OTTAWA (AP)—President Eisenhower told a warmly applauding Parliament today that Canadian-American bickering must not stand in the way of the winning of the global struggle against Communist imperialism.

City School Graduates Will Require 18 Credits After 1960 For Diploma

Students who expect to receive diplomas from Greenville's high schools after 1960 will be required to have 18 credits for graduation, instead of 16, as required in the past.

The City Board of Education approved the increase last night, after hearing a recommendation from Superintendent J. H. Rose who said the action had been recommended to his office by high school faculty members.

Rose's reported also termed as "very effective" the city's operation of a limited junior high school program. He cited the practice of making the seventh grades "self-contained" units, except for music, art and physical education.

High school program, Rose said, "We did another thing that is proving its worth. We grouped the children according to their abilities. We have done this in order that we might not retard the very bright child or hold him back to the level of the average or below-average student."

Opening Date

Students in Greenville schools will return to their classes September 3 to begin the 1958-1959 school year.

Girls Tell Shirt Tale

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
'It's all a matter of shirt tails,' says the girl in the gray flannel skirt. 'Wear 'em outside and you've got the new look.'
Smart girls who live on a budget have discovered that it's not necessary to invest a small fortune in new clothes when the fashion changes. They get through the uncertain transition period smoothly and smartly by doing a few tricks with blouses and belts.
Inexpensive blouses are available this summer in shops all over the country, cut on new lines and finished so they are equally effective worn in or out of the skirt. In many cases it's possible to buy skirts to match—also for pin money—so that a girl may acquire the chemise look without breaking the budget.
'I've shortened all my skirts about two inches,' continues our thrifty working girl. 'I've invested in several new blouses, all cut on middy or chemise lines—and I'm all set.'
This penny-wise young lady also has some one-piece shirtwaist dresses left over from last summer. This season she wears a $5 it just below the bustline—and there's the Empire look. The same trick works for the sheaths which have been popular for the last few seasons.
'Another new idea I worked out,' says she, 'is to wear head bands to match the color of my blouse or dress. I make them from grosgrain ribbon from the ten-cent store.'

TOP STORY—This versatile sleeveless overblouse by Judy Bond is mobby shagbark cotton, available in white, black and seven other colors, right for wear in town with skirts or for summer holiday weekends with shorts or slacks.

Today's Menu

THE BRIDE COOKS LUNCH
Make individual omelets, with a delightfully different flavor, for a friend or two.

Omelet Adria
Salad Bowl French Bread
Apricot-filled Ladyfingers Beverage

OMELET ADRIA

Ingredients: For each omelet—1 1/2 tablespoons butter, 1-4 cup thinly sliced shallots or thin strips onion, 1-4 cup coarsely chopped green pepper, 3 eggs, 2 anchovy fillets (drained and diced), salt, pepper. Method: Melt 1 tablespoon of the butter in 8-inch cast aluminum or iron skillet. Add shallots or onion and green pepper; cook gently, stirring occasionally, until wilted and partly tender. Beat eggs just enough to combine yolks and whites; add anchovies and salt and pepper to taste; go slow on the salt because the anchovies will be salty. Add remaining 1/2 tablespoon butter to skillet, then eggs and anchovies. Cook in French-omelet fashion, stirring over moderately low heat with flat of fork as eggs set around edges, raising heat for final cooking so bottom will set well; top should be slightly soft. Flip over half of the omelet to side opposite handle; hold warm plate to edge and turn omelet out on it. Serve at once.

Start Now To Combat Hay Fever

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

Hay fever is a form of allergy that occurs at a definite time of year. The term "hay fever" is certainly not a good one, since there is very seldom any fever associated with this condition and hay almost never has anything to do with it. The disease is caused by pollen and develops in those individuals — children and adults — who have an allergic sensitivity to the pollen. A better name for the disease would be pollen allergy. Nevertheless hay fever is a firmly entrenched term and probably will continue to be used.

The attack of hay fever is ushered in with an attack of violent sneezing and a flow of clear watery fluid from the nose. The eyes are likely to be red and to water freely. Often the eyes are more than normally sensitive to bright light. There may be headache, and a general feeling of lassitude. Hay fever victims seldom sleep well. Children may be cross and irritable. (Some adults with hay fever may be pretty crochety too!)

Dangerous Pollens The disease is caused by wind-borne pollens. Spring hay fever is due to pollen of trees — maple, oak, elm, birch, cottonwood, pecan. Midsummer symptoms come usually from grass pollens — timothy, sweet vernal, Bermuda or orchard grass, or from the fungus spores of wheat and corn rusts. Late summer and fall hay fever, the most common variety, is usually due to pollen from the ragweed family of plants.

The symptoms vary in severity depending upon the amount of pollen in the air and on the weather conditions. Some years seem much worse than other years. Symptoms are likely to be more severe on dry windy days and in the early morning. Heavy rains tend to reduce the pollen count and make the hay fever victim more comfortable.

A careful history helps in making a diagnosis of hay fever. A combination of symptoms such as described above that comes on pretty regularly at the same time of year every year is certainly suggestive of hay fever. In addition to the seasonal appearance of the symptoms suggests the general class of pollens causing the trouble. There are in addition certain laboratory tests that can be used to confirm the fact that the disease is of allergic origin and not an infection. Once this much is determined, then a few skin tests can be done to determine which particular pollen is responsible. This knowledge will reduce the number of skin tests needed to pinpoint the offending pollen.

Three Treatments Treatment of hay fever is divided into three parts. In the first place avoidance of the pollen is wonderful treatment if it can be managed. If the symptoms last only a few weeks plan a vacation at this time and go where the pollen is not present. This is of course not possible for many families. The next best bet is an air-conditioner that filters the pollen out of the air.

When complete avoidance of the pollen is not possible the next best treatment starts well before the hay fever season and consists of shots to desensitize the patient from the particular pollen that gives him trouble. With most hay fever sufferers this pre-season treatment gives marked relief.

The third kind of treatment is directed at the symptoms themselves and consists of anti-histamine drugs given either as nose drops or by mouth. In severe cases some of the new steroid group of drugs proved valuable. Needless to say treatments need to be under the careful supervision of a doctor.

NAME TOWELS

Personalized accessories are often a great incentive for youngsters to wash hands and face often and without prodding.

If you have one of those new do-everything sewing machines, it will take you no time at all to stitch each child's name onto a batch of terrycloth towels with bright color embroidery thread.

Or a simple cross stitch, embroidered by hands, is also easy and fast. In fact, even a little girl can learn to "name" her very own towels—or some for brother's birthday!

Investigative Body Faces Setback

It will not be an easy matter for the Harris subcommittee to overcome the setback in the Goldfine inquiry brought about by the inexcusable activities of its chief investigator.

Though members of the subcommittee were not aware that chief investigator had "bugged Goldfine's suite in a Washington hotel, they must assume at least some responsibility for that action. To further complicate the Goldfine inquiry there is now the assertion by Goldfine that someone stole personal files from the room of his secretary in the same hotel.

These unfortunate incidents cannot be overlooked by the committee nor by the American people. They raise questions which must be answered.

At the same time they divert—at least for the moment—the primary purpose of the House committee's inquiry: finding out how much influence Goldfine's gifts to government officials and employees may have had in the outcome of the millionaire's dealings with the government. There is also the broader question of influence peddling and influence purchasing which might be going on in the federal government at various levels.

Now further questions of wrong-doing on the part of federal employees have been brought into the already complicated inquiry.

The investigating committee will be more handicapped now in getting to the bottom of the matter than it was before. And it was having a difficult time before the developments of the past few days. The fact that the committee did not condone the attempt of its chief investigator to record conversations of Goldfine and his associates does not remove the shadow which has been cast over the inquiry. Neither does the action of the committee in firing the investigator who was responsible for the action.

The committee headed by Rep. Harris now finds itself in the position of providing answers to questions as well as asking questions to be answered by Goldfine. The committee should provide those answers and also additional information on the matter in which its investigation is being conducted.

At the same time it should continue its inquiry into the relationship between Goldfine and officials and employees of the federal government.

Drivers Showed They Can Exert Caution

Although accidents in the recent long holiday week-end took more than 600 lives, automobile drivers for once proved that the National Safety Council had guessed too high in estimating the number of traffic deaths during the holiday period.

To be sure the nation has little to brag about when more than 360 people lose their lives in traffic accidents in a 78 hour period. On the other hand, there is some consolation to be found in the fact that the traffic toll was less than the 410 estimated by the NSC. During many periods the estimates of traffic fatalities have proved far too low.

In Pitt County during the holiday period there were no serious traffic accidents—a contrast from disastrous July 4th traffic accident the county has experienced on occasions in the past.

Once again the drivers throughout the United States have proved they can drive more carefully than the experts think they can. The unfortunate part of it is that many traffic fatalities throughout the year could be avoided if drivers would only be as careful under normal circumstances as they are during holiday periods when they are up against greater odds.

That Inferiority Complex Theory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just before Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip flew to Canada last Columbus Day, they were vaccinated against Asian flu, then raising in North America.

But President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, flying there, have no such protection. There is no handy vaccine to dispel what all Canada in its relations with the United States.

Sigmund Freud might have diagnosed it as an inferiority complex. But say that in Ottawa and you'll get a cross look. If not a right cross to the jaw. Ask almost any American and he's baffled, if he's thought about it at all. Chances are he takes Canada for granted.

Eisenhower and Dulles have thought about it a great deal, especially Dulles. It's mighty disconcerting for a secretary of state, wrestling with problems in not-so-friendly places far away, to have trouble erupt next door across the unpatrolled border in friendly Canada.

