

Gromyko Raps Flights Of Bombers In Polar Regions

U. S. Quick To Deny Red Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) - The White House today put a "not true" brand on a Soviet charge that the United States sent planes armed with atomic and H-bombs across the polar area toward the Soviet Union.

The charge was made by Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at a Moscow news conference. Gromyko said the Kremlin was sending a protest to the United Nations Security Council to what he called provocative flights.

"Mr. Gromyko's statements are not true," White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said in reply to newsmen's inquiries.

Hagerty added that a more complete statement would be made by the State Department later in the day.

President Eisenhower, informed of the Gromyko charge, discussed the matter with Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles and Undersecretary of State Christian Herter.

Castro's Aides Believed Holding Strategy Study

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) - Top lieutenants of rebel leader Fidel Castro were believed gathering in the Sierra Maestra today to reassess failures in their campaign to overthrow President Fulgencio Batista.

A rebel radio broadcast from Castro's mountain headquarters in eastern Cuba said leaders would be changed in areas where sabotage and armed uprisings failed last week.

Castro called the meeting to plan ways of avoiding future bungling. He angrily ordered the execution of any of his six provincial command leaders who failed to attend the meeting, the broadcast said.

It hinted that Castro has sided with 12 officers in his Havana command against Havana rebel boss Faustino Perez. The 12 accused Perez of fumbling which enabled Batista's troops to crush an attempted general strike and armed uprising in Havana April 9.

MOSCOW (AP) - Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today accused the United States of sending planes armed with atomic and hydrogen bombs across the polar region toward the Soviet Union. He announced a protest against these "provocative flights" was being sent to the U.N. Security Council.

Gromyko told a news conference such flights were "unheard of in times of peace" and that the Kremlin demands their immediate cessation. He said they carry the danger of worldwide atomic war.

If the United States is trying to intimidate the Soviet Union with these flights, he said, it is wasting its time.

"The Soviet Union has sufficiently strong nerves, and its armed forces can if necessary deliver a crushing retaliatory blow to any aggressor," he added.

Gromyko expressed the "profound indignation" of the Soviet government that such flights were being launched at a time when the Big Four powers were finally entering diplomatic talks aimed at convening a summit conference.

He said he had not brought up the Kremlin protest at meetings of the three Western ambassadors summoned to the Foreign Ministry in the past 24 hours to discuss a summit conference.

French Ambassador Maurice Dejean had said earlier the talks with Gromyko were "preliminary in nature."

Gromyko met the ambassadors individually, seating Lewellyn Thompson of the United States yesterday and Sir Patrick Reilly of Britain and Dejean this morning.

"I cannot say negotiations have actually started," the Frenchman told reporters.

Gromyko told his news conference the Soviet Union could not accept the position of the Western powers for diplomatic talks as presented in a three-power note Wednesday.

This indicated the Kremlin is standing pat on its position that talks on a diplomatic level should be limited to setting the time and place and composition of a foreign ministers' meeting preliminary to a summit meeting. The Western powers want to discuss East-West problems at the diplomatic level.

Gromyko said the Soviet government feels that talks on a diplomatic level could drag on for months or even years and that the Soviet government wants a summit meeting as early as possible.

Gromyko's individual interviews followed agreement by the Western Big Three to open presummit talks. But the Western Allies rejected the Soviet stipulation that Gromyko and the three ambassadors confer themselves to arranging a foreign ministers' conference which in turn would be restricted to deciding the date, place, participants and agenda for a meeting of government heads.

Instead, the West insisted that the lower-level talks must begin an exploration of the points of conflict between the Communists and the West to determine on what issues if any an agreement may be reached. The West contends that any agreement going to require long, unpublicized negotiations, and nothing can be accomplished in a brief, floodlit turn by top leaders.

Thompson after his 35-minute meeting with Gromyko refused to tell reporters whether the Russian had agreed to expand the preliminary talks to include the basic issues.

L'Humanite, the French Communist party paper, indicated that the Soviets so far were not retreating.

"If it is left to the U.S.S.R.," L'Humanite's Moscow correspondent reported, "these talks should rapidly determine the date, place and participants of a meeting of foreign ministers which could assure without vain delay all conditions of a summit conference."

Beneath soggy, dripping flags the biggest crowds flocked to four places during the morning and early afternoon:

The 334-foot-high atomium - a fantastic looking structure that represents an iron crystal magnified 150 billion times. Through its connecting metal tubes runs an elevator and escalators.

The Vatican's exhibit. The American and Russian pavilions.

The Americans continued to draw more people than the Russians. Thirty minutes after the morning's opening an unofficial check showed an average of 30 persons entering the Soviet exhibit every minute against 80 at the U.S. show.

By early afternoon the Russians were pulling in the crowds at nearly 100 a minute. Across the road, at the American pavilion, the count was about 150 per minute.

Not to be outdone by the pretty hostesses and smiling young hosts at the United States show, the Russians this morning introduced sex into their exhibit.

To match the 210 American guides, the Russians presented a group of young men and women wearing powder blue uniforms to mingle with the guests, discuss

TOO NERVOUS PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) - A distraught woman told the drivers license inspector she was sorry, but she was too nervous to go through with her scheduled license test. She pointed toward the window. Seems that in driving into a parking space, her car had jumped the curb and flattened a parking meter.

"I think if we can get him fitted he could win up in Raleigh even though it's a rough show," Moyer notes. "A boar has to be right to win up there."

Started in 1946 Moyer started in the hog breeding business in 1946 when he returned from the service. His main breed has been the Duroc and he now has about 40 Duroc sows.

He owns another boar which was named grand champion at the State Fair last year.

For best results in hog breeding he recommends cross breeding with the best boars available and preferably a registered meat sow.

"To make money you've got to cross breed," he says. The certification program is "the first big advancement in pig raising," he declares.

Last Rites Today For N. C. Senator

BURLINGTON, N. C. (AP) - W. Kerr Scott, slow-talking, tobacco-chewing North Carolina senator who was the strong champion of rural people, was to be buried near here today with ceremonies attended by his high-ranking government colleagues and his beloved "branchhead boys."

The colorful Democrat, who suffered a heart attack last week, died in a hospital here Wednesday, the day before his 62nd birthday.

Always a hearty eater, he had vowed a few hours before his unexpected death to celebrate his anniversary with ice cream and a chunk of a non-fat birthday cake prepared by his staff.

The cake remained today, along with a sheaf of medical bulletins, as testimony to the expectations Scott's doctors and associates had on him. He had come out from the oxygen tent early in the week and doctors said that if he continued to improve, he probably could run for re-election in 1962.

Gov. Luther Hodges, who has indicated he will wait until next week to consider appointment of a successor to Scott, led the North Carolina delegation to the funeral. Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., the state's senior senator, and wife were among the many Senate colleagues who planned to fly from Washington for the funeral.

The Rev. Selph Buchanan, pastor of Hawfields Presbyterian Church near here, was to conduct the (3 p.m.) funeral services, assisted by a former pastor, the Rev. Russell Fleming.

Many other state officials planned to attend, and these North Carolina representatives: Graham Barden, Hugh Alexander, Paul Kitchin and wife, Harold D. Cool.

TOOK 32 YEARS TO MAKE CHOICE LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - In 1926 Mrs. Grace Faulkner ordered a pattern through the Louisville Courier-Journal. She got a card back saying her pattern wasn't in stock. It told her to pick another, and she'd get it free.

Today's Courier-Journal announced Mrs. Faulkner finally found the pattern she liked. It's been sent to her.

Seven new candidates for minor county offices were announced today as time moved within 24 hours of the deadline for filing for the May 31 Democratic Primary and the November general elections.

Chairman D. S. Spain Jr. of the Pitt County Board of Elections said the new candidates and offices which they are seeking are J. P. Stancill, constable of Falk Township; Luby Cox, constable of Ayden Township; Frank Harrington, Justice of the Peace of Greenville; R. D. Whitehurst, Justice of the Peace of Pactivus; James LeRoy Owens, constable of Fountain Township; F. C. Owens, Justice of the Peace of Fountain; and Frank Peardon, constable of Falkland Township.

Deadline for filing for all candidates will be noon tomorrow, Spain said. He will be in the Pitt County Court House from 9 a.m. until noon tomorrow to accept filing fees.

Treason Charges Are Dismissed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The treason indictment against poet Ezra Pound, 72, was dismissed today, opening the way for his early release from a mental institution.

The bearded Pound has been confined to St. Elizabeth's Hospital since 1946.

The treason charge was based on pro-Axis, anti-American broadcasts made by Pound from Italy during World War II.

The indictment was missed by Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws in U.S. District Court when the government, in effect, joined in a motion asking this action.

Pound sat among spectators during the brief court proceedings. Mrs. Pound, a gray-haired woman who has been a frequent visitor at the hospital in the years her husband has been confined there, sat at the counsel table.

Pound wore a threadbare blue striped coat, unmatching blue slacks, and a light sport shirt open at the throat with the tails sticking out from his trousers.

Both Pound and his wife declined to talk with reporters. But Thurmond Arnold, an attorney who spoke for Pound, said Mrs. Pound plans to take her husband to Italy. Pound had lived in Italy 21 years before he was seized by American troops in 1945.

Scholarships For ECC School Of Nursing Set Up

Two $500 scholarships for a proposed School of Nursing at East Carolina College have been established by the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society.

The scholarships will become effective when the school is authorized by the North Carolina General Assembly, according to Dr. A. M. Mumford of Winterville, president of the medical and dental society. They were established, he said, as evidence of local interest in the proposed school.

In addition to the local scholarships, medical societies in other Eastern North Carolina counties will be asked to set up similar awards in support of the school. Advocates of the School of Nursing have pointed out that it would serve all of Eastern North Carolina.

Action by the Pitt County group came after a request from Representative Walter B. Jones of Farmville for local support of the proposal. Jones introduced a bill in the 1957 General Assembly calling for funds to establish the school, but it was not passed.

In announcing the scholarships today, Dr. Mumford said, "In the late 1940's, license requirements for registered nurses were increased to the extent that many of the small hospitals lost their schools. This trend has worked a terrific handicap on affected hospitals. The result has been a centralization of registered nurses in areas close to the nursing schools which are located in large hospitals at universities and medical centers. Students leaving here to attend schools elsewhere seldom return to give us benefit of their training. "A nursing school in Greenville would certainly give us additional needed registered nurses in Eastern North Carolina."

14-Year-Old Has Built His Robot

NEW YORK (AP) - It walks, it talks, it blinks its eyes, it does arithmetic problems. It's an electronic robot and it was built by Donald S. Rich, aged 14. The robot, which stands six feet tall and cost about $1,000, was shown yesterday at the second annual Gadget Show. Donald didn't have all the cash needed to construct the creature, so he persuaded industrial firms to donate the transistors and other electronic components. Donald put it together in the living room at home. The robot can move forward or backward 40 feet, turn its head and blink electrically lighted eyes. A tape recording inside gives a little speech explaining its functions, which include solving simple number problems.

