

Some Discord Appears In Premiere Showing

WASHINGTON, N. C. — The excitement of a world movie premiere was past for Washington today, but a controversy connected with the film seemed likely to linger on.

"Lafayette Escadrille" a dramatization of American flyers in France early in World War I, had its first showing here last night. Visiting celebrities joined with local folks in a full day of festivities for the event.

The discord entered with word that eight surviving members of the original Lafayette Escadrille had turned down an invitation to the premiere.

Col. Paul A. Rockwell of Asheville, Escadrille historian, said a wire to Washington Mayor Thomas Stewart from Col. Charles H. Doland of Greenwich, Conn., expressed the group's opposition to "exploitation of their unit . . ."

In addition, Rockwell said Jim Baughman, a Washington native, was not a member of the Lafayette Escadrille, but served in another French Squadron.

Washington was picked for the movie premiere because it was Baughman's home town. Proceeds from the premiere were to go for a community youth center in his honor.

Henry Jones of Newark, N.Y., in Washington for the premiere, said that while Baughman did not serve in the unit which originally used the name Lafayette Escadrille, he was considered a member of the "Lafayette Escadrille Flying Corps." The latter group included all American flyers who fought for France, Jones explained.

Jones said he was a member of the original small group, which flew for France before the U. S. entered the conflict.

The attitude of Dolan and Rockwell in refusing to attend the premiere, said Jones, smacked of "sour grapes."

Washington folks said a monument erected by the French government near Paris to the memory of the Lafayette Escadrille carries the name of Baughman, who was killed in action after shooting down several German planes.

60-Unit Parade
Twenty thousand people lined the streets of Washington yesterday to watch the 60-unit parade which preceded the showing of the movie.

Herbert Bonner, congressman, and Robert Valeur, First Minister from France led the dignitaries in the parade. Susan Oliver and James McArthur, visiting Hollywood stars, were also in the parade.

The Williamston High School Band received the trophy for being the best high school band in the parade. Rocky Mount Band took second place. Judges were Eddie Carr, of Eastern Air Lines, and from Wilmington, N. C. R. C. Cantwell, the oldest living Navy Pilot.

During the parade jet planes from Cherry Point gave an aerial display. The parade was followed by an air show at the Washington airport which included a helicopter rescue.

Beauty queens from neighboring towns were presented to the audience in the preliminary exercises before the movie. Two of the North Carolina members of the Lafayette Escadrille were recognized by the master of ceremonies.

State Honor For Pitt Man

CHARLES A. FORBES . . . N. C.'s Outstanding Young Farmer.

Pitt Farmer Wins Statewide Honor

Charles Alfred Forbes of the Stokes community last night was named North Carolina's Outstanding Young Farmer.

The 33-year-old Forbes, who was involved in an auto accident as he drove to the banquet, received a plaque designating him the state's foremost young farmer. It was presented by Edgar Gurganus, a past North Carolina Jaycee president, of Williamston.

Forbes was named Pitt County's Outstanding Young Farmer by the Greenville Jaycees last month. He participated in state competition along with 39 other candidates named by Jaycee clubs throughout the state.

The banquet at which he received the coveted honor was sponsored by the local Jaycees.

As state winner, Forbes records will be entered in national competition. He will journey to Indianapolis later this year where the national winners are to be named.

Forbes graduated from Stokes High School and attended Elon College.

During 1957 he operated two farms, one which he owns and a second which he rents. Total acreage of the farms is 1,140 with 190 arable acres. Forbes receives his entire income from the general farming and dairying operations which he carries on.

This year he has expanded his operations and he has recently purchased another farm.

Forbes is a member of Sweet Gum Grove Free Will Baptist Church and he is a past secretary and treasurer of the Sunday School. He is a member of the board of directors of Farm Bureau and FCX, a member of the School Board, the local Ruritan Club and he is an ASC member. In 1956 he was a candidate for county commissioner.

Forbes is married to the former Blanche Jackson and the couple has three children.

23rd Participant
Milton Williamson, state chairman of the project, told those present last night that 230 farmers participated in the contest on the county level.

From that number the 39 county winners were chosen. They were present for the banquet.

Second place winner, who was named last night, was William Fenton Covington of Mebane Rt. 1. Named third was James A. Cooley, 34, of Wagman.

Covington was sponsored by the Burlington Jaycees. He is a high school graduate and has been farming for eight years.

Covington has served as a deacon in Hanfield's Presbyterian Church, church treasurer and chairman of the board. He is a Farm Bureau and Grange member. The 32-year-old man is a dairy farmer.

Cooley is a general farmer. He is a graduate of State College with a degree in agronomy. He is married with three children.

Farmer's Many Jobs
Gurganus told the group prior to presenting the awards that a farmer has to be many things.

"A farmer now days is certainly not one who just cultivates the ground and tills the soil," the past state president declared.

Gurganus listed the jobs a farm operator holds as: manager, bookkeeper, mechanic, veterinarian, surveyor, chemist, butcher.

"With all these things he's got to be a laborer," the speaker declared. "He's got to go out and supervise and work on the farm. Show me a farmer who refuses to labor and I'll show you a poor farmer."

Gurganus told the local winners, "You have gone out and placed the operations of your farms on a business basis. That's what makes you outstanding Young Farmers."

"We of the North Carolina Junior Chamber of Commerce salute you Outstanding Young Farmers. We feel the future is bright in your

Actress Doubts Hollywood Is Apt To Adopt 'Sack' Dresses

By MARTHA PIERCE
"Although I haven't bought a 'sack' dress yet, I think the new sack fashions look good on some figures," Miss Susan Oliver, young starlet, explained yesterday.

"Unless Hollywood changes its policy, the new sack fashion will not be seen in movies. The producers in Hollywood feel that using a fashion that is here today and gone tomorrow would 'date' a picture," she went on to explain.

Miss Oliver, who starred in the "Green Eyed Blonde," said she keeps her figure by "eating everything in sight except sweets."

James McArthur, a sophomore at Harvard, and also an up-coming star, accompanied Susan to the premiere festivities in Washington, N. C.

"I'm just another student at Harvard, especially to the teachers. More people began recognizing me after my picture 'The Young Stranger' came out," said Oliver.

Right now McArthur feels that "Versatility is the aim of all actors." He changes his role of college student to actor during school vacations. "Having a famous mother has helped me by enabling me to move in the theatrical circles, but it has also hindered me in other ways," he added.

"I was delighted to be invited to the premiere in Washington because I had never been in this part of the country before," Miss Oliver replied when asked what her reaction had been to an invitation to a small town in North Carolina.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

We want to call your attention to Milton Eisenhower's article in the February 21 issue of U. S. News and World Report. In it Ike's brother, who is president of Johns Hopkins University, tries to solve the problem of "How to Get Better Schooling"—which is the title of the article. He doesn't solve the problem—but he certainly makes a lot of good suggestions. About colleges, he says there is great need for more facilities, higher salaries for professors, a firmer tradition of scholarship, higher admission standards, and a sound liberal education to back up specialized knowledge. He also says that individual colleges should try not to do too much so that they can do better at what they try—"I am sure our colleges would improve their programs if they would first define their objectives and then offer only those courses essential to fulfilling their purposes."

Weekly Christian Century Nears 50-Year Mark

By EDWARD S. KITCH

CHICAGO (AP)—One of the most outspoken voices in American Protestantism celebrates half a century of interdenominational service next Wednesday. The voice is that of the weekly Christian Century, which has devoted its first 50 years to providing, coaxing and occasionally slapping the wrists of Protestant churches, regardless of denomination.

Since its founding in 1908, the Christian Century has stood solidly for two things: relating the whole Gospel to the whole secular world and seeking reunion of Christians through integration of denominations.

Our undenominational position gives us a chance to comment independently on developments within all denominations," says Dr. Theodore A. Gill, its managing editor and a Presbyterian minister. "From time to time," he adds, "this has made us unpopular with each of the denominations."

Many Methodists were unhappy with us for a while when we questioned the tempo of their action 10 years ago in the field of race relations. Now we have been as vocal as anyone on the real strides they have made in the last two years.

"Many Lutherans protested when we questioned the church's handling of the issue of the de-frocked ministers in Milwaukee two years ago. Our feeling was that they had failed in their pastoral responsibility to the young ministers."

"The ministers had asked hard theological questions. The church had failed to educate itself theologically and couldn't answer them."

One of the Christian Century's most recent controversial stands involved Billy Graham. "We are the only religious journal that has minimized the significance of Billy Graham's revivalism. We consider it a serious threat to real Christian evangelism."

It is says Dr. Gill, "a tissue of archaisms and irrelevancies which muddles the Gospel it seeks to display. We consider revivalism a reminding to some forgetful souls of what they have forgotten for a while. It is not evangelism, which is the penetration of the antagonistic world by the Gospel."

The Christian Century now has a world circulation of 40,000 and a staff of 60 correspondents scattered all over the world.

You and your responsibility

At last this little bit of life is ready to become a part of your home. You are glad, and at the same time you feel a great responsibility. Perhaps you already realize how much the Church can help you. From the day you stand before the minister and dedicate the little one to God, on through the various departments of Sunday School and young people's work, the Church is always ready to lend a hand. Its spiritual message strengthens you, its worship services enrich your life, its opportunities for leadership increase your ability. In the Church you will find other fathers and mothers with problems similar to your own. You will find boys and girls, men and women, working together, and from these beginnings will grow a better home life, a better community, a better world. Yes, this is a beginning. Start now to make your home a center of Christian activity... and make the Church your home!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Gold Star Mothers, Fathers To Be Honored By Auxiliary Dinner

The Gold Star mothers and fathers of Pitt County will be honored at a dinner on March 14 by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The dinner will be held at the Eighth Street Christian Church at 7 p.m.

Special guests, who are invited to share the tribute to those who gave their sons in defense of our country, include S. E. West, Mayor, Mrs. West, Pace Fuller, Commander of the American Legion, Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Alfred Kennedy, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mr. Kennedy, Dr. and Mrs. H. O. Haney, M. E. Cavendish, Pitt County Service Officer, and Mrs. Cavendish.

The husbands and guests of auxiliary members are also invited. Following the dinner, an evening of entertainment has been planned, according to Mrs. Clem Garner, chairman of the Gold Star committee.

The plans for the occasion were formulated at the regular monthly meeting of the auxiliary Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Sherwood Barbour.

Upon the recommendation of Mrs. Kenneth Brown, Americanism chairman, the group favored the proposal to give flags to five Brown Scout troops during Scout Week.

Mrs. J. A. Joyner Jr., president and presiding officer, announced that a Caswell Training School request for toothpaste and cigarettes and a request from the VA Hospital in Oteen for 50 bingo prizes had been complied with during the month.

A note of appreciation from Caswell Training School was read thanking the auxiliary for participation in a bingo party recently held at which over 300 children were entertained.

The party was given by the Farmville, Kinston and Greenville auxiliaries. Mesdames Amos Harrell, C. B. West Jr., J. A. Joyner Jr. and Lottie Barnhill attended the event.

