Raleigh Branch Bank Held Up By Gunman; Boy Caught With Cash

RALEIGH (AP) — Officers today nabbed a youth suspected of being the nervous gunman who earlier today held up the Farmers' Market Branch of the Security National Bank.

Officers identified the youth as John Johnson, 17, of Centerville, Va. They said he had a wad of money stuffed in his pocket when he was nabbed in a wooded area about half a mile from the bank.

"He pulled out a big, black pistol and said, 'This is a holdup,'" Deaton recalled. "He was young looking and I thought he might be joking. So, I stalled around a little bit."

"I told him to pick it up himself," said Deaton. "So, he stripped it off the counter himself and crammed it in his pockets."

and dark skin — and appeared to be sunburned. Police, highway patrolmen and FBI agents rushed to the scene after bank employees gave the alarm. A police officer said hopefully, "We have men on all sides and we may have him surrounded."

Goldfine Refuses To Answer 23 Queries, Accused Of Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Counsel for House investigators today accused Bernard Goldfine of contempt after the Boston industrialist refused to answer 23 questions about his financial affairs.

"I contend that this subcommittee has no right to inquire into the internal affairs of the companies concerned," Goldfine maintained.

Harris aimed a shaft at the White House, where Adams has acknowledged seeking information on Goldfine cases before federal regulatory agencies but insisted he did nothing to influence the agencies.

Lishman sought repeatedly but unsuccessfully to learn whether these loans and notes were made under direction of the company's board of directors or if Goldfine had instructed his bookkeeper to draw the checks for the amounts involved.

Kansas Hit Hard By Big Storm

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—A storm with hurricane-force winds, hail and heavy rain battered a wide area of northeastern Kansas early today, causing widespread damage at Topeka and a flash flood at Atchison.

A 12-year-old girl, Helen East, drowned in a flooding creek at Topeka. The sheriff's office at Atchison said two persons drowned there.

The storm contained at least one tornado and possibly others. One funnel smashed Bill Foster's farm 3 1/2 miles west of Topeka, destroying a barn and two out-buildings, but dissipated before it reached the city. There were numerous unconfirmed reports of other tornado funnels.

At Atchison, City Manager William Yerkes said there were at least two dead and that he had an unconfirmed report of a third death.

Council Okays Plans To Continue Push Local Urban Renewal Program

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor Plans for continuing to work towards a local urban renewal program were approved by the City Council last night.

Councilmen approved the recommendations of the Planning-Zoning Commission that it accept a report on local urban renewal needs prepared by a representative of the Build America Better committee.

During the discussion Mayor West voiced the opinion that the city "right now has a very efficient Zoning and Planning group."

City Manager Bloxam said it was doubtful that the work could be done this winter unless the city's paving policy is changed.

Higher Leaf Yield And Prices Loom

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's 1958 flue-cured tobacco crop is expected to produce 689 1/2 million pounds, an increase of 38,720,000 over 1957 although this year's acreage is lower.

The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said yesterday the crops "look almost perfect." It added, "Tobacco coming out of barns from first curings show a good color and texture and appears to be of very fine quality."

Based on reports from growers as of July 1, the yield is expected to average 1,592 pounds per acre, an increase of 123 pounds over 1957 and only 69 pounds short of the 1956 record of 1,661 pounds.

Cold weather and wet soils delayed transplanting of the crop in North Carolina this year. The agency said, "Once in the fields, however, tobacco plants took on a rapid growth under optimum conditions of adequate moisture and just about the right amount of bright, hot sunshine. Stands are good, plants are uniform in size and the crop looks almost perfect. Harvest is well under way in the Border Belt and a large portion of the Eastern Belt."

Recluse Wounded And Captured After Killing Of Two Children

REGINA, N.M. (AP) — New Mexico State Police today wounded and captured a bearded recluse who yesterday slew two children.

Police identified the captured man as Norman A. Foose, 47, who they described as a paranoid who once spent six months in an Idaho mental hospital.

from two counties. The bald, bearded Foose chatted calmly with the four sweating officers who were carrying him down the mountainside.

Based on reports of 62 young girls who are gathered from all over the state to gamble their charm and beauty on a chance to go to Atlantic City, N.J., to compete for the magic role—Miss America.

Set New Record For Continuous Talk

at the time she broke the old record, "I'm really tired and ready for bed, but I think I can go for 100 hours."

When the contest started, sponsors said participants were under no obligation to attempt to set a new record. Barnes said the contest was "an attempt to determine a Pitt County champion."

There has been no doubt that I would go as far as I have, but I'm so sleepy now I don't know whether I'm in the old world or the new world."

Officials at Greenville's Applian Mart, sponsors of the contest, declared her as winner of $750 worth of merchandise after being notified by other scheduled participants that they were conceding.

Although sponsors said the contest was not to seek a new record, Mrs. Clapp said as early as Tuesday that she was going for 100 hours. She added, this morning,

During an interview this morning, Mrs. Clapp told a group of spectators, "When I do quit, you won't hear anything from me for a long time. I'm going to sleep as long as they'll let me. I expect it will take me a month to get over this."

Begin Releasing U.S. Servicemen

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP) — Cuban rebels have begun releasing the American servicemen they kidnaped nearly two weeks ago but it appeared their rate of return from Fidel Castro's mountain hideouts would be slow.

The rebels also still hold one Canadian civilian. Nineteen North American civilians have been freed in small groups over the past 10 days.

Before his release Mosness had been singled out by Adm. R. B. Ellis, commander of the naval base, who said he understood the admiral was having a fine time in the rebel camp. The admiral said Mosness had better get back to Guantanamo and "straighten himself out."

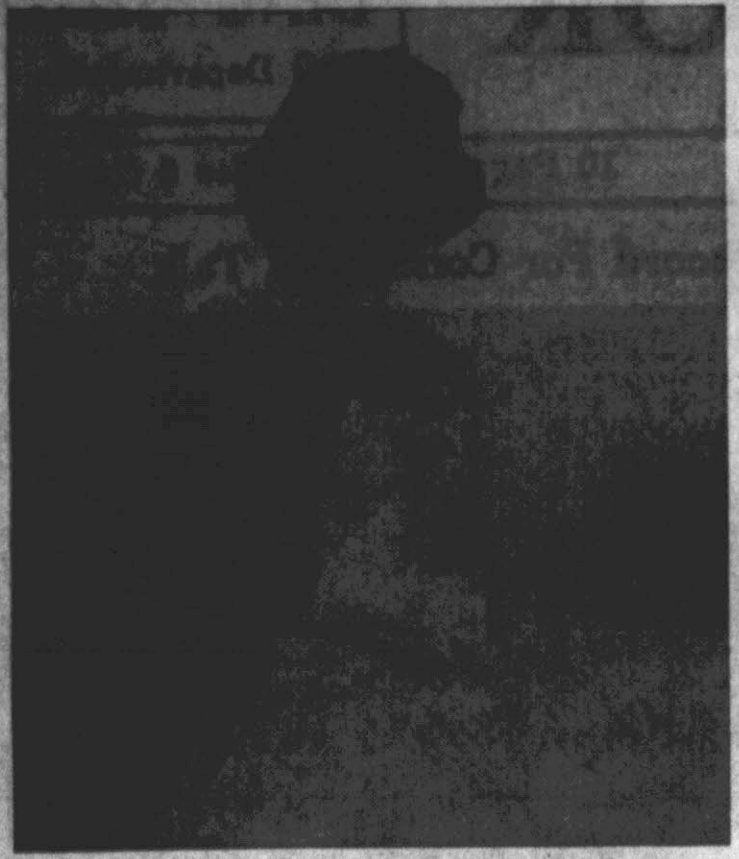

Judging Begins In Miss North Carolina Contest

CHARLOTTE (AP) — "Your days will all be filled with fame and glory — You'll play a magic role in a magic story."

The words were sung by Master of Ceremonies Bob Evans last night as he opened the three-day Miss North Carolina pageant.

One girl strutted in a white satin majorette suit and twirled a flaming baton; another hoofed a nightclub dance complete with green spangles; another pantomimed the six ages of woman, from dolls to shawls.

Sew Own Fashions

RALEIGH—Somewhere along the way, every woman and every girl dreams of wearing gay and fashionable clothes. According to Mary M. Lee, Agricultural Extension Service clothing specialist, "Sewing your way to fashion is a good way to make this dream come true." If you're going to sew your way to fashion, you must first select the right pattern and material that are: styled just right for you—your age and personality; suited to your knowledge and skills in sewing; fitted perfectly to your figure; and suited to the occasion you plan for the garment. Planning your wardrobe as you sew, says Miss Lee, is the most important beginning toward getting the desired "chic" look. Two-thirds of the value of your garment is represented by the material and pattern combination. Regardless of fine workmanship, if they are not suited to each other, it is impossible for you to attain that professional look. Be sure to select your pattern and material at the same time to insure correct yardage and harmony in design and line. "Remember, too," emphasizes Miss Lee, "that simple lines often provide elegance and beauty. Patterns with too many pieces may give a cluttered picture and are more difficult to make." If you're a beginner in sewing, then you should select easy-to-make garments with few pieces and without tricky trimmings and details. Materials that are firmly woven and without complicated design are also better for the beginner. Plaids and strips should be avoided since they present added problems in trying to match them. Printed fabrics call for a simpler pattern than a plain fabric. If you're in doubt as to the type of fabric appropriate for your pattern, look on the back of the pattern envelope. It will give suggested fabrics suitable for the pattern, as well as sometimes listing those not suitable.

