

It's Spring, But Winter Gets In Last Word With Rampaging Storm In East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A winter's - end snowstorm slammed the northeastern seaboard today with a fury which at times eclipsed the devastating hurricanes of recent years. Life, property and services received shuddering blows.

From Virginia to New England, gale force winds flung mountainous heaps of snow onto the landscape and sent high tides lashing at the shorelines as the first hours of spring arrived.

Transportation was badly snarled. Hundreds of thousands of homes, stores and offices were without electricity and telephone service. Thousands of persons in heatless homes were evacuated. Schools by the hundreds were closed.

Mrs. Willard UDC Guest Speaker

Mrs. Ernest L. Willard gave a program on superstition and folklore on the Eastern Shore of Virginia at the George B. Singletary Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. G. Lautares.

"Everybody knows that finding a four leaf clover brings good luck, but 13 people at the table is bad luck," said Mrs. Willard.

Some old superstition explained by the speaker included, "Look for bad weather when you see the birds flocking and also when you see the sun dog or a ring around the sun. To ward off diseases tie a bag of asafoetida, a bag of onions, or a bag of potatoes around your throat."

For that tired spring feeling she said folklore recommends sassafras tea. "This was a family procedure some 40 or 50 years ago," pointed out Mrs. Willard.

To be successful with your spring planting superstition says plant on a growing moon, and to keep meat from shrinking kill hogs on a growing moon.

"In olden days people emphasized the fact that they were telling the truth by saying, 'that's as sure as that God made little apples.'"

The speaker also discussed the colonial type of architecture that is not found anywhere except on the Eastern Shore of Virginia and occasionally on the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

The chapter president welcomed Miss Mary Grace Gaylord as a new member and Mrs. Sallie Irons from Virginia and Mrs. Windham from Aberdeen as guest.

Mrs. Lautares served homemade cake, coffee, and nuts, assisted by her aunt, Mrs. Windham.

Mrs. Lautares' mother, Mrs. Jefferson, said goodbyes.

Crazy Hat Trend Is Not New

GARDNER, Mass. (AP)—Even one. "If she's lean, she'll buy a tall one."

Word got around Gardner that "Bessie needs old hats." She resented the remark.

"Men wouldn't let women wear silly hats in the early days of this country," she says. "They passed a Blue Law in 1875 which restricted the use of silk and gay colors for hoods for ladies."

"This gay apparel was replaced by an oblong strip of gray material thrown over the head. The Puritan lady couldn't wear anything that smacked of originality in color, texture or design."

Early in this century, she continues, women's hats became so feather-laden that law again entered the picture. The Audubon Plumage Law was passed prohibiting the slaughter of native birds to feather hats.

Mrs. Morgan's hobby, as you might have guessed, is hats and their history. She has a collection of 260 old hats, filling a corner of her family's 100-year-old barn here.

Joint Recital To Be March 26

Carroll Glenn and Eugene List, two of the most gifted musicians that the United States has produced, will appear in a concert of music for violin and piano at East Carolina College March 26.

The program, scheduled for the Wright auditorium at 8 p. m., is sponsored by the College Entertainment Committee as one of its series of attractions for the present school year.

Violinist Carroll Glenn and the pianist Eugene List make up a distinguished team and have won international acclaim and popularity through their performances together. As soloists, they have won distinction in recital, with the major orchestras, at the great summer festivals, and on radio and TV.

This past fall they girdled the globe, concertizing in Indonesia, Singapore, Thailand, Burma, Pakistan and India. It would be difficult to imagine better "cultural ambassadors" than this brilliant young couple. Their virtuosity as soloists and their artistic rapport in duo make them a major concert attraction on four continents.

Moose Lodge World Trip Ends Sunday

The "traveling" gourmets of the local Moose Lodge complete their "trip" this Sunday with a "Welcome Home" party at the Sunday buffet.

The menu will include barbecue, baked ham, hamburger steak, sweet potato souffle, turnip greens, black-eyed peas, tossed salad, hot biscuits, cream puffs and ice cream with beverages.

There have been 2,468 persons to attend the buffets during the past 13 weeks that the menu-tour has been in progress. They have "visited" a total of 12 foreign countries and Hawaii. In producing this program it was necessary to handle over 65 letters, and some 30 telegrams and phone calls with officers of the various foreign embassies and the United Nations Information Service.

Col. and Mrs. E. J. Maloney provided the weekly history and geography information that was distributed in brochure form. They also aided in securing and setting up the display items on many of the lands visited. Some of these items were furnished by members and local residences, others were loaned by the Embassies in Washington, D. C. Local participants included Mr. and Mrs. James E. PTA Hears Psychologist

Dr. Thomas M. Strich of the psychology department of East Carolina College spoke to the Third Street P.T.A. last night on "Building For The Future Through Meeting Emotional Needs."

He discussed the fact that all children are not alike and therefore their needs are not alike. There are no set rules for growth at a certain age as each child grows at a different rate.

Some of the child's needs at certain stages of growth are annoying to the parent and he tends to rush them to grow up, we explained.

He said, "The child's needs are often controlled by what the adult's needs happen to be. Our own emotions govern our reaction to the child's emotions. By our own reactions we set a pattern of action for the child.

In closing, Strich brought out the fact that the child reflects cooperation, loyalty and consideration from the parents and teacher.

During the business meeting, officers for the new year were elected as follows: Willie Pate, president; Ralph Heidenreich, vice president; Mrs. Milton Clarke, secretary; and Mrs. John Allen, treasurer.

From The Home Agent's Desk S-t-r-e-t-c-h-i-n-g Dollars

By PEGGY SMITH

Why do some families ignore breakfast? Do they think breakfast foods are expensive?

Never before has there been such a wide variety of breakfast meats (which is the main source of proteins and energy) available.

Breakfast is the most important meal in the day, and in many cases, is the most neglected one of the day. Breakfast furnishes 1-4 to 1-3 of the daily food requirements.

For most homemakers the real task is to stimulate interest and morning appetites. Meat not only adds rich proteins, but extra flavor and appeal for the early morning meal.

Meat plus eggs should give enough protein to provide a breakfast of lasting quality and one that will ward off hunger until time for the noonday meal.

The most popular breakfast meats on our table today are mainly pork and beef. The various cuts of pork and beef smoked and cured are flavor-adding nutritive treats in most good breakfast menus.

Today, on the local market, the most common breakfast meats include: bacon, Canadian bacon, ham, sausage, fresh side pork, corned beef, dried beef and bologna.

Breakfast Meats Economical
Breakfast meats such as sausage and cured items are extremely low priced.

Local markets enable homemakers to venture into cured sausages instead of sticking to regular fresh pork sausages. Yes, even bologna cups with eggs in the center can be used for breakfast.

Boneless cured shoulder roll sliced for breakfast will remind food shoppers of both ham and Canadian bacon—both of which are good breakfast buys.

The cured picnic offers another different flavor for the first meal of the day. Bacon can be served in unusual ways—around baked eggs, in scrambled eggs, or broken in waffles or pancakes.

Dried beef is sold in small jars, small packages, or in bulk. It usually comes from the beef round and has been cured in brine, lightly smoked and dried.

Most common processed breakfast meats in this area are made primarily of pork which include sausage, bacon, Canadian bacon, and ham.

These meats are usually cured by either dry cure, pickling, or smoking. Smoking gives color and flavor and has some preservative effect. The heat of the smoke evaporates some of the moisture from the meat.

Sausage Buying Guides
Sausage should be purchased only in amounts needed so it will be at its peak of goodness. Homemakers should consider the number of servings per pound and the ease of preparation.

A special note also should be made of the brands so the same quality and flavor the family enjoys can be purchased again, but consumers can try different types for interest and variety in meal planning.

Local Food Situation
Food prices have seen little change since last week. In the poultry division egg supplies are at their best with lower prices.

Grapefruit heads the list price-wise at the citrus counter while small supplies of local greens are appearing in the produce department.

Veal prices show the most decline of all red meat prices this week. All choice grades of beef remain steady in price from last week.

Next week, Easter food ideas will appear in the Stretching Dollars series.

Cheryl Barnes Has 4th Birthday Party

GRIFTON—Little Miss Cheryl Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barnes, celebrated her fourth birthday Wednesday morning when she had as guests 12 friends.

Spring flowers were used in the home. Guests had a play hour after which they were invited into the dining room where the table was covered with a pink linen cloth and centered with the pink and white cake which was a replica of a doll. This was cut and served with jello to the guests who were given novelty hats as favors.

Mrs. Barnes was assisted by Mrs. Douglass Boone in the entertaining.

Cooling-Off Period Badly Needed

It is hoped the breathing spell Congress is taking while awaiting the President's proposals on increasing unemployment payments will afford time for its members to regain some of the equilibrium lost in recent weeks.

During this period Congress has been in a mad rush to pass one after another huge appropriation bills designed to pump more money into the nation's economy. In so doing, Congress has acted with more speed than caution, and in our opinion, may have been priming the nation's economic pump over-enthusiastically.

With a few day's rest from feverish appropriations sessions, perhaps Congressmen and Senators will have time to take a more careful look at the nation's economic situation. Perhaps they will have time to view more objectively the problems that confront the nation.

