Pflimlin Warns Danger Of Civil War Grows; Crisis Is Darkening

PARIS (AP) — Premier Pierre Pflimlin today warned an emergency session of Parliament that a civil war is threatening and called on all Frenchmen to defend their basic liberties.

the military would honor the order. In France the giant Communist Confederation of Labor called on its members working in government arsenals to "meet immediately to plan counteraction against the fascist aggression."

One Collision Kills Six; Five Others Die In Another Weekend Car Wreck

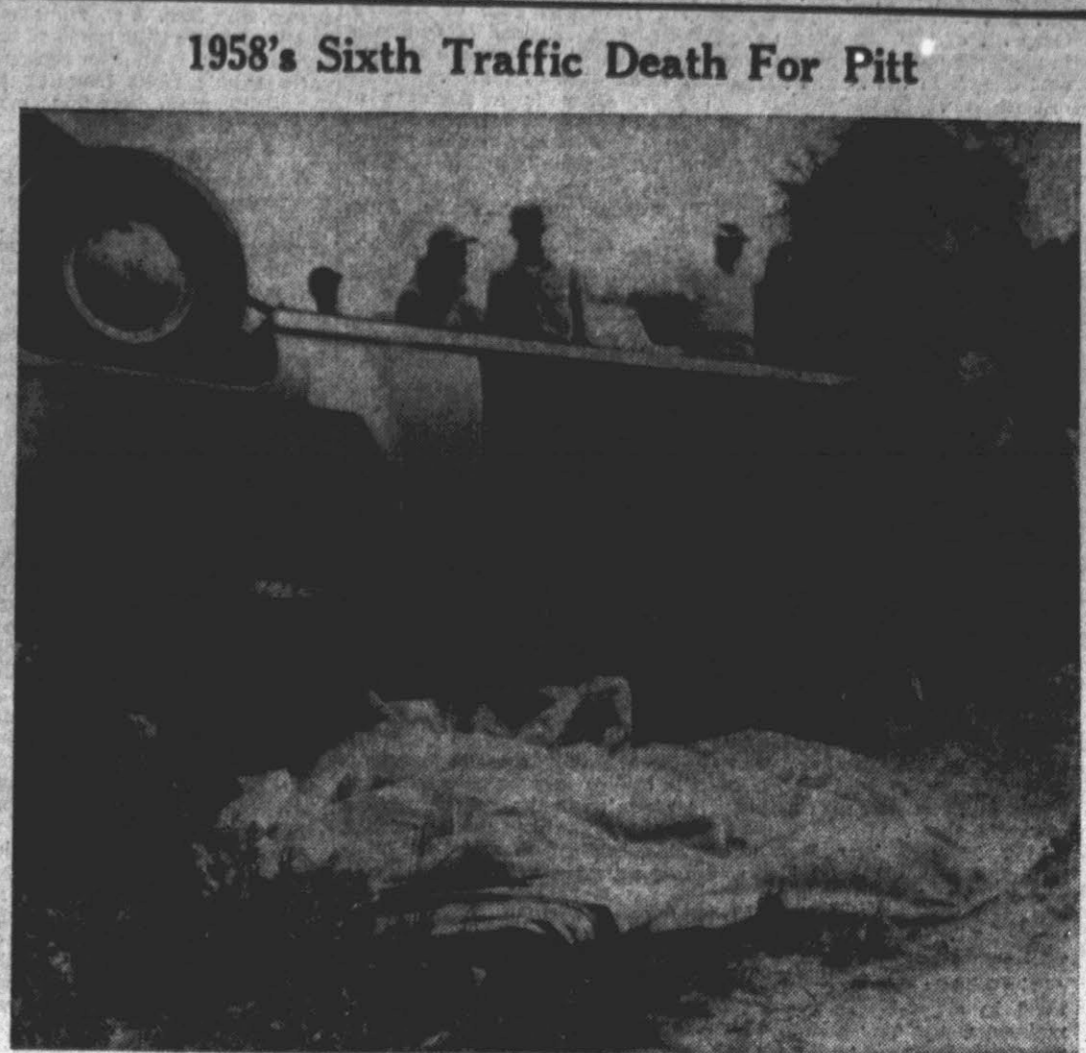

Six persons died in a head-on automobile collision near Wilmington and five in a wreck at Conover. That contributed to a bloody toll of at least 31 dead by violence in North Carolina over the weekend, compared to 10 on an average weekend.

William Warren Flora, 56, of Rocky Mount, lost his life when his car collided with a truck near Rocky Mount. The driver of the truck loaded with cucumbers, William P. Jordan, Jr., 21, of Savannah, Ga., suffered only bruises, although his vehicle overturned.

Robert Benjamin Brown, 47, of Rt. 1, Stokes, was killed in a Pitt County road accident. Mrs. Delores Cole Brogden, 29, of Coolemeec, was killed when her automobile went out of control near Salisbury. She was the mother of three children.

High sources in Paris admitted the fleet—under command of an admiral siding with the Algerian insurgents—is steaming an independent course in the Mediterranean. But the Defense Ministry insisted the ships are sailing under orders from Paris after completing NATO maneuvers.

Gray-Williamson Marry In Methodist Church

BETHEL — In a ceremony marked by dignity and simplicity, Miss Norma Roberta Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Claude Williamson Sr. of Bethel, and Lucius Ardrey Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Somerville Gray Jr. of Clinton, were united in marriage on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Bethel Methodist Church.

The Rev. Carlos P. Womack, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. M. C. MacQueen, pastor of the Graves Memorial Presbyterian Church, Clinton, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. W. R. Hummelcutt of Bethel was organist and presented a recital of sacred music preceding the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a wedding gown of original design made of Chantilly lace and imported tulle. The gown was fashioned with a molded bodice and a portrait neckline of scalloped design outlined with seed pearls. The sleeves were long and tapered to the wrists. The bouffant skirt, made of tulle and ornamented at intervals by bands of inserted Chantilly lace, ended in a chapel train.

Her fingertip length veil of French illusion was attached to a Juliet Cap of real Brussels lace, an heirloom of the bridegroom's family. The bride carried a snow-crowded cascade bouquet of lily-of-the-valley, centered with a cluster of white roses.

Mrs. Herbert Roy Brown of Bethel, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Helen Womeldorf of Wadesboro, Va., and Mrs. Robert Day Miller of Richmond, Va. All of the bride's attendants were attired in street-length dresses of mauve organza over taffeta which were detailed with white embroidered lace. The headpieces were designed of lace corresponding with those ornamenting the dresses. Cascade bouquets of garzamas and stephanotis were carried by the attendants.

Mrs. Williamson, mother of the bride, wore a dress of mauve Chantilly lace, matching accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Gray, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a dress of blue silk organza, matching accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Lois Harris Ardrey, maternal grandmother of the bridegroom of Clinton and Wintboro, S. C., wore a dress of black mar-quisette and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Robert Somerville Gray Jr., father of the bridegroom, was best man. James Claude Williamson Jr., brother of the bride, and William I. Bigger, both of Raleigh, Richard E. Bethune of Charlotte and Clinton, and George Q. Hall of Belmont were ushers.

Mrs. Gray is a graduate of Bethel High School, Peace College, Raleigh, and of Richmond Professional Institute, Richmond, Va., where she received a B. S. degree in Occupational Therapy June, 1957.

Gray is a graduate of Clinton High School, North Carolina State College, where he received a Bachelor of Chemical Engineering degree, and of Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va., where he received a Bachelor of Divinity degree on May 20, 1958.

For traveling Mrs. Gray wore a sheath dress of silk shantung, black and white accessories and the roses lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Following their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Gray will be at home in Norman, Oklahoma, where he will receive clinical training at the Central State Hospital until September, at which time they will reside in Keysville, Va. where Gray will be pastor of the Keysville, the Meherrin, and the Briery Presbyterian Churches.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church in honor of the bride, bridegroom and their wedding attendants.

Rehearsal Dinner
Friday evening Miss Norma Williamson, the Rev. Lucius Gray of Clinton, and the bridal party were honored at a rehearsal dinner in the dining hall of the Bethel Methodist Church by Mrs. J. S. Moore, Mrs. Clara Robertson, Mrs. J. R. Highsmith, and Mrs. A. J. Crane, hostesses.

Upon arrival Miss Williamson was presented with a corsage of yellow roses and the Rev. Gray a yellow rose boutonniere.

Church Honors Dr., Mrs. Joyce

Approximately 200 members of the First Presbyterian Church and friends of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Joyce attended a reception held in the church yesterday evening honoring the supply pastor and his wife who have served the church for the past six months.

An arrangement of sweetheart roses and feverfew decorated the entrance of the Church's Education Building.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Moya greeted the guests and directed them to a receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Keck, Dr. and Mrs. Ray D. Minges, and Dr. and Mrs. Joyce.

The reception was held in the Fellowship Hall where the appointed table was placed and centered with a pyramid of Van Fleet roses mingled with feverfew and garlanded with sweetheart roses. A lace cloth covered the table.

Various members of the four church circles presided at the punch bowl and served the lime punch. Guests helped themselves to cookies, ham biscuits, and open-faced sandwiches.

Wearing a powder blue double crepe dress with beige accessories, Mrs. Joyce was complimented with a cymbidium orchid, a gift from the church.

Mrs. C. W. Harvey Sr. and Miss Kate Lewis presided over the reg-

Here's Why Food Bills Are So High

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue University economists have drafted an explanation for housewives who can't understand why food prices have gone up while the farmer's share of the retail food dollar has gone down.

