French Assembly Moving Toward 'State Of Siege'

PARIS (AP) — Parliament moved today toward putting France under a virtual state of siege to cope with the threat of civil war and avert any attempt by Gen. Charles de Gaulle's followers to seize power.

PARIS (AP) — The French Revolution, the committee bypassed the officials appointed by Paris and even had some of them taken into custody. Then they set up their own government, pledging themselves to bring De Gaulle to power in Paris so that there could be no compromise in the war against the independence-seeking Moslem nationalists in Algeria.

Hodges' Position As Top Party Leader Stands Out At N.C. Demo Convention

RALEIGH (AP) — Primed for Regatta by their state convention, North Carolina Democrats today turned their attention towards the ballot box battles.

Sen. W. Kerr Scott, told the delegates he is waging a campaign for approval by the State Democratic Executive Committee, for election next November, and to hold on to the Senate seat in 1960 when Scott's term ends.

Face, who made a futile effort to bring up an anti-Jordan resolution, said later he was "ashamed of my party's actions." He added, "I believe that the people of the Democratic methods. We may be forced by Gov. Hodges and his cohorts to take Everett Jordan for two years, but in 1960 we shall be heard."

Councilmen Transfer Budget Funds To Cover Weather-Caused Deficits

By JIMMY ELLIS' Reflector Staff Writer

City councilmen last night shifted more than $12,000 between departments of city government to cover deficits, caused by inclement weather, in the budget of the Public Works Department.

quested by school officials. The street is adjacent to the playground of Fullilove School in West Greenville.

At the request of City Manager Leonard Bloxam, councilmen authorized transfer of $8,000 from the Police Department budget to cover deficits in Engineering, Contingency and Police Capital Outlay funds; $1,500 from the Fire Department to Street Maintenance of Automotive Equipment; and $3,000 from Street Department Capital Outlay to Sanitation. Bloxam said the switches would cover expenses of the affected departments for the remainder of the fiscal year and that no further transfer would be necessary.

Department had collected 93.8 percent of current taxes and that the record is "considerably better than in the past."

Approve Funds For Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new $1-125,000 hospital for Edgecombe County, N.C., at Tarboro was approved today by the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Councilmen also gave approval to a plan whereby the city manager and the Police Department would approve requests for licenses to sell beer within the city. It was pointed out that the action

Security forces tightened control on the city, however, and by mid-morning the town was quieter than in any similar period since Monday. Snipers, arsonists and rioters seeking to overthrow Lebanon's pro-West government were pretty well in check.

Security forces cordoned off the Moslem area behind the house of President Camille Chamoun, where a mob tried to form. The mob set up roadblocks on some streets, but tough security forces moved in quickly, and at last ac-

'First Place' Is Won By Paper

Student newsmen at Junius H. Rose High School have been notified that their paper, "Green Lights," has been awarded a first place rating by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Announcement of the rating was made yesterday to Principal O. E. Dowd and faculty advisor Frank Landing. The announcement from Columbia University officials said six issues of the newspaper received 922 of a possible 1,000 points.

Judges comments on the editions submitted for consideration cited features as "Quite strong" sports articles as "enthusiastic" and use of photographs as "good."

Under; cross-examination, Sheriff Joyner was asked whether he noticed a "glassy-eyed stare" about the youth. He said he noted it when he first saw him at police headquarters in Wilson. Deputy Joyner testified he never noticed

At intervals, the slain girl's mother sobbed during the testimony. Young Hackett's parents remained calm. The ministers of the two families were present. Judge Chester Morris said he thought both sides acted wisely in making and accepting the second degree plea. He added, "We have examined some 283 people and selected only 10 (jurors), which is a strong indication that the people of North Carolina do not favor extracting the supreme penalty."

Mrs. Moore Member Of Year; Mrs. Hardee Jay-C-Ette President

Mrs. Phil Moore Jr. was named the recipient of the Jay-C-Ette of the Year Award and Mrs. Roy Hardee was installed as incoming Jay-C-Ette president at the annual Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce Installation and Ladies Night Banquet last night.

At this meeting held at the Moore Lodge, J. B. Kittrell Jr., Jaycee, presented Mrs. Moore the award and told highlights of her Jay-C-Ette year. "She has shown all around participation, concrete evidence of willingness to serve and has a perfect attendance record," he noted.

Another factor that directly resulted in her being selected the outstanding member was her active leadership as chairman of the recent Jay-C-Ette candy sale.

It was pointed out that Mrs. Moore brought the idea of the candy sale to the club and accepted the chairmanship of this project which was the largest and most successful club project of the year.

Dan Saleed, Jaycee, when installing the incoming officers, explained their duties and charged them with each.

Serving with the president, Mrs. Roy Hardee, will be Mrs. Richard Briley, vice president; Mrs. Billy Laughinghouse, recording secretary; Mrs. Gordon Goodman, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Bob Smith, treasurer; and Mrs. George Coffman, reporter.

New directors are Mrs. Claude Plyler, Mrs. Carlton Taylor, Mrs. John Saleed, and Mrs. Warren Aldridge, immediate past president of the Jay-C-Ettes.

Also during the dinner meeting Mrs. Aldridge presented the president's report, noting that the highlight of the club year was the candy sale. She reported that proceeds from this project went to the Crippled Children's Clinic.

Approximately 200 Jaycees and Jay-C-Ettes attended this annual affair which opened with a cocktail party, followed by a dinner and business session.

30 Years Ago Today

May 16, 1928

Greenville High School won the annual relay race from Washington High this afternoon, Robeson finishing the last lap for Greenville corner Evans and Third Streets. Time of the race was one hour and 39 minutes, eight minutes better than last year. Ninety runners took part in the contest for each school, relays taking place at the expiration of every 440 yards. The runners were followed by a procession of enthusiasts in automobiles from the starting point at Washington and when the local boys took the lead a short distance from Grimesland, numbers came on to Greenville to bring intelligence of the progress of the race. Greenville won last year's event, but there was some dispute as result of a runner being used twice.

Balloon - Trapeze - Chemise Make Waiting For Baby A Breeze

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
If you're going to have a baby, this is the year to do it.

The new fashions are made to order for the stork club set, and whatever the uproar about the sack, the trapeze and the balloon, this is one group of girls who aren't complaining.

Among the first to recognize this fashion bonanza was the alert Elsie Frankfurt of Dallas, one of the country's youngest and most decorative corporation presidents. Other officers of her high-fashion maternity dress company are her two sisters—Mrs. Edna Ravkind, vice president, and Mrs. Louise F. Gartner, secretary and design-

Elsie, the only bachelor girl of the three, got the idea of forming the company some 18 years ago, when her married sisters started having babies and couldn't find a thing to wear. She started by designing and making a dress for sister Edna, then decided to go out and take orders from stores. Now they have one of the most modern factories in Texas and employ 125 people turning out fashions for mothers-to-be.

This season the Frankfurt sisters are turning out the latest Parisian styles for happy ladies-in-waiting, who have found they can be dressed in the height of fashion this year, even though pregnant, and nobody will know the difference.

Highlights in the summer collection of maternity fashions made by the Frankfurts are plicated trapeze silhouettes, balloon-shaped party dresses in sheer silk prints, variations of the chemise, the middy and the blouson. All are cunningly designed for expansion. Many are of drip-dry, wash-and-wear fabrics. And all prove that this year it's fashionable to be pregnant.

Tau Boating Club Outing
A weiner roast and boat club meeting will be held at Whitchard's Beach Saturday at 5 p. m., sponsored by the Tau Boating Club. Ray W. Alock, pursor, invites members to bring their families to this outing and to call 3094 or 5829 if unable to attend.

NEW LOOK—Expectant mothers greet the newest styles with joy. At left, a balloon evening dress in printed silk organza with expansion feature in inverted front pleat; right, trapeze silhouette in yellow dacron-and-cotton drip-dry fabric that looks like linen, permanently pleated. Both are by the Frankfurt sister of Dallas.

Sources Of Vitamins In Green Vegetables Pointed Out By Agent

In her demonstration "Green Vegetables For Good Eating," Mrs. Lois Freeman prepared a tossed salad while reminding members of the Mount Pleasant HD Club that vegetables are a valuable source of vitamins A and C as well as minerals and calcium.

"Vegetables should not be soaked a long time—only be given a thorough washing," she said. Mrs. Freeman prepared a casserole of Brussels sprouts and a congealed salad.

Sunday Young Churchmen Day At St. Paul's

The May meeting of the club was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Kenneth Hathaway, in Greenville.

The meeting opened with the devotional and a song followed by the Club Collet.

Three members, Mrs. J. O. Teel, Mrs. F. A. McLawhorn and Mrs. Burley Clark, participated in the Cancer Drive, Mrs. Teel reported.

The clean-up campaign was discussed and Mrs. Hagan reported on the results.

Mrs. Hathaway gave a report on food preservation in which she urged members to always buy frozen foods last while shopping and then have them put into insulated bags.

The education leader, Mrs. Teel, reminded members to turn in book reports and informed them that the Renston-Nobles Club was of-

Fashion Show PTA Feature

GRIFTON—In a Southern garden setting members of Mrs. Don Casey's sewing classes presented a fashion show for the Grifton PTA meeting Tuesday night.

Mrs. Robert Mewborn, acting as commentator, began her remarks in rhyme.

