"There is no doubt in my mind that the Reciprocal Trade Bill will be renewed."

Starfighter Jet Flies Highest, Fastest Of All

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Nine days after a Lockheed F10 A Starfighter flew the highest, another Air Force plane of the same type flew the fastest.

The Starfighter—the famous "Missile with a man in it"—yesterday set the second international record of the month: A speed mark of 1404.19 m.p.h.

Earlier a Starfighter set an altitude record for conventional aircraft of 91,249 feet.

The speed mark was set by Capt. Walker W. Irwin, 34, over the Mojave Desert some 5 miles north of Los Angeles. He followed the exacting rules of the National Aeronautic Assn., which is submitting the new record for official world-wide recognition.

The Starfighter, with wings only 7 1/2 feet long, is an operational fighter. Both Captain Irwin and Maj. Howard C. Johnson, 38, who set the altitude record, are members of the F104A-equipped 83rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base, near San Francisco.

On his record speed run, Captain Irwin flew twice through a 10.1 mile speed trap at 40,000 feet. The record was the average of the two trips, one downwind, one upwind.

Captain Irwin was in the air only 20 minutes, requiring about 20 seconds to set the record. But it took four hours to process, analyze and tabulate the data before the speed record was certified by the Air Force and the NAA.

The NAA is the U.S. member of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, to which it will forward the data for international approval.

Judge Julius A. Rousseau Dies

WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP)—Superior Court Judge Julius A. Rousseau of North Wilkesboro suffered a heart attack and died in a hospital here early today.

The veteran jurist was stricken at his home in North Wilkesboro at 3 a.m. and rushed to the Wilkes County hospital where he died at 5 a.m.

Rousseau had been resident jurist of the 23rd Judicial District since 1934. He recently announced he would be a candidate for reelection. Robert M. Gambrell, a North Wilkesboro attorney, also had announced the first time in 20 years Judge Rousseau had received opposition in a Democratic primary.

Rousseau's death: 46-50 primary. The 67-year-old judge's most famous recent case was the trial of Frank Edward Wetzel. Wetzel was convicted of the first degree murder of State Highway Patrolman W. L. Reece. He was given life imprisonment on the jury's recommendation of mercy.

'Inspired', So Gave Self Up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Edward Bryant Castlen, 42, a cook from Brookline, Fla., wanted for passing a bad check, surrendered to the FBI yesterday.

He told agents he gave up because evangelist Billy Graham inspired him to "get right with the world."

He said he had jumped bail on a federal grand jury indictment in September 1956 charging him with interstate transportation of a forged $33.40 check.

DeGaulle's Legislative Leader Slips Away; Scores Of Arrests

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's top legislative lieutenant slipped into the Gaullist stronghold of Algeria today as Premier Pierre Pflimlin struggled against rightists at home.

The arrival of Jacques Soustelle, who had been held incommunicado in Paris after trying to fly to Algeria earlier this week, was announced by radio Algiers. His arrival was expected to put new pressure on Pflimlin to reach a settlement with De Gaulle's supporters.

De Gaulle himself announced he will come to Paris Monday from his country home and hold a news conference. He is expected to clarify his statement of Thursday offering to assume full power in France, an offer that deepened the grave political crisis.

Embattled Premier Pflimlin, facing the grim prospect of rioting by rightists tonight, sent a special envoy to De Gaulle's home village of Colombey-les-Deux-Églises, 150 miles from Paris.

The envoy, Marcel Diebold, talked with De Gaulle's military aide but did not see the general himself. Presumably, Pflimlin was seeking clarification of De Gaulle's role in the crisis prior to Monday's news conference.

Armed Forces Day Widely Observed Across Carolina

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
With parades, speeches, demonstrations and displays, today, North Carolinians observed Armed Forces Day—in a cold war world.

At Ft. Bragg, about 600 paratroopers of the Army's 82nd Airborne Division dove from planes, their parachutes billowing. With them comes a 6,000 pound loaded platform, it too swinging beneath a parachute.

(A few hours earlier, a 3,000-pound Sputnik, made in Russia, sped across North Carolina, scores of miles in space.)

Camp Lejeune held open house, inviting visitors to see the latest Marine equipment. Among attractions was a display of Marine uniforms dating back to the War of 1812.

(Only yesterday, some 400 combat-equipped Marines returned to Camp Lejeune from the Caribbean where they had rushed to be on call for Vice President Nixon.

Eight-Year-Old Gayle Briley Dies In Hospital

Eight-year-old Gayle Briley, victim of an illness which has baffled medical experts for the past seven months, died last night in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Gayle, only child of Mr. and Mrs. J. Erastus Briley of 2103 S. Village Drive, had been a patient at the hospital for eight weeks when she was pronounced dead at 11 p.m. Her death came less than 24 hours before the beginning of a campaign to raise funds to help defray her medical expenses.

Sponsors of the "Gayle Briley Fund", established Thursday by the Eastern Pines Men's Club, will proceed with plans for a broad sale throughout the county tonight. All proceeds from the sale and other donations sent to Greenville Post Office Box 367 will go into a special fund to pay medical expenses incurred by the child while she was ill.

Funeral services for Gayle will be conducted tomorrow at 4 p.m. at the Wilkerson Chapel by the Rev. N. B. Hill, pastor of the Robersonville Methodist Church. The Rev. Mr. Hill will be assisted by the Rev. J. J. Grimes, pastor of Salem Methodist Church where Gayle attended Sunday School.

Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. Gayle spent all her life stricken with an illness that medical experts throughout the nation have been unable to diagnose. After becoming ill, she was enrolled in a private school where she stayed until about two months ago when she was admitted to Duke University for treatment. She was transferred to Pitt Memorial Hospital after 11 days at Duke.

Survivors in addition to her parents are her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Briley of Simpson, and Mr. and Mrs. Thad J. Williams of Greenville.

Gayle's affliction attracted nationwide attention but medical experts and 25 leading pathological laboratories have said they could diagnose it only as being similar to a soft-tissue tumor. Specimens of growths which appeared on her body are scheduled to be examined by several European laboratories.

Suspect Russian Sputnik Ailing

SUNNVALE, Calif. (AP)—Is Russia's Sputnik III out of whack? This question was asked by C.R. Moe, group leader at the communications laboratory of the Lockheed Missile System Division, which monitors space satellites here.

Moe said on two passes over this area last night the big moonlet appeared not to be transmitting normally.

"Both times our calculations and figures from the Smithsonian Institute indicated the satellite should have been high in the sky and its signals very strong and clear," said Moe. The second time, they were not heard at all.

"It sounds somewhat like the other two Sputniks did when they began to slow down and stop sending," Moe said.

Club Hears Mrs. Little

FALKLAND—"Looking across the fields, seeing beautiful green trees and shrubs, gives the urge to gather green vegetables for the garden for good eating and better health," said Mrs. Lillie Little, home agent, at the Falkland HD Club meeting.

She gave a vivid picture of the importance of eating green vegetables and proper foods, including milk and eggs. While preparing a tossed salad, she baked a casserole.

In Order That Pitt May Compete

Two weeks from today Pitt Countians will go to the polls to make a decision of importance equal to that involved in the election of public officials.

Voters of the county will decide whether Pitt will join other progressive counties of North Carolina in setting up machinery to promote the economic welfare of this county. Voters decide whether Pitt should levy a special tax used for furthering the industrial and agricultural development of the county.

Certainly those citizens of the county who are interested in Pitt's economic growth will support the proposal special development tax levy. It is a foregone conclusion that those areas which are not equipped with professional help in this age of expanding industrial economic will not keep pace with the economic development of other areas. Through the proposal program for Pitt, the county can have its own industrial and economic development commission which will work with every section of the county. From such efforts we can expect to accelerate the expansion of home-grown industry in connection with our agriculture, and we may expect to attract the location of industries from other areas.

Without such a program Pitt has little hope of competing economically with other areas of North Carolina.

Many years ago Pitt County recognized its economic shortcomings and the great potential it possessed

No Fireworks At Demo Rally

By LYNN NISBET

DISAPPOINTED — A lot of people were disappointed in the Democratic State convention. The predicted 3,000 attendance fell to a bare 2,000. The promise of interesting developments and scraps among the delegates did not materialize. The whole business was so uninteresting as to be lackadaisical.

The nearest approach to real argument came in the fifth district meeting over a proposal to take some representation on the State executive committee from the small counties and give it to Forsyth on basis of population and voting strength. That argument failed to arouse as much heat as futile debates on reapportionment in recent Legislatures.

When Chairman John D. Larkins Jr. called the convention to order at five minutes after twelve, the auditorium held fewer than 1500 people. By the time the distinguished guests on the platform were introduced the audience had grown to some 2,000, and when the keynote speaker took the microphone it dwindled again.

There was no enthusiasm for or against anybody or anything. Governor Hodges was given a round of polite applause when he was presented. About the same recognition was given to Senator Sam Ervin, Senator Everett Jordan (both of whom spoke briefly) and members of the congressional delegation and the Council of State.

Speakers were interrupted occasionally by spontaneous applause which never approached an ovation. Like when Governor Hodges endorsed popular election of judges and Senator Ervin referred to President Eisenhower being on the Burning Tree golf course. Vice President Nixon in South America, John Foster Dulles up in the air—and nobody running the government.

DISSATISFIED — It required no particular astuteness on the part of convention observers to recognize that which the apathy might be deep-rooted. The harmony was only on the surface. Undercurrents of dissatisfaction and resentment were strong, although it often was difficult to discover just what was resented.

The conventioners very definitely did not think much of any short ballot idea. Resolutions opposing the suggestion that judges should be appointed instead of elected by the people afforded opportunity to speak out in public. In off-side conversations there were many suggestions that instead of reducing the number of executive and judicial officers to be elected, some presently appointive positions should be made elective. These included the places as director of conservation, development, commissioner of revenue and chief administrator of the highway department — whether called a chairman or a director.

