President Says Critics Of Senator Scott's Damaged Heart Defense Reorganization Just 'Talking Nonsense'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today accused congressional critics of his defense reorganization plan of talking nonsense and raising farfetched objections. Urging swift approval of the controversial plan by Congress, Eisenhower said "peace, national safety—survival itself—demand of America the utmost strength in its every respect—spiritual, intellectual and scientific, as well as economic and military."

Some other members of Congress besides Vinson have been sharply critical of the reorganization plan. Taking note of Vinson criticism without mentioning him by name, Eisenhower said foes of the plan will contend it seeks to set up "a monstrous general staff—usually called 'Prussian'—and that such a staff in the critics view would be set up to dominate our armed forces and in due course will threaten our liberty."

requirements, and more economical management of major defense programs." Eisenhower said the fears of critics are at the least misconceptions and at the most misrepresentations. "I repeat," Eisenhower said, "There will be: 'No single chief of staff; 'No Prussian staff; 'No czar; 'No 40 billion dollar blank check; 'No swallowing up of the traditional services; 'No undermining of the constitutional powers of Congress."

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina mourned today for her flamboyant U.S. Sen. W. Kerr Scott whose damaged heart suddenly collapsed yesterday on the eve of his 62nd birthday. Death came quietly and painlessly in the late afternoon to the colorful political figure who had lived in a whirl of sound and fury—and loved every minute of it. Scott, always a pull no-punches fighter in the political ring, had served notice on his doctor only yesterday that he planned on a helping of birthday cake and ice cream today. Since being stricken by a heart attack a week ago, Scott—a heavy eater—had complained constantly that he was hungry and pining for a plug of chewing tobacco. Funeral services for the tobacco chewing dairy farmer who had been a dominant political figure in the state for a decade will be held at the Hawfields Presbyterian Church Friday at 3 p.m.

Scott learned that the senator's namesake and grandson, W. Kerr Scott II, had been admitted to the hospital. She went to visit the infant, born in February, and was there when death came to her husband. Scott had apparently made such good progress in his recovery from his heart attack that a heart specialist who came down from Washington last week said it was entirely possible that he would be able to run for reelection in 1960. The word from his doctor had been so encouraging that the girls on the staff of his Raleigh office had prepared a non-fat angel food cake for a birthday celebration today. Scott, who had gotten wind a celebration was planned, served notice he expected a serving of the cake and ice cream. Dr. J. B. Lee, Dr. Blair's associate, said Scott's death was "unexpected because of the good progress he had been making." He said Scott had no pain, shortness of breath or other indication of a heart seizure.

Washington Jaycee Named District Vice President

BUNDY, POORE, TAYLOR, SMITH... at Jaycee district election held here last night.

Fred Poore, member of the Washington, N.C. Junior Chamber of Commerce was elected 11th district vice president at a meeting here last night. The Washington Candidate for the office defeated Joe I. Joyner of Wilson to become the new district's first elected vice president. The election proceeded in true political convention style as supporters of the two candidates paraded with placards urging support of the two men. The show was complete down to a band provided by the Washington supporters of Poore. The band played through the evening with particular emphasis at the times when Poore's name was mentioned. Poore is a past president of the Washington club and a former state director from that club. He has attended three national and three state conventions. He is manager of Cargill, Inc. grain elevator in Belhaven. District director Jay Bundy presided over last night's meeting and the election was conducted by Bob Russ of Greenville. National Director J. B. Smith also of Greenville urged the 200 Jaycees from seven 11th district cities to support Bob Cox's candidacy for president of the national Jaycees. Cox, a Chapel Hill merchant and former state president will be seeking the job at the national convention in Los Angeles in June. The Jaycees also heard reports from presidents of each of the clubs in the 11th district.

Making reports were: Ayden, Marvin Balder; Goldsboro, Charles Liles, Greenville, Bill Taylor; Grifton, George Sulek, for William Link; Mount Olive, Freddie Farah; Washington, Snodie Taylor; Wilson, Bob Dew. N.C. Added 246 Miles Of Roads During 1957

Five Local Men Charged With Highway Robbery; Confess 'Rolling' Victim

Five local Negro men, arrested for "rolling" a Georgia Negro Tuesday night, have confessed to the crime, police report. The five are: Ellis Howard, 20, of 106 South Cotanche Street; Horace Lee Duffy, 18, 1027A Mack Street; Harvey Ray Crandell, 17, of 510 South Pitt Street; Willie James Taft, 16, of 305 Boyd Avenue; and Thurman Lee Corey, 18, of 1111B Pitt Street. Each has been charged with highway robbery in connection with attacking and robbing Samuel Hardy, 22. They are currently in City Jail under a $1,000 bond each awaiting a preliminary hearing before Judge Charles H. Whedbee in City Court tomorrow morning. According to investigating officers Hardy was robbed of $110 after being knocked down in an alley leading into Clark Street. Shortly after the attack police picked up Howard alias "Alabama" on suspicion of robbery. He was identified as the man who played pool with the victim earlier in the night and who was with him at the time he was attacked by four unknown assailants. The other four men were arrested last night. Police reported this morning that all five have confessed to the robbery. Howard who has just gotten off the roads has been identified as the one who planned the robbery. He reportedly found out that Howard had a sizable amount of money and told the other men to wait for him in a nearby alley. Police counted Hardy as saying he and Howard were walking down the alley when another man approached him and asked for a match. He then stated that three other men surrounded him, knocked him to the ground, took his billfold and ran.

Indiana Farmer Wins Top Honor

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A cattleman, a rancher, a seed grower and a potato and tobacco farmer were named America's "Outstanding Young Farmers of 1957" last night. The U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce and the American Petroleum Institute's agriculture committee presented the awards to William W. Erwin, 32, Bourbon, Ind.; Cyrille O. Faure, 35, Porterville, Calif.; Felix O. Bulard, 32, Monticello, Fla., and Thomas J. La Chance, 34, Somerville, Conn. After a four-day convention here for the 50 Jaycee nominees from all states and territories, the four winners will fly to New York tomorrow for radio interviews for Voice of America. Their interviews will be beamed around the world in 16 languages. The winner will be taken to Washington to meet Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson Saturday. Each of the winners had been chosen in a contest in his home state.

'Gold Or Iron'

DALLAS (AP) — A gold-hunting family, its hopes dimmed somewhat, attacked the bottom of a pit again today after a man with a mine detector told them "there is either gold or iron down there." James Gayton, 38, and Jesse Gayton, 54, acting on the advice of a man who says he is an expert in treasure symbols, have dug a pit 12 feet deep and 10 feet wide beneath the home of their father, Eugenio Gayton, 77. Yesterday Herbert Dyson entered the pit with a mine detector and estimated there is metal about three or four feet under the rocks at the bottom of the hole. The Gaytons began digging after Miguel Rodriguez of Del Rio, Tex. discovered markings on a flagstone which he said indicated early Spaniards had buried gold beneath the home. He said if the Gaytons dug to 12 feet, they would find a boulder blocking the entrance to underground rooms in which the gold was stored. The boulder was found and removed, but only more rocks lay beneath it.

Next, A Vacant Seat To Be Filled

RALEIGH (AP) — The political fates have handed Gov. Hodges the puzzle of his career. He must pick a man to serve in the U.S. Senate—a job Hodges has reported interested in for himself. The death of Sen. W. Kerr Scott, who succumbed to a heart attack in a Burlington hospital yesterday, left Hodges faced with the perplexing decision. In keeping with his past practice, Hodges was expected to keep silent on a successor for Scott until after funeral rites tomorrow. However, several names immediately popped into political speculation. And it was impossible to keep Hodges himself out of the picture. For months before he was stricken, observers had been matching Scott and Hodges in the 1960 race for Scott's seat. The Haw River squire, himself a former governor, had taken sly note of the talk by suggesting that he would rather see Hodges a candidate for vice president on the Democratic ticket. Hodges had maintained a discreet silence on the possibility of the Senate race. If he were interested in running for the Senate at the completion of his term of governor, Hodges could name someone with the understanding that they would serve only until the end of Scott's term. This would help clear the field for Hodges in 1960. Actually, the Hodges' appointment will be only for the period to next Jan. 1. The state Democratic and Republican executive committees will pick candidates to run in this fall's general election for the two years left on Scott's term. The action of the Democratic committee could prove a test of Hodges' party leadership. One of the first names in speculation on a successor for Scott was that of J. Melville Broughton Jr. of Raleigh, a young lawyer high in Hodges' esteem. The governor picked Broughton recently to head the State Highway Commission. Broughton's father, like Scott, was a former governor elected to the Senate. Also like Scott, the elder Broughton died of a heart attack while serving in the Senate.

Associate Justice William B. Rodman Jr. of the State Supreme Court was mentioned as another possibility. Hodges has frequently paid tribute to Rodman's legal abilities. E.C. Hodges elevated him first to attorney general and then to the Supreme Court bench. Rodman represented Beaufort County in the State Legislature for a number of terms. He was known as an astute lawmaker and a keen legal mind. Rep. Harold D. Cooley of Nashville, dean of the state's delegation in Congress, displayed interest in an appointment to the Senate several years ago when the late Gov. William B. Umstead had to fill the vacancy left by the death of Sen. Willis Smith. The question would be whether Cooley and Hodges are close enough politically to make the appointment a possibility. For experience in the Senate, Hodges could select the man Scott defeated to win the post, Rep. Alton A. Emerson of Wilmington named in the Senate by Gov. Umstead, defeated by Scott, and then elected to the House. Capus Wayne, who moved from the Scott camp to the post of adjutant general in the Hodges administration, was another possibility. Although never elected to public office, Wayne has been active in Tar Heel politics for years. A co-manager of Scott's gubernatorial campaign, he served as ambassador to Colombia and Nicaragua under former president Truman. Hodges has called on him for counsel. Another man close in the Hodges circle is Harold Makepeace of Sanford, manager of the Hodges campaign for governor.

Safety Experts To Attend Meet

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The 28th annual North Carolina State Safety Conference here May 14-16 will include top state and national safety experts as speakers. More than 1,000 delegates from state industries are expected to attend. H. S. Baucom, safety director of the State Industrial Commission, said yesterday. now depressed. Government spending was rising steeply in 1949-50, but it moving up very gradually this year. Retail sales were still rising in 1949-50; they are declining now. And prices dropped in 1949-50; today they steady climb is discouraging consumer demand. On the other hand, the personal income of Americans has held up much better in the past six months than it did in 1949-50 (but not so well as in 1953-54). This presumably is because of improved unemployment compensation and social security benefits, more employer-paid supplemental benefits, and other cushions. Loss Stuns Haw River Neighbors

HAW RIVER, N.C. (AP) — He fluttered his fist on his chest. He stopped it suddenly. With the hand over his heart, he placed the other hand to his cheek and closed his eyes. A deaf-mute neighbor was telling the death of William Kerr Scott, the man from Haw River who became North Carolina governor and U.S. senator. The reaction was almost as wordless among others of his stunned friends in this mill village and farm community when word came late yesterday afternoon that a second heart attack had taken Scott's life. Wherever he went, Scott had claimed Haw River as home, and he brought the little town more notice than it ever received before. On the wide porch of his dairy farm in the Hawfields section, neighbors around the countryside were arrued of a welcome from Scott and his gentle wife, known to all as "Miss Mary." For a week, Haw River folks had exchanged cheering reports from the Burlington hospital where the senator was receiving treatment for the first attack. Like most other Tar Heels, they were convinced he was on the way to recovery. The shock was as great in the hospital, where "Miss Mary" had kept vigil beside her famous husband. "It all happened so fast. And that's it," said a nurse who was in Scott's room at the last. "The bell rang and I dashed into the room. He had private nurses, too. When I got in he was unconscious. We gave him a heart stimulant and oxygen and called the doctor, but you almost know before you start a thing like

Teacher Never Missed A Day For 34 Years

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A Raleigh schoolteacher with a perfect attendance record in 34 years of teaching, Miss Mary B. Cannon, has received the "Oscar for Teachers" award of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs. Miss Cannon received the designation last night as the federation convention here went on record for a state minimum wage law and a new law banning obscene publications. The three-day convention adjourns today after choosing new officers. The federation also vowed support of steps to extend jurisdiction of juvenile courts and to require specific plans for custody and support of children in divorce proceedings. "That there is no chance." Scott had remained in good spirits and jesting humor until the final attack. He had complained cheerfully to doctors when they deprived him of his favored long cigars and pungent chewing tobacco. He was chafing, too, at restrictions on his diet, but he had served notice he intended to have a slice of birthday cake today. He would have been 62 years old. To stay within his diet, girls on his office staff had prepared a non-fat angel food cake. It was decorated with red rosebuds, the flower Scott customarily wore in his lapel as governor and senator. Family income remains not far below the peak levels of last summer. Economists hope the consumer, who has been saving at a high rate, may soon decide to resume spending with confidence.

Estimate U.S. Production Off $15 Billions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials estimated today the nation's production rate has fallen about 15 billion dollars a year below the boom level of six months ago. The Commerce Department's estimate of total national output, soon to be released, reportedly will show that the 75-billion-dollar year in the last quarter of 1957 was approximately equaled by the further drop in first-quarter 1958. The report will bolster the evidence that the recession already is deeper than that of 1953-54, informants said, and in several respects is matching the sharper slump of 1949-50. The trends last month still were downward. The fall was less rapid, and this has stiffened the resistance of key administration advisers to quick antirecession remedies—a general tax cut or massive public works. Some officials contend they see signs that the bottom is near. The forthcoming Commerce Department report, officials said privately, will show that the "gross national product"—the value of all goods and services produced—has dipped to an annual rate of roughly 425 billion dollars or less. This is a bit more than 3 percent below last summer's 440-billion-dollar rate. It was a trifle greater than the percentage decline from top to bottom of the 1953-54 recession. It matches the more severe 1949-50 decline when that recession was half a year old. Government economists are studying an unusual series of charts prepared by the privately supported Committee for Economic Development, a nonprofit economic research organization of businessmen. It proposes a temporary, across-the-board, 20 percent cut in income taxes to boost public purchasing power. So far the present recession has been as sharp. In many respects, as that of 1949-50. To CED's research staff it seems doubtful that an upturn will be as early or as pronounced. Some buoyant elements are missing. Housing starts which were rising in 1949-50 are now depressed. Government spending was rising steeply in 1949-50, but it moving up very gradually this year. Retail sales were still rising in 1949-50; they are declining now. And prices dropped in 1949-50; today they steady climb is discouraging consumer demand. On the other hand, the personal income of Americans has held up much better in the past six months than it did in 1949-50 (but not so well as in 1953-54). This presumably is because of improved unemployment compensation and social security benefits, more employer-paid supplemental benefits, and other cushions. Many more jobless men have some income which would have been on relief 10 years ago. Some economists have found more reason for pessimism than for optimism in the CED findings. This is largely because of the absence of some upward forces that formerly prevailed. There is excess capacity in vital industries and export demand is declining. But there are signs of a coming pick-up in home building; defense spending should rise, and some important industries are finally getting their excess inventories worked off. Family income remains not far below the peak levels of last summer. Economists hope the consumer, who has been saving at a high rate, may soon decide to resume spending with confidence.

