Why, How Observe Week

By LILI DILDA

We who are 4-H members feel that we should set aside one week during the year to let others know what we are doing in our work. There are many parents who serve us as adult leaders and vari-

1. Have chapel programs in our schools to make the students aware of our Head H by showing them that we have learned to plan and put on interesting and beneficial programs with poise and efficiency.

2. We can attend church in groups and assume small responsibilities to help develop the spiritual Heart H.

3. By running errands for people we are developing the "Hands to larger service" part phase of our pledge.

4. When we improve our own health we are improving that of our family as well. Clubs sell rat poison to rid our farms and homes of these destructive rodents.

Our motto, "To make the best better," gives another reason for the observance of National Club Week. We should never be satisfied with second best; it must be the best that we can do. Our own ideas often have great potentialities, but it takes our parents or agents to urge us to do something about these ideas.

National Club Week is set aside for us to show our appreciation to our parents for their service to us, but let's not forget the other 51 weeks during the year; we can show our thanks just as well then.

The week of March 1-8 should be one of the highlights of this 4-H year. Let's tell our parents just how proud we are of the part they take in our 4-H work.

LILI DILDA

ous other ways and for this reason we chose "4-H Salute to Parents" as our theme for National Club Week.

I know that I am often guilty of forgetting to say thank you for the services rendered to me by the many friends of 4-H. By setting aside a week in which to honor those who so faithfully serve us, we should include our parents and agents. During this week let's all strive to make our leaders glad that they are able to help us.

We are proud to let others know that we belong to the 4-H club and to tell of its many aspects. Who knows? When you tell others about 4-H work you may be talking to a future member.

I think that this week is an excellent time to develop the four H's that we find in our pledge; which are

I pledge:
 my head to clearer thinking
 my heart to greater loyalty
 my hands to larger service my health to better living for my club, my community, and my country

Some ways to develop the H's are:

ONE-MINUTE FACIAL
 A one-minute facial can perk up the complexion in an emergency. Dampen a washcloth in hot water, press it against your face. Apply cold cream from forehead to neckline and massage it firmly into your warm, damp skin. Count to 15 while you work fingers, the flat of your hands, up and out in broad smoothing motions. Remove cream with tissues. Splash your face with icy cold water. Pat dry with a towel.

Kinston Wins NEAC Tournament With 39-37 Victory

Devils Meet New Bern Here Wednesday Nite

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

A 35-foot jump shot by Charles Lewis with two seconds showing on the clock netted Kinston a 39-37 victory over Washington and the Northeastern Conference Tournament championship here Saturday night.

Lewis' shot came in a three-minute overtime period and was his only shot taken during the overtime.

Fourth-seeded in the tourney, Coach Paul Jones' Red Devils topped the tourney prize by defeating Elizabeth City in the first round, Greenville in the second round, and Washington in the final.

The Devils must meet regular-season champion New Bern Wednesday night at the ECC gymnasium in a playoff tilt to determine the Northeastern Champion and to decide which of the two teams will represent the league in the forthcoming State Class AA tournament.

New Bern, upset by Washington in the tourney's second round, was top-seeded on the basis of their 11-1 season mark. Kinston was tied with Washington for third place during the year with 7-5 records.

New Bern won the consolation battle which was played as a preliminary to the championship tilt, beating Greenville, 88-68.

Title Tilt Close

The championship game was a close one from start to finish. Washington grabbed an early 3-1 lead and held on to it until just before the end of the first period. Kinston led 10-9 at the end of the first quarter. Both teams played cautious ball, as the score indicates, shooting only when the opportunity seemed good.

At halftime, the score was tied at 20-20.

Washington, paced by Ward Marslander and Jimmy Silverthorne, managed to edge the Devils 10-9 in the third period and had a 30-29 lead going into the last quarter. Both teams tallied eight in the last period. A last-second jump shot by Marslander tied the game at 37-37.

Kinston controlled the tap at the beginning of the three-minute overtime and the Devils elected to hold the ball for one shot. With two seconds showing, Lewis aimed a jump shot from 35 feet out and it swished through to end the game.

