

Proposed School Levy Tabled By Education Board

'Present economic conditions' forced the Greenville City Board of Education to table a proposed supplemental tax levy request last night.

The proposal, which has been under consideration by the board for two months, included a plan to request an additional 15 cents tax levy for the city schools.

The board's action included provisions that the necessary tile would not be purchased until funds are available, and that the Highway Commission's work, if the plan is accepted by the commission would constitute full settlement of the action.

A resolution requesting the State Department of Public Instruction to authorize transfer of funds between school lunchroom accounts was passed and will be forwarded to Raleigh.

The board's action came after a report from Superintendent J. H. Rose who said the schools would be able to operate next year with funds anticipated from present levies.

Funds which would have come from the additional levy, had it been approved, were to be used for additional services and activities in the city schools.

A plan for improving portions of the Eppes School campus, damaged when the North-South U. S. 13 by-pass was constructed, was approved by the board, subject to a letter of confirmation from the State Highway Commission.

Board member W. L. Allen, chairman of a committee which investigated the damage and which also talked with division highway officials, said the commission had agreed to install 130 feet of 48-inch tile if the school board would furnish the tile, remove dead trees along the property line, fill a ravine between the highway and the Eppes athletic field, and build up shoulders of the road.

Hodges 'Sees No Sense' In Talk Of Tax-Cutting

RALEIGH (AP)—A tax cut would feed money faster into the national economy, but those who have no confidence in the Eisenhower administration would be inclined to hold on to the money, Gov. Hodges says.

"I don't see any sense in cutting taxes unless you're going to let them stay cut," Hodges told his news conference yesterday.

The governor said the best suggestion he had heard came from Democratic Senate leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas "when he said we've got millions of dollars to spend, and let's get on with it."

Meanwhile, Hodges announced the state's building and highway construction programs will be speeded up in an effort to "help North Carolina resist the downward trend of the national economy."

He reported that approximately 144 million dollars will be available for public construction, including highways, during 1958. He added local school construction will add another 28 1/2 million.

The governor's announcement followed a conference he held Wednesday with several state officials. At this session an effort was made to determine the present status of all state building programs and to decide where work could be accelerated.

Hodges described the speed up as "partly for psychology and partly to know where we stand." In reply to questions, he conceded that a large portion of the planned construction could not be accelerated appreciably.

The program, he pointed out, does not involve "new money" and is "not boondoggling" but simply a call for a speed up, where possible, in programs already planned.

Begin Distribution Emergency Aid

Pitt County employees this morning began distribution of 25,772 pounds of surplus food in a special emergency relief program.

The food is being distributed to 317 Pitt County families certified under the emergency relief program. Quantities given to each family are based on the number of persons in each family unit.

Included in the total amount of food given by state and federal departments of agriculture surplus commodity agencies are 3,060 pounds of cheese, 2,862 pounds of dried milk, 9,950 pounds of flour, 7,600 pounds of meal, and 2,300 pounds of rice.

The distribution is the first under the emergency relief program which grew out of special action taken by Greenville's City Council and the Pitt County Board of Commissioners during extremely cold weather in February.

William Wetzel, 33, has since been executed for the murder of a fellow prisoner.

The state built step by step its case of circumstantial evidence tending to show that Wetzel stole a black, high-powered automobile in Bradford, Pa.; broke into a jewelry store in West Virginia and a clothing store; and continued into North Carolina, where he picked up a Negro hitchhiker near Asheboro the night of Nov. 5.

The hitchhiker, 30-year-old lay preacher Robert Terry, witnessed the slaying of Reece near Ellerbe, then fled from the car. Brown was shot about an hour later near Sanford, about 50 miles away. An approaching motorist saw the flash of the gunfire at the second killing and the car speed away.

Terry identified the killer's car, which was abandoned Nov. 6 in Chattanooga, Tenn.; gave the FBI a description of the man; and later, when Wetzel had been identified as chief suspect and arrested in California, Terry picked him out of a police lineup in North Carolina.

President And Cabinet Confer About Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower meets with his Cabinet today to take stock of the ailing economy and of mounting demands that the federal government spend up more antirecession remedies.

The President had in mind a diagnosis from the AFL-CIO that business and job conditions are still deteriorating instead of improving as the administration had hoped by mid-March.

Boistering this view were two new government reports showing that both business and consumers plan to reduce their 1958 spending. One estimated business investment will be 13 per cent lower this year than last.

A bit of encouragement came from still another report that department store sales, as figured by the Federal Reserve Board, rose over the country last week 7 per cent above the corresponding week last year.

Officials saw other hopeful signs in the strength of the stock market and a spurt in applications for government-insured loans on new homes. The Federal Housing Administration said such applications increased a whopping 70 per cent in February over the same month a year ago.

A short-cut method of achieving a $5,200,000,000 tax reduction was rejected 7-14 by the Senate last night by its sponsor, Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) said he would continue his fight for a cut in excise taxes. The package rejected would have affected individual income, excise and transportation taxes.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Norman J. Mackiewicz, accused cop killer who broke out of jail Sunday, was captured without a fight last night.

Wetzel Is Given 2nd Life Term

SANFORD, N. C. (AP)—Frank Edward Wetzel, who twice has escaped the gas chamber for killing two state highway patrolmen, languished in jail today under sentences which make it unlikely he ever will walk free again.

The 36-year-old Seneca Falls, N.Y., criminal, who left two North Carolina state troopers dead or dying on the highway the night of Nov. 5, was convicted in Lee Superior Court here yesterday of murdering Patrolman J. T. Brown.

The defendant, straight-faced but pale when he rose to hear the verdict, relaxed when the jury recommended that he be given life imprisonment.

Judge George M. Fountain immediately passed sentence, and specified that it should begin at the end of a life sentence Wetzel already was serving for the murder of Trooper Wister Lee Reece.

The circumstances of the sentence made it unlikely Wetzel ever would be paroled, since he will not serve the two life terms concurrently.

Wetzel, who had a long record as a petty criminal in New York State, was convicted last January at nearby Rockingham of murdering Reece.

The jury then recommended mercy, and Wetzel was sentenced to life.

Solicitor W. Jack Hooks, who prosecuted the second case, had sought the death penalty throughout. He declared yesterday he'd "do it over again." And he added he felt the second trial had served a purpose because of the consecutive life sentences. "It means we've got him nailed down," he said.

Cole Sentenced 18-24 Months By Judge Today

By CHARLES L. WEST LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—Ku Klux Klan Grand Wizard James W. Cole was sentenced today to 18-24 months on the roads for inciting an Indian riot.

Cole, dapper in a dark blue suit and a pearl stickpin in his black tie, but stubble-bearded from a night in jail, stood rigid as he heard the sentence.

Former Klan Titan (sergeant-at-arms) James Garland Martin of Reidsville, N.C., convicted with the 33-year-old Marion, S.C. preacher, drew a 6-12 month sentence.

Judge Clawson L. Williams had kept the klansmen fidgeting in the prisoners' dock throughout the morning, awaiting his judgment.

A jury, out 43 minutes, convicted the pair on first ballot yesterday.

The judge recited Cole's police record, standing from 1943 to 1951, "but showed a concept of the law that is entirely consistent with his conduct on this occasion," Judge Williams said.

Cole and Martin were convicted on charges stemming from an Indian raid on an armed Klan rally near Maxton Jan. 18. The judge remarked, noting that no Indians had been arrested or charged, that "Indians are not altogether free from blame."

Lecturing the pair of klansmen who stood before him, the judge said: "When you are dealing with racial prejudice, you are scraping the very foundations of a man's pride."

Momsen Sees No Limits In Space

By EVERETTE PARKER Reflector Staff Writer Retired Vice-Admiral Charles B. Momsen, a veteran of 41 years of military service, is a man who believes that space travel in the future is unlimited.

Momsen, speaking before a large group on the campus of East Carolina College last night in connection with the World Affairs Institute, stated that in his opinion the future of missiles and space travel "has no bounds."

"It would be impossible for me or anyone else to predict their future," he said.

"I am not disappointed in the developments of our missile research at Cape Canaveral. The development of any missile is a long and complicated process which is subject to many errors before perfection."

The speaker explained he was disappointed that the United States didn't get a satellite in orbit before the Russians. According to Momsen this does not mean that the United States is behind the Soviet Union in scientific development.

"We have made many advances in missile development during recent months," he commented.

According to Momsen, the Army, Navy and Air Force are currently developing 21 different types of missiles. Included in the program are ballistic, guided and homing missiles.

It was explained that ballistic missiles are missiles aimed at a geographical course, or set on a fixed course. Guided missiles, fired from shorter ranges, are guided by radio and radar. Homing missiles have been and are being constructed to find their intended targets automatically.

More Incumbents Will Be On Ballot

Two more incumbent officials joined the race today for county offices which will be on ballots in the May 31 Democratic Primary.

Dink James, judge of Pitt County Recorder's Court since January 1, 1933, will seek another two-year term in the office. B. Alton Gardner, a member of the Board of County Commissioners since 1954 and a former chairman of the board, will seek another four-year term as commissioner from District Five.

Judge James paid his filing fee to the Pitt County Board of Elections yesterday and Gardner was expected to pay his this morning. Neither of the two men has any opposition thus far.

The county judgeship is the only political office ever held by Judge James who has not had any opposition since 1942. He holds the position in addition to his law practice which he established after graduation from the University of North Carolina School of Law.

Judge James is a native of Pitt County. He and Mrs. James have two children, Elizabeth of Winston-Salem, and Billy, a student at Oak Ridge Military Institute.

