Propaganda Announcement Of Suspending Atomic Tests May Be In Offing

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say privately the Soviet government may make a spectacular move on disarmament soon by announcing — without waiting for U.S. agreement — that it is suspending nuclear weapons tests.

Army Fires Second 'Explorer' Satellite Out Into Space Today

CAPE CANAVERAL Fla. (AP) — The Army launched another Explorer satellite today and 12 minutes later the new baby moon apparently was in a successful orbit.

The Jupiter-C launching rocket with the 80-inch satellite tube spinning in its nose, roared away from this test center at 12:38 p.m.

The Air Force announced quickly that the first stage had appeared to operate normally, and then within 12 minutes said all stages appeared to have performed as planned.

The perfect performance would mean almost certainly that a second Army Explorer had attained an orbit and was streaking around the earth in company with three other man-made moons.

About 10 minutes before the launching, the "buckets" on top of the Redstone first stage started spinning.

President Says UN To Be Asked To Have Observers At Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he is asking the United Nations to send foreign observers — probably Soviet as well as free world — to U. S. atomic tests scheduled for the Pacific this summer.

The U. N. will designate the members of its scientific committee on the effects of radiation to attend the Pacific tests.

He noted that member nations of that committee include the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia in the Communist bloc, as well as the United States, United Kingdom and Canada. There are 15 member nations. The other 10 are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Egypt, France, India, Japan, Mexico and Sweden.

Eisenhower again declined to speculate as to the timing of any possible anti-recession tax cut. But he said the administration is not going to be stamped into a tax reduction.

The outlook for the launching earlier was unfavorable because of a steady rain. The rain halted in midmorning and the missile was launched almost exactly on the schedule planned some weeks earlier.

Seaton Abandons Parkway Toll Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Seaton has given up the idea of imposing toll charges on the Blue Ridge Parkway.

Plans to impose the tolls on the North Carolina-Virginia mountain highway were announced several weeks ago by the National Park Service, an Interior Department agency.

Three Of Nine Convicts In Escape Effort Recaptured

Three of nine convicts, who sawed their way to freedom from the Beaufort County Prison Camp last night, were apprehended near here early this morning.

According to late reports the other six convicts, who escaped last night and are still at large, have been identified as: Clyde Burns, 22, of Greensboro; Forny Duval, 27, Whiteville; William Purrs, 27, Mooresville; A. B. Hudson, 22, Aulaville; Elroy Harrelson, 23, Delco; and Charles Ferguson, 19, of Frederick, Delaware.

Washington Police, searching for two cars stolen sometime last night, indicated that there is at least some evidence to show that one of the cars was taken by the escaped convicts. According to investigating officers, a 1951 black Hudson was stolen from the Tailley Implement Company, as was a 1950 grey Ford, belonging to Sam Long of 403 Market Street.

Successful escape from the road gang in the Statesone Section have been identified as: Carl Watson, 23, Franklin; Willie Rogers, 21, Tabors City; and James Collier, 22, of Swansboro. All three were still at large around 1:30 p.m. today.

Asked whether he believes we are closer to such a conference or farther away at this point, the President said that was a very difficult thing to sum up.

Local Desire For Industrial Development Emphasized As Item Of Vital Importance

GOVERNOR LUTHER H. HODGES... As He Addressed Industrial Development Conference.

By JIMMY ELLIS, Reflector Staff Writer. Representatives of 30 Eastern North Carolina counties who attended yesterday's regional Industrial Development Conference here went back to their homes with at least one point solidly hammered in their minds.

"Prospect Development and Selling the Community or Area," told the group which attended his panel's discussion. "Eighty per cent of industrial locating must be done locally. Plus factors which prospect consider in any location include the community's desire for industry, availability of funds, long-range planning by the community, local living conditions, and the action of businessmen in the community."

One panel participant who has helped to develop a successful local industry, Charles Gaylord of Williamston's Martindale Foods, told the group that his company selected processing and canning of sweet potatoes after "careful study" of his area's diversification needs.

Development, said establishment of new industry involved "much work and risk."

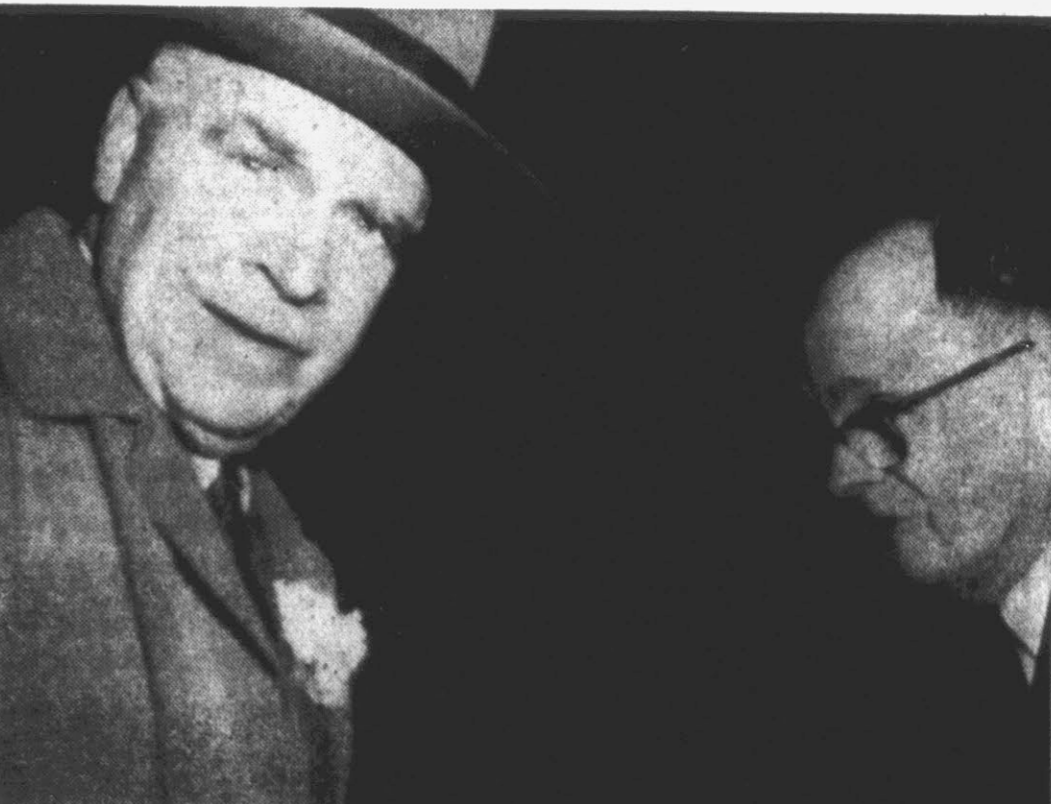

Governor Hodges pointed to similar statistics in his address when he said that North Carolina residents annually purchase 275 million dollars worth of food "that we could grow here."

"It is an opportunity," Governor Hodges added, "to do something for ourselves in which everyone from the banker on Main Street to the last dirt farmer at the end of the road can participate and profit from a common effort dedicated to the self-help of our farm communities."

New Spring Cleaning Aids Big Help

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The poets say lovely things about spring, but just ask any housewife what's on her mind, come those first few balmy days. She's thinking, no doubt, that it's dust-ridding time—time to air the house, ferret out cobwebs, make refurbishing plans.

One clue to a good house-cleaning program is to assemble a collection of work aids. These should make cleaning a breeze, if you use cleaning accessories properly.

Tune up those old standbys, the vacuum cleaner and mop. Make sure your vacuum accessories are in good shape, that you have bag refills for the cleaner. If your mop needs a new sponge, replace it. If you are partial to string mops, there are new string type mops of sponge.

Stores should be combed for new cleaning aids that help lighten work. Be wary of some cleaning aids that advertise miracles in cleaning upholstery and rugs. Most housewives have had their fill of these cleaners which clean, but then manage to attract more dirt by the very chemicals that helped the cleaning action.

There are special cleaners available designed for specific action—cleaners for hard-surface flooring, linoleum, vinyl tile, asphalt tile, that require just a quick once-over mopping and no rinsing to clean the floors perfectly.

There are cleaners designed especially for painted surfaces and for bathroom and kitchen fixtures. New window cleaners may be sprayed out of a can and wiped off with a clean cloth or a paper towel.

A chamolix buffer wrapped around a shoe or scrubbing brush is a wonderful duster to produce a mirror-like gloss on furniture. The little sused fibers in the oil-tanned chamolix help keep a lovely sheen on furniture.

It's a good idea to have an assortment of sponges in your work basket. Large sponges are ideal for cleaning walls and woodwork, smaller ones are good for cleaning bathroom fixtures, window sills and small areas. Strips of sponge glued to a long stick are good for hard-to-get-at corners. Sponges come in handy, too, for spot cleaning of rugs. Nylon rugs may be cleaned easily with a soft brush and a diluted detergent solution applied with a sponge. A dry cleaning solvent may be necessary for oily or greasy stains.

Cotton rugs may be more difficult to clean on the floor, but a new type of rug cleaner with a built-in detergent vehicle makes the job easier. Vacuum the rug first, then use the rug cleaner. Let it dry, then vacuum again to remove excess detergent.

One big lift for the housewife's morale is that cleaning accessories have taken on color. Hand cleaners and dust mops of nylon are in luscious pastel hues, may be removed from their handles and washed in sudsy water, dried in a jiffy and returned to their place. Pails come in chic colors, too, and are lighter in weight.

If your varnished furniture finish has been dulled by smoke, dust and grease—as may happen in any household—then linseed oil and gum turpentine should revive it successfully.

HOUSEWIVES BEGIN CLEANING—As many Pitt County housewives, Mrs. Junius Grimes of 114 Park Drive begins her annual spring cleaning. By using cleaning accessories, she finds her work easier. (Reflector Photo by Peggy Smith)

Following the play, slides of the Kabuki Theatre will be shown by Withey. This program is being held in conjunction with the Greenville Fine Arts Festival.

Common Problem, Common Interest

Growing interest in agriculture and industrial progress among the people of Eastern North Carolina was evidenced yesterday by the presence of approximately 300 representatives from 36 counties at the regional industrial conference held in Greenville.

Attending the conference were farmers, bankers, merchants, professional men—businessmen representing almost every phase of the economic structure of this section of the state. Without exception, they were at the conference with one purpose in mind: to find out what their respective communities can do to boost their economic situation through industrial and agricultural development.

When 300 people from three dozen counties of Eastern North Carolina gather in one place to discuss common problems, we can be sure there is a great deal of interest in solving those problems. And if the interest at the conference is any barometer to the efforts which will be made in resolving those problems, we may be sure that Eastern Carolina will devote a great deal more attention to its agriculture and industrial development in the future than has been the case in the past.

While each county faces its own economic problems these cannot be separated from those of the area as a whole. Because of the similarity of the economic BRIGHTER — The economic situation is not much better than it was a couple months ago. Cost of living indices continue to rise, and there is only very slight change in the unemployment ratio. Retail sales are below last year, and State revenue—both general fund and highway—is also off. But, and this is tremendously significant, there is a more optimistic attitude on part of business people. The future looks brighter to most of them.

process phosphate ores. General economic conditions and lessening demand for the products are the reasons given for failure to follow through with the paper and titanium plants. In a full page advertisement in the local newspaper Bear Grass Mining explained that "Present circumstances and the completion of our preliminary investigation into the phosphate deposit of this area now lead us to close the temporary office which we have in Washington, North Carolina."