Models participating were: Esther Hill Coward, Sallie Mewborn, LouRaye Mewborn, Martha Harz, Frances Davis, Emily Nelson, Dorothy Mitchell, Barbara Lane, Nancy Smith, Frances Cole, Brenda Rose, Dorothy Groat, Edna Henderson, John Smith, Marian Nelson, Ann Dixon, Sara Benson, Jean Groat, Bette Jo Gaskins, Theresa Manning, Elizabeth Hoyle, and Joyce Garris.

In addition to the school students participation, dresses made by Mrs. Casey's adult sewing class were also modeled. Barbara Lane modeled a dress made by Mrs. M. E. Hodges. Mrs. Herbert Gravely and Mrs. Sallie Johnson modeled their own. Patricia Desverges wore a play suit made by Mrs. Desverges and Mary Jo Quinerly modeled a dress her mother, Mrs. J. L. Quinerly, made.

Sallie Mewborn, LouRaye Mewborn, Dorothy Groat, Ruth Stinquist and John Smith wore garments made at their homes in addition to their school projects.

After the fashion show new officers were installed and the attendance cakes were awarded to the third and fifth grades.

Punch, salted nuts, and cookies were served by the Hospitality Committee from a table covered with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of red and white roses. Mrs. John Coward and Mrs. Joe Bass were in charge of the social hour.

Dance, Senior High School Day Planned

A club members dance and the Senior High School day are events scheduled to take place at the Greenville Golf and Country Club during this month.

Music for the club members dance, which will be held May 24 from 9 p. m. - 1 p. m., will be furnished by "The Highlighters" orchestra. Reservations for this dinner-dance will close at 9 p. m. May 23.

On May 30 the annual Senior High School Day picnic-winning party is planned. Only high school seniors will be admitted to this function.

The Country Club swimming pool officially opens May 31 with "AL" Baugh as guard and instructor.

During the month of June a Water Festival and a "Get Acquainted Buffet Supper" for new members will be held.

Red Oak News

Mrs. James Allen represented Red Oak Club at the United Nation Day program held in Raleigh recently. Eighty-two flags with 82 women dressed in the native costume of each country represented by the flags was the highlight of the program, Mrs. Allen reported.

Home Demonstration Club Day was celebrated at Red Oak with Mrs. J. T. Manning Jr. leading the devotional. Club members placed an arrangement of iris in the church and all club women present were recognized.

Mrs. Louella Stancil attended the Home Demonstration Club meeting in Walstonburg as a representative of Red Oak Club.

Mrs. Ora Allen is quite ill at her home.

Underscoring Anew, We're Behind

Russia's third Sputnik now in orbit proves the necessity for the United States continuing without let-up its crash program to achieve superiority in space vehicles.

After months of silence on satellite launchings, the Soviet Union has done just what many were expecting it to do: launch a huge satellite that represents indisputable achievement in its space vehicle program.

Russia's new Sputnik weighs almost one and one-half tons compared with our largest satellite weighing 30.8 pounds. Sputnik III is reported to be 11 feet 9 inches high and 5 feet 7 inches wide at its base compared with our Explorers I and II which are about 80 inches long.

With these comparisons there can be little doubt that the launching vehicle used by Russia to put its new satellite into orbit is superior to those which have been used by the United States. Just how well equipped the Soviet satellites are and how much information they are giving Russian scientists about space conditions remains a matter of conjecture. It stands to reason, however, that a great deal more information-gathering equipment can be packed into the one and one-half ton Sputnik III than can be put into one of our 30.8 pound Explorers.

In science and technology, the United States should not take a back seat to Russia or any other nation. In spite of Russian advances in the space vehicle and satellite field, we are convinced the United States still has the upper hand in facilities with which to push forward scientific and technological development. In our case it is a matter of channeling these abilities in order to produce greater achievements.

Russia's new huge satellite is bound to produce another sobering, objective evaluation of our own development program in the United States. It will, in the long run, spur the massing here of a development program through which the United States will reassert its superiority in the field of space development.

This Invasion By Government

By LYNN NISBET
CAR COSTS — One publisher participating in the panel discussion on holding down costs at the recent Eastern North Carolina Press Association, said he instructed his folks not to drive if they could telephone. Then when telephone bills began to mount he called them in and told them they just had to cut down on that item. He admitted that cutting down on both travel and telephone below a reasonable point meant losing business—and that was exactly what he did not want.

The discussion gave your reporter the idea of checking into operation of the State central motor pool and its probable effect on increased telephone bills. Out of a mass of detail figures involving miles traveled, investment in cars, time spent in making out requisitions for pool cars and reporting on their use, increased telephone bills, and other factors, come these conclusions:

Departmental telephone bills are up a great deal as compared with last year. How much of this increase is due to "phoning rather than riding and how much would have come in normal course of expanded activities none of the department accountants would hazard an estimate.

The central pool charges use of cars to each agency and department at 5 cents a mile. That represents a substantial saving when compared with the 7 cents a mile allowed for use of privately owned cars on public travel. . . . But there are records in department accounting offices of mileage costs ranging from 3 cents to 4 cents a mile for operation of State-owned cars permanently assigned to the departments. Some other agencies showed costs of operating State cars at more than 5 cents a mile.

EXPERIENCE — The car pool has not been in operation long enough to establish an overall authoritative experience record. Records to date indicate it has added to travel cost in some departments, reduced the amount in others. Majority of the two dozen or more employees who use State-owned cars who have been interviewed by your reporter like the pool plan, despite some inconvenience in getting to and from the central garage. Majority of the agency and division chiefs who have to do the requisitioning and reporting on use of pool cars do not like it. Many of them question whether the saving in actual mileage travel cost compensates for the time required for detail paper work—that might better be utilized in more productive activities. Two dollars saved on a day's travel looks good on the travel report. There isn't any real saving to the taxpayers if it costs two dollars worth of time on part of an employee and a long distance telephone call to save it.

HOW FAR? — This situation brings into focus the whole question of how far the State should go in centralized control and competition with private enterprise. One kind of book-keeping can prove beyond doubt that complete use of State-owned cars will save money. The State can buy cars and gas without tax, use the cars for a year or more and sell them at what they cost—because of the tax exemption. But in the process the State loses the taxes private dealers and users would have to pay. The saving is not all net profit.

For the same reason the goods made for the State by the Prison Enterprises are obtained at less cost on invoice value than comparable goods bought in the open market. Here again the State loses the taxes private manufacturers would pay, so the saving is not all profit.

State Ports Director Leon Williams told the Eastern North Carolina newspaper folks there is desperate need for the State to buy more land to afford sites for private enterprise at the Morehead City and Wilmington ports. In a later private interview he admitted that the obligation to provide port-side facilities was no different from that to provide roadside space on upstate highways. It is of common knowledge that in earlier days government at all levels—Federal, State and local—subsidized railroads.

In the same spirit government now is subsidizing air ports and deep water ports, and almost entirely providing highways for cross-country transportation of freight and passengers. Having provided the basic facilities of railroads and highways, airports and deep water shipping ports, should government—which means you and me—be required also to provide sites for warehouses and factories, even if users of these facilities paid for them? The question of whether the University should provide housing for families of married students comes in this general range of problems.

Frenchmen Must Now Put The Nation First

The grave situation which France faces is of concern to every nation of the free world.

Hanging in the balance at this moment is the question whether France will fall as a free nation to be reborn under a right-wing dictatorship or under an equally totalitarian control by communism.

The crisis which now prevails may prove the turning point in the troubled life of the Fourth Republic.

France has faced many troubled days since World War II. It has seemed to live in a state of confusion and strife created by many factions and splinter parties that made up its government. Throughout the period it has not been governed by a premier or a president, but by its parliament.

No group has been able to gain working control of the government; and thus no group has been able to remain in power long enough to carry out any creative sort of program for the government of France.

Now the situation has reached a new ebb of confusion and chaos. There are two alternatives for the French government. Either the various groups in parliament must forge together to uphold and preserve the government, or the government will fall into the hands of totalitarian rule on one extreme or the other.

It is to be hoped that out of the chaos members of the French parliament may gain a new understanding and appreciation of their responsibilities to their people, and place in the correct perspective their allegiance to party or faction.

In short, the French parliament—if their government is to be preserved—must place the nation and its welfare above their political parties and their individual welfare.

In the midst of chaos France may yet find itself able to preserve its free, democratic government. Otherwise its troubles of the past two decades will appear small indeed to what it faces in the future under a government which is neither free nor democratic.

Why Was U.S. So Uninformed?

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration apparently had reason to believe Vice President Nixon might run into trouble in Latin America, but, misjudging how much did not even think of calling off his dog.

If this assumption is correct—and it seems to be, after what President Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday—then the administration stuck its neck out. The results? One of the most embarrassing episodes in American history.

What's puzzling is why the administration wasn't better informed on the deputy of anti-American feeling since the State Department and the Central Intelligence Agency — this country's eyes and ears abroad — have agents everywhere.

Eisenhower himself didn't attempt to blame what happened to Nixon entirely on the Communists for he said "I don't think there is any single . . . there are economic causes."

The President indicated to his news conference that the possibility Nixon faced trouble in Latin America was talked over before he went. Perhaps nothing worse was expected than some anti-American shouts and pamphlets.

Eisenhower was asked by a reporter whether this government had anticipated the demonstrations against Nixon would be as violent as they were and whether, in view of that, any thought had been given to canceling part of his trip. He said: "No. These things were discussed but no thought was given to canceling Mr. Nixon's visits to these countries. In each case he was invited by the government. . . . "No one, I think, anticipated the violence of — particularly this last riot (in Venezuela) and I think possibly everybody there was a bit caught by surprise."

