Marchers Continue Cold Trek

Weather Cuts Deeply Into Ranks Of Protestors Of Nuclear Testings

LONDON (AP)—A group of Britons set out in bitter weather today on the second leg of a four-day protest march against the H-bomb as calls for a halt in nuclear tests came from both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Some 4,000 marchers clocked off 11 miles of their 50-mile trek last night to the accompaniment of a Dixieland band.

This morning, in what the Air Ministry called the worst Easter weather on record, only 500 persons showed up to continue the March.

The group had halted for the night at suburban Hounslow on the way to Aldermaston, Britain's Nuclear Weapons Research Center.

Three Laborite members of Parliament and several clergymen led the procession which already has touched off one London counter-demonstration by about 40 veterans who say the government needs to make and test nuclear weapons for protection.

Meanwhile, opponents of the tests demonstrated in other lands as East and West continued their verbal duel over the nuclear issue.

Speaking in Budapest, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev denied President Eisenhower's contention that Russian suspension of nuclear tests is a propaganda gimmick.

In Washington, a group of scientists, churchmen and others urged Defense Secretary McElroy and the five Atomic Energy Commission members in an attempt to halt U.S. tests.

Similar suits were planned in Britain and Russia.

Easter Rites Hold Off Castro's War

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's "total, implacable war" against Cuban President Fulgencio Batista began today as a war of nerves.

The nation was tense but relatively calm. The big push "to be free or to perish"—as Castro put it in his declaration of war against the strongman President—may not come until after Easter holidays end Monday morning.

Some rebel sources in Havana claim the Catholic Church has been friendly to the 31-year-old rebel leader's cause and he would not want to antagonize the Catholic hierarchy by open attacks during religious celebrations.

There was also no sign of Castro's long-threatened call for a general strike. Rumors in Havana said the bearded insurgent leader would issue the call from his mountain hideout on Tuesday.

Castro claims 50,000 supporters would then pour into the streets, halt all commerce and do battle with the police and the army.

But the government, with the backing of the powerful Cuban Confederation of Labor, has vowed there will be no strike. Workers have been authorized to kill anyone who urges them to walk off their jobs. Those who strike will lose their jobs permanently. Employers have been threatened with jail if they close down their businesses.

Castro's declaration of war went into effect at one minute past midnight—but not a shot was heard in downtown Havana at that time and there were no reports of stepped-up rebel activity from anywhere in Cuba.

Castro had pledged: "From this instant on, the country is in a state of total war against the tyranny of Batista. The war will be waged implacably."

Havana abandoned its traditionally gay mood. Streets, night-spots and hotels were almost deserted. Rebel sympathizers, who claimed they had arms stashed away in buildings on almost every street in this capital, awaited orders from Castro's stronghold in the Sierra Maestra of Oriente province on Cuba's eastern tip.

Castro sent out bearded police patrols to keep the peace. The rebels' determination was matched by confidence in the Batista camp which verted on cockiness. The 57-year-old former army sergeant, who has dominated Cuban politics for almost half his lifetime, had 38,000 men under arms.

Batista's military leaders had no doubt they could wipe out Castro's 2,000 or so mountain guerrillas—if only they would come out of the backwoods for an open fight.

Two rebel columns totaling about 1,600 men have been shooting up transportation and communications in Oriente for the past few days. But they have held off in a full-scale assault on the 5,000 troops garrison within the provincial capital of Santiago.

Their strategy appeared to be aimed at starting out Batista's men and then taking over with a general strike.

Castro has kept this prosperous island of six million persons on edge for 16 months with guerrilla forays, sabotage and subversive proclamations.

His proclamation bringing the war against Batista to what he called "its final stage" was issued on Good Friday.

It ignored completely a renewed offer of amnesty made the night before by Premier Gonzalo Guell. Castro has previously refused to have anything to do with any regime, including Batista's.

Red Hungarians Told Not To Rely On Russian Help In A New Revolt

'Must Help Yourself,' Says Khrushchev; Many Soviet Troops In Country

STALINVAROS, Hungary (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev warned Hungarian Communists today that if a new revolt comes, they must not depend on Russian help.

Speaking to an outdoor crowd of 20,000 in this steel mill town built by the Communists and named for Stalin, Khrushchev said:

"You should not think that if the counterrevolution comes again you can depend on the Russians to come again and help. You must help yourselves."

He spoke without notes. Apparently he did not mean to imply that he unconditionally banned future armed Soviet support. Much of his speech was devoted to the help the Soviet army had given Hungarian Communists in the 1956 revolt.

Foreign military observers estimate that there still are 30,000 to 40,000 Soviet troops in the country.

It was the fourth day of the Soviet delegation's visit to Hungary. For his first excursion out of the capital, Khrushchev picked a town closely identified with the old idea that every Communist country must have its own heavy industry. The 1956 rebels considered Stalinvaros a white elephant in a country without iron ore or cooking coal.

Khrushchev was benignly critical of the Hungarian Communists but shook his fist when he threatened:

"We tell the enemies of socialism and communism that we do not care if you curse us, but if you touch us, you will regret it."

He urged more toughness on the Hungarian party.

"I advise you not to look just in front of your noses," he said. "Look beyond. Your class consciousness should be stronger, and you should see more clearly who is a friend and who is an enemy. You must be tougher, so tough that your enemies will always know that the Hungarian working class will not waver for a minute."

Daughter Of Actress Lana Turner Kills Man In Home

Police said brown-haired Cheryl Crane plunged a knife into the abdomen of husky Johnny Stompanato, 42, in a pink-carpeted bedroom of Miss Turner's home.

Stompanato died instantly. Beverly Hills Police Chief Clinton Anderson said he was told that Cheryl stabbed Stompanato after he threatened her 38-year-old mother in a stormy scene in the glamorous blonde movie star's bedroom.

Cheryl, serene, and her mother, sobbing, were taken to the Beverly Hills station. Miss Turner's second husband and Cheryl's father, Stephen Crane, met them there.

Cheryl was booked on suspicion of murder and then turned over to juvenile authorities. She was given sedation and held overnight at the jail.

Anderson said Cheryl and her mother told him this story: Stompanato, who returned from an Acapulco, Mex., vacation with Miss Turner March 19, went to her home Friday night and started berating her.

Cheryl heard the argument and went into the bedroom. "I'll get you if it takes a year."

Cheryl came home from Happy Valley School at Ojai, Calif., Monday for Easter vacation. Anderson said on Monday night Cheryl heard her mother and Stompanato in bitter argument. The next day, Anderson said, Cheryl asked for an explanation and her mother told her she was unhappy with Stompanato and afraid of him.

Anderson said that after Cheryl stabbed Stompanato her mother tried to stop his bleeding with a towel.

Stompanato, Miss Turner and Cheryl were fully clothed.

Reporters asked how Cheryl could stab the angry Stompanato without harm to herself.

"It was just a hell of a surprise to him," the police chief replied. "He was standing up at the time."

Anderson said that on one occasion Stompanato beat Miss Turner.

Her return from Acapulco was in time for Miss Turner to attend last week's Academy Award dinner at which Miss Turner was a nominee for an Oscar as best actress. Joanne Woodward won the honor.

Hollywood's famed attorney, Jerry Giesler, quickly joined Miss Turner, Cheryl and Crane at the police station.

"This is justifiable homicide," he said. "There, of course, can be no trial because of the girl's age. It will be handled by Juvenile Court."

But Cheryl was booked on suspicion of murder for the purpose of holding her overnight. A petition will be filed to determine whether the case will be handled by Juvenile Court or adult court, Anderson said.

After her daughter was taken away Miss Turner, still sobbing, and Giesler went in a chauffeur-driven limousine to her two-story colonial style home. Reporters were refused admittance.

Ten Of Family Die In Fire, Explosion

JERSEY SHORE, Pa. (AP)—Ten members of a family, including eight children, were killed today in a fire and explosion which destroyed their two-story frame house on the outskirts of town.

The victims were Torance Flook 34, a truck driver; his eight children; and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Maude Blair, 63. Mrs. Flook got out of the house suffering only slight burns.

A neighbor said he saw the family gathered at a second story window at the height of the blaze and tried to set up a ladder.

"A bureau fell in front of the window," said Herman Seichrist. "That's the last anyone saw of them."

Fire Chief Richard Edwards said the house was completely enveloped in flames when firemen arrived. It burned to the ground.

He said Flook's charred body was found holding two of his children. The bodies of his other children, ranging in age from 15 months to 16 years, and their grandmother, were huddled around him.

Edwards said he did not know what caused the explosion and fire and had not had a chance to talk with Mrs. Flook. She was staying with friends.

The home was in a residential section on the outskirts of this northcentral Pennsylvania community.

The children, five boys and three girls, were Harry, 16, Bonnie, 11, Terry, 10, Susan, 8, Kenneth, 6, Ruth, 5, Richard, 3, and William 15 months.

California Faces Still More Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers or thunderstorms dampened scattered areas from the Pacific Coast eastward to the Ohio Valley today but it was mostly sunny elsewhere.

California, which was declared a major disaster area by President Eisenhower Friday night, braced for more rains over the weekend.

The Weather Bureau indicated Easter paraders in parts of the Midwest and South would probably have to don rain gear Sunday.

Heaviest precipitation was in the form of thunderstorms, sometimes accompanied by high winds, in the Plains and in Iowa.

Winds gusted at 46 m.p.h. during a storm at Sioux City, Iowa. Heavy rain at Sherman, Tex., Friday night was accompanied by winds reaching 50 m.p.h.

Showers extended eastward through the Mississippi Valley as part of this storm, and widely scattered showers in the Ohio Valley, the Carolinas and Georgia gave mainly traces of rainfall.

Over the West, the rainy area extended from the Pacific Coast in a spotted pattern across the northern and central Rockies, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa.

Fair skies prevailed over California, Arizona and Nevada, but prospects were not bright.

A new storm front brewing in the Pacific was expected to hit northern California today but the Weather Bureau said it was not expected to yield rainfall as heavy as to cause floods.

Thirteen persons have died in the storms, counting a Japanese truck gardener who shot himself because his $4,000 vegetable crop had been wiped out by floods at San Jose.

Warm air from the Gulf of Mexico moved over the southern plains, but it was colder throughout the length of the Rockies and in the western Dakotas.

Skies were fair in Middle Atlantic coastal areas and in New England, and except for shower activity in Georgia and the Carolinas, clear skies were the rule across the Gulf states.

Rain or drizzle was in the weekend picture for parts of the Dakotas and central plains with showers or thunderstorms forecast for the Mississippi Valley, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee and Middle and South Atlantic coastal sections.

Continued fair skies were predicted for the Northeast and the Southwest. Chiller temperatures were expected throughout much of the central and southern plains and parts of the Mississippi Valley, but warmer weather was forecast in the Ohio Valley, Arizona and parts of the Rockies.

