New Peak For Living Cost Index

Grocery Prices Pace Advance; Pay Increases For Many Workers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Another record high in housewives' grocery costs sent the government's living cost index to a peak in April.

Officials who announced the new rise today had some good news for consumers, however.

The government index rose two-tenths of one per cent between March and April, reaching 123.5 per cent of the 1947-49 base period.

The April living cost level was 3.5 per cent above April 1957. It represented the 18th increase in the past 20 months.

The new rise means a pay increase to about half a million workers based on labor contracts geared partly to changes in the government index.

An additional 750,000 workers would normally receive pay adjustments based on the April index increase.

The automatic raises got to workers in the aircraft and electrical manufacturing industries.

House Passes Postal Rate Boost Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed a bill to raise the cost of a first-class letter from 3 to 4 cents and on airmail letters from 6 to 7 cents.

The rate hikes will take effect Aug. 1 if President Eisenhower signs the bill.

The measure also carries wage increases for post office workers aggregating 380 million dollars a year—more than Eisenhower proposed.

The House sent the compromise measure to the White House after brief discussion. The Senate passed it yesterday 88-0.

The bill provides for an overall increase in postal rates of an estimated 550 million dollars annually.

As a revenue producer, the bill falls about 150 million dollars short of what the President wanted, while the raises it provides for 520,000 postal employees total 220 million dollars more than Eisenhower proposed.

The bill is a compromise of measures passed separately by the House and Senate. Its major provision is for an increase from 3 to 4 cents in the cost of mailing a first-class letter.

Boosts in rates on letters, post cards, air mail and books would become effective Aug. 1.

Rates on newspapers and magazines and on advertising matter would also be increased, in stages, starting Jan. 1.

The 10 per cent pay hike for most postal workers—the President had proposed a 6 per cent boost—would be retroactive to last Jan. 1.

Although the bill falls considerably short of what Eisenhower wanted, his congressional confidants predicted he would sign it as the best bill he could get under the circumstances.

The President had asked for a 5-cent rate on nonlocal letters in a bid to whittle sharply the Post Office Department deficit estimated at 700 million dollars this year and next year.

Because the full effect of the rate increases would not be felt for four years, the bill would offset the postal deficit by only about 77 million dollars next year.

The compromise bill does not contain the senate provision permitting military personnel having Army Post Office or Fleet Post Office addresses abroad to send letters free.

House conferees insisted on elimination of the provision.

Boy Opens Door In Airliner 7,000 Feet Up

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A small boy was snatched to safety after he opened the door of a Capital Airlines plane flying 7,000 feet above North Carolina yesterday.

The vice president of a national hat manufacturing company pulled the unidentified child away from the door as it swung loose in the windstream of the aircraft.

A crew member pulled the door closed as passengers were instructed to put out their cigarettes and fasten their seat belts.

Two executives of Norfolk Portsmouth Newspapers Inc. witnessed the incident.

Harold Sugg, assistant to the publisher who was returning from New Orleans with Art Gormley, said the man who pulled the child to safety was Marvin C. Clark of Atlanta, vice president of the Station Hat Co.

As the plane winged across North Carolina, the child who had been walking up and down the passageway managed to open the door.

Gormley said the door swung open wide enough for the child to have fallen out. The stewardess tried to pull the door shut, but Clark grabbed her and held her away from it.

At the time of the incident, the boy's mother was with a second smaller child in the forward part of the plane.

"The crew members acted very calmly," said Sugg. "There was no panic."

At the Norfolk Airport, the mother of the child told Clark, "I'll always remember you for this."

The mother and the two children left the airport with relatives before they could be identified. A Capital Airlines spokesman in Norfolk said he had no report of the incident and could not give the names of the passengers involved from the plane's flight list.

FUQUAY SPRINGS, N.C. (AP) The flue-cured tobacco industry can prepare to brace itself for another "health scare" campaign against cigarettes.

That's the opinion of Fred S. Royster of Henderson, managing director of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn.

Royster told the annual meeting of the Middle Belt Warehouse Assn. yesterday that results of a three-year study involving thousands of World War I veterans will be released within a few weeks by the Veterans Administration and the national health institutes.

He predicted the report will be intended to show a statistical association between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

Royster strongly suggested that flue-cured growers need to develop a positive public relations program to defend and promote their commodity.

He told the warehousemen he anticipates an average price of about $58 to $60 per hundred pounds for the 1958 flue-cured tobacco crop. Last year's average price for the flue-cured area was $55.40 per hundred pounds.

Royster said he was optimistic over the coming season. For one thing, he noted, stocks of tobacco on hand are approximately 200 million pounds less than a year ago.

He told the group the problem of tobacco taxation is getting progressively worse, adding: "Tobacco is being taxed out of all proportion, and there is no question but that it is affecting consumption."

Royster lauded Middle Belt warehousemen for supporting the 1957 variety discount program, which he said "saved the flue-cure tobacco growing industry in this country."

Calling for similar cooperation this season, he said regulations regarding the activities of speculators were being strengthened to make the program "air-tight."

S. Walker Stone of Durham was reelected president of the association. He also was renamed to the sales committee of the Bright Belt Warehouse group.

C. E. Watkins of Oxford was elected vice president, and C. Brooks Turner of Henderson was reelected secretary-treasurer. Named as directors were Maynard Talley, Durham; D. T. Curdin, Oxford; W. J. Alston Jr., Henderson; Arch Wilson, Lenoir; Walker Burwell, Warren; Bill Talley, Fuquay Springs; and Bill Wood, Sanford.

French And Tunisian Forces Clash To Add New Troubles For Pflimlin

By GODFREY ANDERSON PARIS (AP)—Fighting between French and Tunisian forces erupted in Tunisia today, heaping new North African troubles on Premier Pierre Pflimlin's government.

President Habib Bourguiba said in Tunis the fighting broke out after French planes dropped a bomb yesterday on the airport at Gafsa, in south-central Tunisia 25 miles from the Algerian border.

Speaking to the nation in his weekly radio address, Bourguiba also said French and Tunisian troops were face to face at Remada, where a clash took place a few days ago which led to an exchange of protests between France and Tunisia.

"We would prefer that the question of the evacuation of French troops from Tunisia be regulated in a friendly manner," Bourguiba said, "but we fear that we will no longer find anyone in authority with which to discuss the problem."

The airfield in question is apparently occupied by the French, and one which Bourguiba has asked the French to evacuate.

The French had accused Tunisia of trying to provoke a clash with French troops at a time when the government in Paris is trying to regain control of neighboring Algeria from French rightists.

French troops and planes have been technically restricted to their bases by Tunisian orders since the bombing of a border village in February touched off a crisis between France and its former protectorate.

A Conservative leader lent a hand to hard-pressed Premier Pierre Pflimlin by going off to see Gen. Charles de Gaulle, who has offered to assume full power in France.

The leader, Antoine Pinay, was reported urging De Gaulle to use his influence over insurgent military men and French colonialists in Algeria to bow to Paris' authorities.

Pflimlin was speeding progress of constitutional reforms aimed at strengthening the executive authority and make it more difficult for the National Assembly to turn cabinets out of office.

Pflimlin's new military chief, meanwhile, prepared for a mission to Algiers aimed at bringing the Gaullist generals there back under the control of Paris. A military envoy from Algiers already was in Paris.

The Premier put his constitutional proposals in shape for Cabinet consideration in a conference last night with political leaders, who have given him overwhelming support so far.

The chief aim is to end the rapid turnover in French cabinets which has so often stymied French policy and produced the demand for a strong-man regime headed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

The heart of the reform plan reportedly is a constitutional amendment requiring the opposition, before it can vote out a government, to come up with a new premier and program acceptable to the Assembly majority. Provision also would be made for dissolving the Assembly and holding new elections when the Cabinet and the deputies deadlocked without acceptable alternatives.

In the past, dissident coalitions of left and right have overthrown one premier after another but never been able to agree on a program to rule together. This has been a major aspect of the "regime of parties" De Gaulle assailed in offering to take over the government.

In his first major step to reestablish the government's control in Algeria, the Premier ordered Gen. Henri Lorillot, new chief of staff for the combined forces, to cross the Mediterranean. His departure date was a closely guarded secret to protect him from the colonialist hotheads in North Africa.

Officially, Lorillot's mission was to discuss military operations in the Algerian war with Gen. Raoul Salan, the territory's military dictator who is supposed to be exercising authority for Paris but who has been voicing pro-De Gaulle sentiments. Despite his announced purpose, it was assumed Lorillot also would go into Salan's ambiguous position in the crisis.

One officer said, "They (the robbers) didn't take everything in the store but they sure took all that could be carried."

The vandals reportedly left evidence along their escape route. Shoes and pieces of wearing apparel led officers to the bulk of the stolen merchandise, hidden under some bushes and weeds.

Entrance into the building, located between First and 2nd Sts. on Evans, was made through the front door. A broken lock led to the robbery's discovery. Property damage was minor.

Carolinians Convicted Of Murder

Arrest Suspect In Bank Holdup; Cash Recovered

STOKESDALE, N.C. (AP)—A scratched and shivering Negro man was arrested in woods near here early today and was being held for the $18,426 robbery of the Stokesdale Commercial Bank & N. C. Nearly all of the loot was recovered.

The FBI identified the bandit as Emmuel Upshaw, 36, of Baltimore, Md. Upshaw was taken to Greensboro where the FBI said he would be taken before U.S. Commissioner L. Herbin Jr. on federal bank robbery charges.

Officers said Upshaw admitted the holdup and said he had come into the Stokesdale area Monday from Baltimore.

Gulford County Sheriff John E. Walters said two of his deputies captured Upshaw as he lay wrapped in a yellow tarpaulin used as a tractor shade. He offered no resistance.

The capture climaxed two days and nights of hunting for the bandit who robbed the bank Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. at gunpoint and fled in a hall of bullets fired by bank cashier Gerald Richardson.

The bandit, dropping the loot in his hasty flight, abandoned his stolen getaway car and plumped into the rough terrain of the Oak Ridge section, about five miles south of here.

The FBI said it could account for most of the loot, $2,980 the bandit threw away before taking to the woods; $5,926 found in a paper bag by bloodhounds; and $7,340 officers found late yesterday in an old coffee pot which was hidden in a stump.

Officers said this left $2,280 of the loot and Sheriff Walters said most of this money was on Upshaw.

Upshaw was spotted about 5:30 a.m. by a woman who reported seeing a Negro man with a yellow blanket wrapped around him looking into her car window. Her home is in the Oak Ridge section on State Highway 68 where the intensive manhunt was conducted.

She notified officers who took up the trail with bloodhounds. The FBI said Deputy Sheriffs Buck Goode and Ross Phipps found Upshaw wrapped in the yellow canvas near a farm outbuilding.

Sheriff Walters said Upshaw's pants were torn and ragged from his two-day flight through swamp and thicket and that he had put his legs into two old pieces of innertube. He wore an old white sweat shirt.

Upshaw told officers he hrew his sawed off shotgun used in the holdup into a stream.

After the robbery, the stocky bandit abandoned his stolen getaway car five miles south of here and disappeared into the woods.

Patrols Tuesday night found a paper sack containing $5,926 that the gunman apparently dropped as he fled through the thick undergrowth. Also found were a pair of trousers and a coat believed to be the bandit's, and officers surmised he may be clad only in his shorts.

The group of 50 officers divided into patrols following reports that a Negro was seen fleeing in the deep river road section.

The shotgun-wielding bandit entered the Stokesdale bank just after noon Tuesday and ordered the cashier to lie on the floor while forcing a woman teller to fill a paper bag with cash. He dropped or discarded $2,980 in 10-dollar bills as he fled in a hall of bullets fired by the cashier.

"The Greenville Garden Club wants to designate a certain amount of money each year earmarked for Green Springs Park, but we need help or our efforts will be useless," explained Mrs. Harvey Tripp at the informal Greenville Garden Club picnic held at the park last evening.

A chairman of Green Springs Park, Mrs. Tripp presented a short resume of the work the Garden Club has done and wants to do in the future for the park.

"When Mrs. J. H. B. Moore was president of the Woman's Club and through her influence $1,000 was put in savings for a Park Fund," noted Mrs. Tripp.

She pointed out that with this money the bridge was built, some land cleared, and fireplaces were added to the grounds.

"Several years ago the Home Department of the Woman's Club gave tables and benches and the Garden Club, through the cooperation of the city officials, hired two landscape engineers to draw a master plan of the park," said Mrs. Tripp.

She concluded her forceful talk by discussing the planting of bulbs and shrubs which were donated and the azaleas which have since been stolen.

"Ten cement benches have also been placed around the grounds," added the speaker.

Officers Installed

Another highlight of the program was the installation of the incoming Garden Club officers by Mrs. Sam Mitchell, district director.

Serving with Mrs. P. E. Wells, who is the new president, will be Mrs. Tige Gardner, first vice-president; Mrs. N. C. Brooks, second vice-president; Mrs. Vance Perkins, third vice-president; Mrs. Harvey Tripp, treasurer; Mrs. Richard Atkinson, recording secretary; Mrs. J. B. Smith, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. H. P. Milstead, reporter.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, retiring president, addressed the attending city officials with a plea for their assistance with the Green Springs Park project.

During her farewell speech, Mrs. Moore stressed the needs still to be fulfilled at the park and the various beautification projects already accomplished by the Garden Club.

City officials who attended the picnic were: Mayor and Mrs. S. Eugene West, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Turnage, Mr. and Mrs. William Whedbee, and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Harvey. Dr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Humber were also special guests.

Each of the picnic tables was covered with gay cloths and centered with spring floral arrangements.

Our Own Taxpayers A Soft Touch?

If the head of the Dominican Republic air force can afford to squander in lavish living almost as much money annually as the United States has granted his country aid, we see little logic in the U. S. government continuing to grant such financial aid.

Lt. Gen. Rafael Trujillo, Jr., son of Dominican Republic's strong man, has made it amply clear that there is no relationship between his high-styled living and the aid granted his father's government by the United States. U. S. aid to the Dominican Republic has been in the form of materials, he says. The money he spends (estimated up to a million dollars a year) living in the United States comes from the family fortune.

