Adams Imprudent But 'I Need Him', Says President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that Sherman Adams was imprudent in his relations with Bernard Goldfine but "I need him" to continue as top presidential aide.

Adams himself acknowledged in testimony yesterday before a House investigating committee. Despite that imprudence, Eisenhower said, he has reached these personal conclusions: "1. I believe that the presentation of Adams to the congressional committee yesterday truthfully represents the pertinent facts. "2. I personally like Gov. Adams. I do not care to see him go. "3. I respect him because of his personal and official integrity. "4. I need him."

At one point Eisenhower was asked whether, in the light of the Adams-Goldfine situation, it would be proper for other government employees to do what Adams did and win Eisenhower's approval. He replied that he always has striven for the highest, impeccable standards in the case of White House staff members. He said the goal is the same in the case of employees of all other agencies, but that he does not have as close contact with them as with members of his own staff.

He had already made his general statement. The news conference attracted 357 reporters. It dealt, for the most part, with the controversy over Adams. Other highlights were: HUNGARY — Eisenhower denounced the execution of former Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy and his colleague, Maj. Gen. Pal Maleter. He said that the executions by the current Communist government of Hungary have shocked the free world, and also have had an adverse effect on the possibility of negotiating with the Soviet Union on such matters as a summary conference.

LEBANON — Asked under what conditions the United States might take military action in the Lebanon crisis, Eisenhower replied he could not answer that precisely. He also said he did not care to make predictions. The situation in Lebanon, the President added, is being studied by Dag Hammarskjold, the United Nations secretary general, and by a U.N. armistice team. What the United States does in the situation, he said, will depend on the findings of those people.

During the discussion of relations between Adams, the No. 1 White House aide, and Goldfine, a Boston industrialist, a reporter said Rep. Owen Harris (D-Ark) had said that Adams violated the law in obtaining certain information from the Federal Trade Commission regarding Goldfine's business troubles.

The newsmen asked whether Eisenhower makes any distinction between the situation in that case and in some others which involved officials in the Truman administration. The Republicans, in their campaign, had denounced what they labeled "the mess" in Washington under Truman. Eisenhower said there are certain facts available which would help answer the question. But he referred his questioner to White House press secretary James C. Hagerty for the answer.

In his statement, which he read solemnly and somewhat sternly, the President said intense publicity surrounding Adams made it desirable and even necessary that he start the session with an expression of his own views. "First, as a result of this entire incident, all of us should have been made aware of one truth," Eisenhower said. "That is that a gift is not necessarily a bribe. One is evil; the other is a tangible expression of friendship."

Adams has acknowledged that he accepted gifts, some of them expensive, from Goldfine during a period when the industrialist was in trouble before federal agencies. Adams also has said that Goldfine got no favored treatment because of his friendship with him—and that he (Adams) never sought any such treatment for his friend.

One Virus Is Linked To Cancer

HONEY HARBOUR, Ont. (AP)—A major advance in cancer research was reported today by a woman scientist who said she has used a single virus to cause many types of cancer in experimental animals.

Dr. Sarah E. Stewart of the National Cancer Institute at Bethesda, Md., told the Canadian Cancer Research Congress she had induced as many as 29 different types of cancer in mice using a virus extracted from a single type of tumor-leukemia or blood cancer.

Her paper gave support to the long-held theory that cancer is transmitted by a virus. These disease-producing agents in other forms are known to be responsible for polio, influenza and measles. While some of Dr. Stewart's colleagues had reservations about the importance of her work, Dr. Arthur W. Ham, head of biological research at the Ontario Cancer Institute in Toronto, described it as "the most stimulating thing that has happened in cancer research in years."

Dr. E. A. Mirand of the New York state-supported Roswell Park Memorial Institute at Buffalo said the cancer treatment and research center has already checked and verified Dr. Stewart's work. A gray-haired woman scientist's seven years of work is expected to lead to a great concentration of research on virus causation of cancer in general. She herself said she could not say how soon her findings can be applied to human cancer. She explained it will first have to be shown that virus causes certain types of human cancer and this has not been established.

Dr. Stewart took cell-free extracts from leukemic mice and grew the virus in tissue cultures. She extracted the virus from one group of mice she caused cancers of the breast and of the salivary and thymus glands in other strains of mice. She also broke through the species barrier by causing cancer with the mice extract in hamsters, rats and rabbits. Normally animals of one species will reject cancer cells from another species.

Baby Is Severely Bitten By Rats

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A two-month-old baby who was badly bitten by rats Monday night was reported in favorable condition today by Good Samaritan Hospital. The child, Regina Leon Johnson, suffered severe bites on the nose and right foot.

Elaborating on his Sunday morning announcement, Dr. Haney said today, "I feel that after 16 years with the congregation I have completed the work I can do. In the time I have been minister of the church its membership has more than doubled, its missionary giving has been quadrupled and we have every harmoniously organized another church, Hooker Memorial Christian Church. "It is also my feeling that the church now needs a younger man."

Senate's Labor Bill Sent House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A broad labor control bill on which the Senate spent five long days headed today toward a lukewarm reception in the House. The Senate passed the measure last night.

House leaders privately gave the bill little chance of passage. These sources said the House may well pass a union pension and welfare disclosure bill which cleared the Senate in April, but that this would be the extent of action in the labor field this year. However, Rep. Carl D. Perkins (D-Ky), chairman of the House Labor subcommittee, noted he already is going ahead with hearings on a general bill, and declared, "We are going to proceed diligently." He did not forecast his group would be able to report a bill for House action.

The Senate wrangled through three 12-hour days and an 11-hour session, and needed another seven hours to complete action on the final day. But members then agreed their handiwork would be sent to the Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex) hailed the measure as "one of the important landmarks of this Congress" and "a bill with which honorable men can live."

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), chief author and floor manager, called the bill "an effective weapon in the hands of responsible leaders, honest members and the federal government in driving the racketeers and mobsters out of the labor movement." Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-NY), cosponsor of the bill, was successful in fighting off practically every floor amendment he opposed. Most of these came from Republicans who insisted the bill would not accomplish the purpose of curbing labor racketeering and abuses of union power.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) chairman of the Rackets Committee, also helped the sponsors with his plea not to load the bill down with amendments which might kill it. But McClellan conceded he was satisfied with parts of the measure.

Phone Firm May Need Further Hike

RALEIGH (AP) — Vice President J. T. Havens of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. predicted today his firm would need rate increases in the near future in addition to the three million dollars it is asking for now. Havens, testifying at a State Utilities Commission hearing, said the increase under consideration would raise the company's rate of return to 6 per cent. However, he added, the rate of return must be increased to 6.75 percent to be fair and reasonable.

He also asked the commission to approve immediately a request for hikes of a million and a half dollars applied for late last year, and to order approval as soon as possible of a second request for increases of 71,400,000. The one and a half million rate change was put into effect under bond by the telephone company pending the outcome of the hearing. Havens said the company contemplates a construction program of about 11 million dollars this year and more than eight million in 1959. Immediately after his testimony, Havens underwent cross-examination by former Asst. Atty. Gen. Sam Behrends, representing company customers protesting the rate increase.

Jenkins escaped along with Isaac Fordham, 32, of Kinston who was serving 12 months for assault and malicious damage. The two slipped from a road gang working on a rural road.

Local Escapee John Henry Jenkins, 26-year-old Negro, formerly of 219 Boyd Avenue, escaped from a road gang near Scotland Neck yesterday afternoon. Winbourne had been expected to retire. He announced his decision yesterday as the commission opened a hearing on the rate increase case of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Winbourne, a native of Murfreesboro, joined the commission 28 years ago and has been its chairman 25 years. His retirement will leave the commission three members. Gov. Eddies and the Commission on Reorganization of State Government have said they believe this is sufficient to do the job.

