COTY TO QUIT UNLESS DEGAULLE ACCEPTED

Warns General Is Only One To Avert Civil War

PARIS (AP) — President Rene Coty is calling Gen. Charles de Gaulle to power with a warning that only he can save France from civil war. The president announced this action to Parliament today. He said he will resign if the National Assembly refuses to accept De Gaulle as premier. De Gaulle immediately left his country home for Paris. Coty's unprecedented message was received in the National Assembly with shouts of derision from the Communists and cheers from De Gaullists on the right. "We find ourselves on the brink of civil war," Coty said. "In the peril of the motherland and the republic, I turn myself toward the most illustrious Frenchman." The Assembly recessed, and parties began feverish caucuses. First reports said the Communists, who hold the balance of power, were holding firm in their opposition to De Gaulle. Coty told the assembly he could see no alternative to De Gaulle. He said he intended to designate De Gaulle as chief of government and if the Assembly did not accept him he would resign and turn the presidency over to Andre Le Troquer, speaker of the National Assembly and constitutionally the man in line to take Coty's office. Officials at Elysee Palace, the French White House, said intelligence sources felt a De Gaullist military coup was only a matter of hours. This was supported by a warning statement from the Gaullist junta in Algiers that it would react vigorously if De Gaulle's accession to power is further delayed. The guard around the presidential palace was redoubled. Coty mourned that France, one of the oldest of democracies, was also one of the weakest. "Thus, if I have passed the traditional limits which were imposed upon my predecessors, I believed myself authorized to do so," Coty said in his first official statement to the Assembly since he thanked it on taking office in 1954. "The state does not cease to be divided," Coty said. "Now we find ourselves on the brink of civil war." After more than 40 years of wars against outside enemies, Coty asked, "Are the French

Pitt Candidates In Home Stretch As Primary Election Approaches

By JIMMY ELLIS Reflector Staff Writer

Candidates for Pitt County ofices subject to Saturday's Democratic Primary rolled today into the home stretches of their off-year election races. At stake in Saturday's voting will be the county's seat in the State Senate, the Sheriff's office, one seat on the Board of County Commissioners and a host of constabularies. In addition, Pitt voters will decide the future of a proposed three cents special tax levy which would support an industrial development program for the county. Focal point in the races thus far has been for the Senate seat vacated by Dr. Paul E. Jones of Farmville and being sought by a pair of Greenville attorneys, J. Henry Harrell and Robert Lee Humber. Neither Harrell nor Humber has ever held an elective political office although both have been prominent in political affairs for many years.

The Sheriff's race involves incumbent Ruel W. Tyson, former Sheriff Sam A. Whitehurst and newcomer-to-politics Ben D. Forrest. J. Tyson has held the post since 1942, four years after Whitehurst's 12-year tenure ended. Incumbent B. Alton Gardner and previously unsuccessful candidate R. Guy Jackson are seeking the Fifth District seat on the Board of County Commissioners. Gardner is a former chairman of the board who has held the district's seat since 1954. The proposed tax levy vote was authorized by the 1957 General Assembly and, if it passes, will not exceed three cents per $100 valuation. The funds would be used to finance a 17-member industrial Development Commission which would seek new and expanded industry for the county. Fourteen candidates are seeking constabularies in six of the county's townships. Five of the races are between two men, but Ayden Township has four men seeking the post. They are Roy G. Jackson, Joel Wingate, Edward Hudson and Luby Cox. Other constabularies listed by Chairman D.S. Spain, Jr., of the Pitt County Board of Elections are Chocod, Bossie Mills and Clarence W. Dixon; Falkland, Frank Peaden and J.P. Stancil; Grimesland, S. Elijah Heath and Levi Wilson; Pactus, Clarence Harris, Jr., and R.P. Woolard; and Winterville, W. Randolph Harris and Linwood E. Tripp. Candidates for county offices who are unopposed in Saturday's primary, and whose names will not appear on ballots, are county commissioners Robert G. Little of the Fourth District and J. Vance Perkins of the First District; state representatives Walter B. Jones of Farmville and Frank M. Wooten Jr., of Greenville; Clerk of Court D.T. House, Jr.; County Judge Dink James; Coroner Griffin H. Rouse; Board of Education members T.G. Worthington and G. Earl Trevathan; and County Sollection John Hill Paylor. All of the unopposed candidates are incumbents, with the exception of Paylor. He became the only person to fill for the solicitorship after James C. Lanier, Jr., chose not to seek a third term. Unopposed candidates seeking constabularies include Louis H. Tyson of Belvoir; Cecil Jones, Bethel; W.H. Crandell, Carolina; T.G. Wall, Swift Creek; Walter R. Joyner, Grifton; James Leroy Owens, Fountain; Pennell Furbette, Farmville and Joe Joyner, Jr., Greenville. Justice of the Peace candidates who are unopposed are Virginia B. Stancil, Falkland; R.D. Whitehurst, Pactus; Clarence H. Elks, Grimesland; and James T. Smith, Carolina. Other Jaycee candidates are Edwin A. Little, C.G. Moore, Roland R. Cannon and Jack M. Collins, all of Ayden; Frank Harrington, H.T. Savage, Stuart Smith and A.C. Jackson, all of Greenville; George Kittrell and C.F. Little, Winterville; and W.E. Gardner and P.C. Owens of Fountain. Precincts and polling places for Saturday's Primary voting are: Arthur, Arthur School; Ayden, City Hall; Belvoir, Belvoir School; Bethel, City Hall; Carolina, Stokes School; Chocod Number 1, Spencer's Barber Shop, Black Jack; Chocod Number 2, McGowan's Cross Roads; Chocod Number 3, Venter's Store; Falkland, City Hall; Fountain, City Hall; Farmville, City Hall; Greenville Number 1, Farmers' Warehouse; Greenville Number 2, Court House; Greenville Number 3, Third Street School; Greenville Number 4, West End Fire Station; Greenville Number 5, Keel's Warehouse; Greenville Number 6, Fifth Street Fire Station; Greenville Number 7, Elm Street Park Building; Greenville Number 8, Old Hospital; Grifton, City Hall; Grimesland Number 1, City Hall; Grimesland Number 2, Simpson Community Building; Pactus, Pactus School; Swift Creek, Old Timothy Church Building; and Winterville, City Hall.

Election Party

The Daily Reflector will hold its traditional election party Saturday night to tabulate returns from the Democratic primary being held that day. Returns should begin coming in shortly after the polls close at 6:30 p.m. and as they are tabulated they will be posted on a board in front of the newspaper office. They will also be announced over a public address system. The newspaper office will remain open until all the county's 25 boxes have reported. Poll holders are urged to call the Reflector election headquarters immediately after counting of the boxes is complete. Poll holders may call Greenville 6166 with the election results.

Alaska's Drive For Statehood Goes To Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The drive for Alaska statehood shifted today to the Senate, where Southern Democrats appeared ready to fight it. Sources close to Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said they were confident the bill — which passed the House 208-166 yesterday — would come to the Senate floor by mid-June. But Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.), an avowed opponent of statehood for Alaska or Hawaii, said that if an attempt is made to consider either bill in the Senate he will offer as an amendment an equally controversial bill to limit review powers of the Supreme Court. Opponents of the Supreme Court measure have indicated they would talk at length against it. Sen. James E. Murray (D-Mont.), Insular Affairs Committee chairman, said he plans to go before the next meeting of the Democratic Policy Committee and insist that the Alaska bill be scheduled for floor action without further delay. "I think the sentiment for Alaska's admission is just as strong in the Senate as in the House," he said. Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California expressed belief there are enough votes in the Senate to pass both an Alaska and a Hawaii bill. A supporter of both, Knowland said he would be willing to see the Senate take up a separate Alaska bill if there were an ironclad agreement from Democratic leaders that Hawaii also would be considered at this session. President Eisenhower told his news conference he respects the Republican party platform pledge to work for statehood for both Alaska and Hawaii. The statement appeared to some statehood supporters to leave doubt as to the President's stand on enactment only of an Alaska bill. But Rep. John P. Saylor (R-Pa.) told the House the President favors the Alaska bill in its present form.

Vigorously Denies Embezzlement

JACKSON, N.C. (AP) — Northampton County School Superintendent N. L. Turner vigorously denied today that he is in any way involved in what Solicitor Ernest Tyler called the embezzlement of "many thousands of dollars" in county school funds. "I ask that the people withhold judgment until I can be heard in court where I will prove my innocence," he said. Tyler said yesterday after a conference with Atty. Gen. Malcolm B. Seawell that he will send between 40 and 50 bills of indictment to the grand jury at the next term of Northampton Superior Court beginning Aug. 4. He said most of the indictments will name Superintendent Turner, 59-year-old Rich Square resident. Turner said today: "The charges that are being made against me are not true. I have done no wrong." In addition to the superintendent Tyler said two or three other persons probably will be named in other indictments. Dr. C. G. Parker of Woodland, chairman of the Northampton

Jobless Relief Extension Needs Only Signature

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only President Eisenhower's signature was needed today to authorize federal advances to the states for a temporary extension of unemployment benefits. A bill to permit that action was passed 80-0 by the Senate last night after all attempts to broaden and strengthen it were defeated. The House passed it May 1. The passage vote was unanimous despite sharp criticism from some senators that the bill was largely useless—a position also taken by AFL-CIO spokesmen. Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) called it "the great runaround of 1958." Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.) said he feared it would prove "a cruel hoax" on the millions of unemployed. The bill authorizes the federal government to advance funds to the states to extend by as much as one half the number of weeks in which workers eligible for unemployment insurance may draw benefits. In most participating states, this would amount to an additional 13 weeks. The extended payments, at prevailing state rates, are authorized by the bill for weeks of unemployment beginning 15 days after enactment and prior to April 1 of next year. Insured workers whose benefit rights have been exhausted since June 30, 1957, by such later date as a state might elect, would be eligible for the additional payments. Participation in the program by each state would be optional—a key feature written into the legislation in the House by a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats. Eisenhower originally asked that the extension be mandatory in all states, but the administration subsequently endorsed the bill as passed by the House to avoid further delay. On that plea, the Senate rejected mandatory provisions by a 54-26 roll call vote.

Silent Tribute By Files Of Visitors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gold star mothers, foreign ambassadors, and a hushed stream of plain Americans paid silent tribute today to The Unknowns of World War II and Korea. None knew who they were, for they lost both their identities and their lives in the nation's two most recent wars. Tomorrow they will be interred beside The Unknown Soldier of World War I at Arlington National Cemetery. Today they lay in identical flag-draped bronze caskets on twin black catafalques in their place of honor in their nation's capitol. Every half hour a new wreath was laid before them, every hour the honor guard of all five services was changed, and constantly the people single-filed past them in mute homage at the rate of 1,200 an hour. The people came into the vast, darkened Rotunda with smiles reflecting the bright spring sunshine of the outdoors. They quickly fell into the mood of mourning, blinked, looked around and shuffled past. Huddled quietly to one side were three gold star mothers from Rhode Island—Mrs. Regina Godfrey of Providence, Mrs. Charles

Frank Graham Is Told Slow Down

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Frank Graham, 72-year-old University of North Carolina president, has been told by his doctors he is suffering from fatigue and overwork. Mrs. Graham said yesterday the doctor told her husband he must slow down his heavy schedule of traveling and speaking engagements. She had notified Guilford College at Greensboro, N.C., that Dr. Graham, former Democratic senator, from that state, would be unable to fill a commencement speaking engagement Monday because of illness. Nearly seven-eighths inches of rain fell in the Greenville area yesterday afternoon. The precipitation occurred during a brief thunderstorm. No storm damage was reported.

Ficklen Is Re-Elected By Local Tobacco Body

James S. Ficklen, Jr., an official of the E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Co., yesterday morning was re-elected president of the Tobacco Board of Trade for a second one-year term. Ficklen was re-elected at the annual meeting of the local tobacco organization. The group re-elected B. B. Suggs, of Smith and Suggs Warehouses, as vice-president of the organization. W. L. Whedbee, sales supervisor for the Greenville market, was re-named secretary-treasurer for the board. Whedbee said this morning there was a feeling of optimism among the tobaccoists attending yesterday's meeting concerning the coming selling season. "The prospects look so much better than last year," Whedbee declared. "Existing stocks have begun to move into the trade — both foreign and domestic." In addition, Whedbee noted out 36,717 acres of flue cured tobacco have been placed in Soil Bank for North Carolina and $9,351,088 in compensation will be paid out. Information was that no discount varieties were planted this year," Whedbee continued. "Discount varieties proved to be a problem for tobaccoists last year." In addition extremely dry weather last year affected the growing

Class, Awards Night At Rose High School Friday

Class and Awards Night, first phase of Junius H. Rose High School's three-part commencement program, will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the high school gymnasium. The Class and Awards Night will include tributes and awards to outstanding members of the Class of 1958. It will be followed by Sunday's commencement sermon and Tuesday's graduation exercises, both of which will be held in the gymnasium also. Class President Edwards Buchanan will preside at the Awards Night ceremonies which will feature addresses by three student speakers selected on the basis of their academic standing in the 107-member class. Superintendent of Schools J. H. Rose will make awards presentations. The Rev. W. M. Howard will deliver the commencement sermon Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, using as his sermon topic, "Treasure Chest." Music will be by the school's mixed chorus and a trio composed of Ann Parkinson, Elizabeth White and Milly Bowden. Principal O. E. Dowd and Dr. E. B. Railroad Crossings On Dickinson And Tenth Are Being Smoothed Out By ACL

Bumpy railroad crossings at Dickinson Ave. and Tenth St. will soon be velvety smooth under the wheels of the hundreds of cars and trucks which thunder over them each day. Atlantic Coast Line workmen are now in the process of rebuilding the tracks at the Tenth St. crossing near the railroad station. When that is completed they will move over to the Dickinson Ave. crossing to re-work the tracks there. ACL Agent R. L. Martin said the jobs are a part of an overall project to rework the ACL lines through the entire city. We are rehabilitating all of the crossings through Greenville," the station agent declared. "We're putting them on rock ballast so they won't sag in the future and using a heavier 85 pound rails at all crossings. That will give them more stability." "Not only is this work being done at the crossings but we are putting rock ballast under the tracks all the way through Greenville to improve the appearance of the road beds between crossings." Martin explained that the tracks until now have rested on an earth bed. The ballast road bed is the same as that used under the ACL's main line. Martin said the railroad had received requests from City Manager Leonard Bloxam from time-to-time for improvement of various crossings. "Rather than work a crossing at a time it was decided we would rehabilitate the whole track," Martin continued. Actually the overall project was begun some time ago and the railroad's Fifth St. crossing has already been repaired in accordance with rehabilitation plans. "We have been working on this and toward this for the past 12 months," the agent noted. L. M. McRoy, road master from Tarboro, is in charge of the rehabilitation job in Greenville.

CROSSINGS REPAIRED . . . ACL rehabilitates lines through Greenville.

Observe Holiday, Closing Friday

The Greenville postoffice, Pitt County and state and federal offices will be closed tomorrow—Memorial Day. The banks and city offices will be open for business, as usual. County and state offices regularly close on Saturdays. Postmaster J. Knott Proctor said there would be no service on either city or rural routes. Parcel post, special delivery and perishable mail will be delivered as usual. Also there will be a collection from all mail boxes in the city beginning at 5 p.m.

Peggy Rose Nicholls Becomes Bride Of The Rev. Ziglar

FORT WORTH, Texas—Miss Peggy Rose Nicholls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ziglar of Charlotte, N. C., was united in marriage last night at 7:30 o'clock in the Robert Carr Chapel, Texas Christian University.

Officiating at the candlelight ceremony were Dr. Gentry A. Shelton, Associate Professor in the Department of Religious Education, Brite College of the Bible, and Dr. Travis A. White, President of Midwestern University, Wichita Falls, and president of Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, N. C., at the time the couple graduated.

To emphasize the beauty of the all white interior of the colonial chapel which features red carpeting, candelabras holding burning white tapers were placed on each side of the chancel and altar candles were burning. Massive arrangements of white gladioli and red carnations were placed behind the altar.

Nuptial music was rendered by

Charles Mull, organist, of Fort Worth and Leslie Wilkins of Wilson, N. C., who sang "O, Perfect Love," Mrs. Joseph Hardegree of Fort Worth sang "Let Us Break Bread Together" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Prelude music before the wedding consisted of "To A Wild Rose," "Entr'act Me Not To Leave Thee," and Grieg's "I Love Thee."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal-length gown of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle which was fashioned with a Sabrina neckline edged with scallops and appliques with Bridal beads and sequins. The lace bodice was traditionally fastened down the back with tiny self-covered buttons and the long lace sleeves ended in points over the hand and were styled with self-covered buttons.