Such an explanation may make sense to Gen. Trujillo, but to an American taxpayer who helps foot the bill for the U. S. aid going to Dominican Republic, the explanation sounds a little thin.

If the personal fortune of the man who heads the nation is sufficient to permit his son to live so lavishly, why should his government have to look to American taxpayers for aid?

Is it that he has so little interest in his own people that he is not willing to use any of his personal fortune to aid the government he heads? Is it that he has found Uncle Sam a soft touch and prefers to keep his own fortune and let the American taxpayers provide things his government needs?

Whatever the reason, the representatives of U. S. taxpayers should thoroughly investigate the matter.

Something Of This And That

By LYNN NISBET

ARROWHEADS — Your reporter is a collector of arrowheads. Long time ago he owned a right good assortment of Indian arrowheads and got a lot of pleasure classifying them and identifying the tribal sources and the purposes — whether for hunting or war. That collection has been dissipated, given mostly to youngsters who were interested.

The collection of arrowheads now in hand is a different kind and affords very little pleasure. They are the little indicator arrows on maps of business and resort centers. Ninety-nine percent of them are so wrong it makes a fellow mad to look at them.

Why does nearly everybody who publishes a map to boost his business spend money suggesting that folks ought to go to the other way? Why does nearly every indicator at the edge of the map go outward with the notation that it is just so many miles "to" some big population or attraction center? Why don't they turn the little arrowheads around and note the same distance "from" those other places? Sure, it would cost a little bit more. It takes a little bit more printer's ink for the word "from" than for the word "to." On an order for $1,000 worth of maps that might amount to as much as a whole dime extra cost. The psychologic suggestion to "come" instead of "go" ought to be worth that much — especially since the printer will absorb the dime and it won't cost the map publisher anything.

A one-man campaign for this reversal of arrowheads was accomplished some results over the years. A few places have turned the indicators around and several others have agreed that when new plates are made the little arrows will invite people to come in, rather than get to heck out.

DOUBLE-CHECKING — It happens every election year just before the primary, Raleigh newspaper offices and State departments are getting requests for newspaper clippings on certified records to show how members of the General Assembly two years ago voted on important issues.

In majority of cases there is no record of the vote. Legislators have inherent aversion to roll calls on controversial matters. It often happens that the fellow who objected to a recorded vote in the last session would very much like to have a record now. In other instances he is glad there is no proof of how he voted.

Department heads report few er requests now than in some previous campaigns for such information. Even so, it is taking a lot of time of clerks in the offices to dig into legislative journals in order to provide the information requested.

Virginia and several other states have electronic voting machines for recording every vote on every question. A scoreboard on the front wall of the legislative chambers has three lights beside every member's name. The member punches a button on his desk and the light shows yes or no vote or records the member as being present but not voting. The result becomes a permanent record. If the member is absent, no light shows on the board — and no vote on the record.

Proposals to install a similar system in North Carolina have never been really pushed. Objection has been on basis of the cost. Truth is that many Tarheel legislators have a passion for anonymity when it comes to the matter of voting on pending bills.

PROUD — Here are three instances of relative newcomers to North Carolina having experiences which make them proud to be Tarheels. A top insurance executive who has operated in four or five other states expressed surprise and gratification at the way legislation is handled in North Carolina. He had been accustomed to legislators and State officials holding out their hands, palms up. He found none of that here, and his testimony is that government is cleaner in North Carolina than anywhere he has ever heard about.

A newspaper man, who had unfortunate experience in another state trying to obtain care and treatment for a relative's retarded child, visited Caswell and Butler Training Schools. "My taxes are a little higher in North Carolina," he said. "But when I see how the money is used, the wonderful job the State is doing in all kinds of mental and physical health work, I am happy to pay the difference and proud to be a citizen of such a commonwealth."

An advertising man who came to Raleigh from a big northern city not many years ago was recently stopped by a city traffic cop for violating the ordinance against "jumping lanes" on a busy one-way street. The cop was so polite, the man was ashamed of himself for being so careless, but proud of a law enforcement policy based on courtesy along with firmness. "If that cop had been mean I might have gotten mad, too," he said, "and tried to get by with short cuts another time. I'm going to be a safer driver because he was nice."

It seems far from reasonable that taxpayers of this country should directly or indirectly finance for the son of a dictator the lavish standard of living Lt. Gen. Trujillo has enjoyed.

If the tax dollars cannot be put to better use by our own government, we are sure the individual taxpayers can put them to better use.

Missile Industry Is Already Big Business

Rockets can hardly be called a "new" item to the public, but their emergence as refined tools of war is so recent as to mark them as still a novelty.

The speed of their development and application during the past score of years resembles nothing we can recall having seen before.

Announcement the Army has placed nearly $48 million in missile contracts with North Carolina plants underscores anew the soaring importance of the missile-making industry as a whole, and the economic importance of that industry in North Carolina as well as the country in general.

If this be the "horse and buggy" era of rocketry as visionaries proclaim, imagine (if you can) what the industry will be like in another twenty years.

If It Were Another Crop, They'd Care

It is difficult sometimes to understand the apparent lack of concern which exists for the forest fires in Eastern North Carolina.

Month after month thousands of dollars worth of valuable timber is consumed by needless fires. Yet no one seems really to care... except perhaps the farmer who loses the timber.

If a number of acres of tobacco, corn, cotton, or some other crop were lost to fire every month, we would have a vigorous fire prevention program to curb these losses. All the citizens of this section would carefully guard against the carelessly tossed cigarette and the lighted match which cause such fires.

But in the case of forest fires the attitude is different.

Perhaps it is because most people fail to realize that timber has become an important supplemental crop on many farms in Eastern North Carolina. Perhaps it is because we have so long regarded forest fires as a natural hazard that cannot be prevented.

Whatever the cause, North Carolina's farmers are losing thousands of dollars a month in potential income because of needless forest fires.

The situation behooves individual citizens to do what they can to prevent this needless loss.

Generalities In Business Talk

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower delivered a 3,000-word collection of generalities in a speech to 3,500 businessmen Tuesday night on the recession.

He said there are strong indications the recession is slowing down. But he said nothing specific about any anti-recession move his administration has in mind beyond what is already known. "We can never," he said, "peppertalk our way to prosperity." But his talk-made in New York to the Economic Mobilization Conference of the American Management Assn.—was in effect a pep-talk.

The closest he got to revealing his administration's intentions about future anti-recession action by his administration was this statement which, as it soon turned out, didn't reveal anything at all: "After consultation with congressional leaders, certain decisions will shortly be taken in the field of taxation."

Did this mean he was thinking of a tax cut? Maybe. Maybe not. An examination of his sentence shows he wasn't saying yes or no to such a question. His press secretary James C. Hagerty was asked to throw light on what Eisenhower meant. Hagerty said the decision, when it comes, could be either for or against a tax reduction. Eisenhower went on: "What America must do now is gather all its forces for a new offensive to promote an early upturn and renewed economic growth that is vigorous and sound."

How can that be done? He said: "From this point on the conscious determination of the American people — together with resultant actions — can make the difference in lifting the economy to higher and higher levels."

He cited some anti-recession steps already taken by the government; making credit easier; pushing private construction; stepping up purchases for defense needs; and the administration's proposal for extended unemployment pay.

Eisenhower suggested no further action by the government beyond the steps already taken. From then on he gave businessmen advice on what to do.

He said businessmen should: Offer the consumer something better; intensify their research into what consumers want; keep their inventories normal and not let them get too low; buy an anti-recession move the things they need for their business anyway; have a price policy that will attract and not repel customers.

While telling businessmen to be realistic about prices, Eisenhower nudged labor to be realistic about its wage demands, lest the demands force prices too high.

Events of the past few weeks—the treatment given Vice President Nixon in Latin America, the revolt in Lebanon, the crisis in France—have pushed the recession back in the public consciousness.

This is just temporary. The recession is still there. It will return as a prime topic of discussion as soon as events elsewhere quiet down.

Basic Choice Of Man

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk scrawls of a Pavement Plato: History can be a record of hysteria. It is unlikely that hysteria will momentarily cause World War III.

The spokesmen of the two major world powers — the United States and the U. S. S. R. — have been making angry noises at each other since the end of their mutual victory at the end of World War II.

Each probably feels himself bigger than he is — each is gnawed by inside as well as outside fears.

Each throws a larger shadow at the moment than either wants to have to live up by force.

All around the world since the end of World War II people have looked at two menus the bread they have, the bread they want.

In civilized as well as uncivilized countries the people have reached toward the bread they want. Their desire is the same. The method of reach varies. Agreement has made fewer headlines than violence. But has it given less bread?

Violence in human relations gives off a great boom in terms of sound. The real test in judging a change, is whether — after the echoes have died — the people who made the change feel it was worth the effort.

Would agreement without violence have cheated their dreams, their children, or themselves? This is the way to weigh war. Is the reward of going to it worth more than the cost of staying away from it?

In looking over previous civilizations and trying to figure out why they went to war, a Sidesiret Scroates, always asking questions, would have to query: "For this you were afraid?"

"Did you measure your fears? Did you go to war for a purpose or to escape from one boredom to another?"

"Why does peace lack the human cement of unity that war creates?" "Is there a possible way by which men, strangers on the earth and foreign to each other, can make the possible harmony of human life a mutual adventure?"

Men's greatest enemy on earth is the insect and the issue, as many scientists believe, is still in doubt. The six-legged insect society is built absolutely on heredity, and allows no rebels.

The two-legged human society, which also inherits wherever it exists a local caste system, does occasionally allow rebels. This tolerance is often well repaid.

The insect world is changeless in changeless discipline. The human world is possibly changeful through freedom. The insect is born to his doom. The man can, at his best, at least choose his doom. His possibility above the ant is that he can select how he can best serve his society. This is his total liberty.

It is an individual matter.

As a muted skeptic who believes however far science journeys man will still have to slap at a mosquito and endure the common cold, I am optimist enough to feel in my heart and brains and bones that World War III isn't likely within 10 years.

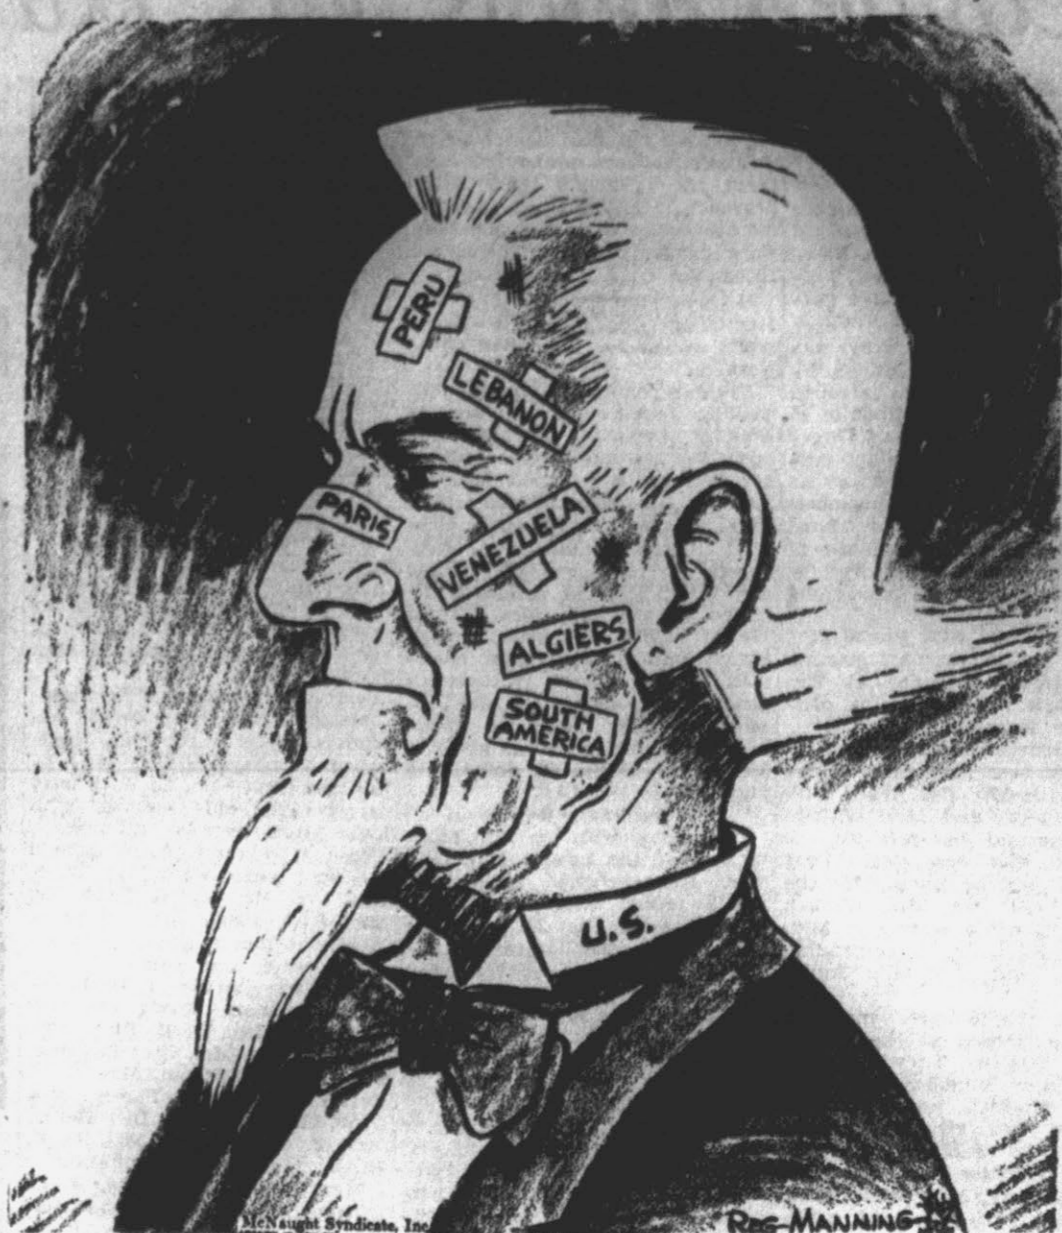

Why? Because: 1. The tumultuous reach for political liberty by the submerged people of this earth is balanced by the desire of the so-called civilized people for a higher standard of living.

