PARIS (AP) — Premier Pierre Pflimlin ordered France's military chief to Algeria today, opening the government's drive to win back Algeria from backers of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Pflimlin promised the National Assembly yesterday he will take all steps to restore the government's authority over Algeria. The assembly voted 473-93 to continue the government's emergency powers for Algeria and at the same time it rebuffed De Gaulle's bid for power.

The action was completed today when the Council of the Republic, the Parliament's upper house, voted the Algerian emergency powers bill 233-62. Had the Assembly wanted to return the wartime resistance leader to office, it could have paved the way by voting against Pflimlin.

Instead the Premier got support from virtually all elements in the Assembly except the extreme right. It was one of the biggest majorities ever won by a postwar French premier, apparently due to the deputies' fears of De Gaulle's offer to head a strongman government.

Tobacco Prospects Look Good

Few In Pitt Won't Have Transplanting Done By Today Says Winchester

From 90 to 95 per cent of Pitt County's big tobacco crop has been set out and the general condition of the young plants is good, County Agent S.C. Winchester said this morning.

Most remaining tobacco farmers should complete their transplanting today, he declared. "There will be very few who won't finish today," the farm agent said.

Generally speaking plants in the fields are looking good. In some spots they look a little pale due to early rains but the plants are young and they will get out of that in a hurry. We feel like we are in right good condition about the whole thing.

Tobacco transplanting is "pretty well complete in the east, southeast and south sections of the county," Winchester said.

However, some farmers in the west, northwest and north sections are still transplanting. Included in the uncompleted areas as of this morning were Farmville, Fountain and Bethel sections.

While earlier rains were a hindrance to the tobacco farmer, the slow rain of yesterday afternoon and last night was "very beneficial," Winchester declared.

The supply of tobacco plants is plentiful, he said. The USDA Agricultural Marketing Service weekly Weather and Crops publication reported "excellent progress" in tobacco transplanting across the state.

"In its report for the week ending May 17, the publication said: "Statewide it is estimated that the crop is near 40 per cent complete, compared with 60 per cent for the like week a year earlier."

"Transplanting operations are reported as being about 75 per cent complete in the Border Belt, 42 per cent in the Eastern Belt and near 20 per cent in the Old and Middle Belt. Transplanting of the Burley Crop in the mountains is just getting under way."

"Excellent stands were reported from some Coastal Plains counties. "Plant beds are in fair to very good condition—mostly good. The supply of tobacco plants is plentiful."

Army Announces Plans To Disband Six Nat'l Guard Divisions Are Abandoned

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Army disclosed today that plans for disbanding six National Guard divisions have been abandoned.

The disclosure was made by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, in an address prepared for delivery to the governors conference here.

The original plan for reduction in the size of the federal National Guard grew out of general government economy measures.

Taylor said many governors have passed along their thoughts on the proposal to Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy and Secretary of the Army Wilber Brucker.

Then Taylor added: "This morning Secretary Brucker and I are happy to announce that there has been a relaxation of the original guidance upon which our plans thus far have been based. The Army has been authorized to develop a plan looking toward the retention of the present 37 divisions in the reserve forces structure, that is 27 National Guard divisions and 10 USAR divisions, provided that this troop structure is maintained with no increase of cost or personnel beyond currently programmed levels."

In Washington earlier Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee said he had information that the House Appropriations Committee would approve money enough to keep guard and reserve forces at full strength.

This would amount to a congressional attempt to reverse the administration's decision to reduce the approved strength of the state troops from 400,000 to 360,000 and the reserves from 300,000 to 270,000.

Vinson made his report on the money outlook in an Armed Services Committee discussion of how the civilian components would fare under proposed reorganization legislation.

"I have been advised the appropriations committee will approve enough funds for 40,000 men in the National Guard and 300,000 men in the reserves," Vinson said.

He also said there is nothing in the reorganization bill approved by the committee which would "put the National Guard in jeopardy in the slightest degree."

The committee report, Vinson said, will contain language intended to make it clear the group does not intend any change in status for the National Guard or the National Guard Bureau which represents the state troops at the Pentagon.

Much House-Trimmed Foreign Aid Restored In Foreign Relations Body

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted today to restore 230 million dollars of the 399 million cut by the House from President Eisenhower's $3,942,002,500 foreign aid program.

The committee, by voice vote, approved Eisenhower's request for $1,800,000,000 in military hardware funds. The House had voted $1,640,000,000.

Similarly, the Senate group voted to grant the administration $835,000,000 in defense economic support funds for countries with which the United States has defense pacts. The House had cut this item to $775,000,000.

The committee decided to meet again in another closed session tomorrow to consider other items in the bill. There may be other increases.

In still another voice vote action, the committee wrote into the foreign aid bill a declaration that it is in the interest of the United States to join other nations in providing India with support adequate to assist India in completing her current program for economic development.

From three senators — Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) and George D. Aiken (R-Vt) — came appraisals that anti-American demonstrations against Vice President Nixon would help rather than hurt the administration's foreign aid program.

The Senate committee directed a subcommittee headed by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) to make a full-fledged inquiry into the background of the Latin-American incidents. Anti-American feeling there which erupted into a series of demonstrations, the most violent in Caracas, Venezuela, where Nixon and his wife were stoned and spat on.

The House, accepting recommendations of its Foreign Affairs Committee, cut 339 million dollars from the amount Eisenhower asked but rejected heavier cuts in the military and economic aid authorizations.

Mansfield, who advocates deeper cuts than those made by the House, said he thought the net result of the anti-American demonstrations in Latin America, Lebanon, Algeria and elsewhere would strengthen Eisenhower's hand.

In a separate interview, Smith said he would "move heaven and earth to restore the authorizations to the full amount asked by the President."

"I think our case will be made stronger by the increased evidence of Communist infiltration and economic penetration in South America, Africa and the Middle East," Smith said.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said there was no disposition on the part of the Senate to retaliate against South America for the Communist-inspired demonstrations.

Crackdown

NEW YORK (AP)—The City Sanitation Department is cracking down on litterbugs.

After a five-week educational campaign, 1,300 sanitation patrolmen took to the streets yesterday and handed out 892 summonses within 5 1/2 hours.

The biggest batch—220—went to janitors and property owners accused of having property or insufficient receptacles for refuse.

Among the 892 tagged was postal clerk Erwin Ferber. As he watched a store owner argue with a patrolman over a summons, Ferber chewed idly on a bit of matchbook cover.

He shook his head sadly at the storekeeper's fate and the bit of paper fell to the sidewalk. Before the bit hit, Ferber was given a summons.

The summonses bear fines up to $25.

Special Army Force Ready For Immediate Movement

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—The Army has revealed the existence of a highly trained fighting force composed of four crack divisions ready to wage limited warfare anywhere in the world.

Maj. Gen. Robert F. Sink, commander of the force known as Strac (Strategic Army Corps), said his troops are set to move on a moment's notice, provided the Air Force and the Navy provide transportation.

"These divisions are hitchhikers," said the tough paratrooper general, adding: "If we don't have the means of getting transportation from the Air Force or the Navy, why, hell, we stay at home."

Sink said a joint commander would consider this lack of transportation at his command a fault of the system, although the Defense Department presumably would furnish the planes and ships if and when they were needed.

The fire brigade force furnished 500 paratroopers which were airlifted to the Caribbean when Vice President Nixon was beset by rioters in Venezuela.

The existence of Strac and the units which compose it were announced simultaneously at Washington and at a news briefing here.

The organization some years ago resulted partly from the nation's experience in Korea.

If such a limited war force had been in existence then, the Korean War "probably would have been a much shorter and more satisfactory campaign," said Brig. Gen. Charles H. Chase, Strac's assistant commander and chief of staff.

Strac is composed of more than 125,000 men, including four divisions—the 82nd Airborne at Ft. Bragg, the 101st Airborne at Ft. Campbell, Ky., the 1st Infantry at Ft. Riley, and the 4th Infantry at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Having an outfit set and ready to wage limited war gives flexibility to the nation's foreign policy, said Maj. R. C. Grady, Strac's assistant platoon officer. With it, the policy makers are not confronted with the alternative of waging total war or doing nothing.