Her bouffant skirt featuring wide panels of lace was made over layers of tulle and Bridal satin. The shoulder-length veil of imported illusion fell from an heirloom cap of Bridal beads.

The bride carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Mrs. Wilbur A. Ballenger, the former Miss Peggy Martin of Greenville, N. C., and now of Dallas, was matron of honor. Miss Jane Holtzclaw of Lawrence, Kansas, classmate of the bride and bridegroom at Brite College, served as maid of honor.

Both of the attendants' gowns were of white chiffon over white taffeta styled with fitted bodices and full skirt-length skirts. Each wore a red cummerbund which looped in back and picture hat trimmed with red velvet ribbon.

They carried three long stemmed red carnations tied with white streamers.

W. H. Ziglar, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Jack D. Roth of Dallas, William Robinson of Houston, and Charles Heyer of Houston, all classmates of the bridegroom, and Kenneth Rouse of Kingston, N. C., fraternity brother of the bridegroom.

To complete the red and white color scheme the ushers and best man wore white coats with black trousers and red carnation boutonnieres.

After being pronounced husband and wife, the couple partook of communion, administered by Dr. White, and Mrs. Hardegree sang "Let Us Break Bread Together." Dr. White then read a portion of Ruth 1-16-17 after which Mrs. Hardegree sang "The Wedding Prayer" as the benediction.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Nicholls wore an aqua lace street-length dress and a matching lace hat and a white carnation corsage.

The bridegroom's mother was styled in a baby blue lace dress with a scooped neckline trimmed in satin and styled with a full skirt. She completed her outfit with a matching hat, white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

For a wedding trip to the East Coast by way of New Orleans, La., the bride wore an apricot colored linen dress fashioned with a fitted bodice and a jacket trimmed with satin and inserted lace. She wore white accessories and the orchid lifted from her bouquet.

After June 15 the couple will reside in Richmond, Va. where the Rev. Ziglar will be Minister of Education at the Seventh Street Christian Church.

Mrs. Ziglar is a graduate of Greenville High School and Atlantic Christian College. She will receive her Masters' of Religious Education degree from Brite College of the Bible, T. C. U., on May 30.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Reynolds High School, Winston-Salem, N. C., and Atlantic Christian College. He will receive a Masters of Religious Education degree from Brite College May 30. He was listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in Weatherly Hall, Brite College of the Bible. Mrs. Frank Maddux greeted the guests and introduced them to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholls, Mr. and Mrs. Ziglar, the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. W. A. Ballenger and Miss Jane Holtzclaw.

The hall was decorated with arrangements of white gladioli and red carnations. On the bride's table the cake and punch were placed. This table was appointed with a candelabra and the attendants' bouquets. The bride's bouquet was placed on a table by the guest book where Mrs. Gentry A. Shelton presided.

Miss Nancy Black of Texarkana, Ark. cut the cake after the couple cut the first slice and Mrs. Jack Daniel Roth of Dallas served the punch. Mrs. James M. Moudy of Fort Worth and Mrs. Marguerite Glendenning of Wichita Falls assisted at the serving table.

A white satin and net cloth edged with white satin ribbons and bows covered the refreshment table where the white three-tiered wedding cake with red trim was placed to carry out the color scheme of the wedding.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Morgan McKinney of Kingston, N. C., Mrs. George H. Taylor of Pampa, Texas, Mrs. Kenneth Rouse of Fort Worth and Miss Dorothy Jo Garrett of Eastland, Texas.

Out-of-Town Guests

Out-of-town guests attending the Ziglar-Nicholls wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Nicholls and The Rev. Robert E. Lee and Tommy Lupton of Greenville, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ziglar of Charlotte, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Frank Jones, Miss Wanda Bell, and The Rev. Wilbur A. Ballenger of Dallas; Dr. and Mrs. Travis A. White, Miss Diana Sue White and Mrs. Marguerite Glendenning of Wichita Falls; Robert Farmer and Mrs. Gertrude Farmer of Devol, Okla.; The Rev. and Mrs. Claude Stinson, Mr. and Mrs. V. O. Kyle, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Roden, and Mrs. Lois McCoin and daughter Susan of Paris, Tex.; The Rev. Hap Lyda of Greenville, Tex.; The Rev. and Mrs. Gaither Day of Weatherford, Tex.; Mrs. J. A. Taylor of Winston-Salem, N. C.; and DeArmon Hunter of Greensboro, N. C.

Rehearsal Luncheon

The Ziglar-Nicholls wedding party was entertained yesterday at a rehearsal luncheon by Dr. and Mrs. Gentry A. Shelton at their home in Fort Worth.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Shelton and the bride couple and on arrival served tomato juice appetizers. A two-course luncheon was served. Goodbyes were said by the bride couple, the hostess and host, and the parents of the bride- and bridegroom-elect.

Pattern Shower

Mrs. Frank Maddux and Mrs. Thurman Morgan entertained Miss Nicholls at a pattern shower yesterday at the home of Mrs. Morgan in Fort Worth.

The home was decorated throughout with fresh bouquets of flowers. Mrs. Morgan and the bride-elect greeted the guests. Punch was served by Miss Dorothy Jo Garrett after guests were invited into the dining room by Mrs. E. D. Henson.

After the honoree opened her gifts, guests offered advice concerning her forthcoming marriage. Goodbyes were said by Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Maddux, and the bride-to-be.

Line Shower

Miss Dorothy Jo Garrett, roommate of Miss Nicholls, and Miss Ernestine Gilkin entertained the bride-elect at a line shower May 22 at the apartment of Miss Garrett.

Freshly cut flowers decorated the apartment. Guests were greeted by the hostesses and honoree and served fruit punch and accompaniments.

'Poppy Day' Set For Saturday

Memory of those who gave their lives in defense of America will be honored here on "Poppy Day," May 31, by the wearing of America's memorial flower, the bright red poppy.

Plans for the local observance of Poppy Day are being completed under the direction of Mrs. W. K. Whichard, Poppy Chairman of the Greenville Unit of American Legion Auxiliary. A large corps of volunteer workers is being organized to offer poppies on the streets throughout the day. Contributions will be received for the Auxiliary's work for disabled veterans and needy children of veterans. The poppies have been made by disabled veterans in hospitals and are crepe paper replicas of the wild European poppy, which bloomed in such profusion "between the crosses, row on row" in the battle cemeteries in France and Belgium.

This poppy was adopted by the American Legion and Auxiliary as the memorial flower for the World War I dead soon after the close of that war and now has become the flower of memory for all of America's war dead of all wars.

Mrs. Boone Feted With Farewell Tea

GRIFTON—Mrs. Kenneth Talton and Mrs. Kenneth Barnes entertained Thursday afternoon at a tea honoring Mrs. Douglas Boone who will be leaving soon to make their home in Old Hickory, Tenn.

The Talton residence was decorated for the occasion with arrangements of fruit and flowers.

Guests were greeted by the hostesses and the guest of honor, who was wearing for the occasion a white afternoon dress and a corsage of red carnations.

Mrs. Kenneth Wallenbaugh poured fruit punch from a milk white bowl which was placed on one end of an appointed refreshment table overlaid with a lace cloth and centered with candles in brass holders flanking a floral arrangement in shades of gold and bronze.

Party sandwiches, sweets, mints and nuts were served.

Lenny Heath Is Birthday Celebrant

BETHEL—Last Saturday Lenny Heath, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Heath, celebrated his fifth birthday with 15 boys and girls present.

Soon after the guests arrived they were invited to the table on which the decorated birthday cake was used as a centerpiece. After singing "Happy Birthday," cake, ice cream, nuts and mints were served. Each child received as favors a balloon, miniature gun and cup filled with nuts.

Mrs. McCotter Has Supper, Card Party

GRIFTON—Mrs. Louise J. McCotter had as guests for a bridge supper Friday night members of her contract club and additional players for four tables of bridge.

Red roses decorated the home throughout. The buffet table was covered with a red cloth overlaid with white net and held a low arrangement of red roses in clusters with red candles. A fried chicken supper followed by homemade cake was served.

High score prizes went to Mrs. Robert Mewborn, Mrs. W. I. Bissette and Mrs. Charles Stone.

HANDY TIP

Here's a handy tip—use inexpensive kitchen towels made of terrycloth. Because they quickly soak up lots of water, they are efficient for drying china, glassware, and silverware.

It will pay you to keep adequate supplies of two types of terries in the kitchen—one size or color for wiping dishes, and another size or color for wiping your hands. All can be kept sanitary by washing in hot soap or detergent suds—no ironing.

Less Than Half Will Cast A Vote?

It is an important day in any community when the people go to the polls to exercise their right of electing officials to their democratic government.

Saturday is such a day for the people of Pitt County. There are some over 21,000 registered voters in this county who will have the privilege of casting ballots for the candidates of their choice in Saturdays election. They will also have the responsibility to decide whether their county shall levy a special tax for the establishment of a county-wide industrial development commission.

At this moment no one can say for sure how many of the registered voters of the county will go to the polls. Estimates of veteran observers range from a low of 7,000 votes to a high of 10,000 votes. At best, therefore, the veterans are guessing that something less than half the registered voters of Pitt will take time to go to the polls Saturday. It could be that only a third of Pitt County's registered voters will go to the polls Saturday to help make the important decisions which face this county.

Each registered voter has a responsibility to himself and his fellow citizens to cast a ballot. His vote represents his opportunity to exercise a direct and effective voice in the affairs of government.

No citizen of Pitt County would willingly give up his or her right to vote. Why then should there be so much apathy toward going to the polls on election day?

No. 1 Interest Is In Education

By LYNN NISBET
INTEREST — The No. 1 interest of Mr. and Mrs. Average Tarheel is education of their boys and girls. The No. 2 interest is more adequate communication facilities—which includes roads, telephones, air and bus and rail transportation, newspapers, radio and television. The No. 3 interest seems to be easier living, which embraces desire for labor-saving gadgets and recreational facilities.

These three interests naturally can be consolidated into the one major concern for more money—both public and private income.

The foregoing conclusions stem from numerous interviews reported in newspapers throughout the state. There has been no comprehensive or detailed survey of sentiment. On several quickie visits into nearly all parts of the state and by watching for visitors to Raleigh, your reporter has talked to a lot of people. Local newspapers have reported interviews and public statements reflecting the views of candidates in many of the counties. Analysis of all these reports seems to justify the conclusions stated.

EDUCATION — Although majority of the legislative candidates say money problems will be the big trouble in the next General Assembly, a substantial number put the needs of the public schools first. Actually there isn't much difference, since education takes more than half of all State collected revenue.

More indicative of the primacy of interest in Schools is the fact that in many counties the hottest primary races are for nominations on the county board or for county commissioners. Significance of that situation lies in the fact that nomination for the board of education is not binding, but is "instructional" for the General Assembly which appoints the board members; and that in many of the heated county commissioner races the issues involved are directly related to allocations, appropriations and bond issues for schools. In several counties the legislative races are based on the question of whether or not the elected representative will honor the results of the instructional primary for board of education members.

Clerks of court, judges, sheriffs, and solicitors involved in primaries are running on records of efficiency in administration. Candidates for boards of education, county commissioners and the Legislature are running on basis of promises for the future in specific matters.

CONTROL — Almost as important—in some instances perhaps more important—as the amount of money to be available for public schools and what part of it will come from Federal, State or local sources, is the question of who will be responsible for handling the money. Will it be centrally controlled from Raleigh (or Washington) or will local government have more voice? If State control will be the Legislature or the Budget Bureau? If local government, will it be the county or the board of education? And, in counties with several school administrative units, which will dominate? In two or three instances scrapping among county commissioners, county and city school board is definitely an issue.

The rank and file of voting citizenship is not particularly interested in whether the Board of Trustees control the University. Mamas and papas and uncles and aunts are concerned about where control of the public schools is vested.

ROADS — A similar question of where control will be exercised is the major concern with respect to public roads. While there have been abortive attempts to combine highway and general fund revenue into one common pot, for the present North Carolina accepts the idea that the funds are separate and that the only money available for road work comes from the highway revenue sources—and that this money should not be used for anything else except roads. No real fight is expected on "integration" of funds.

At the same time, no one at all conversant with popular thinking can deny that there is conflict brewing as to allocation of highway revenue and who will control it. There is widespread feeling that the 1957 reorganization of the highway set-up took public road administration several steps further away from the people—and a lot of people don't like it. (It doesn't retard their criticism to remember that when main control was locally vested the locals didn't do a perfect job either.)

COMPOSITE — Schools and roads, representing education and communication, have always been the main desires of North Carolinians. Times without number the people of the whole state and in the counties and special tax districts have voted bonds and taxes for better roads and schools. In most instances when such bond issues have been defeated it has been because of lack of confidence in administration.

It appears now that the people are willing to pay whatever taxes may be necessary to support good schools and afford good roads—if they are assured that allocation and administration of the tax money will be fair and equitable.

The Daily Reflector urges the registered voters of Pitt County to make a special effort to go to the polls and cast their ballots for the candidates of their choice on Saturday. It is a privilege to be able to participate directly in naming the individuals who will hold public office. It is likewise a responsibility which each individual should discharge in the interest of better government.

Positive Step Should Be Followed By More

A positive step has been taken by the Civil Aeronautics Board in creating transcontinental super skyways to be used by both commercial and military aircraft.

The three skyways will not wholly answer the mounting problem of mid-air collisions and airplane accidents. It is, however, a positive step which has long been needed. Creation of the three super skyways, together with the ground control and flight interval regulations, will eliminate at least a small portion of the air traffic hazard.

With this as a beginning point, the CAB should move as rapidly as possible toward establishing a modern system of air traffic control to replace the antiquated system that has been in operation.

Military, commercial and private air travel has increased steadily over a long period of years. Every sign points to a continued increase in air traffic. Unless further steps are taken to provide an adequate air traffic control system, the number of accidents is bound to increase.

The CAB has taken a positive step. It should follow with other positive steps.

Progress Seems Slow, But It Is Progress

Failure of another Vanguard rocket to put a small satellite into orbit is further evidence the United States still has much work to do before it perfects a space vehicle upon which it can rely.

While this fact may be disturbing, it should not be surprising. It took more than two decades for the airplane of the Wright Brothers to be developed into a reliable flying machine. It took many years to develop the automobile from its infancy to a reliable piece of equipment. The same is true of the steam engine, electric power and other things we take for granted today.

Space vehicles are much more complicated than any of these things. Though our scientific and technical know-how has greatly advanced over the years, the problems which we are now tackling are much more difficult. They cannot be resolved in a few weeks or a few months.

While our progress may seem slow, we are making progress.

De Gaulle Not Telling Anything

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles de Gaulle has been so vague, or just confused, about what he'd do as French premier that his bid for power is like asking the French to buy a savior at midnight in a coalbin.

The French crisis—over his efforts to get into a spot to straighten things out—is one that has truly left the experts guessing if not gasping. And no wonder.

News that the Assembly had temporarily brushed De Gaulle aside early Wednesday—by voting confidence in Premier Pierre Pflimlin—had hardly cleared the wires in this country when a startling bulletin came rattling through.

This one said that Pflimlin, despite his victory in the Assembly, was thinking of quitting anyway. That could open the door wider for De Gaulle to become premier. But although Pflimlin submitted his resignation, it was rejected for the moment, and he agreed to continue in office until a new government is ready to take over.

The most notable feature of all the interpretations of the past two weeks — written or verbal — has been the lack of positiveness not only on whether De Gaulle could take or be given power again but what he'd do if he got it.

De Gaulle has wrapped himself in such a fog—first by his silence in recent years, and more lately by his fuzzy statements—that no one not in his inner councils could claim to know what he had in mind.

He's opened up twice in the past week: first at a news conference and then in a written statement issued yesterday. The words that came forth were so arrogant, pompous and vague that they looked mystical.

De Gaulle appears hypnotized—and so do his followers, or they pretend to be—by the memory that he was the rallying point for the demoralized French in World War II and could be again now.

In short, he's been asking the French to buy him on face value, without any clearly stated program, policy or proposed solution for the multiple dilemmas of the French republic which has seen its army in effect revolt.

For the French to buy him on those terms is really asking for trouble since they don't, and can't, know whether he has any solutions whether he could assert himself, or whether he'd be simply a front man and mouthpiece for the army.

And, since not all Frenchmen want to buy him at all, there's the prospect of civil war.

From the pomposity of his language it is clear De Gaulle has reached the point of considering himself a kind of historic monument: he talks of himself in the third person, as he might about the long-dead Joan of Arc.

To add to the confusion — not only in France but around the world — is not known: 1. Whether he would try to take France out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, an event which might wreck it for keeps. 2. What kind of agreement he might try to reach with the Soviet Union independently of France's Western allies. 3. What he'd do about suppressing the revolt of the Algerian Moslems, who want independence, or trying to work out some kind of settlement satisfactory to them.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
FEAR NOT

What is death? People have been asking this question through the ages. It is not possible to answer it with definiteness, but certain reflections can be made on the subject and the whole examined in the light of revealed truth.