Jim Stevenson and Clara Wendt, consumer education specialists, report it is true that the farmer now gets only about 40 cents of the food dollar, compared with 83 cents in 1945.

But the difference, they assert, is not due to excessive profits by any greedy middleman. Profits of food marketing firms have been traditionally low, compared to the sales. These "middleman" profits amounted to only 3 per cent of sales, after taxes, in 1955.

The Purdue specialists listed these as some of the reasons for higher prices to the housewife:

Rates for shipping agricultural products by railroad have increased by 75 per cent in the last 10 years. Truck rates generally have followed rail rates.

The cost of labor for marketing agricultural products was 273 per cent higher in 1956 than in 1940.

Innumerable "built-in" services have been added to the food line—cleaning, trimming, shelling, mixing, pre-cooking and fancy packaging—all adding to the cost.

The Purdue experts say Mrs. America evidently is willing to pay for more attractive, ready-to-cook food. She spent 25 per cent of her disposable income on food in 1956. If she had been willing to accept food of the type and quality of 20 years ago, she could have bought it for 16 per cent of her income.

Bridal Couple Given Supper

The home was decorated with roses and peonies.

Soon after arrival, the guests were invited into the dining room where they served themselves from an appointed table covered with a linen-lace cloth and centered with an artistic arrangement of white gladioli, pink carnations and fern, flanked by silver holders holding white candles and surrounded by soft pink tulle.

After serving themselves, guests were seated at auxiliary tables centered with small arrangements of mixed flowers.

The honorees were presented gifts of silver by the hostesses.

Parties Fete Patsy James

Mrs. Tom Langston presided over the serving table where guests helped themselves to soft drinks, open faced sandwiches, and cheese straws.

The bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. Charlie James Jr., were complimented by the hostesses with corsages of white roses and red roses respectively.

Miss James was also remembered with pieces of everyday china, gifts of the hostesses.

Mrs. Mayo, Mrs. Staton, Mrs. Waters, and Miss James said the goodbyes.

Sacks Get Nowhere On TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—Chemises are selling like hot dogs at the World's Series. But they aren't getting a bit of endorsement from television's clothes-conscious performers.

The controversial 1958 look, in fact, is rarely in the TV camera's eye except for gags and conversation pieces. Dress designers and manufacturers may fume at television's inimicable attitude, but TV wishes the whole new vogue would quietly disappear.

It isn't that the female stars, an extremely fashion-wise group, are ignoring the new silhouettes. Individually, they are as pro or con chemise and sack as their non-performing sisters. Singers Jill Corey, Patti Page and Jane Powell love them. Actress Betsy Palmer is beginning to think they look nice—on some people. Panelist Jayne Meadows calls them the "most horrible things ever perpetrated on women."

The remarkable unanimity with which the new clothes lines are being ignored on TV can be traced primarily to three factors: men, cameras and re-runs.

Male Veto
Men, in the first place, are found in quantity and in strategic spots behind the television cameras. And men, it was conclusively revealed in an Associated Press survey, don't like the sack. "I've just bought two new chemises and I love them," said the Hit Parade's Miss Corey. "But I don't have a thing to say about what I wear on television, and none of the men who direct the show would let me wear one—particularly the designer."

Patti Page has her own designer of theatrical clothes, Joe Pretwell, who makes dresses for her nightclub appearances as well as her Big Record TV clothes.

"Joe," said Miss Page, grimly, "would fight against my wearing them. Even if I beat him down, there are the other men—the director, the producer—who would disapprove. Even if you are thin, a camera puts some weight on you, and the smallest thing about me is my waist and they emphasize it. A modified version of the chemise might look all right on me in person, but it would look sloppy and unfitted on TV."

But even if all the males with decisive voices in television adored looking at women in sacks and chemises, most would still duck the opportunity of dressing their female star in fashion's most recent whim. The reason? A lot of important money comes from re-runs, third runs and even fourth runs of filmed television shows.

High style is fickle and changeable—and what might be a fine style show today could be as dated as high button shoes a few months from now.

"TV filmed shows," commented Jane Powell, who has just finished a series of them, "are long term investments. Clothes, alas, are not."

Children Love Make Believe

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

"Davey, it's time for lunch," calls mother. Davey hops along toward the kitchen door. When he reaches it he stands up and walks in. "Are the carrots orange?" he asks. "Let's look and see," says mother and lunch goes along smoothly. Did Davey lie when he said he couldn't hear his mother call him? Obviously he did hear her but lying is a nasty word to use for such untruths. So long as he was Peter Rabbit he really couldn't act like a little boy. Mother entering the game gave him a chance to come out of the game slowly and quite happily. Imaginative play is part of childhood. It takes years before a child learns the difference between the real world and the world of imagination. But he does learn just by growing up. We adults don't teach him, he learns just by living and growing.

Child's Wonderland Imagination is a good quality. To be able to think and feel beyond the everyday things in front of our noses is the way bright people think up new ideas and make inventions. The world would be badly off if it were not for imagination. Of course we expect mature people to know what is real and what is just in the mind, but this is a lot to expect of little people. The picture in the mind is just as vivid, sometimes even more so, than the actual real world. They are real to the child. That wonderful ability to imagine, to see and feel from within is a quality to be treasured and nurtured. Sometimes it's hard for an adult to understand what's going on inside a little fellow, but it's well worth the effort of trying.

In Effect, It Will Be Election Day

Democrats all over North Carolina will go to the polls Saturday to nominate candidates who will represent the party on the general election ballots next November.

In most counties of the state the Democratic nomination is tantamount to election, and therefore in an off-year election like this one, the primary assumes considerably more importance than the November general election.

The Reflector urges the voters of Pitt County to make their plans now to exercise their privilege and responsibility of casting a ballot in the primary next Saturday.

Pitt County has an estimated 20,000 registered voters. Two years ago in the Democratic primary some over 6,000 of these took time to go to the polls to cast their ballots. Yet in November of the same year more than 13,000 Pitt residents turned out for the presidential election.

How many votes will be cast in the county next Saturday is anybody's guess. Only the registered voters themselves can determine how many votes will be cast. They will determine it by the individual responsibility they feel toward their government and their fellow citizens to exercise their right of participating in the election of officials.

We trust the vast majority of the registered voters of this county have sufficient interest in their government and the election of officials to turn out for the Saturday balloting.

It Couldn't Happen, But Somehow It Did

An accident they said couldn't happen has happened at the Middletown, N. J. Nike missile base.

It cost the lives of 10 people and did damage estimated at half million dollars. More than that it has added to the apprehension of residents of the area surrounding the base for fear that another more terrible accident may some day take more lives and cause greater property damage.

The Army has been able to offer the residents of the Middletown area little assurance that another accident will not happen. It has restated its opinion that the accident was one of those impossible things that happened. It is seeking to determine the cause, and it has instituted new safety precautions to prevent a repeat of the chain of explosions which occurred when one Nike went off.

Whether the Army can satisfy the residents of Middletown that a similar accident will not occur remains to be seen. It is apparent, however, that the Army is as disturbed over the accident as the people of the community near the base where it happened. Every reasonable measure to prevent another similar accident should be taken at the Middletown base and other Nike installations throughout the country.

Ice Has Been Broken For Research Triangle

North Carolina's Research Triangle Committee has realized the first fruits of its efforts with the announcement that a firm interested in space-age engineering will locate in the area between Chapel Hill, Durham and Raleigh.

Now that the first research firm has announced its intention to locate in the Research Triangle, there can be no doubt that other firms will follow. It may take a period of years before the Research Triangle attains significance in North Carolina's total employment picture; but as the state attracts research firms, it will likewise attract more plants to utilize the knowledge gained through research.

Research is becoming increasingly important in every kind of industry year by year. Manufacturing concerns large and small are leaning more heavily upon research for their future development. They are showing preference for locating in areas where adequate research facilities are available.

All of these factors suggest that the more rapidly North Carolina's Research Triangle can be developed, the more attractive the state will become to industries looking for new plant locations.

The ice has been broken now. And while one research firm in the triangle does not give it national significance, it offers assurance that others will follow.

Seeking Signs To Prove Point

By RALPH ROBEY

More and more persons are convinced that we are now trying to find the bottom of the recession. This results in almost everyone looking for signs to support such a conclusion. Following are some of the more convincing items being cited:

1. Housing starts in April rose, on an annual basis, to 950,000. The April rise followed two months of decline and lent support to those who believe we shall see a minimum of one million private starts this calendar year. Construction as a whole continues to set new records because of the heavy volume of public building.

2. Farm prices and farm income have both shown appreciable rises. In the case of prices, the rise started last September and has continued each month since then. Farm income was slower in moving up but now is well above its low of last year. It used to be said that recessions and depressions are bred and fed on the farm. Obviously, this time that is not true.

3. Over-all personal income showed an increase in April, for the first time since last August. The increase amounted to $600 million. Unfortunately the entire increase was the result of so-called transfer payments—unemployment compensation, social security, and the like. Wage and salary payments continued to drop.

4. Personal consumption expenditures continue to hold up well. Durables, especially automobiles, are still moving at a slow pace, but nondurables and services are both higher than a few months ago. These expenditures have been one of the stronger elements in the economy all the way through the recession.

5. Machine tool orders have increased for three consecutive months. The total still is not high, but at least the recent trend has been in an encouraging direction. The trouble here was that the machine tool industry had an unusually sharp decline at the end of last year. Even three months rise still leaves the total well below the figure of a year ago.