2. At least for another decade the powers that can now precipitate a major conflict have more to gain by landscaping their own laws than they do by trying to tear the other guy's house down. They all know this.

There is a reason under the sun to build, and this is the season. One repairs his roof after the last hurricane, even though there may be another.

I have a poor man's faith that the man in the world's street is as of now more lonesome for improvement than disaster.

Those Boys Need Help

BOSTON — An unusual and rather embarrassing twist has occurred — college co-eds have turned the tables and faces are red.

Approximately 100 Jackson College coeds last night raided two men's dormitories and five fraternity houses. Some of the girls emerged waving male underclothings attached like flags to sticks. All were beating a rock 'n' roll rhythm on pots and pans and chanting "we like short shorts."

The red-faced and playful men routed the raiding force with garden hoses and buckets of water dumped from windows.

The raid followed a Monday night demonstration by more than 1,300 students at Tufts and Boston universities. Male students raided three co-ed dormitories at Tufts.

Shortly after the demonstration, or party-raid, began Dr. Niles L. Wessell was aroused and urged the students to "have a little common sense" and return to their rooms. A co-ed who apparently thought Wessell was one of the raiding students hurled a paper bag full of water that burst on his head.

Order was finally restored. This story, in part, appeared in many newspapers in the country yesterday morning and afternoon.

In a town that is famous for its bans on indecency and baked beans, not to mention the Yankee Red Sox, this incident should just about put the icing on the cake. Doubtless to say it will probably start a new trend in party-raids in a country that already has moral problems that would make our ancestors rock 'n' roll over in their resting places.

I propose to name the new trend "shorty-raids." The incident, which made the Tea Party appear to be a Sunday afternoon Church picnic, will undoubtedly go down in history as a famous first. It's a good thing Carrie Nation was not there with her hatchet for heads would have fallen.

As I read the story I found it hard to believe that the men would be rude or playless enough to pour water on the heads of their "assaults" who only wanted to emerge with a remembrance. They too must have been "affected" by the Yankee climate or were true Southern gentlemen standing fast to their morals under extenuating circumstances.

If the seige continues I for one am catching the next train for Boston in time to enroll at Tufts. At a time like this those poor boys need some guidance and moral support, something they would not likely get from other "men" who are unlucky enough to be enrolled in a college with meek co-eds.

Happened to be fortunate enough to hear an excellent political joke yesterday, one that bears repeating.

It seems that the old mountaineer was talking to a stranger about the political situation around his neck of the woods. "Sonny," he said, "I heard Mr. Eisenhower say on the radio the other night that things were going to pick up, and I just didn't believe him."

"But I shore do now," he declared. "The man came around the other day and picked up my car and my television and another one is coming today to pick up my mule."

Other Editors Saying --- How To Get Over Hump?

(Greensboro Daily News)

As the 1958 General Assembly draws nearer and the fiscal problems of the session become more apparent, it is meet to put Governor Hodges' program for the state's industrial development and expansion in proper focus.

Its aim is to provide more jobs, to absorb the labor left unemployed because of the changing farm pattern, to lift living standards through higher income and to bring in more taxpayers and thus keep tax levies from rising.

Governor Hodges has emphasized from the outset that his is a long-range program. Several years — nobody can say how many — will be required for it to take hold and provide the jobs and taxes which are ultimately expected of it.

Already it is being said, mostly by long-time critics of the Governor, that the new tax formula gave relief to corporations and that this difference will have to be more than made up by the 1959 Legislature because of the recession and declining revenue. The fiscal situation is ripe for political exploitation.

But several other things should be kept in mind. Revenue collections to date show that the loss from corporation taxes is much less under the new formula than estimated. Thus part of the anticipated gap is being filled.

It has likewise been shown that this tax change, which was made not as a concession but in fairness and in keeping with tax formulas of other states, is bringing more industry and jobs to North Carolina. A trend has been very definitely started; and, all else being equal, its continuation can be expected. The state and co-operating agencies, organizations and individuals are doing a good selling job. Good will and a more favorable business climate are paying off.

In a recent New York speech Governor Hodges set 1970 as the date when, in his opinion, North Carolina's per capita income — 44th among the states in last available figures for 1956 — should equal the national average. That means a steady and encouraging climb.

Those who are shaping the state's fiscal policy will do well to keep this long-range program and its ultimate achievement in mind. The question confronting North Carolina leadership is how to bridge the fiscal gap, find the money with which to provide needed facilities and services for a growing state, during the period when new tax sources and increased ability to pay are maturing. It is provision during this interval which offers the 1959 General Assembly its biggest challenge and headache. We're coming along in North Carolina, but an intervening slack still has to be taken up.

Between now and, say, 1970, how are we going to get over the fiscal hump?

Conformity Has Benefits, Too

By ELMER ROESSNER

Every one in a while some person starts kicking the rest of us around because we're conformists. We wear the same style clothes that everyone else wears, we insist on fine autos because everybody else does, we choose our books by best-seller lists instead of what we like, we are for or against integration depending on what our neighbors say, and we select our cocktails, movies, television shows and even newspapers not according to our own tastes but because of what others select.

A conformist today is one who orders a hot dog WITHOUT mustard.

D. H. Radler, editor of the Purdue Resear. Foundation, recently lashed out against conformity in teen-agers. "Over half our young people try hard to do everything that will please their friends, while fewer than one-fifth declare their tastes to be different," he said.

The desire to seek popularity through conformity leads to juvenile delinquency, he added. In other words, even in rebelling against conformity, youngsters feel they must conform to patterns of rebellion.

TRUE, BUT

It is undoubtedly true that America is largely a nation of conformists. We call all our girl babies Karen and all our boy babies Kevin. The girls joke about sack styles because that's the thing to say and they wear them because that's the thing to do. We rock together and we roll together.

On the other hand, our economic salvation lies in a large measure of conformity.

Today Americans largely buy one of three makes of cars. Those who decide not to conform largely buy two other makes. The greatest difference between one car and another today is in the numbers on the license plates.

Yet if we did not so conform — if we insisted on choices among a hundred makes, such as there have been — the average car would cost three times as much as it does. And buyers would have an unmerited time getting parts and repairs made on cross-country drives.

COSTS OF CONFORMITY

You can get a can of beans today for around 18 cents. But suppose a large number of people insisted on pork balls in their beans, and other large numbers insisted on black beans, beans with chutney, mixed red and white beans, beans with lobster sauce, beans with kidneys and so on endlessly. They could get them if they paid the price, and if they paid it, there would be less demand for old pork 'n' beans and the price would go up. In other words, the 35 cents you DON'T pay for a can of beans if your dividend for conforming.

Beef is expensive. Beef is expensive. (We said that twice because after the first time, one reader remarked, "You can say THAT again!") But it would be much more expensive if people did not conform to the taste for beef. If you don't believe that, price pheasant, venison, Scottish grouse, muskrat or Bombay duck.

We dread becoming a nation of conformists, of robots, or of well-drilled citizens of an all-powerful state. Yet in economic matters, we must conform or pay an enormously high premium. Perhaps, for survival, most of us must accept oppressively similar autos, homes, clothes, food and songs.

If we must rebel against conformity, we can do it by selecting a different color combination for our autos, plant a different kind of tree in front of our matrimonial houses, and choose a matrimonial partner no one else has selected.

And if you still doubt the economic costliness of nonconformity, grow a sixth toe and try to buy a pair of shoes to fit!

ONLY THREE GROUPS REVERSE RETAIL TREND

Of the Department of Commerce's major classifications of retailers, only those in the food and gasoline service station and drug and proprietary groups made larger sales in April a year ago. The total was down $300,000,000, which was less than 2 per cent.

"FAIR TRADE" LAW UPHOLD IN ARIZONA

The Arizona State Supreme Court has upheld the constitutionality of that state's "fair trade" act under which manufacturers can set a retail price of branded products. Reversing a lower court, the Supreme Court held that all retailers were bound by agreements between one retailer and a manufacturer.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOD IS A CAUSE
The hand of God is in history. "Oh come, come," I hear you say. "Don't be so naive. That sort of thing was quite all right for an unscientific and unreflexive age. But we've grown up. We know now that things happen according to the laws of cause and effect. God — if there is such a Being — doesn't have either the time or the inclination to stick his finger into every terrestrial pie. If He exists at all, He has vastly more important matters engaging his attention. Just remember — cause and effect is the answer."

Precisely. Always cause and effect. It has operated from the beginning of time. But in passages men were sure that God was one of the causes — not the only one, but one cause at least. Man's stupidity, his selfishness, greed, and passion were also reckoned causes from which certain effects — evil ones — sprang.

You don't believe in the hand of God in history? Then ponder why it was that a great storm happened at just the right time to destroy the Spanish Armada and save England from surrender and slavery. Tell me, will you, why in the evacuation of the British from Dunkirk, that miserable piece of water, the English Channel, behaved itself for once and was as calm as a mill pond.

Space forbids further examples. God has so often had storms or great calms, frightening heat or withering cold ready when the triumph of his righteous causes demanded them.

Why? I wonder why.

Druidian Clubbers To Hold Workshops

TIPS ON JAPANESE ARRANGEMENTS . . . pointed out by Mrs. E. J. Maloney, left, to Mrs. J. D. Wilson Jr.

When the Druidian Garden Club members met at the home of Mrs. E. J. Maloney yesterday afternoon, members voted to devote the summer months to a workshop program with informal activities rather than regular formal meetings.

Mrs. Joe Miller volunteered to handle the publicity of the club in the absence of Mrs. J. G. Weland who will be spending the summer in Florida and Alabama.

June 1 has been designated as "Shut-In Day" by garden clubs of North Carolina and Druidian club members agreed to observe the day by each member taking flowers to a sick person they know or either to the hospital to be given someone the staff feels should be remembered on that day.

For the club program Mrs. Maloney explained the history of Japanese flower arrangements and some of the finer points. "The basic parts of these arrangements," she told the group, "are heaven, man, and earth designed in related triangles."

She placed much emphasis on the choice of container and flowers used in making the Moribana style and displayed one free style of a formal arrangement using different flowers and greenery each time—one was made of pomgranites and bamboo.

"In Japan, flowers are arranged as nearly as possible as they grow. They place all the stems in the position of the trunk of a tree, this being called the 'nemoto,'" she told the group.

Each member had been asked to bring flowers and containers and were assisted by Mrs. Maloney in preparing a Japanese arrangement to take home with them.

Mrs. J. D. Wilson Jr., co-hostess, poured coffee and served fresh strawberry pie topped with whipped cream. A two-tiered arrangement of pansies in crystal bowls centered the cut-work linen covered dining table. Japanese floral arrangements were in evidence throughout the house. Mrs. Ione Hooker Marshburn was a guest for the afternoon meeting.

"Green Vegetables for Good Eating" was the program topic for the May meeting of the Timothy Home Demonstration Club.

Assistant home agent, Mrs. Lois Freeman, presented a talk and demonstration on the selection, storing, and preparation of green vegetables. She stated that with such a plentiful supply in home gardens and on the market and with such a variety of ways to serve them, we need never tire of something green on the menu.

"The green leafy vegetables are rich in vitamin A and vitamin C and in general, the greener the vegetable the richer it is in vitamins and minerals. Vitamin A has a great deal to do with healthy hair, skin, and eyes which is a good reason for our interest in green vegetables," she said.

Mrs. Freeman displayed and explained a new chart called "The Big Four Daily" which consists of four food groups: Dairy foods, Fruits and vegetables, Protein foods and Breads and cereals. This chart is a supplement to the Basic Seven Food Chart and includes all seven of the basic food groups; however, these new headings should make it easier to check daily to be sure that we are getting a properly balanced diet.

Mrs. Freeman prepared three dishes featuring green vegetables. For a tossed salad she used escarole, spring salad, watercress, endive, spring onion, carrot and radish with a homemade french dressing.

And for a tasty and colorful casserole dish, Mrs. Freeman combined brussels sprouts with a tomato, onion, and celery sauce.

The group met in the home of Mrs. Ivey Wall with Mrs. Alton Gardner, president, presiding over the business session. During the social hour Mrs. Fred Wall assisted the hostess in serving home-

CHAPTER 15

"Donald," said Lois Marlow, "if you're the one who bought Horace's painting, it's a dirty, stinky trick. It's downright cruel. Horace is just absolutely walking on clouds. He's in seventh heaven!"

I said, "That's wonderful! A painter can do a lot more creative work when he's enthusiastic. Any artist can work to better advantage if he feels the creative work he's turning out isn't going to be a drug on the market."

"Now tell me what makes you think George Cadott murdered his grandfather?"

"Now, wait a minute!" she told me. "Let's get this thing straight. If you're the guy, and I think you are, and if Horace finds out you're a private detective who bought one of his paintings so you could find out where George was, he's going to have a letdown that will flatten him out. He'll feel like he's jumped off a twenty-story building."

"Then we hadn't better tell him, had we, Lois?"

"We hadn't for a fact. Would you do anything that mean, Donald?"

"I don't know," I said.

"Don't hand me a line like that. I told you about George. Now come clean."

"All right," I told her. "I did it."

"And you built up his ego so you could make a contact and find out where George was?"

"That's right."

"I hate you," she said. "I'm going to keep you here just long enough to help with the dishes and then you're going to get out of this apartment and out of my life."

"Wait a minute," I told her. "I've given Horace a boost, an inspirational kick in the pants. He's going to start turning out paintings like mad. I've suggested a couple of subjects for him."

"She thought that over, then said, 'He told me he had a brand-new idea last night. He was pretty swacked, but he was sobering up and was going to get up early this morning and go to work.'"