If some sort of break in the mad-house federal emergency appropriations had not come, we might have found ourselves spent into bankruptcy or into a new higher round of inflation that would cripple the economy. In recent weeks the pump-priming fever has raged in Congress like a grass fire fanned by a March wind. A few days respite from the scramble to pass job-creating measures may lead to level-headed consideration of what the nation needs in the way of pump-priming right now.

The brief cooling-off period which is afforded by Congress's wait for the President's new proposals should stand the nation in good stead. It should afford the stampe representatives time to regain their composure before considering futher pump-priming measures.

Student Achievements Reflect Much Credit

Greenville, always proud of its school system and its students, can point with particular pride this year to the outstanding record its representatives have made in competition with other high school seniors for coveted college scholarships.

So far four members of the senior class of J. H. Rose High School have been awarded scholarships for their college education. Bob Bilbro became the fourth local high school graduate to be awarded a Morehead Scholarship to the University of North Carolina. Godfrey Oakley and Mary Ann Bryant, finalists in the Angier B. Duke scholarship competition, have each been awarded $2,600 scholarships to attend Duke University. Martha Jane Pierce has won state competition and $1,500 for the Homemaker of Tomorrow scholarship and will compete for national honors with winners from the other 47 states. In addition to these, Miss Bravant, Sandra Phillips and Jean Waters are finalists in the National Merit Scholarship competition in which 1,000 scholarships will be awarded to high school seniors throughout the nation.

Such records of achievement reflect credit not only among the young people themselves, but also upon their parents, their teachers, the public school system and the community.

Proving Again, Size Is Not Everything

The contribution a newspaper can make to its community is not dependent so much on the size of the newspaper, as on the dedication of the newspaper's staff to rendering service to its community.

The Washington Daily News, one of North Carolina's smaller daily newspapers, has been chosen the newspaper of the state which during 1957 contributed the greatest service to its community. It is a high and richly deserved award for our neighboring newspaper in Beaufort County. The award is particularly impressive when one considers the Daily News was competing against the state's largest newspapers for the honor.

We offer our congratulations to Ashley B. Futrell, editor and publisher of the Daily News, and to the members of his staff.

Largely Ignored Pump-Priming

You may not have noticed it but there is a $3.5 billion program that is making jobs, creating sales and sustaining prosperity in many sections of the country. It is the government's program to modernize the American merchant fleet.

It was dramatized a few days ago when Mrs. William T. Moore wife of the president of the Moore-McCormack Lines, christened the luxury liner Argentina in ceremonies at the Ingalls shipyards at Pascagoula, Miss. Incidentally, the girl who cracks the champagne bottle traditionally gets a present and Mrs. Moore was given a jeweled gold necklace for her services which, for 17 seconds, made her the highest-paid woman in the world.

HURRY-UP PROGRAM
The ship-building program is no stop-gap plan intended to make a few jobs. It has been in progress since long before the recession and will continue for many years and then, in all probability, be repeated.

When the United States entered World War I, its merchant marine was in a mess. There were few ships and few seamen—and a desperate need to get men and supplies to Europe. Ships were hurriedly bolted together and men rushed through training to man them. How we won the war nobody knows. We never had enough ships and seamen until long after the Armistice.

After that the fleet was allowed to deteriorate. The men became auto salesmen, pilots in time of love and insurance salesmen. The ships were allowed to rust, or were sold to foreign countries. Some of the steel was eventually returned to us—at Pearl Harbor.

That attack and World War II found us again unready. Once more we trained men in a hurry and threw ships together, this time with welds instead of rivets. After the war, sailors again became landlubbers. A few ships were kept in service, but most were sold or towed up rivers and harbors to rust away.

A NEW APPROACH
However, Congress determined that a merchant marine must be ever ready. It decided there must always be a body of trained seamen and a fleet of modern vessels. Because foreign ships are manned by men who draw only a fraction of what American seamen are paid, and because foreign costs are low, Congress agreed to subsidize American operations when they compete with foreign lines. Coastal and Hawaiian lines get no subsidies. It also provided that certain cargoes be directed to American ships.

It costs much less—usually about half—than to build a ship in a foreign port than in an American yard. So Congress also provided a subsidy for ship-building, too. Therefore, the government paid a large part of the costs of building the Argentina, its twin, the Brasil, and other American-made vessels.

Friend Of The Sailor

By HAL BOYLE

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — "My God is so great, I am only a piece of nothing," said Joe Palugh.

But to thousands of sailors around the world modest Joe Palugh is distinctly a somebody. He is a friend at port to men at sea — men who often feel nobody cares what happens to them.

Joe does. That is why, when their ships dock here, seamen of all nationalities — English, Greek, Italian, Japanese — head first for "Joe's Place," a restaurant.

Ward has gone from ship to ship that here is a place where seamen can spin a yarn, eat or drink, or bring his girl and dance in peace. Nobody will rob or roll him. And if he needs help—there is Joe, an ex-seaman himself who knows the sailor's problems.

Palugh, a short, dark-haired patient man whose eyes always look as if they are fixed on the horizon, is deeply religious and Pope Pius has made him a Knight of St. Gregory.

To many landlubbers the sailor or ashore is a noisy troublemaker. To others he is merely someone to exploit or rob. Few bother to try to understand him.

"A seaman actually is a wonderful fellow," insisted Joe. "His mouth may sometimes be as big as his heart. But he isn't vicious. He is lonesome. And usually he is harmless and easy to handle — if you know his ways."

Joe was born on a mountain farm in Italy and was brought to this country at the age of 2. He never has been to school. At 14 he enlisted in the Navy by using his older brother's birth certificate.

In World War I he served aboard a U. S. destroyer in the British Channel.

After that for several years he sailed as a common seaman. Then he got a job here driving a cab. One of his tasks was to meet the merchant ships, and he became indignant at the way roistering sailors were plucked like chickens in waterfront dens.

In time Joe built up a big cab business of his own, built up a big restaurant, too, as a haven ashore for seamen.

"If you let a man be rolled, or taken over by bar girls," he said, "and if he gets in trouble, I like to try to help him."

Joe has been known to take as much as $4,000 from a celebrating seaman, throw him in jail to sober him up; and then, when he emerged chastened, to hand him back his money.

Palugh realizes that a seaman in port is hardly an angel on a picnic, but said:

"When I first went to sea the monthly pay was $42.50. Now it's around $300. As the world progresses, as the living standard gets better, people get better, too. At least they act better."

No missionary but a businessman, Palugh has prospered — and is proud he's done well enough to see that his three children will get the education he didn't.

Here is his philosophy: "I am grateful to my Creator and humble toward him. I have no kicks against his money. This life was given to me. Therefore it does not belong to me."

"I do the best I can. If I desired more, God would give it to me. He has already gone out of his way to be kind to me, and I don't deserve that. How can anyone kick against life?"

Opinions In Brief

"In self-interest the United States must be concerned with the political fate of other nations. It now expresses this concern largely in an expensive, indiscriminate and generally ineffective program of foreign aid. By encouraging trade expansion it could eliminate much of this aid and help provide the actual bases of wealth elsewhere, thus giving other nations tangible reasons for shunning Communism." — Wall Street Journal.

"Americanism means the virtues of courage, honor, justice, truth, sincerity and hardihood—the virtues that made America. The things that will destroy America are prosperity-at-any-price, peace-at-any-price, safety-first instead of duty-first, the love of soft living and the get-rich-quick theory of life." — Theodore Roosevelt.

Nobody Seemed To Know Score

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — In 15 years in Washington this writer has never seen anything more fouled up than what happened Wednesday at the White House after President Eisenhower conferred with eight state governors.

It was hard to tell whether a rabbit was being pulled out of the hat, or a rabbit was being put back into a hat.

Eisenhower called in the governors to discuss his idea of providing federal money to those unemployed workers who have used up the jobless pay given them under the federal-state system of unemployment compensation.

This would be a plain dole. The idea of a dole got furious reaction with Eisenhower's own administration. Then administration people began talking of a

Scoop On Future Army

According to the Army Information Digest here are some of the things to look for in the Army of the future.

Ordinarily one thinks of guided missiles as means of delivering warheads on distant targets. However, within the foreseeable future, they will be playing the role of messengers of mercy, delivering emergency supplies. Development of this mode of supply has passed far beyond the theoretical stage and, while problems remain to be overcome, success is not far away.

Basically, the problem involves converting the present warhead of the missile to a carrying case for supplies. Warheads would be pre-packaged in single-type loads, such as ammunition, medical supplies, food, fuel or other items urgently needed at some location within missile range of the launching site. The missile would be guided to the general region and then zeroed in to the exact spot for a unit supply drop.

Combat soldiers in the war of the future, even those in isolated units, may be found eating oranges and slices of chicken with French-fried potato sticks. There will be no need for skilled cooks in forward areas. There will be no more tin cans to be opened and disposed of, nor need for special refrigeration in forward areas.

All this will result from much work in prepackaging, more efficient and lighter weight containers, irradiation of foods plus greatly improved dehydration processes, and the inclusion of disposable mess gear in prepackaged meals.