6. Steel production has recently shown a slight increase. It is still only about 51 per cent of capacity, but it was considerably below this a few weeks ago. It is expected to show a further increase of moderate proportions in coming months. This expectation is based upon the belief that inventories have been reduced to below normal.

7. Various companies are beginning to report that they believe they have passed the low point. This is true for example, in the textile industry, and the farm implement industry is enjoying a positive increase as a result of the improvement in farm income.

8. Interest rates have been lowered to the point where it is possible to get loans at well below the recent peaks. The banks, too, have plenty of reserves to meet whatever demands for loans they receive. Both of these developments have been caused by action of the Federal Reserve System in repeatedly lowering the discount rate and by reducing the percentage of required reserves against deposits.

9. The stock market continues to show strength. After making a new high it has backed away a bit, but the general level of the market is still not what might be expected in a recession. Whether the market is forecasting a rise of business in the near future, is merely anticipating inflation, or is reflecting continued buying by institutional buyers, is a matter of debate. Probably there is some of each of these factors in the behavior of the market.

These are perhaps the more important favorable elements in the present business situation. Of course these are unfavorable elements as well, because there is no statistical basis for assuming that we have actually hit bottom. Likewise, there is no statistical basis for assuming that we have much more decline ahead of us. This means that business management, and everyone else, should begin to have confidence in better times. Improvement will not come in all industries simultaneously, and it may not get started for some months, but it is no longer the part of wisdom to remain deeply pessimistic.

Opinions In Brief

"Unemployment insurance as such can only be preserved if it is strictly separated from relief. What we really need now is not to desert the insurance principle but to return to it more strictly. A big step in that direction might be to have the workers themselves contribute directly toward the premiums, as they have always done in Britain, and in our own Federal old-age insurance system."—Henry Hazlitt

Civil Defense & You

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. Do you know the name and address of the Director of Civil Defense for your state? If not, write your State Governor today. After getting the Director's name, write him to send you his literature on (1) What to do to prepare for an enemy's dropping a bomb near where you live; (2) How to protect against the fallout. Also write your nearest Weather Bureau.

WASHINGTON AND NEWS RELEASES
Every department in Washington is showering newspaper editors with "press releases" about Russia to make people "war-minded." But you will find very little instruction as to what to do in case Russia should decide tonight to strike us. Presumably the reason is that preparation for war temporarily boosts business and employment; while the only sales the Civil Defense people can help are those of the manufacturers of shovels and a few needed dugout and hospital supplies.

I am a fairly intelligent man, but I did not know until yesterday that when the radar at our national border signals an "alert," all radio broadcasting stations except two must shut down. This alert means that Russian planes are coming and can reach you in 15 minutes. The two operating stations are 640 and 1240 kilocycles on your radio dial. Mark these two numbers on the wall near your radio—all newspapers should carry them on their radio page until every man, woman, and child know them by heart.

EVACUATION vs. SHELTERS
I don't place much confidence in Evacuation Plans. The theory is that on sharp short blows of whistles, horns, etc., lasting 3 minutes, the city should evacuate. Those in automobiles may be able to do it; but I am too dumb to imagine a city of 50,000 or upwards being able to do so. Besides, where would the people go? How could the near suburbs house or feed them? What is the Federal or State Civil Defense organization doing to provide sufficient shelter? If I should be caught without an automobile in any city when the "alert" was sounded, I would not try to get out. I would go to the nearest building or home and ask to go to the basement. Every basement should be a limited "shelter," but I understand that to have one bomb-proof and fallout-proof, it should be built into the cellar or yard with concrete blocks and covered with 3 feet of dirt. Shelters against fallout should be kept stocked with drinking water, canned food, old clothing, toilet conveniences, and a battery radio. For particulars write to the Federal Civil Defense at Washington, D.C. for their free booklet on "Home Shelters for Family Protection in an Atomic Attack, TM-5-5." Let me add the sad fact that less than one percent of American homes have sent for this booklet.

BOMB HITS vs. FALLOUT
The force of an atomic bomb is many thousand times that of the largest TNT bomb ever made. It not only has a terrific powerful explosion, but it creates a heat of 5,000° F. It crushes, it burns; and often injures for life. Most sensible people would rather be killed outright by such a bomb than left alive but injured. The bomb, however, directly affects only a small area of, say, five miles. With the fallout, the situation is very different. This is the dispersal of mushroom cloud made by the explosion of the bomb. This may travel 20 to 50 miles according to the winds and weather. The Civil Defense has not yet succeeded in waking us up to the need for escaping from this deadly dangerous fallout in the air. Before closing this column, let me publicly render thanks to Mrs. Bell Land, Director Civil Defense, Crystal River, West Fla., who awakened me to the situation.

MONEY SPENT ON BACKYARD SHELTERS SHOULD BE TAX-DEDUCTIBLE
Congress is wise in spending billions for missiles, submarines, and radar systems; but with all this protection, one or two Russian bombers could sneak through. This is no reason for us to get faint hearted and compromise with Communism, but it is reason for us to spend much more money on shelters and on educating families to make their own shelters. # Other Editors Saying--- To Slim Secretaries

(Wall Street Journal)
Three medical researchers have announced in the Journal of the American Medical Association some predictions about technology and slim secretaries and we hasten to offer a rebuttal before their statistics upset business, the farms and all slim secretaries.

The scientists say that a girl who works with modern machines has got to watch her weight. A five-foot-three, 120-pound secretary, for example, who switches to an electric typewriter can be expected to gain an extra pound every ten weeks unless she cuts down on her calories. Their reasoning is that the electric typewriter calls for less energy to operate than other typewriters and that the energy thus saved builds up into excess pounds.

Now, if these statements were just left at that, no telling what might happen over at IBM and the corner grocer's. Slim secretaries would either have to shun electric typewriters or eat less. Either way, the economy could be affected.

Well, girls, we've got some news for you. The secretary in our office is five-foot-two-and-one-half inches tall, weighs 115 pounds, and has been using an electric typewriter for the past six months. Her appetite is normal. And she's lost three pounds, not counting her winter coat. — Which certainly indicates that researchers can't always tell about secretaries. Or their statistics, either.

ONE GOOD TURN
(The Lynchburg News)

Here's one of those few-and-far-between notes on driver courtesy. And it really happened right in our own town. Twas raining (what else) the other afternoon and our driver friend waited and waited and waited at the City Market entrance to get into the long line of traffic on Main Street. Finally it happened. One car with the right of way stopped, providing a gap of a few feet, and the driver motioned our friend to join the throng. Which he did.

Two blocks up the street, near Main and Eleventh, our driver saw a fellow parked at the curb hoping for a break. He stopped, gave him the go-ahead and received a thank you gesture.

"X'know," he told us. "I would not have done that if it hadn't been for the guy down the street."

Department Stores Strike Back

By ELMER ROESSNER
Most department stores feel they have been let down by makers of electric table appliances and are striking back, William Burston, manager of the merchandising division of the National Retail Merchants Association, told a department-store meeting.

Half have reduced the lines; the other half may be forced to cut back. Two-thirds have de-emphasized lines of small appliances. Half are discontinuing some lines, usually those not among best sellers.

Some lines are being dropped altogether, especially those Mr. Burston identified as "me-too lines that never gave a damn about their obligations to fair trade."

Other stores are reducing selling space devoted to table electronics. They are reducing displays, taking some items off display altogether.

have been placing their lines in so many outlets that savage price-cutting has resulted.

THE UNSHEATHED BLADE
On a basis of what his division's correspondents report, Mr. Burston said department stores are fighting back in these ways:

Half have reduced the lines; the other half may be forced to cut back. Two-thirds have de-emphasized lines of small appliances. Half are discontinuing some lines, usually those not among best sellers.

Some other actions reported: Some stores are making distributors "run" by ordering daily or twice daily, carrying no reserve stocks and making distributors carry the inventory. Some are cutting commissions off unprofitable items. Some are slowing reorders, creating gaps in supply. NO REPAIRS
Some are refusing to handle repairs, referring customers to factory service stations. Others are reducing personnel services, putting items on a self-service basis. Still others are charging $1 or more for delivery.

Some are examining every cost and expense they believe they should not bear or can be dispensed with. Some are slowly raising prices. Some are refusing to meet the prices of "marginal lowest" competitors, that is, stores that sell below department stores' total costs.

In seasonal lines, those with private brands are refusing to handle national brands. Some are strongly promoting co-operating lines. Mr. Burston said, and concentrating only on houseware items that produce a profit.

These are tough programs. They can cut manufacturers deeply. And in slashing at the manufacturers' retailers can scratch and scar their own customers. HOW CUTE CAN MILLIONAIRES GET?
An Eastern utility company, participating in the campaign for adequate wiring, uses car cards that read: "What's inaddeput wiring? It is skimpy wiring. When it's overloaded, appliances heat slowly, fuses blow. If your wiring is inaddeput, better have an electrician fix it." Shucks! We always call an ad-dictician.

Rocket Ship Pilots May Be Wearing Armor

By JOHN A. BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Reporter
NEW YORK (AP) — Space knights in leaden armor may pilot tomorrow's rocket exploration of the mysteries of space.

Latest reports from our first tiny satellites indicate the earth is hemmed in by a spherical blanket of high energy rays — rays that could eventually kill a space traveler by destroying vital body cells.

Lead armor suits weighing about 100 pounds could cut X-radiation some 90 per cent and enable space pilots to stay in the radiation area for some six months without too much danger.

The blanket of rays may reach as high as 10,000 miles above the earth and as low as 600 miles.