Chatham Club Elects Officers
Mrs. L. H. Bowling was elected president of the Chatham Book Club when the group met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. E. Andresen.
Other new officers named were Mrs. W. D. Tucker, vice president; Mrs. C. A. Bowen, secretary; and Mrs. Conway, treasurer.
During the business meeting presided over by Mrs. C. E. Blair, members voted to contribute to the Cancer Fund.
Mrs. A. C. Ruffin, program chairman, introduced Mrs. F. A. Bendall who had as her subject "The Cherokee Indians."
"The Cherokees Indians were the first owners of the Southern Appalachian Mountains. Long before the coming of the white man, they roamed and hunted over the peaks and valleys," she pointed out.
Mrs. Bendall explained, "Their first contact with the white man was in 1540 when DeSoto came to the Cherokee country in search of gold. The Indians lived in towns and log houses and it was only after the coming of the white man and the discovery of gold that the Indians were made to leave their homes and roam the country.
"By a Treaty of 1846, the Indians were allowed to purchase lands which constitute the present reservation of those people. The reservation of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians lies in the extreme Northern portion of North Carolina where the U. S. Government maintains hospitals and schools," she added.

Hooker CWF Hears About World Trip
Mrs. R. B. Starling described her travels around-the-world and showed colored slides as illustrations when the Christian Women's Fellowship of the Hooker Memorial Christian Church met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Billy Laughinghouse.

Wearing a costume from Ceylon, Mrs. Starling described her visit to the Holy Land and how the members of her group were greeted in the foreign countries. "I found love and friendship among the people I visited throughout the world," she said.

Mrs. Owen Marshburn, president, called the meeting to order and the opening prayer was given by Mrs. Hilda Laughinghouse.

Mrs. Jattie Spain gave the devotional. She emphasized the Ten Commandments as rules to follow.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Herschel Baker and Mrs. Herbert Cobsey, co-hostesses, served orange punch, nuts, cookies, and cheese straws from an appointed table centered with a crystal bowl holding Spring flowers. White carnations encircled the punch bowl.

Art Notes

There is a hope that the Fine Arts Costume Ball will be made an annual affair. Congratulations to the ball committees for the work they did in decorating, costumes, and the floor show.

Senior Art Exhibit
Miss Evelyn Walston of Snow Hill is presently exhibiting some of her paintings in an art exhibition on the second floor of Austin Building, college campus. This show will continue through April 25.

Jeff Hill, Raleigh artist, who has had one man show in the local gallery, has just been commissioned to illustrate his ninth book for Peter Pauper Press. This book will be illustrated with woodcuts to be printed from the artist's blocks.

Doris Duke has recently lent a group of important 18th century French Tapestries to the N. C. Museum, Raleigh.

Represented in Norfolk Museum
Claude Howell of Wilmington, Linda M. Downum of Edenton, George Birlane and Joseph H. Cox of Raleigh, frequent contributors to the exhibition held in the Greenville art gallery, are represented in the 14th annual Irene Leach Show in the Norfolk Museum.

Museum Bulletin Mailed
The Winter and Spring bulletin published by the Museum of Art in Raleigh has recently been mailed to members of the State Art Society.

In the bulletin is a list of gifts made to the Museum since last July which include 19 paintings done by American artists, 15 by European artists, 21 pieces of sculpture done by Italian, French, Greek, Egyptian, and American sculptors and nine collections of decorative arts which include antique laces, Turkish prayer rugs, and chandeliers.

The same bulletin has an article by Ben Williams, curator of the Museum, about his visit last summer to the studio of the Antonio Canova in Italy who did a statue of George Washington for the first state Capitol and was destroyed in fire which burned the building.

Williams tells the story of the statue and his article is illustrated with scenes of the model. A copy of this bulletin is on the reading table at the local art gallery.

Winner To Be Told

Tonight is the night for Miss Martha Jane Pierce, state homemaker of tomorrow. At a formal dinner to be held this evening on the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, the All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be selected.

Wearing a lime green ballerina net gown with glass slippers, Martha will attend the dinner accompanied by Mrs. Rebecca Smith, home economics teacher at Junius H. Rose High School, and the 47 other state homemakers.

A $5,000 General Mills Scholarship will be awarded the winner who will reign for the coming year as Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Miss Pierce and Mrs. Smith will arrive tomorrow at the Raleigh-Durham airport at 5:40 p.m. after a quite busy six-day trip which has included visits to Washington, D. C., Mount Vernon, Jamestown, Baltimore, Colonial Williamsburg, historic Philadelphia, and New York City.

Clio Clubbers Hear Of Life Of Rockefeller

Mrs. Sam Underwood gave a paper on the life of John D. Rockefeller Jr. for the Clio Book Club meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. O. E. Dowd.

"In spite of great wealth and family prestige, he lived a full life and contributed much to the cultural advancement of our country. The Rockefeller Foundations have totaled 850 million dollars with money still coming in," explained Mrs. Underwood.

Many public parks and conservation projects are being established by the foundation besides other projects such as Rockefeller Center, Riverside Church, Colonial Williamsburg.

Mrs. Underwood said, "His life has been dedicated to the task of how best to distribute his wealth, dominated by a sense of duty, diligent in the quest of right paths, and eager to follow it at any sacrifice."

Mrs. W. J. Stell, new president, appointed committees during the business session.

Mrs. Dowd, assisted by Miss Jane Hadley, served a frozen fruit salad plate with coffee.

HD Members Visit Cancer Clinic

It was announced that four club members and two non-club members had been to the Cancer Clinic, Rocky Mount, at the Seven Pines Home Demonstration Club meeting Tuesday afternoon at the club house.

Members voted to donate $10 to the Cancer Fund during the business session presided over by Mrs. Roy Jones, president.

Project reports were heard from Mrs. Richard Bundy, home beautification leader; Mrs. Louis Gaynor, health leader; Mrs. L. E. Garris, poultry leader; Mrs. Lawrence Rackley, foods and nutrition leader; and Mrs. R. J. Heath, garden leader.

Mrs. Clifton Ellis reported on five books she had read.

Mrs. Rackley gave the devotional, reading from Romans.

The hostess, Mrs. W. L. Clark, served the ten members pimiento sandwiches, cookies, potato chips, candy, and soft drinks.

Anyone Can Wear Chemise Style

SEEING IS BELIEVING—Charlotte Winters, saleslady for dress manufacturer Abe Schrader, wears a size 20 chemise in beige silk linen, to convince store buyers in showroom.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

So you think you can't wear a chemise?

Take a look at Mrs. Charlotte Winters, saleslady for dress manufacturer Abe Schrader, who got tired of hearing buyers say: "I'll order the chemise in sizes up to 14, but none larger."

Mrs. Winters is a woman of strong convictions. She felt if a new style is good, everybody should wear it. So she bought a chemise dress from the line and has been wearing it in the showroom, demonstrating to buyers that the new fashion need not be limited to mere wisps of girls with broom-straw figures.

Mrs. Winters is a woman of generous proportions. She is 5 feet 8 and wears a size 20 dress. Buyers had been steering firmly away from the new sack styles for larger women until they saw Charlotte in her chemise. Then things changed.

The buyers came, saw and caught.

Jane Cobb Observes Birthday With Party
GRIFTON—Miss Jane Cobb celebrated her 11th birthday Friday afternoon by having as guests several of her school mates for an informal party at her home.

Decorations carried out a pink and blue color note. The table was covered with a birthday cloth and held the decorated cake with the 11 pink candles, a low bowl of pansies, and tall pink candles in epergnettes.

Dancing and games were played and in a word contest Sue Burch was winner and given candy as a prize.

Decorations of novelty flower hair ornaments and balloons were given to the guests. Refreshments were wafers, potato chips, pickles, popcorn, nuts, juice drinks and the cake.

Mrs. Cecil Cobb and Mrs. George C. Sugg assisted in the games and serving.

Those present were Iris Talton, Sue Burch, Theresa House, Sandra Murphy, Alice Lee Hart, Barbara Hooks, Edna Nelson, Linda Hudson and Becky Mahler.

Hostess At Bridge
BETHEL—Mrs. J. C. Wynne was hostess in her home at bridge with six club members and two visitors, Mrs. Clayton Carson and Mrs. Ralph Carson, present.

A salad course with coffee was served between progressions. Mrs. Clayton Carson was winner of high score prize and Mrs. Ralph Carson was winner of low.

Order for chemises in sizes 18 and 20 picked up briskly.

Mrs. Winters picked one of the most extreme styles on the line—a completely unfitted sack dress, buttoned down the front, with a cocoon envelope back. She was careful to see that it fitted perfectly at shoulders, bust and hips. When she wore it in the salon the first day, the comments were unanimous:

"It honestly makes you look thinner!"

Charlotte points out to buyers that a woman usually can wear a chemise in a size smaller than her usual dress size, and this is good for morale.

Homemakers In Civil Defense To Be Explained

"Needed—Homemakers for Civil Defense Preparedness," second in a series of adult meetings, will be presented by the Homemakers group of East Carolina College Home Economics Department Monday at 7 p.m. in Flanagan building.

The purpose of the meeting is to encourage homemakers to do their part in preparing their family in the event of a serious disaster. Highlights of the meeting will be the importance of the family car, safety and first aid, improvised equipment, and preparation of an emergency meal.

Participating in the adult meeting are Miss Janet Wall, Smithfield; Miss Linda Perry, Selma; Miss Carolyn Briley, Wadesboro; Miss Janet Powell, Winston-Salem. The public is invited to attend.

Topics for future adult meetings are, "Your Part in Family Understanding" and "Creating Your Own Hat Styles Can Be Fun," to be presented April 24 and April 29.

Difficult To Believe Scott Gone

History will remember W. Kerr Scott as a road-building, school building governor, and a Senator who carried into Congress a determination that farmers should have greater consideration from government at every level.

The contemporaries of W. Kerr Scott in North Carolina will remember him best as the cigar-smoking, tobacco-chewing Squire of Haw River . . . champion of the little man, challenger of the giants and the most dynamic and colorful political leader of the Tar Heel state of his day.

For a political leader of the modern era, the late W. Kerr Scott was unorthodox. He carried his political battles to the people and where Kerr Scott was concerned, the people backed him up. He took the farmers out of the mud with his $200 million dollar farm-to-market road building program, and added another $50 million dollars for public schools. He did it in the face of severe opposition, and he fooled the experts just as he did when he was elected governor in the face of all the opposition the long-time political chiefs of the state could muster.

It is difficult even now to realize that the vigorous Squire of Haw River is no longer with us. His barbed words which prodded North Carolina to significant progress are silenced forever, save in the pages of history. These words, and their meaning to the state and its people will not soon be forgotten.

Neither will the man from whom they came.

New Approach To Selling N. C.

By LYNN NISBET
NEW APPROACH — The State Department of Conservation and Development is taking a different approach to the overall business of "selling" North Carolina. A trend has been noticed for several years and was particularly evident during the meeting in Goldsboro this week. An important phase of the new plan is fuller use of cooperative efforts on part of private business to promote the development of North Carolina—even in some instances when new business means keener competition for established firms.

The schedule and copy for national magazine and newspaper advertising for next several months, as approved by the board, emphasizes the happiness of business located here with the conditions under which they operate.

The state association of realtors reported that it had recently adopted a resolution committing its members to process and follow up inquiries about the advantages of North Carolina as a place to retire. Jack Barfield of Asheville showed color slides illustrating the value of retired benefits to the real estate. At request of the realtors, and upon their commitment to service the inquiries, the board authorized publication of a new booklet on the "Easy Life" after retirement in North Carolina—and the insertion of real estate advertisements in one or two lines suggesting that people write in for the booklet. This plan takes cognizance of a field not heretofore worked for increasing the citizenship and taxpayers in the state.

Another instance of cooperation was the announcement that the brick and tile people had provided free of cost to the State designs for proposed welcome signs at the entrances of major highways. Real estate and sellers of building materials have direct interest in bringing permanent residents into North Carolina.

TAXES — Reports made to the C&D board indicated that North Carolina is much better competitive with other states in taxes. Revision of the income tax laws by the last General Assembly, and the fact that other States which have boasted of no income or intangible levies are adopting these taxes, removes some of the advantages they have claimed.

PERSONALIZED — Perhaps the most significant change in total advertising policy is that the appeals are being more personalized. Working together the C&D department and local chambers of commerce are giving more attention to individual analyses of prospective requirements for industry, and offering more assistance in developing sources of materials and supplies.

Governor Hodges has written hundreds of personal letters to prospects manifesting peculiar interest in their special problems. He has traveled thousands of miles to make direct personal contact. Plans were completed at Goldsboro for the trip of a group of business promoters to Chicago next week, similar to the New York visit last fall.

One board member expressed the idea this way: Courting industry is sort of like courting a woman. Telephone talks and letters are fine, but you don't get very far until you can put your arms around the gal.

NOT ALL BAD — The past winter, most severe in many years, was not without some good. At least, the extreme cold killed a lot of seedlings—some in State nurseries, many more after they had been replanted. But—it also killed a lot of beetles and other insects which were becoming a serious problem in some areas. And the prolonged wet weather greatly reduced the hazards of forest fires.

WILLING TO PAY — A few years ago the State forest tree seedlings distributed less than it cost the State to grow them. The price was raised to cover cost of production—and distribution last year was more than $3 million. The minerals division has been able to pay for its publications about rocks and minerals in North Carolina. Last year a charge was made covering cost of printing—and the division sold more copies than it had been able to give away before.

This means increased interest in trees and rocks and water. It also means that many people are willing to pay for what they want and have an idea that items which cost nothing often are worth just about what they cost.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

ARE WE READY?
"Why does not God guide me in this great crisis?"

Probably because He cannot. It may seem blasphemous and irreverent to say so, but there are some things even God cannot do—or perhaps it would be better to say that there are some things God never does. God cannot guide us in the hour of crisis unless we are ready to be guided, unless we are conditioned to accept what He has to give us. The child Samuel slept in the sanctuary in ancient Israel and God spoke to the child, and the child heard. Eli, the high priest, was sleeping peacefully a short distance away, yet when God had a great message for Israel in an hour of crisis, He gave it not to the high priest. The child Samuel was in a position to receive revelation. The high priest Eli was not. We fall so often to receive God's guidance at a time we most need it, and we fail because we are not in a position or are not willing to receive the guidance God is eager to give us. And even God cannot give us what we are not willing to accept. That is, He cannot give us and still remain the kind of God which revelation declares Him to be.

He is giving us an opportunity to make choices. He is leaving much in our hands. The issues of life are always in His hands, but the means and events are in our hands.

Let us be careful how we use them. God has a great message for Israel in an hour of crisis. He gave it not to the high

United Fund Will Need A General Acceptance

As Pitt County moves toward the formation of a United Fund success of the effort will depend upon the interest shown by service organizations, individual citizens who help these organizations in their annual fund drives, and citizens whose annual contributions make it possible for the organizations to carry on their worthwhile activities.

The need for a United Fund in Pitt County has been apparent for years. Other similar counties have pooled their fund-raising efforts for service organizations through united appeals with highly successful results. There is every reason to believe Pitt can do the same thing on a county level.

Through a county-wide United Fund Pitt could eliminate numerous drives for worthy organizations each year. Efforts of solicitors could be combined in one all-out campaign rather than being spread over many drives as has been done annually in each community of the county. Contributors would also find themselves approached only once for a number of organizations rather than many times for many contributions.

And what of the agencies which look to these drives for their financial support?

Experience with the United Fund in other communities show that the agencies which participate in United Funds as a rule are more apt to receive their dollar quotas than those who carry out individual campaigns.

Now that concrete steps are being taken to establish a United Fund in Pitt, it is to be hoped that sufficient support from agencies, and individual citizens will assure for Pitt County the advantages such a program can and will afford.

Parental Apathy Gets Another Reminder

Public apathy toward the Salk vaccine has caused the State Health Department to issue another appeal to parents to have their children vaccinated against polio.

Polio, looked upon four years ago as a threat to the health of every youngster, now is just another disease which has all but been wiped out by medical science. At least that seems to be the way a large segment of the public looks at the matter.

The fact remains, however, that 28 per cent of North Carolinians under 20 years old have yet to receive any polio vaccine. Less than half the state's population in this age group have received the full series of three shots which provide the greatest possible immunity against the dreaded disease.