Nickel Beer Is Due Ike's Advice

NEW YORK (AP) - Tavern owner Lewis T. Gill has a head start on everybody in following President Eisenhower's advice to cut prices and encourage more people to buy. In addition, he offered whisky for a quarter and a cheese and slami sandwich for a dime. There's a sign in his place reading "The President says buy. Large beer, 5 cents, 1915 prices." Dirksen Expects Ike Will Win In Defense Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) said today he foresees ultimate victory for a reorganization of the Defense Department along the lines urged by President Eisenhower.

Dirksen, assistant GOP Senate leader, said he is "quite sympathetic to the whole thing," especially in the light of explanations he and other leaders have received at White House briefings.

Eisenhower opened his fight for the program with a nationally televised address before a meeting a meeting here of newspaper editors. He received a prompt pledge of vigorous support from 24 of the Senate's 47 Republican members.

The plan also won limited endorsement from the Army Assn., the membership of which includes active, retired and reserve Army officers. The Air Force Assn. previously had endorsed the plan, but the Navy League, a civilian group, has criticized it.

Dirksen was not listed as among those joining in the senatorial statement, nor were the other top Republican leaders in the Senate - Knowland of California, Bridges of New Hampshire and Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

However, Dirksen told a reporter he had not been asked to sign it. The other three were not reached for comment, but Bridges has criticized some of the plan's provisions.

The statement of the 24 senators applauded "the fighting action of President Eisenhower in presenting a plan designed to provide this nation with an effective, competent defense structure."

It described Eisenhower as "by all odds, the best qualified man in America to reorganize the Department of Defense" and urged that the legislation be given the highest priority.

Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has called the President's plan a move toward setting up a "Prussian-type supreme high command."

Report 67,423 Jobless In N. C.

WASHINGTON (AP) - North Carolina had 67,423 unemployed workers in the week ended March 29, say Commerce and Labor department reports.

The figures show 7.8 per cent of workers covered by unemployment insurance in North Carolina were idle.

Over the nation, government data showed highest rates of unemployment in Maine and Michigan, each about 14 per cent. Next with 13 per cent were West Virginia, Kentucky and Montana.

Construction was the most severely hit of all industries; one in five of its workers was idle in March. But improving weather apparently caused a pickup in construction employment in April.

John Ray Hardy Elected New President Of Jaycees

WHICHARD, HARDY, TAYLOR . . . Hardy is named new Jaycee president.

John Ray Hardy last night was elected new president of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He will succeed Bill Taylor. Hardy won the office over the other candidate for the office Bob Russ.

The new president, along with other officers elected last night will be officially installed at inauguration ceremonies May 15.

Jaycees also elected Graham Quinn as first vice-president at last night's meeting. Brooks Beddingfield was named second vice-president; John Farley, secretary; Jimmy Rayford, treasurer and Bob Lee, state director.

Five club directors were elected for two-year terms. The new directors are: John Drake, Stuart Shinn, Billy Woolford, Knott Proctor and John Blankenship.

Chairman of the Elections committee Dave Whichard presided over last night's election. Owens First Certified Duroc Boar In State

MOYE WITH REGISTERED MEAT SIRE . . . first Duroc boar to be certified in North Carolina.

FARMVILLE - The first Duroc boar in North Carolina to meet National Breed Association meat sire certification requirements is owned by Joe Moyer, Jr., of Rt. 2 Farmville.

The animal, Moyer Southern Leader, was announced as having met Production Registry requirements this month.

To be certified a boar must produce four certified pig litters. Moyer's Duroc, in his first pig crop sired seven fall litters which met all the requirements for certification this winter.

Included among the litters was the pig which won the grand champion award at the Fat Stock Show and Sale in Greenville last week.

Also another pig sired by Moyer Southern Leader was the champion pig in the adult show at Rocky Mount. The reserve champion of that show was also sired by the certified boar.

In addition to being the first Duroc Boar to be certified in North Carolina, Moyer Southern Leader is only the 15th Duroc to be certified in the United States and the first boar of any breed to receive certification in Pitt County.

Moyer Southern leader was bred in Minnesota and farrowed on Sept. 1, 1956 from a litter of 11 farrowed and nine raised.

The animal was first fall boar at the North Carolina State Fair last year. The boar, which is now a year and a half old, was purchased by Moyer when it was five months old.

Moyer says he plans to show the boar again at the State Fair this year.

Tryon's Palace To Be Luncheon Topic

The artistic aspects of furniture, architecture, landscape, and paintings at Tryon's Palace, New Bern, will be discussed by Miss Gertrude S. Carraway at the Fine Arts Festival Luncheon April 26 at 12:30 p.m. in the North Dining Hall, college campus.

A native and lifelong resident of New Bern, Miss Carraway will also show pictures of the paintings and furnishings of the palace at this luncheon which is being held in observance of the Community Fine Arts Festival which is celebrating its 23rd session this year.

Robert Lee Humber, president of the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, will introduce the guest speaker.

For the past 16 years Miss Carraway has been a member of the Executive Board of the State Department of Archives and History. From its establishment in 1945 until November, 1956, she was a member and secretary of the Tryon's Palace Commission to restore Tryon's Palace, which was the first State Capitol of North Carolina.

Tips On Growing Azaleas, Camellias Told Clubbers

Specific tips on foundation plants and the best places to plant azaleas and camellias were pointed out by Sam Winchester who presented a slide illustrated talk for the Lakewood Pines Garden Club Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. F. F. Hendrix.

Winchester recommended for the most outstanding azalea displays in the garden to use color mass groupings. He concluded his talk by reviewing the plant diseases, proper mode of fertilizing, and some special precautions to take in growing both azaleas and camellias.

The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. T. H. Henderson. Mrs. William Wright, president, reviewed all the favorable comments on the Standard Flower Show held in March and thanked Mrs. R. P. Heller, Mrs. F. F. Hendrix and Mrs. G. R. Trammell for their special contributions in serving as various chairmen.

During the program Mrs. R. C. Forney showed color slides of the Flower Show which were taken by T. E. Jones of Lakewood Pines and contributed to the club. Each of the arrangements was reviewed as to the judges' commentaries and what improvements could have been made.

Mrs. Hendrix's home was decorated with Spring flowers. Members and guests were invited into the dining room on arrival where refreshments were served.

Dress Revue, Health Contest To Be Monday

The annual County 4-H Health Coronation and Dress Revue will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. at West Greenville School. A talent show will also be a part of the program.

Larry Duda, president of the 4-H County Council, will preside. Over 75 4-H members will appear in some part of the program. Girls entering the Dress Revue must arrive by 6:30 p.m. so judging may be completed on their garments.

All 4-H members, parents and interested friends are invited to attend.

Miss Julia Fisher of the Pitt Health Department will crown the County Health Kings and Queens. Miss Shirley Buchan and Miss Nancy Willis will judge the dress revue.

Lawyer Tells Junior Women About Wills

M. E. Cavendish, lawyer, spoke to the Junior Woman's Club Wednesday night on "The Importance of Making a Will," which was geared especially for young married couples.

"Any young couple, for protection, should have a will," he said. This statement was explained by numerous examples on the method and direction of property without a will set up in the Statutes of North Carolina.

Cavendish described the three methods of voiding one. A question and answer period was held.

At a short business meeting, the club voted to send a Girl Scout to Camp Hardee for two weeks this summer. Members also voted to send a donation to the Mental Health Drive.

At 6 p.m. April 24 the Junior Woman's Club Peanut Brittle Sale will begin. The entire city will be canvassed by members of the Junior Woman's Club and the Circle K Club of East Carolina College.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. C. T. Fleming Jr. and Mrs. William McDonald.

Mrs. Conley Speaks To Club

Mrs. D. H. Conley spoke to the Aries Book Club when it met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. W. Z. Morton Jr.

Inspirational poetry was the topic for her talk. She said, "Inspirational means anything that stimulates good ideas, thoughts, deeds, and emotions."

The purpose of her program was to recall memories and reflections. Some of the poems recited were William Ernest Henley's "Invictus" and Kipling's "If."

Mrs. Ed Parkinson began the program with a report on an editorial from a colored newspaper published in New Jersey.

The editor felt that the Supreme Court ruling on integration has caused the Negro to lose more than they gained in the way of progress.

After refreshments, books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

30 Local Persons Plan To Be At BSU Conference In Greensboro

Approximately 30 council members and other interested persons of the Baptist Student Union of East Carolina College will attend the annual Spring Leadership Training Conference of the Baptist Student Union of North Carolina during April 18-20 at the College Park Baptist Church of Greensboro.

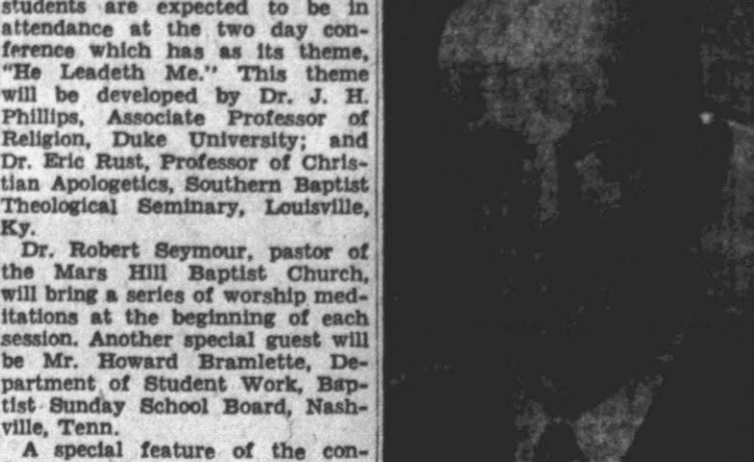

About 400 college and university students are expected to be in attendance at the two day conference which has as its theme, "He Leadeth Me." This theme will be developed by Dr. J. H. Phillips, Associate Professor of Religion, Duke University; and Dr. Eric Rust, Professor of Christian Apologetics, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.

Dr. Robert Seymour, pastor of the Mars Hill Baptist Church, will bring a series of worship meditations at the beginning of each session. Another special guest will be Mr. Howard Bramlette, Department of Student Work, Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn.

A special feature of the conference will be the "Workshop Groups," planned for the purpose of training the local campus officers and committee chairmen for their particular tasks and responsibilities for the coming year. An address on the "Art of Leadership" will conclude this feature of the conference.

The 45 voice BSU State Choir, composed of students from the various colleges and universities of the state, will be under the direction of Ivey Heath, from the University of North Carolina, and will perform at three of the Convention sessions.

An election of the State BSU officers will be held on Saturday afternoon, followed by an installation.