Dulles has had his share of this, mostly in the economic field. Canada has complained in recent years that the United States is hurting it by dumping surplus U. S. wheat on the world market, restricting Canadian oil imports, selling Canada more than it buys, and so on.

There is also the problem of security information. The Canadian Mounties have been supplying the FBI with security data on Canadian citizens for years.

But Canada threatened to stop that last year after the Senate Internal Security subcommittee published a report naming one of her diplomats.

E. Herbert Norman, then Canada's ambassador to Egypt, committed suicide in Cairo after the committee said he had been active in Communist circles. Canada's indignant fury was enormous.

Eisenhower and Dulles are tackling all these problems with their Canadian counterparts at Ottawa. There is hope for progress, although the security issue is especially knotty since, under the U. S. Constitution, the executive branch can make no promises binding on the Congress.

The United States and Canada have been friendly so long that almost nobody remembers when they were enemies. American revolutionaries invaded Canada in 1775-1776, took Montreal and besieged Quebec. Most Canadians are convinced Theodore Roosevelt bullied them into a disadvantageous settlement of the Alaska-Canada boundary in 1903.

And some may be wondering today whether efforts might be made to acquire Canada's west coast for a land linkup with the 49th state.

It is not hard to argue for the theory of an inferiority complex.

Canada's radio reeks with rock 'n' roll. Canada's television leans to I Love Lucky and similar U. S.-made programs, the books and even the magazines come over overwhelmingly from the United States. Canadians talk like U. S. residents — those that don't talk French, that is — even though they swear allegiance to Queen Elizabeth.

Many may be satisfied with the situation but others would prefer that Canadians achieve more of a national identity.

Strength For Today
By EARL L. DOUGLASS
STRENGTH AND AIMS
"Measure your strength by your aims, not your aims by your strength," wrote Adam Mickiewicz, the great nineteenth-century Polish poet and patriot. His maxim is a good one for people who want to make the most of their lives. Far too many of us are content to set ourselves a mark that is almost within reach, and then settle back complacently when we have attained it. Such limited goals may lead to a state of what the psychologists call "adjustment"; but they certainly do not lead to great achievements.

Glance briefly at the lives of the great figures of the past. Some, like Lincoln and Franklin, disregarded the probabilities

Green, Cool, Quiet

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Bora Bora is green and cool and quiet," said Ramine.

Ramine, 18, is the champion hula dancer of Tahiti in the South Pacific and star of the film, "Cinerama-South Seas Adventure." She is pretty and has the grace of a fluid, honey-colored pretzel.

"Bora Bora, where I was born, is 75 miles south of Tahiti. It is about the size of Manhattan Island, but not so large a population. We have 1,600 persons.

"If you went there you could live like a Tahitian for $50 a month — and there is nothing wrong in that. We do not have a parking problem on Bora Bora, as there are only seven cars.

"There are no psychiatrists. There are no worries, as there is nothing to worry about. Just have a good time.

"We have plenty of fruit and fish. We live in the palm and bamboo house. You can make such a house in one day.

"Everybody dance on Bora Bora. You dance as soon as you walk. Our hula is different than Hawaiian hula, where they use the hands slow. We use more the hips — but very fast.

"You just go wild. Not bad. Just wild.

"Yes, we dance all the time. If you are cooking and somebody start tapping with his fingers, you stop and do the hula.

"Crime? They steal some on Bora Bora, but I don't heard of anyone ever killing anybody in my lifetime. Nobody even kill himself.

"If they drink too much, sometimes they beat the wives. But they don't murder her.

"Sometimes she need beating, too. She yell, she cry, and fight back, too. But soon it is all passed away, and they dance hula again.

"Life very comfortable in Bora Bora. Only thing you need money for is clothes, and you don't wear many clothes.

"We have nice drink called pineapple beer. Delicious! Make you walk 'n' saar, too. It take long time to make real good pineapple beer. Sometimes a month.

"Everybody love children on Bora Bora, and have all can. Sometimes 6, sometimes 16. I have two sisters and five brothers. No trouble with children on Bora Bora. They good or else get spanked.

"It very cheap for boy and girl to go out in Bora Bora. They dance hula, drink all pineapple beer they want for 50 cents. No taxicabs. Make own fun. Nice evening.

"I don't expect to stay movie star. Go back to islands, learn to cook; have lot of children. Be very, very happy."

Ramine had beginner's luck during her visit to Manhattan.

She went to the Belmont race track, bet on six races, won on five, and came home $90 ahead. She appeared on a television program and won a watch, a silver platter and a bottle of perfume.

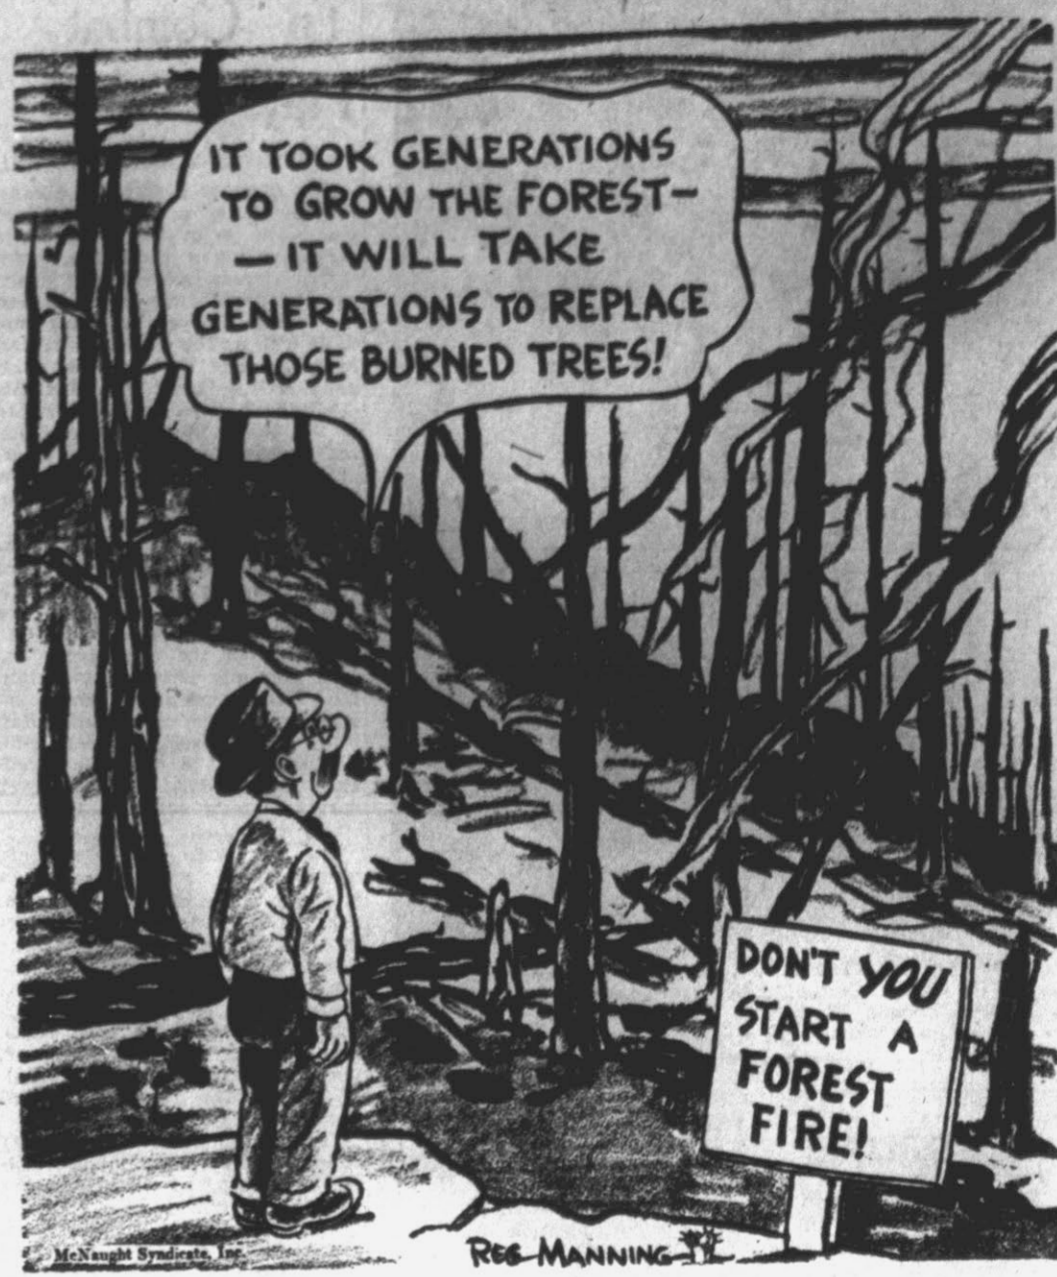

"I like this island," she admitted. "It certainly fascinating."

But she shook her long dark braids firmly at the suggestion she settle down and become a permanent resident.

"It's nice place to visit," she said carefully, "but I don't think I'd want live here.

"It's wonderful new world. But Bora Bora is different. It is green. It is quiet. It is cool."

One Moment Of Carelessness

By JIMMY ELLIS

Marriage Still Popular

Economic recession or no economic recession, more people are getting married this year.

Records in the Pitt County Register of Deeds office, which issues licenses for marriages within the county, show that 25 more couples were married in the first six months of 1958 than were married in the first six months of 1957. A total of 223 couples made the trip between January 1 and June 30.

The records also indicate that June might be in a good position this year to regain its traditional title of "marriage month." December took the title for the past two years, and June ran a poor third last year, behind the holiday month and August.

Fifty-six marriage licenses were issued by the Register of Deeds office during June's 21 working days. That's an increase of nine over the June, 1957, total, and indicative of a trend noted in the first six months of 1958.