Drop in gasoline and sales taxes was due to a number of factors, not the least of which was weather conditions that made travel and trading inconvenient, if not impossible. That has created a backlog of demand for merchandise and desire to go places. Advance inquiries addressed to resort operators and the State travel bureau indicate a better than average summer season.

Many of the residents of Beaufort and neighboring counties interpret the "present circumstances" to be the delay on part of the State in executing leases for State-owned under-water phosphate deposits. However, the lease proposition was still open and C&D board folks had expected to consummate it at the forthcoming spring meeting. There was no problem of leases or land ownership in the other cases, where other "present circumstances" proved conclusive. Whatever the reasons, the loss of these prospective plants is a heavy blow to Eastern Carolina.

A large road construction company executive said the other day that while North Carolina might not be able to do as much highway work this year as last because last year was a record-breaker, neighboring states will do more. Roadbuilders operating in the Carolinas, Georgia and Tennessee anticipate enough construction work in the four states to keep them profitably busy for the next 24 to 30 months.

CLARK — David Clark is hailed by Democrats throughout the state as the answer to many prayers for an opponent worthy of the steel of incumbent Republican Charles Roper Jones in the 10th congressional district. Although at 36 being 18 younger than his strongly entrenched opponent Clark is not a political neophyte and the odds are more even here than when another David went up against a Goliath. Scion of a family long prominent in business and political circles in North Carolina, young Dave inherited interest in and love for good government. He inherited also some of the spirit that led the late Aubrey Brooks to title his biography of Chief Justice Walter Clark "The Fighting Judge." (Walter Clark, Dave's grandfather, served as chief justice through the first quarter of the present century.)

As crop planting time approaches farmers are more optimistic. The annual "confession of faith" manifested by farmers every spring is having influence upon other business men. Actual conditions may not be any better now than they were in early January, but the spirit of the people is generally better.

Coming to the Legislature at 28 Dave soon made his influence felt, as member of the commission on reorganization of State government named by Governor Umstead, as twice chairman of continuing committees named by Governor Hodges, he had large hand in the administrative changes made by the 1955 and 1957 General Assemblies, and upon recommendations coming up for 1959.

DISAPPOINTED — There are some very unfortunate exceptions. The people most concerned with promoting industrial development, especially in the eastern part of the state, have been keenly disappointed — and somewhat disturbed — by temporary abandonment of at least three multi-million dollar projects.

He told your reporter the other day he expects to resign as chairman of the current study group, but will retain his membership on it. With a characteristic wry grin he quipped: "I think I've got about a full time job in the 10th district."

It became known some months ago that the Camp-Union Bag outfit had decided not to go through with plans for a big paper mill in Craven county between Kinston and New Bern. More recently the Allied Kennebec Corporation, formed by Allied Chemical and Kennecott Copper for the specific purpose of building a $40 million titanium plant at Wilmington, announced suspension of plans for that project. Last week Bear Grass Mining Company (a subsidiary of Kennecott Copper) advised that it is closing its office at Washington and temporarily, at least, abandoning plans to mine and structure throughout the section, the problems of each county are similar to the others. The solution of the area's economic problems will come as each individual county and community moves forward with its own programs for industrial and agricultural development.

The tenor of the conference yesterday indicates that Eastern Carolina communities are ready and willing to face up to their economic problems and do whatever is necessary to resolve them. If subsequent action in individual counties prove that assumption to be true, Eastern North Carolina has come a long way toward pulling itself up by its own bootstraps.

More Wisdom Than Politics In His Words

There was more wisdom than politics in an off-the-cuff comment by Gov. Hodges here yesterday when he asserted we'd all be better off if both the Democrats and Republicans would quit talking so much about hard times.

There can be no doubt that all the talk in Washington in recent weeks about pump priming, gigantic spending programs, tax cuts and the like has to some extent shaken public confidence in the nation's economy. The Reflector has felt and still feels that the economic situation is not nearly as bad as one might be led to believe by reading what has been said in Washington.

It remains a fact, however, that "hard times" talk tends to create hard times, and that "good times" talk tends to booster confidence, and along with that the general economy.

Gov. Hodges probably didn't acquire any friends among either Democratic or Republican leaders in Washington by his comment here yesterday; but the unsolicited advice he offered the nation's leaders is sound.

Potentially Potent Instrument Of Safety

Driver Improvement Clinics being established by the Department of Motor Vehicles potentially could be an extremely helpful weapon in fighting careless driving in North Carolina.

Eventually, under proposals of the program, such clinics will be established in every county in North Carolina. Students at the clinics will be persons who have been ordered by the courts to attend, or persons who have had their driver's license revoked and may, by attending the course, get their license back sooner than they otherwise would have.

The instructional course, patterned after the standard driver training course, is designed to familiarize the driver with rules and regulations governing highway travel, and to afford the driver a greater appreciation of highway regulations.

It cannot be expected that every person who attends the clinic will be a more careful driver after he completes the course. In all probability, however, the majority of those who attend the Driver Improvement Clinic will have a greater appreciation for highway regulations than they did previously did. Particularly as it applies to younger drivers found guilty of traffic violations, the clinic may prove an effective supplement to the measures already being taken by the courts in such cases.

On Extending The Jobless Pay

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — This is an A-B-C on President Eisenhower's proposal — sent to Congress yesterday — to extend the jobless pay of people who have used up all the unemployment insurance they're entitled to.

He walked a tightrope to figure this one out. He's bound to run into a fight.

The number of weeks states pay benefits to their unemployed vary so do the payments. To relieve the hardship on the many thousands who have used or will use up their maximum number of weeks, Eisenhower proposes extending the number of weeks for them in all states by 50 per cent. For example: a man who drew $25 a week in a state with a maximum of 26 weeks, would, if he had used up his 26 weeks, continue to draw $25 for another 13 weeks.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
WAY OF THE TRANSGRESSOR

One seldom encounters a thoroughly bad man. Let your mind wander back over the years and then survey the multitude of people you know now, and you will no doubt find this to be true.

Eisenhower asked Congress to vote 600 million dollars for this, with the program to last until April 1, 1959. Complications begin right here. To understand why, look at the system as it works now: Employers now, to provide money for the insurance fund, pay a tax on the first $3,000 of their employees' wages. The federal tax is three tenths of 1 per cent. The state tax varies by states, from practically zero up to 2.7 per cent.

But Benedict Arnold, the Revolutionary War traitor, was a thoroughly bad man. His treason to the revolutionary cause was carefully premeditated and done in order to enrich him and personally to advance him. He received about $25,000 for his treachery, the rank of Brigadier General in the British army, a life allowance for his wife, and British commissions for "two of his sons. Arnold, upon being detected, fled, assumed a command in the British army, ravished in particular the country in which he had been brought up as a boy, and vented his spleen upon the state of Virginia because it was the home of his enemy, George Washington.

The federal government uses its tax to administer the program. But the tax each state collects goes into its own individual fund. It draws on its fund to pay benefits to its own jobless people.

But back in England, Arnold found himself an object of contempt. A speaker in Parliament once stopped in the middle of an address declaring that he would not proceed because the American traitor had come into the visitors' gallery. Throughout the rest of his life, the traitor was shunned and hated. Finally, he sank into melancholy and after some years died. His last words were, "God, have mercy on my poor soul."

How would it be paid back? Eisenhower suggests this: If, at the end of four years a state on its own had not paid back what the federal government had put up, then the federal tax on its employers would go until full repayment was made.

But a state, to save its employers from the higher tax, could do this:

Its legislature — any time before those four years were up — could meet and vote to repay the federal government either out of that state's own treasury or out of its unemployment insurance reserve fund.

Since employers almost certainly fight any added tax on themselves, the natural thing for them to do would be to pressure their state legislatures to make the repayment one way or the other.

A Great Personal Relief

Governor Luther H. Hodges was a visitor in town yesterday.

His visit meant a lot of things to a lot of people, but I don't think he'll ever know how much it meant to those of us who fight endless battles against time. He had us sweating for a while.

The situation wasn't his fault, really. He was an innocent victim of circumstances, but he still had us worried.

We were afraid he wasn't going to get to Greenville, and we had written a story saying he had already been here.

It isn't an uncommon thing to do such stories, particularly in situations like that yesterday. It's a necessity if you want to get the story in a particular edition of the paper.

With speeches, such as the Governor's, there isn't much to the job. A reporter simply gets a copy of the speech that will be made, analyzes it as best he can, writes his story and then goes to hear the man say what the newspaper story says he said (if that last part sounds involved, it is.)

It's a routine situation, but there are exceptions — like yesterday.

The Governor made it an exception by being forced to change his travel plans.

He had originally intended to fly from Raleigh, arriving here about noon. Bad weather, however, grounded all planes and he had to drive from Raleigh.

His schedule had been arranged to permit him every possible minute in Raleigh before flying to Greenville. Even with the quickness of an airplane, he was still crowding his schedule a bit.

When he had to drive, it threw the whole plan for his visit into a tizzy. He advised the folks here that he would miss the luncheon, but he "hoped to be in time to make the planned address."

Well, that threw us into a tizzy. We were sitting here with a fat story saying the Governor had been here, when he hadn't, and that he had said certain things, which he hadn't. We went ahead with our plans to use the story, hoping that he would get here.

Just in case he didn't arrive in time, we devised an elaborate scheme to change the wording of the story — if we had time to do that. After that planning, it was just a case of sitting and waiting.

It was a great personal relief to me when the Governor, escorted by Jim Butler of the college, walked into the dining hall. I felt much better, but there was also a certain twinge of sadness to the occasion.

I knew that the group would want to hear what the Governor had to say to them and would be disappointed if he didn't show up... and that they would prefer to have the Governor's address read by someone else if the Governor didn't come.

And I had the only available copy of his speech.

Other Editors Saying--- Cut Costs Or Up Taxes

(Henderson Dispatch)

Word out of Raleigh is that State government activities will either have to trim their sails or the people will be compelled to pay higher taxes. Sagging tax collections the past several months point up the task that will face the Legislature next winter, and which will have to be grappled with by the men nominated for House and Senate in the May 31 primary and who then will be formally elected in November.

As between a choice of reducing expenditures or levying higher taxes there should be no hesitation. Cuts ought to be made of course. The question is as to how much influence the spenders can wield over docile lawmakers.

We can think of no reason why government should not operate on the same general basis as individuals. When one's personal income is reduced, for any reason, he has to draw in his horns and either cut down on spending or go into debt to keep up with the Joneses. The latter cannot go on indefinitely because credit would soon be exhausted. It would be that way with government, too, but for the fact it has the authority to tax, which has sometimes been termed the power to destroy.

Nor has any one explained how the public can bear up under higher taxes when it cannot pay those already in effect. To increase the levies in a time of diminishing returns and a shrinking economy simply does not make sense.

The State of North Carolina in the past several years has gone hogwild in assuming new and heavier obligations, despite warnings that a day of reckoning was almost surely coming. But a majority was convinced that there would be no slackening and that lush prosperity was unending.

For our part, we have the feeling that there will be a definite upturn long before the Legislature moves in on Raleigh next February. That confidence could miscarry. One thing is certain, however, and that is that if the people cannot pay the taxes already piled upon them they will be in no position to pay more. Why cannot public officials envision that reality? And why would they insist upon more from an already overburdened citizenry?

Those who are already doing spadework toward demanding pay increases of the next Legislature may in the end find that they will be fortunate to hold on to what they already have. At least that is more than a good many people are able to do already, and more will be in that category by the time another session convenes unless there is a reversal of trends.

