BERLIN (AP)—East Germany today claimed that it and not the Soviet Union has the right to say what will be done with nine U. S. Army men taken prisoner Saturday when their helicopter made a forced landing inside the Soviet satellite.

Tarheel Girls' State Plans Set

GREENSBORO — The 19th annual Tarheel Girls' State will be held at Woman's College June 15-21, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, North Carolina Department.

Limited to 300 girls selected for qualities of leadership, scholarship, and character, the girls' state will represent nearly every section of the state.

"Girls' State is not a glorified girls' camp or house party," one Auxiliary official has explained, "but a training school for citizenship."

For 18 years Girls' State has given several thousand young women a deeper sense of their responsibilities as citizens.

As in past years, Charles W. Phillips, WC public relations director and director of the State In-School Television Experiment, will be Girls' State director.

Mrs. W. C. Alexander, Durham, is chairman of the Auxiliary's Girls' State commission.

A score of WC faculty members and leaders in various state departments will be speakers and leaders for the session.

Highlights of the week will be a survey of world events, an analysis of political techniques and procedures, a study of the structure of government, political campaigns leading to the election of a governor of Girls' State and other officials, and a visit to legislative and governmental centers in Raleigh.

A full social and recreational program is included in the week's schedule.

Military Wedding Unites Couple

WINTERVILLE—At the Winterville Christian Church Sunday afternoon, Miss Elaine Worthington and Lieutenant Jerry Britt were united in marriage with a formal military wedding.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Perry Case of Wilson, assisted by the Rev. James Hemby.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Worthington of Winterville, attended East Carolina College and is a graduate of Rex Hospital School of Medical Technology in Raleigh.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Clark Webb of Raleigh and the late Wade T. Britt of Ayden and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Britt of Ayden. He is a graduate of The Citadel in Charleston and is presently with the United States Marine Corps at Camp Lejeune.

Soloist Mrs. Linwood Kilpatrick was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. D. Woodrow Worthington. Their selections included "At Dawning," "The Prayer Perfect," "I Love Thee," "If I Could Tell You" and others.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white satin which extended to a cathedral train. The bodice was fashioned with a portrait neckline edged in hand-clipped Chantilly lace and seed pearls. A hand-appliqued trailing rose design extended from the shoulders down the front of the skirt.

Her veil, attached to an off-face hat of tulle and seed pearls, was also edged in hand-clipped Chantilly lace. Satin streamers fell from her bouquet of bride's roses, lilies-of-the-valley and stephanotis centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Dan Peele, aunt of the bride from Williamston, was matriarch of honor. She wore a gown of pink tulle and lace over taffeta. Her short matching veil was attached to a satin tiara.

Her cascade bouquet of shaded pink and fuchsia Garza mums and carnations was tied with nylon tulle and fuchsia nylon ribbons.

Mrs. Jimmy Dunn of Jacksonville and Mrs. Louise Wilkerson of Raleigh were bridesmaids. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Jean Webb of Raleigh and Miss Norma Worthington of Winterville. Misses Linda and Patricia Worthington of Winterville and Miss Joan Webb of Raleigh were flower girls. Their gowns and bouquets were like that of the honor attendant.

Carl Worthington Jr. was ring-bearer.

The bride's mother wore a dress of coral lace and chiffon, matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a pink taffeta dress, matching accessories and wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. G. C. Worthington, paternal grandmother of the bride, was attired in blue, with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. E. D. Britt, paternal grandmother of the groom, wore a dress of rose lace, matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bride's parents entertained at an all pink reception at the Winterville Community Center immediately following the wedding. Guests were greeted by Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Mumford and presented to the receiving line composed of the bride and groom, their respective parents and grandparents.

Punch and individual bridal cakes were served by Mrs. L. B. Pope Jr. of Dunn and Mrs. John A. Worthington of Pink Hill from the bride's table which was covered by a pink lace-trimmed cloth. Floral arrangements of pink carnations and snapdragons and antique newel posts holding burning pink tapers entwined with apple blossoms were used on either end of the table.

The three-tier wedding cake in the center was served to the bridal party after the bride and groom cut the first slice with the bridegroom's saber.

Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Forrest presided at the guest book.

Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Forrest.

Wedding Breakfast

Complaining Boy May Fail Trapeze Test

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

"If I had it to do over again, I'd never be a teen-ager," writes a typically harassed column fan. "It's complicated my life terribly to go through this period."

Enough said. We know what she means. But growing up isn't easy, and crossing the line from childhood to adulthood takes a bit of doing, especially these days. More letters testify to the puzzlement of the age:

"I have a trapeze dress which my family says looks wonderful on me. A boy I date steady says he wouldn't be found dead with a girl who would wear the new dress styles. He hates them. Should I wear it anyway and risk losing him, or just wear it when I don't see him?"

Is It Fair?

A. Chances are he doesn't know a trapeze dress from a pinafore. Wear it as a test. If he comments on its extreme style, don't be hurt. Say something like, "Oh, I thought you'd like THIS."

Q. "Is it fair of my parents to take me away for a whole summer? I am 16, and won't see my boyfriend for three months."

A. Many parents feel it's a good idea to separate young romantics for a spell. Maybe it would be good for you to get a change of scenery and meet some new young people. Give it a whirl. If you are very unhappy and lonesome your parents will probably be the first to notice and make other arrangements for you.

Q. "I had an opportunity for a summer job with my father's firm. I didn't follow it up at once and now I'm told they're not hiring students. My father blames me, saying that if I hadn't procrastinated I would have gotten the job."

Heed Your Dentist

A. Many firms have cancelled out on vacation help, even where firm commitments may have been made. They are trying to make do during the vacation period with a minimum of help.

Q. "I have been told by an orthodontist that my teeth require braces. I would have to wear them two years. I am a sophomore in high school and can't bear the thought."

A. It'll be easier to tolerate the idea if you concentrate on what the results will be. For two years of wearing a mouthful of metal, you may earn a lifetime smile that would be the envy of toothpaste ad models.

Q. "I entered in the college my mother attended, in spite of my dislike of the school. She is determined that I go there because she did."

A. Sometimes that is the case and perhaps your mother showed her hand too vividly. If she hadn't mentioned it, you may very well have chosen it as the one you'd most like to attend. This is the contrary age, when mother and dad are likely to look a little bossy in your eyes. If your parents are paying the college tuition, why not permit mother this whim of which she may have dreamed all her life. Lots of girls would like to be in your shoes when they're trying to figure out where to get a job to pay their college tuition

Miss Greenville Returns

"HAD A MARVELOUS TIME" . . . said Miss Betty Lane Evans when she returned yesterday evening from an all-expense paid trip to Miami Beach, Fla. The trip was among the many prizes bestowed upon Miss Evans when she was named "Miss Greenville" May 8.

30 Years Ago Today

June 9, 1928

Howard King, Sidney Skinner, Jake Hadley, Claude Gaskins and R. C. Flanagan returned last night from a trip to Cuba. They made the trip as far as Miami, Fla. in Mr. King's Dodge touring car. They reported a splendid time, intermixed with several adventures of a hair-raising variety. Probably the most interesting experience of the young travelers occurred in Georgia when they were stopped by a speed cop for violating traffic laws. They managed to talk themselves out of arrest, however, and found that the traffic officer in his hasty departure dropped his pocketbook containing several dollars. Frantic attempts were made to catch the departing officer to restore his money, but he vanished like the wind and efforts to establish his identity proved futile.

They Add Fuel To Just Distrust

Espionage activities carried on through the Soviet Embassy in the United States never ceases to be a problem for the American government nor should it cease to be a matter of concern for the American people.

In the past two years the United States has found it necessary to order out of this country about 10 Soviet diplomats for activities it felt improper. In every instance there was sufficient evidence to conclude the officials were engaged in spying activities against this country.

The latest of these incidents involved a Soviet diplomat who sought to purchase military information.

The frequency with which such incidents have occurred make it obvious that spying is part of the work of diplomats assigned to the Soviet Embassy in Washington. It also points up the fact that the Kremlin, despite its overtures for international understanding, weapons controls and the like, still is unwilling to deal in good faith with the United States.

It continues to use its embassy and its diplomats to obtain secret information from the United States government. Repeated warnings from the United States that such activities would not be condoned have seemed to have little impact upon operations of Soviet representatives in this country.

CONVENTION — There is hardly one chance in a hundred that North Carolina will go back to the convention method of nominating party candidates. The people are dedicated to the fetish of a popular primary. While sentiment for return to the convention system is almost hopelessly in the minority, it is growing.