RALEIGH (AP) — For the fourth time since Jan. 3, the state has dropped the interest rate charged banks on deposits of state money. Gov. Hodges and the Council of State yesterday reduced the interest rate from 1 1/2 to 1 1/4 per cent. The rate was 3 per cent before it began to drop Jan. 3. The governor and Council of State also approved plans for the state to sell 15 million dollars worth of school building construction bonds July 16. This will mark the last of 50 million in bonds authorized by the 1953 Legislature. The bonds will replace some 15 million dollars in bond anticipation notes issued by the state on Sept. 12, 1956. Receive Largest Case Of Illegal Sugar Sales

WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — A federal court jury today receives the largest case ever brought to trial in the state involving sugar and other raw materials used to make bootleg liquor. Defendants include Pearson of Wilkesboro and 11 other defendants are charged with conspiracy to possess and dispose of the materials and with falsifying reports of sugar sales in 1956-57. Spearheading the federal case is Coley Roby Johnson, one-time Wilkes County liquor violator who turned informant after returning from prison in 1956. Special Investigator John L. West testified that Johnson reported Pearson as wanting to enter the sugar business, asking use of Johnson's name and car license number on reports to the U.S. Internal Revenue Service. Pearson, 53, allegedly sold 426,835 pounds of sugar over an eight-month period. Johnson testified he handled the sale and delivery of thousands of pounds of sugar for Pearson. Rev. Collapsing Bridge Fatal To 16 Men

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Two sections of a nearly finished six-mile bridge collapsed mysteriously yesterday in a tangled mass of steel, plunging at least 16 workmen to their death. Two others were missing and 22 injured. It was 3:42 p.m. on a hot, sunny, windless afternoon when the two end sections of the 16-million-dollar Second Narrows Bridge over Burrard Inlet gave way without warning. Forty construction workers were on the steel framework of the pier-supported sections. Suddenly, with a muted rumble, the temporary front supports of the foremost section crumbled and dropped the jutting end of the bridge 200 feet into the tide-churned inlet separating Vancouver and North Vancouver. The strain jerked forward the cantilevered section behind, and it nosed downward into the water. The two sections, each about 70 feet long, ended their collapse tilted crazily downward like a sagging W with their front part submerged and rear resulted in the lowering of the interest rate on state deposits, said State Treasurer Edwin Gill. He reported that the state now has about 46 1/2 million dollars on deposit in 116 banks. Meanwhile, the governor and the council approved an allocation of $57,969 from the state's contingency and emergency fund to pay college expenses during the 1957-58 school year of 144 children of war veterans. The 1931 General Assembly enacted legislation under which the state pays the room and board bills each year at state-supported colleges for qualified children of war veterans. Those eligible are children of servicemen who were killed in action, died as the result of war injuries, suffered 30 per cent service-connected disability at the time of his death, or were 100 per cent disabled by war wounds. Such students get free tuition at state schools. Of the $57,969, a total of $17,415 will go to Woman's College in Greensboro for 43 students. Other allotments include: University of North Carolina, $16,221, 36 students; State College, $16,954, 36 students; West Carolina College, $3,929, 15 students; Fayetteville State Teachers College, $452, two students; A&T College, $2,672, 10 students; Pembroke State Teachers College, $326, two students. In other actions, the governor and Council of State: Approved an allocation of $3,828 from the C&E Fund to be used in the systematic aerial mapping of all lands in New Hanover County except the City of Wilmington and the Castle Hayne area. This is part of a program to discover all lands owned by the state.

Princess To Be American Career Woman

By DOROTHY ROE
Marcella Borghese, princess of San'Angelo and Santo Polo, duchess of Bomarzo, is having the time of her life.

After having spent most of her life in the sheltered confines of Italian society, she is amping the thrill of becoming an American career woman.

"So wonderful it is, I cannot tell you!" says the willowy blonde princess. "All is so different here. The women, they work, they are busy, they stay always young. All over this big country I have gone, everywhere is friendliness. America I love!"

Although she looks too fragile and feminine to cope with anything more complicated than a dinner guest list, Princess Marcella is now a corporation president, no less, and has just returned from a trip that would test the stamina of a veteran traveling salesman. Introducing her Italian beauty aids to America, she visited in rapid succession Boston, Chicago, New Orleans, Dallas, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Washington, Pittsburgh and Rochester.

On her first trip to New York two years ago Marcella looked in wide-eyed wonder on the brisk activities of American women, the wonders of American kitchens, the dressy informality of American life. She clung to the arm of her husband, Prince Paul, blushed frequently and looked frightened. But a glint came to her beautiful brown eyes as she continued to observe the American scene and she left with the promise, "I shall return."

In Italy, Marcella's life is divided between the Borghese palace in Rome, the family farms near Florence and the villa in Capri. Each residence is fully staffed with servants, but the princess says she much prefers a servantless American home, fully equipped with electrical appliances.

30 Years Ago Today

June 18, 1928

Under the lead of Supt. J. H. Rose, a summer playground program is to be developed in Greenville which will give a fine opportunity to the boys to develop themselves physically and socially during the dull months from now until school opens in the fall. A director of playgrounds has been chosen in the person of R. I. Tolson of the local high school, who will devote his time to the development of a comprehensive program for the youth of Greenville. The movement, which is sponsored by the city schools, is in line with similar activities in most progressive communities and will doubtless prove a boon to many adults as well as boys and of much physical and moral benefits to the youth of the community.

WOC Has Guest Speaker At Meet

"The Church of the Redeemed" was the subject discussed by Mrs. W. T. Kyzer and Mrs. Robert E. at the general meeting of the WOC of the First Presbyterian Church last night.

The program was opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. J. Howard Mow, who also presided over the business session.

Mrs. Bernard McGee gave the devotion using passages from Acts and John.

A note was read from the Gammans thanking the women for the reception given for them on Sunday afternoon, and for other courtesies shown since their arrival in Greenville; a note from Wesley Topping thanking the church for remembering him at his graduation was also read.

After a discussion it was decided that the Circles would continue their meetings as planned through July and August.

The meeting closed with the mizpah benediction.

Left In The Hands Of Local Citizens

Pitt County citizens have provided themselves with one of the essentials of promoting their own economic development by approving establishment of a county-wide program supported by county funds.

The County Commissioners should, as soon as possible, appoint the members of the Pitt County Industrial Commission in order that the program can get underway.

The Industrial Commission, together with the experienced industrial engineer we presume will be hired, will be charged with the responsibility of spearheading efforts for Pitt County's further economic development. It would be a drastic mistake, however, for the people of this county to sit back placidly and assume that once this commission is formed they will have only to wait for new industries, new payrolls and greater economic prosperity to fall into our laps.

It just doesn't work that way elsewhere, and there is no reason for us to assume it will work that way in Pitt County.

The county's industrial commission and the trained leadership it hires will provide the stimulus for a progressive development program for the county. But the program itself, and the results it achieves, will depend to a large extent upon the work and cooperation it receives from citizens throughout the county.

If Pitt is to realize its economic potential it will have to develop its own home-grown industries as well as attract industries from other parts of the nation. In order to develop these local industries local capital for buildings, as well as for financing the industries will be required.

In the Smithfield-Selma area industrial development has become an oft-told success story. There, over a period of years, local people have invested $900,000 of local capital in providing buildings to be leased to industries, and in establishing industries themselves.

In our neighboring town of Robersonville the Austin Farms broiler processing plant is a result of local financing to a large extent, and just yesterday it was announced that local funds in that area has led to the establishment of a textile industry that will soon begin operations.

By providing for a county-wide industrial development program, Pitt County has taken the first step toward realizing its economic potential. When this program actually gets in operation, subsequent steps toward the goal will depend large upon the willingness of local citizens to pull the county forward by its own bootstraps. It will require the work and support of the people of every community in Pitt County.

How Many 'Pirates' Were From Florida?

The North Carolina's Fisheries Association is more than a little bit upset about the allegation of Florida officials pointed specifically at Tar Heel "piracy" in closed shrimp waters off the Florida Coast.

A denial of the piracy charges has been issued by the Tar Heel group and they have provided information to back up their denial. Violations of the Tortugas Bed off the Florida coast cannot be blamed wholly on North Carolina boats. Indeed, only a small percentage of those boats charged with violations are from North Carolina. None of the four charged with attempts to ram government boats in the closed area is from North Carolina as was intimated in initial assertions by Florida officials.

According to the North Carolina Fisheries Association shrimpers from six states operate in the Tortugas area. Court records at Key West, according to the association, show that 38 shrimpers have been charged with violating the closed Tortugas Beds, and of these only seven are from North Carolina. By any standard of comparison that does not make North Carolina a major violator of the closed area.

