The Plan: To Channel Traffic

TRAFFIC ISLANDS—City crews are installing asphalt traffic islands at Five Points to aid in the channeling of vehicles at the complicated intersection. The areas which the islands will occupy were previously marked off with yellow paint. The raised asphalt islands will prevent autos running in the areas. They also provide safety islands for pedestrian traffic. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Goldfine Silent On Two Large Checks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bernard Goldfine refused today to tell House investigators why he had issued two checks totaling $178,982.64 last year. The congressman threatened to subpoena his books. Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark.) of the House subcommittee hearing Goldfine for the fourth day gave the Boston industrialist a choice: either answer the question, or have his books subpoenaed for committee inspection. "On advice of counsel, I can't answer," Goldfine said. The checks in the controversy were one for $83,385.35 issued March 28, 1957, and one for $95,597.29 issued April 30, 1957, to the Yale Wool Waste Co. by one of Goldfine's textile mills, the Northfield plant. Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.) said the Yale company was under investigation in 1957 on a mislabeling charge. He said Yale had sold some of the goods involved in the investigation to Northfield at a lower price than usual. He demanded that Goldfine say whether the checks were issued to pay Yale for any goods supplied to Northfield. Goldfine said the checks were never used. He said they were deposited back in the bank by his Northfield mill. Therefore, he argued, they could not have been used for any purpose. Bennett insisted that Goldfine say whether they were intended, when issued, to be used as a line of credit. "I respectfully decline to answer," Goldfine replied. He said the question was not pertinent to the committee's investigation of Federal Trade Commission activities. But Bennett insisted that it was pertinent. He asked Chairman Harris for a ruling. Harris said he had no way of deciding whether the question was relevant or not if Goldfine refused to reply. "It will be the purpose of the chairman to issue a subpoena for your books," Harris added. Harris chided Goldfine for what he called "a ridiculous attitude" in refusing to answer committee questions on grounds it was none of the committee's business. He said it was a "lack of cooperation and an unreasonable attitude to take." The congressman is exploring Goldfine's relations with his friend, presidential aide Sherman Adams, and various federal regulatory agencies. The big question for the committee is whether these agencies were influenced by Adams to give Goldfine preferential treatment. Both Adams and Goldfine deny that. Subcommittee counsel Robert W. Lishman has been asked to study Supreme Court opinions on what congressmen may and may not properly ask. The court in one major opinion on that point a year ago ruled that a committee must show the witness that its questions are pertinent to the inquiry. That opinion, which set aside a contempt of Congress conviction, quoted an earlier opinion that a congressional investigation into individual affairs "is invalid if unrelated to any legislative purpose." Goldfine, limiting the extent to which he would answer questions yesterday about his business affairs, contended many queries were not pertinent. Expressing interest in more study of the question of pertinency were Reps. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.), John E. Moss (D-Calif.), John B. Bennett (R-Mich.) and Peter F. Mack (D-Ill.). Questioners were trying to show that the gift-giving Goldfine got favored federal treatment through his friendship with President Eisenhower's top aide Sherman Adams. Both Goldfine, a Boston textile and real estate millionaire, and Adams have steadfastly denied the charge. Mack brought out from subcommittee files an investigative report that Goldfine, now 67, was indicted in 1909 on a charge of concealing assets in a bankruptcy case. Goldfine was then 18. The charge was dismissed, apparently for lack of evidence.

Council Meeting Slated Tonight

An amendment to the zoning ordinances concerning the storage of petroleum products and bulk plants for wholesale use will be considered by city councilmen tonight at 8 o'clock in City Hall. The city fathers will consider the appointment of a new member of the Planning-Zoning Commission. There will be a report to the council on the Urban Renewal program. Also to be discussed is the purchase of equipment for the coming year, setting a date for adoption of the budget, and widening of streets in the vicinity of Eighth and Evans Sts.

Cardinal Undergoes Makeshift Surgery

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Using instruments sterilized in a pot of boiling water on the kitchen stove, a Yugoslav surgeon performed an emergency operation on Alojzije Cardinal Stepinac's right leg today to halt a blood clot from threatening his life. The operation was performed by Dr. Branislav Bogicevic on a makeshift operating table in one of the rooms of the prelate's little home. Dr. Bogicevic said he worked only in the dim daylight coming through the windows. He used a local anesthetic. The doctor reported that it was too early to tell whether the operation was a success. "We certainly believe it was," he added. He said the operation was performed to check a thrombosis condition. "If it were to spread it would

Possibly Heaviest Man In History Dies Today

BREMEN, Ind. (AP)—Robert Earl Hughes, 32, possibly the heaviest man in medical history, died today in his trailer home parked beside Bremen Community Hospital. Mrs. Mary Harris, hospital administrator, said uremia evidently was the cause of the 1,041-pound man's death. He became ill while traveling with a carnival and was brought to this northern Indiana town Sunday, suffering from a variety of ailments, including measles and a heart condition. He could not be taken into the hospital building because of his massive bulk, too great for any standard bed. He remained in his traveling house, built on a truck bed, and nurses climbed a ladder to attend him. Otho Huff, Bremen undertaker, embalmed the body on Hughes' trailer bed, built of two-by-four boards. He said it probably would be necessary to leave the body in the trailer while it is taken to Emden, Mo., for funeral services. Guy B. Hughes, brother of the big man, said he would order a special coffin but it probably would be too large to be taken into the Emden Baptist Church for the funeral. Burial will be in a cemetery at Binville, Ill. Definite times were not set immediately. Hughes was 10 feet 2 around the waist, 40 inches around each upper arm, and 6 feet tall. Guy, his wife, and his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Demis gave personal care to Robert Earl during his illness. The big man also is survived by another brother, Donald M. Hughes of Oden, Utah, and five half-sisters—all of normal size. Doctors said an attack of whooping cough, when Robert Earl was three months old, had upset his glandular balance.

Pinned Beneath Truck And Dies

ZEBULON, N.C. (AP)—A panel truck went out of control near here last night killing the driver and injuring a passenger. The Highway Patrol said Bailey Carl Stallings, 56, of Rt. 2, Zebulon, died when he was pinned under the overturned vehicle. Lettie Grey Terry, 20, of Rt. 1 Youngsville, suffered minor injuries in the crash which occurred on N.C. Highway 96 about five miles from here. She said Stallings complained the truck was not steering properly just before the vehicle ran off the road, hit a rock and rolled on its

Founder Of ACC Dies In Hospital

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (AP)—The founder of Atlantic Christian College, Dr. James Caswell Coggin, died in a hospital here yesterday at the age of 93. Dr. Coggin, a native of Buncombe County, N.C., and a minister of the Christian Church, for 72 years, lived at nearby Elizabethton since retiring from the ministry 10 years ago. He served in many pastorate, including Savannah and Augusta, Ga., and Norfolk, Va. Dr. Coggin wrote two books on Abraham Lincoln, one entitled "Abraham Lincoln, a North Carolinian." He asserted Lincoln was actually the son of a Cherokee, N.C., settler.

Russian Civilians Almost Hanged One U.S. Flier In Downed Plane

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—Soviet civilians threatened to hang one of nine U.S. airmen shot down in Soviet Armenia, and roughed up others, a U.S. Air Force colonel said today. Col. Dale D. Brannon of Charleston, Ohio, senior officers aboard the unarmed transport plane that was down in flames June 27, said Maj. Bennie A. Shupe of Miami, Fla., narrowly escaped being lynched. "The rope was attached to a telephone pole and the noose was being placed over his head when he managed to convey to them the fact that he was an American," Brannon told a crowded news conference. The group then paused for a discussion. It was at this time that the Soviet military police arrived and took him into custody." Brannon said five of the nine airmen aboard the transport received rough treatment from the local population after they bailed out of the burning plane. "My hands were tied behind my back and I was beaten in the face by fists and later kicked in the body when placed aboard a truck for transport to the local village," Brannon said. The four crewmen who landed with the plane and were picked up by Soviet soldiers were not molested, he said. The abuse by civilians of the other five stopped as soon as they were turned over to Soviet authorities, he said. Col. Brannon added that the "over-all treatment by local authorities was considerate." The plane, a C118 attached to this big American air base in West Germany, was on a routine flight carrying cargo assigned to U.S. diplomatic and military missions in Iran and Pakistan. It strayed over Soviet Armenia in bad weather and was attacked by MIG fighters. The nine haggard crewmen were released to an American representative on the Iranian frontier last Monday. They were flown back to Wiesbaden, headquarters of the U.S.

Air Force in Europe, for medical observation and consultations with Air Force officials before appearing before the press today. Col. Brannon denied that the flight over Armenia was an intentional violation of Soviet territory. In order to avoid a turbulent thunderstorm, the plane steered slightly north off course, he said. The crew did not realize it was over Soviet territory until they noticed two jet fighters approaching and criss-crossing around them, he added.

State Press Ass'n Expected To Get Newspaper Case

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A veteran publisher says repercussions of the North Carolina Press Ass'n, which they have their meeting at Asheville next week. He said reactions from 15 to 20 persons, including editors and publishers, "has been kind of mixed, but it seems to me the majority went to look into it." The Jones editorial asserted voters were "denied their right to pass judgment on the facts." "They were, indeed, deceived—deceived purposely and deliberately, the evidence suggests," the editorial said yesterday he probably would call for a press association investigation "if nobody else does." Mrs. Shuford has said she cleared doctors reports to the press. A May 30 story by the Asheville Times, carried on the Associated Press wires, said the Shuford family declined to give details after reporting his post-surgical condition as good. The family had said at first Shuford was in the hospital for a routine checkup.

Accord On Cooperation In Canadian-American Talks

OTTAWA, Canada (AP)—The Canadian-American summit conference went into its concluding hours today with agreements reached on cooperation on the questions of trade with Red China and prevention of surprise attack. President Eisenhower and Canadian Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker hoped in a final session to agree on other issues which have strained on friendly relations. Tomorrow Eisenhower returns to Washington. He will stop at Massena, N.Y., for a look at the St. Lawrence Seaway project—another symbol of Canadian-American cooperation. The President and Prime Minister announced that their governments will consult fully from now on in attempts to resolve, as they come up, differences arising over conflicting export policies and laws. Such conflict exists on commerce with Communist China. The United States bans all trade with the Chinese Reds; Canada embargoes only sales of strategic goods. Canada apparently won something of a concession. The point of dispute has been operation of the American export of Canadian subsidiaries of American firms, the Ford Motor Co. of Canada in particular. Feelers from Red China for purchase of 1,000 cars were turned down by Ford of Canada after consulting the parent company in the United States. With Canada hit by unemployment, the matter became an issue in the Canadian election campaign last spring. Nobody was saying whether Ford of Canada would now be allowed to sell cars to the Chinese Reds. But Eisenhower noted in his

Court Indicates 'Prompt' Action

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals here has indicated it will act promptly in deciding whether Little Rock's Central High School will be racially integrated this fall. A hearing on the case may be set for Aug. 4, the date suggested by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. Chief Judge Archibald K. Garrison has named three judges to hear an NAACP appeal from an order by U.S. Dist. Judge H. L. Lemley at Little Rock. Judge Lemley's order would block integration at Central for 30 months. Judges who will decide the issue are John B. Sanborn, 74, St. Paul, Minn.; Martin D. Van Oosterhout, 58, Orange City, Iowa; and Harvey M. Johnson, 63, Omaha, Neb. Wiley Branton, Pine Bluff, Ark., attorney for the NAACP, suggested an Aug. 4 hearing after the judges invited both sides to submit a date. At Little Rock, Wayne Upton, president of the school board, which asked suspension of integration, said the board would not try to speed up the action. "After all, it's their appeal, not ours."

The Appeals Court deferred action on an NAACP request for a stay of Judge Lemley's order, saying such a ruling will not terminate the controversy. Judge Lemley said he suspended integration to provide a peaceful interlude in Little Rock, where violence erupted last fall when Central was integrated. BAGHDAD (AP)—The date of Noah's flood still is a mystery. "That is the conclusion of a team of German archaeologists who have completed two years of excavations in southern Iraq. They have been working in Uruk, where nearly 5,000 years ago a Sumerian epic poem was written describing a flood. The hero of the epic was Gilgamesh, a king who reigned in Uruk around 2800 B.C. Dr. Heinrich Lenzen, head of the Baghdad German Archaeological Institute, says the date of Gilgamesh's reign has been fixed almost exactly, but the date of the flood remains a mystery. Lenzen explained that Gilgamesh, in the poem, actually bears of the flood from an ancestor. The problem is to find out when this ancestor lived and when he built his ark. His story is so similar to Noah's that they probably refer to the same event.