Why the apathy toward the vaccine? The success of the vaccine in preventing polio seems to have decreased rather than increase public interest in it. Though the number of cases of paralytic polio has been reduced sharply since the vaccine became available, North Carolina still has many thousands of young people who have not been inoculated against the disease. And another polio season is almost upon us.

Will North Carolina go through another polio season with a large percentage of its young people still not vaccinated against the disease?

Didn't Spell Out All The Details

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower had talked a little more clearly there might have been less bellowing from Congress over his plan to streamline the Defense Department.

And Eisenhower, who seemed prepared a week ago to fight like a tiger for his plan, may have decided against butting his head too hard against the legislators. This would be consistent. He has pretty much avoided all-out fights.

He outlined his proposal in a special message April 3. Since then it has been attacked in Congress on various points, but particularly because of the power it would seem to give Secretary of Defense McElroy over defense spending.

Congress is jealous of its power to vote money for specific purposes. In the case of the Army, Navy and Air Force it has always voted money in a piecemeal fashion, according to its idea of their needs.

But Eisenhower—although he used 7,000 words to explain his proposal—was extremely vague on what kind of control he wanted for McElroy over Defense. He said: "I strongly urge that in the future Congress make appropriations for this department in such fashion as to provide the secretary of defense, adequate authority and flexibility to discharge his heavy responsibilities."

What did "flexibility" mean? Did it mean Congress would be asked to vote money for the Defense Department—instead of for each individual service and let McElroy decide who got what? That same day in a news conference McElroy himself seemed to indicate that Congress would vote money for the individual services, as in the past, but he'd have power to switch some of it around in an emergency.

But that same day also two of Eisenhower's aides, Bruce

Harlow and James Hagerty, the President's press secretary, gave a different explanation.

Harlow, asked if Congress would be asked to vote money to McElroy, said: "It would be to him. And when a reporter asked if the money would go to McElroy instead of one third to each service, Hagerty said: 'That's right.'"

This was too much for some of the leaders in Congress—Democrats and Republicans—because they thought it would give too much power to one man.

While the fight roared on Eisenhower had a news conference. That was last week.

From the way he talked reporters concluded he was ready for a knock-down fight for his plan. He said he didn't care who was against it, that he'd go on TV as often as he could to battle for it. He was talking of the plan as a whole, and still didn't spell out what he wanted Congress to do about appropriations. Tuesday, some of the Republican leaders in Congress went to see him.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California said later it was a misconception to think Eisenhower wanted McElroy to have complete control of the military purse strings. Knowland said Eisenhower wanted only limited flexibility for McElroy in handling defense spending.

This apparently was an attempt to quiet down some of the opposition to the plan. But it still isn't clear—because Eisenhower has never made it clear—just what he means by flexibility or how much authority he wants for McElroy.

It seems reasonable—since his message took 7,000 words—that he could have used a few more to spell out exactly what he had in mind.

Signs Of Age, Youth

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Science raises the possibility that a man can buy a ticket to the nearest star and come back maybe a boy.

This idea is based on the theory that the faster you go the younger you get. We have seen this tried many times and can't count any winners—although we recall a number who died smiling among their wrinkles. The conception of time is a hard thing for any human to embrace. It makes him a prisoner of the calendar, the moon, the seasons, the years, the watch upon his wrist, his own suspicions or the estimate of others. He feels—even though his years cannot accurately be measured by his falling hair—he still, like a tree, has his inevitable annual rings, made visible to others in ways he does not know.

Is he older than he feels? Is he younger than he knows? How to tell?

Here is a Baedeker of personal antiquity. You're older if you pause before a flight of stars, take a deep breath—then gallop up them a step at a time.

You're younger if you boldly wink at a pretty girl and don't pretend to wipe clinker out of your eye.

You're older if your wife has to gear your pride up to make you ask for a raise.

You're younger if you think raise some for merit and you feel proud to ask for one.

You're older if you forget to wear your rubbers in the rain.

You're younger if you wear a hat in the summer merely to be better dressed and hope that'll make a sale.

You're older if you see a beautiful girl and she reminds you of a girl you used to know.

You're younger if you see the same girl and feel like you won't be coming until you know her.

You're older if you think that over the hill lies the poor house.

You're younger if you think that every molehill is a fresh stepping stone to opportunity.

You're older if the boss puts his arm around your shoulder and you feel the loneliness in his fingers.

You're younger if, putting your own hand around the boss's shoulders, you absent-mindedly feel for soft spots.

You're older if, on a moonlit night, your wife signs and you know what you are both missing.

You're younger if you look at the moon and wonder who'll be first to land on it.

You're older if while on a picnic, you see an ant and pause to watch it wrestle a crumb toward home.

You're younger if you press your thumb on the ant, then eat the crumb.

You're older if you think that a horse's hair, left in a bottle, will turn into a snake.

You're younger if you think tranquilizer pills will give you peace.

You're older if you asked a father for his daughter's hand in marriage.

You're younger if you just married the girl anyway—but you both still stick your feet under your father-in-law's table at meal time.

You're older if you hope time and effort will show you a way out.

You're younger if you demand that the government do it.

You're older if now and then you like to get up all alone just to watch the sun rise.

You're younger if you're too busy talking at a cocktail party to pause and admire a sunset.

You're older if all this stirs an echo in you.

"Now, at last, there is a ruling. # This Revolution In Agriculture constituted a revolution in itself. Like it or lump it, we are in the midst of one of the greatest agricultural revolutions of modern times. The only other one that compares with it in scope is the mechanization of farming in the Muscovite Empire.

The two revolutions differ diametrically in direction; the Soviet change was to communism, the American change is toward greater capitalism.

Three forces, complementing one another, are making over our farm system. If present trends continue, by the year 2000 the family that milks its own cows and cultivates a small acreage by hand will not be extinct, but it will be almost as rare as the peanut vendor.

One force is the growing use of chemicals and pharmaceuticals on farms. The second force is the increasing mechanization.

The third is the trend toward larger farms, managed with all the techniques of big business.

Rare Blue-Ribbon Jury

Lawyers, as a general rule, don't sit on juries.

There are occasions, however, when the jury box is almost filled with them. It's true that such occasions are rare, but they do come up. . . as one did Monday in Pitt County Superior Court.

During the luncheon recess, Kinston attorney Jesse Jones asked Judge Joseph W. Parker for immediate action on an uncontested divorce case. He made the request for convenience of his client who, he said, might have some difficulty getting back to Greenville later in the week.

Judge Parker agreed to the immediate trial, provided Clerk of Court D.T. House, Jr., could get a jury together in no small task, since most of the regular jurors had scattered for their lunch.

House started checking among the people waiting for court to reconvene and found 12 able-bodied souls who agreed to hear the case. Included in the group were seven attorneys, waiting for their cases to be called.

The lawyers, and the other five men, were seated and passed without a murmur of dissent from Jones who would ordinarily look with suspicion on another lawyer in the jury box. The group was sworn, heard the evidence and returned a verdict granting the divorce.

Despite threats to the contrary, the verdict was returned quickly and orderly (no dissenting votes). Judge Parker even had a word of praise for the manner in which the jury dispatched its business.

The death of Senator Kerr Scott yesterday called to mind the first time I ever met the man.

The occasion came while I was a freshman in college and Scott was Governor of North Carolina. He was the speaker at a dinner meeting of the North Carolina Press Association and I stopped at the meeting hall to speak to Henry Belk of the Goldsboro News-Argus.

Mr. Belk asked me, while we were talking, if I would like to meet Scott and I told him I certainly would. We were introduced and spent a few minutes talking after Mr. Belk had to go elsewhere. I don't remember the subject of our conversation, but I do recall that the Governor was a cordial man who made me feel completely at ease.

I don't recall seeing him again until he opened his campaign for the Senate, at a rally in Duplin County's little Chinquapin. That was at least a couple of years after the first meeting, but Scott remembered by name when we shook hands at a press conference.

I voted for him after that and I would have voted for him again, had the chance ever presented itself.

Other Editors Saying--- Ike's Plan, Pro And Con

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

President Eisenhower, who was a military man through and through before he answered what he thought was his nation's call and jumped into the squared circle of politics, is going to put both his military and political knowledge to work in trying to put over his military reorganization plan. The President has pledged an all out fight, if such becomes necessary, in the effort to get his idea across and accepted.

The President is aiming his offensive first at the public, then at Congress. He feels that if he can convince the people that his program is sound and right, the major part of his task will have been completed. One of his first steps here is to talk out his reorganization plan on a 1 p.m. television program April 17.

Right now the road seems clear for Mr. Eisenhower to get the jump on opposition to his plan. But he will have to hurry, for while the opposition has been only loosely organized, it is now gaining momentum.

Here are some of the arguments listed by those who are lined up with the President on this issue:

(1) The Secretary of Defense should be given greater authority over the three armed services to end wasteful competition and to coordinate matters of operation and strategy.

(2) The split-second demands of modern war require a simplified command structure. The secretary should be able to give his orders directly to unified commands, without having to go through the individual services.

(3) A stronger sense of cooperation and more teamwork within the Pentagon could be encouraged. Officers would begin to develop the ability to see the broad view of military operations.

(4) The civilian Secretary of Defense is handicapped without a unified military staff to advise him directly on strategic and operational military questions.

(5) There is no danger in the plan of either a civilian or military man aiming at dictatorship because of the powers of the President, as Commander in Chief, and Congress, through its appropriation of funds.

On the other side of the issue are these arguments:

(1) Reduction of individual service responsibility is dangerous and would remove safeguards against the possibility of one branch of service becoming dominant.

(2) A Secretary of Defense who might be weak could be dominated by a strong military staff; even by one member of that staff.

(3) The Secretary of Defense would be given some of the congressional power to appropriate military money, a power Congress should retain to see that money goes where it should and is spent as it should.

(4) There is the danger that a unified staff advising the secretary might become too far removed from the working problems of the individual services and thereby develop into a self-serving group.

(5) Congress, which can now dig into military matters by requiring individual service officers to testify about their personal beliefs—regardless of Pentagon policy—would be severely handicapped here if the Defense Department became too strong.

Until the President's timetable calls for a full spelling-out of the details and the full intent of his program, it will be difficult to determine which side of the issue is gaining the most strength and influence. But it appears certain that a lot of political infighting is ahead, especially if Mr. Eisenhower pushes for his proposition as vigorously as he is now indicated.

At Order Of Eastern Star Meeting

Charter Members Feted Guests

Mrs. Melle House and Mrs. Josephine Rawl, charter members of Greenville Chapter 149 O.E.S., were honored on Tuesday evening at the regular meeting. The Chapter was celebrating its 36th birthday.

Following the routine business meeting a program, "The Garden of Remembrance," was presented with the worthy matron recognizing the charter members. Duets were sung by Mrs. Florence Eaton and Mrs. Clarence Barnhill.

Alya Ray Taylor, John Carrington, Joseph Palmer, Alfred Kennedy, and Guy Forrest. Camellias were presented to each with Bible book marks as mementoes from the chapter.

The meeting opened with the officers marching in wearing long white formals. Mrs. Mary Ross, worthy matron, presided in the east, assisted by Clarence Barnhill, W.P.

A memorial service for deceased charter members was part of this program. Corsages of pink carnations were presented each charter member as they were escorted to the east.

Past matrons and patrons present were presented, those being Mrs. Fatsy Randolph, Mrs. Edith Harrington, Mrs. Vivienne Hines, Mrs. Nell Moore, Mrs. Louise Wells, Mrs. Thelma Maxwell, Mrs. Mildred Kennedy, Mrs. Clarence Jackson, Mrs. Sadie Wrae Carrington, Mrs. Martha Forrest, Miss

With Farm Women

By VIRGINIA M. NANCE

Gardening Time With spring gardening on the minds of lots of people, Wilson County home demonstration club women are making great strides toward improving their gardens and encouraging non-club members to grow more of their home food supply.

According to Ona P. Humphrey, home demonstration agent, The Wilson Daily Times is providing much of the incentive for better gardening, since the paper is offering a $25 award this year to the home demonstration club whose members influence the greatest number of non-club members to have a garden and for club members who make the greatest improvement in their own gardens.

Toward Better Health Four-H (4-H) girls in Vance County are beginning to realize more and more the importance of selecting club projects that will help them improve their family and the health of their family members.

Imogene H. Garrison, assistant home agent, describes how one 4-H girl is using her projects for health improvement.

Joyce Brewer, 10, of Townsville, has sensed the need of selecting a 4-H project that would be in with improving the health of her family. "This year I chose frozen foods as my project," Joyce explains, "because at each club meeting, I pledge my health to better living. I thought I could help my health and the health of my family by helping fill a home freezer with fruits, vegetables, and meats so that our family can have three well-balanced meals each day. These are essential to our good health."

New Club Project The Lenoir County Home Demonstration Garden Club has been hard at work in recent weeks ever since they selected their year's club project.

According to Home Agent Marie Penuel, the club has "adopted" as its project the newly renovated Cottage I at the Caswell Training School. They have provided many attractive items such as fish bowls, flower arrangements, and dish gardens, as well as draperies for four windows in the cottage.

Miss Penuel says that garden therapy is to be continued as the outstanding feature of the overall project. Club members placed flowers in the chapel at Caswell Training School and made corsages for the children at Easter time.

Basket Workshop Stanly County home demonstration club women gathered for a two-day basket making workshop several weeks ago and 18 women made quite a bit of progress toward skill in this craft, according to reports from Elizabeth A. Watson, home agent. Miss Marjorie Shearin, Agricultural Extension Service food conservation and marketing specialist, who conducted the workshop, said it was the best group of baskets that had been made by an inexperienced group.

One club member had an idea that grew out of basket workshop that was in no way connected with the workshop. It seems that Mrs. J. D. Morris, of the North Albamare club, bought a hank of the red to take home with her. When Miss Watson saw her a few days later, she asked about the materials she had taken home. Mrs. Morris said she had bought the red for an entirely different purpose than for making baskets. "I sat down that night after I got home from the workshop," Mrs. Morris explained, "and made me a fan to use when my husband and I make trips in the caravan of horseless carriages."

Outstanding Clothing Exhibit As the old saying goes, "A penny saved is a penny earned," and Mrs. Nancy Sinclair, clothing leader of the Pleasant View-Grove home demonstration club in Robeson County, certainly proved this with a recent exhibit she brought to her club.

Negro Home Agent Mollie H. Briley reports that Mrs. Sinclair exhibited a small child's wardrobe of six dresses, two slips, two spring coats, and a hat she had made while confined to the house during a cold wave. She had remodeled all of them from adult clothes and scraps from the scrap bag. The wardrobe, valued at $44, cost Mrs. Sinclair exactly $275 including patterns, buttons, and trimmings. She attributes the cool weather along with her desire to save as the major factors in encouraging her to do such a good job in clothing construction. Mrs. Briley concluded.

Therapist Explains Career To Book Club

BETHEL—Miss Norma Williamson, who has recently completed her work in Occupational Therapy, gave a talk on the profession, explaining how to become an Occupational Therapist, when the Book Exchange Club met last Thursday with Mrs. J. R. Highsmith.

A display was exhibited by the speaker consisting of articles completed during her course which will be applicable in her future career. Of focal interest on entering the living room were arrangements of mixed spring flowers. Mrs. Herbert R. Brown assisted as co-hostess in serving a dessert course with coffee.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Lawyer Is Given A $30,000 Fee

NEW YORK (AP) — A jury yesterday awarded $30,000 to a Wall Street lawyer for services connected with the divorce of Winthrop Rockefeller and Barbara (Bobo) Sears Rockefeller. The attorney had sought $100,000.

A State Supreme Court jury deliberated three hours before ordering payment to Leo C. Fennelly. After the verdict, Fennelly asked for a new trial on the ground that the amount awarded was not enough. Justice Aron Steuer turned him down.