Everybody here was certainly caught by surprise. Nixon has been thinking of making a good will trip to Europe in the fall. Eisenhower was asked — in view of what happened to Nixon in Latin America — if he thought there was any need for Nixon to reconsider his fall trip. Eisenhower said: "I wouldn't think so."

It's a pretty good bet that before Nixon goes to Europe — if he goes — the administration will do a lot more thinking about its dangerous possibilities, and a lot more investigating beforehand, than it devoted to his Latin American tour.

Nixon himself apparently never realized the extent of the trouble that lay in wait for him even though he had been cautioned about it.

He had been urged not to go near the hostile students at San Marcos University in Peru but went anyway and was driven back by sonics and spit. But when he got to Venezuela and received the same treatment he was more careful.

There, to avoid more trouble, he stayed at the American Embassy and left the country by plane at night ahead of schedule.

He showed personal courage in the face of a violent mob. But the problem of Nixon's visit to Latin America went far beyond the personal courage of one man. It involved American prestige, foreign relations, and ammunition for Red propaganda.

On all three counts the United States was the loser.

Break Even Point

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Cary Grant picked the age of 35 as the break-even point in life.

After that, he says, things should get better — if they are ever going to. "Until 35 a man is often a self-centered idiot," the handsome screen actor remarked, "but then he should begin to make more sense."

"I know I was impossible before 35. I'm hardly possible now. I may be more of a bore, but I feel I'm less of a bore. I'm a little less self-centered."

"Sufficient kicks in the rear over the years do make a difference, and you can learn from experience."

"If a man picks up a little knowledge, if he improves his tolerance, if he reduces his own impatience and irritability, if he can spare a listening ear to the other fellow — well, he can't help but find himself easier to live with."

Grant just returned this week from England where he costarred with Ingrid Bergman in "Indiscreet," a romantic comedy. It is the first time they have teamed together since they made "Notorious" a number of years ago.

Grant, born Archibald Alexander Leach, ran away from home at 13 to become a still walker with an acrobatic twist. He served time as a carnival barker before he graduated to Broadway and Hollywood stardom.

One who has enjoyed the sunlight of international popularity for so long might be tempted to pick up the chips and call it quits while he was still ahead. But Grant still wants to go on making pictures, he said, "until I'm dead — or longer."

"I did quit once for 18 months. I can't say I was bored. I never had been. But I just wasn't as interested in life."

"I learned that you appreciate work most while you're at leisure, and leisure while you're at work. It's like being married or single. You can't be both at the same time."

What makes for success or failure in life? Many people think luck is the decisive factor. Grant emphatically doesn't.

"Everybody puts himself exactly where he finds himself in this world," he said.

"Everyone has constant choices to make all day long."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

POWER OF RELIGIOUS FAITH
Habakkuk is by no means a well-known Biblical figure. He is listed among the minor prophets, and one would find few Bible readers today who know much about Habakkuk or what he taught.

But he made one statement which has become the very citadel of Christian belief and life. "The just shall live by his faith." At first glance this statement does not seem to have a great deal of dynamite in it. But it has proved to be one of the most important and vital statements found in the entire Bible.

It simply means that the Christian man lives by faith and by nothing else but faith. Habakkuk himself faced a great personal problem, and the truth which flashed through his mind and at last set him at rest was the assurance that the just shall live by faith. "Just" really means "justified." The man, therefore, who is justified in the sight of God and who starts out on the frightening adventure of living the good life amid the temptations and trials of life, will find that the only thing which will support and sustain him will be his faith. No holy custom, no mere creed, no helpful association with good people will be enough to sustain him. He must rely absolutely on faith to keep him going, when it seems that he will fall down, fall, be plunged into despair.

God has made provision for a soul confronted by such difficulties. Summon your faith. Trust it. Rest upon it. Beneath are the Everlasting Arms.

Streets As Waterways

"Water, water, everywhere, and the boards did shrink." Water, water, everywhere nor any drop to drink.

These four lines from "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner" were quite appropriate for a ship lost at sea but they are also fitting for the small town of Princeville in Edgecombe County.

For here the angry Tar River has spewed his contents into the homes of more than 150 families. Streets are no longer streets but resemble the waterways of Venice.

It is quite common to see a boat weighted down under the burden of three or four humans drifting slowly and quietly down what used to be U.S. Highway 64. Water has crept over the banks of the Tar, onto the town's streets and into homes and outbuildings.

Not since 1945 has this town been so crippled by flood water. Some oldtimers are even comparing this crisis with the flood of 1919.

Despite conditions several of the town's stores have remained open and are apparently doing a sizable amount of trade. It is not unusual to see sparsely-clad shoppers row up on a boat, get out and buy a soft drink, bun, etc. and row away seemingly unconcerned about the presence of the brownish flood waters.

Bus service is being run by the National Guard who have about the only vehicle that can make it through the flooded streets. Regularly scheduled trips are made throughout the day for Princeville residents who are not lucky enough to have a boat.

As I stood among the curiosity-seekers earlier this week, I could almost feel tragedy in the air. There was a deathly silence that seemed thick enough to cut with a knife.

No youngsters were playing in the front yard of their homes. There were no babies crying nor was there any smoke coming from the kitchen chimneys.

Nothing but empty homes and water.

Practically all the residents of Princeville are being cared for by The Red Cross or have gone to visit "high-land" relatives. Only a few families balked at the idea of moving out of their homes but even those evacuated when flood water forced them upstairs.

While I stood there on U.S. 64 taking pictures, I happened to notice something breaking in the muddy water about 50 yards away. One bystander was quick to note it was a carp and that he had been "messing" around all morning.

I was told that members of some of the 10 or 12 families remaining in the flooded town went fishing the day before for German carp which have come from the river to roost around in the flooded grass.

According to the oldtimer they caught some fish too. One, he said, weighed about 25 pounds.

Other Editors Saying--- Obstacles To Be Met

(Washington Daily News)

There are many obstacles to be met before we'll ever realize a School of Nursing at East Carolina college.

One of the formidable obstacles enters around the North Carolina Nurses' association. We understand that this organization is opposing such a school and that during the last session of the legislature, this group was very busy and very vocal in its opposition.

In recent months we have talked with many registered nurses. While the association is on record in opposition, we have yet to talk to a registered nurse here in Eastern North Carolina who opposes such a school. We have even been told that the leadership of the North Carolina Nurses' association is out of step with the thinking of the rank and file nurses. We do not make that claim; we have only been told that.

We feel from what observation that we have been able to make that the rank and file nurses in Eastern North Carolina realize the practical circumstances and the dire need much better than the leadership. In fact, we would say that the masses of registered nurses in Eastern North Carolina are far ahead of the leadership in thinking on this matter. We feel that it is a real tribute to the nurses, particularly those of this area, who frankly say without qualification that they favor such a school and that they are not in step with their state leadership.

When the next legislature convenes, we expect to have direct opposition again from the nursing leadership in North Carolina. We feel that we must face that opposition and fight it.

But the opposition of the nursing leadership is not the only obstacle to overcome. The favor of the Advisory Budget commission must be sought. If that body will recommend an expenditure for such a school, one of the major hurdles will have been crossed.

Then there is the North Carolina Higher Board of education. That group must act on the petition. If the Higher board is opposed, then that opposition will be most formidable.

Then if Governor Hodges takes a position against such a school, another obstacle will have to be met. We are most hopeful that when the full facts and figures are known to the governor that he will fall in line and help us realize such a school.

Then the legislature itself could prove to be an obstacle. Legislators from Piedmont and Western North Carolina might not look with favor on such a school to be established here in Eastern North Carolina. We must realize at the same time that legislators from Eastern North Carolina will have their hands full in trying to carry the ball for this Nursing school in the face of greater numbers occasioned by the greater number of members from the Piedmont and Mountain areas.

There are probably other obstacles which we have not named here. The realization of such a school will not come easily. A strong and enthusiastic fight must be made for it. We failed two years ago. We could fail again. We have only two choices. We can sit by idly and know that we will fail. Or we can make a fight and hope for success. The latter course, to us, seems wisest.

Should Have Two Sets Of Plans

By ELMER ROESSNER

Every business executive, from Harlow H. Curtice to Nick Martini, who runs a newsstand outside one of the General Motors plants, should have two sets of plans on hand today.

One set should be plans for actions if Congress votes an income or excise tax cut. The other should be for actions to be taken when the eventual upturn begins.

At the moment, chances are against any quick tax reduction. Cuts in certain excises are remotely possible; cuts in income taxes are even less likely. Nevertheless, evidence calls for being prepared. Congress could change its mind in less time than it would take to develop sound plans.

An excise tax cut would permit the sale of taxed goods at lower prices; an income tax-cut would, overnight, give most people more spending money. READY, SET—

The prepared executive should know fairly well what he would do if either of these eventualities came to pass. Promotions for advertising the program ought to be roughed out. Companies that wait until Congress acts before drawing up their advertising may find themselves far behind their competitors.

Plans should also cover answers to these questions:

If there is a tax cut, should we press our advantage by offering longer credit terms? Should we make an effort to get a larger share of increased sales with a contest? With a new premium? Should we maintain, advance or lower prices in event of an excise tax cut? In event of an income tax cut? What can we do to help make any tax cut start a buying wave? Have we new products, new models or new deals ready to heighten buyer interest?

THE NEXT BOOM

Even more important are the bigger plans for the next boom. The eventual upturn is much more certain than any tax cut. However, there is a little more time for planning.

