Dulles Charges Soviet Debauched Peace Proposals For Propaganda

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today accused the Soviet Union of having debauched and prostituted international diplomacy and peace-making processes for propaganda purposes.

ence, it was indicated the Western reply would go to Moscow today or tomorrow.

The formula put together by the United States, Britain and France was approved yesterday by the 12 other Atlantic Pact nations at Paris.

Briefly stated, it was understood to go along with the Soviet proposal that the Big Four ambassadors start talking things over in Moscow Thursday.

These conditions are that the ambassadors and the Big Four foreign ministers, if they do father together, must discuss only technical details—not the world-dividing issues themselves.

The Allies are reported agreeable to starting ambassadorial talks in Moscow Thursday. That date fits in with their suggestion that late April was a good time to get things rolling.

But they are reported telling Moscow in their new note that a delay of a week or 10 days might help matters.

If the Soviet Union insists on a Thursday start, U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson was described as ready and willing to get going. If delay is acceptable, Thompson was expected to fly home to Washington for a huddle with Secretary of State Dulles before going into four-cornered talks in Moscow.

Dulles told the International Press Institute that it was "illusory" to believe that complex, complicated issues like disarmament could be settled with broad brush strokes. He said any hope of success hinges on adequate painstaking preparation by experts.

That message outlined the President's plan for reorganization of the military establishment. When it was sent to the Capitol a presidential aide, Bryce Harlow, told a news conference the impact of the plan would be to give the secretary of defense complete control of military funds.

That interpretation set off a roar at the Capitol from legislators opposed to giving up any part of Congress' power of the purse.

The issue is due for an airing at a House Armed Services Committee hearing on the plan, now set to start a week from today. The session was put off from today at the request of Secretary of Defense McElroy.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) announced the delay yesterday, saying McElroy wants to be the first witness but will be in Paris this week for a meeting of North Atlantic pact defense ministers.

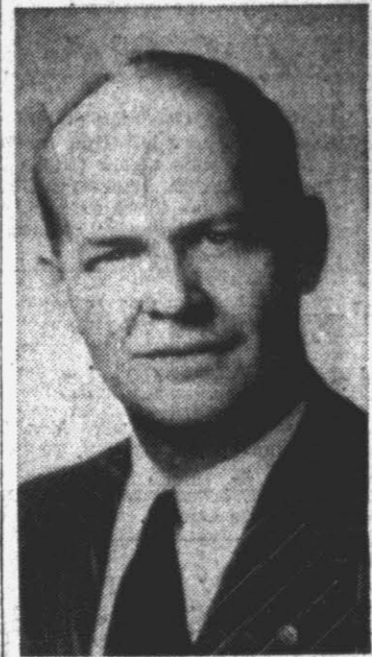

Aycock Is 6th Chairman Of School Board In 55 Years

By JIMMY ELLIS Reflector Staff Writer

When Dr. E. B. Aycock was named chairman of the Greenville City Board of Education yesterday he became the sixth person to hold the job in 55 years.

Dr. Aycock was elected to succeed J. B. James whose resignation as chairman and as a member of the board was accepted at a special meeting of board members yesterday. Dr. Aycock, a member of the board since 1955, had been vice-chairman since December 13, 1957.

James had been chairman of the board since July 2, 1942, when he was elected successor to Edward G. Flanagan. Flanagan had been chairman of the board for a year, taking office after James L. Little who served as chairman from 1919 until 1941.

Former Governor Thomas J. Jarvis was the first school board chairman, serving from 1903 until 1908. He was succeeded by F. C. Harding who held the office from 1908 until Little became chairman in 1919.

The resignation of James, which had been pending for more than a month, was offered, he said, because, "I now feel that it is time for me to step aside and let someone else carry on. From the day of my appointment I have considered it a sacred trust, and I have done all within my power to support and further the betterment of our school system."

James also noted in his letter of resignation, "It has been a real pleasure to work with all of the members of the School Board, past and present. Each one has been deeply interested in our problems, and no one could ask for better cooperation in our attempts to solve them. I am very proud of the Board's accomplishments and of our present excellent school system."

J. B. JAMES ... resigned chairman

Superintendent J. H. Rose, who was administrative head of the city school system throughout

James' tenure on the board, was complimented by the retired chairman for his work.

"I want to add," James said, "that throughout these 17 years of my service on the Board, I have fully appreciated the genuine worth and value of June Rose, and his keen and active interest in the schools and in the boys and girls of our community."

A successor to James as a member of the board will be elected by the Greenville City Council, presumably at its May 15 meeting. Present members of the Board of Education will submit three nominations to the council for James' term which would have expired June 30, 1959.

The change will mark the third in the school board's membership within five months. Mrs. Herbert Hadley and A. Hartwell Campbell were elected by the Council, on December 5 to replace Joseph M. Taft and Mrs. L. M. Buchanan. The board and Dr. Aycock was named to succeed him in that position when Mrs. Hadley was accepted as a member of the board.

Mrs. W. J. Stell, a member of the board since July, 1950, was named yesterday as new vice-chairman.

The new chairman is a native of Fremont in Wayne County but has made his home in Greenville for the past 22 years except for four years of military service during World War II. He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and McGill University in Montreal, Canada.

Dr. Aycock, his wife and their three children, all of whom attend Greenville schools, make their home on Longmeadow Road. He is a general practitioner.

No Blanket Authority Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today told GOP congressional leaders he has no intention of seeking blanket authority for the secretary of defense to control all military spending.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California reported the President's position on that controversial matter after the leaders' regularly weekly meeting with Eisenhower.

Knowland called it a misconception that Eisenhower, in a special message to Congress April 3, advocated giving the secretary of defense full authority over military money.

That message outlined the President's plan for reorganization of the military establishment. When it was sent to the Capitol a presidential aide, Bryce Harlow, told a news conference the impact of the plan would be to give the secretary of defense complete control of military funds.

That interpretation set off a roar at the Capitol from legislators opposed to giving up any part of Congress' power of the purse.

The issue is due for an airing at a House Armed Services Committee hearing on the plan, now set to start a week from today. The session was put off from today at the request of Secretary of Defense McElroy.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) announced the delay yesterday, saying McElroy wants to be the first witness but will be in Paris this week for a meeting of North Atlantic pact defense ministers.

Calls For Quick Tax Writeoffs

ST. LOUIS (AP)— Immediate tax writeoffs which would encourage industry to replace obsolete equipment are needed to whip the recession, says editor George F. Sullivan of Iron Age Magazine.

Sullivan told the 46th annual convention of the American Zinc Institute, "The current recession began in the durable goods industry and that is the industry which must bring the nation back to prosperity."

Ralph C. Miller Jr., of the Sheet Mill Products Division of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp., said January shipments of galvanized steel were higher than in December 1957, and are expected to pick up in the last half of this year. He urged producers to take a more aggressive attitude toward advertising their products.

C & D Meet Nearing Close

WASHINGTON (AP)— The House and Senate today were expected to reach agreement on the defense reorganization bill, ending a week-long session.

The House passed the bill yesterday, 378-10, after a week of debate. The Senate is expected to pass it today.

The bill would give the secretary of defense complete control of military funds, a move that has caused concern among some members of Congress.

AT GOLDSBORO CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT MEET ... Gov. Hodges, Parks Committee Chairman Amos C. Kearns, James W. Butler, State Superintendent of Parks Thomas W. Morse. (Photo by Bill Futtelle, Goldsboro News-Argus).

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)— A morning round of committee meetings today paved the way for the State Board of Conservation and Development to close its two-day spring meeting here.

Among reports to be brought to a final board session was a proposal from the Commercial Fisheries Committee that shrimping be banned on Saturdays.

The committee yesterday approved a suggestion from the North Carolina Fisheries Assn. for the Saturday ban as a conservation measure. Shrimping is now prohibited on Sundays.

through Dec. 31. The board also was expected to take action on a call for stepped-up advertising designed to attract retired persons to North Carolina.

Jack Barfield of Asheville, heading a delegation from the North Carolina Assn. of Real Estate Boards, said yesterday such a program could pay off in bringing new citizens to the state.

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)— The possibility of mining phosphates from state-owned river bottoms in Eastern North Carolina apparently remains up in the air. One bidder was withdrawn and no others have come forward, an official of the State Board of Conservation and Development said yesterday. Joseph W. Enloe Jr. of Spruce Pine, Mineral Resources Committee chairman, said the only formal offer to lease the submerged lands in Beaufort and Hyde counties came from Bear Creek Mining Co., a subsidiary of Kennecott Copper Co.

A lease to Bear Creek had been approved by the C&D Board, but Gov. Hodges and the Council of State ordered a delay to give other firms a chance to bid. No other offers came and Bear Creek backed out.

Answering a question, Enloe said there was no negligence on the part of the committee or the C&D Department in handling the matter.

Republicans Hit Truman Advice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans today jumped on Harry S. Truman's economic prescriptions as "a political gimmick," and contended that if Congress followed his advice the country would go broke.

But the former President's two hours of testimony yesterday before the House Banking Committee drew grudging admiration from his Republican critics, even if they disagreed with his economic views.

"He made his pitch and did it well — I was glad to watch the show," said Rep. Seely Brown (R-Conn.).

Rep. Mumma (R-Pa) said Truman was entertaining, but called his testimony "a political gimmick to open the congressional campaign for 1958."

But Chairman Spence (D-Ky) said he was eminently satisfied with Truman as his opening committee witness for a scheduled five-week hearing on the economic situation and what to do about it.

"He rendered a fine service," Spence said. "His importance in the nation entitled him to be heard."

In reply to GOP hints that Truman was called to provide the committee with political propaganda, Spence declared there was "no frameup."

Spence disclosed that Truman had written saying he was interested in the hearings, and that he was invited. "Ex-presidents are entitled to come if they want to," Spence said.

As a self-styled "retired Mister," Truman said he was interested in the hearings, and that he was invited. "Ex-presidents are entitled to come if they want to," Spence said.

As a self-styled "retired Mister," Truman said he was interested in the hearings, and that he was invited. "Ex-presidents are entitled to come if they want to," Spence said.

As a self-styled "retired Mis-son farmer" Truman proposed an increase in Social Security benefits, broadened and expanded unemployment compensation benefits, lowering interest on government borrowings, aid for small business, and federal loans for local public works and distressed communities.

Along with these he recommended an increase in Social Security benefits, broadened and expanded unemployment compensation benefits, lowering interest on government borrowings, aid for small business, and federal loans for local public works and distressed communities.

"You can't sit and let the country go to hell," he observed at one point.

Then, in a wisecracking question and answer period, he proposed of about everything in the economic picture from money ("It's Greek to me") to what's wrong with the auto industry ("Too many cars priced too high").

Rep. McDonough (R-Calif) said he would go a step further than Truman "and say the entire subject of economics is Greek to him."

McDonough said Truman's program of federal spending could add close to 200 billion dollars to the federal budget over the next 10 years, while his tax program would cut 50 billion dollars from revenues in the same period.

"I am sure even a freshman economics student could figure out the consequences of such a program," McDonough said.

Reveals 184 Sub Sightings Off Coast In 1957

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Rep. Carl Durham (D-NC) says Soviet submarine activity off U.S. Coasts has increased recently and that 184 sightings were made off the U.S. Atlantic coast alone in 1957.

His statement last night at Greensboro College was the first to specify the number of sightings, though detections had been made for some time.

The chairman of the Joint House Senate Atomic Energy Committee, said some of the Soviet craft were as close as seven miles offshore.