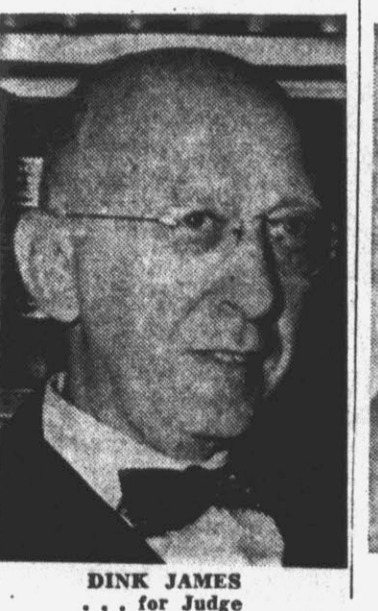

Gardner is a farmer and lumberman, partner in a general mercantile store at Chicod, and president of the Ayden Tractor and Implement Company. Prior to becoming a member of the Board of County Commissioners in 1954 he served for seven years on the County Board of Education and was vice-chairman of that group for two years.

He was chairman of the Board of County Commissioners in 1957 and also chairman of the Pitt County Board of Health at the same time.

Gardner has been a director of the Greenville Production Credit Association since 1948 and is president of the Association now. He was appointed a member of the PCA District Advisory Committee in 1954 and re-appointed in 1957.

He is a member of the Masons, Scottish Rite, Junior Order, Loyal Order of Moose, Chicod Ruritan Club, and Shriners. Gardner is a member of Timothy Christian Church, where he is chairman of Deadline for applications for the position, as Tax Supervisor and Collector, will be tomorrow.

No final action on filling the position is expected to be taken Monday, according to Chairman Woodrow Wooten. He said this morning that Monday's meeting will be devoted to screening the applications and preliminary review of them.

The position has been vacant since February 25 when Tax Supervisor and Collect Harold M. Allred and his assistant, Delton E. Perry, both resigned. No replacement for Perry will be hired.

little about present conditions, Lindley cited two reasons. First, he said, the Russians are trying to lure us into a summit conference and, second, having been caught off base in predictions before, they are being wary until they see what is going to happen here.

A summit meeting is likely to take place, according to Lindley, because "we are being impelled into it by Russian-exerted pressure."

No Fight Left In Accused Killer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Norman J. Mackiewicz, accused cop killer who broke out of jail Sunday, was captured without a fight last night.

Two sheriff's deputies flushed the unshaven, bedraggled fugitive from beneath a railroad embankment at gunpoint.

The New Britain, Conn. native was led manacled and handcuffed to heavy guard to Dade County's skyscraper jail, from which he and three other prisoners escaped in a daring human-fly descent of a rope made of mattress ticking. The other three were recaptured earlier.

JUST PRACTICING BAROLDA, Mich. (AP)—Lee Briggs, 22, was getting in a little target practice by shooting his rifle out of his apartment window at a telephone pole. Young Gun Girl Is Shot To Death

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A 16-year-old girl was shot to death yesterday as she aimed a pistol at him.

Sandra Linscheit, only child of a Columbia Basin Irrigation project farm couple from Ellipton, Wash., was killed by two .38-caliber slugs which tore into her left chest.

She had ignored three demands to throw down her gun.

The girl and a companion, Janice Teel, also 16, of Pasco, Wash., had been stopped as runaways as they alighted from a bus.

Patrolman Richard Stevens, 33, told Police Chief Earl Phillips he had no recourse but to shoot the girl, whose gun posed a threat to the some 50 persons crowded into the small bus depot in this south central Washington city.

Phillips, Deputy Sheriff Harold Guthrie and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Callahan, operators of the bus depot, all commended Stevens, who joined the police force only 10 months ago.

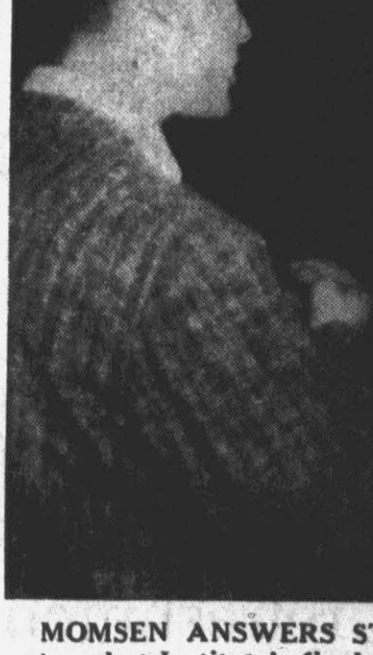

Phillips said Stevens was "carrying out my orders and acting in defense of his own life."

Plane Missing With Sick Boy

MONTICELLO, Utah (AP)—A light plane carrying a sick 10-year-old boy to a hospital disappeared in a snowstorm southwest of Monticello last night.

Sheriff Seth Wright said three persons were aboard the plane. It took off for Monticello about 6 p.m. from Fry Canyon, an isolated uranium mining area in rugged southeast Utah about 45 air miles southwest of Monticello.

Lindley Opines Business Needs More Drastic Action

"Much more energetic measures" than the Federal government has yet taken are needed if economic conditions are to become better.

That was the opinion of Ernest K. Lindley who appeared with John C. Metcalfe in one of two final sessions of the East Carolina College World Affairs Institute last night.

The pair discussed problems of national and international importance.

Metcalfe, a noted Washington, D. C. news analyst, introduced the topics of discussion through a series of questions on problems on the American domestic and foreign affairs front. In turn, Lindley, Washington, D. C. director of Newsweek Magazine, commented briefly on the questions and subjects presented to him.

Miss Janet Hodges, ECC student, served as Moderator for the two men who appeared before students, representing seven departments of instruction at the college, faculty members and guests from Greenville and surrounding areas.

Green Salad For St. Patrick's

SHAMROCK SALAD—Egg salad layered with green gelatin for St. Patrick's Day.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Here's a Shamrock Salad for St. Patrick's Day entertaining. The body of the salad is made from chopped eggs, mayonnaise, grated carrot and seasonings molded with unflavored gelatin. Then layers of green-colored lemon gelatin are added to give the appropriate touch.

Although the green layers have lemon juice added, they are definitely sweet; many people like this sweet flavor on a buffet table starring ham.

SHAMROCK EGG SALAD MOLD
Ingredients: 1 package (3 ounces) lemon-flavored gelatin, 1 1/2 cups boiling water, 1-4 cup lemon juice, blue food coloring, 1 envelope unflavored gelatin, 1-4 cup cold water, 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish, 2 tablespoons lemon juice or cider vinegar, 1-4 cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon finely grated onion (pulp and juice), 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon white pepper, 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard, 8 hard-cooked eggs (chopped), 1/2 cup finely grated carrot, chichory, ripe olives.

Method: Dissolve the lemon-flavored gelatin in the boiling water. Cool slightly. Stir in lemon juice and enough blue food coloring to color pale green. Pour enough into a 1-quart shamrock-shaped mold to give a layer about 1/2-inch deep. Chill until firm. Cool remaining lemon gelatin until a little thicker than the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Soften unflavored gelatin in the cold water. Dissolve over boiling water. Add horseradish, lemon juice or vinegar, mayonnaise, onion, salt, pepper and mustard; mix well. Stir into eggs and grated carrot. Complete the mold in layers as follows. Place half of the egg salad over firm green layer, half the remaining thickened green gelatin, the remaining egg salad, and lastly the remaining green gelatin. Chill several hours until set. Unmold on a chilled serving plate. Garnish with chichory and ripe olives. Makes 10 to 12 small servings suitable on a buffet table where there are main other dishes.

Note: Make sure the green-colored gelatin is just thick (or set) enough when added to stand up in a layer when it is turned over the egg salad mixture. If it is too thin, it will not make a distinct demarcation; if it is too thick, the layers will not adhere well.

Party Says Must Divorce, Leave Children--Work

By NADEANE WALKER

PARIS (AP)—There'll always be a France, as far as fashion goes.

Paris dress designers have always been good at producing something new, but this season they have outdone themselves. Some of the new silhouettes are so out-of-this-world that they hint at outer space travel costumes. Maybe they were inspired by the Sputniks.

One American buyer complained, "The silhouettes make all the news this time; they haven't even bothered to use new materials."

Trapeze Line

But the buyers were wildly enthusiastic about the debut collection of young Yves Saint-Laurent. This 21-year-old heir to Christian Dior provided, with his blimp-like "trapeze" line, a loud affirmative answer to those who asked, "Will French fashions still be French fashions without Dior?"

Leading colors of the season are: string beige, blue (from sky to navy) orange pinks, yellow, grey, and—surprisingly—a lot of black for after-dark. Chiffons, laces and organzas are equally popular for dressy-summery styles.

Leading question of the season: Are those shapes sacks, or have they turned into something else? The big store buyers would like to have you think otherwise, but essentially they're still sacks, whether you call them chemises

Party Says Must Divorce, Leave Children--Work

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Suppose your husband came home one night and said, "Sorry, dear, I've just been down at the political club and the county chairman told me I'll have to divorce you for the good of the party."

Sounds impossible, doesn't it? Yet that sort of thing is happening right now in the United States among members of the Communist party, says J. Edgar Hoover in his sensational new book "Masters of Deceit," just published by Henry Holt of New York.

The director of the FBI, paints a shocking picture of American life under a Communist dictatorship:

"The Constitution, and all our laws, would be abolished. . . . All property used in production would be confiscated, thus leading ultimately to total communization, meaning state ownership. This confiscation would include your home, business, bank deposits and related personal possessions. These would 'belong to everybody.'"

" . . . Hotels, country clubs and swimming pools would be used for the benefit of the 'workers,' meaning in most cases party bosses. . . . Children would be placed in nurseries and special indoctrination schools. Women would be freed from housework to work in factories and mines along with the men."

All this, says Hoover, is not some visionary dream of the far-off future, but the definite and immediate aim of the Communist party, which they confidently expect to accomplish within the lifetime of most of us.

"Remember . . . that there are thousands of people in this country now working in secret to make it happen here," he says.

Any woman who doesn't want her children to be taken away and raised by the state, or who doesn't want to be divorced for the good of the party, or who doesn't like the idea of being turned out of her own home should read Hoover's book.