"I said, 'If you don't ever tell him, he's going to be a better painter than he was before he met me.'"

"But he thinks you're an art dealer, or a collector, traveling salesman."

"Perhaps I am."

"And then again, perhaps you aren't."

"Detectives can appreciate art," I said.

"Did you talk him into telling you were George was?"

"Not in so many words."

"You conned him into something. Did you get him so enthused he called George to tell him the news?"

"Something like that."

"You dirty—"

"What about George and his grandfather?" I persisted.

"I shouldn't have told you, Donald."

"You've said it, however. You can't stop now."

"The devil I can't! I've stopped."

Knuckles pounded on the door.

"Now, who would be trying to bang the door down?" she asked petulantly, getting up to go to the door.

"Some friend," I said, "who's impatient."

She opened the door.

A man's voice said, "Do you know a George Cadott?"

"No," she told him, and started to slam the door.

"Just a minute, sister!" he said. "Take a look at this!"

"Oh, oh," she said.

"What about George Cadott?" he asked.

"He's in my hair."

"He's out of your hair now," he said. "He's dead."

"What?" she exclaimed.

"Come on," he told her. "Move over. I'm coming in. What were you doing?" he asked. "Just having breakfast?"

"Uh-huh."

"I'll take a cup of coffee," he said, and pushed his way into the kitchenette.

I finished my coffee with elaborate unconcern.

"Well, well, well!" he said. "Who's the boy friend?"

"Is it any of your business?"

"I'm making it my business."

"Look," she said, "is that true about George?"

"The man came over to me and said, 'Tell me who you are and what you're doing here.'"

"He looked a leather folder from his pocket, opened it to disclose a badge."

I said, "Calm down, Mac. My name's Donald Lam. I'm a private detective from Los Angeles. Here's my card. Here are my credentials."

I tossed them on the table.

"What are you doing here?"

"Trying to get a line on George Cadott."

"Why?"

"I wanted to talk with the guy."

"What about?"

"If he's dead, I don't want to talk with him about anything."

"Look, buddy," he told me, "up here we don't like private eyes that get in our way. We don't like private eyes from Los Angeles. We don't like you guys, period!"

I pushed back my chair. "All right," I told him, "I don't care what you like and what you don't like. I'm licensed by the state. I'm doing a job. You asked me a question. I gave you an answer. You ask me another question and I'm not answering. If you want me to get a lawyer, I'll get a lawyer."

"Do a little backing up yourself," he told me.

"Take it easy," he told me.

"Do a little backing up yourself," I told him.

He said, "You talk too big for the size of your coat."

Lois said, "He doesn't talk too big for the size of his hat."

The officer looked me over, said, "How long you been up here, Lam?"

I told him.

"Where are you staying?"

I told him.

"How are you getting around?"

"I rented a car."

His face lit up with sudden interest. "Well, well, well," he said. "Now let me ask you something else. Does the Roadside Motel at Vellejo mean anything to you?"

"Should it?"

"Somebody drove a rented car out to the Roadside Motel, and we'd like very, very much to find out who it was."

"Why?"

"Because the person who drove that car is probably the one who murdered George Cadott."

I held my face expressionless.

The officer studied me thoughtfully. "Sort of jays you, doesn't it, Lam?"

"I'd hate to think your lack of hospitality would go so far as to frame murders on visiting detectives," I told him.

"Don't worry. It doesn't. As long as you keep your nose clean, you're all right. We're on the square up here, but we don't want anyone cutting corners. You understand that?"

I nodded.

The door chimed sounded.

Lois Marlow jumped up. "That will be my neighbor," she said.

The officer said, "Okay, I'll take a look at the neighbor."

Lois Marlow opens the door to high hilarity as the story continues here tomorrow.

Uncertainty And Tensions Mark Contract Talks

DETROIT (AP)—Tensions and uncertainty mark the renewal today of talks between General Motors and the United Auto Workers Union.

During a recess yesterday, the company and union joined hands to battle rebellious skilled workers at a National Labor Relations Board hearing.

But tension mounted when GM fired a hot reply to a statement by UAW President Walter P. Reuther accusing GM negotiators of falling to show any indication "they are ready to begin bargaining."

Only eight days remain before the current three-year contract expires.

Vice President Louis G. Seaton, head of the GM bargaining team, said Reuther's statement "is fantastic in view of the fact that only last week the UAW settled major agreements (in the aircraft industry) for considerably less than what General Motors has put on the bargaining table."

GM, Ford and Chrysler have offered to extend for two years the 2 1/2 per cent wage improvement factor of present contracts.

The UAW and the big three joined forces before the NLRB to fight craft unions seeking separate bargaining rights in the auto industry.

Reuther told the NLRB that agreements with auto makers cannot be concluded until it is known whether the UAW will continue to represent craftsmen as well as production workers. NLRB Chairman Boyd S. Leedom promised to expedite a decision.

The auto companies supported Reuther's argument.

Seaton said the UAW demands would increase GM's labor costs more than 73 cents per hour per worker.

The UAW has not said publicly what it figures its demands amount to per hour per worker but it disagreed with GM's estimate. The current average hourly wage is $2.40.

Two Youngsters Die In Tragic Shooting

ALBION, Neb. (AP)—An honor student and the daughter of a prominent farm family died in a burst of gunfire last night from the rifle of a rival for the girl's attention.

... shots that shocked this town of 2,132 population were fired by Kermit Keeshan, 17. His father William is a former county attorney and mayor in Albion.

Keeshan tried to kill himself with a bullet in the head after he killed Jerry Sherwood, 18, and Diane Zaruba, 17. He is expected to recover.

Young Sherwood, whose father Lynn is a former school board president, was killed at the rooming house where Diane stayed while in school.

Diane was slain despite the bravery of housewife Mrs. Frank Svoboda, who said she didn't have time to get scared as she tried to keep Keeshan from Diane.

Deputy County Atty. Ray Melin Sr. said Keeshan, carrying a .22 rifle, found Jerry with Diane. Apparently there was a struggle between the boys and then a shot that hit Jerry in the heart.

Diane ran screaming from the house toward the Svoboda back yard, where Mrs. Svoboda was working.

A shot hit the running girl in the leg but she hobbled onward to the side of Mrs. Svoboda, who waved her on to the Svoboda back door.

Mrs. Svoboda stood quietly as Keeshan raced up, then, when he came to a halt, slapped him hard in the face. He dropped his gun.

The housewife turned, walked to her back door and stood guard in front of Diane.

But Keeshan picked up his gun. He advanced and fired again at Diane, who was crouched behind Mrs. Svoboda. The shot hit her in the chest.

Keeshan then turned and walked back to the room where Sherwood had died. There he tried to kill himself.

Lynn Sherwood, whose term as school board president expired last week, was scheduled to be the high school commencement speaker tonight when he would have given his son his diploma and a University of Nebraska regents scholarship.

Miss Zaruba's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Zaruba, farm in rich territory about 15 miles from Albion.

Town Turns Out, Build Airport To 'Save' Streets

OAKLEY, Idaho (AP)—A couple of hundred men, women and youngsters pitched in to build an airstrip and parking facilities so that, as Chamber of Commerce President Ross T. Nielsen put it, the airplanes will stay off the city streets.

It seems that pilots used to land in the fields just outside town and taxi up to the schoolhouse via the streets and park their craft.

Somebody got the idea of building a strip with tie-down facilities and practically the whole town supported it. The Chamber got the land. Local firms provided earth-moving equipment. The State Board of Aeronautics chipped in as much money as it could—and the project began.

The finishing touches will be done today by volunteers from this southern Idaho community of 694 people.

Camera News

Handling a "hot" and heavy camera, this photographer has to wear protective clothing. The 29-pound, lead box camera can detect radioactive rays in atomic plants and pin-point their exact location on a photograph. It was designed by an engineer at Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory in Schenectady, N. Y.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newfeatures

One of the latest developments in the camera world is a pinhole box camera which weighs 29 pounds.

No, you're not reading a report which has been accidentally misplaced for 30 or 60 years. This is 1958, the atomic age... and that's the reason for this newest in old-fashioned cameras. It's made out of lead and is used to show in pictures specific areas of radioactive contamination.

The lead box camera was designed by John Payne, a General Electric engineer at the Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory in Schenectady, N. Y. It has a uranium lens barrel and an aluminum lens which is a pin-hole thirteen and one-half one-thousandths of an inch in diameter.

The atomic and normal light rays enter the camera only through the uranium barrel and the aluminum pin-hole. Uranium is denser than lead and can better limit and direct the atomic rays through the tiny aluminum window.

Pictures are recorded on films held in special metal film holders which are inserted and removed through an opening in the top of the camera. The film holder is a double compartment. In front, nearest the lens, is a sheet of conventional film. Behind it is a sheet of x-ray film. A thin lead plate separates the two films.

When the camera is pointed at areas of possible contamination, a sort of double exposure takes place. The general scene is recorded on the conventional film while atomic rays are recorded on the x-ray film behind it. When the two films are sandwiched together and printed, the position of the atomic rays are definitely located.

The usual exposure on conventional film is about 12 minutes. A metal slide is then inserted in front of the film to cut off further exposure to the normal light rays. However, neither the metal slide nor the thin lead sheet between the two sheets of films interferes with the passage of nuclear radiation. The camera is kept in position and the x-ray film is exposed for at least an hour.

The need for such a camera has arisen with the mushrooming of atomic industrial plants and their hazards. The lead camera can detect small sources of radioactivity which cannot be sufficiently pin-pointed by present detection instruments. In other areas of high-level radioactivity where this camera would be used, Geiger counters and other detection instrument operators would not be allowed to enter or might have to spend days locating various radiation sources.

Normal cameras taking conventional pictures of radioactive or contaminated objects would result in fogged films.

Payne's camera proved its practical value some time ago just after its initial conception. A nuclear accident occurred at Canada's Chalk River atomic plant. The engineers there, using Payne's design, built an identical lead camera to aid them in detecting and discarding contaminated machinery.

I guess the camera is a success in its own field but I don't see any future for it among us amateurs. When even scientists find the camera too unwieldy, evidently, to ship from place to place, it must be way too "hot" and far too heavy.

Husband And Wife Meet In Flaming, Fatal Accident

BRIDGETON, N. J. (AP) — It's a quiet country crossroads called Harmony.

A young wife and husband met there by accident Tuesday night in a roaring, flaming rendezvous that ended in the husband's death. And yesterday police said that at the end of the road there may have been another man, a man waiting for a date with 19-year-old Mrs. Vera Wright.

She kept him waiting. Mrs. Wright, critically injured when the car she was driving smashed broadside into her husband's auto, was still in Bridgeton Hospital today with a possible skull fracture. Her condition was listed as good.

The husband, Lester, also 19, was dead 10 minutes after being pulled from his blazing auto.

Police, meanwhile, were holding Walter Robinson, 36, of Newfield, owner of the car that Mrs. Wright was driving.

State Police Sgt. William R. Conway said his office was looking into discrepancies between statements made by Robinson and Mrs. Wright.

Conway quoted Robinson as saying he had been the woman's boy friend for about a year and that Wright knew and apparently did not disapprove of their relationship.

He told police the Wrights had quarreled on the night of the accident because Mrs. Wright wanted Robinson's car to drive home. She had used it earlier to take a road test for a driver's license.

According to Robinson's statement, he and Mrs. Wright had made a date for later in the evening. The date had been arranged in Wright's presence, he said.

Mrs. Wright was going home to change her clothes, the statement said, and was to have returned to Robinson's gas station. Husband and wife drove off at the same time.

Conway said Robinson will be charged with allowing an unlicensed driver to operate his car, while a mandatory charge of death by auto will be made against Mrs. Wright.

The woman's version of the affair, police said, was that her husband drove off angrily after the argument and that she borrowed Robinson's car to follow him home.

She said nothing of the reported date or of any relationship with Robinson.

Regardless of which version is correct, Conway said, the couple

"might have been more or less racing" to their Bridgeton home. He said each car could have taken one of several routes, adding: "They happened to meet at one of the country crossroads."

Suggestions Are Welcome

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — If sidewalk superintendents have any criticism about the demolition of an old Cheyenne church, they'll have to take it to the Man Upstairs.

The roof of the church already had been removed when this sign was placed on the wall: "Sidewalk engineers with better ideas on how to wreck this building, leave note in suggestion box. Suggestion box on the roof."

Prelate Shows Slight Advance

ROME (AP) — Samuel Cardinal Stritch showed a slight improvement today but still was in serious condition.

"The condition of the cardinal is stationary with a tendency toward improvement," said the brief bulletin from his doctors.

The 70-year-old cardinal Roman Catholic archbishop of Chicago, suffered a stroke that partially paralyzed him three days ago. He had been recovering from the amputation of his right arm April 23, the result of another blood clot which threatened him with gangrene.

Dr. Filippo Rocchi of the Vatican medical staff said the cardinal had rested well during the night and had been able to take a little nourishment. There were no signs of the slight fever he had yesterday and he was able to receive communion more easily this morning.

His speech still was limited to a whispered yes or no to questions. But Dr. Rocchi said the prelate had passed the initial "pre-occupying" phase of the cerebral thrombosis.

Dr. Rocchi did not explain his terminology but the doctors had indicated earlier they considered the first 48 hours after the stroke now past as an especially critical period.

CAMP FOR ERRING YOUTHS

Director Deon Van Hoose, right, welcomes a typical youngster to the forestry camp. We'll call him Joe, even though that's not his real name.

Juvenile delinquents are being rehabilitated by Illinois in forestry camps that have neither walls nor fences.

In five such camps—a sixth is planned—selected delinquents between the ages of 16 and 19 learn a new way of life. There is no atmosphere of the penal institution about any of the camps. There is hard work in the forests, good food and a chance for a youngster to make a new life for himself.

The camps and three other correctional institutions are under the jurisdiction of the Illinois Youth Commission.

