

Roland Dail Resigns Today As Member Housing Authority

RALEIGH (AP)—A member of the Eastern Carolina Regional Housing Authority Board, Roland O. Dail, resigned today after conferring with Gov. Hodges.

Dall, of Goldsboro, was appointed to the board in 1955 by Hodges. Meanwhile, I. E. Pittman of Morehead City, chairman of the Authority Board, said he had contacted other members of the board to arrange a meeting at which the report of a special investigating committee will be discussed.

Pittman said no meeting date has been set, but predicted one would be held within 10 days.

The investigating committee yesterday recommended that H. Emmett Powell, executive director of the authority, and N. E. Mohr Jr., assistant director, be ousted. The committee said the activities of Powell and Mohr in acquiring along with five others—the land on which Seymour Johnson Homes at Goldsboro is built and later claimed title to the entire development constituted "an obvious conflict of interest."

The investigating committee was appointed after it was learned that the authority had agreed to pay Powell, Mohr and the others a total of $1,165,000 for the development. Powell claimed ownership of 80 per cent of the property and Mohr 5 per cent.

The board is composed of representatives of the 10 counties embraced in the Housing Authority territory and one member named by the governor.

Hodges said Dail "conferred with me in a very frank and cooperative manner," and "we agreed that it would be in the best interest of the authority for Mr. Dail to submit his resignation as a member, and this he has done effectively today."

Earlier, the Wayne County commissioners had asked S. H. Houtt, Wayne representative on the board, to submit his resignation. Pittman, who represents Currituck County on the board, said he was informed that the Currituck commissioners discussed the committee report yesterday and later "gave me a vote of confidence."

In a strongly worded statement on its findings, the committee said it felt it is "in the best interest" of the Housing Authority that Powell and Mohr "be requested to resign immediately, and that appropriate steps be taken to remove them from office, if necessary."

The statement said activities of the two men "in acquiring ownership of lands underlying Seymour Johnson Homes and in later asserting ownership to all of the property constitute an obvious conflict of interest."

Powell, reached last night for comment, said: "Until this hearing, none has questioned our ownership of the houses, subject to the authority's lease. The question of ownership can only be settled by a court decision and until this is done, 'No one will know whether we have been right in our view of the law or whether this is another case of long established legal principles being overturned.'"

He continued, pending a court decision, "My status is, of course in the authority's hands."

The investigating committee's report also said steps should be taken to require the authority to assert "its interest" in the Goldsboro houses.

Thus the possibility of court action was raised to determine whether Powell, Mohr and five others own the development in its entirety, as they claim, or whether the Housing Authority still owns the buildings and Powell and his associates own only the land.

The government built the buildings during World War II on land that it leased, but did not own. In 1952, the government gave the buildings to the authority.

Meanwhile, Powell and his associates had acquired the land. They gave the authority a three-year lease, as required by the government, and then claimed ownership of the entire development when the lease expired in 1955. They based their claim on the fact that they owned the land on which the buildings stood. During hearings last week an attorney for the U.S. Public Housing Administration said Powell and his group do not own the buildings. He said he felt they still belong to the authority.

The report of the special committee was made public yesterday by the governor's office and by county commissioners of the 10 counties included in the Housing Authority's territory.

Gov. Hodges said afterwards, "It is obvious from the findings of this investigating committee that the affairs of the Housing Authority, a public agency, have not been handled in the public interest."

He said Atty. Gen. George B. Patton believes prompt action should be taken to determine whether Powell and his group "own the houses themselves or whether they are owned by the authority."

Hodges, saying he recognizes "that I have a responsibility" along with the county commissioners concerned "to see that prompt and appropriate action is taken." The Harnett County commissioners voted yesterday to approve the report of the investigating committee and the Onslow County commissioners called for the ouster of Powell and Mohr.

Defiant In Defense Of Bad Checks

GREENSBORO (AP)—The 41-year-old carpenter's voice quivered. He'd had a bad Army record, now he had been out of work and his wife and eight children were hungry. But he spoke defiantly in court.

"I'd kill if I had to, if my young'uns were crying for food," S. A. Long, the defendant, told Judge Susie Sharp yesterday his reasons for writing five worthless checks, amounting to about $400, on grocery stores here.

"I was out of work and needed money. They were going to turn off our lights. We didn't have any fuel. I couldn't keep up the house payments and they were about to throw us out."

"I had a job lined up to drive a taxi, but the city wouldn't give me a permit."

It was brought out in court that Long had the option of appealing the permit refusal to city council, but had refused. It also was revealed that he was AWOL for 1,100 days—more than three years—during four years in the Army.

His wife and children were hungry. Long declared, his voice choking. He forged the checks, paid some bills and bought about $200 worth of food "so we'd have it while I found a job and could pay back the money."

"I want to stores where they knew me. I didn't try to hide. I didn't hurt anybody. It's not like I'd gone out and shot somebody. I'd kill if I had to, if my young'uns were crying for food."

Last week, he said, the welfare department had found him a job paying almost $70 a week. Judge Sharp sentenced Long to 2-3 years in prison, suspended for five years on condition he pay $10 a week to the court for repayment to the grocery stores that cashed the worthless checks.

Tax Collections Top $1 Million

Tax collections by the Pitt County Tax Department moved above the million dollar mark last month, County Auditor H. R. Gray said yesterday.

In a report to the Board of County Commissioners, Gray said the office collected $1,077,713.11 in the period July 1, 1957, through February 26, 1958. The collections include a total of $96,280.17 taken in February, Gray said.

The total for the present fiscal year exceeds last year's total for a like period by $74,032.25.

COMMITTEE TERMS REJECTED

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today Russia's proposal for a preliminary foreign ministers' meeting is unacceptable on terms the Russians laid down. Dulles told a news conference the United States is in favor of a summit meeting and wants preparations for it that will lead to substantial achievements for peace.

But this country, he said, wants no part of any fraud or hoax which would merely fool people. Dulles said the great danger in the present East-West debate over a summit meeting is that the Soviets want to substitute the fiction that the cold war has ended for the reality of the cold war.

Dulles declared flatly that at present he knows of no major issues which in the light of known Soviet and Western positions offered any likelihood of agreement at a summit conference.

But, Dulles continued, this does not mean prospects are hopeless because some possibilities of agreement may be opened up by careful and substantial work in advance of a summit meeting. He described the U. S. position in approaching East-West talks as flexible.

U. S. officials previously had described as far from early the June date suggested by Russia for a meeting at the summit. This was not their only objection to a new Soviet program for setting up a conference this year of President Eisenhower, Premier Bulganin and other heads of government.

The proposals, made public yesterday, called for:

1. A foreign ministers meeting in April to pave the way for a summit conference in June. The foreign ministers would pick agenda, time, place and participants but would keep hands off the issues causing world tension.

2. Equal representation at the summit conference, half from each side of the Iron Curtain rather than the traditional post-war lineup of the United States, Russia, Britain and France.

3. No discussion of German reunification, the major East-West sore point. U. S. officials said the Soviet still insisted on a headlong rush, as these officials saw it, into a summit conference on Communist terms.

The Western Big Three contend this is the wrong way to try to foster peace. Against the three basic Soviet points, they counter-balanced these:

1. The argument that a summit conference is a good thing only if it follows careful preparation guaranteeing some hope of success, and avoids raising false hopes which might be dashed by grim reality. Thus, diplomatic talks must come first, to be followed about June by a foreign ministers meeting and, if all goes well, a summit conference in September or October. But there definitely should be no advance agreement, as demanded by the Soviet Union, on a date for a summit conference even before a foreign ministers meeting is held.

2. Continuation of a Big Four summit framework — United States, Russia, Britain and France — rather than switching to a 50-50 division.

3. Inclusion of German reunification as a summit topic.

Mack is scheduled to return tomorrow before the committee. Mack could not be reached for comment after the White House announced his resignation.

Public Service Television, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of National Airlines, won TV Channel 19 in Miami in a February 1957 decision of the FCC. Mack was among the 4-2 majority voters for Public Service over three other applicants.

Mack has acknowledged taking loans and free stock in two companies from a long-time friend and Florida attorney, Thurman A. Whiteside, who testified that he was interested in National's application for the TV channel. He said he did not represent the firm, however.

Mack, 48, was a member of the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission before he came to Washington to the $20,000-a-year FCC job. He has a wife and an 11-year-old daughter.

In his letter to Eisenhower, Mack said, "Perhaps I should have been more careful in the handling of my personal affairs." But, he said, he had not violated his oath of office and "I feel in my heart that I have done no wrong and my conscience is clear."

"However," he continued, "I have too deep a consciousness of the responsibilities of public office to be unmindful of the public interest. Despite my personal convictions, my usefulness as a member of the Federal Communications Commission has been brought into question."

Eisenhower wrote a brief reply. Without attempting to pass judgment on the questions raised in Mack's letter, the President said, he agreed "that your usefulness as a member of the commission is so seriously impaired that you are wise to tender your resignation."

T. Baker, president of National Airlines, testified yesterday he thought Mack was being "broken" and "crucified" as the victim of those who fought National's application.

of whom it involves, on those that got him into this mess, making it necessary for him to take this action.

Mack is scheduled to return tomorrow before the committee. Mack could not be reached for comment after the White House announced his resignation.

Commissioners To Fill But One Tax Post Vacancy

Pitt County's new Tax Supervisor and Collector will have to pick his assistant from within the office staff, the Board of County Commissioners decided yesterday.

The Commissioners voted unanimously to hire only one new person for the department which had a pair of vacancies since last Tuesday when Tax Supervisor and Collector Harold Allred and his assistant, Delton E. Perry, quit after being unable to resolve personal differences. The new member of the office staff will be named Tax Supervisor and Collector, and will be charged with responsibility for developing his own assistant from within the office.

Applications for the job will be accepted through March 15, the commissioners said. The applications are expected to be screened at a special meeting, probably on March 17, and final selection will follow as soon as possible thereafter.

Yesterday's action by the board came after the members had heard recommendations from D. R. Hollowell, certified public accountant who audits the county's financial records, that the county take that course. Hollowell said it was his feeling the board should hire a Supervisor and Collector (one person), and develop other personnel in the office so they can fill all of the positions. He recommended that any Assistant Tax Supervisor and Collector be picked from the group in the office.

The Tax Department had operated with a Tax Supervisor and Collector, and assistant, since July, 1955, when the tax office was separated from the County Auditor's office. Allred was named Supervisor and Collector on July 11, 1955, and had held the job until he resigned last week. Perry had been his assistant, with duties primarily as a Tax Collector, since December 3, 1956, when the Board of Commissioners picked Perry to succeed Henry Andrews who resigned after shortages were found in accounts handled by Andrews.

At the time the resignations were accepted last week at a special meeting of the commissioners, Allred was drawing a salary of $5,100. Perry was making $4,500.

Prior to making his recommendations for revamping the Tax Department, Hollowell told the board that an investigation of accounts in the tax office, after the two resignations, showed the accounts to be "in good shape on a current basis." Hollowell was directed to check the accounts after the board accepted the resignations. Other action by the commissioners yesterday afternoon authorized Chairman Woodrow W. Wooten to be responsible for transportation, storage and distribution of surplus commodities made available to the county under an emergency relief program. Wooten was authorized to hire necessary help to handle the commodities.

The board also voted to permit persons other than those authorized to receive the surplus commodities to pick up goods when they are distributed. The commissioners stipulated, however, that when a substitute is sent to pick up the commodities, the person who has been authorized to do so must send along a letter of authorization, including the identification card which will be issued by the Pitt County Department of Public Welfare.

A resolution requesting support of Hill-Burton Hospital Act appropriations was passed and will be forwarded to North Carolina senators and representatives in Congress. The resolution asks the North Carolinians to support appropriations requests of $225,000 to support work of the Hill-Burton Act, which provides federal funds for hospital construction.

Road petitions from Calvin Mills and J. H. Blount were approved and forwarded to the State Highway Commission.

Applications for malt beverage licenses sought by Alfred Thomas Grimsley Jr. and Harold Lee Thomas were considered. Grimsley's application, for the Sports Grill, Route 3, Greenville, was denied. Thomas' application, for the Golf Shop in Greenville, was approved.

Three freeholders, named in February to investigate the death of game birds by stray dogs, reported that birds valued at $30.50 and owned by J. L. Outlaw of Greenville were killed by stray dogs. The freeholders, Van C. Fleming Jr., J. D. McGlohon Jr. and M. F. Jolly, recommended that Outlaw receive compensation from the county Dog Fund. Their report was accepted and Outlaw's claim will be paid from the Dog Fund if funds are available at the end of the fiscal year.