Space travelers bound for the moon or other planets would pass through this radiation band so quickly that it would not be too much of a hazard. But they would probably wear protective armor anyway.

Satellite Living Hazardous

The real danger would be to men who would work and live on an earth satellite orbiting through the radiation band. Without protection they might die after a prolonged exposure to X-rays.

This band of radiation is just one of the dangers of space. Probably it can be overcome, but two other monstrous barriers will continue to stand between man and his search for new life on other worlds of the universe.

Those barriers are his own short life span and the incredible distance of space.

A man piloting a space ship that traveled 100,000 m.p.h. could fly for 50 years and still be barely out of his own dusty corner of space.

He would have traveled some 44 billion miles. The nearest star is 24 million miles away. He would have to travel some 30,000 years at 100,000 m.p.h. to reach it.

Look at it this way: If the earth were a mere bit of back-shot, the sun would be a two-foot beach ball some 213 feet away. The nearest star, another beach ball, would be 11,000 miles away.

Yet sooner or later man will want to look into the other solar systems of the universe. Some astronomers believe there is life — at least as advanced as ours — on perhaps some 100 million other planets.

The only answer to the problems of penetrating the universe seems to be more speed — perhaps approaching the speed of light, 186,000 miles a second.

If man can ever find a way of rocketing through space at even half that speed, he could reach the nearest star in about eight years as against the 30,000 years it would take at 100,000 m.p.h.

Right now, however, the barriers of distance seem insurmountable. Man may have to content himself with conquering his own solar system — the eight planets that accompany the earth on the silent journey around the sun.

These planets are almost within reach. This year rocket flights are planned to the moon, only some 240,000 miles away. Someday — perhaps in the next few years — men will rocket to the moon in five hours.

After the moon has been won, space scientists will shoot for the planets.

Venus — almost earthlike in size — is the next planet on the sun-side of our orbit. We know little about it because of the density of its atmosphere and the heavy clouds about it.

On the other side of our orbit is little Mars. With its strange looking canal-like markings and its changing colors, Mars has been given the best chance of having some form of life, possibly vegetable. It is only half the size of earth.

Perhaps these two planets, if they can support life, may become earth suburbs in space.

Colder Beyond Mars
Beyond Mars the planets get colder and colder with the greater distance from the sun.

First the space traveler would encounter the asteroid belt — a wild merry-go-round of spatial debris, chunks of planets perhaps. This ring of flying matter seems to be strongly influenced by the pull of Jupiter, the largest planet and the next one out from Mars.

Jupiter has 12 moons of its own — and it is at least as big as all of the rest of the planets lumped together.

Beyond Jupiter are Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto. Once they have been conquered, some scientist looking out at the spiral cluster of stars that is a distant galaxy will wonder how man can boost his rocket speed still higher to measure the universe.

Or perhaps a scientist of another people on some other world billions of light years away is wondering now if there is life in the Milky Way.

Sees March To Conformity In United States

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP)—Eric Johnston says the economy of the United States is moving toward conformity that is like Russia's.

And we are in danger of becoming a second-class nation unless the trend is reversed, he said in a commencement address at High Point College yesterday.

President Eisenhower appointed Johnston chairman of the Committee for International Economic Growth last January. He has been president of the Motion Picture Assn. of America since 1945.

Johnston said that more and more the United States is moving toward big business, big agriculture, big labor and big government. He also told the 155 graduates:

"If concentration continues unchecked, the controlled, conformist state is not merely possible—it is inevitable and unavoidable."

White House Adviser Sees Recession Brakes In June

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Gabriel Hauge, White House economic adviser, predicts the recession will have about lost its steam by the end of June.

"We should begin to see some lift evident in the autumn," he added in a filmed television interview.

During the last half of the year, he said, some of the federal programs designed to combat the recession will begin to produce results.

"In the housing field," he said, "some of these effects are already evident."

Meanwhile, automobile manufacturers were urged to "resist to the bitter end" anything that will boost car prices.

The plea came from the National Assn. of Automobile Dealers. In a letter to the major car makers, Association President Dean Chaffin said: "From the dealer's viewpoint, automobiles are priced too high right now. In fact, many of us believe we have priced ourselves right out of the market."

On another economic front, the Commerce Department said Americans applied the brake last year on adding to their debts. The report said net public and private debt increased during 1957 by 26 billion dollars to a total of 726 billion. The increase was down slightly from 1956 and less than half that for 1955.

The trend has continued this year, the report said, noting that in the first four months of 1958, short-term business debt declined and consumers repaid old debts faster than they acquired new ones.

Still another government report said the after-tax profits of commercial banks climbed by 13 per cent last year to a record high of $1,374,000,000. The 1956 figure was $1,217,000,000.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. credited last year's high money and higher interest rates for the big profit increase.

Both policies have been reversed to a large degree in recent months in efforts to curb the recession.

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Harry Truman and his wife sail today for a Mediterranean cruise aboard the liner Independence.

Because of the unrest in Mediterranean areas, there had been some doubt that the Trumans would go through with plans for the trip.

Says GOP Failed Recession Fight

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina Young Democrats have been told that the Republican administration has fallen down in fighting the recession.

Rep. Billy Matthews (D-Fla.) told them at a rally here Saturday night that President Eisenhower should have gone ahead with a public works program, especially post office construction.

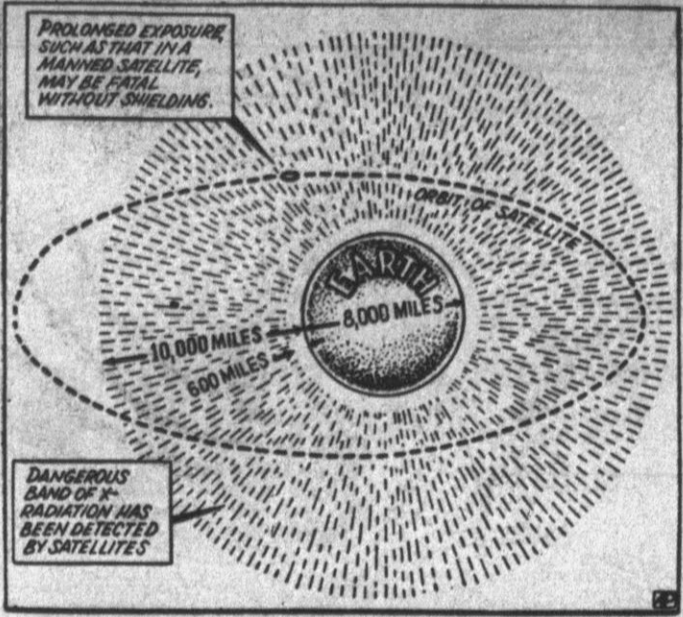

Matthews was also critical of the administration on farm policy, defense, and what he described as high interest rates.

The 200 delegates from over the state also heard remarks by two North Carolina Democratic congressmen, Reps. Harold Cooley of Nashville and L. H. Fountain of Tarboro.

Young Climbers Fall, Survive

LONGMONT, Colo. (AP) — A mountain climber, his companion desperately gripping his ankles, swung suspended head-down over a 150-foot cliff yesterday. Then he dropped—and lived.

Albert O. Haulcomb, 19, Depew, Okla., fell while walking along a mountain trail with six other climbers.

As Haulcomb tumbled, Bobby W. Scott, 17, San Diego, Calif., dived and caught his ankles, but an instant later lost his grip. Haulcomb fell and rolled to the bottom.

He suffered head injuries, and possible fractures of the leg and arm.

Scott was also hospitalized for shock. Both are airmen students at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN

New Approach Is Undertaken On Farm Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Apparently accepting as final President Eisenhower's two-month-old veto of a price support freeze, the Senate Agriculture Committee starts work today on a new approach to farm legislation. Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) asked leaders of two large farm organizations to open the two weeks of hearings at which the committee will try to develop a workable program. Eisenhower vetoed on March 31 a bill which would have fixed support prices on major crops at not less than their levels last year. Acreage restrictions also would have been held up to this year's levels. He called such action ill-advised both for farmers and for the nation. Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) asked senators to give a careful review to the Eisenhower veto before deciding whether to try to override or start anew. Ellender's moves indicate the Senate will not attempt to upset the veto. This would require a two-thirds vote, a larger margin than the 48-32 margin that sent the farm freeze to the White House. Numerous proposals are pending before the committee, but there were no firm indications what type of measure may emerge. Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.), ranking Republican on the committee, said there is a good chance for congressional agreement if a new farm bill is restricted to cotton, rice, and corn and other livestock feed grains. "If we try to load it down with other crops and various farm area pet plans then we will be in trouble and probably get nothing," he said. Aiken said the main theme for altering cotton and rice programs is to allow domestic growers to produce more in order to retain export markets developed in recent years. This would involve expanding planting allotments and lowering government price supports as suggested by Secretary Benson and numerous producer groups. Aiken said corn and other feed grains present a special problem now because few farmers have been complying with government controls. Huge surpluses are threatening.

