U. S. Ousts Russian Diplomat

Accused Of Paying American Citizen For U. S. Army Manuals

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has ordered a Soviet diplomat to leave this country because he "paid hundreds of dollars to an American citizen" for U. S. Army manuals and other secret documents.

The State Department today announced the ouster action against Nikolai I. Kurochkin. It said the Soviet Embassy has been told to get him out of the United States immediately because he is "persona non grata."

A State Department press officer, David Waters, said he did not know the specific amount of money alleged to have been paid by Kurochkin. Nor did he know how long ago the incident occurred other than during the past months.

The State Department recalled that on Jan. 14, 1957 Maj. Yuri P. Krylov of the Soviet Embassy was expelled for similar actions and the embassy was warned at that time to see that the purchase of documents "by means of American citizen payments to American citizens be discontinued immediately."

The White House said the British Prime Minister and Eisenhower will not meet before Monday afternoon, when they start three days of informal conferences.

After leaving Washington Wednesday, Macmillan also will confer with Canada's Prime Minister John Diefenbaker in Ottawa.

Possibly Biggest Building Month

May building permits issued by the city show that construction took a spurt during the month.

Permits were issued by Building Inspector W. Wilson for construction with a total value of $1,370,178.45. It is possibly a record month locally.

The new construction authorized in May brought the total valuation for the year to $2,337,378.45.

For the fiscal year (since last July 1) new building authorized by the city has totalled $5,902,477.45.

The total since Jan. 1 was far ahead of similar figures for the same month in any prior year. However, a change in the type buildings for which permits are required was partially responsible.

Included in last month's totals was a classroom building at East Carolina College which is to cost $678,041.38. In prior years local permits have not been required for college construction. Buildings erected on the college campus in ATLANTA (AP)—Police held an unemployed construction worker for murder today in the brutal killing of his 16-month-old son. The child was beaten and savagely bitten over his entire body.

The officer said John Robert Campbell was bitten 50 to 60 times. Campbell's explanation to police was that the child "wouldn't do anything."

Police asked the father why he bit the child. "Because I couldn't hurt him."

Public Hearing For Amendment Said Unneeded

No public hearing will be needed before city councilmen can amend the city's subdivision ordinance to require subdividers to install curb and gutter on their streets.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam said it was thought at the Council meeting Thursday night a public hearing would be needed.

However, he said it has since been learned the hearing is not necessary.

The city fathers Thursday authorized the city manager and city attorney to draw up an amendment setting out the new requirement.

Until now subdividers have been required to furnish paving and drainage on the new streets but not curb and gutter.

Algerian Moslem To Be Included In DeGaulle Cabinet

PARIS (AP)—Premier Charles de Gaulle's Cabinet moved quickly today to put his pacifying program for Algeria into effect and endorsed his crackdown on the insurgent junta in Algiers. The ministers voted to bring an Algerian Moslem into the cabinet for the first time.

They decided to call 'city' elections in Algeria in about a month. This will be the first test of De Gaulle's formula of equal votes for Moslems and Frenchmen in the territory.

The Cabinet set Oct. 5 as the tentative date for a referendum throughout France and Algeria on constitutional reforms De Gaulle will draft to strengthen the hand of the executive.

The Cabinet heard De Gaulle report on his dramatic three-day trip to Algeria, where he unfolded his plan to placate Algerian nationalist rebels and cut off the powers of the French civilian-military junta that had rebelled against Paris.

De Gaulle told his Cabinet that the army in Algeria, which fully supported the May 13 insurrection against Paris, is completely faithful to the government.

The Cabinet stamped approval on De Gaulle's appointment of Gen. Raoul Salan, French troop commander in Algeria, as his official representative.

The Cabinet announced Salan will have at his side a high ranking civilian aide with the rank of secretary general. The name of the secretary general was not revealed nor were his duties listed.

However, the appointment was an obvious move to weaken the military rulers in the junta that took over in Algiers May 13 and demanded De Gaulle's return to power.

No Remorse, He Dies On Gallows

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP)—Hoop-killer Barton Kay Kirkham died on the gallows at dawn today. His last words were a plea for forgiveness.

"I've asked God to forgive me," Sheriff George Beckstead quoted Kirkham as saying.

Through two years of imprisonment, Kirkham had insisted he had no remorse for killing two persons in a grocery store holdup and that he was unmoved by religion.

Kirkham, 21, calmly took 25 steps up a ramp to the gallows. The hangman, at a signal from Sheriff Beckstead, pulled an iron lever dropping Kirkham six feet through a trap door into the canvas-covered lower section of the gallows.

The time was precisely the official hour of dawn. Kirkham dropped through the door at 4:57 a.m. MST, and Dr. W. C. Knott, prison physician, pronounced him dead at 5:11 a.m.

Kirkham maintained his calm attitude to the end. He was whisked from the main prison building to a waiting car. In a caravan of five vehicles, the party wound its way around prison fields to the gallows, constructed about a mile northwest of the prison building.

Kirkham, a black hood shrouding his head throughout the journey, stepped out with the assistance of Sheriff Beckstead. On his left, Mormon Bishop Ray Smith gently clasped Kirkham's left arm.

They stopped for a moment at the foot of the ramp where Kirkham was told he could be strapped to a five-foot wooden board with a shelf at the bottom for his feet. He declined this.

Then, with Bishop Smith guiding the menaced Kirkham and Beckstead on his right, they walked slowly up the ramp. At the top they were met by the hangman, who guided Kirkham over to the four-by-four-foot trap.

The hangman quickly fitted the noose around Kirkham's neck. Beckstead leaned over and heard Kirkham's last words.

As the sheriff stepped back, the trap was sprung, the rope snapped

AEC Nominee Faces Wide Inquiry Into Views

WASHINGTON (AP)—John A. McCone faces a wide ranging inquiry into his views on atomic power, the halting of nuclear tests, the sharing of nuclear secrets with other countries, production of plutonium and other matters.

McCone, who was in Potsdam, N. Y., to receive an honorary degree tomorrow from Clarkson College, declined last night to discuss his views with newsmen. He said questions on basic atomic policy would have to be answered before senators considering his nomination.

Sens. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) and Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) said that to win confirmation McCone will have to divest himself of holdings in any business firms which have dealings with the AEC. McCone said he understands McCone already had disposed of his interest in the Bechtel-McCone Corp., Los Angeles engineering firm which has been active in the construction of atomic power installations. "I'm not frightened by his business connections," Anderson said. "We need a competent business man to run a commission that deals in millions of dollars in contracts." McCone, who served as under secretary of the Air Force in the Truman Administration, was listed by the White House as a Republican.

Witnessed A Rise In Religion Courses

By CARL F. BISSELL

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — When the Rev. Sidney Lovett came to the Yale campus in 1932, there were exactly three students taking the undergraduate course in religion.

When he stepped down from the teaching chair in 1954 he had 300 students in his classes.

And now, on the eve of his retirement after 26 years as Yale chaplain, one out of every six undergraduates is taking a course in religion.

The reason for the upsurge, the Rev. Mr. Lovett believes, is that the student "is finding out why it is he needs an invisible means of support."

"There is much more healthy curiosity about religion on the campus," he says. "The student asks much more fundamental questions about it."

"He is continually searching for the right answer and he is asking the right questions."

Faculty colleagues say the Rev. Mr. Lovett, known as "Uncle Sid" on campus, has done more than he'll admit to encourage the asking of the right questions.

And he seems to have supplied a lot of satisfying answers too.

nonsectarian—and noncompulsory—services at Yale's Battell Chapel are heavily attended.

The Rev. Mr. Lovett was ordained to the Presbyterian clergy nearly half a century ago and preached in Boston for 19 years before coming to Yale.

He has been an avowed enemy of what he defines as "arrogant agnosticism, unlovely and pompous ecclesiasticism and religious illiteracy" which, he adds, are not confined to any particular creed.

When he retires later this month, he will leave for Hong Kong to supervise the enlargement of New Asia College, a school built a few years ago with a $250,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

Armed with a $150,000 grant from Yale-in-China, he will oversee construction of a dining hall, kitchen and cafeteria, and possibly an auditorium for New Asia's 300 to 400 students.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor in our life for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A Milestone...

The diploma, symbol of work accomplished, is one of the graduate's most cherished possessions. It signifies a milestone in life—an end, but also a beginning!

With commencement comes thoughts of life still to be lived. Knowledge alone is not enough; degree are not enough. There must be something more.

Through the Church comes a knowledge of life lived for others, of nearness to God, of strength and power which carries one beyond the needs of the present, which makes the individual adequate for tasks too great for human strength.

In the Church you will feel a nearness to God you never felt before, and the more fully you enter into the life of the Church, the stronger you will become.

Why not have a commencement of your own now—a commencement of life in the Church?

Fashion Show 'Success'

GRIFTON—The Spring Fashion Show presented last night by the Grifton Service League was termed a "success."

The show was divided into three divisions: the children's division, the teen-age division, and the adult division.

Three sets of identical prizes, including $25 bonds as first prizes, $10 second prizes, and $5 third prizes, were presented to the winners of each division by Mrs. Cecil Cobb.

Miss Betty Lynn and Rusty Gower walked off with the first prize in the children's division. They were wearing shorts and shirts.

Other winners in the little division were Beth Miller wearing a blue nylon dotted party dress taking second place prize and third place which was won by Miss Ann Troutman and Miss Nancy Sugg. They were wearing matching swimsuits and beach coats.

Miss Frances Davis wore a white embroidered cotton sheath dress which won her first prize in the teen-age division. Placing second in the teen-age division was Miss Martha Hart who wore a black and white check overblouse with a matching drape skirt. A matched sports outfit won third place, worn by Miss Mary Lee January.

A pink dacron cotton lace-trim afternoon dress worn by Mrs. G. J. Tucker won first prize in the adult division. Mrs. Ed Casey, second place winner, wore a black sheath cocktail dress with a lace overblouse. A beach outfit worn by Miss Mary Dawson McCotter placed third.

For the show, the Service

League secured Mrs. Ann Cavanaugh as children's narrator, Lou Rays Mawborn and Emily Nelson as teen-age narrators, and Mrs. Drew Harper as adult narrator.

Federation Week-End Plans Set

Dedication of the Hinda Honigman Library at Transylvania Music Camp will highlight the activities of Federation Week-end, Brevard, N. C., July 25 and 26. This announcement is made by Mrs. L. L. Browning of Winston-Salem, chairman of the Steering Committee for Week-end.

"This is the time," says Mrs. Browning, "to learn for yourself why so many young music lovers from all over the country seek a 'vacation with a purpose' at beautiful Transylvania Music Camp, under the guiding hand of Dr. James Christian Pfohl, whose musicianship, business ability, and determination have made his dream of a successful music camp for young people a triumphant reality."

Representing the National Federation of Music Clubs will be Mrs. C. Arthur Bullock, vice president of Canton, Pa., who will be the featured speaker at the Transylvania Camp Banquet July 26.