A refund of $33.60 on 1955 taxes was authorized for Norman Wade Butts after it was shown that the taxes were overpaid by that amount.

Commissioner Robert Little was authorized to purchase, for the county, a surplus automobile to be used by an authorized county agency and the Civil Defense Program.

Probers Display Indecision As To Senatorial Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators whose pounding brought the resignation of Commissioner Richard A. Mack showed signs of indecision today on the issue of seeking testimony from senators mentioned in the FCC inquiry.

There was a brief but sharp discussion in open session of whether and how testimony may be sought from senators and from Col. Gordon Moore, brother-in-law of Mrs. Eisenhower.

Chairman Harris (D-Ark) of the Special Commerce subcommittee cut off the talk by announcing a closed session would be held later in the day—2:30 p.m.—to discuss further proceedings.

In the brief exchange, Rep. Wolvorton (R-NJ) said it was his opinion that the question whether senators appear before the subcommittee should not "rest entirely with the desire of the individual, where the witness is important enough, the subcommittee should indicate its desire."

Harris said he interprets the rules of the House to provide that a committee of one branch may not ask members of another to appear, but he said that of course any senators who wished to testify would be welcome.

Wolvorton said, "I don't think we would violate a rule by extending an invitation."

Rep. Joseph O'Hara (R-Minn) asked whether Col. Moore would be given an opportunity to appear or to send a letter to the committee, and whether similar consideration would be afforded "other persons whose names were dragged in."

Harris said the House rules he cited did not apply in the case of Moore, who is not a member of Congress, and that the committee should decide in executive session whether and how it might want to hear from him.

Mack, crushed but protesting he has done no wrong, sent his resignation late yesterday to President Eisenhower who promptly accepted it. Eisenhower had named Mack, a Florida Democrat, to the FCC in July 1955.

Rep. Harris (D-Ark), chairman of the House subcommittee which heard the testimony, said Mack "should reveal all the facts and tell all he knows, regardless of the consequences."

Young Trio Escapes Institution; Caught

RALEIGH (AP)—Three teenage patients at the state hospital here escaped yesterday when they fled by getting away by hauling a cab. They persuaded the driver to take them to Fayetteville, the doctor said the driver told him.

As they approached Fayetteville, the cab driver added, the girl hit him with a pop bottle. After a struggle, the three got out. Dr. Sikes said the driver reported the incident to the Cumberland sheriff's office. Shortly thereafter, the three were picked up in a patch of woods.

Dr. Sikes said he did not know whether Cumberland authorities would prefer charges against the trio. If not, he said, they will be returned to the hospital. When they return, he promised, they won't have the freedom of the hospital grounds.

Dr. Sikes said the girl had frequently told other patients and "convinced them that she's going out to night clubs." But, he said, "when you challenge her, she denies it's true."

The sailors, en route to Ken-a-rich fancy life it's hard to tell where her fantasies stop and reality begins."

After the death of her father, the girl was committed to the hospital for observation. Later she was found mentally incapable of standing trial.

Dr. Sikes said her case would be reviewed shortly to determine whether she has recovered sufficiently to stand trial. The last review of her case was made last October.

He said that at present "the most disturbing" aspect of her behavior is "this running away." She has escaped from the hospital at least twice previously.

Eisenhower-Nixon 'Agreement' Has General Approval

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders voiced approval today of White House arrangements by which Vice President Nixon would take over as acting chief executive if President Eisenhower becomes disabled.

But differences of opinion cropped out over whether the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement announced yesterday would give Nixon sufficient constitutional authority to act and whether Eisenhower legally could reclaim his office.

There also were demands that Congress act quickly toward clearing up the question about who makes the decision that a president is disabled. The Constitution does not specify how that shall be done.

The administration has proposed a constitutional amendment to clear up that and other details of the disability matter. Democratic House leaders have contended an act of Congress would be sufficient.

A 246-word White House statement said that, if possible, the President would inform the vice president if he should become disabled, and Nixon would serve as acting president, "exercising the powers and duties of the office until the inability had ended."

"In the event of an inability which would prevent the President from so communicating with the vice president, the vice president, after such consultation as seems appropriate to him under the circumstances, would decide on the devolution of the powers and duties of the office and would serve as acting president until the inability had ended," the statement said, adding:

"The President in either event, would determine when the inability had ended and at that time would resume the full exercise of the powers and duties of the office."

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), one of the authors of a proposed constitutional amendment on the question, said the arrangements for Nixon to take over were "sensible" and he applauded public disclosure of the agreement.

"But I have very grave doubts that the President can get his powers back, once Nixon has become acting president, under the present constitutional provisions," Kefauver said. "I think this emphasizes the need for a constitutional amendment."

House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) raised the same question, saying of the vice president "I don't see how he can exercise the powers and duties of the president without taking the oath as president. Once he takes that oath, he is the president."

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) said in a separate interview he fears that legal questions might be raised if Nixon attempted to sign documents as chief executive while he was only acting as president.

Six Reach Final Rounds Of Scholarship Tests

Six Seniors at Junius H. Rose High School have been nominated for final rounds of competition for major scholarships. It was announced today by Principal O. W. Dowd.

Mary Ann Bryant, Sandra Phillips and Jean Waters have been named finalists in National Merit Scholarship competition; Bob Bilbro is a finalist in competition for a Morehead Scholarship; Bilbro, Godfrey Oakley and Miss Bryant are finalists in Angier B. Duke Scholarship selections; and Martha Pierce is among the top ten North Carolina for Homemaker of Tomorrow scholarships. Miss Bryant, Miss Phillips and Miss Waters have been awarded Certificates of Merit in the National Merit Scholarship competition, and each will be considered for one of an estimated 1,000 scholarships which will be awarded to a group of 7,300 high schools seniors throughout the nation. Winners of the national awards will be announced May 1.

Bilbro left yesterday for Chapel Hill where he is being examined for the $5,000 Morehead Scholarship to the University of North Carolina. He won the right to go to Chapel Hill after being selected in county and district examinations.

The Angier B. Duke Scholarship finals will be conducted in Durham Friday and Saturday. The Greenville students were named district winners to gain the finals.

Miss Pierce is one of ten North Carolinians under consideration for the state Homemaker of Tomorrow scholarships of $1,000 and $500. The state winner and runner-up will be announced March 17, and will compete with other state winners for the national scholarship awards.

In addition to the finalists in the Merit Scholarship program, Dowd said three other Rose High School students have received letters of commendation for high rank in semi-final competition. They are Martha Pierce, Jane Bass and Ann Moore.

Four Rose High School students are presently in college as winners of either Morehead or Duke scholarships, John Brooks, Billy Bost and Angus Duff are at UNC at Morehead, and Pete Easton is at Duke University as an Angier B. Duke Scholar.

Board OKs Two Sales

Pitt County's Board of Education approved two real estate transactions yesterday in their regular monthly meeting.

Sale of the Bynum School property, near Fountain, to Graham Jefferson was approved, as was sale of the Bruce School house to William Windham. Jefferson was high bidder in a public auction for the Bynum school property with a bid of $200. Windham offered $200 for the old Bruce School building and sale of it to him was approved on condition he moves it within 30 days.

The board also agreed to study a request from teachers in Griffon, Ayden, Bethel and Fountain that the 1958-1959 school calendar be arranged to permit them to attend the fall meeting of the North Carolina Education Association Elizabeth City next October.

A contract with Mimi Tripp Denton was approved, placing her in a teaching position in Ayden vacated when Mrs. Rosalind Forbes Williamson resigned. Mrs. Denton will complete the present school year in the position.

Superintendent D. H. Conley was authorized by a resolution approved by the board, to purchase surplus government houses for the school. Approval was granted on condition that the surplus houses will be purchased only if needed and if in good condition.

At the time the resignations were accepted last week at a special meeting of the commissioners, Allred was drawing a salary of $5,100. Perry was making $4,500.

Prior to making his recommendations for revamping the Tax Department, Hollowell told the board that an investigation of accounts in the tax office, after the two resignations, showed the accounts to be "in good shape on a current basis." ### Set Your Clock To Beauty Time

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

The average housewife may not admit it to her husband, but she has plenty of time on her hands these days.

As a matter of fact if she can keep her eye on the kitchen clock, she'll have little else to do. There are so many push button features in today's kitchen, with gadgets spinning, washing, percolating, baking, blending, chopping and mixing, that all one needs is a good sense of timing and an electric kitchen clock that needs no winding to get through the day. But not a second need be wasted.

The kitchen mechanic may put this time to good use in enhancing her appearance. Three minutes to mix a cake? Just enough time to put on a fresh coat of nail polish. Sixty minutes of clothes in the dryer? That'll be just right for setting a home permanent wave.

The kitchen basin is an ideal place for the shampoo, too, if you have a spray attachment in the sink. So that can be timed to the dishwasher. When your hair is clean so will be the dishes. Take time out now to put them away.

Exercises may be timed to the washing machine. Vibrations from the machine will reach you in the living room, no doubt, so plan your exercises from wash to spin. Then there will be time to remove your clothes from the washer in between glamor treatments.

After the casserole is in the oven, soak your feet in a basin of sudsy water as you relax with a newspaper or magazine. If the children can be kept at bay maybe you can run this session into a pedicure. If you can't, it'll make you feel good to have this end-of-the-day foot bath.

Every kitchen should have a mirror in a convenient place, and there should be room in the ice box for a bottle of astringent or skin tonic. A good face creaming in the middle of the day as you labor over your chores will set up your complexion for that man's arrival.

Many a beauty session is postponed because Mom is on kitchen duty. But if you get in the habit of doubling up your beauty tricks with your work tricks, you can be a beautiful work horse.

New Exhibit Traces History Of Theatre

At the local art gallery this month an exhibit of materials depicting the "History of the Theatre" is being featured.

This collection is owned by Dr. James D. Allison of the English Department at East Carolina College and includes 125 items collected over a period of 28 years.

Allison's travels to Australia, Japan, the Philippines, Okinawa and throughout the United States are reflected in this current exhibit which has an international theme.

One section in the front gallery emphasizes Paul Green's "The Lost Colony."

Replia of Theatre
Outstanding features are a replica of an Elizabethan Globe Theatre by Frank Hoskins and colorful puppets made by Dr. Allison's niece, Mrs. Latham Lee Allison of Arlington, Va.

Other items displayed at the exhibit are pictures, prints, posters and photographs which trace the theatre's history from 20,000 B. C. up to the present time.

Brilliant samples of Japanese costumes and masks from Africa and Japan complete the exhibit which will be featured until April 1.

This display was prepared to illustrate a televised course of instruction on "History of the Theatre" offered this school year by East Carolina College and taught by this professor.

Many of the prints seen in the exhibit were from the originals by Dr. Allison.

March has been proclaimed "International Theatre Month" and emphasis this year is on the Asian theatre.

Play To Be Presented
On March 27 Dr. Joseph Withey and the College Players will present a one-act play at the Shepard Memorial Library auditorium using an Asian background. Slides will also be shown at this time on the Kabuki Theatre in Japan by Dr. Withey.

While attending Hiram College, Ohio, Dr. Allison became interested in the theatre and after graduation he joined the "Cleveland Playhouse" and later worked with the "Morningside Players" in New York. At this time he was attending Columbia University in New York.

Dr. Allison has taught dramatics in Ohio, Missouri, and New Mexico. He received his Ph. D. degree from the University of Denver. He joined the faculty of East Carolina College in 1954.

"We found them all right, and brought them back alive," recalls Babs. "I was scared stiff most of the time, but was too proud to admit it. Later we went on a lot of other terrifying trips, during which I was official cameraman, and was always being urged to get closer to the tiger or climb higher on the volcano. I even contracted sleeping sickness in Africa once, and nearly froze to death in an igloo in the arctic."

Her marriage to Burden ended in divorce, and during World War II she was married to Don Platt Caulkins, a former Princeton football player and present banker.

"I guess I should have realized from the start that I wasn't meant to be a lady adventurer," says Babs. "It's so much more fun to explore a recording room and face an orchestra."

"The Curriculum" was the topic studied the first night when approximately 40 parents attended.

Dr. Holmes asked, "As you compare the training and work of your present school with the school you attended 10 or 20 years ago, what would you say about it?"

Points which were discussed by the group included ways to make a child realize success in school, plans to provide programs where the students may be guided to choose the vocations he is suited for, and the adoption of certificates for work along the lines of study which the child is able to complete.

