Red River Seen Swelling Into Big Flood Threat

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—A major flood is expected along the Red River from Shreveport to Alexandria during the next 10 days.

Lt. Gov. Lether Frazier yesterday called on the National Guard, civil defense and all state agencies to prepare for an emergency.

By coincidence the Louisiana National Guard, civil defense and selective service headquarters are moving to Camp Beauregard, near Alexandria, today for a civil defense two-day Operation Alert.

Frazier, acting governor while Gov. Earl Long is out of the state, said, "This may be a bad one." Long was expected back today.

Already there were scattered reports of floodwaters lapping at the tops of levees. Scores of roads and some farmland was under water from heavy rainfall, and levee breaks would endanger residents and livestock.

For a week the 2,000-mile Red River has been gorging on heavy rains in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana. The drainage basin is about the area of the state of Utah.

The menace now is a 90-mile stretch from Shreveport in northwest Louisiana to Alexandria, in the heart of the state. Over this stretch the river describes a crazy zig-zag course several hundred miles long, and in some places levee breaks would result in inundation of lowlands 20 miles wide.

Bans Firearms In Stern Order

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—British Gov. Sir Hugh Foot made the death penalty mandatory again last night for carrying or discharging firearms. His action followed renewal of anti-British violence.

A gunman, presumably from the EOKA underground, shot and killed two British servicemen in Famagusta's Greek sector yesterday. EOKA had threatened to tear up the truce it proclaimed 13 months ago unless the British stopped alleged mistreatment of political prisoners.

The gunman escaped. British troops and police rushed to the area and rounded up hundreds of Greek youths for questioning but released most of them later.

Hundreds Join In College Pageant

More than 600 performers, guided by five directors, presented East Carolina College's 50th Anniversary Pageant Saturday night and Sunday afternoon on the college campus.

The two-hour performance, written by Miss Emma Hooper of the English Department faculty, depicted the progress of the institution from the day of the groundbreaking July 2, 1908 to the present.

Included in the cast of the show were numbers of Greenville citizens, including some who were actually present on the day of the groundbreaking.

Also returning to the campus for the big 50th anniversary weekend to take part in the pageant were Miss Kate W. Lewis, last surviving member of the original faculty, Gertrude Chamberlain Wright and Virginia Pigford Johnson, first AB graduate of the college. Henry Oglesby, first made graduate and Deanie Boone Haskett, first MA graduate.

Others who played parts in the development of the college were included in the cast.

The pageant opened with a scene depicting the ground breaking ceremonies which actually began construction of the newly authorized college. E. E. Rawl Sr. played the part of Gov. Thomas J. Jarvis, who broke ground.

Also in the scenes were Haywood Dall, Sam T. White, and Mrs. A. M. Moseley, all of whom were present on the day 50 years ago when ground was broken.

From that scene the pageant

Held In Killing

Jesse Earl Ellis, alias Pete Gardner, a 23-year-old Negro of Route 2, Ayden, is being held without bond for the Sunday slaying of William Slade Green, 32, also of Route 2, Ayden.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said this morning that Ellis was arrested after reportedly beating Green to death with a bush axe handle. The killing is said to have followed an argument between the men.

Ellis was arrested by Highway Patrolman Richard Taylor, who assisted the sheriff and members of his department in the investigation. The killing took place at the home of John Henry Cox of Route 2, Ayden.

Green's death resulted from a fractured skull and severe cuts on the face and neck, Sheriff Tyson said.

Everett Jordan Sworn In Today As N.C. Senator

By MARGARET KERNODLE

WASHINGTON (AP)—With more than 250 North Carolinians looking on from the gallery, B. Everett Jordan, 61-year-old textile manufacturer, was sworn in today as a U.S. senator.

Jordan, whose home is at Saxapahaw, N.C., was appointed to take the place of the late Sen. W. Kerr Scott (D-NC), who died April 16 in Burlington, N.C., after a heart attack.

Heading the North Carolinians here for the ceremony and a reception in the capitol immediately afterward was Gov. Luther Hodges, who started one of the loudest political uproars in the state in years when he appointed Jordan.

Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.), dean of the Senate by reason of his 31 years of service, administered the oath of office in the absence of Vice President Richard Nixon, who is in South America.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., accompanied Jordan to the rostrum. Other North Carolina members of Congress were on the Senate floor for the ceremony.

Jordan is a Democrat, as was Scott.

Jordan said he plans to run for election in November to complete the short term and in 1960 for a six-year term.

Jordan, a big affable man, has been in the middle of political controversy since he was appointed by Gov. Luther Hodges to succeed the late Sen. W. Kerr Scott (D-NC) last month.

Supporters of Scott were incensed, and a number of newspapers in the state took the position that he was a "seat-warmer" for the governor to fill the vacancy until 1960 when Hodges could run for the Senate himself.

Both men immediately denied this, and Jordan was emphatic at his first news conference here last week that his intentions are to run in 1960.

John Larkin, chairman of the North Carolina Democratic Executive Committee, has said he expects the group to nominate Jordan for the remainder of Scott's term until 1960.

Scott and Jordan were once political allies. Jordan helped raise money for Scott's campaign as governor and Scott as governor helped Jordan to the Senate seat to which Scott had appointed him. Graham was defeated by the late Willis Smith (D-NC), who was backed by Jordan.

Jordan continued to serve as Democratic chairman after Scott's term as governor and is now Democratic national committeeman.

He said he's been saying all along that this will be a strong year for the Democrats in the November election and will continue to say it as national committeeman.

Gov. Hodges heads a group of some 200 North Carolinians here to attend the swearing-in ceremony in the Senate. A reception is planned in the capitol.

Jordan, son of a Methodist minister, was in the Army overseas in World War I and became a mill hand after his discharge. Four years later he was plant superintendent. In 1927, he and his brother, Dr. Henry Jordan, organized their own textile firm. He has a 300-acre farm where he raises cattle in Alamance County.

Among those here to see him take his oath are: His brothers: Charles Jordan, vice president of Duke University, Durham, N.C.; Rev. Frank Jordan, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Thomasville, N.C.; Dr. Henry Jordan, of Cedar Falls, N.C.; and their wives; his two sisters, Mrs. H. C. Sprinkle of New York, and Mrs. George K. Way, of Columbus, S.C.

Mrs. Jordan, the former Katherine McLean of Gastonia; her mother, Mrs. R. C. McLean of Gastonia; her sisters, Miss Alice McLean of Saxapahaw and May McLean of Coral Gables, Fla.

The Jordan children, Ben E. Jordan Jr., of Saxapahaw, who is in business with his father; John Jordan, a senior at Duke University; and Mrs. Roger Gant Jr. of Burlington.

But they parted politically when Scott was fighting for the election of the liberal educator Dr. Frank P. Graham to the Senate seat to which Scott had appointed him. Graham was defeated by the late Willis Smith (D-NC), who was backed by Jordan.

Discuss Eastern Carolina History

Discussion of the social, political, and historical background of North Carolina, particularly of the Eastern section, and comments on literary art by well-known writers of the state contributed chief interest and significance to a two-day meeting of the N.C. Literary and Historical Association here over the weekend.

East Carolina College acted as host to approximately 100 members and guests who attended programs and social affairs on the campus. They were special guests at the pageant "East Carolina's Spade" presented Saturday and Sunday in celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the college. Dr. L.F. Brewster of the college faculty, Dr. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, and the Rev. W.M. Howard Jr. of Greenville were principal speakers.

Novelist Ovid W. Pierce of the college English department acted as moderator for a panel of writers composed of Mrs. Inglis Fletcher of Edenton, historical novelist; Mrs. Mebane Holoman Burgwyn of Jackson, writer of juvenile fiction; and Dr. Hugh Lefler of the University of North Carolina, historian.

Dr. D.J. Whitener of Boone, association president, and Henry Belk of Goldsboro, vice president, Belk of Goldsboro, vice-president, Saturday afternoon and night.

Panelists Saturday afternoon conducted a lively discussion of literature, ranging from questions of style to the use of North Carolina materials in fiction.

Mrs. Fletcher and Mrs. Burgwyn pointed out that Eastern North Carolina offers much material which the novelist may use as basis for creative writing. Mrs. Fletcher said that Eastern North Carolina for many years was complicated, taking its history for granted, and was late in coming to write about itself. Dr. Lefler added that before 1900 little was done to collect the records of the state but that since then more progress has been made than in either Virginia or South Carolina.