A note was also received from a child in the N. C. Cottage at the VFW National Home expressing his thanks for the gift received on his birthday.

The members voted to give $5 to the Red Cross drive. A total of $14 was given by the members from proceeds of a personal bake sale for the March of Dimes.

Mrs. B. T. Joyner, chairman of the rehabilitation committee, reported that shoes for a disabled veteran and medicine for a veteran's child has been purchased during the month.

Mrs. C. B. West Jr. gave a report on the "Turn-About" party held at the VA Hospital in Fayetteville. At the party, the patients entertained the auxiliary members.

The Greenville auxiliary was awarded a citation by the hospital for outstanding work in the hospital program. Mrs. West, Mrs. J. A. Joyner Jr., and Mrs. Ralph Bailey attended the party as representatives of the local unit.

On March 26, a birthday party will be given for the patients at the hospital by the auxiliaries in the Second District. The local auxiliary will furnish cakes and prizes.

The national organization of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars sponsors a cancer research project at Bar Harbor, Maine. It was announced that the local auxiliary contributed $25 to this VFW National Cancer Fund.

Mrs. J. A. Joyner Jr. was the recipient of a ham which was the prize for securing the largest number of members in the membership contest.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. Barbour, Mrs. Ruth Garner and Mrs. Myrtle Wilson, hostesses of the evening, served refreshments of fruit salad, crackers and coffee.

Final Cheers To Be Heard Tonight

Tonight is the last time eight of the cheerleaders will wear their green and white uniforms and lead cheers for a high school basketball game.

Five years ago Margaret Ruffin and Ginger Lang began cheering. Marietta Northrup and Ruth Young have been cheerleaders for four years, and Stuart Bost has cheered for three years. Camilla Henderson has been on the cheering squad two years.

Lillian Moye says, "I have been a cheerleader only one year, and it has been one of the happiest years since I've been in high school."

Cheerleading, the girls all agree, has added happiness to their high school years.

RETIRING CHEERLEADERS, MASCOT

"I have enjoyed being a cheerleader mostly because I feel I'm really a part of the game when I'm in uniform and have a special job to do," Marietta Northrup reflects. "Being a cheerleader has been a wonderful experience for me. I wouldn't take anything for all the fun and crazy experiences I have had," Ruth Young mentions. "I feel very fortunate to have been elected cheerleader and I surely dread the thought that tonight is my last game," she adds.

"Being head cheerleader, I gained a sense of responsibility. It gives me a thrill to be out front cheering because I feel as if I'm helping the team," Margaret Ruffin states.

"The contact we have with the students and the opportunities we have to meet students from other towns makes cheerleading especially appealing to me," says Camilla Henderson.

Cheerleading Future
All of the girls want to try out for cheerleader in college except Ruth who is planning to go into nurse's training at Rex Hospital School of Nursing. She says, "Next year I will have to be satisfied with watching cheerleaders from other colleges and knowing what a wonderful time they are having."

Carol, Margaret, Marietta, and Ginger will be going to Saint

MARY'S COLLEGE FOR THE FIRST TWO YEARS AND THEN ON TO UNC. STUART PLANS TO GO TO SAINT MARY'S OR TO MEREDITH.

"I feel that I have gained a greater knowledge of sports and sportsmanship," adds Stuart Bost. "I'm proud to have been able to be a cheerleader."

Planning June Wedding

MISS EVIE PAULINE BELL . . . is the daughter of Mrs. Grady Justice Bell and the late Mr. Bell of Greenville. Her engagement to Rodney Harvey Roberson, son of Mrs. Louis Harvey Roberson and the late Mr. Roberson of Robersonville, is announced by her mother. The wedding will take place June 14.

30 Years Ago Today

March 1, 1928

"One can always tell when the first of the month comes by the change of parking laws on Evans Street," a citizen remarked this morning as he watched motorists start to park on one side and then have to change to the other side. "It is a pity engineers didn't arrange for wider streets when the city was laid off. Many other towns of similar size have it on us in this way, but that's about the only advantage they have over us. Greenville may have narrow streets but it has broadminded men and women who are able to see above the surface of the pavement and visualize some of the great possibilities which the future holds for them."

Meetings . . .

Pilot Club To Stage Fashion Show March 15

The Pilots of Greenville will present a spring fashion show on March 15 at 8:00 p.m. at the Womens Club.

Brody, Blount-Harvey, Bloom's and the Jane Shop are the participants who will feature their fashions for ladies, debs, and juniors. Teamed with a background of music, rendered by visiting artists, models will wear evening, street and beach fashions. Refreshments will be served at 7:30 p.m.

Proceeds from this show will be applied to the Pilot Club's community project.

Belvoir-Falkland Chapters Of FHA, FFA Hold Banquet

The Belvoir-Falkland chapters of the Future Homemakers of America and Future Farmers of America held their annual banquet together for the first time last night in the school gymnasium.

Greenery sprinkled with red and white hearts teamed with streamers were used as decorations.

Nellie Ruth Gwaltney, F.F.A. president, acted as mistress of ceremonies and welcomed students, parents and guests. A welcome was also given by Jarvis Tripp, F.F.A. president.

Invocation was said by Roy Jones, chairman of the Belvoir-Falkland School Board.

The banquet was held in honor of the mothers and fathers. Lillian Corbett gave the toast of thanks to the mothers, after which Mrs. Ben Thomas Jr. responded.

The toast to the fathers was said by J. N. Pollard, followed by the response given by Floyd Harris.

The guests were toasted by Iris Smith, to which D. H. Conley, superintendent of the Pitt County schools, responded.

The creed of F.F.A. was read by Dorothy Harris. David Garris told a few of the aims and services of F.F.A.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Howard James of the Red Oak Christian Church. They presented an act of ventriloquism. Mrs. B. L. Tyson played songs on her accordion and recited the poem "Sleeping at the Foot of the Bed."

The guest speaker, the Rev. Verreen, pastor of the Methodist Church of Farmville, was introduced by Iris Smith.

Honored guests for the event were: mothers and fathers; D. H. Conley; Ed. N. Warren, principal of Belvoir-Falkland High School; the Rev. Verreen; Mr. and Mrs. James; Mr. and Mrs. B. L. ## 4-H Week Declared By President

National 4-H Club Week, March 1-8, has been declared by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In a letter to America's 4-H Club members, President Eisenhower stated, "The training and experience you are receiving now in 4-H Club work will enable you to build the kinds of homes that create a nation of peace, strength and progress."

The national theme this year is "4-H Salute to Parents." Over 1,000 Pitt County 4-H Club members will join the 153,000 North Carolina 4-H members, and over 2,156,000 members throughout the United States, in paying special tribute to all parents who assist with 4-H Club work and its various activities.

There are 16 organized 4-H Clubs in Pitt County composed of boys and girls ages 10-21, chiefly in rural and suburban areas, who carry on a wide variety of farming, homemaking, community service, and other projects.

They raise livestock and poultry, grow gardens and field crops, conserve the soil, sew, cook, preserve food, make things for their homes, and work for community betterment.

The 4-H program is a part of the national educational system of cooperative extension work.

Pitt County's 4-H members have been widely recognized on State and National levels for outstanding participation in the program since it was organized in the early 1900's.

Educational Trends Told By Mrs. Baker

STOKES—Trends in education were discussed by Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, supervisor for the Pitt County Board of Education, at a meeting of the Stokes-Pactolus PTA here this week.

In addition to her comments, Mrs. Baker showed two films on education and led a discussion of them. J. B. Congleton presided at the meeting which was attended by more than 70 parents and teachers.

Use of frozen vegetables has increased from just one pound per person per year 20 years ago to 13 pounds in 1955.

Pork may be frozen either raw or precooked.

Ceramics Study To Be Offered

Ceramics, an adult-education class, will be offered at East Carolina College during the spring quarter as a non-credit course for special students.

An organizational meeting will take place in Room 21 of the Austin building March 4 at 7 p.m. Those who wish to enroll are asked to attend.

Scheduled for the course are ten meetings of three hours' duration. Work will include lectures and demonstrations on pottery and the making of ceramics by hand and on the potter's wheel.

William B. Persick, faculty member of the department of art, will teach the class. A similar course taught by him last fall attracted a number of interested students from this area.

Persick is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and has studied under such noted artists and teachers as Tom Sheffield, Carlton Atherton, Paul Bogstay, and Edgar Littlefield. This work in ceramics is included in the collections at the University of Nebraska, the University of Minnesota, and the Columbus, Ohio, Gallery of Fine Arts.

Dr. Williams At Conference, Wife Tours Wash., D.C.

Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Williams Jr., their daughter Marylie, and Mrs. Otto Ver Meer visited Washington, D. C. for several days.

Dr. Williams was invited to attend the National Food Conference sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

This conference brought together leaders in science, American business, agriculture, and labor for a full discussion of the role of food in the national welfare.

The meeting, which Dr. Williams attended, was opened with a breakfast with Vice-President Nixon. The morning session was followed by a lunch at which President Eisenhower and Ezra Taft Benson were guests.

While in Washington, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Ver Meer spent their time sight-seeing and touring the City of Washington and Mt. Vernon.

The group returned to Chapel Hill on February 25.

Perry Gives Club's Program

George Perry of the college music department illustrated his talk on "Fun or Humor in Music" for the Greenville Music Club Monday night with recordings.

He divided the program into two parts: Fun in music and fun with music. Some recordings he used were Anna Russell's Mozart's "The Little Joke" and Disney's "Snow White."

During the business meeting Mrs. J. H. B. Moore outlined plans for the Greenville Community Fine Arts Festival this spring. Events are scheduled for March 1, 17 and 27 and April 11.

The meeting was presided over by the vice-president, Lewis Danfelt.

Refreshments were served by the hosts and hostesses for the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Atkinson, Mrs. Estelle Striplin, and Lewis Danfelt.

WMU To Hold Week Of Prayer

The Women's Missionary Union of Immanuel Baptist Church will observe a "Week of Prayer" for home missions next week.

The first observance will be held at the individual circle meetings Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday the women will meet together in the church at 10 a.m.

On Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. a covered dish supper with the Brotherhood will be held followed by a film, "Big Cities—USA."

During this week the Annie Armstrong offering for Home Missions will be taken.

No Doubt Now, He's Here To Stay

It seems amply clear now that American farmers will have to live as best they can for the next two years with the unrealistic agricultural policies of the Republican administration and Agriculture Secretary Benson.

The only possibility of a change seems to be in case Mr. Benson gets a belly-full of farmers' complaints as the farmers already have gotten a belly-full of Benson's farm policies. In such a situation we assume he would resign his post.

President Eisenhower has left no room for doubt of the confidence he has in Benson. Obviously as long as Mr. Eisenhower is in the White House, Mr. Benson will remain head of the Department of Agriculture if he wants to. Even if pressure for Benson's resignation mounts within the Republican Party's top echelon, it is difficult to see how the President can back down from his present position. He has gone too far in support of Benson to do an about-face.

