Begin Surplus Food Issue In Pitt Friday

Fishing For Sunken Locomotive

TWO RIVERS, Wis. (AP)—North Western Railway officials today made plans for a big fishing expedition—to raise a diesel locomotive resting on the muddy bottom of Lake Michigan. They still are not sure how it got there.

The switch engine, valued at $20,000, plopped into the lake early Friday after a seven-mile dash through the port cities of Manitowoc and Two Rivers. One box car followed it in. Another car balanced on the bank toppled in when workmen attempted to haul it onto solid ground.

The engine and nine cars departed Manitowoc while the train crew was having breakfast at 1:50 a.m. The train was gone when they came back a half hour later, but they did not report it to police because they thought fellow employees might have hidden it in the yards as a joke.

Old Church Lost To Fire Friday

BISCOE, N.C. (AP)—The Ben Salem Presbyterian Church, first organized in 1794 and located in a frame building 12 miles from here since 1945, was destroyed by fire yesterday.

Fire trucks from neighboring towns were too late to save furnishings and other properties in the landmark. Organized as a chapel in 1794, it became a church in 1913. The present congregation numbers between 200 and 250.

PEDESTRIAN DEATH WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Sixty-four-year-old Sadie Albrighton, Washington Route 1, was killed near here last night when she walked into the path of an automobile on U. S. Highway 17.

Old ACL Ticket Station Leaving Local Scene

Another symbol of an era is going. They are tearing down the old Atlantic Coast Line ticket office and passenger station. A building that is old in years and shows its age.

Distribution of surplus foods to certified families included in a special emergency relief program will begin next Friday, county officials said today.

Final phases of certification for 317 Pitt County families were completed yesterday by Welfare Department personnel. The certified applications have been forwarded to the North Carolina Department of Agriculture in Raleigh.

A total of 1,540 persons are included in the 317 families given final certification. They are eligible for surplus cheese, dried milk, meal and flour which is to be distributed once a month.

Next week's distribution will be from a vacant store building next to Pollard's Supermarket in Meadowbrook. County employees will direct the distribution between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. in addition to handling all clerical work.

The surplus food will be picked up at Camp Butler Wednesday and broken down into family-unit quotas Thursday, according to County Auditor Reginald Gray.

A Welfare Department breakdown of the 317 eligible families shows 85 of them in the Ayden area, 72 in the Farmville area, 49 in the Falkland area, 46 in the Greenville area, 34 in the Grimesland area and 31 in the Bethel area. The number of persons in each certified family ranges from 2 to 12.

43 one-member families to a single 21-member unit. Greatest concentration of individuals certified in the program are in the one-member, two-member, three-member and four-member families.

Each of the certified families will receive identification cards and U. S. Department of Agriculture Commodity Distribution Cards by mail. The cards must be presented when the surplus commodities are picked up at the distribution point.

Junius S. Grimes III, Welfare Department Casework Supervisor, said applications from the certified families and 28 others which were not certified were taken during special interview sessions during the past week. Welfare Department caseworkers, assisted by persons in the interview areas, compiled information for the applications.

Grimes added, "We will continue to receive applications for the special assistance and they will be certified when the second request for surplus food is forwarded to Raleigh. Also, future applicants will be seen in the Welfare Department's office in the Old Hospital Building in Greenville during regular work hours. We do not anticipate having another concentrated effort such as that we have had during the past week when caseworkers handled the special applications in addition to the regular work schedules."

Air Depot Waste Charged By GAO

WASHINGTON (AP)—The General Accounting Office says the Air Force, in closing down a supply depot in Morocco, left secret equipment like radar sets and bombsights out in the open "accessible to prospective bidders."

The GAO report, criticizing close out operations at the depot, also said:

1. Some equipment was left deteriorating in the open.

2. The depot had perhaps twice as much stock as the 144 million dollars worth the Air Force thought it had in beginning close-down operations.

The GAO, which acts as a watchdog for Congress on federal spending, said that prompt action by Air Force headquarters after getting the GAO findings should prevent substantial waste.

However, the GAO report sent to House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) Feb. 28, indicated there was still some waste involved in closing out the depot at Nouasseur, Morocco.

The investigative unit said many secret items like radar sets and bombsights were set out in the disposal yard without being "demilitarized" — military parlance for being made useless for combat—as Air Force regulations require.

The GAO checked Nouasseur last summer. The supply depot is supposed to be closed by next July 1, with U.S. bases in the area to get supplies from depots elsewhere.

"Depot records showed an inventory of 144 million dollars," the GAO reported. "Our tests and information furnished by the Air Force indicate that the stock on hand was considerably in excess of this amount—possibly as much as double.

The GAO said also there had been "little or no attempt" to make the excess available to other U.S. military agencies and that part of some 15 million dollars worth of surplus in fiscal 1957 was moved out of warehouses "into open storage areas where it was subject to abnormal deterioration."

Only small amounts were sold, the report said, "because of economic and political factors in Morocco."

Charge Four Men With Setting 12 Forest Fires

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)—Charges of setting a dozen forest fires in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park have been placed against four Seatocha, N.C., men arrested on charges of drunkenness.

The four, released in bond, were accused of setting the fires both in North Carolina and Tennessee late Wednesday. They were arrested Wednesday on U.S. highway 129 near Fontana, N.C., by the park rangers and North Carolina state troopers, and jailed at the Graham County jail at Robbinsville, N.C.

Rangers here estimated that the fires had burned more than 200 acres of timberland.

The men were identified as Clifford Carter Jenkins, 33, $1,500 bond; Monroe Andy Hyde, 42, Lester Henry Cable, 33 and Hardy John Hyde, 37, $1,000 bond each.

At Inquest Last Night

JOE LOUIS MOORE . . . held for grand jury action.

Slaying Case Will Go To Grand Jury

Joe Louis Moore, 18-year-old Bethel Negro youth, has been bound over to the March term of Pitt Superior Court in connection with the shotgun slaying of a friend late Wednesday afternoon.

Moore has been charged in the death of Walter Clayton Brown, 15-year-old Negro, also of Bethel. Following the inquest last night, after which the Coroner's Jury recommended that the defendant be held, Coroner Griffin H. Rouse set bond at $2,000.

According to testimony, Brown was shot during a tussle over a .12 gauge shotgun. A physician, who examined his body shortly after the shooting occurred, reported that he died instantly from a wound directly over the heart.

Moore testified the deceased was a good friend of his and that he did not mean to shoot him. He stated the gun accidentally discharged when he jerked it from Brown's hands while they were tussling. A witness, Johnny Lee Hopkins, who said he was a friend of both boys, testified he did not see the gun go off but did say he saw the boys tussling.

It was brought out that the youngsters had been drinking earlier in the afternoon. Both Moore and Hopkins stated they had had a few drinks out of a fifth of wine with two other boys but were not drunk.

The three had gone down into the woods near Bethel to "shoot some birds," Moore testified.

He said the "trouble" started when Brown took his shotgun and went back into the woods after the trio had started to go home. Moore explained he ran after him and told him his mother didn't want him in the woods with the gun. "He wouldn't give me the gun and said he was going to get him a bird," the defendant stated. "I grabbed the gun by the stock and it went off."

Moore said that Brown drew up, hollered "Joe" and fell to the ground. Both he and Hopkins left to go get the "law" but Hopkins reportedly came back to wait for help.

Bethel Police Chief Walter Gray testified he found Brown lying on the ground dead when he arrived at the scene of the shooting. He noted that the death weapon was confiscated at Moore's home a short time later.

Gray quoted Moore as saying he jerked the gun away from the deceased and that it went off "accidentally." "I didn't know it was loaded," he told the policeman.

Convict Shot In Attacking Guard

RALEIGH (AP)—A life term prisoner, shot in the leg after he slashed a Central Prison guard yesterday with a knife, will undergo a psychiatric examination, Prisons Director William F. Bailey says.

Bailey described the inmate, Warshaw Miller, 35-year-old Negro, as a "problem prisoner who has been on punishment several times." He was sentenced from Burke County in June, 1954, to life for murder.

Miller, who has been at Polk farm near Cary, was brought to Central Prison in a truck yesterday for reclassification. When guards ordered him to get out of the truck, he refused to obey, Bailey said.

He threatened to kill any of the guards if they tried to force him from the truck, Bailey added. When guard Albert Munter Jr. leaped upon him, he slashed him on the arm and across the chest, Bailey said.

The prisoner advanced on deputy warden L. R. Temple, who shot him in the left thigh, Bailey said. He was taken to the prison hospital. His record shows four convictions for assault.

Bailey said guards had searched Miller before placing him on the truck at Polk farm.

Last Battleship Is Being Retired

BAYONNE, N.J. (AP)—The Wisconsin, U.S. Navy's last active battleship, joins the mothball fleet today.

The commission pennant will be hauled down aboard the 45,000-ton ship in a half-hour ceremony.

A veteran of Pacific Ocean battles of World War II and the Korean war, the Wisconsin goes into mothballs for the second time. Launched Dec. 3, 1943, she was decommissioned in 1943 only to be returned to duty in 1951 to bombard the coast of North Korea.

The U.S. Navy thus is without a dreadnaught for the first time since 1895. The USS Indiana was commissioned on Nov. 20 that year as the first American vessel built especially to perform the function of a battleship.

The Wisconsin cost 110 million dollars. Her nine 16-inch guns saw action at Leyte, Luzon, Borosoma, Hong Kong, Indo China, Iwo Jima and Japan during World War II.

After the NATO fall exercises, the Wisconsin pulled into New York harbor on Nov. 4, 1957, and was towed to drydock at the supply depot here a few days later.

CONSIDER EVACUATION JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Officials of U. S. oil companies met today with U. S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones to study plans for possible evacuation of American workers and dependents from oil installations in rebellious central Sumatra.

Collision Of Three Trains In Brazil Claims About 60 Lives; Another 60 Injured

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—An electric commuter train smashed into two others halted by faulty signals 35 miles north of Rio de Janeiro last night. About 60 persons were reported killed and 60 injured.

Disaster crews working in a heavy rain had removed 35 bodies by morning. The impact of the collision was so great that clothing was torn from many of the passengers.