It was also mentioned that improvement could be made in spelling, and it would be advantageous to have more P.T.A. programs devoted to how the teachers instruct different subjects with the parents portraying the students.

By LINDA LOU CLARK
To me 4-H is an organization especially for rural youth. The purpose of this organization is to improve the living conditions in the homes, schools and the community, and to make them a happier and safer place in which to live.

I feel that 4-H helps to prepare me for almost any task or job that I may have to perform. I have acquired more interest in our local club this year and am trying to take on more responsibilities by trying to improve on and complete more projects.

Since becoming a 4-H member, I have learned many important things that I feel will help me all through life. One of the most important things is to assume responsibilities, and never shirk my duties, to complete any task I begin, and above all to have confidence in myself.

I have thoroughly enjoyed my projects, and my comradeship with our leader, Miss Margaret Stevens.

Now It's Up To The Voters Of Pitt

A county-wide development commission devoted to strengthening the economy of Pitt through agriculture and industrial progress will hang in the balance when local citizens go to the polls on May 31.

The decision Pitt voters render on this important issue may well determine whether this county forges ahead in the main stream of economic development, or drifts into the eddies and backwaters of economic progress which stands in the offing for all of North Carolina.

Recognizing the necessity for developing Pitt's economy, the County Board of Commissioners yesterday set May 31 as the date on which Pitt citizens will decide whether to levy upon themselves a special tax for the promotion of agriculture and industry. This referendum was made possible by a special legislative act in 1957 in which, at the request of the County Commissioners, a county-wide development commission was approved for Pitt, contingent upon a favorable vote by the people of this county. Under provisions of the legislation, voters will be asked to approve the establishment of such a commission, and likewise asked to approve a special county-wide tax levy not to exceed three cents per $100 valuation.

A 17-man commission appointed by the County Commissioners would have the responsibility for using funds from the special tax levy to promote the economic development of the county.

If Pitt is to realize its potential, it must do so on an economic basis. It must mount an aggressive program designed further the development of the county's agriculture and to promote the county's badly lagging industrialization. Such a program will benefit every citizen of the county through increasing the number of jobs for greater number of people, and generally raising the economic level throughout the county.

Such a program, however, will cost money to develop and carry out. Thus, the county-wide tax levy for support of the program. The economic progress results from the program will be of benefit to all the people of the county. Through the special tax levy, the county as a whole will share in the expense of the program.

There is another point which should likewise be considered. As the county obtains new plants and new industries. These will be reflected in the total property valuation of the county. Each new building, each new piece of equipment will add to the valuation, and thus give the county a broader footing for its tax, and thereby lighten the burden of increased costs of county government operations in the long run.

The Reflector has previously voiced its approval of the county-wide development proposal for Pitt County. Now that the Commissioners have set the date for the referendum, it is our hope the citizens of this county will carefully evaluate the proposal. It is our conviction that such an evaluation will bring from the people of this county on May 31 overwhelming approval for the plan and for the special levy.

Capital Square Vital Group Of Bits And Pieces Opinion-Molders

By LYNN NISBET

CAUSE — An assistant secretary of labor in the Eisenhower cabinet has made a profound discovery. Announcing the other day that the cost of living had risen for the seventh consecutive month, he noted that the chief reason was the increasing cost of food. Then he came forth with this bit of new (?) wisdom: "Even the jobless," he said, "devote most of their available cash to food or shelter." Apparently the idea that a man without a job, as well as his family still has to eat had not previously occurred to the Federal bureaucrat.

NOT QUITTING — Thomas J. White, who announced the other day that he will not seek reelection to a fourth term in the Legislature as representative from Lenoir county, later stated with emphasis that he is not surrendering his interest in government or public life. He was careful to phrase his retirement statement to indicate his withdrawal is temporary and "at that level." Asked if that meant he might be in the running later for Governor or Congress, perhaps the U.S. Senate, the Kingston attorney said he has an abiding interest in and concern for good government, that he wants to be of service to his fellows in whatever capacity he can and that he can best serve them. Those who know White are convinced of one thing: He did not move out of the race for the House or for Speaker in 1956 because he was running away from a fight. He is a happy warrior, and seems to be happiest when it is obvious that he is fighting against odds. Where he will bob up next is uncertain, but it is hardly likely that North Carolina has heard the last of him.

DISCRETION — At what age can a child be held accountable for contributory negligence in event of injury or accident suffered at the hand of another person? If you know, the Supreme Court of North Carolina might be interested in having the information. The learned justices cannot agree among themselves.

A case involving the death of Allen Leon Walston, not quite seven years old, has been through Superior Court of Pasquotank county and the Supreme Court of North Carolina twice. The main point at issue in the latest appeal was the degree of responsibility for contributory negligence on part of the child.

The majority opinion of the court, written by Mr. Justice Hunt Parker, held that a child of less than seven years is incompetent to contribute negligence with respect to his own safety. A dissenting opinion written by Mr. Justice William Rodman, in which Chief Justice Wallace Winborne concurred, insisted that while a 7-year child could not be expected to exercise the same care and discretion as an adult, the fact that he State of North Carolina requires 7-year-olds to go to school, and that some 110,000 children between six and seven each year enroll in the first grade and travel by both private and public conveyance to and from school houses, indicates recognition of some degree of responsibility. Majority opinion of the court, however, held that a child of less than seven years cannot be held accountable for contributory negligence incident to his or her injury or death. That decision imposes additional obligation on adult motorists to watch out for children enroute to and from school or playing in streets and driveways.

VISITORS — The National Association of Travel Organizations, which claims to be the originator of the "Visit U.S.A. Year," is planning to officially declare 1960 as a "Visit U.S.A. Year." The idea is to recoup some of the tourist travel dollars Americans are spending in Europe, Asia and South America by encouraging nationals of those countries to visit the United States.

Then comes the Diners Club, Inc., an international organization affording world-wide credit card service, with comment about the "idiotic" restrictions and limitations placed upon international travelers by the U.S. immigration agencies. The Diners Club finds that its clients are admitted with minimum difficulties into every European country, but admission to the United States is complicated by delays and inspections at all ports of entry. The net effect is to discourage tourist travel by nationals of other countries. Whereas European nations greet tourists with outstretched arms, North Carolina suffers along with the rest of this country by reason of this attitude. With respect to visitors they get to the North Carolina line, from wherever they may come, North Carolina puts out the welcome mat. Big signs tell them how glad we are to have them, and catering services are training personnel to be specially polite to visitors. The Travel Council of North Carolina is sponsoring "host schools" and information centers, as well as more informative signs along the highways. Governor Hodges has manifested real interest in establishing welcoming huts and information centers at the main tourist highway entrances to North Carolina.

In other words, if the immigration authorities will let the Europeans get to North Carolina, every reasonable effort will be made to see they are treated like appreciated company.

One of the most powerful bodies of opinion-molders in the country today is a small group of writers, mostly women, who directly influence the spending of about $50 billion a year — and charge the public's taste as they do it.

They have no organization, no name, no headquarters. They are the top food editors of newspapers, magazines and television.

Here's evidence of their power: Twelve years ago preparation and eating of foreign or ethnic dishes was largely restricted to a few urban centers. Today, because of the influence of the food editors, a housewife can prepare a veal scallopini or coq au vin as readily as her mother cooked a stew.

More evidence: Before the war, a shopper had to know where to seek lasagna, game birds, blintzes, broccoli and rock lobsters. Today they can be found in almost every market. In the Alaskan supermarket nearest the Pole you can get pizzas, tamales or chow mein.

SO FEW TELL SO MANY — More evidence: Twenty years ago, less than a dozen spices made up almost all of the seasoning sales. Today a market may carry from fifty to one hundred varieties.

More evidence: General Foods recently added a gourmet food division, and a company of that size can't afford to set up new divisions unless its own researchers show there are millions of dollars in potential sales.

These changes have come about because food editors have been writing and talking about new, different and exciting foods, stirring public interest and enthusiasm. They exert great influence on the $4 billion a year Americans spend in food stores, and perhaps a lesser influence on the $15 billion they spend in eating and drinking places.

All told, there are several thousand food editors but those writing for newspaper syndicates and chains, for magazines and for television networks exert massive persuasion. Luther Conant, of Conant & Co., one of the few publicity organizations with its own food division, recently took 35 food editors on a private-car trip to the mushroom country. He estimated that on that car were the food authorities for 167,000,000 readers and listeners.

UPGRADING TASTES — Food editors are interested in upgrading the American taste. The food publicists, knowing this, co-operate. Five years ago canned mushrooms were regarded as a delicacy. The Conant company put kitchen economists to work on recipes for using mushrooms with pork instead of with fancy souffles. In efforts to get Americans to use more olive oil, it prepared recipes using oil in a baked bean salad, not in Aragozsa alla Fra Diavolo. These "common touches" were successful.

Food editors also help keep the economy on an even keel. When the bumper crop of sweet corn appeared in 1956, Hal Jaeger, a specialist in food marketing working with a public relations agency and the Department of Agriculture, put on a crash program for canned corn. The co-operation of the nation's food editors helped increase canned corn sales by 5,500,000 cases in a six-month period.

This month food editors, co-operating with the National Association of Food Chains and California growers, are featuring avocado recipes. This will help move the avocado crop, two and a half times the size of the 1957 crop, help direct shoppers to bargain buys, and help to educate the American palate a little bit more.

TOO SERIOUS TO AVOID

Color! Color! Color! The world has never been so aware as it is today of the racial differences and the vast problem being posed by these differences. The world is rent asunder by conflicting groups in Asia, Africa, the Near East, and sections of our own country.

There are honest differences of opinion as to how these differences can be resolved and the problems engendered by racial differences solved. Anyone who thinks there is an easy solution is unwise. Anyone who upbraids those who differ with him as to method of approach is uncharitable. Remember what Kipling wrote: "There are six and twenty ways of composing tribal lays, and every single one of them is right." All the ways suggested for solution of the race problem may not — undoubtedly are not — right, but let us always remember that there is honesty of purpose on both sides of the question. Here is a field in which we can little afford to be an extremist.

On what, I've, are we agreed? First, that this is a serious human problem. Second, that it must be solved, else the results may be catastrophic. Third, that men and women of good will will have to work together, pull together, think together, and love together to get us through this one. It's really serious.

Mostly About Winter

Winter is far from being over for us, but there are signs occasionally to remind us that Spring is on the way.

In the early hours of evening yesterday, the neighborhood children gathered for a baseball game.

Another neighbor is talking of putting up his badminton net, and the first green shoots of flowers are beginning to come up in the yard of a house down the street.

The robins in our neighborhood don't seem to mind the chilly nights, either. They are in the yard each morning. There's another sure sign, too. Wee Urchin is getting closer and closer to the day when he'll have another in the house to tell what to do and when to do it. That day will be Springtime, sure enough, in our house.

For those of you who might be interested, W.L. Allen, a local oil distributor, has passed along some information that backs up what everybody already knows: That this winter has been a cold one.

A bulletin Allen received from the North Carolina Oil Jobbers Association shows that the three-week period which ended February 14 was 80 per cent colder than the same period in 1957. For the season since September 1, the weather was 29 per cent colder, and 13 per cent colder than what we consider a "normal" season.

The Oil Jobbers Association figures its percentage on "degree days." Degree days are the number of degrees Fahrenheit by what the average temperature for any 24-hour period falls below 65 degrees. That means if the average temperature for any one day is 40 degrees, it is recorded as 25 degree days.

Incidentally, the figures Allen passed along show that weather in Wilmington showed the greatest variety over other years. The port city was figured to be 45 per cent colder than during the winter of 1956-1957.

Greenville's exact percentage was not included in the list of cities, but Allen says the winter hasn't been as severe as some others he has seen since being in Greenville. He remembers especially well one winter during World War II and others during the 1930's.

Also, thinking about the coldness of the past couple of months, one Greenville resident is slightly amused by a manner in which we greet snow.

She comes from a section which has heavy snows throughout the winter season, but which continues most of its regular

Other Editors Saying --- Open To Criticism

(Washington Daily News)

We never heard of D. Leon Williams until recently when it was revealed that he was first choice for the job as executive director of the North Carolina Ports authority.

This job will pay $18,000 per year. It is one of the best paying jobs of a public nature in North Carolina today, if not the very best. It is normally expected that a top executive should get the position.

Having never heard of Mr. Williams, it is only practical to realize that we are in no position to pass upon his qualifications for the job. He might be an excellent man, and if he is, we should not crucify him upon a cross of public criticism before he has had a chance to perform a job.

