American Pilots Relate Bullets Flew As Airliner Was 'Hijacked'

North Korean Agents Held Gun At Head Of Airman In Aerial Grab

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The pilot's compartment was "filled with flying bullets" when Korean Communists seized their airliner, the American pilots related today. "But everything happened so fast I was completely helpless," Willis P. Hobbs of Vallejo, Calif., a civilian, told a news conference. The Red agents grabbed the airliner flown by Hobbs and Air Force Lt. Col. Howard W. McClellan of Buchanan, Mich., on Feb. 18 and diverted it to North Korea off its regular flight from Pusan to Seoul. The Reds Thursday released the two Americans, a West German couple and 22 of the 30 Koreans aboard. McClellan, in a statement to military investigators, said the plane was on automatic pilot when he heard a loud banging on the door leading from the passenger's compartment. Then bullets began flying through the cockpit, McClellan said in his statement. Hobbs reported hearing 8 to 10 shots as the two hugged the sides of the plane to get out of the line of fire. "I grabbed the mike, planning to give a 'May Day' (emergency distress) call as the cockpit was literally filled with flying bullets," McClellan said. Hobbs yelled that the plane was still on automatic pilot so "I leaned across the floor into the path of the flying bullets and turned it off," the officer said. Then, said Hobbs, three armed Koreans broke into the compartment. One told him, "We go to North Korea."

Zoning Hearings Set By City Council For April 10

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor. City councilmen last night set a series of zoning public hearings for the April 10 meeting of the city's governing body. Included in the list were a number of new subdivisions which, having recently been taken into the city, must now be zoned residential. There are also two proposals to rezone certain lots, now residential, as commercial areas. All the proposed changes were recommended by the city's Planning-Zoning Commission. Among the new subdivision areas for which zoning public hearings were called are: College Court Additions 1 and 2, Coghill Additions 3 and 4, Oakmont. Also included in the list for residential zoning was a residential area between Elmhurst and U. S. 264, a small area on the west side of Drum Ave. in North Greenville, a small area between the old city limits on the north side of east Tenth St. and Monroe St. There were two recommendations from the Planning-Zoning Commission for re-zoning of lots for which public hearings were set April 10. The commission recommended that a lot on the southeast corner of Monroe and Tenth Sts. be rezoned commercial. A dwelling now stands on the property but is reported to be getting out of the line of fire. Lots in the Woodcrest subdivision were recommended for rezoning as a commercial area provided the owners can obtain the approval of all property owners whose land faces on the proposed commercial area. The area lies between Williams Ave. and E. Tenth St. Councilmen turned down a request for a taxi driver's permit for Isaac Person. The taxi driver's permit request had previously been denied by Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs and City Manager Leonard Bloxam due to Person's court record. Worth Anderson, who said he wished to hire Person as a taxi driver, appeared before the council in Person's behalf. Street Improvements on Tenth St. City fathers approved a plan for the city to share in the cost of certain street improvements on Tenth St. Portions of the cost would be borne by the city, property owners and the State Highway Department. The city's portion of the work would entail only curb and gutter and drainage which is normally the city's responsibility, Bloxam told the group. As a result of the work drainage would be improved in the area and Tenth St. would be widened at that point. A super market is now being constructed on the property. Bloxam said the cost of the entire project would be $18,278.36, of that amount $7,642.97 would be paid by the property owners. The remainder is to be paid by the city and the State Highway Department. The city manager pointed out that a portion of the city's share has already been approved in a recent bond issue which provided funds for certain drainage projects. The Tenth-Clarke St. intersection was one which was approved. The remainder of the city's share would come from Powell Bill funds. Parking on the west side of Cotanche St. from Third to Fourth was approved by the councilmen on recommendation of the city manager. Bloxam pointed out that the block had been widened to allow adequate room for parking. Meters will be installed and one loading zone was authorized for the block. Councilmen adopted a resolution placing Mumford Rd. from Greene St. to the U. S. 13 bypass on the city street system. Bloxam told the city fathers the road has been considered a part of the city system and Powell Bill funds drawn for it. However, it had never been officially taken off the highway system and the resolution was necessary to bring about the change. At the close of last night's meeting the councilmen heard R. V. Connerat, field representative of the Urban Renewal Administration of the Housing and Home Finance Agency discuss the various programs available to the city through federal aid. Mayor S. Eugene West announced plans recently to consider the public housing program locally. Connerat spoke to the councilmen and several members of the Planning-Zoning Commission after the regular council meeting adjourned.

Announces

Rep. Jones Plans Seek Re-Election

WALTER B. JONES. Walter B. Jones of Farmville announced today that he will seek a third term in the House of Representatives of the North Carolina General Assembly. The Farmville office supplies dealer is the second person to enter the race for Pitt County's two seats in the House. Frank Wooten, Greenville attorney who served with Jones in the 1957 General Assembly, announced three weeks ago he would be a candidate for reelection. This will be Jones' third race for the Assembly. In 1954 he led a five-man ticket for the two seats and in 1956 he led a three-man ticket. Prior to running for the Assembly, he was a member of the Farmville Board of Commissioners and Mayor Pro-Tem from 1947 until 1949, and Mayor of Farmville from 1949 until 1953. In the 1955 General Assembly, his first, Jones was author of a bill which eliminated the right of insurance companies to cancel hospitalization policies without meeting specific requirements. He drew considerable attention for that bill and his work in defeating a proposed tobacco tax, but he became known across the state last year after writing, introducing and pushing through a Financial Responsibility Act for automobile owners. The act, popularly known as the compulsory insurance law, became effective January 1. Jones was credited by other Representatives with doing an outstanding job in getting the act through the General Assembly. Jones was born in Fayetteville, August 19, 1913, and graduated from N.C. State College in 1934 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Education. He is a member of the Masons, Rotary Club, Loyal Order of Moose and the Junior Order. He is a Baptist and has been a Deacon since 1945. Jones was married to the former Doris Long in 1934 and they have two children, Mrs. James B. Jones, III, and a son, James B. Jones, IV. In announcing his candidacy yesterday, Jones said, "If elected, I shall continue to fight for legislation which will tend to help our agricultural economy. My interest in matters pertaining to education is well known, and this interest will be continued both for public schools and for our institutions of higher learning. "It is my intention to sponsor and fight for legislation to establish a school of nursing at East Carolina College as well as support for other improvements in the field of mental and physical health designed to promote the well-being and welfare of all our people. I shall always attempt to vote for what I think are the wishes of the majority of those I represent." In addition to his work with the compulsory financial responsibility act, Jones served on the 1957 Assembly's committees on Agriculture, Banks and Banking, Commercial Fisheries and Oyster Industry, Counties, Cities and Towns, Finance, Health, Insurance, Public Utilities, Salaries and Fees, and State Government. He was vice-chairman of the Committee on Finance.

State May Produce Wetzel Gun Bullet

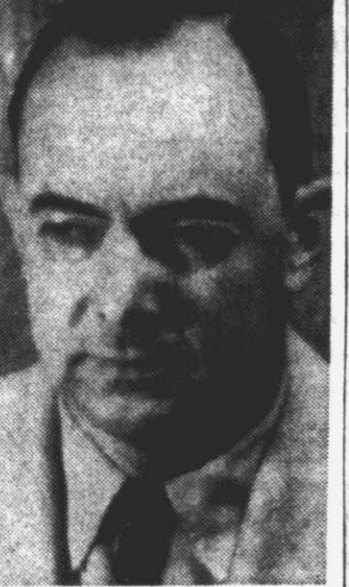

SANFORD, N.C. (AP)—More state witnesses testified today as word came of a piece of lead that could bring testimony more damaging to Frank Edward Wetzel than any human voice. Lee County Sheriff D. F. Holder said he and highway patrolmen dug the bullet yesterday from a tree near the spot where State Trooper J. T. Brown was killed Nov. 5. The slug was rushed to Raleigh for a ballistics examination. A lab report was expected later today. Police had searched in vain for bullets used in the shooting of Brown and another highway patrolman, W. L. Reece, Wetzel being tried for Brown's death, was convicted in January of the murder of Reece. The 36-year-old Seneca, N.C., native was sentenced to life in prison. Negro hitchhiker Robert Terry, the state's star witness in the Reece trial, testified today, repeating testimony he gave at the earlier trial. Terry pointed to Wetzel as the driver who picked him up Nov. 5. He said Wetzel stepped from the auto when stopped by a patrol car and reached back to take a "large gun" from the glove compartment. Terry testified the driver said "I got to" when Terry begged him not to shoot. Terry said he "eased out" of the car, heard a shot as the door closed and saw the car speed away "real fast." Terry identified a Bible and a pair of brown gloves found by the highway leading from U.S. 220 to U.S. 1 as those he left in the car. Brown was shot about an hour after Reece on U.S. 1, 50 miles away. Earlier witnesses in the state's attempt to trace Wetzel's trail south on U.S. 220 to North Carolina and then to U.S. 1 where Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Feamster of Alderson, W.Va. They identified jewelry found in an abandoned black Oldsmobile as same taken from their Covington, Va., store the night of Nov. 4. The car was parked, black and gleaming, by the courtroom door. Terry testified that the man who picked him up was driving a car "just like" that one. Shown a .44 calibre magnum found in the car, Terry said the weapon the driver took from the glove compartment was "one like that." Henry Griffin of Madison identified license plates on the car as those stolen from his auto while it was parked in Madison near U.S. 220. The route first taken by the powerful Oldsmobile, from Pennsylvania southward to North Carolina, was traced by state witnesses in Lee Superior Court yesterday. One witness identified a gun, another clothing, stolen from their stores; a third said he gave a road map to Wetzel. The vehicle was found abandoned in Chattanooga, Tenn., the night after the double slaying. Its driver apparently fled into Kentucky, but police lost the trail there. Wetzel, identified later by the FBI as the chief suspect, was arrested in California shortly afterward and returned to North Carolina. Authorities said Wetzel, who was examined and found sane at a New York state mental hospital, escaped from the institution last October. He had bragged he would go to Mississippi and free his brother William, who has since been executed for the murder of a fellow prisoner there. Judge George Fountain was expected to recess court at the end of today's session until Monday morning. This would mean the case would not go to the jury until late Monday or sometime Tuesday.

Bulgarian Sends A Fourth Message For Eisenhower

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Bulganin in a fourth message to President Eisenhower released here today, appealed again for an East-West summit conference but made no major new proposals to break the deadlock. The message was delivered in Washington Thursday as the U.S. State Department published a note rejecting Soviet terms for a preparatory foreign ministers' conference. The Soviet Union had proposed that such a conference be limited to the mechanical details of arranging summit talks. The United States, in common with its Western Allies, insists that preparatory talks must disclose real possibility for some agreements before the top leaders get together. The new Bulgarian note, his fourth since Dec. 16, not only failed to uncover any new proposals that might ease the deadlock, but it raised some points that might actually delay a summit meeting. Bulganin ruled out discussion of German reunification. He also rejected discussion of the future of Communist-ruled East European States. Both of these questions had been proposed for the summit agenda by the United States. "The Soviet Union will in no case consent to interference in the internal affairs of sovereign states," he wrote. Bulganin accused the United States of repeatedly presenting "deliberately unacceptable questions" for discussion at the summit conference. He blamed the United States for the delays so far in an agreement on subjects to be discussed at the conference, and on the composition, time and place for such a conference. Bulganin accepted two suggestions made in Eisenhower's message on Feb. 15 and proposed that they should be expanded. The recently concluded Soviet-U.S. cultural agreement, he said, should be taken a step further. He proposed the conclusion of a treaty of friendship and cooperation between the two countries. And on the subject of increasing exchange of leading Americans and Russians between the United States and the Soviet Union, he renewed the Soviet proposal of two years ago for exchange of parliamentary delegations.