Officials of the Central of Brazil Railroad said two trains had halted near the small village of Santa Cruz, between Kosmos and Paciencia, to wait for rail hands to repair traffic signals.

The third train, hurtling through the darkness, rammed others on the same track.

No U. S. citizens were believed to be aboard the trains.

More than 30 ambulances were dispatched to the scene. An Air Force base near the area sent hundreds of airmen to aid in rescue work.

The wreck closed off the Central do Brasil main line. Officials said it probably would take 24 hours to clear the track and remove electric wires knocked down by the crash.

Rescue teams had to grope through the debris with flashlights removing screaming women and children trapped in the wreckage. Overhead electric wires knocked down by the wreck heightened the panic.

The crash was described as one of Brazil's worst since a freak train wreck occurred on a bridge over the flooded Pavum River in March, 1952, killing 102 persons and injuring about 200.

Administration, Congress Push Job-Making Activity

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration and the Democratic-controlled Congress pushed job-creation actions today amid reports that unemployment shot up last month to more than 5,100,000.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader, announced yesterday he will seek swift Senate action on housing, highway, education and other bills—"major measures in providing jobs," he called them.

Johnson made public a letter saying the Defense Department is looking into the matter of speeding up military construction projects in labor surplus areas—those with relatively high unemployment.

Gray quoted Moore as saying he jerked the gun away from the deceased and that it went off "accidentally." "I didn't know it was loaded," he told the policeman.

UN Command Disputes Report

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The U.N. command today disputed an American pilot's contention that a U.S. Air Force Sabre Jet shot down Thursday was inside Allied territory, beyond the range of Red guns.

The plane "apparently violated the demilitarized zone" between North and South Korea because the wreckage is in North Korea, a U.N. command statement said.

Earlier, Lt. Ronald E. Martin of Rock Hill, Mo., raised the question whether it was Communist fire that downed the jet flying with his plane. The U.S. Air Force said the plane flown by Capt. Leon Pfeiffer of Kenosha, Wis., was shot down by Communist fire.

"To my knowledge," Martin said, both planes were within Allied territory. He declined to tell a news conference whether he meant South Korean troops had fired on the two jets by mistake.

"Things happened so fast in a matter of a few minutes," Martin said, that it was difficult to be sure about some points.

Will Prosecute Traffic-Blockers

GARNER, N.C. (AP)—Folks in this tiny Wake County town had best stay at home when the fire bell rings from now on.

Paul Mitchell of the Garner Fire Department's Traffic Division said today he's going to prosecute people who come rushing to the scene of a fire and block traffic.

Mitchell said he had the same trouble about two years ago "until we put a few in court."

The law, Mitchell reported, says vehicles must park at least 500 feet from a fire truck at the scene of a fire.

"I think we can pick up some 200,000 to 500,000 jobs by government projects," Johnson said, adding this should have a "good psychological effect upon the country."

Informed officials said the government will announce next Tuesday that joblessness rose by more than 600,000 in February to a 16-year peak of more than 5,100,000. Last month's total apparently was between 6% and 7 per cent of the nation's civilian labor force. Sen. Johnson estimated there now are between five million and six million unemployed.

It was noted that the February figures were gathered in the second week of the month when much of the nation was plagued by storms and intense cold, curtailing some outdoor operations.

Meanwhile, the Labor Department released statistics that indicated unemployment continued to rise after mid-February, although at a reduced rate.

The department's Bureau of Employment Security said joblessness among workers covered by the unemployment compensation system rose by 137,000 to a record 3,268,000 in the week ended Feb. 22.

In the previous week, ended Feb. 15, the total of joblessness among covered workers had increased by 158,500. About two-thirds of all workers come under the unemployment compensation system.

Also, the Labor Department said initial claims for jobless benefits, indicating new layoffs, declined by 23,500 to 435,900 for the week ended March 1.

Unemployment generally drops in March with a seasonal stepup in such outdoor occupations as farming and construction.

President Eisenhower and his advisers were pictured as counting on a decrease in unemployment this month. They contend consideration of any emergency moves should await the March employment figures, due out a month from now.

However, one official said that meantime federal agencies are preparing lists of "needed, desirable projects" which could be put in motion on short notice if an expected economic pickup by summer does not develop.

Fear 26 Killed In Mid-Air Collision

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—A U.S. Marine transport plane carrying 25 persons and a single-seat Marine fighter-bomber collided last night as they were preparing to land and plunged into the ocean as "a ball of fire."

Navy search parties recovered three bodies today and sighted other bodies amid debris and wreckage in the water three miles south of Naha.

U.S. ships and planes searching for possible survivors with the help of Okinawan police and fishermen were hampered by rough water and reefs in the shallow sea.

The planes were an R4Q, the Marine version of the C119 Flying Boxcar, with 19 passengers and a crew of six, and an AD5 attack fighter-bomber. They were returning from Operation Strongback, a U.S.-Philippine amphibious maneuver in the Philippines.

The planes had taken off from Subic Bay, a U.S. Navy base west of Manila. The AD5, which cruises at about 300 miles an hour, apparently overtook the 200-mile-an-hour transport during the 850-mile flight to the U.S. Navy Air Station near Naha.

The control tower operator said one of the planes radioed him shortly after dark. A few minutes later the operator "saw a flash in the sky," the Navy reported.

An Okinawan witness said he saw three distinct flames. Other witnesses said they heard a terrific explosion and saw "a ball of fire" fall into the sea.

U.S. Navy craft and Army, Navy and Air Force planes immediately launched a search of the area. The heavy sea, a layer of mist and the darkness hampered them. Threatened storms held up Okinawan fishermen from the town of Roman who volunteered to help.

Early today an Air Force helicopter made the first sighting of bodies and wreckage.

Ex-Robber Held For Bootlegging

CLEVELAND (AP)—Isaac A. (Ike) Costner, 61, who took part in North Carolina's biggest robbery more than 20 years ago, was held in jail here today under $5,000 bond under a moonshining charge.

Costner pleaded innocent yesterday. He was accused of operating a 275-pound still with another man on a farm in nearby Ashtabula County last Nov. 29.

In 1934 he drew a 23-year federal prison term for his part in a $125,000 mail truck robbery at Charlotte, N.C. He has been free on parole since 1953.

State Preparing To Conclude Its Case Against Frank Wetzel

SANFORD, N.C. (AP)—The state, seeking the death penalty for a man already convicted of murdering one highway patrolman, prepared to close presentation of evidence today in the second murder trial of Frank Edward Wetzel.

Judge George Fountain planned a brief Saturday session of Lee Superior Court, where the 36-year-old Wetzel, a New York state native, is on trial in the slaying of Trooper J. T. Brown last Nov. 5.

FBI agent Horace S. Hallett was scheduled to testify today. The case likely will go to the jury early next week.

Wetzel was convicted at nearby Rockingham in January of murdering Trooper Wister Lee Reece, and on the jury's recommendation of mercy was sentenced to life.

Both shootings occurred the same night, within 50 miles and an hour of each other. Defense attorneys hammered away yesterday at the testimony of Robert Terry Jr., slender, 30-year-old Negro from Norman. Terry pointed out Wetzel as a driver of a black 1937 Oldsmobile who gave him a ride the night of Nov. 5. Terry said he slipped from the car near Ellerbe after Wetzel fired a "very large gun" at a patrolman (Reece) who had stopped the car.

Terry was a principal witness in Wetzel's first trial.

The state has sought to show that the driver of the car, fleeing north on U.S. 1 after the Reece killing, was stopped by Brown about 10 miles south of Sanford. Brown was fatally wounded with a single shot from a powerful pistol.

Under cross-examination by defense attorney John T. Page Jr., Terry admitted his first description of the driver was an olive-skinned man, possibly a foreigner.

Wetzel is fair-skinned with dark brown hair sprinkled with gray at the temples. Terry insisted that any discrepancy in his story grew out of his frightening experience. "I was scared, sir," he told Page. "After awhile it began to come back to me."

Page contended that earlier Terry had told officers he did not get a clear view of the driver and would be unable to describe the car.

Wetzel, of Seneca Falls, N.Y., had a long petty criminal record and was sent to a mental hospital in that state for observation after he was charged with a fourth crime. New York law provides a life sentence for so-called four-time losers.

Wetzel escaped from the hospital in October after having boasted to fellow inmates he would go to Mississippi and free his brother William, who has since been executed for the murder of a fellow prisoner.

Hospital spokesmen said Wetzel was found to be sane and of average intelligence.

THE SEARCH CONTINUES

Throughout the history of mankind runs the account of a double quest: Man searching for God... our restless eagerness to understand and please our Creator has paralleled the centuries of progress.

God seeking Man... ceaselessly, patiently, His Love has lighted the ages, ever reaching toward our hearts, encompassing our souls.

Yet no powerful lens ever devised will aid in this search. Our quest finds its consummation not beneath the lens of a microscope—but beneath the spire of a Church!

What man does not recognize his own inability to cope with the complexities of life?

There awaits you next Sunday in the Church of your choice the peace and assurance that generations have sought... the FAITH which unites Man and God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

By MARTHA PIERCE
Reflector Teen Writer

"This is your life, Junius H. Rose High School" was the program presented to the Parent-Teacher Association Thursday night to show the parents scenes from school life since September 4.

MARTHA

The marshals and the class presented the dedication ceremonies held earlier this year. The National Honor Society members marched into the gym with lighted candles as they had in an induction ceremony in November.

Christmas memories were brought back by the band and chorus who rendered numbers which they had presented in the annual Christmas concert. A scene from the Christmas play given by a second year French class was included in the program.

Physical Education for girls is one of the classes that has been added to the curriculum at J.H.R. Both the girls' and boys' gym classes demonstrated some tumbling acts they have learned this year.

"Trees," which had been read at the tree dedicating ceremony, was read Thursday night by Joyce Sutton. From the bulletin boards of the Future Teachers Club came Dunn, Judy Jolly, Martha Corbett, Cynthia Cranford, Betty Evans, Camilla Henderson, Lillian Moye, Ruth Young, and Margaret Harrell.

High-stepping majorettes strutted and cheerleaders cheered for the parents as they have at many of the games this year.

Members from the Home Economics Department modeled clothing they had made in class or as home projects. The "Tau" staff presented a living picture similar to one that will appear in the annual later this year.