Whatever the reason behind the allegations by Florida officials against North Carolina shrimpers, the facts revealed by the North Carolina Fisheries Association show the part played by Tar Heel boats in alleged piracy was greatly exaggerated. According to the Key West court records, North Carolina shrimpers were guilty of slightly less than one-fifth of the violations of the closed area.

From reading what Florida officials had to say about the matter, people throughout the nation probably got the impression that North Carolina boats were responsible for most of the violations.

It is regrettable that any Tar Heel shrimpers violated the closed Tortugas Bed. But the fact that only seven of them have been charged with violations, along with 31 boats from other states, should not bring the entire Tar Heel shrimping fleet under condemnation. How many of the 38 vessels charged with violating the Tortugas Bed were from Florida?

Why Immunity Did Not Apply

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sherman Adams, who's played hard to get before, finally agreed to face a congressional committee investigating his relations with Bernard Goldfine, Boston millionaire who paid his hotel bills. Why?

Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 assistant and so powerful in the White House and the government that he's almost a junior president, says he "disposed" to answer questions. He could hardly do otherwise.

In the past he could claim immunity. Not now. If the Adams-Goldfine relationship involved official business Adams could have refused to go before the committee. That's what he did three years ago when his testimony was sought in the Dixon-Yates case. He claimed immunity then.

But what Goldfine did for Adams and Adams for Goldfine was on a personal basis and did not involve any official action by President Eisenhower, his Cabinet or his advisers.

At one time or another 18 presidents from Washington to Eisenhower have refused to let congressional committees examine either individuals or records from the executive branch of the government for such reasons as this:

"That they have a constitutional right to keep confidential from Congress papers and information which they think, in the public interest, require secrecy."

This is based on the constitutional separation of powers between the executive and legislative branches.

That they have a constitutional right to keep confidential from Congress papers and information which they think, in the public interest, require secrecy."

This might be called a good definition of Christian humility. The word humble comes from a Latin word meaning ground-humus. The humble person is the person who has come down to earth, who has his feet on the ground, who faces reality. The people who try to act big are offensive and ridiculous. Only the people who are consciously trying to act little remind us of Uriah Heep, the hypocrite in one of Dickens' novels who was always so humble.

Real Christian humility is, as the mystics put it, "just acting medium." Not pushing too high; not going down too low; maintain dignity with no pride, manifesting all deference without being cringing and despicable.

We are assured in every field of the natural sciences that balance is one of the greatest factors of universal life. Physiological balance is of prime importance. The same is true as regards the psychological aspects of life. Financially, socially, spiritually, politically — in all these things have balance. Not big; not little; just medium.

A group of youngsters organized a club and in one of the back yards built a club house out of discarded cartons and boxes. They adopted a slogan and wrote it with chalk on the door. This was the slogan: "Don't act big. Don't act little. Just act medium."

Role Is Not All Glamor

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Would you like to be a captain of industry?

The idea of serving as president of a giant business firm—a firm with only five employees is a giant if the town it serves is small enough appeals to many.

They see themselves as a glamorous big wheel surrounded by many small cogs desperately anxious to please. They see the executive life as one of endless power, plenty, prestige and leisure.

Perhaps it actually was that way in the old days when a boss didn't die as a tycoon until after he had bought his second yacht.

But today, Ah, no. Many a modern magnate has found that achievement of the great American dream—to run a big business—has many nightmare aspects.

Let us take a typical mythical example—Mr. Alonzo Q. Quagmire, president of the Acme Tiddlywinks Co.

In an off-the-cuff interview, President Quagmire gives this picture of the private life of a captain of industry.

Q. Mr. Quagmire, do you feel any pressures in your post from stockholders, labor or government?

A. I did until I went numb.

Q. What do you think's the best thing an executive can do when he feels government is sticking its nose into his business.

A. Write 'em a hot letter on plain stationery — and forget to sign it. If you mail the letter, leave off the stamp.

Q. Are you afraid of your workers?

A. Last year yes; this year no.

Q. Are your workers afraid of you?

A. Not as afraid as I am of the stockholders.

Q. Aren't the stockholders grateful when the firm declares a dividend?

A. No. They say the dividend would've been bigger if I'd hired more men and turned out more tiddlywinks.

Q. What if the firm declares no dividend?

A. The stockholder say I hired too many men and produced too many tiddlywinks.

Q. Mr. Quagmire, what are a few of your secret woes?

A. Well, if I get to work too early, they say I'm worried about my job, and if I get to work too late they think I've got a hangover.

And if I get an ulcer, they say the job's getting me down. But I don't get an ulcer they say I'm spending too much time on the golf course.

And if I don't hire five new vice presidents, they say I don't know how to delegate authority. But if I do hire five more vice presidents, they know I'll have to spend most of my time watching them.

Q. Do you tell your employees funny jokes to keep up their morale?

A. Yes, but I figure the ones that laugh have a sense of humor. I never could tell a joke well.

Q. Mr. Quagmire, aren't you proud you worked your way up from the bottom?

A. Sure. But the old timers before I was president. All they remember are the years when I pushed a broom.

Q. Isn't your wife proud of your success?

A. She can't understand why, if I'm president, I can't raise my salary whenever she wants me to.

Q. What is the worst thing about being a boss?

"Gee, you're so lonely. There's no one you can talk to. You can't even discuss the weather."

Q. Why?

A. Well, if you glance out the window and say to an employee, "Gee, it looks gloomy"—well, five minutes later a rumor is going through the plant that the firm's on the skids.

Q. What do you think is your greatest reward in your post?

A. I get a free parking space in front of my office.

Q. If you had to do all over again Mr. Quagmire, would you?

A. Certainly!

Q. Why?

A. Because I'm the best darned tiddlywinks man this country ever saw!

Here are some more jottings from your reporter's notebook together with what he may have been thinking about at the time he made them:

Pictures. Charities often send photos of specific beneficiaries to contributors. Such as of the child whose vacation is financed by the donor's gift, or of the Mau Mau saved from death with the penicillin purchased with the contributor's money.

Publicists for charity organizations say this works wonderfully well. People are always happier to give when they see who benefits from their money.

So why doesn't the government send taxpayers pictures of what their taxes do? Men would like to get pictures of the little Washington spongers their taxes are supporting; some of the girls would like to see the Marines whose pay is being put up. And the government could send pictures of aircraft carriers to some

Well, It Isn't Too Bad

By JIMMY ELLIS

"My words are always short and sweet; I'm never sure which ones I'll eat."

Some long-forgotten wise man tossed those lines to a weary and suffering world of talkers many years ago.

Some of us know, now, exactly what he meant.

For instance, less than a year ago a columnist for The Daily Reflector reflected, at rather considerable length, on his struggle against wearing Bermuda shorts. He didn't come right out and say he wouldn't wear the things, but his general tone suggested that he would have to be hog-tied and horse-whipped before a pair found their way onto his scrawny limbs.

Well, he has been hog-tied, horse-whipped and dumped bodily into a pair of Bermudas. He as bad as he had imagined it might be.

Other children in his neighborhood only snickered quietly when he edged out the back door to make a carefully plotted run to the automobile. Only one dog growled at him, but that can be dismissed because that dog growls at everybody. And the fellows across the street even kept their faces straight for a few minutes before they retreated to their backyard for what everyone presumes was a game of horseshoes.

None of the children screamed, the neighborhood hounds minded their own business, and no petitions were presented in an attempt to get the columnist back into trousers which break across the tops of his shoes. There was, however, a mild undercurrent of comment indicating that many of the neighborhood residents are wishing for an early return to cool weather when longer and more modest clothing is demanded.

The comparatively mild reaction to his Bermudas has had a sort of intoxicating effect on the columnist. He's beginning to believe that maybe he doesn't look so bad in Bermudas, after all.

He's even planning to wear them downtown on a shopping trip in the next few days.

That will be a sight, especially, if he wears his long red socks with them.

Other Editors Saying --- Sorry Buddy, No Riders

(Tampa Tribune)

With business conditions spotty over the United States, many workers are moving from one area to another in search of jobs. Some of them will be standing at the roadside, with a beseeching thumb, as more fortunate citizens speed by, pleasure-bent on Summer vacation trips.