Can Or Freeze Peaches

RALEIGH—Getting ready to can or freeze peaches? Well, according to advice from John W. Hagen, Agricultural Extension Service consumer marketing specialist, be sure to wait until the freestone varieties appear on the markets in larger volume during the next few weeks. They are the varieties usually preferred for canning and freezing.

one of the most economical food buys, says Hagen in his report on the week's food situation. He says that heavy hens are in plentiful supply and continue to sell at attractive prices. Egg prices show little change from last week, although food shoppers can expect to find prices increasing slightly as warm weather season progresses.

Good supplies of fryers remain

Large supplies of summer vegetables are on the market. The quality of most fresh vegetables has improved considerably, food shoppers will be glad to note. Adequate supplies of such vegetables as cabbage, cucumbers, Irish potatoes, squash, green beans, green peppers and tomatoes are available. Lettuce, celery, and sweet corn continue at moderate prices. Pork prices continue unsettled or are generally seasonally higher. Beef prices, however, show little change from last week. Hagen points out, although prices appear to be high, he says, meat is still a good buy in terms of the amount of labor required to buy a pound. For greatest economy is stretching the meat dollar, consider purchasing variety meats and take advantage of featured "specials."

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

RICHMOND, Va.—On our first week of a fellowship from the Foundation for Economic Education, we're working at the Virginia Electric and Power Company learning all about how the Other Half lives. . . . So far we've learned that Richmond has no better weather than we have in Greenville, that it is built—like Rome—on seven hills, all of which we have walked up at least once, and that Private Enterprise is a very good thing indeed. . . . We also got to ride over to Washington—the D. C. version—for dinner one night, by airplane. The plane started back at 11:30 p. m. and arrived in Richmond at 11:09, before it had started from Washington. Daylight saving time certainly performs miracles. . . .

Two Sides
People are getting pretty used to reading about how bad education is these days, but it's not often that you get a chance to see both sides of the question. In the latest—July—Atlantic, there's an article on requirements for certification in the public schools and other related matters, presenting pros as well as cons of the situation as it now stands. . . . Called "The Certification Racket: Florida and Elsewhere," the piece consists of remarks by Daniel Tanner, who teaches in the Education Department at San Francisco State College, and Dean John R. Beery of the School of Education at the University of Miami. These two writers present the side of the people in the Education Departments. There are replies to their arguments by Lydia Stout, who recently wrote a very controversial account of certification requirements in Florida, Hildegard Cummings, who does not like the requirements, Samuel Weiner, who thinks students who are training to be teachers are not bright enough, and Paul Cruikshank, a prep school headmaster, who thinks high school students waste too much time. . . . For a full-bodied discussion of an important issue we recommend the article heartily.

The War Again
Below we give you a review of a new book concerning the Civil War, but we want to call your attention to another one that is a significant contribution to the understanding of The War's history. It's a new edition of "The Official Atlas of the Civil War," with an introduction by Henry Steele Commager. Of especial interest to Tarheels is the fact that the original edition, which came out between 1891 and 1895, was indexed and readied for publication by Capt. Calvin D. Cowles, a West Pointer from—of all places—North Carolina. The new version of the book contains copies of all the original maps, drawings, diagrams, etc., and costs, in the leather deluxe edition, a mere $100. Clothbound—for those of you who don't insist on the best—it's only $40. . . .

Today's Review
Professor Charles L. Price of the E. C. Social Studies Department comments on a book about his specialty. . . .

"Prince of Carpetbaggers." By Jonathan Daniels. (Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Company, 1958. Pp. 319. Bibliography. $4.95.)

In his "Prince of Carpetbaggers" Jonathan Daniels has put forth the thesis that both North and South needed a scapegoat for what took place during the decade which followed the Civil War—the North for its lapse of idealism, the South for its corruption, fraud, and peculation. Both found their scapegoat in the carpetbagger. To prove this thesis Daniels has chosen as the subject of his biography one of the most notorious of the carpetbaggers, Milton Smith Littlefield, who is considered one of the greatest scoundrels of North Carolina history and whose exploits of thievery and debauchery shocked the whole nation. . . .

In choosing Littlefield as his subject the author has indeed chosen a colorful character. After an inconsequential prewar career and an uneventful military record Littlefield turned carpetbagger, arriving in North Carolina in 1867. Here he established his reputation as schemer, manipulator of legislative bodies, and corruptionist extraordinary. Littlefield teamed up with native Tar Heel George W. Swepson to devise a scheme of building a gigantic economic empire based on control of the railroads of North Carolina. In the process of carrying out this scheme Littlefield and Swepson fleeced the state of millions of dollars which were stolen or squandered, leaving the state without the railroads for which the money had been appropriated. Such a dramatic subject combined with the recognized stylistic talents of the author could not fail in producing a fascinating book. . . .

Although lively reading, the book is a wandering journalistic account containing about 150 pages of information spread over 300 pages. Daniels' scapegoat thesis is probably sound, but he could have chosen a more respectable carpetbagger for the purpose of proving it. The author indeed has shown how native Democratic Tar Heels were as anxious to pursue the Almighty Dollar as the Northern Republican sojourners in the state, and many were as deeply involved in the corruption of the period. The author seems to conclude that the guilt of native North Carolinians in some mysterious way excuses the unscrupulous thievery of Littlefield and his carpetbag friends. All he has actually proven is that they should all have been hanged together. . . .

Flabbergasted By The Winner

SPOKANE (AP)—Sister M. Consilia is delighted. She found out yesterday she was the winner of a "Miss Spokane County Democrat" contest.

And flabbergasted Democrats found out that the 22-year-old Roman Catholic nun is more non-partisan than Democrat, with strong admiration for President Eisenhower.

The Miss Democrat contest was run as a party promotion stunt, open to all young women in the county. The winner was to be chosen on the basis of an essay on, "Why I Should Exercise My Right to Vote."

Party officials figured on an attractive miss they could show off at the Democrats' state convention next week in Yakima. They even made plans to have her accept the $100 first prize check from Gov. Albert Rosellini.

Sister Consilia decided to enter the contest under her family name Bonnie Jean Brown, after reading about it in the newspapers.

Her mother superior promptly announced that Sister Consilia, Miss Spokane County Democrat would not only accept the $100 prize money, but would go to the convention to get it from the governor.

Greenville's two National Guard units will complete two weeks of summer training tomorrow at Fort Stewart, Ga. . . . The units, Battery C and Service Battery of the 295th Field Artillery Battalion, have been training at the Georgia fort with other units of IV Corps Artillery, a North Carolina National Guard organization. The training has included firing exercises with 155 millimeter howitzers, weapons used by the battalion's frink batteries. . . . Captain Norman R. Harris is commanding officer of Battery C and First Lieutenant Hubert McGee is commander of Service Battery. Lieutenant Colonel Joe T. Kornegay of Washington is battalion commander. . . . More than 100 Greenville and Pitt County residents who are members of the two units are participating in the training program. All will return home Sunday after a convoy trip from Claxton, Ga., site of Fort Stewart.

ECC Honors Lists For Quarter Given

Three lists of students at East Carolina who have received official recognition from the college because of their excellent records in academic work during the third quarter of the present school year have been announced. Included on the lists are the names of 644 students, of whom 211 men and 433 are women.

Fifty students who made the grade 1 on each subject taken, the highest mark given at the college, received top honors for scholastic achievement in an "All 1's" List. The Dean's List and the Honor Roll include the names of students whose work was considered worthy of special mention and commendation.

The Dean's List, issued by Vice President and Dean of Instruction Leo W. A Higher Standard Seems In Order

Decision of Greenville's Board of Education to increase graduation requirements of local high school students from 16 credits to 18 credits effective in 1961 is an important step toward fixing scholastic requirements to meet the needs of students.

Stiffening of the graduation requirements will place a greater demand upon the work of students. At the same time it must be realized that the school system would be doing the students an injustice if it demanded only minimum requirements which would not meet the needs of the students.

With each passing year of this new nuclear age higher educational standards are becoming more important to the individual and more important to the nation as a whole. In the face of such a situation, the school system which does not increase its scholastic requirements is not filling the needs of the young people it seeks to educate.

The change in graduation requirements approved by the local board of education will mean that in the four years between the eighth and twelfth grades, each student will have to acquire two more credits than previously necessary for graduation. In view of the fact that under the old requirements a student could get a maximum of 22 units, the upward adjustment in graduation requirements should work no hardship.

To be sure it will mean that youngsters will have to take a heavier load of work during the high school years. It will mean that more effort will have to be spent on "solid" courses and less on courses which do not give credit toward graduation. In the long run, however, the youngster who graduates will be better equipped to meet the new challenges he faces when he finishes high school.