Here and throughout the State, gentlemen who are offering themselves as candidates for Senate or House ought to be asked to commit themselves on the issue of economy and finances in operation of State services. They ought to be asked for a definite commitment, without evasions and ambiguities. And they should not have any hesitancy in taking a stand for soundness and stability, to say nothing for solvency.

Reuther And GM Talk New Contract Issues

DETROIT (AP)—Behind closed doors the General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers are trying to hammer out a new contract that may set a pattern for other industries.

"It looks like the same old tale," UAW President Walter P. Reuther, dapperly dressed in brown, said yesterday as he sat down. GM's vice president for personnel, Louis G. Seaton, just as sharp in a gray ensemble, replied, "That's right, Walter, we can't afford new furniture."

Reuther placed his revolutionary profit sharing proposal on the old mahogany table at which the bargaining has gone on at least a decade.

They decided on a policy of negotiating without public statements.

Reuther, who planned to go to Washington, turned over today's negotiation to UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock, in charge of the union's GM department.

The talks are expected to continue without a major break until the deadline for contract expiration May 29.

Reuther said he will be on hand Monday to open talks at Ford Motor Co. and the following day at Chrysler Corp.

In contrast to the boom year of 1955 when the present three-year contracts were signed, the 1958 talks have a backdrop of mounting unemployment and 900,000 unsold new cars.

Reuther acknowledged the bargaining climate is unfavorable but said he was "dead serious" in demanding profit sharing. The union asks for workers a fourth of the company's profits above 10 per cent of net capital.

The UAW has not put a price tag on its basic demands—a general wage increase and improvements in fringe benefits.

The company has offered to extend for two years the present contract, which gears wages to the cost of living and provides for an automatic annual increase of 6 cents an hour or 2 1/2 per cent, whichever is greater.

GM says the average hourly earnings of employees last year was $2.64, including cost of living allowances. It says fringe benefits boosted this to $2.90.

GM had 360,000 hourly employees last fall. The union says 90,000 have been laid off since. The company says the union estimate of layoffs is about 60,000 too high.

Life Term For Emotionless Boy

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Russell Alex Burchfield Jr., 15, described by a psychiatrist as intelligent but emotionless, today began a life term in the state prison for murdering his younger brother.

"Fifty years ago," Superior Court Judge Warren L. McCarthy told the boy, "there would have been little hesitation in imposing the death penalty on you. However, I feel no compulsion from society at the present time to kill and do away with the deficient and handicapped."

The youth pleaded guilty previously to first-degree murder in the Nov. 9, 1957, fatal shooting of his brother Michael, 11. He told authorities he killed the boy because Michael teased him about serving time in the state industrial school. He could have been sentenced to the gas chamber.

A psychiatrist testified Burchfield was unable to show or receive affection and that, although he could tell right from wrong, he could only know about moral concepts the way a "blind man knew about a sunset."

Japanese Kids Go For Rock 'n' Roll

TOKYO (AP)—The Wild West has moved East, and rockabilly music is jolting its way to the top of the Japanese hit parade.

"This is one of the biggest booms we've ever had," said the manager of Tokyo's Nichigeki Theatre.

Some 7,000 teen-agers a day are packing the seats—and aisles—of the big vaudeville house for the "Western Carnival," a chaotic hodgepodge of the latest American tunes, sung with a pretzel-legged Elvis Presley delivery, slam-wanging guitars and garbled lyrics.

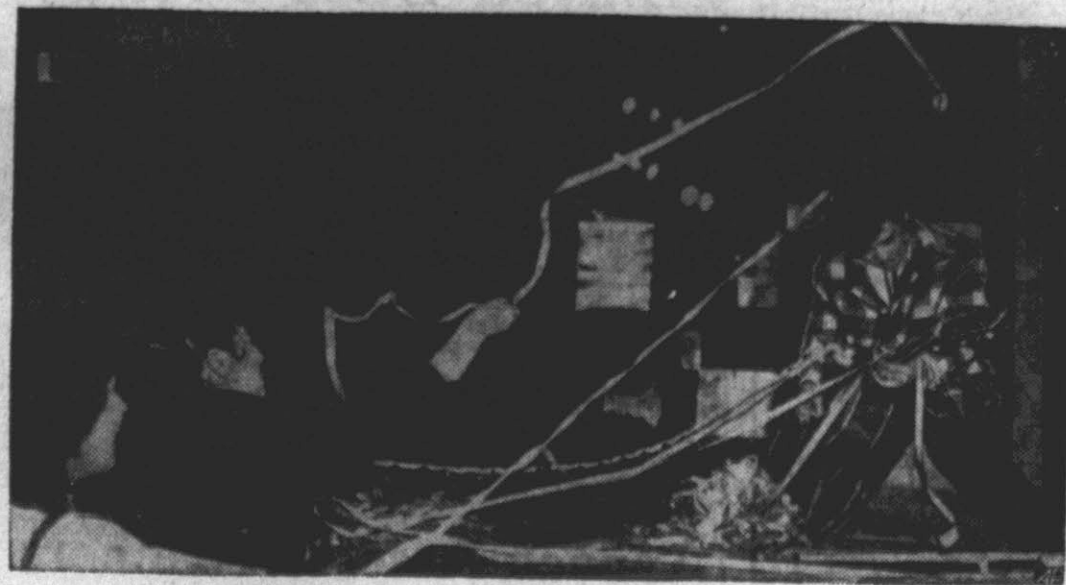

The Japanese difficulty with "R's" and "L's" in English—plus ready admission by the singers that they don't understand the words anyway—makes the tunes come out something like: "Ret's go on a moonright swim," or "Lock around the Crock," and "Just a ronesome cowboy."

"What difference does it make?" said one American in the audience. "You can't hear the music for the screeching."

The audience—wearing sideburns, blue jeans, black student uniforms with only a few throwbacks in kimonos—goes wild over such up and coming groups as the "Chuck Wagon Boys," the "All Stars Wagon," and the "Crazy West."

Where did it all start? From the American juke boxes around Tokyo. Few of the hundreds of rockabilly singers and musicians working in the city can read music, but instead lift the notes and lyrics direct from American records.

The Presley-inspired gyrations of the singers serve a functional purpose on a Japanese stage. A rightly-timed wiggle can save a vocalist from getting beated by a paper streamer with a weighted end, or getting pulled off the stage into the crowd.

The show's finale is a tour de force which drowns out even the audience. Onstage are 50 or 60 assorted dancers in left bank western costumes, two pianos, two drummers, three bass fiddles and 15-count 'em—15 guitars.

"I don't like the music much myself," admits Theater Manager Kenkichi Katsuyama. "But why fight the trend? Business is great."

Researchers Hopeful Of A Cancer Antibiotic

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Reporter

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Scientists are coming closer to an antibiotic against cancer.

Their search began long ago when doctors noticed that a few cancer patients were actually cured when they had a serious bacterial disease, erysipelas. The erysipelas germs were producing a chemical—an antibiotic—that fought against the cancer.

Antibiotic means a chemical or drug produced by living organisms. Penicillin and streptomycin are made by tiny molds. They're effective against many kinds of germs, but NOT against cancers. New steps toward the cancer antibiotics were described today to an American Cancer Society tour for science writers of major U.S. research centers.

Certain bacteria, including erysipelas germs, produce an antibiotic known as a polysaccharide, a complex sugar. These chemicals have had some temporary successes against human cancers. But a drawback is they're quite poisonous or damaging themselves.

But now several new ones have been found which apparently have NO bad effects at all, said Drs. Helga Francis Havas and A. J. Donnelly of the Institute for Cancer Research here. These were developed in a laborious search of mixed products from various combinations of bacteria, and tests of 126 preparations in more than 10,000 mice.

Some cause complete disappearance of two thirds of cancers planted artificially in mice. But they don't do much against natural or spontaneous cancers in mice, the scientists said.

Tested so far on 10 humans with far advanced cancer, the new chemicals have not yet shown any definite, measurable effects, they said. But they are free from bad or damaging effects.

Flying Food To Marooned Camp

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—Close to half a ton of food was to be flown in today to a remote sawmill camp in northern New Mexico. About 60 people are stranded there by roads made into bogs by heavy rain.

First word of their plight became known Friday when a man rode a horse 13 miles to the hamlet of Regina. Officials learned of the marooned group only yesterday.

Horseback was almost the only way out. Even heavy road equipment mired in the deep muck. There was no report of illness among the mill, farm and ranch families in the little community of Liaves. But officials were ready to get a doctor in if necessary.

A "good many children" were reported among the marooned. There was no communication with the group.

Lt. Col. Daniel Boone, who flew in 240 pounds of emergency food last night and dropped it by parachute, said he believed he could fly a doctor in if he used a small plane.

Fortune-Teller Gets The Blame

CINCINNATI (AP)—A fortune teller cost Mrs. Arlene Clary her husband, she testified in Domestic Relations Court in seeking a divorce.

"What was your trouble," Judge Carl Rich asked. "Well, a fortune teller told him to go to Detroit where he could make more money," she said. "So he went. He'll be gone three years this Fourth of July."

International Air Gets New Lift In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hollywood gets more international by the day. The latest to achieve stardom is a statuesque Japanese beauty named Eiko Ando.

Eiko (pronounced Ay-eeko), graduate of sumptuous Tokyo girl shows, is the lucky girl who was chosen to enact the love interest with John Wayne in "The Barbarian." Like Miiko Taka and Miyoshi Umeki of "Sayonara," she has never made a movie before.

"I am truly very lucky," she says with Oriental modesty.

Eiko was born 23 years ago in Harbin, Manchuria. Her father was a Japanese who had made a fortune in manufacturing, and the family went through World War II with comparative comfort.

"After the war, it was different," she said. "The Communists moved in and took everything. My father lost his factories and we were forced to flee to Japan."

Her father tried to rebuild his fortune, but with no success. He died in 1953, and Eiko went to work as a singer. Tall for a Japanese girl—5 feet 7—she made a startling figure and found favor with her throaty voice. Wearing a light wig, she became known as "The Blonde Venus" in the big Nichi Geiki music hall.

John Huston happened to be looking for a Japanese actress to play opposite Wayne. The girl had to be beautiful and move and sing with grace. A friend of Eiko's worked for 20th Century-Fox in Japan and recommended her.

Huston chose her over hundreds of Japanese actresses. She not only fitted the qualifications, but had the added advantage of approaching Wayne's towering stature more than most of her countrywomen.

The studio says she came through the film beautifully and has optioned her for more pictures.

The Park Committee is giving 300 Azaleas for Greene Springs Park and the Kiwanis Club is giving 100 plants. Some 1,000 Azaleas can be planted at the park and individuals and groups can also give plants from the projects. Individuals and groups may purchase plants at Friday's sale for the park, schools, churches or for their homes. Those wanting plans must call Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr. at 3958 not later than 10 p. m. today. Samples of the plants to be sold may be seen at Mrs. Galloway's home on River Dr. today.