Horne Named To Utilities Board

Charles O'H. Horne, local electrical contractor and engineer, last night was named to a five-year term on Greenville Utilities Commission. Horne will replace Commissioner Reynolds May, whose term expires March 1. The new commission member will begin his duties at the next regular meeting of the commission which is next Tuesday night. Horne's nomination for the position was approved by a four-to-one vote on a substitute motion after Councilman J. A. Collins Sr. had moved that May be re-appointed. Councilman C. W. Harvey Jr. offered the substitute motion nominating Horne for the job. Harvey said he was offering the nomination because "I personally think the governing bodies of the city, whether it be the council or what, should be rotated." He emphasized that he felt the Utilities Commissioners "have made good men." "They have given of their knowledge, time and efforts and given unselfishly. The same is true of other boards. Everyone knows about it and appreciates it."

Navy Postpones Today's Firing Of 'Vanguard'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The navy postponed, at least temporarily, today's scheduled daylight firing of its satellite-carrying Vanguard rocket. It was due to finer technical difficulties. The Vanguard had been scheduled to follow firing of the Army's Explorer II satellite. The Explorer II died a fiery death without going into orbit. The Navy did not immediately reschedule the Vanguard test vehicle for firing, but said that daylight firing is a required objective of this particular test. The Army, meanwhile, made plans for more satellites, but they may be bigger and better than the now dead Explorer II. It said it was building Explorer III and would launch it this spring. The blame for the failure of Explorer II was laid to the 50-pound rocket that carried the satellite to its point of nose. This was the final stage of the Jupiter-C four-stage rocket system. The final stage failed to fire—why scientists don't know and don't expect to find out. The satellite, lacking the added thrust, didn't get up anywhere near the gravity-defying speed of 18,000 miles an hour. Scientists said it took a long time to find out what had happened to the satellite because of conflicting reports. They spent more than 24 hours evaluating the information that came back from the rocket. When the 80-inch satellite and rocket assembly plummeted into the earth's atmosphere again, its speed and the friction of the earth's atmosphere created its own fiery destruction.

Holdings 2 Men In Robbery Case

MONROE, N.C. (AP)—Officers took two men into custody today for investigation into the armed robbery and abduction of a Charlotte used car salesman Wednesday night. The two were arrested without resistance from a wooded area five miles east of Monroe after a resident of the White Stone Road community had telephoned officers he had seen the pair emerge briefly. Officers said they identified themselves as Frank Collins, 21, of Macon, Ga., and Robert Lee Adams of Atlanta, Ga. They were taken to Charlotte to be confronted by L. E. Patterson, who told police he was forced at gunpoint into a car after they had robbed him of his wallet at the mid-town car lot. He said they gagged and bound him and tied him to a vacant house in a housing development 11 miles north of Charlotte. He said he worked loose from his bonds. State Highway Patrolman H. N. Smith ran down the stolen car Wednesday night and the men fled on foot into the woods.

Raise Hopes Of Cancer Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Veterans Administration said today some of its researchers had uncovered evidence "that could point the way toward development of a vaccine for treatment of some types of cancer." The announcement indicated, however, that there is no certainty of such a development. It said studies are being continued in the hope of discovering an anticancer weapon of that type. The VA said the work is being done by doctors at its hospital in McKinney, Tex. It quoted Dr. Russell H. Wilson of that hospital as saying the research "indicates the existence of a natural defense mechanism of the body against cancer, the same type of body reaction which makes vaccine resistant polio and other diseases possible." The announcement said findings indicate that under certain circumstances, products from cancer cells may cause the body to produce substances—perhaps antibodies—which may travel through the blood stream and attack the cancer cells. "Dr. Wilson said the researchers are pursuing these findings in the hope of discovering a way to activate this reaction to an extent that would be useful in destroying the types of malignant growth," the VA said. The researchers were said to be working both with test tube tissue cultures and with patients who volunteered for the studies.

He Was There, But No Idea Of What Happened

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A U. S. Air Force pilot said today he did not know whether ground fire that hit a comrade's F86 jet near the demilitarized zone came from Communist or friendly territory. Lt. Ronald E. Martin of Rock Hill, Mo., said to his knowledge neither plane was close enough to be hit by Communist fire. An official Air Force release said Communist fire hit the plane. However, no protest has been made to the Communists. Martin told a news conference he and the other pilot, who has not been identified, were flying a training mission and were heading for the second of two targets. "Upon reaching it we encountered ground fire," he said. "At approximately the same time I noticed my lead aircraft burst in flame—temporarily. It continued to fly and I followed it down and saw it crash on the side of a ridge." The 25-year-old pilot said he glimpsed a parachute drifting down on the Communist side of the demilitarized zone. He returned to his base at Osan. Martin said he and the other pilot were flying close to their second target but he declined on security grounds to answer questions about altitude, how far he thought they were from the demilitarized zone and what kind of ground fire they encountered. He said he could not be sure of everything because "things happened so fast in a matter of a few minutes."

New Air Center Is Under Consideration

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Is it an enemy plane, or friendly? Which way is it going, and how fast? And if it's an enemy, do we have time for the jet interceptors to get it, or is a missile the only thing fast and accurate enough? These are things U.S. Air Defense Command officers need to know quickly. To enable them to get the decisions fast, a new Air Direction Center, to cost several million dollars, tentatively is planned for the Goldsboro area. The installation would be in the vicinity of nearby Seymour Johnson Air Force Base. Its key component would be a high speed electric computer to use in tracking planes. An ADC spokesman at Colorado Springs, Colo., cautioned yesterday plans are not final and an exact site has not been picked. But it is expected to be built by 1960. An Air Force officer at Ft. Lee, Va., where the first report of the planned installation was given out earlier this week, had said it might cost 55 million dollars. It would be part of the Semi-Automatic Ground Environment (SAGE) system planned for national defense. The center would correlate automatically radar information received from a number of smaller radar units, including one now ready for operation at Winchester, Va. Computers would tell the center operators how best to cope with an enemy plane, making the calculations in seconds rather than the minutes required by personnel.

Recover Body Of Boy From River

NEW YORK (AP)—The body of a seven-year-old boy, still wearing his roller skates, was found yesterday in the Hudson River. Police said an 11-year-old boy had admitted shoving the victim into the river at the same spot he pushed a little girl last summer. Little Louis Diamond had been missing since Sunday. George Jones, Negro, told police Tuesday he shoved both Louis and four-year-old Theresa Murphy to their deaths. The Murphy girl, Negro, drowned in the river last June 23. Authorities said George told them that Theresa got him blamed for things he didn't do.

J. Henry Harrell Pays Filing Fee

J. Henry Harrell of Greenville yesterday paid an $18 filing fee to formally become a candidate for the State Senate. Harrell announced his candidacy last Saturday. Board of Elections Chairman D. S. Spain said Harrell's entry was the only one made yesterday. Spain also announced that former chairman of the Board of Elections Gilbert Peel will accept filing fees "for the next several days" while he (Spain) is out of town.

NEW YORK (AP)—Employer and union representatives today await the arrival of Mayor Robert F. Wagner as the nine-state strike of garment workers continue. Make Jobs Easier For Out-Of-State Teachers

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Board of Education has approved a regulation to make it easier for school teachers from other states to get teaching jobs in North Carolina. The new regulation in effect gives the teachers a year to meet the standards for a North Carolina teaching certificate and permits them to teach during the interim. Dr. Charles F. Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction, pointed out yesterday the regulation will help school systems adjacent to military posts and universities to obtain qualified teachers. Wives of military and college personnel, he explained, frequently hold teaching certificates in their home states. The board adopted regulations governing the operation of the new industrial education program in which the state is preparing to launch. Beginning in September the board hopes to have the first of three or four industrial education centers in operation to meet the demands of industry. Students and adults will be trained for skilled jobs. Local school administration units will have to provide suitable quarters for the centers and a portion of the supplies. The state will provide equipment and pay the salaries of the instructors. Location of the centers has not been determined. Under the regulations, students in the industrial classes must be not less than 16 years of age, preferably high school seniors or out-of-school adults. High school juniors who meet the age requirements can be enrolled for courses extending over a two-year period. The board approved the appointment of A. Wade Martin as state supervisor of trade and industrial education to succeed Murray Thornburg, who resigned to accept a position at North Carolina State College. In other actions, the board: 1. Authorized the calling for bids on 600 new school buses to be used as replacements to the school bus fleet next school year. 2. Approved allocations totaling $787,016 from the state school building fund for school construction projects which will cost, including local funds, a total of $2,082,442. 3. Reduced from 4 to 3 1/2 per cent the state interest rate for charged local school units for the maximum amount of a single loan was increased from $50,000 to $75,000. In emergencies, the board will consider making even larger loans from the fund. 4. Approved a transfer of $163,203 from its reserve fund to increase the schools' fuel allowance as a result of the cold weather.

Ralph Marterie Orchestra Will Provide Concert, Dance Tonight

Ralph Marterie and his orchestra will provide music for a concert and a "Chandeller Ball" at East Carolina College tonight. The social event is sponsored by the freshman, sophomore, and senior classes at the college.

The popular band leader and his orchestra will appear in an hour-long concert beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Wright auditorium. For this attraction of the evening's entertainment there will be admission charges. College students will use their ID cards as tickets.

The dance beginning at 9 p.m. also in the Wright building will be attended by students at the college and their guests. The "Chandeller Ball" will be semi-formal.

Marterie, who has advanced from obscurity to fame in the past four years, has the distinction of being the leader of the most popular dance band among American colleges today. When Down Beat magazine recently took a poll of campus leaders to determine the favorite band of the "smart set" of American youth, Marterie and his orchestra won top place.

As recording artists, Marterie and his orchestra have made more hit records than any other band active in this country today. The link was hardly dry on Marterie's Mercury record contract when his version of "Pretend" made the nation's hit list. In addition to popular single discs, the band has made such popular albums as "Marterie Moods," "Dancing on the Down Beat," and "Strictly Instrumental."

Known as the "Caruso of the trumpet," Marterie built his career on the solid foundation of years of radio work. In his youth he played in such famous radio orchestras as those of Paul Whiteman, Frank Black, Percy Faith, and Nathaniel Shilkret.

After World War II and his discharge from the Navy, Marterie appeared for the American Broadcasting Company with his own network orchestra. His trumpet was featured on his own show and on many other programs originating in Chicago.

Those attending the program at East Carolina College tonight will hear the famous band leader and his orchestra in some of their hit numbers, such as "Crazy Man, Crazy," "Skokiaan," "Shish-Ke-bab," and "Caravan."

Two new members, Mrs. M. H. Braxton and Mrs. Ethel Tyson, were welcomed at the Circle No. 1 meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of Sweet Gum Grove Church Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. David Nobles Jr. was hostess at her home near Stokes. Mrs. Charlie Martin, president, presided over the meeting which opened with a scripture reading by Mrs. Martin.