Taste of foods will be improved by better dehydration techniques. Much of the food now is pre-cooked, and needs only hot water to make it edible and attractive. Troops will be served bread that appears to be fresh, and that tastes fresh, but which has been preserved by pasteurization.

Five years ago announcement was made of the first atomic fireproof available to the Army the 280mm atomic cannon. That cannon has now been joined by Honest John and Corporal. In the Army of 1962 an atomic capability will exist for most Army missiles.

Every Army missile is tested and proven. In a typical test-flight of a Redstone guided missile, 141 separate channels of essential information are telemetered to the launching station from the missile in flight. At White Sands Proving Grounds in 1956, about 200 missiles of varied kinds were fired every month. Each firing is fully instrumented to gain maximum improvement of greatest possible savings in time and money. All Army missile systems are designed to be transportable by plane, as well as by road, rail, or ship; and some will be transportable by helicopter.

The Corps of Engineers program for development of heat and electrical power from prototype nuclear reactors offers a good solution to the problem of supplying fuel at remote locations. Nuclear power plants will provide dependable, self-contained power sources which are less vulnerable to enemy action against extended supply lines.

Available to the commander in 1962 will be advances in communications and electronics designed particularly to improve his command control capabilities.

Important among these advances will be a radio control mounted in an armored vehicle in the battle group area. The radio control is essentially a radio version of a normal switchboard that connects telephones by radio rather than field wire.

The battle group commander will have available for his logistical use a small, mobile computer — part of the automatic data processing system — to determine fallout patterns of enemy as well as friendly weapons, and calculate march tables and other useful information.

Other Editors Saying --- Suspicious, Indifferent

(Washington Daily News) If the doctors of a community propose plans designed to improve the health of a community, there are those people who look at the proposals with a suspicious eye. They want to know immediately just what the doctors are going to reap in financial benefits from such plans.

If the lawyers of a community propose plans for improvement of justice, there are those people who look at these proposals with a suspicious eye. They want to know how the lawyers are going to benefit financially from any changes which may come.

The same thing is true with school teachers. Any time those in the teaching profession offer proposed improvements in our educational system, some people immediately want to know how the teachers are going to benefit.

It is equally true that in so many cases those who look at proposals from any professional group are very indifferent when it comes to talking or proposing action on their own volition. Our professional school people have in a real sense had to bear the brunt in seeking educational improvements because no one else or no other group would assume the responsibility.

If the teacher proposes a change in the curriculum of any given school, there is someone who is going to say that the teachers is seeking to find an easier life in the profession.

There possibly are many things wrong with our schools. And while the professional school people are in a better position to see what is wrong and to know the solutions, the fact remains that the people who send their children to these schools ought to be the ones to take the lead in making whatever corrections worked out. But there is the point: all but perhaps six states have enough money in their own UC funds to extend the period in which the jobless can draw UC — in most states the maximum is 26 weeks — but they have declined to do so.

So this writer asked one governor who wished to remain unnamed: "Since no more than six states might need federal help to extend the jobless pay periods and all the rest have enough money to do it, if they want to, why should the government have to hand out money to those other 42?"

He said: "That's the best question of the day. And the best answer to it is that the question answers itself."

At this point it seems safe to say the Eisenhower administration is all fogged up itself on what it's going to propose.

JESUS COMMANDS HIS FOLLOWERS TO PREACH TO THE WHOLE WORLD

Scripture—Matthew 28:18-20; Acts 13:1-3; Romans 1:14-15.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE WORDS taken from Matthew were uttered on the Mount of Olives, before our Lord's ascension...

"And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto Me in Heaven and in earth...

"Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost...

How many times, do you suppose, when the going has been rough and missionaries became weary and discouraged...

In this day of automobiles, airplanes, buses, etc., there are many children who have never ridden on a train...

The conductor is in command of a train as Jesus is the head of the church...

Antioch, one of the great cities of that time, was situated far north in Syria on the Orontes river...

Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission.

Luke tells of in Acts 13:1-3. "Now there were in the church that was at Antioch certain prophets and teachers...

We know Saul (Paul), of course, and Barnabas; but of "Simeon that was called Niger" we have no further knowledge...

"As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them...

"And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away."

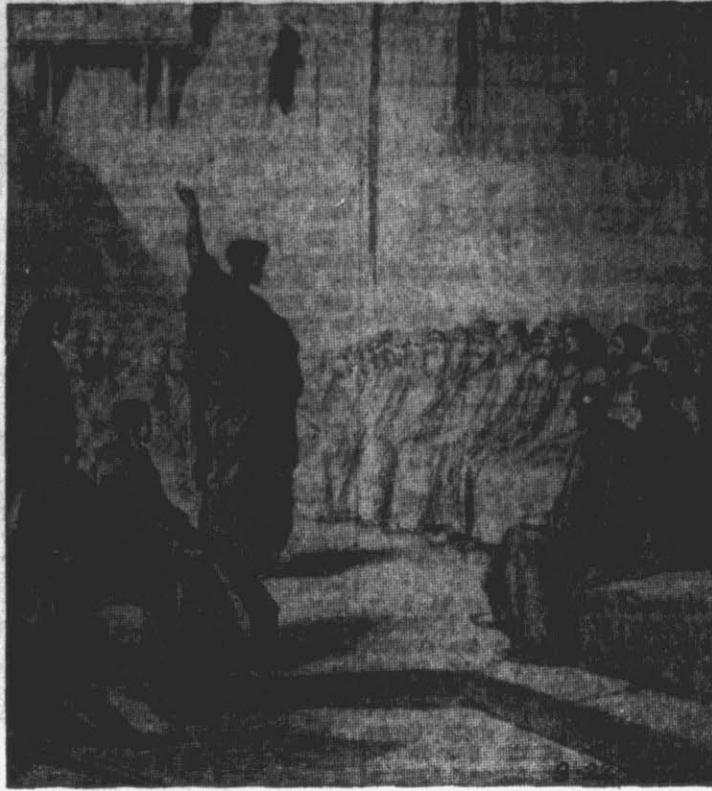

Missionaries of today often suffer hardships of many kinds when they are sent to spread the gospel in remote parts of the world...

A few words taken from Paul's epistle to the Romans (Romans 1:14-15) may be enlarged upon if the teacher has time...

"I am a debtor both to the Greeks, and to the Barbarians; both to the wise, and to the unwise. So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are at Rome also...

For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth...

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

Along with all the wonderful fuss that has been made about National Library Week—ending this Sunday—we want to call your attention to some reading matter about books and libraries that is very appropriate. . . . This week's Saturday Evening Post carries an article by Bennett Cerf called "Books are Here to Stay" about all the people who are reading these days, in spite of TV, which supposedly was going to ruin the book business for all time. On the contrary, writes Cerf—who is a regular panel member on the "What's My Line" TV show—more Americans have been reading books since the advent of TV than ever before. U.S. Census Bureau figures show that the sale of books in this country was 333 million in 1947, and was up to 587 million—yes millions—in 1954, an increase of 75% in seven years. Indications are that sales are up another 12% through 1967—so who says Americans don't read? . . .

In the latest—March 22—Saturday Review you'll find a whole section on libraries, in special recognition of the week. . . . And we hope you've been catching the Reflector articles on libraries and reading that are appearing currently. . . . We think the Sheppard Memorial Library, its staff and its intrepid boss girl, Elizabeth Copeland, have been doing a marvelous job of getting people into the library and getting books out to the people—which after all is the chief job they have to do. . . .

Book Awards

Every year the American Book Publishers Council, the Booksellers Association and the Book Manufacturers Institute choose the three books published during the preceding year that they think represent the best that has been done in writing in the three fields of fiction, non-fiction and poetry. . . . This year's National Book Awards have just been announced, and here they are: "The Wapshot Chronicle," by John Cheever, for fiction; "The Lion and the Throne," by Catherine Drinker Bowen, for non-fiction—that's the one that ran as a serial in the Atlantic; about Sir Edward Coke, Elizabethan lawyer and scholar—"Promises," by Robert Penn Warren, for poetry. Which ones have you read. . . .

