

Western Big 3 Reluctantly OK Separate Parleys

PARIS (AP)—The Western Big Three reluctantly agreed today that their Moscow ambassadors continue separate consultations with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on preparations for a summit conference.

Awards Board May Act Friday On Griggs Case

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Board of Awards may take action next Friday on a request that it reconsider its award of a state contract to competitors of Griggs Equipment Co.

The six-member board held a hearing on the case yesterday but decided to postpone action in order to allow members time to think it over.

Griggs Co., which had planned to open a plant in Selma June 1, threatened to move its plant from North Carolina after it failed to get a contract to supply unit table-chairs and chair desks to the state's schools.

Representatives of the furniture manufacturing company did not attend the hearing, but the threat was reiterated in a wire from Frank Butler, vice president of the Texas company.

His wire said "We shall seek a more hospitable area should we be denied the privilege of soliciting school furniture business from North Carolina schools."

Two board members made it plain the board would not make an exception of the Briggs company because of its threat to move. Rep. J. K. Doughton of Alleghany, a member, said, "What I do will not be because of an implied or direct threat."

Of Butler's wire, Doughton said, "If I remember it correctly, this company says it didn't come to North Carolina to get North Carolina business, but if it doesn't get it, it's going to leave."

on this point, Poland and Czechoslovakia also should take part to equalize East-West representation in preliminary negotiations.

The West is opposed to any such enlargement of the preliminary talks for fear of the precedent it would set in future conversations on questions in which the Big Four have primary responsibility.

The Soviet move to bring in Poland and Czechoslovakia was aimed at striking a parity between NATO members and members of the Warsaw Pact. This was seen as an effort to give added prestige to the Russian-dominated Warsaw alliance, equating Poland and Czechoslovakia with Britain and France.

In their note, as released by the French Foreign Ministry, the three Western allies said the fact that they are accepting further separate ambassadorial talks "does not, however, prejudice in any way the composition of any other meeting in the future."

The three ambassadors are Llewellyn E. Thompson of the United States, Sir Patrick Kelly of Britain, and Maurice Dejean of France.

The note said the three will be ready, after discussing the agenda for a summit conference, to take up the questions of the date and site of the conference of foreign ministers. They also will be prepared to discuss what nations will be invited to this conference, it said.

The foreign ministers' meeting would be an intermediate step toward the summit meeting.

Satisfied That Trip To Chicago Will Pay Off

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges says he is satisfied that an industry-hunting trip he and a group of Tar Heels made in Chicago this week "will pay off dividends in the long run."

"We did not expect immediate results," the governor commented last night, "but we found much greater interest, both general and specific, than we had anticipated."

Hodges, who returned by plane yesterday, said "the thing that impressed all of us, including the people we saw in Chicago, was the dedicated interest on the part of upwards of 60 people from North Carolina who made the trip of their own accord."

Two or three of the industrial prospects contacted requested more specific information about North Carolina "and that sounds very good indeed," Hodges said.

A number of special events have been scheduled from the visiting Scouts including an air rescue demonstration by the United States Coast Guard, which is sending a helicopter here this afternoon and safety demonstrations by the State Highway Patrol, the Greenville Rescue Squad and the Marine Corp.

Displays have been set up by the Order of the Arrow, a council organization, and Bill Hammet of the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission.

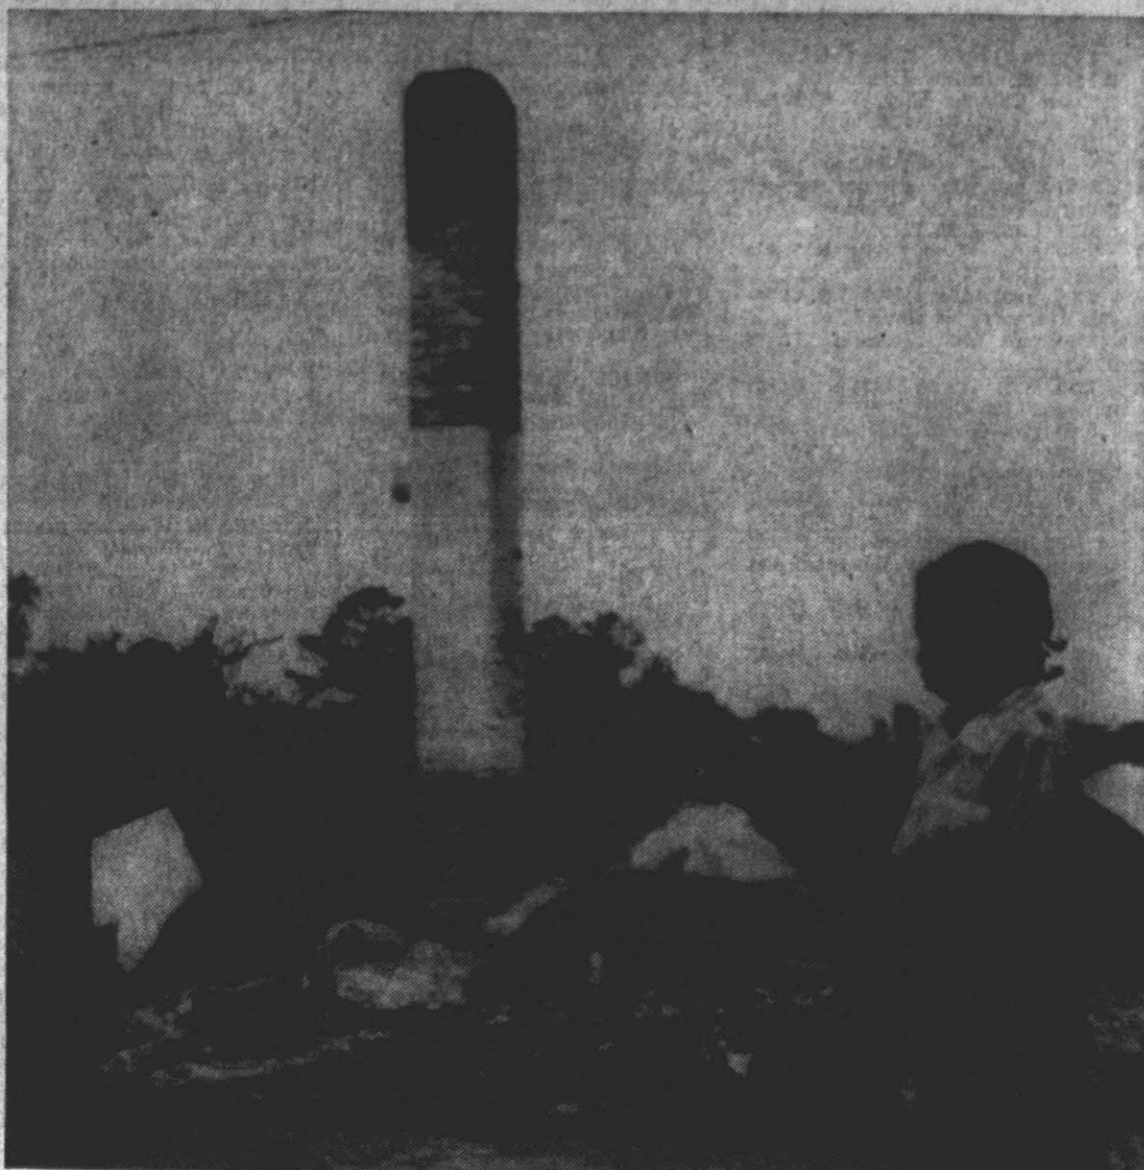

Approximately 25,000 men, women and children are expected to visit the local site during the week-end.

Flames Destroy Home

CLARA MAE SMITH . . . she was saved from burning home by her father, Jack Smith.

Father Saves Child As Roof Collapses On Fiery House

A father snatched his ten-year-old daughter from their fiercely burning home last night an instant before the roof collapsed.

In rescuing his child, however, Jack Smith, 49-year-old Negro sawyer, suffered first and second degree burns of the legs, arms and face.

His wife, Mrs. Julia Mae Smith, 32, also suffered severe burns of the arms and legs in the fire which destroyed the family's four room frame dwelling in North Greenville last night.

The fire of undetermined origin struck the Smith home shortly after 2 o'clock this morning.

"All I know is I was sleeping and my nose got to burning," Smith said. "When I woke up fire was all over the house."

Smith and his wife and another 13-year-old daughter had made their way out of the burning dwelling. Smith looked back and saw his younger daughter, Clara Mae still inside.

"I grabbed her up and pulled her to the front door and the roof fell in," he said.

The father said when he grabbed his daughter fire shot in his face causing additional burns. However, the flames missed the daughter and she escaped unscathed.

Firemen were called to the blaze shortly after 2 a.m. The dwelling was located outside the city limits just to the west of the ACL tracks on North Greene St.

Smith, who owned the dwelling, said no furnishings were saved. However there was some insurance on the loss.

Smith and his wife were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment by two white men. They were treated there for their burns.

Smith is employed by North Side Lumber Co.

Association Is Meeting Today

Members of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association are holding three meetings on the campus of East Carolina College this weekend.

The first of the series was held this afternoon in the Joyner Memorial Library. Featured was a talk by Dr. L. F. Brewster of the College faculty on "History of Eastern North Carolina" and a panel discussion by Mrs. Inglis Fletcher of Edenton, historical novelist; Mrs. Meban Holman Burgwyn of Jackson, author of juvenile fiction; and Dr. Hugh Lefler of the University of North Carolina, historian.

At 5:30 a dinner is scheduled in the East Dining Hall of the college. Dr. Robert Humber of Greenville will discuss "The History of Pitt County."

Tomorrow morning the Rev. W. M. Howard, Jr., will speak on "The History of the Church in Eastern North Carolina" at 11 o'clock in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Unemployment Claims See Drop

WASHINGTON (AP)—New claims for unemployment compensation benefits dropped slightly last week.

Reporting this yesterday, the Labor Department said initial claims, reflecting new layoffs, declined by 23,300 to a total of 423,000 during the week ended April 26.

The department's Bureau of Employment Security attributed the decline in insured unemployment to a seasonal pickup in construction and other outdoor work.

Dulles Brands Soviet Veto -- 'Frightening'

DURHAM, N.H. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles was enroute to Copenhagen today for a NATO conference at which he is expected to pick up fresh support for President Eisenhower's Arctic inspection plan despite a Russian veto yesterday.

Before taking off from Pease Air Force Base in nearby Portsmouth last night, Dulles branded as "frightening" the Soviet veto in the United Nations Security Council.

"The result is tragic" but the United States will "refuse to be discouraged," Dulles told 800 persons attending an atomic power institute at the University of New Hampshire.

"At the choice of the Soviet Union, the fears and the risks continue," Dulles said. "They continue for one reason alone, and that is because the Soviet Union rejects international inspection against surprise attack."

Dulles said "the significance of that is frightening. It means that at the will and choice of the Soviet Union we shall have to go on living on the edge of an awful abyss from which we could, so readily, be rescued if only the Soviet Union did not insist on retaining for itself the possibility of massive surprise attack against us."

There have been reports the North Atlantic foreign ministers meeting, opening Monday in the Danish capital, will support the U.S. polar inspection plan in a public statement.