"No novelist," Dr. Lefler said, "has yet captured the essence of our state so far as history is concerned. The making of our state is the small farm," he explained. Dr. Brewster described Eastern North Carolina after the Revolution Saturday afternoon. He emphasized the leading roles taken by Easterners in events of the 1780's, discussed leading families of the ruling class, and pictured the social life of the people.

Speaking Saturday night at a dinner at the college, Dr. Humber traced the history of Pitt County from the visit of John Lawson in 1704 to the present. He outlined events leading to the establishment in 1907 of the East Carolina Teachers Training School, now East Carolina College, and stressed the influence of the school over a half-century on intellectual and cultural progress in the state.

The church and its history in Eastern North Carolina was subject of Mr. Howard's talk Sunday morning in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church of the city.

Dr. Messick stated that in addition to budget requests, application has been made for government loans of $1,250,000 and $250,000 for the two new men's dormitories.

Since 1947, he reported, permanent improvements appropriations have totaled $3,174,129 actually appropriated, plus $1,425,000 in government loans. These amounts have been or are being used for sixteen completed construction projects and seven other building projects now under way and for the purchase of 1947 acres of land.

From 1946-1947 to the present, he said, enrollment on the campus for the regular and the summer sessions has increased from 1979 to 5944; number of faculty and staff members from 80 to 235; and number of off-campus students taking extension courses from nine to 1436.

He stressed the fact that 523 of the 744 graduates of 1957-1958 are prepared to teach and that most of this year's 95 M.A. graduates are also prepared for public school work.

Dr. Messick reported a great increase in radio and television activities this year. Accomplishments include, he said, 1764 taped programs broadcast over 34 radio stations; 2500 hours of broadcasting over the campus FM station, 130 TV programs and 130 telecourse programs over commercial stations. Vice President Jenkins stated that closed-circuit television instruction will begin at the college this summer.

Fate Of Teenage Kidnaper Up To Juvenile Court

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The fate of a youth who left little Kathy Hampton tied and naked in a vacant house without food or water for three days rested today with Juvenile Court.

Robert Martin Reich Jr., 15, told police step by step how he gave the pretty blonde to a ride on his bicycle to the ramshackle house 30 blocks from her home, then tore her dress off and tied her up.

She wriggled free and was found scratched and dirty but otherwise unharmed. She had not been sexually molested.

The police, slightly built boy told officers he was scared to go back to the house and intended never to tell where Kathy was.

"I had no reason. I just did it," he said.

Reich is only a shade over 5 feet tall and weighs just 90 pounds. Police said he suffered from rheumatic heart disease and missed a lot of school. He attends special classes for mentally retarded children.

The boy has lived most of his life with his widowed grandmother Mrs. Bessie Dillman, who said, "I can't believe he did it, but if he did, he needs psychiatric attention."

Robert's father, an epileptic, is in a mental institution. His mother has remarried.

The boy's teacher said he had never been a behavior problem at school. His grandmother said he was a gentle youth and good to children.

Robert went to police the day after Kathy's disappearance with a story that he had given her a bike ride and left her at her home, where he had last seen her talking to a man. He admitted the abduction three hours after the 6-year-old girl was found.

Kathy was back home with her parents and five brothers and sisters a few hours after she was examined at City Hospital.

DOWN TO A TRICKLE PRESIDIO, Tex. (AP)—This Mexican border area deep in the Texas Big Bend would like to see some of the state's recent heavy rains passed around. Severe drought has reduced the flow in the Rio Grande to a trickle, stalling work by farmers who irrigate from the stream.

Commissioners Accept Low Bids On New Cars For Sheriff's Department

Pitt County Commissioners this morning named White Chevrolet Company of Greenville to replace three automobiles used for nearly two years by the Sheriff's Department.

The Greenville firm will furnish the cars for a total of $3,333.90, low bid among five which were entered. The vehicles are to be four-door police special sedans with automatic transmissions.

Examination of bids for the cars was the commissioners' major item of business in the morning session of their regular monthly meeting. The meeting was scheduled to continue this afternoon and will include a session of the Pitt County Board of Equalization and Review, which is composed of the commissioners.

White's base bid for the new cars was $1,879.30 each, less $825 trade-in allowance on each vehicle, making a net bid of $1,054.30 each. Automatic transmissions for the vehicles will cost a total of $171 extra, $57 for each car.

The replacements will be the first since the county obtained automobiles for the Sheriff's Department in August, 1956. The department has a total of five cars in service, all of them heavy-duty, police special models.

Other base bids which were entered included Davenport Motor

Sales, Farmville, $2,095 each; Jenkins Motor Company, Greenville, $2,075 each; Greenville Equipment Company, $2,105.36 each; and F. and D. Motor Company, Bethel, $2,097.50 each. Each of the bidders also entered alternate bids giving trade-in allowances. The commissioners also voted to allocate $333.90 from their Emergency and Contingency Fund to help pay for the new cars. An appropriation of $3,000 had been provided in the 1957-58 budget.

Other business transacted this morning included approval of special advertising, authorization for a school district to settle its indebtedness, and passage of a resolution calling for clarification of the Social Security law.

The special advertising will appear in The Daily Reflector's special East Carolina College edition, which will be published during the week of May 12. The board voted to place a full-page ad in the tabloid edition.

Belvoir-Falkland School District was authorized to pay off its debt to the countywide school fund, after the commissioners had considered a request for the authorization from the Pitt County Board of Education.

The resolution calling for clarification for Social Security law was passed at the request of S. C. Winchester and Kenneth Whichard, directors of the county's Social Security assistance program. The resolution, which will be forwarded to Senators Sam Ervin and Everett Jordan and Representative Herbert Bonner, seeks Congressional amendment of the Social Security law in order to clarify the question of material participation of landowners in farming operations.

The board also received reports from various county agencies and departments.

Bradley Favors Reorganization

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley told Congress today the present military organization has made it possible for one service to block the flow of information or requests between the Defense Department and field commanders.

Bradley testified before the House Armed Services Committee in support of President Eisenhower's defense reorganization proposals. These include changes which Eisenhower said are necessary to let orders go from the defense secretary and Joint Chiefs of Staff direct to the commanders of unified forces in the field, without passing through the hands of the secretary of the Army, Navy or Air Force. Such secretaries have acted as executive agents of the Defense Department in the chain of command.

Bradley, a five-star general who commanded the 12th Army Corps in World War II and later served as Army chief of staff and first chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the committee: "I understand that in the past there have been occasions where information or suggestions from a unified commander were retained by the executive agent without the joint chiefs of staff being aware of the request or the information sent in by the unified commander."

"There have also been occasions where orders were transmitted to unified commanders from above without the executive agent being informed. This also leads to confusion."

U.S. Fashions See Versatility

INSIDE-OUT STYLE . . . Carol Romann, left, wears a new shirtwaist dress in navy textured rayon-and-cotton. Nila Meslow, right, wears the same dress turned inside out, with striped cotton shirting outside. It's called convert-a-dress.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Versatility is a growing trend in America's clothing fashions.

Manufacturers are putting more multiple use products on the market every year. Double duty clothes are designed to give full value to the consumer in the present world of high prices and tight budgets.

Recently, a new fashion called the convert-a-dress, designed by Daryl of St. Louis, was given a grand award by a department store of Allentown, Pa.

The completely reversible dress has been on the market only since January, but has had wide retail acceptance.

Its summer styles include a princess sheath, a chemise, a shirtwaist dress and a coat dress.

The fabrics contrast sharply so that a change of costume is effectively made when the dress is worn inside out.

Usually one side is in a print, the other in a plain fabric.

Tea Fetes Brides-To-Be

Miss Janet Best and Miss Rose Waters, brides-elect of June, were honored at an informal tea Saturday afternoon in the home of the hostesses, Mrs. C. L. Tyson and Mrs. Kermit Tyson, in Ayden.

The honorees were complimented with white rose corsages upon arrival.

Mrs. Powell Speight of Winterville greeted the guests at the door and presented them to the receiving line consisting of the hostesses, Miss Best, Miss Waters, Mrs. J. E. Speight and Mrs. Wiley Waters.