Good Color And Texture Seen In Pitt's Tobacco

The small quantity of first and second curings now coming out of tobacco barns "show a crop of good color and texture and appear to be of excellent quality." That was the word from Sales Supervisor of the Greenville Tobacco Market W. L. Whedbee. "Tops have filled out nicely and this has developed into as pretty a crop in this section as any one could ever desire to see," Whedbee said in a periodic report on the tobacco crop situation. This one was issued July 8. Whedbee said curing started in this section on a small scale the last week in June. It increased in volume the first week in July and will be general over the territory by the end of this week. "We have had an abundance of rainfall," he continued. "The general groundsoaking rain on June 10 was followed by intermittent showers. Then on June 27 and June 28 came two days of rainfall which fell, not in a downpour, but slowly and steadily for two days. "These two days of rain soaked into the ground instead of running off on top, and supplied the tobacco crop with all of the moisture that could be desired. Another groundsoaking rain on July 6 and scattered showers on July 7 have completed the rainfall to this date. "Growing conditions have been ideal, the copious rainfall being accompanied by warm, but not excessively hot, days and nights." Whedbee pointed out in the crop report that plants have experienced a uniform healthy growth, quickly attaining a normal height and spread. The sales supervisor bases his reports on information obtained from the farm agent's office, talks with farmers and personal observations.

Enters Her 4th Day Of Talking In Yak-a-thon

Yak-a-thon contestant Mrs. Alton Clapp moved into her fourth full day of continuous talking this morning in her effort to talk for 100 consecutive hours. Mrs. Clapp, first of six scheduled contestants for the talking contest, completed 72 hours at 10:44 a.m. She is seeking to break the present record of 93 hours, 36 minutes and nine seconds, set last week by a Topeka, Kansas woman, Mrs. Carmen Araiza. Mrs. Clapp is also seeking $750 worth of prizes offered by sponsors of the local contest. The Kansas woman's record broke the old mark of 92 hours set June 24 in Fayetteville by Miss Sue Huron, a June graduate of Duquesne University. In order to reach the 100-hour mark, Mrs. Clapp will have to talk until 2:55 p.m. Friday.

Hold One, Hunt 2 For Kidnaping

ROBBINSVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Police had one alleged kidnaper in jail today and sought two others in connection with the abduction of two Graham County men. Charles Laine, 25, was arrested near here yesterday and held on a kidnap charge for Cherokee County, where Herbert Hampton, 20, and Jack Colvard, 18, said they were kidnaped late Tuesday in their own station wagon. Wanted are Laine's brother Harold, 20, and Wayne Millsaps, both last seen hitchhiking toward Charlotte from Asheville early yesterday. The Laines and Millsaps are Graham County men. Sheriff Jack Schuler said Hampton and Colvard gave this account: They picked up the three hitchhikers near Topton and were forced at knifepoint to head toward Asheville. Hampton, showing minor neck cuts, escaped near Soco Gap and called police. Meanwhile, Colvard and the hitchhikers reached Asheville. Millsaps and Harold Laine got out and started thumbing a ride toward Charlotte. Charles Laine and Colvard ran out of gas near Bryson City. They got a lift in a State Highway Commission truck to the commission's Graham County garage. Laine then fled without Colvard and was arrested soon after.

Meet The President Keeps Herself Busy

SERVICE LEAGUE SEAL . . . is symbolic of life, love and divinity which lights the way to service, says Mrs. George Lautares, president of the Service League. (Photo by Peggy Smith)

By PEGGY SMITH
Reflector Woman's Writer

"A homemaker can have a business career as long as her husband and children do not feel neglected," stated Mrs. George Lautares of 1804 East Sixth Street, when asked what she thought of a career wife.

Adding, "A wife would be treating herself and family unfairly if she didn't take part in some outside activities."

Being creative and having a combination of hobbies such as sewing, knitting, and reading take up the time which is left after Mrs. Lautares performs her duties as president of the Service League.

Among those duties are presiding at meetings of the League and the Board of Directors, appointing committees, and acting as an ex-officio member of all the committees except the nominating committee. She signs, with the treasurer, all contracts and obligations authorized by the Board and League membership.

Purpose of League
Maintaining the Laughinghouse Hospital Bed Fund which provides bed space for patients in Pitt Memorial Hospital is the purpose of the Service League.

These patients are worthy persons in the community, who are not on charity, but cannot afford hospitalization. The Greenville League assumes financial responsibility for the individual patient as recommended by the attending doctor.

Coffee Shop
When Pitt Memorial Hospital opened in 1951, the League established and opened the Coffee Shop.

With the exception of a manager, all workers are League members who volunteer their time.

The small profit made is used for hospital activities such as tray favors, hospital parties, and decorating of the hospital on special occasions. Another use of the profit is the Laughinghouse Bed Fund.

Participating in community projects, Mrs. Lautares noted, "We will probably work this year with the United Fund."

"Bridge tournaments and various types of sales are among our yearly money-making projects," she said.

Enjoys Family
Not only is Mrs. Lautares versatile but her family is also. Playing the violin keeps little Ann, 10, busy while her brother, Peter, 9, plays with the Greenville Little League baseball team.

The Lautares family, like many Pitt County families, during the summer spend a great deal of time "cooking out."
"Whatever we do, we enjoy doing as a family," Mrs. Lautares commented.

Children's Fears Need Extra Love

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

Cliff was 5. All his life he had gone to bed and to sleep like an angel. It was only recently he had put up a fuss. He was afraid when the light went out. He didn't stay in his bed, he hopped out and ran into the living room. When mother tried to put him back to bed, he cried. He said there was a big black thing in the corner of his room.

Cliff's father thought this was nonsense. He told the boy so.

"You're a big boy now, big boys aren't afraid of the dark. Come on, son," said Daddy, "I will go upstairs with you and we'll look in the corner of your room."

Cliff put his hand in his Daddy's and together they trudged up the stairs. Of course there was nothing in the corner of the room. Cliff was fine as long as Daddy was with him but as soon as Daddy left, Cliff's fears were all back again and he climbed out of bed. This time Daddy was provoked. He ordered his child back to bed in a firm gruff voice. Cliff went—he was more afraid of his father's sternness than of the thing in his room. It took him a long time to go to sleep. He lay in his bed and sobbed and sobbed.

Real Fears
A little child's fears are real to him, no matter how unreasonable they may seem to an adult. Fears of childhood usually stem from deeply buried anxieties that the child himself doesn't understand. They are not on the top of the mind and cannot be reached with reason and talking. They are deep in the unconscious of the child, so deep that they can respond only to feelings.

The greatest fear of childhood is the loss of parental love and protection. To a little child parents are the source of safety in this big world. Anything that could possibly withdraw this protective safety terrifies a little fellow right down to the core of his being.

His terror can show itself in many ways, fear of the dark is just one way. It's like a big well of terror deep down in the child that can find many outlets.

Many Causes
The episodes that can cause the child to doubt his parents' love have great variety. In Cliff's case his father was a strict disciplinarian. He made heavy demands on the child. Cliff was made to obey promptly, he was not permitted to be noisy or dirty and above all he mustn't be a sissy. His father's demands were too much for Cliff. The child feared and even hated his father at times. When he hated, he felt guilty and thought his father surely knew how he felt and in return would hate him. When Cliff began to fear that his father would hate him then it was that his terror burst forth. With Cliff it happened to take the form of fear of the dark.

When Cliff's father finally came to understand the nature of his son's fears it was perfectly obvious that reasoning with the child would never help. Cliff needed an easing up of the strict demands on him and a greater acceptance of himself as he was at this 5-year-old level. When he finally came to realize that he was all right with Daddy as he was his deep down terror faded away and with it his fear of the dark.

Cliff's fears were loved away, not argued away.

MUST BE SAFE
Teething babies need serviceable toys to chew on—to provide pressure for their gums, relieving pain and providing pleasure.

Be sure to choose durable, washable, teething toys which are too large to be swallowed, and with no small, detachable parts. Then keep them sanitary with hot soap or detergent suds and rinses.

American Debs To Be Presented

By NADEANE WALKER
PARIS (AP)—Ninety American debutantes will be presented to French society tomorrow at the first private ball in Versailles Palace since the time of the French kings.

Organizers hope that the Franco-American Debutantes' Coillon will become an annual highlight of the social season. Among American sponsors are Gen. and Mrs. Nathan F. Twining, Gen. and Mrs. Randolph McCall Pate, and the treasurer of the United States, Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest.

Although the American deb will be outnumbered by French girls more than 2:1, they will be queens of the day, showered with gifts and honored and feted for a whole week. Sixty girls picked from deb registers throughout the United States are arriving on a special plane, to be joined by 30 more American debutantes living in Europe.

A beautiful American deb, Miss Gloria Kent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kent of Hampton Falls, N. H., is being tipped in Paris as probable belle of the debutantes' ball.

About 550 eligible young Frenchmen will be waiting to dance with them. To make the Americans feel at home, GIs will join the stag line.

Beneficiaries of the ball are the committee for the Restoration of Versailles, the travel bureau which is hauling the American deb and their parents over for a week's tour and a number of French and American firms which are sweetening the kitty for the publicity they'll get.

Mrs. Montague Price, who organizes deb affairs in Washington, came to France to make plans with a French committee including Ambassador Herve Alphand, the Duchess de Maille and the Duke de Brissac, Princess de Broglie and a score of titled sponsors.

The Duke and Duchess de Maille will entertain the American girls in their country chateau. The list of those coming from America includes:

The Press Is Taking It Seriously

No one in North Carolina is more anxious than the people of the newspaper profession to know the full story behind the failure of the newspapers in Western North Carolina to promptly inform the citizens of the 12th Congressional district—and the citizens of the state—of the stroke suffered by Rep. George Shuford on May 25.

Charges by a former president of the North Carolina Press Association that voters of the 12th district were "deceived purposely and deliberately . . . by a newspaper or newspapers of the district" came as a surprise in newspaper circles just as it did to the public.

The fact that the Western North Carolina Press Association has scheduled a probe into the charges is evidence of the seriousness with which the charges are taken by the newspapers of that section.

Whether concealment of the full details of the seriousness of Rep. Shuford's illness was the fault of newspapers or whether it was caused by the refusal of Rep. Shuford's family and physicians to disclose all the facts we do not know at this moment. In all probability we will never know for sure.

There is one thing that is clear in this whole matter, however. The people were not informed as they should have been either through the fault of the newspapers or through the successful efforts of others to keep the newspapers from informing the voters of the 12th district that Rep. Shuford had suffered a stroke six days before the May 31 primary.

Certainly the newspapers in Asheville and others in the 12th district must assume at least some responsibility for the people not being given all the facts in the case. The fact that as late as 10 days after the election—16 days after Rep. Shuford suffered the stroke—the public was still unaware of the true extent of his illness is an indication that someone fell down on the job of keeping the public informed. No responsible newspaper could afford to indulge in wild guesses about the extent of Rep. Shuford's illness. At the same time the newspapers of the 12th district had the responsibility to exert every effort to make sure that they kept the public fully informed about the illness of one of that area's most important public officials.

While this particular incident primarily involves the newspapers of the 12th Congressional district, all of the newspapers of North Carolina must assume some portion of the responsibility for the people not being informed fully of the circumstances surrounding Rep. Shuford's illness.

It is an indication that newspapers throughout the state should take stock of the job they are doing keeping the people informed on matters of importance to them.

Community Projects Were A Part Of Him

The interest, the drive and the energy for getting things done.

Those attributes made up a great part of the life of the late Edwin E. Rawl, Sr. whose contributions to Greenville and its institutions will be of lasting value to this city.

Ed Rawl was a forceful man of action . . . a salesman who did not hesitate to tackle the tough jobs of community service from which many men shy away. Over the years there came to rest upon his shoulders many civic tasks that needed to be done for the welfare of his community. Ed Rawl put his energy to those tasks, rallied others to the cause, and persisted until the designated goals were achieved.