Top Honors For Nine From Pitt At Science Fair

Nine students from Greenville and Pitt County won top honors yesterday in the Northeastern District Science Fair at East Carolina College.

Five of the Pitt County students won top honors in the senior division and will be eligible to compete in the State Science Fair at Duke University later this spring.

George Cannon, Johnny Dixon and Elbert Mayo, all of Farmville, won awards in the physical sciences division.

Peter Canby Hunt and Roy Eugene Carawan of Greenville, Ben Moore of Farmville and Jeannie Groet of Grifton won junior division awards. Hunt, Canby and Moore competed in the physical sciences exhibits and Miss Groet won in the biological sciences division.

Hunt and Sharon Ann Conway of Morehead City were selected from the junior division to display their projects at the 1958 State Fair in Raleigh.

Other winners in the senior division were Theodore Davis Phillips of Morehead City and Bobby Weeks of Elizabeth City in the physical sciences, and Barbara A. Goodwin and Clarence Edward Styron, Jr., of Morehead City, and Ray Markham Smith of Kinston in the biological sciences.

Other junior division winners were Phil Menden and Klein Cooper of Morehead City.

The Science Fair, sponsored by the North Carolina Academy of Science and other organizations, included more than 125 projects in the physical and biological sciences. The exhibition was on display for approximately 2,000 high school students attending East Carolina's 1958 High School Day.

Prison Industries Will Be Expanded, Revised

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's prison industries will be expanded and reorganized under a program approved by the State Prison Commission yesterday.

The program manufactures products for use by the Prison Department and for sale to state governmental agencies and institutions.

Prison Director William F. Bailey said the plan is aimed at a more comprehensive rehabilitation program and toward making the prison system self-supporting.

Gov. Hodges, who attended the commission meeting, voiced his approval. He said, "I am greatly interested in the rehabilitation of prisoners. We must find jobs for them. If these jobs can be made constructive, that is fine."

Products manufactured by the prison industries include soap, canned goods and signs. Enterprises to be expanded are the soap plant, sign plant, printing plant, canneries, abattoir and cold storage facilities, laundries, forestry and farming.

Bailey said major features of the program will be a sizable increase in the number of prisoners employed in the prison enterprise operation and a considerable increase "in the annual sales volume and gross gain resulting from that operation."

Bailey said the additional 776 prisoners will be available due to the fact that the Highway Commission is currently using more prisoners than can be effectively employed.

Farming operations under the new program will be increased from $619,000 to $1,018,900 annually. The abattoir operation, including cold storage of meats, will be stepped up from $1,510,000 to three million per year. Production of the soap plant will be increased from $150,000 to $405,000 annually.

Throngs Of Children At Easter Egg Hunt

If the Easter Bunny laid all the eggs found at the Elm Street Park this morning, he must have worked overtime!

And if he was still there at 10 a.m. he undoubtedly was trampled by youngsters who descended upon his hiding places like a swarm of locust.

Despite working overtime and being trampled upon, the Easter Bunny should have no regrets about the ordeal. There is no question about the success of his once-a-year venture.

Pays Filing Fee For Constable

W. H. Crandell has filed for constable of Carolina Township with the Pitt County Board of Elections.

Crandell paid his filing fee to board chairman D. S. Spain Jr. yesterday. His candidacy will be subject to the May 31 Democratic Primary.

Filing books for the primary will remain open until April 19.

Surplus Food Commodities To Be Distributed Thursday

The second distribution of surplus food commodities under a special emergency relief program will be held Thursday, Pitt County officials said today.

Welfare Department personnel said a total of 2,575 persons in 516 family units had qualified for the second distribution. The figures represent 1,035 persons and 199 family units more than were certified for the first distribution.

Certification of individuals and family units for next week's distribution of dried milk, cheese, rice, corn meal and flour was completed this week by Welfare Department personnel. The family units range in size from one-member families to a single 21-member family.

Junius Grimes, Welfare Department Casework Supervisor, said certifications were issued to 106 families in the Ayden area, 56 in the Bethel area, 55 in the Falkland area, 99 in the Farmville area, 151 in the Greenville area and 47 in the Grimesland area. All were certified under procedures outlined by state and federal departments of agriculture which provide the surplus goods.

Distribution next Thursday will be from 8:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. from a vacant store building adjacent to Pollard's Supermarket in Meadowbrook, site of the first distribution last month. Family units which were certified this month include all but three of the first distribution's cases.

Welfare Department personnel said continued bad weather during March accounted for at least a portion of the new certifications. Expected to be distributed next week is a total of 46,000 pounds of surplus foods. The total is about 20,000 pounds more than last month's allocation.

The emergency relief program was inaugurated in February in an attempt to relieve suffering caused by extremely cold weather.

First Presbyterian Announcements

"The Resurrection In Our City" is the topic chosen by Dr. Joyce for his Easter sermon to be delivered at 11 o'clock in the morning at the First Presbyterian Church. The morning worship service from this church will be broadcast over Radio Station WGTU this Sunday and the remaining Sundays during April.

The young people will meet at 6 p. m. Sunday for a snack supper and program. They are requested to bring a sandwich for the fellowship supper.

Dr. R. D. Minges, Chairman of the Diaconate, announces that there will be a very important meeting at 7:30 Sunday evening, and urges all the Deacons to be present.

A very special invitation is extended to the college students to attend the Easter service at this church, and to anyone who does not have a church home in Greenville.

Dr. And Mrs. McGinnis Feted On 50th Wedding Anniversary

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY—Dr. and Mrs. Howard J. McGinnis celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard J. McGinnis were honored on their fiftieth wedding anniversary with a dinner party last night at the Quinerly Manor.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Alma M. Johnston of Huntington, Long Island, and Mrs. Herbert Hadley, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. McGinnis.

Upon arrival the hostesses presented Mrs. McGinnis a white orchid corsage and a white carnation boutonniere was given to McGinnis.

Yellow and white flowers were used on the appointed tables to carry out the golden wedding anniversary theme.

During the evening the honorees' grandchildren, Kitty Johnston, Howard Hadley, and Marcia Hadley, read a humorous salute to their grandmother which reviewed highlights of her courtship and marriage.

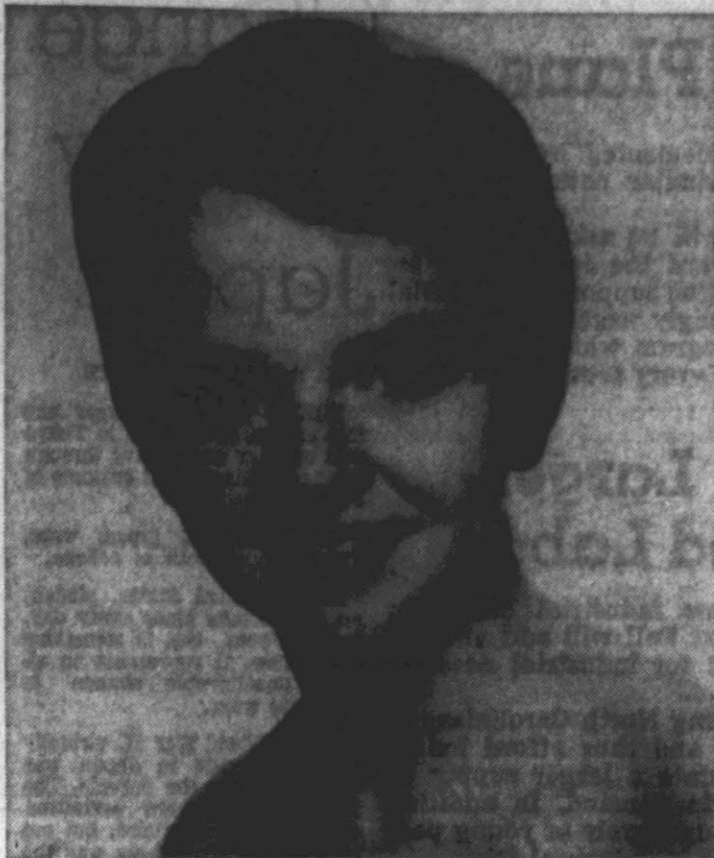

Out-of-town guests present for the occasion were Mrs. Harvey A. Hall and Mrs. Robert Cosby and children, Ann and Robert Jr., of Richmond, Va., and Dr. and Mrs. Maynard O. Fletcher of Washington, N. C.

Other guests present were J. H. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Winslow, Miss Lucile Turner, Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Howard, Dr. Herbert Hadley, and Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley.

Executive Board, W.S.C.S.

Mrs. Stocks Presents Check

CLUB RECEIVES CHECK—Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., president of the Woman's Club, receives a check from the Junior Woman's Club president, Mrs. M. C. Stocks.

Mrs. M. C. Stocks, president of the Junior Woman's Club, presented a check for $50 to Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., president of the Woman's Club, when the latter club met for their monthly meeting yesterday.

Mrs. Stocks stated that her club desired the money be spent for draperies for the auditorium of the club house.

Dr. Frank Fuller, a psychologist from East Carolina College, was guest speaker for the afternoon.

Mrs. J. R. Jackson, chairman of Health and Welfare Committee, introduced Dr. Fuller. He spoke about mental disorders and mental health.

Mental illness is the nation's number one health problem. One out of every ten is a mental patient. They are suffering from some form of mental disorder, he noted.

He encouraged the members to show more interest in those people who are mentally sick. He also asked them to join the Mental Health Association and help financially.

There are three outstanding characteristics of people who possess good mental health. They feel comfortable about themselves; they feel right about other people; and they are able to meet the demands of life.

Mentally healthy people enjoy their daily work; they get along well with their co-workers; and they produce worthwhile things in their community.

Preceding the program, Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., president, presided over the business meeting.

The club voted to help pay the expenses of four delegates who attend the state convention in Charlotte on April 22-24.

Mrs. Charles Roberson was invited to join the Woman's Club. Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, chairman of the Fine Arts Committee, reminded the members to choose their costumes for the Costume Ball which is scheduled for April 11 in Wright Auditorium at 8 p.m. She also announced several other things that would take place at later dates.

After the business meeting, Mrs. J. R. Jackson presented Bob Charlton, Pitt County Health Department, who showed a film, "Breast Cancer."

Mrs. S. L. Daughtridge, chairman of the social committee, Mrs. Hicks Corey, Mrs. J. B. Spilman, Mrs. L. P. Bloxam, Mrs. C. C. Hilton, Mrs. W. C. Hollowell, and Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale served refreshments. Spring flowers decorated the club house.

Fabrics Shown By Mrs. Clark

Fabric samples from the Williamsburg restoration series and the American heritage collection of prints were shown to the members of the Round Table Book Club by Mrs. John Clark, Jr. Tuesday afternoon.

During her talk she also displayed linens from England, Ireland, Belgium, and Italy which were available for draperies and upholstery.

Mrs. D.L. Moore, president, presided over the business session at her home.

Appointed Pronunciation referee for the coming year was Mrs. H.T. Patterson.