Mrs. Sidney Albritton of Snow Hill directed the guests into the dining room to an appointed table covered with a handmade lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of white spring flowers bearing the double-ring motif, and a silver candelabra holding burning white tapers. The home was decorated throughout with spring flowers.

Mrs. Martin Casey of Goldsboro, sister of Miss Best, served punch the first hour and Mrs. Don Langston of Winterville, cousin of Miss Waters, served punch the last hour. Assisting in serving were Mrs. R. W. Tyson of Greenville, Miss Alice Waters and Miss Mary Virginia Langston, Miss Ruth Turnage of EOC, and Mrs. Paul Hunsucker of Winterville. Guests helped themselves to bridal cakes and other dainties.

Miss Waters was presented a set of silver bon bon dishes by the hostesses. Miss Best was presented a silver sugar and creamer.

Goodbyes were said by Mrs. Thomas Langston of Winterville.

Mrs. Gordon Goodman, Lunch Bar chairman, invites persons to "visit the show and stay for lunch or have a snack at the Junior Woman's Club Lunch Bar."

This booth will be opened all day and staffed by members of the club.

Mrs. Evans Inter Se Club Guest Speaker

"Glimpses of Spain" was the topic discussed by Mrs. Plato Evans, program chairman, when the Inter Se Book Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Reynolds May.

During the program Mrs. Evans showed pictures of the cathedrals and remains of buildings. "These remind one of the former grandeur of Spain during the occupation of the Romans and the Moors," she pointed out.

"Someone has said that God endows the 'Spaniol' with deep and enduring happiness, whereas other people have to content themselves with lesser things, such as wealth and fame," said Mrs. Evans.

A short business session was presided over by Mrs. Bob Thompson, new president.

Mixed spring flowers were arranged throughout the home for the occasion. Mrs. May served club members a salad course with iced soft drinks.

Allow your roast poultry to "rest" for about 20 minutes after you remove it from the oven. This way the bird will absorb juices and carving will be benefited. This rest period also gives you time to make gravy and remove cord and skewers.

Message During Nat'l HD Week

By Mrs. Joe Chaney
Union County Home Demonstration Club Member

A delegation of homemakers in a North Carolina County was invited to call on a woman who lived a good distance off the main road in the hilly section of the county. After a hard trip, they reached her home and were met by a charming little lady of sixty-five.

During a delightful visit with her, the story was told how after a successful business of rearing her family of eleven children, she had come to realize that the best years of her life were passed.

Then came the point of the visit. She had been so impressed by the friendliness of those present, that she wanted the homemakers to let her become a member of the group, and go with them on future visits and tours.

The delegation of women went away not only impressed by the personality of the little lady, but more aware than ever of the fact that we, as club women, have no way of measuring the influence of the Home Demonstration Club as it reaches out into the open country through the lives of rural women.

Later, the story was told how her neighbor, a club member, had helped her wash, sew, cook, and care for her family in time of sickness. She expressed her gratitude and praise for those helpful things done for her. Her neighbor had lived up to the aims and purposes of her Home Demonstration Club and had proved her skill in doing the things in a better way as she had learned through her club work.

It is surely important that we remain active in club membership. Our knowledge and understanding of the things we learn and use, show on the front lines of our children's everyday life in the home, school, church, and in community life for many years to come.

Shrimp Wiggle For Busy Cooks

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

EVERY ONCE IN AWHILE someone asks us for a recipe for shrimp wiggle. When we told a friend we didn't know how the dish got its name or where and when it originated, she hazarded a guess that it originally arrived with the chafing dish. She said her own acquaintance with shrimp wiggle went back to her college dormitory days in the 20's when she and her friends prepared it over canned heat with canned peas, canned shrimp and canned milk. Naturally they served it with crackers.

Sure enough, in Fannie Farmer's "Chafing Dish possibilities," published in 1898, we find a recipe for shrimp wiggle composed of a thin white sauce and equal parts of cooked shrimp and green peas; salt and pepper are the only seasonings the austere Miss Farmer added. When the tother old-time standard work, "The Settlement Cook Book" got around to listing the dish, paprika was included. Later recipes, we notice, sometimes include onion.

Here's our own latest version of shrimp wiggle—with a goodly amount of Worcestershire sauce and some Tabasco Sauce, as well as a canned pimiento, to give it extra zest. This recipe is a fine one for career girls and busy mothers because it should be left in the refrigerator overnight so the sauce will thin and the flavors develop. We like it served with crisp buttered toast and a crisp tossed salad. Make the toast as usual, then butter it lavishly and put it in the oven (on aluminum foil) to get really crisp and have the butter soak in.

Progress Calls For Some Effort

The decision Pitt County voters make on the proposed county-wide development tax May 31 may well determine whether this county drifts along, economically speaking, or pushes itself to newer, higher economic levels.

Throughout North Carolina there is a marked difference in the development progress being made by those communities and counties which have industrial development agencies and those which do not. Almost without exception the communities which have established and supported such organizations have reaped appreciable returns in the form of new industries, new jobs, and better economic conditions for their communities.

Those communities and counties which have remained on the sidelines of the new competition for economic development have for most part been left out of the picture.

It is an accepted fact that the county which puts forth the most effort in behalf of its own economic development will reap the greatest results in terms of a better balanced, more vigorous economy.

Industrial and economic development seldom comes to those counties which placidly sit and wait for it.

The proposed county-wide economic development program for Pitt will enable this county to mount a more aggressive plan for attracting outside industry. It will also afford Pitt the tools and Professional help required to further develop its own home-grown industry and agriculture.

Can Pitt afford to sit quietly on the sidelines while North Carolina carries out its greatest effort in history for economic development? How will the Hassle Serving Double Purpose?

By LYNN NISBET
POLICY The hassle over failure of Griggs Equipment Company to get a contract order for school house furniture may serve a double purpose. It affords an opportunity for the State of North Carolina to re-emphasize its policy of soliciting and treating industry. It also may lead to revision of purchase and contract laws, which have not been changed much in 30 years.

The board of awards had called for bids for a year's needs of two pieces of schoolroom equipment. Rules are that public schools can buy only on State contract. Lowest bidders, but there are certain elements of discretion. In the instant case there are several bidders with slightly different style furniture and at varying prices. The board of awards approved three bidders. Griggs was not on the approved list.

Griggs officials, with main plant in Texas and a branch about ready to open at Selma, protested and threatened to move out of North Carolina before getting started here — unless they had more assurance they could sell to North Carolina schools. Chief complaint was because State rules prohibit the furniture company from soliciting business from individual school plants.

It has long been the policy of North Carolina not to make special concessions to new industry, in taxes or promises of business. There are many long established factories in the state making school furniture. Special consideration for a new firm would be grossly unfair to them. Attitude of the State has been that we do not want industries on that basis. Industry that cannot meet fair competition is not an asset.

CENTRALIZED — There has been increasing criticism of the growing centralization of purchasing in Raleigh. The policy of exclusive contracts for two or three vendors tends to create a monopoly, which in some instances can be as unfair as price of tax concessions. It is unfortunate when North Carolina loses an industry for any reason. It would be much worse to lose an established or prospective plant because of archaic purchasing rules, in the midst of an industrial promotion crusade based upon modernized tax laws.

New policies with respect to budget-making are designed to give more local autonomy to agencies, departments and institutions in that field. Perhaps more local autonomy in purchasing equipment and supplies is also desirable.

GOVERNOR'S OFFICE — The job of remodeling and furnishing half of the first floor of the capitol building for the Governor's office is just about complete. Almost unanimous opinion of attaches and visitors is that the final stage of the job, the remodeling of the outer office and reception room, was by all odds the worst part of the whole project. And that is the part that more people will see.

The walls were painted a sort of pea-green, designed to soften glare and be restful to the eyes. That was good. Then the old rug was replaced with a gray-toned beige carpet — which gives the wall a sickly yellow tinge. That wasn't money enough in the allocation for new draperies at the big windows, so the same scarlet heavy brocade drapes remain. The old uncomfortable chairs have been replaced with modernistic walnut-finished chairs and settees with tan plastic upholstery, too low for a tall man and too wide for a short person.

GOOD POINTS — Most of the remodeling and furnishing was good. The two big offices in the northwest corner of the capitol, formerly occupied by the State treasurer, have been converted into two administrative offices and a large conference and news room, equipped with TV lights, radio plug-in sockets, etc. The Governor's private office has been made more attractive. There is even one good thing to be said for the outer office. Hall-celling partitions set off the desk of the Governor's private secretary so that he can have a semblance of privacy for conferences and for paper work.