Strac, he said, can apply force ranging "from the prick of a bayonet to tactical atomic weapons."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is assembling a shipment of light tanks for delivery to Lebanon this week.

Officials said the tanks are being collected from stocks in Germany and will be sent to Lebanon by ship.

The tanks are destined for the pro-Western regime of President Camille Chamoun in his government's efforts to put down rebellious attackers.

They were requested by Lebanon along with police-type equipment like gas masks and tear gas gear.

Officials said Chamoun's government appears to be making progress in its efforts to maintain order in Lebanon. Secretary of State Dulles said Chamoun's complaint of interference by the United Arab Republic appeared to be based on solid evidence.

The United States sent 18 huge C124 transport airplanes to Frankfurt, Germany, last Saturday. The officials said these big Globemasters, capable of carrying 200 persons or 35 tons, were not for use in airlifting tanks to Lebanon, but could be used to evacuate Americans from either Lebanon or Algeria if the need should arise.

Washington is closely watching the virtual insurrection in Algeria by French military leaders who took over control and called for a French government headed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Police then ordered bloodhounds and planes into the search. Bloodhounds were given the scent from a coat found near the car and officers were told of a Negro man seen plunging into dense woods and swampy area, carrying a gun.

One of the search planes circling the woods reported seeing two men waving a white flag, but the ground party could not locate them.

Mr. and Mrs. John Oscar Pierce and sons of Greenville were guests of her mother, Mrs. Carrie Jefferson.

Social Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Carl T. Maiden of Madison, Wis. were guests today of Mr. Maiden's grandmother, Mrs. Leland Mitchell, 2304 E. Fourth Street. Maiden is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Maiden of Portsmouth, Va. Before marriage last month, Mrs. Maiden was Miss Janice Attya, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Attya of Saratoga Springs, N. Y. Maiden is serving his second enlistment in the Air Force.

Mrs. Joe Darrat and little son Jay left Saturday from Raleigh-Durham airport for Fairbanks, Alaska, to join her husband where they will make their home for three years. Mrs. Darrat is the daughter of Mrs. Nina Vainright of Greenville, Route 6.

Chief Marshal

MISS JOYCE JOLLY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Jolly of Ayden, is chief marshal for the Ayden High School Commencement Exercises this year. Miss Jolly has been active in the various school activities, having been a member of the F. H. A. and the Athletic Association where she played on the basketball team and had been a football cheerleader. She was president of her freshman class, a member of the Student Council and the Chorus and was secretary of the Beta Club her junior year. (Photo by James W. Everett)

Manning-Thompson Pledge Vows

AYDEN—Miss Loretta Kay Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Turner Thompson of Ayden, became the bride of George Kenneth Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Manning of Ayden, Sunday at 4 o'clock in the Ayden Methodist Church.

The Rev. Robert Eason, pastor, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride had her sister, Miss Martha Thompson, for honor attendant.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Clifton Davenport, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Harry Ross of Ayden.

The bridegroom had his brother-in-law, Dr. Clifton Davenport, as best man.

James Manning and Harrell Manning, brothers of the bridegroom, ushered with Charles Hart and George King.

Mrs. Polly Dixon, organist, furnished the music, and Doyle Wise of Landis, cousin of the bride, was soloist.

The bride wore a full length gown of tulle and Peau d'Ange lace over bridal satin, designed with a piquant basque bodice, scalloped bateau neckline and long sheath sleeves ending in points over the hands.

The full length skirt of tulle was highlighted with bands of Peau d'Ange lace accented with a tulle flounce and drifting into a brush train. Her fingertip veil of heath cost's silk illusion was draped from a crown of opalescent and pearls.

She carried a prayer book topped with a white orchid and a cascade of white roses and carnations.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore identical dresses of turquoise tulle with matching headpieces, mitts and shoes. They carried cascades of yellow carnations and roses.

The mother of the bride wore blue lace with a matching hat and the mother of the bridegroom wore pink lace. They both wore corsages of cymbidium orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Duke University School of Nursing. She is now employed in the medical section of the DuPont Plant near Kinston.

The bridegroom was graduated from Duke University. He is a public accountant.

After a wedding trip to western North Carolina and Virginia, the couple will reside here.

The bride's parents entertained at a reception in the church dining room immediately after the ceremony.

Clio Clubbers At House Party

Mrs. Rose Fambrough, Mrs. Jake Hadley, Mrs. Agnes Wilkerson and Miss Jane Hadley were hostesses to the Clio Book Club during the past weekend at a house party at the Hadley cottage, Atlantic Beach.

Luncheon guests Saturday were Mrs. Jack Gates, Mrs. Luther Moore, Mrs. O. E. Dowd, Mrs. Clara Shackell, Miss Annie Shields VanDyke and Miss Agnes Fullilove.

At the luncheon, held in a seafood restaurant, the appointed table was centered with a floral arrangement of peonies, sweet william and mock orange. Novel placecards marked the guests' places.

During the weekend the book club members visited a submarine which was docked at Atlantic Beach for the weekend, attended the opening of the Morehead Biltmore Hotel, played bridge, and took sulf baths.

Women Give Circle Programs

FOUNTAIN—When the Louise Beasley Circle of the Fountain Baptist Church met Monday night in the home of Mrs. Elm Weisner, Mrs. Albert Bell, program chairman, presented a program on "The Christian and the Alcohol Problem." She used as her devotional Isaiah 5:11-14. Mrs. Bell closed the program with prayer followed by refreshments served by the hostess.

Circle No. 2 of the Fountain Presbyterian Church met Tuesday night in the home of Mrs. J. L. Doster with Mrs. Carter G. Smith giving the Bible study, "A Praying Church," and the program, "Woman's Birthday Objective for 1958." At the conclusion of the program the hostess served the 11 members and a social hour was held.

How To Regain The Lost Friends?

Vive President Nixon has returned to his hero's welcome.

President Eisenhower has gotten whatever satisfaction he sought in his show of military force in the Caribbean. And the Republican party has had an opportunity to thrust into the spotlight once more its hopeful standardbearer for 1960.

Now that the fanfare is over the nation still waits for some sort of explanation for the surprising show of dislike for the United States by the Latin American countries visited by Mr. Nixon.

The question arises every day: What happened to our Good Neighbor Policy?

So far neither the President nor any of his aides has offered a satisfactory answer. And the people of the United States want an answer to that question.

More than that, the United States needs to mend its fences of neighborliness with the other nations of this hemisphere.

Unless a genuine friendship exists between the United States and its closest neighbors to the South, how can we expect to maintain our position of security or the security of the free world bloc? If we lack the respect and friendship of the nations closest to us, how can we expect to win new friends half-way round the world?

Out of the unfortunate happenings during the Vice President's recent tour there comes one major point. The United States must carefully examine and revamp its policies toward the nations of Central and South America. We must undertake immediately a positive, realistic program which will regain for us the friendship we have lost in Latin America.

If the present administration lacks the foresight or the ability to undertake such a program, then Congress must make whatever progress it can in that direction until a change in the administration will remove the existing stumbling blocks.

It is imperative that the United States rebuild its Good Neighbor policy which has gone to pot under the present Republican administration.

Air Traffic Controls Needed, Or Else

Another mid-air collision that has claimed the lives of a dozen people points to the urgency of a better traffic control system in the airways over this country.

The collision yesterday between a commercial airliner and a Maryland Air National Guard plane is further evidence that it is no longer reasonable to separate traffic controls for military aircraft and civilian aircraft. With the increased number of both military and civilian planes, we can only expect more air tragedies until adequate traffic controls are established.

Since the collision of two huge airliners over Grand Canyon a few years ago the need for better air traffic control has been apparent. The nation today does not attempt to handle its automobile traffic with the same rules and regulations with which it handled the automobile traffic three decades ago. Why then have not adequate revisions been made in the antiquated system of air traffic control now in use?

With each passing year the nation depends more heavily on air transportation. More planes, both commercial and private are in operation. The number of military aircraft certainly will not decrease in the near future. The airways therefore become more congested and the need for adequate traffic controls more acute. Until adequate air traffic controls are established by civilian and military authorities, we can only expect one tragic accident after another.