Mrs. Phelps, assisted by Mrs. Robert Fountain, served a dessert course, after which books were exchanged and the meeting was adjourned.

REFINISH FURNITURE

Do you like to refinish furniture but have trouble getting your paint and varnish remover in hard to get at crevices? Try applying it with an old toothbrush and you will find the task an easier one.

Purchase sausage only in amounts needed for a short time, so it will be at its peak of goodness.

Librarian Speaks To Clubbers

"Greenville is blessed with its library facilities," pointed out Miss Elizabeth Copeland when she traced the history of Sheppard Memorial Library at the Pickwick Book Club meeting Tuesday.

According to Miss Copeland, the library has a well-rounded collection of books numbering more than 50,000 volumes. It is operated on a business-like basis with an annual budget of approximately $40,000.

It is financed by the city of Greenville in conjunction with Pitt County and the state of North Carolina, she added.

In closing, Miss Copeland mentioned briefly the recent acquisition of a modern charging machine and she spoke of the services available to the public.

Mrs. W. H. Watson's residence was decorated with mixed floral arrangements. Individual tables were centered with silver cups holding white hyacinths and daffodils.

The members found their places marked with tiny Easter baskets. Tomato juice cocktails followed.

Social Notes

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Braswell and children will arrive Saturday for a visit with Mrs. Braswell's father, Jack Kilgo. Mr. and Mrs. Braswell have been in Manila, Philippine Islands, for the past three years. Their visit will coincide with that of Mrs. Braswell's sister, Mrs. Sterling Hudson, and Mr. Hudson of Greensboro.

Miss Olive Venetia Morrill is spending the Easter holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David L. Morrill.

An Adjunct To Any Town's Plans

There is a great deal of wisdom in the decision of Farmville's Economic Council not to fight the proposed county-wide tax levy for the creation of a Pitt County Industrial Development Commission.

At a recent meeting of the body which has spearheaded Farmville's modern industrial development program, a majority of the directors decided it would be selfish and inconsistent on their part to make an organized effort to block the county-wide industrial development program.

We agree with the majority opinion of the directors of the Farmville Economic Council. We would add that in our opinion it would be extremely short-sighted for Farmville or any other community in Pitt County to fight against a program which is designed to improve the economy of all of Pitt County.

Although Farmville has its own industrial development program financed through contributions of local businessmen, the economic welfare of that community is closely tied to the economic well-being of Pitt County as a whole. Conversely, the economic well-being of Pitt County as a whole is dependent upon the economic welfare of its individual communities.

In the case of Farmville, the county-wide industrial development program would prove a valuable adjunct to the program which the town already has. The same would hold true for any other town or community of the county which subsequently might set up its own industrial development program.

A county-wide industrial development program for Pitt supported by a three-cent tax levy, will afford the county an organization by which to improve its economy through strengthening agricultural and industrial growth, attracting plants from other areas, and creating its own home-grown industries. If the county-wide program is supplemented by municipal or community programs of a similar nature, so much the better.

On May 31 Pitt voters will be asked to express at the polls their feeling toward the county-wide industrial development organization supported by special tax funds. The Reflector strongly urges Pitt citizens to vote of this county-wide program which will afford new economic advantages for every section and every resident of Pitt County.

To Build A Larger Pool Of Skilled Labor

North Carolina's six new industrial education centers slated for opening next Fall will add another boost to North Carolina's bid for industrial development.

The centers will train young North Carolinians in industrial and service trades, and thus afford industries already located in the state a larger supply of technicians trained that are in demand. In addition the centers will provide a steady supply of young people trained to take their places in industrial jobs.

Through these training centers, North Carolina will be able to increase its number of workers skilled in trades which industry needs. With facilities to supply a larger labor pool of skilled workers, North Carolina may expect to receive consideration from industries which now overlook the state because it lacks a sufficient number of workers in certain trades.

It is significant to note that only two of the six new schools to be opened this year are located in the Coastal Plain section of the state. The other four are in the Piedmont. Of the 12 additional training centers with tentative approval for 1959, four are located in the Coastal Plain.

While it may seem from these figures that Eastern North Carolina is getting less than its share of industrial training centers, it must be realized that this section now has only a fraction of the industrial jobs that the Piedmont has. If by the end of 1959 Eastern Carolina can have six of these industrial training centers in operation in its area, they will constitute another big asset in the area's industrial development picture. The training centers will not guarantee the section additional high calibre industries, but they will put the section in a position where it can better compete with other areas for industries which require workers with special skills and training.

A Fine Chance Of Plan's Ruin

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's plan to streamline the armed forces stands a fine chance of being smashed on the rocks of Congress. He outlined it Thursday in a special message.

It avoids the extreme of creating a single, top military commander. But it would enormously increase the power of Defense Secretary McElroy, giving him more authority than any secretary ever had.

It would make better over-all military planning possible. But it's no cure-all. It doesn't seem to be the kind that could put a final stop to the notorious Army-Navy-Air Force rivalry for money, size, weapons and missions.

The plan would leave the Army, Navy and Air Force intact. But Eisenhower talked of "unified commands" that might have the effect of merging the three services to a far greater degree than appears in the message.

Just how far Eisenhower would go in "unified commands," isn't clear. Neither is the plan as a whole. It won't be spelled out in detail for 10 days or so, when McElroy sends Congress exact language for changing existing laws.

Briefly, this is the present set-up and how Eisenhower would change it: He made it clear he's fed up on the way the three services try to get what they want — through their individual publicity campaigns and the lobby in Congress by the military brass. He'd curb the publicity.

And to put the lobbying under some kind of leash Eisenhower suggested a civilian be put in charge of dealings with Congress. Whether even that could stop the military lobby would have to be proved.

The secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force — although they serve under McElroy and have lost much of their authority in recent years — still have a big fistful of power.

Eisenhower would reduce them pretty much to the role of caretakers while increasing McElroy's authority over them and the armed forces as a whole. The top military planning is done by the Joint Chiefs of Staff — made up of the chiefs of staff of the Army, Navy and Air Force plus the staff chairman, who is a top military figure appointed by the President.

These chiefs of staff have a double chore: although as members of the JCS they are responsible for over-all planning, they are also responsible for their individual branches of the service.

Eisenhower suggests they shed some of this responsibility for their individual services — by delegating it to their assistants — in order to devote more time to planning.

This appears to be a compromise move, for proposals had been made to divorce the members of the JCS completely from their individual branches of the service, thus removing them from the arena of interservice rivalry.

Although many parts of the plan would increase McElroy's powers, it's the added power Eisenhower wants for him in handling money which may wreck the plan in Congress. It would let the individual services continue to ask for the money they need but — once Congress voted the money — McElroy would have the authority to shift it around when and if he saw fit. Congress has always been jealous of its power to vote money for only those specific purposes it approved.

This idea ran into fast opposition in Congress, even among some of Eisenhower's most influential Republicans.

Change In New Japan

By RELMAN MORIN

TOKYO (AP) — A year ago this spring, a wedding in Tokyo sent another shock-wave through the scrumbling social customs of Japan.

The bride and groom were, and still are, both in college.

In the United States, student marriages take place every day. But in Japan, this is something brand new. It represents an almost unbelievable change in Japanese ways.

Before World War II, virtually every marriage in Japan was "arranged" by the parents. The young people were permitted some latitude of choice, but not very much. Then there was the "mi-ai," the "meeting-to-see," and finally, after much supervised formality, the wedding.

'Dating' Common

Today, the Japanese say, about half of all marriages are still arranged. But since the war, "dating" and companionship, "American-style," have become common. Young Japanese, having the opportunity to be alone together, decide for themselves who they want to marry.

Even that represented a great break with the past.

The student marriage carries the change one step further.

Kazuo Kiryu is 23. Reiko Shimizu — his wife retains her maiden name — is 22. They both graduated from college this year. He plans to teach, she wants to write and possibly to teach.

Their decision to be married is a switch on the two-can-live-as-cheaply theory. "We wanted to save time for study," they said. "We were together so much anyway it seemed pointless to be apart."

Their parents objected. Their friends advised them against it. They were reminded that they were not in a position to support themselves.

They finally won over their parents. Just a year ago, they were married. They now live in a two-room house behind the bride's family home.

Did American movies or books, or the social changes that came with the occupation, influence them?

"No," Reiko said. "But the new constitution of Japan, stressing human rights and individuality, influenced our thinking."

What do they think of the "arranged" marriage.

"In an arranged marriage," Kazuo said, "there is no element of love or respect for the other person. We think the major factor in marriage should be love."

At this moment, Japanese audiences are laughing hilariously at a sequence in a motion picture in which the wife goes to an office every day, leaving the husband at home to cook and clean house. This seems the wildest fiction in a country where, traditionally, the husband is the undisputed master of the family.

But it is no fiction with Reiko and Kazuo.

"He not only helps with the housework," she said. "He does half of it. We agreed on that before we were married. He does the shopping, I do the cooking, and we both keep the house clean."

Times have changed in old Japan.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SATURDAY—DAY OF SILENCE AND DESPAIR

The day, following the crucifixion of Jesus Christ was the most sorrowful and hopeless humanity has ever endured. "We thought it was he that would redeem Israel," confessed two of his disciples in sorrow. They had set much store by what this wise and good Man could do for Israel and the world. And now it was all over. The bright dream had crashed, and despair had taken its place.

Strange that after all his teaching no one expected Jesus to rise from the dead. Over and over again he had declared that he would, but after they laid him in the tomb, everyone returned to his own house to weep over the loss of a friend and to lament over the blasting of a bright dream.

After epochal circumstances have passed, both in the history of the world and in the life of individuals, a profound and ominous period of silence seems always to ensue. The earth was silent and heaven was silent for thirty hours.

Then, the dawn of a new day. Then the revealing of mankind of the true meaning of this Man's life. Then, the darkness of that awful day was swept away—and was swept away for good. Mankind was about to enter into a new era of light and hope.

Easter Bonnets

By JIMMY ELLIS

By Silence Or By Noise

Perhaps the Wee Urchin should write this column more often.

He and his father both appreciate the comments made concerning his debut as a columnist last Tuesday. His mother, of course, knew all the time he was a better writer than his father, but she, too, is elated over the impression he made.

The Twins are another story, however. They have refused comment, thus far, on Wee Urchin's column, except for the part about him extending his area of control to include them.

That, they insist, will never happen.

Both of the new boys (who, incidentally, refuse to be known as Wee Urchin II and Wee Urchin III) feel they have a right to bargain about who is to be boss in The Ellis House. They believe they have a strong case, but are delaying its presentation until they have had a chance to examine the premises and the possibilities of a joint government.

My fair Gwen and I, naturally, are caught in the middle. We think that age and seniority (we got there first) should count, but our efforts to claim jurisdiction are being shouted down. We dislike the use of force to establish our claim, but if it becomes necessary we'll just have to use it.