Men, Women's Fashions To Be Shown April 25

On April 25 at 8 p.m. in McGinnis Auditorium, college campus, the Credit Women's Breakfast Club will sponsor a Summer Fashion Festival, with fashions for both men and women to be shown.

As an added attraction, a host of local artists will perform during the show.

A few of these will be: four acts from Marie's School of Dancing; Rosalie Dalton, tap dancer, ECC; Jean Winstead, soloist, ECC; Tommy Harris, pianist and soloist, Belvoir; Elbert Bennett, soloist, Greenville; and Barbara Griffin, pianist, ECC.

Narrator for the fashion show will be J. D. "Dixie" McLawhon.

Proceeds from this event will be used for the ECC Scholarship Fund which is sponsored by the Credit Women's Breakfast Club for college students.

The 16 Greenville merchants who will participate in this show are: Belk-Tyler Co., Blount-Harvey Co., Brody's, Coffman's, College Shop, Glamour Shop, Grant's, Jane's Shop, J. C. Penney's, Perkins-Proctor, Punch and Judy, Stelen's, Steinbeck's, Three Sisters, and Worsley's.

Door prizes will also be distributed during the evening.

End Of Century Club Meets For Lunch, Hears Mrs. Folger

A luncheon was served to members of the End of the Century Book Club by Mrs. R. M. Garrett and Mrs. Lee Folger at the home of Mrs. Garrett prior to the meeting and program Tuesday.

Flowering fruit blossoms decorated the home throughout.

The president, Mrs. M. K. Blount, presided over a business meeting following the luncheon.

Mrs. Lee Folger, giving the program, told of the historical background of Nantucket and laid special emphasis on the whaling industry which had made Nantucket one of the richest parts of the United States.

"The rich store of treasures gathered from all over the world makes the museums on the Island some of the most fascinating places to visit," she pointed out.

Mrs. Folger said, "The homes of the wealthy whaling captains are some of the most beautiful in the United States and are for the most part in the possession of members of the old whaling families."

"Nantucket, the Indian word for 'Far Away Island,' remains one of the most picturesque spots in America," added the speaker.

Mrs. Nobles Assists In HD Program

When Mrs. Howard Briley and Mrs. Marion Nobles were hostesses to the Sweet Gum Grove Home Demonstration Club Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Lillie Little, home agent, assisted by Mrs. Marion Nobles, clothing leader, gave the monthly demonstration, "Dress for the Occasion."

The meeting opened by the group singing "Fairer Lord Jesus" followed by the devotional given by Mrs. Lewis Whitehurst.

During the business meeting, the club voted to place flowers in the church on the first Sunday in May, this being State-Wide Home Demonstration Week. Members of the 4-H club will be recognized as a group and will act as ushers during the morning hour.

Mrs. Little reported on the concession booth sponsored by the County Council during the Fat Stock Show and Sale.

The Health and Family Life Leaders gave reports and a discussion on beautifying lawns was led by Mrs. Little.

The club voted to accept the invitation to serve supper to the Stokes Ruritan Club on the first Wednesday night in May. Committees were appointed to complete these plans.

Following the demonstration given by Mrs. Little, several of the club members and their children took part in a dress parade. Othello showed garments they had made for other members of their family. Mrs. Margaret Tetterton won the prize given during recreation.

HD Program Told To Book Clubbers

Mrs. Ruel Tyson gave a talk on "The Development of the Home Demonstration Program" for the members of the Round Table Book Club Tuesday afternoon.

Speaking on the phases of home demonstration work, Mrs. Tyson pointed out what the clubs have meant to rural women. She concluded her talk by reading "The Homemaker's Creed."

Mrs. R. B. Lee, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Tyson.

Mrs. Hugh T. Patterson was hostess to the club at her home on Rock Spring Road which was dressed with arrangements of Spring flowers for the meeting.

A salad course with coffee was served following the meeting by the hostess.

Social Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Williams and little daughters of Evanston, Ill. will arrive Saturday for a visit with Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Williams.

Dr. Elizabeth Utterback, Miss Elizabeth Walker and Mrs. Robert Tumber are in Winston-Salem this weekend attending the state meeting of the American Association of University Women.

Coffee Fetes Bride

FARMVILLE—Honoring Mrs. Dan Morgan of Raleigh, formerly Miss Margaret Fleming of Greenville, Mrs. Ted L. Albritton, Mrs. John N. Fountain and Mrs. John B. Wright entertained at a coffee hour Saturday morning at the home of Mrs. Albritton.

The 36 guests were invited into the dining room to an appointed table covered with an imported white cloth of cutwork and embroidery. A spring theme was depicted in the centerpiece consisting of a silver bowl containing white narcissus, white daffodils, and aspidragons.

Mrs. D. R. Morgan, mother-in-law of the bride, served coffee from an antique silver coffee urn. Refreshments served on silver trays consisted of decorated assorted sandwiches, relishes, cheese Dan Morgan of Raleigh, formerly Miss Margaret Fleming of Greenville, Mrs. Ted L. Albritton, Mrs. John N. Fountain and Mrs. John B. Wright entertained at a coffee hour Saturday morning at the home of Mrs. Albritton.

Throughout the house were artistic arrangements of camellias, daffodils, pear blossoms, flowering peach, crabapple blossoms, narcissus and pansies.

Corsages were presented to the honoree, Mrs. Dan R. Morgan, and to Miss Betsy Willis Jones and Miss Videau Joyner, brides-elect.

Give Program On Flowers

Mrs. G. E. Staples and Mrs. Sam Mitchell gave a program on flowers for the Forest Hills Garden Club meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Troy B. Dodson.

Mrs. F. E. Lansche, president, presided over the short business session.

Mrs. Staples discussed the preparing of flowers for dried arrangements, while Mrs. Mitchell demonstrated two arrangements of pine and jonquils.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Service League Holds Annual Dinner, Hears Year's Reports

GRIFTON—The Grifton Service League held their annual dinner Wednesday night in the high school cafeteria to honor new members and hear reports of the year's work.

Mrs. Mark Phillips called the meeting to order and gave a welcome to the members and guests. A turkey dinner was served at appointed tables decorated with Spring flowers and candles.

New members were introduced as follows: Mesdames Carol Batey, Pat Epps, Mary Jean Gravelly, Val Molini, Jean Mussiwhite, Ann Paul, Odessa Rogers, Lorena Woodard, Becky Worthington and Hazel Bright. Other guests were Mesdames W. I. Bisette, C. R. Cobb, Robert Mewborn, H. F. Quinberry and Miss Bert Johnson, members of the advisory board.

After dinner, yearly reports were made by Mrs. Lynn Gower on the Thrift Shop and Mrs. Beth Miller for the project committee's sale of "Grifton Times" subscriptions, of which the league received a commission.

Mrs. Nancy Fisher gave the bake sale report and Mrs. Esther Bates reported for the emergency charity Mrs. Mary Mann gave the free lunch report.

Mrs. Phillips, retiring president, spoke briefly of her work as president with the Service League and expressed her thanks to all who had helped to make her term of office a fulfilling one in terms of service.

A gift of a briefcase was presented by Mrs. Phillips to Mrs. Virginia January, incoming president, for the use of the Service League materials.

In concluding her talk she presented the gavel to Mrs. January, who in turn gave a word of welcome to all the members and asked their continued support in the work of the League. She explained the point system that is used to account for the hours a member must have to continue as a member.

Mrs. Dorothy Glenn Reeves was recognized by Mrs. January. She then read a letter from a Fabric Shop in regards to a fashion show which the League will sponsor for the benefit of the League's activities.

New officers were presented as follows: Mrs. Nancy Fisher, vice president; Mrs. Dorothy Reeves, secretary; Mrs. Maude Hart, treasurer. Project chairmen were announced by Mrs. January.

The Service League was organized several years ago under the leadership of Mrs. Lynn Gower with the Greenville Service League as sponsors. Since the organization, much has been done for underprivileged of the town and community.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. F. M. Park was hostess at a pretty bridge party, complimenting her mother, Mrs. William L. Beery of Wilmington. Spring flowers were attractively used for decorations. Mrs. W. I. Wooten was winner of a picture for high score. The consolation prize, a deck of cards, went to Mrs. L. C. Skinner. Mrs. Beery was remembered with hose. A salad course was served following the game.

Mrs. A. M. Moseley delightfully entertained two tables of duplicate bridge Thursday morning honoring Mrs. William L. Beery of Wilmington. The home was lovely with a variety of spring flowers. An attractive vase was won by Mrs. R. L. Carr for high score. Mrs. Beery was given a powder jar. At the conclusion of the game a tempting two course luncheon was served.

Mrs. Mewborn Has Supper, Card Party

GRIFTON—On Thursday night of last week Mrs. L. L. Mewborn was hostess at her home on McRae Street. On arrival, guests were invited into the dining room for a buffet supper.

The table, overlaid with a lace cloth, was centered with an arrangement of daffodils, spirea and tulips flanked by tall yellow candles in crystal holders. On the buffet a crystal candelabra held burning yellow candles. A fried chicken supper with individual nut cakes was served.

During the bridge games Mrs. J. L. Tucker and Mrs. Robert Mewborn scored high among the club members and for the visitors Mrs. Tom Gower and Mrs. Charles Stone.

Spring Flowers Used For Party

GRIFTON—Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Bisette were hosts Friday night at a supper party for their club members and invited guests.

Bowls of daffodils, pansies, and other spring flowers decorated the home throughout. In the dining room the table was overlaid with a lace cloth and held as a centerpiece a low bowl of daffodils, carnations and tulips and tall yellow candles. A seafood supper was served buffet style and as a dessert individual lemon pies.

Three tables were arranged for bridge and in the games Mrs. Thurman Williams and Henry Oglesby were remembered with prizes. Clifton Jackson was given the visitor's prize.

Once the can is opened, canned meat should be used within a few days.

Darrow's Life Is Reviewed

Mrs. Tom Galbreath of Wilson gave a review of the life of the criminal lawyer, Clarence Darrow, to the Sans Souci Book Club Tuesday at the home of Mrs. L. W. Gaylord.

Darrow's keen insight into human nature and the fact that he often defended the "underdog" free of charge was pointed out during the program.

Mrs. Galbreath added, "A closed mind is a dead mind" as one of Darrow's famous sayings.

Following the program the hostesses served a salad plate and coffee to the club members, also Mrs. Reid Perkins and Mrs. Galbreath, sister of Mrs. W. M. Scales, who were invited guests.

Never A Dull Moment For Teens

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Let's take a rocket ride and see what's perking on teen fronts.

FASHION FAD . . . One kind of shirt invites autographs. The shirt may be worn tucked in or straight-hanging, comes packaged with a ball-point pen, handy for scrawling phone numbers and pictures.