Only one of 1958's first months failed to show an increase in the number of marriage licenses issued.

May's total of 41 was three less than the 1957 total. Otherwise, there were monthly increases in the number of marriage licenses issued. January saw an up seven, from 30 to 37; February from 26 to 30; March from 21 to 25; and April from 30 to 34.

Incidentally, for those who might be interested, the licenses cost $4 each. Proceeds go into the county's General Fund.

Changing the subject: Yesterday's major league All-Star game was a little disappointing, especially to those of us who like the big hit and pieners have plenty of running room and a pitcher's job is made a great deal easier by those wide-open spaces.

Most fans will be forced to agree with the method of selection for the teams this year, however, by which the All-Stars were selected by other players. That appears to be the best method of picking participants, because we believe the players will tend to ignore popularities and stick to playing abilities.

Young Billy O'Dell of the Baltimore Orioles was perhaps the outstanding player of the game, although the victory went to Early Wynn, and Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates was disappointing in his pitching job. None of the hitters for either team particularly distinguished themselves.

In fairness to the hitters, however, the Baltimore stadium is not a hitter's paradise. The field-not of itself suffer by delays in tabulations. But this is a day of speed and of keen public curiosity when selection of public officials is at stake. People become impatient in their desire to know what has happened.

Governor Hodges, in commenting on the recount ordered in Cabarrus county last week, said the voting machine may be the answer. He thought the counties and municipalities could finance their own equipment without State assistance. Moreover, if the State undertook the job it would run into complications as to what districts should be equipped and which would have to get along without the devices. That would be less a problem in the counties.

Rural precincts in Vance usually are first to complete their count at the end of an election day, because of the small number of votes involved. Money could be saved, however, by furnishing machines in Henderson districts.

We frankly do not know what such equipment would cost. But we think it would be proper for inquiry to be made, and on that basis a more reasonable conclusion would be possible as to the practical method of procedure. We have suggested the idea on several previous occasions, and are still of the feeling that no harm could come from investigating the cost.

There will be no more voting here until the regular November election. But then it will again be a headache to tabulate the votes polled, as it has been in the past. If a suitable and satisfactory remedy could be devised, it might be worth the price at that.

Outcome of an election does idea that the government should never do for the people what they can do for themselves. And yet, time and time again, it is said that the people's resources are being 'given away' when a private company is licensed to build a dam and a power plant. But what can be given away, when all the utility company gets is the right to produce electricity at rates which are regulated by the people themselves." — Industrial News Review.

Other Editors Saying --- Voting Machines To Come

(Henderson Dispatch)

Voting machines in a few years probably will be provided generally over the State. They are long overdue. Their efficiency and value have been demonstrated both as to speed and accuracy.

Some of North Carolina's larger cities already have the automatic counting devices in use and have been pleased with them. Others gradually are falling in line.

One of the greatest objections is the cost, especially when there is comparatively such infrequent use for them. On statewide level, there are only three regular elections every second year. That goes likewise for counties, but most municipalities ballot annually where elective officials serve on staggered terms. From time to time, however, referendums are held for other purposes.

There would be no point in installing the machines in the smaller rural precincts, where only two or three hundred votes are ever polled in an election. But there are eight districts in Henderson township where the mechanical arrangement would serve to good purpose.

Fortunately, no significant errors have been discovered in official tabulations by precinct officials here. But many of them run into the wee small hours of the night of election days before complete totals are known. The machines are represented as being accurate and foolproof. They are simple in operation. And within a matter of minutes after the polls close a level can be pulled and the results revealed.

Rehabilitation Of Big Concern

By LYNN NISBET

REHABILITATION — Next to research, which currently seems to be the first concern of both government and private enterprise, the most popular project is rehabilitation. In its broad sense that means making good citizens out of convicted prisoners, making well people out of patients in all kinds of hospitals, making government agencies more efficient and perhaps going so far as to include converting old buildings into useful facilities instead of tearing them down.

Dr. Lennox Baker pointed out to the budget commission the other day that despite all the talk North Carolina is woefully short in one phase of rehabilitation. Dr. Baker is head of the orthopedic section in Duke hospital and director of the State cerebral palsy hospital at Durham. Two years ago he sponsored legislation to broaden the scope of the State institution so it could accept adults and children in need of treatment for ailments other than cerebral palsy. Under that broadened policy the little institution now has 41 patients (the rated capacity is 40) including one full time adult and five or six children not victim of cerebral palsy. There is also an out-patient young man being treated for paralysis due to an auto accident. The adults are paying their way, enabling full utilization of facilities. However, the hospital is still primarily for cerebral palsy children and no other will be admitted except when there is vacant room for them.

Dr. Baker's tentative suggestion — he says he isn't quite ready to go all out for it — is for the State to provide a facility near the cerebral palsy unit for "rehabilitation" of adults injured in accidents — industrial, traffic or otherwise. Original capital investment would be small, and he believes the project would be self-sustaining.

MONEY-SAVING — He is appalled at the waste incurred by injured people being unable to work. If they can be treated and trained for other jobs, insurance payments will be tremendously decreased. That will mean reduction in premiums paid insurance companies by industrial employers. He cited instances of insurance companies maintaining their own rehabilitation centers and saving money by shortening the period of total disability because of getting policy holders in position to earn their own living.

WATER — A situation has arisen in connection with development of the Research Park in the heart of the famed Research Triangle and location of industry on the Butler property owned by the State, which illustrates the importance of co-ordinated plan-

Re-Raise Charge On Soviet Radio

LONDON (AP)—A Moscow radio commentator today charged that flights of American H-bombers toward the Soviet borders are keeping the world "practically on the brink of war."

The broadcast renewed a charge which the Soviets pressed unsuccessfully in the U. N. Security Council three months ago. The purpose apparently was to make some propaganda capital out of the flight of an unarmed U. S. Air Force cargo plane which strayed over Soviet Armenia June 27 and was shot down by Soviet jet fighters.

Charging that American war planes make frequent "provocative flights toward Soviet borders," commentator Andreyev said: "We could say we had to send our bombers toward the U.S. borders, and we would have a perfect right to do that to ensure our security. There might be a clash between atomic squadrons in the air and an atomic war would be touched off."

The broadcast asserted that "in spite of the provocations by the U. S. air command, our military planes are not flying in the direction of the U. S. A." But he said that an American pilot might break under the "terrible strain" of piloting a jet bomber and release a bomb near the Soviet borders.

"The result is that the world is really practically on the brink of war," the commentator declared. Andreyev noted his government's release Monday of the nine American airmen downed in Armenia but said the "question of U. S. planes flying along the Soviet boundaries is still on the order of the day." The American plane was en route from Germany via Turkey to Iran and Pakistan.

Cabby Captured Thief, Got Fare

DETROIT (AP)—Cabby Haig Vartanian had been cruising for three hours last night without picking up a fare.

Suddenly he passed a woman standing on a street corner, screaming. She was pointing at a man fleeing down an alley with her purse. Vartanian drove after the thief, cornered him and said, "Hand it over, buddy." The man tossed the purse into the cab and ran away.

Vartanian turned the purse over to Estella Varge, who gave him a $15 reward and also had him take her home for a $1.70 fare.

Soldier Of Fortune Al Pope, Held By Indonesia, Lived Adventure Dream

By TOM HENSHAW AP Staff Writer

Most American males, dreaming their Walter Mitty dreams, can understand and sympathize with Allen Lawrence Pope.

The 29-year-old Floridian, flier, hunter and soldier of fortune, lived their dreams of adventure to the hilt. In fact, he may have lived them once too often.

Pope today is a prisoner in an Indonesian military hospital, accused of selling his wartime flying talents to a rebel cause in a remote East Indian war. The penalty could be death.

What kind of a guy is Al Pope? He's a young lieutenant in Korea, the nose of his B26 blown away by Communist antiaircraft fire, flying the crippled ship back to base and taking time out to shoot up a Red train en route.

He's a vacationing hunter in the jungles of South Viet Nam, charged by a wounded banteng (wild ox), holding his fire until the last second and bringing down the huge animal almost at his feet.

He's a Civil Air Transport pilot dropping supplies to beleaguered French in Dien Bien Phu, flying without relief for most of the 55-day siege of the jungle fortress.

He's also a downed pilot captured dangling by his parachute cords from a coconut tree on an obscure island near Ambon after a rebel bombing raid on an Indonesian government convoy.

The story of Allen Lawrence Pope has to be pieced together from records and friends. He can't be interviewed in the Indonesian hospital. His folks in Perrine, Fla., don't want to talk about it.

Pope was born in Miami on Oct. 20, 1928. His parents, Helen and Lawrence Pope, are fruit growers on the fringe of the Everglades. He attended the University of Florida for two years.

The Korean War was a turning point. He joined the Air Force in 1950 and wound up with a B26 squadron in Korea, flying night strafing missions against Red trucks, trains, roads and soldiers.

He collected 2,138 hours of military flying, 55 combat missions, an Air Medal with two clusters, a Distinguished Flying Cross and the Republic of Korea's Presidential Unit Citation.

After Korea, there was a brief interlude of working for an airline in Texas and a marriage that ended in divorce. A 5-year-old daughter lives with his first wife.

The average speed of freight trains is about 19 miles per hour. However, the running speeds are considerably more because the average speeds are computed after all stops made for switching, picking up and setting out cars.

Next, Pope was back in the Orient as a first officer with the Civil Air Transport, a Formosa-based cargo airline founded a dozen years ago by Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault of Flying Tiger fame.

Robert E. Rousselot of Joplin, Mo., CAT's vice president for operations, was one of the first to meet Pope when he reported for service in March 1954.