Dulles also is expected to discuss with NATO ministers the U.S. position on preparation for a summit conference.

The secretary said rulers in the Kremlin have set five major goals in their drive for world domination. He listed them as Communist domination of Eastern Europe, continued partition of Germany, liquidation of Western collective defense alliances, U.S. recognition of Red China and its admission to the United Nations, and elimination of current trade controls which keep strategic war goods from the Sino-Soviet bloc.

Last Rites Sunday For Dr. Barrett

Funeral services for Dr. John Milton Barrett will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel at 2:30 Sunday afternoon by the Rev. W. M. Howard, his pastor, and burial will be in the Barrett Family Cemetery in Greene County near Farmville.

Dr. Barrett died at his home, 805 James Street, early Friday morning following a heart attack.

Dr. Barrett, son of the late John L. and Estelle Wooten Barrett, was born August 24, 1899, in Greene County. He was graduated from Duke University with an A. B. Degree and then attended the Joseph's Hospital in Lancaster, Pa., and at Bryn Mawr Hospital in Philadelphia. He had practiced here continuously since 1927.

Dr. Barrett was a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, the Greenville Elks Lodge, and the Pitt County Post of the American Legion. He was a member and past president of the Greenville Kiwanis Club. He was also a member of the American Medical Association and the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Florence Schwarz Barrett; a son, John Bernard Barrett, a student at the University of North Carolina; a daughter, Katherine Elizabeth Barrett of the home; three sisters, Mrs. John G. Barden of Boone, and Mrs. W. M. Currie and Miss Priscilla Dixon Barrett of Greene County near Farmville; and two nephews.

The family requests that flowers be omitted.

News Blackout In Auto Parley

DETROIT (AP)—A news blackout went into effect today as General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union met in their first Saturday contract bargaining session.

The UAW and GM and Ford Motor Co. agreed yesterday to reinstate the blackout, which was lifted last weekend. Chrysler Corp. and the union are expected to reach a similar agreement when they resume new contract talks Monday.

The blackout is scheduled to last until May 15, but either side can lift it by giving the other 24 hours notice. Contract expiration deadline is May 29.

His Own Story

An interview with Haywood Dail, the man who chewed up opposing ballots when the college bond issue was approved many years ago, will highlight the Reflector's 50th anniversary college edition.

Dail is said to have chewed up and swallowed ballots opposing the $100,000 bond issue in order that the college might be established here.

His story of that election will be told in the special tabloid edition which is to be issued during the week of May 12.

That story and others along with photographs are now being prepared by Reflector staff members and college personnel.

ECC Historical Pageant Tonight

Opening a two-day observance today and tomorrow of its Golden Anniversary, East Carolina will present tonight at 8 p.m. in the Wright Auditorium the story of its fifty years of progress from a small normal school in 1907-1909 into the East Carolina College of today.

"East Carolina's Spade: To Serve," historical pageant written by Emma L. Hooper of the faculty, will have a second performance Sunday afternoon, May 4, at 3:30 in the Wright Auditorium. The public is invited.

The two performances of the pageant are chief attractions of a weekend of programs May 3 and 4 given in celebration of the Golden Anniversary of the college. Events include a two-day meeting of the State Literary and Historical Association; May Day exercises; a meeting of the college Board of Trustees; an exhibition of paintings by Pitt County artists in the college library; and a number of social events.

Wet Weather Still Threatens Scout Camporee

Although rain clouds have and still are threatening, only a few scattered showers have hindered Scouts and Scouters attending the 24th annual East Carolina Council Camporee here.

Despite favorable weather conditions thus far, the weatherman stands fast for his prediction for a rainy weekend.

It has been estimated that approximately 3,200 Scouts and Scouters camped at the 40-acre Camporee site on N.C. 43 last night with several other troops reporting in this morning. Unofficially 3,500 men and boys, including all personnel, are expected to attend the three-day event, the highlight of the Scouting year.

According to reports from Camporee Chief Wiley Wall of Havelock, everything is running in an orderly manner. One official stated this morning that the Camporee is "one of the best ever staged in the Council."

A number of special events have been scheduled from the visiting Scouts including an air rescue demonstration by the United States Coast Guard, which is sending a helicopter here this afternoon and safety demonstrations by the State Highway Patrol, the Greenville Rescue Squad and the Marine Corp.

Displays have been set up by the Order of the Arrow, a council organization, and Bill Hammet of the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission.

Approximately 25,000 men, women and children are expected to visit the local site during the week-end.

Thus far, according to unofficial reports, Pitt District Troops have scored well in the Camporee events staged yesterday and this morning. Representing the District are Troops from Greenville, Ayden, Farmville, Grifton, Fountain, Bethel, Bell Arthur and Winterville.

Two Troops, representing the Oconeechee Council, and the Tidewater Council, have arrived and set up camp. This marks the first time in history that "guest" Troops have been invited to attend a Council Camporee.

DOUBLE DATE

Love and marriage—one of the thresholds of life. Approaching it are the happy strides of youth. Beyond it, joy for some, sorrow for others.

And how long the world has searched for a formula that would test the quality of love... a standard that would assure happiness in marriage.

Until finally, with remarkable wisdom, we've begun to realize that it all depends on the individuals themselves.

But, of course, there are two individuals! How can we provide both with the qualities of character that will enrich their marriage?

The Church believes the answer lies in continuous religious training and wholesome boy and girl activities. With deep concern for the individual, the couple, and the community, it is building the character of America's youth... safeguarding for tomorrow as well as today the sanctity of marriage, home and family.

Have you a son or daughter? Have they a church?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Turn-Around Opens Their Eyes

By MARTHA PIERCE Reflector Teen Writer Youth Day Thursday enabled 14 Junius H. Rose seniors to get a first-hand glimpse of how the city government operates.

Helen Overton and Mary Ann Bryant had positions in the County Court House as Clerk of Superior Court and Register of Deeds. "They showed us everything our job involved," commented Mary Ann. "I never dreamed that the registrar's job was so complex. I would like to thank the people who gave us a chance to see the city government at work," she added.

microfilming of records. She also looked up the birth certificates of some of the people she knew, and deeds.

The city councilmen, Ralph Johnson, Don Wilkerson, Walker Allen, and JoAnne Parks, listened in on the city council meeting. After the actual meeting was over, the youth council met and made recommendations to the city council concerning traffic near the high school and graves needed in front of the high school building.

Sheriff Lawrence Perkins missed an investigation of a suicide by a matter of minutes. Other city officials were Bobby Edwards, county auditor; Kelly Barnhill, director of public works; Robert Howell, fire chief; Dick Evans, chief of police; Godfrey Oakley Jr., city manager; Ed Buchanan, city clerk; and Bob Bilbro, mayor.

Tests, Tests Mrs. Mims' second-year French class took the National French test distributed by the National Association of French Teachers on Wednesday and Thursday.

The senior class took the two-hour Ohio State examination Friday morning. Thursday night some of the alumnae of West Greenville School attended the ceremonies in which the school was renamed for Miss Agnes Fullilove, principal.

Here and There Yvonne Allen left Saturday for Portsmouth, Va. to spend the weekend with relatives. Alvaine Bass and Naomi Gibbs left Friday afternoon to spend the weekend in Raleigh. Ann Marshall Allen also went to Raleigh for the weekend.

Ten Tables In Duplicate Club Play Last Night

Visitors from nearby towns doubled the number of participants at the monthly master point game of the Faculty Duplicate Club last evening to ten tables.

North-South winners, all members of the Wilson club, were Dr. W. B. Clark and Miss Sally A. Boyce, first; Miss Julia Farmer and Mrs. C. C. Harris, second; Mrs. Roney High and Mrs. S. S. Lawrence, third; Mrs. N. B. Thomas and Miss Emily Langley, fourth.

East-West winners were Mrs. Ada Dempsey and Mrs. Sarah Mayo, first; Mr. and Mrs. Eustace Conway, second; Miss Marguerite Rouse and Dr. James H. Stewart, third; Mrs. Norman Garrison and Mrs. Frank Moseley, fourth.

It was announced that the club would not play May 9 because of the North State Bridge Tournament to be held in Raleigh next weekend.

Ride Around, Look At Greenville Closely' West Urges Church Women

By ANNE SINGLETON Reflector Woman's Editor "How many of you have gotten into your cars and ridden around and really looked at Greenville and thought how much better it would have been if we had had previous town planning?"

That question was put before the Greenville Council of Church Women by Mayor S. Eugene West when the women met yesterday for a luncheon meeting at Eighth Street Christian Church.

Appearing on the May Fellowship Day panel with West was Leonard Bloxam, city manager, who also discussed "Housing" prospects for Greenville in the future.

In order to have an effective, light-free community, West suggested an Urban Renewal Plan. "We have got to look ahead 25-30 years. This is a far-reaching program which we will be working on for 10 years or more. But a community needs a workable program of this nature."

"Slums don't just happen, we let them develop. A slum is a community blueprint. Decay or growth in Greenville is everyone's problem," stressed West.

Bloxam pointed out that although Greenville has already begun to look ahead and plan the development of the community, "the Planning and Zoning Commission does not have all the tools it needs. We need a weed control ordinance for one thing," he said.

When listing the steps already taken in Greenville toward an Urban Renewal Commission Bloxam noted, "We have developed a full-time building inspector, we have the city's code up-to-date, and we are trying to adopt a minimum standard of construction."

"But, we need to adopt a standard of living code in order to compel owners to repair burned or decayed buildings."

Future plans for the benefit of Greenville and its citizens cited by Bloxam include widening the streets, eliminating the blighted areas through long-range planning, analyzing and urging owners to bring their homes up to a certain standard of living, and paving, guttering, and generally fixing the 40 miles of now dirt roads in the city limits.

"We should be proud that practically every house in the corporate limits has sanitary facilities. There are many towns, larger than ours, that cannot boast such a fact," mentioned the city manager.

How will this Urban Renewal Plan affect the taxpayers? Bloxam answered, "Improvements of blighted areas will help other property and improve the general feeling of the people of the community."

In conclusion Bloxam said, "I hope you will help us come to a conclusion on Urban Renewal which will make our community a better place to live. I believe it will give us a good firm plan to build a better Greenville on."

In introducing the guest speakers, Mrs. Helen Sermons, president of the Greenville Council of Church Women, noted, "We have long thought of the Christian home as the backbone of the American life. A home is more than a roof over your head—it is a safe, constructive place for children to grow up in."

"Millions of Americans dwell in indecent houses. There is a need for livable homes in wholesome environments for everyone." Approximately 30 women, representing churches in Greenville, attended this annual luncheon and formed a link with ten million women throughout the world who are dedicating themselves today to building life, friendship, and peace.

Reciprocal Trade Affecting Pitt

Pitt County has a major stake in the reciprocal trade program now being debated in Congress. How Congress resolves the reciprocal trade matter now before it may well affect the economic well being of every individual in this county.

Far fetched? Not on your life. The manner in which the United States conducts trade with foreign nations may on the surface seem far removed from Pitt County and the agricultural region of Eastern North Carolina. If one scratches the surface, it becomes apparent that foreign trade and the farm prosperity of this section are closely tied together.

