'Spring Debut' Theme For Flower Show

Members of the Lakewood Pines Garden Club are now planning arrangements, collecting accessories, and watching buds carefully in preparation for their annual standard flower show, "Spring Debut," to be held Thursday from 2-5 p.m.

This show, which will be open to the general public, will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Barnhill, Evans Street Extension. Mrs. R. P. Heller, flower show chairman, announced today that the Barnhill living room will have as its theme "The Night of the Ball." All the glitter of a debut's big night will be dramatized.

An elegant formal silver tea will be the dining room motif and in the den plans call for an informal "cock party" theme.

Arrangements and accessories in the breakfast room will portray the debutante entertaining at a luncheon for "Just Us Girls." The family room will feature the setting for a gala party—"After the Ball Is Over."

In the quiet of her own room, the deb will have breakfast in bed. On the sun porch table arrangements submitted by the five other garden clubs of Greenville will be shown. The public is invited to enter flowers, shrubs, and house plants in this horticulture division.

Garden club membership is not compulsory in this division. Mrs. Heller and Mrs. G. R. Trammell, co-chairmen of the show, ask that interested persons contact Mrs. F. F. Hendrix, Mrs. Heller, or Mrs. Trammell for further information.

The Pine Needles Junior Garden Club began preparation for their entries weeks ago. They propagated their own plants and made dried arrangements. Fresh arrangements and a flower color wheel will also be entered by this club in the "Spring Debut" show.

Dr. Murray Honored By College Faculty Members

A dinner party was given by the Social Studies Department of East Carolina College Saturday evening at a local restaurant in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Murray.

On March 4 Dr. Murray was named director of the department to replace Dr. A. D. Frank who retired last November. The honor guests were presented white carnations and the table arrangements carried out a color scheme of pink and yellow in spring flowers.

Dr. George Douglas gave the invocation and after the dinner Dr. Lawrence Brewster, in behalf of the social studies department, extended an official welcome to Dr. Murray.

A native of Georgia, Dr. Murray received both the bachelor's and master's degrees at Emory University in Georgia and the Ph.D. degree at the University of North Carolina. After teaching in Georgia public schools, he served as a faculty member at Georgia Southwestern College in Americus. For the past 13 years he has been a member of the East Carolina College staff during which time he has specialized in North Carolina History and Government.

Dr. Murray replied to the official welcome after which the guests had a social hour.

Members of the department attending the dinner were: Dr. Lawrence Brewster, Mrs. Helen Brewster, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Clay, Dr. and Mrs. Hubert A. Coleman, Dr. and Mrs. George Douglas, Dr. and Mrs. John M. Howell, Dr. Ruth Keese, Dr. and Mrs. James LaPoe, Dr. and Mrs. Earle LeBaron, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Napp, Mr. Herbert R. Paschal, Dr. and Mrs. George Pasti Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Price, Dr. Lala Steelman, Dr. Joseph Steelman, Dr. James H. Stewart, Dr. Kathleen Stokes, Dr. and Mrs. Richard C. Todd, and Dr. and Mrs. Paul A. Toll.

Teach Table Etiquette Early

Time was when every young girl learned the P's and Q's of table etiquette by helping mother set the table. But dining rooms became less popular a while back. Television helped popularize snack table eating and the buffet and breakfast bar propelled informality still farther.

This hull in family dining habits has put young people a generation behind their elders in eating manners.

The old-fashioned custom of training girls to observe table appointments also teaches table manners.

Start early to teach your daughter table etiquette. Teach her to set the table for the family dinner. Candles lend an aura of importance and festivity that shouldn't be overlooked when table training has begun.

There is no excuse for a bare table, either. Some tablecloths are made of materials that can be put in the washing machine, yet they help turn average meals into family occasions.

Basic table settings that apply even to family dinners require that the dinner napkin be folded square and flat and put on each plate (paper napkins may be used for family dinners), that silver should be shined, that the water glass should be placed directly above the knives at the right of the plate, that the salad plate (if used) goes to the left of the plate. Dito bread and butter plate (although butter plates are not used at formal dinners.)

They should learn to chew without opening the lips, not to chatter at the table, tap with table silver, or drink from a glass audibly.

Inside Story Of Biographer

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Want to know how America's foremost woman biographer got that way?

"I studied to be a concert violinist," says Catherine Drinker Bowen, recipient of the 1958 National Book Award for her best-selling biography of Sir Edward Coke, "The Lion and the Throne." "Then I married a college professor who hated music, but who needed help with his own research. He started me writing and I've been at it ever since."

Mrs. Bowen, tall, tweedy and breezy, is the author of four previous biographies. Her latest book, on the life and times of an Englishman who set the stage for the American Revolution, completes a trilogy which has brought American history to life—"Yankee from Olympus," a biography of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes and "John Adams and the American Revolution." But she hastily disclaims any academic plaudits as a history scholar.

Says she: "I didn't learn any history in school at all. I hated all the dry lists of names and dates. It wasn't until I started digging into the lives of people who made history that it dawned on me they were real people, much like ourselves, instead of just names in books."

Mrs. Bowen lives in Bryn Mawr, Pa., is the mother of a grown son and daughter and has two grandchildren. Throughout her adult life she has written books with one hand and raised her children, run her house and helped her husband with the other.

"I was 50 years old before I finally got things arranged so that I didn't have to do any actual housework and cooking," says she. "Now I wake up every morning giving thanks that I don't have to wash any diapers today."

Miss Chandler Continues Study Of Mark For The Patient Circle

Miss Mamie Chandler, continuing the study of the Gospel of St. Mark, gave the second lesson in her series of Bible study Tuesday night when the Patient Circle of The King's Daughters and Sons met with Mrs. Sam T. White at the home of Mrs. Helen White Hawes.

The president, Mrs. C. A. Bowen, opened the meeting with the Prayer of the Order and immediately turned the meeting over to Miss Chandler.

Miss Chandler in her discussion covered the baptism, temptation, and preaching of Jesus. She further discussed the calling of the disciples and Jesus commissioning them to preach and heal. She asked members, "Note as you read the Gospel of Mark never lets us forget that Jesus is the Son of God, the Messiah."

During a short routine business meeting, various standing committees made reports. Mrs. Milton White, reporting the social service rendered during the month, read a letter from Mayor Eugene West thanking the Circle for its cooperation in giving financial aid to the Emergency and Winter Relief Fund.

Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell reported for the Around the World

Department and asked for used Christmas cards to be sent to the International Chairman. The Circle voted a donation to further the work of the International Order.

Miss Martha Lee Cowell, treasurer of the Building Fund, gave a report and urged the members to exert every means of adding further to the fund. There is more pickle to be sold, more aprons to be made, and more bottles to be collected, she said.