Sombre Note Hanging Over Hollywood's Oscar Night

HOLLYWOOD — It's Oscar night in Hollywood tonight and the movie capital will roll out its glamor for the award-conferring occasion. But the somber note of tragedy—death of producer Mike Todd in an airplane crash Saturday—hangs over the festivities. Todd's widow Elizabeth Taylor is one of the major contenders for the best actress award. "I don't care whether I win or not," she said last night while flying home from her husband's funeral in Chicago. "I only care what Mike would have thought if I had won." Seventy of Hollywood's biggest names will appear on the NBC telecast of the award proceedings staged by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Clark Gable and Mae West, among others, will be making their television debuts. Miss Taylor has long been a top favorite in the actress division because of her performance in "Raintree County." Her strongest competition will come from Deborah Kerr ("Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison") and Joanne Woodward ("Three Faces of Eve"). A longshot is Lana Turner, up for her first nomination on her performance in "Peyton Place." Anna Margani, a previous winner is the fifth nominee for her role in "Wild Is the Wind." In the best actor division, the race is strictly between Alec Guinness ("Bridge on the River Kwai") and Marlon Brando ("Sayonara"). The distinguished British actor holds the edge because Brando is a previous winner, although "Sayonara" is a prime favorite among women voters of the Academy. That two-time Oscar winner in the supporting division, Anthony Quinn, is up for "Wild Is the Wind." The other nominees are Anthony Franciosa for "Hatful of Rain" and Charles Laughton, for "Witness for the Prosecution." The best picture award parallels the best actor race. It is between "Bridge on the River Kwai" and "Sayonara" with "Peyton Place." "Witness for the Prosecution" and "12 Angry Men" also contenders. Competition for the supporting actor awards is between two comeback artists—Sessue Hayakawa, the old-time silent picture villain, for "Bridge on the River Kwai" and Red Buttons, the former TV comic, for his first dramatic role in "Sayonara." Favorite for supporting actress is Carolyn Jones for "Bachelor Party."

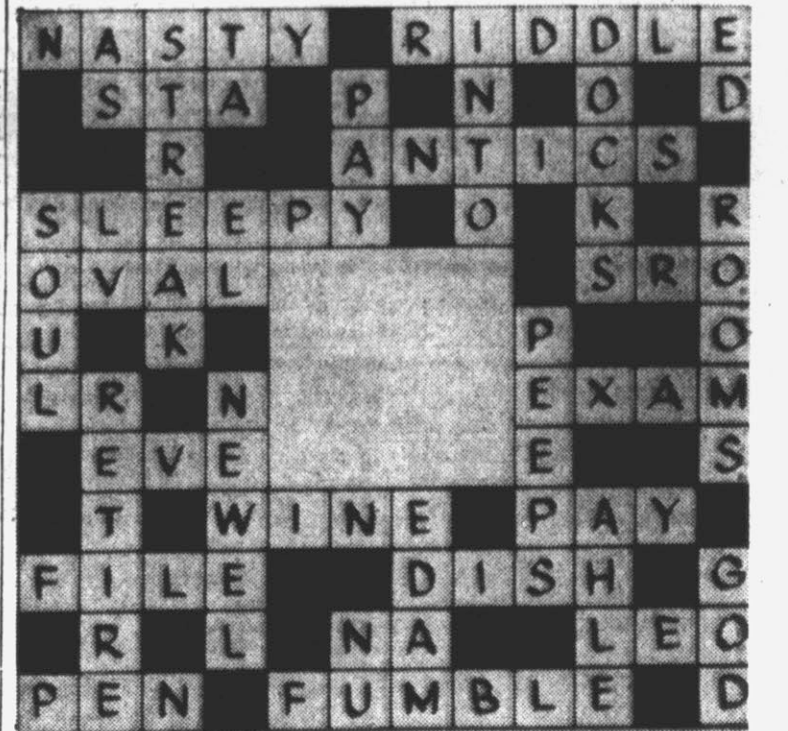

Aycock Asserts Teachers Must Assume Leadership

GASTONIA, N. C. — Teachers must assume leadership in "re-examining educational philosophy in North Carolina," Chancellor William B. Aycock of the University of North Carolina said here last night. He declared many of the vocational skills and classes in technical training "have served to dilute and have become a substitute for what we term education." Aycock addressed a group of Gastonia school teachers gathered at Grier School. He said "The time has come to examine the facts regarding the extent to which some vocational skills taught in our secondary schools are actually useful to pupils in their careers. This is not to say," he added, "that vocational training has no place in the public schools." But he questioned whether technical education ought to be permitted to replace basic studies to the degree now prevalent in North Carolina. The inroads of vocational and technical training, which often eclipse basic studies in the schools must be resisted, he declared, if "quality education" is to be stressed in North Carolina. Aycock told the teachers that officials of the University at Chapel Hill are "examining our own situation in a critical manner" in undergraduate areas. The result shows tendencies toward professional training and vocational studies as distinguished from the liberal arts and sciences. "We are frequently under pressure from occupational groups to give additional specialized training for the purpose of preparing students for a particular trade or occupation."

Pressing 'Hard' For Solid Fuel

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Boeing Airplane Co. is "pressing quite hard" on development of a longer range, solid propellant Bomarc interceptor missile, President William E. Allen said today. "Use of a solid fuel will increase the range," he said. Bomarc is a long-range pilotless missile designed to intercept and destroy enemy aircraft. Its officially announced range is at least 250 miles. The range of the new Bomarc, not disclosed, has been estimated at up to 600 miles. Capable of much greater speed and higher altitude than any manned fighter plane, the Bomarc has been described by the Air Force as one of the most important weapons of the Air Defense Command. The Bomarc is fired vertically into the air from a launching platform. It uses a liquid fuel rocket engine for takeoff power. Once the missile levels off, twin ramjet engines power it for supersonic cruising on a collision course with its target. Although Allen had nothing to say on this point, the advanced version reportedly will be armed with a nuclear warhead.

Missourian Truman Opines Chancellorsville Was Classic

KANSAS CITY — Politics er, was the best tactician of the war, said Truman, once an artillery captain. Of Meade's failure to counterattack the exhausted Confederate army, Truman said: "Meade would have counter-attacked had he been able to, but he was too nearly beaten himself. He held the line and saved the situation." Of all the war's battles, said Truman, Chancellorsville was the perfect maneuver. "They teach Gettysburg up at the Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth," he said, "but they ought to teach Chancellorsville. It's far more useful as far as tactics and maneuvers go." Missouriian Truman praised Confederate Gen. Jo Shelby of Missouri as "a cavalryman who stands up with the best of them." But asked about Jim Lane, leader of Kansas' irregular forces in the border fighting, he said, "I'm prejudiced against Jim Lane. He's that Redleg who burned my house." HARD-HEADED EAGLE. ARCO, Idaho (AP)—An eagle crashed through the windshield of a car driven by Joe Brewer, landed on his lap and sank its talons into Brewer's legs. He said 11 stitches were required to close the wounds. The eagle got away.

Not So Sure Of Full Safety In Flying A-Bomb

WASHINGTON — New safety measures ordered to prevent any further accidental dropping of nuclear bombs apparently reassures everyone except the crews of the bombers. The chances probably are not high that the crew could jettison a bomb quickly if plane trouble were to develop during takeoff or landing. After the latest of a series of accidents—this one near Florence, S. C., March 11—the Defense Department said that the Air Force had "taken interim measures to assure that a similar malfunction" of a bomb lock system does not occur. None of the accidents resulted in fatalities or nuclear explosion. It is understood that Strategic Air Command bombers now have nuclear weapons so firmly attached that wrenches and screwdrivers are needed to prepare the bombs for release. Once a bomber is at altitude and cruising, a crew might have time to disconnect the safety device and clear the way for jettisoning a bomb in event of trouble. But the periods of greatest hazard are during takeoff and landing. Here there would be no time to unfasten safety devices and rid the plane of its TNT trigger for the nuclear bomb. The airman would have to ride the plane—and their luck—to a landing. A safer bomb fastening actually solves only one part of the potential accident problem. Aircraft accidents, rather than bomb release troubles, have caused most of the dozen or so accidents involving planes carrying bombs.

Tragedy Ended A Happy Holiday

MIAMI, Fla. — A carefree day of shopping in the Bahamas ended last night with a plane crash which drowned three adults and two children. The only survivor, Floyd Scites, Detroit, was rescued from the Atlantic 2½ miles off Hollywood by a fishing boat. Scites said he and the Hugh Wilkison family of Dania, Fla., took off from Fort Lauderdale in a rented single-engine plane. They spent the day shopping at Bimini and Nassau and started back about sundown. About 7:15 p. m., Scites said, Wilkison, 34, who was piloting the plane, commented, "It looks like we're out of gas." The plane began losing altitude, hit the water and sank within five minutes. Wilkison; his wife Patricia, 30; their son Dana, 7; Scites' wife Dolores, 30; and their 18-month-old daughter Deborah were drowned. Scites, who was hospitalized with shock and exposure, said he held little Deborah up until his strength failed him. He reported he could find no life preservers aboard the plane.

'Greatest Show' Making Debut

CHARLOTTE — "The Greatest Show on Earth," which for 88 years opened in the biggest U. S. metropolises, makes its formal 1958 debut in this city of 160,000. After performances today through Sunday in the Charlotte Coliseum, which seats 10,000 for the event, it moves on for a big Madison Square Garden stand in New York starting April 3. The Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus—scaling itself to new times and conditions—is a little smaller than before. But its 40 horses, 20 elephants and entourage of 400 persons brought out thousands of clustering youngsters to greet the train-and-truck arrivals and take peeks at their Coliseum rehearsals. Ingredients of the new look, designed for an all-indoor circuit, are fewer animals and more girls. Over one-half of the world's supply of carbon black is manufactured in the vicinity of Borger, Texas. (Pop. 10,018).

WILLIAMS RETURNS—George Williams, sophomore fireballer (working out above) who was injured last week, has returned to East Carolina after an operation at Duke Hospital. The righthander is expected to be back in the Buc lineup in a week or 10 days. In T-shirt to the left of Williams is Coach Jim Mallory. (Reflector Sports Photo).

East Carolina-Wake Forest Contest Called Due To Rain; Delaware Next

By BILLY ARNOLD

A three-day spell of rain and cold weather has forced postponement of the East Carolina-Wake Forest baseball game which was scheduled for this afternoon at the ECC Field.

Announcement of the postponement was made this morning by ECC officials. The game was to have been the opening tilt of the season for both clubs.

Coach Jim Mallory said today that plans are being made to match the two teams again "sometime in May, probably at night."

Word came today from the ECC camp that the injury list is being cleared up rapidly. George Williams, sophomore fireball ace who suffered a cheek injury last week in a collision with teammate Bruce Shelley, was released from Duke Hospital Monday night and is attending classes today. He was operated on this past weekend and is "doing fine," according to Coach Mallory. "He should be ready to pitch in a week or ten days."

Shelley, another pitcher, suffered an injured knee in the collision. He now has a concentration of water on the knee which is forcing his absence from active practice. Coach Mallory stated that Shelley's injury appears to be more of a muscular condition than anything else and is expected to clear up within four or five days.

With Delaware

Now that Wake Forest is out of the way temporarily, East Carolina will have to wait until Monday to open its regular-season play. The Bucs will play host to a strong University of Delaware club which is making its annual southern tour. The Delaware club whipped ECC by a large 13-2 score last season and will have virtually the same club returning, including pitcher Tony DeLucas, who was the winning hurler over the Pirates in 1957.

ECC and Delaware will tangle at the Pirate Field at 3:00 on Monday and again on Tuesday afternoon at the same time.

The Delaware team finished the 1957 season with a 15-6 record and is a powerful club annually.

In the meantime, before that opening tilt arrives, Coach Mallory and Assistant Coach Earl Smith will take their Pirates to Camp Le-jeune this weekend for a two-day practice session with the Lejeune Marines. The session will not be confined on the season's schedule and no scores will be kept.

Mallory will go into the drill session with a definite purpose in mind. "I want to look at all my pitchers, of course, and there are two or three other boys I want to see in action. My main concern right now is to test my hitters against lefthand pitching."