Mrs. Clifton J. Muir of Coral Gables, Fla., who represented the National Federation last year as Director of the Southeastern Region, will speak at the Federation Luncheon July 26 at noon.

Present also will be Mrs. J. Kenneth Pfohl of Winston-Salem, National Chaplain; Mrs. Maurice Honigman, North Carolina's Board Member and Chairman of the Board of Trustees for the Foundation for the Advancement of Music; Mrs. Harry J. Shonts of Winston-Salem, retiring president of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs, and presidents of the state federations of the Southeastern Region.

Banquet, the Luncheon, and the concert.

Other activities scheduled for Week-end include a Registration Tea at Brevard College, courtesy of Brevard Music Club; a South-eastern Reception given by the hostesses, Mississippi and Tennessee; a get-acquainted tour of Brevard Center; and the dedication of the Alabama and Maryland Practice Cabins.

Contact chairman for the Brevard Music Club and Steering Committee is Mrs. Duncan Hunter, Brevard, N. C.

Congratulations to the Chamblaine Music Club of Raeford for its work last year in helping to secure a public music teacher for Hoke High School, the only high school in the county.

Knowing that the high school had no music teacher, a club-appointed committee went before the Town Board and the County Board and found there was no money available for a supplement without which a teacher could not be secured.

The club (30 members), with Mrs. Julius Jordan as president, went to work. They sponsored a choral recital, solicited cash donations, and sold candy, and soon had enough money to secure the music teacher.

The club expects to continue the project for next year.

Teach Children Neatness With Pajama Bags

AP Newsfeatures

A good way to teach a child neatness is to provide easy storage places for such things as pajamas and slippers.

A gay pajama bag will add a note of color to the junior bedroom and double as a pillow on the daytime. Local sewing center experts suggest you make your own covering for a round foam rubber or kapok-filled pillow, with room for pajama storage.

To make the pillow-bag, first measure your cushion. Cut two round pieces for top and bottom and a long strip for the boxing around the side. The drawing strip is the same length as the boxing strip, and seven inches wide. Remember to cut all pieces to allow for a half-inch seam allowance.

Make bias lording for edges of pillow. Stitch cording around top and bottom sections. Stitch ends of boxing strip together. Baste boxing strip to bottom section and stitch. Leave opening for zipper. Trim seam edge so it will lie flat. Insert zipper.

Make drawingstring casing for top of strip which makes the bag section. Stitch bottom edge to outside edge of top section of pillow cover and stitch both to boxing strip. Use remaining fabric to make bias cording for drawingstring.

Three-Course Lunch Fetes Bridal Party

WINTERVILLE—Miss Elaine Worthington, bride of tomorrow, entertained her bridal party and out-of-town guests yesterday at a three-course luncheon.

Greeting the guests in a red lace sheath dress, the hostess presented them to her mother, Mrs. Lloyd B. Worthington, who also helped greet and invited them into the home.

Of focal interest was an arrangement of pink roses and larkspur, which was placed on a reflector surrounded by pink rose corsages that were presented to the bridesmaids and flower girls.

Arrangements of daisies and feverfew decorated the dining room with mixed summer flowers adding a nuptial effect throughout the home.

Approximately 30 guests attended.

NATURE SUPPLEMENTS SUDS

Lack of dishwashing equipment and facilities should never deter the good camper from doing a thorough job of washing dishes.

All he needs to take along is a supply of soap or detergent—nature will supply a scouring agent, if needed. Add small pebbles to the suds, and shake to loosen food stuck to deep jars or pots.

To remove smudge from the outside of cooking utensils, mix sand with the suds and apply with a cloth.

MAKE IT A VARIETY PICNIC WITH DAIRY FOODS!

Picnics afloat are special fun for the entire family, and dairy products are as much a part of a boating picnic as they are of meals at home. Mom, Dad, and the kids of all ages can enjoy a trip by water and, when a tempting shore site comes into view, the outdoor motor on the boat takes them right up to the beach for a wonderful grilled dinner.

For variety in the outdoor picnics, try Butter Grilled Chicken 'n' Beans. The combination of butter-topped frozen lima beans and half a broiler-chicken is hearty enough for appetites sharpened by boating and water skiing. The beans and chicken are butter-baked over the grill in individual serving packets of heavy aluminum foil. During the boat trip, the frozen beans help keep the chicken refrigerated and when ready for grilling, the buttery juices to a delectable doneness.

If appetites are especially hearty, potatoes in foil jackets may bake on the grill along side the packets of chicken and beans. Before packing the potatoes, cut out a section with an apple corer and fill with butter. Wrap in foil, ready for grilling.

The rest of the menu is simple. Relishes are kept chilled packed in plastic bags and carried in containers of ice cubes. The ice cubes also can be melted for making coffee or tea over the grill. The dessert is crispy butter cookies and fresh fruit.

Butter Grilled Chicken 'n' Beans

2 packages frozen lima beans

4 tablespoons green onions, (optional)

1/2 pound butter

Salt

Pepper

1/2 to 2/3 pound broilers, split

Cut heavy aluminum foil into 8 large squares. Cut cross blocks of lima beans in half. Place half block of the beans on each of 4 squares of foil. Top with a tablespoon each of butter and onion. Cover with half a chicken. Top with another tablespoon of butter. Season with salt and pepper. Fold foil around chicken and beans loosely to make an individual packet. Wrap each packet in second square of heavy foil. Cook on grill 2 1/2 inches from heat 40 to 50 minutes or until the chicken is tender and the beans cooked. Yield: 4 servings. Serve a packet to each person.

Butterscotch Lunch Box Cookies

1/4 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon baking powder

1/2 cup butter

1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar

1/2 cup granulated sugar

2 eggs

1 cup chopped nuts

Sift dry ingredients. Cream butter. Add brown sugar and granulated sugar, mixing well. Add eggs and vanilla and beat. Gradually add sifted dry ingredients, mixing chopped nuts in last. Yield: 5 to 6 dozen cookies.

Epsilon Sigma Alpha Planning New Sorority For Greenville

Mrs. Robert W. Nichols, field secretary for Epsilon Sigma Alpha, is in Greenville this week to form a new chapter of the organization at the request of the membership.

The group, which was founded in 1929, is the oldest non-academic sorority in the United States with 50,000 members in chapters in every state and a number of foreign countries.

Membership is for life and may be transferred from one chapter to another.

It has a three-fold purpose: cultural and educational; fellowship and social, and service. Its overall service is aid to underprivileged and handicapped children.

Each chapter's service is determined by community needs.

A state convention was held in Raleigh during the week of May

5. Outgoing president is Mrs. Charles Sandifer of Durham. Incoming president is Mrs. Frances Bridges of Greensboro. Next year's conference will be held in Burlington.

There are between 30 and 40 chapters in the state whose service project is providing a scholarship fund for teachers to do graduate work for the teaching of handicapped children.

Mrs. Nichols is now living in Leesburg, Fla. She is in North Carolina at the request of the membership to form additional chapters and visit the established chapters.

For ten years prior to 1956 she traveled nationally. At present she is field director for the state of Florida.

She is staying at the Kenland Motel while in Greenville.

To Get Milk In Daily Fare

RALEIGH—There's many a way to get milk into meals, Jo Earp, Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist, reminds homemakers. Most people find milk a very refreshing beverage, so they get their daily milk quota by drinking it plain.

However, Miss Earp points out that in cooking or other food preparation, there are many ways to get milk into daily fare, thus adding dividends in nutritive value and often flavor as well. For more milk at breakfast, you can pour hot milk over poached eggs or toast. Or use milk instead of water when cooking cereals, following directions usually given on the cereal package.

Step up milk value in many foods containing fluid milk by adding dry milk. Try this when preparing soups, mashed potatoes, cereals, and other cooked foods. If you add four tablespoons of dry milk to each cup of fluid milk, you make the dish about twice as rich in milk value as when you use fluid milk alone.

Puddings and pie fillings made with evaporated milk will offer more milk value if two or more parts evaporated milk are added to one part of water instead of the usual one to one proportion. Cream soups, creamed or scalloped main dishes, custards and other milk puddings also help build up milk in meals.

So during June Dairy Month remember to take advantage of plentiful supplies of milk and other dairy products to add more nutrition economically to your family's diet.

Students Design Exotic Swimwear

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The younger set intends to look exotic on the beach this summer.

Students of fashion design at Washington University spotlighted daring and unusual fashions for sun and surf wear at their recent fashion show, displaying the best of their year's work.

The student show regularly is attended by manufacturers and designers from the St. Louis junior dress market, who work closely with design classes at the university, providing jobs for many graduates. This year's show was greeted enthusiastically by the audience, many of whom were anxious to see whether the students would endorse the new dress silhouettes—the chemise and the trapeze.

They were perhaps reassured to find that the student vote is emphatically in favor of the new look, which influenced designs for all occasions, from evening gowns to beach wear.

One of the most striking swim suits featured a loose middy top with ventilated midriff, worn with a big beach hat and a flowing striped burnoose.

Embroider A Party Dress By Machine

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

It's simple these days to turn out a beautifully embroidered party dress for your little girl or a blouse for yourself without spending hours every evening making painstaking hand stitches, the way your mother used to do.

Fancy stitching is as easy as plain stitching with the benefit of today's new automatic sewing machines and attachments which allow you to make practically any kind of embroidery stitch by machine.

A little girl's dress of pale pink cotton, for instance, puts on party airs when it is trimmed with bands of fancy stitching in tones of deep pink, red and deep green. Two bands of embroidery are used across the front of the bodice and one across the back.

The dress is made with a standard pattern which calls for front fullness and vertical shirring between the bands of embroidery. Local sewing center experts offer some tips on how to achieve this effect.

First alter the pattern to eliminate a little of the fullness. Fold an inch-and-a-half tuck at the center of the pattern pieces marked "waist and skirt front" and "waist and skirt back." Cut bands for machine embroidery. Front bands are 2 1/4 inches wide. Back yoke band is one inch wide. Embroider bands, using your favorite stitches and alternating colors.

Run two rows of machine stitching at top and bottom edges of area of bodice marked on the pattern for smocking and pull threads to gather this section until it fits the embroidered bands. Fasten three ends.

Turn in raw edges of front and back yoke embroidered bands and top stitch in place over gathering, after basting. Assemble dress according to pattern instructions. Attach embroidered front waist band last. Turn in raw edges, pin or baste in place with the belt under ends of embroidered band and top stitch.

Looking Ahead To Further Strides

Announcement that a new health director has been hired for Pitt County should be good news for the people of this county.

Pitt's Health Department under the able direction of the late Dr. Walter C. Humbert became one of the most widely recognized county health departments in the state. Its activities and accomplishments under his leadership were also recognized in the Southeastern United States and elsewhere.