The treasurer reported a balance of $92.39 and the fifth chairman announced that 275 coupons had been sent to the Children's Home in Middlesex. A motion was carried that the Mission Chairman send $20 to the State Treasurer.

Mrs. Futrell was in charge of the program, "Go, Set A Watchman. Let Him Declare What He Seeth."

Two visitors, Mrs. D. C. Barnhill and Mrs. J. Leon Barnhill, were welcomed by the 11 members present.

After the meeting closed with prayer, the hostess served a salad plate with coffee.

LET 'EM EAT CAKE

From The Home Agent's Desk S-t-r-e-t-c-h-i-n-g Dollars

By FEGGY SMITH

Bargains this week? . . . Not in most supermarkets and grocery stores. The scene on the grocery counters remains almost the same as last week with a little fluctuating in various products.

Locally, fresh vegetables remain in extremely short supplies. Although green vegetables are expected to begin appearing on the Greenville markets in a few weeks.

Meantime, thrifty food shoppers can find most canned and frozen vegetables attractively priced to supplement scarcities of the present fresh produce.

Poultry products offer a lot of high quality protein to the homemaker who wishes to stretch her food dollars.

With the recent increase in egg prices, merchants have an adequate supply of broilers for the local demand.

Homemakers, when shopping by the meat counters, can load their market baskets with pork loins which show the greatest price drop in meats this week.

Remaining unchanged in price from last week, hams and picnics will be another good buy.

On the other hand, if some shoppers wish to splurge on their meats, they can buy high-priced veal and lamb.

Fresh Fruit Bazaar

Quantities of fresh fruit have been reduced on the market because of recent adverse weather conditions in southern fruit growing areas.

In view of the situation, food buyers may find some relief from the high prices and variable supplies of fresh fruit by considering processed fruits and juices.

Processed fruit is available mainly in frozen, canned, and dried forms.

Round Table Elects Officers

A slate of officers for the coming year with Mrs. D. L. Moore as president was presented to the Round Table Club Tuesday afternoon.

Other officers will be Mrs. Robert Fountain, first vice president; Mrs. D. R. Taylor, second vice president; Mrs. W. W. Howell, recording secretary; Mrs. R. B. Lee, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. E. E. Rawl Sr., treasurer.

During the business session presided over by Mrs. Royce Hunsucker members voted to make a donation to the Red Cross Drive.

Mrs. Howell presented Miss Lelia Higgs, guest speaker, who used as her subject "Elsie de Wolfe, Lady Mendl."

Miss de Wolfe engaged in three careers—acting, interior decorating, and entertaining, pointed out Miss Higgs, who said, "Her one desire was to create beauty."

The speaker explained that Miss de Wolfe's gift for friendship opened careers for her. "After living a long, full life she died happily during the Arts Festival."

Mrs. A. R. Harrell and Mrs. Joe Miller were introduced as visitors and Mrs. William McDonald was welcomed as a new club member.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. James O. Bond and Mrs. Quentin Avery.

Mrs. Hart Hostess To Bridge Clubbers

AYDEN—At her home near Ayden on Wednesday night, Mrs. Clarence Hart entertained for her bridge club members at two tables.

Mrs. Dixie Harris was remembered for high. Mrs. Joe Tripp was runner-up. Low prize was won by Mrs. Wilbur Dunn.

The hostess served a sweet course.

UN Speaker's Topic For Thalian Club

The United Nations was the topic chosen by Miss Elizabeth Wilson for elaboration and discussion at the March 4 meeting of the Thalian Book Club.

Miss Wilson on a recent trip to New York visited the home of the U.N. and made an extensive study of its aims and aspirations.

She illustrated her talk with numerous pamphlets, books and models.

The club met at the home of Mrs. F. H. Sugg, who served a two-course luncheon prior to the program. Miss Wilson, Mrs. David Mosler and Mrs. Thomas Guker of Bryn Mawr, Pa. were special guests of the club.

Fountain Junior 4-H'ers Beautify Their School

With Farm Women

By VIRGINIA M. NANCE
(Items this week on: Columbus, Vance, Union, Stokes, and Anson Counties)

Leader Enthusiasm
Enthusiasm of the greatest degree was evident in the home of Columbus County 4-H Leader Mrs. Ralph Norris, Sandy Plain, as she and her sister and co-worker, Mrs. Arthur Cartrette, told their guest, Mr. Francisco Renuitar, 4-H leader from the Philippines, about their community 4-H Club.

According to Home Agent Earline Gibson, Mrs. Norris and Mrs. Cartrette proudly explained the activities and accomplishments of the community club. It was obvious that they get a great deal of enjoyment from serving as 4-H leaders, Miss Gibson pointed out.

Mrs. Cartrette, who has served as leader for the club for five of the seven years since its beginning, brought out one of the most important factors in being a successful leader. As she explained to the Philippine leader, "My husband would let me give up all of my other civic work and community activities before he'd let me give up my work with 4-H boys and girls. He wants me to work with them, because he knows how much enjoyment I get from it, and he realizes the importance of the 4-H organization."

Interest in Discipline
Reports from family life leaders in Vance County's home demonstration clubs have indicated that club women are taking a great interest in what they learned from a recent demonstration, "Discipline, Wise or Otherwise."
Mrs. John Ellington, family life leader of the Cokesbury club, says, "More members took part in discussing discipline problems than usually do. This seemed to be a most timely topic, one of interest to everyone."

According to Imogene H. Garrison, assistant home agent, the Flat Rock club leader, Mrs. W. P. Blanks, reported that "after the demonstration I felt like taking a better look at myself and felt much prouder of my children."
Mrs. Carl Samford, leader from Townsville, made another observation: "This information helped me personally as a mother, and some of the older club members indicated they wished they had had some of this information when their children were young."

Mrs. Clarence Long of Watkins pointed out that "this demonstration caused me to understand the real meaning of discipline and showed me that parents as well as children should be disciplined."
Projects Galore
Mr. and Mrs. Ebb Griffin, Rt. 2, Monroe, are really "do-it-yourself" folks, according to Mrs. Anna Lee P. Howey, assistant home agent.

Mrs. Howey points out that all you have to do is see the variety of projects this Union County family has to believe they enjoy doing things. One recent project was the making of twin beds for their children.
Their latest project, however, has been making a bench and end table for their television room. They also have begun plans on another project, which is reupholstering a chair. Mrs. Howey indicates that they plan to start from the springs and replace everything, and really "do it up right." There's no telling what projects they may attempt in the future.

What Happened To Breakfast?
It has been found through questioning Stokes County 4-H Club members that only approximately 78 per cent reported "usually eating breakfast"—the rest weren't getting any!

Assistant Home Agent Gladys Stamer explains that out of 854 members attending last month's meetings, 189 reported that they did not eat breakfast. Sixty-two per cent of these that did not eat breakfast were senior club members.

Just what were the reasons? Miss Stamer pointed out that the most frequently stated reasons included such things as: "do not have time," "not hungry," and "might gain weight."

"After we received the answers, then we spent the remainder of the meetings discussing each excuse, evaluating it, and studying the needs for well-balanced breakfasts every day," Miss Stamer concluded.

Accused of "Plotting"
Home demonstration club women in Anson County have been accused of "plotting" against their husbands to get them to attend a meeting on home grounds landscaping, and according to Ada Dalla Pozza, home agent, oddly enough their accusations were true!

It seems that last August, the home demonstration program planning committee, who were working on programs for 1958, told Mrs. Dalla Pozza that "we want a demonstration on landscaping for a joint meeting. We want our husbands to learn this, too. We'll take the supper to the meetings, so they'll have to come to get fed. Then we'll have them right where we want them!"

Actually, as it turned out, the men thoroughly enjoyed themselves and are more interested now in improving their home grounds.

Teen - Agers Cram Culture In Russia

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Russian teen-agers are so busy soaking up culture that they barely have time to rest, says opera star Blanche Thebom, who spent six weeks in that country recently while she performed at concerts and in the operas "Carmen" and "Aida."

"The acquisition of education is the primary concern of every person in Russia," Miss Thebom says. "There is no 'the world over' as a living type of thinking by the young people. They know that later gains depend on their educational background."

The educated Russian may own a car, property, or a house in the country, but he cannot even advance in shop work unless he goes back to school, she says. "Even the young girls working on elevators, 16 or 17 years of age, study as they ride up and down. The libraries are open 24 hours a day. The worst thing you can call a person in Russia is uncultured."

The most imposing building in Moscow, she says, is at the University of Moscow which has an enrollment of 22,000. The museums are jammed all the time, and young people in great numbers are at the opera and ballet, which is less expensive than our own opera. Dates are held in cultural atmospheres, such as at concerts. "Young people do go dancing. Folk dancing is held in the opera houses, and there is ball room dancing, a vintage of USA 1937 perhaps. There are record parties at home with classical and pop records. You people drink fruit juices and eat ice cream."

Russian teen-agers are polite, do not push, shout, shove, or talk in a boisterous fashion, she says. They laugh in quiet giggles. But they are not subservient. Youngsters who stand outside hotels to collect coins and stamps do not accept either except in trade. They do not congregate on street corners as do our American teenagers. Boys and girls walk arm in arm or hand in hand. Miss Thebom says that "affection is not frowned on apparently."

The school day is long and there are about five hours home work. Young girls wear jumper-type dresses over ski pants, sweaters, coats and boots. Temperature in winter often reach 18 degrees below zero.

"But in my visit to Sunday church services" says Miss Thebom, "I did not see any young people at church. Except for a few, all the church-goers were over 50."

"The observation is important. It means the well educated Russian of tomorrow may not have spiritual values to guide him."

Never use melted butter in making party sandwiches, because it soaks into the bread.

AYDEN—Mrs. Alton Gardner, program chairman, presented to the Timothy C.W.F. meeting Monday evening the program "Be Ye Perfect," after which the group studied Japan.

Plans were made to serve a supper in the Timothy Community Building on the fifth Saturday night. Mrs. Wilbert Stencil, president, presided.

Mrs. Lewis Lane, hostess, invited guests into the dining room where they served themselves refreshments from a table centered with an arrangement of pink roses flanked by burning pink tapers placed in silver candelabras.

Mrs. Murphy Wins High Bridge Prize
GRIFTON—Mrs. Walter Murphy was hostess Friday night to members of her bridge club and invited players for three tables of bridge at her home on East Queen Street.

Yellow daffodils were used as decorations throughout the home. As guests arrived, they found their places at the card tables and were served banana splits and coffee.

Mrs. Wilbur Murphy compiled the highest score while runner-up was Mrs. Clifton Jackson among the club members and for visitors Mrs. Kenneth Talton. The consolation went to Mrs. Becky Worthington.

30 Years Ago Speaker Tells Current Problems Of Free World

March 7, 1928

Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb Jr. charmingly entertained two tables of bridge last evening, honoring Mrs. Sigmund Levison and Mrs. John Harrington of Springfield, Mass., who are guests of Miss Ward Moore. The home was attractive with spring flowers. High score was made by Mrs. Levison, who was given a beaded necklace. Mrs. Levison and Mrs. Harrington were remembered with sachets. A tempting frozen salad course was served.