But we want to point out a few salient facts. Any public official in North Carolina holding an $18,000 a year job is open to criticism. And we suspect that an investigation into the performance of any top position will reveal differences of opinion as to how well the job is being carried out.

A difference of opinion does not necessarily reflect poor management or inefficient operations. Often some minor deficiency can be blown up into a major catastrophe. In that event grave injustices are done to somebody. The fact that the Georgia Ports authority subjected Mr. Williams to an investigation does not mean that he is guilty of poor management or inefficiencies. It could be given a clean slate. An investigation can be wholesome if carried out under proper circumstances and with the proper motives in mind. Efficient and capable men do not fear investigations unless they become political footballs instead of for the intended purposes. In that case, good men are often smeared and their careers ruined.

Now, if Mr. Williams comes to North Carolina with the feeling that he will be free of criticism, then he should think twice before coming. That just won't happen. All we have to do is to look around us. The governor of North Carolina is often subjected to severe criticism. So are other state officials. Mr. Williams or any other man who assumes the executive director's position will be criticized at times. The members of the Ports Authority committee will be criticized.

Criticism does not necessarily reflect inefficient operations. Often times criticism stems from a difference of opinion among people concerned. Both propositions might be above board and either might help one group and hurt another. A choice must be made, and the loser will criticize the decision.

The matter of an excellent director is most important. But most important of all is the matter of ports development and ports operations. The results will speak for themselves. When we have opportunity to reflect after the new director has been on the job for awhile, then we will have opportunity to say whether or not he is doing a good job.

Neither Pessimism Nor Panic

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — How's business? Not bad really; lots of dollars changing hands. But not good either, because the trends are wrong.

Unemployment is going uphill, production downhill. Signs of the promised summer recovery are not yet visible.

There is neither pessimism nor panic in the land. But an Associated Press survey in every state and major city suggests that the personal problems of 4 1/2 million jobless breadwinners — probably approaching five million by now — are sending chill ripples throughout the economy.

For this series of reports on the economic state of the nation, AP men interviewed a cross-section — bankers and jobless janitors, Chamber of Commerce boosters and corner storekeepers. Here's a sampling of what they heard:

"The don't look scared, just a little surprised at getting another job is tougher than it used to be." — An employment office director, Little Rock, Ark.

"The hospital bills are killing us. I don't know if I can save the house. Last month I had a hell of a time meeting the payments." — A former $9,000-a-year aircraft worker, laid off in Los Angeles.

real downturn... Unemployment is up but so is employment... Iowa is a bright spot. The recession hasn't reached here yet... When the drought ended a healthy charge shot through our economy... Bankers and businessmen in Arizona, Florida, Iowa, New Mexico and South Dakota, respectively.

This is a recession, in short, which has many faces. Factory output is down but profits haven't skidded badly. The banking and insurance industries have seldom had it so good. Total consumer income is high, retail sales are holding up well. The utilities are still expanding even while the railroads are depositing pools of jobless men at every division point.

There are cities and a few whole states where the recession has had little effect. No region has widespread hardship. The bulk of unemployment is clotted in a few great industrial states and in a handful of depressed industries. But the latter reach deep into the mill towns, mountain hamlets and back woods.

At a recent estimate, New York had 426,000 idle; Pennsylvania had 435,000, California 312,000, Michigan had 350,000, or 12 per cent of its whole working force.

Probably two out of three of the idle had some income; they were getting UC — unemployment compensation. Almost three million Americans were drawing jobless pay in February. An uncounted number had exhausted their UC and, still without work, had gone on relief. In steel and autos, supplemental employer-paid benefits have prolonged income.

A 30-year-old Cleveland bookkeeper in the UC line was bitter: "Do you know what it's like to lose your income suddenly, to try to live on $39 a week? I've even tried to get a job as a stock boy at the grocery. They didn't need me."

It is not just a big-city phenomenon. From Maine to the Deep South, the Eastern Seaboard is dotted with closed textile mills and apparel factories working part time, or not at all. Similar trouble in the sawmills and logging camps can be traced from the Carolinas to the Pacific Northwest.

Slack demand and falling prices for copper, lead and zinc have hit the mountain states — and spilled over into Canada, where unemployment is at its worst since the 1930s.

Railroad employment has dropped to the lowest level since 1899. Coal mining, the erstwhile "sick industry" which perked up during the big boom of 1955-57, is ailing again.

But the big job trouble is in the "hard goods" manufacturing industries, backbone of American industrial might. Somewhere, somehow, nearly 1 1/2 million factory jobs have evaporated in 13 months.

Golden Days Of Ballet

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP) — The most beautiful, the most courted, and in many eyes the greatest ballerina of the Russian Imperial Ballet was Tamara Karsavina.

Such was her fame and beauty that when Henry J. Bruce, handsome attaché at the British Embassy, married her in 1917 the diplomatic colony in St. Petersburg referred to his success as "the most envied international coup of the year."

That was the year Russian armies bled to death on the Eastern Front battlefields of World War I. It was one year before czarist Russia perished in violent revolution.

In the world of ballet they were the golden days. Most of the names of the period—Bakst, Pavlova, Nijinsky and Diaghilev—are gone.

But in a rambling house in the London district of Hampstead, Tamara Karsavina, now a white-haired lady of 78, lives to recall the splendor of those days in a soft, cultured voice, still touched with a slight Russian accent.

Mme. Karsavina is now a British subject. Her husband, with whom she fled Bolshevik Russia in 1919, died six years ago. After almost a decade of dancing with Diaghilev's Ballet Russe in the western world, Mme. Karsavina retired. She had made her debut in 1902.

She has never lost interest in her art. She lectures occasionally in ballet circles. In addition she is writing "a very personal book" on her life in the ballet. Despite her interest in present day ballet — she has Margot Fonteyn, Britain's prime ballerina, as a part time pupil — Mme. Karsavina says "the czarist era of ballet was unparalleled."

"At that time we had such a number of wonderful dancers," she says. "It's only natural that I value the Russian school of dancing most of all. I belong to it myself."

And it extremely broad-minded and at the same time very pure."

Mme. Karsavina starred with Vaslav Nijinsky in the first performances of the Firebird, Petrouchka and Sacre du Printemps, which were considered revolutionary ballets at the time. Yet she never lost her love for the great numbers of the classic ballet, Giselle, Sleeping Beauty and Swan Lake.

Of Pavlova, whom she succeeded as prima ballerina of the Russian Imperial Ballet, Mme. Karsavina said: "She was a beautiful dancer. She was very frail and charming."

Of Nijinsky, to whom legend now attributes almost superhuman talents, she added: "It is quite true. He was so wonderful. He had a wonderful feel of music, great elevation and he was an exceptional dancer. I never saw anyone like him. That was the strength of the Russian school."

Ballet Today — How does present day ballet compare? "In a way it has gone further," she replied. "It uses many more themes and subjects. I think it is now in a state of growth. It is still experimental, seeking new ways of expression."

To her the Russian Imperial Ballet in the days of Serge Diaghilev and his Ballet Russe shortly after the first World War were "very perfect" — because they kept academic techniques very pure and introduced fresh ideas. They never remained stationary.

What does she think of today's Bolshoi Ballet, which performed in London two years ago? "It is very good... but the Bolshoi has been away from influences of the times. Somehow, I think the Imperial Ballet of 1912 was more advanced."

She quickly said words of praise: "The Bolshoi has kept up the best academic technique."

land — wherever the industry has spotted its enormously efficient new plants.

Five new tires go unsold with every new car that isn't built. Akron feels the pinch, and so does Miami, Okla. Synthetic fiber goes into cars as well as stockings — Du Pont has laid off hundreds in the South. Toolmakers in Cleveland, steelworkers in Pennsylvania, iron miners in Minnesota, glass makers in several cities, all feel the pinch of a disappointing auto year.

The housing slump spread similar widening circles of joblessness. After the recent announcement that total joblessness jumped 1,100,000 in January, the greatest one-month increase since the depression, President Eisenhower issued a chin-up economic statement predicting unemployment will decline in March.

Snow, Snow, Snow - 31 Years Ago

ON SNOW BANK OUTSIDE OF PARIS AVE. HOME... Ralph Wilkinson, Lewellyn Thornton, Charles Wilkinson, Jr., Laura Thornton.

HOLD TO CLOTHES LINE IN BIG SNOW... Charles and Ralph Wilkinson, Lewellyn Thornton.

Thirty-one years ago yesterday Mrs. S. F. Thornton's children went outside their home at 307 Paris Ave. to play.

But it wasn't an ordinary day for the youngsters. Snow had been falling for the past two days and Greenville and Pitt County were blanketed with an average fall of 16 inches of snow.

The Thornton children, Lewellyn and Laura joined their cousins, Ralph and Charles Wilkinson in the high snow banks around their home.

They also took with them the family camera and spent a happy day taking pictures of one another. Mrs. Thornton, who still lives at the Paris Ave. home, saved the negatives when they were developed and, as the March 3 anniversary of the big snow approached she brought out the still clear negatives.

Snow had drifted high against the house, she recalls, and the children took one picture of themselves sitting on a snow bank.

There was another photo showing the children standing by a clothes line which Mrs. Thornton says was mounted along a fence. Today the snow of March 2, 1927 still remains the biggest in the memory of most people now living.

Reflector editions of the day reported that two warehouses, Forbes and Morton and Center Brick collapsed under the weight of the snow. Damage was estimated at $75,000.

"Shortly before three o'clock in the afternoon a part of the Forbes and Morton house gave away, the March 3 Reflector stated.

"The Morton's warehouse is apparently almost a total loss."

The story continued: "Members of the local police force and the Salvation Army have been busy trying to carry relief to suffering families while members of the fire company and national guard have been aiding in efforts to remove snow from large buildings and clear up the streets in order that traffic might be resumed."

"With a bright sunshine today indications are that the layer of snow will not remain for a great while and normal business will likely be in progress before the end of the week. The local schools, which suspended yesterday because of the heavy snow, remained closed today but will resume sessions tomorrow, according to an announcement made today."

Nixon Considers Trip To Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon is seriously considering a visit to the Soviet Union in September, perhaps in exchange for a trip to the United States by Deputy Soviet Premier Anastas Mikoyan.

Authoritative officials said Nixon might also visit Poland, Yugoslavia and six Western European nations during a five-week tour as President Eisenhower's representative.

Nixon's stop in Moscow, they said, would depend on arranging a visit for a Soviet leader of about equal rank to this country. Mikoyan's name has been mentioned most frequently by diplomatic planners as an acceptable swap but no formal invitation has gone out yet.

As deputy premier, as well as top economic-trade planner, Mikoyan's influence seems to be rising even though he is a holdover from Stalin's day.

He led the first public attack on Stalin's rule, even before Soviet party chief Nikita Khrushchev spoke out, at a Soviet party congress in February 1956. At present he is viewed as one of the top three Soviet leaders.

The timing of Nixon's good will European tour would be dictated by the state of East-West relations and particularly by any results of diplomatic efforts to arrange a summit meeting.

In any case, Nixon is not expected to leave the country before Congress adjourns, perhaps in August.

activities despite the snow.

"I've noticed that when there is a small snowfall here, everybody slows down," she says. "I guess it's the novelty of the thing. Where I come from, we would laugh at a couple of inches of snow."