Personally, I like the idea of cooperative domestic rule. I long ago surrendered any notions about being Number One in the area between the front door and the back door, but I do like to think I still have a voice in deciding what should be done and what will be done.

On the other hand, I don't care much for the idea of government by strength of lungs. There are times when the individual who can shout the loudest is the least qualified to tell the world of things to come.

Wee Urchin, of course, disagrees with my ideas about ruling shouters, but that's his way. He is a strong man when it comes to lungs, and I'm beginning to believe he has a pair of allies in The Twins.

What all of this appears to be nearing is rather simple: My Fair Gwen and me, exponents of the "strong, silent rule" on one side; Wee Urchin and The Twins, advocates of the opposite side, on the other side.

I don't know, of course, which side will prevail in the long run, but I have an idea.

I believe in the power of silence. The Venus de Milo has never said a word, but she is generally accepted as the best in her field. The Mona Lisa enjoys a similar reputation. Even Calvin Coolidge got most of what he wanted and he is not remembered for his verbosity.

Wee Urchin and his allies may be in for a surprise, but I think My Fair Gwen and I can beat them at their own game. We can rule with the loudest silences they'll ever hear — if they want to play that way.

Other Editors Saying --- Greater Need Now

(Washington Daily News) The last legislature in North Carolina did not take steps to create a Nursing school at East Carolina college as many had hoped it would do.

Since that time, we believe it will go without saying that the need for nurses is more critical in Eastern North Carolina than it was a year ago or two years ago. And as we move along, there is every indication that the shortage will continue to grow unless the citizens of our state take some effective action to change the present trend.

We are told by hospital people that nursing standards have been set so high in recent years and that the financial burden on small hospitals to operate Nursing schools has been so heavy that it is well nigh impossible and certainly impractical for these smaller operations to exist.

We are also told that the examination given nurses today is so demanding and so difficult that nurses coming from small hospitals have great difficulty in passing.

As a result of a serious decline in the number of nurses we have long ago arrived at the point where the bedside nursing corps are about extinct. Nurses today in small communities like ours are doing yeoman service. Some are even taking two shifts of nursing duty instead of the usual one in order that very ill patients can have the services of a competent nurse.

Recently this writer attended a discussion about the need for such a nursing school at East Carolina college. There will be opposition to such a school from several sources. If we are ever to realize this school then a determined fight for it must be made. We won't get it by sitting back and hoping for success.

We will soon open our fine new hospital in Beaufort county. Many nurses will be needed, and we truly hope that by opening time a sufficient staff can be hired. But even with a sufficient staff, there still is the problem of private nursing duty where patients demand private nurses in serious illness. Where are they coming from? Frankly, we just won't have ample private nurses because they just aren't available.

A nursing school at East Carolina college won't solve all our problems either. But it will be a step in the right direction. Certainly within a period of three years, we will get a few nurses back here with the "Registered Nurse" label. And there is a place for everyone we can get.

Medical societies are going to be invited to discuss the probabilities of such a school at ECC. Perhaps many Medical societies, it is hoped, will offer certain scholarships to worthy girls who will study nursing and return to their home county for practice upon completion of the course.

Use of student nurses in surrounding hospitals will be a matter of great concern. These student nurses must be "farmed out" for practical experience in several hospitals.

Of course, the great obstacle is money as usual. It will cost approximately $170,000 for the first two years of operations in getting such a school started. At least $100,000 of that money will be used the first year.

We, the people, must decide whether or not such a school is worthwhile. If we decide it is, then we must make a determined bid to realize it when the next legislature meets.

In recent days we have talked with several hospital administrators. Without exception among those with whom we have talked, we find that every hospital discussed is short of Registered nurses. One nearby hospital administrator said just recently, "I'd hire six more such nurses right now if I could find them."

The Daily News considers this nursing shortage a vital problem in our community at the present time. It won't be solved by indifference. We must work for such a Nursing school, and even then we might fail. But if we fail, let us not look backwards and say "we didn't do our best."

One Industry Not Singing Blues

By ELMER ROESSNER

It is refreshing to find an industry that is not singing the blues these days — as refreshing as a breeze from a year-round gas-fired air conditioner.

It is the gas appliance industry. Its Gas Appliance Manufacturers' Association ended its annual meeting at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., last night.

The makers of things that run on gas think they have it made for a number of reasons. They recognize the fact that there is some sort of recession, and they plan to lick it. They think they have some pretty good weapons. They include:

1. Smoke-odorless gas incinerators. These are fairly new contrivances for kitchens, utility rooms and basements, where gas fires burn trash and garbage and then burn the smoke and odors. Makers expect fine sales in smog areas because they do not add to pollution of the air, and in areas where ordinances prohibit disposal of garbage into sewage systems.

AIR CONDITIONERS, REFRIGERATORS

2. Air conditioners. "This year marks the gas industry's entry as a major factor in the air conditioning field," said Clifford V. Coons, GAMA president. The chief interest is in conditioners that can utilize existing duct systems in homes and commercial buildings, and in year-round heating and cooling systems built into new homes or added to existing structures.

3. Gas refrigerators. The only company in the field discontinued making gas refrigerators last year but gas companies are guaranteeing enough orders for resumption of production by another company. Other manufacturers are entering the field.

4. Clothes dryers. Gas dryers have made gains on electric dryers and manufacturers are predicting further gains this year.

5. New housing. GAMA officials are counting on 1,000,000 new dwelling units this year, and of selling ranges and other gas appliances for a major share of them. If housing starts fall be# low that number, the industry is prepared to step up selling in the replacement market.

RESELLING OLD MARKETS

6. Home improvement promotion. The industry is promoting gas equipment in home improvement projects. It is adding conveniences and gadgets to ranges to speed up the replacement of existing ranges and other gas devices.

7. Gas heating conversions. With the heavy promotional support of gas companies, the industry expects to sell thousands of homeheating gas furnaces as replacements for oil and coal heating.

8. Bottled-gas appliances. With the rapid expansion of the bottled-gas distribution, which takes gas far beyond existing gas main systems, to farms and to the rising number of summer homes, the appliance makers are counting on a sharp rise in sales in these areas. Of the 40,000,000 users of gas in the U. S., 8,500,000 depend on bottled gas, the industry reports. From 12 to 25 per cent of GAMA members' production is now going to areas # beyond gas mains.

Industry leaders agree that a continuation of present business conditions may force some revision of their estimates. They acknowledge that many retailers have reduced inventories and sizes of orders. They concede that the coal and electric industries are in there fighting and that electric appliance makers have some fields — fans, automatic toasters, clocks, irons, etc. — all to themselves. They are fearful that the increase in gas supplies will slow down unless Congress gives the gas producers the pipe lines more concessions.

But on the whole they believe that 1958 can be made into a very good year.

STEAKS FROM CONTENTED STEERS?

The use of tranquilizers for dairy, meat and other animals is increasing, according to evidence at a recent symposium sponsored by a medical company. One spokesman reported that cattle given tranquilizers before being shipped to market lost half as much weight as other animals.

Candlelight Ceremony In Garrell - Gibbs Wedding

RALEIGH—In a candlelight ceremony at Forest Hills Baptist Church March 30, Miss Patricia Anne Garrell, daughter of Mrs. John Franklin Garrell and the late Mr. Garrell, was united in marriage with John Gordon Gibbs Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs Sr. The Rev. A. Douglas Aldrich officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, wore a long sleeve scoop neck full length gown of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle.

The lace bodice featured a scalloped neckline with sequin flower appliques. The full net skirt, over taffeta, had wide lace panels extending down the full length of the gown.

Her veil was an imported Chantilly lace scalloped Juliet cap with seed pearls attached to a ballerina length veil of fine French pure silk, hand-rolled illusion. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Glenn G. Lassiter, vocalist, and Mrs. Shelton Peede, organist.

Mrs. James R. Sessions of Whiteville, sister of the bride, was her matron of honor. Miss Gail Garrell, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor.

Their dresses were waltz-length, dark blue crystalite, with sweetheart necklines and a large lace in the back, ending in hem-length tapers. Their headpiece was a veil of illusion, attached to a headband and decorated with seed pearls.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jean Jackson of Poplar Branch, Miss Rose Manning of Middlesex, Miss Patricia Thompson of Whiteville, Miss Nada Garber of Arlington, Va., and Miss Lucy Chapman of Aberdeen.

Their light blue dresses were like that of the matron of honor. They carried red roses.

Honorary bridesmaids were Misses Naomi Gibbs and Mary Alice Gibbs, Miss Bett Williams, all of Raleigh; Miss Ann Melvin of Winston-Salem, and Mrs. Earl Lindsay of Charlotte.

The bridegroom's father was

best man. Ushers were James Carter of Raleigh, James Sessions of Whiteville, Charles Sally of Durham and Larry Cheek of Chapel Hill.

The mother of the bride wore a dress of beige lace with matching hat and accessories. Her corsage was lilac cymbidium orchids. The mother of the bridegroom wore a dress of rose mauve lace with matching hat and accessories.

Makeup Outlook Is Peachy

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor
The glamour look for spring may be real peachy.

Way back when Mom was a girl it was considered a compliment to be called "Peaches." A girl earned this title because her complexion was "school girl" or "peaches-and-cream," different from the heavily rouged face that was the alternative to this look of natural beauty.

Well, that look is on the way back, peach-smooth, considered a handsome accent with the important new fashion colors—greens, blues and all the sun-splashed hues.

"It's said the peach look should flatter the fair or olive types, blonde, brunette, red-or-gray-haired. It's as flattering to matrons as the sweet-16 group.

The basis of this look is a sparkling clean, dewy-fresh skin, say the beauty seers. Over that you use a powder base in a peach glow one that has a moisture foundation to lend a youthful sheen. Liven the effect with golden red

AH, SPRING: A wild peach lipstick is ideal for peaches 'n' cream complexion.

The new wild peach shade of lipstick is flattering to the peaches-and-cream look. If you wear eye-shadow, iridescent turquoise, green or blue tones should enhance the peach look.

Young girls may go all out with a makeup of this sort, employing all the tricks of the season to achieve glamour. But while the makeup is suited, and flattering, to older women, it should be applied with different technique.

Older women should use the foundation cream sparingly, blotting it after the application. The rouge should be applied very lightly, and rubbed in until it fades into the complexion.

The powder should be applied lightly too, so that it does not give a layer-upon-layer makeup. Lipstick should be blotted until it fades into the lips leaving just the right amount of color.

The point to keep in mind when using lighter makeup is that the success is in the application. You can make a multitude of errors with darker makeups, and no one may be the wiser, but lighter makeup can emphasize glaring imperfections in your technique. The results may be clown-like in appearance.

To Lead Easter Parade In Chemise Outfits

By MARTHA PIERCE
New spring styles such as the "sack," blouse, and chemise are appearing in the spring wardrobes of the high school girls.

Bunny Overton and Mary French have been seen wearing the new chemise during the pre-Easter season.