Of one thing we can be sure—death is not the end of life. Every indication is that the universe is teeming with life, that life never ends — except in the case of the extremely and perversely wicked — but only changes its form. God is a living God, and quite certainly He does not create beings having personalities like His own, made in His image and after His likeness, only to destroy them, snuff them out of existence. Looked at entirely apart from religion, it appears certain that life persists beyond the grave.

But how? In a spiritual state. There is no indication that we ever come back to this world again, but what does happen to the soul immediately after death is not clearly set forth in the Bible nor capable of understanding by reason. But we are sure that God is love, that He has made us to be His, and that we and our loved ones are in His loving care.

Death is not to be feared. Particularly is the situation made divinely hopeful and death freed of all fear in the realization that our sins are forgiven through the grace of Jesus Christ. "Therefore, let us not fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be cast into the midst of the sea."

Error In The Timing

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The Poor Man's Philosopher:

If a man wants to find out how really dispensable he is, both at home and in the office, all he has to do is to come down with an out-of-season illness.

One of the arts of staying happy in this world is knowing when to fall ill, and when to stay healthy.

Illness at the right time, say in the dead of winter, lends a man stature in his community. This is the season to be sick, and people more or less respect you for it.

But a man who shows the bad grace to fall ill at the wrong time, say on the eve of summer, does so at his own peril. He is as lonely as a hippopotamus at the North Pole. He has violated one of the unwritten rules of civilized living.

Here is what happens: You might, for example, wake up with a bad sore throat.

Alerted to the fact that father has both feet firmly braced against death's door, mother and child make the patient as comfortable as possible. Then they abandon him to go off on a wild swing of end-of-the-year nursery school birthday parties.

You lie alone on your bed of pain and arise three dozen times a day to answer the phone and the door. It is the cleaner, door-to-door salesman, wrong number, the full-time boy's friend of the part-time maid.

The doctor says you should rest two days more but you dress yourself and totter into the office. Oh, duty!

There, overcome with your own sense of quiet heroism, you are greeted:

"How did you enjoy the fair in Brussels? You look pale, you know."

"Boy, what a night club tan! How is it in Havana?"

And the boss says: "Your vacation has done you a lot of good. It shows in your face. Where did you go?"

Moral: Never claim you feel bad when the sun shines on everybody else. Rain makes the audience.

Opinions In Brief

"A bill to protect the sovereignty and power of the states against encroachment by the federal government has been introduced by Rep. Howard W. Smith of Virginia. Noting the multitude of subjects with which Congress is now dealing, it is with reason and grave concern that Rep. Smith warns 'it is inevitable merely a question of time before the states will be deprived of practically all power and sovereignty in enactment and enforcement of laws for the protection of the health and welfare of their local citizens.'" —Boston Courier, Dorchester, Mass.

Pungent Words On 'Goof-Off Era'

By ELMER ROESSNER
One of the most talked-about speeches in the country today was made by neither President Eisenhower nor Vice President Nixon, but by Charles H. Brower, president of the Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborne advertising agency.

It's the one in which he said this is "the great era of the goof-off, the age of the half-done job. The land from coast to coast has been enjoying a stampede away from responsibility. It is populated by laundry men who won't iron shirts, waiters who won't serve, with carpenters who will come around some day maybe, with executives whose mind is on the golf course, with teachers who demand a single salary schedule so that achievement cannot be rewarded nor poor work punished, with students who take cinch courses because hard ones make them think, and the salesman who won't sell."

Not being able to run faster than a BBD&O publicity man, your correspondent has obtained a complete text of Mr. Brower's talk, as delivered before a convention of the National Sales executives.

No Sugar Pills

By EVERETTE PARKER

A Woman's Sack Report

The late Christian Dior, undoubtedly one of the greatest designers of woman's fashions the world has ever known, tried the flat look and admittedly failed to please the discriminating tastes of the unpredictable female race.

Now some of those Paris designers are trying to make their place in the sun with the "sack" and "chemise" look. There is little doubt in my mind that they will fail eventually. Before they do however there will be many men, notably husbands, who will suddenly wake up one morning with a houseful of sack dresses and a fistful of bills, not to mention the unpleasantness of having to watch their woman parade up and down in these new "costumes".

In the past it has been taken for granted by the male that women dress to please the opposite sex. First of all Dior disproved this popular belief. Despite the radical change there were still some men who stood firm to the ideas their fathers handed down.

The "sack look" has at least accomplished one thing. It has converted the disbelievers who have now joined the ranks of the many who gaze upon the new look with wondering eyes, a dry taste in their mouths and in many cases somewhat poorer. One newspaperwoman has put her finger squarely on the whole idea of trying to make women look ridiculous. Boy Taylor of the S. Press Association, quotes Onelia Fisher of the West Branch (Iowa) Times as saying women will wear anything that is supposed to come from the fashion world of Paris and that the new look was dreamed up by a bunch of so-called men in France who hate women.

"This may be my last column," Mrs. Fisher wrote. "Any day now the man may come to take me away. The man in the white coat, that is."

"You see I bought one of those dresses. I didn't intend to. There's been so much publicity about the 'sack' and the 'chemise' that an earlier yen to own one had faded. But the dress shop advertised a sale, so I dropped in. Just to look, mind you."

"Now you read and hear a lot about what people—mostly—think of the 'chemise.' Women, too, are pretty opinionated. But it's like flying saucers and the abominable snowman. None of it is 'first hand'."

"Here then, is a first hand report from one who wore one.

Not very far, but she wore one. I . . . I donned my sack and headed for the post office, half a block away—a two-minute walk.

"Now if you're timid and shy and starved for attention, here's the way to get it.

"Bobby rode his bike head-on into a fire hydrant. Mr. Smith left his car in reverse and backed into the bread truck. Mrs. Brown dropped a two-quart bottle of milk. The Mayor ran a stop sign. Mr. Brown mowed a path through their tulips. A screaming toddler hushed in the middle of a scream and three ladies headed for the Lodge hall turned in the barber shop by mistake.

"A young squirrel fell out of the tree at the corner, but I think that was just a coincidence.

"All this before I reach the post office!

"There, people asked for three two-cent stamps when they meant two three-cent stamps and a fellow said he wanted to look at a money-order. . . ."

At a time like this it is sometimes hard for a man to stand by those wedding vows, "for better or worse." Anyway divorce is more expensive than those sack dresses. I think!

Other Editors Saying --- Truce At Little Rock

(Henderson Dispatch)
People in Little Rock feel that nothing has been settled permanently as to integration in their high school, although nine Negro boys and girls attended classes there the past year. There is a feeling that it was a wasted year, according to a survey by the U. S. News and World Report, that there is more racial tension than ever and that integration seems impossible.

This, of course, is what happens when force is employed. It is the product of a very ill-advised and futile move by President Eisenhower to enforce a decision of the U. S. Supreme Court after he had said he would never use Federal troops for that purpose. But he did use them, and more than that he impressed the Arkansas National Guard into Federal service, and there is a feeling that this was done to deprive the governor of the opportunity to call upon them if he felt they were needed.

Cost of keeping Federal troops at Little Rock for nine months is estimated at nearly five million dollars, or enough money to build two new high schools the size of Central high. Boys in the National Guard lost their jobs, or if from the farm, have been kept away too long now to plant crops for the year. The government probably will make no effort to compensate them for these economic losses, and if it did this would increase the cost of the futile move by the President.

Little Rock people, or many of them, are said to feel that if Negroes return to Central high next September Federal troops will have to come back to protect them. The school board is petitioning the Federal court to call off the experiment until January, 1961. "The existing pupil unrest, teacher unrest and parent unrest make it difficult for the district to maintain its satisfactory educational program," the petition stated, adding: "A small group (of students) with the encouragement of certain adults has almost daily created incidents which make it exceedingly difficult for teachers to teach and pupils to learn."

The State president of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People in Arkansas said that if the Negro children were to go back "we are ready to help them," but that they "would have to make up their own minds. I won't urge them to go, not after what they have been through."

Governor Faubus is running for reelection for a third term, with every indication that he will win. And if he does he plans to call the State Legislature into special session and ask it to pass a law closing any school where Federal troops are used to enforce integration.

It all boils down to the fact that you cannot legislate theories into people's minds. And the current impasse has all the earmarks of a situation wherein, with Federal troops removed at the close of the term, this is only a truce in the struggle. Eisenhower's reversal of position, at the behest of prejudiced advisers, may have won this battle, but he hasn't won the war in finally by any means. Right or wrong, the integration problem is far from settled.

Chatham Speaker Says, 'Mental Illness No 1 Problem Today'

Dr. Ralph Westmorland, when addressing the Chatham Book Club at their final meeting of the year, noted that psychiatrists feel that mental illness is the number one problem in America today.

"One American out of every ten will need psychiatric help during the next year. More is being learned every day about the great need for mental clinics, such as the excellent one here in Greenville, to make it possible for patients to get early treatment," said Dr. Westmorland.

He explained, "Three out of four of the mentally ill can be released in six months from the hospital, if they come during the early stages. Today mental hospitals in the United States care for 3-4 million patients. Many more need to be admitted, but only for extreme cases can a place usually be found unless the patient goes to a private clinic."

One of the biggest problems in North Carolina with its 13,700 patients is the cost to help them recover. "Only one out of 100 patients is able to pay the approximately $30 per day in a private hospital, leaving the rest to the State to pay for at about $3 per day per patient," he pointed out.

Dr. Westmorland stressed the urgent need of more money for better treatment and early diagnosis. "The public must be educated to the fact that mental and emotional problems are a disease and not a disgrace."

The speaker, a professor at Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, is a noted psychiatrist as well as Chaplain of Eastern Carolina TB Sanatorium.

The club's final meeting was held at the home of the retiring president, Mrs. C. E. Blair, on Holly Street.

A salad course and coffee were served before the president for the coming year, Mrs. L. H. Bowling, made a short address and asked for the cooperation of the members when the new year starts in the fall.

Humber Teaches Lesson For Credit Women's Club

Dr. Robert Lee Humber taught the fourth lesson of the Annual Credit Study Course to members of the Credit Women's Breakfast Club, their sponsors, and bosses when he met with them Saturday morning at their regular breakfast meetings.

Dr. Humber's topic was "Building Today With Good Supervision For Tomorrow." "The four major areas that go to make up the business operation in the commercial world," he said, "are Money, Materials, Machines and Men. Of these four, we could produce money, materials and machines of the quality and quantity according to our needs so they pose no particular problem.

"But men," he pointed out, "give us the most concern because they are human and therefore require individual study and analysis to understand their basic needs in order to achieve the required production from them for smooth commercial progress."

With clarity and force, Dr. Humber outlined the necessity of good supervision and developed six specific points a supervisor could apply after he took into consideration and understood the needs of people working under his direction. Mrs. Polly Dell, educational chairman in charge of the program, introduced the speaker and after completion of the lesson, thanked him for his presentation with a gift of appreciation from the Club.

President Emma Lee Schmidt presided at the meeting, and presented the Club with a check from State President Beulah Sullivan for winning her President's Project, "Club Unity", at the recent State Annual Convention in Raleigh May 18-20. The Club voted to donate the award check to their Scholarship Fund for a Business Major at East Carolina College.

CHAPTER 21
 "I have that strange feeling that Granddad is dead but he is not gone," the diary of George Cadott read. "I slept only for about an hour, and wakened with a start. I broke into a cold sweat. There was the feeling that Granddad had been bending over the bed, his eyes regarding me with steady insistence."
 The next day the entry read: "The will was read today. It was as we thought. Nothing for the nurse Hortense. She wasn't there, of course, but I understand she made some excuse to ring up the attorneys and ask some question—probably just for the purpose of giving them an opportunity to let her know if Granddad had mentioned her in the will. She didn't have time to get her books into him. I realize now how accurate C. was in her appraisal."
 I skimmed along through the diary after that. There were entries showing a peculiar change in George Cadott. One entry said: "I have learned now that the only thing which will purge the soul is alonement. It is interesting to note the way this word is put together. At-one-ment. It is a comforting thought to feel that those of us who have erred can furnish the inspiration and the guiding power to keep the feet of others on the path. I have a certain amount of security, of financial independence. I am going to dedicate my life to At-one-ment."
 Six months after his grandfather's death, and after a series of entries which showed George Cadott was rapidly becoming a mental case, there was a single entry: "Lois tells me she wants a divorce. This is the end."
 There were no further entries after that.
 By the time I had finished with the diary, the plane was coming down for Reno. I put Cadott's keys in my pocket, put the other papers in the brief case. I took a taxi-cab to the Riverside Hotel, went to the bell captain and said, "Give me a check for this, will you?"

He gave me a storage check for the brief case. I handed him a silver dollar, put the check in the leather sweatband of my hat, then took a cab back to the airport.
 The plane I had taken was a big Convair that made a round-trip flight, and I only had ten minutes at the airport to call Bertha Cool on long distance.
 "What in blazes are you doing in Reno, Donald Lam?" Bertha demanded.
 "Keeping under cover," I said.
 "Well climb out into the open," she told me. "You're having visitors."
 "Who?"
 "The Fishers."
 "Where?"
 "San Francisco. Where the devil do you suppose?"
 "What's up?"
 "Everything. I've been trying to get you on the telephone. Minerva got her letter from Cadott, that cockeyed mental case in San Francisco, and she put Barclay on the grid. He cracked his knuckles and blurted out the whole story. They're going to San Francisco to talk with you."
 "When?"
 "They left the office about an hour ago."
 "What kind of a woman is she?" I asked.
 "One of the long-suffering kind, patient, sweet, motherly—the kind that always gets the worst of it and doesn't resent it. She picks up his cross and carries on. She never lost her temper in her life."
 "Not even when she heard that Barclay had spent the night in Lois Marlow's apartment?"
 "You got her wrong," Bertha said. "She isn't angry. She's disillusioned. She has high moral principles. She could never forgive infidelity. If Barclay is telling the truth, that's one thing. But if he has deliberately deceived her, that is something else. She will place the matter in the hands of an attorney."
 "How did it happen she got the letter?" I asked. "I thought Barclay was going to intercept it."

 "That's what he thought. He bungled it. He would."
 "Okay," I said. "I wanted to keep under cover for a while until things blew over. But I guess I'd better get back. I'll be in San Francisco within an hour and a half."
 The plane arrived on time. I boarded a limousine, got off at the St. Francis Hotel and walked over to the hotel where I was staying.
 Barclay Fisher and his wife were there ahead of me.
 Barclay jumped up as I entered the lobby. "There he is! There he is, Minerva," he said.
 A rather heavy-set, matronly woman gave me a benevolent smile.
 Barclay Fisher performed the introductions. "Minerva, my wife, Mr. Lam. This is Donald Lam, Minerva. I've told you about him. He can tell you exactly what happened."
 I went over to the desk and got my key. There were no messages. "Want to come up?" I asked.
 They nodded and we all crowded into the rattling elevator. I could have talked a lot better on the mezzanine, but I wanted the extra time to size Minerva up and see the best approach to the situation.
 Planning an approach was a waste of time.
 As soon as the door closed behind us, Minerva appropriated the only comfortable chair in the room, looked at me and said, "I want the whole story; the whole story, Mr. Lam. I also want to explain to you that I am a woman of principle. There is a sharp line of demarcation between right and wrong. I married Barclay for better or worse. I might be able to tolerate a certain minor deception; but I cannot forgive infidelity."
 "No one's asking you to, dear," Barclay Fisher said, giving the middle knuckle of his right hand a crack which sounded like the pop of a pistol.
 Minerva somehow had the manner of a schoolteacher patiently rebuking a pupil for throwing spitballs, and making him feel lower than a snake's belly.
 She brought back my days in school. I had to fight back an impulse to say, "Yes, ma'am."
 I said, "You're dealing with a mental case, Mrs. Fisher."
 "In what way?"
 "George Cadott," I said, "who wrote that letter, was suffering from some sort of a guilt complex. He had the idea he wanted to save the world by abolishing evil."
 She didn't bat an eyelash. "That could be a very laudable ambition. I want to talk with Mr. Cadott."
 "You can't," I said.
 Her chin came up. "I see no reason why I can't, Mr. Lam. I have heard Barclay's side of the story. I want to hear Miss Marlow's side of the story, and I want to hear George Cadott's side of

Outing Plagued By Misfortune

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Bo England and Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Stone set out on a camping-fishing trip to Lake Brownwood.
 In the first 28 miles of the 500-mile round trip they ruined a new tire.
 Fifty yards from their favorite fishing spot their boat trailer, rear car bumper and trailer hitch pulled loose.
 They dragged the boat trailer to the lake edge and as a precaution tied the trailer's hoisting cable to a tree. One of the men slipped and fell and boat and trailer rolled into the lake.
 The cable held, but the boat came off the trailer and sank in 30 feet of water.
 They recovered the boat hours later.
 As England drove to Brownwood, Tex., to get the bumper and hitch fixed, a state highway patrolman arrested him because he didn't have a rear license plate. It was on the bumper which had come loose.
 They finally got out on the water by 1:30 p. m. the following day.
 Then a 3-inch rain hit them. They bailed and bailed and finally made shore.
 A wind blew their tent down and all their bedding and gear were soaked by the rain.
 England contracted pneumonia. En route home they had five flat tires.
 Any fish? Not even a nibble.