There is more apparent dissatisfaction with the wide time spread between dates for filing notice of candidacy and the primary election, and between the primary and the general election in November. A number of newspapers this year have editorially suggested a later date for the primary. To offset that suggestion, the record is that most states have primaries in May or early June. Several switched from late July or August within the past few years.

Complaints continue against the requirement that notice of candidacy must be filed in mid-March for officers to be nominated in May-June, actually elected in November and to take office in December, January or February. The statutory requirements for filing notice of candidacy is to considerable degree a negation of the claim that the primary is "popular" and more democratic than the convention system.

That belief is enhanced by the fact that a relatively small part of the eligible voters participate in the primary. And further by the fact that primary campaigns are becoming increasingly expensive.

The primary was substituted for the nominating convention 40-odd years ago in the belief that it would afford every citizen a better opportunity to elect the candidate of his choice, and that the charges of money-influence in conventions would be refuted or elected. It hasn't worked out quite that way. Money is more potent and democratic process less. Experience has proven that trading influence and votes is as common in primaries as ever in conventions.

FICTITIOUS — The contention that the primary is more democratic in affording wider opportunity for the individual citizen to express his choice is fictitious. In fact his choice is limited solely to the candidates who have paid a filing fee to get their names on the ballot. Write-in names serve only to void the entire ballot, and to deprive the citizen of his right to vote for candidates for other offices. In a convention any delegate may propose the name of any citizen for any office.

Not only do the present primary election laws limit the choice of citizens to the few candidates who have paid a filing fee, they actually give to one man the right, in some instances, to cast the votes of thousands of his fellow-citizens. That is in the provision that in event no candidate gets a clear majority in the first primary the second high man may call for a run-off but is not required to do so. And the high man can decline to enter a second primary, thus ending the nomination to the challenger. That provision completely negates the claim that primary nominations are made only by majority vote.

There have been numerous instances, several in the recent primary of candidates asserting proprietary interest in the office for which they had paid a fee to seek and making pre-election agreements that the high man would be given the nomination. That is presumption that the office belongs to the men or women who paid for the right to seek it, rather than to the people whom the officers would serve if elected.

Many people are coming to the opinion that such responsibility should not be placed upon any candidate. The law should require a second chance for all voters, or specifically set out that nomination should be by plurality rather than majority. In either event it would be the General Assembly, representing all the people, rather than one candidate, who decided the question of a run-off.

SPEAKERSHIP — With something like a hundred members of the House of Representatives already known — the other 20 depending upon outcome of second primaries and the November election — lines are being drawn in the race for speakership of the 1959 House.

Rep. Addison Hewlett of New Haven and Rep. Carl Venters of Onslow are the avowed and active candidates. It is possible but not probable that someone else might get in the running. Hewlett is presently believed to have more positive commitments of votes from his colleague, but Venters has more cohesive and organized support.

Governor Hodges has consistently declined to express a preference. Some of his staunch supporters are in the Hewlett camp. It appears certain, however, that the hard core of administration forces is backing Venters. There is some evidence that this inside group is putting on some pressure in behalf of their candidate.

At least one meeting of some 30 representatives has been held at which strategy was mapped. This meeting was at the High Rock Lake cabin of Rep. Cloyd Filpott of Davidson. It was jealously guarded against intrusion and leaks, but some information has leaked out. Rumor has it that there was a good deal of talk about committee assignments and that major committee chairmanships were portioned among the faithful — in the event Venters has the right to name them.

Venters has a further advantage through membership on the Advisory Budget Commission which next month will make a tour of all State institutions, thus giving him opportunity to contact many members of the Legislature.

The United States should continue its firm policy of expelling from this country any Soviet diplomats who engage in espionage activities.

As long as the Soviet Union refuses to abide by long standing agreements which govern the activities of foreign diplomats attached to embassies, how can we expect that the Kremlin will abide by any agreements on disarmaments, weapons control, or other important matters which might be reached between the Soviet Union and the United States or any other nation?

Conspicuous Void In Tourist Trade Needs

Few people will debate the point that more adequate north-south transportation through North Carolina's coastal area would boost the tourist business to that section of the state.

At the same time it must be realized that transportation is not the only problem Coastal Carolina faces if it is to develop its potential as a tourist area.

Probably the most conspicuous void in what North Carolina's coastal area has to offer is the lack of a major convention hotel capable of accommodating large gatherings. Unless and until such a facility is provided along the North Carolina coast we may continue to expect the coastal areas of Virginia and South Carolina to attract a great deal of business that otherwise would come to North Carolina.

North Carolina's Bar Association meets this week at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. The Tar Heel lawyers probably would much prefer to gather on the coast of their own state, but there is not a hotel on the coast sufficiently large to handle the convention. The same is true of many other North Carolina organizations which hold their annual meetings on the coast of neighboring states.

Those who would promote the tourist business along the coast of North Carolina might well devote their efforts to the establishment of a convention hotel.

Recession Badly Hurt Railroads

By RALPH ROBEY

No industry as a whole has been hurt worse during the current recession than the railroads. All lines have suffered a sharp decline in earnings; some have gone into a deficit position and many dividends have been either reduced or passed entirely. This has not been limited to small roads. The Pennsylvania, for example, which has paid a dividend each year since 1848, made no declaration since its payment of last December.

For the railroads to be in trouble is nothing new. There are few roads which have not been through bankruptcy at least once. Usually this has been because of unwise financing — building up to a large bond indebtedness with fixed charges which could not be met when earnings declined. This is not the trouble today. The difficulty, however, must not be credited solely to the recession. The real cause of the present situation are of long standing, and the solution will not be easy. Principal among the basic causes are:

1. Out of date regulations. Railroads in this nation well over a century old, for a long time had what amounted to virtual monopoly on the movement of freight. In this position they began to indulge in practices, such as excessive free passes, freight rebates, and so forth, which the public and Congress decided was contrary to the general welfare. The result was passage of the Interstate Commerce Act in 1887. Since then other legislation has been adopted at both Federal and state level. This legislation was, under the then prevailing conditions, allegedly necessary. The net effect, however, was to prevent railroad management from making independent decisions as to how their companies should be operated. At first this was not too serious, but with substantial growth of other forms of transportation it left railroads in a generally untenable position.

2. Growth of competition has now attained a position where it poses a real threat to the railroads. This is especially true in the case of air lines and trucking. Many railroads maintain that they would be better off if they could eliminate all passenger traffic, and the Baltimore and Ohio, to cite one major road, has now stopped all of its passenger service between Washington and New York City.

Trucking is another kind of problem. It relates solely to the movement of freight and the railroads maintain that trucks, in effect, are subsidized by Government through the public highway system. Trucking companies, of course, deny this and includes that they pay their just share of maintaining the highways. This is an argument which may never be resolved.

3. Railway labor unions are now so powerful that it is no longer possible to reduce man-power costs, appreciably through technological improvements. For example, whenever an improvement, such as a faster engine, is added, the total labor bill remains just about the same. This is accomplished by unions demanding the men be paid under such circumstances, not for the number of hours they work, but by train mileage traveled. This can mean that an engineer or conductor, for instance, may receive two or three days wages for an eight hour run.

4. Add to these three factors the decline of traffic resulting from the recession and it is easy to understand why railroads are in difficulty. For months car loadings have been running from fifteen to well over thirty per cent behind a year earlier. Passenger traffic also has fallen off sharply.

Fortunately the railroads entered this period in a relatively good financial condition. It is not anticipated, therefore, that we shall have a large crop of railroad bankruptcies. Further, there is a bill before Congress designed to help the roads. It makes some changes in the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission and provides for Federal Government loans to the railroads for specified purposes.

The bill, granting it passes, will not solve the railroads problem. Neither would the complete elimination of federal regulation. This means it is going to take time and hard work to get out of the present situation. Some roads will make it without too much trouble, others may not. It is unfortunate that we have such a problem at this particular time, but if it teaches us the lesson of too much bad regulation, it may be worth the price.

Opinions In Brief

"Estimates say the personal income of everyone in this country will come to $350 billion in 1958. The Federal state and local tax bill will add up to $125 billion—36 per cent. So, on the average, each of us must work 133 days to pay the cost of government before there is anything left for ourselves."—Industrial News Review.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
"KNOW THEN THYSELF"
A used-car dealer was speaking of his pricing policy. "I always price my cars several hundred dollars above what they're worth," he said, "and then allow my customers several hundred dollars more for their old cars. That way they think they're getting a real bargain. A car besides selling their old car for a higher price."

