County Demo Convention Names Delegates To N.C. Gathering Here Saturday

Pitt County's 25 voting precincts are entitled to a total of 527 delegates and 527 alternates at the County Democratic Convention...

These delegates (88 delegates and 88 alternates) are selected by the county convention. In the past it has been customary for each precinct to nominate the number of delegates and alternates to which it may be entitled...

This year have been allotted to the various precincts and should each precinct nominate its full quota there will be no delegates at large because we are entitled to only 88 delegates and 88 alternates at the state convention...

Each precinct is allotted its delegates to the county convention based on the number of Democratic votes cast in the precinct in the last gubernatorial election. On that basis Farmville is the largest precinct of Pitt's 25 with 54 delegates and 54 alternates to the county convention...

Rescue 24 Men In Flooded Mine

SHARPLES, W.Va. (AP)—Twenty-four men, trapped more than 13 hours in a flooded coal mine, were brought to the surface unharmed and in good condition at dawn today.

Another of the rescued men, Lon Hamilton, 42, said: "We spent our time just resting. We were singing and praying."

President Applauds Nixon Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that Peruvian students who stoned and spat upon Vice President Nixon will come "to feel a sense of guilt and embarrassment."

The first man up the air shaft, Orville Kitchen, emerged at 4:50 a.m. The last man came out an hour later. He was Robert Turner, 48, assistant general foreman. The air shaft is more than a mile from the place where the men were found.

The 24 were the entire work force on the day shift yesterday. The water, which flooded part of the mine and cut them off, broke through about 1 p.m., jamming passageways with debris.

Crippled Airliner Lands Safe

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—A giant airliner skidded to a stop, its nose plowing in a foam-covered runway. A canvas chute unfurled from a rear door and passengers started sliding to the earth.

Eighteen-Year-Old Betty Lane Evans Is Chosen Miss Greenville

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor. A beautiful high school senior with voice to match became Miss Greenville last night winning out over nine other contestants in the annual pageant.

Miss Evans was sponsored in the Jaycee-staged pageant by the Kiwanis Club. Miss McDaniel's sponsor was the Rotary Club and Miss Carter's Lambda Chi.

There were other gifts waiting for Miss Evans as the city's top beauty. Foremost is a three-day all-expense paid trip to Miami for her and a companion. She will fly to the Florida resort city sometime between June 1 and 15 and she will stay at the Fontainebleau Hotel.

She has brown hair and eyes and she stands five feet, five and a half inches tall. The pageant, directed by project chairman Dr. Sam T. White II, had a nautical theme. The contestants walked through a curtain on a platform at the center of the stage for the evening dress and swim suit appearances. They were assisted down steps from the platform to the stage by Bob T. Smith. After appearing before judges and audience they disappeared into the east wing of the Austin Auditorium stage.

Child Run Over By School Bus

GARNER, N.C. (AP)—A 6-year-old child was seriously injured today when he was run over by a school bus.

The child's stepfather, W. C. Moore of Rt. 2, Raleigh, said it was necessary for doctors to amputate the little boy's right leg. Wake County School Supt. Fred Smith said the boy, Gary Jerome Roberts, darted from behind a hedge in front of his house, behind a passing car and into the path of the school bus which was driven by Thomas Wilson.

The bus was not the one the boy was supposed to ride and it was not preparing to stop. However, Smith said, the boy "apparently assumed it was his bus."

Sidewalk Show Colorful Sight, Music Filled Air

75 Eastern N C Artists Show Paintings, Crafts

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Woman's Editor

Multi-colored flags and Japanese decorations stirred by the Spring breeze, gay music filling the air, and a wide range of art objects representing the works of approximately 75 artists were the highlights of yesterday's Sidewalk Art Show.

During the all-day event couples strolled hand-in-hand, mothers pushed their babies in strollers, and elderly persons leisurely walked around the grounds of Sheppard Memorial Library, pausing to study the array of paintings and the interesting displays.

"I believe the Sidewalk Art Show affects more people who live in Greenville than any other single event," reflected Mrs. Clara Moye Shuckell, committee member.

The three co-chairmen of the show, Mrs. Michael M. Luskin, Mrs. R. V. Keel and Mrs. John Behr, all felt that this year's show was a complete success. "It is the most varied Sidewalk Show we have had, as a host of art medias were represented," said Mrs. Luskin.

Another feature of the show was a Lunch Bar staffed by members of the Junior Woman's Club. Tables, bright with colored umbrellas, were scattered over the lawn. Here visiting persons paused for lunch or a snack.

Music for this fourth annual event was provided by Mrs. B. L. Tyson, accordionist, J. H. Rose High School Band, and The Rev. and Mrs. Howard G. James of the Red Oak Christian Church.

Visiting school children participated in group singing led by The Rev. Mr. James and later in the afternoon the high school band members rendered a number of selections to complete the picturesque setting.

A few of the demonstrations given at intervals throughout the day were concerned with mosaic tiles, hooked rugs, Hawaiian and Japanese arrangements, and the potter's wheel.

Many New Exhibits

A variety of exhibits, many never shown at the Sidewalk Show before, attracted widespread attention. For the first time the Industrial Arts Department of ECC displayed tables, chairs, and a number of wood objects made by the students.

Pottery and jewelry sold quickly. Pottery was exhibited by the ECC Adult Education Class, ECC senior art class, and by Mr. and Mrs. William Persick. The shell-craft, flex-craft, enamel, copper and silver jewelry also were quite popular.

Local Artists Represented

Encircling the entire area were the varied size paintings in oils, water colors and ink. One set of highly unusual paintings were done on velvet. Also hand painted textiles were displayed.

Some of the local artists who entered their paintings were: Claude Taylor, Evelyn Walston, Francis Neel, Georgia Hearne, Donna Tabor, Mrs. Sam Brooks, Joe Stell, Bee Behr, Madge Allen and Mack Dupree.

Another outstanding event of the day was a gallery talk by Dr. Robert Lee Humber on the personal life of Louis Orr of Paris, France. Humber, a close friend of the artist, gave insights into the life of the artist who is well-known for his etchings and pastel water colors.

A large crowd formed around Mrs. Eunice Lanzl of Kinston, artist, who sketched visiting persons pictures on the library grounds during the afternoon.

As the show drew to a close, pictures began selling and each child was given a Japanese lantern or fish which were made by C. M. Eppes students and distributed by Madge Allen.

Scouts Court Of Awards Sunday

The Girl Scout Court of Awards will be held Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the McGinnis Auditorium, East Carolina College.

Local Girl Scouts will receive badges of rank and proficiency at this time.

First and second class awards will be presented, and four girls will accept the Curved Bar Award. They are Joyce Masten, Diana Hodges, Jane McGlohon and Shirley Harrell, members of the troop of which Mrs. Louis W. Gaylor Jr. is leader.

During the program, Brownies reaching the status of Scouthood will receive wings.

Dr. Julia Marshall, member of the East Carolina psychology department, will be the Court of Awards speaker. The theme of her talk will be "You Can Count On Her."

Leaders participating in the Court are Mrs. Clay Burnette,

Mrs. E. E. Cramer, Mrs. Wyatt Brown, Mrs. C. W. Howard Jr., Mrs. Howard Waldrop, Mrs. W. C. Hollowell, Mrs. O. E. Cohron, Mrs. Louis Gaylor Jr., Mrs. J. H. Behr, Mrs. James Joyner and Mrs. A. M. Mumford.

Three troops will award their badges at a later date. Leaders of these troops are Mrs. C. E. Steinmeyer Jr., Mrs. Ernel Baker and Mrs. E. J. Maloney.

Mrs. Ficklen Named To National Post

Mrs. James S. Ficklen of Greenville this week was elected a vice president of the National Society of Colonial Dames in North Carolina.

Mrs. Ficklen was elected vice president from the East at the annual meeting of the organization held in Wilmington.

Mrs. Clark Gives Review For Club

A review of Vance Packard's "Hidden Persuaders" was given by Mrs. Dallas Clark when she spoke to the Chatham Book Club Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Bryan Brown.

She pointed out that this book is a popular presentation of an aspect of mass communication concerned with the use and misuse of socio-psychological research in advertising and public relations.

Throughout the talk, Mrs. Clark gave many of the author's examples which make up this book.

Mrs. A. C. Ruffin introduced the guest speaker after a short business session. Mrs. J. G. Joyce was a special guest.

Amid a setting of mixed spring flowers, guests were served a dessert course with nuts and coffee.

Biggest Job: Coordinated Effort

"Farm Bureau is a family organization."

This statement was made last night by Mrs. John B. Chase of Buxton, member of the Executive Board of the North Carolina Farm Bureau. Mrs. Chase was speaking to more than 60 members of Home Demonstration Clubs represented at a called meeting in the Eastern Pines Community Center.

"The number one purpose of Farm Bureau is to raise the standard of living of farm families," Mrs. Chase said. "To do this we must work together in the future for the sake of all concerned."

She commended Pitt County Home Demonstration Clubs for doing a "wonderful" job through the years. In passing she reminded the group that Home Demonstration Club and Farm Bureau work go hand in hand.

As Mrs. Chase put it one of the primary purposes of Home Demonstration work is to serve as a line of communication between the homes of the state, state colleges, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. "You have a big job," she commented.

"The biggest job of all," she noted, "is to coordinate your efforts with the various other farm agencies in your community, county and state. In my opinion, this is where our future lies."

During her talk, Mrs. Chase pointed out some of the work that the Farm Bureau organization is doing. Included were participation in membership drives; setting up a Heart Fund by collecting 10c from each member and turning over proceeds of investment to hospitals in North Carolina for research; a health and safety program; policy development and execution; public relations and "talent finds," involving search-out talent among farm children.

Mrs. Chase was introduced by Alonzo Edwards of Hookerton, executive vice president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau. In making the introduction, Edwards described the speaker as one who has generated her efforts toward improvements for farm people. He also lauded the efforts of Ralph Tucker of Greenville who served as chairman of the 1957 Farm Bureau membership drive.

Other special guests were Mrs. Lillie Little, Pitt County Home Demonstration Club Agent, and her assistants, Miss Margaret Stevens and Mrs. Lois Freeman; A. Hartwell Campbell, manager of WNCB; Conner Eagles, manager of the Soil Conservation office; Mrs. Francis Oakes, executive secretary of the Pitt County Farm Bureau office; Mrs. Wilbur Worthington of Ayden, president of the Pitt County Home Demonstration Clubs; and G. D. Cox of Winterville, president of the Pitt Farm Bureau organization.

According to Cox, the meeting was called to stimulate interest in the widespread movement for farm improvements and to attain closer coordination between Home

Wednesday was cleanup, fixup day at the Eastern Pines Community Building for the Red Banks Home Demonstration Club.

Approximately 15 members cleaned, painted and carpentered during the day.

Cornices were made, painted and put up by Mr. and Mrs. Noah T. Hardee.