TRIPLE-PLAY — Senator Everett Jordan confessed some embarrassment because of his role at the convention. He recalled that as state chairman and national committeeman he had participated in many previous meetings of this kind. For the first time he was appearing as a public office holder and a candidate in three campaigns for election. He is seeking nomination by the executive committee to go on the ballot this fall for the unexpired term in the Senate, must make the campaign against Republicans, and then in the Senate, must make the campaign against Republicans, and then is already running for nomination for a full term in 1960. He emphasized that there is no doubt about the 1960 item, thus laying to rest any thought that he is just a "seat warmer" for a couple years.

WOMEN — Reports from precinct meetings and county conventions had indicated unusual participation by women voters. The women were noticeably missing among the state convention delegates. Political meetings, especially those away from home, are still regarded as the business of menfolk in North Carolina.

PREDICTIONS — A number of candidates for district offices were on hand, but a lot of others were noticeable by their absence. They are at home working for votes. Conversations with a number of people from the affected areas lead to conclusions justifying these predictions:

Alton Lennon will easily win reelection for congress in the seventh district over Caswell Britt. Ralph Scott will be nominated for a second term in the fifth district, but may have a run-off with Winfield Blackwell. George Shuford has a chance, perhaps a little less than even, to win renomination in the 12th district over four opponents in the first primary. A run-off with Heinz Rollman may be necessary. Dave Clark is rated a sure winner over Marvin Ritch in the tenth district.

George Patton, former special judge and attorney general, has better than even odds chance over Thad Bryson, long time solicitor, for the judgeship in the far western mountain district — but no landslide majority. Judicial races between incumbent judges William Bickett in Wake county and challenger W.K. McLean; Heman Clark in Cumberland-Hoke and challenger W.K. McLean; Heman Clark in Cumberland-Hoke and challenger Seavy Carroll are in the laps of the gods too close for forecasts. Other incumbent judges faced with opposition seem reasonably safe.

as an agricultural county. It began a program whereby local tax money was spent each year for the employment of agricultural specialists to work with the farmers of the county. That program has developed into the Farm Agent and Home Agent's offices which provide constant assistance to farmers for improving their crops and their farm programs.

Is it not now time that the people of Pitt County recognize that the county also possesses a great potential for industrial development? In view of the fact that agriculture in Pitt County has been greatly improved through the work of agricultural specialists hired with county funds, is it not logical that Pitt can also benefit through spending a limited amount of tax funds for developing other segments of its economy?

The proposed county-wide economic development program would help every segment of the economy of Pitt. The establishment of processing plants, produce markets and other operations allied with our agriculture would afford farmers of the county new markets and new sources of revenue for their farming operation. At the same time these would provide more jobs for people of the county, and thus enable more people to earn a living wage. As Pitt County attracts through such a program other industries more jobs would be provided and more vigorous, better balanced economy for the entire county would develop.

In terms of more jobs, better incomes, and better living conditions individual taxpayers of the county would be repaid many-fold for the additional three-cent tax levy proposed for the development program. From the county's standpoint increased valuations brought about by more industrial plants, machinery, new businesses and the like would be reflected in more revenues with which to operate the county government without increasing the tax rate.

Pitt stands at the very threshold of great economic development. Either it will plunge forward by providing itself with the facilities for county-wide economic development program, or it will lag back and see its economic situation stagnate while other areas of North Carolina forge ahead to higher plateaus enjoying greater prosperity.

The decision is up to the voters of Pitt County. The Reflector strongly urges the people of this county to vote in favor of the proposed county-wide tax levy for economic development when they go to the polls on May 31.

Proud Of Our Family In Uniform? Of Course

On this Armed Forces Day Americans everywhere are paying tribute to the men and women in uniform who stand guard against dangers both real and potential.

Something that we sometimes forget: America's military team, unlike that of most other countries, is basically civilian in heritage, spirit and tradition. They come from your family, from a neighbor's family . . . they come from countless communities all over the country just like Greenville, Farmville, Ayden, Bethel or Winterville.

Their months and years of service haven't changed them; they're the same people, with a special kind of training needed to suit them for the biggest kind of national crisis . . . that of survival.

Proud of them? They are our sons, brothers, uncles, fathers, daughters and sisters. Naturally we're proud.

One Surprise After Another

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — We need some shock absorbers to help us withstand sudden surprises.

Twice in less than a year this country has been dealt bewildering shocks for which it was unprepared.

If they could happen — in the way they happened — perhaps we're in for more shocks undreamed of yet.

Both shook American self-confidence — good, in a way, since there's so much complacency in the self-confidence — but both damaged confidence in America abroad.

Within eight months these were the shocks:

1. The sudden realization — when the Russians lofted their first Sputnik last October — that they were ahead of us in rocket development.

2. Now the sudden realization — after the treatment given Vice President Nixon in Latin America — that there is some intense, violent anti-Americanism there.

The Sputnik surprise stunned the country into critical, painful self-examination. The Nixon episode will do the same.

There was a Senate investigation of our missile program to find out what we needed to catch up. The result: intensified effort.

Now Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) will lead a Senate investigation into why we were not more fully aware of the anti-American feeling in Latin America.

Mines For A Seeker

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The magic of diamonds is rearing its unpredictable head again in Arkansas.

"Diamond mine for lease $5," a newspaper advertisement here read.

You won't get rich quickly if you lease the "mine." What you'll have is one square foot of greenish black earth near Murfreesboro — in hilly southwest Arkansas — plus the privilege of searching several nearby acres for diamonds.

Diamond hunting on the neighboring field has been active for years. There you can pay a visitor's fee and scratch around all day for the precious stones.

The "$5 lease" ad is merely a new twist in the scramble to lure tourists, the only group doing any diamond digging these days.

It was not always so. The diamond emblem on the Arkansas stage flag is a mute reminder of the unknown wealth and the shattered dreams the gems once brought.

Huddleston lost no time in selling his land to a group of Little Rock men for $36,000.

Commercial firms waded into the virgin 72-acre field with varying degrees of success. Estimates of the number of diamonds produced range from 5,000 to 50,000 — there are no accurate records.

One night in 1919 two diamond plants on adjoining tracts went up in flames under mysterious circumstances. That just about ended diamond mining on a large scale.

The last full year of digging in 1948-49 yielded only 246 carats of industrial diamonds worth a total of $985.

Tourists, digging against the backdrop of a few decrepit sheds in the area, have had better luck.

The last publicized find was by a Dallas housewife who in 1956 chanced on a 1 1/2 carat rough diamond appraised as high as $15,000. The governor christened it the Star of Arkansas.

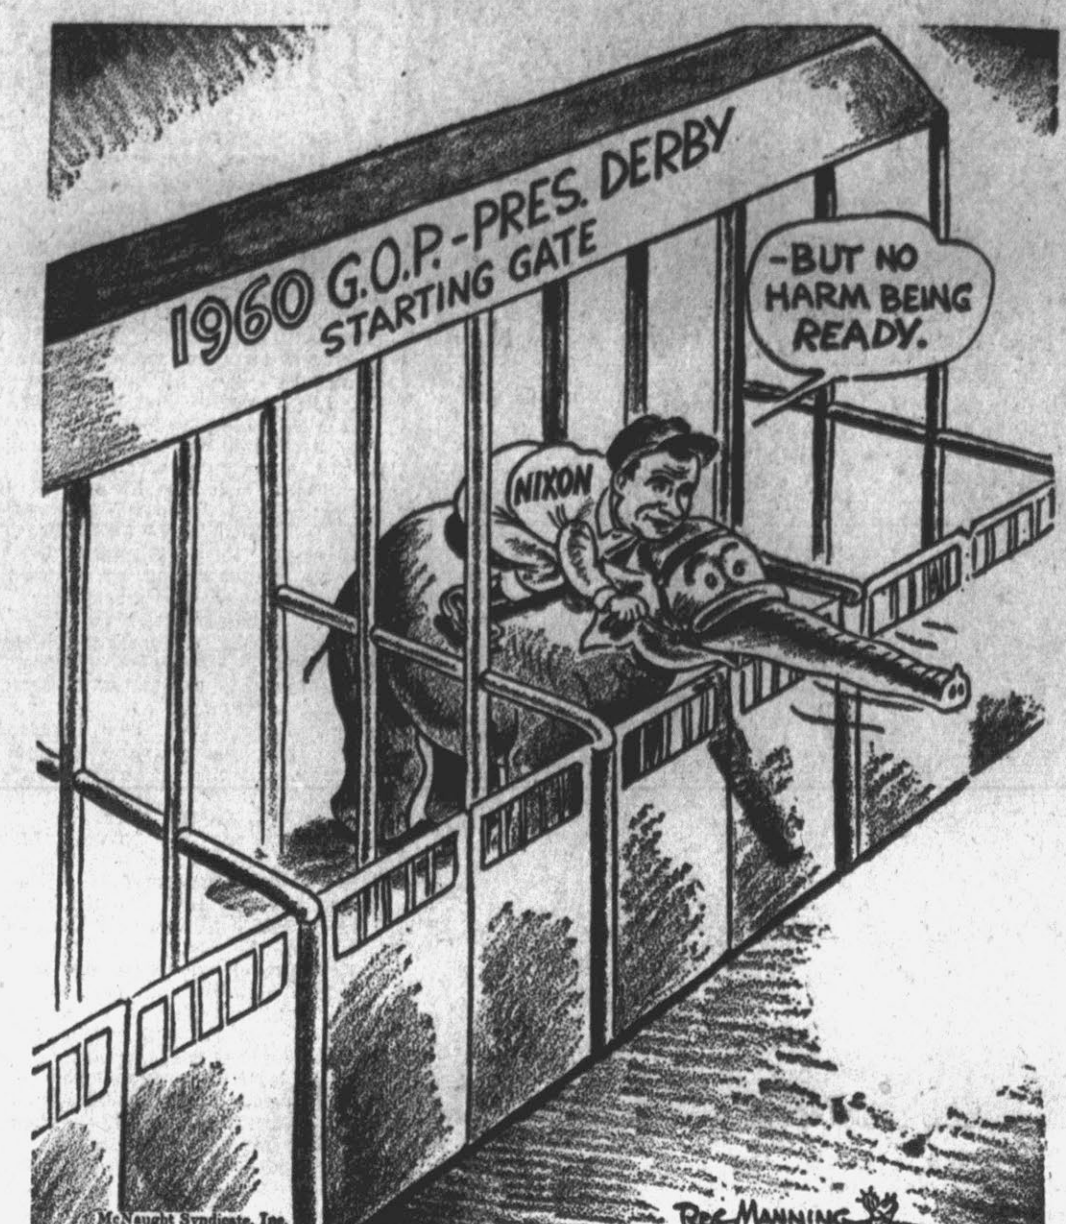

The finder, Mrs. Arthur Lee Parker, paid $150 for the prospecting privilege. Mrs. Parker was way ahead of most tourists at the start — she is an amateur geologist.