The Soviets apparently were tracking ships and observing the U.S. guided missile range from Florida into the South Atlantic, Durham said.

Turning to the forthcoming underwater nuclear tests planned this year by the Atomic Energy Commission, Durham said: "I wouldn't put off those tests in the Pacific for anything."

Durham said he did not believe the Soviets have an operational intercontinental ballistic missile yet. "But," he continued, "we know they have the short range, the 500-mile missiles, and they are putting them on submarines."

GRIFTON'S JERRY CAUSEY WITH GRAND CHAMPION ... At Eighth Annual Pitt County Fat Stock Show And Sale.

Grifton Entry Takes Top Honors In Fat Stock Show

Grifton's Jerry Causey walked off with the major portion of honors in yesterday's opening session of the eighth annual Pitt County Fat Stock Show and Sale.

The ninth-grader, a member of the Grifton Chapter of Future Farmers of America, entered two Angus calves in the show and won three of the top four prizes in the beef cattle division. One of his calves was named Grand Champion of the show and the other was picked as Reserve Champion.

In addition, Causey won second place in the Pitting and Showmanship competition, placing behind J. D. Nobles of the Ayden chapter of Future Farmers of America.

The show continued today, with a 10 a.m. showing of swine entries and a 2 p.m. sale of steers and swine. It was scheduled to be completed with a meat-cutting demonstration at 3:30 by Dr. John A. Christian of the North Carolina Extension Service.

Dr. Christian and Art Pitzer of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture picked Causey's calves as top entries among 30 steers entered in the show. In addition, the judges graded 14 of the calves as "choice," 14 as "good," and two as "standard." Choice cattle will receive a $20 premium and good cattle will receive a $15 premium.

Causey won $50 with his prize entries. The Grand Champion, a 1,050-pound Angus, took $50 and a blue ribbon and the Reserve Champion, an 860-pound Angus, won $35 and a blue ribbon. Second prize in the Pitting and Showmanship was worth $5 to the Grifton youth and Nobles, first place winner in Pitting and Showmanship, won $10.

State officials who attended yesterday's opening session termed the show "above the average of shows we have seen this year."

Pitzer said, "Quality of calves here is exceptionally good and very uniform. The boys who entered the calves are to be commended for the fine jobs they have done, especially in view of the severe winter we experienced."

Pitt County boys who entered steers in the show included Jerry Causey, Grifton FFA; Lewis Haddock, Jr., Grifton FFA; Alton R. Clark, Belvoir FFA; Jack Davenport, Winterville FFA; Walter Heath, Ayden FFA; Richard McLawhorn, Ayden FFA; Donald Lee, Winterville FFA; Ralph Davenport, Winterville FFA; Phillip Joyner, Winterville FFA; Bobby Pollard, Belvoir FFA; James E. Mills, Chocod FFA; J. D. Nobles, Ayden FFA; Fomba Ross, Winterville FFA; Ray Craft, Ayden FFA; Russel Harris, Belvoir FFA; Moya Waters, Winterville FFA; Billy Thomas, Belvoir FFA; Fred Wainwright, Winterville FFA; Marvin Wainwright, Winterville FFA; John Vernelson, Stokes-Pactolus FFA; Bernice Harris, Winterville FFA; J. H. Loftin, Winterville FFA; Kenneth Greene, Ayden FFA; and Jesse Braxton, Farmville 4-H.

Leaky Earthen Dam Is About Ready To Break

BENNETTSVILLE, S.C. (AP)— A leaky earthen diversion dam on the right side of the lake and out the hole left by the washed out spillway which caused the first flood.

Davis said the diversion dam is expected to break at any time. He said Highway Department officials, who are in charge of the dam itself, plan to break the weak spot if it does not wash away by night.

The area below the dam is populated mostly by Negroes. About 500 persons were evacuated by boat and National Guard truck when the dam broke previously, but Chief Davis said many persons have moved from the area since.

The rest have been advised of the situation and many have left, he said, although no extensive flooding is expected when the earthen wall finally crumbles.

Davis said the water was leaking at the bottom of the dam wall and that highway engineers were waiting for the water to cut through to the top.

City's Summer Recreation Program To Begin On June 16

At last night's monthly meeting of the Recreation Commission, Gordon Goodman announced that the city's summer recreation program will begin June 16.

Goodman, who is Greenville's Recreation director, stated that the seven-week program will terminate August 1.

Nine parks will be opened, for the white and Negro. Elm Street, Hillsdale, Meadowbrook, Woodlawn, Guy Smith Stadium and Third Street are to be opened for white children. Epps High School, Riverside and South Greenville will be operated for the Negro, the commission accepted the proposal and directed that changes be made in all three league schedules.

Teen-er play begins during the week of May 26 while the citywide softball league commences sometime during the middle of May. The baseball league, consisting of teams from New Bern, Kinston, Rocky Mount and Greenville, begins June 9.

A committee, headed by Mrs. L. W. Edwards was appointed to nominate candidates for two seats on the commission. The three-year terms of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins and John Bizzell expire on June 1.

Monthly reports were given by Goodman and Luke Hemby, Negro Recreation supervisor.

Goodman also announced that lights on the tennis courts at Elm Street Park were adjusted yesterday and are now ready for use. Metered, the lights may be used at any time, the Recreation director noted.

Martha Writes Along Way— Airplane Pillows Were Not For Sleeping

(Editor's Note: Miss Martha Jane Pierce State Homemaker of Tomorrow, who is enroute to New York City to compete for the All-American Homemaker, writes the following description of her whirlwind trip.)

MARTHA

By MARTHA PIERCE
Oops! We hit an air pocket. Get your fork out of my mouth! Hazardous eating typified our 70-minute flight from the Raleigh-Durham airport to Washington, D. C.

No beverages were served with our six course meal because of "turbulent weather." as the airplane hostess described it. Small pillows given out by the hostess before lunch were not for sleeping, as some of the novice flyers first thought, but were cushions to absorb the sudden jolts given the lunch trays.

Joanne Swan, the winner from Georgia, was on our plane. To our surprise eight winners from the Pacific Northwest and the Midwest received royal treatment enroute to Washington. For dinner they were served steak and champagne.

Get Acquainted Session
Most of the girls gathered in the New York Room in the Hotel Statler for a get-acquainted session Saturday afternoon. After partially breaking the language barrier, the Southern girls were asked to "let me hear that drawl again."

Five questions heralded the arrival of the new-er girls. What is your formal for Thursday night? Where are you going to school next year? What are you planning to major in? The question, "Do you work on the school paper?" brought an affirmative answer in most instances.

Surprisingly enough, there are many girls on the trip who have never had a class in home economics. They gained their home-making knowledge by living in large families.

We shopped Saturday afternoon and saw the movie "Wild Is The Wind," starring Anna Magnani, that night. Sunday morning services in the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church were followed by a family style luncheon in the Federal Room of the Hotel Statler.

Eight spots on the Sunday afternoon tour of Washington included visits to the Capitol, the art gallery, and Smithsonian Institute. First Seafood Supper
The girl from North Dakota dined with us Sunday night at Hogate's, a famous seafood restaurant located on the banks of the Potomac. I was amazed that the only seafood she had eaten were fresh-water fish and frozen shrimp. She had deviled scallops, crab meat, fillet of flounder, and oysters for the first time that night.

Included in our night tour of Washington was the breathtaking view of the Washington Memorial in the Reflection Pool. We also visited the Lincoln Memorial, the Jefferson Memorial, the Unknown Soldier's Tomb, and the National Archives Building before bed-time.

We had to crawl out of bed Monday morning at 6 a.m. in order to see all the sights scheduled for us. Everyone boarded the bus at 8:15 a.m. and we went to see the changing of the guard at the Unknown Soldier's Tomb. The bus stopped for about five minutes at the two Jima Memorials so that we could take pictures.

Mount Vernon Visit
Mount Vernon was our next stop before eating lunch in Richmond, Va. From there we went on to Williamsburg and a tour of the Jamestown Festival.

The 49 girls were divided into seven groups for group interviews. My interview at 8:30 Monday night consisted of a roundtable discussion of several problems.

Credit Women Plan Fashion Show

Initial plans for the Summer Fashion Festival were discussed Saturday morning when the Credit Women's Breakfast Club held its regular meeting at the Olds Towne Inn with President Emma Lee Schmidt presiding.

The fashion show, which will feature summer apparel, will be held at the McGinnis Auditorium at East Carolina College April 25 at 8 p.m.

Fashions for both men and women will be shown by 15 local Greenville merchants. In addition, entertainment, door prizes, and talent by local artists will be presented. Tickets for the festival were distributed to all members of the club for their disposal.

Mrs. Frances Campbell, chairman of the local project, gave a brief resume pertaining to the event. The proceeds of this fashion show will go for the club's East Carolina College Scholarship Fund.

"Happy Birthdays" was sung to Mrs. Dorothy Copeland and Mrs. Jean Porter. Door prizes were distributed at the meeting.

Red Oak News

Baptismal services at Red Oak Christian Church last Sunday morning climaxed a week long revival held at the church with 28 new members being added to the church.

The Rev. Howard James left Sunday afternoon to begin a week long revival at Sanford, Mrs. James and son, Glenn, will visit her mother at Wendell while Mrs. James is away.

Mrs. Hazard May is confined in Pitt Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Mimi Tripp is seriously ill at her home in Greenville. She is the mother of Mrs. Jarvis Tripp, Sr.

Circle No. 2 of Red Oak wish to host to the Eastern N. C. Funeral Directors Tuesday night at a supper.

Circle No. 1 will serve a supper to the Music Department of Greenville on Saturday night. Circle No. 3 will serve a supper to the Hookerton District C.M.F. on May 8.

Jane Fuller To Serve On BSU Council

Miss Jane Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fuller of Greenville, was recently elected to serve on the East Carolina College Baptist Student Union executive council in the capacity of president of Baptist Training Union of Memorial Baptist Church.

The 25 members of the council plan and lead the program for the approximately 1300 Baptist students who are enrolled at East Carolina College.

Miss Fuller is a rising senior and is majoring in music. This is the first year she has served on the B.S.U. executive council. Not only is she active in the Baptist Student Union but she is a member of College Singers, College Choir, Opera Workshop and the "Collegians." She is social chairman of the College Choir.

30 Years Ago Today

April 15, 1928

A membership drive of the Greenville Merchants Association will begin tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, C. B. Rowlett, secretary of the organization, said today. "The association has greatly increased the scope of its activities the last several months," Mr. Rowlett said, "and it is the purpose of officials to continue this expansion in the future. We are filling the place of a Chamber of Commerce and like organizations and it is necessary for us to have a more representative membership to carry our plans to a success. We are standing on the threshold of a new era. The future is replete with opportunity and with opportunity for a cause as noble as the cause of human progress."

Arts Festival Luncheon
The Arts Festival Luncheon will be held April 26 in the North Dining Room at East Carolina College at 12:30 p.m. For reservations call Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell, 2958, by April 21. Everyone is invited to attend this luncheon when Mrs. Gertrude Caraway will discuss the restoration of Tryon Palace in New Bern.

Four Local Delegates Will Attend Convention In Ohio
Delegates were appointed to attend the International Convention of the King's Daughters and Sons which will convene in Columbus, Ohio, April 27-May 1 when the Patient Circle of the King's Daughters and Sons met April 8 at the home of Mrs. Luther Moore.

The Patient Circle will be represented at the International Convention by Mrs. R. C. Henry, Miss Mary Walls, Mrs. C. A. Bowen and Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell, president of the Branch President's chapter. Mrs. Shackell will preside at the Branch Chapter's breakfast May 31.