New drapes were made and placed by Mrs. S. B. Tucker, Mrs. Hugh Hardee Jr., Mrs. Noah Hardee and Mrs. Glenn Hardee.

Screens were remade by Glenn Hardee.

Other members participating were Mrs. Vernon Hardee, Mrs. H. R. Rogers, Mrs. Herman Adams, Mrs. Sam Adams, Mrs. Stanley Braxton, Mrs. Walter Cherry and Mrs. Magnolia Everette.

Results Of French Class Told To Cosmos

Experiences in teaching conversational French to fourth grade students for three months were discussed by Mrs. Carolyn Rose and Miss Dorothy Langston, French majors at East Carolina College, at the Cosmos Book Club meeting Tuesday.

A group of their students also appeared on the program and showed by their conversation, singing, and dancing the success of the language experiment.

Students who participated were Gayle Surles, Cheryl Lee, Mym Martin, Floyd Warren, Robert Moyle, and Joe Smith, III.

Mrs. Rose and Miss Langston stated that "Since young children show much ability to speak French with ease that it is our hope conversational French will someday be included in the elementary curriculum."

The meeting, held at the home of Mrs. George Martin, opened with a business session presided over by Mrs. Buddy Harrington who welcomed the afternoon guests: Mrs. R. E. Lee, Jr., Mrs. Rose and Miss Langston.

Arrangements of American Beauty roses were used in the living room. A salad plate was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughters, Karen and Mym.

Recent Bride Feted At ECC

BETHEL — Wednesday night, Miss Barbara Ann Whitehurst of Bethel, a student at East Carolina College, was hostess at a shower in the social hall of Garrett Dormitory honoring Mrs. Harry Morris, recent bride of Elizabeth City and ECC.

Of focal interest on entering the hall was an artistic arrangement of purple iris and white narcissus centering the table arranged for refreshments.

Several friends were present to greet the honoree as she entered and the hostess presented her with a miniature bride corsage. After all helped themselves to hors d'oeuvres, cheese wafers, nuts, bridal cakes and iced drinks, the honoree opened her gifts and displayed them.

Bridal Couple Feted At Shower

AYDEN — Miss Peggy Rose Williams of Winterville Route 1, bride-elect, and her fiancé, Harold Nobles, were honored at a miscellaneous shower Wednesday night at the Community Building.

Mrs. Mattie Hardee and Mrs. Louise Dell Hardee were hostesses. The Community Building was decorated with green and white.

The appointed table was centered with a large bride-doll holding a basket of white narcissus and fern flanked with white candles in wrought iron holders.

The table was covered with a mint green linen cloth showered with ivy and ribbon.

Lime punch, mints, cookies and open face sandwiches were served to approximately 65 guests.

Sarah Whitehurst Circle Meet
BETHEL — When the Sarah Whitehurst Circle met at the home of Mrs. J. S. Moore Monday with Mrs. M. T. Whitehurst as co-hostess, Mrs. J. C. Wynne Sr., leader, called the meeting to order after which Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst gave a talk on several chapters of the Book of Mark.

Miss Taylor Installed New BPW President At Homecoming Meet

Fellowship and renewing of acquaintances was the theme of the "Homecoming" for former members and the installation of 1958-59 officers when the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club met last night at the Woman's Club for their May dinner meeting.

Miss Lois Frazier, president of the State Federation of B. & P. Women's Clubs, Inc. was among the special guests and was in charge of the Installation Service.

Using the B. & P. Women's Clubs Emblem theme, Miss Frazier installed the following new officers: Miss Alya Ray Taylor, president; Dr. Mildred Southwick, first vice president; Mrs. Bertie Reed, second vice president; Mrs. Mildred Owens, recording secretary; Miss Camille Clark, corresponding secretary; Miss Mary Bell, treasurer; and Dr. Bessie McNeil, parliamentarian.

Preceding the Installation Service, Mrs. Cleveland Bradner sang "The Golden Key," The Business and Professional Women's Club Song.

Prior to the dinner, Mrs. Ruel W. Tyson gave the invocation and Mrs. Margaret Farley, outgoing president, recognized Miss Mary C. Brogdon, Miss Louise Anchors, Miss Frazier and Mrs. Leslie Coghill of Raleigh, Dr. Ruth Keeseey and Mrs. Anne Singleton as special guests.

Mrs. F. A. Jordan, second vice president and membership chairman, welcomed a large number of former members who attended the first homecoming held by the club. They were: Mrs. Alton Clapp, Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, Mrs. Cora Powell, Mrs. Alvira Allred, Mrs. Blair Cox Wheelis, Miss Ellen Proctor, Mrs. Russell Andrews, and Mrs. Estelle Tucker.

Other members who served on the membership committee were Mrs. Mildred Owens and Miss Bert Sutton.

Miss Camille Clark, treasurer and chairman in charge of arrangements for the special homecoming fellowship program, presented Mrs. Bradner, soloist, before the dinner who sang "My Johann" by Edward Grieg and "June Is Busting Out All Over" from "Carousel." She was accompanied by Dr. Southwick.

Perfect Attendance Awards Club members who had perfect attendance records for the year were extended congratulations and given a gift by Mrs. Jordan. They were: Mrs. Kemp Baldwin, Miss Bell, Miss Clark, Mrs. Jordan, Mrs. Owens, Dr. Southwick, Virginia Spencer, Gladys Stokes and Mrs. Catherine Walsh.

Miss Ruth White, second vice president, read a thank you note from James Butler to the club members in recognition of their work with the Newcomers Party.

Mrs. Baldwin, first vice president, introduced Miss Frazier who spoke to the large group of 55 women on "Pre-Convention Highlights."

Plans For Federated Building A Federated Building at Chapel Hill—were discussed by Miss Frazier who pointed out the need for such a building to house records and provide a central place where retreats could be held by various clubs throughout the state.

"Delegates to the convention to be held in Asheville June 6-8 will have an opportunity to vote on and discuss the possibility of a Federated Building and also vote on the by-laws amendment and other important issues," stressed Miss Frazier.

She added that the National Representative will attend the convention and present proposals from the National Federation. "Parties and fun will also be featured at the convention and I urge each of you to make plans to attend," she said.

Mrs. Margaret Farley, carrying out the custom of the club, presented Miss Taylor a BPW Club insignia pin and Miss Taylor in turn gave Mrs. Farley the past president's guard in appreciation for the work she had done as club president.

Upon accepting the club gavel, Miss Taylor made a brief congratulatory speech which included comments of dedication for the task ahead as president of the club for the coming year.

Miss Taylor announced her Standing Committee Chairmen and closed the meeting with the reading of the Club Collect.

Before the dinner meeting, club officers served as club hostesses and formed a receiving line in the reception hall. Miss Louise Galphin presided over the register.

Miss Elizabeth Deal served chilled tomato juice and hors d'oeuvres from an appointed cocktail table in the Sallie Southall Cotton room.

Miss Galphin and Dr. Southwick were in charge of decorations. The all-white arrangement on the speaker's table and corsages for the honored guests were gifts of Mrs. Minnie Honeycutt, club member.

30 Years Ago Today

May 9, 1928

The final meeting of the Women's Club for 1927-28 was held Thursday afternoon in the Evans Street School auditorium. Following the reading of the minutes, yearly reports were given by the chairman of the various departments. The nominating committee offered the following slate for next year which was voted upon and unanimously elected: Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, president; Mrs. J. L. Fleming, first vice president; Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley, second vice president; Mrs. A. D. Frank, secretary; Mrs. S. T. White, cemetery department; Mrs. W. H. Woolard, membership; Mrs. Herbert Waldrop, music and art; Mrs. H. C. Flags Topic Of UDC Program

Mrs. R. R. Ross presented a program on the history of and display of flags at the George B. Singleary Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. R. D. Harrington Sr.

"Never use the Confederate flag without the United States flag. The flag is more like a living being than an inanimate object," pointed out Mrs. Ross.

The chapter president, Mrs. E. W. Harvey Sr., welcomed Mrs. Percy Upchurch as a guest and Mrs. Virginia Ross Sermons as a new member.

Hostesses were Mrs. Harrington and Mrs. E. L. Willard who were assisted by Mrs. Upchurch. They served snow balls, party snacks, mints, and coffee.

20 Bridge Tables Set For Party

GRIFTON—One of the most colorful parties of the season was given Friday night when Mrs. Robert Mewborn and Mrs. Tom Gower entertained at the high school cafeteria at supper and bridge.

Arrangements of iris, Scotch broom and Wegeelia were placed about the room. As guests arrived they were greeted by Mrs. W. H. Gower and Miss Bette Lynn Gower who gave their tables.

Twenty tables were appointed for the games which followed the turkey supper and dessert of individual cherry tarts with whipped cream.

Miss Lelia Mae Goff of Ayden, whose marriage to Troy Rhyne Jackson will take place May 17, and Mrs. Brunelle Minges of Salsburg, sister of Mrs. Mewborn, were special guests of the evening.

The high score prizes were presented to Mrs. Alton Chapman, Mrs. J. C. Chapman and the consolation to Miss Mary Dawson McCotter. The guests of honor were remembered with gifts.

More Than Lip Service Required

Reaction in South American countries to Vice President Nixon's current tour should awake United States citizens to the fact that all is not well south-of-the-border.

For decades this country has given lip service to a so-called Good Neighbor policy toward Latin American nations. It has talked of Western Hemisphere solidarity and Pan American relations.

From a practical standpoint, however, the United States had done far less in the way of concrete efforts to build good relations with its Latin American neighbors than it should have. It has, in short, taken its Latin American neighbors for granted while directing its diplomatic attention toward other areas of the world.

No one likes to be taken for granted . . . certainly not neighbors.

While some in this country have been aware of these facts, the big wigs in Washington have largely ignored the situation. From time to time they have honored other nations of this hemisphere with token pats on the head like so many little children that should be seen, but not heard.

Is the United States now beginning to reap the fruits of its shortsighted policy toward its neighbors?

Though the stoning of Vice President Nixon by Peruvian students may have been the work of a few hard-core communists, the act is nevertheless indicative of the lack of prestige the United States enjoys in that country.

The rather cool greeting the Vice President has received from the citizens of other countries in his tour is also indicative of the fact that the United States is not considered as good a neighbor as it thinks it is.

Looking back over the years, our neglect of our Latin neighbors could hardly have produced the close feeling of kinship which we might have hoped to enjoy. Worse than that, it seems we have been blind to the fact that we have not been building the kind of hemisphere friendship we have talked about.

Perhaps the Vice President's tour will shock the United States into reviewing and revamping its policies toward its closest neighbors. Perhaps we yet may be able to cement the relationship between the government of the United States and the people of the South American countries.

It should be apparent now that our policies toward these nations have been inadequate and unsound. If there is to be any kind of hemispheric solidarity new, positive approaches to our relationship with Latin American countries must be forthcoming.

Disturbing as the facts are, we must face them.