The average American finds it hard to pass up a hitchhiker. He sees in the forlorn figure a man down on his luck; memory brings back his own experience in "bumming" rides as a college kid or making his way to new pastures, as a job-seeker, in the Depression of the Thirties.

But he'd better harden his stare straight ahead and step on the gas. Else he might wind up as an unidentified body in a ditch or a Good Samaritan left in the woods in his underwear. This is advice that any sensible man can glean for himself from reading the news reports of robberies and murders committed by hitchhikers. But it also comes from the country's highest authority on crime: FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

In a list of safety tips to vacationers, Hoover leads off with a warning against picking up strangers on the highway. "It is one of the most heart-warming characteristics of the American that he likes to give the other guy a break," the FBI chief said in a statement to the North American Newspaper Alliance. "He wants to be helpful and giving a ride to someone on foot is a tangible expression of goodwill. But in giving that ride, the citizen is staking his life on chance."

The man who invites the unknown hitchhiker into his car, Hoover says, is as reckless as the fellow who plays Russian Roulette, the deadly game of putting one shell in a revolver, spinning the cylinder, putting the muzzle against your head and pulling the trigger. It doesn't fire, you're a dead fool. That's what J. Edgar Hoover says and that's good enough for us. We'd rather be a live hard-heart than a dead Samaritan. — Sorry, buddy. No riders.

Opinions In Brief

"To some extent the alleged general lack of discipline in the public schools of this day may be overdrawn. Interviews of 4,270 veteran teachers by the National Education Association for instance, indicate that in some respects children are better behaved than their counterparts of 20 years ago, and in some respects they are worse."—Dallas Times Herald.

"One of the differences between a small town and a big town is that in a big town the people park their cars when the fire sirens sound and in the small town they drive out into the street and try to beat the trucks to their destination."—Kansas County Record, Stockton, Kansas.

SACK AND SLUMP

Bags. The drop in the marriage rate — down to 6.1 per 1,000 population in March — coincides with the rise in bag, sack, chemise and other shapeless styles.

"Haw!" you say. "Roessner's wrong again! The drop in the marriage rate is caused by the recession." Perhaps. But the marriage rate also dropped in 1928, a booming year, the last time the bag styles were in vogue.

Victory. A railroad was surely stupid recently when it announced recently a "victory" in its effort to get permission to cut commuter service. One gains victories only over opponents. Are railroads fighting the customers? If so, they deserve all the bad luck they have had recently. If not, they might better claim "justice" than victory.

BEAR IT WITHOUT GRINS

Smile. Some tub thumpers, trying to get the upbeat going again, are urging salespeople to "smile, even if it hurts!" If a salesperson is dealing with a reasonable person, he or she may well smile. But to ask a salesperson to suppress his own feelings and smile on a nasty, cantankerous and unfair customer is to ask too much.

The little people of the world have lost dozens of rights in the last century. Let's fight for their right to their own facial expressions.

Asterisk. Edwin W. Ebel, a General Foods vice president, recently scolded advertising men for using asterisk references in advertisements that "collapse the extravagance of the claim made in the headline." It's time somebody spoke out. Sometimes, of course, an asterisk is necessary to protect a copyright or trademark. But very often it leads to footnote saying, "Slightly higher west of the Rockies," or "Good only until June 20," or "On orders of more than $800."

If advertising men realized that asterisks look like a hole made by a pin in a balloon, they would use them more sparingly.

Postage. Dozens of ideas on how to compensate for the coming increase in postage rates are being circulated. But it's a good guess that, in many businesses, most of them will be ignored and budgets will be kept in balance by firing some poor kid in the mailroom.

Coffee Break Is Now Part Of Local Way Of Life

ALL BROKE UP . . . at a coffee-break, that is. Miss Hazel Elks and Mrs. Alice Carr take a moment of relaxation from their daily labors over (what else?) a cup of coffee and a cigarette.

THIS IS A COFFEE BREAK? . . . No relaxation here at a three o'clock rush hour as the girls scramble for coffee, soft drinks, ice cream and other goodies. But somehow the atmosphere doesn't look exactly restful, though it does suggest a change of pace. (Reflector Photos by Martha Pierce)

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Slade Considine, attracted by the unmistakable rattle of an impending battle between bulls, cut his horse down through the New Mexican timber to investigate. A scrub longhorn from the ranch of old Rachel Kilgore had wandered again to the range of Slade's Uncle Nick to battle a prize Hereford. A girl who was a stranger to Slade was also drawn to the bullfight. She did not hear Slade's shouted warnings to keep a safe distance. Suddenly, the Hereford stampeded toward the girl and panicked her horse. She lost a stirrup, fell, and rolled down the steep hill into a creek. Slade pulled her out and took her to his Uncle Nick's house.

CHAPTER 2

Clad in a pair of Slade's levis and a plaid shirt, the girl stood close to the open fire in the long, low-ceilinged living room of the Considine house. The room was warm, but she was still shivering. She was a tall girl and the man's clothing was not a bad fit, but she was obviously uncomfortable in it. She had left the long loose shirt tail out, probably modestly hoping to conceal the regions where the pants fit the tightest. Except for the mane of damp, black hair that hung down to her waist, she looked like a slim, handsome boy. She blushed a little as she sensed Slade's inspection of her, and her fingers tugged at the bottom of the shirt tail. Slade lighted a smoke, turning his face away so that she couldn't see the twinkle in his eyes. This girl had obviously been raised to be a lady. "If you're still chilly you'd better let me fix you a hot toddy," said Slade.

She shook her head. "I'm all right now. I suppose you've been wondering who I am. If I hadn't been so cold I'd have remembered my manners before this and introduced myself. My name's Martha Kilgore, and—"

Slade turned a look of shock coming over his face. "Kilgore? You mean you're related to old Rachel Kilgore?"

"She's my grandmother. You know her?"

He smiled wryly. "Well — yes and no. I should have guessed though. You look like her."

"That's what my mother always said."

"I didn't know Mrs. Kilgore had a granddaughter."

The girl smiled a little. "Neither does she."

He gave her a surprised look. "Are you planning on staying with her?"

The girl shrugged. "I've never seen her, you know. I may not like her."

Slade grinned. "Some people don't," he agreed dryly.

The girl shifted uneasily. "Meaning you?"

"Meaning nothing. Forget it. My name's Slade Considine, and this ranch belongs to my Uncle Nick."

But the girl was not to be diverted. Her eyes looked troubled, and a tiny frown appeared between her dark brows. "You did mean something. Is there something wrong? Has there been some trouble between you and my grandmother?"

Slade Considine saw that there was only one remedy for having either said too little or too much. "No, ma'am. But your grandmother and my uncle had a quarrel some forty years ago. They haven't spoken to each other since."

"Why, how silly. What was the...?" Then she stopped herself. "No, I didn't mean to ask that. I'll wait and hear my grandmother's side first."

The cowboy's eyes registered amusement. "I admire your honorable intentions, and I'd sure love to listen in on that. They say the old — I mean your grandmother's language gets right colorful when somebody mentions Uncle Nick to her."

The girl's face flushed and her eyes began to look angry. Slade didn't mean to sound like I was making fun of her. I don't know her myself, except by sight — but there's plenty of folks around here that swear she's the salt of the earth."

The girl moved restlessly. "How far is it to her place?"

"Right at ten miles, I'd say."

"I — I hate to bother you for a horse, and I'm very grateful for what you've done — but I'd like to be on my way now."

"Please, don't!" the cowboy said quickly. "Uncle Nick will be here in a minute. He likes company — especially pretty girl company."

His eyes warmed as she smiled a down at her. "That goes for me," too.

She flushed as if she found the personal note annoying, and moved a step farther away from him. They heard slow, half-shuffling steps coming down the hall toward the living room. Uneasily, Martha Kilgore turned toward the door. In spite of Slade's reassuring words she plainly had the feeling that she might not be welcome to Nick Considine. Then as the door opened she relaxed and smiled.

"Please, don't!" the cowboy said quickly. "Uncle Nick will be here in a minute. He likes company — especially pretty girl company."