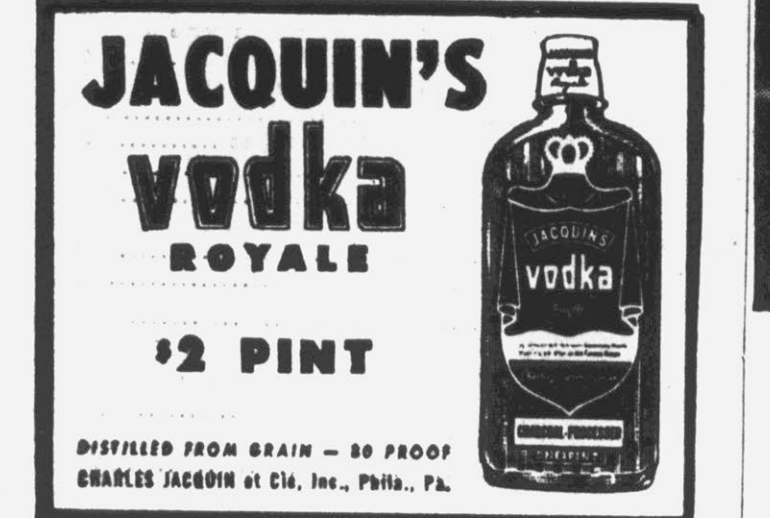

Future

What promises to be a very controversial book, "A Matter of Life or Death," by Herbert Bailey, will come out early in April. It's about Krebtozen, an anti-cancer agent which, according to Mr. Bailey, the AMA has repressed for use on cancer patients, despite proof that it has been very effective. He asks why it has been repressed and challenges the American Cancer Society to look into the matter—"A Matter of Life or Death" for sure, we'll say. . . . The Literary Guild will come out with "A Summer Place," by Sloan Wilson, for its May selection. Mr. Wilson is the author of "The Man in the Grey Flannel Suit." If you remember, and his new book deals with the problems of a couple of families of the same type the Flannel Suit folks were—so it looks like best-seller material. . . . We're now reading "Victoria and Albert," Evelyn Anthony's historical novel about England's 19th century queen and her husband, the April Literary Guild choice, and we're enjoying it.

Today's Review

Dr. George Douglas of the E.C.C. faculty contributes his very readable comments on a recent book about a remarkable and extraordinary woman. . . .

Co-Chairmen Of Red Cross Drive

F. D. Sledge and S. E. Selby have been named co-chairmen of Negro solicitations for the 1958 fund drive of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Sledge and Selby will work with Professor W. H. Davenport and a team of solicitors. The fund drive will continue through March 31 with a county-wide goal of $16,000.

Appointments for the Negro solicitations were announced today by F. Richard Atkinson, chairman of the fund drive for Greenville.

In accepting the appointments, Sledge and Selby said, "We all know disaster strikes around us, but none of us can tell when it will strike us. In the 1956-1957 fiscal year, disasters cost the Red Cross more than $17,000,000. That, within itself, lets us see how urgent it is for all of us to make liberal contributions."

CLOSE SHAVE

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—A $50,000 mustache came through an airplane crash undamaged.

George Pernicano, 40, San Diego restaurant chain owner who has insured the handbeard mustache for that amount, was one of 18 passengers on the plane. He escaped any injury.

HE WAS THERE!—He was linked to his proxy wedding in Rome by radio and wire circuits of The Associated Press Wirephoto network, but Airman Lorenzo Chiarotti, 23, was almost as excited as if he was at the side of his 18-year-old bride, his lifetime sweetheart Maria Luisa Cappellini. The ceremony, with Maria's stepfather Nicola Patelli standing in for Chiarotti, climaxed a four-month effort to set the date. He is shown looking at a picture of his proxy wedding as it came in over the wirephoto machine. (AP Wirephoto)

Carroll Would Put 'First Things First'

ASHEVILLE (AP)—General education and "strengthening the teacher" come first in the drive to bolster science education in the United States, says Dr. Charles F. Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction.

Dr. Carroll, speaking last night to the 74th annual convention of the North Carolina Education Assn., said people should understand "that science education will be strong if we have strong general education," but that the reverse would not necessarily be true.

On "strengthening the teacher," he commented:

"Here in North Carolina we have been pointing out for years that the schools were not being supplied with enough adequately trained science teachers; that industry and government were employing our prospective science teachers; and that we needed laboratories, equipment and supplies."

He called for efforts to increase the number of good teachers in all instructional fields, to expand guidance and psychological services in the state's schools, and to expand the junior high school program.

About 2,500 teachers, principals and superintendents are delegates to the convention. Another 1,000 non-delegates are attending. The meeting ends tomorrow.

The group was to vote today on proposed amendments to the NCEA constitution, whether they should be submitted to a vote by NCEA local units at regular elections next February. Also to be considered were a legislative program including requests for increased teacher salaries, extended teaching terms, additional school personnel allotments, adequate sick leave and an increase in the state per-pupil expenditure.

Glenn Robertson, principal of Beulah High School in Mount Airy, will be installed tonight as new NCEA president, succeeding Miss Rosalie Andrews of Charlotte.

Taking No Part In Iredell Race

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges says he is "taking no part" in a legislative race in Iredell County "or in any other county where lines are drawn."

He said this yesterday when questioned about published reports in Iredell that the governor had urged C. B. Winberry to run for State Senate against incumbent C. V. Henkel.

Hodges told his news conference he had read an editorial in an Iredell paper which contained what he termed "a rather nasty inference." He did not elaborate.

"I didn't even know Henkel had opposition until I saw it in the papers," he stated.

Henkel was a Hodges supporter at the beginning of the 1957 General Assembly, but broke with the governor before the session adjourned.

Turning to another matter Hodges said a meeting in Washington with Secretary of the Interior Seaton and Park Service officials produced little reason for hoping that a proposal to levy tolls on the Blue Ridge Parkway would be changed.

"We are keeping our fingers crossed" and "hoping for the best," the governor said.

He added two Tar Heel congressmen had raised the possibility of court action to test whether the Park Service has legal right to charge tolls on the parkway.

EFFECT TO CAUSE

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—A. E. Browning discovered why his daughter couldn't start the family car. Someone had stolen the generator.

Acted Fast To Evacuate Pupils

SYOSSET, N.Y. (AP)—School bus driver Albert Witte worked fast yesterday when his vehicle stalled on a crossing minutes before a Long Island Rail Road train was due.

It was snowing when the bus stalled on the tracks. Witte, of Bayville, N. Y., immediately opened the front door and emergency exit and shouted "Outside."

He literally threw some of the slower moving students out of the bus.

As he herded the youngsters to safety, a New York-bound train came along. The engineer applied the brakes and the train slowed enough to just nudge the bus, which was driven away later.

Hefty Partners Strained Back

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Harold Fisher who applied for workman's compensation here, maintains he injured his back and right knee "while dancing and doing strenuous lifting."

Fisher, a dance instructor, filed the claim against Claudia Blair, doing business as Guys and Dolls Dance Studio, and an insurance company.

Joe Collins Quits After Being Sold To Phillies

"If I Can't Be A Yankee, I'm Through"

By JOHN CHANDLER The Associated Press The first baseman problem with the Philadelphia Phillies remained desperate today when Joe Collins of the New York Yankees retired from baseball after being sold to the Quaker City club for the $20,000 waiver price.

"If I can't be a Yankee, I'm through with baseball," Collins, 35, said at St. Petersburg, Fla. Philadelphia had sought a first sacker after Ed Bouchee, an outstanding 1957 rookie, became involved with the law. Bouchee is now taking psychiatric treatment.

Harry Anderson was given a crack at the job by Mayo Smith, Phil's manager, but now is in the outfield. Yesterday when the Yankees trounced the Phillies in an exhibition game 11-8 Frank Herrera, a Cuban with triple A experience, played first.

Collins, of Union, N.J., has been in the Yankee organization since 1939. He played over 100 games each season until 1957, when in 79 contests he batted only .201, his poorest year. Bill Skowron is the regular Yankee first baseman, and Marv Throneberry is the No. 2 man.

The two most valuable players of 1957, Mickey Mantle of New York and Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, both had two homers to lead their teams to victory. Mantle's blasts and a double drove in six runs as the Yankees won their sixth straight.

Aaron also batted in four runs as the Braves belted the Cincinnati Reds 11-1 at Bradenton, Fla. Right-hander Bob Buhl won his first spring game for the world champions.

Baltimore defeated Chicago 4-1 in the first game of a twin bill at Scottsdale, Ariz., but the Cubs blanked the Orioles 1-0 in 10 innings in the second game.

The San Francisco Giants went 10 innings in defeating the Cleveland Indians 7-5 at Tucson, Ariz., on rookie catcher Bob Schmidt's homer.

Jack Urban gave up five runs at Fort Myers, Fla., and the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Kansas City Athletics 7-4 behind the pitching of Ron Kline and Roy Face.

Don Drysdale started for the Dodgers and didn't allow a Taser to reach first in four innings. Four hits and two walks off Danny McLevit gave Detroit four runs in the sixth. Cino Cimoli's double followed singles by Dick Gray and Carlos Neal scored two runs and broke the 4-1 tie in the eighth.

CAROLINAS COLLEGE SCORES By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Baseball North Carolina 5, Rollins 3 Yale 6, The Citadel 3 Catawba 7, Wofford 6 Tennis South Carolina 9, Erskine 0 Presbyterian 9, Wofford 0

Though you can't tell by the weather, this is the first day of spring and the beginning of a whole new batch of sports at both Rose High School and at East Carolina College.

Rain and a continual cold wave have the baseball, tennis, track and golf enthusiasts indoors during the past few weeks for the most part, but it is the season for each of these sports.

At ECC, the golf season gets underway today as Coach Howard Porter's linksters journey to Pfeiffer for a non-conference match. Fox reportedly has his best team in four years.

The ECC tennis outfit, sparked by North State singles champion Maurice Everette (a four-year veteran) and a host of other returnees, is undergoing practice sessions now with new Coach Bill McDonald. McDonald is handling the team in the absence of regular coach Ray Martinez who is on a leave. The netters have not yet completed a schedule. Outside work thus far has been limited due to the weather.