Giving the third of her lessons in the Bible study, the Gospel of St. Mark, Miss Mamie Chandler discussed the parables and miracles of Jesus.

She stressed the Parable of the Sower. "In performing His miracles Jesus showed His power and that he was the divine son of God. The miracle was to the eye, what the parable was to the ear," she said.

The president, Mrs. Bowen, opened the meeting with the group praying together the Prayer of Order. During the short business session, the Social Service chairman, Mrs. Milton White, reported financial aid had been given two families during the past month together with a food supply. Numerous hospital calls and visits to the sick had been made also, she said.

NEW COASTER PATTERNS
New coaster patterns of reusable paper include lime and orange designs, resembling cut out fruit. There is a rose coaster with matching cocktail napkins, and a rose placemat.

Historical Society Program To Be Based On Early History

Members of the Historical Society of North Carolina, meeting at East Carolina College Friday, April 18, will hear a program based on the early history and literature of the State. Two meetings will be held in the Joyner Memorial Library on the campus at 4 p.m. and at 7:45 p.m. A dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. will take place in the East Dining Hall at the college.

Those who will present papers at the afternoon session and their topics are Dr. Mattie Russell of Duke University "William Howland Thomas, White Chief of the North Carolina Cherokee" and Herbert Paschal of East Carolina College "North Carolina's First Capital." A business meeting will precede the program.

The night meeting will focus attention on North Carolina literature. Those appearing on the program and the subjects of their papers will be Richard Walser of State College, "North Carolina History in Fiction," and Dr. J.S. Purcell of Davidson College, "Newspaper Verse in the 18th Century Concerning North Carolina." Dr. Hugh Lefler of the University of North Carolina is president of the society. Dr. Paul Murray, director of the East Carolina department of social studies, is chairman of local arrangements; and Dr. L.P. Brewster, a member of the department, is a local member of the program committee.

ECC Frat To Give Play

To raise funds for a scholarship for a "needy and worthy freshman" at East Carolina College, members of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity will present "The Moon Is Blue," comedy by F. Hugh Herbert.

Three performances are scheduled for April 30 and May 1 and 2 at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis Auditorium.

The sum realized from the play will be given to a new student entering East Carolina in September, 1958. A scholarship board of fraternity members will choose the recipient.

"The Moon Is Blue" will be directed by C. Thomas Hull of Durham and Delano A. Driver of Richmond, Va., who also will be members of the cast. Acting with them in the play will be Doris F. Robbins of Roanoke Rapids and Larry B. Craven of Raleigh.

The sponsoring organization was recently made a colony of the national Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and expects to receive its charter next winter. Members began a series of service projects this spring with an Easter egg hunt for a group of 32 underprivileged children of the city. Plans are that the benefit play for a scholarship fund will be presented each year in the future.

George V. Bagley of Hobbsville was recently installed as president of the fraternity. He replaced Emanuel Katsias of Virginia Beach.

Elmhurst PTA Plans Group Studies

When the Elmhurst PTA will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium, the subject for discussion will be "The Influence of Outside Activities on the School Curriculum and on the General Well-being of Our Children."

Mrs. Howard Hodges is chairman of the program committee and Wendell Smiley will act as moderator. Members will divide into small groups with leaders who hope to arrive at some specific recommendations on this problem.

This last business meeting of the year will include election of officers for 1958-59.

Mrs. Dail Nominated To Serve As President Of Wesleyan Guild

Mrs. Polly Dail was selected by the Nominating Committee of the Wesleyan Service Guild of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church to serve as president for the coming year when the group met last night in the Couples Glass room of the church.

Other officers named were Mrs. Sally Klingenschmidt, vice president; Mrs. John L. Askew, secretary; and Mrs. Helen Perkins, treasurer.

The president, Frances Danala, opened the meeting with a prayer. Mrs. T. B. Brown gave the devotional which was in keeping with the program for the month—"The March of Youth in Missions."

Miss Frances Wahl presented the program, using a dramatic dialogue. Her subject was "March of Youth in Missions."

Miss Wahl pointed out a concern for missions is at the heart of Methodism's unified program for young people and there is a variety of ways the youth give and serve to meet human needs and fulfill the world missions of the church.

The challenge members of the Women's Society and Guild have to work with the youth and counsel them about opportunities in missionary vocations was stressed by the speaker.

A short business meeting was held when reports from the committee chairmen were given.

The meeting adjourned with the Guild benediction, after which the hostesses, Miss Lois Grigsby, Miss Louise William, Miss Ann Askew, Mrs. John Askew, and Miss Betsy Oakes served refreshments.

P.T.A. Sees Spring Fashion Show

AYDEN—A Spring Fashion Show was the feature attraction at the Ayden Parent-Teacher Association meeting Thursday evening, which was held in the high school auditorium.

Mrs. Elbert L. Davidson, president, called the meeting to order, followed by a devotional given by the Rev. Raymond A. Gaskins.

A unique introduction to the Fashion Show, which was presented by members of the First Year Home Ec. Class, was given by Miss Ella Mae Ormond.

The students, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Josephine D. Ross, made their spring cottons varying in cost from approximately $4 to $10 with each student modeling their own dress. Acting as mistress of ceremonies for the show was the local P.H.A. president, Miss Sandra McLawhorn.

Wardrobe Interchangeability Stressed At Fountain HD Meet

FOUNTAIN—"It is not the number of items in your wardrobe, but their interchangeability which counts," Mrs. Lillie B. Little, Pitt County home agent, told members of the Fountain Home Demonstration Club when she met with them in the home of Mrs. Sim Weisner.

The topic of Mrs. Little's demonstration was "Dress For The Occasion" and she noted that the well-dressed woman has repose and natural ease. Mrs. Ruel Dilda modeled a basic dress which she had made and as she changed accessories members kept a point score to show when she was correctly dressed. Mrs. Carlton Gardner modeled a blouse which she had made.

During the business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. Albert Bell, reports were given by Mrs. Willie Killebrew, Mrs. Edwin Corbett, Mrs. Albert Bell, Mrs. Joe Gay, and Mrs. J. C. Parker. Mrs. Parker also brought a vanilla bean which she passed for club members to examine as she told some of its uses and described its source.

Mrs. Bell announced the flower and vegetable show, sponsored by the County Council, will be held May 27 in Greenville. A discussion was held concerning National Home Demonstration Week and a committee was appointed to plan some outstanding activity for this week.

The meeting was opened with the singing of "Fairest, Lord Jesus," followed by the devotional by Mrs. Joe Gay, and the meeting closed with the repeating of the collect in unison.

Meedames Beasley Bell, Fred Moore, Sim Weisner, Edwin Corbett, Albert Bell, Willie Killebrew, Joe Gay, Alton Moore, and Ruel Dilda of the Fountain Home Demonstration Club attended the spring meeting of the 22nd District Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs held in the Walsenburg school on April 10. Mrs. Weisner represented Pitt County on the Resolutions Committee.

Formosa Missionary To Speak

The Woman's Missionary Union of Memorial Baptist Church is presenting Miss Inabelle Coleman, missionary to Formosa, as guest speaker Wednesday at 8 p.m. during the regular prayer meeting hour.

Miss Coleman is a native of Durham and served as school teacher in Greensboro, and young people's director of the First Baptist Church in that city prior to going to China in 1940 to teach in the University of Shanghai.

Miss Coleman is home on furlough from her teaching duties at the University of Taipei on Formosa.

She will be the guest of Mrs. Clyde Mallison, 419 West Fourth Street, during her visit here Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Miss Mallison is chairman of the local Inabelle Coleman Circle.

For the reception following the talk in the church on Wednesday evening, Mrs. J. C. Youngblood II and Mrs. Don Calloway will be in charge of refreshments and Mrs. Harvey Tripp and Mrs. P. E. Wells, decorations.

Mrs. Larry Averette, president of the Woman's Missionary Union, will preside.

Miss Coleman has written several mission study books and served as editorial secretary for the foreign mission board for seven years. She has been filling extensive engagements at local, regional and state meetings.

Besides the Wednesday evening meeting that is open to the public, she is speaking on Tuesday night to the regional training union at 8:30 and attending a supper meeting of the Federation of Baptist Business Women at the Woman's Club. On Wednesday she is speaking at the Baptist Student Union at 5:15 p.m.

Mrs. M. D. Yelverton, program chairman, presented Mrs. Bell, who spoke on "Creative Hobbies." Mrs. Bell emphasized that hobbies encourage a person to acquire knowledge, to acquire things, and to create things.

Mrs. Bell was assisted in the program and demonstration by Mrs. R. D. Jefferson, Mrs. S. L. Dilda and Mrs. J. A. Moore.

Mrs. Jefferson showed pieces which she had made in a wood-working class and explained the processes used. Mrs. Dilda gave a talk on ceramics and showed pieces which had been made in ceramics class.

Mrs. Moore discussed the uses of metals. She displayed a planter, a plaque and aluminum trays and explained how each was made from a sheet of metal into a useful article.

Following the discussion of hobbies, guests were invited to see a display of articles made by residents of the community. Mrs. Fountain served orange cake, nuts and coffee to the 25 members and guests.

This New Reactor Spells Progress

The new atomic age is making giant strides across the nation and North Carolina is sharing in this march into the future.

Announcement last week of a nuclear testing reactor, to be located in the Wadesboro-Rockingham area, was hailed with enthusiasm; but the full impact of this and future nuclear enterprises are still only dreams which probably fall short of our wildest dreams.

Governor Hodges says the possibilities, "stagger the imagination." Spokesmen of the area where the laboratory will be located look upon the project chiefly in the light of immediate benefits; "a tremendous economic boost," said one; another called it an "economic shot in the arm." With twelve million dollars involved in its installation, the immediate prospects probably would dazzle any community. But it is in the long range benefits, the "profits" of this investment, to which the rest of the state looks.

The reactor would be used as a commercial laboratory for testing materials, perhaps the first of its kind anywhere. In essence, it would be a tool for basic research. It will not produce power, or anything else.

A spokesman for the newly-formed North Carolina corporation which is behind the project reports it will pave the way for bringing a new type of industrial development to the state; and for the nation at large it means research and development facility that will advance our efforts to develop peaceful application of atomic energy.

It is to these things we look for the real "profits" involved in this new facility.

An inspiring sidelight into the story of acquiring this monumental addition to North Carolina's industrial complex comes from participants in the negotiations. Folks in Anson and Richmond counties had been working on the reactor project for at least three years before the deal was closed.

One negotiator had this cryptic comment: "The reactor didn't just come in; it was brung in."

Proving anew that the long, wearying labors of industrial development enthusiasts can produce results.

Herewith, A Small Measure Of Thanks

The Daily Reflector notes with regret the resignation of J. B. James as a member of the Greenville City Board of Education.

As chairman of that board since 1942, and a member two years before that, he has played an active role in the remarkable growth and development of Greenville's schools.

The kind of debt today's students, former students and parents owe to the work of the retired member of the board is difficult to spell out. It's one of those intangibles we feel, but cannot pinpoint.

Public service is a hard row to hoe... doubly hard, perhaps, in such a sensitive field as education. Little glory, and plenty of headaches. It calls for much personal sacrifice.

So in behalf of the thousands of grateful Greenville people who would — if they could — walk up to Mr. James to voice some measure of their appreciation, may we say

"Thank you. Thank you very much."