Plans should cover answers to these questions: Have we sufficient production facilities for the next boom?

Are we economizing so much now that production facilities are deteriorating? Are we developing new products and new models with which to ride the next high tide? Do we fully recognize the fact that new products will help maintain the next boom?

Will adequate personnel be available when business resumes its upward course? In production? In marketing? In the office? Are we developing present personnel to take over larger responsibilities?

Have we mapped new markets to capture? Have we planned campaigns for extending sales into new regions? Have we plans for developing new markets within present areas, with new products or new uses for present products?

Are our inventories ready for expansion? If, like many others, we have reduced inventories, have we cut them back too far? Have we resources for building them up quickly?

FINANCIAL POSITION?

Have we arranged finances for coming expansion? Have we strengthened the cash position?

Have we made the necessary contacts for quick loans? Have we plans for a bond issue or other long-term financing when needed?

Have we established reasonable prospects for labor peace? Have we avoided situations that will erupt into strikes as soon as employment rises? What can we do now to insure having a more effective labor force?

It is important to remember that after each of the previous 24 recessions in the last century, companies that shot ahead of competitors were those that had plans ready for the eventual upturn.

Opinions In Brief

Figures from the United States Department of Justice show that Southern states take the lead in executing persons in capital offenses—in actual numbers. Scripture—Numbers 13:17-14:15.

The children of Israel had come to the border of the promised land. Moses chose 12 men, one from each tribe, to spy in the land to see what it was like and what type of people lived in it.

The 12 men came back, bringing some of the fruit from the land, saying it was indeed a land flowing with milk and honey. But some said that the Israelites would not be able to conquer the strong people there.

Caleb said: "Let us go up at once and possess it (the land) . . . to overcome it." But the people lost faith and they wept, blaming Moses for bringing them out of Egypt; and God was angry with them.

Joshua and Caleb insisted that the land was good, and "If the Lord delight in us, then He will bring us into this land, and give it to us . . . Only rebel not ye against the Lord." MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 56:3.

MOSES SENDS 12 MEN TO SPY OUT THE PROMISED LAND

Scripture—Numbers 13:17-33; 14.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL AFTER their wanderings in the wilderness under Moses' leadership, the children of Israel came to the border of the land of promise that God had said should be theirs. The Lord commanded Moses to choose 12 men—one from each tribe—and a leader, to spy out the land of Canaan, to "see the land, what it is; and the people that dwelleth therein, whether they be strong or weak, few or many. And what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad; and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents, or in strong holds; and what the land is, whether it be fat or lean, whether there be wood therein, or not. And be ye of good courage, and bring of the fruit of the land."

Moses and against Aaron," and all begged that a new captain be chosen to take them back to Egypt. They asked, "Wherefore hath the Lord brought us into this land, to fall by the sword?" Moses, Aaron, Joshua and Caleb fell on their faces and rent their clothes at this lack of faith in the Lord who had brought them out of slavery and led them across the wilderness. Those who had searched the land reiterated that it was a good land and, "If the Lord delight in us, then He will bring us into this land and give it to us . . . only rebel not ye against the Lord, neither fear ye the people of the land . . . their defence is departed from them, and the Lord is with us."

The people would have stoned their leaders but "the Lord said unto Moses, How long will this people provoke Me? and how of fruit. They told the children of Israel: "We came unto the land whither thou sentest us, and surely it floweth with milk and honey; and this is the fruit of it." However, they said that the people were strong in the land and the cities were walled. They told of the children of Anak (a race of giants) and many other tribes which would have to be overcome before the children of Israel could possess the land.

long will it be ere they believe Me, for all the signs which I have shewed among them?" Moses begged the Lord to pardon the iniquity of His people, "according unto the greatness of Thy mercy, and as Thou hast forgiven this people, from Egypt even until now."

"And the Lord said, I have pardoned according to thy word." But He ordained that those rebellious people, because of their lack of faith, should not see that land He had promised them, but Caleb, because of his faith, should see and dwell in the land.

Realizing their mistake, the children of Israel did attack the people of Canaan, but against the counsel of Moses, and without taking the ark of the covenant with them, and they were overcome and slaughtered.

Students Object To Honor System

CINCINNATI (AP) — University of Cincinnati students have voted, 2,084-793, against adopting the honor system whereby one would tell on others cheating in tests. The News Record, school paper, which conducted the survey, said that while final decision in establishing the honor system rested with the board of directors, the vote would be a factor in any decision. At present, the university follows the so-called proctor system. Under it, instructors or class proctors conduct tests with strict supervision.

First Lady Ends Five-Day Visit

DENVER (AP) — Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower ended a five-day visit with her mother yesterday and is on her way back to Washington. The First Lady, her sister, Mrs. Gordon Moore, and members of their entourage left aboard a special car hooked to the Union Pacific Railroad's City of St. Louis. They are due in St. Louis at 11:29 a.m. EST today. They'll transfer to another special unit there and complete the trip to Washington aboard a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad train.

Red Oak Christian Announcements

The public is invited to get tickets for a Barbecue Supper at 6:00 p.m. Saturday, May 17, at Red Oak Community Building from 6:00-8:00 p.m. Tickets for the event, sponsored by the Christian Men's Fellowship, will be available at the door. At the 11 a.m. worship service the Rev. Bernard Mece, N.C. Director of Christian Education for Disciple Churches, will be guest preacher. He will speak on "Jesus—The Man and the Lord," in observance of Christian Education Day.

The Sanctuary Choir will sing "Above the Hills of Time the Cross is Gleaming" and Howard James will sing "Spirit of God" by Neidlinger. Flowers will be furnished for the service by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Thigpen. A nursery will be provided for pre-school children during the morning worship so that parents may attend. Christian Youth Fellowship, Chi Rho, and Chi Rhoettes will meet at 6 p.m. All youths are urged to attend. Summer camp and conference will be discussed. The Rev. Bernard Mece will speak for CYF and Chi Rho.

On Sunday through Thursday nights from 7:30-9:30 a Leadership Training Course, "From Bethlehem To Olivet," will be taught by the Rev. Mr. Mece. The course is being sponsored by our Christian Education Committee, Thurston Wynne, chairman. Others on the committee are: Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr., Mrs. Jesse Jordan, Bill Forbes, and Edgar Denton. The Training Course will be especially helpful to young people and adults who want to understand the sequence of events in the gospels. It will be a fine resource for parents and teachers as they discuss the life of Jesus with their children and the members of their Sunday school classes.

May 26 will be Tither's Covenant Sunday. The theme of the service will be "The Stewardship of Life" and tithing covenants will be signed as a part of the morning worship.

New Sputnik Sighted; Smaller U. S. Rockets Defended 'Still Adequate'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory today reported several of its moonwatch teams have sighted Russia's Sputnik III.

Definite sightings were reported from southern United States and the West Coast because of clear weather in those areas last night and early today.

The big Russian satellite also crossed the Northeast and Midwest sections of the United States but cloudy weather in those sections hindered visual tracking efforts.

Meanwhile, two of this country's top defense officials — Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker and Garrison Norton, assistant secretary of the Navy for air — discussed satellites and missiles in separate talks last night.

Speaking in Ogden, Utah, Norton said the United States now has rockets powerful enough to boost into orbit a two-ton satellite — a half-ton heavier than the satellite launched by Russia yesterday.

Norton did not say why the United States has not launched a larger satellite. He said the smaller ones put up by this country are providing the information deemed necessary at this time.

America's largest satellite to date weighs 31 pounds.

Brucker told a Portland, Maine, audience the United States will have Russia ringed by operational intermediate missiles by Deember.

He said Russian intercontinental ballistic missiles probably are still without the necessary guidance systems and re-entry nose cones to make them effective weapons of war.

"We must remember," Brucker said, "that a 1,500-mile range missile of ours on Russia's border is equivalent to a 5,000-mile ICBM in the possession of the U.S.S.R. or China and directed at us."

The United States was ready to launch an Army Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile at Cape Canaveral, Fla., but then postponed it at the last second early today.

Technical difficulties were blamed for the postponement, but no details were given out.

The last Jupiter was launched five months ago. A spectacular weapon, it has covered a range of 2,300 miles during tests at Cape Canaveral.

Russia's big Sputnik III was sighted by moonwatch teams from Florida to California last night and early today.

Some observers reported sighting both the satellite and the final stage rocket.

Rites Will Have Confederate Air

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A young couple whose great-grandfathers fought for the South in the Civil War will be married in a Confederate atmosphere here June 3.

Miss Capitola West, 17, and Tommy Charles Jr., 20, of the nearby Lacy community, will be married in a ceremony climaxing the 150th anniversary of the birth of Jefferson Davis.

The ceremony will take place on the spot where Davis, president of the Confederacy, was born. A 351-foot monument marks the spot.

The couple and wedding attendants will wear Civil War costumes or Confederate Army uniforms.

Wedding Parties Obstruct View

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Park Board has called a halt to the practice of wedding parties going to the Cincinnati Conservatory for commercial photographs amid the flowers.