Without another full-time director to take up where Dr. Humbert left off, the department could not have maintained indefinitely its high standards of service to the people of this county or its rank with other county health departments in North Carolina.

Dr. Georgia V. Mills who has been selected as Pitt County's new health director comes to the county with a broad background of medical and public health work. She was health director of Bladen County from 1954 to 1957 and since that time has been superintendent of health for Rocky Mount.

Prior to coming to North Carolina she worked with the Michigan Department of Health, the Detroit City Health Department and with hospitals in Detroit.

The Reflector is aware that the Board of Health and the Board of Commissioners of Pitt County have spent a considerable amount of time in seeking a person to head Pitt County's Health Department. We are confident their best judgement has gone into the selection of Dr. Mills to head this important agency of Pitt County's government. Pitt County's public health program has made tremendous strides in recent years. Under the direction of Dr. Mills we look forward to continued progress in public health which is of utmost importance to all the citizens of this county.

An Investment In Our Young Is Sure To Pay

Increasing awareness of the importance of college training of deserving graduates of both the white and Negro high schools has been reflected in Greenville in recent years.

Although locally sponsored college scholarships for graduates of the white high school have been available for a number of years in Greenville, the number and value of these scholarships has increased appreciably in the past few years. Coupled with those offered by East Carolina College and other colleges and universities in North Carolina, they have offered a broad horizon of opportunities for the high school graduate who might not be able to go to college.

It is important too, in our opinion, that in the past two years locally sponsored scholarships have become available for graduates of C. M. Eppes High School.

Last year the first two James S. Ficken scholarships were presented to graduates of Eppes High School. These were the first two locally sponsored college scholarships offered graduates of the Negro high school in Greenville.

In addition to the Ficken scholarships this year there were available to members of the graduating class of Eppes High School college scholarships awarded by Home Savings and Loan Association, State Bank and Trust Company and the Sam White scholarship.

The establishment of these scholarships is indicative of the importance Greenville places on the education of its young people of both races. The investment Greenville is making through college scholarships toward the higher education of its youth will bring our community returns many fold in future years.

Sort Of Like A Brainwashing

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe we're being brainwashed. Nikita Khrushchev, full of tricks, is working on us overtime. Time was in the not so olden days, when nations did business through formal notes and stiff, polite and frigid diplomatic visits.

But the Soviet method toward this country can be stated simply: keep 'em off balance. Khrushchev mixes his pitches.

At one time he writes or talks together; at another time, in a speech somewhere or at a cocktail party, he calls us warmongers.

He talks one time of peaceful coexistence and another of communism taking over the world. All the letters and statements manage to get broadcast or reported.

Pretty soon, having hopped over the formal diplomatic barriers, the Soviets had forced Eisenhower to write letters to them. If he didn't, it would be just so much more propaganda.

There's no doubt this country for a long time felt superior to the Soviet Union. Then Nikita Khrushchev bounced in, too round and fat for a stuffed shirt.

Pretty soon, with his speeches and statements broadcast to the world, he began to drum it into the world's consciousness that the Soviet Union was anyone's equal.

Just as a nudge, in case there was still doubt, the Soviets shot up their Sputniks.

The past few months are a pretty good example of how the Soviets threw the old-fashioned rule book out the window.

Khrushchev's running-mate, the then Premier Bulganin, last December dashed off a note to President Eisenhower, proposing a summit conference.

Then, without politely waiting for this country to reveal the contents, the Soviets made the letter public.

They made a summit conference look simple. It was a "we're-all-members-of-the-same-club kind of note."

The Soviets not only made themselves look like jolly peace-lovers but got the idea across to the rest of the world, no matter what the effect here.

To make matters worse: before Eisenhower answered this first letter, Bulganin wrote him another. It's been that way ever since: letter after letter.

When Khrushchev managed to push Bulganin aside and took his place as premier, he borrowed his pen too and kept on writing to Eisenhower.

Other Editors Saying --- Self-Inflicted Wounds

(Washington Daily News) Three prisoners serving long sentences in North Carolina's prison system have admitted wounding themselves in order to get out of hard work such as is meted out at Ivey Bluff prison in Caswell county.

One of the prisoners has a broken leg allegedly inflicted by a heavy sledge hammer. The others are wounded painfully, and the entire incident tends to lead many people to look at our prison system in the light that we are too tough on prisoners.

And that, perhaps, is exactly what the prisoners want people to think.

This prison is tough, but it houses tough prisoners. The men involved in this incident were on trial for their lives some time ago in the alleged slaying of a fellow inmate at Central prison in Raleigh.

We see no way of handling such prisoners as these in the light of rehabilitation. They will never be rehabilitated. They are in prison for one reason and that reason is to serve sentences.

If they get out of prison, the chances are that they will be in serious trouble again shortly.

We are told that they are dangerous men who will stop at nothing. But how can the state of North Carolina punish felons serving time for acts committed against themselves? That is an unusual question. In the first place, their wounds must be given sufficient time to heal before they can be put back on the rock pile. In the second place, if they are put back in due time, the same thing could happen again. The state can add time to their sentences, but time means very little to fellows already serving life sentences or even 30 years. So how to deal with these prisoners is a grave matter.

Even though they may have inflicted the wounds on themselves, we still cannot be cruel and inhuman with men suffering from such wounds. About all the state can do is to wait until their wounds heal and then put them back.

They are marked prisoners wherever they go and whatever they do while in prison. Their only hope is to escape. And with broken or badly bruised legs, it probably will be some time before they can plot an escape. So the state of North Carolina now finds itself in a predicament on methods of handling these men.

We see no reason for the public to criticize the prison system or the prison administration for what has happened. It might happen again because men on rock piles slinging heavy hammers are men who will seek any end to bring about a change.

It is hardly conceivable that we can order greater punishment than that which they were facing at the time of the act. There is hardly any punishment worse than breaking big rocks with heavy sledge hammers on a hot day.

We will just have to wait until the wounds heal and then put them back there and let nature take its course. We have little choice as we see it.

Russian Course Liked

By TOM TURLEY SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — A research chemist here is engaged on a pioneer television project he hopes will ignite sparks of understanding in the dark void between the United States and Russia.

Twice a week since February Dr. Irving Bengelsdorf has been a lonely trail-blazer on a unique TV program. Bengelsdorf teaches Russian. His half-hour classes begin at 6:30 a.m. The response has been tremendous.

"The results have been astonishing," Bengelsdorf says. "When we planned the program we figured that maybe we'd end up with the best educated milkmen in the country. Imagine — basic Russian at 6:30! But after we got started — well — it was amazing."

"My original goal," Bengelsdorf continues, "was to help scientific personnel establish a mastery of the Russian alphabet so that it didn't look strange, and to build up a fairly good vocabulary of Russian technical terms."

Backed by Station WRGB-TV, the Mohawk-Hudson Council on Educational Television and the Eastern New York Section of the American Chemical Society, the program ran for 12 weeks, Tuesdays and Thursdays. Before the classes actually got underway Bengelsdorf got his first jolt.

"When we announced our plans for the program we thought about 25 people might write us for our free guide sheet," he says. "Well, about 4,500 people wrote in."

"We also asked a New York publisher to have about 200 copies of a textbook ready for sale in February. The day after the first class we had 1,000 requests."

Bengelsdorf, who works in the General Electric Research Laboratory, and took no pay for his TV lectures, had no illusions about his students becoming proficient in the language. The 24 classes were aimed at stimulating further study. His immediate wish, he maintains, was that his students would develop an ability to read the title of a technical article, to know the author, to understand graphs and illustrations and to get a general idea what an article was all about.

The initial impact of the program persuaded him to expand the course to include conversational Russian.

"Frankly, I'm not that well-acquainted with the conversational language to do it justice," he adds. "But I gave them some basic Russian grammar, a little vocabulary and I'd summarize news events."

"When I started opening up my program with 'Hello' and 'Good morning' in Russian, people began greeting me on the street — 'Zdravstvuyte' and 'Dobroe Utro.' The encouragement was tremendous."

Bengelsdorf's acquaintance with Russian began in 1948 while he was studying for his doctorate degree at the University of Chicago.

"I was getting my doctorate in organo phosphorus chemistry," he said. "The Russians had a very active school in this field at the University of Kazan. I felt I had to learn the language to keep up. Our own abstracts of the Russian school's reports were far behind to be of value."

There is much less secrecy in the international scientific community than many people believe, Bengelsdorf says, but the shortage of Americans who speak Russian has hampered this country's scientific efforts.

"The reaction to my program," Bengelsdorf says, "came on the heels of the first Russian Sputniks. The response has been so great that we now are considering two alternative for next fall."

"It would be advantageous to have someone else equipped in the conversational language take over the morning programs. Maybe a Russian by birth or someone who has a lifetime knowledge of the language could get it across."

"As for myself, I'd like to go back to my original idea — doing programs for technical workers. Maybe the programs also could be a basis for use on other educational stations. In this way we can tighten the gap between ourselves and the Russians. Scientists in both countries can help each other. And peoples everywhere will benefit."

Going On Without The Spare

By BILLY ARNOLD It Does Sound Familiar

Have you heard about the rich man in Greenville who awoke one morning recently to find a weed growing in his bedroom window that had a peculiar yellow berry growing out of the end of it?

It seems that he told his gardener to cut the thing down and forgot about it. That night when he got ready to go to bed his wife asked what thing was in the window. The man assumed that the gardener had just forgotten to cut the weed down and made a note to remind him of it in the morning.

Next morning, upon awakening, he became irritated by the weed and the yellow berry all over again and got straight up and called the gardener and told him to cut down the weed.

"I did," said the gardener. The man couldn't understand it. "The thing has grown back up and is right back in the window," he said.

"Well, I'll go cut it down again," the gardener told him. The man promptly forgot about it until he prepared to go to bed that next night. He discovered that the weed was still there and that the berry was still growing out of the end of it and that it was practically in the very same place.

Astounded, he thought that perhaps the plant was some strange mutation that had fantastic powers of regeneration. He made a note to call somebody in the science department at ECC the next morning and have them look at it.

Next morning, the man cancelled all his business appointments at his office and made arrangements to meet one of the college professors at the school. Before leaving for the campus, he left word for the gardener not to touch the plant.

He met the scientist professor and told him the strange circumstances about the climbing green weed with the yellow berry sticking out of the end of it which seemed to have amazing powers of growth. The professor said he had never heard of anything that sounded like that or even looked like that.

The man persuaded the professor to accompany him to his house to look at the odd plant. They went to his bedroom and found that the plant wasn't there. Irritated, the man asked his wife if she knew anything about it. She told him that she had grown tired of looking at the thing and had snipped it off with her scissors and tossed it out the window.

The man and the East Carolina professor went downstairs and looked beneath the window but couldn't find the weed or the berry or anything of the strange plant.

The professor was a little disgusted and thought that perhaps the man had tried to play a crude joke on him. They had an argument and reportedly traded blows.