A splendid meeting of The King's Daughters was held at the home of Mrs. W. B. Wilson on Tuesday evening. Twenty-five members were present. Much good work done along various lines, ministering to the sick and needy was reported. The hostess served delicious refreshments.

Dr. Steelman feels that from all governmental levels this challenge will be met. "The coordination of the military and scientific levels was one of the first steps in bringing the United States a step further toward meeting this challenge," Dr. Steelman said.

Dr. Steelman of the East Carolina College faculty discussed current problems facing the free world today.

"Our nuclear stockpile is larger than Russia's and our rocket force is growing by leaps and bounds. In spite of the fact that Russia is forging ahead in many fields, the free bloc is well able to take care of themselves," she pointed out.

"The most sinister aspect of the Russian challenge is their intercontinental ballistic missile which has forced all the free nations, particularly the United States and Britain, to answer this challenge."

Refresh without filling

The Light refreshment

Dr. Steelman closed by pointing out, "All the signs point to the sincerity of Russia's desire for the meeting and hopes are felt by all that something good will come out of such a meeting."

Mrs. M. K. Blount, club president, introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Joseph Moye was hostess to the club. Her home was decorated with spring flowers in shades of yellow and white.

Guests were invited into the dining room where a two course luncheon was served from an appointed table.

Mrs. Herbert Waldrop, Mrs. F. Richard Atkinson, Miss Ruth Falson, Mrs. Judson Blount Sr., Mrs. L. M. Buchanan, and Mrs. Tom Davis were guests.

Mrs. Rasberry Named President Of Garden Club

GRIFTON—Mrs. W. E. Rasberry was elected president of the Grifton Garden Club at the club's meeting Monday afternoon in the Home Economics Department.

Other new officers are Mrs. W. L. Daws, vice president; Mrs. Frank Davis, secretary; and Mrs. Archie Rogers, treasurer.

Mrs. H. W. Birdsong presented the program which was on corsage making. During the afternoon corsages were made by members and criticized.

The hostess for the afternoon, Mrs. Robert Mewborn, served light refreshments.

Hodges Entertain At Supper, Bridge

GRIFTON—Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Hodges entertained Friday night at a party at their home on McRae Street with members of their contract club and additional players for three tables of bridge.

In the living room arrangements of white camellias were used and in the dining room where the supper was served buffet style the table was covered with a white cutwork cloth over green and held as a centerpiece large green candles entwined with greenery and interspersed with red camellias and quince. Yellow daffodils were noted as decorations in the den.

As guests arrived tomato juice cocktails were served in the living room and later the barbecue supper and fruit cake as dessert.

During the progression Mrs. Thurman Williams and L. L. Mewborn scored high for club members and among the visitors Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Gravelly. Miss Isabelle Dawson was a supper guest.

Some Satisfaction In Failures

What happened to Explorer II? The nation's leading scientists as well as millions of laymen are asking the same question. The scientists in time will come up with an answer based on whatever information they now have or are able to assemble. The laymen will just have to wait for the answer.

In the meantime we must assume the United States has not yet tied the score with the Soviet Union on space satellites. Russia has successfully launched two satellites, one of which is still in orbit, and we have succeeded in getting only one Explorer in orbit.

Apparently Explorer II was successfully launched, but failed to achieve the precise specifications which are required for a satellite to begin its orbit. Though it is a bitter disappointment, the launching can not be discounted as a dismal failure. Much valuable data obviously was gathered from the test. The effectiveness of the missile used as a launching vehicle was further tested and apparently rendered a satisfactory performance for the most part.

Though we must assume Explorer II is not in orbit, the number of launchings which have been attempted by the United States in the past few months is indicative of the stepped-up missile and satellite program now going on in the United States. We cannot assume we have gained equality in this field with the Russians, but there is every reason to believe we have forged ahead much more rapidly than was the case in the past year.

The United States can ill afford to be satisfied with its present position in the missile satellite field; but there is some satisfaction to be gained from the progress which we have made in recent months despite our failures.

Justifiable Decision Should End The Feud

North Carolina's State Board of Higher Education has justified its position on the proposed housing unit at State College which caused the flare-up between the Board of Higher Education and the Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina.

It would be too optimistic to assume the statement made yesterday by the Board of Higher Education will end the controversy over control which has come now to the forefront in North Carolina. Certainly it is to be hoped the Board of Higher Education and the boards of trustees of state institutions of higher learning will be able to work together. If they can, a great deal of good can be done for these institutions.

If this open conflict between the Board of Higher Education and the University trustees becomes a running fight, however, the institutions for which both these bodies are responsible will suffer.

Though we have not been in agreement with all the decisions reached by the Board of Higher Education, we believe that in this particular matter the board made a wise and completely justifiable decision.

It is our sincere hope that the University trustees will not prolong the controversy on this particular matter and throw it into a political battle that could be detrimental to every state institution of higher learning.

Anybody Can Pluck The Eagle's Tail

Past experience and an objective knowledge of American reaction to given stimuli makes it perfectly safe for any uninhibited country to shoot down our planes, kidnap or kill our citizens and servicemen.

Like Thursday; the North Korean regime was returning a handful of kidnaped people with one hand, and with the other shooting down a U. S. jet plane near the Korean truce border.

They knew, they have long known, they run no danger of retaliation. No element of special courage is required these days to pluck feathers from the eagle's tail . . . anybody can do it.

Even the ignoring of accepted codes of conduct between peoples is understandable and desirable from their point of view. There is no element of "right" and "wrong" involved.

It's hard to take. Self-righteousness can't save all the wounds nor hide burning indignation.

There is no law, no court, no policeman . . . no one and nothing to whom we can appeal. We can't (or won't) strike back; merely turn the other cheek. How many cheeks?

Cold Worsened Business Trend

By ELMER ROESSNER Critical aspects of the present business recession have been worsened by severity of weather this winter.

This is not to blame the slump on the cold and the storms. It would have afflicted business anyhow. But the weather brought out some of the worst features.

The cold in the South did serious damage to the winter supply of fruits and vegetables. Shortages caused higher prices, enabling producers to recoup some of their losses. But there were no compensating blessings for thousands of workers, many of whom were forced into breadlines.

The cold also struck at the winter vacation business. Hundreds fled to Nassau, the Bahamas and other warm spots; thousands cancelled reservations and groaned at home in the north. A vigorous advertising campaign by resorts and civic groups only partially offset losses in what usually is the most profitable season.

AUTO SALES AFFECTED Auto sales usually dip during the first three months of the year. This year they were down even before bad weather struck: then weather struck harder than ever before. Manufacturers trimmed list prices and dealers offered further under-the-counter cuts.

But who in the North wants to buy a new car when snowdrifts block the roads? And many in the South were unable to make new-car money this season. Weather clobbered the apparel trades, too. The lag in Southern sports and beachwear sales is one of the least of the industry's troubles. A grimmer problem is the double shortening of the Easter season. It is being curtailed on one end by the somewhat early Easter, April 6, and on the other end by the severe weather. Cold increased sales of overcoats, galoshes, mufflers and other protective wear. For a while it was difficult to find an ear muff on sale in New York City. But these little bulges in demand far from balanced losses caused by the slow start in spring apparel sales.

Many kinds of outdoor work slow down or stop in the North, and considerable construction is delayed in the South. Building of homes, apartments, office buildings and plants, and of highways and other projects, always dips at this time of the year. The drop was lower this winter.

In New York, city officials and employers worked desperately to end a strike of construction teamsters. The strike was settled, but the men did not return to work. Too much snow, too much cold.

The decline in construction is likely to continue for another two weeks, even though the weather is now mild. The government's long-range weather forecast was for colder than average temperatures from February 15 to March 15, and few constructors are putting men in the field in face of that.

Mining, transportation and other industries have been slowed down more than usual. So has agriculture. All this has affected total employment. Layoffs in one area or in one industry reduce buying power and cause layoffs elsewhere. A snowbound Nebraska butcher, postponing the purchase of an auto, may cause the layoff of a worker in Detroit, who may therefore buy less meat.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS THAT ETERNAL SPIRIT Jesus of Nazareth, viewed historically, was an ancient character. Viewed spiritually, he is a perennial Being. The most modern figure among us today is not nearly so modern as Jesus. The Chinese paint pictures of Him and give Him Chinese features. The people of other Asian countries do the same. We regard Him as a man very much like ourselves. And all these different conceptions are correct. He is the eternal Man. He came out of eternity; He lingered for a brief period in Palestine; He has returned to that eternity from which He came.

There is every indication that as long as human life lasts, this

Before It's Over—

Not Really A 'Walker'

Our household's young lady will soon be a year old . . . which happens to us all at one point in our lives . . . but she doesn't really walk anymore.

Two weeks ago she was walking. One tiny, hesitant step after another; maybe a little bit spraddle-legged, and a good deal of hanging on to something. Still, you could look at it and say "Mary Jane is walking."

With the passage of days and a rise in confidence her style changed to a moderately uncertain careening gait that got her on target with more speed than seemed rightly necessary.

By that, I mean one doesn't expect a TV set to try to avoid capture by two small hands; and the telephone never did run away from anybody, so my knowledge. But the girl seems obsessed by the idea such things must be run down and captured.

She falls, forward and backwards; and lands with a solid thump that draws an anxious glance. Luckily her padding, both natural and supplementary, serves well.

Unlike her brother at this stage of the game, Mary Jane matter-of-factly hoists her stern section into the air, firmly sets her feet and is standing again in short order. Big brother frequently would sit and holler in frustration.

Adults take walking for granted (except when going to a grocery store two blocks down the street), and to me there is always a sense of surprise in watching knee-high humans laboriously learn to keep balance and shuffle one foot ahead of another.

The whole endeavor is obviously one requiring much concentration and a high degree of skill. No wonder the wee ones grin with jubilant pride over advancing from three tentative steps to five, to ten, to a score of them. Once they start there's just no holding 'em back . . . as if anybody would; progress in walking simply is not to be denied.

But then, as I said, Mary Jane has gone beyond mere walking and is in a never-never stage of human transportation. Given time, her admirers expect a relapse into the accepted walking gait.

It promises to end some of the suspense in today's pattern of never knowing where she'll wind up in her peculiarly dashing approach to pedestrianism. One of the joys of March 1958 will have gone, but in its place will be a comfortable end to the unexpected.

By NORMAN WALKER WASHINGTON (AP) — "Business is no good," says the operator of a big hotel on the Las Vegas gambling strip. "Last year we were turning down 500 reservations every week. Now we're turning down 400."

Which helps prove that even with the troublesome recession the country is experiencing there are bright spots. And the encouragement isn't only on the Las Vegas dice tables.

It's reflected in optimism in the long-depressed farm areas. You also see it in the hopes of builders with spring weather coming and the freeze on building money credit thawing.

You find buoyancy too in the boom towns near missile bases like Cape Canaveral, Fla., and Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala., the government's vast atomic works in New Mexico, and the missile fuel factories in Texas.

It's apparent in many areas across the land which have barely felt the recession and report business as good or better than their top levels of prosperity, or only a little off.

The same search by Associated Press newsmen that turned up the gloomy economic facts of life in the jobless areas of Michigan, Pennsylvania and California also brought glowing accounts of conditions elsewhere.