Easy Victory

The consolation contest was an easy victory for New Bern. Coach J. F. Hockaday's club, shooting mad over their second-round upset loss to Washington, came back like a team afire against the Greenville Phantoms, blasting them 88-68.

Jon Burwell, Robert Gillikin and company ran up a 20-16 lead over the Phants in the first quarter and extended it to 44-40 at halftime. Both teams were playing rapid-fire ball and hitting with good accuracy.

With Dick Evans and Peanut Nunn catching their stride for a brief spell, the G-Men managed to catch up in the third period, as they outscored New Bern, 19-16.

But they petered out in the last frame.

New Bern ran wild, hitting from all over the court, scoring 28 points, while the Phantoms could manage only nine. It ended with the Bears pulling off a 20-point win.

Scorers

In the first game, Gillikin got 23 and Burwell 22 to pace New Bern's win. Dick Evans scored 22 for the Phantoms and teammate Nunn added 21.

In the second game, the title tilt, Ward Marslander got 17 for Washington and Lewis netted 15 for the winning Kinston club.

The All-Tourney team, chosen by the coaches, was announced following the game, at the trophy presentations. Named to the club were Ward Marslander, Washington; Charles Lewis, Kinston; Dick Evans, Greenville; Jon Burwell and Robert Gillikin, New Bern.

West Va. Seeks Fourth SC Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

West Virginia bids for a fourth straight Southern Conference basketball championship this week against seven other conference teams and an eighth foe perhaps most dangerous of all—the law of averages.

For the better part of three seasons, the Mounties have defied the notion that sooner or later, some conference club will hand them a defeat. Their winning string inside the league now totals 33.

Starting Thursday in the conference's title tournament in Richmond, West Virginia must extend its remarkable streak to 36—or the championship will go to someone else.

The lower bracket is headed by second-seeded George Washington and includes Furman, Virginia Tech and William and Mary.

Regular season form points to a West Virginia-George Washington collision in the championship finals Saturday. But West Virginia Coach Fred Schaus says he isn't looking that far ahead.

"Two things worry me," says Schaus. "I'm worried because I haven't seen Davidson or The Citadel and don't know what to expect. We have seen Richmond and all we can expect from them is trouble."

Richmond, which posted an 8-8 conference record, meets The Citadel (9-6), the fourth-seeded tournament entry, in the tourney curtainraiser at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Richmond Arena. West Virginia (12-0) engages Davidson (4-8) at 4 p.m.

Thursday night, George Washington (4-8) tangles with Furman (4-8) at 7:30 and Virginia Tech (10-5) with William and Mary (9-9) at 9:30.

The afternoon winners meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday and the night winners at 9:30 p.m. to determine Saturday's finalists.

ECC Meets Lenoir Rhyne In NAIA Tourney Tuesday

SALISBURY—East Carolina will tangle with Lenoir Rhyne Tuesday night in the opening round of the NAIA district basketball tournament.

Erskine and Belmont Abbey will also be scrapping on the same night.

The ECC-Lenoir Rhyne tilt will be held on the Bears' home court and Erskine will play at Belmont Abbey's gymnasium. The teams with the best records in the Carolinas were allowed to have the opening round games on their courts.

Lenoir Rhyne and Belmont Abbey also were automatically named to the NAIA playoffs at the end of the regular season this year on the basis of their records. Lenoir Rhyne was 19-3 and the Abbey had a 16-2 mark.

Since Lenoir Rhyne also won the North State tourney (which was supposed to supply the other NAIA representative, along with the winner of the Little Four tourney in South Carolina), East Carolina was named as the other club. ECC compiled a 14-5 record, the third best in the Carolinas to earn the honor. Erskine, 3-8, won the Little Four title and rounded out the members of the forthcoming playoffs.

Winners of the Tuesday night games will clash on Wednesday night at the Salisbury High School gymnasium for the NAIA District championship in the Kansas City National tourney.

The ECC-Lenoir Rhyne tilt is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Lenoir Rhyne. During regular season, the Bears defeated East Carolina twice in running up their 15-1 North State record. They will be heavily favored again tomorrow night.