Nameless Dead Of 2 American Wars Heading For Rendezvous

By ELTON C. FAY ABOARD USS CANBERRA (AP) — Three nameless dead of America's two most recent wars were headed for rendezvous today with this warship out on the gray Atlantic. Two of them were bound for the homeland for which they died in World War II and Korea, to be buried beside World War I's Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. The third, the unchosen of the two World War II dead, will find his final resting place in the sea before the day is done. This guided missile cruiser, the Canberra, is the ceremonial ship. Its after deck was cleared for locating the three bronze caskets under the shadow of missile launchers. The appointed meeting place at sea was 25 miles off Virginia's Cape Henry. The orders called for the Canberra, her sister ship, the Boston, and the sleek destroyer Blandy to gather there. But forecasts of moderately bad weather at sea raised the possibility the rendezvous might be moved into the protected waters inside the Virginia Capes. The Boston, inbound from Guantanamo, Cuba, carried the man who died in the Pacific's World War II and the one who died in Korea. They had been flown from the military cemetery in Hawaii to the United States naval base in Cuba. The Blandy was bringing the body of the nameless man who fell in Europe or perhaps in North Africa. At the meeting point, the Boston and the Blandy will transfer their dead to the Canberra. Aboard the Canberra was 26-year-old William Richard Charette, Navy hospitalman first class, who fought with the Marines in Korea and wears the Medal of Honor for his bravery in that war. Upon him was conferred the honor of choosing which of the two World War II dead would go on to Arlington—and which would be given a sailor's burial at sea. Intrinsic arrangements made it impossible for Charette to know whether his choice was the man from the European or the Pacific theater of war. Below decks, compartments in the Canberra were set aside for transfer of the bodies to three identical bronze caskets. The men who performed this mission for the two World War II Unknowns would have no contact with the men who later would handle the caskets on deck—nor with Charette. In this way, anonymity would be preserved.

Hendersonville Republican Will Run For Scott Seat

STANLEY, N.C. (AP)—Insurance man Richard C. Clarke Jr. of Hendersonville will run this fall as Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate seat vacated by the death of Democrat W. Kerr Scott. He was formally nominated at a meeting here Saturday of the North Carolina Republican Executive Committee, which also discussed the party platform for fall elections. William Cobb of Morganton, GOP Executive Committee chairman, said Vice President Nixon had accepted an invitation to take part in a program at North Carolina's Roan Mountain June 21. Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn also will visit the state in September. The committee passed a resolution here praising Nixon for "his courage and great dignity" during the disorders of his South American tour earlier this month. Clarke's Democratic opponent likely will be B. Everett Jordan, appointed by Gov. Hodges to fill the Senate seat until the election. The committee made a recommendation, equivalent to appointment, that Forney Reinhardt be-

Kept Body Of Baby 11 Years

NEW BOSTON, Tex. (AP)—A former Army nurse was held for murder today in the death of a baby whose body was said to have been kept in a trunk for 11 years. Sheriff W. J. Watlington of neighboring Tarrant County, Tex., lodged a murder charge late yesterday against auburn-haired Mrs. Rose Powers, 46. The sheriff quoted the tall, comely nurse as telling officers she bore the child illegitimately 11 years ago while living alone in a house trailer near Augusta, Ga. He said her only explanation for keeping the body was: "I just couldn't bear to get rid of it." Watlington said her husband Elburn Powers, 42, called officers after discovering the body in his wife's steel foot locker Saturday night. "She was charged with murder because she had a dead body in her possession and no satisfactory explanation as far as we were concerned," the sheriff told newsmen. He said the partly decomposed body, packed amid clothing with a preservative powder, was surprisingly well preserved. A physician told investigators, however, that he could not determine the cause of death nor the sex of the baby. Watlington said Mrs. Powers came here from Nashville, Tenn., three weeks ago to work as a registered nurse in the county hospital of this northeast Texas town. Authorities at Vanderbilt Hospital, where she had been working, recommended her highly the sheriff reported. He said Mrs. Powers gave vague answers to investigators' questions and had only an indirect reply when he asked whether the baby was stillborn or she killed it. "I never did hear it cry," Watlington quoted her. Theodore Roosevelt, while assistant secretary of the Navy in 1898, was the first to recommend that we needed "flying machines" as part of the nation's armed forces.

Fell Asleep At Wheel; 3 Killed

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—A father, mother and son were killed when another son fell asleep at the wheel of the family car and it slammed into a freight train. Three other members of the family were injured. The accident occurred yesterday at McBean, 15 miles south of Augusta. Dead are Budd Anders, 67; his wife Norma, 53; and their son, Coy, 18. A daughter, Lois, 15, and another son, Harold, 11, underwent brain surgery after the accident. The sheriff's office quoted the driver and third son, Alvoird, 23, as saying he went to sleep just before the collision. He suffered minor injuries. The family was driving to Pisgah Forest, N.C., from Cocoa, Fla., where it had been employed on a gladioli farm. Alvoird was to be inducted into the Army at Breward, N.C., tomorrow. There are five languages in official use at the United Nations conferences — English, French, Spanish, Russian and Chinese.

Roller Coaster Mishap Studied

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Whether the Memorial Day holiday crowd rides the roller coaster at nearby Buckeye Lake Amusement Park next weekend depends on the findings of an engineering firm. If engineers find—and remedy—the cause of a derailment that injured 15 persons Saturday night, the roller coaster will roll, park officials said. If not, it will stay shut down until the experts learn why the three-car train disengaged from its lifting chain about 35 feet up, sheared off a safety catch and roared backward down the 75-foot incline it had been climbing. At the bottom, the cars left the rails and came to rest against a protective fence.

Strike Threat At Plane Plant

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The largest employer in the St. Louis area, McDonnell Aircraft Corp., is threatened by a strike. The 15,000-member Machinists Union Local 9 yesterday rejected a 2,791-2,614 offer which the company said was final. It included a wage increase of from 11 to 20 cents an hour the first year and 3 1/2 per cent the second year of a two-year contract. The union asked at least 30 cents.

(AP)—"We do not discover and understand people and their ways through test tubes or electronics or blueprints," North Carolina's superintendent of public instruction told an Appalachian State Teachers College graduating class yesterday. Dr. Charles F. Carroll said that "it is through general education, through the humanities, that we learn people and their ways best." But he cautioned that technical knowledge is essential to "our military, political and cultural security." Degrees were conferred on 311 persons.

The Friends and Supporters of J. Henry Harrell agree that men of leadership calibre are necessary to our continued existence as a free democratic people. Let's Look At The Record Of Henry Harrell: 1. Born and reared on an Eastern North Carolina Tobacco Farm, and has been actively engaged in farming almost all of his entire life. 2. Has lived CONTINUOUSLY in Eastern North Carolina, where he has reared his family. 3. Served as Chairman of the Pitt County Board of Elections for over 15 years. 4. Has practiced law CONTINUOUSLY in Pitt County since 1930. 5. Is entirely dependent for his living upon his farm land and law practice in Pitt County. True, Pitt County and Paris begin with the same letter. The resemblance ends there. What leading has Doctor Humber done? He has not participated in any community activity in Pitt County. He does not own or engage in any business in Pitt County. He does not practice law in Pitt County. He maintains a temporary abode in Pitt County, but is seldom home, and this bespeaks his lack of interest in, and concern for, the problems of the people of Pitt County? 6. To whom has he been available as a leader or advisor in Pitt County? 7. What other people has Dr. Humber served? Certainly not the people of Pitt County. 8. How free is North Carolina's Art Gallery? True that it was free to the extent of spending of the taxpayer's money earned by the labor and sweat of Pitt Countians and other North Carolinians. 9. Has his plan for world peace resulted in the lessening of threats to world peace? The plan has not even been subscribed to by our own United States, either under the Roosevelt, Truman or Eisenhower Administrations. Our State Government already has enough people versed in spending state funds without restraint—We need a man who will know, as a result of experience, how to wisely spend our tax dollars. 10. Could not the vast amount of money spent for the State Art Gallery have been better spent? Dr. Humber's record of activity in behalf of Pitt County is BLANK because he has not been in Pitt County to establish any kind of public or private record. He has never held any office in Pitt County for the rendering of any public service. So vote for a man who has proven his interest in Pitt County by spending his time and money here with us. Lower Rankers Rumbling In Carolina Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Uprisings in the lower ranks rumbled in the Carolina League last night.

Greensboro, last in the standings, tripped league leading Danville on a 5-0 shutout. Rain cut the game short after 4 1/2 innings.

In other contests, Raleigh blanked Winston-Salem 4-0 and Wilson split a double bill with Burlington.

The Hi-Toms were preparing to go to bat in the last of the ninth when play was halted. The game, first of a scheduled doubleheader, will be completed later.

Big Race Is No Race In AL Now

By JOE REICHLER

The Associated Press There's a whale of a race going on in the American League—for second place.

Forgetting the New York Yankees—and how those other seven clubs wish they could—the teams are so closely congregated that only three games separate second place Boston and eighth place Washington.

Alas, the runner-up Red Sox are nine games behind the runaway Yankees, who swept a doubleheader from Cleveland yesterday 6-1 and 6-3. Boston beat Chicago 6-3 in the first game but the White Sox gained a split with a 4-3 decision in the second game.

Detroit vacated the cellar for Washington, defeating the Senators twice 7-2 and 6-3, and Kansas City stopped Baltimore 4-0.

The San Francisco Giants widened their first place National League lead to 2 1/2 games over Milwaukee, winning a pair from Pittsburgh 5-2 and 6-1. Chicago split with Milwaukee.

The Cubs won the first game 1-0 behind ex-Brave Taylor Phillips and the defending champions won the second game behind ex-Cub Bob Rush 5-2. In another split, St. Louis won the first game 4-2 and Cincinnati took the second 7-3. Rain prevented Los Angeles and Philadelphia from playing their scheduled single game.

Boston is the only American League club other than the Yankees with a better than .500 winning percentage. The margin is a mere one victory, 19-18.