It seems strange that intelligent citizens who can hold jobs, maintain bank accounts, and fill out federal income tax forms could be deceived by so transparent a scheme. But apparently they are. Not only is this dealer successful, but his methods are in wide use. Such tricks, however, are not limited to automobile dealers. How many people get the better of us by deceiving us about ourselves? By flattery, by appealing to our vanity, by putting us full of pride, they overcome us for their own ends.

Wisdom begins at home; we must be realistic about ourselves before we can get wise about others. Our weaknesses are best protected when we know them. Our strength is most effective when we do not overestimate it. This is what Alexander Pope meant when he wrote:

Know then thyself, presume not God to scan;
The proper study of mankind is man.

Impact of The Threat

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — I am convinced that international development and the threat of World War III will have a great influence on our economy during the next few years. Events occurring abroad will be increasingly important factors in determining business, economic, and investment trends here in the United States.

LIKELIHOOD OF WORLD WAR III

I do not expect a "World War III" in the near future. But the threat of a "48-Hour War" between Russia and the United States is very real. A Korean-type war could also come at any time. So explosive are international conditions that a 48-Hour War between Russia and the U.S., if it comes, would most likely start from accident or unauthorized shooting. Under such circumstances, it is folly not to be well prepared for any fighting that may occur. The atomic "fallout" that would accompany it, I predict that a "48-Hour War" with Russia would be fought from atomic submarines and airplanes. If we are to survive it, we must be economically as well as militarily strong.

The "cold war" cannot continue indefinitely. The possibilities in new nuclear weapons make a negotiated "peace" or "arms limitation" probably impracticable. Of course, we could make an agreement with Russia on atomic weapons. But could we be sure the Soviets would respect such a pact? And how could we forestall new nuclear developments in and by other nations? I do not believe either Russia or the United States will abandon such research and development work.

WHAT ARE THE ALTERNATIVES TO A 48-HOUR WAR?

Some observers contend that the present stalemate will resolve itself by Russia becoming more conservative and the U.S. and Great Britain becoming more socially. Logically, such a course would result in these three nations federating. It all sounds fantastic to me. If it ever comes, I forecast that such a "federation" is far in the future.

Another alternative to war is the emergence in Russia of a less ruthless, though probably still leftist, form of government. In my opinion, there is no immediate hope of this happening. Still a further alternative to war would be the appearance of a strong coalition of nations other than Russia and the U.S. as a third formidable world power. Nasser's federation of Arab states is not nearly big enough for such a task, but it is possible Britain, France, and West Germany together might eventually exert a new commanding influence.

PERIOD OF UNCERTAINTY WILL PERSIST

None of the alternatives to World War III or a 48-Hour Russia-U.S. War, or to a continued "cold war," are likely to happen soon. So we must be prepared to make the best of that which will be a more or less prolonged period of uncertainty in international affairs. At home, I predict we shall endure more inflation, with the value of the dollar trending steadily, though not rapidly, downward toward 25 cents.

In the light of these conditions, I favor wide diversification in stock market investments at this time. Certain retail chain store securities look good to me due to geographical distribution; but I would hold only two or three of the big transnational railroads. Railroads generally are performing poorly and will probably do worse except, of course, if war comes. I expect doubling of electric power output in coming years. But I would not care to invest heavily in public utilities stocks because they could suffer from inflation and air war.

BOND OUTLOOK LESS FAVORABLE

Since the underlying trend is toward more inflation, I do not favor long-term investments in bonds generally. This does not necessarily apply to those U.S. bonds which are guaranteed to accept at par value for payment of estate taxes. Of course, I do not mean bonds would not pay off — but it would be in depreciated currency.

repeat, the best investment policy is to diversify in participation in common stocks. Some land holdings in America's "Magic Belt" are still a good investment. Continued On Page 5

Some Economies In The Mail

By ELMER ROESSNER
Businessmen and the public, who have been dreaming about price cuts and tax reductions, gets an awakening kick in the pants August 1, when postage rates rise.

The increases are only in pennies. But in percentages they are terrific: 15.7 per cent on airmail, 33.3 per cent on first class, 50 per cent on post cards. The raises will run into real dough when paid by companies spending hundreds of thousands of dollars a month for postage.

However, businesses can offset some of the cost by practicing a few economies. Here are some suggestions:

ELIMINATE THE NIXIES: Review mailing lists. Eliminate duplications. There are a number of legends which, if placed on envelopes, will bring you notification when addressee has moved; confer with your local postal officials to determine which best suits your needs.

Use full weight. The average letter weighs half an ounce, although the sender pays for an ounce. Have a number of envelope stuffers offering special bargains, handy order forms and similar printed matter and add one or more to bring each letter up to — but not over — the ounce mark.

Watch overweight. When planning promotions, make mailing weight part of the plans. Trimming a margin to bring a first-class mailing piece within an ounce can save 4 cents postage on each piece, cutting postage in half.

Make mail ads more effective. The best way to adjust for higher postage costs is to make mailed advertisements more interesting, more compelling and more salesmaking. A slight increase in response can make higher postal rates a bargain. Remember that as competitors hold off because of high rates, your own mail will get more attention.

Consider other forms of advertising. This is almost imperative when higher mailing costs critically reduce profits from mail ads. POST CARDS, PHONES

Other Editors Saying --- Plan For Survival

(The Wilson Times)
The Senate Surface Transportation subcommittee has released its report which says, "the railroads are in need of help." The committee drafted plans that if enacted will go a long way toward putting the railroads on a more equal footing with other surface means of transportation.

First, remember the railroads are a necessary part of the transportation system. It is not a question of one mode of transportation against another, for all are necessary for the growth and prosperity of the nation.

The subcommittee, after hearing 403 witnesses from every surface transportation agency and regulatory body have come forward with recommendations that go a long way toward assuring the equality of treatment and opportunity necessary for the railroads to survive as independent members of the free enterprise system.

Among the recommendations is the elimination of the excise tax of 10 per cent on passenger fares and three per cent on freight. This was put on during the war when the railroads were hauling 90 per cent of all military freight and 97 per cent of organized military passenger movements. It was put on to discourage passenger travel and that is what it is doing today, for it has never been taken off.

Another recommendation that would certainly serve the public is that every form of transportation have the opportunity to make rates reflecting the inherent values each has to offer the public. Then the public can take its choice, cost and services considered.

The blueprint for aid takes into consideration the serious financial plight of the railroads. Many of the nation's largest systems have as little as 20 days working capital on hand. The Senate sub-committee would extend loans to a limit of $700 million, revise the depreciation schedules and take off the excise taxes. These measures are necessary to keep the railroads alive until some of the strangling regulation can be revised and competition allowed to take its rightful place.

The railroads will be run, they are a necessary arm of the defense of the nation. The question is by whom will the railroads be run, the government or private enterprise.

During World War I the government ran the railroads and it cost taxpayers 2 million dollars a day. During World War II the companies ran their roads and paid the government three million dollars a day in taxes.

By the same logic you see that if the government had run the railroads in World War II five million dollars a day would have been lost, three million in taxes and two million in cost of operation, based on World War I operations.

Then few people realize what the railroads have to pay out to keep up their right of way. It takes 23 cents out of every dollar taken in. Our two railroads running through this city and county paid in town and county taxes $19,602.80 last year. There are 100 counties in this state so this gives you some idea of the taxes the railroads pay on the property they maintain for their use.

The recommendations of the Smather's committee are said to be fair and necessary for the survival of the nation's railroad system under private ownership. The legislation now being considered is based on the committee's report. That is why those who recognize the value of the railroads as an important artery of transportation are urging the passage of this bill.

Use cards instead of letters when practical. Acknowledgments, short messages, etc. can go just as well on postcards. Don't worry that you'll look "cheap," because everybody else will be doing it.

Phone when practical. Consider phoning instead of sending letters locally. Postage is still cheaper than phone calls, but phones save stationery and secretarial time, and add a personal touch.

Watch airmail. First class is often just as good as airmail to nearby business offices. It has been found to be better than airmail between Washington and New York, for example. First class on material mailed Thursdays and Fridays to business offices closed Saturdays and Sundays is as good as airmail to most places within 1,500 or even more miles. Ask your postoffice about specific destinations.

Consolidate. Send all letters going to each branch office or each supplier in one envelope.