"He was kind of shy," recalls Rousselot. "He seemed young-looking, even boyish. He had a crewcut. He was eager. He wanted to go to work."

As Pope rose in CAT — he became a captain in April 1957 at a base salary of $1,000 a month — Rousselot got to know him better. He liked what he saw.

"He's strictly the outdoor type, a clean living fellow. He cultivates his health, watches his diet, does weight lifting and other exercises. He loves to hunt."

"He drinks very little—in fact, I've never seen him take more than one at a party. He smokes very little, just occasionally. He makes friends easier than any other man I've ever seen."

He's not the swashbuckling type. He's a very serious, mature individual. He's a very good pilot.

The finding may be new evidence that leukemia—cancer of the blood—can be caused by a virus. Perhaps other kinds of cancer are also started by viruses.

If this is so, then it might become possible to prepare vaccines against the cancers, somewhat like vaccines against the polio virus.

Two bits of evidence linking viruses with cancer were reported to the seventh International Cancer Congress under way here by Doctors Clifton D. Howe, Leon Dmochowski, C. E. Grey, J. A. Sykes and C. C. Shullenberger of M. D. Anderson Hospital, Houston, Tex.

They looked through the powerful electron microscope at incredibly thin slices of tissue from lymph nodes or glands of 11 human victims of acute leukemia.

They saw changes like those in leukemias in animals, which are known to be caused by viruses.

And in 3 of the 11 persons, they saw virus-like particles inside the cells and in spaces in between.

The mystery dots had visible characteristics of viruses.

—a top-notch airline pilot. He's a lone wolf type. He lives his own life and enjoys it thoroughly.

Pope met his present wife, Yvonne, 26, in the Orient. She was a Pan American Airlines stewardess. They were married in Bangkok, Thailand, about three years ago.

Until recently, they lived with their two children, Stephen, 2, and Allen, 1, in a French-style villa on the outskirts of Saigon. Friends describe Pope as a devoted husband and father.

Last April, Pope asked for and received a six-week leave without pay. There was nothing unusual about it, says Rousselot—as employees often ask and for various reasons.

The next anyone knew, the Indonesian government announced on May 27 that Pope had bailed out of a rebel bomber shot down nine days before. He was captured with a broken leg.

Why did Pope turn up in Indonesia, apparently flying for hire for a $10,000 fee, said the Indonesian government.

"It was a natural," says one of his Saigon friends. "He flew a B26 that he was very familiar with and made a good salary. As an adventure it appealed to him and satisfied his restless spirit."

The Indonesian rebels have proclaimed that they are fighting against communist influences in the government but Pope's friends express doubt that ideology was behind his enlistment.

Thus far, Pope's only hospital visitor has been Donald Easum, vice consul at the American Embassy in Jakarta. "He's calm about the whole thing," reported Easum. "He's trying to give the impression he takes the whole thing lightly. He knows he's in a jam and he's prepared to take whatever punishment they think he deserves."

The Indonesian government has not yet decided whether Pope will be tried by a civil or military court. He may never be tried at all. U.S.-Indonesian relations are improving and Indonesia may 'sell' a Pope trial might spoil them.

An unofficial study of the Indonesian criminal code, based on old Dutch colonial laws, shows five possible charges under which Pope might be tried. They are: Participation in rebellion (maximum penalty: 15 years); aid to the enemy in time of war (death or 20 years to life); premeditated murder (death or 20 years to life) or unplanned homicide (15 years); manslaughter (1 year).

Hung Jury Over Noisy Churchmen

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—A jury has failed to agree on what to do about a minister, an evangelist and a church member accused of keeping the neighborhood awake by groaning, shouting and hand clapping at evening services.

The Rev. David O. Norcross pastor of Bethany Tabernacle Assembly of God Church; evangelist James W. Weaver; and Ray Weaver were tried of charges of disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace brought by people who live near the church.

The Rev. Mr. Norcross said his congregation follows the biblical teaching which says "to make joyful noises unto the Lord."

Many To Enroll In Annual Music Camp

More than 300 junior and senior high school musicians have already enrolled as participants in East Carolina College's 1958 Summer Music Camp, according to Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, camp director and director of the college department of music.

Registration for the event, fifth annual camp to be sponsored by the college department of music, will take place Sunday, July 13. The program will close Saturday, July 26, with a public concert at 2 p.m. in the Wright Auditorium, with a public concert at 8 p.m. on the campus.

Dr. Cuthbert has announced that students may still enroll. Inquiries should be addressed to The Department of Music, East Carolina College.

Three bands, an orchestra, and a chorus in which campers will participate will be special features of the two weeks' program. Instruction in piano, majorette and drum major routines, art, and ballet will also be given. The curriculum will include also theory, music literature, conducting, and other subjects.

Campers will be housed in college dormitories and take their meals in the college cafeterias. The college medical staff and other college personnel will cooperate with the department of music in assuring the welfare of students.

Recreational events planned for the campers include watermelon cuttings, weiner roasts, movies, a stunt night, and concerts.

Charles Minelli, director of bands at Ohio University; Guy Taylor, music director of the Nashville, Tenn. Symphony Orchestra; and a group of more than thirty experienced teachers will be visiting members of the teaching staff.

East Carolina faculty members who will be on the staff include Band Director Herbert L. Carter; Choir Director Carl Hjortsvang; Elizabeth Drake, piano teacher; and Francis Lee Noel of the art department.

Mystery Dots Found In Cases Of Leukemia

LONDON (AP)—Mystery dots that look like viruses have been discovered in three human victims of leukemia, scientists reported today.

The finding may be new evidence that leukemia—cancer of the blood—can be caused by a virus. Perhaps other kinds of cancer are also started by viruses.

If this is so, then it might become possible to prepare vaccines against the cancers, somewhat like vaccines against the polio virus.

Two bits of evidence linking viruses with cancer were reported to the seventh International Cancer Congress under way here by Doctors Clifton D. Howe, Leon Dmochowski, C. E. Grey, J. A. Sykes and C. C. Shullenberger of M. D. Anderson Hospital, Houston, Tex.

They looked through the powerful electron microscope at incredibly thin slices of tissue from lymph nodes or glands of 11 human victims of acute leukemia.

They saw changes like those in leukemias in animals, which are known to be caused by viruses.

And in 3 of the 11 persons, they saw virus-like particles inside the cells and in spaces in between.

The mystery dots had visible characteristics of viruses.

For the past two seasons, the District 1 tournament has been held at Roanoke Rapids, Carolina Dairy, of Greenville, has been a constant entrant for the past several seasons. The Romances of Roanoke Rapids have been district 1 champions two years running however.

State Bank and Trust Company has taken over the sponsorship of the tournament here.

Three teams will be entered into the tourney from Greenville, Carolina Dairy, the Graniters, and Greenville Parks and Metals have already made applications. The exact number of teams—overall—have not yet been named. The teams are expected to be selected within a week.

A meeting is scheduled to be held here in about two weeks to handle the details of the tournament.

Alston Going To Bench Again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Manager Walt Alston is going to the bench again in an effort to put some punch into the light-hitting Los Angeles Dodgers, who open a three-game series with Milwaukee tonight.

Heated by the hitting of Norm Larker after the rookie first baseman was called on to replace the slumping Gil Hodges, Alston is turning to another reserve first baseman — Steve Bilko.

The burly Bilko, acquired in the Don Newcombe trade with Cincinnati, takes over first base tonight with Larker shifting into left field. Jim Gilliam, who has been Alston's left fielder most of the season, will join Hodges on the bench.

Dodger rookie Stan Williams (3-3) will be the starting pitcher tonight, facing Brave rookie Carl Willey (2-1).

The Braves arrived here by plane yesterday with an eight-game lead over Los Angeles. So far this season, however, the Dodgers have won seven out of nine from Milwaukee.

Lone Woman In Golf Tournament

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — Golf is just a game this week to Lt. Helen McGowan. But to other Ft. Bragg golfers seeking a place in qualifying rounds for the Third Army tournament, it's a four-day grind.

Lt. McGowan is the only woman entry and therefore wins the qualifying post in that class for the Third Army tourney July 21-26 at Ft. Benning, Ga. She had a 92 yesterday and must play the rest of the four-day, 72-hole competition to make it official.

Four men will qualify at the end of play Friday in the open class, and two in the seniors class.

Sgt. Leland Knight's 74, two under par over the Stryker Course, led open contestants yesterday. In seniors class, the leader was Sgt. J. F. Brockman, 83.

Senate Probe Into Sport Begins Today At Capital

Don Essig Battling Against The Field And A Jinx Today

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — It's Don Essig against the field and a jinx today in the opening round of match play in the National Public Links golf tournament.

Essig who lives in Indianapolis and plays for the Louisiana State University golf team, faces husky 25-year-old Walt Durdle, a park district greenskeeper in Peoria, Ill., in the first heat of man-to-man combat.

A double round today will trim the field of 64 qualifiers to 16. Two more rounds Thursday will set up the 36 hole semifinals Friday, leading to the final Saturday over a 36-hole route.

The 155-pound, 6-foot Essig, a former caddy, is the defending titlist.

Only once in the meet's 33-year history has a player repeated in succession for the crown. The late Carl Kaufman of Pittsburgh won three straight starting in 1937.

Essig also became medalist, winding up the 36-hole tests yesterday with 144, two strokes under the stubborn Silver Lake course par for the distance. He was the only one in the field of 150 to break the standard.

Only twice has a medalist gone on to win the championship — Kaufman in 1929 and Wilfred Crossley, now of Minneapolis, in 1947.

Essig, 19, depends on accuracy and deadeye putting to whittle down his scores instead of power, which is Durdle's trademark.

Durdle, who shared the first qualifying round lead with Essig with 71, took 78 blows yesterday for a 149 tally.