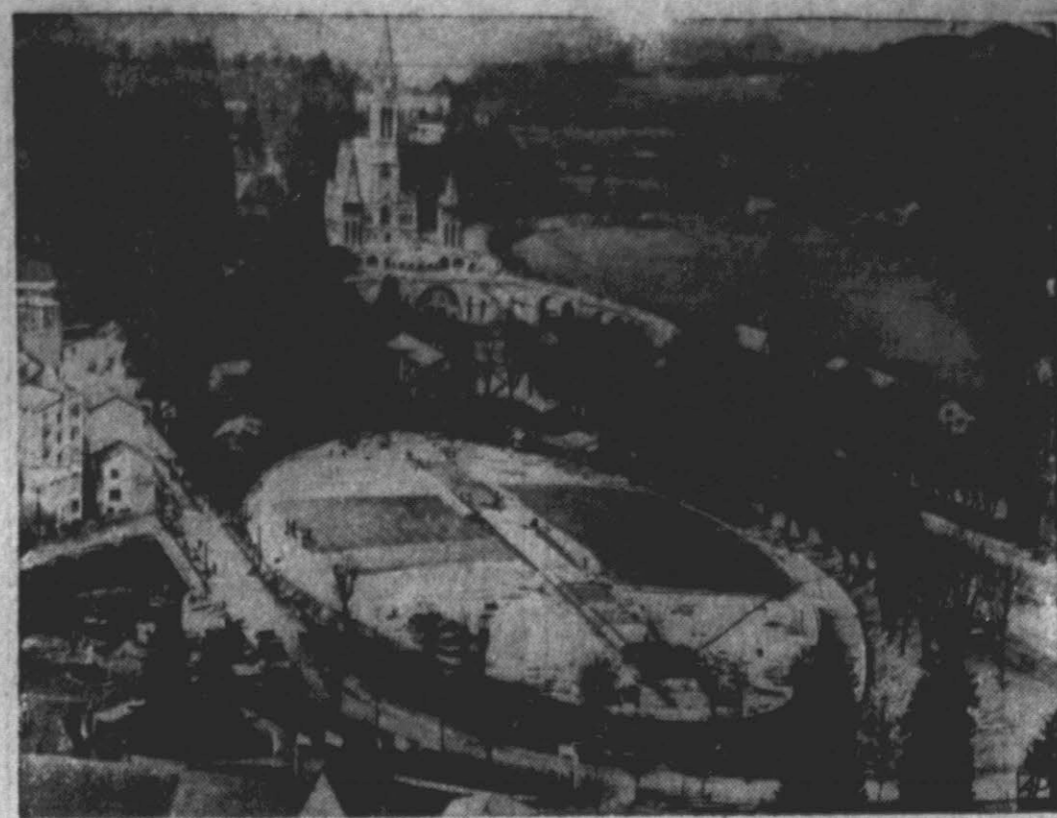

Jim Gudger, coach of the Western Carolina College basketball team, said the same thing when he was here earlier in the year.

"We don't worry nearly so much about snow and ice in the mountains as you folks in the East do," he said. "I guess it all comes from either having or not having it. And we have it."

Strong, Disciplined Units Of Rebels Begin Offensive

ALGIERS (AP)—Embattled French troops now face their most severe challenge in rebellion-torn Algeria.

Muslim nationalists waging a fierce 40-month-old war against the French have begun their long-heralded "spring offensive."

For the first time since the rebellion began Nov. 1, 1954, the French are facing strong, disciplined rebel units, armed with modern equipment in fair quantities and trained for their tasks.

In place of the primitive shotguns and hunting weapons of the early days, the 480,000-man French army in Algeria meets modern machine guns, mortars and antitank weapons.

French military authorities admit that the rebel "Algerian Liberation Army" has begun to reorganize from hit-and-run guerrilla warfare to coordinated operations of groups armed with infantry support weapons.

In the past eight days more than six pitched battles have been fought. In these largest engagements of the war the French have at times reported losing about half as many men as the rebels. In past years they reported skirmish losses only a-fifth or a-tenth as heavy as the rebels'.

This new situation means a serious strain for France. Previously the French army had its hands full with an estimated 20,000-man mobile force of rebels who mostly lacked modern equipment. Any tightening of rebel organization and improvement of equipment is bound to make matters worse for the French.

The French claim that Muslim youths are recruited by underground rebel organizers and guided to neighboring Tunisia for thorough training with modern

Red Korea Calls Another Meeting

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — The Communists called another meeting Thursday of the Military Armistice Commission "for the purpose of returning those who wish to return" from the hijacked South Korean airliner. The Communists request for the new meeting contained no mention of their previous requirement of direct negotiations between North Korea and governments of the 34 persons on the plane that flew into North Korea Feb. 16. Representatives of the U.N. Command rejected the previous Red demand yesterday at a meeting at which North Korea had indicated earlier it would hand over the two Americans, two West Germans and some of the 30 South Koreans on the plane. The U.N. Command said representatives of the U.S., West Germany and South Korean governments would attend Thursday's meeting at Panmunjom to receive their own nationals. The Americans are Willis P. Hobbs, Vallejo, Calif., and Air Force Lt. Col. Howard W. McClellan, Buchanan, Mich., pilot and copilot of the Pusan-to-Seoul flight. The plane apparently was seized by Red agents and forced to land at Pyongyang. The Communists first claimed the 34 persons had defected to North Korea. Then they offered to negotiate their return with the governments concerned. This was refused since the United States, West Germany and South Korea do not recognize the North Korean government.

Highway Commission Authorizes $27 Million Improvements Outlay

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Highway Commission, in an all-out effort to beef up the state's secondary road system, has authorized expenditure of 27 million dollars for general improvements and paving for the 1957-59 biennium. The commission, at its monthly meeting yesterday, also approved 60 million dollars for maintenance of the secondary roads. The 27 million dollar figure roughly will be broken down with about half for paving on those roads which carry more than 50 vehicles a day and the other half for general improvement of those which carry less than 50 vehicles. The commission said 2 million dollars would be used for bridge improvement. An extensively surveyed North Carolina secondary road network is expected to be completed shortly and will determine the allocations for each county on the basis of relative need. Highway Director W. F. Babcock said county commissioners would have "considerable discretion" in determining how the funds are to be used—whether for paving or general improvement. In other business, the commission: 1. Approved low bids totaling $5,718,334.40 on 17 jobs covering 81.75 miles in 18 counties. The bids, let Feb. 23, bring to a total of 12 million dollars the amount of road contract work approved so far this year. 2. Liberalized its requirements for accepting responsibility for sub-division streets. It said it no longer would require paving of sub-division streets if they met other standards of grading and drainage. Sub-division streets are those which run through housing subdivisions which are outside the city limits. 3. Approved unanimously a recommendation on the North Carolina routing of a new interstate highway which will connect Charlotte with Canton, Ohio, Babcock, Elkin to Charlotte via Statesville proposed that the road run from and Mooresville.

Swelling Opposition To Toll On Parkway

RALEIGH (AP) — Opposition to toll charges on the Blue Ridge Parkway was continued today as it flows into the U.S. Department of Interior. The North Carolina Highway Commission yesterday unanimously approved a resolution protesting the toll changes which Secretary of the Interior Seaton has ordered to take effect June 1. The commission, saying the state originally had been told the parkway would remain toll free, called for Seaton to rescind his order. The commission also said North Carolina had provided more than 2 million dollars in rights-of-way for the highway's construction. That figure, it said, will be doubled before the scenic route through Western North Carolina's mountains is completed. The Blue Ridge Parkway Area Board of Directors, in Roanoke, Va., voted renewed opposition to the fees at a meeting yesterday. The vote was 6-0. In Washington, Rep. Shuford (D-NC) said last night the North Carolina congressional delegation would meet with Seaton March 18 or 19 to protest the tolls. Other protesters have included Gov. Hodges, the Asheville, N.C., Chamber of Commerce and North Carolina members of the Parkway Association's Board. The Highway Commission's resolution, mailed to Seaton, the National Park Service and the state's congressional delegation, said "irreparable harm would be done to the nation's most popular park facility by such tolls and the ultimate cost of selling annual or monthly passes and policing the tremendous number of entrances to the Parkway would more than offset any anticipated revenue." Bills have been introduced in Congress which would prohibit the tolls and a Senate Interior Committee probe of the plan is underway.

Claims Colleges Failing In Role

CHICAGO (AP) — Many of the nation's best colleges are ignoring their responsibilities by refusing to provide the United States with more and better teachers, an education expert declared today. Paul Woodring of New York, consultant to the Fund for the Advancement of Education, blamed the schools with great prestige, superior facilities and high entrance standards. "Some," he said, "prepare no teachers at all; others, so few as to be hardly worthy of mention." He did not identify any schools. All the nation's institutions of higher education, he said, must share the responsibility for the preparation of teachers for elementary and secondary schools. Many liberal arts colleges don't seem to care that their graduates are reluctant to become teachers. Woodring told the National Conference on Higher Education. "The stronger colleges rightly take pride in the achievement of their graduates," Woodring said. "They are proud of alumni who become distinguished scholars or scientists. . . . Some are inordinately proud of the high average income of their graduates. "They take much less pride in the graduate who becomes an outstanding teacher in the third grade, or in high school. Such a graduate rarely attains more than local recognition, and his salary has a devastating effect on the statistics of the average income of the Class of 1955."

Will Eat Food And Cans, Too

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After the spaceman has eaten his canned rations during his rocket flight to the moon, he'll probably turn around and eat the can too. Food and other supplies packed for space travel because of the weight problem probably will be contained in vitamin-loaded chemical films instead of metal, says Albert Olevitch of the Air Materials Laboratory, Wright Air Development Center, Ohio. Films now are used today on wieners, he says. He told members of the Society of Industrial Packaging and Materials Handling Engineers: "It is entirely probable that soon containers will not be thrown into the ash can, but will be eaten or used as plant food, or they will be converted through some means into useful gases."

Garment Workers Call For Strike Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP) — The International Ladies Garment Workers Union has ordered 105,000 workers in seven Eastern states to strike the dress industry tomorrow morning. This would be the first major walkout in the billion-dollar-a-year industry in 25 years. The strike order, issued last night from the ILGWU's Dress Joint Board, followed fruitless efforts by City Labor Commissioner Harold A. Felix to mediate a contract dispute. The industry's pre-Easter dress production is threatened. However, David Dubinsky, president of the ILGWU, and Julius Hochman, general manager of the joint board, expressed hope that the situation would be brief. Many manufacturers are counting on the Easter season to hold down their losses in this recession year.

Candidates Miss Filing Deadline

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — City officials of Morgan's Point and Lomax plumb forgot that the deadline for filing petitions for the April 1 local elections was last Saturday. "I had forgotten we were going to have an election," Morgan's Point City Secretary E. C. Bustin said. Mayor E. R. Meeks of Lomax said in all probability the City Council would "go ahead and let the people file. If anyone wants to protest, we'll just be in a jam." Mayor A. M. Polker of Morgan's Point said he would have to see what could be done. Of course, they could hold an election with no names on the ballots.

'Sin City' Title Is Hard To Shake

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — This fair city apparently will have its troubles shaking its tag as a "sin city" to the Parkway would more than offset any anticipated revenue." Bills have been introduced in Congress which would prohibit the tolls and a Senate Interior Committee probe of the plan is underway. "I had forgotten we were going to have an election," Morgan's Point City Secretary E. C. Bustin said. Mayor E. R. Meeks of Lomax said in all probability the City Council would "go ahead and let the people file. If anyone wants to protest, we'll just be in a jam." Mayor A. M. Pint Of Evidence Explodes In Trial

DETROIT (AP) — A pint of evidence went "boom" during a bootleg trial in Recorder's Court. A bottle of confiscated moonshine exploded in the pocket of Detroit police officer Jack Hughes a few minutes before the trial of Macy Leggett Jr., 22. Judge John P. O'Hara ruled the smell of Hughes' pocket was evidence enough. Leggett was sentenced to 30 days in jail for selling liquor without a license.

LABOR AGREEMENT

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — City garbage collectors stayed off their jobs for three days because they thought City Manager Russell Rink shouldn't require them to work in the rain. They returned after a tentative agreement that they must work in "drizzles" but not in heavy rains.

OLD EDITIONS

STERLING, Colo. (AP) — Donovan Scott owns what he believes are the two oldest newspapers in Colorado. One prayer, the New York Herald, contains the full account and obituary of Abraham Lincoln's death. The other, 158 years old, has the story of the death of George Washington.

New Bern, Kinston Clash Here Tomorrow Night To Decide NEAC Champion

Winner Will Be Invited To AA State Tourney

Defending Northeastern Conference Champion Kinston and New Bern clash here tomorrow night to decide the crown for the 1957-58 season.

Winner of the 8 p.m. contest at East Carolina College Gymnasium will pull down the Northeastern title and the right to represent the league in the Class AA State playoffs.

New Bern, which posted an 11-1 conference record during the regular season, won the campaign title. Kinston came from a fourth-seeded underdog position to cop the Northeastern tourney. Kinston compiled a 7-5 record during the regular season to tie with Washington for third place.

A large turnout is expected to be on hand for the tilt. Circumstances make the championship contest a hard one to make predictions on. New Bern, red-hot during the season, dumped Kinston twice. Kinston won the tournament without having to meet the Bears, since Washington eliminated them in the second round of action.

Therefore, so far as games against each other are concerned, the Bruins hold a distinct 2-0 edge over the Red Devils. Yet, Kinston's winning of the Northeastern tourney cannot be taken lightly. The Red Devils downed Elizabeth City, second-ranked Greenville and finally Washington to cop the three-day tournament.