Coach J.O. Miller's ECC track team, the defending North State Conference champions, also have been drilling as much as possible. The Pirates will open their schedule at Hampden-Sidney College on Monday and will journey to Richmond to battle the University of Richmond on Tuesday.

They Need Hot Weather The East Carolina baseball team, which has been drilling for about a month now, will open its season next Wednesday here, against Wake Forest. Coach Jim Mallory's outfit has been hampered throughout most of that month with cold and wet weather. Of all the athletic teams in training, the baseballers perhaps need hot weather most.

Mallory has several pitchers who cannot work into adequate shape until the sweltering weather comes, and, in fact, the whole team will have to begin all over again, in a sense, when it finally gets here. Indications are, from early looks at the Buc baseballers, that Coach Mallory will have a hard-hitting bunch of boys and a good pitching staff to back them up. Several baseballs have been drilled over the fences at the ECC practice field since practice began, most of them by newcomers to the team: Jerry Phillips, Al Vaughn, Marion Talton, and Tommy Nance are currently walloping the ball at a good clip.

The big question seems to be whether or not Mallory's newcomers will be able to measure up when they hit the real competition. Most of his new ballplayers are fresh out of high school and may wilt under what appears to be the roughest baseball schedule yet drawn up at ECC.

The pitching staff, bulwarked by veterans Ben Baker, George Williams, Charlie Russel, Bruce Shelley, and Lenoard Lilley, is expected to be the key to the Buc attack this year. Pre-season predictions are that the club will rise or fall with the hurling. Mallory feels that this is true, unless his question-mark hitters come through for him.

At Rose High School The track season opens this afternoon for Rose High School, as the local cindermen play host to New Bern, at Guy Smith Stadium track.

Coach Odell Welborn is working as instructor of the track unit. Several repeaters from last year return to give the club depth. Coach Bo Farley has arranged his baseball schedule with the lead-off tilt being a contest against New Bern here, April 1st. He stated today that he hopes to "arrange a couple of nonconference games before that, probably next week." Nothing is definite on that as yet. No golf schedule has been released yet from Rose High. That is the picture (on a brief scale) at ECC and Rose High. The Coaches and the players are working hard at it and have been for some time. It all depends on the weather, now.

Pitching Brothers

The St. Louis Cardinals pitching staff boast two brothers in Lindy, left, and Von McDaniel. Lindy had a 15-9 year, while Von joined the club in mid season to give a 7-5 account of himself. They're from Hollis, Oklahoma, and are training at St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP Wirephoto)

Mrs. Cudone Leading North-South Golfers

By KEN ALYTA PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Mrs. Philip Cudone, who hadn't played golf at Pinehurst since she took a "golfing vacation" eight or nine years ago, was having the time of her life in her competitive debut in this famed sandhills resort spot.

The West Caldwell, N.J., veteran made off with the medal yesterday as she fired a 77, three over par and good enough to lead a field of 59 in the North and South Women's Amateur.

Cold wind and slick greens made scoring difficult over the 5,915-yard, par 74 No. 2 course of the Country Club.

Mrs. Cudone's score was the highest for a medalist in 15 years of this 56-year-old amateur classic.

She took sixes on two par four holes, which cost her a chance to break par. But she was two strokes ahead of little Joanne Goodwin, New England champion from Haverhill, Mass., the runner-up.

Mrs. Cudone, who'd like to retain her U.S. Curtis Cup team berth of two years ago, won the metropolitan New York title three years ago and for two years won the New Jersey match play title.

Elated as she was over winning the medal, she was just as pleased over the fact that her sister, Mrs. Billie Mosher of Wilmington, Del., also qualified for today's first round of match play.

"I 'kidnaped' her last weekend," Mrs. Cudone related. "I stuffed some clothes in a suitcase and made her come along to Pinehurst with me. I left my dog in custody of her husband, who also has their three children to look after."

Smith And 56 Others Begin Second Round CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Fifty-seven amateurs, led by medalist Charlie Smith of Gastonia, N.C., square off for second round action today in the 13th annual Azalea Invitation golf tournament.

It took an 80 or better in yesterday's first round to make the championship bracket. Smith, former Citadel shotmaker, was two strokes ahead of the field with a two-under par 69.

The pack will be divided into A, B and C divisions after today's second round of medal play in the 72-hole event.

Trailing Smith with par 70s in the first round were Marine Ed Dinga of Camp Lejeune, N.C., Fred Meyer of Summerville and Bill Dickey of Charleston. Three shots off the pace, at 72, came Billy Boyle of Summerville and Bob Turnbull of Hickory, N.C.

Defending champion Billy Thornton and 1957 runnerup Billy Joe Patton, pre-tourney favorites, ran into trouble on the Country Club of Charleston layout. Patton carded a 74 and Thornton a 75.

Smith had a potential record-breaking opening round coming into the 18th. He was four under at that point but carded a bogey six on the final hole. His second shot caught a trap to the right of the green and he came out on the fringe, chipped five feet past the cup and missed the putt.

"But I'm satisfied," the young Tall Heel admitted. He had two birdies on each side for a 34-35-69.

Just As If It Didn't Happen TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "I'm just going along like it never happened," says Cleveland southpaw Herb Score of the accident that nearly ended his baseball career last May 7.

Dayton, Xavier Score NIT Wins

By BEN OLAN NEW YORK (AP) — Impressive victories by top-seeded Dayton and unranked Xavier have set up an all-Ohio championship game in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament.

But Dayton Coach Tom Blackburn is not very happy about the pairing. The Flyers rode over St. John's of New York 80-56 and Xavier knocked off third-seeded St. Bonaventure 72-53 in last night's semifinals in Madison Square Garden.

The finals will be played tomorrow and will be preceded by a consolation game for third place between the Bonnies and St. John's.

Dayton advanced to the finals four times in its six previous NIT appearances and has yet to take home the championship. The Flyers were runners-up in 1951, 1952, 1955 and 1956.

"We would rather have played St. Bonaventure Saturday," said Blackburn. "We beat Xavier twice during the regular season and they're playing much better now than when we faced them." Dayton whipped the Musketeers 74-59 Jan. 19 and 64-58 Feb. 16.

Xavier's Hank Stein, 6-2 junior from Louisville, Ky., scored 27 points. Xavier, which turned back Niagara and defending champion Bradley to reach the semis, had its lead reduced to three points early in the second half. But Stein got his team rolling again.

For a while it looked as though Dayton would have its hands full with St. John's. The Redmen led 39-38 in the fifth minute of the second half. But the Flyers forged in front behind the sharpshooting of Don Lane and Frank Case.

Jack McCarthy, Dayton's 6-6 center, was the game's high scorer with 25 points. Case had 23 and Lane 14.

Saturday's championship game will be nationally televised by CBS.

Logart, Akins Clash Tonight In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Cuba's sleek Isaac Logart pits his speed and boxing skill against the punching power of veteran Virgil Akins in a 12-round bout tonight that will earn the winner a shot at the welterweight championship within 90 days.

Logart is a 7-5 favorite to win the third and "rubber" clash of the 147-pounders at Madison Square Garden.

For this semifinal of the elimination tournament each will receive a $20,000 guarantee plus the right to face Vince Martinez for the vacant title.

The championship has been open since Carmen Basilio had to yield it when he ascended to the middleweight throne by whipping Sugar Ray Robinson last Sept. 23.

Basilio, busy preparing for his defense against Robinson next Tuesday in Chicago, leans towards Logart.

"Logart has youth and speed going for him," said Basilio. "But the 30-year-old St. Louis veteran who is supremely confident he will nail his 24-year-old rival from Camaguey, Cuba."