Iron Lung Boy Is Serenaded By All-Girl Band

NEW YORK (AP) — Clyde Garnett, 13, who has spent most of the last eight years in an iron lung, was serenaded yesterday on the lawn of his home by a 52-piece girl band.
 The Long Island Star-Herald carried stories about Clyde, who resides in Bayside Hills, Queens. A neighbor, M. Sgt. Albert J. Fallon, reading the stories, learned that Clyde loves music.
 The WAF band from Morton Air Force Base, San Bernardino, Calif. was in New York. Fallon made arrangements.
 Clyde, placed in a portable respirator, immensely enjoyed the 45-minute concert. He murmured: "Thank you very much."
 Throughout the concert the boy's three fingers kept up a constant tapping. Clyde is paralyzed, and the fingers are the only parts of his arms and legs that he can move.

One Of The Most Famous Stories Of The Unknown Soldier Is Read Again

EDITOR'S NOTE—Tomorrow in Arlington National Cemetery two unknown American servicemen will be buried. These men, who lost their lives in World War II and the Korean War, will join the Unknown Soldier of World War I, who has been alone in the memorial since Nov. 11, 1921.

On that day more than 36 years ago, one of the most famous news stories of all time was written by Kirke L. Simpson, then a member of the Washington staff of The Associated Press. A major portion of his Pulitzer Prize-winning account is reproduced below.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11, 1921—(By The Associated Press)—Under the wide and starry skies of his own homeland, America's unknown dead from France sleeps tonight, a soldier home from the wars.

Alone, he lies in the narrow cell of stone that guards his body; but his soul has entered into the spirit that is America. Wherever liberty is held close in men's hearts, the honor and the glory and the pledge of high endeavor poured out over this nameless one of fame, will be told and sung by Americans for all time.

of the memorial raised to American soldier and sailor dead, everywhere, which stands like a monument behind his tomb, runs this legend: "We here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain."

The words were spoken by the martyred Lincoln over the dead at Gettysburg. And today with voice strong with determination and ringing with deep emotion, another President echoed that high resolve over the coffin of the soldier who died for the flag in France.

Great men in the world's affairs heard that high purpose reiterated by the man who stands at the head of the American people. Tomorrow they will gather in the city that stands almost in the shadow of the new American shrine of liberty dedicated today. They will talk of peace; and of the curbing of the havoc of war.

They will speak of the war in France, that robbed this soldier of life and name and brought death to comrades of all nations by the hundreds of thousands. And in their ears when they meet with President Harding's declaration today beside that flag-wrapped, honor-laden bier: "There must be, there shall be, the commanding voice of a conscious civilization against armed warfare."

All day long the nation poured out its heart in pride and glory for the nameless American. Before the first crash of the minute guns roared its knell for the dead from the shadow of the Washington monument, the people who claim him as their own were trooping out to do him honor.

They lined the long road from the Capitol to the hillside where he sleeps tonight; they flowed like a tide over the slopes about his burial place. They choked the bridges that lead across the river to the fields of the brave, in which he is the last comrade.

Soldiers, sailors and marines—all played their part in the thrilling spectacle as the casket rolled along. And just behind the casket, with its faded French flowers on the draped flag, walked the President, the chosen leader of a hundred million, in whose name he was chief mourner at his bier. Beside him strode the man under whom the fallen hero had lived and died in France, Gen. Pershing, wearing only the single medal of victory that every American soldier might wear as his only decoration.

Behind came the carriage in which rode Woodrow Wilson, also stricken down by infirmities as he served in the highest place of the nation, just as the humble private riding in such state ahead had gone down before a shell or bullet. For that dead man's sake, the former President had put aside his physical weakness and risked health, perhaps life, to appear among the mourners for the fallen.

After President Harding and most of the high dignitaries of the government had turned aside at the White House, the procession, headed by its solid blocks of soldiery and the battalions of sailor comrades, moved on with Pershing, now flanked by Secretaries Weeks and Denby, for the long road to the tomb.

Ahead, the white marble of the amphitheater gleamed through the trees. People in thousands were moving about the great circle. Down below the platform placed for the casket, in a stone vault, lay wreaths and garlands. Above the platform gathered men whose names ring through history—Briand, Poch, Beatty, Balfour, Jacques, Diaz and others—in a brilliant array of place and power. They were followed by notables from all countries gathered here for tomorrow's conference, and by some of the older figures in American life too old to walk beside the approaching funeral train.

At the arch where the choir waited the heroic dead, comrades lifted his casket down and, followed by the generals and the admirals, who had walked beside him from the Capitol, he was carried to the place of honor. Ahead, chanting solemnly, carefully the casket was placed above the banked flowers and the Marine band played sacred melodies until the moment the President and Mrs. Harding stepped to their places beside the casket.

Mr. Harding showed strong emotion as his lips formed the last words of the address. He paused, then with raised hand and head bowed, went on in the measured, rolling periods of the Lord's Prayer. The response that came back to him from the thousands he faced, from the other thousands out over the slopes beyond, arose like a chant. The marble arches hummed with the solemn sound.

Then the foreign officers who stand highest among the soldiers or sailors of their flags came one by one to the bier to place gold and jeweled emblems for the brave above the breast of the sleeper. Already, as the great prayer ended, the President had set the American seal of admiration for the valiant, the nation's love for brave deeds and the courage that defies death, upon the casket. Side by side he laid the Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross.

The casket, with its weight of honors, was lowered into the crypt. A rocking blast of gunfire rang from the woods. The glittering circle of bayonets stiffened to a salute to the dead. Again the guns shouted their message of honor and farewell. Again they boomed out: a loyal comrade was being laid to his last, long rest. High and clear and true in the echoes of the guns, a bugle lifted the old, old notes of taps, the lul-

Millions Gas Up For Weekend

CHICAGO (AP)—Millions of motorists gassed up their cars today for the first long weekend of 1958.

By tradition Memorial Day marks the opening of the summer vacation and touring season. Rates at motels and resorts go up. Gift and souvenir shop operators take down the shutters and move in stock left over from their winter resort branches.

Tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday the highways will be glutted with cars towing trailers laden with cottage furnishings, watercraft and camping equipment.

They also will be packed with motorists in a big urban-rural switch. Country folk drive to the city to see big league baseball or horse races. City folk trade places by touring the blacktops to admire fruit tree blossoms and possibly see a horse that has not been retired by a tractor.

Early starters in the big drive will take off when schools, offices and factories close this afternoon. The National Safety Council reckons the holiday driving will start in force at 6 p.m. local time and continue until midnight Sunday.

During this period, the council estimates, 350 persons will be killed in the heavy traffic. Such a toll would be about 50 more than on an ordinary Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Wreath Conveys Tribute To All

RINDGE, N. M. (AP)—A wreath from President Eisenhower at the Altar of the Nation, in the Cathedral of the Pines, will convey his tribute on Memorial Day to all America's war dead, military and civilian, in all the nation's wars.

This will be the sixth successive year the President's tribute will have been sent to the altar in this nonsectarian place of worship on a pine-clad hilltop. Congress has memorialized the altar as a national memorial for men and women who have laid down their lives, whether in battle, or on merchant ships, in factories or as civilians in war service.

In the afternoon services in the "cathedral," overlooking a panorama of lakes and forests, Rear Adm. Cornelius A. Brinkmann, USN, Rt., will read the President's tribute.

Further tributes from the governors of the 48 states and the six territories will be placed at the altar. Beside them will be laid a wreath from President George Meany on behalf of the 15 million members of the AFL-CIO recalling the sacrifices of men and women producing the snows of war.

AERIAL SPOTTERS
RENO (AP)—The state highway patrol has announced it will use airplanes for the first time in spotting traffic violations on highways leading to Reno during the Memorial Day weekend.

ECC Summer School Term Expected See Big Enrollment

Advance registrations and inquiries about the 1958 Summer School session at East Carolina College indicate an increase in registration above that of previous seasons.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, vice-president and dean of the college, is Director of the ECC Summer School. A faculty of more than 100 professors will conduct the 16 departments. In addition there will be guest lecturers and consultants appearing on the programs of 13 workshops, nine conferences and clinics, the Music Camp, and the Travel-Study tour.

Registration begins Monday, June 2, with classwork scheduled for Tuesday morning. Classes will be held daily Monday through Friday and for three Saturdays of the first term which continues through July 8. The second term of five-and-a-half weeks will begin July 9 and run through August 15. Two Saturday sessions will be held during the second half.

The Summer quarter is an integral part of the academic year at East Carolina College and is included in the schedule of many college students who have set for themselves an accelerated program of college training, thus completing a 4-year college course in three calendar years.

Workshops up for the first summer term are: Arts and Crafts, June 2-13; Improvement of Instruction in Secretarial Science, June 2-13; Alcoholism in Health Education, June 3-13; Reading in Elementary Schools, June 3-13; Principles of Guidance, June 14-25; Teaching Music in Elementary School, June 15-26; Improvement of Instruction in Basic Business, June 23-July 4; Family Problems, June 25-July 8.

During the second term the workshops set up include: Literature for Children, July 10-22; Family Life Skills, July 10-23; Visual Aids, July 28-Aug. 8; Dramatic Arts, July 28-Aug. 8; Kindergarten Teachers, August 4-8.

Conferences and Clinics will open with a Summer Reading Clinic, running from June 2 through July 8. The Football and Baseball Clinic is set for June 12 and 13. One-day conferences include: Improvement of Guidance Services in the Public Schools, June 13; Improvement of Instruction in Elementary School Science, June 18; Supervision, Administration and Teaching, June 23; Family Life Education in the Public Schools, June 24; 12th Annual English Institute of Northeastern District, July 1; Improvement of Reading in the Public Schools, July 2.

The Industrial Arts in the Public Schools will be held July 4. Four swimming classes of two-week duration are to be conducted by the Health and Physical Education Department on these dates: June 3-18; June 19-July 7; July 10-26; July 28-Aug. 14.

The Summer Music Camp dates are July 13-26; and the Travel-Study Tour through the Eastern United States and Eastern Canada will operate 24 days: from July 14 through Aug. 6.

Keep Eye On Helpful Friend In Buying Boat

CRITICAL NOTE: The following is sheer treachery. The day before it was written, I boistered the U. S. boating boom by buying one of the nation's 4,000-000 small boats. My friend & Amateur Expert in the deal was Joe Wing. It was Joe who sold me on the typical joys of sailing. It was Joe who whispered at the moment of decision, "Buy it." And the next day Joe wrote this piece. Now he tells me! If you get in on the boating boom, maybe you will be luckier — or have better friends — than I.

Saul Pett

By JOE WING

AP Newsfeatures
In buying a boat it's best to make reasonably certain that the ever present Helpful Friend & Amateur Expert is not a brother-in-law of the seller.

Whatever his other qualifications, Helpful Friend will qualify in stock a knowing look, a vocabulary of such phrases as "seems a bit hogged," and a tool kit consisting of a jackknife with a 3-inch blade.

The latter he uses to probe the boat's various discolored spots, which he pronounces "somewhat soft."

You find however that those are the only soft spots in the setup. In particular, the price is firm. Despite that your friend stammers "buy it," and you begin to wonder whether he and the seller are absolute strangers after all.

So you buy the scow called "Dixie Belle." (If it had four wheels you'd call it a wreck.) Between you and the joys of the open sea, where automobiles never speed and telephones never ring, there exists only a weekend of relaxing preparatory chores. At least that's what the seller said.

But now second thoughts arise, and bits of second hand information drift your way. Not of course from your friend. He's washed his hands of the whole business and refuses to take any responsibility whatsoever.

It develops that the topsides, which are differentiated from the bottom side by a complicated color scheme, should be taken down to the wood. By whom? One guess. Also that five varieties of marine paint are required and that marine paint comes from a marine hardware store which employs in its calculations a silver scale and weights of gold.

Four weekends later you dab a final bit of seam compound into seams that gape wider and wider under a heartless sun and make ready to launch.

For that maneuver, your friend of yore once remarked, "Just rent a trailer." Now it comes out that trailers rent for $5 an hour at this time of year, when you can locate one that isn't busy. Also that attaching a trailer to your car raises in your mind vague doubts, which you hesitate to investigate further, about the validity of your insurance policy.

You discover it's easy to drive a trailer, once rented, to a boat, but that you can't make "Dixie Belle" take readily to the drink. Was this craft supposed to be only 14 feet long, or is it the Queen Mary incognito?

The solution is additional help. You get on the phone, start making wild promises about fishing and sailing expeditions to come, and assemble at least a crew more innocent than yourself. Meantime the rental timeclock has clicked up another 10 bucks.

You don't bring along a bottle of champagne but somehow you expect at least a flourish of trumpets when the good sloop "Dixie Belle" slides into the water. The trouble with "Dixie Belle" is that she doesn't know when to stop sliding. That seam compound must have been made out of soft soap. Water spurts through a score of gaps and you find that you can see daylight through some of them.

By this time the "Dixie Belle" has floated 20 feet from shore, with you in it. "She's sinking," you yell.

"Better start balling," remarks the most helpful of your crew. Just as you begin to wonder whether it's still de rigueur for a captain to go down with his ship, "Dixie Belle" hits bottom and you wade ashore. Why didn't somebody tell you that seawater in May is still cold enough to refrigerate clams?

Inside of a week, against all expectations, the seams swell up and, since someone had the forethought to tie "Dixie Belle" to the dock while you wrung out your pants behind the seawall, you are in a position to luxuriate in your first sail. This is the moment you have waited for.

Appealing once more to your original Helpful Friend, with whom you doubtless should let bygones be merely old grudges, you get a quick briefing on a few of the more essential terms like "tack" and "come about" and the difference between "jibe" and "jibe."

But out there all alone, 200 yards from shore this time instead of 20 feet, the wind whips over from starboard to port and catches you with your mainsail up when it probably should have been down.

Why did the Coast Guard let you out in a gale like this? Helpful Friend certainly never mentioned whitecaps in his 10-minute instruction. And how the heck do you haul on a sheet (or did he say halyard) when the floor tips up like the roof of a church steeple? You remember it's been 15 years since you got the Boy Scout merit badge in swimming.

In spite of everything you can do, "Dixie Belle" refuses to capsize and, instead, noses up into the wind. As the deck levels off, you seize the glad moment to lower the sails, and start paddling back to land.

Cheer up, sailor, the summer isn't half over. And ahead lie long, lazy hours and dozens of little incidents you'll always remember — including three groundings, a couple of becalmings, and the time your best girl stepped on the rail as if "Dixie Belle" were a dock instead of a few planks and scraps of metal in an ever precarious and unpredictable state of equilibrium.

Old Grads Look Back On Working Ways

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—"Now a man gets married and his wife works his way through college."

That was the comment of an I-remember-when alumnus from the Class of 1933, back swapping hard luck stories of the days when a man worked his own way through college.

"It used to be that we didn't have enough money on hand to take a date down to the drug store. But nowadays students have the wherewithal for heavier investment in courting."

"They have cars, spending money—even help from home so they can get married and raise a family. We didn't give wedding bells a second thought in those days."

The 33'ers are engaged with 38'ers in discussing who had it tougher. Both are here for reunions in connection with the commencement program.

Said one 1933er, "We were the real depression class, and we have the scars to prove it." "Why I was so hard up," said another, "that my pants were patched, and once I had to wait six weeks before I could save money to get my shoes half-sole'd."

Mustering Out Day For Guard

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The last 412 Arkansas National Guardsmen federalized for integration duty at Central High School will be mustered out today at Camp Robinson near here.

But not all of them will be going home. Maj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger, state adjutant, said that about a fourth of the last contingent had signed up for the regular Army and would be eligible for a $1,800 re-enlistment bonus.

To keep the rocks from cutting my feet I had to put paste board on the bottom of each shoe."

A class of 1938 spokesmen countered with, "They are trying to talk pore mouth, but we in the class of 1938 were just as hard up as those in the class of 1933—more so in fact."

In all, there will be 10 reunions beginning with the Class of 1933 and concluding with the Class of 1953.