Research Now A Major Industry

By LYNN NISBET

RESEARCH — Research is not only the handmaiden of industry, but is itself a major industry in North Carolina. One of the latest installations is the Union Carbide Chemical Company's Research Farm at Clayton.

The 142-acre tract has been divided into experimental plots for field crops, garden vegetables and fruit trees for the testing of various methods of speeding growth and controlling pests. In addition to the numerous nematocides, herbicides and pesticides and other chemicals, experiments are conducted in the use of plastic mulches and building materials.

One example is a large greenhouse, built at a cost of about $800 (contrasted with a glass house cost of $12,000) in which several types of plastic are used. Purpose is to determine the durability and relative merit of each type.

Another interesting feature is that the scientists "plant" nematodes, wood borers and other pests in order to more certainly gauge the effect of their control agents. Weed killers that will not retard the growth of grass, and grass killers that will not affect woody plants are being tried out on dozens of plots.

There is a complete weather station with most modern gadgets for gauging rainfall, wind direction and velocity, humidity, and other factors of importance to farmers.

An 8-acre lake affords water for irrigation. Two other lakes are being developed, not only for larger water supply but to determine the cost of piping a short distance as against a longer run. Marshy areas are being drained by underground tile into a water hole — restoring the drain land to use and adding to the irrigation water supply.

MEETINGS — Finding places with facilities for handling large assemblages is becoming a problem in North Carolina — one of the most convention-minded states in the country. There are less than a dozen cities in the state with capacity for conventions of more than 200 — none at all on the coast.

The North Carolina Bar Association, which will consider vital amendments to the North Carolina constitution, has scheduled its annual meeting at Myrtle Beach. There is a growing tendency to break up the big associations into regional or sectional groups.

The practice is growing for State boards and commissions to hold formal sessions at points throughout the state instead of having them all at Raleigh. The Board of Conservation and Development initiated that policy some years ago. The Highway Commission has about every other monthly meeting outside of Raleigh. The State Ports Authority is joining the procession.

The meeting scheduled for High Point on June 3 is billed as the first in a series of sessions at various points throughout the state. This contrasts with former policy of holding all meetings at the port cities, or at Raleigh since the main offices were moved here.

These official State government agencies have no difficulty finding meeting places large enough to accommodate them. The reason for rotating sites is to afford local people in the several communities a chance to get better acquainted with their work, and to afford opportunity for members to get first hand knowledge of local needs.

The Travel Council of North Carolina has a meeting scheduled for Morehead City on June 6-7. Previous sessions have been held at Asheville, Nag's Head, Raleigh, Southern Pines and Winston-Salem.

POTPOURRI — Sen. Everett Jordan said the folks who were accusing him of being just a "seat warmer" didn't know what they were talking about. "It don't need warming," he quipped. "It's already a hot seat."

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnston, manager of the Democratic State headquarters office, points out that appointees to the United States Senate need have no fear of dying in office. "It isn't the appointees who die," she said, "but the men who defend them in the next primary."

In support of that statement it is noted that Senators Broughton, Smith and Scott died in office after defeating appointees Umstead, Graham and Lennon. No appointee Senator has died in office in memory of anybody now living.

Elevators in State office buildings will not haul groups of school children. It's a safety measure. Fortunately, most of the places visited by the school groups are on the ground floor. Notable exceptions are the legislative halls in the capitol, the museum and the art galleries. Elevators have very limited capacity and most school groups are too big to be accommodated. Safety requires that the groups be kept together. So, elevator operators have been told not to carry any of them.

Everybody who does business with the Ambassador Motel at Myrtle Beach is made conscious of the value of travel travel in North Carolina. The Ambassador's checks have neatly printed just above the name of the payee the notation: "This check made possible by tourist dollars." That's an indirect but effective way of reminding dry cleaners and laundriers, insurance agents and merchants, even lawyers and doctors, that they have definite stake in promoting travel business in North Carolina.

The Payoff In Space Ventures

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — This country has to pour money into space developments for national defense. But what about developments that don't directly involve defense. Is it worth putting money into them?

The House Space Committee thinks so. It says in time the money spent now will pay for itself.

It was this committee which late Monday approved a bill to set up a strong civilian agency to direct this country's nonmilitary space developments and explorations.

When the committee talks about the money poured into such developments paying for itself it's thinking of weather forecasting, global television, jobs and transportation.

In its report the committee said this about the number of jobs that would be provided from work on space projects and all the things related to them: "Over just a 3 1/2 year span, the employment related to the contracts of the Air Force Ballistic Missiles Division has surged from 5,000 to over 80,000 people."

"If the space age is entered by the United States with the boldness it deserves, the next five years should see all talk of unemployment in this country replaced by the greatest labor shortage in our experience."

"Nor will this be profitless 'made' employment equivalent to the employment schemes of depression years, or the waste that inevitably is the price of war."

"On the contrary, the benefits of the space age will spread directly through an ever widening circle of subcontractors and specialty manufacturers, both large and small."

The committee even raised the prospect of rocket travel someday—for freight and passengers—as the cheapest way of quick delivery for both from one point on the earth to another.

"This is fact, not fantasy," the report said.

To show what space development would mean, the report quoted one of the witnesses before the committee—Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory — as saying: "Weather forecasting, in my opinion, will become a science instead of an art." How would it be done? With the combined help of satellites and great computing machines. Then the report quoted from the testimony of another witness, Dr. Francis W. Reichelderfer, chief of the Weather Bureau.

He said between 10 and 15 years ago the bureau sought to find out the value of weather forecasts and storm warnings to the general public and to the national economy.

He said: "The figures that were presented to us by business and agricultural interests were so high that we never have been quite willing to come out with the value for fear that someone might think we were exaggerating."

"They were well in excess of a billion dollars a year. . . . Then he added: "The university extension service of one of the states estimated that five million dollars would be added to farm income in that state alone if forecasts for a period of five days or so were 100 per cent accurate."

"For farming in general, the figure that was given me is 2 1/2 billion a year. For the lumber industry, 45 million. For transportation, exclusive of air transport, 100 billion."

"In the very important field of water resources, the values in the planning of how to handle water stored for irrigation, in the light of what the weather will be a few days or a few weeks ahead, . . . the estimate is three billion a year."

"In retail marketing the value would be great. Certainly they would be on the order of 50 million or 100 million per year."

"Now, these figures are all tentative. . . . We feel sure that the figure would be several billion dollars a year."

Opinions In Brief

"When Dallas, Texas, was asked by one of the Senators—to submit a list of proposed city projects needing financing and their estimated cost, city officials refused. They pointed out that when Dallas needed money for new projects it could obtain it more cheaply by selling its own bonds than by accepting it from Washington. Incidentally, the Dallas school system is one which does not accept Federal support nor Federal surplus food for its school lunchrooms."—Industrial News Review.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
LOOKING ON LIFE
ITH CHARITY

An elderly woman who is noted for being very clever in her partee was asked some time ago how life was treating her. Her reply was that she did not allow the events of life to trouble her. "I have given my attention in recent years," she added with a smile, "to interior decorating. Also I have a good tenant in the upper story. So I'm not afraid."

We quail as we confront the extent to which all of us are worried and anxious about the extent of life—as Jesus put it, that we shall eat, or what we shall drink, or wherewithal we shall be clothed. The interior things of life so seldom engage our attention. We do not, as did the old lady, give our time and attention to "interior decorating." Presumably this fine old maid of the Lord had long ago decided that life is too short to harbor grudges, to think up all the possible bad things about one's neighbors. Instead, we went in for what she called "interior decorating," filling her mind with good and charitable thoughts and looking on the merry side of life instead of on the sad and complaining side.

As for the good tenant in her upper story, we may well take note here. Someone referred, recently, to a particular fellow as keeping all his resentments and fears stored up right in the hollow of his head. It's good to see it that one has a satisfactory tenant in the upper story.

Bronx Born Author

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "I think we're all losing size," said playwright Paddy Chayefsky.

"Too few people today want stature. They seem to be trying to get rid of the stature they have."

Scratch a humorist and you find a moralist. And Chayefsky is no exception. At 35 Paddy, who won fame with "Marty," finds the world a deadly serious place inhabited by people too often motivated by uncontrollable hostility or an uncontrollable reach for personal pleasure.