Luis Aparicio's only hit—a ninth inning single—drove in Jim Landis with the run that gave Billy Pierce and the White Sox the second game triumph.

Home runs did it for the Yankees against Cleveland. Yogi Berra's three-run homer in the first game was enough for Whitey Ford, who pitched a six-hitter for his fifth victory. Three-run homers by Elston Howard and Tom Slaughter in the sixth inning of the nightcap gave Johnny Kucks his third victory. Dick Tomanek was going along smoothly until he gave way under the six-run barrage. Mickey Mantle hit safely in both games to run his batting streak to 14 games.

Jim Bunning and Hank Aguirre pitched the Tigers to their second and third straight victories on the heels of their nine-game losing streak. The defeats dropped Washington in the basement, three percentage points behind Detroit.

Ned Garver continued his fine comeback, pitching a two-hitter for the Athletics against the Orioles. It was the veteran right-hander's third shutout and sixth victory against one defeat.

Local TT Team Drops Matches To Virginians

NORFOLK, Va. — Greenville table tennis players split a series of team matches with Norfolk and Newport News here Saturday.

The Greenville club of Norman Kilpatrick, Barney Strutton, and Ike Riddick was nipped by the Newport News No. 1 team, five matches to four. Strutton lost the deciding match to Ronald Hobson of NN, 18-21, 21-17, 18-21. Kilpatrick won his three matches including a 21-18, 21-17, win over Rudy Stubbs, the Virginia club's top player, while Riddick picked up Greenville's other win by out-punching Jerald Williams, 21-16, 21-19.

The Greenville No. 2 team of Thomas Paul and Andrew Kilpatrick topped the No. 2 Newport News club, 3-2. Paul won both his singles matches and teamed with Kilpatrick to take the deciding doubles match from Lonnie Pompey and Howard Jackson, 18-21, 21-12, 26-24.

The Carolina club then battled Norfolk and fell to the No. 1 team, 8 matches to 1, as Kilpatrick notched Greenville's only win by defeating Herman Prescott, 22-20, 21-10. He then lost to former Norfolk city champ, Sol Lewis, 21-17, 14-21, 12-21, while Riddick lost a close match to Prescott, 15-21, 21-19, 13-21.

Norfolk champ Jack Carr defeated all three Greenville players in two straight games.

The Norfolk No. 2 outfit toppled Greenville's second club, 3-2, as Kilpatrick-Paul went down in the deciding doubles match to Hobson-Joseph, 2-0.

The matches were held at the Hampton Roads Boys' Club, Newport News and the Langley Air Force Base.

New Life In Sight For Ex-Catcher Campanella

NEW YORK (AP)—A new life dawned for Roy Campanella today.

The ex-Dodger Catcher and three-time Most Valuable Player in the National League was lifted out of bed and placed in a wheelchair for the first time since his tragic automobile accident. Jan. 23 left him paralyzed from the waist down.

His playing days over, Campy not only found himself off his back, but all set to take up a new job offered to him by New York's Gov. Averell Harriman.

The state's chief executive looked in on Campanella yesterday and told him that an $8,000-a-year post as deputy boxing commissioner was his for the asking.

"His face lit up and he said he had always been interested in boxing and would be glad to take on the job," reported Gov. Harriman.

The governor said Campy can start the job right now while undergoing treatment at the New York University-Bellevue Medical Center if he desires.

"A minimum effort on the part of Roy is tantamount to a maximum contribution to boxing," Gov. Harriman added. "He will give the public a guarantee of honest boxing."

Gov. Harriman, once an ardent Dodger fan, said Campy appeared "as fit as I've ever seen him," except for the fact that his neck is in a brace to prevent further injury to his spine.

Dr. Donald A. Covatt, assistant director of the department treating Campy reported a "limited locomotion of both arms."

In the three weeks he has been at the hospital Campy has learned to feed himself with a device strapped to his wrist and forearms.

Castoff Players Can Be Vicious

Four National League clubs—Milwaukee, Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis—learned yesterday just how vicious the vengeance of a castoff can be.

Taylor Phillips, Sammy Taylor, Bob Rush, Bill Wight, Curtis Flood, Harvey Haddix and Steve Bilko were the men who gained sweet revenge.

Phillips, dealt by Milwaukee to Chicago last December, pitched the Cubs to a 1-0 victory over the Braves in the first game of a doubleheader. Catcher Taylor, involved in the deal that brought Rush from Chicago to Milwaukee, scored the only run of the game. Then Rush softened the pain by pitching the Braves to a 5-2 victory over the Cubs in the nightcap.

Flood, traded by Cincinnati to St. Louis last winter, singled in the two runs that gave the Cardinals a 4-2 first-game triumph over the Redlegs. Wight, released by the Reds, quenched a bases-loaded, one-out threat in the seventh and went on to hurl hitless ball for 2-2-3 relief innings.

Haddix, traded away by St. Louis two years ago, pitched the Redlegs to a 7-4 second-game victory. Bilko, another ex-Card, ignited the Reds' four-run fourth inning with a home run.

In the only other league action, the San Francisco Giant continued their amazing winning ways, sweeping a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 5-2 and 6-1.

The scheduled single game between Los Angeles and the Phillies in Philadelphia was rained out.

The New York Yankees continued their runaway of the American League race, knocking off Cleveland twice 6-1 and 6-3. Detroit twice whipped Washington, 6-3 and 7-2. Boston and Chicago split. The Red Sox won the opener 6-3 and the White Sox took the second 4-3. Ned Garver hurled Kansas City to a 4-0 victory over Baltimore.

Murtaugh was ejected but not before both benches had emptied to the delight of the sellout crowd.

First Integrated Baccalaureate Held At Little Rock Central High School

By SY RAMSEY
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—An historic baccalaureate was held at Central High School last night against a backdrop that resembled an armed camp. There was at least one racial incident.

About 120 armed National Guardsmen and some 100 policemen rolled into the school area shortly before the first racially integrated baccalaureate began.

The service went smoothly on the floodlit field. But before it started seven Negroes were arrested in a car a few blocks away. And afterwards a white youth was arrested for spitting at a Negro visitor.

Among the 600 seniors to be graduated tomorrow is Ernest Green, a 16-year-old Negro. He is the first of his race to get a diploma from Central High, the scene of rioting last September when Green and eight other Negroes entered the school.

Green stood calmly outside the stadium before services. Asked if he were nervous, he said: "Sure I'm nervous. It's baccalaureate."

No one molested Green. He waited outside the stadium while after the ceremony, apparently for relatives. Then three detectives escorted him to a gate.

As some 1,500 persons, including 25 Negro visitors, filed outside the stadium, a white youth spat at one of the Negroes. He was arrested by city police, charged with disturbing the peace and released on $200 bond.

A photographer for the Arkansas Democrat who tried to take pictures of the incident was almost slugged with a board by a white woman. Officers took him away from other hostile whites.

Nearly an hour before the baccalaureate seven Negroes were arrested in a car a few blocks from the stadium. All were booked for disturbing the peace and two were charged with carrying a concealed weapon — a gun and a knife. All were released under bond.

Police said the chase actually started far from the school area. They declined to say whether the incident had any racial connection.

that Supt. Blossom and the school board are so obsessed with (news coverage that they are ashamed for the people to witness that it has been rigged on behalf of one Negro graduate?"

Although admission last night was supposed to be by ticket, none was required. Passes will be needed by all visitors and newsmen for commencement tomorrow.

The 400 National Guardsmen who are enforcing court-ordered integration at Central High School will be unofficially disbanded after the last Negro leaves the stadium tomorrow night. They will leave nearby Camp Robinson by Thursday.

Several Negro newsmen charged that Supt. Virgil Blossom had barred them from covering the services. Asked for comment Blossom said before the ceremony: "You didn't ask me that. Ask me tomorrow. You didn't see me tonight."

White newsmen had been restricted earlier by Blossom in various phases of coverage. Last night some officers eyed them suspiciously. A photographer was ordered to stop taking pictures. Several newsmen were told to go inside the stadium. All were herded into a roped-off area and told by police to stay there.

A segregationist spokesman called for a public protest against attendance restrictions. The Rev. Wesley Pruden, a Baptist minister and president of the Capital Citizens Council, said: "Could it be

Drowning Victim, Seven Would-Be Rescuers Perish

ROCKPORT, Tex. (AP)—Struggles of a drowning child drew 10 rescuers off a sunny beach late yesterday and seven persons perished, including the little girl the others tried to save.

Other victims were an Air Force chaplain, the little girl's mother and four other children.

The tragic sequence started after Janice Bailey, 9, stepped into a deep hole off the small public beach opposite this Texas port on the Gulf of Mexico.

Leonard Berry, 40, an Air Force priest from Syracuse, N. Y., dived in.

The father of another child, who also drowned, and Janice's mother, Mrs. Mary Bailey, 26, followed. Efforts to help were made by seven other children, including the four who went down.

Wayne Bailey, an airman from Foster Air Force Base at neighboring Victoria, Tex., was in the crowd of more than 3,000 persons who saw the bodies of his wife and daughter pulled from the water.

"That's my wife!" he cried out as Mrs. Bailey was brought ashore dead. "That's Father Berry! Oh, my God—there comes my daughter!"

Fire Chief Dick Fox, who also heads the Aransas County emergency corps, said most of the surf bathers knew what was happening but there was no panic.

He identified these other dead: David Curby, 7, Aransas Pass, Tex.; Margarita Torres, 11, Rockport, and Aurelia Tomas, 10, Rockport.