That night, the man went to bed, wondering about the strange plant. He had asked many of his friends and neighbors if they knew what it could possibly have been, but none of them had any idea. None of the neighbors had seen any strange plants with berries growing near their houses or on their land.

Disturbed, he turned out the lights and tried to get some sleep but found himself restless and unable to sleep.

He lay awake and weary and thinking of the irritating plant until the small hours of the morning. He thought of his argument with the college professor and of all the trouble that the plant had caused him. Finally, he drifted off to sleep around two o'clock.

When he awoke the next morning, he instinctively glanced toward his window and noticed that it seemed a little darker outside than usual. He went to the window and saw this tremendous plant growing out of the ground beneath the window and extending up higher than the house and on up.

He cancelled all his business appointments for the day and went outside and began climbing up the stalk. When he reached the top, high above the clouds, he saw this large castle and it looked like the kind of place that a giant would live in. He went in and saw this goose that lays golden eggs and a harp that sings by itself and just as he was about to leave with the two under his arms, he heard a booming voice say . . . "Fe Fi Fo Fum, I smell the blood of an American."

He hurried down the vine and got his axe and chopped on the vine while the giant followed him ponderously. He finally chopped it down and it fell with a crash, killing the giant, but the heavy stalk also fell on top of the goose and the harp, smashing them to pieces. Immediately afterwards, the vine shriveled up and disappeared and his wife came out and asked him what he was doing with the axe in his hands.

He told her the story but she wouldn't believe him. He's told several others in town but nobody will believe him.

Frankly, I don't believe him either. I've heard the story before somewhere.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS UNFETTERED

A friend of mine on routine checkup was told by his physician that he should give up smoking. As the doctor talked to him, my friend was packing his pipe with tobacco. When the doctor had finished speaking, my friend slipped the pipe, filled with tobacco, into his coat pocket. Upon arrival home, he placed the pipe on the top shelf of his book case. There, for twenty years, it has remained, still filled with the tobacco he packed into it while in the doctor's office.

How should we break our bad, or disadvantageous habits? Should we do it right off the bat, as this man did? Or is it better to taper off?

This all depends on the temperament of the person. Smoking appears to be in some way connected with a physical routine, and if the routine can be broken, the addiction is largely broken. With alcohol, the matter is more serious. Here, a habit-forming drug which works on the central nervous system is involved, and the situation requires decisive, unflinching action. Science does not know exactly what is the basis of addiction, but addiction is very real, and highly expensive morally and every other way.

Better never to get involved in addictive habits. If involved, better get out in the manner best indicated by the predicament. The happy life is the addiction-free life.

Long, Slow Recovery Shapes Up

By ELMER ROESSNER Recovery from the slump may be longer and slower than expected earlier.

Business may have now touched bottom. Inventories have been reduced to reasonable levels. Money is fairly plentiful. Consumers have substantial savings. Unemployment is leveling off. Personal income continues high.

But there isn't any economic explosive to get business into orbit. There are few temptations to accelerate spending for new plants and equipment. The high-way program is moving ahead but necessary planning makes progress slow. There is nothing in the new housing legislation to trigger a boom in takeoff. Spending for missiles is increasing but that, too, is slow. Federal tax cuts are being held firmly in abeyance. School building programs are being tossed back to the states.

If business is to zoom, it will have to launch itself. It can do it. It will take time.

HIGHER FEES Here are more look-aheads in business, based on further analyses of developing trends:

Higher auto insurance rates. Insurers took another licking in 1957, and to survive, must ask for higher rates this year. This process will be repeated in 1959 and every year thereafter as long as accident awards keep rising.

Higher Blue Cross rates. Blue Cross and other medical and hospital insurance plans are also taking a beating. Despite what you may read elsewhere, hospitals are boosting charges, and doctors are increasing fees. After all, if government workers are getting raises in the midst of a recession, why shouldn't doctors and nurses? Insurance plans have applications for higher fees pending in many states and will surely ask for more in the rest.

SLIMMER DIVIDENDS Shaved dividends are ahead. Corporations generally avoid cuts, and despite the recession, many have been able to maintain rates because of good earnings last year. But many have not kept up earnings this year and cuts in third and fourth quarters are inevitable.

More Latin-American aid. The significance of the violence toward Vice President Nixon has been fully assayed by the Administration; its reaction will be to recommend more aid for nations in which poverty presumably provoked outbreaks.

Checksups on employers. Unemployed adults will be more likely than ever this year to blow whistles on employers who hire unqualified youngsters. Tip: If hiring moners for summer jobs, be sure to comply with regulations.

More bank mergers. Bank mergers have been slowing down recently but there's fresh increase ahead. Many banks, seeing customers drift to the suburbs, are eager to unite with banks in these areas.

Worse metal trouble. One reason for the slack demand for copper, aluminum, zinc, and other nonferrous metals is that missiles need less of them than old-fashioned jet planes. Reports from behind the Iron Curtain indicate Russia has similar problems and may dump larger amounts of these metals on world markets, further depressing American prices.

OLD PROMOTER URGES QUIETUS ON TAX-CUT TALK "If I merchandised more than hot air," the Old Promoter began on his weekly visit today, "I'd write—"

This was an unusual bit of candor, so we listened carefully. "to my Congressman and ask him to keep his trap shut about tax cuts. There isn't going to be any income tax cut and there is precious little chance of cuts on autos, furs, people or other things. But people are beginning to hold off buying in hope of saving a few pennies."

"A good step toward restoring buying would be for Congress and the President to announce, 'No tax cuts this year!' It might start buying again."

The Old One may have something there.

Lions, Elks Victorious In Little League Twin Bill

Leaders Open Home Stretch With Wins

NORTH STATE LEAGUE
Lions	6
Joycees	4
VFW	2
Kiwanis	1
Moose	0

Two of the most important ball games in the 1958 Little League first half were played yesterday afternoon at Elm Street Park.

The Lions trimmed the Joycees 2-2 in a North State encounter and the Elks dumped the Exchange club 4-2 in a Tar Heel loop game.

The importance of the games lie in the fact that they opened up the home stretch of the first half of play in both leagues and also established the leaders for that home stretch.

In the North State match between the Lions and Joycees, the two pitchers, Robbie Powell and Alton Clapp, continued their mound duel that has been going on since the season opened.

In the past three ball games the Elks have netted three straight victories, topping every club in the league. They moved from a bottom place slot to a tie with Pepsi-Cola Thursday and yesterday's victory thrust them ahead into undisputed lead of the league.

Only one man picked up more than one hit during the game. Bit Morton, Joycee third baseman, tallied a double and a single for three attempts. Johnson got his club's only other hit. For the Lions, Kennedy, Gilliam, and Powell got hits.

Today, a doubleheader is scheduled to begin at 3:00 at Elm Street, featuring the Kiwanis vs VFW and the Pepsi-Cola vs the Exchange.

One Doctor Gone, One Golfer Added

By JACK LYNCH
PITTSBURGH (AP)—The world lost a possible doctor when personal Mickey Wright took up golf seriously, but the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. gained a 24-carat asset.

The comely 23-year-old slagger out of San Diego, Calif., thrilled a sizeable gallery on the sunny, wind-swept Churchill Valley Country Club course yesterday with her second straight one-under-par 69 to lead a field of 27 women pros by eight strokes in the Ladies PGA tournament.

With a 138 total at the halfway point in the $7,500 72-hole medal play event, Mickey is two under par. No other player has broken or matched par 36-34-70, on the tough 6,025-yard layout.

"It's days like today and yesterday that make me glad I quit Stanford for golf," said Mickey. "I don't know when I've played any better."

Eight strokes back, but still within striking distance, were pony-tailed Beverly Hanson of Intake a win. Maloney pitched the first six innings for the Elks and the game was tied at 2-2 when he went out. He was relieved by Clark who went the seventh and eighth frames. It was Clark's victory.

The Exchange club changed pitchers also in the sixth inning. Medlin, who had gone for six, was replaced by Elks. It was Elks' loss, of course.

The winners got eight hits to the Exchange's seven. Medlin and Elks fanned seven batters together and Maloney and Clark struck out nine.

The winning runs in the eighth inning came on a single by Cain, a double by Whichard, two walks and an error. Leading hitters for the winning club were Smith and Maloney who had two baseknocks each.

Third baseman Sumrell led the Exchange club at the plate with four hits for four trips.

In the North State match between the Lions and Joycees, the two pitchers, Robbie Powell and Alton Clapp, continued their mound duel that has been going on since the season opened.

In two previous games, the two hurlers squared off and both hurled tight games—with Powell coming out on top in each encounter.

The Lions have won 3-0, 1-0, and 3-2 in all three matches.

Yesterday, the two pitchers held hitting to only six. Both teams tallied three baseknocks each. Powell had an edge in strikeouts with 11 to Clapp's eight. Powell walked seven and Clapp only three.

In the final inning, with the Lions ahead 3-2, Kennedy came in for Powell to put out a brief flourish by the Joycees. Powell had put two men on base on walks, with only one out. Kennedy fanned the next batter and the final batter grounded out to finish the game.

Only one man picked up more than one hit during the game. Bit Morton, Joycee third baseman, tallied a double and a single for three attempts. Johnson got his club's only other hit. For the Lions, Kennedy, Gilliam, and Powell got hits.

Today, a doubleheader is scheduled to begin at 3:00 at Elm Street, featuring the Kiwanis vs VFW and the Pepsi-Cola vs the Exchange.

Mantle's Slump Is Full Of Homeruns Now

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

If there's something wrong with Mickey Mantle's swing, he ought to patent it. He's had only eight hits in his last six games—but six of them have been home runs.

The Mick picked a pair last night, driving in the first four runs as the New York Yankees defeated the Cleveland Indians 5-5. It was a two-run, bases-loaded single by Bill Skowron that got the job done in the seventh, however, as Bob Turley became the first to win nine in the majors.

Second place Kansas City skidded 8 1/2 games behind the Yankees in a 2-1 and 3-1 twin-night loss at Baltimore. Boston defeated Chicago 3-2 and Detroit belted Washington, 11-2.

In the National League, Don Zimmer's ninth-inning homer gave Los Angeles a 4-3 victory over Milwaukee. The Braves retained first place by .008 percentage points as Cincinnati defeated second place San Francisco 5-4 despite a 3-for-3 night by Willie Mays, who took the NL bat lead at 433. St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 3-1 and the Chicago Cubs beat Pittsburgh 6-1.

Mantle, who had hit only four home runs in his first 37 games, now has 10 for the year. The pair of losing southpaw Dick Tomaneck gave him a two-in-one-game performance for the first time since last June 12. He also singled in a perfect 3-for-3 show, raising his average to .309, and was walked intentionally to load the bases ahead of Skowron's clincher.