Typical of his activities was the part he played in the recent organization of the Pitt County United Fund of which he had long been an advocate. He was one of the moving forces behind its organization several months ago and was designated to serve as its first president. So it was with the Pirates Club for East Carolina College that has been a major factor in support of the athletic program at ECC. It was largely through the efforts of Ed Rawl that the drive was launched which secured local funds for construction of the present football stadium at ECC.

In the Boy Scout movement, Community Chest work, in his church and in a number of other community organizations, Ed Rawl played the role of an organizer, supplying energy at crucial periods to get a project going or keep a project moving.

In his sudden death Tuesday Greenville suffered the loss of one of its most dedicated citizens. It lost the services of a man who was never too busy to give unselfishly of his time and energies for the betterment of his community and his fellow citizens.

Canada Suffers Growing Pain

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Canada like every fast-growing country is suffering growing pains. And very humanly she is inclined to put some of the blame on others.

President Eisenhower and Canada's Prime Minister Diefenbaker likely looked into some of these pains yesterday and into how much American businessmen are involved. Their dollar-and-cents involvement is high. It has grown enormously in the last few years and that is causing much of the pain and friction.

The two leaders also will look into trade barriers between the two neighbors — and into fears on both sides that some of them will be increased. Also at issue is the conflict when each nation tries to sell surplus products in the world markets in competition with the other. In these matters too, American businessmen and producers are involved.

Canada's large industrial expansion has had to be financed in great part by outside capital, mostly American. The United States went through the same phase many years ago and got much of the needed funds from British capitalists. The resultant control of many American enterprises by British subjects and the flow overseas of profits from these companies caused much resentment here.

Long-term investments in Canada by U. S. corporations are now estimated at around eight billion dollars, up about two billion in three years. William F. Shelley, co-chairman of the Committee of Canadian Investment Companies, estimates private investors on this side of the border now hold nearly 5 1/2 billion dollars in Canadian securities. This is a 27 per cent jump in four years.

Canada has welcomed the money. The pain now comes from the charge by Canadians that U. S. firms aren't letting Canadians help run the companies set up there, and the fear that Canadian resources will be exploited and the profits cross the border.

The influx of American investments has also let Canada offset its unfavorable trade balance with the United States. They buy more from us than we do from them, and without the American investments there would be a dollar gap making the Canadian dollar shaky.

On the contrary, it rides at a premium over the American dollar. That is because when Americans buy Canadian securities located here, or when American companies put U. S. dollars to work in Canada, they have to buy Canadian dollars to use up there.

Diefenbaker would like to buy less from the United States to help close the trade gap. Since Canada is one of our best customers, buying around 300 million dollars a month, American businessmen are disturbed at this proposal.

Some Americans are also worried at talk north of the border of putting up trade barriers to American textiles and some farm products. Canadians are just as worried about the limits upon importing of Canadian crude oil here, and talk here of higher tariffs on some metals.

"We cannot afford to rely on any degree of post-D-Day build-up and accelerated production. Since the general philosophy of win or lose with what we have on hand at the outbreak of hostilities is the only one that can be lived with, it is incumbent on the industrial complex to assure continuous availability of the most effective hardware."

—Lt. Gen. C. S. Irvine, Deputy Chief of Staff, Material, Headquarters, USAF.

Are you a good starter but a poor finisher?

If so, you are amongst a numerous company. Statistics show that most business ventures fold up at last with loss to all involved. The happy marriage services and gay reception followed some years later by recrimination from two sides and divorce. Illustrate how often people start well, go along most happily for some time, and then tatter and fall by the wayside.

A good start, a poor finish! And for every good start and poor finish, there is at least one good start and one poor finisher. Excepting for a few things which happen in the world of nature, there are no occurrences

What THEY Want

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — America has scored an unexpected culinary triumph at the Bursas International Exposition with — of all things — frozen custard.

"The Europeans have gone crazy over it," said David Berge, executive vice president of the Brass Rail restaurant chain.

"Frozen custard has been our surprise success, and biggest seller."

"Last Sunday they bought 7,800 cones."

As supervisor of dining facilities in the American pavilion at the fair, Berge met nothing but headaches at the start.

"It seemed for a while like we had almost as many critics as customers," he remarked. Berge found himself in the soup — literally — when he put Manhattan clam chowder on the menu. An indignant chorus from Connecticut to Maine immediately demanded equal billing for New England clam chowder.

Typical was an editorial comment by the famous "Vineyard Gazette," of Martha's Vineyard, Mass.: "It may be sometime demonstrated that Manhattan clam chowder is the main cause of juvenile delinquency. When the relaxation of old standards and principles begins, anything can happen."

Berge, a man who likes to keep everybody happy, bowed this week to regional pride.

"Starting this week we're putting both chowders on the menu — so the New Englander won't feel a forgotten man."

But Berge sturdily had fought back at native critics who touted his emphasis on such items as hamburgers and hot dogs were beneath the dignity of a mighty nation.

"We asked people who'd been abroad what things they missed most while away from home," he said. "They mentioned things like clam chowder, cheesecake, hamburgers, hot dogs, roast beef, corned beef, apple pie, American coffee, malted milks and ice cream sundaes."

Some critics sniffed at the quick lunch atmosphere of the American restaurant.

"But that's just what the mass of people at an exposition want," said Berge. "Most of them can't afford the $4 to $15 a meal it costs to eat the Continental style restaurants at the fair. That's for the luxury trade."

"At the American restaurant they can get a lunch consisting of a hamburger, apple pie and coffee for $1. Dinner costs $2 or less."

The formula seems to be working out. The U. S. restaurant is serving approximately 20,000 persons a day.

"That's as many as any other five exposition restaurants put together," said Berge, comfortably. "We're giving them what they want."

"The French and Italians go most for the frozen custard. The size of the double-dip 20-cent cones seems to fascinate them."

"The West Germans like our American coffee and cheesecake."

"The English, Scots and Irish find our barbecued chicken an adventure."

"Every nationality likes to try the hamburgers and hot dogs."

"We also are serving American beer and California wine. That may seem like carrying coals to Newcastle, but they're both going well."

As a final rebuttal to his early critics, Berge rubbed his chubby hands together, and observed cheerfully: "You know, the chefs from the Hungarian pavilion and the guards at the Russian pavilion now eat in our restaurant whenever they can."

Bits Of This And That

SEEN ON THE STREET—

A man giving a woman from Minnesota instructions on how to parallel park while his two companions stood nearby quietly laughing to themselves. And . . .

A man sitting in a car in front of a local laundry, without a shirt on, unwrapping a neatly-wrapped shirt his friend had just brought him.

Some philosopher at the Police Station having the following note on the bulletin board.

"Six Mistakes of Man — Cicero wrote 2,000 years ago that mankind was always making these six mistakes and things haven't changed much since then. We are still making them.

"1. The delusion that individual advancement is made by crushing others.

"2. The tendency to worry about things that cannot be changed or corrected.

"3. Insisting that a thing is impossible because we ourselves cannot accomplish it.

"4. Refusing to set aside trivial preferences.

"5. Neglecting development and refinement of mind and not acquiring the habits of reading and study.

"6. Attempting to compel other people to believe and live as we do."

Down at the bottom of the note someone had written in ink:

"7. BEING BORN."

A well-known North Carolina Superior Court judge had just completed sentencing a defendant, giving him a rather stiff sentence.

The defendant, standing before him in the crowded courtroom, looked up and asked, "Judge is that the most you can give me?"

"Yes, it is," the Judge replied.

"Are you sure?" he was again asked.

Again the reply was yes.

The defendant looked up at the Judge: "You're a cross-eyed ——" he blurted out.

—State Highway Patrolman Titus Martin who comes here from Dunn to replace Sgt. Carl Whitfield has still got problems, all of which could be solved if he had a house.

Corporal Martin had been looking around Greenville for a week but hasn't found suitable living quarters for his family. Anyone having an available house fitting this description can get in contact with the "lonesome" patrolman by calling Troop A headquarters here.

By "lonesome" I mean he doesn't have his family with him at the present time. They are patiently waiting in Dunn for him to get them a place to stay and right now he ain't doing so well.

Congratulations to Sgt. Carl E. Whitfield on his recent promotion from Corporal!

Sgt. Carl, according to his superiors, has done and is still doing outstanding work for the State Highway Patrol. During the past 18 months it has been my pleasure to work very closely with Carl and it was with deep regret that I learned he was leaving Greenville and Troop A.

Needless to say he will do an excellent job and win many friends in Rockingham as he has done here. Good luck old man!

Other Editors Saying --- Discrimination--They Say

(The Roanoke Times)

Various state laws against discrimination in hiring impose stern limitations on what an employer may ask an applicant for a job. The effect in many cases is to deny the employer pertinent information as to the applicant's qualifications.

The New York State law offers a case in point. A recently enacted amendment is designed to protect older workers, those in the age category of 45 to 65. The state anti-discrimination commission is drawing up regulations for enforcement of the amendment.

One of the proposed rules would make it illegal to mention age preference in "help-wanted" advertisements. Job application forms asking for age and date of birth would be unlawful and it would be a violation of the law for an employer to ask an applicant the simple question, "Are you over 21?"

There are many valid reasons why an employer should know the age and other facts about the least of them is that in a free enterprise system an employer is supposed to have the chief voice in running his own business. Obviously enterprise isn't free when management's control is hedged about with all kinds of restrictions such as the so-called anti-discrimination laws. Maybe it's high time to do something about discrimination against the man who makes it possible for people to earn a livelihood.

SOCIALISM DEFINED SIMPLEST TERMS

(Jackson Clarion-Ledger) Thomas J. Shelly, for 35 years a teacher of economics and history, has explained the meaning of socialism to his Yonkers, N.Y., High School class in these simple terms: "John, you made a grade of 95 and you, Dick, made a grade of 55. I shall now take 20 points from you, John, and give them to Dick. Thus each of you has a grade of 75, enough to pass."

"Here I have applied the Socialist-Communist principle as set forth by Karl Marx — From each according to his ability, to each according to his need."

"Now, let us examine this theory in actual practice. You, John, won't work because you have had your incentive removed. And you, Dick, won't work because you are getting something for nothing. We can't exist unless we work and produce. Therefore, in order to get the work done, we'll need someone with a whip or a gun. Socialism must lead to authoritarian control."

This, in our opinion, ranks among the best illustrations of socialism we have ever seen. When personal incentive is removed, Marxism takes over and the people become drones in the hive of government paternalism.

How To Tell A Good Restaurant

By ELMER ROESSNER

If you go into a small roadside restaurant and find 25 to 30 entrees listed, better ask for ham and eggs cooked to order. A restaurant seating 75 and offering that many dishes may have had many of them lying around for a long time.

That's a tip from the American Automobile Association, which spends part of its vast income checking on "travelers' eating places."

Your correspondent has seen some of the criteria AAA inspectors use to decide whether an eating place is worthy of the association's emblem. Here are some of them:

Is the dining room pleasant and comfortable? Is the restaurant conveniently located? Are rest rooms well maintained? (Look, AAA inspector: did you come here to eat or rest?) Is there parking space?

CRITERIA FOR SERVICE

Is there overall supervision of the dining room? Are attitudes and appearances of employees pleasing? Are there proper seating arrangements? Are tables set properly. Do employees serve meals efficiently and remain poised promptly? Is the server familiar with the menu?

Does the kitchen have a well-ventilated food preparation area including broiler, oven, stove and facilities for keeping food at the proper temperature?

Is there a separate salad preparation area? Is there a good dishwashing system? Does it include a separate glass washer, a garbage disposer, a plume pre-rinse, an automatic dishwasher with a tritator attachment, and a silver burnishing machine? (A lot of places just have a guy named Gus.)

Are there ample storage, refrigeration and garbage disposal facilities?

Are foods stacked in refrigerators so that the bottom of one plate or container is not set on uncovered food in the container below? Are perishable left unrefrigerated for long periods? Are meats lying on the floor of refrigerator rooms? TOO LITTLE WASTED?

Are there excessive leftovers? Are there too many small containers with small amounts of leftovers? Are too many roasts precooked?