TEEN AIDERS . . . Youngsters of Staples High School, Westport, Conn., have figured out a gimmick for fund-raising for the benefit of the American Field Service International Scholarship program. The plan will make it possible for a Staples student to study abroad and a foreign student to live in Westport. Here's how it works:

The students have distributed cards to residents of the area offering to work at jobs, including car washing, removing storm windows, washing dogs, ironing, baby sitting, outdoor work, providing $1 for every hour of their time is contributed to the AFSISF.

DIETERS DELIGHT . . . Newest gimmick for student dieters is to ask the boy home for an afternoon snack, instead of joining him for treats where one must admit one is on a diet. Make any flavored drink you like with non-fat dry milk, they say. All you do is pour the milk crystals in a glass with ice water, add low-calorie lemon sherbet or other flavoring, a teaspoon of lemon juice and you have a low-calorie between-meal snack. Add some cherry juice if you'd like a pink flavor.

GIRL BASEBALL . . . Junior baseball is not limited to males. Girls up to 15 years old are playing lassieball, a form of softball. The pattern for the Lassie Leaguers was begun in 1953 by a retired industrialist. Last year there were leagues in action in Pennsylvania, California, Virginia and Florida, and the idea is still growing, expected to catch on in New England.

POSTER PASSION . . . A new form of art with young people who can't afford Rembrandt or Corot or other old masters, is poster art. Bullfight posters painted by Ruano Llopif depicting famous positions and passes of memorable matadors are going on teen age walls. Some young people collect posters—theatre, bullfight, circus, etc.

SNACK TREAT . . . Make it with non-fat milk say dieters.

TEEN TALK . . . You may add to your vocabulary these little tid-bits from a freshman at Skidmore College:

If a boy is dressed to a T, he's considered "real shoe."

If he is overdressed, he is "real galosh" (overshoe).

If he is underdressed, he is a "poor sole."

Plan Not Wholly Free Of Politics

Taking some public offices out of politics is one thing.

Changing the form of politics which surround these same offices is another.

We question whether the latest proposals of the committee studying the revamping of the state's judicial system would make the posts of judges any less political than they are under the present system.

We question too whether the people of North Carolina will give their approval to a system in which the judges are appointed rather than elected.

In the second of a series of three preliminary reports the Committee on Improving and Expediting the Administration of Justice has recommended among other things that Supreme Court justices and regular Superior Court judges be appointed by the governor rather than elected by the people as has been the custom in North Carolina.

The proposal contains a further provision that the governor's appointment to each judicial post come from a list of three nominees for each vacancy named by the state's Judicial Council. The recommendation also provides limited terms for judges and justices and machinery by which voters could reject such appointments made by the governor.

An office is not automatically removed from politics by making the post appointive rather than elective. An office is not automatically removed from politics by establishment of a special nominating committee.

Though North Carolina's Superior Court judges and Supreme Court justices are elected by popular vote, there seldom develop for these posts heated campaigns such as those characteristic of other elective positions. The Superior Court judge or the Supreme Court justice is not expected by the people to keep his political fences mended in the same sense as other state or district officials.

Thus under even the present system these judicial posts cannot correctly be classed as political in the same sense as other elective offices.

It appears to us there might be a greater exertion of political pressures under an appointive system for judges as outlined by the committee than there is under the present system. It would certainly concentrate greater political power in the hands of the governor and the Judicial Council.

The same thing might apply to lower court judges appointed by the Chief Justice from nominations of the senior resident Superior Court judge.

The committee studying the state's judicial system has given long and careful consideration to the matter. Certainly its recommendations should in turn receive careful consideration from the people of the state.

North Carolina should not, however, rush to abandon its present system of electing its judges in favor of a system which might not be free from the "politics" at which the recommendation is aimed.

Depression In N. C. For Some

By LYNN NISBET
DEPRESSION? — There are a good many people in North Carolina who want jobs and can't get them. There are many others working on part time or short weeks and earning less pay than they got last year. Hundreds of farmers, especially in tobacco, were unable to meet bills for last year's crop and are finding some difficulty in financing production this year. Some communities are feeling real pinch, by reason of dependence upon one crop or one industry which is in distress.

There is "depression" in North Carolina. But it is localized, affecting individuals and small areas; and to some degree it is mental rather than physical, based as much on fear of the future as on actual existing conditions. The general economy of the state is sound, in some respects and in some sections better than in others.

That is the composite opinion of members of the Conservation and Development board and others from all parts of the state attending the recent Goldsboro meeting. They are practical, business men trained to face up to facts and problems, not run from them.

TESTIMONY — At least a dozen local men said Wayne county is not "suffering", despite the tobacco debacle and other depressing factors. Reactivation of Seymour Johnson was a boon to the area and put a lot of money in circulation. Goldsboro and Wayne county appreciate the economic value of the air base, but that is by no means the only source of optimism and prosperity. The county's agriculture and small industry, nearly all of it home financed, may be even more important. Beef and dairy cattle, chickens and hogs, have put more new money into trade channels than airplanes and construction workers. Besides being themselves "processing plants" for much of the grain production of the county, these farm animals have caused the building of processing plants to convert their meat into human food.

NOT SUFFERING — "Chatham county is not suffering," said P.J. (Jack) Boling, Siler City furniture manufacturer. He admitted that the furniture business has had some rough sledding, and that several textile mills in the county are working on short time. Here again cattle and poultry have pulled agriculture out of the hole, and diverse small industries have kept payroll money flowing.

Charles H. Jenkins of Aulander and Ahoskie, has general automobile dealerships in a dozen or more counties in the tobacco and peanut area of the northeast reports more drop in total business than any of the others. Cattle and small industries are making some impact, but diversification is coming somewhat slower there.

Max Watson, merchant and textile manufacturer of Forest City and Spindale, characteristically said, "I've seen times better, but I've seen 'em a lot worse."

Resort operators in the mountains and on the coast report less business right now than they had expected, but unusually heavy mail bringing inquiries and advance reservations. Real estate men, represented by Jack Barfield of Asheville and Glenn Tucker of Carolina Beach—both ends of the state—are optimistic, if not extremely happy.

The conclusion of the whole matter is that because of diversity in agriculture and industry, stepped up activities in processing home grown raw products, and intensified promotional programs, North Carolina as a whole has no economic problems that faith and courage and real work—cannot solve. There was evidence among attendants at the C&D meeting that there is any lack of faith and willingness to work.

PURPOSE — A lot of people both in and out of the state do not understand the functions and objectives of the State advertising division in the Department of Conservation and Development. Many of them think it is an educational agency with responsibility for providing material about North Carolina to public school children, book clubs and other in-state groups. At the recent C&D board meeting at Goldsboro there was request from a North Carolina group for material to supply school pupils, and a man from Atlantic City offered a $30,000 dollar color sound movie for use in schools and civic clubs within the state. Those are functions and obligations of the public school system.

When the State advertising program was launched in 1937 it had the enthusiastic support of the N.C. Press Association—upon one condition. Josh Horne of Rocky Mount, then a member of the C&D board and then and now a leader in the newspaper group, insisted on passage of a resolution by the press association that none of the money appropriated for advertising North Carolina would be used in newspapers within the state. The newspapers have carried millions of dollars worth of publicity in the past 21 years boosting North Carolina as a public service, not as paid advertising.

The advertising division, including its news bureau and travel sections, has done a whole of a lot of work for North Carolina interests, as it has always been. Its primary function remains, as it has always been, to publicize North Carolina beyond state lines. So far, it has pretty successfully resisted efforts of publicity promoters to horn in on use of advertising funds within the state.

Potential Preview Of Role For Livestock

How can Pitt County stack up as a livestock producing county?

Those who took in the county's two-day livestock show and sale this week came away convinced that Pitt can produce as fine a type of livestock as can be produced anywhere in North Carolina.

And those who have been shaking their heads over Pitt's potential as a livestock production area could well take another look at the results of the show and sale.

Buyers at the sale paid a total of $12,225 for the animals included in the exhibits. To be sure the prices were considerably above the market average. But so were the animals considerably above the average of those offered on most markets.

Animals offered at the sale is conclusive proof that Pitt County can and is producing quality beef and swine. Its farmers have the know-how and the land, and they can acquire the necessary facilities for expanding livestock production. On top of that the county has the market for considerable expansion in its livestock sales.

Results of the eighth annual livestock show and sale should be a preview of the greater importance of livestock in the agricultural economy of Pitt County.

Very Limited Results Likely

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any summit meeting between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev could have only very limited results, perhaps no more than a slight easing of tensions.

The best possible result would be an agreement on disarmament, the abolition of nuclear weapons. But that appears to be out of the question for the foreseeable future.

Secretary of State Dulles and former Secretary of State Acheson are said to a summit get-together.

Acheson even opposes the thought of a president taking part in such a meeting. To support his position he cites President Wilson's disappointments after World War I and the flimsy results of Eisenhower's summit meeting in Geneva in 1955.

But in the future it may be desirable, and more sensible, to have the heads of state meet frequently, not in the hope of settling all the problems or even a few of the biggest ones but only just some.

Such meetings might be able to clear away in short order problems which otherwise would take years of negotiation.

Acheson and Dulles seem to be thinking in the past, with their misgivings about a summit conference. Eisenhower appears more contemporary than they do, and more conscious of the changing nature of the world. He has repeatedly expressed a willingness to meet with the Soviets if he believes it will do some good.

If fear of Soviet tricks continues to grow in this country, the result may be to make Americans thinking, from the highest to the lowest levels, self-conscious, defensive and even backward.

There are many reasons why agreement on the abolition of nuclear weapons is out of the question in the foreseeable future.

For instance: To make sure there would be no cheating, an elaborate checking system would have to be established.

It would take years to negotiate. Agreement on abolishing the present supply of nuclear weapons might not be enough. The racing progress of science in the weapons field might produce death-dealers never dreamed of.

So long as this country—with its nuclear weapons—has the power to retaliate with devastation against Soviet aggression, the Soviets will be reluctant to start a war.

To surrender nuclear weapons in the oncoming years would be to abandon this decisive deterrent.

Goal Is The Bottom

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—In most fields a man gets ahead by going from the bottom to the top.

George Abou Hen Hamid—may his tribe increase!—did it the other way. Now one of America's leading showmen, he won success by working his way from the top to the bottom.

"I started as an acrobat at the age of 7 in Lebanon," explained Hamid. "The novice always acts as top man on the human pyramid. His goal is to work down until he is the ground man—and holds the others up."

Hamid now runs the world's largest booking agency for thrill acts. He owns the Steel Pier at Atlantic City and a chain of movie houses. He also is currently staging the Beauty-Hamid-Morton Circus, billed as the largest under canvas.

But at 62, George, one of the top tumbler's of his time, can still turn a cartwheel in his office—and thinks it isn't a bad way for a busy executive to pep up his circulation.

"I could probably still do a somersault—maybe for Marilyn Monroe," he remarked genially. "It's the ex-athlete who quits exercising who gets flabby and fat and dies young."