Take Bob Conroy, 38, one of Detroit's jobless army. He and his wife both lost their jobs in early December. They and their two children are living on hopes, state jobless benefit payments and two basement freezers filled with food. "We're living," said Conroy. "We'll get along. I think in a few months something ought to happen. I got a deer during the hunting season last fall and froze the carcass. That's helped."

In Florida, where migrant field hands idled by the crop freezes, are being fed in soup kitchens, business is booming on the state's west coast. There has been an influx of plant construction workers and "snowbirds," the winter vacationers from the North.

Miami Beach, with temperatures back to the normal 70s, has been bidding hard to recoup some of its lost winter tourist business.

A whole trainload of hay bales, 600 of them, was recently sold in eastern Kansas and western Missouri.

A survey of 444 firms by the Chamber of Commerce at Buffalo, N.Y., showed 84 per cent expect business to equal or exceed last year. About a fourth expect to expand employment this year.

There's an almost unanimous view the country isn't headed for a major depression.

In Chicago, Robert C. Tyson, finance chairman of U. S. Steel Corp., said two factors alone should prevent any repeat of 1929. Then, he said, we had a highly speculative stock market financed on thin margins with borrowed money. Now, he said,

Apple Polish Advice

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The boss is the boss again.

The downturn in jobs has made this forgotten figurehead of business a person of importance once more.

It always happens that way. When there are more jobs than people, nobody pays much attention to the boss. He tiptoes around the place obliging to himself — for fear that if he says something out loud he'll hurt somebody's feelings, and the guy'll quit and go to work for a competitor.

But when there are more people than jobs — such as right now — the boss again becomes industry's "father image." The problem of the wise worker then becomes one of how to please his paycheck pappy.

So it is time to revive again the old American art — the art of apple polishing.

Your older hired hands, who've survived bad times before, know how to do this instinctively, just as an old boxer never quite forgets his footwork or how to protect himself in the clinches. It's the young employees, who've never known a recession, who are likely through pure ignorance to get gored by a rampant boss now.

Here are a few tips on how to butter up a boss:

1. First, find out who the boss is. If there is a fellow in your office who used to sneak out to play golf at 2 p.m. but now goes around picking paper clips off the floor to cut down expenses, look no farther.

2. Keep your feet off your desk while he is in view. If he speaks to you, rise to your feet and address him as "sir," a polite term used in ancient times to one's superiors. It is not necessary, however, to salute him — not unless times get really bad.

3. Maintain a serious mien at all times except if the boss tells a joke. In this case laugh first and longest — but don't overdo it. It isn't wise to let the boss know how scared you really are.

4. Never interrupt his old joke to tell a new one of your own. The boss no longer wants you to be amusing on company time. The only reason he is telling you a joke is to keep his own spirits up.

5. When going to the water cooler, stride up quickly and self-confidently — as if you had really earned the right to a drink — gulp a fast one, and return to your desk. Do not linger around the water cooler to ambush the giggling stenographers. Those days are over — for the duration.

6. Around noon go into the boss's office, ask him if you can borrow some salt and pepper, then explain, "A little personal thrift doesn't hurt anyone, chief. I'm bringing my lunch to the office now."

7. Be more helpful in small ways. If you know your boss and his wife are going out for the evening, ask him if you and your wife can't baby-sit for them — for fun. This, of course, is downright toadskin, but it will please your wife to visit the boss's home — and see that his wife is an even lousier housekeeper than she is.

8. Finally, if you are really worried about losing your job, tell your boss, "I want you to be the first to congratulate me, chief. My uncle just died and left me $100,000." For some reason every boss hates to fire an employee who has more money than he does.

Who follows these simple rules will weather practically any office economy drive and probably be the first to get a raise when the boom resumes.

That is, if the boss doesn't lose his own job. There's always that possibility — and it means a terrible waste of butter, too.

Economic Picture Is Not Black

Nebraska, coming out of a bumper crop year after a series of bad ones, counted a 43 per cent hike in crop dollar values which gave the state's farmers 200 million dollars more to spend.

Construction, a laggard in 1957, is looking up. Various government moves have eased money availability.

Home builders in many areas started clearing sites even before early February snows melted away.

George Yamini, Dallas developer, reported sale of 82 lots in one week for $14,000 a home. He said it was due to more liberal credit. Tyler, Tex., expects 30 million dollars to be spent this year in expansion, repairs, streets and highways.

Revised defense work is beginning to show up. For example, construction is starting on a new 65 to 100 million dollar missile base at Cheyenne, Wyo.

Threaded through The AP's survey data are strong suggestions of the mobility and fluidity of the labor force. Workers can and do adjust to other jobs — go elsewhere looking for work.

The electrical manufacturing industry generally has been hurting. People more or less ran out of money to buy home appliances, TV sets, etc. But the electronics end of the industry is beginning to pick up again and with renewed defense spending.

And withdrawal of small appliances from fair trading by several firms may help sales.

Also for those rightly worried about the present shortage of jobs, particularly in the nation's factories, there is the encouraging word from many economists that we are really headed for a labor shortage in a few years — that there will be plenty of work — and pay — for all.

Louisiana reports: "Almost everyone is living high on the hog here." Texas reports is bustling Gulf Coast industries are going full blast. South Dakota says its bank deposits topped 300 million for a record.

It's odd, but two of the sectors that worried the economists most last year — farming and construction — now are improving and carrying much of the hopes for pulling the country up again.

The big story in farming is by broken drought in the Midwest.

The Church's Influence on Society ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Matthew 5:1-2, 13-16; Acts 19:21-41; 1 Thessalonians 5:4-8; James 2:14-17; 1 Peter 1:13-16, 22.

Seeing multitudes of people following Him, Jesus went up into a mountain and spoke to them, teaching of the blessings in store for those who practice meekness, righteousness, purity of living and peace.

"Ye are the light of the world," Christ told His disciples. He instructed them to let their light shine before men as a lighted candle, set in a candlestick, which gives light to all that are in the house.

St. James, in his epistle to his brethren scattered abroad, reminded them that faith is not enough. It must be combined with good works, in helping less fortunate sisters and brothers in their need.

On the subject of intemperance, St. Peter pleads with followers of Christ to be sober. He urges them to be holy in their lives, even as Christ Jesus was holy.

HOW, FOLLOWING JESUS' TEACHING, WE MAY HELP TO MAKE THE WORLD BETTER

Scripture—Matthew 5:1-2, 13-16; Acts 19:21-41; 1 Thessalonians 5:4-8; James 2:14-17; 1 Peter 1:13-16, 22.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. "And seeing the multitudes, He went up into a mountain; and when He was set, His disciples came unto Him; and He opened His mouth, and taught them..."

There were no gods made with hands. The whole city became confused and for two hours the crowds shouted "with one voice, Great is Diana of the Ephesians."

"Ye are the salt of the earth," Jesus told His disciples, but if, like salt that has lost its savor, they are not diligent in their faith and active in spreading the gospel...

"If Demetrius, and the craftsmen which are with him, have a matter against any man, the law is open, and there are deputies; let them implead one another."

tioning by the authorities and he dismissed the assembly. This incident is one form of intemperance, where men lose their temper without cause...

Now Paul, preaching in the great city of Ephesus, was most successful in making converts to the Gospel, and "mightily grew the word of God."

St. James says that even faith is not enough for the Christian, but his works of charity and helpfulness must also be combined with his faith.

Books & Stuff

By Dr. ED HIRSHBERG
March came in like a lamb and we hope will go out the same way, in spite of tradition. The month will see an important event for the city's folks — National Library Week, from March 16 to 22. Its motto will be "Wake Up and Read" and it will be celebrated around here in all sorts of ways. Pitt County chairman is Mrs. David Whitchard, II, who has been arranging TV and radio programs, speeches and whatnot to remind all and sundry that, as John Milton once said, "A good book is the life's blood of a master spirit."
March also is celebrated as the month when Julius Caesar had his big troubles — the Ides of March — which is the 15th — was the day when he was stabbed in the Senate, if you remember. And Harriet Beecher Stowe came out with "Uncle Tom's Cabin" on March 20, 1852, the date of its first publication in Boston, Mass. . . . On the 26th, Robert Frost, said by some to be America's greatest living poet, will be 84 years old, and still going strong — we hope we can say the same when we're 84 . . .

fealist efforts to reach them. After much trial and error and many bottles later, he manages to take himself to the town where they currently reside. In his frantic effort to find the house where they live he meets with an accident which eventually proves fatal. He is taken to the hospital where his wife has employment as a mental worker. The brief reunion with his family brings happiness to all of them and leaves the reader feeling that in death the father has justified his existence at last.
This story should give pause to those of us who sigh for "things" as we toast our toes at our own hearthstone.

Best Seller
Though everybody didn't like "Peyton Place," an awful lot of people seem to be reading it. As a matter of fact, it has become the nation's second place best-seller, only behind "God's Little Acre," which has sold nearly 7,000,000 copies. "Peyton Place" has gone well over 5 million, with "Gone With the Wind" running third. These figures take into account both paperback and hardcover sales. "Peyton Place" in the movie version is coming here soon, by the way, opening at the local cinema March 21 . . .

PLEASE DON'T EAT THE DAISIES, By Jean Kerr. New York: . . . And Harriet Beecher Stowe came out with "Uncle Tom's Cabin" on March 20, 1852, the date of its first publication in Boston, Mass. . . . On the 26th, Robert Frost, said by some to be America's greatest living poet, will be 84 years old, and still going strong — we hope we can say the same when we're 84 . . .

Several deal with situations which arise in many households; others are peculiar to Mrs. Kerr's family of four lively sons, all under 10 years old, she finds that the best place to write is in her car, parked well away from the house. That way there is no chance of overhearing a voice say, "Listen, stupid, the water is supposed to go in the top." Jean Kerr is very frank about her children. As she says, "They'll never have to pay a psychiatrist twenty-five dollars an hour to find out why we rejected them. We'll tell them why. We rejected them because they're impossible, that's why." Life may not be a bed of "daisies" in their home, a huge brick castle complete with cupolas and a 32 bell carillon, but Mrs. Kerr faces it with a sense of humor, not with a jaundiced eye.
Nor does she write solely about the trials and tribulations of family life with her four sons and drama-critic husband. In this book are included two clever parodies, one of which, "Don Brown's Body," had me laughing out loud. And that's what you'll be doing when you read "Please Don't Eat the Daisies."

Officers said Lunsford and Frady were the principals in a roadside fight that attracted the attention of a passing motorist, A. M. Whitener, 41, of Clover, S.C.
Whitener said he slowed down when he saw the fight and the crowd gathered around. Then, he said, the men jumped into a car and began chasing him at speeds up to 100 miles an hour.
He said he guessed there had been a wreck when he lost his pursuers at the bridge over Catawba Creek and telephoned police.

