Meet The President She Is Never Bored

MRS. J. C. GALLOWAY JR. . . . Enjoys cooking special treats for her family, such as a lemon pie. (Reflector Photo by Martha Pierce)

By MARTHA PIERCE
Reflector Woman's Writer
(This is the first in a series of weekly articles on presidents of local women's clubs.)

"The Woman's Club tries to cover all of the interests of the women; we have programs on the home, garden, and the fine arts, with special emphasis on education," says Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., who is the president of the Greenville Woman's Club and who exemplifies all of the desirable qualities of her club.

The attractive mother of an 18-year-old son has too many interests to ever be bored. She likes to sew and recently made a suit for herself. She likes growing things and works with plants in the house and yard.

When Mrs. Galloway has time from her homemaking duties and these interests, she works on a hook rug.

"I enjoy cooking, and my husband and son Jimmy enjoy eating," says the Craven County native. Mrs. Galloway is a graduate of ECC. Keeping her teaching certificate up-to-date and working on her Master's degree are special projects that this busy mother is working on in this session of East Carolina's summer school.

With all of these activities, Mrs. Galloway still finds time to be a member of the Sappho Book Club and a neighborhood bridge club. Skippy, a black and white chihuahua, is practically a member of the Galloway family. Their petite pet is now the proud mother of three two-week-old puppies.

"Taking a stand for today's teenagers, Mrs. Galloway comments, "I think that the subject of teenagers has been over-stressed, and I believe that our teenagers deserve more credit than they get. A lot is expected of them as they come into the adult world, and they live up to it very well."

"Our Woman's Club has about 165 members and any woman who has lived in Greenville for six months and is endorsed by two club women may become a member," states Mrs. Galloway.

"We are working especially hard on our Green Springs project," she continues, "and we want so much to get the town and other civic clubs interested in promoting it."

The Woman's Club recently planted 300 azaleas in the park.

30 Years Ago Today

June 19, 1928
Wednesday morning at her home on Evans Street, Mrs. E. G. Flanagan entertained at an attractive bridge luncheon honoring Mrs. Sidney Caswell of New York. Various summer flowers were effectively used. Four tables were placed for bridge. Mrs. A. J. Moore, making high score, was awarded silk hose. Mrs. Larry James was given an attractive novelty for low score. Mrs. Caswell was remembered with silk hose. At the conclusion of the game a tempting luncheon was served.

Young People's Auxiliary Meets

The Young People's Auxiliary met at Gum Swamp Church June 10. The meeting was opened with two hymns after which Mrs. Lou Nelson led in prayer. James Joyner, president, presided over the business of the meeting.
Mrs. Nelson presented a program. She brought out many facts and ways of temperance. She led in prayer after the lesson and the group sang the hymn "Take My Life and Let It Be" after which Mrs. Peter Brown, youth chairman, led in a closing prayer.
Refreshments were served by Mrs. Brown after the meeting.
The next Y.P.A. meeting will be held at the church at 8 p.m. June 24.
Mrs. Pauline Tucker will teach the lesson "Christian Young People Can Have Fun in the World." All young people from age 14-18 are invited to attend.

Summer Flowers Decorate Home

ROBERSONVILLE—When Mrs. Winston Cargile entertained bridge club members Thursday evening her home was decorated with various arrangements of summer flowers.

During the games cheese crackers and drinks were served. The Club met with Mrs. Johnnie Smith at her home near the city on Friday night.
Arrangements of roses and pansies decorated the home for the evening.

Three tables were in play. During the progression Mrs. David Parker scored high, Mrs. Paul Bradley second high and the consolation went to Mrs. Bryan Davis. Mrs. Frances Shackelford received the visitor's award.

Baptist Church Scene Of Wedding

The Memorial Baptist Church was the setting for a candlelight ceremony that united in marriage Miss Ann Marshall Allen and Mr. James Willard Williams III Sunday. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall T. Allen. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Williams of Raleigh.

The Rev. Percy B. Upchurch, pastor of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The altar was decorated with wrought iron seven branch candelabra and cathedral candles, with baskets of white gladioli, pom pon, mums, lilies and wedding greenery. Pew for the family were marked with carnations tied with satin bows.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bodkin, organist, presented a program of wedding music.

Miss Betty Lane Evans, soloist, sang "I Love Thee" by Grieg. "Through the Years" by Youmans. As the prayer of benediction, she sang "O Perfect Love" by Barbry.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was of chantilly lace and nylon tulle which featured a Queen Ann collar with sequin embroidery. The gown had a princess bodice with long sleeves extending over the hand in calla points. The full ballerina skirt was of lace and tulle over satin, with lace and sequin applique.

She wore a single string of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. Her bridal cap was a coronet of sequin and pearls to which was attached her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion.

The bride carried a white Bible covered with satin and lace topped with a white orchid showered with lilies-of-the-valley and stephanotis and bridal roses.

Mrs. Kirby Bell, cousin of the bride, of Fountain, was matron of honor. She wore a pink organza and taffeta gown with a scoop neckline with a light pink sash which looped and extended to the hemline over a full skirt. Her matching headpiece was flowers and tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of bricief pink roses and double bachelor buttons entwined with English ivy and pink satin and aqua tulle.

The bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Moye, cousin of the bride from Fountain, Miss Margaret Williams, sister of the bridegroom from Raleigh, Miss Joyce Sutton and Miss Elizabeth White, both of Greenville. Their gowns were aqua with hats of aqua tulle and pink flowers designed identical to the matron of honor's. The bridesmaids carried cascade bouquets of bricief pink roses entwined with English ivy and pink satin.

Little Miss Jo Ann Horton of Warrenton, N. C., cousin of the bride, flower girl, was dressed in white organza over pink taffeta with a headpiece of flowers and tulle. She carried a basket of pink satin and nylon tulle with lilies-of-the-valley from which she dropped pink rose petals.

The bridegroom was attended by his father as best man. Ushers were L. E. Croom, L. C. Kelley Jr., uncles of the bridegroom, Tommy Kelley, cousin of the bridegroom, of Rocky Mount, and Kirby Bell of Fountain. Mrs. Allen, mother of the bride, wore a gown of Paris blue chantilly lace designed with a scoop neckline and a sheath skirt with a floating panel back. She wore matching shoes and a white feather hat and long white gloves. Her corsage was a white purple throated orchid.

Mrs. Williams, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of pink lace with a scalloped neck, with white accessories. A white purple throated orchid complimented her gown.

Mrs. Williams attended Winter-ville and Greenville High Schools. She will continue her education at the University of North Carolina.

Mr. Williams is a graduate of Rocky Mount High School and attended East Carolina College. Mrs. Williams used for her travel costume a light blue dress of summer cotton with matching hat and white accessories and she wore a white orchid from her bride.

After a short wedding trip, they will make their home in Chapel Hill.

Informal Reception
Following the ceremony Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Elizabeth Bodkin entertained at an informal reception at the home of Mrs. Bodkin on Library Street. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Croom, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Kelley Jr., Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Kelley Sr., Steven Kelley and Linda Carole and Roger Starling, Mrs. Beulah Strietman, and Barbara Winstead, all of Rocky Mount; Mrs. Ruby Taylor, Mrs. John Barrett, Nashville; Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Kelley, Tommy and Suzanne Kelley, Edgar Delma Jr., James Ezzell of Rocky Mount; Mrs. J. P. Oakley, Walstonburg; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Horton, Warrenton; Mrs. Tommy Eilers, Norfolk, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shavender, Rocky Mount; Mr. and Mrs. Basley Riley, Mike and Patrick Riley, Roxboro; Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Bell, Fountain; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lewis, Bethel; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Moye, Farmville; Mr. and Mrs. J. Hedgepeth, Walstonburg; Mrs. Emma Carthan, Roxboro; and Dr. J. H. Newton, Boston, Mass.

Cake Cutting
Proceeding the rehearsal Friday night the bridal party, family and out-of-town guests were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Allen, 113 N. Library Street. The house was decorated with Madonna lilies, greenery with burning tapers. The table was covered with an imported cutwork cloth. There was soft music playing in the background while the guests viewed the display of lovely gifts.

Bridal cake, nuts, bridal mints and punch were served. After the couple cut the first traditional slice of cake, Miss Evelyn Latham served the guests and Mrs. Kirby Bell poured the punch. Throughout the party, antique cut glass was used. After the guests were served, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Elizabeth Bodkin directed the guests out on the lawn for a social hour.

Luncheon
Mrs. Elizabeth Bodkin on Library Street entertained at a luncheon honoring the Allen-Williams bridal party Saturday.

Women's Society Holds Meeting

BETHEL—The Woman's Society of Christian Service met Monday. Mrs. Gurganus called the meeting to order and a solo was sung by Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst.

The program for the afternoon was "Changing Patterns in the March of Mission" which was given by Mrs. Gurganus. The purposes of the program were: (1) To bring to the attention of members of the Woman's Society the patterns of historical progress evident in the March of Mission. (2) To demonstrate evangelism remains at the heart of missions, even though methods and techniques reflect changing time. (3) To make these changing patterns come alive for members of the Society by the presentation of example from both home and foreign mission fields.

The secretary read the minutes of the May meeting. Motion was made and carried, to sponsor the Negro girl to the Winston-Salem training school.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned with the benediction.

Woman's Club To Work
AYDEN—Members of the Ayden Woman's Club have shunned thoughts of leisure for the next five weeks to take over the bakery route formerly run by Johnny Perkins. The purpose of this endeavor is to raise funds for the support of Ayden's Brownie Scout Troops.

Three members and six Brownies will deliver doughnuts and other baked goods each Friday with the exception of Thursday, July 3rd. Orders must be placed with Mrs. Earl Eichorn or Mrs. Tommy Craft by Wednesday night of each week.

Announces Engagement

MISS PEGGY ROSE WINGATE . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Wingate of Ayden, who announce her engagement to Douglas Randolph Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Cannon, also of Ayden. An August wedding is planned.

John Ray Hardy Speaks To Club

John Ray Hardy, local banker, was guest speaker at the Credit Women's Breakfast Club meeting Saturday morning, at the Old Towne Inn.

Educational Chairman Jean Clark introduced the speaker, whose topic was "Bank Financing for the Consumer and Retailer," one of the lessons in the International Credit Women's Study Course for this year, titled "Building Today for Tomorrow."

Hardy explained the various forms of Bank Financing, ranging from direct consumer loans to financing of retailer's credit sales, contracts and accounts. He concluded the lesson with an open forum discussion of Bank Financing with the Club members.

President Schmidt thanked Hardy for his presentation of the lesson, and a gift from the Club was presented to him by Chairman Clark.

President Schmidt presided over a short business session. Hostess Catherine Stokes reported her committee plans for the annual club picnic to be held at the Bayview summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Copeland, on the Pamlico River, on June 24.

Each member was requested to take a picnic lunch sufficient for herself and guest. Members of the Rocky Mount, Wilson and Kinston clubs will be invited. Members may also invite their husbands or employer, and all are asked to come early in the afternoon in order to swim and fish before the picnic dinner.

State Project Chairman Dorothy Copeland outlined the new State Project, "Parliamentary Procedure," for 1958-59, and the 1958-59 Dixie Council President's project, "Keys to Etiquette for the Business Girl."

"Happy Birthday" was sung to Members Bett Gray, Mildred Slatner and Emma Lee Schmidt.

The president announced that the annual picnic on June 24 would serve as the second regular meeting of June, and that Secret Breakfast Clubbers would be revealed, and new names drawn for the remainder of the year.

This Woman Follows Him Everywhere

By JOHN GRIFFIN

MANILA (AP) — Mrs. Leonila Garcia, wife of the President of the Philippines, is the kind of woman willing to follow her husband into the jungle.

She did just that during World War II when Carlos P. Garcia was a guerrilla leader with a $20,000 Japanese price on his head.

And this onetime lady druggist has followed and helped him through a 25-year career in the Philippines, risky political jungle. With her close by, he has never lost an election.

She is an unspectacular but effective political veteran, with mild manners and just a touch of controversy about her.

Small, trim and pretty, the 52-year-old First Lady has quietly gay charm about her that marks many Filipino women. She is bound to be an asset when her husband reaches Washington tomorrow for a state visit and loan-seeking mission.

In Washington she will wear an especially designed wardrobe, composed mostly of bright butterfly sleeve dresses and gowns made from rich native materials.

Daughter of a well-to-do political leader on Cebu Island, where she was born July 17, 1906, she served her husband at home political meetings before she went off to study pharmacy and become a ukelele playing coed at Manila's Santo Tomas University.

She was running a drugstore on Bohol Island near Cebu when she met Carlos Garcia, then a congressman 10 years her senior.

"He first came in to buy perfume for other girls. Then he just came in to see me," she recalls.

They have one child, Linda, 24, who is married to a young attorney, Fernando Campos.

During the war, the family traveled together, often sleeping in huts and eating corn and dried fish as the then Sen. Garcia moved frequently about the jungled mountains of Bohol to avoid Japanese troops.