The largest diamond ever found in the United States is the 40-carat Uncle Sam unearthed in 1924 near Murfreesboro.

For the tourist it's the finders-keepers, almost. On larger stones the finder pays a royalty of 25 per cent of the value above five carats to the owners of the tract, plus a few per cent additional as state severance tax.

But the tourist heyday may end soon. State geologists say several ventures aimed at mining the field commercially again have nearly materialized. The only drawback seems to be in consolidating ownership of the diamond field.

Second-Glance At News

For the second time in a few weeks a Greenville couple has appeared on the television program Beat the Clock.

Jack Turnage, insurance man in New York for a convention, appeared on the program yesterday. He and his wife successfully completed two stunts and time ran out.

They will appear again on the national TV show Monday. Only a short time back Tommy Diener and his wife appeared on the show. The Dieners brought back an armful of prizes for their efforts and it looks like the Turnages might do the same.

The ugly waters of the flooding Tar have looked amazingly out of place for the last couple of days. The great lake formed on the north bank of the river glistened in the bright sun giving no hint of the deluge of rain which has hit along the Tar's course in weeks gone by.

Only the dwellings which could be seen surrounded by water proved to the observer that there was any real problem.

Away from the river in the main section of the city it was difficult to believe the river was flooding at all.

For the last few days have been perfect summer days. The weather has been balmy and there has seldom been any great number of clouds in the skies.

It sets me to thinking that floods, unlike other nature caused disasters, seldom occur at the same time as the conditions which cause them.

Hurricanes cause their damage immediately and usually when they are gone so is the danger. The same is true of tornados or earthquakes.

But with floods it's different. The water which proved such a problem to Greenville and Tarboro this week fell days ago somewhere up the Tar and along its tributaries.

At the time the flood was doing its greatest damage, there had been plenty of time for the skies to clear, as they did, and perfect weather to set in.

Nature is an awesome thing.

Some day Greenville and Kinston folks may be able to travel between the two cities by a four-lane drive. Residents of Ayden, Grifton and Winterville will be able to reach either city on such a divided highway.

The day when such a dream would come true might not be too far distant.

Some months ago plans for building a four-lane highway from Kinston to Grifton were announced.

Then last week the Highway Department announced plans to continue the four-lane drive from West End Circle in Greenville to the South 11 Drive-in in the direction of Winterville.

A few more projects like that along the Greenville-Kinston Highway and the 27 miles will be made into a modern super highway.

Other Editors Saying--- Nixon Shows Poise

(Goldsboro News Argus)

We were proud of Vice President Nixon and Mrs. Nixon for the way they conducted themselves when made the center of a howling anti-American mob in Caracas, Venezuela.

They tell us that the mob was rigged by the Communists. They tell us that it had all the earmarks of a well-planned and well-executed troop movement. Had it not been for the nerve and the calmness of American Secret Service men with the Nixons they might have been seriously injured or killed.

It is little short of a miracle that the Secret Service men were able to extricate their charges from the howling mobs without inflicting injury on the attackers.

The Nixons were poised. The Vice President smiled, even though grimly. It was a harrowing experience that might have sent a less controlled person than Mrs. Nixon into hysterics. Training in the great American game of politics probably helped them bear up under such terrible nerve strain.

Venezuela can't shrug off the attack as the work of a few Communists. One direct report said that not on smiling, friendly face waved gay greetings toward the Nixons as they moved from the airport to the American Embassy. And that same report said that Venezuelan motor cycle officers and police did not interfere with determination or interest when the club wielding, frenzied mob surrounded the Nixons.

The attack was not a manifestation of all will toward the Nixons personally. It was a flagrant demonstration that the mob has hatred in its heart for the United States.

And on that same day American information service offices in Beirut, Lebanon and in Algiers were destroyed. These offices might be called libraries which offer free books, magazines and papers, and lending services dealing with the United States. Probably it is to be expected that anti-American sentiment would turn first in the direction of such libraries. They are the easiest mark upon which to vent spleen against the big, fat, rich Americans.

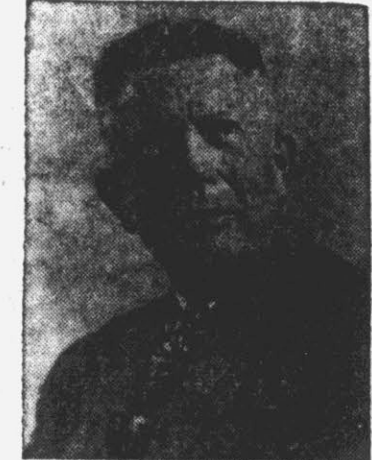

A few years ago such a day of attacks on American institutions and officials would have put the nation into a great roar. Demonstrations calling for retaliation even for war would have sprouted over the land. Mass meetings with flag waving and heated oratory would have been common. The nation is aroused now. But it is a controlled and calm arousalment. That is well.

Opinions In Brief

"There is a modern parable about a troubled old king who summoned his wisest counselors and instructed them to prepare a simple text on economic principles which the people might understand. The wise men came back in a year with 67 volumes, profusely illustrated with graphs and charts. But a venerable old patriarch came forward with his appraisal — eight little words: "There ain't no such thing as a free lunch." — Washington, Iowa, Journal.

"Government should be like your stomach: If it's working right you don't know that you have it." — Brownsville, Pa., Telegraph.

"A hard core consisting of thousands of dedicated Marxists in this country has clung to its un-American ideals and emerged into what it interprets as an atmosphere conducive to re-growth and attainment of its goal." — J. Edgar Hoover.

ARMED FORCES DAY — 1958.

"We urge Americans and our free world friends to visit our installations and see the new concepts and modern weapons which have so radically altered the techniques of military and naval operations, for only by being fully informed on our national capabilities can all of us share confidence in our ability to defend ourselves and preserve the freedoms we cherish." — Neil McElroy, Secretary of Defense

More Expectations In Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are more expectations in business, derived from analyses of developing trends:

Earliest new cars yet. Despite the hoopla of "You Auto Buy Now" promotions, auto sales are still lagging in most sections of the country. As a consequence, manufacturers will bring out 1959 models as early as possible, perhaps in September. That means they will step up orders for steel in July and August, which will help the steel industry.

Lull in meat price rises. Reduced slaughtering is largely to blame for high beef and pork prices. Farmers have been building up stocks. Now the number of cattle and hogs on feed is becoming unwieldy and many feeders will be forced to sell. This should check, though probably not reverse, the price rise.

NO WOODSHED FOR LABOR

No union cleanup. Every day makes chances dimmer for any effective labor legislation at this session of Congress. It is now doubtful that even measures that have mild support of up-right leaders will be voted. With this election year, most Congressmen need all the labor support they can win.

Heat pump boom. This year looks like the beginning of the heat pump boom. These are devices that use refrigeration to supply cool air in summer and warm air in winter. Manufacturers have been working on them for years; 25,000 homes have them now, and the pumps seem ready for mass production and mass advertising. One new pump is practical for homes as small as 1,000 square feet.

Firmer lumber prices. Wet weather, high water, labor trouble and closing of some marginal mills have been reducing lumber supplies to the point that prices are beginning to inch up. In some segments of the industry, oak flooring, for instance, orders are ahead of production.

FAIR TRADE SEEMS STYMIED

No new U. S. "fair trade" law. Proponents of so-called fair trade, having lost out in the courts of a dozen states, are vigorously petitioning Congress for a new law permitting manufacturers of trademarked products to fix prices nationally. This goes so far beyond previous bills that Congress will be cautious and not get around to action this session. By the next session the recession may be over — and there's little inclination to permit price-fixing in boom times.

The Alaskan oil boom is growing. So many speculators are interested in leasing oil lands there that the Interior Department is under pressure to increase rates. One or two good strikes will bring a new wave of wildcaters — and the lease and oil-stock booms.

More food in tubes. The use of metal fold-up tubes for food appears to be catching on. Peanut butter, mustard and mayonnaise are now being sold in tubes. Margarine may be next, followed by deviled meat or soft cheese. Big hurdle: The American public is inclined to associate these tubes with toothpaste instead of food.

ONE GOOD RUMOR WORTH THOUSANDS IN ADVERTISING

"The next time I start a business," the Old Promoter said today, "one of the first things I'm going to do is to start a fabulous rumor about it."

"I'll hire somebody to spread the story that I am a Hungarian count incognito, or that I am the son of the Dauphin. Or that the business is being financed as an experiment by the Ford Foundation. Or that the property is owned by Queen Elizabeth. Or that I am a retired Texas millionaire who started the business just to meet people. Or that my wife is an Indian Princess."

"People love these folk-lore type of stories, they love to repeat them and embellish them. One good lie can produce thousands of dollars worth of word-of-mouth advertising that increases over the years."

