Scholarships At Duke Given Two Local Students

Two Seniors at Junius H. Rose High School, Mary Ann Bryant and Godfrey Oakley, have been awarded $2,600 scholarships by Duke University. Announcement of the scholarships was made today by Principal O. E. Dowd. They will provide $650 per year for each of the winners.

Summit Parley Devoted Solely To Disarmament Considered In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—A summit conference devoted solely to seeking a disarmament agreement was under consideration by the Eisenhower administration today. Officials said disarmament in all its aspects — from futuristic plans for taming outer space to the age-old issue of curbing armed manpower — seems to offer the best hope for progress among the points of East-West tension.

Counterfeit Bills Turn Up In S.C.

COLUMBIA (AP)—Four counterfeit $10 bills have turned up recently in South Carolina, according to the Columbia office of the U. S. Secret Service. Two of the phony bills were found at Orangeburg and two others turned up at Charleston. The secret service said similar bogus bills have been reported in North Carolina at Kannapolis and Concor.

Rep. Jonas Not Seeking Judgeship

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Jonas (R-NC) said today he is a candidate for re-election and not in the running for a federal judgeship. He had been mentioned as a possible successor to the late Judge John J. Parker of the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals who died here Monday after a heart attack.

Jets On Flight

TOKYO (AP)—Six U.S. jet warplanes sped south today on a good will visit to salute New Zealand's air force and demonstrate the mobility of Western airpower. Four F100 Super Sabres and two RB66 twin-jet light bombers took off from Yokota Air Force Base near Tokyo on the first leg of their 5,300-mile flight. They will refuel in flight and stop at Guam and Brisbane, Australia. They are due in New Zealand next Tuesday.

PRISON COMFORT

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Inmates at Onondaga County Penitentiary soon will have a soft touch. County Purchasing Agent Robert W. Solinger said he bought 514 foam-rubber mattresses to replace straw mattresses.

Congress Pauses For Ike's Proposals On Jobless Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress took a breathing spell today from its scramble to pass job-creating measures while it awaited President Eisenhower's unemployment compensation proposals. No time has been fixed for submission of the plan, details of which have not been announced. It was outlined to a group of state governors yesterday, but here were indications more work remains to be done on it.

The White House conference that Eisenhower's proposal called for federal grants to finance a 13-week extension of jobless benefits for those whose eligibility under the varying state unemployment compensation programs has expired. An administration spokesman said, however, that the federal aid would be more in the form of loans than of grants, though he conceded the extra money would not come from state funds or from an increase in state taxes.

New York Building Blaze Kills 24; Delay In Alarm

NEW YORK (AP)—A delay in sounding an alarm was blamed in large part today for the toll of 24 dead in a downtown loft building fire yesterday.

The fire "conceivably was going like hell for 10 minutes" before the fire department could get to fight it, Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr. told newsmen. He said the loss of life occurred in the first two or three minutes.

Both Miss Bryant and Oakley were finalists in recent competition for Duke's Angier B. Duke Scholarships. Miss Bryant was named first alternate for the scholarship awarded for the Eastern District of North Carolina.

She has already won a $150 scholarship, to the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, for placing first in the 1957 state-wide French Contest for high school students. She also won the high school's French Medal as outstanding French student her Freshman and Sophomore years, and a similar medal for Spanish studies her Sophomore and Junior years.

Jury Given Case Of Five Kluxers

CHARLOTTE (AP)—An all-white jury today received the case of five Klansmen charged in an alleged plot to bomb a Negro elementary school near here. The Mecklenburg Superior Court jury of 11 men and a woman was told before getting the case this forenoon that its choice lay between "law and order or the white-robed Klansmen gathered on the hill."

Charged with conspiring to bomb the Negro Woodland Elementary School are Lester Caldwell, Arthur Monroe Brown, David Quick and William Spencer Caldwell, who is Klavern (Chapter) 22 grand wizard, and Jackley, 2541 Dickinson Avenue, and Ayscue are accused in addition of attempting to execute the plot Feb. 15.

Conviction could yield jail terms of from five to 30 years on either the conspiracy or the attempt charge. Solicitor (Prosecutor) Grady Stott and four defense lawyers made their summations yesterday.

Torture Begins For The Living

NEW YORK (AP)—The suffering was over for the 24 dead of a loft building fire. Now the torture began for the living—the relatives and friends.

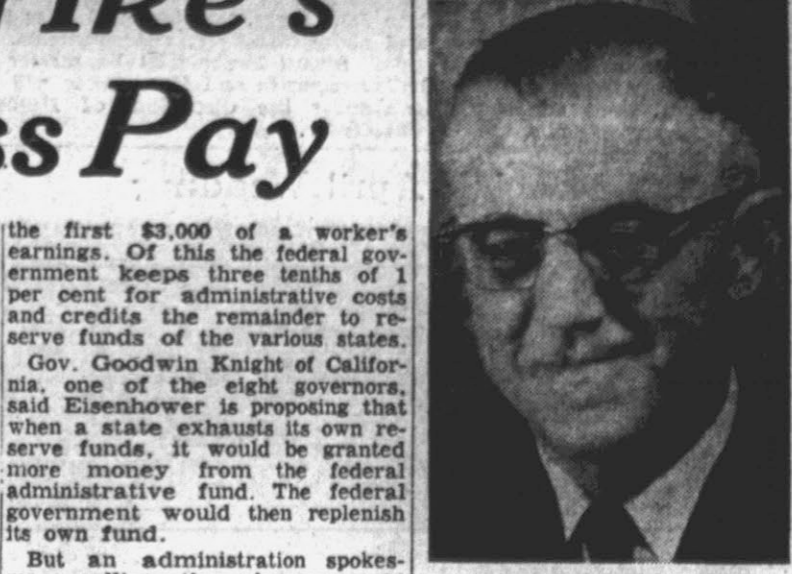

To Believe a morgue they trudged, their faces wet from tears and last night's rainy snowstorm, to identify their loved ones. They huddled in grief-stricken groups against the walls of a corridor until their turn came.

The police tried to spare them. Nobody was allowed to go from body to body—to see all the dead. First the relative was asked the description of the person he was seeking. Then the body most closely answering the description was taken from the basement by elevator to a private room on the first floor.

A corner of a blanket over the body was lifted. One hysterical scene after another was enacted as relative after relative found his worst fears confirmed. Dr. Milton Helfern, chief medical examiner, passed a word to soften the blow a bit for the relatives.

"The victims didn't suffer much. When they inhaled that smoke they got a lot of carbon monoxide into their respiratory system. They became unconscious quickly."

Candidate

RUEL W. TYSON

Sheriff To Again Seek Re-Election

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson today announced that he would be a candidate for nomination in the Democratic primary to be held May 31. He will be seeking his fourth term as sheriff of Pitt County. He was originally appointed to the office in 1943 when Sheriff J. Knott Proctor resigned to become postmaster.

Tyson served out the unexpired term and ran for a full term in 1946. He was elected that year and re-elected for four-year terms in 1950 and 1954. Prior to his appointment in 1943 the sheriff had served as a deputy in the Pitt County Sheriff's Department. He became a deputy in 1938. Before that he had engaged in farming.

Sheriff Tyson was raised in the Winterville section. He graduated from high school at Red Oak in Nash County. He is married to the former Bert Gupton of Louisville. The Tysons have one son, R.W., Jr., who is a graduate of Yale Divinity School and is now studying at Victoria University in Manchester, England under a scholarship.

Sheriff Tyson is presently serving a one year term as president of the North Carolina Sheriff's Association. He was elected to head the association at its annual meeting last summer. Locally he is a member of the Rotary Club and a member of Memorial Baptist Church. He is a deacon in the church.

Heavy Snow For Maryland, D. C.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Heavy, wet snow and sleet ushered in spring today, striking hard at central Maryland and Washington, D. C. More than 16 inches fell last night and early today in some of Baltimore's northern suburbs. Depths of from 8 to 14 inches were reported in many other nearby communities.

Heavy snowfall continued from just south of Baltimore to the Delaware line. The Weather Bureau said the additional accumulation would amount to three to six inches in northeastern Maryland and four to eight inches in northern Delaware. Washington had up to 8 to 10 inches of snow and sleet.

The latest storm extended from northern Virginia northeastward to Connecticut. But that portion of Maryland extending from Washington, through Baltimore and to the northeast apparently was hardest hit. The heavy snow clung to power lines, and many snapped. Trees fell under the weight of the snow and blocked streets and roads.

A car carrying four young women went through a road barrier on U. S. 1 and plummeted 90 feet down an incline northeast of Baltimore, killing Sally Ann Martin, 23, a wave stationed at the Baltimore, Md., Naval Station. The Weather Bureau reported two inches of sleet at Philadelphia.

Sees Savings In Plain English

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government can save money by having its employees write "clear" letters, U. S. Archivist Wayne C. Grover says. It should be done "so the poor fellow out in the country won't come in with a second letter asking what the first letter meant."

Grover told a House Appropriations subcommittee that one agency which handles thousands of letters each year cut its correspondence workload by 10 per cent that way. He did not name the agency.

DIED AT CONTROLS

OROFINO, Idaho (AP)—Ralph Whipple, 44, suffered a heart attack and died at the controls while test-flying a light plane. His passenger, Charles Lashley, also a pilot, landed the plane safely.

Local Girl Wins State Homemaker Contest

By ANNE SINGLETON Reflector Woman's Editor

Martha Jane Pierce, Rose High student, was named today the state winner of the American Homemaker of Tomorrow contest. As highest ranking girl among 9,651 state contestants from 391 N.C. Schools, she will receive a $1,500 scholarship to any approved college she chooses and will have a chance to be selected as the All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

The national winner will be announced in New York on April 17. J.H. Rose High School is also to receive a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica in conjunction with the contest.

On April 12 the 48 state winners will meet in Washington, D.C. After touring the national capital and Mount Vernon for one day, they will board a chartered bus for Colonial Williamsburg. In Williamsburg they will be dressed in costumes typical of the American homemakers of yesterday. Tours have also been planned for the group while in Williamsburg.

seeing a banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel will conclude the activities. The selection of the All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be made on the basis of the original examination, personal observation, and interviews. The $1,500 scholarships which state winners receive will be increased to $5,000 for the national winner.

On December 3 Miss Pierce took a homemaker knowledge and attitude test. This test consisted of one subjective question and approximately 50 objective questions dealing with all phases of homemaking.

As high score winner at the high school she received a golden pin and her examination was considered with those of other applicants in North Carolina. General Mills, Inc., sponsors of the contest, announced Miss Pierce's selection as state winner this morning. While in high school she has held the office of president and secretary of the N.F.L., secretary-treasurer of the National Honor Society, publicity chairman for the student council, business manager of the "Tau" high school annual, and feature editor of the "Green Lights," high school newspaper. Miss Pierce is now serving as a high school marshal and has been a member of the glee club. An honor roll student, Miss Pierce is also the high school columnist for the Daily Reflector. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Pierce of 116 South Harding Street.

Plan Costume Ball

The Community Fine Arts Festival will present its first Fine Arts Costume Ball on April 11 at Wright Auditorium on the college campus.

The Steering Committee of the festival announced this morning that the purpose of the ball is to attract a large group of persons who have not previously participated in the Fine Arts Festival.

Costumes representing persons or events in the Fine Arts will be worn to the ball and prizes will be awarded the most authentic and the most original.

A colorful feature of the ball will be a grand march with all participating persons dressed in costumes. While the judges are making their decisions, a floor show will be held.

Plans call for decorations suggestive of the Fine Arts.

The following committee chairmen have been named to steer this event: W. T. Persick, decorations; Mrs. S. M. Crisp, judges and prizes; George Perry, floor show; Mrs. Reid Perkins and Dr. George Cook, invitations and costumes; Mrs. John Biggs, tickets; and Miss Beatrice Chauncey, refreshments.

August Laube will be master of ceremonies and the music will be under the direction of Herbert Carter.

Planning April Wedding

MISS MARY IDA GRAY . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Gray of Greenville who announce her engagement to William David Butts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Butts Sr. of Greenville. The wedding will take place April 5.

Garden Club Officers Told

Mrs. Marshall Henson was elected president of the Forest Hills Garden Club last night at the club's meeting at the home of Mrs. J. W. Clark.

Other new officers who were elected are Mrs. W. T. Bilbro, vice president; Mrs. J. W. Clark, secretary; and Mrs. H. W. Mims, treasurer.

These officers will be installed in May.

Mrs. Clark gave a program on soil improvement, stressing that before improvement of soil can be achieved the soil must be analyzed.

Mrs. F. E. Lansche presided over the meeting which was closed by the serving of refreshments.

Every Girl Wants An Easter Bag

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

Little girls are just as accessory-wise these days as their mothers. And the youngest lady in the house is going to expect not only a new Easter dress, but also all the trimmings, including a new handbag.

Such accessories can run into quite a lot of money unless Mother does some careful figuring. Local sewing center experts suggest one way to save—making the handbag at home.

A triangular handbag in candy-pink velveteen, machine embroidered to give an unusual striped effect, should delight any small charmer. Here's how to make it:

The bag requires 3-8 yard of pink velveteen, 1-4 yard of white cotton flannel and a 14-inch necktie zipper.

Make a pattern of heavy paper. The bag consists of three sides that are stitched together, forming a point at the bottom, and a triangular top fastened by a zipper. For the three sides draw a triangle with one straight side and two curved sides, measuring 5 7-8 inches lengthwise and 5 inches across. Add an extra half-inch all around for seam allowance. For the top draw the same size triangle, with all three sides curved. Cut out paper pattern.