Foreign trade is not something that has to do alone with large manufacturing concerns. It has something to do with the small farmer who raises tobacco, cotton and many other crops. The manner in which the United States conducts its foreign trade may well affect the price each farmer gets for his crop in the market place of his community.

Last year 42 per cent of the flue-cured tobacco of this country was exported under the reciprocal trade agreements. Fifty-nine percent of the country's production of cotton was exported and 55 percent of the wheat was exported under these same agreements.

Cross-Currents In N. C. Politics

By LYNN NISBET
SENTIMENT — One who attempts to appraise or evaluate political sentiment in North Carolina faces a very difficult task. There are so many cross currents and undercurrents it is often hard to determine which way the tide is running. To change the simile and perhaps more clearly state the situation, the background and overtones sometimes are more distinct than the primary harmony.

There are two main reasons for this condition. Maybe just two facets of one major reason — further evidence of the lack of clarity. The great majority of North Carolinians are individualists, independent in their political thinking, rather than subservient to any particular leader or faction. And most of them are more sincerely concerned about the good of the State than about the success of any pet idea or candidate for office.

Your reporter moved around among attendants at the North Carolina Automobile Dealers Convention at Pinehurst a couple of days this week seeking information about the attitude of business men to politics. The attendants represented an excellent composite cross section. There were a dozen or more members or former members of the General Assembly, a larger number of county commissioners and municipal aldermen, and still more who have not held public office but are interested in good government. Overwhelmingly, the majority were Democrats, but there were a few staunch Republicans. Not a single one in the whole group was willing to sell North Carolina short, to predict disaster if this or that particular policy was not adopted, or to "cuss out" the administration solely for the sake of criticism.

EXAMPLES — Ralph Winkler of Boone, who served four years on the highway commission by appointment of Governor Umstead and was a casualty of the Hodges' reorganization plan, has no criticism of the new system. It is what we've got, he said, and it's up to all of us to help make it work. It is grossly unjust to charge against any organization plan the hardships incident to the most severe winter in modern times.

Fred and Frank Deaton of Statesville, whose interest in public affairs almost equals their zeal for selling Fords, are not alarmed about the long range effort of factional scuffling in Iredell county. "Newspapers and politicians outside the county are making more ado about it than are the homefolks," said Fred.

Similar comments were made on their local situations by Buncombe and Mecklenburg county dealers. By way of contrast, Wilson, Yarbrough, two-time representative from Cumberland county in the Legislature and a candidate for another term, thought maybe the rest of the state did not fully understand the significance of local contests in Cumberland.

JORDAN — Naturally, major interest centered in the recent appointment by Governor Hodges of Everett Jordan to the United States Senate, succeeding the late Kerr Scott. The appointment was almost unanimously approved, although a number of men expressed surprise at the Governor's choice. The automobile dealers generally liked the idea of a successful business man with experience in practical politics in the Senate. There was more criticism of the implications behind the selection than of the appointment itself. Somewhat typical of these expressions may be cited.

Early Brantley, several times representative of Polk county, said there was much more criticism in his section about the way the appointment was announced than about the person appointed. Clifton Blue, veteran Moore county legislator, was not a the Pinehurst convention but your reporter took a side trip to see him in his Aberdeen newspaper office. "The Jordan appointment was not popular with the rank and file of citizenship hereabouts," he said. "It was not as unpopular as was the appointment of Frank Graham by Governor Scott, but it was played up a lot more because several of the big newspapers were for Graham and against Jordan."

SUMMARY — The conclusion of the whole matter would seem to be that business people in North Carolina, as represented by the automobile dealers, bankers and legislators attending the Pinehurst convention, have faith in the permanence and stability of North Carolina, both economically and politically; they have confidence in Governor Hodges and Senator Jordan, without accepting all of their philosophy; they think Jordan will make a good Senator, that he will be endorsed enthusiastically by the Democratic executive committee and elected this fall — and very probably will be re-elected in 1960; and they will have no part of a movement to substitute L. Y. (Stag) Ballentine or anybody else for Jordan on the ticket this fall.

They will keep an eagle eye on Raleigh and Washington, the General Assembly and the Congress, in dealings with taxation and labor relations. There was no discernible evidence that the automobile dealers wanted special consideration. In fact, that is exactly what they do not want. They are resisting the trend of several years past to make the automobile — manufacturer, dealer and operator — subject to specialized taxes solely because the automobile has become almost the one absolute necessity for the American family.

Without access to world markets afforded by reciprocal trade agreements, what would American farmers do with these commodities now being exported? How much would the farm income of Pitt County drop if reciprocal trade agreements did not afford ready markets for our tobacco in foreign countries?

Though Pitt County may seem far removed from the tobacco factories of Belgium, Germany, Japan and other countries, the farm economy in Pitt County is more closely tied to the economy of those countries than most of us think.

The loss of world markets through elimination of reciprocal trade agreements would be a severe blow to Pitt County farmers. In the interest of both industry and agriculture in the United States, Congress should extend the Reciprocal Trade Treaty which will expire July 1 unless Congress takes affirmative action.

Boating Safety Also Linked To Individual

Boats are not yet as plentiful as automobiles, but few businesses have boomed in recent years the way the small boat business has.

One result of this boom is that more boats than ever are in use on the lakes, streams, rivers, and other waters all over the country.

Congestion on the waterways is rapidly reaching the proportions of a major safety problem. The congestion is evident on week-ends even this early in the season. By the time the really hot days of July and August arrive there will be even more boats in the water, carrying more passengers and creating more hazards.

Americans—a people on wheels—have long since learned that highway safety is the responsibility of every person who drives a car. Unless boat enthusiasts quickly come to the realization that water safety is the responsibility of everyone who operates a boat, many a carefree outing in the outboard will result in tragedy.

Some efforts have been made toward promoting boating safety. The Coast Guard, though limited in its authority, has shown a greater interest in inland boating with the influx of thousands of new craft in recent years. Congressional hearings under the leadership of Congressman Herbert C. Bonner have studied the matter, looking for workable solutions to the hazards which have increased with the growing number of boats.

While these efforts will make their contribution to promoting water safety, the solution to the problem will largely remain in the hands of those who operate the largest fleet of pleasure boats this or any other nation has ever known.

To disregard the problem is to invite tragedy on one of the nation's largest playgrounds . . . its waterways.

Much Inaction On Civil Rights

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Stuck on dead center, paralyzed, the Civil Rights Commission has only 16 months of its two-year life left. Its performance so far: zero. In short, eight months have passed with no action.

There are several reasons for this but the principal one is the slowdown inflicted by the Senate Judiciary Committee. That group is headed by Sen. Eastland (D-Miss), prime force of the commission idea in the first place.

The six-man commission itself expects to meet once a month or so. Its work has to be done by its staff director. But before he can operate he must be approved by the committee and then the full Senate.

The committee hasn't acted on him although it's had more than two months to do so—and may not for several more weeks. He'll be lucky if he's in business by June 1. Meanwhile, the more the delay, the less work the commission can do.

A timetable shows what happened: Last summer after a bitter fight with Southern Democrats in opposition, Congress passed the first civil rights legislation in the 20th century. It voted to create the commission which would do several things:

Investigate complaints that citizens were being deprived of their voting rights; study laws and practices relating to civil rights in general, hold hearings any place in connection with its work; and make recommendations to Congress.

The commission's two-year life started from the moment President Eisenhower signed the legislation into law last Sept. 9. First, Eisenhower had to find people to serve on the commission. This took time.

And the commission, like the staff director, would need both committee and full Senate approval.

Last Nov. 11, during the congressional recess, Eisenhower appointed the six members, with former Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed as chairman. But Reed changed his mind about serving. He resigned Dec. 3, just before the commission's first scheduled meeting.

Twenty days later, Dec. 23, Eisenhower chose as chairman Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University. The six commissioners—three Northerners and three Southerners—were sworn in Jan. 3. But they didn't get Senate approval until March 4.

Because they were named before Congress convened, they could serve before being confirmed, but first they had to find a director.

They finally agreed on Gordon M. Tiffany, former New Hampshire attorney general. But while he awaits confirmation he is serving only with the title of consultant at a salary of $50 a day, not the $22,500 a year provided for the director.

Eisenhower sent his nomination to Congress Feb. 20. His work, and the commission's task, are of necessity tied up until he gets committee and Senate approval.

He will need a staff of 70 people. So far only five have been hired: Tiffany, three secretaries, and a secretary to the commission. The commission has offices. And it has a blueprint of how it will divide up its staff work, when it finally can start employing a staff.

Meanwhile, the expenses of the commission for the rest of this fiscal year, which ends June 30, will come out of $200,000 provided from Eisenhower's emergency fund.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
URGE TO DOMINATE

"I'm going to have my way . . . You hear what I said, you can take it or leave it. . . It's going to be that way or not at all."

This is the Devil speaking—not standing on some rooftop making a proclamation, but speaking through the willful, selfish lips of some poor soul who hasn't learned that no servitude is so painful as servitude to self. The person who must always have his way is not a great, strong, commanding person; he is a weak and broken slave with an iron collar about his neck. The Devil, smiling in complacency and contempt, is leading such a person about.

The person who insists that he must dominate everything he must even dominate his own selfish will. He cannot do what he very well knows is right, because he lacks the power. The Devil, which is another name for selfishness—and a million other vices—has taken charge of the person who must cut a wide swath and rule everybody with a high hand. The domination complex is both sly and insanity—sin because it makes others suffer, insanity because it is lacking in realism.

No one is big enough to dominate much of anything. If we mind our own business and behave ourselves, we will have plenty to do.

Away For 16 Years

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ
NEW YORK (AP) — I suppose Rip Van Winkle felt something like I did.

Rip slept for 20 years. I was away for 16. We both had surprises due.

To tell the truth, I was a little afraid of coming back. But the kids were growing up and it was time they had some American schooling.

That's why I left the Associated Press' foreign service and came home after 16 years in Latin America.

My first discovery was that life in the United States — if you speak English — is easier than anywhere in the world.

Things work. Public utilities get turned on promptly. You can buy anything you can afford. People do what they say they will when they say they will.

On the other hand, the U. S. is getting more like Latin America in some ways. Take the simple matter of getting a hat cleaned in New York City.

Lots of shoe repair shops display hat cleaning signs. But it doesn't mean a thing. "We don't do that kind of work any more," they tell you.

I finally wound up in a side street hat store. They did the job. But it took a week. In Mexico, they do it in two days.

American department stores are just too big for a simple provincial from south of the border. It takes too long to find what you want to buy.

But it is rather a relief after not being able to find it at all in the biggest store in Rio de Janeiro.

The food stores are wonderful. You can get anything you want all the year 'round.

Latin America exports its best bananas to the United States. I didn't have a really good one for 16 years.

Same with coffee. The best of the crop is exported. Even the growers drink second-rate stuff. The vending machines everywhere were a surprise. I'll bet I could live for weeks on what I could get out of a machine. I'm getting callouses on my thumb from feeding in the quarters.

One of my nicest surprises, believe it or not, was the income tax.

For one thing, it's not as big as I had judged from the moans of my U.S.-dwelling friends. For another thing, you get so much for your tax money.

For example: My income tax is less than I had to pay for schools for my children in Brazil, my last post abroad.