Coach Howard Porter's Pirates will be playing without the services of Captain and starting forward Harold Ingram. The rest of the team will be there and in good shape. Probable starters will be Jess Curry, Joe Plaster, Ike Riddick, Don Smith, and Guy Men-

Never, Never Bet Against Wilmington

GREENSBORO—Some veteran observers at state high school basketball tournaments have followed a simple rule when it comes to predicting the winner—never pick against Wilmington.

Coach Leon Brogden's Wildcats gave another demonstration of how they have compiled the most impressive record in 11 years of Triple-A tourney play last Saturday night when they pulled away in the closing minutes of a sizzling scoring duel with Durham for a 65-58 victory.

Just as in the semifinals victory over Greensboro the night before, Wilmington played with only five boys, seniors Roman Gabriel, Bill Slack, Jackie Bullard, Ronnie White and junior Larry Edens.

The championship was Wilmington's third in a row, all won at Greensboro. The Wildcats have been in each of the 11 tournaments, winning four and finishing second twice, each time to Raleigh, whose record of three straight titles the Cats tied with their latest achievement.

Roman Gabriel, a mighty man under the backboards for the champs, was chosen outstanding

Coach Barclay Breaks Finger

CHAPEL HILL, N.C.—Football practice can be rough, especially in the spring.

Assistant Coach George Barclay of the University of North Carolina knows. He had some knee trouble back when he was the Tar Heels' first All America in 1934. Now he's the team's first casualty in the week-end spring practice.

Barclay broke a finger last week when a spring on the charging sled broke. But he was out, taped and bandaged, the next day to supervise line defense.

Zehring really looked good and we think he's finally come into his own as a quarterback.

"With Zehring in good form and Speight at fullback to keep the defenses honest, we should be able to break away our halfbacks much better now. We won't be big, but we'll be fast."

Boone, too, was pleased with the work of his line against the bigger and more experienced alumni. A pair of newcomers were working the guard posts, Wayne Davis and Charles Gordon. Ed Emory and Charles Cook handled the tackles. Ends were Bill Cain and Howard Beale. Lynn Barnett was the center.

"If we can keep these boys in school," Boone said of the line, "we should come up with a pretty good first unit next year. And most of them are sophomores and juniors with experience, except for the two guards. And we were well pleased with their play."

NCS Draws 2nd Place In ACC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina State popped out of a hat to take second seeding in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tournament starting Thursday at Raleigh.

The luck of the draw tumbled the University of North Carolina—still smarting from its beating by Duke Friday—to third seeding. Duke, which wound up the season in first place with an 11-3 confer-

Lenoir Rhyne Tops High Point To Win NS Event

LEXINGTON—Lenoir Rhyne, which successfully defended its North State Conference basketball crown here Saturday by defeating High Point 79-64, dominates the all-tournament team selected by writers and radio newsmen covering the event.

Three Bears gained berths on the first team, with the other two positions going to members of High Point's finalists.

Tommy Sellari and Dick Whittis, both of Lenoir Rhyne, tied for top place in the all-tournament balloting with 33 points each. Sellari was named the events Most Valuable Player.

Ken Norman of Lenoir Rhyne and Bobby Pharr of High Point were tied with 23 points each and the fifth spot went to Maury Beauchot of High Point with 21 points. Norman was the tournament's high scorer with 49 points.

Gaining berths on the second team were Harris Pryor of Western Carolina, Steve Afendis of High Point and Jessel Curry of East Carolina with 17 points each. Randall Shields of Western Carolina with 14 points and Phil Crockett of High Point with 11.

The Bears were coached this year by Billy Wells, former Lenoir Rhyne star who was substituting for regular coach Jim (Pappy) Hamilton while he was doing graduate work. Wells turned out championship high school teams at St. Stephen's in Catawba County before returning to Lenoir Rhyne as assistant to Hamilton.

The North Carolina Tar Heels (10-4) open the tournament at 2 p.m. against sixth-ranked Clemson (4-10). N.C. State (10-4) tackles seventh-seeded South Carolina (3-11) at 4 p.m.