Mrs. Rockefeller, who had testified in the case, was not present when the verdict was reached.

Before the jurors began deliberation, Fennelly told them: "If I am awarded the $100,000 . . . it will be the hardest money, cent for cent, I have ever earned."

Fennelly, one of Mrs. Rockefeller's former attorneys, said that when she first consulted him in November 1953—Rockefeller had offered a $9,240,000 settlement for her and her son Paul. But, the attorney added, "she wanted more."

After extensive legal wrangling, Mrs. Rockefeller and her son received about six million dollars.

With disbursements and interest, the Fennelly award actually amounted to more than $26,000. Of this, Mrs. Rockefeller is liable for some $14,000. Under an agreement with her former husband, she pays approximately a third, and he about two thirds.

Fatal Scalding For Grandmother

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A grandmother died last night of burns suffered in a scalding. Police held her grandson, an unemployed bellhop.

John Robert Adams Lad been booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder after 76-year-old Mrs. Edna Helen Smith was splashed with hot water last week. Police said Adams beat her and threw the water on her after she chided him for his failure to get a job.

Tunisian Ultimatum Is Again Put To France

By STANLEY JOHNSON

TUNIS (AP) — President Habib Bourguiba today gave France a week to get a government which will accept the compromise on the French-Tunisian dispute worked out by the U.S.-British good offices mission.

Otherwise, Bourguiba said, he will charge France again with aggression before the U.N. Security Council.

Speaking on his weekly broadcast to his people, the Tunisian President coupled his ultimatum to the French with lavish praise for U.S. policies. He urged all the free peoples of Africa to stand firm with the United States against communism.

Bourguiba first accused the French before the Council after the bombing Feb. 9 of a Tunisian border village which the French claimed harbored Algerian rebels. A Council debate embarrassing to the West was averted by the naming of a U.S.-British good of-

Affection For Bow Ties Traced Back To Soup

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. G. Menhen Williams' affection for green polka dot bow ties can be traced back to a bowl of mushroom soup.

That's what the governor's 15-year-old daughter, Nancy says in an article in her junior school newspaper.

In the late 1930s, she said, the Williams family was entertaining Gov. Frank Murphy at dinner. Williams seated the guests and started to eat himself.

"Then it happened," Nancy wrote. "With one elegant movement he leaned over, pulled his chair up behind himself and simultaneously dunked almost his entire tie in his mushroom soup."

Williams splattered soup down the front of his suit and Mrs. Williams let the rolls burn in her rush to clean up the mess.

"Ever since that memorable evening, my father has always worn bow ties," Nancy said.

Marie's Divorce Decree Is Final

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP) — The off-again, on-again marriage of actress Marie McDonald and Harry Karl is officially off.

Her attorney obtained a final divorce decree for the actress yesterday in Superior Court. Neither Miss McDonald nor Karl, a millionaire shoe manufacturer, was present.

The action made final an interlocutory decree along with a million-dollar property settlement, granted to Miss McDonald July 25, 1956.

The couple married in 1947, were divorced in 1954 and married again in 1955. They have two adopted children, Denise, 8, and Harrison, 7, and a daughter, Tina Marie, 18 months.

Rockefeller Fund Expected Advise Federal Tax Cut

NEW YORK (AP)—A forthcoming report by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund is expected to recommend a substantial and broadly based federal tax cut.

The report may not include a figure, but it was reported today that discussions on the size of the cut to be recommended centered around five billion dollars.

Members of the fund's economic panel met here last night to put the report into final shape.

The report, due to be made public next week, is said to deal with every phase of the nation's economy, except education and human resources. These angles will be the subject of a third report. The fund's first report made last January, dealt with the nation's security.

The forthcoming report is expected to give a detailed picture of the nation's present economic situation and discuss steps that may be taken to alleviate existing ills and assure future economic health.

By EDDY GILMORE
BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—King Baudouin opened the postwar world's biggest international exposition today and declared: "The aim of this world's fair is to create an atmosphere of understanding and peace."

It was a chill, gray day and a whistling wind made it overcast weather, but failed to hold down the crowds.

Hundreds poured into the American and Soviet pavilions. During the first hours, the crowds appeared to be slightly larger at the beautiful circular American show. But the throngs at the Soviet hall were not much smaller.

Chief attraction of the Soviets appeared to be models of their Sputniks. The main interest at the U.S. exhibition was a bevy of beautiful girls—some in brief bathing suits. Nobody whistled at the Sputniks.

The Soviets put out a large guest book and invited visitors to make comments.

"This is a large, lovely pavilion," wrote one. "Keep up the good work."

"It is all propaganda," said another.

Both were written in French. The Americans had no guest book.

The Soviet exhibit appeared to be completely ready. The American show was not.

Forty-one countries will exhibit their achievements in the arts and sciences for the next four months, drawing up what Fair Commissioner Baron Moens de Fernig described as a balance sheet for a more humane world.

A gray, cold day held down the size of the opening morning crowd. But thousands poured through the gates, even though the fair's foreign section was far from finished.

It was a vivid scene with fountains sparkling, bands playing, trumpets sounding, flags flying and a guard on horseback following the King and his brother Prince Albert, both in uniform.

The Kingspoken in the auditorium of the Belgian section to an invited audience of 2,000 officials, diplomats, foreign visitors and other distinguished guests. Afterward, followed by the milk-coated top-hatted crowd, he moved out into the royal esplanade to kneel the fair's flame. Lining the square were pretty girls, each holding the flag of a nation at the fair.

Baudouin pressed a button on a flag-bedecked dais. Nothing happened. He pressed again and a tiny flame lit up in the center of the grounds.

Elsewhere in the grounds of the ancient royal park on which the fair is built thousands milled about to see the show. It was not a bubbling holiday crowd in the American sense, however. There was no boisterous gaiety, no shouting and yelling, no shrieks of youngsters.

U.S. Consulate Is Bomb Target

ALGIERS (AP)—A bomb exploded in the entryway of the U.S. consulate in Algiers today. Reports said a Moslem woman was wounded.

It appeared likely the bombing was the work of extremist Frenchmen angered by U.S. pressure on the French government to reach a settlement with the Arab government of neighboring Tunisia.

Nationalists In Voting Victory

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The governing Nationalist party appeared today headed for an extension of its 10-year rule of South Africa based on strict racial segregation.

The opposition United party held an early lead in Assembly seats after yesterday's parliamentary elections but late returns from rural Nationalist strongholds were expected to wipe this out.

With half the votes counted, the Nationalists had won 28 seats, two of them from United incumbents, while the United party added 19 seats to its 24 uncontested places in the 168-seat Parliament. The United also won the four seats filled by colored (mixed race) voters in Cape Province two weeks ago.

Only South Africa's three million white citizens were eligible to vote yesterday. The 10 million Negroes have no vote but will be represented in the new Parliament by three white men to be selected later.

Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom was confident of retaining legislative control although his party has never won a majority of the popular votes. The United party, headed by Sir De Villiers Graaff, also favors segregation but contends the harshness of the government's measures have harmed the nation at home and abroad.

Churchwomen To Seek Reforms

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina Episcopal women have tentatively pledged themselves to work for a state minimum wage law and other legislative reforms during the next year.

The proposals were contained in the tentative 1958 legislative program adopted yesterday at the closing session of the women's auxiliary of the Episcopal Diocese of North Carolina.

Mrs. T. P. Thomas of Wilson took over as president succeeding Mrs. Leslie Evans of Raleigh. Mrs. Charles P. Franklin of Wilson was named diocesan secretary. Other officers are Mrs. Louis Carr of Durham, vice president; Mrs. Hoyle P. Beam of Raleigh, secretary of Christian Education. The new officers were installed by the Rt. Rev. Edwin A. Penick, bishop of the diocese.

The proposed legislative program was adopted without the vote of the delegation from Winston-Salem. Mrs. Frank Forsyth, Winston-Salem, Mrs. Frank Forsyth, head of the delegation, said the Forsyth women did not believe in mixing religion with politics, while recognizing the importance of social legislation. Other delegations abstaining from voting on the legislative program included those from St. Timothy's in Winston-Salem, Trinity in Statesville and Galloway Memorial Chapel in Elkton.

Keep Record On Delinquent Dogs

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Dogs with a you to wander in suburban Whitefish Bay are advised to watch their step—they may end up with a police record.

From now on, dogs (through their masters, of course) will be fined $6 for a first offense, $10 for a second offense and $15 for each one after that. But if there's no delinquency after two years, the poosh's slate is wiped clean.

Sees Need For Export Subsidy

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States may have to subsidize exporters in order to compete with Soviet prestige price-cutting abroad, says Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, spoke last night before 1,400 persons at the annual dinner of the Brand Names Foundation.

In a few years, Lodge said, "we should expect to see one or another Soviet product underselling American products in world markets for the sake of Soviet prestige. A total state can easily do such things because it can actually put the state into the export business."

Lodge continued: "To meet such tactics, the individual who is in the export business in a free country must compete as an individual with the total resources of the Soviet state. This may prove to be a competition which the individual businessman who pays good wages to free labor cannot win."

"If this sort of Soviet competition gets going, we may have to face the question of whether or not to support American products by the resources of our government."

Ignored Plugs And Tickets, Too

SUMMERVILLE, S. C. (AP)—Summerville's police force recently was ordered to begin "rigid enforcement" of an ordinance against parking near fire plugs.

The weekly Summerville Scene reported the results: "It seems that a good many of the ladies have been ignoring the fire plugs and the law against parking within 10 feet of them. The police gave some of them tickets but they ignored these too."

CHAPTER 21

Price Regan holstered his gun and ran to where Barney De Long stood, forefinger pointing into the willows. He saw Rose then, as motionless as if she were frozen, facing him as she squatted precariously on the bank of the stream, both hands holding to the base of two willows. She looked at him, blinking. She was wearing a nightgown, and it had been ripped by the brush in half a dozen places. "Come out of there, Rose," Price ordered. "We're not going to hurt you." Still she squatted there, bare feet in the mud, staring at him with blank eyes as if she had never seen him before. He started to reach for her arm and then dropped his hand, realizing that if she relaxed her hold on the willows she'd fall into the river and drown. He turned his head to De Long. "Move downstream a little. If she falls, maybe you can grab her." He looked at Rose again, edging forward. "I'm Price Regan, the deputy. You remember me, Rose. I'm here to get the men who killed Walt."

"Don't let them get me," she begged. "Please! Don't let them get me." "I won't let them get you Rose. You're safe." De Long came in with the whisky and would have left if Price hadn't said, "Stay here, Barney. If she says anything, I want you to hear it." "Ain't she a mess?" De Long muttered. Price slid an arm under her head and, lifting it, put the bottle to her lips and tilted it. She took a long drink and choked. He gave her another drink and let her head drop back to the pillow. For a long time she stared at him, then she said, "You're Regan, ain't you?" "That's right." He took her hand that was nearest to him. "You're safe now. You're all right." "Walt could have licked you." "Maybe, but that's past. What we want to do is to get the men who killed him." For a moment he thought he'd made a mistake mentioning Cronin's death. She raised up, a crazy violence coming into her eyes. Then she dropped back, shivering. "Yeah, we've gotta get them dirty killers." "You feel like getting dressed yet?" he asked. "Don't make no difference." "Yes, it makes a lot of difference. I'm going to send you to town and you can take the stage to Rawlins in the morning. You'll be safe there."

"All right," she said listlessly. She got up, swaying a moment before the dizziness left her. Price and De Long turned to the door. She said, in the same listless tone, "I'm going to Rawlins." She finished dressing and sat down in front of the mirror that hung on the wall and began to brush her hair. De Long grimaced. He said, in a low tone, "Ain't she a mess? What'll my wife say when I tell her about this?" "Don't tell her, Barney. You take Rose to the hotel as soon as you get to town and see she gets a room. I can't go back to town now, but I'll be there tonight. I don't want her running around the streets and I don't want anybody getting into her room and killing her." "You don't think that would happen?" De Long demanded. "Anything can happen now. It'd be best if you got somebody to stay with her, Laura, maybe." "Barry Madden wouldn't stand for it." "No, I guess he wouldn't. Well, Jean Potter then. And you tell Barry that Cole Weston is in a pile of trouble, and Barry's going to be in the same trouble if he don't make a quick move." "I'll tell him, but he won't like it," De Long said. Price walked to where Rose sat in front of the mirror. He said, "Can you tell me what happened?" She gave him a sidelong glance, her eyes filled with cunning. "Did something happen?" "Who killed Walt?" "I don't remember." He turned away, disgusted and angry. De Long had heard her,

Large Or Small Reds Threaten

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union warned today that it makes no difference whether nuclear weapons are large or small—the use of either will bring catastrophic consequences on the country from which they are fired. "One cannot differentiate between tactical and strategic use of nuclear weapons," an article in the Communist party organ Pravda said. The article, broadcast by Moscow radio, was signed "Observer," often a pen name for high party officials. Some Western planners have suggested that the use of small nuclear weapons against such tactical targets as troop concentrations might not cause an all-out nuclear war. The Pravda article commented on the meeting of Atlantic Alliance defense ministers which ends today in Paris. The ministers decided their forces must be capable of meeting Communist attacks with nuclear warheads. "The conference in Paris is engaged in practical planning for general nuclear war," Pravda said. "U.S. generals are developing plans for transforming the whole of Western Europe into a military camp and shooting range."

Old Bowie Knife Found In Ground

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Pete Sherron was hunting for some firewood when he noticed the handle of a knife barely sticking above the ground. He pulled it out and found a 9-inch blade of the Jim Bowie type. While the handle had rotted away, the original owner had carefully preserved the blade with a coating of tallow. It was estimated from markings that the knife was more than 60 years old.

Radiation Effects Worry Many; Extent Is Unknown

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter
NEW YORK (AP) — Fallout is presumably dooming some of tomorrow's children to disease or death.

But then so are radium-dial watches that glow in the dark. In fact, X-rays from the watch could be many times more dangerous to your descendants than fallout.

Fallout frightens and causes moral concern primarily because of the hereditary damage it is, or might be causing. Scientists disagree on the extent of this risk because so little is known directly about the effects of radiation on human heredity. They have to guess from studies of fruit flies, plants and small animals, which don't take 20 years to produce one generation.

One expert guesses that natural radioactivity is causing about 10 per cent of all changes in human genes, the carriers of hereditary traits.

Most — but not all — geneticists think any dose of radiation, however small, adds to this risk of genetic damage, especially if it is continued long enough.

So therefore fallout would be producing some genetic damage. Some scientists say the addition is practically imperceptible. Others say that, in time, fallout means hundreds of thousands of infants will be lost in miscarriages, or be doomed to sickly, feeble, or shortened lives. No one can prove he is right. Continuing and intensified studies of radiation will produce the facts.

Atomic Energy Commission experts say the added risk of genetic damage from fallout is not as great as the added risk of moving from a wood house to a brick or stone house. Reason: the brick or stone house exposes you to increased natural radioactivity, an increase greater than average exposure from fallout.

One AEC scientist calculates the average radium-dial wrist watch exposes the wearer's sex glands to about twice the radiation he gets from natural source. X-rays from the watch hit the glands when his arm is at his side.

Fallout got 2 advance for April 17.

Other scientists think the AEC is estimating the effects of fallout far too low. And they say fallout is not evenly distributed, so some persons are getting a heavier dose than average.

Some also argue that radioactive strontium-90, which accumulates in bones, will cause thousands of cases of leukemia and bone cancer.

AEC spokesmen say there's no proof for this. They report the amount of strontium found in children's bones so far is about one one hundredth the amount considered a very safe dose.