Hamid has known most of the entertainment figures of two generations, but his lifelong favorites are Col. William (Buffalo Bill) Cody and Annie Oakley, star marksman with the colonel's famous Wild West show.

"I came to this country with the show 50 years ago," he recalled. "Annie Oakley bought me my first primer and taught me to read. She gave me the only schooling I ever had."

"Col. Cody made a pet of me. I remember making lemonade for him during the summertime. I started with him for 25 cents a week."

Another when I won in a contest between tumbler from three of the biggest circuses he was so pleased he doubled my salary—from $5 to $10.

"Buffalo Bill was my hero. No man since has been worshiped in quite the way he was. They even closed the schools when he came to town."

"He made more money for a time than any man would ever been in the circus business. But he was too generous."

"The only reason he died broke was that when somebody told him a sob story he'd automatically reach in his pocket for money—and he never bothered to count what he pulled out. He gave away his fortune by the handful."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

IT TAKES PRACTICE. A few minutes ago I watched a great musician perform before a large audience. He handled his instrument with the greatest of ease. In fact, he conveyed the impression to everyone that what he was doing was the easiest thing anyone could do. One was almost led to believe that he could go right up on the stage and do exactly the same thing that the artist was doing, it appeared so easy.

But the program said that even now, at the height of his fame, this distinguished musician never practices less than six hours a day. To be sure, he has his instrument with ease, but his control is something that took decades to achieve. Thousands and tens of thousands of hours of precious practice had gone into making him the artist he is. Easy—because for so many thousands of hours it had been hard.

Everything in life that one does well involves effort and patience. Some people have gifts above those of common run, but no matter how gifted a man may be, he is a failure if he does not work to perfect his technique.

I can recall at least a dozen men—geniuses who have fallen by the wayside because they were lazy or in some way lacking in character.

That Bulging Waistline

It seems only yesterday when my waist line was 28 inches and I had trouble keeping my trousers up even with a tight belt.

Today my waistline was bulged to 35 inches (sigh) and I have trouble keeping myself confined to one loophole.

Between this seven-inch interval many things have happened. I have a story to tell.

It all began when I graduated from high school with a 28-inch waistline. Around that time I began to worry because I thought I was going to grow up skinny. I could eat ice cream, steak, a big helping of potatoes and a lot of bread and candy but nothing seemed to stick.

During my freshman year at Carolina I only weighed 138 pounds and was wearing pants and shirts my parents had bought me when I graduated from Junior-High School in Robertsonville. Those days have "gone with the wind."

From Carolina my next stop was the U. S. Army. During basic training I gained 20 pounds and came home bragging that I had finally become of age because I felt that anyone weighing less than 150 pounds was not a man.

Another year passed and I gained another five pounds which made me all the prouder. Finally the lean spots were becoming padded. No longer was I embarrassed to stand up to any of my weighty friends.

There I was in my "little ivory tower" until one day while I was home an old colored woman made a statement that made me start thinking. She told my mother that she had never seen anybody grow so fast, adding I was certainly a cute round-faced boy.

The spell was finally broken. While thinking one day I came to the startling conclusion that men are no born fat but get fat after they are born. The wheels began to turn.

From time to time I would sneak up to a set of scales and weigh. Each time I noticed that I had gained at least two or three ounces and in some cases a whole pound. Sigh! I would never tell my friends the results, always keeping it to myself.

One spring morning I got up and tried to get into a pair of last year's pants. After finally getting them buttoned up I found it hard to breathe. This caused me much concern. The trips to the scales were getting more frequent and the wheels were turning faster.

Along about that time I got engaged to marry the finest girl in the world (had to get that plug in) and reached another plateau in the fat-race when I marched down the aisle.

About two weeks after I got married I began to find it difficult to get into the "last year's" pants. To make matters worse my shirt collars were no longer fitting.

Every time I would meet an old friend or acquaintance on the street he or she would say, "Well old man, I see that marriage is agreeing with you."

It didn't take my long to realize the full meaning of that phrase. I would always laugh but inside I felt an anger pang.

Finally after hearing the statement five and one-half thousand times I began darning it. I would say, "What do you mean I have gained weight. I weigh the same thing I did six months ago!"

In my mind I knew it was a little white lie but it made me feel better.

One night about three weeks ago I went out and bought my wife a set of bathroom scales. (At least I told her I bought them for her but in reality they were for me.) Every night after she goes to bed I slip into the bathroom and weigh.

I only weigh 173 pounds but feel that age-old complex coming on. Anyway the world loves a fat man!

Other Editors Saying--- Work Release Law

(Washington Daily News)

We are inclined to agree with W. F. Bailey, Prisons director, when he says that we ought to be using the work release law more than we are.

Under terms of the law a prisoner is allowed to go about his regular work during the day, but he spends his nights in prison or jail.

To some people there might seem to be a situation where the prisoner is not paying much in the way of punishment for the crimes. But to our way of thinking, the very fact that a man is spending his nights in prison serves to help pay his debt to society. After all, the men in prison work during the days, and they of course spend nights in jail.

Mr. Bailey says the judges of North Carolina are not using the provisions of the law as set out by the 1957 General assembly. He says that only eight men have been sentenced under the work release law.

It must be a difficult job to find work for all the prisoners we have under our system in North Carolina. Often times a man gets into trouble, and he might hold some regular job. If possible to do so, that man will be of less cost and less responsibility to the state if terms could be arranged to allow him to keep his regular job and at the same time pay his debt to the state. He might have a family to support. If he goes off to prison, his family becomes a ward of the state, and that adds to the expenses of the already overburdened taxpayers.

We see great possibilities through the application of this law. We see the picture of a man being punished and at the same time being able to support his wife and children without throwing them upon the charity of the state.

Not every man who commits a crime is a criminal at heart. Some just make mistakes which are serious. If given a half a chance, they will rehabilitate themselves and become fine citizens in the years ahead. Sometimes, when we send them to Central prison or to a prison camp to serve their time, they become bitter and resentful. We are defeating at least part of the reasons for incarcerating them when this happens.

We would like to see this work release law be given a fair and full trial. It might fail, but we won't know until it is given such a test period. If it does prove practical, then some of the burden might be lifted from the state in several ways. If it doesn't work, then we won't be any worse off in regard to our methods of handling prisoners than we are right now.

We believe it might work in many cases if judges will be careful in exercising the powers under this law. If the prisoners could be picked, and if they are acquainted with the purposes, then we believe they will be cooperative and that the state will be better off.

More Years Of Farm Problems

By ELMER ROESSNER

Farms have caused one of the greatest national headaches in the last 20 years. They will cause even worse migraine attacks in the next 20.

Yesterday it was shown here that the number of small farms is decreasing while large farms increase, and that farming is changing from a family occupation into big business. Perhaps it must be that way. In the world today the small farm owner is losing out in competition just as would a tailor who wove his own cloth.

One headache is the relocation of farm population. A strong drift to the cities is already underway. The farm population was 30,547,000 in 1940. It dropped to 25,058,000 in 1950 and was estimated at 22,257,000 in 1956.

As farms are industrialized, more families will be forced to cities. Workers will be needed to operate the giant farms, but these will be farm mechanics and technicians, not families and farmhands.

EVER MORE JOBS
The migration from farms is at a rate of about 500,000 a year.

This includes about 250,000 able-bodied men. The economy will therefore have to create about that many industrial jobs a year, on top of the 750,000 or more for urban people reaching working ages.

The logical way to do this will be by increasing consumption of manufactured goods and by increasing services, thereby boosting the standard of living.

Some of these jobs may be near or on the farms. While the production of raw farm products will require less and less labor as mechanization and chemical techniques increase, there may be a trend toward more processing at the farm.

Already many products are packaged near the point of picking; many new canneries have been erected in the midst of farmlands; Meat packers may move closer to feed lots and fattening pens and all other food processing—including precooking and freezing meals—may be done closer to the place of harvest. New semirural communities may be created.

SMALL BUSINESS AFFECTED
The agricultural upheaval will dislocate thousands of small businesses. Rural communities are now the stronghold of the little enterprises. They have resisted the competition of all but the largest chain stores and markets.

But as farm families move away, small merchants will lose customers. Unless small towns can attract new industries, they may wither.

After the painful adjustments are completed, the economy may be better off.

Industrialized farms will be able to produce food and fiber cheaper than family farms, just as modern mills are able to produce textiles cheaper than hand looms can.

EFFECTS ON FOOD, TAXES
Foods should be better; corporations should be quicker to try new varieties and employ new techniques that would be possible by scattered family farmers. Produce should be fresher, too, because big organizations can move products to plant or market faster than individuals dealing through auctions, co-ops, brokers and middlemen.

Farm industrialization may even reduce taxes. When farming becomes big business instead of a way of life, it will no longer need government support to sustain income. And it won't be necessary for the Department of Agriculture to spend millions to lead farmers by the hand.

Even defenses will be stronger because big corporations will be able to step up production and shift to most wanted products faster than tens of thousands of small farms can.

But a lot of sentiment and romance will be gone from American life.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 2-4.

As Moses grew to manhood, he saw how brutally his people were being treated. One day, seeing an Egyptian beating a Hebrew, Moses killed the man. Then he was forced to flee for his life to Midian.

Moses wed a daughter of the priest of Midian. As he tended sheep on Mt. Horeb, God's voice came to him from the midst of a burning bush, commanding him to go back to Egypt to free his people.

Moses was reluctant to do the Lord's commands, but finally consented. The Lord commanded Aaron, Moses' brother, to meet Moses in the wilderness. The brothers met, and Moses told Aaron of the Lord's plans.

Moses and Aaron then called together the Hebrew elders and told them all the Lord had said and promised. The elders believed them and worshiped the Lord.

MOSES IS CALLED, DISCIPLINED AND EQUIPPED TO SUCCOR HIS PEOPLE

Scripture—Exodus 2-4.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

OUR LAST lesson ended with the Pharaoh's decree that all male infants born to Jewish parents must be thrown into the Nile river. By this means he hoped to keep the Hebrew people from multiplying to become what he thought was a menace to Egypt.

Soon afterward a man of the tribe of Levi married and a son was born. For three months the mother hid the child. When that became an impossibility, she made an ark of bulrushes, laid the baby in it and put it into the flags by the river's brink. His sister, Miriam, stood at a distance to see what would happen.

Most of the classes will be familiar with this story from previous lessons but the very young will be interested in how the Pharaoh's daughter came to the river to bathe, saw the ark and had it brought to her. She realized that the child was one father-in-law's sheep. One day when he had led the flocks to Mount Horeb, "the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midst of a bush; and he looked, and behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed."—Exodus 3:2.

As Moses stood to see this strange sight, the voice of God called to him, saying: "I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob." Moses was afraid and hid his face.