Duke takes on last-place Wake Forest (3-11) at 7:30 p.m. And fourth-seeded Maryland (9-5) meets fifth-ranked Virginia (6-8) at 9 p.m.

The pairings were settled by draw Sunday after North Carolina and N.C. State finished the regular season tied for second place while South Carolina and Wake Forest tied for seventh.

Many fans had assumed North Carolina would get automatic preference for second place because it is defending champion. But ACC rules specify preference for a last year's champion in case of a first-place tie.

The tournament includes four of the nation's top teams. Duke, with an overall record of 17-6, is ranked sixth; North Carolina (17-6) is No. 9; N.C. State (17-5) is No. 11 and Maryland (17-6) ranks 17th.

The winner of the Duke-Wake Forest game plays the victory of the Maryland-Virginia contest in the first semifinal match at 7:30 p.m. Friday. The North Carolina-Clemson survivor takes on the N.C. State-South Carolina winner at 9:30 p.m.

The championship game will be played Saturday night. That winner will go to New York City for the Eastern Regional NCAA Tournament and will be matched against Boston College in the first round, March 11.

The last regular season ACC games were played last Saturday. Maryland trampled South Carolina 99-59; N.C. State whipped Wake Forest 91-70, and Clemson defeated Furman of the Southern Conference 78-58.

Educators Take Up Standards Of College Entry

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's educators, forecasting colleges filled to capacity in a few years, today tackled the problem of deciding who shall be admitted and who shall be turned away. There appeared little or no hope of finding an answer that would please everyone. A Florida educator summed up his views: "Not all the students who desire to go to college can or should be admitted. Living in a democracy does not in itself confer the right to a college degree. . . . The pressures will become so great that there can be little justification for admitting college students who are not qualified to carry college work successfully."

Domestic Beauty Cries Foreign Sirens Go Home

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Foreign sirens, go home" is the blunt cry from domestic beauty Elaine Stewart, who argues Hollywood producers should ignore the Lorenas and Bardots and give American girls a chance. "What's the matter with our own girls?" asked Miss Stewart. "There are hundreds of girls around Hollywood who have just as much beauty, talent and chest expansion as those foreign dolls," she said. "The producers don't have to go looking all over the world for actresses; they can find them two blocks from the studios. . . . What is the advantage of getting all those foreigners? To help the foreign film industries? They wouldn't do as much for us. You don't see them hiring Americans. . . . I suppose producers think having foreign stars will help their pictures in foreign countries. That's silly. The foreigners don't care about their own stars; they want to see Americans. . . . American beauty is what made Hollywood movies great. Think of Lombard, Loretta Young, Lana Turner, Ginger Rogers. The studios aren't developing anyone like that today; they're going abroad for girls. . . . Elaine isn't complaining for herself. But she feels for her fellow actresses; she claims they're add-

Disappearing Bride Is Still Going To Marry, She Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Irene Arzedi and her fiance Joseph Pinto say they are "definitely going to get married" despite the girl's cross-country walkout on their scheduled wedding nine days ago. Why she chose a bus ride to Los Angeles instead of marriage to Pinto, Miss Arzedi wasn't quite sure when she got back to New York yesterday. "I was in a daze half the time," she told detectives at a Brooklyn police station. In a barely audible voice, Miss Arzedi said she had left for "personal reasons." "I was afraid to call mother. I was mixed up about a lot of things. I'm very sorry for all the trouble I caused," she said. Her mysterious disappearance Feb. 22 — just five hours before her wedding — caused an extensive police hunt. As the 29-year-old woman and her happy mother stepped from a police car into their Brooklyn apartment house, a big crowd that had been waiting in the street let out a cheer. Miss Arzedi told police she had $150 the day she left home. She told newsmen that she bought a suitcase and some lingerie in a department store and then went to the bus terminal. She couldn't give any reasons why she chose Los Angeles. She left on the bus about 10:30 Saturday night, she said. She said that after arriving at Los Angeles last Wednesday she stayed a couple of hours, then bought a return ticket for New York. A physician who examined her said she was suffering from malnutrition and exhaustion. "She said she had cake and coffee during the ride with an occasional hamburger," Dr. Alfred Ianora said. "She is very nervous and her weight is down to about 93 pounds." Miss Arzedi said: "I slept on the bus and ate at bus stations. I was too afraid to call anyone. Otherwise, I would have come home much sooner."