Park board members said the steady stream of wedding parties was interfering with the general public's access to the plant and flower displays, with as many as 40 wedding parties posing in the conservatory in one Saturday.

of the indebtedness thereby secured, the undersigned will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the Courthouse door in Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, at 11 a.m. on Friday, June 6, 1958 the property conveyed in said Deed of Trust, described as follows: "That certain tract of land lying and being in Chitwood Township, Pitt County, adjoining the lands of Will Williams, Tom Evans and other, and the Greenville-Black Jack Road, and being Lot No. 3 in the division of the lands of Richard Wingate and better known as a part of the late T. ### By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

Alumni Day at the College comes this week, along with Commencement, and alumni giving is something everybody who ever graduated from—or went to—a college is reminded of also, at this season of the year. . . . Harvard has been conducting a history-making campaign for $2 million and has arrived about half way along. Some of you might have heard its "Case for the College" broadcast over CBS and NBC, in which the financial need of all institutions of higher learning was movingly described. . . . Some of Harvard's alumni are famous authors, and they've decided that a good way to give is to share the proceeds of publication—the more books they sell, the more money Harvard gets. Theodore White—a classmate of your Columnist, incidentally—is giving a chunk of his proceeds from "The Mountain Road," a recently published novel that is the Book-of-the-Month Club selection for June. . . . George Goodman and Winthrop Knowlton, co-authors of a new mystery novel, "A Killing in the Market," are doing the same. . . . But John O'Hara, whose most recent success was "Ten North Frederick," sent a gift to Harvard—even though he didn't graduate—in fact he didn't graduate from any college at all, which should convince any of you who didn't go to college that you can still be a successful author without a college education—just write a book that sells, and that's all there is to it. . . . Travelling? In spring we always think about where we'll be going during the summer—even though sometimes we don't go anywhere. The best way to travel—next to going places—is to read about them, and here are some new books about far-away spots that you probably won't be hitting right 'soon:

"Journey to Java," by Harold Nicolson, is a series of witty philosophical reminiscences of a two-month cruise to the place coffee was named after. . . . "Lost World of the Caucasus" is Negley Farson's account of a rugged holiday hike from one side of the Caucasus Mountains—they're somewhere in Asia, don't ask where—to the other. . . . "Peter Freuchen's Book of the Seven Seas" is a best seller about scientific and historical facts and legends concerning the world's oceans. . . . And Lella Hadley's "Give Me the World" is by a girl who just wanted to get away from it all and took a trip around the world, ending up with a new husband en route. Footnote: She's the best looking girl writing in English we've seen in a long time. If you can rely on the photograph of her on the book's dust-jacket. Some wags have already suggested that if readers don't like the book they can always pin up the picture. . . . Sleeper We've just read the Sheppard Memorial Library copy of Peter De Vries' recent novel, "The Mackerel Plaza, and we want to recommend it to you as one of the funniest books since "Please Don't Eat the Daisies." Not billed as a potential best-seller, "The Mackerel Plaza" created little stir when it was first published. But now it's crept onto the best-seller list and we think it will stay for awhile. De Vries presents the life and problems of a recently-widowed liberal minister in search of love and integrity, neither of which he gets in the form you might think he should. The slice of life that you get is witty and sophisticated—and the best reading we've had in a long time.

Today's Review A distinguished member of the E.C.C. Department of Geography comments on a recent book about

While this book has much of interest to offer anyone curious as to the human aspect of the Japanese imperial family, its greatest interest to most should lie in the fact that it is a strong apology for the emperor's actions in the years leading up to the Pearl Harbor catastrophe. The emperor emerges from these pages as the well-meaning individual whom he probably is: the forcefulness of his opposition to militaristic steps of which he himself disapproved is open to individual interpretation after reading this short, unusual book. By Fleming Stanley Moore the Japanese royal family. . . . NAGAKO: EMPRESS OF JAPAN, By Itoko Koyama. New York: John Day & Co., 1958.

Probably the present empress of Japan is one of the least known of public figures in the West today. Until recently this was true in her own country as well. Now that the veil of privacy which formerly covered the personal lives of the Japanese imperial family has been cast aside, it has become possible for such a book as this one to be published in serial form in a leading Japanese women's magazine. Its appearance in book form in English should be noted with interest.

One of 18 children in the polygamous household of her father, Prince Kuninomiya, Princess Nagako first appeared in court circles at the age of nine. Although soon a personal favorite, many obstacles had to be overcome before she and the present emperor were married. Even after undergoing two years of strenuous training in preparation for her future position, her engagement was almost broken due to the alleged discovery of color-blindness in her mother's family. A major crisis was provoked in the Japanese court by this question.

Eventually Hirohito and Nagako were married and, as is so often the case with Asian couples whose marriages are arranged, theirs proved most happy personally. Hirohito, because of his love for his empress and because of his belief in monogamy, refused to take an official concubine after his consort had borne four daughters in succession. Fortunately two sons were born later, to the great satisfaction of all concerned. One of the chief impressions to be derived from this biography is the extent to which the imperial couple were hampered by centuries of tradition which, at least until 1945, determined almost all their actions. They were unable to assist their eldest daughter in her ambition to have a career outside of marriage, and were helpless to prevent the present crown prince from being removed from his family at the age of three so that his official training might begin.

Reports Dog Is Held For Ransom

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. Julia Thompson told police a dog napper has her German shepherd and is asking $125 ransom. She said three weeks after the dog, Rex, was stolen she received a call demanding $100. Mrs. Thompson told officers someone left the animal's chain, dog tag and rabies tag at her front door as proof he had the dog. Later she said, the price went up to $125 and the caller threatened to kill Rex if the money is not paid.

Phantomites Close Undefeated Season
Club Wallops Falkland 8-3 For Fifth Win

FALKLAND — Kenneth Joyner notched his third victory of the season and hurled the Greenville Phantomites to their fifth in a row here yesterday, clubbing the Falkland ninth graders 8-3.

The victory finished the season for Coach Milton Reese's seventh graders and left them undefeated. They compiled an astonishing list of statistics for their five games, having scored 50 runs on 40 hits (eight extra-base knocks), while giving up only 12 to opposing teams. The team's three pitchers have accounted for much of the success—despite the mighty hitting—having struck out 43 batters, given up a stingy 11 hits and 29 walks. Not a single earned run was allowed by the Phantomite pitchers.

At the plate, the club batting average is .268.

Third Triumph

For Joyner yesterday, it was his third win against no losses. Alan McArthur started for the Greenville club but Joyner relieved him in the third inning. He gave up only two hits and those two were the first he has given up this season in 14 innings of mound action. He also gave up his first run yesterday and it was unearned. A seventh grader, Joyner will be back next season for more duty with the Phantomites.

McArthur went three innings for the Green team, struck out four, walked three, and gave up two runs, both unearned. Joyner fanned three and walked two. Both hurlers contributed a baschit to the winning cause.

Falkland Led

The Falkland club opened up with its two runs against McArthur in the initial inning and carried the lead into the second frame. Then, the Phantomites tied it and went ahead in the third. In the sixth, Falkland came back to tie it 3-3.

Going into the final inning, the game was deadlocked. With two outs and one man on base, the Phantomites started a hitting spree—with Jimmy Smith and Burney Morris leading—and managed to rack up five quick runs to clinch the victory.

Smith had two for four, Morris had two for three, Dalton Owens and Jimmy Jenkins added doubles, and Fields, James, McArthur, and Joyner contributed singles.

Success

Coach Reese commented today that this first Junior High School baseball team "has been most successful. They've been a fine group to work with and I have only praise for them."

In the course of the five games, Reese's team has made outstanding statistical marks. The three pitchers who have done all the hurling this season all have fine marks. B-side Joyner (mentioned above), Alan McArthur and Lou Ward have made good records. McArthur had a 1-0 record, hurled 11 2-3 innings, struck out 20, gave up three hits and nine walks.

Ward hurled 9 1-3 innings, struck out three, gave up six hits, 10 earned runs, and compiled a 1-0 record.

The team members this first season, were as follows: Billy Neal, James, Ken Joyner, Dalton Owens, Jimmy Smith, Kraghje Andresen, Jimmy Jenkins, Russell Fields, Alan McArthur, Burney Morris, Elmer Daily, Roger Allen, Jimmy Moye, Richard Taft, Lou Ward, Johnny Reynolds, Kenneth Allen, and Joe McCoy.

Jayvees Wind Up Campaign With Win Over Grimesland

GRIMESLAND — Coach Bud Phillips' Rose High School Junior Varsity turned back Grimesland 2-0 here yesterday afternoon to finish their 1958 season.

The victory moved the team's mark to 3-1. They have defeated Grimesland twice and topped Roanoke Rapids once. Their one loss was chalked up by Roanoke Rapids.

Yesterday Malcolm Griffin pitched a one-hitter in topping the Grimesland club. For Griffith, yesterday's win was his third of the year against no losses.

Griffith also pitched out two hits for three trips to the plate to pace his club at bat. Larry Roberts had two for four, including a double; Don Joyner had two for two, including a double.

Causton pitched for the losers and was tapped for nine hits by the Jayvees.

Greenville's scoring came in the first and sixth innings. In the opening frame, Roberts led off with a single and scored on another single by Reggie Johnson. In the sixth inning, Norflett Pelton got on with a single and advanced on a wild pitch. Griffith poled a single to score him.

Their only other play this season, besides the games already mentioned, was a scrimmage contest at the first of the season with the Phantomite team (seventh grade) at Greenville Junior High. The Jayvees won, 9-1.

Hitting, Hurling Good Last Night

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Three outstanding pitching performances and lusty hitting by first place Danville highlighted games in the Carolina League last night.

For the second night in a row, Danville's league leaders went on a batting spree. The Leafs collected 11 hits in clubbing Wilson 15-5 at Wilson. Third baseman Jim Burton hit two home runs for Wilson.

Merlin Nipper, 19-year-old right-hander, posted his fifth straight win in pitching Raleigh to a 4-3 win over Burlington at Raleigh. Nipper laced out a bases-loaded double that highlighted a fourth inning uprising which accounted for all Raleigh runs.