St-ret-c-h-i-n-g Dollars

March is Egg Month . . . and in most Greenville supermarkets and grocery stores the owners are recognizing this by reducing egg prices slightly. Eggs furnish complete protein which makes them unusually high in quality.

During this season with eggs plentiful, prices remain steady and supplies are increasing. Another poultry product which is plentiful at this time are broilers. They can be bought whole, cut-up, and in parts at reasonable prices; but, hens continue to be scarce on the local market.

Shoppers this weekend will have a few fruit choices over last week. Apples, bananas, lemons, and grapefruit can be seen at the fruit counter. Consumers who do not prefer fresh fruits can find good money values in processed fruits—canned, frozen, and dried.

Prices are up-up-up this week on all cuts and grades of beef. Generally, all pork cuts remain unchanged in price with the exception of processed pork.

Food shoppers might choose fish products along with processed meats in stretching meat dollars. Families will begin seeing leafy vegetables at mealtime this week since they have begun arriving on the local scene.

Improved growing conditions have resulted in some improvement in quality. Some local grown greens and collards are on the market. Cabbage is appearing cheaper while all potato prices are advancing.

Reasonably-priced celery, carrots, and onions dominate the produce counter. Lettuce, cucumbers, and peppers are up in price.

Food buyers may check both canned and frozen vegetable supplies for some good additional vegetable buys.

Can We Afford $30,000 Forfeit?

It is a logical request the county Board of Health has made in asking the Pitt County Board of Commissioners to provide necessary matching funds to build a Mental Health Wing at the county health center.

The 1957 General Assembly passed a special act in which the state appropriated $30,000 for construction of a Mental Health Wing at the county health center.

National Notice In Schools Work

BY LYNN NISBET
BETTER SCHOOLS — The North Carolina Citizens Committee for Better Schools has attracted attention of the National Citizens Council for the excellence of its program and achievements during the first year of activity. The North Carolina group has been asked to put on the program for the final day of a Southeastern regional meeting in Atlanta on May 8-9-10. The executive committee of the state organization met in Raleigh this week with Governor Hodges and State Chairman Holt McPherson to plan for the Atlanta meeting. The activities which attracted national notice included a statewide meeting at Chapel Hill with Adlai Stevenson as the principal speaker, and several regional meetings throughout the state, as well as continuing efforts to stimulate local interest in better schools under direction of a full time executive officer.

WHAT IS IT? Although the National Council has been in existence for nearly ten years and the State Committee for more than a year, relatively few people know much about their functions. Dallas Herring, chairman of the State Board of Education, is a prime mover in both and from him comes this background: A group of nationally famed civic and educational leaders, concerned about the plight of the public schools, organized the National Citizens Council for Better Schools in New York in 1950 after a preliminary conference in San Francisco a few months earlier. Herring attended both of these meetings. The Council is incorporated, but with out stock or hope of monetary profit. Membership is entirely voluntary, and financial support comes from quasi-private sources, principally at first from the Carnegie foundations. Within a few years the Council had members from every state in the union, except South Carolina.

There are two primary objectives: To help the people of America realize and recognize the importance of public education; and, to arouse interest at local levels in improving the schools—in physical facilities, curriculum and quality of instruction. The National Council encouraged organization of State and local committees dedicated to the same purpose, although there is no direct connection among them and each organization is entirely independent of all the others. The North Carolina Committee was formed in January of last year at the call of Governor Hodges, to whom Herring had reported on National Council and activities in other States. This was the 39th state committee, and within the past year several others have been formed. The Committee has the same basic aims and organizational structure as the National Council. Holt McPherson, editor of the High Point Enterprise, was named chairman and a number of others were asked to help get the movement on the road. Contributions were solicited and it wasn't long before corporations and individuals had provided sufficient money to set up a permanent organization. The committee obtained the services of Dr. M.E. Yount, former superintendent of Alamance county schools, as full-time executive director, and of Mrs. Ruth Dailey of Durham, a member of the National Council, as secretary. Headquarters offices were established at Burlington and the Committee was in business.

OBJECTIVES — What is its business? Simply and solely to stimulate interest at local level among patrons of the public schools for better schools. There is no specific program or goal. The committee has no campaign for revising curricula. It does not sponsor or promote bond issues or tax levies or Federal aid. It takes no stand with respect to segregation or the relationship of athletics. It seeks only to get the people interested enough in good schools to give thought to the problems in their own communities.

RECOGNITION — Although North Carolina rates pretty low in all statistical tables on educational matters, including the status of draftees and the schedule of teacher salaries, the State is getting some recognition for effort. The Atlanta program is one in a long series of incidents testifying to the high degree of effort put forth by North Carolina on the educational front. Magazines with national circulation will feature the program.

SANDBURG — March 27 has been designated as Carl Sandburg Day in North Carolina. Observance will be climaxed by a luncheon at Raleigh with the Governor and other high ranking State officials and literary notables joining in tribute to the honor guest. Although not a native Tarheel, Carl Sandburg chose North Carolina as the place he wanted to live. He bought the Canemora estate at Flat Rock in Henderson county and has made his home for about 20 years. As a biographer, a historian and a poet, as well for his love of folklore and folk music, he is perhaps North Carolina's most famous citizen in the world of literature.

The forthcoming tributes to Carl Sandburg recall the occasion of a visit by your reporter to his home some 15 years ago with a group of newsmen getting a feature story and pictures of Carl and his goats. The comment of Mrs. Sandburg as we stood together on the steps of the fine old mansion and looked across the relatively low mountain is unforgettable. With as much affection as could be put into the tone of her voice she said: "It isn't so magnificent or spectacular as you'd scenery; but it is so easy to live with."

tion of a Mental Health Wing at the Pitt County health department building. The only restriction in the special legislation is a provision that at least $10,000 in local funds also be provided for construction of the facility.

Pitt County can ill afford to forfeit the $30,000 state appropriation. The addition to the health department building must be had if the county's outstanding Mental Health Clinic is to carry out its work.

The Mental Health Wing is to be named in honor of the late Dr. Walter C. Humbert, health director of Pitt County from 1952 until his death last August. In its budget for the current fiscal year, the county has an item for the salary of a health director for the full 12 months. Dr. Humbert died less than two months after the beginning of the current fiscal year. Since his death Pitt has had no full-time health director. Therefore in the county's budget there is an item earmarked for salary which should not have been spent. It seems to us appropriate for the Commissioners to designate this unused part of the funds set aside for Dr. Humbert's salary for construction of the mental health facility already named in his honor, but not yet built.

If work of the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic is of sufficient import to warrant a state appropriation of $30,000 to build it permanent facilities, certainly Pitt County will be repaid many-fold for the investment of $10,000 in the same facility.

The County Commissioners should as quickly as possible take action to make the $10,000 in county funds available for construction of the new Mental Health Wing.

Big Opportunity For Pitt In Conference

Greenville's Chamber of Commerce and East Carolina College are to be commended for making it possible for the Regional Industrial Conference to be held here on March 25.

The conference, one of three such meetings being held in North Carolina, affords the people of Pitt County an unprecedented opportunity to gain much first-hand information that could prove invaluable in the economic development of this county.

In addition to the general session which will highlight an address by Gov. Hodges, the conference will feature several panel discussions on various aspects of industrial and economic development as it may be applied to North Carolina's Coastal Plain.

Sponsored by the Commerce and Industry Division of the Department of Conservation and Development, the meeting is designed to get into the hands of community representatives pertinent information on industrial and economic development. This goal can be reached only if community representatives attend the meetings.

With the Coastal Plain meeting being held in Greenville, Pitt County should have a large attendance. Every phase of the county's economy should be represented at the meeting, and the more people from this county who attend, the more good Pitt can expect to gain from the meeting.

The fact that this meeting is being held in Greenville affords Pitt citizens interested in the economic development of their county an invaluable opportunity to obtain information which can be put to good use in development efforts in the future.

Consumers Can Be Stimulated

By ELMER ROESSNER
Consumer buying may be able to pull the nation out of the current economic unpleasantness, $72 billion it can do a better job with some sort of stimulation.

President Eisenhower said he is counting on consumer spending to remedy the situation. The Chicago Federal Reserve Bank stated that "consumer buying will continue to play a key role in the nation's trend of business in the coming months."

This is why consumer buying is so important: Last year total personal income was $343 billion. In the year consumers spent $200 billion at retail. That spending, well over half of all income, is large enough to make or break economic conditions. Government spending is often cited as a prop to the economy. But, at about $72 billion this fiscal year, it is on a little more than a third of the consumer spending.

CLUES TO FUTURE
Willingness to spend savings, current income and future income (through installment purchases) depends on consumer attitudes. It is difficult to determine these precisely. Spending was way down last month—but was it because of consumer caution or the tough weather? Or how much of each?

Here are some indicators of consumer attitudes:
— Department store sales this year have been running 4 per cent behind last year.

— Consumers plan to buy fewer autos and large appliances this year, according to a survey reported by the Chicago Federal Reserve.

— Consumers are fairly well supplied with autos, appliances and furniture, although saturation is still far away.

— Prompt payment of installment and charge accounts is reported in most sections of the country. However, some credit authorities believe it may be because people want to keep their credit ratings good in case things get worse.

OTHER INDICATORS
— Consumer resentment against high prices seems stronger. Many can't understand why prices should keep on rising as employment and income decline. A survey by a New York buying office showed that many stores have given up trying to "trade up"—that is, to persuade customers to buy better quality goods than they had intended. Many stores

Money Is Easy To Lose

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Money may be harder to get now—but it's still easy to lose.

A survey by the American Express Co. showed that U.S. citizens reported losing more than 100 million dollars in cash last year, in most cases through their own carelessness. This is enough to buy a Harvard education for 10,000 students—or to build a community of 5,000 homes.

Astonishing as this figure is, Donal E.J. MacNamara, crime consultant for the company, says it doesn't tell the whole story. The reported losses alone come to 100 million, he said, but the amount of money actually inadvertently lost each year, and not reported, is probably many times that figure.