The President is so smitten by the honesty, character and sincerity of the man Ezra Taft Benson, he appears blind to Benson's farm policies and what they are doing to agriculture in the United States. We have a great deal of respect too for the man Ezra Taft Benson. At the same time we have little respect for the kind of so-called farm program he has forced upon the agriculture of the nation.

It is our guess that even Mr. Benson's severest critics have a great deal of respect for him as a person. They rightly expect, however, the Secretary of Agriculture to possess not only strong character, integrity and sincerity, but also a realistic view of the nation's

What A Road Earns In Taxes

By LYNN NISBET

PROFIT — The North Carolina Motor Carriers Association has analyzed construction cost and traffic on the section of highway between Lexington and Greensboro. The road cost about $7 million, exclusive of right of way. Maintenance is estimated at $256,000 a year. Traffic count showed more than two and a half million vehicles used the road last year. Federal and State highway user taxes for that period paid on this 33.3 mile section alone amounted to $1,149,000. Of this total it is claimed that trucks paid 55.4 per cent or $636,094.

Deducting the $256,000 maintenance from the $1,149,000 revenue leaves a "profit" of $893,000, which, according to the truckers, can be applied to improving and maintaining other less traveled routes such as farm to market roads.

This section of road carries perhaps the heaviest traffic load of any in the state, being a part of both US-29 and US-70 the main north-south and east-west highways. It has the same type traffic that many commercial toll roads serve, some of which operate at a profit. There are numerous instances of bridges and short express ways yielding an operating profit through tolls. On North Carolina's highways the tolls are paid at the gasoline filling stations and it is almost impossible to isolate or earmark "yield" from any specific strip of road.

Furthermore, while it is expected that all highways will show a profit in general service and contribution to the total economy, it is not often that actual figures can be given on what a highway earns in taxes. Of course, in this and other instances where special profits are claimed, they accrue largely because of the contributory services of other segments of the highway system which must also be paid for.

PORTS — The State ports constitute a part of the transportation system requiring some subsidy, although expected to be largely self-supporting. When the State Ports Authority was meeting in Raleigh the other day for final consideration of Leon Williams as director of operations, a good deal of emphasis was put upon the fact that his operation of the Georgia port at Savannah had shown a profit.

It appears that no method of transportation of freight or passengers has ever been able to operate at a profit without some sort of direct or indirect subsidy paid out of general taxes. It is entirely probable, as their audit reports will show, that railroads and bus-truck lines, air farm problems and sound proposals for coping with these problems. Mr. Benson's tenure as Secretary of Agriculture has failed to indicate that he possesses these latter qualifications.

The best that can be hoped for until some change can be made in the administration is that Congress will take the bull by the horns and frame a more realistic farm program. Though a bottle-neck remains in the Department of Agriculture, Congressional action could to some degree alleviate the situation faced by America's agriculture.

Planning Ahead For An Increased Service

On a number of occasions The Daily Reflector has pointed out that the scope of service East Carolina College can render North Carolina and particularly the Eastern section is limited only by the facilities provided the college to render service.

ECC's Board of Trustees this week approved a capital improvements budget of $2,320,000 for the 1959-61 biennium. The funds are earmarked for more classroom space, dormitory space, and expansion of other facilities to enable the college to care for a larger student body.

All of the projects approved by the Board of Trustees are urgently needed at the college. Without them, the college will be unable to provide higher education for the increasing number of young North Carolinians who look to it for college training. Even if these facilities are provided, it is almost sure that by the time the facilities are ready for use the college will still have to turn down applicants for lack of space to handle them.

For almost a decade now East Carolina College has been forced year after year to turn away prospective students simply because it lacked sufficient physical facilities to handle them. Though its price-less services to this section of the state have increased each year, this expansion has been restricted by lack of facilities.

In terms of dollars, East Carolina College is asking a considerable amount for expanding its facilities during the coming biennium. In relation to the service the college will be able to render with these new facilities, however, the amount being asked is well within reason. Indeed, it is a bargain for North Carolina.

It is to be hoped the Department of Administration and finally the General Assembly will recognize the need for these facilities at East Carolina and will see that funds for them are provided.

'Thrill' Fares To Spur Travel

By ELMER ROESSNER

Europe will enjoy a new kind of travel boom this year. New "thrill" or "economy" plane fares — considerably below the already low tourist rates — will go into effect April 1.

The rates can be blocked by government disapproval, but that is unlikely since the airlines need every new dollar they can find to finance future jet planes and the government knows it.

One line is already advertising flights from New York to a swing through six European cities and back for less than $500 a person, and $226 less than tourist rates. And most of the lines are offering credit, at 10 per cent down and twenty months to pay the rest.

Slump or no slump, these new rates will expand tourism in Europe considerably.

INVITING TO SECOND GENERATION

They will attract many people who always wanted to see the wonders of Europe but who have never been quite able to put up the scratch necessary under previous tariffs. In addition, it will attract many persons of European descent who will take advantage of the new rates to visit relatives and their parents' home town overseas.

It is probable that the rates will attract new travelers without causing a loss in the higher classifications. When airlines added tourist flights, some officials feared that first-class passengers would shift to tourist accommodations. Some may have. But in general, the tourist ticket sales have represented a net gain. Total first-class ticket sales have held up while tourist ticket sales have gone up.

The new rates will not be an unalloyed joy to the airlines. One of the giant carriers is now trying to draw up flight schedules that will provide all first-class, all tourist, and all economy flights; split first-class and tourist; split first-class and economy; split tourist and economy; and split first-class, tourist and economy flights.

One of the smaller trans-Atlantic lines also offers de luxe accommodations. Because it operates only a few planes, it will have to carry four classes of passengers on each plane.

TOUGH ON FLY GIRLS

"This will drive the hostesses crazy," an airline official said, "which passengers get champagne. They'll have to remember which passengers get champagne and canapes, which get canapes without champagne, which passengers get box lunches, which passengers get buy drinks and which can't."

Airlines do not now sell alcoholic beverages to tourist travelers, but one line is said to suggest that passengers buy a bottle at the airport before leaving. The line can sell set-ups.

The new economy rates may not be for people with long legs or billowing poundage. Most of the trans-Atlantic airlines will grant less space for thrift travelers. Some will allow only 32 inches between seats. But what are a few cramps when one saves $200?

Air travel to Europe this year will also be increased by the rise in the number of corporations arranging tours for employee groups. One New York corporation is offering members of its camera club a low-price, all-expense tour of Europe. A magazine publishing company has chartered a plane to fly 60 employees on a round trip to Europe. The employees pay their way, but the publisher is free to throw in as many extras as he wishes.

Many other corporations are planning similar excursions. Chartered flights provide economies, and group bookings in hotels, in restaurants, and for side trips cuts costs even more.

YOUR NAME'S WORTH CASH. TO SOMEBODY ELSE

When you send in a box top, your name becomes a property of the merchantable property of the company that gives you the premium.

One list company is advertising in Printer's Ink: "We'll pay you cash for your box top names! . . . If you have 25,000 or more premium requests in your possession, we are interested. Many well-known national advertisers have found it profitable to sell us their names. Why not you?"

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS MORE GOOD THAN EVIL

This morning's paper told of the murder of a woman by her husband who then committed suicide. Also there was the account of a boy who had killed his mother, and of another juvenile who had stabbed a teen-age girl.

What a world of sin and crime! Yes, but that same newspaper told of several happy romances, of a notable discovery of new territory made by a gallant crew of men, of the leaving of a great fortune to the advancement of science and education. There were church notes adjacent to the stories of murder and mutilation. The smiling faces of brides and newly engaged young women were just a few pages over from the shocking pictures of the murdered wife, and the sullen-faced boy who was being questioned by police in connection with a heinous crime.

The world is not all bad. The events of life are a mystifying mixture of gallantry and crime, of lust and the highest manifestations of pure and sacrificial love. If we think only of the evil things there are in the world, we shall become discouraged. Worst of all, we shall get a distorted picture of life. There is plenty of evil on this planet, but there is plenty of good also.

And don't forget that we could not go on existing at all were it not for the fact that the good always far exceeds the evil.

Then, The Other Aspect

Friend — "I read your column of a few days ago and it struck me you are real gone on boys having pocketknives."

That's right. No-boy-should-be-without-one, I always say. Every time I drag out my penknife to clean a pipe bowl it recalls those never-again days of trying to whittle out boats and planes and such stuff.

Friend — "And what do you think of knives at school?" Well, it does seem as though if a boy has a pocket and a pocketknife he's apt to carry it to school, to church, to the playground . . . even to bed. At some ages there's just no telling what might happen to make a knife a handy thing to have around.

Friend — "How about switchblades at school?"

Hmmmm? "Do you like the picture of a little boy carrying a switchblade to school?" My goodness, No!

Even the thought is frightening.

There are a hundred kinds of blades for a hundred different purposes; a switchblade is a weapon, not a tool. They aren't for any boy whose parents care.

Friend — "One hears and reads about such things." I think a boy's father should introduce him to knives and stress they can be a hazard as well as a pleasure . . . that primarily a knife is a hand tool; that we have knives for cutting through underbrush, for butchering meats, for preparing foods, for carving, for serving foods, for cutting specific materials; and then we have weapons.

The beginner should be shown too, how to use and care for his pocketknife.

Why this switchblade diversion? Friend — "Oh . . . you seemed so enthusiastic about boys having a pocketknife; and it was something you didn't bring up."

Silence.

Friend — "My son carries a pocketknife, and what you said about a boy and his knife sort of fitted in with the way we feel about it too."

Uh, huh. I think I've been preaching again. But the importance of a pocketknife was born in me one summer years ago when we had a small supply of wooden lathes and no knife. Raised a nice pile of shavings and several blisters with kitchen knives on that occasion, to say nothing of mother's objections.

But to get back to the wrong kind of knife: they're easy to buy . . . not necessarily, a "switch," of course. The blades are long, slender and tapered to murderous points . . . I suppose unless you watched out a youngster will somehow come into possession of one.

Friend — "Do you think sometime when you write a column the other side of knife-carrying might be mentioned?"

It should be. Maybe Saturday. See you around sometime.

Other Editors Saying --- America Needs President

(Greensboro Daily News)

Technically Jim Hagerty is absolutely right.

When the President of the United States "wants to go any place that he wants to with his wife that is his business and nobody else's."

So when Mr. Eisenhower ties up hundreds of thousands of dollars of government equipment and personnel to make a 2,945-mile detour to drop his wife in Arizona, most of the American people will agree that no explanation is due. Even the two extra limousines driven across country from Georgia to Phoenix so Ike and Mamie could ride in their own automobiles is just part of the big-time business of the presidency.

If the President wants to transport Mamie's sister and another friend to take the beauty treatment at the $400 to $700 a week Elizabeth Arden resort, that is his own business. Clare Boothe Luce followed the same routine after her paint poisoning experience in Italy, and Mrs. Eisenhower is known to be in frail health.

So all this furor—akin to that generated by Harry Truman's letter to the music critic—is a minor tempest in a teapot. The President lost no "government" time on his weekend trip; perhaps even the pilots themselves had to make so many hours.