In one corner of the gymnasium hand-made lamps and tables made by the shop classes were on display. A couch that had been covered by the F.H.A. was also displayed.

The program was planned and directed by Mr. and Mrs. Grover Everett. JoAnne Parks acted as mistress of ceremonies. The P.T.A. business meeting followed the program.

Pickwick Club Hears Dr. Monroe

Speaking on nervousness, Dr. E. W. Monroe told the Pickwick Book Club Tuesday that the method of treatment is primarily one of control rather than cure. "Tranquilizer drugs are presently serving such a purpose," he added.

Dr. Monroe discussed symptoms and effects touching briefly on high blood pressure, migraine headaches, asthma, and peptic ulcers, since a significant number of these conditions are related to emotional upset.

Mrs. J. K. Proctor Jr., hostess, introduced the guest speaker who is a specialist in internal medicine.

A discussion period followed the talk after which the hostess served a congealed salad course with cheese straws, ham biscuits, and coffee to members and special guests, Dr. and Mrs. Monroe, Camellias and daffodils formed the centerpiece for the mantel in the living room and an arrangement of pink gladioli centered the dining room table.

The meeting concluded after a short business session.

Note-Writing Could Go On And On

Chances for a summit conference seem to change little as messages between President Eisenhower and Premier Bulganin suggest plans and counter-plans for such a meeting. The world may be nearer another summit conference than it was when the notes began between Washington and Moscow on December 16, but progress has been painfully slow.

The fundamental issue of such a conference has yet to be resolved. The United States and its Western Allies insist that preparatory talks before a summit conference must give a clear indication that some agreements may be reached by top leaders. The Soviet Union, on the other hand, insists that all real discussion of world problems be left for a summit conference, and even then it has ruled out important matters which the West believes should be considered at such a conference.

There has been little so far to indicate that the Soviet officials would be negotiating in good faith at a summit meeting. With each exchange of notes it appears that the Kremlin might be attempting to set the stage for a new propaganda thrust rather than easing world tension. The world has nothing to gain by the West agreeing to a summit meeting which would only end in a propaganda meeting for the Kremlin. It would do nothing to ease world tension, and it would contribute nothing toward establishing a lasting peace. If anything, such an event would drive a greater wedge between East and West.

Much as the world needs a meeting of minds between the leaders of the East and West, there is no reason for having a summit conference unless there is reason to believe that some accomplishments can be achieved, some agreements can be reached. How long it will be before such an atmosphere will prevail is a moot question. The exchange of notes between Washington and Moscow concerning the proposed summit meeting could continue indefinitely.

Until a foundation is laid upon which agreements can be reached between top officials of the West and those of the Soviet Union, a summit conference seems a waste of time, energy and money.

Science Fair Infers Considerable Interest

Is there sufficient interest in sciences on the part of students now in public schools?

That question has been asked thousands of times in the past six months. It has been debated by leading educators, at top echelons of government, and naturally in the family living rooms. There have come from these debates a variety of answers.

If the displays at the Elementary Science Fair staged by students of Pitt County schools is any indication of the interest, America has little to fear in the future. It will have the capable people it needs to keep it at the forefront of the world's scientific development.

The display at the county science fair included some 200 individual and group exhibits prepared by students in elementary grades throughout the county. They touched on almost every phase of science. What's more, they reflected considerable initiative and imagination on the part of the youngsters who prepared them. They reflected an understanding of the sciences which would have surprised a majority of the adults in this area.

From the exhibits prepared by these elementary school students, we may be sure there is considerable emphasis on the sciences in the county's schools. We may be sure too that the youngsters even in elementary school are developing a great deal of interest in science and are acquiring scientific knowledge.

This interest in science, carefully cultivated in the elementary grades, is bound to create a firm foundation upon which further education will build scientists for future years.

How To Lose A Friend In Asia

By ELMER ROESSNER

Today let's look at Japan. Let's give it a political eye first. A dominant majority is strongly anti-Communist, pro-democracy and pro-West. Japan is one of the best friends of the United States in Asia. That's true despite the fact that Japan is right under the guns of Russia. And you know what those guns are loaded with.

Now an economic squint: it has an area of 142,644 square miles, smaller than either Texas, California or Montana. Only about 22,000 square miles are arable. Cramped on the Japanese islands are 90,000,000 persons, as many as live east of the Mississippi in the U. S.

That much land cannot feed that many people. DEPENDENCE ON TRADE. Some food is gathered from the sea. But most of the deficit must be made up by imports.

The Japanese buy about $400,000,000 worth of American agricultural products. The U. S. is the principal supplier of cotton, wheat, barley, soybeans, hides and skins, tallow, corn and tobacco.

In addition, Japan imports about $600,000,000 worth of other products from the U. S. each year. Practically nobody in the U. S. sends products to Japan without getting dollars in return. Japan gets some dollars by supplying services to American forces in Japan. It borrows some more. But it has to earn most of them: by selling goods to the U. S., or to other nations that will pay for them in dollars.

Japan earns some of these dollars by selling its raw silk, its largest export item. It also sells tea, fruits, flour, canned mandarin oranges, fish, textiles, and a large number of manufactured articles, including sewing machines, photographic equipment, toys and a few autos.

INTERNATIONAL SQUEEZE. Japan earns dollars and other Western currencies by exporting goods to other democracies. It pays for such coffee as it buys by selling textiles and machines to Brazil; it sells its products in Chile and buys copper there, and trades in that manner throughout the free world. It also sells some goods to China. Japan lacks metals, wood, fuels and other industrial materials as well as growing space for food. That's a big reason it buys about $1 billion worth of goods a year from the U. S. To sell, it must buy cotton for conversion into textiles; it must buy steel for fabricating machines; it must buy oil to run its machines. In other words, to get $400,000,000 worth of food from us a year, it must buy $600,000,000 more worth of nonfood materials and convert them into products that can be sold at enough profit to pay for the food. Japanese workers work for little. That's why Japan can produce fine cameras cheaper than the Germans, and cotton garments for less than we can.

WORLD BAR GOODS. Consequently, American manufacturers and American workers are demanding that importations of Japanese goods be restricted by quotas and high tariffs. These demands evoke sympathy: it is important to the Japanese, as well as ourselves, that America be prosperous.

If we effectively bar Japanese goods, we will prevent the Japanese from earning money with which to buy about $1 billion worth of American materials each year, and we will force them to increase trade with China and perhaps Russia, with inevitable political consequences. There's one brake on this: neither China nor Russia has exportable surpluses comparable to ours.

The alternative is to restrict Japanese imports and, to the extent that we limit them, give Japan gifts and loans. But whatever we decide, no solution is painless.

SYNDETS — THAT'S A WORD-FAR AHEAD OF OLD SOAP. Syndets, which is what the trade calls synthetic detergents, accounted for 71 per cent of soap and detergent sales last year. The Association of American Soap and Glycerine Producers calculates.

Ten years ago soaps and detergents divided the market evenly. The association figures the average American used 28.5 pounds of soap or detergents last year. That's clean, man, clean!

IMMEASURABLE DIVINE POWER

The word of God!

This is the name most frequently given to the Bible. The meaning of this striking statement is lost on probably a majority of Bible readers. To most people it simply means that the Bible is God's teaching. It is that, to be sure. But we do not appreciate the meaning of the term "the word of God" until we recall that the Bible teaches that everything has come into being because God uttered certain words. "And God said, Let there be light, and there was light" (Gen. 1:3). "Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God" (Heb. 11:3). By the mere utterance of a word, God caused things to come into being. The "word of God" is a factor, therefore, of such potency that it lies at the basis of God's whole creative process.

Now the "word of God" under such circumstances becomes God's creative power at work. To what end? To build up, enrich, transform man's spiritual life until it becomes something new—until it is changed from something mediocre and worldly into something wonderful and divine. The word of God, or the Bible, is therefore a book which has within it the power to create new spiritual life.

Under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, the Bible has the power to make over our spiritual lives. If we use it as God wants us to, it will achieve that very end.

Russia's Own Summit

Investment In Education

On Wednesday of this week, John Motley Morehead personally awarded 35 scholarships for under-graduate work at the University of North Carolina.

One of the scholarships went to a Greenville boy, Bob Bilbro, to mark the fourth time since 1951 that a Greenville high school graduate has become a Morehead Scholar. Such a record speaks well for any high school, but that reality isn't the point of these comments.

What is the point is a general amazement at how much one man — John Motley Morehead — has done for his alma mater in the way of scholarships and scholarship funds. Since 1951, there have been 179 Morehead Scholarships awarded. Each of them has a full value of $5,000 if the winner remains at UNC the full four-year period and maintains a satisfactory record.

Such a program as has already been accomplished could represent an expenditure of at least $895,000 (179 scholarships worth $5,000 apiece). That is a gracious plenty, but Morehead announced his intention of adding even more to the Morehead Foundation in order to continue the scholarship program.

The present amount of money in the Morehead Foundation has not been divulged, but it was announced in Chapel Hill this week that its founder has "increased the value of it from time to time" to take care of increasing numbers of scholars enrolled under its program. Regardless of what the sum is, it represents a tremendous effort by one man interested in the prospects of young North Carolinians.

These prospects set up by Morehead in the scholarship program do not include financial needs, but they include almost every other factor that can be used to judge a high school senior. The applicants are considered on qualities of their scholarship, leadership, courage and balanced attitudes which indicate balanced attitudes and manhood.

Morehead has announced his intention of attracting the "tall timber" among promising high school graduates for study at Chapel Hill. He has been remarkably successful thus far.

Morehead's program has been of such proportions that it has overshadowed another outstanding scholarship program, the Angier B. Duke Memorial Scholarships at Duke. It is organized along similar lines but reaches fewer high school students.

Not every person can be a Morehead or a Duke (nor can every person be a Morehead Scholar or a Duke Scholar), but there are a few of us who can't pause for a few minutes to consider the worth of the programs. They represent what can be done by people who have the means to do it.

Other Editors Saying --- Parents And Schools

(Wilson Times) To an outsider, the Woodard PTA meeting held recently, was a challenging event. Never have we seen such a wealth of interest and a desire on the part of the parents present, to help the schools and to provide educational opportunities for children of all talents and skills.