MacNamara, dean of the New York Institute of Criminology, spent 15 years abroad as an investigator for the armed forces and has concluded, "Americans are by far the most careless people in the world with money."

The American man, not the American woman, is the major culprit. "A man often won't even bother to report a loss if it is less than $25," said MacNamara, "but if a woman loses a quarter in a restaurant, she'll report it to the manager."

If your car is stolen, you have a 95 per cent chance of regaining it. But only 10 per cent of lost money is ever returned. Most money is lost around Christmas and Easter, and during the peak travel months of July and August. "Although most money is lost outside the home," said MacNamara, "hidden money in the house is often lost, too."

People still hide money in a furnace in the summer, forget, and burn it up the next winter. Or they bury it, only to discover later that mice, rot, insects or water have ruined it. Every year about 45,000 people bring currency fragments to the U.S. Treasury, hoping to redeem it, he said.

Or they leave it where small children can find it, throw it down the window, or flush it down the bathroom plumbing.

Many children seem to take great delight in seeing pretty green money go down the drain. This hobby costs their parents at least a million dollars a year, but the parents alone are to blame, he added.

Here are his tips for cutting down careless money losses: "Don't have any more than you absolutely need. Use checks. A woman should carry her money only in a small bag she can hold in her hand at all times—not in a big bag slung over her arm or shoulder.

A man should carry his wallet in his inside coat pocket. That is the safest place, because to get at it a pickpocket has to face you, something he doesn't like to do.

"We must not be misled by the claim that the source of all wisdom is in the government. Wisdom is born out of experience, and most of all out of precisely such experience is brought to us by the darkest moments. It is in the meeting of such moments that are born new insights, new sympathies, new powers, new skills."—Herbert Hoover.

Opinions In Brief

By A.N. SPANIEL, Chairman International Latex Corporation
The well-informed and perceptive New York Times correspondent in Tunisia, Thomas F. Brady, reported in a dispatch on March 9th that the country is in "a state of acute poverty" and that the once popular Bourguiba regime "has weakened to a degree that cannot be precisely judged."

These two interrelated factors—the appalling decay of the nation's economy and the deepening threat to Bourguiba's rule—hold the key to a constructive resolution of the French-Tunisian crisis. Without doubt the State Department's Robert Murphy and his British associate, now bringing the "good offices" of their governments to the problem, are aware of this. But it is vital that American public opinion share this awareness.

Since Tunisia attained independence two years ago, its economy has been going downhill at a dizzy pace. Because of Habib Bourguiba's demagogic hostility, French enterprise in his country has all but dried up, and there is nothing to take its place. The living standards of the people, generally low, have been depressed to a tragic degree.

Bourguiba, we wrote in this space several weeks ago, "seems to have been more fascinated and preoccupied with the prospects of a Tunisia-Morocco-Algeria axis ominously pointed at the Sahara and French Africa than with the living needs of the Tunisian people. To them he gave neither bread nor circuses; he played with lit fuses instead, in spite of repeated French warnings to him that sooner or later an explosion would be inevitable."

Dreaming dreams of a North African empire with the newly discovered potential wealth of the Sahara as its prize, the ambitious Bourguiba has in effect joined the Algerian guerrillas. By his own public admission, Tunisia "is not neutral."

It gives unlimited sanctuary to the guerrillas and supplies them with arms. His complicity in the struggle, which is an overt and flagrant violation of international law, has stymied efforts to resolve the unhappy situation. He must therefore bear direct responsibility for much of the loss of French and Algerian lives.

But among the worst victims of his reckless adventure are his own people. His is the luxury of daydreaming of North African empire—their economic nightmare. The world should not be misled by those stage-managed anti-French demonstrations into believing that the common people yearn for the axis or understand what it is all about. The real cause of their dangerous mood are hunger and despair; they can't eat glory-to-be.

Bourguiba spins the yarn that if he ceased to aid and abet the Algerian rebels the Tunisian people would rise against him and join Nasser. This is political legerdemain, exploiting his knowledge that the very name Nasser raises goose pimples on desks of the Foreign Offices of Western nations.

The Game Still Favors The Hitter

By JIMMY ELLIS

The Interrupted Letter

Dear Boss: I know that it's my time to write a column for that big space on the editorial page, but I'd like to back out of the assignment if I could. I'm just not in the mood to do it.

As a matter of fact, I'm so much out of the mood that I'm not going to wait until the last minute to alibi my way out, which is what I usually do. I'm taking some perfectly good sitting-and-thinking time to write this so you will have plenty of time to line up a replacement column.

Right now, it's raining outside and I've always held that rainy weather is the time to get a comfortable chair, drag it to a window, sit down and watch the rain. After all, I always say, a man has to have some time, no matter how little, to let his motor sail and permit the spark plugs to cool off.

So I'll sit by the window when column-writing time comes, if you don't mind. I have a lot of things to think about.

For instance, I need to consider the news from former Reflector Staffer Bob Hilldrup that the Army has transferred him from Fort Benning, Georgia, to Fort Bragg. I'm not so far away from my own Army days that I can't appreciate such, but it takes a little time to really get the full meaning of the situation.

Then, as a second point, I really need some time to consider where I think East Carolina College officials should hold their 1958 graduation exercises. I understand that the college's bosses have been thinking about staging them in either Wright Building, Memorial Gym, or the football stadium—but I really ought to weigh the merits of each before I voice a personal opinion about what they ought to do.

A thing like that takes time, and there's only two months remaining before diploma-presenting time comes around again.

As a third point, I believe I just ought to slow down a little bit. I've been going pretty hard in recent days, and you know what that will do to a man's physical and mental equilibrium if he isn't careful.

A body can take only so much, and there are trying times ahead for all of us, especially me. It just wouldn't do for Wee Urchin II to come into this world with the prospects of facing a father who is a complete mental and physical wreck.

Come to think of it, I believe I'll push that third point up into first place. I've just been working too hard and I need to think about it a little before taking any drastic.

(Editor's note: This letter was interrupted at this point by The Boss. He wasn't impressed, especially by that part about working too hard. Jimmy Ellis' regular columns are expected to be resumed next week—if he gets back from 38 special assignments in time to do them.)

Other Editors Saying--- Better Shun Federal Aid

(Henderson Dispatch)
If the two new Methodist colleges, one at Fayetteville and the other at Rocky Mount, cannot make the grade without Federal financing, they might do just as well to throw in the towel at the outset. Or, if they are prepared to sell their birthright for this mess of Federal postage, that ought to be made clear in the beginning. For when government money is dumped into the till, government directives will accompany it. Leaders in the movement ought to recognize that fact, or are they willing to let Washington chart their course for them?

Education is highly important, both under church sponsorship and otherwise, but when Bishop Paul Garber said in Washington that his denomination would in the future "put as much emphasis on higher education as on evangelism and missions," he was emphasizing principles which certainly are secondary to the functions of the Christian church as such.

If the Methodists cannot finance these projects, and if they are putting themselves in the position of becoming a mere puppet of the government, and drifting far from the traditional American theory of separation of church and state. This step is in a sense the equivalent of accepting government dictation as to policy, and is setting the dangerous precedent and opening the way for Federal integration into religious affairs. The church is moving toward subservience to government, and if and when the Methodistists surrender they may be pointing the way for others to do the same thing. In such an event, independence of religious sects from government could become but a sham and a mockery.

Bishop Garber said the two colleges would have the full backing of the Methodist Church to assure them a place as permanent, four-year schools. But how infinitely better the colleges and the denomination alike would be to have them, as two-year junior colleges free from the taint and potential dictation of a substantial control by government than to be four-year colleges owing perpetual allegiance to a political establishment.

The committee which went to Washington found ready response on the part of some lawmakers to sponsor legislation appropriating funds for both Fayetteville and Rocky Mount. Maybe they know what they are inviting, or perhaps they are willing to accept the risk, and risk it is indeed, and highly dangerous at that for pure and undefiled education—and religion.

A Policy For Tottering Tunisia

But better than anyone else, too, he knows that his yarn evades the heart of the problem. The naked facts of economic life are catching up with him. Ever stronger undercurrents of grumbling, discontent and despondency menace his regime. His position as head of state is at stake, and he is too intelligent not to know that rehabilitation of Tunisian economy is the one thing that would restore his popularity with those who are entitled to first claim on his loyalty, namely his own Tunisian people.

This is the reality that offers the best hope of a truly constructive program for ending the Tunisian crisis. In terms of both national and personal self-interest, an effective solution that strengthens his position at home should prove acceptable to Bourguiba. His survival in power depends, in the last analysis, on his success in meeting the basic economic needs of his people.

This can be achieved only by restoring and revitalizing friendly relations with France: the realistic condition for economic revival and progress in Tunisia. It would at the same time serve larger free-world purposes by promoting an equitable resolution of the Algerian problem, since the cessation of Tunisian intervention would of necessity become part of the overall program.

The press has reported that the American-British "good offices" are exploring a "package" deal which includes a "development loan" far above the eight and a half million dollars

Tunisia received from the United States in 1957. But it should be crystal clear that Tunisia is unable to develop anything except in collaboration with the French, who built its total economy and therefore have the experience and ability to revive and expand it now.

The West can help Bourguiba build a bridge to the hearts of his people, and in the process raise the chances of peace in Algeria. The time is especially opportune, now that France has finally begun to implement long-overdue reforms in Algeria.

What is clearly indicated is to make substantial loans to Tunisia over the next three years. France had committed itself to liberal terms and self-liquidating in character. But to make both economic and political sense, the loans must be applied for joint investment by private enterprise of both France and Tunisia.

The overall program, for example, could begin by providing that Tunisia receive from the United States and France the 30 million dollars annually for administrative purposes, the sum France had committed itself to contribute for the fiscal year that began April 1, 1957. (Ten million dollars were actually given plus two million more for the Tunisian army, when Bourguiba's complicity with the Algerian guerrillas became so notorious that the French Foreign Office found its hands tied in securing ratification for this agreement.)