His eyes warmed as she smiled a down at her. "That goes for me," too.

Slade watched Martha Kilgore with amusement in his eyes. He had seen other women react the same way on first meeting Nick Considine.

The old devil, he thought affectionately. No wonder Rachel Kilgore loved him forty years ago. A yard from the door Nick Considine stopped, staring at the girl. He put his hand on the back of a nearby chair as if to steady himself. "Slade, who is this girl?" he asked.

"Miss Martha Kilgore, Uncle Nick."

"Kilgore!" The girl shrank before the anger in his voice, and the smile faded from her lips. "What's she doing here then?"

Slade felt his face going red, but when he spoke he managed to keep his voice even. "Miss Kilgore's the girl I told you about, Uncle Nick. He moved over beside the girl. "She had an accident — and I brought her here to thaw out."

The old man advanced into the room. "Well, she's thawed now, isn't she? And able to ride? When her grandmother was her age she could have ridden thirty miles and danced all night after a little dousing like that. Tell Manuel to saddle a horse for her."

Martha Kilgore's face was flushed, but her chin was up and her shoulders straight. "Yes, please, I'd like to go now, and I'm sorry if I —"

Slade's fingers tightening on her shoulder stopped her. He shook his head. "Just a minute." He looked at his uncle. "Uncle Nick, Miss Kilgore's never even seen her grandmother. She knows nothing of that old trouble. Surely you aren't going to try to pass that old quarrel down to her?"

"I don't care whether she ever saw her grandmother or not! She's the same breed — and I don't like them! This girl looks just like Rachel. I won't have her around this place making eyes at the hands, winding them around her finger so Rachel can rustle off my calves while their backs are turned. I can see she's already got you fooled — but if you intend to go on calling this your home you'll get Miss Kilgore out of this house — now — and see to it that you don't have anything to do with her hereafter!"

Slade Considine hadn't had his face slapped for a good many years, but now he felt like he had the time when he was ten and saw she's already got you fooled — but if you intend to go on calling this your home you'll get Miss Kilgore out of this house — now — and see to it that you don't have anything to do with her hereafter!"

For what Slade was about to say in retort to his uncle, he was to feel the sting of regret for a long time to come.

Dead Candidate Is Near-Victor In Run-Off Vote

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—A dead man missed being elected to the City Council by a narrow margin in a runoff election here yesterday.

Terrence F. Reilly Jr., who died earlier this month, polled 8,157 votes for the West Ward Council seat against Frank Addonizio, who was elected with 9,647 votes.

Reilly ran second in a field of seven in the May 13 municipal election. Addonizio, the front-runner, failed to poll a majority in that election, and under Newark's city charter, a runoff was ordered.

The courts ruled Reilly's name had to remain on the ballot and added that if the voters elected him it would be an indication they wished the Council seat to be filled by appointment.

Prison Officials Hopeful Rash Of Escapes Will End

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

State Prison officials were hopeful Wednesday a rash of recent prison escapes will subside.

Eleven convicts fled or attempted to flee Tuesday and seven Monday. Two were wounded Tuesday and quickly recaptured. Asst. Prisons Director Robert A. Allen said the hot weather of the past few days was one of the things responsible for the escapes. Allen admitted Tuesday's total was "a right good amount, but we're not running any higher than in the past."

He pointed out that under a new prison policy, all honor grade escapes are reported direct from Raleigh instead of from various camps. Only two of Tuesday's escapees were honor graders.

Four Negro prisoners fled three different work gangs in Halifax County. They were John Henry Jenkins, 26, of Greenville, serving 3½ years for stealing corn and various other offenses; William Douglas, 26, serving 20 months on a peeping tom charge; Isaac Fordham, 32, of Kinston, serving 17 months for assault, malicious damage and various traffic offenses, and Clarence A. Gladney, 25, serving 12 months for breaking, entering and larceny.

A 24-year-old Kannapolis man, Henry Jackson, was wounded and captured when he tried to flee the Yadkin County unit at Yadkinville. Joe Welch of Greensboro was wounded and captured when he and a companion, James Harold Roseman, 20, of Pelham, tried to flee a Franklin County road squad. Welch was serving 7-10 years for larceny. Roseman was serving 10-15 years for incest and assault with intent to commit rape.

Other escapes Tuesday were: Avery County: Jacob Newson, 31, Negro, of Kinston, serving two 8-10 year terms for breaking, entering and larceny, and a 12-month sentence for escape; Arthur Roger, 50, Negro, of Philadelphia, serving life for second-degree burglary.

New Hanover County: R. A. Sparks, 19, Claiborne, Tex., serving six months for larceny and receiving; J. L. Estel, 18, of Elkmount, Ala., serving six months for larceny and receiving.

Fighter-Bomber Near-Automatic

WASHINGTON (AP)—General Electric Co. has developed a new kind of airborne computer which it said would make a modern fighter-bomber nearly automatic.

As described at a meeting of military electronics specialists yesterday, the digital computer can:

1. Help the pilot navigate from his base to the target.
2. Choose the particular weapon to be employed, and prepare it for firing.
3. Control the approach maneuvers of the plane as it nears the target.
4. Release a bomb or missile at the proper moment with regard to altitude, wind velocity, distance from the target and other conditions.
5. Select the best altitude and speed, from the standpoint of fuel economy, for the flight home.
6. Direct the aircraft back to its base.

The computer was developed by GE's Light Military Electronic Equipment Department at Utica, N. Y., and was described by M. R. Johnson, manager of the department's armament and control section.

Jack Has An Academic Interest In Plain Money

By JACK BENNY

NEW YORK (AP) — Having been asked to do a guest column, I decided to write about a subject which has always appealed to me from an academic sense of course—money!

With the hammer ring upon the first coinage die, man's load in life became lighter. In his pocket he could carry enough money to purchase things which prior to money's invention would have cost him perhaps 14 stone of watermelon, an unwieldy burden at best.

However, this hammer ring created a number of problems. The first was the problem of obtaining money. Second, and I'm not sure that's a proper placement, is the problem of keeping it.

Along these lines I have formed a certain set of operating procedures which I will be happy to pass along. Capricious buying should be avoided at all—you'll pardon the expression — cost. Never, in a weak moment, allow yourself to purchase something on a whim.

This may prove difficult for the neophyte as all the gule and craftiness of merchants is directed at just such weak-willed persons. Signs and advertisements drip with sentimental suggestions like "Buy your sweetheart a box of Goodie Chocolate."

A nice card and a candy bar will serve just as well. After all, it's not the money, but the thought which counts, and a card and a candy bar make you properly sentimental without overdoing it.

Never pick up luncheon or dinner checks at a restaurant, club or night spot. Once I picked up check out of simple curiosity, I had no intention of paying it, but

Myna Bird Talks But Won't Talk

DENVER (AP)—The cops are disgusted with Joe the myna bird who talks but won't squeal. Joe was stolen May 25 from his cage in the city park zoo. Yesterday he was found in the home of a Denver man, who explained he had bought Joe for $35. He had a sales receipt.

Joe was given the third degree by detective Merle Huttenhew.

"What's your name?" Huttenhew asked. "What's yours?" Joe replied.

"What've you got to say?" asked Huttenhew. "Nothing," answered Joe.

Now Joe is back in the zoo and talking a blue streak as usual—and as usual it's all irrelevant and immaterial.

The Sports Reflector

By BILLY ARNOLD

Athletic officials at East Carolina have disclosed that all the recent hullabaloo over the possibility of the school's joining the Southern Conference in the place of Washington and Lee is apparently the doing of sports writers involved.

Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, athletic director, commented that the school has not been contacted by the conference nor has it received word of any kind about the possibility of an alliance with the Southern Conference. Sports News Director James W. Butler concurred.

Said Dr. Jorgensen: "We, of course, have been interested in joining the conference for some time now. We made an initial application to the Conference officials about ten years ago and renewed our application about two years ago. The application is still there, we still want to get in."

"But we have had no contact with the Conference since the recent incident and all we can do is wait and see what happens. It's up to the Conference."

Butler said that the Associated Press, which first broke the story of Washington and Lee's resignation from the Circuit, called him long-distance and asked if it were not true that ECC had filed application. Butler told him that it was true but that was all. There had been no contact with the Conference concerning filling the departed member's slot.