Hrm! This column is written by the son of the first man to buy a refrigerator on the installment plan.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
Who was the most influential man that ever lived? Now remember, we are talking about a man — not about Jesus Christ who in addition to being a man was also the Son of God. But who among mere men was the most influential that ever lived? Undoubtedly, it was Moses. You may be amazed at such a statement. Greater than St. Paul? Greater than Alexander? Do you put Moses before Julius Caesar who created an empire, or Christopher Columbus who discovered a new world, or Napoleon who brought Europe to his feet, or Michael Angelo, or Pasteur? Yes, before any of them or all of them. Moses was, under God, the author of the Ten Commandments. He is the prime figure in one religion, Judaism. He is an honored figure in two other religions — Mohammedanism and Christianity. You and I and every one living today feel the influence of any other man. All law is based on the Ten Commandments. Judaism, Mohammedanism, and Christianity comprise most of the inhabitants of the world. This Moses, who was a fugitive from justice until he was 80 years old, a humble shepherd — this man between his 80th and his 120th years took part in actions which fairly moved the human race off its foundation, and he left it with morality laid deep beneath its laws and institutions.

Randy Bass, Rose High School outfielder drives out one of his two singles against Kinston, Here, yesterday. Greenville lost 4-1

OUT AT FIRST—Greenville's Mack Roebuck is thrown out at first after belting the ball into the infield in yesterday's ballgame. The 4-1 loss leaves Greenville with a 9-2 Conference record and one rained-out game to make up. Should they win at Elizabeth City next week, they will be tied with Kinston for the Northeastern lead.

NO CLUTCH HITTING—The above kind of scene was all too apparent by its absence in yesterday's Rose High-Kinston ballgame at Brookgreen Field. The Greenville club hammered out five hits but most of them came without runs. The G-Men left three runners stranded on base in the first inning and two more in the second, unable to hit in the clutch. Kinston picked up the same number of hits but turned them into enough runs to down Greenville 4-1. (Reflector sports photos)

Kinston Defeats Rose High 4-1 In Northeastern Tilt

Clutch Hitting Wins For Devils

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

The defending Northeastern Conference baseball champions Kinston came to town yesterday and knocked Rose High School off the top of the league with a 4-1 upset victory at Brookgreen Field.

The Phantoms went into the ball game with a 9-1 slate, the best in the loop, and Kinston was ranked second with a 9-2. Eddie Taylor hurled the Red Devils to the win, defeating Greenville's Merrill Bynum.

Yesterday's outcome gives Kinston a 10-2 record for the season and at least a tie for the title. Greenville's 9-2 mark will be changed one way or the other next week in a make-up game at Elizabeth City. Coach Bo Farley's club will journey to the Yellow Jacket lair on Tuesday—though the date has not been made definite—to make up a rained out tilt.

Should the Rose club beat Elizabeth City, Kinston and Greenville will be forced into a playoff next weekend. A Greenville loss to the Jackets however, would retain the title for Kinston.

Clutch Hits
In yesterday's game at Brookgreen Field, both clubs totaled five hits each and Kinston made one error to Greenville's none. However, the Kinston hits came in the clutch when they were needed and that made all the difference in the world.

Greenville scored first, racking up a run in the first inning. The Phantoms held on to that 1-0 lead until the fifth when Kinston picked up a run to tie it 1-1. In the sixth, Kinston scored three more to break the game open.

For Coach Farley's club, it was their lowest score of the season and one of their worst hitting efforts.

First Blood
The G-Men drew first blood in the initial inning, wringing up three hits. Randy Bass opened with a single and Bobby Edwards walked. Walker Allen drove out another single and Bass came home with the first run of the game. After that, Billy Cox got on a fielder's choice and Edwards was tagged out at second. Dick Evans singled but couldn't push across another runner. Mack Roebuck then struck out and Merrill Bynum fled out to rightfield, leaving three men stranded on the bases.

In the second inning, the Greenville club threatened again. With one out, John Harrison walked and the constant-hitting Bass again chopped out a single. However, Allen and Edwards hit out to the infield to retire the side. Two Phantoms were left stranded.

After that inning, the Greenville club could manage to get only one more hit off Taylor, a single by Harrison in the fourth.

Kinston's Rally
Kinston opened up the game in the fifth inning by tying the score in a knot. John Cutler singled and went to second base on a wild pitch by Bynum. Cummings then whacked out a single to score Cutler. It was 1-1.

In the sixth, Pat Leonard walked and Charles Lewis sacrificed him to second. John Laws walked to put two on base. Croome singled to score Leonard. Cutler smashed out another single to bring in Laws and Croome. That made it 4-1.

Yesterday's game evened the score between the two clubs. Greenville defeated Kinston earlier on the Red Devils' home field.

Next Week
Coach Farley stated today that the Elizabeth City game will probably be played Tuesday, although the date has not been made certain. Earlier, Greenville defeated Elizabeth City here, 3-2.

"I'm not sure who we'll pitch up there," Farley said. "If we beat them, we'll have to come back and play Kinston again right away. So, we're just not sure how we'll play it."

The playoff game with Kinston—should Greenville defeat EC—has not been discussed yet and the site and date of such a playoff has not yet been determined. Greenville . . . 100 000-1 5 0

Billy Pierce Gets His First Win Of Season

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

The Chicago White Sox finally gave Billy Pierce some runs and their stubby southpaw ace, who won 55 the past three years, has his first victory of the season.

Even this one was tough for Pierce, who allowed only six hits, walked but three and struck out 10 for a 6-3 decision at Cleveland last night. Two of the hits were homers, but the other Cleveland run was unearned, and the Sox wouldn't have made it except for five runs in the first—on four singles (one a bunt), two walks and two Injuns errors.

It was the sixth victory in nine games for Chicago, but the Sox stayed in last place. 7½ games behind New York. The Yankees stretched their American League lead to five games over second place Washington by belting the Senators 7-2.

Detroit blew a three-run lead and lost 5-3 at Kansas City. Baltimore and Boston were idled by rain.

The White Sox matched their run total in Pierce's three defeats in the first inning. And after they counted another in the second, they were through scoring for the night.

ba Phillips and Jim Landis. Don Ferrarese gave up all the runs for an 0-2 record.

Pierce had lost two to the Indians this season after beating them six times while gaining his second successive 20-victory year in 1957. He gave up homers to Bobby Avila, in the fifth, and Minnie Minoso in the eighth.

The Yankees, shut out on five hits Sunday by Camilo Pascual, trailed 1-0 and had but three hits off the Washington right-hander until the sixth. Then Gil McDougald's one-on homer capped a three-run rally after Hank Bauer had doubled and scored the tying run on Tony Kubek's single and a force out by Mickey Mantle. Whitey Ford won his third with an eight-hitter—his 11th straight over Washington since Sept. 20, 1954.

Kansas City didn't get a man on base against Herm Wehmeier, the ex-St. Louis Cardinal making his first appearance for Detroit, until Bob Cerv swatted his 11th homer with one out in the fifth. Then the A's opened up with four in the seventh, chasing Wehmeier and tagging ex-mate Tom Morgan with the defeat. Frank House, late of the Tigers, counted the clincher with a two-run single. Tom Gorman won it in relief of Ralph Terry, who gave up all the Tiger runs, one on Frank Bolling's homer.

Elliott Breaks World Mark But Officials May Disagree

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Herb Elliott, the wonder from down under, has a world record mile run in the hopper today but there's some doubt that he'll ever get it in the books.

The slender young Australian ran the distance in a stunning 3:57.8 in the Coliseum Relays last night, beating the recognized world record held by fellow Aussie John Landy by two-tenths of a second.

But there was grave suspicion that the International Athletic Amateur Federation might cast a skeptical eye at Elliott's magnificent performance because of the pace-setting job done by an unheralded Texas runner, Drew Dunlap.

The 145 pound Elliott was right on Dunlap's heels when the Texan finished a half mile in 2:00.5.

Herb a six footer, was clocked at 3:00.3 at the end of the third lap. The crowd of 34,656 was stirred to a noisy pitch by this intelligence and it delivered a mighty ovation when the young Australian crossed the finish line.

Another Australian, Merv Lincoln, ran second, but he was well behind Elliott with a time of 4:01. Hungarian Laszlo Tabori, now representing Santa Clara Youth Village, finished third in 4:04.4. Other finishers were Joe Villareal, Texas; 4:06.2; Burr Grim, Maryland; 4:07.8; Ted Wheeler, formerly of Iowa; 4:08.7; Jim

Musial, Jones Combine To Notch Eighth Card Victory

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

While the kids have stumbled, Sad Sam Jones, the oldest starter on the staff, has caught fire to keep the St. Louis Cardinals on the go in their belated about-face in the National League pennant race.

It was Jones, a 32-year-old right-hander, who ended the Cards' losing streak at seven a week ago. And it was Sam who last night stopped a chance of another slump with a six-hitter that beat Los Angeles 2-0, with the help of Stan Musial's two-run homer.

It was the first Cardinal shutout of the year, and gave Jones his third straight victory for a 3-3 record. He walked but two, struck out nine while becoming the first St. Louis pitcher to get two complete-game victories.

Milwaukee retained first place, although stopped by rain at Cincinnati. The Chicago Cubs clipped second place San Francisco 6-5, and Philadelphia knocked off third place Pittsburgh 8-2.

Musial's seventh homer, broke up a duel between Jones and southpaw Johnny Podres in the sixth. Podres, 4-2 after winning his first four, had a two-hit shutout until Eddie Kasko led off with a double in the sixth. Then came the poke by Musial, who had been 0-for-6 and now leads the league with a .474 average.

It was the eighth victory in nine games for the Cardinals, who had but five hits. The Dodgers, in last place after losing seven of eight, twice saw runners nailed at the plate, and another trapped off third by the Card defense.

Left-hander Curt Simmons, beaten 1-0 by the Pirates and Bob Porterfield despite an 11-inning six-hit job against the Bucs' and Porter as he gained a 4-3 record. Harry Anderson lined a two-run, inside-the-park homer in the first, and Stan Lopata belted a solo homer in the second against Porterfield, now 1-1 in two NL starts after being sold by the Boston Red Sox. The Phils got two more in the third on Rip Repulski's triple. Simmons walked none, struck out nine while Bill Mazerowski's single and sacrifice fly drove in both runs for the Pirates, who were without slugging Ted Kluszewski, sidelined again by back trouble.