SAVING ON FORMS
Check forms. Reducing weight of intercompany forms may save postage. In some cases, forms printed on postcards may save over forms requiring envelopes.

Avoid first class when shipping blank forms. You may be able to send them cheaper by third or fourth class.

Avoid unnecessary letters. Some firms even acknowledge acknowledgments. While superfluous letters sometimes flatter clients, they often just bother them.

Look into parcel post special handling. It is often cheaper and just as fast as air parcel post.

SILVER LINING DEPARTMENT MEANS MUCH BETTER CUSTOMERS
Don't forget that half a million postal employees getting pay rises under the new postal law are becoming much better customers for countless consumer items. In addition, both houses of Congress have agreed on sizable rises for a million more government workers, and that the armed forces is also getting a pay rise.

Tanker Didn't Stop In Collision With Craft

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP)—A tanker and a fishing vessel collided 12 miles off the tip of Cape Cod yesterday but the skipper of the tanker was unaware of it for two hours.

The captain of the fishing trawler Yankee said the supertanker Jamestown "kept right on going after the collision."

A Coast Guard spokesman at Boston said that about two hours after the crash the Jamestown questioned by radio whether a vessel had overturned off Race Point.

The Coast Guard advised the Jamestown of the accident and asked the tanker's skipper to report the incident at his destination, Harbor Island, Tex.

Capt. Arthur Duarte, 55, skipper of the 60-foot fishing craft, battled for three hours with his two-man crew to keep the vessel afloat and bring her into port.

The Yankee's bilge pump kept just ahead of the ocean pouring into the fishing vessel's holds through a hole near the stern and through open deck seams.

The 206-foot, 1,538-gross-ton Jamestown, an Essex Oil Co. ship based at Wilmington, Del., apparently was not damaged.

Capt. Duarte and his crewmen, Arthur Joseph, 63, and Antone Henrique, 60, all of Provincetown, brought their vessel to port under her own power while a Coast Guard vessel stood by. Capt. Duarte said, "The weather was very, very clear. We couldn't believe it when we looked up. It was like a mountain rolling down on top of us. It was only 110 feet away. I kept blowing my whistle."

"A crewman on the deck of the Jamestown looked down and yelled 'What's the matter?' But the tanker didn't even slow down."

Here are some samples: "Twelve year old girl has had 10 years of baby sitting. Little menaces no problem." "Unexperienced wants job to get experience, to qualify as experienced."

"For trade. One live tarantula. What have you got?" "I'll give a good home and loving care to gentle horse that needs little girl to ride it."

Circle" and a reasonable cash reserve are also desirable. The diversification in stocks could, of course, be obtained by purchasing some shares of mutual funds, but I do not advocate this. With mutual funds, your eggs are all in one basket. In a rapidly falling market, you might find it impossible to sell before it was too late. There could be a run on mutual funds as there was on bank deposits in 1933.

Portugal's Dictator Has Shaken Off A Challenger

LISBON (AP)—Dictator-Premier Antonio Salazar today was assured of continuing his rule over Portugal after shaking off his first serious electoral challenge in 30 years.

Early returns from yesterday's election gave a lead approaching 90 per cent to the Premier's hand-picked presidential candidate, Adm. Americo Tomas. He will succeed President Higinio Craveiro Lopes, who is stepping out at the end of a seven-year term.

Gen. Humberto Delgado, the fiery opposition candidate who said he would fire Salazar and appoint a military government to conduct free parliamentary elections, never had any real chance of winning.

Only Tomas' name was printed on the ballots given the nation's 1,200,000 million voters. If a voter wanted to cast the ballot for Delgado, he had to write in the general's name.

Delgado, the first anti-Salazar candidate for president ever to remain in the race until election day, bitterly refused to send congratulations to "those people." "The elections only showed," he said, "that like Hitler and Mussolini, nobody can win in Portugal against Salazar."

Interior Minister Joaquin Trigo de Negreiros told a news conference the vote indicated most of the nation wanted to continue the "peace and progress of the current regime."

He also announced that the president of Delgado's campaign committee, 70-year-old Prof. Francisco Vieira de Almeida, had been arrested on charges of issuing a manifesto inciting revolt.

The minister also said about 100 persons had been arrested during the campaign on charges of disorderly conduct.

Delgado charged that his campaign workers were arrested while distributing sample ballots bearing his name.

Delgado is minister of civil aviation in Salazar's government.

Bill Cullen Says People Recognize Him Anywhere

By BILL CULLEN NEW YORK (AP)—It's quite impossible to be a fugitive if you're a regular TV performer. People recognize your face almost everywhere you go.

"For example, as I go in and out of theater lobbies, or TV studios, people who recognize me from having seen me on the screen stop to talk to me, and the first thing they ask is: 'Bill Cullen, what is the matter with your leg?'"

"For in scurrying around town from one engagement to another, some dates being very close to one another, they notice that I do a certain amount of limping as I step along briskly. I naturally appreciate this mark of sympathy. But this physical handicap bothers me not at all."

"Like tens of thousands of youngsters in this country, I was stricken with polio. Even with the wonderful care I received from my parents and worried medical people, I still carry the scars of this experience, and always will, I suppose. Somehow, it never got me down. That's why I would rather not have people who see me limp along show any pity, distress, or compassion, since I don't feel the shortcomings of my physical condition. I simply feel fortunate in having obtained the recognition I have in show business, and to have reached a certain special niche in broadcasting and television that give me a sense of real accomplishment."

"A real home life helps a good deal, and that is what I have with my wife Ann, lovely and beautiful and a home maker that you'd envy. Besides, I do get quite a break—though I don't ask for it, mind you—on my TV shows. For instance, on 'Price is Right,' the NBC TV program that I do Mondays through Fridays, no viewer has ever seen me walk on stage, or walk during the program period. I find it no handicap to work this way, and I'm sure that most of the contestants on my program don't know the reason."

"Though I do my work sitting, I'm far from remaining inactive! I get around a good deal, both for professional reasons, and also for fun. I love driving, and have raced cars. I like flying—I was a civilian airplane instructor during the last war. So you see, a little limp doesn't stop me from enjoying work, and living, and playing, too."

No Prosecution Over Spanking

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The district attorney has refused to prosecute a teacher charged with assault in the spanking of a student.

"I believe prosecution would be a great disservice to the boy involved and school teachers generally who have the responsibility for maintenance of proper discipline in our schools," Dist. Atty. Dan Walton said yesterday.

Mrs. S. O. Norregaard, the boy's mother, said "My lawyer will see about this." She signed a complaint last Friday against T. F. Crocker principal of the Red Bluff Elementary School, after her son, William, 10, was spanked May 29.

Crocker said he spanked the child and said "he deserved every bit of the whipping." He said the boy twice attacked a classmate.

Historic Inn Is Back In Business

SUDBURY, Mass. (AP)—Historic Wayside Inn is back in business today, beckoning to weary highway travelers to eat, drink and rest.

Immortalized by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow in "Tales of a Wayside Inn" in the 1860s, the Red Horse Tavern, its real name, has been restored to its original charm after a fire that left it in ruins in 1955.

HE DIDN'T STOP MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—State police would like to talk to the driver of a tractor trailer who drove his vehicle over a single-lane bridge on state route 57. Witnesses said the bridge collapsed just as the driver reached the end—and he did not stop.

Sixth Fleet Is Practicing Its Rescue Tactics

WITH U.S. 6TH FLEET, ON Dikili, Turkey (AP)—Major units of this mighty Mediterranean fleet assembled off the Turkish coast today to train in rescuing Americans from the turbulent countries of the Middle East.

The heavily armed amphibious force of mines, backed up by sailors and naval aviators, are practicing for duty they might face at any moment.

If the crisis deepened in Lebanon, only 12 hours steaming to the south the united could switch from training to the real thing. The fleet is currently reinforced by 18 ships over the usual 50 and by double the usual complement of 1,800 Marines.

At dawn, transports, warships and landing ships maneuvered around the Greek island of Lesbos for a landing near Dikili.

The amphibious task force was backed up by the cruiser Des Moines, the 6th Fleet's flagship, and its sister ship the Salem and a screen of destroyers to give gunfire support to the real thing.

Farther out to sea lay the carriers Saratoga and Essex to lend air cover with nearly 200 planes—including jets capable of carrying nuclear bombs.

A third carrier, the Wasp, was part of the reinforcements. It carried the exercise for Marine landing five miles inland.