Death Threat Tale Adds To Confusion

CINCINNATI (AP) — Now the report of a death threat has entered into the confusing Marie McDonald kidnap case.
Los Angeles officers said here last night the curvaceous 34-year-old screen actress told them her claim Wednesday that her estranged husband, millionaire Harry Karl, engineered the kidnaping came after she had received an anonymous telephone call. She said it was from a man who referred to the kidnaping and threatened her life.
After a long questioning period Los Angeles Detective Lt. Herman Zander said Miss McDonald's charges against her husband "appear to be consistent" with her first story of the kidnaping.
It was a little more than a year ago that the blonde Miss McDonald reported she had been kidnaped by two men, held captive for 24 hours and then released on their desert 110 miles from her Encino, Calif., home.
A grand jury investigation at which Miss McDonald testified failed to bring any charges.
Wednesday, Miss McDonald, currently appearing in a northern Kentucky night club, told a press conference Karl engineered the kidnaping.
Detective Chief Thad Brown of Los Angeles said it was the first time he had ever heard the story and sent two officers here. Zander said he and Julian

Budgett of the Los Angeles prosecutor's office were told by Miss McDonald that she didn't mention Karl in her previous story "because he implored her not to and because of her desire to protect the children."
At Los Angeles, Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson has invited both Karl and Miss McDonald to take lie detector tests.
Miss McDonald made the accusations against Karl a day after he had said he was asking her to divorce him and that he was in love with another woman.
Karl called Miss McDonald's charges "absurd and ridiculous" and "a poor way to get publicity."

Dr. I. E. Ready Named To Head Schools Study

RALEIGH (AP)—Dr. I. E. Ready is stepping down as superintendent of the Roanoke Rapids City Schools to direct a comprehensive study of North Carolina's public school curriculum.
His appointment for a two-year term at a salary of $12,500 a year was announced yesterday by the State Board of Education. He will begin his new duties April 1.
The study will be made to see if the course being offered in the public school system is adequate for education in the atomic age.
"This study," Dr. Ready said, "will seek to tap every resource that gives promise of helping the board to reappraise the public school curriculum. Such a reappraisal will require that objectives, methods, materials, organization, administration, supervision, personnel all be examined. Strengths will be recognized and will be supported strongly. Weaknesses will be identified and steps recommended for their removal."
Meanwhile, the Roanoke Rapids Board of Education announced that J. W. Talley will succeed Ready as superintendent. Talley has been principal of Roanoke Rapids High School for 13 years.
The curriculum study will be financed initially through a grant of $50,000 provided by the Smith Richardson Foundation of Greensboro. A part-time and full-time staff will be secured to assist Dr.

Vaccinate 5,065 Dogs At Clinics

A total of 5,065 dogs were vaccinated at private and public rabies control clinics during February, the Pitt County Health Department announced today.
Health Department personnel said 3,689 of the inoculations with a new three-year vaccine were made at public clinics staged by the Health Department and cooperating licensed veterinarians. The other 1,376 inoculations were made by veterinarians in private clinics.
Although the total was "slightly more" than last year's total, Health Department personnel said it fell short of the county's estimated dog population of 7,500. They also pointed out that dogs which are not vaccinated and tagged are subject to be picked up by county dog wardens.
The program of public clinics started slowly, due to extreme weather conditions, but the number of dogs vaccinated at later clinics increased. Biggest total for any single day was last Saturday when 591 dogs were inoculated at a three-hour clinic in Greenville.
Health Department personnel said dogs which did not receive rabies control shots during the period of special clinics would be required to get them from private veterinarians before tags can be issued.
Canada's population is 16,900,000.

Rain, Snow And Beans In Storm

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rain, snow, hail and even navy beans hit southern California in a wind-pushed storm yesterday.
Miss Telo Emerson, 37, of suburban Van Nuys, thought she saw hail hitting her office building. The pellets were ice-coated navy beans. The Weather Bureau said winds in the fields north of the Tehachapi Mountains could have swirled the beans aloft and carried them some 30 miles to the San Fernando Valley.

Test Noises On Milk Production

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Does the roar of jet planes disturb the cows mildly munching green grass below?
Michigan State University scientists are trying to find out.
W. W. Snyder, MSU dairy researcher, said milk production data is being collected from farm areas near several Michigan jet plane bases. By comparing rate of production with the number of jet flights a day it is hoped to get some indication of the impact of the noise on the cows.
Snyder said some cattlemen have complained about noise affecting production.

Duke Meets Maryland, UNC Faces NCS In ACC Tournament Tonight

Four Leading Teams To Make Tight Finish

RALEIGH (AP)—There will be no upsets in the 1958 Atlantic Coast conference basketball tournament. The top four teams, who've been chopping each other up all year, are still at it.

Duke, top-seeded and No. 6 nationally, opens tonight's semifinals program at 7:30 (EST) against Maryland.

North Carolina's defending conference and NCAA champions meet North Carolina State in the second game. All four clubs rank in the nation's top 20. North Carolina is 13th, State 14th and Maryland 17th.

Each had a scare before putting down a second division foe in yesterday's doubleheaders, which drew 2,000.

North Carolina, trailing Clemson by 12 points after 12 minutes, stepped up its 25 per cent first half shooting figure to better than 80 per cent in the last half for a 62-51 victory.

Duke came from behind in the last seven minutes to check Wake Forest, 51-44; North Carolina State slipped past South Carolina, 66-61; and Maryland, after losing a 13-point lead, edged Virginia, 70-66.

Tonight's winners meet tomorrow night for the title and a berth in NCAA regional play against Boston College Tuesday night in New York. Should North Carolina State win it would be ineligible to go on to NCAA competition. The school is under NCAA probation until November of 1960 for basketball recruiting irregularities. The runnerup would gain the berth.

During the season Duke split two games with Maryland, losing by 25 points and winning by nine. North Carolina won two from State, but lost a third game in overtime.

Wake Forest went scoreless for six minutes in the second half after taking a 36-35 lead over Duke and that lapse gave the Blue Devils the edge. Eight points by Bucky Allen featured a Duke string of 12 to clinch the hard fought victory.

Gene Danko's only basket of the game and a foul shot after it, with 1:47 left, carried Maryland past a menacing Virginia team.

Clemson, which lost two regular season games to the Tar Heels, led after 12 minutes, 20-8 and despite an eight-minute basket famine, led at halftime, 24-19. After nine minutes of the second half North Carolina got even for the first time, 34-34.

In the next four minutes the Tar Heels built up a nine-point lead and, aided by Clemson mistakes, stayed on top.

Ray Stanley, a Brooklyn, N.Y., sophomore who'd scored only 20 points in 18 games for North Carolina, hit 7 of 11 shots, tallied 16 points and led the rebounding chores with 10.

North Carolina State gave coach Everett Case his 300th victory in 12 years at State, but only after a hard-fought struggle with South Carolina.

Lou Pucillo scored 19 of his 33 points to pace State to the lead at the half, 32-27. State led by eight with five minutes left, only to have South Carolina trim the lead to 58-57 with three minutes to go. Then State ate up 90 seconds with a freeze and John Richter tapped in a basket for a three-point lead with 1:59 to play. Six closing points by Pucillo nailed it down.

Major Teams Win In First Rounds

By DON WEISS The Associated Press If NCAA officials are heaving a temporary sigh of relief today, it's because the "biggies" they want for their championship basketball clambake have passed their first tests in the post season tournaments of the Southern and Atlantic Coast Conferences.

All four seeded teams, including regular season champ Duke and defending conference and national champ North Carolina, advanced in the ACC meet at Raleigh, West Virginia, swept its first-round game in the Southern loop's tournament at Richmond.

The postseason tournaments decide who fills the automatic NCAA berths from the two conferences. The club that outbatted 'em all season could lose out.

Tonight in the ACC, top-seeded Duke plays fourth-seeded Maryland, and second-seeded North Carolina State (ineligible for the NCAA) meets third-seeded North Carolina. Each survived a first-round scare.

Duke rallied on a 12-point streak in the second half to top Wake Forest 51-44, North Carolina, 12 points behind at one stage, picked up to beat Clemson 62-51. North Carolina State downed South Carolina 66-61. Maryland spilled stubborn Virginia 70-66 on Gene Danko's layup basket and free throw with 1:47 left.

In the Southern tournament, West Virginia plays Richmond, and George Washington faces William and Mary.

West Virginia romped over Davidson yesterday 91-61 with its usual balanced attack while Richmond downed the Citadel 63-59. George Washington beat Furman 73-59 and William and Mary eliminated Virginia Tech 79-61.

The Mountaineers are important in NCAA plans because they happen to be the No. 2 team nationally, a swift, classy outfit with a 24-1 record, and a good bet to wind up No. 1 when the experts vote in next week's final Associated Press poll.

Wyoming blew a chance to clinch the Skyline championship and an NCAA berth, and the NCAA Small College Tournament got under way in last night's other features.

Utah, bound for the National Invitation Tournament, tripped Wyoming in overtime 81-74. Wyoming 10-3, holds a one-game lead over Colorado State U. in the Skyline race, each with one game left. Colorado State lost a chance to pull into a tie, dropping a 51-44 decision to Montana. If they tie for the title, a flip of the coin will decide the NCAA representative.

Akron defeated Austin Peay 76-61 and Evansville edged Wabash 70-68 in overtime at Evansville in first-round games in the Midwest regional of the NCAA Small College Tournament.

Tonight, the 30 others in the 32-team field got under way at seven other regional points, including defending champion Wheaton, (Ill.) against St. Norbert of Wisconsin.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Arnold (Tony) Schiffman of Greensboro and Grant Nash of Tarboro have been named co-captains of North Carolina's swimming team for next season.

Schiffman and Nash were outstanding performers on the 1958 team which wound up the season undefeated.

The election featured a squad banquet at which several awards were presented. Harry Bloom of Baltimore, Md., was named captain of the undefeated freshman team for this past season. He also was presented the Dick Jamerson trophy for being the outstanding freshman swimmer.

Bench Vs Bench And Man Vs Man In SC Tourney

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—It's bench against bench and iron men against iron men here tonight in the semifinals of the Southern Conference's 38th championship basketball tournament.

West Virginia and Richmond, the clubs with most strength in reserve, tangle in the first semifinals match at 7:30 p.m. George Washington and William and Mary, the teams with least in reserve, meet at 9:30.

These were the four survivors of yesterday's first-round firing in the Richmond Arena and only the success of darkhorse William and Mary was a surprise. The Indians, in the last opening-round skirmish, clouted Virginia Tech 79-61.

Earlier, magnificent West Virginia had notched its 34th consecutive conference victory by trouncing Davidson 91-61, Richmond had nudged the Citadel 63-59 and George Washington had bounced Furman 73-59.

Tonight's semifinals antagonists know each other very well. West Virginia whipped Richmond twice during the regular season, needing an overtime session to get by the Spiders 76-74 in December but scoring a much more decisive 72-60 victory at the Arena last month. George Washington and W&M split even in two meetings. W&M taking the first 71-60 and George Washington the second 91-80.

Both second-ranked West Virginia and Richmond showed off their depth in yesterday's first round.

West Virginia shot 49 per cent and had a 44-27 edge in rebounds over spunky Davidson but got nearly half its points—43 all told—from reserves before finally putting the Wildcats to rout. The Mountaineers' grand total of 91 points was just six shy of the tournament record of 97.

Richmond got an early spree from freshman Red Booker and a late one from freshman Terry Litchfield in standing off The Citadel. Booker collected 12 of his 18 points, tops for the Spiders, in the first half when Richmond forged a 31-25 lead. In the second half, after The Citadel closed to a point, Litchfield sank four consecutive push shots from the corner to bail the Spiders out of danger. Ray Graves had 21 points for The Citadel.