A typical day at camp: Up at 6 a.m., breakfast, work from 8 till noon, lunch, work till 4, a shower, the evening meal, and free time till lights go out at 9:30 p.m. Some of the youngsters are even allowed to leave the camps and go into neighboring towns to attend a movie.

BUDDING FORESTER. Camp supervisor gives Joe a tip in sharpening an ax blade.

Joe and another member of work detail cut down old trees to be used for firewood. They do other forestation work in an Illinois state park.

During the recreation period, Joe and another lad engage in a game of chess while a friend observes the play. Chess is popular at the camp.

The pastor of the town, the Rev. Herbert Kopff, and Joe hold a friendly chat in the church at Metropolis.

Outdoor work builds up good appetites. The boys eat in same dining hall with camp's supervisors.

The boys line up to see movies in Metropolis. They are allowed to go one night a week and sit with regular audience.

Lights go out at 9:30 each night. But just before prayers are said in unison by boys of different faiths. Work day starts at 6 the next morning.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By FAGALY and SHORTEN

ON THE HOUSE

THIS DINING ROOM is an example of the modern trend toward built-in decor in the American home. Designed by Edward Wormley, the room's walls and ceiling are covered with natural cowhide flank leather in a collage effect with beams and moldings of walnut. The product is a discard in leather production. The vertical blinds are of natural russet leather and form one wall. The sea mist leather chairs are at an octagonal table.

modern of the late 1930's and early 1940's in history. New patterns from all designers are new and not a return to traditionalism. The new creation is warm, charming and liveable," he said.

Henry Glass of Chicago says American design is taking the direction of greater personal expression. The field of invention is pointing the way.

"There are a lot of human problems that have to be met," Glass said. "There are some things that should stay in a home and some things that should go."

Among the things that could stay is a new sliding-door mirror. E.F. Gardner says this invention will revolutionize home interior styling.

"By using large panels of mirror that reflect a major portion of a room, builders will be able to create a new dimension in space, giving small areas a feeling of greater height and depth," he said.

The six by eight-foot mirror is a packaged product complete with aluminum frame and equipped with all hardware for hanging. It is delivered to the building site in a single carton.

Another idea of interior decorating was advanced by Edward Wormley who used discarded flank leather on walls and the ceiling of a room. The idea achieves a rustic texture effect now prominent in architectural design.

Even the kitchen sink has become decorative.

Margaret Bedwick fashioned a casual patio setting featuring a console kitchen sink unit covered in black tropical leather and lined with mandarin red leather.

Complete with range, water outlets and refrigerator, the sink unit when closed resembles an innocent cabinet in a casual arrangement of wicker chairs, upholstered bright yellow wrought iron chair and walls of blue pecky cypress.

Business Failures Are More Than Matched

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — The business death rate is mounting. But new enterprises still outstrip the failures. And it isn't the smallest firms nor the largest that are finding recession times hard going.

It's the in-between concerns where the liabilities are increasing. And the same reasons as of yore account for most of them. Failures this year are running 10 per cent ahead of last. Most weeks this year have seen more than 300 firms go out of business. The largest number are those with liabilities of $5,000 to $25,000.

But Dun & Bradstreet, which keeps an eye on such things, notes that related to the growing business population, the casualty rate is below that of 1939 and less than half that of the years between 1921 and 1933.

It also notes that while an average of 330,000 firms have folded in each of the last five years, an average of 380,000 new hopefuls have started up. And if you want to go back 100 years, there were only a tenth as much concerns in business then as now.

Last year 13,739 businesses quit, with liabilities totaling $615,533,000. This was 52 of each 10,000 in operation. The increase of failures per 10,000 was 8 per cent higher than in 1956, but that comparatively prosperous year had a 16 per cent increase in failures over 1955.

The most failures last year were in New York City, 2,084. Los Angeles was second with 337; Philadelphia third with 305; and Chicago next with 281.

The failure rate per 10,000 firms was highest in the Pacific Coast regions, at 128; and second in the middle Atlantic states at 80. The Rocky Mountain states had a rate of 44 and New England 43.

Furniture manufacturers had the highest failure rate, 247 per 10,000, with transportation equipment at 145 and leather and shoes at 145 coming next. Among retail concerns the failure rate was highest among those specializing in infants and childrens wear, 187; followed by men's wear, 138, and women's ready to wear, 134.

Youth is still a touchy period for the hopeful business concern. Of all failures 17 per cent were only two years old and the same per cent three years old. The four-year-olds accounted for 13 per cent of the failures.

But Dun & Bradstreet notes that businesses over 10 years old continue to claim a growing proportion of total failures — in 1947 it was 9 per cent and in 1957 it was 19 per cent.

Chief underlying cause of failures is about what it's always been—lack of experience or incompetence. So are the causes given in the legal proceedings: 49 per cent cite inadequate sales and 22 per cent blame competitors.

While the total of failures is increasing in all phases of business, Dun & Bradstreet takes comfort in the fact that the rate of increase is slowing in every group except manufacturing.

And while the dollar total of liabilities is higher now than any time since 1932, the agency points out that these must be viewed in the considerably changed purchasing power of the dollar and also in the much higher total of sales and production.

1919 Ford Coupe Is Easy To Sell

NEW YORK (AP) — How many people do you think would like to buy a 1919 model-T Ford coupe in good condition for $350.

The Dry Dock Savings Bank offered just such a deal the other day, as part of an attention-getting advertising program featuring unusual things to buy. A newspaper advertisement pictured the car and said:

"If you want a car with plenty of headroom and lots of nostalgia, here she is. A postwar model—World War I that is—she was born in 1919 and is still in good condition. Electric starter — or — or crank it by hand if you insist."

The bank got 50 quick phone calls and letters, not only from this area but from Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. The inquiries are still coming in.

Only about half the inquiries were people with car hobbies. The others just saw the ad and got to thinking what fun it would be.

Miss Sally Dominick, who handles the bank's ad program, makes arrangements with people who have unusual things to sell, checking carefully to make sure they are bargains in their way and of top quality.

When people see the ads and inquire, they are mailed circulars giving all details so that direct contact may be made with the sellers.

The ads have featured such things as $300 ship models, $995 telescopes, fencing lessons and Mexican burros for $85 each.

Most popular items so far were the telescopes and burros.

Now about that 1919 Ford again. Just so prospective customers would have a better chance at her fact sheet a 1913 Ford touring car and a 1915 Ford pickup truck restored as a hobby by a real estate man. He was willing to sell for $1,000 and $750, respectively.

What happened? The fellow with the touring car and pickup changed his mind. Instead, he rushed out with a $350 check and snapped up the coupe.

Mickey Rooney Back On Familiar Ground

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It gives me a strange feeling to be back at this studio," said Mickey Rooney as he was driven onto the MGM lot.

"I still expect L. B. Mayer to be walking down the street, or to see Joan Crawford or Clark Gable or Spence Tracy. But they aren't here any more. None of the old gang is here any more."

Despite the thinning of the star ranks, Mickey says MGM will be coming back strong. And he's decorating his bit to help the recovery.

He has returned to the home grounds in the role that made him the No. 1 box office star in his youth, "Andy Hardy Goes Home" revives the fabulous series that was the most successful in film history.

Mick returns not merely as a star, but as a partner. His Fryman Productions, named after the street where he lives, owns 50 per cent of the film.

Does this mean the Hardy series will keep going? "We'll wait and see how this one goes," he said. "What we'd like to do is make two of them a year back to back. We could film two of them in 20 days, then space out their release."

It seems incredible that two films could be made in 20 days but he explained that he's making the current one in slightly over 11. This due to the skillful planning of his manager and producer, Red Doff, and fast-shooting director Howard Koch.

"We're making the picture for $301,000," said producer Doff. "That includes the overhead. MGM is wondering how we can expect to be completed by 1960."

AP Newfeatures. . . . . blen.
CHICAGO (AP) — Architects, interior decorators and furniture designers are integrating their efforts and foresee the time when American homes will have more built-in units.

A group of designers meeting here discussed trends in American living and found that millions of middle class people move each year. They agree that stationary furniture and fittings are in sight.

"The kitchen sink is taken for granted as part of the house," said Larry Peabody, a Boston furniture designer.

"Closets will have built-in chests and drawers. A bedroom need not remain a bedroom in appearance," he said.

Designer John Van Koert of New York says we can lavish more attention on the little things—a painting that can be transported, a piece of sculpture, silverware. These are personal attachments.

"We are shipping around a lot of sentimentality in furniture," Van Koert said. "I don't think we ought to become neurotic because we give up something we've set on for a couple of years."

Designers envision a library of changeable parts and panels in color and fabric for decorating built-in cabinets and interior walls of homes. These could match upholstery in chairs and sofas.

To achieve this, the designers suggest that a home may have furniture built into it according to specifications from an architect. The designers suggest this as one method of solving the moving problem.

False Front On Colleges Feared

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP)—A leading Colorado educator thinks too much emphasis may be placed on the appearance of colleges and universities.

Quigg Newton, president of the University of Colorado, told a civic group here, "I sometimes think our institutions are too beautiful and give the impression we have everything we need."

Newton said he is seeking higher pay for teachers.

Confusion And Apathy In Italy's Vote Campaign

By EUGENE LEVIN
ROME (AP) — Apathy and confusion. Those two words provide a thumbnail description of the Italian election campaign. The posters on the signboards, the banners stretched across the streets, all testify to the fact that Italy will elect a new Parliament Sunday. But among Italians there is a noticeable lack of excitement. None of the parties seems to have hit on a theme or an issue to inspire or inflame the voters. They are trying hard, though. And the results of their efforts are all a bit confusing. The governing Christian Democrats are the chief targets of a dozen or so opposition parties. In their attacks on the Christian Democrats, the rightist and leftist parties sometimes seem to speak with one voice. The Radical and Republican parties, staunchly non-Communist, have been as quick as the Communists to denounce "clerical interference," as they call it. Such charges seem to be the chief opposition weapon against the Christian Democrats. The implication is that the Christian Democrats are an instrument of the Catholic Church. If Communists and anti-Communists appear united against the Christian Democrats, they remain strongly opposed to one another. The Radicals, Republicans and Social Democrats continue to support Italy's general foreign policy of alliance with the West. On the left, the Communists and Pietro Nenni's Socialists are fighting everyone else—and each other. Both claim to be the true representative of the working class. On the right, the parties are just as sharply divided. They jab at the Christian Democrats, and their banners say a vote for the rightists is a vote against "clericalism and communism."

Virginia PTA Near Hopeless Over Showdown

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Reporter
OMAHA (AP) — The integration versus segregation battle in Virginia is headed for a showdown this fall. The state Parents-Teachers organization is awaiting that showdown helplessly and almost hopelessly. "We'll try to handle what happens this fall just as it develops," said Mrs. W. W. Kavanaugh, president of the Virginia Congress of Parents and Teachers. "Our task is to keep the public schools open, to insure that our children get an education. It's difficult to stick to a middle line, but that is what we must do." The Supreme Court Monday refused to consider a last-ditch appeal that would prevent Negro students from entering Arlington County white schools next fall. The state administration has threatened to close the schools under anti-integration laws that say state funds are to be shut off if integration occurs. Mrs. Kavanaugh spoke out today after the conclusion of the 62nd annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. The national body took no stand on the integration question this year. The Virginia PTA may be split right down the middle. Mrs. Kavanaugh said the group had members on both sides. "The tragic thing is what's going to happen to our children, both Negro and white," she said. "What's going to happen to them if and when the schools are closed? The children are going to be hurt, they're going to be hurt emotionally." "Our job is to try to keep the schools open, that's all we can do. We can't fight legal battles, we have to concentrate on getting the children educated." "If the PTA in Virginia is split, all our strength would be dissipated. We would be worth nothing."

Decree Raleigh Must Pay $20,000 To Injured Boy

RALEIGH (AP) — Under a State Supreme Court decision yesterday the City of Raleigh will have to pay $25,000 damages to a Raleigh boy who was permanently injured when a power mower hurled a rock against his head. Mrs. Nora G. Glenn brought the action against the city in behalf of her son, Joseph. The Supreme Court found no error in the second trial of the action. A Wake County jury ruled that the boy was injured at Pullen Park because of negligence on the part of the city's employe. The boy was sitting on a picnic table at the park on May 14, 1953, when a power mower hurled the stone against his head. In a Cumberland County case, the high court also found no error in the manslaughter conviction of James Madison Horner and William Gordy. They were sentenced to 14-17 years for slaying Sarah Moutrie Lindsay, who was beaten to death last September. Associate Justice Carlisle Higgins wrote a dissenting opinion in the case. The woman's body, nude from the waist down, was found lying on a road by a passing motorist. Testimony by the two defendants told of a drinking bout among them and Miss Lindsay.

Horner said he discovered the woman was moaning and bleeding and that he and Gordy took her to the road where her body was later found. There was no direct evidence as to how she received the injuries. Her body bore a host of bruises. Justice Higgins said, "I can agree the defendants' conduct in putting the woman out in the rain was shabby indeed, but to say the evidence supports manslaughter is too much for me." In another Cumberland case, the court held that sufficient sentiment had been mustered to require a referendum before the City of Fayetteville can act to annex a subdivision south of the city limits. In its ruling, the court upheld a decision by Judge Q. K. Nimocks in April 1957. Judge Nimocks ruled that opponents of annexation had obtained enough signatures on a petition to require a referendum.

Motion Picture Colleagues Pay Final Tributes

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Many motion picture colleagues turned out for the quiet, simple funeral of British-born actor Ronald Colman. Easter hymns were played during the 15-minute service yesterday. There was no eulogy for Colman, 67, who died Monday of a lung infection. Colman's widow Benita Hume was accompanied to All Saints-by-the-Sea Episcopal Church by Actor William Powell, Richard Barthelmess, who appeared years ago with Colman and Powell in the film "The Three Musketeers," took the arm of the actor's daughter Juliet, 13. Others who made the 100-mile trek from Hollywood included George Sanders, Joseph Cotten, Patricia Medina, Jack Benny, Vincent Price, Gladys Cooper, Herbert Marshall and George Cukor, who directed Colman's Academy Award-winning performance in "A Double Life."