Back the velveteen with cotton flannel and quilt the whole piece before you start to cut. Quilt vertically, in contrasting color thread, using your favorite stitch. A seam two sides and around the corner onto the third side. With right sides of zipper and bag together, top stitch zipper to top edge of side section. Stitch top to side sections between ends of the zipper. Stitch other side of zipper tape to edge of top. Press seam open and top stitch section between ends of zipper.

JUNIOR ACCESSORY—Pink velveteen handbag, trimmed with decorative stitching, is easy to make at home.

To make bias cording for handle turn both edges of bias strip in 3-8-inch and fold again in center. Slip stitch folded edges together. Turn back ends of cording and whip stitch, to end the strip with a curled section like a fiddle top. Loop ends once to form a knot. Whip stitch knot to center of top.

Insert lining in bag and slip stitch to zipper tape. Place cardboard piece between lining and top of bag, slipping edge under zipper tape. Slip stitch lining to zipper tape.

After you get the knack of making this four-section bag, you'll probably want to make several, in different sizes. Big ones are handy for the beach, if they're lined in plastic. A black satin one would make a wonderful evening bag. The decorative possibilities are unlimited, thanks to the many embroidery stitches which may be done automatically on the new sewing machines.

Art Notes

The following exhibits can be seen at the local art gallery March-May:

March—History of the Theatre, an exhibit of costumes, stage design, production, and architecture prepared by James D. Allison of East Carolina College.

April—Two Hundred Years of Textile Design exhibit featuring textiles made in the 18th and 19th centuries in France, England and America from the Scalandre Museum of Textiles, New York.

May—An exhibition of paintings and etchings by Louis Orr, Paris, France. This show will include scenes in the United States and France, by courtesy of Robert Lee Humber.

Play March 27

On March 27 at 8:30 p.m. in Sheppard Memorial Library auditorium Dr. Joseph E. Withey and his students will present a one-act play.

Following the play, colored slides on the Kabuki Theatre will be shown. This presentation is in cooperation with the International Theatre Month and its emphasis on Asia.

State Art Museum

The second anniversary of the opening of the N. C. Museum of Art is approaching.

Miss Sylvia Carewe will bring her paintings to North Carolina; March 15-28 at Salem College; April 1-30 at Morehead Building, U. of N. C., Chapel Hill; and May 1-30 at the student building, State College, Raleigh.

Miss Carewe will be present for the opening of her Chapel Hill exhibit. Currently she is doing paintings commissioned by a Paris firm to be used as designs for tapestries.

Edible Centerpieces

Floral artist Gregory Conway applies the same general principles of flower arrangement to fruit and vegetables.

One edible centerpiece he arranges is a contrast of textures and shapes in the combination of potatoes, cauliflower and rhubarb. Feathery carrot tops add a finishing touch.

Won Tricolor Prize

Mrs. A. Ray Reitzel won the Tricolor for the best entry in the entire artistic division of the third annual show of the N. C. Orchid Society last weekend in Wilmington. Her arrangement was fashioned in a Japanese manner.

Can Be Seen Here

Included in this group are 80 examples of advanced tendencies in American painting today. They will be on a year-long tour of the European Museums under the auspices of the International Council at the Museum of Modern Art. These pictures run as large as six by eight feet.

An exhibition of Sir Winston Churchill's paintings has opened at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Enthusiastic applause for this exhibit comes from art critic and editor, Emily Genauer of the N. C. Museum of Art.

Miss Elks Feted Guest

Miss Dobby Elks, bride-elect, was entertained at a shower Tuesday night by Miss Jennie Outlaw and Mrs. Lela Belle Hoell at the home of Mrs. Hoell.

Mixed spring flowers decorated the home throughout.

A bowl holding white and yellow gladioli centered the mantel which was flanked by white candles held in crystal candelabras entwined with white ribbon.

The bride's chair was marked with a white satin bow and a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

The hostesses also remembered Miss Elks with an honor gift. A cutwork cloth covered the gift table which was centered with a floral arrangement of mixed spring flowers. Candelabras entwined with white satin ribbon holding burning white tapers flanked the centerpiece.

Bridal ices, nuts, and cakes were served to the 40 guests. On each place a small green net bag of rice was placed to carry out the bridal motif.

L. M. Buchanan was guest speaker when the Altrusa Club met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. T. Y. Boykin.

Speaking on "Safety," Buchanan emphasized National Safety and Pitt County Safety. He said, "Our attitudes on problems of safety must be changed. No progress will be made unless we educate for safety."

"Boat safety is growing to be one of vital importance. On the inland waterways, small boats are in danger of the larger ones."

Traffic safety, motorboat safety, and driver training for safety were discussed briefly by the speaker.

"Industries join the attack on traffic accidents," he said. "Our community is the key to victory. Home accidents top the list with little improvement being shown."

"School accidents are less because schools are better organized," explained Buchanan.

Officers Elected At AAUW

At the business meeting of the Greenville branch of the American Association of University Women Monday evening, Mrs. D. S. Spain Jr. was elected vice-president for the coming two-year period and Mrs. N. G. Deber was elected treasurer.

The president, Dr. Elizabeth Uterback, presided at the meeting. Reports of various standing committees were heard and other matters of branch business were acted on.

Mrs. R. L. Humber, state chairman of membership, presented the plan for a new headquarters building in Washington, D. C., and the group voted to support the campaign for funds by substantial individual contributions.

For the social hour, hostesses were Miss Mabel Dougherty, Mrs. Robert Lee Humber, Mrs. R. B. Stirling, Mrs. D. R. Taylor, and Mrs. J. E. Winslow.

The program for the April meeting will be on the international scene with Dr. Lala Steelman of the college as speaker.

Success Of Girl Scout Week Told

When the Pitt County Girl Scout Council met at the Rotary Building Monday evening at 8 o'clock, the president, Mrs. Charles A. White, thanked each committee chairman for her cooperation during Girl Scout Week and stated that the week had been a success from every standpoint.

Mrs. Wyatt Brown, Juliette Low Chairman, reported that the birthday parties held at each school in the Pitt County area which supports scouting were quite successful.

"The collection for the World Friendship Fund was very generous," she said.

Mrs. W. M. Reading Jr., who with Mrs. W. A. Wright is co-chairman of the cookie sale, reported that 8,332 boxes of cookies had been sold in Pitt County during Girl Scout Week and that more cookies had been ordered to meet the demand.

Mrs. F. D. Duncan, chairman of the Camp Committee, announced that the camp folders would be ready for distribution in April.

Mrs. White stated that the visit of Mrs. Fallon from the regional office in Atlanta had been rewarding. "Mrs. Fallon met with individual Council members and made many constructive suggestions concerning committees and their functions," added Mrs. White.

Mrs. White also announced that Mrs. Randolph Farmer, who is the Brownie Leader Representative on the Council, is moving to New Bern and that Mrs. Wyatt Brown will replace her.

Announcement was made by Mrs. J. K. Proctor, executive director, of the organization of a senior troop in Greenville with Mrs. J. H. Behr as tentative leader. Several suggestions were made for activities for this group of older girls.

Takes Thalian Club On Tour

Mrs. Robert Stirling carried the members of the Thalian Book Club on a picture tour around the world at the club meeting Tuesday.

Mrs. W. G. Norman was hostess at the home of Mrs. Jack Moye Jr. on Charles Street.

Members and guests were served a two-course luncheon from an appointed table before embarking on their world tour.

Mrs. Stirling was dressed in an Indian costume and Mrs. Armstrong, who assisted her in showing colored slides of her recent trip, wore a costume native to Israel.

Mrs. A. H. Van Dyke, Mrs. Howard Waldrop, Mrs. Moye Dail, Mrs. Charles W. Moye, and Mrs. George P. Harvey were guests for the afternoon.

4-H Council Has Program On Trip Over-The-World

Mrs. Robert Stirling gave the program on her recent around-the-world trip for the 4-H County Council meeting Monday night in the agriculture building.

Mrs. Frank Armstrong assisted Mrs. Stirling with the program.

During the business meeting, presided over by Larry Dilda of the Farmville 4-H club, announcements were given concerning the 4-H Camp to be held June 16-21, the County Dress Revue, and the Health Coronation April 21.

Reports were given by the members on the observance of National 4-H Week.

Joyce Jackson of the Winterville-Greenville club led the 62 4-Hers and parents in several games and songs before refreshments were served by the Bethel 4-H club members.

EC Students Honored At Convention

Sylvia A. Jones of Kinston, junior at East Carolina College, was chosen as "Miss Future Business Executive" at the recent state meeting of the North Carolina Future Business Leaders of America in Asheville.

Martha R. Mendenhall of Cary, also a junior at the college here, was elected treasurer of the state chapter of the organization. She will hold the office during the 1958-1959 school year.

Miss Jones became "Miss Future Business Executive" in a contest staged during the convention. Judges were a group of business men of Asheville who made their choice on the bases of poise, conversational ability, appearance, and promise of success.

The convention, March 14 and 15, brought together approximately 300 delegates from 62 FBLA Chapters in high schools and colleges of the state.

Mrs. Wilson President

New officers for the Elmhurst Garden Club were installed at the club's recent meeting at the home of Mrs. Max R. Joyner.

Mrs. Howard Wilson was named new club president.

Other officers are Mrs. Dave Fowler, vice president; Mrs. Marvin Hill, secretary; Mrs. B. M. Whitehurst, treasurer; Mrs. Thomas Brown, beautification; Mrs. W. L. Green, conservation; Mrs. Robert Masten, exhibits; Mrs. Norman Cameron, horticulture; Mrs. James Tucker, publicity, and Mrs. M. D. Massey, ways and means.

Following the installation of officers, Mrs. Donald Hayes gave a program on the "Growth and Care of Roses."

All members were urged to attend the annual State Convention April 23-25 at the Sir Walter Raleigh Hotel, Raleigh.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Masten, served refreshments and a social hour was held. Each of the 17 members was remembered with a shamrock in honor of St. Patrick's Day.

Betty Gower Feted On Eighth Birthday

GRIFTON—On Sunday afternoon Miss Betty Lynn Gower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gower, celebrated her eighth birthday by having as guests 20 playmates and friends for games and play. A rainbow of colors was noted in the decorations and table appointments.

The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and the cake, decorated in pink, was used as a centerpiece. This was served with ice cream after the play period.

Mrs. H. C. Gravely and Mrs. Joe Shaw assisted Mrs. Gower during the afternoon. Novelty hats were given to each guest as favors.

Dr. Joyce Discusses Canada At End Of Century Club Meet

Mrs. Bancroft Moseley introduced Dr. J. G. Joyce who spoke to the End of the Century Club members and guests Tuesday at Canada as a neighbor of the United States.

He discussed the size and geography of his homeland. "The Dominion, while enjoying political freedom, is an integral part of the British Empire. During the war Canada supplied its own army, navy and air force under its own flag. It never received any lend-lease aid from the U. S."

"Its foreign policy is independent of Great Britain as evidenced by her stand in the Suez crisis. In 1857 Canada became a united nation known as the Dominion of Canada, patterned after both the U. S. and Canada," he explained.

"Its courts are independent of the crown and are also similar to those of the U. S. In trade agreements the U. S. and Canada are on most amicable terms."

"Sixty percent of Canadian industry is owned by non-resident Americans. Thus we are closely tied to Canada by strong ties of race, language and economics. Therefore, a deep feeling of mutual respect and admiration between these two countries exists in all their endeavors," said Dr. Joyce.

Following Dr. Joyce's talk, Mrs. B. W. Moseley and Mrs. Bancroft Moseley served an appointed salad plate with coffee and sweets.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. A. M. Moseley, Miss Ruth Falson and Dr. and Mrs. Joyce.

College Orchestra Presents A Program At Washington, N. C.

The East Carolina College Orchestra, presenting a program at the Washington, N. C., High School Tuesday, had as guest artist Anita Cahoon of Washington, violinist. The orchestra performed under the direction of Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, head of the college department of music.

Miss Cahoon gave as a featured number on the program a performance of Mozart's Violin Concerto, No. 5, in A Major. She is a pupil of Donald H. Hayes of the department of music at East Carolina College.

Selections by the orchestra included works by Strauss, Chabrier, and other composers. The concert was sponsored by the department of music in the Washington high school.

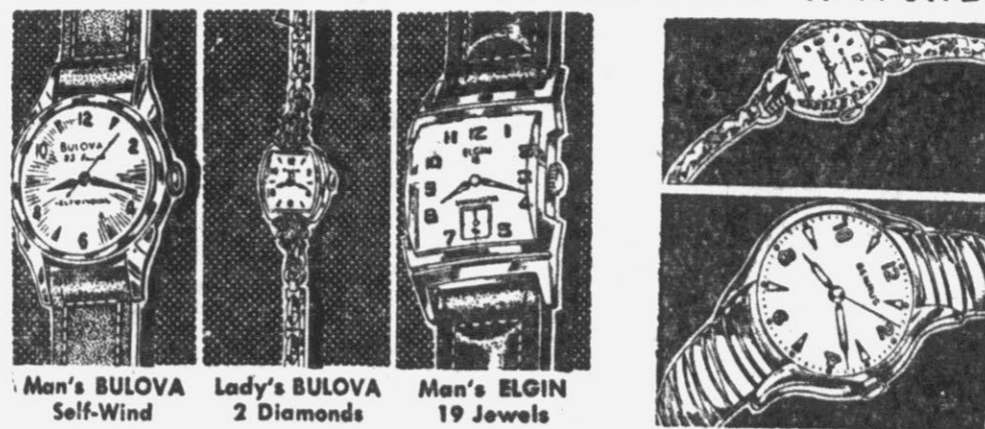

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Bell. Reports were heard from standing committees, and project reports were given by Mrs. C. E. Case, Mrs. Alton Moore and Mrs. Edwin Corbett. Mrs. Moore distributed questionnaires on "Test Your Egg IQ," stressing the fact that March is Egg Month.