The Garcias lived in relatively moderate and modest manner before he was catapulted into the presidency 15 months ago upon the air crash death of Ramon Mag-saysay. Now the president and his family live mostly in the lush but limited private section of Malacanang Palace.

A Ray Of Hope In Field Of Cancer

Is medical science today on the verge of a major break-through toward its goal of stamping out cancer? Announcement that a U. S. woman scientist has used a single virus to induce many types of cancer in animals has been hailed in some circles as a major advance in cancer research. Other circles in medical research are withholding their judgment on the significance of the work done by Dr. Sarah E. Stewart.

Cancer is now probably the most feared of diseases which face the people of the United States. It claims thousands upon thousands of lives each year, and in some cases modern medicine is helpless against it.

Development of the Salk vaccine within the past few years has almost completely wiped out the nation's fear of polio which for years loomed as a threat to men, women and children. Will medical science in the not too distant future realize developments which will cope with cancer the way the Salk vaccine has dealt with polio?

Certainly it is the hope of almost everyone that it will. Yet in our hope, we must not be overly optimistic. It might well be years yet before medical science has the know-how and the facilities to deal effectively with the cancer threat. Yet, that day is bound to come just as the polio preventive came from the dedicated work of thousands of scientists.

The United States and the world is eagerly awaiting the day when advancements in medical science will bring about a cure for cancer. Each announcement such as the one made yesterday affords reassurance that the elusive goal is nearer at hand.

The Reds' Ruthless Executioner At Work

It is apparent that the tactics employed by communist dictators of the Kremlin have not changed since the death of Stalin.

It is apparent in spite of all the talk by present-day Kremlin leaders about the ruthlessness of their former leader.

Today's Kremlin leaders are just as ruthless as Stalin was when it comes to dealing with those who do not fully agree with pronounced policies. They employ the same tactics to remove those who are in their way, and they show just as little regard for human life.

Execution of Imre Nagy, premier of Hungary during the 1956 revolt, and three of his aides may mark the beginning of another bloody purge by the Kremlin.

They did not toe the Kremlin line even though they were outside Russia. For trying to gain better conditions for the people of their country they were required by the Kremlin to pay the highest penalty.

The Kremlin has had considerable trouble with its satellite nations in the past few years. If this is the beginning of a new purge, certainly there are others in line for the treatment accorded Nagy and his aides. And if a new purge has begun, the Kremlin may find it backfiring in greater unrest among the already restless satellites.

This latest development behind the iron curtain has all the earmarks of another get-tough policy with people under communist rule. And as a rule when the Kremlin tightens down on its policies it is because leaders are fearful of losing some of their power.

Prison Policies About Incidents

By LYNN NISBET
PRISON NEWS — Several recent incidents of prisoners and patients in criminally insane wards escaping have raised the question of appropriate policy with respect to publicizing the escapes. Newspapers, alert to news generally learn of the breaks within a few minutes after they occur. They have found it very difficult in many instances to get confirmation from the local prison authorities as to names and details of how the break-out was effected.

Superintendents of local prison camps are more willing to furnish information about honor grade prisoners than about those of lower rank. Some newspapers have contended that this is a mistake, because the low graded prisoners constitute a greater public menace and the people should be quickly warned that a killed or a rapist is at large.

Col. William F. Bailey, State prisons director, says the policy of his department is to publicize complete details of escape stories as quickly as possible, with names, term of sentence and crime committed, time and place and method of escape. "Quickly as possible" has slightly different meaning for prison administrators and publicity media.

Rules require that as soon as a prison break, an inside mutiny or riot, or anything else beyond routine occurs the local prison camp authorities must notify the central office at Raleigh. The central office then immediately notifies the Associated Press and United Press, and then practicable individual newspapers and radio stations in the area.

Col. Bailey says the reason local prison authorities often cannot give the information requested by reporters is that they are busy trying to recapture the escaped convicts and have no time to check records.

COOPERATION — The prison director says he conceives it the first obligation of the prison is to get the escaped convicts in custody. Cooperation of news media is essential to accomplishing that objective. Also to prevent public hysteria when desperate criminals are roaming the country side. If telephone lines are cluttered with calls from citizens asking about the escape, the process of recapture and communication between the local and central offices is retarded. Col. Bailey is considering modifying present regulations so as to have the county camp superintendent call the local newspaper immediately after the report is made to his office with all information available at that time.

There has been obvious reluctance on part of prison authorities in the past to admit any failure in their operations.

There have been some instances when publicly known incidents were officially denied by prison or hospital authorities. Col. Bailey does not like that attitude, he wants full publicity—but hopes with respect to getting and publicizing information will not impede efforts of the prison to get their men back behind the walls.

MOON TRIP — When Governor Hodges returned from his recent vacation in Europe he found on his desk a letter advising that he had been listed as the first applicant for a place on the first trip to the moon. The letter was from Coleman Roberts, president of the Carolina Motor Clubs, who has joined with other travel promoters in arranging inter-planetary and moon excursions. One reason the first reservation was made in Governor Hodges' name was the avowed hope that he might be able to "sell" the Moon inhabitants on moving one of their green cheese factories to North Carolina.

CONTINUITY — The contrasting ideas of continuity in State government and judicial process on the one hand and the importance of individual opinion in solving problems on the other is illustrated in the present condition of the Utilities Commission.

Two of the "biggest" rate cases in many years involving charges for service by public utilities are now pending before the State Utilities Commission. One has to do with rates charged manufacturers for electric current by Carolina Power & Light Company. The other is application of Carolina Telephone & Telegraph Company for an overall increase in rates. A Southern Bell increase is coming up later.

The Utilities Commission is set up for five members. Governor Hodges announced sometime ago he would not replace Ed McMahan, who resigned. That leaves four members. Chairman Stanley Winborne, veteran of nearly 30 years, has said he expects to retire on June 30. He sat in and listened to most of the hearing of the CP&L rates, but will not be around to write the order or participate in final decision.

Commissioner Sam Worthington, presiding at the telephone rate hearing, announced that Chairman Winborne would not participate because of his imminent retirement. Sitting with Worthington were Commissioners Harry Westcott and Lee Whitmore. These are the three who will decide the issues in both the big rate cases.

Perhaps three men can do the job as well as or better than five. Fact is, however, the law presently provides for a five man court and casual circumstances have reduced the membership to three.

New Seaplane Base Is Economic Booster

The military plays a major role in North Carolina's picture of year-round payrolls.

When a base is abandoned or its personnel cut back, there arises immediately a cry from the immediate community involved, and the echoes are usually heard over a wide area.

When a new base is begun or when personnel at an existing base is increased, the economic impact upon the community or area is apparent.

At Hertford last week the Navy began construction of a new multi-million dollar Jet Seaplane base which officials predicted will cost 45 million dollars before it is completed.

In addition to the cost of construction it is estimated the base will pay out nine million dollars annually to its personnel and spend an additional one and one-half million dollars for operation expenses of the base.

Such annual expenditures after the base is completed will be a substantial economic shot-in-the-arm for Hertford and the surrounding area.

Like other military bases, the Hertford installation will become an important factor in the overall economy of Eastern North Carolina.

Goldfine Given A Special Favor

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Goldfine, millionaire friend of Sherman Adams, got special treatment which, under the law, no citizen is entitled to. That's the main point disclosed so far in the Adams-Goldfine case.

The White House-through presidential press secretary James Hagerty-said June 13 the real issue is whether the wealthy businessman got preferential treatment from a government agency as a result of his friendship with Adams.

There is no evidence that any agency ruled in favor of Goldfine because he was Adams' friend, but their is evidence he got confidential government information when he had hoped to get without Adams' help.

The Goldfine and Adams families have been friends for years, at quite some expense to Goldfine. He paid more than $2,000 hotel bills for Adams, gave him a victrola coat worth $69, and lent him a very expensive Oriental rug.

Goldfine, a textile manufacturer, got into trouble with the Federal Trade Commission for alleged mislabeling of his product. He went to see Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 assistant.

Adams—in a letter to a House subcommittee investigating government agencies—said on June 12 that Goldfine came to him in 1953 with a letter from the Federal Trade Commission and asked what prompted it.

Why Goldfine, if he didn't want special treatment, go directly to the FTC and ask that question hasn't been revealed yet because he has not been called before the committee to testify. He will be.

Adams said he called FTC Chairman Edward P. Howrey and asked if the information Goldfine wanted could be made available. Then Adams in his letter said Howrey sent him a memorandum which he turned over to Goldfine.

But when Adams himself went before the committee Tuesday, this is what the committee counsel, Robert Lishman, told him: Howrey, in his memorandum to Adams, revealed the name of the company which had filed a complaint with the FTC against Goldfine. Lishman said disclosing such information was a double violation of:

1. The FTC's rules which require that the names of complainants in a case be kept confidential.
2. Federal law which prohibits revealing information in the FTC's files not already public.

Since both an FTC rule and federal law were roadblocks to giving such information to a private individual, particularly a defendant in a case like Goldfine—it seems certain he couldn't have gotten the information from the FTC himself.

Adams said he was unaware of both the rule and the law when he passed on Howrey's memorandum to Goldfine.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
FACING A NEW AGE
Centuries ago men started from the eastern shores of the Mediterranean and sailed to the Pillars of Hercules, which we today call Gibraltar. What a stupendous achievement! Surely, it would never be surpassed. Then a sea-faring man named Columbus discovered the Atlantic and discovered a new land. Then another sailed around the world. Pioneers went into uncharted waters and across continents the existence of which were not even indicated on maps. And now men's eyes are turned heavenward.

One necessarily writes at this point with caution. These articles are written a little in advance of publication. What may the situation be when the words I am using find their way into print? By that time we—or Russia—may have encircled the moon. We may have landed on some planet, known or unknown. It might just be that some rocket from a distant spot in the universe may by that time have landed on our planet.

Merciful heavens! What next? May one of our great generals be right in his surmise that the next war will be interplanetary? May we be running weekend excursions to Mars and points farther out within a decade?

Even the smallest invention or scientific discovery changes our way of life slightly. What will take place in our earthly existence if we begin cruising through the heavens?

We had better get our lives on firm foundations of faith, clear our minds of cobwebs, our hearts of prejudice and selfishness if we expect to be adequate to the coming new age.

Sophia Looks Alive

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Many life-long scholars of the great American frozen female face have thought it could be improved.

Their varying approach to the problem probably measures their age and optimism.

Being older and perhaps therefore more cynical, I leaned to the theory that it was better to get along with life than fight it—and I came to accept the great American frozen female face as inevitable.

I came to feel it was natural to shake womanhood by her lifted nose rather than her withered hand.

American girls! Then I met Sophia Loren. A living bonfire. A tawny surprise. A girl with an unfrozen face, a tall-stemmed girl. As she walked away with a rearward muscular schizophrenia, some muscles went clockwise, some counter-clockwise.

A male human heart could only extend sympathy to her in her handicap.

Her walk, though, had a mixture of crudeness and kindness-half-panther, half-gazelle. It was all the art of Italy, ambulant.

She had the presence and security of a sunrise. Her expression from moment to moment was a race of rainbows.

"I am still young," she said. "I am always exciting to me. I am never bored."

"I have worked since I was 15. I have worked hard. I have made 26 pictures."

"I don't know what it means to have a holiday. I don't know whether I want one. But yes, now that I am married, I want a holiday."

Unlike most American women, whose conduct is ruled strictly from a cerebral level as every feller knows, Sophia moves as the amoeba does.

"I never took a lesson in acting," she said. "I am very instinctive."

"If I feel something, I can do it. If I don't feel it, it is very difficult for me."

"But everything is still new to me. It is nice when you can learn something new every day. I have just started life. I haven't lived yet."

As she talked, Sophia ripped fragments of bread with long slender fingers and stoked herself with them, these crusts of familiarity in the hour with the stranger.

"I eat everything and anything," she said. "But the only American food I like is cottage cheese and fruit salad."

The only thing she admits to hating in her life is to be an amateur.

"Nothing bores me. Acting is an excitement to me. I want to do more, not because of ambition, but because it is a pleasure to me, a release," she said.

Her honey-warm eyes widened. There was this sudden indefinite feeling, the eternal tug of awe and surrender that a man feels in facing a leopard, a leopard suddenly intellectual and without claws.

There is something vital and alive and warm and human and near about the face of Sophia Loren.

And there is only one difference between it and the great set frozen American female face and you see every day on any street.

One looks alive.

Opinions In Brief

"Rainy days are never wasted days. Quiet, peaceful, busy; with time to get things orderly once more."—Laurel (Miss.) Leader-Call.

"In modern times we have seen all manner of governmental efforts to apply such corrective measures' price controls and other economic straight jackets—and these efforts have almost invariably produced worse problems than those they were designed to cure. The hope is we will profit from this experience, and not push the panic button again." — Industrial News Review.

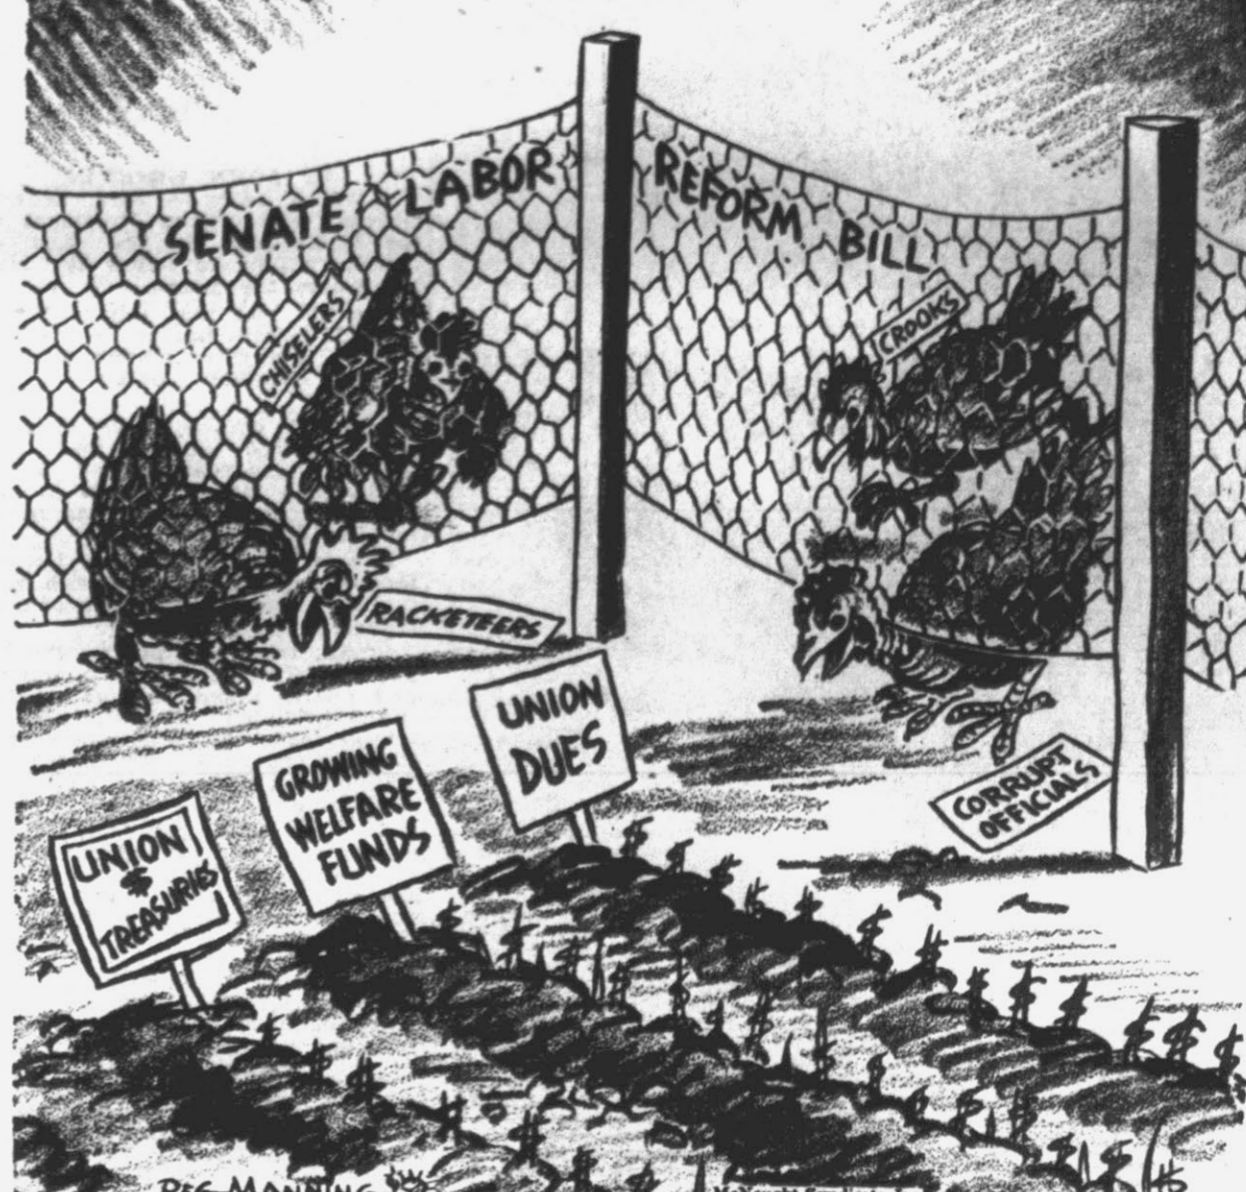

By ELMER ROESSNER
It looks as if office managers and personnel directors have a lesson to learn in the next few years.

As Waino W. Suojanen, of the University of California, points out in the current edition of the American Management Association's "Personnel," the pattern of office workers is about to undergo radical changes. And this changed pattern will require considerably different management.

By 1975, more than half the women workers will be between 35 and 64 years of age, according to authoritative estimates. A complex of causes will bring this about.

Because of the low birth rate during the depression, fewer young people will be available. Military service will remove many young men from the labor market for various periods. Many young people are spending more time in school. Women are marrying younger. The void, Professor Suojanen points

Not Enough Chicken Wire

Suddenly The Sun Is Out

By EVERETTE PARKER
My absent-minded escapade last week (leaving the bosses' car and him without a ride) left me with a heavy heart and a bitter taste in my mouth.

It seemed there was very little for me to live for under the circumstances. I existed in mortal fear that no one would have sympathy for me and my plight.

Thursday morning I didn't walk my usual path down Evans Street but took a back way to City Hall down Cotanche Street and through the back alleys of East Fifth Street and Dickinson Avenue. All day my friends shunned me, only a few being polite and understanding enough to casually smile when I passed. Some looked the other way.

I tried to stop some in an effort to explain that my mistake was a natural one. They only looked down their nose at me and kept on walking, looking neither to the left or right.

The world was no longer rosey but had taken on an ugly appearance. A black cloud followed me everywhere I stepped. Rain fell on only me.

Why couldn't people understand? And then it happened!

By chance I finally decided to come out of my shell and once again face the public no matter the price. Things that used to phase me no longer mattered. My aim was to live again among my fellow man, the same people who were persecuting me.

I walked into a local drug store for a cup of coffee. There stood and sat a number of my "former" friends laughing and talking among themselves. They hardly noticed me as I sat.

Finally one of them sided up to me and quietly whispered, "Don't feel too bad, old man. I've done about the same thing myself."

Eagerly looked up, quickly asking for details like a "drowning man reaching for a straw".

He had this story to tell: One night in the 1940's he had driven his mother's car downtown to the movie and had walked home afterwards leaving the vehicle parked on the street. The next morning he got up, found the car was not in the yard and called the police reporting that it had been stolen.

A few minutes later he was called and informed that the car was parked in front of the theatre with a ticket on it.

"I felt like a fool," my friend said.

Presently another friend came up and sat down with me. "You know," he said, "I wouldn't feel too bad if I were you."

"Why?" was my reply.

"I used to drive my car to work when I was up in Norfolk and half the time I would catch the bus back home before I realized my mistake," he explained.

"Then I would have to go all the way back to the plant and get it. It was real embarrassing!"

Before long all of us were laughing and talking as if I had never made the "big" mistake. My whole outlook on life was changing rapidly. I was no longer looked down upon.

The last vacant chair was filled by a late comer.

"Read your column in yesterday's paper," he said with a smile. "You know I had the same thing happen to me about 20 years ago."

By this time I felt the avil had been lifted from my head. No longer did I have that "left out" feeling.

After all everybody makes mistakes I said to myself as I left my troubles behind in that drug store chair.

Life is so beautiful!

Other Editors Saying --- Symbol Of A Trend

(Henderson Dispatch)
For Democrats to lash out at Sherman Adams, executive assistant to President Eisenhower, for contacts with Federal agencies allegedly in behalf of Bernard Goldfine, is no more than what Republicans did in denouncing conduct of certain officials in the Truman administration in what they termed the "mess in Washington." It is like the kettle calling the pot black. At this distance it seems that both groups were and are larded with the same feather.

Such activities are not to be condoned, no matter which party engages in them. They are unethical, to put it mildly. Old days of milk coats and the like are recalled in connection with Adams' visits to a swank Boston hotel, where Goldfine picked up the check. Favors allegedly followed under similar conditions.

If anything, injection of the White House into charges and rebuttals, even though the President presumably was ignorant of what Caudle or the others did, although in no sense justifying his contacts or actions. The White House is the fountainhead of authority in the administrative branch of the government. To assume that a call from Adams as executive assistant to the chief executive did not carry tremendous weight would be foolhardy. Gentlemen whose public service is by the tolerance of the President respect any word from the highest source, something that Adams knows as well as any one.

Moreover, committee members say they have other information that has not been revealed, but which is scheduled to come to light as the investigation by the House committee continues. That will be awaited with keen interest by all who are concerned that government of-officials are and shall continue to be "as clean as a hound's tooth," to recall an expression by Eisenhower.

During the Truman era there appeared to be genuine substance to charges that were thrown back and forth at will. Now the same thing is happening and pointed at personnel of the Republican administration. It appears to be a temptation which gentlemen in high places cannot resist. They may intend no infraction of decorum or ethics, but suspicions are aroused nevertheless.

What it all adds up to is that there is an evident deterioration in the moral fibre of official Washington. There seems to be an insufficient amount of restraints of conscience to keep officials—or at least some of them—on the straight and narrow path. The inclination to use position and influence for personal gain or otherwise is becoming all too common. In other words, what is commonly looked upon as corruption in high places is on the increase.

The trend in many areas of both public and private life, and dealings of individuals with each other or with government, is toward laxity so long as no law is violated, or even if there has been, if practices can be carried out and gotten away with.

It is a deplorable situation, and one which in the long run operates against integrity of the individual. It constitutes a gradual wearing away of the moral fabric of citizens and their government.

In the instance of Sherman Adams it may be that there is no fire despite the presence of smoke. But it disseminates the fear, if not the conviction, that this is the symbol of a trend which often is followed by catastrophe in the strictest concept of conscience and honesty.

Growing Problem In Personnel

enlarging jobs will also benefit employers, he points out, since the workers will acquire more skills.

WHO TELLS WHOM?
Perhaps the most serious problem will arise in supervising older women. "Most older women tend to be critical not only of their immediate supervisors, but of middle and top management as well—usually with good reason," he writes.

"The new, career-oriented, male supervisor must recognize that he is not dealing with young high school graduates but rather with mature adults who may be his superiors in both experience and ability.

"As more of the routine and repetitive clerical tasks in business are taken over by electronic computers, a higher degree of technical skill and decision-making will be needed in the clerical jobs that remain. As a result, the mature, intelligent women will increasingly be recognized as the 'ideal' clerical worker. At the same time, the

must be filled by women between 35 and 64.

POSES PROBLEMS
This will create many complications, he observes. These older women will generally have different attitudes toward their jobs than our present office Janes. Young women are interested either in building a career, or in marking time until they find and capture a man.

Older women, Professor Suojanen writes, will have a "semi-career orientation." While they plan to work for a long time, they have no illusions about being promoted above minor supervisory jobs.

The increase in automation will compound another problem, he adds. Automation tends to make office work more routine. But many women will return to work because they are "red with keeping house after children are grown. They will be unhappy in routine jobs.

Professor Suojanen suggests job rotation and job enlargement in these situations. Rotating and high turnover rates among clerical employees which are taken for granted today will become too expensive a luxury for most companies.

Dance Goes On

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP)—Robert Castor, 10, and her sister Pearl, 8, participated in a scheduled dance recital last night, a few hours after their brother, Charles L. Castro, 11, was killed by a train.

A little girl was given the choice by their mother, Mrs. Leonard Castor, who explained it was up to them but she thought "Charles would have wanted you to go on."

Khrushchev Seen Under Pressures

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY AP Foreign News Analyst

The Kremlin has shifted to a tough line, and Nikita Khrushchev is apparently having a hard time with his enemies in the Soviet Communist party.

These two developments are related. American foreign policy toward a summit meeting may have contributed to both, wittingly or unwittingly.

It is likely that Red China's influence is also playing a role.

Seemingly well-founded reports say that the anti-Khrushchev forces may have ganged up in a determined effort to clip the Russian chief's wings at the meeting of the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee now under way in Moscow.

Since Stalin died in 1953 there has been a succession of crises of Soviet political leadership, each closely connected with internal and foreign policies. Out of each of them Khrushchev has emerged with increased power.

But these successes have not destroyed opposition. In fact there are indications it may be increasing.

One likely leader of anti-Khrushchev forces is the Central Committee secretary, Mikhail Suslov, a dogmatic Stalinist. Apparently Khrushchev has recently been moving on Suslov—demoting him from some of his established functions and preparing for the kill.

Khrushchev is a ruthless opportunist. He has been engaged in a vast reform of the Soviet system, including a reorganization of industry, agriculture and education. The changes he has espoused, particularly those in agriculture, have aroused bitter opposition in the Soviet bureaucracy. These opponents have been watchfully waiting for some resounding failure by Khrushchev.

They now have this failure—the summit conference question. Apparently Khrushchev promised to come through this year with such a meeting and then used the prospect as a political weapon against the opposition. But he failed to produce the conference.

American diplomacy may have helped to produce this situation by taking a thoroughly negative attitude toward a summit meeting.

Red China also helped because Peiping apparently did everything to torpedo a summit meeting at which it would not be represented.

The new Soviet hard policy in foreign affairs is evidenced by the bitter Soviet assault on Yugoslavia, the execution of Imre Nagy and other developments increasing international tension. Quite possibly Khrushchev is trying a radical flanking maneuver to undermine his enemies by taking over much of their Stalinist program.

Cases Heard In County Court

Samuel Gray Forbes, a Negro laborer of Route 2, Ayden, who pleaded guilty to three charges heard this week in Pitt County's Recorder's Court, wants his story told in Superior Court.

Forbes was ordered to jail for eight months by Judge Dirk James after the 30-year-old man pleaded guilty to damage to personal property, assault with a deadly weapon (a pitchfork), and assault on a female. After the sentence was pronounced Forbes gave notice of appeal to the higher court and bond was set at $500.

The cases against Forbes were consolidated for trial action and were among 15 cleared from the county court's docket in Tuesday's session. They were the only ones in which notices of appeal were given.

Also consolidated for trial in Tuesday's session of the court were three cases involving three Route 1, Stokes, Negroes charged with larceny or receiving stolen property. Each of the three, Charlie Frank Sr., Joe Frank and Theodore Frank, was given four months in jail, suspended upon payment of costs, good behavior for one year and payment of $50 to Curtis Taylor.

Other cases heard and judgments returned included: William Lucas Ford, 401 Manhattan Avenue, Greenville, speeding, not guilty; Charles Richard Brown, Cherry Point, speeding, costs and driver's license suspended for ten days; Henry Wallace Avery, Route 1, Winterville, speeding, costs and driver's license suspended for ten days.

Garland Retho Haddock, Route 2, Ayden, speeding, costs and driver's license suspended for 30 days; Darby Douglass Jr., Negro, Cherry Point, speeding and driving on the wrong side of the road, costs and driver's license suspended for 15 days.

John L. Smith, Camp Lejeune, speeding and improper passing, costs and driver's license suspended for 16 days; Ulysses Moore, Negro, Route 1, Stokes, no operator's license, continued to; Connie Tyson, Negro, Route 1, Greenville, assault with a deadly weapon (pocketknife), four months suspended upon payment of costs, payment of $50 for medical bills and for benefit of prosecuting witness, and good behavior for one year; Howard Whitehurst, Bethel, larceny (fan), not pros.

RIDING A SYMBOL

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Paul D. Bagwell, Republican candidate for Michigan governor, plans to make a 236-mile stumping trip in a 1908 Oldsmobile. Bagwell says the car symbolizes the 1908 constitution under which Michigan operates and which he thinks should be revised.

pend for ten days; Henry Wallace Avery, Route 1, Winterville, speeding, costs and driver's license suspended for ten days. Garland Retho Haddock, Route 2, Ayden, speeding, costs and driver's license suspended for 30 days; Darby Douglass Jr., Negro, Cherry Point, speeding and driving on the wrong side of the road, costs and driver's license suspended for 15 days. WHAT HAS HAPPENED Trouble has broken out afresh between old Nick Considine and Rachel Kilgore. The two have been at odds for forty years, ever since they took forcible possession of large adjacent tracts of the open range in New Mexico. Now, some scrub longhorn bulls from the Kilgore herds are loose on Considine land, killing or maiming prize Herefords. While two contending bulls were fighting, a young girl who stopped to watch fell off her panicked horse and landed in a chilly creek. Old Nick's nephew, Slade Considine, pulled her out and took her home to Nick's house to get dry and warm. Upon her introducing herself as Martha Kilgore, on her way to her Grandmother Rachel's ranch, Nick Considine flew into a rage. He ordered her out of his house. When Slade remonstrated, Nick told him to stay away from any of the Kilgore or be disowned . . .

vately. And thank you, Mr. Considine, for the sample of the famous Western hospitality I've heard about all my life."
Neither man seemed to hear her. Slade's voice now became as cold and crisp as his uncle's.
"Putting it that way doesn't leave me much choice, Uncle Nick. I'll saddle two horses — and you can send my things to the Denhart Hotel in Barrancas."
Martha, on her way to the door, turned in amazement. "Oh, no!" she protested, then stopped, understanding that while she had been the original cause of the quarrel, nothing she could say or do now would mend matters.
Slade opened the door for her. For a moment Martha hesitated, regret in her face now rather than anger or personal humiliation.
Slade looked over his shoulder at his uncle. The old man had dropped into a chair, a dazed look on his face, and Slade knew that he had never meant for this to happen. He had simply allowed his rough, blustering old tongue to be his undoing. Probably he had not meant his own bluntness to sound so much like a challenge. But stranger to learn right away just where she stands. I'm going outside so you two can finish this pri-

CHAPTER 2
Martha Kilgore moved out from under Slade's firm hand upon her shoulder. "That's certainly laying it on the line," she said coolly to Nick Considine. "It's nice for a stranger to learn right away just where she stands. I'm going outside so you two can finish this pri-from ever admitting his own mistake. When he brought the horses up to the front porch, Martha Kilgore waited a moment before mounting. "He didn't mean it the way it sounded," she said. "Why don't you go back and make it up with him?"

He smiled at her warmly, then shook his head. "I couldn't do that. Besides, it wouldn't do any good." She touched his arm impulsively. "I'm sorry I made this happen. I don't like to have it on my conscience."
He put his hand over hers and patted it briefly. "Don't worry about it. It might even do some good. You see, in spite of the fact that Uncle Nick and your grandmother have taken an ornery delight in deviling each other for forty years, it hasn't ever been serious to anybody but them. We've always been pretty peaceful here in the Chupaderos. There's only three cattle ranches around here — your grandmother's Walking K, Wynn Thomason's T Anchor, and Uncle Nick's 143."
At her look of inquiry he explained: "143 instead of NC — N is the fourteenth letter in the alphabet, C is the third."
He put a hand under her elbow and helped her into the saddle, then went on with what he had been telling her.
"A little farther down, nearer Barrancas but still in the Chupaderos, French Quebedeaux runs a bunch of sheep. We don't any of us like each other much, but we've always managed to get along, settle our own squabbles. But lately somebody's been taking advantage of that old feud, and unless maybe I can jolt some sense into these two old hotheads, trouble's going to pop wide open here one of these days. Uncle Nick's worried and your grandma's been tramping on his toes plenty lately — but still he's a fool for blaming her for everything."
"You sound almost as if you like my grandmother," the girl said as they trotted out of the yard.
Slade grinned. "Maybe I do at that. At least I admire her spunk and brains," he said, then added after a moment: "Just the same I wish you'd tell her for me that she'd better keep her danked Mexican bulls on her own range if she doesn't want trouble."
Martha didn't answer that, and Slade understood that a sense of loyalty made her feel that she didn't want to discuss it further until she had talked with her grandmother.
He changed the subject: "They tell me your father was quite a hunter."
"Yes. My mother told me that. When they were first married she used to go with him sometimes."
At length, after unwinding some of his favorite hunting stories, Slade pulled up his horse and pointed south-westward. "Mrs. Kilgore's house is that way. Not more than three miles. Just follow the trail."
The girl reined up beside him, and suddenly her cool poise and

Wanted Water, Not An Oil Well

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — "But I don't want an oil well, all I want is a water well," a Tulsa complainant said as oil oozed over his back yard.
The unwanted discovery touched off excitement among the drillers and neighbors, but George Sharp exclaimed, "Oh, no." His wife concurred:
"There doesn't seem to be enough oil to amount to anything, and even if there were, I can't wash my dishes in oil."
Workers drilled deeper and water was found at 200 feet.

reserve were gone, and she was just a timid, anxious girl.
"Slade, tell me! Is my grandmother so terrible? What is she like? My mother was afraid of her. I know. Will she be glad to see me?"
Slade waited a moment before answering, then he said reassuringly: "I can't answer all that, Martha. I don't know her well. But I'd say she's awe-inspiring, rather than terrible. She's quick-tempered and strongheaded. I'd guess that she admires courage and nerve more than anything else, and that if you keep your chin up and don't let her know when you're shaking in your shoes you'll get along with her all right. Don't let her scare you. You don't have to stay with her if you don't want to — do you?"
The girl drew a deep breath. "No — I don't have to stay. But I want to terribly. I want her to like me."
"I think she will," Slade said. "Would you like me to go with you — or do you want to go the rest of the way alone?"
For the first time he saw a quick glint of humor spark in her dark eyes. "I'd better go alone." She put out her hand. "I can't thank you enough for what you've done — or tell you how sorry —"
Slade took the hand and held it. "Forget that. That's my worry. I'll see you again?"
Her dark eyes were friendly, but she drew her hand back quickly. "You know how it is. I want to stay here. I think — under the circumstances — this had better be good-bye."

Slade smiled at her. "Don't count on that. It's just 'good-bye for now'."
From her reputation as a hard-riding, swearing, acid-tempered old virago, Martha Kilgore had formed a mental picture of her grandmother as a leather-skinned, stringy-haired and maybe none too clean old woman. But today seemed to be her day for shocks and surprises. The picture certainly didn't fit the handsome old lady who stood by the door of her wide flagstone porch and coolly laid down the law to a small, slim man clad in the peaked hat, leather puttees, and khaki pants and shirt of some branch of government service.
Martha arrived just in time to hear the most of it, but neither the man nor the old lady on the porch, after their first brief glance, paid any attention to her until they had finished their argument . . .

Color And Stories Behind Some City Street Names

By ALVIN TAYLOR
 What's in a name? When it comes to street names, a lot as far as Greenville is concerned.
 For within the limits of the city there are names for municipal thoroughfares as varied as the neighborhoods for which they provide access.
 Many of the city's residences and business houses are located on streets that carry only drab numbers to designate them.

 They range from First St., which parallels the Tar River, to 16th St., which is a short street just south of the Norfolk and Southern tracks.
 For many other people, however, the names of the streets on which they live and work are descriptive and colorful. There are streets named for presidents, trees and automobiles within the city limits of Greenville. There are other thoroughfares which carry old family names and still others which carry names that apparently have no particular significance.

 As good advertisement as the auto manufacturers could buy are a certain group of streets in the western section of the city. There can be found Ford, Hudson, Nash and Cadillac Sts. Sorry, Chrysler Corp., none of your products are listed.

 But oldtimers will remember Stutz St. which was named after a now extinct automobile make. Its last intersection on Third before the U.S. 13 bypass.

Tree Names
 A trip down to the eastern end of the city along Fourth St. will take those interested into an area where the streets carry the names of trees.
 First there's Maple, Oak and Ash. Then there's Hickory, Laurel, Sycamore, Cedar and Beech.
 Remember the old Fred Allen days when the radio comic used to take his listeners for a stroll down Allen's Alley?

 Such a stroll can still be taken in Greenville. For there is an Allen's Alley among the city's streets.
 The tiny dirt road provides access to a few Negro houses in area to the east of Albermarle Ave.
 In the same general area is Bonner's Lane on which are located several Negro businesses and a number of houses. That narrow inclined street for years proved a maintenance problem for the city.

 Recently, however, curb and gutter were installed and the lane paved. Now, although extremely narrow, it is much improved in appearance.
 Bonner's land opens in to Pitt St., which is one of the oldest thorough streets in the city. At one time a bridge crossing the Tar River stood where the street now ends on the south bank of the river.

recently the Memorial Drive bridge was opened to change that.
 There is also a Boyd Ave., a Higgs Ave., and a Forbes St. among other family names. Other streets are named for presidents. Thus McKinley Ave. and Roosevelt Ave. may be found along Fifth St. and Truman St. is located in the Hilldale area.
 In the newer subdivisions of the city, there are various names for streets ranging from Overlook Dr. in Elmhurst to Longmeadow Dr. in Brookgreen.
 Also in the new areas are Gum Rd., Tremont Dr., Circle Dr., Crockett Dr., Middleton Pl., Evergreen Dr. and Sheraton Dr.

It was one of the city's busiest streets then. Now much of its length is one of the quietest. Because of its narrowness Pitt has been made one-way to Dickinson Ave.
Family Names
 There is a group of older streets which carry the names of many of the city's oldest families.
 Evans St. is one and its passes squarely through the main business district. Two blocks over is Greene St. which passes across the river by means of a bridge. For years it was the only street crossing the river from the north but entitled just plain "A" St.

 In College Court various streets are named for college officials who have played important parts in development of the college.
 There can be found, Austin St., Ragsdale Rd., Graham St. Deal Pl. and Cotten Rd.
 But one designation indicates those who think up names for the city's thoroughfares may be thinking. A street located in the eastern part of the city near the river is

Sensitive Central Intelligence Has The Toughest Employment Hurdles

By JOHN SCALI
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The toughest employment hurdles in the United States government are those set up before applicants for jobs with the critically sensitive Central Intelligence Agency.
 Only about 1 in 15 makes the grade.
 A whole section of a CIA headquarters building is taken up by elaborate equipment designed to probe the thoughts, feelings, inhibitions and rationality of those who would become American espionage agents.
 There's even a lie detector — and it's used as a matter of course.
 The rigorous tests are set up to weed out the security risks who may range from infiltrating Soviet agents to just plain blabbermouths.
 Rumors occasionally make the rounds to the effect that the CIA hires unnecessarily into the sex lives of its women employees. The agency denies that it asks questions about what is regarded as normal sex experience.
 The only sex question asked, says the CIA, is: "Are you a homosexual?"
 A homosexual question, which might have bearing on sex, is: "Have you ever done anything for which you could be blackmailed?"

 As far as can be learned, the CIA is the only government agency that employs the lie detector on a mass scale as a normal personnel practice.
 An applicant can refuse to take the test and still be hired but it is extremely unlikely. And if he is hired, his chances of advancement to a more sensitive post are virtually nil.
 Even after he lands a job, a CIA employe may be asked to take the test again. Some employes have taken second and third tests after being suspected of wrongdoing while on the job.
 The lie detector was not introduced by CIA chief Allen Dulles, who has held the post 5½ years. He inherited it from his predecessor. But he has continued it without apology.
 In this way, he differs from his older brother, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who has never asked state department workers to take such a test as a condition of employment.
 Have the Russians ever succeeded in planting an operative inside the CIA?

There has never been a direct public answer to that question. Some time ago Dulles was asked about it and he skirted a flat yes-or-no reply.
 "I naturally assume," he said, "that the Soviets will attempt to penetrate the CIA. . . I don't think they are going to find it easy, (but) we are going to keep on our guard all the time."
 The dangerous role of spy holds a strange attraction for many wealthy socialites and college graduates who could take it easy or strike it rich in other fields.
 In fact, you might say the CIA's top leadership wears an Ivy League look.
 Of the 20 highest officials, 17 are graduates of Eastern universities.
 Dulles acknowledges that 5 of his top 20 are independently wealthy, earning as much from outside sources as they do from CIA. This includes Dulles himself, a Princeton grad, who makes $21,000 a year as director.
 The CIA operates on the theory that a person's Ivy League background, social graces or wealth should not bar him from a spot in the nation's espionage network.
 What is more important, says

CIA, is a person's competence, his dedication and his willingness to accept the anonymity that necessarily goes with the job. Those who treat the work as a glamorous sideline don't last long.
 This policy apparently is paying off. A newsman checking into CIA's record finds surprisingly little criticism, even from those who turn a fishy eye on almost everything the Eisenhower administration does.
 "I won't knock them," says one former leader of the Truman administration. "I think most of this administration is lousy. But this is one outfit that knows its business, believe me."
 Part of the reason CIA has escaped widespread criticism could be the above-average quality of its rank and file employes. This has been noted by congressional committees and study groups who looked into its personnel.
 CIA salaries follow closely the regular civil service scales. But Dulles, who probably operates under less restrictions than any other government department head, is not required to abide by those rules.

Seven Newcomers In ECC English Dept.

Seven new faculty members will join the department of English at East Carolina College at the beginning of the fall quarter in September. President John D. Messick has announced.
 Dr. Corinne Holt Rickert will become director of the closed-circuit TV program of instruction at the college. A. B. A. and M. A. graduate of the University of Minnesota, Dr. Rickert holds a doctorate in English Literature from the University of Birmingham, England.
 She has taught at the Universities of Minnesota and Florida, at the University of Miami, and at the University of Maryland Overseas Program. She has had a wide experience in both educational and commercial radio and television work. She is the wife of Robert T. Rickert, who will join the East Carolina faculty as a teacher of English and dramatics.
 Mr. Rickert holds the master's degree in theater from the University of Miami and is now completing work on a doctorate from the University of Birmingham, England. With Dr. R. A. Foakes of Durham University, England, he is co-editor of a new edition of the famous theatrical document Henslowe's Diary which has been accepted for publication by the Cambridge University Press. An experienced teacher, he has been an education advisor abroad with the U.S. Air Force since 1955.

 Dr. Francis R. Adams, Jr., will come to East Carolina from the University of Maryland where he is now teaching and from which he holds a doctorate in English. He has also taught at Susquehanna University and at Yale.
 David J. Whichard, II, managing editor of the Greenville Daily Reflector, has accepted a position as a part-time faculty member in the field of journalism. He is a graduate of the School of Journalism at the University of North Carolina. At present, he is serving as president of the Eastern North Carolina Press Association.
 Other new members of the English department will be Dr. Grace Sailer of Benton, Illinois, Ph. D., University of Missouri; Ruth E. Coplan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., M.A., University of Virginia; and Louise B. Adams (Mrs. Frances R., Jr.) of College Park, Maryland, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

Newcombe Hurles Redlegs Back Into Third Place

By ED WILKS
Big Newk still can hum that pea. The winless Don Newcombe, whom the Los Angeles Dodgers gave up on last Sunday, became a winner again last night for Cincinnati, strugging off a first-inning home run by Stan Musial and blanking St. Louis on five hits the rest of the way for a 6-1 victory.

cisco defeated Pittsburgh 2-1 in 10 innings on the four-hit pitching of young Paul Giel and the clutch relief of veteran Mary Grissom. Rookie Stan Williams gained his second major league victory and shutout with a four-hitter as Los Angeles defeated Philadelphia 3-0. Rain idled Milwaukee and the Chicago Cubs, with the Braves leading 1-0 in the second inning. That cut Milwaukee's lead over San Francisco to two games. In the American League, the New York Yankees defeated Cleveland 3-2. Boston smacked the Chicago White Sox 13-9 and Baltimore spilled Kansas City 5-3. Detroit and Washington were rained out, but the Tigers moved up for a third place tie with Kansas City. Newcombe, the best pitcher in baseball when he won 27 in 1956, but able to show only a 12-18 record since, had a three-hitter until the ninth, when three singles loaded the bases with one out. He got pinch-hitter Irv Noren on a pop up and pinch-hitter Hobie Landrith on a ground ball. The Redlegs, now 4 1/2 games behind after leap-frogging the Cards and Pirates, gave Newk a tie in the first when Gus Bell's fifth homer matched Musial's 12th. They won it with two in the third off loser Larry Jackson (5-3) on Alex Grammas' single, a triple by Jerry Lynch and a single by George Crowe. Newk's single closed the scoring in the seventh. The Giants, benching the slumping Willie Mays, made it on singles by Bob Schmidt and Whitey Lockman that sandwiched a walk by Bob Friend, who had pitched shut out ball after giving up a first inning run on a balk. Giel, 25, whose only other decision was a 2-1 loss to Pittsburgh last week, gave up three singles and the tying run in the third last night. Then he blanked the Bucs without a hit, retiring 16 in order, before giving up a single in the 10th. Grissom, 40, saved it. Mays, 3 for 40 after grounding out as a pinch-hitter, still leads the NL with a .382 average. Musial, the runnerup, has .376. Williams, 21, walked seven, but pitched no-hit ball after the fourth at Philadelphia and won it on Joe Pignatano's first home run in the majors. It was a two-run shot in the fifth that set off a barrage of beer cans from the fans, who thought it a foul ball.

WEDNESDAY'S STARS
PITCHING: Stan Williams, Dodgers—Rookie right-hander walked seven, but struck out six and blanked the Phillies on four hits 3-0, pitching no-hit ball after the fourth inning for his second victory, second shutout.

Gene Woodling had returned to the Orioles for his second tour of duty with Baltimore. He played 47 games for the Orioles in 1955 after being traded by the Yankees. He completed the season with Cleveland. Gene returned to Baltimore in the deal which sent Larry Doby to the Indians. Someone recalled that Woodling was booed every time he stepped up to the plate in Baltimore. "Sure, Baltimore fans booed lustily every time Gene appeared in a Cleveland uniform," admitted Manager Paul Richards. "I'm not too sure that the boys weren't intended for me for trading him off to Cleveland the way I did. He certainly did a great job for the Indians last season, and I only hope he will do as well for us this year. Woodling is a real pro, and I expect he will do a professional job." It isn't likely that the attitude of the Baltimore fans will bother the old pro like Woodling. He is the first to admit that he wasn't too hot (batting .221) when he joined the Orioles for the first time. No one can ever accuse Woodling of lacking hustle. Even at 35, he gives everything the old college try. Last season, he was the Indians' leading hitter with a

Poor Old Casey Suffers For Thin Pitching Staff

Chairman Pitt Says Committee At Richmond

Poor old Casey Stengel. His New York Yankee pitching staff was so thin he had to get some help with a trade. So what happens?

Southpaw Whitey Ford spun a three-hit shutout at Cleveland Tuesday. Then Casey hauled Art Ditmar out of the bullpen last night and the right-hander pitched a no-hitter for 5-1-3 innings in his first start before getting reliever Ryne Duren's help for a 3-2 success over the Indians. All of which leaves Duke Maas and Virgil Trucks, picked up in a deal with Kansas City, and Zack Monroe, recalled from Denver, still sittin' on their pinstrips. Second place Boston, eight games back, blasted a 33-inning shutout string by Chicago pitching, hammering five home runs in a 13-9 victory over the White Sox. Baltimore defeated Kansas City 5-3. Detroit and Washington were idled by rain, but the Tigers moved into a third place tie with Kansas City.

Virginia Beach, Va. (AP)—Chairman Mac Pitt of the Southern Conference Basketball Committee says the annual conference tournament has been tentatively awarded to Richmond. Pitt, athletic director at the University of Richmond, said no other definite offer has been received from any other city wishing to have the tournament. Pitt made his comment yesterday at the end of the first day of the annual two-day meeting of conference athletic directors. The directors voted to continue the same scheduling policy in basketball, which calls for each team to play 10 league opponents to be eligible for the conference basketball tournament. The matter was brought up in view of Washington and Lee University's resignation from the conference. A proposal by B. W. Hackney Jr., head of the booking office, that the conference present a bid to retiring football officials was approved by the directors. It will be presented to the Southern Conference meeting in December.

GREENSBORO (AP)—It's two North Carolinians against two South Carolinians in the semifinals today of the 31st annual Carolina Junior Golf Tournament. Fayetteville's Archie Clark Jr., the medalist killer who eliminated Rocky Mount's Ed Justa yesterday, 2 and 1, takes on Billy Womack of Florence, S.C. in one semifinal pairing. In the other, Kinston's Larry Beck, last year's winner of the national junior title, plays Florence's Buddy Baker. The 16-year-old Clark, a powerful off-the-tee swinger, ousted the Rocky Mount medalist with a four under-par 67 on the Greensboro Country Club course. Justa himself broke par by two strokes in the sizzling afternoon match, considered one of the most outstanding ever in the tournament. Meanwhile, Beck took a 1-up victory on the 19th hole to defeat Mooresville's Eddie Honeycutt. Beck was the 1956 Carolina junior champion. North Carolina schoolboy titlist Bobby Edgerton lost 3 and 2 after Baker birdied four straight holes. Womack defeated Greensboro's Winky Kasey, 5 and 4 in an even-par effort. In the morning matches, it was Clark over Charlotte's Wilson Glasgow, 2 and 1; Womack over Greensboro's Tommy Haraway, 6 and 5; Beck over Wayne Herbert of Badin, 2 and 1; and Baker over Morganton's Sherrill Austin, 2 and 1. Clark, son of Fayetteville's Highland Country Club pro, is playing for the first time in the championship flight. The 36-hole finals will be Friday.

In the cause of economy, the directors agreed to work out their spring sports schedules to that the baseball, golf and tennis teams could travel on the same bus.

W. C. James, Recreation Department official who has been working closely with the Teen-er League, stated recently that a large number of the mothers have agreed to take part in the game and that it was "a fine gesture on their part."

Mother's Game Wednesday Nite

Next Wednesday night at Guy Smith Park, mothers of the Teen-er League ball players will choose up sides and play a ball game to raise funds to support the league. Mothers from all four Teen-er teams—College View, State Bank, Guaranty Bank, and Home Builders—will hold down positions on the two women's teams. Game time for the fracas will be 7:30.

Danville Back In First Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The hard-hitting Danville Leafs were back in first place today in the Carolina League's see-saw battle for the pennant. Danville clubbed three pitchers for a 12-7 victory last night at Raleigh, while the Hi-Toms lost to the Alamance Indians at Graham, 7-6, in 11 innings. The loss sent the Hi-Toms into second place, one game off the pace. It marked Danville's first victory at Raleigh this season. The loss was pinned on Raleigh ace Merlin Nippert who had beaten the Leafs twice previously. The Leafs pounded out 16 hits. A home run by pitcher Dave Wegerek in the 11th inning gave Alamance its win over the Hi-Toms. Wegerek's blow came with one out after his teammates had tied the score with a run in the ninth.

Danville Back In First Place

Home runs by Dave Davis and Frank Wehner were the big blows as Greensboro defeated the Bulls 4-1 at Durham. Davis homered in the third with none aboard and Wehner did likewise in the seventh. Each team got six hits. The Leafs batted out 12 hits to win at Winston-Salem 6-4. Salem before more than 2,100. Al Barth, with two doubles and a single, led the attack. Jack Fisher pitched steady ball for Wilson until the eighth when Pedro Cardenal hit a two-run homer.

Mantle Receives Shoulder Care

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mickey Mantle, New York Yankee center-fielder, received X-ray treatment for his injured right shoulder at Evangelical Deaconess Hospital yesterday. It was learned this was the second in a series of three treatments. He has been alling since spring training. He will receive further treatment in Detroit tomorrow. Mantle's shoulder injury has greatly impaired his effectiveness as a left-handed batter. He is hitting only .226 from that side of the plate. The switch-hitter has been whacking away at a 476 clip while batting as a righty. Tom Sturdivant, New York pitcher who has been laid up with an injured shoulder, also underwent X-ray treatment yesterday. It was the last in his series of three. Yogi Berra sat out last night's game after undergoing an eye examination. The eye specialist pronounced the catcher's vision perfect despite his batting average of .211. Berra's substitute, Elston Howard, cracked a two-run homer in the first inning, providing the margin in New York's 3-2 victory over Cleveland.

Winners Punch Out 12 Hits To Clinch Tilt

Greenville Paris and Metals jumped on the winning bandwagon last night in the Industrial League by walloping Coffman's Clothiers by a 12-3 score at Guy Smith Stadium.

The P&M outfit's victory pushed them into the win column in the second-half of Industrial League play. The Graniteers and Carolina Dairy also hold one victory each in second-half play. Still winless during the half are Coffman's and Quality Oilers.

Outland pitched the P&M victory, giving up eight hits to the losers but keeping the run total down. Coffman's picked up two runs in the first inning and didn't get the other one until the fifth. The losing pitcher was Brantley. He was slugged for eight hits also. The P&M team scored five runs in the opening inning to begin their victory early. They added three in the second inning, another in the third and fourth, and two more in the sixth.

Top hitters for the winning club were shortstop Howell with three-for-three and centerfielder Odum with two-for-three. Pulling down hitting honors for the losers were Hardy with two-for-four and Stanley with one-for-two.

Moore To Box At Charlotte

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Light Heavyweight Champion Archie Moore has agreed tentatively to box here in November.

Promoter Bob Little said yesterday the bout would come off during Carrousel Week in November, provided the Carrousel committee agrees to fit it in with a Davidson-Furman football game Nov. 22 and a Boston-Minneapolis pro basketball game Nov. 26. These events also are tentative.

Little said Moore's opponent would be either hometowner Waban Thomas or Pittsburgh's Art Swiden.

HITTING: Elston Howard, Yankees—Had two of New York's six hits, one a two-run homer that proved the clincher in 3-2 victory over the Indians.

Bob Cerv's Broken Jaw Heals

Bob Cerv, slugging outfielder for the Kansas City Athletics, is able to open his mouth for the first time since his jaw was clamped together by wire after it was broken in a game May 17. Until the wire was removed June 16, Bob lived on strained food taken by a straw. This picture is a gag shot. He still can't open his mouth wide enough to eat a sandwich, but he did get some solid food. At left is Maurice Blumm, operator of the Kansas City hotel in which the A's make headquarters. Big Prizes In Flint Golf Tournament

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—The longest course of the year and the biggest prize so far challenged pro golf tourists today with the start of the $52,000 Flint Open Tournament.

National Open champion Tommy Bolt put his new reputation on the line in going after the winner's pot of $9,000, sought also by numerous other top names of the pro set.

Warwick Hills, scene of the battle, confronted the pros with 7,280 yards—the longest any have played this year. Its par is 72. A field of 143, including 134 pros and 11 amateurs, was entered. All in all, it was sized up as a faster field than that which took part in the open.

The PGA applied winter rules to seven fairways because Warwick Hills is so new. The clay base has been causing some fairways to crack. The winter rules permit the lie of a ball to be improved by moving it with the club-head not more than six inches.

Gardner Will Hurl For SC Against Harbin

OMAHA (AP) — Bruce Gardner ace left-hander of the Southern California pitching staff will go against Elmer Harbin, Missouri right hander who sat out most of the season with a sore arm, in the finale of the NCAA college baseball world series tonight.

Both teams are 4 and 1 in the double elimination series after a 7 to 0 Southern California win last night. Gardner takes a 13 and 1 record to the mound and will be seeking his third series win. Harbin is 4 and 1 for the season and has one series win.

If Southern California wins the Trojans will become the second team in series history to drop its opening game and then come on to take the championship. Texas did it in 1950.

Bill Thom and John O'Donoghue duelled through eight scoreless innings last night before Southern California combined hits and O'Donoghue's late throw to second and his wildness to drive him from the mound.

Decision Over Gavilan

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Young Yama Bahama considered a campaign in the welterweight boxing ranks today after belting out a solid victory over former welter king Kid Gavilan.

Bahama, 25, a former fishing guide from Bimini, took a quick early lead over Gavilan in their televised fight last night in the Miami Beach Auditorium and the Cuban Hawk, a slowed-down battler at 32, had nothing with which to rally.

Judge Eddie Thal gave Bahama the most one-sided score, 100-92. Referee Jimmy Peerless scored 106-30-6.

It 98-94 and Judge Stu Winston 99-93. Bahama was a 98-93 winner on The Associated Press card.

Bahama, who has campaigned fairly successfully as a middleweight said after the fight he might have a go at the welters, in view of his easy night against Gavilan. It'll be no trouble to make the weight, he added.

The win over Gavilan was the 49th for Bahama against eight losses and one draw. At 151½ pounds, he was a half-pound heavier than the Cuban Kid. Gavilan's career record now is 106-30-6.

Strong Hurler

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "Paul Giel is the pitcher who can make the San Francisco Giants a real pennant contender."

That's what Giant manager Bill Rigney said last night after his club nipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 in 10 innings. The victory left the Giants two games back of the league-leading Milwaukee.

Rigney, who had benched Willie Mays and drastically shaken up his lineup, held court in the dressing room while Giel accepted congratulations for his four-hit victory. Giel now has a 1-1 record since his recent recall from Phoenix.

The victory was his first in the majors since a two-year tour of Army duty. A former All-America football player at Minnesota, he passed up a pro football career to go with the Giants for a sizable bonus.

Nine Playgrounds Now Opened To Greenville Children

PHILLIPS EXPLAINS PROCEDURES OF SUMMER PROGRAM TO PLAYGROUND SUPERVISORS . . . their work began here Monday morning. (Reflector Photo).

"Every child has his own play world. But he needs the situation which encourages him to play — the materials and equipment which enable him to do so. Without them, a child's play world is apt to begin — and end — with day dreaming. With them, and with proper guidance, he can make his dreams come true." (Childcraft)

And so nine playgrounds opened Monday morning heralding the official commencement of Greenville's summer recreation program.

As has been the case in years past six parks opened for white children. They were Elm Street, Third Street, Guy Smith Stadium, Hillsdale, Meadowbrook and Woodlawn. South Greenville, Riverside and Fleming Street are open for Negro children.

All nine parks, with the exception of Woodlawn, are scheduled to be opened all day, Monday through Friday. Woodlawn will only be opened five afternoons during the week from 3 until 6 o'clock. The others are open 9 until 12 o'clock and 3 to 6 o'clock.

Recreation Director Gordon Goodman has announced that this year's summer program will run seven weeks instead of the customary eight weeks. Last year, he noted, after August 1, there was very little activity at parks throughout the city.

Bud Phillips, athletic coach at the Junius H. Rose High School, will serve as playground supervisor.

The specific breakdown for white playground personnel shows: Nancy Berryman in charge of children three to six at Elm Street Park; Mrs. Laura Barrier, ages seven-14 at Elm Street Park; Clarence Britt, athletics at Elm Street Park; Clarence Britt, athletics at Elm Street Park from 9-12 noon; and Merrill Bynum, athletics at Elm Street, 3-6 p.m.

Kitty Collins, Third Street Park; Jean Ann Waters, Meadowbrook Park; Sylvia Bonner, Hillsdale Park; Sara Ewell, Woodlawn; Ike Riddick, athletics at Guy Smith Park, 9 until 12 noon; and Jesse Currie, athletics at Guy Smith Park, 3-6 p.m.

Youngsters of pre-school age will be allowed to visit Elm Street Park five days a week and will be supervised by recreation workers. Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 until 12 noon pre-school age children will have supervised play at any of the other parks. According to Goodman, any other time youngsters, three, four and five years of age, must be accompanied by parents or some responsible individual.

Summer Theme
This year's summer program theme is "What Every Child Needs".

Weekly themes for the program that terminates around August 1 are: first June 16-20, Preparation; second, June 23-27, Nature Week; third, June 30-July 4, Independence Day and United Nations; fourth week, July 7-11, Dramatics and Music Week; fifth, July 14-18, Indian Week; sixth, July 21-25, "Fitness is Fun" week; and seventh week, July 28-August 1, Playdays.

Phillips has announced that free feature-length movies will be shown each week. The movies will be shown in the morning at Elm Street and during the afternoon at the South Greenville Recreation Center. A schedule will be released at a later date.

Recreation officials have lined up a vast series of projects and entertainment including athletic games, dual and single games, low organized games, social activities, mental games, music, arts and crafts, drama, nature study and collecting. In addition special events have been scheduled such as a pet show, doll show, arts and crafts exhibits, a circus among others.

Arts and crafts are being taught by supervisors at individual parks during the morning and afternoon instead of being taught at specified times at each as has been the case in years past.

Negro Recreation Program
Negro Recreation Supervisor Luke Hemby will direct summer activities at South Greenville, Riverside and Fleming Street. Albert Hill and Mabel Godette are handling activities at the South Greenville Park. Eleanor Hagen is at Riverside and Cora Neelon at Fleming Street. All four were employed by the Recreation Department last summer.

GORDON GOODMAN . . . Recreation Director

According to Goodman the Negro summer program will correspond with that of the white. Arts and crafts are being taught on the same basis and children of pre-school age will only be permitted to indulge in supervised play on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 until 12 noon.

Teenage nights are being staged at the South Greenville Recreation Center on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights from 8 until 11 o'clock. Arts and Crafts for Negro adults are taught on Wednesday nights, 7:30 to 10:30 o'clock.

Bailey To Change Escape Announcement Policy

RALEIGH (AP) — State Prison Director W. F. Bailey is making a change in Prison Department policy on announcing the escape of convicts.

Under a policy which has been in effect for several months, prison camps have been required to telephone prison headquarters in Raleigh with news of escapes of all prisoners except honor gridders.

Bailey's office, in turn, has been relaying the news on escapes to the wire services, depending on them to get the news back to newspapers and radio and television stations throughout the state.

The policy change resulted from the fact that most of the state's non-daily newspaper do not have wire service, and hence no direct way of getting word on prison escapes.

Under the new policy, Bailey said, prison camps will be permitted to make available news on escapes to local newspapers and radio and television stations after the Raleigh office has been notified. The new policy is being put into effect administratively and still is subject to approval by the Prisons Board.

"We're trying to broaden the thing to take care of these local folks," Bailey said.

But, even under the new policy, a newspaper or broadcaster seeking information on an escape in a county other than its home county will either have to depend on the wire services for the news or else call prison headquarters in Raleigh.

"We can't have half a dozen papers calling the camps," said Bailey. "These camp folks have a job to do. The camp superintendent has to get out and help catch the escapes, and often the only one left on duty at the camp is the guard."

"We feel if we get the information in here to the wire services, they can get the news out far quicker," Bailey added. He pointed out that more complete records on the prisoners are available in Raleigh.

Similarly, Bailey said, prison policy is for the camps to call headquarters with word on riots, strikes and other prison disturbances and the camps are under instructions to give out information on them by telephone. In such cases, he added, telephone lines must be kept open for prison business.

He said reporters and photographers who go to the camps or prisons for news on riots or other disturbances can get information and pictures, "but while a disturbance is going on we cannot allow anyone inside the confines of the unit because we've got our job to do. After it's over, we'll let them come in and get the news."

Getting back to the new policy on escape information, Bailey said, "We feel this system will work, and if it doesn't we'll try something else. Our main concern in this matter is to get the information to the people in the most practical and efficient manner possible."

Big Enrollment For Alcohol Talk

East Carolina College's fifth annual summer workshop on "Facts About Alcohol," just concluded, attracted 70 students to the campus, a record enrollment to date. Most of those participating in the event were teachers and prospective teachers whose responsibilities in the public schools include teaching the facts and problems about alcohol.

Sponsored by the North Carolina Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program and East Carolina College, the workshop here is one of four to be presented this summer in colleges of the state. Others will take place this month and next at North Carolina.

Dr. N.M. Jorgensen, head of the East Carolina department of health and physical education, acted as coordinator and director of seminar sessions here.

Lecturers and consultants present on the campus for the workshop included Dr. Fred W. Ellis, associate professor of pharmacology, University of North Carolina; and Dr. Norbert L. Kelly, education director, and George Adams, director of publications, NCARP.

Lecturers, seminars, and informal discussions centered attention upon sociological, psychological, problems of alcohol and on materials and techniques for instruction about alcohol in the public schools.

Heirs Are Suing Movie-Makers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eight heirs of the late Jeanne Eagles, Broadway and Hollywood actress, seek $250,000 damages for use of her name and likeness in a motion picture.

Defendants in a suit on file in superior court today are George Sidney Productions, Inc., and Columbia Pictures Corp., who produced and distributed the film, "The Jeanne Eagles Story."

The complaint by a sister, four nephews and three nieces of the actress charged the film depicted Miss Eagles as "a dissolute and immoral person."

Miss Eagles died at 35 in 1929 while at the peak of her career.

Lee has already done some selling for the studio, she and her husband TV director William Coleran, attended the Cannes Film Festival, where "Long, Hot Summer" was shown. She was frank in her reaction to the affair.

"The whole atmosphere was kinda crummy," she declared. "The hotel lobby was filled with starlets parading through in their Bikinis, hoping to be discovered. And there I was, without my bikini. In fact, I don't even own one."

Nagy's Execution Has Successor Under A Cloud

By CARL HARTMAN
BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — The execution of Imre Nagy raises the question of what will happen to his collaborator and successor, Janos Kadar, the current Communist boss of Hungary.

Nagy and Kadar were both considered Titoists, Communists who thought the local parties should be allowed to depart from Moscow's dictates to meet local conditions.

At the start of the 1956 revolt they worked closely together. When Hungary's Communist party command reorganized in the midst of the crisis, Kadar became the party chief, a job he still holds. He was a member of Nagy's Cabinet and presumably backed its measures.

Kadar in speeches and interviews supported the revolt. Then he broke with Nagy to collaborate with the Soviet forces which installed him in power.

After Nagy took refuge in the Yugoslav Embassy, Kadar gave him a safe-conduct and arrested Nagy when he left the embassy.

Many observers believe that Kadar had promised Yugoslav President Tito there would be no trial for Nagy. As recently as April 3 Kadar brushed off the whole question of Nagy in a talk with this correspondent, saying it was "not of current interest." He added that the ex-premier was at a health resort he had wanted to go to.

He implied the whole matter ought to be forgotten. What happened to revive it? Most observers here and in Belgrade believe the executions to be the result of the quarrel between Moscow and Tito. But what remains unclear is the wider picture of which this strike at Tito and Titoism is a part. Here are some of the questions being asked:

1. Was the trial of Nagy meant to show other Communist regimes the danger of Tito's independent ideas?

2. Why does the official Hungarian statement say comparatively little about "American capitalists" and instead emphasize charges that Nagy collaborated with British diplomats?

3. Where does the execution of Nagy fit into the war being waged throughout the Communist world between Khrushchev's supporters and his Stalinist enemies?

Kadar is Khrushchev's man in that fight. It may be significant that Kadar's name was not mentioned once in the long official recounting of Nagy's alleged sins.

The next act may be played this week.

Heavier Fallout In This Section

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — A Utah chemist says some 10,000 persons living in southern Utah not far from the Nevada atomic bomb test site may have absorbed about 30 times as much gamma ray irradiation as other persons in the United States.

Dr. Norman Bauer, Utah State University professor, told the Pacific Division of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science meeting here that, depending on dietary habits of the residents, "this amount of local fallout would result in a more or less serious accumulation of strontium 90 in the bones within a decade or two."

'Proper Bostonian' Has Filled Sexy Film Roles

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For a girl who is fairly proper Bostonian, Lee Remick certainly has gotten herself into a lot of sexy roles.

First came "A Face in the Crowd" in which she played a hip-swinging baton twirler with an eye for Andy Griffith and various other males. Then in "Long, Hot Summer" she was a sultry Southern belle whose prime interest was sex.

Her third picture is "These Thousand Hills," a Western. And does she get to play a valiant pioneer gal? Nope. She's a lady of the evening.

"I can't understand how I got typed," she complained mildly. "It's gotta stop."

I've got news for her. This sort of thing can't be stopped. Once a newcomer gets typed, especially in sexy roles, it sticks.

The strange part of it is that Lee seems more like the Debbie Reynolds type in person than the Marilyn Monroe variety. She's a refreshing, wholesome girl who seeks no undue notice of her obvious physical merits.

Matters of fact, the girl won't even pose for cheesecake. "They asked me to at Warners once," she recalled. "I told them absolutely no. What I want out of acting has nothing whatsoever to do with cheesecake."

See what I mean about this girl? She admits to being "fairly proper" and her Bostonian background extended only from birth until she was 6. Then she moved to New York.

She started acting at an early age, appearing in summer theaters and road companies. She dipped into television in those golden days when the New York dramatic shows were producing exciting new talent.

Elia Kazan first saw her as a sexy doll. He provided her film debut in "A Face in the Crowd." He predicted top stardom and signed her for a number of pictures which she expects never will be made.

Twentieth Century-Fox also noted her potentialities and gave her a one-picture-a-year contract. You can bet the studio will exercise its options.

Lee has already done some selling for the studio, she and her husband TV director William Coleran, attended the Cannes Film Festival, where "Long, Hot Summer" was shown. She was frank in her reaction to the affair.

"The whole atmosphere was kinda crummy," she declared. "The hotel lobby was filled with starlets parading through in their Bikinis, hoping to be discovered. And there I was, without my bikini. In fact, I don't even own one."

Caught Driving A Stolen Car

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Yober S. Guaraldi, 32, of Brockton, Mass., was stopped by a policeman for driving a stolen car.

He agreed it was stolen April 2 from him, but returned a day later.

Brockton police said somebody had forgotten to cancel the car's number as wanted.

Surgical Orderly Accorded Honor

RENO (AP) — Washoe Medical Center's new $720,000 diagnostic and treatment facility was dedicated to a surgical orderly.

The honor came to Chris Kakoris, 67, a native of Greece, as he completed 27 years to become the hospital's longest employe.

Administrator Clyde Fox estimated that Kakoris has wheeled more than 25,000 patients to surgery.

More Body Designs, More Varied Prices For '59 Cars

By DAVID J. WILKIE AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP) — There probably will be 350 different body designs in the 1959 line of automobiles. There will be even more different price tags.

A larger percentage of next year's output will be station wagons. More two and four door hardtops will mean fewer standard-type coupes and sedans. There will be more price tags than body styles because of the many optional equipment items.

There probably never has been a time when the car makers have been under as much pressure to reduce suggested list prices. What their 1959 pricing plans are probably will not be disclosed until a few days before new model introductions.

Right now chances favor another increase when 1959 cars are announced. But some extra cost items probably will be reduced; some of this year's extras may even be made standard on some 1959 models.

Most standard equipment items on today's cars began as extra cost installations. Even windshields started out as extra cost items in the industry's early days. Some experts have said that eventually automatic transmissions will become standard equipment.

That may be still in the remote future, however; continuing improvements are being made in transmissions. The research runs into a lot of money.

But the trend toward standardizing engineering advances points up the difficulty of fairly evaluating price advances from year to year. It can be said that this year's model X carries a suggested list price $50 or $100 more than last year's like car with the same designation. In many instances, however, the manufacturer can show that if equipment is compared there has been only a small price increase, or none.

Some retailers have said a modest cut in the suggested list price will stimulate demand for new cars. Of course, a cut in the suggested list price will mean a reduction in the price the dealer pays the manufacturer.

The dealer is not bound by the suggested list price. His normal markup enables him to cut prices at his discretion. Similarly, he is bound by no regulation concerning the allowance he makes on traded-in cars.

These factors are among reasons why many car retailers lost heavily on this year's operations. Engineering and styling always are factors in the sales appeal of new autos. There are many among industry analysts, however, who say price tags will be given even greater consideration by 1959 car buyers.

At the same time it is one of the anomalies of car merchandising that after the car buyer has haggle long about the base price he will then buy most of the extra equipment items.

Pigs Lose Their Whiskey Mash

STANFORD, Ky. (AP) — A group of pigs here have taken the pledge. At least, their supply has been cut off.

Police said they destroyed 200 gallons of whiskey mash being fed to pigs and charged Verda Orzley, 50, with possessing and unlawfully and operating a still.

Luskin Transferring To Delaware DuPont Plant

Michael M. Luskin of Greenville, a Senior Engineer in the Technical Section of Du Pont's Kinston Plant, will be transferred to Chestnut Run, near Wilmington, Del., on July 15, Plant Manager W. E. Gladding has announced.

Luskin started his Du Pont Company service at the Kinston Plant in April, 1953. At Chestnut Run, he will be a Research Engineer in the Engineering Development Section at the Textile Research Laboratory.

A native of New York City, Luskin received his bachelor's degree in engineering and his master's degree in chemical engineering from the College of the City of New York. He was a chemical engineer for several other companies between 1935 and the date he joined Du Pont.

He was married in April, 1937, to the former Pauline S. Greene of New York City. He and Mrs. Luskin have three children: Jon, 18, Dona, 14; and Eric, 5. The Luskins lived in Ayden for nine months after coming to this area, but they have resided at 207 Pineview Drive in the Lakewood Pines Section of Greenville since that time.

Luskin is a former president of the Unitarian Fellowship in Greenville and a past secretary of the Greenville High School Parent-Teachers Association. He is active in the Greenville Little Theater and in the Carolina Gun Club. He is a member of the American Chemical Society and the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. He is also a member of the Exchange Club in Greenville.

Mrs. Luskin founded the Co-operative First Grade School of Greenville and served as its first president. She also organized the League of Women Voters there and became its first president. She has been chairman of the annual Sidewalk Show sponsored by the Greenville Woman's Club for the past three years and is a member of the Service League of Greenville.

Beer Provided An Extinguisher

OWOSSO, Mich. (AP) — When Dewey Campbell of Owosso started his car the other day the carburetor caught fire.

Campbell dashed into a nearby saloon, grabbed a bottle of beer, snapped off the cap, shook the bottle and let fly at the flaming carburetor. That put out the blaze.

Staff Sergeant Calvin O. Stephens (above), U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, has reenlisted in Marine Air Reserve Squadron VMA-233. Sgt. Stephens, who resides at 1106 W. 3rd St., Greenville, is an aviation ordnance man.

Grover Mills Jr., seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Mills of Greenville Route 3, has been serving aboard the destroyer USS James E. Eyes on a six-month cruise in the Western Pacific.

Elwood E. Stokes, husband of Mrs. Polly Stokes, 302 Manhattan Avenue, Greenville, has been promoted to Specialist Third Class Stokes is stationed in France.

Private Gareth D. Wingate, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Wingate, 405 W. Seventh St., Ayden, has been

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Commissioners of Pitt County, Greenville, N. C., in the Commissioners Room, Pitt County Court House, Greenville, N. C., until 11:00 o'clock A. M. E.S.T., July 1, 1958, and immediately thereafter publicly opened and read for the furnishing of labor, materials, and equipment entering into the construction of the Pitt County Health Center, including walks, equipment and appurtenances thereto. Bids received after the hour named will not be considered.

Separate bids will be received for General Contract, Electrical, Plumbing and Heating.

Complete plans, specifications and contract documents will be open for inspection in the County Health Department, Greenville, N. C., A.G.C. Offices, Dodge Plan Rooms, and in the office of Dudley & Shoe, Architects, 209 Evans Street, Greenville, N. C. Prime Contractors (General, Plumbing, Heating and Electrical) may obtain plans, specifications, and other contract documents upon deposit of $25.00 in cash or check. The full deposit will be returned to those submitting a bona fide proposal, provided plans and specifications are returned to the Architect in good condition, within five days after the date set for receiving bids. Sub-contractors and material dealers may purchase plans and specifications from the Architect for $10.00 a set. Prime contractors may obtain additional plans and specifications for $10.00 a set, prior to bid opening.

All contractors are hereby notified that they must have proper license under the State Laws governing their respective trades.

Each proposal shall be accompanied by bid guarantee of 5% of the bid. Bid guarantee may be in cash or certified check drawn on and certified by some bank or trust company insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. In lieu of making the cash deposit as above provided, such bidder may file a bid bond executed by a corporate surety licensed under the laws of North Carolina to execute such bond.

Conditioned that the surety will upon demand forthwith make payment to the obligee upon said bond if the bidder fails to execute the contract in accordance with the bid bond and upon failure to forthwith make payment the surety shall pay to the obligee an amount equal to double the amount of said bid bond. This deposit shall be retained if the successful bidder fails to execute the contract within ten days after the award or fails to give satisfactory surety as required herein.

Performance bond will be required in amount of one hundred percent (100%) of the contract price.

Payment bond will be required in amount of fifty percent (50%) of the contract price.

Payment will be made on the basis of ninety percent (90%) of monthly estimates and final payment made upon completion and acceptance of the work.

No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of bids for a period of thirty days.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities.

Signed: Board of Co. Commissioners Pitt County Greenville, N. C.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's losses deepened early this afternoon as trading slackened but still held at a moderately active pace.

Early fractional losses were expanded to a point or more among assorted key stocks.

Chemicals, oils, rails, nonferrous metals and selected steels, motors, rubbers and tobaccos were on the downside.

American Tobacco dropped about 2 points while U.S. Tobacco and Lorillard were off fair-sized fractions.

Anacosta and Kennecott dropped a point or so. American Smelting, Phelps Dodge and International Nickel were off fractionally.

Chrysler was down about a point for a while but reduced this loss. It was reacting from its lead of 1 1/2 yesterday. General Motors eased.

American Telephone took a loss of more than a point in an exceptional move for this usually steady blue chip. Commonwealth Edison was ahead a little.

U.S. Steel and Bethlehem were each down sizable fractions. Republic Steel edged ahead. Youngstown Sheet cancelled most of its early gain of a point.

Standard Packaging was steady and White Sewing Machine held a fractional rise after early activity in both stocks calmed down.

Allied Chemical and du Pont were each down about a point. American Cyanamid and Air Reduction took smaller losses in a soft chemical session.

Leading oil shares slipped a bit. Rails lost fractions.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers unchanged, farm price 20.

Eggs—Prices paid by distributors for clean, sized, minimum 80 per cent A quality: Raleigh and Charlotte, steady, large 42; prices paid by producers on graded out basis: Asheville, firm, A large 36-39, mostly 39.

RALEIGH (AP) — (USDA) — Hog prices steady to 50 higher. Tops of 23.25 to 24.00 at Tarboro, Enfield and Scotland Neck; 23.00 to 24.00 at Rocky Mount and Hillsboro; 23.00 to 23.75 at Bethel, Murfreesboro, Sunbury, Edenton and Harrellsville; 23.25 to 23.75 at Nahant; 23.00 to 23.50 at Greensboro and Kinston; 22.75 to 23.25 at Clayton, Lillington, New Bern, Benson, Angier, Albertson and House's Mill; 23.75 at Clinton, Fayetteville and Elizabethtown; 23.50 at Castle Hayne; 23.25 at Lumberton, Shallotte, Pembroke and Taber City; 23.00 at Rich Square, Smithfield, Dunn, Mount Olive, Whiteville, Clarkton, Newton Grove, Four Oaks, Laurel Hill and Siler City.

Shipping Strike Said Spreading

NEW YORK (AP)—A four-day strike of marine engineers against Atlantic and Gulf Coast operators of cargo and passenger ships is spreading to the West Coast, management sources said today.

The sources said at least 10 companies with more than 30 ships on the West Coast were concerned.

Contracts on the West Coast, as on the Atlantic and Gulf coast, expired at midnight Sunday.

There were no prospects of an immediate settlement.

Shipowners broke off negotiations yesterday and told the engineers to sign on and sail the ships or get off.

Union sources said that, although accurate figures were not available, they assumed more than 100 ships along the Atlantic and Gulf coast are tied up by the strike, 46 of them in New York.

The first large passenger vessel that may be delayed is the liner America, due to sail for Europe tomorrow with about 1,000 passengers. Her engineers have not signed for the trip.

The strikers, members of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn, have been staying aboard 294 passenger and dry-cargo ships on the East and Gulf coasts, maintaining machinery but refusing to sail.

Their four-day-old strike is against members of the American Merchant Marine Institute, but other shipowners also could be affected. The AMMI represents 23 companies with 294 ships. Other companies that follow the institute's contract pattern bring the total of ships involved to 480.

Ralph E. Casey, president of the AMMI, said a final offer had been made to the union and rejected. The offer included increased pension, welfare, health and vacation benefits, but no wage increase. The union had demanded a substantial pay raise.

DETROIT (AP)—Young Thomas E. Davis wrestled with his conscience yesterday. His conscience won, and he gave himself up.

Davis, worried over a debt, held up a bank on impulse, police said, but threw his $1,000 loot on the floor saying "I can't do it. I can't do it." Then he fled only to be quickly captured.

U.S. Dist. Court ordered him held in $50,000 bond for examination July 8.

At a branch of the National Bank of Detroit, Davis handed Mrs. Alma J. Hadley, 39, a teller, a note threatening her life unless she gave him money.

Mrs. Hadley was counting $20 bills. She gave him a batch. Their eyes met. Then she said he threw the money to the floor and ran blocks away.

Davis, discharged from the Army last February, said he wanted money to pay college bills and for a trip to Texas with his wife, Coe, 21. Mrs. Davis is a recent University of Michigan graduate.

Funeral Set Friday For Lewis Creech

FARMVILLE—Lewis Creech, 62, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home on Grimmersburg Street Wednesday at 4:55 p.m. He had been in declining health several years.

Funeral services will be held at Farmville Baptist Church Friday at 3 p.m. The Rev. E. W. Holmes will officiate. Burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery. Masonic rites will be at the grave. The body will be at the Farmville Funeral Home until one hour before the funeral service, when it will be taken to the church.

Mr. Creech was a son of the late Elizabeth Murphy and Edward Creech of Johnston County. He was a veteran of World War I and had made his home in Farmville 38 years. He was a farmer and overseer. He was a member of the Baptist Church 15 years, a former "pro" at the Farmville Country Club and a member of Farmville Masonic Lodge No. 517.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Hattie Riley Creech; one son, S-Sgt. Carl Creech, Air Force, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Benefit Supper

A fish stew supper will be held at the Packer's Community Building Friday evening between 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The benefit event is being staged for Boy Scout Troop 162, in Pactivol.

SUPPOSED TO RISE

Defense orders, including construction projects, are supposed to rise about $5 billion from the last half of 1957 to the first half of 1958.

Texas Admiral Is Going To Sea

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—An admiral in the Texas navy headed for Boston today with an outboard motor boat in which he plans to try to cross the Atlantic.

"With a lot of luck and the right kind of weather, we might make it," says James Pirtle, 30.

Roy Sutter of the nearby Lindberg community will meet Sutter in Boston and make the trip with him. If and when they get to England, Sutter hopes to swim the English Channel.

They are using an 18-foot outboard motor cruiser powered by two engines. It was equipped with special tanks to carry 300 gallons of fuel.

Pirtle said no one has ever tried it before "and I guess I want to be in on something that's never been done before."

Pirtle served three years with the Navy in World War II. He hopes to arrange sponsors for navigational equipment and fuel. He has a book on small boat seamanship.

A story and boat manufacturer and sharing some of the expenses, Pirtle said he hopes to leave about July 1.

"We have a tentative route that will take us by way of Newfoundland, Greenland, Iceland, Scotland and on to London," he said.

Pirtle operates a landscaping and trucking business. He has a wife and a boy, 4. Last week he and Sutter were presented commissions as admirals in the Texas navy by Gov. Price Daniel.

MORE THAN EVER

Employment records show wholesalers have more people working than ever before. The same condition prevailed in finance, insurance and real estate firms, as well as service-type employers. Federal, state and local government employees also increased in numbers.

Missing Scientist Found A New Life

INGLEWOOD Calif. (AP)—One day, six years ago Albert Clark Reed, a scientist at the California Institute of Technology, said good-bye to his wife, patted his son's head, left home — and disappeared.

The FBI, police, family and friends were baffled. The trail led 50 miles east to San Bernardino, then grew cold.

His wife, Florence, never gave up hope that he would return. Yesterday he was discovered working as a groom at Hollywood Park.

"I don't know why I left," he told newsmen. "I was still am-hazy and confused."

"The day I left I sold my car, took a bus and went to Phoenix. I got a job handling freight."

Later he got a job handling horses and returned to California, working at various tracks. His identity was discovered through a routine fingerprint check. He was using the name Alfred C. Reese.

"I'm still stunned," he said, "but I'm getting to feel a gradual relief that I will no longer have to live with this secret."

He spoke of his wife: "Oh, we quarreled occasionally, but that couldn't be the reason I left."

"It's amazing, I can remember every detail of everything I have done for the last six years. But I can't tell you for sure why I left my wife and child."

Reed, a Caltech graduate and World War II test pilot, was working on an aeronautical consultant on a secret project when he disappeared. Police say there are no charges against him.

Will he return to scientific work?

"I don't know," he said. "I love horses, you know. They're wonderful, intelligent, sensible creatures. I enjoy working with them."

Reed, balding and 51, was told his son, Timothy, 12, has been adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Dudley B. Smith, Larchmont, N.Y. Smith, a patent attorney, is Mrs. Reed's cousin.

Reed chatted with the boy last night by phone.

Reed later had a tearful reunion with his mother, Mrs. Cora Reed, of nearby Glendale.

But his homecoming also was marked by sadness. He learned that his wife died in December 1955 of cancer.

Install Officers Of Legion Post

Ford McGowan was installed as commander of Pitt County American Legion Post 39 in ceremonies Tuesday night.

The new commander and other new officers were installed by J. H. Rose, past department commander of North Carolina.

McGowan is a veteran of World War II and he resides in Elmhurst. He is connected with a lumber firm in Winterville.

The new officers were elected last month.

Other officers installed are: Herman Duncan, first vice-commander; G. A. Case, second vice-commander; Jack Edwards, Stokes, third vice-commander; J. L. Page, finance officer; H. G. Haney, post chaplain; Charlie Blanchard, sergeant-at-arms.

Brinks Robbery Accessory Slain

BOSTON, Mass. (AP)—John F. (Fats) Buccelli, 44, an accessory in the 1956 Brink's robbery, was found fatally wounded in his car early today.

His flashy sedan had run into the rear of a parked truck and it was first believed he had been injured in that accident.

He was taken to City Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival. The medical examiner, Dr. George W. Curtis, said he had been shot through the head and that it was murder.

Buccelli was given a five-year federal jail sentence in New York, April 25, in connection with a multimillion-dollar narcotics ring case. He appealed.

In that case, U.S. Atty. Paul W. Williams said Buccelli was a power on the Boston waterfront and got 10 per cent of the profits on all narcotics he managed to smuggle into the country.

Buccelli and Edward (Wimpy) Bennett, 38, of Weymouth, pleaded guilty to accepting $60,000 of the $1,219,000 stolen from Brink's Boston headquarters in January 1956.

He was sentenced and served two years. Bennett served one year.

Questions Value Of Satellites

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—An Austrian-born Nobel prize winner in physics said today that the Sputniks and other earth satellites represent wasted money as far as real cosmic research is concerned.

Dr. Victor Francis Hess also expressed serious doubts about experiments for peaceful atomic energy because of radiation dangers. He told a reporter for the Tiroler Tageszeitung here:

"From the point of view of research, the Sputniks, which cost so much money, are not worth it. I say this despite the fact I recognize the great technical achievements that went into their construction and their rocket-firing."

Hess, 75, has been working in the United States. He said rocket firing there so far has established pertinent facts about cosmic rays.

Great Fun; And Then, Tragedy

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Rocissano, 7, was treated to three rides on a small merry-go-round mounted on a truck parked near his home yesterday.

It was great fun. Michael didn't want to quit.

He leaped on the rear of the truck as the merry-go-round operator started to pull away from the curb.

His hands slipped and he was crushed to death by a rear wheel.

DEATH OF BROTHER

John Buchanan of Norfolk, Va., half-brother of L. M. Buchanan, 407 Lewis Street, Greenville, died in Norfolk, Va., Wednesday morning.

Funeral services will be held at Hallman - Brown Funeral Home, 29th and Granby streets, Norfolk, Va., Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

UN 'Watchdog' Group May Act On Execution

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A speedy meeting of the U. N. watchdog committee on Hungary was in the offing today to set up a sounding board for the non-Communist world's shock and indignation over the execution of Imre Nagy and three other leaders of the abortive Hungarian revolt.

Western reaction to the Moscow-directed executions ranged from Italy's decision to curtail diplomatic relations with the Budapest regime to a refugee demonstration against the Hungarian team at the world soccer games in Stockholm.

E. Ronald Walker of Australia, acting chairman of the five-member U. N. committee, said he had several requests for a meeting. He asked the U. N. secretary to set one up "as soon as practicable" and said it might be held tomorrow.

Composed of members from Denmark, Ceylon, Tunisia, Australia and Uruguay, the committee was established by the General Assembly in 1957. It found the Soviet Union guilty of "massive repression" in putting down the 1956 revolt in Hungary.

The execution of Nagy and his associates brought immediate suggestions for a resumption of its inquiry.

Another suggestion was for a public meeting to dramatize U. N. concern. Previous meetings generally have been held in private.

The United States has attempted to focus attention on Soviet tactics during the revolt whenever possible, and the U. S. delegation began pressing for a committee meeting soon after the executions were announced by Moscow this week.

At his news conference yesterday, President Eisenhower said the executions clearly showed that the Russians plan to pursue a policy of terrorism and intimidation.

Italy withdrew its ambassador to Budapest and also permission for Budapest to send a minister to Rome. Lower-ranking charges d'affaires remain in both capitals. Foreign Minister Giuseppe Pella said the government acted after starting consultations with Italy's NATO allies on joint action by the North Atlantic Treaty Nations.

The Silver Tone Quartet of Bethel will appear in concert at Fleming's Chapel F.W.B. Church Sunday night at 7:30, sponsored by Mrs. Wilbert Edwards. The Rev. K. T. Hall is pastor. The public is invited.