One of the day's problems was to establish a beachhead on two miles of coast and control an area within a 25-mile radius by artillery, planes and gunfire. After the exercise, the bulk of the fleet leaves for a visit to Greek and Turkish ports—still only about a day's forced sailing from smoldering Lebanon.

Pilots Bail Out As 2 Jets Crash

MANCHESTER, N. H. (AP)—Two jet fighter planes crashed in screaming dives yesterday after both pilots successfully bailed out. The planes landed in swamplands, narrowly missing several homes.

Second Lt. Peter Gulick, 25, Hanover, N. H., suffered a minor back injury.

Both Air National Guard pilots were returning to Grenier Air Force Base at Manchester, N. H., when their F86 jets developed engine trouble. They were on a training mission.

Actor Robert Donat, 53, Dies

LONDON (AP)—Actor Robert Donat, an Oscar winner for his performance as the gentle English schoolmaster in "Goodbye Mr. Chips," died early today after a 20-year battle against asthma.

The 53-year-old British star won Hollywood's Academy Award as 1939's best screen actor for Mr. Chips. But his wide range of successful performances included the coldly vindictive Count of Monte Cristo, the resourceful adventurer of "The 39 Steps," the polished courtroom orator of "The Winslow Boy" and the dashing Scotsman of "The Ghost Goes West" and many other stage and film roles.

Only last month he finished his first feature film after five years of retirement due to illness. Following his doctors' advice to return to acting, he accepted a starring role as an autocratic Chinese mandarin in "The Inn of the Sixth Happiness" with Ingrid Bergman.

Donat suffered a severe asthma attack on the set but carried on with the aid of a nurse and a prompting board on which his lines were written in large letters. "It's good to see life again," he said. "There have been long times during the last years when I have been so desperate, so afraid, that I could not act anybody."

He collapsed May 18, a week after the film was finished, and was taken to the hospital.

Born in Manchester, England, on March 18, 1905, Donat began acting in provincial companies at 18 and made his first London appearance in 1930.

Donat's first wife was Ella Annesley Voysey. They had two sons and a daughter and were divorced in 1946. He married actress Renee Asherson in 1953. They separated two years ago.

Japanese Honor Enemy Soldiers

KYOTO, Japan (AP)—A marble monument to the Allied soldiers who died on Japanese soil in World War II was dedicated yesterday at the base of the Buddhist statue to Japan's own war dead. Drenched by a rainstorm, 200 Buddhist monks with gongs, horns and drums chanted prayers for the spirits of 48,148 Allied troops who died in captivity or on Japanese soil. The Japanese list 10,020 of them as Americans.

The white marble table to the "world's unknown soldiers" lies inside the base of the 80-foot statue of Kwannon, the Buddhist goddess of mercy. Industrialist Hirotsuke Ishikawa, who with several friends donated the million-dollar memorial, said it was dedicated to the idea of eternal peace.

Pierre Pflimlin, ex-premier of France, is also an expert on the textile industry.

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" "The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dynar)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Protoprep H. Harper Hurls No-Hitter; Kiwanis Dump VFW By 14-3

It's a funny thing about Gaylord Perry. People took his five no-hitters last year for granted. Last season when the lanky righthander was burning up Williamston high school Class A opponents, the Daily Reflector heard about him and sent a pair of reporters to that town for an interview.

When the two reporters showed up at the Williamston field, a scant little park with a few bleachers and a dusty diamond, Perry and his teammates were going through a leisurely warm-up session.

The reporters had heard some wild tales of a lanky 18-year-old who had thrown five no-hit ball games during the season and had arranged for a meeting. The coach, a graduate of East Carolina College, greeted the Reflector correspondents warmly and called Perry over.

A tall, good-looking youngster walked out of the uniform-clad group and mumbled a shy "hello" and sat down. He talked with the reporters easily, frankly, modestly. The coach told of Perry's five no-hitters, his other one-two-and-three-hit victories, and talked of preparing to enter Williamston in the Class A state playoffs.

During the interview, Perry has been asked what his plans were for the future. He was not sure. Though it was not for publication at the time, he admitted that some major league scouts had been hanging around the field and ball games and that he probably would sign rather than go to college.

The two reporters, full of pictures and information, thanked Perry, the coach and the team, and left. Strangely enough, it had been the first interview Perry had ever had, despite his terrific pitching and despite the fact that he was probably the only high school pitcher in history to have tossed five no-hitters in a single season up to that time.

That's the funny thing: Nobody seemed interested or excited about the boy's tremendous record.

Had Williamston been a small community in the mountains or the deep woods in the western part of the state, hard to get to and far away from any newspapers or telephones or radios, it would have been more or less expected. But Williamston isn't. Here was a school boy the likes of which haven't been seen in a long time ANYWHERE, and yet it was almost as if he were being neglected, taken for granted.

Nobody Wanted It

The two reporters worked up a story for The Reflector and then felt that the story was big enough to send to the national wire services. They wrote the story, gathered a batch of pictures and made some phone calls. Nobody seemed interested. The wire officials listened, grunted, and acted as if it were an everyday occurrence to toss five no-hit ball games in a single season.

Perry went on his way quietly, pitched his club to a Class A championship and ultimately wound up with $80,000 and a contract with the San Francisco Giants.

To our knowledge, there never was a wire story about the young righthander. Until he signed the contract.

Funny.

Fireball Roberts Adds Second 500 To Record

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Fireball Roberts of Daytona Beach, Fla., has added a second "500" in two weeks to his string by taking first place yesterday in the third annual Old Dominion 500 at Martinsville Speedway.

Roberts toiled his 1957 Chevrolet through the 500 laps on the half-mile track in 3:54:30 to break the previous track record of 3:58 set by Bob Welborn of Greensboro, N.C.

For his victory, Roberts picked up top prize money of $3,150 plus a share of the lap money, based on $10 for the leader at the end of every 10 laps.

On Memorial Day, Roberts came in first in the Northern 500 at Trenton, N.J.

Welborn, who led for the first 129 laps, lost out for good in a series of mishaps on the 287th lap. After his third pit stop, he was attempting to regain the lead from Roberts when, swerving to avoid a car that had spun out, he slammed into the wall. On the next turn he then smacked into the rear of another car and smashed

While a new radiator was being put into his car, Welborn lost 27 laps.

Second place in the 250-mile convertible race went to Glenn Wood of Stuart, Va., driving a 1957 Ford.

Ken Rush of High Point, N.C., driving a 1957 Chevrolet, had been in second position until he blew a tire on the 490th lap. He finished in fifth place on a rim.

In third place was Lee Petty, Randleman, N.C., in a 1957 Oldsmobile. Jim Massey of Burlington, N.C., driving a 1957 Chevrolet, was fourth.

Gaylord Perry Signs Contract For $80,000

By BILLY ARNOLD

Lanky Gaylord Perry, high school fireball ace from Williamston, launched his professional baseball career last week by signing with the San Francisco Giants for an estimated $75,000-$80,000.

This weekend the quiet-spoken Williamston youngster took a plane from the Raleigh-Durham airport to Phoenix, Arizona, to begin play with the AAA San Francisco farm club this season.

The fact that the estimated $80,000 bonus was the largest ever paid by the Giants to a ballplayer is indicative of how good the Williamston righthander is and how badly major league clubs wanted him.

During the past two seasons the small community of Williamston was besieged by major league scouts and officials from every team in both major leagues. It is said that the first one showed up over three years ago to watch Perry pitch.

Last season he hurled his Williamston High School team to a Class A state championship, winning over half of his team's 21 victories and tossing five no-hitters, which is probably a national record. He was named to the All-Conference and All-State mythical baseball teams and was accosted by a flock of major league representatives and college scouts.

This past season, Perry's performances were quite as impressive. He didn't lose six no-hitters. Reports were that the major league rush to his front door has fallen off a little. Evidently the reports were wrong.

Gaylord Perry is the kind of athlete that professional clubs want badly. He is a hard-worker, he has no personality quirks, he is deadly serious when on the mound, and—perhaps most of all—he is a 100 per cent ballplayer who gives everything he has all the time without a let-up.

Perry's coach at Williamston has commented that the 19-year-old righthander is the kind of player that coaches dream of. "He gives a hundred per cent of his effort at all times." He is a leader, the kind of ballplayer that managers build teams around. Perry is not a one-sport man, either. He has been either All-Conference or All-State in baseball, basketball and football for the past four seasons in high school.