Double Force Of Globemasters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has nearly doubled a force of Globemaster transport planes sent to Europe amid outbreaks in Lebanon and Algeria. The Defense Department said last night 13 of the three-deck planes went to join 18 others which left for Germany, starting Saturday morning. The Pentagon said 8 of the 13 took off later Saturday and 5 headed across the Atlantic since then. Basing the 200-passenger planes in Europe would put them in position to evacuate Americans from the Middle East and North Africa, if the need arose.

Southern Baptist Policies Attacked

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
A.P. Religion Writer
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Southern Baptists were under attack today by Texas segregationists who accused the denomination of fostering race-mixing trends. A flood of literature, bearing the imprint of the state White Citizens Council, was distributed among the approximately 15,000 representatives to the denomination's annual convention. The material cited the Scriptures seeking to show segregation was ordained by God. The printed charges also claimed that Baptist publications have an increasing integrationist content. Several church leaders described the material variously as distorted, inaccurate or unfair. At last night's sessions in the Houston Coliseum, many of the delegates read copies of the derogatory matter during the program. A report on the racial situation comes before the meeting today.

Teenagers Have Advice On Cars

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — Teenagers advise to parents: "Don't let teen-agers have cars until they can buy them with their own money." It came today from students at Stockton College and Slag High School. It's one suggestion made in a poll conducted by the junior college public relations class after Thomas Callahan, a student, was killed in an automobile accident May 10. Other recommendations for traffic safety: Suspend first offender's license for 30 days. Learn where teen-agers get liquor and cut off the supply. Enforce curfew laws. Give each traffic violator a day in jail at hard labor.

Any Emotion, Not Police Summons

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — "Do I have to go to court on this?" a man asked Police Capt. Kelo Rice as he handed him a printed card which read: "Thanks for taking two parking spaces. I had to park in the next block, you selfish, idiotic moron." In smaller type were the words, "You have violated section 368 D.A.M.I.T." Rice explained it was not an official summons—but added that the man shouldn't have taken two parking spaces.

Robin Is Back Among The Best

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press
Robin Roberts is back where he belongs—among the elite of the pitching fraternity.

Once the premier pitcher of the National League, Roberts won only 10 while losing 22 last year. There were widespread rumors that his days with the Philadelphia Phillies were numbered.

It was not until his last exhibition start this past spring that the 31-year-old Roberts was assured of a starting berth again.

Now Robbie the great is Philadelphia's fair-haired boy again. Last night when he hurled the Phillies to a spine-tingling 1-0 triumph over red-hot St. Louis. Furthermore, he broke up a scoreless duel with Sam Jones with a ringing eighth-inning double that drove in the lone run.

The San Francisco Giants defeated Cincinnati 5-4 in 10 innings to increase their first-place margin over Milwaukee to 2½ games. Los Angeles made it two in a row over the Braves, 2-1 and Chicago thrashed Pittsburgh 5-1.

In the American League, the New York Yankees scored their eighth straight victory and their second in a row over Chicago 5-2. Baltimore moved into a second place tie with Kansas City, beating Detroit 8-1. Cleveland beat Boston 3-2 in 11 innings and Washington snapped Kansas City's five-game winning streak 6-1.

The Phillies, held to one hit through seven innings by Jones, set up the winning run when Willie Jones singled to open the eighth. Chuck Essagian forced Jones, attempting to sacrifice, but Roberts came through with a double off the centerfield wall, scoring Essagian.

It also was Robbie's fourth straight complete game, his third straight victory and evened his season record at 4-4. Willie May won the game for the Giants with a 10th-inning home run, his 12th of the season. Willie also had two singles and his sacrifice fly brought in the tying run in the seventh when the Giants wiped out a 4-2 Cincinnati lead. Marv Grissom, third Giants pitcher, received credit for the victory.

with Hal Jeffcoat losing it. Gino Cimoli drove in both Dodgers runs with his fifth home run in the first inning and cut down

Milwaukee's bid for a tie in the seventh with a strong throw from center field that nipped Wes Covington at the plate. Don Drysdale won his second game for Los Angeles. Bob Ruth lost it. Walt Moryn drove in three runs with a home run and single and Taylor Phillips hurled a five-hitter for his second triumph in Chicago's victory over Pittsburgh. Bob Fortierfield was the loser.

Too Many Casteens Mixed In ACC All-Star Lineup

By KEN ALTYA
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Three of the top 24 Atlantic Coast Conference baseball players picked by the players themselves for the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Assn. are named Casteen. Yet only two Casteens are involved.

Here's what happened: The players named Russ Casteen, Wilmington senior, of North Carolina State to the first team outfield.

They also picked his sophomore brother, Danny, for the first team spot at first base. Danny also received enough votes for his pitching ability to win a spot on the second team staff.

The versatile Danny batted .309 and led the Wolfpack with six doubles. He was the team's biggest winner on the mound with a 3-1 record.

The Sorrell's Wolfpack started in whirlwind fashion, winning its first seven games, three of them in the ACC. But the 'Pack dropped seven of its last 11, all in conference play. Three of the losses were by one run.

The individual talent was there, however. State won four of the 12 first team positions in the voting of the players and put two men on the second team.

Dick McKee, Davidson College sports publicist and tennis coach, will be tennis professional at the Greenville, S. C. Country Club this summer.

Dick has held down summer jobs at Miami, Trenton, N.J., and Charlotte clubs in previous years. He's a former National Public Parks tennis champion.

Ernie White, former Cardinal southpaw, is selling insurance at Spartanburg, doing a bit of scouting for the Milwaukee Braves and coaching a Legion Junior baseball team. After several years of minor league managing he's out of organized ball, but says he'd consider a major league coaching job.

Those long bus trips in the minors rule out a return to managing, Ernie says. Concord has a new softball league, for business men. The name: The Linament League.

Yvon Durelle Took Easy Decision Win

MONTREAL (AP)—Yvon Durelle, pointing for renewed recognition as a contender for the world's lightweight title, chased and pounded Germain Ballarin of France last night for a unanimous 10-round decision.

The Canadian and British Empire champion from Baie Ste. Anne, N.E., carried the fight and had things pretty much his own way. He scored the only knockdown, a mandatory eight count in the 10th round.

The official weights for the non-title scrap were 178½ for Durelle—more than three pounds over the light heavyweight limit—and 171½ for Ballarin, who has done most of his fighting as a middleweight.

The knockdown blow in the 10th was more of a push-punch, a left, but it was enough to topple Ballarin in the center of the ring. He scrambled up almost immediately but had to take the mandatory eight count.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—The 23rd annual Carolinas left-handers Golf Tournament starts today as the first of more than 100 southpaws get in their opening or practice rounds.

Most of the field is expected to play the opening round tomorrow in the three-day tournament over the Sedgfield Country Club course. Flights for Saturday's 18-round finale will be made up after the field has completed the first 18 holes.

More than a dozen early birds were out practicing on the par 35-38-70 course yesterday. The defending champion is Jimmy Dezer of Durham, who has won seven of the previous events sponsored by the Left-Handed Golfers Assn. of the Carolinas.

Wins Women's Golf Tourney

Harriet White defeated Betsy Brown 2-1 to win the Greenville Golf and Country Club Women's championship yesterday.

The tourney was held Friday but final results were not definite until yesterday due to absences which forced several matches to be played after tourney day. The winner earlier defeated Evelyn Warner and Mildred Coleman to gain the finals.

Runner-up Brown scored wins over Millie Wright and Carolyn Thomas in her first and second round matches.

In the championship consolation, Louise Ficklen bowed to Millie Wright.

First flight honors were carried off by Maude Barnhill who defeated Edna Fisher. Mavis Lupton defeated Bernie Rawl for flight consolation honors.

Second flight honors were won by Alma Underwood over Virginia Lansche and consolation finals went to Lib Masten over Harriet Van Dyke.

Dottie Pierce won third flight honors over Evelyn Ward. Frances Dudley was the consolation winner. Cal Brown won fourth flight honors over Margie Parks. Bedie Muford won consolation play.

Of the 37 entries, Bessie Brown was low medalist.

Trophies for all winners will be presented at a country club dinner to be held at a later date.

One-Woman Lobby Sees Encouragement

The Fayetteville Observer Written for the Associated Press FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—One of the nation's most enthusiastic "lobbies" — and also one of the most inexperienced — is hard at work in Fayetteville trying to get a single bill through Congress, some four hundred miles away in Washington.

The "lobby" consists of just one person, Mrs. Leslie Morgan Hale, and she has no financial backing, no office in Washington, no high-priced public relations staff or advertising agency, and (so far) little active backing among the senators and representatives.

This doesn't stop her, or even slow her up. Talking to her, you get the impression that she realizes the task may be a little difficult, but that she doesn't really mind the odds are against her.

Most of this stems from her faith in the righteousness of the law she is seeking, which would extend Social Security benefits to youngsters past the age of 18, provided they are bona fide high school or college students.

She considers this a most important bill, "especially for orphans and for families less able to finance education."

It is also true that, if it should pass, it would have some effect on one of her own two sons, and Mrs. Hale will not deny that this has some bearing on her efforts. But she says, eyes shining, that "The main thing is what it would mean to mothers all over the nation, who are keeping their families together through Social Security.

"Right now, insurance benefits for these children cease when they reach their eighteenth birthday, on the theory that they are old enough to go out and earn their own living. But many high school students, in fact most of those who keep working toward their diplomas, are 18 before they graduate.

"They should certainly be allowed to finish, and since all the people in Washington now say we are falling behind in education, this would be a wonderful way for the government to help with the college educations of surviving children of wage earners who were covered by Social Security before they died."

The bill that would do what Mrs. Hale wants is now before Congress, introduced in the House by Rep. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.). At present H.R. 10505 is in the hands of the House Ways and Means Committee, headed by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.).

Mrs. Hale has received some support. As might be expected, she has done fairly well in Fayetteville. The Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club, and Fayetteville Observer have all endorsed the bill, the paper writing a very favorable editorial.

The North Carolina Education Assn. has come out strong in favor of H.R. 10505, following urging from members in Cumberland County and Mrs. Hale says: "That means that 27,000 teachers are in favor of it. Isn't that good?" She hopes this will lead to the blessing of the National Education Assn.

In Congress, she has received some support and advice from Alton Lennon, whose district includes Fayetteville, and from two other Tar Heel lawmakers, freshman Congressman Ralph J. Scott and the influential chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, Rep. Carl T. Durham.

She has written every member of the Ways and Means Committee and every North Carolina congressman, receiving polite letters from each. But Scott, Durham and Lennon appear to have genuine interest in passage of the bill.

In addition, the late Sen. W. Kerr Scott (D-NC) came out strong for it in a letter to Mrs. Hale.

A real thrill came the other night when Gabriel Heatter, on his nationwide radio commentary, gave several minutes enthusiastically praising the measure.

Mrs. Hale, with her two sons, could serve as a "model example" of the value of the bill.

When her husband, an oil man, died in 1944 just two years after the Hales built their comfortable house here, she was able to keep her family together with his estate — and Social Security.

Today, her older son, 23-year-old Morgan Hale, is a student at the University of North Carolina Medical School, "and doing very well — making good grades," his mother proudly discloses.

Young Robert, 17, is a junior in high school. He will reach 18 next October, "with seven months remaining in high school," and his mother plans to send him to college too. She says she can manage this, whether or not the Social Security Act is changed, "but there are lots of people who remain in high school," and his mother plans to send him to college too. She says she can manage this, whether or not the Social Security Act is changed, "but there are lots of people who can't."

Both youths were Key Club members in high school, and Robert is an Eagle Scout. He also serves as summer lifeguard at a neighborhood pool in Fayetteville.

The family attends Highland Presbyterian Church, where Robert is president of the Youth Fellowship.

The soft-spoken mother, in her unaccustomed role as "lobbyist" for her pet legislation, thinks it would be grand if she succeeded in time to help her younger son's education.

But even if she doesn't, you get the impression that she'll keep after it until the bill becomes law.

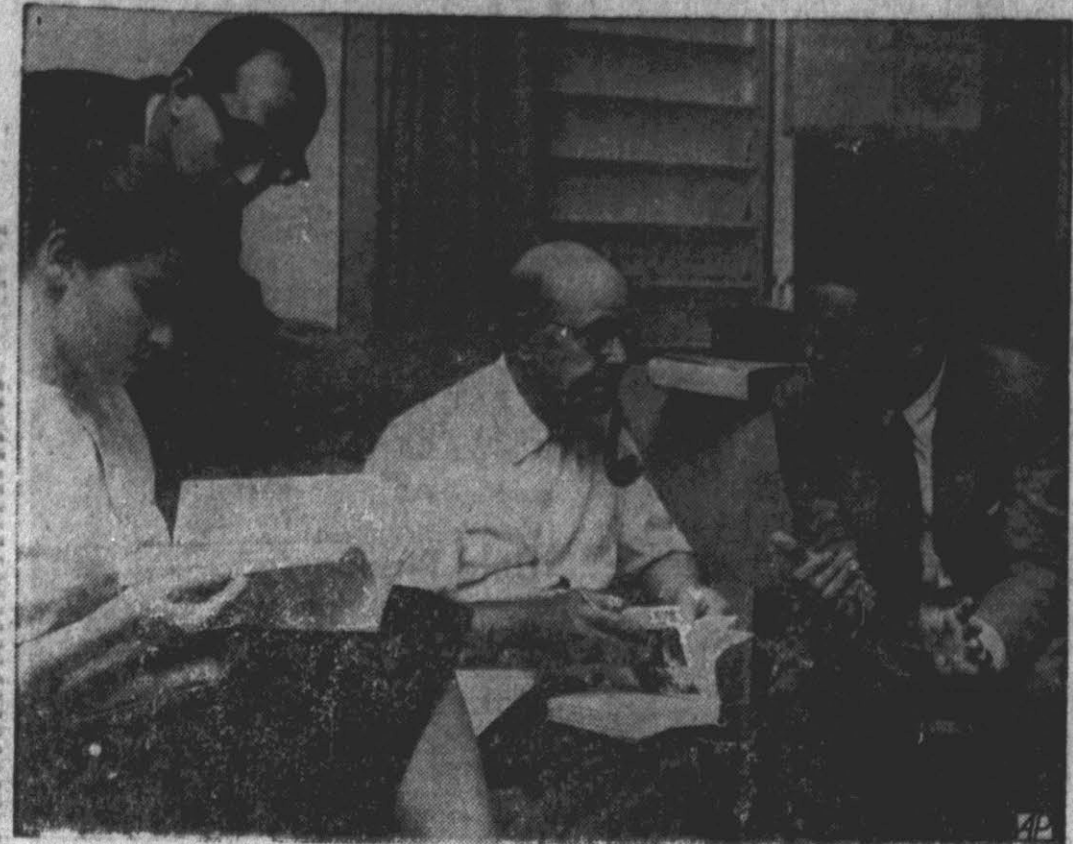

"After all" as she says, "it's important. And what is Congress up there for, if not to do things that are important to the future of the country?"