"At the present time, we have five lefthand batters in the starting lineup—six, if we pitch another lefthander—and that could be bad for us if we find out we can't hit lefthand pitching. I want to try a few revisions, test the boys, see if they can hit lefthand pitching and see what we can do about it if they can't."

A Shift

Mallory said that there is a possibility that the Bucs could add a few more righthanders by shifting first baseman Tommy Laird, a righthander, into centerfield, and filling his infield slot with Gary Pierce and put John Jones in rightfield. That would reduce the number of lefthanders to three, if a righthanded pitcher were thrown in. He also mentioned several other possible changes which might be tried at Lejeune.

Thus, at this time, the Pirates are in fairly good physical shape. As far as injuries are concerned, the 26-man squad is ready or will be ready for full-scale action by Monday. The big problem, of course, is the lack of outdoor drill recently due to the weather, and the fact that many of the Bucs have yet to be tested against real competition.

When Monday arrives, the starting ECC unit will contain five veterans and four newcomers, unless changes are made following the weekend session at Lejeune. The probable opening unit will be as follows:

Tommy Laird, first base
Al Vaughn, second base
Jerry Stewart, shortstop
Bucky Reep, third base
Tommy Nance, leftfield
Bill Altman, centerfield
Jerry Phillips, rightfield
Marion Talton, catcher
Ben Baker, pitcher
Land, Stewart, Reep, Nance and Baker are veterans.

Wertz Is FC For Indians

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Three years ago, Vic Wertz lay stricken with polio in a hospital bed, able to move only his hands.

Today, the burly, balding Cleveland first baseman is the Indians' first field captain in nearly 20 years.

To Wertz, in his 15th year of professional baseball, it proves nothing is impossible—and he hopes youngsters stricken with polio can learn from his example.

His bout with polio, at the end of the 1955 season, capped an injury-plagued year. During the entire season, he was unable to play more than 15 games in a row. He injured his hand, wrenched his back, hurt his neck and sprained his thumb. He played only 75 games and batted .253 that season.

Just when he was getting back in shape, he caught polio. After he recovered, his baseball future was a question mark.

The next season, he hit 32 home runs, drove in 106 runs, batted a respectable .264 and played in 136 games.

Manager Bobby Bragan summed up his selection of the 33-year-old first sacker for the field captaincy this way: "Wertz is very popular, and can set a good example for the young players."

Hart, Smith Meet In Welter Bout At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Welterweights Garnett (Sugar) Hart and Charley (Tombstone) Smith clash tonight for a chance at moving higher into the division rankings and nearer to a title bout.

The two figures to put on a good show for those at ringside in the Arena and for the national television audience (ABC, 10 p.m. EST) in their scheduled 10-rounder.

Smith, 24-year-old Los Angeles resident, is an aggressive fighter given to punching in bursts. Hart, 22, of Philadelphia, is a standup fighter who likes to counterpunch.

Hart has 19 knockouts in his 24-3-1 record. Smith has stopped 12 opponents in compiling a 25-5 record.

Card's Boyer Is A Full-Fledged 'Phenom' Now

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals is a full-fledged "phenom" this spring.

He had a bad year in '57 (2.65), and since the Redbirds finished eight games behind the Milwaukee Braves, Boyer's anemic batting average could take some blame.

But it's a new year and a new Boyer has emerged. He now is in center field instead of at third base.

Manager Freddie Hutchinson and Coach Terry Moore are raving about Boyer's new look.

Boyer had one hit in three tries against the Los Angeles Dodgers yesterday, but it went for naught. The Dodgers won 8-0. They scored six runs in the ninth off Bob Kuzava.

At Tampa, Bob Purkey went all the way, doling out only five hits as the Cincinnati Redlegs defeated the Washington Senators 3-1. Dave Sisler ran his hitless pitching streak to nine innings while the Boston Red Sox edged the Braves 4-3.

Brooks Robinson hit two home runs to lead the Baltimore Orioles to an 8-5 triumph over the Cleveland Indians at Tucson; big Dale Long blasted three homers in the Chicago Cubs' 15-4 slaughter of the San Francisco Giants at Phoenix; and the Kansas City A's licked the Detroit Tigers 8-6 at Lakeland, with each team clubbing three homers.

Purkey was the first Redleg pitcher to go nine innings this spring. After Washington scored its only run on a walk and Jim Lemon's triple in the first, only one Senator reached second base. Sisler took over for Tom Brewer in the fourth and set down 15 consecutive batters.

Robinson hit his first homer in the third with no one on base. He

Celtics, Hawks Expected To Meet For NBA Crown

Unless there's a complete about-face by their semifinal opponents, the Boston Celtics and St. Louis Hawks again will meet for the National Basketball Assn. championship.

The Celtics can move into the playoff finals tonight by beating the Warriors in Philadelphia, Boston leads 3-0 in the best-of-seven competition.

St. Louis is in position to clinch a semifinal triumph tomorrow night. Last night, the Hawks took a commanding 3-1 lead over the Detroit Pistons by picking up an easy 145-101 victory.

Robinson Takes Decision And Title From Basilio

Two Catches Change Outlook On Covington

By JACK HAND

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Until the 1957 World Series, the line on Wes Covington was—good hitter but a butcher in the field. Two catches against the New York Yankees changed all that.

"I know my weakness," said the sturdy Milwaukee outfielder. "I'm no Willie Mays out there and I never will be. But I'm struggling to improve."

"There are certain things I do not do right, like holding a runner to one base when he hits one in the hole. In the minors they don't have time to teach you things like that. The manager doesn't have a coaching staff like up here."

The catch Covington made on Bobby Shantz' liner in the second game has been called the turning point of the 1957 World Series. It clocked off a Yankee threat to Lew Burdette. With two on and two out, Shantz drove a curling liner to left. Covington barely snared the ball in the webbing of his glove.

"I was playing Shantz shallow, normal depth for a pitcher. All I could think was 'I'll reach the fence before I get the ball!' I tried not to hold anything back while I ran. I kept saying to myself 'how much more to the fence? Then I got it."

"The catch on Gil McDougald (against the fence in the fifth game, won 1-0 by Burdette) was tougher. I hit the fence and the ball hit my glove at the same time. I had more chance to drop it. I never made a catch like that before."

A year ago Covington, who was born at Laurinburg, N.C., was just another candidate for left field. In fact, he wound up in Wichita for about a month.

"I knew the position was Bobby Thomson's before we started. Only got up seven times, all pinch hitting, before Fred (Manager Fred Haney) told me I was going down to Wichita for 10 or 30 days. When they made the deal that sent Thomson to New York for Red Schoendienst, they brought me back."

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Sugar Ray Robison beat Father Time and one-eyed Carmen Basilio last night to regain the world middleweight championship for an incredible fourth time.

The fight was tough in both cases. Robison was exhausted at the end of the 15 rounds in taking a split decision.

Age (he will be 38 in May) nearly caught up with him. But this was something 30-year-old Basilio, a 2-1 favorite, couldn't do.

The fight actually was between a good welterweight and a good middleweight. Basilio came in at 135 pounds. Robison weighed 159 1/2.

Robison did most of his damage early. In the fifth round he stunned Basilio with three quick lefts to the face and a smashing right that had the champion a little rocky at the bell.

It was then that a cut opened over Basilio's left eye. The eye became swollen shut in the sixth round and from then on he could be considered at the mercy of Sugar Ray.

But the Harlem Dandy couldn't put his courageous little opponent away. The steam of his hey day was gone, and Basilio's raw tenacity made it all the tougher.

The ingredients are present for another rematch, which the International Boxing Club hopes to stage in June in New York. Robison is willing.

Robison wouldn't say yes or no. Basilio's manager demanded a rematch although there was no such stipulation in their contract.

Basilio lifted the 160-pound title from the Sugarman in New York last September on a split decision. This time it was in reverse, the referee again being in the middle.

In New York, the two judges went for Basilio and the referee for Robison. Last night, Judge Frank McAdams saw it for Robison 72-64 under the five-point must system and Judge John Bray scored it 71-64. Referee Frank Sikora voted for Basilio 66-69. The AP card favored Robison 70-63.

Also is the shut-eye angle. Undoubtedly, Basilio would have been much more effective if the curtain had not dropped over his left eye. There were no knock-downs but both fighters landed enough blows to rock each other occasionally.

Another encore appears inevitable, although Gene Fullmer is waiting in the wings for a shot at the crown again and his manager, Marv Jensen, is prepared to file a million dollar suit against the IBC for breach of contract unless he gets it.

The fight was a financial success although it fell far short of the IBC goal of breaking the indoor record date of $422,918 set in Chicago Stadium 11 years ago for the Tony Zale-Rocky Graziano scrap.

Paid attendance last night was announced as 17,976 but there appeared to be a standing-room gathering that would top 20,000. Gate receipts were $351,955 with a net of $278,108.

Basilio and Robison each received 30 per cent of the net and the same cut of an estimated $300,000 from the closed circuit network that was fed into 38 states, Canada and the District of Columbia, $30,000 for radio proceeds and an unknown amount from movie rights. Each will pocket nearly $200,000.

This is the type of payday that shouldn't demoralize a fighter thought by Robison in talking of another rematch.

There is something no one ever can take away from Robison—his ring record. In 150 fights, he has lost only six times. Basilio now stands at 13 defeats in 72 bouts.

Six-Time Champ Robison Isn't Sure What's Next

CHICAGO (AP)—Fabulous Sugar Ray Robison played the role of a six-time champion to the hilt last night by barring reporters from his dressing room and holding a press conference hours later in his hotel suite.

Chicago Just Isn't Carmen Basilio's Town

By BILL CONWAY

CHICAGO (AP)—This is, indeed, Carmen Basilio's jinx town.

Good and gallant as he is, he just can't win in Chicago.

He fought here four times—losing to Chuck Davey and Billy Graham in 1952, to Johnny Saxton in 1956 and to Ray Robison last night.

Chicago, conversely, is Robison's lucky city. In 13 bouts here he lost only one—to Tiger Jones, in 1955, when Robison was making a comeback from retirement.

Although Basilio entered the ring the favorite, the former players could have made a tidy sum on Robison. He never has lost twice to the same man. He maintained that record by whipping Basilio just six months and two days after losing the middleweight title to him in New York.

Robison's advisers made pre-fight claims that Basilio had used an ointment containing chloroform in the New York bout last September. At the end of the first round last night one of Robison's men, Honey Brewer, ascended the steps to Basilio's corner, apparently to see what, if any, salve was being applied. Basilio's handlers gave him the bum's rush and he didn't return.

One of the fight's many punches landed on referee Frank Sikora. Robison threw it in the eleventh round—one of those sweeping but soft rights that seemed to be more of a keep-away gesture than a round house swing. It caught Sikora in the face, but he suffered no injury.

Banks Gets Off To Big Start

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Amazing Ernie Banks, Chicago Cubs' slugging shortstop, already has smashed nine home runs for his fastest spring start ever.

Notoriously slow in getting underway, Banks didn't hit high gear until midsummer last year; but he still batted 43 homers, just one back of the National League leader Hank Aaron.

He came to the Cubs camp here intent on getting off faster than he has in the past. He listened carefully to the Cubs' special batting coach Rogers Hornsby.

"In the past I've had a tendency to swing at bad balls early in the season," Ernie explained. "I'm working with Hornsby to determine the strike zone better. And I'm working to hit more to right field when pitchers throw away from my power. I've popped up a lot in the past trying to pull pitches on the outside of the plate to the left."