Red Sox Rebel To Move Up In American League

By JACK HAND

The Associated Press

There is a palace revolution in the American League. Three teams are over 500. The new rebels are the Boston Red Sox, who finally are making a move.

By taking a pair yesterday from Chicago—thus dumping the White Sox into a last-place tie with the Detroit Tigers—the Red Sox stretched their modest winning streak to five.

With Jackie Jensen hitting two homers, including a two-run blast in the 10th, Boston took the opener from Chicago 6-5. A pair of two-run homers by Jim Piersall and Gene Stephens boosted them to a 4-1 sweep. Boston moved within eight games of first place.

Cleveland's two victories over the leading New York Yankees, 14-1 and 5-4, made the league standing a bit more respectable.

Kansas City now trails by 7½ after splitting with Baltimore. Hal Brown and George Zuverink teamed up to hand the A's their first shutout of the year in the opener 4-0. But Kansas City managed an even break, winning the second 2-1 with only five hits.

Despite home runs by Gus Zernial, Frank Bolling and Billy Martin of the Tigers, Washington sneaked home with a 4-3 decision for Pedro Ramos.

Thanks to their old sparring mates, the Dodgers who knocked off Milwaukee 12-4, the San Francisco Giants still are leading the National League by one full game. Cincinnati came up with three in the ninth to ntp the Giants 6-3 but Los Angeles pounded out 19 hits to make it five in a row over the Braves. Moe Drabowsky shut out Pittsburgh with one hit as Chicago won the opener 4-0.

St. Louis and Philadelphia went extra innings twice for a split. The Cardinals took the first game 6-5 despite Harry Anderson's two homers and the Phils won the second 6-4 on Anderson's two-run homer in the 14th.

The Red Sox are getting a reputation as come-from-behind kids. They rallied in all four games against Chicago in their series sweep. Don Buddin, Dick Gernert and Jensen all had hit homers off Billy Pierce before Jensen again connected with one on the 10th.

Boston had only five hits while Chicago had 19 in defeat, including five by Billy Goodman. Leo Kiely was the winner.

Piersall and Stephens, Ted Williams' replacement, did the heavy work while Dave Sisler held Chicago to six hits in the second game.

Rocky Colavito was the big man for the Indians with a double, triple and homer in that 19-hit attack in the opening game with the Yankees.

Johnny Kucks, knocked out in the first inning, became a routine loser for the day when Rusty Nixon hit a home run off him in relief in the seventh inning of the second game. Colavito also hit a two-run homer in that second contest.

Ray Narleski and Dick Tomaneck were the Indian winners. Among other Yankee misdeeds, Mickey Mantle dropped a fly ball for a three-base error that opened the door for Cleveland to score five times after two were out in the third inning of the weird opener.

The Orioles' Brown allowed four hits in six innings before giving way to Zuverink, who slugged a two-run triple. Bob Martyn's throw cut down the potential tying run at the plate to save Kansas City's 2-1 margin in the eighth inning of the second game.

Gus Zernial tied a major league record at Washington with his ninth homer as a pinch hitter.

Dodgers Showing Improvement In Recent Weeks

By JACK HAND

Does anybody still think the Dodgers made a mistake moving to Los Angeles?

Walter O'Malley is so busy these days carting money to the bank that he doesn't even have time to stop and count it. This was the week O'Malley hit the jackpot.

He has seen victory in the Chavez Ravine referendum, and a refreshing surge by his Dodger ball club. By beating Milwaukee yesterday 12-4, they made it five in a row over the Braves this year.

The three-game series with the Braves drew 171,326, a National League record. In 27 home dates, the Dodgers have pulled 810,151 into the Coliseum. This is 157,379 ahead of last year's record pace at Milwaukee when the Braves played before 2,215,404 at home.

By beating Milwaukee, the Dodgers helped the San Francisco Giants stay in first place, despite San Francisco's 6-3 defeat by Cincinnati.

Los Angeles failed to climb out of the cellar, however, when Philadelphia finally edged St. Louis 6-4 in 14 innings after dropping the opener 6-5 in 10 innings. Harry Anderson's third homer of the day with a man on in the 14th saved the Phils from the basement.

Moe Drabowsky of Chicago pitched a one-hit shutout against Pittsburgh, winning 4-0 with the help of homers by Ernie Banks and Walt Moryn. The only hit was Ted Kluszewski's single.

In the American League Cleveland knocked off the New York Yankees 14-1 and 5-4 with Rocky Colavito on a rampage. Boston took a pair from Chicago 6-5 in 10 innings and 4-1. Baltimore handed for 4-0 victory.

Weekend play in the Greenville Little League was a fitting beginning to the home stretch in the first half of play for the Tar Heel and North State circuits.

Frank Harper, the veteran hurler for Pepsi-Cola, tossed a no-hit, no-run 9-0 victory for his club against the Exchange club to shove Pepsi-Cola back into the top position in the Tar Heel league. Pepsi is now tied with the Elks with identical 5-2 records.

In the other loop, the cellar-dwelling Kiwanis club reached up and slugged the VFW 14-3 in a wild performance that left the VFW down with them to identical 2-5 records, leaving the Lions in full possession of first place with a 6-1 mark and the Jaycees not very close behind at 4-3.

Harper's Fourth

Saturday's 9-0 hit for Harper was his fourth victory of the season. The chunky righthander is a veteran on last year's state champion Greenville All-Stars and has thus far proved himself to be one of the most capable hurlers in the Greenville 1958 program. His four victories have come over the Elks 13-2, the Exchange 2-1, the Moose 14-0, and the Exchange 9-0.

Saturday, he faced 18 batters, struck out eight, walked two. It was the first time this season that the Exchange club has been scoreless.

The Pepsi team backed Harper up with a total of 15 basehits, several of them for extra bases. Harper, Gidley, Cannon, and Allen all blasted out three hits each, Gordan added two, and Carter one.

The winners posted runs in the first, third, fourth and fifth innings to run away with the ball game.

Rebellion

The defending champions of the North State league, the Kiwanis club, staged a rebellion Saturday afternoon after having inhabited the bottom place in the league for over two weeks. They rose up and clubbed the third-ranked VFW club 14-3 in their biggest show of power thus far this year.

Jordan pitched for the winners, giving up only one hit to the VFW outfit, while his own team blasted three VFW pitchers for six baseknocks.

Most of the Kiwanis runs came in the second inning on walks by VFW pitchers Daniels and Williams. Ross and Nichols singled to open the inning and the next five batted, walked. Then, Ward doubled, Ross walked, Nichols singled and Henderson double. They picked up nine runs altogether.

They had garnered four in the first inning to start things off. The Kiwanis club added one more in the fourth inning to finish up the scoring.

GOP Banking On Economic Upturn

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans are banking heavily on economic recovery to reverse the political tide that now appears to be running against them.

Democrats generally believe the business slump already has lasted too long for an autumn upturn to affect the political situation materially.

Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) said that while he doesn't regard it as the only factor, he thinks the economic downturn had a great deal to do with his showing in last week's California primaries.

Knowland, although he won the Republican nomination for governor of California, trailed Democratic Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown by 600,000 votes in the total cast for both parties. Both candidates ran on both tickets, and will oppose each other in November.

"I think the recession has hit bottom in California and that the economy is on the way up," Knowland said in an interview. "But the average voter, who might know personally two or three people who were out of work, probably wasn't aware of any upturn when he voted in the primary."

However, Sen. Mike Mansfield, the assistant Senate Democratic leader who was renominated in Tuesday's Montana primary, said he regards the results in California as very encouraging for Democratic hopes of strengthening party control of both houses. He attributed the heavy Democratic vote in part to economic conditions.

"Of course a lot of things can happen between now and November but the indications are that we are going to pick up some more seats," Mansfield said.

Most politicians think the average voter is inclined to blame the party in control of the White House for hard times. Asked if he believes there will be sufficient business recovery to overcome that tendency, Mansfield replied: "I hope there will be a quick economy recovery, regardless of how that may affect the political situation. But I believe the recession has gone on too long for any fall upturn to affect it much."

More jobs and fewer unemployed during May were reported Friday but another government report, issued yesterday, said industry is cutting its capital spending more deeply and more rapidly than had been expected.

Total investment in new plants, machinery and equipment this year was estimated at 30.7 billion dollars or 17 per cent less than last year.

Ceremonies Open Nat'l Flag Week

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ceremonies at the Star-Spangled Banner Flag House here yesterday opened National Flag Week.