President James Webb of the General Alumni Assn. will preside at the annual alumni luncheon Monday afternoon. Tom W. Alexander of Raleigh, Class of 1932, will be installed as president from 1958-59.

Graduation exercises will be at 7 p.m. Monday in Kenan Stadium. Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review will deliver the commencement address, and UNC President William C. Friday will confer the degrees.

Panty Raid Got Out Of Control

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Authorities broke out tear gas and fire hoses and turned them on boisterous University of Georgia students last night after a panty raid got out of hand.

"We had to disperse them," Police Chief J. H. Porterfield said. "They just got out of hand. We got the fire department out to wet 'em down, and had to use a little tear gas."

The chief said between 2,000 and 3,000 students were milling around at the height of the trouble. He said he arrested 8 or 10.

Porterfield said none of the boys got into the girls' dormitories. When officers and school officials balked them, some of them became boisterous and started throwing rocks and bottles.

Argued Politics, Ended Shooting

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—A political argument at a ball game erupted into gunfire last night and one of two men who had "stepped outside" to settle the dispute was shot in both legs.

Dewey Tom, 60, a U. S. customs inspector, was jailed for investigation of assault with intent to murder.

Samuel Murff, 52, superintendent of a cotton compress firm, was hospitalized with bullet wounds in both legs.

Riley Attaway said he was sitting in the same box with the two men during the Texas League baseball game between Corpus Christi and San Antonio.

Attaway said the two were arguing politics. He said Tom was a strong supporter of U. S. Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) and that his name was mentioned in the argument.

Tom and Muff left the box with the intention of going outside to settle the argument, Attaway said.

Attaway said he and another man followed in hopes they could stop the argument, but didn't catch up with the men in time.

Officer L. R. Fain quoted witnesses as saying Tom fell as the two wrestled behind the stands. Tom drew his pistol and fired.

Fain said Tom handed his gun over to him and surrendered.

Wheat Crop Referendum Is Set For Friday, June 20

Friday June 20 is the date when growers will determine how they want to market their 1959 wheat crop, J. L. Edwards, chairman of the Pitt County ASC Committee reminded farmers today.

Farmers eligible to vote in the June 20 referendum are those growers who will share in the 1959 wheat crop from a farm on which the wheat acreage to be harvested, plus any acreage to be placed in the Soil Bank's wheat Acreage Reserve, will be more than 15 acres.

Edwards emphasized that the vote is on wheat marketing quotas and not wheat allotments. Acreage allotments will remain in effect as a condition of eligibility for price support at the 50 per cent of parity rate required by law when quotas are disapproved. This will be the sixth successive year that acreage allotments and marketing quotas for wheat have been proclaimed. Marketing quotas have been approved by growers voting in a referendum for the past five wheat crops. Their sixth such decision in as many years will be made on June 20.

If more than one-third of the growers voting disapprove quotas, the quotas will not be in effect and the available price supports on the 1959 wheat crop to those who comply with farm wheat acreage allotments will be at 50 per cent of parity.

When marketing quotas are in effect, growers who exceed their farm wheat acreage allotments will be subject to marketing quota penalties if they have more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest, according to Edwards. This penalty will be equal to 45 per cent of the May 1, 1959 parity price for wheat.

Reservists May Operate Bomarc

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The Air Force disclosed tentative plans today to operate Bomarc guided missile sites with Air National Guard or Air Force Reserve units.

Lt. Gen. William E. Hall, chief of the Continental Air Command which supervises reserve activities, said the character of interceptor missiles may be such that the sites could better be manned by reservists than by regulars.

Hall said, in a report prepared for delivery to the Aviation Writers Assn. annual meeting, that interceptor missiles such as the new 400-mile Bomarc actually may never have to be fired. Thus, he said, the essential part of manning the sites may become one of maintenance — for periods of months or years.

"It is entirely possible that there will be psychological factors concerning such an operation that can better be met by reservists than by members of the active force," Hall said.

A May 6 memorandum from the office of Gen. Curtis LeMay, Air Force vice chief of staff, ordered an investigation into the possible use of Air Reserve technicians in the Bomarc program.

Report Killing 31 Cuban Rebels

HAVANA (AP)—The Cuban army reports killing 31 rebels during recent clashes with Fidel Castro's guerrillas in Oriente province.

A communique last night said 13 insurgents were killed Tuesday afternoon at a country estate near Bayamo, in the foothills of the Sierra Maestra Range where Castro hides out. Eighteen more rebels were killed by other army groups in the Bayamo area.

The communique made no mention of government casualties.

TO THE VOTERS OF PITT COUNTY

Being A Candidate for County Commissioner, of Pitt County, I am building my platform on the principles of Jeffersonian democracy. My interests are in the problems which concern the general welfare of all citizens of Pitt County. I will work for a sound, progressive program, continuing advancement in agriculture, industry, education, religious welfare of all our people, and all other interests that combine for the over-all economy of Pitt County.

I am in favor of a county-wide tax levy for industrial development. Farming has always been our mainstay. Our agriculture is a big industry within its own rights. Our churches, schools, banks, and everything in Pitt County are deeply rooted in good soil. Our towns and farms are bubbling over with young blood that will be forced away to greener pastures unless we do something to keep them here where they love it and belong. We should endeavor to supplement our agricultural economy and use our best efforts to procure industry to create new jobs and year around payrolls for our people. Progress makes opportunities to build a brighter future and a more profitable and happier way of life for all of us. With a big cut in our tobacco quotas we need, more than ever, some nonagricultural payrolls, which are very essential to Pitt County's continued growth and prosperity.

It has been 18 years since Ayden has had a representative on Pitt County Board of County Commissioners.

When a district votes 415 majority, there must be some reason. I'll leave the answer up to you.

I am a Candidate for County Commissioner, Pitt County, 5th District, subject to the Democratic primary May, 31st. Your vote and support will be appreciated.

You're Going To Enjoy This Coming TV Beauty

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—The home screen will be enhanced once a week this summer by a tall, beautiful blonde named Gretchen Wyler when the Bob Crosby Show takes over for Perry Como while he is in seasonal hibernation.

Well known to New York theater audiences as a dancer, comedienne and singer, Miss Wyler, a native of Bartlesville, Okla., is overdue a fuller acquaintance on the part of TV audiences.

She will join Crosby beginning June 14 on NBC-TV to kick away care, belt songs and generally kid around. Crosby, by the way, gave up a CBS contract to do the Saturday evening show. And Coma, by the way, won't say where he's slumbering this summer.

Miss Wyler has guested around some on television, but the Bob Crosby Show is her first big break with the nationwide audience of a 13-week program.

You're going to like this girl. Ignoring (if you can) her comeliness and talent, she's a happy, forthright young lady who never worries or grows despondent.

"I suppose I shouldn't admit it," she said, "because it makes me sound idiotic or something, but it's true that I never worry. Maybe it's because I've been steadily employed since I left Oklahoma nine years ago. But more important, I think, is the fact that I'm happily married and have no personal problems." Her husband is Shepard Coleman, a musical arranger and conductor.

She's been dancing since she was 3. Beginning her career in the ballet corps of the St. Louis Municipal Opera in 1950, she came to New York under contract to dance on the Kate Smith TV show.

Her first audition for the legitimate theater gained her the understudy role to the leading lady in the Broadway production of "Where's Charley?" There, at the suggestion of star Ray Bolger, she discarded her family name of Wienske in favor of Wyler.

Warehouse Body To Meet In June

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP)—A record attendance of at least 300 is expected for the 14th annual convention of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn. at Myrtle Beach June 30-July 2.

Fred S. Royster of Henderson, managing director of the association, said yesterday the opening dates for the five five-cured tobacco belts will be set during the closing day.

Receives Degree At Duke Monday

DURHAM — J. Elliott Dixon of Ayden will be awarded the Doctor of Medicine degree Monday by Duke University in the University's annual commencement exercises.

Dixon is the son of Mrs. Grady Dixon of Ayden and the late Dr. Dixon. He graduated from Ayden High School in 1951 and received an A. B. degree in Chemistry from Duke in 1954. While at Duke he sang in the Chapel Choir and the University Men's Glee Club.

Beginning July 1, Dr. Dixon will enter a two-year general practice internship at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Small Tornado Causes Damage

CLINTON, N. C. (AP)—A small tornado struck the Sansom Jordan farm two miles south of here yesterday, destroying two tenant houses and three tobacco barns. No one was reported injured.

The Dennis Weeks farm three miles away also was hit by the tornado, which struck during a severe electrical and rainstorm. Weeks' garage was moved six inches from its brick foundation. Shingles were blown from the Weeks home and the furnishings soaked.

The storm blew down many trees and outbuildings near Clinton. A power line here was struck by lightning.

Statehood Fever Is Running High

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Statehood fever, which has run high in Alaska in other years, was mounting again in the big territory today.

It's a happy ailment for those among Alaska's 205,000 residents whose greatest desire is to see the territory become the 49th state. Anchorage, Alaska's largest city, is a cradle of statehood hopes.

The new optimism was touched off yesterday in Washington as the House, dramatically reversed a previous killing vote and passed an Alaska admission bill 208-166.

Opponents of statehood in the territory — and there are many residents — who believe Alaska's economy cannot support a state government — feel the bill will not pass the Senate.

The Senate, which received a House-approved Alaska statehood bill in 1950 and didn't act, is expected to take up consideration of the 1958 admission bill in about three weeks.

This year, statehood advocates say, the outlook for Senate approval is good. Others are not so confident. However, Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton, the administration's strongest spokesman for statehood — predicted here, "We will win the battle."

Parks Prepare For Many Guests

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's state parks are being prepared for thousands of visitors during the summer season.

State Parks Supt. Tom Morse says 170 additional workers have been hired to assist regular park personnel. One of the 11 state parks — Mitchell in Yancey county — has already opened for the summer.

Hanging Rock State Park in Stokes County will open Sunday. Eight others open June 4. They are Fort Macon, Carteret County; Jones Lake, Bladen, Morrow Mountain, Stanly, Mount Jefferson, Ashe, Pettigrew, Washington and Tyrrell counties; Reedy Creek, Wake; Singletary Lake Group Camp, Bladen, and William B. Umstead State Park, Wake. Cliffs of Neuse Park in Wayne will open June 6.

Weddings And Births Decline

WASHINGTON (AP)—The slackening off of marriages and births—blamed on the recession—continued through March, the Public Health Service reported today.

The 90,000 weddings estimated for the month were 9.1 per cent below the 98,000 reported for March last year. That's a rate of 8.1 per thousand population and the lowest March figure since last September.

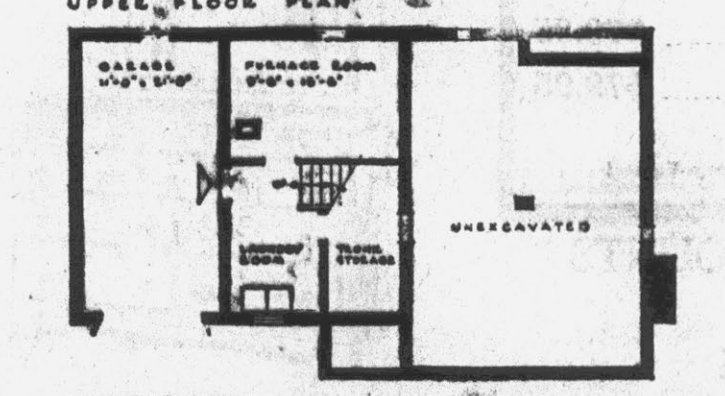

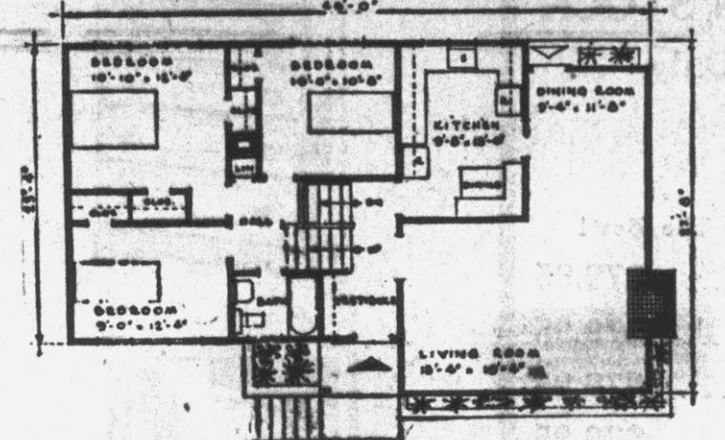

Many births were estimated at 245,000, down 1.1 per cent from the 249,000 in March 1957. This was the third consecutive month in which births dropped slightly lower than the corresponding totals for last year.

Let's Put A LEADER In The Senate

ROBERT LEE HUMBER, W. KERR SCOTT AND OTHER LEADERS OF OUR STATE WORKED TOGETHER FOR THE CREATION OF OUR STATE'S FREE ART MUSEUM.

Governor Scott sent a special message to the General Assembly on April 10, 1951 in which he said:

- "Never in North Carolina's history has such an opportunity been ours.
- "A million dollars of outstanding Italian Renaissance art is now ours, if we act favorably. . . .
- "This proposition permits North Carolina to receive not only a million dollars worth of Renaissance pictures, but cooperation with one of the wealthiest foundations in the world that will bring us through the years, without any cost to us, additional pictures and services of immense value.
- "Such an offer is indeed rare. In our measured judgement, we simply cannot afford to reject it. In the one hundred and seventy-five years of our history, the state never has been able to establish a great art gallery; but it is now within our grasp. Any state of this union would not only welcome such an opportunity, but would also exert itself zealously to obtain it. Surely it would be unwise for us now to fumble the ball.
- "The investment will be self-liquidating. Tourists, coming to visit our gallery, will reimburse this appropriation to North Carolina many times over a period of years. The ultimate cost to the state will be absolutely negligible. x x x x
- "We earnestly request that no diversion of these funds be made to any project, however worthy. To destroy the constructive work of one state agency for the benefit of another is, in our opinion, a questionable method of attempting progress.
- "We urge, therefore, that the members of this General Assembly weigh seriously the advantages of this offer to the people of North Carolina. When opportunity knocks, it should be heeded. This is North Carolina's greatest hour in the field of art. Not only do we acquire art treasures of priceless value for the enjoyment of our people, but a source of endless inspiration to our children.
- "We approve House Bill 1086 and commend it to your favorable consideration subject to such amendments as the General Assembly may deem proper and expedient for the safeguarding of the funds."

(signed) W. KERR SCOTT, Governor
(signed) H. P. TAYLOR, Lieutenant Governor
(signed) W. FRANK TAYLOR, Speaker, House of Representatives

THE EFFORTS OF OUR STATE LEADERS HAVE BEEN PROFITABLE AS THEY PREDICTED!
1. Over 140,000 people have visited our State Art Gallery since it opened two years ago.
2. Over 25,000 visitors from out of the state have come to see our gallery bringing an estimated $250,000 in additional tourist business to North Carolina.
3. The one million dollars invested by the state has been multiplied by gifts and valuation to five times its original value.

1957 Greenville Teen-er League All-Stars

STATE RUNNERS-UP—Shown above is last year's Teen-er League All-Stars from Greenville who copped the runners-up crown in the State Teen-er League tourney, held in Greenville. The team was composed of players picked from the four regular-season clubs in the local League. Gastonia won the state title and went on to the nationals before being eliminated. Greenville Teen-er Loop May Be Best In The State

1958 Predicted To Be City's Top Year

Teen-er League baseball for boys states that most of the Little League All-Stars have been scooped up by the four Teen-er loop clubs and will hold down several starting positions on the clubs. To some observers, this indicates the fastest and most experienced league yet in Teen-er League ball in the locality. The biggest threat to a Greenville supremacy in this 1958 Teen-er League season in the state would be defending champion Gastonia, always a hot baseball town. The same four sponsors who have been in Teen-er League play since it was established here will sponsor clubs again this season. They are Home Builders, State Bank, Guaranty Bank and College View Cleaners and Laundry. Some of the four clubs have retained their last year's coaches, some have picked up new instructors. Taking over the State Bank club will be Billy Dunn and Charlie Bland, coaches of last year's State Champion Little League All-Stars. Milton Reese, who has acted coach for the Junior High School Phantoms this past season, will join with Billy Brady to coach the Guaranty Bankers. Sonny James, who worked with College View last season, will be back at his old post, as will Terry Nobles with the Home Builders. Team rosters have not yet been released by the four coaches, however it has been indicated that the largest turnout in the three-year history of the league was observed this season. Games will be played every Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday nights, beginning at 7:30. There will be no charge for the contests, there will be plenty of seats available since the games will be played on the regulation field at the stadium. On Wednesday night, a benefit supper has been arranged from 6:00 to 7:00, with plate lunches being served. Teen-er League players and others concerned with the league are selling tickets now for the supper. At 6:30, the opening game of a double header scheduled for that same evening will begin. The second game will follow immediately. The supper will be of a benefit nature, one of the few ways the league has of financing itself. New officials have been chosen for the Teen-er League. They are as follows: H. N. Felton, president; T. A. Smoot Jr., vice president; Mrs. J. D. Bialocks, secretary-treasurer.