Either he will be better prepared for college, or if he does not go to college he will have built in high school a more solid foundation of formal education upon which to lay as he takes his place in the work-a-day world.

The upward revision in graduation requirements for Greenville's high schools is a forward step which should provide a better public school education for the youngsters of this community. It is a move in which the Board of Education and the school faculties should have the full support of the people of the community.

As Of Now, Big Year For Tobacco Shapes Up

Announcement of an average support price of $54.60 per hundred for flue-cured tobacco this fall has added to the cautious optimism for a better-than-usual year for tobacco growers.

The average support price is $8.80 per hundred higher than it was last year. On top of that the crop this year—at least so far as Eastern North Carolina is concerned—appears now to be far superior to the 1957 tobacco crop. The combination of these two factors point to a sizeable boost in farm income from tobacco this year and a resulting boost to the economy of the area during the coming months.

One tobacco marketing specialist has estimated the increased support price for tobacco will mean approximately $25 million dollars more in the pockets of farmers of North Carolina this year. It is quite possible that larger yields this year from the same number of acres of tobacco as planted last will add several more millions to farm income of the state during 1958.

The people of Pitt and other tobacco producing counties are well aware that a great many things can happen to change the outlook between the time tobacco harvesting begins and the time the crop is sold on auction floors. At the moment it is too early for the people of Pitt or other counties to begin counting higher returns from their 1958 tobacco crop than was the case in 1957.

Be that as it may, the outlook at the moment is for a much better year for the tobacco grower than was the case last year. And in an area where tobacco still remains the big bread-winner for so many families the present outlook is for a significant shot-in-the-arm for the economy of Eastern North Carolina.

Apportionment Again At Issue

By LYNN NISBET

APPORTIONMENT — The admission of Alaska as the 49th State in the Union is almost certain to add fuel and heat to North Carolina debates over apportionment of legislative representation. It is doubted that it will make any significant contribution to factual argument. The advocates of both plans — area or population as basis for representation — can find support for their positions.

The State of Alaska will have eleven times the area of North Carolina, more than a thousand times the area of Mecklenburg county. Yet it will have not more than half the population of Mecklenburg. The 1950 census gives Alaska 128,643 people, and Mecklenburg county 197,052. Both have grown a lot since then, but chances are Mecklenburg growth has been greater. The area of Alaska is 586,400 square miles, that of Mecklenburg 542 square miles.

Alaska will be entitled to two senators and one representative in the United States Congress — the same as Delaware with an area of 2,057 square miles and 318,065 people in 1950. Each senator will represent an area larger than Texas and a population less than that of the city of Raleigh. The one representative will have a constituency about half as large as that of Herbert Bonner in North Carolina's smallest district.

The big county legislators will point to the absurdity of 130,000 people having two full U. S. Senators when twice that many people have only one State senator, and how ridiculous it is for the little counties to complain when they have one full State representative while almost a quarter of the continent has only one representative in the Congress. They will bear down on population as the primary basis, while the little fellows will renew insistence that a combination of area and population are necessary. Both sides will point to Alaska as proof of their claims.

FAR REACHING — The impact of Alaska's admission may be far reaching in many directions. It will require enlarging membership in the Senate for the first time since Arizona and New Mexico were admitted in 1912. The constitution requires that each State must have two senators. It will add one member to the house of representatives, which has been frozen at 435 for more than 30 years. If the freeze is continued that will mean some State will lose a congressman, in addition to the losses certain to be suffered by some Eastern and Southern States because of the westward trend in population. North Carolina is in grave danger of losing one of its 12 members by that computation. If the freeze is broken in order to admit the Alaskan that will open up an unholly row among the States insisting upon retaining their present representation as a minimum and increasing membership to take care of growing population. If that policy is adopted and the minimum fixed at the smallest district in any State with more than one representative, the membership of the House would be boosted to around 475. Then it would take 287 electoral votes instead of 266 to elect a President. That in turn would increase pressure for amending the Constitution as to method of apportioning electoral votes.

WHO DUNNIT? — Regardless of the justice of merits of the case, the folks who sponsored admission of Alaska stirred up a lot of trouble. There is a good deal of gossip around Washington that the flag-makers lobby exerted tremendous influence in the background for the admission of Alaska now and to hold off admitting Hawaii for three or four years. Every U. S. flag will be obsolete after July 4, 1959, because a new star must be added. If Hawaii is admitted after that date the flag again will be obsolete and the manufacturers will have another boom in business.

CUTE — Billy Carmichael, vice president and finance officer of the Consolidated University, tells this story: "He was talking about how fortunate the University was to obtain Dr. John C. Brauer as dean of the school of dentistry. Dr. Brauer came to North Carolina from 'Southern Cal' at Los Angeles, where he had made an international reputation in dental teaching. He did a little personal work, including treating the teeth of the Kiser children. When Kay and Georgia Kiser established their permanent home in Chapel Hill they continued to take the children back to California every year or so for Dr. Brauer to treat. Last time they went they were greatly disappointed to find their favorite dentist had moved away. Inquiry elicited the information that Dr. Brauer had gone to 'some little town in the South,' they believed it was in North Carolina. Kay and Georgia returned home to find that Dr. Brauer was already putting the dental school of the University on the map as one of the outstanding institutions in the country."

The story was told by Carmichael and vouched for by Claude Teague, retired business manager of the University at Chapel Hill. Your reporter was afraid to check with Kiser, lest he spoil a good yarn.

Gang Lord Who Lives In Luxury

By EARL AYKROID

CHICAGO (AP) — Tony Accardo, swarthy boss of the Chicago underworld, is a hunky, ill-tempered gang lord who lives in lavish style in a huge, ornate home in one of Chicago's most exclusive suburbs.

Often termed the successor to the late gang leader Al Capone, for whom he served as bodyguard, the 52-year-old Accardo is under subpoena to appear before the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington during current hearings into underworld activities.

It's not likely that the committee will get much information out of the tight-lipped gang boss. Another Senate committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) tried in 1951 but got nowhere. Accardo gave the committee little more than his name. Always well tailored, Accardo is a solidly built man of about 5 feet 10 inches and weighs nearly 200 pounds. Dark complexioned, he has dark hair, graying at the temples. His right hand bears the tattoo of a dove.

With his wife and three children, he lives in a big stone mansion in suburban River Forest worth an estimated half-million dollars. Handsomely landscaped, the Accardo home is surrounded by a high wrought-iron fence. The home has 22 rooms, an indoor swimming pool, two bowling alleys, a pipe organ, six master bedrooms.

Three of the six bathrooms have gold-plated fixtures. One has a bathtub that reportedly cost $10,000, cut from a solid block of Mexican onyx.

Accardo frequently holds lavish garden parties for his gangland associates. At one of these parties — held in 1955 — reporters peering through the fence spotted Accardo in shorts carrying on an animated conversation with his cronies while standing at a silver fountain bubbling champagne. Arrested many times, Accardo never has spent more than a few hours in jail. He was rejected for military service in 1944 by his draft board, which ruled he was morally unfit.

Several of Accardo's close gangland associates perished in the gang wars but Accardo emerged from the strife with a whole skin.

He doesn't talk much about the source of his income. But the Kefauver crime committee, at a Chicago hearing in 1951, was told that Accardo and the late Jack (Greasy Thumb) Guzik, another former Capone aide, had netted $278,000 in 1949 from policy game operations alone. There was no estimate of their income from other underworld activities.

At the 1951 hearings, Accardo denied he was connected with the narcotics or vice rackets. He declined to say if he had known Capone or was associated with Guzik in the policy racket, a numbers game popular among the city's Negro population.

He professes ignorance when asked if he was a member of the Mafia, international underworld organization, and said he never heard of the group. Accardo lost a federal court suit Tuesday to enjoin a Chicago television station from televising his forthcoming appearance before the Rackets Committee.

His suit had contended that his appearance on television would convey the impression he is a gangster and criminal.

Happy In His Trade

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — When producer Leland Hayward decided to film Ernest Hemingway's "The Old Man and the Sea," Hemingway warned him: "This one will be hard to do."

"You'll be dealing with the sun and the moon and the stars and fish and God. You're not used to dealing with these things. It won't be easy," he said.

Recalling the warning three years and five million dollars later, Hayward observed wryly: "The Lord knows he was right. I never spent so much time on one project."

The completed picture runs only an hour and a half. There are those in the industry who figure it may be as big as financial turkey as Hayward's last picture, "The Spirit of St. Louis," another five-million-dollar venture which failed to get off the ground.

Hayward, a former newspaperman and press agent who made his first million at 23 and went on to become one of Broadway's most fabulous producers, seems unworried.

"I am a fellow who usually has an opinion on anything," he remarked cheerfully. "But I don't know how this will do financially."

"If you twisted my arm, I'd say we'll get our money eventually. This one can run forever. "It should have a big world market. The book was translated into 42 languages. The theme is universal — that man is not made for defeat, that he can be destroyed, but not defeated. It sums up Hemingway's whole philosophy."

The film completes a trio that started with Hayward's highly profitable production of "Mr. Roberts." He now plans to leave the Hollywood vineyard for a while. His tentative plans include three TV shows and three Broadway musicals, including "Gypsy," the life story of Gypsy Rose Lee, starring Ethel Merman.