It took 155 or better to qualify with 16 trying at that figure and playing off for nine allotted spots.

The three-man team championship, based on the low combined scores in the 36 hole qualifying, went to St. Paul. St. Paul won the Warren G. Harding Trophy with a 447 stroke total on 147 by Chet Latawick and Gene Hansen and 153 by Dayton Olson.

Among qualifiers was C. Allen Ducker of Charleston, S.C., whose second round 73 gave him a 36-hole total of 150.

James Wards of Jamestown, N.C., failed to qualify along with another Charlestonian, Walter All. All had identical rounds of 79 for 158 while All had 86-78-164.

Durham Splits Double Bill With Hi-Toms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sixth-place Durham seems to have the number of High Point-Thomasville, current Carolina League leader. The Bulls split a doubleheader with the Hi-Toms last night for their third win in four games with the front-runners.

Third baseman Ted Breznenk's two-run homer in the ninth broke a 3-3 tie to give Durham a 5-3 win in the second game. The Hi-Toms took the opener 4-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Gene Snyder. Breznenk also hit a solo homer in the third inning of the same game. Howie Kopolitz was touched for 10 hits by the Hi-Toms but was effective in the pinches.

Wilson scored six runs in the first inning and went on to hand last place Burlington a 10-7 lacing. The big blow in the first inning uprising was a three-run homer by pitcher Bert Barth, who gave up 10 hits and struck out 13, but had to have help in the ninth when Burlington rallied for four runs.

The Greensboro Yankees downed Raleigh 5-4 for their 12th win in the last 16 games. Duke Addis scattered 10 hits in gaining his eighth win against three losses. Raleigh, behind by 5-2 rallied for two runs in the eighth before Addis doused the fire.

The Winston-Salem — Danville game was postponed because of rain.

Washington (AP) — Senate hearings start today on a bill to exempt major professional sports from the antitrust laws.

Mickey Mantle, Ted Williams and Stan Musial are among the lead-off witnesses.

The initial hearing by the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee will also hear Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Yankees, Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies and Eddie Yost of the Washington Senators, player representatives for the National and American leagues.

After today's hearing on the House-passed bill, the subcommittee plans to recess until next week.

The legislation covers professional football, basketball and hockey as well as baseball.

It would not apply, however, to such commercial activities as ticket sales and ball park concessions and rentals.

The measure, strongly backed by club owners, is the outgrowth of a Supreme Court ruling that professional football, unlike baseball, is subject to the antitrust laws. The decision implied that other professional sports also have no exemption.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), chairman of the Senate subcommittee, has said that the bill as passed by the House is too broad.

He said he was inclined to favor the approach taken by a bill sponsored by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) but rejected by the House. It would have exempted from antitrust restrictions only practices found to be "reasonably necessary" to the sports.

However, Sen. Thomas C. Hennrich (D-Mo) has introduced a bill identical with the House-passed measure and it now has 44 other senators listed as co-sponsors.

Kefauver, announcing plans for extensive hearings, has declined to say whether he thought Senate action on the legislation would be possible before Congress adjourns.

Subsequent witnesses, he said, will include representatives of the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission as well as players and officials of all four sports involved.

Solons Want Club To Stay

BALTIMORE (AP) — American League club owners and lawmakers want ball-playing Senators to remain in Washington.

Calvin Griffith, president of the capital's baseball team, broached the possibility of shifting to Minneapolis or elsewhere but dropped the idea after a closed session yesterday with fellow owners here for the All-Star Game.

Griffith wouldn't commit his club to stay in Washington forever. He said no businessman can make such a promise. But for the time, at least, any move is out.

Sen. William Langer (R-ND) declared there ought to be an investigation. Sen. Karl Mundt (R-SD) said talk of depriving congressmen of elsewhere but dropped the idea after a closed session yesterday with fellow owners here for the All-Star Game.

O'Dell, Farrell Got Raves From Veteran Mates

BALTIMORE (AP) — All-Star freshmen Billy O'Dell of Baltimore and Dick Farrell of Philadelphia drew the raves of the veterans for their pitching in baseball's annual battle of the leagues.

Southpaw O'Dell wasn't credited with the American League's 4-3 victory over the National yesterday. But he mowed down the Nationals 1-2-3 in the last three innings.

In All-Star competition pitchers are limited to three innings apiece so the official scorers have some discretion in selecting a winner. Early Wynn, the aged White Sox right-hander, worked only one inning but he retired the Nationals in order and he was still pitcher of record when the Americans went ahead to stay in the sixth.

For that reason Wynn received the victory, fitting enough as it was his first in five years as an All-Star.

But it was O'Dell, 25 in his second full season with the Orioles, who caused American League clubhouse talk.

"He made all those National League batters look the same size didn't he?" said Manager Casey Stengel.

O'Dell was Baltimore's first bonus player when the city was returned to major league baseball in 1954 and its cheapest.

He threw fast balls and sliders to the full National League lineup and only one of them, pinch hitter Johnny Logan of Milwaukee, was able to hit one past the infield.

Ted Williams, playing in his 14th All-Star Game, lectured in favor of Farrell.

He said the 6-3 Philly reliever throws a "real live fast ball."

Farrell is from Brookline, Mass., heart of the Boston Red Sox territory.

"Now I can stop slinking down the alleys," he said. "I struck out Williams."

Farrell, 24, also is in his second full season as a major league pitcher. In 25 games this year he has a 6-2 won-lost mark and an earned run average of 1.17.

"He's the best reliever I've seen in 20 years in the big leagues," said Gil Poseidel, Phillies' pitching coach.

Farrell struck out four in his two hitless, runless innings. O'Dell fanned two. None of the vets could strike out a man.

Harold Carter Is Slight Favorite Against Valdes

SPOKANE (AP) — Harold Carter of Linden, N. J., and Cuba's Nino Valdes meet tonight in a heavyweight match.

Carter, 24, fresh from a decision over Willi Besmanoff of Germany last month, is rated a slight favorite in the TV 10-rounder. His camp has talked confidently of knocking Nino out.

Valdes has a three-bout winning streak going but he is also going on 34 years of age and needs a good performance here to keep himself in the running for Floyd Patterson's title.

Carter is expected to come in at 194, Valdes at 211.

Carter, who has scored 10 knockouts in 27 fights, brings a 23-2-2 record into the ring in his second match after a year in the Army. Big Nino has won 44, lost 15 and had 2 draws. He has 32 knockouts to his credit.

Carter is rated the No. 5 contender by the National Boxing Assn. and Valdes No. 8.

The second game will be played here on the 18th at Guy Smith Stadium. The third game will be played in the city which attracted the most fans on the first two occasions.

Coaches will choose from the State Bank, Home Builders, Guaranty Bank, College View teams, the boys whom they decide have been outstanding throughout the 1958 teen-er season.

McDougald's Hit Drove In AL's Winning Tally

By JOE REICHLER

BALTIMORE (AP) — Billy Pierce's arm tightened up in the bullpen so Billy O'Dell, another southpaw, went in to pitch. Gil McDougald had not made a hit in his last 18 times at bat and Manager Casey Stengel figured this might be the spot for him to "get rid of the collar."

Of such little things are All-Star Games won—and lost.

O'Dell, Baltimore's first bonus player, undoubtedly was the pitching star although veteran Early Wynn of Chicago was credited with the American League's comeback 4-3 victory yesterday over the Nationals.

McDougald hit a pinch single with one out and two runners on base in the sixth inning, driving in Boston's Frank Malzone from second with the run that snapped the 3-3 tie. The Yankee infielder was called off the bench to bat for Wynn, who pitched only one inning—the scoreless top of the sixth.

For Casey, it was his third summer success as compared with five defeats. A crowd of 48,629 paid $18,253.21 into the players' pension fund.

"It might be a bad omen," the grizzled Yankee skipper said. "Every time I win the All-Star Game, I lose either the pennant or the World Series. I win in 1954 and lose the pennant to Cleveland, I win again in 1957 and lose the World Series to Milwaukee."

Casey praised three of the four pitchers he used—Cleveland's Ray Narleski, Wynn and O'Dell. He said that Bob Turley, his own right-hander, who was clipped for all the National League runs before he was relieved by Narleski in the second, was too wild.

"It just shows you that good pitchers can top good hitters," Stengel said of his guys who limited the National League's best power hitters to four hits, all singles. In fact, the Americans' nine hits off Warren Spahn, loser Bob Friend, Larry Jackson and Dick Farrell were all singles too, making it the first All-Star Game that was devoid of extra-base hits.

Stengel had special praise for O'Dell, who retired nine batters in order in the last three innings to protect the Americans' one-run lead. The slender South Carolinian, mixing a good fast ball with a snapping slider, struck out two and permitted only one ball to be hit out of the infield. That was pinch hitter Johnny Logan's liner, on which Ted Williams made a leaping catch in the seventh.

Stengel would not admit that O'Dell was a second choice to take the mound in the seventh. Pierce, however, acknowledged that Jim Turner, Casey's chief lieutenant, had advised him to "get ready because you're going in," when McDougald was sent up as a pinch hitter.

"I was heating up hurriedly," explained Pierce, "when I felt my arm tightening up."

Fred Haney, Milwaukee manager, who piloted the National League, offered no excuses but he expressed surprise at his charges' failure to get more than four hits, two of them of the scratchy variety. "Two men didn't get a hit after the third inning and the last 15 went down in order. Willie Mays, Bob Skinner, Frank Thomas and Stan Musial were the only ones to hit safely."

"We didn't hit," Haney said, "but those other guys didn't knock down any fences either. We made two errors and they both cost us runs."