Not Yet Time For The Summit Parleys

Like it or not, the West is being rushed toward a new "summit" conference from which the Communists can be the only winners.

We have everything to lose, at this stage of the game, and the game will be played with a stacked deck.

Even the accustomed "deadlock" at such meetings would be a feather in Nikita's cap for he can boast the parleys were held at his insistence and his opposite numbers wouldn't play along.

Western leadership cannot be called free agents, there is no avoiding their responsibilities to critics and internal political pressures. The Soviet negotiators are under no such handicap.

Past conferences between spokesmen for the opposing camps have shown any agreement that gets in the way of Soviet strategy is ignored. We can't do that sort of thing. To leaders of the democracies an agreement is something to be observed because they act as spokesmen for many peoples, not for themselves.

Yes, someday peace must be organized into a workable way of life. Today is not the day, nor is tomorrow. Not until Soviet leadership gives concrete evidence of abandoning its policy of aggressiveness can we trust them in a face to face meeting.

There is no evidence of that today.

Nikita Mixes Up His Pitches

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph Stalin looked like a bomb-thrower. Nikita Khrushchev looks like a short-order cook. But that's only one of the differences that make him dangerous to this country.

The three early Communists saints — Lenin, Stalin, Trotsky — had faces tense enough to scare babies. They had fanatic eyes. Khrushchev kisses babies. And you can hardly see the eyes in his fat, round face.

Stalin outlived Lenin and Trotsky but not their fanaticism. He became a symbol of what communism meant to millions: death and cruelty, and a willingness to sacrifice living generations for future generations.

There was something else he didn't outlive either: his own brand of isolationism. This was in part self-imposed and in part forced upon the Soviet Union by the big powers which hemmed her in.

Stalin's combination of isolationism and fanaticism — plus his own inflexibility — had two results:

1. He turned inward and concentrated on building the Soviet Union. In this he was amazingly successful, although at terrible cost in lives. He laid the foundations for the Soviet Union's present enormous power: in science, industry, education and armament, including nuclear weapons.

2. There was nothing persuasive about Stalin. He relied on the only means he knew: naked force. As a result, Soviet Communist expansion was limited.

No wonder he's working at it. And no wonder he's having some success.

Opinions In Brief

"The actual situation today is that the Soviet Union has, as we have, enough large thermonuclear weapons to destroy the other, and perhaps a large part of humanity. The Soviet Union is willing, apparently, to let it go at that. We are not willing to let it go at that." — Sec. of State Dulles.

"In this post-sputnik world, as man faces life in the skies, we must not underestimate our moral strength. What man's mind can devise, his character can control. We can and must develop a workable international machinery to bring law and order to the civilized world, or there will soon be no civilized world." — The Daily Record, Lawrenceville, Ill.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

RELIGION—VITAL OR WEAK?

Yesterday, mention was made in this column of the vitality of apostolic Christian faith and the imperative need in the church today of our return to it. We observe in closing that the modern church can have this apostolic zeal and power if it will.

But how? In exactly the same way the early church had it, namely, by getting close to Christ, learning from Him and being guided and inspired by His presence. Unless the whole Christian revelation is incorrect, we can be sure that Christ is in the world today precisely as He was 2000 years ago.

And yet not precisely. Then the encasement of his spirit in a single body meant that He was limited by time and space. Now, glorified and in a perpetual state of exaltation, He is no longer limited by either time or space. He is everywhere. He is to all men what He was to a few men 2000 years ago. The humblest being can bring his problems to Jesus Christ today and have the privilege of personal understanding and guidance.

The glory of the early Christian church was its nearness to Christ. The modern church can have that glory if it will meet the conditions which made the church glorious twenty centuries ago.

The question is, do we really want a strict and compelling religion, or are we satisfied to be nominally religious.

By ELMER ROESSNER

Congress seems unwilling to cut taxes as a remedy for the recession. There's a strong feeling that a cut would be slow to benefit those who need help furthest: the unemployed. Furthermore, many Congressmen think it unwise to reduce revenues just when the government needs more money to finance job-making projects.

However, there are some possible tax cuts and modifications which would actually increase government revenues.

If that sounds wacky, remember that the entire Federal tax system is a bit wacky.

One tax it would pay the government to eliminate is the 3 per cent excise on freight transportation. This tax may be costing the government $90,000,000 a year.

HOW GOVERNMENT LOSES

A study by Edward R. Jelma, director of the Interstate Commerce Commission's Bureau of Transport Economics and Statistics, showed that in 1956 the government collected $450,000,000 by this tax. However, since the tax is a deductible expense by shippers, it reduced their taxes and the government

Booklets Still Available

Remember those first aid booklets which the Greenville Rescue Squad placed on sale recently?

They're still available. The green booklets are being sold to finance the purchase of a second ambulance to be used by the rescue squad.

Sales of the booklets have been brisk so far, but not as good as squad members would like. There are still quite a few booklets available and squad members would like to see them in the hands of Pitt County citizens.

Actually they feel that the first aid booklets will be of real value to those who purchase them. They contain 101 questions and answers on first aid practices. The booklet embraces the latest first aid methods and squad members point out that there have been considerable changes in first aid practices in recent years.

Fire Chief George Gardner and Squad member Roy Hardee were discussing the need for the funds which will be derived from the booklet sale the other day.

They pointed out that the Greenville squad is virtually the oldest squad in the state. The number of rescue squads across the state has grown from year-to-year until now there are 42 such squads.

Greenville helped organize the Goldsboro squad which proved of invaluable assistance when the gas explosion occurred there a year or so ago.

Rescue squad members stand by at the fire station at intervals, ready to ride the rescue truck which is stationed there along with regular firemen who serve as squad members.

And there are other services which the squad performs locally.

For instance, Hardee points out, the rescue ambulance will stand by for the Boy Scout Camporee which is to be held here May 23-24.

At least two squad members will be on duty at the camporee grounds 24 hours a day to provide quick treatment in case of injury.

There are also plans for teaching first aid classes to faculty members in city and county schools. This is being done at the request of County Schools Superintendent D. H. Conley and City Schools Superintendent J. H. Rose.

However, with all that has been done in the past few years North Carolina is still far behind Virginia in the development of its rescue squads.

Most of the squads in that state got their start back in the 1920's according to Chief Gardner. Now most of them have their own buildings in addition to excellent equipment.

At any rate the local squad is going about its business of selling safety in Pitt County.

"The more safety minded we can make the people of Pitt County the more efficient job we will have done," Hardee says.

Other Editors Saying--- Let's Rescue The Gifted

(Greensboro Daily News)

In the United States when an obvious social need arises almost certainly a voluntary society will be formed to meet it. The National Council for the Gifted with headquarters in West Orange, N.J., has been organized since the launching of the Sputnik and the subsequent outcry that the country's best brains are being wasted.

In fact the council is still in the process of getting started, according to its president, George Douglas Hofe. Its literature, however, outlines its objectives and defines terms.

The term "gifted" includes "those persons with high intelligence who, in addition, possess the potential for unusual performance in any creative or socially useful area of human concern." How unfortunate that at the outset the term could not have been defined in simpler words.

Immediate objectives of the National Council for the Gifted are: (1) to collect and disseminate materials and information on current practices — in the education of the gifted through a central office established as a clearing house; (2) to prepare and sponsor a series of authoritative articles by acknowledged experts in the field of the gifted for publication in newspapers and nationally circulated magazines; (3) to prepare a critical bibliography of books and articles on the gifted.

A five-point plan now being developed will encompass a consultation and advisory service, regional or national conferences featuring outstanding leaders in the field, original research and experimentation, workshops in teacher education institutions and post-school programs for business and industry.

Ultimately the duty for discovering and nourishing gifted youngsters falls back on the governmental agencies responsible for the schools — the states, the cities and the counties. But a private organization, working in the American tradition of alert-ed citizens who band together to promote a cause, has an important role in stirring the public to action.

For, as Dr. Grayson Kirk, president of Columbia University, recently remarked, "We cannot afford to waste any considerable part of our best brain-power." Our future national need is for leaders — men who can provide guidance in every field of human knowledge. And since we need them in numbers, "we must see to it that we do all that is humanly possible, within the framework of our institutions, to make available the maximum opportunities to the young people whose capacities hold fair to justify the effort."

The United States must find these youngsters as they emerge and begin to show promise. This is the task in which the National Council for the Gifted has undertaken to assist.

Tax Cuts To Increase Revenues?

gained a net of only $247,500,000. At the same time, many shippers turned to private transportation to escape the tax, usually by using their own trucks. As a consequence, Mr. Jelma calculated, the railroads lost about $681,600,000 in business. And corporation taxes on this added income would have been about $271,400,000, or $24,000,000 more than the excise tax brought into the Treasury.

Figures for last year and so far this year have not been researched, but there is no reason for suspecting the government's loss is at any lesser rate.

DOUBLE TAXATION

Another tax that could be profitably modified is the corporation tax itself. As the National Bureau of Economic Research pointed out a few days ago, the double taxation on corporate profits actually reduces the tax liability for some stockholders. The corporation tax reduces profits by up to 52 per cent. Those taxpayers in the highest brackets pay up to 91 per cent, but they also get a tax credit of 4 per cent of the dividends. In certain cases top-bracket taxpayers would pay more if corporation earnings were not taxed. If there were no corporate income tax, but special rates for dividends, these certain cases could be eliminated. In addition, it would be possible to make the levy more equitable. At present, a man in the lower brackets who owns stock in a profitable corporation loses half his share of the earnings through the corporation tax. So does a man in the upper brackets. But a 50 or 52 per cent levy on a person with a modest income is pretty steep.

AREN'T WE ALL FOR THAT SORT OF THING?

British advertising sometimes has a twedy charm of its own. Witness an ad in a current magazine:

Under a picture of a serious, ruddy man in a white over-jacket is the headline: "Never any other with my chops."

Then this text: "I've been a foreman here for fourteen years and I've learned that it's the small things that are really important to the man on the bench. For instance, take those Harcraft paper towels we've installed — the management say they've cut costs and reduced absenteeism — but what's more to the point — the men like them. I'm all for that sort of thing!"

The line about paper towels reducing absenteeism is interesting. Can't you imagine "Ernie" saying to Pamela, "I've got a bit of 'angover this morning, but I'm going down to the works just the same. They've got 'Arcraft paper towels there, y'know?"

Rule Suicide In Doolittle Death

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Maj. James H. Doolittle Jr., whose famous strike on Japan's mainland in World War II, committed suicide, an investigation report shows.

"I wrote on the death certificate that it was suicide," said Justice of the Peace J. H. Watson. "It was not homicide or accidental."

Doolittle, 38, was found dead last Wednesday in his office at Bergstrom Air Force Base near here. He had been shot in the right temple with a .38 caliber revolver found on the floor by his body.

Lt. Gen. Doolittle returned here from a government mission in Puerto Rico, but like others in the major's family said he knew no reason for his death.

Doolittle was commander of the 524th Fighter-Bomber Squadron and piloted a supersonic jet F104A Voodoo.

Memorial services were held at the base chapel last Friday and his body will be cremated in San Antonio, Tex. Final burial services will be held later in St. Louis, the home of the widow.

Watson said his verdict was based on his own investigation and that of Air Force authorities.

The U. S. Indian School in Phoenix, Ariz., has students from almost twenty tribes.

Surpass Morphine In New Pain-Killer

By RENNIE TAYLOR
 AP Science Reporter
 SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A drug 100 times stronger than morphine in pain-killing ability has been produced in the laboratory and is being tested on humans and animals.