The rash of stories that broke this past weekend about East Carolina's possible entry then, was instigated by the reporters who broke the story, it would seem. Whether the reporters received some favorable hint from the Conference as to ECC's entrance is not known.

Jorgensen said that the school is most certainly interested in obtaining entry to the circuit. "Our athletic teams have been most active in golf, track, tennis, and swimming as well as in the three major sports. Our teams have been quite successful recently, too. In fact, after our swimming team copped the NAIA championship we had difficulty in scheduling matches for them. And, of course, there is no swimming program in the North State Conference."

In recent years, East Carolina has ventured out of its own North State loop to play outsiders in many sports and has brought back several victories over Southern Conference clubs, notably in baseball, basketball, swimming, and tennis.

"Acceptance of ECC into the Southern Conference would help the school a great deal," Jorgensen said. "It would help us financially at the gate, it would help bring bigger and better-known teams to Greenville, and it would help us in scheduling contests for some of our teams which are now having difficulty finding opposition."

American League "Race" Fighting For Its Life

How Did Duren Become Newest Bullpen Star?

NEW YORK (AP) — Rinold (Ryne) Duren, the newest bullpen sensation of the New York Yankees, almost overnight became the most exciting pitcher in the major leagues. Why? How? Bill DeWitt, former president of the St. Louis Browns, who had Duren originally, thinks it's because he has finally curbed his wildness. Ralph Houk, Yankee coach for whom Duren won 13 while losing two at Denver, thinks he has gained confidence. Yankee Manager Casey Stengel thinks the switch from a starter to a relief specialist has brought out the best in his prize rookie. The bespectacled Duren believes it was the tutelage of Frank (Lefty) O'Doul at Vancouver in 1956 that is responsible. "Lefty look great pains with me," Duren explains. "He was patient and understanding. He showed me the value of moving the ball, of placing the pitch in so many areas of the strike zone. I had a terrible first half season at Vancouver, losing seven of my first nine decisions. With his help, I was able to win nine of the last 13."

That new born "race" in the American League still is struggling to stay alive. With the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox on the move at last, things are looking up—if you can shrug off the fact the New York Yankees have padded their lead by one game while losing 8 of 14. Southpaw Whitey Ford won his seventh in a row with a three-hitter that beat Cleveland 4-0 last night as the Yankees ended their losing slump at four and junked their shutout string at 24 innings.

The Tigers moved into fourth place with a 9-2 victory over Washington. The Senators dropped into eighth place as Detroit won its fifth in a row and seventh in eight starts under new manager Bill Norman, who took over a last-place club a week ago. Southpaw Billy Pierce squared his record at 5-5 and gave the White Sox staff its third consecutive shutout with a five-hitter that beat Boston 4-0. That made it four straight for Chicago, now in sixth place, while leaving the second-place Red Sox eight games behind New York.

In the National League, the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-3. Pittsburgh rapped second-place San Francisco 6-1. The St. Louis Cardinals joined Pittsburgh in a tie for third by beating Cincinnati 10-4. Philadelphia defeated Los Angeles 9-6.

Ford, 32, struck out 10 and walked but two while giving up singles to Mickey Vernon, Rocky Colavito and Minnie Minoso. The Yankees broke loose after being blanked by Ray Loesli for five innings on one hit, Hank Bauer's hit single. In the sixth, Yogi Berra knocked in a run. Then Bill Skowron put it away with a three-run homer. Ozzie Virgil was 5-for-5 and Frank Bolling and Al Kaline rapped homers for the Tigers, back in the first division for the first time since May 15 and now within a game of second place. Virgil had two singles and Kaline's sixth homer counted three runs in a seven-run third against loser Pete Ramos. Southpaw Billy Hoelt (6-5) won it. Pierce gave up only two singles over his seven innings. Ex-Tiger Ray Boone singled home a run in his White Sox debut in the first inning against loser Dave Sisler (6-3). Billy Goodman drove in two runs and Pierce one.

The Orioles cut their scoreless slump at seven innings. Ex-Tiger Ray Boone singled home a run in his White Sox debut in the first inning against loser Dave Sisler (6-3). Billy Goodman drove in two runs and Pierce one.

Gene Hamm Leads Carolina Team In NPGA

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A self-styled weekend golfer, Gene Hamm, leads the four-man Carolina section to the National Professional Golfers Assn. tournament July 17-21 at Philadelphia. Hamm, 34, superintendent of the Duke University golf course, carded a 71-69-140 at Pine Brook Country Club yesterday to get his first crack at the PGA event. Two other rookies, Tom Case of Greensboro and lefty Thorne Wood of Asheboro, and a veteran of PGA competition, Al Smith of Danville, Va., complete the section. Only Hamm of 34 entrants broke par of 36-36-142. Smith, who was born in Winston-Salem, equalled par with a 73-69, while Case was one over with a 69-74 and Wood three over with a 73-72. The 42-year-old Smith, seven times previously in PGA competition, took the fourth berth with a par on the 37th hole after he deadlocked with Art Jones of North Augusta, S.C., at 145. Philadelphia's Llanerch Country Club will be host for the PGA event, this year a medal play competition. Other Carolinas PGA section players already qualified are Furman Hayes of Gastonia, who is the Carolinas PGA champion, and touring pros Mike Souchak of Durham and Julius Boros of Southern Pines. Among high finishers after the Wood-Jones playoff were Bob Renaud of Pickens, S.C., 146, Dave Tinsley of Charlotte, 146, Avery Beck of Kinston, 146, and Jim Riggins of Greenville, S.C., 146.

Fights Tonight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan makes what may be his last middleweight appearance tonight in a 10 round encounter with Yama Bahama.

The Pepsi-Cola Tar Heel League team which copped first-half honors with a 7-2 record jumped off to a good second half start yesterday by thumping the Moose club 3-0 at Elm Street Park.

B. Cannon, who compiled a 1-2 record during the first half, evened up his record at 2-2 yesterday with one-hitter against the Moose. Only a single by Hudson in the final inning of play kept him from getting a hitless victory.

For the Pepsi-Cola, that 1-0 second-half record is the beginning of a quest for the seasonal crown. Yesterday's game was the first tilt of the second half and therefore holds them into first place. Should the Pepsi outfit win this half also, it would automatically be the seasonal champion. Should another of the loop's teams win this half, a playoff between the halftime titlists would be held.

Tight Web Cannon spun a tight web around the Moose with his mound performance yesterday. He struck out nine batters and walked only one. He faced 19.

Little Danny Keel, who just turned 10 last week, went the full distance on the hill for the Moose club. He gave up only four hits but allowed three runs in the process. The Pepsi-Cola runs came in the second, fourth and fifth innings. Getting the Pepsi hits were Gidley, Harper, Cannon and Leo Cannon. Moose 000 000-0 1 Pepsi 010 11x-3 4