Are foods with strong flavors (fish, onions) kept apart from food that readily absorbs flavors (meat, lettuce)? Are uncovered pans of food stored where foreign objects may fall into them? Is the kitchen clean? Are uniforms of kitchen workers fresh and clean?

Is the food attractively prepared and presented? Does it look good? Are foods deftly ladled into serving dishes? Are foods properly separated on the plate? Are foods of liquid consistency served in separate dishes?

Are meats or soups greasy looking? Are extra serving dishes used for vegetables? Are additional relishes and condiments served? Are hot foods served in hot dishes, cold food in cold dishes? NOT FAR ENOUGH

Those are good questions but, except in passing, they miss many points important to diners. For example:

When you order a steak medium rare, is it less than burned to a crisp? Does the bus boy put his wagon next to your table? And then throw dishes into it from far corners of the room? Is dish clutter kept to a minimum? If the menu is in French, do the waiters understand it? Or do they correct your high-school French into GI French?

Do the bartenders put too much vermouth in Manhattans? Are the olives in the martinis tired? Can a waiter carry a cocktail 60 feet across the floor without spilling a drop? Then does he splash half it on the table when he sets it down?

What happens when your tip does not come up to the waiter's hopes? (This might be a good hiring test for AAA investigators. If they undertip 10 times in succession and survive, they should win life-time jobs.)

The Confusion Isn't Confined

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP) — Confusion over the nation's economy, Rep. Don Tewes (R-Wis.) noted, is not confined to politicians. Tewes said he received a letter from a building contractor, complaining about the recession and calling for a variety of federal aid to his industry.

Valueless, But It Is Property

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Is garbage property? Yes, says Arizona Atty. Gen. Robert Morrison. Garbage companies claimed they should not be under jurisdiction of the State's Corporation Commission because they were not common carriers of property.

But Morrison said in a formal opinion that the word "property" is broad enough to include garbage and refuse — and, therefore, the companies are considered subject to commission regulation.

Wahl-Coates School: (returning teachers) Dorothy C. Brown, Sally Klingenschmitt, Christine Johnston, Elizabeth Savage, Mildred Pate, Louise Galpin, Elizabeth S. Taylor, Evelyn E. Blue, Elsie Eagan, Hazel Copeland, Myrtle B. Clark, Mary Thomas Smith, Mary Rose Stocks, Lily Rouse Carr and Beatrice Chauncey; (replacement) Bobby Lee Sigmon.

In addition to approving the contracts, the board also accepted resignations from Frances P. Lamb, Audrey Page, Bessie C. Picklesimer, Rebecca M. Smith and Juanita Stokes Williams of Rose High School; Milton E. Reece, Ann Randolph Brooks, Frances Cash Tyson and Georgia Lee Morris of the Junior High School; Mildred Crone and Margaret Rawls Stancill of Elmhurst; Ann D. Even In Times Of Stress, Duty Not Forgotten KAUFMAN, Tex. (AP) — Lt. W. H. Bowman of the federal correctional institution at Seagoville, Tex., was rushing his expectant wife to a hospital early yesterday.

Speeding along the highway, he noticed two men beside the road who looked like a pair who escaped from the minimum-security prison early Sunday.

After depositing his wife at the hospital, he called the prison. Lt. Wood Beasley and Clyde Haxem went into action and soon picked up the pair.

The men, James Morrison, San Angelo, Tex., and Jose Acosta Jr., McAllen, Tex., told FBI agents they had been hiding out without food since they escaped.

Bowman's wife had a baby girl and mother and daughter were reported doing fine.

Bare Facts Stressed By Night Clubs In Las Vegas

By BOB THOMAS AP Motion Picture Writer LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — To bare or not to bare — that is the question facing the night club operators here.

This capital of live entertainment has gone all out for nudity. Showgirls stripped to the waist have become as common as slot machines. Some wear little more than a few strategic sequins, and a few don't even bother with that.

Assembly-Line Production Of Old Model Cars

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Antique car enthusiasts need no longer snoop through rural garages for old models. They can buy them fresh off the assembly line.

Dyer Products Co. of Canton is producing an almost exact replica of the Surrey—a horseless carriage that was all the rage in 1903. It comes complete with a tiller instead of a steering wheel, polished brass headlights, bulb horn and spoke wheels.

A 4.8-horsepower motor can propel the Surrey at a top speed of 35 m.p.h.

A few concessions are made in the interest of modern comfort and road safety. The 1958 version has a self-starter, turn indicator and tall lights. But otherwise she's every inch the auto granddad used to court grandmother.

The list price is $1,095, or $895 for the assemble-it-yourself addi-

The climax came with the importation of the Paris Lido show at the giant new Stardust Hotel. A dozen statuesque foreign beauties paraded across the stage in a manner that could win them chest colds in the air-conditioned theater.

Is this nudity good or bad for Las Vegas? You hear it both ways, judging from which side of the Strip you are on. The newer hotel-casinos on the west side of the Strip, as the nightclub-studded street is known, have thrived on it. The more established places on the east side are tak-isking.

"I think it's bad," said Ben Goffstein of the Riviera. "It's like a comedian resorting to smut. If he can't entertain without it, he can't be very good."

"A passing fancy," remarked Jack Entratter of the Sands. "If you've got the star names, you don't need nudity to attract customers."

Marty Proser of the Tropicana said Las Vegas has been at least partly built on family trade and families may be scared away from entertainment that might be deemed unsuitable for tender minds.

Nude or not, the shows are doing great business. The town was completely booked over the Fourth, with 35,000 fun-lovers crowding in from all over.

CHAPTER 21

"Your boys keep outa this," the bartender warned the two cowboys. "This ain't your dog-fight. He reached a hand down into his cash drawer, brought out a quarter and slid it across the bar toward Tony Miller.

"Turning then to Slade Considine, he said, 'I oughta know better than to let him buy Bacho a drink. From now on Bacho don't get no more liquor out of this joint — if I know anything about it. Go on, take him out, Slade. I'll see that these boys don't make you any more trouble.'

The cowboy called Slim Weaver grinned. "You can rest your arm and put that gun down as far as Butch and me are concerned. 'We're punchin' cows for Wynn Thomson — but so far he ain't said nothin' about fightin' for him."

Slade nodded at him, said, "Thanks, Charlie," to the bartender, and took Bacho's arm again.

Bach went without further protest. He was weaving a little on his feet, but still steady enough that he didn't need help.

Once outside, and away from the front windows of the saloon, however, the stammer suddenly left him, and he began to swear softly under his breath. "Damn it, Slade, I never so jolly well wanted to punch anybody's meddling nose in all my life."

Slade grunted. "I wouldn't wonder," he said dryly. "You can try it sometime when you're sober if you want to."

"Well, I'm sober now. I haven't had a drink all day — just that part of one in there a minute ago. I am not drunk and I didn't intend to get drunk!"

"Probably not," Slade said, still skeptical. "Where did you leave your mule?"

"Tied behind the hotel. I'll get him and ride out with you if you will wait for me."

Slade, looking at him more closely, saw that he was really sober, and that his eyes were tired and worried. He remembered, too, two other times when Bacho, sober, by quick thinking and quicker action had probably saved his life.

"Sure. I'll wait," he said quickly.

"And I'm sorry if I spoiled your little game in there."

It was like giving a stray dog a pat on the head. Bacho threw him a pleased, grateful glance, and his shoulders straightened. "I meant to play drunk," he said, "I was going to curl up in a corner somewhere and sleep. Wynn just look on those two punchers the other day. They've all been hitting the saloon rather heavy."

"I never heard you give away any secrets," Slade said. "You talk plenty — but mostly just foolishness."

Bach looked strangely relieved. "I'm glad to hear that," he said. Slade was watching him intently. "Do you have any reason to think Wynn and his gang might know something they wouldn't tell — sober?"

The little man nodded gravely. "Yes, I promised Frenchy I wouldn't tell — but I don't like the things that have been happening the last few days."

The door of the saloon swung open and one of the punchers came out and stood on the sidewalk watching them. Bacho staggered drunkenly against Slade. The cowboy reached out a hand and steadied him.

"We're fools to stand here talking like this," Bacho kept his voice the low mumbbling monotone he used when drunk. "I'm supposed to be loaded to the gills, and I would not want Tony to get suspicious that I was trying to fool him. I will get the mule and meet you at the edge of town in five minutes."

Slade nodded. He watched the little man apparently make Herculean effort to gain his balance, then go staggering off across the vacant lot between hotel and saloon. When he turned to get his horse the puncher was still standing there watching him, and when a few minutes later he rode back past the saloon, Tony Miller had joined him.

That worried Slade. He didn't know what Bacho had been trying to learn from Miller, but he did know that easy pickings the little herder, helplessly drunk, would be for a vigorous, meaty-tempered man — and he didn't like the thought that possibly he had aroused Miller's suspicions.

Bach seemed to be thinking along the same lines. His face was sober as he reloaded Slade at the edge of town. He managed a rueful little grin. "Well, if I never had a real good reason for keeping out of town and staying sober before, I've jolly well got it now."

"What have you got on Tony, Bacho?"

The little man shrugged. "Blasted if I know! That's the funny part of it. And I believe Wynn and Tony have finally made up their minds I do not know anything or I might have been planted underground long before this."

"You're not getting much clearer, Bacho. Start at the beginning."

Bach grinned. "All right, Frenchy paid me my winter's wages last March all in a lump. He said he figured that way I would have time for a little fun and still be sober and back to work in time for the lambing season. And that is what I did. I don't remember anything about it, but I must have started home after dark one night in a snowstorm. I don't know how I happened to let the mule get away from me, but I did. And I got lost. I don't know how long I wandered around in the mountains, but I would probably have frozen to death if Wynn and Tony hadn't found me.

"I remember that part of it a little bit, but I'll be darned if I know where they were or what they were doing. I would never have thought anything more about it if they hadn't started buying me drinks and trying to pump me."

"And Frenchy didn't want you to tell anybody?"

Bach jerked his head round. "Now don't you start getting any foolish ideas again," he said sharply. "Frenchy's got his own reasons for keeping his mouth shut. Besides, he is a sheepman, and he figured you cattle folks could jolly well settle your own squabbles. And I the same. That's why I have never bothered my head about it — except to try and pry a drink out of Wynn and Tony now and then."

"Did Wynn or Tony bring you a bottle the day someone hid that calf in Frenchy's cellar?"

Bach shook his head. "No. I didn't think much about it then, but I know now how that happened. Somebody tore down a couple of the poles in the corral, right by the creek. Someone who knew I would probably be sent to fix the fence. I found the bottle in the weeds by the fence post. I thought perhaps I had lost it myself last spring, when I was drunk."

He turned his head and looked Slade in the eye. "But I will not let what happened the other day happen again. I won't get caught off guard again as long as someone is trying to make trouble for Frenchy."

Slade put out his hand. "Thanks, Bacho. We can sure use your eyes and ears — and brains."

Gratitude leaped into the little herder's spaniel brown eyes, and Slade had a hunch that this time Bacho could be trusted.

Bad medicine is being brewed for Slade, with gunshiners like Tony Miller in town. A new chapter of adventure will appear in this newspaper tomorrow.

Heads Up, Too, At Intersections

DETROIT (AP) — It's no longer just a question of "look before you cross the street" for pedestrians here. Now it's "heads up."

On June 24, a 20-foot cornice section fell from a store building on busy Woodward Avenue, killing one woman and injuring two shoppers. Another cornice section elsewhere in the business district toppled June 30. Last Sunday a tile decoration fell, narrowly missing State Sen. Charles E. Blundy. No one was hurt in the last two accidents.

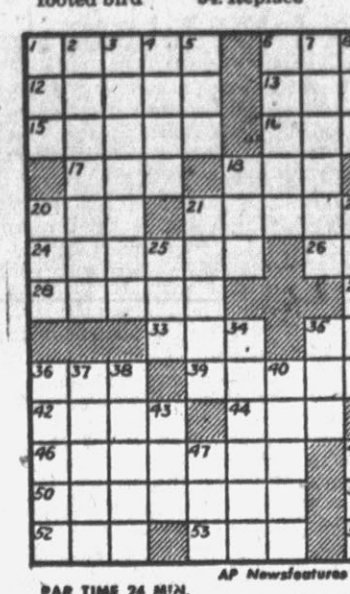

Chief Building Inspector Charles S. Allen has ordered a crackdown on aging cornices. More than 100 removal notices have been sent out and the notices are backed up with stiff fines.