It offers a chemist an opening to develop a new line of better as well as stronger pain killers, says Bill Elpern, drug researcher at Cutter Laboratories, Berkeley, Calif. Elpern described the product today before the American Chemical Society.

Basically the drug is an alkaloid called piperidine, but it has to go through several chemical changes, Elpern made several kinds for testing.

The strongest of these was not only 100 times the strength of morphine but 785 times as potent as meperidine or demerol, one of the most widely used synthetic pain killers, Elpern said.

However, it was also about 10 times as poisonous as demerol and slightly more poisonous than morphine.

But since its effectiveness as a pain killer increases much faster than its toxicity, it could become the foundation of a new group of agents against pain, the researcher said.

A group of scientists from Los Alamos, N.M., cradle of the atom bomb, told how the contamination of growing plants from radioactive fallout might be reduced. This report was presented to the meeting by Dr. Eric B. Fowler, who headed the test project.

The addition of lime to calcium-deficient soil sharply reduces the amount of strontium-90 in plants such as alfalfa and lettuce. These two crop varieties and grass were used because they represent crops eaten by humans and animals.

Strontium-90 taken into the body as food settles mainly in the bones, where it can cause tumors and otherwise destroy tissues by the kind of radiation it gives off.

Chemically, calcium and strontium are much alike. When soil in ordinary growing is deficient in calcium the plants will pick up any strontium they can reach because it is their best substitute for calcium.

Model Airplane To Seek Record

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP)—An attempt to crack a Soviet-held aviation record was to be attempted today — starting on a dirt road in a field behind a dam.

Timers from the international timing group will be on hand when the red-and-yellow monoplane takes off for what may be a new endurance record.

The craft is a radio-controlled model plane with a 6-foot wingspan. Builder Ken Willard, 40, a mechanical engineer, will control it from the ground.

At stake is the Soviet record of 3 hours and 6 minutes.

The plane is the same one which Willard guided across the 28 miles between Long Beach, Calif., and Santa Catalina Island last July.

"He would have set the official world's distance record on that flight," said Russell W. Nichols, executive director of the Academy of Model Aeronautics, Washington, D.C., "except no official observer was along."

Nichols, a delegate to the convention in Los Angeles this week of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, is one of the timers who will check to see that Willard's plane satisfies all the requirements to set the record.

"It must land within 500 feet of its takeoff point," Nichols explained. "Willard is using a dirt road at the Sepulveda flood control basin for the takeoff. He has to bring it back down at just about the same spot."

Audiences Failed To Keep Notable Dramatic Show

By CHARLES MERCER
 NEW YORK (AP)—There's a little sense in trying to breathe life into a dying horse as there is in beating a dead horse. You can only write him a decent obituary before someone ships him off to the glue factory.

The horse in question is a galant 3-year-old named Matinee Theater. It has won many a race in the estimation of many a week-day afternoon viewer but has not been able to win the Grand National Sponsorship Handicaps. On June 27 Matinee Theater will present its last drama on NBC-TV.

NBC should be praised for effort and tenacity. It has poured about 12 million dollars into the hour-long, five-a-week dramatic series. Trade sources indicate the network's net loss is over three million. It reached its peak of sponsorship and estimated viewing audience last summer.

At that time 15 of its 20 weekly quarter-hour periods were being sponsored. At present only 7 are sponsored. Its Nielsen audience rating is about half of what it was in the summer.

Matinee Theater nevertheless maintained a high level of production quality.

Under the able aegis of executive producer Albert McCleery, Matinee Theater has produced some distinguished dramas. To recall a few: "Arms and the Man" by George Bernard Shaw, "The Master Builder" by Henrik Ibsen and "The Catbird Seat" by James Thurber.

It has offered experience and employment to about 5,000 actors.

Now Matinee Theater is going and in its place it is expected that two half-hour soap operas will be seen.

Why is it dying?
 One cannot blame the network, which has stayed with it loyally. Nor can you blame commercial sponsors, whose purpose is to make money. Competitively, a popular teen-age program, American Bandstand (ABC-TV), and an excellent extemporaneous courtroom drama, The Verdict, is Yours (CBS-TV), have made inroads on Matinee Theater's audience.

The unfortunate cause of the death of Matinee Theater is that there are not enough viewers who care to watch generally good drama in the afternoon.

One unidentified sage remarked: "Children are natural mimics."

A Longer Stay Than He Wanted

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Harry B. Hill Jr., 40-year-old unemployed foundry worker, probably will be in jail a lot longer than he expected as the result of his efforts to get a few nights of cost-free lodging.

He heaved a brick through a plate glass window in the U.S. customs office here.

Municipal Judge Emmett J. Jackson gave him the usual 30-day sentence—plus a $15.00 fine and costs. Hill, who says he has no money, is working it off at $3 a day.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available, Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

This formula is so effective that it is the physicians' leading asthma prescription—so safe that now it can be sold—without prescription—in tiny tablets called Primatensol.

Primatensol opens bronchial tubes, loosens mucous congestion, relieves taut nervous tension. All this without taking painful injections.

The secret—Primatensol combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose.

So look forward to sleep at night and freedom from asthma spasms—get Primatensol, at any drugstore. Only 98¢—money-back-guarantee.

EC At Atlantic Christian Tomorrow For NS Contest

University Of North Carolina Here Saturday

Sitting pretty on top of the North State League at the present time (deadlocked with defending champ Elon), East Carolina College's baseballers put their 2-0 loop mark on the line tomorrow afternoon at Wilson.

The Atlantic Christian Bulldogs, under the reins of Coach Jack McComas, will play host to the Pirates in their third North State contest of the year.

ACC has played two contests, losing both of them to Delaware and High Point. Coach McComas has fielded what is being tabbed as the youngest baseball team in the history of the school. According to reports, six freshmen are listed as certain starters on the club, with still another in the probable stage. The entire ACC infield is comprised of freshmen.

Expected to hurl against the Pirates tomorrow are either senior righthander Tom Norville or sophomore southpaw Fred Rouse. Coach Jim Mallory has not yet released the name of his pitcher, although he is expected to pick from a list that includes Leonard Lilley, Mitchell Moon, Bruce Shelley.

Mallory's probable lineup will find Jimmy Martin at first base, Al Vaughn at second, Jerry Stewart at shortstop, Bucky Reep at third, Tommy Nance in leftfield, Tommy Land in centerfield and Johnny Jones in rightfield. Catching will either be Doug Watts or Marion Talton.

Against league opponents (they've played Western Carolina twice), East Carolina has belted 14 baseknocks. Pirate pitchers have given up only three. Overall, the Greenville club has compiled a 4-2 record. ECC has defeated WCC twice, South Carolina and The Citadel, while losing to the University of Delaware and the Paris Island Marines.

Lassiter Counted Out Of National Billiards Play

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Luther Lassiter of Elizabeth City, N.C., has been counted out of the National Invitation pocket billiards tournament here.

Lassiter ended up in last place yesterday when Jimmie Moore of Albuquerque, N.M., defeated him 150-130 in 23 innings. Moore meets Willie Mosconi, the world champion pocket billiards player of Haddon Heights, N.J., today to settle the tournament championship.

Major League Season Opens Today With Full Treatment

By ED WILKS The Associated Press The Washington Senators lead the American League, the Dodgers and Giants meet in San Francisco and the world championship pennant flies from an old telephone pole in Milwaukee.

It sounds as though they've gone and made a travesty of the game. But that's the way things were today for the full-treatment opening of the 1958 major league baseball season.

The Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants take the field before a capacity crowd of 23,400 at Seals Stadium for the first major league game ever played in California. A total crowd of about 227,400 was estimated for today's eight games. Commissioner Ford Frick and NL President Warren Giles were sitting in on the ceremonies at San Francisco.

The NL champion Milwaukee Braves opened at home against the Pittsburgh Pirates, with Philadelphia at Cincinnati and the Chicago Cubs at St. Louis for a night game with the Cardinals. In the American League, the defending champion New York Yankees were at Boston against the Red Sox, who again will be without Ted Williams, just as they were in yesterday's 5-2 defeat in the traditional early opener at Washington.

AL President Will Harridge was at Chicago for the White Sox's opener against the Detroit Tigers. Kansas City was at Cleveland and Washington at Baltimore in the other AL games.

While old hands drew the pitching assignments, Don Drysdale (17-9 in '57) for the Dodgers and Ruben Gomez (15-13) for the Giants, there were a few new faces in San Francisco. The Giants had three rookies in the lineup, Jim Davenport (3b), Willie Kirkland (rf) and Orlando Cepeda (1b); the Dodgers one, Dick Gray (3b).

Dodger veteran Duke Snider shifted from center to left in a swap with Gino Cimoli that favored the Duke's slow-healing knee.

Ohio State To Host Carolina Next Season

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Ohio State of the Big Ten Conference, Rose Bowl football champion in 1955 and winner of three conference titles in the past four years, will be host to the University of North Carolina in a game set for Sept. 26, 1962.

The schedule, representing the Tar Heels' first football game against a Big Ten team, was announced yesterday by university Athletic Director C. P. Erickson. Erickson also indicated that North Carolina long range plans include top inter-sectional games. The Tar Heels play next Oct. 3 at Los Angeles against Southern California, first Pacific Coast Conference opponent for the university.

Basilio Will Have To Take Short Purse

NEW YORK (AP) — If Carmen Basilio wants a third title fight with Sugar Ray Robinson, he'll have to take the short end of the purse again.

Robinson, reigning over the middleweight division for the fifth time, made that plain shortly after he had masterminded sparmate Otis Woodard to an upset 10-round decision over Eddie Andrews, a 3-1 choice, at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

Rocky Graziano handled Andrews, of Lowell, Mass. Only 10 days ago Basilio had said he would have to split equally with Robinson if they fought again.

On the question of whether he intended to fight again, Robinson said, "When you got something somebody wants, you're in business. My business is boxing." On Basilio's demand for an even share—if he decides to fight again—Sugar Ray smiled and said: "Doesn't Basilio know the law says the champion has to get more. I know Carmen doesn't want to break the law."

Robinson collected 45 per cent and Basilio 20 per cent when Carmen won the first fight Sept. 23, 1957. They each received 30 per cent for the return, when Basilio had his left eye shut, in Chicago last March 25. The International Boxing Club disclosed last month that Robinson had given it an option for his next fight. In return Ray was to collect 42 1/2 per cent.

Ramos, Williams May Have Made The Difference

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senators had Pedro Ramos, the Red Sox did not have Ted Williams — and so there the Senators are, leading the American League.

Washington's tenacity in first place may be brief. The other clubs start playing today. The Senators trimmed Boston 5-2 yesterday in the opening game of 1958, attended by pitcher Dwight D. Eisenhower and a large collection of government dignitaries.

The President was delighted at the outcome. He always roots for the home team. Ramos' brilliant five-hit pitching — after Eisenhower had thrown out the first ball — evened the chief executive's record.

Cherry Point Invades ECC Netters This Afternoon

Undeclared in four starts, East Carolina's tennis team takes on the Cherry Point Marines here this afternoon at 2:00 in an attempt to add another notch to their record.

The matches will be played on the East Carolina courts. Thus far, Coach Bill McDonald's Pirates have defeated Wake Forest, Guilford, William and Mary, and Geneva College of Pennsylvania. All four victories have been taken by decisive margins.

Pacing McDonald's veteran squad are Maurice Everette, a four-year man who has been ECC's No. 1 ranked netter throughout those four years and who is the defending North State Conference singles champion; John Savage, John West, Billy Hollowell, Lawrence Brown, and Mike Katsias.