It was obvious that the parents were genuinely interested and concerned. Their questions showed that they did not fear the consequences of competition. For as one parent said, "the children will have to face competition and responsibilities when they become adults."

You did not get the impression that the parents thought they had exceptional children with high IQs, but you did sense a feeling that they had worked hard study and home work.

You noticed rapt attention when the principal of the New Bern high school told of the experience with a group of talented children who were given accelerated courses and had covered in six months what is scheduled to take a year. These children had time for creative work in writing and other fields because they were grouped according to their abilities.

He also told that when they graduate they will have additional credits that will be accepted in college and thus enable them to graduate in less than the accepted four years, or allow them time for additional courses.

There is an awakening among parents for the necessity for ground work in the fundamentals, for the need for an education and for thorough preparation for those who cannot attend college and for those who plan to go to college.

Today colleges are requiring entrance examinations. Colleges are warning the schools that no longer will refresh high school courses be given in order to bridge the gap between high school and college.

Colleges are crowded, they no longer have to have students they can pick and choose. And many students are having to take colleges of second choice because they could not meet the requirements of their first choice.

All these things parents know. But parents are ready to help the schools meet the present day needs. The schools have a potential force they have never tapped, waiting and eager to help them. This force is the parents.

They want to know what their child is doing, they want to feel they are challenged to do their best. They want the average provided for, but they do not want the curriculum geared to the average.

Parents know this country was not made great by the average. They are looking to the schools to inspire incentive. The schools can answer that this is hard with the number of children the teacher has in her room.

But schools can have anything they want, more teachers, more of everything if they will encourage and listen to the parents. The parents who attend PTA meetings can get things done. They are our leaders, they have but one objective, the education of our children.

Everybody Looks To Washington

By STERLING F. GREEN WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost every recession-troubled state, city and industry is looking hopefully to Washington for the actions and policies — and, chiefly, the spending — that will spark a business recovery.

This is true even in the many states and towns which have tackled their problems with do-it-yourself solutions like local tax cuts, public works and lures for new industry.

Associated Press reporters who visited corporation offices, union headquarters, relief lines, city halls and statehouses in their nationwide "How's Business?" survey heard one theme stressed almost to the point of monotony: "Our recovery depends on the federal government."

Most of the speakers hoped for the arrival of big defense contracts. Many wanted tax reduction and further easing of credit. Mining men called for tariff boosts on foreign metal. Railroads wanted higher freight rates. Washington alone, they all implied, has the final answers.

Some of the comments had political overtones, a majority of these being unfavorable to the Eisenhower administration. In the proud, Republican, mostly Mormon state of Utah — which is now distributing food to the unemployed for the first time in memory — reporters heard grumbling about "Republican prosperity."

A Vermont manufacturer blamed his state's problems on the budget at all costs. Now he's committed to deficit spending, and that means inflation and a boom.

There weren't enough political slanted comments, however, to be taken as evidence that the recession will hurt GOP candidates in the November congressional elections. Most interviewees ignored politics and talked about the immediate problem — finding and creating jobs.

The survey did indicate, however, that pressure is growing in harder hit areas for faster, more positive action than the administration so far has taken.

To date the federal stimulus measure, as listed by President Eisenhower in his recent chin-up economic statement, consist mainly of programs that were in progress or pending before the full impact of recession was felt.

They include the credit loosening steps begun by the Federal Reserve Board last October, the federal-state highway program, stepped up placement of military contracts, some liberalization of housing credit, a half-billion-dollar increase in civil works, a five-year post office building plan, and more lending to bolster foreign trade.

If other measures are needed, Eisenhower promised, "they will be proposed" — and in time. Since then Secretary of Labor Mitchell has stated that tax reduction and other emergency actions will get "serious thought" if the March unemployment figures, due in April, don't show improvement.

Without waiting for Uncle Sam, "Operation Bootstrap" is being attempted on thousands of local fronts, public and private. These range from the major "crash programs" of public works of Vermont and Pennsylvania to the simple, hopeful device of Chipley, Ga.

Chipley is changing its name to Pine Mountain in hope of luring more tourists. Chamber of Commerce President Den Askew explained: "Something had to be done. Our town could dry up and blow away, what with farm con-

Years Bring Reward

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP) — Recently I received a mysterious anonymous card in the mail.

On the cover it said, "Every year you're getting closer" and when I opened the card it said inside: "To being a dirty old man."

Well, I had to chuckle. After all, a fellow can't very well break down and cry just because it's his 47th birthday.

And to tell the truth I didn't feel much like crying, anyway. A fellow's 40th birthday may be a heart-buster to him but if he has any sense at all, every one after that he feels as a major triumph — a personal victory in the long struggle of man versus microbe.

When you get right down to it, any amateur at living can survive to 40 or even 45. If you can go on after that, it's no longer a matter of mere luck. You're a real pro — you've learned the trick of how to keep breathing regularly.

If life is like climbing a mountain, at 47 you get an unexpected reward. You break through the storm clouds of early middle age, and find yourself on the edge of a sunny upper plateau.

When you go to your doctor, you no longer get angry because he doesn't listen to you when you tell him your symptoms. Philosophically, you realize that he now knows what you know, too — that these are the symptoms you are going to have to put up with all the rest of the journey.

It amuses you that young folks now begin to confide their love troubles to you. You don't even mind that they do so because they think you are the fool of an elderly turtle — something ancient and wise and foreign to earthly passion.

You have become a bit like a tree, which each year has a ring of growth, an interior calendar of its own. With every passing season the old scars inside you lose their power to hurt. You become even proud of some of the scars, and glad they no longer show.

At 47 the big important things loom smaller and the smaller things get more important. You don't expect to solve a major problem every morning. A pleasant meal, an unexpected visit from an old friend, a $5 tax refund by the government — these are enough to make a day memorable.

The devil calls you less, and you wonder about God more. You'd rather dream about your youth than how to make a million dollars.

You become intensely aware of nature again. You see every raindrop as it falls, each snowflake has its own face, and a beautiful sunset stirs you more than it did when you were 20. But you can look up at a full moon and laugh at the fool it used to make of you. It never will have that mystic power to undo you again.

And at 47 your marriage reaps an unexpected boon. Your wife treats you with a new respect, brings you your slippers when you come home, gets out of your easy chair herself and lets you sit in it.

It is terribly, terribly grateful to you merely because, at 47, you haven't died and left her a widow.

Opinions In Brief

MARSHFIELD, MD., MAIL: "Hundreds of thousands of working people find that they MUST join and pay dues to a union if they are to work at the jobs they want in no other area of American life today is basic freedom so obviously and cynically violated. In almost every other instance, freedom of choice is not only permitted but is jealously guarded. Why is it not for working people?"

These are some of the state-wide efforts:

1. Highway and public construction speedups have been ordered in Missouri, Idaho and elsewhere.

2. Oregon, finding itself with a budget surplus, cut its income tax 2 per cent. Maryland is pondering the removal of some business taxes, but Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin has proposed a 50 per cent increase in income taxes.

3. Special sessions of state legislatures have been considered — but not yet called — in Vermont, Washington and other states to make up tax cuts, bigger unemployment compensation benefits and other remedies.

4. States which have authorized "development corporations," to help new businesses get financing, are using them to intensify the fight on unemployment. These include Arkansas, Vermont, Maine and Minnesota. The Connecticut Development Commission is focusing its efforts on getting the state a bigger share of missile contracts.

Across the country, in union halls and corporation boardrooms the underlying theme was the same: government spending may provide the pickup if it is massive and comes soon.

The prime question is: How soon?

Maryland, Carolina Battle For ACC Tourney Crown

Terps Upend Duke And UNC Wins In Semi-Finals

By KEN ALVIA

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina, needing another Atlantic Coast Conference basketball title for a chance at a second straight national crown, meets formidable Maryland tonight in the finals of the ACC tournament.

Their 8 p.m. game will determine Boston College's opponent Tuesday night in opening NCAA play at New York.

The two teams survived the semifinals at the expense of the top two seeded clubs in last night's semifinals before a sellout crowd of 12,400.

Maryland, after losing a late 15-point lead, came back to oust Duke, 71-65, in overtime. Top-seeded Duke ranks sixth nationally, Maryland is 17th.

North Carolina, 13th in the nation, turned back North Carolina State, 64-58. The teams had tied for second place over the conference season, but State, 14th-ranked team nationally, won No. 2 seeding by draw.

Pete Brennan, ACC scoring leader, carried the Tar Heels through a critical period when State made one of its many threats.

The 6-6 senior from Brooklyn, N.Y., threw in 16 of his 23 points right after State had come up to 35-31 with 13 minutes left. His rebounding was as important as his scoring.

Ray Stanley, one of three sophomores Tar Heel Coach Frank McGuire started, made his first starting job an impressive one. He bagged 13 points to the team-mate Tommy Kearns and aided Brennan off the boards.

State slowed down play through the first half, which saw North Carolina take a 24-20 lead and never lose it.

Maryland, first team outside the Carolina to gain the finals in five years of ACC history, would automatically have gained the NCAA berth had state won. State is ineligible for NCAA championship

West Virginia Rated Over Amazing W&M Tonight

By ED YOUNG

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—West Virginia's Mountaineers today were within one slowdown of their fourth consecutive Southern Conference basketball crown and a berth in the NCAA championship playoffs.

The slowdown is almost certain to come tonight when the race-horse Mountaineers collide with amazing William and Mary at 8 p.m. in the finals of the 1958 conference tournament here.

W&M, one of the more lightly regarded entries when the tournament began Thursday, has sprung two upsets to reach the title round. But not even David was asked to slay three Goliaths in succession, and the Indians' Cinderella story is expected to end tonight.

West Virginia will be a prohibitive favorite in the finals despite the fact the Mountaineers will go without one of their veteran stars, defensive standout Don Vincent.

Vincent suffered a fractured bone in his legs in a collision with W.Va. rolled past scrappy Richmond 81-70 in last night's semifinals.

Vincent fractured a fibula about three inches above his left ankle. The extent of the injury was not learned until early today after initial reports had indicated Vincent's injury was a sprain. Vincent will be forced to keep his leg in a cast for six weeks and will miss West Virginia's bid for the NCAA championship if they whip William and Mary tonight.