For that, I get water I can drink right from the faucet. No filtering and boiling first. The honest policemen which don't come around once a week or month for their "tips." I get wonderful free lending libraries. I get the schools.

And I get pretty reliable weather reports, fairly clean streets and a system of public transportation that usually works.

Furthermore, my tax bill gives me a license to complain. The average American living abroad tries to keep his mouth shut about things. After all, it's not his business.

I must say, though, that the railroads here seem to have fallen apart. Trains are mostly dirty and frequently late. On the other hand, buses are bigger, cleaner and faster.

American attitudes proved to be not what I expected. There doesn't seem to be any war psychosis. Nobody seems to think that he, personally, is in any danger from the Bomb.

Right now, everybody is talking about the recession. To a veteran of the 1933 bank holiday, things ought to be pretty worrisome.

But I don't know anybody who is saving money to be ready for a real depression. And there are still more classified ads offering jobs than there are houses for sale.

I haven't made up my mind about television. I still get along with the old-fashioned radio.

And the rock 'n' roll doesn't bother me a bit. It couldn't. Not after years of Mexico's cha cha cha, Rio's samba and the Argentine gato.

They're Three-Stage Rockets

By JIMMY ELLIS Now, A 2-Stage Rocket

A group of local "practicing scientists," who dabble in rocketry in their spare time, hit a new high mark Sunday.

They successfully fired a two-stage rocket.

The firing wasn't a complete success, because the rocket's parachute device had a malfunction in the ascent of the second stage, but the missile itself climbed to an estimated 2,400 feet.

The rocket is the second one successfully launched by the group. The first was fired five weeks ago and climbed to 3,500 feet before nosing over for a crash landing.

Sunday's launching, according to available information, took place on a farm near Plymouth, after the group had obtained permission from the landowner to fire their missile. The entire assembly rose to between 1,000 and 1,500 feet before the first stage dropped off and the second stage was fired to its maximum level of 2,400 feet (about 1,900 feet short of the goal).

The second stage's firing was marred by a malfunction in the parachute assembly, which was released when the first stage dropped off. The rocketeers say the nose cone apparently exploded, upsetting a mercury switch which had been rigged to blow out the parachute.

With the parachute billowing out the side, the second stage's speed was cut sharply from the estimated 260 miles-per-hour rate of the entire assembly and the assembly nosed over much sooner than expected.

The two-stage device was fired by a mixture of zinc powder and sulphur, triggered electrically. The launching, which was described as "good," was accomplished by rigging an automobile battery and part of a flashlight together to ignite the fuel mixture.

Members of the groups who have participated in the two launches (some members of the first rocket group were not in the second group) are all engineers. They "work with scientific problems" in their jobs and their interest in rockets is a natural outgrowth of their training and experience.

They hope the training and experience will help them iron out the wrinkles in the parachute mechanism, which has been the only faulty element in both rockets. They have some plans for re-designing the mechanism, but intend to try them on smaller rockets before they try another big shot.

Incidentally, the parachute mechanism the groups have worked with thus far is an ingenious mercury switch. The switch is designed so that the mercury shifts when the rockets starts nosing over and when the shift is completed the parachute assembly is opened.

In the first attempt, the switch is thought to have jammed, preventing the parachute assembly from opening. Sunday, the engineers think the blast of the second stage launching blew the nose cone off and upset the mercury switch, causing the parachute to flutter out prematurely.

Public Forum

To The Editor:

I wish to commend the writer of the Editorial in the April 30th issue of the Reflector titled, "Growth of Greenville and E.C.C. Inseparable" as the title has caused me to again review and value various aspects of our city as now constituted, with special attention and emphasis on our small, restricted, and for the most part, unattractive main business district, and apparently apathetic attitude of our city fathers to take a forward look at our street system which would both promote and invite a very much needed expansion of "The Downtown Business District," which would unquestionably lead to a much greater interest in Greenville by merchandising establishments seeking to locate here and much needed in our community to provide wider choice and selection of commodities to induce the buying public to look to Greenville as the leading shopping center of this area, as well as the cultural center, and to afford greater employment opportunities.

It is difficult to visualize a "city" shopping center compacted into the narrow confines of our present shopping district which for the most part lies along a little more than three blocks of Evans Street. It may be argued that the business district overflows westward from Five Points along Dickinson Avenue for quite some distance. There is restricted parking along this business street, all the way to the A.C.L. Railroad; therefore, this area can never be expected to attract the best merchandising establishments.

It is not alone a challenge to this city to arise to the opportunities given it by the cultural center which has developed here, but it is the city's obligation to do all within its power, commensurate with good government and sound financing, to provide ample and adequate city planning, looking forward and anticipating the growth of our college community and the further demands placed upon the city by this ever expanding, somewhat transitory population.

Since deciding to cast my lot with the Greenville community 'til death do us part, I have been quite concerned about the small business district in what we shall call the downtown area. Main Street, if you please. This condition has resulted in acute parking problems, and demands have increased for off-street parking lots. Certainly, no one has all the answers to any given problem, but, since the city's population is growing from a central point near 10th and 14th Streets, in my humble and considered opinion, much wisdom would be shown by those in authority if they would exercise themselves to the end that Evans Street be widened and paved to its greatest possible width all the way from Five Points to the Southern City limits near the Norfolk Southern Railroad, providing parking on each side of that street.

Further, every reasonable effort should be made to widen Greene Street to its fullest possible width from Second Street to Dickinson Avenue, to encourage business expansion onto what would then be a desirable location, and result in a lessening of traffic congestion on Main Street (Evans). The time is also ripe for the widening and paving of East Fourth Street, all the way to Elm Street, if not to its intersection with 5th Street.

Greater interest in the college athletic program attracts greater numbers to these events each successive year; thus, it behooves the city to begin planning how to alleviate the conditions retarding the free flow of traffic in the area of the college campus and athletic fields. If positive steps could be taken at this time to assure the progressive developments as herein outlined; then and only then, would the city demonstrate its awareness of the obligations, demands, and opportunities afforded us by the location of East Carolina College in our midst.

More Look-Aheads In Business

By ELMER ROESSNER
Here are more look-aheads in business, based on analyses of developing trends and reinforced with an occasional bit of advance information:

Boom in synthetics. Demand for wash-and-wear apparel is rising and will rise further with the thermometer. Because most use some synthetic fibers, demand is increasing and prices are showing a tendency to go up, too.

More consumer credit. In determined efforts to increase sales, retailers are working on new credit plans and promotions. One of the nation's largest cash-and-carry chains is planning to test credit selling in the fall.

Other cash merchandisers are thinking things over quite seriously.

LESS PER 'CUP. Good growing weather is producing a bumper coffee crop in Brazil; in addition there's a carry-over of about six months supply. The government will increase efforts to keep part of the crop off the market and shore up the price. However, commodities have a way of breaking through government restrictions and prices will dip accordingly.

Bargains in conditioners. It will cost less to stay cool this summer. Air conditioners will be cheaper to operate. The industry is stepping up production of portable models operating on ordinary house current—and it is getting ready for one of the toughest competitive battles in years. Prices will be held down to lowest profit margins practical—and some may be knocked below that.

New insurance drive. Auto liability insurers, hard hit by ever larger giveaway judgments, are talking up a new plan and bills to carry it out may soon be introduced by friendly legislators in many states. The plan is to put legal limits on awards for "pain and suffering."

Many accident verdicts carry a few hundred dollars for medical and other expense and loss of earnings, and thousands for the victim's anguish. Insurance companies would like this last limited to a fraction of the medical bill, except in cases involving drunken driving or moral turpitude.

NEW COLOR-TV SYSTEM. More color television. A new system is being developed in which cheaper black-and-white films can be projected in color.

Prisms in cameras produce three images on the same film; when the film is projected with a special decoding device, the picture appears in natural colors on color TV sets. Developing the film is also much faster than developing ordinary color film.

More business gifts. The recession is increasing the use of gifts to promote business. Gifts of merchandise are expected to total $350,000,000 this year. John J. Oakson, president of the Osborne-Kemper-Thomas gift-selling firm, predicts the annual total will reach half a billion dollars in a few years.

Faster defense spending. Much of the money voted for defense is not yet being spent because of more complicated missiles. However, in the second half of the year defense spending will rise sharply and that won't hurt the economy a bit!

BUT IT WILL NEVER REPLACE THE WATCH. The Old Promoter had that certain look in his eye when he came in today. It was plain he was seeking an investment in a new scheme.

"I am forming a company to modernize the sundial," he said. "Do people look at sundials in the winter when it's cloudy? Of course not! They use them in summer only. So I'm going to bring out sundials calibrated for daylight saving time. I'm getting a patent and you and I can monopolize the market."

"I'm even going to modernize the old sundial motto. Ours will say, 'It is EARLIER than you think,' which is the truth during daylight saving times."

Actually, we were relieved. For a moment there we thought he was planning a sundial with an electric light for night use.

ECC Edges Catawba 7-6 For Seventh Conference Win

Mallory Uses Three Pitchers To Top Indians

By BILLY ARNOLD
East Carolina maintained its second place ranking in the North State Conference last night by drumming down a stubborn Catawba team, 7-6, at Guy Smith Stadium.

The Bucs' narrow victory was their seventh in eight starts against conference foes, and keeps them within sight of league-leading Elon, which is 9-1.

Coach Jim Mallory used pitchers George Williams, Ben Baker and Len Lilley last night to trim the visiting Indians. Williams pitched flawless ball for 3 2-3 innings, not giving up a hit. However, he walked five men in the fourth inning and sent two of them across the plate. Baker came in then.

Baker hurled well, striking out the remaining batter and squelching any further Indian scoring, and went on to strike out the next four batters to face him. Then, in the seventh, Baker got into trouble, and Lilley entered the game.

Slight Hitting
Hitting was slight for both teams. East Carolina picked up only five hits. Catawba accounted for only four, two of which were home runs.

All five ECC hits were by different boys. Collecting them were Jerry Stewart, Jimmy Martin, Tommy Nance, Al Vaughn, and Baker.

Home runs by Gene Fleming and Paul Roberts were Catawba's big efforts. Catawba's first two runs were walk-ins by Williams and the homers in the sixth and seventh innings accounted for the other four tallies.

East Carolina picked up three runs in the first, two in the fourth, and two more in the fifth to round out their scoring. Four errors by Catawba helped ECC's scoring causes quite a bit. Only two Bucs received credit for RBIs. They were Jimmy Martin and Baker.

Pitchers' Game
The contest was a pitcher's game between ECC's three moundsmen and Catawba's J. T. Davis. The game as a whole produced a large number of strikeouts, but an equally large number of walks and wild pitches and hit batsmen. Williams struck out seven and walked five; Baker fanned four and walked three; Lilley fanned two and walked three. Davis struck out four and issued six walks.

The victory was ECC's first of the season against Catawba. The two clubs were supposed to play at Catawba Monday night but rain forced postponement. Coach Mallory stated today that unless it was needed, the make-up game would not be played. Should it be necessary, having some bearing on the outcome of the title race, it will probably be played there on May 14 or 15.