Hayward, who runs an airline among other sidelines chores, is a philosopher as well as a producer.

He sometimes has the melancholy feeling that the American people have already lost out in the world struggle "because we let ourselves get too soft." He also believes U. S. ladies have gotten out of hand.

"Our culture is against the male," he said. "I think women are more honest and realistic and less sentimental than men."

"But I don't think as a rule American women are as attractive as other women. We ruin them by spoiling them. We men have corrupted them by killing ourselves working for them."

"They are now 60 per cent of the population, live several years longer than men, own 80 per cent of the wealth."

"In another 20 years they will own everything."

"Well, wouldn't that solve a lot of problems and make for a better universe? Hayward shook his head.

"You can't blame women for thinking they should run the world," he said. "As a civilization," he said, "as a civilization, we have steadily spoiled them more and more, spoiled them to death."

"But women have failed in the bigger issues. They got the vote — but what have they done with it?"

"I am a pessimist about what they will do with total power, when they get it."

The Five-Point 'Island'

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Sidewalk superintendents greeted the appearance of safety islands at Five Points yesterday with mixed feelings.

Some of the bystanders voiced the opinion that the islands would make a difficult intersection even more troublesome by cutting into the available space.

Others pointed out that the long walk across the south side of the intersection would be made safer for the pedestrian, for there will be two islands along the way where the man on foot can step out of the path of onrushing cars.

It can also be pointed out that the island on the north side of the intersection will serve the same purpose.

Pedestrians caught in the middle of that street when the light changes could only wait and pray prior to the installation of islands.

Actually the raised areas are just an improvement over the old system. They do nothing to the traffic pattern at Five Points. The islands were installed almost exactly over the old yellow lines painted on the pavement. Autos were not supposed to run in those areas anyway.

I think the new installations are an improvement, personally. However, only time will tell.

To install the islands workmen used a small machine which lays asphalt walls for the islands. That was done Wednesday afternoon at Five Points. Then the space in the center is partially filled with sand. Finally an asphalt cap is poured over the sand base.

Once the asphalt is packed down the islands are ready for use.

As with every such project problems are encountered along the way. In this case there was a water cut off valve squarely in the middle of one of the proposed islands.

So Utilities crews had to be called in to install an extension to the valve housing. The extra several inches added to the housing brought it up to the height of the island.

Just how much the children of Moose members were looking forward to the opening of that organization's new swimming pool was indicated by the large number of adults and children who turned out for the dedication Wednesday night.

Only 30 minutes or so before the ceremonies were to begin a terribly black cloud rolled in over the Greenville area.

That is generally enough to kill the attendance at any outdoor program.

Such was not the case Wednesday night. As the 8 o'clock starting time approached cars began to pull up and families headed for the pool. The dark clouds blew over, the ceremonies went off on schedule and the kids filled the pool for the rest of the evening.

Other Editors Saying --- Organized Crime Menace

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

If what Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark) chairman of the Senate Rackets Committee says is true, then this country should pause for a few moments of serious soul-searching. McClellan maintains that the U. S. is facing an arrogant challenge from organized crime that could menace freedom if it isn't met.

A series of hearings, lasting for months, will be launched soon, designed to spell out city by city the detail of careful scheming by a huge crime syndicate to infiltrate and dominate business, industry and labor unions from coast to coast. These hearings are expected to be held on a scale similar to those held by the famed Kefauver committee on crime activities several years ago.

It has become apparent in the past few years that a major move was under way to organize the criminal elements in the large American cities. Years ago, during prohibition and later during the Thirties crime was rampant, but it was not as highly organized then as in recent years, although it was of a more sensational nature. Gangs roamed the country and lived by violence. It was the day of the Barkers, the Nelsons and the Kellys, the Dillingers and the Touhys.

It was a menace to society, but no more deadly than the smoothly-operated syndicates of today. McClellan and committee counsel Robert Kennedy contend objectives of the present-day crime scheme are two-fold: To provide a front through which to channel revenues from the rackets without disclosing their sources, and to use these revenues to build power in these legal enterprises in which they can undersell and crush law-abiding competitors.

It can be said beforehand that the committee holding the hearings is going to run into the same old difficulty that accompanies most hearings of this nature. The Communists were among the first to discover the devious use to which the Fifth Amendment could be put, and then gangsters of every description have since used the same dodge — and that is the use of the Fifth Amendment in order to refuse to answer questions.

One thing recently invoked the Fifth Amendment 100 times in refusing to answer committee questions. Of course the committee probes do not expect these crooks to answer truthfully any questions that might incriminate them, but it is difficult to see how the investigators expect to make any headway merely by questioning these shady characters. Police work and diligent effort in the field will be required to break up these powerful organizations that threaten our society. Public hearings will help put the spotlight on their activities; it cannot stop organized crime.

Opinions In Brief

"Couldn't someone have a beauty contest once without matter-of-factly announcing that salient portions of the winner's anatomy stretch the tape measure thus and so? This statistical approach to beauty may be appropriate when Hollywood tycoons are trying to decide whether to invest a million publicity dollars in their latest treat to Marilyn. It doesn't make such sense when applied to a home town girl who has just been crowned Miss Sandy Lake of 1958." — Laurel (Miss.) Leader-Call.

"Among the moments that seem a year is the period of waiting in heavy traffic for an automobile to vacate a parking space you want to occupy, while the lady driver searches for her key, refurbishes her makeup, adjusts her clothing and stalls the engine on the first three tries." — Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier.

"Persons who feel that it is necessary for them to drive either faster or slower than the safe average speed should be kept off the road." — Lexington Ledger.

Color Emphasis In Road Safety

By ELMER ROESSNER
Color is getting increasing attention as a tool for increasing highway safety.

One suggestion currently under discussion is for changing the red and the green in traffic lights.

Many of the estimated 5,000,000 color-blind persons in the United States drive cars. Few states have thorough tests of drivers' color distinction. Color-blind drivers who manage to get licenses depend on the fact that the red light is almost always on top in traffic signals.

However, on dark nights it may be difficult to determine whether a light is on top or bottom.

It has been proposed that some yellow tones be added to red stop lights and more blue be added to the green go lights. This would make driving safer for the color blind because almost all can distinguish between yellow and blue.

CHANGE SHAPE OF LIGHTS? Another suggestion is to change the shape of the traditionally round traffic lights, making the red show through a horizontal opening and the greens through a vertical aperture. The same effect could be achieved by using horizontal and vertical strings of three smaller lights in appropriate colors.

Combining the suggested color alterations and the changes in shape might make color blindness an insignificant factor in highway hazards.

Another method of utilizing color for increased safety has been developed by Johns Hopkins University in co-operation with Pittsburgh Plate Glass.

The researchers involved the selection of colors for trucks and buses under various light conditions. Some colors have higher visibility than others at night; still other colors are best for daylight uses, and others are best in the dusk.

42 COLORS CHOSEN
The season of the year and the action of the country are also factors. Whether a truck is normally used against a background of Maine greenery or Arizona sand has considerable bearing on selecting a color; so have weather conditions, such as snow, coastal fogs and intense sunlight.

The researchers show that color influences the apparent distance of a truck or bus. A bright surface appears as much as 17 per cent closer than a dark one. Deepness of a color can have a slightly greater effect.

The studies also showed that color can increase or decrease the apparent size by 13.5 per cent or more. These can have important bearings on safety since a vehicle that seems smaller than it really is, or farther away, can be a hazard to other cars.

As a result of the researchers, 43 colors were selected for their high visibility under various conditions. In two or more combinations, these colors offer a vast number of arrangements for almost any series of vehicle uses.

Details on the safety color series are available to trucking and transportation associations city and state officials and others from Ditzler Color Division, Pittsburgh Plate Glass, 8000 W. Chicago Ave., Detroit (not Pittsburgh), Mich.

GUESS WHO'S LAZY? LIFE INSURANCE AGENTS
The persistency and aggressiveness of life insurance agents has long been proverbial. It has frequently been said in the past few months that if auto salesmen sold cars as aggressively as agents sell life insurance, we wouldn't be in this slump.

But a poll of a cross section of members of the National Association of Life Underwriters shows that 68 per cent say the average agent does not put in a good day's work; 12 per cent said "maybe," and 20 per cent said agents work harder than most people.

Social Justice and the Gospel ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Matthew 5:13-48; 23:23-28; Luke 9:51-56.

After preaching His Sermon on the Mount, Jesus told His listeners: "Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets; I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil."

The law says, "Thou shalt not kill," said Jesus, but if a man is angry with another he should not bring a gift to God's altar before being reconciled to his brother.

Love even your enemies, said Christ. Pray for them that are unkind to you, "That ye may be the children of your Father" in Heaven who bestows His gifts on the just and the unjust.

Going to Jerusalem, Christ asked a Samaritan village to lodge Him and His party. His request was refused. James and John were angry but Jesus rebuked them.

The Golden Text

Consider theilies.

"Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets."—Matthew 7:12.