QUOTABLE QUOTES — "It is utterly amazing how many people have become retroactively prophetic during the past two years," said W. F. Hufstader, vice president of General Motors.

"She will tell you just what she wants you to know anyhow," said a couple of legislators whom your reporter had just told he was going to see Dr. Ellen Winston, commissioner of welfare, and didn't know what questions to ask. They were right.

"I wonder if we would have been that nice to a group of Chicago ambassadors," quipped a State official who had just looked over a big half-page spread, illustrated with six of Governor Hodges, in the Chicago American about the visit of the North Carolina industry — hunters to Chicago area.

local economy compare ten years from now with that of the rest of the state if we do not create an aggressive development program in our own behalf?

Pitt needs the broader economic base which can be created through a proper development program. It needs new jobs, more year-round payrolls, markets for more locally produced farm crops which can be brought about through a vigorous development program.

It needs, in short, the kind of development program for the whole county which can be had through the proposed county-wide tax program for Pitt's development.

In the proposed, three-cent tax levy for Pitt's own economic development, local voters face one of the really great challenges that has confronted them.

The challenge should be met by approving the proposed development tax when the matter is decided by voters of the county on May 31.

United Fund Deserves All Citizens' Support

Pitt County's United Fund is now on its way toward becoming an effective instrument for the benefit of the people of this county.

Election of directors of the organization followed by the election of officers last week gives the United Fund official status.

Now the real work begins. And while primary responsibility will rest upon the shoulders of the officers and directors, a portion of the responsibility for affording Pitt County an effective United Fund is shared by every citizen of the county. No United Fund can really be successful or effective unless it has the support of the people of the area it serves.

There remain many organizational problems to be worked out for Pitt United Fund. It will take time for all of them to be resolved. In spite of these, however, there is no reason Pitt County cannot have its United Fund in full operation before the end of this year.

That, of course, would mean that one United Fund campaign in Pitt County could take the place of many independent fund-raising drives normally conducted during the closing months of the year. Pitt has long needed a United Fund. Now that it is being organized, it deserves the support every citizen of the county can give it.

The Extension Of Jobless Pay

By RALPH ROBEY
With the recession which started last August — and this being an election year — it was inevitable that sooner or later this session of the Congress would cease to be all peace and harmony. That time has now come.

Currently the keynote of the Congress is controversy — controversy over the reorganization of the Defense Department, over the proposed bill to regulate welfare funds (which many are afraid will be the only labor bill considered this year), over the extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act, over foreign aid, over postal rates and postal wages, over whether we should have either tax reform or tax reduction, and over unemployment compensation.

Of course this is not the first sign of controversy — the President has vetoed the rivers and harbors bill, and signed two other bills (housing and road building) with grave misgivings. But this is the longest list of bills falling in the controversial category that we have had.

Let us look at the proposal to extend unemployment compensation.

The present system of unemployment compensation was established about a quarter of a century ago. It was set up as a state program and has remained so ever since. The states determined the rules of eligibility, the duration of benefits, the amount of the payments, and how the fund should be run. Over the period many changes have been made, especially in the amount of the payment and the duration. There still is considerable difference on these points, and also on the qualification for eligibility, but most of the states now pay benefits for a maximum of 26 weeks.

The controversy started a few weeks ago when the President mentioned in a letter to the minority leaders of the Senate and House that he had requested his advisors to draw up a program for the extension of unemployment compensation. Immediately Representative Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, introduced a bill for the same purpose. A few days later the Administration bill was introduced. The Ways and Means Committee had hearings on the subject and has now reported out the Mills bill. In so far as essential elements are concerned there is not great difference between the two measures. The differences rather are found in the method of providing funds to the states, in the duration of the benefits, in rules of eligibility, and matters of that sort.

The Administration bill would make forced loans to the states which the states would have to repay either out of their regular revenues or by increased taxes on employers; the Mills bill would use grants in aid with no repayment.

The Administration bill would increase the duration of benefits by fifty per cent, or at the maximum by 13 weeks, the Mills bill would increase the duration of benefits by a flat 16 weeks.

The Administration bill would make no change in eligibility requirements, hence would not add to the number receiving benefits; the Mills bill would change eligibility requirements to an extent which would add almost two million beneficiaries.

The Administration bill is estimated to cost about $700 million; the Mills bill is estimated to cost more than twice that amount.

These differences are sufficiently important for President Eisenhower to term the Mills bill "a dole", and there has been much talk that he would veto it if it passed.

If viewed in this, and the character of the variations, it may appear strange that we say in so far as essential elements are concerned there is not much difference between the two bills. The reasons we maintain the two proposals are essentially similar are:

1. Both, in effect, would federalize unemployment compensation.

2. Both are offered as temporary measures; but most of the welfare legislation of the past generation was put on the books as a temporary measure.

3. There is already a loan fund at the federal level to assist states which exhaust their unemployment compensation reserve. None of the states has yet had to resort to this fund.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that neither of the proposals is passed. If a relief program is needed, it should be devised and frankly listed as such — preferably at the state level.

Eyes Will Be On Sky

By JOHN A. BARBOUR

NEW YORK (AP) — The scientists who keep the nightly starwatch may have the next all-American sport on their hands.

As the summer nights turn warm, more and more American families may find sport in the heavens — drawn there by such man-made attractions as Vanguard or Explorer.

To help some of the moon-struck find their way through the maze of stars, there are at least two devices on the market.

One of them is made specifically for the Sputniks and U.S. space moons. It's a do-it-yourself satellite pathfinder, devised by Dr. Kenneth L. Franklin, astronomer at the American Museum's Hayden Planetarium in New York City.

It consists of a cardboard polar projection map showing a view of the northern hemisphere from the North Pole down.

Trace Routes Over this map is a circular, transparent piece of acetate on which the routes of the satellites are traced.

Given the time it takes for the satellite to orbit, the time and place of one passage, you can find future paths across the earth.

Use of this is done simply by moving the line traced on acetate from one orbit to another. With the pathfinder, which sells for under two dollars you should be able to find the satellite in the evening or dawn sky and know where and when to look for it.

Another astronomical aid, a little more complicated but with a more difficult job, is the Sky Master — a do-it-yourself globe of the heavens.

By using a scale at the bottom, you can adjust the globe for your particular part of the country, the month, day and time. Then, before you will be a chart of the heavens showing that portion then visible in the night sky. Using the globe, you can tell which star is which, which constellation is which and so on.

Readable Roadmap It has a more advanced purpose for teachers of astronomy, but for the amateur it makes a fairly readable roadmap of the heavens.

Designed by Capt. J. Ellrich of Farview, N.J., the Sky Master globe can be put together by the amateur astronomer.

The sky charts are pasted on cardboard, cut out and glued together. A stand can be made from a wire coat hanger.

Capt. Ellrich calls it his attempt to teach a little astronomy to a lot of people.

Opinions In Brief

"For almost 30 years, since a great depression started eroding the minds of panic-stricken men, governments have assumed more and more of the powers normally associated with the individual. We have reached the verge of socialism by allowing ourselves to be conditioned. It is time — past time — for the people to be grasping their lost freedoms here at home as well as in Washington." — The Star-Beacon, Ashtabula, Ohio.

"From the federal government's viewpoint the 10 per cent excise tax on all telephone service is a fine thing. But from most any other angle, it's an exceedingly bad tax. In the first place, it's discriminatory. There is no excise tax on water, gas or electricity. In fact, the telephone is the only essential household utility that is so taxed." — Commercial, Pine Bluff, Ark.

"As an old timer we can remember when the only time we had for coffee was about an hour before daybreak and two hours after sundown." — Aztec, N.M., Independent-Review.

The Things You Find Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That if you want to outlive your wife you'd better move to India or Ceylon. Those are said to be the only two countries left in which the life expectancy of men is greater than that of women.

That Turkish baths originated in Rome.

That, despite what you think, the state with the highest marriage rate in Nevada.

That Walter Brennan, who became famous in Western movies and now stars as a West Virginia farmer in the TV series, "The Real McCoy's," actually speaks with a New England twang. He hails from Swampscott, Mass.

That for some reason giant-esses are much rarer than giants — that is, unless you are a short guy looking for a blind date.