Biggest Funeral For Harry Cohn

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood gave stern Harry Cohn the biggest funeral in movieland history. The movie czar — his rule on Columbia's lot was as absolute as any monarch's — was entombed yesterday after rites attended by 1,500 of Hollywood's great and near great. The turnout belied the legend that Cohn had built up about himself — a legend of fear and iron-fisted autocracy. The mourners included some of his most famous adversaries. The setting was unusual — even for Hollywood. Cohn's funeral was held on Sound Stage 12 on the Columbia lot. It was fitting — a monument that he had built for himself. As Danny Kaye said in the eulogy: "This (sound stage) was Harry Cohn's cathedral. This is where the fierceness of the flame that was within him burned some and warmed others." The services were nondenominational. An organ played and a girl sang and another comic — Danny Thomas — delivered the only prayer. The only clergyman present was a Catholic priest

Two Planes Raid Rebels' Capital

SINGAPORE (AP) — Indonesian rebel sources reported today that Menado, the capital of the rebel-held province of North Celebes, was bombed yesterday by two planes of the central government's air force. Antiaircraft batteries chased the two American-made B25s away after they dropped 10 bombs destroyed a bridge and straddled Menado airfield, the sources said. Similar reports were received in Manila from Philippine newspaper correspondents in Menado. The attack took place during a rally celebrating the first anniversary of the "universal struggle" movement headed by Lt. Col. Ventje Sumual, the group leading the rebellion in the Celebes against President Sukarno's Central Indonesian government based on Java. The correspondent of the Manila Times said casualties were light, indicating that possibly the crowd at the rally had not been attacked. Regular communication channels with Menado have been blocked by the central government. Reporting on its raids on the rebel stronghold in Central Sumatra, Indonesian air force spokesmen in Jakarta said a series of attacks last week cut off the rebel government there from the outside world by knocking out ferry operations.

A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

CHAPTER 18

I realized that the plane was losing altitude. Fatso sat in the seat opposite me and fussed with a seat belt. I looked through the window. We were approaching the island I'd spotted in the distance a few minutes earlier. Our height was still such that I could see the entire island. The southern two-thirds was rimmed by the inevitable coral reef. I'd had no experience at judging dimensions and distances from the air. I still hadn't seen him. The third man would have guessed the island's length to be six or eight miles; its width, two to three miles. Groves of coconut palms crowded the back edges of the narrow beaches that were visible two-thirds of the way around the island. A sprawling, tin-roofed house faced the sea at the southwest end of the island. A palm-studded clearing sloped away from the house to the sea. A tiny settlement of outbuildings clustered behind the house. As nearly as I could see there was no other sign of habitation on the island. Two-thirds of the island was dense with coconut palms. The other third was a jungle, uneven expanse of gullies and ravines that was terminated abruptly by sheer cliffs that fell away to the sea.

Somebody's copra plantation. Or perhaps a getaway spot for some wealthy sportsman. I thought. A white scar in the green lushness of the expanse of coconut palms behind the house came into sight. A landing strip. As we circled, I caught a glimpse of a handsome cruiser. She was moored at a wooden dock behind a point of land that jutted into the lagoon close by the house. I hadn't seen much of her. But I'd seen enough to tell me that she was strictly a luxury item.

We were coming in low over the palms now, coming in for a landing on the runway. The Beechcraft turned and stopped just before it rammed the palm trees. There hadn't been much room and I wouldn't like to be aboard any airplane taking off or landing on that strip in anything less than ideal conditions.

The fat man heaved himself to his feet, opened the cabin door, turned to me and said, "Outside, Dolan."

I stood blinking in the suddenly bright sun. The pain in my head subsided with renewed vigor. My knees were suddenly weak. I leaned against the wing of the Beechcraft for support.