Social Justice and the Gospel CHRIST TEACHES THE WAY TO LIVE WITH OTHERS

Scripture—Matthew 5:13-48; 23:23-28; Luke 9:51-56.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. TODAY'S LESSON might be introduced to the younger members of the class by suggesting that the words of Christ in the Sermon on the Mount could be compared to road signs which help us to drive safely over the highways when we are traveling.

The older classes should be taught the importance of a single life. The suggestions are those of Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, editor of Prisoners' Notes.

If we follow the teachings of the Master we may become as a shining light in our world and a help to others.

Jesus did not come on earth to destroy the law, He said, but to fulfill it.

"Whoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven; but who-

"Ye have heard it said, thou shalt love thy neighbor and hate thine enemy. But I say unto you, Love your enemy, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you. That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for He make the sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and unjust."—Matthew 5:43-44.

This is a difficult rule for nearly all of us to follow, but if we try to understand those with whom we come in contact, seeking for the motives, and circumstances in their lives which influenced their conduct, we can obey the commandment of Christ.

"If ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? do not even the publicans the same?" The publicans were the tax gatherers who extorted all they could from the people and were hated by them.

A hypocrite is a person who pretends to be something he or she is not. He may be one who poses as a God-fearing man or woman when they are not. That, too, is a fault that we encounter in our world today.

Jesus Christ practiced what He preached. When on His way to Jerusalem, St. Luke tells us, He and His Apostles had to pass through Samaria, and Jesus sent a message asking that they might be lodged in a certain village. The request was refused.

James and John were furious, asking Him, "Wilt Thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them, even as Elias (Elijah) did? But He turned and rebuked them." For reference to Elijah's act, see 1 Kings 1:9-11.

Jesus taught us the way to live after God's ideal. We cannot be perfect as Jesus and His Father are, but at least we can strive to follow Christ's teaching and grow more like Him.

About swearing, all too common a custom in our day, even with women, and sometimes small children, Jesus said: "Swear not at all."

MEMORY VERSE

"Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets."—Matthew 7:12.

soever shall do and teach them, the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven."—Matthew 5:18, 19.

His people should be more righteous than the Scribes and Pharisees, whom Jesus later called hypocrites because they obeyed the rules for conducting the rites of the temple, but He omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy and faith."—Matthew 23:23.

"Ye have heard it said of old time, Thou shalt not kill. . . . But I say unto you that whoever is angry with his brother without cause shall be in danger of the judgment."—Matthew 5:21-22. In such a state of anger, Christ warned, a man should not take a gift to God's altar. He must first be reconciled to his brother, then offer the altar gift.

Home Builders Capture Victory Over S. Bankers

Bankers Protest Game In Seventh Inning

Home Builders, on a recent up-and-down bing that has seen them winning and losing with equal candor during the past several games, were on the winning side last night. They dumped State Bankers 6-3 at Guy Smith Stadium.

Behind the four-hit hurling of Larry Roberts, by far the hardest-working hurler in the league, the Home Builders had little trouble with the Bankers, Garland Johnson and Robbie Ange shared the mound duties for the losers, with help from Alan McArthur and Dick Coltraine.

Again, Again

As has been the vogue during the recent weeks in the league, a protest was made in last night's ball game. State Bank protested the game in the seventh inning over a ruling. It is the third such protest in the past month by a Teen-er club.

Home Builders punched out a run in the first inning on a hit by Don Joyner and a follow-up single by Jody Blacklock.

State Bank pulled in a run in the second inning when Jimmy Smith got on an error and Wayne Surrill singled him in. In the bottom half of that inning, Home Builders struck again, adding two more tallies to their list.

They struck again in the fifth to add three scores and finish their scoring for the night. In the sixth, State Bank picked up two more and it ended that way, 6-3.

Hitting

Hitting was equal for both teams. The winners had four baseknocks with Leo Starling, Don Joyner, Jody Blacklock, and Ed Smoot picking them up. All of them were singles. State Bankers who got hits were Burt Aycock, Alan McArthur, Jimmy Smith, and Wayne Surrill. They all had singles also.

Perhaps the deciding factor was Roberts. He struck out 14 State Bank batters and walked only three. The four Bank hurlers fanned 10 together and walked seven.

Reed Tries To Give U.S. Second Victory Today

TORONTO (AP)—Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., tries to give the United States its second straight singles victory and a commanding lead in the semifinals of the American Zone Davis Cup competition today when he meets Canadian champion Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Quebec.

The opening singles match yesterday resulted in an easy victory for Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, over Don Fontana of Toronto, 6-1, 6-2, 7-5. The Reed-Bedard match was postponed because of rain.

The competition is three out of five, with the doubles set back to Saturday and the other two singles matches to be played Monday. A victory for Reed today would make it 2-0, and the United States would have to take only the doubles or one more singles match to clinch its place in the zone final against Israel Argentina or the West Indies.

Two Sharpshooters Wetherfield, Conn. (AP)

The $25,000 Insurance City Open Golf tournament swings into its second round today with two sharpshooters men leading with 8 under par scores.

Charles Sifford of Philadelphia and Jack Burke of Kiamnesia Lake, N.Y., each had 63 in yesterday's first round.

ROXBORO, N.C. (AP) — Play begins next Wednesday in the 24th annual North Carolina Semipro Baseball Tournament here with Granville's All-Stars meeting Caldwell in the opening game. Winston-Salem meets Camp Lejeune in the second game.

Sixteen teams entered the tournament, a double-elimination affair which will continue into August.

Purkey, Burdette Give Braves 4-0 Win Over Giants

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer

A pitcher's pride being what it is, Cincinnati's Bob Purkey might be hard pressed to pick between his own shutout string and the home run hitting of Larrupin' Lew Burdette.

Purkey pitched a dandy last night, blanking second-place San Francisco for the second time this season, 4-0, and extending his scoreless jinx over the Giants to 42 innings since May 7, 1955.

But pitchers more than likely will recall their hitting over anything short of a no-hitter, and Burdette built a memory that's a beaut, driving in five runs with a pair of homers, one a grand slam, as Milwaukee beat Los Angeles 8-4.

Burdette now has a total of four homers in the majors, both in pairs—tying Don Newcombe for the National League record for most times hitting two in a game by pitchers.

While Burdette and Purkey were combining to put Milwaukee 1 1/2 games ahead of San Francisco in the race, the Philadelphia Phillies skipped past St. Louis into third place by whipping the Cardinals 13-3. The Chicago Cubs beat Pittsburgh 8-7.

In the American League, the Yankees beat Cleveland 7-4 and 4-3 in a day-night double-header. Boston ripped the Chicago White Sox 11-2 and took second place as Baltimore dropped Kansas City 6-3 and 3-2 in a two-night pair. Washington defeated Detroit 5-3. Purkey, now 10-5, walked but one, struck out two and gave up seven hits, six of them singles, while gaining his third shutout of the season.

The Reds handed Al Worthington (6-4) the defeat with Frank Robinson driving in two runs with his ninth homer and one of two singles.

Burdette, now 7-7, popped his slam over the left-field screen in the Coliseum at the 260-foot mark — after an intentional walk loaded the bases — in a five-run fourth capped by Felix Mantilla's sixth homer. That handed southpaw Johnny Podres (8-8) his first defeat in eight decisions at Los Angeles. Burdette's second shot (a 350-footer) was off reliever Ed Roebuck.

The Phillies added 10 walks to 13 hits against the Cards. Solly Hemus' two-run homer capped a five-run fourth that beat Sal Maglie (2-2), and Harry Anderson, who drove in five runs, made it 9-2 with a two-run homer in the sixth.

Lee Walls drove in three runs, two with his 18th homer, and Bobby Thomson's two-run 10th homer gave the Cubs a six-run lead in the eighth. All the Pirates had were two runs on Frank Thomas' 23rd and 24th homers — but the lead was just enough as Dick Stuart, the minor league slugger, capped a five-run ninth with a two-run homer in his first major league game.

Memphis Mite Is On Another Rampage

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, (AP)—The Memphis mite is on another golfing rampage.

You'd think Junie Buxbaum, 5 feet 6 1/2 inch, 128-pound auto salesman, was the calmest competitor in the National Public Links Tournament. And it's hard to realize that in the past he twice gave up the game in disgust.

Junie, taking back slaps from his 18-year-old son, David, today teed off against bulky Bob Ludlow, a 220-pound Indianapolis physical education instructor, in the 36-hole semifinal timetable.

Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., 27-year-old law student at the University of Florida and former All-Army golf champion, faced Bob Patterson, the stocky stevedore from Portland, Ore., in the others semifinal.

The 36 hole windup is Saturday. In double rounds yesterday, Sikes eliminated defending champion and medalist, Don Essig of Indianapolis, 5 and 4, and Al Kelley of Orlando, Fla., 3 and 1.

Patterson took Bob Kietcke of Chicago in 19 holes and Harry Musatto of Macomb, Ill., 4 and 3. Buxbaum, the 1956, Public champion and a 1957 quarter-finalist, methodical advanced with a 3 and 2 decision over Warren Strout of Speedway, Ind., and a 4 and 2 victory over Bob Faulkenberry of Oklahoma City.