But it was neither West Virginia nor Richmond which made the biggest first-day impression on the fans. George Washington, using very green players, looked the very picture of a team that could give West Virginia all kinds of trouble en route to its victory over fast-moving Furman.

The Colonials, led by Bucky McDonald (20 points) and Bill Telasky (24), shot a sizzling 53 per cent in the first half for a 10-point lead. Their fast break had West Virginia coach Fred Schaus shaking his head.

"They can run with us," said Schaus, "and I'm worried about anybody who can do that."

Furman, which was paced by Byron Pinson with 21 points, pulled to within two points with a second-half outburst but "Telasky's driving layups got the Colonials back in the groove in the last eight minutes and they won going away. William and Mary trailed Virginia Tech at halftime 33-32 but pulled out of a 37-37 tie after four minutes of the second half and with all-Southern Roy Lange getting 18 of his 24 points after intermission, gave the Techmen a solid licking.

Williamston Knocks Chicod Out Of Tourney

AHOSKIE—Chicod's high-scoring Jimmy Fornes met his match last night in the District 1 Class A playoffs here, and the results were an 81-63 Williamston win over Chicod.

Gaylord Perry, 6-2 Williamston scoring ace, bucketed 40 points here last night to lead his Green Wave to second-round triumph in the district tourney. Perry outscored Fornes, but the 5-9 Chicod cager still managed to rack up 25 points.

Perry started out in fine style, chalking up 16 points in the first quarter and added 10 more before the half was over.

Bath defeated West Bertie in the second game of the night here, 68-42.

Tomorrow night, Ayden and Gatesville clash in the semi-finals, and Bath will battle Williamston.

Ballplayer Is Seeking Cure

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Baseball star Ed Bouchee, placed on probation for three years yesterday on an indecent exposure involving minor girls, will enter the Institute of Living in Hartford, Conn., for psychiatric treatment at the expense of the Philadelphia Phillies.

There were indications Bouchee, who is 25 today, would be given another chance at professional baseball if he is cured of what a psychiatrist told the court was "compulsive exhibitionism."

The Philadelphia ball club, which hired an extra lawyer for Bouchee here and arranged for his continued psychiatric treatment, still had no official comment on his future.

"Let him get well before we start thinking about his playing baseball," said Bob Carpenter, president of the Phillies.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said he wished Bouchee "all the luck in the world" in seeking a cure.

Bouchee, whose wife is expecting a second child, will fly to Philadelphia today or tomorrow and go on to the clinic from there.

He pleaded guilty at his arraignment last month to two charges of indecent exposure, involving girls 6 and 10. He had admitted to police that he enticed the girls into his station wagon, showed them indecent pictures and exposed himself.

The charge is a felony in Washington and the husky young father could have drawn a maximum sentence of up to 20 years in the state penitentiary.

Dr. Robert M. Phillips, a psychiatrist who had treated Bouchee while he was free on $2,500 bond, told the court that the exhibitionist compulsion can be controlled and cured.

Judge Ralph Edgerton, who had studied a pre-sentence investigation, said the ballplayer had an excellent reputation, was not antisocial and was assured of employment.

Showing The Boys How To Take 'Em On The Run

Veteran New York Yankee outfielder Hank Bauer shows a pair of rookies how to grab low line drives on the run at the spring training camp in St. Petersburg, Fla. Watching Hank are Norm Siebern and Deron Johnson who are bidding for regular places on the squad. Siebern hit .349 for Denver in the American Association last year, and Johnson's average at Binghamton in the Eastern League was .303. (AP Wirephoto)

This Year's First Basemen Could Be Best In Many Years

By BEN OLAN For some reason the caliber of major league first basemen seems to have deteriorated in the past couple of decades.

That's not a knock at such players as Stan Musial of St. Louis, Gil Hodges of Los Angeles, Joe Adcock of Milwaukee or Bill Skowron of New York.

It's just that baseball fans in the mid 1930s could point to such crackerjacks as Jimmy Fojax, Lou Gehrig, Hank Greenberg, Bill Terry, Johnny Mize, Phil Cavaretta, Hal Trosky and Joe Kuhel. When Ted Kluszewski stepped down to rest an ailing back last season it further diminished the first-base ranks.

Now Kluszewski says he'll be ready soon. And with hard-hitting youngsters Orlando Cepeda of the San Francisco Giants, Ron Jackson of the Chicago White Sox and Marv Throneberry of the Yankees all battling for big league jobs in spring training, the pendulum may swing the other way.

Kluszewski, traded from Cincinnati to Pittsburgh during the winter, said: "I've felt good so far, I have started to put a little more into my swing down in the batting cage and I should be ready to go in a couple more weeks."

The Pirates can use Kluszewski's power. The game's celebrated muscle man has hit 251 homers in 11 seasons and shows a lifetime batting average of .302.

Cepeda and Harry Simpson, a part-time first baseman for the Yankees last season, also warmed up effectively for the opening of Saturday's exhibition schedule. Both hit home runs in intrasquad games. Simpson's was a grand-slammer.

The Dodgers, who will meet the Phillies Saturday night in Miami, had Johnny Podres pitch three innings in an intrasquad game. Podres showed no serious effects from the gashed forehead and wrenched neck he suffered in automobile accident Wednesday.

Duke Snider, who was also in the accident, was in uniform but he did not play.

Percy Flowers' Safe Is Opened

DURHAM (AP)—Federal and state tax authorities yesterday opened the safe seized last July from the county store run by alleged liquor baron J. Percy Flowers. But they were disappointed the curious by refusing to say what they found. Flowers was taken to the Federal Penitentiary in Atlanta this week to complete serving a year-and-a-day sentence for contempt of court. After that he will have 18 months to serve on state sentences. A revenue officer guarded the entrance to the room where the safe was opened. At least nine persons were present including two of the 53-year-old Flowers' attorneys. P. K. Sanders and J. E. Walls, director and assistant director of the District U.S. Internal Revenue Service in Greensboro, also attended. The safe was seized when Flowers' county store in Johnston County was padlocked. Guarded day and night, it remained in the sheriff's office there until Judge J. Clawson Williams signed an order relinquishing the Eastern District Court's control over it and it was transferred here last month. Guesses about the contents of the safe have ranged as high as $50,000 to $100,000 in money and valuables. But its exact contents may remain undivulged until the Eastern District Court rules on the tax impairment.

Conciliation Group Set Up In Cuba To Aim For Peace

HAVANA (AP)—A "National Conciliation Committee" was set up last night with the backing of the Roman Catholic Church to work for peace in Cuba. The committee, made up of two former vice presidents, a banker and a priest, said in a statement it plans to conduct "the necessary interviews with the government and with all the opposition groups to get their respective points of view." The statement did not say whether talks were planned with Fidel Castro's rebels, whom President Fulencio Batista's government regards as outlaws rather than legitimate political opponents. The two political figures on the conciliation committee are Dr. Gustavo Cuervo Rubio, vice president in Batista's first government, and Dr. Raul de Cardena, vice president under Ramon Grau San Martin. Grau is running against Batista's candidate in the June 1 presidential elections. Batista had rejected a church appeal to include opposition parties in his government. A new Cabinet, named so that members of the last government could campaign for the election, was sworn in yesterday. Opposition parties said the new Cabinet consists of Batista supporters although many of its members are businessmen with no political record. The new Cabinet promised to continue the fight against Castro's guerrillas and to insure an honest election. The Cabinet said that international observation of the election, proposed by Castro, "could represent interference by an outside organization in our internal affairs." But it added that if the opposition insists on foreign observers, the government might consider the idea "as an indication of good faith."

Composers Lose Suit To Collect From Godfrey

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP)—A State Supreme Court justice has ruled against composers Carmen Lombardo and John J. Loeb, who sought additional royalties from Arthur Godfrey's theme song. Godfrey plays parts of the theme melody, "Seems Like Old Times," a total of 12 times daily on his daytime radio and television shows. Under the rules of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, this counts as only one playing and royalties are assessed accordingly. Lombardo, brother of band leader Guy Lombardo, and Loeb sued ASCAP to break the ruling, contending they should be entitled to royalties for each excerpt of the theme that Godfrey plays. Justice Mario Pittoni dismissed the suit. Pittoni noted that the song already has netted the composers $340,000 from Godfrey's programs.

Navajo Couple And 4 Children Killed By Train

YUCCA, Ariz. (AP)—A Navajo Indian couple and their four children were killed last night when a passenger train smashed into their pickup truck at a twilight darkened crossing. Sheriff's Deputy Todd Long said the Chicago-to-Los Angeles Santa Fe Chief hit the truck broad side and pushed it for about a mile down. Long said the truck, which was demolished by the impact, was stopped at the crossing but that he didn't know why. He identified the dead as Dale Nelson, 29, a Santa Fe section hand; his wife Elsie, 22; two sons, Timson, 7, and David, 3, and two daughters, Helen, 6, and Sarah, 1. The family lived at Powell Crossing, where the accident occurred. None of the train passengers were injured. The deputy estimated the train was traveling between 90 and 100 m.p.h.

Eighteen Inches Of Rain Falls On Hawaiian Island

HONOLULU (AP)—The worst rain-storm in Oahu's recorded history ended yesterday, leaving heavy property damage and one death. The Weather Bureau forecast occasional showers today but cheered tourists with a promise of sun as well. Eighteen inches of rain fell on Hawaii's principal island to beat all records kept since the turn of the century. In one sodden area 24 inches were reported unofficially. A record 14.55 inches fell in 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. yesterday. The previous one-day record was 13.52 set in 1917. The weatherman said danger of another onslaught from a second storm front had ended. Scores of homes were inundated or otherwise damaged. A 57-year-old fisherman was swept off a sampan by a giant wave at the height of the storm and presumably drowned.

Studied At, Or For, The Bar

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"It looks to me like you're studying at a bar instead of for the bar," actress Jo Ann Scherer says she told her husband. "He flew into a tantrum and moved out." On that testimony the 25-year-old movie and television player yesterday divorced Atty. Clifford B. Scherer, 29. She told the court he had come home with lipstick on his shirt and liquor on his breath from evenings out to study for the state bar examination. She charged cruelly.

Telephone Company Is Asking New Rate Hike

RALEIGH (AP)—Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co., which put into effect last November rate hikes totaling 1 1/2 million dollars, wants to charge more than these increases. The company, in a new petition filed yesterday with the Utilities Commission, did not specify how much more of a rate increase it thinks it should be permitted to charge. Instead, it asked the commission for authority to charge whatever is required to produce a fair rate of return on the company's investment. The commission had set a hearing for April 1 on the original request for rate increases of 1 1/2 million. The company posted bond of $750,000 and put the increases into effect. In its latest petition, the company requested that the commission hear both requests at the same time, which means a delay in the April 1 hearing. Carolina Telephone said its rate of return was 4.51 per cent on an investment of some 68 million dollars prior to the rate increases put into effect in November. It added the new rate schedule "will not produce revenues for a reasonable future period...sufficient to give to the company a fair rate of return." A return of 6 per cent has been the commission's standard. A number of towns and communities served by Carolina Telephone have formed an organization to oppose the increases.

A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

CHAPTER 22

"I'd come to place utmost confidence in Forbes," said Ramez. "I do not make many mistakes. Dolan. This was one of them. I gave the five hundred thousand dollars to Forbes. He was to deliver the money in San Andres to a trusted follower of mine, a member of the resistance forces in the hills."