SHE WENT ALONG WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP) — Policewoman Dorothy Reavis' job is to ticket cars for overparking. Making her rounds, she came up on her own car, parked illegally. As a joke, friends had parked the car and left without putting a coin in the meter. She went along with the joke and gave herself a ticket.

New TV Program Claims A Sixth Sense Necessary

NEW YORK (AP) — The summer has brought a deluge of television games. Now comes a program that claims a sixth sense is a necessity.

It's the new ESP (for Extra-Sensory Perception) Show, which bows tomorrow night on ABC-TV. It will pit people with high degrees of purported ESP against one another in matches to see which contestant (while blindfolded) can most often properly identify unseen cards and symbols, and call the roll of dice.

There will be the usual isolation booth, and the weekly winner will earn cash and the chance to continue on the show until defeated by someone with either greater mysterious powers or more luck.

Each week five cards will be pulled from a 52-card deck and displayed face down. Home viewers can write in what they think the cards were, in the order they were pulled.

If they get everything right they win $100,000.

Although program creator George Wolf is a firm believer in ESP, he doesn't expect to have a home audience winner every week.

How will studio contestants be selected? "Leading parapsychologists in the country have recommended outstanding subjects to us," said Wolf, "and several persons who have heard about the program have volunteered to be tested. We are screening them with one of the most simple of ESP devices—a deck of 13 cards.

"The subject is blindfolded. The cards—ace through king with no suit—are shuffled, and three of them are picked at random and placed face up on a table. The subject then says what he thinks the three cards are, but is not required to give them in any particular order. This is done six times, which means a subject can correctly name a maximum of 18 cards. To insure against a subject's being lucky on one day—or having a bad day because of something he ate for lunch—this time test is repeated on six different days. Those who score the highest on this test will be our contestants."

Tests and experiments given on the program have been formulated by Dr. J. B. Rhine, director of the Duke University parapsychology laboratory. Dr. Carroll Nash, who holds a similar position at St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia, will be present at each program as consultant.

Mouse Rides Missile Into Space; May Be Recovered

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Preliminary reports today indicated that the chances are good for recovering a live mouse hurled through space in the advanced nose cone of a Thor-Able rocket last night. The Air Force announced 15 minutes after what appeared to be a perfect launching that preliminary data showed the missile performed satisfactorily.

Quick Action By Congress Urged On Passport Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Roman L. Hruska (R-Neb) called today for quick action by Congress to empower the secretary of state to deny passports to Communists. "It's an urgent situation," he said.

Hruska told a reporter that testimony of Robert D. Johnson, chief of the Legal Division of the State Department's Passport Office, pointed up a need for legislation such as President Eisenhower has recommended.

At a Senate Internal Security subcommittee hearing yesterday, Johnson said that passports already have been issued to about 65 persons who would have been processed under "our Communist regulations" had it not been for recent Supreme Court rulings.

Their applications were pending at the time, he said. The court, in three cases decided June 16 held that the secretary of state has no legal authority to deny passports to Communists or others because of their associations or beliefs.

Johnson said that since the court's ruling, about 70 passport applications have been received from persons "we'd normally process under our Communist regulations."

He said passports also will have to be issued to these applicants. Johnson also told Hruska and other subcommittee members that passports now have been issued to singer Paul Robeson and others who had been denied them.

In answer to questions, Johnson said that the State Department could not now deny passports even to persons it knew to be espionage agents, so long as they were American citizens and had not been convicted of espionage.

Earlier this week Eisenhower sent a message to Congress urging legislation to permit denial of passports to persons whose activities have aided communism in the past 10 years.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has scheduled hearings on the measure starting July 16.

It still was too early to tell, however, whether the towering two-stage rocket was the first U.S. ballistic weapon to travel 6,000 miles or more through space.

The mission was to recover the nose cone and its live passenger if they survived the fiery plunge through the earth's atmosphere from outer space.

A successful test also would prove the performance of the two stages which reportedly will play a key role in three Air Force moon probes. A three-stage version of the Thor-Able probably will be used in the first lunar shot expected in a month or so.

The same Douglas Aircraft Co. team which handled last night's launching will control the first Air Force flight toward the moon. A fleet of Air Force telemetry

Alaska Shaken By Sharp Tremor

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A sharp earthquake described by a seismologist as one of major magnitude, shook wide areas of southeastern Alaska last night but caused very little damage. There were no deaths or injuries.

Dr. Don Tocher, seismologist at the University of California at Berkeley, said the quake, which he said was a major one, was centered in the Gulf of Alaska.

Dr. Charles Richter of the California Institute of Technology Seismological Laboratory at Pasadena said had the quake occurred in a populated area it would have caused a disaster.

The U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey office at Sitka, 100 miles southwest of Juneau, timed the first sharp jolt at 10:17:18 p.m. Minutes later there were two sharp aftershocks and the ground quivered off and on for hours later.

The quake sent residents of Juneau, Sitka and Petersburg, 125 miles southwest of Juneau, streaming into the streets. The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s main Alaska communications cable was cut at Lena Point, just north of Juneau, and communications to cities north of there were temporarily cut off.

Legal Loot Lies Buried At Park

HOLMDEL, N.J. (AP)—There's treasure buried at Telegraph Hill Park off the Garden State Parkway here. But it's not the loot local legend says was buried by Captain Kidd.

It's a quarter, the first toll ever collected on the parkway, which was buried in a chest when the park was dedicated in 1954.

Big Complex Of Bases In Spain Is Now Complete

MADRID, Spain (AP)—The U.S. Strategic Air Command has served notice on American taxpayers and the Kremlin that its big new complex of bases in Spain is now in full operation.

The taxpayers put up almost half a billion dollars for four air bases and related facilities as part of the worldwide U. S. system to deter the Soviets by being able to deliver nuclear bombs.

A spokesman for SAC's 16th Air Force broadly implied that the B47 jet bombers now flying from Torrejon and Valenzuela air bases carry nuclear weapons.

"Draw your own conclusions," he said. "They are capable of carrying atomic weapons."

The planes are part of Operation Reflex designed to keep some bombers always in the air so a surprise attack would not wipe out U. S. retaliatory strength. The spokesman said planes leave bases in the United States as if heading for enemy targets but stop at such advance bases as Torrejon unless ordered on.

The planes that cross the Atlantic on Operation Reflex remain on 24-hour alert, ready to take off on 15-minute notice, while in Spain, SAC planes around the world have been on such an alert since last year when the Soviets reportedly developed a workable ballistic missile.

The spokesman said most flights coming here from the United States will originate in Florida, "but not necessarily so. They may come from any base within the United States."

Every day 11,000 babies are born in America.

Second Crash Of Secret Aircraft

TUCUMCARI, N.M. (AP)—A highly classified Strategic Air Command reconnaissance plane spun in from miles high late yesterday and scattered wreckage over a two-mile area.

It was the second crash of a Lockheed U2 in the area in 24 hours, and the military immediately cordoned off roads leading to the crash site.

The plane was part of the 4080th Strategic Reconnaissance Wing based at Laughlin Air Force Base, Del Rio, Tex.

State police officers, first on the scene, said they found no sign of life. The plane carries only a pilot. The single-engine jet crashed 18 miles south and 14 miles west of here in the Caprock Country—a high bluff rising from the plains.

The U2 cruises at 55,000 feet checking weather conditions and fallout from radioactive explosions, the Air Force said.

Only 24 hours earlier, another U2 crashed about 110 miles east of here near Amarillo, Tex., killing Squadron Leader C. H. Walker, a Royal Air Force exchange pilot.

Moose Open Swimming Pool With Simple Ceremony, Much Splashing

Heavily-laden rain clouds held back their burdens last night enabling the Moose Lodge to dedicate its swimming pool as scheduled.

Despite the constant threat of rain, approximately 350 people attended the dedication ceremonies.

The new pool was officially opened to members of the Moose by Mayor E. Eugene West, Past Governor Percy Cox and Governor John Behr, each of whom cut a ribbon. Mayor West, speaking briefly to the crowd, lauded the Moose Lodge for its initiative. Cox and Behr also spoke briefly.

Eli Bloom served as master of ceremonies.

While the ceremonies were in progress, the youngsters stood eagerly by, their eyes never leaving the bluish-looking water in the pool. Several found it difficult to hide their impatience but somehow managed to.

Jack McCann and Ken Midyette, members of the East Carolina College swimming team, presented a water show. Both will be lifeguards, in charge of the pool.

The new pool, costing approximately $45,000, is 40 feet wide and 80 feet long. Its depths run from three feet to nine and one-half feet under the diving pool at the east end.

Nearby is a wading pool, 12 feet wide and 20 feet long. There were almost as many in this pool as in the big one.

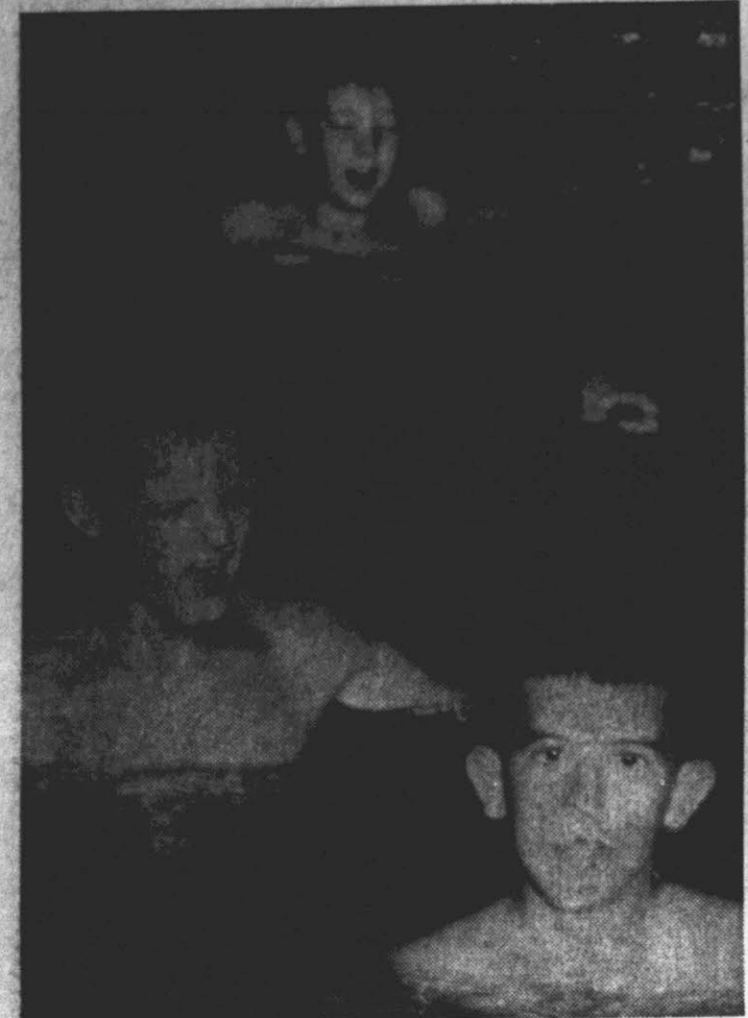

Surrounding the pools is a wire fence. Other facilities include a bathhouse and a concession stand.

Built for Moose members, the pool will be open daily from 10:30 a.m. until 9:30 p.m. except for Sunday. On Sunday it opens at 1:30 and closes at 9:30 p.m. All swimming will be supervised.

Swimming classes for adults only will be conducted July 14-25. One class will meet from 8:10 until 9:10 p.m. and the other at 9:20 for one hour. Moose officials have announced that an extra class will be added if there are enough adults who sign up. In this case the time is to be announced later.

Actual construction on the pool by Carolina Pools, Inc. of Sanford began April 22. Due to inclement weather no concrete was poured until May 22. Since that time three other pours were made, the last on June 4.

"Just what I've been waiting for"

"There's a future in this wading trick"

"Boy there's nothing like a good swim!"

"I should have brought my bathing suit."

Rossellini Suit Awaits Doctor

ROME (AP)—A Rome court's decision on Roberto Rossellini's suit to annul his marriage to Ingrid Bergman is being held up for testimony from her first husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

Court circles said yesterday that Rome's First Section Court had reached a decision on the suit but it would not be announced until the presiding judge had signed it.