Joining in the vain rescue attempt was Concepcion Tomas, who saw a little girl thrashing in the water and dashed from his parked car. He arrived too late to reach Janice or his own daughter.

The seven bodies were recovered within an hour and a half. Resuscitation efforts were unsuccessful.

"Some signs warning people about that deep hole are going to be put up," the fire chief said. He estimated the sandy bottom drops into a hole eight feet deep at that point.

Newsmen Jack Baughman said the overflow of surf bathers had sent the drowning victims to a little-used north stretch of beach.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—An Air Force B-57 twin-jet bomber crashed in a field shortly after taking off from Chanute Air Force Base yesterday, killing the two crewmen aboard.

The plane disintegrated on impact and there was some fire, witnesses told Lt. George Ogles, public information officer at Chanute.

Ogles said a witness reported a canopy was ejected when the plane was at an altitude of about 3,000 feet. One of the crewmen apparently got out partially, but he was so low the wind did not catch his chute.

The victims were identified as 1st Lt. J. T. Flynn, pilot, of Indianapolis, and Capt. E. H. Griggs, navigator, of Philadelphia, both stationed at Langley Air Force Base, Va.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Bishop Fulton J. Sheen says the Western world is growing soft while the Soviet Union "is strengthening itself by discipline, self-denial and hardship."

He said in a speech that Soviet schools teach up to 800 more hours of science in high schools than is taught in colleges of the United States.

The Catholic bishop said, "This is typical of the general softening of our culture."

Germans Term American Cars 'Street Battleships'

By REINHOLD ENSE
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The Germans have a term for America's shiny, big automobiles — "Strassenkreuzer," or "Street Battleships."

And the question that West German auto makers are asking themselves is: Will their small autos continue winning market battles against Detroit's Strassenkreuzer?

In 1956, the United States imported 64,140 West German motor vehicles. Last year the figure was nearly double: 114,136.

The figure has been doubling annually since 1955 and Germans are hoping the same thing will happen this year and the next, and the next. Recent Detroit declarations that American autos will be even bigger next year have not done anything to dampen the German's hopes.

"We believe Americans are turning to smaller cars because they want to save money," says a spokesman for the West German Auto Industry Assn. "The American economy is going through a crisis and Americans are beginning to save their money, just like people in other countries."

Director J. H. Von Brunn recently completed a one-month swing through the United States. He says response to German autos is terrific.

Von Brunn agrees that the desire for economy is probably the major reason for the sudden American interest in small cars. His trip convinced him there is also another reason, to a certain degree: "snobism."

"During my trip, I was the guest of various corporations and they often sent around a chauffeur to pick me up. I must confess that sometimes I had difficulty telling the difference between the chauffeurs and their bosses. Everybody wore white shirts; everybody was well-dressed."

"At home, I'm sure the chauffeurs' refrigerators and television sets were just about the same as those of their bosses. Everything is standardized and so when people want to be different from other people they turn to foreign products."

Although the Germans are counting on an even bigger share of the American market, they are not jumping in without thinking or planning. A recent West German government report warned the auto makers that if the American economy begins booming again, the demand for small cars may drop off.

The report also said that if small autos do become a permanent fixture of the American scene Detroit may begin making its own small cars, probably in 1960 or 1961.

Another Bid To Abolish Limits

WASHINGTON (AP)—If the Russians will let Americans visit Omsk, Russians can sample the sights of Seattle . . . or Louisville, Ky., if Americans can go to Tomsk . . .

Seattle and Louisville, both off limits to Russians, are among the places the United States is offering anew to open to Soviet visits if the Kremlin will abolish its barriers restricting foreign travel in the Soviet Union.

Altogether, 25 U. S. cities and 13 different groupings of U. S. territory have been closed to the Russians in retaliation for Soviet closure of cities and areas of comparable size to foreign visitors.

In a new appeal to Moscow, the State Department offered to open any or all the U. S. closed zones if the Soviets will reciprocate.

In a note to the Soviets, the latest appeal over a period of several years, the United States called once again for elimination of all travel restrictions. But the State said that since the Soviet Union has not even replied to a similar proposal last November, "this country is offering a new and more limited deal in hopes some parts, at least, would be accepted."

Under the U. S. proposal, this country would match opening for opening—like Louisville for Tomsk or the state of Maryland for the Soviet provinces of Moscow, Kaluga and Vladimir.

In addition, the United States offered to open three different groupings of highways in return for removal of Soviet travel curbs on certain of its highways.

Nixon Endorses Knowland Race

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—Vice President Nixon sent a telegram yesterday endorsing Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.), who seeks the California Republican nomination for governor.

The message from Washington, D. C., was to a Republican rally in Riverside that Knowland attended. The senator was in California for a weekend of campaigning.

"As a Californian," Nixon said, "I am proud to be able to work and vote for a man who in every respect will be worthy to lead our state into the exciting era in which it will become the first state in the nation." Californians predict their state's population will exceed New York's in a few years.

Nixon predicted Knowland would win the gubernatorial race and said, "It is more than just a contest between Democrats and Republicans."

"Bill Knowland will receive the support of thousands of Democrats who admire and respect a man who refuses to knuckle down to any pressure group regardless of the political consequences."

Knowland told the rally he favored "voluntary rather than compulsory membership in labor unions."

Knowland and Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown, a Democrat, have crossed-filed California permits candidates to file on both party tickets. No Republican is opposing the senator.

Knowland described Nixon last week as the "leading contender and the only major candidate" for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

Brown said Nixon first endorsed Knowland months ago and that the senator's "campaign manager is merely playing the record over again. . . ."

Car Rams House Off Foundation

DALLAS (AP)—Richard Condra's car rammed a house and knocked it three feet off the foundation.

Condra and Charles Foley, 24, a companion, both were injured, but neither critically. Moses Smith and his family all escaped injury inside the house.

Condra told police his 1957 model car was newly souped up and the accelerator jammed as he swerved to avoid another vehicle.

Seeking The Blame For Rising Cost Of Living

By SAM DAWSON. NEW YORK (AP)—Who's to blame for the rise in the cost of living? Could it be you? Management tells you it's the steady rise in labor wage scales that has brought about inevitable increases in the price of consumer goods.

Revive Biblical System Of Artificial Respiration

NEW YORK (AP)—A biblical technique for artificial respiration, largely discarded in favor of other methods, now is being advocated once more as the best, after all, under the age-old means of resuscitation, the rescuer simply breathes mouth to mouth directly into the lungs of an unconscious victim.

scientists, draftsmen, administrative workers — have increased 60 per cent in the last ten years and their salaries have gone from one fourth of the total one third now. The cited figures record their salary payments as rising 37 per cent in the last four years while wage payments to the blue collar workers have averaged seven per cent.

Productivity, or unit cost, is the measure of goods produced per man hour of labor. On the basis of production worker man hours, without lasting scars isn't easy productivity has risen at an annual rate of 3.7 per cent in the last 10 years. But add in the salaries of non production workers and productivity has risen at the annual rate of 2.9 per cent.

It is so simple that a 9-year-old child can successfully revive an unconscious man weighing 250 pounds or more, Collins said. Others describe it as "unequally superior" to manual techniques in all age groups, and the only one which assures that an adequate volume of air will enter the victim's lungs.

SOME SLIPS DON'T SHOW

By A. A. FAIR (Eric Stanley Gardner)

CHAPTER 13

The maid wheeled her wagon down to 42B. She opened it with her passkey and went in. I went in with her and looked around the place. Barclay Fisher had left a luggage tag in the wastebasket. It was on United Airlines, Flight 461.

I pulled my timetable out of my pocket and looked up that flight number. It was an air-coach flight, leaving Los Angeles at seven o'clock in the evening and arriving in San Francisco at 9:00 p.m. Fisher had told me that it was the midnight plane he had taken.

While the maid was cleaning up the bathroom, I went through all the drawers, looked around the place with a fine-tooth comb. That baggage check was the only thing Fisher had left behind.

I looked up the address of the Jensen Thrustmore Company, went to the telephone booth and got them on the phone.

A very dulcet, feminine voice answered and said, "Jensen Thrustmore Motors" with such sexy charm that it made me feel like ordering a dozen, just on general principles.

I told her I wanted to speak with Carl Jensen, so she said she would connect me with his secretary.

Jensen's secretary also had a seductive voice. I began to wonder if some of these voices might belong to the babes who helped out at convention time.

"I'm Donald Lam," I said. "I want to see Mr. Jensen about a matter of some urgency and which may be important to him."

"Do you have an appointment with Mr. Jensen?" she asked.

"You know I haven't, sister," I said, "or you wouldn't be asking the question."

Her laugh was throaty. She said, "Well, if you know anything about the operations out here, you'll know I'm supposed to find out who you are and what you want. I'm also supposed to do it in a tactful manner."

"Go ahead and be tactful," I told her.

Again she laughed and said, "Come on, give."

I said, "I'm a private detective from Los Angeles."

"That's right."

Her voice became cool and cautious. "And what do you want to see Mr. Jensen about?"

"About something that happened at the convention."

"I'm terribly sorry, Mr. Lam, but Mr. Jensen left for luncheon a few minutes ago, and doesn't expect to be back during the afternoon. If you can tell me what it is you want to know—"

"And," I said, "I want to ask him in particular about a letter he received from a character named George Cadott, and to discuss with him what's going to happen when the police find out about that letter."

"What did you say the man's name was?"

"Cadott," I said. "C-a-d-o-t-t."

She said, "Just a minute. I'll see if I can find a number where I can reach Mr. Jensen."