Next: Picking Demo Delegates

DELEGATES — The most important business of the several county Democratic conventions Saturday will be the selection of delegates to the State convention at Raleigh next Thursday. The delegates to be elected will compose the congressional district meetings at which members of the State and various district executive committees will be chosen. These executive committees will have the responsibility for nominating candidates for the November election.

Membership on the committees seems more important this year than for a long time past. It might logically follow that more attention would be given to the selection of delegates who will nominate the committees. Reports from precinct meetings held last Saturday indicate about the usual lack of concern over party machinery. Despite rigid party rules requiring that delegates be chosen and certified by name, a number of precincts nonchalantly named "every Democrat in good standing resident in the district" as a delegate to the county convention. It is understood that a good many counties expect to follow that procedure in selecting delegates to the State convention.

DISCIPLINE — The Democratic Party in North Carolina goes to a lot of trouble to adopt a Plan of Organization, supposed to be the rule book for party practice. It makes absolutely no provision for enforcing the rules or disciplining violators. One absurdity is that the congressional district meetings, at which only "accredited" delegates to the State convention can vote, are the groups that name a credentials committee to function several hours later and determine whether the delegates who nominated them had the right to do so—or to name any of the other committees.

COMMITTEE — A good deal of publicity was given some weeks ago to the prospect that Governor Hodges would recommend a chairman of the Democratic State committee in place of John D. Larkins, Jr. When the Governor appointed Everett Jordan to the United States Senate and stated at the time he would ask the committee to place his name on the ballot this fall, most folks thought that meant security for the incumbent chairman.

Larkins succeeded Jordan as chairman when the latter was made national committeeman in 1954. For the past four years they have worked as a team, through two state campaigns and four Jefferson-Jackson dinners. It seems unlikely that the Governor would ask the committee to endorse Jordan and oust Larkins at the same time. Within a few hours after the Jordan senatorial appointment had been announced a movement (?) was inaugurated by some of the late Kerr Scott's political intimates to sponsor members of the executive committee, who would reject Jordan as the party's senatorial candidate. That movement hardly got off the ground, and it was not even mentioned at more than a dozen or so of the 2,100 precinct meetings last Saturday—when the Democratic party organization process began. Neither was any attention given to the Hodges-Larkins differences.

Within the past two or three days some of the talk has been revived and there is probability that some effort may be made at a few county conventions Saturday to "stack" delegations to the state convention for one or the other sides of the three-cornered viewpoint. Chances are that any efforts in that direction will not be made until the congressional district meetings on the morning of the state convention next Thursday when controlling nominations will be made for members of the state committee.

PERSONAL — It has been pointed out many times that the vote-getting strength of the late Senator Scott was personal rather than partisan or factional. To considerable degree the same is true of Governor Hodges. A somewhat different approach must be made to the working politicians who make up the party committees. They are influenced more by political considerations than by personal friendships. That is why Governor Scott saw an appointee to the Supreme Court rejected by the state committee. Governors Scott and Umstead both saw their appointees to the Senate rejected by the people in the first primary election, because in one instance the appointee was regarded as too liberal and in the other too conservative.

Oldtimers cannot recall an instance when the suggestion of the Governor was not accepted by the state committee for state chairman or national committeeman, although there have been times when the committee's endorsement was obviously reluctant. In every instance there was also some factional involvement, and the committee ceded the right of the chief executive to have a man of his own factional thinking.

Now it happens that Jordan and Larkins belong to the same faction in the party, have worked together closely as party officials for four years and as Democratic citizens for many years before either had official status.

A Life Devoted To Community Welfare

Dr. G. Grady Dixon has left an indelible imprint upon the life of the Ayden community and indeed upon all of Pitt County.

Long one of the outstanding general practitioners in the county, Dr. Dixon devoted his adult life to healing the sick, and to building the community, the county and the state of which he was a part.

For 28 years he was a member of the State Board of Health and served three terms as its president. He was one of the founders of the Ayden Rotary Club 34 years ago, served as its first president and maintained a perfect club attendance until his sudden death Wednesday. Since 1933 he had been president of the First National Bank of Ayden and for 44 years was active in the affairs of the Ayden Methodist Church.

Through his medical practice and through his varied civic activities, Dr. Dixon devoted his life unselfishly to the welfare of the people of the community in which he lived. His warm personality and his outspoken leadership made him a natural leader and servant of his fellow men.

What Will He Do Beside Talk

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is getting his hair mussed on two major programs. He's in a bad way on both. He has talked a lot in favor of both, as remains to be seen what else he'll do besides talk.

He has a record of making public statements in behalf of programs he sends to Congress and then leaving the infighting to others — like pressuring members of Congress, buttonholing them, telephoning them.

It's for this tactic particularly that he's been criticized for lack of leadership. Now his reciprocal trade program and plan to reorganize the Defense Department are getting kicked around.

Take them one at a time: Reciprocal trade — This 24-year old program dies June 30 unless Congress prolongs it. Eisenhower has asked that it be extended five years more. This is its purpose:

To encourage trade this country can lower tariffs on imports from other nations if they lower their tariffs on imports from us. Eisenhower wants power to cut American tariffs another 25 per cent in return for concessions from others.

He considers this program of the utmost importance in helping build up non-Communist countries and keeping them away from Communist influence. The Soviets are stepping up their trade programs. The trade itself doesn't mean much to them.

Last November Premier Khrushchev said, "We declare war upon the United States. . . in the peaceful field of trade." But three years ago he explained what was behind Soviet trading: "We value trade least for economic and most for political purposes."

In 1957 American exports were 21 billion dollars, imports only 13 billion. But there is strong opposition to the trade program Eisenhower asked from both Democrats and Republicans. A majority in both parties in the House appears to be against it. Republican opposition in the House has been estimated 4-1.

Exports mean a lot of money to a lot of American workers and businesses. But imports are poison to a lot of workers and businesses because of the competition involved. Eisenhower has estimated that knocking out the trade program would jeopardize the jobs of 4 1/2 million American workers. Foes of the trade program not only complain it hurts them but argue tariff-setting should be controlled by Congress. Opposition is coming from the South, where the textile and plywood industries feel hurt by imports; oil states in the Southwest are opposed; so are zinc and lead states in the West. The coal miners of West Virginia are against it because imported fuel and residual oils are in competition with coal.

Defense reorganization — Its purpose: to provide for "unified planning and direction" of the armed forces by strengthening the authority of Secretary of Defense McElroy and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Even the armed services themselves, as they expressed their views to Congress, are divided: the Army and Air Force are in favor; the Navy and Marines have found things about the plan they don't like.

And there's division in Congress, even among the most powerful Democrats.

Rep. Carl Vinson, Georgia Democrat and chairman of the very influential Armed Services Committee of the House, is the toughest and loudest foe. But Rep. Clarence Cannon, Missouri Democrat and chairman of the extremely influential Appropriations Committee, is all for the program.

There's a good chance — despite all Eisenhower's warnings to the contrary — that the plan will be badly watered down if not shoved aside. Vinson's committee is writing a substitute proposal. Just to show what kind of watering down the program faces: Vinson said his group could write its substitute on the back of an envelope.

Foreign aid — In this field Eisenhower's program looks healthier. He asked almost four billion dollars to continue it another year. The House Foreign Affairs Committee has approved after lopping off 300 millions. It still may see rough days.

Opinions In Brief

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS SHAME AND TRIUMPH

Why is the figure of the rooster rampant on most weathervanes? It all goes back to Peter's denial of his Lord the night Jesus was arrested and taken before the ecclesiastical and civil authorities. Jesus had declared that before the cock crowed, Peter would deny his Lord and Master thrice. And so it came about. "Then began he (Peter) to curse and swear, saying, I know not the man. And immediately the cock crew. And Peter remembered the word of Jesus. Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. And he went out, and wept bitterly."

Well, of course, that's not the end of the story. If it were, it would be dismal indeed. After the resurrection this same Peter takes his place as chief of the apostles, stands courageously before cruel persecutors, endures prison, writes two epistles which are later included in the New Testament, and then—if tradition is to be accepted—dies a martyr's death. Furthermore, it is said of him that at his own request he was crucified head down, for he considered that he was not worthy to be crucified in the posture that has been his Master's.

The cock on the weathervane says, "Man, never boast or flaunt your goodness and fidelity. Remember Peter." But it also says, "There is triumph even over the utmost of shame."

City Of Hope, Glamor

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It has been said that one out of every three newcomers to New York City first tries to settle in Greenwich Village.

I was one of the three.

Those who came here from out of town do so not to vote, but to gamble. They gamble on the idea that, while this is a great town to visit, it is the best town to live in.

They feel that, with whatever talents they have, the odds are more in their favor here than where they came from.

This is the city of the big pitch. It isn't the nation's capital. But it is the city that stares at Washington with the most collected capital and the most collective culture.

When I was a young newspaperman in the hinterland, it was hard to count on a future by the side of your father's river. Your idea of opportunity bordered the Potomac or the Hudson. I ended up in Greenwich Village. The rent was $30 a month, half what it takes to garage a car properly today on the upper East Side.

A transplanted man is not quite like a transplanted tree. The roots of a tree are in its foot. The roots of a man spring from his heart but cannot flourish in a new soil until his mind approves.

Many and many a tiresome month in good weather and bad, I walked these foreign concrete caverns and felt myself alone and the next man a stranger. So many men still walk and feels as I felt then.

It takes time for a cat, a cow, a dog, a man to bed down in a new place. I hated this town and yearned for a place I knew as home.

But there came a time when I realized that here I was a foreigner among other foreigners and that, while I could never own this town no one else could either, and the buildings held a granite warmth. A kinship grew between blood and stone.

The true glamor of New York City is that, once you've been here, you can't leave it without missing something. It has the imperial stamp of recognition.

New York exclaims the powerful city at its peak — relentless and purposeful as the Empire State building's rock-based thrust against the sky, as wide and simple and open and confident as Central Park.

It is younger than London, uglier than Paris, and unlike Rome doesn't worry what it was because it still hasn't found out what it still can be. It has little interest in its past, because its eye is altogether forward.

By JIMMY ELLIS

May He Rest In Peace

If there's such a place as a Dog Heaven, a place where the souls of our four-legged friends, can find eternal rest, they must be at least one resident canine who is happy.

He's the 12-year-old rat terrier, late of 1101 Colonial Avenue, who passed away last week. His happiness, if there's a hereafter where he might find it, comes from the certain knowledge that he has been missed and will not be forgotten.

"Puppy", and that was the name by which he was known to a multitude of Colonial Avenue youngsters, died rather unexpectedly. His principal owners, Duke and Debbie Clarke, and their father, found his lifeless body one day when they got home from school.

The children, in a sincere effort to pay their respects to a departed friend, organized funeral services for "Puppy" and laid him gently to rest before a large crowd of the dog's friends. Duke, the craftsman of the group, fashioned a small white cross and marker for the grave. There isn't much writing on the marker, just "1958, Dide May 1", but in situations such as that, the writing isn't what really counts. It was neatly covered, anyway, by the blanket of flowers which appeared on the grave after the young mourners had paid their respects.