Yet, like Truman's blast, the Presidents' failure to recognize the psychological backwash of his perfectly normal gesture to a sick wife is disturbing. Ordinarily Mr. Eisenhower is keenly sensitive to public opinion and the likely reverberations about even little things. Much of his behavior since his mild stroke has shown a changing attitude about such matters. In the relentless urge to escape the grievous heavy burdens of the presidency he has been spending more and more time away from his desk. His first trip to Georgia for more golfing and sun, followed by the hunting vacation at George Humphrey's estate, indicates a growing inability or lack of desire to grapple with White House problems.

This, more than monetary value of his excursions, is alarming. Regardless of Sherman Adams' regard, the presidency cannot run without a President. The man on the spot ought to do the job—or step aside.

It is tragic indeed that the great American military reputation of Mr. Eisenhower, and his years of conscientious duty to his country, must be dissipated in this decline. It is hard not to feel the deepest sympathy for Mr. Eisenhower, even while fully realizing that the crisis he has brought on himself and his country is of his own making.

Opinions In Brief

EISENHOWER'S TRIBUTE TO THE GUARD

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER, THEN GENERAL OF THE ARMY, WARMLY PRAISED THE NATIONAL GUARD IN THESE WORDS: "...ITS SERVICE IS OF MOUNTING IMPORTANCE TO OUR SECURITY AND TO NATIONAL LEADERSHIP TOWARD A STABLE, PEACEFUL WORLD."

Where there are a number of applicants for the same staff work is done on all the applications, a special examiner holds hearings, and then the FCC holds hearings on the examiner's recommendations. More months.

Finally, even if the FCC grants a license to one applicant, the others turned down can go into court to fight the FCC decisions. That can take years.

A New Approach In Peace Hunt

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The agreement for exchange of scientists and scholars with Russia, writes Mrs. G.H. of Passaic, N.J., "seems to me like an empty and meaningless gesture, in view of our serious differences with the Soviet. What does the State department expect to achieve through this deal?"

Answer: Rightly or wrongly, Secretary Dulles thinks that the exchange will prove worthwhile in bettering relations with Russia, regardless of political and economic disputes. It is, in fact, an effort to approach Moscow through channels entirely different from those we have tried in the past.

SCIENTISTS INTERNATIONALISTS IN CHARACTER The intellectualism of scientists and scholars, according to this widely held theory, is international in character. It transcends national boundaries, reaching into realms of mind and space which politicians dare not traverse. In other words, these intellectuals live and think in a sort of separate world.

As the behavior of certain of our intellectuals has demonstrated, this attitude can be dangerous. But when kept within bounds, it can produce a meeting of minds that will be helpful to international relations. The exchange of nonpolitically minded men may lead to a mutual understanding and sympathy which men like Dulles and Gromyko, Eisenhower and Khrushchev, as well as their predecessors at Washington and Moscow, have not been able to foster.

MEETING OF INTELLECTUALS MIGHT DO GOOD Finally, as Washington views the transaction, it cannot hurt, and it might help to narrow the gulf between the democracies and the dictatorships. Finally, it must be recognized that, in view of the prospective conquest of outer space, scientists have achieved an eminence which they never enjoyed in the past.

A Mr. Vernon, Ohio, woman who signs her letter only as "A Reader," raises a question which is extremely controversial, but which has occurred to many other correspondents. She writes:

"I wonder if some of the politicians who have exploited the Negro for their votes realize how many votes they are losing in states like Ohio. Many, many white people are changing their minds, and have become sympathetic to the South, especially since the use of force at Little Rock.

"A good Southern Democrat could get a lot of votes for President in the next election. Although I am a Republican, I cannot go along with them any more, unless we have new men on the Supreme Court and as Secretary of Agriculture."

Answer: In one form or another, I have received many letters in this vein, expressing sympathy for the South's racial difficulties, severe criticism of the Supreme Court, and, of course, condemnation of the conscientious and wrongly condemned Ezra Taft Benson.

Costly Start In TV

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — You want a TV station? You need money. Lots of it. Not just for building the station and all that goes into it. But thousands and thousands just to apply for a license to run one.

No wonder a House subcommittee now is investigating the pressures put on the Federal Communications Commission, which grants the licenses.

(Those in a very good position to know estimate it costs $300,000 to $600,000 to build a TV station and get it started if it's in a major, or big city, area, and perhaps no less than $200,000 if it's in a smaller place.)

That's after a man gets a license. But all the work and help necessary to get the license may run from $15,000 on up into hundreds of thousands of dollars, not to mention the time which may be anywhere from many months to years.

This will give some idea of what's involved in simply applying for a TV station license. First, you get a number of forms to fill out. Then you start hiring lawyers and engineers.

To begin with, there are legal requirements. If you're an individual, are you a citizen? If you're a corporation, are you qualified to do business? You'll have to meet state requirements too.

Next: questions about your finances, meaning proof that you can build the station and afford to keep it running until the profits start coming in.

You must show the FCC — in complete layout — the kind of programs you'll present if you get the license. This means programs hour by hour for at least a week, plus explanations of how much time for commercial, for sustaining programs, and programs of public service.

About this time you get down to the engineering part. To build a station you must have land. This means you must buy it — before knowing whether you'll get a license — or lease it or get an option on it.

It must be a location that won't interfere with other nearby channels. And there are engineering details about the size of the transmitter, and so on, worlds of details.

In addition: maps of the area, photographs of the proposed station site from all directions.

All this takes months to prepare. If you're the only one asking for a license in a particular area, you can get faster action than if others are applying for the same license.

The FCC's Broadcasting Bureau staff — lawyers, accountants, engineers — go over your application, if you are the only applicant, and then, if satisfied, can recommend to the seven-man FCC that it give you a license. It can do so.

But even this takes months. Where there are a number of applicants for the same staff work is done on all the applications, a special examiner holds hearings, and then the FCC holds hearings on the examiner's recommendations. More months.

Finally, even if the FCC grants a license to one applicant, the others turned down can go into court to fight the FCC decisions. That can take years.

Washington, Kinston Clash For NEAC Tourney Title

Kinston Downs GHS, 62-59; Pack Nips New Bern, 53-50

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

Washington and Kinston battle tonight for the Northeastern Conference Tourney title here at the ECC Gymnasium.

The winner of tonight's tilt will then face regular-season champion New Bern for the league championship and the right to represent the loop in the State Class AA Tournament.

Washington and Kinston pulled a pair of major upsets last night in the semi-finals of the three-day tourney to earn their berths in the big game tonight. Kinston trimmed favored Greenville 62-59 in a double-overtime-sudden-death affair; Washington slapped down top-seeded New Bern 53-50 in the second game of the evening.

GHS-Kinston
A capacity crowd watched Greenville jump away to a 16-point halftime lead in the opening ball game, only to have Kinston blow it up in their faces. Coach Paul Jones' Red Devils came back with a blistering 24-point third quarter while the Phantoms were getting only nine. The Devils outscored the favorites 12-11 in the final period, to gain a 59-59 tie in the final minute of play.

A three-minute overtime was put into effect. Greenville controlled the opening tap and decided to hold the ball for the entire period and gamble on one shot. Guards Walker Allen and John Hudson stayed out deep and dribbled to themselves until only two seconds remained. They missed the shot and the score remained 59-59.

It was decided that a sudden-death overtime would be added to the second overtime period. That means that the first team to accumulate two points wins automatically.

Greenville got the ball again and Allen and Hudson continued their dribble-fest. With only 21 seconds gone, Kinston forward Johnny Laws was fouled. He sank the first of his free tosses but missed the second. Jimmy Hearne nabbed the rebound, tapped it in for the Devils, and Kinston had a 62-59 win.

Hearne Starred
Although Kinston's Charlie Lewis snared high scoring honors with 23 points and was chiefly responsible for cutting the Greenville lead to ribbons, Jim Hearne was the night's hero.

It was Hearne's final-second basket that tied the game 59-59 and his tap in that won it, two overtimes later.

Greenville scoring was sparked by Dick Evans and Peanut Nunn who had 15 each, and Hudson who added 14.

Washington - New Bern
A fired-up Washington Pam-Pack stunned East Carolina Gymnasium with a brand of ball that completely whipped top-seeded New Bern.

The sell-out crowd sat in disbelief as Washington reeled off a quick 4-0 lead over the Bears, extended it to 12-7, and then to 22-9.

By halftime, the Pam-Pack had run the score to 28-19, with Ward Marslender and Jimmy Silverthorne leading the way.

Coach J. F. Hockaday's Bruins managed to come back in the second half to outscore Washington 18-14 in the third quarter and 15-14 in the third, but could not catch up. They managed to cut the gap to three points in the final minutes but were never ahead in the game. The Pack had won, 53-50.

Strangely enough, New Bern had compiled a 19-2 overall season's mark, as compared to Washington's 9-9. In conference play, New Bern lost only one game—that one to Washington.

New Bern's Jon Burwell copped high scoring honors with 22 points.

Marslender had 15 and teammates Silverthorne and Knowles had 10 each.

Washington and Kinston battle tonight at 9:00 for the title. Greenville and New Bern work the consolation match at 7:30. A capacity crowd is expected to be on hand for the games.

ECC-ALUMNI GRID GAME—These five boys will take part in the East Carolina-Alumni football game at the Pirate Stadium this afternoon at 3:00. The first three boys will hold positions on Coach Jack Boone's varsity squad; the last two will be among the members of the Alumni squad. The contest will feature ECC's probable 1958 team against a group of former ECC greats.

High Point Defeats ECC, 79-72

Panthers, Bears In Championship Tilt

LEXINGTON — High Point's Purple Panthers overcame an 11-point deficit to whip East Carolina 79-72 here in the semi-final rounds of the North State Conference Basketball Tournament.

Lenoir Rhyme, the top-seeded club, downed a stubborn Western Carolina outfit, 53-50, in the second game of the evening.

The two clubs, Lenoir Rhyme and High Point, battle it out tonight here at the Lexington YMCA gymnasium for the North State championship.

East Carolina opened with a quick 34-23 lead shortly before the end of the first half of play and it appeared that the Pirates would run away with the second-ranked Panthers. Bobby Dunbar and Steve Afendis combined their scoring efforts to narrow the gap to 39-33 by halftime.

In the second half, the Bucs lost their scoring punch and Dunbar, Afendis, and Maury Beauchot led a drive that gave High Point the lead, 42-41, with 17 minutes remaining in the game. Dunbar sank two from the floor, Beauchot got another, and Afendis added two more to spark the drive.

The lead switched hands four more times and the game was tied twice before the Panthers moved in front to stay, 53-51, on a two-hand push shot by Bobby Pharr, with 11 minutes left.

High Point extended the margin to nine points, 61-52, and hung on from there. Though Joe Plaster, Don Smith, and Guy Mendenhall continued to work well on the boards for the Bucs, Coach Howard Porter's Pirates could not get their scoring machine in operation again.

With 55 seconds remaining in the contest, ECC's Don Smith, freshman forward, clashed with Dunbar in a fist fight. Players and officials intervened and the two and Smith was ejected from the game.