Many argue a moral issue. You don't have to wear a wrist watch, they point out. But you can't avoid fallout drifting down upon you from somebody testing bombs.

They say we have no right to expose others to any risk.

Another point which some make is: Suppose fallout dooms only 1,500 children the world over. That means 1,500 human lives, not a cold statistic.

The counter-argument is that tests aimed at producing cleaner bombers and an arsenal of specialized weapons are needed for defense of the free world; other nations benefit from this, and the genetic risk is worth it.

A few say we already have a

Name Chairman Of School Body

AYDEN — Darrell Jackson was named chairman of the Ayden District School Committee here this week, succeeding Mrs. Alma Worthington.

Mrs. Worthington, a member of the board since April, 1951, and chairman since 1953, was replaced as a member of the committee by William T. Moore, appointed last week by the Pitt County Board of Education. A resolution of appreciation for Mrs. Worthington's service was ordered by the committee.

McDonald Edwards was named vice-chairman and Dr. H.W. Gooding was elected secretary in other phases of the committee's reorganization.

As its first act of business, the reorganized committee re-elected E.F. Johnson principal of Ayden School for a 16th term. Johnson was first elected to the post in 1943.

The new committee member, Moore, is a graduate of the University of Delaware and is employed as an instrument supervisor at Dupont's Kinston plant. He is married and has three children, Barry 17, Pam 5, and Jeffrey 2.

Daniel Webster's birthplace was Franklin, N.H.

Hobby Grew Into One Of Nation's Outstanding Museums Of Wildlife

By DON BOLDEN
Times-News Staff Writer
BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A hobby that had its beginnings in the early 1940s grew through the years in such proportions that it has provided Burlington with one of the nation's outstanding wildlife museums.

It was prior to World War II that Dr. B. B. McDade, a Burlington physician, began pursuing the adventures and thrills of wild game hunting in far away places. He brought his trophies home, and for years displayed them in a small, private museum over his office here.

a display showing three South American Jaguars in front of a large mural which depicts their natural jungle home.

These tiger-like animals were killed in 1952 when the doctor made his last big-game hunt, going deep into the dense jungles of Venezuela.

After Dr. McDade offered the city his collection, with the stipulation that a suitable building be provided, a committee was formed to set the wheels in motion. In March of 1955, a museum fund drive opened in the city and Burlington area citizens chipped in.

Scout groups made special solicitations, teenagers made door-to-door collections, and bottles were collected and sold to raise more money. Youngsters donated their pennies, nickels and dimes, some even getting odd jobs in order to raise money for their personal donations.

Peace Imposed With Sentence

APPLETON, Wis. (AP)—Municipal Judge Oscar Schmieg, trying to arrange peace in a family, found no peace in his court.

Two wavers, who charged each other with disorderly conduct, shouted at each other so much in court the judge couldn't be heard.

Judge Schmieg imposed silence on Mrs. Wanda Fahlke, 59, and Mrs. Alfrid Craven, 56, by ordering them to post $100 bond each and warning them they would be clapped in jail if their clamor continued.

der to raise money for their personal donations.

The community drive raised some $15,000 in what was called a "faith, hope and charity" project.

As the building would house the Recreation Department offices as well as the museum, the City of Burlington provided another $40,000 in appropriations for its share. This community effort had been successful after several vain attempts to gain support. On May 3, 1956, workmen finished their tasks and the long modern, one-story building was ready. In August the animals were moved in and the museum was dedicated Oct. 18, 1956.

In a year's time, 5,442 people registered after viewing the animals, and the list of home towns in the registration book reads like a geography of the United States. There were visitors from most states and from the Canal Zone, Canada and England.

Touring the facility, one sees the mounted head of the African ox, a kill for which Dr. McDade holds the world's record; the second largest brown Arizona bear ever killed, and a huge golden eagle.

There is the African lion, bull moose, African wart hog, water buffalo, water buck, alligator, Alaska grizzly bear, coral snake, coyote, the rare white opossum, caribou, rhinoceros, types of fish and countless other specimens.

Catching the eye of the visitor as he enters the door are two elephant tusks, each weighing 95 pounds. They came from a giant African elephant killed by the doctor. Between the trophies is a photo showing Dr. McDade with the elephant just after the kill.

Only recently, a deadly inguana lizard, was added, along with several monkeys.

There is even an unusual type of fly. It is called a chipo, a large fly that, if it bites a person, brings a slow sickness and then always sure death.

Dr. McDade found this creature crawling from beneath his bed in South America, along with a coral snake, just as deadly.

Over the door of the museum hangs a portrait of the man who made it all possible. The likeness of Dr. McDade shows him in hunting clothes and holds the old 12-gauge shotgun that has been his standby on most every hunt he has made since 1920.

McDade Museum, housing one of the two largest private wildlife collections in the United States, provides a new educational facility for the city. School children are the most frequent visitors, a fact that is quite pleasing to Dr. McDade.

Before the new building was opened, he took time out from his schedule in medical practice to guide children through the displays housed on the second floor of his office building.

One of his most prized possessions is the stack of letters he has received from school students.

When quizzed about the cost involved in hunting, killing and preparing animals for the museum, the doctor replied, "I'm paid back for every cent I've spent when I can see the school students in particular show that they enjoy it."

The exhibit is open without charge to the public each day, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. until 3:30 p.m., and on Sundays from now through May from 2 to 4 p.m. In the summer months, it is open on alternate Sundays.

Dr. McDade's donation to the educational and cultural advancement of the community was recognized by his fellow citizens last December. He was named Alameda County's Citizen-of-the-Year.

Ambitions Are Badly Stunted

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A teenage youth with ambitions of becoming a "private eye" suffered a slight setback the other day.

Police caught him and two other boys driving a stolen car. A search of the youth in question turned up a private detective's badge and a pair of handcuffs.

The would-be sleuth went to jail in his own manacles.

CAN'T BEAR PEOPLE
IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Don't feed the bears if you visit Yellowstone National Park, Wyo. Park Supt. Lemuel A. Garrison said 91 persons were injured by bears in 1957.

No License Tag For City Truck

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP)—State Police arrested John R. Hirsch, city employee, while he was driving a 1926 Reo truck which belongs to the city. The truck did not have license plates — not even for 1956.

Alvin Keller, city finance director, paid the $9 fine and said the truck is used at the water and light plant and is not supposed to be taken from that place.

Proof Positive Of Full Recovery

ELKHART, Ind. (AP)—Harold Baker, 42, can offer first-hand testimony that 40-year old Police Lt. Norman Sinning recovered completely from an attack of polio that struck him last year.

The lieutenant, who was bedfast for several weeks with partial paralysis of one leg, chased Baker for a full block to arrest him for drunkenness. He finally owned his quarry with a perfect flying tackle.

Can Make Anybody Laugh In A Minute, Says Comic

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—"You can make anybody laugh within a minute," said comedian Sid Gould. "The only thing that prevents them from laughing is the determination to win some money."

That's the simple idea behind Make Me Laugh (ABC-TV, Thursdays), which was the target of some unkind remarks from this quarter when it made its debut four weeks ago.

"I agree with Sid," said comedian Louis Nye. "A minute is enough time to make a person laugh."

"I don't believe it," I said. "That's why I challenged you guys to come down to the bullpen and give you each a minute to make me laugh."

They stared thoughtfully. Gould has sad dark eyes and a mobile face. Nye has bright blue eyes and a deadpan expression.

"You're easy," Gould said.

"We've been talking about five minutes and you've laughed five times."

"I have not."

"You have too," Nye said. "It was a sort of grin, but you won't print that because it'll make you sound like a grinning fool."

"A laugh is any time you show your teeth," said Gould.

"Mmm-mmm," I replied through tight lips. "Go ahead."

"No rush," said Gould. "Why don't you ask us some questions first, like is it easier to make men or women laugh?"

"Okay," I slumped lower in my chair. "Which is easier?"

"They're both the same," said Gould.

"Both the same," echoed Nye. "I slumped even lower and waved a hand wearily."

"Want to begin?" asked Nye. "Go ahead."

Leaping to his feet, he sprang man-made moon, the Vanguard satellite, is on view at the Hayden Planetarium in New York City.

audience, and began a staccato German speech. My imagination rioted. He was the Nazi functionary and I was lolling, weary dictator.

I laughed. "I told you," said Gould. "You're easy."

"Maybe for him. Not for you. Go ahead."

His face seemed to squish like foam rubber, his eyes expressed an extraordinary sadness, and he lisped about an imaginary Roy Smick. I wanted to laugh, but I didn't.

His expression changed. He thrust his face close to mine and said, "Charlie, you'll never know what lonesome is till you get to herding cows."

I laughed. Shrugging and spreading his hands eloquently, he sat back and studied me morosely.

"Look here," I said in some alarm. "That's not a funny line. Reduce that to print and say that I laughed at it and I'll sound like a terrible idiot."

"Well?" asked Sid Gould.

Pirates Dump ACC 6-3 To Take Lead In North State

Williams Hurls His 2nd Victory North Carolina To Play Here Saturday

WILSON—East Carolina grabbed full possession of the North State Conference baseball lead yesterday afternoon, dumping the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs here, 6-3. The victory was East Carolina's third consecutive North State win...

Coach Jack McComas used senior righthander Tom Norville against the Pirates to begin with and relieved him with Tommy Craft in the eighth. It was Norville's loss.

Thus, due to the dropping out of Elon since their defeat at the hands of Catawba, East Carolina has moved into sole possession of first place in the loop.

On Saturday night, the Pirates will meet perhaps their biggest test of the season when the University of North Carolina invades Guy Smith Stadium for an under-the-lights tilt.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The University of North Carolina is still considering a replacement for Frank A. (Buck) Freeman, who resigned as assistant basketball coach.

Clemson Takes First ACC Position; Duke Falls To North Carolina

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS North Carolina 2-1, Virginia 2-4, Maryland 1-4, South Carolina 1-6 and Wake Forest 0-2.

The standings will remain unshuffled today, the only game scheduled among ACC clubs calls for North Carolina against N.C. State in an exhibition at Parris Island, S.C.

Clemson now the only unbeaten club in ACC action, topped N.C. State yesterday with a 6-5 victory.

Thus the ACC—with several teams approaching the halfway season mark—stacks up under Clemson in this order: Defending ACC champ Duke 4-1, State 3-1.

Billy Key Is New Western Amateur Champ

By WHITNEY MARTIN DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (AP)—James "Billy" Key, who hasn't played any serious golf in four years, confining his activity to a pleasure round once a week, is the new Western Amateur golf champion.

The Columbus, Ga., bank vice president defeated specialist third class Mason Rudolph of Fort Chaffee, Ark., yesterday in the 36-hole finals of the tournament at the Country Club of Florida with a remarkable display of precision iron play and deadly putting.

Podres Evens Score Between Giants, Dodgers

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco's Giants and Los Angeles play the deciding game of their first Pacific Coast series today.

"I've never seen Podres pitch that well against us," Giants Manager Bill Rigney said.

Podres, who won two World Series games from the New York Yankees in 1955, set a personal strikeout mark, fanning 11 Giants.

The left-hander allowed the Giants just five singles.

Rookie third baseman Dick Gray and veteran outfielder Duke Snider sent the Dodgers winging with two-run homers in the only National League game scheduled.

Duke's traveled more than 400 feet and completely over the right field bleachers.

Field Complete For Colonial Tournament

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—J. C. Gossie, Dave Ragan and Bob Goalby were added today to complete the field of 48 golfers scheduled to play in the Colonial National Invitation Tournament here April 30-May 4.

Only one of the invitees was of doubtful status. Ed Furgol underwent an operation for an elbow injury at Durham, N.C., and may not be able to play golf again for two or three weeks.

Ragan, only 22, will be the youngest professional in the tournament. He was the fourteenth money winner on the winter tour.

Goalby won his first tournament last weekend when he triumphed at Greensboro. Gossie tied for sixth place in the Tijuana Open and won both the El Dorado Pro and the El Centro Open.

The golfers expected to play here include: Al Besselink, Julius Boros, Billy Casper, Jimmy Demaret, Dow Finsterwald, Jack Fleck, Doug Ford, Ed Furgol, Bob Goalby, J. C. Gossie, Jay Hebert, Lionel Hebert, Ben Hogan, Dick Mayer, Dick Metz, Cary Middlecoff, Byron Nelson, Ed Oliver, Arnold Palmer, Dave Ragan, Mike Souchak, Frank Stranahan, Ken Venturi, and Hillman Robbins Jr.

Detroit Tigers Getting A Fast Start Toward Title

By ED WILKS

The Detroit Tigers, long frustrated in American League pennant races by stumbling starts, had the makings of a souped-up Cleveland 9-4.

It was Frank Bolling, the second baseman Cleveland wanted but didn't get, who wrapped up a 5-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox yesterday.

A trade with Kansas City provided the payoff in Tuesday's 4-3 opening day victory at Chicago with Billy Martin, the big man in the big deal, getting the single that clinched it.

The Tigers hadn't won their first two since 1950—and that was the year they finished second.

Bolling, a 28-year-old Alabamian whose brother also is on the club, followed up his 2-for-4 day in the opener with 4-for-5 yesterday. He lined three consecutive singles off Dick Donovan before tagging the big right-hander for the home run. The "powerless" White Sox had two home runs—Bubba Phillips' first and Sherm Lollars' second of the season among 10 hits off six Tiger pitchers.

The Red Sox, who lost their first two, got rolling with Jensen's second homer in the first inning against Tom Sturdivant. Sisler, 6-2 lifetime against New York, then blanked the Yanks until Hank Bauer and Gil McDougald doubled in the fifth.

Belvoir Defeats Winterville 7-3

PALKLAND — The undefeated Belvoir-Falkland baseball team chalked up its fourth consecutive victory here Tuesday afternoon, dropping Winterville 7-3 in a conference contest.

The game was Belvoir-Falkland's third straight Pitt County Baseball Conference (Division 1) triumph. Their outside win was against Bethel, last week.

Sophomore lefthander Ernest Lewis was the winning B-F pitcher, striking out six men and allowing the losers only five hits.

Braxton hurried for Winterville. He also gave up five hits, and fanned four batters in the process.

James Joyner and Roy Smith paced the winners at the plate. Joyner tapped out two hits and Smith doubled. Richard Gorman collected two hits, including a triple, to lead the Winterville batters.

Boyd's Manager Talked Him Into Win Last Night

CHICAGO (AP)—"I just told him that he had better win or he would have to start way at the bottom of the ladder and would be fighting in Hoboken or somewhere."

It's Bernie Glickman speaking. He manages middleweight Bobby Boyd, 24. Bob took him seriously. The long-armed Chicago Negro, two years ago the No. 1 middleweight contender, unloaded a variety of punches and pounded away steadily to defeat Neal Rivers last night.

It was an impressive victory for Boyd, who is in trying to come back after being clubbed out in 1956 by Joe Giardello.

Rivers, ranked No. 8 by the NBA, had only one good round in the nationally televised bout in Chicago Stadium. The decision was about as lopsided as it could get. All officials favored Boyd by a wide margin.

Only 872 customers turned up at the ringside and the net gate was $800.

Rivers weighed 160½ and Boyd 160.

Old Bob Can Still Slug

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Pleasant-footed youngsters on the Kansas City Athletics are looking with new respect on a ruddy-faced veteran who doesn't fit the sveitir new look their club is modeling this year. Bob Cerv, a 200-pound outfielder, is not so fast on his feet, and he's weak on the throws that put down base runners, but his bat has driven in seven runs in two games.

Bob, 22, oldest regular in the A's youthful starting lineup, smashed a 400-foot home run and two doubles yesterday. He drove in five runs as the Athletics clobbered the Cleveland Indians 9-4. The A's, tied with the Detroit Tigers for the American League lead, have looked every inch the batting, running ball club Manager Harry Craft has promised for 1958. But even Craft didn't expect the run-making Cerv and his teammates to explode against supposedly strong Cleveland pitching.