Turley gave up seven hits, one a two-run homer by Tomaneck, his first in the majors, and had to get out of a bases-loaded, one-out jam in the ninth. The once-beaten right-hander fanned nine, for a 62 total that reclaimed the AL lead from Chicago's Billy Pierce, who has 55.

Connie Johnson won his second for the Orioles in the opener, while in the nightcap, Milt Pappas, a 19-year-old right-hander hampered by arm trouble recently, gained his second victory and first major league complete game with a four-hitter. He had a one-hit shutout for six. Ray Herbert was the loser.

Lois Berberet singled home a run in the sixth for the Red Sox, then set up the clincher with a triple ahead of Marty Keough's pinch-hit sacrifice fly in a two-run eighth. Chicago reliever Jerry Staley lost his fourth. Ike Delock won his second in relief.

Billy Hoelt, who hadn't beaten Washington since 1956, gained a 4-5 record with a four-hitter after losing four straight. Ossie Virgil, Detroit's first Negro, made his AL debut with a double in five trips and an errorless game at third base. Hal Griggs was the loser.

Carl Bailey of the Cub Scout Pack nine, the Immanuel Baptist Church, won yesterday's Pinewood Derby race at Elm Street Park. Bailey received a ribbon for participation and a gold trophy for the title.

Runner-up to Bailey was Mike Cashman, of Cub Pack 336, Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

A total of 34 clubs entered the race yesterday and the two boys have survived the eliminations, with Bailey's home-built miniature auto finally copping the title.

Herb Elliott Can Shrug It Off Easily

COMPTON, Calif. (AP)—Australia's Herb Elliott is the type of fellow who can shrug off missing a world mile record by the wink of an eyelash.

"No, I'm not disappointed," said Elliott after whipping Ron Delany of Ireland in 3:38.1 last night—his fifth sub-four minute mile.

"I'm always happy to run under four minutes and win," said the flier from Perth, who was clocked just one-tenth of a second off the recognized mile record set by John Landy, a fellow Aussie.

The race at the Compton Invitational track and field meet had been ballyhooed as the track duel of the year. But Delany, unbeaten this year until last night, fizzled in the final quarter and finished a good 50 yards behind Elliott and Lazo Tabori, a Hungarian refugee.

"I ran like Silky Sullivan," said Ron, who finished as badly as the celebrated race horse in the Kentucky Derby.

Delany said the 3.8 m.p.h. cross-wind might have cost Elliott a record. Others blamed the swift pace set at first by Bob Shankland of the University of Southern California. He was timed at 56.9 for the first 40 yards.

Elliott didn't agree. "I wasn't aware of the wind while running," he said. "I liked the pace and I ran the kind of race I wanted."

RANKED NO. 1—Coaches Billy and Charlie Bland grin proudly as their star hurler Sammy Pugh indicates that their State Bank baseball team is No. 1 in the local Teen-er League. Pugh helped win the club's third straight victory last night in a relief role.

The two leading teams in the Industrial Softball League added wins to their records last night by defeating the two bottom-place clubs in a doubleheader at Guy Smith Stadium.

The Graniteers toppled Coffman's 4-2, while the Carolina Dairy defeated Quality Oil 5-3.

In the opening game, the Dairy whacked Quality Oil hurler Phillips for seven hits to chalk up their 5-3 triumph. Warren pitched the win for the CD team. Warren limited the losers to only three hits.

Making the job tougher for the Dairy was the fact that they committed six errors during the game. Quality Oil made only one.

Leading hitters for the winners were Garaway with 2-3 and Tripp with 2-4. Bass, Moyle and Hamill led the losers 1-3 each.

In the second ball game, the Graniteers added win No. 7 to their unbroken streak, dumping Coffman's 4-2. Dan Gordan, who has hurled all seven of the Graniteer victories thus far, went the full distance, allowing the losers five hits.

Roebuck and Henrich both hit 2-3 to pace the winners at the plate. Brantley and Riddick were leading hitters for Coffman's. Brantley was the losing hurler.

Tim Tam Answers The Big Question At Belmont Today

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Tim Tam answers the big question today in the Belmont Stakes, toughest of the Triple Crown series for 3-year-olds, and there's a growing belief he'll have his work cut out for him by an Irish colt named Cavan.

The question is whether the Calumet colt can become the ninth horse to win the Triple Crown.

Off the record, Cavan shouldn't worry Tim Tam or trainer Jimmy Jones too much as they attempt to add the mile and one-half Belmont to their Kentucky Derby and Preakness victories.

Eight 3-year-olds, all that survived the rigors of racing from an original list of 132 horses nominated last Feb. 15 for the $100,000 added classic, were named to start.

With eight going in the 90th Belmont, the gross value would be $14,600, the winner netting $73,440. Mild, sunny weather was promised, assuring a fast track for the race to be seen nationally on TV with radio broadcast.

Tim Tam is an overwhelming favorite, an early odds line quoting him at 1 to 10.

If Tim Tam makes it stick, he'll be the third Calumet colt to nab the Triple.

Some support also will go to C. V. Whinn's Flamingo and the Wheatley Stable's Nasoo.

Mrs. Anna Cannull's Chance II Tony, Mrs. Charles Silvers' Page Seven, and the two Brooks Farm's Saferis—a late surprise—all were listed at odds of 50 to 1. Martins Rullah, owned by George Lewis, completes the field.

At Hollywood Park, the Kerr Stable's Round Table meets six other older horses in the $50,000 added Aronauit Handicap at one mile. Round Table, with 132 pounds, meets Saeneen, 120, and Terrang, 118.

Seventeen fillies and mares were entered for the $50,000 added Beverly Handicap, one mile, at Washington Park. Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Pucker Up was top-weight.

with 122 pounds. E. J. Potter Jr.'s Pilon has high weight of 123 pounds in the mile and one sixteenth. $25,000 added Kent Stakes at Delaware Park. Probable favorite in the field of 12, however, is the Boncrest Farm's Backbone, 120.

Nine fillies and mares were entered for the $10,000 Pinafore

Stakes at Suffolk Downs with B. A. Dario's Dandy Blitzen the probable favorite.

Conn Smythe's Caldeon Beau is the heavy favorite over 13 others in the $25,000 added Queens Plate at New Woodbine, Toronto. The mile and one quarter race, inaugurated in 1860, is the oldest stakes in North America.

The State Bank Teen-er Leaguers widened the breach between them and the three other teams in the circuit last night at Guy Smith Stadium, chalking up their third straight win of the year, a 9-2 triumph over Guaranty Bank.

The win moved State Bank's overall mark to 3-0 in this first week of Teen-er League activity for 1958 and gives them a booming advance over the other three clubs before the circuit even gets into full swing.

Coaches Charlie Bland and Billy Dunn who last year led the Greenville Little League All-Stars to the North Carolina state championship are doing their first season of work with the Teen-er loop and have already established themselves and their team as the club to beat.

Last night Bland and Dunn used several of their graduated Little League All-Stars against the last-ranked Guaranty Bankers for the 9-2 victory. But the big man in the victory was pint-sized Sammy Pugh, a little fellow who was practically unknown until the first of the opening game of the Teen-er season, Pugh took to the mound to defeat College View.

Last night he came in relief of starter Johnson in the top of the second inning and went the rest of the distance to pitch his club to victory. It was Johnson's win, however, because the State Bankers picked up two runs in the first inning, while their opponents had only one.

For the losers, Brock started with the pitching chores and was relieved by James in the bottom of the first. Boyd replaced James in the bottom of the fifth. It was Brock's loss.

The State Bankers picked up only three hits and garnered most of their nine runs on Guaranty Bank boos. Guaranty Bank managed to collect only one hit for the night, a single by James in the fifth frame.

Pugh, McArthur and Teel got the hits for State Bank. The top hit of the night was a home run with one man on base by Alan McArthur in the sixth inning.

Akins Wants Some Of Basilio Next

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Virgil (Honeybear) Akins, confident after his vicious bombing of Vince Martinez for the world welterweight title, is eager for a big payday fight with former titleholder Carmen Basilio.

"Man, that fight would be ideal," Akins said when asked about a match with Basilio. His manager, Eddie Yawitz, echoed: "We definitely want Basilio next either in St. Louis or Syracuse, wherever we can draw the best gate."

But Basilio, a spectator last night, said his plans are indefinite depending on whether he can get a third fight with Sugar Ray Robinson.

He admitted, though, he is thinking about returning to the 147-pound class if the money is right.

Truman Gibson, head of the International Boxing Club, was impressed with the brutal beating the 30-year-old hometown boy gave the handsome Paterson, N.J. stylist.

"We have a new champion and it looks like he's going to be a good one," Gibson said.

Martinez was down seven times officially before Referee Harry Kessler stopped it after 52 seconds of the fourth round with Vince flat on his back.

Kessler raised Akins' hand and didn't bother to count Martinez out.

"I could have counted to 30," Kessler told ringsiders.

Sluggier Akins had been a 2 to 1 betting favorite in his hometown but not even his strongest supporters expected such a sharp performance.

The only thing equal about the two fighters was their weight. Each weighed 146½ pounds.

A crowd of 9,777 which paid $62,810 saw the end coming after 30 seconds of the first round. Martinez led with the flicking jab, then went down from a left hook to the stomach and a savage overhand right.

Vince got up at the count of two. He was through, but didn't know it.

With the crowd roaring, Akins clubbed Vince around the ring and scored two more knockdowns in the first. Martinez went down two other times but Referee Kessler termed one a push-down, the other a slip.

Martinez faced certain disaster in the second with a bloody face and wobbly legs but survived. He took a bad beating in the third and went down for a nine count early in the fourth before the end came.

"He had a ton of guts," Akins said.

Lane Says His Remarks Were Misinterpreted

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Lane, the oft-quoted general manager of the Cleveland Indians, broke one of his rules today. He denied a statement attributed to him by the press.

Lane said he never advocated trimming of major league rosters from 40 players before cutdown time to a maximum of 25. Nor did he propose that the rule whereby a club may option 15 players to the minors be stricken from the books.

"I have rarely denied a story attributed to me, whether it was true or false," he said. "But in this case my remarks have been so badly misinterpreted that I've got to clear up the picture."

"What I have suggested is simply this... that a big league club be forbidden to option to the minors any player with four years of service in organized baseball."

"Any player who has had four years of minor league experience should be made subject to waivers before he can be sent down with the promise of the claiming club to keep him at least one full year. In this way, the player would at least get an opportunity to play major league ball with a major league club."

Lane cited rookie Marv Throneberry, New York Yankee first baseman, as an example.

"The Yankees returned Throneberry to the minors last year," he said. "At least two clubs, Washington and Cleveland, would have gladly paid the waiver price for him had he been eligible for waivers. Instead he went down to play for Denver."

Lane's comments were in reply to a statement by Yankee general manager George Weiss. Weiss took exception to a story quoting Lane that the Yankees are ruling business in the league and that all players should be limited to the 25 players on their active rosters without being able to option 15 more for development in the minors.