Smith was high scorer for the night with 20 points. ECC's Ike Riddick also garnered 11. High for High Point were Crockett (15), Pharr (14) and Dunbar (13).

About the NAIA
The 79-72 loss drops East Carolina out of the running now for the North State Conference title, but the Bucs turn anxious eyes toward the finals. Therein lies their chance to enter the NAIA competition.

East Carolina will be able to participate in the NAIA playoffs if top-seeded Lenoir Rhyme whips High Point. An NAIA ruling from Commissioner Stansovich earlier said that ECC would be picked as the No. 2 team from the conference in the district playoffs, should either EC or Lenoir Rhyme win the tourney. The reason for this is because the Bears already have a place in the playoff sewed up on their 15-1 season's record; the district selects the two teams with the best overall records, plus the winners of the North State and Little Four Conference tourneys.

Should Lenoir Rhyme win both the tourney and the best-record slot, ECC would come along since the running. High Point and Lenoir Rhyme have each won it three times over the years.

The Panthers' trouble has been with injuries. Danny Sewell, their top scorer, has been unavailable, and frontliner Bill Huegele was injured in the first conference game and played only 40 seconds last night.

South Carolina played at Maryland today in a regionally televised game. Wake Forest is at N.C. State tonight and Furman of the Southern Conference is at Clemson.

Several places in the final standings remained in doubt. N.C. State could tie North Carolina for second by winning tonight, but a Wolfpack loss coupled with a Maryland victory would put the Terps in a third-place tie with State. And victories by both Wake Forest and South Carolina would tie the two teams with Clemson for sixth place.

The final standings determine pairings for the championship-deciding ACC tournament next Thursday through Saturday.

troubled by the prospect of three rough games in as many nights.

"We played five games in eight days after midterm exams this year," Bradley pointed out. "We won them all, and the last one (a 73-57 victory over Clemson) was our best game of the string."

Bradley might also have pointed out that the first of that five-game string was a 72-68 upset of the national power West Virginia. It is the only defeat the Mountaineers have suffered this season, first brought Duke national attention and it was the second win of what was to be an 11-game victory string.

The Blue Devils ended their regular season last night with a home court victory over North Carolina, 59-46. It insured Duke the top spot in the ACC with the season ending for all teams tonight.

As for the outcome of the tournament, Bradley would say only that the ACC "is so even it'll be real tough." Duke is ranked seventh in the nation, and three other ACC members are among the top 20—North Carolina, No. 9; North Carolina State, No. 11; and Maryland, No. 17.

The Blue Devils are back at full strength for the first time in almost a week. Bucky Allen returned to action last night after a flu bout, scored 11 points and was a demon on loose balls. Bob Vernon scored 16 points. Paul Schmidt and Jim Newcome 11 each and Bobby Joe Harris 10 for Duke, which hit for 53.8 per cent on its floor shots.

North Carolina could hit on only 29.7 per cent, and Pete Brennan, the Tar Heels' top scorer this season, scored only 10 points. Harvey Saiz had 12.

Virginia handed South Carolina its eighth loss in nine games with a 77-70 victory last night. Ray Percolla, who scored 24 points for the second time, led a Gamecock comeback in the second half that brought South Carolina to a 66-all tie with eight minutes left. But Virginia pulled ahead again.

Mike Calahan had 23 points for South Carolina, which has a 3-10 conference record and is tied with Wake Forest for seventh place. Bill Metzger had 14, John Haner 12 and Dick Stobbs 10 for Virginia, which has fifth place sewn up with a final ACC mark of 6-8, 10-12 overall.

Duke football coach Bill Murray was critical of McGuire's action. He said "It was an uncalled for demonstration. No athletic team will have trouble walking off this court. They could have gone off without any trouble."

Sime Absent For ACC Track Meet

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Track stars from all Atlantic Coast Conference campuses showed their mettle today in the fifth annual indoor games, but one of the top individual performers was out of action.

Dave Sime, red-haired flash from Duke, was scratched from the games last night to prevent further injury to a muscle "twinge" he suffered last weekend. The junior from Fair Lawn, N. J., was defending ACC champion in the 800-yard dash.

The withdrawal of Sime left a large share of the spotlight on Burr Grimm of Maryland, a specialist in the mile, and North Carolina's Dave Scurlock, middle distance ace.

The Terps' strong track team was favored to retain its team title in the games, with Duke and North Carolina tabbed as the strongest rivals.

There also was competition for non-conference schools. Preliminaries and time trials began this morning, with finals for most events set for a night session beginning at 7 p.m.

Duke coach Bob Chambers said last night Sime was "almost all right" after the injury one week ago, when he was scratched from the national AAU championships in New York. However, Chambers said he thought it best to pass up the ACC games.

Sime will run again when Duke meets South Carolina in an outdoor meet late in March. "He'll be all right by then," Chambers said.

Unbeaten Ortiz Wants To Meet Bigger Boys

NEW YORK (AP)—Carlos Ortiz, unbeaten in 26 pro fights, thinks he is ready to mingle with the class of the lightweight division—Ralph Dupas, Kenny Lane and even Joe Brown, the Champion.

"He is ready," said Eddie Ferguson, Ortiz' manager, after the 21-year-old New Yorker won a unanimous decision over tough little Tommy Tibbs. "He is six months ahead of the schedule I had worked out for him. I am going to talk to Harry Markson, (managing director of the International Boxing Club) about a match with Dupas or Lane at the 135-pound limit.

"This fight was just what Carlos needed after a five-month layoff. We knew it was no cinch."

Tibbs, a sturdy little man from Boston who had lost 43 fights before last night's effort, gave Ortiz a rough time in the middle rounds of the 10-round match at Madison Square Garden.

Weighing 132 pounds to Ortiz' 135½, Tibbs gave away weight, height and reach but always kept on the attack. He slammed away at the body when Ortiz tried to coast in the middle rounds.

"I thought it could have gone either way," said Tibbs. "He is a very good boxer with good hand speed."

Judge Bert Grant scored it 6-4, Judge Joe Agnello 8-2 and Referee Harry Kessler 5-4-1, all for Ortiz. The AP card was 6-4 for Ortiz. A small crowd that watched the nationally televised match agreed with the verdict.

Carolina A&T In NCAA Tourney

DURHAM (AP)—Top-seeded North Carolina A & T and unranked North Carolina College play here tonight for the championship of the 13th annual CIAA basketball tournament.

Virginia State and fourth-seeded Morgan State of Baltimore play the consolation game.

A T eliminated Morgan State last night 83-66 and North Carolina College dumped Virginia State 77-65.

Two Dozen Will Be Official Hold-Outs Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some two dozen baseball players became official holdouts to their major league clubs with the opening of full squad drills today, including Joe Carnine and his "shooting" for the moon" bunch of champion Milwaukee Braves.

Of 10 National League players still unsigned, nine are the direct concern of Braves' president, Carnine, who claims they are shooting for the moon just because they happened to win the World Series.

Braves still unsatisfied are pitchers Lew Burdette, Gene Conley, Don McMahon, and Bob Buhl, shortstop Johnny Logan, first baseman Frank Torre, utility infielder Felix Mantilla, and outfielders Wes Covington and Bob Frazier. With the Cincinnati Reds signing first baseman George Crowe last night, the Pittsburgh Pirates, unable to come to terms with rookie pitcher Roger Osenbaugh, have the only other hold-out among NL clubs.

It's another story in the American League, where only the Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers are without holdouts.

Baltimore's Orioles top the list with seven, including pitchers George Zuvverink and Jack Harshman. The Yankees signed pitcher Tom Sturdivant (16-6) for an estimated $18,000 yesterday but still have to reach agreement with first baseman Bill Skowron and possibly veteran lefty Tommy Byrne, who is reported trying to decide whether to play another season.

Outfielder Minnie Minoso and shortstop Chico Carrasquel remain unsigned by the Cleveland Indians. Kansas City holdouts are Virgil Trucks, the 38-year-old righthander, and infielder Hector Lopez. The Washington Senators need signatures from pitcher Pete

Duke Whips Carolina 59-46 To Take AC Championship

Brawl Follows Duke-UNC Game

DURHAM (AP)—A young man got in a scuffle with a policeman, a crowd gathered around, and because of the melee coach Frank McGuire asked for a police escort for his North Carolina basketball team from the floor of Duke Indoor Stadium to the dressing room.

All this came shortly after Duke's Blue Devils trounced North Carolina 59-46 in last night's Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game.

At the end of the game, joyous Duke students carried coach Hal Bradley and the Duke team from the floor. Others cut the net from a basket.

One youth got involved in a struggle with one of some 15 Durham policemen who were on hand. In a struggle, the youth fell to the floor. The police formed a circle around him and the crowd gathered around the police. They apparently thought the boy was hurt.

However, a doctor arrived, examined the boy and told him to get up and walk off. The police remained in a circle and the crowd re-lined on the court.

Coach Frank McGuire had instructed his Tar Heels to remain at the players' bench at the end of the court farthest from the dressing rooms. The team remained there for 15 minutes after the game and then was escorted to the dressing room without incident.

Duke football coach Bill Murray was critical of McGuire's action. He said "It was an uncalled for demonstration. No athletic team will have trouble walking off this court. They could have gone off without any trouble."

Broadened Probe Of FCC 'Likely'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A broadened inquiry into the Federal Communications Commission appeared in prospect today as a House subcommittee reported that Richard A. Mack either resign from the FCC or be booted out.

House investigators, taking a weekend recess after several of them advised Mack to quit, indicated they plan to look into other contested TV channels granted by the FCC. So far, the House subcommittee has concentrated on the role played by Mack in a fight for TV Channel 10 in Miami.

Mack, shaken by the blunt criticism aimed at him, dramatically ended two days of testimony yesterday by promising he would "seriously consider" demands he resign.

Denounced by some subcommittee members as the tool of a conspiracy and unfit for the FCC job, Mack asked to be excused until next week. Subcommittee Chairman Harris (D-Ark) told him to return Wednesday.

Harris later told newsmen it was obvious the subcommittee will have to look into other contested TV channel cases.

"We can't take one and establish a pattern," he said.

For a month the subcommittee has been investigating charges of pressure being exerted in last year's award by the FCC of Miami's much sought after Channel 10 to Public Service Television Inc., a National Airlines subsidiary. There were three other applicants for the license.

Mack, who voted with the 4-2 majority for Public Service, has acknowledged receiving thousands of dollars in loans and advances from an old friend, Miami attorney Thurman A. Whiteside who had pushed Public Service's case. But Mack insisted Whiteside helped him out of friendship and exerted no influence. The FCC commissioner also said he voted according to the evidence as he saw it.

Harris said Whiteside and A. Frank Katzenine, a loser in the Channel 10 contest, have been recalled for more testimony Monday.

Arrest Woman In Cutting Case

Elton Wallace, 23-year-old Negro of 601 Pamlico Avenue, received serious but not dangerous cuts in a fight last night at the corner of 10th and Clarke Streets.