Little League Games Halted By Rain Wednesday

Table with 2 columns: League Name and Score. Includes North State League (Lions 3, Jaycees 2, VFW 1, Kiwanis 1) and Tar Heel League (Pepsi-Cola 2, Moose 2, Elks 2, Exchange 1).

Good Weather Expected For 500 Auto Race

Games at Little League Park yesterday were halted by a down-pour of rain. The Exchange and Elks teams had played two innings of their Tar Heel League ball game when the rains came. A second game between the VFW and Kiwanis clubs was scheduled but was called off. The rained-out games will be played off Friday and Monday afternoons, calling for double headers on each of those days. The Kiwanis and VFW clubs will square off this Friday afternoon in the first game and the Pepsi-Cola and Exchange teams will play the second game. On Monday, the rained-out tilt between the Elks and Exchange teams will be played first and a game between the Kiwanis and the Lions will be played afterwards. This afternoon the Lions and the VFW will tangle in a 3:30 contest. The Lions are leading the league with a 3-1 mark and the VFW team has a 1-2 record.

May, Massey Clashing To Pick Opponent For Webb

This Saturday morning Molt Massey Jr. and Reynolds May will meet briefly on the Greenville Golf and Country Club course's 18th hole to determine which of the two shall clash with Erzell Webb for the 1958 Greenville Championship. May and Massey, both former winners of the title, battled last Sunday afternoon, with May taking the first 18 holes, three-up. At the end of the next nine holes (total 27), Massey was only two down. They worked on, battling rain and darkness, and at the 18th, they were all even. With the help of car lights, May teed-off on the 17th hole and made a four, which put him one-up on Massey. At that point, the match was halted, both deciding that it was too dark to continue. Saturday morning at 11:00 the two will meet again on the 18th hole to finish up. Should May cop the 18th, he will automatically win and be declared Webb's opponent in the championship match. Should Massey win the 18th, a sudden-death playoff will be in effect, with the winner taking the position opposite Webb. Webb played Walker Allen in a semi-finals match, alongside May.

Stars Flock To Western Open

By DAVE DILES DETROIT (AP)—A star-packed field of professionals headed by six former National Open champions-tees off today in the $25,000 55th Western Open at nearby Red Run Golf Club. The comparatively flat but deceptive Red Run course will play at 6,765 yards for the 72-hole tournament. Par for the layout is 36-36-72 and the top finisher will get $5,000. A field of 151 golfers, including 132 professionals, begin play at 8 a. m. EST. The field will be trimmed to the low 70s and ties after 36 holes. Most of the name stars have been in town for several days, practicing on the Red Run course. They predict it will take at least a 275 total for the top money. The former National Open champions in the field include Lloyd Mangrum, Dick Mayer, Jack Fleck, Ed Furgol, Julius Boros and Dr. Cary Middlecoff. Both Mangrum and Middlecoff are old favorites in Detroit and both have played well in tournament play here. Mangrum won the Motor City event in 1950 and Middlecoff took it in 1952. Doug Ford, golf's leading money winner of 1957, is the defending champion. It took a four-way playoff to decide the championship a year ago at Detroit's Plum Hollow Club. This was a repeat of the 1956 tournament that wound up in a four-way tie. Mike Fetchick, who has had little success since, won it that time over Ford, Don January and Jay Hebert. Sam Snead, who missed out on 1957 honors when he took 10 strokes on a single hole at Plum Hollow, is back once again for a try at the Western title he grabbed off in 1949 and 1950. The West Virginia slammer, who celebrated his 46th birthday Wednesday, is the last man to repeat in the Western.

Milwaukee Pitching Falls Through, Cards Win By 7-4

They may have the best pitching in the league, but the failure to find a replacement for sore-armed Bob Buhl has been one reason the Milwaukee Braves haven't been able to take charge of that National League pennant race.

Another reason is the San Francisco Giants.

But the Giants wouldn't have much more than a percentage-point edge if Manager Fred Hasey could find another starter who could get the job done.

He tried Gene Conley again last night, had to hoist the big right-hander in a comeback rally and finally wound up with a 7-4 defeat in 12 innings by the St. Louis Cardinals.

That plunked the Braves two games behind San Francisco again as the Giants scored three in the ninth for a 7-6 victory at Philadelphia. The Chicago Cubs rapped Cincinnati 6-4 with Ernie Banks cracking a pair of home runs. Los Angeles trimmed Pittsburgh 7-1.

In the American League, second-place Kansas City gained its first series sweep over New York, beating the first-place Yankees 4-3. Detroit won its fifth in a row, beating Boston 4-3. Cleveland took third place, defeating Baltimore 5-2. The Chicago White Sox belted Washington 13-3 behind Jim Wilson's three-hit pitching.

The Braves, who left Buhl behind as they took off on a 16-game road trip today, were blanked after scoring three in the sixth for a 4-3 lead. The Cards tied it in the ninth on a walk and Don Blasingame's triple. Pinch hitter Hobie Landrith started the scoring in the three-run 12th with an RBI single with the bases loaded off Humberto Robinson. Milwaukee's fourth and losing hurler, Gene Green's fly ball and the Braves' third error got the other two runs across.

Billy Muffet won his first in relief of Larry Jackson.

A two-run homer by rookie Willie Kirkland capped the Giants' ninth-inning spurt after Ray Jablonski's two-run homer had given them a 4-4 tie in the seventh.

Banks, driving in three runs and taking the NL RBI lead with 37, broke up Bob Purkey's perfect game with his first homer, setting off a three-run fifth. Then he counted two with his 11th homer as the Cubs scored three more in the sixth off losing reliever Johnny Kippstein.

The Dodgers counted a dozen hits off seven-game winner Bob Friend, who lost his third, and three relievers.

WEDNESDAY'S FIGHTS

Scanlon Cut Classes To Fight Last Night

CHICAGO (AP) — Lightweight Bobby Scanlon, who cut classes at City College of San Francisco to score a unanimous 10-round decision over Chicago's Bobby Rogers last night, is a bit uncertain about his plans for the ring.

"The only plans I have right now," said Scanlon, who remains undefeated in 29 fights, "are to visit my friends in my home town in Buffalo. Then, I'm going into the California National Guard at Camp Roberts for several weeks."

Scanlon, 22, a freshman student in physical education, made his national television debut in his lightweight bout with Rogers, also 22.

The young West Coast sensation now has scored 18 decisions and 10 knockouts. There is one draw on his record.

Rogers, who stayed on fairly even terms with Scanlon until the ninth round, said of his opponent:

"He's a very, very good fighter. He is very fast, but not too impressive as a puncher. However, I think he can go a long way in the lightweight division. He is quick and smart."

Scanlon's manager Art Benjamin, a Maritime Union business agent, said: "After Bobby is in the National Guard we'll start dicker for another national TV shot. But, we don't know who he's going to fight next."

Neither Scanlon nor Rogers landed any telling blows up until the ninth. Then Scanlon staggered Rogers with his right and pummeled him almost at will.

Scanlon weighed 13½ to Rogers' 13.

It Isn't A Race But Loop Is Showing Improvement

By ED WILKS

The Associated Press

Quit cryin' in your beer, pal, the rest of the American League ain't dead after all.

Nobody is seriously challenging these New York Yankees yet, but it looks as though the Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers are through playing patsy, and Kansas City and Cleveland are serious about escaping the second division.

The A's, though 7½ games behind New York, padded their second-place cushion to a full game yesterday—and they did it the hard way, coming from three runs back for a 4-3 victory over the Yankees. It was their first series sweep against New York since setting up shop in Kansas City in 1955.

Kansas City now has won four in a row, two over New York. The A's are 2-1 vs. the Yankees so far, after losing 10 of 23 to them last year.

The Indians moved into third with a 5-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles, who have lost seven straight. The White Sox hammered Washington 13-3 behind Jim Wilson's three-hit pitching. The Tigers, who had lost nine in a row, won their fifth straight, beating Boston 4-3.

In the National League, the San Francisco Giants regained a two-game lead with three runs in the ninth that beat Philadelphia 7-6 as St. Louis defeated second-place Milwaukee 7-4 in 12 innings. The Chicago Cubs beat Cincinnati 6-4, and Los Angeles trimmed Pittsburgh 7-1.

The A's scored two in the fifth and bagged it with two in the sixth against Tom Sturdivant, out since April 22 with arm trouble.

THE '58 CHEVROLET is the one honest-to-goodness new car in the low-price field. And once you drive it, you'll find it offers the year's most rewarding advances in ride and performance.

It stands out like a newly minted coin. Its clean-etched beauty—its flashing reflexes—give it a new look . . . a new feel.

Yet, with all its V8 vigor and gull-wing glamor, Chevrolet's priced surprisingly low. In the models most people buy, it's actually the lowest priced of the low-priced three.* So any way you look at this new Chevy, you just can't make a more beautiful buy.

If you haven't yet taken a trial ride, don't put off the pleasure any longer.

The only all-new car in the low-price field.

Reuther Decides Today On Accepting Of GM Terms

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther faces a tough decision today.

The United Auto Workers president re-enters contract talks with General Motors for the first time since they got under way more than two months ago.

Reuther has to decide before midnight tonight whether to accept GM's proposal to extend the 1955 contract another two years or comply with GM's terms for operating without a contract.

GM, world's largest manufacturing firm, last night spelled out its own terms for keeping its plants in the United States open if there is no settlement when the contract runs out tonight.

The terms include abandonment of the union shop and checkoff of union dues — the life blood of the powerful industrial union.

GM a month ago set tonight's showdown by canceling its contract with the union instead of, as in the past, waiting for the union to set the date.

Ford and Chrysler are expected to set the same terms in event the union fails to reach an agreement with them by contract termination time Sunday midnight.

Reuther has sheathed his strike weapon because he says it would be insane to strike the car makers in a recession year when there is a huge inventory of unsold cars. The companies are wary of Reuther attempting to stall negotiations on day-to-day extension of present contracts until model changeover time when he might find it opportune to call a strike.

GM laid down its terms in letters to hourly rate employees represented by the UAW and the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE), whose contract also ends at midnight tonight.

James B. Carey, president of the IUE, called the GM letter "a display of arrogance that could

Trails Florida In Resorts Listing

ITHACA, N.Y. — North Carolina has more vacation resorts listed in the new edition of Duncan Hines' "Vacation Guide" than any other southern state except Florida.

This fact was related to Governor Luther H. Hodges when the new edition was presented to him by Roy H. Park, head of the Duncan Hines Institute in Ithaca, N.Y., publisher of the Duncan Hines travel books.

Park told the Governor he was not only proud of the strides his native state had made in industry and agriculture, but also is noting that North Carolina becoming "a leading vacation state in the South."

lead only to jungle warfare."

The UAW declined to comment.

In other GM developments: GM rejected the UAW's bid that federal mediators step into the negotiations.

The UAW said it was scaling down cost-of-living protection for workers who retire in the future.

GM said the union's demands were still highly inflationary. Vice President Louis G. Seaton said the union had trimmed 13 cents off demands GM said totaled 73 cents an hour per employee. The average hourly wage now is $2.40.

A possible roadblock to early settlement was removed by a National Labor Relations Board decision. The NLRB granted GM's request for dismissal of 50 petitions by skilled trades groups to hold elections to determine the bargaining agent for a small group of craftsmen.

Rocket Can Hurl A Plane Aloft

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fighter planes can be sent aloft without runways—hurled into the air by rocket motors.

The Air Force disclosed how it could be done in a demonstration that rocketed a big F100D fighter into the air from a mobile launcher.

First By-Line For An AP Writer Followed 'Classic'

By ROBERT EUNSON
LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) — Kirk Simpson, who wrote a news story that became a classic, is still modest and unassuming.

In 1921 Simpson, a member of the Associated Press Washington staff, covered the burial of the Unknown Soldier and won worldwide acclaim for his account. Now 77, tall and lean, his eyes crinkle as he recalls those dull, gray days so long ago.

He has not written a news story in 12 years, but he has a good reporter's memory for details. "On Nov. 9, 1921," he recalled, "we were getting ready to go down to the Washington Navy Yard to meet the cruiser Olympia. Adm. George Dewey's flagship at Manila. It was bringing in the Unknown Soldier from France. I remember one of the War Department officials said, 'I hope the press makes an epoch out of this and not a eulogy.'"

Simpson had known war from first hand. As a lad of 17 he was a bugler in the Philippines during the Spanish American War. It was there he memorized the words of the Army's call, "Taps."

KIRK SIMPSON, and wife, at home.

After the Spanish-American War Simpson came home to California and went into the newspaper business. He was on the Oakland Tribune and then a small newspaper in Tonopah, Nev. By 1914 he was in Washington with The Associated Press.

On his assignment to write the Unknown Soldier stories, he went in the long line that filed past the catafalque to capture the feeling of the crowd.

Later he picked up his friend Steve Early, then an AP editor in Washington and subsequently press secretary to President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Together they went to Arlington for the entombment.

Simpson's lead on that event leaned heavily on Robert Louis Stevenson's "Requiem" begins: "Under the wide and starry sky, dig the grave and let me lie." Simpson began his story: "Under the wide and starry skies of his own home land, America's unknown dead from France sleeps tonight, a soldier home from the wars."

As he neared the end, he realized he needed something that would cut right through to the hearts of the American people. He remembered the lines of "Taps." And they rolled from his typewriter:

"Fades the light
And afar
Goeth day, cometh night
And a star.
Leadeth all, speedeth all
To the rest."

That did it. There was a clamor for the name of the author of the newspaper articles. The ban on by-lines in The AP was relaxed and Kirk Simpson won the first Pulitzer Prize ever awarded a news agency man.

Sees Dire Outcome Due To Kind Of Hypocrisy

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP)—A report before a newly unified Presbyterian Church charged today that America is practicing a "kind of international hypocrisy" in its foreign relations.

And a warning was sounded that God may use "Communist or other godless powers" to punish such conduct.

A strongly worded document, recommended for adoption by the founding assembly of the new, three million member United Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., referred to what was termed the "myth of the free world," and added: "Our fathers' concept of freedom is being debased. This nation counts among its allies some nations which are in no sense free."

"By our actions we proclaim to the world that lands where human freedom is utterly dead can qualify for membership in the free world simply by supplying military bases or strategic commodities. "This kind of international hypocrisy should be abhorrent to Christians, and in its presence the church cannot keep silent."

The 2,500-word paper was drawn up by the Administration Board of the United Presbyterian Church and the General Council of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., which yesterday merged into one denomination.

Both President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles are members.

In its criticism of U. S. foreign policy, the report said Americans are in danger of rejecting their spiritual and moral heritage.

"We are becoming less interested in righteousness than in national security and international superiority," the report said. "Self-interest is becoming the great absolute."

The report, prepared as a message to the new church's nearly 10,000 congregations across the country, slapped at what it called the "declamatory tones" of the cold war.

More direct encounters between leaders of hostile governments was urged.

The new church elected as its moderator the Rev. Dr. Theophilus Mills Taylor, professor of New Testament at Pittsburgh Xenia Theological Seminary.

Silence Makes A Ghost Ship, And A Fleet Of 296 Is Near Wilmington

By JIM WILSON
The Wilmington News
Written for The Associated Press

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — What makes a ghost ship? The answer is silence.

In addition to the legendary ghost ships, there are 296 ghost ships anchored in the Brunswick River a few miles west of Wilmington.

The ships are liberties, Navy auxiliaries, seagoing tugs, inter-island freighters and Canadian land-lease craft and they form the Maritime Administration's Wilmington Reserve fleet.

The ships, in the language of the seas, are dead. The fires are out in the boilers. They have no propulsion or auxiliary power.

But the ships really aren't dead. They still echo with the sounds of the past, even though they are imaginary and can best be heard from memory.

One of the first ships to arrive in the fleet was the SS Signey Sherman, a liberty ship. She tied up on Aug. 13, 1946, and has been in reserve since.

An inspection of the Sherman, at first, shows a steel hull with preservation encrusted hull, decks and deckhouse, dark passageways and an even darker engine room where machinery gleams from an occasional ray of reflected sunshine.

The inspection of the ship was a return visit because I had sailed aboard the Sherman when she carried a cargo of ammunition to the Mediterranean early in 1945.

When you get half way up the swaying but still sturdy gangway, memory mingles with fact. The passageway off the main deck leads to an empty galley and mess-halls are now a storehouse for code flags from every ship in the basin.