There was silence for a few moments, then I caught the tail end of a whispered sentence. A moment later a man's voice came on the line and said, "This is Carl Jensen speaking."

"Oh, how are you, Mr. Jensen? I understand you had left for lunch."

"They caught me at the elevator. What's this about a letter George Cadott is supposed to have written me?"

"A letter," I said, "telling you about how you were trying to use drinks and seduction to make sales."

"Say, what the devil are you talking about?"

"George Cadott."

"I don't know any George Cadott, and I don't know what you're talking about."

I said, "If you can see me before you go to lunch, I can give you some information that may be of help when the police start asking questions."

"Where are you now?"

I gave him the name of the hotel.

He hesitated a moment, then said, "What did you say your name was?"

"Donald Lam."

"Come on in a cab, Lam, and come on our here. I don't know what you're talking about, but when a man tries to give me a run-around like this on the telephone, I want to look him in the eyes and size him up."

"Coming right out," I told him.

I left the hotel, got a cab, and fifteen minutes later was in Carl Jensen's offices.

The girl at the secretarial desk was one of those beautiful blondes with eyes that are a deep violet. I opened the door.

"Mr. Lam?" she asked.

I nodded.

"Was I tactful?"

"Very."

"Mr. Jensen is waiting. Just go right on in."

I opened the door marked "Carl Jensen."

He was around forty with an athletic figure, brown, wavy hair, cold, steel-blue eyes, and lightning-fast reactions.

He bounced up out of the chair as I opened the door, shot out his hand and all but crushed mine in a quick grip. He looked down at me and said, "You don't look like a detective."

"Thanks."

He laughed and said, "Sit down. What do you know?"

"I know a little something about George Cadott," I said, seating myself.

"Look, Lam, let's not misunderstand each other. I don't know any George Cadott. Now, you said you wanted to see me about something that happened at the last motorboat convention."

"Lois Marlow," I told him.

"What about Lois Marlow?"

"Do you know her?"

"Now," he said, "you're asking questions."

"What do you want to know about Lois Marlow?"

"I said, 'I know all about Lois Marlow. I know about her getting Barclay Fisher intoxicated. I know about George Cadott writing you a letter, threatening to make trouble. I thought we might put cards on the table.'"

"Any reason why I should?"

"Uh-huh."

"I said, 'George Cadott made himself obnoxious to a good many people.'"

"Lots of persons are obnoxious to a good many people," he told me. "In addition to which, I have never had the pleasure of meeting George Cadott."

"George Cadott," I said, "had the idea that it was incumbent upon him to reform the world. He was going to take seduction out of sex, and sex out of salesmanship."

"Quite a job for any one man," Jensen commented, his eyes searching my face.

"So," I went on, "he wrote you a letter telling you he was going to hold you strictly accountable for consequences, that you were an evil influence in the life of his wife, and—"

"His wife!" Jensen shouted, jumping up out of the chair.

"Sure," I said. "They were divorced, but he was carrying the torch for her and—"

"Good heavens! I didn't know he was her ex-husband!"

"That's better," I said. "Now if you'd like to put your cards on the table, I can tell you something that may be to your advantage."

Carl Jensen is due to lose his composure in the game of detective that Donald Lam is playing. "Some Slips Don't Show" reaches its height in suspense and comedy here tomorrow.

Chess Fans Can Get Good Game From A Machine

NEW YORK (AP)—Now chess fans can live alone and like it. All they have to do is get a newly devised electronic brain, which can put up a fairly good game.

The computer was taught to play by four expert chess players, employees of the International Business Machines Corp.

Alex Bernstein, who helped set up the machine, can beat it every time. He knows that the machine can see only two moves ahead. If your brain can see three moves ahead, you're in.

The computer takes about eight minutes a move, and prints its move on a piece of paper which it arranges like a chess board. Playing against it isn't like solitaire—you can't cheat at any attempt at chicanery, out comes a slip: "Please check last move."

It's also a good loser. When the jig is up, it comes out with "Thank you for an interesting game."

Monroe County, West Virginia, was the home of Spanish-American war hero Andrew S. Rowan who carried the message that later was immortalized in Elbert Hubbard's classic, "A Message to Garcia."

Houseboat Was His Own Doing

FRANKLIN, N.C. (AP)—Glenn Holt did it himself, all right, but it took time.

It took him four years and more than $1,000 to build a silver-hulled houseboat with a railing on the back. The craft has 1,313 screws in its bottom—each placed there by hand.

"The Meredith," named for Mrs. Holt, has sleeping accommodations for four, a fully-equipped kitchen including a gas stove, 12-volt electrical lighting system that gets its power from a gasoline motor, toilet, radio, inside and outside steering wheels, and a special trapdoor arrangement in the bottom for fishing at night or for use as a live minnow box.

The boat is seven feet wide and 21 feet long. It meanders along at 10 m.p.h. under the shoving of a 10 horse power outboard motor.

Holt started "The Meredith" Jan. 26, 1954. In two years, he had put in 350 man hours. After that, he quit counting.

He really built the houseboat twice. He started it in his music store in downtown Franklin, but had to take it apart to get it outside and then build it back together again at home.

He's proudest of all of his fishing alarm. It's a Holt-original—a battery operated gadget that holds his fishing rod in a length of tubing while he's in another part of the boat.

If a fish bites while he's busy, the tug at the line closes an electrical circuit and a buzzer sounds. "A lot of my friends thought I had really lost my mind when I got that idea, but it works!" he said.

All Booked Up For Mars Trip

TOKYO (AP)—"Sorry, all booked up for Mars," Moscow radio said today.

It was the reply of Russia's Sputnik project chief to four Japanese interplanetary travel volunteers.

"We don't have plans yet to launch a manned space ship," the broadcast said.

"But even if we were to send a space ship with men aboard to Mars, it may be difficult to accommodate so many candidates," Moscow added.

Two Explorer Radios Silent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Both radio transmitters are now silent on the Army's Explorer I, the first U. S. earth satellite.

The Naval Research Laboratory said yesterday tracing stations no longer were receiving signals from Explorer's second transmitter, apparently because of battery exhaustion.

The other transmitter, which operated on higher power, stopped sending earlier.

Explorer I, which went into orbit on Jan. 31, is expected to remain aloft for one to five years.

Two other U. S. satellites—the Army's Explorer III and the Navy's Vanguard—also are circling the earth.

Campaign Cost Just Peanuts

SANTE FE, N. M. (AP)—A candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in the recent New Mexico primary election says his major campaign expense was the cost of peanuts.

John Burroughs, winner of the nomination in a five-man field, is a peanut processor.

He passed out peanuts instead of cards during the campaign—$800 worth.

Vanguard Rocket Will Join Relics

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Vanguard rocket will join relics of the Stone Age, the American Indian and Charles A. Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis" in the Smithsonian Institution Monday.

A spokesman for the Martin Co., which built the earth satellite launching rockets, said he had been advised the Vanguard will be displayed in the rotunda of the Washington Museum just behind the plane which Lindbergh flew on the first solo flight across the Atlantic.

Key stocks rose from fractions to more than a point. An assortment of small losers peppered the list.

Dr. Short, of Lexington, Ky., called America, in many respects, "indeed the last, best hope for world peace and progress." He added that he believes the "deep roots of this wonderful fruitage are to be found in the freedom of our educational, political and religious life."

Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, ACC president, conferred degrees.

The Sunday morning baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Dr. R. Frederick West, pastor of Hilyer Memorial Christian Church in Raleigh. He told the seniors that college and church life revolution.

Honorary degrees were presented to Dr. Charles Hunter Hamlin of Wilson, retired ACC faculty member, Doctor of Literature; the Rev. Maurice Elmrose Turner, minister of the Broad Street Christian Church in New Bern, Doctor of Divinity; and Lawrence Anderson Moyle of Maury, Doctor of Laws.

A Scotland Neck senior, Sylvia Alisbrook Wigdon, received two top student awards: The Faculty Cup as the senior with the best general college record, and the Scholarship Cup for the best four year academic record.

Heavy Vote For Italian Election

ROME (AP)—Election officials began counting more than 30 million ballots today immediately after the end of a day and a half of voting for Italy's third postwar Parliament. The turnout appeared to be more than 90 per cent of the 32,506,417 registered voters.

Final results of the balloting, which was orderly throughout, are expected tomorrow.

The Interior Ministry said more than 77 per cent of the eligible voters—about 25 million—cast ballots yesterday.

At stake were five-year terms for all 596 seats in the Chamber of Deputies and six-year terms for the 246 Senate places. Voting is compulsory.

Two hundred thousand police and soldiers patrolled the booths but there were few incidents.

The generally apathetic, six-week campaign pitted a dozen major parties ranging from the Communists to the Fascists. In the center are the ruling Christian Democrats trying to relieve the absolute majority they lost in 1953. They got 40 per cent of the vote then and had to form a coalition with other center parties.

The Reds and their fellow-traveling Socialists collected about 34 per cent of the popular vote in the last election five years ago.

College Planning On A New Look

WILSON, N.C. (AP)—Atlantic Christian College is planning for a new look.

The Board of Trustees met Sunday and appointed a special study committee to chart a future course. Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, college president, suggested a study because, he said, ACC has outdated all previous studies.

Dr. Wenger said he hoped the committee of educators and business and professional men would accomplish four goals:

1. Redefine college objectives in today's society; evaluate the present program in the new light; decide how much the college can increase in size without harming its program, and study how much money is available to improve the program.