Last Dog Sled Mail In Alaska

SAVOONGA, Alaska (AP) — The only remaining dog sled carrier of U.S. Mails in Alaska continues to operate on remote St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea. All other mails and freight are now carried by air.

Chester Noonwood, a 22-year old Eskimo, drives his 10 huskies over the 100-mile mail route between Savoonga and Gambell about twice a week. The Post Office Department pays Noonwood $40 for each round trip. Although he has frequent troubles with "howling storms or soft snow," Noonwood consoles himself that "there are no wolves."

His most serious task, he said, was once when a new missionary came into Savoonga and had 5,000 pounds of baggage, and it was December weather. Noonwood and his dogs "delivered the mail" on that assignment, too, although it required several extra trips.

Not Much Likelihood Of Schultzy Snaring Boss

By CHARLES MERCER NEW YORK (AP) — Followers of the Bob Cummings Show should be informed that there are no immediate prospects of his helpful assistant Schultzy corraling our hero in matrimony.

On the other hand, neither is there much likelihood that one of those beautiful girls who drift through the show will be corralled by Cummings.

The authority for saying this is one who certainly should know: Paul Henning, writer and producer of the program.

Henning, a highly successful writer of comedy who began his apprenticeship with the old Fibber McGee and Molly radio program, gave an interesting insight the other day into how the series was conceived.

"I've long been an admirer of Bob Cummings' acting," he said, "and in a comedy role I especially visualized him as an ineffectual single man."

"At first I thought Cummings might be a commercial artist, but not many people know exactly what a commercial artist does. Then it occurred to me that everybody knows what a photographer is. So why not make him a professional photographer who makes pictures of beautiful girls?"

"But I wanted to balance his carefree bachelor existence with family responsibilities — though not to the extent of marriage. The wise course seemed to be to fence him in with a widowed sister to whom he had obligations, and with a woman assistant who would make sure there wasn't any hanky-panky with the beautiful girls around his studio. So the idea of Schultzy was conceived, a nice girl who's in love with him and wants to protect him."

Henning says that the viewing public is constantly pulling for Schultzy, played by Ann B. Davis, who this year won an Emmy Award for her handling of the role.

While Henning won't say that Schultzy never will get her man, one can see that this just can't happen too soon without the series losing its perpetual motion. By perpetual motion we mean:

(A) Cummings chasing pretty girls, and (B) Schultzy chasing Cummings. If anybody ever catches anybody, the perpetual motion machine will break down. It would be a different show.

And Henning likes to quote a wise line uttered by Lucille Ball when somebody wanted to change the "I Love Lucy" show:

"Don't fool around with success."

Call For General Strike In Panama

PANAMA (AP) — Students supported by a committee of mothers and some labor unions today called for a general strike against the government at midnight.

The call was issued as unidentified demonstrators forced traffic off the principal avenues of the Panamanian capital early today.

At least three homemade gasoline bombs exploded in separate areas. High school and university students are demanding that President Ernesto de la Guardia Jr. fire Education Minister Victor Julio, charging he has failed to provide proper high school facilities.

Since a student was fatally injured Monday in a clash with National Guardsmen at the city's largest high school, the students also have demanded dismissal of three guard commanders.

A student spokesman said earlier that De la Guardia was given until midnight last night for a decision on the demands. Although there was no official announcement, the indication was that the President would not accede.

De la Guardia has charged political opponents with stirring up the trouble but student leaders deny any political influence.

Opponent Dead, Still Must Vote

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Board of Elections has no authority to certify Robert H. Gambill of north Wilkesboro as Democratic nominee for Superior Court judge without holding an election even though his opponent is dead.

So said Atty. Gen. Malcolm B. Seawell in a ruling yesterday. Seawell said the board can certify a nominee only in cases where a single candidate from a political party has filed for a post.

He suggested that the name of the late Judge J. A. Rousseau remain on the ballots and be voted on with Gambill, an attorney, for the superior court judgeship in the 23rd Judicial District May 31.

Judge Rousseau, who had served on the Superior Court bench about 20 years, died of a heart attack Saturday. This was the first time he had had opposition in a primary.

"If the name of Judge Rousseau should receive the majority of the votes," Seawell said, "the question would then arise as to whether Mrs. Gambill should be the nominee or whether there would be a vacancy to be filled by the Democratic Executive Committee of that judicial district."

However, that question may never rise. Therefore, it is felt that the office is not called upon to attempt to answer that question.

Bright Optimism Sweeping Algiers; Some Believe France Has Been Saved

By DAVID MASON
ALGIERS (AP) — Optimism as intense as the brilliant Mediterranean sunshine is sweeping through the streets of Algiers.

"Algeria is saving France," proclaim splashy posters along the palm-lined avenues.

The desperate slogans of the 3½-year fight against Arab nationalists — "Algeria must remain French" — are virtually lost in the flood of events since the stunning defiance of Paris here nine days ago.

The quick success of the bid for power by disgruntled generals and French settlers has given their leaders a heady sense of mission: to shock France into wiping out its bickering, blundering political system and again make the nation a vigorous world power.

Long-time students of the complex Algerian question find it difficult to see where it all will end. Confusion heaped upon paradox obscures the immediate future.

Some pressing questions have emerged from what is now being called "the Revolution of May 13." That was the day civilians rioted against the possibility that new Premier Pierre Pflimlin might seek negotiations to end the Algerian war. The riots led to establishment of military-civilian juntas throughout Algeria which seized governmental authority in defiance of Paris.

The questions are:
1. If Algiers cannot force political changes on Paris, will Algeria secede from France?

The answer appears to be no. One big reason is the territory's strong economic dependence on the homeland. Another is the close personal and cultural ties between Algeria and France. And for another thing the bulk of France's conscript army in Algeria probably would mutiny before it would fight to protect an independent Algeria.

2. What has happened to the Arab rebellion?

The Algiers Committee of Public Safety, which is running the show in the capital, claims fighting has virtually stopped and the rebels are rallying to it. Independent information seems to confirm at least the first part of this. A high-ranking officer in a hot spot of eastern Algeria said rebel troops are retreating into the interior, apparently to await new orders.

3. What about the startling and apparently spontaneous show of unity between Arabs and French which has occurred since May 13?

Hundreds of Arabs have been turning up for the nightly speeches by junta leaders in downtown Algiers. No one appears to know why — not even the Arabs themselves. They obviously have been caught up in the general excitement which has electrified the population.

Some Europeans explain the Arab participation this way: "They finally see the French are here to stay, that French policy finally is consistent and strong. Now they know we mean business and they want to join us."

Perhaps there is a good measure of wishful thinking in such an analysis. It is too early to say how much truth it contains.

There are several other uncertainties in the general picture. No one knows for sure the position of Gen. Raoul Salan, French commander in chief and provisional dictator of Algeria. Pflimlin professes faith in him although the general has given no public indication that he supports the government in Paris.

For another thing, the insurgents have yet to establish their all-Algeria committee, a sort of quasigovernment, although it has been in the talking stage for days. This raises the possibility that enthusiasm may be stronger in Algiers than elsewhere in the territory.

Expert Says Russians Using 2-Stage Rockets

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kurt Stehling, top propulsion expert on the Navy Vanguard rocket project, says calculations indicate that the Soviet Union has been using two-stage rockets to launch all its Sputniks.

Stehling told an Air Force Assn. dinner meeting last night that information points to the use of the same propulsion system for the 184-pound Sputnik I, the 1,120-pound Sputnik II, and the 3,000-pound Sputnik III. He estimated the rocket's length at 175 feet and total thrust at about 555,000 pounds.

Stehling also told the group to watch for another Vanguard satellite launching attempt in the not too distant future. He declined to pinpoint the date of the launching of a 20-pound satellite.

The Navy has announced that this will be the first official satellite launching vehicle of the Vanguard series. Previous Navy launchings have been of test vehicles with experimental satellites aboard some of the. The Vanguard satellite now in orbit was launched by one of these test vehicles.

Stehling said that from the information released by the Soviets it was possible to estimate that for the first stage they used a rocket 100 feet long and 10 feet diameter, with a thrust of 500,000 pounds.

He said the second stage rocket apparently was 75 feet long and had 55,000 pounds of thrust. Stehling said the Red scientists probably used alcohol and liquid oxygen as propellants.

The Vanguard rocket which launched the Navy's 6.4-inch, 3¼-pound satellite and the 50-pound, 5-foot-long final-stage rocket that is also in orbit was a three-stage vehicle 72 feet tall with total thrust of 36,800 pounds.

The Army Jupiter C rockets that launched the Explorer satellites were 70 feet long and about three times as heavy and powerful as the Vanguard rockets.

Decapitated By Commuter Train

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A crossing guard's son was decapitated by a Southern Pacific commuter train last night.

Terry Caldwell, 18, a high school sophomore, waited on his bicycle for a northbound train to go by. Then he pedaled across the tracks into the second coach of a southbound train. He was thrown under the wheels.

Terry was a son of Wilford Caldwell, a Southern Pacific crossing guard.

Narrowly Miss Another Tragedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capital Airlines said early today an Air Force B47 jet bomber narrowly missed colliding with a Viscount jet-prop airliner near Findlay, Ohio, last night.

The incident occurred a day after a Maryland Air National Guard jet fighter rammed a Capital airliner near Brunswick, Md., killing 12 persons.

Capital headquarters here confirmed a report from Cleveland that a near collision had occurred over northwest Ohio about 40 miles south of Toledo.

Airline officials said Capt. Jesse Vickers Viscount similar to the Bradford of Baltimore reported his airliner was flying east toward Washington at 19,000 feet when a B47, apparently dropping down to land, suddenly crossed within 500 feet of his plane.

"Bradford radioed the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Cleveland and asked that a formal protest be filed," airline officials said.

The officials said the airliner, a one involved in Tuesday's collision carried a crew of four. They said they had no report on the number of passengers aboard.

The airliner was en route from Chicago to Washington and Baltimore.

Jackson Hole, Wyo., where the Grand Teton National Park is located, has a rim of mountains which rise as high as 13,000 feet.

Governors Fail To Peg One 'Star' For 1960 Campaigns

By JACK BELL
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The nation's governors headed home today from their golden anniversary conference without having pegged any star performer for the 1960 Democratic and Republican presidential nominations.
In four days of meetings, the governors covered subjects ranging from the size of the National Guard to a proposal for a White House conference on the recession.
They heard Secretary of Defense McElroy and Secretary of the Treasury Anderson explain what the federal government is doing—and why it hasn't done more—to combat the business slump.
But behind the scenes governors who consider themselves available for their party's top nomination two years from now maneuvered for position and publicity to help their cause.
The general opinion among those who had no national ambitions was that none of those who displayed their wares made much headway in a field from which the party nominees traditionally are chosen.

Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, who would like to be the 1960 Democratic nominee, stumbled over a coalition roadblock in his efforts to win the chairmanship of the conference. Southern Democrats and conservative Western Republicans gave the plum to Democratic Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida.
This helped Collins in his obvious bid to become a compromise representative of the South on a 1960 Democratic ticket that would avoid any showdown stand on the school segregation issue.
In the Democratic ranks, Governors Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut and Averell Harriman of New York generally were credited with outshining their colleagues. Neither is considered presently available for the 1960 presidential nomination.
Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky said that after looking over the field of available, he is not at all embarrassed to be running openly for the 1960 nomination.
On the Republican side, there was an admitted lack of presidential talent among GOP governors. They seemed generally to take it for granted that Vice President Nixon will be their party's 1960 nominee.
Republican Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois, the retiring chairman of the conference, put out some tentative feelers for the vice-presidential nomination. Almost no other Republican even touched a toe in the national waters.
The cross-section feeling among the governors seemed to be that current economic conditions make it likely the Democrats will increase their margins in both houses of Congress in the November elections.

The governors passed up their chance to question McElroy and Anderson about economic measures in favor of a vigorous attack on the administration's proposal to reduce the level of the National Guard from 400,000 men to 360,000.

Wants Envoys To Meet People

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon says American Diplomats in Latin America should get away from the white-tie circuit and talk more with persons at the grass roots level.
He mentioned students, labor leaders and press groups which he described as "the wave of the future" in Latin America.
In giving his views yesterday on what can be done to improve U.S. relations with other nations in the Western Hemisphere, Nixon said Communist influences were only partly responsible for the mob violence directed at him during his recent tour of South America. He said the demonstrations stemmed also from economic troubles and a belief among some Latin Americans that the United States supported dictators.
Speaking at a National Press Club luncheon, Nixon said he found that American policies had not been adequately presented. And he suggested that U.S. diplomats work more closely with private enterprise in Latin America to convince the people there that American policy is not aimed at making "the rich richer and the poor poorer."