During the business session, the members voted to devote some time at each meeting to a study of the yearbook, the H. D. Emblem, and the book on Parliamentary Procedure.

Miss Sue Dilda, daughter of the hostess, played the organ and piano while members of the club sang favorite songs, among which was the H. D. Song, "Onward, Ever Onward."

Showdown Time On Parkway Battle

A running fight between North Carolina and the National Park Service over tolls on the Blue Ridge Parkway has now reached the point of a showdown battle. The state should not budge an inch from its position that the parkway should not be a toll road.

For 20 years now the parkway has been in operation and no tolls have been charged. State officials have pointed out time and again in recent years that an understanding exists between the state and federal governments that the parkway would not become a toll road. It is part of the regular state and federal highway system and is used for regular transportation through the Western part of North Carolina as well as a scenic route for tourists.

To be sure the small toll of $2 a year charged regular users of the parkway would not be prohibitive when it came down to the individual driver. Yet if the parkway is to become a toll road, what is there to keep other highways into which federal monies go from becoming similar toll roads in the future?

North Carolina has no toll roads, bridges or ferries in the state highway system. It invested some three

Books Close On Entries Friday

By LYNN NISBET

BIG DAY — Friday will be a "big day" in North Carolina politics. At noon on that day, March 21, the books will close for filing notice of candidacy in the May 3 primary for all statewide and district offices other than for the State Senate. Candidates for the Senate, even in multi-county districts, are required to file only in the county of residence and the board of elections there must notify the other counties in the district. Legislative candidates have until April 19 to file.

In a number of counties prospective legislators are waiting until after Friday to decide upon their course. The development of contests—or lack of them—for the Congress, judgeships and solicitor will have bearing on county races in a good many places.

12th DISTRICT — That is especially true in the far west where a heated race for judgeship is developing, and what looked like a very uninteresting race for Congress is moving into a headline event. Heinz Rollman of Haywood is giving friends of incumbent George Shuford more concern than they anticipated.

Entry of Beverly Middleton of Henderson has further complicated Shuford plans for a first primary victory. A number of party leaders in the area think there will be inevitable involvement of congressional and judicial campaigns. There is a race for judge in Buncombe county, but the real concern is that it is especially true in the far west where a heated race for judgeship is developing, and what looked like a very uninteresting race for Congress is moving into a headline event.

"Government has grown so large that it is beyond comprehension, incapable of self-regulation and bent on perpetuation of its various components. People fear the thought of the unwieldy monster attaching even one of its tentacles onto the public schools, no matter how innocent and trivial the initial attachment seems to be."—Ranger, Riverton, Wyo.

"The free nations have pooled their military powers, have armed for war but have not pooled their brain-power. It is past time they did. And this brain-power can be used for peaceful objectives too, for development of many great things to make life better, for science has not reached all its potentialities."—Herald, Red Creek, N.Y.

"Education is the most selfish thing in the world. The only person who can give it to you is you. Teachers can lead, suggest, cajole, even browbeat, but they can't make you learn. That you do all alone."—Daily Times-Mail, Bedford, Ind.

"Political marathon of the west is shaping in the contest for the 30th district judgeship between million dollars in the parkway with the understanding it would be a free public highway.

It now appears that the fight will have to be carried to the floor of Congress if the Blue Ridge Parkway is to remain free of tolls the federal agency wants to impose. The situation behooves North Carolina to muster every ounce of strength it can to prevent the imposition of tolls on the parkway. If necessary to carry the matter into court for settlement as a last resort, North Carolina should not hesitate to take such action.

More Than A Token Punishment Is In Order

United States prestige in Korea, already damaged by the thoughtless act of a few service personnel who mistreated a Korean youth, could be further degraded if the Army does not properly punish those responsible for mistreating the boy.

The major who flew the young Korean 25 miles after he had been nailed in a box accepted a token sentence which means the most he can get is a rebuke and loss of a month's pay.

A Captain, charged with cutting and striking the boy faces a general court-martial as does the sergeant who actually nailed the boy in a box. Both could be severely punished under military regulations.

The fact that the major has been allowed to accept a token sentence raised the question of whether the other two men involved will also be let off with "token" sentences. If the Army fails to punish its own personnel for mistreatment of natives of a nation in which they are stationed, how can the United States expect to retain the respect of these people? If individuals in the military service are allowed to take matters in their own hands and go unpunished, how can we expect the Korean people to respect the system of law and justice which the United States government stands?

Curiosities In Business World

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here's another batch of evidence to prove that business is a strange and wonderful thing and that it generates curious and amazing news.

CASH FOR BUYING
A Georgia furniture store offers up to $50 cash to people who buy furniture on time... Irish distillers are asking their government to finance a campaign to advertise Irish whiskey in the U. S. . . . A Michigan U. professor is advocating an income tax cut retroactive to the first of the year, which would give taxpayers a lump sum rebate right away. . . . A synthesized substance developed from boron may be harder than diamond. . . . Yugoslavs liked the American supermarket exhibited at the Zagreb Fair last September so much that they have borrowed two U. S. experts to help set up a permanent super in Belgrade.

Several people have suggested the Post Office sell advertising space on its cancellations to help meet the deficit. But what would Westinghouse say if its mail bore G.E. slogans?
Epi-Hab, a Los Angeles industrial plant manned entirely by epileptics, has been granted a 20 per cent cut in accident insurance rates because of its outstanding safety record.

JIBE AT "CLOSING" SALES
A Chicago store owner advertised, "After 17 years I am not going out of business. I have not lost my lease and my landlord still loves me. However, I am overstocked in certain departments of spanking new merchandise which was not purchased for this special sale." Customers flocked in.

PTC WINS VICTORY AFTER BATTLEFIELD IS EMPTY
One of the troubles with the independent Federal agencies, which Congress is now investigating, is their slowness. The fact that the Federal Communications Commission often takes years to reach a decision on a television channel has already been noted.

Also Washed Away
The Federal Trade Commission also moves slowly. When the Asian flu scare began, several companies immediately began advertising that their remedies would protect users against the disease.

Quote . . .
"The talk is of tax cuts as a pump-priming device at the national level to cope with the recession. This is deficit financing of the most extreme nature, in which all possibility of a pay-as-you-go policy is chucked out of the window. How can the government expect its citizens to be thrifty when it gives no heed to tomorrow's bills."—News-Tribune, Waltham, Mass.

Men, Sacks, Girls

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Can 50 million American men be wrong? Will their wives, sisters, mothers and daughters really go for that new so-called "sack look" in their clothing?

The American woman seems already sold on the chemise silhouette in everything from nightgowns to evening dresses. As far as milady herself is concerned, she's in the bag.

It will do no good for the average husband to announce sternly he will refuse to escort in public a wife dressed to resemble an ambulant sugar sack or a strolling bean bag. For no matter whose wife he goes out with, that's how she is going to look.

At the risk of being denounced by the millions of men opposed to the new feminine style, I'd like to cast a solid vote in favor of them. And for several reasons.

For one thing, they make it easier to tell men and women apart, something that has been getting more and more difficult in this civilization.

How can you identify them at a glance? If it wears an Ivy League — or skinned rabbit — look, it is a man. If it billows like a sailboat in a strong breeze as it passes, it is a woman.

The blown-up balloon dress has a new air of risk and requires a certain daring challenge to a real man. He never knows when a sudden gust of wind may swirl her drapery around him and smother him before bystanders can rush to his aid.

Another thing I find entrancing in the new style is the sense of mystery it gives a woman. You can never tell what will be her next move — as she has to take four steps before the dress begins to billow, too. It also lends some of the entrancing appeal of circus tents: You wonder what could be beneath it all. Perhaps however, the "sack look" weakness is that if their menfolk applauded it women will quickly tire of it, flinging there must be something basically wrong with any fashion that men approve.

But if men keep attacking the style, the girls will simply be inspired to go on with it. And anyone who thinks there can be anything worse than the "sack look" is just plain unversed in the history of past horrors committed by women in the name of fashion.

Lifelong students of women have always been fascinated by the query, "At what period in the long story of the human race did women really look most repulsive?"

Surprisingly, there is pretty general agreement on the answer. It was just 30 years ago, during the Roaring 1920's.

The flapper wore a cloth hat that fitted as closely as a Greek helmet. She wore a shapeless short gunny-sack dress and ornamented it — so help me — with tassels and beads. She rolled her socks below her knees.

And finally — young men won't believe this, but it's true — she wore something called a spit curl.

That was the flapper, an eerie, brass-voiced dame whose dance was a zulu-dervish fit known as the Charleston.

None, fellows, it's better to go quietly along with the sack look until women resent of their own record and go on to other and nobler forms of madness.

But get'em really riled, and they might take the bit in their teeth and decide to become flappers again — just to put us in our place.

A Rumor Going Around

If there's any truth to a rumor passed along this weekend, a group of Greenville rocket enthusiasts had a successful rocket-launching last weekend.

The unverified story I have heard is that their 14-foot rocket "went out of sight" and then returned to earth near the launching site. The return was made without major damage to the rocket, despite a malfunctioning parachute assembly that was supposed to slow the descent.

According to the story, the blast-off was "a perfect launching" and the rocket rose steadily without any trouble. It reportedly disappeared after only a few seconds of flight.

There were supposedly some misgivings when the parachute failed to open, and the group is said to have started departing from the launching site when one of them saw the rocket plow into the ground some distance away.

The impact of the landing is said to have buried 12 feet of the 14-foot missile in the ground, but there was no substantial damage because the area in which the rocket is said to have fallen was soft ground.

From what I can understand, the amateur rocketeers are adults who "deal with scientific situations" in their everyday work. There are no details on how long it took them to assemble the rocket, how they fired it, or who the group members are.

If the story is true, and if any members of the group happen to read this, I'd like to ask to be permitted to watch the group's next rocket-firing, if they plan another. The desire to do so goes a little deeper than idle curiosity, because I believe it would be an out-standing personal experience, and, too, there might be a good story in it. I'll even go so far right now as to promise not to name any names, if the group would prefer it that way.

Now, from rocketry to basketball (is there a connection?) in one quick jump:

I'll take Kansas State in the NCAA basketball tournament this weekend, even with Kentucky in the finals and having the questionable advantage of playing Louisville. K-State apparently has what it takes to be a national championship team.

And that brings to mind this question: When are those UNC fans going to take those little blue "Number One" tags off their cars? They look sorta silly, especially to a Duke fan. Oh, well, let the boys have their fun. They might be good again—sometime.

Strength For Today Other Editors Saying--- Tougher For Teachers

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

ON OUR SIDE AND BEYOND
As John Wesley lay on his deathbed, he raised his arms to heaven and cried: "But the best of all is, God is with us."

That noble declaration has been quoted millions of times in the past century and three quarters. John Wesley was born into an English generation that had about given up all pretense of Christianity. Vitality had gone out of religion to such an extent that the churches were empty and clergymen everywhere treated with contempt.

When Wesley died, a very old man, he had the satisfaction of seeing religion restored in England to its rightful place. And his followers for generations would quote his words: "But the best of all is, that God is with us."

Yet this is only one half of a glorious and very arresting truth. God is with us and on our side, but He is also on the other side.

Modern Christianity lays almost its entire emphasis upon the practical aspects of religion. Christianity is often regarded by world leaders primarily as a moral improvement enterprise. It is designed to make the world a better place in which to live.

But Jesus was always talking about heaven. He tried to bring heaven down onto the earth, but he also kept pointing men to the heaven above and to God who reigns there.

God is here. He is on our side. But He is also on the other side — on the other side of sound and space and time.

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

A scientist has put his finger on one weak spot in American education which most educators carefully skirt. Dr. Samuel K. Allison, director of the Enrico Fermi Institute for Nuclear Studies at the University of Chicago, deplors the lack of interesting teaching in his field of physics, both in high schools and colleges. He makes this highly interesting comment:

"A recent survey in one large California city showed that there were almost no physics teachers in the high schools who had ever had a college course in physics. They had all gone to teachers' colleges and taken courses in 'How to Teach Physics' but that was all. How can such teaching inspire students to go into the field?" This is not the first time the curriculum of teachers' colleges has come in for criticism. But since educators hesitate to berate their alma maters, little attention has been paid.

The criticism is that too much emphasis is placed on the "how" courses, and not enough on the "what" subjects. Methods courses are essential for teachers, but open-minded teachers will agree that in too many cases methods courses are piled on methods courses, almost to the exclusion of the courses in basic subjects which the future teacher may need.

Through the years in efforts to upgrade the teaching profession, more and more emphasis has been placed on higher degrees—with position and pay often depending on the number of degrees acquired. Yet often the additional training consists of more methods courses instead of a deeper delving into the subjects actually taught by the teacher.