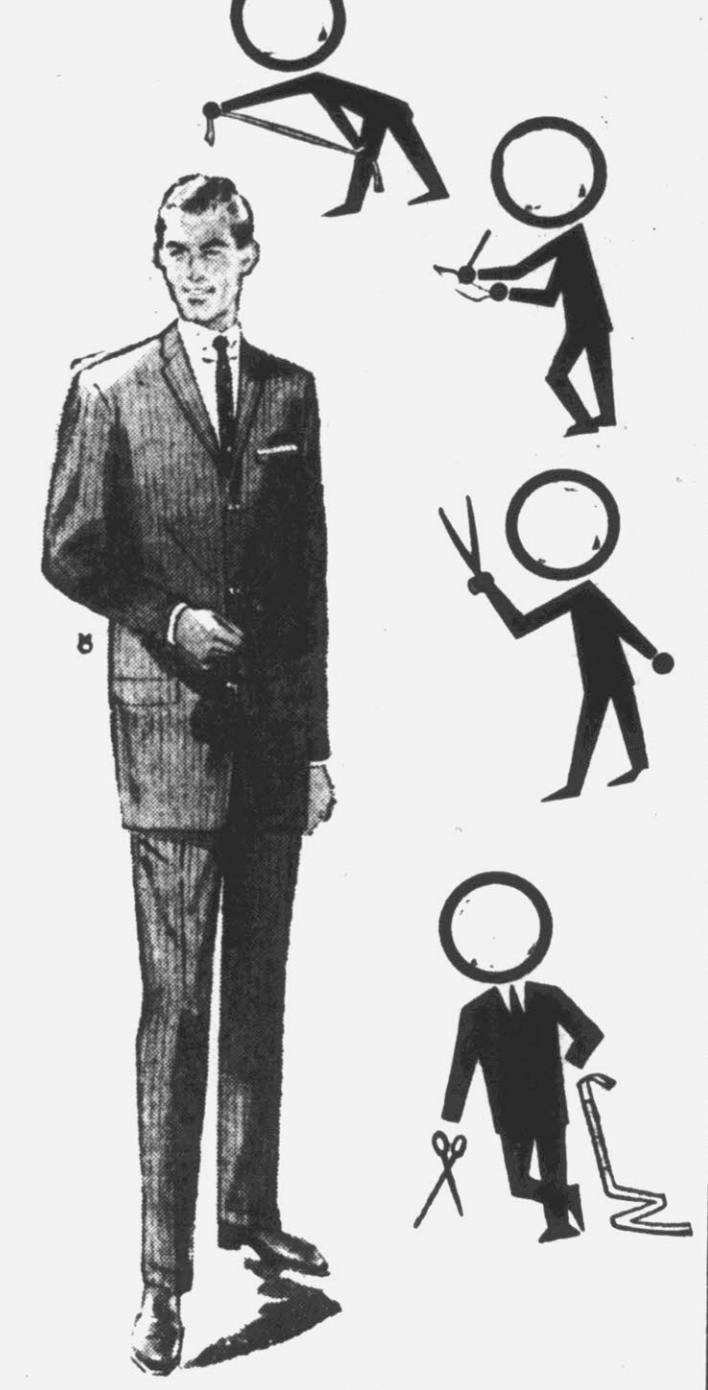

"Logart has slowed down considerably since I fought him last," said the guy they call "Honey Bear" in St. Louis. "He's not as fast or shifty. I'll take him and then Martinez, maybe both by knockouts."

NBC will broadcast and telecast at 10 p.m., EST.

His father, Dixie Walker, was an outfielder for the Brooklyn Dodgers and now manages the Toronto club in the International League. The boy's uncle, Harry Walker, will be his manager in the Houston farm club in the Texas League. Grandfather Ewart Walker pitched for Washington Senators. About 800 Snowbound In Turnpike Restaurant

MORGANTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A diverse group of entertainers, motorists, truckers and babies waited today in a small snowbound restaurant on the Pennsylvania Turnpike for rescue. More than 800 of them had made their way to the Brandywine Restaurant since Wednesday night from cars, buses and trucks stranded on the turnpike by more than three feet of snow. Some were ferried in by an Air Force helicopter, which also brought food and medical supplies for 10 persons reportedly suffering from shock and frostbite. One man, George L. Bliss, 61, Rocky River, Ohio, collapsed and died in the crowded restaurant. Others, too frightened to leave their cars, were led in by truck drivers, who formed search parties.

Jaycee Officer Speaks In Ayden

AYDEN — Wes Conklin of Jacksonville, Ninth District Vice-President, was the visiting speaker at this week's meeting of the Jaycees. During the course of his speech Conklin congratulated the local club for its "energetic behavior" during the year. After thanking the Jaycees for their support in the past, he announced his candidacy for National Director and solicited Ayden's support in the coming election. Washington Jaycee Fred Poore also appeared at the meeting. Poore announced his candidacy for Eleventh District Vice-President and solicited the local club's support in his campaign and urged that the Jaycees participate in the National Convention at Los Angeles during the month of June. A full business agenda was taken up according to President Marvin Baldrice, Jr. Baldrice appointed a committee for the nomination of candidates for club offices for the next fiscal year, beginning May 1. Nathan Thomas was named chairman of the committee comprised of Guy Corbett, William H. Phillips, Elwood Nobles and Tom Wheless. The club voted to change the meeting time from 6:30 to 7 p.m. and to negotiate with the Ayden Ministerial Association on the possibility of conducting an Easter Sunrise worship service at the Jaycee Park. Charles Hart and George Manning were guests.

Nuclear Fission Pioneer Today Receives Honor

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, nuclear fission pioneer honored by President Eisenhower at West Point today, is a South Dakota-born son of Norwegian descended parents. As a boy in Canton, S.D., he grew passionately interested in crystal set radios. That interest steered him into a study of physics and invention of the cyclotron, man's first effective atom-smashing instrument. Dr. Lawrence received at West Point the first Sylvanus Thayer Award for service to the nation. Dr. Lawrence, director since 1936 of the University of California radiation laboratory built around his early cyclotrons, played a key role in developing the first atomic bomb. A process he discovered on the Berkeley cyclotron for separating self-exploding uranium 235 shaped the pattern of the giant Oak Ridge installation for the mass production of nuclear bomb material. Dr. Lawrence directed setting up the Oak Ridge instruments. In awarding the medal of merit to Dr. Lawrence in 1946, Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves said 100 million dollars had been bet on Dr. Lawrence's idea. Groves, who headed the highly secret Manhattan Project producing the first A-bomb, said, "No one will ever fully realize the importance of the part played by Dr. Lawrence." Two years before U.S. entry into World War II, Dr. Lawrence had won the 1939 Nobel Prize in physics for his cyclotron discovery. He had conceived the cyclotron idea in 1929, a year after coming to California as an assistant professor from Yale, where he took his doctorate. In another year he built the first small machine, using a kitchen chair for its structural frame. The over-all cost was about $25. In the next 20 years he built four cyclotrons at Berkeley, each more powerful than the previous. The California laboratory isolated tritium, or triple weight hydrogen, a step in producing the hydrogen bomb.

Girding Another Jupiter Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An intimate look at the missile launching towers of this test center discloses that: 1. Preparations for another Jupiter-C Explorer satellite launching are fairly well advanced. The Redstone first stage of the rocket is in its mobile launching stand, undergoing a careful check. The three high-speed stages — clusters of solid propellant rockets — have not yet been installed, nor has the satellite. The latter will be put in place the day of the launching. 2. The launching stand for the Vanguard currently is empty, but the Navy has two Vanguard three-stage rockets and their spherical satellites in a hangar near by. Altogether the Navy has seven more Vanguard vehicles in its satellite program. Pronouncements by Army Secretary Brucker indicate that a Jupiter-C launching try may come within less than a week. Another Vanguard attempt is likely within a month. The launching areas for all the major missiles were opened for the first time this week to close-up inspection by newsmen. The Air Force flew two plane-loads of writers and photographers — 75 in all — from Wash-

Hefty Pay Raises Sighted In New Military Pay Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top enlisted man in the U.S. armed services could make more than $10,000 a year if Congress passes the military pay bill the House will consider Monday. An officer could make more than $31,000. These would be rare cases, but compensation of practically all career men in the armed services would be stepped up considerably, and the raises would be heaviest in the top brackets of both enlisted and officer ranks. This is deliberate policy, to encourage men to make their careers in uniform. Moreover, the services would be authorized to give enlisted men special promotions, or extra pay up to $1,800 a year, if they became proficient in skills needed by the services. Disregarding scattered complaints that a bill estimated to cost more than 660 million dollars a year was being rushed without much consideration, the House Armed Services and Rules committees highballed the measure through. It was set down for debate Monday. A vote by Tuesday seemed likely. Rep. Killay (D-Tex), chairman of the Armed Services subcommittee, said he expected it to produce a "more stable, more efficient force for national defense." The services have been complaining they cannot keep highly, and expensively, trained technicians nor talented young officers, and that the cost of training new batches every year is oppressive. As examples of the increases that the bill would provide, the Armed Services Committee calculated that a captain (Navy lieutenant) would get a 14 percent boost, a colonel (Navy captain) 20 percent, and a four-star general or admiral 32 percent, assuming typical lengths of service. Officers and enlisted men with less than two years service—most of whom would be doing obligated service—would get no raises. To obtain the absolute top enlisted figure, a man would have to have 25 years' service, be promoted to the top new grade, be drawing flight or other hazard pay and top efficiency pay. His pay and allowances then would total $10,104. The top officer pay would go to a four-star general or admiral, with 30 years service, serving as a chief of staff, providing his own quarters and receiving hazard pay. His pay and allowances would come to $31,104.

Police Probably Will Have Dogs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis police probably will be using dogs to combat crime by next September. Police officials indicated training of selected policemen in handling dogs will start in London within three or four weeks. "If we can get these dogs on the street, our women will be safer," President H. Sam Priest of the Board of Police Commissioners said.

A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

CHAPTER 34

"The money's in the living room!" Tom Lear said incredulously. Then he smiled in his leering fashion. "The most obvious place! I'll bet that's one room they haven't spent too much time on just for that reason! Too obvious! I didn't give Forbes credit!"

"All right, now. There's a patio and a side entrance. We'll go through there. You Dolan first. Then Marta. If the guard happens to stumble on us I'll take care of him. You get the money!"

The wind was howling through the palm fronds over our heads and the rain had started in earnest. We were protected from the stings of the hurdling drops by the palms but we were soaking wet in seconds. We watched the guard run for the shelter of the porch. We watched him check his watch. Then he turned and went into the house.