"And the Lord said, I have surely seen the affliction of My people which are in Egypt, and have heard their cry by reason of their taskmasters; for I know their sorrows."

Then the Lord said He was sending Moses to bring the children of Israel out of Egypt. Moses said to the Lord: "Who am I, that I should go unto of the Hebrew women's, and she had pity on it. When the baby's sister asked her if she would like to have her bring a nurse for the child, she agreed, and the sister called the child's mother.

Adopted as her son by the Pharaoh's daughter, for the first 40 years of his life Moses lived in the royal palace. As he went about he saw how grievous was the lot of his people. One day when Moses saw an Egyptian strike a Hebrew he killed the Egyptian and hid his body.

His deed became known and he was forced to flee for his life. He fled to Midian, where he saw the seven daughters of the priest of Midian being prevented by shepherds from watering their flocks. Moses drove the shepherds away and helped the sisters with their work. When their father, Jethro, was told of this, he invited Moses to his home. Moses married one of the daughters and kept his Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?"

The Lord promised that He would be with Moses and showed him some wonders that he would perform before Pharaoh to decide him to let the people go.

Moses was finally convinced that this was his mission, especially as the Lord told him his brother, Aaron, would be with him. The brothers would meet in the wilderness, the Lord said, and they did. After Moses told Aaron all the things the Lord had spoken, the two gathered together the elders of the children of Israel and repeated God's promises.

"And the people believed; and when they heard that the Lord had visited the children of Israel, and that He had looked upon their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worshipped."—Exodus 4:31.

STANDING BY — When East Carolina's Pirates take on North Carolina here tomorrow night at Guy Smith Stadium, Ben Baker will get the starting pitcher's job for the Pirates. However, Bruce Shelley (left) and Leonard Lilley, a pair of veterans, will be standing by to take over if needed. All three of them have won this season in helping to compile ECC's 5-2 mark. ECC, North Carolina Play In Greenville Saturday

Teams Will Battle In After-Dark Tilt

Tomorrow night, the University of North Carolina Tarheels invade Greenville and Guy Smith Stadium to face Coach Jim Mallory's 1958 East Carolina College Pirates.

The game will be an after-dark affair, being staged under the lights at the stadium at 8:00. Tickets for the contest are one dollar for adults and fifty cents for students.

Both teams have shown flourishes of power both at the plate and in the field this year, and both have a supply of highly-touted pitchers. Carolina, 8-5 overall and 1-2 in the Atlantic Coast Conference, rates an edge over the Bucs.

Tarheels Favored

The edge is based on the Tarheels' recent upset victory over Duke University, previously unbeaten defending ACC champ. They walloped the Blue Devils, 8-2, behind the pitching of Wayne Young.

ECC, in the meantime, has rolled up an overall mark of 5-2, and has taken the lead in the North State Conference with a 3-0 record. The Bucs have whipped some Big Names along the way, such as South Carolina and The Citadel, as well as loop foes Western Carolina and Atlantic Christian. Their losses have come at the hands of Delaware and Parris Island.

East Carolina reached its hitting peak Wednesday in beating Atlantic Christian College in Wilson. The Bucs showed their best hitting of the year, collecting eight hits and blasting three Bulldog pitchers. In their past three games, the Pirates have totaled 22 baseknocks, as opposed to only eight given up to foes.

Hitters

The Big Sticks in East Carolina's current hitting streak are Tommy Nance, Marion Talton, Doug Watts, George Williams, Jimmy Martin and Johnny Jones.

Most of the boys in the above-named group are newcomers to ECC. Only Nance, Watts and Williams are veterans. And Williams is a pitcher, at that. Mallory has several others who can be impressive at times, also, but these are the current leaders.

On the mound, Mallory has put together one of the best pitching staffs he's ever had. Led by Ben Baker, a sophomore lefthander from Zebulon, the group has done well for itself thus far.

Defeated State

Adding to their edge, Carolina dumped N. C. State yesterday, 5-3, in another league upset.

Rabb took over the coaching position at Carolina last season upon the retirement of Bunn Hearn and fielded a team that won 15 and lost 10. In the Atlantic Coast Conference, Carolina posted a 9-5 mark.

Tickets for tomorrow night's tilt may be obtained by contacting the athletic department at ECC. There will also be tickets at the gate.

Sime Leads Duke To Sweep Win Over WF, East Carolina Teams

DURHAM (AP)—Dave Sime won three events and Jim Booher set a new school record here Thursday as Duke's Blue Devils swept a triangular track meet from Wake Forest and East Carolina.

The Blue Devils collected 103 points while ECC came in second with 43, followed by the Deacons with 15.

Sime, battling a 1-mile-per-hour headwind, nevertheless won the 100-yard dash in the time of 9.6 seconds, copped the 220-yard dash in 21.3 and won the javelin with a toss of 199 feet, one inch.

The dazzling Blue Devil star from Fairlawn, N. J., also took second place in the discus to wind up with 18 points, easily the high scorer for the meet.

Booher, a slim 6-1 155-pounder, also thrilled the 600-strong crowd with his record-setting leap of 6 feet, 4 1/2 inches which broke the old record of 6-3.

The summaries:

100-yard dash: 1—Sime (D); Elder (D); 3—Maynard (ECC); 4—Speight (ECC), 0:21.3.

220-yard dash: 1—Sime (D); 2—Cobb (D); 3—Frazier (WF); 4—Edwards (ECC), 0:50.4.

880-yard run: 1—Basemore (D); 2—Menaker (D); 3—Frazier (WF); 4—Patterson (ECC), 1:57.8.

Two-mile: 1—Morse (ECC); 2—Medlin (WF); 3—Hurd (D); 4—Jordan (WF), 10:04.

120-yard high hurdles: 1—Curry (ECC); 2—Sparrow (D); 3—Linden (D); 4—Henderson (ECC), 0:15.8.

220-yard low hurdles: 1—Linden (D); 2—Curry (ECC); 3—Henderson (ECC); 4—Sparrow (D), 0:24.8.

High jump: 1—Booher (D); 2—Heath (WF); 3—Tie between Vaughan (ECC) and Ward (ECC), six feet, 4 1/2 inches.

Broad jump: 1—Tie between Linden (D) and Laverly (D); 3—Curry (ECC); 4—Boyd (D); 22 feet.

Pole vault: 1—Tie between McDonald (D) and O'Brien (ECC); 1—Noble (D), 11 feet.

Shotput: 1—Speer (D); 2—Eaton (D); 3—Holmes (ECC); 4—Phillips (ECC), 48 feet, 6 3/4 inches.

Javelin: 1—Sime (D); 2—Strickland (D); 3—Dennis (ECC); 4—Curry (ECC), 199 feet, one inch.

Discus: 1—Sime (D); 2—Sime (D); 3—Salzacher (D); 4—Holmes (ECC), 140 feet, six inches.

Mile relay: 1—Duke (Basemore, Weisiger, Bollman, Cobb); 2—ECC; 3—Wake Forest, 3:26.5.

Little League Trials Begin Here Monday

Little League Official Neely James announced this morning that try-outs for the 1958 Greenville Little League teams will begin Monday afternoon at 4:00 at Elm Street Park.

All boys who are not already affiliated with a team will have a chance to compete for positions. They will be chosen by coaches of the teams in the North State and Tar Heel Leagues here. The only requirement is that a boy must be at least eight years old and that he will not be 13 before August 1.

James also stated that many boys who have participated in the Greenville Recreation Department's football, basketball, and baseball programs in the past year have not yet returned their equipment, which was supplied by the Department. Those boys will not be eligible for participation until the equipment is returned," he said.

Musial Still Setting New Records But Cards Losing

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Stan (The Man) Musial has yet another National League record in the bag today, but the St. Louis Cardinals are still looking for that first victory in what some folks picked to be their pennant year.

Musial, at 37 closing in on a cluster of standout hitting records, slammed past Mel Ott's league record for total bases with a home run and a single last night, but it wasn't enough to ward off a 4-3 defeat by the Chicago Cubs.

Musial has collected 5,046 total bases on 2,960 hits while padding his NL record of long hits to 1,157 with his 382nd home run. Ott totaled 5,041 bases in his 22 seasons. Musial, in his 17th season, now ranks No. 5 among the major league total-bases leaders, topped by Ty Cobb's 5,863.

While the Cubs stayed unbeaten, the defending champion Milwaukee Braves whipped Pittsburgh 6-1. Ed Mathews again belted a pair of homers.

San Francisco clobbered Don Newcombe early and defeated Los Angeles 7-4 in the only other NL game scheduled.

In the American League, the New York Yankees defeated Boston 3-1; the Chicago White Sox won their first, beating Detroit 4-3; Baltimore took a full share of first place with a 4-0 decision over Washington; and Cleveland rallied in the ninth for a 3-2 victory over Kansas City.

Dale Long's sacrifice fly scored the Cubs' deciding run in the eighth. Rookie Tony Taylor lined a two-run single and John Goryl rapped a homer for a quick 3-0 lead against loser Lindy McDaniel.

Musial's homer, giving the Cards their first run in 13 innings this season, came off rookie Glenn Hobbie, who won his first victory with relief help.

Mathews, who led the league with 47 home runs in 1953 and hit 32 last season, rapped loser Vern Law for a two-out, three-run homer in the fifth, breaking a 1-1 tie, and then slugged No. 4 in the seventh. Rookie Burdette walked no one and gave up seven hits. A triple by Roberto Clemente and Gene Baker's sacrifice fly ruined his shoutout bid in the fifth.

Winner Curt Barclay and Marv Grissom shut out the Dodgers on three hits over the last 5 1/3 innings in relief of Johnny Antonel.

Richards Taking No Chances And Piling Up Wins

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Manager Paul Richards may have said a first division finish for Baltimore was only a possibility before the American League race started, but at the moment he's busy stockpiling early victories that could provide the payoff for the Orioles in August and September.

Richards, the only unbeaten skipper left in the AL, isn't missing any bets to get victories. Last night, despite a 3-0 lead, he pulled rookie Milt Pappas in the fourth inning, sent veteran Jack Harshman to the mound and came off with a 4-0 win over Washington.

The New York Yankees joined Detroit and Kansas City in second with a 3-1 victory at Boston while the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians salvaged the final games of their three-day series with the Tigers and Athletics.

Early Wynn gained his 286th major league victory, with Gerry Staley's relief help as the White Sox defeated Detroit 4-3. Rookie Jim (Mudcat) Grant went all the way for his first victory as the Indians clipped the A's 3-2.

Richards, a crafty ex-catcher who knows his pitchers, saw Pappas give up only two singles in the first three innings. But when the 18-year-old right-hander let a wild pitch slip between two walks with one out in the fourth, Richards hustled Harshman to the bases loaded, put called third strikes past Whitey Herzog and Rocky Bridges and allowed the Senators just one single the rest of the way.