W&M utilized a well-executed slowdown to befuddle and bemuse the heavily favored Colonials and Chambers didn't hesitate to say the Indians probably would use the same strategy against fast-breaking West Virginia.

"We got in 40 minutes of good practice in that sort of thing against George Washington," said the young W&M coach. "Why waste the experience? It may be the only chance we have."

Sophomore Jerry West gave the semifinal round's most eye-filling show in leading West Virginia safely past Richmond and to its 35th conference victory in a row over a three-season span.

West seemed to be everywhere, doing everything for the Mountaineers. He poked in 10 of 26 field goal tries and totaled 26 points. He grabbed 17 rebounds. On defense he batted down seven Richmond shots.

"He's a real virtuoso," said Richmond coach Les Hooker. "I don't know anything he can't do and I know nothing you can do to stop him."

Richmond might have given West Virginia a better scrap except

Ayden Edges Gatesville 62-60 To Gain Finals Of Class A Tournament

Free Shots By McGlohon Sews It Up For Ayden

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

AHOSKIE — Walland McGlohon, got only two points last night—and they came after the game was over—but it was his tallies that gave Ayden a 62-60 victory over Gatesville in the district I Class A semi-finals here.

McGlohon dropped in two free tosses after the game was officially over to put the Ayden Tornadoes in the finals tonight against the winner of last night's Williamston-Bath contest.

A reserve, McGlohon got into the game in the last minutes when Gatesville was leading the Tornadoes by seven points. In a quick rally, the Ayden club tied the game on two field goals and a free shot by Leslie Stocks and a pair of buckets by Tommy Edwards.

With less than a minute remaining, Ayden got the ball and prepared to hold it for one final shot. The score was tied 60-60. With three seconds showing on the board, Edwards shot and missed, McGlohon grabbed the rebound and went up for a tap-in. He was fouled. The buzzer sounded.

Winning Baskets

The game was officially over except for McGlohon's two free tosses. If he missed them, the game would go into overtime. If he connected, Ayden would have notched themselves a place in the district finals.

He dropped both of them.

Leslie Stocks was the game's high scorer with 24 points. Edwards added 21.

Ayden will clash with the winner of the Williamston-Bath game tonight at the Ahoskie high school gym for the Class A District I title. Final score in the Williamston-Bath tilt is not available since the clubs played late, following the Ayden tilt.

During regular season, Ayden defeated Bath by six points in a regularly-scheduled non-conference ball game. The Tornadoes have not played Williamston before.

Gatesville's Game

Until McGlohon sank his 'after-the-buzzer' free throws, the ball game belonged to Gatesville. The latter team moved to a fast lead over the Tornadoes and had as much as an 11-point margin over Ayden in the first quarter. On the shooting of Edwards and Joe Dunn, the Pitt County club managed to cut the edge to 23-14 by the end of the period.

At halftime, Gatesville held a 39-34 lead.

As the third quarter got underway, Gatesville continued to pour in the baskets and Ayden fell into a slump. Then, the roles changed. Ayden got hot and sank 14 points while the Gatesville club could get no more than six. Ayden took the lead, 48-45.

The final quarter saw Gatesville come from behind to build up a seven-point lead over the Tornadoes and, with three minutes to go, began playing possession ball.

The buckets by Edwards and Stocks tied it 60-60 and McGlohon did the rest.

High scorer for Gatesville was 6-7 center Jack Smith, who plunked in 17 points. He was also the club's leading rebounder.

Edwards and Billy Norris were Ayden's top rebounders.

Midget Tourney Enters Finals Here Tonight

The second leg of the Tenth Annual Eastern North Carolina Midget Basketball Tournament gets underway this afternoon at the local Junior high school gym, with Swansboro vs. Wilson at 1:30 p.m. and Clinton vs. Kinston at 2:30.

Winners of those two contests will clash tonight for the tournament title at 8 p.m. A consolation game will be played at 7.

In the opening round of play last night, featuring eight Eastern North Carolina teams, putted Jacksonville against Swansboro, Greenville against Wilson, Clinton against New Bern, and Goldsboro against Kinston.

The four teams competing in this afternoon's second-round play won out:

Swansboro notched a 27-23 win over Jacksonville. Clinton flogged New Bern 42-20; Kinston downed Goldsboro 37-33; Wilson edged Greenville 28-27.

Greenville-Wilson affair, the last of the opening night card, was a game of extremes. The visiting Wilson club came from way behind to claim the victory, 28-27.

Play began slowly, with Wilson taking a first-quarter advantage, 4-2. Second quarter play was equally slow: Greenville scored only two field goals, while Wilson got two baskets and a free toss. At halftime, it was 9-6, in favor of Wilson.

Greenville broke away in the third period with a 14-point performance, to grab a quick lead. Wilson managed to score only four points during that quarter. It was 20-13.

In the final quarter, Wilson turned the tables and roared away with 15 points, while Greenville turned in only seven. It ended 28-27.

High scorer for Greenville was Cox with 16. Elliott was high for Wilson and the game, with 18.

Gomes Holds A Close Decision

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Harold Gomes today held a slim, split decision victory over fourth ranking Featherweight Ike Chestnut but he wasn't crowing loudly over it.

The reason? A dull 10-round, marred by continuous holding and deserved boos from many of the 2,000 fans in Madison Square Garden for the telecast bout last night.

Each blamed the other for the lackluster contest. Both seemed equally guilty.

"He wouldn't give me any punching room," moaned Gomes, 24, an unranked puncher from Providence, R.I. "He locked me up inside and made it seem as if I was doing the holding. I would rather have fought a war. I wanted to please the fans so much in my first Garden main event. Instead I heard boos for the first time in any of my fights."

"This was my 14th fight in the Garden and the first time I've heard boos," wailed Chestnut, 26. "He kept on holding. I won the fight, too. I don't know what hurts me most, the boos or the decision."

There were only two lively rounds, the seventh and ninth. Chestnut had been cut over the left eye near the end of the sixth. This seemed to stir up the New Yorker, who hadn't fought in 3 1/2 months. Ike went after his rival with both hands flying and scored effectively to the head.

Gomes, who has a numerically impressive .500 knockout average for his 44 pro fights, opened up with both hands in the ninth for a good round.

Referee Art Mercante, who kept prodding both fighters for action, and Judge Artie Aldana, each had Gomes in front, 5-4-1. Judge Bill Rech had it even, 4-4-2 and four points for each. The AP card had it even, 5-5.

Chestnut had an edge in the weights, 130 to 128 1/2.

Thompson Says NASCAR Wrong

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Curtis Turner, Roanoke, Va. lumberman and stock car driver, has an outspoken backer for his claim that he was rightful winner of a 100-mile race for late model stock cars Sunday at Concord.

He's Speedy Thompson of Charlotte, who declared yesterday he's stepping out of tomorrow's NASCAR feature at Fayetteville and may take NASCAR to court unless it makes Turner the winner of the Concord race.

Lee Petty of Randleman apparently came home the winner last Sunday ahead of Turner and Thompson. But Turner protested that Petty had been scored one lap too many because of a mixup when a crippled race car was being hauled off the track.

Turner won his point at Concord and was declared the winner. But Thursday, the headquarters of the National Assn. for Stock Car Auto Racing at Daytona Beach, Fla. announced it had reviewed the scoring and Petty was officially the victor.

Thompson declared that the scoring system now in use "could stand some revising. The way they've got it now, mistakes are bound to pop up. Now, if a guy gets tired of scoring, he can just get up and leave. Who's there to take his place? Nobody."

If the decision against Turner is not reversed, Thompson said he might take court action against NASCAR and its president, Bill France.

"I called Bill and told him if this is the way things are to be then racing's on the way out, and that I felt like going before it did. It's got me all shook."

France was not available at Daytona Beach for comment last night.

Lots Of Changes Since That Game

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

In the fourth inning of the seventh game of the 1956 World Series, Roy Campanella doubled off Yankee pitcher Tommy Byrne and scored moments later on a single. It turned out to be the winning run as the Brooklyn Dodgers sewed up their first world championship.

Times have changed. The Dodgers have moved to Los Angeles. Campanella lies half-paralyzed in a Glen Cove, N.Y. hospital and Byrne has retired.

But although the names may not be the same in many cases, the "game's the same." It's still big league baseball and that's all that will matter when the scores of the exhibition openers come trickling in today from Florida and Arizona.

Much of the interest will center on the Los Angeles and San Francisco teams. The Dodgers play the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game in Miami while the Giants meet the Cleveland Indians in Phoenix, Ariz.

In other games, the Chicago Cubs meet the Baltimore Orioles at Scottsdale, Ariz.; Cincinnati faces the Chicago White Sox at Tampa, Fla.; the world champion Milwaukee Braves take on Detroit at Lakeland, Fla.; Pittsburgh and Boston clash at Sarasota, Fla.; the Yankees and St. Louis get together at St. Petersburg, Fla. and Washington and Kansas City hook up at West Palm Beach, Fla.

The Giants-Indians game will also mark the American League managerial debut of Bobby Bragan.

Herb Score's scheduled first game appearance for Cleveland since his untimely eye injury last May was postponed. The young lefthander suffered a sprained right ankle running around a Tucson YMCA gym Friday and will be sidelined for a few days.

The latest hospital bulletin on Campanella indicated that the burly catcher is showing general improvement and his paralysis is slowly disappearing. Roy suffered a broken neck in an automobile accident Jan. 28.

Byrne, who had said several times he was considering retirement from baseball, made it official yesterday. He has joined the staff of an oil company in Sanford, N.C.

Top Teams Fight For Tournament Championships

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

West Virginia, gunning for the national basketball championship and North Carolina, last season's winner, will be seeking to wrap up conference championships tonight and at least one more league titleholder will be crowned when the firing is over.

West Virginia and William and Mary advanced to the finals of the Southern Conference tournament last night while North Carolina and Maryland moved into the payoff game of the Atlantic Coast competition.

The Mountaineers took Richmond 81-70 and William and Mary nipped George Washington 57-56. North Carolina fought off hustling North Carolina State 64-58 and Maryland upset top-seeded Duke in overtime, 71-65.