Beyond that, there should be a self-liquidating American loan

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Mark 5:18-20; Luke 8:26-30; 10:1-2; Acts 5:12; I Thessalonians 1:6-10.

As Jesus stepped from a ship from the sea of Galilee, a man tortured by evil spirits begged His help. Jesus cast out the evil spirits and the man was healed.

Seeing this miracle, people were frightened and Christ left them. The man wished to go with Jesus, who said, "Go home, and show how great things God hath done unto you."

Near the end of His earthly mission, Jesus sent forth 70 men to go, two and two, to spread the word "into every city and place, whither He Himself would come."

Of these 70 early evangelists it is said that "daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus Christ."

WAYS IN WHICH WE MAY SPREAD THE GOSPEL OF CHRIST

Scripture—Mark 5:18-20; Luke 8:26-30; 10:1-2; Acts 5:12; I Thessalonians 1:6-10.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL AS JESUS stepped ashore from a ship at Gadara on Galilee's eastern shore, "there met Him out of the city a certain man, which had devils long time, and wore no clothes, neither abode in any house, but in the tombs." In the mountains of Gadara were many caves and rock-tombs where the demons lived. "When he saw Jesus, he cried out, and fell down before Him, and with a loud voice said, What have I to do with Thee, Jesus, Thou Son of God most high? I beseech Thee, torment me not. (For He had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. For oftentimes it had caught him: and he was kept bound with chains and in fetters; and he brake the bands, and was driven into the wilderness.)"—Luke 8:27-29. Jesus then asked him a simple question: "What is thy name?" "And he said, Legion; because many devils were entered into him."

MEMORIAL VERSE

"Show how great things God hath done unto thee."—St. Luke 8:39.

Then the spirits made a strange request of Jesus: "They besought Him that He would not command them to go out into the deep." A herd of swine was feeding near at hand and the demons asked that they might enter into them. Jesus agreed, and "the devils went out of the man, and entered into the swine; and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the lake, and were choked."—Luke 8:33. When the men who fed the swine saw this, "they fled, and went and told it in the city and in the country." Then they returned to Jesus, "and found the man, out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed, and in his right mind; and they were afraid." The people who lived in that part of the country were also filled with fear, and they begged Christ to go away, "and He went. Red Oak Christian Grace F. W. B.

On Saturday night, March 15, at 7:30 p.m. the adult choir of Red Oak Christian Church will sponsor a musical production, "A Mid-Winter's Night Dream." The colorful event, to be staged in the Red Oak Community Building, will feature a 30-voice choir, 30 children doing a folk dance, tap dancing, ballet, a ventriloquist act, and a drama portraying the loves of a dashing young man who finally won the heart of a beautiful girl—portrayed by Mr. and Mrs. Chester Don Worthington Jr.

Background and mood music will be provided by the choir, directed by Howard James. The production will be directed by Mrs. B. Leon Tyson assisted by Mrs. Charles Jackson. Stage manager will be Jarvis Tripp Jr. (A rehearsal will be held tonight at 7:30.)

The public is cordially invited. The small admission price will be used to help purchase new choir robes.

At the Sunday morning worship service the pastor will preach on "The Mission of Evangelism." Prayer covenant cards for the revival to be held March 20-April 6 will be signed by visitation teams and the congregation as an act of dedication. The choir anthem will be "Go Ye Into All The World" by McCormick.

At 12:30 p.m. Circle No. 1 will serve a luncheon to the ten visitation teams. Following a period of instruction and prayer, the teams will go forth to visit prospective members of Red Oak Church.

Our School of Missions on Japan will be held at 6:00 p.m. with classes for adults, C.Y.F., Chi Rho, and Chi Rhoettes. Rev. Howard James will direct the singing at Eighth Street Christian Church this week during the revival. A Policy... (Continued from Page 4) of 30 million dollars annually matching by similar loans from France. Restoration of French business enterprise in Tunisia, secured to a capital of 60 million dollars a year, could accomplish both economic and political miracles.

A plan along these lines, shaped by the capable hands of Robert Murphy and launched with dispatch, could solve Bourguiba's basic domestic problems and simultaneously help tranquilize neighboring Algeria.

One thing is clear: The West cannot with honor support and sustain a head of state who blatantly defies international law and recklessly prolongs a struggle which is bleeding both France and Algeria white. For the sake of his own people President Bourguiba should be left with no margins of ambiguity for dangerous self-delusion on that score.

Announce Winners In Science Program

By ANNE HARRIS
Belvoir-Falkland Reporter

The "outsiders" basketball doubleheader, originally planned for this week, has been rescheduled for Monday night at 7:30 in the high school gymnasium.

Seniors and members of the faculty will play graduates of BFHS and community adults in two games. Admission charges of 25 cents and 50 cents will go into the Senior Class treasury.

As a part of the required studies in the school science program, high school and elementary grade students completed their projects last week. Each of the projects was judged by Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, county supervisor, and Principal E. N. Warren.

Winners in the elementary grades included:

Fourth grade, Brenda Tyson, "Star Constellation"; fifth grade, Debbie Turner, "Leaves or Foods That Build Muscles"; sixth grade, Donna Stancil, "North Polar Constellations"; seventh grade, Shirley Stancil, "Insects of the World"; and eighth grade, Dorothy Clark, "Principles of the Jet Plane".

High school winners were named in three divisions, Senior Physical, Junior Physical, and Biological. First, second, and third place winners in each division were:

Senior Physical: Sheila Wooten, "U. S. Explorer"; Donald Wooten, "Dry Cell Battery"; and Mitchell Wooten, "Rottiserie".

Junior Physical: Autry Hamill, "The Vanguard"; Jimmy Wainwright, "Model Airplane"; and Billy Don Thomas, "Model Periscope".

Biological: Bobby Garris, "Greenhouse"; Dorothy Harris, "Prograss Through the Years"; and Anne Harris, "The Sun—Basic Source of Energy".

The elementary winners' projects were on exhibit at Ayden Elementary School last week during the Elementary Science Fair. The winning high school projects will be on display at East Carolina College April 4 when the district science fair will be held.

A club-supported clothing drive, sponsored by the Student Council, ended successfully last week. Clothing was distributed by students to persons who were found to have inadequate winter garments.

More than 30 BFHS Glee Club members sang in the County Concert at East Carolina College March 4. The concert is an annual affair which brings together band and music students from all the county schools.

Several Belvoir-Falkland students entertained at last Thursday's meeting of the Ruritan Club at which wives of the members were honored.

Charlie Tyrer gave the invocation for the meeting which was held in the Falkland Community Building.

Woodrow Wooten welcomed the Ruritan Club members and their guests and the response was given by Mrs. Hazel Tripp.

Mrs. Florence Scott directed the entertainment which preceded an address by the Rev. L. F. Vereen. The Reverend Mr. Vereen spoke on "Living and Enjoying It".

For the first time in the history of BFHS, the Future Homemakers of America and Future Farmers of America held a joint banquet.

The banquet, which was held in the school gymnasium February 28, was in honor of mothers of FHA members and fathers of FFA members. Honor guests for the evening included Superintendent D. H. Conley and the guest speaker, the Rev. L. F. Vereen.

National Forensic League members have invited Greenville NFL members to a meeting at BFHS tonight. The meeting will be in preparation for the district debate tournament.

NFL members have also voted to sponsor an "April Fool's Dance" on April 1.

Eight third-year Home Economics students spent last weekend in the Home Ec cottage to "reality live" the time of true housewives.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Hazel Tripp, Home Economics teacher, the girls did everything in the line of cooking and keeping house.

Report cards for the fourth six-weeks marking period were issued last week.

Honor Roll students included: First grade: Buddy Teel, Charles Whitley and Delores Stancil.

Ayden Church Joining Mission

The Ayden Methodist Church will participate in the North Carolina Conference Evangelistic Mission with Revival services being held from March 15 through 21. The Rev. Nicholas W. Grant, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Washington, N. C., will be the visiting evangelist. Services will begin this Sunday at 8 p.m. and will continue nightly through Friday.

Rev. Grant, a native of Garysburg, N. C., is a graduate of Duke University and received his BD degree from Duke Divinity School. He has held the following pastorate before coming to Washington: Marvin Memorial, Rocky Mount; Warren Charge; Rich Square Charge; and Bethel. For ten years he served as Assistant Secretary of the North Carolina Conference. At present he is a member of the Conference Board of Missions, the Commission on Christian Vocations and the Board of Trustees of the Methodist Retirement Home.

The Evangelistic Mission, held throughout the Conference from March 9 to 23, will see a complete interchange of ministers, so that each Methodist minister will preach in another church one week and have a visiting evangelist in his church the other week. Rev. Robert H. Eason, pastor of the Ayden Church, is conducting services this week at the Longhurst Methodist Church in Roxboro.

Macmillan, President Set Conference In June

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan will meet here in June to coordinate U.S.-British planning for a summit conference with the Soviet Union.

The White House announced the meeting will be held June 9-10. By that time the issue of whether to hold a summit conference will very likely be settled, officials believe, and most of them say privately they are sure there will be a conference.

Other subjects expected to come up in the Eisenhower-Macmillan sessions include cooperation between the United States and Britain in atomic energy development, U.S. supplies of nuclear missiles for British bases, Middle Eastern problems, East-West trade and a review of conditions in the Far East.

Navy And Ape Are Up A Tree

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The U.S. Navy and Nicky, a friendly Barbary ape, have each other up a tree.

Nicky, destined for a Memphis zoo, escaped from his cage yesterday and fled up the rigging of the cargo ship Antares.

He was kept awake during the night hours by the glare of spotlights thrown on the 50-foot mast. How to get him down? The Navy wished it knew.

"I think he'll come down, all right," said Cmdr. J. F. Miller, skipper of the Antares, which is tied up at a Norfolk Naval Base pier. "Maybe we can lure him down with bananas—he seems to like them. We'll just improvise as we go."