The flowers, incidentally, included one rose and one iris which were the last remaining flowers in the garden of one of the neighborhood parents. Other Colonial Avenue residents reported their bushes conspicuously shy of blossoms after the funeral.

"Puppy", dog that he was, probably never realized the role

he played by dying as he did. His death was the first experience with death that many of the children have had. They didn't reflect a great deal on the philosophical facets of the passing, as adults are so prone to do, but their honest attempts to pay their respects to a good and true friend was impressive.

It was touching to watch the little people cry over their lost dog, and they cried not so much from grief at his passing as they did at knowing the happy rump and the after-school games are over forever.

The children showed, rather conclusively, that "Puppy" has earned his reward. May he rest in peace.

Other Editors Saying --- Creeping Censorship

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Down through the years of America's history there have always been efforts to place restrictions on the press. Fortunately for all of us most of these attempts have been thwarted. Now, however, a disturbing trend has been noticed in recent months, and that is an effort on the part of some police organizations and other law groups to impose their own version of censorship on the press.

In our own state, we have seen a sheriff's committee set itself up in Buncombe County as the final authority on what the people of that county should read. Numerous publications have been placed on the "sheriff's list" and have been lifted from the newsstands. The operators of these firms have, according to the reports, cooperated with the sheriff and his blacklists. Whether this is through fear, or just plain lethargy, we do not pretend to know. But it is plain to all that they have given up a precious right without even a court battle.

Even more recently a story out of Houston, Texas, tells of a grand jury that recommended that crime information be withheld from newspapers until the chief of police authorizes its release. Needless to say, editors and publishers jumped on that recommendation with both feet. This action by the grand jury was so flagrantly in violation of American principles that even the Houston police chief, Carl Shuptrine, indicated he could not favor such censorship. "I know of no American city which follows that procedure," he said.

Felix McKnight, vice president and executive editor of the Dallas Times Herald and president of the Texas Associated Press Managing Editors Assn., said: "It is inconceivable that American citizens, no matter how well-intentioned, who lived through police state censorship regimes such as Hitler's and Mussolini's in the past, and Russia's in the present, could recommend that our people be told only what the police want them to know."

Millard Cope, publisher of the Marshall News-Messenger, and president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Assn., said the grand jury, in effect, is recommending that the chief of police be given a prerogative the nation has never given the President of the United States. "Such procedures are not democratic, and form the type of action that can contribute nothing to democracy," Cope pointed out.

The dangerous thing about these persistent efforts to muzzle the free press is that it is always done under the pretense that it is "for the good of the people." In the case of blacklisting comic books and other such publications, the do-gooders assume the reading public hasn't enough intelligence to choose its own reading matter, and therefore someone must do it for them. This type of thinking can easily be extended to include almost any type of reading matter one cares to name. And therein lies the danger.

Drugstores And Their Sidelines

By ELMER ROESSNER Let's say a few words today in defense of drugstores that also sell pleated folding doors and blue jean overalls.

It's not necessary for drugstores to carry nondrug lines, he indicated; druggists should try more to be professional consultants, avoid lines that detracted from the professional characteristic, and participate more in civic affairs.

The flea market is one of the most fascinating places in all of Paris. There is offered the most amazing amount of antiques, curios, thieves' goods and odds and ends in the world. It's at the end of the Porte de Clignancourt Metro (subway) line and is open only on Sundays. Be sure to see it. Any American drugstore that could be half as interesting as the flea market would also attract people from all over the world and probably sell more Parke, Davis pharmaceuticals than any other outlet.

THE MAJOR DEFENSE More seriously: Within five blocks of your reporter's home there are three drugstores. They don't carry ironing boards, but they carry a lot more things than drugs: candy, tobacco, razors or blades, magazines, stationery, stamps, and a modest sprinkling of hardware items and soft goods.

Your reporter knows that without these nondrug lines, at least two of these drugstores would not survive. But he likes the idea of sidelines because he likes the idea of having three drugstores within running distance; it creates a wonderful feeling of security against the hazards of an emergency.

Incidentally, many unkind things have been said about so-called fair trade in this column, but none of the darks have been aimed at price-fixing in the drug field. Your reporter could save a lot on toothpaste, blades, soap and other drugstore items by buying them at downtown discount houses, but he prefers to pay higher prices at the neighborhood stores to make sure those stores will be there the night he wakes up in a knot. Mr. MacCartney appears to be a little late in wondering whether the public will accept the ironing board-blue jean drugstore. The public has already accepted it, son, and some of the stores that sell the most pocketbooks are the ones who sell the most ethical medicines.

As far as professional attitude is concerned, let druggists grow Van Dyke beards and courage friends to call them "Doc." But most of all, let them be there when we need them!

SWISS LIKE, IMITATE U.S. FROZEN CHICKENS

The popularity of American quick-frozen, ready-to-cook poultry in Switzerland is causing the local industry to switch from "French dressed" to ready-to-cook birds, the Foreign Agricultural Service reports. However, the Swiss complain about variations in weights per bird, preferring a variation of not more than 2 ounces; too much water, resulting in discoloration, and weight loss; and vent openings too large

God's Provision for Worship

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buscher

Scripture—Exodus 35-40.

Moses gathered all the congregation of the children of Israel together, and told them that the Lord commanded each of them to bring an offering to the Lord for the building of a tabernacle for worship.

The children of Israel gladly did what the Lord commanded. Every man and every woman brought the work of their hands or other gifts which the Lord had commanded to be used by Moses in the building.

Every man who was skillful in work came to help with the building of the tabernacle, according to the Lord's commands. And every man came whose heart was stirred up and whose spirit was willing.

The tabernacle was finished in the first month of the second year. A cloud covered the tent of the congregation, but the glory of the Lord filled the tabernacle. MEMORY VERSE—Exodus 35:5.

MOSES TELLS HIS PEOPLE OF THE LORD'S INSTRUCTIONS FOR BUILDING HIS SANCTUARY

Scripture—Exodus 35-40.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL THIS LESSON is the story of the building of the sanctuary by the children of Israel. If the teacher, especially of the younger classes, can obtain a model of the tabernacle, or a picture of it, it would be helpful. Consult your book shops or, especially, religious book shops. A visit to a Jewish place of worship—with a member of its congregation to explain the service—would be helpful to the older classes.

Moses received the instructions for the building of the sanctuary on Mt. Sinai, and gathered all the congregation of the children of Israel together, and said unto them, These are the words which the Lord hath commanded, that ye should do them. The word sanctuary "comes from a Latin word meaning sacred or set apart, so though commanded. The women brought their jewelry and spun with their own hands fine linens in blue, purple and scarlet. Not only did the congregation bring gifts so that the sanctuary might be built, but every man who had a knowledge of the work to be done offered his services. The description of the building and the furnishing of the sanctuary we have not space to relate here, but it is most interesting and should be read, at least in part, to the classes.

"And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, On the first day of the first month shalt thou set up the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation. And thou shalt put therein the ark of the testimony, and cover the ark with the veil."—Exodus 40:1-3.

Then the Lord gave implicit instructions as to the order of the

we are not living in Old Testament times, we do worship in places that are made to remind us of the true character of worship and of the holiness of God."

Dr. Wilbur M. Smith. All was done as the Lord commanded, and when all was finished, "a cloud covered the tent of the congregation, and the glory of the Lord filled the tabernacle."—Exodus 40:34.

The editor of Peloubet's Notes, Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, gives us a description of the tabernacle, which the teachers should read and describe to the class, giving a very simple description to the younger classes. This is important if no picture or model is available. The lesson for all of us, in whatever church we worship, is to copy the enthusiasm and generosity of the children of Israel in the building of the tabernacle if our congregation is considering building a new church.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The world's new highest-flying airman...

Air Force Maj. Howard Carrol Johnson flew a Lockheed F104 Starfighter...

Only experimental planes released from mother craft have gone higher.

Asked yesterday how he felt preparing for his record assault, Johnson harked back to his high school football days...

Johnson, 38, has green eyes, a ruddy complexion, a strong chin and curly black hair...

He was born in Knoxville, Tenn. The family moved to Louisville, Ky., when Johnson, an only child, was 10...

In Greensboro, N.C., Johnson's mother Mrs. W. A. Cutlip said: "Howard's been flying jets ever since they first came in..."

He worked as a messenger boy and typist while attending the University of Louisville. He majored in English literature...

Johnson used to watch planes flying at the old Army Air Corps base in Louisville...

After a few flights in primary training at Ballinger, Tex., he found that the airsickness disappeared when he was at the controls...

After the war he got a commission in the regular Air Force. He flew 87 combat missions in Korea...

His chief hobby is trout fishing in the High Sierra.

Rep. Adam Powell Facing Tax Evasion Indictment

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Adam Powell, 49-year-old Harlem Democrat and church leader, has been indicted on charges of federal income tax evasion...

election, the jury was allowed to become dormant. Powell denied that this represented any deal with the administration.

The indictment was expected to bolster the position of six of seven Harlem district leaders who reportedly are out to drop Powell from the Democratic ticket this year.

Of the counts against Powell, one charged tax evasion in a joint 1952 return with his wife. The Powells reported a net income of $5,252. The government charged that the true net was $8,952 and that they owed taxes of $1,663.

A second count states that Mrs. Scott, advised by her husband, set her net income for 1951 at $3,815, but that her net was really $9,101. A third count covers alleged violation of the federal criminal code against aiding and abetting the preparation of a fraudulent return for another person.

The three-count indictment carries a maximum penalty, if convicted, of 15 years in prison and $30,000 in fines.

Speaking from Washington, Powell said he had no immediate comment, adding: "I must talk with my attorneys before any statement can be given."

Powell took over 20 years ago from his late father as pastor of Harlem's largest church, the 9,200-member Abyssinian Baptist Church.

His indictment climaxed the stormy career of the special grand jury. A few months after the 1956 election, government attorneys stopped calling witnesses before the panel.

The situation exploded 14 months later with allegations that Washington pressure caused the probe to be dropped. This was denied by U.S. Atty. Paul W. Williams.

A grand jury faction also threatened to "run away" and retain its own counsel if the Justice Department failed to cooperate.

The jury was called back last April 17. It was disbanded after bringing in its verdict yesterday.

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—A New York firm apparently believes one man's plague may be another's delicacy.

Reece Finer Foods wrote Ass. State Entomologist James A. Brown and said it would like to set up a fried grasshopper plant in Phoenix. Central Arizona farmers currently are fighting a grasshopper infestation.

The New York firm imports fried grasshoppers, a rare delicacy from Japan. Brown suggested the firm continue to import its fried grasshoppers. He noted the Arizona variety are being poisoned and would not be edible.

Ocean-going vessels can go into the Port of Baltimore because a suspension span in the center of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge lifts it 198 feet above the ship channel.