Ludlow defeated Charles Kline, Roswell, N.M., 4 and 3, and Ron Lucetti, San Francisco, 2 and 1.

Favorites Named For Swimming Tournament

GREENSBORO (AP) — A Columbia, S.C., girl and a Philadelphia boy were favorites as the third annual Eastern Invitational Age Group Swimming Championships began time trials here today.

The event drew a field of 409 entries, ranging from Havana, Cuba, to Larchmont, N.Y.

Top girl entry is Lee Skidmore of Columbia, who last week set four meet records in the Palmetto Open at Columbia and one national AAU mark.

The No. 1 boy is Bruce Lundy, 15, swimming for Sylvian Pools of Philadelphia.

Favored boys teams, in the absence of Atlanta's 1957 championship team, appeared to be the Raleigh YMCA, the Fort Lee, Va., team and the Congressional Country Club boys of Bethesda, Md.

The 1957 championship girls team, from Goldsboro, will defend its title.

Semi-Pro Action Begins Wednesday

ROXBORO, N.C. (AP) — Play begins next Wednesday in the 24th annual North Carolina Semipro Baseball Tournament here with Granville's All-Stars meeting Caldwell in the opening game. Winston-Salem meets Camp Lejeune in the second game.

Sixteen teams entered the tournament, a double-elimination affair which will continue into August.

Burdette Is Unique In National Loop

By CHARLES MAHER Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lew Burdette may be best remembered for his three stunning victories over the Yankees in the World Series, but today he holds another distinction unique among National League pitchers.

The lean Milwaukee righthander hit a grand-slam home run that just plopped over that Coliseum curiosity — the left field screen — as the Braves were beating Los Angeles 8-4 last night before a crowd of 40,508.

This sent the statisticians leafing through their archives and when the investigation was completed they announced that no other pitcher now active in the National League has ever hit a grand-slammer. They didn't check the inactive list.

Burdette's pitching did not quite match his hitting last night, but he went the distance and evened up his won-lost record at 7-7.

Only Way He Can Lose Is By Age

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP) — It seems the only way that Buddy Baker can be kept from winning the Florence Invitational Boys Junior golf tournament is for him to grow too old to play in it.

Baker, who lives here, won his fourth straight title yesterday with a 2 and 1 victory over George Smith of New Bern, N.C.

Baker and Smith matched each other stroke for stroke through 34 holes of the 36-hole finals. Smith, however, faltered on the green around the 35th hole and three putted.

The pair finished the first 18 holes with Baker holding a 1 up edge.

The Florence boy also beat Smith in the finals last year.

NEW YORK (AP) — Success in the ring is spoiling Mickey Crawford's art career. But the 24-year-old welterweight contender from Saginaw, Mich., is content right now to paint opponents' faces with his deft and fast left hand.

"I'll have plenty of time for painting later," said Mickey as he awaited the bell for his important 10-round television tilt with Mexico's Indian (Gasper) Ortega at Madison Square Garden tonight. "If I can win the welterweight title I'll have enough money to take care of my painting career."

Mickey's record is 22-2. Ortega, a free-swinging fighter, has a 46-12 record, including 20 knockouts.

White Indicted For Attempting A "Fix"

By JACK HAND

CUT AND SHOOT, Tex. (AP)—Honest, boss, there is such a place. No post office. No name on the map. Just a "community" of 195 on the edge of the "big thicket." And they're not kidding about that thicket.

Roy Harris, the schoolteacher who is challenging Floyd Patterson for the world heavyweight boxing title Aug. 18 at Los Angeles, lives here with members of the Harris clan. The place is over run with razorback hogs, stray cattle, chickens and lonesome hound dogs.

When you speak of the Harris home, you really are talking about two or three homes. Henry, that's Roy's father, lives with his wife and five of the eight children in a unique double house. It's a log cabin with a frame house dragged up next to it and doors cut in between.

The third house belongs to Roy and his wife. It is only about 100 yards away but it is the difference between Abe Lincoln's cabin and a neat suburban home. Roy lives in a white frame house with a TV aerial slanting off the roof and a Cadillac (1951 model) parked out front.

The population of Cut and Shoot shot up to about 2,000 yesterday when Roy boxed two rounds in the home-made outdoor gym that is connected to the tin-roofed Henry Harris home by a string of colored lights.

They didn't know it but this was Roy's last training session at home. Lou Viscusi, who advises Pop Harris, moved the fighter to Camp Holden, about 21 miles from Houston.

Four Of Five Games Decided By One Run

NEW YORK (AP)—The mystery of the wholesale serving of subpoenas the night of the Virgil Akins - Isaac Logart fight last March 21 has been solved with the indictment of boxing matchmaker Jimmy White.

The 51-year-old New Yorker was named yesterday by a grand jury on charges of conspiracy to fix the bout in question, and acting as an "undercover manager" for Logart. He pleaded innocent and was released on $2,500 bail.

The jury also linked Herman (Hymie the Mink) Wallman in the indictment as a conspirator but not as a defendant. Last week, in an indictment returned against boxing judge Bert Grant, Wallman also was named as a conspirator.

Ironically, the fix attempt on the Akins-Isaac bout failed to come off. The conspiracy count accused White and Wallman of acting in concert in planning to bribe certain officials, one of whom was expected to be Grant. However, Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office said none of those expected to be named officials was assigned to the fight and no bribe overture was made to the officials who did serve.

Akins, far behind, rallied to knock out Logart in the sixth round of their welterweight elimination bout. Akins then knocked out Vince Martinez in St. Louis June to win the vacant welter crown.

The charge that White was an undercover manager for Logart in the Akins fight is based on the state law banning such affiliation.

To add to Wallman's woes, the New York State Athletic Commission yesterday refused to accept his licenses as manager and second which he had surrendered by mail, and ruled the charges against him in the Grant case would be heard July 17.

Lions, Pepsi-Cola Triumph In Little League Action

does put them within spitting distance of the Jaycees' league-leading 5-2 record.

In the Tar Heel loop, Pepsi-Cola sewed up the second-half championship with a 10-0 triumph over the Moose. It marked the seventh consecutive victory of the second half for Pepsi-Cola, with a defeat, Pepsi-Cola also copped the first-half title with a 7-2 performance. Thus, they are automatically the Tar Heel season champion, boasting an impressive overall mark of 14-2 at this time. And there are still a few games left.

Lion Victory
The Lions racked up four runs in the first inning of their ball game to get the jump on the VFW. The runs came on hits by Kennedy, Joyner, Powell, and Hudson, with a bunch of errors thrown in. In the second inning, the VFW came back to tally three runs.

That was all for the VFW. The Lions picked up another in the second also on an error and a pass ball. That made it 4-3. Then, in the fourth, Reid Kennedy whacked out a homerun with nobody on base. In the fifth, Hudson scored on a hit by Warren. It ended 7-3.

Taylor was the winning pitcher, limiting the losers to only four hits. The losing hurler was Williams. He was tapped for nine.

Other Ball Game
Pepsi-Cola had little trouble disposing of the bottom-place Moose club yesterday in the other ball game. The league-leaders showed all their muscles in punching out all their muscles in punching out eight hits and Pepsi hurler Frank Harper tossed two-hit ball to completely dominate the tilt.

Harper gave up a pair of singles to McGowan in the second and fifth innings, both of which led to nothing in the way of scoring. Harper fanned eight batters and walked none.

While he was shining on the mound, his mates turned in a fine performance both offensively and defensively. They garnered runs in the first, second, fourth and fifth innings.

They jumped off to a quick start by rolling in four tallies in the initial inning on two walks and two hits by Harper and I. Cannon. In the second frame, Prewett scored on a hit by Dale Gidley after having got on base as a hit batsman.

Harper and Billy Cannon scored in the fourth on a pair of hits, a pass ball, and some errors.

In the fifth inning, Flanagan walked to lead off and Gidley singled to put two on base. Harp then whacked out a double to send two scores across. He later scored on an error.

It ended 10-0. The losing moundsman was Webb. He fanned three and walked nine.

Come Fall, Ayden To Have A Modern Sewer System

AYDEN — Come next fall, this Pitt County town will have a completely new sewer system, including a sewer treatment plant. Completion of the project will culminate approximately two years of planning by local officials. It has been estimated that the new system will cost in the neighborhood of $335,000.

He stated that approximately nine miles of pipe line will be laid within the city limits. Construction has already begun on the trickle filter plant, designed to serve a town with a population of 6,000. It is being erected near the site of the old disposal unit on the Jesse Cannon farm, located around a mile southeast of here.

Plans are outfall and intercepting sewers to the North, East, South and West. The town is providing mains and laterals in the areas that are not presently being served. The new system will be more than adequate for a 10 to 15 year growth period. Each line is being laid with future expansion in mind.

Wide Disagreement Over Right-To-Work Success

Right-to-work laws, scheduled for November votes in several more states this year, already are at work in 18 states — but how they're working out is a matter of wide disagreement.

Advocates of right-to-work laws have claimed such benefits as better relations between management and labor, less industrial strife, a steady employment, stronger unions, greater state attraction for new industry and more security for employers, particularly small firms.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek attacked defeatist intellectuals in a speech last night at the University of Michigan.