A single by Lee Walls scored the clincher in a two-run ninth for the Cubs as Don Elston picked up a 5-0 record, all in relief. Willie Mays' two-on homer, his 10th and eighth in seven games, triggered a five-run Giants' sixth after Dale Long had doubled and homered for a 2-0 Cub lead. Ray Crone lost it in relief.

Mays and teammate Daryl Spencer now have 28 RBI each, tops in the NL.

FRIDAY'S STARS

HITTING-PITCHING: Stan Musial and Sam Jones, Cardinals—Musial's seventh homer, a two-run shot in the sixth, was the payoff as Jones out-dueled Johnny Podres with a six-hit, nine-strikeout job that beat the Dodgers 2-0.

Myers Park Is State Champ

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Myers Park athletes set two of three new records and won four first places as the Charlotte school captured the state high school track championship.

Myers Park, undefeated in the regular season, scored 37½ points in the meet here yesterday, compared to runnerup Durham 16½ and 14 for Reynolds of Winston-Salem.

Records set by Myers Park included Bill Houston's 21.6 seconds in the 220-yard dash and David Gilmore's 4:28.8 in the mile run.

Another Charlotte area athlete, Heath Whittle of North Mecklenburg, set the meet's third record, 12 feet-4 inches in the pole vault.

Other team scores: Asheville, North Mecklenburg, and Raleigh, 10 each; Greensboro 8; Chadbourn, East Mecklenburg, Rankin and West Mecklenburg, 5 each; Charlotte Central, Clinton, Greenville and New Bern, 3 each; Whiteville and Lumberton, 1 each; and High Point ¾.

Paul Derr, North Carolina State College track coach, said he thought it doubtful Gilbert could get a plane and reach here in time for the meet. He added that Gilbert had been entered in the meet here and he was not aware of the Winston-Salem star was running in California.

Preliminary events were scheduled for this afternoon, with the finals tonight. Track stars representing 16 teams from the Carolinas were entered.

Last year's team championship was won by Winston-Salem Teachers; North Carolina College and the University of North Carolina tied Bowers, Illinois, 4:09.4; Bobby Seam, 4:10.4, and Norm Lloyd, 4:13.3.

This was the fourth time in his brief career that the 20-year-old Elliott had run the mile in less than four minutes. He has never lost a mile race.

The 18th running of the Relays produced another world record in a less celebrated event, the two-mile relay. California's team of Maynard Orme, Jerry Siebert, Jack Yerman and Don Bowden turned the trick with a time of 7:20.9.

In the 120-yard high hurdles, Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem, N.C., Teachers was first with a time of 13.9 seconds. Dave Scurlock, the University of North Carolina, was first in the 880-yard run with a time of 1:50.5.

Mike Cavendish Walks In Winning Run In 7th

Yesterday, in a league-switch, the Exchange Club drummed down the Moose, 3-2, in an extra-inning ball game at Little League Park.

The contest was a Tar Heel League game and was originally scheduled for this afternoon. Yesterday's game was supposed to be a North State loop game between the Kiwanis and the VFW. There has been no explanation for the switch.

However, today, the Kiwanians and the VFW club will square off at Elm Street Park for their contest. It is scheduled to begin at 5:00.

Correction
It was stated wrongly in yesterday's Reflector that the Lions were the defending North State loop champions. Actually, the Kiwanians hold the title now. Both the Lions and Kiwanians won half-season titles and the Kiwanians defeated the Lions two out of three games of a final playoff.

Therefore, today's game at 5:00 will feature the defending North State champs in their first defending game of the new season. Their constant foes for the title, the Lions, won their first one Wednesday, topping the Jayces, 1-0.

Exchange - Moose
In yesterday's Tar Heel League ball game, the Moose and Exchangers battled for six full innings with a 2-2 score on their hands and finally had to go into an extra seventh inning.

Wayne Sumrell and Danny Keel, pitchers for the Exchange and Moose teams, respectively, had given their limit according to Little League rules, and the teams' coaches were forced to stick in new pitchers for the fateful seventh inning. During their play Sumrell had struck out five and Keel had fanned four.

Moose Coach Charlie Bland relieved Keel with veteran Mike Cavendish. Billy Dunn, the Exchange coach, substituted pint-sized Jimmy Medlin for Sumrell.

Seventh Frame
In the seventh inning, the Moose came to bat first and failed to score. Medlin fanned two batters. The Exchange Club pulled in the winning run on a walk by the new pitcher. They loaded the bases on walks and a fielder's choice and Cavendish walked tiny Gary Bostic to bring in the winning run.

Medlin got credit for the victory and the loss was Cavendish's. This is ironic, because Sumrell and Keel did such a fine job of pitching for the first six frames. Only three hits were recorded during the whole game. The Moose collected only one of them, a single by McGowan in the first inning. The Exchange picked up both of its hits in the initial inning, also: singles by Sumrell and Medlin.

New District Directors Of Alumni Association Chosen

Six new district directors of the East Carolina College Alumni Association were announced here today, when graduates of the college returned to the campus to participate in events of 1958 Alumni Day.

Events on today's program included a general business meeting this morning at which Robert B. Morgan of Lillington, president of the college Alumni Association, presided; presentation of the 1958 Alumni Award for Outstanding Service to Baxter R. Ridenhour of Durham; the annual alumni luncheon; reunions of nine classes; a tea; and an outdoor concert by the East Carolina College Band.

New district directors of the Alumni Association were announced as follows: Yadkin Valley District, Mrs. Luther E. Francis of Francisco; Greensboro District, W. Stanley Scarborough of Greensboro; Rocky Mount District, Fred H. Martin of Enfield; Kingston District, Edna Rouse of Kingston; Roanoke-Chowan District, Mrs. Julian C. Powell of Hertford; and Wilmington District, William E. Sutton of Wilmington.

Dr. Lucile Turner of the English department and Dr. P. W. Picklesimer of the geography department, who are retiring this summer, were honored at the business meeting through an official expression of appreciation of their long and loyal service as heads of departments at the college.

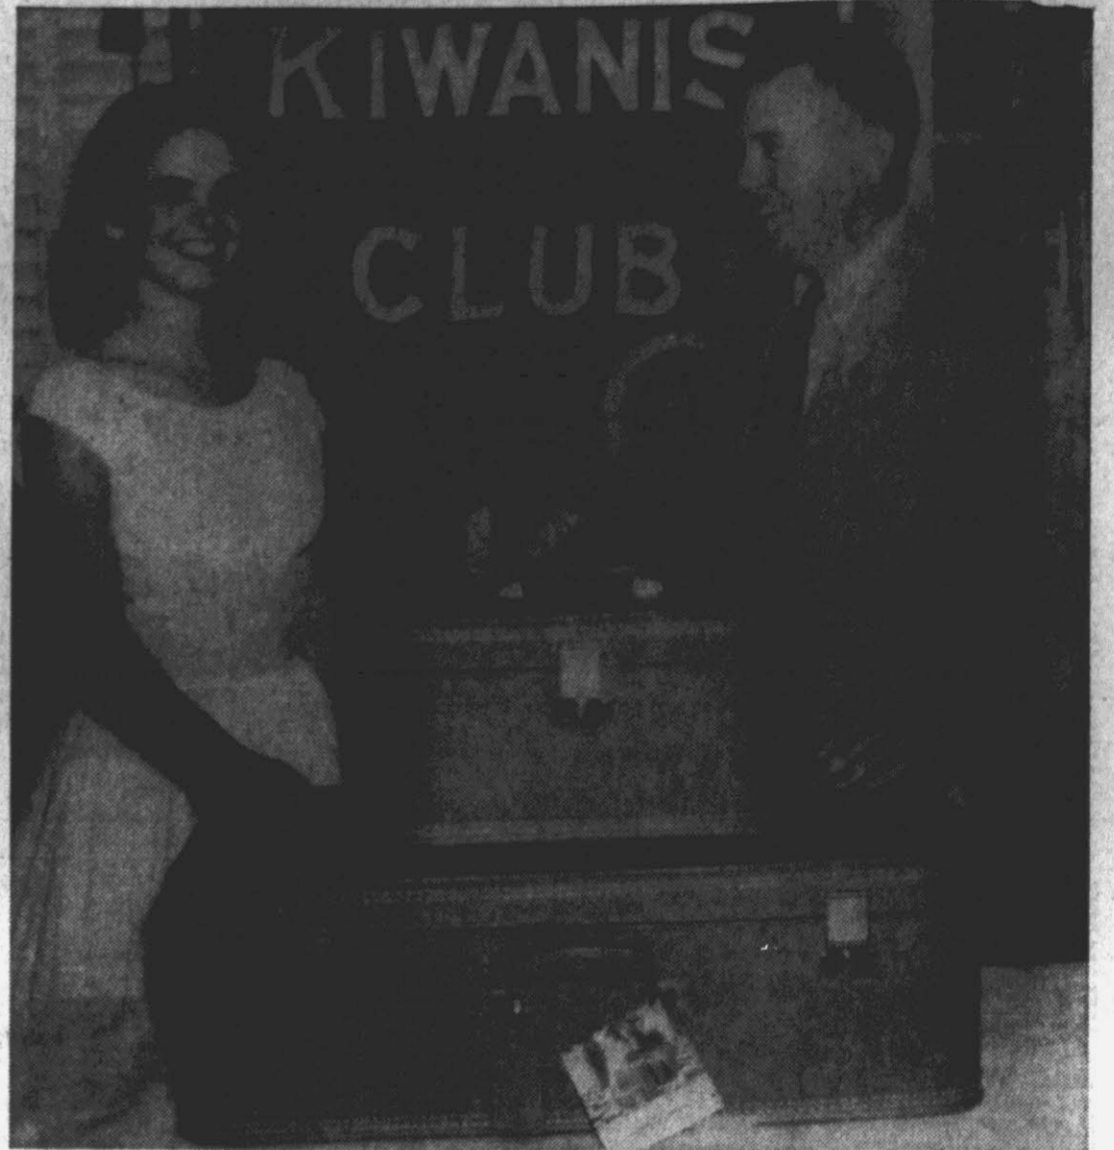

Dr. John O. Reynolds of the college mathematics department presented the Alumni Award to Mr. Ridenhour. The recipient, who holds both the bachelor's and the master's degrees from East Carolina and who is a past president of the Alumni Association, is now principal of the Club Boulevard School in Durham.