As the American public takes the longer, harder post-Sputnik look at education which teachers and school administrators themselves are encouraging, the educators may be embarrassed at evidence turned up of the shaky foundations too many teachers have in the very subjects they are employed to teach. The public, which is insisting now that students be given hard work in basic subjects, may commence demanding that teachers do the same.

Oh, well, let the boys have their fun. They might be good again—sometime.

This Thing Is Going In Circles

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Beginning to feel squirrely? It's them Russians again. They just came up with an idea that was good propaganda, set the Democrats and Republicans to waiting, and left everybody exactly no place.

This was the idea: The United Nations should control outer space. The Democrats complained they had the idea first, that the Soviets grabbed it, and that the Eisenhower administration should have grabbed it before the Soviets.

To all of which Secretary of State Dulles reacted like a man saying: "What's all this I'm hearing? It was the President's idea."

Actually the Soviets came up with two ideas. Together the Democrats and Republicans jumped on the second one. But, since the Soviets made it an all-or-nothing proposition, the score is: 0. In their current literary marathon on peace and a summit meeting, Eisenhower has written Premier Bulganin three letters. Bulganin has written him four. Both men have spent some time writing about outer space.

Last Jan. 12 Eisenhower suggested "we agree that outer space be used only for peaceful purposes." This was pretty vague. No mention of the U.N. but on Jan. 14 Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Democratic Senate boss, did mention the U.N.

He proposed this country take the initiative in suggesting before the U.N. that all nations "join in the adventure into outer space together." No matter what he had in mind, Johnson didn't quite say the U.N. should control outer space.

Once again, when he wrote Bulganin Feb. 15, Eisenhower omitted mention of the U.N. but vaguely, he talked of "cooperative international procedures to give reality to the idea of the use of outer space for peace only."

Even vaguer than Eisenhower, and both were vaguer than Johnson, was on Feb. 3 called for a "joint exploration of outer space by the United Nations."

And that wasn't specific either. Bulganin never went beyond saying the Soviet Union was "ready" or "prepared" to examine the question of banning "cosmic space for military purposes."

But the Soviets pulled a fast one March 15. They bypassed the letter-writing campaign.

The Soviet Foreign Office issued a statement, made public at once to get the maximum propaganda benefit, proposing the U.N. control not only outer space but also the "elimination" of American overseas bases. This was a one-package deal.

Democrats and Republicans promptly turned it down: this country wants those overseas bases from which American bombers could hit the Soviet Union in a hurry if the Soviets attacked.

But the Democrats indignantly protested that Eisenhower certainly should have used the first half of the proposal — U.N. control of outer space — which they said Johnson had come up with first. Dulles, right after returning from Asia, recalled that Eisenhower had proposed international control of outer space. Did he? If that's what he had in mind, he didn't say it in so many words. But neither did Johnson.

But there's a real joker in this: If the United States and the Soviet Union ever did agree to let the U.N. have outer space control, both countries would probably be running a regular trolley service to the moon before they ever got down to agreeing on just how the U.N. would do the controlling. Both countries have been talking in the U.N. for 12 years on disarmament and have produced a complete blank. It's even reached the point where the Soviet Union is refusing to discuss disarmament in the U.N.

Gun 'Shakedown' For Legislators

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A state legislator, who asked his name not be used, said Sergeant-at-Arm Delbert Vaughn took pistols from two other legislators during a late session of the House of Representatives yesterday.

There was no fuss, but three state detectives were assigned to the corridors just in case. Vaughn took the pistols after being tipped the two lawmakers were flourishing them playfully in the hallways. The last time a gun was pulled in the Kentucky Legislature was in 1950. The sergeant-at-arms of the House drew one when two representatives got into a fight.

Debate Is Sharpened By Industrial Output Drop

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The drop in industrial output — greater percentage-wise than in either the 1953-54 or 1949 recessions—sharpens the debate today over what the federal government can or should do about it.

The President is conferring today with a group of governors to discuss the role of the states. Without taking sides, let's look at the pros and cons of the various proposals: tax cutting or public works; easier money or bolstering purchasing power of the dollar; reliance on the present cushions and stabilizers or increasing them greatly so that the public purse refills the emptying private purse.

Advocates of individual, corporate and excise tax cuts say this would put money at once into the pockets of consumers for spending, business for expanding, and should lower prices on some goods subject to excise levies. Opponents say there is no guarantee that the tax savings would be spent. The resultant increase in the federal debt they fear would nourish inflation and resultant higher prices would offset any tax savings.

Sponsors of public works say that it would make jobs and the benefits would spread. Others say public works take too long getting started, that such made work often pays the men less than they got at their old trade and leaves them disinclined to become big spenders until the old jobs reopen. Cheaper money advocates are counting heavily on bolstering home building and plant expansion that way. Credit already has been made easier and interest rates have slipped. But some hold this must be stepped up to be effective. Those who fear going much further say it could easily spawn speculative construction and speculative business enterprises. They see the threat of faster climbing prices.

In between are the moderates who urge that present cushions be tried a little longer; the unemployment benefits, the already easier money, and the Treasury deficit being built up by reduced tax collections whether government spending goes up or not. If these don't work they urge building the cushions a little higher: bigger or longer benefit payments; speeding up of public works already scheduled; token tax cuts; further easing of mortgage terms.

At the far end of the spectrum are the few who doubt if government actions will have much effect; who say the change in consumer and business spending habits came long before the recession hit the headlines; that a temporarily surfeited economy needs only time for digestion before solving its own ills in its own way. And this they argue is the surest and safest.

Emergency Exit Out Of Airliner

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Nineteen persons escaped injury at Municipal Airport yesterday when they had to use an emergency exit to escape from an airliner which landed with one engine smoking badly due to an oil line break. The 16 passengers and three crew members left the Trans World Airlines plane by a canvas emergency chute. The flight originated at Newark, N.J.

Actor-Golfer Survives Crash

DENVER (AP)—Joe Kirkwood, 35, the movies' Joe Palooka, escaped injury last night when he crash-landed his light plane at Municipal Airport. He said the landing gear failed to function.

Kirkwood, a pro golfer in Hollywood, continued by commercial airliner to Columbus, Ohio, where he is scheduled to appear at the opening of a new Joe Palooka movie.

Not Fattening, It's The Gravy

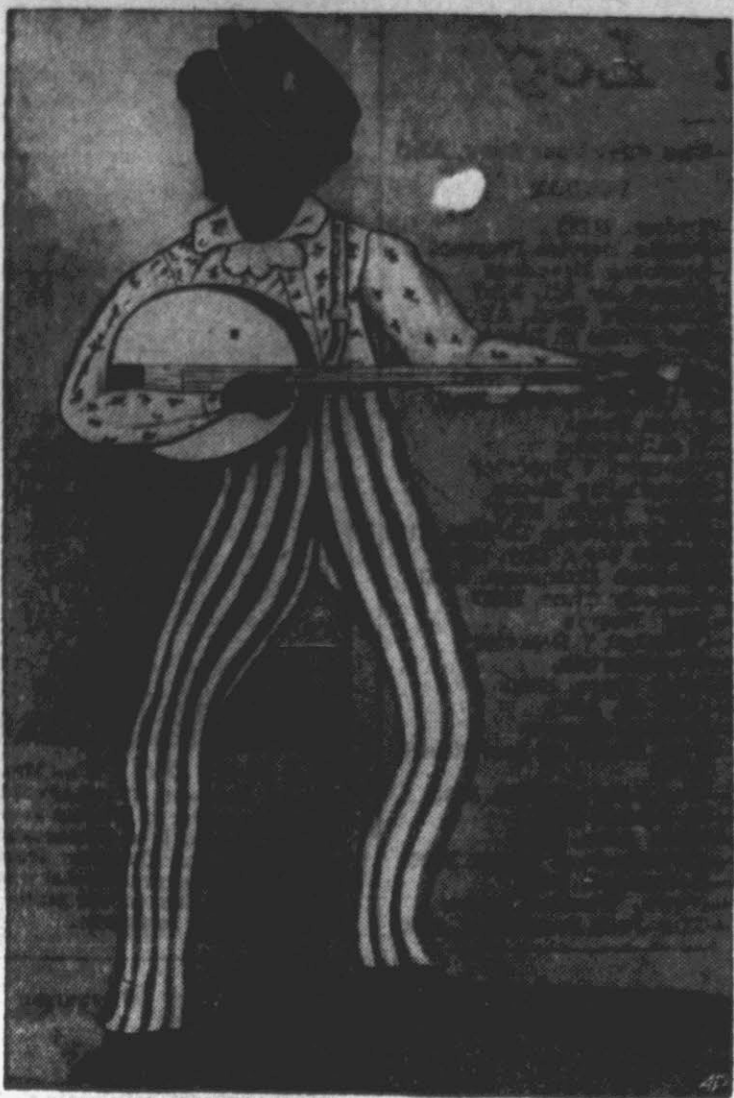

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—The potato isn't fattening; it's the gravy. That's the word of Agriculture Department Economist

"MINSTREL BANJO PLAYER" is one of the paintings in folk art exhibit which will hang in U. S. pavilion at the Brussels Fair opening April 17.

Folk Art Will Be Shown Overseas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The artists' names will create no stir, but the Smithsonian Institution guarantees that American visitors will have no cause to hang their heads while touring the American folk art exhibit at the Brussels World's Fair.

Chosen as typical examples of folk art in this country, the group of 70 paintings and sculptures is largely the work of unknown or little known 18th and 19th century "week-end artists."

But their lack of fame is no gauge of the present-day price tag on their products. Some of the quaintly crude paintings are valued as high as $35,000.

"It is amazing how the early American settlers began painting soon after they got here. They painted very well, too," said Mrs. John A. Pope, chief of the Smithsonian Institution's traveling exhibition service.

Mrs. Pope, who cajoled various museums into lending the pictures for display at the Brussels fair opening April 17, said in an interview that most foreigners — and many Americans — have no idea that the United States has such a rich store of early folk art. "We sent a collection to the 1954 summer festival at Lucerne, Switzerland, and the people were greatly impressed," she said. "It was something totally new to them."

One of the standouts of the folk art exhibit which will be hung in the U. S. pavilion is a painting called "Minstrel Banjo Player," executed by an artist who signed his name D. Morrill. It was loaned by Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford, Conn.

Preferred Beach To His Family

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—The daughter of television comedians George Burns and Gracie Allen has obtained a divorce on testimony her husband preferred beach life to family life.

Mrs. Sandra Jean Wilhoite, 23, testified in support of her cruelty charge that Young James Wilhoite, 28, film production executive, spent "a lot of time at the beach leaving me alone with the children."

Miami Manhunt

A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

CHAPTER 23

I watched Tom Lear closely. You were about to say something more about Joan Morris," I said. "I wasn't going to say anything more about Joan Morris!" Lear said. "We were through, Dolan. And I'd think you'd be the last guy to want to hear anything about Joan Morris!"

"Skip it," I said wearily. I'd put the Lear-Morris relationship on the list of unfinished business. I couldn't stand here barefooted, hungry, wet and miserable, in the middle of some desolate island, with a very unstable citizen waving the muzzle of a .30-30 at me — and solve her murder.

"All right," Lear said. "I'm through talking. You cut me in and we pick up the cash and fly out of here. Or you or Marta stays here, face down in the mud, and the other goes with me. It doesn't make any difference to me. What do you say?"

I turned to Marta.

She stared at me, her eyes questioning. "It's your decision, Brad."

"Look at it this way: maybe it's a break. Maybe the guy's making sense. We couldn't hold out here much longer anyway!"

She took the ball and ran with it. "If it suits you, it suits me. Miami! Warm baths and clean clothes and steaks and hairdressers! Let's go!"

"Let me be the first to congratulate you," Lear said. The levity didn't become him. "Down the stream, please."

Marta and I turned. As we did there was the startling sound — startling, I suppose, because of the strain we were under — of a breaking branch. The sound had come from some hidden point just behind and to the left of Lear. The area there was thick with trees and rocks. For a split second Marta and I froze where we were, bodies tensed. And then, slowly, we relaxed.

Lear shouted at us angrily, as if he thought the sound had been some sort of a plan of ours to disconcert him, rather than a noise made by some frightened animal, or of a rotten tree limb falling. "Pull out, and don't try any tricks!"

We headed down the stream toward the beach. Lear wasn't exactly a fool. He kept us walking more or less abreast and he walked six or eight yards behind us. He kept the rifle cradled in both hands, ready to use. I hadn't gone fifty feet before the unpleasant thought struck me that Lear was just waiting for a chance to shoot me down. He'd admitted he didn't need me. And if he still thought we might give him trouble it was a cinch he'd realized he'd have a much better chance of landing Marta, alone. I was convinced he'd planned it so neither of us lived to get inside that airplane, anyway.

For what seemed hours and was probably twenty minutes I braced myself for the shot that didn't come. And then I thought the devil with it and stopped worrying.

When we reached the beach we stopped for a rest. Marta was limping again and I'd asked Lear for a break. Marta and I sat on the beach. Lear stood guard eight yards away.

"What about this beach?" I asked him. "Won't they see us?"

"Uh, uh. Not a chance. "Aren't they out looking for us? Marta and me?"

"Not today. I don't know whether they've given you up, think you drowned when you went off the Teresa, or whether they've just decided to let you sweat it out for awhile. Anyhow, they called off their search parties."

"Maybe they found the cash. That would be a switch, wouldn't it? After all this?"