City police have arrested Viola Blow, 39-year-old Negro woman of 600 Pamlico Avenue, in connection with the cutting. Charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, she has been released under a $500 bond. She is scheduled to be tried in City Court Monday.

Sometimes after the cutting, Wallace was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment. Police reported he was found bleeding on the street by a friend and taken to the Busy Bee Cafe, suffering from shock and loss of blood. He was transferred to the hospital by the Greenville Rescue Squad.

According to the Blow woman, the argument between she and Wallace started over a family affair. She was quoted as saying she picked up a bottle and struck the man several times, leaving him lying in the street.

Wallace's condition was described as "fair" this morning. An attending physician reported that he suffered deep lacerations about the left eye, left side of his face and nose and upper chest.

Unruffled Young Farmer Involved In Auto Wreck Just Prior To Honor

Charles Alfred Forbes, who was named North Carolina's Outstanding Young Farmer, was involved in a wreck as he drove to the banquet last night.

But it was a calm and collected young man who stepped forward to receive the award from Past State Jaycee President Edgar Gurganus.

"I'd like to thank each and every one of you for this award," Forbes said when the microphones were turned over to him. "It really makes you feel something down in here."

The 33-year-old Stokes area general and dairy farmer appeared unruffled as he received the congratulations of various local outstanding Young Farmers and others after the program.

Only a couple hours earlier the car which he was operating had been involved in a traffic accident at the Memorial Drive-Fifth St. intersection as Forbes headed for the banquet.

Highway Patrolman W. K. Chapman, who investigated, estimated damage to Forbes car at $800.

Driver of the second car involved was identified as W. F. Manning of Greenville Rt. 1. Manning was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way. Chapman said his investigation showed Manning made a left turn in front of Forbes' car. Manning's vehicle received $250 damage.

Neither of the drivers was injured, according to the patrolman. The winner's wreck wasn't the only misfortune to plague the Jaycees in their efforts to stage the banquet.

Recreation Institute Set For City Next Week

A Recreation Leadership Training Institute will be staged here Monday through Thursday of next week, Recreation Director Gordon Goodman announced this morning.

The Institute is being sponsored jointly by the North Carolina Recreation Commission and the Greenville Recreation Commission. Mrs. Ruth Garber Ehlers, staff member of the National Recreation Association, will conduct the four-day event. She will be assisted by Miss Virginia Gregory, member of the State Recreation Commission.

On Monday and Tuesday afternoon and night, the Institute will be held for Negroes at the South Greenville Recreation Center at the corner of Skinner and Howell streets. Hours are from 3:45-5:45 p.m. and 7:30-9:30 p.m.

The white Institute will be staged Wednesday and Thursday at the Elm Street Park Recreation Center. Afternoon sessions will be held daily from 3:45-5:45 and night sessions from 7:30-9:30.

According to Goodman the Institute will offer training opportunities to staff members, summer and part-time leaders to sharpen their skills and learn activities, games, techniques and ways of organizing programs. To be taken up are: active games, musical, folk and quiet games and games suitable for playgrounds, centers and clubs.

Goodman announced that registration for four sessions would be $3 for both Negro and white. Registration for one session will cost $1.

Anyone who is interested in Recreation can attend, the local Recreation Director noted.

hands." It was then that Gurganus called forth the third place winner to receive his award. Then the second place winner was called and finally Forbes came forth as top winner.

The Rev. John Drake, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church delivered the invocation. Guests were welcomed by Bill Taylor, president of the Greenville Jaycees. National director J. B. Smith recognized special guests.

All the Outstanding Young Farmers were of Jaycee age, 21 to 36. However they did not have to be members of a Jaycee club.

Williamson announced that the judges who chose the state winner were L. Y. Ballentine, North Carolina's commissioner of agriculture; D. S. Weaver, head of the N. C. State College Extension Service; and Bill Humphries farm editor of the Raleigh News and Observer.

Club President To Visit State

Kiwanis International President Park Arnold of California will make an official visit to the Kiwanis clubs of North Carolina at a meeting in the Community Building in Stantonsburg Tuesday, April 5.

Past Kiwanis Lt.-Gov. John T. Barnhill of Greenville made this announcement at last night's Kiwanis meeting in Greenville. He said the international president of Kiwanis and his party will be guests of Seventh Division Lt.-Gov. Rex Best of Stantonsburg.

Barnhill also announced that the Greenville Kiwanis Club won first place Achievement Award for 1954 in the Silver Division (clubs of 70 to 100 members) in the Carolinas Kiwanis District.

Dr. George Pastl of the social studies department of East Carolina College, was guest speaker for the Greenville club last night, and he discussed "Missiles and Press Analyses." Kiwanian Paul Toll had charge of the program.

Circle K Club President Paul Singleton and David Doolittle of the college and J. G. Proctor Jr. and Sue Ann Proctor were guests last night.

Evangelist

The Rev. Floyd B. Cherry will be the evangelist for revival services at Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church March 2-8. Services will begin each evening at 7:30 and special singing will be rendered at each service. The public is invited.

TV Film Report On Problems Of Schools Sunday

"Satellites, Schools and Survival," a half-hour television film report on vital problems and prospects of public schools, will be presented by two Eastern Carolina television stations Sunday.

The film will be presented by WNCN, Greenville, at 3:30 Sunday afternoon and by WITN, Washington, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Produced by the National Education Association, the aim of the film is to clarify the state of U. S. public education system in the wake of conflicting reports of classroom and teacher shortages, nature of the curriculum, training of scientists and other topics.

It includes statements and interviews with government and education leaders and a film-highlight history of education in the United States during the past 50 years.

Mayor Proclaims 'Vision' Week

Next week has been proclaimed "Save Your Vision Week" by Mayor S. Eugene West.

"Two out of three of our adult citizens depend on vision care to enable them to enjoy full lives," the mayor said in his proclamation. "Many neglect such preventive measures as proper lighting and periodic vision examinations.

"An increasing proportion of our population is in older age groups especially dependent on the aids of modern science to enjoy youthful vision."

The mayor proclaimed the Save Your Vision Week dedicated to the measures which will lead to the enjoyment of youthful vision.

service station. Chandler also reported finding several pocketbooks and knives missing from the station, located south of here on N.C. Highway 11.

The station, according to Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson was entered sometime Thursday night. Entrance to the building was gained through a rear window.

Brown's service station, located across the highway, was not entered. A window was broken out of the front door but bars prevented the pair from breaking into the building.

Chief Chandler noted that the two service stations are approximately three miles from here. "As far as I know neither man had a car," he said. "That's the most walking I have ever heard of anyone doing in one night."

Brown is a native of Pitt County. He reportedly moved to Baltimore in 1953. His accomplice is said to be a native of Maryland.

Assisting Chandler and another member of the Ayden Police Department in making the arrests were: Sheriff Tyson and two deputies and D.C. Martin, Winterville Police Chief.

Funeral Sunday For Mrs. E. L. Russell

FARMVILLE—Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Holloman Russell, wife of Ernest L. Russell, who died at 12:15 a.m. Friday at Pitt Memorial Hospital, will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Farmville Methodist Church. The Rev. L. C. Vereen, pastor, and the Rev. James T. Smith of Walsenburg, and the Rev. E. W. Holmes, Farmville Baptist minister, will officiate. Burial will be in Forest Hills Cemetery in Farmville. The body will be taken from the Farmville Funeral Home to the church at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Two Fire Calls At Apartments

Firemen answered two calls to the Forbes apartments at Cottage and Tenth Sts. yesterday afternoon and last night.

At 1:50 p.m. an oil hot water heater in an apartment occupied by J. Cobb caught fire.

Firemen reported the heater burned out and smoked up two apartments.

The fire rekindled in an adjacent apartment occupied by James A. Ross at 8:30 last night. A bathroom was damaged at that time.

The apartments are owned by C. Heber Forbes, fire department records show.

Found Baby Dead In Bed Friday

AYDEN—A three-month-old Negro infant was found dead in bed at its home near here early yesterday morning.

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse identified the dead baby as James A. Cobb, son of David Cobb and Sarah Cobb of Ayden Rt. 2. According to Rouse the child apparently died from pneumonia.

The baby was reportedly found in bed by a member of the immediate family. Rouse said he understood that the mother was in the hospital at the time.

Last Rites Sunday For Mrs. Iva Siepe

AYDEN—Mrs. Iva Siepe, 69, who made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bunton, R-1, Ayden, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital Friday morning. She was a daughter of the late Ezekiel and Nancy Edenfield of Georgia.

Funeral services will be held at Britt's Funeral Home in Ayden Sunday at 3 p.m. The Rev. Hubert Burruss, Free Will Baptist minister of Pinetops, will officiate. Surviving are a son, Edwin Siepe of Pakistan; three brothers, Tecumseh Edenfield of Miami, Fla., and Felix and Ezekiel Edenfield, both of Staten Island, N. Y. The family requests that no flowers be sent.

Exchange Club Inducts Members

The Greenville Exchange Club at its weekly meeting last night inducted three new members. Exchangee Tom Patterson briefly summarized the history of Exchange and welcomed as new members Bill Aldridge, Charlie Cooper and Mike Luskin. Aldridge is a manufacturers representative in Greenville. Cooper is with General Motors Acceptance Corporation and Luskin is with the Dupont Corporation.

Program Chairman Patterson showed a movie entitled "The Story of Creative Capital." It was produced by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the DuPont Corporation.

Funeral Sunday For Miss Mary B. Lewis

Miss Mary Beffa Lewis died in Pitt Memorial Hospital at 5 p.m. Friday after being critically ill six days.

Funeral services will be held at the home, 205 Summit Street, at 2 p.m. Sunday by Dr. J. G. Joyce, her pastor, and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Miss Lewis, daughter of the late Capt. John Willis and Elizabeth Baskerville Lewis, was born and reared in Halifax county, Va., near Milton, N.C. She lived in New York City a number of years before coming to Greenville to live in 1941. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Greenville.

Surviving are two sisters, Miss Kate Lewis of the home and Mrs. Sallie L. Davis of Peace College, Raleigh.

FIRE DAMAGE
GREENSBORO (AP)—An estimated $5,000 fire damage was done to the auditorium stage at the Peck School here yesterday. The fire broke out after most of the 618 pupils had been dismissed for the day.

Colored News

The Women Moved In, Enjoy Careers In Business

BOOKKEEPER POSITION . . . Mrs. Thomas N. Nance works as a bookkeeper for one of Greenville's business establishments.

DICTAPHONE USED . . . "Typing from a dictaphone is a common thing now in a business office," says Mrs. Eugene Windham.

RESPONSIBLE JOB . . . Handling money during the day, Mrs. Thomas Boyd is a bank teller.

MARKS TWENTY-ONE YEARS . . . In the business world, Mrs. Ruth Whichard has many duties in her filing job.

CATER TO ALL TYPES . . . When working in a drug store, "you meet and cater to all types of people," adds Miss Alice Little.

In the early days of this nation "the woman's place is in the home" was the cry of the American male.

But in the 1920's a feminine rebellion began taking place. The ladies began trading in mops and brooms for typewriters and cash registers.