Advises Slowing Summer Rush

ST. LOUIS (AP) — If you're an average American, don't jump into strenuous summer activities with too much zeal. Your heart can't take it.
That is the advice given by Dr. Simon Dack, New York City, editor of the American Journal of Cardiology. He was here to attend the annual convention of the American College of Cardiology—a group of heart specialists.
The doctor said most Americans lead a sedentary life during the winter, then tend to start charging across the golf course, furiously spading the garden or leaping about on tennis courts as soon as summer arrives.
He advised the summertime athletes to break into it gradually, "just like professional athletes train themselves."

PERSONAL OPINION

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The Denver office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service received an income tax return listing these occupations: "Husband — Peasant. Wife — Slave."

Frustrated Him Once Too Often

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — A stopped freight train delayed a frustrated motorist once too often.
A 104-car Reading Co. freight train blocked traffic for nearly half an hour waiting for a signal to move onto the Jersey Central tracks. Finally the signal came. The rest remained and traffic began to flow.

Someone "unofficially" uncoupled the freight cars at the crossing.
The most costly hailstorm in history hit the vicinity of Wichita, Kan., in 1951. Property damage was estimated at 14 million dollars.

Realistic View Of First Tooth

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Stevie Whittle, 5, eagerly placed the first tooth he lost under his pillow.
The next day, he found a dollar bill under the pillow (with an assist from his grandparents). His father, Therl Whittle, a policeman, told Stevie, "I think you're very lucky. I never got more than a dime."

"Well, Daddy," Stevie replied, "you know the price has gone up on everything."
In 1951, the U. S. railroads installed more new locomotive units than in any year since 1923.

Three Heads Of Departments At ECC Are Retiring

DR. A. D. FRANK ... former Social Studies head.

Three heads of departments at East Carolina College, each of whom has been connected with the college for more than thirty years, have retired or will retire as the 1957-1958 session closes.

Dr. P. W. Picklesimer of the geography department is retiring this spring. Dr. Lucile Turner of the English department will complete her work at the college this summer. Dr. A. D. Frank of the social studies department retired in November.

Dr. Picklesimer has served as director of the department of geography since 1926. A native of Kentucky, he attended Berea College and later received the B.S., M.A., and Ph. D. degrees from George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.

He began his career as an educator as a supervisor and principal in Kentucky public schools, taught science in the New Hanover High School in Wilmington, N.C., and then joined the East Carolina faculty.

Dr. Picklesimer is the author of a score of articles which have been published in journals of interest to geographers. He is a member of the honorary societies Pi Gamma Mu, Phi Delta Kappa, and Kappa Delta Pi. In Greenville he has served as senior warden of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Dr. and Mrs. Picklesimer will move to Florida early this summer and will make their home in Dunedin.

Dr. Turner, member of the East Carolina faculty since 1926, became head of the department of English in 1940, and has held this position since that time. A Tennesseean, she holds the B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees from George Peabody College. Before coming to Greenville, she was head of the English departments of Martin College, located in her home town of Pulaski, Tenn., and of State Normal School, Jacksonville, Alabama.

Dr. Turner is widely known in North Carolina as the founder of the state chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, national honor society for women in education, and as a past president of the state chapter. She has also been president of the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women. Educational organizations in which she holds membership include Kappa Delta Phi, honor fraternity.

After her retirement, Dr. Turner will live in Tucson, Arizona. Dr. Frank, native of Tennessee, retired from the college after thirty-four years of service as director of the department of social studies. He holds the B.S. and the M.A. degrees from George Peabody College and the Ph. D. from Columbia University.

At the college Dr. Frank headed a large number of important committees, including the Course of Study Committee; the Committee on Athletics; and, when GI students were entering the college after World War II, the Veterans Committee. As a member of the Advisory Council of the East Carolina College Alumni Association, he helped carry on the work of the organization for many years.

He was over a long period a member of the North Carolina College Conference and acted as chairman of the Standards Committee of the organization. As a speaker he was in frequent demand by civic and cultural organizations in Greenville and other towns of the state and he was heard on a number of college-sponsored broadcasts.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank are now living in Boca Raton, Florida.

Hungary May Go For Golf Course

BUDAPEST (AP) — Communist Hungary, looking for its share of the capitalist vacationer's dollar, is thinking of building a golf course although orthodox party members frown on the game.

Before World War II there were four golf courses in Hungary, old-timers say, including two in Budapest. All have disappeared under the Communist regime, and there is now only a small four-hole layout used almost entirely by diplomats, on property belonging to the U.S. legation.

The newspaper Hetfoel Hinek says the new course would be built at Balatonfoldvar, on the shores of Lake Balaton. This is one of the region's most popular resorts.

Although the golf course plan is for the more distant future, tourism officials say, some other capitalist innovations may be seen sooner. The architects have three types of motels on the drawing boards, to be built at points where main roads meet the lake, on the highways, and in the suburbs of larger towns.

Another architect has come up with an idea of building small artificial islands of concrete a short distance from the shore. Balaton is shallow, especially on the southern side, and bathers now have to walk hundreds of feet before getting out to their depth for a swim.

Man And Small Son Die In Plane Mishap

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Slowly, the bright blue-and-white plane was lifted out of the river. The bodies of a man and his small son were inside.

Water streamed down over an inscription on the plane's side:

"The first family in history to fly around South America in a single-engine airplane—over 22 countries and 10,000 miles. Date of flight, Aug. 31, 1957."

The little plane had flown its last flight.

Constantine Kokenes, his wife and six-year-old son were returning from New York City where he had been selling his book which stressed the safety of small private planes for family travel.

The plane crashed near here yesterday, smashing into the Dawhoo River on Edisto Island.

Kokenes and his 6-year-old son Aristedes, were killed. Mrs. Violetta Kokenes, 38, was thrown clear and suffered only minor injuries.

Mrs. Kokenes made several futile attempts to reach her husband and son who were trapped in the submerged wreckage. She was later taken to a hospital here and treated for shock.

Ray Huber of Brooklands Plantation Boys' Home, the first person to reach the crash scene, said Mrs. Kokenes told him that the plane crashed because of a "split propeller."

A crane was required to remove the plane from about eight feet of water.

Friends at Clearwater said Kokenes had flown with his family to Washington and New York to try to sell a book he had written about a 17,000 mile trip they made around Central and South America last October in a single-engine plane. The book emphasized the safety of small private planes for family travel.

Kokenes operated a beach apartment house in Clearwater.

LOOK HERE, SON CONWAY, S. C. (AP)—Several Conway residents weren't surprised when they overheard their mayor, James H. Long, giving the mayor of Daytona Beach, Fla., a bit of fatherly advice. The Florida resort mayor is James H. Long, Jr.

DR. LUCILE TURNER ... head of English department retires.

Scientist Warns Minutes Mark U.S. Security

CLEVELAND (AP)—A leading nuclear scientist says the launching of Sputnik III was final evidence that the security of the United States is measured in minutes.

Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, a leader in the wartime Manhattan Project and who later directed nuclear scientific branches for the War Department, said last night the launching of the latest Soviet satellite eliminated all doubt that the Soviet Union had an intercontinental ballistic missile.

He addressed the annual banquet of the American Foundrymen's Society.

The recent firing of a 3,000-pound satellite, he said, was evidence that the Soviet Union could fire nuclear missiles from its bases to this country in 20 to 30 minutes.

He said efforts to end the atomic race should be intensified and expressed the opinion that a ban on nuclear tests probably was possible since the Soviet Union had as much to lose as this country. A wild swan, says naturalists, can break a man's leg with his wing.

DR. P. W. PICKLESIMER ... head of geography department.

Air Travel In Russia Sometimes Hilarious

By ROY ESSOYAN
MOSCOW (AP) — Flying around the Soviet Union on Aeroflot, the Soviet state airline, is unpredictable, informal and sometimes hilarious.

The unpredictability starts before you board the plane. You never know until the afternoon before you leave whether you're going or not.

The official explanation is they never know before that whether there will be space.

Visas are required for travel to any Soviet city. These, too, are usually issued only the day before departure.

A last-minute delay at the visa office, never explained, and the airline office is closed for the day. You've missed your plane. A similar delay at the airline office, likewise explained, and the visa office is closed.

A reporter's recent flight from Moscow to Sochi on the Black Sea was postponed twice, once due to

"He's a joker," she told other passengers.

The Georgian was the life of the party for the next hour or so, complaining about his seat, calling for exotic dishes, bantering with the stewardess, laughing and joking. Finally he turned to me and asked: "Where are you from?"

"The United States," I said.

He laughed derisively and remarked: "No, seriously, where are you from?"

"I'm an American," I said.

"I'm from the States," His jaw dropped.

"You're not serious?" he said.

Americans aren't as much of a rarity in the Soviet Union as they used to be but apparently they still were to him.

It was a couple of minutes before he spoke again. Finally: "I suppose you can't get back now." I assured him I could.

Caught Bootleg Still On Move

HOLLY HILL, S.C. (AP)—The still wasn't very still, but Police Chief E. I. Goss nabbed it anyway.

The whisky making apparatus was mounted in the trunk of an automobile when Goss spotted it. The driver fled on foot after a chase but Goss got the still.

Stock And Market Reports

WALL STREET
NEW YORK (AP) — Steels continued active as the stock market widened its gains in brisk trading early this afternoon.

Gains of fractions to around a point were posted by key stocks. Some specialties made wider moves.

The market was a bit higher at the start when it improved as turn over quickened.

Another jump in the cost of living to a record high, bringing with it automatic pay boosts to thousands of workers, was a market factor.

Steels, rails, aircrafts, base metals and oils did well. Indications from some steel industry spokesmen that there would be a price boost and the industry's increasing output from very low levels were new elements accompanying the rise in steels.

Market analysts said, however, that an important factor in the rise of steels was the "squeeze" on short sellers. There has been a big boost in the short position of the leading steels. Short sales are sales of borrowed stock made in the hope the stock can be bought at a lower price and repaid.

The continued rise in steels has thus put pressure on the "shorts" to cover their sales before a sustained price advance brings them heavy losses.

U.S. Steel, Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet all rose about a point and Bethlehem added a fraction. All have larger short interest than a month ago. Lukens, whose large short position, dipped a little this month, also added a point.

Gains of about a point were made by American Tobacco, Kenosha, International Nickel and Caterpillar. Also higher were General Motors, North American Aviation, Curtiss, Wright, Sinclair, Union Carbide and American Cyanamid.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 40 cents to $189.00 with the industrials up 60 cents, the rails up 60 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Handed 7-To-10 Years Sentence In Car-Burning

Andrew Smith, a Negro resident of Route 1, Winterville, yesterday drew seven-to-ten years in prison for his role in an automobile-burning case which had previously resulted in suspended sentences for two companions.

Smith was sentenced by Judge Joseph W. Parker of Windsor, presiding at a one-week mixed term of Pitt County Superior Court. On Tuesday, Judge Parker ordered suspended terms for Eula Mae Sheppard and Joe Lee Smith after both had entered pleas in the same case.

In addition to his seven-to-ten years term, Judge Parker ordered Andrew Smith to serve an additional two years for malicious damage to personal property, but suspended the sentence from his date of beginning on condition of good behavior for three years. The two-year sentence was to begin at the expiration of the first term, which was imposed for causing the unlawful burning of an automobile.

Other judgments which were returned yesterday included: William Ralph Myers, Negro, 1505-B Fleming Street, Greenville, careless and reckless driving, six months; no operator's license, prayer for judgment continued; leaving the scene of accident and failing to report same, 60 days to begin at the expiration of the sentence for careless and reckless driving; larceny of automobile, court-directed verdict of not guilty; and temporary larceny, six months to begin at expiration of the sentence for leaving the scene of an accident.

Andrew William Hodges, Washington, N. C., careless and reckless driving, $25 and costs; William Earl Phillips, Negro, Ayden, larceny and receiving, nol pros; Ernest Murphy, Negro, Ayden, larceny and receiving, nol pros.

Obvious Offer By Soviet Union

ROME (AP) — In an obvious attempt to help the Communists in Italy's parliamentary election Sunday, the Soviet Union has sent two peaceful coexistence proposals to Rome. Italian officials gave them a cool reception today.

One was a new offer of a 20-year nonaggression pact. The other was a request that the Italian Parliament join the Soviet Union in opposing rearmament of West Germany.

The pro-Western Christian Democrats, who have dominated all postwar Italian governments, are seeking a majority Sunday for policies which include continued adherence to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Their chief opponents, the largest Communist party in the West and its allied left-wing Socialists, are campaigning for neutralism.

Hoodlum Gangs Go On Rampage

PANAMA (AP)—Gangs of hoodlums armed with clubs, rocks and bottles defied National Guardsmen today in the heart of this paralyzed city.

The hoodlums appeared to have taken over from students who had called for a general strike Thursday midnight in protest against school conditions.

Buses stayed in the barns and private cars avoided the downtown section as violence and destruction raged unchecked.

The guardsmen appeared to be avoiding an open clash. They chased the gangs away after they battered down traffic lights and smashed a store window but seemed unable to cope with all the violence.

Thousands of persons were forced to walk to the heart of the downtown quarter were strewn with garbage cans. Demonstrators forced private cars to detour around the area. At least three homemade gasoline bombs exploded in scattered areas.

Youngsters ranged down Central Avenue, the city's main thoroughfare, smashing parking meters.

The National Guard, which acts as both police and army, also is the object of the students' wrath since a high school boy was killed in a rock and tear gas clash between students and guardsmen Monday.

High school and university students demanded that President Ernesto de la Guardia Jr. fire three Guard commanders as well as Education Minister Victor Juliao by midnight Wednesday. When the deadline passed, the students called for a general strike. They said they had the support of the labor unions.

The President said he would meet all students' demands dealing with school matters, but would not oust the Guard officers, sources close to the President asserted.

A woman spokesman at a rally last night declared the President either will fire the National Guard officers or the people will oust him. The meeting drew thousands of citizens.

There were scattered incidents of violence shortly after midnight and then things quieted down until daybreak. That was when student gangs began taking over in the downtown area.

The government has warned it will enforce a state of siege if violence gets out of hand. But the absence of troop reinforcements showed no move was made immediately to challenge the students.