Record Spree In High School Game

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Cliff Barrett of San Jose State Freshmen will long remember the 1958 basketball game he played against Washington High School of Fremont.

The marks: 40 points for the game; 17 field goals for the game; 22 points in the first half; and 10 field goals in the opening half.

House Demos Say Jobless Benefits Boost Inadequate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key House Democrats described as inadequate today President Eisenhower's proposal for a temporary increase in unemployment benefits.

They termed the President's request for a one-year government-aided 50 per cent increase in jobless pay coverage a "minimum" proposal they said does not meet emergency needs of the recession.

At the same time, there was growing evidence that some Democrats were leaning heavily toward packing tax reduction, unemployment compensation and an increase in Social Security benefits into a single bill.

This "package" approach to the economic situation was being talked up increasingly among influential House Democrats.

The House Ways and Means Committee scheduled three days of hearings starting tomorrow on the administration jobless pay plan and on twin bills sponsored by Chairman Mills (D-Ark.) and Rep. McCormack (Mass.), House Democratic leader.

The Mills-McCormack bill calls for federal financing of any additional 16 weeks of jobless pay benefits to workers who have exhausted their benefits under present state laws. It also would fix the rate of additional compensation at no less than half the worker's weekly wage.

President Eisenhower asked Congress to increase the period of added benefits by 50 per cent of that now set by the various state laws. This would amount to as much as 13 additional weeks in states with a top coverage of 26 weeks. The amount of each state's weekly payments would not be changed.

Cost of the Democratic sponsored plan would be borne by the federal government without state contribution.

The Eisenhower proposal would place federal financing on a loan basis.

Eisenhower said the states should raise their own payment amounts and duration.

His plan would cost an estimated 500 to 600 million dollars.

Billboard Control Group Predict Senate Victory

WASHINGTON (AP)—Advocates of billboard control along the new federal superhighway network predicted success today as the Senate reached the voting stage on an anti-recession bill to speed up roadbuilding.

The first key roll call was scheduled on an amendment to knock out a provision carrying a potential 200-million-dollar bonus to states that agree to regulate billboards on the 41,000-mile interstate system.

It would make possible a 54-billion-dollar highway program in 1958, although much of this would involve construction in later years. He said it could mean as many as 520,000 new jobs.

Under the billboard section, states would be paid a one-half of 1 per cent bonus based on their portion of the cost of the interstate system if they would sign agreements to regulate the advertising signs.

Rhee Celebrates 83rd Birthday

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Syngman Rhee, president of the Republic of Korea, celebrated his 83rd birthday today still striving to complete the mission he began as a young man—to bring freedom to all Korean people.

Thousands in his capital city turned out to accord him a lavish display of affection and respect. Congratulatory messages poured in from heads of state and diplomatic leaders throughout the free world.

Surprised Over 'Smear' Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Rackets Committee members voiced surprise today at the "smear" charge leveled by AFL-CIO President George Meany in the wake of a report condemning top leaders of five unions.

"Honest, decent unionism should be appreciative and grateful for the service the committee has rendered, rather than condemning the committee," said Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.).

The report, approved by seven of the eight committee members, was critical of the Teamsters Union most of all. It accused Teamster bosses of corruption, misusing union funds and conniving with New York and West Coast racketeers.

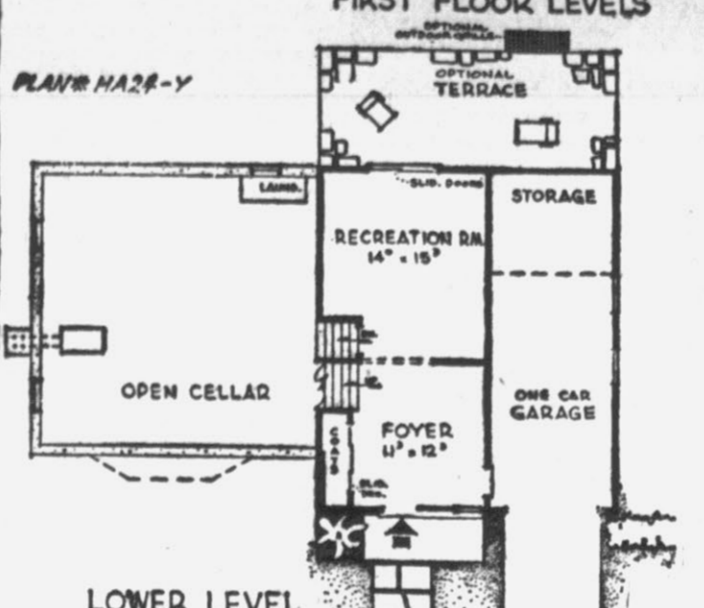

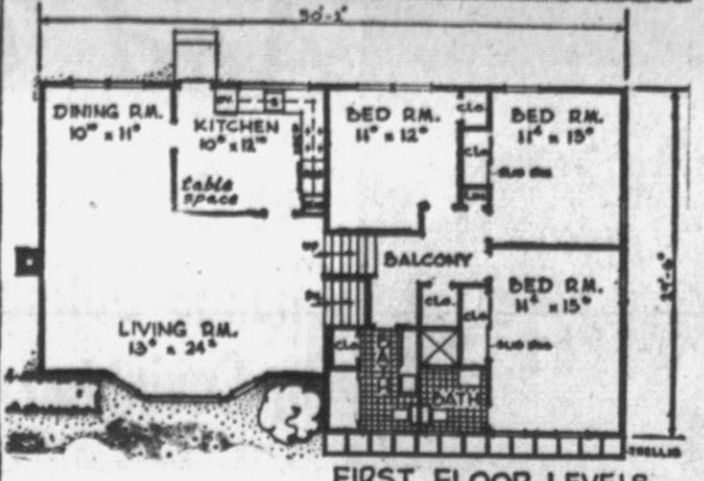

Set Deadline In Appeal By Scales

GREENSBORO (AP) — A May 2 deadline for Junius Irving Scales to file appeal on his Smith Act conviction stemming from past Communist party membership has been set by C.S. Judge Albert V. Bryan.

Scales was recently retried and convicted again on charges of knowingly belonging to a group advocating the government's violent overthrow. He was sentenced to six years in prison by Judge Bryan in U.S. Middle District Court, but was freed under $20,000 appeal bond.

Judge Bryan set the filing date yesterday, allowing Scales' attorneys time to prepare the appeal from transcripts of the three-week trial.

Business Tax Relief Is Not Yet A Sure Thing

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Chances of business getting much tax relief as a recession remedy aren't of the best today. But the clamor grows against what high taxes are doing to long-term business prospects.

Industry's historic ability to create new jobs is threatened, business spokesmen say, both by the high rates and by some of the rules of figuring expenses, and hence taxes.

The arguments run this way: This is a long-range problem and not just a means of easing the current recession. Without new investment there can be few new jobs. High corporate tax rates clip the earnings that business could reinvest in expansion. High personal income taxes, especially in the top brackets, drain one of the past's great sources of risk capital.

Further, even if investment funds are available, a corporation can't attract outside capital if its profits are meager because more than half its earnings go for taxes.

placement costs. They want the rules changed so that they can take depreciation allowances before taxes on what a plant's or machine's value is today rather than on what it may have cost years ago before inflation took its toll.

Fast amortization has helped many corporations to make at least temporary savings on taxes in recent years. This bookkeeping method was permitted by the government usually for plants built on machines bought to further the defense program. Costs could be written off in five years, say, rather than in the usual 20.

Some think that fast amortization, not necessarily just for defense projects, might help link the recession. They urge that firms be allowed to write off new plants in five years if they'll dust off now some of the expansion plans temporarily shelved while waiting to see how deep the recession goes. Such expansion could create jobs.

Some businesses have moved to Southern states or to Puerto Rico on promises of lower state and local taxes or none at all for a time.

There are instances of big companies whose plants are a community's mainstay warning the city fathers to economize and hold the tax line or lose the business. Proposed hikes in state taxes have brought similar warnings from corporations doing a lot of business there.

Many businessmen charge that high taxes just encourage extravagance at every level of government. They argue that a stand against high taxes must be taken sometime—slump or no slump.

Two Bond Issues Voted Approval

ELKIN, N.C. (AP) — Two bond issues have been approved in this area, one by Elkin voters for $225,000 for a sewer treatment plant and another by Jonesville voters for $75,000 to improve the town water works.

The Elkin vote yesterday was 164 in favor and nine against, while in Jonesville the issue carried 126-104.

Jonesville citizens defeated a $136,000 bond issue for enlarging the sewer system, 134-97.

Travel-Study Tour In Geography Will Be Offered This Summer

East Carolina College will offer as a feature of the 1958 summer session a travel-study tour in geography. It will extend over a period of twenty-four days and will take those enrolled to ten states in this country and five Canadian provinces.

The tour, scheduled for July 14-August 6, will be a field trip in geography planned to give students an understanding and appreciation of conditions and problems in the area of travel. Work will be based on observation and on materials distributed to students at the college and en route.

Dr. Robert E. Cramer, professor of geography at East Carolina, will direct the tour and act as instructor. Six or nine quarter hours of college credit on either the graduate or the undergraduate level may be earned, according to the type and amount of work done by the student. Those who do not wish to work for credit may enroll as auditors.

After preliminary sessions July 14 in the geography department on the East Carolina campus, students will travel by air-conditioned Trailways bus to points of interest included on the tour. Among places to be visited are Boston; Cape Cod; the Gaspe Peninsula, Quebec; Montreal; Toronto; Niagara Falls; and Corning, N.Y., located of the famous Corning Glass Works.

Inquiries about the tour should be addressed to Dr. Ralph Brimley, Director of Field Services, Box 307, East Carolina College, Greenville, N.C.

Murder Charges Face Bartender

BEAUFORT, N.C. (AP) — Sonny Sikes, 21-year-old bartender, is being held in jail here without privilege of bond on a charge of murder in the shooting of a young Marine.

Pfc. Clayton B. Hall Jr., 21, died yesterday in the Naval Hospital at Camp Lejeune from an abdomen wound received in a tavern brawl March 13 at Anne's Place, four miles west of Morehead City.

Pfc. Edward Keane, 24, was wounded in the leg in the same incident. Hall, who was stationed at the Cherry Point Marine Air Base, along with Keane, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton B. Hall Sr. of Syracuse, N.Y.

Following the shooting, Sikes, a bartender at the tavern, was charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill and released under $2,500 bond. Sheriff Hugh Salter said he was arrested again yesterday on a murder charge. He will be given a preliminary hearing tomorrow in Recorder's Court.

Sikes was quoted by officers as saying he shot one of the Marines when he grabbed a stool and rushed behind the bar to hit him. He shot the second man, he said, when he also rushed at him.

The real name of George Sand, distinguished French novelist, was Amandine Aurore Lucile Dudevant.

Long Way To Go For First 2 Probers Of Outer Space

By STEVE LOWELL
ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — In America's first tentative probing toward outer space, two men have soared 18 miles or higher.

If manned satellites come within a few years, either might become this nation's first space traveler.

They are a dissimilar pair. Capt. Joe Kittinger, 29, is the eager enthusiast. He won his wings in a fighter plane at 21, after a year and a half at the University of Florida. He was assigned to Germany, later was transferred to the Air Force Missile Test Center here as a training officer.

One of his first jobs was to lecture on parachute jumping. "I never had made a jump and felt that people didn't respect my advice for that reason," he says. So he won permission to go through jump school at El Centro, Calif.