"It is a tragedy," she said, "that some powerful minds have allowed themselves to be enmeshed in arguments over means such as relaxations of tension, appeasement and finally slavery."

Mme. Chiang was presented an honorary doctor of laws degree by the university's president, Harlan Hatcher. She was cheered by a capacity crowd of more than 1,200 attending the university's special convocation.

Considering Big Loan To Lebanon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is seriously considering 20 to 40 million dollars in emergency aid for revolt-torn Lebanon to help its pro-Western government survive continuing rebel attacks.

The expectation is that he will be less pro-Western than Chamoun but friendly enough to be acceptable to Western nations.

At least part of this sum probably will be granted once the Lebanese have provided supporting data requested by the State Department.

Charles Malik, Lebanese Foreign Minister, is understood to have discussed his country's financial plight with Secretary of State Dulles during the past two weeks.

Officials said Lebanon appealed for funds for relief projects and for expenses that have piled up during two months of bloody fighting.

Dulles is reported to have made it clear Lebanon's request would receive prompt, sympathetic treatment. The Lebanese are now reported assembling statistics and figures to demonstrate the urgency of their requirements.

CHAPTER 22
Martha Kilgore tipped the mirror on the wide old walnut dresser until she could get a full-length view of herself in the new riding clothes her grandmother had bought her the day before. She could see that in a daring way they were becoming to her slim, tall figure, but she wasn't quite sure she liked them.

Her grandmother was very unconventional about some things, and these clothes were a good example of it. She didn't seem to care in the least what other women might say about her, and in her own youth she would probably have cared even less if some strange man had thought her bold or immodest.

If a woman was going to ride horseback, and enjoy it, Rachel had said flatly, she needed to sit astraddle of a horse and not a sensible clothes man wore. She had laughed at the long, full-legged brown corduroy riding skirt and tan velvet blouse that Martha had brought with her, and ordered the old housekeeper to burn them to keep the girl from wearing them. Instead of a woman's side-saddle on the place.

In town she had fitted Martha out with what she considered proper riding gear: man's blue jeans, a plain blue cotton shirt, a flat-crowned black Stetson, and a pair of soft leathery brown cowboy boots. She had ordered a new saddle for the girl, and Jim Ned Wheeler had picked out a special horse for her, a tall, deep-chested bay, who was lively yet entirely safe for an inexperienced rider.

Martha set the Stetson firmly down on her shining black hair, twisted round for another look at herself, and wished with a feeling of embarrassment that the levis didn't fit quite so tight. Then she went down the hall and stopped in front of her grandmother's door.

This morning, for the first time since Martha had been here, Rachel Kilgore hadn't got up for breakfast. But she was awake, sitting up in bed, propped against a couple of huge pillows. The trip to town the day before had tired her.

There were blue shadows under her fine old eyes, and lines that Martha had never noticed before showed in her white cheeks. She half squinted her eyes and looked the girl slowly up and down, then nodded her approval. "Pretty nice," she said and chuckled.

Martha blushed. "Granny, you are plain indecent!" The old lady laughed. "Maybe," she agreed. "But I've had a lot of fun in my day. Jim Ned's riding today. I told him I thought you might want to go along."

"I'd love it," Martha said. "I was going for a ride by myself anyhow, but I would much rather go with him."

Rachel Kilgore nodded. "This place will all be yours some day, you know. I would like for you to see what it looks like before then."

Her eyes were unusually gentle and tender as she smiled up at the girl.

Martha dropped to her knees beside the bed. She put a strong, brown hand over her grandmother's slender white one. "That isn't the reason I came here. You know that, don't you?"

"I wouldn't be making any promises if I didn't! The main reason I wanted to go to town yesterday was to see my lawyer. I have made a new will. When a person gets to my age they have no business wasting time. Now run along with you, I expect Jim Ned is waiting, and I know Jim is ready to get up. This is the latest I have laid abed since I was a baby."

Martha leaned over and impulsively kissed the white forehead before she got to her feet. "Granny—I'm glad I came to the Chupaderos. I'm glad we have had this chance to get to know—and love each other!"

Mrs. Kilgore nodded, smiling. In the doorway Martha turned again. "Granny—did you swear out a warrant for Slade Considine's arrest yesterday?"

The old lady's eyes sharpened as she looked at the girl, then she shook her head. "No. I decided to wait a while—until I have had time to think it over. If I could have learned to do that when I was younger I might have saved myself a lot of trouble—and heartache." She heaved a deep sigh that sounded tired. "I am not as sure that I am always right as I used to be, Martha."

Jim Ned Wheeler was sitting on the porch waiting for Martha. He had saddled a tall, sturdy-looking dun for himself and put Rachel Kilgore's own saddle on the bay for Martha. Although there were no clouds in sight, there were rolled slickers tied on behind each saddle and lunch in a bulging satchelbag.

The old foreman looked at the girl a little doubtfully. "Are you up to a pretty long ride?"

"Sure. Where are we going?" Jim Ned gathered his reins, swung up across the dun and touched him lightly with the spurs. "We're going bull hunting," he said and grinned.

Martha stared at him. "Did you say bull hunting?"

"Yep. That's right. We are going to round up and pen all we can. Your grandma had a buyer for them down in Mexico—where they came from. Those we can't gather we will have to shoot." He grinned again at the bewildered look on the girl's face. "I wasn't sure I heard right when she told me either—although I ought to have known her. Your grandma talks like a sassy little old fire-eater, but when it comes to action you can count on her to do the right thing—give her time. She is not going to let her bulls be the bones the other dogs fight over. Getting rid of them ought to clear the air some."

They had been riding at a steady, easy trot as they talked. Now the old foreman drew his horse up on the peak of a sharp little knoll. He waved his arm back toward the hills to the north and east beyond the spread of ranch buildings. "Hud and Julio are scouting out that way. We have already got forty of the bulls inside a fence, but eight of the worst ones are still to be rounded up and herded in."

"Does this mean that Granny's given up the idea of fighting the Forest Service?"

A glint of amusement showed momentarily in the old cowman's gray eyes. "She doesn't give up that easy or that quick," he said dryly. "It just means that she has caught on that somebody is trying to keep us so busy fighting among ourselves that we won't notice anything else that is going on. And as long as she had them bulls, that's what is going to happen. Yesterday one of them broke down a five-wire fence for Nick Considine—at least that's what he claims—and got into the pasture with his new Prince Domino Hereford, fought and killed him. They shot our black bull, but that doesn't even up the score. The Hereford was worth five hundred dollars, and Rachel paid twenty-five for the longhorn."

He paused to roll and light a smoke. "The funny part of it is that I saw that black longhorn down at the foot of Escabrosa Canyon night before last. He would have had to travel about eight miles through some mighty rough country in order to get on the 143. I don't think he would have done it unless he was driven!"

Jim Ned thought he knew what he was heading into as he reined his horse up the trail. Continue the story here tomorrow.

Recruiting Drive Nets Deserter

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Police Department recently got authorization to hire an additional 100 patrolmen.

In its search for applicants, the department painted bright red signs on its white patrol cars advertising the jobs.

Among others, the sign attracted 26-year-old John Scott Timmons, a 220-pound ex-insurance salesman.

Yesterday, two policemen and an FBI agent picked up Timmons at his hotel room. The FBI said it had been looking for him since May 11, 1957, on a charge of deserting the Marine Corps at San Diego.

A check of Timmons' fingerprints, taken as a matter of routine when he applied for the policeman's job, gave him away.

Brought Back A Jungle Lullaby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Leo Halliwell say they have no trouble sleeping after 33 years as missionaries in the Amazon River Valley.

Halliwell made a tape recording of jungle sounds before they left the Amazon. The couple plays the tape every night. They say it lulls them to sleep.

Families now spend an average of over $500 a year on clothes.

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrials and rails joined hands to move the stock market ahead moderately early this afternoon, pushing the average into new high ground for 1958. Leading stocks advanced from fractions to about a point. Turnover was fairly active. The market was higher from yesterday's recovery. Steels were in brisk demand from the start. Aircraft-missile stocks, stimulated by a continuing stream of defense contracts, resumed their rise. Oils, rubbers, some chemicals and selected issues made gains.

Youngstown Sheet and Lukens Steel rose around a point each. U.S. Steel and Bethlehem gained fractions. National Steel rose 1/2 on an opening block of 3,000 shares and was firm in later dealing. A favorable Wall Street report helped National, the country's fifth largest producer. The rails as a group moved to another 1/8 high. Atlantic Coast Line and Illinois Central rose a point or better. Fractional gains were made by Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, New York Central, Southern Railway and Baltimore & Ohio. Gains in the neighborhood of a point were made by a miscellany of stocks including Kennecott, Goodrich, Douglas Aircraft, Zenith, Union Carbide, Du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, Royal Dutch and Revlon. Lorillard broke its stride, falling close to a point on profit taking. Schering, Chrysler, General Motors, Rzadko Corp., Anaconda, General Electric and Pennsylvania Railroad were about unchanged. Ford continued its rebound, adding a sizable fraction. Mack Trucks, Woolworth, Curtiss-Wright, Philco, American Tobacco and Texas Co. rose fractionally. The Associated Press average of 80 stocks at noon was up 70 cents to $176.20 with the industrials up $1.10, the rails up $1.10 and the utilities unchanged.