When it became obvious that Nicky wasn't going to be persuaded to come down, Miller set a "monkey watch" hoisted a small heater into the rigging to keep Nicky warm. It focused the spotlight on him to be sure he wouldn't crawl out a cargo boom unnoticed.

Once a sailor succeeded in getting the three-foot-tall, 5-year-old Nicky to descend and accept a banana. But before a net could be lowered over him, Nicky sped back up the mast—with the banana.

Nicky is a gift from the British admiral commanding at Gibraltar to the Memphis zoo. He was being transferred from his seagoing cage to the smaller cage in which he will be shipped to Memphis when he got away.

Iran's Shah Divorces Wife Because Gave Him No Son

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The Shah of Iran today announced his divorce from beautiful young Queen Soraya because she failed to give him a son and heir to his throne.

The divorce followed weeks of negotiations with the childless, 28-year-old queen, deliberations within the Royal Council and long hours of soul-searching by Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

Soraya now is in West Germany with her father, the Iranian ambassador there.

The 38-year-old monarch and his green-eyed wife had been a devoted, almost inseparable couple, but the Shah, as a court communiqué put it, "ignored his personal feelings for the sake of the nation's high-level interests."

The communiqué said the royal advisers had urged that the heir to the Iranian throne be a son of the Shah, rather than a brother as had been suggested, because of the country's great interest and to "avoid possible future unrest."

Court sources said there was no official hint of the ruler's next bride or whether the Shah would marry before making a trip to Japan, Formosa and the United States in May. Officials said he was downcast over the divorce and probably will not marry in the near future.

Soraya reportedly had refused to remain the Shah's wife if he took another spouse in an effort to get an heir. Moslem men are permitted four wives at one time, but Soraya is the daughter of a German woman, was educated in Europe and has many Western ideas.

The Shah has one daughter by his first wife, Princess Fawzia of Egypt, but women cannot succeed to Moslem thrones. The monarch divorced Fawzia in 1948 because she, too, apparently could not give him a son. The communiqué put Soraya's divorce settlement at $134,000. She reportedly also will keep several million dollars worth of jewels the Shah bought for her during their seven years of marriage and will get a court pension to pay her living expenses.

The handsome Shah married Soraya, whose name means "Star," Feb. 12, 1951. Since 1953 she has traveled to Switzerland several times, and the couple consulted New York doctors on a 1955 visit to the United States in hopes of ending their childlessness.

Couldn't Bet Invested Cash

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Mrs. Gerlie Hingst couldn't bring herself to bet the $10 her fellow workers gave her for a flier in Reno, Nev.

The Benton Harbor courthouse clerk brought back intact the quarters and half-dollars she had sealed in separate envelopes to keep track of the winners.

"I didn't think anybody would believe me if I lost it all," said Mrs. Hingst, who dropped $25 of her own money in an hour on slot machines and card games.

One coworker declined to take back her investment. "If you've kept it this long," she told Mrs. Hingst, "you deserve to keep it for good."

Nation's Best Joining In Cage Parade Tonight

NCAA, NIT Are In Full Blast This Weekend

NCAA Regionals At Charlotte

By KEN ALYTA CHARLOTTE (AP)—Eastern Regional NCAA basketball tournament play opens here tonight with four teams shooting at the winner's berth in next weekend's national finals at Louisville, Ky. Manhattan's souped-up Jaspers meet Dartmouth's Ivy League champions in the opener at 7:30 (EST), with Maryland and Temple taking the court at 9:30. The winners meet at 9 tomorrow night for the ticket to Louisville where they will be joined by three other regional champions. Tonight's losers will meet for third place at 7 p.m. tomorrow. Manhattan came up with one of its finest efforts in whipping the nation's No. 1 team, West Virginia, three nights ago at New York in opening NCAA play. Maryland mauled Boston College and Dartmouth downed Connecticut on the same program. Temple (No. 5) has the highest national rating of the field and Maryland's Atlantic Coast Conference champions are No. 6. In addition, Temple has the top record, 24-2, sports a 23-game winning streak and an All America ace in Guy Rodgers. The Owls will be facing a Maryland team that last week beat North Carolina for the Atlantic Coast Conference title, halting the Tar Heel bid for a second straight national crown. Maryland has a 21-6 record, two of its losses coming in triple overtime. Manhattan carries a 16-8 record to battle against Dartmouth's Indians who won 21 and lost 4. The 11,500 seats in the Coliseum were snapped up six months ago in a three-day advance sale.

NAIA Installs Hall Of Famers

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics took time out today from its championship basketball tournament to fetter its coach of the year and install some new members in its Hall of Fame. John B. McLendon of Tennessee State at Nashville is basketball coach of the year. His team won the 1957 tournament and has advanced to the semi-final stage of the current playoffs. New members of the Hall of Fame include, among former players, Belus Smawley of Appalachian State College at Boone, N.C. The organization also honored six district chairmen for outstanding work, including Clarence Stasavich of Lenoir Rhyne College at Hickory, N.C.

Fred Schaus Again Named SC Coach Of The Year

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Fred Schaus, who has coached West Virginia's Mountaineers to four straight Southern Conference basketball championships, today was named the league's coach of the year. The balloting conducted by the Southern Conference Sports Writers Assn. was strictly no contest. Schaus received 23 votes to six for runnerup Bill Chambers of William and Mary. Anchoring his attack around sophomore Jerry West, with the other four starters also averaging in double figures, Schaus piloted the Mountaineers to a 26-1 record and the No. 1 spot in the national poll of the Associated Press before disaster struck. Weakened by the loss of Don Vincent, who broke an ankle in the conference tournament, the Mountaineers suffered an 89-84 defeat Tuesday night at the hands of Manhattan in the opening round of the NCAA championship playoffs. Chambers coached William and Mary to a break-even season and the runnerup spot to West Virginia in the conference tournament with a team composed of a mixture of freshmen and veterans. Besides Schaus and Chambers, coaches receiving votes — one each — were Chuck Noe of Virginia Tech, Weenie Miller of Washington and Lee and Bill Reinhart of George Washington.

All Wrapped Up In His Work!

Ever wonder where New York Yankee slugger Mickey Mantle gets most of his power? Well, here's a good illustration as Mickey 'wists' all the way around in missing a pitch in an exhibition game between the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox at St. Petersburg, Fla. Looks like Mickey put everything into that swing. He hit the next pitch for a single. The Red Sox won 8-5. (AP Wirephoto)

Says Giants Will Draw More Than Los Angeles Foe

By JACK STEVENSON PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—President Horace Stoneham of the Giants predicts that over the years his club will draw more fans in San Francisco than the Dodgers in Los Angeles. This despite the fact Los Angeles County with four million people is about twice as large as the northern California Bay area. "San Francisco is a better sports town all around than Los Angeles," Stoneham said. "The next couple of years those big opening day crowds in the Los Angeles Coliseum (102,000 capacity) will give the Dodgers a big edge in home attendance. "But when we get in our park, I'm sure over the years we'll outdraw them." San Francisco will have its new stadium with 45,000 capacity in 1959. The Giants president denied reports the club was disappointed with advance ticket sales although he indicated they weren't as rapid as expected. "They're twice as good as our best year in New York," he said. "I think we had about $650,000 in 1955 after the championship year and in San Francisco we'll do about $1,300,000. On opening day we could have sold out the Los Angeles Coliseum and the Rose Bowl combined." That in round figures would be 200,000 people—10 times as many as will be crowded into San Francisco's Seals Stadium April 15 to see major league baseball on the Pacific Coast for the first time. The Giants' prey was asked if the Dodgers were declining. "No," he said. "We're just getting better and we can get still better all of a sudden. There are a couple of young fellows in this camp who can help right now. "This Orlando Cepeda talked with me a few days ago and just talking there seemed to be no question in his mind that he was the Giants' first baseman and a good hitter. With Willie Kirkland, he'll provide new power. And this kid Jim Davenport has been a pleasant surprise. It's just a question of whether this is the right time to start him."

Casey Angry About Lack Of Hitting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Aside to the Milwaukee fan who sent a weeping willow tree to New York Yankee Manager Casey Stengel. "It made Ol' Casey mad. But that's not the only reason Stengel is angry. His Yankees need some willows with base hits in them. The American League champs dropped a 1-0 verdict to the Boston Red Sox for their fifth loss and third whitewashing in six exhibition starts. After the game, Stengel alerted regulars Hank Bauer, Bill Skowron and Gil McDougald. "Be ready to work by the weekend," he told the tender-armed trio. "We gotta win a ball game pretty soon." In commenting on the $45 bill he received from a tree nursery in Wisconsin for "one weeping willow delivered at Glendale, Calif. (Stengel's home)," Casey said, "The guy who pulled the joke is going to find it expensive, because the willow goes right back unless the New York club wants to pay for it." The Yankees managed only six hits off Frank Sullivan, George Susce and Al Schroll. Billy Conso got the winning hit for Boston, a long single to left center after Sammy White's double in the third inning. Milwaukee raked Johnny Podres for six runs in the first two innings as the Braves defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-2. Doubles by Andy Pafko, Johnny Logan and Felix Mantilla featured a four-run outburst by the Braves in the second inning. Felipe Montemayor homered for Los Angeles. The San Francisco Giants clobbered the Chicago Cubs 13-2 behind the slugging of Daryl Spencer, who had two home runs and a pair of singles. In other games, Roy McMillan hit a three-run homer and led Cincinnati to a 7-3 triumph over Pittsburgh; rookie Bob Shaw pitched six sparkling innings as Detroit beat Kansas City 6-5; Minnesota's third-inning double drove in the only runs as Cleveland blanked Baltimore 2-0; Washington clubbed Jack Sanford for eight runs in whipping Philadelphia 9-1; and Gene Green's single in the 14th enabled St. Louis to nip the Chicago White Sox 3-2.