That if you have an ordinary build, your thigh bone should be about 27 1/2 per cent of your height. Get a tape measure and check yourself.

That, according to the Fisherman Magazine, fish are being treated with sulfa drugs and antibiotics.

That if you want to live in the geographic center of the United States, go to Lebanon, Kan.

That Candy Jones Conover, model agency head, says the ideal TV actress should have a forehead "exactly five eyes wide". This makes ex-Queen Soraya of Iran a good candidate.

That the Pacific Ocean extends as far east as New York. Look it up on a map.

That there is such a thing as crocodile tears. When this reptile eats, the food presses against a gland near its mouth and releases tears.

That the island of Jamaica has decided against legalizing gambling casinos, in the belief they'd hurt rather than help its tourist industry.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

RIGHT NOW

We read, at times, the harrowing accounts of men and women brought face to face with the exposure of wrongdoing. Perhaps they have been quietly stealing a bit here and a bit there from an employer or friend. Or they may have been carrying on a secret love affair. Or they may have been selling influence or accepting bribes as a public official. Then one day there is a blow-up. Some circumstance, perhaps a very little circumstance, opens the cage door and all the hideous and vicious facts rush out — through the neighborhood, onto the front page of the newspaper into criminal court, off to prison. Then there is weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth.

We can only have sorrow for anyone who has become so involved. At that hour it is no one's right to sit in judgment. Then do we need to recall the words, "There but for the grace of God go I." Also we need to remember that a wrongdoer almost never suffers alone. There are others — usually entirely innocent persons — who at least share his suffering, perhaps assume the greater weight of it.

The thing everyone needs to ponder as he looks upon such turn-ofs all along the road of evil; and the turn-off to use is this one right at hand. If we are doing something wrong, we are stupid and insane if we don't turn off — and do it while there is time, right now.

Barring Autos, Sales Lead '57

By ELMER ROESSNER
When autos aren't included, retail sales this year are running well ahead of last year.

That fact may be regarded as (1) curious, (2) significant, (3) astounding or (4) flabbergasting, depending on your point of view and your own interests.

Total retail sales during the first three months of this year were $44,510,000, according to Department of Commerce reckoning. In the same period in 1957 they were $41,577,000. That's a drop of 0.2 per cent.

Automotive sales in the first three months this year were $8,009,000,000, compared with $9,262,000,000 in the first three months of 1957. A bit of subtraction shows that nonautomotive sales in these periods were $36,501,000,000 in 1958 and $33,326,000,000 in 1957.

Thus, nonautomotive sales actually increased 3.3 per cent. There are many explanations for this. One theory is that families are taking money that they might be spending on autos and using it to buy other goods.

Another theory is that too many families are still making payments on 1956 and 1957 models; that two- and three-year auto credit "sells" customers out of the market as fast as it sells cars.

A third theory is that the rise in prices of food and clothing is leaving families with too little left over to buy cars. It may be noted that the lumber, building and hardware group, and the furniture and appliance group were the only large segments of retailing, in addition to the automotive group, to register a decline. Food sales were up 8.9 per cent and apparel sales up 8.5 per cent in the first quarter of this year.

ISLANDS OF PROSPERITY
Department store sales, another significant index, show that sales from January 1 through

April 19 were 3 per cent lower nationally than in the comparable period of a year ago. However, sales in the New York Federal Reserve district were 1 per cent higher, although the cause has been hit with serious unemployment.

The Federal Reserve figures also show that while sales nationally in the first two months of the year were down 5 per cent — a serious decline — they were running ahead in some cities and suburbs.

Sales in suburban Boston were up 3 per cent and up 6 per cent in the Quincy sub-area; they were up 1 per cent in Pittsburgh; up 3 per cent in Miami; up 11 per cent in Tampa; up 2 per cent in Albuquerque; up 1 per cent in El Paso; up 7 per cent in Spokane and up 16 per cent in Sacramento.

Some of these changes were a consequence of local conditions; severe weather in 1957 may be the cause of some of the increases.

March and April figures were, of course, distorted by the earlier Easter. Tulsa registered a gain of 40 per cent in the week ended April 5; Lancaster, Pa., 46 per cent in the same week. The other hard, Portland, Ore., showed a drop of 48 per cent that week.

In the following week, West Side Los Angeles showed a 41 per cent gain and the Wilkes-Barre, Hazleton area a 38 per cent loss.

Weather was often a factor in these swings, and perhaps, so were sales and advertising. IMITATION SCOTCH WON'T EVEN BE THAT Come 1961, there will be no more "blended Scotch type" domestic whiskey.

As a matter of fact, there's not much around today. This bastard of beverages was concocted when the submarine warfare cut off Scotland's shipment of Scotch to the United States during the war. Some makers blended it in Canada so they could plaster the bottles with "Imported" labels. But the Internal Revenue Service has promulgated regulations to remove "any recognition of this product as a type of whiskey." They become effective three years after publication, or in April, 1961.

Fess Parker Hopes To Escape Disney Corral

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A restless Texan in Fess Parker, who hopes to escape from the Disney corral next month.

Don't be fooled by Parker's deliberate drawl. There's nothing slow about his mind, and he's done a lot of thinking about his career. He has made no secret of the fact that he is unhappy with his servitude to the Disney Studios.

"My option comes up in June, and I'm hoping that they'll let me go — or at least give me more freedom than I've had in the past," said Fess.

He is grateful to the studio for catapulting him from a movie bit player to an international star via "Davy Crockett." He was handed a 10 per cent cut on all the merchandise issued under the Crockett imprint, and his record of the ballad sold over a million copies.

But he hasn't been content about what has happened since.

"I think the studio has to decide whether it's just going to use players to suit its own purposes or whether it will groom and build stars," Fess said. "So far, it hasn't shown much tendency to look after the actor's best interests."

He has objected to the studio's turning down outside film offers, including a chance to play the life of hillbilly singer Hank Williams for MGM. Until recently, he had done no outside acting jobs. He was allowed to play in a service comedy on TV's Playhouse 90, which he felt was good for his career — but the studio took the salary, he said.

Fess' main contention is that he wants to show more of what he can do. And he thinks he can do more than merely play stalwart frontier heroes. Just recently he received a feeler from a top Broadway producing team for a big-scale musical in the fall. Fess, who spent months studying opera to improve his singing voice, would love to do it.

But it all depends on what the Disney studio plans to do with his future. It has just announced him for a new film about Custer's last stand, so it looks as though Fess won't be escaping soon.

Paraguay Hears Vice President

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP)—Vice President Nixon says the United States doesn't want to meddle in the affairs of other nations but is pleased to hear that Paraguay intends "to move toward a more democratic system."

Nixon spoke to the one-party Chamber of Deputies after House President Eulogio Estigarribia predicted that soon "Paraguay will live without restriction."

President Alfredo Stroessner, a military dictator, and his Colorado party now rule Paraguay.

In one of his bluntest warnings against communism since he began his Latin-American tour, Nixon also declared that the West must take the offensive against the Reds.

"We must find ways to attack problems on which the Communists attack us," Nixon said. "It is quite right to say our system is better, but we must prove by actions plus words that it is better than communism."

Nixon received a resounding welcome from the little country as he arrived yesterday for an 18-hour tour and visit with Stroessner. The greeting was marred only by the arrest of several students shouting "Long live liberty," which Stroessner told newsmen was a Communist slogan. The students were later released.

Nixon leaves today for Bolivia.

Belvoir-Falkland Junior Class Host To Seniors

By ANNE HARRIS
 The climax of many months of work and planning, and weeks of preparation by the Junior Class, came the night of April 23 when the class honored Seniors at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom.

Guests entered the school gymnasium through an archway covered with flowers and joined on either side by a white picket fence which was entwined with roses and ivy. Pines and greenery surrounded the banquet area, with boughs of dogwood and wild blossoms adding to the Springtime theme.

The gymnasium floor was transformed into a Spring garden, including a pond which contained goldfish and seaweed. The dinner, served by members of the BFHS Chapter of Future Homemakers of America, included barbecued chicken, butter beans, carrot curls, celery strips, potatoes, bread, iced tea, and cherry tart.