Four Tactics Business Has Against Recession

By SAM DAWSON NEW YORK (AP)—When business turns to fighting the recession itself instead of just waiting for Washington to do something about it, the talk usually turns to four things:

New or better products, greater sales efforts, cost cutting so prices can come down and profits go up, and diversification.

Sales promotions and cost cutting, as something they can consider at once, hit the headlines most of these days. New or better products, for most wide-awake companies, are the result of continuing research.

Diversification has been a pet management gimmick since the war—one that mostly offered advantages for the offensive. Now it is reaping defensive gains for some companies. In all but a few industries, the 1958 results so far show that there will be one or more companies going against the trend in their own industry.

Another company singing the praises of diversification is American Machine & Foundry. Its executive vice president, Rodney C. Gott, cites five reasons why diversification is paying off:

- 1. With railroad equipment demand in the doldrums, it has other fields to plow. 2. It added a line of outdoor summer furniture to offset the seasonal nature of its wheel goods division. 3. Its new product lines enable it to get full use out of plant capacity, engineering force and distribution system...

Cost cutting is much in vogue. One corporation head this week probably didn't endear himself to his own junior executives when he looked over industry as a whole and said there has been some paring back of the Indians but there are too many chiefs.

Another company head, John E. McKeen, president of Chas. Pfizer & Co., a drug firm that has been increasing its sales and earnings this year, prescribes as a recession cure massive doses of research, marketing and diversification.

His company puts 6 cents of each sales dollar back into research, is increasing its efforts in sales, advertising and promotion, and is seeking both new products and new markets here and abroad.

Fishermen Held Up By Gunman

HICKORY, N.C. (AP)—A masked and armed man who told his holiday victims he was an escaped convict, eluded bloodhounds last night, but law officers of three counties were cooperating in a search for him.

The man robbed two Hickory fishermen of $300 yesterday, pistol-whipping one of them who refused to give up his money.

G. W. Byrd said he and Preston Hefner were starting to check their trout lines in the Catawba River when the man jumped from some bushes and said:

"All right, boys, stick 'em up. This is a holdup. I'm an escaped convict. I ain't had nothing to eat and I want some money."

Byrd said he handed over $60. Hefner declined to give up his money and the masked man struck him with a pistol, then took $240.

Byrd said he tried to pull the man off Hefner and in the process ripped off the mask. "I'd know him in a minute," Hefner added. "I got a good look at him when I tore the mask off."

Catawba, Caldwell and Burke county officers joined in a search for the man. Bloodhounds, brought from the Hudson Prison Camp, lost the trail at a highway.

Shared Marriage License Costs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Kate Manx and Leslie Stevens each own 50 per cent of a marriage license today.

Stevens, 34, tendered a $2 check for the license yesterday, but a clerk explained that cash is required. So he dug into his pocket—and came up with only $1.

Kate, 26, opened her purse and pulled out the other $1. They plan to be married Sunday.

ECC Meets Lenoir Rhyne Today, Elon Saturday Night

Sell-Out Crowd Expected To Jam Stadium Saturday

By BILLY ARNOLD, Reflector Sports Editor. East Carolina College took to College Field this afternoon to battle Lenoir Rhyne in a North State Conference ball game, important to the loop standings.

Lenoir Rhyne, 8-2 in the league, in just one jump behind the Pirates' 7-1 and the visiting Bears came to Greenville seeking a victory that would throw them into a two-way tie for second place in the standings.

East Carolina tangles with the league-leaders here tomorrow night at Guy Smith Stadium in the final game of the season and must win today in order to be in the running tomorrow night.

A Pirate win this afternoon would throw their record into 8-1 and would send them against Elon tomorrow night with a good chance of taking the lead from the Fighting Christians. A loss this afternoon would drop them from contention for the title.

Cheers and A Title. Tomorrow night will be a big night in this section of the state, as far as the North State Conference is concerned.

Coach Jim Mallory, East Carolina mentor since 1952 (he came here from Elon), will be honored by fans from this town and area moments before tomorrow night's ball game.

Tomorrow night, true to form, the Elon team comes to Greenville in possession of that title and with a firm grip on the 1958 standings. The Christians will be favored to retain their crown.

Coach Mallory will hurl George Williams against the Christians. Williams, a righthander from Camden, N.C., is one of the most respected hurlers in the league. Bruce Shelley (4-0) and Leonard Lilley will be in the wings if needed.

Free Tickets. College View Cleaners and Laundry—long one of the most solid supporters of East Carolina baseball in this area—has purchased 3,000 tickets to the ball game and is offering to give them away to fans who will drop by the establishment and ask for them.

The stadium is expected to be packed full if the weather is good, and observers speculate that tomorrow night will be the biggest baseball night in Greenville since the demise of the old Coastal Plain Baseball League some 10 years ago.

This afternoon, Mallory was to pitch Lefty Ben Baker against the Lenoir Rhyne club. At the first of the season when Mallory released his schedule, he commented that, "This is the first time Lenoir Rhyne has scheduled ECC since I've been coaching here."

Game time this afternoon was set for 2:30.

Senators Putting On Good Show In American League

By ED WILKS. In the stage play "Damn Yankees" 1958 was the year the Washington Senators, with the help of the Devil, beat the New York Yankees for the American League pennant.

Well, this is 1958 and you can give the Senators a double take. They've been raising the Devil so far, haven't lost to the Yankees yet and are in second place, half a game behind the Bombers going into tonight's game at Yankee Stadium.

Pete Ramos, a 23-year-old righthander who last season gained his only two victories over the Yankees in eight lifetime decisions, takes a 2-0 record to the mound tonight for the Senators.

The Senators closed in on the Yankees with a 4-1 victory over Detroit yesterday. Rain shelved the only other game scheduled, Cleveland at New York.

Only one game was scheduled in the National League, with Cincinnati beating Chicago 10-8. The Senators, who beat the Yankees 5-4 in 10 innings in their only meeting of the season, were retired in order for 4 1-3 innings by righthander Bob Shaw.

Three successive hits, singles by Jim Lemon and Norm Zauchin and a double by Rocky Bridges, made it 2-0 in the fifth. Three hits and Clint Courtney's sacrifice fly counted two more in the sixth and Shaw was 0-2.

Young Ralph Lumentoni won his first in the majors, with Dick Hyde's fine relief help. The 21-year-old lefty gave up four hits and struck out three, but walked six—two of them ahead of Reno Bertola's RBI single in the sixth. Hyde allowed three hits in his 3 2-3 innings.

The rest of today's schedule sends third-place Kansas City to Detroit, Cleveland to Chicago and Boston to Baltimore.

Belvoir Captures Division Crown

Fourth Group May Be Formed

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A fourth athletic classification for North Carolina high schools likely will be created here tomorrow at the annual meeting of the State High School Athletic Assn.

More than 200 athletic leaders will gather in Hill Hall at 10:30 a.m. to consider a proposal, which, in effect, would divide the present Class AA and create a new class, AAAA.

L. J. (Hap) Perry, executive secretary of the NCHSAA, said the proposal will be offered in the form of a constitutional change by Claude Joyner of Winston-Salem Reynolds High School, chairman of the Constitution Committee.

Schools are classified by their enrollment. The present Class AA include schools from 350 to 900 enrollment. Perry said the schools had complained the enrollment spread was too wide.

Under the proposal, Class A would include schools with enrollments of one to 150; Class AA, 151 to 300; Class AAA, 301 to 600 and Class AAAA, 601 and over.

Under the proposal, the Class AAAA, now the Triple A, would be split into Eastern, Central and Western Divisions.

The Central would include Salisbury, High Point, Winston-Salem Reynolds, Greensboro and Burlington. In the Western Division would be four Charlotte area schools — Myers Park, Central, Harding and East Mecklenburg—and Gastonia and Ashtenville. The Eastern Division would remain unchanged.

MARSEILLE, France — Graucoux Lamperli, Marseille, outpointed Bobby Bell, Youngstown, Ohio, 10, (lightweights).

Joyner Hurls No-Hitter To Win For Phantomites

Greenville Junior High School's Phantomites notched their third consecutive victory of the season here yesterday, turning back Chicod 12-0 behind the pinpoint no-hit, no-run pitching of lefthander Kenneth Joyner.

Joyner, a pint-sized hurler with a sizzling fastball and perfect control, struck out 11 Chicod batters, walked eight, and didn't allow a ball out of the infield. He went the full seven innings and the 12-0 win was his second of the season.

As if his mound work weren't enough, the little lefthander also contributed a double to his cause. The Phantomites backed Joyner up to the hill with a stunning show of power at the plate. They whacked out nine hits and pushed across 12 runs, receiving some help from the flustered Chicod club which committed seven errors.

Dalton Owens, Phantomite shortstop who is batting at a .600 clip, again paced the hitters with two hits for three trips to the plate. Jimmy Smith had two for four. Joyner and Andresen added doubles, and James, Jenkins and Dall had singles.

Roaring like a house afire, the Phantomites added to their overall total number of runs scored against the three teams they have played—raising the total to 36. Their opponents have managed only seven.

Coach Milton Reece praised his club highly. "We've got the best of the athletes in our school," he said, "the cream of the crop now." Reece commented that when plans were announced to begin a Phantomite baseball team, over 50 boys turned out for practice.

Next game scheduled for Reece's club is set for Monday afternoon at 3:45 at Guy Smith Stadium. The G-Men will play host to Falkland. Lou Ward is expected to get the nod for the starting pitching position.

A tremendously successful team, the Phantomites are the first club in the new Junior High's history. Coach Reece said today, "We think that the boys are paying back money and interest that the community has shown in its sport program."