Kinston Playing In Semi-Finals

NAIA Teams In Semi-Finals

DURHAM (AP)—Defending state Class AA champion Morehead High plays Smithfield and Kinston battles Graham tonight in the semifinal round of the state basketball tournament. Morehead, behind at the half 31-25, rallied to go ahead for keeps in the third quarter and defeat Smithfield, which now has a 28-2 season record, hit a hot streak at the end of the first half to break open its game with Bethel and stay ahead to win 71-57. Kinston and Graham play the first game tonight as winners in Wednesday night first round action. Billy Stein hit four straight baskets near the end of the third period as Morehead, of Leaksville-Spray-Draper area, broke out of a 43-all deadlock with Wadesboro. Stein and Johnny Eggleston led the Tri-City team with 17 points each. Clayton Burns had 15 points and Grover Smith and Don Scott 12 each for Wadesboro. An eight-point spurt by Jerry Highsmith, Smithfield's top scorer for the season, featured his team's run against Bethel in the first half. Smithfield hit 14 straight points while Bethel was scoreless and was ahead 34-33 at halftime, then hit another 13 straight as the game neared an end. Joe Lee, skinny 5-11 Smithfield player, had 23 points to lead the scoring for the game.

Iron Knights Might Be More Appropriate

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—They should call St. Michaels College the Iron Knights instead of the Purple Knights. The men's school of Winoski Park, Vt., with an enrollment of 680, is represented by one of the best ball-rusting hot-shooting basketball teams seen for years in this hot-bed of the sport. The Purple Knights have not yet substituted in rolling through the quarterfinals and semifinals of the NCAA college basketball tournament. In the iron man act, the five regulars hit .523 per cent of their field goals in knocking Grambling of Louisville 84-76 and then registered .443 per cent in downing host Evansville 78-70 last night. They move into tonight's championship game against South Dakota. The Coyotes made the semifinals a complete round of upsets by stretching their winning streak to 19 on a surprising defending champion Wheaton of Illinois 64-60.

Investigators To Seek Cause Of Flight Explosion

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—An Air Force investigation team today was to try to determine the cause of a B-47 jet in-flight explosion that killed the pilot and injured two other officers.

The wreckage of the bomber fell over an eight-square-mile area in a residential section, narrowly missing occupied homes.

None of the residents were injured and property damage was slight.

The Air Force identified the dead pilot as Lt. William T. Booy, 27, Kansas City, Mo. He apparently was trapped in the nose section of the craft.

Injured were Capt. Albert J. Soen, 35, Wichita, Kan., an instructor-pilot, and Capt. John H. Gillick, 32, student pilot on temporary duty at McConnell Air Force Base, Wichita. Both men ejected before the craft disintegrated in flight.

Saws made of flint with serrated edges have been found in caves in North America dating back to the stone age.

Loretta Young's Husband Complains Unfair Dealing

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Television star Loretta Young's husband accuses her and their business partner of "dishonesty, mismanagement and unfairness."

Advertising executive Tom Lewis, whose 17 1/2-year marriage to the actress has been considered one of Hollywood's happiest, filed a civil suit yesterday to dissolve their company, Lewishor Films, Inc. The company has had a part in producing her filmed show seen Sunday nights on NBC-TV.

He alleged that Miss Young and her partner Robert F. Shewalter "in combination as directors and stockholders and president and secretary-treasurer" have "exercised complete control over the corporation to the complete exclusion" of Lewis.

Unless the corporation is dissolved promptly, Lewis contended in the complaint, he will be deprived of his rights as a shareholder "due to the continued and additional dishonesty, mismanagement and unfairness" of Miss Young and Shewalter.

In New York City, where he is vice president in charge of television for the C. J. LaRoche Advertising Co., Lewis said the suit is "a corporate matter" and has "no personal implication."

In Hollywood, Miss Young was not available for comment. Her press agent said she knew of no trouble in the marriage.

Shewalter said there is no personal friction between Miss Young and Lewis "as far as I know. Atty. Nathan J. Neilson, who filed the Superior Court action for Lewis, said it is, so far as he knows, "purely a matter of the dissolution of a business."

Lewis brought the suit against the corporation, Miss Young and Shewalter who, with him, are its owners. Shewalter described it as a "service company without assets or liabilities."

He added that Lewis produced Miss Young's show for a year or so but has not been identified with its production for about two years.

Lewis' suit alleged that the corporation has declared no dividends although net profits for the fiscal years ending in April 1955, 1956, and 1957 were $19,029.55, $39,177.76 and $37,223.42.

He also alleged that on May 11, 1956, he resigned as an officer and director at the request of Miss Young and Shewalter and that afterward they increased their own salaries to twice what they had been.

Threw His Young Children In River

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP)—A 33-year-old steelworker told authorities at nearby Weilsburg last night that he had thrown his two young children into the frigid Ohio River from a bridge in Wheeling.

After several hours questioning, the Brooke County Sheriff's office said it was convinced that the man, John Turner, 33, of Beech Bottom, near Weilsburg, was telling the truth.

A search of the river was begun immediately. Wheeling police said they found foot and hand prints in fresh snow on the sidewalk and rail of the Fort Henry Bridge. They said some of the prints appeared to be those of children.

Quadruplets Are In Their Future

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Dr. H. Dean Hoskins said today news his wife is expecting quadruplets is "the most challenging and intriguing event in our lives."

"We were both delighted and surprised. Our three daughters, 6, 12 and 14, are pretty excited too. Mrs. Dorothy Hoskins, 36, was told that medical tests and X-rays showed quadruplets. They are due in May.

USELESS TREASURE

ALLENSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—David Abney and Billy Carter unearthed a glass jar containing $2,700. But their joy didn't last long. The youngsters' fortune in denominations of $1 to $100 was all Confederate money—in perfect condition. It was not known where the money originally came from.

Actress Asking $85,000 Damages

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Bette Davis asks $85,000 damages for a tumble she took into a basement.

Her suit says that when she was shown a house she rented last June, a door leading to the basement was described to her as opening on a closet.

So she was not expecting a "precipitous, ladder-type" stairway when she opened the door six days later and fell, the complaint adds. It says she suffered spinal and other injuries.

The suit was brought against Ronald L. Buck and Mrs. Ann M. Buck, identified as owners of the house, and Mrs. Leah T. Pierson and Mrs. Jeanette M. Clark, real estate agents.

'Famous Last Words' Of Fallen Television Stars

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—For a couple of years we've been collecting famous last words by persons whose fortunes are sliding or have subsequently crashed in television.

A bag of popcorn is offered anyone who can identify the sources or subjects of remarks made "off the record."

"... It looked like a good time spot to me. How did I know they were going to throw a Western against me?"
"I'm as good as I ever was. It's my audience that's no good."
"There's a big shakeup coming."
"The typical television viewer doesn't have a 13-year-old mind. He has an 8-year-old mind."
"Television is a monster. That little black box in the living room never tells the truth."
"That little black box never lies."
"All I want to do is go fishing."

"... There's something big in the works for me next season, but I can't spell it out for you now."

"... Television critics are a bunch of idiots who got their jobs because they can't hold down a regular reporting assignment."

"I don't care what the critics say, it's when you have the stage-hands laughing that you know you're going great."
"The trouble is that we're trying to do an East Coast show from the West Coast."
"The trouble is that we're trying to do a West Coast show from New York."

"I get offers all the time, but I'm waiting for the right one."
"We're getting a new team of writers."
"I don't care what the agency says, I'm sticking with my writers."
"I'm tired."

Noel Coward Is Happy Theater Party Escapee

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Noel Coward is making his first appearance in Hollywood, and he's happy escapee from New York theater parties which he says "are killing the theater."

Coward is playing nightly at the Huntington Hartford Theater, alternating in his own plays, "Present Laughter" and "Nude With Violin." He came here from a San Francisco run after three months with "Violin" in New York.

"Never again will I play so long in New York," he declared, and he gave theater parties as the reason.

The parties work thusly: the producers sell the entire house for a performance to a charity, which in turn sells the tickets to patrons at upped prices. The show backers are thus insured a certain return before the show opens.

"I suppose they are considered economically necessary," Coward remarked, "but the parties are killing the theater. People come to see plays because of charity, not to see a good show. And there is no enjoyment for actors to play before cold, rude audiences."

"I had only six or eight audiences that I considered good. You can't play light comedy to people who resent paying $50 for a pair of tickets to see you. They defy you to be funny."

"I went to a matinee of 'Time Remembered' and saw the magnificent Helen Hayes pulling every trick she knew to get laughs. She got nothing. I felt like wandering among the audience with a baseball bat."

West Coast audiences are much better, he remarked.

Youths Stole A Jaguar On Dare

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Misdemeanor charges were lodged yesterday against two youths who allegedly stole a live jaguar on a dare.

They were identified as Gene Cannington and Edward Short, both 18. John Ruff, their lawyer, gave this account of the escapade:

While visiting a wildlife farm a few days ago the boys dared each other to reach into the tropical wild cat's cage. The dare fell flat then, but after dark the two returned to the cage. Cannington reached in and grabbed the jaguar then found it was inadvisable to let go. So he held on.

The boys put the jungle cat in a cage near their homes. Sheriff's deputies returned the animal to the wildlife farm.

Jail Visits Are Suggested Cure

UTICA, N. Y. (AP) — An Oneida County grand jury suggests a novel way to curtail juvenile delinquency: visits to the county jail by high school pupils.

In a report handed up in Supreme court, the jurors said that "due to the number of youthful offenders involved in cases brought before this grand jury we respectfully recommend that arrangements be made for high school juniors and seniors to visit the Oneida County Jail as a possible deterrent to juvenile delinquency."

A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

I awakened before Maria. The ravine we were in was still in shadows but I could see the sun. It was sometime in the middle of the morning.

My joints creaked when I moved. My face was stiff and sore from the beating I'd taken aboard the Teresa but the swelling seemed almost gone. The eye that had been closed was open now. I'd have bet I had a beauty of a shiner.