"I get the feeling that the clanking legions of the barbarians are outside the gates again," he said. "People have tried this wild, let's-live-it-up philosophy so often before in history, and it has never worked."

"Hedonism for the sake of hedonism — this living only for pleasure is pretty bad."

"When you get right down to it, however, there are only two windows to the world — two great themes to write about."

"One says life is nothing, and the only thing worth living for is death. The other says love makes the world go round. That's my window."

"I believe in any kind of love—even if it's sick or selfish—that gives a person a reason to live."

The Bronx-born author, whose chunky frame is topped by a dark shock of hair as rebellious as his spirit, currently is firm in the saddle of that rainbow mount called success. He has produced his own movie, "The Goddess" and completed the script for another, "The Middle of the Night." He is putting the finishing touches on a Broadway play.

But after 16 years of writing, including a period spent as a sag-smith, he feels he has only now mastered the technique of his craft.

"You're a craftsman when you no longer have to watch your fingers," he explained, "and you can tell when you do something whether it's right or wrong."

"I'm not rich, but I'm comfortable well off. I could lay off a year and get by if I had to. But I want to be prepared for that three-year fallow period they say comes to every writer at some time in his life."

"I feel now I've got the craftsmanship in my hands. Now I want to go on and become a real artist."

"I take myself seriously as a writer, whether anyone else does or not. I spend hours trying to get a single phrase right. The whole labor of writing is to make it look like it just came off the top of your head."

Chayefsky, whose goal is serious comedy, is annoyed at people who think a writer good in one field can just as easily write on any other subject.

"One producer asked me to dash him off a Western story," he said, grimacing. "I told him that to write a Western I'd have to do six months of research before I wrote a line."

Many who win success find it disappointing. They look with yearning back to some earlier period of their life. Not Chayefsky. Neither his childhood nor his years as a soldier — he was wounded in Europe during the World War II — hold any romantic appeal to him.

"The happiest time of my life is right now," he said. "I hated the war, and adolescence was the unhappiest period I ever knew."

"Someone once wrote and asked me why I didn't write a play about teen-agers. I couldn't bear it. I couldn't go back and live that misery over again even in memory."

"My son, Danny, is now 3 years old. My biggest wish is that, somehow, he could skip the years between 10 and 20."

Day For Seeing A Brighter Side

By ELMER ROESSNER

There will be more rainy days ahead, the Russians will jab more needles into us, and the recession is not over. There's even a question of whether it has touched bottom yet.

But today, just for this once, let's look at the brighter things: In planning the business news, let's look at the flakes of gold that flash in the sunlight.

Item: A majority of 688 company presidents surveyed by the American Management Association reported they will spend as much or more money this year on direct sales effort, advertising and sales promotion, and on research and new product development than they did in 1957. . . .

Item: A majority of businessmen surveyed by Dun & Bradstreet said that in the third quarter of this year business will match or beat business in the third 1957 quarter.

Proof Of The Pudding

By JIMMY ELLIS

Opportunity Lost Again

Sunday morning, while I was waiting for things to begin at East Carolina College's graduation exercises, I made myself a promise.

"This time," I told myself, "I'll remember what Dr. Messick says when he shakes my right hand and puts that diploma in my left hand."

I have been struggling with my memory since May 24, 1954, trying to recall what the man said then. It isn't at all important that I remember it, but it's just one of those blasted things which come to mind every now and then to aggravate you.

So, I told my. If I'd remembered.

I thought about the promise every few minutes — while we were getting into line in front of East Carolina's Wright Building, while we were walking through the arboretum on the way to Memorial Gymnasium and after I sat down inside the gym.

I also forgot the promise every few minutes — while Dr. Cleveland Bradner was pronouncing the invocation, while George A. Allen was making his address, and especially while Wendell Smiley was reading what seemed to be a never-ending list of names of persons receiving B. S. degrees.

But, while I forgot the promise occasionally, it came back to me at what seemed a proper moment: when Dr. Leo W. Jenkins presented the group of M.A. candidates.

That was when I told myself, "O.K., Buster, remember that you're supposed to remember what Dr. Messick says when you go up on the platform."

I kept telling myself, "Remember, remember, remember." That was the whole conversation I had with myself while walking up the aisle toward the platform. I even forgot to continue my search for the seats My Fair Gwen and other members of the family were occupying (I never did see them), and I just ignored the good-natured comments whispered by friends I passed on the way to the platform.

The thought was also uppermost on my mind when I began going up the steps to the platform, and I vaguely recall telling myself at that point, "Well, you'll have something to tell your grandchildren. You have finally remembered something long enough for it to be worthwhile."

I really had things organized when my name was finally called to march across the platform. I started the good Dr. Messick squarely in the eye, put out my right hand and swung the left hand into the proper position for receiving the diploma.

He smiled and squeezed my hand equally hard, and strained both ears for the message that was coming out. That's when the roof fell in.

When I realized how close I had come to doing what I had waited four years to do, I forgot everything else, too.

It's enough to make a boy want to lay down and weep.

Dr. Jenkins spoke to me from his position, slightly to the right and rear of Dr. Messick and me. I turned my head just a bit to pick up his message and when I did disaster struck.

The tassel on my academic cap swung around plopped into my open mouth and thoroughly distracted my attention from everything I had planned to do and hear. It was all I could do to spit the thing out.

When I realized how close I had come to doing what I had waited four years to do, I forgot everything else, too.

It's enough to make a boy want to lay down and weep.

Other Editors Saying --- Pflimlin Won: What Now?

(Richmond Times-Dispatch)

Premier Pflimlin of France won a substantial victory in the National Assembly yesterday, when that body gave him a vote of confidence of nearly 5 to 1. Yet it left him and his government in an anomalous position.

For whereas renewed authority was thereby granted the military-colonial regime in Algeria, that regime, resting mainly on the army, is hostile to Pflimlin and apparently tends toward Gen. DeGaulle. The assembly's action left Gen. Salan in control of Algeria, but Salan's real attitude toward the government in Paris is far from clear.

He is reported to have urged Pflimlin to resign — which indicates that he is by no means a supporter. In addition, Gen. Massau, the tough paratrooper in Algeria with the eagle beak, is said to dominate Salan. Massau is one of DeGaulle's principal backers.

Where all this is going to end is anybody's guess. The volatile French National Assembly is about as unpredictable as it is come, and whereas the 150 Communist members and others are backing Pflimlin now, they may break away at any time.

Gen. DeGaulle has been stonily silent since he returned to his village home at Colombey-les-deux-Eglises, some 150 miles east of Paris. So has Gen. Massau. What these two, and their extreme rightist allies, are up to, remains to be determined.

The fate of NATO, which is built around France, hangs in the balance. So does the fate of North Africa, with its aroused Arabs, who are being goaded by Nasser on the one hand and Russia on the other.

We in the United States have a huge military, financial and diplomatic stake in all this. In France proper we have spent enormous sums on bases, pipelines, airfields and so forth. Ditto for North Africa, although our big bases there are in Morocco, rather than in neighboring Algeria.

Our whole position in Western Europe and North Africa manifestly would be vastly weakened if civil war and chaos should overwhelm France. The ominous silence on the part of Gens. DeGaulle and Massau may bode no good for the Pflimlin government or for the United States and the free world generally.

Just how France is going to manage to hang on to Algeria, in the face of all this, and despite the mounting determination of the Arabs there to be free, is not clear. It may be a virtually hopeless task.

France tried to hang on too long in Indochina, and ended by suffering a disastrous defeat at Dienbienphu. The result was that she lost out in that whole area of Asia. If the same thing happens in Africa, it will be in accord with the trend of the times, but it won't be at all helpful to the military position of the United States.

Illinois Called Prairie State Notes Speaker

ROBERSONVILLE—Illinois is appropriately called the "Prairie State" because the name emphasizes the character of the surface," noted Miss Millie Roebuck, Book Lovers Club hostess and speaker at the Tuesday afternoon meeting.

Mentioning the history of the state, she said, "What was once a happy hunting ground of the Indians has now turned into one of the busiest sections of North America. In less than three centuries the French trading posts have become great cities and today Illinois ranks among the leading industrial regions of the world."