In their last match, against Geneva College, Everette smashed the state win record for four years, winning his 53rd singles event. The Bucs took all but one of the singles matches and dropped one doubles event.

Following today's match, the Pirates get ready to invade South Carolina for a match with The Citadel netters at Charleston. Then they will be back at Greenville to host High Point on the 21st and 22nd. On the 23rd Atlantic Christian will be here and on the 24th Elon will be here.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN

DISAPPOINTMENT PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A thief dashed into a market, grabbed a large, cloth wrapped ham hanging from a hook and escaped in a waiting car. Store owner Stanley Lee said the thief is in for a mighty big disappointment. The ham was a dummy, made of plaster, and strictly for display. Stephen Hopkins, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, was 10 times governor of Rhode Island.

Your Galvanized Gutters Peeling? SOLVE THIS PROBLEM

By A. B. Whitley, Jr. We have tried a lot of products in the past 10 years without success—Galva-Shield Aluminum, Red Lead, White Lead and a number of White Metal Primers. Devoe & Reynolds Paint Manufacturers have finally developed a product which will adhere to clean galvanized indefinitely under weather conditions in this area. This product is Devoe's Zinc

60,000 Idled By Auto Cutbacks

DETROIT (AP)—Production cutbacks by the Big Three—Ford, Chrysler and General Motors—at 24 auto plants across the country idled an estimated 60,000 workers this week. The three auto firms reported temporary shutdowns in various divisions to reduce car stocks in the face of curtailed demand. Spokesmen declined to give figures on the number of workers idled by the closings or to give comparable figures for employment at this time last year. GM said Chevrolet manufacturing plants are closed at Bay City and Flint, Mich., Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo and Tonawanda, N.Y. Other Chevrolet plants are scheduled to close down April 21 for one week at Van Nuys, Van Nuys and Oakland, Calif., Kansas City, St. Louis, Tarryton, N.Y., Atlanta, Ga., Baltimore and N.Y. Ford assembly plants closed are located at Chicago, Dearborn, Mich., Kansas City, Long Beach, Calif., Memphis, Tenn., and Norfolk, Va. A Ford plant at Mahwah, N.J., is expected to close soon. Ford said Mercury plants at Wayne, Mich., Los Angeles, St. Louis and Metuchen, N.J., were shut down. Chrysler and DeSoto plants in Detroit and the Chrysler assembly plant in Los Angeles are shut down for the week. The April 21 closings at Chevrolet plants will halt all division assembly operations with the exception of plants at Norwood, Ohio, and Bloomfield, N.J.

Liz Taylor Has Resumed Acting

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mike Todd's widow Elizabeth Taylor has gone back to her movie work, eight pounds thinner. The actress reported yesterday on the set of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" for the first time since March 22, when Todd and three others died in a New Mexico plane crash. Miss Taylor found her dressing room filled with flowers, sent by Paul Newman, Burl Ives, Jack Carson, Judith Anderson and Madeline Sherwood, her costars in the picture. The studio crew sent violets. Shortly before Todd's death Miss Taylor said she planned to retire after two more pictures. Now it appears she will continue her career.

Editor's Note — The United States, says the AEC, is "hot" radioactively. It's just as hot as a subject for conversation. How dangerous is this radioactivity? Is it new? This is the first of three articles summarizing what is known about it. By ALYON L. BLAKESLEE AP Science Reporter NEW YORK (AP) — Invisibly it drifts from the skies. A bit is falling now. Some fell yesterday; more will come tomorrow. You cannot see it, feel it, hear it, nor taste it. It is radioactive, mysterious. It frightens, confuses, agitates millions of people the world over. This is fallout, the radioactive rain from tests of A-bombs and H-bombs. The United States has collected more of it than most any other country — we are the "hottest" nation, says Dr. Willard P. Libby, an atomic energy commissioner. But he and others quickly add that this doesn't mean much — that fallout is adding only a tiny bit to the radioactivity which your grandmother and her grandfather — all your ancestors — have always lived with. Fallout is at the heart of one of the great urgent issues of our day — whether to continue testing these awful weapons. It involves military, scientific, emotional, political, humanitarian questions and arguments. Is fallout dooming thousands of millions of future babies to monstrous deformity, death or illness? Is it — right now — giving some of us cancer, or stealing away days or years of our lives? The questions nag. Experts disagree. Their answers add to our puzzlement. But there are some points, some perspectives, to help in understanding the problems and the issues of fallout. One is that fallout is a very old thing, indeed. Nature has always been sprinkling us with a radioactive rain. That rain made you and all your ancestors radioactive. Every minute some 500,000 radioactive atoms explode inside your body, giving off beta rays (electrons). And there's absolutely nothing you could ever do about it. Atomic bullets known as cosmic rays hurtle in from space. About 1,000 smash and rip through you every minute. These cosmic rays also create radioactive carbon high up in our atmosphere. The radio-carbon drifts down, and becomes part of the carbon chemicals in wheat and corn and pigs and people — all living things. More than 2,000 radio-carbon atoms disintegrate in your body every second. So do some 5,400 atoms of radioactive potassium, which was formed when the earth began and since then became part of food and people. In one pound of steak, 2,000 radioactive atoms of carbon and potassium explode every minute. In the ground you walk on, some 100,000 atoms of radium, uranium and thorium flash off rays every minute in the average square foot of soil. They give off X-rays traveling hundreds of feet. These rays hit you. They account for 30 to 60 per cent of all the natural radiation hitting your body. Plants take up some of these "hot" atoms, and we eat them. They get mixed up into concrete and bricks. Live in a brick house, or work in a cement building, and you get a good deal more X-ray radiation than if you lived or worked in a wooden building. All this is normal or background radiation. Don't panic. It's really quite small. It all amounts to only about 4 1/2 roentgens in 30 years of living. That's equal to about 100 chest X-rays taken by a very efficient X-ray machine, or equal to one X-ray for study of the spine, an AEC scientist estimates. Does this radiation hurt you? Does it doom some unborn babies? Beyond any doubt, yes, it does, say most or all geneticists. Any radiation can cause harmful changes in human genes, the carriers of hereditary traits, they believe. This normal radiation also probably makes us age faster than if there were no radiation at all. It may cause some cancers or other illness. But we've been living with this natural radiation all our lives without any fear about it. Partly because we didn't know much about it until recently. Partly because we can't do anything to stop it, anyhow. Fear was really born when A-bombs burst over Japan. These bombs killed by blast and fire, as did ordinary bombs, but with a horrible efficiency. And they added a new and unknown terror — death and sickness from this stranger called radioactivity. Stray atoms from bombs bursting over Japan fell on the United States and other nations. Each bomb tested since then has thrown more radioactive atoms into the air, which ultimately fall to earth somewhere. One thing about this new radioactivity — it is made by man; it can be stopped by man. The really critical question is how much radioactivity it is giving us, and what this is doing to us, or may do. Tomorrow: How radioactive are we from bomb tests?

Ruritan Hears Ralph Brimley

The Pactolus Ruritan club held its regular monthly supper meeting last night at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Building at Pactolus. Guests of the club were the senior students of the Stokes-Pactolus high school and the bus drivers of the school. Dr. Ralph Brimley, director of Public Relations and Foundations at East Carolina College, was the speaker of the evening. He spoke very highly of the school bus drivers of the state of North Carolina and commended them for their good record. Dr. Brimley stressed the fact that one of America's troubles was too much criticism, and not enough constructive work. He stated that the young people of America can produce anything that they really want to. In his remarks to the seniors, Dr. Brimley pointed out that it was the man with the extra hustle and extra training that would get to the top. Therefore he urged the seniors to continue their education. He also encouraged the seniors to keep their moral courage, to have the "guts" to stand up and say no. He urged them to remember that the easy way may not be the right way and may cost more in the long run. More than 65,000 prisoners of war and civilian deportees in World War II have been repatriated during the past six years.

'Last Word' In Hospital Facilities Will Open Next Fall At Fort Bragg

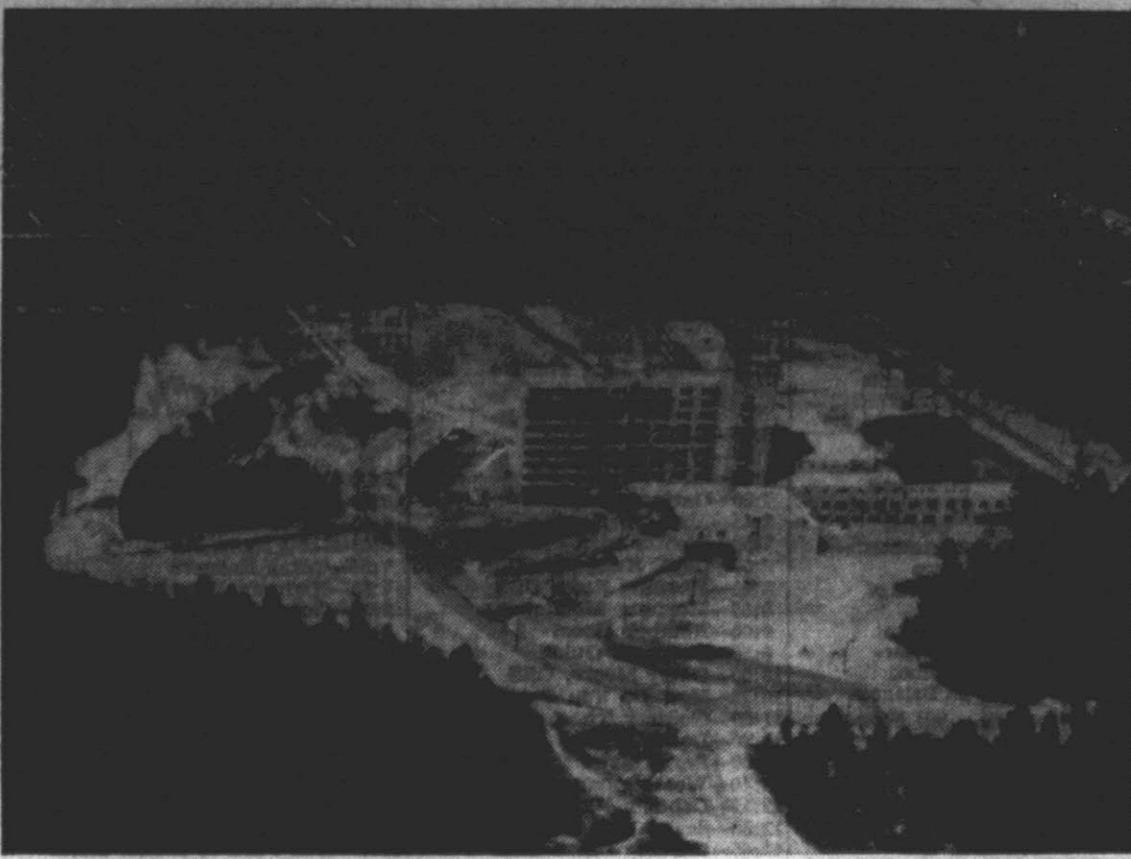

By CONROY V. ERICKSON
FORT BRAGG, N.C. — Some time next fall the big glass doors on the new $7 million Fort Bragg U. S. Army Hospital will swing open to admit the first patients to its bright, pastel-colored halls and wards. To both the patients and medical personnel it will be like seeing the sun come up after a long Arctic night.