Big Week Ahead
Next week is the biggest week of the season for North State Conference teams, as the 1958 campaign begins the home stretch. Elon, leading with a 9-1 mark, will be played five games; East Carolina, second with a 7-1, will also have five games on tap; Catawba, ranked 3 before last night, will play four.

The league will be a hive of activity from Monday to Saturday and it is possible that the title could be decided by Wednesday.

Coach Mallory takes his Pirates to Appalachian Monday and Tuesday and then to Guilford on Wednesday. Friday, Lenoir Rhyne will be here in Greenville and the season winds up on Saturday night with Elon—in what might well be the season's biggest clash.

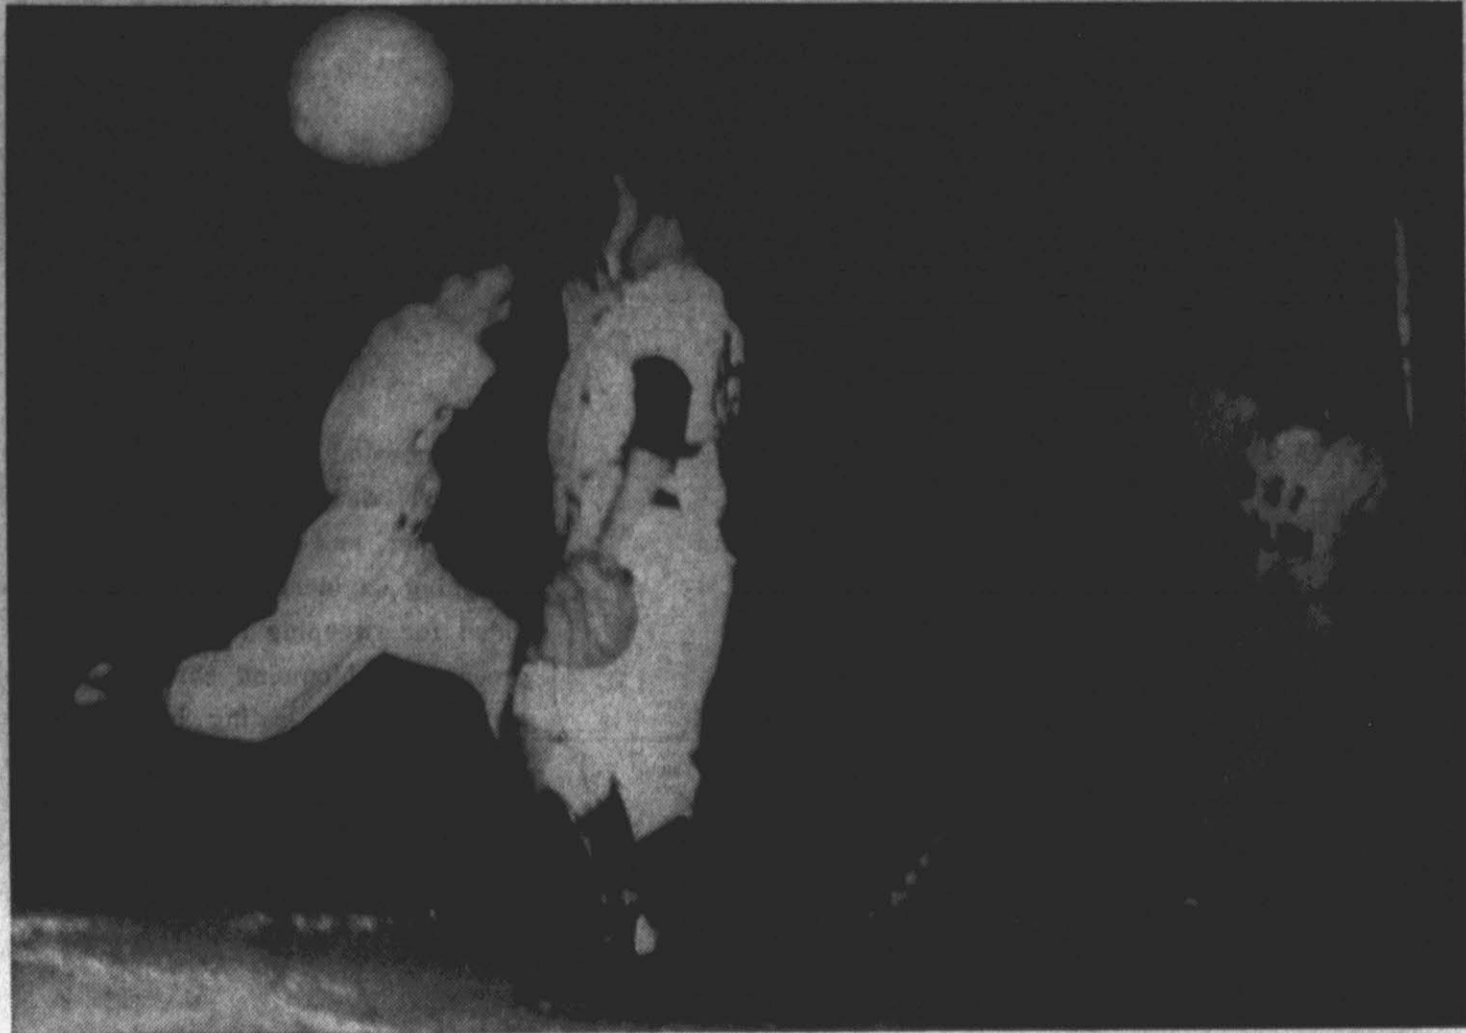

Should ECC win their first four titles—and should Elon continue to win theirs—the Saturday night ball game at Guy Smith Stadium between the two clubs would decide the championship.

College View Cleaners and Laundry will be sponsoring the Saturday night tilt. College officials said today that College View Laundry has bought 3,000 tickets for the contest and anyone desiring a free ticket can receive one by stopping by the establishment and requesting the same.

Shelley To Pitch
Mallory stated today that he plans to pitch Bruce Shelley against Appalachian Monday. Shelley is the winningest hurler on the Buc mound staff at present, with a 4-0 record.

The rest of the lineup will remain much the same as it has throughout the early season, with possible alternation of Johnny Jones, Jerry Phillips, and Tommy Land at the right field post.

COMING HOME—ECC's Tommy Nance streaks across home plate in the second inning of last night's ECC-Catawba game, following a wild throw at third base. Waving the runners on (right) is Al Vaughn. East Carolina won the game 7-6, clinging their seventh North State Conference win against one loss. (Reflector sports photo)

TAKING OFF—Joe Moya is caught in mid-air by the camera as he rounds first base yesterday afternoon after cracking a long double against Elizabeth City. Moya stretched it into a triple on an error and scored a runner.

A GOOD CUT—Greenville catcher Mack Roebuck takes a good healthy cut at the ball. Roebuck and his mates edged Elizabeth City 3-2 yesterday afternoon to make their Northeastern Conference record stand at 7-1.

Horses To Run In Kentucky Race Today; Rain May Join

By ORLO ROBERTSON
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A hand-picked field of 3-year-old horses, as finely tuned as a Stradivarius, were poised today for what could be the most sensational Kentucky Derby in the 84 years of the turt classic.

After a day of bright sunshine and drying winds had made the Churchill Downs track fast, it started raining again yesterday. The weatherman said there would be more of the same today.

Under the expected 100,000, the race could hold the crowd well under the expected 100,000.

Post time for the 1 1/4 mile race is 4:30 p.m. It will be televised and broadcast by CBS from 4:15 to 4:45 p.m. with a 15-minute preview starting at 4 p.m.

The condition of the track will determine the size of the field. Sixteen originally were entered Thursday.

On the basis of 14 starters, the Derby will have a gross value of $160,500, with a net of $116,400 to the winner. Second is worth $25,000, third $12,500 and fourth $5,000.

The possibility of an off track didn't shake the standings of the big three—Tim Tam, Jewel's Reward and Silky Sullivan. It is Silky, the flaming chestnut from California, who has turned this derby from a lack-lustre affair into one that promises to be as thrilling as any ever raced on these ancient grounds.

Trainers Jimmy Jones (Tim Tam), Ivan Parke (Jewel's Reward) and Reggie Cornell (Silky Sullivan) refused to be drawn out on a limb as to the horse to beat.

But Charlie Whittingham, trainer of Gone Fishin' predicted a track record should be going by fast.

Tim Tam, pride of Mrs. Gene Markey's Calumet Farm and winner of the Flamingo, Florida Derby and Derby Trial Stakes, remained the favorite at 2 to 1. With Ismael Valenzuela in the saddle, Tim Tam hopes to give Calumet its seventh Derby victory.

Silky Sullivan, owned by Tom Ross and Phil Klipstein of San Francisco, is the 5 to 2 second choice. Definitely, he's the horse to watch.

It may be hard to find him and his jockey, Willie Shoemaker, early in the race since Silky has been known to drop back by as much as a sixteenth of a mile. But there'll be no trouble locating him when he turns out his hind end, dips his head in, and shifts into high about a quarter-mile from the finish.

Eddie Arcaro will seek his sixth Derby triumph on Jewel's Reward.

The Maine Chance Farm ace, who moves up in mud, figured to be the third choice at 7 to 2 or thereabouts.

A victory for any of the others would go down as one of the biggest upsets in many a year.

Mudcat Grant Wins Third For Indians

By ED WILKS
It looks as though Jim "Mudcat" Grant, a rookie righthander with a fast ball, is Cleveland's No. 2 man as the Indians build a successor to the big four pitching staff of Feller, Lemon, Wynn and Garcia.

Mudcat, a 22-year-old 6-footer who is unbeaten, ranks right behind southpaw ace Herb Score after gaining his third complete game victory last night with a six-hitter that beat the Baltimore Orioles 6-1.

The kid from Lacombee, Fla., who also springs a curve ball, leads the Indians in complete games and tops the starters with a neat 1.85 earned run average.

The New York Yankees have the No. 1 pitcher in the American League for the present, however, with Bob Turley giving up but one run in 27 innings. Bob Cerv's eighth homer ended Turley's scoreless string at 19 innings, but the big right-hander gave up only three other hits in an 8-1 victory over Kansas City that padded the Yankees' lead to 1 1/2 games.

Dave Sisler gained his first shut-out in the majors with a six-hitter as Boston defeated Detroit 6-0 and Julio Becquer's 10th inning pinch-hit single gave Washington a 3-2 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

Grant walked but one and fanned three. The Orioles scored in the seventh on doubles by Gus Triandos, who had half their hits, and Bob Nieman. The Tribe handed winless Billy Loes his third defeat, scoring in the first on an error and bagging two in the seventh on Chico Carrasquel's single.

Turley, 3-0, won his 11th in 12 decisions against the a's as slumping Yogi Berra singled home two runs in a three run first against ex-Yankee Ralph Terry, who lost his first. Bill Skowron hit a two-run homer and Norm Siebert ripped a two-run double for the Yankees.

Camilo Pascual won his first for the Senators, striking out 13 — counting 10 in the first four frames. Sherm Lollar drove in both Sox runs and had half their six hits. Winless Dick Donovan started for Chicago, but gave way when the Nats tied it 2-2 in the seventh. Reliever Gerry Staley gave up his first hit when Rocky Bridges doubled in the 10th.