The Flag House is on the site of the home occupied by Mrs. Mary Young Pickersgill, who made the flag that inspired Francis Scott Key to write the national anthem.

The 30-by-42 foot flag contained 15 stars and 15 stripes. It flew over Fort M'Henry during a bombardment by the British fleet Sept. 13-14, 1814.

Boy Trapped By Fallen Boulder

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y. (AP)—Philip Jensen, 10, Franklin Square, N. Y., was trapped for 2 1/2 hours yesterday when one of his feet became caught under a boulder in a fall down a cliff.

A Palisades Interstate Park maintenance crew freed the Long Island boy with hydraulic jacks. The boy was taken to Cornwall Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises.

Most Efficient Of Coffee Cops

BONN, Germany (AP)—The West German government is warmly applauding one of its female customs officials for outstanding achievement in nosing out coffee smugglers.

The attractive brunette, fondly called Geisha by her colleagues, has built up a reputation as the most efficient coffee cop along the Dutch-German border.

"It is thanks to Geisha," said the official government gazette, "that almost no illicit coffee now crosses the border she patrols."

Being a specially trained 2 1/2-year-old spaniel, Geisha just puts her wet, curious nose up in the air and follows the coffee scent.

She never fails. She has located coffee buried under loads of coal, wrapped in petrol-soaked cloths, and in all the unlikely places smugglers and unbelieving customs officials can think of. The government gazette describes her as "one of the most active and reliable customs officials in the employ of the federal republic."

With the duty on coffee about 50 cents a pound, the beverage has been one of the smugglers' favorite items. Geisha is one of only two dogs in the entire West German customs service trained to track down the fragrant contraband.

Frequently she is taken aboard border-crossing Rhine vessels and on to international freight and passenger trains. She invariably locates undeclared coffee.

Last Rites Set For Mrs. Thomas Clay

Mrs. Agnes Bishop Clay, 78, widow of Thomas Henry Clay, died in Edgewood General Hospital, Tarboro, at 12:20 Sunday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held at the Chapel of the Lunsford Mortuary in Cuthbert, Ga., at 11 a.m. Wednesday. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery in Cuthbert.

Mrs. Clay was born and reared in Terrell county, Ga., and spent her married life in Cuthbert. Mr. Clay died in 1940. She had been living in Greenville and Tarboro since 1956. She was a member of the Cuthbert Baptist Church and taught a Sunday School Class there many years.

Surviving are two sons, Howard B. Clay of Greenville and John P. Clay of Scarsdale, N. Y.; five grandchildren and two sisters; Mrs. H. Steinheiser and Mrs. Pearle Swayne of Camden, N.J.

SNITCHED

DALLAS (AP)—Officers accused Robert Hampton, 34, of going to the home of Bessie Arnold and asking if he could use her portable sewing machine to stitch a rip in his pants. When she turned her back, they said, he ran off with the machine. He was charged with theft for snitching instead of stitching.

Graduate student Roger Price, experimenting at the Laboratory of Ornithology, Cornell University, is pursuing a special project which he hopes will earn him a Ph.D. degree. He is studying the hearing of owls.

Wall Street Glossary Helpful To Beginners

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—If what's going on these days in the stock market confuses you, some of it could be because of the terms that are used.

For the person who never bought a share of stock, or who bought one once and still has burnt fingers, the every day talk on Wall Street can be rough to follow.

Technical position, for example, is a phrase favored to explain why the market goes up or down, when you can't think of any other way to explain it.

According to a glossary of terms put out by the New York Stock Exchange, it means "various internal factors affecting the market; opposed to external forces such as earnings, dividends, political considerations and general economic conditions. Internal factors include the size of the short interest, whether the market has had a sustained advance or decline."

And that brings us to short interest and short covering, currently said to be a major help to the bulls, although it's the bears who sell short. So what are bears and bulls and short sales?

Bulls think the market is going up and are inclined to buy. Bears think it's going down and are likely to sell if they have the stock, or sell short if they don't. In these short sales they contract to sell stocks they don't own because they think they can buy them cheaper later on for delivery.

Short covering is when these bears buy stock to complete the transaction. This can either be profit taking, if the price has gone down since the short sale, or loss cutting, if it has gone up—as if often does.

Selective strength is when only a few stocks look good to investors and they select them to buy. They do that all the time anyway. But when a lot of stocks look good that's a bull market. And when only a handful do, that gives the market selective strength.

Switching is when the other fellow's stock looks better than yours so you sell and buy the kind he has. This has the added advantage of creating commissions for the brokers who handle the deals.

Pivotal issues are the bellwethers in the stock market. Usually they are blue chips. The exchange defines a blue chip as "common stock in a company known nationally for the quality and wide acceptance of its products or services, and for its ability to make money and pay dividends in good times and bad."

But penny stock speculation has its followers, too, and sometimes they outnumber the blue chip investors, as they did a short time back.

In speculation the safety of the money put up for the stock is a secondary factor to the hope of big gain through a rise in its market price. Penny stocks are low priced, often risky, and usually selling for less than $1.

Inflation hedging in common stocks means that when inflation hits, the price of most things goes up, including common stocks and often the amount of their dividends. But the interest paid out on bonds and preferred stocks, along with pension and like payments, stays put. So common stocks are popular as a way to beat the game.

Trading on a when issued basis means beating the gun. If a company is going to issue stock or the U. S. Treasury put out a bond, even before its offer the printing press those who think they are getting some can set a price at which they would sell. And those who think the price shortly will go either higher or lower than that officially listed can set a price at which they would buy.

If they can get together there's a when issued transaction—then they just wait till the issue appears to see which was right.

Beauty Injured, Face Unmarred

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Suzy Parker's physician says the 25-year-old actress is still a very beautiful girl despite injuries in a train-auto crash. Two arms were broken but her face was unmarked in the accident Saturday night.

The crash killed her father. Miss Parker was admitted to the hospital under the name of Mrs. Pierre Lasalle of New York City. It was the first public disclosure that she was married.

Lasalle arrived in St. Augustine from New York last night to sit at her side. Newsman could not reach him for comment. A member of the family declined to say how long they had been married.

The accident occurred when Miss Parker and her father, George Lofton Parker, 60, were driving to Jacksonville after visiting her mother in the hospital here. Mrs. Parker is recovering from a recent operation.

A state trooper said Parker, owner of Parker Printing Preparations in Jacksonville, apparently did not see or hear the Florida East Coast Railway train approach a crossing.

Miss Parker's physician said she will be hospitalized for several weeks.

Miss Parker, a former top New York model, has had roles in two movies, "Kiss Them for Me" with Gary Grant and Jayne Mansfield and "10 North Frederick" with Gary Cooper.

Death Plunge At Grand Canyon

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (AP)—A man plunged several hundred feet to his death from the south rim of the Grand Canyon yesterday before the horrified eyes of 75 tourists.

He was Donald Mark, 43, a Grand Canyon motel clerk. John McLaughlin, Grand Canyon National Park superintendent, said Mark "apparently was just playfully jumping from stone to stone, slipped and fell several hundred feet."

Park rangers reached the body late yesterday. Mark, formerly of Prescott, Ariz., had been working at the motel for about six months.

Guarding Against Slip Of Tongue

DETROIT (AP)—A pretty coed from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., is guarding against a slip of the tongue into English.

She is 20-year-old Beverly Keelan, who is bouing up on her French this week before leaving for Laval College in Quebec, where she has a scholarship for the summer term.

A stipulation of the scholarship is that the recipient speak only French, both on and off the campus.

Beverly, a French major, has been studying the language for eight years in high school and college.

Nuclear-Powered Aircraft May Be Radio Controlled

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's first nuclear-powered aircraft may be unmanned and radio controlled.

It may circle for six months or a year, remote from populated regions, and then be landed for detailed studies of radiation, wear and parts fatigue.

Such a test flight could bring to light any unsuspected problems and help assure safety of crews later.

These possibilities were being discussed in the aviation industry today in the light of a new brochure on "Aircraft Nuclear Propulsion Systems Applications for the National Defense," distributed by General Electric Atomic Products Division.

The GE Aircraft Nuclear Propulsion Department, Cincinnati, has been working for more than five years to develop materials, methods and engineering concepts for nuclear aircraft. Work has been under way both at its Evansdale, Ohio, plant and at the Idaho Falls, Idaho, atomic energy installation.

Reporting "gratifying results of component tests," the GE brochure said, "Nuclear powered aircraft are capable of remaining in their element air for the major portion of their life."