UNC Coach Sees Rise Of Track Interest In Schools

By KEN ALYTA CHARLOTTE (AP)—Dale Ranson, veteran University of North Carolina track coach, has an important meet coming up at Chapel Hill Saturday against Maryland. But he's not too busy to take time out to get in a word for the schoolboy phase of the short pants sport.

Dale sees "indications that we will have a tremendous upsurge of interest in track and cross country in the high schools of North Carolina. The number of schools and individuals participating in track athletics should at least double this year," he adds.

Ranson predicts that "the quality of high school track athletes will definitely improve also. The increase in the number of boys competing will certainly include a percentage of highly talented boys."

Dale points to the achievements of such college standouts in the state as Dave Sims and Joel Shankle of Duke, Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College, Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem and his own Jim Beatty of Dave Scurlock as spurring interest among boys in high school.

Ranson concedes that no track, no coach, no interest on the part of the boys, no equipment and no meets have hindered development in the past among schoolboys. But he says, "These problems can be solved with fair speed and little trouble."

He points out that "John Landy of Australia did most of his training and much of his competing on the turf or grass. Dave Scurlock of Greensboro trained completely on the grass through school."

Ranson praised the efforts of the North Carolina High School Athletic Assn. to build track interest in the state. The association stages three sectional meets yearly and brings the high finishers to Chapel Hill for the state finals.

Ranson would raise the sectional events from three to six, bringing in boys from remote western and eastern sections who otherwise might not be able to compete due to the travel problem.

"There are 658 high schools in North Carolina and every one of these schools has at least one boy with speed enough for a dash man, a second with the unusual endurance of a distance runner," Ranson believes. He adds, "There must be at each school a third boy with the spring and co-ordination necessary to be a jumper and a fourth with the strength and agility to handle the weights. This number of boys could be a solid nucleus, or beginning, for a team in each school."

"Any school in North Carolina can start a modified track program on an ordinary playing field. I am confident that it will not be many years before the majority of schools in the state do so."

Ranson has prepared a detailed, two-page instructional outline for a track and field conditioning program for use by high school athletes. He welcomes requests for copies from coaches throughout the state.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Two years have passed since I waved "good-bye—and good shooting!" to Charles Perry Weimer and his six cameras as he headed Latin America way. Now, an estimated 75,000 pictures and 100,000 miles later, he has returned to Mt. Tabor, N.J., home. With 13 previous photographic expeditions to the countries of Central and South America to his credit since 1940, he has earned his unofficial title of "Photographic Ambassador of the Americas."

To click away that number of pictures required a considerable amount of film and I wondered how he could carry it all without damage. To my surprise, Weimer is the first seasoned traveler who advises against stocking up on all the film a tourist might need on a foreign trip.

"It is cheaper and better," he said, "to get fresh film in almost any large Latin American city as you need it, than to lug your total supply with you on your travels. This is especially true today with so many tourists traveling by air and with excess baggage charges so high."

"In earlier years, I had to depend on regular shipments of film from the States and the shipping costs were a considerable item. Nowadays, there is a plentiful supply of American film almost everywhere and the cost is about the same or sometimes even a bit less. That's because the import duty at the receiving end may be lower than the domestic taxes which have been eliminated."

South Americans have become photography conscious and are very friendly and cooperative with photographers, according to Weimer. However, the prices of imported good cameras are expensive.

according to native standards and therefore the number of native camera fans, found largely in the foreign residents of the cities, are in the consular or diplomatic service, deal in foreign trade or work in the press services.

Weimer used the air lanes for his long hauls in getting around South America and then traveled by every means of local locomotion, from mules to mountain monorails, to carry out his picture projects.

He charted each country or area, then systematically pictures its industry, agriculture, architecture, transportation and highway systems, people, and resorts. He shot in black and white, 16mm movies and in 35 mm, 2 1/4 X 2 1/4 and 4X5 color.

Wherever possible he secured advance contracts for his picture stories. In many cases, he took the pictures first, then aroused the interest, later, of civic and national organizations, business and industries and finally of various magazines.

A good many pictures were shot with a projected series of illustrated books on the 20 Latin American countries in mind.

Still others will make up a lecture program which Weimer is planning to further his efforts towards Pan-American friendship.

To most amateur photographers, travel photography sounds like one long, romantic vacation trip. Alas, "it's not so, warns tall, thin, soft-spoken Weimer as he tugs at his Dall-like mustache. His advice to those who "... have camera, will travel!" bears repetition:

"If you can shoot pictures with an instinctive feel for exposure and composition under all conditions ... if you like people and get along with all types under all conditions ... if you can put up with discomforts and face dangers ... if you have an iron stomach and an indestructible nervous system ... it's a great life."

Fallout Within Soviet May Be Cause Of Worry

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet leadership seems to be exhibiting anxiety over the extent of radioactive fallout within U.S.S.R. territory.

Reports of heavy fallout concentration appear to have seeped through to the Soviet public, and possibly the Kremlin feels resultant popular alarm might burgeon into panic. The Soviets thus may have felt themselves forced to call off their nuclear weapons tests.

A study of recent Soviet press statements concerning radioactivity indicates support for a recent report from Denmark that some sort of catastrophic accident had caused heavy fallout over the Soviet Union.

This report, noting that the Soviets recently barred foreign travelers from certain sections of the U.S.S.R., speculated that the Soviets wanted to prevent news of an atomic accident from getting out and spreading popular anxiety.

However, an accident may not have been responsible. The Soviets completed a series of nuclear weapon tests just in advance of their announcement of an intention to suspend testing. Since they scoffed at the idea of a "clean" nuclear bomb with little fallout, it seems unlikely they expended much effort in producing one, and thus it is likely they tested dirty weapons with heavy fallout.

Soviet Communists habitually try to make the best of a disadvantageous situation. Forced to give a nervous public at least a promise that tests on Soviet soil would cease, the Kremlin may have decided to take propaganda advantage of a move which could not be avoided. Thus, it challenged the United States to follow its example and announce a halt to all testing of nuclear weapons.

Autograph Wall Is Here To Stay

KINNELON, N.J. (AP)—The Oscar Porters never got around to papering their hall wall and now it's too late.

When the Porters moved in in 1955, Oscar, as a gag, wrote on the wall "we olde 1955 house. Visitors please register." They intended to paper the wall later. But when autographs of congressmen, senators, mayors and other friends who visited them accumulated, the Porters decided to leave the wall bare.

Population Rise Sees Slight Dip

WASHINGTON (AP)—The month-to-month increase in the nation's population was less in February than in any month in the past five years.

Census Bureau statisticians said today the February slump was caused by an increase in deaths because of respiratory ailments including the second wave of Asian flu.

Here's what the bureau figures happened to the civilian population in February:

For the first time since February 1953, the month-to-month gain did not top 200,000; the civilian population increased by 195,000 to a total of 170,562,000.

With the armed forces added, the estimated population on March 1 was 173,210,000, representing a February gain of 199,000. Here again the increase was at a five-year low.

The Census Bureau says its estimates could be off by a few thousand one way or the other.

It said there were 10,000 more deaths in February than in the same month a year ago, and 5,000 fewer births.

About 10,000 Hungarian refugees entered the country in February 1957.

Daylight Saving Time Will Dot The Nation April 27

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A crazy-quilt pattern of daylight saving time will dot the nation starting April 27. Some states will observe it; some not. Parts of other states will join in. Most of those that do go on "fast time" will end it Oct. 26; others on Sept. 28 and other dates.

Generally, the pattern is about the same as last year. All the New England states will observe daylight saving time from April 27 until Oct. 26, as will New York, New Jersey, most of Pennsylvania, Delaware and Washington, D.C.

Roughly 11,300 Americans Died In 1957 Fires

BOSTON (AP)—Fire took the lives of approximately 11,300 Americans in 1957, despite continuing campaigns for greater safety. Of these, some 6,400 were killed by fires in their homes.

This figure, reported by the National Fire Protection Assn., is described as an average death toll in recent years. The NFPA says this means slow progress in the effort for greater fire safety, the only improvement being the fact that the yearly average toll has not been increasing with the growth of population.

Such a gain, the NFPA says, is too slight to be satisfactory, or even encouraging. Reports reaching NFPA's fire record department thus far in 1958 carry no indication that this year will be any better than 1957.

Some 26 per cent of all persons killed were children under the age of 10. And 20 per cent were killed were persons over 70. In home fires, statistics indicate 65 per cent of all deaths are among children up to 14 years and persons of 65 or older.

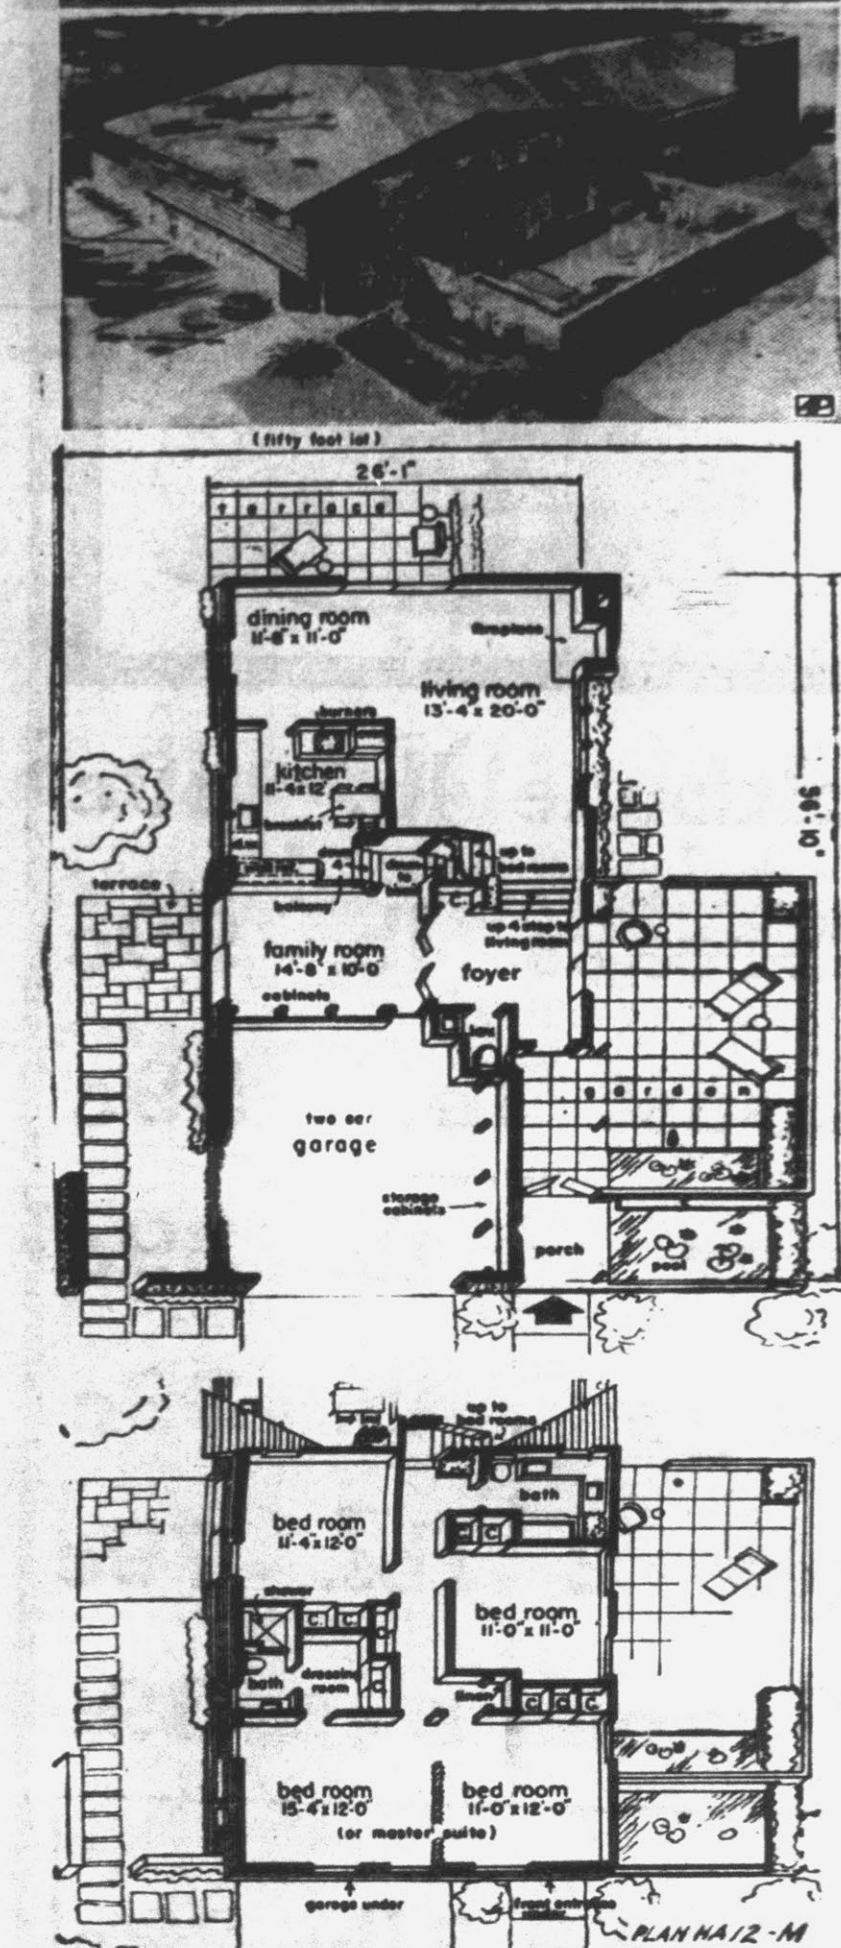

What are the principal causes of dwelling fires? The NFPA statistics are: smoking and matches—about 21 per cent; defective and overheated cooking and heating equipment, including oil stoves and space heaters, 14 per cent; defective and overheated electrical wiring and appliances, 13 per cent; rubbish ignited in various ways, 8 per cent.

The top causes of fire deaths in homes, however, take a different sequence, according to the association's engineers. They list defective and overheated equipment, with the oil stove as the worst offender, as the cause of 30 per cent of all fire deaths in homes.

Then, in order, other principal causes are smoking and matches, 11 per cent; misuse of flammable liquids—from paint to gasoline and cleaning agents—7 per cent; electricity—defective wiring and appliances—4 per cent; and poor house-keeping, accumulated rubbish, etc., 4 per cent.

Reminds Farmers Plant Within Acreage Allotment

RALEIGH — Every year, some farmers in North Carolina are greatly inconvenienced by having planted in excess of their allotment on one of the basic crops, H.D. Godfrey, Administrative Officer for the State ASC, issued a reminder today to all Tar Heel farmers that it is definitely their responsibility to plant within their acreage allotment.

Every year, a few farmers over the State, on having their acreages measured by ASC personnel, find that they have overplanted. Many of these farmers, according to Godfrey, pay additional money; out of their pocket to have a representative of the ASC County Committee witness disposition of the excess acreage. Other farmers make a deposit with the ASC Office to have officials revisit the farm and re-measure the acreage. In just about every case, this is an unnecessary drain on the farmer's pocketbook, and in every case, the time lost by these revisits to the farm is a great inconvenience to the farmer.

"That's just one of the reasons the farmer should remember that it is his responsibility to plant within his acreage allotment," Godfrey said. Another reason is that every time a farmer plants over his allotment, he is wasting seed or plants, fertilizer, and labor.