Gus Triandos and Brooks Robinson homered for the Orioles, who tagged loser Chuck Stobbs and two relievers for 10 hits.

Johnny Kucks spaced seven hits for his first complete game since last June for the Yankees, and didn't lose his shutout bid until Jackie Jensen's third homer in the ninth. He got pinch hitter Ted Williams, making his first appearance after a bout with food poisoning, on a grounder in the eighth. Pete Runnels led the Sox with 4-for-4.

Tom Brewer gave up the telling run on Mickey Mantle's first hit of the year—a solid, fifth-inning homer.

Wynn gave up nine of the Tigers' 11 hits before Staley pulled him out of two-out, two-out trouble in the seventh. Al Smith singled home two runs in the second off Frank Lary, but the clincher came in the sixth on two-out singles by Tito Francona, Smith and Bubba Phillips.

Mickey Vernon's pinch double with two out in the ninth scored a pair and brought the Indians from behind against Duke Maas. Bob Cerv homered.

Approximately 92 per cent of the commercial timberlands owned by forest industries in the U. S. are open to hunters in season.

Winless WF Playing Clemson Club Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Wake Forest Deacons, a winning baseball team against outsiders but without a victory in the Atlantic Coast Conference, were scheduled to face league-leading Clemson today in the only ACC action.

The Deacons are 0-2 in ACC play and 5-4 against all competition. Clemson is unbeaten in six conference games and is 10-2 overall.

All a Clemson loss today still would leave the Tigers ahead of second place Duke, which is 4-1.

South Carolina was to be host today to the Parris Island Marines, an exhibition which does not count in season records.

North Carolina, down 3-2 as the Tar Heels came to bat in the last of the eighth inning yesterday, rallied for three runs to defeat North Carolina State and its lanky lefthander Joe Jones, 5-3. Roger Honeycutt singled with the bases loaded to bring home the winning runs for left hander Ben Harding.

Bob Kennel, Wolfpack catcher, had a single, triple and home run to drive in all of State's runs. Sophomore outfielder Gerald Griffin had three for four, including a triple, for North Carolina.

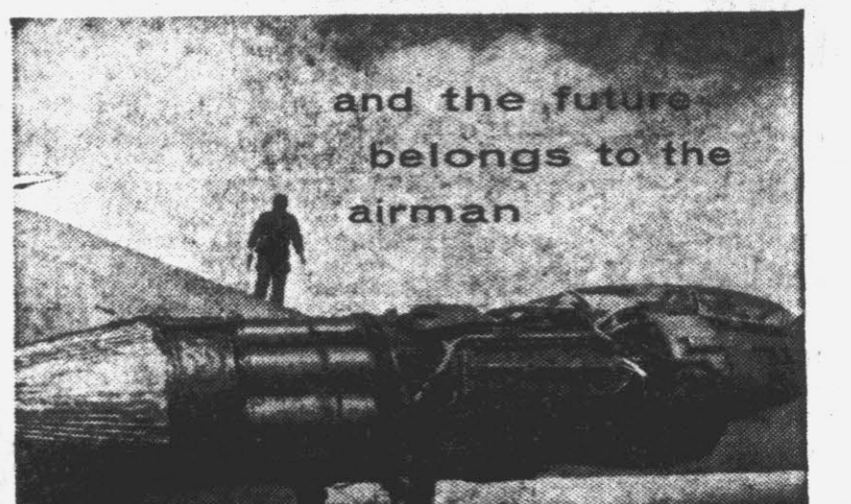

The Tar Heels now are 3-1 in the ACC, 10-5 overall. State is 3-2 in the conference and 7-2 overall.

Reports Associated Press Is Geared To Fit Changing Times

NEW YORK (AP)—The dawn of the space age found The Associated Press geared to cover in depth the resulting interest in science, education and defense. Frank J. Starzel, AP general manager, said today.

"The staff of writers covering science and other specialized fields has been reinforced, and the broad interest in this type of news is reflected generally through the organization," he said in his annual report.

He said, "Our planning assumes a broader perspective, and we must be ready to meet new challenges quickly and positively."

Starzel's report was sent to members of The AP, worldwide news-gathering cooperative, in advance of the annual meeting to be held Monday in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The luncheon speaker will be Robert McLean, president of the Philadelphia Bulletin and former president of The Associated Press.

"It is no longer enough for the newsmen to be just a competent reporter or editor," Starzel said. "Demands of the news are so multiple that staffers must back-ground themselves educationally as never before in history. . . . At the same time, the boundaries of news have become unlimited. The subject matter is vastly more diversified and the areas where it breaks have spread enormously and shifted greatly in emphasis."

He said that, to meet these demands, The Associated Press in the coming year must keep versatile, mobile and knowledgeable staffers at home and abroad.

"News interests is constantly shifting," Starzel said. "The borderline between national and international news is disappearing. Set events and occurrences cannot be counted on to have all-consuming interest. Instead, trends and implications of seemingly minor events often assume major importance."

This, he said, places great premium on perceptive and diligent reporting, expert knowledge of the subject, and ability to write clearly and with sufficient background and explanatory matter so that the average person can understand.

"Our planning is not limited to technological advances and economic trends," he said.

"The man in the street is still interested in the man on the next street, and in the man in foreign lands now only a few hours away. We have increased our reporting about people — many of them just plain people without title or social significance — and plan to do still more of it."

Starzel said one area of news reporting requiring great care is in telling the story of the business recession. The AP, he said, will continue to emphasize balance to keep the story in focus.

"The Associated Press business news department," he said, "accelerated the flow of interpretive and analytical articles and national and international roundups to provide a comprehensive picture of the vast forces that were at work in the economy."

Starzel reported that many technological advances have made possible a faster and better flow of news and photographs.

He said the AP newspaper service moved into 1958 with the strongest resources in its 30-year history, and with an all-time record participation of 525 subscribers to direct service on the Wirephoto network.

"AP's camera staff, which pioneered in development and use of the modern sequence camera, is accumulating equipment that may well be the most versatile in the profession," he said.

The general manager said 1,741 newspapers and other publications were represented in AP membership at the end of the year. Radio-television membership expanded by 96 in 1957 to a total of 1,702, a record.

Starzel said 1957 was notable in the increasingly important part played by radio-television members in cooperative news coverage.

HELD FOR SHOOTING—Mrs. Barbara Kahle Wheat, 38, leaves police headquarters at Darien, Conn., under bail of $15,000 in the shooting of her artist husband, John Potter Wheat. Darien police chief J. Edmund Bromber said Mrs. Wheat fired three bullets into her husband in their home with their two children sleeping in an adjoining room. Wheat, 37, was in a serious condition in Stamford Hospital with two of the bullets still in him. Mrs. Wheat was charged with assault with intent to murder. (AP Wirephoto)

Hodges Says Existing Water Laws Of State Antiquated, Need Revision

SCOTLAND NECK, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Hodges said here last night North Carolina's existing water laws are "antiquated, unrealistic and in drastic need of revision."

"The laws under which we operate today," he asserted, "were developed at a time when there was enough water for all purposes and the development of these resources was left up to individuals."

Hodges told the Scotland Neck Better Business Bureau that in the past the state has not given sufficient time to long-range planning that would take advantage of our natural abundance of water.

"This," he added, "has resulted in a growing number of conflicts among water users as demands increase and supplies decrease."

Hodges came here from Windsor, where he spoke yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Bertie Products Co., countywide organization aimed at providing better marketing facilities for farmers' product, particularly fruit and vegetable.

Hodges commended the county for setting up the organization. He said he hoped many other Eastern North Carolina counties will follow Bertie's example.

"You have joined many other North Carolina counties," Hodges told the Bertie group, "in providing your own answer to the economic problems that beset us."

In his talk here, Hodges said

North Carolina's water problems have grown so rapidly in recent years that "we have little choice but to move quickly and decisively toward effective solutions."

The State Board of Water Commissioners, he said, has made an inventory of the state's water resources and a study of water problems. The information, he added, is being studied by the board, who task it is to prepare a long-range water conservation program for the state, and by other agencies.

It is expected that within the next few months these activities will produce a variety of recommendations aimed at minimizing the water problems, the governor stated.

No final decision will be made, Hodges said he had been assured, until the recommendations have been widely publicized and the people have an opportunity to express their views at a series of public hearings on the proposed changes.

The governor told the group that while Tar Heel water supplies are being reduced water needs are soaring. He said municipal officials blame farm irrigation for depleting their water supplies while farmers protest that cities use much water that the farmer cannot get enough to meet his irrigation needs.

"In the strictest legal sense," he added, "neither the municipality nor the irrigator has a right to remove water from a stream without returning it."

Three Long Seconds At Fringe Of Space

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP)—You're up there for three long seconds. That's the terse way a Navy pilot yesterday described the climax of a missile-like climb into the fringe of space in which he set an unofficial world altitude record for conventional jet aircraft.

"Actually, this was a brief technological invasion of space—a jet engine operating at an altitude at which it is not meant to operate," said Lt. Cmdr. George Watkins, who rode the swept-wing Grumman F11F-1F to 76,828 feet, above the Mojave Desert Wednesday.

The previous record, 70,308 feet, was set last summer by a British Canberra jet.

"You have to know exactly the right angle to apply in the climb," said Watkins, 37, who dashed at 45,000 feet over the desert at better than 1,200 m.p.h. before he yanked back on the stick.

"You keep a grease pencil down in the webbing of your gee suit and when you're flying level you draw a line along the inside of the canopy along the horizon line. Then you mark a 45-degree angle bisecting the horizon line. When you pull back on the stick you allow maybe another five degrees and keep the 45-degree angle line parallel to the horizon. This gives you the angle of climb. It seems like you're going straight up. The altimeter is spinning like this. (He spun his finger like an eggbeater.)

"You are climbing at 50,000 feet per minute."

"What happens at the peak of the climb?"

"For the first time you have a chance to look around but you can't take time to lean over and look down at the ground."

"But you do take a glance at the altimeter. You hope it shows something because that's what you came up here for — to set a record."

"Then you nose her down. She begins to pick up speed and you can maneuver the plane again."

"The pilot in the chase plane following you radios to the field to clear the runways, and you get down there fast."

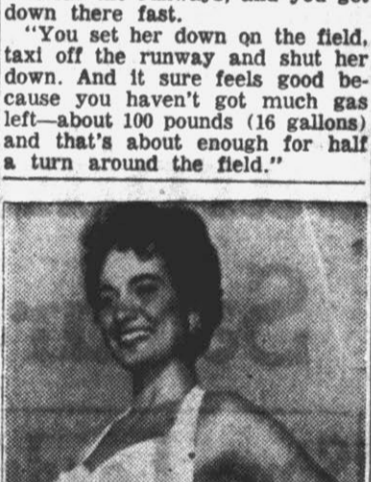

"You set her down on the field, taxi off the runway and shut her down. And it sure feels good because you haven't got much gas left—about 100 pounds (16 gallons) and that's about enough for half a turn around the field."