East Carolina President John D. Messick, speaking at the alumni luncheon, outlined plans for the college for the next several years, including expansion of the physical plant, enlargement of the curriculum, and growth in size of the student body.

J. Herbert Waldrop, president of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Co. of Greenville, a former East Carolina student and now a member of the college Board of Trustees, and Miss Emma L. Hooper of the faculty, author of East Carolina's Fiftieth Anniversary Pageant, were given citations recognizing their services to the college.

Classes holding reunions during the day included those of 1913, 1918, 1923, 1928, 1933, 1938, 1943, 1948, and 1953.

Gift For Miss Greenville

Shown is Miss Betty Lane Evans, "Miss Greenville 1958-59," as she received gift of luggage from Kiwanis Club last night. The local Club sponsored Miss Evans in the Beauty Pageant. Louis Clark, committee chairman for the Kiwanis Club, is pictured with Miss Evans.

Bloxam Speaks On Development

Leonard P. Bloxam, Greenville city manager, spoke last night to the Kiwanis Club about the proposed County Development Committee.

Pitt County citizens will be given an opportunity May 21 to vote in favor or against the tax increase necessary to supplement state approved funds for this project. The county committee's principal function will be to hire a development engineer who will lead Pitt county's efforts in obtaining new industries for this area.

Present city, county and chamber of commerce officials do not have the time nor are they properly trained to search out new industry and provide the required data," stated the City Manager.

The establishment of an Industrial Development Committee for the whole county area is the only feasible, economical way to produce a balanced economy," Bloxam added.

He also pointed out that there are many small industries available for sections like our's and that areas that have gone in to such a program have had good results. A one per cent increase in the present county tax system will be required to put this program in effect. This increase will produce about $19,000 a year with which the office is proposed to be operated.

Unless something is done soon we in Pitt county will struggle along on the same low economic basis as we have done for the past two years. It is the only way I know that we can bolster our economy," Bloxam declared. He urged support of this measure on May 31.

The birthdays of Kiwanians David Evans, Irvin Levinson and John Zeh were honored. Special guests of the club were Miss Betty Lane Evans, winner of the recent Miss Greenville Pageant, and mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Evans. The club presented Miss Evans with a gift of luggage.

Other guests included A. B. Benfield, new president of the Circle K Club, Dr. Ledyard Ross, Jerome Rumble, Charles Wheadbee and Lee Rowland. William Deavours won the attendance prize. President J. D. McGlohon presided.

Editors Debate On Integration

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The editor of the Richmond (Va.) News Leader and the editor of the Carolina Israelite debated integration as the ninth annual North Carolina Editorial Writers Conference opened here last night.

Likening integration to Prohibition, Richmond Editor J. J. Kilpatrick defended Virginia's program of massive resistance to school desegregation.

Harry Golden of Charlotte, who edits the Carolina Israelite, replied that segregation is impossible in an industrial society.

Kilpatrick said school integration is more repugnant than integration elsewhere because it is personal, prolonged and intimate. He predicted that school integration in Virginia would result in violence, worse race relations and closed schools.

Golden cited the moral implications of the problem. He suggested he may produce another of his tongue-in-cheek plans for handling race relations, the new one to be the Golden Plan for Christians."

The Jewish editor quoted his Golden Vertical Plan" in which he contended that Negroes and whites in their associations while standing, such as in stores, have no difficulties.

Therefore, he concluded, remove the desks from schools and integrate the classrooms.

In another of his plans, Golden asserted that Negroes and whites get along well as long as the Negro is the servant in the relationship. Assign each Negro to a white student, Golden said, and then let the Negro carry the white's books to integrated school each day.

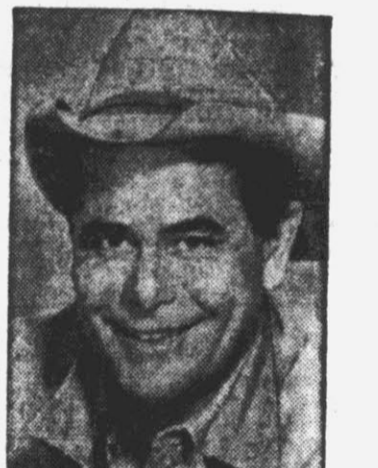

Partial Report On Napkin Sale

The Greenville Exchange Club last night heard a partial report from its members on the result of its annual paper napkin sale now under way and the members left from the meeting to continue the door to door sale.

This sale is held annually by the club as a means of supporting its youth activities fund from which comes assistance to all the youth work in Greenville, including the Little League, Hard of Hearing Program, Freedom Shrine and a host of other community projects. All members who had not already finished their assigned sections of the city were asked to complete them by the coming week and make a final report at the next meeting.

President Fred Forbes presided.

TROOP A'S HIGHWAY PATROL GARAGE . . . spacious, well-lighted and equipped—built here in 1951. (Reflector Photos)

Where Patrol Cars Are Kept In Trim

By EVERETTE PARKER
Reflector Staff Writer

Ever wonder where ailing highway patrol cars go for mechanical therapy?

State troopers, who can't baby their cars, keep sharp ears tuned to the slightest malfunction and when trouble develops herd their balky steeds toward one of six busy garages operated by the State Highway Patrol. One of these six is located in Greenville, serving 113 vehicles in a 27 county area, known officially as Troop A.

At the local garage, there are six mechanics who are specialists at making repairs of all sorts ranging from a minor repair to a major overhaul.

Highway patrol cars catch it rough; they are driven six miles for every one mile the average private car owner drives. As a result, the maintenance forces are faced with a day-to-day diet of broken window glass, parts failures, engine tune-ups, body dents and scratches, tire changes and any number of other things that might pop up at a moment's notice.

In a pinch, they can rebuild a wreck-shattered car from the ground up, but such heavily damaged vehicles are usually junked or sold through auction at the patrol's headquarters garage in Raleigh. "If we feel the repairs will momentarily benefit the state and can, without a doubt, be safely operated, it is rebuilt," according to Atwood Gurganus, Shop Foreman at the Troop A garage. All mechanical work required to keep the troop's vehicles on the road is done in the local shop with the exception of minor emergencies that might arise such as a flat tire or the replacement of a spark plug.

Last year vehicles assigned to the garage here traveled 4,621,638 miles at a cost of 2.8 cents a mile. This average is .3 of a cent lower than the state average and .2 of a cent lower than any of the figures released by the other garages in North Carolina. The average private car owner doles out an average of 10 cents a mile annually.

Patrol cars serviced in Troop A average about 12 miles per gallon and will average using four to six sets of tires a year. Gurganus noted that the garage replaces an average of 125 tires a month.

During the past year cars burned 324,229 gallons of gas and 13,300 quarts of oil.

The garage spent $129,853.21 in 1957 maintaining its vehicles. Tires cost $16,119.63 and parts $10,505.48, with gasoline constituting a major portion of operational expenditures.

"Old" Cars Replaced

Approximately half of the state's 600 vehicle fleet is replaced each year with a complete changeover every two years. New cars, fresh from the assembly line, are delivered to the patrol's headquarters garage in Raleigh and in turn allotted to the field garages in Fayetteville, Greensboro, Salisbury, Asheville and here.

Since January, 88 1958 model cars have replaced 1957's in Troop A. The "old" cars have been repainted and sold on sealed bids.

Complete servicing follows before the new cars are assigned to the road. Each new car is equipped with a combination roof-mounted red light and siren, three-way radio, and state seals on either door. They are further fitted out with a first-aid kit, fire extinguisher, flares and a shovel. Seat belts are in place before the car travels its first mile on patrol.

Once in operation the new car becomes a part of its patrolman "owner"-operator, as much so, in a sense, as the Canadian Mounted Policeman's steed. Ordinary maintenance like weekly washing, lubrication and oil changes is left up to individual troopers. Any accessories he might want, incidentally, are added at his own expense.