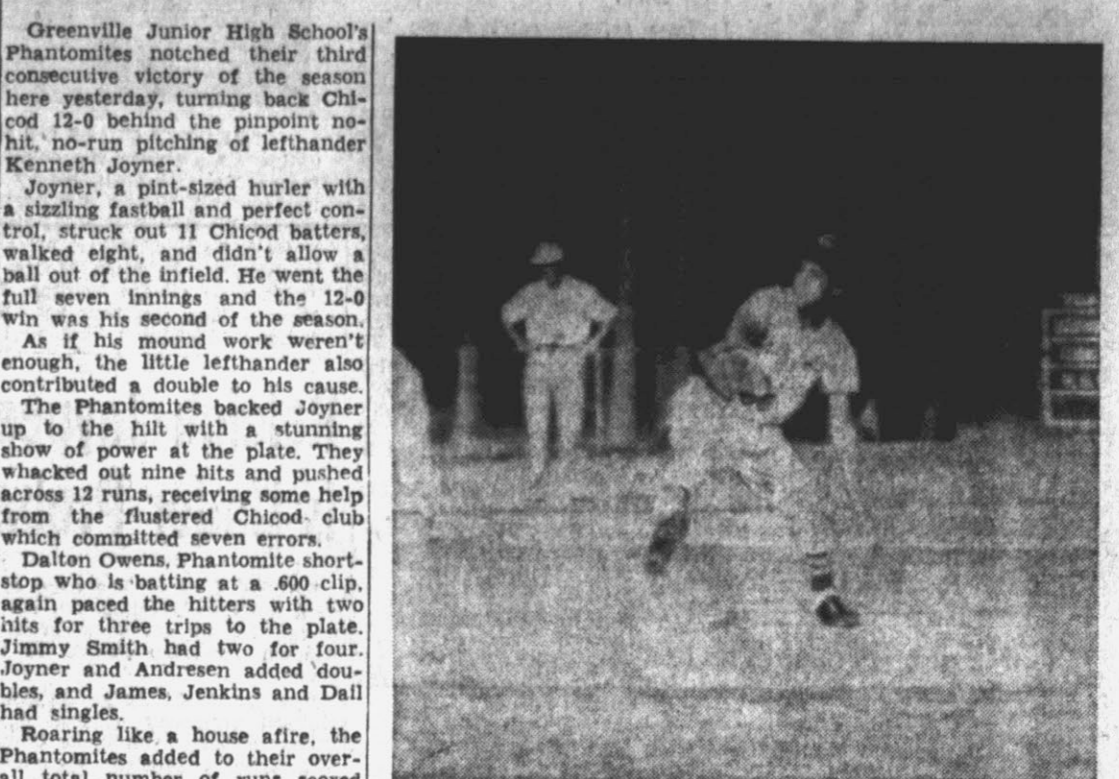

Teen-er League Meets Tonight

A meeting of all Teen-er-League parties will be held tonight at the Greenville City Hall. Any boys already on teams, and those desiring to play this season, are asked to attend and bring their parents.

The meeting is of an organizational nature. All boys 13, 14, 15 are eligible to play Teen-er-League ball this season.

THURSDAY'S STARS. By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. PITCHING — Dick Hyde, Senators, saved young Ralph Lumentoni's first major league victory with three-hit shut out relief for 3 2-3 innings in 4-1 decision over Tigers.

HITTING — Smoky Burgess, Redlegs, connected on first pitch for first home run of season, a pinch-hit, three-run homer that capped an eight-run ninth and defeated the Cubs 10-8.

KENNY JOYNER, pint-sized lefthander for the Junior High Phantomites, turned in a no-hit, no-run performance yesterday against Chicod to notch a 12-0 victory. The win was the third of the season for the Phantomites, without a defeat. It was Joyner's second victory. (Reflector sports photo)

Junior High To Hold Field Day Events Saturday

Approximately 250 seventh and eighth grade boys and girls from the Greenville Junior high school will participate in the First Annual Junior High Field Day at Guy Smith Stadium tomorrow afternoon at 1:30.

The Field Day is being sponsored by the P.T.A. in conjunction with the Junior High School. W. C. James of the Recreation Department has been named chairman.

The Rose High School coaching staff, along with parents and teachers, will take part in the exercises as judges, starters, and helpers.

A total of 44 different events have been slated to take place at the Stadium during the afternoon. James stated that some events are also under consideration for the parents, "to make them feel a part of the event."

Prize ribbons will be awarded to individual winners and the seventh and eighth grade homeroom which have the most number of victories will receive trophies. Superintendent J. H. Rose will award the trophies.

All parents and interested parties are invited to attend. A concession stand will be open with refreshments.

Few Women To Be Seen In Screenwriting Ranks

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Why aren't there more successful female dramatists?

I pondered this question this week after hearing that Ketti Frings had won the Pulitzer Prize for her play "Look Homeward, Angel." Research showed that 33 men had received the top drama award, but Mrs. Frings is only the sixth woman to do so.

The ranks of screen writers are preponderantly male. In television, the ratio appears even more marked.

Why should this be so? By nature, women are more sensitive than men, more keyed to emotion.

Unexcited Over Century Mark

MULKEYTOWN, Ill. (AP)—John Davis Sr. wasn't very excited about being 100 years old yesterday. He spent his birthday anniversary in bed because of a cold.

"They are all the same to me," Davis said. "I don't feel any different today than I did yesterday."

Davis, who lives with one of his sons on the farm where he was born, didn't offer any suggestions on longevity.

"I can't advise anyone to live this long," he said. "You get tired and bored. But don't get me wrong. That doesn't mean a man is going to quit."

And, to put it kindly, they are experts at dialogue.

Maybe the answer is that most women run households and lack the time and repose to contemplate drama. Mrs. Frings touched on this when she received congratulations this week.

"The patience and understanding of my family, particularly my husband, saw me through," she commented.

Fortunately, both she and her husband are successful enough so she doesn't have to labor over a hot stove. Kurt Frings is a top Hollywood agent, and she has earned good salaries as a screen writer. They live in a well-staffed, stunningly modern home in Beverly Hills.

Even so, she can't devote her full time to writing. She has to manage the household and rear her two children, Kathy, 16, and Peter, 15. As the congratulations poured in the night Ketti won the award, she paused to help Peter with his French lesson.

She might have gone on as a part-time writer of films except for her devotion to Thomas Wolfe.

She went to New York to discuss adaptation of "Look Homeward, Angel" with Wolfe's literary executor Edward Aswell. To her surprise, he was in hearty agreement with her plan and gave his consent. Then began the tedious work of condensing the ponderous novel into the confines of a stage play.

Raleigh Jaypee Is Under Probe

RALEIGH (AP)—The case of a man improperly jailed has led to a call for an investigation of Raleigh Township justice of the peace.

Superior Court Judge Raymond Mallard yesterday ordered A. I. Dillon released from Wake County jail, then suggested the Wake Grand Jury may investigate records of Magistrate J. E. Marshburn, who issued the capias under which Dillon was jailed.

Judge Mallard asked that a transcript of a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus for Dillon's release be turned over to Solicitor Lester Chalmers. "If the facts in this case are as they appear to be here, I want the solicitor to report them to the grand jury," the judge added.

Later, Marshburn declared a misunderstanding with Attorney Carl E. Gaddy, who represented Dillon, led to the court hearing. "I haven't done anything wrong," the magistrate asserted.

Marshburn said he had intended for sheriff's deputies to bring Dillon before him rather than placing him in jail. The magistrate also denied he had written the words "no bond" on the capias which he issued.

Dillon was arrested April 26 on a charge of public drunkenness. He was sentenced by Marshburn to 30 days in jail, but the sentence was suspended on condition of good behavior. Dillon's arrest on Wednesday came after complaints that he was drunk and abusing his children.

Diplomat Joseph Davies Dies After Lengthy Illness

WASHINGTON (AP)—Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to the Soviet Union and a diplomat under three presidents, died early today after a lengthy illness. He was 81.

Death came a short time after midnight at his family home here.

Davies, a wealthy Washington lawyer, was named ambassador to the Soviet Union in 1936 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Out of his two years as U. S. envoy to the Kremlin he wrote "Mission to Moscow," a best seller that appeared in 1942, the year Hitler attacked the Soviet Union.

The book was credited widely with galvanizing U. S. sympathy for the Soviets, who Davies predicted would withstand the German onslaught.

Davies served as ambassador to Belgium and minister to Luxembourg for two years after leaving Moscow in 1938. He also held a number of special assignments under Roosevelt and later President Truman.

Davies, a native of Watertown, Wis., first entered government under President Wilson, whom he served as campaign manager in Wilson's first try for the White House in 1912.

The former diplomat was 81. Last December, Davies asked the Federal District Court to name a Washington bank as conservator of his property.

In a petition filed with the court, Davies said he was unable to care for his property himself because of his physical incapacity and age.

Although an avowed capitalist, Davies got along well with the late Soviet dictator Josef Stalin during his service as ambassador and was the first foreign envoy to have a personal interview with the Soviet leader in 1938.

Davies first became active in national politics as a Western campaign manager for Woodrow Wilson in the 1912 election. He served under Wilson as U. S. commissioner of corporations and was the first chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, serving from 1913 to 1918.

He left that post to run as a Democrat for senator in Wisconsin, but was defeated. In 1919, he was an economic adviser to Wilson at the Versailles conference.

Between public assignments, Davies practiced law in the Washington firm of Davies, Richbers, Tydings and Landis, and was identified with the firm until his death. He specialized in international and corporation law.

He was sent abroad during World War II by President Roosevelt to make preliminary arrangements for the 1943 Tehran conference. He performed a similar service for President Truman in setting up to Potsdam conference after the war. The following year he received the Order of Merit, highest U. S. civilian decoration.

Born Nov. 29, 1876, Davies received his law degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1901. He was first married in 1902 to Emlen Knight of Madison, Wis., but the marriage ended in a divorce.

Later he was married to Mrs. Marjorie Merriweather Post, heiress to a breakfast cereal fortune. She divorced him in 1955, after 20 years of marriage, charging mental cruelty. She lives in Washington.

Davies is survived also by three daughters, Mrs. Millard E. Tydings, wife of the former Maryland senator; Mrs. E. Fontaine Broun, wife of a Washington attorney; and Mrs. Robert L. Grosjean, now with her husband in Hamburg, Germany.

Mrs. Tydings and Mrs. Broun were with Davies when he died.

Truman Reveals Doctors Advised Slowing Down

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says his doctor has asked him to reduce his activities but, he says, "I can still outwalk any of them."

Truman made the statement in explaining why he won't attend the Israel Independence Festival at Chicago Sunday. He was scheduled to speak at the festival.

"There's nothing wrong with me," he said, but added that his doctor had urged him for six months to cut down on his activities.

Jacob Arvey, honorary chairman of the Israel Bond Committee of Chicago, said the celebration would pay tribute to Truman because as president he gave immediate recognition to the new state of Israel in 1948.

Truman celebrated his 74th birthday yesterday at a luncheon given by about 70 friends.

After 13 Years He Gets A Medal

MATTOON, Ill. (AP)—Caryl D. Farrell has received by mail a Bronze Star for heroism in the battle for Okinawa — 13 years ago.

Farrell, a 21-year-old GI in World War II, said with the medal was a letter from an Army colonel explaining he was being cited for heroic, meritorious achievements during the battle. He was one of seven members of an infantry battalion that survived the bloody assault on the Japanese-held island in 1945.

The letter, from Col. C. J. Barry Jr. of Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot, did not explain the delay.

Farrell, who also fought in the Marshall Islands and on Spain, is employed in a casket-making firm in nearby Arthur.

Federal Funds For 22 Counties

RALEIGH (AP)—Twenty-two Eastern North Carolina counties and the Town of Clinton will share $1,298,075 in federal funds for work in cleaning streams of hurricane debris.

Gov. Hodges announced yesterday that the Federal Civil Defense Administration has approved the stream clearance projects in areas of North Carolina struck by hurricanes in 1955. Local officials have been notified of approval of the projects, Hodges added.

Clinton received a total of $5,900 for two stream clearance projects.