Maria had stirred slightly and had moaned quietly, but she hadn't awakened. My throat was so parched I could hardly swallow. But my thirst could wait. The first thing on the agenda was reconnaissance.

I didn't like to leave Maria without telling her where I was going, but I wanted her to get all the rest she could.

I left her and went back to the crevice in the rock. The outcropping on my left was bare. The jumble of rocks on my right was higher. And because of its unevenness soil clung to it and nurtured a sporadic growth of some squat, heavily-leaved tree that I didn't recognize. The trees marched, in uneven groups, all the way to the top of the rising.

The didn't afford the best cover — there were bare spaces between the groups of trees where I could be seen — but they would have to do. I needed high ground for a look around.

I made it to the top of the rising without incident; and, I hoped, without being seen. I lay on my belly in a clump of squat trees and looked to the south. I could see the Teresa lying at her mooring. There could be a dozen patrols in the forest of coconuts we'd come through earlier and it would be impossible for me to see them. But I had a long look just the same. Nothing.

I switched my position and looked out over the lagoon to the west. The blue, translucent water over the gentle pinks and yellows of the coral reef made a beautiful picture. But I wasn't interested in beautiful pictures. I was interested in survival.

Higher ground to the north blocked off my view. It wasn't until I looked out over the eastern lagoon that I struck pay dirt. Not more than a half mile south and east was an outboard motor powered, dory-type skiff — probably the Teresa's lifeboat. Three men were in the skiff. They were all armed with rifles.

They were traveling slowly up the lagoon, from south to north, a few yards offshore. They were scanning the beaches and the trees behind them. And it was a cinch they weren't looking for a good place to picnic.

I watched them until they passed a point opposite me. I was just about to leave when I heard the dull, distance-muffled roar of an airplane engine. It seemed to be coming from the south. I switched my position in the clump of trees again and looked out toward the southern end of the island.

The tiny speck of an airplane flying just over the trees grew larger. I'd begun to wonder how long it would take them to get that Beechcraft into action.

As I watched the plane it roared down the eastern shore of the island, climbed, circled and came in low a few hundred yards farther inland than it had been on its first run. Tom Lear, I thought, must have put in time spraying crops. His flight pattern now was similar.

The airplane didn't worry me too much; it was, I thought, the least of our troubles. There was plenty of cover. And we would have the great advantage of always being able to hear it coming. If worst came to worst all they could do was spot us and we'd have an opportunity to find new cover before they could put a patrol on our tail. I couldn't be sure what the gas situation was on the island but I didn't think they'd be able to keep the plane in the air too much of the time.

I took one more look at the skiff. It was well past my position now. I'd seen everything there was to see. I started back to the ravine and Maria.

Maria was awake when I returned. She sat in the middle of the small clearing, her legs tucked beneath her. She'd found a piece of shell with sharp, jagged edges and was making a hopeless attempt to comb the dark tangled mass of hair. Somewhere nearby she'd located a blood-red hibiscus bloom and she'd tucked it behind an ear. The wild tangle of hair, the grime on her face and arms, the torn and dirty dress did nothing to detract from her loveliness. This girl packed a wallop that nothing could disguise.

I'd surprised her. "You're acting like a girl," I said.

She turned quickly. Her face lighted with relief. "Brad, you frightened me! Where have you been?"

I sank to the ground beside her. "That flower in your hair. The hibiscus. Did you know you could eat 'em?"

"Are you by any chance making a heavy-handed effort to cheer me up?"

I shook my head. "I just want you to remember where that hibiscus bush is located. We might need it."

"Now tell me where you've been."

"Okay. I've been having a look around. I've come to the conclusion that we're fairly safe here — for the time being. You must have heard the plane. If you'll listen now you can hear it again. But we'll never be seen here. They'll probably search until they become discouraged or until they run low on gasoline. You might have heard the sound of an outboard motor. There were three of them in a skiff, looking for us."

"You don't really believe that they might stop looking for us, do you?"

I didn't. My guess was that they'd stay right where they were. I didn't believe they'd even look for us very long or very hard. Ramez would figure that sooner or later we'd come crawling to them begging for food and water. And volunteering information in return.

"Sure, I believe it. Why not?"

For the past few minutes I'd forgotten how thirsty I was. And I'd had nothing to eat for more than twenty-four hours.

"I'll tell you why not," Maria said. "They've been here — some of them — ever since Jack died. They'll stay here until they find the money."

"I'd forgotten. You came here once, didn't you? In a chartered seaplane. And you saw them and left."

Her brow wrinkled with impatience. "No. No, I didn't come here! I'd never been here until Ramez brought me here, night before last. Who told you that?"

"Ramez. As a matter of fact, he admitted that he — or his men — didn't positively identify you. It was assumed that it was you. The plane came in for a landing. Whoever was in it saw that the house was occupied, that there were people here, and took off in a hurry. And it wasn't you?"

"No, I swear it wasn't, Brad!"

"You asked me to help you get the money, Maria. You must have known these people were here or you wouldn't have needed help. Not a hundred and twenty five thousand dollars worth of help."

"That was another thing I had to find out about. Maria had told me the boodle was two hundred and fifty grand. Ramez had doubled it. There was something rotten somewhere."

"I asked for it!" Brad acknowledged in a surcharged situation, as "Miami Manhunt" continues tomorrow.

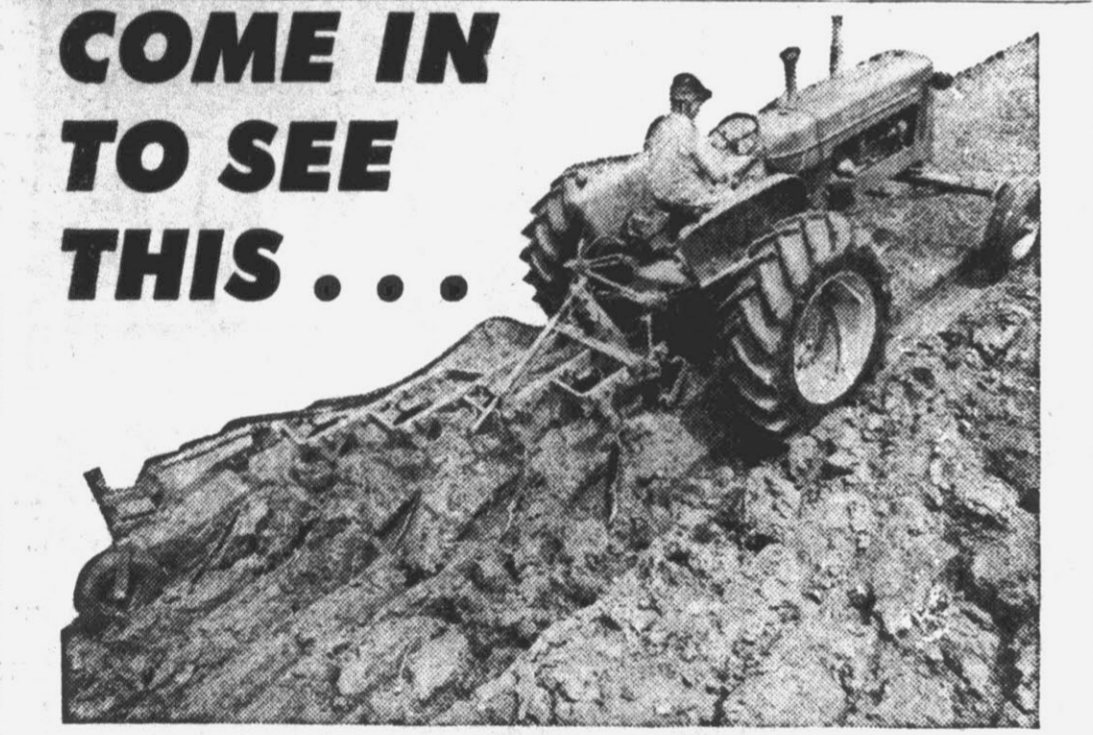

Movie theaters in Great Britain decreased by 226 to a total of 4,171 during 1957.

Radio-televisions and distillers showed a narrowly mixed price trend.

Some profit taking was in order after the market's sustained rise of more than a week. Pre-week-end caution was apparent. An extreme loss for its group was shown by Youngstown Sheet, which dropped about 2 points after taking two open hearth furnaces out of production. Losses by U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Lukens and Johns & Laughlin were fractional. Bethlehem showed little change.

Chrysler shaded its price a bit. Ford and General Motors eased. Du Pont fell more than a point. Sinclair, Goodrich and Goodyear also were about a point. A 12,000-share block of House, held finance was sold at 33 1/2, a loss of 8-8 American Bosch Arms active and higher yesterday on rumors of a big Air Force contract, fell a major fraction today.

Lorillard, a sensational upside leader until it was clipped by profit taking yesterday, lost another fraction. U. S. Tobacco bucked the trend, showing a gain of about a point. American Tobacco retreated a small fraction. United Aircraft, Phelps Dodge, Homestake, Westinghouse Electric and Eastern Air Lines nudged ahead. National Distillers and Radio Corp. were firm while Zenith and Hiram Walker were off slightly.

Son And Heir Born To Grace, Ranier

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Princess Grace of Monaco today gave birth to her first son—the new heir to the throne of Monaco. The boy was named Albert. The royal palace said the baby weighed 8 1/2 pounds. The palace said he would be christened Albert Alexandre Louis Pierre.

The baby displaces his 13-month-old sister Princess Caroline in the line of succession to his father Prince Ranier, Monaco's 31st sovereign. The boom of the 101-gun salute—it would have been only 21 for a girl—set off wild rejoicing in the 367-acre principality on the French Riviera.

The little prince was born at 10:50 a. m. in the royal apartments where Caroline had arrived Jan. 23, 1957. The Parisian baby specialist here for the birth, Dr. Emile Hervet, had been called to the bedside of the former movie queen at 8.