The pilot had gotten out of the airplane on the other side. I still hadn't seen him. The third man had followed the fat man through the cabin door. The two of them stood beside me. The fat man wore that busy grin again.

I would have given a lot at that point to throw a flat at that fat face. But I didn't have it. I knew I'd fall flat on my face if I tried.

"Let's go," he said. He led the way around the tail of the airplane. The pilot was waiting for us in the shade of palms across the runway. His back was toward us and he held a small overnight bag in one hand. When we'd almost reached him, he turned and faced us.

I stopped. "Well," I said, "you never know."

The guy was Tom Lear. Jack Forbes' ex-boss.

Lear stared at me with those slightly bulging eyes and said nothing. The fat man led us down a shell drive through a grove of palms to the house. The walls were concrete. Red bougainvillea pressed at the walls. The walls themselves had once been painted some pastel shade. The original color whatever it had been, had faded and worn away and the color now was a conglomeration of soft pinks and lavenders and greys and tans, all blending into each other in a way that gave the walls an honorably ancient look.

I followed the fat man up stairs front steps, across a wide porch and into a dim hallway. On either side the hall opened onto dark, spacious rooms, shuttered against the light. The room on my right was a big, high-ceilinged dining room centered by a heavy black mahogany table big enough to seat twenty people. The room to my left was a living room. This room was sparsely furnished with dark, heavy pieces. Everything I'd seen about the place thus far gave me the impression of onetime luxury and grandness now gone to pot.

Fifty years ago this would have been, and probably was, quite a show place. The pride and joy, probably, of some British colonial who'd axed fat in the one-time prosperous copra trade.

Other than the four of us, no one was in sight. I could hear, though, the muffled clatter of dishes and a low hum of voices from the wing of the house behind the dining room. And I could smell coffee brewing.

I followed the fat man up stairs at the end of the hall to the second floor. We paused momentarily at the head of the stairs and Lear started for a door on the right.

"Lear," I said. "You shafted anybody today yet? Or is it still too early?"

"So you're a writer, huh, Dolan?" he said. "Doing a story on Jack Forbes? Did you think for a minute I was giving that?" His eyes bulged, his jaw tensed. His voice broke slightly as he said, "But you didn't have to kill her, Dolan! You didn't have to do that!"

He opened the door, disappeared behind it and slammed it after him.

The fat man's buddy went in a room across the hall. I followed the fat man down the hall. We stopped in front of the last door. The fat man opened it. There were a bed, a dresser, a couple of chairs, a closet, a bathroom. There were two windows. One faced the airstrip. The other looked out across the lawn into a grove of palms.

The fat man said, "Our guests here may come and go as they please. Within reason, of course. The airstrip and wharf area, as you would probably say, 'off-limits.'" He grimaced that nasty fat man's grin. "Do I make myself clear, Dolan?"

"You mean to say that there might be someone fool enough to want to leave this island paradise?"

"This is entirely possible."

I sat on the bed. "Well, for goodness' sake!" I said. "Here we have everything the travel folders say about! Coral beaches, waving coconut palms, translucent lagoons, soft breezes from a storied sea — the works! Why I'll just bet a fella can ever find romance under a starlit sky down here! And this wonderful package deal you folks have got hasn't cost me a penny so far. You think I'd want to leave, you fat, miserable, sneel-faced bum?"

His face darkened. "I'm trying to be patient with you, Dolan," he said.

"Don't bust your fat gut," I kicked off my shoes. My head was aching again and I wanted to sleep. "What time is chow in this boob's nest? And when will you lead me to your master?"

"Your breakfast will be brought to you. And if you're referring to my employer, an interview will be arranged in due time. In the meantime I am in charge of the guests' welfare."

I grinned. "That makes you kind of a social director at this resort, huh, Fatso?"

He had trouble getting the words out. "I'm not like the person who employs me, Dolan. I have no patience. Especially with arrogance and facetiousness. I can only hope that I'm given a free hand in seeing to your welfare."

He left me and slammed the door.

"Suddenly I felt a dozen hands on me. For some reason my arms refused to move. I was helpless" — Brad Dolan's story continues tomorrow.