But some how, after a few minutes aboard, the ship is suddenly transformed. It isn't a dead ship — it's a ghost ship; a ship that in memory still carries the sounds of her crew and machinery.

It is a lot like being awakened for a midnight watch on a darkened ship, with everyone asleep except the deck and engine crew. The holds of the Sherman, which once served as ammunition depot, grocery, department store and garage for American GIs over seas, are now metal voids.

The winches which handled thousands of tons of cargo are heavily greased and painted to where they resemble the carriage of a Civil War gun on a monument.

Dallied Too Long Over A Bottle

NEW YORK (AP)—One on the house wasn't enough for Wilfred Dart.

After rifling a dentist's office, Dart lingered for hours over a bottle of scotch. Then his final undoing was, of all things, water.

Dart, 53, is a former Boston bootlegger who served 20 years in prison for killing a man during a hijacking gun duel. Wounded in the battle, he lost his right leg and now has an artificial one.

Police said Dart, with the aid of an automobile spring, forced his way into the office of Dr. Lawrence Clayman on Park Avenue. All he could find was about $30 worth of stamps—and the scotch.

It was in the wee small hours. There was no hurry. One nip led to another. Came the dawn and Dart started slowly to leave through the window he had jimmied.

Outside, hosing down the sidewalk was Thomas Lenahan, superintendent and chief window washer. Lenahan saw Dart and asked him what he was doing there. "I'm the window washer," said Dart.

"You're a liar. I'm the window washer," snorted Lenahan.

Lenahan turned the hose on Dart, holding him at bay until police arrived. Dart was booked on charges of burglary and possession of burglar's tools.

The descent into the engine space is a unique experience. The ladders with greased handrails lead to an area where sound and light are conspicuously absent.

The light from the miner's lamp on your safety hat sweeps the main engine as you descend and the dull gleam of the highly-polished but now grease-smear'd telegraph catches your eye.

"Finished with engines," is the designation of the engineer on pointer. The pointer from the bridge is at "stand by." The conflict is a coincidence, but it does illustrate the difference between deck and engine crew viewpoints.

The ship is on official stand by (and that's that in the sailor's views), but the disassembled pumps, open end plates on steam drums and fronts removed from boiler fire boxes show that the engine telegraph tells a truer story.

The shaft alley is the most desolate spot on the ship. The narrow dome-shaped tunnel displays varying shades of darkness in the beam of the light. The mammoth steel shaft, which kept the propeller biting at the sea day after day lies still on its bearings.

On the refrigerator deck the wood-lined ice boxes appeal cool, probably because of the contrast of the wood with the dull metal bulkheads. Pools of preserving oil are collected in depressions in the deck plates and the companionway leading to the ship's store or slop chest, is undisturbed by footprints of fleet watchmen.

The oil smell which permeates the ship is not strange. It's a bit different though from the smell of hot oil when you oil can squirt lubricant into cups on the plunging, never-ceasing engine 13 years ago.

What you do notice is the absence of even a trace of the ocean smell that usually can be found on a ship even after she's been in port several weeks.

The lingering reminder of the broad sweep of the seas is gone along with the laughter, shouts, grumblings, odors, snores, and most of all the continual vibration of moving machinery.

The Sherman and her 295 sisters are quite alike; they are outdated.

As modernization rather than the rust and deterioration of the fleet crews battled constantly make the ships obsolete, they face only one future — the scrap docks.

The Sherman is up for sale as scrap. Liberties of her type bring about $75,000 in demolition bids.

And on the day that torches bite into her plates and hammers attack her superstructures, she will be alive again, if only for a day.

For it's only silence that makes a dead ship.

Successful Businessman Can't Explain New Lure

MURRAY, Ky. (AP) — What leads a successful businessman into politics?

Frank A. Stubblefield pondered the question seriously for a moment and replied: "I don't know."

You can buy almost anything at Stubblefield's drugstore — "anything from plow points to pills," as he puts it. Running it is a full-time task for him and his brother, Vernon.

Now Stubblefield finds himself shouldered with added new responsibilities. He is the Democratic nominee for Congress from Kentucky's 1st Dist. and the nearest thing to a certainty to be elected.

The 50-year-old druggist shook his head in amazement when he learned he had unseated Noble J. Gregory of Mayfield in Tuesday's primary election at a time when it appeared Gregory could spend his life in Congress.

After 22 years in Washington, Gregory had climbed the seniority scale to vice chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. He had other important committee positions. He was popular in his district and he had solid political backing from Gov. A. B. Chandler.

But Stubblefield outpolled Gregory 16,302 votes to 15,870.

He acknowledged he had unyielding support from statewide forces opposed to the Chandler administration — financial and otherwise. He knew, too, that Chandler tried hard to beat him.

Both money and the word to work was delivered from Frankfort to the 1st Dist.

Stubblefield said he pitched his campaign on the Chandler ties of his opponent, adding: "There's a lot of anti-Chandler sentiment down here."

Stubblefield's big start in politics came when he managed the Calloway County campaign of the late Sen. Alben W. Barkley in 1938. He won his first political race in 1951 when he was elected 1st Dist. railroad commissioner.

He still holds the job. He is married and has three daughters.

Detroit Will See Youngsters' Idea Of Future Cars

DETROIT — Detroit will soon be taking a look at what the typical American boy conceives to be the ideal car for the future.

All over the nation, thousands of teen-age boys are putting the finishing touches on model automobiles to enter in the 1958 Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model car competition.

The stakes are high — $15,000, including $35,000 in university scholarships and $75,000 in cash awards.

The first step in determining the reapers of this golden harvest begins at midnight, Monday, June 2 when the 1958 model car competition ends. All entries must be in the hands of Railway Express or delivered to Guild headquarters in Detroit by that time.

The 1958 competition offers the young designer-craftsmen the opportunity to build sports cars, hardtops, convertibles or station wagons as well as two- or four-door sedans.

Descendant Of Indian Fighter

GATLINBURG, Tenn. — When CHUCKY JACK, Kermit Hunter's great drama of Indian fighter John Sevier, opens its third season run on June 30th at the Hunter Hills Theatre here, a direct descendant of the Sevier clan will be featured in a leading role.

The young actor, who comes from Houston, Texas, is Mark Sevier. He will be seen in the role of James Sevier, son of Chucky Jack by his first wife, Sarah Hawkins.

Dulles Resting In Isolated Spot

WATERTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles rested on isolated Main Duck Island in Lake Ontario today, still silent publicly on the French crisis.

Dulles declined comment on France when he stopped here yesterday en route to his island retreat for the Memorial Day holiday. He said he preferred to consider himself on vacation.

The secretary was accompanied by his wife, their toy poodle Papi and three staff aides.

Two Big Banks In N.C. Plan Merge

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Two big North Carolina banks, Union National Bank of Charlotte and First National Bank & Trust Co. of Asheville, plan to merge into an institution that will have total resources of more than 110 million dollars in capital funds and reserves of more than 10 million.

HENRY HARRELL believes in local self-government, where possible, as opposed to some sort of super government either in Raleigh or Washington. He is opposed to taking from you your right to help select your officers whether it be a judge or members of the Council of State. HENRY HARRELL believes that in its final analysis that through your vote you have the right to govern.

The joint announcement was made by Carl G. McGraw, Union National president, and Charles D. Parker, president of First National. Union National, which will celebrate its 50th anniversary on Monday, has nine banking houses here. First National, organized in 1933, has four offices in Asheville and others in Hendersonville, Waynesville, Canton, Oteen, Brevard and Swannanoa.

At the end of April Union National's total resources were $67,601,105.22 and First National's $42,753,849.42. Union's capital, surplus and undivided profits were $7,049,972.51 and First National's $3,120,143.81. The combined banks also have other capital reserves totalling $1,193,322.57.

The directors yesterday approved George S. Crouch of Charlotte as board chairman, Charles D. Parker of Asheville as vice chairman and Carl G. McGraw of Charlotte as president. McGraw declared that the merger will allow both organizations to expand and improve services. The combined resources, he added, "will undoubtedly prove invaluable in attracting new industry and commercial enterprises to the Piedmont and western sections of the state."

Crouch stated that Union National is "delighted to be a part of the same family with this great western North Carolina organization. We are confident our combined strength will materially add to the fast economic development of both areas."

The officials said each institution's operations will continue as in the past and the 350 officers and employees currently associated with the two banks will continue in their present jobs.

College Hijinks Are Traditional

By TOM HENSHAW AP Writer

A couple of decades ago they guiped goldfish and sat on flagpoles. Then they embraced the panty raid with considerable enthusiasm.

Now, the college kids seem to have taken to throwing things at the boss, as witness the Cornell students who last week egged the university president for lowering the boom on off-campus social life.

All of which might seem to indicate that college kids are going from bad to worse. But don't bet on it. If they've changed at all in the past several hundred years, it's been for the better.

Students, pupils, clerks, whatever name they have gone by, have tried to live up to rowdy reputations ever since the first crib notes were scribbled on the hem of a tunic.

And the rowdiest, most playful lot were those who attended the great universities of Europe during the supposedly drab and studious Middle Ages.

When Medieval students were not huddled, quills poised, at the feet of the master, they were out on the town. Manuscripts weren't the only things illuminated in those gay days.

The town of Oxford, England, complained officially: "They (the students) sleep all day and at night roam about taverns and houses of ill-fame for opportunity of robbery and homicide."

The "town and gown" disputes that pit Harvard against Cambridge, Mass., and Yale against New Haven, Conn., are nothing compared with Oxford-Oxford relations of the Middle Ages.

Oxford townspeople once upped and drove the university out of town.

The affair was known as the St. Scholastica's Day riot of 1354. It began when several students complained of the wine at the local pub. The vintner took exception.

"Several snappish words passed between them," noted a contemporary chronicler.

Car Owners Pay Special Taxes

RALEIGH — Special automotive taxes now cost North Carolina car owners an average $174 a year per vehicle — in addition to their regular share of other taxes — according to "Signposts," a new pocket handbook just issued by the North Carolina Petroleum Committee.

This special tax bill, now amounting to some $260 million a year, is shown to represent an average $84 a year per vehicle in state and federal taxes on gasoline, $20 in motor license fees, $11 in state sales taxes on automotive products and supplies, $36 in property taxes on vehicles and $23 in federal automotive taxes.

Snappish words being the kind that run out soonest, it didn't take the students long to crown the vintner with his own flagon, wine and all.

Townspeople, annoyed at this obvious breach of tavern etiquette, took to shooting arrows at stray students. The students fought back and a number were killed. The survivors fled.

The town of Oxford spent 470 years doing penance for its rash act. Each anniversary of the riot, townspeople paid about 60 pence in token atonement. The practice wasn't dropped until 1825.

ACC Summer Session Readied

WILSON, N.C. — Atlantic Christian College will open a two five-week term Summer Session next Monday. Plans for the session were announced today by Dr. R. B. Cutlip, Dean of the college.

The first term will close on July 9, with the second term opening on July 10, and running through August 15.

The summer session will be open to high school graduates, regular college students, and public school teachers who wish to renew their teaching certificates.

An Appeal To The Voters of Pitt County Friends Of Sam Whitehurst

please vote for Mr. Whitehurst. We are sure he is capable and willing to serve Pitt County, and enforce the law. He will keep the county patrolled by himself and his deputies at all times. He will try to prevent crime and build goodwill among all citizens.

A few facts: Born in Pitt County and reared here, is a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, World War I veteran, and has been directly responsible for the care and decoration of the graves of our deceased veterans, Past Commander of the American Legion, member of the executive board of Boy Scouts, and a Shriner for many years.

We feel his past experience will be of great value to the citizens of this great county of Pitt, and he will endeavor to apprehend all criminals and to prevent crime by being in constant contact throughout the County.

We feel that his 18 years experience in law enforcement work, 12 years as sheriff of Pitt County, qualifies him to serve this county efficiently and in a manner in the best interest of all of the people of our county. He has always believed in proper training for qualified officers, and has worked closely with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the State Bureau and other State and Federal Agencies in criminal matters involving our county law enforcement. He has personally attended law enforcement schools and believes in thorough, efficient methods of law enforcement, both in prevention of crime and in the apprehension of criminals.

Your Vote and Support Will Greatly Be Appreciated By His Friends As Well As By Mr. Whitehurst.

ON THE HOUSE

THIS OPEN PLAN KITCHEN was designed for his New York apartment by Richard Kelly, an architectural lighting consultant. The compact island arrangement houses a free-standing gas range, dishwasher and sink. The back of the island, built up one foot above the counter height, hides the work area from the family, dining and foyer areas. A wood-paneled wall conceals the refrigerator and the kitchen storage space.

By JOHN O. WALLACE
AP Newsfeatures
WALK INTO nearly any new home today and you'll find an "open planned" kitchen. Enter a house built say 20 years ago and the odds are good that the old kitchen is being ripped apart and remodeled to give it an open planned look.

This is so because the kitchen is no longer just an area for the preparation of food. It has become a family center and a part of the living area.

An open plan kitchen generally has no wall partition between it and the dining or living areas although low partitions and dividers are retained in many cases to provide some separation between the cooking area and the area where food is served.

An open plan kitchen simplifies housekeeping, and in new home construction it lowers building costs. Chiefly, the open plan kitchen fits in with the spirit of family living and casual entertaining which are dominant in today's homes.

THE DECOR and arrangement of open kitchens must be keyed to the rest of the house. In order to achieve continuity, the colors of cabinets and appliances in the kitchen should be continued or repeated in adjacent living areas. Materials for the kitchen floor and ceiling should blend with materials in nearby rooms.

Sound-deadening materials and ventilating equipment are especially important. New appliance design, influenced by the open kitchen trend, have produced such features as tight, flush-to-wall installation of free-standing gas ranges, a wide variety of built-in and stack-on range units and a wide choice of sizes and colors. In the open kitchen most appliances are in clear view from adjacent living areas. For this reason their selection and arrangement must meet new requirements in appearance.

Western Union Strike Looming

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negotiators trying for a new Western Union wage contract were far apart today as a possible nationwide strike loomed close.

Such a strike, at midnight Saturday, would affect all Western Union Telegraph Co. operations except those in the New York area. There, Western Union Workers are represented by a different union.

E. L. Hageman, negotiating chairman for the Western Union Division of the Commercial Telegraphers Union, said the union had cut its demands from an 18 per cent hourly raise to 16 cents. The roughly 30,000 workers involved now average $1.81 an hour, except messengers. He said the CTU is sticking to its proposal for pension improvements and job classification changes.

The company said it had offered some pension improvements and job classification adjustments, but these are not acceptable to the union. Western Union has offered a 5-cent hourly wage boost effective June 1 and a similar increase next March 1 under and a two-year contract.

Heartening Signs Seem To Back Ike's Decision

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower's decision against any tax cutting now indicates he believes that the recession is about over—or that the forces of recession have been contained, as Gen. Eisenhower might put it.

And the new foe to be guarded against is a renewal of the inflation that has sheered off so much of the purchasing power of the dollar.

Those who think otherwise may still have their day in Congress and some predict that the excise taxes on autos may be cut to help sales of that beleaguered industry's product and on freight rates and passenger fares to help the faltering railroads.

Warm weather has brought a number of hopeful signs to back up the President's apparent view that the worst of the industrial slump is over. Outdoor jobs have opened up and cut the rise in unemployment. A number of industries have reported the first quickening of new orders after a long decline.

Steel mills are operating at a better rate than at any time since January—although some of the new orders may be to beat the price rise which seems sure to come after wages go up July 1.

The price rises, if they stick, will do their bit toward pushing along the new inflation which many observers fear will follow the slump.

Advocates of individual income and excise tax cutting now have argued that it would stimulate consumer buying and thus put men back to work. Corporate income tax cutting and easier depreciation allowances, proponents say, would help business hold its profit margin without price hiking.

The argument against tax cutting—and the one the President seems to have accepted—is that rapidly increasing government spending means a growing Treasury deficit and federal debt. A tax cut now would only make this worse.

This would set the stage for future inflation, since the government would be pumping more money into the economy than it was taking out—a move roughly comparable with running the printing presses.

The most heartening signs during the industrial recession have been the continued high level of consumer spending and the rise in farm income. The public hasn't bought durable goods in the amount that their makers would have liked, but hasn't cut back on spending for services and for the soft goods.

Corporations, with their productive capacity built up sharply in the last few years, have cut back on the purchasing of capital goods

—new plants and equipment. So the recession has been largely confined to these two sectors; capital goods and consumer durables.

The President appears to be saying that the recession in these lines seems now to be contained and that the general economy doesn't stand in need of a stimulant like broad tax cutting.

The thing he seems to fear more is a mounting federal deficit, because that could mean more inflation to come.