James Joyner, president of the Junior Class, gave the welcome to the guests. Nellie Ruth Gwensney offered a toast to the Seniors, to which Donald Wooten responded. A toast to the guests was given by Jackie Thomas, with Roy Jones, chairman of the District School Committee, responding. The invocation was pronounced by Woodrow Wooten, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

After the meal, a grand march of Senior and Junior class officers began the entertainment. It was followed by a ballroom dance, presented by four couples from each class. A waltz number was done by 12 girls, who also entertained with a number of dance figures, and Carolyn Hathaway sang "Who's Sorry Now" as a solo.

Entertainment was planned and directed by Mrs. Glenn Scott, who also accompanied Miss Hathaway's solo.

where County Superintendent D. H. Conley, members of the school board, high school faculty members, and Board of Commissioners Chairman Woodrow Wooten.

The banquet was directed by Mrs. Virginia Lang, Junior advisor. Decorations were planned by Jarvis Tripp and Mrs. Jarvis Tripp assisted FHA members in preparation of the meal.

Historian Sees No Shooting By Soviet And West

ST. LOUIS (AP)—British historian Arnold J. Toynbee predicts there will be no war between the Soviet Union and the West.

Toynbee said, "Instead, there will be fierce competition to win over the underdeveloped and uncommitted nations of the world by missionary-like programs of aid."

Toynbee, director of the Royal Institute of International Affairs in London, was interviewed during a visit here.

Toynbee said the Soviet Union has taken an early lead in the contest for world leadership with the West, but he said the West probably would win over the long run.

"Russia is taking a kind of short cut to power at the price of individual freedoms," he said. "But over the long run human beings don't like to be driven like mules or sheep and they will find some way of freeing themselves."

If there is a war, it will eliminate the contesting nations, he predicted.

"But I don't believe we're going to fight that war," he said.

Potatoes provide more Vitamin C than any other source, including citrus fruits, says University of Idaho Horticulturist Walter Sparks.

Police Remind He Forgot Wife

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP)—A California motorist was stopped here by city police who reminded him that he'd forgotten something at a service station in Paragould, Ark., 20 miles away.

He had left his wife behind after she went into a restroom while the car was at the station. The motorist said she had been sleeping on the rear seat and he assumed she was still there when he left Paragould.

ECC Starts Five-Game Week Of Play At Boone Today

Rose High Plays Home Wednesday

Leading the Northeastern Conference baseball race with a 7-1 record, Greenville's Rose High Phantoms will put that mark on the line Wednesday at Brookgreen Field when they face the Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets.

Coach Boley Farley is expected to pitch Merrill Bynum — a hefty righthander — against the Jackets. In case of trouble, Joe Moyer will be ready for relief work. Both boys have done all the G-Men hurling thus far this season.

With only three games remaining on schedule, the Phantoms are solid favorites to clinch the Northeastern crown for the first time in many years. Thus far, they have whipped New Bern, Washington (twice), Elizabeth City, Kinston, Jacksonville, and Roanoke Rapids. Their only loss of the season came at the hands of New Bern, in a night tilt at New Bern.

Remaining games are with Roanoke Rapids here Wednesday at Jacksonville on May 13, and with Kinston at Brookgreen Field on May 16.

Coach Farley's lineup Wednesday will consist of Bynum and Mack Roebuck at the batteries; Dick Evans at first base; Joe Moyer at second base; Billy Cox at shortstop; Walker Lee Allen at third base; John Harrison, Bobby Edwards and Randy Bass in the outfield.

Game time Wednesday afternoon will be 3:30.

Nobody Wanted Jack But He's Winning

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press
Four months ago, nobody wanted Jack Harshman. Now nobody can beat him. The left-handed pitcher, traded by the Chicago White Sox to Baltimore last December, has been a lifesaver for the Orioles. He hurled a five-hit shutout yesterday as Baltimore swept a double-header from Detroit 4-3 and 4-0. Harshman, still unbeaten this season, has won half his team's eight victories. Yet, last January, the Orioles wanted to return him to Chicago when they learned he was suffering from a slipped disc. The baseball commissioner ruled that Baltimore must keep Harshman but should be compensated with an additional player. The surprising Washington Senators climbed to within a game of the front-running New York Yankees, defeating Kansas City 7-2. The second game was halted by rain after nine innings with the score deadlocked at 2-2.

Dodgers Take Two From Philadelphia

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press
Los Angeles baseball fans who only a week ago were chasing the Dodgers back to Brooklyn were embracing their heroes today like native sons. The repatriated Bums reached new heights in popularity Sunday when they swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia 8-7 and 15-2 to climb a notch into sixth place in the National League pennant race. The home folks saw second baseman Charlie Neal bash two home runs, a triple and single for four runs batted in. They saw the Dodgers whip Robin Roberts in the first game and then watched them assault six pitchers for 18 hits in the second game, tops for a single game in the league this season. They saw the Dodgers give their pitchers spectacular support with seven double plays, which boosted their total to 35 twin killings in 19 games. They saw the Dodger hitters crack eight consecutive hits for seven runs in one inning as left-hander Danny McDevitt coasted to his first victory of the season in the nightcap. In San Francisco, a crowd of 22,721 saw the Giants rebound with a 4-3 10-inning victory after Pittsburgh had won the opener of their doubleheader 6-2. Despite the split, the Giants dropped into fourth place behind Milwaukee, which defeated St. Louis 7-2. The Chicago Cubs retained their half-game first place lead by dividing a doubleheader with Cincinnati. The Cubs won the opener 5-4 with the Redlegs taking the second game 3-2 in 14 innings. Baltimore swept a pair from Detroit 4-3 and 4-0 while Cleveland and Boston divided a pair. The Indians won the opener 2-1 and the Red Sox won the second game by the same score in 12 innings.

Three ACC Titles Will Be Decided

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Atlantic Coast Conference tennis, track and golf championships will be decided this week. The tennis tournament, a three-day affair, starts Thursday on the University of North Carolina courts at Chapel Hill. A new champion will be crowned. Last year's winner, Dave Freisheit of Maryland, has graduated. Runnerup Jackson Yang, also of Maryland, is back, along with a losing semifinalist, Don Romhilt of Duke.

The golf championship will be held at the Old Town Club course in Winston-Salem for the fifth year in a row. Wake Forest, the host school, defends its team title. John Gerding of Wake Forest, last year's individual champion, has completed his eligibility. Team and individual honors will be determined over 36 holes on Friday and Saturday.

Maryland defends its track title over Duke's track in Durham on Friday and Saturday. The meet will serve as a windup to the ACC career of Duke's Dave Sims, holder of the 100, 200 and 400 yard records.

The baseball race, meanwhile, seems to have narrowed to a two-team spurt between Clemson and North Carolina. Clemson, 10-2, holds a one-game margin over 8-2 North Carolina. In games this week, Clemson faces South Carolina and North Carolina takes on both Duke and Virginia.

Saturday's games saw Clemson defeat N.C. State 15-11, North Carolina defeat Virginia 7-1. Wake Forest defeat Maryland 5-2 and South Carolina defeat Duke 7-4 in 12 innings.

Two ACC teams take on non-conference foes today, Maryland traveling to Navy and Virginia at home to Washington and Lee. Other games this week: Tuesday — N.C. State at Wake Forest (night), Furman at Clemson.

Wednesday—Duke at North Carolina, South Carolina at The Citadel. Thursday—Wake Forest vs. N.C. State at Asheboro, N.C. (does not count in standings), Virginia at Virginia Tech.

Friday—Clemson at South Carolina. Saturday — North Carolina at Virginia, Wake Forest at Maryland.

North State Will Meet Saturday

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — The way has been cleared for a quiet spring meeting of the North State Conference here next Saturday with the disposal of the points-after-touchdown question. District 26 of the NAIA, of which the North State is a member, has decided to abide by the rules of the NCAA, which include two points for conversion by rush or pass, and one by placement. The meeting also will be asked to adopt a forfeiture clause in case a team is unable to play a scheduled game. This is an outgrowth of last fall's situation in which several games were canceled because of flu. This resulted in a dispute between Lenoir Rhyne and Elon for the championship. Lenoir Rhyne was declared the winner on a 5-1 mark. The conference ruled in effect that Elon's 4-0 did not meet conference requirements.

Finish Week With Big Elon Contest Saturday

BOONE — Second-ranked East Carolina College moves into Appalachian baseball park this afternoon and tomorrow to begin the last week of North State Conference baseball action.