Sisler, 4-0 against Detroit in his brief career, gave up seven singles, with Reno Bertoia and Gus Zernial each getting two. The Red Sox handed Jim Bunning his third defeat as Pete Runnels doubled home a run in the third and singled home another in a two-run seventh.

Virginia Tech Voted Down In Bid For Entrance

By KEN ALTYA
GREENSBORO (AP)—Virginia Tech lost and football bowls and television won in the three major issues at the spring meeting of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Maryland, Wake Forest and Virginia, which had submitted a proposal to bring Virginia Tech of the Southern Conference into the eight-member ACC, withdrew their proposition at yesterday's meeting.

It was apparent that the measure would not win the required six votes if it went to a vote and the sponsors declined to press the issue.

The conference had made it possible for any member with an invitation to play in an NCAA-authorized bowl game to accept the bid after its season ends.

The Orange Bowl in Miami last January ended a five-year contract with the ACC under which it sent its "most representative" team to the game, but allowed no other bowl participation by its members.

The money split formula remains the same as in effect during the Orange Bowl pact. The competing school retains half of the money turned over to it by the bowl. The remainder is split one quarter to the conference and the rest equally among the other schools.

The television committee of the conference was given the power to make contracts for regional football telecasts next season and conference area basketball telecasts.

A 24-station network carried the games last year from the District of Columbia to Florida.

The wisdom of delaying the start of the formal full session to yesterday afternoon was reflected by the speedy manner in which the meeting was conducted. It lasted only 88 minutes. A seemingly endless series of closed meetings all day and night Thursday and again yesterday morning ironed out the kinks in several matters and their presentation for action yesterday afternoon was a virtual formality.

It still takes a 6-2 vote to bring about a change in by-laws. A proposal to make it 5-3 was withdrawn.

The limitation of athletic scholarships will be studied by a committee of two athletic directors, one football coach, one basketball coach and an athletic chairman. Duke and North Carolina State have offered proposals on the matter. The committee report will be called for at the December meeting.

Duke's plan to deny scholarships or grants-in-aid to students ranked in the lowest quarter of their class won praise for its high aim, but was defeated 6-2. Objectors said they did not feel any group should tell a school who should be awarded such a grant.

Yesterday's Stars

PITCHING
DAVE SISLER, Red Sox—Gained first major league shutout with six-hitter that beat Tigers 6-0.

GEORGE CROWE, Redlegs—Drove in six runs with two singles and a home run that overhauled a 3-1 deficit and whipped the Cardinals 7-3.

Pirate Victory Streak Sputtered Out At LA

By ED WILKS
The Pittsburgh Pirates finally ran out of pitchers, and their winning streak, which ran to six and carried them to second place in the National League, has sputtered out.

After rolling along behind Bob Friend, Ron Kline, Vern Law and some surprise relief, Manager Danny Murtaugh had to turn to his rookies last night and they blew a 5-0 lead while losing to the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-5.

Johnny Podres of the Dodgers became the first to win four in the majors this season, with Clem Labine hurling no-hit relief after the stocky southpaw gave way with arm trouble in the sixth.

The loss plunked the Pirates to fourth, 1 1/2 games behind, while San Francisco regained second with a 4-2 victory over Philadelphia. The Chicago Cubs clung to a half-game lead by overhauling a 7-0 Milwaukee budge and blasting the Braves 8-7. George Crowe drove in six runs for Cincinnati in a comeback 7-3 victory at St. Louis.

Rookie right-handers Ben Daniels, George Perez, Curt Raydon and Ron Blackburn of the Pirates took turns getting battered by the Dodgers, who had lost three straight to the Bucs. Perez was the loser, coming in on a six-run fourth. Don Zimmer had three hits, drove in three runs and stole home for the Dodgers.

Rose High Tops E. City For Seventh Win, 3-2

Rose High School clinched its seventh Northeastern Conference victory here yesterday afternoon, whipping Elizabeth City 3-2 at Brookgreen Field.

Coach Bo Farley's league-leading Phantoms blasted nine basehits to back up the hurling of big righthander Merrill Bynum, in taking the win. Bynum limited the Yellow Jackets to four basehits, despite a wildness that bothered him throughout the tilt.

Bynum fanned five batters. Before a handful of spectators at the school field, the Phantoms started slowly, but pushed across a run in the second inning. Mack Roebuck, catcher, worked the Yellow Jacket hurler into a walk and went to second base on a sacrifice fly by Bynum. Joe Moya cracked a stinging double to rightfield and chugged into third on an error by the fielder. Roebuck scored on Moya's big blow. The Phantoms weren't able to convert any more runs that inning.

Elizabeth City came back in the third to tally their first run.

In the fourth, Greenville opened up for two more runs—enough to edge the Jackets. Moya led off with a single. John Harrison flied out and Randy Bass walked. Bobby Edwards accounted for a second run in the sixth.

The triumph was Greenville's seventh against conference foes, against only one loss and cements them solidly in first place in the loop. With three games remaining on the schedule, the G-Men are favored to cop the championship.

On May 9, Roanoke Rapids is scheduled to play the Phantoms at Brookgreen Field here. On the 13th, Greenville will journey to Jacksonville and on the 16th they will wind up the season with a contest here against Kinston. The Farleymen have defeated all three of those clubs once thus far this season.

Farley is expected to pitch Joe Moya against Roanoke Rapids in the next game.

Phantomites Top Falkland

FALKLAND — The Greenville Junior High Phantomites notched their second baseball victory of the season yesterday, chopping down Falkland Junior High, 10-4, here.

Coach Milton Reese's club rapped away for 11 hits in capturing the win. It was their second win in two games this year.

Kenny Joyner started on the mound for Greenville and was relieved by Alan McArthur in the fourth with the bases loaded and nobody out.

Joyner received credit for the win. He fanned six batters. McArthur struck out seven.

On the hitting end of the stick, Greenville's top batsmen were James with three for four; Owens with two for three; Fields with a double and single for four trips; Joyner with a triple; Smith, Anderson, and McArthur with a single each.

Smith was the losing pitcher for Falkland.

Next Wednesday afternoon, the Phantomites will play host to Chocod at Guy Smith Stadium at 4:00. On Friday, Falkland will face the locals at the same place at 4:00.

Announcing The Opening Of PINEWOOD MEMORIAL PARK

The Pinewood Memorial Park symbolizes an idea in Cemetery development that has gained widespread acceptance, and especially during the past decade. The designing engineer and landscape specialists have provided for sweeping lawns, flower beds, majestic evergreens and blooming shrubbery to obtain a park of tranquility and lasting beauty. Ornamental sectional features will be of appropriate design and constructed of permanent materials, such as stone and bronze; future development of the scenic beauty of the park will include a lake. Only flat bronze grave markers will be used.

Perpetual care of the Park has been assured by the establishment of a Care Fund to be administered by The Guaranty Bank and Trust Co., Trustee. A portion of all receipts from the sale of lots will be added to this fund, from which only the income may be used.

We solicit sales on a before-need plan to permit the early development of the Park. It is better to own your own lot before need than to have to make such a decision in time of stress. We welcome your interest and inquiry.

You Name It - And Rural Store Has It

MRS. STANCILL BUYS FROM SALESMAN . . . great variety of items carried

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Walk into any of hundreds of rural stores which dot the main highways, secondary roads and lesser thoroughfares of Pitt County and you'll find the equivalent of a neighborhood grocery.

Shelves groan with canned goods—soups, peas, corn, all the things that a grocery store in county's municipalities might carry.

But there will be more. These little stores carry many of the things that the corner druggist store in Ayden, Farmville or Greenville might have.

If you need an aspirin, a pack of razor blades, or face powder the proprietor of a rural store is apt to be able to reach on his loaded shelves and supply the item.

Suppose its nails you need or bolts and nuts. That, too, can be found on the store for they stock many of the things that a hardware store in town might carry.

Need a pair of work trousers? Or a straw hat for shade when tobacco priming begins. How about a pair of work shoes?

Many rural stores stock these things too, although they might not have the proper sizes.

So the kids want a jaw breaker, or a pack of blow gum. Any country store worth its soft drink sign out front maintains a glass show case filled with sweets for the youngsters.

Suppose gas is running low as you motor along a secondary road. There is no neat service station in view as might be found on the main highways or in town. Simply wheel into a rural store. Practically all of them maintain a gas pump. The store keeper will fill 'er up.

Stancill Store

That's just the type store Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stancill of the Belvoir Highway operate. The neat white building stands alongside the secondary road, ready and waiting for customers.

Actually the Stancill store, just as others throughout the county, serves as a neighborhood shopping center for farm families within a radius of several miles.

And like so many of the stores of Pitt's rural areas it is operated as a source of additional income for the family. Stancill is a welder with a heavy equipment company and works during the day in Greenville. Thus his wife operates the place during the day. At night when Stancill returns home, he relieves Mrs. Stancill and keeps the business open until late hours.

The Stancills built the store immediately after they had completed construction of the neat brick home which stands next door.

The new building was completed last summer and the store opened for business last July 4.

"I think we've done right well," Mrs. Stancill says as she looks over the heavily stocked shelves and show cases.

"I've got some of everything you can mention—even shoes, clothes and overalls. I try to carry a little of everything the farmer uses. If someone comes in and asks for something I don't have and if I think it will sell, I put it in."

The seasons to some extent determine what Mrs. Stancill purchases from the various salesmen who visit her place of business. Now, with summer coming on, she is stocking water hose and other summertime items.

Mrs. Stancill takes pride in her candy display which she feels is as good as any rural store might carry. The glass case holds jawbreakers, blow gum, silver bells, stick candy and the usual assortment of candy bars.

She also sells ice cream cones which is something few such businesses do.

All Not Well-Run

But though there are neat new stores such as the Stancills operate throughout the County, there are also rural stores which degenerate into "juke joints" or hang outs at which beer sales are the primary source of income. These places prove detrimental to the community they serve. They are the places which law enforcement officers will say are most troublesome to them.

There are also many rural stores which prove to be uneconomical to operate. These change hands many times. Gradually they become unoccupied for longer and longer periods of time and finally they fall into complete disuse.

One such store is located on a rural road in the county. Its windows are shattered and its paint peeling. Gas pumps no longer stand in front.

However, the unmistakable smell of tobacco drifting through broken front windows tell that the building is not completely useless.

It has obviously been used for tobacco handling and a rack for tobacco sticks which stands in the middle of what was once the store area proves that it has been used for grading of the golden weed.

The neatly kept concrete block building which houses the Stancill store indicates that it is not apt to fall into such disuse. Nor is it likely to become a trouble spot.

Mrs. Stancill reports that she has experienced no trouble.