The revolution has continued unabated and now Greenville and Pitt County hundreds of women can be found behind the store counters and in business and professional offices.

Their move into the business world enabled the ladies to enlarge the family income or, if single, to become self-supporting.

Has the change been beneficial?

One lady clerk in a Greenville shop says holding a job has taught her to "adjust and cater to the many kinds of people under various circumstances."

A beauty operator explains, "Hair styling requires creative work. Since my hobby is creating new and unusual things, my work enables me to be at my best."

Working in a bank, a teller states, "Dealing with money keeps my mind alert which helps me to be able to work under rushed conditions."

"With no children I enjoy working and adding to my family's financial security," added another member of the bank.

A young married woman notes, "I work to help increase our worldly goods while my husband is attending college. My high school commercial course was sufficient for the bookkeeping job which I hold. Of course, I think everyone should go to college, but since I had to work my commercial course helped me a lot."

When asked what she thinks of women working in the public, she says, "If it's possible for a wife to stay at home which is her first responsibility, I certainly think she should."

Senate Votes Higher Postal Rates, Wages

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has passed bills that would sharply raise postal rates and the pay of 1 1/2 million federal workers. But the postal measure faces a highly uncertain fate.

Republicans predicted the postal bill would be vetoed by President Eisenhower because the pay boost it would provide for 500,000 postal workers is far greater than what the administration wants.

Raises for one million classified civil service workers, included in a separate bill, are more in line with administration recommendations.

Democrats said they believed the House would decline to accept the temporary 5-cent stamp on non-local letters, the main new rate feature in the Senate bill. They said they were sure the House would insist on a flat 4-cent letter rate which it voted last year for first class mail.

The rate increases voted by the Senate last night would bring in about 732 millions annually each of the next three years. But the pay boosts passed yesterday would total 737 millions, more than offsetting the new revenue.

In passing its rate bill last year, the House approved increases that would bring in 527 million dollars a year in new revenue. The House rate bill contained no provisions for postal pay increases.

Sen. Carlson (R-Kan.), administration spokesman on postal legislation, said it might take months for Senate-House conferees to work out solutions of problems involved in the postal rate-pay measure.

But he said in an interview he is hopeful the postal pay raise could be brought down to a figure which would be acceptable to Eisenhower.

The President last September vetoed bills that would have allowed an average pay hike of 12 1/2 cents for postal workers and 11 per cent for classified employees. These were not tied in with rate increase legislation.

The Senate last night tacked onto its rate bill an amendment to boost the pay of postal employees by an average of 12 1/4 per cent. This would include a 7 1/4 per cent hike to each employee, plus cost-of-living bonuses for low-paid workers. The total cost would be about 320 million dollars a year.

Before the postal bill was passed by voice vote, Carlson offered a proposal for a flat 8 1/4 per cent pay raise. This was 1 per cent higher than he had been willing to go before and 2 1/4 per cent more than Eisenhower recommended last month. But Carlson's substitute was rejected 54-29.

Also passed by voice vote was a separate measure to give the one million classified civil service employees a 7 1/4 per cent raise. This would cost about 417 millions annually.

The chief difference on rates between Senate and House bills is the Senate's 5-cent stamp on out-of-town letters for three years starting July 1. The rate on local letters would be 4 cents.

The 5-cent rate is calculated to bring in 175 million dollars extra for each of the three years, with this money to be earmarked for modernization of postal facilities.

The House voted for a flat 4-cent letter rate, compared with the present 3-cent stamp which has been in use since 1932.

The Senate voted for an 8-cent airmail rate, as compared with 7 cents in the House bill and the present 6 cents.

The Senate also voted big increases in rates on newspaper, magazine, and advertising mail, but these were largely similar to boosts provided by the House.

Christian Church Announcements

At the morning service Sunday at the choir, under the direction of Mrs. H. L. Carter, will be singing the anthem entitled "Let My Prayer," by Purcell, and the pastor has announced to preach on the theme, "What Does It Mean To Be Lost?" The last in a series of lectures on the history and teachings of the Disciples of Christ will be given by the pastor at the Sunday school lesson period. This is intended for the classes in the adult department. The youth organizations will meet Sunday evening as usual with a light supper at 8:00 with Sammy White as leader of the three youth groups.

The board of officers of the church will meet on Tuesday night at 7:30 with Robert S. Moye, chairman, presiding. There are always interesting and important items for consideration at the board meetings which require the attendance of all members of the board.

The circles of the Christian Women's Fellowship will meet on Monday, March 3, as follows:

- No. 1, with Mrs. H. R. Phillips, 8:30 p.m.
  - No. 2, with Mrs. Sidney Dunn, 8:30 p.m.
  - No. 3, with Mrs. Harvey Briley, 8:30 p.m.
  - No. 4, with Mrs. Allan Stokes, 8:30 p.m.
  - No. 5, with Mrs. Tommie Evans, 8:00 p.m.
  - No. 6, with Mrs. W. M. Scales Jr., 8:00 p.m.
  - No. 7, 8, and 9 will meet in the Ladies Parlor, 8:00 p.m. (Miss Margaret Stevens of Japan is the featured speaker.)
- The flowers in the chancel Sunday will be presented by Mrs. L. B. Fleming who was a faithful member of the church and the chairman of the board of officers for many years.

The fullest cooperation of the members of the church and Sunday school has been called for in the enlistment of new members in the church as we march up to the Easter season. Prayer Covenant cards have been passed out asking for daily prayers in behalf of those especially desired to come into the church. Prospective members have been called for and an enlarged attendance at all services.

A week of preaching services will be conducted in the church during the week March 16-21 with Rev. Robert E. Jarman of Greenville doing the preaching and the Rev. Howard James leading the singing. The members of the 8th St. Christian Church and the Hooker Memorial Christian Church will be cooperating in this evangelistic program.

Bank Bandit Had A Briefcase

DENVER (AP)—A bandit equipped with a briefcase, a gun and a note took $2,024 from a downtown bank. He delayed pursuers by locking the bank doors with padlock and chain.

The treasurer and a customer at the Capitol Federal Savings & Loan Assn. gave chase through a side door, however, but were frightened off when the robber waved a gun.

Mrs. Martha Philabaum said the man showed her a note which read: "The FBI is behind me. Give me all your money."

He opened a briefcase to show a gun inside. Mrs. Philabaum followed instructions, then sounded the alarm as the gunman fled.

Light Snow Sifting Down Over Large Part Of U. S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Light snow sifted down on a large section of the country early today, adding a fresh blanket to the blizzard-churned western plains and dampening an area that stretched from the Rocky Mountains eastward into New England.

New snows in the plains were light but the Weather Bureau forecast locally heavy snows for southern Colorado during the weekend, spreading across the plains by Monday.

A storm that pounded New England and the Middle Atlantic area with wind, rain and snow Friday moved out to sea today after rain-falls ranging up to three inches dissolved heavy snow cover and posed serious flood threats for a time.

Light snow or snow flurries occurred along the eastern slopes of the Rockies and eastward through the upper and middle Mississippi valleys. The precipitation area continued eastward as light rain or snow in the Great Lakes, light rain in the Ohio Valley and light snow in parts of New England.

Three inches of new snow fell overnight at North Platte, Neb., and Redwood Falls, Minn., and two inches was measured at Scotts Bluff, Neb.

In the Northeast, Rumford, Maine, received three inches of snow, and a sudden snowstorm late Friday dumped about a foot of snow on Madison, N.H. The storm delayed at least two trains.

Fraser, perennially the nation's coldest spot high in the Colorado Rockies, reported seven "above zero" elsewhere in the west, temperatures ranged generally in the low 20s in most sections.

The blizzard which heaped snow into huge drifts Friday snarled communications, blocked roads and closed schools. Snowfall in the area measured as deep as 16 inches at Chadron, Neb.

Generally mild weather prevailed along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts and west of the Rockies. Fair skies were overhead in many parts of the Southeast and the West Coast area.

Continued cold was the prescription for most of the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys as well as the plains. And snow flurries were expected to persist in the upper Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes region, parts of the Ohio Valley, and in New England.

Some early morning reports: New York City, 41 and cloudy; Chicago, 31 and cloudy; Boston, 32 and snow; Detroit, 35 and cloudy; Minneapolis, 26 and snow; Washington, 50 and cloudy; Des Moines, 31 and snow; Atlanta, 50 and clear; Seattle, 41 and clear; Miami, 74 and cloudy; San Francisco, 55 and clear; Dallas, 46 and fair; Los Angeles, 52 and fair; St. Louis, 38 and snow; Phoenix, 49 and clear.

Near-Capacity Crowd Watches Variety Show

A near-capacity crowd watched a variety show in Wright Auditorium at East Carolina College last night. The show, sponsored by Phi Kappa Alpha, featured Jimmy Capps, disc jockey from Raleigh, as master of ceremonies.

The show opened with three songs by the Blue Notes, a vocal group. They were followed with three selections by the Foot Notes, an instrumental quartet. The next performer, recording star Wayne Handy, received an enthusiastic reception from the audience for his three rock 'n roll numbers.

Phi Kappa Alpha sponsored the variety show to raise money for East Carolina College's campus radio station WWWS.

Also on the program was Dot Records recording star Henry Wilson. The handsome, mellow-voiced young singer rendered two songs, one of which was his latest recording.

East Carolina was well represented on the show by the Playboy Jazz Quartet, an instrumental group, and Mike Uzell, a vocalist. The Playboy Jazz Quartet, which consisted of a pianist, drummer, bass player, and saxophonist played three familiar numbers. Mike Uzell, the hit of the show, sang three numbers for the enthusiastic audience.

Tom and Chee Davis, two entertainers from Nashville, N.C., did several dances throughout the show. Their version of "Frankie and Johnny" was popular with the audience.

The entire show was recorded and will be played on Radio WPTF in Raleigh Monday night.

Colonial Records recording star Doug Franklin, accompanied by the Blue Notes, sang three numbers near the end of the show.

The two hour program ended with all the performers on stage singing the theme song of Jimmy Capps' radio show "Our Best To You."

An inch of topeoil which may have taken centuries to accumulate can be washed away in a single bad storm.

Social Security Expert Here On Each Thursday

Times of the weekly visit of the Social Security representative to Greenville has been changed to Thursday of each week, effective immediately, N. A. Avera, District Manager, announced today.

This change is being made to enable the Social Security Administration to better serve the people of Pitt County, and because of the unprecedented number of applications for benefits being received by that office, Avera said.

The Social Security representative will be in the Council Room, City Hall in Greenville each Thursday, from 10:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., beginning March 6. Avera emphasized, however, that better service could be given at the District Office in Rocky Mount, where a larger staff is available. The Social Security District Office is located at 116 South Franklin Street in Rocky Mount, and office hours are from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday. That office is closed on Saturday.

The large number of Pitt County citizens now eligible for Social Security benefits cannot possibly be taken care of at the Greenville contact station on Thursday, Avera said. For this reason, he urges that those who can do so go to the District Office in Rocky Mount to file their applications.