"It was true. The Americans scored an unearned run off starter Spahn in the first inning after the Nationals had pounced on Turley for a 2-0 lead. Shortstop Ernie Banks' wide throw of leadoff Nellie Fox's grounder pulled Musial off first base. A single by Mickey Mantle sent Fox to third, from where he scored when Jackie Jensen rapped and the last 15 went down in order. Willie Mays, Bob Skinner, Frank Thomas and Stan Musial were the only ones to hit safely."

The Nationals had increased their margin to 3-1 in the top of the second. Mays forced Spahn, who had walked, but stole second, raced to third on catcher Gus Triandos' poor throw and scored on Skinner's single. The "home" squad got that run back in its half of the second on singles by Triandos, Narleski and Fox, and tied the score 3-3 in the fifth on singles by pinch hitter Mickey Vernon and Fox, a bases-filling walk to Mantle and Jensen's infield out.

Ex-Policeman Produces Evidence Of Crime In Which Another Convicted

JEFFERSON, Ga. (AP)—James Fulton Foster's dream of freedom was one step near realization today — thanks to discovery of a grimy, rotting pair of army fatigues.

Charles Paul (Ricky) Rothschild, 33-year-old former Cairo, Ill., policeman, led officers to the spot where he said he discarded the pants in a signed statement admitting he shot and killed Charlie Oranke, a merchant here.

The confession brought new hope to Foster, a 40-year-old house painter from Greer, S.C., who twice had been sentenced to death in the Drake case.

Yesterday officers brought Rothschild to Jefferson from the South Carolina penitentiary at Columbia in an effort to find a caliber pistol and clothing he said he discarded after the crime in 1956.

The former policeman, who is serving a robbery term in South Carolina, said he thought he tossed the gun into the Mulberry River. The river, however, was too high for a thorough search.

Then Rothschild guided the search party to a clump of undergrowth about two miles north of Statham and said: "That's where I hid the fatigues and gloves."

Groping beneath a maze of honeysuckle vines, officers pulled out the dirty, rotting fatigues. The gloves were not found immediately.

Maj. Delmar Jones, director of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, said "There seems to be no question but that these are the fatigues mentioned in the confession. As far as I'm concerned, that corroborates Rothschild's statement."

Earlier Foster and Rothschild met face to face for the first time at the Jefferson jailhouse.

"Rocky—May I call you Rocky?" Those were Foster's first words. Then he said, "I have waited a long time for this — I owe you my life."

"God bless you," Rothschild said.

They embraced, tears in their eyes.

Behind Foster stood his 38-year-old wife, Irene, and their seven children. She stepped forward, hugged Rothschild and said "God have mercy on you — thanks for saving my husband's life . . ."

At that point she suddenly glanced at her husband, exclaimed "Oh, Jim, Jim," apparently unsure her husband was with her, and collapsed.

Defense Attorneys Floyd Hoard and James Horace Wood helped Foster carry his wife to the jailhouse porch where she soon re- lapsed.

Mrs. Foster and the children, aged 7 to 18, have been staying in three rooms on the second floor of the rambling brick jail since they arrived Sunday. They are guests of the sheriff and plan to remain until Foster is free to return home.

Following the emotional meeting, Rothschild was asked how he felt about his confession.

"I'll tell you like I told the minister," he said. "I'd rather be in jail with the feeling that I have in my heart and soul than to be outside without it."

Milton Eisenhower Will Start His Tour Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower's delayed good will visit to Central America will begin Saturday.

The White House gave out that word last night after Dr. Eisenhower, brother of the President, returned by military plane from a two-week fishing trip in Wisconsin.

Pentagon officials were unavailable for comment on Eisenhower's use of two small military planes in returning his party from Wisconsin's Land o'Lakes region to Wausau, Wis., and a Military Air Transport Service Convair for the flight to Washington.

The White House wouldn't elaborate beyond saying the trip was advanced in date and Dr. Eisenhower returned to make preliminary arrangements.

This conforms with reports Monday that Eisenhower would begin the trip July 12. Earlier reports had it he would leave Washington July 15 on the six-nation tour.

Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, originally planned to leave in mid-

June but the tour was postponed after Vice President Nixon encountered anti-American riots in Latin America. The State Department, however, said the reason for the postponement was difficulty in scheduling convenient conference dates for the Eisenhower mission.

In Chicago, a 5th Army spokesman said the request for the aircraft used by Milton Eisenhower came from a White House military aide.

On his tour Eisenhower will head a study delegation that will confer with Central American officials about economic development and other problems. He is expected to visit Nicaragua, Guatemala, Costa Rica, Honduras, El Salvador and Panama.

At the beginning of World War II there were 1 1/2 million tractors on U. S. farms; by 1950 there were more than 3 1/2 million and by the mid-1950s more than 4 1/2 million.

Space Scientists Considering Development Of A Special Breed

By RENNIE TAYLOR AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Space scientists are weighing the idea of trying to breed a special type of man or animal who could breathe water or gas instead of air.

In the place of lungs he might have gills like a fish. Or he might have lungs which could be filled temporarily with water and be converted back to air breathing later.

Even some kind of breathing organ which would enable him to stay alive in an atmosphere of ammonia or methane gas is an item for consideration.

These far-reaching possibilities were brought out today by Dr. Blaine Levendahl, zoologist from the University of California at Los Angeles. He talked to a reporter after addressing the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences.

To produce a creature like this, scientists would have to speed up enormously the process of evolution. Dr. Levendahl made no specific suggestions as to how it should be undertaken. He expressed the belief, however, that

Says Americans Have Poor Goal

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP)—A Washington, D. C., educator says Americans are more concerned over the fizz in their gin than in the fizzles in their rockets.

Dr. Winton H. Beaven, dean of the School of Graduate Studies at Potomac University, said Americans are spending 10 times more on liquor each year than is being spent on basic research.

He told Institute of Scientific Studies for the Prevention of Alcoholism: "While the Russians were bending their energies toward keeping ahead of the United States in the race to develop more powerful rockets, Americans were furiously bending their elbows downing 2,943,267,079 gallons of alcoholic beverages in 1957."

researchers already have the means to make a start in that direction.

Evolutionary theory holds that all life started in the water; that the forerunners of all air-breathers had gills. It took many millions of years for them to develop lungs and move to dry land. So the production of a water-breathing man would be equivalent to turning the evolutionary timeclock forward until it completed a full circle.

A man with gills and with the ability to tolerate a full load of water in all his body cavities would be protected against the crushing effects of being shot into space. He could better withstand the shock of hitting the atmosphere at high speed on his return to earth, Dr. Levendahl said.

Even without gills, but with lungs and other spaces that could be filled with water for a while he could go through these critical phases of space travel easily, the zoologist asserted.

Unsuccessful In Both Endeavours

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—The man who has made three unsuccessful attempts to float to Hawaii on a raft has now made two unsuccessful attempts to talk to Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr.

Devere Baker wants the general to tow the raft Lehi IV 50 miles to sea with his palatial yacht, which is tied up at San Pedro.

He did so, and was informed that Trujillo was still asleep—at noon.

"I'm going to try to see Trujillo again," said the raftman. He hopes a 50-mile tow will take him to ocean currents to drift off to Hawaii.

Trujillo, son of the Dominican Republic strongman, moved his yacht yesterday—but only four berths away, so he could load his $12,000 sports car.

Baboons To Get Drugged Candy

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Scientists here were making chocolate candy today for a bunch of baboons in Africa.

A drug was being mixed in 100 pounds of chocolate at the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education.

If the baboons go for the chocolate, the drug will free them of simian malaria in a couple of weeks. Then they will be flown to Africa to San Antonio for heart research.

The scientists are doing research on atherosclerosis, the disease in which fatty deposits form in blood vessels.

They say the baboon is the only known animal which develops such deposits as does man. But the baboon is a vegetarian and consumes little animal fats. This indicates the importance of studying other factors rather than diet alone.

Scientists from the SFRE and Louisiana State University School of Medicine on their way to Nairobi, Africa include Dr. N. T. Werthessen, pathology instructor; Nicholas Gagliano, Dr. Henry McGill, Dr. Joseph Miller and Dr. Jack Strong.

They will collect baboon tissue and arrange for shipment of 200 of the animals to San Antonio by air.

The tissue will make it possible to compare the progress of the disease in animals with that in humans. The goal is to produce a predictable animal which can be used to test agents which may control the disease.

NOT BY GUNS ALONE

By E.M. Barker

Baeho was always indelicate when drunk. He talked and glibbed a lot, but mostly in a low monotone to himself. There was a half-empty whisky glass on the bar in front of him, and from the way he was weaving and staring vacantly down at the floor at his feet, Slade figured he had probably been about half loaded before he got to the saloon.

He walked over and tapped the little man on the shoulder. "Let's go, Baeho."

The little herder looked up at him, smiling vacantly. He picked up his whisky glass and waved it at the other three men along the bar.

"Just having a drink with my friends," he mumbled, "want you to meet my friends — Tony Miller — Slim Weaver — Butch Kaasper. Slim's from Texas. He weighs two hundred pounds — so they call him 'Slim.' Funny — isn't it? All of them work for Wynn now. My good friend Wynn. Funny Wynn needs so many men to work for him now. Isn't that right, Tony?"

Slade took the glass out of his hand and set it down. He caught Baeho by the arm. "Come on, Baeho."

Baeho tried to shrug off the arm. "Lemme alone. Just want a drink with my friends. Tony's going to buy me another—"

Tony Miller's cold eyes raked up and down Slade's lean height. "You heard him?" he snarled. "I bought him that drink, and if he wants to finish it, by gravies, he can! No damn Ranger is going to stop him while I'm around!"

Slade had always wondered just how much real toughness was behind Tony's surly tongue. Now was his chance to find out: His right hand suddenly uncupped and clipped Tony on the chin, sending him backward against the bar.