Odds seem to favor New Bern on the strength of the Bears' overall performances during the year. Coach J. F. Hockaday's club appears to be much more consistent as a top-flight ball club, having chalked up 19 wins against only two losses during overall play this season. Kinston, on the other hand, has up and down nights, as indicated by their five conference losses during the year.

Scoring Giants The contest will feature a meeting of some of the loop's brightest individual ball players. Charles Lewis, the 6-2 All-Stater from Kinston, is the boy who won the title for the Devils with a last-second 35-foot jump shot against Washington last Saturday night. Jon Burwell and Robert Gillikin, starting guards for New Bern, are both being touted loudly as All-State material and have been followed closely by several college scouts.

Lewis holds a 22.5 average and is one of the best all-around ball players in the loop. During the season he hit on 50 per cent of his shots and once tallied 50 points in one game to set a school record. He is also a leading rebounder on the team. Burwell and Gillikin, both shorter than six feet tall, have been playing together for three seasons as regular New Bern starters and seem to have reached their peak this year. Both boys are averaging close to 20 points per game and are admittedly the hottest one-two punch in Eastern Class AA basketball. They are expert ball-handlers and are the backbone of New Bern's rapid-fire brand of ball. Both are cracker-jack defensive ball players.

But neither team is to be considered a one-man outfit (or two-man outfit in New Bern's case). Kinston also uses Johnny Laws, 6-8 Roger Holbrook, Jimmy Hearne and Gene Anderson to back up the shooting of Lewis. It was Hearne's play in the clutch that saved Kinston in the second-round game against Greenville during the tourney.

Sugar Hart Wins Over Harris NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Hart, the lanky Philadelphia welterweight, licked Duke Harris of Detroit last night in the feature 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena. Hart, who at 5-11 is the tallest welter operating, methodically opened a cut over Harris' left eye in the early rounds, then, after being caught with a hard right to the head in the sixth, coasted the rest of the way.

It was a close fight and the decision was split. Referee Mark Conn had Hart ahead, 6-4, and Judge Arlie Schwarz gave it to the Philadelphia fighter, 5-4-1. However, Judge Leo Birnbaum, saw Harris the winner, 5-3-1. The Associated Press card agreed with Birnbaum.

Kansas State Still First; Duke Climbs To 6th Place

By DON WEISS The Associated Press The stage is set for a four or five team free-for-all for the mythical national college basketball championship in next week's final Associated Press poll, courtesy of the Cornhuskers of the University of Nebraska.

Nebraska defeated NCAA-bound Kansas State 55-48 last night at Lincoln only a few hours after K-State had been voted the nation's No. 1 team for the fourth straight week. In their previous Big Eight start, the Cornhuskers had flagged Wilt Chamberlain and Kansas after having lost to the same Jayhawk crew by 60 points a few games before.

Kansas State's loss, coming on the heels of its noticeable dip in prestige in the weekly balloting, ought to throw the final accounting wide open with the Wildcats from Manhattan, Kan., challenged by West Virginia, Cincinnati, San Francisco and Temple. They followed Kansas State in that order in this week's poll of sportswriters and sportsfans.

West Virginia (23-1 and Cincinnati (22-2) had come close to wresting the top spot from Kansas State even before the upset costing the Wildcats their second loss in 22 games and their first since Dec. 30. The Mountaineers drew 570 points compared with 574 for K-State. Cincinnati had 563 for third place.

Right behind were San Francisco

436 and Temple 426, followed by Duke, Notre Dame, Dayton, Kentucky and Kansas, completing the top 10. Nebraska, 10-12 for the season, pulled away in the second half of a ball control game as Kansas State, playing without ailing 6-9 Jack Parr, lost scoring ace Bob Boozer on fouls with 8 1/2 minutes left. The Wildcats, however, were 10 points behind when Boozer, scoring 20 points, went to the sidelines. Willie Fitzpatrick led Nebraska with 19.

Other Monday features saw Arizona State of Tempe clinch the Border Conference title and a place in the NCAA Tournament with a 78-76 victory over Arizona, and Indiana, whipping Illinois 98-86, move into a first place tie with idle Michigan State in the Big Ten. Bradley, named along with St. Francis (Pa.) to the National Invitational Tournament earlier yesterday, celebrated with an 85-80 Missouri Valley Conference victory over Wichita. St. Louis, one of several teams under consideration for the last NIT berth, nipped NCAA-bound Oklahoma State 54-53 on Rich Rogers' fielder with 20 seconds remaining.

Oregon State, battling California for the Pacific Coast Conference title and an automatic NCAA spot, climbed to within half a game of the Bears, crushing Washington State 69-31. Among the scoring leaders, Red Murrell of Drake fired in 51 points and moved up from seventh to fifth with a 26.72 average. His jump shot with 27 seconds left beat Houston 88-87 in overtime. NEW YORK (AP)—George Yardley, the National Basketball Assn. scoring leader, goes after three all-time season records against Minneapolis Thursday night and the way the 6-8 star of the Detroit Pistons has treated the Lakers this season, at least two of the marks ought to be a cinch. Statistics from yardle headquarters today show Yardley, runaway leader with 1,904 points in 69 games, needs only 29 points in his three remaining games to crack George Mikan's mark of 1,932 in 1950-51. He needs two free throws to crack the NBA season record of 625 set by Dolph Schayes of Syracuse last year. And he needs 28 field goals to top Mikan's one-season field goal record of 667 in that same 1950-51 season.

So far this season, Yardley has scored 344 points in 11 games against Minneapolis for a 31.3 average. Over-all, Yardley has a 196 point lead over runner-up Schayes in league scoring and has a 27.6 per cent average. Schayes has 1,798 points in 68 games for a 25.1 average followed by Bob Pettit of St. Louis with 1,550 in 64 games for 24.2.

The South Central, to be played at Grambling, La., March 7-8, will pair North Carolina A&T and Philander Smith of Arkansas and Grambling and South Carolina State in opening games. The small college event has filled all but three of its 32 berths.

Millikan Calls ACC Tourney $60,000 Farce

JESS CURRY

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland's basketball team leaves tomorrow for the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney which Terrapin coach Bud Millikan calls "the annual $60,000 farce."

All eight ACC teams take part in the playoffs starting at Raleigh, N.C. Thursday. The winner gets a berth in the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. tourney.

"I think that honor should go to the team which is on top after struggling through the 14-game conference schedule," Millikan said. "The regular season leader is more representative as the conference champion."

Millikan said the ACC titlist becomes play in the NCAA at a disadvantage. "Our teams reach a peak for the conference playoffs," he said, "and three days after the final game the champion must start competition in the national tournament. It's too much."

Wide happy that his fourth-place Terps get another crack at the league title and grateful over the money derived from the playoffs, Millikan said. "We should hold the tournament at Christmas time as some other conferences do. The results would have no bearing on the league."

Millikan admitted this would call for some sacrifice on the part of four of the eight conference members, because North Carolina, Duke, Wake Forest and North Carolina State participate in the profitable Dixie Classic during the Christmas holidays every year.

The ACC tourney, however, can deprive all but the two finalists of a possible money-making inter-sectional clash.

He needs two free throws to crack the NBA season record of 625 set by Dolph Schayes of Syracuse last year. And he needs 28 field goals to top Mikan's one-season field goal record of 667 in that same 1950-51 season.

So far this season, Yardley has scored 344 points in 11 games against Minneapolis for a 31.3 average. Over-all, Yardley has a 196 point lead over runner-up Schayes in league scoring and has a 27.6 per cent average. Schayes has 1,798 points in 68 games for a 25.1 average followed by Bob Pettit of St. Louis with 1,550 in 64 games for 24.2.

NEW YORK (AP)—George Yardley, the National Basketball Assn. scoring leader, goes after three all-time season records against Minneapolis Thursday night and the way the 6-8 star of the Detroit Pistons has treated the Lakers this season, at least two of the marks ought to be a cinch. Statistics from yardle headquarters today show Yardley, runaway leader with 1,904 points in 69 games, needs only 29 points in his three remaining games to crack George Mikan's mark of 1,932 in 1950-51. He needs two free throws to crack the NBA season record of 625 set by Dolph Schayes of Syracuse last year. And he needs 28 field goals to top Mikan's one-season field goal record of 667 in that same 1950-51 season.

Erskine, Belmont Abbey Also In First Round

LENOIR RHYNE—East Carolina (14-5) and LeNor Rhyne (19-3) of the North State Conference battle here tonight in the opening rounds of the NAIA district playoffs.

At the same time, Belmont Abbey (16-2) and Erskine (3-8) will be tangling on the Belmont Abbey court in another first-round tilt. Winners of tonight's tilts will clash at the Salisbury High School Gymnasium on Wednesday night for the district championship. The winner of that contest will represent the Carolinas in the National tournament at Kansas City two weeks from now.

LeNor Rhyne and Belmont Abbey gained entrance to the playoffs and were also chosen as the sites for the opening round games because they posted the best records of any teams in the Carolinas against NAIA opponents. Erskine, winner of the Little Four tourney, was admitted for that reason. East Carolina was named the number four team because its 14-5 mark was second best in the North State conference and because LeNor Rhyne claimed both the regular-season and tourney championship of that league.

Both home clubs will be favored to win tonight. Belmont Abbey, undefeated until the last two weeks of the basketball season, has shown a fast, powerfully scoring basketball team and has competed against some of the strongest opposition in the Southeast. LeNor Rhyne, which breezed through the North State loop with only one loss this season (their first in two seasons) is also regarded a powerhouse.

East Carolina will go into the game minus the services of captain and regular forward Harold Ingram, who also missed the North State tourney. Ingram completed requirements for graduation last semester and is ineligible. Expected to fill in for Ingram will be either Charlie Adams or Guy Mendenhall, or both in alternation. Mendenhall is a 6-5 veteran and a senior. Adams, a junior, is also a veteran and generally regarded the best shot on the team. Don Smith will handle the other forward position. Guards will be Ike Riddick and All-Conference Jessel Curry. Joe Plaster, 6-8 junior, will hold down the center position.

Center Dick Whittis and guard Tommy Bellari, who paced the LeNor Rhyne Bears to their second straight North State title, are expected to form the nucleus for the Bruins tonight against ECC.

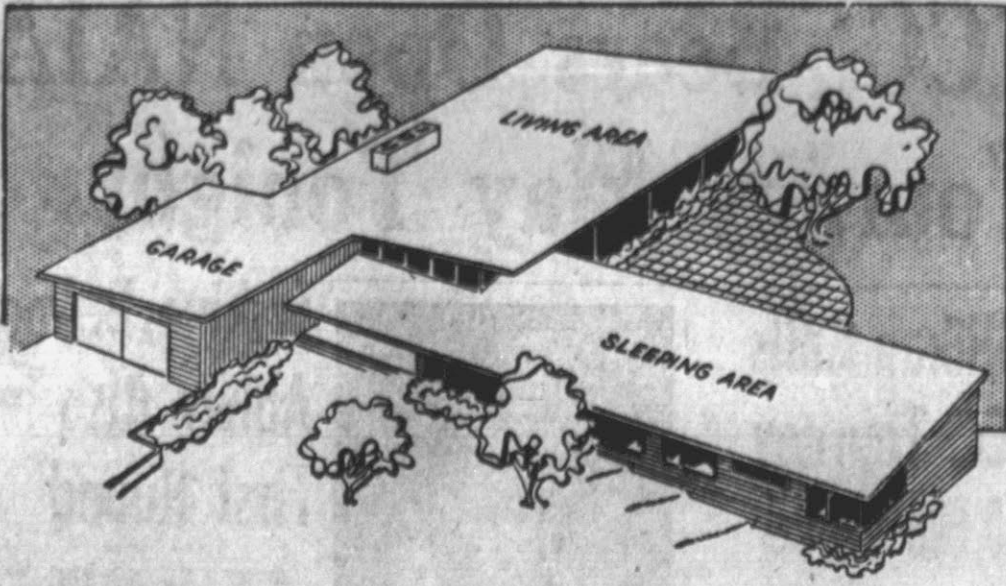

Game time at LeNor Rhyne's gym is 8 p.m. LeNor Rhyne and Erskine are champions of the North State and Little Four conferences, respectively.

Belmont Abbey and East Carolina, which belongs to the North State Conference, were selected on the basis of their records this season against NAIA competition. Independent Belmont Abbey's record is 16-2, ECC's 14-5. LeNor Rhyne's mark is 19-3 and Erskine's 3-8.