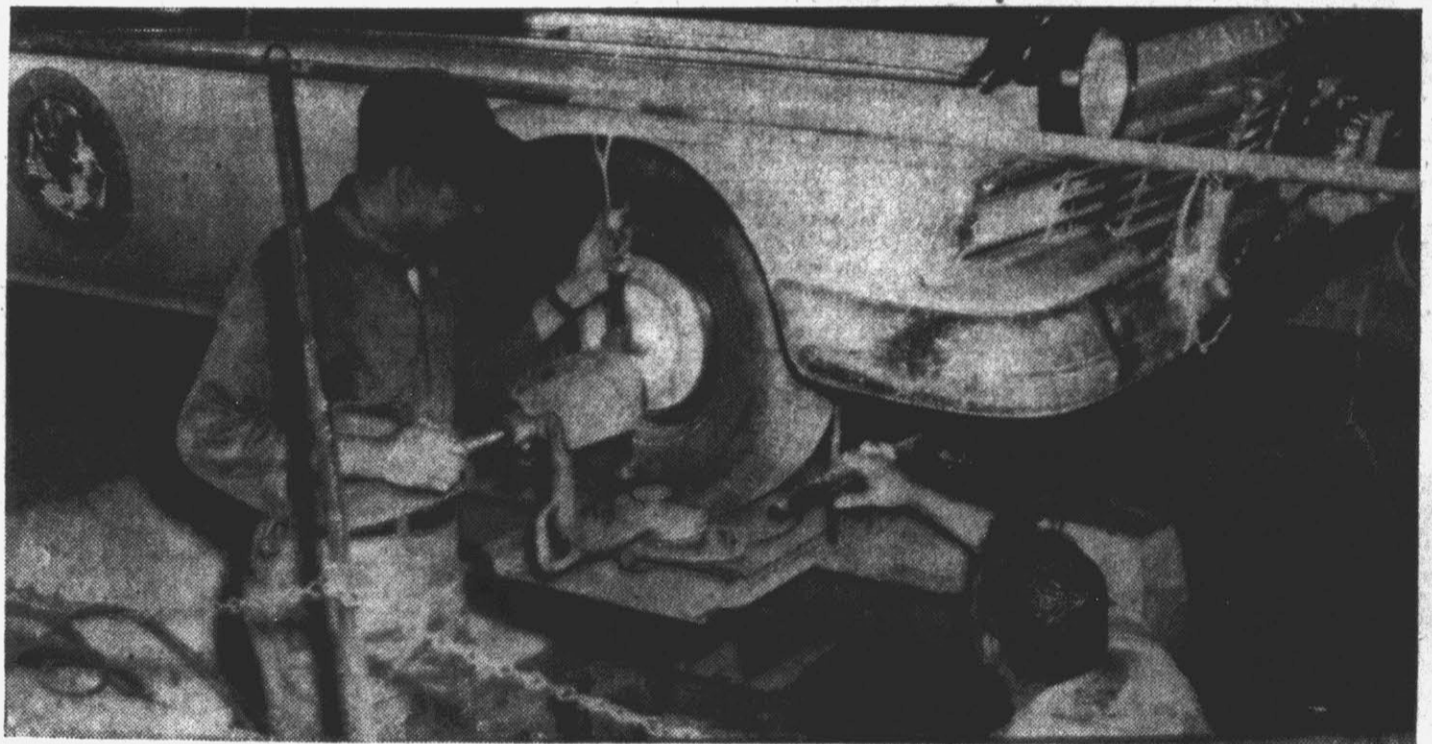

As the miles pile up on the speedometer, road weariness begins to show through. Batteries, tires, parts, radio equipment, all show signs of fatigue with more frequent appointments at the garage.

The shop here remains open 365 days a year, with mechanics on duty Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. Checkups are unscheduled and repairs must be made at a moment's notice in order that the troop's vehicles stay on the move. Three "spare" patrol cars are handy in case the repair might involve a considerable length of time. Speed, safety and efficiency are important words to the mechanic.

In addition to Gurganus, L. R. Hardee, H. M. Hodges, C. C. Fowers, C. R. Cox and C. O. Godwin work at the Troop A garage. To them, "no business is good business."

Order Inquiry Into Death Of Girl Mutilated By Lion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smithsonian Institution officials ordered a formal investigation today into the grisly death of a 2½-year-old Canadian girl who wandered too close to a lion cage at the Washington Zoo.

As her horrified grandfather fought vainly to save her yesterday, little Julia Ann Vogt was hauled screaming into the cage by a lion and decapitated.

The grandfather, Harry Jackson, 67, suffered a mild heart attack and was unable to give a coherent account of what happened.

"We're still trying to determine just what occurred," said J. Lear Grimmer, associate zoo director. "There are no substantial facts we can go on."

He said Dr. Leonard Carmichael, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution that supervises the mammoth zoological park, ordered a formal investigation. Grimmer said there was some confusion as to which of two lions in the cage killed her.

The incident occurred as Jackson was escorting Julia Ann and her sister, Judy, 4, through the zoo. The girls had come here with their mother from Chilliwack, B.C., for a visit.

Julia Ann, clutching a bag of peanuts, somehow got away from her grandfather and squeezed through a 3½-foot guardrail which keeps spectators some six feet away from the lion cages. A lion suddenly grabbed her.

Police said the only other apparent eyewitness was Wesley Dildy, 12, part of a school group visiting the zoo from Princess Anne County, Va. Young Dildy told this story:

"The rest of the class was down the hill. I heard a loud scream by the lion's cage. I ran up to look and this little girl was in front of the lion cage and the lion had caught her by the leg and was pulling.

"A man grabbed her arms and tried to pull her away, but the lion was stronger. He kept pulling and got her body in the cage with him.

"The lion started walking around inside with her in his mouth. He was growling. I ran away."

Homicide Capt. Lawrence Hartnett said the first zoo attendant to arrive on the scene identified the lion as a full-grown African male named Fassion.

Grimmer, however, said the lion was not definitely identified.

After the child was pulled into the cage, another lion named Princess mauled the remains. Zoo keepers retrieved the body after driving the lions back with fire

Plane Bringing Honored Dead

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A Navy Constellation pauses here briefly today for fuel, then continues eastward on a mission culminating in Memorial Day ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery.

It bears the bodies of two U.S. fighting men. One died in World War II in the Pacific, the other in the Korean War. The plane left from Hickam Air Force Base, Honolulu after a short, solemn ceremony yesterday.

The Pacific war victim was selected there from among six who fell in that conflict.

Four bodies had been flown to Honolulu from the Philippines. Two were taken from the National Cemetery of the Pacific at Honolulu, where Japanese bombs plunged the United States into World War II.

Similar ceremonies Thursday had selected the Unknown Soldier from the Korean War. His remains will be entombed at Arlington on Memorial Day.

The Pacific war soldier's body will be flown to Guantanamo, Cuba, where it will be placed aboard the U.S. cruiser Canberra along with a World War II victim from the European Theater.

His remains were selected Monday at Epinal, France. One will be chosen for burial and the permanent ceaseless watch of pacing sentries at Arlington. The other will be buried at sea with full military honors.

The ceremony yesterday at Hickam AFB, where headquarters still bear scars of Japanese bombs along with the Pearl Harbor Naval Base nearby, was conducted under cloudy skies.

An Air Force A-bomb flier, Col. Glenn T. Eagleton made the selection from the six coffins. He is attached to a jet fighter-bomber division on Okinawa.

Preparing Pitt Rural Progress Program Action

In order to encourage the rural families of Pitt County to develop their natural resources and raise their standard of living a Rural Progress Organization meeting was held recently at the Pitt County office building in Greenville.

Agencies represented at the meeting included: Pitt county vocational agriculture teachers, home economic teachers, soil conservation, F.H.A., health department, county supervisor, church organizations, and the extension service.

The rural progress program is statewide, with special reference to Negro families.

The county in North Carolina making the greatest accomplishments in the following five areas of work will be selected as the North Carolina County of the year for 1958.

1. Desirable adjustment in agriculture.
2. Homemaking and family living.
3. Community improvement.
4. Opportunities for rural youth.
5. Cooperation of all agencies, groups and individuals.

Mr. Poe of the Progressive Farmer, because of his great interest in the Negro and in order to stimulate him to greater effort, is giving a prize of $500 to the county making the greatest possible contribution to its progress at the end of the year.

During the recent rural progress organization meeting, Mr. J. J. Brown, vocational agriculture teacher, Ayden, was selected as county chairman; Miss E. R. Cogdell, home economics teacher, Farmville, was selected as vice-chairman; Mrs. Amelia S. Caphart, home agent, was selected as Secretary.

J. J. Brown, county chairman of the Pitt County Rural Progress Program, states that the real end toward which all agencies should work is the growth, development, attitude and well-being of the people of Pitt county. For this reason, Chairman Brown is requesting all home economics teachers, extension workers, vocational agriculture teachers, county supervisor, church representative, F.H.A. soil conservation and health workers, to meet with him for a second meeting next Tuesday. After the second meeting plans are to select leaders from the various communities over the county.

One Child Lost To Rare Disease, 2 Others Dying

AURORA, N.C. (AP) — A rare childhood disease has brought a dark cloud to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Riley Rowe of Aurora.

Five years ago the Rowe's 12-year-old son died with cystic fibrosis, which attacks the pancreas. Now two remaining children, daughters aged 6 and 2, have fallen victims. Doctors have predicted the disease also will be fatal for the little girls.

Aurelia, the oldest, and Sally Pat, are bright-eyed, pretty children unaware of their plight. But their parents live daily in the shadow of tragedy, and with the burden of mounting medical costs.

The girls have been taken to Duke Hospital in Durham, but medical experts have said no cure has been found for the disease.

Doctors have told the Rowes that medicines and special foods costing about $350 each month, can prolong the lives of the girls for months and perhaps years. As long as this can be done, there is the hope for some medical discovery which will help.

The Washington (N. C.) Daily News, an afternoon paper serving Beaufort county and the surrounding coastal area, has started a drive to aid the family. In a week of appeals, more than $1,500 has been collected.

Rowe, a farmer, sold his home five years ago in the search for

Mystery Man Is First Candidate Formally Filed

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Nevada's first formal candidate for governor is a mystery man.

William Richard Fate, 40, a registered Democrat in Reno, mailed his candidacy papers and the required $150 fee to Secretary of State John Koonz—from Richmond, Va. The papers were filed yesterday.

Koonz says he knows nothing of Fate.

Republican Gov. Charles Rhsell says he never heard of him. The manager of a Reno auto court that Fate lists as home says he doesn't know much about the man, either.

About all that is known about the first official candidate for governor is that he's a native of Wilson, N.C. who moved from Las Vegas to Reno in 1954. His occupation was given in his voting registration as "disabled veteran."

Russell has declared he will seek a third term but neither he nor any other candidate has filed.

His Work Came Close To Home

Explorer III Loses Its Voice; Believe End Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — Explorer III, America's third earth satellite, is going silent and may come to a fiery end about the middle of July.

Scientists tracking the Army-built satellite reported yesterday that one of its two radios has stopped transmitting and the other has become erratic.

Announcing this, the U.S. national committee for the International Geophysical Year reported also that latest estimates indicate the satellite will re-enter the earth's atmosphere and disintegrate around mid-July.

The committee said there is some evidence the partial loss of radio contacts with explorer III may be due to a collision with a meteoric cloud that might have damaged the transmitters.