Right-hander Rudy Serrett and left Jim Dunn allowed only four hits as Greensboro edged High Point-Thomasville, 2-1 to break a six-game losing streak. It was Greensboro's second win in the past 12 games.

Winston-Salem turned back the Durham Bulls 7-1 at Winston-Salem behind the four-hit pitching of right-hander Roland Passaro. Tonight's games: Danville at Wilson, Winston-Salem at Durham, Greensboro at Hi-Toms, and Burlington at Raleigh.

Strong Man Anderson Fears Nobody, Wants To Meet Patterson

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Anderson is a bull-necked modern Samson from the Georgia hills who, unlike the "top gun" in TV Westerns, is not forever being called upon to prove his reputation.

His reputation: "The strongest man on earth."
"That's quite a title to carry around but nobody seems to want to challenge me," the 24-year-old man mountain from Toccoa, Ga., said today. "Especially Floyd Patterson. I wish he would."

Anderson says he twice has asked the heavyweight boxing champion to meet him in the ring—not in a mixed bout but under Marquis of Queensbury rules—but he adds dolefully in his rich molasses accent: "I don't get anything but silence. I know I can take the champ."

The Olympic heavyweight weightlifting king, now a professional strong man and wrestler, stands only 5-8, yet he carries 360 pounds. His neck size is 24 inches. His chest is 60 inches, not expanded. His arm is 23 1/2 inches around the biceps and his thigh measures 30 1/2 inches.

Anderson's face is framed by coal-black curly hair which grows down the back of his neck. It's almost impossible to tell where his neck ends and shoulders begin. "Aw, there are some guys who try to show me up," the strong man said. "They are cheery trick artists who break nails with their teeth, tear telephone books in two and bend steel pipes."

"But there is only one real test of strength and that is in lifting weights. And in that field, I fear nobody."
Anderson has lifted full-grown horses and fully-equipped automobiles. He has pushed loaded road cars and hoisted an iron safe filled with concrete on his shoulders.

At Las Vegas, he lifted 15,000 silver dollars and offered to give them all to anyone else who could match it. On a New York television show, he raised 20 people on a carousel, the load weighing 4,200 pounds.

He has raised as much as 6,000 pounds off the floor with a belt attached to his wrist. His world weightlifting record is 1,175 pounds in three lifts.

Horses Entered In Preakness Office Today

By JOHN CHANDLER
BALTIMORE (AP)—Trainers of Preakness horses paraded to the Pimlico racing secretary's office today to enter their steeds in Maryland's big three-year-old classic, and the prospects called for the largest field in 30 years.

Jimmy Conway, who trains Talent Show for Mrs. Ada L. Rice of Chicago, beat the gun by telephoning his entry in from New Jersey yesterday. Eleven others headed by the Calumet Farm's Tim Tam, winner of the Kentucky Derby two weeks ago, were expected to be named for the mile and three-sixteenths gallop on Saturday.

With a dozen starters, and the Derby mud an excuse for many of the horses, this 32nd Preakness shapes up as one of the most controversial races since Survivor copped the inaugural in 1873. In 1928, Harry Payne Whitney's Moster defeated 17 rivals—the most ever to start in the Preakness.

In addition to Silky, 12th in the Derby govt, Tim Tam and Talent Show, others in the expected line-up were the Main Chance Farm entry of Jewel's Reward and Liberty Ruler, the Sunny Blue Farm's Lincoln Road, the Crabgrass stable's Noureddin, the Langollen Farm's Gone Fishing, Edward J. Potter Jr.'s Pion, the Powhatan stable's Michore, Mrs. Anna Canull's Chance It Tony, and George Lewis' Martins Rullah.

The Preakness has attracted more horses out of the Louisville event since Hector was a pup. Usually the Preakness has only seven or eight starters. The derby horses with their placings, apart from Tim Tam and Silky, are Lincoln Road (2), Jourdalen (3), Jewel's Reward (4), Martins Rullah (5), Chance It Tony (6), and Gone Fishing (8).

The weatherman predicted fair and mild weather and the presence of the Derby stars plus the lure of come-from-behind Silky probably will mean one of the biggest Pimlico crowds in years. The track has been fast for several days, but whether any horse can manage Nashua's track and Preakness record of 1:54.35 set in 1955 remains to be seen.

No derby winner since Citation, another Calumeteer, added the Preakness black-eyed susans to the roses he collected in Kentucky. That was 10 years ago. Citation then went on to grab the Belmont Stakes, completing the elusive Triple Crown that has been managed by only eight horses in the history of American racing.

The race will get full TV and radio (CBS) treatment on the nationwide network from 4:30-5 p. m. EST.

Late Rally And Errors Account For Landslide

Pepsi-Cola ran away with the Elks, 13-2, yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League baseball game at Elm Street Park.

The game was the second Little League tilt of the season (the campaign opened Wednesday) and the first of the year for the Tar Heel loop.

Pepsi-Cola picked up seven hits and made use of seven Elk errors to nab the victory. Allen and Gidley punched out two baseknocks each to pace the winning club at the plate. Heller, Cannon, and Harper added one each.

Frank Harper handled mound duties for the winning club and gave up only four hits to the Elks. He struck out nine batters in chalking up the win. Harper is a veteran of last year's All-Star club that copped the state championship, and is regarded one of the top potential moundmen in the loop this summer.

Davenport pitched for the losers.

Jim Maloney punched out two of the Elks' four hits and scored one of the two runs. Mullen and Smith added the other two baseknocks.

In the fourth and fifth innings, the Pepsi-Cola club ran amuck, pouring in five runs in each to break the game wide open. Most of the runs were lunched by an over-abundance of errors by the Elks, however, six of the winning team's seven hits also came during that stretch.

Today, at Elm Street, the North State League will take over again and the VFW will battle the Kiwanis at 4:00.

Five of Detroit's eight hits were for extra bases — homers by Gail Harris, Lou Sleater and Frank Bolling and a double and triple by Harvey Kuenn. Billy Hoelt (3-2) lost it although giving up but one hit — a Mickey Vernon liner that cracked the Tiger lefty on the foot and put him out of the game in the third.

Roger Maris drove in three of the first five Cleveland runs, two with a third-inning double and the other with a fifth-inning homer — his fourth in three games. The sophomore outfielder has hit seven homers for the season, six at Detroit.

Myers Park Rates Favorite Today

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Unbeaten Myers Park of Charlotte appeared favored to win the state high school track meet championship here today.

About 40 schools had representatives ready for the qualifying rounds during the morning, with entries coming from three sectional meets last week in Charlotte, Raleigh and Burlington.

Myers Park won the western section crown in Charlotte. Durham was the eastern champion. Reynolds took the central section title at Burlington.

Rose Seeking Crown Today

Rose High School seeks a baseball title here this afternoon, the first in its history.

The Phantomites, playing their first season under the Rose banner, have chalked up nine North-eastern Conference victories against only one loss. They put it all on the line this afternoon when they play host to Kinston's Red Devils at Brookgreen Field.

Kinston, which is 9-2 in Conference play, will be attempting to wrestle the league lead from the Phants. Today's game will be the last of the season for the Devils and a win would throw the loop into a tie, giving both teams 9-2 marks. However, Greenville has a rained-out date to make up with Elizabeth City—there—and that game could well decide the championship.

Greenville defeated Kinston earlier this season on the Kinston field behind the stingy hurling of righthander Merrill Bynum. Coach Bo Farley, seeking his first baseball title in many years now, will send Bynum against them again this afternoon.

Bob Clark, whom the Phantomites pulverized in Kinston in that first meeting, has been given the starting nod for the Devils this afternoon. Game time is 3:30.

Time For Redlegs To Make Decision

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
The time has come for those Cincinnati Redlegs to decide whether they are to be contented in that National League penant race. They open a four-game series at home against the world champion Milwaukee Braves tonight.

It was a year ago today that the Redlegs busted into the NL lead for a stay of almost a month. Now they're fifth, 5 1/2 games behind Milwaukee.

The Redlegs lost 18 of 22 with Milwaukee a year ago and have lost four of five to the champs this season.

It was a three-game sweep by the Braves last weekend in Milwaukee that started the Redlegs on a five-game losing streak that didn't end until they managed a 9-4 victory over Pittsburgh yesterday.

The Braves were trailing 3-1 when last night's game was postponed by first-inning rain at Philadelphia. That left Milwaukee in shaky command of first place — by .024 percentage points over the San Francisco Giants, who ended the St. Louis Cardinals' winning streak at seven, 4-2.

Last place Los Angeles ended its losing streak at six — longest since 1950 for the Dodgers — with an 11-inning, 4-2 victory at Chicago.

The Redlegs had to come from behind at Pittsburgh after leading 3-0. George Crowe drove in five runs for the Reds, clotting a two-run homer in the seventh for a 5-4 edge that ended the Pirates' winning string at six.

Bob Friend lost his second against five victories, leaving in a four-run ninth capped by Crowe's two-run single.

Willie Mays hit his ninth homer, eighth in six games for a 1-0 lead in the first for the Giants and Jim Davenport's triple made it 3-0 in the second as unbeaten Mike McCormick won his third with relief help. Lindy McDaniel lost his third in five decisions although the Cards outlit the Giants 11-9.

Stan Musial was 0-for-4, losing 21 points for a 479 average. Eddie Matthews' double and single by Hank Aaron gave the Braves a run against Jack San- shaky command of first place — by .024 percentage points over the San Francisco Giants, who ended the St. Louis Cardinals' winning streak at seven, 4-2.