Playoff Tonight

ALPINE, Tex. (AP)—San Diego State and Southwestern Oklahoma meet tonight for the championship of the NAIA baseball tournament here, with the teams rated about even.

San Diego State last night blasted St. Louis of Minnesota out of the championship contention 17-4 in a game called at the end of five innings because the San Diego lead was so great.

Simpson of Indiana, Iowa, defeated the College of the Ozarks, Clarksville, Ark., 8-5.

In US Open

DALLAS (AP)—Former Duke University football player Mike Souchak will play in the National Open golf tournament, moving up from first alternate to one of the qualifying positions from the Detroit area.

Chuck Kosci, a Detroit qualifier, vacated his spot. Souchak took over as first alternate.

Souchak, who now plays out of Grossinger's, N.Y., learned the good news yesterday. He is here playing in the Dallas Open.

AN EIGHT-POUNDER—Baltimore Jones, of Meadowbrook, hoists a pair of Chub he caught yesterday at Tranter's Creek. The big one was an eight-pounder which he caught using a filter tip from a cigarette as bait. "I saw him snap up a couple of cigarettes I had tossed away," said Baltimore. "So I attached one to the hook and he grabbed it. And I grabbed him."

Traffic Violations Top County Court's Docket

Speeding and other traffic violations, as usual, account for the majority of 29 cases cleared this week from the docket of Pitt County Recorder's Court.

Judgments were returned in 27 of the cases by Judge Dink James who sent the other two cases to Superior Court where they will be heard by juries. The actions forwarded to Superior Court include a charge of possession of non-tax paid whiskey against Charlie Thomas, a 43-year-old Negro laborer, and a speeding charge against Erelwood Nobels, a Vanceboro white man.

Among other cases presented by Solicitor James C. Lanier, Jr., five defendants were ordered to pay court costs and surrender their driver's license for ten days after pleading guilty to speeding charges. They are Lonnie Ray Ayers, Route 2, Bethel; Ralph Coleman Floyd, Washington, N. C.; Henry Clayton Haddock, Route 1, Vanceboro; Clarence McKinley Harding, Route 1, Washington, N. C.; and Edward P. Horanic, Cherry Point.

Maebell Dupree Burney, Negro, of Ayden, who was charged with disregarding a stop sign in addition to speeding, was ordered to pay costs and surrender her driver's license for 15 days.

Also ordered to surrender driver's license for ten days were three persons who pleaded guilty in absentia to speeding charges. They are Jesse Edgar White, Bryan Mitchell Robbins and Gray Vanderguy, each of whom was also directed to pay $25, costs deducted. No address was listed for either of the three men.

Other speeding cases in which judgments were returned included: Raymond Earl Crawford, Route 1, Ayden, $25 and costs, driver's license suspended for six months; Ruben Carlye Doster, Crawfordsville, Ga., nol pros with leave; Paul Brooks Stocks, Route 1, Greenville, charged with speeding with a truck and following too closely, nol pros; and George Clinton Murphy, Wilson, nol guilty.

Five defendants were tried on charges of driving under the influ-

Church To Celebrate 200th Anniversary

THE RED BANKS PRIMITIVE BAPTIST CHURCH... celebrating its 200th anniversary this weekend. (Reflector Photo)

Pitt County's oldest church is celebrating its 200th anniversary this weekend.

The Red Banks Primitive Baptist Church, today and tomorrow, is planning a big celebration to commemorate its founding in 1758.

A business session and services were held this morning. Tomorrow the services will commence at 10:30 a.m. and continue on into the afternoon. According to Elder L. C. McKinney, a number of short sermons will be delivered by visiting elders and ministers. Many families in the community, he said, are planning to bring food for a dinner on the grounds following the services.

According to tradition and information supplied by Leon S. Hardee and several other religious leaders, the Red Banks Church was first organized in 1758 in what was then part of Beaufort County.

The first church building was made of logs. Its water supply came from a well dug on the church grounds with a curbing made out of a hollow tree trunk. This building stood until it was burned during the Civil War by Yankee soldiers.

The story is that the Yankees thought the church was being used as a camp by Confederate soldiers so they came up from Washington and burned it. Confederate soldiers, who were camping near Bell's Fork at Henry Hand's Quarter, found out about the incident, pursued the men responsible for the burning and attacked them near Simpson.

Several were reported killed. Hardee recalled hearing that many men on horseback rode up and down the roads that night in search of the Yankees. The burning of the church is reported to have aroused many throughout the area.

During World War I the Civil War, preaching was held under a big oak tree on the church grounds. Logs were used by the congregation in the place of benches and seats.

After the war, people in the neighborhood donated money and materials to rebuild the church. Billy McGowan and Billy Sermons were the two carpenters, the story goes, who underbid the others by promising to build the new church for $90. They went so much "in the red" on their bargain that the congregation paid them $125 for their work.

Some 20 years later, the church members decided to take that building down and build a new one which is standing today.

It has been told that two terms of school was taught in the Red Banks Church before a one-teacher school was erected across the road. That building is now a residence on the New Bern Highway. A second school building later burned.

No records are available giving the names of the early elders of the church. Some who served following the Civil War were John A. Williams, John Bryant Hardee, Henry Bryant Tucker, George Stokes, Luther Joyner, James H. Roberts and Carl Edwards. McKinney is presently serving the Red Banks congregation.

Senate Approves Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has approved a $3,712,900,000 foreign aid program after beating back efforts to trim the total and to ban any further assistance to Communist Poland and Yugoslavia.

The big measure authorizing continued military and economic help to free nations was passed by the Senate 51-17 at the end of a session that lasted until nearly midnight. On final passage, 26 Republicans and 25 Democrats voted for the bill while 8 Republicans and 9 Democrats opposed it.

The Senate approved the total recommended by its Foreign Relations Committee, that had cut President Eisenhower's request by $29 million dollars. The House version, passed earlier, is 110 million dollars smaller than the Senate total.

The bill now goes to a Senate-House conference to reconcile differences.

The aid program faces its next big test when the appropriations committees begin drafting the bill to provide the actual funds. The authorization bill passed last night sets ceilings for the program in the fiscal year starting July 1. Most foreign aid supporters concede the appropriations committees will cut the total below the authorization figure.

The Senate didn't cut a nickel from the $3,968,900,000 in new authorizations recommended by its Foreign Relations Committee, despite the efforts of Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.). Another 644 million was authorized at the last session for the coming fiscal year.

Ellender did succeed, by a 49-28 roll call vote, in getting the Senate to adopt one amendment putting a ceiling of 1.6 billion dollars on military assistance abroad.

President Of Clemson College Died Last Night

ANDERSON, S.C. (AP)—Dr. Robert Franklin Poole, botanist, educator and for nearly 18 years president of Clemson College, died last night after suffering a heart attack.

Dr. Poole, 64, was stricken at his home in nearby Clemson at 9:30 p.m. Taken to the hospital here, he was admitted at 11:15 p.m. Death came 40 minutes later.

Dr. Lees Milford, his personal physician, said Dr. Poole had had no previous heart condition and was in good health so far as the doctor knew. Dr. Milford added that the Clemson president had kept a strenuous schedule lately, appearing at three commencement exercises during the week-end.

Close friends at the college said Dr. Poole had not felt well all day before his attack.

Funeral plans were incomplete. Dr. Poole, who gained an international reputation in plant pathology, was born near Warriors Creek Baptist Church in Laurens County. The year was 1893, when Clemson's doors first were opened to students.

He said that he liked farm life as a youth, and used to remark in later years that he often wished for a day free to get out on the farm and plow — "even in bare feet."

Most of his secondary education was received at a two-teacher school in Barksdale. He received a B.S. degree from Clemson in 1916. From Rutgers University he earned an M.S. in 1918 and Ph.D. in 1921.

He chose botany as his specialty at Clemson, and remarked later that his liking for it was so profound that his profession was like a hobby to him.

During World War I he was with the aerial photography service in France and Germany. From 1920 to 1926 he served as assistant plant pathologist at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station. In 1926 he went to North Carolina State College as associate plant pathologist and associate professor of plant pathology, and remained there 14 years.

He became Clemson's president July 1, 1940.

Dr. Poole married Miss Sarah Margaret Bradley of Abbeville. They had five children: Robert Franklin Jr., Thomas Bradley, Margaret Lillian, Mary Marcia and William James Poole.

The Clemson president was a Presbyterian.

He was the author of more than 100 publications on plant diseases, in both scientific and popular terminologies. He held membership and offices in many scientific and scholarly organizations, including the presidency of the Southern Phytopathological Society. His hobbies included gardening and hunting and fishing.

Cite Needs For Playground Role

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina can become a great tourist playground, says the president of the All-Seashore Highway Assn., but certain things are needed — such as a coastal highway and adequate hotels.

J. V. Whitfield of Burgaw, former legislator, spoke last night to the North Carolina Travel Council, holding its annual convention here.

Whitfield said a master plan will soon be started for development of the North Carolina coast. The next Legislature, he declared, will be asked to divert gasoline tax funds for work leading toward the building of an all-purpose highway along the coast.

He said the state has plenty of access roads to the coast. But he added that there are two missing links in any coastal highway route — a ferry for 20 miles of water from Ocracoke to Cedar Island, and another ferry from Port Fisher across the Cape Fear River to Southport. The next Legislature will be asked to provide them.

Whitfield asserted that the General Assembly will be asked to divert some gasoline tax money to dredge channels, fill in low places, build jetties and bulkheads and halt beach erosion.

"We can make this a great playground," he said enthusiastically. "We can do what Florida has done, but we must have adequate hotels. The tourist business is so stupendous that the income from it surpasses all the textile manufacturing revenue in the nation."

The council was to hold business sessions today and tour the beach area before closing the convention.

Robert Gibbons Resigns Post At Saint James

Robert H. Gibbons, Jr., for five years Minister of Music of St. James Methodist Church in Greenville, has resigned. On June 10, Gibbons becomes Associate Minister of historic Union Methodist Church in Wilmington, Delaware. The Rev. Dr. Gerald A. Foster is Minister of Union Church.

Last year as a student in the Duke University School he was ordained a Deacon in the Methodist ministry by Bishop Paul N. Gardner at the North Carolina Annual Conference meeting in New Bern. He plans to transfer to a seminary in the Northeast, graduating in 1960. Gibbons' parents live at St. Georges, Delaware, 15 miles south of Wilmington.

While in Greenville, the ministerial candidate was elected president of Pitt County Youth Crusade for Christ, follow-up organization of the Ministerial Association's Eddy Martin campaign. He has been associated with the Rev. J. Malloy Owen in the "Circuit Rider Television-radio Ministry" on WNCN Sunday afternoons, serving as Director of Music.

For More Than 28 Years, A Call To Church

By ASHLEY B. FUTRELL
Washington (N.C.) Daily News
Written For The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Whoo-oo-ah, whoo-oo-ah, whoo-oo-ah.