Granddaughter Of Bryan Plans Political Role

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — A granddaughter of the late William Jennings Bryan hopes to follow him and her mother to Congress.

Mrs. Rudd Brown, 37, has been endorsed as a candidate by the 21st Congressional District Democratic Council.

Her grandfather, "the silver tongued orator," was a three-time Democratic candidate for President and once represented Nebraska in the House of Representatives. Her mother, the late Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde, was twice elected to Congress from Florida and was minister to Denmark.

Mrs. Brown, wife of Harrison Brown, a professor of the California Institute of Technology, has never held elective office. She seeks the seat held by Rep. Edgar W. Hiestand (R-Calif.).

Brown is the Teutonic name for "Brown."

Little Island Is Grandstand Seat Of Missile-Watchers

By JOHN A. BARBOUR
AP Science Reporter

GRAND BAHAMA ISLAND (AP) — This drab little pine-covered island is a grandstand seat to watch the success or failure of U.S. space weapons.

For the first time the Air Force this weekend gave newsmen a close look at one lonely station along their 12-base, 5,000-mile firing range for guided and ballistic missiles.

Predicts Years Of Grace Remain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Earle E. Partridge says it probably will be "some years" before the Soviet Union has enough long-range missiles to launch a successful attack against North America.

Partridge, head of the Continental Air Defense Command, said that despite Soviet claims, he does not believe they now have an operational intercontinental ballistic missile.

Partridge and Gen. Thomas S. Power, chief of the Strategic Air Command, participated in a television program surveying air defense.

Power said he thinks that even in case of a Soviet ICBM attack, a 15-minute advance warning is "technically feasible." SAC has a goal of getting a third of its bombers into the air within 15 minutes of a warning.

Partridge said the North American civilization could survive even a massive H-bomb attack, although he said it would "take many generations to come back."

On another television program, Dr. Edward Teller talked hopefully of the chance of developing hydrogen bombs smaller than the megaton range. A megaton is the power equivalent to that of a million tons of TNT.

Atomic bombs have been reduced in size to permit their tactical use on the battlefield, but H-bombs thus far have been made only with massive power of destruction.

Car Slips Off Jack, Kills Him

SHAWNEE, Okla. (AP) — Last September a tornado ripped across the Amos Batt farm destroying almost everything except an old model auto.

Batt, father of 11 children, was working on the car Saturday. It slipped off a jack, pinning Batt underneath. He died yesterday at an Oklahoma City hospital of the injuries.

HOME STUDY

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Biology professor Ralph W. Dexter stays close to home for his research although his subjects are from South America's upper Amazon Valley. He is studying the chimney swift, a bird that makes its summer home in chimneys and air shafts, including those at Kent State University where Prof. Dexter teaches.

Prelate Under Police Guard

BOSTON (AP) — Police maintained a guard over Catholic Archbishop Richard J. Cushing today after a telephoned threat against him.

A man who telephoned police yesterday said: "I'm going to kill the Archbishop. I'm also going to blow up the Cathedral."

Despite the threat, the Archbishop kept speaking engagements in Chelsea and Lowell. In both cities he was under heavy guard.

When you have the time... will you have the money?

HOW OFTEN have you thought about the things you would like to do... if you had the time and the money? Perhaps you would like to travel, catch up on your fishing or gardening, or do any number of things you've never had time to do, such as taking part in civic or other activities.

Today, your chances of living to enjoy a long and vigorous retirement are better than ever. What is more, they are improving every day, thanks to modern medical science. So it is highly probable that you will have the time.

But the big question is: will you have the money? The time to start planning for adequate retirement income to meet your needs, hopes and ambitions during sunset years is now.

The first step in such a plan is to figure out, from your present life insurance, pension plans, investments and Social Security, how much income you will have.

Metropolitan Representatives are trained and equipped to help you compute that figure. They will show you step-by-step how you can supplement it to provide more adequate financial security during your retirement years.

A Metropolitan Field-man will be pleased to explain how you can add an extra $100, $200 or more each month to your income after you retire with a custom-made Retirement Plan.