When he returned, he gave talks on his experiences. One of his listeners was Lt. Col. David Simons. Simons was off for jump school, and Kittinger went along for a second round.

Simons, 35, is the intense, scholarly scientist and physician. "The big question in college," he says, "was whether to go into medicine or physics. I decided on medicine on my father's advice, and I'm certainly glad I did." His father was the late Dr. Sam Simons, a general practitioner of Lancaster, Pa.

Simons was a flight surgeon during the Korean War, because interested in space medicine, now in chief of the space biology branch of the missile test center. He is in charge of evaluating the hazards of cosmic radiation at high altitudes. In his research he has used balloons to carry animals to altitudes as high as 120,000 feet.

Simons is 6 feet, weighs 180 and has receding brown hair. He is married and lives with his wife and four children on Lovers Lane in Alamogordo. He enjoys swimming, but his favorite hobbies are photography and radio.

Kittinger, from Orlando, Fla., is red-haired and blue-eyed, 5 feet 11, and a trim 155, but it's an effort. He hunts, fishes, exercises regularly and watches his diet because "everything I eat goes to the middle." He, his wife and two children live at Holloman Air Force Base here, where he is assistant operations officer in the fighter test section.

Kittinger flew the photographic jet plane in 1954 when Col. John Paul Stapp made his record 632-mile-an-hour rocket sled run to test man's reaction to sudden acceleration and deceleration. In that race, incidentally, Stapp won.

When Stapp, now head of the missile center's aero-medical laboratory, set up Project Man High for high ascension balloons, Kittinger applied. He had to get a balloon pilot's license.

By last summer, Simons and Kittinger were ready for the big flights. Kittinger went to 96,000 feet. A few weeks later Simons broke the record by soaring to 102,000 feet.

In addition to his ballooning, Kittinger has been flying the fastest jets in experiments primarily designed to solve the mysteries of weightlessness — when man gets beyond the pull of gravity and has nothing to hold him, his tools or his food unless they are tied down.

Of becoming the first man into outer space, he says: "If everything were ready, I would go. I feel I have the qualifications — through parachute and balloon training and through survival training as a pilot and four years of subgravity flying."

Simons concedes that a pilot may be the first man into space, but he says: "Selecting the pilot is more than just selecting a man to do or die. He must be able to understand the scientific and engineering meaning of what takes place during the flight. The most valuable test pilots are those who are scientists and engineers."

"The man chosen must come back with as much information as possible. He must have a keen appreciation of the problems of the first flight. He must grow up with it. This doesn't exclude the pilot. He just must have other qualifications."

Tomorrow: The problems of zero-G.

Four Governors Eying Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four state governors want to come to Congress and two others may announce similar candidacies before fall primaries.

In California, Gov. Goodwin J. Knight is running for the Republican senatorial nomination in a June 3 primary. He seeks the seat being vacated by Sen. William F. Knowland, a candidate for the GOP nomination for governor.

South Dakota Gov. Joe Foss will seek the Republican nomination for the House in a June 3 primary. He will attempt to unseat Democratic Rep. George McGovern.

Republican Gov. Joseph B. Johnson of Vermont has been rumored as a possible candidate for the state's lone House seat being vacated by Rep. Winston L. Prouty, who is bidding for the Senate nomination. The primary is Sept. 9.

In Maine, Gov. Edmund S. Muskie has announced he will run for the Democratic senatorial nomination in a June 16 primary. The seat is held by Sen. Frederick R. Payne (R).

Democratic Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania has party organization backing for the senatorial nomination in a May 20 primary. Sen. Edward Martin (R) is retiring.

Arizona Gov. Ernest W. McFarland (D) may run in a Sept. 9 primary for a Senate nomination to oppose Sen. Barry Goldwater (R). He has yet to announce his plans.

Speculation Rises Bulganin Will 'Go'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Speculation is mounting in Western circles that a new premier may be installed in Nikolai Bulganin's chair when the Soviet Union's new Parliament convenes tomorrow in Moscow.

Rumors have been cropping up for more than a year that the bearded traveling companion of Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev was the way out. Some diplomats reason that a session of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) would be a logical place to open the trapdoor if the 62-year-old veteran Bolshevik has been marked to go.

If Bulganin is dropped, his successor may be Alexei I. Kirichenko, 50-year-old former first secretary of the Ukraine Communist party and long one of Khrushchev's top aides.

Kirichenko, a full member of the party's ruling Presidium, rose to the top echelon last December when Khrushchev made him a member of the party Central Committee's secretariat.

Speculation that a shakeup was in the wind heightened when Moscow radio broadcast a list of Soviet officials attending a dinner for U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. Bulganin was not mentioned.

The Kremlin itself has given no hint of any shakeup.

Doubt over Bulganin's future rose anew in connection with the election last week of the more than 1,300 members of the new Supreme Soviet.

Under party tradition, each Soviet leader is offered a number of candidacies from which to seek his Supreme Soviet seat. He picks his district. The number of candidacies is a measure of his prestige.

Khrushchev received more than 600 nominations. Second place went to the 77-year-old figurehead President, Klement Voroshilov, and third to Kirichenko, who got more than 200. Bulganin was virtually out of the running. Instead of the Moscow district he previously represented, he wound up as candidate from a remote area.

Many believe Bulganin may face belated punishment for his reportedly lukewarm stand in last year's "antiparty" purge. There were reports he had not been very firm in support of Khrushchev during the crisis.

Educator Lashes Out At 'Failure' Claims

By G. K. HODENFIELD
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An educator lashed out today at "careless, misinformed or deliberately destructive critics who say our schools have failed."

"Crash programs may be appropriate for missile production, but not for teaching children," declared Dr. Anne Hopcock of the New Jersey State Board of Education. "We must not offer up our young, like lambs for the sacrifice, on the altars of our national pride."

"These breast-beating, professional critics," she said, "are trying to sell the American public a bill of goods. Thus far they have failed. But one wonders how long the people can keep a balanced point of view in the face of this widespread campaign to destroy their faith in the public schools."

In an address prepared for delivery to the annual convention of elementary school teachers, Dr. Hopcock said: "The people who have been damning public education... show little concern that our children are being taught in basements and firehouses, jammed into overcrowded classrooms, operating on double or triple shifts, taught by under-trained and underpaid teachers. They just hold forth eloquently about the crisis in education and the failure of the schools."

She urged the 4,000 convention delegates to go home and "tell the people that they are being deceived when they are told the schools have failed. Tell them our American public schools are the best in the world."

Dr. Hopcock said she was alarmed at the recent burst of enthusiasm for Soviet education. "We are moving toward totalitarianism," she said, "when we 'toughen up' and 'speed up' the program beyond the readiness of the children involved."

Dallas, C. Dixon of Grantsboro and Greenville, senior at East Carolina College, is serving during the spring quarter as commanding officer of the cadet group of the Air Force ROTC on the campus here. He holds the rank of cadet lieutenant colonel.

As Cadet Corps Commander, he replaces Paul L. Singleton of Plymouth.

Dixon, a veteran of the U. S. Air Force, worked during his period of service in the demotions field.

At AFROTC Awards Day Ceremonies on the campus March 15, he received the Air Force Association medal for demonstrating outstanding ability in college and Air Force academics, leadership, military bearing, drill, and exercise of command. The medal was presented by Vice Admiral Charles B. Momen, U.S.N., retired, a visitor at East Carolina College on Awards Day.

Pacifists Sail For Test Area

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four pacifists have sailed again in the ketch Golden Rule to protest nuclear tests in the Pacific.

The 30-foot boat was turned back by a storm when it set out for the Marshall Island area Feb. 10.

Skipper Albert Smith Bigelow, 51, Cos Cob, Conn., said he expects the Golden Rule to reach the test area by May 15-25 and remain there indefinitely. The tests are scheduled between April and August.

Completing the crew are William Reed Huntington, 51, St. James, N.Y.; Orion Sherwood, 28, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.; and George Willoughby, 43, Blackwood, N.J.

Fight Fans Sat This One Out

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — About 1,800 fight fans crowded into the Grand Rapids Armory last night to watch the Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio bout on big-screen closed-circuit television.

They sat in their $3.30 seats as the national anthem was played in Chicago Stadium.

Then the picture flickered and died.

Technicians, watched by 50 die-hard fans, were still trying to fix it when the announcer reported Robinson had won.

The promoter said he refunded the nearly $6,000 he had collected.

Beat Teacher

NEW YORK (AP) — Schoolboy gossip overheard by a patrolman has led to the arrest of 12 boys, all members of a Bronx youth gang, on charges of beating a schoolteacher.

The boys, all Negroes, reportedly admitted slugging the teacher, Arthur Santos, with a softball bat while exhilarated by wine.

Santos, a 36-year-old white minister awaiting ordination, was beaten in the playground of a Bronx park when he tried to protect his students from being robbed Monday.

Patrolman Edward Morgan, on duty outside a junior high school near the park, overheard students talking about the attack. Asst. Dist. Atty. Martin Todell said, and passed his information to detectives, who rounded up the youths.

Six of the boys, 16 to 18 years old, were charged with assault and robbery. Six under 16 were charged with juvenile delinquency.

Texas, Iowa, California and Illinois are the four top ranking states in value of agriculture.

THE LONE DEPUTY

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Price Regan, town marshal of Saddle Rock, Colo., and deputy Sheriff of Tremaine county, has more on his mind than Laura Madden, even though she has just announced to him that he is marrying her. Price would be willing to marry Laura if he was not the man in the middle in a struggle of money, power and pride between two determined men. One is Laura's father, Barry Madden, Saddle Rock's banker. Price suspects that Madden isn't the strong man he appears to be, but is or can be dominated by Cole Weston, a cattleman whose riders do not respect any laws. Madden thinks he owns Price . . .

CHAPTER 2

Barry Madden got up from his desk and walked to a big map of Tremaine County that hung on the wall. "Price," he said, "I sent for you this morning for just one reason. I want you to do your job as deputy sheriff." Madden pointed to the Singing Wind Range that bisected the county. "Here's a barrier that cuts us off from the east half of the county where most of the people live. Farmers." He said the word with evident distaste. "Ralph Carew is a farmer's sheriff."

"He'd be the first to admit it," Madden put his finger on the mountain range as if he hadn't heard. "Here's Domino Pass, closed most of the year. Still closed even in June. Thirty miles to the county seat across the pass, but better than one hundred if you swing north around the mountains so we're actually cut off from the rest of the county for the time the pass is closed. That makes you the law in this end of the county for more than half of each year."

Price nodded, wondering what Madden was getting at. "We're going to have our own county one of these days," Madden stabbed the town of Saddle Rock with a forefinger. "When we do, the county seat will be right here. I'll see to it that you'll be first sheriff, and you won't have to take Laura away from home."

the river for miles to the south the country was claimed by the Rocking C. Cole Weston's spread. How the settlers survived on a hardscrabble range like the Yellow Cat Valley was a mystery to Price, and the answer might lie in the gossip that was prevalent, that Cronin and the settlers consistently stole from the big ranches that surrounded them.

Price turned to the banker. "Barry, I've been out there hunting for evidence, but I've never found any. When and if I do, I'll arrest Cronin and anyone else who's implicated. Until I do, I will not run Cronin anywhere."

Madden was breathing hard. "To hell with evidence," he shouted. "You know what Cronin's doing. You let it go and there'll be a fight. The only way to stop it is to get rid of Cronin. If you don't, you'll lose both your job and your girl."