The names of two new members, Mrs. Harvey Dail and Miss Eliza Moore, were presented. These members will be installed at an early date.

Upon adjournment, the hostess, Mrs. White, invited the members into the dining room. From an appointed table, punch, sandwiches, potato chips, salted nuts and individual cakes were served.

NCACE Speakers Discuss Creative Teachers

"The Creative Teacher" provided the theme for the program given at ECC Saturday before the N. C. Association of Childhood Education. Approximately 200 delegates from all parts of the state attended.

Dr. Kenneth E. Howe, director of the Graduate School, National College of Education, Evanston, Ill., and Supt. J. H. Rose of Greenville schools made principal addresses. Miss Sarah Locke Blythe of Charlotte, state ACE president, and Mrs. Evelyn E. Blue, president of the Greenville ACE, presided at the meetings.

President J. D. Messick of ECC welcomed delegates.

"We teachers have some growing to do as a profession," Dr. Howe said. Matters demanding a progressive approach, he explained, include the discouraging status of the teacher in our society, the small amount spent by this country on public education as compared to expenditures in Russia, low teachers' salaries, need of improved methods of determining the merit of teachers, and lack of enough experimentation in new methods of instruction.

He stressed the role in modern education of the "artist" teacher with ability to inspire creative effort.

In this age of rapid change, he said, we need especially, as we increase, emphasis on science and technology to give young people a set of values to guide them in encountering the complex problems of the world of today and tomorrow.

Following Sputnik, Supt. Rose stated at the luncheon, the "beep-beep" of critics around American education calls for protection of the good things in our schools and for a re-examination of some of the factors which affect them.

Scoring "robot" teachers with "push-button" ideas of instruction, he emphasized the need for "creative teachers" and praised the ACE for its high professional standards.

If the American people want a Russian type of education, he said, we can "stash our consciences and our belief in human beings and give it to them. We do not wish to do so," he said.

Rose advocated for this state a renewed emphasis in the home on the values of study, reading, and application to duty.

Parents must be brought to realize, he continued, that the abilities of children differ and all cannot excel. The schools should have more classes made up of children of similar ability, and more special education should be provided for children with special problems and less than average ability.

The State Department of Public Instruction should modify its certification requirements, he explained, to allow teachers more time and opportunity to broaden their cultural background through travel, reading, and other experiences.

New officers of the state ACE elected for a two-year term are: Sallie B. Newman of Roxboro, president; Lois H. Brooks of Roxboro, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Henry Maddrey of Severn, vice president representing kindergartens; and Mrs. Elizabeth Blake-More of Winston-Salem, vice president representing grammar grades.

Elizabeth Hyman, Greenville's teacher of the year, introduced Rose at the luncheon meeting.

Eggs Offer Meal Variety

By S. VIRGINIA WILSON (Extension Nutritionist)

Eggs for breakfast? Yes, but try them for other meals, too. You'll find that "Eggs are Right—Morning, Noon or Night." Not only for any meal, but they can play almost any role on the menu. Eggs pickled, stuffed, hard cooked, or used as a filling or garnish for canapés find a place as an hors d'oeuvre for important dinners.

Omelets, soufflés and eggs used in combination with meat, fish or poultry are main dish ideas. Two eggs can take the place of the serving of meat on a dinner supper menu, and will usually cost less.

Poached or hard cooked eggs served on turnip greens, spinach or other leafy greens are a traditional part of the dish. Corn pudding, croquettes, soufflés and fritters and many other vegetable dishes tuck eggs into their making as an important part of the recipe.

Stuffed or hard cooked eggs are served alone as a salad or in combination with meat, seafoods and vegetables.

Eggs are used in so many desserts that it is hard to think of anything luscious and good being made without them. Chess and custard pies, cakes, soufflés and puddings all call for eggs. In this day of calorie consciousness it is important that every food you eat contribute its share of minerals and vitamins. Dessert recipes using egg yolks contribute blood building iron that helps put roses in your cheeks. Also, they are rich in high quality protein that builds muscles and keeps them strong.

Here are two desserts that fall in the lower calorie class because they contain little or no fat:

Lemon Sponge Pudding
Mix together 3-4 cup sugar, 1-4 cup flour, 1-8 teaspoon salt. Add 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine, grated rind of one lemon and 1-4 cup lemon juice. Separate 3 eggs. Add 1 1/2 cups milk to the well beaten egg yolks, and combine with the sugar and flour mixture. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased custard cups or a baking dish. Place in a shallow pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until set or about 40 to 45 minutes.

Hot Milk Sponge Cake
1-4 cups sifted flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup hot milk

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs until light and very thick. Gradually add sugar while beating constantly. Fold in dry ingredients about one fourth at a time. (Do not beat). Add milk and mix quickly. Bake in an ungreased tube pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 35 to 45 minutes.

Miss Elks Feted At Miscellaneous Shower

GRIMESLAND — Co-hostesses honored bride-elect Miss Dottie Elks, whose marriage to Bonnie Singleton of Washington will take place March 29, Tuesday with a miscellaneous shower.

Mrs. P. W. Majette, Mrs. Lloyd Whichard and Miss Melissa Whichard entertained their guests at the home of Mrs. Whichard.

The home was decorated throughout with early spring flowers. Of focal interest in the living room was the mantel which featured a bridal scene with burning white tapers in silver candle holders at each end of the mantel. Over the mirror hung a cluster of wedding bells tied with white satin ribbon.

A large white satin bow centered with a corsage of white mums marked the honoree's place.

In the dining room the table was covered with a hand crocheted cloth of white over pink satin. Centering the table was a silver epergne which held an arrangement of pink carnations and daisies interspersed with pink dogwood. Several games and contests were played during the evening. At the conclusion, mint green punch, bridal cakes, and salted nuts were served by Miss Whichard and Miss Sybil Howell.

The hostesses presented the honoree with a hand-painted tray and china in her chosen pattern. Approximately 30 guests attended the social affair.

SPANISH LAMB STEW WITH RICE

Ingredients: 2 pounds lamb shoulder (in one piece and bone in), 2 teaspoons kitchen bouquet, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard, 4 cups water, 1 cup thinly sliced onion, 1 large green pepper (sliced), 1/2 cup tomato paste, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 cup thinly sliced raw carrot, 1 cup converted-type rice, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon olive oil, 1/2 teaspoon wine vinegar.