Today the court clerk said the court had accepted a request from the public prosecutor to ask Lindstrom to come to Rome. He is professor of neurosurgery at the University of Utah, in Salt Lake City.

There was no indication what action might be taken should Lindstrom refuse to come to Rome to testify.

Rossellini, the Italian movie director whose romance with the actress broke up her marriage to Lindstrom eight years ago, had contended in his suit that her Mexican proxy divorce was fraudulent because neither Italian or Swedish law recognized it.

The prosecutor, in opposing the suit, maintained that granting of an annulment would automatically declare Miss Bergman still married to Lindstrom.

The development appeared to block, at least temporarily, Miss Bergman's plans to wed wealthy Lars Schmidt, a Swede. She recently announced in London the wedding would take place as soon as legally possible.

It also blocks any plans Rossellini may have to marry Sonali Das Gupta, the wife of an Indian movie executive, who abandoned her husband for the Italian early last year while he was making movies in India.

Every year most Americans live better. Every year most of us are better fed, better housed, better clothed.

You can foresee just a little what is to come by what Americans have accomplished.

Found A Wallet With $1,500

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Joseph C. Johnson was strolling down the street thinking about his recent spinal surgery when he saw a wallet on the sidewalk.

Not wanting to bend over, he waited for someone to come along and pick up the wallet. No one did.

Finally, he stepped into a store and got a clerk to come out and pick it up. Inside, they found $1,500 in traveler's checks.

Police, notified of the wallet, stopped a bus headed out of the city and returned the wallet to William Stoel, Warwick, N.J. Officers relayed Stoel's thanks to Johnson.

What Did Stengel Say Yesterday??

Gordon Gloats Over 12-2 Win Over Yankees

By ED CORRIGAN Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Gordon held forth at second base for the New York Yankees for many a year, but nowadays he's strictly an enemy of the Bronx Bombers.

And, as an enemy will on occasion, he did a little gloating today.

"Boy," he laughed, "I'll bet they felt strange last night after getting rid of Power, Held and Hunter."

He was referring to last night's 12-2 slaughter of the Yanks—the first time he's come up against them as manager of the Cleveland Indians. He took over for Bobby Bragan two weeks ago and the Tribe has won 7 of 11 since.

Vic Power, Woody Held and Billy Hunter all were laborers for Casey Stengel in recent years, but the Yanks couldn't find a spot for them. Last night, they really went to town against Whitey Ford and Virgil Trucks. Power had five hits, Held two and Hunter two.

The game was the only one scheduled in the American League last night. In the only National League game, the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the first-place Milwaukee Braves 10-3.

The Tribe collected 19 hits off Ford and Trucks. It was the worst barrage the Yanks have been subjected to this season.

Actually, it was a close battle between Ford and Cal McLish for seven innings. But in the eighth, the Indians scored seven runs. McLish was lifted for a pinch hitter during the uprising, which prompted Gordon to comment: "Imagine making your last pitch with the score tied 1-1 and finishing up the winner of a 12-2 ball game."

A dozen Indians batted in that eighth inning. Included among the hits were a homer by Mickey Vernon and doubles by Held, Bobby Avila and Billy Harrell. The Tribe scored four more in the ninth, but by that time they were getting tired.

Stengel didn't specifically endorse the exemption bill. Stengel, who has added to the language of baseball, is curvy.

When Kefauver inquired why baseball owners want any new change of Yankee Stadium, he wound up and uncorked that old "I wouldn't know, but I imagine to keep baseball going as high as baseball is as a sport, they have gone into baseball and from the baseball angle."

O'Malley Talks Drastic Action

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dodger boss Walter O'Malley stormed home from the East last night threatening his cellar-dwelling team with a drastic shake-up.

"The players are hereby put on notice that changes will be made until we get the right combination," he told newsmen before last night's game with the Braves, which his charges promptly went out and won, 10-3. He added: "Replacements will come from any place we can obtain them—other major league clubs, our farm system, other minor league clubs."

How about manager Walt Alston? Someone asked. "He's our manager and he's going to stay. So far as I'm concerned, he gets a vote of confidence for the first half of the season and I'm not changing the party line at this time."

A reporter wanted to know if that meant Alston will be retained at least through the present season.

ROBBIE POWELL... 3 No-hitters

Man With The Golden Arm--Robbie Powell

By BILLY ARNOLD Reflector Sports Editor

Bespoke Robbie Powell, 12-year-old pitcher for the Little League Lions Club, says he'd rather hit a homerun than pitch a no-hit ball game.

This may sound like an extraordinary statement. But Robbie is an extraordinary young man. He hasn't gotten a homerun yet this season but he has tossed three no-hit ball games.

The young Lion righthander—if you go for statistics—is just about the hottest pitcher in the Greenville Little League. He has a 4-2 season's record thus far and has turned in more no-hit performances in one year than any other hurler in the local league's history.

And the season isn't over yet. Even so, statistics don't tell everything. For instance, Tuesday of this week, the Richmond-born righthander went six innings against the Jaycees, not allowing a hit, not allowing a man to reach first base, yet he wasn't given credit for the eventual 2-1 Lion victory.

In Little League play, a pitcher can only pitch six innings per week. Tuesday's ball game went 11 innings. When Powell was taken out, the score was 0-0. Reid Kennedy came in to finish up and he was the eventual winner. Powell's no-hitter doesn't count in the records.

Just the same, Robbie Powell is generally considered by Little League enthusiasts as the outstanding hurler in the loop. He opened the 1958 season with a one-hit victory; his second game was a two-hit win; then he proceeded to stomp the Jaycees 3-0 and 1-0 in a pair of no-hit triumphs. Tuesday was his third one.

The only other no-hit performances racked up in local Little League play have been hitless games turned in by Pepsi-Cola pitchers Billy Cannon and Frank Harper and the Elks' Frank Moyer. But they only have one each.

For Robbie Powell, this will be his last season as a Little Leaguer. He has played four years of organized ball for Greenville teams, beginning with the Small Fry organization in 1954. His past two seasons have been spent with the Lions.

In the past two years of play with the Lions, Robbie has played practically every position on the team. In fact, it was only last year that the golden-armed little righthander got his first chance to pitch. Since that time, Coaches

Clint Joyner and R. B. Starling have given him plenty of mound work. When he isn't on the hill, Powell usually gets an infield position and often catches. He is a .400 hitter.

Robbie has already formed a professional's outlook on the game, although he isn't certain whether he'd like to play pro ball some day. When asked if it bothered him when he had a no-hitter in progress, he answered, "No. I never even realize it most of the time. I just pitch the best I can all the time."

He relies on a fast ball most of the time, with a saucer curve ball every once in a while to confuse his opponents. His control is excellent. He gives most of the credit for his fine pitching to Coach R. B. Starling "who worked with me a lot" and to Reid Kennedy, his catcher.

An All-Star selection last season and a sure-fire bet for another berth on the 1958 team, Robbie Powell seems destined to become a top-flight ball player on bigger teams. He says he wants to continue his career in Teen-er League next year, "if I can make it."

After that, will come junior high, high school, and who knows what? Behind Robbie's success on the mound is a trait that every ball player has to have to be really good: the desire to win, the competitive spirit. Umpire Booger Scales can attest to this. He was umpiring in the Tuesday game this week.

Booger was talking with some fans Tuesday about a pitch that Powell delivered which he called a ball. "Robbie sort of bashfully indicated he thought it should have been called a strike," Booger said. "Looks like he'd be satisfied. After all, I've called three no-hitters for him."

First Eight Are Still In Play

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The first eight seeded players in the National Senior men's clay court tennis tournament survived in first and second round play yesterday.

and easily whipped Rex Norris of Lansing, Mich., 6-1, 6-3 in second round play. He was scheduled to face St. Louis' Ward Parker in the third round today.

Parker beat Henry Crawford of Atlanta, 6-2, 6-2.

VFW, Elks Claim Victory In Little League Play

Milwaukee Can't Get By The Bums

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bob Williams, a rookie right-hander, pitched a pretty four-hitter and picked up his fourth victory in seven decisions.

He walked three in the fifth inning and two in the eighth. The Braves nicked him for a run in the fifth, on Eddie Mathews' sacrifice fly, but he got out of the eighth-inning jam by getting Hank Aaron to ground into a double play.

Right behind Bilko in run production was rookie catcher John Roseboro, who drove in three with a double and a single. He scored twice himself, once after tripling.

Carlton Willey, the Milwaukee starter, was consigned to the showers after the first inning and took his second loss of the season. Gene Conley, Bob Trowbridge and Ernie Johnson followed him to the mound.

Davis Hurls 9th Consecutive Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Durham's left Dick Davis ran his winning streak to nine straight last night in the Carolina League, pitching a five-hitter as the Bulls defeated Raleigh, 6-1.

The win enabled Durham to move within a half game of fifth place while Raleigh managed only six hits off former Wake Forest star Ben Tensch, but two of them were homers by Ted Breznenk and George Smith. Breznenk homered in the third, his fifth circuit blast in five games.

League leading High Point, Thomasville, unlimbered its heavy artillery in routing Wilson, 12-3. The Hi-Toms shelled two pitchers for 15 hits, scoring four runs in the opening inning. Tony Curry, Al Kenders and Jackie Davis homered for the Hi-Toms. Jim Burton hit a four-bagger for Wilson.

Danville walloped Greensboro, 11-4, behind the four-hit pitching of Don Hyman. It was his 11th win against six defeats. Greensboro jumped into a four-run lead in the first two innings but after that Hyman had things his way. A five-run fifth inning featured Danville's scoring.

The Winston-Salem-Alamance game was postponed because of rain. Two teams play a doubleheader tonight at Graham. Other games tonight: Danville at Greensboro, Durham at Raleigh and Wilson at Hi-Toms.

The contest is held at the Wethersfield Country Club, a few miles from Hartford. The final 18 holes will be played Sunday.

North State League Jaycees 5 2 VFW 4 1 Lions 3 1 Kiwanis 1 3 Tar Heel League Pepsi-Cola 6 0 Elks 4 2 Exchange 1 6 Moose 0 4

The Elks and the VFW picked up victories yesterday in Greenville Little League play at Elm Street Park, topping the Exchange club and the Kiwanis club respectively.

Frank Moyer tossed a seven-hitter for the Elks to record a free-scoring 11-4 triumph in the Tar Heel loop and clinch second place in the standings for his club.

Highsmith pitched a six-hitter for the VFW in turning back the Kiwanis club 8-7 in a tight North State tilt.

Moyer and his teammates punched out eight hits in the Tar Heel game and picked up runs in the first, second, fifth, and sixth innings to bowl over the Exchange group. The Exchangers got their runs in the first, second and fifth.

Moyer fanned eight and walked nine in acquiring the win. The losing hurler was Brown. He went to the fifth inning and was then relieved by Summerlin.

In the other game, the VFW picked up five big runs in the fourth inning without getting a single hit and then added three more in the fifth to clinch their 8-7 win over the Kiwanis. The losers got five in the third and two more in the seventh.

Mountaineer Bill Crump Is One Of A Vanishing Breed In West Carolina

By NANCY ALEXANDER
Lenoir News Topic
(Written for the Associated Press)

LENOIR, N.C. (AP) — "My name's known all over the United States. Ever' body's took a picture of me. There's one drawn with a brush over in Paris, France, now."

Bill Crump who lives deep in Pisgah Forest beneath Grandfather Mountain's rugged slopes, hardly was exaggerating.

It isn't only the rich-grained furniture he makes of native lumber and the gushing mountain streams brimming with trout near his home that draw people from Maine to California and Florida down the rugged, rocky mile-long trail to his valley; it's chiefly Bill himself.

He's one of a vanishing breed of men. A typical, garrulous mountaineer, with an integrity as solid as the granite cliffs of the high hills, he stands tall and thin in his khaki shirt, worn gaiters stretched over his stooped shoulders. From beneath a battered hat his salt and pepper hair spills over a weathered face etched with 85 years. In his work-gnarled hands is the skill of the artisan. Life has stood still in Bill's valley for 50 years or more. Behind him crystal clear water runs swiftly through a mill race and splashes over a creaking water wheel. Inside the dim mill in a dusty spider-webbed corner, a worn corn grinder sits idle.