Danville Pulled Closer To Top

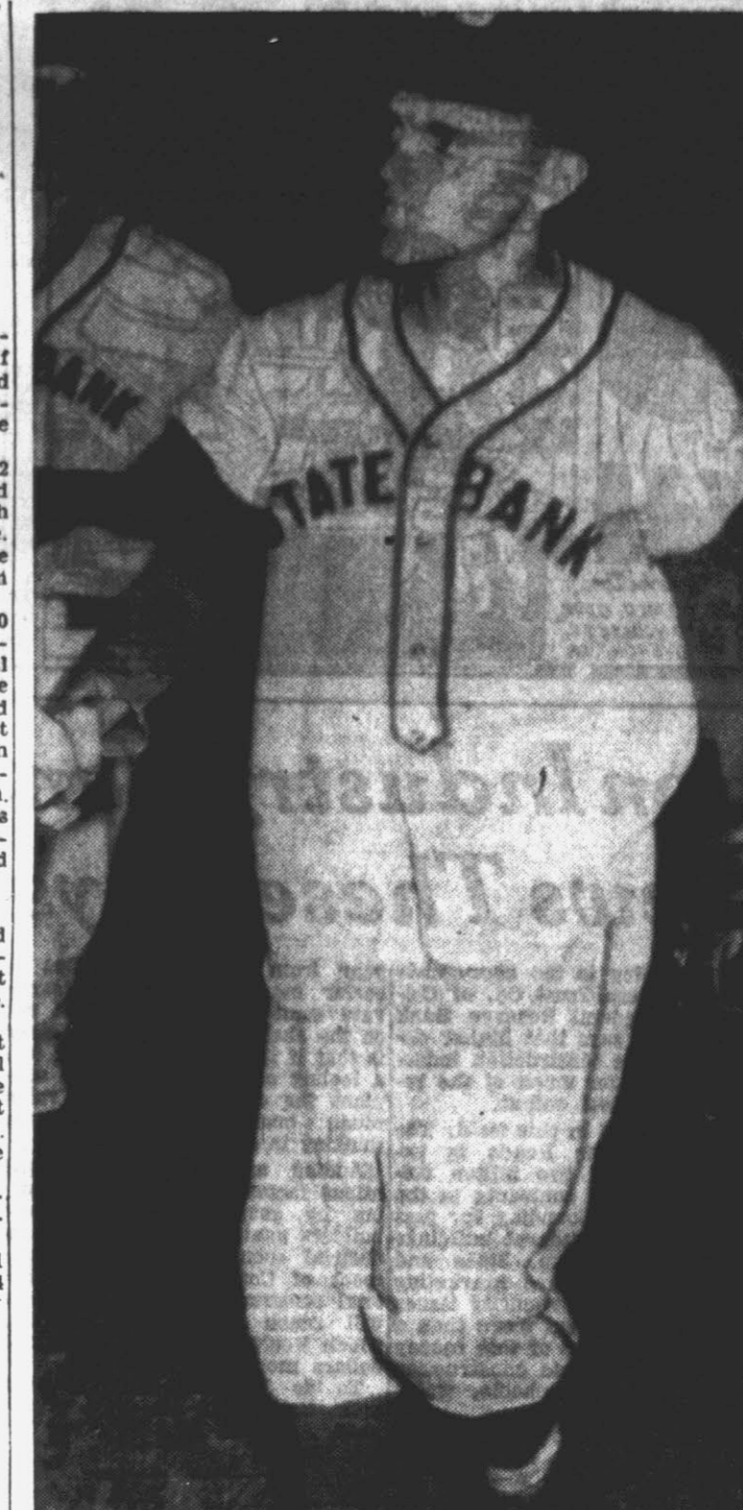

Second place Danville pulled to within three percentage points of High Point - Thomasville in the Carolina League race last night by defeating Burlington 3-0. The Hi-Toms lost to Raleigh 6-3. The Hi-Toms have won 31 and lost 24 for a percentage of .564. Danville has 32 wins and 25 losses for .561.

Danville bunched four of its five hits off lefty Steve Hamilton in the sixth and seventh innings to win behind the five-hit pitching of Marshall Rife. Three players were sent to the sidelines with injuries in the Raleigh - Hi-Toms game. Winning pitcher Bob Doig was hit on the hand by a line drive. Hi-Toms' second baseman Jim Emith suffered a leg injury when he was bowled over by Raleigh's Bill Hardy during a double play attempt in the first inning. Raleigh third baseman Joe Theis was hurt while sliding into second base on a similar play.

The Caps scored two runs in the first and put the game on ice with three in the fifth and one in the sixth. The Hi-Toms managed only five hits off three pitchers. A sixth-inning home run by catcher Jack Bowen was the winning blow as Durham edged Wilson 5-4 in a battle of home runs before 1,080 fans at Wilson. Four of Durham's runs and three of Wilson's came on homers.

Ed Kluszewski, who was 3-for-4. Ramon Mejias, and Bill Virdon each hit triples in a five-run Pirate second against loser Johnny Antonelli (6-5). Rookie Curt Raymond gave up a first-pitch home run to Felipe Alou, then blanked the Giants on eight hits. Ken Boyer smacked a pair of home runs for the Cardinals, his 14th capping a six-run ninth after the Cards had blown a 3-0 lead. Joe Cunningham's three-run triple cracked a 4-4 tie in the ninth against losing reliever Willard Schmidt. Stan Musial followed with a triple and then Boyer blasted off. Reliever Phil Paine won his third.

The Phils scored six runs in the eighth, before the Dodgers retired a man, to overhaul a 5-3 Los Angeles lead. The tie breaking wild throw by losing reliever Clem Labine (3-2). Jack Sanford won it.

Burdette Pitches Braves Into Lead

Law Burdette, the hero of the 1957 World Series with three complete game victories in an eight-day span, now has two in four weeks, but that long-sought second one has hoisted the Milwaukee Braves into a 2½-game National League lead—their biggest bulge of the season.

The crewcut right-hander went all the way for the first time in six starts since May 22 last night. He stayed out of serious trouble with a nine-hitter as the Braves beat the Chicago Cubs 6-3.

Second-place San Francisco, the only other club to get as far as 2½ games ahead this year, was shipped 6-1 at Pittsburgh. The St. Louis Cardinals defeated Cincinnati 10-4 and joined the Pirates in jumping past the Redlegs for a third-place tie, just two games behind San Francisco.

In the American League, the New York Yankees ended their four-game slump, beating Cleveland 4-0 on Whitey Ford's three-hitter. Detroit made it five in a row with 1-9-2 victory over Washington. The Chicago White Sox gained their third consecutive shutout as Billy Pierce's five-hitter beat Boston 4-0. Baltimore defeated Kansas City 4-1.

Burdette (5-4) walked but one and struck out four. He gave up a first-inning run — on singles by Tony Taylor, Al Dark and Lee Walls, who had seven of the Cubs' nine hits among them — then blanked Chicago on three hits until the eighth. Bobby Thomson tagged him for his eighth homer with two out in the ninth.

Frank Torre, Johnny Looney and Harry Hanebrink each drove in two runs for the Braves. A bases-loaded walk and Hanebrink's two-run single bagged it in a three-run fifth against Moe Drabowsky, now 4-7.

Ted Kluszewski, who was 3-for-4. Ramon Mejias, and Bill Virdon each hit triples in a five-run Pirate second against loser Johnny Antonelli (6-5). Rookie Curt Raymond gave up a first-pitch home run to Felipe Alou, then blanked the Giants on eight hits. Ken Boyer smacked a pair of home runs for the Cardinals, his 14th capping a six-run ninth after the Cards had blown a 3-0 lead. STANDINGS State Bank 4 1 Home Builders 4 2 Guaranty Bank 2 4 College View 1 4

Last night's Teen-er League contest at Guy Smith Stadium between the State Bankers and Home Builders before the largest crowd of the season, ended with a 11-10 victory for the State Bank team. The triumph shoved Coach Charlie Bland's State Bank club back into first position in the circuit with a 4-1 record and dropped the HB team into second with a 4-2 mark.

Monday night, Guaranty Bank defeated College View 7-6 behind the pitching of Tadpole Cates, to climb from its bottom-place position into third. It was the second win of the year for the Guaranty Bankers against four losses but it was good enough to cause an exchange with College View which has only one win to its credit.

Thus, after a little more than two weeks of action, the league finds State Bank, Home Builders, Guaranty Bank and College View lined up in that order.

Last Night Charlie Bland and Billy Dunn gave pitching duties to Sammy Pugh but were forced to insert Garland Johnson and then settle for Allen McArthur before the game was over. Home Builder's Coach Terry Noble also used three hurlers within the space of two innings. He started with Denny Hardee, relieved him with Jack Foley, and finished with Iron-Horse Larry Roberts. Roberts hurled three games last week and won all three. He lost last night.

Both teams scored freely throughout the first five innings of play. After that, they both didn't score again.

Home Builders picked up two runs in the first, five in the second, one in the third and fourth innings, and five in the fifth inning. State Bankers copped runs in the second, third, and fourth.

The losing team snared six runs, topping the winners. State Bankers got only four and all four were singles. Collecting the State Bank baseknockers were Kroghe Andreassen, Alan McArthur, Wayne Sumrell, and Donnie Teel. Leading hitters for the losers were Dalton Owens, Don Joyner, Jack Foley, J. T. Proctor, and Jody Blalock.