We took off at a fast walk. Minutes later we were opposite the darkened, open-sided patio. Marta and I started across it. Lear snapped a light switch and a reading lamp went on. We were in the big living room.

"Get the money, Marta," Lear whispered. "Hurry!"

Marta shot a puzzled glance at me. Then she started slowly towards the shadows at the far end of the room.

I glanced at Lear. He was watching Marta. After he'd turned on the light he'd moved a few feet forward and now he stood five or six yards to my left. The rifle hung loosely in his right hand, the muzzle pointed at the floor. He was still watching Marta. He was a sitting duck. I'd been patient. And now, finally, it was my turn!

I braced myself. I took a deep breath. I lunged for him, swinging a right hook from halfway to the floor. I felt my fist crash into his jaw. He spun around and went in a heap to the floor.

But he was tougher than I'd thought. The blow hadn't jarred him loose from that rifle. He was waving the muzzle around and his finger was inside the guard.

I dove for him. As my right hand struck the barrel of the rifle he pulled the trigger and the roar of the exploding powder echoed in my ears.

I snatched the gun from his hand and skidded it across the floor toward Marta. "Take the gun!" I shouted. "The guard! He'll come through that door, probably. Don't shoot him unless you have to! Get his gun!"

I reached over and yanked Lear to his feet. I slapped him across the face. "Now, you bum! You knew I was going to see Joan Morris the night she was murdered, didn't you? And you were the only one who knew it! You killed her. Lear!"

"No! No!"

"With me behind bars sweating out a murder rap you wouldn't have to worry about my helping Marta get the money, either! Isn't that right, Lear?"

"No! You're out of your mind!"

I didn't kill her!"

Marta's voice was low, tense: "Brad, somebody's coming!"

I ran to Marta and snatched the rifle from her. I backed against the wall beside the door. With my free arm I forced Marta's back against the wall beside me. I was between her and the door.

I heard the guard — I supposed it was the guard — fumbling nervously with the knob on the other side of the door. He backed quickly into the shadows at the far end of the living room.

The door creaked slightly open, then swung slowly inward, toward the living room. Marta and I were behind it. The muzzle, then the barrel of a rifle appeared.

Then hands, arms, then head, shouldered and finally the torso of the guard. I jammed the muzzle of the 30-30 into his back.

"Drop the gun, amigo," I said. "The rifle clattered to the floor. 'Look for the money, Marta!' I shouted. 'Hurry!'"

"Yes, Marta," a voice behind me, in the doorway, said. "By all means do!"

The voice was Ramez. "I can only repeat your orders, Dolan," he continued. "Drop the gun, amigo."

The 30-30 slipped from my numb fingers and crashed to the floor. "Get the guns, Manuel."

The fat man gathered up the rifles. "You may all relax," Ramez said. "Lear! Come closer, come out of the shadows where we can see you. There. That's better. Manuel, Alfredo. Keep your guns ready. I think everyone knows that the game is over, but keep the guns ready just in case."

I turned slowly and looked at him. He was shrugging out of a dripping slicker. He tossed it on a chair and dropped a revolver into his jacket pocket.

"Now," Ramez said. "This is a very interesting situation we have here. Lear. Strange that you should bring Marta and Dolan here when you knew that Manuel, Alfredo and I would be having dinner on the terrace. Strange that you should bring them here just as the guard is in the back of the house having his supper!"

Lear looked as if he were going to be ill. "I brought him back for you! You heard the shot! Dolan overpowered me and was trying to get the gun. I tried to kill him for you! The shot went wild!"

I couldn't keep my mouth shut. I was neutral enough in this argument, but I was a prime suspect in a murder I didn't commit. And no matter what might happen to me I didn't want it to happen with a bum rap like this one hanging over my head. And I thought I saw a way to get out from under it.

"He's planned to cross you for some time, Ramez," I said. "Ask him about the boat he's got hidden up a stream in the hills! The boat he planned to use for a getaway if he wasn't able to fly out of here with the loot!"

"My boat!" Lear shouted. "Your boat! That's how I knew where to find you! I caught a glimpse of it from the air when I was flying back and forth yesterday morning!" He appealed to Ramez. "Not my boat! His boat!"

A voice came from the doorway behind us. A tense voice. A voice as tight as a steel spring. "Not your boat, Tom. Not his boat. My boat!"

From the corner of my eye I saw Alfredo whirl and start to level the automatic he'd been holding loosely in his hand. From the doorway came the deafening clatter of a short burst of Thompson sub-machine gun fire. Alfredo's body twitched as each of the entering rounds struck his body. He slumped on the floor. As I turned to look at the man in the doorway I caught a passing glimpse of Marta's dead-white face. She stared, as if with some deadly fascination, at the man in the doorway.

He giggled. "Anybody else?" I completed my turn. He was a tall man, fair-haired. He wore flyer's coveralls, wet, dirty, stained. In his wide blue eyes there was the glitter of madness — or near madness. Even before he spoke again I knew who he was.

"I've come for my money," Jack Forbes said.

"He was mad. There was no doubt about it. I refused to die!" he screamed at us. "The story continues tomorrow with its next-to-last spine chilling chapter."

SELF-CONFIDENCE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A news cameraman snapping pictures of a class of small fry at a Little Rock school encountered one boy who questioned him critically on each step in photographic procedure. Finally the cameraman told the youngster jokingly: "You know quite a bit about cameras—probably more than I." The child replied seriously: "Yeah, I do."

Confiscated Arms Claimed

CAIRO (AP)—Yemen today claimed ownership of the arms confiscated by the French from the Yugoslav ship Slovenia and demanded the French turn over the shipment.

The French commandeered the ship off the coast of Morocco last Jan. 18, charging the 150 tons of arms and munitions were destined for the Algerian rebels. Yugoslavia said they were consigned to a "private group" in Morocco.

The Moroccan to whom the arms were consigned insisted they were headed for Yemen, the medieval kingdom across Africa on the Red Sea.

A statement from the Yemeni legation here said the Slovenia was unable to sail direct to Yemen from its Yugoslav port because of unexplained technical reasons and had to detour via Casablanca.

NEW YORK (AP)—Coppers continued as pacemakers early this afternoon leading a previously mixed stock market to a slight advance.

The coppers responded to additional good news about the industry and made gains of 1 or 2 points. Advances of other key issues were generally within a 1-point range.

Drugs also followed through a bit on their rise of yesterday. Rails rebounded from yesterday's setback. Oil moved forward slightly.

Chemicals were mixed and aircraft leaned to the downside.

Kennecott was a 2-point gainer as coppers rose in active dealings. Magma's rise exceeded that of Kennecott.

Gains of more than a point were scored by Cerro De Pasco, Phelps Dodge, American Smelting and Anaconda. The latter's big drop in 1957 earnings was apparently well discounted.

Recall was firm while Schering eased.

DETROIT (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham told a jam-packed Olympia Stadium audience last night that "only a spiritual revival can stop the blood tide that is sweeping in to hell."

"This is a dangerous time for the United States and for the world," Graham told 18,000 persons attending a 20th anniversary meeting of the Voice of Christian Youth in Detroit.

The evangelist's audience filled the arena area of the stadium, which normally holds a capacity crowd of 14,000 for sports events.

Graham's congregation, about half adults and half young people, sat absorbed as he delivered his hour-long sermon.

He quoted British philosopher Bertrand Russell:

"Unless we can solve our problems, I do not give a 50-50 chance that there will be one person left on the face of the world in 40 years."

Jail For Four Who Failed Comply With Conditions

Four defendants who failed to comply with conditions of suspended sentences imposed in previous terms of Superior Court found themselves in jail yesterday.

The four, all Negroes, were ordered to jail by Judge Joseph W. Parker, presiding at a two-week term of Superior Court. Yesterday's session concluded the first week of the term.

Of the four whose suspended sentences were placed into effect, William Frank Carr of North Railroad Street, Greenville, will have the longest time to serve. He drew concurrent terms of 8-to-10 years and 3-to-5 years in June, 1957, for breaking and entering, and breaking, entering and larceny.

Carr's original sentences were suspended on condition that he remain of good behavior, but since the defendant is presently in jail he had violated terms of the suspension.

James Lee Taft of Route 2, Farmville, was ordered to jail for 60 days for failure to pay costs of a January, 1958, trial in which he was convicted for assault on a female. Taft had been given until March 17 to pay the costs.

Holton Williams of Ayden, convicted last October of public drunkenness, was ordered to serve a 30-day sentence which had been suspended for six months on condition that he pay a fine and costs before November 18, 1957. Court officials said Williams had never paid the charges.

Havert Carney, Route 2, Robersonville, had a five-year probation revoked for three convictions since he got a suspended two-year sentence in November, 1954. Court records show that Carney was found guilty by Greenville Recorder's Court of being drunk June 4, 1956, and found guilty by the same court of assault on May 24, 1957. The records also show that Carney pleaded guilty in a Bethel Justice Court to a charge of assault on the Peace Court on a charge of being drunk and disorderly on March 15 of this year.

Carney's original sentence of two years came after a conviction of assault with a deadly weapon. It was suspended, but revoked yesterday on grounds that the defendant had violated the portion of his probationary status which requires him to remain of good behavior without violation of penal laws of any state or the federal government.