In the darkness is the outline of the generator which supplies the power for his machinery and lights. A tired sled used for hauling lumber from the hills waits in the yard. Handmade shingles blackened and odd-shaped covered the roof of a nearby shed. Deer sleek as fat cattle wander through the green valley.

Bill explains it in speech filled with colloquialism:

"Several people have made my picture with a brush. A woman come here from Oklahoma a few years ago and had me stand next to the wheel and made revolving pictures of me. Later another woman come from Oklahoma and said she'd seen me in the movies out there."

From the house Bill brought a magazine with five or six colored photographs of himself and his native surroundings.

"The last one that drew my picture was a fellow down in Winston-Salem. Joe King, I think his name was. Some folks at Lenoir put me down there. Didn't charge me a cent. Mr. King had me all there awhile and then give me 10 dollars! That's the picture that's over in Paris now. It was showed in New York and other places, too.

"After I got through settin' while he made the picture they took me out and set me up to a rich folks' dinner. There was a lot of people in the place we et and I never saw such food. I took stood of apple pie for desert."

"All that food put me in mind of somethin' that happened at the Globe onct and I tolt the waitress about it. She got a big laugh out of it. There was a man staying at a boarding house and the woman that ran it tolt 'im she'd have to raise her price on her meals from 25 to 30 cents a day, it looked like. He tolt her he wa'n't interested in 30 cent meals—that it was all he could do to eat the 25 cent'uns."

"I moved here in the fall of '96 after I married my wife in '95. She was Carrie Barlow of Kings Creek. I was born near Cahala's Mountain. My folks was David and Jane Clark Crump. I took my making furniture from my Granddaddy Calvin Clark. He made chairs, didn't have a shop, just had a lathe behind the house and tramped it."

"I keep a-goin' all the time. Besides making furniture I farm a little too. I can run a saw mill good as any man and better'n lots of 'um."

"I've had a water wheel here about 40 years. It powers my machinery. It's the third one I've built. None of 'um 'll last over 20 years. The mill race brings the water from Buck Timber creek. It's a prong of Wilson's Creek that comes right out of Grandfather Mountain."

"I've ground corn for the whole country 'round here since way back yander. I make anything anybody wants. I've made coffins for years—anytime anybody wants one."

"I make all kinds of furniture. I'd rather make big stuff than little stuff. I use pegs in it, too. I make settin' chairs, ladder-back chairs, any kind of chairs, drop leaf tables, beds, lazy Susan tables, cupboards, and dressers."

"I've got $500 in orders a-waitin' on me now, whenever I get the time to make the furniture."

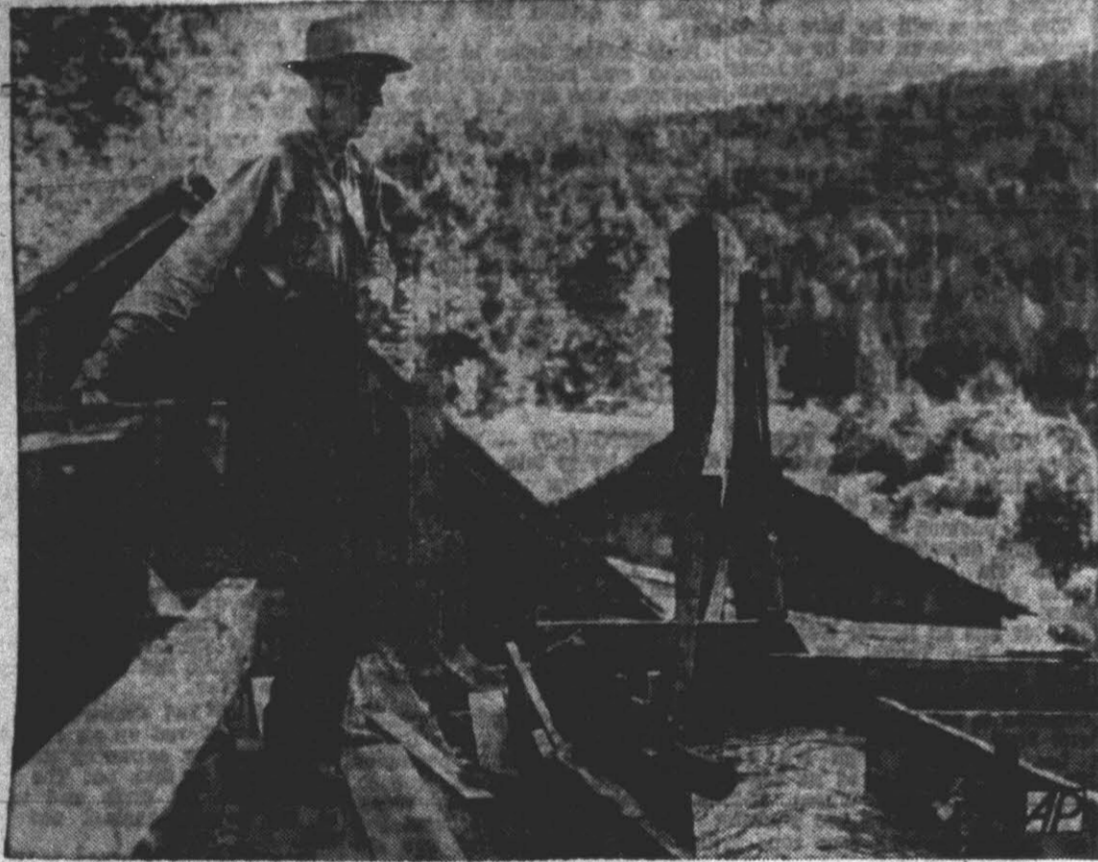

"Pointing to a drill he declared, "That there machine I made myself. I wouldn't give it for any machine I've ever saw in them big size factories. I can put any kind of bit in it I want."

"The federal government owns the whole country 'round here. They've got me a surround ed. Course they don't own the little bit I've got — about 63 acres."

"If there's a fire anywhere, Lord Gawd, they always call me. I've taught ever'body in this end of the country how to fight fires."

"And Lord, I've seen the floods — two bad 'uns, '18 and '40—that washed ever' thing we had away. We went up the mountain to the road and set up there all night and it just a-pourin'."

Bill does not have a college diploma, but he has a masters degree from the school of experience and in the art of making friends.

SURVIVOR OF A VANISHING BREED—Bill Crump, 85, one of a vanishing breed of men, lives deep in the forest beneath Grandfather Mountain's rugged slopes in western North Carolina. The aged mountaineer looks over crystal clear water running through the old mill race and supplying power for machinery with which he makes rich-grained household furniture of native lumber. Tourists from Maine to California have visited him. "My name is known all over the United States," says Bill. "Ever'body's took a picture of me. There's one drawn with a brush in Paris, France, now." ## Navy Impatient On Castro Delay

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP) — Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, was due here today to inquire into the delay in the release by Cuban rebels of 30 kidnaped American servicemen.

Fidel Castro's men freed the last two captive American civilians yesterday, leaving only the sailors and Marines plus one Canadian civilian in the rebels' jungle camps.

The Navy obviously is growing impatient at the delay in getting its men back. Nineteen civilians have been released so far but no to transportation troubles." Earlier he had blamed difficulties in communicating with the widely scattered rebels.

Robert Wiechan, vice consul at Santiago, flew back into the jungle to join Wollam in negotiations. The helicopter that carried him returned with Albert M. Ross, 31, Houston, Tex., and James D. Best, 22, New Orleans and St. Matthews, Ky. Both were in excellent health.

Boys Didn't Run; Law Appreciates

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Six boys who knocked out a window in an abandoned city fire engine house here while playing baseball will receive a letter of commendation from the city law director this week.

The boys didn't run away after the damage. They reported the incident and said they were sorry. They offered to pay.

Robert Calhoun, public properties superintendent, asked city officials to forget the cost.

The letter by Law Director Richard Weiler reads in part: "Character of... (your) sort never leads to juvenile delinquency—and we are certain that if you maintain this attitude through your later life, you shall all make citizens worthy of any city."

Reverses Role Of 'Best Friend'

HONOLULU (AP) — A boy, oft times, can be a dog's best friend. Especially in the case of 11-year-old Steve Doughty, and his dog, Rusty, a 2-year-old beagle.

When Steve's family moved to Hawaii last September, they had to leave Rusty behind with relatives in Northridge, Calif. Steve's father, Navy Chief Photographer Robert Doughty, promised he would pay the lad's fare back to the West Coast to get Rusty if Steve could save half of it — about $65.

For five months, Steve washed cars, mowed lawns, went with-out ice cream, saved his 50-cents weekly allowance. Finally, he saved $62 and his dad put up the rest. Steve went back to California to pick up Rusty.

Honest Approach In Funds Appeal

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Mortimer D. Schwartz, chairman of the Norman Public Library Board, made a stirring appeal before the City Commission for a new library building but he spoke in a half-bent position.

He explained to the commission he had a crick in his back, and added: "I would like to say I got it from holding up the old library building to keep it from falling down. But the truth is I did a little too much gardening."

The ringneck pheasant was first transported to this country from the Orient in 1881. Now it is one of the principal game birds of the United States.

NOTICE RELATING TO SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD ON SEPTEMBER 27, 1958 ON THE ISSUANCE OF $750,000 HOSPITAL BONDS OF THE COUNTY OF PITT, NORTH CAROLINA

A special election has been called by the Board of Commissioners of the County of Pitt, North Carolina, to be held on September 27, 1958, on the question of the issuance of $750,000 Hospital Bonds of said County to finance part of the cost of the construction of an addition to the Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

The estimated cost of such hospital addition is $1,500,000. At the time of the adoption of the ordinance authorizing the issuance of said $750,000 Hospital Bonds and calling said special election, the Board of Commissioners had been advised by the North Carolina Medical Care Commission that federal funds would be contributed under the Hill-Burton Act in the amount of approximately Seven Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($750,000) to pay approximately fifty per cent of the total estimated cost of said hospital addition.

The Board of Commissioners has subsequently been advised by said North Carolina Medical Care Commission that the federal funds to be contributed under the Hill-Burton Act to pay part of the cost of said hospital addition will be approximately One Million Dollars ($1,000,000) instead of Seven Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($750,000).

The legal voters of the County of Pitt are hereby notified that in the event said $1,000,000 of federal funds are received for said hospital addition the full amount of said $750,000 Hospital Bonds of the County of Pitt will not be issued and that the amount of such Hospital Bonds to be issued will be reduced to an amount which, together with the federal funds received for said hospital addition, will equal the total cost of said hospital addition.

By order of the Board of Commissioners, Pitt County, North Carolina.

Foreigners Can Expect Rudeness

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 CARACAS (AP)—The 6,000,000 people of Venezuela are playing with a new toy called democracy. In that process, they seemingly would be far happier if there weren't any foreigners around. They show this by a display of rudeness that apparently is far out in front of that visible elsewhere in South America.

Venezuelan men and women who accidentally bump into foreigners in the streets of this bustling capital never bother to murmur a "pardon me" or a "sorry."

At the usually crowded theaters, Venezuelans think nothing of barging out of a line of ticket-buyers and elbowing their way in front of a foreigner.

Taxi drivers and hotel employees seldom thank you for a tip. There are few smiles for a foreigner.

Americans feel the average Venezuelan's display of chilliness and rudeness more than anyone else. There are 40,000 Americans in this country and people from the United States are in the vast majority of the visitors.

Upon arrival at Maiquetia Airport, Americans find their passports treated as if disease-laden. Outside the airport, taxi prices seem to be inflated as soon as an American shows up. Often $15 is demanded for the 12-mile ride up the superhighway to Caracas.

Some second-rate hotels charge $14 to $17 per day for a room far below U.S. standards.

An anti-U.S. tone in Venezuela's newspapers is fanned at every opportunity by Communists and sympathizers who have mushroomed since revolution ended the dictatorship of President Marcos Perez Jimenez last Jan. 23.

Venezuelans, in the transition from dictatorship to democracy, are still burning over the fact that the United States looked with favor upon Perez Jimenez — and awarded him the Legion of Merit.

They are also resentful that he lives at Miami, Fla. Aside from this, many Venezuelans are sore at the United States for restricting oil imports.