The visiting Pirates will put their 7-1 league mark on the line during the two-day series in an attempt to catch up with loop-leading Elon (9-1). Appalachian, with a less-impressive 4-5 mark at last place, cannot make a bid for the 1958 crown, but it is expected to make it hot for the top competitors in this last week of play. East Carolina is but the first of the leading contenders to face them this week.

Coach Jim Mallory's Pirates must face the Apps today and tomorrow and still save enough power to journey to Guilford on Wednesday for another clash. Then, in Greenville on Friday, they will match their strength against third-ranked Lenoir Rhyne, rated an upset-maker in the loop.

Elon, Too On Saturday night, ECC will play host to Elon at Guy Smith Stadium in Greenville in what could be the deciding tilt of the season for the title.

Elon has three games this week and will be seeking wins right down the wire. Should both teams win all their games through Friday, the Saturday night fracas will decide everything.

A Greenville firm, College View Cleaners and Laundry, one of the staunchest supporters of the Pirate baseball program in recent years, has taken sponsorship of the Saturday night game. The firm has purchased 3,000 tickets and offers them free of charge to any fans who will ask for them at any of the College View establishments. Tickets will be on sale at the gate.

Shelley Today Big Bruce Shelley, a senior from Mullins, South Carolina, has been named by Mallory as the probable starter today on the mound against Appalachian. Shelley, with a commendable 4-0 record, is the most successful hurler on Mallory's top-notch staff.

Tomorrow, it is expected that George Williams or Leonard Lilley will hurl for Ben Baker, last year's leading pitcher who is having a bad 1958 season, will probably get the nod at Guilford. Thus far, Mallory has managed to put these four seasoned veterans to work admirably in running up his 7-1 league mark and has not had to touch the five other hurlers in his stable.

Same Lineup The same lineup that has been winning consistently for the Bucs will probably see action throughout this week. The only questionable positions are those of center-field and rightfield, where Mallory has made continuous shifts, depending upon whether the opposition uses left-handers or right-handers on the mound.

Thus far, ECC has beaten Western Carolina (twice), Atlantic Christian (twice), Catawba, High Point (twice) and has lost only to Elon. Elon, last week, added a victory over Guilford to their record to give them a 9-1 mark thus far in loop play.

Lenoir Rhyne's Bears, with three straight wins, moved into third place at 7-2, ahead of Catawba, which dropped decisions to East Carolina and Atlantic Christian, during the week.

This last week of play will be a big one. Besides Saturday night's tilt between ECC-Elon, the Christians must also play at Atlantic Christian and Appalachian.

The Standings
Elon 9 1
East Carolina 7 1
Lenoir Rhyne 7 2
Catawba 3 3
Appalachian 4 5
Atlantic Christian 3 4
High Point 3 9
Guilford 1 6
Western Carolina 0 6

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Tim Tam won the Kentucky Derby. That came as no surprise. But the big question that remained unanswered today was what happened to Silky Sullivan, the most publicized horse in the 84 runnings of the turf classic.

Tim Tam's victory Saturday in the 1 1/4-mile race over a very muddy track gave Mrs. Gene Markey's Calumet Farm its seventh Derby triumph. Lightly regarded Lincoln Road, from the Sunny Blue Farm of Chicago was second, half a length back. Dr. Peter Graffagnino's New Orleans-owned Noureddin, also neglected in the betting, trailed by another half length in third place.

Silky Sullivan, who had electrified fans with his come-from-last-place performances, was 12th in the 14-horse field. He trailed Tim Tam by 29 lengths. "I only know that (Jockey Willie) Shoemaker told me he didn't like the track," said trainer Reggie Cornell. "I knew he wasn't right by the way he ran the first half-mile."

"He wasn't even breathing hard when he finished the race and never overlooked a bite of his food. It was his second bad race. The other was his second start as a 2-year-old in which he bucked his shins."

Cornell and owners Tom Ross and Phil Klipstein of San Francisco are going to give Silky at least one more chance in the East. He'll start in the Preakness at Baltimore May 17. He's also staked in the $50,000 added Jersey at Garden State May 24 and the $100,000 added Belmont in June.

Other trainers had different ideas why Silky faltered. "I don't think he'll ever run as well in the East as he has on the West Coast," said Sly Veitch, whose Flamingo finished 13th. "There's a difference in the type of tracks and air. The humidity undoubtedly had an effect on his breathing." A number have said Silky has a slight throat condition but it has been denied by the stable.

Saturday's games saw Clemson defeat N.C. State 15-11, North Carolina defeat Virginia 7-1. Wake Forest defeat Maryland 5-2 and South Carolina defeat Duke 7-4 in 12 innings.

Two ACC teams take on non-conference foes today, Maryland traveling to Navy and Virginia at home to Washington and Lee. Other games this week: Tuesday — N.C. State at Wake Forest (night), Furman at Clemson.

Wednesday—Duke at North Carolina, South Carolina at The Citadel. Thursday—Wake Forest vs. N.C. State at Asheboro, N.C. (does not count in standings), Virginia at Virginia Tech.

Friday—Clemson at South Carolina. Saturday — North Carolina at Virginia, Wake Forest at Maryland.

Noted Almanac Trial Held Just A Hundred Years Ago

By EDWARD S. KITCH
 BEARDSTOWN, Ill. (AP)—A hundred years ago this week Abraham Lincoln confronted a witness in the Cass County Circuit Court with an almanac. With that and a convincing summation, he won an acquittal for a family friend accused of murder.

Since then the case has become famous as the "Almanac Trial." Lincoln, running for the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate, took time off from his campaign to defend William (Duff) Armstrong May 5 and 6, 1858. He was nominated but lost the election.

Armstrong, son of Lincoln's long-time friend of the New Salem days, Jack Armstrong, was charged with the murder of James F. Metzker, a farmer who lived near Petersburg.

Metzker and Armstrong had been drinking Aug. 29, 1857, when they engaged in a scuffle during a camp meeting. Afterward, Metzker and another youth, James H. Norris, were involved in a fight.

Later that night, Metzker was set upon by unknown assailants as he rode home on horseback after the camp meeting. He died three days later.

Norris and Armstrong were arrested and charged with Metzker's murder. Norris, who was tried in Mason County Court, was found guilty and sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary.

It was then that Hannah Armstrong, Duff's widowed mother, turned to Lincoln. He wrote her would help "to require in a small degree the favors I received at your hand."

Lincoln filed for a change of venue for Armstrong on grounds that people in Mason County were so prejudiced against Armstrong he would be unable to get a fair trial, and the case was transferred to Cass County.

The trial was held in Beardstown in the courthouse which still stands. Townspeople are celebrating the centennial of the trial with re-enactments today and tomorrow.

In the trial, a witness named Allen claimed he saw Armstrong strike Metzker on the head with a sling shot—a piece of metal attached to a leather thong.

When Lincoln cross-examined him, Allen said it was about 11 o'clock at night when the attack occurred, but admitted he was about 150 feet from the combatants.

"The moon was very bright, almost like day," he said. "And the full moon was at a point in the sky where the sun is at 10 o'clock in the morning."

As Allen finished his statement, Lincoln drew from his pocket an almanac for the year 1857. He pointed to Aug. 29, the night of the attack, and asked Allen to repeat to the jury what phase the moon was in and when it set.

Lincoln told the jury the moon was barely past first quarter, and had practically disappeared at 11 o'clock.

Lincoln then called upon Dr. Parker, who said the bruises causing Metzker's death could very well have been caused by a fall from his horse.

In presenting his closing argument, Lincoln dwelt upon the personal elements of the case, drawing a touching picture of the cabin

Rock 'n' Roll Is Banned As Crime Follows Session

BOSTON (AP)—The manager of the Boston Arena today announced a ban on all future rock 'n' roll jam sessions after 15 persons were injured in the aftermath of such a jam session Saturday night and early yesterday.

Manager Paul Brown of the state-operated arena said: "The next rock 'n' roll show at the arena will be presented over my dead body."

Police reported that gangs of teen-agers left the arena after the jam session and attacked, robbed and molested passers-by.

Albert Raggiani, 19, a Navy man from Stoughton, suffered several deep stab wounds on the chest as he left the arena with two girls.

He was treated at City Hospital and later transferred to the naval hospital in Chelsea. His condition was described as fair. Others were less seriously injured.