An alternative might be a cutback in government spending. But that continues to mount at all levels—state and local as well as federal.

And the end, at least for the taxpayer, is not in sight.

Skilful Planning Needed
MUCH MODERN decorating emphasizes the use of one color, usually a neutral shade, throughout an entire floor or level, although each room may have its own color accents. Skilful planning of the kitchen with respect to the rest of the home thus becomes important.

One designer credits two factors for the popularity of the open plan kitchen. He says:

"Attractive kitchen equipment, coupled with the growing acceptance of open planning in the home, have placed the kitchen within the living confines. The kitchen is no longer the ugly duckling of the house. It has become a showplace.

"Gleaming chrome, colored porcelain, planters and brick walls have turned this cubicle of hot drudgery into one of the most desirable areas in the home. Efficient exhaust fans are carrying away the cooking odors.

"I believe that in the next few years, with the continued development and use of air conditioning and exhaust equipment, the kitchen as we have known it will completely lose its identity and will become merely one area of an extremely open planned home."

Rock Fall Kills 6 Men In Mine

MADISON, W. Va. (AP) — A massive fall of slate dropped on six men in a coal mine yesterday, killing four and trapping two others for four hours.

Rescue teams worked through the night trying to remove three bodies still inside the Whaton No. 2 mine of Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates at Barrett.

The body of Harry Hartman, 28, was brought to the surface last night. Still beneath tons of slate were William Bain, 34, section foreman; James Stone, 36, and Cecil Brown, 47.

One of those trapped but escaping alive, Holley Brennen, 35, injured. His condition was good at a Charleston hospital.

The mining town of Barrett is 25 miles southeast of here and about 40 miles south of Charleston.

George Walls was one of 13 men working in the section about two miles from the mouth of the mine when the fall came.

"I just looked up and saw it fall," he said. "It hit about 20 feet from me. If they (the six hit) had been standing 15 or 20 feet from where they were, they wouldn't have been hurt."

About 250 men were in the mine when the slate fell.

In the early days of China's tea trade, merchants added camellia petals to enhance the tea's flavor.

Pope May Call New Consistory

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The death of Samuel Cardinal Stritch has renewed speculation that Pope Pius XII soon may call a consistory to bolster the diminished ranks of the College of Cardinals.

There has been no official word on a consistory, the gathering of cardinals which seconds the Pope's nominations to their ranks, and there will be no official word until the date for the meeting is announced, together with the names of the prelates who will be elevated to the princedom of the Roman Catholic Church.

Pius XII has held only two consistories during his 19 years on the papal throne. In 1946 he named 22 cardinals, the largest number ever elevated, at once. Seven years later he named 24 more, including the first cardinals from India, Ecuador, Colombia and Yugoslavia.

The Pope said then he was considering an increase in the number of cardinals, set at 70 by Pope Sixtus V 400 years ago, when the population of the world was estimated at only 360 million people. Today Roman Catholics alone number nearly 500 million—a fifth of the world's expanding population.

Since the 1953 consistory death and the toll of the years have weakened the college, whose members now average 72 years and shoulder burdens of administration far heavier than those of the days of Sixtus V.

The death of Cardinal Stritch, 70-year-old archbishop of Chicago, cut the membership to 55 cardinals and left 15 places vacant. There are 18 cardinals from Italy and 37 from other nations.

Prize Telescope Being Exhibited

CHAPEL HILL — The 10-inch telescope, which won a five-day cruise aboard a U. S. Navy ship for young John Charles Hawkins of Candler, N. C., is now being exhibited in the South Science Room of the Morehead Planetarium here.

The Enka High School student made the telescope and entered it in the recent N. C. State Science Fair. Titled "Exploring the Universe," the entry won a special prize, a science-oriented cruise with the Navy.

Young Hawkins' expenses will be paid by the Naval Reserve Officers' School on the University of North Carolina campus here for reserve officers in the Raleigh, Durham, and Chapel Hill area.

The average worker in Great Britain works just under 46 hours a week.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market widened its gains early this afternoon with industrials to the fore. Trading was active. Leading issues were up from fractions to a point or so.

In early trading the gains were narrow. Turnover became more brisk and prices rose.

Motors, oils, coppers, rubbers, aircrafts, some chemicals and steels were among the gainers.

Better figures on the sales of new cars, a decline in new claims for unemployment and an upturn in shipments of replacement tires were among encouraging items. A big Belgian producer hiked the price of copper.

Investment buying was steady. Brokers remarked that the market tone was good in view of the imminence of a long three-day weekend and the uncertainties abroad.

Chrysler was ahead about a point. General Motors and Ford added fractions.

Republic Aviation, helped by news of its brand new fighter-bomber and its boost in production and employment, led the aircraft group with a rise of about 2 points.

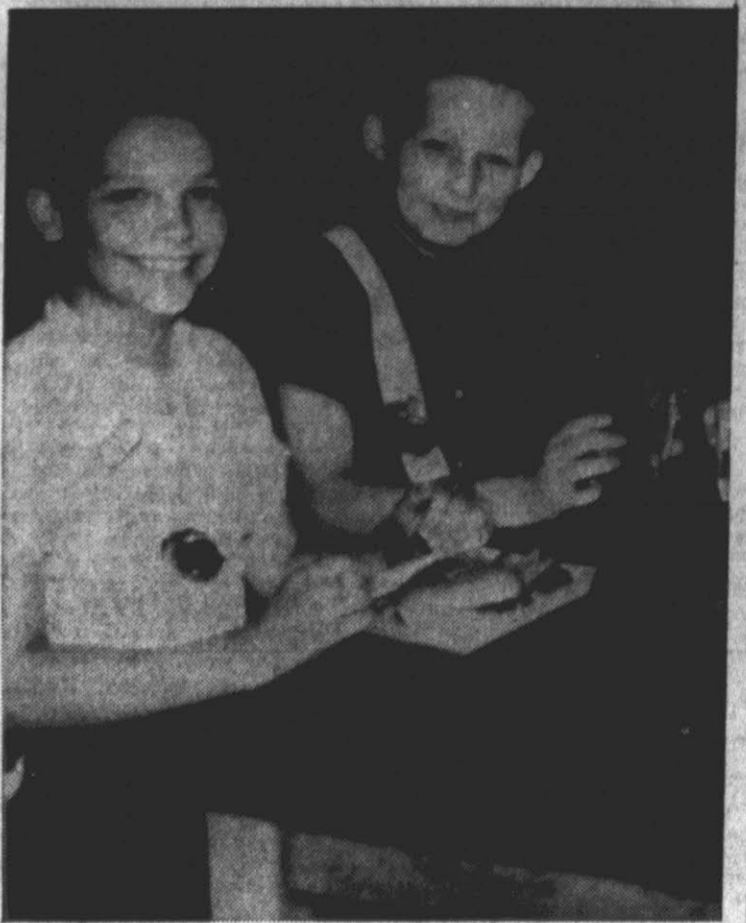

Aircons and International Nickel gained about a point each as the outlook brightened for copper. Kennecott was ahead by a good fraction.

Youngstown Sheet was ahead about a point to pace the steels. A small fractional rise was added to U.S. Steel's price.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 50 cents to $169.90 with the industrials up $1.00, the rails up 20 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Approximately 175 boys and girls to measure your value than the attended the Kiwanis Club's annual Safety Patrol picnic here yesterday afternoon despite adverse weather conditions.

Hunter Keck, chairman of the Kiwanis Boys and Girls Committee, stated the picnic was one of the best held here. "It looked like everyone, including the adults, had a real good time," he declared.

The picnic is held each year for the youngsters who serve on the Safety Patrols of the West Greenville, Elmhurst, Fullilove and Wahl-Coates schools.

Junius H. Rose, superintendent of the Greenville city schools, spoke briefly to the group of youngsters followed by Police Chief S. G. Gibbs.

"You boys and girls are doing a lion's share in our safety program," he said. "I know of no yardstick that can better be used

DeGaulle Drive Appears To Be Planned Effort

By PRESTON GROVER

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's approach to the doorstep of power in France seems to have happened fast. But there is a wide belief that it was planned in advance.

Correspondents returning from Algeria have seen officers there who talk freely of the preparations for it. Preparations ran back at least six weeks before De Gaulle's declaration last week that he was ready to assume the powers of the republic, the officers say.

The government of Premier Felix Gaillard was in distress when Defense Minister Jacques Chaban-Delmas made a brief tour of Algeria. With him went his bright assistant, Leon Delbecq. That was before Gaillard was defeated and succeeded by Pierre Pflimlin.

These stories are hard to establish as a blow but the reports reaching Paris is that at each stop, Delbecq got in touch with local groups, evidently independently of Chaban-Delmas.

He told them to be ready for a rush toward De Gaulle as a quick aftermath of the fall of the Gaillard government. How much of this was told to De Gaulle is a mystery. Likely he never had any hand in the sort of uprising that developed in Algeria, for his character and reputation seem much against this. But when it came, it was threatening, and De Gaulle acted with his famed announcement.

It was only notable that De Gaulle was already in Algeria when the great uprising of pro-De Gaulle officers and local colonial leaders took place May 13.

But these things now seem so far in the past, so much has happened and so much is happening almost hourly.

There have been two midnight conferences to prepare the way for the entry of De Gaulle into power and there is scarcely a soul in Paris who believes it will be long delayed.

What will he do when he comes in? That is more important, and the answers are a bit hard to give. American officials apparently do not greatly fear that he will upset the Atlantic Alliance. But they suspect he will force some sharp changes in it, and these have already caused disquiet in Bonn.

When De Gaulle was campaigning in 1956 he attacked the then European and European army plan under which German, French and other Western European armies would be put in a single uniform.

Those were days when France was still finding it hard to forget German concentration camps.

The idea that French troops might find themselves under command of German officers was abhorrent to De Gaulle. He did not mince words about it.

Will he now approve in its present form an alliance which already has French troops under command of German Gen. Hans Speidel? It seems highly unlikely.

Suspect Vanguard Lost By Failure Of Tiny Circuit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

The Navy's latest Vanguard rocket still was lost today, probably because a tiny electrical circuit failed to function a split second before the 20-inch satellite was set to enter orbit.

Scientists continued their studies of telemetry data received, but sources close to the project indicated that the satellite probably was not in orbit.

They do know that instead of pointing in the horizontal direction necessary to push the satellite into orbit, Vanguard streaked almost straight up for 2,000 miles or more last Tuesday night.

Most Vanguard officials seemed to agree with the project director, Dr. John P. Hagen, when he announced that the Vanguard probably plummeted earthward and disintegrated.

It was reported that the 50-foot third-stage rocket and its precious gold-plated satellite could be floating somewhere in space.

The latest Vanguard, first of a series of seven launched specifically to orbit a 2 1/2-pound satellite lost contact with earth shortly after it blasted away on what appeared to be a perfect takeoff.

Signals from the rocket were picked up at several stations, but scientists knew something was amiss when a sustained beep was heard on instruments at the cape.

That meant the rocket still was flying vertically instead of pointing toward the horizontal path which leads to an orbit.

There were five hours of silence before Hagen announced it would not become America's fourth satellite.

The Navy indicated much information was gathered because the rocket's three stages behaved perfectly until electrical failure developed.

Officials also were impressed with the fact that Vanguard attained such a high altitude with heavy payload.

The satellite was some 3 1/2 times larger and almost seven times heavier than Vanguard I which is circling the globe as one of three American moons in orbit.

The satellite's mission was to gather information on the sun's radiation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Carl T. Durham (D-NC), chairman of the Senate - House Atomic Energy Committee, predicted today negotiations will go forward quickly for an agreement to share atomic weapons secrets with Great Britain.

Durham said in an interview he expects this agreement to be the first — and for some time the last — reached under legislation approved by the committee yesterday to relax the present tight secrecy restrictions on manufacture of nuclear weapons.

The legislation goes to the House and Senate for action.

Rep. Chet Holtfield (D-Calif.) said he thinks the committee has already fears that an unstable France might quickly obtain atomic weapons makings from the United States.

"Congress wouldn't stand still and let France, in her present condition, get the makings of atomic weapons from us," Holtfield said.

Durham toured friendly European atomic laboratories last year and has advocated closer relations in the nuclear weapons field with NATO allies. He said he is well satisfied with the legislation as the committee rewrote it.

He described the committee version, which includes a provision for Congress to veto secret-sharing agreements on which it dis-

Silent Tribute . . .

Rittman of Warwick, and Mrs. Luke Moskalyk of West Warwick. Their white, gold-trimmed uniforms contrasted with their drawn faces, turned to the catafalque which had been built to hold the remains of Abraham Lincoln. The body of the World War II Unknown rested there today.

"The three of us had boys who went away to World War II and were never found," Mrs. Godfrey said. "We are trying to think that maybe that is our boy."

Two very old ladies sat primly in folding chairs across the hall. They were dressed in black except for a minute white design on the dress of one of them and a sprig of lavender on the hat of the other.

They gave their names as the Misses Katie A. and Lillian E. Guiton. They are chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the Committee on Decoration of Graves of the Memorial Day Corp. Inc.

William R. Charrette of Key West, Fla., came to lay a wreath. He is the Navy Medal of Honor winner who selected the World War II Unknown at sea this week.

With him were three others who won the Medal of Honor in the Navy—William Badders of Gatun, Canal Zone; William Earl Bonney of Edmonds, Wash.; and William Zuberfeld of Leucadia, Calif.

The four walked smartly to the center of the Rotunda and laid a wreath before the caskets in the name of the Fleet Reserve Assn. Ambassadors Jose Marice de Arelliza of Spain and Yoo Chan Yang of South Korea also laid wreaths. The Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, and business groups such as Civilian International did, too. The row of flowers banked around the Rotunda's wall began to grow.

Last Rites In Rome For Cardinal Stritch

ROME (AP)—Princes of the Roman Catholic Church knelt in the black-draped church of St. Ignatius today in final tribute to Samuel Cardinal Stritch.

Three thousand priests, monks and laymen jammed the 300-year-old church in the center of Rome for the funeral service.

The 70-year-old archbishop of Chicago died Tuesday after a stroke. His body will be flown to the United States tonight for burial in Chicago.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, senior member of the College of Cardinals, gave final absolution in the name of Pope Pius XII in the final ritual of the colorful hour and a quarter service.

Also participating in the service were 15 other cardinals, three apostolic nuncios and many high officials of the Church.

Bishop Martin O'Connor of Scranton, Pa., rector of the North American College in Rome, conducted the funeral service.

The body of Cardinal Stritch lay in an immense coffin in the center of the church. It was covered with black and gold satin and encircled by 100 tall, white candles.

His cardinal's red hat was pinned to the foot of satin covering the coffin.

The choir from the Sistine Chapel in the Vatican sang the Mass for the dead. Through the open doors of the church came the sounds of Chopin's funeral march played by an Italian army band in the square outside. An honor regiment of Italian soldiers, sailors and airmen stood at attention in the square.

The crowd in the church filled the pews and overflowed into the aisles and side chapels. There were priests and nuns of many nationalities, and monks of every order. Almost all American priests and students for the priesthood in Rome were present.

Members of the Vatican diplomatic corps attended, wearing formal black clothes and carrying top hats. Dr. Oscar Moccia, secretary of the presidency, represented President Giovanni Gronchi.

Arrest Suspect In Theft Case

Zeno Smith 35-year-old Negro of 412 Ford Street has been arrested in connection with the theft of a pocket book here yesterday.

The missing article belonged to Christian James, Negro woman of 510 West 15th Street and contained $4.35 in cash.

According to police the pocket book was stolen from the home of Mrs. J. N. Williams of 422 West Fifth Street. Mrs. Williams, who reported the theft yesterday afternoon, informed officers that Smith came to her house seeking employment. He is alleged to have taken the pocket book from on top of a deep freeze in the back porch. The James woman is employed in the Williams household.

Deny Appeal For Slow Integration

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Appeals against a federal court order to hasten racial integration in Delaware public schools were denied yesterday in a strongly worded opinion by the third U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The decision, written by Chief Judge John Biggs, warned school officials they stood in danger of contempt proceedings.

"The time for hesitation is past and the time for definite action has arrived," it said.

"The law of the Supreme Court of the United States must be obeyed," Judge Biggs wrote.

The State Board of Education, the state superintendent of public instruction and members of seven local school boards had appealed 1957 district court rulings that forbade to refuse admission of eligible Negro students to public schools and ordered them to set up a plan for integration.

The lower court later ruled the state bodies were to set up a plan including not only the seven school areas in the litigation, but every non-integrated public school in the state.

The case originally got into the federal courts on a petition by Negro parents for a summary judgment against the school officials.

In every respect, the appellate court upheld the ruling of the lower court and ordered it to set up a new and "prompt" target date for the integration plan. The original date was the fall term of last year.