Mother's Night On the 25th of this month, the mothers of the Teen-er League ball players will play a benefit baseball game at Guy Smith Stadium to raise funds to help finance the league.

Mothers from all four of the teams will participate. The women will be divided into two teams and will wage war on each other on the diamond. A charge of 25c will be made and all the receipts will go into the Teen-er League fund to help pay for the production of the baseball program this summer.

Construction Industry Can See Good News These Days

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The construction industry is feeling better today after some earlier hard knocks. Business it's losing in one direction is being made up in another. And right now the gain in construction payrolls is playing a major part in bringing the nation's total of wages and salaries up smartly after months of decline, the Commerce Department reports.

Part of the current upturn is due to better building weather. Credit also is given to easier money, especially in the housing field. But much of the present and most of the potential boost is coming from government spending, federal, state and local.

The good news is: 1. Housing starts have climbed above the annual rate of a million units after touching a low rate of 880,000 in March, the Labor Department reports. The year-ago figure was 994,000. The future looks bright because applications for FHA and Veterans Administration guarantees of mortgages have been climbing steadily.

2. Public projects, which now account for more than 20 per cent of all building spending, are 4 per cent above a year ago, with the road building segment up 6 per cent, according to the economists of the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York says that demand from the construction industry accounted for much of the recent rise in steel output.

Looking ahead in this field: The Bureau of Public Roads is expected to award two billion dollars in additional contracts in the next few weeks. Spending for post offices and other federal buildings is being stepped up. State and local governments are marketing a record volume of security issues this year, 24 per cent more than a year ago, and most of this money will find its way into construction of such things as schools, water and sewage systems.

The bad news is: 1. The big spurt in industrial building is over for a time. Up to now the spending for new plants is trailing the like period of last year by 21 per cent. Businessmen are still cutting back on earlier estimates of what they'll spend this year and next. Many industries find they already have built more facilities than present demand justified.

Wheat Referendum Is Scheduled Friday

Pitt County wheat growers were reminded today of the referendum on wheat marketing quotas to be held Friday.

J. L. Edwards, chairman of the Pitt County ASC Committee, said all growers who will share in the 1959 wheat crop from a farm on which the wheat acreage to be harvested, plus any acreage to be placed in the wheat Acreage Reserve, will be more than 15 acres are eligible to cast ballots in the quota referendum. Quotas do not affect farmers with smaller wheat acreages.

Growers may cast their ballots at the ASC office in the Old Hospital Building on Friday. The County ASC Committee—Edwards, W. P. Tyson and A. Poe Worthington—will act as poll holders.

Edwards said that all growers should have received notice of their farm allotments for the 1959 crop by now.

Should there be any question about the referendum program, information may be obtained from the local ASC office, he said.

Two questions are involved in the referendum. The first is whether or not marketing quotas with penalties on "excess" wheat are to be in effect for the 1959 crop. The second is to determine the level of price support for the crop of wheat. If quotas are approved, price supports will be available to farmers who comply with their wheat acreage allotments at a level of 75 per cent of parity. If quotas are not approved, price support will drop to 50 per cent of parity. Two-thirds of the

Grand Jury Hearing Set In Alleged Court Misconduct

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A grand jury has set a Friday opening for an investigation into alleged misconduct in Charlotte recorder's court.

Foreman I. W. Leggett of the Mecklenburg County grand jury informed Superior Court Judge Zeb V. Nettles of the date yesterday. The judge suggested the panel enlist assistance of the State Bureau of Investigation and Solicitor Grady Stott.

An audit of recorder's court records disclosed more than $30,000 worth of forfeited but uncollected bonds, with nearly 200 cases dismissed irregularly.

This disclosure received apparent support when three defendants in recorder's court yesterday asserted they had paid professional bondsmen to dispose of their cases. The bondsmen named were J. H. Brantley and C. B. Bridges.

The defendant's stories appeared to follow this pattern: A bondsman told the defendant he would not have to appear in court and the defendant paid a fee plus the amount of the bond to be forfeited.

In the three cases, court documents failed to trace the forfeited bonds through to collection.

Mrs. Mildred Nipper Chance of Rt. 11, charged with reckless driving last July 20, was freed on a $50 bond signed by Bridges. The judge's docket showed no disposition of the case, although the warrant was marked "bond forfeited" two days later.

Mrs. Chance testified yesterday: "Bondsman Bridges told my husband he would have me released for $5. He told my sister, Helen M. Nipper, that if he was paid $50, I would not have to appear in court."

"She paid him $50 on Sunday night, and Mr. Bridges told me I would not have to appear."

Mrs. Chance pleaded guilty to the 1957 charge and received a 30-day sentence, suspended on payment of $25 and costs.

Normal procedure in the 1957 case would require the court clerk—now-suspended Police Lt. Allen M. White—to issue a paper for collection of the forfeited $50 bond. Record is lacking that the collection paper was issued.

Elizabeth Rooks and Marshall Jones Henry Jr., both of Charlotte, told similar stories under testimony. They said Brantley was their bondsman.

Bridges and Brantley have been unavailable for comment.

The audit of recorder's court records showed that Capt. Lloyd Henkel, who served until suspension by Police Chief Frank Littlejohn as $6,000-a-year chief of the city's Traffic Division, cashed about $26,000 in personal checks from funds in possession of the court clerk, Lt. White.

Littlejohn has recommended that the Civil Service Commission dismiss Henkel and White.

'U.S. 258 Association' Plans Mapped At Meet

FARMVILLE — Preliminary plans for formation of a "U. S. 258 Association" to encourage use of Highway 258 were mapped at a meeting here last night.

Representatives from Farmville, Snow Hill, Kinston and Scotland Neck voted to proceed with plans for the association after hearing a report that the highway route between Portsmouth, Va., and Jacksonville, N. C. is 18 miles shorter via U. S. 258 than by U. S. 17.

A spokesman for the group which met last night said this morning that representatives of towns on U. S. 258 between Portsmouth and Jacksonville will be asked to meet in Murfreesboro in July to discuss organizational plans. Also scheduled is a later meeting in Tarboro when final efforts to organize will be made.

The report presented last night said U. S. 258 is expected to have an increased amount of traffic after a tunnel beneath Hampton Roads is completed at Norfolk. The representatives were told that business along the route could be stimulated by having maps and brochures available at Portsmouth and Jacksonville, outlining the route of U. S. 258 between the

Deadlock With East Germany

BERLIN (AP) — The United States ran into a deadlock with Communist East Germany today in negotiations to obtain the release of nine imprisoned U.S. Army men.

The U.S. mission in Berlin announced that the third round of talks at the East Berlin Foreign Ministry was unsuccessful. No date has been set for a further meeting.

Sources said the United States refused to bow to East Germany's demands for full diplomatic negotiations and conclusion of a formal agreement on the helicopter incident.

The American prisoners—eight officers and a sergeant from the 3rd Airborne Division in West Germany—were seized by the Communists when their big helicopter strayed across the Iron Curtain June 7 in a storm.

In his third meeting with Otto Winzer, East Germany's deputy foreign minister, U.S. Army Col. Robert P. McQuail spent nearly an hour in hard bargaining.

McQuail, chief liaison officer to the Soviet army in East Germany, came out grim-faced and brushed aside reporter's questions.

Fireworks' As Lines Shorted Out; Drew Crowd

Residents in the Factory and Boyd Ave. area watched an impromptu fireworks display at twilight yesterday as power lines shorted out at the intersection.

The lines sent forth bright flashes at intervals as they touched.

Someone turned in a fire alarm and that brought fire trucks and police cars hurrying to the scene. It also brought other spectators who watched as Greenville Utilities crews attempted the correct the trouble.

The power lines continued to flash for 15 or more minutes.

Fire trucks stood by as did police until the danger was past.

Crop Cultivation Sees Rapid Pace

RALEIGH (AP) — Most Tar Heel farmers progressed rapidly in completing their tobacco, cotton and corn cultivation last week. Nearly one-half of the tobacco crop has received final treatment.

The condition of most crops is much better than anticipated earlier, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said today.

In most areas across the state the weather was favorable for planting, cultivating and harvesting crops. The supply of soil moisture was reported as mostly good, but about one-third of the reports indicated the soil was dry in scattered areas.