She noted that Chicago, its principal city, is the second largest city both in population and in value of its manufactures. "It leads the entire world in meat packing," she added.

Mrs. Roebuck explained that Illinois stands near the top of the 48 states in the amount that it spends on education. "The University of Chicago and Northwestern University are some of the largest and best known institutions in this country," she said in conclusion.

During the business session a thank you note from the family of the late Mrs. Clyde Daniels was read. The hostess served coffee and homemade apple pie topped with ice cream to the members and one guest, Mrs. W. K. Roebuck.

28 Young People Recognized For GA, RA Work

A candlelight Girls' Auxiliary Coronation and Royal Ambassador Recognition Service was held at the Winterville Missionary Baptist Church May 14 in which 28 young people received recognition for advancing in the work of their organizations.

The program opened with the singing of a hymn, "I'm a Child of the King." Mrs. M. T. Speir, president of the Woman's Missionary Union, extended the welcome and introduced the program.

The following boys and girls participated in the service according to their advancement:

Maidens and Pages: Peggy Forrest, Nancy Origer, Betty Ann Weatherington, Madeline Whichard, Cora Lynn Worthington, Paula Clark, Sophia McLawhorn, Jo Anne Pollard, Andrea Whichard, John Carroll, Charles Worthington, Abbott Hunsucker and Bobby Hall. Ladies in Waiting and Squire: Gayle Evans, Lynda Hall, Mary Virginia Langston, Edwina Everton, Jo Anne Worthington, Carolyn Barnes, Sara Pat Olive and Ted Cox.

The highlight of the program was the presentation of the awards to the members who had attained the greatest advancement in their work. Richard Hunsucker was recognized as Ambassador of the Royal Ambassador Chapter and was presented the Shield. Ginny Mumford was crowned Queen of the Girls' Auxiliary and a Star was added to her Crown signifying that she had also completed the requirements for becoming a Queen in Service.

Lora Ellen Hill was recognized as Queen with Scepter and was awarded the Scepter which she is now entitled to bear. Irma Sue Worthington and Judith Mobley were recognized as Queen Regents, and the Capes, which can only be worn by members achieving this high step, was placed on their shoulders.

Sunbeams serving as attendants for the girls who had reached the Queen and above step were: Alexine Dews, Madge Gay Dews, F. Kermit Tyson Jr., Mary Karen McLawhorn, Ryan McLawhorn, Lorelle Barwick and Edgar Wall. Leaders participating in the program were: Mrs. E. E. Carroll, junior G. A. counselor; Mrs. Alton Hill, junior R. A. counselor; and Mrs. A. M. Mumford, intermediate G. A. counselor. Mrs. E. G. Cole served as narrator and Mrs. R. T. Cox as organist.

Following the Prayer of Dedication by the Rev. E. G. Cole, those present were invited to the Recreation Room of the church where the members of the Woman's Missionary Society gave a reception in honor of the young people.

Three ECC Players Named To All-Conference Team

Williams, Talton, Vaughn Selected To Aggregation

GREENSBORO — Three East Carolina baseball players were named to the 1958 All-North State Conference baseball team, as announced by the Greensboro Daily News. The Conference coaches made the selections.

The three boys were pitcher George Williams, second baseman Al Vaughn, and catcher Marion Talton.

Of the three, only Williams was a veteran of an ECC club. Vaughn and Talton were seeing their first season of play for Coach Jim Mallory this year.

Williams, a fireball ace in his second season with the Pirates, is from Camden, N.C. He compiled a 2-0 record this season and was one of Mallory's most dependable hurlers.

Vaughn, from Portsmouth, Va., took over a vacant second base slot for the Buccaneers this year and turned in a fine defensive job. He batted .280.

Talton, a mush-touted 190-pound catcher from Pikesville, batted .275 and caught most of the Pirates' games this season.

North State Conference champions Elon paced the selections, placing five men on the club. Missing by only one vote of being unanimous choices were Elon outfielder Tony Carcaterra and pitcher Gilbert Watts. Catawba's first sacker Gene Fleming also missed the unanimous vote by only one.

Catawba placed four men on the club, Lenoir Rhyme had three and Appalachian one.

THE SACK INVADERS SOFTBALL—Sack styles may be turning male eyes away from female figures all over the country, but an Atlanta women's softball team has adopted a form of chemise that may have a reverse effect. Joyce Welker models uniform of the team, showing back and front views. Coach Snuffy Smith says the sack style gives more freedom of movement and reveals more of the legs. Snuffy said girls' softball uniforms "have become too masculine and the games aren't drawing the crowds they used to. We believe these new uniforms will restore the attractiveness of the game." The team name? "Sad Sacks," of course. (AP Wirephoto)

Manager Tighe Gets Vote Of Confidence

By DAVE DILES
DETROIT (AP) — Manager Jack Tighe had a vote of confidence from the front office today while his Detroit Tigers were wallowing in a six-game losing streak.

Club President Harvey E. Hansen declared "Tighe is not going to be crucified by the fans and the Detroit Tiger management is not going to be influenced and pressured by fans and newspapers."

He said the talkative sophomore pilot has done "a good job under the circumstances."

The letter-writers have been bush of late, demanding that Tighe be ousted. Newspapers and radio stations have had large numbers of letters and calls from disgruntled fans and one group has adopted the slogan "get rid of Tighe by the Fourth of July."

"The second-guessers have been pretty busy," said Hansen, "reflecting on the losing streak that matches the club's poorest string of performances during all of the 1957 season."

"I don't know of another manager in the major leagues who has had more to contend with this year than Jack. He's had injuries galore and a lot of bad luck. Sure, people gripe when you lose. That's only natural."

"But a lot of good managers have been ruined by this silly notion that you must fire the manager when the club is going poorly. Too many managements — I mean the top brass — have allowed themselves to be pressured into drastic moves rather than to rely on their own judgment."

Hansen said directors of the club have never discussed the possibility of removing Tighe, whose Tigers have lost more games than any other American League club.

Hansen was interviewed during Detroit's sixth straight loss yesterday and during the talk he looked up just in time to see Baltimore's Bob Neman hit his second straight home run over the left field barrier.

"There," he said, "you can't blame Jack for that. He can't hit and pitch for his players."

Elks Hand Exchange Club First Loss Of '58 Season

In a Tar Heel League scrap yesterday afternoon at Elm Street Park, the Elks turned back the previously unbeaten Exchange club 4-2.

The victory evened the records of both teams to 1-1 and tossed the Tar Heel League into a position which finds Pepsi-Cola in top spot with a 1-0 record, the two 1-1 teams tied for second place, and the 0-1 Moose in last place. Strangely enough, the Moose copped the 1957 Tar Heel championship.

Double Header
Today, a double header is scheduled to take place at the park and it will be the first one of the season. The Pepsi-Cola and Exchange clubs will face each other in Tar Heel competition, while the Jaycees and Kiwanis clubs will tangle in North State League play. Play begins at 3:30 with North State game; the Tar Heels will square off at 5:00.

Elk pitcher Maloney faced 21 batters in yesterday's game and struck out over half of them, 11 in an effective performance that kept the Exchange club in check while his Elks chalked up four runs.

Maloney gave up only two hits. His team committed four errors along the way but Exchange players pulled seven boners to contribute to their own defeat.

Jimmy Medlin was the losing hurler, although he struck out five and limited the winners to only two hits. He now has a 1-1 mound record.

Neither team scored until the fourth inning. In the fourth, the Exchange picked up their two runs when Sumerlin doubled, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on an error; and Edwards walked, stole second, went to third on an error and scored on a single by Elks.

The Elks scored three in the same inning when Clark, Maloney and Daventport got on base and scored on two errors and a fielder's choice. They got their fourth run in the fifth inning when Mulien scored on a single by Maloney.

Only two extra base hits were clouted during the game, doubles by Sumerlin and Clark. Elks got the Exchange's only other hit and

Same Old Story At Chicago Monday

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

One can't help but recall the highly optimistic words of Chicago White Sox Manager Al Lopez of two months ago.

"We're going to win the pennant," he said then, "because the Yankees are not going to beat us nine of 11 in our park as they did last year. A majority of those defeats came in the late innings after we had taken the lead."