ON THE HOUSE

TWO THERMOSTATS are needed to gauge the heating needs of a house such as this one. One controls the living area wing, the other controls the sleeping wing.

By JOHN O.B. WALLACE
AP Newfeatures

Your home may not be as comfortable as it should be unless you have multi-zone temperature control.

Modern homes are spreading out more horizontally, and often on different levels. In this type of structure, the lack of proper temperature control may become an acute problem, creating large areas of discomfort.

Multi-zone temperature control simply means having more than one thermostat in the house — a separate thermostat for each separate area with varied temperature needs.

Bedrooms, for example, do not need to be heated to the same degree during the day as during the night, proper temperature control in the bedrooms is more important than it is in living areas.

In sprawling areas of today's ranch houses and split-level homes, a single thermostat for the entire house usually cannot provide adequate temperature control.

A single thermostat also can be costly because of wasted heat in areas not occupied for large portions of the day or night.

Experts give these tips for proper regulation of home temperatures:

The more a house spreads out, the greater its wall and roof exposure to outside effects of sunlight, wind, heat or cold. The sunny side of the house may be warm, the shaded or windward walls cold.

For maximum comfort, a heating or air conditioning plant should serve each side separately, providing more heating or cooling as required.

Picture windows and glass walls are even more susceptible to outdoor effects, and separate thermostat control is needed to provide proper indoor temperatures.

Rooms over a basement tend to be warmer than those over a slab, over an open carport or over a garage. Means are needed, therefore, for controlling temperatures in these rooms. Basement rooms are virtually unaffected by daily weather changes, but they are influenced by ground temperatures. Again, separate provision is needed for control of rooms above ground and those below ground to offset the separate effects to which each is subjected.

Ideally, a house should be heated or cooled in the same manner as it is lighted, with separate controls for each room. Individual room temperature control may not be economically feasible in the average home, but all houses should be divided into zones of like conditions and heated or cooled accordingly.

A division between the sleeping zone, the living zone and the recreation zone is practical. Thus, it becomes possible to control the supply of heating or cooling in one zone to meet unusual heating or cooling needs in other zones.

A separate control device also may be needed to meet unusual requirements in a nursery or office or a room occupied by elderly people whose comfort demands are different than younger persons.

Expansion areas and built-in rooms often have unusual exposure problems and their temperature requirements vary greatly.

Odd-shaped houses, built for example in an L, T or U, have different heating and cooling requirements.

The advice of an architect or heating contractor should be obtained to get maximum results from separate controls.

Generally, multi-zone temperature control can be achieved by using automatically controlled dampers in furnace ducts (or by using valves in a steam or hot-water system) and separate thermostats for control of each zone.

Tycoon Harry Cohn Shunned Spotlight

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Harry Cohn, movie giant who died last Thursday, was a curious man.

Like other pioneering studio heads, he ran Columbia Pictures with an iron hand. But unlike his publicity-hungry fellow tycoons, he shunned the limelight. He turned down all interviews and was seldom seen in public.

His employees often claimed he was a humorless tyrant. Yet he turned out the most impressive string of comedies in film history—from "It Happened One Night" and "The Awful Truth" down to "Solid Gold Cadillac" and "Operation Mad Ball."

He lived and acted as if he didn't care what anyone thought of him. Yet there were areas where he was sensitive.

Recently I did a Kim Novak interview in which she explained her sidown strike against Columbia for more money. She said that she had been paid so little that she had to go to the studio to get her hair done and borrow a dress whenever she went to a party.

"Don't say things like that," said Cohn, who had just given Miss Novak a handsome new contract. "It makes me sound cheap."

He was a strange mixture of charm and cunning. Once he fondly congratulated Jeff Donnell and Aldo Ray, who were getting married the next day. After the wedding, Ray learned that he had been placed on layoff, the annual 12-week period when contract actors aren't paid. Yet on another occasion Cohn handed Ray a $10,000 bonus check after the actor complained about his low salary.

Cohn had a sharp eye for talent. But when the talent started to pay off for him, he often seemed eager to get rid of them.

There can be no denying Cohn's genius. Year after year, Columbia came up with at least one picture that added greatness to the screen. The studio won more important Oscars than any other, even though it put out only a handful of pictures yearly.

What was the source of Cohn's greatness? Perhaps it was his ruthless search and use of talented people. He didn't care to make friends; he merely wanted the best of creativity.

Governor Wants Crop To Compete
WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Gov. Hodges has called for continued diligence on the part of the state's tobacco men to grow the kind of leaf which will compete favorably in the world market.

The governor said, "It is very important that the manufacturers, whenever possible, keep the growers advised on trends and developments in research and marketing so that the growers will have ample opportunity to produce the right kind of leaf at the right time."

The governor spoke yesterday at dedication ceremonies for new research facilities at the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. here.

Reports Changes In Police Force

Several personnel changes have been announced by Police Chief S. G. Gibbs of the local Police Department.

Chief Gibbs reports that C. E. Whitman and James E. Gurganus have tendered their resignations effective March 1. The two have been replaced by Douglas Ross of Winterville and Walter McNeil Thomas of Belgrade. Another change was made last month when Bruce Buck of Greenville Rt. 3 filled a vacancy on the force.

Whitman, who has been with the force here since September, 1956, served as Identification Officer. He has now been employed by the State Bureau of Investigation and has moved to Raleigh.

His replacement, Thomas, has been working in law enforcement for a number of years. He comes here from the Morehead City Police Department.

The new officer was sworn in early last week. Patrolman Gurganus had been with the Greenville force since early in 1953. Chief Gibbs stated he resigned to go into another profession.

Ross who is replacing him is a native of Pitt County, having lived in and around Winterville all his life. He was sworn in Saturday.

Chief Gibbs said Buck came to work here on February 15. He has previously been employed on the local force for approximately four years but resigned to go into other work.

Easier Cure For Dope Addiction

SOUTH PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A Hollywood psychiatrist says a treatment for dope addicts that eliminates the agonies of withdrawal has been tested here with encouraging results.

Dr. Stuart C. Knox told an interviewer last night the therapy bypasses narcotics entirely in favor of injections of two enzymes, ethylene disulphonate and adenosine triphosphate.

He said these enzymes are not new and are, in fact, rather commonly known. But he said he believes they have not been used together previously in this type of work.

An enzyme is a substance which expedites certain chemical processes within the body. The injections relieved withdrawal symptoms such as cramps, nausea and sniffing as effectively as a dose of the narcotic previously used, Dr. Knox said.

He said the group studied at Braewood Sanitarium here included more than 100 persons of both sexes, ranging in age from 17 to 45. Some of them had been on drugs as long as 20 years.

"Unless the patients were treatment started, they got none of the usual withdrawal symptoms," Dr. Knox reported. "And they were in good physical shape within seven days."

Dr. Knox, director of outpatient psychiatric clinics at Hollywood Presbyterian and White Memorial hospitals, said his work with addicts was based on theories developed by the Los Angeles medical research team of Marsh Malsman and C. M. Wylie.

Fines 490-Pound Man For Attack

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—Sammy Dow, 490-pound West Gastonia cafe operator, was convicted yesterday in a second trial on charges of assault and battery with a deadly weapon with intent to kill a teenage waiter in his cafe.

Judge Dan K. Moore fined Dow $250, but suspended an 18-month sentence. He said an active sentence would probably be a death warrant for the overweight man.

Dow, a former justice of the peace, was convicted in Gaston Superior Court several months ago of wounding 17-year-old Wayne Cooper Bolding, but the State Supreme Court threw out that decision.

Bolding claims Dow shot a pistol toward the floor in an argument and hit Bolding in the foot. Dow insists the pistol went off accidentally.

Trying Boy For Killing Father

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The trial of Elwood Jordan Smith, 16-year-old Wilmington boy charged in the fatal shooting of his father, continues today with defense testimony.

In yesterday's New Hanover County Superior Court session, psychiatrist Richard C. Proctor of Winston-Salem testified Smith was "out of contact with his conscious control" at the time of the Nov. 6 shooting of Elwood Smith Sr.

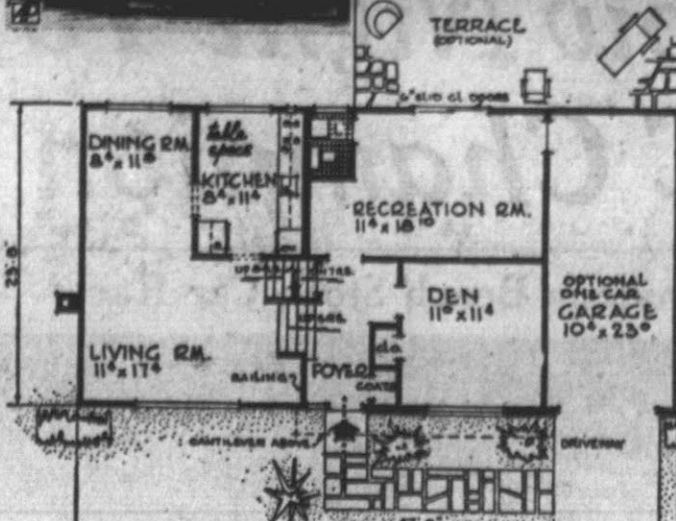

Defense evidence indicated the boy, charged with second degree murder or manslaughter, had been beaten by the father before the shooting.

Fire Hazards Growing In Coastal N. C. Woodlands

No forest growing area of the state is in greater need of volunteer "brush top" forest fire fighters than in this Coastal Plain section, it was stated here yesterday by W. L. Shaddix, a former teacher of Alabama, who represents the Southern States Forest Fire Commission Film Distribution Center of Birmingham, Ala.

The woodlands in most sections of this flat country have been kept free of fire for the past decade, with result that leaves and needles have accumulated ankle deep, and represent the same hazard that the coastal section of California and also New England affire, Shaddix asserted while here.

The Commission for the past fifteen years have held joint coordinating conferences throughout North Carolina and Virginia, in order to further education on ways and means how the public can help to keep down destruction of timber and game. The groups have been and will continue to offer free of rental motion pictures for school and college assemblies, and details of which visual aids are sent free on request from the Birmingham headquarters, the visiting forest spokesman further stated here Friday. They are made and donated as a supplementary program by numerous foundations, banking, lumber, and other cooperating private agencies.

For the future the work will be concentrated on efforts to reach the younger generation on need for holding on to his young trees for lumber and veneer, and instead of clearing off while too young to make lumber. The larger trees will bring as much as a whole cord of paper wood, Shaddix stated.

Submarine May Cross Beneath Arctic Ocean

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Arctic Ocean, whose treacherous ice packs have resisted all attempts to cross the top of the world by ship, may be conquered for the first time this summer—by submarine.

Some Navy leaders who view the Arctic as a possible base of offense and defense in a global war have received general approval for another submarine penetration of the Arctic's ice-choked waters.

Last summer the atomic submarine Nautilus spent 5 1/2 days under the ice, cruising to within 180 miles of the North Pole and then turning around. The new expedition hopes to make a straight-through trip.

The objective: to seek scientific answers to questions posed by missile age strategists of Canada and the United States.

Last summer's successful voyage of the Nautilus convinced military thinkers that much remains to be learned about the Arctic seas, their depths, temperatures and, above all, the movements of the ice pack and the areas which at various times of the year might be free of ice and reasonably safe for navigation.

"The Arctic Ocean is an area of prime importance, one that we cannot afford to neglect," says Rear Adm. John T. Hayward, assistant chief of naval operations for research and development.

One of the arguments used by Navy men in the fight for approval to build nuclear-powered submarines was that such craft, able to cruise for weeks or even months under the surface, could use the Arctic Ocean as a channel of approach and attack, in time of war, against the farflung coastline of the U.S.S.R.

Army Plans Charge 3 Soldiers In Case

SEOUL (AP)—A U.S. Army spokesman said today charges would be filed soon against three American soldiers accused of mistreating a Korean boy and nailing him in a box after they caught him stealing.

The spokesman said, meanwhile, the three are not under arrest or restricted in any way pending completion of a provost marshal's investigation to determine what the charges will be.

The Korean government marked time after filing a strong protest with the American Embassy. In the absence of a status of forces agreement under which Korea might claim jurisdiction in the case.

The boy is now in an American-supported orphanage. The Army said men to be charged are Maj. Thomas E. James, Plymouth, Pa.; Capt. Marvin E. Kemp, Kilmichael, Miss., and M. Sgt. Robert E. Weidensaul, Potsttown, Pa.