"If they've found it, they found it since I've been gone today. Maniel and Alfredo were still looking for it this morning. They've been over that place, inside and out, with a fine tooth comb. It's driving them crazy!"

"Too bad they won't be around when we get it. Just so they'd know where they should have looked. That would really drive 'em crazy!"

"Yeah," he said. "That's real too bad!"

I turned to Marta. "How are the feet, baby?"

"All right," she said. "I'll make it."

"Let me see." I looked at the sole of her foot. The sole was swollen, blue in spots and there were a half dozen little cuts. But there was nothing seriously wrong. The other foot was the same.

Lear came closer and waved the muzzle of his gun. "On your feet, now! Let's go!"

"Wait a minute," I said. "There's one thing we haven't talked about. We're in for a storm. What if we're weathered in tonight? What if we can't fly?" I asked the question simply because I thought he might expect it.

"It's just a squall blowing in. I'll blow over before we're ready to fly. If it doesn't you can hide in the Beechcraft until I can fly it."

It was dark by the time we reached the southern end of the island. Heavy surf was pounding at the reef and spilling over into the ordinarily placid lagoon and churning it into a frenzy. The wind was blowing a gale and the first few scudding raindrops lashed at us. We left the beach and went into the thick grove of coconut palms behind it. Through the trees we could see lights in the house. We moved slowly now, cautiously, from the cover of one tree to the cover of the next one nearer the house.

I was conscious of Lear's every move behind me. I'd had no chance to take him over while we'd been on the beach. The guy was alert; I'd give him that; he had taken — and was taking — no chances. Time was running out on us. I'd have to make my move soon; and from now on, quietly.

We were less than a hundred yards from the house now. A guard, a rifle slung to his shoulder, leaned against a tree to one side of the steps to the front porch.

"Hold it!" Lear whispered.

We stopped. We turned. Lear wasn't more than five yards from us. He held the rifle easily in two hands, the muzzle pointed to one side, his finger outside the guard. Five yards. I made a quick mental calculation. I could cover the five yards in one quick lunge. With an outstretched arm I could slap the muzzle off target. But would he have time to fire? I didn't know. Probably he would. And the sound of that one shot would be all it would take to cook our goose.

I relaxed. I'd have to wait.

"Marta," Lear whispered. "The cash is inside, isn't it?"

She hesitated for a split second. "Yes."

"Where? Which room?"

"Don't tell him, Marta!" I said. "You're a suspicious bum, Dolan! We're in this thing together, aren't we?"

"Then give me the gun. Or give it to Marta."

"Don't be a fool! Look. In ten minutes that guard goes for chow. There're half a dozen entrances to that house. I've got to make a plan. I've got to know where the money is!"

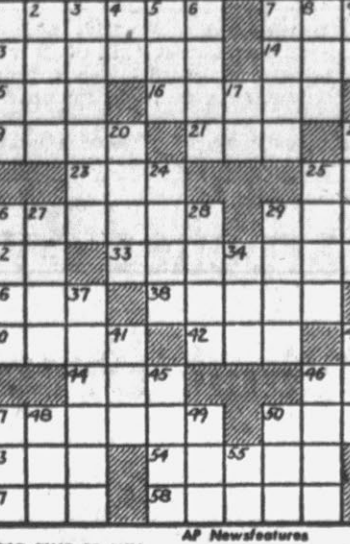

"It's... it's downstairs," Marta said. "It's in the living room."

She was stalling him. She was letting me run the show, taking her cues from me as best she could...

"The door creaked slightly open. The muzzle, then the barrel of a rifle appeared. Then hands, arms, head, and finally the torso of the guard," the story continues here tomorrow.

Seeking Divorce From His Marie

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Millionaire shoeman Harry Karl has filed a divorce suit against actress Marie McDonald, who last Tuesday recanted her charges that he arranged her 1957 kidnapping.

Charging cruelly, Karl said in the petition that it is impossible for the couple to live as husband and wife because Miss McDonald "issued false statements to the press accusing him of a capital offense."

During the couple's 11-year marriage they have been divorced twice. They have three children, Denise, 8, and Harrison, 7, both adopted, and Tina Marie, 18 months.

Vanguard Given Sour Reception

WASHINGTON (AP)—As far as the Communist press and radio are concerned, Vanguard I is just a sour grapefruit-sized satellite.

The Navy's successful launching of its tiny test moon is being reported behind the Iron Curtain.

But the reports from Moscow, Peiping and other Communist places emphasize Vanguard's past failures. They give short shrift to the Vanguard's success last Monday.

The Communist East German report started out with the words "After several abortive attempts, ..."

It pooch-pooched the size of the test satellite, saying Vanguard I was "jocularly described as a grapefruit by the Americans themselves."

The Peiping dispatch started out "After failure in a number of experiments, ..."

Moscow played it straight, simply reporting the Vanguard launch and successful orbiting. But the Moscow report took twice as much space to record Vanguard's earlier failures as well as postponements prior to the successful shot.

Unicycle Proves A 'Step-Saver'

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A Michigan State University student has a unique solution to the problem of getting from class to class on the sprawling MSU campus here.

Bob Johnson, a senior from Clawson, Mich., discovered his ability to balance a unicycle is a step-saver. What's more, Johnson says, a unicycle is the only means of transportation not under regulation. Although students are not permitted to ride bicycles on the sidewalks, he claims no law prohibits his one-wheeler.

Johnson says steering is all with the hips. He rides with hands free to carry books. "And I haven't hit anyone yet," he says.

Resume Work On AEC Test Site

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Workmen return today to the two-million-dollar construction job on the Atomic Energy Commission's Jackass Flats test site. Construction halted last Thursday when 21 workers walked off after a foreman had been fired.

At a hearing yesterday before Dist. Judge Frank McNamee, the Sierra Construction Corp. and the Hod Carriers Union agreed to arbitrate the dispute.

The job is on a site where nuclear rocket propulsion systems will be ground-tested.

Pen Pal Bulganin Charges West Rushing War Plans

LONDON (AP) — The Western Allies' most prolific and most troublesome pen pal charged today that the West is rushing war preparations while delaying a summit conference by insisting on discussion of unacceptable terms.

Soviet Premier Bulganin's fresh wording of old demands and accusations came in another letter to Prime Minister Macmillan, made public today.

Bulganin gave no hint that the Kremlin is willing to modify its conditions for the summit talks which it proposed originally.

Progress toward the meeting of government heads is now stalled by the inability of the Soviets and the West to agree on either what will be talked about or the level at which to open preliminary negotiations.

Bulganin's letter replied to one Macmillan had sent him Feb. 8 in reply to one Bulganin sent him Jan. 9. Macmillan also wrote Bulganin Jan. 17 but that one answered a Bulganin letter of Dec. 11.

This time the Soviet Premier wrote that the West is rushing "war preparations which cannot but worsen the international situation." He cited the recent agreement for U.S. intermediate range missiles to be based in Britain and plans to place the nuclear warhead weapons in some other nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

He said "it is now more than ever necessary to refrain from all measures of a military nature" which might complicate holding a summit conference.

Officials in London and Washington concluded that the main purpose of the letter was another attack on America's supplying nuclear missiles to its European allies. The request "to refrain" apparently meant the Allies should not modernize their defenses while waiting for Soviet summit promises.

Bulganin accused the West of delaying a summit conference by holding out for discussion of issues "known to be unacceptable."

President Eisenhower has proposed, Macmillan has endorsed and the Kremlin has refused discussions on restoration of political freedom in satellite East Europe and restrictions on use of the veto in the U.N. Security Council.

Cancer Society Elects Officers

MRS. R. P. ROGERS
... new president

Mrs. R. P. Rogers was elected President of the Pitt County Unit of the American Cancer Society at a recent meeting of the organization's Board of Directors.

Mrs. Rogers will serve for a two-year term. Others officers are: Executive Secretary, Mrs. C.E. Blair; First Vice-President, Dr. Frank H. Longino; Second Vice-President, K.T. Futrell; Treasurer, W.H. Woodard; Service Chairman, Mrs. J.R. Jackson and Miss Julia Fisher; Publicity, James S. Jenkins; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Wilber Worthington of Ayden; and Medical Advisor, Dr. J.L. Winstead.

According to reports plans are being made and are near completion for the 1958 independent Cancer Crusade to be staged in Pitt County during the month of April. Dr. Edwin W. Monroe is county chairman for this year's campaign.

The Crusade will begin with a worker's dinner meeting to be held March 27 in the Greenville Woman's Club building. Dr. Monroe stated that he expects a representative from towns and communities throughout the county.

Bookmobile Is Still Large Contributor To Enjoyment

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of three articles written by local citizens in conjunction with National Library Week. Today's article was written by Mrs. Edward Mayo of Falkland.)

Pitt County has many cultural assets of which we are justly proud. The Pitt County Bookmobile makes a definite contribution to this cultural pattern for the county's 65,000 citizens.

During this National Library Week when special attention is being focused upon the values of reading, let us take a look at the Bookmobile as one of the media available to help us Wake Up and Read.

The Bookmobile is operated by the Sheppard Memorial Library and financed by state and county appropriations. The city of Greenville also helps toward the total operation by furnishing headquarters, janitorial aid, and other services.

Bookmobile services are available to every section of the county. Schools, libraries, stores, filling stations, churches, community buildings, homes, and cross roads — anywhere that serves as a gathering place for people — can be used for the approximately 200 stops the Bookmobile makes each month.

"Here comes the Bookmobile" are familiar words to most of Pitt County's school children. Regular visits are made to 18 white schools. The Bookmobile is an important supplement to each school's library.

Four of the county's public libraries are furnished books by the Bookmobile. They are those at Farmville, Ayden, Bethel, and Fountain.

It is gratifying to know that the Pitt County Bookmobile has an average monthly circulation of 2000 books.

American people are having more time for recreation and pleasure than ever before. Nothing can give more real enjoyment than reading. Entertainment, stimulation, and relaxation are its rewards. Are Pitt Countians taking for themselves the knowledge and pleasure offered by the Bookmobile? Are they encouraging their children to take advantage of the opportunities it offers them? If not, then this National Library Week should have a special appeal. Remember that the Bookmobile, with its services, is available to all. Visit it at the stop nearest your home. Meet the enthusiastic and efficient librarians, Mrs. Gladys Galloway and Mrs. Myrtle Britley. Their enthusiasm is contagious! You will leave with more books than you had planned to borrow.

STRAY AUTO

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP)—Arlo Jackson reported his car stolen. Later he amended the report to strayed. It seems the car had been parked on a hill. It rolled down, cut across a yard and came to a halt near a garage hidden from the street. The wandering automobile was found the next day.

Deadlocked By Giraffe Appetite

WASHINGTON (AP)—A lady giraffe with an unladylike appetite has eaten her way into a new deadlock with the Department of Agriculture.

The department wants to collect $2,100—mostly for food—from her owners before releasing her from the Clifton, N.J., government quarantine station.

Authorities said it costs as much as $125 a month to feed her. The remainder went for housing in a heated barn.

The giraffe was brought to the United States in September 1956 by a private zoo at Boca Raton, Fla.

The quarantine branch took the view she could be released only to an approved zoological park under acceptable government control. The Agriculture Department said it was afraid the giraffe, although free from disease, might be a potential carrier of foot and mouth disease.

The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled last month that the secretary of agriculture acted arbitrarily in refusing to let the giraffe move on to the zoo.

Ernest C. Tucker, attorney representing the private zoo, took the court's release order to the Department of Agriculture.

"They looked at it and said that was nice. But then they said they wanted $2,100 before I could have her," he said.

"It's like being in jail. The court decides you shouldn't have been there but then the jailer wants you to pay for the food you ate."

The court suggested Tucker give another try at settling things and return if he can't.

Wisteria Vine Inside His Home

HEBRON, Ind. (AP) — Clarence Phillips has a wisteria vine growing on the inside wall of his home—but it's not his idea.

The vine popped up through the floor when Phillips added a new room to the house. He cut it off three times, but the persistent plant kept returning. Phillips finally got used to it.

Camera News

"SOUND-SLIDE" set-up is shown here with its originator, James Cleary, checking a slide. Two automatic projectors are coupled to a sliding V-shaped mask which blends the 35mm color slides in a continuous flow of pictures.

By IRVING DESFOR AP Newsfeatures
One of the most ingenious presentations of a color slide program was an enjoyable feature of the recent 12th Annual Photographic Show held in New York's Coliseum. Called "Sound-Slides," it was originated, developed and presented by James C. Cleary of the Westchester, N.Y., Color Camera Club.
Basically, the system projects standard 35 mm color slides to a magnetic tape recording. The outstanding difference is the unique use of two coupled projects with a home-made sliding mask which blends successive slides either slowly and imperceptibly or abruptly for dramatic impact. At the same time, the slides are tightly keyed to a special sound track which incorporates commentary and music.

As the audience viewed the slides, there was a continuous flow of pictures. The screen does not black out nor is there ever a white glare. In most sequences one image seems to melt away as a new slide is gradually revealed. As a change of pace, however, there is often a crisp change from slide to slide to lend emphasis to the script.

The particular program, "Manhattan in Color," revealed that Cleary was a successful photographer as well as an inventor. His photographs captured many of the city's highlights in architecture, human interest and humorous sidelights in both daylight and in dramatic night shots.