...ity, according to Godfrey, T. Department of Agriculture says this year is supporting the price of certain "discounted" tobacco varieties at one-half of the normal support rate. The responsibility for the identification of tobacco grown on a farm rests with the farmer, Godfrey explained. Every farmer will be required to sign a certificate to the effect that he has or has not planted one of the discounted varieties.

"ASC will take extensive steps to identify any tobacco of the discounted varieties that might be grown in this State. However, that does not alter the fact that the responsibility actually rests with the farmer growing the tobacco," Godfrey said.

Plans Set For Giant Solar Furnace Which Will Rival Heat Of The Sun

By STEVE LOWELL
ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — Construction is about to start on a massive mountain-top tool to see what intense heat does to materials which may go into a space ship.

Final design is about complete for this immense outdoor laboratory instrument which — using a principal familiar to every Boy Scout — will concentrate temperatures up to 8,000 degree Fahrenheit in a tiny circle five inches in diameter.

This temperature is 70 per cent as hot as the sun. It will be obtained by concentrating the sun's rays with a simple but giant-size system of optical mirrors. The price tag for the entire installation may run over 10 million dollars. The principle utilized is the same one employed by a boy who starts a campfire by using a magnifying glass to focus the sun's rays on a dry leaf.

Housing for the families of scientists and technicians who will man the mammoth is going up now. A start on the instrument itself is scheduled for late this spring.

"We hope to have it working the summer of 1959," says Dr. Knox Millsaps, chief scientist at the Air Force Missile Development Center.

"Unless the Russians have one," says Millsaps, "this will be three times as big as any solar furnace ever constructed." Another smaller one is being built for the Army Quartermaster Corps in Massachusetts.

"The main purpose of this one," Millsaps says, "is to provide a pure source of heat." Electric arcs and gas flames, conventional ways of obtaining heat, produce the high temperatures but the atmosphere around them is changed by burning oxygen.

Solar heat, which does not change structure of the surrounding atmosphere, is "pure" and thus duplicates more closely the conditions the metal skin and ribs of a space ship will be subjected to.

There will be three main parts in the massive solar furnace. One is a huge mirror measuring 154 by 145 feet — as tall as a 14-story building. The steel frame for this, called the heliostat, will weigh 2½ million pounds. The mirror will be mounted on a track so it can be turned to follow the sun.

A couple of city blocks away a giant frame holding a Venetian-blind type shutter will control the amount of light which reaches the third main part — a big saucer-shaped mirror mounted a short distance behind the shutter and in line with the first two parts.

By adjusting the shutter, Millsaps explains, it will be possible to regulate the amount of light reflected from the heliostat to the parabolic (saucer) mirror so that even the heat of a nuclear explosion can be simulated, from the time it starts building up to the time it does down.

The shutter also will act as a switch. Close it, and the path of sunlight from the heliostat to the parabolic mirror will be cut off.

The saucer shape of the parabolic mirror will concentrate the sunlight into a superhot patch five inches in diameter — the largest bit of sun-heat scientists will have been able to concentrate so far.

In that spot goes the piece of material to be tested.

Millsaps figures that sometime in the summer of 1959 people will be able to see the finished product. "It'll be a fascinating tool," he says. "I think it'll be one of the tourist attractions of the nation. A lot of work will be classified, but we will do our best to cooperate with the public."

Movie Producers Are Anxious To Hire Lana

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Would you hire Lana Turner for a movie?" This question was pure to a dozen producers this week at the Screen Producers Guild dinner. These are the men who make the casting decisions, who can make or break a star.

Their answer was unanimous: absolutely yes.

"I wouldn't hesitate to cast her in a picture if I had the right property," said Buddy Adler, production chief at 20th Century-Fox.

"I not only would cast her, I'm actively seeking her for 'The Sound and the Fury,'" said Jerry Wald, who produced Lana's current starring film, "Peyton Place."

He added: "We've had a spot check around the country of reactions by audiences watching 'Peyton Place.' The response has been warm and sympathetic."

Said David O. Selznick: "Certainly I would cast Lana if I had the right part for her. Church authorities have stated that they will not censure performers because of their private lives."

Producer-star John Wayne was vehement in his reply: "Sure, I'd hire her! If people don't stop picking on that poor girl, I'd star her in the green rushes." He referred to the uncut versions of a day's work in a studio.

Veteran Bryan Foy remarked: "Lana will be bigger than ever. The tide of public opinion is going in her direction."

William Thomas, a veteran expeller of films, had this realistic comment: "I'd like to have a small piece of her next picture. It'll be a smash. It's what you call a fresh attraction — people who haven't even seen a movie will go to watch her. After the first picture, her career will settle down to what it was before."

It is ironic that Lana's first picture after her daughter Cheryl's fatal stabbing by Johnny Stompanato will be the one on which she stands to profit the most. The film is "Another Time, Another Place," the first production by her own Lamturn Productions.

Paramount is releasing the film and is rushing it into the nation's theaters in the next few weeks.

Old Bolshevik Refuses To Fade Away; Begins Tour

By COLIN FROST
WARSAW (AP)—Marshal Klement Y. Voroshilov, Bolshevik comrade-in-arms of Stalin, has set out to demonstrate that at least one old soldier doesn't fade away.

Voroshilov, 77 on Feb. 4, has embarked on a rigorous speaking tour which will take him through Poland and Yugoslavia, and he is likely to show his hosts he still has a flair for high living and an eye for a trim feminine figure.

His trip apparently is part of a Kremlin attempt to straighten out its differences with Communist leaders abroad.

Voroshilov now has an honorary post. As chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) he occupies a position equivalent to figurehead president. He has no power in the Soviet Union, but he has proved beyond question that he has been agile. Throughout all the violent upheavals in the upper atmosphere of Soviet politics, he remained unscathed.

Voroshilov, his bulbous nose glistening with a rosette glow in testimony to his taste for high life, may well have won this trip as a reward for his faithful service to the new Soviet boss, Nikita S. Khrushchev. But the old marshal has been a faithful servant to all the bosses, from Stalin onward.

When Khrushchev appropriated the Soviet premiership last month, Voroshilov made the nominating speech. He left no cliché unturned in heaping praise upon the Communist party boss.

So it had been with Stalin. Voroshilov met him first in London, in the days of pre-Revolutionary conspiracy. He was Stalin's faithful shadow through upheavals and power struggles, and loyalty brought its reward. In 1935, he was raised to the newly created rank of marshal of the Red army. And though he lost his active command during the retreat from Moscow, he remained a Stalin adviser all through World War II.

After the war Voroshilov was sent to Hungary with the Allied Control Commission.

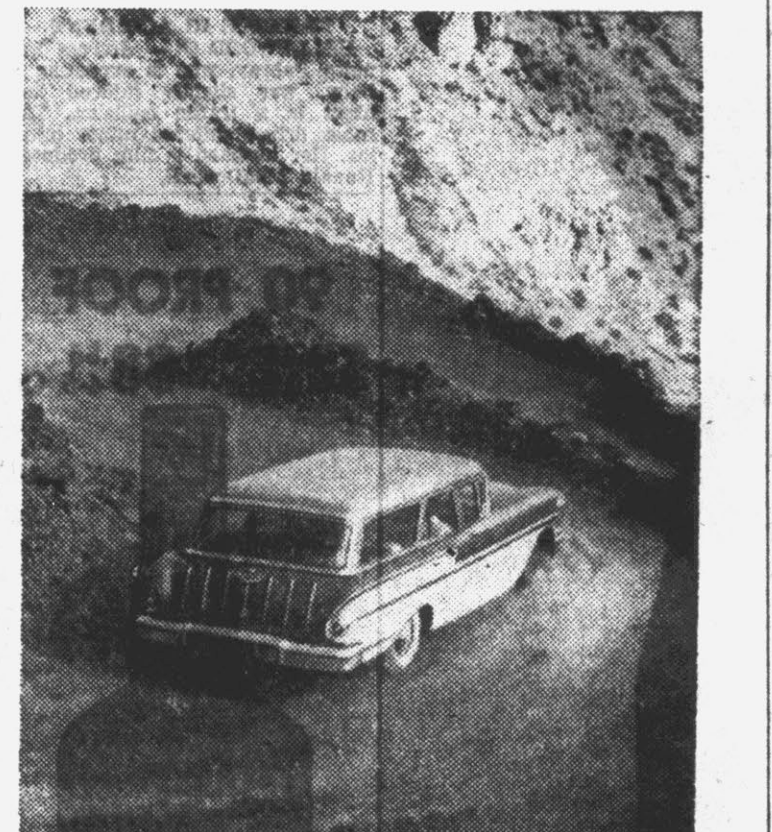

Voroshilov was born the son of a Czarist army soldier. At 7 he was working in a Ukrainian coal mine, according to his official Soviet biography, and at 10 he was a shepherd boy teaching himself to read. In the violent pre-Revolutionary days he was in and out of jail many times as a strike agitator. Nevertheless he managed to leave Russia twice to join Socialist congresses in London and Stockholm, where he met Lenin.

His Job Is Made Up Of Coffee Breaks

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Life is just one long coffee break for a group of workers here, but the boss doesn't mind. They're not loafing over their coffee cups — they're coffee tasters. While anybody can drink it, it takes a real talent to test it.

Lloyd Cummings, chief tester for a company here, says recruiting testers is a matter of trial. "We can ask a man if he wants to try. Then it takes a long time just to find out if he's going to be able to do it." It takes at least two years, Cummings said, before a tester feels confidence enough in his own judgment to attempt to classify a coffee.

The job is made harder because the testers have to master a private language necessary to describe the subtle differences in plantation lots. Regular English doesn't provide enough variations. Testers "cup" every lot of coffee coming into the building just before it goes into the blend of various types that make up the final product. They also spot check the production line.

Coffee is "cupped" by steeping a half a tumbler of ground coffee in boiling water for three minutes. This goes into cups on the rim of a giant lazy susan. The testers use spoons to sample each coded cup, taking a mouthful with a noisy gush of air to spray the liquid over taste buds. Then they spit it out in a king-sized spittoon. Swallowing would temporarily hurt the efficiency of their taste buds. The test is complete when all agree on classification of each cup.

Hunt Mother To Tell Her 2 Children Dead

BELMONT, N.C. (AP)—Relatives were still hunting today for a young mother whose last word to her children was four brightly colored Easter cards.

They have to tell her that two of the youngsters are dead—drowned yesterday in a muddy drainage ditch. One of the cards, decorated with drawings of a baby chick, read: "An Easter greeting from across the miles. Can't come to see you, can't hear your voice, too broke to call you, don't have much choice. . . Nothing to do except send this to say. Hope that your Easter will be a swell day. Love, Your Mother."

The cards were sent by 29-year-old Mrs. Betty Clinton Shephard, whose four children have been living with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Wesley, near the U.S. 29 bypass recently excavated for a new highway. The little girl was saved.

Their parents, Betty and Thomas Roy Shephard, are separated.

They left North Carolina several years ago. Mrs. Shephard last being reported in a small town near Harrisburg, Pa. The father was thought to be working for a power company in Las Vegas, Nev., a year ago.

The last time Mrs. Shephard visited the children was Mother's Day last year.

The tragedy unfolded as the three children left their 4-year-old brother Joe at the side of the ditch and walked in. The sight of the boy, standing horror-stricken and pointing mutely to the muddy water, attracted Leonard Tucker, driving a tractor along a road nearby. He found Alice and pulled her from the pond, which formed when mud clogged the outlet of the ditch.

She was rushed, unconscious but breathing to a Charlotte hospital. She was reported in good condition.

The lifeless bodies of Tommy and Charlie were found 25 to 30 minutes after they stepped into the water. Lifesaving crews worked over the limp forms with respirators, but did not save them.

Little Joe remained shocked, unable to give a coherent account of the tragedy.

Juniors Begin Plans For Annual Banquet

By ANNE HARRIS
The Juniors have begun actual plans for their Junior-Senior Banquet to be held in the high school gymnasium on Friday night, April 25.

Twenty BFHS students are planning to participate in the debate held in Greenville High School on April 28. The debating issue is: "Should Foreign Aid be Substantially Increased?" The participating students are: Affirmative—Barbara Parker and Ernest Lewis, Brooks Eastwood and Nellie Gwaltney, Jake Garris and Willie Wallace, Carolyn Harris and Roy Smith, Alvin Peaden and Billy Thomas; Negative—Brenda Windham and Linda Smith, Patricia Thomas and Nadine Garris, Bennie Tripp and Russel Harris, Jean Bland and Marston Cobb, Betty Harrell and Arthur Gwaltney.

Excitement is now aroused among the Seniors, for as they have completed the notecards and outlines for their source themes, they can more eagerly anticipate their class trip. They will leave for Washington, D.C. on Thursday morning, April 17, spend the night in the Capital City, and journey on to New York City, where they will spend three nights. They plan to arrive in Pitt County on Monday night, April 21.

Then on their return to class on Tuesday morning, they will face their final five weeks of high school work, among which will be the actual composing of source themes.

Several Belvoir-Falkland students went to Bath High School on last Friday night to participate in the Negro Minstrel sponsored by the Bath Ruritan Club.

After 72 Years, No Passengers

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the nation's oldest, is discontinuing its Baltimore to New York passenger service April 27.

The B&O has been running the trains for 72 years. The railroad said the six daily trains became too much of a financial burden because patronage had dropped 46 per cent since 1946.

Modern Age Vs. Nature's Glory

BALTIMORE (AP)—The morning after the northern lights lit up the evening sky, an elementary school teacher in suburban Rosedale asked the class if they had seen the Aurora Borealis.

One boy replied: "I don't know. What channel was it on?"

Methodist Rally Is Set In City Friday

An expected 400 Methodist young people and their adult workers will be in a rally at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Friday at 5 p.m. The annual spring rally of the New Bern District Methodist Youth Fellowship has as its theme "To Serve the Church in Such an Age." Discussion groups will concern various church vocations.

Godfrey Oakley, Jr., is president and Judith Ferris, secretary of the District MYF. Business session will include election and installation of new officers. Two Greenville youth are nominated for offices. Robert Taft is candidate for publicity chairmanship; Charles Taft is nominated for treasurer of the district. Presidential nominees are Glenn Tyndall of Kinston and Jack Wheatley of Beaufort.

Opening with a Wesley Hymn Sing in the Sanctuary, the Rally will continue with worship led by youth of Queen St. Church, Kinston. The Reverend Herman Winberry, chairman of the North Carolina Methodist Conference Commission on Christian Vocations, will speak.

After the fellowship supper in the Educational Building, consisting of picnic lunches to be brought by the delegates, the vocational interest groups will meet.

Reverend W. M. Howard, Jr., host pastor; Rev. Robert Eason of Ayden, and Rev. David Lewis of Stonefall, will lead those interested in the ministry. Dr. Lula Disoway, former medical missionary to Alaska, will lead the group discussing foreign missions. Miss Alta Nye, deaconess assigned to the Pembroke circuit, Pembroke, N.C., will discuss home missions opportunities.

Those interested in being Directors of Christian Education will be led by Miss Charity Holland of Queen Street Church, Kinston; and Miss Nancy Wike of Jarvis Memorial Church.

Miss Mamie Chandler, Wesley

Find No Single Cause Of Wrecks

OMAHA (AP)—A Strategic Air Command spokesman says no single cause for a recent series of B-47 medium bomber crashes has been found.

Capt. James Brady said investigations of the recent series of crashes are not complete and therefore no corrections have been recommended and "we see no reason to ground the B-47 now." Two B-47 crashes killed eight airmen.

MADE A DIFFERENCE

LYNDHURST, N.J. (AP)—Guy Pezzolla was sick the day of the New Jersey primary. He doesn't feel too well today, either. Mrs. Pezzolla was in the race for Republican committeewoman, but a heavy cold kept her husband from the polls. Mrs. Pezzolla lost—one vote.