The satellite, an 80-inch long metal tube, was shot into space March 26 after the successful launching of the Army's Explorer I and the Navy's Vanguard. Explorer II failed to go into orbit. Both Explorer I and the Vanguard are expected to stay in orbit for some time.

Russia, whose Sputniks I and II came down some time ago, launched its third satellite, a 1½ ton vehicle, this week.

The IGY committee said Explorer III's high power transmitter, a 60 milliwatt device which recorded information about cosmic rays, began sputtering May 9 and went off the air Wednesday night.

The smaller transmitter, a 10 milliwatt tracking beacon which has shot back continuous signals to ground watchers, is being received erratically, the committee said.

At Iowa City, Iowa, Dr. James Van Allen, University of Iowa physicist said he believes the intense radiation encountered by Explorer III is related closely to whatever produces the Aurora Borealis and magnetic storms in the ionosphere.

He suggested the radiation may be caused by ionized gas particles shot out by the sun.

Moscow radio, meanwhile, said Sputnik III completed its 23rd circuit of the globe at 10 p.m., yesterday.

At Louisville, Ky., Editor Robert Hotz of Aviation Week magazine said Sputnik III probably carries an infra-red device capable of taking pictures of the earth.

He called it the first step toward a reconnaissance vehicle and said the new Soviet satellite shows the Russians are at least three years ahead of the United States in the satellite field.

Gale Storm Recovering From 2nd Series-ites

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Her many fans will be happy to know that Gale Storm is recovering from what she calls "second series-itis."

Actually, Gale is recuperating after major abdominal surgery. But she attributes her health breakdown to the rigors of doing a second TV series. She made 126 "My Little Margies" and recently completed her 78th "Oh Susannah." Then came collapse.

But Gale is coming along fine now. She's her old bright and cheerful self, though she grumbles about being immobile for a while on doctor's orders.

"The rest is wonderful but I'd like to be able to do something — anything," she said. "I can't even pick up my baby yet."

She's not even thinking about going back to work. Renewal of her show is still in doubt, though it's rated a good chance to be back next year. The audience survey has been holding up nicely.

and the sponsors seem happy with the show.

"I haven't even thought about it," she remarked, "but I kinda hope the show will continue. I enjoy doing it, and I think it's a much more rounded series than 'Margie'."

She'll take a long rest before resuming the show — if it is renewed. Her only commitment is to return a guest shot with Pat Boone in June. She and her husband Lee Bonnell may take their three boys to New York and then on to Jamaica. That second series-itis is tough to cure.

CHAPTER II

"Will you have some breakfast?" I asked Barclay Fisher. He shook his head. "Coffee."

There was a vacant stool beside him. I sat down and said to the waitress, "Orange juice, stewed prunes, ham and eggs, and give this guy the check."

Fisher pushed the empty coffee cup across the counter. A refill, he said. "Better lay off that stuff."

I told him. It'll make you jittery after you've had just so much of it. Try some ham and eggs."

He made a grimace. The thought of food is distasteful to me."

I hurried through breakfast. The waitress gave Fisher the check. He put down a two-bit tip. I slid my hand into my pocket, brought out a silver dollar, put it down on the counter and said, "Since you've been pestering her since six-thirty, you might as well make it worth while. It's all on the expense account anyway."

He looked at the silver dollar. Well, perhaps you're right, Lam. He picked up his twenty-five cents and slid it down in his pants pocket.

"You bet I'm right," I told him, and put down another fifty cents. The waitress had been standing there looking the situation over. She flashed me a quick smile, watched Barclay Fisher as she would have watched a man from Mars.

He walked out of the door cracking his knuckles. "What about transportation?" he asked.

I had a rented car. "I said, I got the car, and we fought our way against the stream of traffic that was pouring into the city from across the bay. Then we hit the freeway and had nice going for a while, then got all tangled up in traffic once more. We got over to Vallejo, and I found the Roadside Motel without any trouble."

"Do we ask for him under his assumed name?" Fisher asked. "Don't be silly," I said. "We don't ask for anybody under any name. The guy's driving a sports car, and he's registered under the name of Chalmers. We look around."

At that hour of the morning the manager was getting caught up with busy sleep after being up half the night renting cabins. Most of the tenants had checked out and were on their way. The maids were making up the cabins.

I told Fisher to get his shoulders back and step right along. "The first thing you have to learn about being a detective," I told him, is to act as if you're looking for something, because, if you are, people are going to wonder what it is and perhaps someone will come along and ask you if they can't help you. Then they'll remember you afterward and maybe do a little talking."

"The thing to do is to be in a hurry, not too big a hurry, but walk very purposefully as though you know exactly where you're going. Then if you don't find what you want, turn around and walk back in a hurry as though you'd forgotten something."

We walked rapidly down the driveway. I spotted the sports car in a car port next to Cabin 24. "Now what?" Fisher asked. "We've got him located. What good does that do us?"

"We talk with the guy," I said. "We walked up to the door and I tapped."

"There was no answer. I banged on the door a little harder. Nothing happened. He may be out at breakfast," I said. "Come on, let's go."

We turned and walked rapidly down past the office to the restaurant. "You know what he looks like?" Fisher asked. "I think I can spot the guy."

I told him. He's a fanatical crusader, intolerant, self-righteous, bigoted. He'll probably have high cheekbones, burning, intense eyes, bushy hair, and a weak mouth. He'll move with quick nervousness, and he'll be restless."

We went into the restaurant. Fisher had another cup of coffee. I had cinnamon toast and a pot of chocolate.

Slowly, carefully, I sized up everyone in the restaurant. I couldn't find any George Cadott—not unless I was badly fooled as to the guy's appearance from what I knew of his character."

We walked back toward Cadott's cabin. "He may have been in the shower," I said. "We'll bang again on the door."

We walked back to Cabin 24. I knocked loudly. There was no answer. I turned the knob and pushed. Here, here. What are you doing?" Fisher asked. "Going to take a look," I said. "The door slid smoothly back on well-oiled hinges."

Fisher pulled back. I don't want any part of this," he said. "Wait outside, then," I told him. It suited me just as well to have my talk with Cadott in private. I felt I could size the guy up to better advantage if Fisher wasn't cracking his knuckles. I hardly thought it was possible the guy could be sleeping at this hour unless he was drunk, but one never knows.

It took my eyes a moment to adjust themselves to the dim light in the room. I closed the door gently behind me. The bed hadn't been slept in. I couldn't figure it. I walked around the bed toward the bathroom and suddenly stopped. A pair of shod feet came into my line of vision. They were exceedingly eloquent feet. They told their story with inanimate rigidity.

I stepped around the bed so I could look down on the floor. The body was fully clothed and it hadn't done much bleeding. There was a red spot over the chest, and a little crusty red on the faded, thin carpet.

The face had the unmistakable color of death. It was the face of a man with a mop of thick, black hair that had been given a crew cut. The cheekbones were high. The eyes were closed. The jaw had caved in, and looked weak and insignificant.

There was no sign of a struggle. Everything was in perfect order. A leather key container was half-concealed by the man's coat. I picked it up, put it in my pocket.

I backed around the bed, took out my handkerchief, polished the inside of the doorknob, opened the door, stepped out, and concealing the handkerchief in the palm of my right hand, gently closed the door behind me, rubbing the handkerchief over the knob. (To Be Continued)

Ex-Convict Told Get Out Of Town

SEATTLE (AP) — An ex-convict with a peck of traffic troubles and a hankering to get out of town left yesterday on the wings of orders from an economy-minded judge.

According to the ruling handed down by Traffic Judge Roy De Grief, hoodlum Ernest Whittaker, 27, had better not set foot in Seattle for five years unless he wants to do a 90-day stretch in Seattle's pokey.

Hauled before Judge De Grief after pleading guilty to 22 traffic violations, Whittaker heard the judge call for a $140 fine and 15 days in jail.

Whittaker, who admitted serving felony sentences at San Quentin Prison in California and in the Oregon State Penitentiary for passing worthless checks and for burglary, told De Grief he would like to get out of Seattle if the judge would shelve the fine and sentence.

"I can be out of Seattle in five hours," Whittaker said. "Since the court can see no purpose in keeping you around for the taxpayers to support while you are serving a jail sentence and serving out a fine, the fine and 15-day sentence will be suspended on condition that you leave within six hours and remain out of the city for five years," Judge De Grief replied.

If you are seen back here, you will have to serve a 90-day jail sentence."

City Of 10,000 Invited To Party

WASHINGTON, Vt. (AP) — The city of Barre—population 10,000—has been invited to Barre lumber dealer Nate Flint's 62nd birthday party tomorrow.

"After the party is over, do not say you were not asked," Flint said in a three-column advertisement yesterday in the Barre Daily Times.

Flint said the party actually is being held two days before his birthday because he thinks he may die early in his 63rd year. He said his father, mother, two brothers and a sister each died at the age of 62.

Flint expects a turnout of more than 3,000 at the party. He estimated ice cream and cake will cost about $30,000.

Singer Will Try Reading Opera

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Edward Kane, 50-year-old opera singer whose appearances have ranged from Carnegie Hall to Carbondale, plans to demonstrate his theory on how to make opera more intelligible.

Instead of singing the American opera, "The Consul," Kane and a group of student actors at Southern Illinois University will read it Monday night.

Kane, a graduate student in the school, is staging the giant Carlo Menotti opera as a requirement for his master's degree.

A veteran of 50 operatic roles and hundreds of concert performances, Kane says he is convinced most opera-goers don't know what is going on most of the time.

Brewing Beer In His Prison Cell

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Sheriff Jesse Hinson today released this report on Harper Ham of Wayne County who is serving time in the federal prison at Atlanta for making liquor illegally.

Ham, a good prisoner, earned time off of his year's sentence and was due for release last month or in May. Then prison officials investigated an odor coming from his cell.

They found Ham had snatched corn meal from the kitchen, sugar from a dining room, had mixed them in a tub in his cell and was brewing corn meal beer.

Ham now will have to serve his entire year.