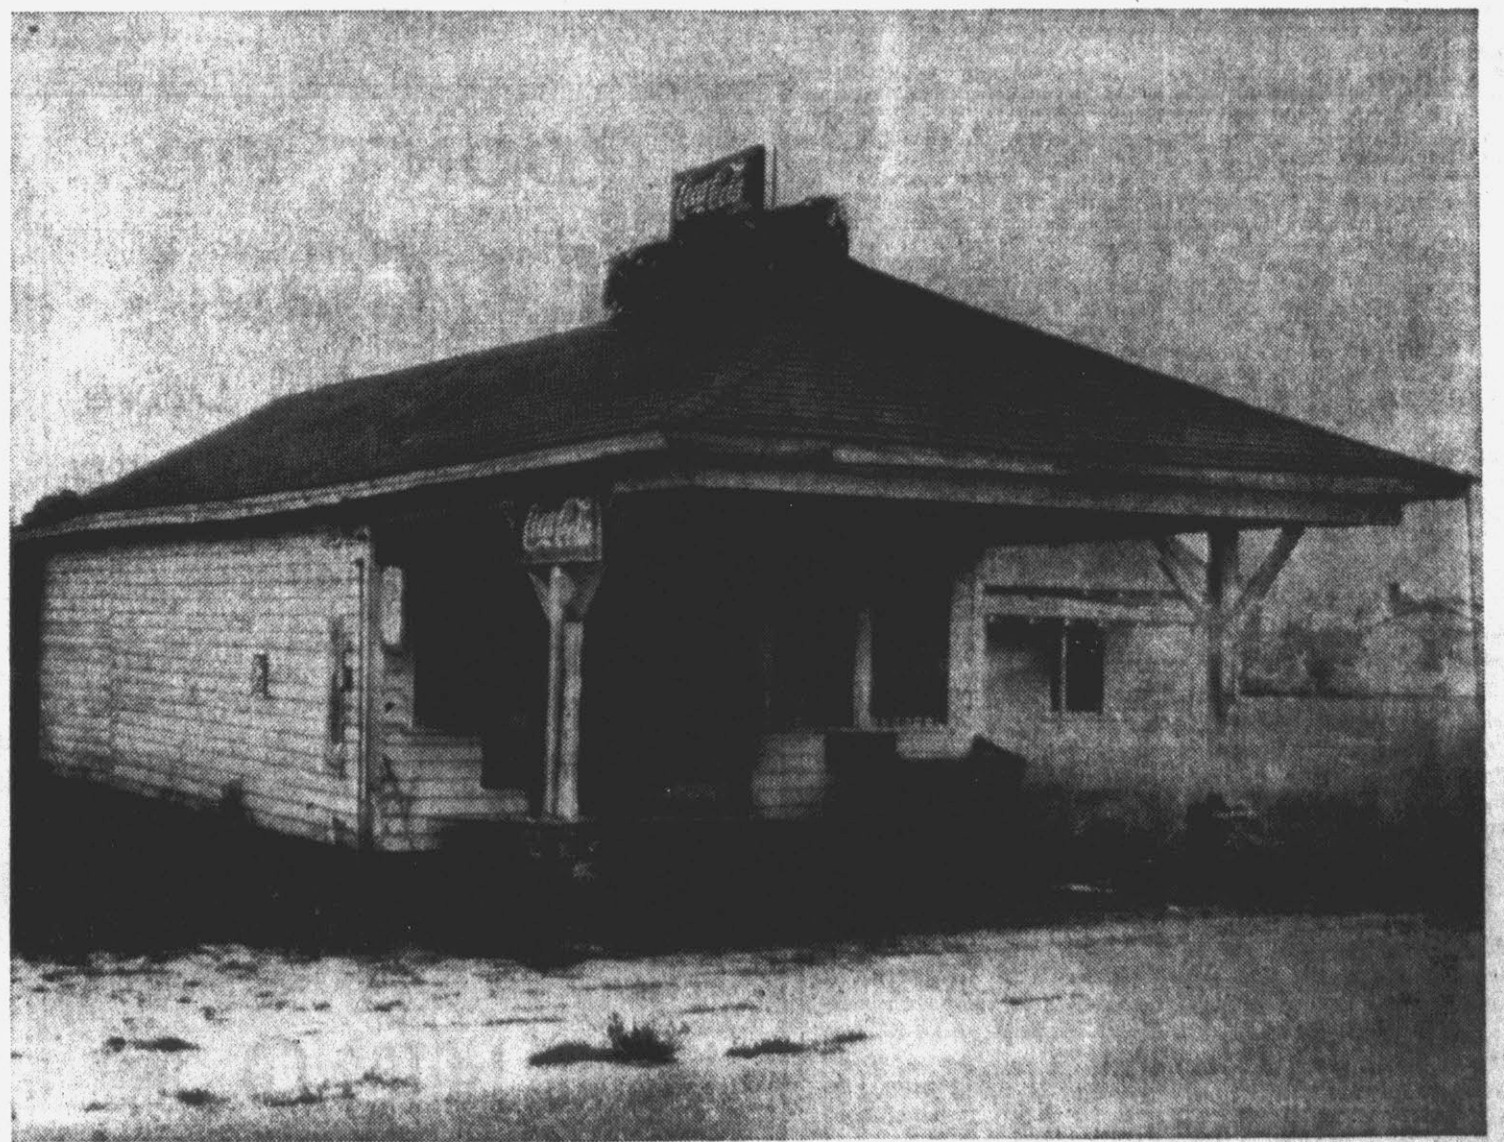

"It seems to be pretty nice and quiet around here," she declares. "I imagine its according to the type store you run. We don't sell beer. Usually people can tell before they go in a store what goes on in it."

A neatly dressed farm youth entered, purchased a soft drink and a candy bar and was on his way.

Somehow the well-run store seemed the right type place for the clean-cut teen ager to frequent.

NEED CANNED PEAS? . . . the country store has them and other food items.

ALL NOT SUCCESSFUL . . . this abandoned rural store one of many in Pitt.

"Laura's left you," Price Regan said. "and not because of me. Barry. She's all the family you've got, but you drove her out of your home. She's fair. She knows what you've done and what Cole Weston's done, and she likes Jean. Why did you do it?"

It Was All True, But In Reverse

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Raymond Ruditya, 19, reported to the police that another motorist followed his car for three miles, played bumper tag with him, then cut him off, reversed gears and rammed him from the front.

Reviewing Final Points Of Pageant

Dr. Kenneth N. Outhbert, director of "East Carolina's Spade," Golden Anniversary Pageant at East Carolina College, and assistant directors discuss some fine points of the production. All are members of the college faculty. Shown left to right are Dr. Outhbert, Claude Garren, Rosalind Rouleston, George E. Perry, and Dr. Joseph A. Withey. The pageant opens Saturday night, May 3, at 8 o'clock and will be presented again Sunday afternoon, May 4, at 3:30 in the Wright auditorium.

tees, in the role of Thomas J. Jarvis, ex-Governor of North Carolina in 1908, appears in the opening ground-breaking scene, turns the earth with the spade which gives the pageant its title, and voices his "dream" of the development of a great school located in Eastern North Carolina. More than thirty scenes in the pageant trace the realization of this dream from 1908 to the present.

BLONDIE
by CHIC YOUNG

OH, WHY DID I LET MYSELF BUY THAT HORRIBLE SOFA AT THE AUCTION?

MAMA SURE IS MAD

YOU MUST BE OUT OF YOUR MIND PAYING ELEVEN DOLLARS FOR THIS MISERABLE HUNK OF JUNK

I'LL GET OUT OF THE HOUSE FOR A WHILE UNTIL THINGS CLEAR UP

IMAGINE, TOOTSIE— HE PAID ELEVEN DOLLARS FOR IT

WAIT—I HAVE AN IDEA, BLONDIE— IT WOULD MAKE A GORGEOUS COFFEE TABLE

THE LEGS ARE BEAUTIFUL— JUST SAW OFF THE BACK AND RIP OFF ALL THE UPHOLSTERY

AND COVER THE FRAME WITH BLACK LEATHER AND GLASS

DAGWOOD TURNED OUT TO BE VERY BRIGHT AFTER ALL

I'M GOING OUT RIGHT NOW AND BUY THE THINGS I NEED

WHERE'S MAMA? IS IT SAFE FOR ME TO COME IN NOW?

MAMA'S NOT HOME— SHE WENT OUT TO BUY SOME THINGS

OH— SHE MUST'VE BEEN IN A TERRIBLE RAGE! SHE CHOPPED THE SOFA INTO BITS!

THERE—NOW IT'S OUT OF OUR LIVES FOR GOOD—THAT'S THE END OF IT

DAGWOOD, DARLING— DID YOU HEAR ABOUT THE GORGEOUS TABLE I'M MAKING OUT OF THE SOFA? YOU DOLL!

WHAT?

OH-BOO-HOO-HOO— MY GORGEOUS TABLE— YOU BURNED MY GORGEOUS TABLE

(WILL YOU FORGIVE ME IF I BUY YOU SOMETHING REAL PRETTY?)

I WONDER HOW THEY HAPPENED TO PUT MEN AND WOMEN IN THE SAME WORLD TOGETHER

Christian Church Announcements

At the Eighth Street Christian Church Sunday morning there will be an attempt to wholly integrate the new members who have come into the church recently. We want them to feel that they are a vital part of the church and its program. They will be the guests of honor at the annual Fellowship Dinner which will be held on the lawn of the church immediately after service Sunday morning. The membership of the Hooker Memorial Christian Church is invited also.

At the service Sunday morning the choir will sing the majestic anthem entitled, "O Divine Redeemer" by Gounod and the pastor will preach on the theme "How To Be A Good Church Member". Sunday School will meet at 9:45. The youth groups will meet Sunday afternoon at 5:00 and 6:00 with a light supper served.

The board of officers of the church will meet Tuesday evening May 6, at 7:30 and all officers of the board are requested to be present.

There is to be a series of Men's Rallies of the men in the Christian Churches of North Carolina during the month of May. The Rally to which our men are invited is to be held in the Red Oak Christian Church, next Wednesday night. A supper will be served at 6:40. The quota of the 8th St. Church is twenty-five. All the men of the church and Sunday School who are interested should let Mr. Frank Jolly know this coming Sunday.

Every one will remember of course that May 11 is Mother's Day and there is no better way of honoring our mothers than being in church and Sunday School wearing the appropriate flower.

The circles of the Christian Women's Fellowship will meet on Monday, May 5, as follows: No. 1, with Mrs. B. T. Barson, 3:30 p.m.

No. 2, with Mrs. Guy Evans Mrs. A. F. Harrington, assisting hostess, 3:30 p.m.

No. 3, with Mrs. Lee Hannah, 3:30 p.m.

No. 4, with Mrs. J. B. Cummings, 3:30 p.m.

No. 5, with Mrs. Arthur Tripp, 3:30 p.m.

No. 6, with Mrs. Elsie Eagen, 8:00 p.m.

No. 7, will meet in the Ladies Parlor, Mrs. T. I. Moore hostess assisted by Mrs. E. C. Williams and Mrs. Marie Gardner, 8:00 p.m.

No. 8, with Miss Gussie Kuykendall, Miss Leila Brown Stancill, assisting hostess, 8:00 p.m.

Potentialities Of N.C. Stressed By Speaker

Dr. Robert Lee Humber was speaker at the Exchange Club of Greenville last night. He spoke on the potentialities of Eastern North Carolina. "One of the foremost needs in Eastern North Carolina is income," he said. The members were told that when he was a youngster in Greenville this used to be the largest income area in the state and that Wilmington used to be the leading city. In those days, he told his audience, political leadership came from this section, and that social life emanated from the eastern part of the state, but we have allowed Eastern North Carolina to drift to the point only 25 per cent of the state's population is now in the east and the rest is west of Raleigh.