"We had that in mind when we traded some of our power for more pitching. I feel the only club we have to beat to take it all is the Yankees and I'm sure we have the pitching to do it."

The White Sox met the Yankees for the first time this season Monday night—in Chicago. It was the same old story. The Yankees won, 5-1. They hit three home runs, by Mickey Mantle, Hank Bauer and Marv Throneberry. Chicago got only five hits off Johnny Kucks, avoiding a shutout in the ninth inning. The defeat shoved the Sox deeper into the American League basement, 10½ games behind the runaway Yankees.

Kansas City retained second place, 6½ games off the pace, vanquishing Washington 7-3. Boston swept past Cleveland into fourth place, thrashing the Indians 6-1. In the only daylight game, third place Baltimore evened their record at 13-13, defeating Detroit 6-4.

In the National League, the San Francisco Giants opened up a length and a half lead over Milwaukee, defeating Cincinnati 4-2 while Los Angeles scored three times in the 11th to beat the Braves 6-3. St. Louis, making it 11 in their last 13 games, moved into fourth place with a 5-0 triumph over Philadelphia. Pittsburgh snapped a five-game losing streak, drubbing the Chicago Cubs 12-3.

The Yankees rapped Dick Donovan and Bill Fischer for 10 hits to register their seventh straight victory, their 11th in the last 12 games and their 20th in 25 games this season.

Home runs by Ted Williams, Jimmy Piersall and Pete Runnels helped Bob Smith gain his third victory without a defeat. The Boston left-hander went all the way against Cleveland, hurling a three-hitter.

Trouble Follows The Duke Around

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Duke Snider, the Los Angeles Dodgers controversial center fielder, says try as he will he just can't seem to stay out of the doghouse.

"I try to steer clear of trouble," he said last night, "but I just seem to fall into it."

The Duke wasn't talking about last night in particular. He had smashed a pinch-hit double and driven in the deciding run in the Dodgers' 6-3, 11-inning victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

Only the night before, though, he and Dodger Vice President E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi exchanged barbed remarks over Bavasi's charge that the Duke was guilty of indifference and lackluster play in the face of a .225 batting average and five RBIs.

"I had two long talks with Bavasi after I heard about what he said," Snider explained, "and I'm very satisfied with his explanation to me. He's a helluva nice guy. He has a lot on his mind right now."

Snider claims his latest scrape with Bavasi grew out of a misunderstanding over his ability to play.

"My left knee is still swollen and I can't run or play on it like before," Snider said. "As a matter of fact, we're waiting for a report from Dr. Dan Leventhal right now on my knee. I can't play every day as it is." The knee was injured in an auto accident.

Alvin Dark Traded To Cubs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The fourth-place St. Louis Cardinals have traded veteran shortstop Alvin Dark for right-handed pitcher Jim Brosnan, formerly of the Chicago Cubs.

The Cardinal front office said no money changed hands in the deal. The Cards plan to put the 28-year-old Brosnan, 3-4 so far this season, into pitching rotation immediately.

Dark, 35, was one of the highest salaried players on the Red Bird squad. He has been in and out of the lineup lately, being benched part of the time for Dick Schofield.

Brosnan has a major league career mark of 11-15, which includes a 4-1 edge over the Cardinals.

Quality Oil Co.	1	1	.500
Greenville P&M	1	2	.333

The Graniteers, year in and year out the dominating club, have already taken a firm lead on the conference standings and are undefeated in three games. Last year, the Graniteers copped the title with good pitching, and nine top-notch hitters. This year, the same ball players are back and some new ones have been added. They appear stronger than ever.

Dan Gordan, the winningest pitcher in the history of the loop, has again taken the lead in his field. He has hurled all three Graniteer wins. The rest of the team is made up of veterans Poell, Riddick, Bobby Conway, Wallace Heidenreich, Roebuck, Hardee and Jerry Phillips, a Greenville boy who is returning from service baseball and East Carolina baseball duty, has been given a leftfield spot.

Exceptions
Those exceptions mentioned above, those that distinguish this 1958 season from last year's, are many and are apparently making for a better campaign. For one thing, two new teams have been added to the roster: Quality Oil Company and Coffman's Men's Wear. Another thing is the potential strength of the entire league.

On several occasions, some of the clubs in the lower half of the league have turned in wild-scoring performances — like Quality Oil's 22-5 victory over Coffman's and Greenville P&M's 16-8 win over the same club.

As usual, the Carolina Dairy is offering the Graniteers their biggest threat. The Dairy has lost only once and has won twice. Their winning scores were 13-7 and 13-0, and their only loss was to the Graniteers, a tight 5-3.

One of the new clubs, Quality Oil, has shown a good potential and cannot be judged as yet on the basis of just two games. They have won one 22-5 and dropped one to the Graniteers 7-0.

Games this season are being played three nights each week. On Monday nights, two games are played; on Wednesday nights one game is played; on Friday nights two are played.

Several rule changes have made it possible for the league to use county ball players this season, along with college ball players as long as the college boys are legal residents of Greenville.

Games are played under the lights at Guy Smith Stadium, starting at 7:00.

Ayden Leagues Begin Play Monday Night

AYDEN—The Ayden Little Tar Heel and North Carolina Junior Leagues will open their seasons Monday night, May 26, here, with Collins-Mill playing Curry-Davidson.

Parents of all boys participating in the leagues are urged by the club organizations to attend a gathering at the ball park on Friday night, May 23, to participate in erection of the stands and preparation of the playing field.

Boys of both leagues will canvass Ayden Friday night to sell booster cards for the support of the two leagues.

The leagues feature baseball for boys between the ages of 13 and 15.

Wheels For Soap Box Derby In Greenville

DERBY WHEELS—sports White Chevrolet Company has announced that wheels for the Soap Box Derby racers have arrived and may be obtained any time upon request. The wheels will be furnished without charge, along with instructions for building the race cars.

All boys building racers that fit the national requirements and who would like to participate in the big race at Kinston this year, will receive free transportation to Kinston when the time comes.

Free helmets and T-shirts will also be issued.

There has been word of such a derby race being established in Greenville but all plans are in the discussion stage at the present.

Last year ten boys from Greenville participated in the Kinston race. The winner was awarded a free trip to Akron, Ohio, to participate in the national race.

St. Louis Is Finally In Fourth Place

By JOE REICHLER
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After almost being left at the starting gate, the St. Louis Cardinals have finally pulled up into fourth place in the National League race.

It took 11 victories in their last 13 games to do it. Lindy McDaniel made sure of it by hurling a seven-hitter against Philadelphia as the Cardinals triumphed 5-0. It was the $50,000 bonus right-hander's first shutout of the year and his first since he blanked the same team by the same score on May 16, 1957.

The Cardinals' sizzling pace is being matched, practically victory for victory, by the San Francisco Giants. The West Coast sensations also made it 11 victories in their last 13 outings Monday night with a 4-2 decision in Cincinnati. Young Mike McCormick, the $60,000 bonus left-hander, posted his fourth victory without a defeat with a five-hitter.

The Giants' triumph, coupled with Los Angeles' 6-3 success in Milwaukee in 11 innings, boosted them into first place by 24 percentage points over the Braves. Pittsburgh blasted out of a five-game losing streak with a 12-3 wallop of Chicago.

In the American League, the runaway New York Yankees pushed the Chicago White Sox deeper into the basement with a 5-1 victory. Kansas City clung to second place, defeating Washington 7-3. Boston vaulted past Cleveland into fourth place, whipping the Indians 6-1. In the only game played in daylight, Baltimore retained third place, defeating Detroit 6-4.

The Cards' surge can be attributed to their sudden ferocity against southpaws, who used to give them a great deal of concern.

CHAPTER 14

I washed my hands in Lois Marlow's kitchen, dried them on a paper towel, found bacon and eggs, and started cooking the bacon over a slow fire. I cracked half a dozen eggs into a bowl, tilted the frying pan so the grease would drain out of the bacon without bubbling, found a tin can in the trash bag, and poured out the surplus bacon grease into the can.

I got the bacon pretty well cooked, brought down three or four paper towels, folded them so there was a ridge in the center, and scraped the bacon over this ridge so the grease would drain off.