Avera stated that more efficient service could be given if persons who apply for benefits would take with them the documents and records necessary for establishment of their claims. These include:

- The individual's Social Security Card or Account Number.
- Evidence of date of birth, such as old Family Bible; an old insurance policy; certified copy of marriage record; or any old record or document which shows the date of birth of the applicant.
- Self-employed persons, including farmers, should take complete copies of all Federal Income Tax Returns filed by them within the past two years, together with the cancelled checks, Money Order receipts or other evidence that the self-employment tax has been paid.

Another Drops Fair Trade Plan

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Schick, Inc., makers of electric shavers and lighters, had dropped its fair trade price policy.

It said the action has been taken to be sure Schick distributors and dealers are competitive.

General Electric Co. and Sunbeam Corp. recently announced similar policy changes.

Under fair trade, the manufacturers establish retail and wholesale prices.

Raps Shuttling Care To Schools

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dr. W. W. Bauer, director of health education for the American Medical Assn., says the tendency of parents to shuttle responsibility for raising their children to schools and other community agencies could be destructive to the nation.

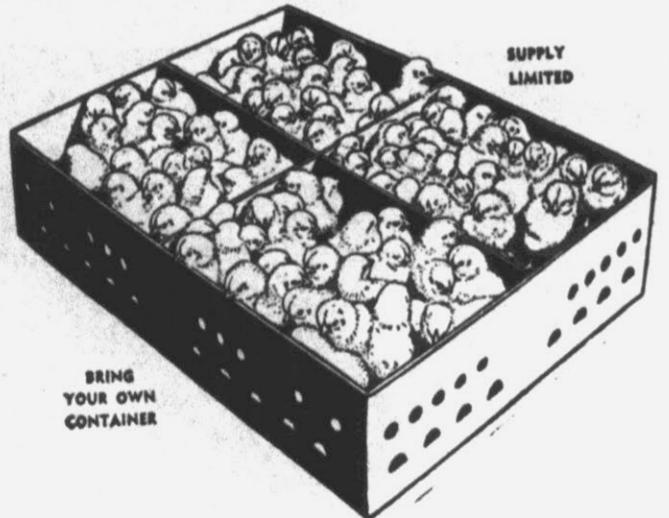

"The home is the center around which this democracy was founded," Dr. Bauer told a Temple University luncheon meeting.

He cautioned against indiscriminate use of psychiatry for troubled college students, saying many problems can be settled on a common sense level.

Business Climate As Changeable As Weather

By SAM DAWSON NEW YORK (AP)—The business climate in March seems sure to be as changeable as the weather. On the sunny side, President Eisenhower is counting on a seasonal rise in employment to perk up public confidence. A covey of industrialists are predicting that in retrospect February will be seen to have marked the bottom of the slump in their lines. On the blustery side March will blow in some more unpleasant statistics—mostly telling how bad things were in February. Merchants will worry about bad weather and an early Easter which may hold down apparel sales. Taxpayers will find a mixture of sweet and sour too. There seems sure to be more talk in March of cutting taxes. But at the same time the Pentagon is set to ask for another hike in defense spending. The Interior Department is looking for ways to spend money faster on public works already in progress, and is asking Congress for record sums in the next go-round. The Treasury may borrow to pay the bills for awhile, but sooner or later the way it gets the money is from tax collections. March may see a testing of the widely held belief that home building is due to pick up. Several top steelmen say that customer inquiries give them hope that orders will pick up moderately in March. A leading maker of machine tools says that new orders are a bit healthier now than last fall. He believes the low point in his industry has been passed. If so, March could see a step or two away from the wait-and-see position which many business firms have taken up in recent months. Farmers in North Carolina are diverting some of their widespread acreage to growing more profitable pimento peppers.

Given an assist from the weather, March could bring some relief from high food prices as Southern produce farms start producing well again. Good weather might thaw out some of that price resistance which has held auto sales down in recent months. Few look for any real upsurge of industry in March. But if it does nothing more than stop the downspin many will be happy.

Ranked Tenth In New Building

RALEIGH — Greenville ranked tenth among North Carolina cities in total valuation of new construction authorized during the month of January. Local permits were issued for new construction valued at $250,245. Cities which ranked ahead of Greenville in values of new construction authorized were: Charlotte, $1,411,508; Durham, $885,478; Fayetteville, $265,975; Gastonia, $344,650; Greensboro, $3,692,076; High Point, $394,120; Raleigh, $1,487,982; Rocky Mount, $724,927; Winston-Salem, $594,907. Other cities and their new construction figures reported by State Labor Commissioner Frank Craze were: Elizabeth City, $23,500; Goldsboro, $180,700; Kinston, $155,000; New Bern, $82,746; Wilmington, $118,530; Wilson, $246,750. Crane's report covered cities with more than 10,000 population. Building permits issued by public officials in 30 North Carolina cities totaled $12,565,513. The January total was 15 per cent above the $10,907,169 figure for the same month last year, according to Craze.

A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

CHAPTER 17

Obediently, I walked past the man with the sap, past the man with the gun, and stooped and twisted into the back seat of the sedan. The man with the sap climbed behind the wheel, closed his door, started the car and groined into gear. I had barely noticed the fact that there was a third man in the car, seated next to the driver in the front seat. The first thing I noticed about him was the roll of fat on the back of his neck. The next thing I noticed was the coconut straw hat that he wore. The coconut straw hat sported a wide, flamboyantly red and blue band.

I leaned over and tapped him on the shoulder. "Hey, Porky," I said. "I told you that hat band was no good for this cloak-and-dagger stuff. You didn't believe me, huh?"

He shrugged a fat shoulder. "How's Martia, Porky?" I asked. He turned his head and fastened a blinding, dead eye on me. "Martia?" he said. "Who's Martia?"

"And was it you who killed Joan Morris, you fat bum?" I felt anger welling up inside me. It was all I could do to keep from throwing myself at him, clawing for his throat.

I forced myself to wait.

The fat man turned again. He was quite an actor. This time he looked genuinely puzzled. "Joan Morris is dead?"

I was suddenly weary. "Don't give me that," I said.

"You killed her, Dolan! Yes, of course! She wouldn't tell you what you wanted her to tell you. You couldn't force her to tell you, and so you killed her. You killed her in a fit of rage!" He shook his head and clucked his tongue against the roof of his mouth.

"Very interesting, Dolan. Yes, indeed. I believe we've underestimated you."

I sighed and leaned back in my corner.

We drove south and left Miami on Highway 1. In less than thirty minutes we headed east down a shell road. Ten minutes later we jerked to a stop beside an asphalt airstrip. The area was enclosed in wire fencing ten feet high. At the end of the strip nearest us was a dilapidated hanger and a forlorn gas pump. In front of the hanger was a small twin-engine airplane. I knew little about airplanes, but I was able to identify this one—a Beechcraft.

The man beside me prodded me with his gun. "Outside, Dolan," he said.

There didn't seem to be much else to do. So I followed his instructions. I stood on the shoulder of the road and sniffed the air. The pungent, fishy odor of the tidal flats was strong. We weren't far from the sea.

The three others had gotten out of the car. The shadowy figure of a man I hadn't noticed before came from behind the Beechcraft, unlatched the wire gates opposite us and swung them open. He went back to the airplane. By the time we'd reached it the engines were roaring and the man who'd opened the gates for us was in the pilot's seat.

The man who'd been sitting beside me in the car was climbing into the airplane. The man who'd driven us out there hung back in the shadows. He, apparently, would be left behind with the car. The fat man sat behind me. He'd produced a gun from somewhere. Its muzzle prodded my back.

"Up," the fat man said.

My muscles tensed. I could see into the cabin of the Beechcraft. The man who'd entered it was moving forward, at a crouch. He'd taken off his coat and I could see the gun cradled in a holster beneath his left armpit. I wondered how good the fat man was with his gun. If I could somehow get to that car without taking a bullet in the back I'd have it made!

I wasn't worried too much about the man in the cabin. I'd be out of range before he could get himself organized. The fat man, then, was my only problem. It was now or never.

I was halfway through the cabin door. Suddenly I twisted my body, doubled up my legs, straightened them and aimed my heels at the fat man's belly. They connected. His breath left him in a hoarse, tortured grunt. The gun fired once, harmlessly. The fat man and I lay sprawling on the asphalt runway. I rolled over, got an arm and leg beneath me and lunged for him. From the corner of an eye I had seen the man who'd hung back in the shadows moving toward me. He was in that fighter's half-crouch again, and the sap was again in his hand.

I sprang across the fat man. I clawed for the gun in his right hand. Just as I felt the reassuring bulk of the gun butting in the palm of my hand something crashed into the back of my head. Ten thousand lights exploded inside my skull. My mouth went brassy and I felt myself falling slowly, lazily, into a black and bottom void.

I groaned and opened an eye. Waves of pain swept through my head. As I became aware of my surroundings, I could hear the dull roar of airplane engines.

I was lying on my back in the aisle between the seats in the cabin of the Beechcraft. A conversation, in shouted Spanish, was going on between two men up forward.

GREENVILLE F. W. B. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Churchmen Ask Batista Form A United Govm't

HAVANA (AP) — Roman Catholic Church leaders called last night for the formation of a government of national union in hopes of ending the Cuban rebellion.

In their first public comment on turmoil caused by the forces of rebel Fidel Castro, church leaders apparently asked President Fulgencio Batista to modify his personal control by admitting some opposition groups into the government.

They requested "the establishment of a government of national unity which can prepare the return of our country to a normal peaceful political life." Composition of such a government was not explained.

The church statement was issued after a week in which Castro's forces have raided from one end of this Caribbean island to the other. Castro's announced purpose is to cause economic distress by burning sugar cane and tobacco fields and by scaring off tourists, hoping that the distress will turn the bulk of the population against Batista.

The statement was signed by Manuel Cardinal Arteaga, Archbishop of Havana; the Archbishop of Santiago and five bishops.

"We exhort all those who today fight in enemy camps to cease the use of violence," the statement said, "and seek as soon as possible effective solutions to bring back to our country the material and moral peace that are so lacking."

"The government and all other Cubans called to decide this important matter may be assured that the most ardent prayers and, to the extent that it falls outside the partisan political domain of our moral support," the statement declared.

Grace F. W. B. Announcements

We were glad to see more of you in Sunday school last Sunday. You are welcome to come and study with us each Sunday morning at 9:45. There is a class especially for you.

The morning worship service starts at 11:00. The pastor, Rev. Rashie Kennedy, will bring the message for the hour. You are invited.

The League begins at 6:30 p. m. Sunday. You are urged to come and take part in the training service of the church. Come and be better prepared to serve the Lord.

The evening service begins at 7:30. Come and enjoy the good music and the blessings of the Lord. Revival services are beginning with the Rev. Charles Keith, evangelist. These services will be each night through March 8.

The pastor and Rev. Keith will be on WGTC Radio each morning at 9:35 Monday through Saturday of next week.

The pastor is to teach a study course for the Women's Auxiliary Wednesday, March 12. His subject will be "Happiness and Prosperity for Christians." All the members of the Auxiliary in particular are urged to attend.