Russians Wooing Small Countries

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
 AP Foreign News Analyst
 The Soviet government is paying lots of attention to small countries. No country seems too small to be undeserving of well-planned Kremlin wooing.

Here are some of the things the Soviets have been doing in recent weeks:

The King and Queen of Nepal visited the Soviet Union. They were received with lavish hospitality, toured several different Soviet cities, were entertained at official receptions where they met all the top Soviet leaders, and were given extensive publicity in the Soviet press.

Prince Prem Purachatra, a Thai scientist, was entertained by Soviet scientists. He gave some lectures, traveled about and received much publicity.

The Soviet campaign to woo Iceland received a push with a trip to the Soviet Union by a group of delegates of the Icelandic Parliament.

At the same time the Soviet press supported Iceland on the important issue of definition of territorial waters. Iceland insists a 12-mile limit instead of the traditional three-mile limit.

A parliamentary delegation from Cambodia was entertained in Moscow, then went to Central Asia to be shown how the Soviet Union has developed economic resources.

A group of Norwegians representing the society "Norway — U.S.S.R." was entertained in Moscow and other Soviet cities.

Ethiopia's minister of trade and industry, accompanied by a group of government officials, arrived in Moscow a few days ago on the invitation of the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Trade.

Such attention to small countries makes good political sense. Though small countries are often important strategically and politically, they are often neglected by the big powers. With them a little bit of attention goes a long way.

Marilyn Ready To Make A Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marilyn Monroe is back in town. That's her in the sheath. She showed the Hollywood press corps what the style does for her — and vice versa — at a reception yesterday.

Marilyn returned to Hollywood from New York earlier yesterday to perform in a film about the 1920s. It's called "Some Like It Hot."

She said she was so sure director-writer Billy Wilder would do well by her that she agreed to star without reading the script. She has another reason for trusting Wilder, though. She will get 15 per cent of the movie's take.

TEACHERS' PETITION
 SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — About 255 teachers in eight California colleges have signed a petition addressed to President Eisenhower urging immediate halt of U.S. nuclear and thermonuclear tests. It says, "Continuous testing contributes to the perpetuation and magnification of international tensions."

Somehow, You Know It's Poland

By RAMOND ANDERSON
Richmond Times-Dispatch

WARSAW (AP)—You don't need border guards to tell you when you've crossed the frontier between Communist Czechoslovakia and Communist Poland. You can sense it from your fellow passengers.

For 10 hours from Prague to the Polish border our train was full of subdued, unsmiling Czechs. Thirty minutes after we crossed, everything was laughter and lively conversation.

I had breakfast on the train with an exuberant Pole from Krakow just after we crossed the border. We got acquainted after he shared with me an important discovery—there was water for shaving in the next car.

Our breakfast was two ham sandwiches, two glasses of coffee and two large glasses of vodka. The vodka was first. And it had to be "do dna" (bottoms up). A challenge.

It's with a sense of duty well done that I can report the Pole gave up first. But he stopped just in time to save me from fiery asphyxiation. Each glass was still about a quarter full.

While we ate, we talked politics—an eternal subject in present-day Poland—striking a common language in a mixture of German and Russian.

The conversation went like this: American—"How do you happen to speak such good German and Russian?" Pole—"I was a 'guest' in both countries. First the Russians captured me in 1939 and then the Germans in 1942."

"How long were you in Czechoslovakia now?" "Long enough to make it worthwhile."

He grinned and waved his arm at his suitcases. American—"What do you think of Czechs?" Pole—"They work better than Poles but they don't die as bravely."

"How is life in Poland now?" "It's a lot better since Gomulka kicked the Russians out of Warsaw. It's still not perfect but it was terrible while Stalin was alive."

"Have the Polish people heard of the help the United States has been giving Poland for the last 18 months?" "Yes. But it really isn't much help. We have to pay it back with interest. I know America has been giving money to the world for years and can't keep it up. But Poles are your friends. You should help us now."

The Pole told with relish how Wladyslaw Gomulka, once nearly shot as a Titoist, regained leadership of the Polish Communist party in the October 1956 revolution.

"Gomulka is a Polish nationalist," he said. "That's why he is so popular even though he is a Communist. All real Poles are nationalists. They hated the Moscow Poles who came in with the Red army's baggage and took over the country."

A waitress entered our compartment. The Pole ordered another round of vodka. The waitress brought it. Luckily, this time the glasses were smaller.

"Do dna."

Waitress—"Where is the Frenchman going?" Pole—"He is not French. He is an American traveling through the people's democracies."

Waitress (doubtfully)—"He left America to come here?" Pole—"He might even go to Moscow."

The waitress grimaced, picked up the breakfast dishes and left.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market gained slightly in fairly active trading early this afternoon. Key stocks rose from fractions to better than a point. Small losers were scattered through the list and a number of stocks were unchanged.

The shock of Ford's dividend cut which upset the market yesterday had apparently subsided. Ford shares firmed after their loss of 2 1/2 on the unexpected news. The stock was about unchanged.

A big defense contract for Boeing boosted that stock more than a point and inspired other aircrafts to smaller gains. Coppers were generally lower following word of a reduction in copper scrap prices. Motors were about unchanged. Rails and chemicals were mostly higher. Airlines were off.

Servel snapped back partially from the reversal of its rise early this week and rose about a point. Wall Street reassessed the progress of its possible acquisition of Hydrol Co. of Los Angeles.

Lorillard was easy at the start, then resumed its sustained advance, adding about a point. Mack Trucks had a flurry which boosted its price more than a point.

U. S. Steel gained a sizeable fraction in an otherwise sluggish steel group. Kennecott and International Nickel were off about a point apiece. Anaconda, Phelps Dodge and American Smelting dropped fractions.

Illinois Central rose close to a point while Southern Pacific and Southern Railway gained substantial fractions. New York Central and Santa Fe were firm.

Small losses were taken by American Airlines, Eastern Air Lines, U.S. Rubber, and International Paper. Du Pont's rise of more than a point paced an improving chemicals section.

'Sinking Feeling' Is Soon Relieved

RADFORD, Va. (AP) — Glenn A. Martin of Bloomville, N.C., had that sinking feeling when he reached for his wallet and identification papers after a state trooper waved him down near here yesterday.

But then that was why the trooper had followed him.

They backtracked 30 miles to the drive-in restaurant here, where waitress Nancy Tipton handed Marshall his wallet holding $791 and Mrs. Martin's purse, also left behind.

The waitress and the manager, who notified state police, got a $7 reward.

$30,000 Settles Timber-Cutting

BURGAU, N. C. (AP) — A settlement of $30,000 has been reached in a suit brought by Meredith College for timber cut from college-owned land in the Long Creek section of Pender County.

The college brought the suit against J. T. Taylor Jr. of New Bern. The settlement was reached in a lengthy conference here yesterday between attorneys and a court-appointed referee, attorney George Roundtree of Wilmington.

LARGE PLANE LANDS HERE—One of the largest planes to use Pitt-Greenville Airport in recent months, a DC-3, landed here this morning to pick up local winners in an appliance sales contest. Five Greenville residents, A. J. Garris, B. P. Carraway, M. H. Hardy and Howard Hinson, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Midgette of Bel Haven, boarded the plane here for a four-day trip to Batavia, N. Y. and Niagara Falls. They joined a group of Fayetteville residents for the trip. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Hardbitten Korean Waif Changed By Life In U. S.

By RUSSELL LANE

QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — It's hard to believe that nine years ago Joseph Anthony was a ragged, dirty, hungry boy of the streets in Seoul, Korea.

Today, at 18, he's a pleasant, scholarly young man, preparing to take his oath of U.S. citizenship and to enter Quincy College in the fall.

"Oh, I'd have become a full fledged citizen long ago," he said. "But the law requires that an immigrant reside in this wonderful country five years before he may be naturalized—and that is wise."

Joe was a hard-bitten, veteran ragamuffin when he encountered American soldiers and fell in love with the United States at the outbreak of the Korean War.

His American dream began with kindness of an Army sergeant who fed him, and was nurtured by the good will he found everywhere—doing odd jobs for soldiers and airmen. His translator, more often, Little Joe.

An Air Force colonel smuggled him to Japan, where a chaplain, the Rev. Donald Werr, took charge of his fortunes. Father Werr, now assistant to the president of Quincy College, gave Joe his last name in honor of St. Anthony, patron of lost objects. He prepared Joe for coming to the United States, and hundreds of servicemen helped.

Today, Father Werr is Joe's legal guardian.

Joe spent the first year of his residence in the United States as a citizen of Boy's Town, Neb. He has lived in Quincy for the last four years. Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Biller, friends of Father Werr, have provided him with a home.

He graduated from Notre Dame High School May 30 in the upper 5 per cent of his class and won a scholarship from the Adams County Medical Society.

Joe is polishing up a 100,000-word book, "The Boy from Korea," which tells his story. He has talked on freedom and citizenship before 52 high school audiences, and won fifth place this year in the National High School Oratorical Contest.

And what does Joe think of his adopted country?

"I now hear church bells instead of fearful machine-gun shots," he says. "I read newspapers instead of propaganda leaflets. I speak freely instead of hesitating. I walk with pride instead of suspicion. I live in a home instead of a hut. I eat three full meals instead of two soup meals a day. I experience laughter instead of tears. I know kindness instead of bitterness. All these and so much more make up the voice of democracy that is constantly making a deep impression on me."

RE-ELECTED

GREENSBORO (AP) — John M. Morehead of New York today was re-elected president and director of the North Carolina Railroad Co.

Some Planes So Fast They Put Radio Signals Out Of Channel

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some planes now can go fast enough to push radio signals out of their allotted frequency channels, says an electronics expert.

This can mean danger for men in supersonic aircraft because it reduces or in some cases can prevent effective communication during fleeting moments when warnings or other information are vital, he said.

The best way out of the problem, the specialist said, is to establish artificial radio relay stations in satellite thousands of miles above the earth.

The expert, R. W. Parkinson, of the Ramo-Woolridge Corp. Los Angeles, described the problem in an address prepared for delivery today at the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, Ramo-Woolridge is a research organization holding extensive government contracts.

Two planes closing in on each other and each traveling at 2 1/2 times the speed of sound get a speedup in their commonly used voice communication band, Parkinson said. After they pass each other the frequency is slowed down by the same amount.

The effect is basically the same as the rising and falling notes of a train whistle or an automobile horn when a car on a highway passes a train going in the opposite direction. Scientifically it is called the Doppler effect.

This variation may crowd the signal clear out of the band to which it is allotted, Parkinson declared. Unless the receiving plane returns its set to compensate for this, it may get only part of the message or may miss it entirely.

One answer to this and other shortcomings of present radio communication, the specialist added, is the establishment of two or three satellites 22,000 miles above the earth with instruments for relaying short-wave signals.

These satellites would have the same speed as the rotation of the earth, so they would seem to be stationary in the sky. At the same time they would reflect signals not just to one part of the earth but over nearly half of its surface, Parkinson said.

A satellite relay system could carry thousands of channels simultaneously and relieve the congestion of the present radio spectrum, he reported. The system also could make long-range or even worldwide television possible, he added.

Existing electronic equipment is capable of producing such a system, he said. The main unsolved problems, he added, are a booster rocket that could get the moderate-sized satellite to the 22,000 miles level, and a means of furnishing it with power to operate its relay equipment.

He guessed such problems will be solved in 5 to 10 years.

Boy Is Slightly Hurt In Mishap

JIMMY JONES, 13, of 606 Washington Street suffered a bruised foot as a result of a minor accident at the corner of Third and Cotanche streets early yesterday afternoon.

According to investigating officers the youngster ran into the back of a truck operated by Milton Dunn of 605 Norris Street. No traffic violation was cited.

The Greenville Rescue Squad was called. No service was rendered, however, since the injury was minor and did not necessitate treatment.

Hearing July 18

A public hearing on plans to make N. C. 11 a four-lane highway from West End Circle to the South 11 Drive-in Theatre will be held July 18, instead of tomorrow as reported in yesterday's edition of The Daily Reflector.

The hearing has been called by the State Highway Commission to hear views of persons who would be affected by the project. Particular emphasis will be paid to comments about economic effects of the proposed route.

Plans to make the highway a four-lane route were announced several months ago by the Highway Commission.