I put a little cream in with the eggs, beat them up, dumped them in the frying pan and started scrambling them.

They were just beginning to thicken when the door opened and Lois Marlow came to stand by my shoulder.

"How're you doing, Donald?" she asked.

"Okay, if you like 'em scrambled."

"I like 'em scrambled."

"A little paprika?"

"A little paprika."

"Just a faint touch of Worcestershire sauce?"

"Never tried it."

"You're trying it now," I told her.

"Salt, pepper?" she asked.

"Uh-huh. Salt. Okay. Just a very, very small dash of pepper because I want the paprika-flavor to come in."

"And the Worcestershire?"

"And the Worcestershire."

"Your bacon's getting cold."

"As soon as I put the eggs on the plate, I put the bacon back in the frying pan, give it a pass over the hot burner just long enough to warm it up, and put it back on the table."

"You must be married, Donald."

"No."

"How does it happen you take such an interest in cooking?"

"Is that a sign of matrimony?"

"Breakfast cooking is. After a guy gets married, he finds out his wife wants her beauty sleep in the morning. Also he finds she has a headache and gets grouchy if she doesn't have her coffee. That puts the hubby in the kitchen, and once he's there he finds he might as well get the bacon going and get the eggs in the frying pan."

"Makes it nice, doesn't it?"

"Uh-huh."

"Yet you don't think you'd like to teach George to cook?"

"That depends."

"What gave George this complex of his?"

"If I told you, you'd know, wouldn't you?"

"Uh-huh."

She watched the eggs being thickened, then dumped on a platter. She saw me pick up the paper containing the bacon, open it into the frying pan long enough to re-heat it, and then slip it onto the platter.

She said, "If I'd tell you, it would knock you right off the Christmas tree."

"It's hard to knock me out of Christmas trees," I told her. "What about toast?"

"I'd like some."

"There's an electric toaster there," I said. "That's your job."

She laughed, got bread out of the breadbox, dropped a couple of slices in the toaster, turned on the toaster, watched me speculatively.

I waited until the toast was finished and she's buttered it. Then I put the platter containing the eggs surrounded by the hot bacon on the little kitchenette table.

We sat down. She poured two cups of coffee.

I took enough of the eggs to taste them, nibbled at the toast.

She said, "You don't act too hungry."

"My second or third breakfast, I've forgotten which."

"I knew you were the worm-eating type."

She drank the coffee, tried the eggs, tasted them, took another forkful of eggs, tried a piece of bacon, and said, "Hang it, Donald. You'd make some woman a wonderful husband."

"I'm afraid I wouldn't," I said.

"I'd get tough. I'd pull the wife out of bed, give her a spanking, and tell her to get busy in the kitchen while I shaved."

"No, you wouldn't," she said. "If a girl was awfully nice to you, you'd be nice to her."

"Perhaps."

She was silent for a moment, sizing me up. "I'll bet you would be a square shooter, Donald."

"Want to try me?"

"I'm thinking of it. Where do we begin?"

"You might tell me if you were in love with George when you married him," I suggested.

The coffee cup was halfway to her lips. She lowered it. The cup rattled against the saucer. She looked at me.

"You do get around," she said. "Were you?"

She took a deep breath. "I thought I was."

"What happened?"

"George changed."

"All right, what made him change?"

She studied me. "Go on," I said. "Tell me what made his change."

She regarded me thoughtfully, then said, "He murdered his grandfather."

I had a hell of a time trying to keep expression out of my face.

"I knew it would jar you," she said.

I said, "Let me get this straight, Caroline Dutton is his cousin?"

"That's right."

"And she and George both inherited money from the grandfather?"

"A trust fund. Under the terms of the trust, George got twice as much money as Caroline."

"But they both benefited by the grandfather's death?"

"That's right."

"And you think he was murdered?"

"Yes."

"What about Caroline? Does she know?"

"Would she keep quiet if she did?"

I was jarred more than I'd expected. I said hastily, "She's the type that— That is," I amended, "if she's the type you described, she—"

Lois Marlow said, "I'll be a dirty name!"

"What's the matter?" I asked.

"Donald, you little devil, I'll bet you did it!"

"What are you talking about?" I asked, knowing that I had made my big mistake.

"Caroline and Horace dropped in last night," she said. "They were drunk as hoot owls. They were terribly excited over their good fortune. Horace had sold a painting to a man who was a connoisseur of art, and— Damn it! Donald, you were the guy!"

"What guy?"

"The guy who bought the painting! Don't stall. There's something about the expression on your face, something about the way you stopped when you started talking about Caroline! You didn't want me to know that you'd met her."

"Up here we don't like private eyes that get in our way," Donald warned. "Continue the story here tomorrow."

She's To Testify As To Sanity

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Highway Patrolman Bright Bell sighed heavily after booking Virginia Tyson, 28, Los Angeles, on a charge of reckless driving.

After leading him on a 20-mile chase at speeds up to 115 miles an hour, he said she told him: "I'm on my way to San Francisco to testify in the sanity hearing of a friend."

British Guiana in South America is, in prospective, a rich field in gold and diamonds, some now productive.

Makes Ambition Sound Simple

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — In a composition titled, "What I Would Like to Be Right Now," read by School Supl. Harold H. Eibling at a Columbus School Board meeting a 9-year-old wrote:

"I would like to be a father of two children and be president of a bank. Because I like kids and banks. To be a president of a bank you have to have a good record, and no time in the pen. You would have to go to a banker college (sic) and to be a father, it's natural and easy."

PLYMOUTH SAVES YOU MONEY ON GAS... MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN VICTORY PROVES IT!

New "Fuel-Saver" Choke that helped clinch title is standard equipment on all Plymouth V-8s

Pound for pound, Plymouth uses less gasoline than either of the "other two" cars in the low-price "3"! This was proved beyond doubt when a 1958 Plymouth V-8 was officially declared winner of the low-price car competition in the 1958 Mobilgas Economy Run. Plymouth's competitors also entered cars with 6-cylinder engines (supposedly more economical) but Plymouth beat every car in its class—V-8s and 6s alike!

This title-winning Plymouth is exactly the same Belvedere V-8 with TorqueFlite Automatic Transmission that you can buy right off your Plymouth dealer's floor.

These tests prove that every Plymouth has built-in economy features not found in the "other two". For instance—one of the most important factors in Plymouth's smashing win is the new "Fuel-Saver" Choke that you get at no extra cost on all Plymouth V-8s. This ingenious device employs a triple-stage vacuum piston and a new thermostatic element to reduce the amount of fuel you use in warming up the engine. So it can save you even more on short-distance drives—the kind most people make.

Among the many other savings Plymouth gives you is the $140 you save on standard-equipment Torsion-Aire Ride. The "other two" charge up to that much extra for their best suspension systems.

So if you are dollar-conscious, better hustle over and talk terms and trade with your Plymouth dealer. He wants your business, and he'll go all out to get it!

NEW YORK (N - Stock market prices were mixed early this afternoon with steel active. Key stocks showed gains or losses of fractions to around a point. Most changes were small. The market had an edge to the upside in early trading. The ticker tape was late briefly at the opening. The larger steel issues continued their strong rise of yesterday but only for a while, then they turned ragged.

The rise of the short interest to its highest level in 27 years was a factor of underlying bullish strength as it represents the sale of borrowed stock which must be replaced eventually. Analysts said however, that a rise was anticipated in yesterday's session.

Leading rail shares were ahead on average. Some oils, chemicals, aircrafts, radio-televisions, farm implements and other selected issues were higher. The major automotive shares were down, as were some of the coppers, mail orders and building material shares.

Curtis-Wright jumped 1 1/2 to 25 on a block of 2,200 shares and extended its gain later. News that it was paying its regular dividend came as a pleasant surprise. J. I. Case, helped by a Wall Street recommendation, rose 3/4 to 19 1/2 on 6,900 shares.

Polaroid posted a small plus sign after its gyrations of yesterday. Lorillard dropped about a point. Allied Chemical was off 1/2 to 75 on a block of 7,000 shares. Reeves Bros. fell more than a point on news that it had halted its dividend.