The familiar sound on the fire whistle greets residents of original Washington, on the banks of the Pamlico River, every Sunday morning at exactly 10:45 o'clock.

Those three toots of the fire whistle have a long and honorable history. For more than 28 years and for exactly 1,466 Sundays the familiar three toots have sounded to remind Washington residents that it is time to go to church for the 11:00 o'clock services.

It all started back in 1906 when Henry Lawrence Jackson, better known as just plain Lonnie Jackson, started to work with the Washington Fire Department.

Each Sunday morning for 16 years Lonnie would hitch up the horses to the fire wagon, make his rounds about town picking up boys to ride them to church. He would drive by each church and leave the youngsters at their chosen services. Perhaps many attended Sunday preaching just to get a free ride on the fire wagon, but old timers say that the front pews in Washington churches were filled every Sunday morning.

Lonnie would attend a different church each Sunday, varying his route so that his horse drawn fire wagon could be hitched outside and he could attend. Insofar as is known he never belonged to any church. Rather he was a faithful supporter of each.

In 1922, the city of Washington bought its first motor fire wagon which became known as the ladder truck. Good old Lonnie's eyes brightened. The Sunday morning routine was much easier, and he hauled approximately 40 boys to and from churches of their choice each Sunday for the next eight years. And riding on that bright red ladder truck was exciting for the youngsters. Even today hundreds of Washington's leading citizens recall with a twinkle in their eyes the good old days when they would ride with Lonnie to church on Sunday morning.

On May 13, 1930, Lonnie was standing by his beloved ladder truck when he became suddenly ill. He was only 46, but his heart had given out. He died two hours later.

It was a sad day in this quiet little town. Lonnie was borne to the cemetery on his own ladder truck. All the equipment of the fire department "as placed in the funeral procession. Hundreds of boys and men whom Lonnie had befriended in his lifetime marched silently as the remains were carried ever so slowly to Oakdale Cemetery.

That night the Washington Fire Department, an volunteer outfit and one of North Carolina's finest, held a meeting. In recognition of the long and faithful service of Lonnie Jackson, his devotion to youth, his love of the fire department, and his services above and beyond the call of duty, a resolution was passed unanimously that on each succeeding Sunday, forever, the Washington fire whistle must be sounded three times to remind people in all walks of life, all colors, all creeds, and all ages that it is time to go to church.

The window of the fire control clock has these words painted upon it. Memory of Lonnie Jackson, died May 13, 1930.

Never once in the intervening 1,466 Sundays have firemen failed to sound three toots on the fire whistle. By tradition and usage the custom has become more important with each passing Sunday.

And in the hearts and minds of all who knew him Lonnie Jackson still lives.

Restyled Body By Chevrolet Hinted

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor
DETROIT (AP) — Chevrolet, which shot back into first place in auto production and sales early this year, is setting itself firmly into the No. 1 spot.

Chevrolet's performance this year is an outstanding feature of an otherwise drab period for the industry. The big General Motors producer trailed Ford Division throughout 1957. Some industry experts said Ford had snapper styling. Ford had an entirely new car in 1957; Chevrolet a face-lifted model.

Chevrolet changed its styling substantially for 1958; it had new rear fenders with a modified flare; it had a wholly new series called the Impala whose acceptance was so great the company reportedly is planning several additions to the model for 1959.

At the end of this year's first quarter Chevrolet had sold 305,452 cars and Ford Division 238,092. Sales figures for April and May have not yet been tabulated. But Chevrolet's percentage of the industry total probably has not declined from the 27.57 figure it had at the end of March.

Ford Division's percentage of the market for the first quarter was 21.33.

In January-May this year Chevrolet built 601,127 cars against Ford Division's 433,932. For Chevrolet that was a drop of less than 65,000 units from the same 1957 period. For Ford Division it was a decline of more than 255,000 units.

Chevrolet reportedly is gearing to a sales rate of more than 30 percent of the new car market for the remainder of the 1958 model year.

Just when the current model year will end for Chevrolet has not been disclosed. An extended model changeover period is expected while outgoing models are liquidated.

Industry gossip has it that all 1959 GM models will be in production by mid-September. That would enable all divisions to publicly introduce their new models at the GM Motorama in New York in October.

The battle between Chevrolet and Ford Division probably will be keener than ever in the 1959 model year. Chevrolet which was not scheduled for a wholly new car until 1960 will have one next year. A change in the GM manufacturing program brings a new body shell to Chevrolet and other divisions. That means a completely restyled Chevrolet.

Ford knew about that new Chevrolet body many months ago. It, too, has made changes in the styling of its Ford Division cars. Most guesses are that for competitive reasons Ford will have its 1959 line on the market approximately the same time Chevrolet presents its new cars.

Ford reported it spent heavily in making competitive changes in its 1958 line to meet the new Chevrolet brought out late last year. Its changes undoubtedly will be even more drastic for 1959.

Despite Recession, Old Inflation Fears Rising

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Fear of more inflation is rising today in spite of the industrial recession.

Some businessmen are calling another rise in basic prices inevitable even if the slump hangs around for a while yet. Still more—and these are particularly numerous in the stock market—think that the business upturn, when it comes, will start off a fresh and perhaps vigorous inflation revival.

Here are some of the factors they are keeping the inflation issue alive today:

Wages of many workers are going up, even though their industries may have much idle production facilities. Some of these wage boosts are written into existing contracts and some are in process of negotiation.

Steel executives are saying that the automatic wage boost July 1 calls for a price rise to meet it. How much of a price boost steel mills can make stick until demand improves more than it has of late is the big question.

Big enough steel users believe a price hike is coming to have boosted their orders this month to beat it and this has caused steel output to bounce back from its low point.

A wage hike of around 25 cents an hour is coming Aug. 1 in the aluminum industry. And some executives are now warning that this cannot be met without a price increase too.

Here also there is a question of making a price hike stick. The aluminum companies were forced April 1 to cut the cost of pig iron 26 cents a pound to 24 cents because the domestic demand for the metal had slackened and because Soviet aluminum was being sold in Europe at a lower level.

There are new reports from England today that the Soviet Union and its satellites are again offering the metal there and on considerably better terms than the Americans and Canadians are. And some American importers find European aluminum cheaper than American even after paying the ocean freight.

Auto wage negotiations are stymied at the moment. But the companies have offered to extend the expired contracts for two more years. These have built in annual wage increases as well as cost of living pay boosts when the government index rises far enough. The auto union wants even more than this.

Whatever new contract is finally negotiated is seen most likely that some wage increase will be included. And what happens to car prices then?

The government has been handing out pay increases too. The armed services will get 576 million dollars a year more. Postal employees will get 265 million and Congress is in process of approving 542 million dollars a year more for other federal employees.

While this adds to the federal deficit and in that sense is inflationary, like the other wage increases it has its silver lining for businessmen. Already they are eyeing as sales targets what is left of this $1,383,000,000 more federal pay after taxes are met.

One inflationary factor that seems certain now is the rise in government spending, to be financed on borrowed money.

The Treasury deficit in the new fiscal year about to start is expected to reach or top 11 billion dollars. This means that the government will be pumping into the economy by its spending some 11 billion dollars more than it will be taking out by taxing.

It was out of this sort of government spending the war and postwar years that the seeds of the inflation in the 1940s and 50s were sown.

New Hurricane Observer Posts Ready To Serve

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 100 new hurricane observation posts have been set up along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, the Weather Bureau said today. The stations will be manned by unpaid volunteers.

The new posts will supplement 40 regular weather bureau stations along the 3,000 miles of coast line from Eastport, Maine, to Brownsville, Tex.

Volunteers will make one complete daily reading of weather instruments at each post during the regular hurricane season—June 15 to Nov. 15. They will report more often when hurricanes threaten their sections.

The Weather Bureau said the new setup will strengthen the hurricane warning system and provide observations for later research studies of hurricane behavior.

Greenville F. W. B. Announcements

If you are not now attending Sunday school somewhere you are invited to attend Sunday at 9:45 a.m. at the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church. There is a class and a welcome for you. Mr. Stephen Walters, superintendent, and his staff of teachers are concerned that there be no summer slump in attendance and interest.

At the 11:00 a.m. worship the Believers, composed of Miss Ann Averette, Ruth Clark, Ann Fodrie and Helen Overton, will sing "Satisfied With Jesus." The pastor's sermon topic will be "Youth's Yearnings to Serve God" (I Sam. 17:45).

The F. W. B. League will meet at 7:00 p.m. under the direction of Mr. Mark Case. At 8:00 p.m. worship the choir will sing the hymn-anthem "Thy Will Be Done" and the pastor's sermon topic will be "From Blight to Blessings" (Prov. 11:19).

Monday through Friday there will be Vacation Bible School. Classes will be held for ages up through intermediates from 8:45 to 11:30 a.m. Everyone who is interested in doing so is welcome to attend this important school.

Monday the circles of the Woman's Auxiliary meet as follows: Afternoon Circle, 2:30, with Mrs. N. A. Clark, 1406 W. Ragsdale Rd.; Laura Bell Barnard, 8:00, with Mrs. Verlon Joyner, with Mrs. John D. Langley as co-hostess; Lilly Smith, 8:00, with Mrs. Carl Adams, Mrs. Howard L. Brewer, co-hostesses.

Tuesday 5:30 p.m. the B. A.'s will meet at the church, and at 8:00 o'clock the deacons will meet at the church.

Wednesday 8:00 p.m. there will be prayer service and study the third chapter of the book of Hebrews. Classes in evangelism will be held the same hour. At 8:45 the choir will meet for a rehearsal.

Friday 8:00 p.m. there will be the Vacation Bible School Commencement service.

Mrs. J. W. Allen and Mrs. Joseph Averette will be in charge of the nursery for the 11 a.m. worship.

Saturday, June 7, at 8 p.m. there will be Youth for Christ services at the Bethany Free Will Baptist Church.

Tarzan Reaching Cinerama Size

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Me Tarzan, you Jane."

Almost 40 years ago those words launched one of Hollywood's classic love affairs. And if you don't think treetop living is here to stay, check Mr. Ape Man's next epic: it's going to be in CineramaScope.

It will be No. 32, coming in the 40th anniversary year of the series, and the first chance for Tarzan to swing branch to branch around a wide screen.

Since 1918, the experts say, the film versions of Edgar Rice Burroughs' famous characters have grossed more than half a billion dollars.