So, Saturday's schedule has these all-important games: West Virginia vs. William and Mary, North Carolina vs. Maryland, Michigan State vs. Indiana, Oregon State vs. Idaho, Wyoming vs. Montana and Colorado State vs. Utah.

The Michigan State-Indiana afternoon game will decide the Big 10 Conference kingpin. Each has won nine games and lost four.

Oregon State can win the Pacific Coast Conference crown by getting past Idaho. The Beavers set up the clincher last night by defeating Washington State 67-62 while California slipped into second place by dropping a 64-62 Duke to Oregon on Bud Kuykendall's basket in the final second. Oregon State is 12-3 and California 12-4.

Wyoming, with a 10-3 record, can win the Skyline Conference title in its game against Montana. Colorado State is one game back.

Sophomore Jerry West led second-ranked West Virginia to its victory. He scored 26 points and hauled in 17 rebounds. The triumph, however, was costly. St. guard Don Vincent broke a bone in his left ankle and will miss tonight's game.

Slick shooting from the free throw line and clutch firing by Roy Lange enabled William and Mary to get past George Washington.

Pete Brennan was North Carolina's strong man down the stretch. He scored 16 of his 23 points in the last 13 minutes.

Charlie McNeil, one of two sophomores who started for Maryland against Duke's all-senior club, came through with the first

Pistons Can Take 2nd Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Detroit Pistons can wrap up second place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn. today by beating the Celtics in Boston in a nationally televised game (NBC).

The Detroit-Cincinnati struggle for the runnerup spot and the Philadelphia-New York competition for third place in the Eastern Division are the only positions not yet decided.

A victory for Detroit over Boston would give the Pistons a record of 34 season triumphs. Cincinnati has won 30 and has only three games left to play.

Philadelphia can clinch the third and last playoff spot by beating the Knickerbockers in New York tomorrow afternoon.

In last night's only game, the St. Louis Hawks, champions of the Western Division, edged the Syracuse Nationals 102-100.

The 72-hole tournament continues through Monday.

Two Champs Are After It Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wheaton and Tennessee State have passed successfully their first tests in quest of their second straight small college basketball championships.

Wheaton, winner of the NCAA college division last year, defeated St. Norbert's of Wisconsin 68-66 in the first round of the Great Lakes regional at Aurora, Ill., last night. Tennessee State, the NAIA champion, qualified for the championship tourney starting in Kansas City Monday by beating North Carolina College 115-65 at Nashville for the District 29 title.

The field for the NCAA competition will be reduced to eight teams by tonight for the finals rounds starting in Evansville next Wednesday.

Among tonight's NCAA regional finals, in the South Central at Grambling, La., Grambling meets North Carolina A&T.

Eisenhower-Nixon Plan Could Result In 'Mediocre' Choices

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trust-worthy, agreeable, inoffensive mediocrity could become vice president.

That might be the result if the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement on how a vice president takes over from an ailing president becomes the rule — for lack of any other solution — for future presidents and vice presidents.

It's easy to see how future presidential candidates would want as their No. 2 man on the ticket an individual whose chief qualification for the job was not so much ability but trustworthiness and a gift for me-too-ism.

President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon — just because the Constitution doesn't spell out how a vice president takes over from a disabled president — sought to avoid possible future confusion by reaching this agreement.

If Eisenhower becomes unable to carry out his duties Nixon will decide whether he should take them over. Under the agreement Nixon can — but he's free to suit himself — consult others before deciding to become acting president.

But Congress has been beating its gums on this whole question and has done nothing. There's a good chance it will continue doing nothing and that, without their intending it so, the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement will become a rule.

Suppose that, for lack of constitutional clarification, this agreement becomes the formula for the future. Then, with that in mind, this could happen at a political convention:

A man chosen to be a party's presidential candidate might not want as his vice-presidential running mate a man he feared might at some future time try to move in on him during a period of illness and take over the presidency.

Rather, he might want as his No. 2 man one whose chief qualification was trustworthiness — one who agreed with him but who might be far less qualified than an individual who, while trustworthy, did not see eye to eye with him on everything.

It's easy to see why a vice president who disagreed with a president's programs might start to change them if, because of a presidential disability, he became acting president.

Sponsors Seek A Red Tape Strangling Washington Family

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Some California Democrats in search of a winner have come up with a donation-of-the-month idea to bring in campaign dollars.

It's the $25,000 Club.

Members sign to chip in $25 a month. Sponsors are aiming for 1,000 of these political angels — good for $25,000 a month or $300,000 a year.

You don't get a bonus, as you do from the book clubs. But there is a gold-plated membership card.

State Sen. Hugh M. Burns of Fresno, a member of the advisory board, says the money will be apportioned among selected party nominees. It won't go to just any one. Support will be limited to those who have a good chance of winning and can't raise funds otherwise.

Republicans, who have rallied on the United Republican Finance Committee for their campaign cash for years, have remained silent on the new democratic rival.

One political commentator calls the $25,000 Club "the greatest device since Tammany Hall."

"Even that political organization didn't have a gold-plated, engraved membership card as a gimmick," wrote the Sacramento Union's "Don Politico."

Burns, first Democratic president pro tem of the State Senate since 1939, was asked whether the cards would entitle the holders to any special favors if the Democrats capture the state in November.

"We are making no promises to anyone," he said.

TV Interviewer Says He Considering Sue Randolph

NEW YORK (AP)—Television interviewer John Wingate says he is considering legal action against Randolph Churchill, son of Sir Winston Churchill, for remarks Churchill made in reference to Wingate's father during a television program Thursday night. Wingate said his assistant also is considering a suit.

Churchill, who had been in this country on a lecture tour, was interviewed by Wingate on the WABD "Night Beat" program.

Churchill's verbal explosion came when Wingate indirectly brought up Randolph's sister, actress Sarah Churchill, who was fined in California last Jan. 16 for public drunkenness.

Without mentioning the charge against her, Wingate asked: "Do you think the American press took unfair advantage of the Churchill name in obviously an unfortunate situation?"

Churchill blew up. Among other things he said was "I never discuss matters affecting members of my family with total strangers."

Bandsmen Play For Kiwanians

Last night was "Music Night" at the Greenville Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting.

A section of the Greenville High School Band, under direction of James E. Rodgers, played half an hour of music that elicited considerable applause. Eli Bloom had charge of the program.

The group's first selection was a woodwind trio, Sarah Smiley, clarinet, Julia Ballance, flute, and Mary Alice Gibbs, oboe, "Scherzo," by Oliver Dotti.

A clarinet quartet, Sarah Smiley, Betty Doyck, James Winstead and David Boyd, played "Freude," by Ralph Miller.

A brass ensemble, Hubert Leggett, Frank Steinbeck, George Patrick and Steve Humbert, trumpets; Jerry McDaniel and Jackson Williams, French horns; R. Mayo and Bill Goodwin, trombones; baritone horn, Eborn Allen, and bass horn, Ronnie Finch, played "An Overture for Brass."

President G. G. McGlohon, who presided, called attention to the interclub meeting to be held at Stantonsburg April 8 in honor of Kiwanis International President Park Arnold of California.

Riley Cox, Charles Gaskins and Henry Andrews had birthdays and each donated a dime for each year of their age for the Underprivileged Child Fund.

Guests of the club were Ken Whitehead and Jerry Brooks and Bob Jackson, Circle K members.

The Kiwanis "Choo-Choo" Train will begin its spring and summer schedule the Saturday before Easter.

Fourth Death Due To Fire For Area

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — This area's fourth fire tragedy in six days claimed the life of 44-year-old Robert Melton Minton last night.

Coroner V. M. Long said Minton suffocated in the smoke filled room of a large rooming house. Firemen said the fire, limited to the bed, was caused by careless smoking.

The rash of fire deaths started last Sunday when 45-year-old Walter Vance Tysinger died in a Clemmons blaze. Mrs. Ernest V. Bullins of Winston-Salem perished in a fire that gutted a six-room frame house here and 74-year-old John Staples was killed in a Walkertown blaze.

Firemen Answer 68 Calls Here During February

Firemen answered a total of 68 fire and rescue calls during February. Fire Chief George Gardner reports.

Nuclear Blasts In Arctic Region

TOKYO (AP)—Russia's two most recent nuclear blasts were set off on or near Novaya Zemlya Island above the Arctic Circle, Japan's Meteorological Bureau said today.

A Japanese seismologist and weather experts said Russia carried out the first of two tests the morning of Feb. 27. They did not fix the time of the second blast.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said both tests took place Feb. 27 in the same general area as a Soviet test of megaton size Feb. 23.

In the past Russia has conducted its nuclear tests either in the arctic area or in Soviet central Asia north of Afghanistan. Novaya Zemlya is north of the Ural mountains.

MEMBERS OF THE JUNIOR HIGH BAND PRACTICE FOR CONCERT . . . all band students are given group instructions. (Reflector Photos).

INSTRUCTS STUDENTS ON FUNDAMENTALS . . . they must be learned early.

YOUNG STUDENT PREPARES FOR LESSON . . . she must know "all" about her instrument.

BEGINNER IN BAND WORKS AT FUNDAMENTALS . . . Rodgers closely notes progress with instrument.

By EVERETTE PARKER
Reflector Staff Writer

Being a bandmaster in a city school system is very much like being a general manager of a major league baseball team. The principle is the same.

Good ball players are not born; they are made by training, ability and experience. The same goes for members of a band. They are able to play a specific instrument because they have been trained, thereby gaining ability and experience.

In the Greenville schools system, Jim Rodgers is Bandmaster and general manager of the system's musical "farm" clubs. It is his job, first to get the players and, second, to teach them the principles of the "game."

Every year Rodgers has to bring in rookies to replace the veteran seniors who graduate from his Junius H. Rose High School band. His responsibility is to see that each new member can do his job and produce the quality of music of his predecessor.

This job cannot be done overnight. It requires hours, days, weeks and years. A student just doesn't take a seat on the bandstand with a musical instrument and play music.

While the "big" band plays, there is much activity behind the scenes. Rodgers has many youngsters in the Wahl-Coates, Elmhurst, West Greenville, Junior High, Third Street Schools practicing. Each student is practicing because he or she wants to play with the best sometime in the future.