Kim reportedly said that after he was caught stealing at the U.S. Army flight center at Ascom City, Kemp hit him several times and cut him on the knees and arm with a fruit knife. The Army said Weidensaul allegedly nailed down the lid of the box into which the boy had been placed and James flew the box in a helicopter to Uijongbu, 23 miles away.

Had Confidence In Eisenhower
MCALISTER, Okla. (AP)—Confidence in President Eisenhower's ability kept McAlester attorney Bill Layden from worrying about Russia jumping off to a satellite lead with Sputnik.

"I knew old Ike would get a satellite up there," Layden said after the Explorer started sailing, "even if he had to use an eight iron."

Installation Of Closed-Circuit TV At ECC To Be Completed In April

Installation of closed-circuit television at East Carolina College is now in progress, and equipment is expected to be ready for use in the program of instruction by April 15, or earlier, Vice President Leo W. Jenkins has announced.

Both an engineer and a production coordinator will be appointed to take part in the program of educational television on the campus. Their duties will include assisting teachers to plan programs and to use equipment to the best advantage.

East Carolina, Dr. Jenkins said, will serve as an experimental point for teaching by television in partments. He also emphasized the fact that televised classes provide a "practical way to make new, up-to-the-minute 'visual-information' materials available to all class groups precisely when needed."

A sum of $75,000 was appropriated by the state to purchase the equipment, East Carolina College was selected as the state institution where the program of instruction would be in operation for a period of two years.

Changes Inside Russia In 5 Years Since Stalin

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP Foreign News Analyst Five years ago, the Kremlin announced to a waiting world that Joseph Vissarionovich Stalin, a giant among modern tyrants, had died of a stroke. No man has yet succeeded to his vast power.

Khrushchev thundered warnings. They could criticize "bureaucracy," but not the system which begot it.

Stalinism lives on in the Communist party's methods and doctrines inside and outside the Soviet Union. Stalinism without Stalin scored some spectacular successes, but it also ran into a sea of political and economic dilemmas.

After political eruptions in Poland and a revolution in Hungary which had to be quelled by brutal Soviet military power, there could be no more notions of independence if Moscow was to remain the world revolution's nerve center.

A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

CHAPTER 13

As soon as my fat friend left me I undressed and stepped into the stall shower in the bathroom. I stood under steaming hot water for long minutes.

When I got out, and after I had toweled, I more or less inadvertently looked in the cabinet over the wash basin and was somewhat amazed to find a new toothbrush, tooth powder, a razor, shaving cream and a comb. I supposed that all these luxuries could be summed up and put into the same general classification as the last dinner given a man scheduled to burn in the electric chair. But this fairly gruesome thought didn't slow me down. When I'd brushed my teeth and shaved and combed my hair I felt better. The hot, then cold water in the shower had lessened the swelling around the gash in the back of my head. I would myself seemed to be healing cleanly.

There were knocks at the door. I wrapped a towel around my waist, crossed the bedroom and opened the door. Two olive-skinned, dark-haired, white-jacketed finkies were there. One held a tray, the other an armful of clothes.

"I need a set of the little guy with the chow planted his tray on the table by my bed. The other one dumped his armload of clothing on top of my dresser."

"Much obliged," I said.

"No speak," one of them said.

"Español?"

"His face lighted. 'Si, señor.' 'Gracias,' I said. My Spanish was strictly pidgin type. I wished I knew of it to ask him where I was, what I was doing here and for whom he worked. But he probably wouldn't have told me anyway.

"Buenos dias, señor," he said.

"Buenos dias, señores," I said. They bowed and left me.

I had a look at the chow. There was orange juice and the chilled hair of a papaya. There were a couple of poached eggs on toast and a pot of coffee. I was suddenly hungry. I had plenty of thinking to do but that could wait.

When I'd finished breakfast I had a look at the clothes they'd brought me. There were three or four white tennis type shirts—a size too small, but they'd stretch. There were a half-dozen shorts and three pairs of softly laundered shaki slacks. I was all set to go. But where?

I sprawled on the bed, propped the pillow against my back and tried to think things through. What was this I'd gotten mixed up in? I tried to wrap it in capsule form and came up with some sort of an answer. I'd come to Miami Beach to live it up for a couple of weeks. Just like any ordinary bachelor with a couple of weeks off from the shop. I meet this doll and make a date with her.

And the roof falls in.

The doll, having made a big thing of the fact that she needed my help in recovering a quarter of a million bucks, disappears. It would seem that she's been murdered.

And I'm blamed for that.

A dead man named Jack Forbes seems to be the key figure in the puzzle. I try to find out why. I check with his ex-girl, who later double-crosses me. I check with Forbes' ex-girlfriend, and the ex-girlfriend turns up dead.

And it's a lead-pipe cinch that I'm blamed for that, too. Miami and Dade county police are undoubtedly out in force looking for me right now.

In the meantime, I'm taken over, slugged and flown to an island somewhere in the Bahamas. In a peculiar way, this is a favor. At least I'm not in jail.

I shook my head. It didn't make any sense at all.

The bright, early-morning sun coming through the windows hurt my head. I got up and pulled the shades. The room was almost dark now. I sprawled back on the bed and tried to think some more.

The fat man. The fat man worked for somebody. But for whom? My head was getting fuzzy. My eyelids drooped. I forced them open. I couldn't afford to sleep now, not until I'd thought this thing through. What did I know about the fat man? The fat man had become my tail after I'd met Maria. Okay. His motivation there was clear enough. He was after that wad of dough Maria had mentioned. He hadn't gotten the information from Maria. He thought I had it. And he wanted it. For this reason I'd been taken over and brought here.

But the fat man was taking orders from someone. I hadn't known this before for sure but I'd sensed it. And when I'd taken a shot in the dark this morning and had said something about his boss he'd played right along. He did have a boss. He was taking orders. He'd said so.

And Joan Morris. The blonde had been on the verge of telling me something important. Something about Jack Forbes. It would seem, because of the timing, that this had been why she'd been killed. I would seem that someone had been listening to our conversation. The fat man or one of his hoods. They'd been in the neighborhood.

What had Joan been about to tell me about Jack Forbes? What piece of information could there possibly be about a dead man important enough to cost the girl her life?

I shook the sleep from my eyes. I couldn't afford to sleep now.

Tom Lear!

Tom Lear had lied to me about his relationship with Forbes. He'd lied to me about his relationship with Joan Morris. And it was he, actually, who had—though inadvertently—sent me to see Joan Morris. I'd never even heard of the girl until he told me about her. And then he turns up, after her murder, pals with the fat man and his fellow goons.

It just didn't make sense at all. I yawned.

Suddenly I felt a dozen hands on me. I tried to fight back. For some reason my arms refused to move. I was helpless. I shouted for help.

And then I awakened. I was dripping in sweat. My right arm had been under me while I slept. It had gone numb. I shook it and felt the needles of returning circulation. I staggered to my feet, walked to a window, raised the shade and looked out. The calendar art colors of a beginning sunset were in the western sky. I'd slept all day.

I was groping in my pockets for a cigarette when there was a knock at the door. I slipped into my trousers and went to the door. I cracked it. A man I'd never seen before, a slim, dark, youngish man said, "You're expected aboard the Teresa for dinner in thirty minutes. Mr. Dolan. I'll be back in twenty minutes to show you the way."

"Just like that, huh?" I said.

"I beg your pardon?" he said.

"Skip it," I said. "I'll be ready."

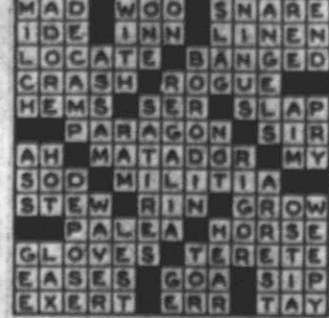

After a cold shower I dressed in some of the fresh clothes I'd been brought. I lit a fresh cigarette and sat down and waited. For a man in the sort of a jam I was in I was strangely elated. I felt that very soon I'd have the answers to at least some of my questions. The Teresa was of course the cruiser I'd seen from the air. And it seemed almost certain that I should find aboard the Teresa the person who was pulling all the strings around here.

I could hardly wait.

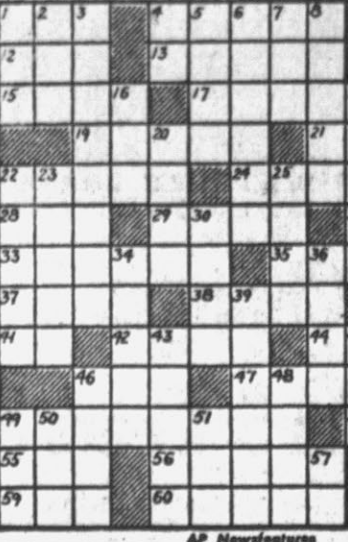

"I can make you wish you were dead!" Dolan is going to be told. "Miami Manhunt" continues here tomorrow.

Happy Birthday To Them!

In every family one question comes up regularly—what to give Junior, or Sis, or Mother or Dad or Aunt or Uncle or Cousin or friend for his or her birthday.

Have you ever thought of a camera? When you give someone a camera, you're wrapping up something that provides pleasure for years and years. And today you can give your friends or relations a new exciting camera that doesn't cost you a mint of money—

one of the new Brownie Star Cameras.

Starting at only $5.95, here is the first camera of this type ever designed to take color slides. And it's just as easy to use as Grandfather's old box camera. Just aim through the big viewfinder—a lot bigger and more brilliant than the one Grandfather has. Press the button, bring the film in to use—and the rest is history.

The results will make a really happy birthday for everyone... even you.

America's only car with a hideaway hardtop—the Ford Thunderbird shown here with the fabulous new 4-passenger Thunderbird

It's like getting back 15¢ on every gas dollar!

Here's the biggest savings story of the year! And here's why.

It all starts with Ford's new dream of a drive called Cruise-O-Matic... the newest, most versatile, most automatic of them all! Two new driving ranges let you choose your starts for the road conditions that exist. For example, in most of the driving you'll do, you can take off lively as a spring lamb if you wish. And on snow, ice or any slippery road surface, with the extra driving range you can get rolling sure, steady and silky-smooth.

Now, team this all-new automatic with Ford's new Thunderbird-powered V-8 (with up to 300 hp) and you get as much as 15% better gas mileage, too! That's because a special gas-saving rear axle ratio is used to give you "built-in" overdrive economy.

And based on factory suggested retail delivered prices, a Cruise-O-Matic Ford is priced lowest of the low-price three with comparable equipment.

So, with Thunderbird go... down-to-earth gas savings... plus Ford's traditionally low prices and high resale return... you have the best reasons in the world to make yourself a deal on a new Cruise-O-Matic Ford! Why not see your Ford Dealer... tomorrow?

Dr. Milstead, a native of Illinois, came to East Carolina from Montclair State Teachers College in New Jersey, where he was head of the department of geography. He attended high school in Virginia and Illinois. He holds the bachelor's degree from Illinois State Normal University and the M.A. and Ph. D. degrees in geography from the School of Geography, Clark University, Worcester, Massachusetts. He also did graduate work in geography with Dr. J. Russell Smith at Columbia State University.

Three Arrested At New Still

GRIFTON — Pitt ABC officers, along with an ATU agent, nailed another tack in the coffin of illicit liquor traffic in this county early today.

Chief ABC officer J. M. Ward reports that three men were arrested at a new still on Grindle Creek near Flat Ridge about three miles east of here.

Arrested were: Lloyd E. Adams, 28, of Ayden Rt. 2; Jimmy Lee Swinson, 35-year-old Negro of Greenville Rt. 3; and James Weldon, 32-year-old Negro of Ayden Rt. 2.

All three men were charged with possession of an unregistered distillery and possession of materials. Ward stated the trio appeared before U. S. Commissioner Matilda Turner in New Bern this morning. No word of judgments has been received.

According to the chief ABC officer, the still was located on an island in Grindle Creek. He noted the still was new and had never been operated. "In fact," he stated, "it was not even completely hooked up."

Authorities destroyed two 55-gallon oil-heated stills, a 60-gallon boiler, a 260-gallon cooler with condenser and five 480-gallon mash boxes. The mash boxes reportedly contained 1,680 gallons of fermented mash. About 25 gallons of oil was also seized.

Ward said he, officers H. B. Lilley, James L. Rose and Walter M. Taylor and ATU Investigator Thomas Goodson of New Bern, waded in water waist deep for between 300 and 400 yards to get to the site of the still. After an all night vigil, the officers arrested the three men when they came to the island around 6:30 a.m.