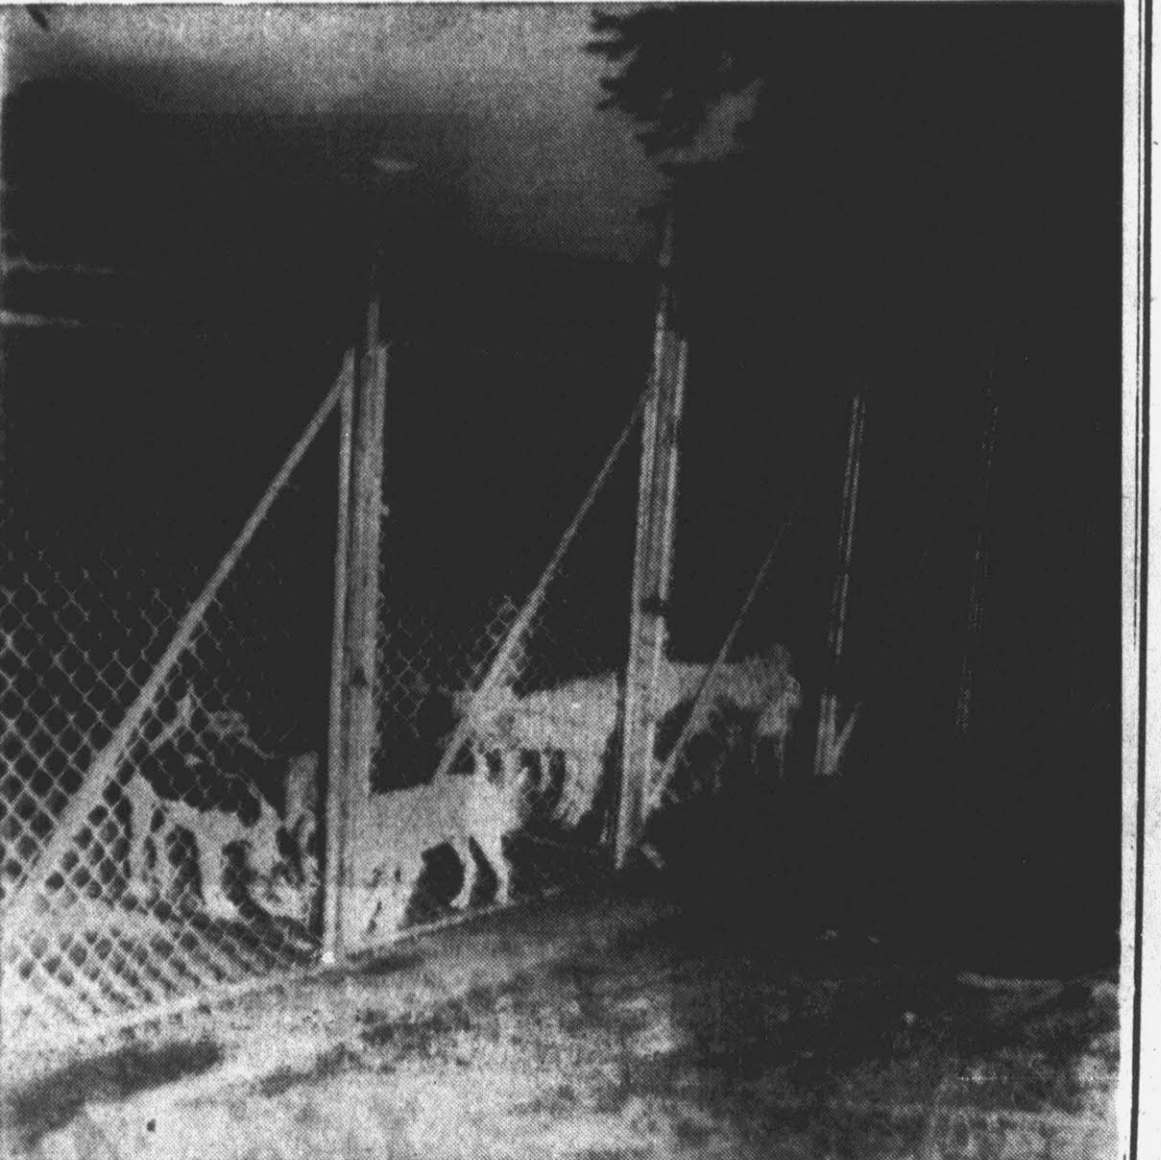

Booted Hollywood Tarzan films are favorites with the Soviets. And just as Westerns are popular in the American West, Hollywood's jungle films rate high with African movie-goers.

In all there have been 11 Tarzans, 19 Janes and numerous Boys (their son). Like Little Orphan Annie, the characters never age.

Record holders as a Tarzan team were Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan — six films from 1922 to 1942. Weissmuller did half a dozen more episodes with three other Janes — Nancy Kelly, Frances Gifford and Brenda Joyce.

The present ape man is Gordon Scott. Eve Brent is Mrs. Tarzan in Sol Lesser Productions' next film, the wide-screen job. The title suggests it'll be a close thing—it's "Tarzan's Fight for Life."

But chances are he'll make it.

TO BE REPLACED—These kennels at the Pitt County Dog Pound will be replaced, as a result of action taken Monday by the Pitt County Board of Commissioners. The old pens are being taken down today and will be replaced by new pens four feet wide, 16 feet long and six feet high with top covers and three-foot concrete walls between the pens. # SOME SLIPS DON'T SHOW

By A. A. FAIR (Editor, Starling Gardner)

CHAPTER 25

We went up to Lois Marlow's apartment. A note had been pinned to the door.

Lois unfolded the note. It read: "Call me as soon as you come in, regardless of what time it is."

Lois gave a little exclamation of annoyance. "I wanted to be undisturbed," she said.

"Do you have to call this party just because of the note?" I asked.

"You don't understand, Donald," she said. "It's Caroline Dutton and Caroline has the darndest habit of watching and snooping. Sometimes I think she has a beam of invisible light so that she can tell whenever I—"

The door of the apartment down the hall swung open.

Caroline called, "Lois."

"See the papers?" she said.

"Can you come down?" Caroline asked.

"Not very well. I have someone with me, Donald Lam."

There was an impasse of silence while the two women stood looking at each other. I took to one side trying to keep out of it.

Caroline said, "It will only take a minute."

"Want me to run down there for just a second or two?" Lois asked.

Caroline came marching down the corridor and said with quiet assurance, "It will have to be in my apartment. I have someone here."

Lois opened the door and the two of us went in and sat down.

Caroline looked us over with her glittering dark eyes.

"Seen the papers?" she asked.

Lois shook her head.

Caroline said, "Just a moment. I'll get mine."

I placed my hat on the television set.

Caroline got up and headed for the door.

"What's in the paper?" Lois asked.

"I'll explain when I have the paper," Caroline said.

She started for the door.

I said, "Well, we can turn on the television and—"

She averted to avoid my outstretched hand, and brushed against my extended arm. My hat fell to the floor. Caroline stopped, picked it up, put it back on the television set with the brim down, said when I get the paper, you'll see that I mean. You wait right there."

I banged my mind about the door.

"Uh-huh," I said.

She settled in a chair, showing a nylon-clad leg.

Lois watched that Caroline Dutton's determined and cruel eyes were set on a trap of some sort.

"See what I'm supposed to do?" she asked.

Lois had left the door of the apartment partially ajar. Now she came back and pushed it open. She was carrying a newspaper.

"This is the evening paper," she said. "It has the story of the murder."

Lois tossed the paper to Lois in a contemptuous manner.

"What didn't even lower her eyes to the newspaper. 'What about it?' she asked Caroline.

"The main thing about what is "that robbery was not the motive. A relatively large sum of money was found on the body, but there were no keys."

"No keys?" Lois echoed.

"No keys. They found the key to the sports car he was driving on the dresser, but there were no other keys."

Lois moistened her lips. "You mean that the keys they found weren't—"

"Oh," Lois said.

Caroline looked at me. "You were out there, Donald Lam!"

"Me? Out where?" I asked.

"Don't pull that line with me," she said. "You were out at the motel early this morning with your precious client, Barclay Fisher."

"Evidently," I told her, "you have something you want to get off your chest. Go ahead and say it."

"I'm going to. I have plenty to say to both of you. The other day when you told George to go and get himself lost, Lois, George stopped in to see me on his way out."

"He was all worked up about this private detective. He told me then, for the first time, that he'd kept a diary the year Grandfather died. He said he always kept the diary in his brief case."

"Then one day it turned up missing. He'd been living in a nightmare ever since. He said some of the things he had written could be misinterpreted. I think the idiot believed Grandfather was murdered."

"As soon as he told me, I knew who had the diary. You turned that diary over to this detective, Lois Marlow, and he's planning on planting it in George's apartment, or putting it someplace where the police will find it."

"It's as plain as the nose on your face. You've been making a play for this two-bit heel ever since he showed up. 'You've—"

Roving Newsmen Cite How America Regarded Today

Editor's Note — Roving correspondents of The Associated Press are currently on assignment in three important areas — France, Algeria, the Middle East and Latin America. Here are their findings on how these areas view the United States today.

By RELMAN MORIN

ALGIERS (AP) — Gen. de Gaulle's return to power and the favorable American reaction to it, as reported here, appear to have improved French feeling toward the United States.

Traditional French politeness creates a surface impression of friendliness. Underneath, however, is a jagged edge of criticism. Frenchmen believe, or say they believe, that America's business interests are trying to move in on the French position in North Africa. And that the United States is assisting Arab nationalist movements all the way from Casablanca to the Suez Canal.

"You did this, and 'You did that,'" the Frenchman will say in an American today. He then goes back to American intervention in the British-French attack on Suez and Egypt two years ago.

He is especially bitter about that.

He then catalogues a list of incidents to support his contention that the United States government is quietly working against him.

He begins with the French bombing of the Tunisian border town of Sakiet Sidi Yousef last February by severe American newspaper reaction.

"You did not understand that this was a sanctuary for rebels who were killing our men in Algeria," the French says.

Before that U.S. shipments of arms to Tunisia aroused French feelings. So did the offer of "good

Fellowships For Five '58 Grads

Five 1958 graduates of East Carolina College who specialized in chemistry in their undergraduate work have received teaching fellowships enabling them to continue their studies in university graduate schools. Each of the recipients is a member of the college chapter of Chi Beta Phi, national honorary fraternity for science students with superior academic records.

Those who have been granted fellowships are William Kenneth Crocker of Princeton; Joseph Alton Haislip, Jr., of Hassell; James Ray Overton of Winterville; Quida Lee Reeves of Hamlet; and Alton Glenn Ross of Greenville.

Crocker, son of Mrs. Lillie D. Crocker of Princeton, will study at the University of Florida. He is a member of Phi Sigma Pi, honorary fraternity for men, and of the East Carolina Circle K Club, college chapter of the same.

Haislip and Overton have fellowships at the University of South Carolina. Haislip's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Haislip of Hassell. Overton is the son of James E. Overton of Winterville.

Miss Reeves and Ross will continue their education at the University of North Carolina. Miss Reeves, daughter of Mrs. A. T. Reeves of Hamlet, is a member of the foreign languages fraternity, Sigma Pi Alpha. Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ross of Greenville, belongs to the college chapter of Phi Sigma Pi.