U.S. Steel and Bethlehem moved very narrowly to the plus or minus side. Republic Steel was ahead a bit. Youngstown Sheet dropped a fraction for a while then showed a small net gain.

Chrysler, briskly traded, was down a major fraction. American Motors was about unchanged after showing a gain on a big opening block.

Gainers included Illinois Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Southern Railway, Union Carbide, Boeing, North American Aviation, Goodrich, American Smelting and International Nickel, Kennecott, General Motors and Montgomery Ward were among the losers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at $168.60 with the industrials down 20 cents, the rails up 40 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Air Force Commission For 14 ECC Cadets

Fourteen members of the East Carolina College 1958 graduating class have received commissions in the United States Air Force as second lieutenants. The names of the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps Cadets receiving commissions were announced today by Col. Edward J. Maloney, Professor of Air Science at ECC and Commander of the unit.

Lieutenant Paul Lester Singleton of Greenville and Lieutenant William Payne Speight of Roanoke Rapids were cited as Distinguished Graduates of the AFROTC program. They held top positions in the Officers Cadet programs during the past year.

Other Cadets receiving their commissions are Dallas Crawford Dixon, Grantsboro; Wallace Lee Giles, 2600 Wade Avenue, Raleigh;

Cadets Going To Air Force Bases

Air Force ROTC Cadets at East Carolina College will participate in 1958 summer training exercises at two Florida Air Force Bases, it was announced today by Col. Edward J. Maloney, professor of Air Science at ECC.

The first period of training for 13 Cadets at MacDill AFB, Tampa, Fla., continues from June 15 to July 12, and will be attended by Cadets Eugene M. Brown, Franklin M. Johnson, and James E. Speight, all of Greenville; Thomas A. Farlow, Sanford; Thomas T. Garner, Augusta, Ga.; Jackson A. Henley, Asheboro; Cecil P. Julian, Salisbury; Jack B. KKOoberling, Lenoir; Calvin E. Mills and Eugene L. Whitfield, Durham; Carl E. Mabe, Prospect Hill; Grayton W. Tripp, Greenville; and Leo W. Thacker, Jr., Mount Holly.

Five Cadets will report to Eglin AFB, Florida, for the Aug. 3-30 training period. They are Carlton G. Hall, Littleton; Charles C. Hoffman and John P. Spoon, Alexandria, Va.; Gene G. Mercer, Black Creek; and William O. Meacham, El Toro, California.

Dicusses Problems Met In Building Plant Abroad

Charles Braswell, former Greenville resident now employed by a Union Carbide subsidiary in the Philippines, talked to the Greenville Rotary Club Monday night discussing problems involved in establishing a new industrial plant in that country.

Braswell, employed as an engineer at the Greenville National Carbon plant for several years, was a member of a team the company sent to the Philippines in 1955 to build and operate a flashlight battery plant.

Construction of the plant required a large number of men, he said, because the country lacks the quantity of mechanical equipment available in the United States.

When the plant went into production in January of 1956 most of the workers were hired from rural areas outside Manila, Braswell said. He explained that workers in the Philippines are highly organized and the country is "over-educated for the number of jobs available."

Many of the natives, the speaker said, live in very poor houses which lack sanitary facilities.

Panel Will Talk Proposed Levy

A panel discussion by City Manager Leonard P. Bloxam, County Commissioner Woodrow Wooten and Dave Whichard III will be held in the city courtroom Tuesday night, May 27 at 8 o'clock.

The discussion will revolve around the proposed three cent tax levy to come before the voters of Pitt County on May 31. Purpose of the special tax levy is to establish a Pitt County Industrial Development Commission.

The meeting, sponsored by the Greenville League of Women Voters, is open to the public.

Police Estimate Amount Of Loot

Continuing their investigation of the break-in at the West End Tea Room on West Fifth Street, officers have released final estimates on the amount of money missing.

Twenty-two dollars was reported taken from a cigarette machine and $20 from a juke box. Both were broken into Monday night, according to P. J. Norfleet, operator of the local cafe and dance hall.

In addition approximately 300 pennies and two-thirds of a box of cigars, valued at $2, were reported missing by Norfleet.

Colored News Set Start For Dual-Lane Road

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A 13-mile dual lane highway between Marion and Old Fort is due for a construction start late in July.

The road link, involving one of the largest road grading projects ever planned in North Carolina, is to parallel U.S. 70 and cost an estimated four million dollars.

The Carolina Branch of the Associated General Contractors said 5 1/2 million yards of excavation work is involved. Bids for grading and bridge construction to be completed in about 18 months, are due to be received June 3.

Suspended Sentences Ordered For Two In Car-Burning Case

Suspended sentences and probation terms were ordered yesterday for a Winterville woman and one of two companions involved in burning an automobile to collect insurance.

Eula Mae Sheppard of Route 1, Winterville, was ordered placed on probation for five years as a condition for suspending a 5-40-7 years term and a 12 months term imposed by Judge Joseph W. Parker, presiding at a one-week mixed term of Pitt County Superior Court. Joe Lee Smith, a co-defendant in the situation, was ordered placed on probation for five years also as a condition for suspending a two-year jail term.

Sentences for the Sheppard woman were ordered after she pleaded guilty to fraud and to causing unlawful burning of an automobile. The man entered a plea of guilty to malicious damage to personal property.

A third defendant in the case, Andrew Smith, entered pleas of guilty yesterday to causing unlawful burning of an automobile and damage to personal property, but judgment was delayed. Judge Parker was scheduled to sentence the man this morning.

Cases charging the two Smiths with malicious damage to personal property, and charging the Sheppard woman and Andrew Smith with arson and conspiracy to commit arson were quashed by the court upon motion of attorneys. Other charges against the three people were not pressed by Solicitor Robert D. Rouse Jr.

Other judgments returned by the court yesterday included:

Robert Dixon, Negro, Route 1, Grimesland, breaking, entering and larceny, defendant entered a plea of guilty to larceny of goods of less than $100 value, 12 months suspended and defendant placed on probation for three years upon payment of costs and payment of restitution ($10) to James Earl Heath; Robert Dixon, Negro, Route 1, Grimesland, breaking, entering and larceny, no pros; David Hagan, Negro, 1104 West Fifth Street, Greenville, affray, no pros; Robert Earl Mills, Route 1, Ayden, driving under the influence, 18 months suspended upon payment of $100 and costs, and on special condition Mills does not operate a motor vehicle until he obtains a proper license.

James D. Elks, Route 2, Greenville, drunk and disorderly conduct, no pros; James D. Elks, Route 2, Greenville, assault with a deadly weapon and assault on a female, defendant entered a plea of guilty to assault on a female, 12 months suspended upon payment of costs, good behavior for one year, and on special condition Elks does not visit or go near the home of his father or step-mother after having taken any quantity of alcoholic beverages.

Billy Odham, Route 1, Griffon, non-support, two years suspended for five years upon payment of costs and payment of $7.50 per week for use and benefit of Gloria Adams (Odham was found guilty by a jury on April 25, but judgment was continued until the May term of court).

Puts Stress On Parental Role

OMAHA (AP)—More than ever before in this nation's history it is essential that parents assume the major responsibility for the upbringing of their children.

That conviction was voiced today by Mrs. James C. Parker, newly elected president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

"This is no time," she said in an interview, "for parents to abdicate their responsibilities, nor for them to expect the school to assume full responsibility for the training of youngsters in discipline and self-control."

"In this strange, confused world of ours, we need more than ever before to strengthen the home and help it to develop those needed qualities of ethics, morals and concern for other people."

The home and the school, she added, "must work together in helping youngsters in all the areas in which children grow. The home can help the child adjust to school, the school can do a great deal toward preparing the youngster for his own family life. It must be a cooperative effort."

Says Lawmakers 'Fed To Death'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The attending physician to Congress says the lawmakers are being fed to death.

Rear Adm. George W. Calver, in an interview last night at the opening session of the American College of Cardiology convention, said a combination of rounds of luncheons and dinners plus the stress of making the nation's laws adds up to a high rate of congressional heart and circulatory diseases.

Dr. Calver, president-elect of the cardiology group, said sitting and listening to a colleague's oration just isn't enough exercise to consume the fuel taken in by heavy political dinners.