Officers Named For Federation

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Mrs. R. T. Dent of Spruce Pine was elected president of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs here yesterday as the group ended a three-day convention.

At its banquet meeting, the federation presented to Miss Mary Emmerlee Matthews of Clinton High School, Clinton, its first annual $1,000 grant for study at the Consolidated university of North Carolina.

Other officers named for the federation include:

Mrs. E. A. Latta, Henderson, first vice president; Mrs. Doc R. Oliver, Pine Level, second vice president; Mrs. H. J. Sharpe Jr., Kannapolis, third vice president; Mrs. G. E. Gardner, Jacksonville, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. S. Loye Katz, Charlotte, secretary for state junior clubs.

Sears Community Achievement Awards of $200 each were presented to the Littleton Woman's Club (in the class of 70 or fewer members) and the Salisbury Woman's Club (more than 70 members). The winners were cited for their two-year programs of community betterment.

The Salisbury club also won the $100 sweepstakes award for general excellence of projects. Second place in the community achievement contest went to the Washington Woman's Club and the Raleigh Junior Woman's Club.

A silver candelabra was presented to the Fayetteville Woman's Club as winner of the federation's Help-A-Home award, a program for helping needy families.

Cold Wet Winter Due To Upper Air Patterns

By NOEL YANCEY
RALEIGH (AP)—How come the weather was like it was this past winter—cold and wetter?
Now if you want a simple answer, says the weatherman, just say it got cold and it stayed that way, and the ground got thoroughly soaked last November and it never dried out.
If you want a scientific answer from Charles E. Carney, chief meteorologist of the Raleigh-Durham office of the U.S. Weather Bureau, he explains:
"During a normal winter, the wind circulation in the upper atmosphere is characterized by a series of waves which move from west to east. On the eastern side of one of these waves, you get southerly winds and on the west, or back side, you get northerly winds. When things are normal, these waves keep moving along, one after the other, and we get a progression or alternation of cool and warm spells.
But if we get a well-developed wave to the east of us and it remains virtually in the same position day after day, you get a broad sweep of northerly winds that pull cold air down from the arctic, and keep pulling it down.
And, said Carney, that's a situation we had a number of times during the past winter.
He explained that these upper air patterns produced a series of storms which moved northeastward along the Atlantic Coast and halted in the North Atlantic. While sitting there, these storms sent their winds in a counter-clockwise circle that kept shooting the cold air south.

Another factor in the cold weather, said Carney, is the jet stream, a narrow band of high velocity winds in the upper atmosphere. During this past winter, the jet stream was pushed far to the south, and this contributed to the southward movement of the cold air from the arctic regions.
Carney said that just what caused this shift in the upper air wind patterns is not known.
Carney noted Weather Bureau records show that January, February and March was the coldest three-month period in the history of weather records in the state. January in this area averaged 35.9 degrees compared with a long-term average of 41.4. February averaged 35.5 degrees compared with 43.1, and March averaged 44.6 compared with 50.1. The average for the entire three months was 38.7 degrees, compared with a long-term average of 44.9.
Precipitation-wise, the winter was not unusual, except for November which had more than twice the normal amount of rainfall for the month. As a result, the ground got soaked and with the cold weather that followed it never dried out.

Tuscarora Chief Seeks Path Of High Diplomacy In Dispute

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A soft-spoken but firm-jawed Indian chief walked a narrow path today between the surging power of material progress and the turmoil of politics among his own people.
Elton Black Cloud Greene, head chief of the Tuscaroras for 11 years, was seeking a way to that high level of Indian diplomacy for which his Iroquois ancestors were justly famous.
The Power Authority of the State of New York is seizing 1,383 acres of Tuscarora reservation land under a state law only a week old. The land is to be part of a storage reservoir for the 600-million-dollar Niagara redevelopment project, already under way. The price, the new seizure law says, can be decided later.
In fruitless negotiations last winter, the Power Authority offered the Tuscaroras $1,000 an acre. The Indians refused.
"We hold sacred to our hearts," said Greene in a statement right out of history, "the small reservation we have left in our possession."
The reservation, which lies along the rocky ridge northeast of this city, totals 6,248 acres. The nearly 700 residents either farm their assigned plots or work in nearby businesses or industries.
The 68-year-old Greene, a mild-mannered retired carpenter, slipped by a tough hurdle yesterday as violence erupted briefly on the reservation. The Tuscaroras successfully turned back the state's surveyors, with Wallace Mad Bear Anderson, a young dissident who reportedly years for the chief-dgm, in the van.

Anderson and one other Indian were arrested on charges of unlawful assembly, a third was charged with disturbing the peace and a white man—a member of the survey party—was charged with third-degree assault on complaint of an Indian woman.
After all hands had pleaded innocent, the Indians returned to the reservation for a tribal powwow, where Greene and the elder chiefs prevailed. There will be no more violence, said Greene, only passive resistance. The others agreed.
Greene, who once did a turn in vaudeville as a trumpet player in an act with his two brothers, abhors violence. He wants to settle the battle in court.
"But we will fight encroachment to the end," he said.

Constitution Is Used In Defense

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. Irene Clett, who says she succeeded her 703-acre farm from the United States last month, quoted the U.S. Constitution in answer to a federal complaint.
Mrs. Clett withdrew from the United States when an injunction suit was filed to keep her off 350 of the acres.
The government complained Mrs. Clett had "taken up battle stations with firearms upon the aforesaid land," which she named Eneri, Irene spelled backwards.
Mrs. Clett answered: "A well-regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

She also asked that the injunction be set aside because she did not get a fair trial in the suit over the land.
Heirs of the late George Scott sued for half the land after he died in 1935. Mrs. Clett contended he was only a family friend who lived in her home. But the court held there was some indication of a partnership and said the heirs should get half the land.

Scout To Receive God And Country Award On Sunday

William C. Stancell, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Stancell of 1303 Evans Street, will receive the God and Country Award of the Boy Scouts of America Sunday morning at the Grace Free Will Baptist Church.
His pastor, the Rev. Rashie Kennedy, under whose supervision he met the requirements for the coveted award, will make the presentation at 11 o'clock prior to regular church services.

The award represents a year of study and service. Working with his minister, the Scout learns the Scriptures assigned him and studies the doctrines, history of polity of his church. This award, authorized since World War II, is considered on a par with the Eagle Rank, highest award in Scouting.
Stancell becomes the first member of his unit, Explorer Post 340 of the St. James Methodist Church organized five months ago, to receive one of the three top awards

Needed 4 Skulls For Authenticity

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A Sioux who plans to practice medicine Indian style bid high at a post office auction for four human skulls. He needs them for appearance's sake.
"Big Chief" Pushmorhortor said he plans to become a medicine man in "all those places you ordinarily find Indians—Oklahoma, Detroit and Chicago."
Pushmorhortor said the skulls, which he got for $37, won't contribute to curative powers. But he said they would make look more authentic—provide the professional appearance which is so important.

CHAPTER 22

Price Regan stopped at the Evans place on his way up the Yellow Cat. He didn't really expect to learn anything from Frank Evans, but he was the closest settler to the store, so there was a slim chance he had seen or heard something that would help build a case against Cole Weston and his friends.

Knowing that they had murdered Walt Cronin and proving it in court were two different things. It would take an iron-clad case to convict them, even if the trial was held in the county seat. They had influence, and they'd hire the best lawyers in the state.

Even if Price had Bruce Jarvis to testify, he wouldn't have an iron-clad case, judging from what Jean had told him. As yet, he had learned nothing from Rose, and he wasn't sure he would, or that her testimony would be of any help if she had anything to say.

He dismounted and knocked on Evans' door. When there was no answer, he went out, closing the door, vaguely alarmed because he had a capacity of sensing when things were wrong.

Evans should have made an appearance if he was here. Of course, he might have gone to the Potters or one of the other neighbors. He might have heard about Cronin and lit out of the country. They'd all be on their way in a day or two, Price thought. There wasn't a fighting man in the Yellow Cat neighborhood with Cronin dead; they wouldn't even try to resist.

He crossed the yard to the shed and stopped in the doorway, shocked by what he saw. Red Sanders lay face down in the barn litter. Frank Evans was about twenty feet from him at the far end of the shed. A 44 Colt lay between them, closer to Evans than to Sanders. Both were dead, and apparently had been for several hours.

Carefully Price walked inside, keeping close to the wall, and spent some time examining the scene. The fact that there was only one gun puzzled him. Whose was it, and had it killed both men? Those were questions he couldn't answer. There was, he thought, the possibility they had wrestled over the gun, one had been shot, and the other had succeeded in taking the Colt from the other man and then had shot him.

A possibility, but a slim one, both men hit as hard as they had been. Sanders must have died at once, Evans might have lived a few minutes. The gun, Price was sure, belonged to Sanders. His holster was empty. It was doubtful that Evans ever owned a six-shooter.

Returning to the yard, Price examined it for tracks, but the ground was hard and he found nothing conclusive. Horses had been here this morning, but that proved nothing. He mounted his roan and turned up the creek toward the Potter place, puzzled by the fact that of the four men who had hanged Cronin, Red Sanders was the one who was killed. Sanders would be the last man to shoot Frank Evans, especially if the man didn't have a gun.

One other possibility occurred to Price. Sanders might have shot

Judge Distrusts A Future Groom

GREENWOOD, S.C. (AP) — State Circuit Judge James Pruitt says 19-year-old Lonnie Brewer must have been preparing for marriage—but the judge didn't like his methods.

He sentenced Brewer to five terms totalling eight months, with time off for good behavior, for stealing items which included a frying pan and a toaster.

Brewer was married here yesterday between the morning and afternoon court sessions.

"The girl who married you must have more faith or less sense than I have," the judge remarked.

PUBLIC NOTICE

MARSHAL'S NOTICE OF SEIZURE. Whereas, on the 26th day of March 1958, the United States filed a libel in the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of North Carolina, in the Washington Division, against one 1957 Ford 4-door Fairlane 500 automobile, Serial No. D7CT133782, described therein, alleging the right of forfeiture, and by virtue of process issued in due form to me directed, returnable on the 25th day of April, 1958, I have seized and taken the said property into custody. Notice is hereby given to all persons claiming said property or any interest therein to appear in the United States Courtroom in the City of Washington, North Carolina, on the 25th day of April, 1958, and assert their claim or default and condemnation will be ordered as prayed in the libel. This the 27th day of March, 1958. B. Ray Goheen, United States Marshal.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

The undersigned, having qualified as Executor of the Estate of J. R. Jenkins, deceased, late of Pitt County, N. C., this is to notify all persons having claims against said estate to exhibit them to the undersigned Executor on or before the 8th day of April, 1958, or this Notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery. All persons indebted to said estate will please make immediate payment to us.