First Apportionments Of Highway Money Due Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — First apportionments of federal funds to the states under the new highway construction bill are expected within the next few days.

A Bureau of Public Roads spokesman said, "We will cooperate with the states just as hard as we can to make this bill work." President Eisenhower signed the big measure yesterday — the last day on which he could act — but expressed "serious misgivings" about what he called serious defects in it.

Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress said the measure should give a substantial lift to the economy.

These are the two apportionments to the states which can be made immediately under the bill: 400 million dollars of extra federal money for fiscal 1959 for primary, secondary and urban road systems — often designated A-B-C roads. This would have to be matched by 200 million of state money but the states could borrow 115 million of their share from Washington. Projects must be under contract by Dec. 1 this year.

200 million dollars by extra U.S. grants for the interstate system of superhighways for fiscal 1959. This would have to be matched on the usual 90-10 basis.

These amounts are in addition to 875 million of A-B-C money and two billion of interstate grants apportioned to the states last year for fiscal 1959.

All the money can be spent at once; the states do not have to wait until the fiscal year begins.

CRUELTY OPINION

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actress Patricia Owens, 26, has divorced film writer-producer Sidney (Sy) Bartlett, 49, on testimony that: "He told me it was up to a woman to accept everything her husband said as gospel law and never question him." This amount of cruelty in the opinion of the court.

July 1. In addition, the bill makes possible these federal apportionments in July, instead of December as would otherwise be the case:

2½ billion dollars of interstate system money for fiscal 1960. Without the new law, only $1,600,000 would have been available.

900 million dollars by A-B-C funds for fiscal 1960. These would be matched on the usual 50-50 basis.

Eisenhower centered his criticism on the 400-million-dollar special A-B-C fund, particularly on the provisions which changed for it the long-standing 50-50 matching formula and which permitted the loans to states of part of their share.

The President said he would resist any attempt to repeat these provisions in the future.

Boys Club Nearly Last Of Male Strongholds

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) Women may wear overalls, drive trucks, throw the discs, operate jackhammers and steal their husbands' razors.

But never will girls violate the sanctity of one of the world's last great masculine strongholds, the San Pedro Boys' Club.

Club director Nick Trani was dredging around for a topic for the club's annual essay contest. He finally came up with this: "Should the boys' club allow girls to use club facilities?"

The 10-year-olds in the organization, stunned that such a question should even be brought up, put their feet down with indignant finality. Quotes from a few of their essays:

"No, because they take off their shoes and shoo (show) their toes."

"No But if they come in, let us have some nasal (national) guards . . . to defend ourselves." "No, I don't want girls because this is a man's club."

Director Trani's decision: A girl couldn't get into the San Pedro Boys' Club if she smoked a pipe, used snuff and wore a derby.

"No. Boys can't think with girls around."

"No. . . . The YWCA is for girls and that is where they should belong. If we boys tried to join the YWCA. . . . Do you think they would let us join? No?"

"No. They were shoes instead of tenashoes."

The unanimity began to fade with the 13-year-olds, one of whom acknowledged: "Yes Girls would make it popular. And also I like them."

But another wrote: "No There would be fights because of them buttin in."

The 15-year-olds, although heavily outnumbered, were about all snagged by nature's tender trap. Said one: "Yes You might be helping both boys and girls on their way to the Olympic Games."

And another: "Yes. I like girls and I think it would be more fun."

Director Trani's decision: A girl couldn't get into the San Pedro Boys' Club if she smoked a pipe, used snuff and wore a derby.

NEW YORK (N.Y.A.)—A strong rally by rails lifted an otherwise sluggish stock market slightly to the upside early this afternoon.

The carriers advanced as a group to around a point in brisk dealings.

The upturn by rails was ascribed to hopes that the administration will come up with definite measures to aid this troubled industry as well as to a large short interest in many rail stocks. Since short sellers have to buy stock later to repay borrowed shares they have sold in hope of a decline this provides a cushion under prices.

Some road building stocks were slightly higher following President Eisenhower's signing of the highway construction bill.

Lorillard was active and more than a point higher in the wake of an impressive earnings report. Coppers took some sharp losses. Oils were mildly lower, motors were mixed. Some steels showed improvement.

Buying was attracted to rails by news that a Senate Commerce subcommittee is working on major proposals to aid the financial state of the railroads, brokers said.

Youngstown Sheet was ahead more than a point on a few sales and U.S. Steel rose a fraction. Bethlehem was about unchanged.

Kennecott dropped more than a point in an uneasy copper group. Caterpillar and International Harvester gained fractions on prospects for better road building equipment sales.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 cents to $162.80 with the industrials down 40 cents, the rails up $1.60 and the utilities up 10 cents.

Pitt Livestock Programs Get Big Boost

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Staff Writer

Livestock programs conducted by Pitt County farm youths got their biggest boost yet at the eighth annual Pitt County Fair Stock Show and Sale this week.

The two-day event was completed Tuesday afternoon at the Pitt County Fair Grounds after buyers had paid a total of $12,228.01 for beef cattle and swine exhibited by Future Farmers of America, 4-H Club members and other county farmers. In addition to the sales money, nearly $500 in premium awards were distributed to participants for having high-grade animals.

Officials of the show and sale said this morning that programs Monday and Tuesday "were, by far, the most successful we have had." The two-day event included showing of steers Monday, showing of swine Tuesday morning, sale of all animals Tuesday afternoon, and a meat-cutting demonstration following the sale.

The meat-cutting demonstration, added after the show's original program was drawn, was conducted by Dr. John A. Christian of the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service. It was aimed at showing Pitt County farmers the types of hogs they must grow in order to command top prices, show officials said.

Examples of what can be done with high-quality hogs were shown in the sale of swine entries. The top hog in the show, a 185-pounder entered by Mrs. Christine Moyer, brought 70 cents per pound from Smithfield Packing Company, Joe Moyer Jr.'s reserve champion brought 37 cents a pound from Greenville Livestock Auction Sales.

In the beef cattle division, Griffith's Jerry Causey got top price of 43 cents per pound for his 1,050 pound Grand Champion Angus from W. Ivan Bissette of Grifton. Causey's Reserve Champion, an 890-pound Angus, brought 37 cents per pound from Reliable Seafood and Grocery of Winterville.

Other participants, price-per-pound and total bids for their entries, and buyers included: Lewis Haddock Jr., Grifton, 34 cents and $346.80 from Guaranty Bank and Trust Company; Marvin Wainwright, Winterville, 39½ cents and $316 from State Bank and Trust Company; J. D. Nobles, Ayden, 33½ cents and $304.55 from J. P. Sumrell; Jack Davenport, Winterville, 33½ cents and $329.18 from Greenville Packing Company.

J. H. Loftin, Winterville, 37 3/4 cents and $290.68 from Vincent Electric Company; Walter Heath, Ayden, 33 cents and $35.05 from New Bern Provision Company;

Phillip Joyner, Winterville, 33 1/4 cents and $310.89 from Greenville Stock Yards; John Vernelson, Stokes-Facolis, 36 cents and $292.60 from Health's Restaurant.

Donald Lee, Facolis, 33 cents and $323.40 from New Bern Provision Company; Bobby Pollard, Belvoir, 34 cents and $312.80 from Turnage Milling Company; Jack Davenport, Winterville, 34 cents and $323 from Greenville Fertilizer Company; Ralph Davenport, Winterville, 33 cents and $313.50 from Colonial Stores.

Kenneth Greene, Ayden, 28 1/4 cents and $204.81 from Duke Buick Company; Richard McLawhorn, Ayden, 31½ cents and $302.40 from Speight's Seed Farm; Alton Clark, Belvoir, 29 cents and $288.55 from B. N. Worthington; Ray Craft, Ayden, 30 1/4 cents and $269.23 from Speight's Seed Farm.

Billy Garris, Winterville, 34 cents and $277.10 from John Garris; Alton R. Clark, Belvoir, 29 cents and $274.05 from Pollard's Slaughter House; Russell Harris, Belvoir, 32 cents and $273.60 from Harold Forbes; Ralph Davenport, Winterville, 33 3/4 cents and $288.56 from A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company.

Fombe Ross, Winterville, 34 cents and $306 from Sutton's Service Center; James E. Mills, Choccoloc, 32 cents and $292.80 from Turnage Insurance Agency; Donald Lee, Facolis, 32 3/4 cents and $291.48 from W. Ivan Bissette;

Bernice Harris, 33 cents and $254.10 from Crawford's Yorkshire Farm.

Moye Waters, Winterville, 34½ cents and $286.35 from Winterville Machine Works; Billy Thomas, Belvoir, 34 cents and $278.80 from Greenville Livestock Auction Sales; Fred Wainwright, Winterville, 32 3/4 cents and $265.28 from Lancaster Stock Yards; and Jesse Braxton, Farmville, 30 cents and $192 from Greenville Livestock Auction Sales.

In the swine division, Joe Moyer Jr.'s Grand Champion pen of three hogs was bought for 29 cents per pound and a total of $151.20 by Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, New Bern Provision Company paid 26 cents per pound and a total of $156 for the Reserve Champion pen of three hogs, entered by McDonald Hardee.

A 28-head lot of Grade 1 hogs was sold to Greenville Livestock Auction Sales for 24½ cents per pound and a total of $1,381.80. The same company also bought a 23-head lot of Grade 2 hogs for 20 cents per pound and a total of $1,435.85.

Participants who received money from the awards and sales will deduct expenses of raising their animals from their proceeds, show officials said. The remainder is usually invested in new animals, they added.

Exhibitors receive all of the sales money, with the exception of one per cent withheld by the show.

Both Concerned For Girl Cheryl

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—"Lana and I have had one thought—where's Cheryl?" Steve Crane was speaking of his ex-wife Lana Turner and their 14-year-old daughter. The daughter has been held by juvenile authorities since her mother's boyfriend was fatally stabbed April 4.

Cheryl said she plunged a kitchen knife into Johnny Stompanato's stomach when the onetime gambler's bodyguard threatened to disfigure her mother.

The slaying of Stompanato was ruled a justifiable homicide by a coroner's jury. But Cheryl faces a closed hearing April 24 on whether she will be returned to her actress mother or placed in the custody of her father, in a foster home or the California Youth Authority.

"Lana and I met yesterday and discussed Cheryl," said Crane, second of the actress' four husbands. "We have no disagreement—we both want what is best for our daughter."

No decision has been made, he said, as to whom will seek custody.

Grand Lodge Of Masons Dedicate A New Building

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina Grand Lodge of Masons dedicated their new executive office building here yesterday, after electing James G. Johnston of Charlotte grand master.

The new building will house the nerve center of the fraternal order in the state. New officers will be installed later today in concluding rites in connection with accepting the new structure.

Johnston is the 105th man to become grand master of the lodge since 1787. He is an investment lawyer in Charlotte.

Other new officers of the grand lodge are W. El Hand of Wilmington, deputy grand master; Harvey W. Smith of Beaufort, senior grand warden; Lester H. Gillikin Jr., of New Bern, junior grand warden; Herbert M. Foy of Mt. Airy, grand treasurer; and Wilbur L. McIver of Raleigh, grand secretary.

Rate Hike Foes Set 2 Meetings

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Two meetings have been set for April 24 for communities opposing new rate increases proposed by the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co.

One meeting will be held in Fayetteville at 10 a.m. The other will be at Greenville at 3:30 p.m. Robert I. Powell, mayor of Clinton and chairman of the "East Carolina Phone Fight Committee," said the meetings were called so all participating governmental units can be advised of what is being done in the general opposition to Carolina's proposed rate increase totaling more than two million dollars.

Trio Arrested By City Police

Three young men were arrested early this morning by city police on charges of registering under assumed names.

The trio was picked up in a parking lot across Dickinson Avenue from the New Greenville Hotel. According to Captain H. E. Wooten they had been under surveillance for several days.

Capt. Wooten identified the three as: Bobby Wayne Boykin, 24, of Sims Rt. 1; Charlie Bryant High, 22, of Sims Rt. 1; and Bobby Ray Boykin, 22, also of Sims Rt. 1. Bobby Ray Boykin is also being held for Wilson County authorities for several traffic violations and will be turned over to the State Highway Patrol following his trial here in City Court tomorrow. Arresting officers have set a $50 bond each for the other two defendants.

Big Three Await Kremlin's Reply

MOSCOW (AP)—The Western Big Three's ambassadors to Moscow awaited word from the Kremlin today on whether it would begin talks with them on possibilities for agreement at a summit conference.

The envoys of the United States, Britain and France left the next move up to the Soviets. They had no plans to call at Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's office or take other steps toward the summit unless the Kremlin asked them to.

The Western allies accepted the Soviet proposal of April 11 for a low-level meeting—but only if their ambassadors could take up major issues and explore them fully. The Soviets proposed that the talks start today.

The Soviet idea was to confine the lower-level diplomatic exchanges to deciding on the date and place of a summit meeting. This would commit the West to a top-level meeting before it could find out whether such a conference had any chance of resolving East-West tensions.

As the identical 500-word notes from the Big Three put it, the West wants to see if there is a reasonable prospect of achieving concrete results.

They said the place to determine that was at the ambassadorial level, not amid the propaganda hurly-burly of a gathering of government chiefs.

The West also suggested that lower-level discussions might produce agreement more readily than the Kremlin's perennial barrage of published letters to President Eisenhower and heads of government all around the world.

The Soviets have claimed the Western insistence on preliminary talks was nothing more than evasion and called for a summit conference as soon as possible.

Hold Pre-School Clinic Friday

The pre-school clinic for children who will enter the first grade next year will be held at Third St. School Friday afternoon at 1:15.

It is important for parents to bring birth certificates and immunization certificates. If a child has already had his health examination and vaccination it is not necessary for him to come through the clinic.

However it is important for him to get his name on the pre-school list.

Eppes Glee Club Concert Friday

The Glee Club and Band of C. M. Eppes High School will render their Annual Spring Concert in the Eppes Auditorium Friday, April 18, at 8 p.m.

Under the direction of Mrs. S. L. Davenport, the Glee Club will have a variety of groups such as: Large and Small Mixed Group, Boys' and Girls' Glee Club, Boys' Ensemble, Girls' Quartet, and Solos.

New Landing Reported By Indonesian Marines

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Marines from Java landed on the west coast of Sumatra today in the Jakarta government's promised major bid to smash the two-month-old rebellion against President Sukarno.

Premier Djuanda said the invaders met little initial resistance. The navy said the amphibious invasion began at dawn, reportedly at the Indian Ocean beach of Tiku. It is 35 miles west of the rebel mountain capital of Bukittinggi and 30 miles up the coast from the port of Padang. They are the last major centers held by the Sumatran rebels.

The landing of two companies of Marine commandos went "according to plan and was highly successful," the navy said. A spokesman predicted that the rebellion would be crushed within a week.

Three columns of Jakarta ground forces were converging on Bukittinggi from the northwest, east and southeast. About a dozen important rebel administrative officers left the capital but Premier Djardrudin and his insurgent Cabinet remained there.

It was uncertain whether the rebels would now risk their first major battle with the Jakarta forces after falling back before their land drives. There seems to have been a determined effort to avoid shooting clashes which might prevent formulation of a political settlement later.

Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio said in Tokyo not more than 110 persons had been killed so far in the two-month-old civil war.

Rebel army intelligence estimated as many as 6,000 troops were in three merchantmen and numerous small tramp steamers waiting off Padang and behind nearby islands before the invasion.

Meanwhile, Sukarno's army claimed the recapture of four towns in the North Celebes from rebels who support the Bukittinggi government. The towns are near Donggala, a port retaken earlier this month, the army said, and now give it control of the narrow neck of land leading to the rebel area in North Celebes.

Jakarta's military campaign to crush the Sumatra rebellion began in earnest five weeks ago.