Joyce Sutton has purchased a new one-piece blouse to wear for Easter. Carol Tadlock and Ray Lane will be wearing middy-styled chemises.

The blouse with its straight skirt and blouse top seems to be the most popular version of the new styles among the high school set. The hip-fitting chemise ranks second with them and the "sack" style is third.

Peggy Evans has incorporated the new look into her spring wardrobe with one of the straight top blouses which is three-quarter length. Freshmen Anna Taft and Sara Collier Webb will also be sporting the "new look" on Easter Sunday.

Camilla Henderson and Carol Gaskins have made their chemise dresses and are planning to wear them later in the spring.

Judy Jolly, Margaret Ruffin and Anne Moore will be making appearances this Sunday wearing their new chemise dresses.

Sophomore Dance
"Chez Paree" was the theme of the annual sophomore dance that was given March 28 in the Moors Lodge. The Dreamers supplied the music for the dancing from 9-11:30 p.m. Refreshments were served to the students who attended the dance.

Seniors Decide On Gift
The senior class voted in a meeting March 28 to have the graduation ceremonies and baccalaureate sermon in the school gym. Three gift suggestions were presented to the class by the gift committee.

The three suggestions—benches in the foyer, outside benches, and the name of the school—were voted on by the class Monday. The ored their daughter, Jane, at a surprise birthday supper at a local restaurant March 25. It was Jane's 18th birthday.

Joyce Sutton, Gwen Johnson,

Jean Ann Waters, Iona Jones, Ann Marshall Allen, Martha Pierce, Mary Ann Bryant, and Naomi Gibbs were guests at this supper. The girls gave Jane a blouse.

Artists Invited To Exhibit In 4th Annual Sidewalk Show

All artists are urged to exhibit their work in the fourth annual Sidewalk Show for Greenville May 8.

This invitation is extended by the show committee which met at the home of Mrs. Michael M. Luskin Wednesday.

The Sidewalk Show is sponsored by the Woman's Club as one event in the Community Arts Festival, which extends from March 1-May 8. It is open to the public from 1-5 p.m. Formal invitations have been sent to artists residing outside Greenville; none will be sent to local artists.

Any artist planning an exhibit should write to Mrs. Pauline S. Luskin, 207 Pineview Drive, Greenville, telling the number of exhibits. The amount of table space needed (for sculpture and crafts) should be indicated.

It can be in any media—all water color, gouache pencil, scratch-board, etc. Each picture must be ready for hanging, either framed or matted, and mounted on heavy cardboard.

On the lower left corner must be attached a card containing the following information: May 8, Sheppard Memorial Library (rain or shine), 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and the price. If the picture is not for sale, print N.F.S.

Last year several works were sold. Again this year artists are encouraged to arrange time payment plans suitable to the purchaser.

The committee requests that exhibits be brought between 9-10 a.m. on May 8. If this is impossible, send exhibits between 2-5 p.m. on May 7.

Artists must register with the committee in the upstairs gallery of the library Wednesday afternoon or at the front entrance Thursday. They are urged to bring their easels and paint on the grounds.

Committee members present at the planning meeting were co-chairmen Mrs. Michael M. Luskin and Mrs. John Behr, Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell, Claude Taylor, Mrs. Georgia P. Hearne, Mrs. Hicks Corey, Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., Miss Catherine Moore, Mrs. A. A. Hines, and Mrs. Madge B. Allen.

Those unable to attend were Mrs. Charles Adams, Mrs. E. W. Monroe, Mrs. R. V. Keel, Miss Louise Jones, and Mrs. J. G. Taber.

Committees appointed by Mrs. Luskin were grounds committee, Mrs. Behr, Mrs. Shackell, and Taylor; publicity, Catherine Moore; posters, Mrs. Allen; and exhibits, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Monroe, and Mrs. Taber.

Others were tables, Mrs. Shackell; pins, Mrs. Luskin, and Mrs. Behr; and umbrella tables and canopy, Mrs. Corey. Mrs. Corey, Mrs. Keel, and Mrs. Hearne will serve as the registration and public relations committee. The Junior Woman's Club will be in charge of the Lunch Box.

Mrs. Little Speaks To HD Club

"Dress for the Occasion" was the topic Mrs. Lillie Little used when she gave a demonstration to the Red Banks Home Demonstration Club.

The meeting was held in the Eastern Pines Community Building on Tuesday.

Mrs. Stanley Braxton, clothing leader, modeled clothes that she had made. Other members modeling outfits were Mrs. Ola Kittrell, Mrs. S. B. Tucker, and Mrs. Frank Armstrong.

Mrs. Hugh Hardee Jr. presided over the meeting due to the absence of the president, Mrs. Preston Harrington Jr.

Mrs. S. B. Tucker announced the club had contributed to the Red Cross, Polio, Heart and Crippled Children's Funds.

The song "Fairest Lord Jesus" was sung and Mrs. Hardee gave the devotion. She ended with a prayer.

Reports were heard from Mrs. R. B. Starling, Mrs. Noah Hardee and Mrs. S. B. Tucker. Mrs. Ola Kittrell gave a book report.

Mrs. Little announced the District Meeting will be held April 10 at Walstonburg. She urged members to attend if possible.

Mrs. Starling, overall chairman of the Progress Program, announced different chairmen and their co-chairmen.

A supply committee, composed of Mrs. Glenn Hardee and Mrs. S. B. Tucker, was appointed. Their duty will be to take care of repairs to be made in the building whenever the need arises.

Mrs. Hugh Hardee Jr. announced the Eastern Pines Men's Club will present a minstrel show April 16 at the Eastern Pines Community Building. Tickets were distributed to members to sell.

Mrs. L. W. Cherry, Mrs. Lloyd Kittrell and Mrs. H. E. Rogers, hostesses, served refreshments to the 27 persons present.

Door prize was won by Mrs. Frank Armstrong who was a visitor for the afternoon.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bruce Warren of Durham, formerly of Greenville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Hannah Fulford, to Bill Ernest Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Jones of Daytona Beach, Fla. The wedding will take place June 12.

History Of Salvation Army Traced

Mrs. Bennie Lewis, wife of the local captain of the Salvation Army, talked on the history of the Salvation Army since its formation in England at the Cosmos Book Club meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. C.H. Edwards, Jr.

The guest speaker told of the work of the Salvation Army, both nationally and locally, bringing out the part it played in the recent city emergency.

Mrs. Edwards introduced Mrs. Lewis.

Mrs. E.E. Rawl, Jr. gave a report on the needy family that the club assisted, during the business meeting presided over by Mrs. Vance Harrington, president.

A salad course with hot ham rolls and cheese biscuits were served by Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Dail Gidley at the conclusion of the meeting.

The curd formed by soap and hard water holds soil in fabrics and makes them gray and dingy.

Chili Lightens Cleaning Tasks

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Spring housecleaning isn't the gigantic job it used to be. Thanks to modern electrical appliances that clean up well all the year around. But there are still closets that have to be gone through, refrigerator coils that need vacuuming and other big chores to be done.

Serving supper can be easy on the day you devote to such tasks if you prepare a dish that can be made ahead and re-heated. Here's a recipe for chili con carne, for instance, that improves by being kept overnight in the refrigerator; you have only to reheat it slowly when you want to serve it. This, by the way, is the "soupy" sort of chili that should be served in soup bowls with a tablespoon and a fork; ladle it over steam rice if you like, or accompany it with crisp crackers.

You can also make your life easy by serving supper on paper plates, in paper bowls and cups. With the chili offer a salad of greens and carrot and French dressing.

SOUP-DISH CHILI CON CARNE
Ingredients: 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 cup finely chopped onion, 2 large garlic cloves (crushed), 1 pound ground chuck beef, 1 can (1 pound and 12 ounces) tomatoes, 1 can (1 pound) red kidney beans, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin, chill powder, salt, pepper.

Method: Melt butter in 12-inch deep skillet over low heat. Add onion and garlic and cook slowly, stirring often, for about 10 minutes. Add beef and cook over high heat, mashing with a fork to separate into particles, until meat loses its red color. Add tomatoes and kidney beans (including liquid in both cans), sugar, ground cumin and chill powder, salt and pepper to taste. If you like chili mild, add the chili powder by teaspoons; if you like a hot dish, add it by tablespoons. Cover and simmer about 1 hour, stirring occasionally. Refrigerate in covered container. Reheat very slowly about 1 hour before serving, stirring occasionally. Serve in soup plates over steamed rice or with crisp crackers. Makes 6 servings.

Greenville F. W. B. Announcements

You are invited to attend Sunday school at the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church this Lord's Day—Easter Sunday—at 9:45 a.m. Do attend somewhere, and we would be happy to have you appreciate with us the resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ from the dead. Every Sunday school member is urged to bring others to the house of the Lord. At the 11 a.m. worship the Senior Choir will sing an Easter Cantata, "The Dawn of Easter" by Ira B. Wilson. This is a cantata for mixed voices, and it will be directed by Mr. William Lloyd and Mr. Francis Swanson. The organist is Mrs. Bill Taylor, the pianist is Mr. Curtis Paul. This service will be concluded with a message by the Rev. Bobby Jackson.

The League will meet at 8:15 p.m. and the evangelistic service will begin at 7:15 p.m. Monday through Saturday the pastor and Rev. Jackson will conduct radio devotions from WGTC, 9:35-9:50 a.m. The morning revival services will be held Monday through Friday at 10:30 a.m. and the night services Monday through Saturday at 7:30.

There is a nursery provided for children through three years of age each night during the revival. Mrs. Jesse Boyd and Mrs. Alton Vincent will be in charge of the nursery this Sunday at the 11 a.m. worship. The Lord is giving a glorious revival to this church and community. Will you come, and bring others, and be blessed?

Office Will Be Closed Monday

The License Examiner's Office, located at Troop A Headquarters, will be closed Monday, Supervisor M.W. Gray announced today. Gray stated his office is closing in observance of the Easter holiday. In addition it was announced that the license examiners office will be closed all day Wednesday for a district meeting to be held here.

Stage Easter Egg Hunt

Approximately 30 youngsters were treated to an Easter Egg hunt and wicker roast Thursday afternoon at Elm Street Park by Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. All the boys and girls who attended the East Carolina College fraternity-sponsored event were residents of Greenville or nearby communities. Transportation was furnished by members and pledges to and from the hunt-roast that lasted from 4 to 6 o'clock. Each youngster was given an Easter Egg basket. Three prizes were presented: one for the girl who found the most eggs; one for the boy finding the most eggs; and one big prize egg and a large prize to the girl who found the prize eggs. Mike Katsias, President of the fraternity, announced that plans are being made to make the Easter Egg hunt an annual event. Katsias added that the Lambda Chi's are also making plans to give a party of some type each quarter of the next school year.

Hubcap-Marking Project Slated To Be Undertaken Here On Wednesday

Operation Hubcap will be held locally next Wednesday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock, Chairman of the Jaycee project, Dixie Greene announced today.