Other judgments which were returned yesterday included:

Stuart Louis Crawford, Route 6, Greenville, driving under the influence, six months suspended upon payment of $100 and costs, and on further condition that he does not operate a motor vehicle on the public highways until he obtains his operator's license; on a charge of driving on the wrong side of the road against Crawford, the court directed a verdict of not guilty.

Whit Salisbury, Negro, no address listed, receiving stolen property, sentence amended from 24 months to 18 months; Ola Ray Boyd, Route 1, Pinetown, selling shrubbery without a license and failure to stop for a stop sign, no pros.

Joe Thomas May, Negro, 101 South Side Street, Greenville, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey, sentence amended to require the defendant to serve two years at the expiration of a sentence imposed in October, 1957, amended sentence suspended upon payment of costs and $250, and on further condition the defendant does not violate any liquor laws for three years.

Thurman Stocks, Ayden, worthless check, four months suspended upon payment of costs and restitution to prosecuting witness; Marie Whitehurst, Negro, 515 McKinley Avenue, Greenville, obstructing an officer in the performance of his duty, no pros; and Georgia D. Joyner, Negro, 521 Sheppard Street, Greenville, obstructing an officer in the performance of his duty, no pros.

INDONESIA REBEL SAID 'TRAPPED'

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The army commander, who rebelled Sunday and held the North Sumatra port of Medan for 27 hours before it was recaptured, is now trapped, the Indonesian army claimed today.

The army spokesman, Lt. Col. Rudy Pirngadi, said Maj. Boyke Nainn Golan and about 300 troops are isolated near Lake Toba, a famous resort 50 miles southwest of Medan.

Golan's battalion in Medan rebelled against the Jakarta government Sunday but Jakarta troops retook the important commercial center the next day.

The pursuit of the only military activity, aside from scattered guerrilla fighting, reported on Sumatra, Paganbaru, the Central Sumatra oil center recaptured by Jakarta forces March 12, was reported quiet.

The chief of army intelligence, Col. Sukendro, claimed that more than 100 rebels have been killed in the five-week-old civil war while casualties of the Jakarta government so far are only two killed.

The Dutch liner Oranje landed some 520 foreign evacuees from Medan at Singapore today. They included 122 Americans — mostly women and children, 280 Dutch and more than 100 Britons.

Two ships are scheduled to evacuate foreigners — mostly Dutch — from the west coast port of Padang, the rebels military headquarters.

Three Of Five Kluxers 'Guilty' In Bomb Plot

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Three members of a Ku Klux Klan klavern, who was broken up by a police undercover agent, were convicted yesterday of plotting to plant a homemade bomb at a Negro school.

An all-white jury, including one woman, recommended mercy. Two other Klansmen were acquitted.

Lester Francis Caldwell, grand wizard of Klavern 22, was convicted along with Arthur Monroe Brown Jr. and William Oliver Spencer of conspiring to bomb the school near here Feb. 15. Caldwell also was convicted of attempting to carry out the plan.

Superior Court Judge Zeb V. Nettles sentenced Caldwell to 5 to 10 years for trying to bomb the school and to two to five years for conspiracy. The judge suspended the shorter sentence on good behavior. Spencer and Brown were sentenced to two to five years.

Accused were David Dennis Quick, charged with conspiracy, and Jack Ayscue, accused of trying to bomb the school.

The judge told the Klansmen: "We have good police forces here and we don't need a super law enforcement agency."

Caldwell and Ayscue were seized at the school the night of Feb. 15, a two-stick dynamite bomb in the wizard's possession. With them was Robert Lee Kinley, 33, a demolitions expert who joined the Klan to work with police in an effort to break it up.

Kinley testified that the bombing plot grew out of rumors — of racial incidents in the school area, and that the klavern had been disappointed because a crowd burning at the school had received little notice.

The defense argued that Kinley entrapped the Klansmen by suggesting and planning a cross-burning and the bombing attempt.

All three convicted appealed, but the judge denied them appeal bond and said they must start serving their sentences.

Trying Four Men Accused Of Evicting Deacon

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Trial of four men accused of throwing a deacon out of church while he was conducting a meeting continued in Recorder's Court here today.

Jack Tripp, deacon of the Core Point Chapel, a Free Will Baptist Church near Beaufort, testified yesterday the four men dragged him down the aisle, hauled him out and threw him out.

On trial are W. J. Smithwick, E. I. Taylor, Henton Smithwick and Bryan Smithwick, and his son-in-law, Samuel Cratch, of the Core Point community. They are charged with assault.

Judge W. W. Langley is hearing the case without a jury. W. J. Smithwick claims the church building and the land on which it sits belongs to him. Tripp said he was thrown out Jan. 19 while conducting a meeting to elect a new church pastor.

Farm Freeze Bill Rushed President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today rushed to President Eisenhower a farm price support freeze bill which he is considered likely to veto.

The Senate completed congressional action by accepting a House amendment to limit its effect to 1958.

The Senate vote on that issue was 48-32. Previously the Senate had passed the measure without the limit 50-43. The House bill passed that branch 210-172.

The measure would prevent any reduction in price supports and acreage allotments below 1957 levels.

Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson both have expressed sharp opposition to it. The secretary has asked Congress for authority to lower supports on basic commodities to 60 per cent as compared with the 75 per cent floor in present law.

Republican senators tried that Democrats were playing politics by rushing the bill through in an effort to embarrass the President.

Neither the Senate vote on original passage nor the House vote was heavy enough to override a veto, which takes a two-thirds majority.

Democratic backers of the freeze contended they were giving the farm economy a half-billion-dollar shot in the arm, not playing politics.

The Senate, meantime, passed a bill to extend for two years beyond June 30 the government's authority to dispose of farm surplus commodities abroad in exchange for foreign currencies, or as gifts in case of disaster.

Passage came on a voice vote after the Senate rejected 44-39 an effort by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) to force Secretary of Agriculture Benson to use barter deals for at least half a billion dollars worth of surpluses each year. Permissive authority for barter remains.

The Senate bill authorizes disposal of an added 3 1/2 billion dollars of farm commodities during the extension period. The administration had asked a one-year extension and authority for disposal of 1 1/2 billion dollars of commodities.

The disposal bill now goes to the House.

The measure freezing price supports and acreage allotments was limited by the House to one year. The Senate last week passed the bill without a shutdown date. A compromise of the differences will be necessary unless the Senate accepts the House version.

HE HAS UNPLEASANT DUTY OF REPORTING THE FACTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ewan Clague has the unpleasant duty of reporting rises in living costs — and that makes him the target of housewives' protests.

His Labor Statistics Bureau has reported new record living cost levels nearly every month for more than a year.

As a family man, Clague does not like it any more than anyone else.

He is a stocky, energetic, graying, 61-year-old government career employe, serious most of the time but capable of a hearty hearty laugh.

As commissioner of labor statistics for more than a decade, he's a key government economist. His 1,000-man staff churns out an amazing lot of information.

Clague, for example, can tell you how many houses were built last month and how many are like the average worker in the given industry and wages; what the prices of 3,000 commodities were last week, last year or 20 years ago; how many workers, men and women, the nation will have in 1975.

But Clague's living cost figures hit the average citizen hardest. When interviewed, he was reading a housewife's letter demanding to know why, in this recession, she had to pay nearly a nickel apiece for carrots.

"It's a natural question," he conceded. "My staff prepared a reply. But it won't do. I'm rewriting it."

"Well, what is the answer?" Clague was asked.

"It isn't simple," he replied. "But generally speaking prices of most items making up the family budget don't change radically from month to month."

"Demand for food is always fairly steady. But the supply changes. Right now the supply is short because of the Florida crop freeze."

"Take things like haircuts, rents, streetcar fares, medical fees, gas and electric rates — these prices change but not too often and not too much. They don't respond immediately to general economic trends."

Clague was born Dec. 27, 1896, on a farm outside Prescott, Wash. He says he was never too good at mathematics, and recalls one particularly unpleasant year's struggle with trigonometry.

But he liked research and statistics and kept at it. In 1933 he was one of a group of outsiders named to study Labor Department statistical services. In 1946 he became head of the bureau.

Plan Confer On Course Of Action

RALEIGH (AP) — A conference was scheduled here today to plan a course of legal action in the Eastern Carolina Regional Housing Authority's effort to obtain a Goldsboro housing development.

D. L. (Libby) Ward of New Bern and John D. Larkins Jr. of Trenton, attorneys for the housing authority, and I. E. Pittman of Morehead City, authority chairman, planned to confer with Atty. Gen. George B. Patton.

Court action is expected to be instituted to determine whether the housing development at Goldsboro—Seymour Johnson Homes—is owned by the housing authority or a group headed by H. Emmett Powell of Clinton.

Powell, former executive director of the authority, and his group offered to still the development to the authority for $1,165,000. They acquired the land on which the development stands for $39,010.

In 1952, the federal government gave the houses comprising the development to the housing authority. After a three-year lease expired in 1955, Powell and his group claimed ownership of the entire development because they owned the land on which it sits.