Method: Brush lamb with kitchen bouquet. Melt butter in Dutch oven over moderate heat; add lamb and brown on all sides. Place rack under meat. Mix salt, pepper and mustard; sprinkle over meat. Add water; cover tightly and cook slowly until lamb is barely tender—about 1 hour. Cool lamb slightly; remove meat from bone; cut meat in 1-inch cubes. Return meat to liquid in pan. Add onion, green pepper, tomato paste, sugar, carrot and rice; stir well. Cover and cook over moderate heat until rice is done, about 20 minutes. Just before serving beat egg enough to combine yolk and white, then blend with olive oil and vinegar; stir into lamb and rice mixture. Do not cook after adding egg. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Eight Hours Of Agriculture Advice

If farmers of Eastern Carolina listened to WNCT's eight-hour Farm-A-Thon Saturday, they got an earful of ideas on improving their operations and their income.

Before the cameras and microphones of the local television station were gathered what was perhaps the most competent group of agricultural experts in the state. For eight solid hours they discussed farm problems and programs through which Eastern Carolina farmers could improve their lot.

To the best of their ability they mapped out a 12-month farming program which could boost the agricultural income of this part of the state by literally millions of dollars a year.

What good all this talk will do, however, depends upon the individual farmers.

If the ideas and practices recommended by the experts are carried out by individual farmers, we will in the course of time see Eastern North Carolina rising to its potential of broadly diversified farming with year-round income for every farm family. If the proposals are ignored, Eastern Carolina can expect to continue to plod the same old path of one-crop farming which left the area wallowing through one period of economic stress after another.

What the experts were saying during that eight-hour production was simply this:

Eastern North Carolina has unlimited possibilities for its agriculture. To take advantage of these opportunities will require more work, more sweat, more initiative and more time than farmers of this part of the state have been devoting to their vocation. If the individual farmers are willing to supply these essential ingredients, a broad new frontier will open up for agriculture in this part of North Carolina. Farm incomes can be increased, the farmer's economic situation will greatly improve, and the old system of one-crop farming will no longer be a millstone around the neck of Eastern North Carolina.

Opportunity is truly knocking. But only the people of this section by their own efforts can open the door and let opportunity in.

More Money Is To Be Circulated

By LYNN NISBET

PUBLIC WORKS — Without giving any intimation that he had heard the suggestions that the State might try to hold back money appropriated for permanent improvements in order to balance the current budget, Governor Hodges announced at his latest news conference steps to get the money into circulation as rapidly as possible.

He said a conference with budget officials and heads of agencies with money to spend developed the fact that there will be available some $172.5 million for public construction this calendar year of already allocated Federal, State and local money.

Of this total $28.5 million is estimated to come from county and city units from local bond and tax issues. The rest breaks down into projects already underway by the Department of Administration amounting to $9,330,200. Plans have been approved for an additional $7 million, and projects approved and with money allocated but not yet in the blue print stage of $37 million. These are for building at State institutions, and include little except State tax money.

The Medical Care Commission has under way $8.5 million hospital construction, with another $13.3 million expected to be off the drawing boards by July 1, and perhaps an additional $6 million before the end of 1958. There is some prospect of extra Federal money for hospitals if pending bills are enacted by the Congress.

The Prison Department in process of spending $450,000 for new construction. The Highway Department will let contracts between now and June 30 for $32 million and during the remaining six months for another $48 million construction. This includes right of way costs which will not put great demand on money into circulation. Also of large part of construction is paving, for which relatively small percentage is for labor.

TIMELY — The announcement of all-out efforts to spend up the spending of appropriated funds came coincidentally with report of the Commissioner of Revenue that General fund collections for the current fiscal year might be $4.5 million below legislative estimates, and highway fund collections $3.5 million below. Some of the people particularly interested in educational and hospital buildings had feared that because of the declining receipts the administration might attempt to divert some permanent improvement funds into current expenses. The Governor spiked that rumor with his speed-up announcement. He further said he believed the Federal government should accelerate the spending of the already appropriated billions of dollars for various types of construction.

PROBLEM — In urging faster construction in order to relieve unemployment, boost the economy and also to afford needed facilities when most needed, Governor Hodges is following the example of Governors Gregg Cherry and Kerr Scott. They both faced comparable popular demand for action, and both recommended—and to large degree obtained—fast action. The action came so fast, in fact, that some of the road and institutional construction was not as well planned from engineering viewpoint as was desired. Then as now, however, the people got jobs on the projects and they got the benefits of the highways, hospitals and school houses months sooner than if the projects had been held up for complete engineering clearance. Many places now face emergency need for road work, not in order to get the most suitable type of road but simply to enable folks to get from home to market and church and school. In providing these immediate facilities the State alone will be providing jobs for people who want and need to work.

COMPARATIVE — Compared with the rest of the nation the South is doing relatively better each year, said Governor Hodges. And as compared with the rest of the South the State of North Carolina is at least holding its own. The Governor manifested no particular pride in that situation. He wants North Carolina to do better than it is doing and better than any other area in the whole country.

He is not greatly disturbed that revenue collections are falling below estimates given to the General Assembly a year ago, presently about two and a quarter percent below—approximately $8 million less than the $365 million estimated. Government budgets are usually made with five percent allowance, he said. It just happens that for the first time in many years the estimates came within that five percent. Trouble is, that for the first time the receipts were low rather than from 15 to 30 percent above estimates.

Continued decline in the general economy could increase the deficit by several millions. On the other hand, a pick-up between and June could wipe out the small deficiency and again put receipts above estimates.

The big date for determining trends will be income tax reports on April 15 and sales tax collections for March, April and May.

"A familiar scheme for putting the Federal Government in the electric power business is to use the lever of national pride in atomic leadership. And it is winning a surprising number of adherents."—Wall Street Journal.

Senseless Bombings Must Be Halted Soon

Every muscle of the local law enforcement agencies of Nashville, Tennessee and Miami must be put to work to apprehend the individuals responsible for the senseless bombings of Jewish centers in those cities yesterday.

The unpardonable acts of terrorism, together with threats of further violence which accompanied the explosions, demand that swift action be taken before further violence occurs. If those responsible for the bombings escape punishment under the law, it will only encourage them or their counterparts in other areas to attempt similar acts.

Fortunately, only property damage resulted in the bombings which took place Sunday. Had they been timed differently, a number of lives might have been lost. If such acts of terrorism continue, sooner or later, they will cost lives as well as damage to property.

A Preview Into Business Trends

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are more predictions, based on analyses of developing trends peppered with a sprinkling of advance information:

Permanent route for air cargo lines are likely. Slick Airways' bowing out of the service points up the sad state of cargo lines, unlike passenger lines, cannot now get permanent certificates and face grim competition for government business from the Military Air Transport Service, financed from tax collections. If the Civil Aeronautics Board does not act, several Congressmen are ready to initiate legislation.

A determined effort to curb union excesses is ahead. Senator John L. McClellan (D., Ark.) has drawn up a bill to restrict certain picketing activities, insure fair union elections and regular spending of union funds. Recent union sniping at the senator insures a vigorous presentation of his proposals.

CHEAPER MOTORING — The April gas price hike will be largely fictitious. While gasoline manufacturers will announce higher prices, the oversupply of gas and bitter competition among dealers will enable motorists to keep on buying at present prices, although they may have to shop around.

Another rise in the consumer price index is sure. Food will again push it up. Higher prices for vegetables, resulting from the Southern freeze, and for beef will be largely responsible. Curiously, although the index is rising, consumers aren't spending more. They are buying more hamburger, less steak; more pork, less beef; more canned and frozen food and less fresh; more economy models and less chromed autos and appliances; more beer and less whiskey.

Cheaper ocean freight rates. There's a drop in world trade and an excess of carriers, many brought out of moth balls when the Suez Canal was closed. Rates have been cut but will get cut again.

PRIVATE-BRAND DRUGS — More private-brand drugs. Discounters have licked price fixers.

in the appliance field, but "fair trade" drug prices are still being maintained. Instead of bucking big manufacturers, it's easier for price cutters to bring out their own brands. One of New York's prime discounters has brought out vitamins under its own label and private brands are certain to spread in other lines among other discounters, and among department stores, supermarkets and other vendors of pills and potions.

An electric kitchen push. Push-button kitchens, long a dream of electrical manufacturers, were set back by cheaper natural gas rates. Now with higher gas prices impending, manufacturers are readying fresh drives for electric kitchens.

A re-silvering of business morals. The exposure of the Federal Communications Commission is reminding business leaders that, but for the grace of God, they might be there on the hot seat. A tightening up of conduct has begun and more companies will suggest that executives be careful about accepting more than token presents, lending money, or being too chummy with suppliers and government officials.

HAD QUICK METHOD OF ENDING SLUMP — "I have an idea for ending the recession," the Old Promoter announced on his weekly visit today.

"We know you would!" we said. "We are like a dry piece of toast. Spill the gravy!"

"Washington is full of temporary government buildings, called 'tempo's.' Some were built to house government workers during World War I and some during the last war. They are eyesores, and people working in them suffer from cold in the winter, heat in the summer and a feeling of neglect the year 'round."

"Tearing these buildings down could put 10,000 men to work next week," he said. "And building modern structures to replace them could add 100,000 more to the payroll. Purchase of materials would spread prosperity to every section of the country."

"That's the idea. Take it away, Ike!"

Sputnik And The Schools

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Since the launching of the Russian Sputnik, there has been a cry about our educational deficiencies. Many people, especially frightened Administration officials and Congressmen, now want us to concentrate on scientific subjects in our elementary and high schools, as well as in our colleges. In their eagerness to restore our lost prestige, they forget that economics and merchandising are as important as physics and chemistry.

WHAT ABOUT TEACHERS' SALARIES?

Many voices are being raised in Washington in favor of federal aid to schools. It is pointed out that this aid is needed because local communities cannot pay today's high costs of maintaining proper schools. Those who want Uncle Sam to dole out funds for school purposes cite the need for higher salaries for teachers. I think Washington should proceed cautiously in the matter of federal aid to schools. Such a program, though started on a nominal level, would grow such proportions as to hurt rather than help the over-all economy.

We should remember that our ability to pay is limited. If every request for government aid is granted, we shall hurl ourselves into an economic disaster that could easily mean the end of our way of life. As for teachers' salaries: I am in favor of hiking salary levels to get better teachers. But I do not think it fair to the tax-paying public to give teachers large increases in pay simply for acting as baby-sitters for our children and grandchildren during school hours.

SCHOLARSHIPS ALONE ARE NOT THE ANSWER

Uncle Sam is being asked to grant scholarships to pupils as an incentive for them to do better work generally and to undertake studies in scientific fields. It is a sound idea to give scholarships to exceptional students; but why expect Uncle Sam to finance them? Local business interests and local governments should partly carry the ball here. However, scholarships alone are not the answer to what all us educationally.

What we need — and what I have been advocating for a long time — is a complete overhaul of our educational system. For the past couple of generations, we have been growing "soft" in our attitude toward teachers and pupils. "Progressive education" has been anything but progressive. With its emphasis on self-expression, it has destroyed discipline in many of our schools. Today, respect for teachers is the exception rather than the rule, as is respect for the rights of others.

OUR CHILDREN ARE OUR TRUE WEALTH

Teachers and educational theorists should not be blamed for all the troubles that beset our schools today. We parents and grandparents are also to blame. In our eagerness to avoid controversy regarding religion in public schools, we have forced school administrators to avoid teaching ethics and morals, — or at least we have sat idly by.

Our children and grandchildren are our true wealth. We need their brainpower and moral fiber to meet the serious problems which we will face in another decade or two. Yet most of us do not spend as much time with our young in a month as we spend forking out the details of a single business agreement. And when we are with these young people, do we know how to talk to them, how to capture — and hold — their interest?

RESTORE DISCIPLINE AND STUDY

The first thing we must do for the next generation is to restore their respect for discipline and study. To do this, we must take an interest in our young people. We must teach them ourselves by example, as well as by precept.

As for study: The blame for lack of proper study habits among children today should be laid squarely upon the shoulders of parents. Lax fathers and mothers push their children into adult pursuits too early in life. The result is that boys and girls have such a demanding social life that they may not be able to give sufficient time to study. As they grow older, these social "obligations" increase and study gets still less attention. Failure to correct this trend can one day make us easier prey for some sturdier civilization.

That since Ireland lost its great oak forests, most shillelaghs now come from Germany.

That there are more than 1 1/2 million people named Smith in the United States, which probably explains why your neighbor may prefer to be known as Smythe.

BUILT-IN — We have instituted the telephone dial system in our community. Sometimes we get a bit mixed up and wish we could go back to the simplicities of former days. But, on the whole, we know this will be better even though it may take us a while to get used to it.

What most people in the community do not know, however, is that every morning at five o'clock, while practically all the subscribers are fast asleep, every dial phone is automatically tested. Then as soon as the work day begins, technicians start out to repair the phones which the automatic check-up indicated are out of order.

Here we have a built-in check-up and correction system. At certain times the check-up takes place. Then, as a matter of routine, the correction begins to take place. It is not necessary to wait until a phone is discovered to be out of order. The out-of-order instrument broadcasts its own delinquency.

People who have a conscience have a built-in moral testing system. There are people in the world who actually have no conscience, but they are rare. For most of us, any digression from the pathway of strict rectitude and honor results in an unpleasantness, distress, sometimes even despair.

A sensitive conscience is not always easy to live with. But life, indeed, would be a hell if we did not have this built-in system of warning and rebuke.

N. C. Water Problems Analyzed

(NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles prepared by the State Board of Water Commissioners for the purpose of familiarizing the public with the results of the recent state-wide water problems inventory.)

When state officials launched their county-by-county inventory of water problems last spring, they anticipated that a high percentage of the problems reported would relate in some way to highway construction and maintenance. The belief was based partly on the results of similar studies in other states and partly on a knowledge of conditions in North Carolina.

When the first few reports arrived from the county inventory committees, it quickly became apparent to the officials that their suspicions had been justified. Some counties associated up to 50 per cent of all their water problems with the highway.

These counties, of course, were the exceptions and in many instances the highways were given sole blame for problems when they really should have been described only as contributing factors. In other instances the highways were in no way responsible for conditions for which they were blamed.

The fact remains, however, that even after discounting questionable reports, the highway-related problem occupies a prominent place in any discussion of water problems in North Carolina.

An appraisal of detailed reports from the 42 counties that participated in a recent inventory showed that 26 per cent of all the water problems listed were related to highways. Problems involving municipalities were next with 18 per cent and problems connected with ground (sub-surface) water were third with 17 per cent. Others included pollution, 14 per cent; problems affecting wildlife, 12 per cent; irrigation, 11 per cent; and miscellaneous, 2 per cent.

Inadequate Drainage — In evaluating highway-related water problems, it was found that practically all individual reports concerned inadequate or improper drainage. It was also found that the close inter-relationship of the problems made it impossible to obtain a statistical appraisal. The evaluation was therefore aimed at determining the exact nature of the major highway-related problems and the main factors contributing to these problems.

It was revealed that the most outstanding problem was the flooding of farmland. One inland Coastal Plain county, for instance, reported more than 700 acres of cropland flooded annually due to highway causes. The other major problems attributed to the highways were excessive erosion and siltation.

The primary causes of these problems, according to county reports, are (1) inadequate drainage ditches and culverts, (2) improperly placed ditches and culverts, (3) inadequate maintenance of ditches and other drainage ways, and (4) interference with natural drainage patterns. Obviously, the only way to eliminate many of these problems is to eliminate the highways. Highways require roadbeds and ditches and they cannot be expected to conform very closely with natural drainage patterns. Many complaints lodged against highways originate with individuals who campaigned the hardest for the highways in the first place. This is not a condemnation of those individuals, but it does serve to illustrate a condition that many consider the most important problem of all — lack of cooperation.

Estimate 99 Per Cent Of Russians Cast Vote

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet people gave their usual rousing vote of support to their leaders in nationwide elections for Parliament yesterday. A visiting American observer said the one-ticket voting was "very well organized." The only question was the percentage of the Soviet Union's 130 million eligible voters who turned out. Sizable returns were not expected until tonight. Before the polls opened, officials estimated that 99.98 per cent of the voters would do their duty. The Tass news agency reported that 99.7 per cent of Moscow's eligible voters had visited the polls six hours before they closed at midnight. Martial music and get-out-the-vote slogans blaring from loudspeakers spurred the citizens over 18. There were 1,378 candidates nominated by Communist party leaders for the same number of seats in the Supreme Soviet, the Soviet Union's two-house Parliament. A three-man American team observed the preliminaries and the election, returning a Soviet visit to the 1956 presidential election. The Americans visited Leningrad, Kiev, Tbilisi and Tashkent before the voting, then returned to Moscow for election day. They are Prof. Richard Scammon, chief of the Political Elections Section of the U.S. Governmental Affairs Institute; Cyril E. Black, professor of history at Princeton University; and Hedley W. Donovan, managing editor of Fortune magazine. The voters did not have to fill out ballots. They simply deposited them in a large box. In each polling station there was a closed booth where a voter could cross off the party's candidate and substitute his own. These booths are rarely used.

Cancer Experts Look For 'Breakthrough'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top cancer experts believe "important breakthroughs may be expected in the not too distant future" in the fight against the disease. Their hopes were expressed to the House Appropriations Committee during recent closed-door hearings on the fiscal 1959 budget of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The committee made public their testimony today. Dr. John R. Heller, director of the National Cancer Institute, said research programs "are providing a momentum which was unknown in the cancer field a few short years ago." The expected breakthroughs in research, he said, "may lead to better understanding of the origin and nature of cancer; they may open direct and short paths to drug cures; they may point the way to widespread prevention of cancer through immunization." Virus studies, Heller said, have

Bail-Out Tests On Tiny Railroad

DALLAS (AP)—A little railroad is part of a new system to parachute pilots safely home from the edges of space. The pilot stays inside a closed capsule. The whole capsule is shot out of the plane along a short set of rails. Then it parachutes to earth. Designed for planes flying far faster than sound and many miles high, this escape system solves many problems which would face future space voyagers. Some such system might be used to bring men safely off a manned satellite circling the earth. The bail-out capsule was described at an aviation conference sponsored by the American Rocket Society and American Society of Mechanical Engineers by C. W. Russell, assistant project engineer of Republic Aviation Corp., Farmingdale, N.Y. Shooting the capsule downward out of the bottom of the plane along guide rails gets it free safely, Russell said. But it has to be strongly engineered to stand up when it hits the airstream. The pilot has to be securely harnessed, so he doesn't hit his head on the top when the capsule shoots downward, or get thrown forward when it hits the airstream. He has to be saved from too-vicious jolts when parachutes open and the capsule lands.

Bishop Cushman Speaks On 'Finding God Real'

"Finding God Real" is the theme of Lenten messages by Bishop Ralph Spaulding Cushman this week at St. James Methodist Church here. A capacity crowd heard the four-day series opened yesterday morning as the Bishop spoke on the words of tortured Job, "O, that I knew where I might find Him." Last night's subject was "I had heard of Thee my the hearing of the ear, but now mine eyes have seen Thee." Tonight is "Youth Night." Adults as well as young people are invited. J. Levy Corey Jr., Greenville, East Carolina student, will give his personal testimony. St. James Methodist Youth Fellowship will furnish ushers for the service. Youthful song leader for all the services is Duke University student Robert H. Gibbons, director of music at St. James. The choir will sing each evening. Yesterday morning's anthem was "Hallelujah, What A Saviour!"; last night's anthem "How Great Thou Art." Mrs. Julian J. White Jr. and Mr. Gibbons were soloists. Mrs. Kenneth A. AWAIT HEARING RALEIGH (AP)—The Utilities Commission is expected to announce a hearing date soon on Southern Railroad's petition for authority to discontinue passenger trains 111 and 112 between Greensboro and Goldsboro. Fears Realized: Car Rams House DETROIT (AP)—Michael Payne, 63, and his wife Evelyn, 60, don't have to wait any longer. What they feared for many years would happen has happened. The Paynes live on a jog in a busy street. Between their house and the street is an empty lot. Four years ago, a car ran across the lot and hung itself on a fence. Then a car tipped over and landed four feet from the house. A year ago, a car rammed into the Payne garage. Saturday night, a car smashed into the home. "I thought it was the furnace exploding," Payne said. No one was injured. No tickets were issued. The driver of the car said she swerved to avoid an oncoming truck. The Paynes are cleaning up. 'Secret Boss' Is Freed On Parole

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Artie Samish, who once boasted he was the "secret boss of California," came home on parole last night, but he no longer was his once garrulous self. Still weighing nearly 300 pounds, the former lobbyist said only "it's good to be out." He had served 26 months of a three-year sentence in McNeil Island Federal Prison in Washington. He was convicted of income tax evasion. Several years ago Samish boasted to a magazine reporter "I am the governor of the Legislature of the State of California" because of his campaign contributions to candidates of both parties. That led to an investigation of his lobbying activities and income. He was reputed to have paid the government nearly $750,000 in settlement of income tax claims and penalties.

Live Artillery Shell is Doorstop MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—The doorstop in Mrs. Blanche Thompson's home had taken the usual amount of raps and bangs in the last 38 years of use—but never the big one. Mrs. Thompson said she found that the doorstop, a World War I German artillery shell given her husband by a brother, contained the equivalent of five pounds of TNT. A painter working at her house suggested she have it inspected. The National Guard found the shell very much alive. They destroyed it.

Temple Cops Eastern NCAA Regional Basketball Crown

Battle Kentucky Next In Tourney

By KEN ALTYA
CHARLOTTE (AP) — Temple's Owls have earned another meeting with Kentucky, their conqueror in a triple overtime basketball game three months ago.

The Owls romped over Dartmouth 69-50 here Saturday night to win the NCAA Eastern Regional tournament. The victory sent Temple into the national semifinals against Kentucky Friday night at Louisville.

The victory was the 25th straight for Temple and gave coach Harry Litwack's club a 26-2 record for the season. It was back on Dec. 7 that Kentucky took an 85-83 game on its home court from the Philadelphians after three extra periods. Two nights later Temple lost to Cincinnati 80-57. Since then it has won them all.

Dartmouth had little chance, trailing by 10 at the half and falling steadily behind after a brief flurry early in the second half.

All-American Guy Rodgers hit 17 points, Mel Brodsky 16, Jay Norman 14 and sophomore Bill Kennedy, only non-senior starter, tossed in 13. Dan Fleming, a valuable No. 6 man, came off the bench twice to add seven.

A well balanced rebounding detail saw Rodgers, Norman, and 6-8, 225-pound Tink Van Patton each grab nine and Brodsky eight. Temple shot with twice Dartmouth's efficiency, 46 percent against 23.4 and its overall versatility and ball-hawking was too much for the Ivy Leaguers.

Rudy LaRusso was Dartmouth's big man with 19 points and 21 rebounds. Maryland won third place over Manhattan 59-55, sinking 27 of 31 foul shots and five in the last 94 seconds. The Terps were 10 points behind with 12 minutes left when they made their move.

Tom Young's 18 points headed the Terp scoring. The 12,000 crowd swelled the two-night total to 24,100. Rodgers was named most valuable player of the tournament by 21 of the 32 newsmen covering. Norman received 9 votes and LaRusso took the other two.

Temple took three tournament team positions. Rodgers was the only unanimous choice. Norman and Kennedy were the other Owls on the team, which included LaRusso, and Nick Davis of Maryland.

Charlie McNeil of Maryland, Chuck Kaufman of Dartmouth and John Powers of Manhattan received honorable mention.

ECC Places 4th In NAIA Classic

MUNCIE, Indiana — North Central Illinois College compiled a total of 88 points here this weekend to sweep to the NAIA swimming championship.

The North Central Illinois club pooled first place over a field of 13 teams, the best of the small college circuit.

Central Michigan College finished second with 54½ points. Detroit Technical Institute was third with 34½, and defending national champion East Carolina College notched fourth place with 29 points.

Last season, East Carolina won the first annual NAIA classic at Muncie.

Coach Charles DeShaw's Pl-

rates copped one first place and placed in five other events. Ken Midyette grabbed off first honors in the 1-meter Diving events, to lead the Bucs in individual performance.

The other five places were as follows: They copped third in the 400-yard Freestyle Relay, third in the 200-yard Backstroke, fourth in the 200-yard Butterfly, fourth in the 200-yard Freestyle, and fifth in the 400-yard Medley.

Bob Sawyer, ECC captain and previously undefeated Backstroke champion, copped third place in the 200-yard Backstroke. Sidney Oliver, a fet, snared the fourth-place position for the Bucs in the 200-yard Butterfly.

Morehead High Captures Class AA Championship

DURHAM (AP)—Morehead High of Leaksville-Spray-Draper holds its second straight state Class AA high school basketball championship today by virtue of a hard-fought win Saturday night over Winston, 59-55, in the tournament finals.

Smithfield took the consolation game 73-55 over Graham.

Morehead's Black Panthers had lost the lead late in the third period, but came back in the final half minute to go ahead 56-55 when sub Norman Blackwell stole the ball and fed it to Marsh Oakley for a goal.

Oakley, fouled making the shot, missed his free throw but was fed the rebound by John Eggleston and sank another goal. With 13 seconds left, Blackwell missed a free throw chance and then Don Craig dropped in one foul shot for the final score.

Eggleston had 28 points, Oakley and Craig 11 each. Lewis had 18 and Hearn 12 for Kingston's Red Devils.

Smithfield's high scorers were Doug Hobgood, 21 points, and Jerry Highsmith, 18. Don Guthrie had 28 for Graham.

Clayton, Unger Pace All-Star Class A Team

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP)—Lawrence (Gotton) Clayton of Zeb Vance and Wolfy Unger of state Class A champion Valley Springs headed an all-tournament team announced today.

Unger, with 85 points for the tournament that ended Saturday night as his team defeated Zeb Vance 62-55 in the finals, was top scorer for the event. But he was second in the voting to Clayton, who tied with Dallas Durnell of Swansboro, another all-tourney team member, at 67 points for the second spot in individual scoring.

Richard Cross of Allen Jay and Buddy Baldwin of Valley Springs complete the all-tournament squad selected by newsmen and tourney officials.

Unger sank two free throws with 3 seconds left Saturday night to blunt a Valley Springs rally that almost took the game away. He finished with 22 points for the night, but Clayton had 26.

Mantle, Berra Slugging Has Improved Now

By MIKE RATHET
The Associated Press
Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra have started to get the bat squarely against the ball and today the word went out: "Beware the Yankee line."

The New York sluggers snapped their slump and unshook their lethal power yesterday, leading the American Leaguers to a 4-1 exhibition victory over the world champion Milwaukee Braves. It was the first meeting between the two teams since the World Series.

Mantle and Berra aroused the entire Yank cast from its lethargic play and lifted New York's Grapefruit League record to 4-5. The slugs got some solid pitching from veteran Art Ditmar and youngsters Ryne Duren and Al Ciootte, who combined for an eight-hitter.

Mantle stroked two doubles, scoring twice and accounting for one run driven in. Berra slashed a double, added a single and picked up two RBIs.

Cleveland's Indians also got a boost when ace pitcher Herb Score finally made his exhibition debut. Sideline last year when a batted ball struck him in the eye, Score suffered an ankle sprain early in spring training.

He gave up two runs and four hits in a three-inning stint as the Indians bowed to San Francisco 6-5. Johnny Antonelli won it.

Washington unveiled a slugger in Neil Chrisley, who struck three homers in a 10-6 victory over Detroit. St. Louis defeated Cincinnati 6-3; Los Angeles knocked off Boston 5-1; Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 6-5 in 10 innings; and Chicago's White Sox clubbed Kansas City 8-2.

Chrisley drove in six runs with his three round-trippers on a grand slammer, as the Nats routed Paul Foytack with five runs in the first.

Stan Musial's three-run homer, highlighting a five-run eighth, brought the Cardinals their victory. Veteran Hal Jeffcoat was the victim.

The Dodgers received good pitching from Don Drysdale. Dan McDonald and Jackie Collum, who limited the Red Sox to five hits.

Pittsburgh won when Phil's third baseman Willie Jones uncorked a wild throw in the 10th with runners on first and second. Roberto Clemente legged it home.

The White Sox jumped on George Brunet and Tom Gorman in the last two innings for five runs after holding a 3-2 lead. Alex Kellner pitched well for the A's.

Greenville players dominated the annual Wilmington Open Table Tennis Championships held Saturday, March 15, at the Wilmington Community Center by the Wilmington Recreation Dept.

This's Showdown Week For Cagers

By DON WEISS
The Associated Press
Comes now showdown week in major college basketball for 10 surviving teams.

Regional champions Temple, Kentucky, Kansas State and Seattle are left in the National Collegiate tournament, started with 24 teams. Semifinals and finals will be held at Louisville Friday and Saturday.

There are six survivors in the National Invitation Tournament at New York — Bradley, Xavier of Ohio, Dayton, Fordham, St. Bonaventure and St. Johns of New York. Twelve teams started. Two more will be lopped off tomorrow night. The semifinals are Thursday night and the finals Saturday afternoon.

Here's the lineup at a glance:

NCAA—Temple (26-2) vs. Xavier (16-11), Dayton (23-3) vs. Fordham (15-8) Tuesday night. Bradley-Xavier winner faces St. Bonaventure (20-4), Dayton-Fordham winner plays St. Johns (18-6) in Thursday's semifinals. Winners to Saturday final.

Xavier got into the quarter-final bracket impressively, whipping Niagara 95-86, while Fordham romped past St. Francis of Pennsylvania 83-59. Third-seeded St. Bonaventure was a 79-75 winner over St. Joseph's (Pa.) after a first-round bye. St. Johns, in Saturday's other game, upset fourth-seeded Utah 71-70.

Temple, riding a 25-game winning streak that is the longest in the nation among major schools is favored to advance to the NCAA finals against Kansas State, the big, bruising Big Eight Conference champion.

But the way Kentucky's Wildcats, old hands at NCAA tournament competition, and Seattle, with its great Elgin Baylor, have been playing, there's no guarantee.

The Wildcats smashed a good Notre Dame team 89-56 Saturday night in the Midwestern regional final at Lexington, Ky. Seattle first snapped San Francisco's 20-game winning streak on Baylor's 35-foot jump shot at the buzzer, then rode Charlie Brown's clutch play to a 66-62 overtime victory over California in the Far Western regional.

Temple, led by All America Guy Rodgers, crushed Dartmouth in Saturday's title game 69-50 of the Eastern regional at Charlotte. Kansas State, with three regulars 6-8 or more, overpowered Oklahoma State 69-57 in the Midwestern regional final at Lawrence, Kan.

The two small-school national crowns were determined over the weekend. South Dakota won the NCAA small college title, defeating St. Michaels (Vt.) 75-53 at Evansville, Ind., and Tennessee State won the NAIA championship for the second straight year, downing previously unbeaten Western Illinois 85-73 in the wind-up of a week of play at Kansas City.

Lenoir Rhyne, Davidson Clash Tomorrow

Davidson's Wildcats travel to Lenoir Rhyne tomorrow in the opening baseball game of the season for Southern Conference teams.

Before the week is out, The Citadel and Virginia Tech also will have seen action in a schedule that totals seven games.

The Citadel is at home to Yale Thursday and Friday, then goes to Wofford on Saturday. Tech has a twin bill listed at Wake Forest Friday. Davidson and Lenoir Rhyne meet again Friday, this time at Davidson.

The first match between conference rivals isn't scheduled until March 29, when Washington and Lee visits Davidson for a double-header. George Washington's initial outing will be a non-conference affair at Washington March 26 against touring Colby College.

West Virginia, regarded as GW's principal challenger, doesn't get its first test until April 1 when the Mountaineers play at home against West Virginia Wesleyan.

Top stars of the 1957 season who return this year include West Virginia shortstop Ronnie Retton, the conference's top hitter with a .417 average, and four other players who made the all-conference team — outfielders Bob Senay of West Virginia and Don Glenn of Richmond, catcher Chuck Boone of Richmond and pitcher Charlie Moore of Furman.

DURHAM (AP)—Coaches of North Carolina's Big Four teams are lecturers during the three-day Dixie Football Clinic that began today at Duke University.

Each of the coaches—Bill Murray of Duke, Jim Tatum of North Carolina, Earle Edwards of N.C. State and Paul Amen of Wake Forest—is to lecture an hour daily during the morning sessions.

Miami Manhunt

A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

Published by special arrangement with Charles Scribner, Inc., 675 Third Avenue, New York, N. Y.

CHAPTER 30
"I went to Jack's apartment in Miami," Maria continued. "He hadn't changed much except that he seemed really prosperous. And he seemed to have more confidence — or his ego was larger — than when I'd last seen him."

She stared at me, then continued: "Before I could tell him that I no longer loved him he launched into his scheme. He'd happened into this huge sum of money, he said — a quarter of a million dollars. He'd been reading and studying books and pamphlets and brochures on the Bahamas. And he'd discovered that there were islands there for sale at a fraction of the price an equivalent piece of land would cost in the United States. It was a thing he'd always dreamed of doing, he said: living on an island, away from civilization, away from people. And it could be made productive. It all sounded just like him, and I knew he wouldn't stay in a place like that for a month before he'd become restless. And I knew he'd never make a go of any sort of a productive enterprise. It just wasn't in him."

"He wouldn't tell me where the quarter of a million had come from. He already had the money, he said, and he swore to me that he hadn't stolen it. He simply said that he had as much right to the money as the man who'd previously had it — if not more! I asked him if the man who'd previously had it wouldn't try and get it back, make trouble for him. He said the man might try and get it back, but he'd never make trouble for him, because he'd have no way of knowing that he had it! He had it all figured out, he said."

"He was so enthusiastic that I could barely get a word in. He said he had to go back to Coronado one more time to quit his job. He said the trip might take longer than he'd planned, that there might be minor time-consuming details. But that I wasn't to worry. He got very vague and evasive when I tried to find out more details about his job and where the money had come from. I was sure he was up to something very dangerous, very risky, because of the way he'd told me not to worry. That wasn't like him. I began to think that he was, in spite of his confidence, in real danger."

Maria was silent for a moment. The tip of a forefinger was tracing patterns in the sand. "Before Jack went back to Coronado he was going to Nassau. He was going to be in the morning. He'd been in touch with some government land agent there, he told me, and tomorrow this agent would show him some property in the outer islands. He'd take the money with him. If he found some property he liked — and he'd read a description of an estate on an island that he was pretty sure was just the thing he'd been looking for — he'd buy it. And if he had a chance he'd hide the money there — in or around the house. He said an obscure island in the Bahamas would be the best possible place for it. At least until 'things blew over.'"

She tucked her long legs beneath her and leaned against the trunk of a tree. She looked at me. "I've been awfully rough on poor Jack Forbes for the past twenty minutes or so, Brad. I had no right to be that rough on him. I've done plenty of things myself that I'm ashamed of. I was convinced that the money had been stolen but I didn't care! Maybe, I thought, all Jack needed all these years was money — enough money to give him confidence. More money than he'd ever been able to make. And the idea of being mistress of an estate thrilled me. Me, Marta Kowalski Blanding from the south side of Chicago, the mistress of an estate! A big house, plenty of servants, and all the rest. I didn't care if the money was stolen. I told Jack I'd wait for him to get back from Coronado and then I'd go to the Bahamas with him."

Long, red-tipped fingers writhed nervously together. "The next morning the spell was broken. The dream ended. I didn't — I still don't know why I told him I'd go back to him. Maybe I was feeling sorry for him. But most probably it was greed. The money. "But I knew it wouldn't work. Nothing had changed about Jack except that now he was a thief. I had Jack's address in San Andres. I sent him a cable and told him I'd made a mistake the night before. I told him I wasn't going back to him."

"And in the meantime he'd hidden the money somewhere on this island?"
She nodded. "I think so. Ramez certainly thinks so."
"And you never saw him or heard from him again?"
"The day after he arrived in San Andres he disappeared. Two weeks later it was announced that he'd been killed in a fight. You heard Ramez say that that story was only a cover-up for the people in power down there, that Jack had been caught at his double-dealing and executed!"

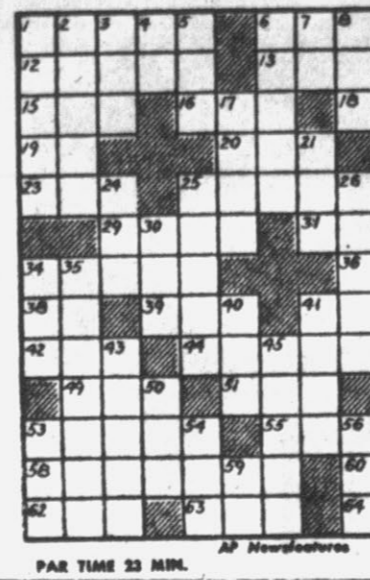

"And now it was time for the Big Question, I said softly. "If the money is here, as you think it is, where is it? Where did he tell you he was going to hide it?"
"But don't you see, Brad? I don't know where it is! He didn't tell me where he was going to hide it. I guess he didn't know!"

I looked at her. She wouldn't meet my eyes. I had a sudden, crazy suspicion that she wasn't leveling with me. Maybe the Joan Morris thing had scared her. Maybe she'd started doing a little worrying about her rash promise to spry the take with me if we got the money — especially now that it seemed that the boodie might be twice what she'd thought it was — minus the price of a rundown copra plantation.
"You didn't actually know where the money had come from, where Forbes had gotten it, until you met Ramez on his boat, did you?"

"No. The fat man, Manuel, told me that the money had belonged to some political organization. That Jack had been trusted to de-

Freak Reception. On Their Radios

DETROIT (AP) — Freak radio waves are delaying the bill of fare on the Wayne County Sheriff's road patrol network these days. Police report hearing men complaining about overtones and fighting fires in the oil fields of Caracas, Venezuela, shrill voices arguing violent in Spanish from Argentina and a bus dispatcher checking up on his drivers in Sacramento, Calif.

liver it and that he had stolen it instead. I didn't believe him and so I paid little attention to what he said.
"You really didn't know, then — you just assumed — that Jack Forbes had stolen the money. Until Ramez told you the story."
Her face had grown a little hard around the edges. "What are you driving at, Brad?"
"Do you want that money just as badly now that you know it was stolen?"
"After what Ramez had done to me? I want the money worse now than I ever wanted it before. Don't you?"
I thought for a minute. I'd never in my life find this much money floating around up for grabs, as it were. It was the kind of a thing Ramez could never go to the police about. And if you looked at it one way it was as much Marta's as it was Ramez'. It had been, for a brief period, her husband's. And it was on what was now her property. And when it came to having sticky fingers around other people's money, Jack Forbes had been a piker compared to Ramez.
But I somehow couldn't help feeling sorry for those little guys who kicked in their hard earned bucks to help keep some sort of a flag they believed in waving. The money belonged to hundreds of thousands of poor stupid faithful characters like them. And to the guys shivering in foxholes in the hills of Coronado.
"You haven't answered me,

Brad. Don't you?"
"Yeah," I said. "But I wasn't quite sure."
"Miami Manhunt" reaches a surprising conclusion next week. Continue it in this newspaper tomorrow.