After a sound-slide presentation, there is usually a circle of curious camera fans which surrounds Cleary and his ingenious device. To save repetitious explanations, he now resorts to his own system and presents a short slide presentation showing how the device works in close-up detail. It also explains how it can be adapted by any color slide fan to his own pictures.
The close-ups show that Cleary uses two standard 500-watt Viewlex automatic projectors. They are side-by-side on a platform with the sliding mask device in front of their lenses. The sliding mask is V-shaped and is moved by the projectionist from one side to the other side. This movement covers and uncovers, partially or fully, each lens in each projector thereby revealing alternately the slides in each projector. The rate of movement, slow to fast, governs whether the pictures melt into each other or change abruptly.
The two projectors are focussed in advance on one central spot so there is no shifting of picture area at any time. The projectionist governs the tempo of the slide changes according to a pre-arranged script or sound track on tape.
As you may well imagine, the present ingenious system is the culmination of many years' effort. The idea began to take root from the moment Jim Cleary was able to buy one of the first tape recorders available almost ten years ago. The automatic projectors are the latest improvement

Livestock Men Believe Beef Prices Near Top

CHICAGO (AP)—Beef prices still are climbing but livestock men believe they are very near the peak.

Prices of slaughter steers at the Chicago stockyards have advanced as much as $1 a hundred-weight on each of the last two days due to light receipts. The scarce prime grade of slaughter steers sold for $39 a hundred-weight in Chicago yesterday, highest in six years.

The sharpest upturn has been in top grades, classified as prime and high choice, seldom found at retail in supermarkets. These grades usually reach the consumer through the best hotels and restaurants. They constitute about 3 per cent of slaughter steers now offered to packers.

Good and choice grades are far more plentiful, about 90 per cent of the supply. These grades are expected to become more abundant soon.

The prime or high choice steak you eat in a good hotel or restaurant is the best that livestock men know how to produce. They had that steer on grain feedings—mostly corn—for as long as eight months or perhaps 11 months.

The steak from a choice grade steer is produced in only four to seven months of grain feeding and often it is not as much of the high quality grain which goes to the high choice or prime steer, and the good grade of steer usually has been on grain feed only two or three months. Prior to the heavy grain feeding the choice and good grades may have been mainly on a hay or grass feed.

There are some seasons when high choice and prime grades are sold in retail stores at bargain prices.

These cuts, however, will not be in retail markets before summer since prime beef will continue scarce until late spring.

because till now he has been dependent on individual slide changing by hand.

One of his greatest feats, in December, 1957, was to present 850 slides using his sound-slide-on-tape with the dual-dissolve projectors for the Westchester International Color Slide Exhibition.

Lately, his reputation has spread beyond the borders of Westchester County, N.Y., and he has been invited to give the show in the northeastern part of the country bringing his sound-slide programs to camera clubs.

It might also lead to a new photographic career for him as received, and fulfilled, several commissions to produce complete sound-slide shows for civic and industrial clients.

Atomic Blast In Demolition Kits

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army apparently has small nuclear explosive kits for sabotaging an enemy's bridges, tunnels, factories and other installations or impeding his advance in a war zone.

They have to be small, perhaps almost small enough to be carried in a suitcase.

Cryptic reference to the "atomic demolition material" is contained in an otherwise routine, nonsecret regulation issued recently.

Officials declined to discuss the matter, other than to confirm the existence of the atomic demolition equipment, as mentioned in the regulation, and to say it was developed jointly by Army ordnance and the Atomic Energy Commission.

However, there were some obvious points.

To be of any value, atomic demolition material would have to be highly transportable by a few men moving about under cover or under pressure from an advancing enemy.

For big demolition jobs, large, bulky quantities of TNT and other standard explosives have been required.

With conventional explosives, a large bridge is toppled by blowing away piers and other supporting equipment. An enemy can rebuild such damage quickly.

But an atomic explosion, even of the comparatively low-yield blasts presumably designed into the A-kits, would blow a bridge or tunnel to bits, destroying all the structure and its abutments. Similarly, a single atomic shot would collapse a long length of tunnel or blow apart even a large factory or railroad marshaling yard.

Brushes Aside Student Plaintiff

LONDON (AP)—Air Minister George Ward has brushed off a student magazine's charge that British planes cross the Iron Curtain and to say it was developed jointly by Army ordnance and the Atomic Energy Commission.

"There are stringent precautions to prevent penetration of the frontier area between East and West Europe by any aircraft," Ward said in answer to a Laborite challenge in the House of Commons.

Laborite Frank Allaun had taken up the report, which first appeared in the Oxford University student magazine Isis and was attributed to an unidentified ex-serviceman.

Jumped 2 Floors When Bed Afire

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—Gerald A. Fleming, 51, awoke to find his bed in flames.

He jumped out the window. His room was on the fourth floor of the Pueblo Athletic Club. Fortunately, he landed on a second-floor ledge.

Ray Smith, a tenant, pulled him into his room and called the fire department.

After recovering from a bruised back and arms and slightly burned legs, Fleming will answer to a police court charge of smoking in bed.

He said all he remembered was that "when I saw the fire, I jumped."

In The Know On City Speed Laws

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP)—Alfred M. Pence, fined $10 on a charge of speeding on Laramie streets, is appealing his conviction to district court.

Pence says restricted speed laws are not in effect at 7:15 a.m., the time he was arrested. Pence is the Laramie city attorney.

Kentucky's Cox Breaks A Finger On Eve Of NCAA

Bad Blow For Wildcats On Eve Of Temple Tilt

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky's Johnny Cox has re-injured a finger on his right hand, but he's expected to be ready to play against Temple tomorrow night in the NCAA Basketball Championships.

Cox's finger was painfully swollen yesterday and he missed practice. The Wildcats, Temple and Kansas State are due to arrive today and hold practice sessions at 1.5-seat Freedom Hall.

Seattle, the other finalist, arrived last night. Coach John Castellani said, "Everybody is in good shape."

Temple Coach Harry Litwack said his high scorer, Guy Rodgers will be in good shape after a strained back last week.

Castellani said Seattle's battle with Kansas State in the second game tomorrow night "probably will depend on the question of rebounding."

Kentucky and Temple open the battle for the title. The winners meet Saturday night in the finals. Meanwhile, some 400 coaches arrived here for the 32nd annual National Assn. of Basketball Coaches convention.

One of the most controversial questions being batted about by coaches is the 24-second rule which the pros use, requiring a player to shoot or pass within 24 seconds of getting the ball. Some want it adopted for college play. One coach, Phil Woolpert of San Francisco, definitely is against the proposed rule.

"If they passed a rule like that, I would do one of two things—I quit or use a zone defense, and I hate a zone," he said.

"What the game really needs," Woolpert added, "is to leave the rules alone for a year and let everybody catch up with what's going on."

Watch Ferraris And 2 Sleepers

By BEN FUNK
SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—The always dangerous Ferraris of Italy and two "sleepers" from England—Aston-Martin and Lister Jaguar—will be in the spotlight in Saturday's Florida Grand Prix of endurance, the top North American sports car race.

Ferrari, with a three-car entry from the factory in Modena, Italy, and drivers from the cream of the world's crop, must be given a favored role in the 12-hour speed battle.

The Italian factory won the world's championship last year and took the lead this year with a one-two finish in the 1,000-kilometer race January 26 in Buenos Aires, the first of seven races on the world's championship calendar. Sebring is the second.

Many experts here think, however, that Aston-Martin and Lister Jaguar may pull a surprise in the Sebring race. Both cars are unknown quantities in racing competition but both are arousing a lot of interest.

The Aston-Martin factory in Feltham, England, has entered two cars that are reported to be vastly improved over anything the company has previously sent into competition. And the firm has enlisted as its top driver Stirling Moss, the skillful Briton who is famous for his ability to drive the most of any car he gets.

Yesterday, in the first practice runs over the 5.2 mile Sebring course which twists and turns around and abandoned air terminal, Moss was clocked on one lap at 3 minutes 23.6 seconds.

The lap record for the course in official competition, set last year by Jean Behra of France in the winning Italian Maserati, was 3:24.5.

Moss will share driving time in one of the Aston-Martins with Tony Brooks of Dukinfield, England. The other will be driven by Carroll Shelby of Dallas, Tex., and Roy Salvadori of Tolworth, England.

One of the Lister Jaguars, which has a D-Jaguar engine and a new, lighter shell designed by Brian Lister of Cambridge, England, will be driven by Archie

Harbor Springs Made Merry

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich. (AP)—The roll of drums and the blare of bugles cut through the early morning stillness today as hilarious Harbor Springs made merry on a continued basketball binge.

An American Legion drum and bugle corps escorted Harbor Springs High's victorious team back into town around midnight after it advanced to the semifinals of the Class C state high school tournament by beating Crystal Falls 57-50.

Two weeks ago, when Harbor Springs won its district tournament for the first time in 16 years, there was dancing on Main Street at 2 a.m. Then many on the high school's faculty changed their hairdos. The men suddenly became crewcuts, some in full view of a school assembly, and the women became flaming red-heads.

When the team won its regional playoffs, junior coeds dyed their hair blonde and seniors two-toned their locks orange and black—the school colors.

Harbor Springs' semifinal game is tomorrow.

Medal Play Set To Begin Today

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Medal play in the 13th annual Azalea Invitational Amateur Golf Tournament opened today in fair weather.

Heading the field tomorrow will be defending champion Bill Thornton of Tequesta, Fla., who qualifies automatically for the championship flight of 16.

The medal play tourney is being staged on the par 71 Charleston Country Club course.

Thornton won with 290 last year, when Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C. was runner up.

The title flight of 16 will be boiled down from 48 low scorers on the qualifying round, after another 18 holes of play.

The tourney will end Sunday.

Oriole's O'dell About Ready To Prove Talents

By JOHN CHANDLER
The Associated Press

This could be the year the Baltimore Oriole can quit "nursing along" Billy O'Dell, the southpaw pitcher who jumped right out of Clemson College in 1954 via the bonus route and into a major league uniform.

O'Dell, only 25, became the first hurler in the majors to go nine innings this spring when he defeated the Chicago Cubs with a 7-hitter yesterday at Mesa, Ariz. Of course, O'Dell played in the Cuban winter league, and is further advanced than other mounds-men.

Chicago scored three runs off O'Dell in the first inning, two coming on Lee Walls' home run, but the young lefty from Newberry, S.C., blanked the Cubs from then on.

Five games were cancelled, all in Florida, because of rain or wet grounds. The Kansas City Athletics defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-7 in 12 innings at Ft. Myers, Fla., and the San Francisco Giants were beaten 6-3 by the Cleveland Indians at Phoenix, Ariz.

O'Dell had a 1-1 record with Baltimore in 1954, when the club said "we'll nurse him along."

In 1955 and through August of 1956 he was in the Army. He had a 4-10 record last year.

Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, former St. Louis Cardinals star southpaw and Oriole's pitching coach, has been tutoring O'Dell since he left college.

O'Dell walked one batter and struck out six Cubs yesterday. He admits he still has a lot to learn.

Brecheen predicted, "He'll be a great one."

Vaughn, Beecham Reach Stalemate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The middleweight series between Willie Vaughn and Jimmy Beecham is still at a stalemate because of a low blow.

They met last night in what was billed as the rubber match in their feud. But they wound up in a draw after 10 blistering rounds. Vaughn would have nailed the decision had it not been for a billy punch in the fourth round. Referee Marty Gallagher, Beecham and many at the scene—Willie excepted—thought the blow landed below Jimmy's waist. It cost Vaughn a point and, as it turned out, the fight.

Gallagher turned in a 94-91 card favoring Beecham, unranked 23-year-old Miami entry. Judge Harry Volkman gave a 99-93 margin to Vaughn, eighth ranked contender from Los Angeles. Judge Mike Tardugno scored it all even, 95-95, and that was fatal to 25-year-old Willie.

Docking Vaughn the penalty point, Tardugno scored the fourth 10-9 for Beecham. One more for Vaughn would have squared that round, given Willie a one-point edge on Tardugno's card at the finish and a 2-1 majority of the officials.

The Associated Press had Vaughn ahead, 95-94, under the system allotting the winner of each round 10 points and the loser 9 or fewer.

While Vaughn and Beecham protested loudly for lack of a decision, neither the Capitol Arena nor TV network audience (ABC) could beef for lack of action.

Gallagher to call off hostilities if the cut widened. Vaughn, patched up between sessions by handier Roy Gardner, made sure it didn't.

There were no knockdowns, but in the third Vaughn staggered Beecham with a whistling left and right. Beecham recovered quickly and kept banging away at the head of his heavier opponent.

Vaughn weighed 160 to Jimmy's 155 1/2. Vaughn won the decision when they first clashed on Feb. 4. One month later Beecham got the nod, and after last night they're still even.

Carmen, Ray Are Tapering Off

CHICAGO (AP)—Challenger Sugar Ray Robinson, close to the 160 pound limit, may take a rest in his training sessions today while Middleweight Champion Carmen Basilio concentrates on road work.

One of Basilio's managers, John DeJohn, said the champion is "tapering off" in drills for his title defense in Chicago Stadium Tuesday night.

"Yeah, I'm tapering off," said Basilio. "I didn't work more than 6-7 rounds yesterday."

Basilio admitted his weight was under 154.

After watching the champion struggle through two fast rounds with Archie Whitfield, 159 1/2, former heavyweight king Joe Louis commented:

"That Basilio is as strong as a bull. And I like his combinations. He doesn't throw just one punch and quit, he throws two or three at a time."

Basilio refused to predict a knockout victory.

"I think I'll win," he said, "but who is going to predict a knockout? Robinson has never been stopped except by Joey Maxim and the heat."