At the present time Rodgers has approximately 175 students in his program. Of this number 110 are in the farm system awaiting their turn to play in the majors.

Most aspiring young musicians start early. With exceptions, Rodgers starts most of his students in the Fifth Grade. Other younger students on the fourth grade level may also start their classes, providing they have had previous experience such as piano lessons.

From the beginners class, that is opened twice a year, in the fall and again in summer school, the student has a long way to go before he or she is ready for the final step — playing in the Rose High band. After grade school, the student graduates to the Junior High band. During this time, Rodgers teaches each prospect two lessons a week, amounting to one hour of instruction.

Rodgers says it takes the average student from two to three years, with a minimum of 30 minutes of practice a day, to become a good band student. "Of course it will depend on the individual," he added. "Some of my pupils show remarkable progress in much less time while others never quite get the hang of it."

Full Scale Recruiting

Recruiting for future members of the band begins as soon as they become of age.

According to Rodgers he visits each class and talks to its students about the prospect of playing a musical instrument. He then sends letters home to the parents explaining how their child may get into the program and how to obtain an instrument.

The bandmaster then meets with inquiring parents and their children. At the meeting a display of all musical instruments used in the band is shown.

Following this meeting, interested students are permitted to rent the musical instrument of his or her choice. At the end of the three-month period, the student is then required to purchase the instrument. "We do this," Rodgers said, "in order that we might find out if the pupil will do well with his instrument or whether he will need another one."

Rodgers uses two methods to find out which musical instrument his pupils should play. To some students he will give a music aptitude test to find out how much they know about rhythm and pitch. Results of these tests, by and large, determine which instrument the youngster is best suited to play. Usually, the Bandmaster explained, he just leaves it up to the boy or girl to pick the instrument. "If we find out they are not suited for it, we then make a change," he stated.

Students on the fifth and sixth grade level are taught the fundamentals of music, including the names of notes, the kinds of notes, rhythm counting, musical terms and phrases. After learning and becoming thoroughly familiar with this phase of band work, the students advance to Junior High level and finally on to the Senior High band.

All instruction in the Greenville School System is conducted in groups, depending on the circumstances. "Slow" students are given special attention, not private lessons, Rodgers explained.

Program's Primary Aims
Rodgers said there are three primary aims of a good music program. They are:

1. To instill a love of music through the playing of good music.
2. To provide enjoyment of music through participation.
3. To make the student better adapted to his instrument.

"After all," he emphasized, "the success of a high school band depends on its beginner's program."

MOUTH FULL OF WIND, ROOM FULL OF SOUND . . . Junior High student plays a larger instrument.

PROPER MOUTH FORMATIONS AND MOVEMENTS . . . very important for young musicians.

SMALLER INSTRUMENTS FOR BEGINNERS . . . in most instances the larger ones come later.

RODGERS DIRECTS YOUNG PUPILS WHO STRIVE FOR THE SOUND . . . they will be in "Big" band before long.

FOUR "ROOKIES" LEND THEIR SUPPORT TO THE SHOW . . . next step for them is the J. H. Rose Band.

Nasser Fires First Shot In Fight To Rule Arab World

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
Gamal Abdel Nasser has opened his battle for complete mastery of the Arab East.

Charges that King Saud of Saudi Arabia plotted against Nasser and his United Arab Republic — and the manner in which the charges were made — indicate there will be no quarter given and none expected in this developing war between two sets of Arab rulers.

The instrument for Nasser's initial attack was Lt. Col. Abdul Hamid Serraj, the Syrian army's young, bulky, blue-jawed chief of intelligence, who claims he was offered a huge bribe to see to it that Nasser died in an attack on his plane.

France To Step Up War On Algerian Rebels; Vote Sum

PARIS (AP)—Despite deep-seated parliamentary discontent with France's Algerian policy, the National Assembly voted last night to intensify the war against the Algerian rebels.

On a vote of confidence in Premier Felix Gaillard's government, the Assembly approved 296-147 his revised military budget of 1,300 billion francs — more than three billion dollars.

With an increasingly vocal minority of the Socialist party protesting support for any government which does not seek a negotiated settlement in Algeria, former Premier Guy Mollet barely managed to keep the 90 Socialist deputies in line.

Dody And Jack 'Not As Friendly' As Used To Be

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Several commentators have opined that Dody Dody and Jack Paar tonight show Dody agrees.

Vermillion-tressed Dody was here this week on her first visit to Hollywood to guest on the Eddie Fisher Show. I nabbed her for an explanation of what has been happening between her and Paar.

"I don't know," she said blankly. "I really don't know." "Are they still friendly?" "Yes, we're friendly."

Canvass Ballots In Teacher Vote

RALEIGH (AP)—A committee of the Classroom Teachers' Division of the North Carolina Education Assn. planned to meet here today to canvass ballots for officers of the organization.

Balloting was conducted at schools in the state on Feb. 26. A committee met yesterday and canvassed the votes cast for state and district officers and convention delegates of the NCEA.

Glenn L. Robertson, principal of Beulah High School in Surry County, was elected president of the NCEA to succeed Miss Realee Andrews, Charlotte teacher.

Boy Gave Police A Rugged Night

CHICAGO (AP)—Veteran Chicago police had a tough time with Carl Martz last night after he was picked up wandering along La Salle street.

Taken to the police station, Martz ripped open drawers from filing cabinets and tore up messages on the police teletype machine. Martz, who is 3 1/2 years old, also smeared chocolate ice cream on Sgt. Harry Lyons uniform.

The boy's mother reclaimed him. She said he wandered to the street from the family's basement apartment.

Learned Later It Was His Wreck

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Patrolman Billy Kesterson parked his car some distance from the police station, reported in and got on his motorcycle to start his rounds.

He heard on his motorcycle radio a report that an automobile had plowed into a parked car, but since another patrolman was being dispatched to the scene Kesterson didn't worry about it—until he got back to headquarters and found that the wrecked car belong to him.

Animals Get Into The News Again These Days

NEW YORK (AP)—Animals in the news: A herd of buffalo disappears... A champion steer heads home... Seals float to safety... A lioness claws her trainer... A hippopotamus is found.

Around Pueblo, Colo., they're still searching for a herd of buffalo which took off from a ranch when someone left a gate open. A land and air search has turned up only a heifer calf. Still missing are a ton-size bull, two other bulls, and four heifers.

The mammals are going to be tough to find, says Pete Pace, the rancher who owns them. "When buffalo decide to go somewhere," he said, "they go. They take fences easily, mix in with cattle and then you can't track 'em."

Disturbing Lag In Sale Of New Cars

DETROIT (AP)—Automobile retailers sold fewer than 700,000 new cars during the first two months of this year.

Folger Buick Company of Greenville, N. C. has been appointed an Authorized Dealer for Simca Automobiles and Trucks.

Camera News

The first radical innovation in an attempt to modernize the traditional photographic salon exhibition is now a reality, thanks to a young woman photographer. It's an annual exhibition which encourages fresh photographic viewpoints and is given greater permanence because it's printed in book form. Called "Photo Maxima," it is the brainchild of Hope Sanders and, through her persuasive efforts, it received the blessing and sponsorship of the pictorial division of the Photographic Society of America.

Miss Sanders' year of planning, work and execution is now visible and available in this first Photo Maxima 1958, a spiral-bound, 72-page book. There are 108 photographs reproduced for exhibition out of the 1,200 received for consideration. Its international scope is emphasized by the printing of each photographer's comments about his own picture in his native language—English, Italian, Chinese and Arabic captions are carried in the back of the book.

A careful study of the pictures is a rewarding review of a variety of techniques, methods, viewpoints and choice of subject matter by a diverse group of photographers. Perceptive eyes seem to be able to find intriguing designs everywhere, in buildings, in stacks of lumber, in fences and in some of the most unusual, in shadows.

For those who like to know such details, the technical data concerning each photo is included in a rear section. And if, by chance, any particular shot or subject is one of your own specialties, you can get in touch with the photographer who made it. The exhibitors' names and complete addresses are included.

Having already achieved critical acclaim for this first volume, Hope Sanders is now making preparations for Photo Maxima 1959.

"We are again looking for photographs which show new and illuminating viewpoints, unusual perception in human nature, and unique and interesting ways of looking at ordinary subject matter," she said. "Experimentation in new forms of presentation, abstracts and pictures in fantasy encouraged—but all types of subjects are acceptable. The emphasis is on originality and penetrating interpretation."

This sort of exhibition eliminates the need of making large prints on 16-by-20 inch mounts. Entries should not be smaller than five inches on any one side nor larger than 8 by 10 inches, in black-and-white. As usual in most exhibitions, there is a small entry fee. In this case it goes towards printing book and entitles each contributor to a copy of Photo Maxima whether his pictures are selected for inclusion or not.

Inquiries and further information about entries should be directed to: Miss Hope Sanders, 322 W. 71 St., New York 23, N.Y.

Recreation Institute Had Good Attendance In City

The Recreation Leadership Training Institute for the Negro and white, held here Monday through Thursday was "extremely" successful, Recreation Director Gordon Goodman reports.

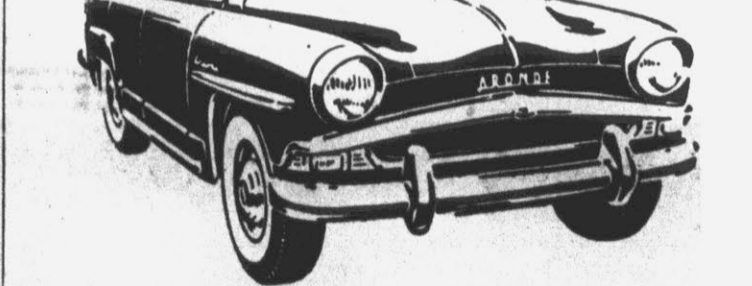

Goodman stated this morning that attendance for the eight sessions Monday through Friday was much better than average. He quoted Mrs. Ruth Garber Ehlers, National Recreation Association worker who handled the instruction, as saying the Institute here was the best held on her North Carolina tour. Other Institutes were previously held in Gastonia, Salisbury and Burlington.