Council . . .

(Continued from page one) Streets up to standard. In round figures, he said, $8,000 for storm drainage, $10,000 for paving and $8,000 for curb and gutter would be needed.

Under the present policy, property owners would share the cost just as on a new paving project. The problem of inferior streets in subdivisions is not a new one for the city. The subdivision ordinances require that streets be paved but curb and gutter is not required. City officials are now finding that many of the subdivision streets are too high for proper drainage.

Bloxam said that with the exception of recent additions to Englewood and Coghill along with Carolina Heights and Oakmont. Oakmont was termed the cream of the crop as far as streets are concerned by the city manager. That subdivision has curb and gutter as well as paving.

As for the others, "it would take a half million dollars to clean up the drainage and paving problems in the subdivisions," Bloxam said.

NEW TAX COLLECTOR
The city has a new tax collector as a result of council action last night. William N. Moore, formerly assistant tax collector and assistant city clerk, was named tax collector and assistant city clerk.

Bloxam pointed out that Moore devotes most of his time to tax matters and the change in title would mean no change in duties. Formerly the city clerk also acted as tax collector. Bloxam pointed out that Moore's appointment would be for July 24 at 9:30 a.m. to approve the city's tentative budget. The budget is now on file for public inspection. They also approved the advertising for bids on various street department equipment which is authorized in the budget. Bloxam pointed out that the equipment would not be purchased before the budget is approved since that much money would be needed for advertising for bids.

Finally councilmen deferred study on parking and paving problems until the August meeting. Bloxam said further study of proposed paving projects and funds available would be made in the meantime. He said that by August, information will be available and decisions can be made at that time.

Insurance Group Elects Goodson

Joe Goodson of the Goodson and Flanagan Insurance Agency last night was elected president of the Pitt County Insurance Exchange. Other officers elected at the annual meeting of the organization were: William R. Stroud of the Ayden Loan and Insurance Company, vice-president and C. Frank Dall of the Tadlock Mutual Insurance Agency, secretary-treasurer. The Exchange is composed of Mutual and Stock, fire and casualty insurance in Pitt County.

Anonymous Tip Nabs Fugitive

BOLIVIA, N.C. (AP) — Police, acting on an anonymous tip, captured an escaped convict as he slept in a four-room shack near here last night. Officers said Robert Harry Savage, 48, offered no resistance when he was awakened and arrested. Savage escaped from a Franklin County prison camp Tuesday. He was serving 6-8 years for auto theft and carrying a concealed weapon in Wilmington.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Salvation Army To Consider UF Entry

NEW SALVATION ARMY OFFICERS BEGIN DUTIES HERE . . . Advisory Board Chairman James W. Butler discusses work with Lt. and Mrs. Norris.

A special committee was appointed by the Greenville Salvation Army Advisory Board yesterday to determine whether the organization will make application for membership in the Pitt County United Fund. At a meeting yesterday Board Chairman James W. Butler appointed J. Herbert Waldrop, Elbert Bennett and Mrs. Cora Powell to the committee. Butler and Lt. Walter Norris, new Salvation Army officers assigned to Greenville, will serve as ex-officio members of the committee which was given power to act by the Advisory Board. Butler welcomed Lt. and Mrs. Norris to Greenville as replacements for Capt. and Mrs. Bennie Lewis who were recently transferred to Rocky Mount. Lt. and Mrs. Norris told the board "Greenville is the most friendly town we've ever seen."

Local Oil Dealers Drop Objections

The city's oil dealers went home from the City Council meeting slightly red-faced last night. Some of the city's wholesale gas and oil dealers appeared at a public hearing concerning an amendment to the zoning ordinance which would affect them.

The change would add wholesale storage of petroleum products to the list of facilities which could be constructed only in industrial zones. The dealers were for the amendment as far as new construction was concerned, they said, but they felt it would be unfair for established plants. That was true because they would be unable to make improvements in the plants in the future if the classification were changed.

That was when Mayor S. Eugene West pointed out that all of the ten or so bulk storage plants are already located in industrial zones and thus with the exception of one—would not be affected. The exception is a new plant on Chestnut St. which is located in a commercial zone. The construction of that plant brought on the proposed amendment.

However, City Attorney R. B. Lee pointed out that even that plant would be able to expand 75 per cent of its assessed evaluation over the years under zoning requirements.

The oil men thanked the councilmen and went home. City fathers then approved the amendment.

Ayden Retailers Vote To Extend Saturday Hours

AYDEN—The Ayden Chamber of Commerce announced today the majority of its soft and hard goods retailers have voted to extend their Saturday business hours by one hour during the tobacco harvesting season.

The reason cited, was for the convenience of their rural farming customers who found it difficult to get to town as early as before during their busy harvest season.

The group of stores that have been regularly closing at 7:00 p.m. Saturdays will thus remain open until 8:00 p.m. beginning July 12. Unaffected by this change will be the grocery and drug stores, and others that have customarily stayed open beyond 8:00 p.m. on Saturdays.

President Heads Back To U.S. After Agreements At Ottawa

OTTAWA (AP) — President Eisenhower wings back to Washington today from an air-clearing Canadian-American summit conference that produced a trio of concrete decisions.

In three days of informal, card-on-the-table talks, the President and Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker agreed that: (1) A joint cabinet committee on continental defense will be created; (2) that two governments will work on plans for safeguards against surprise attacks across the arctic; (3) consultations will be held on lower levels to try to dissolve differences over trade with Communist China by Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. companies.

While time will test the practical value of these agreements, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty pronounced them important and good steps forward.

Hagerty said the closer personal relationship established between the two heads of government "is very good for both our countries." Eisenhower, he said, "believes very much that this was a very worthwhile meeting."

Diefenbaker told the House of Commons a spirit of consideration had been shown for each other's problems that "bodes well for the future."

Eisenhower's visit came at a time when relations between the two countries have been marred by increasing Canadian complaints about various U.S. programs and policies.

Eisenhower was no tremendous magnet for crowds at his public appearances, but there was an utter absence of hostility. A single scare incident was something of a dud. A cab driver reported driving a pair of suspicious appearing men, who he thought might have been carrying a rifle and pistol, to the road alongside the golf course Eisenhower played yesterday. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police called up reinforcements, searched the area, but didn't get any men.

Eisenhower was told about the search and kept on playing. He carded 90 on a par-73 course for the best score of his foursome.

While Eisenhower toured the links, Secretary of State Dulles and Canadian Foreign Secretary Sidney Smith presided over a final working session of Canadian and American officials.

Their talks over the past three days, as well as those of the President and Prime Minister, ranged over a multitude of topics troubling the two nations—the possibility that Canada may divert Columbia River water for power purposes, U.S. disposal of surplus wheat abroad, American curbs on imports of Canadian oil, and prospects of higher U.S. tariffs on lead, zinc and copper.

No conclusions or agreements were reached on these and other subjects. But Hagerty said no hard, solid decisions were sought or expected on all points of friction.

Twelfth District Rivals Argue Health As An Issue

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — State and 12th Congressional District chairmen of the Republican party said today they felt that the health of Rep. George Shuford (D-NC) should be a major issue in the general election in November.

"In my opinion, it will be the major issue in the campaign" in the 12th District, said State Chairman William Cobb of Morganton. "It is proper that the infirmities of any man seeking public office be brought out and discussed."

At Sylva, District Chairman Orville Coward asserted: "I don't think it's a dirty issue at all. The good health of a representative is essential if he is to properly represent his constituents."

W. Harold Sams, Asheville, the Republican nominee for the seat held by Rep. Shuford of Asheville, who has been partly paralyzed since May 25, said it was his opinion that his opponent's health was not a proper issue. He said he considered Republican chances in the general election to be excellent.

District Republican leaders will hold an organizational meeting at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Dillsboro to plan for the fall campaign.

Tomorrow night at Asheville the Western North Carolina Press Assn. will meet in special session to consider charges by Editor Welmar Jones of the Franklin Press that newspapers of the district failed to keep voters fully advised of Shuford's condition before the May 31 primaries.

Chairman Coward said that "I feel that the charges made by Welmar Jones are substantially correct. However, I think that maybe the (Shuford) family failed to disclose the full extent of his illness."

Rep. Shuford won renomination in the Democratic primary while in a hospital. He defeated Heinz Rollman, a German refugee who operates a shoe factory near Waynesville. Rollman, after his defeat, said he was aware that Shuford had suffered a stroke two hours after he was hospitalized.

Rollman said: "But we had given each other our word of honor to conduct a clean campaign. I don't think it was fair to him to mention the stroke unless he (Shuford) saw fit himself. I was honor bound."

Agencies Invited Join United Fund

Dr. John Mewborn, vice chairman of the Pitt County United Fund and chairman of its budget and admissions committee, announced today that invitations to apply for membership in the United Fund have been mailed to a number of agencies throughout the county.

Letters of invitation for admittance into the United Fund have been mailed to the following agencies:
