Old Rockin' Chair Back

By EDWARD S. KITCH CHICAGO (AP)—Americans want their furniture sturdy, simple and smart, and so this year they are reviving Early American styles, including the old-fashioned rocking chair.

This was evident at the annual International Home Furnishings Market. The new furniture definitely is down to earth, despite space flight. Not only is it traditional, it's often made of solid walnut in natural tones.

Although it appears contemporary, it has the appearance of being acquired from a little old lady who lives in the country and sold it for a song.

What does this mean to a modern-day furniture designer such as Lawrence Peabody of Boston? "I've been attending auctions since I was 8 years old," he says. "I've acquired a lot of the feeling and warmth of New England and have seen more good design at country auctions than at exhibitions—from Early American to Victorian."

Peabody suggests designers must begin to look to a new kind of design by getting to know what America is. Early American Vogue While Americans are interested in a design heritage, the reproduction of hand-wrought Early American pieces by assembly-line methods has been hindered by the lack of new manufacturing techniques, Peabody says, adding:

"These limitations have contributed a great deal to the lack of development of American designs."

Marie Kirkpatrick of Grand Rapids, Mich., also a furniture designer, explains the present trend to American traditional designs thus:

"Despite Sputniks, Early American style does happen to be lovely to live with. It will become more beautiful in seasons to come."

For the man of the house, a pleasant feature of the return to Early American furnishings is the prospect of a rocker in the living room.

Rocker Revival The rocker is distinctly an American institution, with Ben Franklin its claimed originator. He may have known long ago in the 1700s what today's psychologists are just discovering and praising—that the rocker induces contemplative pleasures.

There are Jacobean, Provincial and Early American rockers, modern rockers and rockers with built-in vibrating mechanisms. The heavy crop of rockers seems to indicate that the faster the world moves, the more an American needs time to creak gently in a seat that's not going anywhere.

For the first time in almost a score of years, the new traditional furniture has the solid look. There are less and less veneers.

Natural Woods In fact, the beauty of woods—especially walnut—is décor itself. Parquetry and buris in French walnut are used profusely to embellish pieces that have trim.

smooth and simple lines. Although walnut dominates displays, cherry and mahogany show gains.

The color of walnut tends to follow nutmeg tones. Upholstery fabrics often match, with brown, base and red and yellow used as accents.

The darker browns are found in the lower priced groups. The bleached walnut lines are high style and higher priced.

Away from the Midwest, walnut tones are warmer and darker. A survey shows that in Denver the demand is for walnut in more neutral tones. On the West Coast, it is light and mixed with darker woods.

Many of the walnut surfaces are shown in hand-finished, soft tones with matted surfaces. But synthetic resin finishes have moved into this area, too. They create hard-use pieces that can take the abuse of American family living.

Lana Turner To Return To Movie Screen

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Lana Turner's return to the screen will show her as a glamorous, trouble-haunted actress.

Her first film since her daughter's slaying of John Stompanato will be "Imitation of Life." It's a remake of the 1934 Claudette Colbert starrer which was a sensation in its time.

"Actually, it was before its time," said producer Ross Hunter. "Its treatment of race relations was too advanced for that era. Today, I think the story will be more readily accepted."

The story concerns a widow (Lana) who moves her daughter from a small town to New York. Her late husband's little theater, so she tries to get work as an actress. She hires as housekeeper a Negro woman who also has a daughter, a girl of light skin.

The relationship between the two mothers becomes strong, and tragedy occurs when the light-skinned daughter rejects the Negro woman.

"It's a real tearjerker," Ross admitted, "but I think it can be very effective—not as obvious as 'Magnificent Obsession' (which he also re-produced).

"And I think Lana can do a great job in it."

He conceded he had a hard time persuading her to do the role. She turned down the script but agreed to talk to him about it. Hunter went to her house, script under arm.

"I read the whole script to her, acting out all the roles," the producer said. "I'm a lousy actor, but by the end of the script, we were both in tears. She was sold."

Still unsettled is Lana's acceptability at the box office. "Peyton Place," which was in release at the time of the tragedy, did blockbuster business. But "Another Time, Another Place" did poorly.

"I think that was because of poor planning," Hunter observed. "It wasn't a bad picture. But they threw it out into release without any advance publicity, hoping the headlines would help sell it. That never works."

Celebrated OES Birthday

ROBERSONVILLE—The members of the Stonewall Chapter of the O.E.S. celebrated its 13th birthday Monday evening in the Masonic Hall.

For this occasion arrangements of summer flowers were used throughout the room.

A special program was given by Aida Tyler. This was followed by the worthy matron, Kathleen House, giving the highlights of her recent trip to Asheville and a report on her visit to the Grand Chapter.

A social hour was held at the close of the meeting. Pearl Everett, who was installed in May, presented to the chapter an oblong cake decorated with red roses. Under the inscription "Happy Birthday," the Eastern Star emblem in realistic colors was placed. Lemonade, mints and salted nuts were also served.

Britons Beating Path To Her Door

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP)—In precisely two years, Fleur Cowles Meyer, an American, has become the best salon-keeper in London.

"A salon," says the dictionary, "is a reception, especially one at which celebrities gather, hence a fashionable assemblage."

Mrs. Meyer's Wednesday soirees, held in an elegant set of chambers once occupied, perhaps appropriately, by the dandy Beau Brummell, attract a glittering list of people.

Her residence—you could never describe it as a mere apartment—is located in Albany, a series of exclusive flats near Piccadilly Circus, at the foot of Saville Row.

Whether to call it Albany or THE Albany, has troubled Englishmen for years. But not Mrs. Meyer.

"It's Albany, not THE Albany," she said.

And then, in a pronouncement that may become a classic in London, she added:

"You don't say THE Buckingham Palace, do you?"

Whatever her town house is called, her guests include such "similar but interesting persons as:

Britann's recently resigned Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft, Laborite leader Hugh Gaitskell, actor Peter Ustinov, barrister Sir Hartley Shawcross, actress Flora Robson, fashion designer Hardy Amies, newspaper publisher Lord Kemsley and dancer Dame Margot Fonteyn.

Mrs. Meyer, the former wife of American publisher Gardner Cowles, married Englishman Tom Montague Meyer in November of 1955.

It was a quiet ceremony in a splendid Beverly Hills mansion with actor Cary Grant the best man. From California, the Meyers returned to Britain.

Meyer (pronounced Mayer) is a big international operator in timber. He is short, well tanned and as handsome and suave as his best man, Grant.

He also adores his wife and when she said she wanted to live in Albany, he gave her the green light and, obviously, the money to tailor it to her heart's desire.

Albany has been a center of art, letters, laughter and wit for many years. Its past tenants include Lord Byron, Lord Melbourne, Queen Victoria's first Prime Minister, and Oscar Wilde, who set part of his play "The Importance of Being Earnest" in an Albany flat.

ARTFUL SETTING—Mrs. Fleur Cowles Meyer in one spacious corner of the drawing room she fills every Wednesday evening with a blue-ribbon list of British guests.

By January 1956 Mrs. Meyer had redecorated, installed fancy plumbing and equipped the place with central heating. As she got her soirees into high gear two years ago she was being described by London newspapers as beautiful, flamboyant, clever, witty and talented.

A society columnist wrote: "Her salon has become the most envied party in town."

She invites her guests for 6:30 p.m. and sets no curfew. Many of her friends are members of the British government, members of Parliament or theatrical people.

In her lovely drawing room, there is food and drink aplenty but the emphasis is on conversation.

"I don't care for the formal dinner party," said Mrs. Meyer. "One has to talk to people on either side. There are more interruptions than conversation."

Up until midnight her guests come and go in waves.

"I'm sorry I'm late," Foreign

Secretary Selwyn Lloyd will say, "but there was a vote in the House."

"Of course," Fleur will beam. Fleur maintains one rule for her salon:

"I only ask people I like."

She and her husband preside at the soirees without ever seeming to do so and the service is so good that cocktails and food from a French chef in the kitchen appear as if by magic.

Judges Facing Fashion Panic

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

If a wave of nervous breakdowns develops among fashion designers and editors soon, the reason may be the growing responsibility of judging the numerous home sewing and student design contests, which pay off in astronomical figures.

Nowadays the best ways for a woman to get rich quick are to go on a television quiz program or enter a baking or sewing contest—and as the prizes grow bigger, so does the nervousness of the judges.

Hannah Troy, New York dress designer who acted as a judge in the recent $125,000 Sew-Off, was practically in a state of collapse as she congratulated the grand prize winner, Mrs. Paul Edward Bell, of Lakewood, Ohio.

"I didn't sleep a wink all night," confided Mrs. Troy afterward.

"Just imagine, having to pick one contestant to win all that money! I think it's harder on the judges than the contestants."

I could sympathize. A few days before, I had been one of three judges of a "Young Homemaker" sewing contest, which paid off with a $5,000 first prize.

Faced with racks of dresses, suits and coats which had won regional contests before being sent to New York, all three of us had an attack of stage fright. What if we were influenced by personal taste? What if we overlooked some important detail? The other two judges were Miss Eloise Johnson, of Chicago, home economist and sewing expert, and Miss Virginia Steele, an editor of Mademoiselle magazine.

Before us were score cards. Each outfit was graded on fashion, suitability of fabric, trimmings, finish, sewing technique and suitability to the wearer. So many points for this, so many for that. We worked harder than any college freshman on a final exam.

When all the score cards were compared, we found the job was simpler than we had thought. All

Ice Cream Toppings Discussed

"Ice cream toppings" was the demonstration given by Mrs. James Edwards and Mrs. D. Wall at the June meeting of the Timothy Home Demonstration Club.

From the many easy to make toppings, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Wall selected orange pineapple, chocolate crunch, frozen fruit juice candy bar, and the long time favorite—fresh strawberries. These were used over vanilla ice cream.

Other suggestions for using ice cream are coconut balls, cantaloupe a la mode, baked Alaska, strawberry meringues, and ice cream coolers such as milk shakes in a number of flavors and fruit delight which is made with sherbert and fruit juice.

The group met in the home of Mrs. Edwards where arrangements of summer flowers were used in the living and dining rooms. Mrs. Alton Gardner, president, presided over the business session at which time reports were given on public utility, home beautification, and home freezing. Mrs. Fred Wall and Mrs. Herbert Taylor displayed earrings which they made at the arts and crafts workshop recently. Mrs. Wall gave a report of her trip to Farm and Home Week.

The toppings were served over vanilla ice cream during the social hour. Mrs. Ivey Wall led the group in recreational games and judging of flower arrangements brought by the club members.

Mrs. Sharp Is Club Hostess

ROBERSONVILLE—When Mrs. Jack Sharp entertained her bridge club Thursday evening, her home on Pinetree Drive was decorated with roses and other summer flowers.

The guests were invited into the living room where the two tables were set for cards. During the games, the hostess served cold drinks and potato chips.

After three progressions, Mrs. Robert James won the high award and Mrs. Oscar Roberson received the consolation prize.

A sweet course was served during the social period.

Other players were Mesdames R. B. Lee, George Glenn Edmondson, Vincent Colombo, Wayland Wilson and Claude R. Wilson.

News From Fountain

Fountain—Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Trevathan spent a few days last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Trevathan in Manteo.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Everette and children, Ann Stator and Edwin, spent Friday in Jacksonville visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Everette.

Mrs. J. O. Bryant of Grifton was weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Dilda.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Woodall, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Jefferson spent last week at Crescent Beach.

Miss Wilma Grace Owens of Hampton Virginia is spending this week with her mother, Mrs. Ben H. Owens.

Mrs. L. E. Chenault of Buies Creek was weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson Owens and son, of Walsenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Owens of Greenville were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Owens.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith of Tarboro were recent Sunday guests of her sister, Mrs. Mary Everette and niece Miss Marjorie Everette.

Three came out with almost identical ratings. But it had been a grueling day.

Final rating for the four places awaited arrival of the contestants in New York, when we could see the clothes actually worn by their makers.

Women planning to enter sewing contests in the future may take heart from this—the judges work just as hard as the contestants, and maybe, suffer more.

Surprising And Gratifying Stand

Surprising and gratifying was the decision of the U.S. Supreme Court to refuse to rule directly on an order suspending desegregation of Central High School of Little Rock for two and one-half years.

Attorneys for Negro groups had petitioned the court to hold a special term and give a speedy decision on the ruling of U.S. District Judge Harry J. Lemley who recently ordered a 30-months suspension of integration in the Little Rock school.

Because of the high tribunal's past attitude toward matters involving integration of public schools, and because of the past actions of the federal administration, it would not have been surprising had the Supreme Court complied with the petition for a special term to consider the ruling of Judge Lemley.

On the other hand the Supreme Court has said it will be the responsibility of lower federal courts to implement the high court's integration decree. It's refusal to rule directly on Judge Lemley's order indicates it will leave to lower federal courts to implement the decree and to make such adjustments as they deem necessary in individual situations.

From information compiled by Judge Lemley making his ruling, it is apparent that the calibre of educational program carried out at Central High in Little Rock last year suffered greatly because of the confusion and tension which accompanied troop-enforced segregation at the school. It is evident also that similar conditions will exist during the coming year if integration is continued at Central High.

Whether Judge Lemley's ruling is allowed to stand still remains a moot question in spite of this latest action of the Supreme Court. In the interest of the youngsters of both races in Little Rock, and in the interest of public education, the 30-month cooling-off period by Judge Lemley should be upheld by the courts.

Make This Weekend A Happy One For All

Chances are that 90 per cent of the people who read this editorial will venture onto the highways in an automobile during the three-day week-end.

The other 10 per cent, just to be different, might keep the family car in the garage and just wait out the heavy traffic until Monday.

Be that as it may, this is a message to every person who reads The Daily Reflector.

Be careful during the coming week-end.

We want to be sure that every one of our subscribers is around to read The Reflector on the evening of the Fourth . . . and the fifth and the sixth and the seventh and for many, many days to come.

The National Safety Council estimates there will be 45 million automobiles on the highways over the holiday week-end, whizzing by each other only a few feet apart. There will be thousands of traffic accidents, and the council estimates that no less than 410 Americans will lose their lives in highway accidents during the week-end.

They are appalling figures to be faced by fun-seeking people who will want to make the most of the holiday week-end. They are figures which should make a driver think twice when he gets under the wheel of his automobile. They are figures which should keep him on his toes every moment he is on the highway.

On a holiday week-end like the Fourth, it is not enough to be a good driver most of the time. That one mistake may be the one which means tragedy rather than a happy holiday.

Developing Of Highway Ideas

By LYNN NISBET

HIGHWAYS — Impact of the Federal interstate super-highway program upon road building policy in North Carolina has been considerable. New emphasis has been given to the old question about the real purpose public roads are supposed to serve. There is fuller recognition that highways must be classified. Colossal conclusion is that use must be restricted largely to the type of traffic for which the road was designed.

Slow-moving purely local traffic cannot be tolerated on the super highways designed for heavy fast-moving long-haul vehicles, any more than the behemoths of the highways can be permitted on the neighborhood and farm to market type roads. There is also recognition that local geography must be to great degree ignored in locating the super highways. Their course cannot be altered by reason of the ownership of a certain farm, or the imaginary boundary line of a municipality. By the same line of reasoning, the local landowners and municipal taxpayers should not be asked to assume a larger share of the cost than other users of the thoroughfare.

That concept is back of the provisions which put 90 per cent of the interstate system cost on the Federal government, 10 per cent on the States. Most of the other Federal aid highway work is on a 50-50 basis for construction with the State carrying larger share of rights of way. There are points to be worked out with respect to appropriate liability of municipalities.

Indirect, but very potent, influence of interstate policies raises new and perplexing problems in all phases of road building and maintenance.

APPORTIONMENT — While most of the publicity recently has been given to the interstate highways, the fact is that in North Carolina only about one percent of the total public road mileage is included in that system (approximately 700 miles of a total of nearly 70,000). There is probable need for at least 1,000 more miles of four-lane heavy-traffic controlled-access highways in this state. Construction of this additional mileage will be on State-Federal 50-50 instead of 90-10 basis. In many instances the acquisition of rights of way and the construction of access roads will be 100 per cent State obligation.

That leaves some 10,000 miles of primary highways and more than 55,000 miles of county roads for what might be termed "usual" construction and maintenance.

If it is accepted, and it seems inescapable, that Federal and State authorities shall have almost exclusive control over the big highways, is it not a logical conclusion that local interests should have larger voice in the location of county roads? What is appropriate distribution of available highway funds among the several classes of highways and the purposes of construction, right of way acquisition, maintenance, etc?

These questions are not easy to answer. Despite protestations from Federal and State sources that everybody is happy, the fact remains there is a lot of dissatisfaction among the citizens who must pay for the roads and hope to use them.

Despite changes in personnel of highway officials and in the organizational structure of the highway commission, there is substantial continuity in basic policy.

CONTINUITY — The first real State highway commission was instituted in 1921. It was enlarged to take in all county public roads in 1931. It has been changed from an original division system, to a central commission, back to a division control, and again to a non-division central policy board. Every time the organizational structure was changed, in fact every time a new Governor came into office whether or not basic reorganization was effected, improvement in administration was promised.

The record will show that some rights of way claims still unsettled date back to the middle 20's, and that within the past few months almost as many new court cases have been docketed as have been settled. That is not the fault of the highway officials. Each Legislature has enacted laws based on experience needs of the year before it met—and when the laws had to be applied conditions had changed so fast that the statutes were obsolete before they could be invoked.

In total effect upon policy the interstate system may bring about more changes than since the county roads were taken over in 1931. Clearer distinction is indicated between the extreme classifications of super highways which afford almost no local service and are subject to very little State or local control, and the community roads which serve only small areas and for which more localized control is demanded. The State highway commission is in unhappy middle position—as it has been for more than a quarter century.

Because of the 90-10 ratio of participation Federal demands may be somewhat more arbitrary on big highways, and because of elimination of division commissioner contact local resentment may be a little keener.

The problems have been intensified by interstate Federal policies—and multiplied millions of dollars—but the difference is in degree rather than in kind. No community and no individual will ever concede that somebody else is more entitled to a good road.

levels nor do we know if they were ever actually carried out.

On the economic side, comprehensive figures on the personal income and consumption patterns of the Soviet populace have not been released for years. The Soviet republic publishes no absolute production figures for grain and most other agricultural products. They publish no statistics on the production of nonferrous metals, diamonds, asbestos, magnesite, pyrite, petroleum derivatives, merchant ships, civil aircraft, military equipment and most chemicals.

Wholesale industrial prices, agricultural procurement prices, and comprehensive figures on retail prices are not published. On the international side major statements by Western governments and political leaders are often ignored or distorted.

Accounts of United Nations proceedings are warped beyond recognition. Accurate information on foreign living standards is carefully kept from the Soviet populace. Information on economic and social progress in Western countries is almost invariably suppressed.

Reductions in military strength by the Western powers are not reported. Accurate information on Western political institutions is not revealed.

One final virtue of this system. Nothing wears one sinner more than seeing another in the throes of repentance. Your friends will be grateful — whether you succeed or fail — that you spared them the boredom of watching your one-man reform wave.

If you must be a finer fellow, learn how out of town.

Let us suppose you have gone to the seashore and want to cut down on your smoking and drinking.

You stretch out on the sand and put a pack of cigarettes and a pitcher of martinis before you. You say, "I'm not going to take a smoke or a drink for one full minute." Each day you add another minute of waiting before you indulge yourself. At the end of a two-week vacation you will be able to go a full 14 minutes.

This may not seem like a major achievement, but look at it this way: If you continue this reform program on every vacation for 40 years you will wind up being able to go 9 hours and 20 minutes without giving way to thirst or the desire for a pep-up puff. It's the little triumphs that add up in life.

Suppose you've yearned all your life to play a musical instrument.

I heard of one man who mastered the zither on vacation. After 25 years he took his zither to the office Christmas party, and surprised everyone by playing "The Moonlight Sonata" in a way that left even the boss in tears.

Still another advantage to giving up bad habits while on vacation is that there is no sudden wrench about it. You are in no hurry and can improve yourself slowly and leisurely.

There is another factor. Vacation is the only time when a man can reform while lying down. Any other period of the year he will be standing up or moving about. Reform under this added stress and strain is almost impossible.

Censorship That Soviets Impose

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — This gives you a pretty good idea of Soviet censorship; of the kind of information kept by the Kremlin from the Soviet people and from the rest of the world.

What follows is taken from a talk made by Andrew H. Berding, assistant secretary of state for public affairs. It's the best roundup on the question this writer has seen. The words are all Berding's:

Crime and statistics on crime and on the prison population are closely guarded secrets. Most newsworthy arrests are not reported. Trials in process are generally not printed.

Disasters and accidents are not reported unless they involve casualties to foreigners. No information is released on the sessions of the Communist Party Presidium, even the fact a meeting has been held.

Meetings of the Central Committee of the Communist party are announced only after they have been held, and no information is published on their deliberations. The process of reaching major policy decisions is kept from the public.

Such decisions are announced by fiat and, of course, with no hint of opposing views.

Information on the reasons for major personnel appointments or dismissals is often not released. The dismissal of the head of the Soviet government, Premier Bulganin, was announced simply with the State that Nikita Khrushchev had taken over. Not a word was said as to why Bulganin was dismissed or what he would do.

No meaningful statistics on the breakdown of the Soviet population by social groups and nationalities have been published for 19 years.

Civil disorders, such as those at the Vorkuta slave labor camp and at Norilsk in 1953 and at Tiflis in 1956 are never reported. Other expressions of dissatisfaction by the populace are generally not reported.

On the military side, the Soviets have made only 12 announcements of nuclear tests, although we know they have conducted many more. The Soviets release no data on the numerical strength of their armed forces, the number of troops stationed abroad, the number of military personnel inducted or leased from active service per year, and the number of warships, planes and other equipment in use.

Although the Soviet government announced plans for troop reductions allegedly totaling 2,140,000 in 1955 and 1957, it has not revealed the extent to which these affected total force.

into the car to take the family for an early spin in the country, or get out into the garden while your wife does spring cleaning, or gets the screens in shape. While you're doing that, 20,000 individuals will have been added to the population of the world. For the current rate of increase—births over deaths—is somewhat more than 100,000 a day . . . It's far past time when we should be thinking soberly and continuously—and demanding that our statesmen do the same—about the problems this growth brings in its train."—Leesburg, Fla. YOU CAN'T MISS OUT

No man can serve two masters.

Thus said the Master of Men, and among his sayings, which were without qualification true from beginning to end, he never said a truer or more helpful word.

For division is at the bottom of all moral and spiritual chaos. If we have a divided mind, we are insecure and lacking in resolution. Likewise, if we have a divided spirit, we are out of tune with the spiritual universe of which we are a living part. Division breeds confusion, then chaos, then despair.

Learn It Out Of Town

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

Are you puzzled over what to do on your vacation?

Many men are. They know that if they go to the mountains they will have to help the children pick wild flowers to paste in their memory books. They know that if they go to the seashore, they will have to help the children collect seashells.

And they know if they stay home their wife will keep them busy 16 hours a day doing odd jobs around the house, such as repairing the vacuum cleaner, hanging wallpaper or picking green worms off the tomato plants — chores are strong, able-bodied ought to attend to herself.

If you're in this plight, here's an idea. Why not use your vacation to reform and improve yourself?

Most men start their self-reform campaigns on New Year's Day.

This is a bad time. A man's resistance is so low in winter that he barely has the strength to continue his vices — let alone summon up the extra strength required to abandon them.

There is another factor. Vacation is the only time when a man can reform while lying down. Any other period of the year he will be standing up or moving about. Reform under this added stress and strain is almost impossible.

Still another advantage to giving up bad habits while on vacation is that there is no sudden wrench about it. You are in no hurry and can improve yourself slowly and leisurely.

The Deluxe 77-Day Tour

By DON SCHLIENZ

"Wake up Schlienz" said a voice at my elbow, "you're dreaming again."

And I had been, but recovered sufficiently to hand the owner of that voice a folder sent out by a world cruise service . . . promoting an "Around the World" via the Southern Hemisphere in 77 days.

This gaudy bit of romance on paper had been in and out of the desk a dozen times over the past year; and each reading was as fascinating as the first, always ending with the silent wail "But where would I find $6,000 to throw away?"

World cruises leave a lot of people cold. Too much travel time between points of interest, they complain. This one was different: the party files, with side-trips by limousine.

The itinerary begins at San Francisco with the first two stops in the Fiji (four days all together), fifteen days in New Zealand and three days in Australia and Tasmania.

Then across the Indian Ocean to Mauritius and on to the Union of South Africa where the party works northwest from Johannesburg to Victoria Falls, Albert Park, Watousland, Nairobi and Khartoum; not to mention Umtata, Kokstad, Durban, Eshowe, the Hluhluwe Game Reserve, Swaziland and Kruger National Park.

Most of this African jaunt is done by motor car with planes used between the more distant points.

After a stopover in Cairo the tour calls for a visit in Rome then London, then to New York.

The names of those faraway places hold allure aplenty, but the folder throws in other tidbits like Glow Worm, Grotto, Hockstetler Icefalls, Wooloomooloo Bay, Valley of a Thousand Hills, the mines of Johannesburg and Kimberley, the Congo Highlands, Treelops Hotel . . . there's no end to it.

This folder was to promote two tours, one starting in October 1957 and another March 1958; so it's too late to climb aboard

Public Forum

To the Editor:

It seems to me the press, TV and radio in some parts of the country have done a swell job of separating our people in thinking of the making and producing things we buy and sell.

The consumer thinks the farmers are the Favored Few and are getting rich off them; but let us remember for a few minutes that the consumer in the U.S.A. can buy more things to eat for less of his hours of work than in any country in the world. In our locally-owned and chain stores we have from six to ten thousand different items to choose from.

Some of our business and professional men do not like some things our farm organizations are doing. We, as a farm organization, have never objected to a lawyer, doctor, warehouseman or any other man buying land and joining our organization to participate in benefits derived from it.

George D. Cox, President Pitt Farm Bureau

Other Editors Saying-Only Measuring Stick

(The Dallas Times Herald)

To an audience the other day Superintendent W.T. White of the Dallas schools, said, "Let us not be stampeded by reports of the superiority of education in Russia." Yes, it is high time for us to cease measuring our educational system by the yardstick of Russia or any other country. Perhaps it is well that the sputniks caused us to take a new look at our schools. Occasional self-examination is wholesome.

But the only question we can profitably ask ourselves about our schools, public and private, from kindergarten to university, is this: Do they give our youngsters what they need to equip them for life in the modern world? This query is hard to answer. Instead of looking for an answer to Russia, Afghanistan, Finland or some other place where conditions are vastly different from those of this country, we can do better by simply observing the results of our educational system.

We cannot expect the schools to make ideal citizens of all who attend them. The bad effects of environment and poor home training cannot be wholly overcome in the classroom. And there is truth in the old saying that a purse cannot be made of a sow's ear. But is youth as a whole being properly served? That is the key question.

We are spending more on youth education than any other nation and the expenditure is steadily rising. But are we spending this money for essentials, for the things that really count, or are we squandering a large part of it on luxuries that spoil youngsters or for things that neither build character, stimulate thinking, nor equip a youth to become an intelligent, constructive, voting citizen?

Comparing Depreciation Rates

By ELMER ROESSNER

Before Congressmen scamper back home to rejoin the boy in the clubrooms, they might take one more look at the depreciation rates prescribed by Federal tax laws.

These depreciation rates are the amount companies can deduct from earnings before taxes to pay for the wear, tear, obsolescence and the growing decrepitude of plants and machines.

If a company invests a million dollars in a manufacturing spread, it can charge off the cost in 15 to 20 years. That's all very fair if the shebang all wears out in that time. But it's obvious that some of it will wear out in 10 minutes and some will last for 99 years.

THE SQUEEZE

If a company charges off the costs — that is, deducts the costs from profits — faster than the spread wears out, it postpones some taxes, thereby increasing profits, at least temporarily. But if the deductions are slower than the depreciation, the company loses immediate profits. Tax-wise, it is paying for dead horses. Or worn-out machines.

Last year, businesses spent $37 billion for new plants and equipment, according to a Department of Commerce and Securities and Exchange Commission survey. This year, according to a new survey, business plans to cut outlays to $31 billion.

The fact that productive capacity is excessive for peacetimes may be one reason. But another reason may be that business doubts that it can write off its outlay within reasonable lengths of time.

Carl C. Harrington, editor of Mill & Factory, recently pointed out that other nations allow much faster write-offs than the U.S. If this keeps on, he warned, this country will soon have the most obsolete industrial plants of all important nations.

SLOW CHARGE-OFF

While the U. S. permits charging off for plant and equipment over 15- to 20-year periods, other nations allow much faster rates. West Germany allows 10 years, but business firms may charge off 60 per cent in the first two years. Other nations have these schedules:

Great Britain	8
Switzerland	8
France	7
Italy	7
Canada	5
Sweden	5

Suggests U.S. Push Research As A Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala.) today proposed that the United States initiate a dynamic program of international medical research and make it an instrument of foreign policy.

He said such a program would support the World Health Organization.

Hill's address was prepared for a luncheon honoring Dr. Leroy E. Burney, surgeon general of the U. S. Public Health Service, on his election to the presidency of the World Health Assembly. The assembly is the policy making body of the health organization, which operates as a subordinate of the United Nations.

"Here in America," Hill said, "we believe that within a few short years the world will see a momentous breakthrough of medical knowledge that will enable us to overcome many of the dread diseases that have plagued and

Belhaven Plans A 'Glorious 4th'

BELHAVEN — The Annual Fourth of July Celebration in Belhaven promises to be one of the best in years, and visitors are expected from all over eastern North Carolina. One of the outstanding features of the celebration, which is being sponsored by the Belhaven American Legion Post 349, will be the street parade at 11:30 A.M. Taking part in the parade, in addition to many beautiful floats, will be two bands — the 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing Band from Cherry Point and the Washington High School Band; a marching unit of Marines from Camp Lejeune; and the American Legion Drill Team from Draper, N.C.

The day's program will begin with a Water Show, which will include a boat parade and water skiing, at 9:30 A.M. At noon there will be a fish fry at the community center. At 2:30 "Miss Independence" will be chosen from a number of entries in a beauty contest. At 3:00 there will be a baseball game between the Belhaven Town Team and Douglas Crossroads. Fireworks over the Punge are scheduled for 8:00 P.M., and a dance will begin at the Community Center at 9:00. "Miss Independence" will be introduced and given a trophy at the dance.

The swimming area at the Community Center will be open to visitors all day and there will be a lifeguard on duty. Wolfe Amusements will be on the Midway all week.

Among the special guests for day will be Congressman Herbert Bonner.

Colorado Farmers Are Fighting Hopper Plague

KIT CARSON, Colo. (AP)—Determined farmers are hurling borrowed funds—money they hope to repay from future crops—into the battle against grasshoppers.

The discouraging prospect is that, unless the ravenous pest is destroyed within three weeks, the blight next year could be worse. Already it has developed into the greatest hopper plague in eastern Colorado since 1940. A five-year drought in the area was broken last year.

When a man's got land of his own, he doesn't leave," says Emanuel Grauberger, with a tone of despair.

Grauberger, a leathery barley farmer, bought 310 acres northeast of Lamar just three weeks ago. Today it is shorn clean by millions of tiny grasshoppers that almost hid the barren ground itself.

With a tractor Grauberger is trying to beat the insects to death, a hopeless task.

Overhead, hordes of hoppers with newly sprouted wings dart from crop to crop. They have infested an estimated 1 1/2 million acres in 28 counties. They are expected to lay next year's eggs within three weeks.

Nearly a million acres are under critical attack in three southeastern counties—Kiowa, Prowers and Cheyenne. In others the danger is considered much less because much spraying has been done.

The cost of spraying rangeland is being shared equally by farmers, state and federal governments. There is no federal aid for cropland.

It was in Kit Carson County that Colorado's Democratic governor, Steve McNichols decided to push aid for the stricken farmers. He called the Democratic-controlled Colorado Legislature into special session. It set up the state disaster program and set aside 1 1/2 million dollars for spraying.

Some of McNichols' political foes contend that the farmers were warned repeatedly of the coming hoppers and that delay in state help is partly responsible for the emergency.

Nervous Music In Nervous Time

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rock 'n' roll is a nervous sort of music for a nervous time.

So says John M. Ray, president of the Music Teachers Assn. of California.

"It's barbaric, and musically a disgrace, but the times are nervous, and rock 'n' roll is one way for young people to work off their tensions and exuberances," Ray told the association's convention here.

'Tonto' Must Pay $625 To Woman

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jay Silverheels, Tonto in the Lone Ranger TV series, must pay $625 to a woman who sued him for $25,000 after an auto accident.

Mrs. Eileen Kerr said she was a passenger in a car crowded off the road by Silverheels' car in October 1955.

Silverheels denied negligence. The judgment was returned against him by Superior Court.

Due Wednesday To Take Up Salvation Army Duties

Lieutenant and Mrs. William Norris are expected in Greenville Wednesday to assume command of The Salvation Army Corps of the Carolina Division communities.

The Norrises and their two children, Michael, 17, and Joan, 10, are coming to Greenville from a temporary assignment in Gastonia, N.C. They are graduates of The Salvation Army Training College 1958 Class. They entered the Officers' Training program in Atlanta, Ga. after considerable experience in Salvation Army service in Greenwood, S.C.

The post in Gastonia was held after the transfer of Capt. Fred Boyette from the Tar Heel city to the command of the Corps in Little Rock, Arkansas. Capt. Boyette is a native of Goldsboro and for a time headed The Salvation Army program in New Bern before his assignment to Gastonia.

Capt. and Mrs. Lewis participated in their farewell service at The Salvation Army Citadel Sunday evening, with Advisory Board Chairman James W. Butler presiding. Members of the Advisory Board who were present to take part in this farewell service included Mrs. Ruel W. Tyson, Miss Julia Fisher, D.B. Johnston, and H. L. Ormond, Sr. Appreciation for the work of the Lewis was voiced for the Board members by Johnston, Ormond and Butler. A Paul Revere silver bowl was presented Capt. and Mrs. Lewis as a gift from the board members.

Army Shows Its Nike Hercules

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—The Army today resumed its attempts to lay a claim, with the Air Force and Navy, for a place in the sky.

Attending the Army's Operation Ammo show of Army weapons are the nation's top military leaders, NATO representatives and heads of this country's main missile building companies.

None of the rockets are new. But today's show included the first public showing of the Nike Hercules—the stepped-up anti-aircraft missile.

The Nike Hercules, soon to supplement the Nike Ajax installations around major cities, can wipe out a fleet of enemy bombers or missiles with its hydrogen warhead. The Nike Ajax can get only one.

Lt. Gen. C. E. Hart, commanding general of the Army Air Defense Command and one of 75 general officers on hand, disclosed the imminent placing of the beefed-up weapon in an interview. He declined to fix a specific date. He said that use of the new weapon in Europe would be "strictly up to the NATO nations involved."

The Hercules will be added to every Nike battery to give the Army a Sunday punch for use in any saturation attacks.

Right Answer By Young Supporter

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A youthful supporter of gubernatorial candidate Jim Rinehart had the right answer when charged with putting campaign signs on utility poles.

Asked if he had a police record, the youth declared:

"No sir. I'm just like Jim Rinehart. I haven't a blemish on my record."

Case dismissed.

Wants More Pay For An Old Job

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Director William Wyler is asking more money for his work on "The Best Years of Our Lives" — a movie now 11 years old.

Wyler filed suit yesterday seeking $408,356 from producer Sam Goldwyn and asking for an accounting of the profits of the picture, of which he is supposed to get 20 per cent.

Goldwyn, apprised of the action, said Wyler already had received $1,400,000.

Armless Judge Is In Congress Race

DADE CITY, Fla. (AP)—A. J. Hayward Jr., 37-year-old armless judge of Pasco County, has announced as a Democratic candidate for Congress. He seeks the seat now held by Rep. William C. Cramer, Republican from St. Petersburg.

The judge, born without arms, was cited in 1952 by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults for achieving success despite a handicap.

DeGaulle Back To Algerian Trouble

By DAVID MASON

ALGIERS (AP) — Premier de Gaulle returned to Algeria today for his second visit in less than a month, facing the possibility of a showdown with French settlers who are angered because he has not pushed the policies they want. A meeting with the leading critics of his government was postponed, however, as De Gaulle saved Algiers for the last stop on his tour. He landed at Telerghma, 30 miles west of Constantine in eastern Algeria.

He is to fly to Oran, in west Algeria, and then visit the French Foreign Legion headquarters before coming on to Algiers. At almost the same time his airplane was landing at Telerghma, a nationalist terrorist threw a grenade in downtown Algiers. A dozen persons were wounded.

Once more in his wartime uniform, De Gaulle was met at the airport by a host of military officers. At their head was Gen. Raoul Salan, the military commander in chief in Algeria who also has been running the government since the colonists' May 13 ouster of the Paris-appointed civilian regime.

De Gaulle took a small military plane for a hedgehopping tour of posts along the Tunisian border, across which comes much of the equipment used by the Moslem rebels fighting for independence from France.

It is in east Algeria that the heaviest fighting with rebel units has taken place throughout the four-year-old nationalist rebellion. The rebels have kept up the pace of the rebellion despite De Gaulle's peace overtures.

De Gaulle came last, on June 4, as a conquering hero cheered wildly by the settlers and soldiers whose defiance of the Paris government had recalled him to power.

Then disenchantment set in. The military-civilian Plerghma Safety Committees formed after the May 13 insurrection complained de Gaulle had failed to wipe out the influence of the center and left-wing parties who have ruled postwar France.

Although the general proclaimed that "Algeria is French," he showed no sign of being caught up in the settlers' movement to integrate Algeria as a province of metropolitan France. That would submerge the nine million Algerian Moslems among the 43 million Frenchmen on both sides of the Mediterranean.

De Gaulle, who claims he had no part in the conspiracy that resulted in the May 13 rebellion, has acted as, though he owes Algeria's right-wing settlers no political debts. None of them has been rewarded with a key post in his Cabinet. He has told the Public Safety committees they have no governmental role in Algeria.

As the date of the Premier's second trip approached, the committees suppressed their grumbling. But the war veteran groups who took major roles in the May defiance of Paris sounded their discontent loud and clear.

They asserted their "revolution must be fully achieved — it must grow from a regional to a national movement or else it will remain dangerously incomplete."

The implication was that another May 13 could be organized, this time against De Gaulle, if the Premier does not clean house in Paris and tie Algeria closer to metropolitan France.

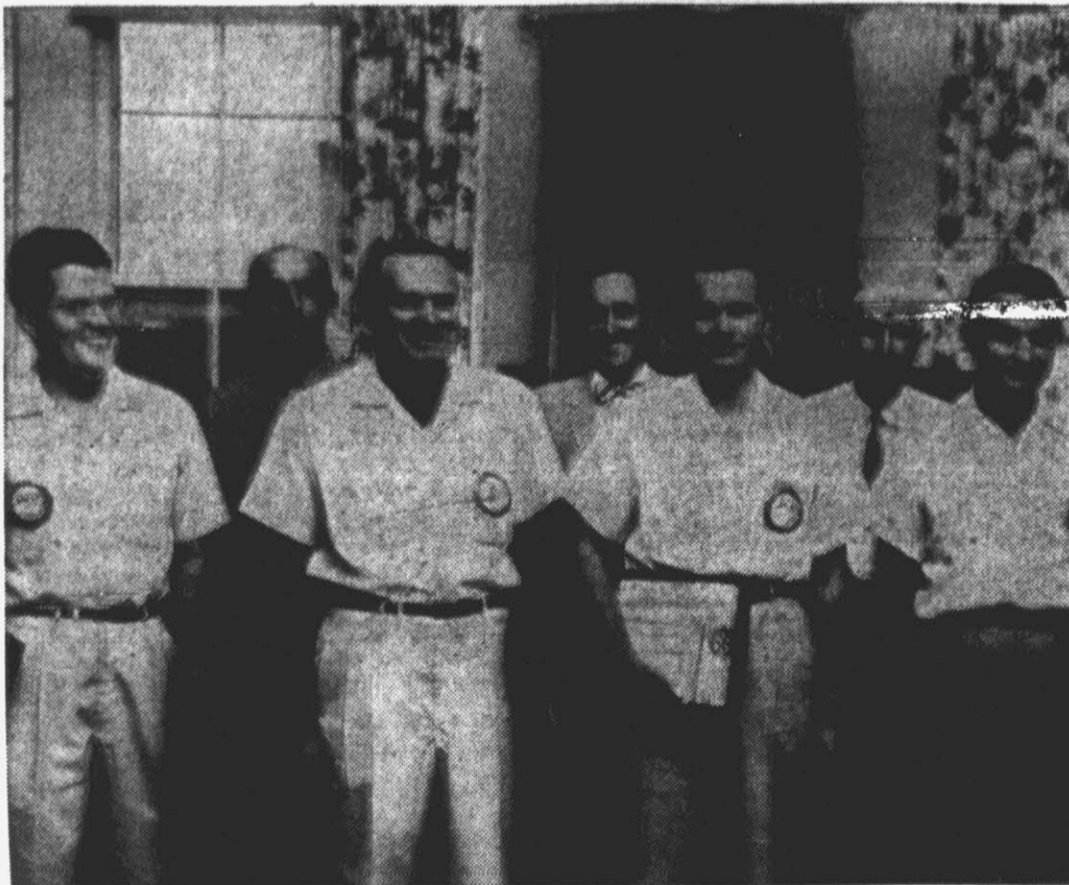

There was no indication, however, that the general had any intention of knuckling under to the Algerian French. Instead, he was bringing with him to Algiers former Premier Guy Mollet, now a deputy premier in his Cabinet and a Socialist politician particularly hated by the Algerian right-wingers.

The last time Mollet visited Algeria two years ago he got a barrage of tomatoes and manure from French veterans who feared he was going to give Algeria to the Moslem rebels.

De Gaulle's tour this time was described officially as a military inspection, taking him deep into areas where the Moslem rebels have been particularly active. He returns to Paris Thursday.

Oklahoma Picks Nominees Today

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma voters were choosing their party nominees for governor and other state and congressional offices today in a general primary election sparked by the first real fight over prohibition in years.

Five of the 11 Democratic candidates are considered strong enough to make it into the July 22 runoff election which will be held in those races where no candidate gets more than half the votes tomorrow. Only the top two in each race meet in the runoff.

Two of the four Republican candidates — Phil Ferguson, a rancher and an advocate of repeal of prohibition, and C. E. Barnes, an attorney who has urged a moderate approach to the issue—are considered the leading GOP hopefuls.

Two Democrats—Bill Doenges, Methodist lay leader and former Democratic national committee man, and contractor W. A. Bill Atkinson are considered drys.

State Sen. George Miskovsky of Oklahoma City has made a strong showing on a platform of repeal of prohibition, which has been in the state constitution since statehood in 1907.

Tulsa County Atty. J. Howard Edmondson promises strict enforcement of prohibition and a special election on repeal in 90 days.

William O. Coe, Oklahoma City attorney, has remained quiet on prohibition in his fourth bid for the nomination.

All six congressmen seek re-nomination but only one has a hard fight. Rep. Toby Morris (D-Okla) is being challenged by former Congressman Victor Wickersham, whom he defeated in the primary two years ago.

Guidance Program Said Of Growing Importance

Guidance programs in both human relations and vocations are of utmost importance to high school students today, Dr. Frank Fuller of the East Carolina College education department told Greenville Rotarians last night.

Dr. Fuller asserted that guidance programs in human relations on a practical high school level enables the student to better understand others by gaining a better understanding of himself. He pointed out that some counties in this area are undertaking such programs in their school systems in an effort to better equip their students.

The speaker also asserted there is a need of better understanding of the children in a home and also a need for guidance in human relations in the home. "Woodshed psychology is not always the answer to every situation," Dr. Fuller said. "Sometimes it is the worse thing that can be done to a child."

Turning to vocational guidance, the speaker said the problem is of particular importance to high school students. Surveys, he said, indicate that only a small percentage of college freshmen have made up their minds what sort of occupation they want to pursue in life. He added that a large number of people today are not happy in thing they can about their children and seek to guide them into a vocation which is suitable to the child.

Boarding Homes Face Deadline On Safety Laws

RALEIGH (AP) — Today is the final day for operators of licensed boarding homes for the aged over North Carolina to meet fire hazard regulations.

Dr. Ellen Winston, state commissioner of public welfare, in announcing the deadline, said that she understood a few homes would cease operations because they failed to meet new safety regulations.

However, in her announcement yesterday, Dr. Winston said an even greater number of the homes have built or are in the process of building homes measuring up to the new safety standards.

After today licenses will not be granted to boarding homes for the aged unless they meet building code standards for institutional buildings. Also, two-story frame buildings will be licensed for the care of fully ambulatory persons only, and all of them must be quartered on the first floor.

"The State Board of Public Welfare is deeply concerned over the hazards to older people inherent in homes which cannot meet licensing standards," Dr. Winston emphasized.

Licensing is not mandatory for homes which do not care for persons receiving public welfare funds, and the state has 101 unlicensed homes, Dr. Winston said.

There are 352 licensed homes for the aged in the state, Dr. Winston reported that 305 of the number now meet institutional building code requirements. Another 34 frame construction homes will be allowed to house ambulatory persons on their first floor only, while 13 others of non-frame construction which do not meet requirements will be allowed to keep ambulatory persons on both first and second floors.

Ten Survival Tips For Hurricane-Time Listed

ATLANTA — The American Red Cross today issued 10 safety tips for those persons who may find themselves in the paths of hurricanes during the coming months.

The next four months — from July to October — are the worst for hurricanes and there are certain steps the residents of the states along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts can take to minimize the loss of life and property.

The 10 steps are:

1. Read newspapers and listen to radios for official Weather Bureau hurricane reports.
2. Store garden furniture, tools, awnings, garbage and rubbish cans, and other loose objects in a safe place. Such items could become lethal weapons in a storm.
3. Board up windows and put storm shutters in place.
4. If you are told to evacuate, don't delay. Just get out and follow instructions—a minute could save your life.
5. Don't run the risk of being marooned. Get away and stay away from low-lying land, beaches or other places likely to be swept by high winds and tides.
6. Don't go outside during the storm. Stay indoors, preferably in a brick or concrete building.
7. Stay away from windows.
8. If the center or "eye" of the storm passes directly overhead, there will be a deceptive lull, lasting for as long as 30 minutes. Stay where you are during this calm period. The wind will return from the opposite direction—perhaps with greater force.
9. Fill bathtub, bottles and cooking utensils with water. Keep extra food (which does not require cooking) handy. Be sure to have a flashlight or candles handy to use in the event of power failure.
10. Don't touch fallen wires. Report such damage to police or power companies.

Young Trujillo Is Eying Bardot

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The roving eye of Gen. Raphael Trujillo Jr. has lighted on Brigitte Bardot. This reporter recently chatted with the French actress on a French movie set. A photographer, upon whose lap she was sitting at the time, disclosed that Trujillo had just phoned from America asking him to take all the pictures he could of her.

Today a spokesman for the Dominican general confirmed that Trujillo had made such an order. "But at the moment," he said, "the general is only interested in Miss Bardot artistically. What other interests can one have from 5,000 miles away?"

The spokesman declined comment on whether the handsome son of the Dominican Republic strongman may shift interest from actress Kim Novak to Brigitte.

Trujillo, on a local television show, publicly expressed his love for Miss Novak. But that was some months ago. She, in New York, is a long way off too. Miss Bardot, said this of the 29-year-old father of six—"He looks very pretty."

And would she accept a gift of, say, a big diamond? "Mais oui," she answered. "It is a true one."

CHURCH PROJECT

LAKE JUNALUSKA, F.C. (AP)—World Methodists soon will be compiling an encyclopedia of Methodism. The project is expected to take several years. Dr. Elmer T. Clark of Lake Junaluska, executive secretary of the Assn. of Methodist Historical Societies, has announced he will direct the project in its early stages.

Sisters Protect 'Unwanted Baby'

SUN VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—"We are taking Baby Mike away. We won't let you give him away."

Two teen-age girls left this note with their parents Sunday and disappeared, taking with them the 20-month-old brother they thought their parents no longer wanted.

Yesterday a patrolman found Sandra Hill, 16, and her sister Genevieve, 13, asleep under a tree in a Burbank park, about five miles from their home. In their arms was Mike.

The officer recognized them from their mother's missing persons report. At Burbank police station Sandra explained to a policeman: "We had to leave and take Baby Mike with us. Mama and Daddy were going to adopt him out."

Police went to the Hills' home in Sun Valley and found out why the parents had talked of putting the baby up for adoption.

"I can't see any other answer," said Lytle Hill, 44, a carpenter.

"I can't get a job. Counting Mike, we have eight kids—and we live in a house that was made for no more than two people."

Rent on the one-bedroom home is due again Thursday. The current week's rent was paid by the Bureau of Public Assistance. But the bureau says it can't give the Hills relief payments because Mrs. Hill and the children only recently arrived in the area from Toledo, Ohio.

"I had to split the family up back there and farm out the kids," Mrs. Hill said. "We didn't want to do that again, and we thought we'd let just the baby go."

The three grimy, weary children went home in a police car. The girls said they had spent the night in an all-night movie and trudged through the hills, taking turns carrying their brother.

"I don't care now," Mrs. Hill declared. "We'll keep him." She told a juvenile officer: "We could make out all right if my husband and I had jobs. We're willing to work."

But Hill has other strikes against him. He is on parole from San Quentin Prison, where he served time for the theft of an outboard motor. And he has been in ill health lately.

He shook his head sadly. "It can't be done," he said. "The boy has got to go."

"Dancing the beans" — polishing cocoa beans by treading them under foot — is a popular chore for Trinidad's field workers in the West Indies. They sing and joke while dancing on the beans.

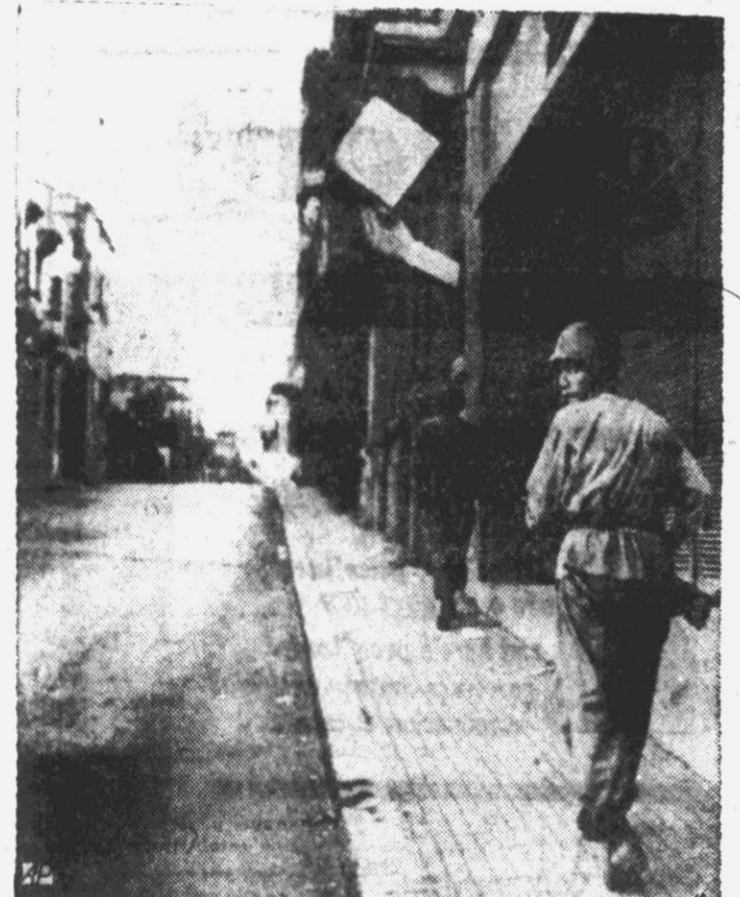

The Fat Man Is Doctors' Friend

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The old bromide that "everybody loves a fat man" may be true, but the physician should love him best.

These words about the bulky set were sounded to the State Pharmaceutical Convention by John F. Bester, a University of Southern California professor.

Bester said a definite ratio exists between obesity and illness. He added there was only one way to reduce: "By decreasing food intake—in other words, eat less."

The first laboratory for instruction in shaped diamond tool technology was established at Illinois Institute of Technology in 1956.

CHAPTER 12

To Slade Conidine, most of Mrs. Kilgore's Walking K range was new. It seemed a crazy country, criss-crossed as it was with countless scrub oak-covered ridges that fanned out in all directions without any established pattern like that of his Uncle Nick's higher 143 range.

He had not ridden long before he was aware, by that sixth sense most outdoorsmen have, that someone was behind him. Rachel Kilgore, of course, had a perfect right to send someone after him to keep an eye on him, but the idea of being stealthily followed and spied on was somehow unpleasant.

As he came up on to the rim of a tall, bald-topped, rocky ridge, he suddenly put the spurs to the little sorrel and sent him down the hillside at a sliding, pebble-loosening run.

Under cover of a thick patch of scrub oak he pulled up and dismounted so that his head would not be above the tops of the brush. He had a good ten minutes to wait before the rider came into the open. Slade watched the man stop and lean far sideways, scanning the rocky ground for tracks. Then he led the little sorrel out of the scrub oak, and stepped into his saddle again.

The man on the ridge top saw him, seemed to hesitate for a second as if trying to make up his mind what to do. Then he threw up an arm and waved.

As the men rode to meet each other, Slade saw to his surprise that it was Pat Guajardo from Wynn Thomason's T Anchor instead of one of the Walking K hands.

"Hello, Slade!" the slim Mexican vaquero called as soon as he was within hailing distance. "What you doin' here? Gettin' ready to butcher your some bull meat to sell to the poor gente in Barrancas?"

Slade grinned. "Just riding," he said.

"Me, I'm lookin' for a white-face bull," Pat explained. "Ain't seen one, have you?"

Slade shook his head.

Pat shrugged, and shoved his hat back off his narrow brown forehead. "The ol' lady sent Wynn word yesterday that one of our bulls was over here on her place a-lyin' her longhorns, an' I please come get 'em."

It was a reasonable enough explanation, but Slade didn't for a minute believe it. Pat certainly hadn't been following a bull track when he topped the ridge.

"As long as we seem to be riding the same way, Pat, we might as well ride together," he suggested, and was a little surprised when the little vaquero nodded quick agreement.

Pat Guajardo was a help. He seemed to know the Kilgore range as well as he should have known Wynn Thomason's T Anchor. By mid-afternoon they had covered a lot of ground and Slade had learned two things. The first was that the Kilgore cattle, including most of her bulls, were now being kept on their own range. The second, Pat Guajardo noticed and mentioned. He pointed to half a dozen steers grazing in a grassy vega.

"The ol' lady's sure cut her herd in two in the last year. She's got three times as much grass as she needs now." He slid his roughish black eyes around to Slade. "The Forest Service, she got some kind of ruling about that—no? They take some of this grass away from her if she don't use it—no?"

Slade was sorry now that Pat was with him. There was such a Forest Service ruling, and if Wynn Thomason wanted to sit up a new batch of trouble, it would be easy to do. Wynn was supposed to hate the Forest Service, but Slade felt sure if he saw a chance to grab a new slice of range for himself he could change sides mighty quick.

He saw Pat was waiting for an answer to his question. He shrugged. "Maybe. Maybe not," he said noncommittally. He reined the little sorrel about. "I think I'll ride on down to Frenchy's now. Pat, I rode off without bringin' lunch this morning and I'm getting hungry. You coming, too, or are you going to hunt some more for your bull?"

Pat shrugged. "I come, too. I think maybe the old lady she lyin' about that bull anyhow."

Slade was puzzled and suspicious. Pat hadn't been riding with him today just for fun nor to hunt any white-faced bull either. But whatever Pat had up his sleeve, his job seemed to be done as soon as they got off the Kilgore land.

With a flashing, white-toothed smile and a vague excuse of having to hurry home, he turned off on a short-cut trail to the T Anchor.

Slade had not ridden far before something else drove the strange behavior of Pat Guajardo completely out of his mind. He was about two miles from Frenchy's cabin when he first noticed the two ravens circling over the next little ridge. At first he was interested but not suspicious. The way the birds were acting was almost a sure sign that there was a kill somewhere in that next little cove.

But when, a half-mile farther down, he saw a big splotch of blood on a rock beside the trail, he reined the sorrel up to look at it. It had been spilled there this morning, for it was still bright red in color. There was only one fresh track going down the trail, made by an iron hogshoe. There was only one horse that Slade could think of with a hoof that big: Frenchy Quebedeaux's away-backed bay!

The circling, swooping birds and a plentiful trickle of blood spots led him straight back to the kill. There wasn't much left. Slade didn't bother to get off to look at it. He swung the sorrel around again and touched him with the spurs.

The big-footed bay was in the corral when he got down to Frenchy's place. His back was dry but there were fresh sweat stains on him, and when the cowboy went into the barn he found the Frenchman's saddle blanket still damp.

Frenchy himself was nowhere in sight and the whole place had a deserted, mid-day look about it. Slade started for the house, then paused as from the little vega a half-mile or so east of the cabin came the sound of the collic's sudden barking and the frightened bleating of the sheep. The next instant Frenchy added an assortment of yells and French curses.

To Slade it sounded as if one of the Kilgore bulls was paying a return visit.

When he went inside, the cabin was cold with the slightly stale smell of a house that has been shut up tight with the odor of fried bacon and pancakes still in it. The stove and even the teakettle were stone cold as if Frenchy had not been inside since early morning.

The key was still in the door that led to the little room behind. Slade had a momentary feeling of disgust for the things this new job of his seemed to require that he do.

Last night he had been completely convinced that Frenchy was

Summer Snaps . . . Get Them While It's Hot

Lots of folks who drop by our store are really interested in making good summertime pictures. Here's some of the questions and the answers traded over our counter:

There's a swarm of bees in our backyard. Can I get ultra-close-up snaps of their activities with a 35mm camera?

Technically, yes. A Kodak Porta Attachment over the lens will let you take close-ups from just inches away. Personally, I'd recommend a milder subject—but if you go ahead be sure to keep some baking soda handy in case the bees snap back.

The pictures on my last roll of film looked misty. I followed the instructions that came with the film. Is something wrong with my lens?

It's probably dirty. Try removing dust and moisture with Kodak Lens Cleaning Tissue. If that doesn't shine up your snapshots, bring the camera to us for a quick check-up.

How can I make the clouds stand out in black-and-white snapshots?

That's easy. Use a filter. A yellow cloud filter will make the clouds in your scenes look like froth on an ice cream soda. We have them (filters, that is) to fit most cameras.

How can I get speedy processing of the film we'll snap on a vacation trip next month?

Mail your rolls to our store—your prints will be ready when you return. As for you . . . drive slowly. Leave the fast work to us!

College Viewers Win In Wild Teen-er Loop Game Locals Begin Play Today In Jaycees State Golf Tournament

Game Protested By Home Builders

Last night was a wild one at Guy Smith Stadium for Teen-er League players and fans. The College View Cleaners blasted Home Builders 12-0, three homers were smashed, a player and a manager were ejected from the game for arguing with an umpire, and the game was called to a halt before it was over.

Coach Sonny James' College View club overcame a scoreless first inning to come back with five runs in the second, five more in the fourth and two more in the fifth to wallop the Home Builders 12-0, behind the hurling of Kenny Joyner.

Three of James' players, Billy Stocks, Jimmy Jenkins, and Rick Sauve, teed off for ringing homers to account for several of the opponents to only four hits.

Ed Smoot did the pitching for the Home Builders and was clubbed for nine baseknocks. Ward and Starling also did brief mound jobs for the losers.

Going into the seventh inning, Home Builders made their first serious threat. Behind by 12-0, they managed to place runners on second and third. There were two outs.

The next batter up punched a ball down the third base line that hit foul and was scooped up by College View third baseman James Moyer who did not make a play. The umpire ruled the ball foul as soon as the third baseman stopped it.

Home Builder Manager Terry Nobles protested the decision and was joined in the argument with the umpire by Home Builders player Ed Smith and his catcher. Both Nobles and his catcher were ejected from the game. It is reported by a league official that the umpire then called off the game due to a remark by Nobles to the effect that his team would not finish the game.

Getting hits for the College View club were Stocks, Chappy Bradner, Joe Harper, Sauve, Joyner, Denny Tardee, and Jenkins. Leo Starling got two of Home Builders' four hits, with Larry Roberts and Ed Smoot getting the other two.

Joyner racked up the pitching victory by fanning seven batters, walking four and limiting the HB team to four singles. Home Builders 000 000 0-0 4 4 College View 050 520 x-12 9 2

Coach Sonny James' College View club overcame a scoreless first inning to come back with five runs in the second, five more in the fourth and two more in the fifth to wallop the Home Builders 12-0, behind the hurling of Kenny Joyner.

Three of James' players, Billy Stocks, Jimmy Jenkins, and Rick Sauve, teed off for ringing homers to account for several of the opponents to only four hits.

Ed Smoot did the pitching for the Home Builders and was clubbed for nine baseknocks. Ward and Starling also did brief mound jobs for the losers.

Going into the seventh inning, Home Builders made their first serious threat. Behind by 12-0, they managed to place runners on second and third. There were two outs.

The next batter up punched a ball down the third base line that hit foul and was scooped up by College View third baseman James Moyer who did not make a play. The umpire ruled the ball foul as soon as the third baseman stopped it.

Home Builder Manager Terry Nobles protested the decision and was joined in the argument with the umpire by Home Builders player Ed Smith and his catcher. Both Nobles and his catcher were ejected from the game. It is reported by a league official that the umpire then called off the game due to a remark by Nobles to the effect that his team would not finish the game.

Getting hits for the College View club were Stocks, Chappy Bradner, Joe Harper, Sauve, Joyner,

Managers Doing Slow Burn Over Curfew Law

CHICAGO (AP)—At least two major league managers are doing a slow burn over Pennsylvania's Sunday blue law, which halts games at 7 p.m., but National League President Warren Giles takes a philosophical view.

"We've lived with it for years," said Giles, "and we'll live with it some more."

The St. Louis, San Francisco and Cincinnati teams have a suspended game apiece to make up as a result of the curfew on Sunday play after 7 p.m. with the Philadelphia Phillies. Their doubleheaders were cut short during June.

The three clubs are locked in a first-division race behind leading Milwaukee.

"It looks like we're certainly getting into a situation," stormed Manager Bill Rigney of the San Francisco Giants. His pique was echoed by Fred Hutchinson, boss of the Cards.

"It's a silly law," Hutchinson snapped. "It's wrong to start something and not finish it."

Hutchinson's view is not endorsed by Giles.

"We could throw out the suspended game rule and call the game completed," Giles told the Associated Press last night. "but I'm not in favor of that. I don't contemplate any changes."

The league rules provide that a suspended game be completed, if possible, before the two teams meet again. The game is resumed from the exact situation in which it ended.

Heavyweights In Charlotte Bout

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Hometown heavyweight Waban Thomas takes on Ollie Wilson of Hartford, Conn., in a 10-rounder here tonight.

While both weigh 195 pounds, the 25-year-old Wilson has the height-reach advantage.

Thomas, 29, lost to Pittsburgh's Art Swiden and Birmingham's Oscar Pharo in recent bouts.

Riverdale Club Takes Lead In Negro League

Table with columns: Riverdale, Braves, Sportsmen, Aces.

After little more than a week of play, the Negro Softball League has moved into a definite shape, so far as statistics are concerned, with the Riverdale club way in front with a 3-0 record.

Games this week are as follows: July 1—Riverdale vs. Braves; July 2—Riverdale vs. Sportsmen; July 3—Aces vs. Braves; July 4—Sportsmen vs. Braves.

All games are played at the South Greenville park at night. Games begin immediately following the Coastal Little League contests finish. The Little League tilts begin at 7:00.

No admission is charged.

VFW Upsets Lions By 4-2 Score In Little League

The North State Little League was rocked by another upset yesterday afternoon when the VFW rolled over the Lions 4-2 at Elm Street Park.

For the Lions, it was their third loss of the second half. Surprisingly enough, the Lions rolled over first-half competition with an 8-1 record to cop that first-half title. Since that time, they have been trounced by all three teams in the league.

Yesterday, their third consecutive loss moved them even further down the scale in the standings. They dropped from second to third position behind the VFW. The Jaycees hold a grip on the lead spot with a 3-1 record, just a shade better than the VFW's 3-2.

The bottom-place Kiwanis club has also defeated the Lions during second half play, but their 1-3 mark isn't good enough to pull them out of that cellar spot.

Johnston hurled the victory yesterday for the VFW, limiting the losing club to only three hits. He fanned 14 of 22 batters who faced him. He walked only three. The loser was Robbie Powell. He also pitched three-hit ball. He fanned 10, walked four.

Leading hitters for the winners were Blalock, Christopher and Johnston. Hitting for the Lions were Gilliam and Whitehurst.

Don't Let The Fancy Pants Fool You

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—this is the age of smash and grab tennis.

Don't let anyone try to convince you those dainty little shots, delicate little touches and text book styles are going to pay dividends.

You can divide the court up with geometrical precision and carry a picture of every inch of it in your head, but unless you can knock the cover off the ball and send the other man's racket spinning, you won't get near winning a Wimbledon singles title.

Some of the best tennis in this Wimbledon has come from a trio of old-timers—Budge Patty, Jaroslav Drobny, and Gardner Mulloy. They can all hit that ball pretty hard when they want to and they are not afraid of giving it a gentle stroke once in a while.

But now the old-timers aren't around any more. The modern youngsters with their serve and smash game have pushed them out and the 1958 Wimbledon crown is going to be worn either by one of a quartet of poker-faced Australians, a towering American with a mule-kick service, a couple of brawny Scandinavians, or a lonely Briton, the surprising Bobby Wilson.

The quarter-finalists are Ashley Cooper, Mal Anderson, Neel Fraser and Mervyn Rose from Australia; Sven Davidson from Sweden; Denmark's Kurt Nielsen, and Barry MacKay, the Dayton, Ohio, giant who is the lone bearer of the U. S. standard. MacKay defeated India's Ramanathan Krishnam yesterday, 6-3, 11-9, 2-2.

Spahn, Musial Showing How To Shake Slumps

By ED WILKS AP Sports Writer

Warner Spahn and Stan Musial, Mr. Pitcher and Mr. Hitter in the National League, have shown the kids how to do just about everything else, so now they're giving lessons in how to shake slumps.

Spahn, like Musial a light-hearted 37, suddenly got to throwing sopher balls after winning eight of his first nine decisions and just as suddenly lost three in a row.

Stan the Man, a near unanimous All-Star Game selection, was flirting with a .500-plus average until three weeks ago, then sagged into a 4-for-38 slump that averages out to .105.

Now they're back in business. Spahn became the first pitcher to win 10 in the NL this season, winning his second in a row for the league-leading Milwaukee Braves with a six-hitter that fanned his favorite victims, the Cincinnati Redlegs, 9-2, last night. Musial was 2-for-3, driving in two runs with his 13th homer and a double, as the second-place St. Louis Cardinals stayed within 2 1/2 games of Milwaukee with a 4-2 victory over Los Angeles in the only other game scheduled in the NL.

In the American League, Detroit defeated Kansas City 7-6, and Cleveland beat the Chicago White Sox 5-3.

Spahn, who had given up 12 home runs in his last four games, kept the Redlegs inside the park at Milwaukee, walking one and allowing only one earned run while the Braves bunched 10 of their dozen hits in a four-run fourth and a five-run fifth. Del Crandall drove in three runs with a single and a double.

Right-hander Bob Purkey (8-5) suffered his fourth consecutive defeat.

Musial, batting .362 in his last nine games and now .363 for the year behind the .369 posted by Willie Mays of San Francisco, hit his 394th homer in a two-run Cardinal first that chased rookie Bob Giallombardo in his first major league decision. A walk, stolen base and an error gave the Cards the payoff run in the third and Musial then socked in the cushion run in the fifth. Winner Lindy McDaniel (5-7) gave only seven hits.

NBA Tabs Akins 'Boxer Of Month'

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The National Boxing Assn. today chose welterweight champion Virgil Akins as its boxer of the month for July.

The power-punching St. Louis fighter won the nod by stopping Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., on June 6 to take the vacated welterweight title.

The NBA's latest ratings pegged Martinez as the second leading contender for Akins' newly won crown behind Cuba's Isaac Lora.

54-Hole Tournament Began This Morning

HENDERSONVILLE — After a state of full entertainment and several rounds of practice, five Greenville golfers—all under 18—joined with the best linkers in the state in the Jaycee State Junior Golf Tournament here today. The tournament brings together the outstanding young golfers of North Carolina in teams of four to battle for team and individual honors and the right to take part in the National Jaycee tourney in August. The cities and towns represented placed four-man teams in the big tournament.

Greenville sent five golfers and the team was to be chosen by the five boys themselves, today, after Monday's workouts. The five boys are Bobby Thomas, Dallas Clark, Dick Evans, Lucian Bryan, and Buddy Murray.

The tournament has been set up so that there will be ratings for teams and individuals. The teams will represent all sections of the state and some of the state's leading stars will participate. The top individual players—as decided by their scores—will be named together to represent North Carolina in the National Tournament.

The five boys from Greenville earned their opportunity to represent their city in a qualifying tournament there last week.

Today's opening of the 54-hole affair will feature 36 holes of play. The final 18 will be played tomorrow. The tournament is a medal play event.

Perhaps the most well-known youngster in the Greenville group will be Bobby Thomas, son of Greenville Pro Harold Thomas; Bobby copped the Eastern Carolina Golf Association top honors last month, whipping such outstanding Tar Heel stars as Rocky Mount's Ed Just and Kinston's Larry Beck. The other players on the Green club are long-time golfers despite their early years, and most of them have been regulars on Coach Bo Farley's Rose High School links team.

The tournament will be conducted by flights today with players placed according to their qualifying scores.

Referee Al Berl and Judge Nick Gamboli each had Lynch ahead 5-4-1, while Judge Harold Barnes scored it 6-3-1.

DiBaise, who is 21 and a geology student at New York University when he isn't fighting, was crestfallen at the decision.

"I thought I had it all the way," he complained.

Giambra Won Prestige On Unpopular Decision

Hi-Toms Gained A Point Monday

High Point-Thomasville gained a fraction last night in its neck-and-neck race with Danville for Carolina League mid-season honors.

The Hi-Toms split a double-header with Durham to hold a slim first place lead. After the Hi-Toms took the opener 2-0, Durham rushed back with a revengeful 6-0 decision in the nightcap.

Meanwhile, Winston-Salem defeated second place Danville 5-5 in a lengthy scoring duel. Wilson relied on Al Barff's fine relief pitching to edge Burlington, 4-4. Raleigh snapped a five-game win streak for Greensboro with a 2-1 victory in the first game of a twin bill. The Yanks stormed back for a 15-1 triumph in the finale, handing the Caps their worst defeat of the season.

Jack Swift held Durham to four hits in as many innings for the first game win for the Hi-Toms. The sixth-place Bulls sent Howie Koplitz to the mound in the second game. He pitched a neat one-hitter while Durham batters garnered 14 hits off two Hi-Toms twirlers.

Danville took a 3-1 lead with three unearned runs in the third, but Winston-Salem counted four runs in their half of the frame to go out front again. Barff came on for the Tobs in the third inning, after Burlington had moved ahead 3-0. Three runs for Wilson in the fifth tied the score and another in the seventh sealed it.

Games tonight: Danville at Winston-Salem, Greensboro at Raleigh, Hi-Toms at Durham and Wilson at Burlington.

Congress Still Working On Sports Bill

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress may yet decide this summer whether to give pro football, basketball and hockey some of baseball's freedom from the antitrust laws.

The Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee has decided to open hearings on the legal status of sports soon, probably July 8 or 9. Subcommittee Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said there was no move in a closed meeting to kill a sports bill passed by the House.

"It was the sense of the subcommittee that we go into this with an open mind to get all the facts and problems," Kefauver said.

Opponents of the House bill have hoped the Senate would put it aside this year. That would mean the House and Senate, now ending the 85th Congress, would have to start all over again next year.

Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-NY) said last week he would fight the House measure to the limit. Celler heads the House Antitrust subcommittee. He pushed a bill to give antitrust exemptions only to practices found "reasonably necessary" to the sports.

The house turned this one down for a bill by Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) and supported by

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Middleweight Joey Giambra won a financial gamble and recaptured some boxing prestige last night on the slim margin of an unpopular split decision over Joey Giardello.

The loser from Rosedale, N.Y., complained he lost his first bout in two years on a home town decision. Giardello is the No. 2 contender.

Giambra, now looking forward to some bigger paydays, collected $3,710 for his 10 rounds at the Cow Palace. Giardello, who outweighed his foe 160 pounds to 156½, came out loser but picked up $10,000.

Cow Palace. Giardello, who outweighed his foe 160 pounds to 156½, came out loser but picked up $10,000.

The $10,000 was a flat guarantee while the former was figured on a percentage of the net gate of $22,850.59 — the gamble Giambra took to get the bout.

Boos greeted the announcement that Referee Jack Downey and Judge Jack Silver scored the bout for Giambra while Judge Eddie James saw Giardello well ahead.

A check of newsmen indicated support for Giardello with six picking him the winner; three including the Associated Press, scoring a draw, and one favoring Giambra.

Downey scored 96-94, Silver 97-95 and James, the dissenter, going for the New York, 99-94.

Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY), senior Republican on the House subcommittee. This bill would flatly exempt such practices as player drafts, contract options, trades, territorial rights and self-regulation of TV-radio broadcasts.

Ticket sales, concessions and other commercial activities would be governed by antitrust laws. Baseball is now wholly exempt, as the result of Supreme Court decisions. But the court has held that pro football is wholly covered and implied that no other sport may enjoy baseball's immunity.

Donovan's Luck Isn't So Good

By ED WILKS AP Sports Writer

Luck of the Irish? Don't try peddling that line to Dick Donovan, who a year ago was the right-handed ace of the Chicago White Sox and now is the last to get started on their late-starting staff.

The big guy, who lost only six all last season while winning 16 (no one topped his .727 winning percentage among American League regulars), now is 3-8—one loss shy of his worst season, as far as defeats are concerned. He was 12-10 in '56.

He took it on the chin again last night, losing 5-3 to the Cleveland Indians.

The Detroit Tigers, with the help of three unearned runs, two in the ninth, defeated Kansas City in the only other AL game scheduled.

In the National League, Milwaukee defeated Cincinnati 9-2, but second-place St. Louis stayed 2½ games behind the Braves by beating Los Angeles 4-2.

Donovan, 30, gave up all the Indians' seven hits and runs in his 6 1-3 innings and lost his second in a row since blanking Baltimore 4-0 June 15.

Minnie Minoso, late of the Sox, belted his 12th home run to open a two-run second after Jim Landis' ninth home run had given Chicago a 1-0 edge. Mickey Vernon drove in two Cleveland runs with a single and double.

Cal McLish (4-5) checked the Sox on five hits, giving way to reliever Hoyt Wilhelm when doubles by pinch hitter Earl Torgerson and Billy Goodman counted the other Sox runs in the eighth.

The Tigers, who blew two leads, scored three runs in the ninth, after Bob Cerv's solo 20th homer gave the A's a 6-4 edge. Harvey Kuenn, hitless in five at-bats, caused all the fuss with the bases loaded and one out.

Kuenn rapped what looked like a double-play ball to third baseman Preston Ward, but two runs scored when he pegged it into right field, and the winning run came home when Roger Maris got off a bum throw after retrieving the ball. Reliever Tom Gorman (1-3) was the loser, while Billy Hoelt (7-8) picked up the decision in relief.

Yesterday's Stars

PITCHING — Warren Spahn, Braves, became first to win 10 in the National League, walking only one while beating the Redlegs 9-2 with a six-hitter.

HITTING — Stan Musial, Cardinals, drove in two runs with his 13th home run and a double in 4-2 victory over the Dodgers.

National FBLA President To Preside At Workshop

Joseph Collier of Bayboro, N.C., national president of the Future Business Leaders of America, will preside at the Second Annual FBLA Workshop to be held at East Carolina College, July 9-13. Collier is president of the North Carolina Chapter of FBLA and was elected National President at the convention of the organization held recently in St. Louis, Mo. He is a senior at Pamlico County High School and is the son of former State Representative and Mrs. Joseph Collier, Sr.

The purpose of the workshop is to bring members of local chapters, officers, and sponsors together with the Executive Committee of the State Chapter for several days of uninterrupted work on FBLA problems and projects. The theme of the workshop this summer is Leadership Training.

Members of the East Carolina College faculty have agreed to present three lecture-discussions on "Parliamentary Procedure" and "Public Speaking." These participating in the workshop will be divided into discussion groups to increase further their knowledge and understanding of these topics.

In addition to working on parliamentary procedure and public speaking, members will discuss plans for the 1959 convention in Durham March 5-6, make revisions to the N. C. FBLA Handbook, and develop installation ceremonies.

The North Carolina Chapter of FBLA is comprised of 62 chapters in high schools and colleges. The organization is sponsored by the United Business Education Association, a department of the National Education Association. There are over 1,000 chapters of FBLA in the United States with a total membership exceeding 46,000.

Officers of the North Carolina FBLA for 1958-1959 are: President Joseph Collier, Pamlico County High School, Bayboro; Vice President Faye Smith, Grainger High School, Kinston; Secretary Pam Edwards, New Hanover High School, Wilmington; Treasurer Bee Mendenhall, East Carolina College, Greenville; Reporter Alico Starr, Havelock High School; and Historian Pat Whitehead, Jacksonville High School.

Dr. James L. White, Associate Professor of Business at East Carolina College, is the state advisor of FBLA.

Two Detectives Die In Attempt Storm House

PAWTUCKET, R. I. (AP) — A former mental patient shot and killed two police detectives who stormed his house last night when he refused for several hours to surrender peacefully.

Police riddled the house with machine-gun and small arms fire and blasted tear gas through windows after Lt. Thomas H. Truesdale, 58, and Detective Emil Newberg, 56, were slain.

When no further gunfire sounded from the house, police entered and found Robert Geneurex, 35, covering in a bedroom closet.

Truesdale and Newberg were among four officers who first entered the house in an attempt to disarm Geneurex.

He met them with blasts from his .38-caliber pistol.

Both officers died a short while later in a hospital.

The siege began when neighbors of Geneurex in a tenement section complained that he was

Territorial Flag Of Alaska Flies In Celebration

SARATOGA, Calif. (AP) — A strange flag—eight gold stars arrayed on a blue field to depict the Big Dipper and the North Star—fluttered proudly from the pole in front of 18650 Sobey Rd. here yesterday.

Breathlessly, Mrs. Michael Stepovich, wife of Alaska's 39-year-old governor, ran up the Alaska territorial flag when she heard the news of Alaska's impending statehood.

She is here with her eight children visiting her mother-in-law Mrs. Yvka Stepovich.

"When Mike took office a little over a year ago he said at his inauguration he hoped he would be the last appointed governor of Alaska," she said.

"He's been too busy working for statehood to decide whether he'll run for the governorship."

Peanut-Pushing Chore Is Ahead

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — They sometimes called Alaska's attorney general Doubter Williams' because he was so pessimistic about the territory's chances for statehood.

In fact, J. Gerald Williams was so positive Congress wouldn't clear Alaska statehood this session he offered to push a peanut 120 miles with his nose if it did—from Alaska's Tok Junction to Big Delta.

The Senate sent the statehood bill to the President yesterday, as Williams visited friends in Boise. His reaction? Unfettered joy, of course. But he added:

"Maybe I'd better get my nose in shape."

Toll Of 410 Is Seen For Fourth

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council today estimated 410 Americans may be killed in traffic accidents during the Fourth of July weekend.

If the toll goes that high, it will set a new record for a three-day observance of Independence Day. The high mark is 407, set in 1955. The council also said there could be 12,000 disabling injuries during the period—from 6 p.m. (local time) Thursday, July 3, to midnight Sunday, July 6.

It estimated 45 million cars will run up a total of 12 billion miles during the holiday period.

While predicting a heavy toll, the council stated: "But it doesn't have to be that way. A sure-fire antidote for extra holiday danger is extra holiday care—and it's available without cost to every driver."

The council reported law enforcement agencies throughout the country will step up their activities during the holiday weekend.

Ineligible For Draft Because Of His Parents

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Patrick Hallinan's close association with his parents may keep him from being drafted, his mother said yesterday.

Hallinan, 23, is the son of attorney Vincent Hallinan, a 1952 presidential candidate on the independent Progressive party slate.

Mrs. Hallinan said her son received a letter from Army headquarters in Washington last week warning that unless he can "refute the existence of a close and continuing association" with two persons identified with Communist-front groups his "eligibility to be drafted will be questioned."

She said the two persons are she and her husband. The letter, Mrs. Hallinan said, is a "dreadful and shocking thing" that implies there is something wrong in her son associating with his parents.

"Certainly butch can't refute the association," she added, "and he's continuing associating with his mother and father."

Quiz Four Men On Alleged Underworld Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four men who allegedly attended a "crime convention" in upstate New York were called today by Senate investigators trying to find out if the meeting was linked to a national underworld syndicate.

The four summoned by the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee were described variously as a civic leader, a labor union official, a business man involved in deportation proceedings, and a gangster.

The new phase of the committee's probe opened yesterday. A federal narcotics agent testified that the meeting at Apalachin, N. Y., last November followed the pattern of the Mafia, otherwise known as the Black Hand criminal society.

The committee placed in evidence a statement listing the four men as among 60 rounded up by police in a raid on the meeting last Nov. 14. It identified them as:

John Charles Montana or Montano, Buffalo, N. Y., president of several business firms and a leader of various civic associations. James Vincent Laduca, who was secretary-treasurer of a Buffalo local of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union at the time. Russell J. Bufalino, owner of the Penn Drape and Curtain Co. of Pittston, Pa. The government is attempting to deport him to Italy.

Joseph Profaci of Brooklyn, N. Y., named in a statement placed in evidence as "an old time, well established gangster."

All the committee contends, were at the Apalachin meeting. Martin F. Pera, federal narcotics bureau undercover agent, testified yesterday the gathering had the earmarks of a meeting of big shots of the Mafia.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee counsel, said Pera would be asked for more details of his testimony that the Narcotics Bureau has spotted a concerted effort by

Ballot Recount Provides Black 21-Vote Victory

CONCORD, N.C. (AP)— Political newcomer Bedford Black has reaped a 21-vote recount majority to claim a Cabarrus County seat in the State House of Representatives over veteran incumbent Eugene T. Bost, 5,488 to 5,467.

The county Elections Board announced the result late yesterday after a painstaking three-day recount of ballots cast in the May 31 Democratic primary, when both candidates were announced as deadlocked at 5,450 votes each.

Black, a Wake Forest graduate and longtime worker in the State Young Democratic organization, is a Kannapolis lawyer. Bost is a former speaker of the House, who served 10 terms in the General Assembly.

Black made no statement after learning of the outcome except to say that his 22 separate charges of primary irregularities were still up for the board's consideration and he hoped they would be corrected before the November general election. His charges dealt mostly with the condition of ballot boxes and the storage of Kannapolis boxes at a Cannon Mills plant before the official canvass.

Bost, declining comment, was not expected to appeal the results to the State Board of Elections. The other county House seat was won without question by Dwight Quinn, a five-term veteran and top vote-getter, in the May 31 primary.

The recount lead see-sawed between Black and Bost, who was two votes ahead when the county board recessed for lunch yesterday.

Later, when Box No. 9 of Town ship 4 (Kannapolis) was recounted, Black picked up a new 24 votes, and this proved decisive. Box No. 9 yielded 292 for Black to 266 for Bost in the recount, as against the first tabulation of 263 for Black and 261 for Bost.

The earlier counting at one time gave Black as much as 12 votes over Bost, but he lost them in a recount of several Concord boxes.

Under Ted Anderson's plan each veteran paralyzed in four limbs would receive $200 a month to hire an attendant to take care of him in a home outside the hospital.

"That would be a saving of about $460 a month," Anderson said as he prepared to leave for Washington, where a bill embodying his proposal is due to be acted on in Congress shortly.

There are about 1,000 quadruplegics in the country, he estimated.

"We're expensive patients," said the 38-year-old former infantry officer who was shot in the neck by a Nazi sniper while leading a patrol across the Rhine. "It costs the government about $660 a month to keep us in VA hospitals."

More important to Anderson than saving money, however, is the prospect of freeing the paralyzed men from hospital life.

"After you've been in a hospital for years you'd do almost anything to leave," he said. Anderson, a graduate of the University of California, is now living in his own home with his 12-year-old daughter and a housekeeper. He and his wife are divorced.

MUCH-MARRIED — Mrs. Dorothy S. Smith, 30, was married five times within five years. Only one of them — to James Smith — was legal. The situation came to light when she was charged with receiving Army allotment checks illegally from her fourth husband.

Cardinal Richelieu was only 22 when he was consecrated Bishop of Lucon, France, in 1607.

WAITING FOR WORD—Mrs. Edward H. Cordes holds picture of her son, Edwin, in their Fanwood, N. J., home June 28. He is one of 12 American and Canadian engineers being held in Cuba by rebel forces of Fidel Castro. (AP Wirephoto)

Refuse Role Of Debt-Collector

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — No, you can't go to a Nevada court to collect a gambling debt from a casino.

The Nevada Supreme Court long has held gambling house operators can't use the courts to collect their debts from players.

Yesterday, it held for the first time—that a player likewise cannot go to court when he feels the house improperly failed to pay him his winnings.

The ruling came in a Las Vegas case involving a customer's claim for $12,500 from a $3.50 keno ticket.

Lana Might Have Quit Her Work In Movies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lana Turner might have quit the movies after Johnny Stompanato's death except that "it's the only work I know."

The 38-year-old star's comment came to light with the filing yesterday of a Juvenile Court transcript.

It detailed a proceeding April 24 when a judge was deliberating the fate of Lana's 14-year-old daughter Cheryl Crane, acknowledged slayer of her mother's boy friend.

"A great part of me would like very much not to continue (in films)," Lana told the jurist. "However, the fact is that it's the only work I know, and that I have been the sole support of my daughter and my mother."

"I wish I could say that I had enough put away that I wouldn't have to work. I don't. I must continue working."

The record of the conversation was filed in an appeal court in an effort by Cheryl's father Stephen Crane to void a decision making his daughter a ward of the Juvenile Court.

Superior Judge Allen T. Lynch is scheduled to rule Sept. 25 on a possible revision of the girl's status.

The transcript quoted the teenager as replying "no" when Judge Lynch asked her if she would prefer to avoid publicity by going away to school under another name.

"You'd rather stay here?" the court inquired.

"Yes," Cheryl said. "And fight it out?"

"Yes," she said. "That's courage," the judge commented.

A coroner's jury held the April 4 knife slaying was justifiable homicide after Lana testified that Stompanato had threatened to harm her.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Oils paced an irregular stock market rise early this afternoon in active trading.

The gains, though moderate, were enough to push the industrial section of the list into new high ground for 1953.

Key stocks rose from fractions to about a point but there were scattered losers and a number of stocks were unchanged.

The oils moved ahead solidly with some exceptions, notably Union Oil of California which continued to sink following its dividend cut.

Steels were narrowly mixed now that steel production has declined following an eight-week strike. Motors barely changed. Chemicals, rails and aircrafts were generally higher. Nonferrous metals were a bit lower on balance.

The oils continued late yesterday's rally, helped by a brighter inventory situation and bullish comments in some Wall Street quarters.

Union Oil of California was clipped for a loss of 2 1/4 to 48 on an opening block of 10,000 shares. It lost another fraction in heavy dealings and then met support, holding its net loss to about 2. Standard Oil of California reacted sympathetically, dropping a point on a 10,000-share block, then paring the loss to a fraction.

Texas Co. Standard Oil of Indiana and Royal Dutch rose about a point each. An oil discovery in Libya boosted Ohio Oil a point and brought gains of about a point to Amerada and a fraction to Continental Oil, its partners in the enterprise.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) was steady. Sinclair slipped a bit.

Alaska statehood brought a flurry of trading to Alaska Juneau which opened unchanged on a block of 3,200 shares then made a fractional gain. International Nickel and Du Pont were up about a point. Reichhold Chemical advanced more than a point in lively transactions.

Fractional gains were made by U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Boeing, American Telephone, Commonwealth Edison, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, General Electric, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and U. S. Gypsum.

Raytheon lost about a point. Zenith, Goodrich, Youngstown Sheet, International Telephone, Kennecott, American Smelting, Phelps Dodge, Homestake and Penn-Texas too.

The Associated Press average of 50 stocks at noon was up 50 cents to $175.30 with the industrial up 50 cents, the rails up 50 cents and the utilities up 20 cents.

Lions Hold Installation Of Officers

John Biggs was installed as president of the Greenville Lions Club last night.

Biggs succeeds Jim Taylor. Installation ceremonies were conducted by District Governor Ben Parrott of Kingston. Other officers installed were: Dick Worsley, first vice-president; Harry Allen, Secretary; A. A. Hines, third vice-president; Frank Dail, secretary-treasurer; Clarence Tugwell, assistant secretary-treasurer; Charles Stokes, lion tamer; Charles Marston, tail twister; and Frank Brown, Jr. and Norwin Pierce, directors.

During the ceremonies, Secretaries Pins were presented to H.L. Lewis, Dick Worsley, H. Reginald Gray, Harry Allen and Frank Dail. Retiring President Taylor received a plaque and another token of appreciation from club members for his services during the past year.

New Car Delivered To Driving Class

DRIVING INSTRUCTOR BOB YOUNGBLOOD . . . Accepts Keys For Training Car From Badger Johnson Of Jenkins Motor Co.

Students in Greenville's first driver education class have begun riding in style.

A 1958 Ford sedan, which the class will use for road work and observation purposes, has been delivered by Jenkins Motor Company. The car replaces an older model which had been furnished on a temporary basis by the Greenville firm.

Thirty-five students are enrolled in the class, first in Greenville under provisions of a 1957 act of the General Assembly which authorized driver training courses for high school students. The first group of students will complete the course July 17.

Included in the instruction program are 30 hours of classroom work, 18 hours of observation as passenger in the special car and six hours of actual driving experience. Robert E. Youngblood, principal of the junior high school, is instructor for the program.

Students who successfully complete the course will be presented with certificates provided by the State Department of Public Instruction. They have already been issued Learner's Permits by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

The car, which was formally delivered to the class yesterday by P. Badger Johnson of Jenkins Motor Company, includes dual controls, padded interior features and safety belts. It will be marked as a driver training vehicle.

Funeral Wednesday For Guy Rhodes

Guy Rhodes, 55, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday night at 10 o'clock. He had been ill for the past six months.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 by Willis Manning, Jehovah Witness minister of Greenville. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Rhodes, son of Mrs. Mattie Rhodes of Farmville, and the late William D. Rhodes, was born and reared in Lenoir County and had spent most of his married life in Pitt County around Greenville. He was a farmer and was a member of the Kingdom Hall of Greenville.

Surviving are his wife, the former Lucille White of Craven County, to whom he was married in 1925; three sons, David Rhodes of Norfolk, Va., Linwood Rhodes of Portsmouth, Va., and Seaman Graham E. Rhodes of the U. S. Coast Guard, now stationed in Norfolk, Va.; two daughters, Mrs. Cecil Cherry of Bethel and Mrs. Jimmie H. Boyd of Portsmouth, Va.; nine grandchildren; his mother-in-law, Mrs. Willie Gray Allen of Farmville and Mrs. H. O. Hudson of Atlanta, Ga.; and three brothers, Earl Rhodes of Grifton, James Rhodes of Greenville, and Tommy Rhodes of Wilmington.

Last Rites Are Set For Tom Henry Lee

Tom Henry Lee, 44, was accidentally burned in Norfolk, Va., Monday night at 11:30. He died in Norfolk General Hospital at 8:30 Tuesday morning.

Funeral services will be held at the Wilkerson Chapel Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Lee, son of the late Calvin and Essie James Lee, was born and reared in Pitt county. He had lived in Norfolk 20 years. He was employed by the Norfolk Western Railroad and was a member of the Railroad Brotherhood.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. C. B. Marshburn Jr. of Farmville, Mrs. Madie Pierce of Greenville and Mrs. Mozelle Pfifer of Bethel. Two half-brothers, Matt Mayo of Conetoe and S. L. (Freddie) Mayo of Belvoir also survive.

Two Arrested In Pitt Car Theft

Two local Negroes have been arrested in connection with the theft of an automobile from Farmville over the weekend.

Raymond Shackelford, 35, of 312 Railroad Street, is being charged with auto larceny. A warrant has been signed citing Sophie Shackelford, 31, of 1213 West Fifth Street for larceny of $100.

The automobile, according to Farmville authorities, belonged to David Roberson, Negro of Washington, D.C. Local police recovered it near the intersection of West Fifth and Ford streets Sunday morning in running condition.

Both the man and woman were picked up a short time later and turned over to Farmville police for further action in the matter.

NAME MISPELLED
Carlton Keel, 21, of Bethel Route 3 was incorrectly identified in yesterday's Reflector as Carlton Keel.

Keel and Lonnie Ayers of Bethel were riding a raft overturned by a heavy wave off Atlantic Beach Sunday afternoon. Ayers drowned.

ABANDON TOMATOES
BREMONT, Tex. (AP) — The bottom has dropped out of the market and farmers are letting tomatoes rot in the fields in this tomato-growing center.

Farmers said the 2 cents a pound price isn't enough to pay for gathering the tomatoes.

Brother Of Luther W. Herring Dies
David Leon Herring, LaGrange merchant and brother of Luther W. Herring of Greenville, died early Tuesday in a Fayetteville hospital after a long illness. Funeral services will be held in LaGrange Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Herring was a member of LaGrange Christian Church. Surviving are four sisters, Mrs. J. E. Gillard of Wilmington, Mrs. F. C. Darden and Mrs. Sadie Darden of Fayetteville and Miss Nannie Herring of Tarboro. Two brothers, W. L. Herring of Greenville, and Luther W. Herring of Greenville, also survive.

Funeral Services For James Bennett
The Rev. W. L. Jones, pastor of Mount Calvary F.W.B. Church, requests the members of the "Mock Conference" to be held at the church Sunday night at 7:30 to attend a rehearsal at the church Wednesday night at 7:30.

Funeral services for the Rev. W. L. Little, who died Thursday, were held at 2:30 p.m. today at Phillip Christian Church. The Rev. J. F. McLaurin, pastor, officiated. Burial was in Brown Hill Cemetery. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Sarah Little of Hayward, Calif.; one son, William Henry Little of Hayward, Calif.; 25 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. The Rev. Mr. Little spent most of his life in the Greenville community. He helped to organize the Secret Order, was a member of Knights of Pythias Lodge No. 39, Prince of the East No. 524, Order of the Eastern Star No. 524, Odd Fellows Lodge No. 23216, Victoria Lodge No. 10405 of Rocky Mount, and he was a Shriner.

Mild Weather

The highest temperature in the Greenville area Monday was 89 degrees. Lowest last night was 58 degrees, and at 8 a.m. today the thermometer registered 72.

There was no precipitation during the last 24 hours and Tar River was slightly above the five-foot stage this morning.

Farmville's New . . .

Although it is treating 350,000 gallons of sewerage a day, the plant has a capacity of a half-million gallons per day. Construction was designed to permit expansion of facilities to a million gallons per day by tying on duplicate units at each point.

The treatment plant is located North of Farmville between the town's Eastern residential areas and Little Contentnea Creek. Dikes have been constructed on three sides of the area to keep out flood waters from the creek and a pumping system has been installed to assist in removing any water which might back into the area during times of flood.

Wooten says the plant is aiming for 95 per cent efficiency in removing waste materials from sewerage which passes through it. He and other plant operators in similar units throughout the country have already discovered, however, that there are some things they'll never get out of the water.

One of the things which is "impossible" to remove are detergents and other household cleaning materials. They mingle with the water itself and pass through every process without being removed.

Wooten already has a nice supply of suds in the run-off bin to testify to presence of the detergents and soap powders. He isn't worried about them, however, because he knows they'll always be there.

And he'll get more, when the weather gets warmer and raises the temperature of the treated water.

New Rate . . .

tion at $6,000 is the largest. Also under fire department expenditures, $300 for windowstripping at the West End Station and $1,500 for three two-way radio units were left in.

In the police department capital improvements budgets no major new equipment was approved although $3,500 remains for trading three autos.

In the Public Works Department capital improvements budget there is $5,600 for trading a truck, $800 for a flat bed and lift, $1,000 for Greene Springs Park and $500 for a tractor and reel to be used in the cemeteries.

Also left in was $3,000 to make city dump changes in an effort to alleviate the smoke problem.

The Recreation Department's capital improvement budget calls for $1,600 to trade a truck.

City Clerk Duncan pointed out that 14 cents of the $1.38 tax rate will go for the city debt service leaving $1.24 for the general fund.