Brown said unrest developed when police ordered the dimmed house lights turned on at the arena after fans began dancing in the darkened aisles.

All Prepared For Simulated Raid

RALEIGH (AP)—State Civil Defense Director Edward F. Griffin says everything is in readiness for a simulated enemy attack which begins in North Carolina tomorrow.

"We've done a lot of planning and feel we're going to have a good test," said Gen. Griffin. The test will determine how effectively North Carolina could cope with direct nuclear attack.

The exercise is part of "Operation Alert 1958," the fifth nationwide Civil Defense test.

All counties in the state have been requested to participate in the attack, Griffin stated, and have been sent instructions.

Target areas are Charlotte, Raleigh, Durham, Asheville, The High Point Greensboro area, Winston-Salem, and Wilmington. Griffin said likely target areas are the military installations in the state.

Two 12-hour periods of operation will be observed. The first will start sometime after 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, the second at 9 a.m. Wednesday.

Griffin said representatives of the Department of Defense, U.S. Navy and Federal Civil Defense Administration will observe North Carolina's participation.

Griffin said the simulated attack will offer "a much needed opportunity to test and evaluate survival plans, take stock of resources and train for emergency action."

Lone Male Faces 3 Lady Rivals

TORONTO (AP)—A lone male is pitted against three women in an election here next Monday.

Allan F. Lawrence says he's fascinated—but not frightened. The 32-year-old lawyer says: "I know that suffragette days are over and that it is policies and personalities that count."

Lawrence's wife Moira is working for him, along with the Conservative party women's organization.

Two candidates representing minor parties are Miss Iona Samis and Miss Dorothy Curetz. The candidate of Canada's No. 2 party, the Liberals, is Mrs. Jean McKenzie Brown. Her husband is her campaign chairman.

They are running for the Ontario Legislature seat of Dana Porter, a Conservative who has become chief justice of Ontario.

YELL KING?
 STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham received 416 write-in votes for Stanford University yell leader. "Billy Graham for Yell King," urged a sign in front of the library as students voted. George Richard Stanford of Coronado, won with 1,168 votes.

Ford Foundation Head To Resign

NEW YORK (AP)—H. Rowan Gaither Jr. is giving up the chairmanship of the Ford Foundation, the world's richest philanthropic organization.

Gaither, 48, said yesterday he will leave the foundation at its annual meeting in December to resume his law practice and other interests in San Francisco. He will continue as a foundation trustee.

His name has been given to the still-secret Gaither report by the security resources panel of President Eisenhower's Scientific Advisory Committee. The report is said to have recommended larger defense spending.

The Richard E. Byrd Library, containing the books and mementoes of the noted polar explorer, is at Springfield, Va.

TV Industry Aims To Stir People To Action

By CHARLES MERCER
 NEW YORK (AP)—Television increasingly reflects what people are talking about—and unquestionably makes them talk about it even more. The next move is to make them DO something about it.

We're currently seeing, for example, many programs by the three networks on the state of education, a subject of national importance.

Tonight, ABC-TV is placing the subject in a new perspective with a worthwhile special hour program titled "Report Card, 1958."

"We're starting with the premise that we know the problems exist," says John Daly, vice president in charge of news and special events for ABC. "Our task is to take a look at new forms of education that promise to give at least partial solutions to the problems."

In filmed and live segments, "Report Card, 1958" will cover outstanding educational experiments in six communities across the country: Rock Island, Ill.; Hagerstown, Md.; Joplin, Mo.; Hicksville, N.Y.; Lyons Falls, N.Y.; and Portland, Ore.

Some time ago ABC-TV President Oliver Treyz said that he believed in scheduling important public service programs in hours when the largest possible number of viewers are likely to see them. The time of "Report Card, 1958" shows the network is putting that idea into practice.

"Report Card, 1958" raises an old question: Why won't commercial enterprises sponsor such worthy programs? Agency people have explained it to us at least a dozen times with some gibberish involving "cost per thousand" that either we can't understand or refuse to believe.

CHAPTER 36
Price Regan drew his gun as he swung around to face Pete Nance...

"Hold it, Weston! Hold it!" But Weston reached the corner and disappeared.
Harker said, "Go get him, Regan. I'll keep these nuckleberries right here..."

Price went outside. The doctor had stopped the bleeding in Bruce's leg. He said, "You'll be all right, son. Just stay on your back for a few days. Be a spell before you do any walking..."

Max Harker had them under his shotgun, but he couldn't cover all of them. It was surprise that held them motionless...

Weston must have counted Price's shots. Gambling that there were only five, he reversed himself and whirled, drawing as he turned...

"Here's the stretcher." The doctor motioned the crowd back. "Ease him onto it, boys."
They carried him away. Jean walking beside the stretcher...

"I have a witness who saw you shoot Red Sanders," Price said. "You'll hang, all right, and don't expect any help from the Mohawks..."

Price's fingers seemed to be all thumbs. Time had run out for him. Now Weston was close. This time he couldn't miss...

"I think you've given your last order here," Price said. "It's my guess you won't be in Saddle Rock much longer..."

Price was perfectly aware that he was playing a long shot. He heard running steps on the boardwalk behind him...

Weston dropped his gun and lifted his hands. Price marched him to the street, a whipped man for everyone to see...

Laura walked beside him, her arm through his. She held her head high and proud, loving him and wanting everybody who saw her to know it...

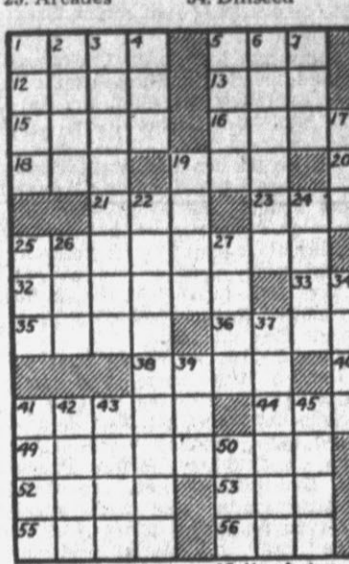

Then Bruce Jarvis cried out, "I see you do it, Weston. I see you shoot Red Sanders!"

"Price, suppose you don't bother saying those words," Harker said. "For once in my life I feel like a man. It's like I've told you, I've been dying for ten years, so it didn't make much difference whether it was today or tomorrow..."

NEW YORK (P) — The stock market was narrowly mixed in moderate trading early this afternoon. Gains and losses of key stocks were kept generally within a point.

Aircrafts were slightly ahead but most other industrial groups were either irregular or slightly changed. Rails drifted to the downside.

U. S. Steel was off a small fraction as its annual meeting got underway. Chemicals were generally lower. Motors did little.

Douglas Aircraft had a spurt of activity and was up about a point following weekend news that the administration increased the production figure on the Thor missile.

The market as a whole was slightly higher at the start and the ticker tape was late briefly as an accumulation of opening blocks was disposed of. Turnover slackened and prices milled inconclusively in the area of the latest 1952 high reached by the average Friday.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) was off a fraction but was not particularly active following the news it had filed with the SEC a registration statement for the issue of 2,246,001 shares of stock to be offered in exchange for shares of International Petroleum.

United Aircraft was ahead a point before slicing the gain to a fraction. Lockheed and Boeing also made fractional gains.

Lukens Steel added more than a point. Youngstown Sheet and Tube gained a fraction. Bethlehem was firm.

Scovill Manufacturing dropped 1 1/2 to 19 on a block of 15,100 shares. Olin Mathieson fell 1/2 to 33 1/2 on a block of 6,000 shares.

Lordillard continued strong, rising more than a point.

Small losses were taken by Goodrich, International Harvester, American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, General Electric, Chesapeake & Ohio and Texas Co. A head slightly rose Loew's, Royal Dutch and Johnson-Manville.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 20 cents to $168.30 with the industrials unchanged, the rails down 40 cents and the utilities off 10 cents.

It has been estimated that over 3,200 Scouts and Scouters camped at the Camporee Friday, Saturday and yesterday. Approximately 25,000 men, women and children reportedly visited the 50-acre site during the three days.

The East Carolina Council Camporee is reputed to be the largest annual extended encampment in the United States. Camporee Chief Wiley Wall of Havelock stated yesterday that the event was one of the most successful in which he has ever participated. Several other officials said this year's Camporee was the most successful in history from the standpoint of attendance and participation.