"Yes?" I waited for him to continue.

"The half million dollars was never delivered to my friend. I would say, off-hand — and without knowing exactly how it happened, of course — that Carrasco got the money."

Ramez face flushed. He was on the verge of losing his temper. "Carrasco never got that money! He found out, through an informant, that Forbes had been working for me. He appeared before a secret tribunal and was ordered executed for being a secret agent. But no mention of the money was ever made! I was able to obtain a complete transmission of the accusations and all the testimony. The fact that Forbes was revealed to Carrasco as an enemy agent at approximately the same time the five hundred thousand dollars disappeared was purely coincidental."

"I'm a little mixed up," I said. "When Jack Forbes disappeared there was somewhat of a hue and cry in the papers. The State Department — ours — demanded an investigation. Carrasco himself announced the result of that investigation. He said it had been determined that Forbes and a fellow pilot of his — a man named Ruiz, if I remember correctly — were on bad terms. They fought. Ruiz killed Forbes, then threw his body over a cliff into some shark-filled water. Ruiz later hanged himself from a shower-head in a cell in a prison in San Andres and left a note confessing all this."

Ramez shook his head. "It is possible that you believe this part. After all, the fact that the man is dead is all that matters to you. The nature of his death is of no concern to you. It was politically expedient to Carrasco that Forbes die. He knew too much about Carrasco's secret operations. It is highly unlikely that Forbes could have quit his job and left Coronado alive under any circumstances — even if it had not been discovered that he had been an agent of mine. He just knew too much. So did he die."

"The United States, through its State Department, would have been outraged, would have been forced to impose some sort of censure on Coronado if it were revealed that they had executed an American citizen — without at least a fair and public trial. So Forbes was seen in San Andres. In the meantime my men were able to determine that the man who'd been with Forbes was, as they had originally presumed, an agent for the land office. That day he'd flown in a FBY with a Mr. Davis, an American citizen. He'd shown Mr. Davis certain real estate for sale by the British government. Most of this real estate had been seen from the air. One estate had caught Mr. Davis' fancy. The plane had landed and Mr. Davis had gone ashore, alone. He had explained to the land office agent that he wished to make his decision uninfluenced by anyone else's opinion. The agent had thought it rather a strange request at the time. But he had given the key to the house on the estate to Mr. Davis and had waited in the airplane for Mr. Davis to complete his lonely tour of inspection.

"When Mr. Davis returned to the FBY, bringing with him, by the way, the suitcase he had taken ashore after explaining to the agent that it contained camera equipment with which he planned to make a photographic record of the estate, he seemed, according to the agent, most enthusiastic about the property. Upon the return of the two men to the land office he paid the equivalent of thirty-two thousand pounds, in cash, in American money — for the entire purchase price — for the estate he'd inspected. The agent was most impressed by the fact that Mr. Davis was able to produce this much money in cash."

Ramez had thrown a lot of facts at me. Some added up, some didn't. My head was spinning. I was suddenly weary.

"All right, General," I said. "You seem to know a lot more about this than I thought you did. There are a couple of things, however, that you haven't told me. Who was the girl who visited Forbes in his apartment? And where is this estate that Forbes bought?"

He shook his head. "You are a most difficult man to convince, Dolan." He paused for a moment. Then he said, "The girl — Maria Blending Forbes — Jack Forbes' widow. The estate — right here!"

He moved slowly toward me. As I watched him the thin veneer of civilization seemed to fall away from his face and leave it naked with greed.

His voice had become almost shrill. "Where is the money, Dolan?"

Brad Dolan discovers that it is easier to talk himself into trouble than out of it. "Miami Manhunt" continues here tomorrow.

Twining Denies Soviet Strength Is 'Superior'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff says that from an over-all point of view the free world is "superior militarily and industrially to the Soviet bloc."

Gen. Nathan F. Twining told the Western Industrial Survival Conference yesterday that the Soviet bloc is on a war footing "during a period of supposed peace" and has nearly as many divisions and more weapons, than it had in World War II.

"Some of you may think that the discrepancy in ground and naval forces between the free world and the Soviet bloc puts us in an inferior position, but this is not so," he said. "Military strategy and power are not based on numbers alone but on such factors as geography, industrial production, natural resources and quality of manpower and equipment."

A Day With Dulles

8:17 A.M.

Secretary Dulles arrives and James Payne takes his coat and hat. The Secretary holds papers that he read in car on way to office.

Not everyone may agree with President Eisenhower that John Foster Dulles is the best Secretary of State since Thomas Jefferson, but nobody doubts his durability, or his attention to duty. Seventy years old, he's a glutton for work.

Here is how he whizzes through an ordinary day in Washington. About 8:15 in the morning he arrives at his office, a spacious carpeted room in a suite on the fifth floor of the State Department Building. His first task is to check office memos left on his desk. Immediately afterwards he gives dictation to his personal secretary, Miss Mildred Asbjornson. Shortly after 9, he calls in his staff for the daily conference. The rest of the morning he spends meeting with foreign ambassadors, visiting diplomats, and with his aids. At 1 o'clock, he has lunch alone in a room down the hall from his office.

An hour later, Dulles is back at his desk. The afternoon is taken up with dictation, writing notes, more meetings with foreign dignitaries, phone calls, more talks and meetings. Between times he may be visited by members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee or he may get a briefing on a security council meeting. There's scarcely a letup until about 6:30 or 7, when he leaves for home.

8:20 A.M.

No time is lost in getting started. Dulles' private secretary, Miss Mildred Asbjornson, takes down directive to staff.

9:14 A.M.

Dulles, at head of table, presides over daily staff conference. Attending are all assistant secretaries and special assistants.

1 P.M.

He enjoys solitary lunch in small private room down the hall from office. Lunch consists of cottage cheese, lettuce, fruit, and cup of tea.

2:30 P.M.

German Ambassador Heinz Krekeler calls on Dulles to say farewell. He leaves Washington to take assignment as Germany's representative to EURATOM (European atomic development).

3 P.M.

Dulles meets with members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The senators are, left to right, John Sparkman of Alabama, Alexander Smith of New Jersey, and William Fullbright of Arkansas.

7:15 P.M.

Dulles receives late phone call as he prepares to leave. He takes call at desk of Special Assistant Phyllis Bernau.

7:27 P.M.

He leaves for the day. John O'Hanley, State Dept. Security Officer, carries briefcase to waiting car in garage under the building.

7:55 P.M.

He returns to his home only long enough to dress and leave with Mrs. Dulles to attend formal dinner at Belgian Embassy.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's five-day rise seemed to have run out of gas today. Prices were mixed with a lower tendency early this afternoon.

Turnover remained fairly brisk, close to yesterday's rate which was the highest in a month.

Rails continued their technical recovery but the industrial section took a breather. Gains and losses of fractions to around a point spotted most major divisions of the market.

Some profit taking was apparent following yesterday's gains which were the largest in two months.

Chrysler enjoyed some activity and was ahead around a point.

There was a flurry in Beech Air, a craft which rose a major fraction prior to publication by a financial news service of an optimistic estimate of its 1936 earnings.

Small gains among the rails included New York Central, Southern Railway and Baltimore & Ohio. American Telephone advanced a major fraction.

United Aircraft, Anaconda, Schenley, Sinclair and Twentieth Century-Fox made small gains.

Fiberboard paper fell 1/4 to 25 1/2 on a big block of 15,400 shares.

Goodyear and Goodrich were each off about a point.

Steels were generally lower. Republic and Youngstown Sheet dropped fractions. Lukens was down around a point. Bethlehem was easy, U.S. Steel held firm.

Small losses were taken by International Harvester, which reported lower earnings. Air Reduction, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, American Can, Santa Fe, Loew's and Pan American World Airlines.

Safety Program Is Given Pitt Council

Harvey Quinn, a DuPont employee at the Kinston plant, presented a safety program to the Pitt County Safety Council at the organization's monthly meeting here yesterday.

Quinn spoke on the topic of "How Do We Assume Our Safety Responsibility?" While speaking on the subject, he illustrated seven points. According to Quinn, each individual must: want to be safe; believe something is in it for him; think-check everything; stop taking chances; know-respect hazards; keep his mind on the job; and be his brother's keeper.

During the course of his program, the DuPont representative, explained to the Council and its guests how to set up a safety program within an organization. The seven points were: protect equipment; provide protective equipment for workers; set up safety rules; set up disciplinary procedures; inspect house keeping; set up investigative system for injuries; and communicate daily about safety procedures.

Quinn explained that his corporation has set up two phases of safety measures in the past years since it was organized in the early 1800's. First, he noted DuPont set up a system to protect its equipment and second, a system to protect the workers. "We have come a long way since setting up this system but future advancements in safety will be made by our workers", the speaker said.

Following the dinner, Vice-Chairman Charles H. Whedbee recognized new members Eric Whichard and the Rev. John Drake.

Council Chairman L.M. Buchanan announced that he had received a letter from North Carolina's First District Representative Herbert Bonner in connection with a safety bill recently introduced into the House of Representatives. The bill, HR11078 introduced by Bonner on February 27, contained proposed legislation to promote boating safety on navigable waters within the United States and its territories, Buchanan explained.

A motion, made by Luther Moore that the Pitt County Safety Council endorse the bill, was seconded. Buchanan stated he would draft a letter to Rep. Bonner in connection with the endorsement this week. The proposed bill was brought up before the Council at its January meeting by Rep. Bonner who is Chairman of the House's Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee. Bonner appeared in connection with a program on water safety.

Eye-Bank Drive Set By Jaycees

Local Jaycees will conduct a campaign to obtain eye donations for the State eye bank.

Club members are to receive legal wills which, when executed by the donors, will officially donate the eyes to the bank upon the donor's death.

Chairman of the project Dr. M.W. Aldridge told the Jaycees last night that there are an estimated 11,458 blind persons in North Carolina.

One out of every 25 of that number might benefit from the corneal transplant operation, Aldridge said.

Aldridge explained that the corneal transplant "is the process of an eye-surgeon skillfully removing the injured or diseased tissue from a bad eye and replacing it with exactly the same amount of good tissue from a donor eye."

"In 1951, just six years after the first Corneal Transplant was performed in North Carolina at Durham, The Eye Bank for Restoring Sight was incorporated under the laws of the State of North Carolina," he continued. "The organization of your North Carolina Eye Bank was the result of a tremendous amount of hard work by a group of charitable minded persons who fully realized the expanding need of corneal tissue to help others to see again."

He noted that the Eye Bank is a state-wide, non-profit organization for the purpose of obtaining, preserving and transporting eyes and making them available to eye-surgeons to perform the operations.

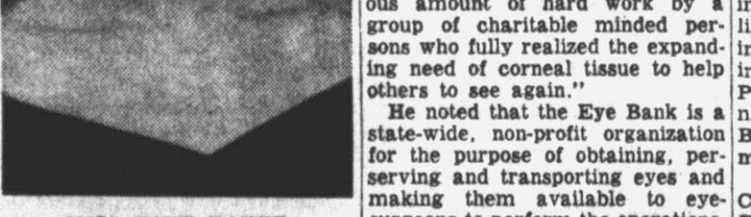

The eyes must be removed within one to four hours after death and the operation performed within 24 to 48 hours. No eyes are ever bought or sold.