The company did not say when atomic-powered aircraft might be ready for use. Defense officials have indicated that at least several years will be required to develop a workable military plane. But when such planes are put into use, the company said, their long range will eliminate present heavy requirements for fuel and for the tankers and air crews needed for aerial refueling operations, and will cut down sharply on the need for overseas bases.

The booklet said nuclear-powered aircraft eventually can be used either as bombers or as missile launchers on constant station aloft.

They also can be used for global surveillance in antisubmarine, early warning, weather and rescue patrol as well as in intelligence, inspection and worldwide logistic support of U. S. ground forces, it added.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market drifted aimlessly early this afternoon in moderately active trading.

Prices were mixed with a slight tendency toward the downside.

Most leading stocks were either unchanged or showed fractional changes. A few moved around a point either way.

Having gone to repeated new highs for the year last week, the market appeared to be consolidating its gains, brokers said. Some profit taking was apparent.

Selected oils, coppers, rails and tobaccos improved. Small losers appeared in many of the major groups. Steels leaned to the downside. Motors showed little change. The rails as a group were off slightly on average.

The market was a bit higher at the start and there were some good-sized initial blocks. In fits and starts of activity prices settled somewhat lower on balance.

Richfield Oil held a gain of about a point after rising more than that at the opening. Phillips Petroleum was up a major fraction.

Lorillard, continuing its recovery, advanced around a point in brisk dealing while American Tobacco was off a fraction, backing away still further from its big gains of early last week on its new filter tip cigarette.

Du Pont and Kennecott also were up about a point. Union Carbide fell close to a point.

A big 15,000-share block of National Steel was traded at 52 1/2, off 1/4. Another big one, 15,000 shares of Middle South Utilities, was off 1/4 at 42.

Illinois Central and Southern Railway gained a little. Baltimore & Ohio was steady. Santa Fe dropped a fraction.

Small losses were taken by U.S. Steel, Goodrich, Boeing, International Nickel and Sinclair. Ahead a bit were United Aircraft, Allied Chemical and Zenith General Motors. Standard Oil (New Jersey) and American Telephone were about unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks at noon was off 10 cents to $172.50 with the industrials up 20 cents, the rails down 20 cents and the utilities down 20 cents.

June Seeing Marriage License Business Boom

June's tradition as a month for marriages began to ring true again last week for the Pitt County Register of Deeds office.

Personnel in the office issued 21 marriage licenses last week, 14 to white couples and seven to Negro couples. The office had issued only 167 licenses for the first five months of the year.

White couples to whom licenses were issued include:

Riley Tripp, Ayden, and Evelyn Videau Joyner, Farmville; Ormand Earl Williams, Route 3, Greenville; and Peggy Joyce Arnold, Grimesland; Harold Dallas Nobles and Peggy Rose Williams, both of Route 1, Winterville; George Barry Stule and Joel Ann Dennis, both of Newport News, Va.

Oscar Elton Bostic, Greenville.

Thrown Out Of Auto In Wreck

A Cherry Point Marine suffered minor lacerations of the face and scalp when thrown from his automobile near here early this morning.

The victim has been identified as Harold Hutchinson, 22. He received emergency treatment at Pitt Memorial Hospital and was released.

According to Pfc. R. E. Taylor of Grifton who investigated the mishap, Hutchinson's car overturned three times on U. S. Highway 13 approximately five miles north of Greenville. The vehicle was a total loss.

Hutchinson was quoted as saying he went to sleep at the wheel and lost control of the car. He was charged with careless and reckless driving.

A second occupant of the car, William Lowry, 22, also of Cherry Point, was asleep in the back seat at the time of the single-car accident. He escaped without injury.

HIS OWN DAUGHTER

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—John Eddleman, Oklahoma highway patrolman, was given a routine assignment—rush a child who had swallowed poison from Lindsay to Oklahoma City. The child turned out to be Eddleman's 13-month-old daughter, Nancy. He made the 60 mile trip in 45 minutes. Nancy, who got into some roach poison, was reported in excellent condition.

Crippled, But Didn't Give Up

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Defeat? That's a word for the chickenhearted. Not for Jack Cooke.

Six years ago Jack was 25 and life was good to him. Through with the Navy and college, he married and settled down to a pleasant life with a job in the family business.

Then tragedy struck. Jack became ill and saw two of everything instead of one. Doctors told him he had multiple sclerosis — an incurable disease. That was in 1952.

He has been chosen as the nation's Disabled Working Father of the Year. Announcement of the choice was made yesterday by the National Father's Day Committee in New York.

Jack, now 31, lives with his wife June and their two children, Jack Jr., 9, and Amadelon, 6, in nearby Columbia. With his widowed mother Mrs. Madelon Cooke, he runs a pet shop and dog-boarding kennel here established by his grandfather. And he's active in several civic organizations.

"One of these days the cause of multiple sclerosis and its cure will be found," Jack says. "Meanwhile, I've got too much to do just to sit around feeling sorry for myself. No one should do that."

State Highway Commission In Session Today

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The State Highway Commission opened its regular monthly meeting here today with a public hearing on road problems posed by Piedmont residents from Raleigh to Hickory.

In addition to open discussions, the commission also will act on a parcel of road bids totaling more than 13 million dollars and will dedicate the four-lane limited access Charlotte by-pass.

The public hearing, coming at the start of the two day meeting, was the fourth held by the reorganized commission. Others have been at Asheville, Winston-Salem and Wilmington.

Each group had 15 minutes to discuss its road requests and problems.

The commission was to move into its business session at the close of the hearings. Most important on the agenda was the review of low bids on the largest highway letting in commission history.

The bids, on 18 projects covering more than 144 miles in 15 counties, amounted to $13,017,998.44.

Included were two jobs on the interstate system calling for 14 1/2 miles of grading and surfacing on the relocation of U. S. 301 in Cumberland County and 14 miles of grading and structures in the relocation of U.S. 70 in McDowell County.

Several resurfacing and bridge projects to be financed by emergency federal aid funds recently allotted to the state also were involved in the letting, held June 3 in Raleigh.

The 1 1/2 mile Charlotte by-pass, constructed at a cost of $4,721,578, eventually will become a part of interstate route 85 which will run from Petersburg, Va., to Montgomery, Ala.

TURN FOR WORSE

EAST PATERSON, N. J. (AP) — Charles T. Kurzynski, 49, out for an auto spin with his wife over the weekend, took a turn for the worse: Into the lawn, shrubbery, garage and car of Benedict Rockoviz. Kurzynski told police an oncoming car crossed over to his side of the road. His wife advised, "Turn," he said, and he did. Police charged him with careless driving.

Patter Of Little Feet Is Traced To Baby Opposum

OPPOSSUM IN HOUSE... Royce Pierce exhibits furry animal.

Mrs. Royce Pierce of 116 Harding St. was awakened by the patter of little feet Saturday night.

Having no small children in the house and no pets the noises startled her.

Then in the light streaming through her bedroom door she saw "it".

Mrs. Pierce awoke her husband and told him she saw a strange crawling thing in the doorway. Pierce muttered something about his wife's sanity, rolled over and went back to sleep.

Mrs. Pierce didn't sleep much that night but she saw the unusual creature no more.

The next day her daughter heard a noise in a box. She looked in and screamed.

The rest of the family ran into the room. Pierce looked into the box and there was the culprit—a baby opossum.

The Pierce's are unable to explain just how the animal got into their home. All windows and doors are well screened. The outside walls are brick covered with stucco and the cellar has a concrete floor.

At any rate, the animal obtained its freedom. After the family showed the opossum to the neighbors it was taken to a wooded area where it was turned loose.

Last Of Talking Women Begins

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The last of six women in a talking contest for $1,500 worth of household appliances started her chatterbox routine early today.

She was a 24-year-old housewife, Mrs. Frank Williams, who had a rugged task ahead of her.

All five previous contestants had broken the record of 26 1/2 hours set by a college girl on a recent television network show.

No. 5, Miss V. Brewer, 20-year-old clothing store clerk, had the best time so far, 38 hours, 21 minutes and 2 seconds, before quitting shortly after 1 a.m. today.

Miss Brewer, who wore Bermuda shorts and bunny sox, said after she finished that she felt fine and might even go in to work.

The women had a 2 1/2-minute rest period every hour as they continued the talkfest one by one in the window of a household appliance store.

Waiting to challenge the winner was Ernie Eye, Fayetteville woman, a television personality who thought up the contest.