The list of counties and the total amount each received included:

Beaufort $14,000; Bladen $15,000; Brunswick $130,625; Camden $1,800; Columbus $96,250; Craven $62,000; Currituck $29,650; Duplin $49,200; Greene $122,400; Hertford $53,250; Hyde $7,000; Jones $21,000; Lenoir $57,000; Onslow $12,000; Pasquotank $29,700; Pender $39,900; Perquimans $102,000; Sampson $259,700; Tyrrell $4,200; Washington $6,500; Wilson $36,000; and Wayne $114,000.

Liberal Tax Writeoff Is Said Under Consideration

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Word that the Eisenhower administration may ask Congress to liberalize tax writeoffs for all industry circulated today at a conference of Secretary of Commerce Weeks and his Business Advisory Council.

The idea was expected to get a strong boost from the closed two-day sessions at which Weeks, Secretary of Defense McElroy and other top government officials are meeting with about 100 members of the BAC.

Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind.) has introduced a bill which would permit companies to write off in depreciation for tax purposes larger percentages of the cost of new plants and equipment in the first years of their life.

Traditions Maintained And Broken At Concert

By GEORGE E. PERRY
Traditions were maintained and broken last night at the Spring Concert by the East Carolina College Concert Band.

After intermission, the concert resumed with "Inglesina," which displayed the clarinet section to good advantage. Following was the Sarabande and Bourree of Handel, and in the Sarabande the brass choir again did some noteworthy work.

There was wide divergence of opinion among the corporation heads on whether the government should cut income taxes. A substantial number took the administration view that this would bring big federal deficits for years to come and invite worse inflation.

The first half of the concert was composed entirely of music original for band. Grainger's "Ye Banks and Braes" was tastefully sustained, with good breadth of music and tone.

There is no question about it: the College Band can hold its head high right along side any college band in the country.

But auto industry spokesmen have declared for that course.

Red Oak Christian Announcements

Tonight, Friday, May 9, will be Family Night at Red Oak Christian Church. The covered-dish supper at 6:30 p.m. will be in honor of the 32 new members received at Red Oak Church since October 20, 1957.

Words of welcome will be expressed to the new members by the following: Rev. Howard James, pastor; Milton May, chairman of the Official Board; Thurston Wynne, Sunday school superintendent and chairman of the Christian Education Committee; Sam Winchester, chairman of the Stewardship and Mission Committee; Mrs. Rubelle Crawford, chairman of Membership and Evangelism; J. T. Manning Jr., chairman of Property Committee; Ami Eason, vice-president of CYP; Jimmy Wynne, president of Chi Rho; Mrs. B. Leon Tyson, leader of Chi Rhoettes; Mrs. Willie Pate, president of Circle 1; Mrs. Carl Crawford, president of Circle 2; Mrs. Hubert Garris, president of Circle 3; and Jarvis Allen, president of CMP.

The program will conclude with a motion picture film on "The Split-Level Family" for adults and youth. A sound filmstrip in color, "Bushy, the Squirrel," on the Stewardship theme will be shown in the Educational Building for children under ten. A nursery will be provided following the family supper.

On Sunday morning the pastor will preach a Mother's Day sermon on "The Hand That Rocks The Cradle." The Sanctuary Choir will sing "Now Thank We All Our God" by Johann Cruger. Flowers will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Denton. Everyone is urged to wear the appropriate rose for Mother's Day—red in honor and white in memory. The oldest mother present and the mother with the most children present will be recognized.

Reports Demands Will Up Car Costs By $300

DETROIT (AP)—Henry Ford II, president of Ford Motor Co., said today the current demands of the United Auto Workers on the auto industry would raise new car costs more than $300.

Ford, in a letter to Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), said the union demands on the auto industry "amount to more than 70 cents an hour, exclusive of profit sharing. The 70 cents an hour demand alone, if granted by us and our suppliers generally, would raise the cost of an automobile more than $300. No automobile company could grant such a demand and expect to stay in business."

As a matter of fact, any increases above present labor costs—even of a few cents per hour—would have to be reflected in immediate price increases on cars and trucks, if the present losses of some automotive companies are to be curtailed and the declining profit margins of others corrected.

Kefauver wrote Ford for his opinion on a proposed cut in the present 10 per cent federal excise tax on autos in return for price reductions by the auto builders.

A flareup of tension in contract negotiations between General Motors and the UAW was eased today by agreement to discuss a union charge that the company is threatening to scrap the jobs of 500 skilled workers.

The UAW claimed at the bargaining table that General Motors is shutting down the die room of its Fisher Body Division plant in Pontiac, Mich.

UAW headquarters issued a statement saying, "The shutdown threat proves just what the UAW has been saying all along—that industry overexpanded productive capacity without any similar effort to expand consumer buying power."

GM issued no statement in reply. The company said that a meeting had been set up on the local level to discuss the problem. The UAW had bargaining talks scheduled today at Ford and Chrysler as well as GM.

On Sunday morning the pastor will preach a Mother's Day sermon on "The Hand That Rocks The Cradle." The Sanctuary Choir will sing "Now Thank We All Our God" by Johann Cruger. Flowers will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Denton. Everyone is urged to wear the appropriate rose for Mother's Day—red in honor and white in memory. SOME SLIPS DON'T SHOW

By A. A. FAIR (Eric Stanley Gardner)

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

When nervous, knuckle-cracking Barclay Fisher materializes in the private detective agency of Cool & Lam, the agency's partners experience widely divergent sensations. Bertha Cool sees money ahead; Donald Lam, trouble. They are both right.

Fisher, a devoted family man, fears he was indiscreet at a business convention in San Francisco. The reason he doesn't know for sure is that there was so much champagne. Fisher had reached the state of blissful unremembering. Next morning, he woke up in a strange apartment (presumably that of Miss Lois Marlow) and went home with a nagging conscience.

It was two weeks after the incident that Fisher brought Cool & Lam an ominous letter indicative of black-mail. It was sent by a man named George Cadott. Fisher is fearful of his wife Minerva's finding out more than he himself knows about his blackout.

Donald, who is telling the story, has traced Lois Marlow. She's apparently received a job at his mention of George Cadott's name.

CHAPTER 4

It was a nice, cozy apartment. There was a living room with a davenport, which was evidently where Barclay Fisher woke up. Barclay Fisher was partially opened door leading to a bedroom. A spring door evidently opened to a kitchenette. The apartment was nicely furnished, just a trifle on the side of too much decoration.

Lois Marlow sat on the arm of a chair. "Has George been making trouble?" she asked.

"He's trying to," I said.

"I don't know what to do with him, unless I chloroform him!"

"I said, 'Barclay Fisher is married.'"

"Now, wait a minute," she said. "Let's get one thing straight. Is Barclay Fisher the redheaded guy who cracks his knuckles?"

"That's the one," I said.

"She laughed a throaty, musical laugh. 'Trying to play the big, old, bold wolf was pretty much of a strain on him. He was out of character.'"

"I can imagine," I said. "Just what happened?"

"He started drinking champagne like water on top of some fruit punch. The combination didn't agree with him."

"So what happened?"

"Do you have to know all the details?"

"Yes."

"He upchucked — lost his dinner, champagne."

"Then what?"

"He went to sleep on the davenport."

"Anything else?"

"Why do you ask?"

"George Cadott wrote him a letter."

"He would?"

"All right," I told her. "I'm a private detective. Here's one of my cards."

"She looked at the card, said, 'Who's B. Cool?'"

"B stands for Bertha," I said. "Bertha Cool is a very tough, very hard-boiled, very deadly dowager, a hundred and sixty-five pounds of bone and muscle. She's as tough and hard as a roll of barbed wire and about the same shape. You'd love her."

"How delightful!" Lois said.

"While I probably don't look it," I told her. "I can be rather disagreeable myself."

"She looked me over carefully. 'The devil you can! There's a wistful something about you. Donald, I bet women want to mother you and cuddle you. I bet you have to fight them off.'"

"My private life," I told her. "Isn't one of the things we're discussing?"

"Why not? You're discussing mine."

"My friends don't write letters," I said.

"She laughed, then she got mad. 'I should have choked that guy long ago.'"

"I said, 'If this is the ordinary type of black-mail, you're going to be the sorriest, sickest individual in San Francisco. You aren't going to get any money. You're going to get a working over that will surprise you, and you'll probably wind up with a police record.'"

"Don't be silly. It isn't black-mail, Donald."

"What is it?"

"It's hard to explain," she said. "I like George a lot. He's one of those sincere, earnest individuals who may someday set the world afire. If he doesn't set it afire, he's going to try to make it over. He thinks he's in love with me. He's thought so for some time."

"How do you feel toward him?"

"At times he bores me to death. At times I'm rather fascinated by his line of chatter. He disappears of me but he loves me."

"What does he do?"

"He thinks."

"What does he do for a living?"

"He has a living. He inherited money. He thinks."

"How much money?"

"Plenty."

"How much does he think?"

"Not too much. Enough."

"What's his excuse for existing?"

"He's going to write the great American novel. He's going to paint. He's going to write a corrupt world."

"Isn't he hard to get along with at times?"

"Donald," she said, "all men are hard to get along with at times. You've put your cards on the table. I've been around. I like gaiety. I like laughter. I like life. And I like variety. I would like very much to own a millinery store. There's one for sale. George wants to buy it for me. He'll take my promissory note. Now then, Donald, if you and this B. Cool of yours queer that deal for me, I'll show you the longest claws you ever saw on a hellcat."

"And what does George Cadott want in return for financing the millinery store?" I asked.

"I wouldn't know," she said demurely. "He hasn't told me yet."

"Marriage?" I asked.

"Heavens, no! Not again?"

"What do you mean, again?"

"I've been married. It didn't take." Her eyes lowered.

"So what about what George wants?"

"He wants to exercise the prerogatives of a fiancé. He also wants to protect me. I don't want to be protected. I want that millinery shop. George is afraid I have a tendency to be promiscuous."

"What's this definition of promiscuity?"

"All men have the same definition of promiscuity," she said. "Anything you might be tempted to do with anyone else is being promiscuous."

"And would George make trouble for Barclay Fisher?"

"Heaven knows what George would do!"

"Want to give me his address?"

"No, I don't want you and George getting within a million miles of each other."

I shook my head. "You're out of luck, Lois. I'm going to see the guy."

"You haven't seen him yet?"

"No."

"You've been fair with me," she said. "I'll call him up. He's out of the picture as of now."

"Go ahead, if you think it'll do any good."

"That won't stop you?"

"Nothing's going to stop me, Lois. I'm a professional. I'm going to see the guy. I'm going to talk with him. I'm going to explain the facts of life to him. I'm going to tell him that if he makes a pass at Barclay Fisher, or if he makes any attempt to notify Barclay's wife that her husband had an amorous interlude in San Francisco at the convention, he'll find himself in hot water."

"You're going to throw a scare into him?"

"A big scare," I said.

Quarry Operator Finds Diamonds

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Discovery of tiny diamonds suitable for industrial use has been reported by a quarry operator.

George Hofstetter, owner of the Jersey Quarry Co., said tests show the sparkling specks in soapstone strata 155 feet beneath the surface are diamonds.

Tests verifying the diamond discovery, Hofstetter said, were made at the Central Illinois Testing Laboratories in Springfield.

Army Holds Out Hopes Of Near Bloodless Victories

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army held out the hope today that germ and drugs that neither kill nor maim could prevent small wars or help to win nearly bloodless victories in a big conflict.

At the same time, Maj. Gen. William M. Cressy, chief chemical officer, cautioned that the "pre-occupation with space and Sputniks could cause the nation to disregard what he called Soviet warnings that the Soviets could and would use chemical and biological weapons in another war.

He said the Soviet defense minister stated several years ago these would be used along with guided missiles and nuclear weapons.

In heavily censored testimony which a House Appropriations subcommittee made public today, Cressy said also that this country had adopted in October 1956 a "national policy" on chemical and biological warfare and that the Defense Department had issued a directive to carry out the policy.

The Pentagon said the directive is "top secret."

Cressy contended that the best way to stop small conflicts from breaking out would be to develop means to immobilize enemies. "If we could come up with something that produces temporary blindness, this would be the ideal type of thing where no one would be maimed tomorrow."

Cressy said that if the Chemical Corps had more money it would work on such a blinding process but that in the meantime "the best that we can offer" is to spread a debilitating disease, one that would not kill but would leave enemies listless. His testimony as released did not elaborate on this point.

Cressy also disclosed that military chemists would like to be able to develop what he called "psycho-chemicals" that would cause irrational behavior. The general said such chemicals might be used to cause panic in the enemy.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP) Mrs. Norma Osborne left her expectant poodle "Perque" in her automobile while she was keeping a dental appointment. There were two poodles on hand when she returned. By the time she got to the vet there were three. By that night, mother and all nine pups were doing fine.

NEW YORK (P) — Steels and rails were pacemakers as the stock market improved in active trading early this afternoon. Leading stocks were up fractions to around a point.

For the seventh time in eight sessions the market was moving into new high ground for the year although the average is still far below the 1957 highs.

The market was slightly higher at the opening which was active enough to cause a brief late spell in the ticker tape. Prices kept a narrowly higher edge for a while and then widened somewhat.

Rails resumed their rally of yesterday. The carriers have perked up despite a new drop in carloadings. The feeling in Wall Street is that the Senate proposals for aid to the distressed industry may bring concrete results.

Illinois Central rose about a point. Fractional gains were made by Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Railway and Chesapeake & Ohio.

U.S. Steel and Youngstown Sheet were up major fractions. Bethlehem's gain was smaller. Republic Steel was firm.

American Motors continued as a favorite, gaining around a point a big percentage rise for this low-priced issue. Other motor shares were different. Chrysler dropped a major fraction. General Motors was firm.

Fairchild Engine also was in demand, gaining a good fraction. United Aircraft rose slightly.

Both International Harvester and Caterpillar rose fractionally on reports that farm equipment is being bought briskly while other durable goods falter.

Allied Chemical rose about a point. Other gainers included Loew's, Texas Co., American Smelting and Phelps Dodge.

American Cyanamid was up 1/4 at 47 1/2 on a large block of 14,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon rose 90 cents to 510.10 with the industrials up 50 cents. The rails up 60 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Bill To Hike Mail Rates On Publications Readied

WASHINGTON (P) — Sharp boosts in mail rates for newspapers and magazines have been approved by a Senate-House conference committee.

The boosts would be effective in three annual stages starting next Jan. 1. With all the increases in force, the added cost would be about 25 1/2 million dollars a year.

The Senate-House group reached agreement on these increases yesterday as it continued work on a bill to raise postal rates in general and to increase the pay of 500,000 Post Office Department workers.

In another action, the conferees approved an increase in the cost of most postcards from 2 to 3 cents.

When the compromise bill is worked out in full, it will be subject to final passage by both House and Senate. Several controversial provisions in the bill

Nixon May Curtail Meeting Students In South America

LIMA, Peru (P)—The stones and spit which greeted U.S. Vice President Richard Nixon at Peru's oldest university brought down condemnation today on the Peruvian government from one of the capital's chief newspapers.

It appeared the violence at San Marcos University Marcos University yesterday might put a stop to Nixon's face-to-face attempts to convince Latin American students the United States is a better bet than the Soviet Union.

A round-table conference with Ecuadorian students and labor leaders — scheduled after Nixon's arrival later today in Quito — was cancelled.

Sources close to the vice president said in the three nations remaining on his tour he might abandon his custom of visiting the leading universities to talk with students.

Nixon had been warned that his visit to the Lima university might result in leftist-inspired violence but he went ahead. A rock grazed his neck, and a U.S. Secret Service agent had a tooth chipped by a flying stone as students spat on the party and jeered: "Nixon get out."

Nixon shouted back: "Don't you want to hear facts?" but the mob shouted him down and he left for Lima's Catholic University to meet with students there.

As Nixon returned to his hotel on foot, another group demonstrated against him.

The outburst against the vice president shook Lima. The influential newspaper El Comercio said the police should have taken steps to prevent the outbreaks. Opposition papers already had criticized the government for failing to prevent similar — but milder — anti-Nixon demonstrations the day before.

Nixon made no official fuss but Foreign Minister Raul Porras quickly expressed official and personal apologies. The government also replaced the wreath Nixon had laid on the monument to South American patriot Jose San Martin, which demonstrators tore up.

Nixon told newsmen he was deeply moved by apologies he received privately from Peruvians. When he left his hotel later, crowds applauded him as if to make amends.

Lima police reportedly got orders to round up Communists responsible for the demonstrations. Informed sources said the nationalistic Aprista party — Peru's largest — expelled a student member for joining the mob.

Nixon said he viewed the events at San Marcos, the oldest university in the Western Hemisphere, as a long-range defeat for the Communists "because a violent and vocal minority denied freedom of expression, without which no institution of learning can deserve the name great."

Although the Communist party outlawed in Peru as an international organization, the Reds have been making propaganda hay with the country's economic problems by blaming them on U.S. trade policies.

Both Senate and House bills, as passed originally, had provided earlier effective dates for these rate boosts than the compromise stipulates.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC), chief Senate conferee, said the Jan. 1, 1959, date was picked to give publishers a chance to adjust to the new rates.

Kings And Queens Of Health Crowned

NEGRO 4-H HEALTH QUEENS AND KINGS CROWNED . . . By 1957
Queen Carolyn Suggs o Ayden.

Health queens and kings for Pitt County's Negro 4-H Clubs were crowned Wednesday night in ceremonies at C. M. Eppes High School.

Carolyn Suggs and Lemar Edwards, both of Ayden 4-H Club and 1957 health winners, crowned the new queens and kings.

The coronation ceremonies were part of a program which also included a fashion show of dresses made and modeled by Junior and Senior 4-H Club girls. Participants and winners in the Junior Dress Review include: Blouse and skirts, Blue Ribbon winners: Shirley Cox of Grifton, Bettie Frisby of Farmville and Geraldine Atkinson of Fountain; Red Ribbon winners: Jane Worley of Stokes, Bettie Johnson of Farmville, Irene Mooring of Haddocks, Phyllis Marie Smith of Farmville, Irene Mooring of Haddocks, Phyllis Marie Smith of Farmville and Melba Woolard of Grimesland.

Blouses, Blue Ribbon winners: Carolyn Diggins and Catherine Streeter, both of Bruce-Falkland; dolph and Willie Wooten of Bruce-Falkland; Curtis Farrow, Claudette Bullock, Frederick Artiss and Margie Williams of Farmville; Carlton Barnes and Mische Edwards of Fountain; Roger Ingram and Carolee James of Grifton; Carlton Little, Kay Wilson, Haywood Weche and Barbara Wilson of Grimesland; Walter Wilson and Margie Edwards of Haddocks; Charlie Barrett and Gloria Monk of Nichols; Martha Teel of Sally Branch; Ruby Ross and Wallace Ebron of Stokes; and Walter Gailin and Frances Boyd of Simpsonville.

Crown bearers were Gloria Gardner of Grifton and Amos Mills of Grimesland. Other features of the program were a health skit by the Winterville 4-H Club; a resume of health achievements by Barbara Harris, county council president of the Farmville Senior 4-H Club; explanation of the purpose of 4-H work by Mrs. A. D. Hunter of Greensboro, assistant State Club Leader; dances and skits by club members from Farmville, Haddocks, Grimesland, Ayden, Sally Branch, Stokes and Fountain; and music by the South Ayden High School Band.

Special guests included Mrs. Frances Corbett, District Negro Home Demonstration Agent.

WASHINGTON (P) — Sharp boosts in mail rates for newspapers and magazines have been approved by a Senate-House conference committee.

The boosts would be effective in three annual stages starting next Jan. 1. With all the increases in force, the added cost would be about 25 1/2 million dollars a year.

The Senate-House group reached agreement on these increases yesterday as it continued work on a bill to raise postal rates in general and to increase the pay of 500,000 Post Office Department workers.

In another action, the conferees approved an increase in the cost of most postcards from 2 to 3 cents.

When the compromise bill is worked out in full, it will be subject to final passage by both House and Senate. Several controversial provisions in the bill

Speaker

Clarence V. Stitz, circuit supervisor of 200 congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses in eastern North Carolina, will be the featured speaker here Sunday evening at Kingdom Hall located on the Falkland Highway. A six o'clock session will highlight Stitz's six-day semiannual visit with the local congregation. In connection with regular meetings held during this week, a special Saturday night session will be held.

Khrushchev Said Forced To Get Tough With Tito

LONDON (P)—The Soviet Union took a tougher line toward Yugoslavia today amid reports that Premier Nikita Khrushchev is fighting an attempt to oust him as not being tough enough.

Polish Communist sources said the Chinese Reds and Soviet Stalinists have combined against Khrushchev in a dispute over how the Communist bloc should deal with Yugoslavia's refusal to follow Moscow's dictates.

Reports from Moscow and Warsaw said the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee has been meeting in the Soviet capital. Results of the meeting may come soon, the official Polish Communist organ Trybuna Ludu said.

Most sources in Moscow said, however, the main subject of the meeting was Soviet industrial production rather than Soviet relations with the Communist parties of other nations.

The committee rallied around Khrushchev last June in a dispute with former Premier Georgi Malenkov, former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and others. Khrushchev won and ousted them. He later ousted Molotov, who was rumored back in Moscow.

Portraits Are To Be Unveiled

Portraits of Robert Randolph Cotten and of his wife, Mrs. Sallie Cotten, for whom Cotten Hall at East Carolina College was named, will be unveiled in the reception rooms of the residence hall Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

Those who are interested in attending the ceremony are cordially invited to be present. No personal invitations will be issued.

The portraits are the gift of Mrs. Sallie Cotten Wiggins of Boston and Mrs. Elba Cotten Wesson of Tucson, Arizona, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Cotten, who will attend the unveiling.