"You can take the job away from me," Price said, "but I'm not so sure about my girl. I guess that's up to her." He walked to the door and stopped to look back. "Barry, there's one thing you're forgetting. Cronin and the settlers are innocent until we get the evidence to prove they're guilty. If it's as bad as you think, why hasn't Weston or one of the others brought in some evidence?"

Price didn't have time to finish his sentence. Blue rushed him, a big fist swinging for his head. Someone on the street yelled, "Fight! Fight!" and men rushed out of doorways to form circles around Price and Blue in front of the livery stable. Price backed up and, turning, caught Blue on the side of the head with a hard right that jarred and hurt the cowboy.

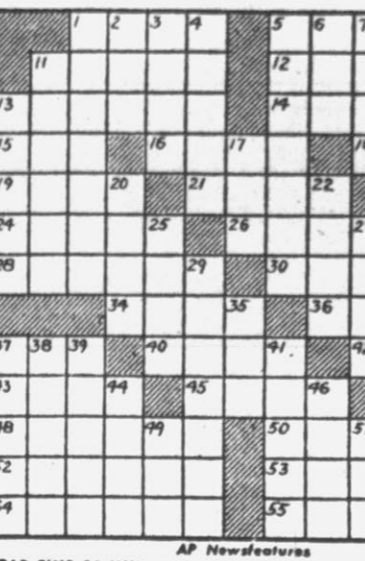

Blue grunted and wheeled and came at Price again. Wickedness danced in his eyes, cold, calculating wickedness as if he were thinking of all the injuries he had suffered at Price's hands in the past and now he was going to square his account.

Price backed up again, ducking a roundhouse right, and slammed a punch through to Blue's nose, which flattened under his fist like an overripe tomato. The cowboy belched in pain and charged again. Curly Blue knew only two ways to fight: to keep boring in until one of his clublike blows landed, or to get his arms around his enemy and drag him down into the dust. He'd butt with his head or use his elbows and knees, or gouge out a man's eyes with his thumbs. Knowing this, Price kept backing up, taking Blue's punches on his elbows or shoulders, or ducking them and countering with blows that stung but lacked the authority it took to end the fight.

Price had a fast pair of hands, and Ralph Carew had insisted he learn to use them just as he had insisted Price learn to handle a gun. So now Price waited for the chance he was certain would come . . .

Mother And 5 Children Perish

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A young mother and five children perished today in an early morning fire in a two-story frame house here, police reported.

The house was ablaze when firemen reached the scene. They had to wait until there was practically nothing left of the home but a shell before going in to remove the bodies.

Police identified the victims as Betty Gallagher, 25, and her two children, Jimmy 2, and Debbie, 4; and the three children of James George—Glenn, 7, Barbara, 10, and Larry, 12.

George himself escaped the blaze but was hospitalized for treatment of burns.

He told police he was sleeping with his two sons when the fire broke out. He put the boys out on the porch roof but they apparently were driven back inside by flames which quickly enveloped the house.

George, 50, said he fell down a flight of stairs going to the first floor and got out through a bathroom window. Firemen said he suffered first, second and third degree burns over 50 per cent of his body.

Police said the Georges and Gallaghers were related, but did not know in what way. Their house was about 1 1/2 miles west of the downtown area.

They said Mrs. Gallagher was separated from her husband.

Mrs. George was staying at a relative's house when the fire broke out.

Police Say Boy Admits Stealing Two Automobiles

CLOVER, S.C. (AP)—Police said today a 14-year-old Gastonia, N.C., boy admitted stealing two cars, the second of which he wrecked in front of the Clover police station yesterday.

Police Chief Bill Byers identified the boy as Thomas Watson Smith of 2632 South Crawford St., Gastonia.

Byers said the boy signed a statement admitting the theft of a car yesterday belonging to Mrs. William Dickson of Rt. 1, Clover. Byers quoted the boy as saying statement admitting the theft of a car yesterday belonging to Mrs. William Dickson of Rt. 1, Clover. Byers quoted the boy as saying he drove the car to the vicinity of Cowpens where he ran out of gas, hitchhiked to Spartanburg and stole a car which he wrecked here.

The chief said a bill of indictment accusing the boy of auto theft will be presented to a grand jury. Smith is being held in the York County jail.

Quick-Launching For H-Bombers

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Hydrogen bomb-carrying planes of the Strategic Air Command could be airborne within 15 minutes to strike against any nation which launches a surprise attack on the United States, Maj. Gen. David Wade said yesterday.

Wade, commander of the Air Force's first missile division, said in a speech that one third of the SAC's bombers "are at the end of their runways, loaded with hydrogen bombs and ready to take to the air in 15 minutes."

The Nobel prizes (Swedish) for outstanding world contributions in physics, chemistry, physiology or medicine, literature and world peace annually amount to $40,000 each.

Island-Bound Health Official Delayed By Fog

OCRACOKE, N.C. (AP) — Fog prevented a second State Health Department official from traveling to today. Department officials, however, reported the epidemic was this flu-struck fishing community continuing to subside.

Dr. Jacob Koornen, assistant director of the State Epidemiology Division, had planned to join Dr. Paul Glezen, another division official, at this other banks village.

Dr. Glezen reported to the state department by telephone this morning that he was working day and night. The epidemic "seems to have subsided considerably," the doctor commented. "The situation is much better at the present time."

He said about 80 per cent of the community's 500 residents have suffered from influenza-like disease within the last two or three weeks.

Dr. Glezen has been obtaining blood samples and throat washings which he plans to take back to the department at Raleigh on Friday to try to find the nature of the illnesses.

Dr. Norton said Glezen reported that the community had passed the crisis in its battle with the epidemic.

Dr. Glezen said about 85 per cent of the 90 persons he visited had been ill within the last two or three weeks. The small central school on the island reopened Monday, he reported, with about 60 per cent of the student body present. Most of those absent were in the first four grades.

An estimated 70 per cent of the island's 500 residents were stricken by the illness. One of the ailing was Miss Katherine Bragg, 60, only nurse in the area. She was improving, she said, and continuing to help out by using the telephone to dispatch messengers with drugs and instructions.

During the Asian-flu epidemic last fall Ocracoke came out virtually unscathed. Dr. Glezen said, while Hatteras, a few miles to the north, was severely hit.

Dr. Koornen and Dr. Glezen plan to remain here at least until Friday.

Prisoner Flees Near Siler City

SILER CITY, N.C. (AP) — An honor grade prisoner jumped off the back of a prison truck near here last night and escaped.

Prisoners Director W. F. Bailey said Pless Dillard Matthews, 40, of Charlotte, was traveling from Asheboro to the Polk Prison Camp near Raleigh with two other construction gang inmates when he fled.

Bailey said the escape occurred near Siler City on U.S. 64. He said the fugitive had been doing construction work as an honor grader at the Irred Prison Camp.

Charlotte police said Dillard's first name is Jack but that much of his record carries him as Pless. He was sentenced Aug. 27, 1954, to 10 to 18 years for the armed robbery of a Charlotte motor court.

The man on duty at the motor court was beaten severely with a pistol and robbed.

Delay In Decision For Corn Supports May Spell Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration delays in announcing price programs for corn kept alive today speculation that President Eisenhower may yet compromise with Congress on farm support levels.

Farm leaders generally expected the President to veto a bill passed last week directing a one-year freeze of price supports at not less than 1957 levels.

But a veto would not necessarily close the door to administrative modification of some price support reductions previously ordered by Secretary of Agriculture Benson. In 1956 Eisenhower vetoed a farm bill because of his objections to price support provisions. But in doing so he raised supports of some products above previously announced levels.

Some political observers said such a modification at this time would do much to ease the adverse reaction that a veto might engender in farm areas.

Midwestern Republicans, awaiting Eisenhower's decision, indicated that a veto may cost the administration their votes on foreign aid and reciprocal trade measures.

Chairman Schoeppel (Kan) of Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee told reporters there is "a considerable feeling of unrest on the part of many senators" at the prospect of a veto.

"Some of these senators are disturbed about how far they can go in supporting some other programs if the farmers at home get reduced prices for their products and have to pay increased prices for what they buy," he said.

"Their votes on the foreign aid and reciprocal trade programs are likely to be reflected by what is happening in the economy at home."

Schoeppel was one of 17 Republicans who voted in a closed meeting of the Senate Republican Policy Committee to urge President Eisenhower to sign the freeze bill.

Fourteen GOP senators opposed the move.

This indicated a considerable shift in sentiment from last Friday. Then GOP members voted 25-13 against the measure when the Senate ordered it sent to the President on a 48-32 roll call count.

Much of the controversy between the administration and congressional critics centers on reductions in supports for dairy products, due to go into effect April 1.

Secretary Benson has directed that milk support prices be reduced from $3.25 to $3.03 a hundred pounds and butterfat from 58.6 cents to 56.2 cents a pound.

The administration could offer a justification for a smaller reduction in the dairy products. The key to such action would be the support rate for corn — as yet unannounced but long overdue.

Prices of corn and other livestock feeds are important in determining adequate milk prices.

First In County

Chico has become the first Pitt County community to meet its quota in the 1958 fund drive of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

County Drive Chairman Fred Webb said this morning that Chico chairman Mrs. B. Alton Gardner had turned in $125, 28 per cent more than the community quota. Webb also said the Stokes community, where the drive is being directed by Mr. Bryson C. Wally Roberson, had turned in 92 per cent of its quota thus far.

Third Capital Charge Awaits Missing Man

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — alert had been issued for Allison, believed armed and extremely dangerous.

The rape-murder warrant was drawn up following a conference between Powers, Sheriff Paul Z. Hill, SBI Agent C. D. Davis and Solicitor C. O. Ridings. It charges Allison killed the girl "with premeditation and deliberation and with malice aforethought."

Allison's room across the hall from the girl's contained blood-stained bedclothes, a blood-smeared razor blade and an unsigned note that said: "I done what she asked me to do."

Police theorized Allison slashed his wrists in a suicide attempt. They have considered the possibility he may have died.

Allison was described as 6-foot-3, 180 pounds, slender, ruddy, and with light brown wavy hair, blue eyes and tattoos on his chest and left arm.

Quadruplet Birth Turns Out To Be In Cat Family

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP) — Those quadruplets that provincial legislators reported were born March 14 at a Northern outpost already are able to walk. Their eyes are open too.

They're cats. Rep. Roy Brown confessed to the Manitoba Legislature. The Mrs. Calico Jones born Brown had named as the mother turns out to be Mrs. Jones' cat Calico.

The former bush pilot proudly told the Legislature about the quadruplets last Thursday to show how "wonderful and progressive" his north Canadian constituency is. But when the information was questioned, Brown checked back at the outpost of Winnipeg.

Turned out that Mrs. Jones had written a letter which a radio announcer had shown to Brown — hastily, perhaps — saying her cat Calico had given birth to quadruplets.

Fire Attributed To Faulty Flue

A defective flue set fire to the ceiling and roof of a building on 14th St. last night, threatening a night spot and a furniture store located in the building.

An alarm shortly before 9 o'clock brought firemen to the Blue Moon Club which is located over Reese Furniture Store.

Firemen said a stove pipe leading from a large stove in the center of the club set fire to the ceiling and roof of the building.

The fire fighters hauled booster lines up rear outside steps of the concrete block building to extinguish the blaze.

The Blue Moon Club was located upstairs in the building and the furniture store downstairs. Jonah Reese is owner of the structure.

Four trucks answered the box alarm.

Earlier in the evening at 7:30 a truck was sent to the home of Mrs. J. J. Baker at 1806 Dickinson Ave. where a gas stove control caused trouble. There was some smoke damage to the kitchen of the home, firemen reported.