Both fighters passed their pre-fight physical examinations with ease yesterday but there were some verbal fireworks among their spokesmen.

Robinson's advisor, George Gainford, charged Basilio's handlers with using a cut lotion containing chloroform in their September fight in New York Yankee Stadium. They said the stuff got into Robinson's eyes during clinches.

Gainford also charged that grease was applied to Basilio's back and got on Robinson's gloves.

Joe Netro and De John, Basilio's managers, countered by calling the Robinson handlers "a bunch of crybabies."

Bonaventure, Dayton Favored

By BEN OLAN
NEW YORK (AP)—Top-ranked Dayton and third-seeded St. Bonaventure are favored to win semifinal games in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tonight.

But the coaches of the underdog teams think the odds are out of line.

"I don't think my team will cool off—the momentum should keep us going," said coach Jim McCafferty of Xavier (Ohio) which takes on St. Bonaventure in the second game at Madison Square Garden. And, said Joe Lapchick of St. John's, which goes against Dayton in the opener, "The teams are evenly matched."

The Flyers (24-3) are rated four point choices over St. John's (18-8) while St. Bonaventure (20-4) is figured three points better than Xavier (17-11).

St. Bonaventure coach Ed Donovan is worried about Xavier and he has a right to be. The Musketeers from Cincinnati dumped Niagara and then eliminated defending champion Bradley to reach the semis.

Highway Commission Lifts Lid On Building Plans For Next 3 Years

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Highway Commission today gave a preview of its highway construction plans for the next three years.

It released a long list of highway improvements to be undertaken during three-year period "when and if funds become available."

Highway Director W. F. Babcock said the list represents between a third and one-half of the highway construction to be undertaken during the next 36 months. He said additional projects will be considered during a highway commission meeting in Wilmington March 27-28.

Among the major highway construction jobs planned for the period, the commission listed the following:

A new dual-lane, divider highway U.S. 64 from Rocky Mount to Nashville; reconstruction of U.S. 1 from Raleigh to the Chatham County line; addition of a new lane on U.S. 70 from Raleigh to Garner; a grade separation at the intersection of U.S. 220 and U.S. 158 in Guilford County; an additional lane on U.S. 29 from Greensboro to the Rockingham County line; an additional lane on U.S. 229 from Greensboro to the Randolph County line; a new dual lane, divided highway on U.S. 52 from Pilot Mount to Winston-Salem; relocation of U.S. 421 from near Vilas to the Tennessee line; relocation of U.S. 421 from near Yadkinville to point near the Yadkin River; relocation of N.C. 26 from Almond to Wolf Creek.

The commission also authorized right-of-way acquisition for a dual-lane divided highway for U.S. 421 from inland waterway near Carolina Beach to point near Monkey Junction and for a widening of East Lee Street in Greensboro for an extension to connect with the Interstate highway system.

The commission said land will be acquired for relocation of U.S. 19-23 from Asheville to the Madison County line and for a relocation of U.S. 19 between Cherokee and Bryson City. It said work on these projects has been deferred pending further engineering studies.

Urban projects planned for the three-year period include a widening of Broad Street in New Bern from the Neuse River bridge for a distance of about one mile; widening of U.S. 421 in Wilmington from Kentucky Avenue to the southern city limits and along 421 to Shipyard Road; widening and reconstruction of U.S. 64 in Rocky Mount from west city limits to Thomas Street and Sunset Avenue; widening and reconstruction of N.C. 48 and U.S. 158 in Roanoke Rapids from Roanoke Junction to South Rosemary Street; additional lane and curbs and gutters on County Road near Goldsboro to main entrance of Seymour Johnson Air Force Base; widening of U.S. 1 north of Raleigh to intersection with U.S. 401; building of several sections of Raleigh belt line.

Also, grade separation of O. Henry Boulevard and Gatewood drive in Greensboro; the Widener Avenue project in Greensboro from East Market Street to U.S. 220; widening of U.S. 311 in High Point to Interstate highway intersection; by-pass of Asheville on U.S. 220; reconstruction of U.S. 74 from Rockingham to Hamlet; the Marshall-Cherry Street project in Winston-Salem; reconstruction and widening of U.S. 70 in Salisbury towards Statesville for 1.6 miles; rebuilding of U.S. 74 in Shelby from the city limits to Washburn Switch Road and from intersection with N.C. 25 to western city limits of Shelby; widening of Hutchinson Avenue in Charlotte; relocation of U.S. 19-23 by-passing Waynesville; rebuilding of N.C. 90 from Lenoir to the Alexander County line; construction of belt loop from N.C. 18 to U.S. 70 at Morganton.

The commission approved an additional two million dollars for the U.S. 19-23 Asheville Expressway in Asheville, and approved obtaining right-of-way for a U.S. 264 beltline at Wilson and for a relocation of U.S. 19 by-passing Cherokee and Bryson City.

Major bridge projects include: replacement of North River bridge on U.S. 70 near Beaufort; a four-lane bridge over the Inland Waterway on U.S. 421 near Carolina Beach; a new bridge over the Cape Fear River at Lillington; over Lumber River on U.S. 74 at Boardman; over Catawba River on N.C. 49 near Charlotte; over the Laurel River on U.S. 70 in Madison County and over the Pigeon River on U.S. 276 in Haywood County.

Resistant Bacteria Is Claiming Babies' Lives

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A spreading bacterial infection, which resists antibiotics, has claimed the lives of 16 babies in 2 1/2 months in the newborn and premature nurseries at City-County Hospital.

The hospital board of managers said incomplete statistics show at least 81 babies have been infected, and 21 mothers infected in February alone.

The announcement said the bacteria are suspected of a key role in an increased number of pneumonia cases among elderly patients. It was described as the same epidemic strain that has been picked up in other hospitals throughout the country.

Staphylococcus causes a myriad of troubles ranging from boils and abscesses to frequently fatal infections such as blood poisoning, pneumonia and heart valve infections.

The increased threat has come about because the bacteria has become resistant to the most commonly used antibiotics, hospital authorities said.

Ben Taub, chairman of the board of managers, said emergency measures are being taken, but added: "These procedures may not be adequate to control the infection among the newborns and in that event the only alternative may be the re-establishment of the maternity and nursery divisions in entirely new locations."

Large Bull Elk Roamed Streets

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP)—A large bull elk roamed the streets of Jackson for several days this winter before finally given a bum's rush out of town.

Residents of the little resort community just couldn't keep the elk out of the business district. He just kept hanging around.

Finally Wyoming game and fish department crews lassoed him by the antlers and forcibly took him out of town.

RAISE THE LIMIT

NANAIMO, B.C. (AP)—Mrs. J. W. Lindsay, in an address, suggested the legal age for drinking in beverage rooms be set at 30—due to the difficulty in determining the age of minors.

Gun Not For Sale For $2,500 Bid

FORT LEE, N.J. (AP)—Donald R. Toppel won't give up his gun for $2,500.

Toppel spotted the gun in a Newark junk store and recognized it as a rare Paterson Colt revolver. A vice-president of the Fort Lee Arms Collectors Club, Toppel paid $5 for the gun and has since turned down offers of $2,500 for it.

Congress in 1896 made the official American inch four-millionths longer than the Standard British measurement for an inch.

Farmers Cautioned On Soil Bank Compliance

RALEIGH—Farmers who have contracted to participate in either phase of the 1958 Soil Bank Program should remember that they must comply with all acreage allotments for the farm as well as all Soil Bank requirements in order to qualify for payments, Tilman R. Walker, chairman of the ASC State Committee, said today.

A definite program provision, and one that is often overlooked by farmers, requires compliance with all acreage allotments established for the farm. If this requirement is not met, the farmer will be ineligible for payment and he will leave himself liable for further disciplinary action, Walker said.

As an example, Walker pointed out the case of corn growers in our commercial corn counties who do not produce corn for sale and who, for that reason, feel that they might over-plant their corn allotment without any consequences other than loss of price support eligibility. That is not true. If this farmer has any allotment crop in the Acreage Reserve or if he is participating in the Conservation Reserve, he would forfeit all Soil Bank payment by over-planting his corn allotment.

Where a farmer wilfully and knowingly harvest or grazed designated Acreage Reserve land, the payment is forfeited; and, in addition, he is subject to a civil penalty of 50 percent of the payment which would have been made for compliance. If the payment has been made when the violation occurs, the amount of the payment must be refunded.

Tax Bill Hardly Worth The Cost

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—A taxpayer's $44 tax payment arrived a day late because a snowstorm delayed the mails.

She was sent a bill for two cents as a penalty payment.

Councilman James S. O'Brien said it cost the city three cents for a stamp, plus the cost of stationery and labor to collect the two cents.

"It doesn't seem like a paying proposition," he commented.

FIRST AID BOOKLETS WILL BE SOLD BY RESCUE SQUAD . . . 2nd Lt. Hughes, Capt. White, Chief Gardner, 1st Lt. Christopher.

First aid booklets have gone on sale to finance the purchase of a second Greenville Rescue Squad ambulance.

Chairman of the project Craven Hughes said approximately 4,000 copies of the booklets have been printed. They will be sold throughout Pitt County.

"The reason for the sale of the books is two-fold," Hughes said.

"First, we need another ambulance because the one we have is ten years old. Second, through the issuance of these books we hope to help the public become more safety-minded."

The new ambulance would be used along with the older rescue ambulance which was purchased in 1947.

Hughes said the booklet has been endorsed by City Schools Superintendent J. H. Rose and County Schools Superintendent D. H. Conley.

The booklets will be sold by all Rescue Squad members. They may also be purchased at the fire station and they will be sold at selected business houses.

Rescue Squad Capt. Sam T. White II pointed out that the booklets are "completely up-to-date through 1958."

They include the latest first aid methods, the squad captain said.

He noted that "there have been some very radical changes in first aid methods recently."

Fire Chief George Gardner, who originally founded the Greenville Rescue Squad and is the organization's advisor, added his endorsement to the project.

The chief pointed out that all accidents are preventable.

"Prevention is to plan in advance for the unexpected," the chief declared. "Pre-planning will help you to make correct decisions in times of an emergency. Very few people can think wisely under a strain."

By purchasing and studying the first aid booklets being offered by the squad, individuals can better prepare themselves for emergency treatment of the injured, Chief Gardner declared.

As captain, White is commanding officer of the local squad, Hughes is the organization's second lieutenant, Claude Christopher is first lieutenant.

Snow And Sleet Is Pelting East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow and sleet storms pelted Eastern parts of the country today, making a wintry, slushy scene for the arrival of the spring season.

Gusty winds up to 45 m.p.h. whipped the snow and sleet across wide areas of the mid and north Atlantic states during the night and this morning.

Up to 16 inches of snow fell in northern suburbs of Baltimore—and snow continued to fall. Depths from 10 to 15 inches were in prospect for many areas in Maryland and in eastern Pennsylvania.

A white covering of snow and sleet 8 to 10 inches deep gave a mid-winter look to sections of Washington. Power failures were reported in many parts of the nation's capital as well as in neighboring Maryland and Virginia suburbs.

Two inches of sleet were reported at Washington National Airport, 5 inches at Baltimore and 2 inches at Philadelphia. Snow mixed with rain also fell in New York City.

A mixture of snow and rain pelted most of the coastal sections, while the snow belt in the interior extended from northern sections of the Virginia north-eastward into southern New York and Connecticut.

Temperatures were far from spring-like in the storm areas, with readings in the 30s and below freezing.

James A. Killian Dies In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lt. Col. James A. Killian, central figure in a sensational 1946 court-martial stemming from brutality to prisoners in a World War II replacement depot in England, died yesterday at Walter Reed Hospital.

Death of the 67-year-old retired Army officer was attributed to cancer.

Killian, wartime commander of the U.S. Army replacement depot at Lichfield, England, was convicted by a military court of permitting brutality to Army prisoners at the depot guardhouse. He was fined $500 and reprimanded after his trial at Bad Nauheim, Germany, in August 1946.

He contended he knew nothing about the mistreatment.

Court-martial witnesses testified prisoners were struck with clubs and fists, kicked in the body, and forced to stand with nose and toes pressed against a wall for extended periods.

Killian, a 1914 graduate of the University of Missouri, served as a cavalry officer in World War I and received the Legion of Merit in 1944 for "exceptionally meritorious" service as depot commander.

He is survived by his widow, Kathryn, of suburban Bethesda, Md., two sons, Army Capt. James F. Killian of Ft. Holabird, Md., and Lt. Joseph R. Killian of Ft. Bliss, Tex.; and a daughter, Nina Louise Killian, Bethesda.

Young Hero Is Presented $200

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Negroes here presented $200 to a 17-year-old white youth yesterday to show their gratitude for his heroism.

Charles Kent Bridges dashed into a blazing house last month and rescued an aged Negro couple trapped by the flames.

Matthew Thornton, 4-year-old blind "mayor" of famed Beale Street who sponsored the fundraising drive, made the presentation.

TIME OFF

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—Alderman-elect Tom Alsbury says he will fight for afternoon and night sittings, so he can keep his job as school principal. The school refused him time off to attend alderman meetings.

TWO GREAT STORES TO SERVE YOU—4th & COTANCHE STS. & 1008 DICKINSON AVENUE

This Newspaper For Newsboys Only

By SID BOST
 Winston-Salem Sentinel
 WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Here is the home of a unique newspaper read every month by about 35,000 persons. Yet only a few Winston-Salem residents know of its existence.