Crowds Thursday afternoon and night were good, according to Goodman, who stated that Wednesday night's attendance was the best during the four-day event. Attendance at the White Institute, Wednesday and Thursday, averaged about 40 men and women a session. The Negro Institute reportedly averaged 17 men and women a session, for four sessions on Monday and Tuesday.

Included in the registration for white sessions were representatives from Durham, Lumberton, Rocky Mount, Ayden, Kinston and Greenville. During the Negro Institute, a number of recreation workers attended from Kinston as well as Greenville.

The Institute, sponsored jointly by the State Recreation Commission and the Greenville Recreation Department, embraced the entire eastern section of the state. Last year's event was held in Roanoke Rapids. Next year's schedule has not been announced, Goodman said.

France's Simca Automobiles Now Available In Greenville

Folger Buick Company of Greenville, N. C. has been appointed an Authorized Dealer for Simca Automobiles and Trucks.

In accepting this dealership the Folger Buick Company is the only authorized dealer in Eastern North Carolina. The local firm will handle the entire line of autos and trucks as well as stock a complete line of parts for the vehicles.

The Simca products are manufactured in France and have recently been introduced on the American market. The economy-minded autos have been recorded as operating 42.6 miles per gallon of gasoline, featuring the 4 cylinder 52 hp Aronde and the 85 hp Vedette V8 series.

An Aronde was chosen from the assembly line at Nanterre by the Automobile Club de France. After several days of normal breaking-in this car also was subjected to the grueling test of the Monthley circuit. Nine different drivers were selected and driving in 2 hour shifts, they covered an average of 1,657 miles every 24 hours. A total of 63,000 miles was clocked in 38 days and nights of continuous driving at an average speed of 70.2 miles per hour. This average included stops for driver changes, refueling and normal servicing. No other car in the world, regardless of cylinder capacity, has ever been driven so far at such a rate of speed.

The complete line consists of 4-door sedans, hardtops, station wagons, sport convertibles and trucks. Another great feature is the amazing low price tag. The cost is $1,755 delivered in Greenville, this includes a 12-volt ignition system, ball-joint suspension, "Air France" foam-cushion reclining seats, windshield washers, electric wipers, automatic choke, trunk light, directional signals, heater, defroster, undercoat and whitewall tires.

Come in today, and see France's smartest car, the Simca, now on sale at Folger Buick Company in Greenville, N. C.—(Adv.)

Miami Manhunt

A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

CHAPTER 23

Maria had been taken somewhere forward on the terrace. Ramez had sent one of the dockside guards for the fat man and his buddy. I sat in a straight-backed chair, Ramez, the fat man and his pal — whose name, I'd learned, was Alfredo — sat in chairs facing mine.

Ramez spoke to me: "Marta sent for you. She needed help. She knew the money was on this island because Forbes, before he died, had written her — probably from Nassau. He told her he'd bought the estate on the island and he told her he'd hidden the money — five hundred thousand minus the purchase price of the estate. She came here once — flew here in a chartered plane — found my men here; my men were not able to positively identify her, but, though she denies it, I am sure it was she.

"She realized she'd never be able to get the money and leave the island alive. She knew she had to have help. She knew that you were a man who'd willingly conspire with her to take the money that belonged rightfully to the patriots of the resistance in my country. And so she sent for you. Together you were planning ways and means of getting the money. Am I right, Dolan?"

"Ramez," I said, "your flights of fancy are something right out of this world."

He nodded to the fat man. The fat man stood. Alfredo stood and walked around behind me. The fat man nodded to him. He crouched and locked heavy arms around me, pinning me to the chair. The fat man smiled happily. He slapped me across the mouth with the back of his hand. The salt taste of blood was in my mouth. Alfredo released me and the two men sat down.

"Marta has said that she sent for you to help her get the money. Dolan. She has told me everything. Everything except the whereabouts of the money. The exact whereabouts of the money. She has told us that the money is on this island. This, of course, we knew. Or at least strongly suspected."

"If Marta told you she sent for me to help her, she lied. Or you are lying. I strongly suspect the latter. Judging from Marta's condition tonight, however, it seems possible that she might have told you anything. What have you done to her, Ramez?"

"She has been treated much more gently than you shall be treated, Dolan. If you don't come clean with us, that is, I will repeat the offer I made earlier this evening. I will repeat it one time, and that's all. Fifty thousand dollars between the two of you for the information. Now. What is your answer, Dolan?"

I grinned at him and said nothing. The grin hurt my lips.

The fat man looked eagerly at Ramez. Ramez nodded. This time I wasn't caught napping. As the fat man and Alfredo stood I jumped to my feet, swept the chair from the floor and poised it at my right side, shoulder-high, ready to throw.

"Call off your goons, Ramez, before I mess them up."

"All right Manuel, Alfredo. We won't hurt things. We have plenty of time. Sit down."

The two of them sat down. The fat man glared at me. I grinned at him. "You're an ugly bum," I said.

"Sit down, Dolan," Ramez said. I took my time about it but I did as he'd asked.

"You must realize that resistance will get you nowhere, Dolan. Outside that door—" he nodded to the door that led to the deck—"is an armed guard. On the wharf there are two more. I had hoped that this meeting would be more in the manner of a business conference. If you persist in displaying cheap heroics you must realize that I can have an armed guard in here in a matter of seconds."

He stood and paced the floor. Suddenly he stopped and turned to me. "How long have you known Marta, Dolan?"

"I've told you. It seems more like a week but I met her a little more than forty eight hours ago, in a hotel lobby in Miami Beach. You must know that. One of your cloak-and-dagger punks was following her."

"Yes. The meeting was witnessed. Unfortunately for you it was also overheard. She greeted you as an old friend. She referred to you as her fiancé. Do you expect me to believe that you had never seen her before?"

"I've been through all this. Your goon had her frightened. She thought she needed help. The 'old friend, fiancé,' bit was designed to scare you guy away."

"A likely story. In the busy lobby of a Miami Beach hotel, in broad daylight, a strong and healthy young woman becomes so frightened of a man who wishes to speak to her that she grabs the first man she sees, greets him like a long-lost friend, refers to him firmly and distinctly as her fiancé, then goes off, arm-in-arm, with him."

"I didn't believe it either, at first."

"What did you think?"

"I thought she had probably mistaken me for someone else. I was curious — hard, caught me in the pit of my belly."

"And you say you knew nothing of Jack Forbes, of the money he'd stolen from me? The money that belonged to my people?"

"The only thing I knew about Jack Forbes was what was printed in the papers. I knew that he had worked for CCA. I knew that he had died under more or less mysterious circumstances in San Andres."

"And you knew nothing about the money?"

"Nothing."

"He turned to the fat man. "When you went to Dolan's table at that steak house in Miami Beach two nights ago what did he say to you, Manuel?"

"For the most part his dialogue consisted of inanities, General," the fat man said. "He said, 'I suppose Marta's worried for fear I'll repeat some of the things she's told me about the money?'"

"And that was all he said, Manuel?" Ramez asked.

"All of importance, General," Ramez turned to me. "So, Dolan?"

"I wasn't talking about the money Forbes took! If I'd been in on this thing with Marta I wouldn't go around blabbing to the opposition, would I?"

"What money were you referring to, Dolan?" asked Ramez.

"It was a thing between Marta and me. I don't know. I can't remember. I thought Manuel worked for Marta. I thought—"

Ramez interrupted me. "Perhaps you can refresh his memory, Manuel."

"Gladly, General."

"This time Manuel and Alfredo were on me before I could move. I saw a fat man's fist coming and I rolled with the blow but the force of the impact against my jaw was enough to send me sprawling to the floor. The overturned chair lay beside me. I was on my back. I got an elbow beneath me and then a hand and as I struggled to a sitting position Alfredo charged me and the toe of a shoe, swung hard, caught me in the pit of my belly. I felt strength drain from me as I fought for breath. Someone was turning me over and my arms were being pinioned behind me with a twisted leather length of belt . . .

"I realized vaguely that I was being herded into a corner of the cabin. In a moment there would be no place to go." Brad Dolan's story continues Monday.

Annual Banquet Staged For HD And 4-H Clubs

Over 200 Home Demonstration Club members, 4-H leaders, 4-Hers and husbands of Home Demonstration Club members attended the annual banquet at Corner Stone Baptist Church Wednesday night. The meeting was sponsored by Pitt County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs as a part of the many programs presented during National 4-H Club Week.

The meeting emphasized the achievements of Pitt county's 19 Home Demonstration and 184 4-H Clubs with their 1,500 members.

Mrs. J. M. Reaves, council treasurer and mistress of ceremonies, in behalf of the Pitt County Home Demonstration Clubs, and Mrs. Maggie Strong, president of the Pitt County Council, welcomed the guests and Miss Julia Fisher, supervisor of Pitt County Health Nurses, Mrs. A. G. Puley, 4-H Club teacher, responded.

Mrs. Willie Hawkins, vice-president of the Pitt County Council, introduced the speaker, Mrs. Minnie M. Brown, assistant state Home Demonstration Agent from A. and T. College, Greensboro.

Mrs. Brown spoke on "The Good Things of Life," emphasizing: (1) life itself, (2) leisure and play, (3) work, (4) comfort and pleasure as related to pain and trouble, (5) sacrifice, and (6) friendship.

She constituted the leaders for their outstanding work in Pitt county. "On such an occasion as this," she stated, the reports on improving family living, the number attending local, district and state meetings and the winning of honors each year proved that leaders are helping to bring about great accomplishments.

The Pitt County Council of Home Demonstration Agents presented corsages to the following: Mrs. Minnie M. Brown, Greensboro, Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, Pitt county Home Agent, Miss Sadie Bailey, assistant home agent, Mrs. Willie Hawkins, vice-president of the County Council, Mrs. Maggie Council, County Council president, Mrs. M. T. Burney, County Council secretary, and Mrs. J. M. Reaves, County Council treasurer.

Miss Annie Wilson, Ayden Home Agent, led the group in the "Home Demonstration Blessing."

Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, Pitt county Home Demonstration agent, who assisted with arrangements, said she was pleased with the success of the annual banquet. She expressed her appreciation to all persons who worked so diligently in every way, and especially the pastor and members of Corner Stone Baptist Church in Greenville for the use of the church facilities for the annual banquet meeting.