Humber called attention to the many outstanding political leaders from the eastern section, specifically citing Governor Jarvis, who called for the shift from agriculture to industry, but who warned the shift required knowledge and therefore emphasis was placed on education. The speaker told of a recent trip to New York on which time he visited the Terminal Market which was founded some 45 years ago. While there he asked the manager "who feeds New York?" and he was told the "whole nation." The manager asked him where he was from, and when Humber told him Eastern North Carolina, the manager went on to say that the finest tomatoes he had sold came from two sections—the Bahama Islands and Eastern North Carolina. Humber was told there was a defect in the manner of operations in our section as most of the produce shipped by our people was unprocessed and rarely packaged. The speaker reminded the club members that was much land within 150 miles of the coast, not being used to tobacco, that would grow wonderful truck crops, and predicted if this land were turned to produce Eastern North Carolina would be the vegetable garden of the nation. He warned there is a missing link, however, and that is the need of a good produce market, where the products can be graded and the farmers paid according to the quality of the produce. Such a market, supported by storage and other facilities, would assure the farmer of a good income from truck crops. He thought such a "missing link" established would be a veritable gold mine for this area, and could double the revenue in Pitt County. He cited a city in Florida, smaller than Greenville in population, that sold $38 million worth of produce last year. Humber, in his talk, gave definite methods and plans to form such a produce market, and brought out that such a planned economy would mean much additional wealth to our section.

The speaker reminded his audience that while Pitt county needs agriculture it also needs industry, that power is available and that a vital need of industry — a non-competitive labor market — was also ready. The members were told that North Carolina has been content to produce the materials for manufacture and ship them elsewhere for finishing. John Laurens was program chairman for the meeting and before introducing Mr. Humber presented to the Exchange Club Miss Lois Brown, who will represent the Exchange Club in the "Miss Greenville Pageant" next Thursday evening. W. E. Rosevear was a guest of Roy Alcock, President Fred Forbes president.

Man Arrested In Disturbance

An Ayden resident was arrested by local police early this morning following a disturbance on Harding Street.

The arrestee has been identified as Mitchell Reed Gardner, 24, of Ayden Rd. 2. Gardner was picked up at the home of Allen Stokes, 304 Harding Street.

Officers charged Gardner with being drunk and disorderly conduct and attempted breaking and entering. A third warrant, charging the defendant with damage to personal property, was signed by Stokes.

According to one officer Gardner kicked the windshield and a side glass out of the Harding Street resident's automobile. When police arrived at the scene of the disturbance, he was reportedly shaking and knocking on Stokes' front door.

Gardner is currently in jail awaiting trial in City Court Monday. A $500 bond has been set for the attempted breaking and entering charge, $200 for damage to personal property, and $100 on the drunk charge. Damage to Stokes' automobile was estimated to be $100.

Hooker Memorial Announcements

The Hooker Memorial Christian Church will hold its worship service at the Elmhurst School on Sunday, May 4, at 11 o'clock. Dr. Cleveland Bradner, interim minister, in the pulpit. There will be special music by the choir under the direction of Mrs. Florence Scott with Mrs. K. F. Whitely as organist. Sunday school will be held at 9:15. Last Sunday we had 105 present at Sunday school.

The CWF will meet on Monday night, May 5, at 8 o'clock with Mrs. Lester Turnage at 1603 Oaklawn Ave. Mrs. Bob Kittrell, Mrs. Jatie Spain, and Mrs. James Waters will be hostesses.

The following women from the church attended the regional meeting of the CWF at the Farmville Christian Church on Friday: Mrs. Chen Marshburn, Mrs. Curtis Rogerson, Mrs. K. F. Whitely, Mrs. Milton Williamson, Mrs. Joe Miller, and Mrs. J. D. Smith.

Last Sunday the church was host to the Rev. and Mrs. Tom Mooney of Louisville, Kentucky, and Greenville guests at an al fresco luncheon served on the new building site of the church on Route 264. Our church is growing rapidly—come join us!

Precinct Meets Being Held Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Grass-roots workers in the North Carolina Democratic party held their precinct meetings today, a first step towards the party's state convention in Raleigh May 15.

Election of delegates to county conventions, which will be held May 10, was a prime order of business in the precinct meetings.

Another sign of awakening political activity was the opening of registration books at polling places throughout the state to prepare the way for primaries on May 31.

In most counties the books will be open for unregistered voters for three successive Saturdays, beginning today. The Saturday just before the primary will be challenge day.

The Executive Committee will meet some time in July to act on the nominations.

The Democratic precinct meetings also will be the first step toward election of a new state Democratic Executive Committee. Members of the new committee will be chosen, in effect, at congressional district caucuses just before the state convention.

Selection of the committee has added interest because it will act on nomination of party candidates for U.S. senator and state attorney general in the fall general election.

Gov. Hodges named B. Everett Jordan of Saxapahaw to succeed the late Sen. W. Kerr Scott, and picked Malcolm B. Seawell of Lumberton to replace George B. Patton of Franklin as attorney general. However, both must be nominated by the committee to run in the fall election.

Road-e-o Slated In Ayden Sunday

AYDEN — Three outstanding young drivers will be selected from among a large field of entries at the annual Jaycee-sponsored Teenage Road-e-o here tomorrow afternoon.

Winning contestants will compete on a state level in the North Carolina Teenage Road-e-o finals to be held in New Bern May 31 and June 1. Prizes consisting of a plaque, three keys and approximately 75 gallons of gas will be presented to the first, second and third place winners of the local contest.

According to reports from Guy Braxton, chairman of the Jaycee's Public Safety Committee, between 18 and 21 contestants, representing the Ayden High School, the Winterville High School and the South Ayden High School for Negroes, will vie for top honors.

Braxton stated the event is being staged in the interest of promoting highway safety. "I feel this year's road-e-o will be extremely successful," he said. He added that the general public is invited to attend.

Judges for the event will be selected from among prominent citizens in Ayden and vicinity. Other members of the Public Safety Committee assisting Braxton are Bobby Nobles, Gene Underwood, Gordon Brunson and Sam Gooding.

The Road-e-o will be held from 2 until 4 p.m.

Grifton Has 7 Seeking Office

GRIFTON — Seven candidates are seeking office in Monday's municipal elections here.

Mayor W. H. Gower, seeking reelection, is being opposed by W. I. Jackson, local businessman. Gower is running for his fourth consecutive term.

The hottest race is shaping up for two seats on the town's Board of Commissioners. Brown Hodges and Wilbur Murphy, both old members on the Board, are opposed by W. M. January and Paul Lovette, two newcomers in local politics.

Recorders Court Judge Robert McCotter is unopposed. McCotter, seeking his third term of office, has been Judge of the Grifton Recorders Court since its inception in 1955.

Miss Louise Mewborn will serve as registrar for the election. Judges are Cecil Cobb and Mrs. Mary Mann.

The polls, located in the town's fire department, will be open from 6:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m.

Prisoner Slugs Constable And Makes Escape

A constable who is running for county sheriff was slugged by a prisoner he had taken into custody in the St. John's area last night.

The prisoner escaped. It was reported that Chicod Township Constable Ben Forrest had spotted a man wanted on worthless check charges as he entered a store in St. John's.

Forrest had arrested the man and was placing him in his automobile when the prisoner struck him and escaped.

The Sheriff's Department was called and bloodhounds from the Prison Camp were used in an attempt to track down the escapee.

However, Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said a heavy rain had washed away all scents left by the prisoner.

Guthrie was formerly the capital of Oklahoma. The capital was changed to Oklahoma City in 1910.

Arthur Taylor Dies Suddenly Friday

Arthur Taylor, 72, retired farmer, died at his home, 206 East 13th Street, Friday at 5:45 p.m. following a heart attack.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Mr. Taylor was the son of the late Lewis Allen and Susie Adams Taylor of Pitt county. He was a member of the Woodmen of the World.

Surviving are two sons, David A. Taylor of Norfolk, Va., Carlton Taylor, U.S. Army, stationed at Fort Story, Va.; six daughters, Mrs. Roland Veltette, Mrs. Jimmy Rayford, Mrs. H. J. Evans and Mrs. Bill Barber of Greenville, Mrs. Roy Francis, Colorado Springs, Colo., Mrs. Fred Freeland, Detroit, Mich.; 14 grandchildren; four brothers, David C. Roy and Claude Taylor, of near Greenville, and Herman Taylor of New Bern; and sisters, Mrs. Billy Lewis and Mrs. Jesse Lewis of Vanceboro, and Mrs. Levi Haddock of Greenville.

Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World

By MRS. AMELIA S. CAPEHART
Pitt County Home Agent

Next week is "National Home Demonstration Week."

"Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World" again will be the theme of the rural women throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and Alaska, as they observe the 13th annual "National Home Demonstration Week," May 4-10.

Emphasis on the value of Home Demonstration projects will include:

1. To acquaint more people with the latest extension service programs and to stress its contribution to home and family living.

2. To interpret for the public the scope of Home Demonstration work, and how it helps families to adjust to changing social and economic conditions.

3. To inform the people of the Home Demonstration Agent's duties and to tell them how to contact her.

4. To help homemakers to know and use research findings, related to the home and the family.

5. To give special recognition to volunteer leaders whose part in planning and carrying out the various programs, has made possible the magnitude of Home Demonstration work.

"Many a homemaker who was much concerned over little things in life has found a new outside interest that has made her a more efficient and useful citizen in her community and a more understanding mother and wife," an extension official stated. Thus, Home Demonstration Club women express some of the intangible values of Home Demonstration work.

They might have related in more definite terms, but no less real spirit of the many homemaking practices they carry out on the suggestions of the Home Demonstration Agents. In such a list they would give quite a variety of accomplishments. The number of convenient and attractive homes and surroundings. The food produced and conserved, and the food more wisely used would occupy a big part of such a list of achievements.

As "National Home Demonstration Week" is observed throughout the country, homemakers who are sponsoring this event will take up many problems that lie ahead, even while they are calling attention to their achievements of the past.

The most of these problems will center around the home — in the fields of nutrition, health, housing, clothing, financial planning, recreation, education, youth work and community development.

Activities scheduled for Home Demonstration Club members in Pitt County include: Vesper service at the County Home, bake sale, flowers in local churches, "clean-up drive," contact non-club members; radio and television programs, 4-H Club Health Coronation and dress revue. Special emphasis is laid on continued effort to "Raise A Square Meal Around the Home," and the organizing of a community 4-H Club.

Christian Science Society

How sin and suffering are overcome through spiritual understanding of God will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Readings from the Bible in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Everlasting Punishment" will include the following from James (4:8): "Draw nigh to God, and He will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read the following (239:16): "To ascertain our progress, we must learn where our affections are placed and whom we acknowledge and obey as God. If divine Love is becoming nearer, dearer, and more real to us, matter is then submitting to Spirit. The objects we pursue and the spirit we manifest reveal our standpoint, and show what we are winning."

Nightwatchmen in the town of Ciudad Real, Spain, sing the hours as they walk through the streets. They also sing out the weather, such as "Two a.m. and it's raining."