The paper is the American Newspaper Boy, a four-page tabloid published monthly by Mrs. Charles F. Moester for distribution to newspaper carriers in 42 states and 200 cities.

Her job is truly unique, for there is not another such paper in the nation, she says.

The American Newspaper Boy was founded 31 years ago by the late Bradley Welfare, former circulation manager of the Journal and Sentinel, as a service to newspaper carriers.

Soon it was being circulated in many states.

In 1952, Welfare, because of ill health, turned over the paper's direction to Mrs. Moester.

Newspaper carriers were no strangers to Mrs. Moester. She had worked for several years in the circulation department of the Greensboro Daily News. Her husband is the circulation manager of the Journal and Sentinel.

In addition, Mrs. Moester was experienced in personnel and social work. The idea of the paper immediately appealed to her. She converted a nook of her home into an office and began work.

But the job was not a simple one. She quickly found that the newspaper could not mention one section of the country, or one daily newspaper, too often, lest other sections and newspapers become offended.

Therefore, she is careful to mention names and places only when the news is especially outstanding.

The Newspaper Boy mostly is filled with tips on service, selling and collecting. It is distributed in bulk to newspapers, who pass it along to their carriers. Often circulation managers will check items they want their carriers to notice particularly.

Here are a few quoted from the March issue of the paper: "Basketball season ends this month and baseball teams begin spring training. This is a good opportunity to tell prospects about the complete coverage of sports news your newspaper gives them and then to ask for their order."

"Respect your customers' property and don't short-cut across their lawns. Use the walkways."

"The successful carrier-salesman learns to study his prospects before calling."

The Newspaper Boy features a complete fiction story in each issue, selected from manuscripts submitted by writers who have seen the paper listed in writers' directories. Illustrations usually are done by an artist in South Carolina. Each month he draws a strip on some phase of newspaper carrier service.

"He does a very professional job," says Mrs. Moester.

The paper is printed by a Winston-Salem printer, and wrapped and mailed from the Moester home.

Mrs. Moester, a native of Randolph County, has lived here since 1937. She is active in many organizations.

She says she likes her job as publisher, editor, bookkeeper and what-have-you for the newsboys' newspaper "because it is such a flexible thing. If I want to do something else in the morning, I can work at night and make up for it."

But most of all, she likes the idea that she's helping the nation's newspaper carriers to do a better job for their papers and their customers.

No Inquest Into Death Of Six

RALEIGH (AP)—Because the person believed to be at fault was dead, Wake County Coroner Marshall Bennett said yesterday there would be no inquest into the deaths of six persons Saturday night in a traffic tragedy near Fuquay-Varina.

Four young Negroes and two white persons were killed in the accident.

Bennett said one of the white youngsters was the driver of the auto which he said was responsible for the accident.

It would be useless to have an inquest when the person presumed to be at fault was dead, he said.

Coeds Eating On 50 Cents A Day

By ROBERT F. ALKIRE
 PROVO, Utah (AP)—Coeds at Brigham Young University are constantly doing what any housewife knows can't be done—eating on 50 cents a day when meat and potatoes come high.

The girls don't seem to lose weight; they get nutritious but simple meals and they have a reasonably varied diet.

They do it in a sort of combat course for senior students of homemaking. The homemaking instructors feel every girl should learn how to avoid starvation in hard times.

For nine-day stretches, two of the girls move to a separate apartment set up by the university. Mrs. Stella Lewis, homemaking instructor, hands over "hubby's" paycheck—a measly $10 for the nine-day period.

One girl becomes "husband" or "host" and the other becomes "planner" or "wife." With these trappings of reality, the shoestring campaign begins.

Just to prove that life needn't be all steak, potatoes and dollars, seniors Pauline Barlow, 22, and Rachel Schmidt, 23, produced the following evening meal:

Beef stew, dumplings, tossed salad with a microscopic slice of bacon and a razor-thin egg slice, milk (whole mixed with powdered and chilled to taste better) and apricot gelatin desert.

The cost: just over 49 cents for both girls—or about 28 cents each. Sumptuous dinners like that mean breakfast and lunch must be held to pennies per girl.

The meals wouldn't provide ballast for a lumberjack's fork, but they would hold him until he could find a restaurant.

Mrs. Lewis says the girls have no trouble living on 50 cents a day—that all of them turn back a dollar or two from the $10 paycheck.

They are required to prepare three meals daily. Skipping breakfast or lunch brings on a wave of icebox raiding that depletes the budget.

Some of the girls plan to become home economics instructors or kitchen equipment demonstrators.

Others are fully aware they probably won't snag a millionaire. And they are preparing for the possible "worse" in the "for better or for worse" clause.

Dr. H. P. Powell To Preach Here

Dr. Howard P. Powell, minister of Raleigh's Edenton Street Methodist Church, preaches in Greenville tonight and Friday night at 7:45. He is the final speaker in the Lenten Evangelistic Mission of the St. James Methodist Church.

Bishop Ralph S. Cushman, who led the first four days of the series, left today to return to his home.

Born in Sampson County, North Carolina, Dr. Powell was educated at Asbury College in Wilmore, Kentucky, and Duke University. As a member of the Western North Carolina Conference he served pastorates in several cities. Twelve years ago he came to Raleigh from the great Dilworth Church in Charlotte. Edenton Street Church has just occupied its new $900,000 Sanctuary. With a membership of around 3000 souls, it is the largest church in the Methodist's North Carolina Conference.

A man of prayer, Dr. Powell is a leader in the nationwide prayer life movement called "The Disciplined Order of Christ." He has specialized in the development and cultivation of personal prayer life. He is the author of many articles on the subject and will doubtless share some of his findings with his congregations tonight and Friday.

Again last night Bishop Cushman called upon his hearers to go on from their experience of salvation to growth in the Christian life. He challenged them to "Make that next step—that next decision to surrender that area of your life to Christ which He does not yet control." Robert Gibbons led the singing, with a full choir, Mrs. Bill Norwood at the organ and Charles Goodin at the piano. Mrs. Kenneth Wilson, violinist, played a medley of hymns.

Police Impound An Illegal Gift

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A truckload of household goods given to Goodwill Industries, Inc., included an old-fashioned slot machine.

Since possession of such a machine is illegal here, Goodwill notified police. Police impounded the machine but said they were convinced it had not been in operation recently.

FIRST IN 74 YEARS

GREENFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A 4-year old girl was killed yesterday when struck by an automobile as she crossed U.S. Route 67 in front of her home. It was the first traffic death in the 74-year history of this southwestern Illinois town of 987. The child was Susan Thornton.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was irregular with a tendency toward the downside in moderately active trading early this afternoon.
Leading issues showed gains or losses ranging to about a point or so. A few special stocks made wider moves.

The rise in the short interest to the highest level since 1931 was anticipated in Wall Street and the normal cushioning effect of such a rise was apparently discounted in yesterday's advance.

Coppers gained on news of a sharp rise in its price in London. The market was higher at the start but prices were clipped gradually.

Lorillard, although its short interest more than doubled, fell more than 2 points in active dealings, then shaded its loss. Rumors in financial quarters were that its earnings would be less than previously expected. Polaroid, which also had a big jump in its short interest, was ahead more than a point at the start but later showed a net fractional loss.

The drug group moved forward again. Plough Inc. rose about 2 points. Schering about a point. Rexall and Merck major fractions. Revlon and Consolidated Cigar were 1-point gainers.
As the coppers advanced, Magna added more than a point; Anaconda, Kennecott and International Nickel around a point or more.

U.S. Steel, which had a large increase in short interest, was easy while Lukens, whose short position declined sharply, dropped about a point.

Goodyear lost around 2. Goodrich more than a point and high priced Superior Oil of California dropped 46. Oil company officials made pessimistic statements.

Hold-The-Line Farm Price Support Ready In House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A hold-the-line 180-degree turn in the wrong direction farm price support bill was ready for passage today in the face of a threat-craze and many Republicans endorsed presidential veto.
The bill, a toned-down version of a measure passed by the Senate in 1956, would freeze farm prices at 1957 levels. It would also provide for a one-year freeze on the government price supports and House Agriculture Committee said planting allowances at levels no higher than those now in force.
Speaking to a gathering of Re-Administration backers, on the public women Tuesday, President Eisenhower said a freeze of the price-depressing practices of the chances of permanent farm legislation represents in my opinion a situation this session, and would invite disastrous drops in livestock and grain prices.
The House measure would limit to a year the hold order on price support levels and acreage allotments. A bill passed earlier by the Senate contains no time limitation, making the freeze permanent until repealed or supplanted by Congress.
Under terms of the House bill, the price support floor would be held at the 1957 level, acreage allowances at the 1958 level. The acreage freeze would thus apply to 1959 because 1958 planting allotments already have been fixed.
Strongest Republican support for the bill came from GOP dairy state members.
Under plans announced by Secretary of Agriculture Benson, dairy price supports are scheduled to be lowered April 1 to the legal minimum of 75 per cent of parity. Supports for manufacturing milk at now 83 per cent, those for butterfat 80 per cent.
The cut Benson proposed would cut milk price supports from $3.25 to $3.03 a hundred pounds, and butterfat supports from 58 to 56 cents a pound.

Believes Spring Fever Due 'Hothouse' Living

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Spring fever is blamed by a university professor on winter hothouse living.
Spring officially starts today, Dr. Laurence E. Morehouse says. Californians are generally immune to severe spring fever. The temperate climate allows year-round physical activity, he says.
But the Easterner who reacts to heat and snow by creating a tropical climate within his home, is a sure victim, says this professor of physical education at the University of California at Los Angeles.
Morehouse, 44, contends he has not suffered spring fever since he moved here in 1946 after being a research fellow at Harvard University's fatigue laboratory.
In his view, the spring-fever victim is out of condition. His temperature-regulating mechanism—the tiny blood vessels under the skin—reacts slowly at first to warmer days. Then these capillaries overreact, as do the heart, larger blood vessels and the blood pressure of an out-of-condition body under sudden stress. This overreaction creates above-normal temperature.
Thus, while Webster defines spring fever as "the lazy, listless feeling which comes to persons with the first warm days of spring," as a humorous state, the victim actually has a feverish feeling of weakness and inaccurate temperature control.
To prevent spring fever—and this may do more good next year than this, if you've already got it, Morehouse suggests: Get daily physical activity, indoors or out, to keep your muscles from "hibernating" in winter months. Have frequent and regular exposure to temperature changes at a "graded and gradual pace."
If you've already got it: Resist the initial temptation to outjump the spring lambs or, later, succumb to lassitude. Begin a gradual program of physical exercise. Drink plenty of water. Be more generous with the salt shaker.

Helicopters Land Marines In Test

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP)—Marines ferried from two offshore aircraft carriers set up inland bases here today and prepared to evacuate American nationals in a two-week war games.
More than 4,000 marines hurried from helicopters at Petterfield Point here, about 15 miles inland, and at the Cherry Point Marine Base, 35 miles northeast of here.
Theoretically, this sprawling marine base is a friendly nation with American-run oil interests flanked by two pro-communist countries.
One company of marines landed at Petterfield Point and two were taken to Cherry Point.
The marines set up receiving stations and began the task of evacuation by helicopter to the air carriers Tarawa and Valley Forge, expected to take two or three days.
The opening phase, delayed two days because of rain and fog, started on time this morning in clear, crisp weather. Wave after wave of the helicopters landed the troops without incident and the ferrying was to be completed by mid-afternoon.
The highlight of the games, called Lantphibex 1-58, will come at dawn Sunday when troops from the offshore flotilla will storm Onslow Beach near here in a full-scale attack.
The marines embarked from Norfolk, Va., Morehead City, N.C., and Bieques Island, Puerto Rico. The mass assault will involve between 15,000 to 20,000 troops who will come ashore by boat and air.
Opposition will be furnished by an enemy force dug in somewhere along the beach and augmented by submarines and fighter planes.

Mrs. H. J. Forbes Funeral On Friday

FOUNTAIN—Mrs. Amanda Wooten Forbes, 77, widow of H. J. Forbes, died at her home Wednesday afternoon on Route 1.
Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p.m. at the home, Elder R. B. Denson, minister of Otter's Creek Primitive Baptist Church, and Elder C. L. Coker, Primitive Baptist minister of Pinetops, will officiate. Burial will be in the church cemetery.
Mrs. Forbes was a native of Edgecombe county. She was a member of Otter's Creek Primitive Baptist Church and active in community affairs.
Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Roscoe Allen of Beaufort, Elder R. B. Denson of New Bern; two sons, H. J. Forbes Jr. of Fountain, and James A. Forbes of Wilmington; one sister, Mrs. Walter Lewis of Fountain; three brothers, S. A. Wooten of Macclesfield, Offie Wooten of Falkland and James Wooten of Raleigh and four grandchildren.

Assessment Is Backed In Pitt

Pitt County cattle growers voted overwhelmingly in favor of an assessment to promote the sale and use of North Carolina-grown beef.
Chairman W. A. Allen announced that 103 growers voted for the assessment with only eight disagreeing.
Under the plan all cattle sold for slaughter will be assessed 10 cents per head. The assessment will not apply to cattle which sell for less than $20 per head.
The plan must be approved by growers on a state wide basis. However it is believed that assessment was approved throughout the state.
Under the plan a North Carolina Cattlemen's Association would be established with an executive secretary and a field man. It would be their job to promote the consumption, sale and use of N. C. beef.