At that time Jaycees will be stationed at the Texaco stations in the city ready to inscribe auto serial numbers on hubcaps and other external auto accessories, Greene said.

There will be no charge to the auto owners for the service. Object of the campaign is to make hub caps and other accessories readily identifiable if they are stolen.

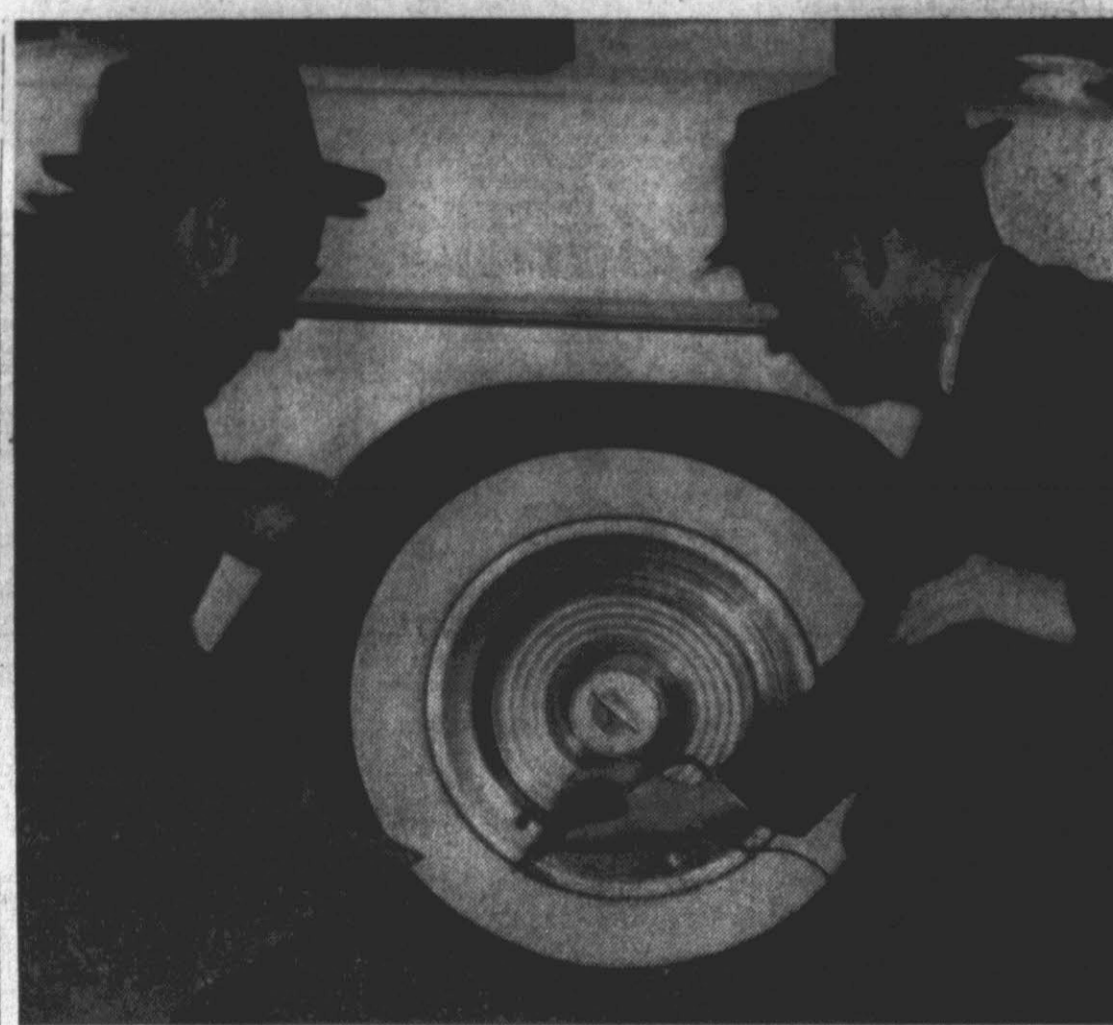

"The stealing of automobile hub caps has become a rapidly increasing problem in cities throughout the nation," Greene pointed out.

"In addition to staggering loss in dollars, hub cap stealing has become the standard 'first crime' of many juvenile offenders. The theft of unidentified hub caps is one of the easiest crimes to commit, and once youngsters are able to succeed at this sort of auto accessory theft, it often constitutes the first step toward more serious crimes."

Greene pointed out that hub caps have become more and more expensive so that a set today may cost as much as $200. "Thus hub caps get a high price on the market, and are readily purchased by receivers of stolen goods," he declared.

Greene noted that the vibrating pencils inscribe the serial number lightly on the metal hub caps but the markings can't be erased. Drivers may pull in to any of the stations next Wednesday and the job can be done within a few minutes, he said.

Chief of Police S.G. Gibbs has endorsed the program locally and it is also sanctioned on a statewide basis by Gov. Hodges. Jaycees clubs throughout North Carolina are carrying on the project.

Pitt Red Cross Drive Extended

Pitt County's 1968 Red Cross fund drive has been extended through April, it was announced today.

Officials of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross said the fund drive would be extended because bad weather in March had delayed the campaign. The chapter has a goal of $16,000 this year.

In the announcement, chapter officials said, "The drive for members and funds has been extended through the month of April. Chapter personnel and volunteers have been unable to carry the campaign at full potential because of bad weather."

"We are asking that local Red Cross workers renew their efforts to fulfill the $16,000 goal. If the chapter does not obtain its needed funds, it means we will fall short of our responsibilities for the blood program and other Red Cross activities."

Kiwanians Hear Easter Music

A special program of Easter Music presented by members of the Eighth Street Christian Church Choir was heard last evening at the regular weekly Kiwanis Club meeting.

The musical program was directed by Mrs. Herbert Carter. Kiwanian Grover Everrett was program chairman. An "Easter Green Candle" service was also observed at the meeting. This is an annual Good Friday custom of all national and international Kiwanis Clubs dedicated to the oppressed people living behind the "iron curtain" of our world.

John A. Collins, vice president, presided at Friday's meeting in the absence of President J.D. McGlohon. Guests were Sam Bundy of Farmville Park Brewer, and Dr. Herbert Paschal. The birthday of Reynolds May was honored.

'The Revelation' Is Bible Study Topic

"The Revelation" last book in the Bible, is being studied verse-by-verse every Sunday night at St. James Methodist Church. The regular Sunday night Bible study is taught by the Rev. J. Malloy Owen. The hour is 7:30 and the session is limited to thirty minutes. Already in its third week, the study of "The Revelation of St. John the Divine" will be centered tomorrow night around the Second Chapter of the book. Around sixty persons have attended the first two meetings of the course.

Memorial Baptist Announcements

Monday afternoon at 3:30 the Ernest Circle will meet with Mrs. R. E. Fries and the Grant Circle meets with Mrs. J. H. Boyd Jr. Monday evening at 8:00 the Humphries Circle will meet with Mrs. Virginia Spencer, 103 Warren St., the Andrews Circle in the church parlor with Mrs. Willard Wilson as hostess, the Hardway Circle with Mrs. Cecil Harris and the Coleman Circle with Mrs. E. K. Fisher. The Board of Deacons will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the church. All members are urged to be present. The midweek worship service will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30. Come and join in this period of prayer and praise. The Adult Choir will practice Thursday evening at 7:30 and the Carol Choir Friday afternoon at 3:45.

Ayden Jaycees Sponsor Special Sunrise Service

AYDEN — A community-wide Easter service will be held here Sunday morning at the Jaycee Park.

The Rev. Raymond Gaskins, chairman of the Jaycee Religious Activities Committee, has disclosed the services will begin at 6 a.m.

According to Rev. Gaskins, the services will be conducted by the Ayden Ministerial Association. Rev. John Goff of the Christian Church will deliver the message, with a musical solo by Joe Ray, Boyd Elliott will direct the music.

Other local ministers participating will be the Rev. Bob Eason of the Methodist Church, Rev. Gaskins of the Free Will Baptist Church, and the Missionary Baptist Church's new minister, the Rev. Bennie Pledger.

The Jay-C-Ettes will serve coffee and doughnuts to the congregation immediately after the service.

At this week's meeting of the Jaycees' President Marvin Baldree Jr. appointed the following committees to handle details for the event:

Traffic — Chairman Tom Whelless, Marion Dail, Guy Braxton, Sam Gooding and John Clark Nobles.

Refreshment — Chairman Floyd Rowe, Nathan Thomas and Jimmy Jenkins.

Music — Chairman Boyd Elliott and Steve Sudor; Proprietor Bobby Nobles, Gordon Brunson, Gene Underwood and Guy Corbett.

Car Overtakes, Man Injured Friday Night

FARMVILLE — One person was injured when an auto went out of control and overturned in a ditch here last night.

Pil. H. R. Winslow identified the injured man as Kenneth Dawson Justice of Rt. 2 Box 333, Farmville. He received a broken leg. He was riding in a car operated by William Tull Taylor of Rt. 2, Box 431, Farmville, the patrolman said his investigation showed.

Winslow said the car operated by Taylor went out of control and left tire marks for 525 feet before it overturned in a ditch.

Sandra Boyd Rites Set For Monday

Sandra Darlene Boyd, 6, daughter of Jessie Mae Brock Boyd of Greenville and Adner Edward Boyd of the U.S. Navy, died in Naval Hospital, Portsmouth, Va. early Friday morning. A native of Greenville, Sandra had joined her father with other members of the family while his ship was in Portsmouth.

Surviving, in addition to her parents are four brothers, Dennie Ray, James Edward, Ronald Frederick and Donald Franklin; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Dora Brock of Greenville, paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Boyd of Greenville.

Funeral services will be from Greenville Funeral Home Chapel Monday at 3:30 p.m. Captain B. T. Lewis of Salvation Army will officiate. Interment will follow in Greenwood Cemetery.

Willingness Said To Be A Factor

Willingness of area farmers to diversify and try new ideas was responsible for location of Chemical's Hatcheries, Inc., here, an official of the firm said last night.

R. Bruce Stultz, general manager of the Greenville branch of Chemical's, made the comments in an address to members of the Greenville Exchange Club.

Stultz told club members, "We found that the farmers in this particular part of the country are willing to try new ideas and diversify. We were impressed with the fact that they were willing to learn the broiler chicken business."

The new hatchery, when it is in full production, Stultz said, will produce between 130,000 and 150,000 chicks per week and that present demand is so great that he could sell more than twice his plant's capacity. The hatchery buys the entire output of tested flocks on a contract basis, places the eggs in special incubators and sells chicks which are produced.

Incubators for the plant have been in operation several weeks, Stultz said, though the building which will house the hatchery on Airport Road is not yet complete. He added that more incubators are being installed as rapidly as possible.

The firm employs 20 local people, Stultz said.

Moose Children In Easter Show

The famed 65-voice chorus of the Moose Child City at Moosehart, Ill. is scheduled to present a special Easter program over Radio Station WGTC Sunday afternoon from 5:05 until 5:30.