The change-over from the drab, temporary wooden buildings of the present hospital sprawled out over 80 acres to the cheerful, compact single structure — complete with the latest in modern equipment and embracing the most advanced concepts of hospital organization and operation — will be a fitting tribute to the hero whose name the hospital will bear. The new 500-bed hospital will be known as "Womac Army Hospital" after the late PFC Bryant H. Womac of Rutherford County, N.C. Womac was awarded the nation's top award for courage in battle — the Medal of Honor — posthumously for his heroic actions under fire during the Korean War while a medic with the 14th Infantry Regiment of the 25th Infantry Division.

Construction on the new hospital began in May, 1955. An indication of its size and complexity is the fact that it will take better than three years to complete and in this time will have provided employment for an average of 150 construction workers from Fayetteville and surrounding communities.

The latest ideas in hospital equipment and design incorporated in the new building will pay big dividends in comfort and convenience and more efficient treatment for patients.

One of the unique features of Womac Army Hospital will be an electronic communications system that will allow any patient to talk to a nurse in a central location on his floor at any time.

Also, the nurse can call the patient or, in the case of a patient who is critically ill, the system is so sensitive that the nurse can monitor the patient's breathing without even leaving her station. Similar to this is a visual paging system that allows key personnel to be summoned to a central location from any point in the building. Pressing a button will illuminate a number on a device located in the halls of each floor. Either the individual whose number is flashed will see the signal and respond to it or the floor nurse will see it and contact him.

"The biggest advantage of this system is that it is visual and will not disturb the patients," explained Maj. J. Chezman, project officer for the hospital construction. Another part of the communications system allows doctors to dictate their briefs direct from the patient's bedside to a central stenographic pool. This makes possible the faster processing of the important charts and histories that show a patient's progress and will save hours of valuable time for the doctors.

In addition there is a pneumatic tube message system connecting various parts of the hospital that is similar to those used in many large department stores. The tubes carry containers approximately 14 inches long by three inches in diameter making it possible to send not only messages but charts, blood specimens and similar items as well.

These are all things not available in the present hospital where it is necessary to communicate over much longer distances. Just as great a boon to both hospital patients and personnel, however, is the simple fact that in the future they will be in one compact building where short travel distances and elevators will eliminate a large portion of the hauling and legwork required to handle patients in the present 80-acre area. There are about nine acres of usable space in the new building. Something else that will make patients breathe easier under the onslaught of torrid North Carolina summers is an efficient, central heating and air conditioning system. The temperature in each room may be controlled by the patient with a thermostat in the room. The same piping system that carries hot water for heating in the winter carries refrigerated water for cooling in the summer. Temperatures inside the building can be maintained as much as 15 degrees below the temperature outside, Maj. Chezman said.

This is not the only feature that should help build morale in patients. Special conveniences include a large Special Services library, Post Exchange snack bar and sales store, barber shop, chapel, and a dining area with a capacity of more than 500 persons.

Call For Action By Missileman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army missileman Werner von Braun called today for "vigorous action . . . to overcome as quickly as possible the obvious lead which the Russians now enjoy."

Von Braun, head of the scientific team which developed the Jupiter missile and America's first satellite-launching rocket, was the lead-off witness as the House Space Committee opened hearings on what America should do about the vast regions beyond the earth's atmosphere.

Up for committee action is President Eisenhower's proposal to create a civilian agency to handle space matters. The agency would be formed around the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, which now does basic aeronautics research. Eisenhower's proposal got off to a not-unfriendly start when Rep. McCormack (D., Mass.), House majority leader and chairman of the special Space Committee, introduced the Eisenhower bill with the comment that it "is undoubtedly a step in the right direction."

Introducing similar measures were Republican Representatives Arends (Ill.), the GOP whip; Keating (N.Y.); and Haskell (Del.).

Von Braun, a German-born scientist who worked on Hitler's V2 missiles until the Army brought him here after World War II, did not comment specifically on the Eisenhower plan in his prepared statement.

MISSED IT

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The thief who stole $2,000 from Adams movie theater might have changed his mind if he had gone inside to see the show. It was "The Ten Commandments."

New Crop?

BAYBORO, N.C. (AP) — A new step in diversified farming for Pamlico County will come this week with a pilot planting of 20 acres of celery.

The venture is backed by A. Duda and Sons of Slavia, Fla., a big vegetable producing and shipping concern. James Tingle of Alliance, president of the Pamlico County Chamber of Commerce, has leased land to the firm for the celery growing experiment.

The Pamlico site was chosen after the Florida outfit found that soil here was similar to that in the Florida area where Duda celery is grown, Tingle said. He hailed the new crop as a possible means of boosting the Pamlico economy.

New Chairman Of Commission

RALEIGH (AP) — State Rep. Cloyd Philpott of Lexington is the new chairman of the Commission on Reorganization of State Government.

Philpott stepped up to the post yesterday to relieve David Clark of Lincoln, who has headed the commission since it was created in 1955.

Clark will keep his seat as a member. He gave up the chairmanship to devote more time to politics in the 10th District where he is running for Congress. If he gains the Democratic nomination in the May 31 primary, Clark will run against Rep. Charles R. Jones in the fall election. Jones is the state's only Republican congressman.

The post of vice chairman, vacated by Philpott, was filled by State Sen. Robert Morgan of Shelby.

With the new chairman installed, the reorganization group began a study to determine whether the state needs five or three members on the Utilities Commission. Gov. Hodges, who leads a reduction of the present five member body, asked for the study. Utilities commissioners and staff members appeared before the reorganization commission.

Also heard by the study group was Eugene Shaw of Greensboro, former State Revenue Commissioner and now chairman of the Medical Care Commission.

Helicopter Aids Pursuing Police

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police helicopter pilots Bob Vanaken and Richard Gillenberg were flying their ship in for repairs when they spotted a chase below. Ground-based officers were pursuing a young man suspected of having taken $30 from a grocer's cash register.

Vanaken and Gillenberg said they hovered over the scene, then started bouncing their copter up and down. Police said the noise frightened 17-year-old Joe Wilson out of his hiding place behind a lumber pile and right into the arms of waiting officers.

He was booked on suspicion of petty theft.

Jury Considers Fate Of Seven Boys Involved In Slaying Case

NEW YORK (AP) — An all-male jury resumes deliberations today in the case of seven teen-age boys accused of slaying Michael Farmer, 15-year-old polio-crippled son of a city fireman.

Judge Irwin D. Davidson ordered the jurors locked up in a hotel overnight when they requested a recess shortly after midnight. They had had the case six hours and spent three of them in actual deliberations.

The threat of the electric chair was removed from five of the defendants. Completing a daylong charge, Davidson told the jury that only two of the defendants, who range in age from 15 to 19, could be convicted of first-degree murder. He left the way open for the jury to convict the two on a lesser charge, if any.

The most of the other five could be guilty of, he directed, was first-degree manslaughter.

A death sentence would be mandatory if the jury found Louis (Little Jesse) Alvarez, 17, and Charles (Big Man) Horton, 18, guilty of first-degree murder.

There was testimony during the 95-day trial — perhaps the longest and costliest murder trial in the city's history — that Alvarez, a Puerto Rican and president of the Egyptian Dragons, a youth gang, plunged a hunting knife into the Farmer youth's back.

And there was testimony that Horton, a Negro, slashed at Farmer with a machete. The 6-foot-2 Horton, who came here three years ago from Decatur, Ala., was the only defendant yesterday without a relative in the court room.

The five other defendants have been pictured in testimony as striking, stomping and using belts and a dog leash on Farmer, whose crippled legs prevented him from fleeing his fatal beating last July 30 in an upper Manhattan park.

Now facing a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison if convicted are Richard Hills, 17, and John McCarthy, 15, both white; Leroy (The Magician) Birch, 19, Negro; Leoncio (Jello) DeLeon, 17, a native of the Dominican Republic; and George Melendez, 16, Puerto Rican.

The jury must decide each case separately. All the youths were members of the Egyptian Dragons.

Farmer and a companion, Roger McShane, 15, were ambushed as they headed for a swim in the park. Farmer was white, as is McShane. The state contended that neither belonged to a gang. There was testimony that the Egyptian Dragons "war party" mistook Farmer and McShane for members of the Jesters gang.

Ratify Pact Of World War II

TOKYO (AP) — Japan and Indonesia today exchanged documents ratifying the Japanese-Indonesian World War II peace treaty and a $223,000,000 reparations agreement.

The reparations will be paid in goods and services over 12 years. Japan also agreed to extend Indonesia 400 million dollars in long-term loans and investments, from both the government and private firms, and to waive a postwar Indonesian trade debt of nearly 177 million dollars.

THE LONE DEPUTY

CHAPTER 19

When the four men reached Cronin's store, Sam Potter's wagon was gone. Joe Mohawk said, "I'm gonna get Rose. I tell you we made a mistake before."

Cole Weston absent-mindedly nodded agreement. After the Mohawk brothers had ridden around the corner of the store, Sanders burst out, "Cole, you can't let the Potter women be killed! Even if it's our necks..."

Weston put a hand on his gun and pinned his gaze on Sanders' face. He said amiably, "Red, you haven't had any starch in you from the first and I'm getting mighty darned tired of hearing you talk. If Regan gets his hands on a reliable witness, I tell you, it will be our necks. I don't propose for mine to get stretched. We should have cleaned Regan's show for him before we called on Cronin."

No use to argue, Sanders thought. Anything he said would be as useless as waving your handanna at a runaway horse. Glumly, and with a sense of frustration, he watched Weston get down and kick around in the dirt in back of the store where the team and wagon had been. Then he went inside and came back, shaking his head and cursing Sanders in a bitter monotone.

"You chowder-headed idiot," Weston said. "You sure messed up everything."

"Why d'nd't you look around for yourself?" Sanders demanded. "I didn't think anyone would be here this time of the morning," Weston said. "Hell, that wasn't the main reason. I trusted you, though why I did I don't know." He swung into the saddle, his fury a devouring flame. "I never will again. You can count on that."

The Mohawk brothers appeared around the corner of the store. Joe said, "Rose flew the coop. You figure she might be in the store?"

"No. I just looked," Weston said. "She don't worry me. I keep telling you. It's the Potters that'll hang us."

The Mohawks hesitated, the hunger to kill an insatiable appetite in them, but finding Rose would take time, and they knew as well as Weston did that time was what mattered now. Besides, they had not reached the place where they were willing to take a stand against Weston.

Without a word, Weston and the Mohawks started up the road that followed the Yellow Cat, Sanders trailing. He didn't want to go because he knew what would happen. He knew, too, he couldn't stop it if he tried. He wished he'd stayed home; he wished he'd talked to Price Regan before he'd left town last night; he wished... But what good were wishes now? He was in just as deep as Weston or the Mohawks. Whatever happened to them would happen to him.

Just below the Evans place Weston reined up and motioned for the others to stop. He got down and studied the road. When he rose, he stared at Sanders with the utmost loathing. "We may be too late," he said. "If I'm reading the signs right, a wagon's been out and in and out again this morning. It's my guess somebody's gone after Regan."

He mounted and led the way again, turning in at the Evans farm. Joe Mohawk said, "We're wasting time here, Cole."

"No. Whoever went by might have stopped and told him. Better get in and get him."

Tom Mohawk went into the barn. Joe into the house. A moment later Tom's gun roared. He came out of the barn and mounted, saying, "Joe ran out of the house. Get him?"

"Got him," Tom said.

"What did he say?" Weston demanded. "Did he know anything?"

Tom seemed surprised. "I didn't ask," he said.