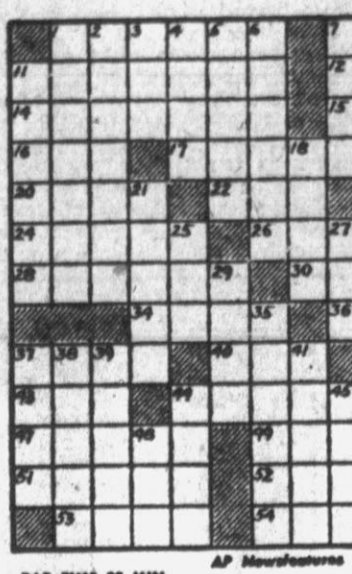

Tony's hand streaked to the gun at his hip, but Slade had followed up that first blow, and now his hand slapped the gun from the other man's hand the instant it cleared the holster.

Then he whirled, half expecting fight from the other two punchers, who seemed to be friends, and who were apparently new hands for the Anchor T. But they were standing quietly, their hands at their sides, their eyes fixed on the bartender, who was covering them with a sawed-off shotgun...

Slade and Baeho now have good reason to get out of town and stay out. But will or can they? Continue "Not By Guns Alone" here tomorrow.

ECC Travel Study Tour Plans Nearly Wound Up

Final plans for a travel-study tour in geography to be offered by East Carolina College July 15-August 6 are now being completed, Professor Robert E. Cramer of the department of geography, tour director, has announced.

A group of 36 student-tourists will travel by chartered air-conditioned bus for 23 days through New England, the Maritime Provinces of Canada, the Gaspé Peninsula, the St. Lawrence Lowlands, and the area around Lake Ontario.

The objective of the tour is to give the student-tourists an understanding and appreciation of geographical conditions and problems in a large area of Anglo-America. Those completing requirements may receive six or nine quarter hours in geography or education to be applied toward a degree or toward certificate renewal. Several of these enrolled will tour as auditors.

Observations of industrial plants are included in the itinerary. Students will visit the Corning Glass Center in New York, The Canadian International Paper Co. in Trois Rivières, Quebec, a cranberry processing plant in Massachusetts, and the Bethlehem Steel Works in Buffalo. Other visits will include trips to the newly constructed hydroelectric generating station in Niagara Falls, and to the locks of the Welland Canal.

In the Province of Prince Edward Island, the Ministry of Fisheries in cooperation with the Ministry of Agriculture will conduct the East Carolina party tour of the Province. Here students will see oyster seed beds, oyster fishing, the gathering of Irish Moss from the ocean, and milk and fox farms.

Other visits will take place in Saint John, New Brunswick, where the class will tour the harbour and inspect an aircraft carrier in dry dock. In Montreal a representative of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority will conduct the group on a tour of a section of the newly completed St. Lawrence Seaway. In Bar Harbor, Maine, a U. S. Park Ranger will conduct the class through Acadia National Park.

The student-tourists will also visit the Mystic Seaport in Connecticut, a village constructed in the manner of a 19th century seaport; tour an ocean liner in the port of Montreal; hike up the Flume in New Hampshire; and take conducted tours of New York City, Boston, Montreal, Quebec, and Ottawa. Also there will be three boat rides, a scenic aerial lift in New Hampshire, a tour of an old castle in Toronto, and various recreational visits.

Don't Weep Over Banks In Easy Money Months

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Easy money and the industrial slump are slowing down the rate of gain in net operating earnings of banks in many parts of the nation. A few even report making less than a year ago when tight money was boosting their profits at a smart clip.

of $981,000 in the first half of 1957, and of $4,397,000 in the first six months of 1958.

J. P. Morgan & Co. reports a securities profits of $2,174,000 this year compared with a loss of $190,778 in the previous year.

MONCURE, N.C. (AP)—Carolina Power and Light Co. will begin operating its new 235,000 horsepower steam generator near here Sunday at ceremonies commemorating the firm's 50th anniversary.

But don't weep for them yet. Easy money has also provided a windfall. This is the rise in the price of bonds, particularly the government securities that banks like. Many banks show nice profit gains from this.

As a group the nation's largest banks are able to show continuing net operating gains, mostly in the range of 2 to 6 per cent. But this time last year they were topping the 1956 earnings by 10 to 20 per cent, due in large part to tight money.

The slowdown in the rise of operating earnings — and in some cases a decline — reflects the Federal Reserve Board's easy money policy this year as a recession remedy. This is because the greater supply of money has led to a softening of interest that banks charge borrowers.

Coupled with this has been the decline in the demand of businessmen for loans. They have required less bank help in carrying inventories, which they were piling, or in financing new plants and equipment.

The huge generator took two years to build. Its outdoor type boiler rises to the height of a 17-story building and can generate in one hour enough electricity to supply 38 average size homes for a year.

This will be the sixth generator to be put into service at the power company's Cape Fear plant — now the largest in the CP&L system with an aggregate of 565,000 horsepower at full load.

Meet The Highest Paid 18-Year-Old In America

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Meet Rickey Nelson, doubtless the highest-paid 18-year-old in the nation. Rickey is the youngest of the talented Nelson clan. Not only does he appear on the Ozzie and Harriet TV show with his parents and brother David. The lad also sells millions of records and has drawn up to 26,000 people (Minnesota State Fair) on singing appearances.

He's now making his first dramatic move, playing a young gun slinger in "Rio Bravo." Here is the result of a question-and-answer session:

Q. Pat Wayne said he read you're worth 1 1/2 million dollars. Is that true?

A. I don't know what I'm worth. I never see the money.

Q. Where is it?

A. In the bank. I get it when I'm 21.

Q. What are you going to do with it?

A. Spend it.

Q. What do you live on now?

A. My folks give me money when I ask for it. I don't need much—about $10 a week.

Q. Are your personal appearances dangerous?

A. They can be. I lose some of my clothing now and then. I generally take along two ex-UCLA football players, Paul Cameron and Jack Elena, to protect me. I spend most of my time in each town in the hotel room. It's too much of a problem to go out.

Q. If they're so rugged, why do you go on those tours?

A. I like to sing.

Q. Did you ever take any lessons?

A. No. I used to sing in a church choir. And I was a big fan of classical music when I was about 8.

Q. Are you going to college?

A. Not this year. I'll be too busy making another picture, the TV series, recording and doing personal. If I took four years of college, then went into the Army for two years, that would be too much time lost.

Q. What is your draft status?

A. I'm registered. I suppose I'll have until I'm 22 before I go in.

Q. Your father once told me

Would Wait No Longer All Alone

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The world hurried by Miss Ethel Egelink.

Few people stopped at the 73-year-old spinster's small walkup flat . . . the postman now and then . . . the landlord.

Miss Egelink loved life—but not the lonely one she was living. Yesterday she bathed, put on her best nightgown and robe and wrote: "For five years I have searched the depths of me. Why and how did I inflict a life like this one on myself?"

"I cannot find any other answer than the crime of getting old."

"I cannot wait for death in death's house any longer."

She swallowed a handful of sleeping pills, police reported.

And while life scurried by outside, Miss Egelink died.

Benjamin Franklin was the only American who signed the four fundamental documents of American freedom: Declaration of Independence, treaty of alliance with France, treaty of peace with Britain, and Constitution of the United States.

Profit on securities comes when their prices rise and the bank is able to sell them for more than it paid for them.

Easy money in the first half of 1958 has done this by lowering the yield on government securities — which means their market price has risen although their interest rates are fixed and unchanged.

"Tight money in the first half of 1957 was sending interest rates up, and hence the price of bonds down. So when a bank sold bonds to get money to lend to insistent customers it usually did so at a loss."

Example: Chase Manhattan Bank, New York's largest in resources and deposits, reports a securities gain in the first six months of this year of $20,938,218, compared with a loss in the first half of 1957 of $4,183,867.

This profit came within speaking distance of what Chase Manhattan made on its net operating earnings, which came to $28,176,733, a gain of 5.3 per cent over last year's $26,764,958. The gain of the 1957 first half over 1956 had been 17 per cent.

New York's second largest bank, First National City, shows this year's profits from securities as $1,770,000, compared with a loss

Elvis' Daddy Is Paying Ticket

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Pvt. Elvis Presley's dad is going to pay off the speeding ticket the rock 'n' roll singer got Sunday.

Vernon Presley wrote Justice of the Peace Whit Boyd asking the amount of the fine and stating a check will be sent to cover it. Byrd said the fine and court costs came to $22.50. Presley was charged with going 75 miles per hour in a 55-mile zone. The star's parents are staying at Killeen while he soldiers at Ft. Hood.

NEW YORK (AP) — Some tobaccos and selected issues made gains as stock market prices moved generally higher in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

Most gains and losses were fractional. A few stocks gained 1 or 2 points.

The market was almost at dead center in early trading when movements were extremely narrow and a number of stocks were unchanged. The tone improved gradually.

The tobaccos added to early gains. Motors and steels showed a slightly better tone. Rails firmed.

Reichhold Chemical was apparently the trading favorite as it bounced back from yesterday's fractional loss and advanced well beyond a point. This stock has benefited from advisory service recommendations in recent weeks.

Lorillard continued to ignore the latest adverse health report on cigarette smoking and added another 2 points to its rise of 4 1/2 made earlier this week. U.S. Tobacco tagged along with a jump of more than a point. American Tobacco rose a fraction.

Libby, McNeill & Libby was moderately active and ahead a good fraction on unconfirmed Wall Street rumors of a merger with Seaman Bros.

Servel, yesterday's market leader, opened unchanged on a block of 4,000 shares and showed a fractional loss later.