Scores include "At Even Tide It Shall Be Light," "They that Sow in Tears," "God so Loved the World," "Thine is the Kingdom" and others. The group under the direction of Hal Young will also render "Easter Parade."

Mrs. Kenneth Mills Dies Friday Night

Mrs. Clara Wilson Mills, 21, wife of Kenneth E. Mills, was killed instantly in an automobile accident near Chicago, Ill. at 9:30 Friday night.

The body will be brought to Greenville for the funeral and burial.

Mrs. Mills was born and reared in Pitt County near Hollywood Presbyterian Church. She was graduated from Chicod High School and had been employed in Chicago for the past year and a half. She was a member of the Hollywood Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are her husband, a daughter, Karen Mills; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Wilson of near Greenville; two sisters, Mrs. Della Mae Joyner and Mrs. Hazel Ruth Keeter of Chicago; and two brothers, Marion and Marvin Wilson of the home.

Christian Science Society God's infinite power and goodness will be emphasized at Christian Science services this Sunday. The Lesson-Sermon on "Unreality" will include the Scriptural account of Christ Jesus' healing of the woman who had "a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself" (Luke 13).

Correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (243:32-33): "Inasmuch as God is good and the front of all being, He does not produce moral or physical deformity; therefore such deformity is not real, but is illusion, the mirage of error."

The Golden Text is from Job (35:13): "Surely God will not hear vanity, neither will the Almighty regard it."

Caught In Act At Bootleg Still

AYDEN — Pitt County ABC officers have reported catching Jesse Earl Ellis 23-year-old Negro of Ayden Rt. 2 "in the act."

Ellis was arrested Friday morning about five miles southeast of here near the Gum Swamp Road. According to Chief ABC officer J. M. Ward he was bricking up a furnace to a whiskey still when the site was raided.

Ward stated that Ellis was apprehended after a "right long foot race" through the woods. He was charged with possession of distilling equipment and mash. At the present time he is in County Jail, under a $300 bond, awaiting trial in County Recorders Court Tuesday.

Following the arrest, officers destroyed a 60-gallon still, a 55-gallon doubler, a 55-gallon cooler, two 200-gallon box fermenters and four 55-gallon barrel fermenters. In addition 150 gallons of mash were poured out.

Grace F. W. B. Announcements

Spring is here! The trees and flowers are taking on new life. This is the time we celebrate the time when our Saviour took on life and came out of the grave. We are happy for our living and risen Lord. Because He lives, we too shall live if we believe in Him in a personal way. Come to Sunday school Easter Sunday. The Senior Class is to have charge of the opening assembly. Be sure to get in on all of it. Be here at 9:45.

The morning service begins at 11 o'clock. The choir will be singing and the pastor, Rev. Rashie Kennedy, will bring the message of the hour.

Sunday at 3:30 p.m. there will be a baptism at Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church.

The League begins at 7:00. Be sure to remember this change of time. All Christians are urged to take advantage of the training the League offers.

During the evening service the covenant will be read to the new members being received into the church. We will have communion and washing of the saints' feet. Each member is urged to attend.

Monday at 8 p.m. the Men's Fellowship will meet at the church. All the men are invited.

Wednesday evening is time for the regular midweek prayer service at the church. During this time the Good News Club will meet and the choir will rehearse following the prayer service.

Thursday evening is time for visitation.

Saturday evening the Teacher Training Class will meet in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wagner.

STERN WARNING COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ordinary warnings about cars being towed away pale in comparison. Delta Upsilon fraternity at Ohio State University has this sign on its chapter house parking lot: "Cars Parked 'Illegally' In This Lot Will Be Disassembled."

Special Easter Service Is Seeing Its Third Year

Set to begin at 5:30 tomorrow morning, the service is now in its third year at St. James. The congregation gathers first on the lawn in front of the Church. As the sun actually rises over the horizon, the Minister proclaims that Jesus has risen from the dead, the people affirm their faith in the resurrection in the words of the 2nd Century Apostles' Creed, and sing "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow." The Choir sings "Christ Arose" and the people process into the Church for communion.

By 5:40 the people have reached the second part of the service and pray together the ancient prayers of confession, adoration, and praise used by the Church for generations. Another unique feature is the method of taking communion. The people come within the Chancel and are seated around a large dinner table, 16 at a time.

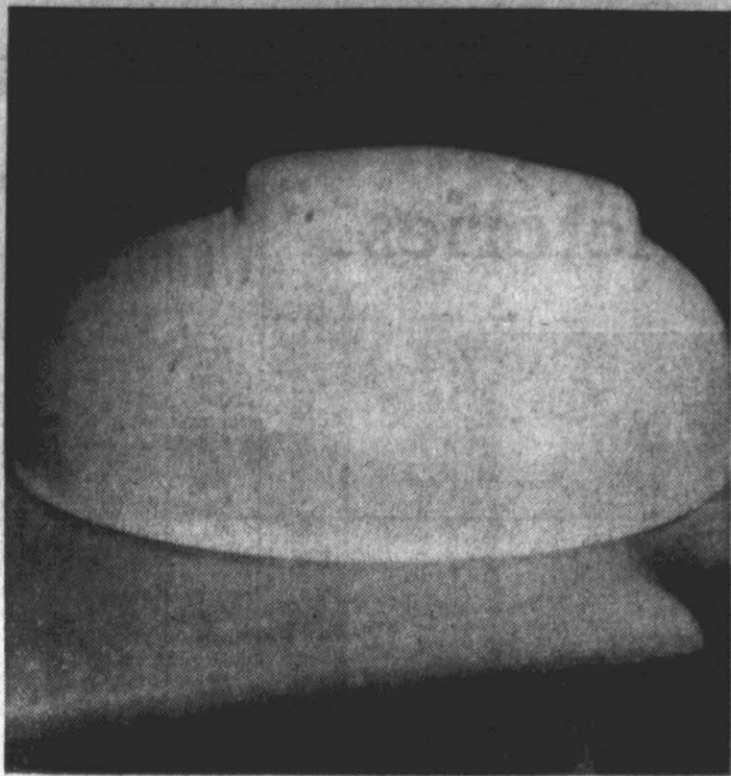

The Rev. J. Malloy Owen, in inviting the public to the early service, explained "The little-known fact is that Jesus actually ate fish and honey with his friends after He was raised from the death, according to Dr. Luke's 24th chapter." He added, "It is the most unusual purpose of this Easter Sunrise Communion to dramatize the Biblical evidences of the actual Resurrection of Jesus from the grave, the most gigantic news story in human history!" The 5:30 service will be broadcast by WGTC-radio.

At the 11 o'clock "Morning Worship" service Mr. Owen will preach on the text "I am he that live and was dead; and behold, I am alive for evermore. Amen: and have the keys of hell and of death." The Choir will sing "Since By Man Came Death" from the Messiah, by George Frederick Handel.

Traditional Easter Bonnet 'Custom Made' By This Hobbyist

HAT FRAME . . . There are all shapes and sizes of hat frames in Mrs. Gurganus' collection.

LAST TOUCHES . . . With this white spring bonnet nearly finished, she always checks the veiling last.

MANY FRIENDS INTERESTED . . . Friends of Mrs. Gurganus keep up in style and fashion by learning types of hats best suited for them.

By PEGGY SMITH
Reflector Staff Writer

During this past week many Pitt County women have added something new to their wardrobe—tomorrow being Easter.

An Easter bonnet probably predominates in the fashion buying.

Mrs. William Clyde Gurganus Jr. is one who would rather have a custom-made hat than a store-bought one.

A custom-made hat is designed and created exactly in color, shape, and size the person wants.

Began Hobby Year Ago

With a degree in Home Economics and interest in hat styling, Mrs. Gurganus began working in detail with hats about a year ago.

Gathering ideas from fashion magazines and the local stores enables her to know the proper styles for the season. She makes the hats with the receiver's shape of face and style of hair in mind. An individual's personality must be known by the maker; not only that, but her wardrobe should be considered.

"One must have a mental picture of the finished product before beginning a hat, because every shape has to be approached differently," she noted.

With the rapid changes of styles she commented, "one should buy frames that can be redecorated easily from season to season. Changing the fabric, flowers, and ribbons on the hats enables a person to have many hats in one."

Hat Styles Date Back

Last fall some styles dated back to the 16th century. Since the chemise look is leading the fashions at present, the hat shops have some whose origin began in 1910.

This year white small shapes in the spring and summer seem to be an outstanding combination in this area of the state, she adds.

Mrs. Gurganus considers a wide brim hat the hardest type she has ever attempted to make and advises anyone who wishes to start making hats to start with a more simple style.

"I think whether hats are in style or not, if the hat looks good on the individual she should wear it. But the occasion must fit the hat." This was her answer when asked her opinion on hats.

This attractive brunette has made many talks to various clubs in Greenville about her interesting hobby.

She shares this art with her husband who helps draw sketches of different styles of hats. During her talks, she uses these drawing to help demonstrate her topic.

Mrs. Gurganus does not own a hatshop, but she has made a nook in her house especially for her work. She can often be found there surrounded by frames, multi-colored ribbons, and all shapes of feathers, utilizing her spare time.

(Hats are modeled by Mrs. Ed Switzer of Pactolus and Mrs. Joe Allen of Greenville.)

TOP FIRST . . . Mrs. William Gurganus, Jr., begins the top of a hat first with a mental picture of finished product.

MIRROR REFLECTS . . . Hats show one's personality which a mirror can reflect and enables her to experiment.

SMART LOOKING . . . A cloche style of hat may be worn at many occasions.

ASSORTMENTS OF MATERIALS . . . In making a hat, ribbons, flowers and lots of types of fabrics can be used. Occasion for the hat should be considered first.

NEW TYPE . . . One with long hair may use a bun hat to draw attention to that style of hair.

New Era In Greenville High School Athletics

ROSE HIGH LOOMS symbolically in the background as Greenville pitcher Merrill Bynum delivers a toss against New Bern last week. It was the first ball game in the history of Rose High, as such, and the locals claimed a 2-0 victory. Two days later, the Phantoms clinched another win, a 7-0 triumph over Washington. The erection of the new building has brought with it a successful flourish of athletics for the local school. (Reflector Sports Photo by Billy Arnold).

New Era Of Athletics At Rose High Sees Strong Track, Baseball Teams Phant Baseballers Are Unbeaten; Cindermen 2-1

Rose High School's spring sports program has begun with a bunch of early baseball and track victories and promises of more to come.

It is all part of what some call the "new era of sports" for the local high school. This new era supposedly began with the erection of the ultra-modern Rose High building on its site in Brookgreen. Athletic results since the students moved into the new place have indicated that there may be something to the idea.

are Robert Howell, Peanut Nunn, Rhett Everett, Steve Nobles, and a host of others. The club is an experienced one, with a fringe of newcomers to strengthen it.