"Don't get into such a hurry when we see the Potters," Weston said. "They've got to talk."

"They'll talk," Joe Mohawk said, and rode on, taking the lead, and to Sanders' surprise, Weston permitted him to do it.

Sanders had trouble thinking coherently. He worked this around in his mind for a time before he thought he understood. For right down sheer cussedness, the Mohawks were far ahead of Weston. Now, with none of his men to back him, Weston lacked the kind of courage it took to hold a tight rein on the Mohawks. Again that terrible feeling of helplessness clawed up through Sanders. Weston, even if he wanted to, could not keep the Mohawks from murdering the Potter family.

Sam Potter was standing in front of his house when the four men turned off the road. As soon as Potter recognized them, he called, "Lizzie, fetch the shotgun."

She ran out of the house and handed her husband the gun just as the four men reined up in front. She said, "Get back on your horse, Mohawk. We don't want nothing to do with you."

"We want to ask some questions, Mrs. Potter," Weston said smoothly. "Which one of you was at the store this morning?"

"None of us," she cried. "Now get out. Leave us alone."

Both of the Mohawks dismounted and stood on each side of Weston, who remained on his horse. Potter didn't know how to meet this situation, his shotgun swinging from Joe to Tom and back to Joe. They moved slowly and relentlessly toward him, Weston saying, "Better put that scatter-gun down, Potter."

Lizzie picked up a stick and started after Joe, screaming at him to let them alone. She struck Joe, but he laughed at her as he caught the descending stick and jerked it out of her hands, then he hit her on the side of the head and knocked her sprawling on the ground in front of the porch.

"I'll kill you for that," Potter said in a hoarse voice.

But Sam Potter was not a man to handle violence, and he hesitated. Weston spurred his horse and drove straight at Potter, who started backtracking as he tried to line the shotgun on Weston. Joe Mohawk, coming on him from the side, grabbed the gun and twisted it out of his hands and threw it halfway to the barn.

Lizzie tried to get up and fell back. Joe Mohawk had his gun in his hand now. He said, "Potter, I'm only going to ask you once. Who was at the store this morning?"

Lizzie screamed, "Don't tell him Sam! They won't dare kill us."

Potter pressed his lips together and backed up another step. Joe hit him on the side of the head and Potter went down.

"Answer the question, Potter," Weston commanded.

"Bruce," Potter whimpered.

"Where's the kid now?" Weston demanded.

"He took the saddle horse and ran," Lizzie cried. "Leave us alone. We don't know nothing about Cronin or who killed him or nothing. Leave us alone."

"Where's the girl?" Weston asked.

"She took the wagon and went to town. Can't you let us alone? Can't you see we ain't hurting nobody and we ain't going to?"

Tom glanced at Weston, who nodded. Tom nodded back and turning, drew his gun and shot Lizzie in the chest. She fell against the porch, and lay still, her head resting on the lower step. Sam cried out incoherently, the sound like that of a frightened animal, and got to his knees. Tom shot him first in the shoulder, and when he saw he hadn't hit dead center, he fired again, this bullet slicing through Potter's heart.

PAR TIME 22 MIN. AP Newsfeatures 4-15

Hanging Walt Cronin had been a nightmare to Red Sanders, but this was worse, far worse, something that reached up out of hell. It was time suspended; it was a tiny splinter of eternity that ran on and without end; it was happening and yet it couldn't be happening.

A sound came out of Sanders' throat, a sound he never knew he made. He yanked his gun from leather, aiming to kill Tom Mohawk, but he never fired the gun. Weston shot him in the stomach, and Sanders spilled out of his saddle, his horse starting to pitch. Weston shot him again, and all feeling and all knowledge were gone from Red Sanders...

"As Price Regan ran toward the river, his sharp eyes scanned the screen of willows. 'Somebody's hiding along here. Come on!' he yelled." Continue the story here tomorrow.

President Syngman Rhee of Korea sent the following message on his New Year's cards: "There is no enemy to fear, if the power of pen and sword is used for justice."

By CHARLES BISSETTE

Here's to the Bride and Groom! Wedding bells about to ring soon for someone in your family or circle of friends? Bet you're wondering "what can I give them that would be really different!"

Well, you know how it goes. The bride and groom are so busy that they hardly have time to enjoy their own party. Relatives gather, but they barely give them the time of day. Doves of friends are there, but the newweds just can't seem to pay attention to anyone but themselves.

Here's a gift idea that can do two nice things—please the bride and groom and make a treasured record of the things the couple missed.

How to do it? Stop in at our store for a Brownie Movie Camera (from as little as $29.95). Use the camera to take movies of the wedding ceremony, the reception, all the activities of the day. As the bride and groom are about to leave, give them the camera... then give them their wedding-day movies on their return. A doubly welcome gift!

Come on in and talk it over. We'll help you choose the right Brownie Movie Camera for your newweds. And, if you wish, we'll give you a few pointers on how to make the wedding day movies.

"Where's the girl?" Weston asked.

"She took the wagon and went to town. Can't you let us alone? Can't you see we ain't hurting nobody and we ain't going to?"

Tom glanced at Weston, who nodded. Tom nodded back and turning, drew his gun and shot Lizzie in the chest. She fell against the porch, and lay still, her head resting on the lower step. Sam cried out incoherently, the sound like that of a frightened animal, and got to his knees. Tom shot him first in the shoulder, and when he saw he hadn't hit dead center, he fired again, this bullet slicing through Potter's heart.

NEW YORK (N.Y.)—Industrial shares carried the ball for a stock market advance early this afternoon. Trading was active. The opening was mixed and turnover moderate for a while. Then motors, some steel shares, American Telephone, Fairchild Engine and other selected issues were traded briskly. Leading stocks rose fractions to around a point. Most changes were fractional. There were some losses.

The rails and utilities did little. Aircrafts were nicely ahead but trading in this group was more moderate. Despite reports of a sharp decline in sales of new cars, General Motors and Chrysler moved ahead fractionally in rapid trading. American Motors also met brisk demand but was about unchanged. Ford, traded more slowly, rose a bit.

Although steel production this week is slated for an 8 1/2-year low barring strike periods, U.S. Steel advanced a major fraction in lively transactions. Lukens was up a point or so. Youngstown Sheet nudged forward. Bethlehem dropped a bit.

Fairchild Engine, continuing to attract interest, was up a good fraction. United Aircraft gained about a point and Boeing rose a bit. Responding to reports of lower first quarter earnings, U.S. Rubber dropped a sizable fraction. Anaconda and Baltimore & Ohio were off a bit. International Nickel lost about a point.

American Telephone rose a little. Gains of about a point were made by Gulf Oil, Du Pont and Allied Chemical. Clevite shaved 1/4 at 16 on a block of 16,000 shares. Eclair, American & Foreign Power dropped 1/4 at 12 1/2 on a huge block of 52,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks at noon was up 20 cents to $162.50 with the industrials up 60 cents and the rails and utilities unchanged.

NEW YORK (N.Y.)—1 p.m. stocks: Admiral Corporation 8 1/4, Allegheny Corporation 4 1/2, Allied Chemical & Dye 75 1/2, Allis Chalmers Mfg. 23 1/2, American Can 44 1/2, American Smelt & Ref. 40 1/2.

Souvenir Pencils Will Be Given Camporee Visitors

Boy Scouts attending the East Carolina Council Camporee here next month will receive souvenir pencils with the compliments of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber's board of directors last night voted to purchase 4,500 of the pencils to be distributed at the Camporee.

They will also be given at the Negro scout Camporee to be held here.

Pencils handed out will be inscribed "BSA, East Carolina Council Camporee, Greenville, North Carolina, 1958."

The white Camporee is set for May 2, 3 and 4, and the Negro Camporee will be April 25, 26 and 27.

Board members were told by Chamber Manager W. T. Kyzer last night that approximately 300 persons registered for the Regional Industrial Development Conference held here recently. Some 261 persons attended the luncheon at which Gov. Hodges spoke.

Kyzer also told the board that the Newcomers' Party date has been set for April 23 and it will be held at the Moore Temple.

Some 198 newcomers have been invited to attend, he said, and they have been asked to return acceptance cards by April 19.

The board authorized participation in the Christmas parade and an appropriation for the construction of a new float was made.

Kyzer was authorized to devote all the time possible to the preparation of exhibits which will be presented at CAB hearings jointly with Wilson. The two cities have joined forces in efforts to obtain area air service.

His clients only had a fifth grade education, the lawyer explained. They were "ignorant" and couldn't prepare their own income tax blanks—they didn't mean to evade taxes, he said.

But U.S. District Judge Wilson Warlick didn't agree. He sided with the district attorney, who proclaimed:

"These 'ignorant' fellows who have just made a half-million dollars between them knew more than just signing their names."

The judge fined carpenter Lemuel Furr $5,000 for failing to pay $32,696 in taxes and handed the same fine to Furr's painter brother, Lester, who failed to pay $31,317.

The brothers, who paid the money to Uncle Sam under an Internal Revenue agent started to investigate, pleaded guilty to the tax evasion charge.

Fraternity Helps ECC Radio Station

FARLOW, SMILEY AND PHILLIPS ... With Gift For ECC's Campus Radio Station.

East Carolina College's campus radio station, WWWS, will soon be able to transmit its programs on an AM frequency, thanks to a gift from Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

The fraternity, through president Thomas A. Farlow and faculty advisor Dr. Orval L. Phillips, has presented $238 to the radio station. The funds will permit installation of carrier AM transmitters in the basements of ECC residence halls, allowing dormitory residents to pick up the station's programs with any type of radio.

The station has been operating on an FM frequency only since beginning operations in March, 1957. Wendell W. Smiley, station director, said the new limited-range facilities will enable persons within 268 feet of any one of the new transmitters to pick up the station. The station will operate on 760 kilocycles on the AM band and will retain its FM operating band of 91.3 megacycles.

Operating schedule for the station is 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 2 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Sundays. The station also broadcasts special college events for its students listeners.

Money raised by the fraternity and given to the station was raised at a Phi Kappa Alpha variety show.

Ignorant? They Made $500,000

His clients only had a fifth grade education, the lawyer explained. They were "ignorant" and couldn't prepare their own income tax blanks—they didn't mean to evade taxes, he said.

But U.S. District Judge Wilson Warlick didn't agree. He sided with the district attorney, who proclaimed:

"These 'ignorant' fellows who have just made a half-million dollars between them knew more than just signing their names."

The brothers, who paid the money to Uncle Sam under an Internal Revenue agent started to investigate, pleaded guilty to the tax evasion charge.

Judge Warlick gave the brothers suspended 18-months prison terms and made payment of the fines a provision in their three-year probation terms.

Rush Repairs To Beaufort Bridge

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (N.C.)—State Highway Commission workers continued today to rush repairs to the drawspan of the Morehead City-Beaufort Bridge which was damaged Saturday by a hit and run tug boat.

As work continued on the bridge, traffic was maintained on a one-way basis most of the time with the bridge being completely closed only for short periods. Detour signs were placed at Have-lock to route through traffic to Beaufort over N.C. 101 instead of U.S. 70 in order to reduce traffic using the bridge.

Report Scott Is Resting Well
BURLINGTON, N.C. (N.C.)—The word from U.S. Sen. W. Kerr Scott's doctors continued to be encouraging today.

Dr. G. W. Blair reported that Scott, who suffered a heart attack last Wednesday, was resting well since being removed from an oxygen tent Sunday. The doctor added that Scott's temperature and pulse remained normal.