U.S. Steel was ahead about a point while fractional gains were made by Youngstown Sheet and Lukens. Higher Steel scrap prices were reported in Chicago, Lukens had reported a sharp drop in earnings but declared the same dividend paid in May.

Chrysler had a spurt of activity and rose a major fraction in moderately active dealings. Du Pont granted within a fairly narrow range and in late dealings showed a slight edge to the upside. U.S. Gypsum was about a point ahead.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 cents to $175.60 with the industrial up 50 cents, the rails up 10 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

Vice Consul To Again Try Get Men Released

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP) — U. S. Vice Consul Robert Wiecha planned to return to rebel Cuba today and said he has hopes some of the 30 U. S. servicemen kidnaped by Fidel Castro's men will be released before nightfall.

The 25-year-old vice consul from Saginaw, Mich., and Raymond Elmore, 53, Haynesville, La., came out of the Santa Catalina Mountains by Navy helicopter yesterday. Wiecha had been in the area held by Castro's rebels for 10 days trying to recover North Americans kidnaped by the Cuban insurgents.

Elmore, assistant manager of the Ermita sugar mill 10 miles west of Guantanamo, was kidnaped June 28. He was the 17th hostage released, leaving the 30 sailors and Marines, two American civilians and one Canadian still scattered through the jungles.

Eugene A. Gilmore, a special representative of U. S. Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith, said after talking with Wiecha and Elmore that "this last lift gives us encouragement that the operations are continuing although slowly."

Gilmore, acting deputy chief of missions at the embassy in Havana, flew to the U. S. naval base on Guantanamo Bay to discuss the situation. He conferred four hours with Rear Adm. R. B. Ellis, the base commander.

Some Sidelights On City School Board Meeting

Bids for an improvement project at C. M. Eppes School will be opened July 23 at 10 a.m. It was decided last night by Greenville's City Board of Education.

The project will involve installation of a culvert, construction of bleachers and a retaining wall, and erection of a fence around the West campus of the school. Property involved in the project will be developed as an athletic and physical education area for the Negro school.

Funds for the improvements are included in the city schools' budget for 1958-1959 operations. Plans are being drawn by Dudley and Shoe, Greenville architectural firm.

Board Chairman Dr. E. B. Aycock and Superintendent J. H. Rose were named by other board members to investigate and make a recommendation on various school student insurance plans proposed for next year. The insurance, which has been offered on a voluntary basis for several years, covers accidents involving school students participating in school activities.

George Scott and Company was awarded the contract for auditing the school system's financial records for the 1957-1958 school year.

Superintendent Rose reported that City of Greenville personnel are in the process of surveying a parking lot at the campus of Junius H. Rose High School and that a hard surface will be placed on the lot as soon as the survey is completed.

Rose also reported that the system's "usual program" of summer maintenance is underway and will be continued until all necessary work is completed.

ENNIS, Tex. (AP) — Three adventure-minded college students from the Texas Gulf Coast camped here last night on a Beaumont-to-San Francisco-or-bust trip by covered wagon.

Though outfitted in complete cowboy regalia, they readily admitted they had never driven a wagon, fixed a broken axle or put a shoe on a mule or horse until they headed west.

"We're learning and so are the mules," said Jerry McElroy, 19, Port Neches, Tex.

His companions are Bill Hickman, 18, Nederland, Tex., and Bob Williams, 18, Grove, Tex. All three are students at Lamar Tech at Beaumont, about 326 miles from here.

McElroy said they got the idea for their trip after learning of a trust fund that had been set up for persons who traveled to California and settled.

When inquiries showed the fund had been dissolved, they decided to make the trip anyway for the fun and experience. With some enterprise they won the backing of the Highway 287 Assn.

Too Exhausted To Face Press

WISBAEDEN, Germany (AP) — The U. S. Air Force today postponed a news conference by the nine airmen released by the Soviet Union, saying they were "too tired and exhausted to face the press today."

The mass interview originally scheduled for yesterday after their arrival had been postponed for the same reason.

An Air Force spokesman said he could not say if or when the press conference would be held.

The men's unarmed cargo transport crossed the border of Soviet Armenia inadvertently in a bad weather June 27 on a flight from Wiesbaden to Pakistan.

The plane was brought down by shots from two intercepting MiG jets which set it afire. Five of the crew parachuted to safety and the other four escaped after they landed the plane and before it exploded.

The Soviets turned the airmen over to American representatives at the Soviet-Iranian border Monday and they arrived here from Tehran yesterday.

When they arrived they appeared greatly fatigued but generally in good shape. A. Z. C. Peter N. Sabo of Chicago was said to have suffered second-degree burns and A. Z. Earl H. Reamer of St. Louis Park, Minn., had a shaved spot on one side of his head, indicating he had sustained a minor injury.

Boy Chooses To Stay In America

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 15-year-old Latvian-born boy has reaffirmed his desire to stay in this country despite his mother's wish that he return with her to their Communist-dominated homeland.

Julius Pulvers Jr. told Municipal Court Judge Adrian Bonnelly yesterday: "I love my mother very much but I want to stay in America."

Julius' parents are divorced and Judge Bonnelly was asked to decide who is to have custody of the youngster. His mother Minna wants to go back to Latvia because of loneliness and a desire to see relatives there. His father, who became an American citizen the day before yesterday, objected and the matter came to court.

Temporary custody of the boy was awarded to the father, and a final decision is expected in about two weeks.

Julius derives U.S. citizenship from his father, but if the court awards custody to the mother, he could not claim it. Judge Bonnelly said the courts are very often guided by the child's desires in custody cases.

The Pulvers came to this country as displaced persons after imprisonment in German concentration camps during World War II.

Three Arrested For Affray Over Two-Bit Quarrel

An argument over a quarter resulted in a fight and the subsequent arrest of three local Negroes shortly before noon yesterday.

The affray took place in front of a cafe at 10th Street and Grande Avenue, involved were: Levi Green, Douglas, 49, of 509 West 12th St.; and Jessie Spain, 37, of 603 Clark Street. Each man was charged in a separate indictment.

According to investigating officers, Spain struck Green on the head with a rock. Eight stitches were required to close the gash. Green reportedly struck Douglas with a stick, the blow splitting a one inch gash between two fingers on the victim's left hand. Both were treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital and released.

Police quoted Green as saying Spain owed him a quarter and that the fight started while the two were arguing.

Temperature At 93 Yesterday

The temperature in the Greenville area continues in the lower 90s and yesterday's highest mark was 93 about 4 p.m. Lowest last night was 76, and at 8 a.m. today the mercury registered 80 degrees at the Utilities Plant.

A drizzling rain, not enough to register, occurred here yesterday.

Tar River at Greenville was at the lowest point today in over a year. The stream was at the three-foot early today and the tide may cause it to vary a few inches. The river's normal level here is about five feet, a riverman stated.

Tenderfeet Ride Covered Wagon On Long Trail

ENNIS, Tex. (AP) — Three adventure-minded college students from the Texas Gulf Coast camped here last night on a Beaumont-to-San Francisco-or-bust trip by covered wagon.

Cotton Acreage In State May Be At All-Time Low

RALEIGH (AP) — The condition of North Carolina's cotton crop has been listed as good, but 1958 acreage may reach a new all-time low.

Reports through July 1 indicate the size of the crop may be the lowest since records were begun in 1866.

About 275,000 acres were in cultivation July 1, 59 per cent below the 1947-56 average of 666,000 acres and 22 per cent below the 351,000 acres in cultivation of July 1 last year.

The Federal State Crop Reporting Service said yesterday that despite a late start, the crop's condition was generally good.

It said generally favorable weather conditions and an unusually low boll weevil infestation have helped the crop, and better than average yields are in prospect.

Plan Experiment With Curriculum

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina education officials will try an experimental curriculum in Wayne County's Rosewood High School next school year to determine how effective is intensive, concentrated study.

Rosewood High students will have their nine-month school year divided into two four and a half month semesters. They will study only three subjects during each period.

For the year as a whole they will cover as many subjects as students subjected to normal curriculums.

Dr. I. E. Ready, director of the curriculum study in North Carolina's schools, said the plan will be a pilot study for other schools.

GRIFTON — The mercury rose all over eastern North Carolina yesterday afternoon but it was probably hottest here, and right by so.

The town didn't have any water available for between four and five hours.

A water line on Gordon Street was broken by a road grader. The mishap occurred around one o'clock. It was late in the afternoon before city workers could repair the damage.

More Schools Will Join In Television Experiment

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Aided by the Ford Foundation's renewal of a $95,000 grant for 1958-59, North Carolina's in-school television experiment is expected to expand to include 27 school systems with 9,000 students.

Last year's program benefited 7,000 students in 19 school systems.

President William C. Friday of the Consolidated University of North Carolina announced the grant renewal yesterday.

Program Director Charles W. Phillips said three new school systems, Durham, Elkin and Rock Hill, S.C., have joined the program and five additional systems are considering the project. Phillips also told of an increasing number of participating schools within the systems.

During the past year, televised 30-minute lessons, originating at WUNC-TV studios at Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Greensboro have been sent over a 100-mile radius in the state.

Elections Board To Hear Request

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Board of Elections will meet here July 16 to consider the request of a defeated candidate for constable in Charlotte for a recount of ballots cast in the May 31 primary.

William H. Sherron lost to Robert C. Dellinger by 13 votes for constable of Charlotte Township. Sherron claims he has affidavits from more than 20 persons that they voted for him in a particular precinct. However, the count of votes for him in that precinct totaled only 10, Sherron contends.

A constable receives a fee for each warrant or paper he serves. Sherron reported an income last year of about $14,000. His appeal to the Mecklenburg County Board of Elections for a recount was turned down because he had not obtained the affidavits at that time, it was reported.