Coach Boley Farley's baseball team is undefeated in its first two matches of the year, both of which were Northeastern Conference tilts. The G-Men copped the first one, a 2-0 triumph over a favored New Bern team, without collecting a hit. The amazing thing about it was that the Greenies had had only one day of practice before that game.

Belvoir - Falkland Opens With A Win

BELVOIR-FALKLAND - Coach Charlie Bill Moyer's Belvoir-Falkland baseball team has opened the 1958 season in high style. The B-F club rapped Farmville 9-3 in the opener last Wednesday. Pitcher Ken Vandenberg held Farmville to four hits, while his own teammates went hog-wild and racked up 14 baseknocks. Vandenberg collected four of those himself in five trips to the plate.

Duke, Clemson In Home Contests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Duke's Blue Devils, defending Atlantic Coast Conference baseball champions, and the Clemson Tigers, one of Duke's strongest rivals for the title this season, had home games today as the season ended its third week. Duke was host to Ohio University, whose game at Elon College of the North State Conference was rained out yesterday; Clemson was to face Maryland, rained out yesterday at South Carolina; Virginia was at South Carolina and Wake Forest was to play an exhibition double-header at the Parry Island Marine Base.

Cincinnati Repair Job Is Paying Off In Victories

By BEN OLAN. The Associated Press. The repair job on the Cincinnati pitching staff started at the close of last season is paying off in victories this spring. Atrocious pitching threw a wrench into Cincinnati's hopes last year. As a unit, the club finished last in almost every department.

ARMED THOUGHT - Big Ted Kluszewski sits in dugout in Tampa, Fla. He's on doubtful list as regular first baseman for Pittsburgh Pirates, who got him from Cincinnati Redlegs.

General Manager Gabe Paul and Manager Birdie Tebbetts put their heads together last October and went into the trading mart with gusto. Bob Purkey, obtained from Pittsburgh, has perked up the pitching staff. So has Harvey Hadix, from Philadelphia.

Bob Purkey, obtained from Pittsburgh, has perked up the pitching staff. So has Harvey Hadix, from Philadelphia. Some other new men are also likely to help. They include Willard Schmidt, Ted Weland and Marty Kutyna from St. Louis and Bill Wight from Baltimore.

Ralph Terry ran his scoreless pitching streak to 20 innings as Kansas City beat Pittsburgh 5-1. An error by first baseman Kent Hadley in the eighth prevented Terry from registering his second straight shutout.

The Chicago White Sox nipped St. Louis 6-5 in a night game on Sherm Lollar's two-out single in the ninth. The blow scored Tito Francona.

The Detroit Tigers played two of their farm clubs. They whipped Augusta of the Sally League 4-2 and then lost to Charleston of the American Assn. 7-4.

Sime, Morrow Clashing Today In 100 yd. Dash

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF. BIG SPRING, Tex. (AP) - Two of the world's finest sprinters - Bobby Morrow of Olympic fame and Dave Sime, holder of multiple records - clash today in the 100-yard dash to settle a feud of three years.

The duel of Morrow, Abilene Christian College sprint king of the Olympics, and Sime, the pounding blond from Duke, headlines the American Business Club Relays. The two are due to fight it out in their third meeting - each has beaten the other once at 2 p.m. (CST). A crowd of 10,000 is expected.

Good weather is anticipated in contrast to yesterday's windswept preliminaries in the high school and junior college classes that got the relays under way.

Gavilan May Not Be Fooling About The Title

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Kid Gavilan may not be fooling when he talks about winning back his welterweight championship. "I'm just going out there and swinging and hope for the best," he said.

The decision was split but most spectators felt referee Joe Sweeney must have been watching another fight when he scored Jones the winner 46-44.

Gavilan, weighing 155, moved lively for 10 rounds. Some of his punches were like those of years ago when he was one of the classiest fighters. His defense was excellent too as he put to use experience gained in 142 fights.

Billy Joe Isn't Worrying About Winning Yet

By WILL GRIMSLEY. AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - Billy Joe Patton says he has no illusions about winning the Master Golf Championship although he is just one stroke back of leader Ken Venturi going into today's third round.

"Four years ago when I nearly won, I was in a fog," the 36-year-old Morgantown, N.C., lumberman added. "I was all charged up. This time, I just feel peaceful-like. I have no idea of shooting any more rounds like I did yesterday."

No amateur ever has won this rugged 72-hole test of the golfing elite but Patton shook the equilibrium of the proud pros in 1954 and Venturi, then an amateur, gave them nervous jitters again two years later.

Now this pair - Venturi, a mature pro of 26, and Patton, still amateur - are fighting for one of the sport's most wanted prizes. Venturi, the first leader at 68, had to score birdies on the three finishing holes to maintain his one-stroke edge at 140. Patton shot a 69 to move into a tie with Billy Maxwell, young Texas pro, at 141.

Two other players were just another stroke off the pace at 142. Stan Leonard, Canadian pro champion, and Bo Winger, from Odessa, Tex., were ready to move into the lead. A half-dozen others were bunched at 143.

The latter group includes Sam Snead, a three-time winner; Cary Middlecoff, an ex-Masters and two-time National Open King; former PGA champion Chick Harbert; Dow Finsterwald and Arnold Palmer, two of the leading money winners, and Art Wall Jr., whose chief claim to fame has been 34 holes-in-one.

Venturi and Patton, playing as partners, provided the fireworks in a pulsating climax yesterday to a long, rainy and, to many of the game's best golfers, disastrous day.

The young San Francisco golfer, who led for three rounds in 1956 before he blew the title to Jack Burke Jr. on a last round 80 for the first few holes looked as if he was in for a repeat collapse.

He was four over par through the ninth and headed for another 80. But, rallying brilliantly, he sank four and eight-foot putts for birdies on the 16th and 17th and he rolled home a 20-footer on the 18th for a par 72.

The New WAYNE D. OVERHOLSER Thriller THE LONE DEPUTY

CHAPTER II
"Bruce," Susie Farnum called. "Come over here and ride with me."
Lizzie Potter started to object, but Jean broke in. "Sure, you go ahead, Bruce," and Lizzie was too worn out to do anything more than grumble.
Dora Farnum rode on the seat with her father. There was barely room in the back for Bruce and Susie along with the beef carcass that was covered with a canvas. The Potters had gone ahead. They'd pick up Frank Evans to ride with Jean. Lizzie had been trying to get them married for a year now, saying they'd all be better off because they could run both places together. That showed how stupid she was, Bruce thought. You didn't make one good farm by putting two poor ones together.
Dusk turned to night before they reached Walt Cronin's store. Bruce and Susie didn't talk. They just sat holding hands, with Dora turning around to look at them every now and then. Bruce didn't like Dora. She was big and coarse, and thought Bruce was a sissy. Maybe he was, the way Dora looked at things, but it wasn't any of her business. Besides, he had his opinion of her. Susie was different. She was small and pretty and sweet.
When they went into the store, Lizzie was already at the drygoods counter. Jean and Dora Farnum drifted over to stand beside her. George Farnum took a look at Walt Cronin's battered face and said, "What happened to you, son?"
"Met up with a bear," Cronin said. "You oughta see the bear."
"I'll bet," Farnum jeered. "Well, I've got three quarters of a beef in the wagon. Want me to fetch it in?"
"Sure, bring it in," Lizzie whirled from the counter. "Lizzie, it's stolen just like all the beef we eat is stolen. There's going to be trouble if we keep this up." Price Regan came to see us today.
"Sure it's stolen," Cronin said, "and we're gonna keep on stealing from the cowmen until they're busted. This is just a beginning, and don't you worry about Price Regan. He'll be taken care of when the sign's right, and I figure the sign's about right."
Susie kept nudging Bruce with her elbow. He glanced at the jars of candy on the candy counter and wished he had even one nickel to buy some for Susie. She'd never had enough gumdrops in her whole life, but there wasn't any use to ask Sam for money. Lizzie carried the little money the Potters had, and if Bruce asked her for a penny, she'd take his hide off.
Bruce edged toward the door, Susie following, and the minute they were outside she took his hand and they ran around the store toward the river.
Presently Susie said, "Bruce, I haven't seen you since Sunday."
"You know the reason," he said. "When I ain't sleeping or eating, I'm working all the time. I'm going to get paid for it."
"You can't run off and leave me, Bruce," she said. "You like me, don't you? You like me a little bit?"
"I like you a terrible lot," he said.
"Love" was a word he could never get around to saying. He knew she wanted to hear it, but he couldn't get it out. Now she said, whispering, "Bruce, you can live with us. Pa wouldn't care. We could make out all right. We always have enough to eat."
He hesitated. He didn't want to tell her that he couldn't stand Dora, who'd be watching everything they did and laughing at him. He couldn't tell her, either, that her father was just as shiftless as Lizzie said, and if he didn't steal from Broken Ring or Bridebit his family wouldn't have enough to eat.
"I just can't," he said. "I'm going away, maybe tomorrow night, but I'll see you before I go."
She kissed him, believing him. Then they were silent, both knowing this would be their last evening together. There would be tomorrow afternoon, then he'd be

Disneyland Has Added Grand Canyon To Park

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Disneyland is gearing for its fourth big summer and has imported the Grand Canyon as an added attraction. Arizona need not worry. The state's natural wonder hasn't been stolen, but a realistic replica has been created at the Anaheim pleasure park. Visitors enter a long tunnel via the Disneyland and Santa Fe Railway and view the whole panorama of the canyon, complete with native animals, thunderstorms and blazing sunset.
The illusion is created by a 306-foot diorama painted by the Disney artists. The premiere showing this week drew praise from the press and public alike.
Walt Disney isn't going to stop there. He bought the rights to Ferde Grofe's "Grand Canyon Suite." His nature photographers have been shooting the canyon in all its phases. The result will be a film to accompany the descriptive music. It will be released in a package with the next Disney cartoon feature, "Sleeping Beauty."

Experienced, In A Limited Way

Shelby, N.C. (AP)—There had been a minor traffic accident and Trooper D.W. Spratt was questioning the motorists involved.
One, a woman, explained that she had never driven before on a highway, that all her previous driving experience had been in her yard.
"How long have you been driving around in the yard?" Spratt asked.
"Oh, two or three years," she replied.

A Big Girl, But He Gives Orders

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—She may be a big girl now, but Diane Cross is still going to have to take orders from poppa.
Diane was recently commissioned a lieutenant in the Women's Air Force (WAF).
But poppa—Julian B. Cross—is a full colonel at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base here.
Lois is a Greek name which means "good or desirable."

Some Escapism In Prison Art

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—"Do the paintings of prisoners at the Joliet penitentiary show signs of escapism?"
"Yes," says John V. Hudack, art instructor at the Illinois State penitentiary.
Romanticism is characteristic of many of their paintings, the instructor says. Memory and imagination also play an important role. Unlike painters on the outside, the prisoners have no opportunity to observe real landscape, no chance to watch the sea or feel the rain.