Of course, such a plan has life insurance provisions to give added protection for your family now... and it is always comforting to know that the cash and loan values in a Metropolitan retirement plan can be used for unforeseen contingencies.

The sooner you start on a sound retirement program the better... and the lower the premium. Call your Metropolitan Representative today, and give him a chance to show that...

Drowning Is Laid To Odd Sequence

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — When William E. Caywood found his wife dead in a water-filled bathtub a doctor blamed it on a sequence of freak events.

City Physician Howard H. Haynes said Mrs. Alta Caywood, 44, apparently collapsed from a seizure as she entered the bathroom, falling forward.

He said her head struck the tap, turning the water on, and her hand came to rest over the tub's drain plug, preventing the water from draining the tub. He found her hair net on the handle of the open water tap.

Dr. Haynes said she apparently drowned without regaining consciousness.

More Americans Than Ever Going To Europe

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — More Americans than ever are expected to visit Europe in this last season before the jet age.
But travel agents say that the individual tourist is more conscious in this slump period and is likely to spend less abroad.

offices look for a boom in self drive car hire. Estimates abroad of the increase run from 5 to 50 per cent. Country hotels, inns, motels and restaurants expect to cater to about 150,000 motoring Americans.
Advance hotel bookings in 31 European cities are reported by American Express as sizably higher than a year ago.

Ask Punishing Of 3 Americans

SEOUL (AP) — The South Korean Home Ministry demanded punishment today of three Americans it named as tormentors of a 14-year-old Korean thief who was beaten and nailed into a small wooden box last week.
A ministry spokesman said a "strong protest" note was sent the U.S. Army via the Korean Foreign Ministry and the U.S. Embassy.

House Leaders Split Over Limiting Appropriations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some House leaders of both parties are split over a proposal that would restrict annual congressional appropriations to actual amounts that government agencies expect to spend during a given year.

Supporting this proposal for budgetary reform are House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts and many Republican and Democratic members.

Opposed are House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) and most of the 50-man House Appropriations Committee, including Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) and Rep. Taber of New York, its senior Republican.

A House battle looms either Wednesday or Thursday on the bill, which is similar to a measure the Senate passed last year without opposition.

The bill is based on a Hoover Commission proposal to put appropriations on an "accrued annual expenditure basis."

It would eliminate the carry-over of large balances from year to year and would substitute contract authority for direct appropriations in financing long-term projects.

Cannon said the plan would put the government on an installment-buying basis and "would make it impossible for the government to operate."

He said the Budget Bureau has conceded that no substantial savings would result from changing over to the new system. One backer of the plan, Rep. Brown (R-Ohio), said Congress now gives the agencies "hundreds of millions of dollars for programs which frequently are abandoned and the money is available for something else."

Vinson Would Cut Defense Jobs

Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, looks over his glasses in Washington as he explains a proposed reorganization of the Defense Department. The proposal would eliminate 14 assistant and deputy secretary posts and 1,800 other jobs. Vinson holds copy of a bill introduced by him and two other committee members. The measure would strengthen the position of the secretaries of the Army, Navy, and Air Force. (AP Wirephoto)

Twelve Receive 100 Baby Chicks

Twelve 4-H Club members received 100 baby chicks each Friday from the Sears Poultry Chain. Assistant County Agent Cecil Register who distributed the chicks said each of the youth will grow out the birds and return 12 of them to the Poultry Show and Sale next fall.

After the birds returned to the chain are judged, they will be sold at auction and the proceeds are to be used to furnish baby chicks to 4-H Club members next year.

Other than the 12 which are returned for the show and sale the youths will keep those remaining from the 100 chicks they received Friday.

Those receiving chicks and the 4-H Club to which they belong are: Junior Nichols, Arthur; Lillian Crisp, Pactolus; Mary Anne Ferguson, Pactolus; Marvin Harris, Arthur; Hazel Price, Arthur; Charles Evans, Farmville; Steve Jones, Belvoir; Jerry Grimesley, Beaufort; Roger Simmons, Pactolus; Johnny Phillips, Fountain; David Nelson, Farmville; Charles Tyre, Falkland.