Low Burdette for three runs on four hits and a walk before the rains came.

Trujillo Not First Of The Hollywood Invaders

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Lt. Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr. is not the first dashing foreigner to sway the hearts of Hollywood's glamor girls, nor will he be the last.

Few have been as lavish as young Trujillo, with his gifts of costly cars to Kim Novak and Zsa Zsa Gabor. Few have been as secretive. Either Kim is a better actress than the critics say—or else she was genuinely surprised when I told her in San Francisco that her steady date had a wife and six children.

Gloria Swanson can be credited with starting the foreign invasion. In 1926, she returned from Europe in triumph, with her new husband, Marquis de la Falaise de la Courdry. The union lasted five years, after which Constance Bennett took over as the marquise.

The marquis was followed by the marrying Mdivanis. These were three handsome, romantic sons of a Mohammedan Bey of Georgia, a Caucasus state in old Russia. The princes married and divorced often, usually to famous and wealthy women. Among the matches: Serge—Fola Negri; David—Mae Murray; Alexis—Barbara Hutton.

Sudden death took two of the princes—Serge at polo and Alexis in a Spanish auto crash. David has lived quietly in recent years as husband of the adopted daughter of oilman Harry Sinclair.

Aly Khan created plenty of news with his international courtship of Rita Hayworth, their marriage, their divorce. His romances have included other dolls, such as Gene Tierney and Kim Novak (that name again).

A chance meeting in a Hollywood night club led to marriage for Nancy Valentine and the Maharajah of Cooch Behar. But the maharajah couldn't sell the home folks on the idea. After a few years, Nancy had the union annulled because India wouldn't recognize it.

The courtship of Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier of Monaco was conducted on a dignified level. Their romance blossomed in France and the prince pursued his suit here.

Then there was Porfirio Rubirosa, who appears to have been the Mdivanis wrapped up into one. The marrying countryman of Gen. Trujillo conducted a well-publicized romance with Zsa Zsa Gabor (her again?). She claimed they were engaged at one point but he drifted off to other matters.

Medal Awarded

PORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — An act of heroism during a parachute jump here last October has brought the award of the Soldier's Medal — this country's highest award for peacetime valor — to a paratrooper in the 82nd Airborne Division.

Pfc. Kenneth L. McWilliams will be presented the medal at the Fort Bragg Armed Forces Day retreat-review tomorrow. The 23-year-old McWilliams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee McWilliams, Carthage, Mo.

The award was directed by President Eisenhower, based upon the report of McWilliams' actions fabled parachute of a fellow jumper and held it until the one had descended safely on two 'chute.

Bullet-Riddled Body Is Located

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — The bullet-riddled body of a 70-year-old Chatham County merchant was found nine miles north of here last night, touching off a wide search for his killer or killers.

The victim was C. O. Nodine, who operated a service station-store five miles from Sanford. He had been shot three times and his wallet was missing.

His body was found in a clump of bushes some 300 yards south of Deep River, about eight miles from his place of business.

Sheriff D. F. Holder said, "It looked as if his assailant drove up in the woods on an old road, dragged him a short distance and then shot him to death."

A search had been launched for Nodine after officers expressed fear that he might have been killed. When officers arrived at his station Wednesday morning, they found the front and back doors open, a coffee pot still percolating and a cash register empty except for a small check and a few pennies. Money bags were on the floor.

Chatham County Sheriff John W. Emerson said Nodine was last seen earlier at his service station.

First Look At 1958 For Refugee Group

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A shiny piece of glass, framed into a big box, suddenly came alive. Figures appeared on it, and sounds came forth.

Eighty-two refugees looked at the box in awe, then broke into smiles and laughter.

The 82 — members of a centuries-old Russian sect — had taken their first look at television. The people are called Old Believers. They flew to Los Angeles yesterday from Hong Kong, on their way from Communist China to what they hope will be a permanent home in Brazil.

They went from Russia to China in the 1920s to escape persecution for their religious beliefs. They left China to escape their Communist overlords.

"These are a 100 per cent pure people," said a translator assigned them by the Federation of Russian Charitable Organizations.

"They are a country people. They don't drink or smoke, don't use coffee or tea, and the men don't shave."

"They rise at dawn and go to bed at sunset."

The 82 White Russians are the first of 490 Old Believers being moved from China to Brazil by the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration, the United Nations and the World Council of Churches. The rest are at Hong Kong.

At the airport they glimpsed their first helicopter — and stood transfixed. At suburban Wilmington, where they are staying while awaiting departure Saturday, firemen invited the children to examine their fire engines. A newspaper is arranging to take them to Disneyland.

There are 15 men, 18 women, 14 teen-agers and 35 children in the pioneering group.

Organizers Win Their Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organizers for the AFL-CIO have won their fight for an election to seek to establish their union as bargaining agent in wage negotiations with the labor federation.

The National Labor Relations Board yesterday rejected unanimously the argument of AFL-CIO officers that their organizers are managerial employees, not entitled to bargaining rights under the Taft-Hartley Act.

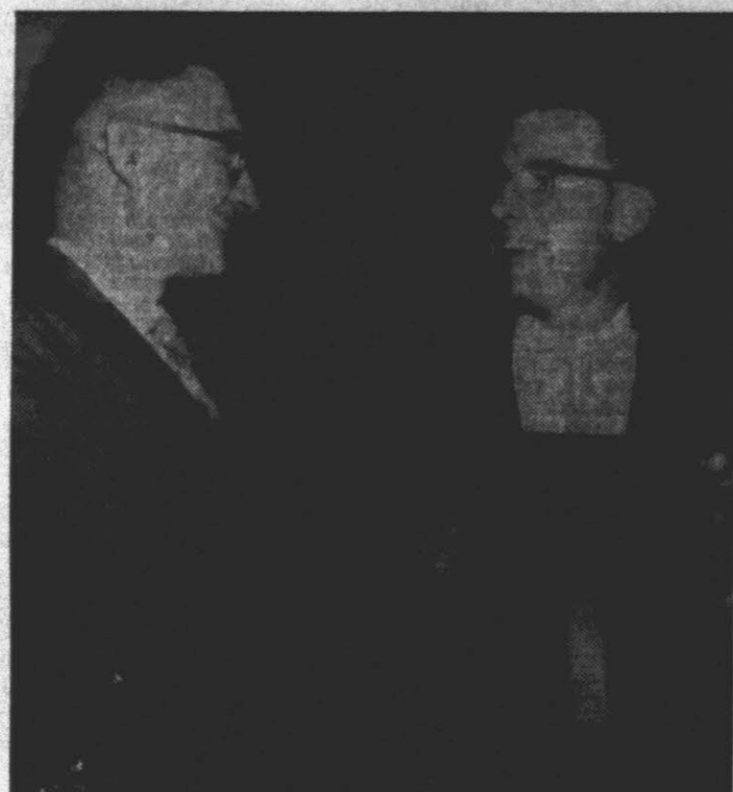

The board ordered a secret election within 30 days. AFL-CIO organizers, working out of 23 field offices across the country, will vote on whether they wish to be represented by the Field Representatives Federation in bargaining with their employer, the AFL-CIO's Department of Organization.

The NLRB ruled that these organizers are not management representatives of the federation but are the "production workers" of the Department of Organization. The organizers do not make policy, the board held, even though they have limited authority to bargain and sign contracts on behalf of local unions, to represent the federation to the public, and to incur bills in the name of the AFL-CIO.

"The board has long held that the authority to sign an agreement binding on an employer does not confer managerial status on an employee," the NLRB held.

Two United States mammals which are threatened by extinction, says the National Geographic Society, are the key deer of Florida and the black-footed ferret.

PRESENTS PLAQUE—David Whichard presents a plaque to outgoing Jaycee president Bill Taylor. The plaque was presented for the first time last night. Similar awards were given to past presidents of the club who are still active. The awards were made during Installation night ceremonies last night.

CHAPTER 10

I poured tomato juice into a big glass dumped in ice, Worcester-shire sauce and lemon, and started putting out the fire in my throat.

Barclay Fisher was looking at Dutton's painting with an expression of fascinated incredulity.

"Want some?" I asked Fisher, indicated the tomato juice.

He shook his head. "I had some coffee before I came up. I don't want anything else. . . . Lam, I'm worried about this thing."

"I gathered you were."

"We're fighting for time."

I nodded.

"All right," he said. "You say that blackmail always comes in installments. The first payment is only the first installment."

Again I nodded.

"But," he said, "we could pay the blackmail and gain time."

I poured another tomato juice, squeezed in a lemon, put in a good slug of Worcester-shire sauce, and said, "blackmail."

"What is it?"

"I'm not sure, but I think it's a problem for a psychoanalyst."

"What do you mean?"

I said, "My guess is that Cadott has done something that is bothering him. He doesn't dare to confess to it, yet he can't get any peace of mind as long as he thinks he's a sinner. Therefore, he has built up a complex which makes him want to publicize the sins of everyone else, on the theory that he'll convince himself he's no worse than anyone else."

"The psychologists probably have a name for it. I don't know what it is. I'd call it an attempt to make atonement. The guy has become a self-righteous crusader."

"Well?" Fisher asked.

"When a man's conscience be-gins to bother him to that extent, he's well on the way to confession. I wouldn't be too surprised if I could talk Cadott into telling me what's really on his mind, what makes him such a self-righteous crusader."

"And then you'd be able to hold that over his head?" Fisher asked.

"I don't mean anything of the sort," I said. "I think if Cadott would spill whatever it is that's in the back of his own conscious-ness, he'd get over some of this crusing and be willing to take life more the way he finds it. Then he could make Lois happy and quit being a pain in the neck."

"You must have some informa-tion that I don't have, Lam."

"Why not?" I asked. "You hired me to get it, didn't you?"

"You haven't told me about it."

"Figure it out for yourself," I told him. "Here's a guy with a holier-than-thou attitude who falls in love with a babe who likes gay life and laughter? He has spells of being human, then spells when he becomes self-righteous, dot, and has all the disagreeable, fan-tastical qualities of the crusading reformer."

"He feels that you have investi-gated Lois Marlow into an uncon-ventional situation, and he writes you a letter that he is going to tear your reputation limb from limb. He is going to expose you. He is going to make Lois Marlow acknowledge her sins, and you your perjury."

"I come up to talk with the guy, and he goes into hiding. Now, how do you fit all that together?"

"I can't," he said at length.

"Neither can I," I told him, "except on the theory that what he has on you is just chicken feed. The guy has become emotionally unstable. If he's written you that sort of letter, he's probably made threats to other guys."

"What does that mean?"

"It might mean a lot. It de-pends on what he has on those other guys."

I drank more tomato juice.

"Well," Fisher said, "I admit that your idea sounds plausible, but I still can't get over feeling that it would be better to pay this man off."

"All right," I said. "I'll go along with you this far: If it's black-mail, you can stall for time until we can find the answer. Personal-ly, I don't think it's blackmail."

"Where's your bag?"

"Downstairs. I'll get a room, and I'll see you at . . . at eight o'clock. We'll have breakfast and then go to Vallejo to see Cadott."

I shook my head. "You'll see me at seven-thirty," I said. "We'll have breakfast, and we leave here at eight."

"Very well, seven-thirty."

Fisher went out. I took my clothes off, climbed into a bath-tub of lukewarm water, soaked there for twenty minutes, got up, dried off, shaved, looked at my rumpled suit, asked the bell cap-tain if I could have it pressed and back in my room by six-forty-five, was assured that I could, took the things out of the pockets, sent the suit out to be pressed, and fin-ished up the last of the tomato juice. By that time I felt water-logged.

"Sun Over The Sahara" made my optic nerves register a protest and brought back disagree-able memories. I turned the pic-ture to the wall, sent down and got the newspapers, read for a while, dozed for a bit, and was awakened by the strident ring-ing of the telephone bell at seven o'clock. I got hold of the bell cap-tain and was referred to the valet. My suit wasn't ready. The valet explained that he didn't come on until seven o'clock and that it would be impossible to have the suit, before seven-thirty. I did a little cursing over the telephone and got him to promise to rush it along. I extracted a clean shirt and underwear out of my suitcase. I fixed the rest in a package of laundry which I sent down when the suit came back at seven-twenty. I was down in the coffee shop at seven-thirty.

Fisher was seated at the counter drinking coffee.

"Hello," I said. "You beat me to it."

He looked at me with helpless resignation. "I couldn't sleep," he said.

"How long have you been down here?"

"It opened at six-thirty," he said. "I've been here since then."

NEW YORK—Stock market prices pursued an uneven course in moderately active trading early this afternoon.
Most changes of key stocks were slight. Small gains and losses peppered the major groupings. A few stocks went a point or so to the plus side.

The lower-priced issues continued active and posted some small gains. Market leadership by these cheerier issues, however, was not reassuring to investors.
Steels, coppers, chemicals, farm implements and oils were mixed while rails were off a bit on average.

Bell Aircraft put its dividend to 35 cents from 50 cents and the stock had a belated opening, down 1 1/2% at 17 1/2 on 2,500 shares.
The market as a whole was slightly higher at the start with many issues unchanged. Prices became pretty generally scrambled as the session wore on.

Youngstown Sheet dropped about a point. Gains of about a point were made by United Aircraft, Allied Chemical and Haver, Polaris rose 1/4 to 64 1/2 on a block of 4,000 shares.
American Motors remained a favorite and added a fraction. Continental Motors and Solar Aircraft also rose slightly. U.S. Industries and Studebaker-Packard were about unchanged. Zenith was down about a point.

U.S. Steel, Chrysler, Goodrich, Caterpillar, Boeing, Du Pont, Consolidated Natural Gas, General Electric, Lorillard, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Loew's and Twentieth Century-Fox made small gains.
International Harvester, Kennecott, Union Carbide, American Tobacco, Texas Co., Royal Dutch and Eastern Air Lines declined slightly.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 10 cents to $167.60 with the industrials down 10 cents, the rails down 20 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

Reciprocal Trade Program Passes First Voting Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's embattled program for a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade law has passed its first big congressional test.

The administration trade bill is still a long way from enactment. A big battle looms when the measure goes to the House for consideration next week. Then it must clear the Senate.
With Democratic leaders cracking the whip, the House Ways and Means Committee late yesterday completed action on an administration-approved compromise that would give Eisenhower virtually all of his basic requests.
It was an initial victory for the President, who has said repeatedly that U.S. restrictions on world trade would play into Communist hands.

As approved by the committee, the bill includes a five-year continuation of the trade program beyond June 30, with authority to lower U.S. tariffs up to 25 per cent more in negotiations of international trade agreements.
With it, however, went a precedent-setting provision for congressional review of the President's tariff authority. The administration accepted this provision, but foes of the program labeled it a fraud and "phantom gimmick."

With Democratic leaders in control, the compromise bill is expected to win final House approval by next Wednesday.
House high tariff forces, with heavy support from both Democrats and Republicans, joined in backing a substitute which in effect would strip Eisenhower of his tariff lowering authority and vest trade powers in Congress itself.
The strategy of reciprocal trade foes was to try to block the House from considering the compromise bill through adoption of procedure making the protectionist substitute the order of business.

As a major concession to trade foes, the administration agreed that Congress should have the right to veto the President's refusal to raise tariffs where the Tariff Commission finds that imports threaten economic injury to American business. It would require a two-thirds vote of both House and Senate to override the President.
In the view of reciprocal trade supporters, the two-thirds vote would be difficult to muster, with the probable result that the President's authority would be virtually unimpaired.
Coupled with the veto provision, the compromise bill would also strengthen provisions for industry relief where imports are found to threaten national security.

The committee defeated 14-10 a move by Rep. Frank Bard (D-Tex.) to impose mandatory quotas on certain oil and mineral imports deemed to be of defense importance. This would have limited imports of crude oil and petroleum products, fluorspar, lead, zinc, tungsten and copper.

Candidates Will Be On Television

First in a planned series of "Meet the Candidates" television programs sponsored by the Greenville League of Women Voters will be held Sunday at 2:30.

Sunday's program, and subsequent ones, will be carried over WNCN. The first show will bring together J. Henry Harrell and Robert Lee Humber, candidates for Pitt County's seat in the 1959 State Senate.

A spokesman for the League, a non-partisan organization, said both men will give their answers to two previously prepared questions and then answer questions from the audience. The spokesman added that questions from the television audience will be screened before presentation to Harrell and Humber.
Second program in the series, scheduled for May 25, is expected to include the two candidates for County Commissioner from the fifth district, B. Alton Gardner and R. Guy Jackson; and the three candidates for Sheriff, Ruel Tyson, Sam Whitehurst and Ben Forrest Jr.

The sponsoring League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization.

Crest Tomorrow For Neuse River

KINSTON, N.C. (AP)—Calmed by a period of fair weather, the Neuse River today showed an overnight gain of only inches.
The Weather Bureau predicted the Neuse would crest here tomorrow at a little more than 19 feet, nearly two feet short of an earlier forecast.

Plentiful sunshine during the week was credited with curbing the river's rise, and lessening the flooding threat to homes in the nearby Happersville community. About 30 families already have moved in with relatives and friends.
The Neuse at Kinston measured 18.45 feet this morning, up only a little more than half a foot from yesterday.

At Goldsboro, the Neuse stood at 21.40 feet and was falling slowly.

Meanwhile, at Tarboro on the Tar River, waters which flooded low sections of the town and adjoining Princeville, were falling rapidly. This morning, the river was at a depth of 20.70 feet, nearly 10 feet under its maximum flood stage, and down nearly four feet from yesterday.
Princeville and Tarboro residents who moved out to escape the flood waters were expected to begin returning to their muddy homes today and tomorrow.

Dixie's Destiny Will Be Topic For Editors

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—A panel discussion on "Dixie's Destiny" will be the opening feature tonight for the ninth annual North Carolina Conference of Editorial Writers.
Editor J. J. Kilpatrick of the Richmond, Va., News Leader and editor Harry Golden of the Carolina Israelite will talk on the South's future.

State Adj. Gen. Capus Waynick, head of the North Carolina National Guard, will speak at a Saturday luncheon, along with Hugh Haynie, editorial cartoonist for the Greensboro Daily News.
Reviews of editorial pages of the state's newspapers will be conducted at a Saturday morning session. Prof. Kenneth Byerly of the University of North Carolina School of Journalism will criticize the non-daily papers, and associate Editor Robert H. Mason of the Norfolk, Va., Virginian-Pilot will do the job for dailies.
Murray Kempton, columnist for the New York Post, will be principal speaker at a Saturday night meeting.

Hal Tribble of the Charlotte Observer is conference chairman. Cecil Prince, editor of the Charlotte News, is program chairman.
